Canadian Embassy smuggles six Americans from Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) -American diplomats who had been hiding in friendly embassies in Tehran since Nov. 4 have escaped with the help of the Canadian embassy there, State Department officials said

The diplomats were outside the embassy when it was seized and were able to hide until this past weekend, when Canada issued them false passports and got them out of Iran, said the officials, who declined use of

Worst weather of season hits

It was 'business as usual' in Big Spring today, despite the fact the worst weather of the winter hit the Temperatures dipped to 21 degrees. A brisk breeze out of the north dropped the chill factor to five degrees below zero.

The area was visited first by a mist and then by light snow but all Big Spring schools were open and the buses were running. The Department of Public Safety issued warnings all morning about ice forming on bridges and overpasses.

The weather was expected to hang on most of the day but the temperatures are due to improve by Wed-

Bird watchers, exotic creature frequent visitors

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Al Aton, who live 1.10 miles south of Driver Road in the Silver Heels addition, is attracting bird watchers by the dozens

An exotic bird, a Varied Thrush, is frequenting the area and darts into the Aton porch daily to feed.

No one in this area can recollect having seen a Varied Thrush in this area before. Slightly smaller than a robin, which it resembles, it spends its summers in Alaska and ordinarily winters in California.

Perhaps the freeway traffic or the smog drove the creature eastward but it seems in no hurry to vacate this area. The bird was first seen by the Atons about New Year's Day.

Classified ads for speedy sale

One person who subscribed for a six-day $5 special ad being offered by the Herald obviously under-estimated the readership of that particular part of the paper.

The purchaser of the ad offered an electric kiln for sale. The kiln was sold the first day it was advertised and the buyer of the ad hurried to the telephone to get it out of the paper.

Coast Guard cutter, tanker collide today

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) -Divers recovered four bodies from the broken hull of a sunken Coast Guard cutter and were searching this morning for 21 others possibly sealed inside after a collision with a tanker just outside Tampa Bay.

The body of one crewman was pulled from the water shortly after the collision Monday night. Coast Guard Lt. Phil Biedenbender said divers today found one body on the cutter's deck, one in the main passageway, and one in the engine room.

'The divers have entered through hatchways, but so far they have not found anything," said Lt. David Baird, a spokeman at the St. Petersburg Coast Guard station.

Baird said the search was hampered by murky water that limited visibility to 3 to 4 feet.

Divers received no response earlier when they tapped the cutter's hull

"They're gone," said one shivering survivor at a makeshift medical center on shore. "The guys that are down there are gone. The cause of the collision, in calm seas under clear skies, was not known. None of the tanker's cargo spilled, but fuel oil leaked from the Duty officer Scott Hutchins said today that 28 of the 53 crewmen aboard the Blackthorn were accounted for, including one confirmed dead who was not identified. Authorities offered varying opinions about the prospects for anyone trapped inside the cutter.

'All these people are under shock, and it would be hard for them to last very long," said Coast Guard spokesman Lance Jones.

"From what we understand, it went

Nearly two dozen scuba divers, working under the floodlights of helicopters hovering overhead, attempted early today to check for survivors in the sunken ship, but were forced to turn back.

"The original divers were called back because the currents were too strong down there," Hutchins said. "They never got to take a good look inside the ship. As a matter of fact, they never got inside the ship.

Hutchins said two sets of hard-hat divers were to resume the search for survivors later today.

No injuries were reported to the 30 crewmen aboard the Capricorn, owned by Apex Marine of New York.

tanker's more than 150,000 barrels of fuel oil spilled after the collision which occurred at 8:20 p.m. EST.

The Blackthorn, in service as a buoy tender, had been in drydock in Tampa for 30 days, while the tanker was headed into Tampa Bay.

Skies were clear and seas werecalm when the ships hit less than a mile west of the Sunshine Skyway Bridge connecting St. Petersburg and the Bradenton-Sarasota area.

"It rolled and straightened up." an unidentified survivor said. "Then it started rolling again and it started to go over. I could see the people sliding off. There was nothing to hold on to. I couldn't believe how cold it was in the water or the stink of the fuel."

Survivors said everything happened so fast they didn't have time to reach

Kennedy delivers hard-edged speech; outlines candidacy

nedy, delivering the hard-edged speech that supporters had expected long ago, is moving to silence the critics and cynics who question why he wants to be president.

After three months of campaigning, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., spelled out to the nation - and perhaps even to himself — a specific outline of his candidacy.

Bluntly and methodically, politically and philosophically, Kennedy moved Monday to set himself apart from President Carter.

He attacked Carter's policy on Afghanistan. Iran. The economy. Draft registration. He lampooned the Carter Doctrine, questioning whether Carter had the commitment to back up his rhetoric. And returning to his original campaign theme, Kennedy questioned whether Carter has the ability to lead the nation:

"I believe we must not permit the dream of social progress to be shattered by those whose promises have failed. We cannot permit the Democratic Party to remain captive to those who have been so confused by

Kennedy went to Georgetown University, almost shouting distance from the White House, to deliver what his staff billed a "major policy address." It was that and more. It was Kennedy's effort to explain to the nation the question often asked and never really answered: Why? Why does Ted Kennedy think he should be president? The answer came in a litany of thinly veiled criticisms of Jimmy Carter's presidency.

— "I want to be the president who at last closes tax loopholes and tames monopoly, so that the free enterprise system will be free in fact

-"I want to be the president who brings national health insurance to feguard every family from the fear of bankruptcy due to illness

"I want to be the president who halts the loss of rural land to giant conglomerates and who declines to accept urban slums, unequal schools and an unemployment rate in the inner city that approaches 50 per-

It was the kind of straightforward talk supporters had expected weeks ago when Kennedy took on the task of unseating Carter. This time, Kennedy met their expectations, issuing precise and toughtalking challenges to specific policies of the incumbent. "All of us condemn the brutal Soviet invasion of Afghanistan... it must be met with an appropriate response by the United States and all our allies,' Kennedy said.

"But is this really the gravest threat to peace since World War II? ...A measured response to the potential threat in the P certain principles that will prove less hazardous and more effective than a unilateral and unlimited American commitment

The address was, Kennedy acknowledged, his answer to Carter's State of the Union speech last week. But it was also his political strategy for getting back into the race dominated by Carter: a direct challenge of Carter policies

 Kennedy urged a six-month freeze on wages and prices to be followed by mandatory economic controls.

 He called for a United Nations commission to investigate Iran's grievances against the deposed shah. He called for a mandatory program of gasoline rationing.

- He said Carter's response to the discovery of Russian troops in Cuba last year "may have invited the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.'

Acknowledging the faltering start to his candidacy and his solid defeat in Iowa last week, Kennedy brought the friendly crowd to its feet with his promise, "And for all these commitments, I have only just begun to show business staple for 64 years. A stroke in November 1972 left him partially paralyzed and he was forced to say good night to Mrs. Calabash for the last time. Two years later, he was honored at a tearful appearance before the Banshees in New York.

An audience of 800 - mostly family, friends, staffers and press - was crammed into a small Georgetown University auditorium.

Joan Kennedy sat in the front row with two of their three children, Kara and Patrick. In back of them were the usual crowd of Kennedys - sisters, nieces and nephews.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Jimmy Durante, the brash, raspy-voiced comic who joked and sang his way to fame at the expense of a huge nose, died today. He was 86.

Durante artfully combined wild clowning, outrageous charac-terizations and pathos. He was a leading star on radio and in early television. He made nearly 30 movies, but he was most successful in those involving his old routines. He ended his radio and television performances with "Good night, Mrs. Calabash,

He remained active in show business, playing regular engagements in Las Vegas and making guest appearances on television until his stroke in 1972. He was left partially paralyzed in the left arm and left leg and was confined to a wheelchair.

After 64 years in show business, the comedian found retirement hard to accept. He remained at home with his wife, Marjorie, and their adopted daughter, Cece, rarely going out.

President Carter, who frequently boasts that he has reduced unemployment by 25 percent, will have to with-draw that claim if his new economic forecast proves Carter predicted Monday in his 1981 budget report that a mild recession will push unemployment to 7.5 percent this fall as his first term comes to an end. That would put the rate just above the 7.4 percent level he faced when he took office in January 1977.

At the end of 1979, the jobless rate stood at 5.9 percent which meant that 6.1 million people who were looking for work had no jobs. Based on Carter's new forecast, 1.7 million people will be joining unem-

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity. A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true.

Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat.

That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it.

The fuel we use costs money. And the cost of the fuel to produce your electricity is shown separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want into the Atlantic Ocean dropped off into space, the Mediterranean was a source of strength and great comfort to mankind. Seafarers even before the ancient Greeks sailed its waters. No other body of water anywhere has played so prominent a role in history.

Its importance remains undiminished today. It is still the world's biggest tourist magnet and ships from almost every nations ply its waters.

To a concentration of population and activity, however, are born problems. On the sea's coastline are 120 major cities, all of whose sewage systems empty into the Mediterranean.

Many industries, too, pour out all their wastes into the great sea. Such abuse creates massive problems for the 100 million people who live on or near its shores and the 100 million who vacation there each summer. It threatens the health of all human beings and it reduces the food supply at a critical time in history

In January 1975, representatives of 16 Mediterranean countries met in Barcelona to lay plans for cleaning up the lake. Undertakings of such magnitude aren't accomplished overnight, but great improvement has FRANCE HAS probably the most comprehensive policy toward the problem. For many years, that nation has enforced rules on what kind of can flow into the waste Mediterranean.

Spain has specific laws that compel any municipality or industry discharging wastes into the Mediterranean to apply for special permits.

Italy was slow to react to the challenge but adopted water quality control laws in 1976 that can only help. In Yugoslavia, an agency monitors all of the nation's waters

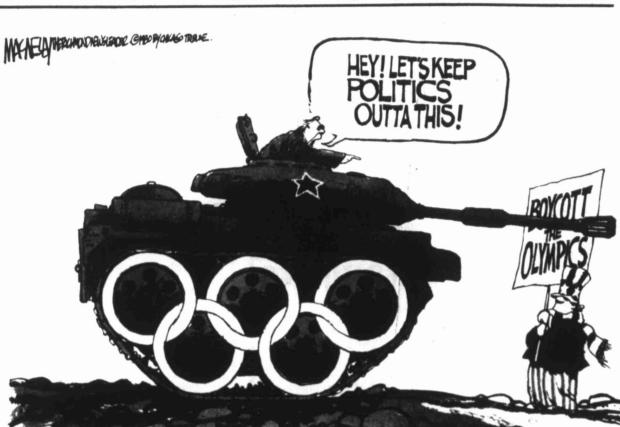

Tiny Malta is much more resolute. having adopted very comprehensive clean water codes three years ago.

Greece clamps down hard on discharges from both ships and shore installations.

Such nations as Turkey, Syria and Lebanon do not have effective antipollution drives under way, probably because of political instability

Israel is pressing with its national clean water effort. Egypt has a program that has cleaned up much of the sea off the Nile Delta. Some one should tell the Libyans to get busy oil pollution off that nation's coast is said to be a growing menace.

Mankind everywhere should rally to fight the problem of creeping decay. His future depends much more on his ability to control pollution than it does on Middle Eastern oil. If he doesn't get in harmony with the environment again, it will viciously turn on him

Should curtail swimming

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I get a skin reaction to anything cold, including cold wind. I get redness, itching, white welts, then giant hives. This lasts from 30 minutes to 12 hours. Once, after swimming, I was unable to stand without passing out. I started getting these symptoms when I was 20. I am now 23. I am not allergic to anything else. My questions: Have you heard about this before, should I go to a doctor, and, if so, what kind? -

You've described "cold urticaria" well, urticaria referring to hives. It's one of the physical allergies. A cold wind may bring on the reaction. Swimming in cold water can cause a severe drop in blood pressure in persons with this problem. There is danger of drowning, so you should curtail your swimming. In some patients, cold urticaria is associated with an underlying illness, but most sufferers are healthy individuals. Rarely, a peculiar blood protein can be detected - cryoglo-bulins. Usually, however, the symptoms represent a histamine reaction. Certainly, see your doctor. He can help identify an underlying cause, such as lupus, which can be treated. Some physicians have tried desensitization by immersing a hand or an arm in water and gradually decreasing the temperature. For now, use every way you can find to avoid cold exposure and forget about swimming, certainly until you have been examined. It was the profound drop in blood pressure from immersion that brought about your faintness after swimming. Dear Dr. Donohue: About three weeks ago, I started a program of exercise and dieting. My calorie intake is between 600 and 800 calories a day. I bicycle, lift weights and do jazz exercises. Instead of losing I have gained. I weighed 123 pounds. Now I weight 128. I am 37 and am 5 feet 4 inches tall. I know I am retaining fluid but I don't know why. Could you explain why I've gained instead of lost?

Do I need to take water pills? - M.G.

Thomas Watson

Clarence A. Benz

It is very difficult to gain weight eater than the number taken in (in food). If you are retaining fluid, a decrease in salt intake might help eliminate that. I would forget water pills unless a doctor finds an underlying cause for the retention.

From the statistics you give me I see little reason for a weight reduction program. If you are weighing yourself with shoes and clothing on, and if you are of average frame, you are a bit underweight. If you are trying to 'spot" reduce, as around your hips, for example, calorie restriction won't help. Appropriate exercises might. You might want to study "Lost Secrets of Reducing." This little booklet offers a rational approach to losing weight, should you decide you must do that. For a copy send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 14-vear-old girl is forever complaining about lights hurting her eyes. Then she says she has splitting headaches afterward. I have been a chronic sinus sufferer and I presume she has just inherited this trait. Is this just a passing thing? Mine eventually disappeared, although I'm bothered occasionally. Can you offer any suggestions? — Mrs. T.O.

This does not sound like sinus headache to me. From your description it does sound like migraine. Various signs, such as visual disturbance, when the number of calories burned often precede migraine attacks. This should be examined.

Dear Dr. Donohue: For the four vears we've been married my husband will wake up in the morning with a very stuffy head. He has always used a lot of nosedrops and sprays to relieve this condition. Now. however, he seems to be overusing sprays, especially the new longlasting ones. He will use them three or four times a day rather than once every 12 hours, as directed. Could this be causing a vicious cycle by irritating his sinus membranes? J.C.G.

You have it exactly right. Your husband is definitely overusing his nasal spray. He may be getting a rebound congestion (swelling) from them. He needs a thorough examination of his nose and sinuses. He is treating only his symptoms and not the cause of the stuffiness, which has to be determined.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I trusted Christ as my personal Savior several months ago, but I have trouble believing that God has forgiven me and loves me. How can I overcome this? - S.O.

DEAR S.O.: The question is not how you see yourself, but how God sees you. If God has accepted you and forgiven you, then the issue is settled. All you need to do is trust God - and He can be trusted, because He is God and will not lie.

This is exactly what has happened God has accepted you and forgiven you. He has brought you into His family, and you belong to Him. How do I know this? I know it because of what God has promised us in His Word. Look, for example, at what is probably the best-known verse in the Bible, John 3:16: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son, that whosever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." What does it promise? It promises that anyone who believes in Christ — truly trusts Him for salvation - will be saved. Note that the words "maybe" or "might be" are not in that verse. Or again, look at what the Bible tells us in 1 John 5:11-12: "And this is the testimony: God has given us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He who has the Son has life; he who does not have the Son of God does not have life." That is a promise to you from God Himself. If you have invited Christ into your life, He has come in and you now belong to Learn to trust God's Word, not jus your own feelings. Jesus Christ did everything necessary to bring salvation to you. It is a gift, and once you have received it, it is yours - and you are Christ's. I suggest you get down on your knees right now, and by faith thank God that you belong to Him and are His child. Then get into His Word, the Bible, and trust His promises to "Kramer vs. Kramer" is the best moviel have seen in over a year.

From the start, the story draws you in and keeps you there until it casts you out just as quickly as it drew you

The story is not that unusual. It just has not been a focus of much national attention. A mother leaves to find herself. In the process she also leaves her young son to the care of the husband who had neglected her real While she is gone, the husband learns to cope with the difficult situation into which he was abruptly thrust and a situation over which he has no control. The father and son develop a new routine and adjust to each other and become very close in the process. Then the mother returns, all together emotionally, and wants her son back. The only thing is the father doesn't want to give up the relationship that he and the boy have developed in the mother's absence. Then results the court battle and the nastiness that can result.

Dustin Hoffman plays the part of the husband rejected by the wife he thought he had been working so hard to please. Meryl Streep is the wife who cannot survive in the atmosphere of a housewife role. Both actor and actress give very moving and dramatic performances worthy of the best of

The viewer at first identifies with the situation cast upon Hoffman. But at the same time, the viewer cannot condemn Streep for her decision to leave. The performance of Streep and the well-written script allows the viewer to feel sorry for the mother as she returns wanting her son back. And at the same time, the performance of Hoffman draws the viewer back to the side of the devoted father.

After all, he was the one that had spent over a year playing both mother and father to the child, losing his job because of the attention he had to give the boy and then having to fight to keep that status.

You laugh, you cry and in the end you know that the decision made by the mother, not by the judge, is the right one for the little boy. Because, as the saying goes, "Mother knows best." Only in this case, it takes the mother some time to finally decide what is best.

There is one scene with nudity and some scenes with profanity but none is done in poor taste and they do not detract from the high quality of the movie itself.

Reds on move

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — There are whispers in Moscow that the Afghanistan invasion was forced upon the aging and ailing Soviet leader, Leonid Brezhnev, who was simply too weak to resist.

This would be a foreboding development for the world; it could mean that the Kremlin has fallen under the control of hardheads who are willing to use raw military power to expand the Soviet empire.

Their most likely objective would be the Persian Gulf — the oil heartland that pumps the industrial lifeblood to the western world. This could lead to the most dangerous confrontation in history, with bristling nuclear weaponry on both sides.

IT IS DIFFICULT to discern what goes on in the murky depths of the Kremlin. The leaders who inhabit it forms who enter and leave in black, curtained limousines. Their deliberations are unwatched and unchecked by the 263 million people they govern.

Our intelligence agencies, nevertheless, have succeeded in catching fleeting glimpses inside the Kremlin. On occasion, they have even intercepted the private conversations of Soviet leaders.

From top-secret intelligence reports and from the analyses of top U.S. Kremlinologists, I have pieced together an account of what has been going on behind those forbidding Kremlin walls.

There is general agreement that Brezhnev - against the opposition of the hardheads - had staked his leadership on detente. The showdown came in 1972 when Brezhnev invited then-President Richard Nixon to Moscow for a summit meeting.

Kremlin leaders try to hide their disputes behind an opaque front, but Brezhnev later confided to the party faithful that Nixon's visit had been opposed. Relates a top-secret report: In discussing the Central Committee meeting of May 1972, which approved President Nixon's visit despite the course of the war in Vietnam, Brezhnev hinted that there was opposition at this 'turning point'.

The opposition flared up again after Nixon mined Haiphong harbor, trapping 12 Soviet cargo ships inside a ring of explosive charges. The hardheads angrily demanded that the summit meeting be canceled.

But Brezhnev is described in the intelligence analyses as "a consensus politician" who has been able to balance the rival factions against one another. He succeeded in quieting the

In the final poll of the Politburo, only the Ukrainian party leader, Pyotr Shelest, would not be appeased. He growled that Nixon would not be welcome in the Ukraine. "I will not shake the hand that has been bloodied in Vietnam," he reportedly declared. Brezhnev turned to Vladimir Shcherbitsky, another Ukrainian, who ranked below Shelest in the Politburo. 'Do you agree with Comrade Pyotr?' Brezhnev asked quietly.

"I do not," Shcherbitsky quickly responded. "President Nixon will be welcome in the Ukraine. Breshnev shifted his attention back to Shelest. "You see, comrade," the Kremlin czar said evenly, "you can speak for yourself, but you cannot speak for all Ukrainians.

Immediately thereafter, Shelest was dropped from the Politburo and the more pliable Shcherbitsky. But the dissatisfaction with detente continued to bubble beneath the surface. This was acknowledged to Americans in East Germany by Soviet Ambassador Pyotr Abrasimov in late 1975. He told the Americans about a party meeting he had attended in Moscow.

According to a classified account of Abrasimov's remarks, "Brezhnev reaffirmed detente with the West although," Abrasimov said, "there are others who would not seem to favor detente.' Other intelligence reports identify the Kremlin's ideological high priest, Mikhail Suslov, as the spiritual leader of the dissidents. But Brezhnev, ever cautious and conciliatory, sought to balance the opposing factions.

A Feb. 26, 1976 report, classified "To Secret Umbra," cited Brezhnev's private argument that "detente has not prevented the Soviet Union from carrying out its international obligations" and that it had not produced any "slackening of the ideological struggle or of internal discipline.'

Another secret report noted that the communist-style politics in Russia shows detente established, not for debate." But the U.S. analysts could still detect opposition beneath the

Dear Editor:

Two weeks ago, charges at Moss Creek Lake were brought to my attention. At present, all persons fishing or using lake facilities from ages 17 to 100 or over will be charged. This started January 1, 1980 by orders from someone at City Hall. By whom, I'm

In Sunday's paper an article read: "City finances looking smooth." So can Big Spring be so "hard up" that it has to charge its senior citizens for the privilege of fishing in our little lake?

We are speaking of the people who have preceded us. They have made their mark; contributing to the growth of Big Spring and perhaps making our lives a little better or more abundant. Our senior citizens should be onored citizens. With fixed incomes, heir pleasures have to be small. Surely, the lake income received from this small minority of about a dozen senior citizens, could make very little difference to the city's financial budget. Would the city of Big Spring actually deprive these people of the right to fish, exercise, visit with fishermen friends and be out in the fresh air and sunshine?

We shall all be senior citizens some day - Think about it. I do not know of any lake in the state of Texas that levies charges against its senior citizens for fishing. The state does not even require them to have a license. So why Moss Creek Lake?

Our senior citizens should not be subjected to this fee. It is truly unfair, Perhaps some one at city hall will be reading this letter, and will do whatever is necessary to get these fees recinded for our senior citizens.

Police believe Garner story

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Any TV private detective worth his prime-time slot can't get along with the police, but James Garner is happy that the authorities believed him this time.

A brother and sister were charged Monday in connection with a traffic accident two weeks ago in which Garner claims he was assaulted and robbed. The pair had claimed Garner caused the trouble.

Aubrey Leigh Williams Jr., 35, of Tujunga, faces charges of hit-and-run, assault with a deadly weapon and grand theft, while his sister, Deborah Ann, 25, of Pasadena, faces one count of grand theft, according to the district attorney's office.

Garner, star of the recently canceled NBC television series, "The Rockford Files," was hospitalized for three days after the Jan. 16 incident in which he was allegedly beaten and robbed by two people riding in a car which had bumped into his in Coldwater Canyon.

Garner told police three gold chains valued at $1,500 were stolen by his assailants.

Last Tuesday, Williams and his sister surrendered after authorities said they traced their license plate and issued warrants for their arrest.

The pair, free on $2,500 bail, denied Garner's account of the incident and claimed the actor started the fight by kicking Williams.

Garner's series was canceled when the actor said he was unable to work due to a series of illnesses, including sinusitis, an ulcer and an arthritic knee.

Singer meets president

WASHINGTON (AP) - Country singer Hank Snow, who says he was himself a victim of child abuse, was one of several celebrities who met with President Carter to show support for a national child abuse campaign.

Also on hand were actress Sophia Loren, who was named to head a fund-raising drive of the National Alliance for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse, and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr.

Carter praised Snow's annual benefit per-formances at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville for abused children.

Miss Loren, said the group will seek "to awaken the world's consciousness against this sordid and persistent crime."

Hepburn receives award

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Katharine Hepburn has received the Screen Actors Guild Annual Award for outstanding achievement in fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession.'

Miss Hepburn, who lives in New York, accepted the actors' union highest accolade in a taperecorded speech played at SAG's annual meeting at the Sheraton Universal Hotel.

"I am dumbfounded and at the same time, I am very proud to have been chosen by the Screen Actors Guild as a good example professionally and personally," Miss Hepburn said on the tape played at the meeting Saturday.

"I still live where I grew up. I am still friends with the man with whom I won the three-legged race in 1917. I have had continuity and I have had safety. Now I suddenly realize that I have a professional Iran's president rejects military aid from U.S.

President-elect Abolhassan Bani Sadr of Iran rejected the U.S. offer of military and economic aid if the American hostages in Tehran are freed, but Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance offered to work with him to secure

Bani Sadr told the French newspaper Le Monde in an interview that Washington's offer of aid once the hostages are freed was "unacceptable."

"A dependent country is particularly vulnerable to the dominating power. Certainly we intend to resist Russian expansionism, but we are not going to give that to the Americans as a pretext for retaking a foothold here," he

He acknowledged that "the Russians are at our doors. If they succeed in reaching the warm seas — the Persian Gulf — they would control not only Iran but the whole of the Middle East and the Indian subcontinent.'

But he said to secure the release of the approximately 50 Americans held prisoner in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran since Nov. 4, "the American government must first of all issue a declaration acknowledging the crimes it committed in Iran through the imperial regime, as well as our right to begin proceedings against the shah and his

"The problem of the hostages can then be easily resolved," he said.

Vance, in an interview with The Associated Press in Washington said he and other U.S. officials "remain ready to work with the Iranian leaders towards a solution of the present crisis. ... We hope that Iran will decide to end the crisis so that it can begin to address the serious threats and problems which Iran faces."

Vance said these were not only domestic "but from outside their borders as a result of actions which the Soviets have taken in invading Afghanistan."

He also said the sanctions the Carter administration threatened to impose against Iran have become irrelevant because the U.S. boycott of Iranian oil and the freezing of Iranian government funds in U.S. banks has virtually stopped U.S.-Iranian trade.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JAN. 30, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Do not allow your feelings to get hurt early in the day and then the remainder of the day finds it possible for you to engage in various activities you enjoy. Maintain a cheerful manner.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to have more harmony at home. Don't berate others so much since the fault-finding could be partly due your own actions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to those who are more experienced than you for the advice you need now.

Be sure to handle correspondence wisely.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A financial affair has you worried in the morning but a closer inspection later in the day uncovers more money than you need now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to go after what you most desire and there's a good chance you will gain your aims.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Know what your true ambitions are and work hard to attain them. Keep personal and business affairs separate for best results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is best to make longrange plans to gain your true aims. Take time to repay social obligations and express goodwill. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Outside activities can be enhanced at this time if you take a good friend with you. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have fine ideas but can do nothing about them until another day. Show others that you are an intelligent person. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to handle important obligations early in the day for best results.

Take no risks with your health. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listen to the complaints of an associate in morning and handle matters with reason. Think logically.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) The morning begins slowly at your work with little accomplished, but you make up for lost time as the day progresses.

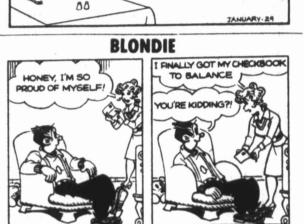

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't neglect correspondence, personal or business, early in the day, then you'll have free time for social activities later.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be a highly intelligent person, capable of doing just about anything, so be sure to give the best education you can afford in order to make the most out of this natural ability. Responsibility begins with "Helllo"

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Teens: The 1970s have seen an epidemic of teen pregnancies in America, with 1 million pregnancies occurring each year among 15- to 19-year-olds, and 30,000 among girls under 15. This means that 10 percent of U.S. teens get pregnant each year with 6 percent giving birth.

"Individual stories of these unwanted pregnancies may vary, but all those concerned have one thing in common - the need to resolve who is responsible for what no one wanted," observes writer Judith Wax of Seventeen magazine. "It's important, then, to re-examine the mistaken attitudes that can cause these unhappy circumstances, to ask such questions as 'What should a sexually active girl expect from her partner in the way of accountability?' and 'What does she owe herself?"

It's the unfortunate truth that many teen-age boys feel pregnancy is entirely a girl's responsibility.

"Studies show that the vast majority of teen-age boys only pay lip service to responsibility for pregnansays Gail Cantor, a Planned Parenthood counselor of pregnant teens. "They may sincerely say they can be depended on if something goes wrong, but rarely do they stick around if a girl gets pregnant." 'Very few boys are sensitive to what a girl has at stake," confirms a male teen counselor. "There's little emotional understanding on their part. Most of the guys I talk to say things like, 'No matter how much I pressure a girl, she doesn't have to have sex with me."

Among those teens who have decided to have sex, studies show that the usage of contraception has increased in recent years. Nevertheless, teens still have a long way to go toward achieving responsible use of birth control.

Statistics show that although more teens are sexually active than ever before, more than half of America's teens have not had intercourse. In fact, more and more young women, realizing the risks involved, are discovering the right to say no. As one female college freshman says, "A lot of us have misunderstood what liberation is all about. I mean, what's liberated about always being available? I finally realized that I didn't owe anything to anybody but myself."

Her Gifts Are Rapped

DEAR ABBY: How do I go about telling the girl our son dates to please stop buying our family expensive gifts for every occasion? It embarrasses us to accept them since we can't afford to reciprocate.

She comes from a very large family, and because she gave everyone in our family she ever said hello to a Christmas gift last year, my son felt that he had to do the same for her family. (He is still paying for them.)
For Valentine's Day she gave me a present and also my husband. On Mother's Day, another one, and she's not even engaged to our son. She even found out when our birthdays were (mine and my husband's and the other childrens', even the grandparents!) and the presents come.

I have no objections to her exchanging gifts with my son, but I wish she would leave the rest of his family alone. So, what should I do?

DEAR TOO MANY: Ask you son to tell the young lady that he appreciates her thoughtfulness and generosity but prefers that she discontinue the gift-giving to the members of his family.

And if that doesn't do the trick, send her thank-you cards for the gifts, and let it go at that.

DEAR ABBY: Our little boy is 8 years old and very much overweight, so our doctor put him on a strict diet. I've tried to keep him on this diet but I can't follow him around every minute because I have three other children to look after and my work to do. My next-door neighbor told me she's seen my son eat the dog food right out of her dog's dish, and also that he eats the bread she throws out for the birds. What should

TROUBLED MOM DEAR MOM: Take your son to the doctor for a thorough checkup, and tell the doctor how the boy has been supplementing his diet. And be sure to explain to the boy the dangers of eating out of the dog's dish as well as food meant

DEAR ABBY: You suggested that it might be a good idea to invite someone who might be alone to spend Christmas h your family.

I am a widow, and my children and grandchildren all live far away and can't be here for the holidays. I work, so it's impossible for me to visit them. Being alone doesn't mean be ing lonely, Abby. I have received three invitations so far, and I would much rather spend Christmas Day alone than to accept any of the invitations.

Why? Well, with my limited income, I can't buy gifts for the whole family, or even for the hostess. Second, while the invitations are sincere and well-meant, nobody considers how I am to arrive at their home for the meal.

Third, the meal is usually set for late afternoon, and it is well into the dark of the evening before I can leave and I don't want to go home alone at night. (It's rude to eat and

So I will decline all Christmas dinners, and spend Christmas resting up and eating what and when I want. If some kind soul knows that an older single person is alone and lonely, transportation to and from the dinner should be provided. STEADY READER DEAR READER: Of course, its too late for Christmas 1979, but it would be well to remember your words for all of those special occasions in 1980.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

NEW YORK (AP) - Still steaming over what he considers a six-year-old slight, all-time home run king Hank Aaron has lashed out at Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, snubbing an award presentation that commemorated his record 715th home run as the greatest moment of the decade of the 1970s.

Aaron was to be honored by Baseball Magazine Monday along with Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies, named player of the decade, and Keith Hernandez of the St. Louis Cardinals and Don Baylor of the California Angels, chosen the top performers of Rose, Hernandez and Baylor all showed up but Aaron sent a telegram, read by his agent, Bob Flamm. It said

"I understand that Mr. Kuhn requested thay he present me the award for the outstanding moment of the 1970s, in honor and recognition of the new all-time home run record set on the eighth of April 1974. record four nights later in Atlanta. "If it's the moment of the decade now, it was the moment of the decade in 1974, too," Aaron said. "I thought it was a slap at me and at the people of Atlanta that the commissioner wasn't there. And I think it's an even bigger slap that he wanted me to get up on that podium today. I just didn't think it'd be to my benefit to

'It would have been like Kuhn was treating me like a damned idiot. What am I supposed to do? Scratch my head and forget what happened in 1974?"

Kuhn was obviously shocked and saddened by the sudden blast from Aaron, with whom he has appeared several times "I will continue to admire Henry's achievements as among the greatest in the history of baseball and I have no comment beyond that," the commissioner said

But then Kuhn continued. "I've talked to Henry at various functions and I never heard any of that from Henry," he said. "Quite the contrary. It's kind of sad.' Kuhn saw Aaron tie Ruth's record in Cincinnati - "I know he was there for No. 714," cracked Rose. "The ball went over my head." - but had a speaking engagement in Cleveland the night the record was broken. Lou Brock feels front office jobs overlooked

NEW YORK (AP) — The racial scars which were supposed to undergo a healing process with the admittance of Jackie Robinson 33 years ago still fester and burn in major league baseball.

This unpleasant state was further dramatized on two separate and unrelated fronts here Monday

At a brunch honoring the top baseball players of the decade, Hank Aaron, the greatest home run initer of all time, snubbed Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for what he said was baseball's continued lack of recognition of black players.

Aggies stay on top

As if things weren't bad enough for the also-rans behind Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference basketball race, 6-11 sophomore Rudy Woods went on a rampage Monday

Oregon State basketball team got caught with its points down...but still managed to keep from getting embarrassed.

Facing a pesky Stanford slowdown game, the nation's second-ranked team only scored 18 points Monday night. But Stanford scored only 16, so it was all right for the Beavers.

"I didn't really expect them to come out with this type of game," said Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller, "but you play the best way you can to win. If it works, fine. I was pleased with our performance. It was our first experience with this...our defense played well and I thought we adjusted well."

Boeheim, who has compiled a 91-15 record in just over three years as head coach, saw his Orangemen climb two notches to the No.4 position in The Associated Press college basketball poll Monday behind unbeaten DePaul. Oregon State and Kentucky, respectively.

"Being in the Top 10 is really a double-edged sword whether you're No.1 or No.10," Boeheim said. "Since we've got there, everybody we play has been shooting for us. But being in a top position also has a way of giving our players confidence Confidence is something Boeheim's players have in abundance. Their 17-1 record is evidence of that.

But that's only half the struggle this season. Luck could be the deciding factor in college basketball.

"I can think of 10 teams that could win the national championship," Boeheim said, adding that Syracuse is in his list. "There's really no dominant team.
