'Meaningful' action asked; hostage outlook not good

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States called on other U.N. members to join it in "meaningful" action against Iran after the second Soviet veto in a week killed a Security Council resolution authorizing sanctions until the American hostages are released. But Iran's foreign minister said the hostages would be kept until the shah is returned, even if this took "forever."

"... We urge all other members of the United Nations to join with us in the application of meaningful measures against the continued holding of the hostages in defiance of international law," U.S. Ambassador Donald McHenry told the council after the veto Sunday night nullified a 10-2 vote in favor of collective punitive action. "Only thus will we demonstrate to Iran that their lawless actions are viewed with disfavor by all nations."

The council in a resolution Dec. 31 called on Iran to free the hostages and said if they were not released by Jan. 7, it would "adopt effective measures." McHenry said this was a "binding obligation" to adopt sanctions which the Soviet veto thwarted, and "the membership of the United Nations at large remains obliged... to take effective measures consistent with the U.N. Charter to carry out that resolution."

The Soviet Union abstained on the first resolution, adopted by a vote of 11-0. McHenry said the Soviet veto on the sanctions resolution was "an act of political expediency designed to buy Iranian silence on Afghanistan and Soviet advantage in the area."

On Jan. 7, the Soviet Union cast its first veto of the new year against a council resolution protesting the Russian military intervention in Afghanistan.

Among steps against Iran being considered by the United States is a naval blockade to enforce economic sanctions and a reduction of Western diplomats in Tehran, U.S. officials in Washington reported. Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher will discuss this with America's allies in Europe this week as he tries to line up allied action on Afghanistan.

But Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said if the United States continues to "play politics" with the embassy impasse, the hostages will remain in captivity. He told a Tehran news conference shortly before the U.N. vote that his government was prepared to wait "more or less forever" for the extradition of ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, as demanded by the students who seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and the approximately 50 hostages Nov. 4.

CAMPAGNING IN TEHRAN — A flower vendor stands at a street corner in front of a wall bearing election posters for men campaigning for presidency of the new Islamic Republic, Sunday in Tehran. Iranians will elect a new president on Jan. 25.

Soviets tighten grip in Afghanistan

Moslem rebels were reported putting up stiff resistance to Soviet troops in the highlands of eastern Afghanistan as thousands of Afghans packed mosques in the capital city of Kabul to mourn political prisoners killed by the previous communist government.

Diplomats in Islamabad, Pakistan, said the Afghan rebels had stepped up fighting near the eastern border with Pakistan. Pakistani newspapers reported heavy fighting across the rugged countryside of the Central Asian nation, including the northern region bordering the Soviet Union. The reports could not be confirmed, and Western diplomatic sources in Kabul said the Soviets had tightened their military hold on the country, gaining control of the north-south, Herat-Kandahar highway in the western part of the country. The highway is one of the two main paved roads in Afghanistan.

One Western informant told Associated Press correspondent Marcus Eliason, who is in Kabul, that fighting had stopped "almost everywhere." But other sources in Kabul told Eliason combat apparently was still going on in the northeastern province of Badakhshan, and in Paktia, southeast of the capital and near Pakistan.

"They (the Moslem rebels) can go on harassing the Russians forever," said one source. "They have been doing this sort of thing for centuries."

In neighboring Moslem Iran, where up to 50 Americans are still being held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh linked the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan to American "interference in the internal affairs" of Iran and other countries. Tehan radio quoted Ghotbzadeh as saying: "As long as America continues to use its influence to interfere in the internal affairs of Iran and other parts of the world, the Soviet Union too finds the opportunity to intervene militarily in Afghanistan."

He said, "The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan is extremely dangerous for our country... We cannot remain silent about it," and added, "We fully support the Afghan people's struggle against the Soviet occupation of their country and condemn the action taken by the U.S.S.R."

Carter steps up campaign that may boycott Olympics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is warning that normal trade with the Soviet Union will not resume soon "under even the best of circumstances," as his administration steps up a campaign of reprisals that could lead to a boycott of the Moscow Olympics.

Strongly defending his handling of the crises in Afghanistan and Iran, Carter declared Sunday night that "political considerations and economic profit" must be set aside in response to the threats.

Earlier, a White House official said Carter "cannot support U.S. participation in the Moscow Olympics if Soviet troops are still in Afghanistan."

The president Sunday dispatched Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher to Europe to consult with U.S. allies about a possible Olympic boycott and joint military and economic aid to Pakistan, which borders Afghanistan.

Carter tentatively has approved $400 million in U.S. aid to Pakistan beginning immediately, if Congress consents, the administration said. All the weapons would be "defensive" and warplanes would be excluded in deference to India's concern about strengthening Pakistan, its neighbor and longtime antagonist.

The administration's thrust Sunday also included a renewed threat to Iran. Defense Secretary Harold Brown indicated a naval blockade of Iran is being considered to counter its holding of 50 U.S. hostages.

"Specifically, we cannot rule out the option of cutting off Iranian imports by one means or another," he said about a possible blockade.

Such a blockade, however, is considered a long-range contingency.

Brown, who just completed talks with Chinese leaders in Peking, said he expects continued cooperation with the Chinese in response to the Soviets.

Carter, addressing the White House conference on small business, denounced the Soviet Union's "massive invasion of the small, nonaligned country of Afghanistan" and asked Americans to "stand with me."

"In reaching my decision to act, I had to face some tough choices," he said. "There are many risks. There are economic costs. We are sharing those costs, so the burden will not fall only on you or on American farmers or any other particular group."

Parts of county lose gas service

Natural gas was cut off this morning to approximately 1,000 meters in Sand Springs and Coahoma when a two vehicle accident west of Coahoma caused a tractor trailer to strike the main gas line.

According to an official at Pioneer Natural Gas, power was expected to be restored in Sand Springs early this afternoon. Power to Coahoma residents was not expected until the later part of the day.

The tractor trailer, driven by Mario Flores of Midland and a vehicle driven by Herman Porter of Coahoma were both driving west on Interstate Highway 20. The tractor trailer hit the second vehicle, causing it to turn over into a ditch. Flores then crossed the North Service Road, hitting and destroying the main gas line.

A passenger in Porter's vehicle, Ernest Wallace, was taken to Hall-Bennett Hospital where he was treated and released.

The damage was estimated at $10,000.

Change of venue granted Juarez

A pre-trial motion for change of venue was granted this morning to Ismael Juarez, Jr., because of pre-trial publicity.

No information is available yet on where the trial will be rescheduled and when.

Big Spring Herald reporter Don Woods and KBST reporter John Brooks testified in a pre-trial hearing on the motion for a change of venue. Both reporters testified that pre-trial publicity had been released.

Woods testified that he had written the story Thursday contrary to the wishes of District Attorney Rick Hamby. Information included in the story was a matter of public record, Woods maintained.

SHOUTING HER SUPPORT — An unidentified supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment shouts her support during a rally at Richmond's Capitol Square Sunday. More than 7,000 people took part in a march and rally. Virginia has yet to pass the controversial amendment.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Silly laws

Q. Seems like motorists often whistled down by patrolmen are often paties for laws they never heard of, but are supposed to know all about. Haven't there been some silly laws on the books in the past?

A. Laws are written primarily for the protection of the public at large. But, you're right, there have been some rather ridiculous laws. One of the first American traffic regulations required a motorist to stop his car and fire off a roman candle whenever a horse-drawn vehicle came into view.

Banquet speaker is active in civic work in Wichita

A broadcaster who turned banker 25 years ago will be the principal speaker at the Jan. 26 Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce membership banquet in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

He is Robert (Bob) Gadberry, a native of Missouri. Gadberry has spent most of his adult life in Kansas.

He is a vice president and director of Public Affairs for the Fourth National Bank and Trust Company of Wichita, Kan. — the largest bank in the state.

Gadberry graduated from Pittsburg State University and was honored in 1978 as recipient of the University's Meritorious Achievement Award for alumni. A veteran of WW II, he served in the Caribbean Defense Command stationed in the Panama Canal Zone, where he headed the news and special events section for Armed Forces Radio Service.

He has been active in civic and community affairs. He headed the United Way in Wichita, served on the Board of Governors for the American Red Cross for six years and currently is the national secretary of the American Cancer Society.

He has traveled extensively, with frequent trips abroad.

Gadberry is married to the former

BOB GADBERRY

Grace Hood of Columbus, Kansas. They are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Marcia Shideler and Mrs. Diane Fielder.

Tickets for the banquet are available at $10 each and can be purchased from any member of the Ambassadors Club. Chamber officials are hopeful the dining hall will be sold out. It seats 800.

Rings sold in a hurry

One-day results are not promised by the Herald's Classified Ad section but it's flattering to learn that things advertised for sale in the newspaper often move that fast.

A person recently used a Herald want ad to offer two diamond rings for sale. He says "the phone rang off the wall" and he sold the jewelry the first day.

"Thanks for doing such a good job," he told an employee of the Herald. "I sold the ring within two hours after the ad came out in the Herald and I was still getting calls at 7:30 the next morning."

Call 263-7331 for speedy results, whether you are trying to buy or sell something. A courteous sales person will handle your order.

WEDNESDAY

The Senior Citizens monthly noon luncheon will be at the Senior Citizen's Center.

Tops on TV: 'Power'

A premiere motion picture, entitled "Power," scheduled for 8 p.m., on Channel 2, concerns a union organizer who quickly rises to power, after which his life becomes quite complicated. The setting is Chicago in the 1930s. Joe Don Baker is the organizer. Ralph Bellumny is also featured. The movie will be concluded Tuesday night.

Inside: 'Arc of instability'

THE PERSIAN GULF and northern Indian Ocean have become seas of instability at a time when American prestige and credibility in the region are at a low ebb. In a five part series, Associated Press writers examine what is happening and what it means to the United States, the Soviet Union and the nations that border the "arc of instability." See the first part of the series on page 3-A.

ROSA PARKS HAS been proclaimed "mother of the civil rights movement," even a "saint," for refusing to yield her bus seat to a white man in 1955. "Saint?" she said with a laugh. "I don't consider myself a saint at all." See page 4-B.

Outside: Cooler

High today in the upper 70s, low tonight in the lower 40s. Not as warm Tuesday, with temperatures near 70. High Sunday was 78 and low last night was 38.

Strike forces revised Southwest schedule

DALLAS (AP) — Pickets surfaced at Dallas' Love Field Airport as Southwest Airlines management personnel worked feverishly to re-route flights affected by an International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers strike.

Southwest spokeswoman Camille Keith said Sunday that 745 of the airline's weekly flights would be cut from the schedule but management personnel would keep 901 flights in the air.

Ms. Keith said Southwest would operate a revised schedule six days a week to all 12 cities served by the Dallas-based carrier. New Orleans is the only city outside Texas served by Southwest.

All Saturday flights have been canceled.

A federal mediator called company and union officials back to the bargaining table Saturday in a last-minute effort to avoid a walkout by 106 machinists, cleaners and stock clerks.

However, pickets went up at Love Field and at two maintenance buildings after the session failed to produce a settlement to replace a three-year contract that expired in August.

Shortly after negotiations broke down, Southwest president Howard Putnam said, "We will not make a new offer."

"The IAM has continued their unreasonable demands which the company has told them repeatedly it cannot meet. We are still a long ways apart," Putnam said.

A union spokesman said Sunday that union members were picketing the Southwest terminal at Love Field and two maintenance buildings.

"Everything's going smoothly so far," he said.

He said some airline employees were honoring the pickets, but "those who are not organized (in a union) are not."

No further negotiations were scheduled, he said.

Putnam added the airline is a short-haul commuter and must operate with a higher productivity and a lower cost structure to offer fares 40 to 50 percent lower than many other carriers.

"The contract was rejected by 90 percent of the members, and a strike vote was approved by the same amount," said IAM spokesman Joe Medley.

The 106 union members voted on the airlines' "complete and final" offer Saturday in three separate meetings. As soon as the votes were counted, federal mediators sought another negotiating session in order to avoid a walkout.

The Texas airline said its final pay offer totaled more than $1.6 million in pay hikes and additional compensation and benefits.

The airline offered to raise the base pay from $9.10 to $11 an hour in the first year of a new contract, but union officials said increases over the next two years would be inadequate.

Arc of instability: Overview of crises

The focus of world tension — once embattled Berlin, later the hilly battlefields of Korea and then the jungles of Southeast Asia — has shifted to a string of states along the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean.

Turmoil in Iran. Soviet troops in Afghanistan. Unrest of varying degrees in Saudi Arabia, and in the Yemens — North and South. Iraq, India and Pakistan wracked in wary dispute with neighbors.

Almost two years ago, U.S. National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski coined the phrase "arc of instability" to describe the region.

Here is a nation-by-nation overview of the crisis areas along the "arc of instability":

IRAN

Until the fall of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Iran was regarded as the West's "policeman" in the Persian Gulf. It provided a block between the Soviet Union and the oil fields to the south.

Iran also was the world's second-largest exporter of oil, producing up to six million barrels a day.

The unity that brought victory to the revolution led by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has quickly disintegrated.

Iran's relations with its neighbors are strained. Tehran has clamped down on Marxists, lending at least moral support to Afghan insurgents fighting the Soviet-backed rulers in Afghanistan.

Border clashes sporadically flare between Iran and Iraq, which Tehran has accused of supporting Kurdish and ethnic Arab rebels.

The Shah's admittance to the United States for medical treatment prompted the Nov. 4 takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by militant students demanding Pahlavi's extradition. Although Pahlavi has left the United States, militants continue to hold some 50 American hostages at the embassy.

The United States has reacted with a series of political and economic sanctions, but neither the sanctions nor the new threat posed by the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan has budged the militants. The Carter administration believes they are Marxists who may be beyond the control of Khomeini.

SAUDI ARABIA

The wide belief in East and West that Islamic revolution "can't happen here" was shaken when 1,200 armed fanatics stormed the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Islam's holiest shrine, last November.

Arab sources say the mosque siege was part of a plot to overthrow the Saudi royal family and proclaim a government patterned after the early days of Islam.

America's vital interests are at stake in the kingdom. The world's leading exporter of oil — nine-million barrels a day — sits on a century's worth of oil reserves, up to 300 billion barrels.

Relations between Riyadh and Washington have cooled because of U.S. sponsorship of the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

As a deterrent to Soviet expansionism, the Saudis prefer to see U.S. military might just "over the horizon." Although pro-Western Oman lies just next door, a Western diplomat said he thought the Saudis would regard it as an ideal location for an American base.

IRAQ

The Arab socialist oil state now packs the biggest military punch on the Persian Gulf. Its 212,000-man armed forces are largely Soviet supplied, boasting 1,900 Russian-built tanks and some 350 aircraft.

Recently, Iraq has cooled toward the Russians. After purchasing more than $1 billion worth of Soviet arms, Iraq is diversifying its purchases and is shopping in the West.

President Saddam Hussein denounced the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan as an act that "should not be justified and for which no pretext should be found." At the same time, however, he accused the United States of exploiting the crisis to justify its own possible intervention in the area. Iraq is a leader of the Arab hardline opposition to the Camp David peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

THE YEMENS

The two Yemens — North Yemen and South Yemen — have been a frequent flash-point, but they did not become the focus of superpower rivalry until their two-week border war last February.

After troops from Marxist South Yemen crossed the border at three points, the United States rushed in $383 million in military aid along with $200 million in backlogged orders to the north.

That seemed to put North Yemen firmly in the Western camp, but last fall the Soviets sought to neutralize the north with a large-scale weapons deal of its own.

INDIA AND PAKISTAN
India and Pakistan appear as much concerned about their own 33-year-old rivalry as they are about the Russians on their doorstep.

India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, who denies pro-Soviet leanings, says a U.S. "global strategy" that includes firmer alliances with China and Pakistan "does pose a danger" to India.

Pakistan is reacting cautiously to President Carter's decision to speed military aid. Pakistani President Zia ul-Haq has made it clear he does not want American troops in his realm and has said that geography — meaning the proximity of the Soviets — dictates accommodation with his new "superpower neighbor."

New American arms sales to Pakistan can be expected to put new strains on U.S. Relations with India, and there are fears the move might also set off a new East-West arms race in the area.

Weather

Dense fog creates near zero visibility

By the Associated Press
Dense fog cut visibility to near zero over much of Southeast Texas and East Texas early today.

The fog was inland from the Gulf of Mexico 100-125 miles except in Southeast Texas where the fog spread inland as far as 200 miles.

Driving conditions were hazardous as far north of the coast as the Lufkin and College Station area, forecasters said.

Forecasts called for mostly clear skies and warm temperatures statewide. Highs were to be mostly in the 70s.

Early morning temperatures were ranging from the 30s and 40s in North Texas to the 50s and 60s in South Texas.

Anti-nuke protestors want to go to jail

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — Anti-nuclear demonstrators, arrested on trespassing charges twice at the Comanche Peak power plant, say if authorities do not press charges, they will lose valuable publicity for their cause.

Somervell County Sheriff Frank Laramore, citing expense to the taxpayers, has said he will not file charges against 103 protestors arrested in November during a demonstration at the North Central Texas power plant near here.

"We like having the trials because we like the subpoena and the publicity. When you get publicity, you educate more people," said Dallas attorney Tom Mills, who has defended several protestors.

"Obviously we're curious, but I can't really say what our strategy will be," Mills said.

Members of the Comanche Peak Life Force were escorted onto buses Nov. 25 after scaling the plant's outer fence with homemade ladders. They were arrested on Class C misdemeanor criminal trespass charges, punishable by a maximum fine of $200.

Mills said the trials of two protestors arrested in June have been delayed twice, and no trials have been scheduled for others.

Of the two cases that have been tried, one defendant is in jail for refusing to pay a fine and another is pending appeal.

"We just don't know what they're going to do. We don't know how that's going to affect future protests, if they are not even going to prosecute them," Mills said.

But Texas Utilities Generating Co., operator of the plant, and the Somervell County attorney still could press charges.

Ray Ward, spokesman for Dallas Power & Light, one of three owners of the power plant, refused comment on the charges.

WHERE CAN SENIOR CITIZENS GET HELPFUL INFORMATION?

We have been asked often for information and literature about services available to our community's senior citizens. We've had to seek out material about Social Security, old age and survivor's benefits, VA claims, insurance-processing, wills, retirement-planning, etc.

We've become a kind of Information Center from which senior citizens (Or anyone else for that matter) may receive pamphlets, reading lists, and even free advice on "where to find it" for all manner of important data.

We sometimes speak before Adult and School Groups on these subjects and others pertaining to funerals. We'd be glad to speak to your group.

If you have questions on some of these topics, we'll try to help you get the answers. There's a wide range of source material, some of which we have and others we can help you locate.

Price of gold jumps to new records today

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices jumped $25 an ounce to new record levels in Europe this morning, following sharp rises over the weekend in the Far East. The dollar was mixed.

At mid-morning gold was trading at a record $648.50 an ounce in London and Zurich. The previous European trading high was $645 in Zurich on Jan. 3.

Last Friday, gold closed at $622.50 in London and $21.50 in Zurich.

The new surge to record heights followed hectic weekend trading in the Far East. Gold hit an all-time peak of $674.54 in Hong Kong on Saturday, topping its previous high of $673.16 touched a week ago in the British colony.

Silver also rose today to $39 an ounce in London, $1 off its previous record high of $40 reached on Jan. 2 in a worldwide scramble for precious metals in the wake of the Soviet move into Afghanistan. Silver closed at $37.25 Friday.

China must be jittery about Soviet moves

It has been very fashionable among Americans to refer to Jimmy Carter as a 'do-nothing' president. The political cartoonists paint him as a hayseed with buttoned shoes. He is held in contempt by the intellectuals, who think he is wound up by his wife each morning before he is sent to work.

Well, Carter took some action recently and what did it get him but a knot on the head? His embargo on grain shipments to Russia and his subsequent plan to repay American farmers got him mixed reviews, most of them bad.

IT'S EASY TO second guess, especially when one wears the stripe of a different party. Fellow Democrats have been flaying him, too, however.

Those who are verbally abusing

Carter's name, should lend the problem some thought. Given the identical set of circumstances, what would you have done? Very few other options were available to Mr. Carter, after the Russians decided that Afghanistan was ripe for plucking.

Direct military responses would have been glaringly stupid. Only some of those Americans who would never be called upon to lift a rifle demanded that the United States bare its teeth to the Muscovites.

Carter could have resorted to some salty dialogue but the Russians don't spook easily. The Soviets aren't very good at debating, anyway.

Carter accompanied the grain embargo with a United Nations resolution (though vetoed by Russia, the world got its message) and a plan to protest Afghanistan's neighbor, Pakistan, which could be the Russians' next stepping stone.

True, Russia countered Carter's Pakistan's pledge with warnings of its own, but it's generally assumed that Russia will not risk a third world war by battling U.S. troops anywhere on the globe.

IT LOOKS LIKE the American taxpayers will be out another $2.5 billion to pay the farmers for the grain they won't be selling to Moscow, and many Americans will not like that, but the farmers should not be made to take the fall in a situation like this. If governmental action was responsible for the loss of the farmers' sale of grain, then the government is duty bound to repay the farmers for that loss.

Will the embargo accomplish anything? Probably little, if anything. The decision, however, will alert the Russians to the fact that we are not oblivious to the fact that they are trying to bring all nations into their orbit.

Russia, of course, will not withdraw its troops from Afghanistan, but the embargo wasn't established to accomplish that. It, and Carter's accompanying pledge to help Pakistan should make Russia think twice before embarking upon any other military move.

Had Carter failed to react, it would have been interpreted as American fear or weakness. Russia could have marched at will over the rest of the Middle East and Asia.

One thing looms likely: America's ties with China will strengthen. We have two oceans between us and Russia. China sits next door to the Soviet Union and isn't sympathetic with Russia's plan at all.

Attitudes change

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

As one of the last of the magazine readers (if Poncho had public stock, I'd invest) I've noticed over the years that quite a few things have changed. Of course, fashions have changed. But it's the attitude of the articles that have changed the most. Fifteen years ago, teenage magazines told us what was respectable and what wasn't when we went out on a "date." Now we have what should be expected of him in the "relationship."

BUT THE ONE thing that hasn't changed are those cheap little ads in the back of what seems to be, every magazine. I mean the respectable ones with the two page spreads for the finest clothes and make-ups.

They still accept those ads — you know — the ones that have two pictures, a before and after. One is the stomach loss. The other is the bust gain.

With the stomach loss we have the woman, face unseen, facing sideways pushing her stomach out as far as it will go, and on the right she's turning blue holding it in. The advertising is for an "exerciser," but it doesn't tell you what kind of "exerciser" it is. Only that "experts" have praised it. Except that they don't give the names of the "experts," just the initials and their job that makes them an expert. Initials are only given for the satisfied customers also.

To get this marvel of inventions, just send $9.98 plus $1 in postage to a post office box address in Las Vegas. I don't trust anything that comes out of Vegas in the first place and I certainly wouldn't advise anyone to send for something that only claims a post office number.

THEN WE HAVE the breast ads, only in reverse. On the left we have the woman, probably the same one from the stomach ads, posing in a bathing suit, flat as a board. On the right, we see her miraculously busting (er, excuse me) out of her suit. I always suspected they used two cantaloupes and painted them a flesh color.

Then we have the other little things that are advertised, such as, how to have more beautiful eyebrows, only $7.95; how to gain 30 pounds for $5.95 or how to whiten your teeth for $2.98, all with shipping charges. And all with money-back guarantees. I say, buy a pair of tweezers for a dollar, drink milkshakes, about 90 cents each, and purchase a toothbrush for $1.19.

I'd love to see these ads stop, but they won't. They've been going on for years, as much in the "respectable" magazines as in the "confidential" magazines that one finds in beauty salons. They also have one other thing in common. Once these ads start in the back of the magazines, the further back you go, the more idiotic the ads get.

Calling off cowards

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The behavior of all (but one) of the Republican candidates, in the face of the call by President Carter for modest retrenchment in our commitment to feed the Soviet Union, causes one to despair over the democratic process. The easiest way to put it is that the farmers of Iowa appear, at least over the short run, to have a veto power over fruitful discussions of the United States foreign policy. And anything that jeopardizes the profit from the sale of corn or wheat brands a man as unfit to be president. The irony is that in every case, the Republican candidates have been — correctly — assailing the president for the weakness of his foreign policy.

HERE IS WHAT THEY said, when the question was asked at Ames, Iowa:

Connally: "I don't think the Iowa farmers should pay the price for the failure of the Carter foreign policy."

Baker: "I do not support an embargo on foodstuffs to the Soviet Union."

Dole: "Carter has devastated the American farmer; he made the farmer the scapegoat for past failures of American foreign policy."

Bush: "I disapprove of the president's action."

Crane: "The last thing in the world, it seems to me, we should embargo is the exportation of food."

RONALD REAGAN, thought not present at the debate, took the earliest opportunity to register his solidarity with the critics. To his credit, Congressman John Anderson said: "I disagree with Senator Baker. It's not easy, sitting here in the heart of Iowa, in farm country, to support an embargo on the shipment of grain, but it seems that it is passing strange that those who are critical of our foreign policy as being deficient on grounds that it is weak, when the first real test comes of responding to that kind of overt aggression that has just been taken by the Soviet Union against Afghanistan, are unwilling to accept any measure of sacrifice; to accept some of the cost that has to be borne if we are to send a clear, certain signal to the Russians that we will not tolerate the kind of conduct that they have just engaged in Afghanistan."

Two observations: 1) The president did not go as far as he should have. In his speech he sought to distinguish between the kind of grains sent to the Soviet Union to feed cattle (prescribed), and grain designed to feed people (authorized). In the last analysis the distinction is artificial inasmuch as the purpose of feeding livestock is the better to prepare them to feed people. The distinction is between producing meat to be eaten by Russians, and producing bread to be eaten by Russians. The purpose of Mr. Carter's maneuver was to use one of the few non-military weapons the United States pre-eminently has (thanks to our largely private agricultural enterprise); and withhold from the Soviet Union something which (thanks largely to their socialized agricultural enterprise) it pre-eminently does not have. In order to imperialize, it is first necessary to eat. You cannot grow hydrogen bombs on empty stomachs.

And 2) The use of the agricultural card is greatly overdue. When John Kennedy was in the White House, and the first great shipments from Canada and Australia of excess wheat to China were arranged, a few of us called for allied action to demand a quid pro quo. None was asked — in part because the mere mention of what is so easily translated into rudimentary humanitarian currency, sort of like blood plasma; mostly because the grain producers are an important political lobby.

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Lotions can cause sun reactions

Dear Dr. Donohue: I'm a 52-year-old man who plans to move from the North to Arizona where I'm told they have 335 days of sunshine. That is good news and bad news for me — good because I like the sun, bad because I cannot tolerate it.

I've done everything — changed soaps, etc. I break out with tiny blisters. Any advice for me? — L.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a skin problem — sun sensitivity. I plan to spend the winter in Acapulco. I get a rash and itchy lumps. It goes away but comes back. Up North I can sun and not get this. What can I do to prevent it? — P.T.

With so many sun chasers around these days sensitive skin problems are year-around reader concerns.

Skin reacts in many ways to light. Reaction to sunlight can take the form of exaggerated sunburn. This is often due to chemicals that tend to sensitize the skin. Such substances can be found in perfumes, colognes, after-shave lotions, etc. Even hair dyes can induce allergic reaction from the sun, and some drugs can make the skin sensitive.

So the first step is to eliminate any agent that might be involved.

Hives appearing after exposure to sunlight can be helped with antihistamines. Rashes after sun exposure (called polymorphous light eruptions for a fancy term) can be prevented by some people with screening ointments. The best are those with zinc oxide or titanium dioxide. A solution of 5 percent paraminobenzoic acid in alcohol may help. Beta carotene taken orally has been reported to help considerably.

Finally, there are a few illnesses that produce sun sensitivity — porphyria cutanea tarda being one — and these might be investigated.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is meant by the term "aortic insufficiency" and what can be done to treat it? — M.J.

Aortic insufficiency refers to a problem with the aorta, the large vessel into which blood is pumped from the heart. More specifically, it has to do with the large valve at the juncture of the heart and the vessel

(the aortic valve). This valve may become weakened and blood that is pumped into the vessel may back up (regurgitate) into the heart chamber.

The treatment today most often calls for replacement of the valve when serious leakage is threatened.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A recent blood test was taken because of the sudden bruised appearance of my legs. It showed I had idiopathic thrombocytopenia purpura. Prednisone was prescribed and now my legs appear normal.

Just what was this ailment in laymen's terms and how could I have gotten it? Will it reoccur when the medicine is stopped? If so, what then? — A.C.

Thrombocytopenia means you have a low level of blood platelets. Idiopathic means that the cause is not known and purpura refers to the chief sign bruising. The platelets (or thrombocytes), which aid in blood clotting, are coated with antibodies, so they cannot do their job.

If the problem lasts less than six months it is called "acute," but if it persists after treatment it is called "chronic." If you had the acute form there should not be a recurrence once the medicine has had its effect.

If you have the chronic form you may require surgery for removal of your spleen. That is the organ that destroys platelets. About 80 percent of patients with the chronic form improve after spleen removal.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have heard that various ear noises indicate various specific ear problems. So what would the sound of water gushing mean? — M.B.

The water rushing sounds can indicate nerve involvement, but a doctor would not make a diagnosis on something as subjective as what a patient reports hearing. Drugs (aspirin and quinine, notably) can produce a variety of sounds that would disappear when the drugs are eliminated. Coffee drinking and cigarette smoking can contribute to ear noises (tinnitus).

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like to know (1) if having sexual intercourse helps hot flashes due to the change of life, and (2) does Premarin have male hormone in it? My friends told me these things and I would like to know if they are true. — Chicago.

(1) Sexual intercourse will not help hot flashes. (2) Plain Premarin is estrogen, the female hormone. There is a variety of Premarin that does contain the male hormone, methyl testosterone.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)." Write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know the Bible teaches that God created everything. If this is true, doesn't it mean that everything in the world is good, and there really is no such thing as evil? I think evil is only an illusion. — B.S.T.

DEAR B.S.T.: It is certainly true that God created everything, and we read that when He had finished the creation, "God saw all that he had made, and it was very good" (Genesis 1:31).

But the third chapter in Genesis tells us that something radical happened to God's creation. Sin entered into it, and Adam and Eve (the first humans) turned their backs on God. If you read the third chapter carefully you will discover that evil is not illusion but a reality which has had devastating effects on our world. For example, sin has brought death upon the human race. It has also affected the whole creation, for God told Adam: "Cursed is the ground because of you" (Genesis 3:17).

The New Testament also witnesses to the reality of evil in our world. For example, Paul spoke of the struggles of the Christian against evil, and declared: "For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against the rulers, against the authorities, against the powers of this dark world and against the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realms" (Ephesians 6:12).

We may not fully understand how evil could penetrate God's creation, which was originally totally good. But the Bible is clear — we not only live in a fallen world, but we also are sinners individually. That is why Christ came — to take away the curse of sin, and release us from its grip. "But because of his great love for us, God, who is rich in mercy, made us alive with Christ even when we were dead in transgressions — it is by grace you have been saved" (Ephesians 2:4).

Sin is real, but so is Christ's salvation. By faith and trust in Him we can be saved.

First morsel

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The grand Soviet strategy in lower Asia calls for the dismemberment of Afghanistan, Pakistan and Iran into separate ethnic states. Then the Soviets will pick up the pieces and absorb them, one by one, into the U.S.S.R.

This is the sobering, secret assessment of intelligence analysts who have watched the Soviet sweep into Afghanistan with deepening alarm. The Central Intelligence Agency saw the strategy developing long before Soviet troops roared into Afghanistan.

It would give the Russians frontage on both the Persian Gulf and the Indian Ocean — warm water ports that the czars merely dreamed about in past ages. But far more is at stake than mere seaports; the Russian bear would like to get its paws on Iran's fabulous oil fields.

THE PERSIAN GULF not only is the main source of Western oil; it is also the jugular vein which carries this lifeblood to the industrial world. The Russians have already moved into Afghan air bases, which are less than 500 miles from Hormuz Strait as the jet flies.

This narrow exit from the Persian Gulf is the choke point where the Soviets could block the Western jugular. Thus, they already have a powerful bargaining position in any future negotiations over Persian Gulf oil.

The Soviets, meanwhile, are expected to maneuver dangerously closer to the edge of world war, taking precautions all the while to avoid it. A secret CIA strategic review, analyzing the prospect of a future Soviet move against Iran, suggests:

"It is entirely possible that the Soviets would use the Afghans and the Pathans and Baluchis as proxy forces to form a surrogate army, thus avoiding the use of Soviet troops and a major confrontation with the United States.

"As such events escalated," the CIA scenario continues, "the United States as well as other (allies) would be called on to support both Pakistan and Iran ... which would cause a further spread of the war."

"The United States, catering to Muslim interests in order to regain access to Mideast oil, to preclude Russian expansionism and to attempt to return stability to South Asia, would be required to commit military resources of some nature..."

Already, the Soviets have risked destroying detente and antagonizing the Moslem world. They have driven their two most powerful adversaries, the United States and China, closer together. The sparks from a Russian-American confrontation over the Persian Gulf could also set off a nuclear powder keg.

IN THE OPINION of the analysts, the Soviets would never have taken such enormous risks for the sake of Afghanistan — a bleak, arid, landlocked country abused by man and nature. It is a land of steep, jagged, snow-swirling mountains, of barren, brown, blazing desert, of primitive, mud-walled villages.

With perverse pride, the Afghans call their country "the land of the fur and the fan" because it is bedeviled by extreme temperature variations. It is harsh country, poor in resources, and hardy people live there.

Their fighting men have scattered into the caves and crevices of mountains so rugged that they are called the Hindu Kush, meaning the "Killer of Hindus." One day, they may be renamed the "Killer of Russians," because a lot of Russians will surely die in those mountains before Afghanistan is laid.

No, the Russian Bear did not bite off this indigestible piece of earth, with any idea that it would be a juicy plum. The plum lies beyond the towering mountains, beyond the dry deserts, beyond the dusty steppes of Afghanistan.

Intelligence specialists believe the Kremlin has already started to implement its grand strategy. As early as 1978, the Soviets sought to split off an independent Pushtunistan from Afghanistan and Pakistan. Presumably, Soviet troops will not expedite the process that their puppet, Nur Mohammad Taraki, the late Afghan president, tried to initiate.

This will be followed, it is anticipated, by attempts to carve up Afghanistan into other ethnic states, including an autonomous Baluchistan and Uzbekistan. The ethnic populations, of course, are spread across the borders into Iran, Pakistan and Russia itself.

Thus, the pressure will build up to include the ethnic minorities of Iran and Pakistan in the new autonomous states. Already, the Soviets are stirring up the ethnic minorities in Iran with clandestine radio broadcasts across the border.

The minorities, eager for autonomy, can be expected to play the Soviet game. But the Soviets have a different scenario than the minorities probably have in mind. Soviet cadres are waiting to guide and ultimately to control the ethnic movements. In the end, the Russians hope to absorb the autonomous states into the Soviet system.

INNER CIRCLE: GOP strategists are so eager to gain a Republican majority in the 1980 Senate elections they've started an "inner circle" fund raiser which promises "to develop personal relationships with our Republican Senators" to those willing to ante up the $1,000 minimum contribution.

The Inner Circle headed by Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., pledges to target campaign gifts against whichever Democratic senator the donor wants defeated. It also promises special attention to requests from Inner Circle backers.

TWEEN 12 and 20 — Views on allowances

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Victor, 12, from Tacoma, Wash., had his allowance stopped and asks the thoughts of our guest teen writers. Jill Thomassen, 12, from Galesburg, Ill., and Rory Clarke, 13, from Fresno, Calif., will do the honors. Welcome!

Dr. Wallace: I'm 12 and my mom thinks I am too old to get an allowance. Instead, she said I have to work at home to receive my money. For one week, I did all the work my mom said but when it came time to pay me, she said my work was no good so I didn't get anything. Do you think this is fair? Please have your guest writers respond. — Victor, Tacoma, Wash.

Victor: I see nothing wrong with working for your allowance but if Mother was unhappy with your work, she should have told you so before the week was up so you could have improved. If you can't get money at home, why not earn it after school or on weekends?

There are many ways to earn money — delivering newspapers or working for neighbors doing odd jobs such as cutting grass, washing windows, pulling weeds, shoveling snow and many more odd jobs.

Don't forget to collect returnable bottles, newspapers and aluminum cans. All three can quickly be transferred into ready cash. Hello Victor: Everybody needs a little money, even a 12-year-old boy.

If you can't get money at home, you can earn spending money in your neighborhood. Go door-to-door and ask if there are any odd jobs that you can do.

But you must do good work. If you are a sloppy, lazy person, people might only use you once, but if you are a good, hard worker, people will use you again. P.S. I think your mother is a little grouchy! — Good luck, Jill, Galesburg, Ill.

Hello Victor: I don't personally believe in something for nothing so I don't believe in an allowance (or should I say a free handout?). I never received one and I know I'll never give my children one, either.

Whenever I need money, I work on a ranch and I work hard (usually picking oranges).

It seems that you didn't work too hard helping your mother. I think your mother is making a good man out of you. — Rory, Fresno, Calif.

If you would like to be a teen guest writer, please write to me, in care of this newspaper, stating your sex and age.

December Carrier of the Month: Jeff Minyard

Jeff Minyard has been chosen Carrier for the month of December. Carriers are chosen on the basis of sales, service, collections and record keeping. Jeff delivers papers on an apartment route which often makes monthly collections and service a difficult task.

Cherie Dorton, Jeff's District Manager, says he is a very polite carrier. His bill is paid on time, he has no complaints for the month of December and his books are in order. Jeff also has a substitute who is trained and qualified to service his route.

We are sure we are joined by all of his 90 customers on Route 262 when we say 'Congratulations, Jeff Minyard' on being selected December Carrier of the Month.

Belted Out By Chastity

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on your CONFIDENTIAL TO "SHOULD I GIVE IN?" You responded with this sad refrain:

"When I met him, I liked him.
When I liked him, I loved him.
When I loved him, I let him.
When I let him, I lost him."

(Author Unknown)

That might have been true once, Abby, but not today. I know many girls (now women) who "held out," and were left out. I am a living example—and a very bitter one. I believed that holding out was the way to get a man, but I lost a number of good men to other women who met their needs for a "total relationship." (Sex.) Now these women are happily married and are righteous pillars of our community, while I spend nights and weekends alone. Now I'm too scared to try a sexual relationship; all I can do is fantasize about one. (I only wish I had some real memories.)

I know this has no chance of being printed since you need to protect your point of view. Why do you perpetuate such nonsense?

DEAR HELD OUT: "Letting" a man is vastly different from being a party to a mature love relationship—one in which each gives equally. To "let" someone is to allow yourself to be used.

Have no regrets for not "letting" yourself be used. Regret only having passed up a mature love relationship, playing instead that childish game of holding out, thinking that was the way to get a man.

I don't know your age, but you are never too old for a sexual relationship if you want one.

DEAR ABBY: I am part of a triangle. All three of us are in our 60s.

I have been in love with this man for nearly 30 years. He loves me, but his wife will not give him a divorce—or at least that is what I have been told all these years.

I have no social life, and very little family life because I've wanted to be available when my sweetheart found an hour for me.

Nobody talked me into anything. I made this choice a long time ago, and I wasn't a child then.

Perhaps I'm in a sentimental mood tonight (he's on his way to see me at this very moment). I am playing "our records" on the stereo, the wine is chilling, and the old excitement is still there.

Although legally I have no man of my own, I have no regrets.
HALF A LOAF IN PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR HALF: It's your life, and I'm glad you're happy. Not everyone can make a banquet out of somebody else's crumbs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THIRTEEN AND SCARED TO DEATH OF MY STEPDAD": There is a toll-free hotline for help. Dial 800-621-4000. (In Illinois, it's 800-872-6004). All questions concerning incest will be answered. This problem has existed for a long time, but only recently has it come out of the closet. For an excellent article on incest get the February issue of Teen magazine. It's on the newsstands now. All young people should read it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ONLY A HOUSEWIFE": What do you mean, "ONLY"? The job of a housewife is an executive position. In your home you are the Director of Health, Education and Welfare, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Head of Entertainment and Public Relations, and Chairman of the House Rules Committee. And you'd have to be married to a millionaire to be paid what you're really worth!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lung cancer deaths spiral

Women fast catching up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women took up widespread use of cigarettes about 25 years after men, but the surgeon general says projected lung-cancer death rates indicate they are fast catching up.

Female deaths from lung cancer will surpass those from breast cancer within three years, the surgeon general reports, suggesting "an epidemic of smoking-related disease among women."

The death rate from breast cancer for women is higher than that of any other type of cancer.

Data that formerly supported the belief that women smokers faced lower risk rates than men amounts to "an illusion reflecting the fact that women lagged one-quarter century behind men in their widespread use of cigarettes."

Commission awards bids for truck, ice machine

Trenor Truck Company was awarded a bid for a new county dump truck in the Howard County Commissioners Court regular meeting this morning.

The new truck will cost the county $14,313 with trade in. Other bidders were Bob Brock Ford with a $15,586.94 offer, and Pollard Chevrolet with a $14,791.14 offer.

A bid for a new ice machine was also awarded. Teh bid went to Commercial Ice Machine Company who presented a low bid of $3,682.20.

Commissioners moved to advertise for bids for a new pick-up to be used by Building Superintendent Ed Harper.

Road and Bridge Department equipment operators were given a nine cent raise per hour. A cost of living increase proposal for road and bridge employees was tabled.

Deficiencies in the county jail were discussed with Bill Mims, county engineer. Mims told commissioners his department would do as much repair as possible but the tar and nicotine content of each cigarette.

But those patterns are becoming more uniform. As a result, female smokers no longer face lower death rates than men from lung disease, heart disease and lung cancer, Richmond says.

Cigarette-smoking already contributes to one-fifth of newly diagnosed cases of cancer and one-fourth of all cancer deaths among women — higher rates than for any other agent, Richmond says.

Last November, the American Cancer Society reported that lung cancer, ranked eighth among cancer killers of women in 1961, had become second only to breast cancer.

In 1980, an estimated 32,000 of the expected 117,000 lung-cancer deaths will occur in women, Richmond's study says. About 36,000 breast-cancer deaths are expected this year.

Women accounted for one in 12 lung-cancer deaths in 1950 and one in six in 1960. The projected rate for 1980 is one in four.

Female smokers have between 2.5 and five times greater a chance of contracting lung cancer than women who don't smoke.

Richmond's report also notes:

—Smoking is termed "a major threat to the outcome of pregnancy and well-being of the newborn baby." Babies of women who smoke during pregnancy are an average of 200 grams lighter at birth. Risks are greater of spontaneous abortions and fetal and neonatal deaths.

—Female smokers who use birth control pills have greater risks of dying of strokes and heart attacks than nonsmokers.

—Female smokers report more acute and chronic conditions than non-smoking women, including greater incidences of bronchitis, emphysema, sinus problems and peptic ulcer disease.

Paul Logsdon enters race

COLORADO CITY — Paul H. Logsdon has announced he will be a candidate for the office of County Commissioner Oct. One, subject to action in the May 3 Democratic Primary election.

Logsdon retired in 1979 as maintenance foreman for the Texas Highway Department. With the department 33 years, he has resided in Mitchell County the past 19 years.

Record crop is already assured

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County is already assured of an all-time record in its cotton harvest, and the 1979 crop is still being collected.

The bale count is nearing the 80,000 mark. Area producers will share more than $22 million from the sale of the cotton.

A total of 75,420 acres were planted to cotton in Mitchell County in 1979.

Previously to this year, the record high cotton bale count for the county was 67,000 bales.

DR. NICK — Dr. George Nichopoulos (right), accompanied by his attorney, arrives at the Memphis City Council chamber Monday morning for a hearing before the state Board of Medical Examiners. The 52-year-old physician is charged with overprescribing drugs to Elvis Presley and 15 over patients. If found guilty, he could lose his license to practice medicine in Tennessee.

Hesitation may have cost policeman his life

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston policeman, shot six times during a chase with an armed burglar suspect, said he hesitated before pulling the trigger because of the publicity surrounding recent police shootings.

And in that moment's hesitation, Larry Tuttle was shot in the head, arms, legs and feet.

"Yeah, I hesitated before shooting," said Tuttle, 36, a 4-year veteran of the force. "I could see myself before a grand jury...in the newspapers and in front of internal affairs."

A 17-year-old Houston man, Elroy Vasquez Martinez, was arrested minutes after the Saturday night shooting. He was charged with attempted capital murder Sunday and bond was set at $50,000.

"I knew he had a pistol," said Tuttle, who remained in fair condition Sunday. "I had seen it when he ran. I told him to drop it, but he started shooting."

The officer said the shooting occurred after he and his partner spotted the suspect near a building and the man fled. Tuttle said he chased the suspect about a block, and that the man opened fire after Tuttle found him hiding near a concrete porch.

He said he returned fire, emptying his service revolver after he had been hit. The suspect was not wounded.

Tuttle said recent grand jury investigations and trials of police officers connected with shooting incidents "have had an effect on us all" and made him hold his fire.

"Sure, I hesitated," he said, then added "I won't hesitate again — not as long as I'm riding the streets."

Review slated for materials

Films and other audiovisual materials available to public schools through Region 18 Education Service Center may be requested for preview by parents and other interested adults during a one-day review session set for Jan. 25. The session is scheduled from 8:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at the Center which is located on LaForce Blvd., Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Parents and other citizens interested in requesting preview of particular films from the collection maintained at the Service Center should notify the Center at least ten days in advance so the staff will have time to check on the availability of the films and set up preview rooms. In the event a film is not available on the date requested, the person making the request will be given a date on which it may be seen.

Persons wishing to request preview of films may call Mrs. Vera Smith, staff member of the Education Service Center, at telephone number 563-2380. The name of the film desired and the approximate time the person will arrive at the Center should be given to Mrs. Smith.

the Iranian and Afghanistans crises bothers Jack Poulsen. But it's been great for his non-profit business, the 11-year-old National Fly the Flag Crusade, Inc.

"Definitely — to a point where it's upsetting. These crises have awakened the American people, but I hope the people don't just get patriotic when we're in trouble," the Minnesota man says.

Friday, Poulsen and his wife Artis brought the crusade to Austin, and on a downtown corner near the State Capitol they gave away 2,900 six-by-eight-inch flags to the lunch hour crowd.

"Hi, lady," he says, handing a flag to a harried mother. "Fly the flag with pride — but fly it every day." He emphasizes "Every day."

Turning aside, he speaks ruefully of a Jackson, Miss., woman who wanted enough flags for her entire neighborhood so that it would attract media attention during the Iranian crisis:

"I said, 'What about when the crisis is over?' And she said, 'Well, I guess we'll just take them down.' I said, 'forget it.'"

In Austin, few persons walk away empty-handed from the man in red blazer, navy slacks and red-white-and-blue striped tie. Most say thanks. Many ask "How much?" and appear incredulous at the answer:

"It's free to you. It's your flag and be proud of it."

Autos slow and honk. Poulsen puts flags in the drivers' outstretched hands. He tells one young boy to hold his smaller sister's flag, patiently explaining that she might drop it and flags shouldn't touch ground.

He tells adults who ask if he is protesting the present crises: "No, No. Absolutely not. We've been doing this for 11 years."

To prove it, he hands out pamphlets telling his group's history.

Poulsen, a Minneapolis trucker, and his wife founded the crusade in 1968 after they witnessed "the desecration or our national symbol" during an anti-war protest at the University of Minnesota.

Since then, groups have formed in 43 states. Gerald Ford, George Wallace, and Jimmy and Rosalyn Carter are among the honorary directors.

Donations are not accepted, Poulsen says. Instead, the Minnesota group sells flags and installs 18-foot flagpoles for funds.

The Poulsen's Texas stop is part of a five-week, flag-give-away vacation that began Christmas day. Flags top their leased station-wagon and trailer, which is filled with thousands more flags.

The trip so far has included stops in Iowa, Ohio, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Next, it's on to El Paso and from there to Arizona and California.

Poulsen is worried about going to San Francisco again. He was once threatened by Vietnam war protesters there and even now says, "We don't expect it to be like Austin or Houston."

But that worry won't keep the Poulsen from continuing their crusade across America.

Job at Lamesa still vacant

LAMESA — A committee headed by Bob Capps is still seeking someone to fill the position of Lamesa Chamber of Commerce manager.

The position has been vacant since last August, when Alan Bligh quit to become executive director of the South Plains Better Business Bureau.

Republicans seek leader

There will be an organizational meeting of the Republican party of Howard County Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Blue Room of the Dora Roberts Community Center.

The chairman and vice chairman for 1980 will be selected. Sam Hunnicut resigned as county chairman in April 1979 to seek a seat on the city council. The office has been vacant since that time.

Everyone interested in the Republican party in Howard County is invited to attend. Coffee and cookies will be served by the West Texas Republican Women's Club.

Police beat Vandals rampage here

Vandals wreaked havoc at Carr's Well Service, IS 20 and Andrews Highway, sometime Saturday night.

The intruders entered the building after smashing the front plate glass window with a rock. Once inside, they broke three more plate glass windows, 10 window panes and seven fluorescent lights, and stole the company's telephone.

In addition, the burglars smashed all the glass on a truck parked in the lot of the business. All in all, loss was estimated at $1,038.

Ronald L. Schafer, 4205 W. Highway 80, told police that he knew the crowd of men who beat him up, 10:25 p.m. Saturday. According to reports, when Schafer answered his front door, the visitor outside struck him with his fists, and threatened Schafer's wife.

The victim was then taken outside and beaten by seven assailants, all known to Schafer.

While a car belonging to Bob Hale, Lamesa, was parked at the Rip Griffin Truck Stop, 10 p.m. Saturday, burglars stole several pieces of luggage from the trunk. Lost were a tote bag, shaving kit, a makeup kit, three coats and a purse, totalling $300.

The name of Wenceslao Gellido, Coahoma, was added to the list of tire-slashing victims Friday night. While his car was parked at the Howard College Coliseum, vandals punctured three of its tires, causing $250 worth of damage.

Leta M. Godard, Lubbock, left her purse in the restroom of a local liquor store, whose name she couldn't remember, around 8 p.m. Sunday. When she returned to retrieve the handbag, it was gone.

The purse had contained $250 in cash, assorted credit cards and a checkbook. Loss was estimated at $300.

Missouri and Pacific Railroad officials surprised burglars in the act of heisting beer from a boxcar, Sunday night. The intruders fled, leaving behind two sets of pliers, a pair of pruning shears and a flashlight. Police will dust the tools for fingerprints.

Unsuccessful burglars smashed a glass door and broke the knob from another door in an attempt to break into B&H Cleaners, 2601 Wason, sometime over the weekend. Damage was estimated at $220.

Teresa Savell, Coahoma, is in good condition at Cowper Clinic, after being involved in a two-car collision on the 1300 block of Gregg, 10:15 p.m. Saturday. The other vehicle was driven by Raymond Barnes, 802 1/2 Nolan.

THE MOST HAPPY FELIA — Grand Prix Masters winner Bjorn Borg gets a kiss from Mariana Simonescu after his win in New York Sunday. "I'm the happiest guy in town," he said after taking the eight-man event that serves as the championship of the Grand Prix tennis circuit.

Athlete of the Decade

Ali gains honor

By the Associated Press

"I hope in the next 10 years I can do something equal in another field," says Muhammad Ali.

Whatever field Ali pursues, it is doubtful he will have impact on it that he had on the world of sports in the 1970s.

Such was that impact that Ali has been named Athlete of the Decade by a panel of AP Sports Writers. "The athlete of the decade... better than anybody?" asked the retired heavyweight champion when informed of the award. "I'm so honored."

It was a decade of superstars such as golfer Jack Nicklaus, hitters Pete Rose and Rod Carew, pitchers Jim Palmer and Tom Seaver, ball carriers O.J. Simpson and Tony Dorsett, passers Roger Staubach and Terry Bradshaw, basketballers Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Julius Erving and Bill Walton and tennis players Chris Evert Lloyd, Bjorn Borg and Jimmy Connors.

But Ali, whose renown transcended boxing, was a major personality in every one of those 10 years and figured in a major story in almost every one of them.

At decade's end, Ali was retired after having regained the title twice, having earned more than $45.5 million in the ring and having engaged in some legendary fights.

In other 5-AAAA action, San Angelo visits Midland, Abilene Cooper is at Odessa Permian, and Odessa travels to play Abilene.

Forsan, Colorado City win Forsan JV Tournament

FORSAN — Forsan and Colorado City captured their respective divisions in the Forsan Junior Varsity Tournament held here this weekend.

The Forsan girls won their division. The Buffalo Queens JVs won their first game by a score of 54-23 over Colorado City, with Vicki Baggett's 20 points leading the way.

The Forsan boys captured the title by taking a 27-24 win over the Coahoma Junior Varsity. Baggett led the Forsan team with eight points.

Forsan's Dana Clark, Carla Nicks and Baggett were selected to the All-Tournament team.

Colorado City won the boys tournament by taking a 63-15 win over the Forsan Junior Varsity. Ricky Bedwell had five points in the contest for Forsan.

Forsan had advanced to the finals by defeating Coahoma, 40-30. Andreas Alcantar had 14 points to pace the Forsan win.

Robert Eggleston was the lone Forsan player to gain All-Tournament honors.

Borg captures Grand Prix crown

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm the happiest guy in town," said a beaming Bjorn Borg, and with good reason.

Borg, the spectacular, stoic Swede, extended his mastery over Vitas Gerulaitis with a lopsided 6-2, 6-2 victory Sunday in the final of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters, breaking a New York jinx and reaffirming his status as the best tennis player in the world.

"I was very eager for this one," said Borg, who has beaten Gerulaitis, his friend and practice partner, in all 15 of their meetings. "I've never won a big title in New York. I've wanted to win here for a long time."

Borg has never won the U.S. Open, and called that

"my next goal — very, very important to me."

Meanwhile, he pocketed $100,000 for winning the eight-man event at Madison Square Garden that serves as the championship of the Grand Prix circuit. If there was ever any question about who is the best men's tennis player in the world, Borg answered it.

"The money is great, but I prefer the title," said Borg. "To win the Masters was very important. I have to put this title very high, because the best players in the world were here."

One by one they challenged, and one by one they fell by the wayside — Roscoe Tanner, Jimmy Connors, John McEnroe and finally Gerulaitis. "He's on a plateau by himself," said Gerulaitis. "You can't compare any of these guys to Borg... he's definitely a little bit ahead of all the other guys."

Sunday's final was decided in the fifth game of the first set. With the score tied 2-2 and Gerulaitis serving, Borg's brilliant passing shots began to take their toll. Gerulaitis struggled to maintain control, sending the game to deuce nine times and saving nine break points. But finally, Gerulaitis hit a volley into the net, giving Borg all the opening he needed.

"I was a little tight in the beginning, so it was important to get that break," said Borg. "After that I was a little more relaxed."

Gerulaitis had Borg at 0-30 in the next game, but failed to break back, and was never really in the match after that.

"After I was broken in that long game, I had a couple of chances to break back in the next game but couldn't," said Gerulaitis. "That let the air out of my balloon. He got on top of me after that."

"It would have been great to win in New York," said Gerulaitis, who earned $64,000 in defeat. "But I'd be perfectly happy to beat this guy in Little Rock, Arkansas."

Asked about strategy, Gerulaitis said, "I wanted to come in, play serve and

Plane crash with LSU Coach remains a mystery

CAPE CHARLES, Va. (AP) — Unless more debris is sighted and recovered, the plane crash which apparently killed Louisiana State football Coach Robert "Bo" Rein may remain unexplained.

The Coast Guard said Sunday it has suspended its search for wreckage of the plane carrying Rein, 34, and pilot Louis Benscoter, both presumed dead after their twin-engine Cessna crashed Friday nearly 1,000 miles off course. The plane took off from Baton Rouge, La., headed for Shreveport, La., and crashed into the Atlantic, off the coast of Virginia.

A memorial service for Rein, who had gone to LSU just two months ago after serving as head coach at North Carolina State, was held Sunday at Cary, N.C. In an emergency meeting Saturday, LSU named Jerry Stovall to succeed Rein as football coach there.

"I doubt if anyone made a finer impression in 42 days than Bo Rein," said LSU

Athletic Director Paul Dietzel said of Rein, who was honored at a Mass of Resurrection at the Catholic church he attended while he coached at North Carolina State.

Stovall said he would proceed with preparations for spring drills, though he said the work would not be easy, especially for the assistants Rein hired.

"Most of these men not only knew him as their boss, they knew him as their friend," Stovall said.

Coast Guard officials believe an aluminum wheel sighted Friday night by a Norwegian ship 100 miles east of Cape Henry "definitely belonged to the aircraft, after talking to the owner," Coast Guard Lt. Gene Brooks said. But 11-foot seas in the 900-square-mile area prevented the Coast Guard from recovering the wheel.

When the plane was seen headed in a northeasterly direction Thursday night, Air National Guard and Air Force planes were sent up in effort to intercept it. Air Force pilots said the plane was flying at 40,000 to 41,500 feet — more than 7,000 feet above its maximum altitude rating — and appeared to be on automatic pilot.

Aviation specialists have speculated the men might have died long before the plane crashed either because of a lack of oxygen from the high altitude or a leakage of carbon monoxide into the cabin from one of the engines.

Stadler leading Desert Classic entering final day

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Craig Stadler, who has yet to win on the PGA Tour, was poised and confident entering today's final round of the long, rain-delayed Bob Hope Desert Classic.

"No, I'm not anxious," the bearded man said after gaining a tie for the top spot with Larry Nelson after the completion of 72 holes Sunday. "I'm pretty confident. What's gonna happen is gonna happen. I've been there before (in contention). I think I can handle it."

"I'm driving the ball well, and that's important on these golf courses."

Nelson, meanwhile, is having problems off the tee — the result of a problem that had his right hand and wrist in a cast for three weeks.

"I'm hitting everything (to the right)," said Nelson, who won two 1979 titles and second spot on the season's money-winning list with $281,000.

It was that problem, a shot that got away to the right, that led to a triple-bogey 7 and Nelson's failure to hold the lead alone.

He and Stadler were tied at 276, 12 under par, after one round on each of four desert courses. Nelson rallied from the early triple bogey for a solid 71 as the first man off the tee at La Quinta, site of today's final round.

Stadler played in relative solitude at Indian Wells while the sponsor and his show-business, celebrity friends cavorted before the national television cameras.

Super Bowl report

Steeler rookies very excited

PITTSBURGH (AP) — For the record, it will be Super Bowl XIV. But for rookie members of the Pittsburgh Steelers, it will be Super Bowl I.

"I'm so happy. I have the biggest goosebumps in the world," said cornerback Dwayne Woodruff, who made the club as a sixth-round draft pick from Louisiana.

Last year, Woodruff watched the Super Bowl on television at his parents' home as Pittsburgh beat Dallas.

"My dream, since I was able to figure out what football was, has been to play in the Super Bowl," he said. "Now that it's here, I just can't believe it's going to happen. I'll probably play in the game, but I won't realize it for a month."

The Steelers were to fly to California today for Sunday's game with the Los Angeles Rams. The other rookies on the squad are plackicker Matt Bahr, running backs Greg Hawthorne and Anthony Anderson, and linebackers Zack Valentine and Tom Graves.

It's the second national championship game in as many seasons for Bahr, who was on the Penn State team that lost to Alabama in the Sugar Bowl a year ago.

Bahr, in contrast with the other rookies, reacted with his usual businesslike calm.

"From the first time I came to this stadium, all that's been talked about is winning and getting to the Super Bowl," said Bahr. "That goal has been accomplished, and now everybody is talking about another goal — winning it."

Bahr won two games with overtime field goals this season. Woodruff made a few starts and has seen action as a fifth defensive back. The other rookies have been on the specialty teams.

"I've been trying to get to Pasadena for five years," said Graves, who played the past four seasons at Michigan State. "This more than makes up for that."

"Before we played Miami, I couldn't sleep," said Woodruff. "And before the Houston game, I was up all night tossing and turning."

"I don't know what's going to happen in Pasadena. I hope they have some all night TV stations."

Consistency is Bryant's trademark

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Last summer, Cullen Bryant wasn't expected to be a starter for the Los Angeles Rams. But the muscular fullback became a regular and played a key role in his team's getting to Super Bowl XIV.

Bryant isn't surprised by his accomplishments this season, and now he thinks he can be an important factor in a Los Angeles victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers in nearby Pasadena next Sunday.

"I know what I can do," said Bryant after a practice session the other day. "And people who know the game know what I can do."

"Consistency is the most important thing, to play good ball every Sunday. I want the team to know that I'm the kind of player who can get the job done every week."

Bryant has been more than consistent for the Rams; he's done all they've asked of him and more. While Wendell Tyler has received more notice, Bryant has blocked like a truck and quietly rushed for 792 yards this season, including 173 in his team's two playoff games. Also, he's fumbled just once in 212 carries.

Bryant, a seven-year pro, had started just one game before last season, when he started nine times because of an injury to Lawrence McCutcheon. He led the 1978 Rams in rushing with 658 yards on 178 carries.

McCutcheon, who was replaced by Tyler in the fifth game this season, and John Cappelletti figured as the regular running backs for Los Angeles in 1979. However, Cappelletti missed the entire season because of a groin injury, opening the door for Bryant.

"I tried to do what I could to help the team before becoming a starter," said Bryant, a 6-foot-1, 234-pounder. "I've always had the confidence I could do the job. Given the opportunity, I've been able to develop to the point where I've had a hell of a playoff series."

Rosa Parks

'Saint? I'm just a human being like everybody else'

DETROIT (AP) — Rosa Parks has been proclaimed "mother of the civil rights movement," even a "saint," for refusing to yield her bus seat to a white man in 1955.

Her stubbornness touched off a force that swept the nation, but the small, soft-spoken 66-year-old black woman seems unaffected by the praise.

"Saint?" she said with a laugh. "I don't consider myself a saint at all. I'm just a human being like everybody else."

Mrs. Parks is being awarded the Martin Luther King Jr. Nonviolent Peace Prize today in Atlanta during birthday celebrations for the slain civil rights leader.

She is the first woman to receive the prize. Eight men have received the award, including former U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young and migrant labor organizer Cesar Chavez.

She said she is "happy and proud" to receive the King award and "will do my very best to be deserving of it." But she also seemed uncomfortable with renewed public attention brought by the award.

She works here as a receptionist for Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich. With requests for interviews interrupting her day, "I don't seem to be able to get very much done," she said.

With her gray hair pulled back into a bun and her hands folded in her lap, Mrs. Parks patiently answered questions about her past. But some of the humiliation suffered by blacks was difficult for her to talk about.

"It is so extraordinarily painful to look back on some of the things we lived through," she said.

Mrs. Parks made history Dec. 1, 1955, on a bus in Montgomery, Ala.

After a day working as a seamstress at the Montgomery Fair department store, she was ordered out of her seat in the bus' rear section reserved for blacks so that a white man could sit.

Three blacks gave up their seats. She refused.

"I just wanted to be free like everybody else," she said in explaining her action that day. "I didn't want to be continually humiliated over something I had no control over, the color of my skin."

She was arrested for defying segregation laws, an act which sparked the 1955-56 bus boycott that earned King national prominence.

The Supreme Court found the laws unconstitutional in 1956 and the boycott ended. Mrs. Parks never paid the $10 fine and court costs.

Although she is best known for the stand she took that day, Mrs. Parks was no newcomer to the civil rights struggle.

"I was always having trouble with bus drivers, even then," Mrs. Parks said. Once she entered a bus through the front door and was taking her place at the rear when a driver ordered her to get off and enter through the back door.

"I told him I was already on the bus," she said, but the driver forcibly evicted her.

The mood of blacks in Montgomery was changing, she said — two teen-agers had been arrested in similar bus incidents before her arrest. The reason her action became a rallying point, she said, was because she was known through her NAACP work.

Mrs. Parks remembers the time that followed as one of turmoil and telephone threats.

"They would keep you awake at night. You didn't sleep very long or very well at the time," she said. But she added, "I didn't see any need to stop what I had to do. Nothing happens just because you wish it would happen."

She drew on the strength of her family, especially her mother Leona McCauley, who died last month. "She was right with me whatever I was doing. When I needed encouragement, she was there."

Mrs. Parks had moved to Detroit from Alabama in 1957 with her mother and her husband, Raymond. A brother, Sylvester, was already here. Her husband, a retired barber, and her brother died in 1977.

Mrs. Parks doesn't see her personal courage as unique. "I think everybody has some inner strength and it's just a matter of concentrating on whatever your goal is."

Students will benefit from gift to hospital

An important textbook, "Clinical Nuclear Cardiology," was recently added to the resource library at Malone-Hogan Hospital School of Radiological Technology. Billy Hendricks, administrator of the local Mountain View Nursing Home, was the donor.

Dr. Beurk Williams, radiologist and director of the school, said that the book is one that will add greatly to the training of students of the school.

"Mr. Hendricks' generosity in making this study resource available to us, in lieu of an honorarium for his services at our commencement exercises, is commendable."

Graduates of the school are eligible for the National Registry Exams for radiologic technologists. Three of last year's students had an average score of 89 percent, which is in the upper level of the national averages last fall.

Taking the exam were Carlos Gonzalez, Valerie Richardson and Charlotte Meeks. Gonzalez and Richardson are now employed in the radiology department at Malone-Hogan Hospital, and Meeks in the same unit at Big Spring State Hospital.

Applications for the new class, which will begin in August of 1980, are now being taken. The two-year program accepts only five students per year.

Brownsville man accused of holding shipmates hostage in Gulf of Mexico

FREEPORT, Texas (AP) — A Brownsville man, accused of turning a gun on his shipmates and holding them on a shrimp boat over the weekend, was in a Houston jail today awaiting arraignment.

The man, identified as Robin Alexander Stansbury, 21, was arrested Sunday morning by FBI agents, who boarded the boat in the Gulf of Mexico about 20 miles out from Freeport on the upper Texas coast.

A spokesman for the FBI in Houston said charges of crime on the high seas-kidnapping were being prepared. A $100,000 bond was recommended in the case, the spokesman said.

Crewmen aboard the 68-foot Easy Rider told authorities the drama began Saturday morning, while they were shrimp fishing off the coast of Intracoastal City, La., about 240 miles up the coast from Freeport.

"He (the suspect) told me he wanted to go home, that it was an emergency. We didn't have any indication that he was upset. He was real quiet," said Jack Waller Jr., captain of the boat and son of owner Jack Waller Sr. of Brownsville. Waller said the suspect had been quiet and created no problems since he hired on. The three men had been fishing together off Morgan City, La., since Jan. 2, Waller said.

The man forced Waller and crewman Ronald Bush, 24, into the ice hold, where the shrimp are kept, the captain said.

"The only part I hated was going into the hold, but if somebody's holding a gun on you and the safety is off, you do it," he said.

Bush said the man had a rifle and a pistol, and Waller said he didn't think he knew much about guns.

"He told us he wouldn't hurt us if we'd just take him home," Bush said. "He said there was an emergency. But yes, we were still worried. When someone's holding a gun on you, you're going to be worried."

"I was very scared."

Waller said the suspect didn't know how to operate boats and would have run into trouble trying to operate the boat himself.

"He was gonna crash the boat on the beach and leave," Bush said.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Joe Gibson said the agents, one of them skilled in terrorist operations, boarded the boat and arrested the man after shadowing the vessel for nearly 24 hours.

Gibson said the agents were aboard the 82-foot Coast Guard cutter Point Nowell, and at one point Saturday, tried vainly to hail the shrimp boat.

The Easy Rider "made a course change about 20 miles outside Freeport harbor" at 8:10 a.m. Sunday, "came to a stop and he (Stansbury) gave up," Gibson said.

When the Point Nowell drew alongside, Gibson said, Stansbury brought Waller and Bush on deck to show they were not harmed.

The Coast Guard learned of the takeover from several vessels which overheard a radio transmission from the captain of the shrimp.

"This is an emergency. I am being held hostage," was the radio message relayed to the Coast Guard, Gibson said.

He said the transmissions would be interrupted, then begin again intermittently.

"The guy wanted to go home," Waller said. "He just went about it the wrong way."

Fallacies of obesity Fat not clearcut evil

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Countless Americans are being needlessly frightened by the perils of being a bit fat when much of the problem may be nothing more than a faulty definition of overweight, contends a Maryland researcher.

Dr. Reubin Andres of The Johns Hopkins University said Sunday a growing stack of research is refuting the conventional wisdom that being a little bit overweight will take years off your life.

He said that when the standard measure of desirable body weight is used, "one does not see any effect of obesity on total mortality until you reach a level of some 20 percent over the desirable weight — and much higher in some studies."

At the American Medical Association's winter scientific meeting, he urged doctors to take "a more relaxed attitude." He said they should tell their patients, "there isn't much evidence that being 10 or 20 pounds over your desirable weight is doing you any long-term harm."

"You may not like it because you don't look good, but it's unlikely you are shortening your life."

The exceptions to that advice, Andres said, are patients who are at risk for other problems, such as heart disease, high blood pressure or diabetes, that are undeniably aggravated by obesity.

He based his conclusion that "obesity is not as clearcut an evil as we have thought" on a review of recent studies and his own research.

"The problem," he said in a subsequent interview, "is that we really are not certain how to define overweight. We really don't know enough about it at all."

He said the belief that obesity is a leading health problem and has a direct impact on death rates "is so ingrained that it has become scripture for us."

That scripture can be traced to 1959, when insurance companies studied nearly 5 million insured Americans, he said.

The study, published by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., also produced a table of "desirable body weights" based on height and body build — small, medium and large. The table has won nearly universal acceptance.

Andres outlined study after study that refuted the insurance company finding that death rates increased with even moderate obesity.

He said one fact that's often forgotten is that the 1959 research measured obesity not against the table of desirable weights but against the average weight of Americans.

Updated them...but the government wouldn't!

Cigar maker willing to die for prisoners

MIAMI (AP) — Jose Orlando Padron, whose cigar factory has been bombed twice, says he's willing to die, if he must, for his work to win the release of Cuban political prisoners.

But Padron says he's afraid someone else will be hurt or killed one day in an explosion at Padron Hand Made Cigars and Pilato Cigars Inc. So he's offering a reward for the capture and conviction of the bombers.

An explosion at the factory in Miami's Little Havana section early Sunday left the first floor of the building charred and full of rubble. A passing car caught fire as the homemade bomb went off, and windows of nearby buildings were shattered, firefighters said. There were no injuries.

A man who said he was a member of the anti-Castro terrorist group Omega 7 called The Associated Press to claim responsibility for the bombing. The group claimed responsibility for bombings last year at the Cuban mission in New York, and on Sunday, Omega 7 was one of two groups to claim responsibility for a bomb at the New York office of the Soviet airline Aeroflot.

Cuban militants are angry with Padron and other members of a group called the Committee of 75, who went to Havana in 1978 and negotiated with Cuban President Fidel Castro for the release of 3,600 political prisoners. Some 3,000 have been released.

Talking to Castro is treason to many strident anti-communists. And Padron was pictured in a Miami newspaper handing one of his cigars to the revolutionary leader. A boycott cost him 20 of his 700 Miami-area customers, Padron said Sunday.

"If I die for what I have done, I am happy to die," said the 53-year-old businessman, adding he is anti-communist. "I have not done anything wrong. If Omega 7 has a plan to liberate the prisoners by force, then let them use it on the streets of Cuba, not Miami."
