Wedding vows solemnized in Sunday afternoon rite

The wedding vows uniting Evette Coffman and Jeffery Wayne Compton were solemnized Sunday afternoon in the Hillcrest Baptist Church.

MRS. JEFFERY WAYNE COMPTON

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Coffman, Garden City Rt., Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. George O. Compton, Carlsbad, Tex. The Rev. Clarence Coffman, uncle of the bride, read the 3 p.m. ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Susan Joslin, pianist and Mrs. Ocie Mason, organist, who accompanied vocalists Pam Holcomb and Randy Samuels.

The bride was presented down the aisle wearing a white floor-length gown designed with a fitted bodice and Queen Anne Neckline embellished with Venice lace. Falling gracefully from the natural waistline was an A-line skirt completing to a chapel-length train. A veil of silk bridal illusion gathered to a headpiece of lace and seed pearls completed her bridal ensemble. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and burgundy roses accented with touches of baby's breath.

Practice sunlamp safety

COLLEGE STATION — Practice sunlamp safety to prevent injury from misuse, cautions a consumer information specialist, Claudia Kerbel, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Be wary of taking certain drugs when exposed to sunlight or sunlamps. Drugs that can increase a person's sensitivity to ultraviolet radiation include sulfas, tetracyclines, some tranquilizers and certain drugs used in treating health problems such as high blood pressure, ringworm and mature onset of diabetes. Measure the distance between the closest part of the sunlamp and your body. Be sure that you are not closer to the lamp than the recommended distance. Do not stay under the lamp beyond the recommended exposure time. Do not use the lamp more frequently than recommended. Protect your eyes — they are vulnerable to ultra-violet radiation.

Make moving transition smooth for everyone

COLLEGE STATION — Make moving as smooth a transition as possible for every member of the family, says Diane Welch, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Gifts Get A Rapping

DEAR ABBY: How do you go about putting a stop to exchanging Christmas gifts with people you hardly ever see? I don't mean relatives. I mean out-of-towners who used to be neighbors and whose children were friendly with our children (all grown now), and folks we are no longer close to.

DEAR NEWPORT: Should you hear your husband issue such an invitation, good-humoredly let it be known that hubby is tipsy and there will be no party.

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Since you get along so well in every other way, tell him the truth. If YOU can't teach him the joy of sex, there is a splendid book by that title at your public library. Get it.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married three months and already I have a very serious problem. My husband told me he divorced his first wife of five years because she had affairs with other men. Now I can understand why, because even though he has many fine qualities, he has got to be the world's worst lover.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Weather Clouds, gritty wind in Northwest Texas

By The Associated Press
A few clouds buffeted by brisk, gritty winds drifted over northwest Texas this morning, but the rest of the state woke to clear skies today.

Winds across the state generally are less than 10 miles an hour.

Another winter storm brewing in the Central Rockies increased wind-speed some in northwest Texas and whooshed a few light clouds into the state. As windspeeds pick up, the possibility of blowing dust will increase.

Temperatures across the state dropped rapidly during the night with readings at the freezing mark or below in the northwestern third of Texas. Marfa recorded the morning low with a chilly 6 degrees.

But skies remain balmy in South Texas where thermometer readings on the coast hovered near the 50-degree mark.

Today's forecast calls for sunny skies with mid-afternoon highs reaching the mid-60s to upper-70s.

Borrowing binge days numbered

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Buying now and paying later — and later — has become a way of life for millions of Americans, but the days of easy credit are numbered.

Look at what some experts have to say:
— "The amount of risk that lenders...are willing to take is diminishing," Robert Gibson, head of the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, a counseling agency.
— "I would be surprised if there weren't some tightening up," Robert Evans, director of the National Consumer Finance Association whose member finance companies account for about 20 percent of outstanding installment debt.

— "Credit is tougher to get...It's tougher to get a loan," Dale Walwark of Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco.
The tight money policy that economists have been talking about means lenders have to pay more for the dollars they loan. State usury laws limit the amount they can charge in interest. They don't want to take a chance on customers who may not be able to repay what they borrow.

Money wasn't always so expensive.
During most of the 1970s, there was "a very competitive scenario in which most of the major banks tried to expand their consumer credit businesses," said Donald Auriemma, vice president of New York's Chemical Bank.
Being competitive meant sending letters to people who were not depositors, offering Master Charge and Visa cards, overdraft checking, low-cost loans and a host of other credit. In many cases, the amount of the credit was approved in advance: Fill in the form and you're automatically entitled to $500. Or $1,000. Or more.

Outstanding consumer installment debt — not counting mortgages — has more than tripled in the past 10 years, increasing at a rate one and a half times as fast as personal income. At the end of September, Americans owed a record $303.9 billion in installment debt, compared to just over $98 billion at the same time a decade earlier.

The biggest growth has been in the area of revolving credit — the kind offered by bank cards and retailers. In September 1969, outstanding revolving credit totaled about $3 billion; today, it is more than 16 times that much or $50.4 billion.

There are more than 115 million Master Charge and Visa cards in circulation. Some people have both. Or several of each. Millions more cards are issued by retailers. The J.C. Penney Co., for example, didn't issue its first credit card until the late 1950s; today, the company has 30 million to 35 million cards outstanding and credit sales accounted for 42.2 percent of total sales in 1978.

That kind of growth has some people worried. "We've got to get rid of the credit card economy to some degree," said House Majority Leader James Wright of Texas.

John G. Heimann, the comptroller of the currency, told banks: "It is in the area of multiple credit lines particularly, where observers perceive the greatest potential risk, perhaps because it is the area about which we know the least historically."
What DO we know about all this credit and the people who use it?

Banks and other credit granters won't talk about the specific rules that determine who gets money. Many of them use a credit-scoring system: An applicant gets points in each of a number of categories which differ from lender to lender. Everyone whose total score is above a given level gets credit; everyone who is below, is rejected.

"One of the main things we look at is ability and stability and willingness to repay the debt," said Thomas Chapman, senior vice president of the First National Bank of Atlanta.

The ideal customer for Chemical, Auriemma said, is "someone who has been steadily employed in a rather secure job who is an established credit user and a consistent payer." "In the credit card business, I would prefer someone who allows his balance to roll over. The convenience user is borrowing my money for no interest..."

Auriemma said Chemical's credit analysts look not only at the amount of money a prospective borrower already owes, but also at the credit available — the amount he or she could borrow through existing charge cards or loan arrangements.

Morton Schwartz, the general credit manager for J.C. Penney, said the store's policy — including credit scoring — is designed to "give as much credit as possible to as many people as possible...with an acceptable probability of repayment.

"We're in a competitive environment. The risk...has to be weighed against the rewards...Credit is there to support the level of goods and services."

Secretary Miller hopes to keep oil production in Mideast same

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller hopes to convince officials of three Middle East countries not to cut back on oil production.

His arrival here today marked the second stop on a tour designed to encourage moderate members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to maintain high production levels.

Miller failed earlier to win an outright commitment from Saudi Arabian officials in response to a U.S. request that the Saudis maintain peak oil production at 9.5 million barrels a day.

American officials are hopeful such a commitment will be announced very soon, however. The United States receives about 24 percent of its total oil imports from Saudi Arabia.

In Abu Dhabi, the major oil producer and most powerful of seven members of the United Arab Emirates, Miller will try to talk officials out of plans to trim their oil output next year about 1.3 million barrels a day, down from the current level of 1.5 million barrels.

Miller will continue Tuesday to Kuwait, the third and final stop on his Middle East tour.

Miller's message is the same in all three countries: A slowdown in production now could create oil shortages that would send prices skyrocketing again and bring on a worldwide economic recession.

Miller was greeted at the Abu Dhabi airport by the nation's finance minister, Sheikh Hamdan Bin Rashid Al-Maktum. He will meet later today with the president of the United Arab Emirates, Zayid Bin Sultan Al Nahayyan.

The United Arab Emirates, which extend along the Persian Gulf on the eastern shore of the Saudi Arabian peninsula, have a total population of about 760,000.

Earlier, Saudi Finance Minister Muhammad Abalkhail indicated his government doesn't plan to cut oil production in the immediate future. He said no decision has been made on next year's output, but added he saw no reason to reduce production.

Miller made his appeal for continued high output at a meeting with the Abalkhail and Oil Minister Ahmad Zaki Yamani.

While Saudi officials are expected to maintain current production levels through the end of this year, they are known to be divided on whether to extend those levels into 1980.

The Saudis raised their output from 8.5 million barrels to 9.5 million barrels a day last summer at the request of President Carter. The increase was sought to offset a reduction in Iranian oil output after the revolution that overthrew Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Miller also asked the Saudis help hold the next OPEC price increase to a minimum.

Israel 'would cooperate' with U.S. military there

DALLAS (AP) — Israel "would fully cooperate" with the establishment of a permanent U.S. military force in the Middle East to cope with crises like the current Iranian situation, says former Israeli defense minister Moshe Dayan.

In fact, Dayan said, the Iran crisis could have been avoided altogether if the U.S. already had such a peace-keeping force in place.

"I am not trying to put the blame on your country," Dayan said of the hostage standoff at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, but contended U.S. officials "were not reading (Iran) correctly. You took people's word at face value." He declined to elaborate.

"I don't want to volunteer any advice," he said. "I would rely entirely on your military people and political advisers."

Dayan said, however, the Israeli government would offer space at ports and airfields if the United States decided to put armed forces permanently in the Middle East.

Even if direct military action were impossible, he said, the U.S. forces could at least help evacuate U.S. citizens threatened by any hostile uprising.

But he said he expects his country will realize no trouble from the current tensions in Iran.

"We are surrounded by 100 million Arabs and we have been living in this kind of situation a long time," he said.

Dayan, 64, resigned his Israeli cabinet post Oct. 21 because of disagreement over Palestinian recognition. He was in Dallas for a Sunday speech at Southern Methodist University.

Two documents are required

Anyone who expects to need a social security number should apply six to eight weeks before the number will be used according to Don Minyard, local Social Security manager.

He emphasized that now two documents must be furnished to establish age, identity and citizenship before a card can be issued. People born outside the United States are required to show their citizenship papers or immigration documents before any action can be taken. In addition, anyone age 18 or over must apply in person at the Social Security Office.

The best evidence of age and citizenship status is a public or church record recorded before the fifth birthday. However, many documents may be used to provide identity such as a driver's license, ID card, club membership card or similar items showing signature and personal information.

Many California landowners may be without land in border feud

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Hundreds of California landowners could find the titles to their property thrown into question if the U.S. Supreme Court decides in favor of Nevada in a border dispute, according to documents filed in the case.

But even if the court ultimately decides to leave the recognized boundary where it is, attorneys for both states say they plan to seek additional land from the federal government, claiming they were cheated of their inheritance a century ago.

Most of the boundary, which follows the towering Sierra Nevada range for much of its length, is barren desert or remote forest land. But densely populated, highly valuable property surrounds Lake Tahoe, where the straight-line border bends sharply.

The dispute is over which boundary survey should be accepted. California sued Nevada in 1977 to have an 1872 survey accepted north of Lake Tahoe and an 1899 U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey line accepted to the south. Those lines have been used — for laws, contracts and other official purposes — since they were drawn.

But Nevada claims the laws of both states recognize an earlier 1863 survey north of the lake. And it charges that the 1872 surveyor, Alexey Von Schmidt, illegally moved the boundary and cheated Nevada of 600 square miles in the process.

The high court has given both sides until mid-December to file additional briefs in the case.

"Regardless of where the boundary is, both Nevada and California have a real interest in ascertaining what the title is to some of these lands," Jan Stevens, California assistant attorney general, said recently.

Stevens said California's "primary aim is to get the titles clarified." He said he plans to ask the court "to make some sort of declaration that the ownership is proper."

In California's El Dorado County alone, 385 parcels of land valued at $50 million sit between the two boundaries, according to a 34-page brief filed in the case by the California Land Title Association.

The brief listed a mass of problems which could arise if the recognized boundary is moved. Contracts, titles and laws which had affected pieces of property for a century suddenly could be thrown aside, it said.

The association recommended that if the line is shifted, California contracts and laws should continue to be enforced on lands suddenly in Nevada. Otherwise, because the two state's laws differ, many land titles and contracts might be illegal and planning and zoning conditions attached to land might be abolished.

Even if the border isn't moved, both states plan to press the federal government to give them more land.

Under their statehood acts, both were granted a certain amount of federal land to sell or grant to private individuals. Thousands of acres of the land granted to Nevada were between the disputed boundary lines.

ALL EARS — Los Angeles Zoo's two fennec fox pups snuggle together recently. Fennecs are native to the Saharan and Arabian deserts where they live in burrows excavated in sand dunes. Fennecs may subsist without water for long periods of time. Easily tamed, they were frequently pets of French Foreign Legionnaires. (AP LASERPHOTO)

China sides with U.S.

PEKING (AP) — China sided with the United States today in the Iranian crisis, declaring after three weeks of official silence that "accepted diplomatic immunities should be universally respected."

The statement, released by the Foreign Ministry, expressed concern over the crisis and a hope that an early solution can be found "through peaceful consultation."

The statement gave an indication of the attitude China may take in a U.N. Security Council meeting on the situation, called by Secretary General Kurt Waldheim. The session was expected to begin today.

The Chinese media have indicated sympathy for U.S. government attempts to negotiate the release of 49 Americans, held at the embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4 by Iranians demanding the return of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, now receiving cancer treatment in New York.

"We are concerned about recent events in the relations between Iran and the United States of America," the statement said.

"We always hold that the internal affairs of each country should be managed by its own people and that there should be no interference in the internal affairs of other countries."

"But at the same time we hold that the principles guiding international relations and the accepted diplomatic immunities should be universally respected."

GEORGE BURNS KURT VONNEGUT

George Burns immortalized

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The imprints of George Burns' hands, feet — and cigar — have joined the prints of several other celebrities in the cement squares in front of Mann's Chinese Theater.

Burns was immortalized outside the Hollywood landmark Sunday next to a cement square signed by his close friend, the late comedian Jack Benny. Burns, 83, won an Academy Award in 1975 for best supporting actor in "The Sunshine Boys." He took over the role slated for Benny after his friend died.

"I smoke 10 to 15 cigars a day," Burns told the crowd outside the restaurant. With his arms around actresses Doris Stevens and Kimberly Bos, he said, "At my age, I have to hold on to something."

Best-selling author weds

NEW YORK (AP) — Bestselling author Kurt Vonnegut and photographer Jill Krentz were married at the Christ Church United Methodist Church here over the weekend, a church official says.

Vonnegut, the author of "Slaughterhouse Five," "Breakfast of Champions," and other popular novels, was married once previously, in 1945, to Jane Marie Cox. He had three children by that marriage.

Miss Krentz has published several books of photographs, including "Sweet Pea — A Black Girl Growing Up in the Rural South" and "A Very Young Dancer."

The private ceremony reportedly took place Saturday.

Nixon hosts fund-raiser

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon hosted a $1,000-per-person Republican fundraiser at his estate here in a farewell reception for 400 friends and political supporters.

The Nixons have sold the estate — reportedly for about $2 million — and expect to move to a New York City apartment, where they will be closer to their daughters, early next year.

Former first lady Pat Nixon did not attend the Sunday gathering. She was hospitalized last week with pneumonia, and was resting.

"This is our way of saying thanks to my many supporters during 33 years of political life," a brunch organizer quoted Nixon, who resigned from office during the Watergate scandal, as saying.

Four protesters displayed a sign outside the estate. Bordered with American flags, the sign said: "Kiss Richard's Ring Too."

After the brunch, four people from San Jose climbed out of their station wagon with signs saying "Nix On Memoir Profits" and "No Man Is Above The Law."

Teen to be arraigned for Saturday hijacking

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A Massachusetts teen-ager, released from the Army last month because of difficulties during basic training, faced arraignment today for Saturday's attempted hijacking of a plane to Iran.

Gerald James "Skipper" Hill Jr., 18, of Chester, Mass., was jailed under $500,000 bond after FBI agents stormed American Airlines Flight 395 and took a large knife from him, ending a 3½-hour siege near Gate 12 of El Paso International Airport.

Hill received a "trainee discharge" from the Army infantry at Ft. Benning, Ga., Oct. 11, according to Staff Sgt. David Bristow of the Ft. Benning public information office.

"(A training discharge) is given when a soldier has some kind of problem when going through training. He probably could not make the adjustment or something like that."

Authorities said Hill got aboard the Los Angeles-bound airplane at San Antonio, then ran to the front of the craft and pulled a knife after it landed at El Paso and began taxiing to the terminal about 8:25 a.m. MST.

After allowing women, children and three men among the 64 passengers to leave, Hill kept 19 passengers and the seven-member crew hostage, officials said.

The FBI said Hill told the pilot he wanted to go to Iran and that he had "old dynamite" on him that could "blow the plane up very easily. It would make a big hole in this airplane."

The American Airlines crew said it was given no reason why the teen-ager wanted to go to Iran.

A radio report from the plane said the lone youth was stabbing the knife into the bulkhead and sides of the plane in apparent frustration.

Police and FBI squads armed with M-16 automatic weapons, shotguns, rifles and pistols converged on the airport gate where the plane was stopped.

Two agents — dressed in airline uniforms but armed with shotguns — moved a luggage cart beneath the plane.

About noon, the shotgun-armed FBI agents burst in yelling "Freeze, freeze, freeze," and arrested the bluejean-clad Hill.

No shots were fired and there were no injuries. No explosives were found.

If convicted of the federal charge, Hill could be sentenced to life in prison.

Passenger Ruth Ash recalled seeing a clean-cut young man hurrying up the aisle as the Boeing 727 was taxiing to the gate.

"My husband and I remarked that he must have a tight schedule. I didn't think anything of it until I saw the knife," she said.

Hill was only 2 months old when the only other hijacking took place in El Paso. On Aug. 3, 1961, Leon Bearden, 38, and his son, Cody, 16, tried to hijack a Continental Airlines flight to Cuba, but were subdued by FBI agents. The two men were sentenced to prison.

Cleaning out your garage easier than you think.

"That $47.50 also includes answering all the questions."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 27, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are apt to be too sensitive and easily hurt by those around you early in the day, but the evening is fine for being able to tune in on situations and persons about you which could work in your favor.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good time to take care of personal matters. Complete a job left undone and gain the benefits. Evening is best for consulting with an adviser.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get to work on a problem that keeps you from gaining a personal aim. Don't rely on a friend for help now. There's much happiness by evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Safeguard your standing in your community. Don't neglect an important credit affair. An evening social affairs brings profit and happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into new projects and later work out the details connected with them. A new acquaintance could help you now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Carry through with obligations you have assumed and use the best methods in doing so. Loved one is most cooperative.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Carry through with work that will please associates so there is greater mutual success. Take time for social happiness in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can get much done early in the day, but find it rough sledding in the afternoon, but persevere. Spend the evening quietly at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Friends see you in a favorable light, so make the most of this and show you are worthy of their esteem. Be happy with kin.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Morning is best for taking care of home affairs. Strengthen the foundation of your life and feel safer. Be happy with yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get an early start if you want to get much done today. Be with proven friends only later in the day. Handle credit affairs well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Finish repairs or projects around the house that you have already started. Make appointments to meet with friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Concentrate on matters of a personal nature. Make sure you do not go off on any tangents. Show kindness to one who is deserving.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will require a fine education in order to make the most of the fine talents in this chart. A beautiful soul here, and an artist as well. Show much affection for your child.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

URBAN FLIGHT — Painters work to upgrade a historic house in "old Northside" Indianapolis where preservation of the deteriorating neighborhood by the upper middle-class has displaced many of the elderly on fixed incomes and low-income families. Because of arson and vandalism in the neighborhood, many residents believe they are being harassed out of their homes.

Inner city facing hardship in name of 'historic preservation'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The middle-aged woman — a mother of four — stands outside on the porch of her house. Her eyes blaze. "I ain't going nowhere," she says. "I'll be here fighting for a long time. It's they who are intruding."

relegated to the inner city — blacks, the elderly, those on fixed incomes — are being driven farther from the core.

Most go quietly, unable or unwilling to fight. A few like the angry woman stand their ground in the face of fear and economic pressure.

She refuses to let her name be used. She says her dog has been shot. Her children have been harassed. Her house has been set on fire, its electrical wires ripped.

Old, often-deteriorating neighborhoods are being renovated by the upper middle-class who just a few years ago abandoned them for the suburbs. Those once fixed incomes, even if they are living in historic houses. Williams acknowledges that displacement occurs, but he denies people are harassed to encourage them to leave. "I know of no harassment techniques that are carried on," he said.

However, an Indianapolis fire lieutenant who is conducting his own investigation of arson in a downtown historic district brands it a white-collar crime, with a purpose of displacing undesired elements.

"There are definitely planned arsons in that area," says the officer, who asked not to be identified. "New residents have openly said they are going to get all the blacks and poor whites out."

The lieutenant, who began the investigation as a department project 10 years ago, says arson is "a touchy issue because upper-management fire officials interested in moving into the city have bought property there themselves. They are among the displacers and don't want the area to be associated with arson. It's touchy because we're talking about lots of money, lots of dollars and cents," he says.

No one seems certain where the displaced go — even those who make it their business to try and keep track of the new nomads.

"We aren't sure where they are. They are here one day and gone the next," says a Catholic priest who did not want his name used. He helps out at an agency that maintains contact with unavailable to people on

Poor nations sinking

Days ahead perilous for world's economy

NEW YORK (AP) — With Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini seeking to turn East against West, with terrorism rising, and with poor nations sinking further into debt, these are perilous days for the world economy.

When you consider also that the world's industrial nations subsist on imports, not just of oil and gas but of various basic commodities such as bauxite, chrome and platinum, the peril is underscored.

No nation is self-sufficient. The United States is often said to be the nearest thing to it, but "said" isn't always so; imports account for 90 percent of our consumption of those three items.

Americans need foreign good will for many other reasons also. Foreign markets represent an outlet for American goods, a source of support for the dollar and an opportunity for profitable investments.

Since 1969, those foreign investments have risen from $68 billion to more than $165 billion, or four times the level of foreign direct investment in the United States.

Impressive as the figures are, they represent also the degree of U.S. vulnerability to foreign seizure. The United States can freeze foreign assets, but foreigners in the aggregate can freeze more of ours.

While it is true that most American direct investments — direct in the sense that they represent ownership of facilities rather than stocks or bonds — are in friendly, stable nations, some of them are not.

American banks also have lent billions of dollars abroad, with many of the loans going to underdeveloped nations that are now being driven deeper into poverty by rising oil prices. Can they repay those debts?

The big banks assure us that the loans will be repaid, but the Bankers Magazine, not given to exaggeration, recently carried an article that suggests at least $37.7 billion of those loans won't be collected.

What can the banks do? Very little, says the author, William J. Quirk, law professor at the University of South Carolina. It isn't easy to get money from a bankrupt country. "In fact, it is impossible," he says.

Dallas woman tells police bizarre story of rape

IRVING, Texas (AP) — A woman who works as an electronics worker in Grapevine has told police a "weird" story of being forced off the road and gang-raped, thrown out of that car, picked up by a truck driver and raped again.

Despite the bizarre nature of the tale, officers believe she is telling the truth. "There are a few minor inconsistencies in her facts," said an investigator, "but it appears to be true."

He said the woman, 27, was "nearly hysterical" when she told police her story, after they found her Saturday morning wandering along a freeway in this Dallas suburb.

into another car, where the men held her at knifepoint, stripped off her clothes and repeatedly raped her.

The driver, in his 30s, listened to the woman's story, then drove her to a secluded area of North Irving where he raped her before freeing her, she told police.

Risks International, Inc., a consulting firm which monitors terrorism, reports that worldwide incidents have risen steadily from 572 in 1975 to 1,511 in 1978. And reports so far indicate 1979 will be still worse.

Between 1970 and 1978, says Risks, 55 percent of Americans kidnapped overseas were business executives. But kidnappings are only part of the story; assassinations, bombings and assaults make up the list.

So far, a large percentage of the problems have occurred in Argentina, Italy, Colombia and Puerto Rico, but that could shift if the Mideast continues to boil. It could mean a U.S. retreat from overseas business.
