Hostages to be tried as spies

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declared today the remaining 49 American hostages in the occupied U.S. Embassy here will be tried as spies if the United States does not return the ousted shah to Iran.

"The hostages will remain in the nest of spies and after that (President) Carter will understand what a mistake he has made," said a statement by Khomeini broadcast by Tehran Radio.

Hundreds of thousands of Iranians prepared to march in the capital and other major cities to mark the turn of the 15th Islamic century on Wednesday. The marches are expected into the biggest anti-American demonstrations since the start of the occupation of the embassy Nov. 4.

Khomeini's statement appeared to be tougher than his earlier declaration, the hostages "should be ... tried and punished."

Hours earlier, the militants released 10 more Americans who were flown to Europe. Before they left Tehran, one of them said the remaining hostages were "in greater danger than we were."

"Trials, are they not threats?" said Joan Walsh, of Ogden, Utah, when asked to explain the danger.

The 10 joined three others in a U.S. Air Force hospital in West Germany, and State Department officials in Washington said all of the 13 might be home before Thanksgiving.

The six black men and four women released today were flown to Frankfurt, West Germany via Paris and driven to a U.S. Air Force hospital in nearby Wiesbaden for medical examinations and questioning by U.S. officials.

They had an emotional reunion with two black Marines and another woman hostage freed Monday and also being treated at the Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany.

The 13 were freed on orders from Khomeini, who told the militants to release any blacks or women among the 62 American hostages who "were not spies." He said blacks were oppressed in the United States and that Moslems treated women kindly.

State Department officials said they did not know why the militants kept two other women and one black man in custody.

U.S. Ambassador to France Arthur A. Hartman said the six men and four women freed today "looked in good shape, considering what they have been through." Hartman met them Orly Airport in Paris, where the hostages boarded an Air Force hospital plane that carried them to Frankfurt. French security officials said an Iran Air jet carrying the 10 from Tehran landed at Orly with one engine smoking.

Also on the bus was Ann McKeown, a former secretary to the U.S. ambassador in Tehran, who left shortly before the siege began. Ms. McKeown, fighting back tears, saw old friends among the released hostages and said they looked remarkably well.

Before leaving Tehran one of the freed captives, Joan Walsh of Ogden, Utah, told reporters at Mehrabad Airport that the remaining 53 hostages were in "greater danger than we were."

The U.S. government said two women were among the 49 Americans still held in the embassy by students demanding that the United States hand over deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime for trial. One black man also was believed among them.

The Carter administration renewed its demand for the release of all the hostages and said if Khomeini carried out his threat to put some of them on trial as spies, it would be a "further flagrant violation" of international law as well as a violation of "elementary human rights."

Foreign Press Director Abolghassan Sadegh told The Associated Press it had not been decided whether any of the hostages would be tried. But "if there is going to be a trial," he continued, "it will be carried out by the country's legal courts, either the special revolutionary tribunals (which have sentenced more than 600 persons to death by firing squad) or the ordinary courts. There will be no trial by the students in the embassy compound."

American incomes lose ground to rising prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — American incomes continued to lose ground to rising prices last month, while homebuilding began what may be a long, steep slide due to rising interest rates.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that personal, pre-tax income rose 0.8 percent in October to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,975 trillion. That means that every American received, at an annual rate, an average of $7,495. The figure includes all income, ranging from wages to welfare to dividends.

But the increase in income was less than the rate of consumer price inflation, which has been rising at about 1 percent a month, or more than 13 percent a year.

Despite double-digit inflation, Americans in October saved much more their new income than in recent months, the Commerce Department said.

Consumer spending increased only $2.7 billion during the month, compared to a $26.1 billion increase in September, the department reported. Meanwhile, savings rose $7.5 billion last month, compared with a $20.3 billion decline in September.

"The cautious consumer spent less and saved more in October, a typical characteristic of a recession," said Jack Carlson, chief economist of the National Association of Realtors.

Commerce Department economist William Cox said the drop in spending reflected steep declines in auto sales.

Car sales in October plunged 17 percent and industry analysts believe volume may fall even more this month, with the financially ailing Chrysler Corp. feeling the tightest pinch.

A continued savings surge would certainly hurt U.S. automakers, but could temper inflation, which is caused partly by heavy spending and credit use.

On Oct. 6, the Federal Reserve Board took sweeping anti-inflation action, largely to tighten credit.

But the move boosted interest rates to nearly 16 percent for the very best bank customers. And mortgage rates have exceeded 13 percent in those states where banks are still making home loans.

Martin County grand jury will convene Wednesday

The Martin County Grand Jury convenes Wednesday in Stanton.

Jurors will look into cases involving 11 suspects to determine if the case should be held over for trial.

Results of an investigation into the theft of checks and cash from the Martin County Clerk's office in August and September will also be presented to the grand jury.

Martin County Sheriff Dean Saunders had said two weeks ago that there was a suspect and that an indictment would be sought at the Wednesday grand jury. Assistant District Attorney Don Richard said today, however, that there would probably not be sufficient evidence to return an indictment.

Martin County Clerk's office employees were given polygraph tests as well as two other county employees. Two outside the office also were tested.

The 11 defendants whose cases will be up Wednesday for the grand jury are Freddie Lentz, two counts felony theft; Richard Nelson, felony theft; Ronnie Moore, criminal mischief; Alan Reeves, criminal mischief; Billy Earl Smith, theft; Douglas Benton Morgan, theft; Oscar T. Carr, theft by check; Floyd Sisson, burglary; and Victor Esparzan, Jr., burglary.

SNOW STOP — A small knot of people waited at a bus stop on Capitol Hill in downtown Denver on Tuesday as heavy snow fell. The Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception is visible in the background. A winter storm that had dropped up to 2 feet of snow moved out of the Rockies on Tuesday, prompting blizzard warnings for the high plains as it headed east.

Arab League opens 10 summit meeting today

TUNIS (AP) — The Arab League opened its 10 summit meeting today with a call by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for an all-out economic offensive against Israel's friends and allies including use of the "oil weapon."

"We must exploit as fully as possible the full weight of our vast economic potential in a worldwide struggle against Israeli aggression," Hussein told the summit.

The summit was chaired by Tunisia's President Habib Bourguiba, 76, the dean of Arab leaders, who made a more restrained plea for support of the Palestine Liberation Organization in its "internal struggle" against Israel.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat and 15 of the kings, presidents or effective leaders of the Arab countries attended the formal opening meeting in the dome-shaped congress hall of Tunisia's ruling Destourian Socialist Party.

One notable absentee was Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, who was expelled from the Arab League for negotiating a peace treaty with Israel.

The leaders of Morocco, Algeria, Libya, Mauritania and Oman were represented by lower level officials.

Saddam Hussein, one of the most militant Arab leaders, told the summit the Arab world is determined to pursue its struggle against Israel "despite the surrender and treachery of the Egyptian regime."

"We have a very effective weapon in our economic resources among which I mention oil," Hussein said.

"We must compel them to understand that their interests in our area cannot survive as long as they persist in their policies," he said. "Those guilty of supporting aggression against us will thus receive their just deserts."

He made no explicit reference to the United States, but his speech was seen as an implied threat to American economic interests in the Arab world to force the United States to abandon its support of Israel.

Only Libya, South Yemen and the PLO have indicated support for Arab use of the "oil weapon."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Not the same

Q. Is Festus of "Gunsmoke" fame and Ernest T. Bass of the Andy Griffith Show the same person?

A. No. Ken Curtis took the role of Festus Haggin. Howard Morris, who also produces films, played the rock-throwing Ernest T. Bass in some of the Andy Griffith segments. Curtis is several inches taller than Morris and probably had the looks to take a leading man's role, had he been so inclined.

Tops on TV: 'Dalton Dang'

NBC will try out a made-for-TV feature tonight, entitled "The Last Ride Of The Dalton Gang." The notorious villains will take their last gallop beginning at 7 o'clock. A better idea might be to watch two charming stars make something out of a 1976 made-for-TV feature, "Griffin and Phoenix." Airing at 9 o'clock on Channel 11, the flick stars Peter Falk and Jill Clayburgh as a couple of lonely, terminally ill people who fall in love. Finally, at 10 o'clock, check out PBS's "Soundstage," which will feature the Doobie Brothers.

Calendar: Thanksgiving program

Lakeview School Headstart Program will hold its parent's meeting and pre-Thanksgiving program, 7 p.m., in the school gymnasium.

Howard College Student Association will sponsor a Thanksgiving Disco Dance, 9 p.m. to midnight, at the Student Union Building. Dance admission is free to all Howard College students with college I.D. and $1 for high school students. The Music Express, featuring Larry Barber, will provide the music.

The Big Spring Art Association will meet at the Kentwood Older Adult Center. Roberta Ross will demonstrate painting on Onasburg at 7:30 p.m.

Abilene cattle company orders cowboys to search for lost herd

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — At least 11 cattle were killed on the highway. State troopers, animal control officers and sheriff's deputies helped cowboys round up cattle about 10 p.m. Monday. Triangle manager Walter Wilmon said between 300 and 350 head were rounded up and the rest remained at large today.

"We're sending about 20 cowboys back through the brush and pastures, but it'll take a week to gather them all up — if we're lucky," he said.

"We figure a bunch of wild dogs stampeded them" Wilmon said. "They get chasing the cattle and having a lot of fun. The cattle resent it. It terrifies them and they'll stampede. They broke down all the fences."

He said he has hired a rifleman to stand guard over the cattle all night from now on in hopes of keeping the wild dogs away.

The escaped animals spread out along a 10-mile stretch of Interstate 20 north of this West Texas city after the stampede. Some were herded successfully into trailers by officers using squad cars instead of horses.

Bob Warren, maintenance supervisor for the state highway department, said his crews carried 11 dead cattle to the dump Monday.

Clements proud of list of Texas nominees in race

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says he is proud Texas has two "long-term" candidates in the Republican presidential race, and he is not going to take sides.

However, if for some reason, both John Connally and George Bush are eliminated from the race, Clements said Monday he "might" consider a "favorite son" role at the 1980 Republican convention.

"I might," he told a news conference during a recess of the national Republican Governors' Conference.

"But, as long as two Texas candidates are in the race, I am not going to take an active part and I am not going to take a stand between them."

As a "favorite son," candidate at the 1980 Detroit convention, Clements would be able to keep Texas' 80 delegate votes separate until it was decided which way to cast them.

Clements told the conference that he thought most of the governors at the meeting wanted to "maintain their flexibility. It's too early to get committed."

Clements said he concurred with former President Gerald Ford that the current situation in Iran "is the most serious crisis since World War II." He said he felt the Carter administration would someday have to explain why its foreign policy failed during the period in which Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi left Iran.

"I feel something could have been done to avert the revolution," he said.

Knoxville residents return to wet homes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Some 500 persons, including 146 hospital patients, returned early today to their homes and hospital beds, after a leaking tank truck forced residents in a half-mile downtown area to scramble for safety, authorities said.

"It was extremely dangerous because the vapors were hanging close to the ground," Assistant Fire Chief Charles Hansard said. "One spark and there's no backing up to correct your mistake."

The evacuees were allowed to return early today after hazardous materials crews plugged a leak in one of two 1,000-gallon tanks aboard the truck.

Police said the truck owned by Holston Gases Inc. was approaching the Gay Street Bridge when its driveshaft broke, knocking a plug off a pump at the bottom of the tank.

Between 200 and 600 gallons of the quickly vaporizing fuel spewed from the quarter-inch hole over the next five hours. Mayor Randy Tyree ordered police and firemen to use force if necessary to evacuate everyone within a half mile radius.

Assistant Fire Chief Bob Cannon said 300 residents in apartment buildings and 150 student nurses were forced to leave. Most went to friends' homes but a few were sent to an emergency shelter at a nearby coliseum.

East Tennessee Baptist Hospital moved 146 patients from its east wing, about 50 yards from the spill, to its west wing. To make beds available for those too ill to leave, 75 patients hospitalized for ambulatory care or tests were sent to the Knoxville Civic Coliseum or asked to go home. They were allowed to return after the crisis was over.

"If it had been any other kind of chemical, it might not have been so easy," Cannon said of the evacuation. "But after Waverly, when they hear propane, they move on." A railroad tank car explosion in Waverly, Tenn., killed 16 people on Feb. 24, 1978.

The truck's driver, Charles Byrge, 22, said he was returning to the Holston Gases plant after making three deliveries when the driveshaft snapped. Byrge was not hurt.

Police sealed the area and FIRE IT UP — Kent Colburn of Texas A&M University might as well be running oil through his hands, instead of wood chips. Texas A&M forest scientists have showed Texas Incorporated, the Southwest's largest utility line clearance company, that they would convert cuttings from power line clearance and maintenance to fuel, more than 35,000 equivalent barrels of oil yearly. Currently under contract to Houston Lighting and Power, the company collects some 113 tons of wood residue daily in the Houston, Texas area.

Police beat Vandals ruin windows

Several windows were ruined by vandals sometime Monday night.

Mischief makers shot BBs into two large plate glass windows at Security State Bank, 1411 Gregg. Cost of damages has not been estimated.

The same thing occurred to a plate glass window at Poncho's News Stand, 312 Runnels. Damage was estimated at $50.

A Seiko watch belonging to Oscar Ovalle, 1305 Utah, was stolen from the dashboard of his pickup sometime over the weekend. The timepiece was valued at $375.

A tape player belonging to Ethel M. Harrington, Gail Route, was stolen from her car sometime within the month. The machine was valued at $79.95.

Rose Rameriz, 1607 Avion, reported that someone stole her son's cornet from the Goliad School band room, sometime between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday. The instrument was valued at $155.

A CB radio belonging to David Gomez, 511 N.W. 4th, was stolen from his car while parked at Nichol's Laundry, sometime Sunday night. The CB was valued at $80.

Five mishaps were reported recently.

Vehicles driven by Pamela Stewart, 2717 Ann, and John Gibson, 2311 Roberts, collided at Birdwell and FM 700, 1:15 p.m. Monday.

A vehicle driven by Maria Garcia, Gail Route, struck a parked vehicle belonging to William Crooker, 2802 Parkway, in the parking lot of Gibson's Discount Store, 1:55 p.m. Monday.

Hawaii drying out

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Huskies are drying out after weekend rains. They forced the helicopter rescue of a man from Hawaii Island.

No deaths among residents, but damage was estimated at more than $1 million. More than 15 inches of rain on the island's largest city and 7000 people on the coast. Fifty persons were rescued Sunday morning by helicopter from rooftops in the isolated Waipio Valley at the northern end of the island.

Jury selections begin

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jury selection has begun in the trial of a man shot and brought by the Pacific Sun and other papers against the San Francisco Examiner and its publisher, Chronicle.

The Pacific Sun, based in nearby Marin County, claims its San Francisco edition failed five years ago because of advertising rates in the defendant newspapers for potential customers with no money to spend by advertising in competing publications.

The Examiner and Chronicle have separate owners, but averted a lawsuit by one agency. Jury selection began in U.S. District Court.

Law applies to judges

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An appeals court has ruled that the 1976 Freedom of Information Act, which requires annual financial disclosures by public officials, applies to federal judges.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday in a case filed and brought by six federal judges on behalf of all federal judges.

The judges had argued the law violated the Constitution and their oaths. But the appeals court said the law is required to carry out "a growing public demand for accountability and integrity of public officials."

Religions launch drive

BOSTON (AP) — An interdenominational convocation on historic Boston Common Monday in signing the "Covenant of Justice, Equity and Harmony," which is aimed at easing racial tensions.

Police said about 3,000 persons attended the ceremony, less than half of those expected 10,000.

Winter storm watch posted in Panhandle

A winter storm watch was posted for tonight in the Texas Panhandle as a cold front bringing up to three inches of snow was expected to blow into the region.

Showers and thundershowers rolled across the northeast last night and early today, bringing light rainfall as far east as Central Texas. Some patches of fog were reported in southeast Texas, with predawn visibilities in the Houston area reduced to less than two miles.

Predawn temperatures ranged from the 40s in the mountains of far West Texas to the 50s in the Panhandle and the 60s and 70s over the northeast and south.

The forecast called for mostly cloudy skies and warm temperatures with scattered showers and thundershowers. High temperatures were expected to reach the 60s in the northwest, the 70s in the northeast and the 80s in the south and southwest.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Winter storm watch in effect for the Panhandle tonight. Cloudy with scattered showers and thundershowers through tonight. Wind with rain changing to snow in the Panhandle tonight. Partly cloudy and colder most sections Wednesday. Highs near 40 north to near 80s south. Lows lower 20s north to upper 40s extreme south. Highs Wednesday near 40 north to near 60 south.

Blame the Democrats: 1980 theme

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Republican governors are forging a 1980 campaign theme for the party by blaming Democrats for leaving the country without an energy program when Iranian oil is being shut off again.

Foreign policy, linked by Iran to the coming winter and feared fuel shortages at home, has become a dominant theme at the governors' annual meeting, and it continued today with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger a featured speaker.

The governors and their guests have been careful to avoid direct intrusion into President Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis, but they're clearly blaming Carter and the Democrats for the overall situation.

Former President Gerald Ford took up the governors' tune on Monday when he said the Iranian problem and the lack of a national energy program are making the country ripe for new leadership — preferably Republican.

"We'd better get to the job of rebuilding our military capability and giving the kind of strong leadership that's necessary to reassure our allies and to be an adequate warning to our adversaries," Ford said.

"The American people want that kind of leadership and action, and I hope that the voters perceive it and act accordingly in 1980," Ford told the governors.

Ford called the crisis, which arose when the U.S. embassy in Tehran was seized two weeks ago, the most serious challenge the country has faced since World War II. He said he would not try to second-guess Carter in handling it "because it is too important and the dangers are too great."

"Having said that, let me just make this observation," Ford continued. "There is no doubt about it that the United States in recent years has lost prestige and has lost a capability to handle difficult challenges around the world."

Ford cast most of the blame for energy problems on the Democratic Congress, saying he and Carter both had proposed legislation, but Congress had enacted only bits and pieces of it.

"The United States doesn't have an energy program that will solve all problems, that will make us more independent of the OPEC oil cartel," Ford said.

Texas Gov. William Clements Jr. laid the blame directly on Carter, however, saying the situation in Iran already is affecting oil supplies in the United States.

"While I can appreciate and agree with the administration's decision to cut off our oil imports from Iran, I cannot excuse the fact that after nearly three years in office, Mr. Carter has failed and is failing to develop a national energy plan which could free us from this kind of control by the OPEC nations," Clements said.

"Will we ever learn?" asked Gov. Pierre duPont of Delaware.

"The 1973-1974 oil embargo, the 1977 natural gas shortage, the 1978 coal strike, the 1978 Iranian oil cutoff, the 1978 Three-Mile Island problem, the 1979 second Iranian oil shutoff," duPont listed.

"All these things are happening to us," duPont said.

"These signals are coming to us, and we are not doing very much about it in terms of solving our energy problems," he said.

Gov. Lamar Alexander of Tennessee said almost one-third of the oil lost from Iran could be made up if nuclear power plants already completed but not operating in this country could only get federal licenses. And he, too, took the ultimate blame to Carter.

"In most of these important decisions that need to be made, presidential leadership and presidential decision-making is required," Alexander said.

Ford also said Carter has wrecked the domestic economy since he replaced Ford as president three years ago, and he said Sen. Edward Kennedy, a Carter rival for the Democratic nomination next year, "would be even worse than the Carter administration, if that's possible."

"I'm saddened, but more importantly I'm angry, as most Americans are with the economic failures of the Carter administration,"

Ford said. "Our fellow Americans are ready for new leadership."

Enrollment dips by six

Enrollment dropped by six students in Big Spring Independent School District last week as a gain of two students in elementary schools was offset by a loss of eight in secondary schools.

Bauer and College Heights Elementary Schools stayed unchanged in enrollment, but Kentwood and Lakeview gained two each. Marcy lost six, Moss gained four and Washington gained two. Total elementary enrollment is 2,246.

On the secondary levels, Goliad and Runnels each lost one student, and the senior high lost six. Total enrollment in the secondary schools is 2,557.

Total enrollment for Big Spring schools last week was 4,867. Total enrollment from the same week in 1978 was 5,044. Secondary enrollment during that week exceeded elementary enrollment by 499 students.

Texas joins suit against Montana's coal tax policy

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Texas, which claims to have led the nation in energy production for 50 years, has suggested that a new roustabout in the field, energy-rich Montana, is not being a good neighbor in an energy-hungry nation.

The allegation underlies written "friend of the court" arguments submitted by Texas with the Montana Supreme Court. Texas has joined a lawsuit against Montana by several midwestern and southern coal-using electric utilities who claim Montana's tax on coal production is unconstitutional.

A state district court in Helena ruled against the utilities earlier this year, and they have appealed to the Montana Supreme Court. Stuart Fryer, assistant attorney general for Texas, argues that Montana's tax violates the "supremacy clause" of the U.S. Constitution because, he claims, it frustrates national energy policy to increase the use of coal.

The supremacy clause states that federal laws take precedence over state laws when the two are in conflict. Montana law requires 30 percent of the market value of coal, measured as it leaves the mine, to be paid as a tax to the state. Montana's coal severance tax is the highest in the nation.

Fryer began his argument by noting that Texas has provided one-fourth of the energy ever produced in America, mostly in the form of oil and gas.

He said that this historic ready availability of energy in Texas has also made the state the leader in energy consumption.

Those two facts put Texas in a pinch when Congress began passing legislation requiring conversion from petroleum to coal in reaction to the Arab Oil Embargo and other "events of this decade (which) have altered the course of energy production and consumption," Fryer said.

Texas Electric TIPS help keep home electric bills down.

Saving energy—and energy dollars—in your home can be as simple as using energy wisely.
For example, make sure filters are kept clean in your furnace, air conditioner and clothes dryer. This ensures units are operating efficiently. And using less energy.
For additional savings on heating and cooling, keep drapes closed for extra insulation on overcast winter days and hot summer days. But on sunny winter days, open them to let the warm sunshine in.

And, turn off ALL appliances when you're not using them. When you stop and think of the many ways you use electricity, you'll see what an energy saver this can be!

For more information—and a lot more tips—get the TIPS booklet from Texas Electric. Just call Texas Electric or ask for the booklet on the comments section of your next electric bill.

Crises pull us all closer together

Perhaps America needs more crises like the one which developed in Iran earlier this month.

There's nothing like a threat from without to bring our people together. Neighbors who haven't been speaking to each other for years are now getting together to talk about the problems the United States is experiencing all over the world.

WHEN AMERICA IS insulted, as it has been by the firebrands loyal to Khomeini in Iran, people in this country have every right to feel they have been slapped, too. Those 'barbarians' the Iranian students are talking about happen to be us.

Americans feel frustrated. After all, the Iranians can taunt us with insults and the threat of economic sanctions but when we rise to defend ourselves nobody relays our messages.

From the start, President Jimmy Carter's camp has said he would not give in to the Iranian demands and turn the former shah, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, over to the Khomeini forces. Carter's fellow Americans can appreciate their president's refusal to cave in. It's obvious most Americans are incensed by this kind of blackmail.

If we yielded to this kind of terrorism, there is no limit to what some terrorist groups would go to in other areas of the world. The hostages being held in the American embassy in Tehran have not been harmed, but they and their families undoubtedly are living under great stress.

Negotiations initiated by several organizations have failed to convince either the students or the ayatollah, who has endorsed their actions, to free the Americans.

It's just as well Iran is situated half way around the world and not in our hemisphere. Otherwise, there would have likely been groups organized to crash through the guard and rescue the prisoners.

THERE ARE THOSE who say we should never have allowed the shah into this country for medical treatment, even if he has a terminal illness. Permission was granted, as we understand it, only after his doctor said he would require treatment for a serious cancer illness. That kind of visit is not the same as political asylum.

Carter has told the Iranians that if they want to discuss the return of the shah, it must be done on a diplomatic level, not at gunpoint.

In the future, we must be more careful with whom we ally ourselves, either diplomatically or through more covert CIA activities.

If our embassies are that vulnerable to a surprise raid, then something is radically wrong with a system that does not call for counter-action.

Iran seems to be defying us to do something about the illegal action of the students. Perhaps we haven't turned to our best weapon yet — that of halting shipments of food and medical supplies to the country.

President Carter seems to have gained some prestige in his handling of this very delicate problem. In the meantime, the crisis has served to draw the rest of us a little closer together, and that is good, very good — even if it does nothing more than enable us to hear each other's prayers.

New assignment

Around the rim

Marje Homeyer

If you don't think your action shots turned out, get some pictures of the coach with some players on the sideline so we can at least look legitimate.

That's what Sports Editor Nathan Poss told me as I walked out the door Friday afternoon on my way to San Angelo to record the Steer-Boat game on film — my first attempt at taking pictures of a football game.

So, with camera exposure and shutter speed preset by photographer-instructor Danny Valdes, I entered the San Angelo stadium ready to tackle the challenge of getting the action on film.

AS I WAS STANDING on the sidelines waiting for the game to begin, I kept going over the instructions that the Cuban Flash had given me about what to do and what not to do. I was not supposed to take any pictures of action that was more than 30 feet away — the main thing I was to be mindful of, he said. Anything else, he said, would look like flies on the field once it was printed in the newspaper. Most of the others were common sense instructions — like make pictures show action and try to get the ball in the picture.

That was all fine and dandy, I thought, but what if I couldn't do all those things that sounded easier said than they were going to be done. But I didn't have time to ponder the question too long because the team took the field for the opening kickoff.

At first I didn't take very many shots because by the time I figured out where the play was going it was too late to take the picture or the play went to the opposite side of the field from where I was standing or I had focused on the wrong player.

Also, I kept getting this feeling that when I did take a picture that it was too late and the action was all over by the time the shutter released. Some of the time I felt that I had taken pictures of action over 30 feet away. I was taking a wild guess most of the time about the distance — I didn't know how to judge what was 30 feet and what was not. To play it safe, anything that was across midfield was out of my camera range and I took a break until the next play.

BEING ON THE sidelines was a new experience for me. Sometimes I even got the feeling that I was somehow in the way. One time I turned around just in time to avoid being hit by some of the coach's tobacco juice. Another time I almost tripped over the wire of the telephone being used by Coach Larry Helton. I tried to keep track of the wire because I didn't want to take a spill right there in front of everybody, but Helton moved up and down the sidelines so fast that sometimes I lost track of him and came very near being tackled by the telephone wire.

Half-time finally arrived and I made my way through a maze of drums, tubas and trombones to the stands to sit and relax with my friends Mark Sheedy and his fiancée Anna Abelar. They were there watching Mark's younger brother, Keith, play his last high school football game. I needed the rest, but no sooner than I had gotten up in the stands I had to make my way back down to the field again.

After almost four quarters of walking up and down the sidelines my feet finally gave out. They couldn't take it any more. And, since the camera seemed liked it was never going to run out of film, with only three minutes left in the game I finally gave up and went in the stands and watched the rest of the game from there where my feet could get a well-deserved rest.

The next morning I was anxious to see how my first attempt at football photography had turned out. I rose early and hurried to the office so that the Cuban Flash could develop the film. It was rather nice to discover, after all that hard work and anxious moments, that out of about 40 pictures three or four were good enough to print. And, what made me feel the best, was that Danny had said that I had done a good job.

Not too bad for a beginner and good enough to make me look legitimate.

WASHINGTON — I was jogging in Rock Creek Park at dusk the other day when Bascomb stuck his head out of a cave.

"Are they over yet?" he asked me. "Are what over yet?" "The presidential primaries," he said.

"Of course they're not over," I told him. "They've just begun."

"I was afraid of that," he replied, and started to walk back into the cave.

"WAIT A MINUTE, Bascomb. You can't stay in a cave until the primaries are over."

"Why not?"

"Well, for one thing it's probably against the law. You have to live through them like everybody else."

"I can't take it," he said. "Why did they have to start so early?"

"It takes a lot of organization to run for President of the United States. The candidates have to campaign earlier every four years or they won't have a chance."

"Couldn't they have waited until January 1 so we all could have a nice Christmas?"

"Perhaps. But the public doesn't have any money left after Christmas to give the candidates. When you're running for office you have to tap the people before they waste all their money on toys and gifts for their families. Come on, Bascomb, get your things together and I'll jog home with you."

"NO WAY," HE SAID. "I have a low pain threshold. I just can't watch those guys on television every night telling me how they're going to save the country."

"But that's the way the American political system works," I told him. "The United States selects six or seven of the best and the brightest people in the country and then we all study them to see who would make the finest leader of the greatest country in the world."

"Who says they're the best and the brightest?"

"They do, or at least their staffs tell them they are. But that isn't important. What is important is that the people are given an opportunity to listen to what these men have to say, so we can decide which one of them is qualified to handle the problems that beset the nation and the world."

"But they're not saying ANYTHING," Bascomb growled.

"It's too early for them to say anything. Right now they're just talking to the people who will give them money, so they're telling them what they want to hear. Once they get the money they'll get down to the issues."

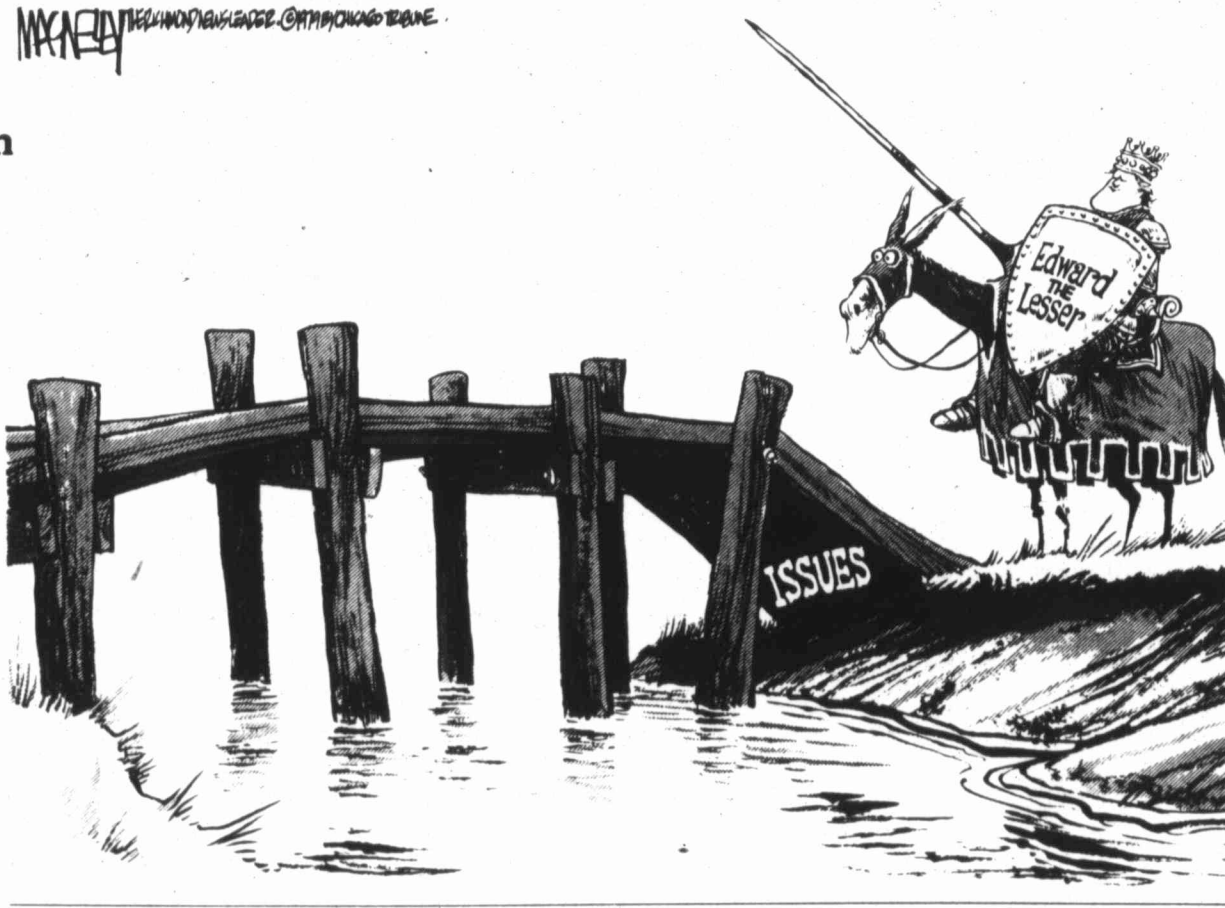

"What issues?"

"THINGS LIKE LOVE of country, the evils of inflation, military weakness, the problems of the poor, the search for a better life for all the people, and of course crime in the streets."

"If it's all the same to you, I'd rather stay in my cave until it's over. I was starting to get angry."

"Listen to me, Bascomb. We're all in this together. If I have to listen to the rhetoric, so do you. That's the price we pay for a free society. There is no such thing as a free lunch or a free presidential election. If you want a President you have to go through the time-honored rituals we've set up to select one. What would happen if everyone crawled into a cave just when the campaign started?"

"I've got plenty of room if you'd like to join me," he said. "It's really great. You can't get any television reception at all."

What about aspirin in stroke prevention?

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: During a television interview three doctors were extolling the virtues of aspirin as a prevention against heart attacks and strokes. Two of the doctors and the reporter claimed to be taking three to four aspirin every day. What is your opinion on this? Any possible side effects? — L.K.

Many large studies have been and are being conducted to see if aspirin helps prevent strokes and heart attacks. If the arteries leading to the heart or brain become clogged, blood cannot get to these organs, resulting in "death" of some of their tissue. The aspirin idea stems from a couple of simple facts. One component of the substance that clogs arteries are blood platelets, which we know have the ability to stick together. That's how blood clots. We know that aspirin interferes with the ability of platelets to stick together. The theory is that arteries will not become plugged if no platelet clots form.

Two or three aspirins daily ought not to hurt you, but you should talk it over with your doctor. Ideas as elegantly simple as this often have basic flaws. For example, aspirin can have adverse side effects — bleeding from the stomach being one of them. The aspirin's anti-clotting effect is not limited to blood inside vessels.

My personal view on such things is that of the English poet Alexander Pope. "Be not the first by whom the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had a colostomy. Thank heaven it was only temporary and not permanent. Now that I have been closed up I feel fine. My surgeon tells me I can eat anything, but I am a little leery about certain things. Why? Because I fear constipation. So far, all is going well for me. Can you comment? — Mrs. M.M.

After a colostomy (an outside pouch connected to the colon) is closed it has done its work and the intestines can go back to doing their thing. The closed section will not come apart. Avoiding constipation is, of course, good for anyone, and high fiber foods you are leery of. If certain ones caused you problems before they well might now, so a trial may be in order. But you need balanced nutrition, which you can easily miss by avoiding foods you don't need to avoid. You may find some help in the booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like some information on hidradenitis cyst. Over the past two years I have been troubled with them. I had four removed, but others come and go. I am 23 and overweight, but my doctor says this has nothing to do with it. Is there anything I can do to prevent them? — D.F.

I believe the term is "hidradenitis suppurativa" and I wouldn't want to touch that phonetically with a 10-foot pole.

It involves sweat glands around the nipples and in the groin area. They become infected, usually with the staph or strep germs.

In its early form, the treatment involves incision and drainage. Careful washing of the areas affected is a must. If the gland problem persists then removal of the skin along with the infected glands may be the answer. This requires subsequent skin grafting. We don't know why some people's glands behave this way.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What can you recommend for women who have backache while carrying their babies? — B.L.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had a colostomy. Thank heaven it was only temporary and not permanent. Now that I have been closed up I feel fine. My surgeon tells me I can eat anything, but I am a little leery about certain things. Why? Because I fear constipation. So far, all is going well for me. Can you comment? — Mrs. M.M.

Most women with this problem just have not adjusted properly to the new passenger being carried.

They should not develop a pregnancy slouch, but make special efforts to stand erect. Sensible heels, a firm mattress and local heat and gentle massage are often enough to overcome the problem. For some, a maternity girdle may help.

Did you know that 80 percent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? The booklet "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help" describes the causes and treatment of stroke.

Mailbag

Dear Editor: Week after week, I read the football scores published in the Abilene Reporter News, and weekly we read that the Steers have been beaten, usually by a big margin.

Though I have never seen a Steers game, those young men have earned my admiration. What character and strength that team possesses! How easy it is to be a winner, but what courage it takes to be a good loser.

The people of Big Spring are to be congratulated on their winning football team. Not as winners of football but the "champions" in the game of life.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I read your comments about the boat people of Southeast Asia, saying we ought to do what we can to help them. But why should we let them in this country? Won't they just take over a lot of jobs and cost us a great deal of money? — R.H.

DEAR R.H.: One of my sons recently returned from Southeast Asia, where he was investigating the plight of the boat people with a Christian missionary organization. I wish you could have shared in his experience, for if you had I believe your heart would go out to these people. They are caught in a tragic web of circumstance which makes their plight one of the most critical issues in recent years. I know the political and economic issues are complex, but we must seek our responsibility.

Our nation was built by immigrants. Unless you are a native American Indian, your ancestors came to this country from another land — quite possibly because of great difficulties there. What if our nation had had the attitude you are suggesting? But, instead, your ancestors were welcomed to our country.

There is a more basic issue here for you personally. The plight of these people is in many ways desperate — thousands have died already. If we refuse to come to the aid of people like this who are in such great need — and there are other tragic cases of refugees and starving peoples in other parts of the world — I believe God will hold us responsible. Cain killed his brother Abel and God judged him for his action, because Cain was to be his brother's keeper. Jesus' parable of the Good Samaritan is important to remember also (see Luke 10:25-37).

Your attitude suggests to me that you have never really allowed God to take control of your life and your attitudes. God has put you on this earth — and in this country with all of its freedom and opportunity. But your remarks indicate that you are concerned only about yourself. I hope you will turn to Christ and let Him be Lord of your life. Remember the command of Christ: "Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind... Love your neighbor as yourself" (Matthew 22:37, 39).

Court secrets

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Under Chief Justice Warren Burger, the Supreme Court has become the most secretive branch of the federal government, cloaking its activities in a confidentiality that puts the Central Intelligence Agency to shame.

But now the velvet curtain of silence has been drawn aside by Justice William Brennan Jr. His secret memoirs, according to court sources who have seen portions of the manuscript, describe personal relationships among the members of the court and the little-known bartering that swings votes in certain cases.

THE MEMOIRS ARE Brennan's painstakingly detailed year-by-year account of his tenure on the high court, which began with his appointment by President Dwight Eisenhower in 1956. Brennan will not authorize release of the judge-and-tell document any time soon — probably not until long after his death.

But some who have seen various parts of the memoirs have described them to us, in the belief that the public has a right to know how important cases are decided by the nine justices. This is a belief that is emphatically not shared by Burger, who has wreaked intemperate reprisals on court employees suspected of leaking information on court deliberations to the Nosy Parkers of the press.

The 73-year-old justice has given strong indications that he intends to resign at the end of the current session next spring.

Here are some of the highlights of the Brennan memoirs as relayed to us by court sources:

The historic Nixon White House tapes decision — which made the president's impeachment or resignation inevitable by ordering him to turn the tapes over to the special Watergate prosecutor — involved an intense backstage struggle, the memoirs show.

Chief Justice Burger argued Nixon's side in the closed-conference deliberations. Realizing he was hopelessly in the minority, Burger apparently decided he could do Nixon more good with a restrained majority opinion than a lone dissent. So he exercised his prerogative and assigned himself to write the 8-0 decision that led to his benefactor's downfall, court sources say.

IN A STORY THAT shows the ways things really work behind the scenes at the court, Brennan recounts his courtship of Justice Harry Blackmun on a particular case. The vote had been taken on another decision and Brennan, as the senior justice on the majority side, had the authority to assign the member who would write the opinion. Blackmun wanted to be that justice.

To assure Blackmun's vote on the undecided case, Brennan gave him the coveted opinion-writing assignment — even though he felt that Justice Byron White was better qualified for the job. Brennan writes that he was afraid of losing Blackmun's vote by offending his fellow justice, whom he described as "temperamental."

Brennan's frustration and dissatisfaction with the current chief justice are made clear in the memoirs. During the tenure of the late Chief Justice Earl Warren, Brennan was the cornerstone of the liberal majority, and was often chosen to write the majority opinions in major, controversial cases. The articulate Brennan relished this challenging role, and legal scholars give him high praise for the clarity and incisiveness of those opinions.

BUT THE CHANGING philosophy of the high court, led by the four conservative justices appointed by Richard Nixon, has relegated Brennan increasingly to the losing side in recent years. And Burger, perhaps fearful of the persuasiveness of Brennan's trenchant opinions, has seen to it that he gets little chance to express himself. At one point in his memoirs, Brennan complains that Burger had assigned him to write the opinion in only one interesting case in an entire court term.

Brennan's memoirs are not entirely critical. In his account of the Bakke reverse-discrimination case, Brennan compliments Justice White's original memorandum as "brilliant." He also commends some of the attorneys who worked on the case — though commenting that others were in over their heads.

Brennan also reveals that when he went on vacation during the summer recess before the court considered the Bakke case, he took the unusual step of directing a law clerk to do some advance work on the far-reaching reverse-discrimination matter.

Brennan's unhappiness with the present court, and his minor role in its operations, are no secret around the court. "I sense he's despondent about where the court is going," one knowledgeable source told our associate Gary Cohn.

Footnote: Chief Justice Burger may well be despondent — or more likely enraged — at this disclosure of the contents of Brennan's secret memoirs. Anything that strips the veil of mystery from the workings of the Supreme Court upsets Burger. But in future columns we will reveal more inside information on the decision making process in the highest court of the land. We will summarize these columns in a forthcoming article in Washington magazine.

University officials stunned by action

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University officials say they are "astounded" that the U.S. government thinks the Fish Drill Team and other university organizations are closed to females.

The government made its position clear Monday, charging in a test case on women's rights that the Texas school has discriminated against women students by barring them from the drill team and three other organizations.

The Justice Department sought to join a private class action suit filed last May by Melanie Zentgraf, a member of the Texas Corps of Cadets.

The department's proposed suit marks the first time that the government has tried to enforce Title IX of a 1972 law forbidding sex discrimination by schools which receive federal aid.

James Bond, representing Texas A&M, said that he has not seen the Justice Department's motion. Bond said Justice Department lawyers had been at A&M because they would have to represent Corps Commandant Col. James Woodall, one of the plaintiffs in the suit, since he was a regular Army officer.

Bond said it now appears Woodall has been dropped as a plaintiff so the Justice Department could enter on the side of Miss Zentgraf.

Residence hit by burglars

The C.S. Harrington residence at Box 2K Gail Route was burglarized Sunday between 5:45 p.m. and 9 p.m. A $900 television and two .22 caliber pistols, one worth $150 and the other costing $40, were reported missing.

Harrington told Sheriff's Deputy Gary Porter he never locks his front door and the burglar gained access through the door.

One pistol was taken from a sliding door in the headboard of the bed. No prints were found. The burglar broke a jar of jelly on the kitchen floor while rummaging through the pantry.

Two suspects were mentioned.

Stereo equipment, blank checks and a gun case were untouched. Authorities suspect the burglar was someone known by Harrington. A box of .22 caliber ammunition that can't be used in the guns was also taken.

Dear Abby

His Battered Wife Wins Photo Finish

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a successful, prominent professional man who frequently works under severe pressure. Once or twice a year he would erupt into a violent rage, and it seemed therapeutic (for him) to "punch me out."

For years I suffered in silence, hiding and making up excuses for not appearing in public until my cuts and bruises healed. I was too ashamed to let anyone know the truth, so I kept quiet.

I felt that I must have done something terribly wrong to deserve this kind of treatment. Meanwhile, by my silence I was protecting my husband, whom I continued to love in spite of his occasional animal behavior.

I began to ask myself why I took so much abuse and let him get away with it. Then, suddenly, a solution came to mind!

That evening I calmly told my husband that if he ever beat me again, I would hire a professional photographer to photograph me after the battle. Then I would place these 8 by 10 photos in strategic places all over town—identifying myself in living color as his beloved battered wife!

My husband was shocked at this idea; he knew I really meant it.

Needless to say, it worked. It's been four years since he has laid less than a loving hand on me, and our marriage is more solid than ever.

Share this with your readers, Abby.

PEARL THE PINUP

DEAR PEARL: Thanks for a helpful letter. It's been said, "One picture is worth 10,000 words." A picture of this kind should be worth at least $10,000.

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years, and was very disappointed to learn that you are so closed-minded about snakes.

Obviously, your fear stems from prejudice and ignorance. If you ever got to know snakes, you would learn to love them. Most people would kill a snake on sight just because it is a snake! How cruel. Snakes are gentle and harmless by nature, and avoid confrontation. They strike only when threatened, and don't deserve to be run over by cars, or decapitated and hacked to pieces by garden tools.

Snakes perform a valuable service by eating rodents and pests that threaten crops and the ecology.

Snakes make wonderful pets for retired people and apartment dwellers. They're odorless, clean and quiet, and don't need to be groomed or walked.

C.J.

DEAR C.J.: Another plus: You don't have to worry about anybody stealing them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently bought a home from a nice, middle-aged couple with two children. They very generously left several pieces of their old furniture for us since they knew we were very low on furnishings.

After moving in, we came across some snapshots they inadvertently left behind in a drawer. Among the photos are several shots of the woman—in the buff—taken while she was eight or nine months pregnant.

Should we destroy the photos, or return them? The couple still reside in town and we have their address.

If you think we should return these pictures, have you any suggestions as to the least embarrassing way to do so?

BLUSHING IN N.Y.

DEAR BLUSHING: Mail the photos to them—without comment.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A READER IN POPLAR BLUFF, MO.: Hodding Carter said, "There are only two lasting bequests we can hope to give our children: One is roots; the other, wings."

Let go.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (26 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ward County Coliseum hosts Sands Art Mart

The Sands Art Mart, sponsored by the Sands Art Association will be held Dec. 1 and 2, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and 1-6 p.m. respectively, at Ward County Coliseum, Monahans.

Both demonstration and working booth exhibits will be accepted. Booth fees are $15 for one person and $22.50 for 2 people, organizations or businesses in advance. No commissions will be charged on sales. Spaces will be assigned in registration sequence. Drawings will be held Dec. 2 at 5 p.m. The coliseum will be open Nov. 30 from 6-9 p.m. for exhibitors to set up early.

The Arts and Crafts Show has all categories for entries from all age groups.

Entry fees should be mailed to Sands Art Association, Box 2031, Monahans, Tex. 79756. If there are any questions call Gladys Powers at 915-943-5113.

Elbow Extension holds Thanksgiving luncheon

The Elbow Extension Homemakers Club held their annual Thanksgiving luncheon Thursday at K-Bob's Nov. 15. Eleven members and one guest, Marcelle Sales, attended.

Members were reminded to attend the Christmas tea for Homemakers Club members Dec. 10 in the Fannie Mae Archer Parlor of the First Methodist Church at 2 p.m. Gift exchanges are to be something homemade.

Mrs. Ruth Morton won the door prize.

The group will meet at Mrs. Ethel McKinnons Dec. 6 for a Christmas party and exchange homemade gifts.

SMALL EVENING HATS — Enchanting small evening hats with new coordinated hairdos by Ogilvie give an exciting dimension to after dark glamour for the coming holiday season. The youthful, cascading pony tail at left has a night life of its own in tandem with Frank Olive's forward thrust satin and jeweled cuff cap. A gentle after dark mood is mirrored in a hairdo swept up into large side rolls while the back is fashioned into a light, high twist. Frank Olive's gold brimmed tear-drop cap is gently nestled between the high rolls, right.

Centerpoint EHC meets at Canterbury

The Canterbury Apartments was the setting for the Nov. 13 meeting of the Center Point Extension Homemakers Club.

Presiding was Mrs. J.R. Petty and each member present answered roll call naming something she was thankful for.

Mrs. Woody Smith presented the council meeting report. A discussion was also held on the upcoming Christmas Tea which will be held Dec. 10 at the First Methodist Church. All extension homemaking clubs will be in attendance.

Mrs. Margaret Baum enlightened members with a book review entitled "Keep Out of Reach of Children."

Special guests attending included Mrs. L.G. Bradford, Ruby McElrath, Gail Earls, Linda Fuchs, Merritt Jordan and Alden Ryans. The door prize was won by Mrs. Smith.

The group will meet again Nov. 27 for a covered dish luncheon at the Kentwood Center at 11 a.m.

Tree Windbreaks are energy efficient

A windbreak of ten pine trees protecting a residence in Twin Rivers, N.J., reduced heat loss 42-percent in winds of 12 mph. That's the report from a study conducted by the Bureau of Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The experimenters predicted that an overall savings could amount to 14-percent because of cold air filtering into the house. With government sources predicting that energy costs will double over the course of the next five years, that kind of fuel economy takes on increased importance.

While the Twin Rivers study is the most recent, a number of other research projects have resulted in similar findings. In one South Dakota test, for example, fuel consumption in identical houses was 25-percent less in the one with a tall windbreak on the north side. When the house was sheltered on three sides, but exposed on the south side, the fuel consumption was reduced by 40-percent.

In another test — this one comparing houses warmed by electrical heaters — a fully exposed home used 442 kw hours of electricity to heat it to 70 degrees F for the month of January 17 to February 17. Its identical counterpart, but sheltered by a windbreak of trees and shrubbery, required only 270 kw hours to hold the same indoor temperature. The difference in average fuel consumption for the entire winter was 33.92-percent.

Information about the most effective placement of trees and shrubs for energy conservation has been provided by the American Association of Nurserymen. The location of windbreaks, the AAN says, is the key to their efficiency.

Almost any kind of trees and larger shrubs will provide valuable results; however, evergreens are ideal in most climates since they retain their fullness over the winter months. They should be on the north and west sides of the building, with an extension on the east if space permits. The southern exposure should be left open to permit the sun to enter.

The distance of windbreak trees from the house should be from four to six times the height of the trees when they are fully grown. By this calculation, ten-foot trees at maturity would be about 40 to 60 feet from the structure.

The people of the American Association of Nurserymen have always known that trees, shrubbery and other living plants provide beauty, quiet, sight-screening and increased value for the property. Now there is conclusive evidence that they can save heating energy, too. They say that is one more expression of "Green Survival."

TWEEN 12 and 20

Dr. Wallace: I am writing you a letter because of an experience I had this weekend that I feel your readers can benefit from, especially since a lot of the girls that read your column are of baby-sitting age.

Last night I watched a baby die.

The child was 11 months old and strangled on a piece of apple. The baby's mother was away at the time and the child was being kept by a girl down the street.

By the time the baby sitter, who at the age of 14, will never forget the fact that she could not help, and the 10 of us who will never forget the tragic pain and consequences of that night cannot be helped by the fact that this is such a common occurrence.

The child was pronounced dead on arrival despite a two-hour attempt by the paramedics when they arrived.

Dr. Wallace, if only one person will take the time to learn first aid for choking and what to do in a case like this, then my letter will not be in vain.

But in any case, should there be a next time for me, I'll know. — Debbie Goodwin, Newport Beach, Calif., Media Coordinator, Compare.

Debbie: Your letter touched my staff and me deeply. I personally feel that choking to death is needless if everyone knew a first aid choking method, the best, to my knowledge, being the Heimlich Maneuver.

I have given this maneuver several times in this column, but several times is not enough.

It must be remembered that the rescuer must act quickly or the victim will die in four minutes. A choking victim cannot breathe or talk and will turn blue, collapse and die if not rescued within these four minutes.

Waste no time if this method fails. Use the Heimlich Maneuver that I will describe step by step.

1. Stand behind victim and wrap your arms around victim's waist.

2. Allow victim's head, arms and upper torso to hang forward if possible. If it can't be done, go on to step 3.

3. Make a fist and grasp it with your other hand.

4. Place fist against victim's abdomen below rib cage, slightly above the navel.

5. With quick upward strong thrust, press your fist forcefully into victim's abdomen. Repeat until object is dislodged.

GETTING IT TOGETHER — Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach (12) scrambles for yardage as Philadelphia Eagles Carl Hairston (78) is in hot pursuit during their contest Monday night Nov. 12. To some people, the Dallas Cowboys conjure up visions of a whirring machine, cold steel, nuts and bolts and the precision of a computer. "Don't believe it," said the Cowboys' star quarterback Staubach. "We're flesh and bones like everybody else. We make mistakes. We pay for it and we hurt."

'We're flesh and bones'

AP Special Correspondent

To most people, the Dallas Cowboys conjure up visions of a whirring machine — cold steel, nuts and bolts, flashing lights, operating with the unerring precision of a computer. "Don't believe it," said the Cowboys' star quarterback Roger Staubach. "We're flesh and bones like everybody else. We make mistakes. We pay for it and we hurt. "Right now, we're in trouble. We can't look back on what we've done in the past. We've got to get it together. No computer is going to save us. We have to do it physically." After a 7-1 start in the National Football League, the Cowboys have fallen into a late season slump. They have lost three of their last four games — and thwarted a fourth by a last gasp miracle finish against the New York Giants. Now they face the disquieting specter of possibly failing to make the playoffs for the first time in 13 years. Five times they have made it to the Super Bowl, winning twice. The Pittsburgh Steelers beat them in Super Bowl XIII.

Once believed headed for a runaway victory in the NFC Eastern Division, the Cowboys now find themselves tied with Philadelphia and Washington at 8-4, their confidence shaken and a rocky road ahead. "We have come to realize that success most times is based on the final moments of the season," Staubach said, prior to starting workouts for Thursday's game against Houston. "We are not satisfied. Our fans are not satisfied. They expect us to go to the Super Bowl and win it."

"Maybe we still can." The Cowboys are a team renowned for their superb organization — from President Tex Schramm and the chief of player development, Gil Brandt, down to the only coach the team has ever had, the impeccable and professional Tom Landry.

"Tom doesn't feed us a lot of fire and brimstone. I know most people think of him as a cold, methodical quarterback said. "He is one of the fiercest competitors I have ever known. It just doesn't show."

Normally the Cowboys are not an emotional, demonstrative team, Staubach said, but it would be folly to interpret that as lack of fire and spirit. This is Staubach's 11th year in the NFL after a brilliant college career at Navy and five years in the service. At 37, he is not even flirting with retirement.

"I don't feel old," he said. "I plan to play as long as my arm and legs hold out. I have a thigh bruise now — not serious. Sometimes after I've been bumped and banged around a lot, I wake up and start questioning myself. By Tuesday, I'm raring to go again."

Entry fees will be $125 for Church Leagues and $135 for the Industrial League. A $10 player's fee will be charged for non-members and $5 for members. Sign up sheets for team rosters are available at the Y. This, plus fees, must be paid before league action starts.

Buckeyes ambitious

Ohio State, which completed a perfect regular season by defeating Michigan 18-15 on Saturday, continued to chip away at No. 1-ranked Alabama's lead today in The Associated Press college football poll.

The Rose Bowl-bound Buckeyes received 18 of 65 first-place votes and 1,214 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters to move within 24 points of Alabama.

The Crimson Tide, 30-0 winners over Miami, Fla., received 32 first-place votes and 1,238 points. Last week, Alabama led Ohio State 34-14 in first-place votes and 1,262-1,218 in points.

It was a good weekend for Florida State, which accepted a bid to the Orange Bowl and then walloped Memphis State 66-17. The Seminoles received 1,019 points.

Somehow Bill Virdon delighted LA Rams at top

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The six-time division champion Los Angeles Rams are 6-6 and tied for the National Football Conference West lead with New Orleans, but Rams' Coach Ray Malavasi is still counting his blessings.

"With all the injuries we've had, I just feel fortunate to be in the position we are in right now," Malavasi said after Monday night's 20-14 Ram victory over NFC West foe Atlanta. "I feel we can win the division, just like I felt at the beginning of the season."

The loss dropped the Falcons to 4-8, putting them two games off the lead with just four contests remaining. However, in what is the NFL's weakest division this season, there are no foregone conclusions.

Atlanta Coach Leeman Bennett refused to concede anything, saying, "As far as the race is concerned, we're still not out of it."

One of many Los Angeles reserves pressed into a starting role, quarterback Vince Ferragamo, guided the Rams to the important victory over the Falcons. Making his first NFL start, the third-year pro out of Nebraska touched for two first-half touchdowns and set up the clinching score — an 11-yard run by Cullen Bryant — in the final quarter.

"I hope to do better next week," said Ferragamo, the apparent Rams' starter the rest of the season since Pat Haden is out with a broken finger.

Ferragamo himself had been sidelined for the past month, recuperating from a broken hand suffered in a game against Dallas.

"I thought I played well at times," he said after completing nine of 22 passes for 171 yards against the Falcons.

Two cage loops are organizing

The Big Spring YMCA has started taking registrations for its Industrial and Church League Basketball.

Industrial League is an open league with teams being composed of any adults from the Big Spring area.

Church League teams are made up of members of one particular church and must be certified by the pastor of that church.

An Organizational meeting will be held Dec. 4 at 6:30 p.m. at the YMCA for team representatives. League play will begin on Dec. 10 for Industrial and Dec. 13 for Church Leagues.

Entry fees will be $125 for Church Leagues and $135 for the Industrial League. A $10 player's fee will be charged for non-members and $5 for members. Sign up sheets for team rosters are available at the Y. This, plus fees, must be paid before league action starts.

Smith wins net crown

The Big Spring Thanksgiving Open Tennis Tournament, sponsored by the Big Spring Tennis Association, was held at the Figure 7 Tennis Center Nov. 17-18.

This was a very successful event for the tennis association as over 50 people entered the tournament. Results are as follows: (Men's Singles) Taylor Smith def. Don Jones; 6-0, 6-2. (Men's 35 Singles) Howard Fiquet def. Harry Jordan; 6-3, 6-3. (Men's Doubles) Howard Fiquet-Leroy Walker def. Harry Jordan-Taylor Smith; 6-4, 6-3.

(Women's Singles) Diane Ladaga def. Delores Cannon; 6-3, 6-2. (Women's Doubles) Sherry Walker-Debbie Phillips def. Dana Cannon-Delores Cannon; 6-2, 6-0. (Mixed Doubles) Sherry Walker-Howard Fiquet def. Debbie Phillips-Leroy Walker; 7-6, 6-2.

The Big Spring Tennis Association has many tennis oriented activities scheduled for the months ahead. All persons interested in tennis in Howard County should consider membership in the association. For further details contact Leroy Walker at the Figure 7 Tennis Center, or call 267-7777.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros Manager Bill Virdon already is tinkering with the idea, grinning goulashly at the possibilities of pitching J.R. Richard, Nolan Ryan and Joe Niekro on successive days.

Should he dazzle the opposition by pitching strikeout artists Ryan and Richard back-to-back or put Niekro and his unpredictable knuckleball between them in the rotation?

Will catcher Alan Ashby be able to stand the heat of two of baseball's hardest throwing pitchers and then master the feathery pitches of Niekro?

All these questions and more became topics of discussion Monday when the Astros announced they had signed Ryan to a four-year contract for a reported $4 million, making Ryan the highest paid free agent in the history of baseball.

"I'm deliberating whether I should put Niekro in the middle of them," Virdon said. "Or we might go with Ryan and Richard and then come back with Niekro. We've got plenty of time to roll it around."

Ryan, who led the American League in strikeouts with 233 last season, will join Richard, the major league leader at 313, and Niekro, the National League's winningest pitcher at 21-11, in forming one of the strongest starting threeosomes in the major leagues next season.

Ryan said his contract did not include deferred payments and is guaranteed for three years. The Astros have the option to renew the contract for the fourth year.

"It would be hard to say who really throws the hardest," Virdon said. "Two or three miles per hour won't make much difference."

Ryan, 16-14 with the California Angels last season, decided to test the free agent market and quickly settled on Houston as his choice, if the price was right.

"We talked to a number of clubs and asked them not to make a bid," said Dick Moss, Ryan's agent. "Our first priority was for Nolan to decide where he wanted to play. From that point, we felt we could reach suitable contract terms."

Ryan said signing with the Astros was a belated dream come true. "I've thought of this moment for many years and dreamed about it growing up in Alvin," said Ryan, a native Texan. "I always wanted to play for the Astros and live at home. It's hard for Ruth (his wife) and I to realize that we've finally come home."

Ryan comes to the Astros with a 167-159 career record and numerous major league records. He is tied with Sandy Koufax with four career no hitters and holds the records for most strikeouts in a season, 383 and most 300 strikeout seasons, five. He has 2,909 career strikeouts.

It was the fourth big contract signing for the Astros this year. Outfielder Cesar Cedeno has signed a 10-year $3.5 million pact; Richard recently signed on for four years at $3.2 million and outfielder Jose Cruz signed a five-year contract for an estimated $1.8 million.

Sands winner over LWH

LUBBOCK — The Sands High School varsity basketball team routed Lubbock Western Hills, 80-29, in Lubbock Saturday night.

David Hall counted 14 points for the Mustangs, as did Dennis Martin. Other Sands players in double figures were Bill Wiggington, with 12, and David Long, with 11.

High pointer for Western Hills was Jeff Shadden with 15.

The win was the second in a row for Sands while Western Hills is now 3-3.

Logback, Poss attend meet

Ron Logback, head football coach at Big Spring High School, and Nate Poss, sports editor of the Herald, attended a District 5-AAAA meeting in Abilene this morning where votes were taken for the all-conference football team.

Rules dictate that an eligible person must be present for the meeting in order for his vote to be accepted.

Abilene Cooper hosted the meeting. The all-stars will be announced at a later date.

Phil Davis is top performer

DENVER (AP) — Phil Davis' two touchdowns that led Wyoming to a 21-13 upset over Hawaii has earned the Cowboy quarterback Western Athletic Conference offensive player of the week honors.

The 5-foot-11, 183-pound Davis, from Cerritos, Calif., scored on runs of 1 and 5 yards, rushed nine times for 29 yards and passed for 68 more yards, completing six of 13 aerial attempts. He has averaged 202 yards a game this season.

Big Spring girls shade Lubbock team, 57-28

The Big Spring High School girls' basketball team ran their season's record to 2-1 by topping Lubbock Dunbar, 57-28, here Monday night.

The Steers, who dropped their opening game to Snyder, broke into the win column last Saturday night in Lamesa with a 40-22 triumph over Lamesa.

Pam Banks and Shirley Dixon broke into double figures in the Lamesa game with 12 and 11 points, respectively. Vickie Slaughter paced Lamesa with six points.

Pam Banks went on a scoring streak for Big Spring last night, scoring 26 points. Shirley Dixon tossed in 14 for the winners while Dorcas Perkins tallied ten for the visitors.

The Steers return to play here tonight against Brownfield. B teamers take the floor at 6 p.m., while varsity action gets under way at 8 p.m.

In B team action Saturday night, Big Spring also won, 25-23, Cissy Doss leading the way with nine points. Stacy Archer tallied five for Lamesa.

On the Light side

Double-barreled failure

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — A Confederate secret weapon — a double-barreled cannon that killed a cow but never worked well enough to be fired at the Yankees — has been enshrined in an Athens park.

"The idea was that if you fired two cannon balls connected by a chain...they would sweep across the battlefield knocking down a great number of soldiers," James Reap, president of the Athens Clarke Heritage Foundation, said Monday night.

The cannon, with two 4-foot barrels angled three degrees apart, failed because its designers could not get both barrels to fire simultaneously even though they had a common breech, Reap said.

According to one report, the cannon was fired at a target of poles and the twin shot flew off in "kind of a circular motion, plowed up an acre of ground, tore up a cornfield, mowed down saplings, and then the chain broke. One ball killed a cow in a distant field, while the other knocked down the chimney of a log cabin."

The cannon fired six-pound balls connected by an eight-foot chain.

The cannon, on its wood field carriage with large, spoked wheels, had been "outside city hall chained to a tree for a long time," Reap said. Now it has been moved a few yards to a concrete pad in a landscaped park. The cannon has been loaded with blanks and fired occasionally, "to celebrate political victories."

Imagine their 50th?

BOSTON (AP) — Watch out, Magali, next year it may be a 50-piece band.

This year, it was an airplane flying over Boston's Back Bay towing a sign reading, "Magali, I Love You. Te Quiero Mucho. Our 2nd Anniversary."

That's the way Lester T. White, 35, says "I love you."

He spent $135 for the towplane Monday, and got a special rate because he works for an airline, he said. "The best $135 I've ever spent," he remarked.

"Last year, we didn't have money for groceries and he took me to the Ritz to celebrate," said his 25-year-old Puerto Rican-born wife.

White also hired a uniformed chauffeur and a limousine to drive her to the deluxe hotel.

U.S. Monopoly Championship

Champ edges challenger

NEW YORK (AP) — When Angelo Repole realized he couldn't come up with $1,300 to pay the rent on Park Place, he got up from the table and ran sobbing to the men's room.

Angelo wasn't only bankrupt, he had just missed out on a chance to become the United States Monopoly champion.

The 10-year-old Staten Island youth wheeled and dealt for nearly two hours with the four men in the competition before losing his bid to unseat defending champion Dana Terman, 23, of Wheaton, Md.

Angelo's mother, Marti, remained nearby throughout the competition to help with such problems as she could — like removing the green bubble gum that burst on her son's face.

Angelo blew bubbles throughout the match, staged in the plush Palace Restaurant. All the contestants wore tuxedos, prompting bystanders to comment that the scene reminded them of a high-stakes baccarat game in a Las Vegas casino.

By the end of the match, all the utilities were out of order, only one railroad was running, and Angelo controlled St. Charles Place to remain Terman's only real competition.

It was a roll of the dice — the spinning of fortunes — that finally sent the wolves to Angelo's door.

Angelo, the New York regional champion, landed on Terman's Park Place property and couldn't raise the $1,300 rent.

He paid out all his money, conceded defeat and then, head lowered, let his hard-earned tears flow.

"Angelo can't stand losing," his mother confided. She said he is a straight-A student at P.S. 20.

But even in defeat, Angelo was the darling of the tournament. After 10 minutes, the unsmiling runnerup emerged from the men's room, composure regained, to congratulate Terman, a car salesman.

"Angelo is an excellent player, and I hope I'll see him again at the next tournament in 1981," the champion said.

Terman said he has been playing the Parker Brothers game since he was 8, and professes to be a "games fanatic." He said he is also a master duplicate bridge player, a chess and backgammon expert, and plays a "fair" hand of poker.

The other regional challengers were David Ulmer, a 22-year-old Los Angeles banker who said he prepared by playing the game against a computer at the University of California; Steve McCue, a 31-year-old psychotherapist from Kansas City, and Rick Saylor, 23, an auto parts salesman from Fort Wayne, Ind.

Terman will represent the United States at the World Monopoly Championship next April in Bermuda. At the last world championship in Monte Carlo, he placed sixth in a field of 19 national champions.

The prize for the world champion is a free trip for two anywhere in the world.

A BROTHER REMEMBERED — Senator Edward M. Kennedy holds a handful of roses as he kneels before the grave of his assassinated brother, Senator Robert Kennedy, in Arlington, Va., on what would have been the late senator's 54th birthday. The late senator's daughter, Kathleen, kneels at left.

Posh residents fighting to keep developers from robbing history

NEW YORK (AP) — Andrew Carnegie slept there. So did Henry Frick, Vincent Astor and Nelson Rockefeller. Jackie Onassis and William F. Buckley still do.

Now residents of Manhattan's Upper East Side, a bastion of the American rich, are determined not to be caught napping. They are fighting to keep developers from robbing the area of its historic virtues.

They've banded together to have the area between Fifth and Lexington Avenues and 59th and 79th Streets declared a historic district. It would be the largest such protected neighborhood in the city.

"The area is absolutely unique," said Jerome Max, project director for a committee backing the move. "It is what symbolizes New York throughout the world. It has the most concentrated mix of small shops, galleries and architectural styles in the city. There's nothing else like it."

The proposal is not without detractors, chiefly Madison Avenue merchants who say rules requiring approval for exterior changes would engulf them in a sea of red tape.

But the debate has been civilized, in keeping with the nature of the area. There has been no "screaming and yelling," said Patricia Rich, spokeswoman for the Landmarks Preservation Commission.

Hearings were held in July and September. The commission is expected to announce its decision within the next few months. Lenore Norman, executive director of the commission, believes "chances are probably very good that the district will be landmarked."

The commission's professional staff is researching each of the more than 1,000 buildings in the area — determining such vital information as who was the architect and the year it was built.

The investigators walk down streets once traversed by fur baron Astor, steel magnates Carnegie and Frick, bankers Jacob Schiff, Otto Kahn, Felix Warburg, Adolph Lewisohn and others.

They pass everything from plain New York brownstones to the fanciest of dwellings — ornate residences of 19th century financial rulers, the austere fortress of the Seventh Regiment Army on Park Avenue, tall apartment buildings on Fifth Avenue, and beaux-arts, neo-classical, neo-Georgian and neo-federal town houses.

Most were built in the decades between 1890 and 1920, an era of opulence. It is the area known in pre-ZIP code days as "New York 21," served by such legendary telephone exchanges as Templeton-8, RHineland-4 and REgent-2.

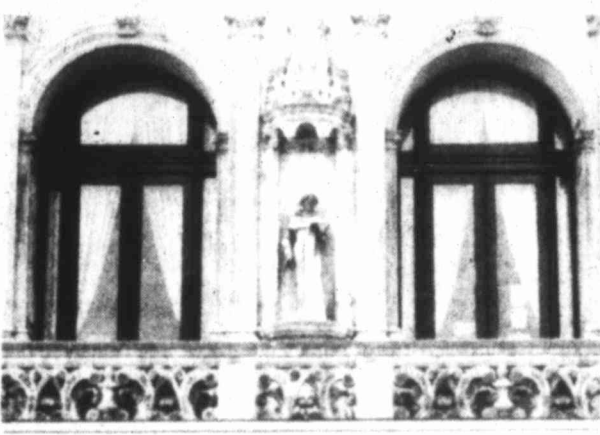

Today, the Upper East Side is still a wealthy neighborhood, commanding the city's highest rents and co-op maintenance fees. It is home for several Rockefellers, banker Felix Rohatyn, Mrs. Onassis and her sister, Lee Radziwill, columnist Buckley, writer Cleveland Amory, and Edward and Tricia Nixon Cox and baby.

Many of these well-known residents have joined the Committee for an Upper East Side Historic District. Others include New Yorker magazine writer Brendan Gill, actress Tammy Grimes and City Councilwoman Jane Trichter, who represents the area.

The committee maintains that though some buildings in the district are already landmarks, there is nothing to stop the owners of other East Side edifices from making alterations.

Creating a new historic district on the East Side would shield the entire area with one ruling, they say, faster and easier than considering buildings individually.

They say speed is of the essence; Ms. Rich said the commission staff finds new building alterations every week, some bordering on desecration.

WILL IT LIVE IN HISTORY? — A swirling double stairway, bottom photo, located in the East 60's on Manhattan's East Side, and simple but elegant stone carvings on the windows of an apartment on Madison Ave., in the 70's reflects the beauty and architectural diversity of Manhattan's Upper East Side that is the bastion of Americas rich.

New York City now has 37 historic districts, including Greenwich Village and Soho in Manhattan, and Fort Greene, Park Slope and Brooklyn Heights in Brooklyn.

One small Upper East Side enclave surrounding the Metropolitan Museum of Art was designated a historic district two years ago. The protected area, from 78th to 86th Streets between Fifth and Madison Avenues, would border the new district.

Preservationists say that in other neighborhoods, land and building values increased with the creation of a protected district.

In the funeral profession, there's absolutely no substitute for dedicated, personal attention.

That means efficiently attending to all the details of funeral service, of course. But to the people at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home, it goes beyond that. It means showing genuine interest in the families they're privileged to serve.

It's this kind of help which prompts so many Big Spring area families to depend upon Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home when death occurs.

Mayoral runoff Light voter turnout expected in Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—A light turnout was forecast today, despite a salty, name-calling campaign for mayor Houston matching incumbent Jim McConn and City Councilman Louis Macey.
 Political observers said no more than 25 percent of the 666,000 registered voters are expected to mark ballots in this nonpartisan runoff election for mayor and six council seats.
 Eight council members were elected in the Nov. 6 vote that brought a historic change to the governing body of the nation's fifth largest city.
 Three blacks and one Hispanic won.
 There now is one black on the council. There has never been a Hispanic elected in the city's history.
 In the runoff races, three women are candidates. There has never been a woman on the Houston council.
 Most of the attention has centered on the McConn-Macey feud. The two have been bitter political opponents for several years, seldom agreeing on any issue brought before the council.
 McConn led the ticket in the first round but failed to get a necessary majority in the field of nine candidates.
 Macey ran second, about 20,000 votes behind.
 Leonel Castillo, recently resigned commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, finished a strong third and it is these votes both candidates are seeking.
 Most of Castillo's strength came from the Hispanic and black areas. He refused to endorse either McConn or Macey.
 But, State Rep. Ben Reyes, who broke the Mexican-American void on the council, and the three black council members elected, have all endorsed McConn.
 Macey has accused McConn of attempting "to paint me as anti-black. A piece of hate mail has been sent to all black registered voters by McConn's organization."

Pauline Hanson
 Mrs. Pauline Hanson is one of our veteran newspaper carriers. She has been a Herald motor route carrier for route 409 since 1953. The route covers about 59 miles northeast of town on the Snyder Highway, the Gail Road north of Coahoma, and the Center Point district.
 During her 26 years of delivering papers, she increased an 80 paper route to today's 335 subscribers. Pauline says some of her present subscribers were her customers back in '53. Now, some of their children who were babies when she started her route, have become her customers.
 Pauline says the best thing about her route is getting out and being with all her fine customers. She apparently enjoys the interaction with her subscribers since she has had the same route for so many years.
 In her extra time, Pauline enjoys sewing and working in her yard. She also spends as much time as she can with her four grandchildren.
 If you are interested in people, a Herald route may be the 'people job' for you. Call the circulation department at 263-7331 or stop by the Herald at 710 Scurry for a route application. Who knows, you may enjoy it enough to become a veteran like Pauline.
