Iranian officers executed for attempted overthrow

By the Associated Press

Firing squads have executed a number of Iranian army officers for plotting to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime, the usually reliable Kuwait newspaper Al Rai Al Am reported today.

Quoting unidentified diplomatic sources, the paper published in the Persian Gulf oil sheikdom said all the officers involved in the coup plot had been arrested and were executed secretly to avoid adverse publicity for the revolutionary regime.

No confirmation of the report was available, and sources in Tehran, the Iranian capital, said they had heard nothing about such a plot.

The report said the plot was discovered accidentally when some of the Iranian regime's revolutionary guards stopped and searched the car of one of the officers at a roadblock.

The paper said the plotters were all medium-ranking army officers who planned to seize control of Tehran, the Iranian capital, and then lay siege to the holy city of Qom, Khomeini's headquarters 100 miles to the south.

The plotters expected other opponents of Khomeini and supporters of the deposed shah to join them after they launched their coup, the report said.

Meanwhile, Khomeini was reported willing to accept U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim as an intermediary with the United States even though he refused to receive him in Iran earlier this month.

Quoting U.N. sources in New York, ABC News reported Tuesday night that the Iranian Foreign Ministry sent a message to its U.N. ambassador, Mansour Farhang, stating Waldheim was now acceptable to the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime.

Neither Waldheim nor Farhang was immediately available for confirmation of the report. In Washington, a spokesman for the U.S. State Department said: "We are unaware of any such communication."

The U.N. Security Council sent Waldheim to Tehran two weeks ago

try to secure the release of the 50 or so Americans held hostage by militant students in the U.S. Embassy since Nov. 4. He cut short his visit after Khomeini and the students refused to see him but his proposal for a U.N. commission to investigate the allegations of the revolutionary regime against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi did find favor with Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

Ghotbzadeh earlier this week said creation of this commission offered the only prospect for release of the hostages. But he added they would not be freed until the shah was returned to Iran for trial.

Meanwhile, the Iranian government opened a counter-offensive to combat the U.S. government's efforts to get its allies to join in economic reprisals against Iran.

Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinfar said Iran would stop selling oil to any nation that took economic sanctions against it, and Kyoto, the Japanese news service, said he called in Japanese Ambassador Tsutomu Wada for a special warning. Kyoto said Moinfar also told the ambassador the Japanese should resume construction immediately of a $2.9 billion petrochemical complex on the Persian Gulf that they stopped building because of the hostage-taking.

Moinfar also denied a report from the Tehran correspondent of Platt's Oilgram News that Iranian oil exports have been cut from an estimated 2.3 million barrels daily in late December to between 900,000 and a million currently because of slow spot-market sales.

Following up its order expelling all American journalists, the Iranian government gave them until Friday midnight to leave the country but barred them from sending any news dispatches out after midnight Tuesday.

The revolutionary regime in ordering the expulsion of the approximately 100 American reporters accused them of biased reporting.

WATCHING THE BOSS — Army recruits in background watch Army Secretary Clifford Alexander do some push-ups in the mud at Fort Dix, N.J., Tuesday during tour of the base. Alexander announced during the tour that the base will remain open for at least three more years.

Soviets may have to send in more troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top administration official says the Soviet Union probably faces "a protracted, difficult time" in Afghanistan and may have to send in more troops to suppress resistance.

This could have serious consequences, including the danger that Soviet troops would cross the border into Pakistan to fight insurgents, Marshall Shulman of the State Department said Tuesday.

In time, Shulman said, the Soviets might also take advantage of unrest in Iran and push southward from Afghanistan to their historic goal of warm-water ports on the Arabian Sea.

However, the specialist on Soviet affairs said, "This doesn't appear to be in the immediate situation. Before then, they face a long, difficult period of pacification in regard to Afghanistan."

There, Shulman told reporters, the Soviets may have made "just one hell of a botch" of the political change in local leaders from Hafizullah Amin to Babrak Karmal.

While the military thrust was carried out smoothly, he said, Amin was deposed "very clumsily."

Instead of bringing Karmal to Kabul from Eastern Europe quickly as "a legitimating agent," he said, Amin's palace was attacked and he was assassinated while the Soviets invented "the transparent fiction" that Amin was an agent of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Shulman said this "made it much harder for them to make the argument about the legitimacy of their presence there."

With resistance stiffening, he said the Soviets will have to send in more troops and fight the rebels themselves, instead of relying heavily on the Afghan army.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said, meanwhile, that two motorized divisions totaling about 25,000 men had been deployed to the western region near Herat, some 75 to 100 miles from the Iranian border.

Rebel resistance is reported to be persistent there, in the northeast and in the Jalalabad area. But Carter and Shulman said the Iranian oil fields did not appear to be an immediate target.

Nonetheless, presidential press secretary Jody Powell said the Soviet divisions were along "the traditional invasion route to Tehran." He added: "There is no way to assess why they are there."

Shulman, a specialist in Soviet affairs for more than three decades, called for a sustained policy of "firmness" by the United States and its allies.

Bids for work on U.S. 87

Bids for the reconditioning of US Highway 87 from Big Spring southward four miles are expected to be received in January by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The work will consist of providing a five-inch asphalt stabilized base with a two-inch asphaltic concrete surface on US 87 from FM 700 to 0.4 mile south

GOLD SKY HIGH — The morning gold price on London's bullion market today was "fixed" by dealers at $765 an ounce, up $81.50 from Tuesday's close. Prices skyrocketed up on European and Hong Kong markets to well over $700 an ounce. See related story page 3A.

GSA awards 6.55 acres to HEW

The General Services Administration has assigned 6.55 acres and the former Webb AFB hospital (bldg. 500) located thereon to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Ann Doughty, GSA Regional Administrator in Fort Worth, said HEW will convey the property to Howard College of Big Spring, which will use the property for educational purposes, specifically the school for the deaf.

Abilene District Engineer Roger Weisch said the completed project will increase the load carrying capacity of the highway in addition to extending the life of the facility.

The department's engineer in charge of the work is Joe Smoot of Big Spring.

If FAA officials approve plan

Shopping center would likely be built near school campus

In a closed door session, members of the Howard College board of trustees discussed alternate plans Tuesday for the provision of facilities for the school for the deaf, in event the Federal Aviation Administration refuses to bless a plan to locate the school campus in the Big Spring Industrial Park.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College, said he felt certain that Bill Howard of the FAA Albuquerque office would eventually approve the plan to locate the school on the site of the old Webb AFB, pointing out that a small shopping area would likely be built in the area should acreage at the old base be used.

Howard had said earlier that he felt that anything located in the area should serve to produce revenue for the city and the airport facility now located there.

Hays said it was likely the name of the deaf school would be changed to something like Southwest Center for the Deaf or Southwest Institute for the Deaf in order that Howard College can qualify without challenge for state grants. Any new college, even if it associated with another college, would have to be approved by the state whereas a "center" or "institute" could be identified as an adjunct to a college.

Hays also revealed he had been assured Howard College would be approved for $300,000 in grants from the Texas Rehabilitation Commission. The money would be used for physical improvements to the plant.

Douglass Burke, administrator of the school for the deaf, is scheduled to arrive here Jan. 26 to take up residence. Burke is now in El Paso.

The board of trustees voted to add a polling place for the April trustee election in Vincent and authorized that Precinct 17 voters be allowed to cast ballots at the High School Vocational Building here.

The terms of two trustees, Jimmy Taylor and Chub McGibbon, expire this year and neither has indicated future plans.

The election is scheduled for April 5. Candidates in the trustees' races must declare no later than March 5. Those planning to offer for the offices can pick up necessary forms in the college business office.

The board adopted a resolution dissolving the old tax appraisal board in order to accept membership on the new Howard County Joint Appraisal Board.

Dr. Hays told the trustees that it appeared now the school was in better financial condition than was first anticipated, with reserves about the same as a year ago. The board had set aside $100,000 for use in meeting college expenditures if needed but Hays said it looked now as if the college would not have to "spend a nickel of that money."

Administration contracts will be discussed at the next meeting of the board, it was decided.

Sheppard unanimously elected Republican County Chairman

Bill M. Sheppard was unanimously elected Republican County Chairman in an organizational meeting held in the Dora Roberts Community Center here Tuesday evening.

Sheppard, son of a former GOP party worker, the late Bill Sheppard, replaces Sam Hunnicutt, who resigned in April last year to seek a seat on the Big Spring City Council.

Plans for the upcoming Presidential Primary were discussed with B. Winston Wrinkle, County Chairman for the Ronald Reagan Campaign; the Rev. Bill Henning, George Bush's County Chairman; and G. Ben Bancroft, chairman of the John Connally Campaign.

Following his election, Sheppard said: "We can expect a vigorous Republican Primary campaign in Texas."

He urged anyone interested in the candidacy of any Republican candidate to contact him at 267-2991 or 267-5845.

BILL M. SHEPPARD Sheppard is president of W.J. Sheppard and Co., Inc., which maintains an apartment complex in the southwestern section of the city.

Geography on side of Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet move into Afghanistan raises worries about possible bold new Russian military adventures in a vital region where U.S. alliances have crumbled and local defense forces are weak.

Months ago, several of President Carter's advisers, notably Zbigniew Brzezinski, started talking about a need to prepare for possible Soviet adventurism in the 1980s when, for a time, the Russians will enjoy an edge over the United States in strategic nuclear power.

That view provided the impetus for Carter's $10-billion plan to equip a "rapid deployment" military force of Marines and soldiers for movement into the Persian Gulf or other world trouble spots.

But the transport planes and depot ships essential to such a force will not be ready at least for several years, assuming Congress votes the required funds.

Meanwhile, geography works against the United States in trying to safeguard U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf-Arabian Sea region. The area lies about 12,000 miles from the U.S. East Coast.

In contrast, geography is on the side of the Russians. Afghanistan is next door to the Soviet Union, as is Iran. Supply and reinforcement of Russian forces occupying Afghanistan present no serious logistical problems, certainly nothing comparable to the difficulties that will be faced by the United States in landing and supporting a major military force sent to the Middle East.

In occupying Afghanistan, Soviet troops are in position to threaten Pakistan. With a major base in Pakistan, U.S. strategists say, the Russian navy would be able to clamp a grip on the West's jugular, the oil tanker routes leading to and from the Persian Gulf.

Thus, Pakistan now finds itself in a vice between its traditional rival — India — and the new threat from the Russians in Afghanistan.

President Carter has indicated the United States will offer Pakistan the sort of military aid which was recently denied them, but Pakistan may not be prepared to resume a close relationship with this country. Instead, U.S. officials believe the Pakistanis may forge a close cooperation with China, which supplied Pakistan with arms while India got support from the Soviet Union.

Afghanistan. Soviet move raises worries among Western military experts of a possible bold new Russian military adventure in a vital region.

India, in the American view, remains the dominant country in the whole region and the experts believe that New Delhi is concerned about heavy-handed Soviet moves such as the Afghan invasion, but will not join in any international moves to censure the Soviets.

Even without intervention in Pakistan or a closer alliance with India, the Soviet Navy already has access to bases in South Yemen and Ethiopia, from which it could choke off oil shipments through the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden.

Soon after the Soviet intervention, a team of Pentagon officials was dispatched to speak with authorities in Oman, Somalia and Kenya to determine whether American military units might be allowed to use their bases more than for occasional rest stops and port calls, as now. Prospects look good, U.S. officials say. And last week, the Carter administration moved to build up Naval capability on Diego Garcia while it was disclosed that the U.S. and Egyptian air forces conducted joint exercises recently to test the capability of U.S. warplanes to deploy out of Egyptian airfields.

It adds up to quick effort to expand U.S. defense capabilities in the Middle East.

For decades, U.S. strategic planning for the Persian Gulf area centered on an assurance that Iran and its American-equipped forces would be a reliable bulwark in containing Russian aspirations.

However, this strategy had to be scrapped last winter after the Iranian revolution. The focus of U.S. planning then shifted to Saudi Arabia, one of the wealthiest and most conservative of the oil-producing countries in the Persian Gulf and an ally of the United States.

The Saudis have bought more than $25 billion in American arms and U.S.

technicians are helping train Saudi forces into first-class fighting units. Still, the Saudis shy away from allowing any permanent U.S. forces to be established within their borders.

Iraq, which considers itself a national socialist republic, rates the strongest military force in the Persian Gulf region. In the past, Iraq has closely associated with Russia, but in recent years the Iraqis have disengaged from the Soviets as much as possible, using their rising oil income to buy military equipment from the French and other Western countries.

Iraq and Saudi Arabia have lived uneasily side by side without fundamental ideological differences escalating into warfare.

However, Saudi officials remain nervous that the much bigger and well-equipped Iraqi army of about 200,000 men might some day move toward the rich Saudi Arabia oilfields, and Iraqi border skirmishes with Iran frequently threaten to erupt.

FARMINGTON, Conn. (AP) — An antidote is available to the practical joker who gets a kick out of pushing all the floor buttons on an elevator, causing other passengers the inconvenience of delays.

A new computerized elevator system designed by Otis Elevator senses by weight how many passengers it is carrying.

If too many buttons have been pushed for the registered weight, a special device recognizes a mistake or mischief and cancels all the calls.

Metal hits high in Hong Kong

Gold well above $700 an ounce

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold rocketed up more than $50 an ounce on European bullion markets today and nearly $80 in Hong Kong to reach new all-time peaks well above $700 an ounce.

The metal hit a high of $744.52 an ounce in Hong Kong after surging past $700 for the first time to reach $715 Tuesday in New York. It closed in Hong Kong today at $733.36 but opened in London at a median price of $740, up $56.50 from Tuesday's closing price of $683.50.

The opening quote in Zurich, Europe's biggest bullion market, was $735, up $50.50 from Tuesday's late rate of $684.50.

The spectacular leap was attributed to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller's comment that further U.S. gold auctions were not appropriate at the moment because of the unsettled bullion market. Traders interpreted this as a squeeze on already tight supplies of gold.

The underlying reasons for the New Year gold boom are the crisis building up over Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, the continued holding of the American hostages in Iran, the illness of Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito, higher oil prices and the threat of curtailed exports and the generally shaky state of the world economy.

Since Dec. 31, gold has soared $215.50 an ounce in London. A year ago it closed at $197.95 in London.

"It's a very nervous market," said a dealer at Sharps Pixley Ltd., one of London's five big gold trading houses. "The price reflects the higher level reached in Hong Kong but so far it's rather quiet. When you get to a new area like this, people are nervous about buying but no one wants to go short either."

Silver, which has more than doubled in price in the past month, was trading at a record $46.50 an ounce, from $44 at the close Tuesday.

The U.S. dollar gained slightly against all major European currencies except the British pound. Mid-morning rates in Europe were:

Frankfurt — 1.7293 marks, up from 1.7288 at the close of trading Tuesday.
 Zurich — 1.5973 Swiss francs, up from 1.5942.
 Paris — 4.0520 French francs, up from 4.0467.
 Amsterdam — 1.9075 guilders, up from 1.9055.
 Milan — 806.50 lire, up from 803.40.

Irish lawyer would like to think so Bank owner spinning in grave?

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Pat Maloney and his liberal Democrat cronies gather every Friday evening in Maloney's historic downtown building, drink their beloved Irish whiskey and probably send old George Washington Brackenridge spinning in his grave.

You see, back before Maloney and his band of self-admitted Irish hooligans took over the decaying, vacant building in 1977, it housed the First National Bank Building. That was George Washington Brackenridge's bank, and Brackenridge was a staunch Republican and a prohibitionist.

Maloney, 55, a nationally known attorney and practicing Irishman, savors the irony as much as he does the Irish whiskey, St. Patrick's Day and the bank building he's wanted to own all his life.

Brackenridge might not be spinning as much as they'd like him to be.

First of all, Brackenridge, dead since 1920, would not doubt be pleased to see what the Maloneys have done to restore and save the distinctive, three-story stone building — a downtown fixture since 1886.

Brackenridge, according to biographer Marilyn McAdams Sibley, was also somewhat of a political maverick. He supported women's rights and had a few other liberal cracks in his Republicanism.

The Maloneys, loyal University of Texas fans, host their parties in the gaudy, orange-and-white Longhorn Room — once Brackenridge's apartment on the bank's third floor. But Brackenridge was a long-time University of Texas regent. No quarrel there.

And as for Brackenridge's notorious tee-totaling reputation, Ms. Sibley said he kept a wine cellar and acknowledged enjoying an occasional toot of good whiskey.

But Brackenridge did restrict the deed to the land donated for the city's famous Brackenridge Park to prevent the consumption or sale of booze and beer. That's still enforced.

There was no such deed restriction on the bank building, Maloney checked.

Ms. Sibley wrote of Brackenridge: "It was his belief that ordinary individuals were not strong enough to handle liquor, and that they needed to be protected from their own weaknesses."

That brings us back to the 1930s and a young Pat Maloney, son of a poor Irish immigrant shoe salesman and certainly one of those ordinary individuals Brackenridge sought to protect.

"My old man never saw the day he earned more than $150 a month," Maloney recalled. "The shoe store where he worked was only a few blocks from the First National Bank building. I used to pass by the old dear every day."

Maloney also hustled shoes and wrote newspaper sports articles to get through old Brackenridge High School, the University of Texas and the UT Law School.

But his lifelong dream of owning that picturesque bank building remained in the back of his mind.

"Have you ever seen an object, like a building, that you knew from the first time you saw it that you wanted it? That's the way it is with me and this building," he said. "I remember that it had red carpet and chandeliers and looked like a magnificent whorehouse. It was a beautiful place. But until 1977, it was absurd to think about owning it."

In late 1977, Maloney was representing four Eagle Pass residents badly injured in 1975 when a tank truck rammed into their trailer

Daring thieves rob millions in jewels

ROME (AP) — Two daring thieves in airport uniforms used a two-way radio to halt a Swissair jetliner about to take off from Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport, opened its cargo compartment and stole a pouch containing jewels worth $3.6 million today, police reported.

Police said the robbers drove a small Fiat truck marked "A. R." for the Airport of Rome and radioed the pilot from the truck to halt his takeoff for an urgent check of leaking fuel. They then sped to the plane, opened the cargo hold and stole the jewel pouch.

Apparently without realizing what had happened, the plane took off after receiving a go-ahead from the robbers, police added.

The Zurich-bound DC-9 with 39 passengers aboard took off from Rome at 10:14 a.m., airport sources said, adding that the robbery was discovered when the plane arrived in Zurich.

Minorities make no progress in Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Blacks, Mexican-Americans and women in Texas, still underrepresented and confined to low-paying, low-ranking jobs, have made no acceptable progress in the past 10 years, according to a government civil rights report.

The Texas Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on Civil Rights prepared the report from a study that examined the state's political participation, education, the administration of justice and public employment at the city, county, state and federal levels.

Results of the study, which covered 1968-78, was to be released today.

"Texas, at all governmental levels, consistently underemploys, underrepresents, underutilizes and underestimates minorities and women," said the report. "The pervasiveness of this pattern over a period of 10 years belies any argument that acceptable progress is being made in the direction of equal opportunity for all Texans. On the contrary, in case after case, the improvement since 1968 has been only minimal."

During the 10 years in Texas politics, Anglo males have dominated 90-100 percent of elected positions at all levels, the report said.

"Blacks have been virtually excluded from elected positions, and while there are somewhat more Mexican-Americans elected, these are almost all found in the South Texas counties where they make up overwhelming majorities of the population," the report said.

"Females are also excluded, but tend to far marginally better than minority males. Minority females are the most underrepresented group among elected officials," according to the report.

Minorities and women are frequently employed in public jobs in rough equivalence to their percentage of the population, but "almost always" are confined to low-paying, low-responsibility jobs, the report said.

Black and Mexican-American women "are consistently found at the bottom of the ladder."

In education, the study found, "Education decisions at all levels are almost exclusively in the hands of Anglo males."

The report said that in the 1978-79 school year, only 29 of the 1,066 school superintendents in Texas were Mexican-American, only two were black and only one was an Anglo woman.

"While minority students made up approximately 40 percent of the pupils in Texas, over 97 percent of the superintendents were Anglo males," the report said.

The outlook was very similar in the administration of justice, according to the study.

"Minority groups are represented in very small numbers among those who actually enforce Texas laws. This pattern is particularly disturbing among the state's judiciary," said the report.

"All of the black district judges in Texas can be counted on the fingers of one hand and all of the Mexican-American district judges on the fingers of both hands."

"The overwhelming majority of women involved in the administration of justice are secretaries. There has never been a Mexican-American female state district judge in Texas, and the first black female did not take such office until December 1978," the report said.

Trucker remains silent type despite publicity

DALLAS (AP) — Dick Cockrell expected to slide back into anonymity after he saved a woman and her two children from three attackers last week.

Even after numerous phone calls, a job offer, a resolution honoring him and a few propositions, the husky truck driver remains the strong, silent type.

The ex-Marine says the only reward he has considered was "when those two little girls hugged and kissed me. That made my day."

The children's father, Marine Sgt. J.C. Allen, frankly says that Cockrell saved his family's lives.

"He saved their lives, I know he did," Allen said. "He should receive some recognition for what he did."

The Allens were en route from Camp LeJeune, N.C., to San Francisco. Allen was driving a rent truck with his family following in the car. He said he did not see them pull into an East Texas roadside park and drove on. Cockrell said he pulled into the park and saw the screaming woman, who was being pulled into a car. No one was helping her, so he went to her rescue.

Then, in a fight straight out of a tough-guy movie, the 245-pound Cockrell says he calmly broke one man's jaw with a single blow, another's arm and disabled a third with a kick in the groin.

"I hate to say it, but I kind of enjoyed seeing (them) roll on the ground, yelling and screaming after what they did," he said. "I did enjoy every minute of it... I told them that I come through there three times a week and if they wanted some more of it, just hang around."

Afterward, "I was just going to let it slide," Cockrell said.

But even though he didn't tell fellow employees at Kroger, a grocery chain, they soon found out. First there were reports in local newspapers, and then the calls began coming in from around the country. "My supervisor told me he was going to have to hire me an answering service," Cockrell said.

Several women have since called to find out if he's married (he's divorced) and a few have propositioned him.

"I thought I'd get a lot more crank calls than I've been getting," he said. "About the only one was a man who said he was with the Ku Klux Klan and they were going to get me for helping that black woman. I didn't tell him the three guys attacking her were black, too."

"That doesn't mean anything."

Cockrell's fame didn't stop with phone calls, either. The vice president of the American Law Enforcement Officers Association, James L. Baker of El Paso, said he has recommended to his organization that Cockrell be given a national award. "He did an outstanding job in thwarting a felony while others stood by and watched," Baker said. "It is so rare that the public takes a role such as this. He needs to be recognized not only by his fellow truckers but by the nation's law enforcement officers."

The Dallas County Commissioners passed a resolution honoring him and Sheriff Carl Thomas offered him a job.

"Of course, I turned him down," Cockrell said. "I'm happy where I'm at. I love driving trucks. Nothing like it."

One man sent $20 "because I want to buy that man a steak dinner," he said.

One woman recognized him at a hamburger stand from a newspaper photo and "asked me what I could do about wife beaters," he said.

State observance

Arbor Day activities set Friday at Dallas

Arbor Day activities throughout the state will be highlighted with the Official State of Texas Arbor Day Observance and tree planting ceremony, scheduled for Friday, in Dallas. Featured speaker will be Gov. William P. Clements, Jr.

The state observance, which begins at 10:30 a.m. in the Music Hall at Fair Park, is being sponsored by the statewide, nonprofit Beautify Texas Council in cooperation with the Texas Forest Service and the Texas Forestry Association.

The official state tree, a Texas Pecan, will be planted at the conclusion of the ceremony and will be dedicated to the memory of the late William B. Dean, M.D. Dr. Dean was a long-time member and former chairman of the Dallas Parks and Recreation Board and a Dallas civic leader. Always emphasizing beautification, he was the vital force in the development of the arts in Dallas and was instrumental in the multi-million dollar renovation of the Music Hall, where the ceremony will take place.

"We are proud to host the state observance in Dallas and invite Texans from throughout the state to attend," said Ebby Halliday Achers, Arbor Day state chairman, and director of the Beautify Texas Council and Dallas civic leader.

In addition to Clements, other dignitaries on the program will include Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom; Paul Kramer, director of the Texas Forest Service, College Station; Oliver Bass

Jr., president of the Texas Forestry Association, Kennard; and BTC president George McKinney, Dallas.

Students from schools in the Dallas Independent School District will be participating in the program, and musical selections will be performed by the Thomas Jefferson High School Chorus.

Arbor Day was first celebrated in Texas in 1889 in Temple. The first statewide ceremony took place in Austin in 1890.

As provided by a resolution of the state legislature in 1951, the Governor proclaims each year the third Friday of January as "Arbor Day in Texas". In his 1980 proclamation, Governor Clements urges all citizens, especially those in the public schools, to observe this occasion.

"Trees have always played a major role in the development of our state and the well-being of her people. Tree purify the air we breathe, produce oxygen, absorb noise, help collect and store water in our underground reservoirs, and moderate the winds and temperature," he stated.

The Beautify Texas Council is a statewide, nonprofit, voluntary organization dedicated to making Texas "the cleanest, and most beautiful state in the nation". For more information on activities and programs of the Council, citizens are urged to contact the BTC at P.O. Box 2251, Austin, Texas 78768.

Farm

Actions designed to offset potential dip in farm income

Acting Secretary of Agriculture Jim Williams has announced a series of actions designed to fully offset the potential decline in farm prices and income.

These actions, approved by President Carter, were taken to fulfill the president's directive to insure that the burden of the suspension on agricultural deliveries to the Soviet Union will not fall unfairly on farmers.

Effective immediately, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will:

1. Increase the wheat loan price from $2.35 to $2.50 a bushel.
2. Increase the corn loan price from $2.00 to $2.10 a bushel, with comparable increases in loan prices for the other feed grains.
3. Increase the reserve release price from $3.29 to $3.75 a bushel for wheat — representing 150 percent of new loan price.
4. Increase the reserve call price from $4.11 to $4.63 a bushel for wheat — representing 185 percent of the new loan price.
5. Increase the reserve release price from $2.50 to $2.63 a bushel for corn — representing 125 percent of the new loan price.
6. Increase the reserve call price from $2.80 to $3.05 a bushel for corn — representing 145 percent of the new loan.

7. Increase the reserve release and call prices for the other feed grains comparable to corn.

8. Waive first year interest costs for the next 13 million tons (512 million bushels) of corn entering the reserve.

9. Increase reserve storage payments from 25 to 26½ cents a bushel for all reserve commodities except oats, which is increased from 19 to 20 cents a bushel.

As the vice president announced yesterday, USDA will also purchase a 4 million tons (150 million bushels) of wheat, including the assumption of the contractual obligation on up to 3.7 million tons (135 million bushels) that will not be shipped to the Soviet Union; and offer to assume the contractual obligations on up to 10.0 million tons (395 million bushels) of corn.

A decision on a paid diversion program for 1980 crop grains will be made at a later date. "We are convinced these actions will protect producers, but if legislation to complement them is necessary, we will propose it," Williams said.

Williams said the increase in budget outlays for the entire package for fiscal years 1980 and 1981 is estimated at $2.5 to $3.0 billion.

Record high number of cotton samples classed at Abilene

B.B. Manly, area director of the USDA Cotton Marketing Services Office in Abilene, reported that a record high number of cotton samples had been classed at the Abilene and Munday Classing Offices as of Friday, Jan. 11. About 689,000 cotton samples were classed at Abilene and an additional 161,000 samples were classed at the Munday Office, which brought the combined total to 850,000.

This exceeded the previous record high seasonal total of 849,000; established during the 1977-78 season. A recently completed informal survey indicated that the final production should exceed the one million bales previously estimated for the Abilene-Munday area.

The USDA Crop Reporting Board estimated total U.S. upland cotton production at 14,775,000 bales, up 350,000 from the December estimate. Texas upland production was estimated at 5,700,000; which was up by 100,000 bales.

TDNA's outstanding intern

Debbie Mitchell, a student at SMU, and an intern at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram during the 1979 summer, is the Texas Daily Newspaper Association's Editorial Intern of the Year.

The Editorial Intern of the Year award annually honors the outstanding student intern participating in the news-editorial segment of the summer intern program sponsored by the member-newspapers of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association.

As TDNA's outstanding intern, Mitchell will receive the H.M. Fentress Award, which includes a trophy and $250, both funded by Cox Enterprises. SMU will receive the permanent Fentress Award trophy to display until next year's winner is chosen.

Mitchell was selected from 14 newspaper interns nominated by their editors for the award. Judges praised Mitchell for her "rare qualities of being both a fine reporter and a fine writer."

Runner-up winner is Steve Anton, a student at the University of Texas-Austin and a 1979 summer intern at the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. Anton will receive $100 and a trophy.

Seventy-seven college students were employed as editorial interns last summer on TDNA member-newspapers.

Cox Enterprises, which has funded the Fentress Award since 1976, owns daily newspapers in Austin, Longview, Port Arthur, Waco and Lufkin.

Slide show is scheduled here

A fast-paced multi-media slide show featuring job opportunities and travel assignments in the Army will be shown in a self-contained theater van at high schools in Coahoma and Big Spring Jan. 21 and 22, according to local Army recruiter Sgt. Monte Cleveland.

The three-screen, six-projector exhibit, called "It's Your World — It's Your Turn," features the challenging life style of soldiers in both combat and support fields. Scenes from Europe, the Far East, Alaska, the Canal Zone, and posts across the country depict travel opportunities in the Army.

The mobile expandable van, originating in Alexandria, Va., accommodates 30 to 40 students in an indoor heated theater. The theater van is actually a trailer pulled by powerful tractors with mounted diesel-powered generators.

Artist of the month a teacher

"My interest in art came from my mother," said Mike Randle, who was chosen as the Artist of the Month by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

"She was always drawing people from books and I guess I just picked it up from her," he continued.

Mrs. LaRue DeViney, Randle's junior high school teacher, encouraged him to pursue his interest in art.

"She once told me I had a natural talent for art," said Randle.

The now skilled artist took art in high school for 3 years under Mary Byrd. He says he would have liked to have taken it 4 years but it was impossible to work it out in his schedule his junior year.

Randle turned to oil painting late in his college career, beginning as a junior.

"My first painting was a leaf," he said. "I remember my art instructor, Mr. Patterson, asking me if I was sure I wanted to take art that semester. But by the next week and after plenty of painting, I was way ahead of most of the class."

Randle said his teacher once required him to paint an entire picture in class because he could not believe a student could improve that much from "that thing which was supposed to be a leaf."

The January Artist of the Month is currently teaching first year art at Big Spring High School where he also serves as assistant basketball coach.

BRAIN PACEMAKER — Last May, 12-year-old Barbara McSherry became a part of medical history when surgeons implanted the first self-contained brain pacemaker in her chest. The pacemaker eliminates some of the painful symptoms of cerebral palsy which have affected her since birth. Here she plays with her pet cockatoo, Fonzie.

First brain pacemaker makes medical history

Even after three hours of swimming it's hard to get 12-year-old Barbara McSherry out of her family's backyard pool. Her swimming is a precious gift made possible by research aimed at conquering cerebral palsy.

Before last May, when surgeons at Miami's Mount Sinai Medical Center made medical history by implanting the first self-contained brain pacemaker in Barbara's chest to counteract her cerebral palsy, she was not allowed to stay in her pool for long.

For three years Barbara had been using an older-model brain pacemaker that was partially external with the receiver implanted in her chest and the battery and antenna carried separately. Since the unit would not function properly if its two parts were separated for more than a short time, there were many activities, such as swimming, that she could not sustain. That unit malfunctioned after three years, however, and she got the new-model pacemaker.

"The main thing is Barbara has no pain," her mother, Terry McSherry, pointed out. Cerebral palsy had caused her muscles to clench painfully and almost constantly. The pacemaker prevents this.

Her father, Joe, a manager with Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company's Container Division in Tampa, Florida, got backing for the expensive pacemaker surgery from his employer and its group insurance.

Schlitz has helped people with cerebral palsy nationwide. In 1978, the Milwaukee-based brewer became the first corporate sponsor of the "Weekend with the Stars Telethon for United Cerebral Palsy (UCP)." In 1980 Schlitz continues its major support of UCP and the second annual telethon January 12-13.

Barbara's intricate pacemaker, which is no larger than a "cigarette lighter," replaces the muscle-relaxant drugs she once relied on to prevent her muscles from clenching. The drugs also impaired her ability to do schoolwork. The pacemaker has no such side-effects and today Barbara does well in school.

Her class, all handicapped students, meets at a regular elementary school. "Academically she's the highest in her class," Terry said. And although neither blind nor deaf, Barbara can read braille and use sign language. Someday Barbara might teach handicapped students, her mother said.

According to Joe and Terry, their daughter wears a fiber glass body-brace 20 hours a day and gets around in a self-propelled chair. But Barbara's condition does not prevent her from swimming when the brace is removed.

And she loves to swim. "I'm at home in the water," Barbara said. "I can even go off with the diving board if my father helps me." She also likes to make latchhook wall-hangings and play with her pet cockatoo, Fonzie.

Now, thanks to her little silver pacemaker, Barbara McSherry can stay in the pool all day.

Tween 12 and 20

Would-be parents search for a child

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I am an adult reader of your column, and have noticed that many teen-age mothers who cannot keep their babies write to you. My husband and I are conducting a child-search in the hopes of adopting a baby.

We have tried dealing with the public agencies for several years with no results and have turned to private adoption through a lawyer in San Francisco. However, he only handles the legal aspects of the adoption — the burden of locating the child is on us.

Do you have any suggestions as to whom we might contact to get in touch with mothers who may want to arrange an adoptive placement for their child?

Thank you for any help you may be able to give us. Here is our resume:

"Dale and Patricia Steffy wish to provide a loving home to an infant, and hope for your assistance in their search for a child."

dening, hiking and crafts.

"Both Dale and Patti have a strong, enduring wish to share their lives with a child. If you know of a child who needs an adoptive home, please contact us." — Dale and Patricia Steffy, 532 Howard St., Petaluma, Calif. 94952.

Dale and Patricia: Hopefully, someone in our nation will read your request and will contact you. Please write me if this plea proves fruitful.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 25-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

Squares to host state conclave

The Big Spring Squares had their first and third Saturday dances in December and January.

The third Saturday dance in December was the Christmas Dance, complete with snacks and decorations. New Year's refreshments assured all attending of good luck for 1980, with the serving of blackeyed peas and cornbread. Attendance at these dances averaged about 8 squares.

The Jan. 5 dance was well attended. Guests were from Colorado City, Merry Mixers, Snyder and Midland-Odessa. One couple from Monterrey, Calif. also visited.

The next dance night is Jan. 19. Randy has graduated and joined the ranks of the working man. He is working in the lab of Pride Refining in Abilene.

The regular dances continue to advance their dancing levels and the students are rapidly approaching club dance level.

A State Conclave will be held Feb. 29 and March 1 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Big Spring Squares will be involved in host duties during the 2 days.

An afterparty will be held at the Square Corral Saturday evening as part of the hosting. All members will be involved in helping to make the meetings a success.

The Westerners Association is the main host, with member clubs assisting. Anyone needing information about the Conclave may contact Tommy and Nelda Carstenson or Frenchie and Erma Steward.

Mom Revokes His Meddler's License

DEAR ABBY: My name is Adam and I am 11. My father went out of town for a few days and left his big car in our garage. Neil, a kid my age, came over and said he knew how to drive, so I got the keys and told him he could drive forward and backward in our driveway. Well, while Neil was backing up, he saw my Mom drive up behind him in her little car. He panicked and rammed Mom's car, smashing the whole front end, but good. Mom wasn't hurt, but her car was a mess.

I admit it was my fault for letting Neil drive, but he was the one who wrecked Mom's car, and all the blame was placed on me. Mom is making me pay for the damage by taking it out of my allowance. It will take me forever to pay it off. I am also grounded for a month with no TV privileges.

Mom says I can't be trusted and she has lost all confidence in me. Please tell me how I can get my Mom to trust me again. I told her I learned my lesson, but she doesn't believe me.

ADAM IN HIGHLAND PARK

DEAR ADAM: Start to build your mother's confidence in you by being 100 percent truthful and responsible. Repeated good behavior will establish you as a trustworthy person. Words mean nothing. Performance means everything.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever proper to ask someone why they didn't invite you to their party?

I wouldn't do it to put someone on the spot. I really want to know if maybe I did (or said) something to offend that person. And there is always a chance that my invitation got lost in the mails. Sign me...

DEAR HURT: The word from here is, don't ask.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from MEG IN ST. PAUL concerning baggage lost in airports because it isn't tagged with the name and address of the owner prompts this letter.

I, too, work for an airline. In the last year I have twice had to search the length of a Denver airport for lost luggage containing a passenger's heart medicine!

Abby, please tell your readers NEVER to pack medication, passports, or anything else of importance (or value) in a piece of luggage to be shipped through. Carry them on your person!

This is especially wise during the winter, when snowstorms may cause flight delays and cancellations that might separate you from your luggage for a while.

Take a tip from an airline employee. Most of us carry a toilet kit, a change of underwear and other necessities in our carry-on luggage in case we get stranded overnight, because we often are.

LOST AND FOUND IN DENVER

DEAR ABBY: There is this couple with whom my husband and I go to dinner quite often - for business reasons.

The wife chews ice like a teenager with bad manners. She drains her water glass, sucks the ice and then spits it back into the glass. The noise she makes while doing this simply drives me up a wall! Should I say something to her about it?

LOUISVILLE, KY.

DEAR LOUISVILLE: Does your husband BUY from her husband? Or does he SELL to him?

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Carter makes Brown campaign difficult

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jerry Brown has a problem: He wants to debate Jimmy Carter and the president won't do it.

And that, says the governor of California, is making his campaign for the White House far more difficult.

Now it would seem that Carter should make it as difficult as possible for Brown and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to challenge him for the Democratic presidential nomination. They'd do the same for him.

Brown concedes as much, but says Carter is cynically exploiting the plight of the hostages in Tehran to avoid debating his rivals.

Ever since Carter pulled out of what was to have been a three-man debate in Des Moines on Jan. 7, Brown has been demanding in virtually every campaign speech that the president come and face them.

Kennedy mentions the debate that didn't happen, too, but he hasn't been as vehement as Brown. "The people of Iowa should have an opportunity to hear the president of the United States," he said the other night in Waterloo, Iowa.

Brown was there, too, insisting that one of the real questions of the campaign is how to get Carter out of the White House and into a debate.

The president says foreign crises — the American hostages in Iran and the Soviet troops in Afghanistan — preclude partisan political appearances and demand that he be in Washington.

He has been telephoning Democrats in Iowa and other key campaign states, but Vice President Walter F. Mondale says that can be done without distracting him from world trouble spots.

"What's he going to do instead of coming to Iowa?" Brown asked at one point. "Is he going to do something that will get the hostages home? No, he's probably going to be calling the precinct captains."

And that was before the president agreed to a solo, nationally televised appearance on Sunday, the eve of the Iowa Democratic precinct caucuses that will be the first real competition of the campaign.

Carter will be the second president to appear on NBC's "Meet the Press." Gerald R. Ford was the first, on Nov. 9, 1975.

Carter was the first president to agree that he would debate rival candidates in a campaign for renomination. He did so two days after the hostages were taken in Tehran, and before his standing in the public opinion polls vaulted past Kennedy's.

Then he said he couldn't make it.

'Don't expect miracles right now'

Outlook good for lower prices

HOUSTON (AP)—Paul A. Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, believes the prospects "are bright for lower consumer prices this year, but don't expect any miracles right now."

In the early months of 1980, Volcker said, inflation probably would continue and consumer prices increase, but then things should get better and the housewife will get more for her dollar.

At a Wednesday news conference, the board chairman there is a possibility of a recession soon but, "I can't say this is a certainty. Understand, consumer spending is stronger than was expected and savings are lower. This has delayed a recession."

He said no special effort will be made "to tighten up on consumer credit. I see no need for a selective effort in this area."

He said American consumers were expecting inflation and higher prices and thus were buying items now on credit rather than waiting.

Asked about possible tax reductions, he answered, "a very strong case can be made for tax reform, including certain tax reductions. There is no doubt this would stimulate the economy."

"I am all in favor of tax reductions, but that time hasn't arrived. We must consider our federal budgetary conditions."

Volcker said he is "not happy to see what is going on in the gold market, but that won't lead to any major damage to the international monetary system."

As to the strength of the American dollar, he said, "It has been reasonably stable in recent months. The dollar can take care of itself."

He warned that conservation of energy and increased domestic production are necessary because "we have become hostages to our import needs for oil."

Volcker said there should be some restraints on wage increases but "wage-price controls is certainly not the answer."

During the 1970s, Volcker said, there was an inflation without parallel because "we had an increase in unemployment and lower productivity. We hope that situation will not exist in the 1980s."

DePaul beats Lamar

It took Ray Meyer 37 years to get to the top...and one day to find out how tough it may be to stay there.

Never before ranked No.1 in the country until this week, Meyer's DePaul basketball team played its first game in that capacity Tuesday night and certainly didn't look like the top-ranked team.

Even Meyer said so.

"We don't deserve to be No.1 in the country," said Meyer after a close-call 61-59 victory over Lamar. "The only good thing that happened was the score. All I told the players at the end of the game was 'congratulations.' We did nothing."

"They don't take anybody seriously. Not Lamar, not me, not anybody. We need a defeat so badly. This close game will not wake us up. I thought we were starting to come around until this game. This club is trying to kill me. They're driving me nuts. We knew Lamar could play ball. They gave Kentucky a struggle and we didn't deserve to beat them. We should have lost this game."

The Blue Demons won for the 13th time this season, but just barely, with the help of Skip Dillard's 17-foot jump shot with three seconds left. Dillard's shot came after Lamar, with the help of a DePaul stall, had erased a nine-point Blue Demon lead in the final nine minutes.

"They just do what they feel like doing," said Meyer of his team.

Aggies, Hogs remain in SWC lead

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Texas Aggies had won only one of their last nine trips to Moody Coliseum, and Southern Methodist appeared willing — for awhile — to stretch the streak even farther.

The Mustangs rode the cheers of a sellout crowd of 9,810 to take early leads of up to eight points Tuesday night at Dallas before somebody put a clamp over the SMU goal.

Texas A&M, remaining tied with Arkansas for the Southwest Conference basketball lead, rallied to a 35-33 halftime lead and then moved comfortably ahead when SMU missed the first 11 shots it tried in the second half. The Aggies wound up with a 63-56 victory.

In other SWC action Tuesday night, Arkansas overcame a torrid Baylor shooting exhibition to beat the Bears 71-57, Texas Tech trailed almost all night before David Little's six free throws gave the Raiders a 62-59 victory over Rice in overtime 62-59, and Texas blitzed Texas Christian 95-65.

The Aggies and Arkansas share the lead with perfect 4-0 records, a half game ahead of Texas Tech's 4-1 mark.

"We've had some bad games in here over the years. Sometimes we'd think we'd win for sure," Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf said, noting it had been five years since one of his teams won in Dallas.

SMU Coach Sonny Allen said the Aggies "are just a better team. They play a good, smart game. They did a good job of containing Billy."

Allen's son, Billy, missed all nine field goals he tried in the game.

The Aggies' giant center, Rudy Woods, stopped up the middle.

"With Rudy in the middle, there just wasn't a way we could drive enough," the SMU coach said.

Baylor made the first 10 shots it tried in the second half and led Arkansas, 45-43, with 9:56 to play, but Arkansas scored nine straight points to take command.

Rice threw an effective full-court press at Tech and led the Raiders, 31-21, at the half but the Raiders took the lead with eight minutes remaining and had apparently wrapped up a 49-47 victory with Jeff Taylor's 4-foot bank shot with 3 seconds left.

But, after two time outs, the Owls got the ball to Bobby Tudor in the corner. Taylor fouled him, and Tudor's two free throws with a second left put the game in overtime.

Tech made 11 free throws in overtime.

"Those free throws made up for the way I was shooting," said Little who, like Taylor, was only 3-for-11 from the field.

"I'm very proud of our team. They deserve a better fate," Rice Coach Mike Schuler said.

SMU baseball program in doubt

DALLAS (AP) — Unless somebody "steps forward with $50,000," Southern Methodist University will eliminate its baseball program or at least reduce it to a non-scholarship status, the SMU athletic director says.

Russ Potts, the Mustangs' AD, said he probably will decide on one of the alternatives by April 1.

Baseball coach Steve Adair said Potts told him no new money will be spent on baseball next year, although the 15 athletes receiving parts of 6½ scholarships will be allowed to keep their scholarships.

Most SWC teams have 13 scholarships for baseball.

"I can't print money. I've told Steve and the alums who've phoned that we'll go first class in baseball if someone steps forward with $50,000," Potts said.

Adair said he opposes operating a baseball program without scholarships. Ten of the 15 players with scholarships are seniors.

"What would be the use of playing in the conference without scholarships? I would hope we'd withdraw from the conference," Adair said.

In his three years at SMU, Adair's teams have had records of 14-33, 25-29 and 21-25. His best SWC record was 9-15 in 1977 and his worst was 1-22 in 1976. SMU plays its games in a city park.

"No, we haven't been able to contend," Adair said. "We'll be competitive this year because we have the right guys at the right spots."

Other SMU officials said they are considering discontinuing seven programs of study to cut costs and "stay close to the central mission of the university."

Steelers still respect Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — But for one toss of the ball, they might be facing Roger Staubach. Instead, they're preparing for Vince Ferragamo — almost an unknown quantity. And sometimes that kind of player can be the most dangerous.

Soviet spokesman denounces US

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — A Soviet Olympic official here for next month's International Olympic Committee session said he could "hardly believe" reports of a U.S. move to subsidize an alternate site to the Moscow Summer Olympics. "As far as I know, until now the United States government has not had any authority over the IOC," said Yuri Kartsev, a New York-based representative of Moscow's Olympic Organizing Committee. "The Games don't belong to any country," Kartsev said. "It's an international event.

TENNIS BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two seeded players — No. 2 Roscoe Tanner and No. 4 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina — withdrew from the $175,000 Birmingham International Indoor Tennis Tournament. Vilas has a foot problem and Tanner is sidelined with the flu.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Second seeded Brian Gottfried ousted Fritz Buchholz 7-6, 4-6, 6-2 in the opening round of a Grand Prix Tennis Tournament.

In other matches, third seeded Tim Gullikson downed Pascal Portes 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. Steve Krutvitz topped Rick Meyer 7-5, 3-6, 7-4. No. 6 Brian Teacher defeated Fred McNeil 4-3, 6-2, and eighth seeded Chris Lewis beat Dominique Bedel 6-2, 3-4, 7-6.

SKIING MERIBEL, France (AP) — Erwin Resch of Austria won the first European Cup downhill of the season, finishing more than a half a second ahead of Karl Alibeger of Switzerland.

Resch covered the 2,895-meter course in 1 minute 34.98 seconds. Alibeger's 1:35.61 and the 1:35.62 posted by Italy's Daniele Ay. A. OLYMPICS — Lord Killian, president of the International Olympic Committee, said it was "virtually impossible" to switch the 1980 Games away from Moscow.

Speaking on a BBC TV program, Killian said it was "Moscow or nowhere" and explained it would cost the IOC millions of dollars if it broke its contract with the Russians.

However, Olympic officials from Canada and the United States said a switch from Moscow was still a possibility, and would be discussed at an IOC meeting in Lake Placid in early February.

There has been sympathy to switch the site of the Summer Olympics from Moscow to protest Soviet military presence in Afghanistan.

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States government is willing to subsidize an alternate Summer Olympics, possibly in Montreal, as part of a boycott of the scheduled Moscow Olympics, the Daily News reported in its Wednesday edition.

The News quoted unidentified administration officials as saying the U.S. was seeking support of other countries for the alternate Games before deciding how much it would be willing to spend on the project.

A White House spokesman said he had not heard of the report and could not comment on it.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — A Swiss court decision rejected Taiwan's bid to stay in the Olympic movement under the name "Republic of China" and cleared the way for Mainland China's re-entry into the Olympic Games for the first time since the Communist takeover in 1949.

Taiwan said it would appeal the decision.

PETROLEUM ENGINEERS AND DRILLING PERSONNEL Make more, save more, travel more as you work for Aramco in Saudi Arabia. Interviews here this week.

Come meet Bob Shannon to talk about the challenge and the rewards of working on the largest oil projects in the whole wide world.

As you probably know, Aramco is the largest oil-producing company in the world. We're also the key firm involved in developing all of Saudi Arabia's energy resources.

Many of our projects are the world's biggest. They are staggering in scope, complexity and imagination. There's nowhere else an oilman can find as much action, as much opportunity to develop a better career.

Here are the good people we want to meet during our personal interview sessions here in West Texas and New Mexico.

Immediate openings for Petroleum Engineers

Drilling and Workover Engineers. You'll prepare rig schedules, drilling and workover programs, make technical studies and cost analyses, provide field assistance. In addition, you'll evaluate new equipment, materials, techniques. You'll also work out best methods for drilling a variety of onshore/offshore wells, including mud and casing programs. There'll be office duties as well as field duties.

Production Engineers. You'll handle the technical responsibility for maintaining oil production, also gas and water injection rates in all facilities. You'll also coordinate new development projects, recommend improvements in facilities, review operating performance. And you'll give guidance in these specialist areas: corrosion, desalting and dehydration, well equipment, artificial lift production control and more.

Reservoir and Development Engineers. We're seeking good people in these four special areas. (A) Reservoir Engineers—you'll evaluate past performance, forecast future performance of some 150 reservoirs in 45 oilfields. (B) Production Systems Engineers—you'll supervise data-handling programs for production, pressures, well status, drilling statistics, reservoir simulation systems, linear programming. (C) Field Development Planning Engineers—you'll be responsible for determining size, location and design for all new facilities. (D) Well Logging Engineers—you'll coordinate development of new survey methods, new analytical techniques such as computerized log processing—you'll also work on reservoir description and on formation evaluations. Requirements: you should have a BS in engineering—plus at least 4 years' oil-related experience.

Immediate openings for Drilling Personnel

Supervising Rig Mechanics. You and your crew will be responsible for a single on-site land rig, drilling to about 9,000 feet. You must be able to supervise running repairs such as direct welding, pipefitting, carpentry on this wide variety of equipment. Large and small diesel engines, draw works, fluid couplings, torque converters, compound drives, generators, brakes, pumps, clutches, catheads.

Senior Mechanic Electrician, Marine Drilling. You'll be the troubleshooter on all the gear in a marine drilling unit. Eight 1000-hp Caterpillar engines, ten GE generators, plus all related apparatus. You must also maintain mud pumps, draw works units, shale shakers, blowout preventer controls and much, much more.

Supervising Tool Servicemen. You'll manage the crews that handle and maintain all tools for five or more rotary drilling rigs. The inventories are big, the responsibilities are bigger. Your work includes troubleshooting, shipping, receiving, inspecting, storing.

Tool pushers—three kinds needed. (A) Contract Workover Rig Liaison Men, Onshore and Offshore—you'll say whether the job is progressing as specified by the workover engineer and as specified by Aramco—you'll be in on all critical operations: killing the well, nipping up and testing BOP's, finishing jobs, cementing, stimulation. (B) Contract Drilling Rig Liaison Man—you'll be the foreman, our representative for the drilling of oil and water injection wells. Special work schedules (28 on and 28 off) are presently available for the above tool pusher positions. (C) Water well Maintenance Foreman—you'll supervise an Aramco crew and/or a contractor's crew in the drilling and maintenance of our water wells. Requirements: a high school diploma, plus 10 years' experience which relates directly to the specific job.

Excellent combination of benefits offered As a Petroleum Engineer or a Drilling Foreman with Aramco, you can earn a competitive salary, plus a cost-of-living differential. In addition, you get a tax-protected premium for overseas employment which can amount to as much as 40 percent of your base salary.

Beyond that, Aramco offers you a comprehensive benefits package which includes 40 days' paid vacation every 12½ months (this gives you the opportunity to travel in Europe, Asia, Africa)—plus housing for singles and families, and American school systems for your children.

Call Bob Shannon to arrange a personal interview here.

Here is Bob's schedule—you can reach him only on days specified. To make an appointment in advance, call Aramco in Houston, toll-free: 1-800-231-7577, ext. 4120. In Texas, call collect: (713) 651-4120.

Kennedy account questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he knew the issue of Chappaquiddick would be raised if he ran for president, "but I also knew there would be nothing new that could come up that would question my testimony because the way I testified is the way it happened."

Less than a week before his presidential bid faces its first popular test in Iowa, Kennedy's account of the fatal automobile accident a decade ago has been challenged again — this time by two major publications whose reports reached the streets within hours of each other.

As Kennedy set off on a campaign swing through New England Tuesday evening, having delayed his departure to discuss the latest reports with a group of reporters, he sought to explain the enduring nature of the Chappaquiddick story.

"There's a natural curiosity about incidents that affect peoples' lives which I understand," said the Massachusetts Democrat. "There's a curiosity about this tragedy. There's a curiosity about other tragedies that have affected my life. I understand that."

"But we'll continue to conduct the campaign, talk about these questions and also present our views on the matters of vital importance to this country."

The latest reports, Kennedy said at a briefing called

CHAPPAQUIDDICK INCIDENT QUESTIONED — This is a 1969 aerial view of the bridge on Chappaquiddick Island, the site of the auto accident in which Mary Jo Kopecne, an aide to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, drowned when the car driven by the senator plunged off the bridge.

to discuss in detail separate investigative reports published by the Washington Star and Reader's Digest, were not only inaccurate but contradicted each other.

The senator assembled a panel of three experts — two admiralty lawyers and an oceanographic engineer — to challenge the reports questioning Kennedy's testimony about his swim from Chappaquiddick Island to Edgartown on nearby Martha's Vineyard after his car plunged off a bridge. Mary Jo Kopecne, 29, was killed in the July 1969 accident.

Kennedy said the Star story, in particular, "is wrong, is wrong, is dead wrong."

The newspaper reported that because a natural channel between the two islands had largely silted in by the time the accident occurred in July 1969, the tidal currents Kennedy described under oath actually would have been carrying him in the opposite direction from that to which he testified.

The Digest, which hired a consultant to test the tidal current in the area where Kennedy said he swam the 500-foot harbor channel, concluded the current likely was slack or very weak at the time Kennedy said he feared it would pull him out to sea.

Names in the news

Producer must pay author

NEW YORK (AP) — An Italian movie producer who never used Norman Mailer's script has been ordered to pay the author $62,500.

Justice Louis Kaplan ruled in Manhattan's state Supreme Court on Tuesday that Mailer "performed his part of the bargain" by delivering a first draft of the screenplay to Alberto Grimaldi.

The production of "Once Upon a Time in America" was scrapped after director Sergio Leone, famous for "spaghetti Westerns," said Mailer's first draft was "junk."

The judge said he was expressing no opinion as to the quality of Mailer's script.

Hays threatens cameraman

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Wayne Hays, a former congressman who left Washington after a payroll scandal, threatened to punch a television cameraman at a committee hearing on a marijuana bill.

The 68-year-old Hays became angry Tuesday because he thought the cameraman was filming a witness who had been permitted to testify without identifying himself.

The cameraman, Mike Swink of WCMH-TV, said later he attempted to explain he was filming "cut aways" and not the witness.

"I wasn't born yesterday," Hays said. "Do you want me to punch you in the mouth?"

Jack Jr. to become active

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr., who has been trying to stay out of the limelight, says he will take a more active role in his uncle's presidential campaign.

Kennedy, the son of the late president, said he will spend most of his time on his studies at Brown University but would be available to talk to student groups to "help make my uncle more visible."

The 19-year-old freshman said he also plans to campaign in New Hampshire for his uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Singer leads parade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans should boycott work each Jan. 15 to protest Congress' failure to name a national holiday in honor of Martin Luther King Jr., says pop singer Stevie Wonder.

Wonder led a parade honoring the slain civil rights leader's birthday through the poorest sections of Washington on Tuesday.

Legislation to set aside Jan. 15 as a holiday lost twice on the House floor during the last session of Congress. Opponents say it would be too costly to create another paid holiday, but Rep. Ronald Dellums' racism is still a factor on the floor of Congress.

CBS still nipping at heels of ABC in ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS continued to nip at the heels of front-running ABC, listing six of the 10 highest-rated shows in the week ending Jan. 13, and pulling to within a fraction of a point of the leader for the season so far.

CBS' first-place finish for the week was its fourth in a row and its ninth since the week ending Nov. 18.

ABC, a runaway winner in the networks' ratings competition last season, jumped off to a big lead this fall, but CBS has, in recent weeks, chipped away at the margin.

The networks calculate weekly and season-long averages from figures provided by the A.C. Nielsen Co. There's some difference of opinion on ABC's leading edge: ABC says it's four-tenths of a point, CBS and NBC calculate one-tenth of a ratings point.

CBS won the most recent competition on the strength of four nights' programming. All nine of the network's Sunday and Friday night shows were among the 28 highest-rated for the week, and CBS also beat the opposition on Monday and Thursday nights.

ABC, which had fallen to third the previous week, won the rest of the week and nudged out NBC for second place.

CBS' rating for the week was 20.9 to 19.3 for ABC and 17.2 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average primetime minute during the week, 20.9 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

NTSU former president won't tell whole story

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The former president of North Texas State University, who resigned as a House committee began investigating the Denton campus, has refused to tell the committee whether he told his secretary to use state supplies to mail campaign letters for John Hill.

C.C. (Jitter) Nolan invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination 13 times Tuesday as a counsel for the House General Investigating Committee asked about allegations made by Nolan's former secretary.

Virginia Williams said Nolan told her to use state equipment and supplies to mail 161 letters soliciting donations for the Aug. 5, 1978, Hill rally at the NTSU coliseum.

"He told me our office would handle processing of the letter," Mrs. Williams testified. "He said he had volunteered the services of our office to handle the letter."

Misuse of state equipment and supplies is a third degree felony.

Nolan, who had testified earlier Tuesday, was called back by the committee later in the day. When questioning about Mrs. Williams' allegations began, Nolan's lawyer spoke out.

Roy Minton said he advised Nolan to invoke the Fifth Amendment to all questions about the letters. Minton said he knew that "sending a secretary to make a phone call to get the laundry is probably a felony" under state law.

The secretary said 161 copies of the letter were made and mailed. She said she worked for about two hours on the project and another secretary spent three hours preparing the letters.

The solicitations were sent out before the Hill rally. Mrs. Williams said Nolan ordered one correction in the letter written by an NTSU political science professor. The secretary said her boss told her the letter should say the rally was sponsored by the campus Young Democrats group.

Other witnesses here have said the administration was sponsoring the rally in order to reduce the cost to the Denton County Democrats who planned the event.

Nolan said he saw nothing wrong with the Young Democrats acting as a sponsor. He denied forcing the group to do so.

After Nolan refused to

Two of CBS' Friday night shows finished at the top, "The Dukes of Hazzard" in first place followed by "Dallas," and "60 Minutes" from CBS' Sunday night lineup.

The rating for "The Dukes of Hazzard" was 30.5.

Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 30.5 percent saw at least part of the program.

It was a difficult week for specials. Four were among the week's five lowest-rated programs, company that included NBC's "Prime Time Saturday" news-magazine in 62nd place.

Others at the bottom were "Winter Olympics: The World Comes to America" from ABC, No. 60, an "ABC News Closeup," "Escape from Justice: Nazi War Criminals in America," No. 61, an NBC movie, "Two Minutes Warning," 63rd, and "Live from Studio City," season No. 4.

The week's 10 highest-rated programs: "Dukes of Hazzard," with a rating of 30.5 representing

Presley underwent drug detoxification twice, his physician testified

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Elvis Presley underwent drug detoxification on two occasions before his death, and harmless placebos often were given to keep the entertainer's drug problems under control, his physician says.

Dr. George Nichopoulos, testifying Tuesday during a malpractice hearing that could result in loss of his medical license, also told the Tennessee Board of Medical Examiners that he packed three suitcases full of drugs and medical equipment whenever Presley went on a concert tour.

Nichopoulos is accused of illegally dispensing some 10,000 pills — painkillers, sedatives, amphetamines and barbiturates — to Presley between Jan. 1, 1976, and the singer's death on Aug. 16, 1977.

Presley's death was attributed to a heart attack, but some news reports have said it may have been drug related.

Neither the cause of death nor the reason Presley sought painkillers was raised during Tuesday's testimony.

The white-haired doctor admitted writing the prescriptions, but he said many of the pills obtained through those written in Presley's name were actually dispensed to members of his touring group.

During most of Tuesday, Nichopoulos reviewed the medical records of more than a dozen of his patients, including entertainer Jerry Lee Lewis, explaining why he prescribed certain drugs.

He admitted over-prescribing drugs such as the sedative Quaalude for some patients, but he blamed the error on problems in record keeping.

Nichopoulos revealed that Presley was hospitalized in 1973 after the entertainer returned from California where he had consulted an acupuncturist for a back problem.

"But the acupuncturist wasn't a real acupuncturist," Nichopoulos said. He said the acupuncturist had used syringes filled with demerol, a painkiller, and steroids.

"We thought he was addicted to demerol at that time," Nichopoulos said. He said Presley underwent detoxification at Baptist Hospital in Memphis.

Second week of strike starts for oil workers

DENVER (AP) — The 60,000 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union began the second week of a nationwide strike with one union official saying it appeared the walkout will be a long one.

Meanwhile, Robert Goss, president of the union, on Tuesday charged a bargaining "blackout" by company officials. There was no immediate response from the companies.

Scattered violence, with gunfire and rock-throwing, has been reported at Texas refineries since OCAW members walked off their jobs at 100 oil companies Jan. 8. More than 25,000 of the OCAW strikers are at refineries along the Texas-Louisiana coast.

The strike began when workers failed to reach an agreement on a wage-benefit package for the second year of a two-year contract. The pact allowed renegotiation of benefits only during the second year.

The union has said it will not budge from its demand for full medical-dental coverage for all OCAW members, whose health-insurance plans now vary widely. It also wants what Goss calls a "substantial" pay raise, but he hasn't said how much will be enough. He said that will be discussed when the insurance issue is settled.

Each of the 411 contracts affecting the strikers are negotiated locally, but must be approved by the OCAW's national bargaining policy committee. The committee went home from Denver last week after talks between the union, Gulf Oil Corp. and federal mediators recessed.

During the last three contract talks, Gulf has reached agreement with the union first, with other majors and independent companies meeting the same terms later.

"It appears as if we're settling down for a long, hard-fought confrontation with the oil industry," said OCAW spokesman Jerry Archuleta.

The last agreement gave the refinery workers an average $9.55 an hour.

Judge rules veto attempts unconstitutional

NEW YORK (AP) — Attempts by Congress to deny Medicaid payments for "medically necessary" abortions are unconstitutional, a federal judge ruled in a major test case, and funds must be provided for abortions if doctors determine they are needed.

The government said it would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court the decision Tuesday by U.S. District Judge John Dooling. Dooling delayed for 30 days the effective date of his order, which would apply around the nation if upheld.

Dooling deliberated for 13 months before handing down the 642-page order holding the Hyde Amendment unconstitutional and ordering the government to provide matching funds for abortions.

The amendment sponsored by Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., has been attached to government money bills since 1976. It bars federal Medicaid funding for abortions except in cases where a woman's life is endangered or where pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

"A woman's conscientious decision, in consultation with her physician, to terminate her pregnancy because that is medically necessary to her health is an exercise of the most fundamental of rights, nearly allied to her right to be," Dooling ruled.

The Supreme Court now has before it an appeal of an Illinois federal court decision that the Medicaid ban is unconstitutional. That judge did not specifically order the government, as Dooling did, to stop implementing the ban.

ONE BY ONE - Julie Martinez of Brownfield, Tex. has just had a baby. Sounds pretty routine but for Mrs. Martinez it was her 21st child. At age 42, Mrs. Martinez has been pregnant for almost 16 years of her life. She had her first child at age 17 and each pregnancy produced just one child, no multiple birth. Number 21, Mary Lou Martinez, brings the number of children living at home to 12.

Rewards to reduce vandalism proposed

Members of the Herald Editorial Advisory Board, meeting in regular session Tuesday evening in the Chamber of Commerce office, voted to recommend to the Chamber that rewards be offered to reduce the incidence of vandalism here.

The problem, it is generally conceded, has become epidemic in recent weeks. Vandals have been roaming the city slashing tires and smashing windows, causing thousands of dollars in damages.

The board made no decision on the proposal that the Herald print names of juveniles involved in serious crimes.

For the second straight month, the panel could not rally a quorum. In view of resignations and departures from the city, Chairwoman Elma Martinez said she was not certain of the makeup of the board.

It was ultimately proposed that a quorum consist of no more than six members in future meetings. The proposal passed without a dissenting vote.

Tiffany Whiteside, a member of the board, offered the results of a survey of high school students concerning their newspaper reading habits. She said that of ten students polled, four read the paper regularly, one never read it and the other five read it occasionally.

She also said their preferred reading within the Herald was the Dear Abby column, the front page, sports and Action-Reaction.

She added the students were critical of typographical errors found in the paper and of excessive advertising.

The Herald's policy of including information of a woman's former marriage by publication of the word "Mrs." in the Marriage Licenses division of Public Records was labeled as discriminatory against the female sex by some members of the panel, since a man's matrimonial past is not included in the records.

The Herald also came in for some criticism for publishing the names of victims in "beating" cases reported to the police. Victims deserve the right of privacy in such cases, some panel members suggested.

In addition to Ms. Martinez, those present for the meeting included Adriap Randle, Ernie Boyd, Ann Couvillion, Emily Ward, Suscha Christiansen and Tiffany Whiteside.

The next meeting is scheduled for the third Tuesday in February.

Coahoma school trustees adopt 1980-81 calendar

COAHOMA - The 1980-81 school calendar was adopted during a meeting of the Coahoma school board here Monday evening.

Teachers will report for in-service training Aug. 18 through Aug. 22. The first day of classes will be Aug. 25. Students will take a holiday Sept. 1 (Labor Day) and will be out of classes again Nov. 21, when teachers take more in-service training.

The 1980 Thanksgiving holidays will be Nov. 27-28. The Christmas-New Year's break will occur Dec. 22 through Jan. 2. The end of the first semester arrives Jan. 9.

A teachers' workday is scheduled Jan. 12. The second semester will get under way the following day. Students take their spring break March 23 through March 27. Easter holidays will be coming up April 17 and April 20 next year. The spring semester ends May 26, but the teachers report back the following day for another workday.

In other action, the board named Jewell Stovall, Al Phillips, Dennis Smiley, Harry Herbst, Bill Easterling and Richard Souter as members of the textbook committee.

Trustees tabled the selection of a school auditor for the 1980-81 school year, appointed Clovis Phinney and Kirby Brown to serve on the Property Insurance Committee and extended School Supt. Richard Souter's contract one year.

The board accepted the resignation of Sue Scotts, a third grade teacher, ef-

Driving forces behind success of ERA listed

NEW ORLEANS, LA. — Creative financing, home protection plans, listing control, comprehensive training and a good neighbor policy are the driving forces behind the success of ERA Real Estate brokers surveyed at the company's national convention which convened today at the Louisiana Superdome.

"We're getting our share of business and part of somebody else's," says Dean Ellner of ERA-Ellner & Bickle Realty in Hays, Kansas.

"Our key is to control listings," explains Bill Joe Ray of ERA-Doyle Real Estate, Cullman, Alabama. "When you control listings you're going to make money...whether you like it or not."

"When the prime rate went up, the undertrained order-takers my competition continues to hire left the business mentally," says Al Tadych, ERA-Manor Realty of Berea, Ohio. "Sixty to eighty percent of our competition is out of business. We have eliminated the negative thinkers...they are gone. Our morale is at an absolute peak."

These businessmen are joining 7,500 other ERA Real Estate brokers and sales associates this week at the four-day national convention of the nation's second largest real estate franchise organization of Number One marketer of home protection plans. By the end of 1980, ERA Real Estate will have more than 4,000 brokers and 45,000 sales associates in 4,500 offices in all 50 states.

The more successful ERA Real Estate Brokers believe that creative financing is vital to convincing potential buyers that money is available and at a better rate through government-backed programs and unique loan packages.

"Under ideal circumstances it is easy to put together a home sale," says Phil Engen, ERA-Hallmark Realty of Madison, Wisconsin, who is president-elect of the Wisconsin Realtors Association. "There are no points to pay, the money supply is available, interest rates are good. Things are so good, government programs are pooh-poohed because conventional methods of financing work just fine."

Today, he adds, FHA and VA financing is very attractive as is the "land contract" or "contract for deed" in which the buyer purchases both the home and property on contract directly from the seller, making payments to the seller and not a lending institution. "The seller refinances his remaining loan balance at a higher rate than when he originally bought the house, but lower than the existing rate and at the same time arranges for the lender to put up new money. He then sells the house at a lower interest rate and takes a smaller down payment while banking more cash. A lot more people will buy a house with a $10,000 down payment at 11 percent than will buy with $30,000 down at 12 percent," he concludes.
