U.S. reporters demanded out

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranian government has ordered all American reporters out of the country, accusing them of biased reporting, but says French, British and West German journalists can stay for the time being.

"The foreign (American) journalists have been misusing our kind cooperation and freedom we have given them," Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council said in a statement issued after a three-hour meeting Monday night. "They have used this against our revolution and we are going to expel all American correspondents effective immediately."

There were reports that the estimated 100 Americans would be given a few days to leave, but the director of the Ministry of National Guidance, which accredits reporters, said he could say nothing until he studied the expulsion order further.

The Revolutionary Council's spokesman, Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar, said French, British and West German reporters were being allowed to remain for the time being but he added: "We give them a strong warning that if they send anything but the truth about the news they will be expelled as well."

The expulsion order follows a long series of public accusations that American reporters were sending out biased and incorrect reports and the eviction previously of 23 Western reporters whose reporting or reports appearing in their publications angered the revolutionary regime.

Some observers viewed the expulsion as an attempt to reduce publicity about the ethnic minorities challenging Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's authority and demanding autonomous home rule. But others thought the regime might be trying to improve chances for the release of the American hostages by curtailing the extensive TV coverage and other publicity given the students holding them captive.

Today was the hostages' 73rd day of captivity.

In Washington, White House press secretary Jody Powell said the expulsion "would seem to be a comment upon the desire of the authorities in Iran to prevent not only the rest of the world but indeed their own people from knowing the disastrous impact upon Iran of the taking and continued holding of the American citizens."

Meanwhile, Los Angeles radio reporter Alex Paen reported the students at the Embassy told him spy trials for the hostages will begin as soon as Khomeini gives the word. Paen said they told him the ayatollah agreed to the trials in principle "since the Iranian people want them tried."

Paen also said the students would allow the captives to hear a recorded broadcast of the Super Bowl football game Sunday.

Moinefar's statement came after a series of public warnings that Iranian officials were considering asking American, West German and British reporters to leave the country.

There was no immediate explanation of why the Americans had been singled out and there was no indication of when the expulsion would take place.

There are about 300 foreign correspondents in Iran of whom about 100 are from the United States.

BURNED OUT REFUGEES — A Cambodian refugee family is forced to flee their temporary home after fire destroyed several shelters Monday in the border camp of

Larry D. Shaw 'good bet' to seek legislative seat held by Ezzell

By WALT FINLEY

Larry Don Shaw, former state Young Democrats office holder and former American Agriculture Movement leader, is a "good bet" to announce he wants the seat Mike Ezzell occupies in the Texas Legislature.

Shaw, Big Spring businessman and Knott farmer, is the first candidate to indicate he will oppose Ezzell, who has filed for a third term. Ezzell is a former Snyder teacher and Church of Christ minister.

Larry Don's father is Larry Shaw, Knott cotton farmer and alternate delegate to the mini-National Democratic Convention held in Memphis last year. His uncle is Delano Shaw, national Democratic delegate for Carter and long-time chairman of precinct 3 in Big Spring.

A native of Howard County, Larry Don Shaw, 27, received his bachelor's degree in agriculture-communications from Texas Tech University. He was extremely active in FFA and 4-H projects in high school.

Shaw's official entry into the contest will be decided in early February. It is reported numerous groups are urging Shaw to enter the race.

Mayor Wade Choate's announcement not to seek re-election will perk interest in city elections.

Councilman Ralph McLaughlin and Bill Henkel have not made their plans known.

If you desire to serve as mayor or councilman in Big Spring you must register before March 5 for the April 5 election.

Dorothy Bennett, tax collector, revealed last Tuesday at the Howard County Democratic Executive meeting, she will campaign for the office of Howard County-Assessor-Collector.

Dorothy Moore, who has served as chief deputy in the tax office since 1972, announced her candidacy Saturday.

Filing deadlines for Congress, judges, legislators, county commissioners and constable are Feb. 4, city and school board positions, March 5.

Howard County and district offices up for election this year include sheriff, tax assessor-collector, county attorney, district attorney, county commissioner, precinct one; county commissioner, precinct three; justice of the peace, precinct one, place one; and county constables.

The district, county and precinct offices, unlike city council and school board, are filed through partisan elections. For example, the political parties nominate candidates who are then matched in the November general election. That's assuming more than one party nominates a candidate.

To run in either the Democratic or Republican primary, the first step is to file the name of your campaign treasurer with County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Next, contact the county chairman of your party — M.L. "Slick" Boatler for Democrats or a Republican chairman to be elected today at 7 p.m. in the Blue Room of Dora Roberts Community Center — and request filing forms.

Complete the forms by 6 p.m. Feb. 4, and return them to your county chairman. The filing fee varies depending on the office, but most fees are about $300, Mrs. Ray said.

In past years, a great number of political filings are not made until the last few days or even hours before the deadline.

Candidates for statewide offices and the district offices that involve more than one county will file with their respective state Democratic or Republican headquarters. Candidates for county, precinct and one-county districts will file with the county chairman.

This same filing period, Jan. 5 through Feb. 4, applies also for candidates who want to run as independents in the Nov. 4 general election.

However, the independents will have to wait until after the party primaries, and runoffs, if any, to gather voter petitions that will qualify them for the ballot.

Most political attention this year will center on the presidential race. There is no race in Texas for governor or U.S. Senator to distract voters.

However, there will be several other active statewide races on the ballot — including two for the Texas Railroad Commission and at least one for Texas Supreme Court.

In various areas of the state, there will be contests for congressional seats now held by 20 Democrats and four Republicans.

First-term Rep. Charles Stenholm, (D-Texas), who will make several talks in Big Spring Jan. 17, has not drawn an opponent.

Rep. Ray Roberts, McKinney, is the only Texas congressman who has announced he will not seek re-election.

The 1981 Legislature will be selected in the primaries and general election. Currently there are 125 Democrats and 25 Republicans in the House and 26 Democrats and five Republicans in the Senate.

April 3 is the deadline to obtain a voter's certificate for the May 3 primaries.

Labor leaders boost Kennedy campaign

Sen. Edward Kennedy's presidential campaign is getting a boost from a major labor leader — one day after a new published attack on Kennedy's version of the incident at Chappaquiddick.

If nothing else, the lengthy article to be published in the February issue of Reader's Digest demonstrates anew that the Chappaquiddick episode will continue to dog Kennedy's campaign.

On the other hand, the endorsement of United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser reaffirms that, despite some recent slippage in the polls, Kennedy is a political force to be reckoned with by President Carter and other candidates.

Fraser was preparing to announce his backing of the Massachusetts Democrat today at a news conference. Fraser's decision does not commit his 1.5 million-member union to Kennedy, but the decision is expected to have a strong impact in the UAW, one of the nation's most politically successful labor groups.

Kennedy likewise won "personal" support Monday from Fred J. Kroll, president of the 200,000-member Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks. Kroll said he has filed as a Kennedy delegate for the Pennsylvania primary on April 22.

Elsewhere on the campaign trail, California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., said Monday that "for all too long, Carter has played politics and hidden behind Iran."

"Now is the time for the president to explain how and why he got us into this mess," Brown said outside a New Hampshire factory.

In Washington, the Republican National Committee began working Monday on its 1980 platform. Sen. Jacob Javits, one of the first witnesses at the committee hearings, said Carter's response to the crisis in Iran and the Soviet military moves in Afghanistan had been "erratic and ineffective."

is now 42.

The latest arrival was a girl, named Mary Lou. She was born last Saturday.

The father is employed by a cotton gin. Mrs. Martinez is already a grandmother ten times over.

None of Mrs. Martinez's pregnancies have resulted in multiple births.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Hot check charges

Q. Are penalty charges on checks written on insufficient funds tax deductible as interest?

A. After researching this question, the Public Affairs Office of the Internal Revenue Service in Dallas decided that no penalties are deductible and that includes late charges on overdue bills as well as that $5 charge for writing a hot check.

By far, the best bet of the evening is the classic film "From Here To Eternity," airing at 10:45 on ABC. Burt Lancaster, Montgomery Clift, Frank Sinatra and Deborah Kerr star.

Preparing for another Three Mile Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a Sunday morning in October, radiation leaked from the Fort St. Vrain nuclear plant northeast of Denver. Not until that night did Lt. Gov. Nancy Dick, the ranking official in the state at the time, learn about it — from a reporter.

Although the leak was confined to the plant and apparently posed no public danger, an angry Mrs. Dick said she should have been informed immediately. She was not the only one left in the dark. It was mid-afternoon before any authorities were notified; plant workers said they tried to call the state health department in the morning but got no answer.

The incident in Colorado — which occurred seven months after a release of radiation at the Three Mile Island plant in Pennsylvania — demonstrates that emergency communications procedures are still far from clear at the nation's 70 commercial nuclear power plants.

Some nuclear critics say if a major reactor accident were to occur today, much of the confusion and chaos that marked the Three Mile Island incident might well be repeated.

For months, a special task force of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission has been working with officials in 40 states and hundreds of communities to develop new rules on emergency planning.

One NRC staff member calls it "a can of worms," with problems that will take time to work out.

State and local governments complain they will have to spend money they do not have. Some federal and state officials disagree on procedures for accident notification. Others argue that a number of proposed requirements, such as an ability to notify the public within 15 minutes, may be impossible.

And the new NRC requirement that a 10-mile area from all plants be ready for quick evacuation has been challenged in cases where there are large concentrations of people, such as the Indian Point reactors near New York City and the Zion units north of Chicago.

Last month, President Carter told the NRC and the Federal Emergency Preparedness Agency to complete a review of all such plans by June.

New NRC rules, expected to go into effect early in 1981, will require federal approval for all emergency plans. One version would require plants to shut down immediately if adequate plans are not approved by the NRC.

Before Three Mile Island, the NRC and the nuclear industry believed reactor design would prevent a major accident and only a "low population zone" of no more than three miles need be covered by an emergency plan.

The president's commission on Three Mile Island said that approach was useless because a serious accident would affect a much larger area. The proposed NRC rules expand emergency planning, including possible evacuation, to 10 miles from a plant, and some precautions would be required as far as 50 miles away.

According to a federal survey, no final plan in line with the proposed NRC rules has yet been submitted to Washington.

"Everybody is short in some respects," said Brian Grimes, head of the NRC task force, which has visited half the country's plant sites to examine plans.

"How do you plow through the morass and all the complexities and the unknown?" asked Hilary Whitaker, a planner with the National Governors' Association. "You don't just develop a plan overnight."

In some cases initial plans have quickly exposed shortcomings. At an exercise last October at the Trojan nuclear plant near the Oregon-Washington border, about 40 miles north-west of Portland, state and local officials wanted to show coordination between the two states.

"Two hours into the exercise," recalled Grimes, "the governor of Oregon (Victor Atiyeh) had to tell a mock press conference he really didn't know what the state of Washington was doing."

Another problem is money. A federal study estimates that nationwide, states and communities may have to pay $10 million in 1980 to establish the projects, plus another $1.8 million a year in operating costs.

That would break down to about $360,000 per state, but twice that amount in states where plants are near big population areas, the study said.

Ten miles from the Indian Point plant in New York, Ron Goldfarb, the police chief of Ossining — pop. 20,000 — said he needs a new radio system to comply with proposed plans, but the town can't afford one.

Goldfarb said he could not communicate quickly with other towns in the emergency zone during an accident because radio frequencies differ among police departments.

Goldfarb questioned whether any adequate evacuation plan could be applied to Indian Point, where 350,000 people live within 10 miles.

Crooker, Brown ask re-election

Commissioner Bill Crooker has filed for candidacy for the Precinct 3 Commissioner election May 3. He will be opposed by Cosden employee Ryan L. Roger. Crooker announced his candidacy by designating himself as treasurer of his campaign Monday.

Commissioner O.L. "Louis" Brown also announced Monday that he will act as treasurer for his campaign for the precinct 1 commissioner office. He is not opposed. Precinct 1 includes the north and west part of Howard County.

ARTIFACTS ON LOAN TO MUSEUM HERE
Curator Gerri Atwell displays works

Local museum displays early Indian artifacts

A fabulous collection of early Indian artifacts, used by Indians thousands of years ago, are now on display for the very first time, at Heritage Museum.

This unbelievable prehistoric collection of tools was found in Martin County, near Patricia, by Charles Freeman, while plowing in his field. He hit a rock and within weeks had unearthed 107 flint tools such as hoes, spades, plows, spearheads and knives, all in a small area.

This rare collection has been examined by several well known archaeologists and all agree that it is authentic and a most unusual collection and well worth one's time to see it and know something about how the red man farmed years ago.

Tom Adams and Bill Rains, local archeologists, were astounded at the collection and examined each piece thoroughly. They were so convinced of the authenticity and rarity of the collection, that they called Mark J. Lynott, from the Archaeology Research Program, Department of Anthropology, Southern Methodist University about it. He will visit here to view the collection one day this week.

Calvin Boykin, Austin, house guest of Olive Ruth and Houston Cowden, visited the museum with his hosts this week.

Boykins will be remembered as opening the Crawford Hotel in Oct. 1927, and was manager for many years. Cowden rented an office from him in March when the building was first started and opened his insurance office in the west wing in November, 1927. Later, in 1954, his wife, Olive Ruth, opened the first insurance office in the Permian building, the Cowden Insurance Company.

Other out-of-town visitors were Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Hughes and Mary McKee of Merkel, visiting Mrs. McKee's daughter, Nancy McKee.

Someone drove away with a 1976 Kawasaki motorcycle belonging to Marty Biddison, 1304 Stadium, sometime Saturday. Biddison noticed that the cycle was gone Monday afternoon. It was valued at $500.

With the price of gasoline rising, two thefts occurred at two different service stations Monday.

A total of 6.1 gallons of regular was stolen from the Rip Griffin Truck Stop, IS 30 and Highway 87, Monday night. Loss was estimated at $6.30.

Two gallons were stolen from the Fas-Gas Station at 18th and Gregg, Monday afternoon. Loss was estimated at $2.

Three mishaps were reported Monday.

A parked vehicle belonging to John Sizemore, P.O. Box 2444, was struck by an unattended moving vehicle belonging to Harold Hicks, 1312 Colby, in the parking lot of the Big Spring High School, 10:24 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Cheryl Key, 1203 Madison, and Guillermo Hernandez, 3003 Cactus, collided at FM 700 and Wasson, 7:30 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Teresa Spiller, 704 San Antonio, and Linda Ramirez Ackerly, collided at Third and Douglas, 7:30 p.m.

Commissioners authorize county development firm

Howard County Commissioners passed a resolution authorizing the creation of the Howard County Industrial Development Corporation. The resolution was passed in Monday's regular meeting.

The corporation will allow companies moving into the county to secure low interest loans for the establishment of their businesses.

Commissioners took no action on a proposal to secure a maintenance agreement with Lanier Office Machines. The maintenance service would cost the county $176 for service on a dictaphone system purchased for the adult probation office.

Commissioners decided, however, that the warranty would be sufficient, at least for the first year.

The county has signed a contract with the Howard County Consolidated Tax Board to do their tax appraisal work. All nine taxing entries in the county will sign contracts with the new appraisal board.

Commissioners inspected the county jail and reviewed the deficiencies. A rabies control and eradication measure was approved by commissioners. The resolution, passed by the Texas House last spring, authorizes county employees to pick up dogs that have bitten humans.

An emergency water plan was passed by commissioners to supply the state hospital with water during emergencies. The water will be transported in trucks.

Commissioners discussed with a Xerox salesman the possibility of placing a duplicating machine in the basement office of the county agent. County agent employees have been going to the district clerk duplicating machine on the third floor. No action was taken, but the salesman and the county agent are on the agenda for the next commissioners court meeting.

The library janitorial service was discussed. No action was taken in the Monday meeting because of the absence of the parties involved. The issue will be taken up again at their next regular meeting.

Digest

Retrial date set

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A judge has set a retrial date of April 28 in Alameda County Superior Court for Juan Corona, charged with the 1971 hacking death of 25 itinerant farm laborers.

Sutter County Superior Court Judge Robert Patton set the date over heated objections from special prosecutor Ronald Fahy, whose appeal of an evidence ruling by Patton is pending before a higher court.

Corona was convicted on 25 counts of murder after a six-month trial in 1973. However, the state Supreme Court reversed the conviction two years ago on appeal after the court decided Corona did not receive an adequate defense.

World's superpowers facing showdown

Soviet expansion into Afghanistan has triggered a geopolitical showdown between the world's superpowers along Southwest Asia's so-called "arc of instability."

The ultimate stakes in what is expected to be a drawn-out global drama are extremely high since Afghanistan forms the backdoor to the fabulous oil wealth of Iran and the Arabian peninsula and to the Indian subcontinent.

Even if the Soviet Union, as it avows, is pursuing only short-range goals in the bloody suppression of Islamic insurgents in Afghanistan, the long-range effect is that the Russians will be more strategically placed to destabilize the autocratic Moslem regimes in Iran, Pakistan and Saudi Arabia, whenever the Kremlin's interests dictate.

"Geopolitics" — the interrelationship of politics and geography — is the game being played now.

Here is a geopolitical overview of the interests of each of the Big Three in the "arc of instability" as viewed by diplomatic and other analysts in the East and West:

SOVIET UNION

From the Moscow perspective, analysts view the current crisis as part of a Soviet maneuver to finally carve out concrete spheres of influence in the region following years of superpower jockeying that brought few clear results.

The most obvious and pressing concern behind the Russian move was that the unpopular Marxist regime of Hafizullah Amin would be overturned by tribal insurgents and expose the heavily Moslem populated southern regions of the Soviet Union to the infectious Islamic revolution.

The Soviets, therefore, chose to quell the Afghan insurrection and, according to experts, liquidate Amin, replacing him with a more responsive Satrap.

The Russians also appeared to be worried about the possible loss of credibility with the Kremlin's East European allies, eager to discourage their own dissident movements by raising the specter of Soviet intervention on the order of Hungary in 1956 and Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Then, too, there was the half-century-old Soviet sensitivity about encirclement by unfriendly states.

By effectively annexing Afghanistan, the Russians have come close to severing the first chain of anti-Marxist or anti-Soviet states surrounding them. Key links in this chain are Japan, South Korea, China, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey and Western Europe.

A military thrust of less than 300 miles from Afghanistan through western Pakistan or southeastern Iran would cut the chain and bring the Soviet Union to the Arabian Sea, near the entrance to the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

U.S. observers believe Russia's old thirst for warm waters may have been aroused anew by the prospect that the Soviet Union may face an energy shortage of its own beginning in the mid or late 1980s.

THE UNITED STATES
The Soviets may have their eye on the last half of this decade, but Arabian oil is immediately important to the United States and its Western allies.

About 20 percent of 8-million-plus barrels of oil the United States imports each day comes from wells on the Arab side of the Persian Gulf — 1.2 million alone from Saudi Arabia.

Saudi Arabia, a leading purchaser of U.S. weaponry, sits atop the world's largest proven reservoir of crude oil — 28 percent of the world total.

While Washington does not appear to perceive an imminent threat to the Arabian oil fields or the tanker routes, President Carter has told members of Congress that the Soviet move in Afghanistan directly threatened U.S. security because, if the Soviets suffered no adverse consequences from their action, there would be the temptation "to move again and again until they reached warm water ports" or gained control of world oil supplies.

The Russian action also has brought the United States and China closer to a community of interests.

Although the United States is sticking to its policy of not selling arms to China, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown said at the conclusion of his recent visit to Peking, "We found we have views very closely parallel on the need to strengthen other nations in the region."

CHINA
China's senior vice premier Deng Xiaoping regards intervention in Afghanistan as "a grave step taken by the Soviet Union to make a southward thrust to the Indian Ocean, control the sea lanes, seize oil-rich areas and outflank Europe so as to gain world hegemony."

Of more pressing concern to China is the security of its old friend and ally, Pakistan.

In addition to coordinating military aid to Pakistan with the United States, China can be expected to gain propaganda points in the Third World by pointing to Afghanistan as an example of the dangers faced by developing countries that get too friendly with the Russian bear.

Weather — Spring-like day forecast again

By the Associated Press
Another spring-like day, complete with unseasonably warm temperatures, scattered showers and thunderstorms was forecast for all of Texas today.

A weak cool front pushed its way into the Panhandle during the pre-dawn hours and was expected to trigger showers and thunderstorms in the Panhandle, spreading into Northeast Texas by the late afternoon.

The remainder of the state was to have mostly cloudy skies and continued warm temperatures.

Highs were expected to be mostly in the 70s and 80s in the eastern half of the state and in the 60s and 70s in West Texas. Dense fog was reported along the upper Texas coast before dawn, but forecasters said it was not as bad as the fog had been earlier in the week. A travelers advisory was issued for the upper Texas coast because the fog created hazardous driving conditions.

Light drizzle was reported early today in the San Antonio area. The remainder of the state had partly cloudy to cloudy skies.

Early morning temperatures were in the 50s and 60s in the eastern half of the state and in the 40s and 50s in West Texas. Extremes ranged from 38 at Marfa to 65 at Corpus Christi.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy through Wednesday with a slight chance of showers north today and northeast tonight. Highs 40 to 78. Lows 28 to 44. Highs Wednesday 55 to 73.

Bad medicine will eventually do good

Don't say you haven't been warned. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker says there is no way we can escape a decline in the standard of living.

ALTHOUGH MR. VOLCKER was widely quoted as saying that this decline was to be caused by a declared policy of deliberate recession on the part of the Fed, he didn't say that at all. The Wall Street Journal correctly pointed out that he actually said that the "declining living standards and the chances of recession arose quite independently of the Fed's policy change."

Most everyone is ready to concede that the standard of living for most of us had already suffered.

This evident consequence of what has been happening in the nation's economy in recent times was reaffirmed not too long ago in a poll conducted by the Associated Press and NBC News. Of those questioned, purportedly representative of the American public, 64 per cent said inflation had reduced their standard of living. This compares with 52 per cent in a poll taken several months previously.

As one might expect, the rise in the prices of virtually everything from food to entertainment is felt most keenly by those in low to middle income categories. Families that find it hard to stretch income to cover their needs, let alone their desires, are hardest hit by inflation.

THIS IS REFLECTED in the poll results. Whereas only five out of ten in households with income above $25,000 complained about cuts in their standard of living, seven out of ten did so where income was under that figure — and among blue collar workers 27 per cent reported a substantial reduction.

There is no element of surprise in these findings, which simply tell us what we know — that the average man on the street is keenly aware of the pinch. That has been going on for a long time, and as the poll shows this effect is rising.

Volcker observes that the pinch will be sharper as the effects of the Fed's severe credit restrictions on banks are felt by the public. What we can hope is that, though the medicine tastes bad, it will eventually do some good. If it doesn't, we're all in the soup.

Kennedy woe are mounting

Evans, Novak

OSKALOOSA, Iowa — A strangely bland Sen. Edward M. Kennedy failed to generate the excitement that his supporters here prayed for from his five-day swing through rural Iowa — a failure that menaces him in the Jan. 21 Iowa Democratic caucuses but also clouds his entire challenge to President Carter.

Kennedy's late-starting, smoothly-functioning Iowa organization has nullified Carter's head start in the state's metropolitan areas. But to counter Carter's advantage planted in rural counties by his 1976 saturation campaign, Kennedy needed a galvanic effect from his swing — to convince county Democrats suspicious of the Eastern seaboard liberal to devote a night in the dead of winter to opposing their party's incumbent president.

Kennedy did not approach that goal. In toning down his delivery to small-town Iowa standards, he became bland. By steering clear of long-held liberal positions, he lost conviction. Amid central Iowa's snows occurred the spectacle of a boring Kennedy campaign for president.

EVEN SO, KENNEDY'S metropolitan strength, plus lack of enthusiasm for the president, may prevent a Carter runaway; bad country roads might even sneak Kennedy ahead. But whatever happens here Jan. 21, Teddy among the Hawkeyes showed he still presents no politically effective rationale for challenging the president.

When Kennedy arrived in Iowa Jan. 7, there were signs that the absent Carter's Iranian-spawned popularity, sustained by Afghanistan, was fading. Carter operatives confessed sighting a Kennedy resurgence, fueled by two presidential actions: the Iowa debate cancellation and the Soviet grain embargo.

Kennedy strategists concurred, but called for help from their man. United Auto Workers (UAW) political operative Chuck Gifford told a friend that Kennedy had to electrify rural audiences. Polk County (Des Moines) supervisor Tom Whitney, founder of Iowa's draft Kennedy movement, was more specific about what the candidate must provide to justify challenging the president: vigorous denunciation of Carter's grain embargo, more vigorous positions on Iran and Afghanistan.

The Kennedy swing drew full to overflowing audiences in Carter country. But many were there just to glimpse that glamorous and tragic couple, Ted and Joan Kennedy. An example: Carroll, a socially conservative German-Catholic town hostile to Kennedy because of Chappaquiddick and abortion. Out of more than 400 who traveled icy highways to see Kennedy, his managers had hoped at least 200 would sign Kennedy pledge cards. The total was 175 — pretty good, but possibly not good enough.

However, the real question is whether Kennedy energized those 175 signers to attend caucuses for him. He certainly did not follow Tom Whitney's advice on Iran and Afghanistan. The senator and his strategists remain paralyzed on how to criticize the president in time of crisis. While telling audiences "we have been lurching from crisis to crisis," Kennedy quickly attacked the subject.

Nor did he frontally attack the grain embargo as Carter backers had expected. Kennedy might have been thrown off by public criticism of his land from an important Iowa supporter, Farmers Union leader Lowell Gose. On the next morning with prices dropping in reopened commodity exchanges, Kennedy ignored the embargo in his first stop and addressed it but sluggishly the rest of the day.

Body can produce too much cortisone

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: In my last hospital stay I was told I have Cushing's syndrome. Can you tell me about this disease, its symptoms, treatment and cure? I enjoy your articles in the paper. They are very informative. — H.B.

Cushing's syndrome is due to an excess output of cortisone. Drug companies are not the only ones who make drugs. The body does, too.

Cortisone is made by the adrenal glands, the small endocrine glands sitting on top of the kidneys. The signal for the adrenals to make cortisone comes from another endocrine gland, the pituitary (in the center of the head). The problem with excess production of cortisone can, therefore, lie in either gland.

The end result is the same — too much circulating cortisone. This causes Cushing's syndrome — high blood pressure, weakness, growth of facial hair, thinning of skin tissue and ease of bruising.

The attention in treatment is directed toward the pituitary or adrenal gland, depending on which is at fault. Radiation or surgical removal of the pituitary, or surgical removal of the adrenals are ways to solve the problem. A drug called "o,p-DD" is another treatment.

Cushing's syndrome can also result from too much cortisone or cortisone-like drug being taken by a patient to treat other ailments — for example, muscle diseases like polymyositis. Thus, such drugs are used cautiously over very long periods. Yet, it is sometimes necessary to tolerate the symptoms of Cushing's syndrome in order to keep another disease in check.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am affiliated with a mental health clinic. The doctors and dietitians are finding some patients with nervousness and some, as you indicated in a recent column, have symptoms of hypoglycemia (low blood sugar). They have found that many bring on the symptoms by poor diet habits — skipping meals, poor choice of foods, etc.

I was disappointed that in your answer you did not mention the need for balanced eating to prevent hypoglycemia. — V.M.

If I didn't I should have. The point is well taken. Balanced meals that assure adequate protein at regular intervals will help maintain normal blood sugar levels. This is discussed at length in the booklet, "Help for Hypoglycemia," which readers may order by mailing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald. I'm sending you a copy.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a 50-year-old female, and have been told I have giardia, which I understand is an organism that you find in water from a well. I have not been near a well, nor have I been out of the country recently. Can I transmit this to other members of my family? I am taking Flagyl for it, and my doctor tells me I will be as good as new once it is cleared up. — S.A.S.

Giardia is the name of the organism involved in this intestinal illness. It is like the amoeba. The symptoms of infection vary from none at all to recurrent nausea, cramping and diarrhea.

It is generally transmitted from contaminated water supply, and you needn't have drunk from well water directly to have gotten it. Travelers to foreign countries may come in contact with it there, but the organism is also found in many parts of North America. Many cases have been found in Colorado and Oregon.

Matronidazole, the generic name for Flagyl, is the effective medicine.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My marriage has not been very happy, and I am praying that God will show me whether or not to divorce my husband. How can I tell when He answers? — Mrs. G.G.H.

DEAR MRS. G.G.H.: I do not know the full circumstances of your marriage, and I am sorry that you have known great disappointment and unhappiness. God intended marriage to be a great blessing, and that is one reason He gave it to us.

However, I must be frank with you; I believe that God has in all likelihood already given you the answer to your prayer. In His Word, the Bible, He has declared that marriage is a solemn vow before Him which is not to be broken. I realize that we live in a time when many teach that any marriage which is unhappy should be dissolved, but that is not what the Bible teaches. Jesus declared, "I tell you that anyone who divorces his wife, except against the organism. You cannot pass it on to members of your family.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please tell me why doctors say surgery is not advisable for hiatal hernia? I am a victim and mine is very uncomfortable and painful. — Mrs. I.M.

This is a protrusion of a portion of the stomach upward into the gullet at the point where the gullet passes through the diaphragm. The reason surgery is reserved for only the most severe cases is that there are so many techniques that can alleviate the discomfort. These include diet (bland foods), head elevation at night, antacids and weight reduction, to name a few.

If there is serious reflux (splashing of stomach fluid upward into the gullet) or a resulting inflammation of the gullet, then surgery may be considered to repair the hernia.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Today my "little" brother celebrates his 22nd birthday. This rim is his present.

Mickie Daniel, as he was named by our father, is a senior Engineering Technology-Mechanical Engineering major at Texas A&M University. Although he is younger than me, he is by no means my "little" brother. He stands 6'3" and though thin, is really quite strong.

shouldn't be hanging around with certain people, in particular, guys.

He and I became very close the year that we commuted to A&M together. Spending an hour with him, at least, every day I got to know him pretty well. If it hadn't been for me I don't think he would have survived his first year in college. He was about as lost as I was when he first started, only he had the advantage — a sister who had survived two years without any help.

BEING THE SOUTHPAW in the family, my dad made a pitcher out of the day he was old enough to play baseball. He was good at it but his temper usually got the best of him. The madder he got because he was throwing so poorly, the worse his pitches got. His temper usually gets the best of him in his golf game too. One bad shot and his temper flares and his golf game goes down the tubes. If he could have just controlled his temper or put it to use for him, he could have made the Texas A&M golf team the year he tried out.

I do feel a bit sorry for the woman he marries, though. But not because of his temper but because of his laziness. Trying to get him to help out around the house is like trying to pull teeth. And, no matter how hard my mother has tried, he still leaves things where he puts them down, not where they belong.

Mickie is a good amateur mechanic and woodworker. He has saved my dad many sums of money with his knowledge of motors and such. He also has saved me money. He took two old chairs that my grandfather gave me and refinished them to look like new.

Happy Birthday Mickie.

MICKIE WAS always a bright child. He always came home with straight A's while in grade school without spending very much time studying. That bit of phenomenon continued through junior high and high school, despite opposite predictions from my mother and myself. Surely, he was going to have to learn how to study some time, we thought.

That time came when he entered A&M. I think the odds were against him when he first started. He had a fairly heavy course load for a freshman and was spending quite a bit more time with the books than ever before. His time had come. Then he was smitten with an intestinal infection that landed him in the hospital for two days. He missed over a week of classes.

At mid-term his grades were very poor. But he fought back against the disease and the books and triumphed with over a 3.0 grade point average at the end of the semester.

Ever since then he has been studying hard to maintain a high grade point ratio and has succeeded in keeping his level above 3.25 every semester.

Mickie, in the past, has assumed the role of protective older brother. There were times when he told me that I

Lies will out

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Whenever something appears in print that is less than reverent about Big Oil, its mouthpiece, the American Petroleum Institute, can be counted on to squeal like a stuck pig.

These piteous squeals have never bothered me. A columnist is known by the enemies he makes, and I'm proud to be on the "enemies list" of the greediest gougers of the Twentieth Century. But it would be nice if the API occasionally larded its porcine polemics with a few facts.

Last October, I revealed the contents of a CIA report which showed that the Carter administration had deliberately lied to the American public about the cause of last year's gasoline shortage.

PRESIDENT CARTER and then-Energy Secretary James Schlesinger repeatedly blamed the troublesome gas lines on the Iranian revolution, which they said had caused a drop in overall world oil production of some 2 million barrels a day and a significant drop in U.S. petroleum imports.

But the CIA report made clear that Carter and Schlesinger knew — that both world production and U.S. imports were in fact greater than the year before. The oil companies knew this too, of course, but were apparently too busy counting the profits from the artificial shortage to bother correcting the administration's lie.

The API tried to shoot holes in my column, with a two-page diatribe sent to editors of the nearly 1,000 newspapers that run this column. Interestingly, the letter failed to address the only fact that might have embarrassed the oil industry — the strange circumstance that U.S. oil production was 150,000 barrels a day lower than the year before.

Instead, the API attacked peripheral issues. First, it claimed the CIA report was not secret, but was "circulated in various Washington offices, including non-government offices."

Well, my associate Dale Van Atta was told by at least half a dozen government officials that the report was not available to press or public. He finally found someone who agreed to leak it. Maybe he should have asked the API, which apparently has no trouble obtaining CIA reports.

The API tried to pooh-pooh the figures in the CIA document, claiming that they were nothing new, that in fact the API itself had published them week by week. This is simply not true: The API's figures were estimates, and unreliable; the CIA's figures were verified facts, which is what made them worth reporting.

More to the point, the Energy Department was also using unreliable figures, with the result that its predictions of a drop in world oil production turned out to be all wet. In admitting this, the DOE's top statistician, Lincoln Moses, wrote his boss a mea culpa last spring citing CIA figures as proof of his error.

"I was wrong about world oil production," his memo stated, "which these (CIA) figures show to be above January and February of 1978."

I've waiting to reply to the API attack because I knew the House subcommittee on Commerce, Consumer and Monetary Affairs was preparing a report on the bill gouger. It was released last week and completely supports my October column.

PART OF THE COMMITTEE'S report was the conclusion that DOE deliberately withheld significant information about a substantial February increase in oil imports from the Congress and the public because, in the words of one official, "it would have been embarrassing."

The report added that DOE knew its predictions about a drop in world oil production were false, and was alarmed when figures began appearing to prove it. "When the discrepancy could not be resolved," the House report said, "no attempt was made to reveal the new data, or suggest DOE-published data might have been inaccurate."

Which is just what I wrote in October. Squeal on, API.

PROSECUTION WITNESS: Four and a half years ago Bert Lance turned in an associate, Bill Campbell, to the FBI for embezzling nearly $1 million from the Calhoun National Bank of Calhoun, Ga.

Campbell was sent to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta and Lance went to the White House to become President Carter's budget director.

Now Campbell has told federal investigators that he took the rap for a crime in which Lance participated. He kept quiet about Lance's involvement, Campbell alleged, because Lance had promised to use his political influence to get him off the hook.

All Campbell had to do, Lance told him, was to wait until Jimmy Carter reached the White House. Campbell waited, but the Carter administration never commuted his sentence. Campbell tried to call Lance, but couldn't get through to him.

Now Campbell will get a chance to tell his story on the witness stand. He will be a principal witness against Lance who is facing trial in Atlanta for alleged banking irregularities. Campbell will testify about Lance's role in the embezzlement, the use of bank funds for Lance's gubernatorial campaign and other malpractices — allegations that Lance has denied.

Lance's attorneys, of course, will attack Campbell's credibility. They will stress the fact that he never mentioned his allegations against Lance to the FBI or federal prosecutors until months later.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor,

On Saturday, Jan. 12, I saw a small black dog get hit at the corner of Gregg and 15th. I went back to see if the dog was still alive. He was, and had already been moved out of the street.

I took him to a nearby animal clinic hoping a veterinarian could help him.

The clinic was closed, and by that time the dog was dead. I buried the dog right away as he did not wear any tags.

Anyone wanting further information can call 263-4862.

Thank you, Melissa Baker

Texas CowBelles make plans for Beefeferendum

Tejas CowBelles met at a restaurant in Snyder Jan. 9. Their husbands and children were guests for the evening meal and a film, "Cattleman and Cowboys."

Plans were made to work with the county chairman on the Beefeferendum in Howard, Scurry, Mitchell, and Borden counties.

The Beefeferendum is an industry-wide effort to establish a program of beef research, consumer information, promotion and foreign market development.

This can be done if a majority of cattlemen vote in a referendum to implement the Beef Research and Information Act, which is legislation enabling the cattle industry to establish, finance and operate a coordinated self-help program. CowBelles have been asked to work with the men in an effort to promote this referendum.

Tejas CowBelles will make a quilt block to be used in a 'State Historical Brand' quilt. This quilt will be sold at the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Convention in San Antonio in March. Tejas CowBelles will hold a convention there at the same time. The money raised will be used in the Scholarship Fund. CowBelles give $500 scholarships to two college students each year, who are majoring in Foods and Nutrition or Agriculture Communications.

The 1980 Texas Beef Cook-off will be April 17. Entry blanks will be available soon for the cook-off from any CowBelle. Local people are encouraged to enter. Anyone over 18 who is not a CowBelle or a professional cook is eligible to enter.

The five finalist will have travel expenses paid to Amarillo for the Cook-off. The winner of the Texas Beef Cook-off will go to the National Beef Cook-off in Scottsdale, Arizona in September.

Tejas CowBelles will meet in Big Spring Feb. 12 at Furr's Cafeteria, at 10 a.m. CowBelles welcome ladies who are interested in promoting or protecting the cattle industry.

Dear Abby

Love's Unflawed By Birth Defect

DEAR ABBY: This letter has taken me 2 1/2 years to write. It is in response to someone who asked you if she should acknowledge the birth of a friend's baby who had been diagnosed as having Down's Syndrome. (Mongolism.) Thank you, Abby, for saying, "Yes, the mother of such a child needs all the support and cheering up she can get."

I read that column the day I came home from the hospital with little Jimmy, my newborn Down's Syndrome baby. But there is so much more that most people need to know, and as one who has had that experience, may I say it:

Please keep in mind that what happened to Jimmy was tragic, but the child himself is not a tragedy, and neither is his birth. He is as much a loving member of our family as our other children, so do send a card, a note, or a little gift to acknowledge his birth.

Here are a few suggestions that will help you feel more comfortable when talking to new parents of a Down's baby: Please don't ask if "insanity" runs in the family. Down's Syndrome is a chromosome defect, and is rarely hereditary. Furthermore, a Down's child is retarded, which is vastly different from insane.

Don't hesitate to ask how he is getting along. Some people avoid mentioning the child (as though he had died) because they think the situation is too horrible to even discuss.

When the child seems to be progressing, please don't say he seems "normal" and maybe won't be retarded after all! New parents need to face up to the facts regarding their special child before they themselves can accept him as he is. By denying his limitations, you encourage false hopes, and convey the message that you don't really accept or love him.

About a third of all Down's children are born with heart defects. Our Jimmy required open-heart surgery. He survived the operation and is much improved. We thank God for that, so please don't say it might have been a "blessing" had he died. And don't express surprise that they "would bother" to operate on such a child.

Please believe the parents when they say that their special child is a very worthwhile little person, and they are actually glad to have him. While Down's Syndrome is nothing to wish for, it can be accepted, and is not nearly as catastrophic as it seems the first few weeks.

In the beginning, the parents need to talk about their feelings. Don't argue. Listen. Let them weep, and weep with them. And when they can finally smile about their baby, you smile, too.

Don't refer to the child as "that poor little thing." It hurts me to see people look upon my child with pity, and know that they wish he had never been born. He's not repulsive in the least, and I can honestly say that much good has already come from our little treasure. Our other children (the eldest is 9) have learned understanding and compassion because of their little brother. We told them the truth immediately, and they have loved him from the day they first saw him.

I cannot imagine life without Jimmy. He is the sunshine of our lives.

People don't mean to be insensitive or cruel—they just don't know how to handle the birth of an exceptional child.

I know this is much too long for your column, Abby, but please print as much of it as possible. You will be doing a tremendous service to many.

JIMMY'S MOTHER: ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR MOM: Your letter filled an entire column. But it was well worth the space. I know I speak for many when I say "thank you" for writing.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nominations being taken

The Howard County Unit of the West Texas Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers held their monthly meeting at a luncheon Jan. 10.

The meeting was attended by 14 members and two guests. Dan Wise, chairman of the Awards Committee, reported that nominations for Citizen of the Year and Social Worker of the Year are now being taken.

Nominations must include a description of qualifications and service to the community. Other business included a discussion of social work licensing and certification issues.

The members tentatively agreed to support a certification bill.

The next regular meeting of NASW will be held at K-Bob's Restaurant on Feb. 14. All social workers in Howard County are encouraged to attend.

Mrs. Fowler presides over club meeting

The Mary Jane Club met Jan. 9 at 9:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of Coahoma Methodist Church with Mrs. Ted Fowler and Mrs. Rodney Brooks as hostesses.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Fowler, vice-president. Thirteen members answered roll call with "My Favorite Cowboy." A thank you letter was read from the Awake Class for the club's contribution to their project.

Mrs. J.M. Sterling, educational chairman of the Tejas Cow Belles, assisted by Mrs. Larry Nix, presented a program about retail beef industry. Mrs. Sterling said that from a 1,000-pound steer, 432 pounds of retail beef, such as steaks, roasts and ground beef, are produced, as well as variety meats — liver, brains, tongue, kidneys, tripe and sweetbreads.

However some of the lesser known by-products are pharmaceuticals important to the medical profession, such as Epinephrine, Insulin, ACTH, Estrogen and Thyroid Extract.

Some of the edible by-products are contained in oleo, gelatin, marshmallows, canned meat and candies. A large range of inedible by-products include leather, surgical sutures, soaps, cosmetics, buttons, china, photographic film, violin strings, "camel hair" brushes and explosives.

Mrs. Nix told of the Texas Beef Cookoff to be held in Amarillo on April 17. This contest is open to anyone except Cow Belle members. The entry deadline is March 15. Mrs. Sterling was presented a subscription to Texas Highways by the club.

Refreshments of beef jerky, Spicy Texan Beef Dip and ground beef cookies were served from a table covered with an orange linen cloth.

The next meeting will be Feb. 14 in the home of Mrs. Rufus Parks.

Meaningful names given to officers

The Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room was the setting for a recent covered-dish luncheon and business meeting of the City Extension Homemakers Club.

Mrs. Frances Zant, vice president, presided in the absence of President Rozelle Dohoney.

Officers for the coming year were installed by Mrs. Neal Norred using the theme "What's In A Name." Mrs. Norred revealed that in biblical times, people were given names with special meanings and she substituted a name for each officer relating to their task.

President Dohoney was dubbed "Mrs. I.M. Tactful." Tact is an asset to any office. Vice President Zant was given the name "Mrs. Fill In," as she is to keep informed and always ready to take chair on short notice.

Secretary, Mrs. Alton Underwood, was named "Write For," as she will keep the records in order for clarity of activities. Treasurer Mrs. Waymon Etchison received the name of "Mrs. Earnest Banks," to keep the club operation within its budget.

Eat spuds, spaghetti for instant energy

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Please help. I'm active in gymnastics and need an energy-filled meal before practice.

I've been eating cottage cheese and a steak but I don't seem to have much pep. Can you find out what would be a better pre-practice meal or is cottage cheese and steak the best I can do? — Tommy, San Angelo, Texas

Tommy: The best meal you can eat is one based mostly on high-carbohydrate dishes such as rice, potatoes, spaghetti (pasta) and bread. Carbohydrates are quickly converted into glucose which your body needs for fast energy. High-protein foods (steak, cottage cheese) aren't good because your stomach must work harder to digest them and that means less instant energy.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and my boyfriend is 17 and we love each other very much. The problem is that we argue a lot.

One of my friends told me that people who argue love each other. Is that why we argue? — Rhonda, Rock Island, Ill.

Rhonda: Those in love argue, those not in love argue, friends argue, enemies argue, parents argue, teens argue. ...

Dr. Wallace: I dated

Bobby for about a year but about two months ago, he broke a date with me for this other girl. He has been dating her ever since and I've heard rumors that they are going steady.

A school club is having a girl-ask-boy dance and I was wondering if I should invite Bobby because I still like him very much. — Connie, Florence, Ala.

Connie: Don't waste your time asking Bobby. It's obvious that he has other interests. Invite a boy who would be thrilled to go to the dance with you.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, Tween 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Teens turn to abortion because 'pill' unsafe?

A Florida physician has suggested that the same amount of educational information should be made available to teen-age girls concerning the inherent dangers of an abortion operation as is available to them regarding the dangers and side effects of birth control pills.

Reporting in the Southern Medical Journal, Matthew J.

Bulfin, M.D., said that when complications arise in teenage abortions, he has found that the girls did not feel they had received adequate information about the potential dangers of the operation. Some had discontinued using birth control pills because they had read that it was "too dangerous" but believed that because abortions were legal, they had to be safe.

Joe's hobbies are building models, riding bikes, and collecting magazines. He uses his route profits to buy the magazines he collects and spends some of it on clothes.

He is a 6th grader at Goliad Junior High and participates in the Goliad Boys Choir. His carrier route hours are short and leave him plenty of leisure time for his school and personal activities.

Don't complain about not being able to find a job and earn money. Call 263-7331 and apply for your Herald route. There's a chance you could start work soon and begin earning money right away.

Two tuna boats held 'captive'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Two captured American tuna boats remained docked in Costa Rica today pending charges they were fishing in the country's territorial waters.

A ham radio operator who monitored the ships' plight said the Cindy Ann and Marjorie R, both of San Diego, docked Monday night in Puentarenas, Costa Rica.

George Lasko, 30, of Corpus Christi, said the crews reported they were being held on board, but that no Costa Ricans had boarded the tuna boats.

The State Department in Washington said it had heard reports of the seizure but could not officially confirm it. The American Tuna Association in San Diego, Calif., confirmed the seizure.

Lasko, a piano and organ salesman, said he heard a fading appeal for help over his radio about 8 a.m. Monday as he prepared to go to work.

The appeal was from Efrén Tucker, the first mate of the Cindy Ann, who was asking any ham operator who could hear him to inform his company and family that his vessel had been seized by the Costa Rican government.

Tucker told Lasko, and later The Corpus Christi Caller-Times, that the 225-foot Cindy Ann was adrift with all but two of her 19-man crew asleep about 1 a.m. Monday. A Costa Rican craft pulled alongside, he said, and ordered a crewman at gunpoint to summon the captain.

Two armed men then boarded the boat, he said, and told Capt. Frank Ferreira he was fishing inside Costa Rica's territorial waters, which are famed for their tuna. Costa Rica claims a 200-mile fishing zone, but the United States recognizes only a 12-mile zone.

A spokesman for Van Camp Canneries of San Diego, which owns the ship, said the company's legal department advises ships to recognize the 12-mile limit.

But Tucker said the ship was 20 to 25 miles outside the 200 limit when it was seized, and had 165 pounds of tuna aboard.

"I'm the navigator and I know we were not in their territorial waters," he said.

The crew was ordered to proceed directly to Puentarenas, Tucker said.

Lasko, who never made it to work, arranged a telephone patch between the Cindy Ann and Van Camp, the American Tuna Association and several relatives of the ship's crew.

Seven and a half hours after the Cindy Ann was seized, the Marjorie R was taken over about 50 miles to the east, said Tucker and the tuna association.

Tucker, in an interview with The Corpus Christi Caller-Times, termed the seizure "piracy."

"They want to fine us. It's a ripoff," he said, adding the crew was unharmed.

He said he had little faith in the American government. "The way the world situation is today, we can't count on anybody but ourselves," he said.

On Dec. 14, another Van Camp boat, the Bold Adventress, was seized and brought to Puentarenas for the same reason. The crew was held 10 days before Van Camp paid a $112,000 bond.

Client told to buzz off

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A beekeeper has been stung by his insurance company but 86-year-old Myron Surmach says those folks just don't know the difference between wasps and bees.

"They don't understand..." said the Ukrainian immigrant. "Everybody gets stung by wasps, but they blame bees. And you can't insure yourself against wasps. They are all over."

For the last 28 years, Surmach has been conducting school tours of his apiary, located at his Bergen County home — apparently without the knowledge of the Great American Insurance Company. Surmach said his policy was canceled when the company found out about the tours because of "increased hazard."

Surmach, who says only one or two children have been accidentally stung in 28 years, won't disband his 30 hives but thinks he may have to stop the tours if he can't find another insurance company.

Meanwhile, he tends his hives daily, crediting his good health, in part, to his honey and the bees. Once, he said, he let a couple of them sting him on his arthritic knee.

"The doctor made a face when I did it, but it cured my arthritis."

Gas crisis real for quarry

BANDON, Ore. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies sympathized with quarry operator Kent Johnson but they said he went too far in trying to stop gasoline thefts.

Johnson said his South Coast Rock Co. had been losing 125 gallons of gasoline a week.

Police said Johnson, suspecting he had found a gasoline thief on his property, bulldozed a large hole on Saturday and buried a small pickup.

When James Gagnon of Bandon showed up, he found only pieces of his truck. Gagnon complained to deputies and was charged with gasoline theft. Johnson was charged with criminal mischief and told to dig up Gagnon's pickup.

Odessa man will speak to life underwriters

Curtis Saylor, director of the Texas Association of Life Underwriters, will be the principal speaker at a Thursday noon luncheon of Big Spring underwriters scheduled at Herman's Restaurant.

Saylor, a resident of Odessa, entered the life insurance business as an agent in Odessa in 1960, with American Amicable Life Insurance Company of Waco.

He became a unit manager for the firm in 1970 and district manager four years later.

He obtained his Chartered Life Underwriter Designation in 1974. Saylor is a life member and a Lone Star Leader in the Texas Leaders Round Table. He is a member of America Amicable's 'Hall of Fame' and President's cabinet.

The Odessa Agency under his leadership won the 'Rhymey Award' for Agency building in 1977. In 1979, Saylor was elected to the board of directors for the Texas Association of Life

CURTIS SAYLOR
Underwriters for a three-year term.
He was also awarded "Boss of the Year" honors in 1978 by the Odessa Jaycees.
He is a member of the Crescent Park Baptist Church in Odessa, the Rotary Club of Odessa. He and his wife, Doris, have two sons and two grandchildren.

Minority engineers needed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas schools must train more blacks and Mexican-Americans as engineers to support the state's highly technical society, says a college administrator.

John Robottom of the University of Texas at Arlington described as "appalling" survey results that showed only one-third of minority students in the larger school districts take math courses that might lead to a college engineering degree.

Robottom, executive director of the Texas Alliance for Minorities in Engineering, spoke Monday to the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education.

Of the 160,000 students who graduate each year from Texas high schools, he said, only 16,000 have had trigonometry, the "essential pre-calculus course."

Only 1,700 students, he said, have taken physics, the science on which engineering is based. He said the Texas Education Agency "has no figures on the numbers of minority students who have taken these essential courses, but those of us in engineering education know that number is infinitesimal."

"It is a problem that is perhaps out of our control," said Robottom.

Robottom, assistant to the dean of the College of Engineering, said the number of college engineering graduates is expected to increase from 45,000 to a peak of 65,000 in 1982, and then will decline at approximately the same rate.

The problem will become "especially acute in the mid-1990s," he said. A major factor in the decline is the lower birth rate, he said.

"In Texas we encounter a phenomenon which is relatively uncommon," Robottom said. "The minority population of Texas is on the order of 35 percent, yet over 40 percent of our K-12 (Kindergarten through 12th grade) school age population is black or Hispanic."

He said the Education Agency has projected that by the late 1990s, 60 percent of the K-12 population will be black or Hispanic.

"We have, then, a large and increasing minority population whose children rarely consider technical careers. ... Clearly we must bring our minority population into the mainstream of technical careers — not as a response to federal mandate or from a humane impulse to aid the less fortunate, but to sustain the highly technical society which we have built here in Texas," said Robottom.

"Enough has been said to make it clear that the problems of educating a sufficient number of young people to man our proliferating computers, our laboratories, our science facilities and our industry is beyond the capacity of our public school system as it now operates," he said.

Harold Jones, secretary of the Texas Life Underwriters Association, and Marjorie Cotton of Shell Oil Co. in Houston proposed that every student take one year of business courses in high school.

Officials discussing problems with coyotes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Secretary of Interior Cecil Andrus was the scheduled keynote today as federal and state government officials, environmentalists and ranchers gathered to talk about the coyote problem in Texas.

The meeting, sponsored by the Texas Department of Agriculture, began with a series of talks, then turned into an afternoon work session.

"The losses of sheep and goats due to coyote predation are increasing in Texas," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said in calling the session. "If we can't develop effective measures (of control) the sheep and goat raisers in Texas will continue to suffer economic losses."

"The ultimate alternative is to write off an industry that brings in $120 million annually," Brown said.

He said Texas' livestock losses to coyotes last year was $21 million, of which $13 million was in the sheep and goat industry. The subsequent loss of wool and mohair was not included in the total.

Doctor warns of drug-induced sleep

Insomnia? Change your sleeping habits

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — About one out of four Americans complain of sleeping problems, and the most common treatment — sleeping pills — often make the problems even worse, contends a psychologist.

"The problem is that most patients who complain about insomnia automatically get sleeping pills," said William C. Orr, director of the Sleep Disorders Clinic at Presbyterian Hospital in Oklahoma City. "There is no question it's a problem."

Orr told the American Medical Association's winter scientific meeting Monday that some patients certainly should be given sleeping pills, "but there are other situations where it is absolutely and completely inappropriate."

Doctors, Orr said in a subsequent interview, "are simply not as aware as they should be that there are alternative approaches to the treatment of sleep disorders."

He said sleep clinics such as his have been very successful by simply changing their patients' sleeping habits.

The first rule, Orr said, is not to go to sleep until you're sleepy.

A surprising number of people go to bed at some specific bed time, can't fall asleep for hours, and call it insomnia. If they retire an hour or so later, however, they're almost instantly asleep, he said. Their insomnia is gone.

If you don't fall asleep within 15 or 20 minutes, Orr said, "you should get out of bed, go to another room and read, watch TV or mop the floor, or something, until you're sleepy again."

He said insomniacs should never take naps during the day, and they should always get up at the same time every morning. Too often, he said, people sleep late after a restless night, then are wide awake when they go to bed the following evening.

Once the normal rhythm is broken, he said, "you can get yourself into a vicious circle."

Orr said much the same advice applies to those who occasionally toss and turn, unable to sleep because of temporary stresses and pressures.

He said another major problem with sleeping pills is that they mask symptoms of serious physical or psychological illnesses that can produce the sleeping problems.

Among them are "restless legs syndrome," in which muscles in the legs or arms twitch repeatedly through the night, and "sleep onset apnea," a dangerous disorder in which a person stops breathing when he falls asleep.

Since it's almost impossible to diagnose sleeping maladies when the patient is awake, Orr said, sleep laboratories monitor their patients through the night.

"We're trying to get physicians to approach the problem of insomnia and hypersomnia (constant daytime drowsiness) ... in the same way they approach a patient with chest pains."

"These are legitimate medical complaints and may have extremely serious consequences."

Orr also noted that a "substantial portion" of perhaps 50 million Americans complaining of insomnia actually sleep quite well.

Unlike other patients, whose sleeplessness can ruin their social and working lives, these pseudo-insomniacs "talk of a vague feeling that something isn't right, that they're not getting enough sleep."

Much of the problem, he said, stems from the eight-hour myth.

"Everyone certainly doesn't need eight hours of sleep. The individual requirements are tremendously variable. Some people get along very well with five or six hours, and others need seven to eight, but I doubt very many people need more than eight hours."

Gasoline prices in Texas skyrocket in past months

Gasoline prices in Texas have skyrocketed by around six cents per gallon in the past month and availability has declined to the lowest level since the end of last summer.

A survey of 398 service stations by the American Automobile Association shows that the average price of all grades of gasoline except one have shot well past the $1 mark in January, exceeding even the rate of price increases recorded during the fuel-short days of June and July 1979.

Gasoline availability is continuing a decline which began last month. The survey shows that 30 percent of the stations are open later than 8 p.m. on weekdays, compared to 38 percent in November. Fifty-one percent are open on Saturday night, compared to 56 percent in November, and stations open on Sunday declined from 44 percent in November to 38 percent currently.

The decline in availability was sharpest in large cities. Fewer than one-third of the stations surveyed in Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio are open on Sundays, and only 10 percent of the stations surveyed in Houston are open after 8 a.m. weekdays, compared to 17 percent in Dallas-Fort Worth and 36 percent in San Antonio. Gasoline supplies also decline in Austin and either improved slightly or remained stable in other areas covered by the survey. A Triple-A spokesman pointed out that the latest survey on fuel availability shows almost exactly the same results as did the AAA survey for the Labor Day Weekend of 1979. "Demand was much greater then, and supplies were adequate to meet that demand," he said. "Current supplies are certainly ample to meet the greatly reduced demand typical of the winter months."

Current average full-service gasoline prices (December's prices in parentheses) are: Regular 102.7 per gallon (96.5); unleaded 106.3 (100.1); premium unleaded 108.9 (101.9). Average self-service prices are: Regular 99.8 (93.9); unleaded 104.0 (98.1); premium 105.2 (98.8); and premium unleaded 107.5 (100.6).

Try lowering the temperature in your home to 68° this winter. You'll save on your heating bill.

A setting of 68° during the winter is the one Texas Electric recommends for both comfort and energy efficiency.

For each degree above 68° the energy used for heating your house is increased by approximately 4% per degree.

As shown by the chart the difference between the recommended thermostat setting and 74° is 24%. At 78° the increase in energy usage is 40% or more.

Clearly, the lower you set your thermostat the lower your heating bill is going to be. And after last winter's snow and ice, we think a lot of people are going to be trying their best to use less energy.

Remember to change the filter in your heating system regularly, too. A dirty filter causes your heating system to work longer and that costs you more. Check the filter at least once each month.

All forms of energy are costing more these days. If you're serious about saving energy and money, call us to find out about our Operation Tighen-Up program. We'll show you practical ways to save on your heating bills.

Evert Lloyd contemplates retirement

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Chris Evert Lloyd — saying the drive that took her to the top in tennis probably has burned out — has revealed plans to retire from competition after five more tournaments.

"I'm not enjoying playing tennis anymore — that's the problem," she declared. "There's a good chance I'm burned out. Although I'm only 25, I've been at it for eight years."

The Fort Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel said in a copyright story today that Lloyd will forego competition to travel with her husband. Lloyd said in a statement issued Monday she plans a "long indefinite rest" after playing in Championship tournaments in Chicago, Seattle, Detroit, Houston and Boston.

"I will fulfill that obligation, but if I had my choice right now, I wouldn't play anymore," Lloyd said.

She said she didn't like the word retire, but couldn't think of a better word for what she expects to do.

"I've been disenchanted for the last year and a half," she said in a telephone interview from Cincinnati.

Lloyd said she didn't decide to quit because of Sunday's loss to Tracy Austin, her third in as many weeks to the teen-age sensation who mirrors the playing style Lloyd herself used to rise to the top as a teen-ager.

"I've lost before," she explained. "I've never enjoyed losing, but now I don't enjoy winning, either. I just don't have the same love for the game that I once did."

She said her play was as good as ever, but she no longer has the desire to stay on top. After five years there, she lost the No. 1 ranking in 1979 to Martina Navratilova.

"Against Martina and Tracy, I need that mental sharpness," she said. "I need the concentration and it's simply not there. My mind is in other places and that's not good enough against the great players."

Lloyd was the toast of women's tennis when, at age 16, she made the semifinals of the U.S. Open in 1971. Now, she said, she feels lucky to have been so good so young.

She won 94 of the 156 tournaments she entered: Wimbledon in 1974 and 1976, the U.S. Open from 1975-78, three French Opens, an Italian and an Australian Open. Her record for the 1970s was 66-64.

"I have never played tennis the way I'm playing right now. It's not the way I want Chris Evert to be remembered."

Lee whips Steerettes

Midland Lee's Tanna Parrish, Judy Taylor and Gale Wilson sparked a second period explosion that broke open a close game and paced the Midland Lee Rebels girls basketball team to a lopsided 69-36 win over the Big Spring Steerettes in a District 5-AAAA girls game here Monday night.

Lee held a 13-9 advantage entering the second stanza, but the trio named above scored 19 of the Rebel fens 20 points in the stanza to take a 33-17 lead. Leisha Watkins was also instrumental for Lee throughout the night, as her excellent outlet passes started numerous fast breaks.

Taylor and Wilson paced Lee in the scoring column with 18 and 17 points, respectively. The Rebel fens are now 5-1 in the first half of 5-AAAA play, and 14-5 for the season.

Big Spring was led in scoring by Pam Banks with 12 points, while sophomore Elise Wheat added 10. The Steerettes are now 0-6 in 5-AAAA play and 6-15 on the season.

In other district action, Odessa Permian defeated Abilene Cooper 57-48, San Angelo overcame Midland 58-43, and Abilene edged Odessa 44-43.

Lee still leads the district with one game remaining in the first half, followed by Abilene and Odessa Permian at 4-2, Odessa, San Angelo and Midland are 3-3, with Cooper 2-4.

Big Spring visits Abilene Cooper on Friday night in the final game of the first half.

Super Bowl report

Rams can't get any respect

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, "strangers" in a strange land, begin in earnest today what would at first glance seem to be a monumental task — to prevent the Pittsburgh Steelers from winning a fourth Super Bowl.

To many visitors to this sunny clime of cults, gurus and uninhibited dress, it is indeed a strange land, this megalopolis called Los Angeles and the Rams feel like strangers.

The National Football League's 1979 season was the Rams' last in Los Angeles's Memorial Coliseum. In 1980 they'll call Anaheim Stadium, about 35 miles southeast, their home.

They were booed loud and often by their disgruntled fans who, having suffered through countless seasons which ended one or two games short of a Super Bowl berth, saw their heroes as deserters. And 1979 was hardly an overwhelming season for Los Angeles. The Rams staggered to a 9-7 record and the National Conference's West championship before finally reaching the pinnacle with playoff victories over Dallas and Tampa Bay.

Yet the Rams are outsiders — in more than one way. They will be wearing their road uniforms next Sunday in the Rose Bowl in nearby Pasadena, the setting for the Super Bowl, because this is the American Conference's year to play the role of host team.

And, like pioneers circling the wagons to fend off attackers, the Rams are drawing closer together to ward off what they perceive to be unwarranted assaults by sports writers, including some from the Los Angeles area.

"I thought we'd get more respect after those games (against the Cowboys and Buccaneers) but we haven't," said Doug France, an offensive tackle. "They act like we're not supposed to be in the Super Bowl. And some of the local writers — just a couple —

Stadler wins Desert Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The 1980 PGA Tour opened just as the decade of the '70s ended — with the new guys winning.

A record-tying total of 12 men scored their first pro victories in 1979, and Craig Stadler made it 13 in a 12-month period Monday with his 2-shot triumph in the rain-delayed Bob Hope Desert Classic.

"I'm glad it's finally here," Stadler said after a 5-under-par 67 in the final round had nailed it down. "It's got to be easier from here on."

While his may have been just another face in the growing list of first time winners, it was a different face. The chunky guy is believed to be the first man to win a Tour title while wearing a full beard, this one a bushy red affair that makes him look something like a short Merlin Olsen.

There was nothing defensive about his play,

Summer Olympic games might be moved

DePaul gains top spot

By The Associated Press

Coach Ray Meyer and DePaul finally are going to get a chance to live with a No. 1 ranking. But for UCLA, college basketball's wonder team of the 1960s and 70s, the story is new — life without a number.

Meyer ended 37 years of waiting for a No. 1 ranking Monday when DePaul replaced Duke as the top team in The Associated Press college basketball poll. The Blue Demons, 12-0 and ranked second last week, received 51 of 60 first-place votes and 1,189 of a possible 1,200 points in the nationwide balloting of sports writers and broadcasters.

"It's quite an honor, we've never been No. 1, you know," said Meyer, who earlier this season recorded his 600th career coaching victory. "In a way, it's a penalty because from here on in we have to be good every night."

But it's a challenge Meyer said his team will look forward to.

"The boys like being No. 1," he said. "They're proud of it and I'm sure

Free shows in Midland

'Whatever Happened to the Human Race?'

A showing of the "Whatever Happened to the Human Race?" film series will be presented free to the public Friday and Saturday at the Theatre Midland, 2000

W. Wadley, Midland. The first three reels of the five reel series will be shown Friday night. Saturday night the first reel will be re-shown followed by a showing of the last two reels.

The films delineate dangers of abortion and Biblical and secular reasons for prohibiting it. The films were produced by Franky Schaeffer, son of long-time Christian spokesman Francis Schaeffer.

Infanticide, the killing of infants; and euthanasia, "mercy killing," are measures the films say could stem from the acceptance of abortion.

Astronaut quits job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former astronaut Michael Collins, who piloted the command ship on the first moon landing, has quit as under secretary of the Smithsonian Institution to take a job with Vought Corporation.

Collins, 49, will be in charge of the aerospace company's field operations in Washington. He joined the Smithsonian in 1971 as director of the National Air and Space Museum.

Collins will be replaced by Phillip Hughes, 62, a former deputy director of the budget and one-time assistant comptroller general.

Fourth Annie appears

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaping Lizards! There's another Annie on Broadway — the fourth since the hit musical by the same name opened in April 1977.

Allison Smith, 10, takes over on Jan. 29 for Sarah Jessica Parker, 14, who has outgrown the part. She is the third Annie from the Garden State. Miss Parker lives in Englewood and Shelby Bruce in East Rutherford. The original star, Andrea McArdle, is from Philadelphia.

Princess' fame ending?

CLEVELAND (AP) — Princess Margaret wowed them in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Houston but her fund-raising talents for the Royal Opera House at London's Covent Garden were not as successful in Cleveland.

Opera and ballet patrons in Ohio's largest city contributed $1,250 out of more than $472,000 raised in the 17-day tour last fall.

Royal Opera House development appeal director Pat Spooner said only $250 in donations from Cleveland had been received as of Monday. However, the Eaton Corp. in Cleveland has said that it donated $1,000 on Dec. 12 through the New York-based American Friends of Covent Garden Inc.

Cleveland's total compares with $200,000 raised in Los Angeles, $134,000 in Houston, $133,870 in San Francisco and $4,000 in Chicago, Spooner said. It was in Chicago that the princess ran into controversy after reportedly making derogatory remarks about the Irish.

Princess Margaret's unofficial visit to Cleveland was sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club, which arranged a dinner-dance on Oct. 26 in honor of the princess.

Special skills may be needed for movie extras, manager says

"Casting extras is not a first come, first served process," explained Daxson Thomas, production manager on the movie "Hangar 18."

"Much of it depends on the special skills and the availability of the people we hire," he said.

Persons wanting to apply for a job as an extra can do so Monday through Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. Schick Sun Classic Productions, Inc. began taking applications Monday and will continue to do so until about February 11.

"Decisions will be started then on who to use and when," Thomas said. Shooting is scheduled to start February 19.

Anyone wishing to apply will be required to fill out an application which includes age, weight, height, hair color, availability and special skills.

Denis Stewart, extras coordinator will then meet with the applicant and his photograph will be taken.

"Once the director is here, we have the shooting script in hand, and we have our locations, that will determine what should be hap-

News director Long gives talk to Lions

China Long, news director for radio stations KHEM and KFNE here, discussed factors that led to a new career in mass communications in a talk made before members of the Evening Lions Club here Monday.

Ms. Long spent 20 years in secretarial work at Webb AFB only to find herself without a job when the military facility closed. She ultimately switched careers after commuting to Odessa to attend classes at UTPB. She told her listeners she directs her news to the local scene.

Lion Queen candidates Beverly Wheeler, Kim Redding and Cathy Baird were special guests at the meeting.

Gas service being restored in Coahoma

Natural gas has been restored to almost all the meters affected by a two vehicle accident in Sand Springs and Coahoma Monday.

According to Dearl Pittman, district manager of Pioneer Natural Gas, work started Monday afternoon and work was done "late into the night" to restore the service.

"There were some we didn't get last night that we'll attempt to get this morning," he said today.

Gas service was lost Monday when a two vehicle accident caused a tractor trailer involved to strike and destroy the main gas line near the North Service Road one mile west of Coahoma.

SPE president-elect will speak in Midland

Arlen L. Edgar, president-elect of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers, will address the Permian Basin section of the SPE at 6:30 p.m., today at the Ranchland Hills Country Club in Midland.

Edgar will review the SPE standards pertaining to the estimating and auditing of oil and gas reserve information.

estimated reserve information. Key terms are defined. Professional qualifications of reserve estimators and of reserve auditors are described. For consultants functioning as reserve estimators or auditors, standards of independence are detailed. On a parallel basis, standards of objectivity are defined for reserve auditors in the employ of the entity for whom reserve information has been prepared.

A broad discussion covers the general considerations involved in estimating reserve information and the generally accepted methods in use. A final section treats the concept of auditing as applied to reserve information. Standards are presented for procedures, documentation and reporting of results in connection with the audit process.

The Standards are viewed as a very significant document — not only for the Society but for the oil and gas industry as a whole. The document is not considered to be static but dynamic and in the future will doubtlessly be revised on the basis of experience and changing conditions.

Mothers March scheduled for Monday in Big Spring

The Mothers' March for the March of Dimes will take place Monday at 5 p.m. The money mothers will be collecting door to door will be used to research cures for birth defects.

Jett Moore is the 1980 chairwoman. She said the Key Club, FHA, Alpha Kappa Omicron of Beta Sigma Phi Chapter, Hillcrest Baptist Church and the Mexican American Society members have pledged to march.

Individuals who want to march are more than welcome, said Mrs. Moore. They may contact her at 267-1036. Or, they may simply come to the Pioneer Natural Gas Building's Flame Room at 5 p.m. Monday. Envelopes will be distributed and collected there.

Capt. Sherrill Farmer of the Big Spring Police Department told Mrs. Moore that police would watch for the women in the neighborhoods and patrol their headquarters. Some women were concerned for their safety, said Mrs. Moore.

She also said that all envelopes must be turned in Monday evening. Federal auditors will be auditing the proceeds and all envelopes must be accounted for.

Of the proceeds, 60 percent will go to the international fund. A total of 40 percent of that money will be used for research.

Of the total collected here, 40 percent will stay in Big Spring to benefit two handicapped children supported by the local March of Dimes. Some of the money will be used to pay for materials used in the campaign.

All of the work will be voluntary. A few of the women will be marching this week.

Annual rodeo date announced
