Howard County ginners working 'round the clock

$30 million cotton crop forecast

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

Area cotton gins are operating 24 hours a day keeping up with this year's harvest which is surpassing earlier predictions.

County Extension Agent Don Richardson said today that more cotton has already been harvested in the county this year than was harvested in the county in all of 1978.

About 15,000 bales have already been ginned, he said. A total of 100,000 to 105,000 bales are anticipated.

Depending on the grade of cotton, a pound is going for 50 to 60 cents, he said. With 450 pounds going into a bale, a bale will bring an average of $250.

Earlier predictions estimated revenue from this year's crops in Howard County at some $20 million. State National Bank Vice President James Lee, who works mainly in financing agriculture endeavors, said today that the way it looks right now, $30 million can be expected from the county's crops this year.

He agreed with Richardson that there will be some 100,000 bales ginned before the harvest is over.

"Based on what we've seen," Lee said, "they're averaging a bale per cotton acre. There have been some reports of two bales per acre.

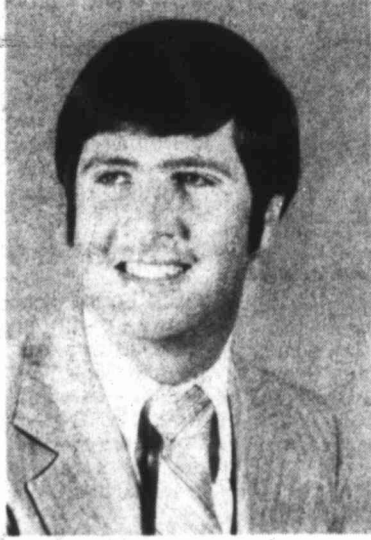

"The farmers are extremely pleased. It'll be a big boost to the Big Spring economy."

He said that the market for cotton is holding and that cotton is fetching a better price than some farmers had estimated.

Billy Bryant, manager of the Big Spring Co-Op Gin on Lamesa Highway, said that the gin has been operating around the clock for the past two and a half weeks. He expects to continue the 24-hour operations until sometime in February.

His employees have been putting in a lot of hours ginning an estimated 3,800 bales so far. Bryant expects to gin some 20,000 bales before the harvest is over.

Larry Shaw, a Knott farmer recently spotlighted in the "National Geographic", is getting 1.25 to 1.5 bales per acre from his 1,800 skip row cotton acreage.

JAMES LEE

Most of his cotton has been going to the Knott Co-op Gin. He said that because of a new gin at the co-op, Knott is probably ginning more cotton per hour than any gin in the area.

"I started planting in the last week in May," Shaw said. "Some of it I planted as late as mid-June. It's the early cotton that's making the highest yield."

According to Shaw, in one area he's getting two bales per land acre. He says that other farmers in the Knott area are experiencing the same good fortune.

"I think the country will make more cotton this year than in any other year of its history," Shaw said. "There's been good underground moisture. The cotton has never hurt for moisture."

Shaw said that he's never seen the tops of his cotton plants sizzle in the sun the way they have this year. He attributes his good crop, despite some hot dry spells, to having had a good crop before the moisture ran out of his land.

"There hasn't been any more rain this year than last year, but the moisture held better. We're getting four to five times as much cotton as we did last year.

Part of Howard County's cotton abundance, according to Shaw, is due to the amount of cotton planted this year. "There's been more acres in cotton this year than ever before," he said. He is expecting to harvest some 100,000 to 125,000 bales.

Howard County's record cotton harvest comes at a time when "National Geographic" has published an article that claims the deserts are taking over. Larry Shaw is featured in the November issue article. Pictures taken on Shaw's land in the spring of 1978 depict a dusty, barren land — a land that couldn't support weeds, let alone a record cotton crop.

"When I was a senior in high school, we had so many storms I had to repaint my car. It got sandblasted, Shaw's son, Larry Don, told Rick Gore, author of the article. "By all rights we should be blown away, but the machinery we've got now lets us keep ahead of the weather."

According to the article, dust from West Texas has been found in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. The article claims that West Texas farmers do not consider wind erosion of the land an urgent problem. Ruby Allred of Ackerly is quoted in the article as saying, "This is West Texas. It's always been this way."

"It's like losing your hair," the article quotes wind-erosion expert Bill Fryrear with the Big Spring Experiment Station. "You don't notice the first few hairs. Then you deny it."

"The best farmers on the best land may not see much difference in even 20 years, but they sure will in 60 or 70. Right now technology is just keeping pace."

Yet this same West Texas land, described as a near desert by "National Geographic" is this year producing what may be a record-breaking cotton crop.

Shaw is concerned that the amount of cotton produced in Texas this year may drive the price of cotton down "when all of this cotton hits the market."

"Export demand is better than domestic demand," he said. For the first time in several decades, Shaw said, cotton producers are exceeding domestic use.

"During the next two months, many American cotton producers will be deciding their marketing strategy for this year's crop," according to Cotton Incorporated in Raleigh, N.C. "Producers will have to decide whether current prices are satisfactory or whether postponing sales to a later period will produce a better return."

After evaluating supply and demand fundamentals and other factors in the marketplace, Cotton Incorporated's economists have concluded "While the future continues clouded in uncertainty, the overwhelming economic evidence at this time suggests that the odds of lower cotton prices as the harvest advances far outweigh those of higher prices."

"Selling at current prices or fixing prices now with delivery arranged at a later date for tax purposes will probably be better than selling after harvest."

Lawrence Shaw, associate director for supply economics, Cotton Inc., says that world production of cotton this crop year is expected to total 64.7 million bales, 4.7 million more bales than were produced in 1978. The estimate includes a projected U.S. crop of 14 million bales.

"World production this crop year is expected to exceed consumption by over two million bales," according to the economist. "As a result, cotton supplies will be plentiful with U.S. stocks climbing to the highest level in 10 years."

Despite the large harvest, the expert says that cotton prices have remained stable. Part of the reason, he explains, is that the U.S. harvest is late and mills and exporters are finding adequate supplies of specific quality cotton difficult to obtain.

Also, exports and outstanding sales of this year's cotton are 35 percent ahead of the same period in 1978.

China alone has already bought a million bales, compared with purchases of 260,000 bales at this time last year.

Finally, prices are holding because "both foreign and U.S. retail demand for all-cotton textile products has been good."

DRY SPRING — "We've got to live on faith. If we don't get the rain, we don't make it," Knott cotton farmer Larry Shaw told "National Geographic" when this photo was taken on his land in the dry spring of 1978. The picture appears in the current issue of the magazine at a time when Shaw is harvesting a record cotton crop from this same "desert" land.

Iranians parade American

By The Associated Press

Iranian demonstrators blindfolded one of their 60 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, bound his hands behind his back and paraded him around the garden today while mobs shouted, "Death to Carter!" and "Send Back the Shah!" a witness reported.

A two-man mediation team from the Palestine Liberation Organization arrived in Tehran, meanwhile, to try to negotiate the release of the hostages. And Iran's oil minister said chances for a cutoff of oil exports to the United States were small.

But Japanese officials said they have been told that oil deliveries to that Asian country have been reduced by 5 percent

The captive Americans were reported "pushed around, abused, intimidated and mishandled."

Tehran Radio said before any talks could be held with Carter's peace emissaries, the U.S. government would have to surrender Shah

Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran to face trial as a war criminal, something Washington has refused to do.

"The U.S. government, by keeping the shah, has declared its open opposition to Iran. The U.S. Embassy in Iran is our enemies' center of espionage against our sacred Islamic movement. It is therefore not possible, under any circumstances, for the special representatives to meet us," said the broadcast monitored in Kuwait and London.

Carter's special envoys were former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who met with Khomeini in January while the ayatollah was an exile in France, and William Miller, a staff member of the Senate Intelligence Committee who speaks Persian. They interrupted their journey in Istanbul, Turkey, "pending clarification" from the Iranian authorities. State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

"It is our hope that they will be able to proceed with their mission at the earliest opportunity," said Carter.

DA Hamby denies conflict of interest in Spain case

By JAMES WERRELL

District Attorney Rick Hamby today answered charges leveled by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on Wednesday.

According to reports from the state capitol, the court ruled that Hamby had acted improperly in charging a former client with probation violations last January.

Hamby, then a defense attorney, had represented Raleigh George Spain Jr. when the man pleaded guilty to burglary of a habitation in 1976. Spain was placed on 10 years probation.

Spain was later charged with failure to report to his probation officer, and failure to pay court costs and attorney's fees to Howard County. He was subsequently sentenced to eight years in prison for violation of probation.

"We felt we were right in this case because it was a completely separate proceeding. I had represented Mr. Spain three years prior to this, and saw no conflict of interest," said Hamby, today.

The court of appeals ruled otherwise, however, and ordered Spain released from prison and again placed on probation.

What is Hamby's reaction to the ruling?

"We only feel we are wrong now because the court said so," he stated. "There are a number of points that need to be cleared up in regard to this situation."

According to Hamby, Spain's revocation hearing was initiated by the Howard County Probation Office and not by Hamby. The hearing was called after Spain had failed to report to his probation officer for nearly two-and-a-half years.

Hamby also stressed that at the revocation hearing Spain had been represented by another attorney who was aware of Hamby's previous association with the client. At that hearing, the charges against Spain were uncontested, and the defendant pleaded guilty to all of them.

"Also, the attorney's fees mentioned were not owed to me, but to Howard County. I had been paid three years before as a court-appointed lawyer. The fees and court costs had been paid by the county," said the district attorney.

Hamby further stated that his office "wanted Spain to fight the ruling" because the resulting actions by the court of appeals would provide a set of guidelines to be followed in the future.

"This is the sort of situation we are often faced with as small-town prosecutors. We wanted the court of criminal appeals to speak to it," he said.

In the future, said Hamby, either a special prosecutor or another district attorney from this region will be called in to try such a case. The county will be required to pay the expenses for these services.

Hamby also addressed Spain's situation specifically. "Mr. Spain will be revoked again if he doesn't get rid of his 'Haley's Comet Syndrome.' That is, he will be revoked if he doesn't report to his probation officer more than once every 96 years," he said.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Black Sea mystery

Q. Where did the Black Sea get its name? Its waters look like water in any other lake.

A. From the atrocious weather the area often has. The name was adopted centuries ago, when sailors regarded the sea as a most inhospitable place because of the misbehaving elements.

Crooker says standards 'a little overboard'

Jail failed inspection, county dads told today

By DON WOODS
Four areas of non-compliance with state jail standards may result in the employment of one or two more jailers for the Howard County jail, according to Jail Inspector Joe Slater.

Slater presented the results of his inspection to Howard County Commissioners this morning in a regular meeting of the commissioners court. Slater began his inspection of the Howard County jail Wednesday morning and finished up later in the afternoon.

The Texas Commission on Jail Standards mandates one jailer for every floor in the jail holding more than 10 prisoners. The one floor Howard County jail holds an average of 15 prisoners, but employs only one jailer.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard said the personal areas were the only areas of non-compliance that he would not be able to fulfill without commission approval. Some areas, he said, would be resolved using the County Road and Bridge Department work. Other areas, such as a cell slightly smaller than state standards, could be resolved through variances. Variances to state law are given from certain requirements except when the waiver would result in "unsafe, unsanitary and unhealthy" conditions. Slater recommended variances be applied for in three areas.

A television set-up to monitor prisoners was discussed, but Slater said "television never replaces people." Constant supervision of the prisoners is required by state law.

Commissioner Bill Crooker voiced some criticism to the standards saying that he thought constant supervision was "a little overboard."

Slater replied that additional jailers would do much more than supervise. He said that 11 operating plans written by the sheriff must be implemented by the jailers.

Standard suggested that an additional jailer may be used to man a radio that there is no dispatcher for when his duties in the jail are fulfilled.

Jailers must be certified by Texas Law Enforcement Standards. County Judge Bill Tune will receive a letter of non-compliance from the Commission on Jail Standards sometime in the near future. The letter will contain a deadline for compliance.

A padded cell in the jail was one area that didn't meet state standards. The straw pads are a fire hazard, said Slater. Standard said they were installed in 1952.

Slater said that the padded cell could be abolished and used for something else. He said many counties use them for detox. The standards don't require a padded cell but they must meet the standards if they exist.

An opening between the juvenile and adult cells violated state standards. The State requirements specify that there be no sight or sound contact between the juvenile and adult cells. However, the situation will be rectified by installing a strip of metal in the opening.

"We have made some improvements since Slater was here last," said Standard. "Overall, I believe we have a pretty good jail."

Only 15 to 20 jails in the state meet standards 100 percent. Of these one is in Snyder. Another is in Miami, Tex., where the cells have been built into the back of the firehouse.

Plea for public aid renewed

DALLAS (AP) — The parents of a 7-year-old girl missing since Oct. 23 have renewed their plea for public aid in the search for their daughter.

Elizabeth Barclay was abducted while walking to a neighborhood store with friends, witnesses said.

A reward fund for information leading to Elizabeth's safe return or the arrest and conviction of her kidnapper has reached $10,000.

The girl's mother, Linda, said, "We feel like there is someone out there who knows something, and just doesn't think it is important to call in."

Weather

Scattered showers forecast in area

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for most sections of Texas.

Only Northwest Texas was excluded from forecasts calling for scattered showers and thunderstorms. Light rain was expected there.

Highs were expected to range from the middle 50s in the Panhandle to the lower 80s in extreme South Texas.

Light rain fell across most of the Panhandle during the night and early morning hours. There were no reports of significant rainfall.

Skies were cloudy over most of the state early today. Temperatures ranged from the 30s in the mountains of Southwest Texas to the 40s in the Panhandle to the middle 60s along the lower Texas coast. Extremes ranged from 36 at Marfa to 65 at Brownsville.

Board will not reverse its tight-money course

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite growing opposition to high interest rates, the Federal Reserve Board will not reverse its tight-money course until the public is convinced inflation can be beaten, the board's vice chairman says.

"It's not our intention to break the back of the economy," Frederick Schultz said Wednesday, adding that the board's sweeping actions last month are aimed at breaking inflationary expectations that lead people to spending and borrowing more while saving less.

If such expectations can be altered, interest rates will begin to fall "within the next few months," Schultz told a conference called by the National Association of Home Builders.

His statement came as the nation's third-largest bank, Chase Manhattan, announced it was raising its prime lending rate from 15 1/4 percent to a record 15 1/2 percent.

Earlier Wednesday, House Majority Leader James Wright sharply attacked the board's policies, saying that continued high interest rates would "drive the economy into the ground, needlessly and foolishly."

He urged immediate reductions in the record-high interest rates, which he said are "counterproductive" and the "worst possible medicine" to fight inflation, which now exceeds 13 percent a year.

Wright said controls on consumer credit would be "infinitely preferable" to "abdication" anti-inflation policy to the Federal Reserve Board.

Schultz also rejected credit controls, which could be imposed by President Carter. He said controls would cause more problems than they would solve.

Help needed if local parks to survive

High school students in Odessa are taking on an admirable and worthwhile project. They have agreed to 'adopt' two public parks each in a new program being launched by the Ector County-Odessa Park Board to help maintain the park system.

THE STUDENTS, who sometimes get blamed for hamstringing governmental efforts to keep parks clean by careless littering and vandalism, will periodically remove debris from Odessa's six parks. In addition, student councils at Odessa's three high schools will launch a program to help curtail vandalism.

The student involvement in the enhancement of the Odessa parks is part of a new program being launched by the city's parks departments to obtain community involvement in park improvement.

Littering in any public facility is not an unforgivable sin, though it indicates a slothfulness on the part of a great many people, individuals who should know better.

VANDALISM, on the other hand, is difficult to understand since parks are created to a large degree for the use of the very individuals who would destroy such facilities. Many who commit acts of vandalism are the same ones who complain there is not enough to do in a community.

The success of Odessa's "Friends of the Park" program will be watched by other communities. If it succeeds, and there is no reason why it shouldn't, it will likely be tried in other cities.

SOME CIVIC GROUPS in Odessa may be sold on the idea of 'policing' other parks there on a regular basis, picking up litter and making repairs to playground equipment on a regular basis.

If the park system is to survive here, the populace is going to have to take a more active role in seeing that they are kept up. The few who do work to perpetuate the idea need help and encouragement from the many to use the facilities but do nothing.

Bad times story

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — "Hey, mister, could you spare a billion and a half dollars to get me through 1980?"

"Out of my way, you bum. Why don't you get a job like everyone else?"

"I have a job making Chrysler cars."

"Then why are you standing here with a tin cup asking decent folks for money?"

"Nobody seems to want to buy my cars."

"In the capitalist system, my good man, it is the survival of the fittest. If you can't sell a product, then you don't deserve to be in business. Suppose I do give you a billion and a half dollars. How do I know you won't use it for drink instead of building better cars?"

"Don't worry about that, mister. You give me the money and I'll go right to the plant and produce one of the most beautiful automobiles you've ever seen."

"Why didn't you produce one before if you know how to do so?"

"That's a long story. I'll tell it to you if you put a billion and a half dollars into my tin cup."

"It seems to me that is a lot of money to pay for a hard luck story."

"I'll also give you a new pencil if you give me the money."

"This is ridiculous. I don't approve of panhandlers, even if they make automobiles."

"Don't think it's much fun being out here on the street, mister. But panhandling for car money is all I can do. The banks won't give me none, and a lot of people think I'm a loser. But if I can just get a little nest egg, you won't see me on this corner again."

"You were going to tell me your story."

"Only if you give me a handout."

"I want to hear your story first."

"Okay. What happened was that once upon a time, I was a happy, prosperous auto maker. I made some of the best cars on the road. The kids used to whistle when I went by."

"Get on with it. I'm late for dinner."

"But then something happened. I guessed wrong on what people wanted. I made little cars only to discover they wanted big cars. Then I made big cars just when everyone decided they wanted small cars. I couldn't figure out what the public wanted, and it drove me to drink. I started cutting costs — a little here and a little there — and pretty soon not even Ricardo Montalban could move them out of the showroom."

"If I give you a billion and half dollars, what will you do differently?"

"I have great plans for the new models. I even have an updated slogan: 'Buy the car that is guaranteed by the United States Treasury.' How does that grab you? Look, a billion and half dollars is tip money for someone like you, but it could change my whole life."

"I guess I'm always a sucker for a hard luck corporation story. You know, if you had been a little guy I'd have let you starve to death."

"I appreciate that, sir. The minute I saw you walking down the street I said to myself, 'There's a man who cares about the big guy when he gets in trouble.'"

"Let's see what I have in my pocket — one hundred million, two hundred million, three hundred million, four hundred million, five hundred million. You don't have another cup, do you — this one seems filled up."

"Yes, sir, right here."

"Six, seven, eight, nine — one billion — one hundred, two hundred, three, four, five. There you are. Now you be careful how you spend that, you hear?"

"Yes, sir. Thank you, sir. God bless you, sir — and, sir."

"What is it?"

"Don't forget your pencil."

"He may not be able to hold down inflation, but he's sure doing a heck of a number on us!"

Fibroid tumors rarely cancerous

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please explain fibroid tumors of the uterus, their cause and the possibility of cancer. Can they interfere with pregnancy, or can the situation be corrected so a woman with them can still have a baby? — C.O.

Let's look at the uterus. It's a muscular organ with a very special kind of lining. A fibroid is a benign growth in this muscular organ. The correct term actually is "myoma," which means growth of muscle tissue.

Fibroids are tumors in this sense — that they are new abnormal growths. They are not tumors in the sense most people think of tumors — as cancer.

We don't know why myomas (fibroids) grow, anymore than we know about why many other kinds of tumors (benign or cancerous) grow.

When women get fibroids there is apt to be enlargement of the uterus and symptoms related to the menstrual period, such as excessive bleeding at that time.

Any uterus abnormality may interfere with pregnancies. The fibroid problem is more common among older women, so in selected cases the uterus is simply removed (hysterectomy). In some younger women it is possible to remove the fibroid and leave the rest of the uterus intact to allow future pregnancy.

It is rare event for a fibroid to come cancerous. Note the answer to "B.C.M." (below).

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you be so kind to let me know if there is such a thing as calcium in the uterus? My sister was told she had this. — B.C.M.

Calcium can be deposited in many disorders of the uterus, the commonest being fibroid tumors. These are usually harmless. The calcium forms as the tumor degenerates. Uterus calcium deposits are found in about half of women in later life.

Dr. Donohue: Can damp weather cause odoriferous nostrils? I have post-sinus nasal drip, also a lot of yellow phlegm when I blow my nose, mostly in the mornings. Do you have a suggestion as to what would help? I've had this for a couple of months. — Mrs. A.B.

Damp weather will not cause foul-smelling nasal drainage. Infection will, especially of the sinuses. You should see your doctor. Read the booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." Readers can order a copy by sending 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 14-year-old girl. I recently have been getting tonsil infections. Pus forms on my right one, then stays there until it dries. This has never happened to my left one. Will you please tell me why this happens? Are you related to Phil Donohue? — V.K.

Everything that is white and on a tonsil is not necessarily pus. Often, food particles lodge there and look like pus. If it is pus, there are usually other symptoms of infection — fever, enlarged glands in the neck and pain on swallowing. This may not help much, but only a firsthand examination would settle the matter.

No I'm not related to Phil Donohue (the television personality). I am related to Tom and Mary Ann, though.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My condition is called "proptosis," and it causes me a lot of anxiety. Is there a cure? What is the cause and prognosis? — E.T.

Proptosis (pro-TOE-sis) is a sign of an illness and not an illness itself. It is a bulging forward of the eye, if both eyes are involved a problem with the thyroid gland is suspected. If only one eye is affected, problems in nearby structures are likely at fault. Examples of the latter are sinus infection or problems with the lacrimal (tear) ducts or glands. Growths are looked for.

If a local cause is found, treatment of that will end the proptosis. If the thyroid is involved, treatment is more difficult. Even if the thyroid problem is brought under control the eye symptom may persist.

Your best bet is to consult an ophthalmologist if you have not done so. Your doctor can refer you.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Most of the time my tonsils are red and swollen —

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a very nervous person and take four different drugs every day just to help me survive. Is there any way to get away from these drugs and have real peace of mind? — R.L.T.

DEAR R.L.T.: I am not in a position to advise you about your need of these drugs; that is a matter for your doctor to decide. However, I hope you share your concern with him and that he evaluates from time to time the medication you take. The real question you are asking, however, is whether or not God can help you to overcome your condition.

I believe He can. This does not mean it will necessarily be an instantaneous event, but I believe with God's help you can come to know greater peace of mind and heart. It is difficult for me to tell you exactly how God will do this, since I do not know the details of your life — God deals with us in very individual ways. But I do know God wants you to learn to trust Him and to overcome the fears and anxieties which plague you.

The first step is for you to come to God just as you are. He loves you and knows all about you. He loves you so much that He sent His Son to die on a cross for you, so you could be forgiven of your sins. Have you ever accepted His love? Have you ever thanked Him for loving you that much? You may not understand it all, but you can accept His love as a fact and trust Christ as your Savior and Lord.

Then begin to grow in your knowledge of Him. Read the Bible each day, beginning perhaps with one of the Gospels (such as the Gospel of John). Ask yourself each day what it teaches you concerning God's love for you and how that love watches over you. Notice how — because He loves you — God can be trusted. Then learn to pray. Pray for others and pray also for yourself that God helps you learn to grow in your trust of Him. It may not be easy for you to learn to trust Him, but it is worth the effort to grow in the knowledge of Christ's love. God bless you as you turn to Him and seek His strength. "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your request to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:6-7).

Dear Editor:

Oct. 27 was the date of our Halloween Fiesta carnival at College Heights school. It was a tremendous success.

It will be a couple of weeks before we know the profits but I urge all parents of grade school children, get out and support your P.T.A. It's all about your children. In past years our profits have gone to give our parking lot to buy new TV's for some of the rooms, to help air-condition the school, and buy new lunch room tables.

Every penny we make in some way goes to benefit your children and their education so come on out and voice your opinions. I also would like to send special thanks to all who helped with manpower or donated items to help make our school carnival a success.

Sincerely
Brenda Powers

Little fingers

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

In the last month, I have accumulated a wealth beyond my wildest dreams — 48 cents, to be exact, from my carpet.

Two months ago, I couldn't wait for her to say "Mama" and start crawling. Now I spend an average of three hours a week putting the dog's food back in his dish.

AS LAICY LEARNS, I unlearn. My vocabulary has reverted back to the days before I discovered adjectives and adverbs and my voice has changed to something resembling a squeal.

I've been spending a lot of time on my knees lately and have found myself humming "Rock-a-Bye-Baby" while waiting for red lights to turn green.

The moment of truth came when I saw a woman to get in line ahead of me at the grocery store. "What do you say?" I almost asked before being distracted by bright colors.

THE MOST FRIGHTENING part of this regression into early childhood is that I understand the two-syllable dialogue Laicy is majoring in. "Ba ba" means "feed me," "mama MA!" means "pay attention to ME!" and a clenched fist pushing a hole through the side of a playpen means "Let me out of here!!!"

"Ah?" is "What's that?" and excessive squirming, pinching and kicking means "Enough, lady. Put me down!"

Laicy looked so cute bobbing her head from side on that fluffy blanket on the living room floor. Besides, she wasn't going anywhere so why sentence her to a cage?

THEN SHE started crawling. We were still safe because she feared leaving the safety of the living room carpet to brave cold, hard linoleum — that is until she discovered she could slide across linoleum a lot faster than she could safari her way through shag carpet.

The playpen's been taking a lot of abuse since she discovered that there's more to a house than a living room. Yesterday, the dog food; tomorrow, the kitty litter. No wonder she wakes up smiling in the morning.

There's been other changes besides the vocal ones. People walk funny at my house. I've learned to step carefully, posing a leg in the air before slowly lowering it to the ground lest a little finger is waiting to examine the heel of my shoe.

THE TRANSITION from this to the serious business of work is not easy. It takes a half an hour into the workday before I can look people in the eyes instead of keeping eyes cast downward looking at what lies ahead of their feet.

My appetite has lessened considerably. I've seen what Gerber's does to food. Eating meat, in particular, is a real challenge after watching Laicy attempt to feed me hers. I could get used to squashing bananas, however.

"Bye bye"

Electoral reform

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The straw vote contest in Maine occupied the news headlines for a full 24 hours. Bush Beat Baker — that was the lead. In order for this piece of political intelligence to become newsworthy it is necessary to know that it was expected that Baker Beat Bush. The next day, on "Issues & Answers," Senator Baker said he wasn't in the least abashed by the setback because what was really important was that Bush Beat Baker, but that Baker beat Reagan, which indeed he did, overwhelmingly. However, Reagan was not even present at the Maine affair, his lieutenants evidently judging this contest to be less than critical.

Baker managed to convey his understanding of the true meaning of the Maine contest by saying that Reagan is obviously the front-runner, and since Baker beat the front-runner, isn't that the truly important datum? All along Baker has said that the contest would be between Baker and Reagan. Reagan will officially declare on November 13, and with his entry, the field will be full, save possibly for General Alexander Haig, who may come in somewhere along the line. Everything clear?

THE HEAVY TREATMENT given to the Maine preliminary reminds us of the staggering sequence of contests that lies ahead of us. It was bad enough when we had mere primaries to go through. But now our resourceful system has given us what are in effect pre-primaries: popularity contests of one sort or another, designed to indicate trends. The candidate, moreover, is afraid in most cases to fail to appear at one of these functions lest he be thought insensible to the majesty of a particular state. "He didn't even bother to come to Rhode Island" can be transformed into a holy war to avenge a snub. For that reason we have to expect a near-perfect attendance record.

Since these confrontations are of no use to their promoters or to anyone else unless they receive press attention, we will all be assaulted by the results of each one of them. Since interest in them cannot be genuine — you cannot run the Kentucky Derby 155 times in six months and get people to come out for every match — you will end with what they call a "pseudo-event." But you will greatly take the individual candidates, emphasizing the synthetic nature of the selection process and run the risk that when our attention is supposed to be especially keen, we will weary of the whole business and behave as listlessly as we did in 1976 when a thumping 56 percent of the American voting population went to the polls, and sent Mr. Carter to the White House.

RALPH NADER's concern for the consumer has proved insufficient. All those laws passed a few years ago designed to clean up the electoral process proved either unconstitutional or undesirable. Those that remain require the candidate to devote much more time than previously necessary in order to raise funds in order to say at jingle-length on television how he would deal with Salt II, inflation, cholesterol, the resurrection of the body, Jane Fonda. Conceivably it is time to consider rationing.

Suppose — just to suppose — that every candidate were limited to five speeches? Those who immediately interject the objection that five speeches cannot possibly cover the problems a candidate needs to consider are easily disposed of by reminding them that five speeches are four speeches more than most candidates give. Those speeches may be filmed, and shown as frequently as called for.

WHEN THE GENTRY meet in Maine they can bring a Reagan cassette and a Baker cassette, for instance. That way, moreover, they would guard against the possibility that a candidate speaking in Maine would deliver a speech different from the one he would deliver in Florida. The cassettes could be designed for a modern nickelodeon, so that delegates desiring to refresh their memories could merely depress the right button, insert a Susan B. Anthony dollar (the project should be self-financing) and listen one more time to a particular candidate.

There are, of course, constitutional difficulties. How could you prevent a candidate from speaking more than five times? Well, we've had constitutional amendments before, and one more won't hurt, especially in the high cause of consumer protection. Senator Kennedy could save a lot of time by giving his speech about windfall profits five times, and using up his quota. It is pleasant, in the late summer of my life, to come up with something entirely uncontroversial.

Carter's welfare bill wins House approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barely surviving a last-minute attack, a scaled-down version of President Carter's welfare-revision bill won House approval Wednesday over Republican objections that it still goes too far.

House members voted 222-184 for the bill, which would for the first time put a minimum-payment floor under about 11 million Americans now receiving welfare money under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

The final vote came after narrow 205-200 defeat of a motion to send the measure back to committee with instructions to change it drastically.

Democratic supporters praised the minimum-payment provision as help for "the poorest of the poor," but Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., criticized it as "just a foot in the door" that would surely lead to much higher payments.

The bill sets the minimum at 65 percent of the poverty level — a payment of about $4,700 a year for a family of four receiving money under the program, which now is run by the states with costs shared by the federal members still support Carter.

None of the candidates is expected for meetings today and Friday, but President Carter is sending newly appointed campaign manager Robert Strauss and three top aides.

Strauss, Carter's special Middle East ambassador until joining the president's re-election campaign Tuesday, was scheduled to give the keynote address during Friday's general session.

Strauss' new job and the now-official Kennedy and Brown challenges forced White to do some agenda shuffling.

Strauss will still deliver his speech, but White has allowed Kennedy and Brown campaign officials to designate a speaker in order to allow equal time.

Meanwhile, South Texas Kennedy supporters are planning a large reception Thursday night for the DNC members, especially the more than 50 who publically support the Massachusetts senator. The reception was planned by a Draft Kennedy group before Kennedy scheduled his announcement.

"We figure John White needs to know we're here," said Louise Caddell, a member of the state Democratic committee and co-chairman of Texas for Kennedy-South Texas.

"It's an effort to show we're serious about this. It's early for us, so I doubt we would show a lot of force," said San Antonio attorney and reception host Pat Maloney, who has been in contact with Kennedy aides.

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne is among the Kennedy supporters planning to attend the DNC meeting.

The committee must decide plans for the 1980 convention and elect a "temporary" convention chairman and heads of the major convention committees.

White has already recommended House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill as convention chairman. He has also recommended Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso to head the credentials committee, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young as chairman of the platform committee and Sen. Dan A. Rostenkowski of Hawaii as chairman of the rules committee.

White's recommendations were expected to be routinely approved by the DNC.

The leaders handle the important pre-convention platform drawing and were expected to be approved as "permanent" chairmen by the convention delegates.

The general session of the DNC is scheduled Friday.

Sentencing of gamblers delayed

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Sentencing has been delayed indefinitely for four Gregg County men convicted of violating federal gambling laws by running a gaming operation in the basement of a Longview-area nightclub.

A fifth defendant, 21-year-old Becky Teague, was acquitted of the charges Wednesday.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice said a sentencing hearing would be set after he receives reports on the background of the defendants from federal probation officers.

The 11-man, one-woman jury deliberated about four hours before arriving at the verdict shortly after 3 p.m.

Those convicted were Vernon Horace Tucker, 56, of Kilgore, owner of the Hideaway Lounge; Marion Benton Morton, 35, of Kilgore, manager of the lounge; John Temple James, 28, of Kilgore, the club's bouncer; and Horace Hill, 44, of Longview, conductor of Law enforcement seminar scheduled in Big Spring

Representatives of law enforcement agencies with command posts in West Texas and the Panhandle will meet for a one-day seminar in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in Big Spring on Thursday, Nov. 15.

The conference is being sponsored by the Texas Police Association. The theme of the regional meeting is "Our Dilemma: A Public Tolerant of Lawlessness."

Maj. C.W. Bell, regional commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, and president of the Texas Department of Public Safety, and president of the police association, will deliver the keynote address. Police Chief Frank Dyson, Austin, will discuss "The Impact of Recent Legislation." At the conclusion of the day's program Dyson will be joined by James B. Adams, director of the Criminal Justice Division, Governor's Office, in a joint discussion of law enforcement legislation.

Throughout the day lawmen will hear remarks from John Green, Ector County district attorney; Dr. John Mathews, Criminal Justice Center, Sam Houston State University, Huntsville; Dr. Casey Kay, president of Lubbock Christian College.

Also, Sheriff Travis McPherson of Hereford, and Capt. Jimmy Davis of the Amarillo Police Department.

games at the lounge. Miss Teague, of Kilgore, was the bartender at the club.

The four convicted men remained expressionless after the verdict was read. Miss Teague dabbed her eyes.

The five were charged with conducting an illegal gambling business, and of conspiring to conduct the business. Both charges carry a maximum sentence of five years in prison. The maximum fine for conducting the games is $20,000, and for the conspiracy charge, $10,000.

Defense attorney R.L. Whitehead Jr. said he had not yet talked to his clients about a possible appeal.

Whitehead, of Longview, conceded a gambling operation was run in the club's basement, but contended the operation only violated state law.

He said in order for the case to fall under federal gambling laws, prosecutors had to prove at least five people were involved in the gambling operation. The gambling trial resulted from January raids on suspected gambling houses in the East Texas area.

A related federal racketeering trial is scheduled Nov. 26 before U.S. District Judge William M. Steger.

Among those charged in that case are Gregg County Sheriff Tom Welch, County Commissioner Bill Satterwhite and Justice of the Peace Charles Cashell.

Two children killed in school bus wreck

MONCK'S CORNER, S.C. (AP) — A tractor-trailer hit a school bus carrying youngsters to class today, killing two children and injuring 25 others and the drivers of both vehicles, officials said.

Deputy Berkeley County Coroner James Preacher identified the dead as Edsel Nofsinger and Terry Martin, both 12, of Moncks Corner.

According to reports, the truck, carrying gravel and driven by J.P. Orvin, sheared off the left side of the bus, jumped an embankment, struck a tree and overturned.

Clements nixes special session during January

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements answered one of his most asked questions Wednesday. "There will not be a special legislative session in January," he told several reporters in an informal interview. Now, he said, he must decide between next March and September for the promised 30-day special session of the Texas Legislature. Presidential politics prompted his decision, Clements said. "Now I am trying to evaluate if one in March or September would have the most impact. The primaries are terribly important," he said.

Clements had said he was considering a special session in January, March or September. The governor, who was celebrating Wednesday as the first-year anniversary of his election in 1978, pointed out that all 150 House posts and 16 Senate seats would be involved in the 1980 elections. "That can't help but influence some of the issues (for the session)," he said. He has said his call for the special 30-day session would include consideration of initiative and referendum, wiretap legislation and tax relief.

However, Clements said he would not presume to offer President Carter advice because "he has information that is not available to me." Clements said he was certain SEDCO Inc., a worldwide drilling company he founded, has no American employees in Iran. Clements said the announcement of Sen. Edward Kennedy as a presidential candidate "spurred me to greater efforts if that is possible. I am convinced that Carter can beat Kennedy in Texas. Kennedy just won't get anywhere in Texas."

On other subjects, Clements said he considered the Iranian situation, with seizure of the U.S. Embassy and hostages, as a "serious crisis situation." "I can assure you that other people and other governments are looking at it in the same manner and I hope our president is doing the same," he said.

When asked about his own political plans, Clements said "I haven't even thought about another term." He grinned and added, "My plate is full. I've got it I can handle." "I'm having the time of my life. If I had known how much fun it was to be governor I would have done this 10 years ago."

Diary of convicted 'hit man' disclosed

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys who were unable to suppress the diary of a convicted "hit man" in the trial of a doctor accused of attempted murder say they will try to show the rambling writings are mostly fantasy. The diary and some letters were allowed as evidence Wednesday in the trial of Dr. Archie Burkhalter of Pasadena, Texas, who is charged with attempted capital murder in the Feb. 15 shooting of John Hensley on South Padre Island.

before the letter to burn up any evidence," defense lawyer Warren Burnett asked Mrs. Velasquez Wednesday about her former companion. She said they had never discussed it and added she complied with none of Wilburn's requests in the letters. He asked her to send him things but also said she should discreetly get copies of his letters to the "doctor." "He was crazy. Even his girlfriend didn't believe him," Burnett said after the trial recessed.

Burkhalter is accused of offering money to convicted hired killer S.J. Wilburn and another defendant on trial with the doctor, Scott David Minnick, to kill Hensley. The victim was blinded by a rifle shot to the face. The night before the shooting and after his arrest, Wilburn wrote several letters to his girlfriend in Houston, Emma Vlasquez. "The only evidence against me, or 90 percent of it, is an old red Cadillac sedan parked at the police station on Padre Island," Wilburn wrote the woman on Feb. 20.

"Begin regular visits with the doctor," Wilburn said in a Feb. 17 letter to the woman. "Be sure he has copies of all my letters. He may read something you do not understand." Burkhalter had treated Wilburn at his Pasadena Memorial Hospital for stomach problems. Minnick, Wilburn's nephew, also was a patient of Burkhalter. District Judge Darrell Hester admitted 22 letters, notations and other materials as evidence. Burnett and Bob Heath, Minnick's lawyer, objected to most of the material, which had been used at Wilburn's trial.

Wilburn was arrested minutes after the shooting in a red Cadillac that had gun ports cut in the trunk. Minnick was captured later in a 1977 blue Cadillac registered to the doctor's Pasadena hospital. "Had he ever asked you

At the time of the shooting, Hensley was a witness against Burkhalter in a kidnapping case. Hensley is married to the doctor's ex-wife, the victim of the alleged abduction.

Coryell called disaster area

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements announced Wednesday the U.S. Small Business Administration has declared Coryell and adjacent counties a disaster area as a result of damage from tornadic winds, hail and rain on Oct. 15. Clements said persons living in the disaster area may apply to the SBA for low-interest loans to assist in recovering from storm damage.

Danger of transporting flammables still present

A dangerous loophole exists in the recently adopted state law governing transportation of flammable products.

The law mandates that tractor trailer rigs carrying flammable products in bulk must meet certain qualifications. Trailers carrying limited quantities of the products, though, are under no restrictions, according to Department of Public Safety Trooper Marvin Keenan.

tanks are more dangerous than the currently used trucks equipped with a single oblong tank.

The outdated dual tank trucks have their safety vents on the top of the tanks on the rear, explained Keenan. The trucks have a tendency to turn over on their tops, blocking the vents. The new oblong tanks roll over on their sides rather than on their tops, keeping the safety vents open.

The intent of the law is to keep transporters from buying out moded trucks. The teeth in the new law will not be felt for another year, said Keenan. "I don't know to what degree it will be enforced. Like any new law we'll probably ease into it without stringent enforcement yet."

Court rubs wrong way?

The result of the rules, said Keenan, is that a rig can carry any amount of flammable goods if they are broken down into smaller cans or bottles. The danger, he said, is still there in case of an accident.

Keenan recently returned from a school dealing with the new laws for the transportation of the flammable products such as liquid petroleum gases. The school instructed patrolmen how to inspect carriers of dangerous products.

HOUSTON (AP) — A 5th U.S. Court of Appeals three-judge panel refused Wednesday to set aside a lower court order striking down Harris County's new ordinance to regulate massage parlors and nude modeling studios.

Anthony Sheppard, assistant county attorney, said the appeals court did not rule on the merits of the case, only on the county's motion for an emergency ruling.

Keenan said flammable material carried in bulk must be identified on the trailer by a diamond shaped placard bearing the word, "Flammable." The driver must have possession of the proper billing. In addition, each product requires its own specifications. Trailers carrying radio active products must have a sign specifying that the goods are radio active.

Keenan said finding a type of trailer and method of carrying the goods is what accident investigation is all about. Accident investigation gives the DPS a better idea of what works best for flammable gas transportation. They have determined that the old trucks with dual cylindrical

U.S. District Judge John V. Singleton Jr. ruled against the ordinance Oct. 26, saying it does not adequately define the businesses the county is trying to regulate.

The ordinance that was to have become effective Oct. 15 restricts the location of enterprises whose major business is providing "sexual stimulation or gratification."

Sheppard said the county is redrafting the ordinance in hopes of meeting Singleton's objections.

Aliens pact is expected by Clements

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Gov. Bill Clements says he feels an agreement will be reached in the next year with Mexico to permit aliens to work in the United States on temporary visas.

Clements told the Dallas Citizens Council he and Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo agree that the so-called "undocumented workers" should be documented.

Clements envisioned a plan that would allow Mexican to obtain work visas for three, six, nine or 12 months.

"They would be given a Social Security number and would pay taxes," Clements said. He said the aliens would be "protected under the law, enjoy municipal benefits and be paid a fair wage."

Keenan, who works for the DPS License and Weight Service said that the Lamesa office for weights and license has been moved to Big Spring because of the difficulty of getting people to move there.

The school was held in the Homer Garrison Academy in Austin the week of Oct. 29 to Nov. 2.

Iranian students march sparks shoves, shouts

HOUSTON (AP) — About 75 Iranian students who marched through the downtown area to demonstrate their support of Americans hostage promptly shoving and angry shouts from some local citizens Wednesday.

Some bystanders pushed the marchers and tore at least two of their signs, while others shouted such things as "Iranian dogs, go home."

Despite the crisis in Tehran, Police Capt. W.T. Higgins said the local citizens observing this march were not any more violent than those at previous Iranian demonstrations in Houston.

"The shouting and carrying on has been there all along," said Higgins, who has monitored almost all of the many marches by Iranian students in downtown Houston.

Slogans on the signs carried by the Iranians included, "Send back the criminal Shah to the Iranian people," and "Long live Palestine."

A leaflet passed out by the demonstrators said the "admission of the ex-Shah to (the) U.S. is a crystal clear violation of all international and humanitarian laws and regulations." It said he killed thousands of innocent

Ex-wife claims slayer sexually abused her

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The ex-wife of Ovide Joe Dugas says the convicted killer sexually abused her with a blowtorch, shot at her, beat her and mistreated their two children during a stormy seven-year relationship.

Mary Phillips Dugas testified she left Dugas for good after he told her he would kill her and bury her body where no one would ever find it.

Her testimony came Wednesday during the punishment phase of Dugas' murder trial. He was convicted Tuesday in the execution-style murder of 3-year-old Jason Phillips. Defense attorneys said they would call a psychiatrist to the stand today during the second day of the punishment phase.

The Phillips child was shot in the back of the head along with his parents and grandparents during the July 4, 1978, holiday weekend. Dugas and a woman were charged with all five deaths.

Mrs. Dugas is the oldest daughter of Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie, Jason's grandparents, who were killed. She was the last of four prosecution witnesses.

Mrs. Dugas said she divorced her ex-husband after four years of marriage in 1975, but she testified he moved back into her home, terrorizing her and refusing to leave.

She testified that, at various times, he sexually abused her with a blowtorch and hot curling iron, tied her to a bed, and held a gun to her head.

Asked by Prosecutor James McGrath to elaborate on the blowtorch incident, she replied: "He had me strip and lie face down on the bed. He had the blowtorch and was aiming at my rear. Then he got the curling iron, plugged it in, and started touching me with it."

She said another time after the children were bedded down for the night Dugas drove her to a pasture. "He told me to get out and start walking in front of the car, and I did. He started firing a gun at me." She said he was angry because he thought she was having an affair with his brother.

She said he often beat their two children and once threatened to "roll the car with the kids in it."

She said she left him in

May of 1978 — two months before the Phillips massacre — because he told her "I'll kill you ... and hide your body where nobody can find you."

On cross-examination Mrs. Dugas said she did not run away from Dugas for three years after their 1975 divorce because she was "too scared to run."

Testimony showed that Dugas, 33, of Port Acres, and Linda May Burnett, who has been sentenced to death for her part in the crimes, abducted the family members from the Phillips' farmhouse in Southeast Texas on July 1, 1978. Also killed were the Phillips' son and daughter-in-law, Elmer and Martha Phillips of Woodward, Okla. Jason was their son.

Their bodies were found in a common grave July 9.

The trial was moved from Beaumont on a change of venue.

Guzman named project chief

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — John Edward Guzman has been named director of the Migrant Workers Advocacy Project in the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

The project was created at the direction of Gov. Bill Clements earlier this year when Clements disbanded the Governors' Office of Migrant Affairs and transferred its duties to the TDCA.

Guzman, a native of Albuquerque, N.M., holds a Ph.D. degree in educational administration from the University of Washington in Pullman, Wash.

Currently he is director of the Veterans Upward Bound Program at St. Edwards University in Austin.

Omar Harvey, executive director of TDCA, said Guzman's office will be an advocate for migrants to all state agencies that provides services for seasonal farm workers. He added it will not have funding to carry on individual programs and projects.

Gross sales continue to skyrocket in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock said one of the barometers of the state's economic health — gross sales — continued to climb in the second quarter of 1979.

Howard County gross sales totaled $245,093,759 in the second quarter. Gross taxable sales came to $245,050,440. Deductions totaled $220,920,990. Use tax purchases came to $2,937,542. Amount subject to tax was $27,066,992.

Gross sales in Dawson County came to $33,208,751 with gross taxable sales at $33,028,751. From the 69 reporting outlets in Martin County $11,218,709 in gross taxable sales was reported in the second quarter.

Mitchell County reported gross sales of $13,519,561 from 183 taxing reporting outlets. All but one dollar of their gross sales was taxable.

Midland County reported $298,356,689 in gross sales and $298,339,915 in gross taxable sales.

Bullock said a sales tax analysis of gross sales for April, May and June of this year shows that gross sales in Texas totaled $49.5 billion, up $5.3 billion over the same three-month period of 1978.

The second quarter gross sales surpassed sales in this year's first quarter by about $1 billion, Bullock said.

The gross sales figures were gathered from 262,128 reporting outlets across the state.

Out-of-state gross sales received from 4,788 reporting outlets from the same period totaled $3.8 billion.

Bullock also released a computer analysis showing reported sales for each of the state's 254 counties and a sales tax analysis broken down by the state's Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas.

Second quarter gross sales for Harris County were $13.2 billion as recorded by 47,708 outlets, compared to $12.4 billion reported in the year's first quarter through 41,727 outlets.

Gross sales reported in the state's other major urban areas included:

- Dallas County, $8.4 billion, $900 million more than first quarter.
- Bexar County, $2.3 billion, up $200 million from the first quarter.
- Tarrant County, $3.7 billion, an increase of $500,000 over the first quarter.

Area football roundup Coahoma, Stanton facing survival in Friday games

With most of the area district football races entering the final two weeks of the regular season, both Coahoma and Stanton are facing must-win situations in tomorrow night's contest.

The Coahoma Bulldogs renew their annual bloodletting with 6-AA rival Colorado City on the Wolves home turf, with the Bulldogs having to win in order to set up a showdown with district leader Stamford next week. Colorado City won the 6-AA title last year by taking a hard fought 3-0 win over the Bulldogs. But the Wolves are 3-2 in loop play in 1979 and out of the running for a state playoff berth.

If the Coahoma wins their final two games, the Bulldogs would be assured of no worse than a three-way tie in the final 6-AA standings. If this occurs, a coin flip would determine the state playoff representative. However, if a two-way tie develops at the conclusion, the winner of the regular season matchup between the two teams would advance to the Class AA playoffs.

The Stanton Buffaloes are also facing a must-win situation in their game with Seagraves. Their task will be extremely difficult, as Seagraves is currently ranked as the fourth best team in Class A in the state. Even if Stanton wins tonight, which would leave the Buffaloes one-half game behind league leader

Seagraves, the Stanton crew would have to depend on the powerful Seagraves team falling in their final game of the year in order to gain a spot in the playoffs.

The Big Spring Steers will close out their home slate tomorrow night when they face the Odessa Broncos in a meaningless contest as far as the District 5-AAAA standings are concerned. But the game isn't meaningless to either of the participants, as the Steers will be searching for their first win in league play, while the Broncos are still in the running for a final standing in the upper echelon of 5-AAAA.

Forsan plays host to O'Donnell in a 5-A game.

Both teams have won once in district play, but the O'Donnell team has also tied Anton and Stanton.

In District 3-B, Sands visits West champion Klondike, while Garden City visits Loraine. Klondike must win in order to clinch the West title outright, although they are already assured of representing their zone against the East zone champ, either Sterling City or Jayton.

The Grady Wildcats close out their District 3-B (Six-man) schedule tonight when they travel to Loop. Both teams will be searching for their first district win, after reacting through non-conference action undefeated.

Holmes eyeing possible title fight

NEW YORK (AP) — The noise you hear in the background is the beating of the publicity drums for the one-and-only heavyweight championship of the world between Larry Holmes and John Tate.

Sure, Holmes, who rules the World Boxing Council's share of the planet, has signed to fight Lorenzo Zanon of Italy, possibly in Tokyo in February or March. Yes, John Tate, the World Boxing Association champ, is scheduled to fight Earnie Shavers, Ron Lyle or the winner of the Scott LeDoux-Mike Weaver fight in February and Gerry Cooney in May, if Cooney beats Dino Dennis at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

But those fights could be wiped out if promoters Don King, tied to Holmes, and Bob Arum, connected with Tate, can agree on terms for a Holmes-Tate fight. But it's much more likely these fights, and possibly others, will take place before a Tate-Holmes agreement is reached. Meanwhile, the publicity buildup for a fight to produce one heavyweight champion will continue.

"We'll fight him next if he'll fight," Holmes said Wednesday at a news conference. Tate had said after he beat Gerrie Coetzee for the WBA title last month that he'd fight Holmes anytime.

But fighters don't make fights.

"We'd like to fight him as soon as possible," said King. "Tomorrow is not soon enough. We accept a fight with the Knoxville Tennessean (Tate) and the Park Avenue lawyer."

But there's much more than the mere acceptance of challenge before the fight can become a reality. In fact, Richie Giacchetti, Holmes' manager, said he could see a Holmes-Tate match "at the end of next September or November or December."

And Holmes, added, "The longer we wait, the more money we'll make. But we'll take him any time."

"I'd like to have the fight in May," said Arum when told that Holmes and King have said they want the fight as soon as possible. "I like the ABC-TV offer in which each fighter would get $500,000, with another $2 million to the winner."

A DARE TO BE GREAT — A grinning Larry Holmes sports a crown Wednesday at a New York City news conference at which the World Boxing Council heavyweight champ intimated he was daring John Tate, the World Boxing Association champ, to try to knock it off. It was all part of the beating of the publicity drums for the one and only heavyweight championship bout between the two. But fighters do not make fights, and the fight depends on Don King, Holmes' promoter, and Bob Arum, connected with Tate.

Steer fems visit Bobcats for 5-AAAA second half title

SAN ANGELO — The San Angelo Bobcats will be attempting to win their second consecutive District 5-AAAA girls volleyball title tonight when they battle the Big Spring Steers for the second half championship here in the Central Gymnasium at 7:00 p.m.

The Bobcats won the first half championship when they defeated the Big Spring fems on the road earlier in the year by scores of 15-5, 15-8. The San Angelo girls, 6-0 in the second half and undefeated in 13 district matches, are 30-3 on the season.

The Bobcats will be attempting to win their second consecutive District 5-AAAA girls volleyball title tonight when they battle the Big Spring Steers for the second half championship here in the Central Gymnasium at 7:00 p.m.

Holtz declares Razorbacks ready

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas football coach Lou Holtz said Wednesday the Razorbacks are getting "better and better." He was pleased with the team's intensity.

"Our team's attitude has been good all year, but this week has been the best we've had," Holtz said. The Razorbacks are preparing for Saturday's Southwest Conference clash with Baylor in Fayetteville.

"The only thing I did not like about the practice was that the ball was on the ground too much," Holtz said. "It was not just one guy all the time, but instead a FORMER BIG SPRING STEER STAR CHARLEY WEST of the Denver Broncos, who is in his 12th year in an NFL uniform, has intimated that this will more than likely be his last year in the brutal pro sport. But nothing is for sure as far as retirement is concerned, especially considering his recent performances.

West, elevated into the starting free safety position with the rugged Broncos defense due to the injury to regular Bernard Jackson in the Pittsburgh game, has performed quite well this season.

West has started the last two games for the Broncos, helping the Denver team register a 20-3 win over Kansas City and a 10-3 win over New Orleans. He has accumulated 16 unassisted tackles and 17 assists defensively this year.

The former second round draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings out of Texas Western (not UTEP) had a particularly good game against the high powered New Orleans attack featuring the dangerous duo of quarterback Archie Manning and wide receiver Wes Chandler. West had six unassisted tackles in the game, as well as five assists.

But his biggest play came with just over a minute to play before intermission when he intercepted a Manning pass in his own territory and returned it 26 yards to set up a potential Broncos score. It was his first pick of the season.

Jackson is still doubtful for Sunday's game against New England in a battle of AFC division leaders, and the 1964 grad of BSHS is expected to start.

ANOTHER FORMER STEER STAR, JOHN THOMAS SMITH, continues to make his presence felt with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Smith, who earlier in the season returned punts for touchdowns against Houston and Oakland on successive weekends, is currently ranked third in the NFL punt return stats. Smith has returned 43 punts for 477

West contributes in Bronco secondary as Denver stops Saints yards and two scores. That averages out to 11.1 per return. Miami's Tony Nathan leads the league in average, but has returned only 13.

Smith has also scored one touchdown pass receiving. He had four catches for 56 yards in last week's loss to San Diego. The Chiefs host Pittsburgh this week.

IT IS SAID that there is a general dissatisfaction with the overtime system as it is now employed in the NFL, although most everyone concerned feels that any overtime is better than no overtime at all.

One interesting stat concerning OTs that has some people upset is that percentages obviously favor the team that wins the toss and receives the football at the beginning of the sudden death period.

Since 1974, when the regular season OT was introduced, there have been 41 overtime games in the NFL, 13 of these have ended with one team not handling the ball.

This season, there have been eight overtimes. In three of them, one team took the kickoff and went straight to victory. The kickoff team didn't handle the ball in the OT period.

At the next league meeting, the owners will discuss two formulas to make sure each team gets at least one possession with the pigskin. Here they are:

- 1) Make it so that each team must handle the ball in overtime before the decision is reached. In other words, if one team receives the kickoff, and marches to score, then the other team also gets one chance with the football.
- 2) Instead of kicking off to start the overtime, simply continue the regulation game, with the team in possession keeping the ball at the spot the clock ran out.

Still, NFL supervisor of officials Art McNally doesn't think anything will change this year.

Hawk Queens host McMurry in home opener

The Howard College Hawk Queens, fresh from a prestigious victory over a strong Western Oklahoma team Tuesday night, will play host to McMurry College tonight in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at 7:00 p.m.

The Hawk Queens won 69-62 Tuesday night in a game that they had to rally from a halftime deficit to win. Down 34-31 at the intermission the Queens of Coach Don Stevens employed a man-to-man defense that allowed the host school only seven points in the first ten minutes of the second half. This allowed the Queens to open up an 18-point lead and coast to the win.

McMurry figures to be an interesting matchup tonight, as the Queens and Maidens battled on an even scale in a pre-season scrimmage.

"McMurry is vastly improved over previous seasons. They have a new coach in Renee Hicks, who learned basketball under a top notch coach in Stanley Whisenand," said Stevens. "Their strongest offensive threat is 6'2" post Tammy Gober, a returner. They are quick and aggressive."

Woody Hayes praises Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Woody Hayes says he follows Ohio State football but doesn't go to any of the games.

"I watch on television," Hayes said in an interview. "There isn't any place I could go to a game and really sit and enjoy it."

Hayes, who for 28 years prowled the sidelines as the Buckeye's head football coach, was fired last Dec. 30 after striking a Clemson player in the closing minutes of Ohio State's loss in the Gator Bowl.

As far as he is concerned, yesterday is dead.

"Sure, I miss it," Hayes said. "But like Satchel Paige, I'm not going to look back — they may be gaining on me. I'm not going to live in the past. I can find plenty of other things to do. I keep moving because there's no use sitting around."

"I decided when I got out of football, I'd really get out of it," the 66-year-old former coach said.

Hayes, who has an office in the Military Science Building that overlooks Ohio Stadium, is completing a rough draft of a book in which he compares football with military tactics.

He is also in demand as a public speaker and averages about six speeches a week.

"I make a variety of speeches," he said. "I could have three speeches every day if I wanted. I try never to give the same speech twice," said Hayes, who speaks on topics ranging from football to military history to politics. Hayes said he is happy with the performance of former Ohio State assistant coach Earle Bruce as his successor and with this year's entire Buckeye team.

Ohio State has a 9-0-0 record, leads the Big Ten Conference standings and is ranked third in the nation by The Associated Press in its poll of writers and broadcasters.

Hayes recruited all but two of the 22 current Buckeye starters.

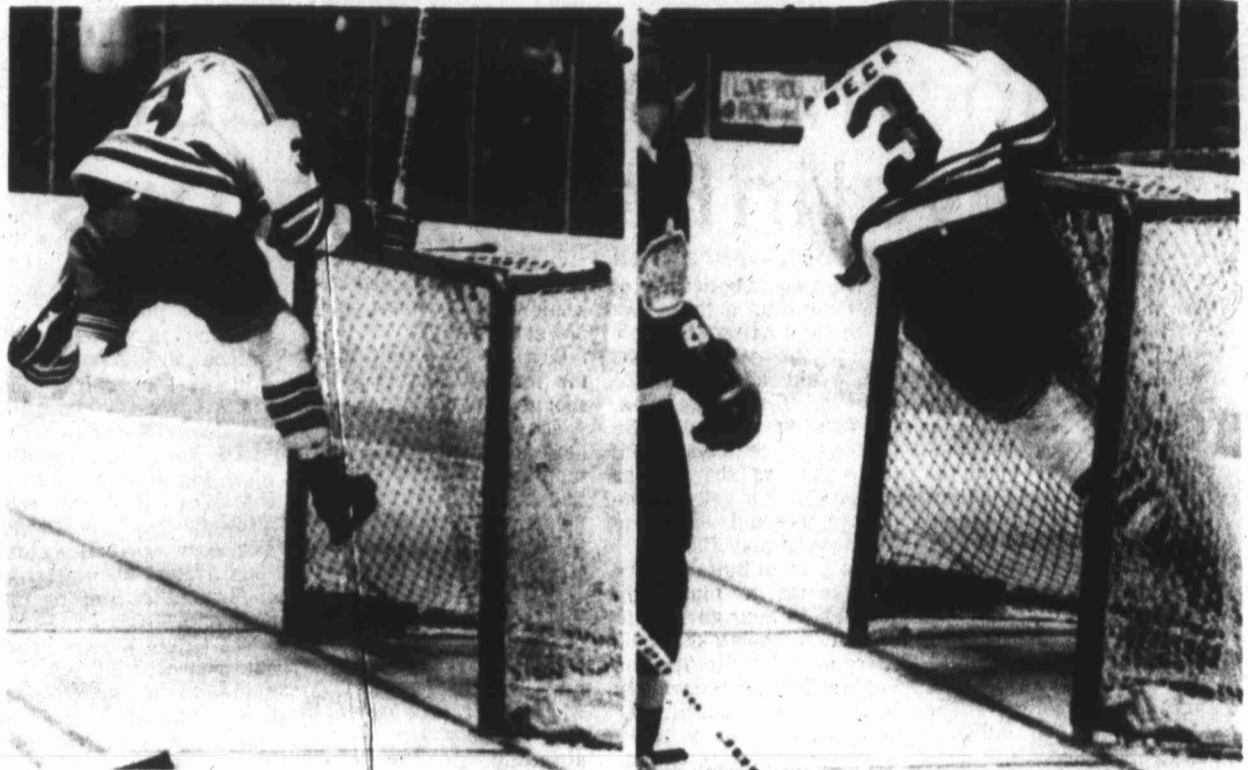

"I see kids on the campus occasionally, but there isn't anything they need me for. Anything I'd do would be largely misinterpreted one way or another. So I've stayed out. I haven't been around at all and that's what I'm going to do," he said.

Hayes emphasized again that he is pleased with the success of the team.

"As hard as I worked to keep that program up as long as I did and as hard as I worked to get those players here, I don't want to see anything happen to the program that's bad," he said. "And it certainly hasn't. They're playing together and doing a great, great job."

The ABC television network wanted to interview him during halftime of the Nov. 17 Ohio State-Michigan game, which it will broadcast, but Hayes rejected the offer.

"It wouldn't be fair to Earle. He has done a great job and I'm not going to in any way try to horn in," he said.

BECK DEBUTS IN KINGS CAGE — New York Ranger defenseman Barry Beck (3) attempts to keep himself out of the cage, left, after shoveling a 10 foot backhand from the Colorado Rockies, kept on going, and wound up in the cage. The Rangers went on to win, 8-4.

Akers promotes Beck to starting role

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas sophomore halfback Brad Beck and junior linebacker Mark Martignoni have been promoted ahead of two seniors for the Houston game on Saturday night.

Texas Coach Fred Akers also told the Longhorn Club on Wednesday non-letterman John Tobolka may start in place of tackle Terry Tausch, who hurt his knee in Texas' 14-6 victory over Texas Tech last Saturday.

Akers said Beck and Martignoni earned their promotions "as a result of the Texas Tech game." Beck will replace senior LeRoy King and Martignoni moved ahead of Chuck Holloway, another senior.

Akers said defensive tackle Steve Massey sustained a deep thigh bruise, but the coaches' "main concern" was the injury to Tausch, a 260-pound sophomore. He said it would be Friday before doctors would know whether Tausch might play.

Offensive guard Joe Shearin and halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones also were hurt in the Tech game, but Akers said they should be ready to play.

The Tech victory, said Akers, "was a costly one, but we're training new faces to take up the slack. I promise you this. Whoever makes the trip and goes on the football field will give it everything he's got."

Houston is 8-0 and ranked No. 5 in college football. Texas, 6-1, is ranked No. 8.

Craig James' mother furious with SMU Coach Ron Meyer

HOUSTON (AP) — The mother of Craig James, the Southern Methodist freshman and 1978 all-state schoolboy football star, says she is mad and has told Coach Ron Meyer so.

"I'm mad," Mrs. Charlie Bickers said. "I talked to Coach Meyer and I told him if he didn't have plans to utilize Craig to his fullest ability, we would make other arrangements. Alabama was Craig's second choice last year."

Mrs. Bickers was reacting to Dallas reports James is unhappy because he will not be in the starting lineup Saturday when SMU meets Wichita State.

"Transferring is the last thing I want to do, but there is a chance," James was quoted as saying. "What Craig said was true," Mrs. Bickers said. But the Houston Chronicle quoted James as saying in a telephone interview he had seen a report he had mentioned the possibility of transferring to Alabama and had told Meyer during Wednesday's practice session "there was nothing to it, that I was here to play football."

"I'm gonna stay here," the Chronicle quoted James as saying. "Good days are ahead, there's no doubt about it. I'm gonna compete, that's what it's all about."

Mrs. Bickers said she and her son are upset because they feel he has been arbitrarily removed from the starting lineup for another all-state player, Eric Dickerson.

"Coach Meyer assured me they would use Craig to his fullest ability, so we'll see," she said. "We'll sit down at the end of the season and examine everything."

During the recruiting season, Mrs. James said, the family was told James would handle the bulk of the SMU rushing offense.

"They sat in my house and told Craig he would carry the ball 30 to 40 times a game," she said.

"That's a direct quote from those coaches, right there in my house. But I knew the first game when Craig carried the ball only six times against Rice that what they said wasn't going to be true."

She said her son also has been used as a blocking back. "And we questioned them for hours about this Feb. 14," Mrs. Bickers said. "They said they'd be foolish to take a player with Craig's ability and use him as a blocking back.... Yes, I'm mad. I'm beyond upset."

In Rocket win over Nets

Malone shows old form

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets center Moses Malone is putting the rest of the National Basketball Association on notice that his team's on-court offense is coming around.

With their shooting touch back and a newly developed defense, he says, the Rockets will be as tough to beat as they were Wednesday, when they dropped the New Jersey Nets 106-101.

This win was the second in a row for the Rockets, improving a miserable 2-7 season start to 4-7 and lifting Houston out of the NBA Central Division cellar.

"The big difference between us winning these two games and the games we have lost is that the ball is starting to go in the hole for us, and we're playing good defense," said Malone, who finished the game with 27 points and 19 rebounds.

He said the Rockets have had a chance to win every one of their games, but have usually managed to get only one shot in the last two minutes. Now they're getting at least two shots, he said.

"We're still trying to get everything together, but now it's starting to come around," he said.

It came around for Houston offensively and defensively in the first half of Wednesday night's game as the Rockets jumped to a 51-43 halftime lead after holding New Jersey to a 36 percent shooting average, just 20 of 55 from the floor.

The Rockets maintained the eight-point lead through the third quarter and were ahead 90-82 with 7:33 left to play when New Jersey assistant Coach Bob MacKinnon, who took over for head Coach Kevin Loughery after he was ejected from the game in the first half, sent in four substitutes.

It began to look like another fold for Houston as New Jersey outscored the Rockets 11-4 during the next three minutes and closed to within one point, 94-93, on two free throws by ex-Rocket Mike Newlin.

But Houston mounted a rally of its own behind the shooting of Malone and Robert Reid, who combined for 17 fourth quarter points to stave off the New Jersey rally.

WITH THE GREATEST OF EASE — (AP LASERPHOTO) Moses Malone (34) of the Houston Rockets flies through the air to slam-dunk the ball to score for the Rockets. The action was early in the first period between the New Jersey Nets and the Rockets Wednesday night in Houston.

Collins lead Philly comeback over Kings

Doug Collins, Philadelphia 76ers guard, sat in the locker room at halftime, four points on his ledger.

"In the past I would have gotten upset," Collins said. "It's a wacky game and it can drive you totally up a wall. I'm such an intense guy, getting only four points is frustrating."

Collins, however, came out after the half and scored 26 more points to lead the 76ers to a 110-102 victory Wednesday night over the Kansas City Kings and keep Philadelphia atop the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division.

"The ball was coming to me in the second half, and I was going up with no hesitation," Collins said. "I've had to make an adjustment this season because we changed to an inside scoring team."

Added to Collins' first-half frustrations was the Kings' Otis Birdsong, who was the game's high scorer with 35 points. Collins' drew first-half duty on the Kansas City guard.

Collins' long jumper with 7:22 left in the game put Philadelphia up for good at 89-87. Three straight technicals on Kansas City, one on Birdsong, made it 93-87 as the 76ers won their third straight.

Celtics 117, Spurs 105

Boston won its fifth in a row to keep pace with the 76ers behind the 25 points of reserve M.L. Carr.

Nate Archibald, directing Boston's fastbreak, scored 15 points and passed off 17 times for baskets. Larry Bird and Chris Ford had 18 points apiece. George Gervin led the Spurs with 29.

Pacers 97, Blazers 90

Mickey Johnson scored 16 points in the fourth period, and Indiana rallied from a 16-point deficit midway in the third quarter to beat Portland.

Indiana outscored the Trail Blazers 20-7 in one third-quarter stretch during which Johnny Davis had eight points. Tom Owens had 28 points for Indiana.

Hawks 115, Pistons 107

Forward John Drew scored nine of his 28 points in the final five minutes to help Atlanta hold off Detroit, and the Hawks won their fifth straight game.

Detroit pulled to within 103-101 late in the game until Wayne "Tree" Rollins hit a basket and Drew sank two free throws.

Nuggets 13, Sonics 92

Denver, shooting 63 percent from the field in the third period, erased a 54-51 halftime deficit and whipped Seattle. Dan Issel paced a balanced Denver attack with 23 points, George McGinnis contributed 15 and Tom Boswell had 14 points as the Nuggets placed seven men in double figures.

Clippers 114, Suns 92

Lloyd Free scored 46 points, including three crucial baskets late in the fourth period, as San Diego held off Phoenix.

Leading by only six points with 7:30 left to play, Free hit a layup and two close-in jumpers in succession. His total was one short of his season high.

"PATIENCE" is the name of the game!" Declare all teachers of special education students in Big Spring schools, "Coupled with an understanding of each handicapped child individually," said Carolee Caudill, teacher at Moss Elementary School.

Dedication and a sense of accomplishment in a challenging and rewarding area of the teaching profession, characterize the 37 teachers and 18 instructional aides in special education.

Visiting Mrs. Caudill's class at Moss and watching three students and Mickey Butts, teacher's aide, follow the leader through a maze of wooden stairs, play and learning equipment was an eye opener. Mrs. Caudill explained that they were working on the gross motor skills as they crawled, balanced on two-by-fours, walked between two strips on the floor, walked backwards, skipped and jumped. One little boy with braces on both legs that encased him from the underarms down watched intently. The class then formed a circle on the floor to include him in the game. The teacher then led them in clapping their hands above their heads, patting legs and rolling a large ball to each other, calling a name, then rolling the ball to the one whose name they called. Everyone then stood in a circle while the ball was thrown to each to be caught and thrown back underhand. The little boy who could not stand was included in this too.

Mrs. Early C. Caudill is in her tenth year of teaching, and her sixth year in special education. Her two daughters are Laura, 19, a freshman at Howard College who competed in the Howard College pageant recently and Pam, a sophomore at BSHS who is on the varsity volleyball team.

A graduate of North Texas State University with a B.S. degree and a masters from Sul Ross University, Mrs. Caudill sees each child's own personality and views them as individuals, and doesn't see their handicap.

Special Education has recently received a boost in the form of a specially equipped school bus which is adapted to transport physically handicapped students to school. The bus is a shortened model of a regular school bus with side doors and an automatic wheel chair lift. Four seats were removed and wheel chair locks installed in their places.

Gene Adkins, director of special education, said, "We can more easily bring students to school now who previously had to be lifted and carried onto the bus manually. The parents and aides are grateful and the special education faculty are excited about the possibilities."

A firm in Denton adapted the bus which was paid for out of local funds.

Four physically handicapped students are now transported to Moss and Marcy Elementary Schools using the special equipment, two in wheel chairs and two who cannot climb the bus stairs.

Big Spring has a special education department with central office located at the old Boydston Elementary School building on Sixth St., of which it can be justly proud.

Headed by Gene Adkins, director, it includes five educational diagnosticians, one special education counselor, three speech therapists, one appraisal clerk, one materials clerk, one special education bus driver and one home-bound teacher, with 37 teachers and 18 instructional aides in the Big Spring Independent School system.

The Big Spring School System has at least two special education teachers in every school and as many as seven in some. Three teachers and one aide are at Big Spring State Hospital. Each student is taught in an individualized program based on his individual plan formed by the Admissions, Review and Dismissal Committee (ARD) with membership composed of an administrator, regular teacher, special education teacher, parents and, if possible, the pupil himself.

About 17 percent of the total enrollment of BSID was handled through the Special Ed department last year or 770 students. Considering that many mild cases are handled for only a short time, up to 35 percent of the enrollment at times receive special ed.

Adkins has been director of special education for seven years and with the SSID ten years, serving two years as speech therapist and as diagnostician for one year. Receiving a B.A. from North Texas State, an M.A. from Western Michigan University, he has done post graduate at UTPB, Texas Tech and a number of other universities.

Flash cards, games, booklets, pamphlets, visual aids and all kinds of materials to help individualize teaching and to provide variety make up the list of things teachers can check out. Over 1,000 items a week are used by teachers. For instance, in reading they may have to come up with something at the second grade reading level for high school interest level. Simple things like buttons and button holes are provided to teach the use of fingers and to train students to put on their own clothes. Games of all kinds are used as rewards, motivation or to teach with. Basic reading and math materials are permanently in each of the special education classrooms.

Adaline (Mrs. O.E.) Madison, Washington Elementary School, is in her 23rd year of teaching, having taught at Coahoma 15 years, two of which was in Special Education. She has taught special ed at Washington School five years.

Mrs. Madison said, "It's my job work with these children to get them into a regular classroom as soon as possible." Mrs. Madison now has four children working on first grade level lessons, two boys on fourth grade level and one girl who goes to regular third grade in the morning and returns to her engineered classroom in the afternoon. Each of the special ed students in Washington School go to music class, physical education classes and to the library with his own age group.

Children who cannot function either intellectually or behaviorally in a regular classroom, Mrs. Madison works with, aided by Frances Mincey, her teacher's aide, until they can function in a class. Each child is sent to class in a subject that they have been successful in and tried in that regular classroom setting. He then is tried in each of the other classes until he can function full time.

Mrs. Madison declares that she retires every year but reconsiders as she thinks of "her special children" and how hard it would be for someone else to understand them. Mrs. Madison received her B.S. degree from Howard Payne University in Brownwood and her Special Education Certificate at Sul Ross University in Alpine. She is married to O.E. Madison, the visual education director of B.S.I.S.D. and has two daughters.

Married to Douglas Hedges who works for the National Guard, she has lived in Big Spring 20 years and raised three boys and one girl and now has one granddaughter. Her little granddaughter, Ginger, 8, has cerebral palsy and is the daughter of her daughter, Mary Ellen Atkinson. Mary Ellen works in special services at the Rehabilitation Center.

Each year, she says, gets easier. Though she has very little college education, she has the experience of a teacher with a doctor's degree. She says, "I never take school problems home with me."

THERE REALLY ARE CHIMNEY SWEEPS
Johnny Martin

HUSBAND-WIFE CHIMNEY SWEEP TEAM
Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Martin

Chimney sweep busy this time of year

Santa won't fit if the chimney's dirty

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Flash! We interrupt your newspaper reading to bring you a special bulletin from the North Pole...

It seems as though that chubby, jolly, ho-ho-ho fellow who answers to such names as Ole Saint Nick, Santa Claus and St. Nicholas, has over-stepped his bounds this past spring and summer.

In spite of frequent warnings from Mrs. Claus, Rudolf and several elves, Santa has eaten his way to a Christmas suit three sizes larger than his last year's suit.

Because Christmas is less than two months away, a long-term, safe weight reduction program is out of the question, and Mrs. Claus strictly forbids her father-than-ever husband to try any crash diets.

The purpose of this bulletin is to advise the public to prepare their chimneys for this year's rotund package distributor. Although it is true that St. Nick is twice his normal size, reliable sources do tell us, however, that Santa is still able to fit down most standard-sized chimneys, provided they are free from soot accumulation. The slightest obstacle, however, may prevent him from swooping down your chimney and surrounding your Christmas tree and filling your stocking with those goodies you've been waiting for an entire year.

That's right America, it's time to call on your faithful chimney sweeps. What's a chimney sweep? Someone who sweeps chimneys.

Yes, it's true. Chimney sweeps do exist outside of Walt Disney's "Chitty, Chitty, Bang, Bang."

Johnny Martin and his wife, Wendy, have been cleaning, sweeping and repairing chimneys for over two years.

Martin, who is also employed by Robinson Drilling, says this time of year, from October until spring, is the busiest time of year for chimney cleaning.

Missing out on Santa Claus, however, is only secondary to the number one reason for having your chimneys swept.

"If used regularly," explains Martin, "chimneys should be cleaned every two years. I've cleaned some that haven't been cleaned in 15 years. A lot of house fires get started that way."

On any given day, if you're driving down the street or walking down the sidewalk, Big Spring's chimney sweep may be seen high on a roof top, clad in dark clothes and wearing a traditional chimney sweep hat which, he says, brings him good luck.

Martin charges $35 per chimney and can usually clean one in 1 to 3 hours, depending on how dirty it is.

Recently, the Martin husband and wife chimney sweeping team cleaned the chimneys at the home of Mrs. Norman Reed, 503 Washington Blvd.

Mrs. Reed's home was built in 1950. Twenty-nine years later, the chimneys received their first cleaning.

"About six or seven years ago," recalls Mrs. Reed, "I called the chamber of commerce to see if they had a listing for a chimney sweep. They didn't know what I was talking about."

A friend recommended Martin to Mrs. Reed.

Mrs. Martin cleans the inside of the chimney while her husband climbs atop the roof and cleans the flue with long-handled brushes.

When asked if she enjoyed cleaning chimneys, Mrs. Martin replied, "Yes, I like it. It's better than working nine to five."

So if you've been a good little boy or girl this year and are expecting a sleigh full of surprises from Santa Claus this Christmas, you might ought to make sure your chimney's clean. You'd hate to miss out just because Santa couldn't fit through the yearly accumulation of soot, wouldn't you?

NEW YORK, N.Y. — A telephone call doesn't have to be all talk and no action. Just by picking up the phone you can call on a tennis partner, a math tutor or order a birthday serenade for a friend. July's Seventeen Magazine lists these as some of the off-beat services that are just a phone call away:

Dial-A-Sailor. Don't tell it to the Marines, call Dial-A-Sailor. For anyone who wants to show a foreign seaman the sights, the U.S. Naval Base in Norfolk, Virginia, (804) 444-4791, has the information.

Homework Helpline. Are you bogged by biology? Or confused over calculus? If your difficulties are in math, history, English or science, Oklahoma City's Homework Helpline, (405)

843-6468, can bail you out. Call during the school year, and leave your name, number, and question. A professional will call you back (collect if you're out-of-town) to help you help yourself.

The Learning Exchange. A great line to plug into if you are looking for a teacher in anything from trigonometry to tennis. The Learning Exchange links learners with teachers. For the number in your area, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to The Learning Exchange, Box 920, Evanston, Illinois 60204.

Therapy Helps Sex Offenders

DEAR ABBY: The letter in your column from a 15-year-old clean-cut, religious Utah boy who confessed to having molested young children when he baby-sat sure hit home with me—I am locked up for five years here at the State Hospital in Atascadero, Calif., for just that reason.

I noticed you told that kid to go to his local mental health clinic for help. That advice was the best, Abby, and I hope he took it.

I am getting counseling here, and now I understand that I have had this sickness that turned me on to little kids ever since I was a little kid myself. But I never knew it was a sickness, I thought I was just a rotten pervert.

Too bad nobody told me to go to a mental health clinic when I was 15. I could have saved a lot of kids some bad experiences and straightened myself out without having to be locked up in a hospital.

FIVE YEARS FOR BAD WAYS

DEAR FIVE YEARS: I heard from a surprising number of readers who share your problem.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when you are serving a large number of people and your guests take two servings of meat the first time around, never considering whether there will be enough for those at the end of the line?

Many times that second piece of meat will be left on their plates—to be thrown away. Kids aren't the only ones who do this, and you can't blame them; they've had some wonderful teachers in their own fathers.

Shall we tell our guests how much meat to take the first time around? Or should we just serve pasta?

FEEDING PIGS IN NORMAL, ILL.

DEAR FEEDING: When feeding pigs, don't allow them to help themselves—SERVE THEM.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Important meeting reminder

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 members were reminded Tuesday of the important meeting at John A. Kee-Lodge Nov. 13 at 6:30 p.m. at 3203 W. Highway 80. The occasion is the official visit of Jerry Miller, president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas. A formal covered dish dinner will be served at the occasion.

The lodge met at 7:30 p.m. in the I.O.O.F. Hall with Jewel Thompson, past noble grand, presiding over the 25 members present, 17 of whom were past noble grands.

Lila Holland gave a school of instructions, reminding those present that nominations for new officers will be conducted in the near future. Plans were discussed to attend a meeting at San Angelo Nov. 17.

November birthdays celebrated were Nanny Adkins who will be 95 years old Nov. 25, Sarah Griffith and Margi Norwood. The refreshments committee, Sarah Griffith, Lillian Rhyne, Jewel Thompson, Frieda Lanspery, Leona Hughes and Winifred Wood served cake and punch.

The next meeting will be Nov. 13.

'Big Band' scheduled

The Community Concert Series has scheduled "The Big Band of the Forties" Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Midland High School Auditorium in Midland.

The Boy's Choir of California will perform in the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 13.

Carriers give surprise party

Members of the National Association of Letter Carriers Auxiliary No. 1975 met in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Piper for a surprise birthday party honoring long-time member, Mrs. Myrtle (A.E.) True, who celebrated her 84th birthday.

The honoree was presented a shower of cards and gifts. A special birthday cake from her son, J.R. Piper, a local letter carrier, was served. Also present were several grandchildren.

Mrs. True was honored for her service to the organization. She now serves as auxiliary representative to the Veteran's Administration Medical Center.

Other business conducted during the meeting included the planning of a Christmas candy fund-raising project. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Jean Slate on Nov. 12. Members were reminded to bring ingredients and molds to prepare the candy to this meeting. Election of officers for the upcoming year will be held at this meeting.

Veterans entertain 19th District

Veteran's of World War I Barracks 1474 and its Auxiliary entertained the 19th District Nov. 3, at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center.

Welcome to Big Spring was given by F. Le Roy Tillery, executive secretary of Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. Guests attended from Brownwood, Colorado City, Crosbyton, Lubbock and Seminole.

Rev. Ernest Roper spoke in behalf of the state commander and urged all veterans and their families to write to their congressman urging them to see that care is given to all veterans, and that health, education and welfare do not take over our Veteran's Administration Medical Centers.

A turkey dinner was served to about 75 in attendance by the local Auxiliary.

AARP elects new officers

American Association of Retired Persons met Nov. 6 at 10 a.m. at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center.

Mrs. Terry Gamble feted with shower

A baby shower honoring Mrs. Terry (Margie) Gamble was held at Big John's Feedlot at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The honoree was presented a corsage made of a yellow pacifier, a rattle and baby socks. Honored guest was the mother of the prospective father, Mrs. Rose Gamble.

Mrs. B.M. Keese, president presided over the meeting. New officers elected for the coming year were Marion Ireland, president; Alvin Smith, vice president; Jane Armstrong, secretary and Mrs. John Quigley, treasurer; and A.E. Walker, Marshall Brown and Smith, directors.

The program was presented by Mrs. Maxie Ireland who read the poem "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder is in the Shock."

The next meeting will be Dec. 4.

Joint Dinner planned

The Social Order of the Beauceant, No. 211 will hold a Joint Thanksgiving Dinner with the Big Spring Commandry No. 31, at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 12, at the Masonic Hall.

All members and officers are invited and urged to attend.

Second day of deliberations in trial of Davis

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jurors deliberating the murder conspiracy charges against millionaire Cullen Davis asked to review the heart of the state's evidence today — several audio recordings and a videotape.

The panel began its second full day of deliberations shortly before 9 a.m., and the request for the tapes followed immediately.

It asked for all tapes in evidence.

Some of the key recordings that came up during the 15-week-long trial were:

—An Aug. 18 meeting between Davis and FBI informant David McCrory on the parking lot of a Fort Worth restaurant.

—An Aug. 20 telephone conversation between Davis and McCrory.

—An Aug. 20 sound-and-video recording of a second parking lot meeting between Davis and McCrory, after which Davis was arrested.

—A telephone conversation Aug. 19 between Karen Master (now Mrs. Cullen Davis) and McCrory.

—An Aug. 7 recording made by defense lawyer Steve Sumner and McCrory. Sumner testified he hid a recorder in his briefcase while discussing with McCrory the Davis divorce case.

McCrory was wired by the FBI for his encounters with Davis, and FBI agents taped their second parking lot meeting from a surveillance van.

Defense attorneys said the fact that there was no verdict on the first day was a sign there would be another hung jury, but prosecutors said it's too early to tell.

Chief prosecutor Jack Strickland said the time for state attorneys to start worrying about the verdict would be if a second day of deliberations ends without a decision in the 15-week-long trial.

The jury deliberated six hours and 17 minutes before calling it quits at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday, saying they would start again this morning.

"I'm very confident the probabilities of acquittal are excellent," defense attorney Mike Gibson said. But later he said the most likely outcome would be another hung jury.

"I don't think we'll ever get a verdict in this case," he said. "That's not exactly our company line, but that's what I believe. I said the same thing in Houston."

The first case ended last

Smith pleads guilty Tuesday

Mark Smith, 2506 Allendale, entered a plea of guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle Tuesday in 118th District Court. The vehicle was a 1974 Chevrolet pick-up. Smith was charged Aug. 3 with the theft. Smith received a five-year probation sentence.

Smith was arrested July 21 and indicted Oct. 5.

Austin man pleads guilty

Ralph Rivera, Austin, entered a plea today to check forgery in 118th District Court. He was sentenced to three years in state prison.

He was taken to Austin for revocation of probation hearing. He was on probation at the time of his arrest for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

His sentence for probation violation will run concurrent with his Howard County sentence for check forgery.

January when a Houston jury deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

Strickland predicted a conviction, but at the end of the first day of deliberations, he said, "I see no pattern developing at all (in the jury's written requests). In Houston, you could see a pattern developing early. They asked for very small details.

"We don't even have any indication they've had a vote."

The jury, reduced to 11 members earlier in the trial when one suffered a broken leg and dropped out, made several requests during the day, mostly for soft drinks. Judge Gordon Gray denied their request for a dictionary, but did provide the eight men and three women with a list of witnesses and the notes of FBI agents which were part of the evidence.

Jurors could find Davis guilty of either of two charges: solicitation of capital murder or conspiracy to commit capital murder. Both charges carry sentences of five to 99 years or life in prison.

The wealthy defendant is accused of plotting to have his divorce judge and 15 other persons slain by a hired "hit man." No one was killed in the alleged scheme. Davis, who was arrested Aug. 20, 1978, says he was framed.

Defense attorney Steve Sumner said jurors were obviously having problems.

"If they weren't split, we'd have a verdict by now. The question now is simply whether or not they will resolve the split into a unanimous verdict," he said.

Strickland said he was still confident of a conviction, and he was not worried. "I would think by tomorrow afternoon, if we don't have a verdict, I would begin to worry about it."

Davis, his wife and a flock of followers spent the day posing for cameras, joking and sipping coffee and cold drinks. As in Houston, the wealthy industrialist seemed relaxed and confident.

Hidden costs upset Texas home buyers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas home buyers are more upset about the hidden costs of purchasing a home than they are about rising mortgage rates, according to a Texas Consumers Association official.

Katy Davis told the Senate Committee on Financial Institutions Wednesday that home buyers are tired of "gimmick fees" that allow saving and loan associations to skirt interest ceilings. She said the "hocus-pocus" should be taken out of the mortgage business.

"This means eliminating both buyers' and sellers' points, origination fees, prepayment penalties and other gimmick fees. Why can't we simplify the transaction down to the downpayment, the real estate agent's commission, the interest rate and the term of the loan?" she said.

"I assure you this single area causes more resentment among buyers who feel helpless than even the higher interest rates the savings and loans are asking for," she said.

The Senate committee is looking into the shrinking supply of mortgage money in the state. A Texas Savings and Loan League executive said the first eight months of 1979 saw a sharp decline in the dollar volume of mortgages written by Texas savings and loan associations.

The statewide drop was 24 percent as compared to the same period in 1978. The Texas figure was four times the nationwide decline, said Pat Malone, a league executive.

Every area of the state reported drops.

Demo meet in Alamo City becomes 'battlefield'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Today's meeting of the Democratic National Committee was called to work out routine details for the 1980 convention. But party leaders say it has become the early battleground for an intra-party struggle among President Carter and his challengers.

"I was looking for a tranquil, peaceful meeting in which we really had little to do. Since the political climate has opened up a good bit, I think we'll have lots of maneuvering and negotiating," said Democratic National Chairman John White, a staunch Carter supporter.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., formally announced his presidential candidacy Wednesday and California Gov. Edmund Brown was expected to announce today. But White said Wednesday night that he feels 60 percent of the 200 DNC members still support Carter.

None of the candidates is expected for meetings today and Friday, but President Carter is sending newly appointed campaign manager Robert Strauss and three top aides.

Strauss, Carter's special Middle East ambassador until joining the president's re-election campaign Tuesday, was scheduled to give the keynote address during Friday's general session.

Strauss' new job and the new official Kennedy and Brown challenges facing White to do some agenda shifting.

Strauss will still deliver his speech, but White has allowed Kennedy and Brown campaign officials to designate a speaker in order to allow equal time.

Meanwhile, South Texas Kennedy supporters are planning a large reception Thursday night for the DNC members, especially the more than 20 who publicly support the Massachusetts senator. The reception was planned by a Draft Kennedy group before Kennedy scheduled his announcement.

"We figure John White needs to know we're here," said Louise Caddell, a member of the state Democratic committee and co-chairman of Texas for Kennedy-South Texas.

"It's an effort to show we're serious about this. It's early for us, so I doubt we would show a lot of force," said San Antonio attorney and reception host Pat Maloney, who has been in contact with Kennedy aides.

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne is among the Kennedy supporters planning to attend the DNC meeting.

The committee must decide plans for the 1980 convention and elect a "temporary" convention chairman and heads of the major convention committees.

Clash called 'extremely dangerous'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Kennedy-Carter clash puts Democrats in the "extremely dangerous" position — of becoming hopelessly split and handing the 1980 presidential election to the Republicans, warns Democratic National Chairman John White.

"The only chance the Republicans have is for us to run a bitter, tough campaign and split the party. If we don't have enough sense to keep the party together, we deserve to get beaten," White said here Wednesday night following Sen. Edward Kennedy's announcement in Massachusetts that he is challenging President Carter.

"It could happen. I hope it doesn't. I think we're in an extremely dangerous position," added White, a staunch Carter supporter. "I just want all of the candidates to remember that November is election day."

White fears Carter, Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who is expected to formally announce today, will get into a bitter campaign based on personalities, not issues.

"They are going to have to be reminded," said White. "Kennedy's a pro. I'm not saying anything he doesn't believe."

"I had the unpleasant task in 1976 of reminding Senate and House candidates that it's not good politics to run against an incumbent administration, the president and other Democrats," he added.

White said Carter ran a "healing campaign" in 1976 that has unified the Democratic Party. He said the party at present faces no seriously divisive issues, such as the Vietnam War.

White compared the Kennedy-Carter confrontation to spectacular train wrecks once staged in the Old West to attract buyers to land sales.

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOV. 9, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds it possible to have more success in life by combining the old with the new. However, the evening finds poor judgment at work, so doublecheck your thoughts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take steps to have increased harmony at home. You need to put forth more effort now if you wish to gain your aims.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to study new methods of operation that can be helpful to you in career matters. Think along more modern lines.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle monetary affairs wisely early in the day and then enjoy cultural pursuits. Show true loyalty to family members.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can handle personal affairs very well early in the day, but you have to exercise more care in the evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Fine day to plan the future more intelligently and use wise methods in doing do. Don't overlook an important business matter.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan how you can help good friends who are struggling now and deserve your assistance, but don't neglect personal aims.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Dive right into public affairs that are important and gain added prestige. Showing more appreciation of loved one is wise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study new projects that fascinate you and which could help you to advance in the future. Relax in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to carry through with obligations early in the day so you'll have more time for social activities later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to economize more so you won't be caught in a financial pinch in the future. Use right methods to solve a problem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Tackle all that work ahead of you early in the day and feel better about it. Try to please fellow workers more.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to be extremely careful in motion to avoid possible accident. Look for quiet pleasure later in the day.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand most problems that come up, so direct education along lines that have to do with catering to the public and much success will follow. Give religious training early in life, and permit to enjoy sports.

Policeman indicted

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An El Paso policeman was arrested Wednesday on charges he offered a customs inspector "in excess of $1,000 per week" to look the other way while he smuggled an unspecified amount of marijuana through a border checkpoint.

Ramon Magos, 29, was named in a five-count sealed indictment returned by a federal grand jury Tuesday.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Mike McDonald said the arrest culminated a nine-month investigation by customs internal security officers and El Paso police that began when Inspector Richard Martinez reported the alleged bribery attempt to his supervisor.

Police Chief Bill Rodriguez suspended Magos, a three-year veteran of the force, after his arrest at police headquarters Wednesday.

Natural disasters eyed by House subcommittee

By JACKIE CALMES
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — With Wichita Falls' tornado and floods and an apartment fire in Houston as its case studies, a House subcommittee Monday began examining how Texas deals with natural disasters.

Frank Cox, head of the Governor's Office of Disaster Services, praised state programs in general. But he used the Wichita Falls tragedy to illustrate an incongruity in the state's disaster act and Houston's problems to point out bad local practices.

Cox did not criticize local authorities in Wichita Falls. But he angrily denounced the city council and private developers in Houston for their roles in three major floods since April and a recent apartment complex fire.

He attributed the flooding to faulty land use and the fire to widespread use of highly flammable wooden shingles. "People doing as they darn well please is affecting about 10,000 other people," he said.

Cox said Texas ranked high in a recent National Governors' Association survey of states' disaster policies.

But his testimony regarding Wichita Falls' tragedy pointed out Texas may have too much of a good thing.

The State actually has two disaster acts, one an amended version of a 1951 law and the other a more comprehensive law passed in 1973, Cox said.

He said Wichita Falls officials — at the suggestion of the city attorney — chose to act under the first. They did nothing wrong or illegal, Cox stressed, but the choice presented problems.

Their emergency declarations, such as those suspending zoning or building codes, had to be renewed every seven days, Cox said. In contrast, the more recent law provides that disaster-related ordinances are effective as long as necessary for a city to recover from disaster, he said.

Snyder hires city engineer

SNYDER — Michael K. Smith of Houston was hired as city engineer by the Snyder City Council Monday night.

Smith, who replaces Jim Dover, will begin work Dec. 1. Dover resigned to become city engineer for Highland Park.

A graduate of Texas A&M University, Smith has been employed by Bovay Engineers Inc. in Houston since February 1978.

After Monday's hearing, Cox said the legislature should study the two laws and choose between them. He said he personally prefers the more comprehensive law that does not limit the life of disaster declarations.

Chairman Walter Grubbs of Abilene said the subcommittee will examine the availability of emergency insurance and the quality of state disaster services, and will report to the legislature before the 1982 session.

Grubbs said the next hearing, in December, may be in Wichita Falls to get public testimony from persons in Texas' "tornado alley." A third hearing, he said, will be held in the Houston area.

County needs more rain

Rainfall for Tuesday and Wednesday totaled .27 of an inch at the U.S. Experimental Weather station, leaving Big Spring 4.28 inches below the average yearly amount for Nov. 8.

Rainfall is normally 17.29 inches for this time of year, but measures only 13.01 inches. Rainfall on Wednesday came to .15 of an inch.

AUCTION OF IMPRESSIONIST PAINTINGS TOPS $3-MILLION — Actress Paulette Goddard, widow of author Erich Maria Remarque, smiles Wednesday at Sotheby Parke Bernet Gallery in New York City where an auction of their collection of impressionist paintings is now in progress. The auction netted $3,113,500 with one work by Paul Cezanne going to a private buyer in Paris for $560,000. That work was "Paysage en Provence." Unusual pin rubies and pearls at Miss Goddard's throat is entitled "Lips" and was created by Salvador Dali, the surrealist artist.
