Carter wants $142 billion for defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today the United States must spend a record $142.7 billion next year on strengthening its defenses "to contain Soviet aggression" and assure U.S. security in the face of growing Russian military power.

Carter's budget message to Congress had the ring of the Cold War years, when U.S. policy was built around the concept of "containing" communism within its borders.

The president told Congress he could not ignore "the implications of terrorism in Iran or Soviet aggression in Afghanistan."

Only last week, Carter asserted in his State of the Union address that the United States would consider a Soviet effort to gain control of the oil-rich Persian Gulf area as a threat to U.S. vital interests and that America would act to repel such an effort.

"Our forces are adequate to protect us against today's threats, but Soviet military capability is growing," Carter told Congress in the message explaining his budget for fiscal 1981, which begins Oct. 1.

"Our forces must be increased if they are to contain Soviet aggression and continue to assure our security in the future. This will require a sustained commitment over a period of years," he said.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown indicated the administration may come back to Congress later to ask for still higher military spending "in light of events that have occurred in the world after the fiscal 1981 budget was finalized in late December." At a briefing, Brown said "a clear picture of increasing Soviet pressure ... was there before Afghanistan."

Brown said an adverse trend in relative U.S. and Soviet military power has worried U.S. officials for a considerable time "as has the prospect of Soviet attempts to take advantage of that ... military buildup" either by exerting political pressure or by military action.

"Those have now begun to happen in more visible ways," Brown added, referring to the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan as "the very first direct use of Soviet military power outside the (Warsaw pact) bloc."

As for the SALT treaty, Brown said the Carter administration has "by no means abandoned the idea" of ratifying this agreement to limit strategic nuclear weapons on both sides.

But he said that "we would have to consider substantial expansions" in U.S. nuclear weapons programs if the Soviets "expand their capabilities or begin new programs that would be prevented under the SALT II Treaty."

Carter's request for record defense spending probably will be welcomed by many members of Congress because the Afghan invasion, following the Iranian revolution which exposed the weakness of the U.S. position in the Persian Gulf, has brought a sharp swing in mood. Also, public opinion polls reflect a surge in citizen support for greater defense preparedness.

The $142.7 billion spending request is $15.3 billion bigger than the fiscal 1980 total and represents "real growth" — after inflation is considered — of about 3.3 percent.

Carter at the same time asked for budget authority totaling $158.2 billion, up $19.5 billion. The budget authority figure is larger than the fiscal 1981 spending estimate because some of the authorized outlays in that section are part of ongoing programs and would come in future years.

"The increased level of defense resources proposed for 1981 would help preserve strategic deterrence, improve the combat effectiveness and readiness of our NATO forces, and enhance our capability to deter conflict worldwide through the rapid deployment of forces," Carter's message said.

The president proposed spending advances all across the spectrum of U.S. defense programs, including strategic weapons such as the new MX mobile intercontinental ballistic missile, additional Air Force and Navy fighter and attack planes, more new warships and significant production of the Army's new XM tank if it passes all technical tests.

A major focus in the new budget is a start-up of two hardware programs designed to give U.S. forces the ability to reach distant areas such as the Persian Gulf quickly in emergencies, and to fight when they get there.

Carter proposed about $294 million for the first two of an eventual fleet of about 14 depot ships, which would be loaded with Marine combat gear and stationed at strategic ports abroad, and for development of a new long-range CX transport plane, which could carry heavy equipment such as tanks over thousands of miles. Air Force planners hope to build between 80 and 200 of the new transport planes.

The depot ship and transport programs together probably will cost about $10 billion in the long run.

Two bids considered

Intercom system discussed

By DON WOODS

Howard County commissioners opened two bids for a county jail intercom system this morning in the special meeting of the commissioners court.

No action was taken this morning. Commissioners discussed the matter further with bidders in their afternoon session.

The bidders were Boss Linam and Arcand Electric. The intercom system is needed to fulfill state jail commission standards.

Boss Linam offered a system with 21 intercom speakers, a master station in the jailers quarters and one downstairs in the sheriff's offices.

Arcand's bid offered two master stations and 19 sub stations with a one year warranty.

Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard told commissioners the bidders should be made to specify how the speakers will be installed and how they operate before a bid is accepted.

Standard said he wanted to eliminate the possibility of prisoners tearing the speakers from the wall. He was also concerned that the jail commission would not approve the system unless there was a "quality, one-time installation."

Another bidder was expected but said his bid could not be completed until Wednesday.

Howard County Commissioners moved this morning to buy diesel fuel for the county from Pat Boatler Wholesale Gas and Oil.

Boatler did not submit a bid because he wasn't sure if allocations would allow him to promise the county their required 6,000 gallons of diesel per month.

"I feel like this is my county and my town. I'm not trying to pull a shenanigan, but they're allocated real strong," said Boatler.

He will sell the fuel for cost plus the amount he needs to make a profit.

No bids were received for diesel fuel from other bidders either. Letters advertising for bids went to Standard Oil, Pat Boatler, Tommy Gage Oil Company, Exxon and Tompkins Oil and Texaco.

Jimmy Jones was the only company who bid on oil, gas and grease. His bid was accepted.

Jones offered $2.20 per gallon for lubricating oil and 39 cents per pound for transmission and differential oil. Hydraulic oil was sold for $1.95 per gallon and lubricating gun grease went for 55 cents per pound. Jones offered diesel engine oil for $2.35 per gallon. Unleaded gasoline was sold for 96.45 cents per gallon.

Wayne Wallace, county purchasing agent, told commissioners late model county cars needed to be running on unleaded gas. He said the cars were suffering from carbon build-up. The commissioners approved the measure.

County Auditor Jackie Olson said Jones bid 51.5 cents per gallon for gas last year. Boatler bid 42.6 cents per gallon for diesel last year.

Wayne Wallace told commissioners there was a leak in a gas tank for an emergency generator located near the air conditioner at the courthouse.

The tank holds 200 gallons of gas, said Wallace, but leaks out shortly after filling. He said the last time it was filled was two months ago.

Wallace said the area was often wet because of the air conditioner possibly causing the corrosion in the tank.

The Grievance Committee was appointed for the county. The committee is designed to handle employee salary grievances but has only been used once since its formation.

Committee members will be the county sheriff, county clerk, district clerk, treasurer, county attorney, and tax assessor.

The other three members are chosen from the past grand jury. They are Richard Knocke, 1310 Wood; Cecilia Adams, Sterling City Route; and Clay Reed, Coahoma. Margaret Ray, county clerk, will ask them today if they will serve before they become official members of the committee.

Six months raises were approved for Gary Porter, sheriff's deputy, and a $15 raise for Sergeant Robert Puente.

Three new employees were approved. They were Mary Pope, tax office, Rhonda Casey, district attorney's office, and Angela Cole, part time at the library.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Salt in water

Q. Water going to Coahoma subscribers tasted very bad over the weekend. What is the reason for it?

A. Probably because of the salt content, which tends to become more noticeable when the water levels at Lake Thomas and Lake Spence get lower. It's nothing to get alarmed about.

New Iranian president claims

Hostage problem can be easily resolved

By the Associated Press

Abolhassan Bani Sadr, the apparent victor in Iran's presidential election, was quoted as saying today the problem of the American hostages in Tehran could be easily resolved and that Iran's most immediate threat was from Soviet troops in Afghanistan, who "are at our doors."

Bani Sadr, Iranian finance minister and former foreign minister, said Iran would give all types of aid, including military assistance, to Afghan rebels fighting Soviet troops, according to the French newspaper Le Monde.

But he said he disapproved of U.S. aid to Pakistan and rejected as "unacceptable" Washington's promise of military and economic aid to fend off any Soviet moves toward Iran once the hostages are released, the paper said.

"Certainly we intend to resist Russian expansionism, but we are not

mishap identified

The man killed in Saturday night's fatal motorcycle mishap was identified Sunday as Jack Buckley, 24, 1502 Sheppard. Police had not identified the man Saturday night, waiting for notification of next of kin.

Buckley was killed when traveling south on Wasson. He struck an automobile in the rear, causing his body to fly over the automobile, landing approximately 47 feet from the point of impact.

He was pronounced dead at the scene at 8:30 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

going to give that to the Americans as a pretext for retaking a foothold here," he was quoted. "Washington will truly help us confront our neighbor to the North by declining to interfere in our affairs, to intrigue and to plot against our revolution."

Le Monde said Bani Sadr would not elaborate on his position regarding release for the approximately 50 hostages, now in their 86th day of captivity, until he had discussed the matter with Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The 79-year-old Khomeini, hospitalized for what his doctors called a minor heart ailment, was reported in satisfactory condition today and was being transferred out of an intensive care unit where he has spent the last five days.

Before freedom could be considered for the hostages, "the American government must first of all issue a declaration acknowledging the crimes it committed in Iran through the imperial regime, as well as our right to begin proceedings against the shah and his followers," Le Monde quoted Bani Sadr. "The problem of the hostages can then be easily resolved."

That statement was similar to others he made over the weekend since claiming victory in the election Friday.

Woman saves daughter

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (AP) — A woman held her 2-year-old daughter above the icy waters of Saratoga Lake just long enough for rescuers to reach the child and then disappeared when her family's snowmobile sank through the thin ice, police say.

More quakes predicted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scientists are warning that Northern Californians can expect more earthquakes following nine sizable tremors in the last four days.

"Earthquake sequences of this type are relatively common," said Dr. Robert Uhrhammer, a researcher at the University of California Seismographic Station in Berkeley. "We think the sequence will continue for several days or possibly weeks."

"The others will probably be smaller and further apart in time. We have no way of telling for certain, but it is likely that the worst is over."

Reagan favors blockade

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan says a blockade of Cuba might be a good way of getting the Soviet Union out of Afghanistan.

"They have airplanes and pilots there. They have troops there on that island. A blockade of Cuba could be an option," Reagan said Sunday on CBS' "60 Minutes" program.

"I am not talking war and I'm not being a warmonger. I am talking of my fear that unless the United States sends the proper signals to the Soviet Union, that they are going to make the wrong choice," the former California governor said.

Reagan, the Republican frontrunner in the polls but a loser to ex-CIA chief George Bush in the Iowa caucuses, said he had not appeared in a key Republican debate there because, "I have been against anything that makes it appear that Republicans are running against each other."

'Witch's' trial continues

Focus swings to defendant

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — The focus of attention in Lay Dean Stone's murder trial has swung from the defendant to the man who led the investigation of the killing.

Stone is a self-described witch charged in the Halloween 1977 killing of a Dimmitt teen-ager. But Castro County Sheriff Granville Martin was in the spotlight during the first week of testimony.

Martin admitted to defense attorney Travis Shelton that, during the initial investigation, officers did not tell Stone that a girl had been killed on his property and the Stones were not read their rights, "because they wasn't under arrest."

Stone, 50, is accused in the shotgun slaying of Roxanne Casas, 15, as she sat in a truck in his driveway near Dimmitt in the Texas Panhandle. Mrs. Stone, 49, has been granted a separate trial.

The Stones, both high priests in the Church of Wicca, have pleaded innocent.

Martin told State District Judge John T. Boyd he had driven past the Stones' house 10 minutes before he was alerted to the shooting.

On his return, he said, Stone approached him with a shotgun in his hand. He said Mrs. Stone also was outside, pointing to two cars and a pickup on the highway that she said had been harassing them.

Martin and a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper confiscated a shotgun and three unspent shells from Stone. A later search netted five spent shells and a rusty old shotgun.

But at the time he confiscated the shotgun, Martin testified, the Stones were not informed of the nature of the investigation or told their constitutional rights.

Deficit of $16 million provided

No tax cuts included in budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today sent Congress a 1981 budget totaling $616 billion that proposes major new spending for the military while putting a partial lid on domestic spending, despite his own predictions of sluggish economic growth and high unemployment.

The budget does not include any tax cuts, which Carter warned could worsen inflation, already projected at 10.4 percent this year. He declared the budget is "prudent and responsible" and "will prepare America for the new decade."

It provides for a deficit of $16 billion, making it the 12th consecutive budget to show red ink.

Charles L. Schultze, the president's chief economic adviser, said the Carter budget foresees a mild recession in 1980, making it the first presidential budget ever "to forecast a recession." The recession is expected in the first half of the year, followed by a slow economic recovery continuing through 1981.

Total spending in the budget is equal to $2,775 for each American, an increase of $235 in per capita spending over fiscal 1980, for which total outlays are estimated at $564 billion. Carter said virtually all of the increase is due to inflation.

The 1981 budget represents a reordering of the administration's priorities, increasing defense outlays by $15.3 billion to counter a Soviet military buildup and other global turmoil, while proposing overall restraint on domestic expenditures to help control inflation.

"The uncertain and sometimes hostile world we live in requires that we continue to rebuild our defense forces," the president said in his budget message to Congress. "I cannot ignore the major increases in Soviet military spending that have taken place inexorably over the past 20 years."

The budget also includes increased spending for intelligence activities, one official said, but the amount was not made known as outlays for intelligence purposes are secret.

Carter did propose a new program to improve education and job skills for 500,000 unemployed youths, and he asked Congress to provide funds for an increase of 50,000 in the number of subsidized housing units for low-income families. But the bulk of that spending would be in future years, not in 1981.

He proposed defense outlays of $142.7 billion, a 3.3 increase over 1980, which includes funds for a Rapid Deployment Force for emergency dispatch to crisis areas like the Persian Gulf, as well as increased spending for NATO forces, the new MX ballistic missile, the bomber-launched cruise missile and a new super-tank.

There was also $20 million for the Selective Service system to begin registering young Americans for a possible military draft.

Though combating inflation is a high priority, Carter abandoned his 1976 campaign pledge to balance the budget. With projected revenues of $600 billion falling short of outlays, there is a deficit of $16 billion. The 1980 deficit is projected at $40 billion.

Energy projects also got a big boost from the Carter budget. Outlays for the Department of Energy would increase $1 billion to $8.7 billion to expand use of coal, coal gasification and solar energy.

The budget for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, must be approved by Congress, which usually makes significant changes. While spending is up $52 billion over projected 1980 outlays, the administration said $37 billion of that is mandated by existing law, such as cost-of-living hikes in Social Security benefits.

The budget forecast that the mild recession will boost unemployment to 7.5 percent. At the same time, consumer prices are expected to rise 10.4 percent. It is the first time in memory that an administration has forecast so severe an inflation rate a year in advance.

Consumer prices increased 13.3 percent last year, a 33-year high and nearly double the original Carter forecast of 7.4 percent.

If Carter's 1980 unemployment forecast is correct, the jobless rate will be slightly higher at the end of his four-year term than when he took office. It was 7.4 percent in January 1977.

Reflecting growing tension with the Soviet Union, Carter hurriedly included $800 million in the budget to purchase grain that has been denied to the Soviets, in addition to $2 billion proposed for grain purchases in 1980. Officials said the budget also will be amended to include aid for Pakistan as soon as the amount is determined.

Spending for human assistance programs in the Department of Health and Human Services total $219.3 billion, an increase of $25.5 billion, the most for any department in government. But much of the increase is designed to offset inflation, so there is little, if any, real gain for recipients.

Social Security and disability benefits account for most of the increase, up $19 billion to a total of $135 billion. Benefits will be provided to nearly 36 million Americans with the average monthly payment rising from $315 to $350.

After allowing for inflation, there is virtually no increase in spending from estimated 1980 budget outlays of $564 billion, Carter said.

"By continuing a clear and consistent policy of restraint, the 1981 budget insures that the federal budget will not be an inflationary force in the economy," Carter said.

The projected 1981 revenues include $13.9 billion from Carter's proposed "windfall profits tax" on oil companies. Other revenues will come from individual income taxes, $274 billion; corporate income taxes, $72 billion, and Social Security taxes, $216 billion.

As expected, Carter did not propose any tax cuts in the budget. But he said he would consider tax relief and temporary jobs programs in the event of a serious economic downturn.

The budget projected unemployment benefits would rise from $14 billion in 1980 to $16.5 billion in 1981 to cover an additional 900,000 unemployed workers.

One of the few new programs in the budget is a $2 billion plan to augment education and job skills for 500,000 jobless youths, although not more than $350 million on this would be spent in 1981.

Carter proposed a five-year renewal of revenue sharing for state and local governments at $6.9 billion a year.

In an apparent concession to Democratic liberals in an election year, the president asked funding for an additional 300,000 subsidized housing units for low-income Americans. It would require a $5.6 billion increase in budget authority to a total of $32 billion, with most of the money to be spent in future years.

One of the biggest outlays in the 1981 budget is more than $79 billion to pay interest on the public debt, which will total $939.4 billion.

Carter claimed credit for slashing the budget deficit for 1980. But his proposed deficit for 1981 is likely to be higher than $16 billion if Congress continues to bottle up several administration cost-cutting proposals. Among them are a $2.7 billion savings in federal pay reforms and $800 million from a hospital cost containment program.

James T. McIntyre, director of the Office of Management and Budget, told reporters it is realistic to keep these savings in the budget because Carter believes they should be enacted. But he acknowledged that "simply because we think they're realistic, doesn't mean Congress is going to agree with us."

The deficit estimate also benefits from a projected $4.5 billion in receipts from improved government cash management, such as accelerating tax payments from businesses.

Carter's budget is a working document likely to be changed in coming months. His 1980 budget underwent major surgery in the year after it was proposed.

Spending increased from the original $532 billion to $564 billion, and receipts rose from $502.6 billion to $524 billion. The deficit of $40 billion compares with the original estimate of $29 billion, and more changes are possible as fiscal 1980 still has eight months to go.

How will Texas fare when the federal money is distributed?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A first viewing of President Carter's proposed 1981 budget offers glimpses of the myriad impact of federal spending on Texas.

Although there is no breakdown on a state-by-state basis to show how much of the proposed outlay of about $615 billion would be bound for Texas, a budget appendix released today provides information on topics as diverse as a helium plant in the Panhandle and Lady Bird Johnson's pension.

Last year, federal hand-outs accounted for about one-fourth of Texas state government's total revenue. A special analysis of how federal aid is distributed by region shows that Texas and its four neighboring states fared less well for 1979 than the national average on a per capita basis.

The 5-state region received $7.5 billion in federal grants for 1979, according to preliminary estimates. That works out to $320 per person for the year, below the national average of $373 per person.

The per capita figure represents a substantial dollar increase over 1969, when $112 per person in federal grants came to the area. In 1969, however, per capita grants to the region were above the national average of $100 per person.

The increase in human resources program relative to physical resources spending such as highway construction and the development of general revenue sharing programs to state and local governments have helped equalize the disparity among regions, the analysis said.

One branch of the federal government that holds particular interest for Texas is the Immigration and Naturalization Service and its border enforcement programs.

The budget proposes a 1981 outlay of $347 million for the INS, an increase of $12 million.

"The administration's proposals do not provide for the full border patrol increase authorized in the last session of the Congress because the administration does not believe that this increase would, by itself, make a significant contribution to border enforcement," the budget said. "Illegal immigrants are drawn to the United States by high wages, and there are no federal restrictions against hiring those who are in the country illegally."

Large budget increases would not be productive until laws are changed to remove incentives for illegal immigration, the budget said.

It added that no one knows exactly how much federal money spread among several agencies goes strictly for border enforcement, but the information will be developed during the next year.

The civil works budget request from the Army Corps of Engineers asks for $168.9 million for Texas projects in the 1981 fiscal year, down from the $181 million requested last year.

The biggest difference is the absence of the $34 million that was requested last year for the full funding of a flood control project in Baytown.

Among the biggest budget outlays requested for Texas corps projects are:

-$32.5 million for flood control construction at Lake Lakeview.

-$17.8 million for operation and maintenance of the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway, up from the $6.1 million asked for last year.

-$13.3 million for flood control construction at El Paso, up from the $8.2 million asked for last year.

-$10.2 million for flood control construction at Aquilla Lake, up from the $5 million requested last year.

-$9.9 million for construction, operation and maintenance for the Corpus Christi Ship Channel, up from the $8 million requested last year.

-$6 million for operation and maintenance of the Sabine-Neches Waterway, up from $5.8 million asked for last year.

Names in the news

JOAN MONDALE and PAUL MCCARTNEY

Political jam session

NEW YORK (AP) — At least one political bash this week offered a change from rubber chicken and dry speeches when some 60 jazz musicians got together to jam at a "Jazz Artists for Carter-Mondale" party.

The music flowed for three hours, and there were few speeches. Joan Mondale complimented the musicians and said she would tell her husband, Vice President Walter Mondale, that "The Joint Is Jumpin'" but "I Ain't Misbehavin'" because you treated me like a "Sophisticated Lady," almost a "Satin Doll."

Cab Calloway sang "Summertime" and pianist Brooks Kerr played "Sentimental Gentleman from Georgia," but most of the afternoon heard combos improvising tunes they all knew such as "I Can't Get Started with You" and "Green Dolphin Street."

Among those playing were Teddy Wilson, Ellis Larkins, Ruby Braff, Milt Hinton, Panama Francis, Oliver Jackson, Cecil Payne, Budd Johnson, Jimmy Maxwell, Elvin Jones, Al Grey, Bob Cranshaw, Illinois Jacquet, George Duvivier, Howard McGhee, Charlie Rouse, Sonny Greer, Mel Lewis, Scott Hamilton, Lee Konitz, Sonny Fortune, Billy Mitchell, Eddie Gomez, Major Holley, Roland Hanna, Jo Jones and Jimmy Owens.

Khomeini wins another

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has won the 1979 Peter Principle Golden Dinosaur Award for Outstanding Incompetence, Dr. Laurence Peter says.

Winners of the spoof awards, which originated in 1970, are decided by the nearly 200 graduates of Peter University, which is owned and operated by Dr. Peter.

Those graduates were people who he felt "were particularly competent — so I polled them," explained Peter, author of "The Peter Principle." The book explained Peter's theory that business and industry reward competent employees by promoting them until they eventually reach a position above their level of competence.

Four of his prior polls were published in "Human Behavior" magazine until it ceased publication. "One way or another, though, I carried it (the poll) on," he said.

First days worst in jail

LONDON (AP) — Rock star Paul McCartney says his first few days in a Japanese jail were the worst.

"The prison was not the rat-infested hole I thought it was going to be," he said Sunday in an interview with Britain's domestic news agency, Press Association.

McCartney rested over the weekend at his country home near Peasmarsh in southern England after flying home from Japan where he spent 10 days in jail.

The former Beatle, who now heads the rock group Wings, was arrested Jan. 16 when customs agents at Tokyo's Narita airport said they found nearly half a pound of marijuana in his luggage. He was expelled and returned home Saturday after Japanese officials chose not to press drug charges.

Weather

Damp cold chills most of Texas

By the Associated Press

Cold, damp weather chilled most of Texas today. Scattered pockets of fog reduced visibility throughout the state, with widespread fog banks in Northwest Texas.

Light freezing drizzle fell on the Wichita Falls area, glazing some overpasses. Highway workers began spreading sand over ice-encrusted bridges.

Clouds covered all but far Southwest Texas.

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 30s and 40s, but ranged from the 20s in the Panhandle to 60 in Brownsville.

Forecasters called for little change, with cloudiness continuing over all but Southwest Texas and temperatures staying cool. But the only mention of precipitation is for rain along the coast.

WEATHER FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Cloudy east of the mountains and fair southwest through Tuesday. Warmer today. Widely scattered light rain north Tuesday. Highs today and Tuesday 30s north to 40s south-west. Lows tonight 20s north and mountains to near 40 Big Bend.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is expected in the forecast period, today until Tuesday morning, from the south-central Plains to the Ohio Valley. Rain is forecast for the eastern and central Gulf. Cold weather is forecast for all of the country except the very southern tier of states from southern California to Florida.

How soon children forget -- it's good

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Chattering girls in front of Cleveland Elementary School skip merrily around the small monument that hugs the ground like some forgotten war memorial.

The 8-year-olds ignore it. They're more concerned about that little boy nearby who's trying to invade their gleeful circle.

A bell rings, the youngsters straggle into class. The bell rings again, out they run for home.

It's good that children forget. Shortly after they arrived for school one chilly morning a year ago Tuesday, a 16-year-old girl in a house across the street decided to use the playground for target practice with the .22-caliber rifle she got for Christmas.

For six hours, gunfire turned the schoolyard into a scene of terror. Children screamed and ran; eight fell wounded. Burton Wragg, the 33-year-old principal was shot dead when he ran from the building to cradle a fallen youngster. Custodian Michael Suchar, 56, was slain when he tried to drag the principal to safety. A police officer was wounded in the shoulder.

After a hulk, blond, freckle-faced Brenda Ann Spencer calmly walked out of her house and surrendered. On Oct. 1, she pleaded guilty to two counts of murder and nine of attempted murder.

She is now undergoing diagnostic study and returns to the Santa Ana courtroom in early March for sentencing. The study by the California Youth Authority will determine if the doe-eyed child of a broken home will stay in a CYU facility until she is 25 or go immediately to a prison for women in Frontera, Calif.

Miss Spencer never gave a reason for the Jan. 29 shootings, but told a reporter when he telephoned during the gunfire: "I don't like Mondays."

Prosecutors say they expect her to be sentenced to 25 years to life in prison, making her eligible for parole in 16 years.

In principal Robert Rice's office hangs a resolution from the City Council noting the tragedy. Wragg's and Suchar's pictures are also there. Rice said no special note will be taken of the anniversary.

"The children were upset for the first week or so, and a few needed some counseling, but they've gotten over it," Rice said in an interview. "Nobody ever mentions that day."

The country knows who Bush is now

It appears now, far in advance of the time when the political heavyweights will be hurling thunderbolts at each other in the presidential campaign, that George Bush will make a run at the top job in the country.

That should please a lot of West Texans. The Republican moderate used to earn his bread in nearby Midland. The upset Bush pulled in the Iowa caucuses shocked Republicans and Democrats alike.

THE BUSH VICTORY had a positive effect on Ronald Reagan, for one thing. The former California governor was so sure the constituency was ready for his aria he stayed in the wings to take bows while the rest of the GOP hopefuls debated in Des Moines. Apparently there's a lot to be said for the old saw, "out of sight, out of mind." The voters couldn't remember who Reagan was when they took part in the caucuses, at least not enough of them. Reagan quickly concluded that it would be wise for him to become a little more visible in the campaign.

Bush's margin of victory over Reagan in Iowa was by six per cent, a margin he built up by campaigning heavily in the tall corn country.

Bush may not agree many times with what President Jimmy Carter has to say, but he benefitted from the lesson Carter gave in the 1976 campaign. That year, Carter created a well-oiled organization and spent a succession of days criss-crossing the countryside. Like Carter, Bush seemed to come from nowhere to victory.

Reagan knows now his strategy backfired on him and it's just as well, perhaps, that he found out early in the campaign. We can look for him to change his tactics.

Of course, working the beat doesn't always pay dividends. Teddy Kennedy was very visible in Iowa, yet he failed to make a dent against Carter. The incumbent president's margin of victory was roughly 2-1.

Kennedy did little to enhance his less-than-conservative image in that rather conservative state with several anti-Carter comments.

Iowans, at least from the reading of the caucuses, found little fault with Carter's handling of either the Iranian crisis or the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

THE IOWA CAUCUSES didn't amount to much, other than to serve as a prelude to the avalanche of other statewide tests to follow. Still, the action represents the first step along the presidential path. If they served no other purpose, they got the populace to 'thinking' politics.

Will Bush and Carter continue their successes in New Hampshire? It's not too likely. Reagan will be on hand to press the flesh in that state and he is still the man to beat. Carter must know that Kennedy should be strong in his home country.

Most people interested in politics found the tests in Iowa interesting, if for no other reason than it established a different set of leaders than more political leaders would have dared believe.

It could be a very interesting year.

What happened?

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The analysts, busily examining the potsherds of Iowa, are divided on the question whether Reagan was dead, or whether he simply had a bad doctor. Let us, for the sake of argument, ventilate both hypotheses, and see what happens:

1. REAGAN LOST five consecutive primaries to Ford in 1976 — Iowa, New Hampshire, Florida, Massachusetts and Illinois. He was generally thought to have been beaten. In North Carolina Reagan turned it around, and he very nearly took the nomination away from a sitting president. The challenger, everyone agrees, needs to build momentum, and the front-runner needs to keep at least a little distance between himself and the runner-up. Reagan's race against Ford could be said to have pushed that law to its asymptotic extreme.

2. But the business about Sears having given Reagan bad advice rests on a superstitious assumption. It is that the more people a candidate meets, so to speak at the local grocery store, the likelier that candidate is to win the voter's support. Although the obverse of this rule is not necessarily itself a rule, there is inconclusive evidence in the matter.

The press was full of the figures for Iowa. George Bush, who defeated Reagan, spent 31 days in Iowa.

Ronald Reagan, defeated by Bush, spent about 41 hours in Iowa.

We are invited to conclude that the results reflect the candidates' attention to the state of Iowa.

Here the figures we aren't frequently reminded of. In 1964, Nelson Rockefeller spent 28 days in New Hampshire, and Barry Goldwater 21 days.

AND, FORSOOTH, Henry Cabot Lodge got 34 percent of the vote. During the entire primary race, Ambassador Lodge spent his days in the Embassy in Saigon, struggling to keep his white linen suit spotless. Moreover, Lodge was not even on the ballot. He won on a write-in vote.

Obviously what had worked for Lodge did not work for Reagan. But to remark this is not to resurrect and validate a casual relation between the frequency of a candidate's appearance in a state and the size of his following. Reagan's position is well known. His face is well known. His style is well known. To reiterate, although the Iowa verdict may prove to be no more significant than New Hampshire's infatuation with Lodge in 1964, neither is it true that Reagan lost in Iowa because he hadn't spent enough time there. Though it is true that on the conspicuous day of the mini-debate between the candidates, Sears elected to keep the champion at home, which may have annoyed voters who interpreted the gesture as disdainful.

Or was there something else? It can't reasonably be said that the other contenders, Bush included, offered dazzlingly different policy recommendations. Indeed on the issue of withholding grain sales to the Soviet Union, Bush and Reagan — and all the other candidates save John Anderson — arrived at the same conclusion. Interestingly, the majority of the people of Iowa (and a surprising 36 percent of the farmers themselves) approved of Carter's embargo. The one Republican candidate who agreed with Carter got 4 percent of the vote — John Anderson. And, of course, Carter flattened Kennedy 2-1.

How great a disadvantage, in the public sensibility, is the factor of newness? Professor Jeffrey Hart wrote almost 10 years ago that an important political factor in the electronic age is theatricality.

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been told I have "thoracic outlet syndrome." This was not explained in any detail to me. Could this cause the pain that shoots from back to front under the shoulder blade? — A.S.

Thoracic outlet syndrome may include a wide variety of symptoms.

The thorax is the chest. It is bounded by the rib cage, which narrows toward the top. This is readily noted on X-rays. Important nerves pass through this narrowed area to serve the arms. The point at which the nerves pass out of the chest is called the "thoracic outlet." Pressure on either the blood vessels or nerve bundles at this point may cause pain or numbness along their paths. Since they pass close to bony structures, it is common for compression to occur.

The nerves and vessels pass under the arms and downward to the hands, so pain in the area you mention can be a part of it.

There are many causes of the problem. Some people develop an extra rib at the neck end of the rib cage (cervical rib), which can cause pressure. This may not produce symptoms until later in life, when supporting muscles lose tone, allowing compression of nerves or vessels against the rib area.

Results may be lessening of blood flow to the arm because of pressure on an artery or tingling sensations from pressure on a nerve. Even fingers can be affected. Thoracic outlet problems may be mistaken for angina pectoris.

Sometimes simple exercises help. In other cases surgery relieves the obstruction.

X-rays help pinpoint the specific problem. The doctor may ask the patient to produce certain specific movements so he can tell whether he is dealing with thoracic outlet syndrome. (See item below).

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have noticed lately that something seems to be pinching real hard on my arm, just above the elbow up to my shoulder. When I hold my arm out straight and turn my head to the right I get this feeling. It is in my left arm. What do you suppose could be causing this and what do you think I should do? — S.A.

I can make an educated guess. It sounds as though there is pressure on the nerves to your arm. These originate in the neck spine, and sometimes spurs on the spine at this point can put pressure on them. When you turn your head or extend your arm you place traction on these nerves, causing the pain.

You need an examination for a definite diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been bothered with bad breath for a few years. I am 65. I was told this might be caused by nerves. Now I have read in an article in a magazine that bad breath can mean a serious physical ailment. I am trusting you to give me advice about this. I am frantic. I love to be with people, but always try to sit at a distance now. — Mrs. R.H.

Any upper respiratory tract infection can cause halitosis. Infrequently, bad breath can indicate diseases of the lung (pulmonary abscess or bronchiectasis), uncontrolled diabetes, or severe kidney disease. Any of these would produce other signs, which you do not mention.

If these ailments have been ruled out by an examination, you might suspect some of the more common causes — decreased saliva flow, diseases of the gums, heavy smoking, or any of the well-known food culprits.

Perhaps simple measures, such as increasing saliva flow with tart food (as with sour lemon drops), or paying special attention to mouth hygiene, would help you. Be especially careful about sugar, which can produce malodorous breath after being in the mouth awhile.

I have read about cases where nervousness apparently has caused bad breath, but I have not encountered any in my practice.

Dear Dr. Donohue: There is a discharge from my navel. It also smells somewhat. What is this and what can I do? Should I use antiseptic or something? — Mrs. T.W.

I would prefer that you not try to treat this yourself. It is very likely some mild infection you've picked up somewhere. It is usually harmless, but it has to be seen by a doctor to be treated effectively. The odor is not unusual.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of a booklet by Dr. Donohue explaining the causes and cures of bad breath. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: When someone has a medical or dental problem, where can they find out the latest techniques for treating it and practitioners using them? — J.P.

Your county or state medical-dental societies will help you find practitioners in the field you desire. They, in turn, should be able to advise you as to current techniques used in treatment.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I smoke a lot of marijuana and believe it makes me feel nearer to God. What do you say about this? — E.M.

DEAR E.M.: You are deceiving yourself and I hope you will have the honesty to face this squarely. It may well be that drugs make you think you feel better temporarily, but that feeling is not God. I must warn you that one of the characteristics of pagan religions in Biblical times was that they apparently used drugs to induce a feeling of closeness to pagan spirits. But the Bible everywhere warns against becoming involved in such practices. You must be careful that you do not create your own idea of God. That would be idolatry.

These may seem strong words to you, and they are. But I hope you will not get the wrong impression. I disagree with what you are doing, but if my words seem strong it is because I am concerned about you as a person and more than anything I want you to discover the joy which can be yours in Christ. God loves you and wants you to know Him personally as He really is. You can come to know Him if you will give your life to Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior.

What separates you from God is not some barrier in your mind which can be bridged by chemicals or drugs. The thing that separates you from God is sin, since God is holy and just. You cannot bridge that gap between you and God, and neither can anyone else by his own efforts or schemes. But God bridged the gap! He sent His Son into this world so that you and I could come to God, be forgiven of our sins and have a personal relationship with Him. Christ took away our sins on the Cross, and by turning to Him in repentance and faith we can be saved and know God as our heavenly Father.

The road you are traveling will lead you away from God. Turn back and turn to Christ. Then you will know what it means to know God personally.

Nightmare looms

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

My heart keeps jumping faster and I've been breaking out into a cold sweat. The thought of it makes me shiver and I have nightmares when I wake up, screaming for loved ones up north. That is, of course, after I toss and turn for hours thinking of the terror ahead of me.

ON FRIDAY, WHICH is only four days away, I have no excuse anymore to procrastinate working on my income taxes. The thought of it terrifies me.

My well known math untalents is only part of it. Is flunking math in eighth grade a legal defense when the IRS wants to haul me off to jail if the wrong totals are entered?

But it isn't only the math. It's getting all the paraphernalia together to do it. And finding a place large enough to spread out all those papers to do it, is no laughing matter. Does one have to do it on a kitchen table? After all, using the living room floor is gosh, and spreading the papers out on my bed with me in the center of it, luxuriously sipping a cup of tea seems like an awful lot of trouble if no one is there to envy this stroke of pampering.

Well, I'll figure that out later. Now comes the interesting part. Trying to decipher the IRS language.

Carter warned

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — By his own admission, Jimmy Carter was caught off guard by the Afghanistan invasion because he trusted his summit partner, Leonid Brezhnev, who had blandly denied that the Soviets had aggression in mind. Afterward, Carter lamented that the Soviet leader had lied to him.

Certainly, the evidence was available to the president that the Soviets were preparing to strike across the Afghan border. Last September, a top-secret report of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee laid out the probability of a Russian military move there with remarkable clarity.

The report, prepared by three staff members, was distributed to senators on the committee. Its contents were also communicated to the White House.

I HAVE OBTAINED a copy of the still-secret Sept. 21 report, titled "Developments in Afghanistan and Possible Increased Soviet Intervention." If the president had read it, he might have been less taken aback by the Russians' Christmas-week invasion.

The Senate report notes first that the bloody coup which replaced one Soviet puppet with another earlier in September gave the Kremlin essentially two choices: Increase its commitment in Afghanistan or let a Soviet-backed regime go down the drain.

The reason the Russians faced this tough decision, the report explained, was the deteriorating situation in Afghanistan. Noting "widespread but uncoordinated insurgencies ... in all parts of the country," the report added: "Extensive Soviet material support, together with several thousand military 'advisors,' have enabled the regime to retain a tenuous hold on power. The government's position continues to erode, however."

The report cited intelligence warnings of "the somewhat increased readiness of one Soviet airborne division in a Soviet military district adjacent to Afghanistan," and speculated that the Russians were concerned about the possible need to protect or evacuate the 5,000 to 6,000 Soviet advisers and dependents.

BUT THE REPORT also raised the possibility that the Russians' increased military readiness in the area might reflect "an unfolding coherent plan to intervene massively to support (former Afghan President Hafizullah) Amin." In this instance, of course,

I heard somewhere that the IRS said if they made it simpler, no one would understand this monstrosity of a springtime activity. The logic is almost as good as the phone company's.

This year I get to do the long blue form. I'm not crazy about blue to begin with. I'm not crazy about pink, which the short forms are, either, but I could get used to it. I would really prefer yellow or apricot.

I went to the post office a few weeks ago to pick up a booklet and a long form. I picked up some extras for some other people. I didn't get any short forms. I figured if anyone was lucky enough to be doing the short form, they can go get it themselves.

NOW, I LEARNED in my most idealistic of youths that one pays on earnings and gets deductions for payments. But everytime I see a place where I can receive that deduction, I learn only a few seconds later that the person collecting my money is getting the deduction. Something is a little off.

Well, anyway, this Friday after work, I'm going to shut myself in my house and not come out until Monday morning when it should be finished. But I won't be heading to work. I'll be being escorted out of my house by two men in white coats taking me to the funny farm.

there was a massive intervention, but one that resulted in President Amin's overthrow and execution.

The committee report listed five factors that were "pushing Moscow toward deeper military involvement" in Afghanistan:

Traditional Russian designs on its neighbor dating back to the czars; Hopes that a Marxist ally might add to Soviet influence on Pakistan, India and Iran;

Desire for a buffer against Red China; The need to show the United States that the Soviets would not let its hands be tied by detente, and

"The creeping military logic" that the Afghan rebels could be beaten by a little more Russian involvement.

Three factors "influencing Moscow to be very cautious" were also listed in the report: Soviet fears that they'd be unable to control Amin, that they might get bogged down in a Vietnam situation, and that the United States might show "assertiveness" by taking counteraction elsewhere, or maybe killing SALT II.

In addition to the senate committee report, another knowledgeable source gave the Carter administration a solid early warning of the Soviet attack. In October, Pakistani Foreign Minister Agha Shahi told both the senate committee and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance "flat out that the Soviets were building up for a move into Afghanistan and then Pakistan," sources told my reporters Dale Van Atta and Hal Straus.

Yet Jimmy Carter ignored the warnings.

COPTER CRISIS — Iraq trains some of the world's most vicious terrorist groups, and has been properly condemned for this by the Carter administration. But behind the scenes, the State Department is quietly helping the Iraqis close a deal for six high-performance helicopters that could be used to further terrorist activities.

The "executive" choppers — Italian-made Sikorsky S-62s with American-produced General Electric engines — are luxury models that make those in the presidential fleet look like stripped-down jalopies. Each has a kitchen, a bathroom, a lounge with plush upholstered couch and a small conference table.

The contract specifications indicate use by top officials. But it would be no great trouble to convert the high-speed helicopters for use as weapons carriers, hit-and-run taxis for platoon-sized terrorist squads, low-level strafing or military observation.

Carter knew that he did not have a chance for re-election unless something sensational happened, he has known that for several months (I think at least a year). So, were these recent world crisis contrived? There certainly is room for this line of conjecture.

I believe that all American voters should accept his/her individual responsibility, analyze every bit of evidence, make a sound decision, and cast your vote for what you consider would be in the best interest of the nation. Don't wait until the last few days prior to the November election date to start your research. Start it now.

Anyone wishing to know where I obtain my information I will gladly acquaint them with the sources, much of which has proven to be very accurate.

Proof: 96% of MERIT smokers don't miss former high tar brands.

Proof: 9 out of 10 enjoy smoking as much since switching to MERIT, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Preparing your children for a hospital visit

By the Associated Press
 The success or failure of your child's hospital stay may depend on you.
 More than three million youngsters are hospitalized every year and the experience is often a frightening one. Officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare say, however, that parents can do a lot to make things easier.
 "Preparation helps," say the authors of a department guide on children and hospitals. "Children who've been prepared have less difficulty...Prepared children even seem to recover better."
 Records compiled by the National Center for Health

Statistics show that about 3.5 million youngsters under 15 were discharged from short-term hospitals in 1978. (The center measures discharges rather than actual stays. Its figures do not include newborn infants.)
 Almost one child in three — 31.3 percent — was treated for a disease of the respiratory system, a category that includes tonsillectomies. Fourteen percent of the youngsters suffered from accidents, poisonings or violence and 10 percent had diseases of the digestive system. Other major ailments in children under 15 who were hospitalized included infectious and parasitic diseases and disorders of the nervous or sensory system.
 HEW says that people often used to be reluctant to tell children of an approaching trip to the hospital; they didn't want to worry the youngsters. But the agency says that children who do not understand the need for treatment may develop their own, unrealistic views. They "may conclude that all adults — including parents — cannot be trusted and loved," says HEW.

 Older, school-age children should, when possible, be told about what's ahead a week or so before they have to go to the hospital so they can get used to the idea and ask questions. Younger children generally should be given a few days warning; they will have enough time to think about the idea without getting overly worried.
 Be realistic when you talk to your youngsters. Don't overestimate or underestimate problems. If there will be some pain — a sore throat after an operation, for example — tell the child what to expect. Don't make unrealistic promises like, "It won't hurt at all."

 Encourage children to talk about their specific fears and explain why each step of treatment is necessary and what it will entail.
 Ask your doctor to explain exactly why your child has to go to the hospital. What sort of tests and procedures will be used?
 Ask the hospital if it is possible to take a tour of the facilities, with your child, in advance.

French fashions feature short skirts

PARIS (AP) — French fashions will be entering the 80s with a upbeat look, featuring short skirts, and sophisticated, feminine styling. That's the prediction from Paris as French designers prepare to show their haute couture collections for next spring and summer in a whirl of parties and shows beginning Sunday.

No sackcloth and ashes for the couture to match the dreary world headlines about political crises and energy problems. The designers are determined to make happier headlines of their own, turning out more bright luxury models than ever.

The opulent outfits shown next week will retail for $4,000 and up and are aimed at a clientele of some 3,000 of the world's wealthiest women. But the prototype clothes will set the tone for the multi-billion-dollar fashion industry.

Twenty-five top couturiers will show at least 80 high fashion outfits each in a hectic week, beginning with a Nina Ricci buffet and fashion show Sunday night. Among the other events on next week's fashion agenda are a dance at Regine's, an informal dinner given by Pierre Cardin and Princesse Ghislaine de Polignac and a breakfast-show by Guy Laroche at Paris' newest chic nightclub, the Club 78.

The collections will be focusing on hemlines, with the accent on short, knee-length skirts. Fashion-watchers like to contrast the new hemlines with those of 1970, when Yves Saint Laurent, widely acknowledged now as France's most influential designer, brought out a nearly floor-length maxi-skirt, in reaction to the mini boom of the 60s.

Since then, skirts have zoomed up and down, with most hovering below the knee. There have been lots of floppy clothes and swirling voluminous skirts. And then the shaped look made a come-back only last year.

Next spring's silhouette will cling close to the body, with little short Spencer jackets emphasizing the waist. You'll see hip-hugging or even rounded-hip skirts, straight or flared out at the hem, with pleated skirts to make life easy for people who walk.

Jan Matulka's work on view at museum

NEW YORK (AP) — The first retrospective of work by Jan Matulka 1890-1972 is on view at the Whitney Museum of American Art through Feb. 24.

Matulka's works range in style from cubist abstractions to precisionist cityscapes to still-life arrangements and more conventional landscapes.

Some 65 paintings, drawings and prints executed between 1916 and 1938 are being shown. The museum says they offer "a remarkable overview of the extraordinary shifts in styles and artistic attitudes in American art during that period."

Rape victim shares story

Dr. Wallace: I'm telling my story so that it might help a troubled girl. Five months ago, on my way home from work, I was raped.

I didn't want to go to the police but my parents insisted. The police were very understanding and sent me to a professional trained in this type of problem.

I now find myself pregnant because of my misfortune. I made the decision to have the baby despite all the hassles of people trying to force abortion on me.

My decision caused me to lose the guy that meant an awful lot to me.

I'm not sure I made the right choice but I know I couldn't have made it this far if it wasn't for my close friends, my family and my doctor.

There have been girls who have been raped but are afraid to tell anyone. They keep it bottled up inside. I went for help and it was the best thing I could have done. With the guidance of God and the help of my family, I know everything will turn out fine.

Girls, if anything should ever happen to you the way it did to me, tell someone — the police, a doctor, a clergyman or best of all, your parents. — Nameless, Columbus City, Ind.

Nameless: Thank you for sharing your experience with us. I hope your advice may help some other girl in a similar unfortunate situation.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17 and my parents have been divorced for about three years. For the last two years I have been living in a foster home with foster parents that are very good to me.

My 6-year-old brother lives in a different foster home and my 14-year-old sister lives with my mother.

When we were first taken away from our parents, we were terrified. We all thought it was my father's fault, and none of us kids wanted anything to do with him.

But as time went by, I learned that my mother was equally guilty in wrecking our family.

About two months ago I started to visit my father on Sundays. My boyfriend has been taking me to see him.

At first, my mother was happy that I was seeing my father, but now she actually hates me for seeing him.

When I see my mother, she screams at me and says that I shouldn't see my dad anymore.

I was planning to move in with my mother but now I don't know. Should I quit seeing my dad and move in with Mother, or should I stay with my foster parents until I'm 18 and continue to see both my parents, hoping that Mother will settle down? — Lisa, Columbus, Ohio

Lisa: Naturally, the final decision is yours but I would stay with your foster parents. I think that moving in with Mother, at this time, would cause friction and tension.

Wily Widows, Wary Wives?

DEAR ABBY: I can certainly sympathize with FRUSTRATED IN ARIZONA. I am 68 years old, 5 feet 1, weigh 210 pounds and have been a widow for five years.

From my description, you know I am not exactly a glamour-puss, but would you believe that these dumb wives have the nerve to be jealous of me and the dried-up prunes that are their husbands?

Women I've known all my life dropped me like a hot potato when I became a widow. I don't think I come on too strong and I certainly am no threat to anybody's marriage.

My husband was a handsome, friendly "kissing bug." He always hugged and kissed my girlfriends who were divorced or widowed, but I always invited them to our parties, and we all had a great time.

I say the wives are paranoid! Don't they realize that they, too, could become widows with the blink of an eye?

Thanks for letting me blow off some steam, Abby. I hope other widows will write to you about this.

LONE DUMPLING

DEAR DUMPLING: They did. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe that you called FRUSTRATED IN ARIZONA "a touch paranoid."

What do you know about what a widow or divorcee has to put up with? You have had no experience along that line, and I pray you never do.

I am 72, and have been both a widow and a divorcee in the last 10 years. It is absolutely true that married women are jealous of their husbands in the company of single women. And you should see some of those old crocks. Believe me, I wouldn't have one for a gift!

ALONE AND SATISFIED IN MIAMI

DEAR ABBY: I think you owe FRUSTRATED IN ARIZONA an apology. Widows and divorcees are not "paranoid" — there is a very real antagonism against them.

I moved to Phoenix 15 years ago as a 37-year-old divorcee, having previously lived in Cincinnati, New York, San Francisco and Cleveland and I can't begin to tell you how shabbily I was treated! I just stopped going to parties where there were married people.

Phoenix has fewer eligible men than any city I've ever lived in, which makes it wonderful for married men. They do pursue, hence their wives are leery of every unattached female, and with good reason. But it's not very pleasant for the unattached female.

In Phoenix, the wives are friendly as long as their husbands aren't around. Talk about paranoid — it's the wives, not the single women, who are paranoid!

If FRUSTRATED is living in one of the retirement communities, she'll find more widowers than widows. Sun City is called "Sin City" by the locals. That should tell you something!

NOT PARANOID

DEAR ABBY: You are dead wrong when you called FRUSTRATED IN ARIZONA, "self-conscious, insecure and a touch paranoid."

I am 67, still attractive and have been a widow for four years. I have tried the senior citizen-mobile-home living, and FRUSTRATED was right. The jealousy and hate on the part of wives drove me back into living in an apartment, where the young people living around me ask for my help and call me their "second grandma." I love it. Here I am not bothered by jealous wives whose husbands love to flirt. Most married women make life very unpleasant for widows.

Sports festival talked

Contingency plans

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee, supporting President Carter's wishes to move the Summer Games out of Moscow, has begun to make contingency plans to hold a national sports festival as an alternative to the Olympics.

There is even talk of a July Fourth ticker tape parade to honor American athletes who have trained for years to participate in the quadrennial Games that are now embroiled in international politics.

At the same time, however, the USOC is working on making a deal on Carter's request to send American athletes to Moscow because of the Soviets' military occupation of Afghanistan.

The USOC executive board, with 68 of its 86 members attending, voted unanimously Saturday to support Carter and to ask the International Olympic Committee to transfer, postpone or cancel the Moscow Games unless Soviet troops are withdrawn from Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

President Carter, returning to the White House Sunday evening from Camp David, Md., where he spent the weekend, was asked if he was pleased by the board's action.

"I'm very much so," he replied.

The USOC will present Carter's proposal to the IOC before the start of the Winter Games, which open Feb. 13 in Lake Placid, N.Y.

USOC representatives are testifying today before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Carter's recommendation. The House voted overwhelmingly last week to back the president.

Meanwhile, the USOC voted Sunday to continue efforts to develop an Olympic team which most likely would compete this summer in Colorado Springs, the site of two previous National Sports Festivals, although Montreal and Philadelphia were mentioned as possible sites.

White House counsel Lloyd Cutler has said the Carter administration was prepared to ask Congress for funds to help pay for any expenses incurred by a national sports festival or moving the Olympics to another site.

George E. Killian, president of the National Junior College Athletic Association, suggested that this year's U.S. Olympic team should be given a "ticker tape parade up Broadway in New York," whether or not the athletes go to Moscow.

Killian, who is also president of the American Basketball Association — USA, said he felt something should be done for the athletes, including many whose dreams for Olympic glory likely would vanish with a boycott.

"With our men, it is a one-shot deal," Killian said. "Most likely the ones who could make the team would turn pro and their amateur career would be over."

He said he could think of no better tribute to the American athlete than a New York ticker tape parade.

Hawk teams play Badgers tonight

AMARILLO — The Howard College Hawks and Hawk Queens invade town tonight for two very important Western Junior Conference games.

All four teams come into battle needing wins over the other, as each team is close to the other in the WJC standings. This will be very important at the season's end, as a win or a loss tonight could make a big difference in determining representatives to the Region V Tournament in early March.

The Amarillo College Lady Badgerettes enter the contest as the nation's seventh ranked juco outfit. They have lost twice in conference action, however, to only one loss for the Hawk Queens.

Amarillo's Betty Jones is the big threat for Amarillo, as she leads the WJC in scoring, and is second in rebounding.

The men's contest features the two top scorers in WJC play in Howard College's Mike Wallace and Amarillo's Vic Mitchell. It should be an interesting match-up, as Mitchell stands 6'10" and Wallace is 6'7".

Amarillo enters the contest with a 3-4 conference mark, while Howard is 4-4 in WJC play.

Howard is currently in fifth place in the conference play, while Amarillo is sixth. Only the top five teams at the season's end will be eligible for a berth in the Region V Tournament.

For San Diego title

Watson wins in playoff

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I thought I had it won on 17, then I thought I had lost on 18," Tom Watson said.

Neither happened.

He had to go to an extra hole to subdue D.A. Weibring in a sudden death playoff Sunday for the title in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

The playoff, a one-hole which Watson won with a two-putt par against Weibring's bogey, was more or less routine. Little of the rest was.

Watson had a wild series of adventures in the cool, cloudy, breezy weather. He'd started the day with a two-stroke lead, later trailed by three, again led by two, was tied, led again, then was tied.

The last lead was established on the 17th hole. Watson's 35-40 foot birdie putt paused, tantalizingly, on the lip of the cup. It sat there for a couple of seconds while Watson turned his back in disgust. Then it dropped, sending Watson leaping into the air and scampering around the green.

But he gave it back on the par-5 18th. He put his second shot over the green, chipped back poorly, then three-putted for bogey 6, missing a three-foot second putt that sent it into a playoff.

"If I'd lost in the playoff, I'd have deserved it," Watson told wife Linda.

But he didn't. He was on in two and two-putted for par.

Weibring, 26 and rapidly establishing himself as one of the game's most promising young players, drove behind a tree. He had to play out, pitched up to about 3-4 feet, then missed the par-saving putt.

"I'm not disappointed," he said. "I'm annoyed at blowing that little putt, but losing to the best player in the game is something else. It was a great day for me."

It appeared he was right on all counts.

It was a great day in that he fired a spectacular, 7-

Buckeyes NFC has things under control in Pro Bowl

HONOLULU (AP) — "I can remember when we seemed to lose this one just about every year, too," Coach Tom Landry said. "Well, now that we've got this one under control, it would be nice to get the same thing going with the Super Bowl."

The "we" Landry talked about is the National Conference. "This one" is the Pro Bowl — which the NFC won Sunday by beating the American Conference 37-27.

It's about the only thing the NFC can seem to win with regularity. The AFC has won seven of the last eight season series (the eight was a tie) and seven of the last eight super Bowls, too.

Terry Bradshaw, though, displayed a cavalier attitude. Unlike a week earlier, when he won Most Valuable Player honors for his superb quarterbacking of the Steelers in their 31-19 Super Bowl victory over Los Angeles, Bradshaw wore the goat horns here for throwing two interceptions, both of which preceded NFC touchdowns.

Winning is very important to Chuck Muncie and Archie Manning of New Orleans and the rest of the NFC stars. After all, $5,000 is not something to be ignored. That's how much each winning player received, twice what each loser got.

Muncie was the runaway choice as the MVP in his first Pro Bowl. The Saints' running back, who led all rushers with 71 yards in 12 carries, scored touchdowns on a 1-yard dive at the start of the second period and on an 11-yard sweep early in the fourth quarter. And Muncie's halfback option pass to Dallas wide receiver Tony Hill accounted for a third NFC touchdown.

"I'm gonna use the money to pay off the bills my wife and I have been running up here," Muncie said of his winning share. And Manning, who completed a sparkling nine of 10 passes for 112 yards — including a 13-yard scoring strike to Detroit's David Hill just 75 seconds before Muncie's toss added: "I had a lot of motivation for this game. I brought my whole family over here and I needed the $5,000 to break even."

Aggies rest atop SWC; host Houston tonight

The first half of the Southwest Conference basketball race winds down tonight, and the Texas Aggies are perched at the top with their perfect 7-0 mark.

They host Houston while their two closest contenders — Arkansas and Texas Tech — clash in Lubbock.

Arkansas is a game behind at 6-1 but Tech led two games off the pace by losing a 76-75 match at SMU Saturday night.

This loss puts a different perspective on things for us. We've got to start thinking two ways now — try to finish high as we can in the conference, and hope someone can beat A&M." Red Raider coach Gerald Myers said after the loss to SMU.

The top three teams get byes into the SWC postseason tournament, which is scheduled for Feb. 28-March 1 at HemisFair Arena in San Antonio. The fourth, fifth and sixth place finishers in round-robin play host playoff games to determine the three other spots in the tourney.

With the win, SMU catapulted past TCU and Baylor into sixth place and Mustang coach Sonny Allen said his team's chances look brighter now.

"Now we're back in the middle of the pack and fighting for a good position in the tournament. It was a big win for us," Allen said.

Besides the Houston-A&M and Arkansas-Tech games tonight, TCU is at Baylor and Texas at Rice.

Texas A&M and Southern Methodist both led most of the way in their games Saturday, but both had to sweat out last-second shots that could have turned the victories into losses.

John Danks' driving jump shot from inside the lane bounced off the front of the rim with six seconds to play that would have given Texas an apparent 55-54 victory over A&M.

And Tech had a shot blocked with four seconds to play, followed by a missed 28-foot shot at the buzzer, that would have given the Red Raiders the win over SMU.

"A last-second shot in Austin and another one here, and Tech would be in first place," SMU coach Sonny Allen observed.

Not just Tech, but Arkansas too. It would have been a three-way logjam at the top.

But the shots didn't fall and the Aggies won 56-53, SMU won 76-75, Arkansas pulled away in the second half to beat Rice 73-64, and Houston clipped Baylor 82-74.

Vernon Smith and Rynn Wright scored 11 each for A&M, while Danks scored 16 and Ron Baxter 18 for Texas. David Little had 27 to lead five Tech players in double figures, while six SMU players scored from 11 to 13 points.

Robert Williams scored 23 points and Larry Rogers 20 for Houston, with Terry Teagle getting 26 for Baylor. Scott Hastings led a balanced Arkansas attack with 15 points, while Kenny Austin led Rice with 20.

Landry will see ex-poke

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys head coach Tom Landry will agree to one more visit with fired linebacker Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson, but he's not sure they have much to talk about.

During the weekend, a penitent Henderson revealed he will make another effort to rejoin the Cowboys, who dismissed him in the middle of the 1979 National Football League season.

Henderson said his approach to Landry will be simple: "I'm going to ask him to forgive me."

"I don't know if it would work or not but if I made up my mind to conform and prove I could do all the things I didn't do with the Cowboys, and if I said I would to conform... would he (Landry) give me another chance?"

Landry, in Hawaii to coach the NFC Pro Bowl team, said, "I cannot comment until I talk to him. I just talked to him last week."

Landry and Henderson had several meetings before the firing, during which Landry said he told the linebacker about areas in which he needed to improve.

The coach often expressed distaste at Henderson's outspokenness and braggadocio, Henderson admitted.

"We've met before," said Henderson, "but all he's said is, 'When I get back from the Pro Bowl we'll see what we need.' I said, 'Well, you need me,' and his reply was 'We could always use you.' He said it kind of jokingly," Henderson said.

Landry said despite the firing, he likes Henderson personally.

"He and I have no problems — except playing football for the Cowboys," Landry said.

The coach threw Henderson off the team Nov. 19, saying the brash, talkative linebacker had become a disruptive influence.

At the time, Henderson said he would retire from football. Now, though, he wants another chance.

Aggies rest atop SWC; host Houston tonight

It was virtually an all-Saints show, another star of the game being New Orleans safety Tom Myers. With the NFC leading by 10 points at the start of the fourth quarter, Bradshaw completed passes of 17 yards to Cleveland's Mike Pruitt and 18 yards to Stallworth to put the AFC at the NFC 12.

Then, as John Stallworth slanted across the field, Myers stepped in front of him at the 7, picked off Bradshaw's pass and ran it back 40 yards. Six plays later, Muncie scored from the 11, the NFC lead ballooned to 37-20 and the second of Earl Campbell's two short TD runs didn't hurt a bit.

The score went to 30-10 in the third quarter when the eagles' Wally Henry, outshone on kick returns most of the day by Denver's Rick Upchurch, took a punt and sprinted 86 yards for a touchdown. It was just four yards shy of Billy Johnson's Pro Bowl punt-return record.

All sorts of tie-ins

NEW YORK (AP) — Once a year the New York baseball writers don't greasepaint and crazy costumes and turn themselves into thespians, staging acts that lampoon the diamond personalities and athletes they have harangued all year.

It wasn't exactly Rodgers and Hammerstein — or even Shakespeare — but the 1980 version of this theatrical extravaganza was produced Sunday night before hundreds of delighted buffs at a midtown hotel.

It was strictly inside stuff. It tickled a lot of funny bones.

But why a charade? Why not let the diamond figures act out their own little dramas?

Billy Martin, for instance, is a ready-made Billy the Kid, wide-brimmed hat, boots and all, the feisty gunslinger who never lost a barroom shootout. Give him a shot at Doc Holliday.

Lou Brock would go great as a stand-in for Willie Sutton, the notorious bandit who said he robbed banks because that's where the money is. Lou pilfered bases because that was the easiest way to get all the way around.

George Steinbrenner, after purchasing the New York Yankees, said he always thought of America as "Yankee pinstripes." Kate Smith and apple pie."

Senate ready to endorse Carter's Olympic Games boycott plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is ready to endorse President Carter's proposal that the United States Olympic Committee boycott the Olympic Games in Moscow this summer unless the Soviet Union withdraws its occupation army from Afghanistan by Feb. 20.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee arranged to make the Olympic issue its first order of business today and was expected to send the matter to the Senate floor after hearing from government witnesses, Olympic committee officials and American athletes.

The president had asked the Senate to follow the lead of the House and approve the resolution of support last week before the Olympic committee's weekend meeting.

But Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the Foreign Relations Committee chairman, said he wanted to hold hearings before his committee votes. Church, who approves of the boycott proposal, has suggested moving the games to another site.

"I don't want to give the Russians a multi-billion dollar propaganda victory like the one scored by the Nazis in 1936," Church said. "It would be highly inappropriate to hold these games in Moscow with the Soviet army in occupation of Afghanistan."

At its Saturday session in Colorado Springs, Colo., the USOC agreed to back Carter's stand and laid the groundwork for games of its own if Americans boycott the Moscow Olympics.

The House voted 386 to 12 Thursday to second the president's call for a boycott unless the Soviet troops leave Afghanistan. The Senate's support of the boycott also was expected to be overwhelming.

In other action this week in Congress: —The Senate Energy Committee is meeting to hear Carter administration energy officials discuss the president's plans for standby gasoline rationing.

The president must submit to Congress his plan for imposing gasoline rationing in the event of a 20 percent oil shortage. Carter is submitting such a plan but congressional sources say he may also ask Congress to lower the threshold level for triggering actual rationing to 5 percent.

The House was resuming debate today on a $4.3 billion water projects bill that contains a wide array of flood control, harbor navigation and erosion control projects around the country.

Carter, a long-time foe of costly water projects, will likely veto the bill if it passes in its present form, according to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr.

Opponents of the legislation have filed more than 200 amendments seeking to trim its size, thus guaranteeing a long debate.

A long-running House-Senate conference committee will resume negotiations Wednesday between the two houses' versions of the "windfall profits" bill to tax oil company revenue.

Carter wants a so-called "windfall profits" tax to accompany his program for gradually ending price controls on domestically produced oil. Technically, the tax would be on the extra revenue from decontrol, not profits. Without the tax, the oil companies would keep more of the revenue as profits.

Disappointment--not defeat -- in Soul City

SOUL CITY, N.C. (AP) — Things haven't worked out the way Janice and Maurice Crump hoped back in 1974, when they arrived here from Atlanta to help scratch a new town out of 2,000 acres of woods and pasture.

They thought Soul City would be a real city by now, built from the ground up with the help of federal dollars.

Instead only about 130 people live here, and the Department of Housing and Urban Development is dropping the "new town" project after spending $31 million.

Soul City, the only black-backed "new town" among the 13 such projects originally conceived during the Johnson administration, is the eighth to lose federal support.

The Crumps say it's been "difficult and disheartening."

"But we've been here so long we've got a stake in it, and we're going to stay," said Mrs. Crump, who runs the town parks and recreation department.

The Crumps and others were attracted to poor, rural Warren County — 50 miles north of Raleigh — by the idea of black capitalism backing a new community.

Begun in 1969 by Floyd McKissick, former president of the Congress of Racial Equality, Soul City offered a new opportunity for racial cooperation and an alternative to migration to the North.

What it has become instead is an expensive lesson for HUD, which announced last June it was dropping its support.

McKissick filed suit to stop HUD's pullout. Federal Judge Joyce Green has given both sides until March 17 to negotiate a settlement.

Lawyers now are trying to agree on a formula by which most of the town's assets — its land, streets and a few buildings — will be turned over to HUD, and by which creditors and investors will be satisfied.

HUD gave up on Soul City because it failed to meet its goals for growth and because projections showed it would never be able to repay its debts, said Albert Diehl, assistant deputy director of HUD's New Community Development Corp.

HUD began its support of Soul City in 1972 and provided a total of $19 million in grants and $10 million in loan guarantees. Repayment of interest on those loans has brought the government's total to $31 million, Diehl said.

When McKissick began the town he projected it would have 18,000 people by now. In 1974 he revised that estimate to 46,000 in 30 years.

The town's population is higher than the 130 HUD counts, McKissick contends, because 600 people living within a one-mile radius are affected by Soul City. But inside the town are only 35 housing units and 150 jobs, he admitted.

There are two industries, one making handicrafts and the other mobile-home furniture, but the town's biggest employer, a cut-and-sew operation making military duffle bags and packs, left town when HUD's decision was announced.

The end of federal support does not necessarily mean the death of Soul City, however. Its first major industry — Perdue Inc., the Maryland-based chicken processor — this month bought 500 acres on which it plans to build a $25 million plant that will employ more than 1,000 people.

The town's streets are paved, a water and sewer system is operating, the fire station is built and awaiting purchase of fire trucks, a recreational center with swimming pool and tennis courts is open and a health

Pakistan calls for joint Islamic condemnation

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Pakistan's president and a succession of foreign ministers called on a meeting of most of the world's Islamic nations to join in condemnation of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and retaliatory measures against the Russians.

The options being considered are breaking relations with Russia, boycotting the Moscow Olympics and economic sanctions.

"An unequivocal message should go forth from this conference conveying to the Soviet Union the grave concern of the Islamic world at the presence of its troops in Afghanistan and calling on that great power to reverse the course of its military intervention," said President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq of Pakistan as he opened the three-day conference Sunday.

"This is the first instance since World War II when a superpower has made a sovereign and independent Moslem country the target of its attack. In plain words, if this precedent is allowed to perpetuate itself, then what has happened in Afghanistan today can happen in another country tomorrow."

Zia urged the Moslem states to consider "ways and means" for their "collective defense rather than the defense of individual nations. History bears witness that only by collective and concerted action can nations withstand the challenges that are posed to them."

The foreign ministers of Gambia, Malaysia and Morocco also condemned the Soviet intervention before the hall was cleared of reporters. A total of 4 Moslem nations and the Palestine Liberation Organization are attending the conference, while Afghanistan, Syria and six others stayed away.

Afghanistan's Soviet-backed government announced it would consider decisions made at the Islamabad conference "null and void." However, Afghan President Babrak Karmal made a new overture to the Moslem guerrillas fighting communist rule by promising "full freedom and immunity" to religious and tribal leaders who fled the country after the first communist coup 21 months ago.

The new communist government, Afghanistan's third, also announced it was taking down all leftist slogans and pictures including red signs proclaiming worker solidarity.

There also have been unconfirmed rumors the Soviets will replace Karmal soon with someone who has a reputation as a devoted Moslem more independent of Moscow. According to the rumors, the Soviet troops will spend about a year rebuilding the decimated Afghan army and at least a year more wiping out the last pockets of rebel resistance.

Meanwhile, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was visiting Syria and in a speech there charged that the United States is "the worst enemy of Islam and Third World nations."

He said the United States wants "to try to convince the Islamic world that it wants to protect them against so-called Soviet ambitions at a time when it protects Israel and its occupation of Islamic lands and holy places."

Kinsey asks re-election

LAMESA — Ralph W. Kinsey, the incumbent, has announced he will seek re-election to the office of Dawson County attorney.

Another candidate for office will be Jimmy L. Slatten, offering for the position of County Commissioner, Precinct 1.

Slatten operates a junk store in Lamesa and is engaged in farming.

Slatten indicated he would campaign on the theory that the incumbent, J.E. Airhart, has been in office long enough and that it is time for a change.

"We need new blood at the courthouse," Slatten said.
