INTO THE OLD DRINK — Workers in the YMCA membership drive, which formally got under way Monday, toss Y executive director Mike McCracken into the pool, reversing a ritual which sometimes is used in this kind of campaign. The workers, among them Jerry Foresyth, team captain; Russ McEwen, chairman of the drive; and Earl Archer, district leader, teamed up to see that McCracken got into the water. Objective in the campaign is $40,000, necessary if the Y is to keep all its programs during 1980.

Bush takes lead in Iowa caucus

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — George Bush led Ronald Reagan in returns from the Iowa precinct caucuses and claimed an upset victory that gave a solid boost to his campaign for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Jimmy Carter renewed his political love affair with Iowa

Monday night and thrashed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in their first official confrontation.

With results from a non-binding straw poll of Republicans showing him leading Reagan, Bush said he would leave today for New Hampshire "and we'll do better there."

The New Hampshire primary on

Feb. 26, is the next major test of the campaign.

With 72.5 percent of the Republican precincts reporting, Bush held an 27,926 to 22,724 lead over Reagan in the straw poll.

Sen. Howard H. Baker was third with 11,590; John B. Connally, 8,425; Rep. Philip Crane, 5,749; Rep. John Anderson, 3,355; Sen. Bob Dole, 1,569.

The Republican caucuses chose delegates to represent their precincts at county conventions but the delegates were not bound to candidates by Monday's outcome.

Results from 2,442 of the 2,531 Democratic precincts gave Carter 59 percent, Kennedy 31 percent, uncommitted 10 percent. The Democratic party in Iowa did not release vote totals, just percentages.

Based on those figures, Iowa's 50 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in August would be divided 29 for Carter, 15 for Kennedy and 5 uncommitted. One is yet to be awarded.

From the earliest Monday night returns, Carter jumped to a two-to-one lead over Kennedy and held it throughout the night.

It was Iowa that gave Carter his boost out of obscurity in the 1976 race and as soon as his 1980 victory was assured, the president issued a statement at the White House saying, "I deeply appreciate the vote of confidence from Iowa Democrats."

YMCA kicks off membership drive

The Big Spring YMCA kicked off its annual membership drive Monday.

The campaign, headed by Chairman Russ McEwen, will extend over two weeks, ending Feb. 4. The goal is $40,000, especially important this year because all agencies supported by the United Way, including the YMCA, will not get as much money as originally hoped due to the fact that the UW did not achieve its goal.

During the two-week period, four report meetings will be held. The membership committee meets again at the Y Thursday, for the second time on Monday, again on Friday, Feb. 1 and finally Monday, Feb. 4.

District leaders for this year's drive are Paula Talbot, Jim Parks, Earl Archer and Terry Newman. In all, 118 workers will comb the community for prospective members. During the course of the enrollment, workers will be contacting past members, too, along with those who have participated in YMCA programs in other years.

As incentives to the workers, many prizes will be given away. The prizes have been donated by various merchants in the community. As an added incentive, workers will be able to earn play money, which can be used in an auction, which will be shepherded by Dub Bryant, a professional auctioneer.

Those desiring additional information about Y functions and membership rates can contact the Y by dialing 267-8234.

Clements says agency wasteful

Putting mark on education

By JOEL WILLIAMS

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements is putting his mark on higher education in Texas.

He says the academic sector is the "one state agency in which there is more waste than any other." In support of this belief, he has appointed seven anti-spending, Republican members to the 18-member Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

So far, the new members are approaching issues with solidarity as to what should be done. They say they are determined to follow through with Clements' austerity plan for curbing the upward spiral of higher education spending of the past two decades.

Clements' newly appointed board chairman Beryl Buckley Milburn of Austin, says she wants the board to be "tougher," primarily on new construction.

In support of this goal, she has appointed five of six other Clements appointees to committee chairmanships. Only three of the 11 more-experienced but Democratic appointed members have committee chairmanships.

When Milburn, former state Republican vice chairman took office in September, she released a press statement about herself that began, "Stopping short of saying she wants to cut the fat out of higher education, the new chairman of the coordinating board believes that the state's college and university system "can be made leaner and trimmer."

The statement spoke of excesses which should be trimmed. But it also said she was going to study her new job "with no preconceived ideas."

"I think we could spend not one dollar on new construction in the next few years and no student would be turned away for lack of space," she said last week.

She finds support for this view in the recent leveling of university and college enrollments. Between 1965 and 1975, enrollments jumped 120 per cent.

Only a 14 percent increase is expected in the next decade.

And like the governor, she wants to increase tuition rates, raise admission standards, limit expensive graduate programs and narrow the focuses of individual institutions.

Those are not new issues on the board which was created by the 1965 Legislature to achieve "excellence for college education" through the "efficient and effective utilization and concentration of all available resources and the elimination of costly duplication in program offerings, faculties and physical plants."

But Higher Education Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth says, "I think the new members are perhaps more impatient to get results than some of the older members."

And he agrees that Clements is putting his personal mark on the board.

"If the governor wanted to get a handle on higher education, it's quite natural for him to turn to the Coordinating Board," Ashworth said.

"I don't think there's any question that an aggressive governor, with a four-year term and the possibility of a second term, can have a strong effect on state government through his appointments," he says. "We've got an aggressive governor and I think he knows where the handles of power are."

Ashworth says the new members are hard workers and have a good attendance record for meetings.

As a footnote, the commissioner adds that the Clements appointees are more philosophically similar to the older members than many people assume.

A new member with probably the longest working relationship with the governor is Tom B. Rhodes of Dallas, chairman of the board of SEDCO, Inc. That's the giant oil drilling firm Clements founded.

Milburn placed Rhodes, who was Clements' campaign treasurer, as chairman of the Financial Planning and Administration Committee of the Coordinating Board.

He says that such common corporate principles as cost effectiveness and productivity will be applied to Coordinating Board dealings.

"I think you'll find us Clements appointees are good businessmen and we're leaders in our community," says Herbert G. Schiff, chairman of the Committee on Community Junior Colleges and Continuing Education.

While not in absolute agreement with Clements' statements on higher education, Schiff, an independent oil producer and Dallas Republican said, "I feel his point has well-taken. What it takes 10 people to do, I think we could do with eight."

He was Dallas County finance chairman for the Clements campaign.

Paul R. Teague, a member of the board since 1975, says the new members generally voted as a bloc at the board's October quarterly meeting.

Cost overruns in construction projects at state institutions was a hot issue, with new members flatly refusing, generally in unison, to approve additional funding.

Petition presented councilmen

Signals stay, taxpayers pay

By JAMES WERRELL

The traffic signals will remain on Gregg Street, but it will cost the taxpayers money.

During today's regular meeting of the Big Spring City Council, members reversed themselves on the decision to remove seven traffic signals on Gregg. The recommendation to take down the signals came from city officials after a study by the State Department of Public Transportation had been completed.

Since the decision to eliminate the lights, councilmen have received numerous complaints from citizens, and a petition against the idea has been circulated among Gregg Street merchants and their patrons. The petition, containing over 600 signatures, was presented to the council today.

"If we leave those lights on Gregg, we will be required to bring them up to federal standards. That will cost about $2,500 a light," said City Manager Don Davis.

"Up to standard," said Davis, means larger lenses for the signal lights; signals for each directional lane (four lanes-four lights); and new power controllers in most instances. Davis estimated that added cost for the seven endangered signals along Gregg would be $17,500.

Nonetheless, council members voted to absorb the cost and allow the signals to remain.

The council also decided to give the local Halfway House a break on its water bill. During the last six months, the facility has built up an overdue water bill of $2,260.05.

John Bennett, chairman of the board of the Halfway House, today asked the council to write off that debt, while promising that future bills would be paid on schedule.

"How many days does the city give a local citizen to pay his bill before the water is turned off?" asked Councilman Jack Y. Smith.

"Forty-five days," answered Davis. "Well, this one's been due for six months," said Smith.

"I don't see, with the water and sewer fund in the red the way it is, how we can afford to write off that much of a debt," added Councilman Bill Henkel.

The council was accommodating, however. The debt will be placed into a side account with the provision that the Halfway House pays back $50 of it each month in addition to the regular water bill.

The council today passed an ordinance calling for the annual, at-large city election to be held on April 5. Positions to be affected by the election are that of mayor and council members in Place 1 and Place 2.

Mayor Wade Choate has already stated that he will not seek re-election. Councilmen Ralph McLaughlin and Bill Henkel have made no announcement about their intentions.

A low bid of $18,850 was accepted from the ADC Pecos Company for renovation of the Northside Day Care Center. The entire amount will be funded through federal monies received through the Community Development Block Grant Program.

The council passed on first reading a resolution to self-insure public officials liability. According to Davis, a policy with a private company expires Wednesday, and the policy was unsatisfactory to begin with.

"The company ruled that when a city official was found by the courts to be at fault, he was actually acting outside of his official capacity. In essence, the company didn't pay," said the City Manager.

In order to remedy this, the city will insure its own officials.

The council approved a payment of $2,224.44 to Johnny Jay Hall, Chapman Road, for damages to his car, which was struck by a Big Spring Patrol Car on Jan. 4. According to City Attorney Elliott Mitchell, the patrol car was in pursuit of a speeder, and had its lights on, but not its siren, when it collided with Hall's auto.

During his City Manager's Report, Davis called for a council-staff work session at 8 a.m., Feb. 1. Items to be discussed are: a review of the financial condition of the water and sewer system; discussion of a pay plan for city employees and a classification of pay scales; and a review of the security program at the Big Spring Airport and Industrial Park.

Davis also reminded those present that persons have been hired to take a door-to-door survey to count the number of toilets in the city. The surveyor will have a city identification card and other official ID, which should be presented to home owners upon arrival.

Community prayer service to be held here Thursday

Another in a series of community prayer services will be held in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum from 5:30 to 6 p.m., Thursday.

The public is being encouraged to attend. The service will be limited to prayer.

People who are concerned with problems, both local and international, have organized a Pilot Committee for Community Prayer. The committee plans to conduct these type of services periodically as vehicles for spiritual uplift.

The committee is composed of Charles Lusk, Dr. P.W. Malone, Wally Slate, Jack Thompson, Dr. Harold Smith, Bobby West and Lanny Hamby.

Letters have gone out to each pastor in the community informing them of the Thursday meeting and encouraging them to circulate the news about the prayer session.

The first such meeting was held several weeks ago and the response of the citizenry surprised the organizers.

In scheduling the prayer meeting, two of the organizers, Lanny Hamby and Dr. Harold Smith, issued this statement:

"Great problems are facing our nation and the whole world. Prayer is needed in our community. 'The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much' (James 5:16). The greatest weapon this nation has is prayer."

'Sold' sign of ad's success

Those flags marked "sold," which appear atop some classified ads appearing in the Herald, signify the fact that the newspaper has been notified beyond its deadline that ultimate action has been taken by a purchaser.

One such notice appeared in the Herald recently on the third day an ad appeared in the classified section. The purchaser of the ad, who was seeking to sell a Volkswagen Beetle, asked that his ad be so tagged to stop the numerous phone calls he was receiving.

This particular bit of business was a $5 special ad offered by the Herald, another testimonial to the success of such a form of advertising.

If you have something you're trying to sell or buy or would like to advertise a service, call 263-7331 for quickest results. A courteous sales person is prepared to help you.

Two parachutists collide

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) — Two parachutists collided in a practice jump at the Yuma Proving Ground, and one of the jumpers was killed and the other seriously injured, Army officials said.

The two — who were among a group of five or six men who jumped from a plane at 6,700 feet — collided while free falling, knocking one unconscious, officials said Monday. The unconscious man hit the ground without opening his parachute, but the other man was able to open his, officials said.

Names of the two men were withheld until relatives could be told.

Construction workers back

SAN ONOFRE, Calif. (AP) — Construction workers at the San Onofre nuclear plant's $2.5 billion expansion project are back on the job after a wildcat strike sparked by the firing of 13 pipefitters.

Members of the Plumbing, Pipefitting and Refrigeration union obeyed a back-to-work court order Monday. A union spokesman said grievance talks were scheduled with Bechtel Power Corp., the major contractor on the work expanding the plant from one to three nuclear units.

The walkout began Thursday after the pipefitters were fired for allegedly leaving work without their supervisors' permission. The men had claimed working conditions were unsafe.

Summer school alternative

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland school students might have to attend class through the third week in July as an alternative to Saturday classes in order to make up for classtime lost in the 11-week teachers strike.

The extension plan proposed by the Cleveland School Board must be approved by the state legislature.

State law requires that schools hold 180 days of classes before June 30 of each school year, but Board President John E. Gallagher Jr. said Monday the schools cannot meet that deadline without Saturday classes and that a six-day school week would mean overtime pay for the financially strapped district.

Teacher reassigned duty

WASHBURN, Mo. (AP) — Diane Thompson, who was suspended from teaching because she lived with a man for two months before marrying him, is back in school but not with her second-grade pupils.

Mrs. Thompson, 34, returned Monday to Washburn Elementary School in this southwest Missouri town of 250 people. "She has been reassigned temporarily until the board knows what to do with her," said Guy E. Mills, school superintendent.

Mrs. Thompson was suspended in November on a charge of "immorality" after disclosing her living arrangement on a teacher's evaluation form which she said she had considered confidential. She successfully challenged the suspension in U.S. District Court last week.

Police beat Borrowed car never returns

At 12:46 this morning, Bobby Williams still had not returned the vehicle Judy and Bruce Crawford, 704 E. Third, had loaned to him. Williams had promised to have the vehicle back by midnight.

Janet Smith, 509 E. 13th does not know who threatened to harm her family Monday.

Approximately $550 was stolen from the office at Continental Trailways, 311 E. Third, while the manager went to lunch. Police say the building was secure and there were no signs of forced entry.

Bill Chrane reported between Wednesday and Thursday at 12:30 a.m., golf clubs and golf shoes were taken from a storage room at Bill Chrane Auto Sales. There were no signs of forced entry. Value, $450.

Four mishaps were reported Monday.

A parked vehicle owned by Southwestern Pest Control, 2008 Birdwell, was struck by a vehicle driven by Bruce Fernihough, Fort Worth, at the last parking lot of Big Spring High School, time unknown.

A parked vehicle owned by Jasper Atkins was struck by a vehicle which left the scene at 100 Main, time unknown.

Vehicles driven by Eddie Puga, 1604 Owens, and Jana Foreyth, Coronado Hills Apartments, collided at the parking lot of the apartment complex, 4:50 p.m.

Vehicles driven by James Davenport, 308 Aylford and Robert Jones, 1100 N. Aylford, collided at the 200 block of S. Gregg, 8:55 p.m.

City Council releases committee member names

In early December, the Big Spring City Council decided to appoint 80 local citizens to four committees to advise the city about needed capital improvements.

Today, that list of 80 citizens was made public.

The four committees include a streets and storm sewer committee; a parks and recreation committee; a water and sanitary sewer committee; and a public facilities committee. A total of 20 members will serve on each.

The selection process was a long one because each of the five council members was required to appoint four members to each committee, and each prospective member had to be notified for his approval.

Each committee will meet in the near future to begin discussions of what improvements should be made in various areas of the city.

When the suggestions of the committees have been tabulated, the list will be sent to a special economic advisory committee for review. This committee will advise steps to take in calling a bond election to pay for the improvements this spring.

Committee members will then be asked to help "sell" the idea of a bond election to local citizens.

Alcohol fuel plant ceremony

ROSWELL, N.M. — Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held Thursday in Roswell for construction of an alcohol fuel plant in that city.

The plant, to be constructed by Southeastern New Mexico Fuel Alcohol Producers, Inc., will be the first under President Carter's initiative program and will significantly increase the energy efficiency of alcohol production.

major Texas electric utilities filed rate hike requests, all citing the expense of their massive construction programs.

The first three — Texas Electric Service Co. (TESCO), Dallas Power & Light Co. (DPL) and Houston Light & Power Co. (HLP) — asked for 100 percent of CWIP in their rate bases. The sums were $361 million for TESCO, $243 million for DPL and $690 million for HLP.

The Texas Public Utility Commission gave TESCO and HLP 60 percent of CWIP costs and DPL, 80 percent.

Spokespersons for all three say their average residential customers will pay at least $2 a month toward CWIP. Industrial officials say the companies need the money now because they are facing the construction costs now.

SOMEWHAT OF A SURPRISE — Big Springers awakened this morning to a world enveloped by a grey 'overcoat' and a white mantle. A mixture of rain, sleet and snow — which is not exactly what was forecast by the weather birds — besieged the area. Luckily, for motorists, the temperatures didn't dip to the freezing mark although they may plunge into the 20s tonight. This is a view looking north down Gregg Street from about the 2400 block.

Rain, sleet, snow soaks sections in Howard County

Gauges at the Big Spring Experimental Weather Station, located immediately north of town, recorded .75 of an inch of moisture this morning.

That brings the station's measurement for the month of January to .84 of an inch, above normal. The average rainfall during the month over an 80-year period is only .58 of an inch.

Snow was falling today at 9:45 a.m. at the Herald office at 710 Scurry. Rainfall began after midnight and turned to snow later.

This morning's fall, a mixture of rain, sleet and snow, marked the fourth time this month recordable moisture have fallen in Howard County.

In Coahoma, Mrs. Beverly Martin at Coahoma Junior High School reported .5 of an inch of rain.

Mrs. John Couch in Luther said around 3 a.m. today rain fell, then snow. Snow there is around an inch on the ground.

Ten miles north of Big Spring, snow is thick on the ground. Mrs. Ray Walker said they received .6 of an inch in their meter.

Northwest of Big Spring, at the Ackerly Cafe, farmers reported about an inch and a half of moisture that started falling at 12:30 a.m.

It was misting rain at the Wilkinson Ranch, 10 miles west of Big Spring at 9:45 a.m. according to Mrs. Bill McElvain. She said the ground was covered with snow earlier this morning, but had mostly melted at noon. Precipitation began around 5 a.m.

Snow was falling at 9:45 a.m. at the Experimental station. It began falling after midnight as rain had turned to snow later.

Colorado River Municipal Water District reported half of an inch of precipitation in a meter at Lake Thomas.

At the CRMWD pump station north of town, .75 inch of rain was reported. Moss Creek pump station, east of Big Spring, received half an inch.

Lake Thomas also received half an inch.

Lake Spence received .3 of an inch and the pumping station near Stanton received half an inch.

At 14th and Main, an inch of moisture fell last night, according to "Red" Thomas.

In Ackerly, a .50 of an inch was reported, with rain starting, approximately at midnight.

At 3:30 this morning, rain, then snow fell in Flower Grove with .90 of an inch reported.

Martin County reported .50 of an inch beginning 11 p.m. Monday.

Dawson County reported rain and snow measuring 2 inches fell.

Electric bill covers nuclear power not in service

(First of two parts)
By JACKIE CALMES
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

Electric bill covers nuclear power

Early advocates said it would be 'too cheap to meter.'

In Texas, there won't be any nuclear-generated electricity to meter until at least late 1981. But already, annual electric bills for many residential users include up to $25 a year for nuclear plant construction.

The amount is double that when ratepayers' contribution toward utility taxes is figured in, some utility analysts say.

The charge covers a utility's costs of borrowing for construction work in progress, or CWIP. When the utility's rate base, which determines how much customers must pay for service, includes CWIP, the utility earns a return on a multi-million dollar construction project as if it were in service.

But it's not in service, and that's what angers critics of CWIP.

"You're making people pay ahead of time for services they may not get," Austin utility consultant Jack Hopper says. "What if they move away, or die, or the project never gets built?"

Utility representatives argue that present customers' consumption of oil and gas is a major reason the companies have had to convert to plants using alternative fuels such as coal, lignite and nuclear fuels.

The Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council has adopted that industry argument in its recent suggestions for state nuclear policy: "this construction is directly related to serving existing customers and thus provides even greater justification for including CWIP in the rate base."

Critic Hopper says CWIP contributes to cost overruns and delays in nuclear projects.

"There's no discipline, no nothing, because the ratepayers are going to be forced to pay whatever it turns out to be," he says.

At the Texas Public Utility Commission, the body that regulates electric rates, Commissioner Garrett Morris calls such arguments "good ones."

His two colleagues, Chairman George Cowden and Commissioner Moak Rollins, do not. With their support, CWIP has become a standard — if divisive — commission policy.

As an accounting concept, CWIP is not new to utility rate-making. The controversy is new, but perhaps inevitable as CWIP became related to the nuclear issue and grew to larger sums spread over a longer period.

Federal regulators restrict CWIP in interstate rate cases. In 1976, long-standing practice became policy: to earn a return on CWIP, plant must be "used and useful" for serving the public or else the utility must make "a clear showing of financial difficulty."

In 16 states, utility commissions refuse to allow CWIP, citing the "used and useful" guideline.

A 1975 Texas law includes that phrase, along with an exception for utilities whose "financial integrity" is threatened. But the state commission routinely allows CWIP in electric utility rate cases. So do regulatory bodies in another 16 states and Washington, D.C.

Since last summer, five major Texas electric utilities filed rate hike requests, all citing the expense of their massive construction programs.

The first three — Texas Electric Service Co. (TESCO), Dallas Power & Light Co. (DPL) and Houston Light & Power Co. (HLP) — asked for 100 percent of CWIP in their rate bases. The sums were $361 million for TESCO, $243 million for DPL and $690 million for HLP.

The Texas Public Utility Commission gave TESCO and HLP 60 percent of CWIP costs and DPL, 80 percent.

Spokespersons for all three say their average residential customers will pay at least $2 a month toward CWIP. Industrial officials say the companies need the money now because they are facing the construction costs now.

Travelers advisory out for South Plains

By the Associated Press
An upper level disturbance combined with cold air pushing southward early today to trigger a rapidly developing snow storm over the Texas South Plains.

Travelers advisories were posted by the National Weather Service for the South Plains because blowing and drifting snow created hazardous driving conditions.

Forecasters said accumulations of 1 to 3 inches of snow were likely in the South Plains. By 5 a.m., Levelland had 3 inches of snow on the ground, Brownfield had 2 inches and Lubbock had 1.

Elsewhere, foul weather prevailed across all of Texas and forecasts provided little hope of any rapid improvement.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported along middle and upper sections of the Texas coast into North Texas and East Texas. Scattered thunderstorms were also reported from far Southwest Texas into the Concho Valley and rain and drizzle fell across central portions of the state.

Rain is forecast for the mid-Atlantic coast. Warm weather is forecast for Florida and the Southwest but much of the country will be cold.

Forecasts called for occasional snow in Northwest Texas, rain in South Texas and scattered thunderstorms in North Texas and Southwest Texas.

A flash flood watch was in effect in Southeast Texas where heavy rain fell during the night.

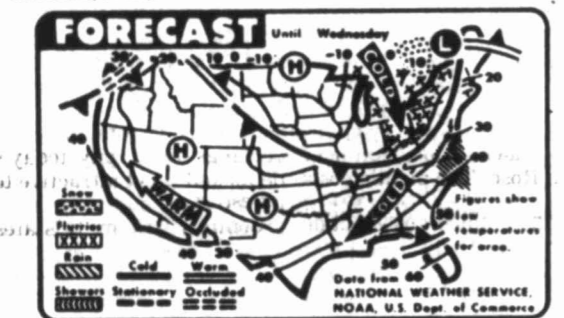

Highs were to range from the mid 30s in Northwest Texas to near 70 in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Most of the state, however, was to have highs in the 40s and 50s.

The heaviest rainfall during the night, according to initial reports, was in San Angelo and Longview where .56 of an inch fell. Many other areas had heavy rainfall, but the reports were not immediately available.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 20s in the Panhandle to the 60s along the coast. Extremes ranged from 29 at both Amarillo and Dalhart to 66 at Beaumont and Port Arthur.

Fear prompts omission of story from statement

By SALLY CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — A teen-ager who drove past Loy Dean Stone's house about the time a 15-year-old girl was shot there has testified a woman warned the carload of boys to leave or she would shoot them.

On cross-examination, however, Emilio Sandoval admitted he had left the incident out of two written statements because he was scared.

Stone, 50, is on trial charged with the Halloween 1977 shotgun slaying of Roxanne Casas. Miss Casas was slain as she sat in a pickup that had pulled into Stone's driveway near Dimmitt in the Texas Panhandle.

His wife, Louise, 49, also has been charged but may be tried separately. Both have pleaded innocent. The murder charge carries a sentence of 5 to 99 years, or life in prison.

The Stones both are high priests in the Church of Wicca, a witchcraft group that believes in reincarnation and psychic phenomena. They say they do not believe in Satan or hell.

Sandoval testified Monday he and four other boys had led the pickup carrying Miss Casas to Stone's house, where they expected to see some "crazy stuff" in the form of witchcraft.

Sandoval, 19, said the boys stopped up the road from the house when they saw the pickup turn off its lights and pull into the Stones' driveway. After two or three minutes, he said, they saw the pickup's tail lights appear on the road so they turned around and headed for the highway.

When the car passed the Stones' house, Sandoval said he saw two shadowy figures and heard a woman's voice say, "We'd better get the hell out of here or I'll shoot you." But Sandoval told defense attorney Travis Shelton that he had left the incident out of one statement and attributed it to "one of the guys" in a second because, "I was scared real bad."

"I was scared that somebody might come from behind you and shoot you," he said, his voice quavering. "I'm still scared."

Maria Trevino, who rode in the truck with Miss Casas and three other students, testified earlier Monday that a large man in a gold shirt came from behind a bush and stood in front of the pickup. Since the truck's headlights were off and there was no other light, she said she could not identify his face.

"He was tall and built big, real big, more than I'd ever seen," she said. "I'd never seen anybody that big."

Miss Trevino said a boy in the truck then pushed her from his lap to the floorboard and told her to stay there. She said she saw and heard nothing of note until they were back on the road.

It was then that "we saw that Roxanne had been shot and we didn't know what to tell her parents," she testified. "There was just a bunch of blood coming off the right side of her head."

Educational system takes body blow

High schools in America didn't come away with very good marks in a report offered by the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education. The research group, after studying the American education system, concluded that one of every three youths is "ill-educated, ill-employed and ill-equipped to make his way in American society."

And the Carnegie group lays the blame squarely at the doorstep of the American educational system.

THIS IS NOT the first body blow public school education has taken. The feeling is widespread among a great many Americans that our educational system is failing. The Carnegie study goes a step farther, however: It offers signposts pointing toward improvements that can be implemented. As the Carnegie study sees it, the problem is that high schools are prolonging 'compulsory youth.' By concentrating on those students planning to continue formal education, the schools are failing to prepare young people to enter the job market immediately upon graduation.

As a substitute, the study recommends increased emphasis on teaching marketable job skills and, perhaps most significantly, on breaking up the 'big, monolithic high school and its deadly weekly routine.'

It seems clear then that to do a better job of preparing young men for life — and not just for more schooling — society should set about to specialize in a much greater degree. A range of smaller alternative high schools, each devoted to particular sets of job skills and free of lock-step curriculum requirements of traditional education, would seem to be a worthwhile goal.

THERE IS A continuing bias in this country against what is called 'vocational education.' We must first of all change that attitudinal cast. It is in neither the nation's interest nor the interest of all our young people that we direct the activities and education of all students towards entry into college. For many young people, conventional courses of study offer only a blind alley — and knowing that, they do poorly. Much of our discipline problem might disappear if we redirected our educational efforts toward recognizable and attainable employment goals.

The purpose of a public school education should be to prepare students for the life that is ahead of them. That purpose, for many, is not being fulfilled — it is not even being paid lip service.

The Carnegie recommendations — for work-study programs, an end to formal education at age 16, apprenticeship programs for 16 and 17-year-olds, exemption of teenagers and their employers from the Social Security tax — would require a drastic overhaul of the educational system, and of our thinking as well. But they seem reasonable and desirable, and could lead, as the study concludes, to expanded opportunities for all Americans.

Professors

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

It has been almost two years now that I last sat through a college lecture class. But I can still remember some of the first professors and, the last, whose lectures I did survive.

Some of the most memorable lectures were those given by my history professors. They were a different sort but their difference kept me interested in the material that was being discussed.

MY FIRST HISTORY professor stands out the most in my mind probably because I had a double dose of him. He taught beginning American History and Civil War history, an elective to complete my history minor requirements. His lectures always contained points of human interest. He drew you into the material by giving the personality traits of the people involved in events that shaped the history of our nation.

His favorite phrase was, "Not only no, but hell no."

The next most memorable professor taught history of world civilization and its beginnings. He was Hungarian and had a bad accent. He also could not write very well on the board and I had the most difficult time taking notes and understanding what he was lecturing about. He also had to talk very fast so that he could cover from the beginning of time up to 1600 in one semester.

I was most impressed by this man on the day that he lectured for one hour and fifteen minutes and covered several hundred years of history without any notes. He had brought the wrong notes with him to class so he lectured from memory. I also liked him because he was very lenient when it came to grading exams. Never once did he subtract points from an essay of mine. That's good considering the essays were worth 50 percent of the test score.

THEN THERE WAS my second year journalism prof. He was a very eccentric fellow. He knew what he was talking about, I suppose, but his lectures were so boring that I took less than a page of notes for every hourly lecture. He could sense that the class was falling asleep on him, so, to regain our attention he would throw erasers, jump on tables and scream as loud as his voice would go. Quite an attention getter.

One professor comes back to haunt me every payday. He was my beginning journalism professor whose favorite line was: "If you're in this business for the money, then you might as well walk out the door right now."

Business as usual

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is pressing President Carter to name William W. Scranton, Republican governor of Pennsylvania 15 years ago, to a critically important European "security" conference in Madrid — showing that in some ways the Carter-Vance team continues business as usual with Moscow.

The Madrid session will review progress in human rights and European "security" promised — and ignored — by Moscow at the 1975 Helsinki conference. Despite his reputation as an admirable establishment liberal Republican of a bygone era, Scranton is viewed by human rights advocates as unqualified for the assignment.

"BILL SCRANTON?" mused one high official asked about the impending appointment. "Frankly, I would prefer Mac Toon." Malcolm Toon is the foreign service Soviet expert who quit as ambassador to the Soviet Union last year, criticizing the administration for being "sloppy" in dealing with the Kremlin. Vance could depend on Scranton, his friend and fellow Yale man, not to roll the waters in Madrid (as Toon might).

Scranton lacks an insider's knowledge of the human rights campaign in the Soviet Union and the shocking fate there of "Helsinki-watch committees." That would seem to suggest presidential caution in naming Scranton, or any outsider, even with business as usual.

Business as usual, however, between Washington and Moscow ended when the Soviet Union's military took over Afghanistan. Some highly respected U.S. officials, past and present, quietly argue that Carter should pull the U.S. out of the Vienna negotiations on European armaments (MBFR) now that the Soviet tanks have rumbled. Others are counseling the administration that even the Madrid meeting on European "security" should be postponed; talking about international "security" with Moscow after the invasion of a sovereign state is demeaning and a sign of weakness.

Such counsel is getting nowhere as yet in the inner councils of the secretary of state. Vance chose Scranton (well before the Soviet killings started in Afghanistan) partly to bar boat-rocking at Madrid by U.S. human rights advocates. He believed Scranton would not be spearpoint for the American human rights constituency as Arthur Goldberg brilliantly was at the first post-Helsinki conference in Belgrade in 1977 — much to Vance's annoyance.

However unfair that may be to independent-minded Bill Scranton, there is no sign so far that the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan has changed Vance's mind. The secretary's calm and constancy contrast with primordial emotions unleashed by Afghanistan and now running high among Americans — and Russians, as well.

For example, Washington correspondent Thomas Kliewinger of the respected West German newspaper Die Welt in an interview published Jan. 14 quoted a ranking (but anonymous) Soviet diplomat mocking Carter's much-advertised "rapid deployment force" to safeguard the Mideast and Persian Gulf oil: "rapid deployment force! What is 'rapid deployment'?" I believe we have demonstrated that in Afghanistan."

THE RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT used blunt language to deride U.S. influence and power in the world today: "The years in which the U.S. had the say as to what could and what could not be done in the world are past, once and for all. We can no longer tolerate Washington behaving as though it were the umpire of contemporary history."

Such views publicly expressed by a disciplined Soviet diplomat would have been unthinkable in any previous U.S.-Soviet crisis. Likewise, the deep hostility to Moscow exhibited by those who want the Vienna arms talks broken off has also reached an emotional high point that seems to have escaped Vance and his inner circle.

That is the background of the proposed Scranton appointment and its nod to business as usual. Vance does not view the Madrid conference as a heaven-sent opportunity for the U.S. to make a weighty case to an international tribunal against Soviet thuggery — denial of human rights at home and military invasion abroad.

How to buy a car

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Do you want to know why automobiles are not rolling these days? I'll tell you why. I was looking for a car the other day to replace a gas guzzler I was unhappy with.

My first stop was at the Banzai dealership.

"I want a small car, comfortable, that won't use up too much petrol."

"Then the Banzai is for you. It has everything a big car has but you never have to fill the tank."

"I'm just looking, mind you," I told him. "I like the styling of the Banzai, but I might also check out a Brusteim XLD."

"I UNDERSTAND," the salesman said, "but I think you ought to know the 1980 Brusteim XLD has had eight recalls so far, and we're still in January."

"I didn't know that. Was it in the papers?" "They keep things like that out of the papers. It seems if you have to stop for a red light, the seatbelt can give you a hernia. If you're looking for something hernia-proof then you should get a Banzai with a sun roof."

I told him I'd be back. I went across the street to inspect a Hara-Kiri Sword. I told the man that a friend of mine had just bought a Sword and seemed happy with it. But I wasn't sure whether I wanted a Sword or a Banzai.

"The Banzai's a very good car," he said, "except the transmission keeps falling out of it. Apparently the people who made it give their workers sake instead of coffee when they take a break. Banzai workers are drunk all the time, except when they're out on strike."

I THANKED HIM FOR the information on the Banzai and told him that although I planned to look at other cars I would probably wind up buying a Sword.

The next showroom I went to displayed the Achtung 489. The salesman told me each Achtung was guaranteed to give 35 miles to the gallon, and the doors could be removed and made into a bed. He asked me what other automobiles I had looked at.

I told him the last one I liked was a Hara-Kiri Sword.

"Do you have a family?" the man asked.

"Yes," I replied, "why do you ask?"

"Nothing," he said. "I just returned from a funeral of a family that had been driving a Hara-Kiri Sword. I still haven't gotten over it. The police said the steering wheel came off as they were parking in a shopping center. God, that family had so much to live for."

"That couldn't happen to an Achtung?" I inquired.

"I wouldn't be selling them if it could," he said, wiping the tears from his eyes.

I don't want you to think I just looked at foreign cars. My next stop was to check out a compact Stars and Stripes Zipper. The salesman took me for a drive in it. He drove past an auto dump filled with wrecked and crushed cars.

"It's full of 1978 Achtungs," the man said.

"Why?" I asked.

"No resale value," he said. "The only reason a dealer will buy them back is for scrap."

I liked the Zipper until the manager of the Rawhide dealership told me the ashtrays on it were wired into the electrical system and every time you put a cigarette out you got a shock. The people at the Hurricane showroom said the Rawhide's bumpers tended to fall off when it snowed, and the Grunt car dealer said the Hurricane had never been able to make it through a pothole without both axles breaking.

'Conversation hysteria'

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am interested in finding out all I can about a rather rare mental disorder called "conversion hysteria." I don't seem to be able to find much in the medical books.

A member of my family has had this diagnosis made and I would like some brief reference to go on. — Mrs. B.W.

Conversion hysteria is a neurotic illness in which psychological problems are translated into physical complaints. It can take many forms, from abdominal complaints to paralysis, even blindness. It is an illness that requires psychiatric treatment. This family member should not be ridiculed because a physical cause of his symptoms cannot be found.

There are almost endless varieties and degrees of such conditions. I once had a patient confide to me that he developed abdominal symptoms after calling in to his boss, telling him (untruthfully) that he had stomach flu.

In his recent book, Dr. Henry Kissinger relates an interesting anecdote regarding his famous secret trip to China several years ago. To protect the secrecy he was to feign a stomachache, which would provide a cover for his mysterious two-day disappearance. On the plane headed toward his destination, he recalls, he, indeed, did develop a stomachache.

Psychologists might describe these as mild and harmless forms of conversion hysteria. For others they can represent a serious and debilitating psychological illness.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is the cholesterol found in eggs any worse than that found in other food? In other words, should I just flat out stop eating eggs? My cholesterol test shows I am normal. I am 57 and never had a sick day in my life, but all I read about eggs gives me worry. — F.F.

If you are 57, never had a sick day in your life and your cholesterol level is in normal range, you should have no diet concerns. You must have been doing a lot of right things up to now. To your question: Cholesterol is the same no matter where you find it. Eggs simply contain more of it per ounce than other foods. Blood fats and their sources are discussed further in the booklet, "How to Control Cholesterol Sensibly." To order a copy mail 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have recently read about a medical technique called "plasmapheresis." I believe it involves taking poisons out of the blood with a machine, then returning the blood to the patient. Can you explain or comment? — B.S.W.

Plasmapheresis is a relatively new and remarkable medical procedure that holds out much hope for the future in a number of certain diseases.

It is particularly useful in removing unwanted substances, such as certain antibodies, from blood plasma by simply removing the plasma, then returning the rest of the blood. The whole blood is removed and placed in a centrifuge (which whirls it around rapidly) until the plasma is separated. Since antibodies are contained in plasma, removing it removes them.

This technique has been used in some ailments involving "autoimmune" problems — those in which the body creates antibodies against its own tissue. An example — myasthenia gravis.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is menopause at

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I come from a family with strong religious convictions, although they are not Christian. When I became a Christian several months ago, they almost downed me, and now they are putting pressure on me to renounce my faith in Christ. Am I doing the right thing by staying a Christian, even if it divides me from my parents and brothers? — G.D.

DEAR G.D.: I know it is not easy for you to face this pressure and it must hurt you a great deal to have your family treat you like this. But you are doing the right thing; you have committed yourself to the truth. Jesus said, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me" (John 14:6). Jesus Christ is God's way of salvation, and you have committed yourself to one who is the very Son of God. "Salvation is found in no one else, there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).

The decision you face is a very age 38 considered too soon? Would that be premature? — B.V.

Not necessarily. There is no specific cutoff date after age 35. Any cessation of menstruation prior to age 35 would have to be considered premature. If it was caused by surgical removal of the ovaries or uterus the menopause would be called "surgical menopause."

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had my teenager in for an examination because he has always been overweight. We thought it might be a gland problem, which I've heard can be a root cause. After the examination, the doctor said, no, his glands are all fine. He said he just eats too much and doesn't get enough exercise. On his report he said his fat was "endogenous." What did that mean? — Mrs. F.K.

It means that the fat is from over-eating and underexercising.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his invaluable booklet, "Make Menopause Easier." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Obesity, a woman's dilemma

Obesity is a greater problem for women than men, said William McGanity, professor of obstetrics and gynecology, University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

For many women, their weight gain can be directly associated with the number of children they have had and several socio-economic factors.

"Seventy-five percent of the American women are not nursing their babies, which is an increase from ten years ago. When they go on the pill, the six to eight pounds of fat they have added during the pregnancy for nursing the baby becomes a permanent residual," said the obstetrician.

Ninety years ago, women were told by their doctors to restrict their weight gain so the baby could fit through the pelvis at birth. Caesarian sections, for surgical delivery of the baby from the abdomen, were unknown at the time. As advanced birth techniques were developed, mothers-to-be were encouraged to eat more than normal amounts to ensure a big, and what was thought to be a healthy baby.

But this encouragement to gain weight has gone too far, said McGanity. Women are gaining up to 60 pounds, only about 15 pounds of which come off in the birth process.

Statistically, babies are within one percentile or so of the average birth weight several decades ago. However, gaining a lot of weight does more harm for the mother than benefits the child. The smart woman will gradually increase her calories during pregnancy.

During the first trimester a pregnant woman only needs an increase of 10 calories per day. Because of the growth of the fetus the second trimester requires 100 calories, and the last three months the expectant mother needs at least 300 additional calories every day, said McGanity. The result is a 20-25 pound weight gain, sixteen pounds of which must be present to support the child. The remaining weight is fluid, with six to eight pounds stored in fat for nursing the baby.

A nursing mother will need approximately 1,000 extra calories every day, half of which should come from the diet and the rest from the mother's stored fat, said McGanity.

"Another aspect of the weight gain is that many women do not reduce their intake after pregnancy, but keep consuming the additional 300 calories daily," said the obstetrician.

Some socio-economic factors encourage women at all levels to become obese.

"As children, we've been led to believe that it's a sin to leave food on the plate. For bottle fed babies it's the same. The child needs to drink the last ounce in the bottle. You don't see breast fed babies being forced to have more," McGanity said.

"Another factor is that medically-indigent patients were expected to get pregnant, which they did," said McGanity referring to people on welfare.

There are 32 factors which influence the birth weight of children, McGanity told newspaper and magazine food editors attending the 5th Annual Nutrition Press Symposium.

Some of these factors are:

- how much weight the mother gains during pregnancy;
- the woman's height and weight prior to pregnancy;
- previous babies of low birth weight;
- smoking one or more packages of cigarettes each day can decrease the weight of the baby by 200 grams (approximately 7 ounces);
- 2 drinks of alcohol per day decreases the baby's weight by 160 grams (6 ounces); and -feeding intervention programs such as WIC (Women, Infants and Children) can increase the child's weight. "However, the best way women can prevent mother-child obesity is to nurse their children," said McGanity. Dairy Council, Inc. and Texas Cattle Feeders Association are non-profit organizations committed to good nutrition, sponsored the annual symposium. "What is this Thing called Fat."

Dear Abby

A 1-Karat Millstone

DEAR ABBY: Our very pretty and bright 18-year-old daughter (I'll call her Nancy) graduated from high school last May. She decided to stay home and work for a year before going to college. Nancy met a 29-year-old professional man about six months ago and they started dating. (I'll call him Paul.) They never actually went steady, but Paul gave her a big rush.

Well, for Christmas, Paul surprised Nancy with a beautiful one-karat diamond ring. It came as a big shock to Nancy because she wasn't even considering marriage with Paul. In fact, she told me she hated to kiss him because he had a bad case of halitosis!

When Nancy saw the ring, she told Paul she didn't think she should accept it, but he started to cry, so she kept it because she didn't want to hurt his feelings.

Nancy is sure she doesn't want to be engaged, but every time she tries to return the ring, Paul cries, and talks her into keeping it.

Nancy is very tender-hearted and Paul is very persuasive, so do you think it would be alright if Nancy's father returned the ring to Paul?

POST-CHRISTMAS DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: No! Nancy should return the ring to Paul herself, and if he cries, he cries. It's time Paul learned that he can't buy whatever he wants with tears and diamonds. And Nancy needs to learn that people who "give in" in order to avoid hurting someone's feelings, usually end up hurting themselves. (P.S. About Paul's halitosis: Someone should tell him.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a 76-year-old aunt to whom I have been very close ever since I was a child. She has a heart condition and is making preparations for her last will and testament.

My problem is that I am not mentioned in her will. She has a lot of property and assets. She came right out and told me that she was leaving everything to her two sons and their children! I know this for a fact because she has discussed it with me.

Abby, since my aunt moved to Florida, I have taken her out to dinner faithfully, once a week. (She is a widow.) I have also taken her shopping every weekend. I handle all her paper work, pay her bills, cash her checks and even look after her home. (I walkpapers her home.) I could not have been more attentive to my own mother.

I am very hurt to think that she is not leaving me a dime. Should I tell her how I feel, or keep quiet? And, by the way, Abby, whom do you think she asked to drive her to the lawyer about her will? You're right — me!

HURT IN ORLANDO

DEAR HURT: Keep quiet. Your disappointment is understandable, but it's her money and she has the right to do whatever she wishes with it.

Do you feel left out? There are secrets to developing the art of making yourself popular. You're never too young or too old to learn. Get Abby's booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cent) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Mrs. Jerry Dudley gives book review

The 1948 Hyperion Club met at the Big Spring Country Club with Mrs. H.W. Smith and Mrs. Hayden Griffith serving as hostesses.

Mrs. Rollin Bishop, president, presided over a short business meeting.

The book, "Travels with Henry," by Richard Valeriana, was reviewed by Mrs. Jerry Dudley. She recounted the lighter moments of his long association with Henry Kissinger as his press representative.

Valeriana stated in his book that Kissinger was terrified to fly and thought rough weather was the pilot's fault.

"Valeriana is convinced that Kissinger's diplomacy was successful because of his personality and sheer stamina sustained by constant snacks," Mrs. Dudley revealed.

Kissinger was able to make friends with disparate types of people and when they came to trust him, they trusted his government.

Mrs. Dudley explained that when Kissinger first went to Saudi Arabia, King Faisal gave him a diatribe about Jews and said he was receiving him not as a Jew,

Moore trying it again

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Tyler Moore, whose first Broadway bid bombed, is trying again in "Whose Life Is It Anyway?"

The original play, as performed last year by Toni winner Tom Conti, centered on a man paralyzed from the neck down in a car crash.

"I'm looking forward to it," Miss Moore said. "It's another level of relationship because the role will now be played by a woman. Some say it is not as important for a woman to lose her sexuality as it is for a man. But of course, that's not true."

"I look at the character as being a very aggressive, sexually active person. And that's the way I'll play her."

Miss Moore's Broadway debut 15 years ago in "Breakfast at Tiffany's" closed in previews.

Royal family caught too

LONDON (AP) — Britain's royal family may have to cut back on housekeeping expenses.

Cabinet Minister John Biffen, chief secretary to the Treasury, told the House of Commons on Monday that the royal family headed by Queen Elizabeth II won't escape Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's drive to cut government spending.

One Tory lawmaker protested that to reduce the royal allowance for official expenses would "devalue a major British institution." But a Laborite argued: "No one should be protected against inflation — the royal family has plenty of fat to live on."

Pops new leader debuts

BOSTON (AP) — Slipping gradually away from the legend of the late white-haired Arthur Fiedler, the Boston Pops steps out tonight under the lead of a red-bearded devotee of movie music.

John Williams, winner of three Oscars for scores for "Star Wars," "Jaws," and "Fiddler on the Roof," is conducting the Pops in concert for the first time as its director.

Williams says he plans to play more movie music with the Pops. "I want to encourage people to write new music in the popular and light field," he said Monday.

Presidential visit ended

DAVAO CITY, Philippines (AP) — President and Mrs. Ferdinand Marcos canceled a planned political visit to Davao City after grenade blasts killed eight persons here in four days, authorities said.

Tiny flags already had been passed out to school children for the welcome ceremony when the cancellation was announced today.

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, were to have campaigned here for candidates of their New Society Movement who are running in local elections to be held Jan. 30.

Oil strike negotiations shifted to local level

HOUSTON (AP) — H.J. McClain, regional director of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, says negotiations in a strike by the union have been shifted to local levels in hopes of breaking a deadlock in the two-week-old walkout.

Bargaining previously had been conducted at the union's headquarters in Denver by a single set of negotiators. The union's national bargaining committee still must approve all contract offers, McClain said.

The OCAW strike, which involves about 60,000 workers nationally, started Jan. 8 in a dispute over wage and fringe benefits.

McClain said negotiations started Sunday at area Gulf Oil Co. plants, including the company's largest refinery at Port Arthur.

"The negotiations with Gulf have been remanded to the local levels for further exploration of ideas," McClain said. "This method should help us handle more ideas."

McClain said he saw no particular significance in the shift in negotiating procedure. "It just gives us a broader discussion of the issues," he said.

Meanwhile, about 540 OCAW local 4-14 oil field workers for Amoco Production Co. in East Texas and along the Texas coast joined the strike.

Another 750 members of OCAW local 4-16 in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico were scheduled to strike on Sunday, but canceled those plans. A spokesman for the group said the walkout still was possible after the company had received a 72-hour notice.

Amoco offered workers in the East and West Texas divisions a "me too" clause whereby non-striking members would receive the same benefits as those on strike. Local 4-14 rejected the offer. Local 4-16 also declined the offer, but later withdrew its strike notice.

OCAW spokesman Dan Edwards of Corpus Christi declined comment on the different decisions.

"It's just simply a matter of strategy," Edwards said. "There are all kinds of reasons that you do things in a strike."

Clements entertains Mexican governor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements entertains his counterpart from the Mexican state of Nuevo Leon today in the first of a series of meetings Clements hopes to have here with Mexican border state governors.

Gov. Alfonso Martinez was to be Clements' guest at a luncheon and visits to tourist attractions before flying back to Mexico late in the afternoon.

Clements had scheduled a visit Nov. 28 from Gov. Oscar Flores Tapia of Coahuila, but the trip was postponed.

Clements visited the four Mexican states bordering Texas last year to discuss with their governors issues that included illegal aliens, the drug traffic and energy.

He also traveled to Mexico City for conferences with President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Martinez Dominguez' schedule here includes a one-hour private meeting with Clements, a tour of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library with Lady Bird Johnson as guide and a late afternoon news conference.

Coping with your income tax-II

Unmarried couples to get income tax break

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Why are you making us live in sin?" the angry taxpayer asked. "Why can't I deduct this charitable contribution?" another writer wanted to know.
Day in and day out, letters stream into the Treasury Department. Come tax time, the stream becomes a deluge.
The federal tax system doesn't invite sin, but it permits married couples only a $3,400 standard deduction (now called a zero bracket amount). Unmarried couples can take standard deductions totaling $4,600.
For many two-income couples, that's enough reason to stay unmarried. And, of course, you can deduct charitable contributions, but only if you itemize. Otherwise, says Treasury, it would be a windfall to non-itemizers who get a standard deduction anyway.

Following are several complaints, or questions, taxpayers frequently bring to Treasury's attention.
"Even after withholding so much, I still owe taxes."
The IRS tries to match the amount withheld with the amount owed, but this is not always possible. You may earn additional income that isn't subject to withholding, or you may forget to claim the proper number of withholding exemptions at work.
Having too little tax withheld is a particular problem when both the husband and wife work — a very common situation in these inflationary times when two incomes are needed to make ends meet.

Withholding tables assume that each spouse is the sole wage earner and that the other spouse has small or no earnings. So at the end of the year, a couple may owe more taxes than the total withheld by their separate employers.
The same predicament may face a person who takes a second job.
The IRS recommends that, in the future, you either reduce the number of exemptions claimed for withholding purposes, request withholding at the higher single person's level, or ask your boss to hold back for taxes an extra amount of your salary each week.
"I purposely had less tax withheld each week; now I learn I may have violated the law."

The IRS requires that you estimate and pay what you owe by the end of the year. This assures a regular flow of revenues into the Treasury to pay for government expenses.
It also keeps those who underwithhold from having an unfair advantage over other taxpayers. Otherwise, they could take that money and invest it, earning interest that Uncle Sam doesn't offer.

"Why should unemployment benefits be taxed?"
This is the first year that some unemployment compensation can be taxed. Generally, only people earning substantial other income will be affected.
The government taxes one half of the unemployment compensation that brings your adjusted gross income above $20,000, if you file individually, or $25,000, if you file jointly.

For example, if you earned $19,000 in 1979, and then received $2,000 in unemployment compensation when you were laid off, you will be taxed on $1,000 of that compensation.
"Inflation is killing senior citizens on fixed incomes. What tax breaks do we have?"
There are numerous provisions aimed at reducing the tax burden of people 65 or over. Social Security and railroad retirement benefits are not taxed. A person also gets a special tax credit and an additional personal exemption worth $1,000, if they are age 65 or older.

In addition, anybody 55 or older can exclude, for once-in-a-lifetime, up to $100,000 of the gain on a home sale.
"It's hard enough to save today. Why isn't interest on savings tax-exempt?"
While it isn't exempt this year, the odds are improving that it may be soon. Congress is considering numerous plans to help the small saver. One proposal, for example, would exclude $200 in savings interest for an individual and $400 for couples filing jointly.

Until such a law, however, here's the official Treasury explanation:
"Excluding some or all interest income from taxation would pose significant equity problems by giving it a preferential status compared with income from wages, salaries and other sources. In addition, most of the benefits from the preference would go to higher income taxpayers."

American patience 'not unlimited,' Carter says

By The Associated Press
President Carter extended an olive branch to Iran's revolutionary regime despite the continued captivity of the American hostages in Tehran. But he warned Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's forces that America's patience is "not unlimited."
There was no immediate response from Iran. Earlier Monday, Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh lumped American imperialism and Soviet communism together as threats to his country.
Meanwhile, the approximately 50 hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran began their 80th day in captivity.
Carter in his State of the Union message to Congress said the United States has "no basic quarrel with the nation, the revolution or the people of Iran."
"The threat to them comes not from American foreign policy but from Soviet actions in the region," the president declared.
Carter said his government is "prepared to work with the government of Iran to develop a new and mutually beneficial relationship. But that will not be possible so long as Iran continues to hold Americans hostage, in defiance of the world community and civilized behavior. They must be released unharmed."
The president said the U.S. government so far has "pursued a measured program of peaceful diplomatic and economic steps in an attempt to resolve this issue without resorting to other remedies available to us under international law."
"But our patience is not unlimited, and our concern for the well-being of our fellow citizens grows every day," he warned.

Ghotbzadeh in a broadcast presidential campaign speech said Iran's borders "are in danger" because of the presence of Soviet troops in Afghanistan. He said Iran is "ready to render every assistance for putting an end to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan ... and in order to safeguard the interests of our country we should take decisive action on the Soviet threat."
However, he gave no hint of any specific action.
Ghotbzadeh was one of eight men on the final list of candidates, broadcast by Tehran Radio, for the presidential election Friday.
The others were Finance Minister Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, considered by some observers to be the front runner; Culture and Education Minister Hassan Habibi; Adm. Ahmad Madani, the governor of oil-rich Khuzistan Province who has been suppressing attempts at rebellion by the Arab population there; former Deputy Premier Sadegh Tabataba'i; Mohammad Mokri, the ambassador to Moscow; Minister of State Darius Faruher and former Health Minister Kazem Sami.
Tehran Radio also reported that an Iran Air Boeing 727 carrying 128 persons crashed into the mountains Monday as it approached Tehran on a flight from Mashhad, in eastern Iran. The broadcast said all aboard were believed killed, but heavy fog and deep snow was hampering the recovery of the bodies.

SLOW TRAFFIC — A line of elephants bound for the circus in Miami Beach was the only traffic on the Venetian Causeway Monday during the time it took the pakyderms to make their way from Miami to the Convention Center where they will perform starting today.

Military buildup top goal for 1980, message reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says Americans "must pay whatever price is required to remain the strongest nation in the world."
In a written State of the Union message delivered to Congress Monday, the president took a hard line toward the Soviets and placed a U.S. military buildup first among American goals for the 1980s.
"The Soviet Union has built a war machine far beyond any reasonable requirements for their own defense and security," Carter said.
To counter it, he said, defense spending will be boosted 3 percent, after accounting for inflation, and alliances will be strengthened. Plans for an increase of that size had been announced previously. More measures will be outlined by Carter in his

State of the Union speech Wednesday night.
In another part of his speech, Carter appeared to be willing to extend an olive branch to Iran if the Americans hostages being held there are freed unharmed.
He said the administration was prepared to develop "a new and mutually beneficial relationship" with the regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini if the hostages are released.
"We have no basic quarrel with the nation, the revolution or the people of Iran," the president said.
"The threat to them comes not from American policy but from Soviet actions in the region."
At the same time, Carter reaffirmed his abhorrence at the Nov. 4 seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and insisted that "our patience is not unlimited and our concern for the well-being of our fellow citizens grows every day."

Condemning the Soviets in Cold War terms, the president accused the Kremlin of "ruthless extermination" of the last government in Afghanistan and said they were now within striking distance of the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf.
In response, Carter said, the United States is prepared to "confront the threats they may pose to our security."
The president did not directly mention the prospect of going to war, but a senior administration official told reporters at the White House that "when we say we are prepared to use force to defend our interests in that part of the world, we mean it."
The official said U.S.-Soviet relations were in "a period of intensified tensions" and the American public "has got to understand this is a long-haul effort."
At the same time, he said, the administration and the news media "should avoid an impression we are on the brink of some military confrontation."
Although more than 100 reporters — including some from China, West Germany, Great Britain and other countries — attended the briefing, the official insisted he not be named.
Neither he nor Carter indicated the long-term cost of the U.S. military buildup, which includes new nuclear weapons, a bigger navy, and development of a rapid deployment force.

Inflation hits your electric bill just as hard as it does your grocery bill.

Every time you go to the grocery store you can see what inflation's doing to your food bill. But because you don't buy electricity by the can, you probably don't realize how inflation affects the cost of electricity.
Fuel costs are going up, particularly natural gas. Equipment costs are up. Power lines, transformers and poles cost us more every day. Just like milk costs you more every day.
The millions of dollars we must borrow to build plants to ensure your electricity needs in the future are costing us more.
The cost of building these plants is higher, too, because of inflation. And because of the time and money it takes to comply with an ever-increasing number of government regulations. The longer it takes to build, the more inflation takes its toll.

Inflation, overregulation and rising fuel costs are all making your electricity cost you more. But by using electricity wisely you can do your part in keeping that cost down in your home.
At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for.

Wallace, Akins lead Hawks past Clarendon

The Howard College Hawks continued their one-two punch of Mike Wallace and Ron Akins in taking an 83-72 win over the Clarendon Bulldogs in a Western Conference game played Monday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Wallace and Akins combined for nearly two-thirds of the Howard College points, as they totaled for 55. The win gives the Hawks a WJC record of 2-4 and a season mark of 10-8. Clarendon, a much improved outfit over last year, falls to 0-7 in Western Conference play and is 3-14 on the year.

The game was close throughout, with Akins 15 first half points and Wallace's free throw shooting providing Coach Harold Wilder's team with a 42-40 halftime advantage.

The Hawks quickly established control of the contest in the second half, as Wallace and Jeff Faubion shot the host team into a 51-44 lead with 16:50 remaining and a 59-50 lead with just under 13 minutes left.

Midland College rallies by OC

MIDLAND — The nation's fourth ranked junior college team, Midland College, rallied from a six-point deficit with five minutes remaining to take a 78-73 win over Odessa College in a Western Conference game here Monday night.

The win gives the Chaps a season mark of 18-1 and a WJC mark of 7-0, while Odessa drops to 5-2 in conference play and 13-5 on the season.

At this point, the Hawks were in foul trouble, as both Akins and 6'6" Kenneth Jones had four fouls each. Wilder then ordered a four-corner offense in order to slow down the tempo and run time off the clock, while allowing his big men to stay in the contest entering the latter stages of the game.

Throughout the final ten minutes of the contest, guard Rocky Rawls controlled the floor game, while Wallace and Akins took total control of the backboards in keeping the scrappy Clarendon team from coming any closer than within five points.

Clarendon could get off but one shot on most offensive occasions in the second half, as Akins, the WJC's leading rebounder, and Wallace continually had carom position.

Wallace, the Dallas Pinkston sophomore who entered the contest as the fifth leading juco scorer in the nation, connected for a game high 30 points. Akins added 25 for HC, with Faubion chipping in with 10.

Barry Kirk led the Clarendon team with 17 points.

The Hawks now venture to the road for a four-game stand that could make or break the HC crew in regard to a spot in the Region V Tournament, which will be held in Midland in early March.

Howard College will visit NMMI on Wednesday, then play at New Mexico JC on Thursday. Next week will find the Hawks at both Amarillo and Frank Phillips.

"These next four games are against teams that we must beat in order to gain a spot in the Region V Tourney," stated Wilder. "Nearly our entire February schedule is at home, so if we can do well on this road trip, I feel that we'll be in good position for qualifying for the tournament."

But Super Bowl MVP is not ready to retire

Bradshaw tired after long season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trucks have hauled off mountains of empty beer cups and hot dog wrappers from Pasadena's Rose Bowl, the talk in local bars returned to Iran and the Russians and the price of gas, and the last diehard reveler has finally shaken off the morning after. Super Bowl XIV, one of the best of the National Football League championship games, is now left to the sports historians and brooding armchair quarterbacks.

NFL fans and television watchers who feel overdone after four preseason games, 16 regular-season games, a minimum of two playoff games and one Super Bowl may feel the way Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw does.

"Right now I'm just tired of football," said Bradshaw, Super Bowl XIV's Most Valuable Player whose two long touchdown passes led the Steelers to a 31-19 victory over the Los Angeles Rams last Sunday.

Following the game, an exhausted Bradshaw said he wanted to think about "football and what it means to me," and gave other indications he was pondering retirement. But in an MVP press conference Monday, he said he had no more thoughts of quitting.

"I know I talked about retiring after the game," said Bradshaw, 31. "But later on I had a meeting with Jack Lambert and Joe Greene, and," he continued, smiling, "considering how important my health is to me, I am definitely going to play for the Pittsburgh Steelers next year and have officially ended all thoughts of retiring."

Although perhaps anticlimactic, there is one NFL game left in the '1979 season," next Sunday's Pro Bowl in Honolulu, with Bradshaw one of the competing all-stars.

In Monday's separate press conferences for Coach Chuck Noll, whose Steelers have collected four Super Bowl rings in the past six years, and two-time Super Bowl MVP Bradshaw, each was asked if he considered the Steelers a dynasty. "Dynasty? Isn't that someone you eat?" Noll joked. Then he added, "The facts speak for themselves."

Bradshaw tiptoed around the question too, pointing out that there are too many good teams in the NFL and mentioning Dallas, Los Angeles, Houston and New England.

But asked his definition of a dynasty, he smiled and replied: "Winning the Super Bowl four times in six years."

The Rams, moving to a new location — Anaheim Stadium — next season, are already thinking about Super Bowl XV in New Orleans.

"We didn't get it this time, but we'll get another shot at it," said Rams Coach Ray Malavasi.

"Pittsburgh was one or two plays better," said Los Angeles offensive tackle Doug France. "But we proved we can play football with anybody, and we know we can beat anybody. We'll be back."

Young Rams quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who completed 15 of 25 passes with one interception in a poised Super Bowl performance, said, "We'll get another chance... and it would be nice to get another chance at Pittsburgh."

BRADSHAW ON "GOOD MORNING AMERICA" — Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw strikes a pensive pose during a Monday morning session on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" show. With the Super Bowl MVP for the second straight season is his wife, JoJo Starbuck.

OHS topples Steerettes

ODESSA — The Odessa High Lady Bronchos used the 29-point performance of Teresa Adams to cruise past the Big Spring Steerettes in a District 5-AAAA girls basketball game here Monday night.

The contest was the first in the second half for both schools.

Adams did more than score 29 points, as her presence was felt in all aspects of the game.

The OHS crew jumped out to a 14-6 lead after the first stanza and were never threatened thereafter.

Besides Adams, Lorette Johnson chipped in with 15 points.

Pam Banks led the Big Spring team with 14 points, while Candy Walker chipped in with eight.

Big Spring returns to action on Thursday when they play host to San Angelo Central in an 8:00 p.m. match.

The Big Spring junior varsity did win, however, taking a 41-24 triumph. Linda Magers paced the Steerette JVs with 19 points.

Score by quarters: 4 15 27 39

Big Spring — Walker 4-0-8; Banks 4-14; Wheel 2-0-4; D. Billalba 1-3-5; Jackson 1-0-2; Dixon 2-0-4; Pagan 0-0-0; Russell 1-0-2; TOTALS 17-39

Odessa — Adams 12-29; Johnson 7-15; Weatherman 4-1-9; Hamilton 1-1-1; Baker 5-0-10; Rumbough 1-0-2; TOTALS 29-46

TCU's Browder gains SWC honor

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Christian guard Darrell Browder, an all-state player at Fort Worth's Dunbar High School, Monday was named Southwest Conference basketball Player of the Week in the closest balloting of the season.

Eleven players were mentioned for the weekly honor, with Browder winning on the strength of his performance in TCU's road win over Southern Methodist on Saturday.

Browder scored a season high 24 points against the Mustangs, hitting 10 of 17 from the field and 4 of 4 from the free throw line.

He got three votes to lead the crowded field. Five players got two votes apiece, in balloting conducted by the SWC office, and five others got one vote each.

Runnels feds lose to Andrews JHS

ANDREWS — The Andrews Junior High eighth grade girls basketball team topped the Runnels Red team here Monday evening by a score of 30-24.

The Runnels team, now 6-4 for the season, was led in scoring by Laura Baum's 15 points. Monette Wise added four points, with Tina Hillyer and Jana Matthews adding two each, and Vicki Halfmann one.

The Runnels team plays at Lamesa on Thursday.

Andrews JHS boys stop Runnels Red

The Andrews Junior High School boys basketball team held off a furious Runnels Red rally to escape with a 43-40 win in action here Monday evening.

The game was a loosely called affair, with the Yearlings Jerry Wright scoring 17 points and adding 15 rebounds, while Juan Williams scored 18 points and had 18 rebounds. But that was nearly the extent of the Runnels attack, as Jimmy Brown added three points and Mark Johnson two.

AMERICANS NARROWLY FAVOR OLYMPIC PULLOUT — These two graphs show the results of a poll conducted Thursday and Friday by the Associated Press and the National Broadcasting Company which asked whether the respondents thought that the Olympics should be moved from Moscow, and if not, should the U.S. boycott the games. Most Americans support moving the games out of the Soviet Union.

Coahoma fish sweep C-City

TO CONTINUE WINNING

COAHOMA — The Coahoma ninth grade basketball teams continued their winning ways by sweeping a pair of contests from Colorado City.

The Coahoma girls used 14 point efforts from Julie Nairn and Pam Riddle to cruise to a 43-16 win. The decision gave the Coahoma team a record of 9-1.

The Coahoma boys then used a 21 for 30 performance from the free throw line to take a 49-42 win over Colorado City. Rodney Whitworth led the Bulldog charge with 20 points, with Robert and Bruce Walker chipping in with 11 and nine points, respectively. The Coahoma boys are now a sparkling 9-0 on the season.

Both of the Coahoma teams return to play Reagan County at home next Monday.

Local action tonight

Steers host Odessa

The Big Spring Steers boys basketball team should have their best chance of the current season to register a District 5-AAAA win tonight when they play host to the Odessa High Bronchos in Steer Gym at 8:00 p.m.

Both teams sport identical season records of 5-15, but OHS has a 5-AAAA mark of 1-4, while the Steers are 0-5. The Bronchos defeated San Angelo in overtime, while the Steers have yet to play the Bobcats.

Big Spring is showing improvement, however, as they led highly rated Abilene Cooper throughout most of the first half of last Friday's loss.

Steer Coach Ed Haller will employ the services of Cesar Espinosa, Brocky Jones, Fletcher Johnson, Dickie Wrightsil, Robert Rubio, Blake Rosson, Ricci Millaway, and possibly James Doss.

Queens host Clarendon

The Howard College Hawk Queens, fresh from an important overtime win over Odessa College, host the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs tonight in a 7:00 p.m. Western Conference encounter in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Queens moved to within one-half game of league leading Odessa College in their 89-88 win over OC last Thursday, and a win tonight would help keep Coach Don Stevens crew in the quest for the WJC lead.

Currently, the Queens are 3-1, as is Western Texas, in WKC play. Odessa is 4-1, while the talented Amarillo College team is 1-2.

Clarendon College enters tonight's contest with a conference record of 0-2 and a season mark of 4-6. Clarendon is led by Butler, who leads the WJC in rebounding with a per game average of 15.1. The leading scorers for Clarendon are Morse and Lamb, who each average just over 13 points per game.

Coahoma visits Wylie in key game

WYLIE — The Coahoma Bulldogs boys basketball team can clinch the first half title of the District 6-AA tonight when they visit Abilene Wylie here tonight.

The Bulldogs are currently 6-0, entering the final game of the first half. Wylie, meanwhile, is 3-3 in the first half action.

Olympic situation has mixed reactions

A 12-member Amateur Athletic Union boxing team was to leave for Moscow today to begin a three-city exhibition tour — though a State Department spokesperson said such trips "should be discouraged."

"We tried to make it clear to the kids that if they had any reservations, don't go," said Col. Don Hull, boxing liaison officer for the AAU, who disclosed heavyweight Jimmy Clark of Philadelphia had exercised that option.

"Jimmy told me this afternoon he thought he'd sit this one out," Hull said Monday by telephone from Arlington, Va. "It was a personal choice. I didn't pressure him or make a big deal out of it."

Attempts to reach Clark for comment were unsuccessful.

The tour slates matches in the Soviet cities of Moscow on Jan. 26, Tblisi on Jan. 30 and Vilnius on Feb. 2, and Hull said, "The latest information we had was there was no (governmental) objection" to the team completing the trip that has been scheduled since January, 1979.

However, President Carter called Sunday for the movement, postponement or cancellation of the Summer Games if Soviet troops are not removed from Afghanistan within a month. And State Department spokesperson Susan Pittman said Monday: "The boxing competition in the Soviet Union is the type of bilateral activity which we believe should be discouraged."

Meanwhile, worldwide reaction from athletes and government spokespersons alike remained uniform only in its adamance. Virtually all respondents — whether for or against a prospective American Olympic boycott — were clear in their stance.

"There's no way I want to be part of a boycott of the Moscow Olympics," said Irish miler Eamonn Coghlan. "I keep my political opinions completely separate from my athletic aspirations.

"There's no way they can move the Games," said Coghlan, who set a world indoor record of 3:52.6 for the mile last February. "The International Olympic Committee has had a binding agreement with Moscow since 1974 and there's no way they can break the contract. Millions and millions of dollars would be lost if they did."

That, essentially, has been the position of the IOC all along — a sentiment that was underscored Monday by two IOC officials.

"It is the USOC (United States Olympic Committee) that has to decide whether American athletes will take part in the Games, not the U.S. government," said IOC President Lord Killanin, who labeled "a hasty decision" the policy Carter announced Sunday.

"I am not foolish enough to say politics don't exist in sport. What I do say is that sport should not be used for political ends," continued Killanin.

IOC Director Monique Berlioux, a former French swimming star, said an American boycott could lead to a rethinking about Los Angeles as the site of the 1984 Summer Games.

Other reaction was a rainbow of emotion.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll indicated Americans favored not sending a team to Moscow 49 percent to 41 with 10 percent undecided.

DePaul is unanimous

One week after taking the top spot in the nation for the first time in Ray Meyer's 38-year coaching career, DePaul became the season's first unanimous No. 1 choice in The Associated Press college basketball poll announced Tuesday.

Undeclared at 15-0, DePaul received all 57 first place votes and a maximum 1,140 points in the nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The Blue Demons posted victories last week over Lamar, Maine, and Louisiana State.

Oregon State, 17-1, moved from No. 4 to the runner-up spot, grabbing 1,049 points. The Beavers defeated Washington St. and Washington in action last week. Duke, 15-2 with victories last week over Wake Forest and North Carolina State, garnered 969 points and moved from fifth place to third. They beat Georgia Tech 56-49 on Monday.

Ohio State, with 929 points, slipped from second place to fourth. Both of the Buckeyes' games last week went into overtime, as they defeated Minnesota 75-70, but lost to archrival Michigan 75-74. Kentucky moved up a notch into the fifth spot, by virtue of 835 points and victories last week over Florida and Vanderbilt.

Syracuse dropped from third place to sixth, with 821 points. After winning their first 14 games, the Orangemen suffered their first defeat last week, losing 68-67 to Old Dominion. Their record went to 15-1 with a victory Monday over Detroit. Thirty-eight points farther back was seventh-ranked Louisville.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college basketball poll, with first place votes in parentheses, records and total points. Points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Guard Dennis Johnson, who led the Seattle SuperSonics to three road victories last week, was named the NBA's Player of the Week for the period ending Sunday, Jan. 20.

Johnson scored 44 points as the Sonics defeated Washington, New York and Boston.

Tennis

CHICAGO (AP) — Seeded Chris Evert Lloyd scored a 6-3, 4-3 first round victory over Bettyanne Stuart in the opening round of a $200,000 women's pro tennis tournament.

Lloyd's victory sets up a second round match with 16-year-old Bettine Bunge, of Coral Gables, Fla., a 6-1, 6-2 upset winner over Regina Marinkova, of Czechoslovakia, in the first round.

terviewed, 66 percent favored moving the Games from Moscow, 26 percent opposed and eight percent were undecided.

Vladimir Popov, first deputy chairman of the Moscow Olympics Organizing Committee, said, "We are calm people, but we think that all the anxiety that people from the outside are injecting into the Olympics is hardly helping the Games."

"If one is to use sports terminology," Popov continued, "one can say that the Olympic annals will recall Carter as a man who erected, rather than cleared away, hurdles and that Carter's decision will, in the long run, doubtless prove a goal he scored into his own net."

Further developments may be expected after the USOC meets at Colorado Springs, Colo., this weekend to map strategy.

SMILIN' JACK — Pittsburgh Steeler linebacker Jack Lambert manages a smile after his key fourth quarter interception helped spark the Steelers to their second consecutive Super Bowl victory, a 31-19 triumph over Los Angeles.
