Iranians threaten to execute hostages

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian militants threatened today to execute the 49 Americans they hold as hostages in the U.S. Embassy if the United States mounts a military operation against Iran.

The threat followed a veiled hint of military action by the Carter administration which on Tuesday ordered the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and five escorting warships to the Indian Ocean. Another U.S. task force led by the carrier Midway is already in the area, about 600 miles south of the Persian Gulf.

The students, who occupied the embassy Nov. 4 demanding the return of the exiled shah from New York, issued a similar threat in the first days of the crisis.

Earlier in the day, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini whipped up mammoth anti-American demonstrations across Iran today as part of his campaign to pressure the U.S. government into surrendering the deposed shah.

Hundreds of thousands chanted "Mar bar shah, mar bar Carter" — "Death to the shah, death to Carter" — as they marched in orderly, well-organized columns through the streets of Iran's capital.

The religious leader of the Iranian revolution hardened his threat to try as spies the 49 Americans still held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The Carter administration responded with its first veiled threat of military action and ordered the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and five escorting warships to the Indian Ocean. Another U.S. task force led by the carrier Midway is already in the area, about 600 miles south of the Persian Gulf.

In Pakistan, a mob of young Moslems today attacked the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad and another group burned down the U.S. Information Center in nearby Rawalpindi. No casualties were reported. The attacks were in retaliation for the seizure Tuesday of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, site of Islam's holiest shrine. Although the invaders of the mosque were reported to be members of a Moslem sect linked to Khomeini's Shiite Moslems, the Pakistani mobs blamed the United States.

Khomeini seized on the incident to further his campaign against the United States. In a broadcast statement today he said it was "not far-fetched to assume that this act has been carried out by criminal American imperialism ... and international Zionism."

Saudi sources at the Arab summit conference in Tunis said Saudi troops today assaulted the Moslem fanatics holding the mosque and recaptured most of it. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

The turnout for the day's demonstrations in Iran was expected to be the biggest since the jubilant celebrations that greeted Khomeini on his return from exile last February. Estimates of the crowds in Tehran ranged up to 2 million, or about half the normal population of the capital. The huge festive crowds marched to the occupied U.S. Embassy and were exhorted by religious leaders.

A Tehran Radio report, monitored in London, said the marchers had adopted a 17-point resolution calling for a continued struggle against American and demanding that the U.S. hostages be tried and punished in Iran unless the United States sends back the shah, who is being treated at a New York hospital.

The march started early in the morning and continued under bright sunlight. Each column carried its own Islamic banners, flags and placards bearing Khomeini's portrait. Males old and young were in the lead, followed by women and children.

For financial assistance

Board approves request

The Texas Water Development Board has approved a request from the City of Big Spring for financial assistance in making state-ordered modifications to the water treatment plant here.

City Manager Don Davis said today that the six-member board that he met with in Austin Tuesday authorized the purchase of $1,950,000 of Certificates of Obligations by the State of Texas at an effective interest rate of 5.56 percent. Accompanying Davis on the mission were Mayor Wade Choate, mayor pro tem Ralph McLaughlin, City Finance Director Tom Ferguson, City Financial Advisor Joe Smith of Abilene and engineer Roy Crim.

Also present was an attorney from Lubbock who pointed out to the board that no funds from the Water Quality Enhancement Program, a program that Davis said is applied to "hardship cases", have been spent in West Texas.

Davis said that a major point used to qualify Big Spring as a hardship case was that of timing. The city has been ordered by the State Health Department to make the modifications on the plant by Jan. 1, 1981 or pay some stiff and expensive penalties. Davis said there was not enough time to go through the process of holding a bond election and still meet the imposed deadline.

Although it is not known what interest rate the city would have received if the city had been forced to sell bonds on the open market, Davis said it was conservatively estimated at 7.5 percent.

The 2 percent decrease in the interest rate under the Water Quality Enhancement Program will save Big Spring citizens about $500,000 over the life of the bonds.

Davis said that he will recommend at the Nov. 27 city council meeting that the contract for the improvements be awarded to Belco Construction Company, Inc. of Temple, the lowest bidder on the project. The council will also consider an ordinance raising the sewer rate an additional 75 cents per month in order to retire the bonds.

The base sewer rates are currently $3. The city council has up to this point passed resolutions affixing a total of $1.25 to that rate. This new resolution will bring the base rate up from $3 to $5.

According to Davis, the term "surcharge" will be dispensed with. Since the increase would have to be effected over a period of 20 years to retire the bonds, it will be considered a "rate increase". He expects that the rate increase will go into effect in January, 1980.

The increase is probably not the last one that Big Spring residents will see in the immediate future.

"I think there will be other increases," Davis said. "Sewer rates are probably going to be more stable than water rates." An increase in the cost of raw water is expected to be passed on from CRWWD to consumers in the near future.

The continually increasing surcharge that was to be attached to base sewer rates were due to a $1 million difference in estimated cost of the plant improvements and the actual bids. Davis blames the confusion on having missed the estimate and said that there has been no explanation offered for it except for quickly rising costs in materials and construction.

Total cost of the plant improvements, including the contract fee, will be some $3,200,000.

Actual money from the Water Development Board is expected in 30 days to six weeks, Davis said. Construction should begin in December.

Solving the Iranian crisis

'Turn about is fair play'

By ROBBIC CROW
Everyone in Big Spring seems to have an opinion concerning the prolonged nightmare in Iran, but very few want their views published.

"Oh, I've got an opinion all right, but you better ask someone else," or "I'll tell you how I feel about the whole mess, but don't you dare publish it," were among the majority of answers received by the Herald in relation to this major issue.

However, 5 local residents were not afraid to step up and voice their views.

"I think turn about is fair play," said Elva Biffar. "I think we should get some of their guys living over here and hold them as hostages."

Mrs. Biffar concluded by saying that she wouldn't want to be in President Carter's position and be left with the responsibility of making the final decisions.

"He needs our prayers," she said. Nelda Colclazer, another local resident, says she would like to send the Shah back to Iran and get "our people" back.

"I don't believe a word the Iranians say. I just hope the United Nations intervenes before the Iranians put the remaining hostages on trial. I really don't think it will come to that, though. I have faith in the United Nations."

All Gladys Thompson wants is the American hostages to get back home.

"I don't have too much to say about the Shah. All I want is the release of the hostages. I truly believe they will be sent home soon, she said stating her opinion.

Mrs. Thompson also feels the United States should have left the Shah in Mexico and aided him there.

"Bringing the Shah here and having our people jeopardized like this wasn't a wise decision," she concluded. Rusty Stevens believes, however, that the United States had every right to accept the Shah of Iran into this country.

"He needed medical help and it was up to us to give it to him," he conveyed. Charles Williams wants to know why the Iranian people did not react when the Shah was seeking refuge in Mexico. In fact, Williams thinks the Iranians should have reacted long before the Shah ever left their country.

"When I have a problem," said Williams, "I settle it right then, not six months later."

"When you think about it," Williams continued, "it's asham we've been training their pilots and educating their students for a better life, especially when this is the way they repay us."

Two of four Iranians here could be deported soon

Two of four Iranian students attending Howard College have been summoned to appear before officials in Dallas next week. They have been ordered to show cause of why they should not be deported.

Local U.S. Border Patrol officers conducted an investigation of visas and passports of the four students last week on the authority of orders issued by President Jimmy Carter.

Charles Hensley, Border Patrol Senior Inspector, said today that two of the four students "appear to be out of status."

The students, Mohammed Hoshem Lofalaei and Ghadir Shahhosseini, will appear before a special inquiry officer in an immigration court at the Federal Building in Dallas Nov. 29.

John Gee accepts position as postmaster at Clyde

John Gee, superintendent of postal operations in Big Spring since May 1977, has accepted the postmaster position in Clyde.

He will assume duties there soon, but won't be moving until January. He will live there and his wife, Francis, will join him after the first of the year.

Gee has been in Big Spring seven years. "No where in the world you'll find greater people than I have been in contact with in Big Spring. They are the salt of the earth," he said.

Gee described his superintendent job here as a public relations function. The superintendent "sees that the postmaster's orders are carried out."

He was assigned in March to an acting postmaster position in Stamford. He began with the U.S. Post Office in Aug. 1955, moving to Big Spring as foreman of mails in Jan. 1973. When Weldon Bryant retired Gee took over as superintendent of postal operations. Gee considers the move a good one and is looking forward to starting an Optimist Club in Clyde and to "giving the best of service" to the post office.

Gee warmly complimented Frank Hardesty, Big Spring postmaster. "Frank Hardesty is the greatest as far as bosses go," said Gee. He added that he always put himself on the same level with local employees."

Thursday's Herald will be delivered during morning

Subscribers of the Herald can stand advised. The Thanksgiving Day edition of the newspaper will be delivered in the morning in order that all employees can take full advantage of the holiday.

The Thursday edition will be filled with Christmas shopping advertisements and features related to the holiday season.

The circulation department will remain open until 10 a.m. Complaints concerning delivery of the paper should be made to the circulation department prior to that time.

Salvation Army's annual yule appeal is nearing

Bob Crowell, manager of Big Spring Printing Co., has been appointed chairman of the Salvation Army's annual appeal at Christmas time, which will formally get under way Friday and continue through Christmas eve, according to Lt. Bill Thrasher, commanding officer at the local citadel.

Money raised in the campaign is used to help feed and clothe deprived families over the holiday period.

Crowell announced that his committee would include Mrs. Myra Robinson, Mrs. Gene Puckett, Helen Ewing, Oliver Cofer, A.J. Prager, Ray Don Williams, Lowell Jones, the Rev. Carroll Kohl and Jack Redding.

The committee has set a goal of $29,000 to be raised through mail appeals and the familiar Christmas kettles.

Opening ceremonies for the drive are scheduled for 10:30 a.m., Friday in the Highland Mall Shopping Center.

On hand for the kickoff will be the Salvation Army advisory board members, Lt. and Mrs. Bill Thrasher, local dignitaries, a caroling group from the First Christian Church and Santa Claus, who will grasp the occasion to greet the children.

The public is being encouraged to attend the ceremonies and lend support to the Salvation Army's "Sharing is Caring" Christmas drive.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: City policy

Q. In regards to the Letter to the Editor about the city's refusal to pick up and test a rabid skunk because of lack of funds, I and my neighbors have been cited for our dogs running at large on our private property and have never seen the dogcatcher make an attempt to pick up stray dogs or cats. Is it policy to only pick up animals that pay the best? And if the city has no funds for picking up and checking stray animals, where do these $20 fines that we've paid to the city go?

A. The City of Big Spring animal wardens have picked up a total of 1,583 stray animals since June 1 of this year. Of this number, 1,478 were destroyed. This would indicate that 105, the remaining number, were adopted or redeemed by their owners. The greatest amount of time that the animal warden spends is with the animal which is owned, is normally maintained by the owner, but which is permitted to run at large and create problems for neighbors who call for assistance. By ordinance, the owner is required to either control his animal on a leash, or contain the animal within the confines of some type of fencing, so that the dog can not leave private property at will. Individuals who permit their animals to run at large, or to potentially run at large, by considering the animal to be on his own private property, constitute our main problem in the City of Big Spring. The funds which are collected by the issuance of citations for violation of the animal code go into our General Fund and are not earmarked for a specific use. When it becomes necessary to expend funds which are not allocated, such as in the case of the sending of heads to Austin for the purpose of analysis for a specific disease, then careful consideration must be given before the expenditure is made. Therefore, certain guidelines are used. In order to qualify, the animal must have bitten or scratched someone, or have come into intimate contact with the individual, before City funds would be expended for the purpose of determining whether the animal was rabid or not. If city employees were to analyze the head of each animal which acts suspicious and shows some signs of disease, then they would send a very large number of heads each month with the only real purpose being to satisfy their curiosity about the animal. They have no way of knowing whether an animal will pay well or whether the owner will redeem a pet. By preference, the wardens would choose to deal with animals without owners, since there is much less risk of being bitten.

Police beat Vandals' toll is heavy

More damages to windows of local businesses from a Monday night BB shooting spree have turned up.

Damages to window panes at Security State Bank have now been estimated at $925. In addition to those damages and a damaged window at Poncho's Newstand, a glass window pane at Gibb's and Week's was struck by two BB's. Damages to that window has been set at $150. The spree took place sometime between the businesses closing hours Monday and opening hours Tuesday.

Camilo Noyola, 1213 Madison, reported that an unknown person broke into a residence being used as a storage building at 1200 Madison and removed a box of china and kitchen utensils, two boxes of ammunition, pots and pans, and took a camper shell from outside of the building sometime between Sunday afternoon and Tuesday afternoon. Entry was apparently gained by breaking a window. The missing items were valued at $400.

Dennie A. Iker, 3007 Cactus, reported that he left his car at Montgomery Ward's at 2 p.m. Tuesday for some new tires. When he returned at 4:20 p.m., his $50 tape deck was missing.

Cash totalling $61 was reported taken from a cashbox at Miller TV, 606 E. 2nd, between noon and 12:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Wade Burroughs, 4044 Vickie, has reported that someone was seen leaving through his front door about 2 p.m. Tuesday. The intruder apparently entered the residence through the garage and overturned a table in the den. No items were reported missing from the house.

A patrolman discovered a broken window on a car owned by David Jansch, parked at his residence, 1500 Stadium, 6 a.m. Tuesday. The notified owners told police that the window was broken sometime after 9 p.m. Monday with an unknown object. They recalled that some neighborhood children had been playing ball on the street between 11 p.m. and midnight Monday.

CRMWD revenues, costs reported 'on target'

Revenues were steady and expenses were up, but both were fairly well on target for the Colorado River Municipal Water District through October.

The monthly revenue fund statement reflected receipts of $5,902,783 through October, just $37,000 less than for the same period a year ago. Municipal sales of $4,766,483 were up by $599,800, but principally because of a higher rate. The actual volume of sales was 11,594,986,000 gallons, or 498,000,000 gallons less than for the first 10 months of 1978.

Sales to oil companies and industrial users aggregated $1,062,439, down $340,000 for the period. More than this amount was represented in loss of revenue because oil companies had been cut off from surface supplies to conserve the water for municipal demands. Deliveries to oil and industrial users for the 10 months amounted to 2,410,573,000 gallons, down 1,125,900,000 gallons for the period.

Expenses for operation amounted to $2,960,784, within the budget but up $193,700 for the 10 months. Of this, $112,792 was in higher energy costs although 1.64 billion gallons less water were pumped. The difference in the operating expense and revenues in the amount of $2,941,998 goes largely into the net revenue fund for debt service.

At the end of October the two surface supplies, Lake J.B. Thomas and Lake E.V. Spence, had 129,000 acre feet reserves against a monthly withdrawal of approximately 9,000 acre feet.

Advisory board members debate juvenile issue

The pros and cons of publishing the names of juveniles involved in crimes were discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Herald Editorial Advisory Board.

Members of the board brought with them sentiments expressed by individuals of the community about the matter. The Herald now refrains from printing the names of minors charged with all but the most odious of crimes.

Wendy Pagan, one of the youngest members of the panel, said peer pressure against miscreants doesn't always work and she would be against trying such cases before a jury of peers, reasoning those concerned would tend to look upon such an approach as capricious.

It was proposed that Herald reporters look more to "unsung heroes" in the community as a source for news features, those offering "service above self."

Among those attending the meeting were Elma Martinez, chairwoman; Rose Dohenny, Helen Gladden, Wendy Pagan, Dr. Halvert Hansen, Emily Ward, Adrian Randle, Mike McCracken, Sue Couvillion, Sue Lewis and Ernie Boyd.

Tom Watson, publisher, and Tommy Hart, editor, represented the Herald at the meeting, which was held at the Chamber of Commerce.

The board will convene again Dec. 18.

'Southwest College for Deaf' Proposed name adopted

Members of the Howard College board of trustees, meeting in regular session at noon Tuesday, formally adopted the name "Howard College's Southwest College for the Deaf" for the school's proposed adjunct.

If deaf school plans stay on schedule, the facility will open its doors as early as the fall semester of 1980.

After hearing objections from Mary Thomas, the college board adopted a policy governing public requests for college documents as recommended by College President Charles Hays.

The policy states, in effect, that if the information is in active use, store or otherwise unavailable, the party requesting the information will be notified in writing and told when it will be available. Such requests will normally be accommodated within 24 hours after the petition is initiated.

Mrs. Thomas said that, in her opinion, that Dr. Hays should have an "agent" authorized to act for him when he is not available for such consultation.

Mrs. Thomas said the wording in the proposed policy was contrary to the Open Records Act, as she interpreted it.

After Mrs. Thomas returned to her seat, the motion to adopt the policy suggested by the administration was passed unanimously by the trustees.

The board also approved a proposal to have the college take over the LVN training program in Lamesa after it had been assured that the program would be subsidized to the extent of $20,000 by Lamesa interests.

Gifts totaling $88,000 from an anonymous donor to the college by Dr. Hays. Part of the money will be used to enlarge and expand the air conditioning system at the school. Another portion will go toward the landscaping plan adopted months ago by the trustees.

Two staff resignations were announced by Dr. Hays. Don Melton, director of counseling and guidance, is quitting Jan. 1. Lettie Lee, head of the school's nursing program, has quit effective at the end of next August. Neither has announced future plans.

Howard College graded out very well in a community survey report, according to Hays. During October, 1,500 residents of Big Spring and other Howard County communities were mailed brief questionnaires, aimed at evaluating the extent to which recipients felt the college is meeting post-secondary educational needs of the area.

Only 7.3 percent of the questionnaires have been returned. The findings in those range from positive to very positive in every area investigated.

For instance, the survey showed that 87 percent of those polled felt the cost of attending Howard College is an educational bargain, where only five percent disagreed.

The present faculty was approved by 61 percent of those contacted while 11 percent thought otherwise.

The trustees discussed a proposal to purchase a wide-screen television set for the students' lounge but tabled the suggestion for additional study.

Thanks to income derived from promotions originating from outside the college, the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum continues to operate "within the black," it was disclosed.

Chub McGibbon was the lone trustee not in attendance.

Christmas book banned

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — West Ottawa School District administrators have banned a children's Christmas book after complaints by parents that it portrayed Santa Claus as having a negative attitude toward Christmas.

Officials said the book, "Father Christmas" by English author Raymond Briggs, showed the jolly gift-giver grumbling about bad weather and pondering minor details like how to get into a mobile home. The book was removed from the shelves at all six of the district's elementary schools, said Ray Johnson, a West Ottawa administrative assistant.

10-year-old stabs boy

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A 10-year-old Newark boy faces a preliminary hearing Nov. 30 on charges stemming from the stabbing death of a younger boy who called him a "sissy."

Robert Kratic, 8, was stabbed once in the back with a six-inch steak knife after an argument with the unidentified boy Monday, authorities said.

Essex County Assistant Prosecutor Norman Menz said Tuesday the youth, a third grader, could be the youngest person ever charged in the county with juvenile delinquency in connection with murder.

One killed in explosion

BRADLEY JUNCTION, Fla. (AP) — A large kerosene storage tank blew up at a phosphate mine, killing one maintenance man and badly burning another worker, police said.

Frank Tracy, a spokesman for the owners of the Kingsford Mine and phosphate refinery, said the 50,000-gallon kerosene tank exploded Tuesday as workers were welding it. The resulting fire triggered smaller blasts and spewed flames 50 feet in the air before being brought under control after three hours. About 100 workers were evacuated.

Explosive only fertilizer

HURRICANE, W. Va. (AP) — Tests have confirmed that a substance believed to be nitroglycerine and carefully transported 60 miles to a munitions dump was only lawn fertilizer, state police said.

Authorities had believed five jugs found in the Jim Turner home Sunday contained 2½ gallons of nitroglycerine. Residents were evacuated along the route when the substance was taken to Point Pleasant. Tests showed Tuesday that the pale yellow liquid was fertilizer left in the house by a former owner.

Club violates law

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ruled that the boys' Club of Santa Cruz violated state law by refusing to admit girls.

Judge Chris Cottle ruled Tuesday in favor of five plaintiffs — three girls and two boys, who were represented by the American Civil Liberties Union. Cottle said the 10-year-old club appeared to be discriminating arbitrarily and he did not find sufficient justification for exclusion of one sex.

Weather

Long cold front stretches into state

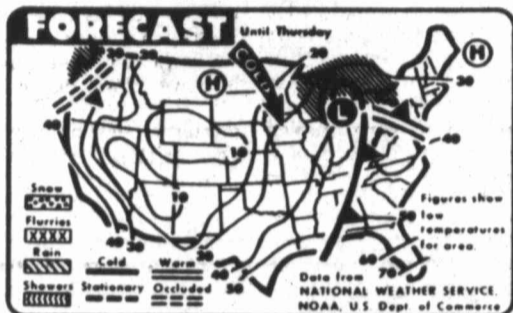

A long cold front stretched into the state today, extending along a line from Dallas to Del Rio, bringing showers and the snap of winter to the holiday air.

The front moved eastward early today, dropping temperatures to the 20s in far West Texas, the mountains and northwestern Panhandle while some cities in East and South Texas reported mercury readings in the 70s.

Scattered showers added a dank chill to the front, although rainfall was light, topping at 0.38 in Wichita Falls. Light showers also were reported in the eastern Panhandle and Central Texas just before dawn.

Winds early today were northwesterly at a brisk 10 to 15 miles per hour west of the cold front and southerly 10 to 20 miles per hour east of the front.

Saudis retake most of holiest shrine

RIVADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi Arabian troops assaulted Moslem fanatics occupying the Grand Mosque in Mecca and recaptured most of Islam's holiest shrine today, Saudi sources at the Arab summit conference in Tunis reported.

The sources said they had reports that some of the Mahdist fanatics were still holding out on an upper floor of the building. But they said the central area of the sacred Kaaba was cleared of the intruders, and most of their hostages had been released.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's Shiite Moslem leader, seized on the incident to further his campaign against the United States and said in a broadcast statement that it was "not far-fetched to assume that this act has been carried out by criminal American imperialism ... and international Zionism."

But even before the Tehran Radio broadcast, rumors that the United States was responsible touched off mob attacks on the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad, Pakistan, and the U.S. Information Center in Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital's twin city 10 miles away. The cars in the embassy parking lot were burned, and the information center was burned down.

A spokesman for Saudi Crown Prince Fahd in Tunis said the mosque was seized Tuesday by more than 100 armed members of an Islamic minority sect in what he said was "a domestic incident" that should have no repercussions in the rest of the Moslem world.

"Saudi armed forces have the situation well under control and there is no need for Prince Fahd to leave the summit before the closing session," the spokesman said.

Arab League Secretary-General Chedli Klibi announced the summit would end later today, 24-hours ahead of schedule, because it will have ended its work sooner than expected. He made no comment on the seizure of the giant mosque.

Arab sources said the invaders were "Mahdists," who believe in the imminent coming of a new savior. The Mahdist sect — a small minority in Saudi Arabia — is closely linked with the Shiite Moslem sect that constitutes a majority in Iran and is led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Some earlier reports said the invaders were Khomeini supporters.

The sources in Tunis said they had no information on the immediate objectives of the attackers, but they said there was reason to believe the seizure was religious rather than political and was not directed against the Saudi government.

According to the sources some 150 hostages were believed held inside the mosque and several Saudi policemen were killed in fighting during the takeover.

The attackers arrived unarmed, as though to enter the mosque to pray at dawn Tuesday. Some time later, a truck drove up to the mosque with a load of weapons. The conspirators seized the arms and immediately began firing at the unarmed guards, the sources said. Out of respect for the holy site, armed Saudi troops usually keep away from the vicinity.

The Japanese Embassy in Riyadh said about 10 persons had been killed.

A Kuwait newspaper, Al Rai Al aam, said Saudi sources in Tunisia told it that one of the dead was "a former official personality" who tried to convince them to leave.

The Saudi news agency, quoting an Interior Ministry statement, called the invaders "religious deviators." It said they joined a crowd of Kuwaiti pilgrims for dawn prayers, "then presented one of their ranks to be the 'awaited Mahdi' and demanded at gunpoint that those present recognize him as such."

Sunni Moslems, the majority Islamic sect, believe the Mahdi, or restorer of the faith, will make a messianic appearance at the end of time to establish universal Islam. The Shiites, who number less than 15 percent of Islam, believe he will be a former caliph who will return at the end of this world to take control of Islam.

Khomeini, supreme leader of Iran's Shiites since his successful revolution against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, has been criticized by Saudi leaders and other moderate Moslems for in-

Pakistani army rescues 100 Americans at embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pakistani army units rescued about 100 Americans from the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad today, evacuating them to the British Embassy, State Department officials said.

The Americans saved in the dramatic roof-top rescue were evacuated to the British Embassy.

A Marine guard stationed at the U.S. embassy in Islamabad was killed in the initial melee, department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

Pakistani authorities cooperated with American officials throughout the crisis, he said.

Parts of the embassy building were set afire by the mob, but the unidentified Marine was the only known American casualty, said another State Department spokesman, Thomas Reston.

"They are getting them out through the roof," Reston said of the army rescue of the Americans.

There was no immediate word on whether all the trapped Americans, possibly 100, were rescued by the military units.

Earlier in the siege, Carter said the Americans were reported trapped inside a third floor vault in the embassey by the mobs.

Other Pakistani mobs burned the American centers in Lahore and Rawalpindi, he said.

The vault on the third floor was described as a large room, with a steel reinforced door. It has an escape hatch to the roof, but Carter said some of the mob may be on top of the building.

Carter said the embassy attacks apparently were sparked by an ambiguous report from Saudi Arabia suggesting that non-Moslems were involved in a takeover of a holy mosque in Mecca.

Unlike the siege at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, which had the support of the Iranian government, the attack on the Islamabad embassy is unauthorized by Pakistani authorities, he said.

After the incident at Mecca, Carter said, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance ordered a message sent to all embassies to take additional precautions. Carter said a second, and urgent, message followed it.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the president had no plans to return to the White House from his mountain-top retreat, where he plans to

Five nominated for C-C posts

COLORADO CITY — Five Colorado City citizens have been nominated as directors of the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce. They will be filling the vacancies opening up in January.

The nominees are Joe L. Kirschbaum, Carl Beery Moore, Betty Williams, Dr. Richard Schaffer and Van Mills.

Kirschbaum is the owner of Kirschbaum Clothiers in Colorado City and is a 1971 graduate of Colorado High School.

Moore is employed at Kiker-Seale Funeral Home and has been a resident of Colorado City since 1973.

Williams is the owner and manager of the Little Critters Shop and serves as Southwestern Bell Agent. She has been a resident of the city for 20 years.

Dr. Schaffer, a resident of Colorado City since 1977 and is one of two partners in the Chiropractic Health Clinic.

Mills has been a resident for the past five years. He is district conservationist in charge of the Colorado City Soil Conservation Service Field Office.

Sand Springs man injured

Carlos Hernandez, Sand Springs, received a cut to the hand at his home Sunday night.

He told Big Spring Police intruders had entered his home. The police dispatcher contacted the sheriff's office and a deputy was sent to the house.

When the deputy arrived Hernandez was holding a towel around a knife wound on his thumb. Hernandez explained that two men had come into his home and argued with him. The argument resulted in the knife wound.

Cambodia move helped president

In view of what has been happening to Jimmy Carter lately, it's a wonder he could be talked into offering for the presidency again.

The economy is a whole new ball game every day. Inflation is running rampant. The Iranians, or more particularly the firebrands who pose as students, capture the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and threaten to "eliminate" those Americans who have been left behind to work on behalf of American interests in the middle eastern nation.

CARTER'S ADMINISTRATION did much to improve its image recently, however, when it announced it is initiating a major relief effort to get food to starving millions in Cambodia. The food will be supplied, that is, if the Cambodian government gives its blessing to the plan.

For a while, it appeared the U.S. government might tarry too long on the matter; but the worldwide outcry seems to have motivated Carter and his camp. The fact that Sen. Edward Kennedy, who later was to announce that he wanted Carter's job, came out solidly for the food shipment, no doubt, helped Carter make up his mind.

Carter called in reporters to announce that the United States would provide $60 million in aid to Cambodia. "We must act swiftly," the president said, "to save the men, women and children who are our brothers and sisters in God's family."

Most all Americans are in agreement with Mr. Carter. Already, it is estimated that almost half of Cambodia's former population of 8 million succumbed during the past decade — victims of savagery on the part of the guerrillas who work on behalf of the party in power, bombings, political unrest and — during the Pol Pot inglorious period — auto-genocide. If the civilized nations of the world do not act in concert to rescue Cambodia from the famine which has been brought on by these years of turbulence and tragedy, we could see an entire nation vanish from the earth — much as did the Incas centuries ago.

THERE ARE still some obstacles to the aid effort: The Vietnamese aid agencies coordinating the rescue attempt have insisted that all arrangements under which food might get through to forces still loyal to the ousted Pol Pot regime, fearing that the holdouts might gain a new lease on life through such sustenance.

Quite correctly, however, the aid agencies coordinating the rescue effort have insisted that all Cambodians must benefit from international assistance. The dead are beyond help. The living need it in a hurry.

"A Trip That Wasn't Meant To Be," or "Let's Make Sure They Don't Have A Good Time" is what the disastrous escapade taken by me and two other dummies, my brother Mike Rogers and my friend, Bertina DeLeon, could have been entitled.

The only thing that didn't go wrong that could have been the Texas Stadium roof caving in and missing everyone but us three. (I wonder what went wrong. Surely that was supposed to happen, too.)

other and this sure didn't help our relationship any. Nonetheless, we turned around and headed back to Big Spring to get the tickets and start the drive all over again.

I think it was on the east side of Abilene when Bertina and I were finally speaking to Mike again.

Our main concern was getting to the stadium in time to hang up our Goliath sign. We wanted to be there at least by 6:30 p.m. and definitely no later than 7 p.m.

NOW I LOVE the Dallas Cowboys. That's no secret. But making a 6 1/2-hour trip to Irving (I'll explain why it took so long in a minute), parking at least five miles from Texas Stadium only minutes before the game started, watching a hap-hazard football game and then driving straight back to Big Spring is a little too much to ask. Not even the Dallas Cowboys are worth that.

Why did it take us 6 1/2 hours to drive what normally only takes about 5? I'm getting to that.

Bertina and I worked from 8 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., Monday while my brother used his artistic ability making a sign to hang up around Texas Stadium. (And I do mean a-r-o-u-n-d Texas Stadium. The thing was so big we could have wrapped it around twice and still had 20 feet left over. But we wanted everyone in Big Spring to know we were there.)

Finally, at 1:36 p.m., we were on the road to see the Cowboys stomp the Eagles (ha, ha, ha.)

It was only several moments later that the hex that had obviously been put on us began to take effect. If it hadn't been for Bertina casually asking Mike if he had the tickets, we would have ended up in Irving, minus three necessary tickets.

We had just passed a sign — COLORADO CITY, 5 miles.

Now my brother and I aren't known for how well we get along with each

AFTER GETTING LOST several times, bumping into a car and being turned down by two different parking lot attendants just because we didn't have a blue or red coupon, it was almost 7:45 p.m. Scratch the sign.

I've been to two other Dallas games prior to the Monday night game, and never, ever did we have to park as far away as we did this time.

As about 1,000 plus late arrivals like ourselves traipsed toward the distant stadium, we looked like hordes of Jews being led from Egypt to the Promise Land by Moses.

Most of you probably saw the humiliating football game, so I won't rehash the details all Dallas Cowboy fans hope to forget, but wouldn't you know, we had to sit right next to half of the Philadelphia population. It was unbearable.

It wasn't until after the game — after Bertina and I lost Mike, walked to the car in hopes of finding Mike, arriving at the car and not finding Mike — that I realized what we had gotten ourselves into. We still had a five-hour drive (if nothing else went wrong) ahead of us.

While Mike slept in the back seat, Bertina and I took turns driving, both having to slap each other in the face every now and then to stay awake.

We finally hit Big Spring at 6 a.m. Bertina had to be at work at 8 a.m.

Never, never, never again. Not even for Roger Staubach and the Dallas Cowboys. (Until next year.)

The grim reality

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Andrew Tobias is one of the half-dozen most lucid and expressive writers in the trade, expert among other things at handling economic analysis which, in other hands, comes out abstruse and forbidding. In the current issue of Esquire Magazine, Tobias talks to us about energy, and in four pages tells us more than every president or presidential candidate or energy czar has told us in six years of nagging over the question.

Here are the vital statistics: In 1972, our oil imports cost us less than $5 billion.

In 1979, our oil imports will cost us $65 billion.

That comes to $295 per person, or $1,180 for a family of four.

IF WE PAID out all the gold in Fort Knox ($44 billion) we wouldn't make a single year's payment to OPEC.

We could pay OPEC, for one year's supply of oil at the rate we consume it, 32.5 million acres of $2,000-an-acre farmland — approximately the entire state of Iowa; thereafter, everyone farming in Iowa would be an employee of OPEC.

The following year, we could give them Wisconsin.

The year after that, we could give them our entire steel industry, plus Sears and A&P (except that A&P is mostly owned by the Germans).

The year after that, we could give them IBM, RCA, General Motors, plus the copyrights to all our motion pictures.

Had enough? Yet that exactly is where we are headed.

Of course, if the U.S. were to become much more productive, that would make a difference. How're we doing?

During the second quarter of 1979, productivity in the U.S. suffered its sharpest drop in more than five years. The Japanese save 25 percent of their disposable income. We save 5 percent.

The total government, personal and corporate debt in the United States rose from $1.6 trillion in 1970 to over $4 trillion today. In other words, in order to maintain our standard of living, we didn't produce more, we simply borrowed.

IN 1925, THE average American spent 60 percent of all the days of his life working. Today (we start working at an older age, retire earlier, live longer, work fewer hours per week) the average American spends 40 percent of all the days of his life working.

Well, can we, as the saying goes, do anything about it?

Yes. Tobias recommends that beginning immediately, we set out to tax gasoline $1 more per gallon, in yearly increments of 25 cents.

The average car on the road in America gets 14 miles to the gallon. The objective would be to double the efficiency of our fleet. Congress has mandated that by 1985 cars produced average 27.5 miles per gallon, but that would still mean that the average of 'all the cars on the road would get much less. Too little, and too late, for those who love Iowa, Wisconsin, GM, IBM, gold, steel and Sears.

If we doubled the range of a gallon of gas (by driving smaller, less spunky cars), we would not need to drive less. Nor would the cost of driving, if we paid $2 per gallon (less than the Europeans pay) come out to less per mile. At 85 cents and 14 miles to the gallon today, it costs 6 cents to drive one mile. At $2 and 28 miles per gallon (some cars get 40 miles to the gallon) it would cost 7 cents.

Hepatitis comes in three 'sizes'

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: With the news reports of a recent severe outbreak of hepatitis, I think now would be a good time to devote one of your columns to a discussion of this disease — the types, treatments, etc. — Mrs. S.S.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a girl of 22 who had an attack of hepatitis that damaged my liver. I was in the hospital for a week and isolated. Can you give me some advice on diet and rules to follow to stay healthy? — Miss M.O.

Yes, this is my field — infectious diseases.

Hepatitis is inflammation of the liver. The disease can be caused by a variety of agents — viruses, poisons and alcohol, to list a few.

Most is due to viruses, though, so let's limit our discussion to that. There are three varieties of virus-caused hepatitis. We'll have to take them one by one.

The first, infectious hepatitis (hepatitis A) is most often transmitted by infected feces, usually by way of water that has been contaminated. This kind takes two weeks to a month to develop. It is less serious than the other kinds of hepatitis.

The second kind is serum hepatitis (hepatitis B). Today, it is most often a disease of drug addicts who have used contaminated needles. The incubation period is much longer (from two to six months). It can cause serious liver problems.

The third form is simply referred to as "hepatitis, not A, not B." It behaves much like serum hepatitis (the needle kind) and can appear after a blood transfusion.

There is no special treatment for any active infection itself.

After one is exposed to infectious hepatitis (the first kind) gamma globulin is given to help prevent or lessen the effects. The person with this kind is generally not capable of transmitting it after jaundice (yellowing) has appeared.

If one gets serum hepatitis (hepatitis B), a special gamma globulin helps protect those exposed to the infected person's blood. The third form of hepatitis (not A, not B) has no preventative treatment.

With hepatitis the diet should be basically nutritional; no restrictions unless there has been severe liver damage. The doctor should advise about this. Vitamin supplements are often given. Alcohol has to be strictly avoided.

See what you get when you step into someone's special field? Long answers.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What would cause a woman to bleed late in pregnancy? — M.R.

From 5 to 10 percent of women do bleed late in pregnancy, and women who have had previous pregnancies seem more prone than others. In the great majority of cases the women stop the hemorrhaging after a few days of bedrest. However, the cause of the bleeding has to be determined promptly to rule out serious problems of the placenta. One of the more serious causes of bleeding late in pregnancy is premature separation of the placenta from the uterus. Bleeding anytime during pregnancy should be reported.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have two questions. When having a spinal tap do they put fluid back in the spine at the same time? When the doctor draws fluid from the spine for the test does he replace it afterward? — J.G.

Seems to me I just discussed spinal taps recently. But anyway, when a spinal tap (or lumbar puncture) is

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am in prison for killing a man. I pray every day for God to forgive me, but how can I know that He will? — J.L.

DEAR J.L.: Yes, you can know that God will forgive you in spite of the fact you have committed such a serious crime. It may seem difficult for you to accept it, but the Bible tells us that God loves you and wants to forgive you.

How can you know for sure that God will forgive you? You can know it by understanding what Jesus Christ did for you on the cross of Calvary. You stand guilty before God — not only for this crime but for all the other sins you have ever committed. You deserve God's judgment for your sins because you have broken His law. But Jesus Christ died on the cross to take away your sins. He was your substitute — He died in your place. The Bible says that Jesus, the perfect and sinless Son of God, endured the punishment that you deserved. Why did He do that? He did it so you could be forgiven of your done for diagnosis, only a small amount of fluid is withdrawn, a little more than a teaspoonful. There is about three quarters of a pint of the fluid present.

Since such a small proportion is withdrawn for the test it need not be replaced because it is constantly being produced anyway.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am only 10 years old. My breasts are developing. My nipples are soft. I think they are quite big, about the size of quarters. Could it be breast cancer? I'm afraid to go to the doctor, no matter what you say. But please tell me if a 10-year-old girl could get breast cancer. I am Oriental, if that helps. — S.H.H.

What you describe is common. It is not a sign of breast cancer, which is quite rare in young girls like you. You should not be afraid of doctors. Some of my best friends are doctors. Your being Oriental has nothing to do with the matter.

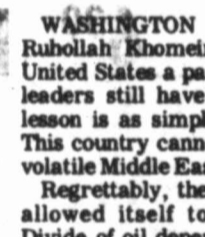

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

sins. "We all, like sheep, have gone astray, each of us has turned to his own way; and the Lord has laid on him the iniquity of us all" (Isaiah 53:6).

What must you do? How can you know God's forgiveness? All you have to do is turn to Jesus Christ in faith and trust, and accept by faith the fact that He died for you and took away your sins. Salvation and forgiveness are gifts of God — but like any gift, they must be accepted. The Bible says, "To all who received him, to those who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God" (John 1:12). By a simple prayer of faith you can confess your sins to God and receive Christ into your life.

If you do that, you have the promise of God that you are forgiven. God has promised us, "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9). This is true for every person who turns to Christ in repentance and trust.

WASHINGTON — The Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has offered the United States a painful lesson that its leaders still have not grasped. The lesson is as simple as it is obvious: This country cannot depend upon the volatile Middle East for oil.

Regrettably, the United States has allowed itself to cross the Great Divide of oil dependence and to slide into a reliance on Arab oil. Until a year ago, this dependence seemed safe enough; the two biggest exporters were Saudi Arabia and Iran, both solid American friends.

BUT IN IRAN, THE shah's pretensions became more grandiose and his appetite more ravenous until his people chased him out of the country. They brought in the Ayatollah Khomeini who inflamed the nation with attacks against the United States.

There followed a wild year of jolting confrontations, fanatical decrees and fantastic chaos. Khomeini would not be appeased by Jimmy Carter's soothing and capitulations; the ayatollah continued to heap indignities upon the United States until even the patient Carter would take it no longer. Now Iran has been eliminated as a source of petroleum.

Saudi Arabia continues to funnel oil to the United States, and Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani practices his empathetic art of picking our pockets while lamenting that it must be done and scolding us gently for the follies which force him to do it.

But the wary Saudis realize that their strength is not rooted in real power, that their country's vast oil wealth is mismatched to a small, backward population and that the imbalance makes their kingdom an incalculable booty, undefended except by the mosaic of bribery and manipulation that has long characterized their foreign policy.

THE SAUDIS HAVE also lost confidence in Carter, who abandoned the shah when he got into trouble and sent Saudi Arabia a dozen unarmed F-15 fighter planes to counter a Soviet-supported, Cuban-led assault upon the toe of the Arabian peninsula.

Vital Saudi interests are also antithetical to those of the United States — for one, the price and control of oil; for another, the U.S. identification with Israel, a rallying cry for Arab radicals. The ruling family also fears the creeping Western influence that is eroding valued traditions and stabilities. So Saudi Arabia, at best, is an uncertain oil source.

This impels us to offer 10 urgent proposals to reduce our dependence on Mideast oil. We have carefully sifted out the most promising ideas from the placebos and the pipe dreams:

1. First, the government must break off its love affair with the oil industry. For half a century, the Washington establishment has catered to the oil interests. They have been granted tax breaks, drilling rights and overseas concessions worth uncounted millions. In return, they have left a record of malfeasance and profiteering, of collaboration with the OPEC cartel's refusal to develop substitute sources of energy.

2. The oil savings should be purged from the Washington energy councils where they occupy influential policy-making positions. For they are committed to maintaining the oil industry's enormous profits from the Middle East, not to reducing the American addiction to Arab oil.

3. Every American must cut his consumption of oil by purchasing fuel-efficient cars, driving them less, insulating his home and turning off unnecessary lights and appliances.

4. The government must also use every possible leverage to pressure the auto manufacturers into making dramatic gains in engine efficiency. The $1.5 billion taxpayer loan to the Chrysler Corporation should be released for the manufacture only of gas-sipping automobiles.

5. It will also take reform of the regulatory obstacle course to get the most out of our available petroleum stocks. Congress should wipe off the books all laws and regulations which cause extra, unnecessary fuel consumption.

6. The White House and Congress must tackle the energy problem head-on. They have already wasted five crucial years following a policy of delay and demagoguery fearful of inconveniencing the public. The failure of three presidents and four Congresses to achieve any appreciable results has brought a dangerous decline to both leadership and fellowship in American political institutions.

7. The time has come for concerned Americans to wait no longer to be led. They should impress upon Congress by letter and telegram that they want action.

8. President Carter should plunge boldly ahead with a crash program to develop substitute fuels. His request for $8 billion for the creation of synthetic fuels from coal and shale is too slapdash. It could be a massive mistake to pour too many billions into coal gasification and shale oil until the problems are resolved.

9. The money would be better spent building alcohol fuel refineries. These can be started at once, without further research and development. Some funds should also be allocated, of course, for studying solar energy, oil-bearing vegetation, sand tars and other potential energy sources.

10. It is important to bar oil men from participating in rival fuel development. They cannot be depended upon to make competitive fuels available until they have squeezed every last dollar out of every last drop of oil.

Oil has become too vital to our national survival and too dangerous a drain on our economy to entrust its purchase and distribution to the oil companies. By their reckless greed, the companies have forfeited the right to stand between the American people and the oil-selling nations. The full authority and power of the U.S. government is needed to deal with the OPEC cartel. We, therefore, call for government-to-government rather than oil company-to-government negotiations.

Moslems burn embassy in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Moslem mobs "shouting kill the American dogs!" burned the U.S. Embassy here today and other throngs set fire to U.S. Information Centers in two other cities. Gunfire broke out at the embassy and reports said one demonstrator was killed and at least 37 persons, including two Americans, were wounded.

Department said a U.S. Marine was killed in the attack in Islamabad and 100 Americans trapped in a third-floor vault during the siege were rescued from the roof and taken to the British Embassy.

The violence was touched off by the seizure Tuesday of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, site of Islam's holiest shrine. Although the armed band which took over the mosque was reported to belong to a Moslem sect linked to anti-American Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Shiite Moslems, the Pakistani mobs blamed the United States.

Hospital sources said police fired into the crowd at the embassy, killing the demonstrator and wounding others.

But eyewitnesses said the attackers were sound by embassy guards. According to the witnesses, some of the Moslems then seized rifles from government troops and forced their way into the compound, firing. Others set fire to the compound's main building and nearby cars before troops dispersed them.

Firemen then battled the fire. Authorities said Americans were being guarded by troops in the embassy compound, but they would not allow reporters to talk to them.

Rawalpindi set fire to the British Council Library and ransacked an American Express office.

"Down with the American dogs" and "Kill the American dogs," the attacking mob shouted. Huge clouds of dark smoke poured up from the parking lot.

A report received by diplomatic sources in New Delhi, the Indian capital, said gunfire was heard after the youths invaded the compound, but this could not be confirmed.

The State Department said "a few Marines" were the only American military personnel at the embassy. Pakistani military forces sent to the scene included two jeeps and a truckload of soldiers armed with light machine guns and other weapons.

Pakistan has been governed since July 1977 by Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, who ousted the late Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto and established martial law.

While Zia initially promised to restore democracy to Pakistan, he announced Oct. 21 that he would establish instead "a genuine Islamic order," adding that "in Islam there is no provision for Western-type elections."

Pakistan and the United States at one time were close military allies, but recently there has been considerable friction between the two governments because of U.S. opposition to Pakistani nuclear programs which would make possible the production of nuclear bombs.

CARTER DEPICTED AS A DEVIL — A banner showing President Jimmy Carter as a "devil" is hoisted by the crowds of an estimated million plus as they converge on the United States Embassy in Tehran Wednesday during an anti-U.S. demonstration together with celebrations for the first day of a new Islamic Century and first year of the revolution that toppled the Shah and put Khomeini into power.

An AP reporter at the scene said black smoke poured from the gutted structure while groups of youths roamed around, pulling down antennas from a building in the embassy compound.

The Information Centers in Rawalpindi, near Islamabad, and in Lahore, 180 miles to the south, were set ablaze. Other mobs in

U.S. doubles aircraft carrier power to Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is doubling its aircraft carrier striking power in waters leading to Iran to underscore President Carter's demand that the American hostages being held in Tehran be set free unharmed.

Carter's order Tuesday sending the 81,000-ton carrier Kitty Hawk and its 85 planes from the Philippines to the Indian Ocean was the first overt U.S. military action since seizure of the U.S. Embassy and 62 Americans 17 days ago. Forty-nine hostages remain.

It implies a warning that Iran risks possible punishment if the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini tries the Americans as spies — something he said he will do if the United States does not return the deposed shah to Iran.

Sailing orders to the Kitty Hawk and about five escorting warships were disclosed after Carter interrupted a Camp David, Md., rest for a council at the White House with top advisers, including Defense Secretary Harold Brown and Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

It will take several days for the Kitty Hawk task force to reach the Indian Ocean, allowing time for the Iranians to ponder the potential risks of continuing to hold the Americans and perhaps putting them on trial.

The United States already has a task force headed by the 64,000-ton carrier Midway in the Arabian Sea, about 600 miles from the mouth of the Persian Gulf. The Midway can send aloft 52 warplanes, including A-7 and A-6 bombers.

While the administration is keeping its intentions secret, military sources note that aircraft carriers would not normally serve as instruments for rescuing hostages being held 400 miles inland, as is the case in Iran.

But if ordered to do so, carrier-based bombers could strike at targets such as oil field installations.

Military planners have strongly discounted the practicality of an armed rescue mission to save the American hostages at the U.S. Embassy, which lies in the midst of a hostile city.

These military staff officers, speaking privately, have said the hostages likely would be killed by their captives before they could be rescued and that any U.S. force trying to reach them by helicopter likely would suffer heavy casualties.

Carter implies military force may be necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is implying that military force could be used against Iran, whose leaders are threatening to prosecute 49 remaining American hostages for spying.

As the president took the tough new line in the 2½-week-old crisis, the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk and five escort ships were ordered to team from the Philippines to the Indian Ocean.

The carrier Midway and five other ships already were operating about 600 miles from the mouth of the Persian Gulf.

There was no indication that any strike against Iran had been ordered. The administration said it still seeks a peaceful resolution of the crisis, but warned Iran of "the gravity of the situation it has created."

Administration officials were striving today to get 13 released hostages returned to the United States in time to be reunited with their families for Thanksgiving, but it was unclear whether medical tests could be completed quickly enough to allow this.

The 49 other Americans who remain hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran face a new threat of being tried and possibly sentenced to death.

Iran's revolutionary leader, the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said in a broadcast Tuesday that they will be tried unless the shah is returned. He called the embassy "a nest of spies."

Other Iranian officials said conviction could carry death penalties for the Americans. An Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman, Abolhassan Sadegh, said, however, that Khomeini could pardon anyone convicted.

Carter quickly convened a National Security Council meeting at the White House, flying there by helicopter from Camp David, where he was spending the week.

During the nearly two-hour meeting, Carter personally approved the wording of a White House statement that shed the administration's policy of precluding any use of military force.

The statement reiterated that a trial of diplomatic personnel would be "a flagrant violation of international law" and added: "The government of Iran would bear full responsibility for any ensuing consequences."

"The United States is seeking a peaceful solution to this problem through the U.N. and every other available channel. This is far preferable to the other remedies available to the United States."

"Such remedies are explicitly recognized in the charter of the United Nations. The government of Iran must recognize the gravity of the situation it has created."

Because the U.N. charter gives member nations the right of defensive military operations, the statement was taken as a clear warning to Iran that the United States is now prepared to use American military forces if necessary.

The charter also provides for economic sanctions and joint U.N. military action, but it was understood that the White House statement was intended mainly as a signal that the administration now is considering the use of force.

Since the Nov. 4 embassy seizure, presidential press secretary Jody Powell had consistently said force was not among the choices being considered by the president. But Tuesday, asked whether military action had become a possibility, he said the new statement "speaks for itself."

Powell said no military alert had been ordered, but he and Pentagon officials declined to comment officially on what other actions might be taken.

Pentagon sources continued to rule out, on grounds of sheer difficulty, any military operation aimed at rescuing the embassy hostages.

U.S. corporation profits rebound

WASHINGTON (AP) — Profits of U.S. corporations rebounded in the third quarter while the nation's overall economy proved even more resistant to recession than first believed, the government says.

However, government economists said Tuesday the much anticipated recession still is on the horizon.

And they cited blemishes in the corporate profit picture that could portend reduced incentives for businesses to invest and for people to buy stock.

The Commerce Department reported that corporate after-tax profits in July, August and September increased from the second quarter at an annual rate of 6.2 percent. They had declined about 2 percent in the previous quarter.

The department also said the gross national product, after being adjusted for inflation, increased at an annual rate of 3.5 percent last quarter, rather than 2.4 percent as originally estimated.

That easily offset a 2.3 percent decline in the second quarter. The GNP — the total output of goods and services — was at an annual rate of $1,434.4 billion in the last quarter compared with $1,422.3 billion in the second quarter, the department said. Both figures are adjusted for inflation to give an accurate comparison in actual growth.

"The upward revision will delay the advent of the recession to some extent," said Commerce Department economist William Cox. "But it's still a bounce back from the second quarter's depressed level." That second quarter decline caused many economists to say the nation had entered a recession. Many economists believe the GNP will fall during this quarter due largely to rising oil prices, the eroding income of Americans and tight-money policies that have pushed interest rates skyward.

The 6.2 percent increase in after-tax corporate profits was calculated on raw figures that went from an annual rate of $139.3 billion to $147.9 billion, the Commerce Department said. Before-tax profits in July, August and September increased from $227.9 billion to $242.5 billion, a 6.4 percent rise.

A large portion of the increase was due to sharply higher overseas profits by U.S. oil companies and banks, the Commerce Department said.

However, U.S. automakers suffered large earnings losses in the third quarter, said Kenneth E. Petrick, a Commerce Department economist. Many other companies that produce long-lasting consumer items also recorded a decline in profits, he said.

VICTORY KISS — Margie McConn kisses husband, Mayor Jim McConn, of Houston. The kiss came as Mayor and Mrs. McConn greeted well-wishers at the Sheraton Houston Hotel while waiting for election returns. The mood was festive, as the incumbent, McConn, took the lead in Tuesday's runoff election against challenger Louis Macey.

Houston run-off Incumbent mayor defeats challenger

HOUSTON (AP)—Mayor Jim McConn withstood a bitter verbal attack from one of his chief critics, City Councilman Louis Macey, to win a second, two-year term and will preside over a council containing the first woman and first Hispanic in Houston's history.

McConn did what he had to do in this nonpartisan runoff: keep his support solid in the white middle-income precincts and pickup a giant share of the voters in the black and Hispanic sections.

In some black areas, McConn won as much as 80 percent of the vote.

Macey drew most of his strength from the affluent and Republican strongholds.

Although there were no party designations in the election, Macey had the backing of most GOP voters, while McConn was the choice in the Democratic precincts.

With 346 of 355 precincts reporting the vote was: McConn 87,033, Macey 68,653.

Although the mayor's race, with its sharp exchanges between the two candidates, took the spotlight, the runoff changed the face of the Houston City Council.

Two women won council seats. Never before had a woman served on the governing body of this, the nation's fifth largest city.

Eleanor Tinsley, former president of the Houston School Board, stunned incumbent Frank E. Mann, a 20-year veteran, by some 13,000 votes.

Christin Hartung, a 38-year-old former county judge's aide, defeated insurance executive, Don Hogan, 37.

The face-lifting actually began in the Nov. 6 general election.

State Rep. Ben Reyes became the first Hispanic to serve on the council and the black representation rose from one to three.

One other incumbent, Johnny Goyen, easily won re-election Tuesday.

About 25 percent of the 666,000 registered voters marked ballots.

McConn said of the outcome, "This was a smashing victory that indicates the confidence in the McConn administration. I am looking forward to working with the new council."

Macey said he would not concede "until the last vote is counted. But, if I lose, I will worry about it for about 15 minutes, go to sleep, and get up and start planning a campaign for two years from now."

"We had projected a larger percentage of the minority vote than we got. But we ran a fantastic race with a limited amount of resources."

In the runoff campaign, McConn was endorsed by the three black and one Hispanic councilmen-elect.

This apparently turned most of the vote received by Leonel Castillo in the first election into the McConn camp.

Castillo, former city controller who resigned recently as commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, received 23.6 percent of the vote Nov. 6.

Macey accused McConn of foot-dragging on the big problems facing Houston—a rising crime rate, poor city services, pot hole-marked streets, and a sluggish mass transit system.

McConn said progress had been made in the past two years and more would be made if he was given the time.

Macey also charged McConn with trying to tag him as "antiblack."

The change in the council came after the Justice Department ruled the city in violation of the Voting rights Act because recently annexed areas were diluting minority voting strength.

Houston residents then voted in August to enlarge the council from eight to 14 members, with nine elected on a single district basis and five at-large. Previously there were eight council members, all elected at-large.

Howard College hosting Sul Ross

The Howard College Hawks, fresh from winning both of their games in the Odessa College Tournament over the weekend, return home tonight to play host to Sul Ross University Lobos in an 8:00 p.m. affair in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Hawks won their opener in the OC Tourney by taking a come-from-behind 96-97 win over Ranger in overtime on two free throws by Rocky Rawls with two seconds remaining.

Howard College then defeated the Angelo State JVs by a score of 108-75 in their other game. Ron Atkins led the Hawks in scoring with 30 points, while Jeff Fabuion contributed 19.

The Hawks carry a 3-1 record into tonight's game. Coach Harold Wilder feels that his team is improving, stating: "The Odessa Tourney was beneficial to us. We had one close game in which we really had to have a great rally to win and another game in which everybody got to play."

Grady's Chee earns All-District honors

Grady's Ronald Chee was Wildcat's sole representative on the District 3-B (Six-man) All-District football team announced this week.

District champion Cotton Center had six representatives of the 14 honored. District runner-up placed three, while Grady had two spots, both filled by Chee, Three-Way and Loop one.

Chee was honored as the All-District quarterback and as a linebacker. The 140-pound senior, who a second team All-State selection last year as a linebacker, was again the leading tackler on the Grady team, as well as rushing for over 1,000 yards.

Chee was also honored as one of the district's four representatives to be named to play in the Texas High School Six-Man Football Coaches Association football game, to be held in July in Stephenville. Others from District 3-B (Six-man) to play in the All-Star game included Cotton Center's Jimmy Sageser and Raul Garibay, and Three-Way's James Simpson.

Forsan sweeps Roscoe

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes basketball teams' swept three games from Roscoe in the season openers for both schools.

Forsan took the boys varsity contest by a score of 41-35. Dale Earnest was instrumental in the Buffs win, snaring 22 rebounds. Vance Stevens led the Forsan scoring charge with 13 points, while Weldon Nichols chipped in with 10 and Earnest added nine.

Forsan erupted after leading at halftime by 19-15 to win the girls game by a lopsided score of 49-23.

Valerie Stevens was the high point female with 14, followed by Julie Poyner, who tallied 13. Davidson and Piper had nine to pace Roscoe.

The Forsan junior varsity girls started out the successful Buffalo night by taking a 30-27 win. Teresa White paced the Baby Buffs with eight points, while Starlet Tumbleby paced the Roscoe junior varsity with 15.

BSHS swimmers split matches with Odessa

Big Spring and Odessa High split in a swimming meet held in the local YMCA Tuesday afternoon. Big Spring won the girls competition, while the Odessa boys edged out the Steers.

The Big Spring fems outpointed their foes by a point total of 51-21.

Tonda Batchelor led the Big Spring girls, winning both the 100-backstroke and 200-freestyle. Others capturing first places for Big Spring included Kathryn Martin, Paula Willadson and others. The Big Spring girls used a victory in the 400-freestyle relay to finalize their triumph.

Snyder outpointed the Big Spring boys by a 46-33 count to win their competition. Big Spring won the 200-medley relay, but the Odessa team had too much in the individual events for the Steer swimmers.

Morgan Wise and Todd Lloyd had the only first place finishes for Big Spring in the boys competition. Wise won the 100-backstroke, while Lloyd won the 100-breaststroke.

Klondike whips Bearkats

GARDEN CITY — Klondike turned back Garden City, 52-44, in a girls' basketball game here Tuesday evening.

In preliminary action, Klondike measured the home team, 42-24.

The resident Bearkats, who now have a 1-2 record, will help host the annual Garden City Tournament here, starting a week from Thursday.

Dani Cave led the Klondike A Team with 30 points. Nancy Batla tallied 14 for Garden City.

In the B game, Charlotte Halfmann paced Garden City with eight points while Stacy Mitchell scored 11 and Amber Echols ten for Klondike.

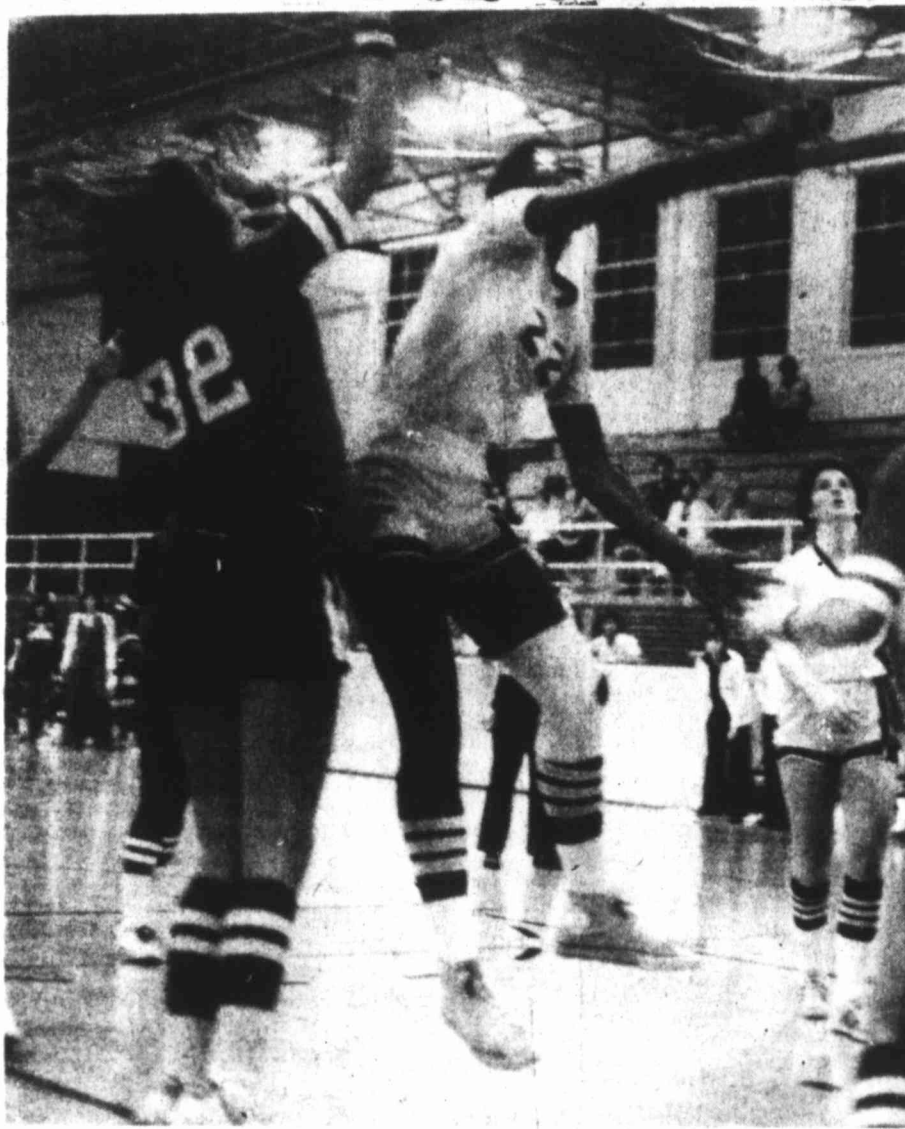

GARDEN CITY (44) — Nancy Batla 7-0-14; Fran Halfmann 5-0-10; Dorothy Schwartz 1-2-5; Kim Hill 4-4-12; Anita Jense 3-0-4; Totals 19-8-44.

BANKS BLOCKS SHOT — Big Spring's Pam Banks (22) blocks a shot by Brownfield's Becky Holladay (32) during fourth quarter action of Brownfield's exciting 31-30 win over the Steers girls basketball team in action here Tuesday night.

Brownfield edges Steer fems

The Brownfield Cub girls basketball team used a late field goal attempt on their third trip down the court, and Brownfield then held out the ball and ran out the clock without the Steer fems fouling them to stop the clock.

Holladay, a sophomore, had 18 points to lead all scorers in the contest. Big Spring was led by Pam Banks, who had 10 points. Candy Walker chipped in with eight for the Steer fems.

For first win of the year

Steers rally past Pecos

PECOS — The Big Spring Steers boys basketball team used a second half press effectively in rallying from an eight-point third stanza deficit to take their first win of the year, a 64-54 win over the Pecos Eagles here last night.

The win was the first for new Steer Coach Ed Haller, as the Big Spring team, evened its record at 1-1 for the season. The Steers return to action on Friday at 11:00 a.m. against Lamesa in the Sweetwater Tournament.

Pecos held a 32-28 halftime lead, and increased that margin to eight points early in the third stanza. But Big Spring continued to rally, finally taking a three-point lead into the final stanza.

Big Spring's press in the second half, coupled with the outstanding offensive performance by junior James Doss, proved to be too much for the Eagles. Doss led the Steers in scoring with 16 points from his guard position, with Cesar Espinosa chipping in with 10. Pecos was led in scoring by Warren Walker with 14.

Coach Haller was very happy with the initial win for the Bovines, stating: "We did an excellent job with the press in the second half. We made numerous mistakes in the game, but tremendous effort by the entire team overcame that."

Haller was also enthused with the defensive play of the Steers throughout the game. "I can't really single out anybody for their defense, because everybody played well. It was a total team effort on defense. The addition of Mark Knight and Mike Domino from the football team is also helping," stated Haller.

To take the heat off spotty defense Johnson feels Cowboys offense must click DALLAS (AP) — Wide receiver Butch Johnson ticked off the names, Ed (Too Tall) Jones, Jethro Pugh, Charlie Waters, and Thomas Henderson.

"Let's see, we've lost the strongside of our defense now," said Johnson. "Doomsday Junior, R.I.P."

With Thomas Henderson's sudden departure Monday, the Dallas Cowboys face the distasteful task Thanksgiving Day of trying to stop Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers with a patchwork defense.

"Doomsday has ceased to exist," said Johnson. "It's all on the offense now. We've got to dominate the game, control the ball."

Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said Tuesday that Mike Hegman will start in Henderson's strongside linebacker spot against the Oilers.

He said recently acquired John Dutton could be in Jones' old defensive end post. At left tackle where Pugh used to hold forth, Larry Cole could move in for Dave Stalls.

Of course, Randy Hughes has been bubbling for the injured Waters, out for the season.

"I think our defense can overcome all these problems," said Landry. "We have good backup people. I have a lot of confidence in them."

But Landry didn't have confidence anymore in Henderson who was fired outright rather than demoted.

"I decided he couldn't function (on the bench)," said Landry. "It would have been hard for him to handle a second string role. His ego is such that he needs to start. I definitely thought it would affect the team with him on the sidelines."

Landry told the fifth year player he was going to be put on waivers but the controversial Henderson, who had held the media spotlight at the Super Bowl in January, announced his retirement at an emotional press conference. "Yesterday was a trying day," said Landry at his weekly press conference, "but I believe we'll get things back in the groove."

Houston Coach Bum Phillips was asked on a telephone hookup Tuesday if he wanted Henderson and he replied: "If a guy can't get along one place the chances of him getting along somewhere else are not too good."

Landry said Tuesday that injured defensive right tackle Randy White is "the least likely (player on the team) to play."

Pressed about lineup changes, Landry said fullback Robert Newhouse would start because of an injury to Scott Laidlaw and that recently acquired John Dutton might start at left defensive end with Larry Cole being moved into left tackle.

Rookie Robert Shaw will start at center in place of injured John Fitzgerald.

Don Baylor named AL MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Baylor became the first member of the California Angels to win the American League's Most Valuable Player Award when the outfielder-designated hitter was made an overwhelming choice today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Baylor collected 20 of a possible 28 first-place votes from the special BBWAA committee to win by a runaway margin over outfielder Ken Singleton of the American League champion Baltimore Orioles.

The California slugger, who led the Angels to their first title ever in the AL West with a league-leading 139 RBI, 36 home runs and a .296 batting average, piled up 347 points to 241 for Singleton.

Third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals was given two votes for first place and a 226-point total for the third spot.

Baylor, Singleton and Brett were the only players named on all 28 ballots.

Boston's Jim Rice, last year's MVP, finished fifth in the voting with 124 points, behind teammate Fred Lynn's 160 1/2.

The 30-year-old Baylor's offensive totals also included 33 doubles, three triples and 22 stolen bases. The California slugger, one of the first crop of free agents in 1976, signed with the Angels on Nov. 16 of that year.

Singleton, 32, who had three first-place votes, had a .295 average that included 35 homers and 111 RBI.

Brett had a big year with the Royals, finishing second to Lynn in the AL batting race with a .329 average that included 23 homers and 107 runs batted in.

Mike Flanagan, the Cy Young Award winner from Baltimore, collected the remaining three first-place votes and finished in sixth place with 100 points. He was the only pitcher to finish in the Top 10.

Rounding out the Top 10 in the voting were outfielder Gorman Thomas of the Milwaukee Brewers with 87 points, second baseman Bobby Grich of the Angels with 58, catcher Darrell Porter of the Royals with 52 and infielder Buddy Bell of the Texas Rangers with 48.

The 28 voters on the poll are made up from two sports writers in each AL city.

Peach Bowl sales look juicy

ATLANTA (AP) — The Peach Bowl has gone from "big, outhouse to the penthouse" in ticket sales since last year, when the post-season football game almost went under for lack of sales, bowl officials say.

The bowl's Atlanta office sold out its ticket allotment Monday for the New Year's Eve afternoon match between the Clemson Tigers and the Baylor Bears.

"I've never seen so many people before or gotten so many phone calls. It was a heck of a mess," ticket committee chairman

Tommy Crumbley said Tuesday. "I think ticket demand will far exceed availability of tickets anywhere."

Things were not quite so great last year.

The game was scheduled for Christmas Day, and the tickets. Georgia Tech played Purdue in the 1978 game. "It's like going from the outhouse to the penthouse in one year," executive director George Crumbley said.

About 25,000 tickets already have been sold locally. Fans still may be able to buy tickets from the participating schools, Crumbley said.

Baylor, in Waco, Texas, was allotted 10,000 tickets, and Clemson, in South Carolina, was allotted 25,000 tickets.

Peach Bowl barely made a National Collegiate Athletic Association mandate to sell 24,000 tickets locally. The goal was reached after Janet Rodgers, wife of Georgia Tech Coach Pepper Rodgers, and other coaches' wives persuaded local civic and business groups to buy the

3 NBA coaches reach historic 500 milestone

Jack Ramsay and Gene Shue have joined the exclusive 500-win club in the National Basketball Association.

Red Holzman, already a member, joined an even more exclusive club when his New York Knicks did a number on the Houston Rockets Tuesday night.

Ramsay, the Portland coach, and Shue, of San Diego, each reached the euphoric plateau of 500 NBA victories after the Trail Blazers defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 114-99 and the Clippers stopped the Phoenix Suns 117-110.

Holzman, meanwhile, became only the second coach in NBA history to win 500 games with one team when the Knicks defeated the Rockets 130-125 in overtime.

Red Auerbach, who did it with the Boston Celtics, is the only other NBA coach to win that many games with one team.

The new 500 Club members joined Auerbach, Holzman and Dick Motta in the exclusive group. Elsewhere in the NBA, Philadelphia defeated San Antonio 118-114; Denver stopped Chicago 124-91; Atlanta turned back Detroit 109-105; Cleveland whipped Utah 119-107 and Kansas City edged Golden State 112-109.

Clippers 117, Suns 110
 Guards Brian Taylor, Freeman Williams and Loyd Free combined for 81 points as San Diego defeated Phoenix. Taylor scored a season-high 25 points, Williams had 27 and Free, the NBA's leading scorer, contributed 26 as the Clippers won their third straight game.

Knicks 130, Rockets 125
 Holzman's 500th triumph with the Knicks was fashioned with the help of 25 points from Ray Williams and 24 from Bill Cartwright. The Knicks were losing by as many as 18 points with 8 minutes remaining before making their comeback before their high scorers.

Julius Erving had 26 points and Darryl Dawkins added 24 as Philadelphia fought off a late San Antonio rally to beat the Spurs. The Sixers had led since midway through the third quarter and held a 110-102 margin with 2:13 remaining in the game.

But rookie guard Mike Evans came off the bench to fuel San Antonio's rally, collecting seven points in the final two minutes. A layup by Evans with 34 seconds remaining cut Philadelphia's lead to 112-111. But Dawkins slammed home a dunk shot and Erving hit two key free throws with 10 seconds remaining to ice the game for Philadelphia.

Utah played without Adrian Dantley, the third leading scorer in the NBA with a 28.6 average, who was out with the flu.

The Jazz' Pete Maravich, averaging 18 points a game, has been hampered by back and neck injuries and saw little action, scoring just seven points.

John Drew, whose 24 points led all scorers, put the Hawks in front with an 18-foot jump shot before Tyler tied it again at 105-105 with 1:17 left to play. Less than a minute later, Hill put in his winning shot for Atlanta.

Cavs 109, Pistons 105
 Armond Hill's driving layup with 39 seconds remaining gave Atlanta its victory over Detroit. Down by 12 points early in the fourth quarter, the Pistons charged back to tie the game 103-103 on Terry Tyler's three-point play.

John Drew, whose 24 points led all scorers, put the Hawks in front with an 18-foot jump shot before Tyler tied it again at 105-105 with 1:17 left to play. Less than a minute later, Hill put in his winning shot for Atlanta.

Cavs 109, Jazz 107
 Campy Russell scored 33 points to help Cleveland beat Utah. The loss was a club record 12th straight for the Jazz, now 2-17 this season.

Utah played without Adrian Dantley, the third leading scorer in the NBA with a 28.6 average, who was out with the flu.

Clements assails White

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Protocol was the issue Tuesday as Republican Gov. Bill Clements assailed an unbothered Attorney General Mark White, a Democrat, for overstepping his authority.

In a hotly worded letter distributed by his press secretary, Clements accused White of misrepresenting his authority in regard to oil spills and of "politicizing" the issue of the Campeche Bay runaway oil well.

Attached to it was a copy of a telegram Clements said White sent to various oil companies on Nov. 12. The telegram invites the companies to send representatives to a meeting in White's office Tuesday to discuss what might be done in response to future spills.

White said Clements handed him the letter and read him part of it at the close of a meeting they had Tuesday afternoon on another matter. White described Clements' demeanor as "mercurial," but added, "We left on very kind terms. As I have said before, I intend to get along with all the elected people."

In the telegram, White says he had been "unimpressed with the ability of the existing governmental and commercial structures" to respond to the Mexican oil spill and the collision of a tanker and freighter that has resulted in an ongoing spill fouling beaches around Galveston.

"As I told you in a telephone conversation today, I take strong issue with inferences you made in the attached telegram," Clements told White.

He said the telegram impugns actions taken during the oil spills by agencies ranging from the U.S. Coast Guard to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, as well as the governor's office.

"Your communication inviting attendance at today's meeting amounts to a misrepresentation of your authority, and I hereby urge you to limit your activities to those matters within the purview of your office. I also call upon you once again to quit politicizing the oil spill issue," Clements said.

He said White had refused the governor's request to allow either Clements' general counsel, David Dean, or Frank Cox, state coordinator of disaster emergency services to attend Tuesday's meeting with the oilmen.

This, the governor said, "clearly calls into question your motives and intentions in this matter."

White filed suit recently against SEDCO, Inc., the drilling firm founded by Clements.

Force of 300 to attack oil spill in Galveston

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A force of about 300 persons was expected to attack the thick blanket of oil today that had leaked from the crippled tanker Burmah Agate and stained many areas along the entire length of Galveston Island, the Coast Guard said.

The oil flow from the tanker, which collided with the freighter, Mimosa, Nov. 1, had dropped to a trickle prior to the weekend, but winds began blowing from the south Sunday, covering the beaches with oil that had already escaped.

The pollution-control battle was dealt another setback Tuesday when four explosions rocked the vessel for the first time in more than a week, releasing more oil into the Gulf of Mexico.

"There was one explosion about 5:30 p.m. and three more around 6 p.m.," said Coast Guard spokesman Larry Clark. "There was a slight increase in the fire, but it was hard to tell what effect the explosions had on the vessel because of the fire and smoke."

Clark said there has been no more oil leaking from a crack in the left side of the ship that developed Sunday when the deck of the ship buckled. The fire spread from the right side of the vessel to the left, but went out when the crude stopped leaking on that side.

He said the offshore currents have been almost negligible, so the oil was held

Doc's Patients Give Him a Pain

DEAR ABBY: I'm a little tired of all those letters from patients who complain because they have to wait to see their doctors. Please be fair and print the reasons why doctors run late.

Mrs. A. rushes in, hysterical, without an appointment, because she just noticed a lump in her breast. I examine her, then she asks if I would mind taking her husband's blood pressure since he came with her.

After Mr. J. has had his annual physical, he asks if I would mind writing out new prescriptions for his visiting aunt from the East who ran out of all nine of her medications—two months ago. And do I think the blotchy rash on her hands could be contagious? Since she arrived, everyone itches.

Mrs. B. (the "emergency" call, whose daughter has to be seen IMMEDIATELY) finally arrives. The emergency? The daughter is 24 pounds overweight, her wedding is two weeks off and the dress won't fit. "Aren't there water pills or something she can take?"

Meanwhile, the hospital is on the phone again. The coronary isn't doing well, the diabetic came out of the coma and insists on being discharged immediately, and the record room wants me to complete my charts before the staff meeting at 3 p.m.

Oh, yes, and that doctor on the phone with another doctor discussing the business deal that sounds like a tax shelter: He needs that deal. It will help him survive until some patients who were treated last year get around to paying their bills.

Most people go through the ordeal of seeing their physicians only once or twice a year; their doctors see 35 or more patients daily. Sometimes I think the wrong people are being treated.

COMPTON, CALIF., M.D.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who works for an airline, has told me some unbelievable tales about some of the stuff they find at the airport in boxes, parcels and suitcases that can't be returned to their owners because they are totally without identification!

Abby, luggage containing expensive jewelry and CASH—($1,000 or more) is somehow lost at the airport.

Please tell your readers to put their names and addresses INSIDE their luggage as well as outside. Sometimes identification tags attached to the handles fall off.

MEG IN ST. PAUL

DEAR MEG: Thanks for the timely tip. Holiday travelers, take note.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to CHICKEN IN DETROIT, the woman whose "super-dude" had had breath, you said, "If a dentist can't help him, he should see a doctor."

Abby, I resent the implication that a dentist is not a doctor. My husband is a DDS, which stands for "doctor of dental surgery," and he has as much right to call himself "doctor" as do physicians.

I think you owe dentists an apology.

WIFE OF A D.D.S.

DEAR WIFE: I apologize. I might need a doctor of dental surgery to get my foot out of my mouth!

DEAR ABBY: You said, "The younger man should apologize to the older man" if they have had a falling out and neither wants to make the first move.

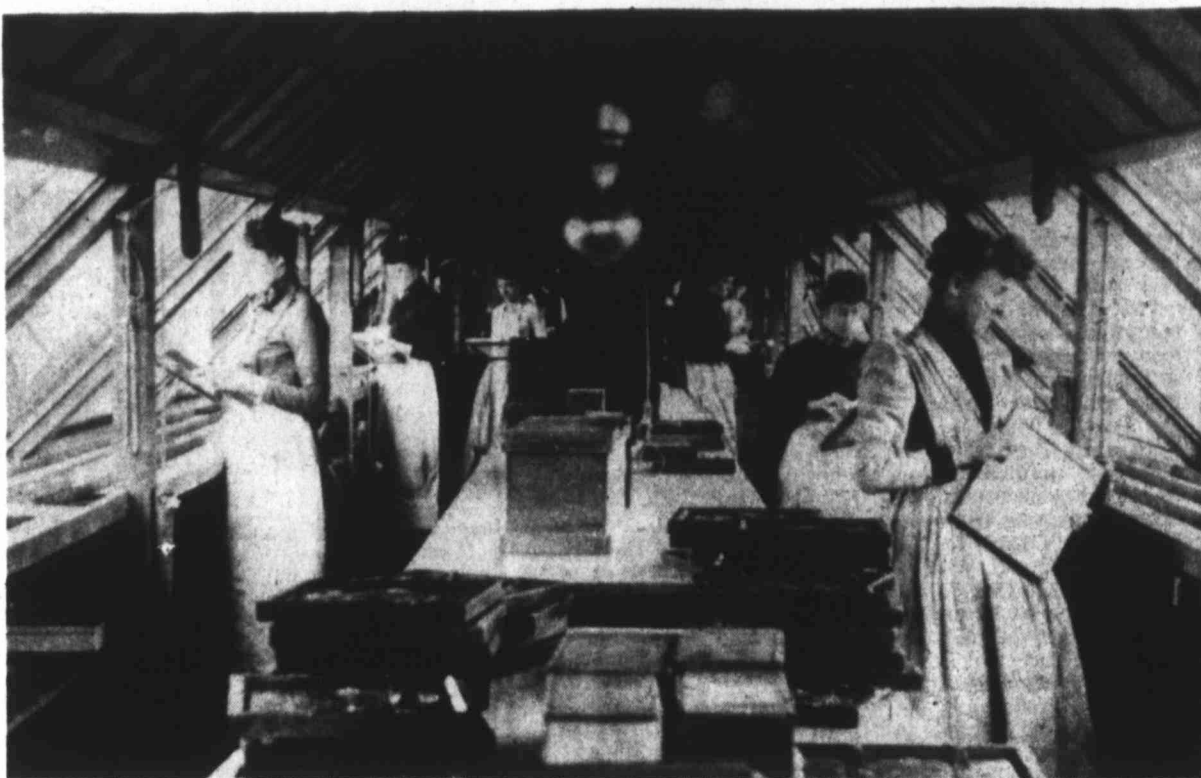

Abby, if a person is wrong, no matter what his age, he should apologize. Why should a person have to give in just because he is younger?

I think respect should be earned, not automatically given to people just because they're been breathing for a long time.

YOUNG BUT STILL LEARNING

DEAR YOUNG: If you honestly feel that age doesn't entitle one to any special consideration (and a modicum of respect), you still have much to learn.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Tompkins TWEEN 12 and 20

gives bird program

The 1948 Hyperion Club held their November meeting at the Big Spring Country Club with Mrs. Zollie Boykin and Mrs. Harvey Williamson as hostesses.

Mrs. Rollin Bishop presided over a short business meeting and gave a memorial tribute to Mrs. Charles Tompkins.

Mrs. Jack Irons introduced guest speaker Mrs. Ed Corson who spoke on birds in Howard County.

She explained that there are more birds here because their habitat has been changed with the planting of trees, flowers and shrubs. The addition of oak trees has been especially important, she noted.

Approximately 250 species of birds have been observed in Big Spring the last few years, continued Mrs. Corson.

"Texas has more birds than any other state with the exception of California. This is partly because we have three major flyways through Texas and also because of our diverse sections which offer such different habitats," she said.

Mrs. Corson concluded by showing slides of a number of birds seen in the Big Spring area.

The Christmas party was planned and Mrs. Lloyd Wasson and Mrs. Irons will be hostesses for the event.

Shy guy needs guidance

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I've been going with a guy for three months. My problem is that he has never kissed me. In fact, he has never even hugged me.

My best girlfriend thinks this is a little strange.

Do you think this is strange, and if so, what should I do about it?—Ann, Santa Barbara, Calif.

Ann: It is a little unusual but definitely not strange. This boy is probably a little shy and needs a little guidance from you. That is if you want him to hug and kiss you.

Dr. Wallace: I just moved to Pampa, Texas, from Pueblo, Colo., this past summer. I really loved Pueblo because I knew all the kids and I had a foxy boyfriend.

About two weeks ago I found out that my old boyfriend had already found a new girlfriend and this made me furious.

All I could think about was revenge so a guy who was bugging me for a date got one and probably got more than he expected. On our first date I let him go farther than I had ever let my boyfriend go.

I did this thinking I was getting even with my old boyfriend. Now I know that I was wrong and I'm ashamed at what I did.

I'm new at high school and it's hard to make friends and I'm scared to death that this guy will blab his mouth off. He is a football player and a pretty popular guy.

What should I do? He has been calling me for a date but I really don't want to go out with him again. —Nameless, Pampa, Texas.

Nameless: First of all, don't date this boy again. Next, get involved in as many school activities as possible. Keep a high moral standard and if the football hero does blab, the guys will think he is only trying to boost his ego.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 and a lover of animals. Recently I purchased a horse with all the equipment.

I boarded her at a friend's house but I was shocked when I discovered my friend had stolen most of my equipment. My parents have been no help and the police won't help either because I'm a minor.

To replace the equipment would cost about $1,000.

I need help but don't know what to do. —Bonnie, Everett, Wash.

Bonnie: I'm puzzled why your parents won't come to your aid.

I'm sure they must have had some financial interest in the equipment.

Talk to your "friend's" parents to see if they have the decency to make things right.

If possible, move your horse and take all of your equipment that you can get your hands on.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 AND 20, care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THANKS, FARMERS.

It started ahead of planting time in 1974.

Fearing a trade deficit, the U.S. Government asked farmers to grow more acres, harvest more crops for export. Farmers responded by producing $15.5 billion in sales to foreign markets that year, about double the level of 1972.

And even after deducting the cost of food and fiber imports, agriculture's contribution to the nation's trade balance exceeded $10 billion.

But it was only the beginning.

In 1975, American farms produced $17.4 billion in exports.

And in '76 the total soared to $22.8 billion, then reached $24 billion in '77.

And farm exports hit an astonishing $27 billion in 1978.

That year alone, agriculture contributed a $13.4 billion trade surplus to help prop the battered and sagging U.S. dollar.

It was crucial. The dollar bottomed and began to rise again.

After a performance like that, what do you do for an encore?

Here's what U.S. farmers did:

During the marketing year just ending, they produced and sold overseas more than $32 billion of cotton, grain and other commodities.

That's an 18 percent gain in one year. And it came in the face of a strengthening dollar. When final figures are in, agriculture's net contribution toward lowering the U.S. trade deficit will likely rise to nearly $16 billion during 1979.

That's quite an achievement.

America asked for it, and farmers grew it. Thanks again, farmers.

Farm Smithsonian adds first crawler-type tractor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution, often called "the nation's attic" because of its collection of museum pieces, has added an artifact commemorating the 75th anniversary of the first crawler-type tractor.

It was on Thanksgiving Day, 1904, that a grain harvester manufacturer, Benjamin Holt, successfully demonstrated his new machine near Stockton, Calif.

The crawler tractor demonstrated by Holt "changed farming and earth-moving industries in America" and in much of the world as it developed over the years, the Smithsonian said Tuesday.

In 1925, the Holt Manufacturing Co. and the Best Tractor Co. merged to form the Caterpillar Tractor Co., which became synonymous with the crawling machine.

As part of its historic display of farm equipment—including scythes and cradles, McCormick reapers and other pioneering implements, the Smithsonian has on display a 1929 model "Cat 10" tractor, the smallest ever built by Caterpillar.

The tractor was donated by George E. Logue of Trout Run, Pa., who says the Cat 10 was "the small farmer's tractor just as the Model A was designed for the average motorist."

Smithsonian officials noted that the early crawler tractors developed by Holt and others were adapted for the World War I military tank, opening a new dimension of warfare on the bogged-down Western Front in France in 1916.

Tanks, bulldozers and other machines used the principle of crawler treads throughout World War II and are "widespread today in virtually all armies and in construction projects."

Nearly 5,000 of the Cat 10 models were built between 1928 and 1931, the Smithsonian said. They sold for about $1,100 each.

Today's huge four-wheel-drive tractors dominate much of American agriculture. Those commonly cost $60,000 or more.

The big tractor of today frequently includes an enclosed cab to protect the operator from sun, rain, dust, wind and cold. It often is air conditioned, has a two-way radio and sometimes includes a television and a tape deck, depending on how much money a farmer wants to spend.

But the little Cat 10, as described by one of the company's 1930 sales manuals, also had its refinements that were attractive to many farmers:

"Ten sturdy horsepower at the drawbar ... 14 belt horsepower for stationary work ... a little over 4,400 pounds in weight ... borne on sure-gripping, lightly-treading tracks ... little in size ... big in power and performance."

"The comfort of the operator has not been overlooked. The driver's seat is a full upholstered seat, with coiled spring and hair-padded cushion and back and padded sides."

"The Model 10 can be equipped with a canopy top ... it can be purchased with or without drop curtains."

Wet fields hampering corn, soybean harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wet fields in some areas continue to hamper this fall's harvests of corn and soybeans, says the Agriculture Department.

As of Nov. 18, the department said Tuesday, the corn harvest in the major producing states was about 82 percent completed, compared to 96 percent a year ago. However, it said, the longer-term average for this time of year is a completion rate of 83 percent.

The weekly report, based on surveys of weather and crop conditions, said about 92 percent of the soybean acreage was harvested, compared to 95 percent a year ago but ahead of the average pace by 5 percentage points.

Looking at the corn harvest, the report said, "Wet fields, lodged stalks and high-moisture-content grain continued to plague harvest progress in the northern Corn Belt."

In Wisconsin, for example, the corn harvest was only 60 percent completed, compared to 90 percent a year ago.

Cotton picking was 58 percent done by Nov. 18, ahead of the year-ago pace of 55 percent, the report said.

Planting of winter wheat "nearly completed in most states, except in California," it said. "In Kansas, some reseeded took place because of the heavy rains that were received there recently."

Names in the news

McCartney back in school

LONDON (AP) — Ex-Beatle Paul McCartney is going back to school.

The British star will perform next week with his group Wings at the Liverpool Institute, where he was educated along with another ex-Beatle, George Harrison.

"There is considerable excitement in the school, as you can imagine," said a school spokesman. "I don't think we'll have any worry about absenteeism."

Godunov leaves ballet

NEW YORK (AP) — Ballet star Alexander Godunov says he is leaving the American Ballet Theater in hopes that a contract dispute between ABT and its dancers can be resolved more quickly.

Press aide Edgar Vincent said Godunov, 29, was prompted to resign Tuesday by remarks questioning his ability and comments about fees.

Some dancers charged weekly salaries were kept low to provide more money for big stars, including several Soviet defectors. Godunov defected from the Bolshoi Ballet here in August.

Jones to sue newspaper

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Shirley Jones and her husband, actor Marty Ingels, are suing the National Enquirer for $20 million, claiming the weekly tabloid libeled them.

In their Superior Court suit filed Tuesday, the couple claimed that statements printed in an October edition of the Enquirer that Miss Jones was "driven to drink" by the "bizarre behavior" of her husband were libelous.

There was no immediate comment from the Enquirer.

Prince visits Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A daring hedge-hopping flight took Prince Charles to what has come to be called "Bandit Country" to visit British soldiers in this war-torn country.

The 31-year-old heir to the British throne spent about six hours near the border of the Irish Republic before returning to London Tuesday night.

Soviet premier ailing

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is suffering from liver or circulatory ailments, according to Soviet and Eastern European sources. Kosygin, 76, was last seen in public on Oct. 17.

There has been no official comment on Kosygin's absence.

His health became a matter for speculation Nov. 6-7 when Kosygin failed to attend the 62nd anniversary celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Harris County DA rules out use of court inquiry

HOUSTON (AP) — The Harris County district attorney ruled out the possible use of a public court of inquiry to probe the police shooting of Reggie Lee Jackson by announcing that a county grand jury will review the case.

Jackson, 26, was shot to death Sept. 26 after officers J.C. Valentino and R.W. Robinson stopped him for speeding.

A federal grand jury is already investigating the incident, and Mary Sinderason, chief of the U.S. attorney's civil rights division, said the state grand jury probe "will not impede our investigation."

Valentino and Robinson contend that when they stopped Jackson's car, it contained three persons — Jackson, a woman named Lanita Moore and an unidentified man lying in the back seat.

The officers said they ordered all three out of the car after Jackson reached under the front seat, and the unidentified man shot at them and escaped after he and Jackson ran away.

The police say Jackson was killed when he pointed a pistol at the officers, but a variety of people who say they saw the incident dispute the police story, saying Jackson was unarmed and pleading for mercy when he was shot.

HAVING A BALL ON THE JOB — (AP LASERPHOTO) LeRoy Noack, Minn., wanted to show that wreckers don't just blow things to pieces but can use a light, artistic touch — even with a wrecking ball. He did just that Monday as he "drew" a snowman's face and buttons on a grain elevator he was demolishing Monday in Minneapolis.

Kissinger awards high praise to Gov. Clements

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements basked in the warm light of recognition today after Republican governors backed his "Texas Position" on energy and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger awarded him high praise.
 The governors unanimously adopted an energy resolution Tuesday calling for decontrol of oil and gas prices to stimulate domestic production, the keystone of Clements' "Texas position."
 The assembly of governors also called for a change in federal rules inhibiting the use of coal.
 Kissinger addressed the governors, and took the opportunity to pay homage to the host.
 "We couldn't have gotten through the crisis in 1973-1976 without the strong hand of Bill Clements," said Kissinger, who was secretary of state in the Nixon and Ford administrations while Clements was deputy secretary of defense.
 The energy resolution also endorsed Clements' concept that "resulting above normal revenues be plowed back into domestic energy production of all energy firms."
 One staffer said Rhodes of Ohio visited with the staff members who wrote the resolution and persuaded them to toughen the language, which blames the Carter administration for the current energy problems.
 One staffer said Rhodes asked for language that would make the Republicans "look like heroes" to the American people.
 "If we follow this, we can elect a Republican president and a Republican congress," he told the governors.
 Gov. Lee Dreyfus of Wisconsin said the governors should "go beyond Congress" in pushing for an energy program that would provide independence from OPEC.

World War II survivors may get medal of honor

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Survivors from a U.S. Army platoon who played a key role in the Battle of the Bulge during World War II may receive the Medal of Honor despite military rules.
 Five veterans of the battle met informally here Monday and Tuesday to discuss how many of the 20 living former soldiers would receive the honor.
 Lyle Bouck, the platoon's lieutenant, says his recommendations will be made to the Department of Defense after the Senate and President Carter approve a change in an Army rule that places a two-year statute of limitations on issuing the award.
 The group meeting here represents members of an intelligence unit credited with holding back the first column of advancing German tanks, paratroopers and SS troops.
 Historical accounts say the platoon stopped the enemy troops in the Belgian Ardennes Forest for 24 hours enabling the 9th division of the 1st Army to regroup.
 The Army never confirmed the action and the two-year time limit on the award elapsed in 1946, says Bouck, of St. Louis, Mo.
 Bouck says the men did not realize the importance of their actions until historical accounts were published in the 1960s.
 He said the platoon and some congressional leaders are seeking the rule change.
 Platoon member Carlos Fernandez, of El Paso, says the standoff between his unit and the Nazi forces was the first taste of combat his group faced. He said the platoon, which had run only intelligence missions, ran out of ammunition and was captured.
 Jim Jenkins, also of El Paso, says he was held in a prison camp four months after the battle.
 Calling it "a unique situation," Bouck says, "I have always felt many of these men should have been decorated, but they never have."
 Another platoon member, Vern Leopold, said he thought most of his fellow soldiers were killed in the battle. Jim Silvola, of Ocala, Fla., also attended the meeting.
