BENIGN MONSTER? — The ice formed by the low temperatures which have held the Big Spring area in their grip during the last several days turned the fountain at the Colorado River Municipal Water District into what looked like a pre-historic monster. The fountain continues to flow, however.

Fifty dead, scores wounded

New fighting in Iran

By the Associated Press

A new explosion of fighting in Iran's rebellious Kurdistan region has left at least 50 persons dead over the past two days, a rebel spokesman said today. Some Kurdish leaders appealed to the hospitalized Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to intervene personally to stem the bloodshed.

At the same time anti-government violence was reported around Shah-e Kord, an area of central Iran populated by Lur and Bakhtiari tribesmen, who have often resisted central government control. And Tehran Radio gave the first details of clashes Wednesday in the heart of Tehran between Marxist and anti-Marxist militants.

The worsening of Iran's domestic woes came as Carter administration officials worked on diplomatic initiatives that a Senate leader said gave "some ground for hope" for the release of the U.S. Embassy hostages.

Kurds and other ethnic minorities in Iran have been battling the central government for more autonomy for centuries, and Khomeini's regime has been plagued by the same insurrections since his revolution ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi nearly a year ago.

The rebel spokesman in the Kurdish city of Sanandaj, reached by a Western journalist by telephone from Tehran, said the Kurdistan fighting the past two days raged in the towns of Kamyaran, Bijar and Paveh.

He said most of the 50 or so dead and scores wounded were revolutionary guardsmen of the Khomeini regime. Reports reaching Tehran Wednesday said at least 10 persons had been killed in battles between the guard and Kurdish rebels.

Iran's official Pars news agency said Dariush Forouhar, a government representative on a goodwill mission that has been trying to settle the Kurdish conflict, spoke with two Kurdish leaders by telephone Wednesday night in an effort to achieve a cease-fire. The Pars report was quoted by Tehran Radio, monitored in London.

In an interview with Pars, Forouhar blamed bellicose elements on both sides for the fighting and demanded that the peace mission be given control of all military and civilian affairs in Kurdistan.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Minister Abbas Sheibani ordered rationing of fresh meat. He cited high prices, short supplies and a ban on imports of frozen meat. Tehran Radio said the quota for families in southern Iran would be up to 4.4 pounds each week, and families elsewhere would get 8.8 pounds.

Khomeini, still hospitalized after suffering a mild heart attack last week, was reported in "entirely satisfactory" condition by his doctor today, the government radio said. The medical bulletin said the 79-year-old revolutionary leader's recovery was so good that he was able to take a bath Wednesday night.

In Washington, U.S. government officials said they were working on a number of initiatives to free the approximately 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, now in their 89th day of captivity.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter indicated the hostages could be released to a third party, such as the Red Cross, if agreement can be reached on opening a U.N. tribunal on the reign of the shah.

Sen. Frank Church, briefed by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on the hostage situation, told reporters afterward: "There is some ground for hope we can find a way to secure the release of the hostages."

Iranian students seized the hostages Nov. 4 in a bid to get the shah returned to Iran for trial.

Stacy Dam suit

under way today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The trial of a suit filed by the Lower Colorado River Authority to block construction of the $60 million Stacy Dam and Reservoir begins today in state district court here.

The LCRA suit challenges the permit issued for the project by the Texas Water Commission. The commission granted the permit in January 1979 after 18 months of hearings.

Judge Herman Jones will hear the case.

The dam is proposed for the Colorado River below Ballinger.

The Colorado Municipal Water District claims the dam is needed to provide drinking water for San Angelo, Midland, Stanton, Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder.

The LCRA has claimed the project will deplete water supplies in areas to the south. The suit claims the dam would hold back more than 36 billion gallons of water that flow into the LCRA's Highland Lakes chain each year.

122-unit motel will be built

The city today issued a permit for the construction of a new 122-unit motel, said Mark Campbell, local building inspector.

Motel Six, Inc., will build the new facility at 600 West IS 20, just east of the Mid Continent Inn. It will consist of five, two-story buildings with stucco exteriors.

The motel will also feature a swimming pool. Estimated cost is $1,061,615.

"No contract has been awarded to a construction company yet, so we don't know when building will begin," said Campbell.

Winter storm slaps 'Dixie'

By the Associated Press

A winter storm belted the South and parts of the East Coast with heavy snow, ice and freezing temperatures today. Meanwhile, Southern California and Mexico's northern Baja Peninsula struggled to recover from deadly flooding that forced thousands to seek higher ground.

At least 24 weather-related deaths have been reported in Mexico and the United States since Tuesday.

High winds and heavy snow downed power lines and trees, closed schools and left roads icy and hazardous in several Southern states. A half-foot of snow fell overnight in east Tennessee and up to 10 inches was expected in the coastal areas of Virginia.

It was snowing this morning in Hampton, Va., when Air Force One, the presidential jet, arrived with the flaming Olympic torch, lit Wednesday in Greece. Runners who started the torch on its 1,000-mile relay run to the Winter Olympics at Lake Placid, N.Y., contended with 23-degree weather and snow-covered ground.

Traffic was snarled this morning in Washington, D.C., and its Maryland and Virginia suburbs, where 3 to 6 inches of snow was expected by nightfall.

Cars were sliding on ice-slick highways and bridges like bumper cars, and numerous accidents were reported. The highway patrol in Greenville, S.C., reported 22 accidents in a 1½-hour period Wednesday night. Slick streets halted bus service in Oklahoma City.

Ice-coated power lines snapped, cutting off service to at least 12,000 persons in the Chattanooga, Tenn., area, according to officials of the Electric Power Board of Chattanooga.

A dispatcher at the Corinth, Miss., police department said electrical power had been "going on and off all day."

In Knoxville, Tenn., where thick snow flakes were falling Wednesday, classes ended two hours early. Schools never opened in Memphis and Chattanooga counties and a dozen other Tennessee communities.

A matter of life and death

Reporters withheld fugitives story

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Washington reporters withheld for many weeks the story that six American fugitives were being sheltered in the Canadian Embassy in Tehran.

Jean Pelletier, the Canadian reporter who broke the story on Tuesday, knew about the Americans' plight since Dec. 10. His secret also was known by several American newsmen.

Pelletier decided to release the story after receiving word on Monday that the Americans had left Iran. During the preceding seven weeks, he agreed to sit on the story at the personal urging of Canadian Ambassador Peter Towe and officials of the External Affairs Ministry in Ottawa.

"They said it would be extremely hazardous, a matter of life or death for the Canadians and the Americans, if we published," said Pelletier, a reporter for the Montreal newspaper La Presse.

The six Americans escaped Iran over the weekend using Canadian passports with forged Iranian visas.

Pelletier said he discovered the existence of the six Americans by comparing lists of U.S. diplomats' names before and after the Iranian militants seized the American embassy on Nov. 4. He said he realized that several were unaccounted for.

He also recalled a State Department briefing in which a spokesman mentioned that diplomats are told to head for friendly embassies if the American embassy is attacked. He checked with several Washington embassies of allied countries before finding a source at the Canadian embassy who confirmed his suspicions, he said.

Pelletier's story forced the State Department to disclose more than it had intended to about the Americans' escape from Iran.

Spokesman Hodding Carter said

Wednesday the administration was prepared to announce the Americans' arrival in the United States but would not have mentioned Canada's role in harboring them.

Other officials, who asked not to be identified, speculated that the Iranian government probably knew all along about the presence of the Americans at the Canadian embassy but decided to do nothing.

One official said that based on his experience in a number of foreign capitals, it is "impossible to believe" that Iranian employees at the Canadian embassy did not report the presence of the Americans at the embassy. Among locally hired employees at foreign embassies, he said, there is usually at least one paid informant.

Perhaps the most critical period for the six Americans occurred a few days after the seizure of the embassy. Kim King, an American tourist who was at the embassy at the time and managed to escape, disclosed after his return to the United States that others had fled the embassy compound as well.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Poor quality

Q. Some of the Spanish-speaking films which are shown at local theaters break numerous times, which cause long delays. Why is that and why can't something be done about it?

A. John Beasley, manager of the Cinema Theater, says that the films shown here are sometimes two and three years old and are of poor structural quality when they arrive. The projection crew does the best it can under the circumstances but the movies' structural quality simply isn't as good as it is in the United States.

Tops on TV: 'Double Trouble'

Thursday is always tough on viewers. As usual, tonight features no specials or big movies. Elvis Presley provides the only relief (if you consider Elvis a relief) from the regular lineup. He appears in "Double Trouble" at 9 o'clock. It's a flick about a young British heiress (Annette Day) who becomes attracted to a famous American pop singer (who else?). Late-night watchers should catch "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," the Tennessee Williams classic starring Paul Newman, Elizabeth Taylor and Burl Ives.

DOUBLE-DIGIT INFLATION is exacting a heavy toll on state and local governments. President Carter's new budget illustrates that point painfully. See page 9-B.

Cuban stabs co-workers

UNION, N.J. (AP) — A Cuban immigrant, taunted by co-workers about his virility, "turned into a wild man" and attacked them with a hammer and a 12-inch kitchen knife, authorities say. Ten of his fellow employees were injured, four critically. "I was working at a bench near him and without saying a word, the guy suddenly goes nuts," said Frank Breznai, whose hand was cut Wednesday at the American Products Co. machine parts factory. Roberto Gonzales, 51, was arrested and held on assault and battery charges after the attack at the plant in this northern New Jersey community, police said.

"We don't have all the facts yet, but we do know some of his fellow workers began to needle Gonzales about his virility, and he suddenly turned into a wild man," said Union Police Chief Donald Ebert. If any victim dies, homicide charges would be filed, he said.

The injured included nine men and a woman. Seven were hospitalized.

Officials said the most seriously injured were: Alfonso Santora, 46, open chest wound and severe cuts on the right hand; Michael Alusik, 54, stabbed in the back and on the right side; Walter Dewydiak, 55, stabbed in the chest; and William Lee, 46, stabbed in the abdomen.

The rampage began about 2 p.m., when Gonzales "took a kitchen knife and a hammer and started swinging wildly at anyone he could," Ebert said. "He's a big-size man who can cause considerable damage without any weapons and with weapons even more so," the chief said.

The episode lasted three to five minutes, and Gonzales, who spoke no English, fell through a glass door before he was subdued, police said.

"It was just like some damn movie," said George [name obscured] who was in the crowd. "One of the guys knocked the knife from his hand with a pipe and they guy jumped on him. He broke away once, but we managed to get him down a second time for good."

The 6-foot-1, 240-pound Gonzales was a "quiet man with a fine work reputation" who recently had separated from his wife and grown children, Ebert said. Authorities said Gonzales' daughter, who also works at the factory, was not involved in the incident and that no drugs or alcohol were involved.

The company, which employs about 150 people, manufactures precision machine components, mechanical assemblies and screw machine products. Its sales last year totalled more than $5 million.

Employees were sent home after the incident.

Judge's ruling challenged

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — State officials have challenged an El Paso federal judge's ruling overturning two provisions of the state's election laws.

The state attorney general Wednesday asked U.S. District Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth to delay putting his ruling into effect but he declined.

Hudspeth overturned parts of the election code requiring some elected officials to resign before running for higher office. Another law forbade an officeholder from running for the Texas Legislature during his term of office.

The attorney general office filed a requested asking Hudspeth not to enforce his decision until after the May 3 primary.

Assistant Attorney General Susan Dasher said the state is taking the matter to the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. She said that the state also would appeal Hudspeth's original ruling which called the provisions unconstitutional.

Monday is the deadline for filing for the May primary election.

Mrs. Sandiford was released Wednesday under a $10,000 bond.

DA position is sought by Rick Hamby again

Rick Hamby, District Attorney for the 118th Judicial District, filed for re-election to the office this week.

He will run as the Democratic candidate serving Howard, Glasscock and Martin Counties.

Hamby was elected to the office of the District Attorney for his four year term in the Nov. 1976 general election. Hamby has held the office officially since Jan. 1, 1977 and his current term expires Dec. 31, 1981. The term for which he is seeking re-election would span Jan. 1, 1981 to Dec. 31, 1985.

Hamby, a 32-year-old Big Spring native, obtained his undergraduate education at Texas Tech University where he received a BA degree in History. His legal education was obtained at St. Mary's Law School in San Antonio from which he graduated in 1974 with a JD degree. His wife Deborah and he have three children: Jessica, Ricky Jr., and Christopher Wren.

In assessing his past three years as district attorney, Hamby said, "This has been a learning process for me. One in which I have made many mistakes and one in which I have faced situations which, if I had it to do over again, I would handle differently. I feel that anyone who has examined the work that we have done cannot help but see that our intentions have been honorable and that my attitude toward the responsibilities of the office of District Attorney are responsible.

"In the course of trying to do the job we have succeeded in making a lot of friends but on the other hand we have also succeeded in making a lot of people mad at us. I hope we have more friends than we do enemies, but if not, I at least hope all of our enemies are Republicans."

Hamby went on to say, "If elected to a second term I pledge to continue doing the best job that I know how and, hopefully, with the experience and the maturity that I have obtained in this office that job will be representative of the desires and needs of my district."

Hamby, a 32-year-old Big Spring native, obtained his undergraduate education at Texas Tech University where he received a BA degree in History. His legal education was obtained at St. Mary's Law School in San Antonio from which he graduated in 1974 with a JD degree. His wife Deborah and he have three children: Jessica, Ricky Jr., and Christopher Wren.

In assessing his past three years as district attorney, Hamby said, "This has been a learning process for me. One in which I have made many mistakes and one in which I have faced situations which, if I had it to do over again, I would handle differently. I feel that anyone who has examined the work that we have done cannot help but see that our intentions have been honorable and that my attitude toward the responsibilities of the office of District Attorney are responsible.

"In the course of trying to do the job we have succeeded in making a lot of friends but on the other hand we have also succeeded in making a lot of people mad at us. I hope we have more friends than we do enemies, but if not, I at least hope all of our enemies are Republicans."

Hamby went on to say, "If elected to a second term I pledge to continue doing the best job that I know how and, hopefully, with the experience and the maturity that I have obtained in this office that job will be representative of the desires and needs of my district."

Adult-only rules shock couples moving to cities with children

HOUSTON (AP) — The young couple, with two children tagging along, joined the thousands of others moving into the big cities of Texas each month, and began the search for an apartment.

They were looking for something within their price range, close to work, and most of all, where children were accepted.

For many couples, especially those coming from small communities, the adult-only requirements came as a shock.

"I didn't believe it. There were apartments for miles and if you had enough money for a pet deposit you could move in with your dog or cat, but forget the kids," one newcomer to Houston said recently.

"We get calls frequently from those trying to find apartments that accept children," said Joan Edwards of the City of Houston Housing Discrimination Office. "It is a fairly serious problem. It is almost impossible to find units close to downtown that take children. The apartments for families, for the most part, are way out."

Dallas City Councilwoman Lucy Patterson recently tried, but failed, to get an ordinance approved to prohibit discrimination in rentals to persons with children.

Dallas and Houston, the two largest cities in the state, are growing rapidly and, with high housing costs, apartments are in great demand.

Bill Harper, a spokesman for the Houston Apartment Association, said in an interview, "the problem isn't all that bad. In fact, there is no problem in finding an apartment. Maybe a couple with children can't live just where they want to, but units are available."

A survey of residents living in an all-adult complex in southwest Houston brought these comments:

"If we wanted children we would have them and live in a neighborhood with children. Right now we want to enjoy life without kids running all over the place."

"Children have a habit of taking over the swimming pool, the tennis courts, the volleyball areas. I looked around until I found an all-adult complex, and those with kids can look around until they find something."

"I left home to get a better job and to get away from my little brothers and sisters and I sure don't want some brats next door to me now with all their crying and fighting and listening to mothers screaming."

Those interviewed were all in their 20s and most of them single.

A middle-age married couple in the complex said, "We raised our children and are ready for some peace and quiet. But, these young adults with the stereos, the beer-busts, the radios blaring, are just as bad. We need complexes for those between 40 and 60."

Sen. Tower's chili recipe criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, proud enough of his chili to make the recipe public, has been taken to task for using tomatoes in his recipe.

"Sir, tomatoes in any form have no more place in chili than would Chanel No. 5 in a martini," a California man wrote to the Texas Republican.

Tower replied: "The chemical and organic properties of the tomato break down the physical and biological structure of the meat, permitting the chili pepper and other condiments to penetrate and pervasively permeate it to the extent that every bit of their succulent and pungent goodness may be transmitted to the taste buds with maximum efficiency and impact."

Carter sees no threat to Caribbean

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says he sees no outside threat to the Caribbean area and therefore will not promise to use military force to defend it.

Carter thus declined to place the neighboring Caribbean in the same "vital interest" category as the Persian Gulf. He also asserted that the United States would not be able, now or in the future, to defend the Persian Gulf area by itself.

The president made the statements Tuesday in a question and answer session with visiting editors and broadcasters. The White House released a transcript of the session Wednesday.

Carter, who declared last week that any outside threat to the oil-rich Persian Gulf would be repelled by military force if necessary, was asked if the Caribbean area was considered of vital interest to the United States.

"Obviously," Carter responded, "the Caribbean is of great interest to our country, and is our closest group of neighbors." But he added:

"I see no military threat to the integrity of the nations in the Caribbean from an outside force, and therefore don't consider it necessary to define it as one of vital interest where military action by our own country would be necessary to defend it.... I would not want to threaten military force there."

Asked if "we do indeed have what it takes militarily" to repel any Soviet threat to the Persian Gulf area, Carter said:

"I don't think it would be accurate for me to claim that at this time, or in the future, we expect to have enough military strength and enough military presence there to defend the region unilaterally."

The president said the United States would need "cooperation" from nations "who are heavily dependent, even more than we are, on an uninterrupted supply of oil from that region" — a reference to Western Europe and Japan.

In his State of the Union address, Carter had said any outside effort to gain control of the Persian Gulf "will be regarded as an assault on the vital interests of the United States of America and such an assault will be repelled by any means necessary, including military force."

Some snow falls over South Plains

By the Associated Press

Cloudy skies, cold temperatures and various types of precipitation combined to give all of Texas a taste of unpleasant weather today.

Forecasts called for mostly cloudy skies and some form of precipitation statewide.

It was to be light rain or drizzle over most of the state. Thunderstorms were possible in some sections of West Texas. Freezing rain or drizzle was forecast for the Trans Pecos area and southern sections of the South Plains. That precipitation was expected to change to rain or drizzle by late today.

Highs were to be mostly in the 30s and 40s with readings in far South Texas expected to approach the 60-degree mark.

The unpleasant weather was caused by a surface high pressure ridge over the Midwest that extended southward over Texas into the Gulf of Mexico.

Light rain and drizzle was reported in South Texas during the night, spreading northward into the El Paso area.

Front page thanks

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — In a front-page thank you note, a local newspaper has expressed appreciation to Canada for smuggling six Americans out of Iran.

The message in Wednesday's editions of the San Antonio Light was enclosed in a box that included a full-color Canadian flag.

The Light saluted Canada "for its humanitarian efforts in Iran on behalf of six Americans trapped in strife-ridden Tehran."

"Canada's bold initiative to rescue these Americans, hide them in the Canadian Embassy for nearly three months and then arrange for their escape represents the ultimate act of friendship, one in which all Canadians can take pride," the newspaper said.

The thank you note concluded: "America thanks you, Canada."

Why increase state's gasoline tax?

It appears now that the Texas Legislature is going to let the state's motorists have it in the old wallet pocket in 1981.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock says the people who make our laws for us in Austin will opt for a boost in the gasoline tax next year, pointing out that Texas' five-cents-a-gallon levy is now three cents a gallon lower than most other state's taxes.

Gov. Bill Clements, as a matter of fact, has already petitioned Bullock to study gasoline prices throughout the country before the Legislature goes into session next year.

Bullock estimates legislators will only have a $124 million surplus to work with in 1981.

"Frankly, I think we are in trouble," Bullock said. "I think we've come somewhat to a crisis...$124 million is nothing."

ANY APPROPRIATIONS bill approved by the Legislature can take effect only after Bullock certifies there is ample money to pay for it.

The gasoline plan isn't the only thing that could be separating you from your money. Bullock says he is ready to recommend a No. 1 priority an increase in the natural gas tax. Increases in those levies, both based on a percentage of production value, could be "passed on East," Bullock says.

"If you increase both by two percent, you're talking about many millions of dollars," Bullock said.

The Texas League of Municipalities has recommended a three-percent increase in the city sales tax (now one cent of each dollar). Bullock points the accusing finger at the city and calls them greedy.

Asked if he knew of state services which could be reduced if the Legislature declines to enact a tax bill, Bullock replied:

"I don't know...but every agency, mine included, could operate with less money and do just as good a job."

THAT COULD well be the answer. Why do legislatures everywhere always opt for building an ever bigger tax structure, rather than resort to a little belt-tightening? Why is it the poor old taxpayer is always ignored except at election time?

Admittedly, inflation reaps its harvest on state government just as it does on the private citizen, but citizens cannot lower the boom on governments to help pay the rent. Citizens have been belt-tightening for years. If the constituency can do it, why not government?

Increasing the gasoline tax in Texas can only serve to add a burden to the shoulders of industry and could conceivably slow the migration to this state from the north and east. The tourist industry is bound to be wounded, too.

Boosting the gasoline tax should come as a last resort. It shouldn't be the first in a series of contingency plans.

Great silver rush

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — "You better get over here right away," Lila Thompson said. "Henry's gone bananas."

When I got there, she pointed to the dining room. Henry was sitting on a chair by the sideboard with a shotgun in his lap.

"Don't come any further," he said, "or I'll blow a hole in your gizzard." "Can I ask what you're doing?" I said.

"I'M PROTECTING my silverware. Do you realize what silver is worth these days?"

"I understand it's doing very well," I told him. "But I didn't know you had that much."

"Wouldn't you like to know how much I've got? We're sitting on the Tower of London and no one is going to get near it."

Lila, who was standing behind me, said, "Ever since the price of silver went up to $50 an ounce, we've had to eat with our hands. He says no one in the family is worthy of using our knives and forks. All he does is sit there all day long weighing soup spoons."

"HENRY," I SAID softly, "I know silver is starting to have some value, but you can't sit in the dining room for the rest of your life."

"What am I going to do? Go to work and have someone steal a fortune right under my nose?"

"If it's that valuable why don't you put it into a bank vault?"

"I don't trust banks," he said. "I want my silverware where I can count it every day."

I asked his wife if she had called her son Roger.

"Henry won't talk to Roger. We gave Roger a silver setting when he got married. A year later he split up with his wife and she took the wedding present. Henry said he doesn't want to have anything to do with a person who would let his wife walk off with the silverware just because his marriage didn't pan out."

"Why are you looking at that platter?" Henry said, lifting his spoigun.

"Is that sterling?" I asked him.

"Wouldn't you like to know," he said.

"It's sterling," Lila told me. "I tried to polish it the other day and he screamed for two hours. He wouldn't let me wash the cloth in case some silver might have rubbed off on it."

"I guess you have the silver fever, Henry," I told him. "Maybe it would be a good time to sell."

"At $50 an ounce? You must think I'm crazy. This is the time to buy."

Lila said, "He wants me to go around the neighborhood and ask if anyone wants to sell their silverware. I'd feel ridiculous."

"Well, there's nothing I can do. He'll come out of it eventually. Call me if he gets worse."

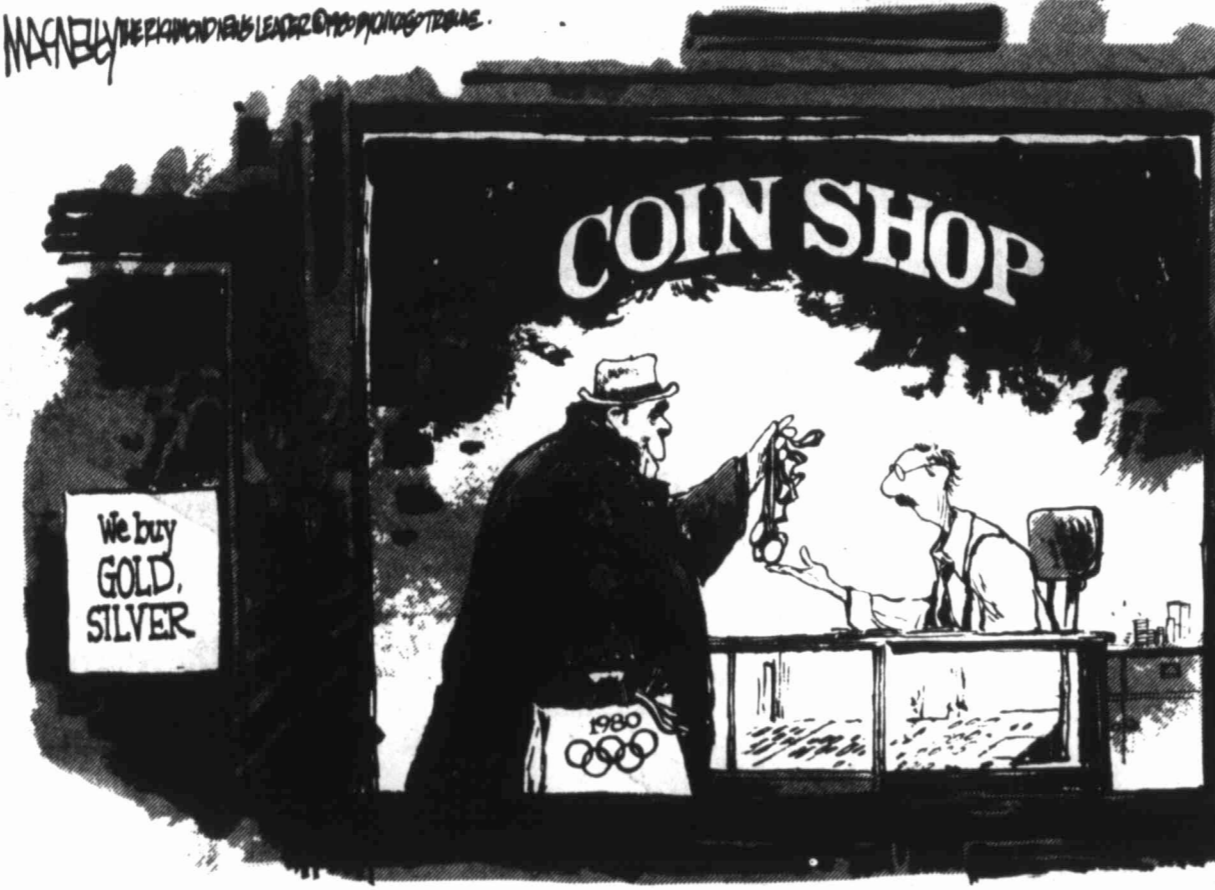

I left the house and rushed home. My wife found me in the dining room putting all our silver into a pillowcase.

"What are you doing?" she wanted to know.

"I'm putting this stuff away for safety. It's too valuable to sit in a drawer."

"But what are we going to eat with?" she wanted to know.

"What's the matter?" I shouted at her. "haven't you ever heard of pizza?"

Most backache is muscle related

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had a painful tailbone after a fall on my behind. I went to my doctor. He ordered X-rays, told me everything was fine, just to go home, take some aspirin, apply some heat and stay off my feet for a couple of days. Where do I go from here? Why do doctors think a few aspirins are the cure for everything? — M.V.S.

There are misconceptions about backaches. One is that every backache means something in the spine is "broken." The simple truth is more than 80 percent of all backaches are caused by muscles, not the bony spine proper.

The jolt you got from the fall you had may have caused some muscle inflammation or caused the muscles to go into spasm. Spasm is a protective reaction of such tissue.

Where do you go from here? Why not follow your doctor's advice? It works. This is not to say that anyone who suffers a fall followed by painful symptoms should not see their doctor. The X-rays were precautionary to determine if anything besides muscles were involved.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I developed a fungus infection in one of my nails. I am told that complete removal of the nail is necessary. I have heard of medicine for this, the kind you take by mouth. Can you explain? — Mrs. R.W.

First of all, nail fungus is one of the most difficult to get rid of.

Indeed, there are anti-fungal medicines that can be taken by mouth. They are effective, but sometimes must be taken over a long period and they are not without potential unpleasant side effects. However, this is usually the only real cure available. Nail removal is not usually the answer. For a discussion of nails, see the booklet, "Solving Your Nail Problems." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Our 10-year-old son has known since age three where babies come from. Now he has asked "how they get there." We are at a loss for words. He is definitely mature enough to understand and accept the answers. But not being very good with such explanations we are afraid of giving him wrong impressions about the facts of life. Is there a book in children's language we could get for him to read? It would be so much easier to answer specific questions he may have after reading a professional explanation. Also, we want to be sure he has a clean and healthy attitude about sex. — Mrs. M.P.

There are excellent books in most bookstores that will fill his needs. I hesitate to suggest one in particular. It would be best to look these books over for yourself to be sure the one you pick deals effectively with your particular concerns.

Your plan to let him read such a book, leaving yourselves available for specific follow-up questions, is a good one. Parents are the best teachers of "clean and healthy" attitudes in this and other matters.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Recently, something happened that disturbed me. My husband and I had just finished having intercourse, during which I experienced a climax. When I got up from my bed my vision became impaired so that I could not see at all. It lasted a few minutes and I got weak and felt strange. After lying down a few seconds it went away. It still worries me. When it happened I could only see one number on the digital clock in the room. Should I see a doctor or wait to see if it happens again? — Y.Y.

Visual disturbance that occurs after physical activity suggests a blood circulation problem. That should be investigated. Do not wait for a repeat incident. What happened might have been a "T.I.A." (transient ischemic attack), which can be the forerunner of a stroke.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What happens when you have too much air in your stomach? What causes it? — K.A.

Usually you burp. Most of the excess air is from swallowing it while eating.

NOTE TO MRS. M.M.: Ticrynafen is a newer anti-hypertensive (high blood pressure) and diuretic (water-release) drug. So far as I know it is effective and safe. Its potential side effects are comparable to those from the more familiar thiazide diuretics.

Do you often have a "stomach ache"? If so, your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. The booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," tells you why. For a copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Your thyroid plays a critical health role — in everything from eyesight to fertility. The booklet "Your Thyroid: How It Works for You" explains this important, and misunderstood, gland. To get a copy, enclose 50 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a friend who says I ought to try Satan worship for a while. He claims Satan will give me anything I really want out of life, but that God will make me miserable. I'm sure you don't agree with that, but what reasons can you give? — T.Y.

DEAR T.Y.: As strongly as I know how, I urge you not to listen to your friend. From the very beginning chapters of the Bible, Satan is always a liar who promises that he will never deliver. The Bible declares: "He was a murderer from the beginning, not holding to the truth, for there is no truth in him. When he lies, he speaks his native language, for he is a liar and the father of lies" (John 8:44).

It is clearer than that that Satan will fail to deliver on anything he promises you, but he will make you absolutely miserable in the end — and eventually lead you to hell for all eternity.

I am convinced life itself vividly illustrates this. How many people — truly happy people — do you honestly know? There are many who seem to have fun for a while, but as time goes on, the emptiness of their lives catches up with them.

I would also point you to Christ and what He promises — and because He is God and cannot lie, His promises can be trusted absolutely. Jesus said, "I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full" (John 10:10). Elsewhere He promised "that my joy may be in you and that your joy may be complete" (John 15:11). Yes, you may have met some Christians who seemed to be not very joyful — but if so, they were not experiencing what Jesus promised for them. And remember that the greatest joy we can know is the certainty that we are saved and will go to be with Christ in heaven forever.

God loves you very much, so much that He wants you to come to Christ by faith and be His child. Open your heart to Christ and follow Him. You will never, never regret it.

Historic fight

Around the rim

Don Woods

Big Spring was the site in May of 1879 of vicious fighting between Texas Rangers and Comanches.

I know it sounds like an old movie or an ironic lead for a sports story but its true and here are the facts.

Around the late 1870's, government Indian agents had been allowing Indians off reservations to hunt for game. The hunting parties were formed to alleviate a problem caused by vanishing buffalo herds. The armed Indians were allowed to hunt under the supervision of military escort.

MOVING BANDS of armed Indians didn't exactly thrill the cockles of the hearts of North Texas settlers. In fact, they were petrified, so much so that they prevailed upon Major John B. Jones, Texas Frontier Battalion commander, for protection.

No one had been killed and only a few head of cattle were missing, but Jones ordered Captain Arrington, C company of the Texas Rangers, to kill any armed Indians he found.

Two groups of military men figured in the story; the Texas Rangers and a regiment of black cavalry men. They were blacks who had fought for the north in the Civil War, then organized into cavalry troops to subdue Indian unrest in West Texas.

The rangers were scouting on the Pease River Jan. 15, 1879 when they spotted an armed group of Kiowa Indians. The Indians fled before Arrington's pursuit. The Indians lost one man in the fight.

The rangers cornered the group in an Indian village containing 14 lodges. But as the Rangers were preparing to attack, Captain Nolan, with a Company of troopers, out of Fort Sill, cut them off and told them the Indians were hunting off reservation under his supervision.

Arrington laid off but criticized Nolan in his report to Major Jones.

The incident further unsettled relations between the elite Rangers and the black troopers.

Woefully correct

WASHINGTON — By an irony of fate, the man who forecasted most clearly the frustrating dilemma of the Iranian crisis was himself caught in the middle of it. He is Bruce Laingen, the U.S. charge d'affaires in Tehran, who was taken into "protective custody" at the Iranian Foreign Office the day our embassy was seized by radical militants.

The 57-year-old diplomat, a veteran of the Foreign Service, arrived in the Iranian capital only last June. But it didn't take him long to size up the situation with remarkable perception.

NOR DID IT TAKE long for Washington to start peppering Laingen with disturbing cables about the possibility that the exiled shah would be given sanctuary in the United States. On July 26, Secretary of State Vance cabled Laingen: "I would like to have your personal and private evaluation of the effect of such a move on the safety of Americans in Iran, especially the official Americans in the compound."

Laingen promptly replied that admission of the shah to the United States would undoubtedly touch off anti-American reprisals, including attack against the embassy, which he noted was poorly secured against attack.

On Aug. 2, an even more disturbing cable arrived from Henry Precht, head of the Iranian desk in Foggy Bottom. His use of the peculiar, telltale phrase, "when the decision is made to admit the shah," indicated that the decision was no longer in doubt — only the timing of its announcement. Precht suggested a plan for counteracting the anti-American outburst Laingen had predicted would follow the shah's entry.

First, Laingen counseled against letting the shah in. Then he laid out his reasons in a penetrating, 1,000-word analysis of the Iranian character that proved to be an incredibly accurate prediction of subsequent events. Basically, Laingen told his superiors in Washington that the Iranians were impossible to negotiate with.

Noting his difficulties in dealing with the Iranians, Laingen said, "Underlying cultural and psychological qualities that account for the nature of these difficulties are and will remain relatively constant." He explained: "The single dominant aspect of the Persian psyche is (perhaps) an overriding egoism. Its antecedents lie in the long Iranian history of instability and insecurity, which put a premium on self-preservation."

THE RESULT IS "an almost total Persian preoccupation with self (that) leaves little room for understanding points of view other than one's own,"

It came to a head in May 1879 when a small band of Comanches escaped from their reservation. Captain Nolan pursued them with the help of two parties of peaceful Comanches. A chief named Black Bear headed one, with White Eagle heading the other.

Nolan searched across the Red River then south to the headwaters of the Pease. Nolan and his men then proceeded to the Blanco Canyon.

There they found a store owned by a man named Jacobs, who told them whites had robbed his store of horses, new rifles and $1,000 in cash. He hadn't seen their Indians.

Meanwhile, near Big Spring, the much sought after Indians had found what they were looking for. They had taken some colts and were butchering them for food.

Before they could finish, Company B Texas Rangers under the direction of Captain June Perke fell on them. The small Indian band fought back, though and withstood the onslaught.

Under the cover of night, then, they retreated to the west. The next day Peake followed but fell into an ambush. Under heavy Indian gunfire, Peake's Rangers were riddled. One of them, W.G. Anglin, was killed. Another was seriously wounded. Finally, Indian gunfire pressured Peake and his men into retreat leaving Anglin's body where it lay.

Lieutenant C.R. Ward, D Company Tenth Cavalry Regiment, was scouting with troops the day after the battle. He happened onto Peake's trail, followed it and came upon the body of W.G. Anglin. He buried him where he had fallen but lost the Comanches' trail.

Peake, meanwhile, returned to his headquarters where he wrote a scathing report blaming Nolan, Black Bear and White Eagle for the fight. He charged them with allowing the Indians to leave the reservation on their promise they would return to Fort Sill.

Commanding officers General Ord and General Pope, though, exonerated Nolan on the basis that he had been pursuing the Indians beforehand.

Laingen cabled, adding: "Thus, for example, it is incomprehensible to an Iranian that U.S. immigration law may prohibit issuing him a tourist visa when he has determined that he wants to live in California."

The Iranians' "unease about the nature of the world in which one lives" has led to a certain paranoia, Laingen indicated. "The Persian experience has been that nothing is permanent and it is commonly perceived that hostile forces abound," he wrote. "In such an environment, each individual must be constantly alert for opportunities to protect himself against the malevolent forces that would otherwise be his undoing."

This every-man-for-himself "bazaar mentality," Laingen cabled, produces a "mind-set that often ignores longer term interests in favor of immediately obtainable advantages, and countenances practices that are regarded as unethical by other norms."

These psychological quirks, added to the Iranians' faith in the omnipotence of God, blind even Western-educated Iranians to the inter-relation of events, Laingen wrote. He noted, for example, that Ibrahim Yagdi, then the Iranian foreign minister, was "resisting the idea that Iranian behavior has consequences on the perception of Iran in the U.S., or that this perception is somehow related to American policies regarding Iran."

Other Iranian character traits Laingen noted were "an aversion to accepting responsibility for one's own actions... a proclivity for assuming that to say something is to do it... (and) the Persian concepts of influence and obligation."

Iranians "are consumed with developing parti bazi — the influence that will help get things done — while favors are only grudgingly bestowed, and then just to the extent that a tangible quid pro quo is immediately perceptible."

Finally, Laingen warned that "one should never assume his side of the issue will be recognized, let alone that it will be conceded to have merits."

Unfortunately for Laingen, the other American hostages and the United States as a whole, Jimmy Carter and his policy advisers chose to ignore the president's warnings of their expert on the scene. Meanwhile, events in Tehran have unfolded precisely the way Laingen predicted they would.

Footnote: Sources told my associate Dale Van Atta that Laingen, like a front-line soldier who winds up paying with his neck when his advice is brushed off by the brass, has refrained from remonstrating with his superiors in Foggy Bottom. The least he might say, in all fairness, is "I told you so."

UNIQUE DESIGN — The library of the National University of Mexico was decorated in stone mosaic by Juan O'Gorman. It is one of the many spectacular sights captured on film in 'Wonderful Mexico,' which will be screened in the Howard College Auditorium at 7:30 o'clock this evening. Local sponsor is the Big Spring Rotary Club.

Wonderful Mexico featured in 'Passport to Adventure'

The first in a series of five "Passport to Adventure" travel films will be shown starting at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Howard College Auditorium under the auspices of the Big Spring Rotary Club.

Season tickets can still be purchased for $12.50 adult, $7.50 student and $30 family. Heading the sales committee for the Rotary Club are Walter Stroup, Ben Johnson and Lowell Jones. Cliff Chapman is Rotary president.

Tickets will be available at the door for the single show at a cost of $4.

Those attending tonight's program will be taken on a film trip of Mexico by Bill Madsen, who became hooked on traveling when he accompanied an expedition into remote Tibet and saw a land which had been visited by relatively few Americans. His experiences during this journey were the basis for a series of articles and stories which appeared in numerous national magazines.

BILL MADSEN

Ultimately, he decided to embark upon film-making and lecturing as a full-time occupation. A student of public speaking and a skilled craftsman with a film camera, he is now in the process of retracing an earlier circumnavigation of the globe. This trip, however, is being done in reverse, as he is now traveling in countries or areas in which he has a particular interest and which, he feels, will have appeal in a travel-film audience.

Madsen was born and educated in the historic and former whaling city of New Bedford, Mass.

The film opens with a trip on the Chihuahua-Pacific Railroad, the train which makes its way over the mountains and through valleys in the Sierra Madres.

The film crew later visited Baja, Guanajuato, Queretaro, Guadalajara, Manzanillo, a live volcano near Colima, Oaxaca and the ruins of Monte Alban and Mitla.

Other programs in the series will be given Feb. 14, March 27, April 10 and April 17.

Such colorful places as Taiwan, Paris, Israel and the Caribbean will be visited in film.

Advance tickets can be purchased from the three banks, Big Spring

Savings, First Federal Savings, Skipper Travel and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Farm — Beef referendum registration continues in Howard County

The Howard County ASCS office will continue thru Feb. 6 to register those producers who wish to later cast a ballot in the beef referendum.

The registration is a prerequisite to vote in the referendum itself which will take place at the local ASCS office beginning Feb. 19 and ending Feb. 22.

The order if passed would provide for an assessment of each animal sold to be placed in a fund designed to improve markets for cattle, beef and beef products. The assessment initially would be 20 cents per $100 in sales and would be required of all cattlemen.

An example would be an 80 cent assessment on a $400 sale for a stocker calf. If the calf were later sold for $600 another 40 cents would be assessed of the second sale.

The assessments would be placed in a fund to develop, research and promote the beef industry. The funds are placed under a 68 member Beef Board to decide how the funds will be directed.

Cattle producers who do not wish to participate may request a refund on their assessment.

Census stats important

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Probably no government program is as misunderstood or mistrusted as the 1980 Census which will get under way in March. And yet, the information received during the census taking is far more important and far-ranging than just an official counting of American noses.

Census statistics are critical components in the distribution of federal, state and local funds — $50 billion annually in federal spending alone is allocated according to census population figures. Land management, highway repairs, job training, revenue sharing, the Cooperative Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Stations — and 100 other federal programs — use census statistics in allocating funds.

With that in mind, perhaps we should look at the census as our vote to receive our proper share of federal spending, rather than, by default, allowing our money to be distributed elsewhere.

Of the 24 Congressional Districts in the State of Texas, our district received the lowest amount of General Revenue Sharing Funds in fiscal year 1979 — $11.9 million compared to $13.6 million and $13.7 million for two neighboring districts. With the 17th's high population of elderly and minority citizens, both groups that mistrust the intrusion of census takers, an accurate tabulation is essential to assure that we receive our fair share of Revenue Sharing Funds.

Allocation of federal money under the nutritional and social services program for the elderly is based solely on a state's population over age 60. Again, we gain by an accurate evaluation of the number of persons in that category.

The second issue to note is an experimental program in which residents of Abilene and four other American cities will be participating during this year's census. During this experiment, questionnaires will be hand-delivered by census takers, rather than mailed to each household as is the procedure in most of the nation. The hand deliveries will take place between March 11 and March 28 and the experiment has been set to see if this method is more accurate than the traditional "by-mail" method.

I question the cost-effectiveness of such a program, however, since an army of enumerators seems both a costly and cumbersome approach to what should be a problem best solved by extensive education of the public as to the need for the census.

The original and most important reason for the census is an accurate accounting of the population for Congressional redistricting. In this respect, each person is literally a vote counted to determine an equitable Congressional District.

To those who oppose the census on the basis of loss of privacy and confidentiality, I would point out that the Census Bureau has an unblemished record for keeping confidential the personal information gathered during the census. Actually, the information requested is often less personal than that demanded for credit applications, school enrollment, medical forms and so forth — and a lot more private.

In the final analysis, would you spend a few minutes, or perhaps an hour, filling out a form if you knew your answers were secret and that your participation would bring some of your tax dollars back to your community? Most people would, and that's one way to look at the census.

Draft plan protested at Rice

HOUSTON (AP) — A low-key protest against resumption of the military draft was held Wednesday at Rice University.

About 50 persons were reported to have signed protest petitions and mock draft registration forms in front of a statue of the university's founder, William Marsh Rice.

Brian Crowe, 22, an electrical engineering senior, said the petitions will be sent to President Carter.

Crowe, spokesman for University Students Against the Draft, said the group was formed recently to encourage students to "make up their minds about the draft" before it is reinstated.

More oil rigs spin in Texas

The number of working oil rigs in the state continued to rise this week.

As of Monday, 948 rigs were making hole, compared to 934 for the previous week. This tops both the 892 total for last month and the 781 total for this time a year ago.

The statewide rise was reflected in the national total this week. As of Monday, 2,647 rigs were making hole across the country, compared to 2,631 for the week before.

Diversion programs helping keep salt from CRMWD lakes

Admittedly, that part of Colorado River Municipal Water District water which comes from Lake E.V. Spence has a substantial salt content, but for a diversion program, it could and would be much worse.

During 1979, CRMWD diverted 18,000 tons of chlorides (or twice that much in the form of salt) from the Lake Spence watershed. Since activating the Colorado City diversion works in 1969 and the Beals Creek diversion in 1974, the district has removed an aggregate of 206,363 tons of chlorides, or about 412,000 tons of salt which otherwise ultimately would have made its way into Lake Spence.

The Colorado City diversion, which began operations in 1969, has resulted in withdrawal of 132,518 tons of chlorides in 11 years. The Beals Creek project, which started in 1974, has diverted 73,215 tons of chlorides in its six years of operation.

There are signs that the program is producing something besides statistical results. In both the river flow below the Colorado City diversion works, and the Beals Creek crossing at Big Spring, there has been a marked decline in parts per million chlorides in the normal low flow of the river.

The volume of withdrawal has a lot to do with total volume of stream flow in a given year, hence it is not possible to compare the diverted tonnage at the start of the program and at the past year and reach definite conclusions. However, in the first two years of good flow after activation of the Colorado City diversion works, CRMWD diverted an average of 13,500 tons.

The average for the past four years has been 10,800 tons. The first two years when the accumulated concentration in Three-Mile and Four-Mile Lakes on Beals Creek above Big Spring was largely pumped out, the district averaged 18,000 tons a year. Now that figure has dropped to 8,200 tons for the past four years.

While there doubtless is some natural salt pollution of the Colorado River below Lake J.B. Thomas, much of the salt intrusion is thought to be the cumulative result of a quarter of a century of disposing of oilfield brines into earthen pits on the watershed.

It will take this long or longer for most of this pollution to be leached out of the soil, noted O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD. He signs point to a gradual but steady diminution of the chlorides reaching the river.

The Beals Creek pollution west of Big Spring is natural, but it is thought to represent mostly an accumulation of chlorides from centuries of playa lake evaporation.

At Colorado City, the district intercepts the Colorado River normal flow, which has a high concentration of chlorides, by means of a low channel-dam. This pumped back into nearby reservoirs from whence several oil companies obtain supplies of unpotable water for secondary oil recovery operations.

Pumps draw water from Three and Four-Mile lakes and boost it 20 miles west behind the Natural Dam which impounds on Sulphur Draw one of the saltiest lakes in the world. As contents of the two lakes are emptied year by year, the new inflow has less and less chloride.

While the diversion program are helping, they are slow, said Ivie.

Information concerning auto deductions appears in tax forms

Taxpayers can no longer deduct state and local taxes imposed on gasoline, diesel or other motor fuels. However, persons who itemize their deductions may still claim other expenses incurred when using their automobile for business, charitable, medical and in some instances, moving purposes.

Those who keep records of actual costs may claim operating expenses and fixed expenses, such as depreciation and insurance, for business use of their automobile. Instead of claiming actual expenses, taxpayers may use an optional mileage allowance method. Taxpayers can deduct 18.5 cents for each mile driven for business purposes, and eight cents per mile for charitable, medical, or moving expenses. In all instances, parking and toll fees may be claimed in addition to the mileage rate.

Information concerning automobile deductions appears in the instructions accompanying the tax forms.

Info on vehicles fed into computer monthly

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — The rising cost of operating cars and trucks is forcing one state agency to seek the aid of a computer.

The state Railroad Commission Monday approved a new daily auto report form it hopes will tell exactly what each commission vehicle is costing the state.

Commission Director of Finance Rex King said summary information from the new forms will be fed into a computer each month.

'Worthless' pipe sale nets prison

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A Midland jury has convicted a Midland man of selling 10,000 feet of useless pipe to a couple for $53,500 under the guise it was ideal for oilfield drilling.

The jury returned the verdict about midnight Tuesday after 6½ hours of deliberation and recommended 10 years in prison for Billy E. Martin. District Judge Vann Martin set formal sentencing for next week.

Prosecution witnesses said they had assessed the pipe as "worthless" or "totally unsuitable" for use as drill pipe.

Testimony showed Martin and a partner, John Darnell, purchased the pipe for $27,500. Martin contended the pipe was usable and could have been sold.

Couple, son shot to death

STOCKDALE, Texas (AP) — A justice of the peace has ruled double murder-suicide in the shooting deaths of a couple and their 3-year-old son. The shooting was discovered Tuesday.

Wilson County sheriff's deputy J.L. Rice identified the victims as Joseph Robert Garner, 38, Garner's 44-year-old wife, Patsy, and their son Travis.

Justice of the Peace B.J. Pope ruled that Garner shot his wife and child before turning the .22-caliber pistol on himself.

Rice said the shooting was discovered early Tuesday morning by Mrs. Garner's mother, Ruth Henby, who arrived to care for the child while the couple went to nearby Seguin to work.

The child was shot three times in the head, while Mrs. Garner had four gunshot wounds to the head, authorities said. Garner suffered a single gunshot wound to the mouth.

Film company is likely to spend $2 million here

Bill Cornford, associate producer for Shick-Sun Classic Productions, and other company representatives were flying to the lower Rio Grande Valley to explore a potential site for a new picture, "Hangar 18."

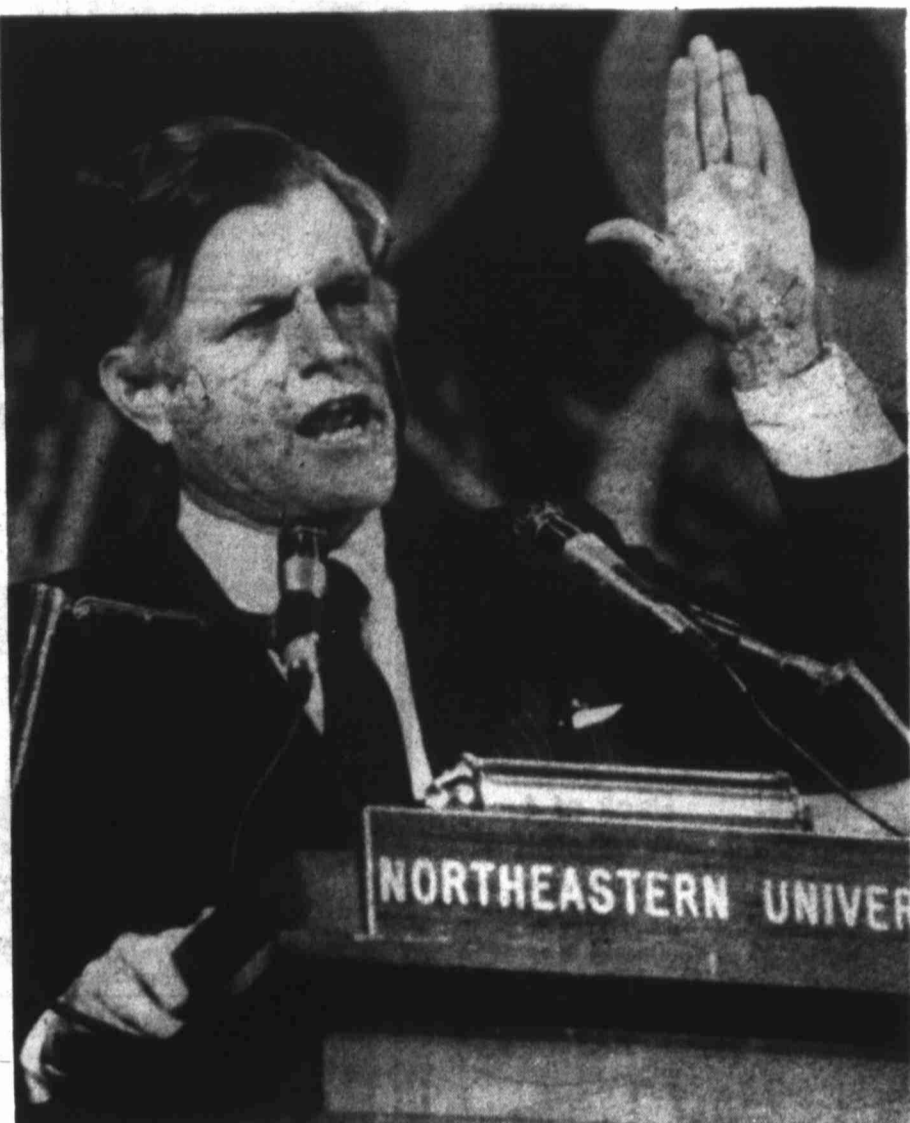

"Big Spring was on the way, so we decided to stop and have a look," Cornford recalled in a talk to the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday. "We spent three days — it was just what we were looking for."

Cornford gave an overview of movie production then fielded questions. "Hangar 18," he said, has a budget of about $3,500,000, of which probably more than $2,000,000 will be spent in Big Spring where some 28 locations will be used, including the mysterious hangar 18 at an abandoned Air Force base (Webb AFB). The script calls for four lead and 43 speaking parts, and 1,000 to 1,500 extras will be needed for various scenes. Currently some 45 people are engaged in set construction and preparations, and at peak production the work force will be around 110 people.

Shooting likely will continue into April, and release of the picture is slated for October. Sun Classics distributes by renting theatres for a specified run and handling promotion and ticket sales.

School and other groups are welcome to visit locations, but should make appointments, he said. "We've never been any place where we have met as hospitable people as we have here," he said.

Soviets warned by United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States spotted suspicious Soviet military activity near Afghanistan months ago and warned the Kremlin repeatedly that armed intervention would have serious consequences, the State Department's top Soviet expert says.

"The matter was not ignored; it was taken seriously," Dr. Marshall Shulman told the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on the Mideast.

"We did go to the Russians and express our concern at least three or four or five times... We warned them about the seriousness with which we would take any military activity on their part in Afghanistan."

Shulman, chief Soviet policy adviser to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, said the Soviet Union grossly underestimated reaction to its invasion by the United States and much of the rest of the world.

He called the Soviet assessment a "miscalculation of historic proportions" that galvanized the West and unified the Moslem world against them.

In mid-October 1979, U.S. intelligence picked up a "puzzling pattern" of gatherings of Soviet transport aircraft at air bases near Afghanistan. The planes would be sighted, disappear and then be sighted again, Shulman said.

"In late November, we began to see signs of mobilization," he said, including the calling up of reservists to fill out certain Soviet army divisions, and the placing of bridge-crossing equipment and a headquarters complex near the Soviet-Afghan border.

The full-scale Soviet onslaught that resulted in the toppling of the regime in Kabul and its replacement came in late December.

"There was no deficiency in the intelligence," Shulman said in response to questions.

He said the combination of U.S. economic sanctions, restrictions on Soviet fishing rights and a threatened Olympic boycott could seriously affect the Soviets, "coming on top of an already serious economic situation."

On the light side Montgomery Ward blushes

CHICAGO (AP) — The word has ancient roots, says Eric Partridge's Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English. The revered Oxford English Dictionary credits a 15th century satirist with introducing it to Anglo-Saxon usage.

But Montgomery Ward officials are embarrassed and apologetic over the four-letter obscenity that showed up on a bedroom wall pictured on page 122 of the nearly eight million copies of its latest sales catalog.

They believe the offending word — the most common Anglo-Saxon term for sexual intercourse — was sneaked into the catalog just before printing.

"There is a word in the background, but it's very, very hard to see," spokesman Ken Darre said Wednesday. "It slipped by the proofreaders and everyone else because unless you're specifically looking for it, it's too vague to make out."

The full-color, full-page advertisement for bedspreads on page 122 says, "Create a dramatic bedroom setting."

The word appears near the reddish-brown, floral bedspread and brass headboard, apparently scratched into the negative by an employee of one of the photographic studios that prints the catalog.

"I believe the employee in question has resigned, but not a thing can be done," Darre said. "We will apologize to anyone that calls, of course, but otherwise, we're handcuffed. Anyway, I doubt whether it will have any long-range effects."

The sales catalogs, one of 12 issued annually by the retailer, were sent out about two weeks ago. Darre said the problem was first brought to Montgomery Ward's attention by a customer who called and asked about it.

"There haven't been many others," he said.

Several years ago, Sears, Roebuck and Co. was similarly embarrassed by a men's underwear advertisement in one of its catalogs. A shadow in the photograph made the model appear to be aroused.

Make lunch, not war

OTTAWA (AP) — There's peace at last between the Rhinoceros party and Belgium, but the treaty luncheon was so tasty that the Rhinos plan to make war more often.

The two sides signed a treaty over lunch Wednesday at the Belgian ambassador's residence.

The Rhinoceros, an official political party created to make fun of politics, had threatened war against Belgium after a Belgian comic book carried a story about a hunter Tin-Tin blowing up a rhinoceros — the animal, not the party.

The problem was that Cornelius, a rhinoceros who lives in the Granby, Quebec, zoo, claimed the victim in the cartoon was his grandmother Elizabeth, according to Francois Yo Gourd, the Rhino party leader.

The Rhinos demanded two cases of Belgian beer and a box of mussels from Belgium in reparation.

Belgian Ambassador Charles Kerremans made amends by inviting eight Rhinos to a luncheon of mussels, washed down with champagne, wine and cognac.

The Belgians also gave the Rhinos a case of beer and mussels, while the Rhinos presented the ambassador with Rhino T-shirts, buttons and pictures of Cornelius.

MAXWELL'S MEN — Houston Oilers' Earl Campbell, left, and University of Southern California's Charles White display the trophies they received from the Maxwell Club in Philadelphia Wednesday after being named professional football player of the year, and college player of the year respectively.

For summer games

Third world site?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any competition to be held as an alternative to the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow should be held outside of the United States, preferably in a Third World nation, a State Department official has told Congress.

However, Nelson Ledsky, deputy assistant secretary of state, told the House transportation and commerce subcommittee Wednesday the United States would be ready to host alternative games if necessary.

Ledsky also said the United States would provide funding for alternate games but declined to say how much because, he said, "It is too early to answer this question."

Much would depend on where the Games would be located, how many nations would agree to participate, and what contributions we might be able to obtain from others," he said.

Some moral support was provided by the Chinese Olympic Committee, which Wednesday condemned the Soviet Union for its "military intervention in the sovereign country of Afghanistan" and said it would support movement or postponement of the Summer Games.

"The Chinese people strongly resent this aggression," said Li Meng Hua, vice president of Mainland China's Olympic Committee. "They (the Russians) have violated the spirit of the Olympic charter, which is peace and friendship... I personally would support the International Olympic Committee if it moved or postponed the Games."

Ledsky said the United States has "sounded out" nations which has been host to the Olympics in the last 20 years but did not relate their responses.

He did say, in answer to questions posed by Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., that Mexico, host for the 1968 Olympics, would prefer to send a team to Moscow while West Germany did not believe facilities were available in Munich, site of the 1972 Olympics.

President Carter has asked that the International Olympic Committee consider relocating, postponing or cancelling the Summer Olympics in Moscow in retaliation for the Soviet military action in Afghanistan.

Carter has said that if the IOC does not support his proposal, he would not support the sending of American athletes to the Olympics.

He also said he would recommend that the Americans participate in alternative games, possibly with athletes from other nations who support the United States position joining them.

The House hearing was held to receive recommendations for alternatives to the Moscow Olympics. Gov. Brendan T. Byrne of New Jersey suggested the competition be staged in the New York metropolitan area because, he said, nearly all the physical facilities are already in place.

F. Donald Miller, USOC executive director, said he did not believe an international alternative to the Moscow Games would be feasible this year. He said it would take two years to develop an alternative site and would cost between $250 million and $350 million.

Miller has suggested the staging of a national sports festival, similar to the one held in Colorado Springs, Colo., the past two years which he said could be underwritten by private donations. Those games would be limited to American athletes.

Olympic flame arrives for Lake Placid Games

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — A carefully-guarded flame, lit in Greece and flown across the Atlantic by jet, arrived on American soil in the teeth of a snowstorm today to herald the approach of the 1980 Winter Olympics.

Air Force One, the presidential jet, put down at Langley Air Force Base about 7:15 a.m. with the Olympic flame, which had been lit Wednesday in Olympia, Greece.

Snow was falling as the flame was removed from the jet. Three inches of snow lay on the ground in this coastal area and a total of 10 was predicted before the day was done.

The Winter Olympics, opening Feb. 12 at Lake Placid, N.Y., will be the first in the United States to burn a flame from the site of the original Olympics.

The flame was to be taken by boat 21 miles to Yorktown as a symbol of the arrival of the first permanent American colonists at nearby Jamestown.

From there it will be hand-carried to Lake Placid, by a total of 52 American runners taking part in a nine-day, 1,000-mile relay through six states.

After passing through Williamsburg and up through central Virginia to Mount Vernon, the flame is due in Washington, D.C., for ceremonies at the Capitol late Friday morning.

Other major stops are scheduled at Independence Hall in Philadelphia and at City Hall in New York City. Numerous localities plan celebrations with bands, ringing church bells, parades and speeches.

The 52 runners — 26 men and 26 women — represent the 50 states, the District of Columbia and Lake Placid. They plan to run in groups of three in three- to nine-mile legs at about 8 1/2 minutes a mile, followed by support vehicles.

Too Tall arrested

DALLAS (AP) — Professional boxer and former football player Ed "Too Tall" Jones was arrested this morning in connection with a rape investigation.

Dallas Police Officer Robert Holt said Jones was taken into custody without incident at 6:10 a.m. at an apartment in Dallas.

The boxer appeared before Municipal Judge Joe Loving who advised him of his rights and said he was being held for investigation of a complaint alleging second degree felony rape.

His lawyer, Ken Harter, arrived at the jail about 9:15 a.m. to post bond but said the bond had not yet been set.

"We're trying to get a writ signed by a district judge so we can get him out as soon as possible," Harter said.

Jones had been with friends earlier at Elan's, a Dallas night club, celebrating a doctor's birthday with two nurses.

The police offense report said the complainant, a nurse, told officers she, her roommate, Jones and a doctor had been to Elan's before returning to her apartment about 1 a.m.

The doctor left shortly thereafter, the report said, and the woman went to her bedroom, shut the door and went to bed, leaving Jones with her roommate.

At 2:30 a.m., according to the report, the woman awakened to find Jones on top of her. Upon seeing her awake, she said, Jones got up, threw the covers over her and walked out of the room.

She said she went to a friend's house and called police.

Officers accompanied the woman back to her apartment, where she was met at the door by her roommate. They found Jones asleep in a bedroom, the report said.

Jones, 6-9 and 255, was a defensive end for the Dallas Cowboys until 1979, when he retired to become a professional boxer.

Time is factor in talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations on a new collective bargaining agreement between baseball's team owners and players are to resume Friday and will continue, on a "stepped up" basis, until agreement is reached, according to Marvin Miller.

"There is still ample time to make an agreement if the owners show willingness to do so," said Miller, the executive director of the players association, after Wednesday's discussions with Ray Grebey, the head of baseball's Player Relations Committee.

"I can't say there was no progress," said Miller, adding the complexity of the issues involved takes considerable time to discuss.

"You get into something like the reserve system, which is just one section of the agreement, and you could discuss the ramifications for days and days," he said.

Not that many days remain before the Feb. 14 reporting date the New York Yankees have scheduled for the arrival of their players at the team's spring training complex in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Miller would not forecast what might happen if training camps began and no agreement exists.

"You'd have to ask the owners," he said. Grebey was unavailable for comment Wednesday night.

Miller said the lack of an agreement — "a point of concern, for both sides, for some time" — was nearing crisis proportions.

The next meeting is scheduled at the players association office here.

Too bad old Avery Brundage isn't still around — he wouldn't have stood for the current Olympic crisis, insists Bill Toomey, one of America's most celebrated Olympians.

"No country would dare interfere when Avery was president of the IOC," said the former Olympic gold medalist, world record-holder in the decathlon and member of the U.S. Olympic Committee for eight years.

"The movement had clout then. It had stature which it seems now to have lost. People are jerking it around. Brundage not only ruled the IOC with an iron hand but, as a former athlete himself, he had a feeling for the athlete."

"He knew athletes got dirty. Critics accused him of being stuffy and unrealistic but he had an idealism which he never compromised. He was strong and inflexible. That's what we need today."

Toomey, 41, was in Philadelphia today to undertake a new sports role as executive director of the AAU Masters Sports program, aimed at continuing competition for athletes past their prime, including swimmers over 25, and track and field specialists in the 30 to 40 age bracket.

The project is sponsored by Penn Mutual Life.

Since 1968, when Toomey outperformed bigger and stronger rivals at Mexico City Games to win the rigorous 10-event test, he has been active in the Olympic movement, traveling to more than 50 countries for the Peace Corps, doing some history and English teaching and serving on the PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus approaches his comeback with the thought and fierce determination that has made him the greatest player golf has known.

"In some ways, last year was good and in many ways it was bad," Nicklaus said before teeing off today in the first round of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, his first start of the season.

"Maybe it was good that it was bad, because I haven't had a bad one in a while and maybe I needed one to wake me up."

"But I don't intend to have another bad one this year."

Last year Nicklaus cut back on his already slim playing schedule. He played only a dozen events. And, for the first time in his unmatched career, he failed to win. In almost two decades of competition, he hadn't finished worse than fourth on the money-winning list. Last year he was 71st. He didn't qualify for the Ryder Cup team nor the field for the World Series of Golf.

Two teams in split

FORSAN — High school basketball teams representing Stanton and Forsan split a District 5-A doubleheader here Wednesday afternoon.

The Stanton boys came back to humble the resident Buffs, 59-53, after the Forsan girls had won, 67-31.

The Stanton girls are 1-1 in district while the Buffs was the second in a row in conference play for the Stanton boys.

Aggies win over Bears despite Teagle effort

Terry Teagle was pouring points through the hoop so fast in the first half of Baylor's game with Texas A&M that Aggie coach Shelby Metcalf observed, "He just looked unconscious out there."

But Texas A&M took a 27-25 halftime lead than took advantage of a Baylor dry spell at the start of the second half and remained unbeaten in Southwest Conference play with a 59-50 victory Wednesday night in Waco.

Teagle, the conference's leading scorer, scored 16 of his 24 points in the first half.

"Teagle is a great player. All of our guys wanted to shake his hand when the game was over. They really respect him," Metcalf said.

"But as fine a player as Teagle is, I think the best player on the court tonight was Rynn Wright. He did a super job for us."

Wright and Vernon Smith triggered the second-half rally that led A&M to victory. Texas A&M outscored Baylor 15-4 in the first 10 minutes of the second half to put the game out of reach.

Jim Haller, the Baylor coach, said his team's failure to score on any of its first three possessions of the second half was a setback the Bears couldn't overcome.

"Those misses were as big a factor in the game as anything. In fact, that was probably the difference in the game," Haller said.

The Bear coach said A&M still has tough games at Texas Tech and Fayetteville. "But A&M does what it takes to win. You name it, size, speed and shooting, and they are better than anyone. They're the top team in the league. If they have a weakness, I don't know what it is."

Phelps lauds LaSalle star Irish take a tumble

A team that plays together usually wins together, says Dave "Lefty" Ervin in so many words.

"The strength of the wolf is in the pack," said the LaSalle basketball coach metaphorically after a 62-60 upset of eighth-ranked Notre Dame Wednesday night.

It was the leader of the pack, however, who helped to fashion the victory — forward Michael Brooks. Continuing his powerhouse

Toomey: Brundage would have used his clout

President's Council for Physical Fitness.

"First of all, I back the president," he said, referring to Carter's threat of an American boycott of the Moscow Games if Soviet troops remain in Afghanistan. "I don't like it, but I think it's the only avenue open to patriotic citizens. Our country gets priority over selfish interests."

"My feeling is that Brundage would have jumped in before this and made a firm decision."

Brundage, who served as IOC head from 1925 through 1972, died in May 1975 at age 87. He left indelible fingerprints on the Games.

"I recall talking to Brundage a few years ago about some of the poorer countries I visited with the Peace Corps," Toomey recalled.

"We've got some money from TV," he said. "Maybe we ought to use it to help them build up Olympic teams." Brundage gave the Olympics visibility — he made them an important organization."

Nicklaus sees a bright side to 1979 season

There's nothing wrong with me physically. There is nothing wrong with my ability to strike the golf ball. It is a matter of wanting to, of having the desire and dedication to perform the work necessary to do the things I want to do. I think I still have that desire.

"I've been working harder on my game than I have in some time. I'm looking forward to this year."

ABC show retains ratings

While CBS and NBC are battling under the backboards on Sunday afternoons with rival basketball programs, the best either network can expect to become is No. 2. ABC will win the day, just as it has for the past seven years, with its popular program, The Superstars, building an audience that has beaten the combined ratings of the National Basketball Association on CBS and college basketball on NBC.

The Superstars, in its eighth year, is the brainchild of Dick Button, president of Candid Productions. This is the same Dick Button who has made America care about, and even understand, figure skating.

Button became fascinated with the question of who's the best athlete after he won his first Olympic gold medal in figure skating in 1948. He was a high school senior in New Jersey at the time.

"There were 10 boys in our class and seven of them were better athletes than I was," said Button. "I would have had trouble making the five-man football team. When I got up in baseball, the outfielders sat down. I really didn't consider myself an all-around athlete."

Yet a year later, Button won the Sullivan Award, given annually to America's best amateur athlete.

The idea of a competition to decide the best athlete lay dormant while Button won a second Olympic gold in 1952, graduated from Harvard University and then Harvard Law School and then had a short career as an actor.

"The concept came back to me in 1962 when I saw a picture of Ed Vilella, the great dancer who started out as a boxer for the Merchant Marines. The photo captured him in an incredible leap and was captioned: 'Is this America's greatest athlete?'"

Meanwhile, Button had moved into the television production area. His Candid Productions packaged The Superstars concept and began peddling it to the networks. All three, including ABC which had pro basketball then on Sundays, showed Button the door. One high network official told Button "it was the dumbest idea ever," Button recalled.

But, finally ABC accepted it when the network lost out on its bid for NBA basketball.

The Superstars was an immediate success, but it also created a new category in TV sports. Lumping all non-traditional sports and all events not seen live into the same basket, critics called it trash sports. This term makes the little hair Button has stand on edge.

Who has been the best all-around athlete on The Superstars?

"O.J. Simpson," Button said.

Elsewhere, third-ranked Kentucky edged Auburn 64-62; No. 4 Syracuse walloped Temple 93-77; No. 5 Duke defeated Wake Forest 82-61; 10th-ranked Louisiana State nipped Vanderbilt 83-81; No. 12 Maryland turned back No. 13 Virginia 63-61 and No. 20 Kansas State defeated No. 14 Missouri 66-64.

Freshman Dirk Minniefield's long shot with one second left provided Kentucky with its winning points over a stubborn Vanderbilt team. The Wildcats had trailed by as many as 13 points just before halftime before making a spirited comeback. Kyle Macy's 14 points led Kentucky.

"On that last play, we were going to take what we could get," said Hall of Minniefield's field goal from the deep right-hand corner. "Sam (Bowie) didn't have the angle and did a good job of getting it out to Dirk. It was a tough shot. It was great for him — and us — that he made it."

Roosevelt Bouie's career-high 30 points paced Syracuse over Temple, the Orangemen's 55th straight homecourt victory. The Syracuse center scored 20 of his points in the first 17 minutes as the Orangemen took off toward their 18th victory in 19 games.

"He still hasn't peaked yet," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim of Bouie. "He'll be better later this year, and he'll be even better next year."

Boeheim was happy with more than just Bouie, though, after the overpowering Syracuse show.

"I don't think there's a more unselfish team in the nation," Boeheim said of his Orangemen, whose only loss this season was a one-pointer at Old Dominion. "I'd pay a lot of money to see this team play. I don't think I can say enough about these guys."

Mike Gminski scored 32 points and Gene Banks collected 28 as Duke coasted past Wake Forest. The Demon Deacons led Duke 31-16 with six minutes left in the first half, but the Blue Devils ripped off 14 straight points en route to their 17th victory in 20 games this season.

"The biggest favor we gave Duke all night was getting a big lead and giving them a chance to run with us," said Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy. "We spent much of the second half worrying about what we did wrong in the first 20 minutes."

Washington State and Oregon State were tied at 17-17 in the first half of their game, but the Huskies pulled away in the second half to win 41-20.

Arizona State and Utah were tied at 17-17 in the first half, but the Sun Devils pulled away in the second half to win 41-20.

Colorado State and New Mexico were tied at 17-17 in the first half, but the Buffaloes pulled away in the second half to win 41-20.

Take a second look to find the beauty

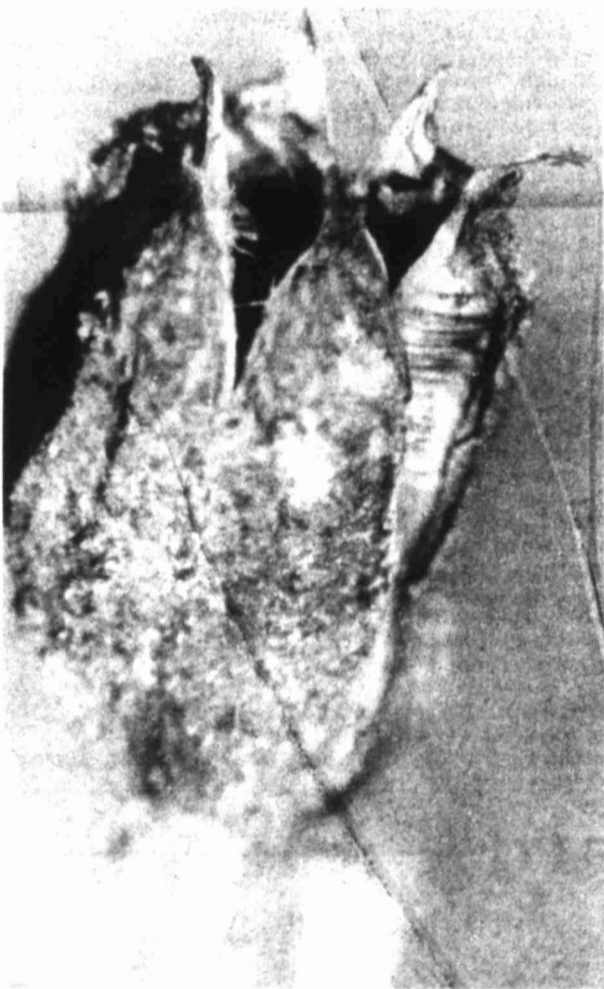

PAINFULLY PRETTY — Are the sharp needles that so delicately extend from the cleverly named prickly pear cactus. This touch-me-not plant which grows in masses throughout Texas pastures is a forgotten wonder in the world of nature. Its piney needles seem to reach out for attention and recognition.

DID YOU SEE THAT? — It's true that in your walk with nature you'll probably not ever see one of these quite this big. What is it? It's a sow thistle that was captured by the camera of Herald photographer Bill Forshee and made to look many times its normal size. Oversized or undersized, its unusual beauty is evident.

Photos by Bill Forshee

'BEAR GRASS' — Is what it is called, a yucca seed pod is what it is. It looks different when you take a closer look, doesn't it? This is just one of the many wonders of the wild silently and serenely playing its role in the age-old drama of nature. The only problem is the lack of a perceptive audience.

THEY'VE ALWAYS BEEN OUT THERE. — These conglomerations of nature called cedar seed pods. You no doubt missed them in the hustle and bustle of today's fast-paced society. Nevertheless, these creations of nature are out there only steps away. It's your loss if you fail to discover their beauty.

GRANDMA'S PIN CUSHION? — No, but close. It's nature's own version of the pin cushion. The growing and ever-changing plant world seems to always be one step ahead of the rest of the living world. Look around. You'll be amazed.

DON'T LET IT PASS YOU BY — So often in day to day life the wonders of the world are taken for granted. Today, so many things of beauty are housed in museums and the public must pay a fee to see them. Right outside your front door is an entire world of beauty just like this Agave evergreen. Don't let the beauty of simplicity pass you by. Take time to 'stop and smell the roses.'

TAKE A SECOND LOOK — If you do, you should realize the boundless beauty of the still world of plant life that makes up a large portion of this vast planet. Take a second look every now and then at the beauty of icicles forming on tiny branches. The silent but mystical process is a wonder to behold.

Because they are Truckdriver's friends drink like apes

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas (AP) — Al Whitehead's "friends" drink like a couple of apes.

The 32-year-old truck driver has raised wild animals for two years now, including three black bears, a Siberian tiger, five lions and a couple of apes that enjoy a drink now and then.

The apes can handle an occasional beer, said Whitehead, but Jo Jo, a Japanese Macaque, took on a half-pint of sloe gin and TRUCKER'S BEST FRIEND? — Truck driver Al Whitehead stands in a cage with his Siberian tiger, one of a number of exotic animals in his private collection he started in Mount Pleasant, Texas about two years ago. Whitehead now works two jobs, one to feed himself and one to feed his three black bears, a Siberian tiger, five lions and an ape which drinks Mountain Dew.

"A friend came over with a half pint and offered a little to Jo-Jo," Whitehead said. "He grabbed it away and drank the whole thing in one swallow. I went out to check him every hour. He's usually jumping and running around, but he just kept giving me a real hard look."

"You could tell he had a bad hangover."

Whitehead keeps his animals in specially built cages behind his house in the wooded hills of Titus County.

"I work two jobs," he said. "One to feed myself and another to feed them. I don't drink and I quit smoking just to be able to feed 'em."

And meals are no small matter at Whitehead's little menagerie. The bears, he said, are partial to dry dog food slathered in syrup with a little poultry on the side. The lions and tigers have developed a fondness for a half-dozen chickens a day.

The apes, Jo-Jo and Charlie, often can be placated with a few gulps of canned fruit juice with an occasional soda pop and every now and then, a beer.

But Charlie's weakness, Whitehead said, is a warm water bath in the tub.

"If the water is cool, he throws a fit. It has to be warm. When the water is right, Charlie climbs in and he'll swim under water until the water cools," Whitehead said.

"Then he grabs a bar of soap, soaps himself two or three times, then hands it to me. When he gets out, he walks over and grabs a towel and gives it to me."

The big cats have been in captivity since they were cubs, and are pretty gentle, he said, although they do have a tendency to chew things like a puppy.

"They don't gnaw too hard," Whitehead said, poking his hand playfully inside the mouth of an African lion dubbed Dudley.

Whitehead's sideline tends to be a bit expensive. He buys his animals from a dealer in Sulphur Springs at $600 for lion and bear cubs and up to $3,000 for tigers.

Pastors Find Pantsuitable

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe that you let Mrs. B. (the lady in pants) get away with one of the oldest dodges in the Christian world. She stated that she asked "someone" if it was all right to wear pantsuits to church and was told it was "frowned upon." So now Mrs. B. sits at home in front of her television, filled with anger and bitterness against "church people."

This is one of the saddest situations a minister has to deal with. It's just another case of a person who was looking for an excuse not to attend church—and found one.

That lady couldn't have been very sincere about her faith in Jesus Christ to let one person's answer to a "set-up" question keep her away from the worshiping family of the church. God doesn't care what she wears to church, and most Christians would have been sympathetic if they had known the reason behind her inquiry.

So please, Abby, don't let Mrs. B. feel that she was justified in cutting herself off from other Christians for any reason. She will be the loser in the long run by denying many fine Christian people the opportunity to show her the kind of Christian love she obviously needs so badly.

REV. DAVID BASS
UNIVERSITY LUTHERAN CHAPEL
CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO.

DEAR REVEREND BASS: Let's hear it from a Methodist minister in Texas:

DEAR ABBY: Mrs. B. from De Funiak Springs, Fla., who has to wear heavy surgical stockings because of varicose veins, said she asked someone if it was acceptable for a woman to wear pantsuits to church. She was told that it was "frowned upon."

You said people should not criticize until they have walked 20 years in her surgical stockings. You may have given some comfort to the lady, but with all the experience she's had with doctors, surely she knows how important it is to get a second opinion; in this case, from the minister of the church.

Perhaps you already have received a communication from the De Funiak Springs Ministerial Alliance telling you that "someone" does not speak for the churches. If not, why don't you have your editor there poll the ministers as to how much, if any, frowning would be done upon a woman worshipping in a pantsuit?

Incidentally, recently at a formal church wedding, I noticed that several attractive pantsuits in the congregation brought admiring glances—not frowns.

ARTHUR O. ACKENBOM
MINISTER, UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
LONE OAK, TEXAS

DEAR Reverend ACKENBOM: No word thus far from the Ministerial Alliance. However, concerning pantsuits in church: Unless the "nay" comes from the horse's mouth (meaning the minister), I would consider it acceptable.

Forget good build she's too young

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: After graduation last summer, I met a real nice girl who told me she was 16. We have been seeing each other quite a bit.

Last week when we were at a movie one of her girlfriends met us and I found out my 16-year-old was actually 13. I was really surprised because she is built like an 18-year-old.

I've come to care for this girl and would like to know what you think about my dating a 13-year-old. — Allen, Dubuque, Iowa

Allen: A 13-year-old girl is much too young for a guy who has graduated from high school. Your "friend" thinks so also. That's why she told you she was 16.

Dr. Wallace: I thought in your column I would find a problem like mine. I haven't, so this is why I'm writing.

I am 18, a college student and I have a part-time job. My boyfriend is mature, smart, polite, very good-looking and he loves and respects me.

He has taught me how to love my fellow humans but most of all how to love myself. I have never met a more wonderful guy in my life. In fact, we both date others because we didn't want to get too serious, but we know it's too late.

I'm white and he's black and my problem is my parents. When he is at my house my parents completely ignore him. My mother won't even sit in the same room with him because we hold hands.

His family is wonderful and my friends accept him. My parents think that I hate them but I don't, I love them. I don't want to lose my parents but I don't want to lose my boyfriend either. Please help. — N.N. San Diego, Calif.

N.N. It appears that you must make a choice — the love of your boyfriend or the approval of your parents.

I can't help you make that decision. You must do it alone.

If the time comes when you plan to marry this young man, both of you should talk to others who share a "black white" marriage. Learn all about the trials and tribulations of such a union. Then make the decision.

Of course, it will be difficult but it also can result in a happy marriage.

On family protection

Douglas Chatfield will speak to Eagle Forum

Douglas Chatfield, professor of psychology at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, will speak to the Eagle Forum Thursday in the Reddy Room at Texas Electric at 7:30 p.m. on the Family Protection Act.

Chatfield was appointed by the Governor of Texas to serve on the White House Conference on Families.

Congress will be voting on this act, which was introduced by Senator Paul Laxalt, Nevada, in the U.S. senate Sept. 24, 1979. The Family Protection Act will affect education, welfare, the family unit and government, and is essentially headed toward more family responsibility with less federal control.

Hearings on the act for this area are scheduled March 8 at Texas Tech. This will be the only opportunity for local people to express their views on it.

The reasons for concern are the current high and increasing rate of divorce, illegitimate births, abortion, unmarried couples living together and the asserted dignity being demanded for homosexual couples.

Eagle Forum asks, "What is in store for a nation which

Refinished furniture beats inflation

By MICKIE DICKSON

Local ladies of the Home Extension Clubs are beating inflation by refinishing and reupholstering old furniture pieces.

Mrs. Frances Zant, 507 Edwards and Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes, Garden City Route, learned the art of refurbishing old furniture under Cathryn Crawford, home extension agent, some 10 to 15 years ago. Mrs. Crawford used a ladder back cane bottom dining chair belonging to Mrs. Zant to demonstrate the refinishing process after the old finish was removed.

Mrs. Rhodes refinished 15 pieces of furniture for local people last summer, beginning in May. Accompanied by her sister-in-law, Minnie Manderschied, Cleveland, Okla., and Peggy Brown of Denver, Colo., Mrs. Rhodes used the money for a trip to England. The three ladies visited Mrs. Rhodes niece, Dormille Smith, near Newquay in Cornwall which is called the Miami Beach of England.

Renting a car, the trio motored in England, Scotland and Wales for 21 days, having a fantastic time.

Completing a result demonstration in home economics for 1979 in August, Mrs. Zant chose to refinish several pieces of furniture in her home. The demonstration was conducted under the supervision of Janet Rogers, County extension agent.

Choosing to refinish and reupholster a platform rocker and refinish two chest-of-drawers and a Sear's Silverstone mahogany phonograph cabinet, Mrs. Zant said, "I had done some of this several years before, but just put off starting again. This was a good way to get started."

One of the chest-of-drawers was a maple and was bought 40 years ago at Elrod's Furniture Company for $13.95, the purchase price is still visible inside a drawer. The phonograph cabinet without its legs, is now an attractive bedside table and valuable storage space for linens. The cost of refinishing the four pieces was $40 and the current market rate of similar pieces is $500.

Learning to re-cane chairs is something Mrs. Zant is now interested in learning so she can re-cane the one used by Mrs. Crawford to demonstrate re-varnishing on and its mate which she will refinish and re-cane in the future.

Mrs. Zant has lived in Howard County 53 years and Big Spring for the last ten. In 1954 and 1959 she took the agriculture census and the population census in 1960.

Another interesting piece in Mrs. Zant's home is a green foot-stool made of a sturdy wooden box her father brought home when she was 16, making a lid for it for storing things. Later she made a cushion for it, covering the box with green upholstery material to make the attractive footstool.

Mrs. Zant is a member of City Extension Home-maker's Club and sews professionally for the public. Her work was displayed in the Extension Homemaker's booth during the County Fair when she shared her experiences and answered questions about the demonstration.

Mrs. Rhodes has been refinishing furniture for herself, her family and many local people since refinishing her 20-year-old maple Heyward Wakefield seven piece dining room suite immediately after she learned how to 15 years ago.

It took her six weeks to refinish the set after she finished the course. She put 13 coats of Spar-Tun sealer on the top of the table, and six coats on the chairs and table legs. That was 15 years ago and it has been used ever since and not a single spot has chipped off of it.

Mrs. Rhodes has an old oak kitchen cabinet which belonged to her husband's mother. It was called a mouse-proof cabinet, lined with tin named the Border Queen. Mrs. Rhodes removed the four or five coats of paint and put about eight coats of Spar-Tun Sealer on it. It is used in her living room as a desk.

Mrs. Rhodes saves her old nylon stockings, cuts the top out of them and puts the varnish in a small dish and uses the stocking to apply thin coats of varnish, using a clean stocking for each coat, throwing the used one away.

A county wide workshop on re-finishing and upholstery will be held by the Extension Homemakers Council.

BARGAIN CHEST — Mrs. Frances Zant figuring her savings for refinishing the $13.95 chest she bought 40 years ago and refurbished last summer.

Recipes

Mrs. Rhodes and Mrs. Zant share favorite recipes, the former shares from an English cookbook purchased on her tour of England.

3 cloves of garlic, finely chopped
1/4 cup fat
4 pounds ground beef

4 teaspoons salt

1/2 teaspoon pepper

3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

2 1/2 ounce bottles catsup

Fry onions, celery and garlic in fat in large skillet, add ground beef and cook while stirring until redness disappears.

Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 30 minutes. Skim off excess fat and serve over spaghetti, rice or noodles, hamburger buns or stuff into Bell peppers. Yield is 5 pints.

Mrs. L.C. Rhodes'

PLAIN SCONES

8 ounces plain (all purpose) flour

4 teaspoons baking powder

1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup milk

1 1/2 ounces butter or margarine

Put flour, baking powder and salt together and rub in the fat. Add the milk all at once and mix. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead lightly until dough is smooth. Roll out to 3/4 inch thickness into one round and cut into 2 to 3 inch squares with a knife. Bake at 450 degrees at 10 minutes for small scones and 15 minutes for the large ones.

Mrs. L.C. Rhodes'

SCOTT'S CRUMPETS

4 eggs (separated)

1 cup milk

2 ounces sugar

6 ounces flour

Mix the egg yolks, milk, sugar and flour. Beat the egg whites stiffly and fold into the mixture. Bake slowly on a griddle, turning only once. Sprinkle with sugar to serve.

Mrs. L.C. Rhodes

CORNISH SPLITS

1 ounce of fresh yeast

1 teaspoon sugar

1 pound of all-purpose flour (plain)

A walnut-sized piece of shortening

1 teaspoon salt

2-3rd cup milk

Cream together the yeast and sugar and leave it to foam. Put flour to warm during this time in the oven. Rub fat into the flour and add the salt. Make a well in the center of the flour and add the risen yeast mixture and milk. Mix with your hand to form the dough. Pinch out 24 pieces to form splits and brush the tops with milky water and put in a warm place to rise until double in size. Bake at 425 degrees until golden brown or 5-10 minutes. Cornish splits are served for tea in England with clotted cream tea, jam and honey.

Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes'

MARMALADE BREAD

5 rounded tablespoons of marmalade (in England it's always orange)

3 ounces melted Crisco

12 ounces all-purpose flour

7 1/2 fluid ounces orange juice

2 teaspoons baking powder

1 teaspoon soda

1 egg

1 cup chopped nuts

1 teaspoon salt

Mix all dry ingredients together, keeping back one tablespoon marmalade, mix remaining ingredients together except for nuts. Add to flour mixture and stir until moistened. Fold in the nuts and turn into a well-greased loaf pan. Bake 60 minutes at 350 degrees. When done, turn into a baking sheet, spread the top with remaining marmalade and return to the oven to cook for one minute.

MOUSEPROOF CABINET — L.Z. Rhodes sits at his mother's "mouseproof" cabinet which Zora Rhodes, his wife, refinished into an attractive desk.

On the track of old stock gold

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — To hundreds of people across the country, Jack Lewin is the man who can turn a dusty piece of paper into a fortune.

Lewin, 67, is in a unique business — tracing the history and value of old stock certificates. Last month, Lewin gained national attention after tracking down a stock certificate lost for decades. It was worth about $4 million.

Since then, he has been swamped with letters and phone calls from people who have found old stock certificates in attics or rusty safes.

It's the slim chance of a windfall that leads people to Lewin. For $15, he will check the certificate and send the owner a report on its history and possible value.

"They have these certificates, but they don't know where to turn," Lewin said in an interview.

San Angelo car dealer found dead

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — The body of a prominent San Angelo car dealer was found in a pool of blood in his office Wednesday afternoon. A justice of the peace returned a tentative ruling of homicide.

Civic leader J.M. Allen, 66, owner of J.M. Allen Motor Co., suffered multiple stab wounds in the back, officials said.

Justice of the Peace Jerry Jennison ordered an autopsy.

Police said robbery was not believed to be a motive, although Allen was known to carry large sums of money. Money was found on the body, a policeman said.

A longtime acquaintance said Allen carried enough money to buy cars and frequently flashed it around, adding that he was "always scared to death" when he was around Allen.

The body was discovered by the father of a San Angelo police sergeant, who said he entered the building to make a telephone call.

Outhouse stolen

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Police were searching Wednesday for a black pickup with an outhouse in the back.

A neighbor told police she woke up at 3 a.m. Wednesday and saw four or five people in Essie Flynn's backyard, taking the outhouse.

Mrs. Flynn says she wants the outhouse back.

Her husband was in the construction business, she said, and she had it built because she didn't want her husband's employees coming in the house to use her bathroom.

Her husband is deceased, but she wants to keep it as a memorial to him, she said.

Drive-in restaurant inventor dies

DALLAS (AP) — William L. McGinley, inventor of the drive-in restaurant in the United States, died Wednesday after a long illness. He was 81.

McGinley, a Dallas resident since 1945, died at the Meadowgreen Nursing Home, where he had lived for several years.

In the early 1920s, McGinley, a native of Norman, Okla., got a patent on the drive-in restaurant concept and traveled around the nation to promote the idea. He established the first such restaurant, Parkmoor, at St. Louis in 1930.

McGinley is survived by his wife, Ellen Adel McGinley; a daughter and two granddaughters, all of Dallas.

Funeral services will be at noon Thursday at Park City Baptist Church with burial at Hillcrest Memorial Park.

Thomason said the certificate was issued by a silver mining firm and appears to be "at least 50 or 60 years old. That's all he knew, so he turned to Lewin."

"We're hopeful that something comes of it," said Thomason, interviewed by telephone at his home in Decatur, Ga. "But we wouldn't be too disappointed if they're not worth a cent. We're more curious than anything else."

To answer inquiries, Lewin uses some sources available in a public library, such as back issues of corporate directories. For older and more obscure stocks and bonds, he depends on a network of private financial libraries and sources cultivated during 13 years of financial sleuthing.

But in some cases, as with the $4 million find, persistent checking is no substitute for pure luck. Lewin worked for six years to find the certificate, a bond issued in 1888 by a trust formed to help shareholders in the defunct Texas Pacific Railroad. The certificate had been missing since the turn of the century. In the interim, stock splits and other transactions made the bond worth millions in stocks and accumulated dividends.

Lewin's big break came when an official of a San Francisco bank read a news story in which Lewin speculated that the missing bond might be somewhere in the West. A search of the bank's archives uncovered the bond.

If a certificate turns out to be valuable, Lewin collects 30 percent of any money recovered. In the case of the Texas Pacific bond, Lewin is negotiating with the bond's owners, an elderly Florida heiress and three Eastern medical schools. They are the heirs of the bond's original owner, a mining millionaire named Joseph DeLamar.

Before he tracked down the Texas Pacific bond, Lewin said, his most valuable find was worth "about $5,000."

For many with visions of a windfall, Lewin has bad news: No more than 10 percent of the certificates he traces are worth more than the paper they're printed on.

In some cases, though, just the paper is enough. Lewin said one of his clients had a certificate that had no value as stock, but was worth $2,600 to a collector of rare stock certificates.

Most of Lewin's clients say they would be very surprised to find their certificates had any value. As Hutsiniller put it: "The first thing I'd do is have a heart attack."

But most have a secret dream that is now beyond their means: A new home, a world cruise, a more secure retirement. For these people, Lewin represents a flicker of desire for that pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

As Lewin said, "Everybody lives in hope."

LITTLE NUMBERS LEAD TO BIG BUCKS — Jack Lewin, 67, magnifies the digits '390' on a stock certificate he researched and which ended up being worth $1 million. Lewin, 67, traces the history and value of old stock certificates.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 1, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Take changing viewpoints and conditions around you in stride by observing them closely and not becoming upset. Be sure to give compliments to those associates who deserve it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can now see the wrinkles in some creative work you are doing, but you can easily smooth them out, if you try.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't become involved in arguments at home or at work and all goes smoothly. Become acquainted with new contacts of worth.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go over statements and reports carefully and avoid possible errors. Curb your temper when dealing with outsiders.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can easily make a costly mistake where money is concerned if you are not careful about facts and figures.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't waste valuable time making changes that could spoil your well-laid plans. Try to be more clever in conversations.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take time from routine affairs and make plans that could give you added income in the future. Contact an adviser for advice you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Seek company of friends who are a joy to be with instead of those who can upset you in some way. Strive for happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you try to force your will on others now you get nothing but negative results, so use tact and diplomacy for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to understand the other person's position where a controversy is concerned and get right results. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to carry through with promises and obligations you have made and get the very best results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fascinating situations arise but they need careful study before acting upon them. Seek personal happiness in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have much work ahead of you so stop procrastinating and attend to it without delay. Show others you have wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who needs encouragement in order to do well, so be sure to give plenty of it and success is assured. Make sure the diet is good and that religious training is not neglected. Sports are important in this chart.

Wanted forward-looking career

So he became good blacksmith

GREEN RIVER, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Wideman, a caring young man, studied to be a conservationist. Then he had second thoughts.

He decided he wanted a more forward-looking career, a life more responsive to America's real needs, a career, as the personnel brochures would describe it, with growth potential. So he became a blacksmith. He might be on to something.

"I believe Americans are fed up with things that fall apart," he said, pounding hot steel at his anvil. "You know the phrases: 'Guarantee expires in 60 days'; 'Return in original carton.' We have come to expect that nothing will last.

"When a blacksmith makes something, though, he makes it to last forever, or at least a lifetime. Maybe lifetimes. A blacksmith makes products that are...honest. It's a good feeling to do that.

"That is why," he said, stoking his forge to a rosy hue, "there are more blacksmiths today, not fewer, than 10 years ago."

Bob Wideman is 27. He is tall, slender, with large and sinewy hands. He works in a shop beside his house lit by sunlight and heated by a wood stove. He warms his hands over the forge while waiting for the steel to glow. He wears a denim apron.

Hammer rings on anvil and sparks fly, a scene from an era that knew no assembly line or energy crisis, a picture of innocence lost.

Wideman could not have picked a more apt setting to ply his picturesque craft. Green River is a rural crossroads named for the stream just back of the smithy, on the edge of the village of Austerlitz.

The village has two stores, one spired church, three mossy old graveyards, one schoolhouse that is both little and red. The skyline is the Berkshire hills. It is a setting a poet might rush to describe, as, indeed one longtime Austerlitz resident, Edna St. Vincent Millay, often did.

"For commercial reasons," Wideman said, "I couldn't ask for a better location. I'm the only blacksmith for miles. And I did get into this business for commercial reasons, not romantic ones."

Much of Wideman's work, he said, is reproducing hand-forged hardware for museum restorations and for working parts of pre-Revolutionary homes in this valley, where such homes also keeps, for walk-in trade, a clutter of pokers, hinges, bolts, fire dogs, trivets, door knockers, ladles, sconces, items for sale with a feel and a heft to them that is somehow more reassuring than any fine-print warranty.

"Who knows where a revival of blacksmithing might lead?" His hammer rang as a noontime Angelus on an anvil unchanged in form or function for ages.

"I remind you," he said, "that the first machinery of the Industrial Revolution was forged by a blacksmith. Who else? It is a trade that will last as long as an anvil will last. That's comforting."

Cutter, oil tanker collision probed

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Crewmen from the sunken Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn and the oil tanker SS Capricorn are meeting today as an investigation begins into the collision in which 23 persons are feared dead.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard says it has abandoned hope of finding more survivors, and discontinued a search in the swampy shore area around the mouth of Tampa Bay. "There was almost no likelihood of finding any bodies," said Capt. Marshal Gilbert.

The six-member inquiry board is headed by Rear Adm. Norman Vinzke, commander of the Coast Guard 2nd District. The panel includes four other Coast Guard officers and Patricia Goldman, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Ms. Goldman said the safety board will compile "an independent report, including an official determination of the probable cause of the accident."

The safety board will make recommendations for avoiding similar accidents.

Divers continued to make trips to the sunken Blackthorn late Wednesday, inspecting the ship as a first step toward refloating it, a three-to-six-week process.

Coast Guard officials and harbor pilots are trying to decide if an alternate channel through the usually busy port can be used, or if an attempt must be made to move the wreckage out of the regular channel.
