

POLY-TRANSFORMATION — Polyvinyl chloride (PVC) resin, a principal product of Tenneco Chemicals, Inc., at its plant in Pasadena, Texas, undergoes what you might call a poly-transformation to make it into dozens of consumer products, like the PVC pipe Mike Hargraves is examining here. The Pasadena plant is undergoing an expansion program to increase its capacity to 750 million pounds of resin a year.

Clayton vows '81 debate

Tenure to be lively topic

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Moore Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — House Speaker Bill Clayton is determined to make the 1981 Legislature take a hard look at tenure for college and university professors in Texas.

"That's one thing that really needs scrutinizing very carefully," Clayton said recently.

Not all legislators agree. Some support the concept of tenure. Some just don't want to tackle such a controversial subject.

Tenure gives professors in effect a lifetime contract if they satisfactorily complete a trial period of several years.

Such job security is nice to have, particularly in the competitive world of higher education.

Educators, who have more political clout than their numbers imply, defend tenure as necessary for academic freedom.

Without it, they say, only professors who take care to dispense no one would survive and talented teachers would leave the state. Higher education in Texas would take on a milk-toast flavor, devoid of the will to improvise or just be different, they say.

Statewide testing plan is extended

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Education spent $1.6 million Saturday for the distribution and scoring of reading, mathematics and writing tests that will be given next spring to 500,000 Texas pupils.

The contract went to Westinghouse DataScore Systems of Iowa City, Iowa.

The statewide test program for those in fifth and ninth grades, required by a 1979 legislative act, will be extended to third grade students in the 1980-81 school year.

The basic skills tests will be given between Feb. 25 and March 12. The district-wide and campus aggregate scores and individual student results will be reported by May 1 to each of the 1,107 school districts.

Statewide and regional aggregate scores will be reported by June 1 to the Texas Education Agency.

Tenure's detractors see things just the opposite.

They reason: A guaranteed job makes a professor lazy and complacent. Talented young teachers see no hope of dislodging the deadwood at the top and take jobs in business. Some good old-fashioned American competition would improve higher education in Texas.

Clayton has insured a clash between these two viewpoints by appointing an Academic Tenure Subcommittee to hold hearings across the state.

The 1981 legislative session will be Clayton's last as speaker — assuming he is re-elected by House members — and some action on tenure ranks high on his priority list.

Clayton says he favors some sort of contractual agreement for professors, with periodic review to insure that they are doing their jobs properly.

That comes close to describing term tenure, which the subcommittee looked at in a hearing Saturday at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

Term tenure at UT-Permian Basin involves a seven-year contract. At the end of the professor's fifth year, a committee of administrators and senior professors decides whether the contract should be reached or terminated.

The University at Odessa is the only campus in Texas using such a system, but that might not be the case in a few years.

Clayton says term tenure would be a workable system. Thus, we can expect it to be a lively issue in 1981.

The subcommittee studying tenure is a strange combination of views and experience.

Rep. Gary Thompson of Abilene is chairman, and Reps. Frank Gaston of Dallas and Frank Madia of San Antonio, members.

Thompson is a tenured government professor at Abilene Christian University, a private school. Gaston, one of the few Republicans in the House, is an ardent critic of the current tenure system. Madia has taught on a campus but is not tenured.

Despite his own professional status, Thompson can't be expected to be a blind defender of tenure.

He says the leveling off of college enrollments mandates a serious look at tenure as more scholars compete for the jobs available.

Thompson says he seeks a way to end the problems of traditional tenure without threatening academic freedom.

Educators throughout the state will be watching closely to see how well he does.

No personnel movement until '82 if base closes

In the event that a decision is made to close Goodfellow, no movement of personnel will begin until at least May, 1982.

That pronouncement by Air Force officials was made here last week as they met with San Angelo and Tom Green County officials to consider issues pertinent to an environmental impact study on Goodfellow's proposed closure.

The Air Force's decision to prepare a draft environmental impact statement (EIS) followed the passage last month of the Military Construction Authorization Bill, which requires such a study. The EIS will consider issues related not only to Goodfellow's proposed closure, but to the consolidation of cryptologic training at Keesler AFB, Miss., and Corry Station, Fla.

Last week's "scoping" meeting here was the first step in the EIS timetable. Air Force officials were also scheduled to meet this week in Biloxi, Miss., to discuss with civilian leaders any impact an expansion of training at Keesler might have.

The Air Force intends to publish a draft EIS in February, 1980, which would be followed by a two-month public comment period.

A final EIS is expected to be released in May, 1980, and a final decision on Goodfellow's future would be announced in July, 1980.

If a decision is made to close Goodfellow, construction of additional training facilities at Keesler would begin in February, 1981, and continue through May, 1982.

Only then could the process of transferring classes from Goodfellow to Keesler and Corry Station begin. Air Force officials announced last week. (Dec. 4).

Wassail and Tally ho!

By CAROL HUNTER
The English heritage of Howard County is unmistakable. Many Englishmen came to our area to work with the railroad. It was this influx which brought about the formation of an Anglican Church, shortly following other more common denominations in West Texas. The Christian, Methodist and Catholic Churches were established between 1881 and 1883. By 1885, Englishmen, Mr. and Mrs. Wilsieat, had given the land for this Anglican mission, which became St. Mary's Episcopal Church, in memory of their deceased child.

The English Earl of Aylesford is one of the most colorful sagas in Howard County history. Everyone knows of his exploits, such as acquiring the Cosmopolitan Hotel, where Swartz is now and where an historical marker about the Earl will be placed after Mrs. Bill Early's research for the marker is approved. Everyone also remembers the Texas tall tales of the Earl's vast land holdings of West Texas land, which he purchased hoping to pass it on to his daughters because the English law of primogeniture prohibited their inheriting his English estate of 16,000 acres.

The 7th Earl, who hunted in India with the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, was in Howard County only a short time. Upon his death here, his body was returned to England and buried on the family estate, Packington Hall. The current Earl, number 11, traces his ancestry back to "our" Earl's brother, Charles. He inherited the estate since there were no male heirs for Heneage Finch.

Packington Hall is one of the major estates in England. It is located near Coventry and Stratford-on-Avon. It is now down to only 3000 acres, for much of the original has been sold to meet "death duties" (inheritance tax). The family manor consists of 100 rooms.

Just to review one's English history, remember that an Earl, with the Bishop, helped to administer justice for the king. He ruled over several shires, comparable to counties. His wife is called a countess, his son, the viscount. Once, indeed, he was very important in the stratum of English nobility.

One of the most exciting stories about the Earl comes from Louise and Jerry Worthy. In 1968, while on a visit to England, the Worthys just "called over" to Packington Hall, while in the vicinity, and to their amazement, were invited right over. Upon their arrival, they were greeted by the Countess who was well informed about Big Spring and showed them numerous clippings which had been sent to them through the years. They met the viscount, then 21, and learned that the "old" countess still resided upstairs at Packington Hall. One could feature in-law problems to be minimized with such a spacious arrangement. The Ballroom was being revamped using white, black, and gold. Jerry said it was elaborate bordering on gaudy.

The gold, threadbare, and tattered drapes in the banquet-sized dining room were out of character for such an estate. However, the Worthys were told that these had come from the Theatre Box of King George III. As the story goes, an earlier Earl commented on the unsightly curtains, and George supposedly answered, "...then you shall have them for your dining room".

The estate has a huge stable and lets leases for hunting and fishing as a source of income. It also has its own chapel, not unusual for an Earl's estate. But wait! Howard County will want to take renewed interest in the "Messiah" this Christmas. Did you know that Handel composed the Messiah right in this Chapel on the existing organ? Supposedly someone in recent years has recorded the Messiah on that organ. We surely need a copy.

Before the Worthys left Packington Hall, the Earl arrived, and just as one would hope. The bookcase moved and in stepped the Earl.

Zula Rhodes, a Pottton House docent, had the same urge to check out the English roots of the Potttons when she made a recent trip to England. She went to visit a niece whose "cottage" is of itself exciting. Located in Cornwall, it is over 400 years old and cannot be remodeled in any way without strict permission from the historical society.

A nearby house has been declared off limits forever being torn down, for ships have used it to mark their sites for hundreds of years. With such interesting things right under her nose, we are pleased that Zula took the time to tour the area where the Potttons and their family originated. It is Salop, once called Shropshire. Zula commented that the area is so beautiful, green and clean, that it must have been a genuine shock for the Potttons to move to the prairie and a rugged, dusty community. Mrs. Pottton visited England shortly before her death. In the same area is Rushall Parish where Mrs. Pottton's brother, Emanuel Ball, was the church organist, sold organs, and taught some children of English nobility. A nephew of Mrs. Pottton, William R. Dawes, came to America and Big Spring to work on the railroad. Also a musician, he became the Church organist for St. Mary's, taught voice and piano. His son, Bill Dawes and grandson, Joe carry on this musical talent today in our town.

Remember that today is a special day at the Pottton House, the third annual Open House. There will be wassail and other goodies, very English. One may see some of the new items such as the cast iron kitchen utensils recently donated by Marie Adams, who with husband Ray gave the woodburning stove discussed earlier.

Applications for financial aid being taken

Students who plan to attend Howard College during the spring semester and are in need of financial aid should apply now for financial aid, according to Terry Newman, Financial Aids Director at Howard College.

Howard College offers a wide range of financial aids. Included among these are grants, scholarships, work study jobs, and short and long term loans. Each year the Financial Aids Office awards more than $250,000 in different types of financial assistance, said Newman.

"The process of applying is simple and must be done on an individual basis," said Newman. "Each person should complete the Basic Grant application. These applications are kept in high school counselors' offices and in the Financial Aids Office at Howard College."

The Financial Aids Office is located in the Administration Building on campus, or call 267-6311, Ext. 28.

CANNED FOOD DRIVE — Every Big Spring Independent School will be collecting canned foods Monday through Friday to be used in preparing Christmas baskets for needy families. Each student is encouraged to bring a can of food to school during the week-long drive. In the high school, prize money will be offered to the class with the most cans. Co-ordinating the effort at each school are the principals who are shown here with the first contributions for the baskets. Seated from left to right are Runnels principal Tom Henry, Marcy principal J.B. Cushing, high school principal Craig Fischer, and Lakeview principal E.S. Morgan. Standing, left to right, are Lt. William Thrasher and the Rev. Carroll Kohl, chairman of the Salvation Army Christmas drive.

Garlick, Mitchell rank first in NIRA standings

The National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association (NIRA) released its regional standings this week, and James Garlick, a freshman from Van Horn, and Pam Mitchell, a sophomore from Tularosa, N.M., ranked first in the All-Around Cowboy and Cowgirl categories.

Skipper Driver, coach of the Howard College Rodeo teams, said, "Garlick, the son of Marvin and Dixie Garlick of California, holds first place in the All-Around Cowboy category with a point score of 236.5. He is third in the bareback riding event, only 19 1/2 points out of first and is fourth in the bull riding event, 152 points out of first place."

Pam Mitchell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R.D. Mitchell of Tularosa, N.M., stands in first place in the All-Around Cowgirl category with a total of 295 points. Miss Mitchell is first in the goat tying event and second in the breakaway roping event. She is 50 points out of first place.

Guy Miller, a sophomore from Lamesa, is in second place in the calf roping event, only 42 points out of first place. Wes Smith, a sophomore from Carlsbad, N.M., is tied for third and fourth place in the team roping event. He is 59 1/2 points out of first place. Cody Lambert, a freshman from El Paso, is fourth in the saddle bronc event. He is 60 points out of first place.

The Men's Team is in the fourth place in the regional standings, with Sul Ross State University in first.

Sherry Altizer, a sophomore from Del Rio, is second in the barrel racing event, only 67.5 points out of first place.

The Women's Team is in second place in the regional standings, with Eastern New Mexico in first by only 26 points.

"We're in good shape both ways," said Driver. "We are where we can catch up really quick. We will have about 6 or 7 rodeos in the spring to catch up in, which includes our own rodeo here at Howard College in April."

"We have always been in this position in the fall (not leading, but close behind), and have been able to pull either to the top or second place for five years in a row."

"After all the rodeos are over next semester, they take the top five rodeos out of the fall and spring, and add up those points to pick the two top teams. The two top teams will qualify for the national finals in Lake Charles, LA. They do the same thing with the top two individuals in each event to decide who is the All-Around Cowboy and Cowgirl," he added.

The next rodeo will be February 22-25 at Sul Ross University at the Fort Stockton campus.

Howard County farmers eligible for insurance plan

Farm producers in 13 Texas counties will be eligible to participate for the first time in an expanded all-risk Federal Crop Insurance program in time for 1980 Spring plantings, Ben A. Jordan, Jr., Regional Director for FCIC, said.

The expansion, Jordan said, is part of 150 counties allocated recently by the FCIC Board of Directors and announced by Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland.

Texas counties included in the expansion are Chambers, Colorado, Cottle, Dickens, Fisher, Harris, Howard, Jackson, Jefferson, Liberty, Martin, Runnels and Tom Green.

Individual crop programs to be made available in each of the new counties are listed below. All crops are for the 1980 crop year, except for those Fall planted crops designated for the 1981 crop year: Chambers — rice and soybeans; Colorado — corn, grain sorghum, rice, soybeans, oats (1981) and wheat (1981); Cottle — cotton, grain sorghum, oats (1981) and wheat (1981); Dickens — cotton, grain sorghum and wheat (1981); Fisher — cotton, grain sorghum, barley (1981), oats (1981) and wheat (1981); Harris — corn, peanuts, rice, soybeans and oats (1981); Howard — cotton, grain sorghum and wheat (1981); Jackson — corn, cotton, grain sorghum, rice and soybeans; Jefferson — rice and soybeans; Liberty — rice and soybeans; Martin — cotton, grain sorghum and wheat (1981); Runnels — cotton, grain sorghum, oats (1981) and wheat (1981); and Tom Green — cotton, grain sorghum, barley (1981), oats (1981) and wheat (1981).

Foresyth named head of local cancer drive

Jerry Foresyth has been named Crusade Chairman of the Howard-Glasscock American Cancer Society's Unit's 1980 education fund-raising Crusade slated to begin April 15.
 "ACS volunteer Foresyth said this April ACS volunteers here in Big Spring will be contacting their friends, neighbors and business associates to offer practical and helpful information about cancer. They will be part of a team of some two million ACS volunteers nationwide who will use facts about cancer to help save lives."
 The Big Spring Crusade also will raise funds needed to support the many ACS programs.

"When people think of the American Cancer Society, they think of research, the fight against cigarettes, or perhaps programs to convince women to protect themselves against breast or uterine cancer," Foresyth said. "We do all of these things and more. One-quarter of our money goes to the support of cancer research. Through our professional education program we help all kinds of medical personnel — physicians, nurses, dentists — to keep abreast of new developments in cancer diagnosis and management. And, importantly, our service and rehabilitation programs help cancer patients and their families," he noted. "The ACS has been a leader in calling nationwide attention to the social and economic needs of people stricken by cancer."

 Another crucial area of ACS work involves hundred of public education programs held in schools, social clubs and in industrial settings, to teach people how to safeguard their lives from cancer. "Most of our programs are run by volunteers which means that the ACS dollar goes very far. We spend only for essentials, and our goals are clear — we want an end to cancer," he said.

Confab on assistance for workers with alcohol problems scheduled

AUSTIN — Texas will hold its first statewide conference on employee assistant programming for workers with alcohol problems in 1980, Ross Newby, executive director of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, announced Saturday.

Joint sponsors for the conference are TCA, the Texas AFL-CIO, and the Alcoholism Council of Texas. Alcohol abuse cost business and industry in the state nearly $1 billion in lost production and increased employee benefits last year.

Newby said. A meeting to plan the conference will be held 1:30-5 p.m. Friday in Room 503G, Sam Houston Office Building.

Planning committee members were invited by Newby, Harry Hubbard, president of the Texas AFL-CIO, and Richard Finley, director of ACT. Newby said the participants were selected for demonstrating outstanding performance or interest in alcohol addition and abuse programming for workers.

Carter fund raising in Texas ailing

Iranian crisis helping and hurting

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The Iranian crisis may be helping President Carter improve his leadership image, but it's not helping his Texas supporters to raise badly needed bucks and boost campaign enthusiasm.
Had there been no seizure of the American Embassy in Iran, the President would have been in Austin Saturday as part of a major fund-raising swing through several states.
His Texas operatives had high hopes for the visit, seeing it as important in the expected tough fight to win the state for Carter in 1980.
It's not every day that a President of the United States comes to town, or even to Texas. Persons who ordinarily wouldn't pay much attention to politics will go out of their way to see the nation's chief executive.

Professional and business types will pay $50 to shake hands with the President in a reception line and brag to their friends about it. The contact might even convince them to give more money or donate time to the campaign.
That won't happen in Texas, at least for a while. Carter's visit officially has only been postponed until the Iranian crisis is settled.
But who knows how long that will be? And even a future visit will not totally make up for the damage done by the postponement.
The money and enthusiasm boost are needed now. The delay has to knock the campaign's planning and momentum off stride.

Lowell Lebermann, an Austin car dealer who heads Carter's Texas fund-raising, projects optimism in the face of the setback.
He says the cancellation only complicates campaign planning. Everything can be made up if the campaign goes into overdrive now and Carter is able to visit Texas later, Lebermann says.
A $1,000-a-head brunch in Austin Saturday was kept on schedule. It's impossible to know how that event was affected by Carter's absence.
Many of the party leaders, lobbyists and would-be power brokers who attend such expensive functions probably went anyway. To them, being seen is more important than whom they see.

Evan Dobbelle, the national campaign's chief money collector, visited Austin last week and admitted that the trip postponement is a political setback in the short term.
Planning and fund-raising must suffer somewhat, he said, but these problems are secondary right now in Carter's mind.
He hopes, he says, that the American people will see that Carter's priorities are correct, and that they will appreciate his political sacrifices.
The President is running a risk by taking the political high road at this time — by staying in the White House instead of getting out among them, being seen is more important than whom they paign.

Whether his decision is based completely on non-selfish motives, only he knows. It could be that Carter's campaign advisors see the high road as the smart road.
Political analysts are saying the Iranian situation could have a tremendous effect on the 1980 election.
The crisis gives Carter a chance to disprove the leadership issue raised by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and other challengers.
But Carter's decision makes things difficult for the political operatives who are trying to bring in money and recruit volunteers. They need the warm body of the President to help stir up things — now.

Kiwanis Club selling Giant Coloring Books

Did you want to get your child a little something different for Christmas this year? If so, then try the Giant Coloring Books being sold by members of the Kiwanis Club. The books, measuring 17 inches by 22 inches, cost $3 plus tax, and make excellent gifts for Christmas. Citizen's Federal Credit Union, Gibson's, Security State Bank, State National Bank, the Big Spring Herald and Billy Smith's office at 101 W. 9th are where you can purchase the books. Proceeds from the sales will be used for the Kiwanis Club and their charities.

Former Officers Club being used by elderly

The former Webb Air Force Base Officers Club has been designated for a combined Senior Center for the Nutrition for the Elderly program, the Howard County Council on Aging, and the office of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Funds for the electrical and plumbing contractors have been raised through federal and state grants with some matching contributions.

According to federal guidelines, a ramp for wheelchair clients must be built and modification of restroom facilities are required before the handicapped can use the building. In addition to these major modifications, there are a number of minor modifications needed. The senior citizen groups need the community's help in raising funds for the project. Contributions may be sent to Joy L. Decker, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, P.O. Box 391; Carolyn Ford, Nutrition for the Elderly, P.O. Box 391; or Christ Freeman, Howard County Council on Aging, P.O. Box 761. All are Big Spring addresses.

After 29-year career

Herald employee retires

Bob O. Clark, 29-year veteran of the Big Spring Herald, sold his last ad Friday.

Bob's retirement will be brief. He'll be joining Jim Cahill in operating the Mobil Service Station, FM 700 and Goliad, beginning Monday morning.

Clark said it was time to get out from under the pressure of deadlines and get into something a little more relaxed before fully retiring later in life. Until then, he'll be working full-time at the station.

The Herald was 46-years-old when Bob first came to Big Spring and the Herald Sept. 9, 1950 as a linotype operator in the production department.

He was raised in Parsons, Kan., and had attended Parsons Junior College where he'd taken a concentrated course in linotype maintenance and had worked in the college's printing shop.

Bob continued to operate the linotype equipment at the Herald until the paper changed over to the offset printing process in 1974. He then moved into the advertising department.

Some of Bob's larger advertising accounts have included Gibson's, Furr's Supermarket, Carter's Furniture, Goodyear, Firestone and the R&R Theatre. Bob's last advertising sale was made to Gibson's Friday. That supplement appears in today's paper.

Bob resides with his wife, Lahoma, at 2203 E. 25th. They have two daughters, Jacqueline Allen, married to Robby Allen, owners and managers of Mary Jo's Dress Shop, and Barbara Clark-Elliott, married to Wayne Elliott, of Seattle Wash.

Bob and Lahoma also have one grandson and one granddaughter.

Bob is a member of the First Christian Church where he sings in the choir.

A successor for Bob's position at the Herald has not been named yet. Laurie Reese, a former Herald advertising salesperson, will replace him through December.

Iowa native named recruiter

Staff Sergeant Monte Cleveland, an Army recruiter in Iowa for the past four and a half years, has been named station commander of the Big Spring Army Recruiting Station.

Sergeant Cleveland, a native of Sioux City, Iowa, spent the last two years as a station commander in Denison, Iowa. Previously he worked as a recruiter in Sioux City for two and a half years. He also served as a military policeman at Fort Riley, Kan., for two years. Cleveland has earned honors as Outstanding Serviceman of the Year for the entire Midwest Recruiting Region, Top Recruiter of the Year for the Omaha District Recruiting Command and is a recipient of the Army Commendation Medal.

The young Army sergeant graduated from Central High School in Sioux City in 1971 and attended Morning-side College for one year before joining the Army. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and of the Optimist Club.

Cleveland has given a lot of time to working with young people including coaching high school baseball in Sioux City for two years. He is married and has two sons, ages four and a half and two months.

SELLING GOOD — Jim Rutledge, left, and partner Jeff Gifford, display their Motorspoke, a fin-shaped piece of black plastic that when attached to the spokes of one's bicycle, it creates the noise of a motorcycle. When Motorspoke hit the Dallas market last July, 60,000 of them sold in seven weeks.

Motospoke does it better

DALLAS (AP) — Two fin-shaped pieces of black plastic are propelling James Rutledge and Jeffrey Gifford to millionaire status in the toy business.

When attached to the spokes of one's bicycle, the plastic imitates the noise of a motorcycle. Kids have been doing the same thing with playing cards for years, but Rutledge and Gifford say Motorspoke does it better.

While parents are not exactly ecstatic over the racket, their children apparently love it. When Motorspoke hit the Dallas market in July, 60,000 of the toys sold in seven weeks.

Even Dallas Cowboy Charlie Waters has endorsed Motorspoke, which sells for $1.49. For a few bucks more, one can send for a Motorspoke Racing Team T-shirt.

Their point proven in the test market, Rutledge and Gifford sent the toys to other Texas markets and plan to distribute their product nationally next year. They predict sales of 3 million.

Motorspoke was born in 1974 when Rutledge read about sales of bicycle flags. He remembered putting playing cards on his bike, and fashioned a cardboard version of Motorspoke.

He obtained a patent and arranged distribution through a national company. That company made the toy pink and made a television ad that Gifford describes as "boring." The toy was a flop. About a year and a half ago, "we started all over from scratch again and redesigned the thing," Gifford said.

Rutledge, 32, stopped producing rock performers for the time being and Gifford, 27, quit his job as a petroleum geologist.

"I had learned a lot about business, and Jim, of course, had a tremendous knowledge of promotion of all kinds," Gifford said.

They formed Motorspoke, Inc., and used the Dallas area as a test market, going from store to store to distribute the toys. They made a television advertisement on a motocross track near Dallas. Three

Girdner back from overseas

Navy Aviation Ordnanceman 3rd Class Ronald J. Girdner, son of Faylene Roberts of 414 W. Over, Big Spring, Texas, has returned from a deployment to the Mediterranean Sea.

He is a member of Attack Squadron 192, (VA-192), based at the Naval Air Station, Lemoore, Calif. While deployed his squadron was embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS America, operating as a unit of the U.S. 6th Fleet.

During the deployment, VA-192 participated in training exercises with other 6th Fleet units and ships of allied nations. Port visits were made in several Mediterranean coastal cities.

weeks after Motorspoke came out, stores were asking for more.

"We were with it every step of the way," Gifford said. "Everywhere we turned people said, 'No. You can't do it. It's impossible.' Obviously, we did it. If you believe in something, and you go through all the details and consider all the facts that you can, you can step out on your own and do something crazy like this and have it work."

Each toy costs 21 cents to produce, but Gifford said advertising costs eat up much of the profit. They decided to skip the Christmas season because of its advertising rates, and will reopen the Motorspoke office on Feb. 1.

Rutledge, who was the lead singer in the rock group Bloodrock, is back to producing performers such as John Nitzinger and Meri

Wilson in the interim. Gifford says the fall and rise of Motorspoke proves you can't trust other people with your idea.

"They don't care," he said. "But if you persevere and believe in what you're doing, you can do anything."

Cowboys clip Eagles to clinch playoff spot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — With rookie Ron Springs running in place of injured Tony Dorsett, Roger Staubach guided the Dallas Cowboys to a pair of second-half touchdowns, a 24-17 victory over Philadelphia Saturday and a National Football League playoff berth.

The triumph, built on Robert Newhouse's 17-yard tie-breaking touchdown in the third period and Staubach's 17-yard tipped spring pass to Butch Johnson in the fourth quarter, gave the Cowboys a 10-5 record. That tied them with Philadelphia atop the National Football Conference East and guaranteed them at least a wild card spot and their 13th playoff berth in the last 14 years.

Each team has one game remaining — the Cowboys at home against playoff-contending Washington and the Eagles at Houston, another contender.

The Eagles, down by a touchdown in the closing minutes, got as close as the Dallas 17-yard line. On a third-and-10, defensive end Harvey Martin sacked Ron Jaworski for 12 yards, then Jaworski tossed an incompleteness under blitzing pressure from the Cowboys' defense.

Springs, out of Ohio State, took over when Dorsett, the Cowboys' 1,000-yard running back, suffered a separated right shoulder in the second period. On the play, Dorsett fumbled, paving the way to the first of Philadelphia's two touchdowns by Wilbert Montgomery.

Springs wound up gaining 62 yards on 12 carries. He rushed three times for 17 yards and Newhouse carried twice for 12 yards before Newhouse swept around right end for the touchdown with 4:54 to go in the third period that capped a 54-yard march and broke a 10-10 halftimelie.

Then, after Dallas stopped the Eagles on their next possession, Staubach masterfully guided the Cowboys 56 yards in 14 plays, chewing up 6:19 on the clock to give them a 24-10 lead with 4:46 gone in the fourth period.

Springs carried five times for 22 yards in that decisive drive — and Staubach scrambled for 13 on a critical third-and-eight play before the touchdown pass — a bullet intended for Tony Hill, which was deflected by a

SCOTT LAIDLAW SCORES THE COWBOYS' FIRST TOUCHDOWN IN THE 7-0 WIN OVER THE PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia defender and grabbed by the diving Johnson just beyond the goal line. It was the first touchdown of the season for Johnson, starting in place of Drew Pearson, the flashy wide receiver who suffered a leg injury last Sunday while celebrating one of his three touchdown catches in a 28-7 victory over the New York Giants.

The Eagles, who last week became the league's first playoff team of this season and were shooting for their first title since their 1960 championship team, found themselves down by a touchdown after just 1:41 of play on Scott Laidlaw's 1-yard run.

It came just three plays after Jaworski's second pass of the game was tipped by Eagles receiver Billy Campfield and intercepted by Dallas strong safety Randy Hughes.

Hughes ran the ball 24 yards to the Eagles' 8, and a pair of offside penalties moved it to the 2 before the Cowboys ran a play of their own.

Midway in the opening quarter, Jaworski completed passes of 15 yards to tight end Keith Kreple and 35 yards to Montgomery before the Eagles stalled and settled for Tony Franklin's 27-yard field goal. But the Cowboys came right back to take a 10-3 lead on a 40-yard field goal by Rafael Septien with four seconds remaining in the opening period.

The Eagles tied it with the only score of the second quarter — a 14-yard pass from Jaworski to Montgomery with 2:40 remaining in the half.

It was the 11th play in a 77-yard drive, highlighted by a 24-yard reception by Harold Carmichael. It was the 11th straight game in which he had caught a pass, extending his NFL record.

After the Cowboys' two touchdowns in the second half gave them their winning edge, Philadelphia drove to its only other TD, a 1-yard dive by Montgomery with 5:51 to play.

Jaworski, trying to throw into the teeth of swirling winds that gusted through Veterans Stadium at more than 40 miles an hour, completed only 13 of 36 passes, while the more conservative Staubach hit on 11 of 21.

Nadia undergoes minor surgery

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Doctors were scheduled to perform surgery on Romanian superstar Nadia Comaneci Saturday to drain an infection that caused her left hand to swell and forced her out of competition at the 1979 World Gymnastics Championships.

Officials at All Saints Episcopal Hospital said the 45-minute surgery would be performed Saturday evening by an American doctor and the Romanian team physician.

"This is minor surgery," said hospital administrator Stanley Hupfeld. "This is a precautionary measure against the infection that could develop into something more serious. We're not taking it lightly."

Officials said the inflammation was caused by an infected hair follicle.

"They don't really know that's the source. That's what they suspect," Hupfeld said.

McKinney nips Estacado

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Running back Cecil Garrett scored two touchdowns and McKinney held off two fierce fourth-quarter offensive attacks by Lubbock Estacado to post a 19-14 Class 3A schoolboy semifinal win Saturday.

Estacado moved inside the McKinney 10 twice in the fourth quarter, but McKinney's Gary Johnson intercepted a Matador pass in the end zone with 8:39 left and an Estacado drive ended on downs at the Lions' 7 with 19 seconds left in the game.

Seattle rallies to defeat Denver

SEATTLE (AP) — Jim Zorn fired a 43-yard touchdown strike to Steve Largent with 1:40 left Saturday to give the Seattle Seahawks a 28-23 National Football League victory over the Denver Broncos.

The loss spoiled Denver's weekend playoff plans. A Broncos triumph and a loss by Cleveland at Oakland Sunday would have given Denver an American Football Conference wild-card playoff berth.

The defeat left the Broncos with a 10-5 record in the AFC's Western Division and dropped the Broncos out of a first-place tie with San Diego, which is at New Orleans Sunday.

The Seahawks, who were eliminated from playoff contention when they lost at Kansas City last weekend, improved their record to 8-7.

Trailing 23-21, the Seahawks took the ball over with 3:51 remaining after a 27-yard punt by Denver's Luke Prestridge went out of bounds on the Seattle 21.

Aided by a personal foul penalty against John Grant and a pass interference penalty against Steve Foley, the Seahawks marched the ball to the Denver 43 with 1:48 showing on the clock.

Zorn then connected with Largent, his favorite target, on the Broncos' 5-yard line, five yards behind Louis Wright, the nearest Denver defender, and Largent went in with the game-winning touchdown.

It was only Largent's third reception of the game.

Steers win over Pecos

SNYDER — The Big Spring Steers overpowered the Pecos Eagles in the third period to rally and take a 68-40 win here in the battle for seventh place in the annual Canyon Reef Tournament Saturday morning.

Pecos led by a 23-21 count at the halftime, but Big Spring exploded in the third period to take a comfortable 44-27 lead entering the final stanza.

James Doss, a 5'10" junior guard, paced the Steers attack by pouring in 21 points in the contest. Dicky Wrightsil added 12 for the Bovines, who now sport a record of 4-7.

Evans and Walker paced Pecos with 13 and 11 points, respectively.

Big Spring was defeated by Borger on Friday by a score of 66-43. Fletcher Johnson and Charlie Brown led the Steers attack in the loss, scoring 12 and 11 points, respectively.

Herald correction

In Friday's edition of the Big Spring Herald, it was reported that Dee Earhart scored a touchdown in the last minute and ran for the two-point conversion to give the Upperclasswomen a 14-14 tie in the BSHS Girls' Powder Puff football game.

The ball carrier that scored the touchdown was not Earhart, but Jackie Roach, who also scored the first Upperclass TD. Earhart did run across the conversion, however.

The Herald regrets the error.

Autry compares baseball to show biz

TORONTO (AP) — When California Angels signed the 5-foot-4, 145-pound Fred Patek at the baseball meetings here this week, you needed a yardstick to measure the smile on Gene Autry's face.

"That's great," Autry exclaimed. "You know, we had Albie Pearson on our first team in 1961. He was about the size of Freddie. People love to see little guys buck up to big guys."

"Patek will bring in a lot of fans."

If the old singing cowboy has learned anything in his lifelong romance with the game it is that baseball is not far removed from show business.

"It's more competitive," Autry, 70-year-old president and chairman of the expansion Angels, said. "But it's also entertainment. Your success depends not just on winning but the drawing power of players on the team."

Nolan Ryan, for instance, doesn't have the winning statistics of, let's say, Jim Palmer, but people come out to watch him strike out batters. Reggie Jackson of the Yankees isn't a .300 hitter but he has a sense of drama. He comes through in the clutch.

"Color is very important."

The onetime guitar-plunking telegrapher who was discovered by Will Rogers is only one of a bevy of show business personalities who have gravitated to baseball and other sports ventures.

Bob Hope became a part owner of the Cleveland Indians. The late Bing Crosby invested in the Pittsburgh Pirates. Danny Kaye is one of the governing partners of the Seattle Mariners.

"Hope got interested in Cleveland because he came from there," Autry explained. "Crosby's association with the Pirates came through his friend, comedian Joe E. Brown, whose son became an official of the club."

In 1960 when the Dodgers' Walter O'Malley vetoed Hank Greenberg's bid for the new expansion club, Autry and a few friends moved in. The Angels opened the season in 1961 with a victory. Now, division winners, they are World Series threats.

"Don't underrate short guys," added the cowboy, who himself stands only 5-foot-5 although — as all oldsters remember — he rode high in the saddle on Champion.

Trades uncommon in baseball meetings

TORONTO (AP) — The Montreal Expos and the Atlanta Braves went home happy, but most major league brass left grumbling, if they had any voices left.

Throat lozenges were the order of day. There was plenty of talking but very little action during baseball's annual week-long winter meetings.

Most clubs arrived hoping to swing major trades in an effort to help themselves for the 1980 season. However, only 11 deals involving 30 players, including two of the immortal "to be named later" and one to complete an old trade, were made.

That summed up the feelings of most observers. A great deal of money was wasted. Even with inter-league trading, the wheels ground to a near-halt, with the least productive winter meeting in memory. Phone calls between home offices would have been a lot cheaper.

"We might just as well have stayed home," said General Manager Spec Richardson of the San Francisco Giants.

At least half of the major league clubs packed up and headed home early Friday.

Japanese love football

The Japanese send us radios and cars and we send them 275-pound tackles and ballplayers who get dirt on their chins sliding into second base.

It's the modern-day version of international trade. No embargoes. A steady flow of traffic crossing the Pacific, coming and going.

The Japanese adore our American sports heroes. It seems they can't get enough of them. It started with Babe Ruth back in the Golden Twenties. It expanded with the visit of golfers Sam Snead, "Mr. Sneaso," and Jimmy Demaret in 1957. Now it's American football that is being infused into the Japanese blood.

"The men — so very, very big, so very, very rough," they say, delighting when they see behemoths in knight-like armor bumping heads and wildly jumping on top of each other on the 20-yard line.

It's baseball, however, which most intrigues the Japanese. For years now, at season's end, there have been annual expeditions of major league teams and all-stars, who draw overflowing crowds in barnstorming trips throughout the island.

The latest foray — a swing by 47 top players, including Pete Rose, Dave Parker, Lou Brock, Rod Carew and Steve Garvey — has just been completed, drawing 270,000 fans.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who looked in on the adventure, found baseball interest in Japan more fervent than ever.

"Frank Cashen and Tom Lasorda, who were in charge of the trip, tell me improvement of Japanese baseball during the past 10 years has been phenomenal," the commissioner said. "The players are bigger and stronger. The pitching particularly has improved greatly."

"I foresee in the next decade the possibility of a Global World Series, certainly an All-Star game between the two countries. It's not unreasonable to believe that ultimately Japan may be drawn into the framework of an international major league competition."

The Japanese aren't likely to get the National Football League's Super Bowl any time soon but an NFL Pro Bowl game in Tokyo or another of the Japanese cities does not defy reason.

The NFL Properties have been marketing their product in Japan for many years now. Tapes of their games are shown on TV, bigger than Laverne and Shirley. NFL equipment and souvenirs clog the shops. The St. Louis Cards and San Diego Chargers played an exhibition game there two years ago.

Now Japan has become a Far Eastern extension of America's college football bowl madness with the so-called "Mirage Bowl," sponsored by an auto manufacturer (Mitsubishi) and a TV network (Teleplanning Communications).

Morgan State and Grambling went over for the first game in 1976. Since then, Utah State, Brigham Young, Nevada-Las Vegas and Temple have spent part of the holiday season in Japan.

The latest was the meeting of Notre Dame and Miami, Fla., in Tokyo's Olympic Stadium last Sunday, drawing a crowd of 80,000 despite a drenching, all-day rain. The attendance would have reached 100,000 if the weather had been halfway decent.

Coahoma, Forsan JVs split

The junior varsities of Coahoma and Forsan split two games in action Friday night.

The Coahoma JV boys took a 48-44 win over the Forsan JV boys. Coahoma was led in scoring by Jay Hall, who collected 15 points and Brett Sterling, who added 12. The Coahoma team is now 3-1 on the year.

David Harrell and Robert Eggleston were high point scorers for Forsan with 19 and 10 points, respectively.

The Forsan JV girls team took a 32-16 win over the Coahoma JV girls. Forsan was led by the efforts of Vicki Baggett, who had 12 points. Karri Robinson was high point girl for the Coahoma JVs, now 2-2 on the year, with seven points.

Hirt honored on All-District 3-B

Garden City sophomore Duane Hirt was the lone Bearkat to be represented on the District 3-B East Zone First Team All-District squad announced this week.

Hirt, a 180-pounder, was honored as a defensive tackle on the elite squad.

District champion Sterling City and runner-up Jayton dominated the All-District team, as picked by the loop's coaches.

Two Bearkats were honored on the District 3-B Honorable Mention list for their efforts this year. They were Darrell Halfmann and Larry Halfmann.

Darrell Halfmann, a 145-pound senior, was honored both offensively and defensively. He was honored on offense as a guard and on defense as a down lineman.

Larry Halfmann, a 175-pound senior, drew his Honorable Mention award for his play at the offensive tackle position.

UNM to summon Norm Ellenberger

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico basketball Coach Norm Ellenberger and his chief recruiter will be summoned to appear before the university's Athletic Council, says UNM President William E. Davis.

Davis made the announcement after spending three hours Friday in a closed-door regents meeting that was called to review "recent developments in the university athletic program."

Ellenberger and Manny Goldstein were suspended Nov. 30 in the midst of an FBI investigation into possible bribery and mail fraud involving the transcripts of junior college transfers.

Davis said the Athletic Council would make recommendations pertaining to the status of the two at the university, and that the recommendations would be forwarded to his office.

regents, he said. Davis said a date for the athletic council hearings will be announced later.

"The purpose of the meeting...was to review the total context of everything that has happened," Davis said. "It wouldn't be proper to relate what they said or their attitudes."

Meanwhile, as the Lobos prepared to meet archrival New Mexico State tonight, Coach Charlie Harrison said the situation may be improving for the four basketball team members who remain eligible.

"I think they're okay. They have to be hurting inside because their friends are not with them," said Harrison, an assistant who took over the head job last week when Ellenberger was suspended. "They have to be confused. We lived for quite a while with uncertainty. At least now they know what is going on."

Athletic Director John Bridgers said Thursday night that five players, including three starters, were ineligible and that another had been suspended temporarily while officials try to determine whether he is eligible to play.

Seagraves advances on penetrations

LUBBOCK — Seagraves missed a sister and didn't mind Friday night, as they tied New Deal, 10-10, but will advance into the semifinals of the state Class A schoolboy football playoffs by virtue of a 5-2 lead in penetrations.

The game was very even statistically and on the scoreboard, but the Eagles, champions of District 5-A, had a big edge in the penetration department, and that is what counted in the end.

New Deal took the opening kickoff and drove 64 yards in 13 plays, only to finally be halted on the Seagraves eight. At this point, Martin Adams booted a 25-yard field goal to give the Lions an early 3-0 lead. But Seagraves struck back two possessions later when they marched 55 yards in seven plays to take the lead. The drive was capped by a 12-yard run by quarterback Dale Welch, with Davis Morgan's PAT boot giving the Eagles a 7-3 lead.

On the first play following the ensuing kickoff, Seagraves' Richard Wilson caught a New Deal fumble in mid-air and scampered to the Lions 14 for a penetration.

New Deal dug in to hold Seagraves at this point, with Morgan booting a 26-yard field goal to give the Eagles a 10-3 lead with just over eight minutes remaining in the half.

New Deal recovered a Seagraves fumble late in the first half on the Eagles 36. They then drove to the 21, but Seagraves would not allow the Lions to gain another yard for a penetration.

New Deal used a big play in the third stanza to tie the game up. Quarterback Ricky Smith went to his right on a bootleg, reversed his field and raced 84 yards to paydirt. Adams' kick tied the game at 10-10, and the penetrations at this time were also tied at two each.

Seagraves drove to the New Deal 17 for a penetration on their next possession, where Welch fumbled, with the Lions Jim McIntire recovering.

The Seagraves defense then took over, as they forced New Deal to start all of their remaining drives except one inside their 25 throughout the remainder of the game.

Meanwhile, the Seagraves offense was good enough to pick up two more penetrations.

Seagraves will now meet defending state champion China Spring, who defeated Pilot Point by a 20-6 score Friday night. The game will probably be played in Abilene.

McKinnon's Grandfalls team a success

In high school football last weekend, Grand Falls suffered an overwhelming defeat to Wheeler. But still there was a victory. This season was the first since Ray McKinnon Jr., a former Elbow resident, began coaching the Grand Falls team that the school had made it into the regional finals. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McKinnon of Elbow and a 1967 graduate of Forsan High School, this is Ray's eighth year coaching high school football in Grand Falls. In 1975, the class B football team won district.

It's not too surprising that Ray, a math teacher at Grand Falls, ended up in high school sports. When he was a student at Forsan, he was active in just about everything and lettered all four years in high school. He was a mile runner, played lineman on the football team, and was the high scorer in basketball.

Also a scholar, he attended Howard College on a Caprock Electric Scholarship for his first year, and completed junior college here on an athletic scholarship. He was the Jayhawks manager both years that he attended Howard College.

While attending Angelo State, he married Doris Franklin, also a Forsan graduate. They have two daughters, Jennifer, 9, and Kari, 5. After graduation in 1972, Ray and his family moved to Grand Falls where Ray coached girls' varsity basketball for five years and this year began coaching boys' varsity basketball. He has coached both football and track since he arrived.

An interesting note is that Ray's brother, Clayton McKinnon, has also coached. Clayton coached the Garden City football team for three years before going on to Tahoka. The competitive McKinnon brothers found themselves competing against each other annually when the first scrimmage games of the seasons included Grand Falls at Garden City.

Apparently, the brothers enjoyed matching their teams against each other because they also arranged for their girls' team to play against each other.

Clayton now works for Cosden while Ray, despite this regional defeat, is still enjoying the successes, according to his mother, Charlene McKinnon, assistant principal at Jack and Jill School. This season, Grand Falls broke its own record with eight wins and a tie with Imperial.

Teacher's released time constitutional, TSTA says

AUSTIN — Released time for teachers and other educators to participate in professional activity is constitutional despite the state attorney general's recent opinion in one specific case, a Texas State Teachers Association official says.

James T. Butler, TSTA interim executive secretary, said the ruling by Atty. Gen. Mark White applies to Fort Worth schools only — and that problem can be cured.

The opinion, as is customary, was very narrowly drawn to deal only with the fact situation presented, Butler pointed out. The question dealt only with a Fort Worth Independent School District policy on released time.

"The attorney general's office has informed TSTA that our interpretation is correct," Butler noted.

Franklin Burkley, president of the Fort Worth Classroom Teachers Association, said, "We are working with the school administration on correcting the board policy to make it constitutional, and that possibility seems favorable."

The White ruling, issued for the Texas Education Agency, held that the present Fort Worth ISD policy permitting teachers to work for professional organizations while receiving salaries from the school district is unconstitutional.

"We are informing our 525 local affiliates," Butler said, "to make sure that any policy their school district may have should contain assurances that there is public benefit from the activity and provision for some reporting system as to how the released time will be used."

It was the absence of these two provisions which apparently led to the attorney general's conclusion in the Fort Worth opinion.

Researchers trying to stop flow of imported red fire ant to West

The red imported fire ant, an agricultural and health hazard, is at a crucial stage in its westward movement, and researchers at Texas Tech University are trying to contain it.

At present the ant is on the fringe of a sub-humid environment in Central Texas, and, if it moves and survives in the hot and dry areas of West Texas, then it could infest New Mexico, Arizona, California and areas along the coast to British Columbia in Canada.

Mounds of the imported red fire ant are sometimes as hard as cement and can damage moving agricultural equipment. The ant's sting could be fatal for humans who are sensitive to ant venom.

"Yet," according to Dr. Darryl P. Sanders, "few people would be able to recognize the red imported fire ant from any other ant."

Sanders, Texas Tech entomologist, heads an interdisciplinary fire ant research team which has been studying the pest's basic biology, habitat and possible ways of controlling populations. Sub-zero temperatures have prevented the northward movement of the ant, but the moderate winters along the ocean could provide suitable environmental conditions for the ant.

Research at Texas Tech indicates that, while the ant is moving at a rate of about 25 miles per year along a 100-mile front, its movement could get a boost if it receives an accidental lift on commercial or other vehicles, especially because ant mounds are found along highways.

Soil types do not seem to affect the ant, as it has adapted to more than 200 million acres in nine states from North Carolina to Texas.

The ant has spread to these states from Mobile, Ala., where it entered this country from South America in the mid-1930s.

The research team, headed by Sanders, includes Drs. James K. Wangberg, Donald Ashdown, Daniel P. Bartell and Oscar P. Francke, all from the Department of Entomology. Drs. Stuart L.

Pimm and Shanti Billimoria, Biological Sciences, are also working with Sanders.

"Chemical sprays over wide areas," Wangberg said, "could control the ant, but there is a need to identify chemicals which are effective and yet are not suspected of leaving any carcinogenic residues."

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has banned the use of at least one chemical, MIREX, because it leaves carcinogenic residues.

"However, chemical control of small and localized mounds can be achieved by using MC-96, manufactured by Southwest Tri Chem Industries. MC-96 is allowed in Texas for use against fire ants," Wangberg said.

The queen ant is the principal target of chemical control, as she controls the population of a mound. But the queen rarely gets out of the mound, "which is why a bait, corn or soybean, is mixed with the chemical so that the worker ants take the bait and the chemical back to the mound as food," Wangberg explained.

The worker ants are sterile adult females. The queen ant produces the worker ants, sperm-producing males and other queens, depending on development and need of the mound.

Parasites, predators and diseases are also being investigated to control ant populations, Bartell said. He and Francke have collected more than 180 species of ants from nearly 8,000 nests to provide information.

Research conducted at Texas Tech is supported by the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA). The program was started in 1977 with a $200,000 contract between TDA and Texas Tech. TDA Commissioner Reagan Brown recently presented an additional $200,000 for the 1979-81 period.

CRMWD water sales increase last month

Although the monthly total dropped below a billion gallons for the first time this year, water sales by the Colorado River Municipal Water District showed a gain in November, the fourth consecutive month of increase. Based on trends of recent months in comparison with last year, the district is due to top the 16½-billion gallon mark for the year. Through 11 months deliveries aggregated 15,295,175,484 gallons, a decline of 1,302,000,000 gallons from the same period in 1978. Nearly all of the decline, however, is in deliveries to oil companies and industries in the amount of 2,494,055,000 gallons, or down 1,161,000,000 gallons for the 11 months. Much of this is due to cut-off of oil companies from surface supplies

CHAMBER BREAKFAST PRIZE — Highlighting the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Breakfast and program, beginning at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday at Howard College, will be a drawing for chamber members. The prize is $250 in two-dollar bills, displayed by Chamber bookkeeper Debbie Legg, above. Anthony Dollars for correct answers to questions that will be asked during the program. Master of ceremonies Jim Baum and Pete Jones promise to have participants to work on time at 8 a.m. The $3.50 per person breakfast is open to the public. Reservations must be made no later than noon Monday.

CRMWD files Stacy Dam '404 Permit'

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has filed for its "404 Permit" with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to construct the Stacy Dam. In April, the District was issued a permit by the Texas Water Commission of the Texas Department of Water Resources to impound the 554,000-acre-foot reservoir on the Colorado River. The permit has been appealed by opponents, and the first step in the process is a hearing in District Court in Austin Jan. 31-Feb. 1, 1980. In order to avoid further loss of time by waiting until the litigation is resolved, the application for a construction permit from the USCE, which acts on behalf of the Department of Interior, is being submitted now, said O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD.

CRMWD water sales increase last month

The same applies to the Texas Electric Service generating plant in Ward County which was cut off in June and resulted in a delivery loss of some 582,000,000 gallons since that time. November deliveries by the district were 986,545,426 gallons, up 20,000,000 gallons or 2.07 per cent. Of this total sales to cities were 836,806,000 gallons, up 99,482,000 gallons or 13.49 per cent. These included Odessa 362,278,000 gallons, up 23.13 per cent; Big Spring 190,204,000 gallons, up 15.74 per cent; Snyder 58,761,000 gallons, up 2.46 per cent; Stanton 8,633,000 gallons, up 70.48 per cent; Midland 216,930,000 gallons, up 4.42 per cent.

FESTIVE WALNUT FRUITCAKES

What's a holiday season without fruitcakes to feast on and give as gifts! And here, from the Diamond Walnut Kitchen, are delicious beauties worthy of the occasion.

Now's the time to start baking as well-fruited cakes are best when aged a month or more to let flavors marry and produce neater slices. Pre-cut candied fruits will speed preparation. So will the already-shelled Diamond Walnuts. Happily, these plump, meaty kernels come nutcracker-fresh in special clear-film bags and vacuum cans. And don't forget a package of those same fine walnuts in the shell for your holiday nut bowls and decorations.

Whichever your choice — traditional or new and unusual — each fruitcake is all the more rewarding for the mellow flavor and crunchy texture of those superb Diamond Walnuts.

The Big Spring Meistersingers sang under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Dodson. Today, the historical home is having its annual open house from 1-5 p.m.

Pottton House annual open house is today

The 1955 Hyperion Club met Dec. 4 at the Pottton House. The club had voted earlier to donate Christmas decorations to the Pottton House in lieu of exchanging individual gifts.

A letter of appreciation was read from the Volunteer Services at the Big Spring State Hospital, thanking the club for its donation toward Christmas cheer for the patients.

The program was a presentation of Christmas music by the Big Spring High School Meistersingers under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Dodson. After a brief business meeting, conducted by vice-president, Gaye Cowan and the introduction of new member, Millie Cunningham, refreshments were served. Co-hostesses were Gaye Cowan, Wanda Owens and Carol Hunter.

Pottton House will hold its annual Christmas Open House Sunday from 1-5 p.m. Polly Mays and Charlie Morehead decorated the house for the open house and are in charge of the arrangements.

No charge will be made to the public for tours through Pottton House and old fashioned jam and sugar cookies will be served with punch. Local people will be playing Christmas music on the old piano. The 90-year-old Henny buggy will be placed at the side of the house decorated for Christmas.

The grandchildren of the Potttons, the Loy Acuff and Everett Lomax families, will be present to greet visitors.

Mothers decorate VA trees

The American Gold Star Mother Chapter met Monday morning for their December meeting at the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Christmas trees on the sixth-floor Nursing Care Home Unit were decorated preceding the meeting. Decorated trees were located in the Patients TV Room and in the Solarium. Arrangements of red ribbon bows and holly decorated doors to patients' rooms.

During the meeting session, gifts were exchanged by chapter mothers.

Miniature crocheted lapel wreaths of green with red bows were presented to the members by Mrs. S.R. Nobles, chapter president.

Mrs. Huey Rogers, hospital representative, reported that 40 patients were served refreshments Nov. 21. She was assisted by Mrs. Herbert Smith.

Individual Christmas gifts for all patients on the third floor will be distributed Dec. 20 at 7 p.m.

The Jan. 17 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. W.J. Barnes, 2206 Johnson St.

Microwave safety

Routine servicing, careful maintenance and proper use of microwave ovens can insure many years of safe use.

If the microwave oven gets hard use or if the user tends to overlook manufacturers' use and care instructions, have it checked for possible radiation leakage at least once or twice a year.

Also check for possible radiation leakage if the oven has been moved either voluntarily or involuntarily. You can buy hand-held leakage testers for home use; however, the accuracy of some of the commercially available testers has been questioned by independent testers.

Call your appliance dealer or a service representative for servicing information.

Microwave ovens sold after Oct. 6, 1971, meet the federal safety standards for microwave radiation emission levels. They do not present a radiation hazard when used according to the manufacturer's instructions. However, if your microwave was manufactured before this 1971 cut-off date, have it checked for possible leakage.

Regardless of when your microwave was manufactured, check for leakage periodically. Also check for build-up of cooking residues on door seals. If this region is not kept clean, it may contribute to energy leakage.

Clean the oven cavity, door and seals frequently with water and mild detergent. Do not use scouring pads, steel wool or other abrasives.

Never operate an oven if the door does not close firmly or if it is bent, warped or otherwise damaged. Never tamper with or inactivate the oven safety interlocks. Never insert objects through the door grill or around the door seal.

Caring for holiday houseplants

If you receive an amaryllis in flower, place it in full sun or in the brightest light possible and keep the soil moist. Turn the pot every day or so to deep the flower stalk erect. The blossom will last longer if the room is cool - 65 to 70 in the daytime. When the flowers fade cut them off but leave the stalk, along with the leaves, which will continue to grow and nourish the bulb. Feed the plant with general houseplant fertilizer when you fertilize other plants. Put it outdoors in the summer, then bring it indoors before frost. Give the bulb a rest of two or three months and return it to a sunlit place to bloom once again.

Florist's azaleas will remain in bloom for several months if you can give them diffused sunlight and a temperature of 55 to 60. They will require large amounts of water and frequent misting. Remove the flowers as they fade. Exotic cyclamen blossoms should last two weeks if you can keep temperatures no higher than 70. Provide good light and plenty of water and humidity. Be careful not to let the water stand in the crown of the plant since flower shoots and leaf stalks rot easily. It is not practical to try to keep a cyclamen for future blooms.

Give full sun and moderate watering to the succulent plant, kalanchoe. It is an attractive, glossy-leaved foliage plant even after the salmon, red or yellow flowers are gone. Like the poinsettia, it requires long nights to initiate blooms. In order for it to bloom again next year, follow the same instructions you would use with poinsettias.

Norfolk Island Pine is an excellent small potted Christmas tree. Lucky is the indoor gardener who owns one. It adapts very well to holiday decorative use.

TWEEN 12 and 20 — He chickens out on pet debate

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'd like to have a pet but I don't know if a dog or a cat is better. My best friend says that dogs make much better pets but my mom doesn't think so. She had a cat when she was a kid and she thinks cats are cleaner and easier to care for.
Please tell me if you have any pets and if so what are they. Also tell me if I should get a dog or cat. — Charles, Merced, Calif.
Charles: We have a dog (my favorite) and two cats (my daughter's favorites) in the Wallace home but I'm going to "chicken" out of telling you what to select as your pet.
But I did discover an excellent booklet that will be a big help and it's free with a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope.
Write to "How to Choose your Four-Footed Friends," 1101 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Suite 700, Washington, D.C. 20036.
Dr. Wallace: My brother was allowed to start dating when he was 15.
Recently I turned 15 and have a boyfriend but my dad won't let us date even with another couple. In fact, he won't allow this boy to go to church with me.

I've tried everything but my dad won't change his mind. I feel he is being unfair and I'm hoping you feel the same way. If so, I'll serve him your column with breakfast next Saturday morning. — Jenny, San Antonio, Texas.
Jenny: Serve it sunny side up! I think your father is using a double standard and I don't think it's fair.
Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and I need some advice. My mom has remarried and I live with her, but my real father lives 100 miles from here and I love him very much. Whenever I call him my mom always gets mad and starts saying bad things about him. What can I do? I've talked to Mom and my stepdad but they just tell me to shut up. — Rosey, Dixon, Ill.
Rosey: Divorce can leave bitter memories for the people involved. Do more letter writing to Dad and when you do call him, do it away from home. There is no need to get Mom upset. But by all means keep in close communication with Dad.

FOA clears up vitamin myths

Vitamins are organic compounds necessary in small amounts in the diet for the normal growth and maintenance of life of animals, including man.
Vitamins do not provide energy, nor do they construct or build any part of the body. They are needed for transforming foods into energy and body maintenance. There are 13 or more of them, and if any are missing a deficiency disease becomes apparent.
The highest amount of a vitamin needed by an average individual is expressed as the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance (U.S. RDA). These allowances were adopted by the Food and Drug Administration.
The amounts of vitamins needed by the human body are in almost infinitesimal amounts. For example, the U.S. RDA of vitamin B 12 for an adult is just 6 micrograms a day. That's six one-millionths of a gram. It takes 28.3 grams to make an ounce. So one ounce of vitamin B 12 could supply the daily needs of 4,724,921 people.
While amounts of vitamins needed by the human body are abundant, there's an abundance of misinformation about vitamins and the universal "need" for supplements of vitamins. To clear up some of these misconceptions, FDA offers the following:
Myth: Organic or natural vitamins are nutritionally superior to synthetic vitamins.
Fact: Synthetic vitamins, manufactured in the laboratory, are identical to the natural vitamins found in foods. The body cannot tell the difference and gets the same benefits from either source. Statements to the effect that "Nature cannot be imitated" and "Natural vitamins have the essence of life" are without meaning.
Myth: Vitamins give you "pep" and "energy."
Fact: Vitamins yield no calories. They, of themselves, provide no extra pep or vitality beyond normal expectations, nor an unusual level of well-being.
Myth: The more vitamins

Mrs. Smith gives Christmas star program

The home of Mrs. Woody Smith, 2504 Rebecca, was the setting for the Dec. 5 meeting of the Planters Garden Club. Mrs. Paul Guy, president, presided.

Mrs. Guy explained to members that the council recommended each club take two downtown planters and see that they are kept cleaned out.

Appointed to the nominating committee were Mrs. Luke Fortenberry, Mrs. A.C. Moore and Mrs. LaVelle Hill. They will report at the January meeting.

The program was presented by Mrs. Smith entitled "A Different Kind of Star." She explained that no matter how bleak and difficult circumstances may be, it is always possible to be warmed by the light of the Christmas star.

Following the program, gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Jan. 2 in the home of Mrs. J.O. Murphy, 700 E. 12th.

Wedding performed in Bandera County

The bride chose to wear a street-length dress of beige accented with peach accessories. A wristlet of white carnations and peach ribbons complimented her attire.

Judy Moore attended the bride as maid of honor. Best man was R.B. Miller.

Test to differentiate various leukemia forms

A new development in the battle against leukemia and lymphoma is generating excitement—and the Science Research Center of Hardin-Simmons University is directly involved in exploring the potential.

The HSU Science REsearch Center is presently supplying a principal reagent for use in a new test which is designed to differentiate various forms of leukemia and lymphoma.

Procedures for this test were developed by noted cancer researcher Dr. Fred Bollum of the Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences, Bethesda, Maryland with the test kit produced by Bethesda Research Laboratories (BRL) of Rockville, Maryland.

Dr. John H. Brewer, director of the research center, made arrangements with BRL for HSU to work on the project.

The test is based upon assays for a particular enzyme in peripheral blood and bone marrow specimens and high levels of this enzyme have a very close correlation with certain forms of leukemia, Dr. Brewer explained.

Using the purified enzyme "terminal transferase" supplied by BRL, Dr. Terry Foster and Carroll Casey of the Research Center have immunized a group of experimental animals to produce antiserum to the enzyme.

This specific antiserum is sent to BRL which purifies it and markets it for the leukemia research test.

If the test is accepted by the medical community, it is foreseeable in the future that every school age child would be screened with the test and leukemia and lymphoma could be detected in the beginning stages, Dr. Brewer said.

As with all forms of cancer, early detection of the diseases increases the chance for successful medical treatment.

It is anticipated that the Science Research Center will continue to serve as the supplier of antiserum for future test kits and Dr. Brewer indicated that the center is making arrangements to supply another of the principal components of the kit.

Brown, Gold will speak at Tech

LUBBOCK — Drs. Louis Brown and Marc Gold, known nationally for their work with the handicapped and with persons who train them, will be featured speakers at a Texas Tech conference this month.

Sponsored by Texas Tech University Research and Training Center and its Technical Assistance and Development Disabilities Technical Assistance projects, the conference will be held Dec. 11-13 in the Banquet Hall of the Lubbock Civic Center. The meeting is entitled "A Colorful Conference: Brown and Gold."

Brown is a professor in the College of Education at the University of Wisconsin. His success is based on a pragmatic approach—he believes that "if it works, use it."

Stressing the link between school and community, Brown finds the ultimate test of training to be whether the student performs the desired skills where they typically take place in the community.

President of Marc Gold Associates of Urbana, Ill., Gold has worked extensively in the field of mental retardation and has developed the "Try Another Way" approach for training persons for a wide variety of tasks.

He believes that service personnel should revise their perspectives regarding competencies of handicapped people and that "95 percent of the time when handicapped persons don't learn, it's because the teacher does not have the proper strategy to teach the desired skill."

Both men have worked as consultants, Brown with the U.S. Department of Education and the Education Testing Service in Princeton and Gold with programs throughout North America.

Darrel Rutherford, project training officer from the Texas Tech Research and Training Center, is conference logistical coordinator.

TO DISNEY WITH LOVE — Here are two of six covers from Grenada and Turks & Caicos Islands, now available exclusively from the International Stamp Collectors Society. The stamps shown appear on other covers. A limited edition of 1,000, this offering is expected to "have enormous appeal to the countless Disney lovers throughout the country," according to Israel I. Bick, Executive Director.

To Disney with love

Some of the world's most beloved cartoon characters are now "starring" on six new covers produced by the International Stamp Collectors Society. Two are cacheted, and the remainder are on striking blue and gold envelopes. The collection features a full-color series of Disney-character stamps from Grenada and the Turks & Caicos Islands.

Not only does the cast of characters include everyone from Mickey and Minnie Mouse to Goofy and Donald Duck, these legendary figures are depicted in scenes from some of their most famous cartoons.

The Turks & Caicos cachet is a beautifully enlarged reproduction of the 6 cents U.S. Commemorative to Walt Disney, issued in 1968, captioned: "Honoring Walt Disney — His Immortality is the Joy He Gave Us." The grenada cachet is a line drawing of a "magic castle," reminiscent of the well-known entrance structure at Disneyland. Grenada's caption reads: "The World of Walt Disney Makes Our World Better Place." All covers bear Nov. 2, 1979, First-Day-of-Issue postmarks from the capitals of their respective countries.

According to Israel I. Bick who heads the Society, "our research shows that there are thousands of stamp collectors throughout the country who specialize in Disney stamps and Disney-related philatelic items. Our collection of brand new covers will delight them — as well as many other collectors and non-collectors who admire what Walt Disney has given to the World." Bick added that only 1,000 of these limited edition, collections will be made available by the Society. "And they are expected to move very quickly, because of the universal appeal of the subject matter. This is why I urge everyone who wants Disney covers to write immediately to: "DISNEY," International Stamp Collectors Society, 6253 Hollywood Blvd., Hollywood, California 90028. The price per collection is $5.95.

MC music department to give Dedicatory Concert

A Dedicatory Concert is being prepared by the Midland College Music Department to be presented in conjunction with the ceremony Thursday, that will officially name the Fine Arts Building in honor of the Allison family of Midland.

The concert is slated to begin at 8 p.m. in the Allison Fine Arts Building recital hall, immediately following the 7:30 p.m. ceremony. The concert is free and open to the public.

Featured at the concert will be the Midland College Chorale, under the direction of Robert LaFontaine. Also appearing on the program will be the Thouvenel String Quartet; Dr. Craig Lister, harpsichordist and chairman of the UTPB music department; Robert Poer, organist at Trinity Episcopal Church and adjunct instructor; and Anthony Sirianni, pianist and adjunct instructor.

Included on the program will be a new choral work, "Bring To The Lord," which is being dedicated to Mrs. Helon Y. Allison. The number was written by Robert LaFontaine, based on a 17th century sacred motet, "Bringt her dem Herren" by Dietrich Bixtehude, featuring the college chorale, the Thouvenel String Quartet and keyboard performance by Mr. Poer.

Next will be a J.S. Bach composition for the women's choir, "All Praises to the Lord," accompanied by Mr. Sirianni and the Midland College Chamber Orchestra. Johann Sebastian Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 3" will feature three solo violins, three solo violas and three solo cellos, provided by the Thouvenel String Quartet, several outstanding string players from the community, and featuring Dr. Lister on harpsichord.

Anton Bruckner's inspiring "Ave Maria," transcribed for choir by John Davis, will feature the chorale and chamber orchestra. It will be followed by the dedicated work, "Bring To The Lord," which is inspired by the 29th Psalm.

Closing the first part of the program will be the Joseph Hyden chorus "The Heavens

'Yanks' celebrates feeling of war and love

According to the director, "Yanks" is a "celebration of feeling." The phrase stands by itself but it also encapsulates a scrupulously detailed account of the psychological interaction of its protagonists, American GIs anticipating the very real trauma of warfare and the British, already tired witnesses to that war's reality.

Most importantly this special vision of wartime is firmly established in the sometimes painful progress of three interwoven love stories involving three recognizably lonely American soldiers and the English women in their lives. These relationships are the heart of the film.

"Yanks" also illuminates the affection between the two countries which has remained a continuing phenomenon since the massive arrival of American forces in Britain during 1943. When the Americans first arrived, the English were profoundly disoriented. "The Yanks are overpaid, oversexed and over here," the phrase seemed to coin itself. It epitomized a real kind of emotionally unsettling war between these allies that resembled the conflicts within an extended family. One not just divided by the paradoxical confusions of a common language but by its ideologically different ways of perceiving reality.

For the British familiar with four years of deprivation it was a bleak world with the ration book as its passport. It was a life of austerity and restraint. Into this severely limited environment the GIs came bringing whiskey, nylons, their native energy and humor. These "invaders" also brought their own confusions and women were not the least of them.

From rather stony, formal beginnings there slowly evolved a tenuous friendship between the two national groups that warmed into a deeper understanding and shared compassion, and sometimes even love.

"In spite of the grimness of the time it was a period of celebration as people triumphed over the raw conditions of their lives, and of a closeness between them as they came together under stress," says John Schlesinger. "The warmth and prodigality of the Americans came in on the wing of all their enormous energy, and was showered on the British when they were already deeply tired from four years of war. It was also a time of torn loyalties in families when new personal relationships unexpectedly threatened the established order of things."

"Yanks" obviously has a deep personal meaning for its director. His roots are in Britain where he continues to live and work a good deal of the time. He has chosen, however, to make his most recent films ("The Day of The Locust" and "Marathon Man") in America. In a very real sense "Yanks" is the artistic paradigm of his own experiences creating within these two cultures.

Schlesinger's professional time spent in this country is somehow reflected in the ambivalence of one of his central characters in "Yanks." Lisa Eichhorn plays Jean Moreton, a young Northern English girl whose love affair with a GI from Arizona (Richard Gere) is continually splintered by her family attachments and her instinctive devotion to the traditions in which she was raised.

The two other bittersweet relationships in his film are also overshadowed by an anxious sense of imminent partings. A shrill train whistle stands as the visceral reminder of the temporal satisfactions of wartime love affairs.

For Vanessa Redgrave, as an upper middle class wife and mother, and William Devane, as an American officer and successful lawyer estranged from his wife back home, the relationship is deeply felt though wry and finally imbued with a special kind of dignity and sadness.

Chick Vennera and Wendy

Morgan play a clear-sighted young couple who face the realities of their situation with optimism and marry before he leaves to take part in the D-Day operation.

In the face of the coming second front — the "real" war — the American troops leave the small British town of Stalybridge in a scene that movingly evokes the period. Wives, lovers, friends make their farewells on a crowded railway platform, a sea of faces, each one searching for a last glimpse of some departing soldier.

As in all his work, Schlesinger's eye and ear for a specific time and place bring a rich texture to each scene. Sharp but compassionate observation and an ironic humor etch his characters without sentimentality. At a boxing match between British and American servicemen he provides a metaphorical prelude to a deeper conflict of loyalties for at least two British girls with GI boyfriends among the spectators.

A New Year's Eve dance is disturbed by a painful racist incident and calmed by the graceful intervention of a group of British girls who seek black soldiers as their next dancing partners. "An incident that actually happened in my own village during the war," says Schlesinger.

Throughout the entire film he draws on such personal memories — his own and those of the scriptwriters — which are central to his theme. Writer Colin Welland was seven years old when American servicemen first moved into his hometown of Warrington in Lancashire. A number of real incidents from that time have been incorporated into the screenplay which he wrote with Walter Bernstein.

WINTERS IN ACTION — Jonathan Winters play the lovable eccentric owner of a basketball team called "pisces" in the Lorimar film, "The Fish that Saved Pittsburgh," a United Artists release.

Comedy, music and ball highlight film

A United Artists release of a Stromberg-Dashev Production, "The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh" was directed by Gilbert Moses and produced by Gary Stromberg and David Dashev from a screenplay by Jason Starkes and Edmond Stevens from a story by Stromberg & Dashev. Music was produced, arranged and conducted by Thom Bell.

In their quest for authenticity the film-makers also used many other professional basketball players including members of the Los Angeles Lakers, Boston Celtics, Detroit Pistons and the New York Nets. The film was shot on location in Pittsburgh, one of the largest sports capitals of the country. The playing sequences were filmed in the city's famed Civic Arena, the only convertible domed stadium in the United States.

"The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh" is the story of a million-dollar bonus baby whose hapless team is in a severe slump until astrology and a 12-year-old water boy take a hand and lead them to a dazzling championship playoff. The combination of professional basketball players and experienced actors created a warm sense of cooperation on the set of the film with acting techniques being traded for tips on layups and slam dunks. Veteran comic performers such as Flip Wilson and Jonathan Winters were amazed at the acting talent, discipline and natural ability displayed by the athletes. The greatest difficulty for the basketball stars proved to be the stop-and-go nature of filming; after warming up in sequences of genuinely hard competition, the frequent pauses for camera setups proved exhausting to finely tuned muscles. This was complicated by the grueling schedule that often called for 12 and 15-hour days. Guided by technical advisor Jerry Tarkanian, coach of the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, the veteran actors, many of whom were chosen for their own athletic as well as performing abilities, were soon competing effectively with the seasoned pros. So much combined exertion caught the film's caterers unawares, as the training table appetites began consuming double the normal amount of food for location filming.

The city of Pittsburgh gave its wholehearted cooperation to the film. During the week of shooting the climactic playoff game, more than 100,000 extras flocked to the Civic Arena to see the championship basketball exhibition and thrill to the spectacular surroundings created by art director Spencer Deverill and special effects foreman Larry Roberts.

Marvelously amplifying both the comedy and competition of "The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh," is Thom Bell's music. Performed in the film by such legendary singers and musicians as The Four Tops, The Spinners, William Hart, Frankie Bleu, Loretta Lynn, Phyllis Hyman, Teddy Pendergrass, The O'Jays, Doc Severinsen, The Sylvers, Eubie Blake, The Thom Bell Orchestra featuring Bell and James. The song score not only highlights the film but is often used to develop crucial plot points and montage sequences. This is Bell's first film work following years as a major composer, arranger, producer and publisher in the music industry.

'Star Trek' -- The universe and beyond

Paramount Pictures' "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" is what the magic of imagination is all about.

The power to soar beyond Earth, to be unshackled among celestial forces, to float freely in that dimension of space where time exists without boundaries or borders.

It is a reality that exists a million light years away from now. Yet as close as the wind to one's touch. If art imitates life, science fiction has attempted to imitate the beyond. Science fiction is a boundless terrain, stretching the limits of possibility (and impossibility) to its nth degree.

For the hundreds of artisans involved — actors, technicians, production coordinators — "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" has meant three years of dedicated work to bring to cinematic life that which has never before been seen on the screen. The goal: to dazzle the senses, to make visions soar. To make possible the journey to the second star to the right, straight on until morning.

This Gene Roddenberry Production of a Robert Wise Film reunites the entire "Star Trek" cast, headed by William Shatner as Captain Kirk, Leonard Nimoy as Mr. Spock and DeForest Kelley as Dr. Leonard "Bones" McCoy. Also on board are James Doohan as Chief Engineer Montgomery "Scotty" Scott, George Takei as Sulu, Majel Barrett as Dr. Christine Chapel, Walter Koenig as Navigator Pavel Chekov, Nichelle Nichols as Communications Officer Uhura and Grace Lee Whitney as Transporter Chief Janice Rand. Newcomers to the cast include Stephen Collins as Executive Officer Willard Decker and Persis Khambatta as the exotically beautiful and sensuous Ilia, from the Planet Delta Four. The filming required the use of eight huge soundstages at Paramount Studios.

It is the 23rd century, and "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" huris us into the universe and beyond.

Now the Enterprise is challenged by a destructive force of intense magnitude. The stage has been set for the great adventure.

Whether or not one is a fan of the original series (and "Trekkies" have become part of international folklore), "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" is the culmination of a phenomenon unsurpassed in our time. For millions of devoted followers, the launching once again of the U.S.S. Enterprise is an historic occasion. For those unfamiliar with the series, it will serve as an introduction to a gallery of colorful characters etched by the original cast members re-creating their famed roles.

The demands of the large screen have meant a complete refurbishing of the Enterprise. Four huge soundstages on the Paramount lot were taken over by the Enterprise, with technicians building advanced technological computerized equipment. Each station on the new Bridge of the Enterprise was completely operable. Each cast member was required to learn how to use the complex instruments on the panels and to know the coding of the various flashing lights, signals and screens. Many months were devoted to the intricate designing and building of the sets, with every minute detail precisely structured.

The highly advanced technological apparatus — including such gadgetry as phaser guns, photon torpedoes, communicators and tricorders — and the flying ships were the result of extensive research. Among the groups furnishing advice on the film was the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), including its Jet Propulsion Laboratory. The object of the research was to extend science fiction into the science fact of tomorrow.

The Enterprise is a veritable floating city, a dazzling space machine bursting through the galaxy at a speed 218 times that of light. It is 947 feet long and 417 feet wide — more than three times the size of a football field.

The creative leadership demanded by a project of the magnitude of "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" centers around two veteran talents with outstanding past achievements.

Producer Gene Roddenberry, a distinguished motion picture and television producer and writer, was the creator and producer of the original "Star Trek." Director Robert Wise is the winner of four Academy Awards (two each for "The Sound of Music" and "West Side Story") and a recipient of the prestigious honorary Irving G. Thalberg Award. Recognized as one of the screen's foremost director-producers, he was acclaimed for the science fiction classic, "The Day the Earth Stood Still." Wise's other outstanding hits have included "The Andromeda Strain," "The Hindenburg," "The Sand Pebbles," "I Want to Live," "Run Silent, Run Deep," "The Haunting," "The Body Snatchers," "Somebody Up There Likes Me," "The Set Up" and "Executive Suite." One of his first film assignments was as the editor with Orson Welles on the famous "Citizen Kane." The skill and imagination Wise demonstrated led him to Wells' "The Magnificent Ambersons," and the direction of added scenes in Welles' absence before the opening of the film.

Gene Roddenberry began his writing career while stationed in the South Pacific with the Army Air Corps, where as a flyer he participated in 89 missions, and sorties. His first scripts were for such television shows as "Goodyear Theatre," "The Kaiser Aluminum Hour," "Four Star Theatre," "Dragnet," "The Jane Wyman Theatre" and "Naked City." For two years, he served as head writer for "Have Gun, Will Travel." His episode, "Helen of Abiginian," the series' first after the pilot, won the Writers Guild Award and was distributed to writers as a model.

Next Roddenberry created and produced "The Lieutenant," the TV series about the Marines with Gary Lockwood and Robert Vaughn starred. "Star Trek" followed. Reaching outside television, it won science fiction's coveted Hugo Award, and became the only series ever to have an episode preserved in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

The screenplay for "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" was written by Harold Livingston, story by Alan Dean Foster. Livingston's first book, written in French, was "Pilots San Visas," and it detailed his adventures flying missions in Israel. He has written seven books, and scripts for such films as "Escape From Mindanao" and "The Soul of Nigger Charley," as well as for more than 100 television shows. One of his most recent books, "Coasts of the Earth," won for him the Houghton-Mifflin Fellowship Award.

Director of photography Richard Kline has lensed such films as "King Kong," "Camelot," "The Furry," "The Andromeda Strain" and "Who'll Stop the Rain?" Jerry Goldsmith, composer and conductor of the music score, was an Academy Award winner for "The Omen" and three times an Emmy winner ("Babe," "QBVII" and "The Red Pony"). He earned Academy Award nominations nine other times — "The Wind and the Lion," "Chinatown," "Patch of Blue," "The Sand Pebbles" (which was also directed by Robert Wise), "Planet of the Apes," "Patton," "Papillon," "Freud," and for the song "Ave Satani" from "The Omen."

The monumental task presented by "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" also included the designing and manufacturing of more than 700 costumes, supervised by Robert Fletcher, who brings to the film a background as one of the most outstanding costume and scenic designing talents of the American theatre. Among the costumes were the new uniforms for the Enterprise crew and the native robes and gowns of the many aliens created for scenes in the film. Special costumes were created for the inhabitants of far-flung worlds: Vulcans, Deltans, Klingons, Rigellians, Andorians, Arcturians, Betelgeusians, Megarites, Kazarites, Saurians, K'normians, Rhaandarites, Zaranites and Amazzarites. The strange races from other imaginary planets also meant an added challenge for a crew of 17 make-up artists. Fred Phillips supervised the complex assignment. Phillips is acknowledged as one of Hollywood's finest experts in his field. Phillips learned his art from his father, an early make-up specialist, and now is assisted by his daughter, Janna.

Responsible for designing many of the elaborate sets for "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" were two of Hollywood's veteran art directors. Harold Michelson has been art director on such films as "Mame" and "Catch-22," and Leon Harris has been associated with 165 motion pictures, beginning as an illustrator on such films as "Cleopatra," "West Side Story," "Hawaii" and "East of Eden."

Phil Rawlins, who had been a young assistant director on the "Star Trek" television series, served as production manager on "Star Trek — The Motion Picture." Jon Povill was associate producer on the film.

Complex and technologically advanced photographic effects for "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" teamed the screen's two acknowledged creative leaders in the field — Douglas Trumbull and John Dykstra. Trumbull has been widely recognized and honored for supervising the optical effects for "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "2001: A Space Odyssey"; Dykstra for "Star Wars" and "Battlestar Galactica."

"Star Trek — The Motion Picture" was not the first time the two have paired to achieve spectacular results in special photographic effects, nor their first association with director Wise. Dykstra was a special effects cameraman and designer with Trumbull on "The Andromeda Strain," directed by Robert Wise, and on "Silent Running," a space drama written, directed and produced by Trumbull. "Star Trek" began before man walked on the moon, at an age when the exploration of space was still a far-flung dream on the drawing boards. The advances of a decade have been incredible, and what lies ahead is conjecture for those with crystal balls. All we know is that what lies beyond our world and our comprehension is something vast, a limitless realm. "Star Trek — The Motion Picture" has been meticulously crafted by hundreds of tremendously talented and dedicated people to whirl the viewer into that breathless excursion through uncharted space. It is where no one has ventured before.

LAST DAY — "Little Star" by Bama is one of the many originals and signed graphics by famous artists on view now at the Heritage Museum by Folger Ranch Art Gallery of Midland. Also on display are outstanding bronzes by Billy Saathoff. Today is the last day of the three-day show which Folger says is the largest showing in the southwest. Today's showing opens at 1 p.m. and continues through 5 p.m.

Santa Claus coming to Howard County Library

By CATHY McCracken
Children's Librarian
Howard County Library

The month of December is always such a busy time that most of us begin dreading its arrival as early as October. By the second week in December, we stay up late every night trying to squeeze more hours in the day so that all of our errands and chores can be finished. There's one group of people, however, who look forward to December beginning as early as September and hope for more hours in the day just so they can ask the age-old question "When is Santa Claus coming?" Children!!

Christmas is a time for children of all ages to decide what they want Santa Claus to leave under their tree on December 25. But how do you let Santa know what you have on your list? The Howard County Library can solve the problem. On Dec. 15 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., the jolly man in the red suit will be in the library with his lap all ready to hold your youngster (or you!) and listen to what he or she hopes to get for Christmas. Santa Claus will be waiting for your child to whisper his wishes in his ear and will make sure that his elves know what toys need to be made for the big trip to Big Spring, Dec. 24.

During Santa's visit, the Friends of the Howard County Library will be hosting an open house with cookies, punch and coffee, so that we can wish all of our library patrons a Merry Christmas. While your child is talking to Santa Claus, take time to refresh yourself at this busy time of the year.

If you have never been to the library, located at Fourth and Scurry, the open house will be a perfect time for you to come and see what we offer.

Mark the date on your calendars now — Saturday, Dec. 15 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Round up all of your friends and take a break from all of the bustle and bustle of Christmas at the Howard County Library. Visit with Santa Claus and enjoy the tastes and smells of a Big Spring Christmas. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all of you.
