Reporters get another eviction notice

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — The Soviet-backed Afghan government has ordered all American journalists out of the country, accusing them of biased reporting and "interference in the country's internal affairs," a U.S. Embassy official told the journalists today.

Authorities detained the Americans at Kabul's Intercontinental Hotel, where most were staying, and told them they would be expelled Friday.

About 50 or 60 of the approximately 200 Western correspondents, photographers and broadcast crew members now in Afghanistan are American.

Most arrived early this month after the Soviet Union poured tens of thousands of its troops into this central Asian country, where they helped overthrow one Marxist government and replace it with another and have been helping the Afghan army put down an anti-communist rebellion in the countryside.

The Afghan order came three days after Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime in neighboring Iran ordered all American journalists out of that country.

A Western diplomat in New Delhi, India, said initial reports said only American citizens were to be deported from Afghanistan. It was not clear whether this included non-Americans working for U.S. organizations.

The Soviet news agency Tass quoted an Afghan Revolutionary Council decree as saying "phony" American correspondents had entered Afghanistan and were "practicing in fabrications and insinuations, one being more absurd than another. Their aim is to step up tension in our country, disrupt the normal life of the Afghans."

It mentioned in particular the New York Times, Washington Post and Christian Science Monitor newspapers and "American radio and television companies."

"We cannot but qualify the activities of the above-mentioned journalists as flagrant interference in the affairs of the sovereign state of Afghanistan. That is why the Revolutionary Council has taken a decision to expel the American journalists from Afghanistan," Tass quoted the decree as saying.

Russian officers commanding the Soviet force in Afghanistan are understood to have complained to Afghan authorities about the almost daily incidents between Soviet soldiers and foreign correspondents filming, photographing and trying to interview them.

It has become routine for Soviet troops to arrest correspondents and confiscate film. Reporters are usually held for a couple of hours and released.

In some cases troops have fired at the tires of cars carrying correspondents.

The Afghan government continues to exercise rigorous censorship. It does not permit journalists to telephone or wire reports out of the country that mention the Soviet presence.

TIME BUDGETED TODAY — U.S. Cong. Charles Stenholm of Stamford, who represents Howard County in Washington, began a very busy day at 8:15 a.m., today by speaking to constituents at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce office. Later in the morning, Stenholm was to appear at a reception in Forsan before delivering a talk to the local Kiwanis Club at Howard College at noon. This afternoon, he will appear at a reception at Howard College, before public meetings at Coahoma and Big Spring high schools. Stenholm, who is completing his first term in the Congress, has announced for re-election. Thus far, he is without an avowed opponent in the race.

Stenholm speaks to Eagle Forum

Americans should fight with votes

By DON WOODS

U.S. Cong. Charles Stenholm told Eagle Forum members this morning to oppose the "feeling that Big Brother in Washington knows more than the people" about how things in America should be handled.

He said that the result of that feeling was that the nation had "a minority president."

"We can't get the majority to vote," he said. He said the popularity of the president dropped after his election to 30 percent. "Nobody likes the president and the Congress is 10 points below him," he said.

Stenholm said that expulsion of the press corps from Iran took away a platform for terrorist ideology.

"He said the Iranians were 'playing for the cameras.'"

"I doubt they will be out in the streets in the snow and the cold without the T.V. camera around," he said.

He also said he doubted that all the Iranian people supported the captivity of the 50 American hostages. He said anti-Khomeini activity was "very real" in Iran.

Stenholm said the Salt II issue was "dead" since the Afghanistan invasion. "If we had signed it, we would have been number two by the mid-1980's," he said.

He said there were several reasons for inflation. Deficit spending by the federal government was a major cause, he said. "A balanced budget wouldn't stop inflation. I'm not naive," he said.

He also said declining productivity was a main cause. He opposed labor "asking more for producing less."

On the subject of religion in public education, he said that Eastern and occult religions were probably being taught but he also said that Christianity as a religion was being taught in some schools.

"Both tread on dangerous water," he said. Constitutional questions are "stirred up by people on both sides of the question," he said. "The reason America is what it is because of our basic Christian foundation," he said.

Stenholm was asked why he was affiliated with the Democratic party when his rhetoric was conservative. Stenholm replied that "there is a big difference between being a conservative and a Conservative." He said in the mid-1960s that, as a cotton producer, he became politically active. He said the Republicans "didn't have time to listen."

"Being a Republican in this district renders you politically impotent," he said. He said he had no thoughts of making a party switch.

He said he would support the renomination of Jimmy Carter though on his "report card" from the president he was rated low as a supporter.

"Out of 435, I was rated eighth in my support of Carter. Eighth from the bottom." He said Carter was the "strongest" in relation to the other Democratic front runners.

He said he told Carter three months ago, "You carried the 17th District with 56 percent in 1976. Last year I carried it with 68 percent."

"I've got some advice, some counsel, you can use," he continued. Carter interrupted his comments with a smile and said, "Charlie, I got the message."

Autopsy scheduled today

Death of local teen remains big mystery

By JAMES WERRELL

The death of 19-year-old Gerardo H. Monje remains clouded in mystery today.

Police were called to Cowper Clinic, 11:15 p.m. Wednesday, where Monje, 1005 E. 13th, had been pronounced dead on arrival. The only sign of injury to the victim was a large, red welt across the lower half of his chest, and doctors are unsure of the cause of death.

JERRY MONJE

the assault took place at Talito's Bar, 508 N.W. 4th. Police learned today, however, that Herrera may have An autopsy will be performed, 3 p.m. today, to determine what killed the young man.

According to Monje's cousin, Mike Herrera, 209 N.E. 6th, the victim had been assaulted inside a north-side lounge shortly before his death.

"Herrera told us that he was going to the bar for a beer, and was hit from behind. When he got up, he turned around, and the victim was lying on the floor," said Lt. Claude Morris.

Herrera first told investigators that confused Talito's with Navarrette's Place next door at 506 N.W. 4th, where the assault is now thought to have taken place.

According to Morris, two detectives have been assigned to the case, and work would begin "in earnest" this afternoon to solve the mystery.

Services for Gerardo (Jerry) Monje are pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born Nov. 12, 1960 in Carlsbad, N.M., and had resided in Big Spring since 1966. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1979.

He was employed by Joe Herrera Construction. He was a member of Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Monje of Big Spring; two brothers, Roy Monje of Midland, Joe Monje of Big Spring; and maternal grandmother, Gierma Hernandez of Big Spring.

HEAVY DAMAGE — Firefighter Paul Wasson climbs to the top of a building at 404 N.W. 7th to inspect damages from a fire that began around 8 p.m. Wednesday. Firefighters were alerted of the blaze at 8:17 p.m., and arrived at the scene at 8:20 p.m. The building, which belongs to J.H. Garcia, 410 N.W. 7th, was supposed to be unoccupied, but a freeloading lodger caught a mattress on fire inside, starting the inferno. The fire was doused quickly by firefighters, but the building still sustained heavy damages.

Gold drops, rebounds amid hectic trading

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices plummeted and then rebounded in hectic trading today as the dollar remained fairly steady.

In London, where gold hit a record $765 an ounce Wednesday, the mid-morning price was down to $730.50. The morning gold fixing was $728.50, and the metal later traded at a median $726.50. But it then rebounded and the afternoon fixing price was $750, almost back to Wednesday's closing price of $752.50 an ounce.

In Zurich, gold sold for $728.50, down from $760 Wednesday, before climbing slightly to $730.50.

The initial dip was seen as a natural reaction to Wednesday's giant 10 percent price leap, with some investors gathering profits while they could.

Following Wednesday's surge, in which gold jumped $81.50 in Zurich in one day, prices bounced up and down in New York and then slumped in the Far East early today to close in Hong Kong at $728.42, down $4.94.

Silver, which hit a record $48 at the London afternoon fixing Wednesday, fell back to $44 this morning.

In London, a pound cost $2.2670, compared to $2.2763.

In Tokyo, the dollar closed at 238.675 yen, down from 238.80.

In the last month, the price of gold has risen from $470 per ounce as war fears brought on by the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan added fervor to the already active gold market. Concern over the health of Yugoslavian President Josip Tito also has driven some investors to put assets into gold, analysts say.

The late price decline in New York on Wednesday — from $770 to $744 — was attributed in part to the taking of profits by some traders and in part to reaction to the International Monetary Fund's announcement that it will auction 444,000 ounces of gold on Feb. 6.

The auction had been expected, but it helped offset Tuesday's statement by U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller that the United States had no plans to resume sales of gold. The statement was seen as a crucial factor in Wednesday's rush.

The United States, which has the largest official reserves of gold, and the Soviet Union, a major producer, are said to be benefiting from soaring gold prices. The U.S. government's official holdings of 262 million ounces have a potential value of $200 billion at the latest price, according to Thomas Wolfe, a former Treasury official who now is a private consultant.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Poor judgment

Q. Does the county pay postage on tax statements, applications for homestead exemptions, etc. that are sent through the mails? If so, why is Zra Bednar allowed to include a letter in this mail campaigning for the election of a Mrs. Moore?

A. Mrs. Bednar said the letter referred to was an over age 65 Homestead Exemption notification. A paragraph included in it expressed Mrs. Bednar's hope that Mrs. Moore would be elected in the upcoming tax assessor-collector election. Mrs. Bednar said she included the paragraph to dispel existing rumors that Mrs. Moore had filed for the office in malice against Mrs. Bednar. Mrs. Bednar admitted it was an act of poor judgment. Mrs. Moore was hospitalized at the time of the mailing. Mrs. Bednar said there was only one announced candidate at the time, therefore, no malicious intent in the letter. She promised to write a letter of explanation to the people who received the homestead exemption notification if another candidate files for the tax assessor-collector office.

Book gets crook off hook

KAMLOOPS, British Columbia (AP) — A man who told a judge he stole two cartons of cigarettes because he thought jail would be a good place to write a book was released after the judge read the manuscript and decided he liked it.

After Judge Gordon Gilmour of Kamloops provincial court read the manuscript, prosecutor Edward Ormheim decided to withdraw a charge of petty theft against Daniel Dube, 31.

Dube first appeared in court Dec. 18, refused a lawyer, and pleaded not guilty. When the prosecution opposed bail, Dube said he didn't mind staying in jail.

Before the trial started Tuesday, Gilmour was told that Dube had a document he wanted only the judge to see.

"I figured it was a good place to write a book," Dube said.

Winner shows promise

NEW YORK (AP) — A day after he won more than $1.1 million in New York's lottery, Cesar Fernandez showed promise as a millionaire.

In a telephone interview, Fernandez mumbled that he was "very happy" with his windfall, but he didn't want to talk on the phone.

He handed the receiver over to his accountant, who handed it to an assistant.

The assistant explained that Fernandez was 54, a native of Spain who had come to this country from Argentina nine years ago. He has his own auto repair shop on the Bowery in Manhattan, and he bought his ticket at a Second Avenue check-cashing store. It was his first lottery ticket ever.

Fernandez split a $2.2 million jackpot in the weekly lottery with John Gronosky, 73, of Herkimer County.

11-year-old Arlington boy shoots himself to death

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — An 11-year-old Arlington boy, described by teachers as an "honest boy who loved sports," made earlier suicide threats before he shot himself in the head, a classmate told police.

The victim, David Arthur Castor, apparently dependent about his family life and a recent bronchial illness, killed himself Wednesday with a .22-caliber pistol while his gym teacher and two classmates watched, Arlington police said.

"It was something I wouldn't have expected from him because he was not a loner, he had a lot of friends," said homeroom teacher Nancy Wilson.

Tarrant County medical examiners office were expected to release autopsy results today.

"The youth wandered into the restroom (of the South Davis Elementary School) without permission, and was followed by two classmates who saw Castor carrying a pistol," said officer Michael Higgins. "One boy ran to get the teacher, while the other tried to get the gun away from Castor."

The sixth-grader apparently smuggled the .22-caliber pistol in his baggy pants, Sgt. Dennis Rhoten said.

When Karen Cheak, the gym teacher, entered the restroom "she observed the youth holding the pistol and the classmate wrestling with the youth, wanting to pull his arms away from the pistol," Rhoten said.

Mrs. Cheak, and the boy, 11-year-old David Sutton, struggled to try to disarm Castor. However, Rhoten said, the boy pulled away, bent over and fired the pistol.

"When I saw my friend about to die, I had to try to do something," Sutton said.

He later said Castor had made threatened suicide in the past but was uncertain how he might attempt it, Rhoten said.

Sutton and the other boy, not identified by police, apparently knew Castor brought the gun to school and that knew he was serious when he went into the restroom, Rhoten said.

The sergeant said there were no other witnesses and it did not appear Castor was trying to shoot anyone else.

Floyd Sanders, school principal described the atmosphere following the shooting as "very sad, enough to make a grown man cry."

However, school was not dismissed because "if we could go by the routine as much as possible, they (Castor's classmates) would have less chance to think about it," Sanders said.

VFW again hosts movies for kids

Children's Movies will again be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2013 Big Spring.

Starting Jan. 21 the members of the post will be selling tickets to persons in the community willing to purchase one or more tickets to send Underprivileged children to a special children's show.

The show will be in the Ritz Theatre on Feb. 23. Two shows will be held on the same day if needed, the first show will start at 10 a.m.

The VFW will be contacting local merchants later in the month on the two-fold project.

Not only does it allow children to see a good children's show, profits go to the Veterans Administration Hospital to supply patients with such items as bingo games and therapy materials.

Lively Prairie Dog Town

'NOW HEAT THIS' — Sneezy, one of the characters in the prairie dog town at Big Spring State Park, appears as if he is waiting for the crowd to stop talking before he starts his speech. Actually, the little animals sit on their back sides quite a bit of time, a habit that does nothing for that spare tire this one is carrying.

'ANYONE HAVE A TOOTH PICK?' — Daintily picking his teeth after a meal is this stalwart of the prairie dog village at the Big Spring State Park. Life would be awfully dull, he might be thinking, if the curious humans didn't come around occasionally. Eating, sleeping, posing — what else is important in this old world?

SUMMING THINGS UP WITHOUT AN ABACUS — This little fellow may be using his paws to count the house. He's another resident of the prairie dog town in the Big Spring State Park. Who knows, he could be a census taker.

SOMEONE HAS TO SET THE TEMPO — Arturo Toscanini never had anything in the way of regal appearance on this little animal. He seems to be controlling the musical tempo of a great symphonic orchestra. He's another resident who looks curiously at human bipeds visiting the prairie dog town at Big Spring State Park.

by

EDUCATIONAL SIGN — People who knew nothing about the habits of prairie dogs invariably leave the animal community at Big Spring State Park better informed, thanks to a sign erected on the premises by state park officials. Decades ago in West Texas, prairie dogs by the hundreds used to live in rural communities. Cowboys who rode horses gave them a wide berth because their steeds sometimes stepped into the burrows and broke their legs. The little creatures often surprise people by barking like dogs.

COMING UP FOR A NEW SIGHTING — "Anything happen while I was from his underground home at Big Spring State Park. He might have gone below just to primp a little."

'THINGS GET CURIOSER AND CURIOSER' — When prairie dogs are puzzled about something, they often adopt this position, holding their head high and curling their tail as if were a probing antenna. This little animal hasn't missed many meals, judging from his girth.

'ON YOUR MARK, GET SET....' — Prairie dogs, like the ones to be seen in a special community in Big Spring State Park, can shift gears on occasions and call on great speed to get from here to there. Like when one dashes to disappear down a hole just when a cameraman is all ready to take his picture. This one, incidentally, wasn't quite rapid enough.

Alene H. Moris featured speaker

More than 100 women banking executives from the Permian Basin area convened at Odessa Country Club on Tuesday evening for a special meeting hosted by the Permian Basin Chapter of the National Association of Banking Women.

Featured speaker was Alene H. Moris, president and co-founder of the Individual Development Center, Inc., Seattle, Wash. The center is a counseling service for adults facing career and personal decisions. Established in August of 1972, it has served over 10,000 people through individual counseling, workshops and seminars. National Association of Banking Women is the largest individual membership association in the banking industry and the only one which represents the interest of women banking executives. Its programs are directed toward the encouragement, professional excellence, and career growth for all women in banking. Members and guests attending from Big Spring were Gail Earls and Nelda Colclazer. In addition to Mrs. Moris, special guests of NABW were Alice Brasselton, Linda Bond and Mary Martha Arana.

Dear Abby

This Bed-Bug Is Real Louse

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him Joe) and I live in the same house but have separate bedrooms because I've known for years that Joe can't leave other women alone. I got tired of fighting with him about it, so I just gave up. In fact, I don't even care anymore. I'm staying with him until our daughter grows up. Barbara is 11, and Joe is a very good provider. A few weeks ago Joe went to Colorado to visit his brother, Frank, and he took Barbara along. When they came home Barbara told me that after Uncle Frank went to work, Daddy and Aunt Jennie would lock themselves in the bedroom for a long time. She said Daddy told her not to tell anyone. Abby, should I let this go or make a stink? After all, Jennie isn't just another woman. She's his brother's wife!
NAMES CHANGED

DEAR CHANGED: What's to be gained by making a stink? Your husband would probably turn on Barbara for turning him in. Since your daughter is being exposed to some raunchy behavior on the part of married folks, be sure she understands that not all married men behave like Daddy, nor do all married women carry on like Aunt Jennie. CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN LOVE WITH A CO-WORKER WHO'S TRAPPED IN A LOVELESS MARRIAGE": Get out of that office and out of his life. It would be easier to smuggle down past a rooster than to hide the fact that you two are madly in love.

Crime replayed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Although the motor vehicle accident death rate dropped in South Africa in 1979, motorcycle accidents have increased by 7 percent. The higher motorcycle rate follows a 94.7 percent increase last year in sales of the bikes.

Johnny Johansen presents program

The Oasis Garden Club met recently in the home of Mrs. J.D. Leonard. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Lillian Stulting and Mrs. Bill Conger. The meeting was called to order by President Mrs. H.T. Hasen. Each member recited the club prayer. Johnny Johansen presented the program on pruning bushes and fruit trees. He said most pruning should be done now. He recommended pruning out about 40 per cent of the wood, although he says he usually prunes out only 20-30 per cent in this area. "It is good to prune out some in the center to let the sunlight in," Johansen said. "Pecan trees just need to be shaped up and the dead wood pruned out." He also revealed that bush roses should be pruned the last of February or the first of March. Gardeners should look for dead and weak branches at the bottom and remove them. They should be trimmed back to 12 inches in height and then fertilized. Members were reminded of the Spring District Meeting which will be held in Amarillo March 18-19. The flower arrangement of the month, a creative arrangement made of both dried and fresh flowers, was furnished by Mrs. C.V. Wash.

Fashions may change but tote bags endure

Baggies are in, straight legs are out. True to form, fashions change as frequently as the seasons. One fashion idea, however, has managed to weather the changing seasons and emerge as a wardrobe staple. It's the tote bag, one of the most versatile accessories a woman can own. "Today's lifestyles make casual clothing essential," says Julie Selby, fashion coordinator for Halls, a top Kansas City, Mo., specialty store, "and the tote bag has surfaced as a natural accessory."

Tote bags have the right look and are easy to carry, Selby says. "You can take them anywhere and put just about anything in them. Best of all, they're inexpensive — usually $15 or less — and easy to take care of. Most are made of canvas and can be tossed in the washing machine if they get dirty."

"When you were little," says Selby, "you carried things in your pockets. Well, tote bags are even better than pockets. You can take them to the beach or the tennis court; they carry business papers as well as a briefcase and they're terrific for shopping sprees. Most of them are large enough to handle a baby's belongings or a grandmother's knitting gear. The tote bag is an accessory that any woman can use."

Be true or break up

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old boy who has a problem with my girlfriend. I have another friend (a girl) whom I have known for three years and I take her out once in a while.

When I do this, my girlfriend gets mad and makes me call her and tell her everything that happened on the date. My girlfriend says she loves me and trusts me but she doesn't show it. What should I do? —

Mark, Wierton, W.Va. Mark: Either be true to your girlfriend or break up with her. You have a girlfriend, and I don't see why it is necessary to date another girl while she sits at home.

I was under the impression that a girlfriend is "your one and only."

Dr. Wallace: I am a busy 13-year-old girl and the time I have to myself is very precious. I share a bedroom with a younger sister while my youngest sister, 7, has a bedroom to herself.

Now the time has come that I would like a room to myself. I talked with my mother and she agrees with me but leaves the final decision to my 7-year-old sister who refuses to take our other sister, 10, as a roommate. I would appreciate your comments. — Patti, Dubuque, Iowa

Patti: In this situation I think that you should have a room by yourself, and feel that it is your mother's responsibility to make the move, not your 7-year-old sister.

Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend went into the Army 4 months ago and in that little time, he seems to have changed.

I have written faithfully every day and all I got was two phone calls and two letters in return. Is there a reason for this? — Laura, Nashua, N.H.

Laura: Entering the military, especially the first few months during basic training, is a great change emotionally as well as physically for the recruit. During basic training almost every minute of every day is planned by the Army.

I'm not making excuses for your boyfriend, but I would continue writing to him faithfully every day and wait until you see him on his first leave before deciding if he has changed.

Two letters and two phone calls in four weeks isn't too bad.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gourmet cooks, watch out!

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

Julia Childs and the Galloping Gourmet better look out or the fame and prestige they enjoy in the kitchen might be threatened. 4-H Clubs across the State of Texas are teaching girls and boys at very early ages what it takes to become a skillful chef. And not only are they learning how to prepare complete meals, but they are being taught all the important aspects of nutrition, too.

Thirty-two entrants from 8-19 have signed up to compete in the annual 4-H Howard County Food Show Jan. 19 at the First United Methodist Church in Big Spring.

An awards program and tasting tea will be open to the public at 3 p.m. Sponsoring the event are Morrison Milling Co. of Denton and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Linda Fuchs, assistant county extension agent, a third division has been added in addition to the Junior and Senior divisions.

"This year we will have a special division for 8 year olds called Little Chef in an effort to prepare the younger ones for future food shows," Miss Fuchs stated.

Contestants in the Junior Division must be from 9 to 13 years of age. Those participating in the Senior Division will be 14 to 19.

Each contestant will be allowed to participate in one of four categories, including Main Dish, Side Dish, Bread and Dessert and Snack and Beverage.

"4-H Clubs emphasize the planning of nutritious meals," Miss Fuchs said.

Club members are taught how to read recipes, plan menus and grocery shop for their ingredients. Recently, a group of 4-H'ers toured the kitchen at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

"Also," continued Miss

Fuchs, "Toni Choate and Georgia Johnson of the Accent Shop gave tips on how to select china and how to make pretty table settings."

The theme of this year's food show is "Eat good foods to go, to glow and to grow."

All participants must know the four basic food groups; know what the nutrients are and why they are important to the body as they will be asked questions on nutrition.

They will also be graded on texture and overall quality and taste of their dish as well as how attractive it is arranged.

Competitors in the contest will range in cooking experience from two months to approximately 8 years, Miss Fuchs revealed.

Other coordinators of this year's show, in addition to Miss Fuchs, include LaVerne Gaskins, chairman and Sue Robinson and Jo Ann Guitart, co-chairmen.

District competition will take place Feb. 2 in Coahoma at the high school cafeteria.

"Eight winners from each county will go to district," explained the assistant county extension agent.

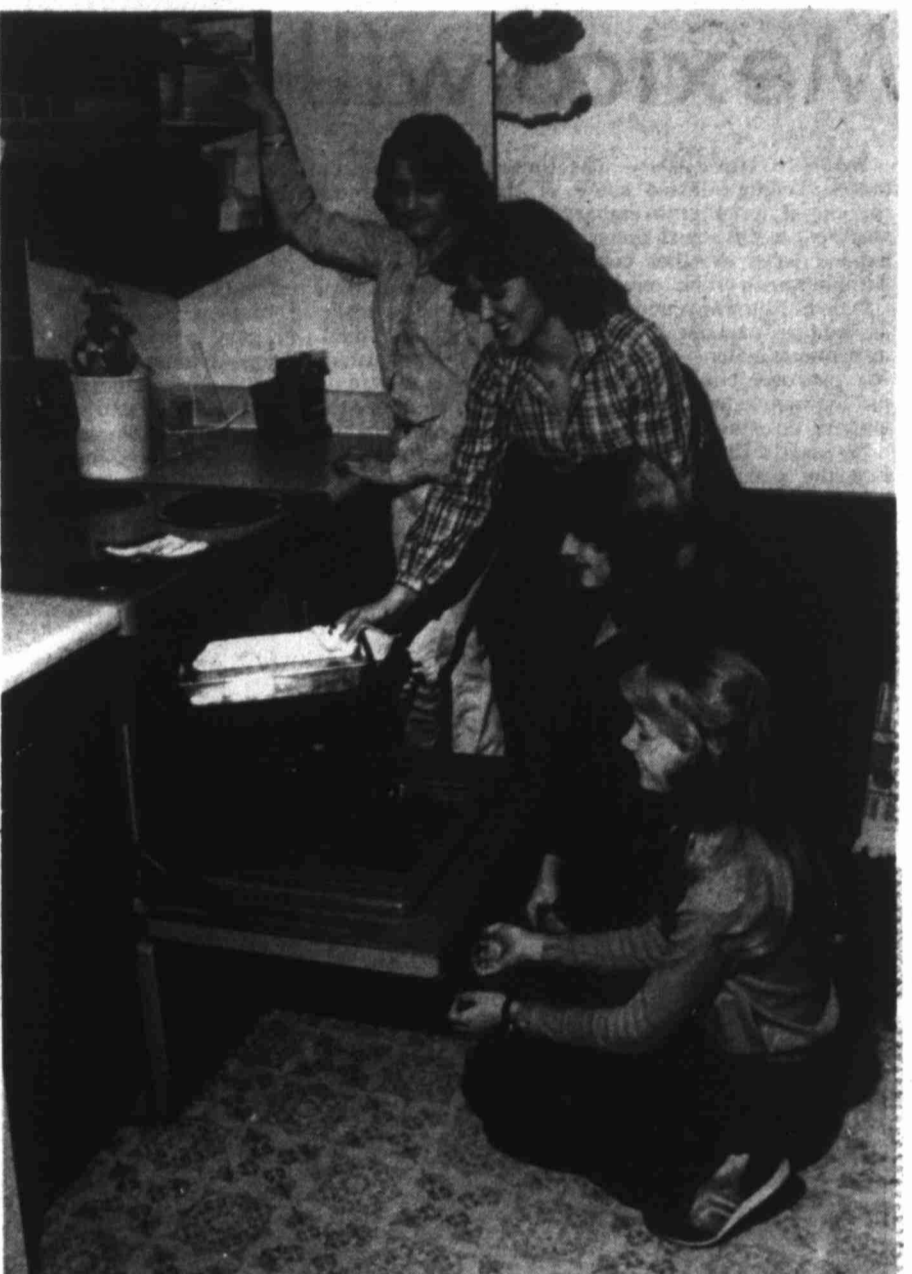

In last year's competition, Robin Ethridge won Main Dish at county and district and went to state with her Chicken Broccoli Crepes.

Judging county competition will be 4-H leaders from surrounding counties.

FUTURE CHEFS — These and other 4-H youngsters will participate in the annual 4-H Food Show Jan. 19 at the First United Methodist Church. Hoping to nab first place

Mexico will buy some of embargoed grain

Who Will?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, selling Mexico some of the millions of tons of grain embargoed for shipment to the Soviet Union, wants to expand sales to other countries, an administration official says.

Dale E. Hathaway, undersecretary of agriculture, announced Wednesday an agreement under which Mexico will buy just over 1 million tons of the 17 million metric tons of corn and wheat embargoed to the Soviets.

He said the United States was looking into the possibility of having other countries buy more of the grain that had been destined for the Soviet Union, but declined to name the countries or indicate how much grain might be involved.

On Jan. 4, President Carter cancelled the Soviet grain orders in retaliation for the Kremlin's military intervention in Afghanistan. The government bought up the grain ordered by Moscow but has no desire to hold it if suitable markets can be found.

Mexican Commerce Secretary Jorge de la Vega joined U.S. officials in announcing the deal, which he said was sparked in part by poor Mexican harvests caused by a drought and an early frost.

The agreement calls for Mexico to buy 4.8 million metric tons of farm products "above and beyond" what it had already ordered this calendar year, bringing total sales to about 7 million metric tons, said Hathaway.

That's about twice as much as Mexico bought in each of the last three years, he said.

Other administration officials said later that sales to Mexico for this year had been projected at about 5 million tons this year prior to the hastily arranged deal announced Wednesday.

The officials, who asked not to be named, pegged Mexico's total commodity orders at 7.15 million tons in 1980.

That would mean the net effect of the new deal would be to increase Mexico's 1980 purchases by about 1.1 million tons from what had been expected.

Truce pending elections hangs heavy over Rhodesia

Pliny may have said it best: "Out of Africa, always something new."

He could have been speaking about Rhodesia, according to Dr. Bernard Zilberg, who addressed the Downtown Lions Club at its weekly meeting Wednesday at Howard College. Dr. Zilberg, now on the Malone-Hogan staff, formerly was a specialist in Rhodesia.

There now hangs over the country an uneasy truce pending elections for ratification of a new constitution. Is there a hope that it will pour oil on the troubled waters of the 150 years of turbulent history? Dr. Zilberg is uncertain, and expressed a skepticism that whoever loses the election will be content to accept the results. Thus, Pliny's assessment may be apropos.

It started back in 1817 with flight of a Zulu chieftan to the Rhodesian area, and the later entry of David Livingstone followed by John Moffatt, who persuaded Queen Victoria to make it a British protectorate. Then came the ivory and trophy hunters, the missionaries, discoverers, and businessmen, among them Cecil Rhodes, who used his enormous wealth to spawn a company-directed government that persisted until 1933.

"And they will tell you they did a bloody better job than anyone has done since," Dr. Zilberg quipped.

Rhodesia became a British crown colony, and after World War I the idea was to govern until the indigenous population would be capable of self-government. There followed in 1953 a merger or federation of three nations, each at different stages of development. When the constitution was formed in 1961, naturally "it didn't work." One reason was that events were evolving in the shadow of the Zaire (Belgium Congo) debacle when Belgium pulled out.

Then in 1965, Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith suddenly declared independence for the country, an act roughly comparable

"MEAN" JOE GREENE

Mean Joe Greene insists his nickname is wrong

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Is Mean Joe Greene really mean?

If so, how mean is he? Not mean at all, Mean Joe insists. Even his unnerving nickname bears a false connotation.

"I got it when I was playing at North Texas State," he said. "Not because I was rough on the field. The guys tackled it on me because it was a rhyme."

"Mean Greene," get it? They couldn't call me 'Lean Greene' not when I weighed 280 pounds."

Mean Joe's massive body shook with the depth of the guffaw that erupted from his own private joke.

He doesn't weigh 280 now. The guide lists him as 6-foot-4 and 260 pounds. In his pads he looks 8-3 and 400.

He is an awesome creature with powerful shoulders, arms like wagon tongues, hands as big as catcher's mitts, a face covered by mustache and sinister beard.

For most of his 11 years in the National Football League he has epitomized bone-crushing defense for a team that has won three of the last five Super Bowls and is going for an unprecedented fourth against the Los Angeles Rams Sunday.

Now that Oakland's Jack Tatum has hit the stands with his controversial autobiography, "They Call Me Assassin," and TV's "60 Minutes" has put a national spotlight on escalating football injuries, Mean Joe has emerged as one of the most interviewed personalities of Super Bowl Week.

I haven't read the book," Greene said of Tatum's opus, "but I don't like the expression 'assassin.' We're sportsmen, we're athletes."

"All players belong to the same fraternity. We try to help our teams win. It's not a personal war. We don't purposely try to maim and destroy. We meet force with force."

Tatum, whose crashing tackle of Darryl Stingley in a 1978 exhibition game left the New England player paralyzed from the neck down, has written that to pro-defensive players it is not enough just to stop a man.

"My idea of a good hit," Tatum said, "is when the victim wakes up on the sidelines with train whistles blowing in his head." He said he personally strives for "knockouts" and "limppuffs."

Mean Joe insists he never gets that mean.

Mean Joe, off the field, is a bear of a man with the soul of a pussycat. Sometimes he talks like a Rhodes Scholar.

He said his true character is depicted in the TV commercial in which he is leaving a stadium, battle weary and aching, and brushes off a kid offering him a bottle of pop. When he sees the boy's disappointment, he takes the bottle, gulping it down, and then tosses the kid his jersey.

"The commercial took two days, 18 hours, and I drank 18 bottles of pop," Mean Joe recalled. "I never got so many letters, mostly from women — housewives. They see me as a kind man."

Rams secondary has simple plan for Steeler receivers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "How do you defend against Lynn Swann and a John Stallworth? Simple," says Dave Elmendorf. "You do it with a Pat Thomas and a Rod Perry."

That may well be the most critical matchup in Sunday's Super Bowl game, with Thomas and Perry, the Los Angeles Rams' cornerbacks, trying to muzzle the Pittsburgh Steelers' terrifying tandem of deep threats.

No other team has really been able to stifle both wide receivers. Double-covering one meant handing Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw an engraved invitation to exploit the other.

"But no other team has two cornerbacks that are as capable as ours," Elmendorf, the Rams' strong safety, said Wednesday before the team began what Coach Ray Malavasi described as its two hardest days of workouts.

"When you've got guys who are as capable as Rod and Pat and you're matching them up against Stallworth and Swann, you've got two natural battles there — and I think that in the past we've won the battles," said Elmendorf, reflecting on the Rams' 10-7 victory over the Steelers during the 1978 season. In that game, Pittsburgh's two wide receivers were limited to just 69 yards on five receptions.

"We'll be up in their faces just about all day," said Thomas, who missed half the season with a knee injury and returned as a starter in the Rams' 9-0 shutout of Tampa Bay in the National Conference championship game.

Swann's biggest asset, Thomas said, is his concentration. "The guy can catch a needle in the dark — he can catch anything," he said. "If the ball hits his hands, he's got it. That doesn't intimidate me at all — but I think we can do a few things to intimidate him...I think it's my job to destroy the will of the receiver. Swann is a man, he's human. And you can destroy his will to catch the ball."

That sounded strangely like talk from Oakland's Jack Tatum and George Atkinson and Dallas' Cliff Harris a few years back, when Swann suffered a concussion in the American Conference championship game against the Raiders, then killed the Cowboys in the Super Bowl with one magnificent catch after another.

"Making a sure, solid tackle; that's basically what Pat was talking about," said Perry. "If you hit him hard enough, maybe you can make him lose his concentration. We're not talking about going in trying to deliberately hurt a person. But when you get a person thinking, 'Where's Pat Thomas?' or 'Where's Dave Elmendorf?' get him thinking about something other than the ball for one split second, you've got an edge on him."

One edge the Rams had in their upset of the Cowboys two playoff games ago was knowing when Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach was likely to throw. In third-and-long situations the Cowboys shifted to the shotgun formation, an almost certain throwing formation.

Knowing that, the Rams flooded their secondary with seven defensive backs, effectively shutting down Tony Hill, Drew Pearson and the rest of the Cowboys' receivers.

The Steelers, though, aren't so predictable, throwing on first down, running on third down. "We'll have to think twice before we throw seven defensive backs into the game," Malavasi said.

And how does Los Angeles expect to compensate for that? "That's why we're playing the game," the coach said. "We'll find out Sunday."

Nolan Cromwell, the Rams' free safety, suggested one way to compensate for the loss of the seven-back defense. "A strong pass rush," he said. "That's a prime reason we did well against the Steelers last year (1978)."

"We were able to put pressure on Terry and cause him to change his rhythm. And whenever you change anybody's rhythm on a pass pattern or whatever it throws that timing off a little bit and it'll hurt; I don't care what the quarterback says. When you change his rhythm it shakes him a little."

Ticket prices becoming outrageous Super Bowl a sellout

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Tickets for Super Bowl XIV sold originally for $30 each yet those trying to secure them now reportedly pay up to $350 for choice seats.

End zone seats go for $125 and up.

A multi-million dollar business, Sunday's game will sell out in the Rose Bowl, which has more than 100,000 seating capacity. The television rights were sold to CBS for approximately $6 million.

Businesses in Pasadena, Los Angeles and environs also realize big profits from the game which matches the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Los Angeles Rams.

With a home club in the Super Bowl for the first time, business might not be quite as big as with two outsiders, but the prices for resold tickets have soared.

Fred Burkhardt, manager of research and economic development for the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce, sets his dollar projection for the Super Bowl at between $750,000 to $1 million in that city alone.

Most hotels in downtown

Los Angeles are sold out.

How about the tickets? A National Football League spokesman said that 101,629 tickets were divided with 27.5 percent going to each of the participating teams, 30 percent to the rest of the league teams and 15 percent to the league office.

The Rams says they received 27,000 tickets, sold 18,900 to season ticket holders and distributed the remaining 8,100 among players, staff, advertisers and others.

Olympic situation has Bill Rodgers confused

BOSTON (AP) — Premier marathoner Bill Rodgers is off for an intensive training program in Arizona, not sure whether he and other U.S. athletes will be participating in the Olympic Games in Moscow this year.

"It'd be good to make a decision sooner or later and quit playing with peoples' minds," Rodgers said Wednesday. "Not only the minds of the athletes, but the minds of the American people. Every day it's a new thing. My mind is bogged. I don't know what to think."

Rodgers had said he might not honor any possible boycott of the Olympics by the U.S. government, prompted by the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. But now says he'll do what the American Olympic teams do.

"I've always felt that politics and athletics don't mix," he said as he departed for the Phoenix area, "but if you can't compete, you can't compete...I'm going to keep on training and if we don't compete in the Olympics, I'll run the Boston Marathon."

Since the U.S. Olympic marathon trials are set for May 24 in Buffalo, most top U.S. marathoners are skipping the Boston Marathon held in April.

Rodgers, of Melrose, Mass., says that although there are reports that a majority of Americans feel the Olympics should be boycotted, and that President Carter is leaning toward a boycott, he believes the American team will be in Moscow this summer.

"I remember very vividly talk of canceling the Olympics in 1976 in Montreal when the African countries dropped out. They still held the Olympics and we were there."

Hubie Green wants respect

PHOENIX (AP) — A nationally syndicated columnist recently wrote an article about Hubie Green, pointing out that he's probably the most overlooked of golf's great players.

"Gee, I didn't know you were unknown," Mark Hayes kidded Green.

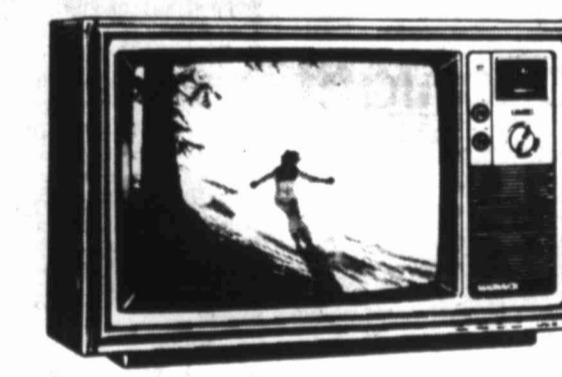

He isn't. "People who don't know golf might not know me," Green said before teeing off today in the first round of the $300,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

"The football writer who covers one golf tournament a year might have to ask who I am, but the people close to the game know me and know what I can do."

"It doesn't really bother me. I think there are two reasons for it. For one thing, I don't fit the image — I'm not a longhaired blond. And I haven't had that really great year, a real standout year. I haven't been No. 1."

Industry lining up to fight regulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — American industry is lining up for a fight over a new government regulation designed to increase worker protection from hundreds of potential cancer-causing chemicals found on the job. Several industry groups are going to court to challenge the regulation, which the government hopes will speed up the lengthy process of identifying and regulating some 500 chemicals that may threaten the health of hundreds of thousands of workers. The regulation, announced Wednesday by the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration, would replace the current policy of regulating carcinogens on a slow case-by-case basis. OSHA's administrator, Eula Bingham, estimated the new approach would enable the agency to establish worker exposure limits on about 10 chemicals a year, up from the current two per year. A 1977 survey by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health indicated that 1 million Americans may be exposed to known cancer-causing substances on the job. The government also estimates that between 20 percent and 40 percent of the nearly 400,000 cancer deaths each year are attributable to job-related factors. The chemical industry, however, contends that only 1 percent to 5 percent of cancer cases are occupationally related. Representatives of the chemical, petroleum and plastics industries complained Wednesday that the new regulation's method of identifying carcinogens is scientifically flawed, and that compliance could cost business billions of dollars. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce called the government policy "regulatory extremism" and "administrative overreaction."

The American Petroleum Institute, contending that the government's criteria for labeling a chemical as a carcinogen are too lax, said it has asked the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans to review the regulation. The Society of the Plastics Industry and a group composed of industrial producers and users of chemicals said they would join in the appeal. Organized labor said it also would seek an appeals court review of OSHA's action, but for different reasons.

'A matter of survival'

Citizens resume taxing

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — When taxes were reduced under Proposition 13 in California, the residents of this wealthy San Francisco suburb conducted a charity drive to pay for city services. This year they decided to just go back to taxing themselves more. "It's simply a matter of survival," said City Manager Bob Davidson. This town, where the average price of a home is $500,000, is one of the wealthiest communities in the nation. Residents voted Tuesday under a state law that took effect Jan. 1 to levy a special tax of about $190 on each household to make up for a $742,000 shortage in the $2.7 million budget. If the tax proposal had failed, Davidson said the community of 9,000, located south of San Francisco in San Mateo County, would have been forced to fire 23 of 74 employees and would have had to reduce services, including police and fire protection. Because the community is largely residential, and has little commercial tax revenue, it was particularly hard hit in 1978 when Proposition 13 was voted in to limit property taxation, Davidson said. Last year, residents made up for shortages with a charity drive that raised $465,000. They sent letters to the townspeople and received contributions averaging about $50 per man, woman and child. But local officials had promised there wouldn't be a repeat performance this year. So a heated battle developed with anti-tax forces as a minority. The vote for approval of the special tax, with a 61 percent turnout, was 2,732 to 914. The vote authorized the tax for five years with the option of raising it by $60 a house if necessary. Anti-tax forces claimed officials were using "scare tactics" in the tax campaign. "We felt there was enough money in the budget to maintain police and fire services at present levels and live within the spirit of Proposition 13," said Michael Dumas, a leader of the Concerned Taxpayers Committee, which waged a door-to-door campaign. "This town has always been run very tightly, very conservatively," said Margaret Robertson, leader of the Committee to Maintain our Police and Fire Services. The budget was "bare bones" said Mayor Ben Follot. He said the city couldn't cut services like library or recreation because there aren't any. Follot said the only money the city had in reserve was needed to clean termites out of the firehouse.

'The Silver Burglar' making his name known in Lone Star State

HIGHLAND PARK, Texas (AP) — A man who made headlines for two decades in Ohio as "The Silver Burglar" is now making ripples in Texas.

Kermit Francis Gabel Jr. is accused of stealing three valuable cases of silverware from a home in this exclusive Dallas suburb last week.

And now that police have learned of his penchant in the past for stealing silver, they're questioning him about 18 burglaries here in the past 18 months in which $200,000 in silverware has been taken.

The father of three was arrested last Thursday night as he jumped from the upper branches of a tree outside a Highland Park residence. A resident called police and said he found several sets of silverware and a silver coffee service when he went downstairs to investigate suspicious noises.

Dressed in Army fatigues, combat boots and a baseball cap, Gabel carried no identification, and he was charged only with breaking into a home and stealing three valuable cases of silverware.

Then, Highland Park police learned he had been arrested 14 times since 1966 in connection with silver and jewelry burglaries in swank neighborhoods near Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio.

Gabel made $25,000 bond from the Dallas County Jail Tuesday but by 2:40 a.m. Wednesday he was back in custody again. Police chased a man they saw running near some houses and, minutes later, found Gabel hiding under a tree between two houses.

It was less than two blocks from where he was picked up last week. This time, police filed a habitual criminal charge against Gabel, which carries a life prison sentence. He was arraigned Wednesday and bond set at $200,000.

"We call him the silver burglar" because he allegedly steals silver and melts it down, said Harry Eidan, a detective in the Cleveland suburb of Shaker Heights.

Gabel has served a half dozen jail sentences since 1955 for burglary, grand larceny, arson, mail fraud and possession of burglary tools, Ohio officials said.

Gabel currently is awaiting trial in Cleveland on two counts of aggravated burglary and two counts of possession of criminal tools, Eidan said.

"He's served about 20 years in jail, off and on," and has a "lengthy record dating back to the 1950s," Eidan said. First sentenced to state prison in Marion, Ohio, for burglary in 1956, Gabel was paroled in 1959, and returned for a parole violation in 1961.

He left Marion in 1963, but was back again eight months later because, he told the judge in the case, he "just couldn't resist the urge to steal."

Until last week, it had almost a year since Gabel was arrested. That arrest followed a rash of about 40 burglaries in the Shaker Heights area, but the only charges pending against Gabel are the aggravated burglary and criminal tool possession charges.

However, Eidan said, "after the arrest, the burglaries stopped."

THE SHAH AND FROST — Shah Mohamed Reza Pahlavi, right, appears with David Frost during interviews which took place last week over several days on Contadora Island in Panama. The exclusive interview will be broadcast tonight at 10 p.m. EST on ABC-TV's weekly television magazine "20-20."

Father is searching for daughter

DALLAS (AP) — Jamie Fernando Ponce de Leon, fearing his 6-year-old daughter soon may be adopted by a Dallas family, has begun a frantic search to locate the little girl who was taken by his ex-wife and probably abandoned in this area.

The child, Mary Rosana Ponce de Leon, has been involved in a see-saw custody battle since her parents were divorced in 1975, according to New Orleans police.

Ron Cannatella, a New Orleans child abuse investigator, said Mary was taken by her mother, Linda Faye Chammiss, in August and police believe she was abandoned here before her mother left town.

"She may have just abandoned her little girl near Dallas and the family that took her in believes they have an orphan," he said. "They probably do not realize the child has a father who desperately wants his child back."

Ponce de Leon says he is frantically trying to locate the family before the adoption is finalized.

"We don't want to lose her," he said. "We all loved her very much. I don't want anyone else taking her."

Miss Chammiss, 28, originally was given custody of the little girl following the divorce. Ponce de Leon said, but returned her to him while having financial problems. Ponce de Leon said he eventually got legal custody.

Ponce de Leon, a 31-year-old car salesman, said he last saw his daughter in August, when his ex-wife, Miss Chammiss, came to visit.

"She told me she wanted to take our daughter to see her grandfather, who was very sick," he said. "She said her father was about to die and she wanted him to see our daughter one more time. They left, and I haven't seen either one of them since."

New Orleans police say Ponce de Leon recently was contacted by a New Orleans attorney who said he had been in touch with Miss Chammiss. The attorney, Hugh Exnicious, told the father in a letter Miss Chammiss left Mary with a Dallas family who was going to adopt her, police said.

Cannatella said the search has been slowed by the court systems.

"Court records involving adoptions are listed in the name of the prospective parents," he said. "Since we don't know who they are, the courts have not been able to help us."

Contacted by a Dallas reporter, Exnicious declined to answer questions over the telephone, but said he would respond to written questions.

Cannatella said Exnicious told him he does not know how to contact Miss Chammiss, who may be in Washington.

Economic Machine facing perils

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Great American Economic Machine, once fabled and envied the world over, is now imperiled by the economic and political upheavals emanating from distant desert empires.

Recent turmoil in Iran, Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and a troubling incident in Mecca, Saudi Arabia, underscore the vulnerability of U.S. and Western economies.

"Our nation is running considerable risk by relying for a large part of its energy resources on fragile and uncertain supply lines," said a somber G. William Miller, the secretary of the Treasury, during his recent tour of Gulf oil nations.

The instability along the Persian Gulf and the Arabian Sea poses a serious and long-term threat; escalating crises in the region raise the possibility of sharp reductions in oil supplies and present a strategic opportunity for the Soviet Union to control Western access to eastern oil.

Events in Iran and Afghanistan and, to a lesser extent, in Saudi Arabia have raised serious doubts about the security of Middle Eastern oil fields.

The economic future of 222-million Americans is tied to events in the Persian Gulf. Aside from oil, there is little the United States would need from the nations of Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, Kuwait or the United Arab Emirates. Because it is their only resource, these countries guard it jealously.

It doesn't matter so much whether it's the United States or some other country, such as Japan, which buys the oil of a specific country. The important thing is that there be sufficient oil available to meet total world demand and at a price that won't bankrupt those who must have it.

Saudi Arabia is the most important of the Persian Gulf nations for the United States because it has the most oil, proven reserves of 165-billion barrels and probably much more.

Saudi Arabia is the world's largest oil exporter at 9.5 million barrels a day. Of this, the United States buys 1.2 million barrels, or 20 percent of its daily imports.

Oil trade created a severe economic shock for the industrial world in 1973 when OPEC raised prices by 300 percent. At virtually the same time, Arab producers clamped an embargo on exports to the United States because of U.S. support for Israel in its 1973 war with Egypt.

The one-two "price and supply" punch pushed the U.S. economy into its worst economic downturn since the Depression, and the economy still hasn't fully recovered. A recession is thought imminent.

On the supply side, the turmoil in Iran last year provided clear evidence of how instability in the region can threaten U.S. supplies.

The loss of 2 million barrels a day of Iranian production prompted long gas lines in some parts of the United States. And only after Saudi Arabia agreed to step up production did the shortage abate.

But now the Saudis are near what is believed to be their maximum sustainable output, and there is no one else that the United States could count on to pick up the slack if there is another major cutback in production somewhere else.

The recent attack in Mecca by several hundred armed dissidents on the Moslem world's major shrine showed that the Saudis also face internal problems. American officials shudder at the implications for the American economy if Iranian-type turmoil should strike Saudi Arabia.

While the industrial world made some progress in 1979 in reducing oil consumption, new competition for oil is expected later in this decade from the Soviet Union. Though Russia is now self-sufficient, intelligence reports say it could need to import oil for its European satellites as early as 1985.

Against this background, the Soviet move into Afghanistan, bordering Iran, raises suspicions about Russia's longer-term intentions.

While the rest of the world adapts to high oil prices and uncertain supplies, the wealth accumulates in the Persian Gulf nations.

Earnings exceeded expenditures for all OPEC countries last year. By an estimated $45 billion, with most of the surplus concentrated in the Persian Gulf nations, especially in Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. The surplus is expected to increase to $69 billion in 1981.

U.S. officials say candidly that a major problem for the 1980s will be to find sound investments for oil surpluses, because without a secure place to put their money, OPEC nations may be reluctant to produce oil for earnings they don't need. Both the Saudis and Kuwaitis already have made known their desire to cut production, and in the meantime, oil-rich nations are thought to be buying gold and sending its price to the roof.

ECONOMIC PERILS — The Great American Economic Machine is now imperiled by the economic and political upheavals emanating from recent turmoil in Iran, Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and a troubling incident in Mecca, Saudi Arabia.

Rock star still jailed in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Rock star Paul McCartney faces a second night in a Japanese jail as narcotics officials question him about half a pound of marijuana customs officers said they found in his suitcase.

The Clear Light Society, which is campaigning to legalize marijuana smoking in Japan, called for the immediate release of the 37-year-old ex-Beatle. Tokyo newspapers predicted he would be expelled from the country without being brought to trial.

If convicted of possessing and smuggling marijuana, he could be sentenced to seven years in prison and fined $2,000.

McCartney was arrested Wednesday when he, his wife Linda, their four children and his rock group Wings arrived for a 11-concert tour. He waved cheerfully to a group of high school students when he was brought from police headquarters to the Central Narcotics Bureau today for questioning. He also was to confer with a Japanese attorney recommended by the British consulate.

Meanwhile, Yomiuri, the Tokyo newspaper sponsoring the concert series, canceled the tour. The paper said 100,000 tickets had been sold at prices ranging up to $40. McCartney's Japanese agent estimated $1.8 million would have to be returned to the purchasers.

The famed British musician can be held for a maximum of 20 days for questioning, but a prison official said he was getting special treatment in jail — coffee and bread instead of green tea and rice.

"He's not a Japanese, so we cannot treat him like a Japanese," the official said. Narcotics officials said they would refer the case to the Tokyo district prosecutor's office by Friday for it to decide whether to bring formal charges. Enforcement of Japanese drug laws is strict, but in recent years most first marijuana offenders have been fined and put on probation.

Customs officials said they found the marijuana in a plastic bag in one of McCartney's suitcases when they opened it for a routine inspection at the airport. They said he told them he "brought some hemp for my smoking."

McCartney was taken away in handcuffs. Meanwhile, his wife and children accompanied the band to a Tokyo hotel. Police sources said Mrs. McCartney might be questioned later as a material witness.

McCartney was last in Japan in 1965 with the Beatles when the group was at the height of its popularity. In 1972, he, his wife and Wings drummer Denny Seiwell were fined $1,800 after pleading guilty to bringing six ounces of marijuana into Sweden, and a year later McCartney was fined $240 after police found five marijuana plants growing on his country place in the Scottish Highlands.

He was denied a Japanese visa in 1975 because it is official policy not to admit persons with drug convictions into the country.
