

Clayton denies taking bribes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton said late Saturday he has taken no bribe although he has kept a stack of $100 bills given him as a political donation in a "safe place" for three months.

"The money has not been touched, looked at, or counted since that day," Clayton told a news conference. "I don't know how much money there is, but it is exactly where it was put for safe keeping on Nov. 8 ... If the appropriate authorities request the money it will be given to them immediately."

Clayton and his attorney, Charles Burton, said the "stack" of money was offered Clayton by one of Clayton's former political supporters, L.G. Moore of Houston, after the speaker had talked to Moore and another man about bids on a health insurance contract to cover state employees.

"I immediately told my assistant, Rusty Kelley, to put the money in an envelope and put it in a safe, locked place, and that we would return it to Mr. Moore the first time he came back to the office because I had no intention of accepting any contribution under those circumstances."

He said the money had not been returned because Moore had not returned to the office.

Burton refused to let his client answer questions, but answered a number himself.

He said the money was never accepted "but held in a place of safe keeping."

Clayton, Kelley and Bob Johnson, Clayton's appointee to the state employees retirement board, have been subpoenaed to appear next week before a federal grand jury in Houston.

The news conference followed a story published in the Los Angeles Times on Friday night saying Clayton had accepted $10,000 in a FBI "sting" operation.

The story said others involved in the meeting in Clayton's office were Joseph Hauser, a twice-convicted Beverly Hills insurance promoter and Moore, a Houston labor leader.

Clayton said Hauser represented himself as a representative of Prudential Insurance Co. and claimed that a contract with Prudential would save the state $1 million on the contract.

"I replied that I'm always interested in any project that could save the state a million dollars and that I would inquire as to what it would take to get on the list to receive the bid specifications and when the bid date would come up."

"Later I talked with Bob Johnson to find out what the procedures were for getting on the bid list and when it would come up."

Clayton, who sat solemn and unsmiling during most of the conference, said when the meeting was over, "Mr. Moore said that he wanted to give me a political contribution. Instead of creating a scene with the resulting embarrassment to Mr. Moore in front of his business associate, I laid his offered contribution on my desk."

Burton said neither he nor Clayton know how much money is involved. "I've been told there are some $100 bills," Burton said.

He would not say if the money is in a bank or a safe at the Capitol.

"I don't believe Mr. Moore was ever told the speaker was not going to accept the money," Burton said.

Burton said he felt his client had been "entrapped" by the two men who said they represented Prudential. Also that he had been "unfairly questioned" by FBI agents before being served with a subpoena.

The Los Angeles newspaper said Friday night the FBI offered Clayton a $10,000 payment in return for secretly supplying the undercover agents specifications for a state employees health insurance plan so Prudential could successfully win the bid. Monthly payments reportedly were to be made as long as Prudential held the contract.

That contract now is held by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. and is worth $70 million to $80 million a year in coverage of about 90,000 state employees.

Clayton, 51, serving an unprecedented third straight two-year term as speaker of the Texas House, denied any wrongdoing. He said he has hired Charles Burton, prominent Austin attorney, to represent him.

FBI agents questioned Clayton Friday before delivering the grand jury subpoena.

The Austin FBI office refused any comment Saturday, referring all queries to its Washington office.

Gov. Bill Clements said Saturday he did not believe the allegation.

"I find it extremely hard to believe there is any foundation to these charges," he told reporters. "I have confidence in Speaker Clayton and do not believe he would participate in such a thing."

Clayton said he met with the Prudential agents, who actually were FBI undercover agents, "only one time that I can recall. All they wanted was just to be able to bid" on the insurance contract.

"I'm shocked. I'm appalled," he told a reporter. "I've never taken a bribe and I never would."

He told another newsmen he had "no earthly idea what the allegations are based on."

Iranian president praises aims

Militants receive warning

Iran's president Abolhassan Bani-Sadr praised the aims of Islamic militants who were holding some 50 Americans hostage for the 98th day Saturday, but issued them a veiled warning to obey government decisions, according to an interview with a Persian Gulf newspaper.

Foreign Minister Sadeq Ghotbzadeh, meanwhile, said in a British television interview that force might be used if the Iranian government met resistance in trying to take control of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, which the militants seized 14 weeks ago, when they took the hostages.

Another top official, arrested and briefly held last week after the embassy captors accused him of being linked to the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, urged Bani-Sadr to clean up what he called the various power centers in Iran.

There were these other developments:

— Andrew Young, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, arrived in Algeria declaring he had "no plan" for securing release of the Americans at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. Young arrived from Rome, where he was asked about reports he would visit Iran. "I wish I could go," Young said. There have been persistent rumors in the Mideast that Young may figure in an international tribunal to investigate charges against deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi as part of a package deal to release the Americans.

— The governor of Turkoman province in northern Iran appealed for calm and warned army troops would intervene after clashes Friday in which four persons were killed and 25 were injured, according to a Tehran radio broadcast monitored in London. The situation in the Turkoman area of Gondbad-e-Kavuz was "on the whole critical," it said. Inhabitants of the province are a Turkish-speaking minority.

In the interview with Al-Itihad, a semi-official newspaper published in Abu Dhabi, capital of the United Arab Emirates, Bani-Sadr was quoted as saying, "Let there be no suspicion that our students (embassy captors) are sick people, or bear animosity or any special feelings against the American hostages and the rest of the American people."

According to the newspaper, Bani-Sadr continued:

"The students are acting in order to achieve a high and safe objective. When the revolution and the state are sure that the operation of taking hostages has borne the required results, it would become its (the Iranian government's) responsibility to take the proper decision regarding the question of hostages."

Soviet diplomat hints of Afghan withdrawal

The Soviet ambassador to Japan said Saturday that some of the estimated 90,000 Russian soldiers in Afghanistan may be withdrawn "in the near future" if the United States and China don't escalate tensions there. But Afghanistan's new strongman said the Soviet troops will remain a while longer.

Ambassador Dimitri Polyanski told Japan's Kyodo news service that he had no knowledge of a report that Moscow plans to begin a substantial reduction of its troops in Afghanistan by the end of February.

"Much depends on the United States and China," Polyanski said. "The present situation in Afghanistan can end in the near future unless the two countries try to escalate it."

The Kremlin has repeatedly accused the United States and China of interfering in Afghanistan's internal affairs by allegedly arming and training the anti-communist Moslem rebels who have been fighting a succession of pro-Moscow governments in Kabul for the past 21 months.

In Washington, Carter administration officials said they expected the Kremlin to make only a "cosmetic" withdrawal of its troops in an effort to defuse Western opposition. They also said the government was monitoring unusual, unexplained Soviet military activity north of the Iranian border near the troubled Azerbaijan region of Iran.

And in Kabul, the Afghan capital, the new pro-Moscow president told an interviewer the Soviet troops would leave his country only when "all signs of aggression against us are eliminated."

"The day reactionary Pakistan, chauvinist China, imperialist America and Britain and Zionist Egypt are defeated in their ugly plan to dismember Afghanistan, the Russians will go back," Babrak Karmal was quoted in an interview published Saturday in the London Times.

Guerrilla resistance reportedly has shriveled to sporadic sniper fire and small-scale attacks, primarily in the rugged mountains of the northeast.

Action/reaction: Who counted 'em?

Q. Does Texas have any alligators to speak of?
A. It's estimated that the state's gator population exceeds 60,000. Practically all can be found along the Gulf Coast, part of the way up the Rio Grande and other rivers which find their way to the sea, as well as all the way up the Sabine River as far as Caddo Lake south of Texarkana. Naturalists warn never hand feed them, since they can't seem to distinguish between the food and the hand holding it.

Jerry Higgins to be mayoral candidate

Dr. Jerry Higgins became the third person to announce his candidacy for the office of mayor. Higgins filed Thursday to run in the April 5 municipal election.

Higgins, 43, said he wants to be mayor because "there's a certain amount of prestige and I like to be involved with people who are doers. I like being in the mainstream where the activities are."

He feels the mayor's job is to be a salesman. "I'd love to get the money for programs if the people are willing to pay for them. The mayor's job is to be a salesman, to get publicity. He's supposed to do his job in such a way that surrounding cities think Big Spring is a good place to live. That's the mayor's main job in my opinion."

Higgins is "all for salary raises for city employees, but they'll have to get the money to pay for it. If the citizens of Big Spring want to chip in the money, fine."

As for the professional city employees, such as police officers, he said, "The city goes in and trains these men and then they don't pay enough to hold them. If we make the initial investment on them, like a house, we should continue to make the payments. These are professional people and they have a tough job. Their salaries should be raised."

He also feels that opponent Bill Henkel's statement that "drug peddlers better pack up and go" is not valid.

"Drugs have been around for hundreds of years," he stated. "All you can do is EXACTLY 45 DAYS TOO LATE—As far as most Big Spring-area residents were concerned, the snow which fell here Friday and Saturday night would have been much more welcome 45 days ago—on Christmas Day. However, local people have learned to take and appreciate moisture when they can get it. The snow was preceded by sleet and rain that turned to ice, which made for hazardous driving conditions. However, the cars headed along US 87 immediately south of town seemed to be perking right along.

Herald among clients of Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — States News Service, founded seven years ago, serves as a Washington bureau for about 80 newspapers nationally, and, since Jan. 1, the Harte-Hanks newspapers in Texas.

One of those benefiting from the service is the Big Spring Herald.

About 24 reporters daily keep tabs on the news from Washington that affects communities in about 18 states.

"If through the news service's reporters our subscribers can give their readers a stronger idea of how what happens here impacts their lives, then we are doing our job and accomplishing what we set out to do," said Leland Schwartz, wire editor.

Unlike the two major news services—The Associated Press and United Press International—States News writes only stories with a local and regional instead of national point of view.

"We are shooting to put our wire in every serious newspaper in all 50 states," Schwartz said. "But more important than sheer growth of size and scope, we are shooting to expand the depth and quality of our reporting."

In addition to the 16 Harte-Hanks newspapers in Texas, States News serves The New

CONCENTRATE ON TEXAS NEWS Steve Snider (L.), Peter Vandevanter

York Times, The Washington Post, The Boston Globe and The Miami Herald.

Two reporters—Peter Vandevanter and Steve Snider—have been assigned the Texas desk. However, stories written by other reporters about issues that affected Texans also will be relayed to the Harte-Hanks papers.

Vandevanter, 28, joined States News last September after working for 2 years in Baltimore for United Press International. For UPI he covered the state legislature and the political corruption conviction of former Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel.

"We hope to make Texans realize—for better or worse—their stake in what happens in Congress," he said. "If we can tell people what's going on fast enough for them to do something about it, then we'll be a help."

Vandevanter, whose family is from Cleburne, Tex., grew up in Virginia. After graduating from Princeton University in 1973 he went for work for the Macon Telegraph in Georgia.

Snider, 27, has worked at dailies in Missouri, New Hampshire and Vermont. His last job was as political-investigative reporter for the Rutland (Vt.) Herald, where his assignments included investigations of international arms sales, presidential politics and nuclear power issues including five days of reporting from the Three Mile Island nuclear accident.

Snider is a Kansas native with family in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. His father was formerly a sportswriter and editor at papers in San Antonio, Berger and Odessa.

"The end of the trail on so many local stories is somewhere in Washington," Snider said.

Our amazing physicians

By CAROL HUNTER
The first physician to make Howard County his permanent home was Dr. John Anglin, who had a scar on his lip, the result of an Indian shooting him with an arrow in earlier years. The first hospital was Wright's Sanitarium, which was a durable two story building downtown.

The T and P had a physician who practiced in Big Spring and was responsible for the area Baird to Sierra Blanca. Among these were Drs. J.M. Prince and J.H. Hurt, who served the T and P over fifty years. Dr. G.T. Hall also started his Big Spring Medical career as a physician for the T and P. The old Birdwell home at 9th and Goliad was used as Dr. Hall's first T and P Hospital. He and Dr. Bennett then built the structure, hospital and clinic across the street in 1927. Later, Dr. Clyde Thomas' name became synonymous with Hall Bennett Hospital.

Drs. Standiford and Utter practiced in Big Spring around the turn of the century. They were the two in attendance when the Earl of Aylesford died. Many early physicians combined medical practice with other endeavors. Dr. W.C. Barnett was also County Treasurer and practiced from his courthouse office. Dr. T.M. Collins had his own apothecary. Dr. D.W. McIntyre his own drug store. Dr. G.S. True delivered the Shaw triplets. Dr. Charles Bivens sold his small hospital at 9th and Main to Dr. P.W. Malone and Dr. John Hogan when they formed a partnership about 1939. These two men envisioned Big Spring's being a Medical Center for West Texas and the practice of clinical medicine.

It would be unanticipated that a community our size should boast of the number of hospitals and physicians we have. There are over 50 doctors practicing in the three private hospitals, the State Hospital and the Veterans Administration Hospital, plus some in private practice.

The State Hospital opened in 1939, and it was legislated that the Superintendent should be a medical doctor. There have been numerous Superintendents, but Dr. Preston Harrison had the longest tenure. Dr. Jack Margolis has served the V.A. as its longstanding Chief of Staff. Drs. John J.H. and J.F. Fish, Dr. Carroll Moore and Dr. W.B. Allensworth have a private practice.

Few women were even accepted to Medical Schools until recent years. It is, therefore, interesting to note that five women physicians have had an impact on our community. The contributions of and admiration for Dr. Louise Bennett Worthy and Dr. Nell Saunders are limitless. Of shorter tenure are Drs. Marjorie Kirkpatrick, Frankie Williams, and Grace Ferguson.

It was with sadness that our community learned of the closing of Medical Arts Hospital, which was started by Drs. Neil and Virgil Saunders, along with his brother, Preston in the late 1940's. They were joined in 1962 by Dr. Floyd Mays, who recently retired.

In the 1930's, Dr. Roscoe B.G. Cowper came to Big Spring and built his hospital and clinic. Many physicians have been with him through the years, and he vigorously maintains his practice to date.

The lay person may not be able to readily identify with the years of study and dedication which is required to become a physician. The 5-10 years of medical school, internship, and residency are times of accelerated book learning coupled with exhausting hours of practical experience, learning to care for people, make life and death decisions under duress. Family and friends can only empathize and attempt to make things smooth, for that individual is locked into concentrated training. Although it is improved, for many years the young physician never realized enough financial security to support a family until his early 30's.

Everyone recalls the tales of the country doctor who went at any hour for anyone. He was just as quick to respond to the lonely and destitute, and was often paid in commodities. In Howard County, our physicians are still some of our leading citizens, taking time to better our community not only with arduous hours of healing and counseling, but by giving back to the community more than they receive. Anonymity is the way that most physicians wish to handle their good works. No one will ever know how much charity medical care is dispensed, how many churches and organizations have been held together by their generosity, how many individuals also receive a helping hand financially or with food and clothes at a time when they are physically "down on their luck." Several physicians have endowed their medical schools to insure future medical progress.

The life of a physician's wife can be isolated and lonely, for the phone rings at any hour, during any occasion. Plans are perpetually uncertain. It is also a rewarding life, spent working for common goals in the healing profession. The wives of the above mentioned modern medical Howard County pioneers, Mary Joy Cowper, Jane Thomas, Florence Hall, Dixie Hogan, Inez Malone, Polly Mays and the late Maude Bennett have joined their husbands in time and dedication, caring and concern for our community. They typify the ideal doctor's wife, for with their extra hours none have fallen into self pity, but have, instead, been activists working energetically to better and beautify many aspects of our community.

With modern medicine has come the most perplexing problem of all, government intervention. By virtue of his or her personality, calling and years of study, a physician is a most independent thinker and doer. The government's telling him how to practice medicine is an aversion.

It is appropriate that we in Howard County appreciate our excellent medical facilities. Even though the days of the country doctor are gone, they are replaced by modern technology, having extended quality life. There are many areas who have no physician at all. How fortunate are we.

Doesn't nation deserve something better?

No one with whom we have talked has expressed any great surprise over the bribery charges brought against 30 businessmen and public officials — only disappointment.

Few even question the tactics of agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who posed for 14 months as representatives of a wealthy Arabian sheik. The G-Men say they coughed up something like $500,000 of your money and ours in bribes as exchange for favors or promises of favors for the bogus sheik — to make investments in America, to obtain gambling licenses in New Jersey and to clear the way for him to remain in this country if he were forced to flee his homeland.

SOME OF THE accused officials claim they are innocent. They may be.

It's hard to imagine, however, the Attorney General of the United States dreaming up such a plot himself merely to make someone sweat for a while. The accusations appear serious, very serious.

Americans who like to think the American way still works have a right to feel outraged when they read that a New Jersey senator, Harrison Williams, and representatives from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, South Carolina and Florida conspired to accommodate the fictitious sheik in exchange for money.

Will the accused individuals be able to claim entrapment and clear themselves of wrong-doing? Perhaps they can, although FBI officials say what they consider to be the largest corruption inquiry in departmental history was carefully manipulated so as to avoid that legal loophole.

But entrapment (proof that the accused did not instigate the crime) is nothing more than a legal maneuver to avoid conviction.

Whether that plea enters into this case may be irrelevant in the minds of Americans who probably will remember only that some of their people in the Congress (along with several New Jersey and Pennsylvania officials) personally pocketed the cash.

WE ARE OF the opinion that most Americans would hesitate to pre-judge the accused but would like for the facts to be presented to the appropriate grand juries as speedily as possible. If ample evidence is available in the cases, they should be brought into an open courtroom at the earliest opportunity.

It has been disclosed that congressional ethics committees have been working on cases involving the same people. In similar cases in the past, such committees have not always pursued their jobs with any great resolve. We hope that is not the case this time.

Members of the congress grade out very low in public regard polls from time to time, for reasons such as this. It's a shame those legislators who are trying to do conscientious, responsible jobs have to suffer in such blanket indictments, but suffer they do.

Congress is going to have to be more vigorous in its efforts to ferret out the wrong-doers and dole out the proper punishment.

I think the moment I fully realized this nation is headed for serious trouble is when I read there is a game on the market that uses a computer to play tic-tac-toe.

BACKSHOP BOSS BOB ROGERS, who underwent a triple coronary bypass operation in Lubbock Feb. 1 and who celebrates his birthday on St. Valentine's Day, reported a Houston department store is selling a swimming pool filled with Perrier water.

It's for people who are concerned about the fizical side of life, Bob explained.

Herald word chaser, Mary Helen Saldivar, who will celebrate her birthday in El Paso Tuesday, says:

"The rich have to conserve fuel too. Who'll be the first Texas millionaire to show up in a 'low-riding' chauffeured Chevette?"

FORMER CIRCULATIN' MAN now helping keep track of Herald cash, Gene Kimble, provides a couple of leg slappers.

The teacher asked, "Can you give me a good example of how heat expands things and cold contracts them?"

"Well," one alert pupil answered, "the days are longer in the summer."

And "I didn't come here to be told that I'm burning the candle at both ends," complained the patient to his doctor. "I came here for more wax."

COURTEOUS CORA CONN, who resigned Friday as Herald phone-aid whiz, defines recumbent as an officeholder seeking re-election even though he's lying down on the job.

CONGRESS and the oil companies are having so much trouble agreeing on windfall profits, I thought I'd step in and tell them what to do.

As you know, the oil companies want all their profits so they can find more oil which would benefit all of us. In the process, they would make quite a bit more money, which the government wants a share of in the form of windfall profits tax. The tax would be used to pay for an energy program that would benefit us.

IN OTHER WORDS, whatever happens, we are going to be benefitted whether we want it or not.

Before I got into the details of my plan, I'd like to say I'm touched — well, maybe that's not the right word — I am stirred by the feeling the oil companies and the government have for us arrogant people whose self-serving goal in life is to keep warm in the winter and drive to the grocery store once in awhile.

When you think of how greedy we are, you wonder why the oil companies and the government haven't given up on us long ago but they haven't. They just keep right on preying — that's a typing error; I mean praying — that we will someday understand they have our best interests at heart.

Now about my plan.

THERE SHOULD BE a windfall profits tax and the proceeds should go, not to the government, but to us in the form of windfall bonuses. In return, we would agree that we would drive our cars only so many miles a year.

Presto! No more energy crisis and the oil companies would be relieved of the burden of having to go out and hunt for more oil.

I already know what I'm going to do with my bonus money.

I'm going to buy a new car.

PROOF-POSITIVE Joan Krucina, who stopped at my desk Friday to squawk about a headline and compare Big Spring weather with Corning, N.Y., weather, remarked:

Whoever said "Where there's smoke, there's fire" must never have had a fireplace.

Nature is generous to us: When we reach the sitting around stage of life, she gives us a bigger cushion.

One of my leaders, Joe Pickle, who is presently taking a brief "vacation" in the Malone-Hogan Hospital, holds out some hope for all of us. It's only 20 days until the first garden crops are due to be planted, just five days after the seed magazines start blossoming.

County Clerk Margaret Ray, who celebrated her birthday Friday, overheard:

Boss to employee: "You may march to a different drummer, but I want the beat speeded up!"

Some danger involved

WASHINGTON — The newspapers and airwaves are filled with commercials urging people to bring in their gold and silver jewelry to stores and dealers. Jewelers are not selling but buying these days, and the public is showing up in droves with everything from diamond pendants to silver salt and pepper shakers.

While it is true that the buy-back value of these items has never been higher, there is a danger involved which I believe everyone should be warned about.

MCCLOSKEY'S WIFE decided to cash in on some valuable pieces of jewelry that her husband had given her through the years. She was under the impression — and McCloskey had never denied it — that everything he bought her was worth a fortune. Accompanied by her friend, Melba, "for protection" she took it all down to a jeweler who was guaranteeing the highest prices in Washington.

The man behind the counter picked up one piece at a time, said "junk," and threw it down.

Mrs. McCloskey was not only shattered by the man's contempt for her earthly possessions, but mortified that Melba was a witness to the embarrassing scene.

MELBA PROMISED SHE wouldn't say a word to anyone. What she really meant was that she wouldn't say a word to anyone until she could get to the nearest telephone.

When McCloskey got home that evening, his martini was warm and his wife was cold.

"Do you remember that beautiful gold necklace you bought me in Mexico City ten years ago?" his wife asked.

"The one we had insured for $5,000? I hope you didn't lose it."

"I wish I had," she replied. "I took it to the jeweler today and he said it was worth $20."

"That's ridiculous. The man who sold it to me in a dark alley off the Avenida de Montezuma said it was a priceless Inca treasure."

"You never told me you bought it from a man in a dark alley!"

"You never asked."

"Did you know that the pearl earrings you brought back from Beverly Hills were made by the Monsanto Chemical Co.?"

"I don't believe it. I paid $150 for them."

"And the silver family heirloom brooch you gave me for our wedding?"

"Plated?"

"Painted. I've never had such a miserable day in my whole life."

"Well, who told you to go to the jeweler? You were very happy wearing all that stuff before you found out what it was worth."

McCloskey's wife said, "But if my jewelry is a lie, maybe everything about this marriage is a lie."

"That's the stupidest thing I ever heard. We've been married for 15 years, and just because some greedy jeweler tells you your baubles aren't worth what you thought they were, there is no sense in thinking our marriage is on the rocks. The thing I have always loved you for is that you are not one of those hard, grasping women who counts her blessings in baubles."

"Well," McCloskey's wife said, "if something did happen with this marriage, I could always sell my diamond engagement ring."

McCloskey said nervously, "I wouldn't if I were you."

"Oh, well, so much for the olive-branch gig."

Weakness in Navel

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please tell me what causes a navel cyst in an infant. How can it be treated? — Mrs. C.E.D.

I'd have to know more about the specific cyst in order to answer this properly. I can suggest causes to investigate.

One form of navel cyst is called urachal (u-RAH-kul) cyst. It is a remnant from fetal development. During this period, a channel connects the bladder to the navel. It gradually becomes a fibrous cord. A cyst may form at the navel end. Urine may drain from the bladder through the navel if the channel does not close completely. The treatment is to remove the structure, which ends the problem.

A common cause of navel cyst is an umbilical hernia. That is a protrusion of abdominal contents (such as a bit of intestine) through a weakness in the navel. Treatment of a hernia depends on its size and the age of the child. Some can be watched to see if they correct themselves. Others require surgery.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is a stricture in the gullet or throat the same as a hiatal hernia? How is each treated? Sometimes, when I eat, my food won't go down. — B.F.

They are different conditions. First, hiatal hernia. The muscular tube that allows food to pass from the mouth to the stomach opening is the esophagus (or gullet). In order to enter the stomach the tube must pass through a muscular wall — the diaphragm, which separates the abdominal and chest compartments. A hiatal hernia is bulging of a bit of the stomach upward alongside the gullet at the point of the opening.

A stricture is, as the name implies, a narrowing of the esophagus tube itself. That can occur anywhere along the tube and there can be a number of causes for it. The swallowing of corrosive material (such as lye) can cause it.

The treatment for stricture is different than that for a hiatal hernia. I discussed stricture treatment in a recent article. Briefly it involves either physical dilation or surgery to enlarge the passageway. Hiatal hernia is most often treated conservatively (without surgery) unless the hernia is large. Treatment for hiatal hernia involves many things the patient can do for himself — elevation of the head of the bed at night, antacids, etc. You will find this discussed in greater detail in the booklet you asked for, "Hiatal Hernia: Eight Ways to Combat It." Other readers can order a copy by mailing 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the difference between first and second degree burns, and what is the approved treatment for either kind? — B.S.

The degree of burn indicates the depth of injury. A first degree burn means the outermost part of the skin (epidermis) has been damaged. The skin is reddened and there may be mild swelling. In a second degree burn the deeper skin (dermis) is affected. Blisters usually appear. In a third degree burn, the tissue below the skin (subcutaneous) has been injured — a serious burn, indeed.

Treatment depends on the degree. For a small first degree burn, immersing the burned area in cold (not ice) water relieves pain. A dry dressing may be used. The same is true for a second degree burn. This kind of burn provides its own cover (the blister). Do not puncture the blister. The area must be kept clean, however, and one should get medical advice.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Does a woman have to experience an orgasm to get pregnant? — Mrs. M.J.

No.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with this or other rectal problems, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Third degree or extensive first and second degree burns require some form of prompt professional treatment. The American Red Cross has a very worthwhile book, "Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care." It is published by Doubleday and Co. You can inquire at a bookstore. It's good to have a book of this kind readily available in the home.

Views from citizens

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — To administer the 15 Soviet Socialist Republics, the communist chaps have constructed an apparatus so cumbersome and impenetrable that it is becoming increasingly impervious to Kremlin control.

This is the conclusion of the Central Intelligence Agency, which describes the Soviet system in one secret report as "a spiderweb of overlapping functions and jurisdictions."

The strands of the spiderweb are manipulated by myriad Communist Party officials, whose political apparatus is superimposed over the government bureaucracy. The crisscrossing lines of authority have produced a maze almost beyond control or even comprehension.

THE COMMUNIST system — the inaccessible leaders, the programmatic lying to the public, the battalions of sycophants, the life-and-death powers — has left the population powerless and listless.

Caught in the coils of the Soviet spiderweb, the people have become largely apathetic and have succumbed to the nothing-can-be-done-anyway syndrome. All is left to the authorities, but no one trusts them to perform. This mistrust and resentment has spread throughout the Soviet system, though the dependence on it hasn't lessened.

Yet beneath the daily conformity is another level of consciousness. My reporter who was in Moscow, Sally Denton, caught glimpses below the surface from individual Russians — a young man she met on a bus, a student who approached her in a bookstore, another who spoke to her privately in a park.

Confided a student: "The people get tired of standing in line for hours to buy fruit or vegetables or meat when party officials get whatever they want without all the waiting."

"The Soviet regime has deteriorated to a joke. The people are so apathetic that the extent of their dissent is to mock the government with songs and poems. They don't believe what their press tells them about America. If America is really so bad, why do so many people defect?"

UNDER PRESIDENT Leonid Brezhnev, the party's hold on the government has been tightened. Explains a secret analysis: "The distinction between (party and government) has been sharpened, and the party's traditional role of exhortation and control has been affirmed. 'Dangerous' new ideas — for example, that a party official should be chosen for more expertise than Marxism-Leninism — have been quashed."

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

The story in Tuesday's Herald, "To Swat or Not to Swat the Unruly" aroused my interest as to exactly what the official policy on spanking is with the Big Spring Independent School District. It would make an interesting subject for a story, or at the very least an Action-Reaction item.

There is an inordinate amount of spanking that goes on in some Big Spring schools for even such simple offenses as forgetting homework, visiting in the cafeteria, talking in the restroom, failing to return test papers with parents' signatures, forgetting gym suits, being tardy, etc.

I had previously been in favor of spanking, and still am — but for serious offenses like endangering another student, lying, stealing and disrespect. Spanking in certain schools in Big Spring is the first resort, not the last resort as it seems it should be. There is no liaison with the parents to try to correct many minor problems before resorting to spanking. Punishment is swiftly administered by teachers, whereas in many cases a "visit" with the prin-I cipal would likely have greater weight than a swat. Spanking seems to be used as the easiest way out. Working through problems by other methods naturally takes more time, but would seem, in the long run, more effective.

Wholesale spanking loses its effect. Spanking here in Big Spring is not the ultimate disgrace. It is something that students — and parents — snicker about. Gone are the days when children were told, "If you get it at school, you'll get it twice as hard at home."

It was most enlightening to read in the article you published that most school districts in which spanking is permitted have very strict guidelines as to its use — for instance parental permission, witnesses and a consideration of reasonable alternatives. See none of these in use in Big Spring. Exactly what is the official policy here, and if there is one, is it being adhered to?

My child has not been spanked, so please don't think my curiosity and concern is sour grapes. It is not. Carol Ann Owen

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband really wants to believe in God, but he can't understand how there could be a God when there is so much evil in the world. How can I answer his question about this? — Mrs. M.L.

DEAR MRS. M.L.: The question of evil is not an easy one. Our small minds cannot really grasp how God can be all-powerful and all-loving and yet still permit evil to go on in the world. I think this is the reason the Bible speaks of evil as "the mystery of iniquity" (2 Thessalonians 2:7).

At the same time, your husband has to ask — if he is honest — whether or not there is any evidence that God is real, and that He is loving. Yes, if I only read the daily headlines I might wonder if God was ultimately in control of things, or if he even existed. But the daily headlines are not the place to look for God! I know God is real, and I know He has not lost control of this world, because I have read the Bible — that God also will one day bring judgment to this world. The sin and evil which seem so wrong in our world will one day be judged and punished. "For he has set a day when he will judge the world with justice by the man he has appointed. He has given proof of this to all men by raising him from the dead" (Acts 17:31).

Encourage your husband to look at Christ. Then show him the reality of Christ in your life.

Legislature has office to themselves--almost

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Legislators and their helpers soon will occupy most of the John H. Reagan State Office Building, displacing welfare workers who — with some grumbling — moved to rented offices miles from the Capitol.

For the first time, Texas will have almost an entire office building designated for the Legislature.

"Clayton wanted us out of there as soon as possible," one welfare employee said acidly, referring to House Speaker Bill Clayton.

"I suppose we could have said no. I don't think I was pressured by him (Clayton). He asked me, and I said, 'Sure,'" said Commissioner Jerome Chapman of the Texas Department of Human Resources, one of the state's largest agencies.

Outside the Reagan Building, orange moving vans lined up to carry away the desks, chairs and file cabinets belonging to Chapman's agency, formerly called the welfare department.

House offices, hearing rooms and three major legislative support agencies will occupy four of the building's five floors, plus basement, when all the moving is completed.

Attorney General Mark White's staff probably will get one floor.

The House already owned the first floor and basement. Almost all of the remaining four floors belonged to the Department of Human Resources.

Bob Jenkins of the State Purchasing and General Services Commission said the legislative move would "get some of the crowded conditions in the Capitol alleviated."

Legislative employees also will vacate part of the Sam Houston State Office Building to make way for Gov. Bill Clements' employees who now work in rented offices three blocks from the Capitol.

"It has been the long-range plan, established in 1975, to establish the Reagan Building as a legislative office building and the Sam Houston Building as an executive office building," Jenkins said.

Several senators have offices in another state building near the Capitol that houses the State Library and Archives.

Clayton said legislative support agencies that will move into the Reagan Building include:

— The Legislative Council, whose 115 employees draft bills and perform research for the Legislature.

— The state auditor, who has 152 employees.

— About 25 Legislative Budget Board and Sunset Commission staffers.

Clayton said no representatives would move their personal offices from the Capitol to the Reagan Building. But the move will provide more conference rooms and committee office space.

Particularly needed, he said, was room for the 1981 legislative and congressional redistricting effort, for which the House is laying out a computer and special drawing equipment.

Rent on the brand new office building to which welfare employees have moved in South Austin is $443,652 a year. If Clements fails to stymie construction of a new $40 million welfare building — which he derisively calls the "Taj Mahal" — the Department of Human Resources will move out of rented quarters and into the new structure in about three years.

Meanwhile, the shuffling of office space will enable Clements' staff to vacate a rented building that costs the state $363,132 a year.

Jon Ford, the governor's press secretary, said branches of Clements' office that will move into the Sam Houston Building include the Criminal Justice Division, budget and planning, the Governor's Office of Regional Development, two mail rooms and two print shops.

SNOW SPRAY — A rotary snowplow, pushed by a locomotive, grinds its way through packed snow on a Burlington Northern branch line in Montana, spraying snow 200 feet. The rotary plow is one of several types of snow removal equipment used on the BN system. Clearing tracks is a big winter job for the railroad, which spent more than $10 million on snow removal during last year's bitter weather.

200 inches of snow yearly keeping track crews busy

ESSEX, Montana — Most of us who wield shovels wince at the sight of snow drifted two feet deep in the driveway. But if you want to talk drifts, try to envision one 12 feet high and three-quarters of a mile long.

That was a memorable sight, even here in the Rockies where 200 inches of snow may fall in a single season. But the sight also was short-lived because the drift was on Burlington Northern main line tracks and road crews had it cleared in a day or so. Road Foreman Joe Albinger recalls that job of last winter when you ask him about some of the challenges the BN crews face.

"Last winter (1978-79) was probably our biggest challenge," he said. "This winter began rather mild, with minimal snow, but then we usually get our heavy falls around the end of January, extending through February."

Albinger, Roadmaster O.P. "Augie" Cantu and train and track crews use Essex as an operations center in keeping the tracks clear, here along the southern boundary of Glacier National Park. Their tools are huge machines propelled by locomotives and called snowdozers, rotary plows and Jordan spreaders. More than 120 pieces of snow removal equipment are distributed throughout the BN system at strategic maintenance points.

Although the mountains and northern plains usually need such equipment the most, some had to be rushed to the Chicago area last winter when snowfall totaled a record 84 inches. BN commuter and freight trains kept going through the worst of it.

But the winter was a costly one: The railroad spent $10.3 million on snow removal, nearly double the expense of the previous year.

Different types of equipment are used to cope with differing snow conditions. The snowdozers are pulled behind a locomotive to clear snow less than 18 inches deep. The spreader and rotary plows are among the big guns, pushed by one or more locomotives through the really deep stuff. The spreader parts the snow in a V-shaped swath while the electrically powered rotary makes an 11½-foot-wide cut and can throw snow 200 feet to either side.

Train and track crews are subject to call day and night, whenever the snow is coming down hard and the temperature may be 20 or 30 degrees below zero.

"When it snows here, it really snows," said Augie Cantu. "You can work day and night to keep the track clear, get a few hours sleep, and then you have to go through knee-deep snow to get to the depot the next morning."

"We had at least 10 snowslides in one day over a six-mile stretch of track last year," added Albinger. "They would cover a hundred or two hundred feet of track. One was 30 feet high."

This winter's mild start could be deceptive, he noted. "We don't know when we can breathe easy — it could snow all the way up to May."

Eye awakening dip

FAYETTE, Iowa (AP) — The entire membership of the Fayette Polar Bear Club took a plunge in the icy Volga River on a 28-degree day last week. He led it.

"It's very refreshing," John Bergeland said, warmly. "It's nothing fancy. It's a part recreation, part fun."

Between snow-covered riverbanks, the 39-year-old Bergeland sat in the 34-degree water. He splashed some. He walked in the river, stepping on cold stones.

He's been taking such chilly dips about once a month since the 1960s. "I've gone to St. Cloud, Minn., and Chicago. There are Polar Bear Clubs around the country," he says.

But not in Fayette — the reception has been chilly here.

"I gave everybody something new to talk about," Bergeland says. But no one wanted to join — he is the only Fayette Polar Bear Club member after three years in town.

"I haven't really found anybody who wants to run to my door or call me up," Bergeland said. "But I think by next year, I might have one or two."

Nature's whipping boy

TARKIO, Mo. (AP) — A year ago Saturday, thieves broke into radio station KTRX in this north-west Missouri community and stole the taping equipment.

Last Aug. 8, a tornado destroyed the building housing KTRX studios and its transmitter.

The station returned to the air, using temporary facilities in a moving van while work went on nearby on a new building, now virtually complete.

But Friday night, as manager Jerry Ball prepared for a newscast, he noticed "patches of fire in the back of trailer" — fire that officials said probably began at a leaky propane tank.

"I tried the fire extinguisher but it didn't work," he said. "There were so many little fires."

Firemen saved the new building, but not the van. Ball was optimistic, and said he hoped to have the station back on the air by Wednesday.

"We feel after wind, rain and fire, it's all behind us," he said.

ACTOR APPLYING MAKEUP FOR OPERA
From Ed Lark's "Taiwan"

Program on 'Taiwan' is scheduled here Thursday

The Big Spring Rotary Club will present the second in its series of "Passport to Adventure" programs, this one entitled "Taiwan," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in the Howard College Auditorium.

Those who have not purchased season tickets for the five-part series can get them at the door at a cost of $4. Ed Lark will offer Thursday's program here.

Taiwan, or Formosa, the "Beautiful Island," is the only place in the free world where one can experience the full, exotic flavor of Chinese life at its best. It is a land rich in heritage, warm in hospitality, steeped in tradition, yet embracing the modern technology of the atomic age.

Nationalist China's emergence as a progressive 20th Century society is vividly depicted in its modern buildings and bustling traffic. The day begins in Taipei Park, where many Chinese, both men and women, practice traditional Oriental exercises before going to work.

Visits to an herb store, a veterans' hospital, and a children's hospital offer a fascinating comparison of Eastern and Western medicines.

Lark, who offers the narration during two reels of film which will be presented here, is a native of California. Although he grew up in the shadow of the Golden Gate Bridge, he has spent much of his life traveling. He developed his interests in photography as a teen-ager. At 18, he spent an entire year in Europe producing his first full-length program. At 19, he was already producing commercial and educational films, as well as film lectures.

His travels have taken him to all parts of the world and his brilliant photography has earned him a reputation of being a perfectionist with a camera.

Photographer gets ax

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Jane M. Byrne's former official photographer got the ax after Us Magazine published a picture that the mayor's husband-press secretary, Jay McMullen, found "repugnant."

The photographer, Martha Leonard, resigned after she was demoted last week to a desk job with an $8,000 cut in her $25,000 annual pay.

The picture shows Mrs. Byrne and her daughter, in dark glasses and fedoras, along with comedians John Belushi and Dan Aykroyd.

Ms. Leonard had worked for Mrs. Byrne since volunteering to cover her mayoral primary campaign last winter.

McMullen said Friday Ms. Leonard was demoted to cut the budget and not because of the picture. But he acknowledged she had been warned last summer that she would be fired if the picture "ever saw the light of day."

Ms. Leonard said she gave the magazine the picture, for free, with the approval of Mrs. Byrne and her daughter.

"Kathy said she had talked to her mother about using the picture and that they both thought it was funny," Ms. Leonard said.

Princess visits refugees

HONG KONG (AP) — Britain's Princess Alexandra dropped in for a brief visit at a Vietnamese refugee camp Saturday and later put Hong Kong's newest and biggest water reservoir into operation.

The princess and her husband, Angus Ogilvy, talked with some of the 50,000 refugees in Hong Kong awaiting resettlement.

The princess, a vice president of the British Red Cross and a cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, also toured a Red Cross medical center for refugees near Hong Kong's Kai Tak International Airport. At what the Hong Kong government calls "the world's largest man-made reservoir," she started a pump to draw water from the $270 million lake for the first time.

The princess arrived here Tuesday for a nine-day visit.

Sadler hearing delayed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A hearing for songwriter and novelist Barry Sadler, charged with second-degree murder, has been postponed.

The hearing was rescheduled Friday for Feb. 29 for Sadler and his co-defendant, Darlene Sharp, assistant prosecutor Torry Johnson said Friday.

Sadler, a former U.S. Army Special Forces sergeant who wrote and sang the 1966 million-seller "Ballad of the Green Berets," is accused in the Dec. 1, 1978 fatal shooting of songwriter Lee Emerson Bellamy, 51.

Indicted on June 1, 1979, Sadler pleaded innocent two weeks later and is free on $10,000 bond.

Miss Sharp, 25, was charged with being an accessory after the fact. She also pleaded innocent and is free on $2,500 bond.

Small town residents hot on the train

PILOT POINT, Texas (AP) — Tempers here are hot these days because of trains that stop in the middle of town and block traffic for long periods of time.

The problem flared into a heated controversy after one occasion when a 100-car train blocked traffic because the crew stopped to eat breakfast.

"There's no excuse for this type of behavior," said Bobby Whisenant, an auto parts store owner.

Residents of this small town north of Denton say they frequently sit in their cars 15 to 20 minutes waiting for the trains to get out of the way.

"On one occasion one of our school buses was half an hour late because we were blocked off," said Mayor Bill Davis. He said he fears emergency vehicles will be unable to get to a crisis on the other side of the tracks and it could cost a life.

"I'm not saying it's going to happen," he said. "It's just that the possibility is there. It's just a problem and we want to see it corrected."

Police Chief Bob Merrill took action last week by fining the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad $2,800 for blocking all seven railroad crossings in town for 20 minutes. That represents a maximum fine of $100 per intersection blocked, for every five minutes it was blocked.

The tracks split the town of 2,150 residents, leaving half the area and one third the population on one side, cut off from the other side when trains stop. The side of town with two-thirds of the population is where the volunteer fire department is located.

There has already been an instance in which a train delayed firemen on their way to put out a house fire, according to Fire Chief Everett Boerner.

"It was a total loss by the time we got there," Boerner said. "We would have had a better chance of saving some of the furniture if we had been able to get there sooner." He said his men waited about five minutes at a railroad crossing until a train moved.

MKT attorney Joe Crawford said, "We do not deliberately or intentionally block railroad crossings for extended periods of time." He promised to cooperate with the city "to work something out."

Meantime, Police Commissioner Bill Hilz said more fines will be imposed until the situation improves.

"If we see a condition that needs correcting, we will correct it," he said.

AMONG THOSE TO BE HONORED AT COURT HONOR — The four boys pictured here are among the five who will be recognized as Eagle Scouts in a Court of Honor scheduled today in the Elbow Elementary School.

From the left, they are Randall McDonald, Brady Long, Kelly Long and Layne Mims. Steven Moelling of Colorado City will also be spotlighted. The ceremony begins at 2 p.m.

Outdoors interest sparks good record for Mims in Boy Scouts

By STEVE HERSH BERGER

William "Bill" Mims, a veteran scoutmaster, will view a special Boy Scout Court of Honor Sunday.

Five of his scouts will earn the highest award bestowed to a Boy Scout — Eagle. One of those young men being honored will be his son, Layne.

Mims has given 25 years to Howard County Boy Scouts. During his years in scouting, he has supervised 25 young men to Eagle. Both of his sons, Gage, now 23, and Layne, 15, have achieved the highest rank in scouting.

His remarkable record in scouting is based largely on his interest in the outdoors. "The camping aspect of scouting is what interests me," Mims said. "Our troop's theme is based on camping."

Mims' fondness with the outdoors has permeated to the scouts he oversees. His troop, No. 16, goes on either a weekend adventure or an over-nighter once a month.

This summer Troop 16 will take a river rafting trip on the Rio Grande through the Big Bend. This journey will be in addition to a week of summer camp.

"We have made the Pecos (River) twice and this will be the third time on the Rio Grande," Mims said.

To facilitate their camping exploits, the members of Troop 16 long ago planned on equipping themselves.

"We had a school bus converted to a scouting bus," Mims said, adding, "Our tents and chuck boxes are on there." After each outing, Troop 16 cleans up its camping paraphernalia and prepares for another excursion.

On one such excursion, Mims' troop took to rafting the Pecos River. They started out around Panda and made their way down river, coming out at Lake Amistad and the Rio Grande at the high bridge.

During the journey the incessant rapids broke up parts of the canopy of homemade boats and rubber rafts. The boys had to learn to survive in the water, even without some food and equipment which were lost in the rough waters along the way.

Mims is a native of Big Spring. After graduating from high school, he went to Texas Tech University, where he earned a degree in electrical engineering.

He saw service in both World War II and the Korean Conflict. He entered the U.S. Air Force and trained as a bombardier at Webb Air Force Base. He saw action in England and in late 1945 was released from the service. But it was not too long before he was called back for duty in Korea.

After being discharged from the service, Mims returned to Big Spring. He was married to Bonnie Reid of Coahoma in 1947. He is presently the County Engineer here.

Mims was a scout himself. He earned the Eagle Scout Award while belonging to Troop 4, then under the leadership of Garrett Patton.

Patton said of Mims, "He was a very efficient scout and very thorough."

Through the years Mims never lost his commitment to scouting.

"After I got out of the service," Mims said, "I started working with Garrett Patton, an old scoutmaster."

Mims continued working with Patton as an assistant scoutmaster at Troop 4 until his son, Gage, joined the cub scouts. With Gage a cub, Mims became his son's pack, No. 16, Cubmaster. Later when Gage moved up to the Boy Scouts, Mims moved up also.

But there is a story behind Mims becoming scoutmaster of Troop 16 which meets at Elbow Elementary School in the Forsan area.

Patton explained that the Forsan troop lost a good scoutmaster when he moved his business to Dallas.

"I told the committee (each troop has an overseeing committee) you have a good scoutmaster out here," Patton said.

Patton said that he had known Mims since he was a boy. "I was a scoutmaster when he was a boy," Patton said.

BILL MIMS

Patton said. "You take him and in one year's time you will forget the other guy was ever here."

Mims appears to blend the traditional scouting precepts with a common sense approach.

"First I want them (scouts) to have fun," Mims said. "Next I want to build citizenship by them working and playing with each other."

The veteran scoutmaster admits to a decline in scouting.

"Scouting now is at its lowest peak here, as well as nationwide," Mims said.

Mims pointed out that five years ago his troop numbered 40 to 45; this year it has between 20 and 25 members.

Phil Corbin, area scout executive, explained, "When Webb (Air Force Base) closed we lost some, but the boy population has decreased."

"This decline is due to a population trend," Corbin added.

Regarding what the scouting program might do to increase its membership, Mims said, "I think the scouting program is good as it is."

Oil workers strike ends early Saturday

By The Associated Press

A five-week strike by 210 members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union ended early Saturday at the Total Petroleum Refinery Co. in Alma, Mich., a union spokesman said.

The local settlements have met the union's last counter offer for a two-year contract with a $1 hourly wage increase, $125 a month for medical insurance premiums for family coverage, $20 monthly for dental insurance and increased vacation time for workers with more than 15 years' seniority.

Under the new contract in Alma, for example, the average worker will earn $10.43 an hour, Ropp said.

Al Ropp, president of OCAW Local 5740, said union members agreed to a wage re-opener on the last year of a two-year contract. They went back to work beginning midnight Friday.

Jerry Archuleta, an OCAW spokesman in Denver, said Saturday 10 independent companies have reached agreements with union members. The settlements involve about 1,500 of the union's 55,000 members nationwide, who have been on strike for five weeks.

Talks between the Denver-based OCAW and Gulf Oil Corp. broke off last week without any progress. Negotiations with Atlantic Richfield Corp. were also suspended.

Court of HONor set for today

Five earn Eagle Scout badges

Five members of Scout Troop 16 will receive their Eagle Scout badge at a Court of Honor in the Elbow School Sunday afternoon. Presentations will be made by Bill Cregar.

Only about one percent of all boys in scouting achieve the Eagle Scout award. The Eagle Scout badge represents ability to be of service to fellow men, it represents an understanding on the part of the wearer to help others. The Eagle badge stands for a job started by a boy when he first joined scouting — a job started and finished. The Eagle badge stands for strength of character and is a symbol of what a boy has done. But, more important, it represents what the boy will be in the future as he grows into manhood.

The scouts to receive the award will be Layne Mims, Brady Long, Steve Moelling, Randall McDonald and Kelly Long.

Other scouts to be recognized for achievements are Bert Patterson, Burk Bristow, Kevin Kennemer and Troy Doane. Each of these boys will receive the second class badge. Scotty Martin will receive the Tenderfoot badge.

The five new Eagle Scouts names have been added to the Eagle Scout plaque which is a paramount fixture in the Elbow School Cafeteria. The plaque now has the names of 25 scouts who have obtained this rank over the past 12 years.

The Surrogate Wife: The answer every working woman's needs

NEW YORK (AP) — Emma Fried is what every working woman needs: a good wife.

She will drop the kids at school, pick up the dry cleaning, open the mail, pay the bills, balance the checkbook, straighten the hall closet, buy the groceries, deal with the TV repairman, water the plants, walk the dog, all with a cheery smile.

She is The Surrogate Wife. For her, housewifery is a business.

Thus, she is also what every confirmed bachelor needs. She will organize his dresser drawers, clean his refrigerator, select his wallpaper, buy his 6-year-old niece a birthday present.

For one client, who was out of town, she visited his friend in the hospital. "If there is anything you need," she said, "let me know." No real wife could have been more sympathetic.

For another, a woman who needed help with a dinner party, she was asked to bring an evening gown when it was discovered there would be an extra male guest. She wore the gown, was charming and gracious, and, afterward, washed the dishes.

The idea for The Surrogate Wife — the name is a trademark — was her own, and as far as she knows the service is unique.

"I am not a glorified girl Friday," she said, "and I am certainly not a cleaning lady. I take a personal interest in what I do, just as if I were — a housewife."

She admits that when she first got the idea for making housewifery a business, four years ago, and put an ad in her neighborhood shopper, her thought was, oh, dear, I suppose I'll be hearing from Betty Freidan.

"Then it occurred to me that any feminist, any woman, who looks down on being a housewife is simply wrong. Besides, I get paid."

"Housewifery is important work. It is not just important, it is essential. Somebody has to do it. I do it very well, I enjoy doing it, and I find it fulfilling."

"Housewives have been downgraded to the point where they don't bother to look for the satisfactions. They should."

"Yes, it requires a certain amount of drudgery, but what job doesn't? It also requires skill in managing and a great amount of creativity to carry it off. Women should not have to apologize for being housewives. They should recognize its value."

Emma Fried recognized its value, its monetary value, while working as a secretary for a film producer.

Emma Fried is an attractive, unmarried woman, fortyish, with dancing green eyes, chiseled features, a soft, soothing voice, quick wit — all of this, and efficiency personified.

One is compelled to ask: Has her business resulted in anyone proposing that she switch from surrogate to certified?

She laughed. "That would be a nice fringe benefit, but no. The right, er, client, just hasn't come along."

Scous urged to participate

All Cub Scouts, Packs, Boy Scout Troops and Explorer Posts are being urged to plan now for participation in the 1980 Census Nationwide Service Good Turn.

Youth members will distribute fliers to each neighborhood residence. Distribution will take place between March 8 and March 22.

The National Scout Jamboree will be held July 29 to August 4 in 1981 at Fort A.P. Hill, Va.

Fort Hill is located near Fredericksburg, Va., in the center of a triangle that includes other famous historical landmarks such as Williamsburg, Yorktown, Richmond, Norfolk and Washington, D.C.

Scouting Is . . .

Pulling Together to Make Good Things Happen

Scouts are taught that working along side one another, with one common goal can be rewarding. The active participation in projects gets things done . . . and cooperation and team effort can accomplish much more than working alone. We're mighty proud of our Scouts and the work they do.

Two summer internship programs to be offered

WASHINGTON, D.C.— Applications for two summer internship programs sponsored by Cong. Charles W. Stenholm have been finalized and are now available at the Congressman's Abilene District Office.

The program will include two Omar Burleson Congressional Interns and two Lyndon Baines Johnson Congressional Interns, with one intern from each program to serve during June or July of this year at Stenholm's Washington office.

"A number of persons have expressed their interest in the two programs since we first began developing the positions last month," Stenholm said, "and I am pleased to be able to honor former Congressman Burleson in this small way, as well as offer valuable experience in government to four interns from the 17th Congressional District."

Burleson will chair a special seven-person selection committee, chosen from throughout the District and State Representative Gary Thompson, an Abilene educator, is to serve as special advisor to the group.

Applicants for the Burleson internships must be 18 years of age at the time he or she is in Washington, allowing high school seniors, who have enrolled in an institute of higher learning to be eligible. Others eligible include any student or graduate student who was enrolled during the preceding academic years at any of the District colleges, universities or technical institutes, or any other school, if the person's home of record is within the District.

Also eligible are teachers, counselors or administrators in any District elementary, middle school, junior high or high school or any instructor, any grade of professorship or administrator of any institution of higher learning within the District.

The only requirement is that the person be involved actively in working with students. Requirements for the LBJ interns are similar, but teachers must be involved in government or social studies at a secondary or post-secondary school in the District.

"The program is designed to provide the intern (either student or teacher) with a full Congressional legislative experience in the Washington office," Stenholm continued.

Formal applications and further details may be obtained from the Abilene District Congressional Office, P.O. Box 1101, Abilene 79604, or by calling AC 915 673-7221.

Pack 187 cubs honored

Pine Wood Derby held

Boy Scout Pack 187, sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, held its annual Pine Wood Derby at the church, 1803 Wasson Road.

Seventeen Cubs and Webelos participated in the event. There were 58 Scouts, parents and friends in attendance and excitement ran high, as each cub presented his car for the race.

Chip Teague, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Teague Jr., was the grand champion winner. Doyle Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Brown, was the first runner up. Second runner up was Burr Lea Settles III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burr Lea Settles Jr.

Third place went to Scott Owen, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ray Owen. Participation awards went to all other boys. The award was a tiny red racer made by the Glenn Jones family.

Judges for the race were Don Tyler and Jack Horn. Starters were Marshall Horn and Michael Garcia. Weigh-in judge was Glenn Jones.

The award for having the best car went to Jeff O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Brien.

The cub master for the pack is Michael Garcia; den leader is Mrs. Glenn Jones; and den chief is Ross Neighbors.

Advancements went to the following cubs: Bob Cats — Clay Smith, Chris Teague, Chip Teague, Scott Owen and Jeff O'Brien.

Bear: Robert Jackson, Ryan Jackson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jackson of Garden City.

Webelo Ribbons: Clay Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith and Scott Owen.

Craftsman Activity badges went to Clay Smith and Doyle Brown. A unique pinning of Bob Cats sent the young boys into peals of laughter and fun. The Cubmaster told the boys it was bad luck to turn a Bob Cat upside down to pin it on their shirt. But the pin had to be pinned on upside down until each boy had done his first good turn. So he proceeded to turn each boy upside down while his mother pinned the cat on right side up, making the cat upside down when the boy was right side up.

Refreshments were served after a closing prayer was given by Glenn Jones.

The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance led by George Eubanks. The opening prayer was by Mark Settles.

Participating boys other than the winners were: Donald Jones, Douglas Logan, Benjamin Eubanks, David Eubanks, Troy Mauldin, Joey Rios and Eric McKinney.

College education: Is it really worth the cost

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Texas system of publicly supported higher education is one of the largest in the nation and accounts for billions in expenditures from the state budget. In the first of six parts, Associated Press newsmen Lee Jones examines the cost of a college education.

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

When Laurie Valentine of Plano drove away to start her junior year at Stephen F. Austin State University last fall, her parents' love and hopes and dreams for her future rode along.

So did a substantial portion of their savings.

Laurie, 20, is one of 331,074 Texans who came up with the sizeable amount of cash needed to enroll in a state-supported university this school year.

College officials estimate the cost of four years at a state university at $10,800 to $15,280 in today's dollars if a student lives in a dormitory, as Laurie does.

Actual expenses probably top the estimates, however.

Stephen F. Austin estimates a dormitory student's expenses for a year at $2,700, among the lowest in Texas. But Laurie, whose life style is not extravagant, spent $2,882 her freshman year and $3,100 her sophomore year. It appears inflation will drive her expenses this year even higher.

The net cost of sending a child to college, of course, is total outlay minus the portion of the normal family budget attributable to that child.

A cost-cutting option most Texans can take is to live at home and commute to college or junior college.

Clayton Stromberger, a freshman at the University of Texas at Austin, lives with his parents in Northwest Austin and drives five miles to and from school each day.

Clayton's $3,010 budget is $810 less than the university says it would be if he lived in a dormitory. By the time school lets out, young Stromberger estimates he will have spent $580 on tuition and fees, $170 on books, $910 on automobile upkeep, $600 on meals out and $750 on such personal expenses as clothes, movies, dates and records.

Ernest and Mary Gayle Stromberger, Clayton's parents, have another son, who will reach college age in 1981.

"If both wanted to go away to college, there's no way we could do it — period," Stromberger said.

Estimated annual expenses run $5,300 for a dormitory student at Baylor, $7,126 at SMU and $5,665 at Trinity.

Some experts fear inflation might push the middle class out of the higher education market.

"Although median family income may roughly keep pace, many families will feel they are being priced out of college," said Dean Lorrin Kennamer of the University of Texas College of Education.

Yet attending a state college is cheaper in Texas than almost anywhere else in the nation.

"I think it would be a bargain even if it were a lot more expensive than it is," said Kenneth Ashworth, state commissioner of higher education.

State university resident tuition and required fees averaged $346 per year in 1978-79, ranking Texas 46th nationwide.

Living expenses differ among the states, so tuition and fees are the significant variable.

Resident tuition at Texas state universities and community junior colleges is $4 per semester credit hour, or $60 a semester for a normal 15-hour load.

Tuition, however, is only part of the story since fees — both required and optional — are the biggest cost of registering in a state college.

Clayton Stromberger paid $286.63 to enroll last fall: $60 tuition, $10 student union fee, $90 building use fee, $59.28 student services fee, $10 property deposit, $12.60 for his "Cactus" yearbook, 75 cents locker and shower fee, $34 intercollegiate athletics fee and $10 parking fee.

Momentum is building for higher tuition. The Texas College Coordinating Board recommended an increase Jan. 25 but did not specify how much. A committee headed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby also is looking at tuition.

"I am for a tuition increase. I think it is absolutely absurd that we have the low tuition that we do," says Gov. Bill Clements.

Tuition and fees cover only about 8 percent of the cost of public higher education in Texas, compared with 12.4 percent for the South as a whole.

Ashworth says if resident tuition were doubled, Texas

Building will be discussed

LAMESA — Dawson County Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Monday at the Dawson County Courthouse in Lamesa.

Commissioners will be asked to grant permission for electric lines to cross roads to Lyntegor Electric. Residents from Welch will appear to discuss the subject of a community building in Welch.

still would rank only 39th nationwide, below Louisiana, in average tuition and required fees.

He also shot down the widespread belief that non-residents can attend college more cheaply here than in their home states. No state, he says, charges its residents more than the $1,425 average tuition and required fees non-Texans must pay at Texas state universities.

Coordinating Board officials contend government grants and loans would soften the blow of a tuition increase on low- and middle-income students.

Almost a fourth of the 44,000 students at UT-Austin already receive loans or grants based on need.

Shirley Binder, UT-Austin's director of student aid, says applications for help already are increasing because of "the cost of education, inflation and the number of people who are pinched."

Major sources of financial aid include federal Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, the federal College Work Study Program, federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, state Student Incentive Grants, state Hinson-Hazlewood loans and federal National Direct Student Loans.

"For people in need, there is no reason for them not to go to college because there is plenty of aid around. And a lot of it goes begging," says William Lasker, director of the UT-Austin Office of Institutional Studies.

Ezzell: Session is unnecessary

State Rep. Mike Ezzell was the featured speaker for the monthly meeting of Big Spring Board of Realtors Feb. 6.

Ezzell explained that probable issues to be brought at a special session of the legislature later this year include initiative in referendum, tax relief and electronic surveillance.

He questioned the need for such a session, commenting that the same issues could be handled in the regular session without the additional expense to the taxpayer of the called session.

Ezzell was awarded a donation for his campaign fund jointly from the Texas Real Estate Political Action Committee and the Big Spring Board of Realtors. An estimated 40 realtors and interested citizens were present at the meeting, held in the Tumbleweed Room at Howard College.

Day-to-day living costs researched

Students play make-believe for real

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second and final article of a two-part series concerning the Consumer Education class at Big Spring High School and its attempt to ready students for the real world of financial planning and budgeting which they will enter upon graduation.)

By ROBBI CROW
Family News Editor

The wedding bells have stopped ringing and the scattered rice and flowers have been removed from the church foyer.

Even the parents of the newlyweds seem to be recuperating, slowly but surely, from the intense pocketbook pain caused by a two-hour, $2,000 wedding and reception.

As for the couple, the honeymoon is over and their participation in life's game of planning and budgeting to survive financially must begin.

And if this couple has taken Mrs. Billye Grisham's course in Consumer Education and participated in the "Let's Pretend Realistically" project offered through the Homemaking Department, with a little luck, they'll emerge as winners in this budget-balancing game of life.

Whether or not a person decides to venture down the path of matrimony, the Consumer Education class at Big Spring High School is still a vital and life-saving course. It involves individual and family money management. Married or single, each individual must someday set up an adult household. Consumer Ed prepares students for this.

"Our major concern is teaching students to think, analyze and decide according to individual family value systems," revealed Mrs. Grisham, instructor of the course since its institution at BSHS.

The "Let's Pretend Realistically" project first occurred to Mrs. Grisham while she was teaching Homemaking II her first year at Big Spring High School in 1967.

"I overheard students discussing the urgency of their desires to get out on their own," Mrs. Grisham recalled. "I knew how much money they were making in their part-time jobs after school," she continued, "and I knew they had no idea how much money it would take to set up an adult household."

As a result, Mrs. Grisham developed this project of researching the cost of day-to-day living and students have since been doing it every year. She uses the "let's pretend" project as the foundation of the Consumer Education course which was initiated into the curriculum during the 1970-1971 school year.

"Big Spring was one of the first schools to teach C.E.," Mrs. Grisham revealed. "In the beginning, there were no textbooks and very few teaching aids. I developed daily lesson plans from periodicals, newspapers and hard-earned experience."

The class is future-oriented with most of the emphasis directed toward the student's adult lives.

"I still use the adult 'let's pretend' project as the core of the course. Even though we now have several textbooks and plenty of other teaching aids, I find that C.E. must be kept current, therefore, I continue to use the news media for updating lessons," she said.

Prior to the project assignment, the C.E. class spent a considerable amount of time studying "consumer philosophy" or "getting to know ourselves well enough to know why we make certain choices," Mrs. Grisham explained.

Students must know themselves in order to make valid and satisfying decisions in the market place.

"At this stage, we learn to set priorities based on personal values, goals and standards of living," she said.

As the detailed research project began, each participant arrived at his own priorities based on the above philosophy, otherwise, market place decisions would not be satisfying to each individual.

"For example, each person may not want a big house and a big car," Mrs. Grisham pointed out. "Other students may set high priorities on investing their money. At the other end of the spectrum, some students may set high priorities on recreation."

Still another major concern stressed by the instructor was the realization by each student of the fact that they can't have it all. They've got to make tradeoffs.

As each participant proceeded to "play house," he was instructed to research the income of the job or profession he visualized himself in upon graduation.

"That way," Mrs. Grisham stated, "they have the basis for developing a budget by knowing how much they can expect their take-home pay to be. And we stress that the take-home pay should reflect beginning level. Very few individuals are able to start at the middle or at the top of the pay scale," she conveyed.

She also revealed that it wasn't uncommon for a student to go completely through the research, choosing each necessary item and find that his budget does not balance. He must then back up and make additional tradeoffs based on his priorities.

Students were then instructed to project themselves into the future to a time when they will be financially independent of parents or other adult support.

"You will be pretending that you use establishing your own independent adult household, whether married or single, in whichever state you visualize yourself," Mrs. Grisham told her class.

Because location and national economic factors affect the cost of living, she encouraged each student to household. However, C.E. instructor Billye Grisham explained that your initial trip to the supermarket is always the worst.

EATING IS EXPENSIVE — Lavelle Bradford, Cindy Sheppard, Pam Banks, Lana Lamb and Tina Lovelace found out you don't get out of a grocery store too cheaply when you're purchasing your first set of groceries for a beginning

be as realistic as possible in the present time and location.

The purpose of the study is to help these soon-to-be adults gain realistic insight into the financial problems involved in setting up and maintaining a household.

It enables students to become enlightened to the problems of meeting financial obligations. They become aware of the fact that these problems influence the emotional aspects in family living.

In completing their reports, students wrote detailed descriptions relating to the monthly cost of each household item.

They researched their probable income and then subtracted the monthly costs for housing, utilities, furniture, clothing, transportation, groceries, medical-dental, grooming, entertainment, vacations, Christmas and birthdays — every facet of day-to-day living.

Working on their project together were future husband and wife Shain Howard and Delynn Minchew.

In their make-believe life together, the couple researched the income for an employee of a welding company.

"We discovered Shain's starting pay would amount to $4 per hour," Delynn revealed. "His pay will increase to as much as $9 an hour by the end of the year, depending upon his progress."

As inflation seems to always be going up on the elevator of economy, Delynn and Shain realized it would help considerably if Delynn worked, at least while they were just starting out.

They recorded her income of $3.10 an hour as an employee of the Professional Pharmacy. She will receive a 30 percent discount on prescription and grooming items. Their combined income per month totaled $1,230.

After pricing several homes, duplexes and apartment complexes, the pair settled on an unfurnished, two bedroom, 1½ bath apartment at Quail Run.

"For the apartment, we were required to pay a $100 deposit as well as $240 for one month's rent," Delynn said.

Their research on monthly utility payments totaled $95 per month, including deposits.

Mrs. Grisham pointed out to her students that a person or person setting up an adult household for the first time should expect their first grocery shopping bill to be somewhat higher than those thereafter.

Shain and Delynn's first visit totaled $117.37. Total items to be replaced monthly amounted to $94.48.

After the subtraction of each monthly expense from the couple's total income, they were left with approximately $222 per month.

"This project really opened my eyes and my partner's eyes to something we had never thought about before. I think it really helped me and Shain see what it is going to take to get us by in this world," said Delynn.

Connie Sheppard, a student of Mrs.

Grisham who plans to marry Robert Brown, figured their combined monthly income would amount to $1,407.

"Robert will be a machinist and will bring home $1,200 per month. I want to be a legal secretary," she said.

After researching the beginning pay for a legal secretary through Ben Bancroft, Roger Brown and Bob Miller, she learned that her starting salary would amount to $550 per month, with the opportunity of earning raises as she gains experience.

Their research led them to the final decision of residing in the Park Village Apartments. Total housing cost for the first month, including the $100 deposit amounted to $291. All bills were paid except Cable TV and the telephone.

Although utilities are furnished in the complex in which she and her future husband chose to live upon their marriage, Connie was still required to research the average cost per month of each utility. Her report revealed that the average cost for gas per month totaled $15; electricity, $12; water, $12; telephone, $10; and Cable TV, $7.50.

Venturing into the next phase of the project — the pricing and pretend — like purchasing of furniture — Connie was in for a big surprise. "I thought this part was going to be easy. But the first few furniture stores I walked into, I walked right back out again. I knew we definitely couldn't afford their furniture on our income," she said.

So she decided to traipse on down to Dub Bryants Auction Barn where she found a table, six chairs and a couch for $160.

As Connie figured her total grocery bill for the first month, she realized the trip would put a dent in her pocketbook amounting to $217.56.

However, the following months only revealed an end-ticket total of $151.56, considerably less than her first we-don't-have-anything shopping spree.

The next step for Connie was to budget in the monthly cost for clothing.

"We are going to set aside $50 a month for clothing for both of us," she said. "I'll probably do 12 loads of clothes a month which results in $12 per month laundromat use."

Because Connie and her husband-to-be already spend approximately $5 a piece for dry cleaning each month, she plans to avoid 'dry cleaning only' tags.

Total monthly clothing bill for Connie and Robert — $77.

By the time the total monthly costs for medical, dental, entertainments, etc., were subtracted from the couple's monthly income, their budget balanced with $210.81 left over for emergencies or savings.

"We came out pretty good," commented Connie.

Another student, upon completing his project, said "I never knew there

DOES IT FIT THE BUDGET? — As Mrs. Grisham's students researched the monthly costs that make up an adult household, they came across this automobile at Bob Brock Ford as they attempted to complete their monthly transportation costs. Bob Hilger, salesman, shows the car to Sondra Bell, Irma Ramos and Gary Carey, but all three agreed the monthly payments wouldn't begin to fit their beginning level budgets.

TRYING THEM OUT FOR COMFORT — As students of the BSHS Consumer Ed class, Patsy Gonzales, Sonia Rodriguez, Ida Morales and Melinda Porras knew that besides being comfortable to relax in, this furniture at Carter's Furniture Store being shown to them by Mary Eggleston, had to also fit comfortably in their budgets.

HAPPINESS IS A DISHWASHER — These students, Sondra Bell, Cindy Hall and Jimmy Marquez, checked out this apartment at 605 E. 13th to see if its standards fit their standards and if the monthly rent fee fit their budgets. Sondra, however, was initially sold on the dishwasher, whether her budget was or not.

Vocational education prepares 'em all

By ROBBIE CROW
Family News Editor

The purpose of this article is to give much deserved recognition to the vocational education classes at Big Spring High School.

And because Feb. 10-16 has been proclaimed National Vocational Education Week all across the State of Texas, what better time to point out the many, many benefits received by the students who participate in these classes, laboratories and workshops.

According to John Bagnall, vocational administrator at BSHS, vocational education includes educational programs which prepare individuals for paid or unpaid employment that does not require a baccalaureate or advanced degree.

At the present time, more than 1,000,000 students make up the entire vocational education program in Texas.

Vocational courses housed at BSHS include General Mechanics, Metal Trades, Auto Mechanics, Electrical Appliance Repair, Furniture Repair and Upholstery, Coordinated Vocational Academic Education, Industrial Cooperative Training, Distributive Education, Vocational Homemaking Program, Home Economics Cooperative Education, Vocational Office Education, Vocational Agricultural, Building Trades.

HOMEMAKING

vocational skills through these numerous programs, students develop leadership ability through participation in vocational education student organizations.

They include Distributive Education Clubs of America, Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America, Health Occupations Students of America, Office Education Association, Texas Industrial Art Students Association, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, Vocational Office Careers Clubs of Texas, Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas, Young Farmers of Texas and Young Homemakers of Texas.

Through participation in these organizations, students have opportunities to do public speaking, work on committees, plan meetings, practice parliamentary procedure, develop individual and group projects and learn other important lessons about working within groups.

General Mechanics is a 2-year program consisting of two hours of classroom and laboratory instruction per day.

"Both male and female students make up the class," says Pedro G. Ruiz, instructor of the course at the senior high school.

The purpose of General Mechanics is to develop basic manipulative skills, safety judgments, proper work habits and good attitudes toward the work done in the class and in the future.

Instruction is given in such occupations as Small Engine Maintenance, Minor Automotive Maintenance and Welding, and Engines used on such equipment as Post-hole Diggers, Irrigation Pumps, Chainsaws, Mowers, Small Tractors, Rotary tillers and etc.

Metal Trades prepares high school youth for initial employment in the machinist or welding trade through the development of salable skills.

"It provides the student with technical knowledge and skills necessary for advancement in this occupation," according to Thomas H. Ament, instructor.

Metal Trades is a two-year program consisting of three-hour classes of shop and related work.

Ament says that two advantages are offered the alert, conscientious students. 1. Assurance of employment upon graduation in preselected area, with opportunity for good wages; and 2. If further education is desired, this training will aid them in finding available jobs to assist in the expense and also give them excellent background for engineering and mechanical fields of study.

During each school year, students are selected to participate in speed skills contest held in District I. This year, five students will participate in Machine Tool Technology speed skill contest at Odessa High School Feb. 15-16.

Students participating are Tony Hall, Gary Hernandez, Iomer McDonald, Kevin Murphy and Philip Smith. Harold Harper is the instructor of the 2-year Auto Mechanics program which consists of three hours of shop instruction per day.

"During the first year, the student is expected to learn basic theory and identification of both tools and parts with development of some manipulative skills," Harper says.

The classroom or shop area is designed to teach the basic skills in use of hand tools and skill for working on all types of American and foreign made automobiles. This includes practical use of tools and equipment for diagnostic and repair purposes in overhauling an engine, including replacing spark plugs, brakes, fuel system, electrical system, drivetrain, etc.

"Upon completion of course requirements, students should be able to cope with normal work pressure and compete as an apprentice in the automotive repair field," Harper concludes.

Frank Ortega is the instructor of the Electrical Appliance Repair class. This is a 2-year program consisting of three hours of classroom shop instruction per day. The class is open to both male and female students who are sophomores, juniors and seniors.

"This course is designed to teach students to use modern equipment and test instruments in servicing appliances," Ortega explains.

The purpose of the Furniture Repair and Upholstery course is "to provide students with an opportunity to develop the basic skills involved in upholstery, service and trades and to develop a skill for repair and reupholstering furniture," says John Annen, instructor.

He claims the course will also help students develop respect for the employer and employee relationship of worthy service and give him or her confidence in their ability to earn a rightful place in the community.

C.W. Tanner teaches the Coordinated Vocational Academic Education program.

In cooperative part-time training, the students are taught the technical information related to the on-the-job training which they are receiving in local business.

"They are employed in local businesses, in a training situation for at least 15 hours per week and not over 25 hours per week," Tanner says.

Co-op classes generally serve as a polishing off process for students training in pre-employment shop classes previously.

"Upon completion of the Co-op program, the students are expected to develop self-confidence and initiative, develop a positive, healthy attitude toward work, and acquire knowledge of the importance of performing jobs in an orderly, organized fashion," Tanner explains.

Industrial Cooperative Training, for junior and senior students who are interested in occupational training in industrial trades and health occupations, is taught at BSHS by Loren H. Spencer.

These students work part of the day and attend school for the other part.

"To qualify for the program," says Spencer, "students must have good attendance and discipline records and also be an average or above student."

Distributive Education is an occupational training program offered for eligible junior and senior students who desire training in the field of distribution—the retail, wholesale and service selling occupations.

Instructors of D.E. are Lee R. Bracy and Lee D. Lowery.

The Vocational Office Education pre-employment laboratory classroom instruction consists of a two-hour consecutive block period for five days a week and operates largely as the skill building phase of the program so that students are better prepared and can be placed in better on-the-job training stations during the cooperative phase of the program, according to Anna Walker, pre-employment job instructor.

"Included in the skill building phase are units on machine rotation, banking, telephone techniques, mailing, composing letters, etc.," says Mrs. Walker.

The course is taught in the school's specially equipped office occupations laboratory and classroom. Only junior students are eligible for the pre-employment laboratory program.

Vonna Swim teaches the Vocational Cooperative Training Program of VOE.

"Vocational Cooperative Training is an elective instructional program for eligible seniors who desire to be trained in careers in the various office occupations," Mrs. Swims says.

Students are placed in actual business offices as student-learners in on-the-job training 15 to 25 hours per week with pay commensurate with other beginning workers in similar occupations.

VOCATIONAL OFFICE EDUCATION
...Classroom laboratory

Classroom instruction of five hours per week, one-hour daily, consists of occupationally related instruction on various office machines and units of work needed to prepare them for the business world.

Vocational Agriculture is a 3-hour course for student in grades 9-12.

"Students are given the opportunity to develop leadership skills through various FFA activities," according to Truett Vines, instructor of the course.

Students are given the opportunity to learn basic skills in animal science, plant science, soil science, agriculture management and agricultural mechanics.

The program also includes a cooperative part-time training program in which juniors and seniors may participate.

Gary Earhart is also an instructor of the course.

Students are given the opportunity to study the skills involved in house building, masonry, carpentry, painting and electrical and plumbing through the Building Trades class.

Students are required to construct a house, including adding on and remodeling.

"On Tuesday at 7 p.m., we will conduct a demonstration of bricklaying, such as a small flower box, for men and women who are interested," says Paul Hood, Building Trades instructor.

On Thursday at 7 p.m., a demonstration will be given on how to change out plugs and switches.

"We will also show how to make plumbing repairs," Hood revealed.

The demonstrations will be held if enough interest is shown. Those who plan to attend should call 267-7461, ext. 63.

Seven instructors make up the Vocational Homemaking program at BSHS including Fern Alexander, homemaker chairperson, Charlotta Hamilton, Virginia Martin, Billye Grisham, Wanda Walker, Alma Wrightsail and Sue Willbanks.

"The Vocational Homemaking Program teaches students, both male and female, how to manage time, money and energy in relation to feeding, housing and clothing their families in a healthy manner," Mrs. Alexander explains.

Students also learn child care and development, personal growth, management of dual roles of homemaker and career earner and career preparation in related areas.

In addition, students develop themselves to community service through Future Homemakers of America.

Last, but not least, is the Home Economics Cooperative Education Program taught by Nancy Annen.

The course is a gainfully-oriented program which helps students prepare for the world of work or for advanced education. Many students who participate in this program continue their education either in technical schools or in colleges, whereas others become full-time employees upon graduation, says Mrs. Annen.

"More and more women in our society are assuming the dual role of homemaker and wage earner," Mrs. Annen points out. "Home economics thus has the responsibility for helping women meet the demands of both of these roles. An additional responsibility is that of providing training for boys who may be interested in occupations related to home economics."

As you can see, the vocational education classes stem from the mechanic, to the secretary to the homemaker, each providing students with a job skill and the opportunity to advance more rapidly and perform more efficiently.

Student makes career change

"I never knew there were so many things to be purchased and budgeted for in an adult household."

Still another student stated "Now I know why my parents are so conservative with their money. Until now, I just thought they spent the money the way they wanted to."

Other classmates came to the conclusion that they would have to wait longer than they had planned before becoming independent of their parents, or else be willing to live below the standard of living they would be happy with.

"I found that prices of things were very different from what I thought. I must have been in a dream world thinking life was easy," was the way yet another student put it.

According to Mrs. Grisham, some students complain when the project is first assigned because of the length of time it takes to complete.

"But when they're finished, almost 100 percent of them express their gratitude for having had the assignment," she revealed.

A number of former students have even returned to tell Mrs. Grisham how C.E. and the "Let's Pretend Realistically" project experience is helping them in their present life."

"This will enable me to see when it will be financially possible for me to move," she concluded.

Jill Willbanks, a 1974 BSHS graduate who now teaches Homemaking in Spur, Tex., says that in her own career, Mrs. Grisham's C.E. course has been a lifesaver.

"I know how to balance my books and budget not only my money, but my time and resources also," Jill revealed.

One is able to see how participating in the C.E. class and completing the project has benefited students upon graduation year after year.

However, one student enrolled in the course this year has decided to change her entire direction in career planning as a result of her research discoveries.

Even though Sandra Richey has almost completed a two-year course in cosmetology, she will give it up as a career choice in search of something that can better support her financially.

"I thought it would be great being a cosmetologist and I thought it would be an easy way to make money," said Sandra.

"But while I was doing the research for this project, I discovered it would be 3 or 4 years before I would be able to live independently. I could earn more as a cashier at a grocery store."

Sandra said the project opened her eyes to the fact that it would be virtually impossible for her to make it as a cosmetologist on her own without any additional income for the first year.

"I can't live without certain necessities I have become accustomed to such as a telephone," she conveyed.

She now has mixed feelings about giving up her hopeful career in cosmetology, but stressed the fact that she was glad she found out it would not be enough to fully support her before it was too late.

"I must admit," Sandra continued, "that I really didn't understand how this project was going to help me. Now I do. I am now faced with facts — not facts someone told me — but facts I gathered myself which prove I can't make it as a cosmetologist."

In concluding, Mrs. Grisham said "Just one student like this who is helped by the project makes it all worthwhile."

(PHOTO BY BILL FORSHEE)

SAD BUT GLAD — Sandra Richey, left, a consumer ed student at BSHS, found out through Mrs. Grisham's "Let's Pretend Realistically" project that she was headed for a dead end in her efforts to become self-supporting in the near future as a cosmetologist. Sandra is said that she has already put two years of her life into the cosmetology course, but is glad she found out in time that a career in cosmetology wouldn't be enough to get her by financially. Here she discusses the surprising facts with Valene Turney of the Valta Reeves Beauty School.

Runaway's advice
on leaving home

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I need help and fast. My mother makes me sick. If I come home only 10 minutes late she grounds me and won't listen to my reasons. Recently a girlfriend and I went to a teen disco. This girl took off with some guys she knew and left me without a ride home.

I managed to find a ride home but I was over an hour late. I tried to call but our phone was busy. Well, my mother was furious and slapped a month's grounding on me.

When I tried to explain, my mother said that if I didn't like my home, I could go to a foster home and she would help me pack my bags.

I feel like taking my mother's advice and leaving home. What do you think? — Cathy, Dixon, Ill.

Cathy: Please read the next letter from Sissy.

Dr. Wallace: I am writing this to all teen-age girls who are unhappy living at home. I'm 16 going on 20.

I have left home on several occasions and pushed my parents to the limit and caused them a lot of pain. Instead of living at home, I left the state and decided that the time had come for me to be on my own.

It didn't take long for me to realize I had made a mistake. It was a cruel hard world and didn't take society's understraps long to take advantage of me.

But I was lucky. My parents loved and cared for me. They took me back home, no questions asked, and were willing to give me a fresh start.

My thanks to them was a promise to stay straight. I now realize that I was selfish and inconsiderate. When my parents told me to be home at 11, I didn't hesitate to come home at midnight.

Believe me, doctor, I have learned my lesson and I'm a better person for it.

So girls, if that urge to leave home ever gets to you, please remember my little story. — Sissy, Elizabethtown, Ky.

MRS. CHARLES DAVID LAMAR

Miss Tonn weds Charles Lamar

Tammie Leigh Tonn became the bride of Charles David Lamar in a candlelight ceremony performed Saturday evening in the College Baptist Church.

Trent Fraley attended the groom as best man. Guests were seated by Jack Tonn, brother of the bride, and Stan Wegman, brother-in-law of the bride.

Kayla Ann Tonn and Saree Lamar wore floor-length pink dresses as they served as flower girls for the ceremony.

Following the rite, the newlyweds were honored at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Guests were registered by Connie Lamar.

Ordinary pans can make Valentine cake

By JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Make a perfectly shaped Valentine cake with just two cake pans — a square one and a round one — and share it with someone you love.

Here's how:

From a commercial cake mix or from a from-scratch recipe, make one eight-inch square layer cake and one eight-inch round layer cake.

Place the cut edge of each round layer portion on adjacent edges of the square cake, and you have a heart-shaped cake without having to buy a heart-shaped cake pan.

Use your favorite icing and decorate the cake as desired for a quick and simple Valentine treat.

If you're history-minded, here are some other tidbits for mulling as you make the cake or share it with someone.

There are many ideas about how the name Valentine came to be connected with the day on which lovers send tokens of affection to one another.

One is based on the belief throughout Europe during the Middle Ages that the birds began to mate on Feb. 14.

In addition to honoring

Saint Valentine, February, 1980 takes on an extra-special air of romantic antiquity — with the observance of "Lovers Leap Season," or "Leap Year."

This holiday occurs once every four years with the appearance of an extra day in February — "Leap Day" — and retains the mysterious belief that women may propose marriage to men with perfect propriety throughout the entire year.

According to an old English saying, ladies may propose during Leap Year, and, if rejected, they may claim a silk gown.

And in many a European town or country, there allegedly have been laws to legalize the custom!

But the mystery remains to be solved: nobody knows just how this tradition got started, and no satisfactory explanation has ever been offered.

In the United States, in New England there used to be a curious belief that during Leap Year beans grow on the wrong side of the pod.

No matter what the origin or belief of Valentine customs, you can still share the heart-shaped cake with a special person.

MRS. DAVID WILLIAM WEISHUHN

St. Lawrence is site of ceremony

The St. Lawrence Catholic Church was the setting for the Feb. 2 wedding uniting Belinda Marie Jost and David William Weishuhn.

The Rev. Bernard Biversie, pastor, read the 3 p.m. rite before the guests attending and the couples parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Jost, St. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Presley Weishuhn, Eola.

The altar was enhanced by candelabrum on either side containing white tapers, greenery and baskets of burgundy carnations, spider mums, chrysanthemums and baby's breath. The brass archway was decorated with greenery and ivory bows and lead to the middle aisle of the sanctuary which was accented with three branch aisle pew markers of greenery and ivory bows.

Douglas Jost, St. Lawrence, and Mark Franke, Rowens, cousins of the bride, served as altar boys.

Mrs. Jimmy Schniers, Wall, and Mrs. Eugene Hirt, baptismal sponsors of the couple, carried the offertory gifts to the altar.

Traditional wedding selections were performed by vocalist Jacque Frerich, Garden City, who was accompanied by Mrs. Billy Eggemeyer, Midkiff, at the organ.

The bride was accompanied down the aisle wearing a princess gown of ivory satin with alencon beaded lace appliques detailing the skirt front and flowing down the back onto the full chapel length train. The hemline was circled with scalloped lace and lace molded the English net yoked bodice and fitted long sleeves. Seed pearls enhanced the lace victoria collar. The finger-tip illusion veil, edged in alencon lace, draped from her beaded lace headpiece.

To compliment her attire, the bride carried a cascading bouquet of burgundy roses and snowflake pom-poms touched with baby's breath and enhanced by fern, candlelight satin ribbon and a gold rosary.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her cousin, Mrs. Chris Hirt. Bridesmaids included Emma Lou Halfmann, Trudy Hoelscher, and Lynette Schwartz, St. Lawrence, and Mrs. Dennis Braden, Coynosa. The bridesmaids were attired in burgundy qiana dresses with blouson bodices and long raglan sleeves accented with matching heavy lace on rounded necklines. The tulip curved wrap skirts layered over a matching long skirt. Each one carried a cascading arrangement of burgundy carnations and snowflake pom-poms accented with baby's breath.

Donald Weishuhn of Wall served his brother as best man. Groomsman were Darryl Weishuhn, cousin of the groom, Wildred Wilde and Charles Halfmann of Wall, and Bobby Poulson, Lewisville, cousin of the groom.

Daryl and Doyle Schniers of Wall and Gaylon Schniers, Miles, cousins of the bride, and Glen Smetana, Eola, seated the guests.

Barry sets NBA record

HOUSTON (AP) — Forward Rick Barry hit 8 three-point plays Saturday night to lead the Houston Rockets to a 117-95 victory over the hapless Utah Jazz in a National Basketball Association game.

Barry, who hit seven three-pointers Wednesday night for an NBA record, set the new mark by hitting eight of 12 attempts. He totaled 24 points to share high point honors with Houston's Calvin Murphy.

Utah led twice, 2-0 and 4-2, in the opening minute of play. The Rockets then grabbed the lead and held on to ice the victory.

Houston led 60-46 after Barry hit four of his three-pointers in the second period as the Rockets scored a sizzling 72 percent from the field.

The Jazz managed to pull within 11 points at 10:17 in the third quarter when Tom Boswell, who along with Adrian Dantley led Utah scorers with 12 apiece, dropped in a layup.

But Houston outscored the Jazz 11-2 in the next three minutes to move out to 76-56 lead with 6:18 left in the third quarter.

Knight, Pacers outscore Spurs

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Billy Knight scored 30 points Saturday night, including a pair of free throws that clinched the game with six seconds to go to lead the Indiana Pacers to a 131-127 National Basketball Association victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

Mickey Johnson added 28 points and James Edwards totaled 25 points and 16 rebounds, offsetting San Antonio's George Gervin, who led the Spurs with 30.

GETTING CHECKED — San Diego Clipper Bill Walton gets blocked by Portland's Jim Brewer while trying to make his way to the basket during first period action of their game Friday night in San Diego.

Unbeaten DePaul escapes

CHICAGO (AP) — Clyde Bradshaw, who forced a Dayton turnover with 27 seconds remaining, earned a 15-footer with three seconds left Saturday night to give top-ranked and unbeaten DePaul a 65-63 victory over the upset-minded Flyers.

Dayton, which had tied the score 63-63 with 2:25 remaining on a pair of free throws by Richard Montague, had forced DePaul into a turnover with 1:51 remaining. The Flyers then went into their four-corner offense. But with 27 seconds left, Bradshaw swiped at the ball and forced Dayton's John Tomlinson to lose it out of bounds.

DePaul, 20-0, trailed by as many as 16 points in the first half and nine in the second half after leading scorer Mark Aguirre fouled out with 14:04 remaining.

The score was tied at 59, 61 and 63 before Bradshaw turned in his heroics at both ends of the court.

Cougars upset Arkansas

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Larry Rogers calmly sank four free throws in the final 13 seconds of the third overtime Saturday as the underdog Cougars fought off Arkansas's come-back attempts for a 90-84 Southwest Conference basketball victory.

Baylor upsets Red Raiders

WACO, Texas (AP) — Terry Teagle and Andy Sears combined for 42 points Saturday night as the Baylor Bears scored a stunning 79-56 upset over the slumping Texas Tech Red Raiders in a Southwest Conference game.

Clemson upsets Maryland, 90-81

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Clemson had three players with 20 or more points — Larry Nance with 24 and Horace Wyatt and Billy Williams with 22 apiece — as the 16th-ranked Tigers upset seventh-ranked Maryland 90-81 Saturday in a regionally televised Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

Rogers, who led the Cougars with 28 points for the game, hit two free throws with 13 seconds to play to give UH an 88-84 lead and then hit two more with one second on the clock.

The loss dropped Arkansas to a 10-2 SWC record while the Cougars evened their standing at 6-6.

Houston's Ken Williams provided the winning points with 2:51 to play in the third overtime when he sank a pair of free throws for an 86-82 lead.

Williams, who finished with 12 points, had missed a jump shot with two seconds to play in the first overtime that would have given Houston a victory.

Williams hit a 15-foot jumper with four seconds left in regulation play that gave the Cougars a 76-74 lead.

But Arkansas's Scott Hastings whipped the ball inbounds to Keith Hiliard who dribbled the length of the court and shot a 10-foot jumper over Williams at the buzzer to force the first overtime.

Hastings, who had hit six of seven free throws in the first half, went one for four in the second half and missed a shot with one second to play in the first overtime that would have given the Hogs a victory.

US announces stance to IOC

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The U.S. government will oppose sending an American team to Olympic Games "in the capital of an invading nation," Secretary of State Cyrus Vance told the International Olympic Committee on Saturday.

"To hold the Olympics in any nation that is warring on another is to lend the Olympic mantle to that nation's actions," he said.

The text of Vance's speech to the committee, opening a three-day meeting at the Winter Games at Lake Placid, was made available in advance at the State Department.

President Carter has asked the committee to postpone, cancel or move the Summer Games from Moscow if the Soviet Union does not withdraw its troops from Afghanistan by Feb. 20. If the occupation continues past that date, the president does not want U.S. athletes to participate.

State Department officials said, meanwhile, they have received information the Soviet Union is planning to make a "token" withdrawal of troops within the next three to four weeks to defuse Western opposition. The Soviets began moving troops into the country in late December and installed a puppet government.

The International Olympic Committee is on record as being opposed to any change in the Moscow Games, and even the IOC's two U.S. members have said they would oppose moving the Games or taking part in any type of boycott.

Gerulaitis slams McEnroe

BOCA WEST, Fla. (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis outlasted fellow New Yorker John McEnroe in a thrilling first set tie-breaker and went on to a 7-6, 6-3 victory Saturday in a semifinal match of the $300,000 Grand Slam of Tennis.

Gerulaitis will vie for tennis' biggest top prize of $150,000 Sunday afternoon against Bjorn Borg, who drubbed Guillermo Vilas 6-2, 6-1 in Friday's semifinal.

The 25-year-old Gerulaitis is winless in 15 tries against Borg, three-time defending champion in this event.

The victory evened Gerulaitis' record against McEnroe at 3-3. Gerulaitis lost to McEnroe in the U.S. Open finals in September, but defeated him in a round robin match at the Masters in New York last month.

This is Gerulaitis' second appearance in the Grand Slam tournament where he lost to Jimmy Connors in the 1978 semifinal. McEnroe lost to Connors last year in the Grand Slam semis. The McEnroe-Gerulaitis match was in stark contrast to Friday's semifinal, in which Borg and Vilas engaged in long baseline rallies.

To take SWC lead A&M edges Rice

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Rudy Woods hit a pair of free throws with 13 seconds remaining to secure a 55-53 victory for Texas A&M over the upset-minded Rice Owls on Saturday night in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

The win gave the Aggies an 11-1 SWC record and sole possession of first place by virtue of Arkansas' loss to Houston earlier in the day.

The Owls led most of the first half, building a lead as big as 10 points in the game's first 10 minutes. The Aggies tied the game with a minute left in the half and took a 27-25 lead to the dressing room.

Rice employed a tight 2-1-2 zone defense the second half, scored four straight points to regain the lead, and 9:40 remained in the game before A&M got the lead again, 39-37.

The Cadets went into a four-corner delay game with 5:06 left and a 45-41 lead. Rice stayed even, and Pierce hit a 22-footer with 15 seconds remaining to cut A&M's lead to 53-51.

Rice immediately fouled Woods, a 63 percent free throw shooter, but the 6-11 sophomore canned both shots to ice the victory. Pierce hit a 20-footer with 3 seconds left to close the margin to its final outcome.

Vernon Smith led the Aggies with 22 points, and Ricky Pierce of Rice led all scorers with 27 points.

Rice fell to 3-9. For the season, A&M advanced to 19-6 and Rice dropped to 6-15.

Shelby Metcalf, the Aggie coach, called Rice "the most improved team in the league. Mike Schuler has done a heck of a job. They are a bunch of competitors, and they played us as tough as any team we've faced all year."

Piehler led SMU trounces Horned Frogs

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Freshman Dave Piehler hit 16 of 18 field goals and scored a career-high 32 points to lead Southern Methodist past Texas Christian 76-57 Saturday night in a Southwest Conference contest.

With Piehler setting the pace, SMU hit 62.3 percent from the field, including 69 percent of its second-half attempts. TCU hit 50 percent of its field goals but converted only five of 16 from the free throw line.

Piehler scored 14 of the Mustangs' first 18 points as they jumped to a 31-24 halftime lead. Ollie Hoops added 13 points and Brad Branson 12 to the SMU scoring attack.

The victory raised SMU's record to 5-8 in SWC play and 13-10 overall. TCU fell to 2-11 and 7-15.

Hangin' Out by Nathan Poss

Answers to rumors revealed this week?

RUMORS IN THE SPORTS WORLD are as alive as ever. Sometimes I even wonder why there has never been a daily soap opera on television devoted to such a topic. There's no doubt that it would be a success.

On the statewide and national level, there has been a rumor cropping up recently that Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach would retire from football in order to become a CBS-TV commentator next year. Speculation also was that the Cowboys shotgun ace would receive $25,000 for his commentary during 10 games next year.

But Staubach stated last Monday that no one had even discussed anything of the sort, as he stated: "No one has approached me. Those figures are pretty incredible. I really can't conceive of those kind of numbers being thrown around."

STAUBACH DID GO ON TO SAY that if he did retire, it would be for health reasons, and not for money. He plans on seeing a New York neurologist next month, at which time his numerous brain concussions will be examined.

The jolly Roger also makes it clear that he has not reached a decision on his playing status for next year. "I'm not going to lead people on," says Staubach, "by saying that I'm not going to retire, because I have thought about it. Not just this year, but last year, as well. On the other hand, I'm not ruling out the idea of not playing again."

CBS-TV also would not give a clear cut answer to the rumor, either, as CBS sports director Beano Cook said earlier this week: "We've talked about Staubach. But until such time that he does actually retire, we would be hesitant to talk with him."

ON THE LOCAL FRONT, THE RUMORS about the currently vacant position of Athletic Director in the Big Spring public schools have been flying about as fast as one of Staubach's aerials.

To start things off, the Big Spring Board of Trustees separated the old Athletic Director-Head Football Coach title into two jobs that would be handled by two people.

Prospective applicants were told that they could apply for the job of athletic director. The athletic director would then have the opportunity to begin a new regime in the Big Spring system, and the first step would be to name a football coach.

UP UNTIL THE BOARD had announced the decision of separation, Ron Logback had been the Football Coach-Athletic Director. But Logback was told that he must reapply if he was interested in the job as AD.

Logback didn't give the public time to start any rumors about himself, however, as he quickly re-applied, as he explained to me in a conversation a little over a month ago: "I have no choice but to reapply."

I didn't really understand that, but was sure about one thing. He had applied for the athletic director's position.

BY EARLY JANUARY, THE RUMOR WAS WIDESPREAD along the local front that now Midland College Athletic Director Delnor Poss, who has lived in Big Spring for the past 20 years, had the inside track on the job.

This was news to me. To tell the truth, I've known Delnor for as long as I can remember. You see, he's my father.

And I can't lie and say that I didn't have any idea that some members of the board had not discussed the idea of the elder Poss leaving the friendly and successful confines of his office at Midland College to try his luck at overhauling the sagging fortunes of Big Spring athletics.

I knew of their interest, but also knew that applications were being accepted until January 31.

MEANWHILE, MANY OF THE LOCAL ASSISTANTS and members of the community continually queried me about my knowledge concerning the Delnor Poss situation, such as what his philosophies were, how he would change things, etc.

But I continued to say that he had not applied for the job, although I knew that he was considering applying.

After a subtle investigation of my own, I found out where the local rumors had started, and it made sense. They were coming from some assistants in the Big Spring systems, who were jealously worried about their jobs, which would be in jeopardy if someone from outside the system took the AD job.

But the rumor spread throughout this area. Sports-writers from both San Angelo and Abilene had called to ask me what I knew of Delnor Poss taking the job, with a sportswriter in Midland giving the topic a lengthy article earlier this week after a discussion with the Midland AD.

I did find out, however, that Delnor Poss did apply for the job on January 31.

BUT TO BE QUITE FRANK, at this point, I was stuck in the middle.

After the applications were screened a week ago Friday, Superintendent Lynn Hise announced that three people would be called in for the AD job. They were Logback, Poss, and another person from the Houston area, although he didn't say that.

I knew that it would not be the proper thing to politic for my father, and there were two underlying reasons for this.

First, if Delnor Poss wanted the job, I know that he would want to receive it on his own merits, and do so in a quiet way, with class.

Second, I also have a great deal of respect for Ron Logback, and do not feel that it would be justified to knock him.

Another question that many people still misunderstand is in regard to Poss' application. Some seemed to think that this meant that he was no longer happy with his Midland College AD job, and was openly pursuing the Big Spring job.

THERE ARE TWO SIDES to this coin, as my father explained to me. First, he is happy with his job at Midland. But second, was the fact that there were still many questions that the board would have to have suitable answers for him during their interview, which took place the past week.

What he was saying was that it is still a two-way street, and although he was considering driving on it, he still would only do so if he could drive in the fashion he wanted and at the speed he felt necessary.

The Big Spring Athletic Director position is a challenge, but would it be worth it to him?

AT MIDLAND COLLEGE, Delnor only has seven sports to be responsible for (boys basketball, boys and girls tennis, boys and girls swimming, boys and girls golf). A good aspect about MC is that it also has established a winning tradition, which helps any AD feel a little better.

AT BIG SPRING, the AD is responsible for many more sports, plus the task of the junior high programs, which is an important cog in any high school's success. To compound this, Big Spring athletics are presently at an all-time low, and it's going to take much more than one person to help bring it around.

MEANWHILE, THE WAIT CONTINUES. Hise has indicated that the board hopes to announce an athletic director on February 14, so the rumors will stop in reference to "who will be the AD" soon.

As for those of you asking me what I know about the interview, I really don't know. Besides, if I did, I really don't think it's any of your business.

Naturally, I've heard rumors from local speculators of what is about to happen, but that's all most of them probably are. Rumors.

The reliable sources are currently quiet, as well they should be. I heard last night from one family member how one of the sources felt, but that's not for print.

So until the official announcement, I really don't know what's going to happen, and have no comment.

ONE THING'S STILL FOR SURE. Anyone can start a rumor.

SOVIET OLYMPIC OFFICIAL RESPONSES — Vladimir Popov, vice president of the Soviet Olympic Organizing Committee, ponders a question during his conference Friday at New York's Madison Square Garden on recent controversy of the summer Olympic games in Moscow. Popov took some jabs at the United States proposal to stay out of the Moscow Games, but dodged questions about how it would affect his country if action was taken.

Strength All-American squad

NEW YORK (AP) — "The college football season may be over but the All-American teams keep coming. The latest is the second annual All-American strength team, sponsored by the National Strength Coaches Association and highlighting 1979's strongest players. There are some familiar names on the squad — like tight end Junior Miller of Nebraska, guard Ken Fritz of Ohio State, defensive end Jacob Green of Texas A&M and defensive tackle Steve McMichael and safety Johnnie Johnson, both from Texas. All were members of

The Associated Press All-American team. "The award is based on improvement of an athlete's performance through strength training," says Boyd Epley, strength coach at the University of Nebraska and executive director of the NSCA. "The All-American team is to recognize the effort put forth by thousands of young athletes across the country and by the strength coaches, who helped the athletes develop beyond their natural potential. It's a combination of football ability and improvement through strength training." The strongmen were picked by the five regional directors of the NSCA — Steve Bliss of Ohio State, Paul Hoolahan of North Carolina, Mike Flynt of Texas A&M, Dr. Tom Baechle of Creighton and Pete Martinelli of New Mexico. The team is composed of 22 seniors. Besides Miller and Fritz, the offense consists of end Mark Brammer of Michigan State, tackles Don Carter and Dave Guender of Missouri, guard John Hakevost of Nebraska, center Steve Nicholson of

Red hot Burns continues spurt in Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (AP) — George Burns, winner of the Bing Crosby tournament last week, continued to lead the Hawaiian Open after 45 holes Saturday. The 30-year-old Burns, who hadn't won a PGA event before the Crosby, fired a 5-under-par 31 on the first of the third round to go 15-under par to that point with a 165. Andy Bean, whose course record-tying 63 Friday lifted him into a tie for the lead with Burns at 134 at the midway point, continued his hot shooting with a 32 for 166.

Olympics coming in handy for ABC

ABC, which used the Olympics as a springboard to ratings supremacy in 1976, now looks to the Lake Placid Games as the vehicle for regaining and solidifying the top spot in the fierce prime-time network numbers game. The Winter Olympics couldn't come at a better time for ABC, which late last month slipped behind CBS for the first time since April 1976. After 19 weeks of the current season, CBS was the one-tenth of a point ahead. "The Olympics could stop our momentum for a couple of weeks," said Bob Daly, president of CBS Entertainment. "It will knock us down for the month of February. And it will take us a few weeks to come back." So while the skiers, skaters and sledgers battle on Lake Placid's frozen turf, ABC's 109 cameras and 800-plus personnel will be there. Chances are, so will be many of America's TV viewers. And once ABC has control of the nation's living rooms, it can pitch promotional for its future shows while disrupting the viewing habits of the other two networks' audiences. Also, February is one of the key "sweep" months when ratings are used to fix the advertising rates for the upcoming months. But CBS and NBC won't go down without a fight. On Feb. 12, the first night of ABC's 13 consecutive prime-time Olympic telecasts, ABC will counter-program with the big box-office movie, "The Exorcist." NBC will air the movie extravaganza, "The Towering Inferno", Feb. 17-18. That first ABC telecast will include the ice hockey game between the United States and Sweden. ABC has a lot more than patriotism riding on its strong rooting interest in the Americans. Hockey, which has never had the national appeal to be a TV winner, could play a major role in ABC's overall Olympic success. Two-thirds of the network's 5 1/2 hours of Olympic coverage will come in prime time. Hockey and figure skating are the only nighttime events. They are scheduled throughout the Feb. 12-24 Games on alternate evenings. During ABC's televising of the Summer Games in Montreal four years ago, the network's fall programming vaulted it to No. 1 for the first time in its history. Despite the fact the stay-at-home winter months normally provide larger TV audiences, the Winter Olympics were never major TV attractions until the 1976 Innsbruck Games, when ABC garnered a large audience. ABC paid $15.5 million for the American TV rights to the Lake Placid Games, and has taken on the responsibility of supplying the world feed to foreign broadcasters. Two-thirds of ABC's equipment will be devoted to the world-wide coverage, the rest deployed for American TV coverage.

College basketball roundup

Syracuse wins again
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sophomore forward Ron Payton came off the bench to score 15 points Saturday night and guard Eddie Moss added a school-record 14 assists as second-ranked Syracuse whipped St. Bonaventure 105-80 in college basketball. The win was Syracuse's 21st of the year in 22 games and its 57th in a row at Manley Field House. In all, the Orangemen had six players in double figures with Roosevelt Bouie and Louis Orr netting team-high totals of 19 points.

Fedell's tip-in keys ACU
HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Rodney Fedell tipped in a missed jumper with 1 second left on the clock to give Abilene Christian a 53-51 victory over Sam Houston Saturday night and keep the Wildcats in the undisputed lead of the Lone Star Conference basketball race. Sam Houston led 23-19 at the half, but Abilene Christian shot 64 percent in the second half, hitting 16 of their 25 field goal attempts. Abilene Christian fought back from a 41-27 Sam Houston State lead with 10:53 left in the game. The Wildcats went to a fullcourt press and forced turnovers that let them whittle away at the lead. With the score tied at 51-51, and 1:20 left in the game, Donnie Haywood missed the first half of a 1-and-1 free throw situation for Sam Houston State. Abilene Christian stalled for a final shot, and Kevin Lonesome put up a 20-footer with 4 seconds left. The ball bounced off the rim, but Fedell cleanly tipped the ball back in for the victory. Randall Moore led Abilene Christian with 18 points, and Fedell added 11. Anthony Carroll scored 15 and Richard Kieval added 10 for Sam Houston.

Louisville nips Providence
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Wiley Brown scored 24 points Saturday as No. 3-ranked Louisville posted a 79-73 college basketball victory over Providence College. The victory raised Louisville's record to 21-2, while Providence dropped to 11-11. Providence's zone defense gave the Cardinals some headaches in the early going, and the Friars held a three-point lead with 7:38 to go in the first half. The lead then changed hands several times, with Brown and Rodney McCray scoring in the closing seconds of the first half to give Louisville a 34-30 edge at halftime.

Wolfpack upsets Notre Dame
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Hawkeye Whitney scored 23 points Saturday night as North Carolina State, hitting an amazing 75 percent of its shots in the second half, upset ninth-ranked Notre Dame 63-55 in a college basketball game. Notre Dame led 22-20 after a defensive struggle in the first half. But Whitney, a 6-foot-5 senior, hit 6-of-7 shots from the field in the final period as the Wolfpack took control of the game. A three-point play by Whitney put North Carolina State, 16-5, on top to stay at 33-32 with 11:24 to go. The Wolfpack steadily widened the advantage to as many as 14 points, 52-38, after a baseline drive by guard Sidney Lowe with three minutes remaining. Notre Dame, falling to 16-4 for the season, slowly chipped away at the Wolfpack lead, but Kelly Tripucka's three-point play with 31 seconds to go, cutting the margin to six, was as close as the Irish could come.

Macy Sparks Kentucky win
TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Senior guard Kyle Macy scored 20 points and poor second half shooting by Alabama helped fifth-ranked Kentucky to a 72-63 come from behind victory in a regionally televised Southeastern Conference basketball game Saturday. Alabama led the league-leading Wildcats by seven in the first half and had a 37-31 halftime advantage. But Kentucky, led by Macy's 12 second-half points, came back and outscored Alabama 12-6 in the first 5:30 of the second half. The Tide shot 27.6 percent in the final period from the field, while the Wildcats hit better than 87 percent from the field and 94 percent at the line.

SFA nips Angelo in overtime
NACOGDOCHES, Texas (AP) — Karl Godine and Alan Howard hit two free throws each in the final 25 seconds to give Stephen F. Austin a 56-52 overtime victory over Angelo State Saturday afternoon in a Lone Star Conference basketball game. Angelo State, which fell to 1-10 in league play, had a chance to win the game in regulation. Jeff Burdick hit the first half of a 1-and-1 with 6 seconds left to tie the game at 48-48, but missed the second shot and the game went into overtime. SFA raised its record to 14-9 for the season and 8-3 in conference action. Angelo State fell to 5-18 for the year.

UTEP edges Colorado St.
EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Anthony Burns' 15 points paced five players in double figures and led Texas-El Paso to a 79-66 victory over Colorado State in Western Athletic Conference play Saturday night. UTEP took a 34-24 halftime lead and led by as much as 16 points on several occasions in the second half.

Taiwanese athletes still are confused

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The victory was sweet but short for Taiwan athletes who want to be listed as representatives of the Republic of China if they compete in the XIII Winter Olympics. Minutes after state Supreme Court Justice Norman Harvey signed a formal order Saturday allowing a Taiwan skier to compete as a representative of the Republic of China, Justice A. Franklin Mahoney of the Appellate Division stayed execution of the lower court order. The Appellate Division, a middle-level appeals court which sits in Albany, N.Y., has agreed to hear an appeal of Harvey's decision Monday, but the stay leaves Taiwan's athletes in legal limbo at least until then. "I have full confidence in U.S. justice," said Tom Hsueh, a spokesman for Taiwan's Olympic Committee. "But to allow discrimination to continue on and our athletes are kept away from practice is very, very disappointing." He and other officials had gathered at the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee headquarters in town hall to serve committee lawyers with Harvey's order. Then they received word that the order had been stayed. LPOOC chief counsel William Kissel said the athletes would be given housing and accreditation only if they agreed to use a new name, flag and anthem mandated by the International Olympic Committee last year in an attempt to keep Taiwan in the Olympic movement while allowing mainland China to rejoin it. Taiwan's delegation has refused to comply so far, insisting that it is entitled to the Republic of China designation.

Cooper's Terry Orr to sign with Texas

ABILENE—Abilene Cooper blue-chip fullback-linebacker Terry Orr has given a verbal agreement to University of Texas Coach Fred Akers that he will accept a scholarship to the Southwest Conference school on the February 13 signing date. The 6-foot-2-inch, 219-pound Orr was sought out by hundreds of colleges and universities, but he had narrowed his choices to Texas and USC. Orr was regarded as the top blue-chip prospect in the state, along with Houston Kashmere tight end Mark Lewis, as both drew seven votes each from the possible nine SWC head coaches in the Dallas Times-Herald poll two weeks ago. Lewis has reportedly narrowed his choice of schools down to Texas A&M and Colorado. Orr indicated that Texas was one of the schools that had told him that he would be used as a running back, although he did say that that had nothing to do with his decision. He is the second Abilene Cooper griddy to announce his intentions to play for UT. The other is tight end Alvin Jenkins. Four other Cooper gridders have already given verbal commitments to SWC schools. The others are linebacker Greg Berry and punter Kyle Stuard, who are headed for A&M, and linemen Paul Mergenhausen and Steve Malpass, who have stated their intentions for Baylor.

As Lee wallops Big Spring

Rebel defense too much

The Midland Lee Rebels used a tenacious defense that disoriented the Big Spring Steers in rolling to a 69-36 win here in a District 5-AAAA boys game in Steer Gym Friday night.

The Rebels were never really threatened in the contest, as they used a 2-1-2 defense to near perfection. In the first half, and much of the second half, Coach Paul Stueckler's Rebels quick defense didn't allow the Steers a shot. Their quickness wouldn't allow the

5-AAAA Roundup

MHS edges San Angelo

MIDLAND—Six-foot-nine junior Herbert Johnson scored 25 points and keyed a second-half Midland surge that carried the Bulldogs to a 67-61 win over San Angelo in a District 5-AAAA second-half boys' game here Friday night.

The win gives Midland a second-half record of 3-1, and keeps them one-half game behind leading Odessa Permian. Midland and Permian tied for the first half title.

San Angelo, meanwhile, all but drops out of the title chase with the loss. The Bobcats are now 2-2 in the second half and now 19-12 on the year.

The game was tied at 34-34 at the intermission, but the Bulldogs gradually pulled away in the second half. Charles Bishop led the Bobcats with 28 points, while Paul Hayes added 20.

The other two District 5-AAAA games, Odessa at Abilene and Abilene Cooper at Odessa Permian, were cancelled due to the driving conditions. They were rescheduled for February 21.

MAKING THE SAVE — On a ball going out of bounds is Big Spring's Brockley Jones during action in the Big Spring Steers loss to Midland Lee Friday night. Jones' heroics on this play weren't enough, however, as the Rebels waltzed to an easy win to stay in the District 5-AAAA race.

In pre-Olympic showdown Soviet Hockey team routs US

NEW YORK (AP) — Vladimir Krutov scored three goals — two in a four-goal first period — sparking the Soviet Union Olympic hockey team to a 10-3 rout of the United States Olympic squad in an exhibition at Madison Square Garden Saturday.

Krutov and his linemates, Yuri Lebedev and Aleksandr Maltsev, tallied five goals and four assists.

Maltsev and Valeri Kharlamov had the other first-period goals for the Soviet team that will defend its nation's string of four Olympic gold medals beginning Tuesday at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Vladimir Petrov and Boris Mikhailov sandwiched second-period scores around the U.S. tally by team captain Mike Eruzione before an announced crowd of 11,243. The Americans' other goals, in the third period, were scored by Phil Verchota and Steve Christoff.

The attendance was limited, partially because of American feelings over the Soviet military action in Afghanistan and partially for fear of demonstrations inside and outside the New York arena. But the audience was well behaved, and the game was played without incident.

Sands boys capture District 9-B

ACKERLY — The Sands Mustangs boys basketball team won another District 9-B title Friday night, defeating Klondike 80-50 for the clincher.

The win was the fourth without a loss in second half play for Sands, and clinches a tie for the second half title. By virtue of their outright claim to the first half title, however, Friday night's win assures Coach Stan Pulliam's team a spot in the state playoffs.

Bill Wigington led the Sands charge with 16 points. The Sands boys are now 27-2 for the season.

Klondike is now 4-1 in the second half. Bobby Hansen led the Cougars with 15 points.

In the girls game, Klondike clinched the second half title with a 40-33 win over Sands. The Klondike girls are now 4-1 in the second half, while Sands drops to 3-2 in the second half and 21-8 on the year.

Dana Cave led the Klondike charge, collecting 17 points. Jana Long and Penny Grantham had 10 for Sands.

Buffalo Queens rally to stop Seagraves

SEAGRAVES — The Forsan Buffalo Queens girls basketball team remained in the running for the District 5-A title with a come from behind 49-43 win over Seagraves here Friday night.

The win gives the Forsan fems a second half record of 5-1, leaving them one game behind Ropes, who defeated Whiteface 54-52 in two overtimes on Friday night. A Forsan win over Whiteface on Tuesday, combined with a Ropes loss to Seagraves, would tie the Buffalo Queens with Ropes for the second half title. Whiteface won the first half title outright.

Forsan was somewhat sluggish in the win, which came after the Buffalo Queens lost a heartbreaking game at the buzzer to Ropes last Tuesday, and Coach Ronny Taylor was not surprised: "I knew we would be down. But we still do have an outside chance (at the title). Seagraves is big and hard to match up to. They seem to just play around and stay in the game without looking that good. They could beat Ropes, which is what we're hoping for at this point."

Lavonne Brumley connected on six straight free throws in the final stanza to spark the Forsan comeback, which puts the Buffalo Queens at 21-6 for the season.

Julie Poyner was the high point lady for Forsan with 12.

with Christi Adams adding 10.

Seagraves, now 2-3 in the second half and 9-12 on the year, was led in scoring by Teresa Middleton, who had 14 points.

The Seagraves boys then showed no mercy in toppling the Forsan boys by a score of 67-24.

Seagraves led by 32-18 at the half, but limited the Buffaloes to only six points in the second half to turn to the contest into a rout.

Seagraves, who won the first half title in District 5-A, increased their second half record to 4-1. They were led in scoring by Bob Middleton's 19 points.

Forsan's Vance Stevens had 10 points to pace the Buffaloes, who dropped to 2-4 in the second half and 7-16 on the year.

Both of the Forsan teams venture to Whiteface on Tuesday.

Stanton sweeps pair from Plains

PLAINS — The Stanton basketball teams swept two games from Plains here Friday night, but not before the host school scored the visiting Buffaloes.

The Stanton boys moved within a step of the second half title by using a come from behind effort to take a 64-62 win.

Plains led by 11 points in the final stanza, and went into a stall in an attempt to salt the game away. But the plan backfired, and Stanton rallied, with a Bobby Mims contributing 14.

For Plains, now 3-3 in second half play, Wayne Davis had 18 points.

The Stanton girls then held a narrow lead throughout the contest in taking a 54-46 win. The win evens the Stanton fems record at 3-3 in the second half and puts them at 7-18 on the season, while Plains falls to 1-5.

Marcie Young had 22 points for the Stanton girls, while Plains was led in scoring by Sonya Nance, who had 17.

Stanton closes out their regular season at home on Tuesday against Anton.

IOC not in tune with times

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Writer

SCENE: Helsinki, Finland, Land of the Midnight Sun, summer of '52. Olympic flags flutter over the home of the great Paavo Nurmi. But on the mezzanine floor of the Finnish capital's swankiest midtown hotel controversy rages in the councils of the International Olympic Committee.

It's China vs. China. Little Taiwan, the refuge of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's battered Republic of China forces, against the swelling tide of Mao Tse-Tung's vast Communist domain. Both want to compete in the Olympics. OK, said the IOC. Mainland China is welcome but it must compete alongside the forces of Taiwan's Republic, which holds official Olympic membership. No sale, says the People's Republic; it boycotts.

Nevertheless, the Soviet Union invites a token team of the People's Republic to attend as its guest. The Communist Chinese arrive with their brown uniforms and impassive countenances.

SCENE: Lake Placid, N.Y., 26 years later, site of the 1980 Winter Games. This time the People's Republic of China didn't have to sneak in the back gate as uninvited guests. The IOC and the courts have given it official status as the lone representative of the people of China.

Eight members of the outlawed Taiwan delegation come knocking at the door.

"Out!" they are told brusquely. There is no room in the inn. The refugees scramble around for a place to sleep and eat.

The IOC has spoken again. Thus the weird inconsistencies of that austere body of counts, princes and monied stuffed-shirts who hold unchallenged sway over what should be the grandest, most democratic and most fairly conducted sports carnival on Earth.

It's a sad commentary. Lord Killanin, head of the IOC, chides President Carter for urging a withdrawal from the Summer Games in Moscow because of the incursion of Soviet forces in Afghanistan. He repeats the cliché about the Olympic movement superceding politics and ideological rivalries.

The shoddy treatment of the Taiwanese is proof enough that it might be healthy if, as some warn, the present crisis shatters the modern Olympic movement and sends architects back to the drawing board.

The IOC is not in tune with the times.

Not that the People's Republic of China should not compete. It should. Taiwan also should compete.

And on Thursday, a New York state judge ruled that an athlete from Taiwan must be allowed to carry the island nation's traditional red-and-blue flag at the opening of the Winter Games.

The judge overruled, in effect, the IOC, but an appeal was expected.

No politics in the Olympics? Ask Lord Killanin. He should have the answer.

TAIWAN DECISION — Liang Ren-Guey, a Nordic skier from Taiwan, does his workout at Lake Mirror at Lake Placid Thursday despite the fact the Taiwan team were turned away by officials when they tried to enter the Olympics. A New York state judge ruled that an athlete from Taiwan must be allowed to carry their nation's flag, which will be Liang Ren-Guey. However, the IOC said, the judge's decision would be appealed.

Switching Owls to ground oriented attack

Rice's Alborn plans change

HOUSTON (AP) — The Rice Owls led the Southwest Conference in passing and had two of the top five receivers in the SWC last year and next season return quarterback Randy Hertel, who has been among the passing leaders two of the past three years.

So, naturally, Coach Ray Alborn has decided to dump the Owl passing game in favor of the veer offense.

Alborn is far from shell-shocked from last season's 1-10 season. He's thought the problem through and decided that a more conservative ground game will help solve one of Rice's biggest problem areas—57 turnovers in 11 games last season.

To carry out his battle plan, Alborn hired Dick Rader as his offensive coordinator.

"My concern when Coach Rader and I talked about him coming here was that we eliminate the turnovers," Alborn said. "We can't play the people we've been playing and turn the ball over as much as we did last year."

Alborn said there was little doubt in opponents' minds last season that the Owls would put the ball in the air.

"If you drop back and throw the ball as much as we threw the ball last year, people disregard your running game and they start coming at you with all kinds of dogs and blitzes," Alborn said. "They beat on your receivers outside and pretty soon your passing game is not effective and your quarterback gets shellshocked."

The Owls have traditionally been a passing team, trying to nullify a lack of depth by getting the most out of the skill positions. The results have been meager.

All-American quarterback Tommy Kramer, now a starter for the Minnesota Vikings, led the nation in passing in 1976 and the Owls finished 3-8. The following year, Hertel became the first freshman in SWC history to lead the conference in passing and the Owls went 1-10.

And it's been the same song third and fourth verses the past two seasons when the Owls won only three games. Now Rader hopes to make the Owl offense fly by bringing it back down to earth.

"We're going to try to make people beat us for a change instead of us beating ourselves," said Rader, a tutor of the veer at South Carolina and West Virginia.

"We're going to make the kids believe we can move the ball on the ground and then if we get beat it will be because the other team is better."

It will be another adjustment for Hertel, a dropback passer who came to Rice to study under passmaster Homer Rice. But Rice left before the 1977 season started and Hertel has had to scramble for his life since, often with little support from his offensive line.

"I told him (Hertel) I understood he was a dropback passer but I had looked at film and I'd seen him run the ball and he can do the things we want him to do," Rader said. "It's just a matter of convincing himself he can do it. He doesn't seem to have any complaints about it."

Alborn concedes some fans might say the Owls should have gone to the veer last year when Earl Cooper, a second team All-SWC running back, was still eligible.

"They may be right," Alborn said. "It's always easier to look back but I think the backs we have right now will go very well in our backfield."

Alborn will choose from five primary runners including Frank Wilson, Weldon Meeks, Calvin Fance, Tim Sanders and Cedric Johnson.

"All those kids have good speed and size and if we can give them a crack at the line of scrimmage, we ought to be able to make some yardage."

Alborn's revamped coaching staff also includes Carlos Mainord as the new defensive coordinator.

"We haven't been very aggressive and haven't played with enthusiasm the past couple of years," Alborn said. "When Coach Mainord and I finalized things, I told him my No. 1 concern was that we get aggressive and fly around and attack people on defensive and quit being so dad gum passive."

Former athlete challenges UIL

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — John Sullivan says he might be playing college basketball now — instead of talking to reporters outside a courtroom — if not for a University Interscholastic League transfer rule his family considers unfair.

Sullivan and his family moved from Vermont to Austin in March 1977 when his father was transferred to a new job. The student expected to continue the high school basketball career he began in Vermont.

However, a UIL transfer rule instituted to prevent recruiting of schoolboy athletes, forced Sullivan to sit out his junior year. He said his interests wandered and he did not go out for the team in his senior year.

His family sued the UIL, but the case was thrown out by a state district judge here in November 1978.

A Texas Civil Liberties Union lawyer representing the Sullivans argued the case here Wednesday before the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals. Clyde Farrell of Uvalde said the rule — which mandates a one-year ban on playing the same sport a student played at his or her previous school — is unconstitutional because it assumes all transfer students were recruited.

"There should be some inquiry .. as to whether the person being penalized is guilty of what he is being penalized for," Farrell said.

Farrell said the UIL has a duty to monitor recruiting, but he said the transfer rule poses an "irrefutable presumption that whenever an athlete moves he was recruited."

The lawyer argued the rule is akin to punishing everyone in a room after someone's pocket is picked.

Assistant Attorney General Carla Cox said the case provided no constitutional questions because it did not involve liberty or property.

She said the prospect of an athletic scholarship was "clearly too speculative to be considered a property interest."

It would be impossible, she said, for the UIL to hold a hearing in every transfer case to determine whether recruiting was involved.

After the hearing, Sullivan, 18, talked about the case.

"I came here and I was just coming into my own as a basketball player. If I worked hard enough I had no doubt in my mind I could play college ball," said the Southwest Texas State University freshman.

He said his family is pursuing the case — even though he is out of high school — because, "I think I have a duty to other people who are being discriminated against."

Mary Decker breaks world 1500-meter record

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Decker, the world outdoor record-holder in the women's mile, smashed the indoor best for 1,500 meters and missed the four-minute barrier by less than a second at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Decker, making her first New York appearance in six years — since she was a 14-year-old wearing pigtails — shattered the world indoor best of 4:03.0 set last year by Natalia Maracescu of Romania with a scintillating time of 4:00.8.

Meanwhile, Stephanie Hightower broke the indoor best for the women's 60-yard high hurdles and Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan won the Wanamaker Mile for his 14th consecutive indoor triumph.

Decker's performance in the 1,500 meters was so impressive that she knocked exactly nine seconds off the 11-lap American indoor record of 4:09.8 established by Francie Larrieu in Richmond, Va., five years ago. Her time also was faster than the best American outdoor performance in the 1,500 — 4:02.6 by Jan Merrill in the 1976 Olympics.

The 20-year-old Decker, who set the outdoor mile mark of 4:21.7 in Jan. 26 at Auckland, New Zealand, took the lead from the outset in the 1,500 and ran virtually by herself. At the finish, her closest rival, Cindy Bremer of Wisconsin, was nearly 12 seconds back.

Decker also holds indoor records for 800 and 1,000 yards.

Coghlan turned on the speed with 1 1/4 laps remaining to win the Wanamaker Mile.

Among the other recordsetters were Joni Huntley in the women's high jump, Tony Darden in the men's 400 meters and Gwen Gardner in the women's 400.

Coghlan, unbeaten indoors at 1,500 meters or the mile since 1977, had hoped to smash his world best of 3:52.6. But a slow early pace, including a 63.5 quarter-mile and a 2:04 half-mile, ruined his chances.

The redoubtable Irishman, winner of 27 of his last 29 indoor races, was content to let John Gregorek, Ray Flynn and Craig Masback exchange the lead early in the race.

Big Spring Officers exchange

Ysleta High School's all-girl Marimba Band performed on Feb. 5 in the high school auditorium. The eleven-member band came equipped with tamborines, miracas, drums, a xylophone, a guitar, a keyboard, and, of course, a marimba. A few of their featured songs included, "Una Paloma Blanca", "La Bomba", and "Juarez, Mexico". Many of the musical arrangements performed were written by the girls themselves. As for the reason behind it being an all-girl band, their sponsor simply said, "That was predetermined by their parents!"

On Feb. 6 the Student Council officers (Cindy Knight, Bobby Brasel, Wendy Pegan, and Tiffany Whiteside) attended the previously postponed exchange day with Andrews High School. On March 26, the Andrews Student Council officers are scheduled to have their exchange day here.

A classical band concert will be presented on Feb. 11 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Some of the music performed will come from the works of such musical masterminds as Bach and Beethoven.

On Feb. 12, the West Texas State Symphonic Band will perform in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. The admission is free. The band is under the direction of Dr. Gary Garner. The musical agenda ranges from classical to contemporary. Big Spring is the band's third stop on their seventieth anniversary concert tour. During their stay, they will be comfortably accommodated in the homes of the high school band members.

Twenty-three Vocational Office Education students will travel to San Angelo State University on Feb. 22, to compete in the OEA Youth Leadership Competitive Events for Area VI. The competing senior Co-op students include: Susan Brashears, Sandra Garcia, Kim Deel, Maria Yanez, Leanne Tolle, Tammy Burgess, Penny Moore, Sandy Nelson, Martha Allen, and Sylvia Salazar. Junior pre-employment students also include: Laura Berry, Linda Daniel, Nancy Gonzales, Cynthia Rubio, Cynthia Washington, Tammy Shankles, Joanna McLean, Donna Bell, Marta Sullivan, Elizabeth Cevallos, Priscilla Herrera, and Martha Phillips.

With the decision made in favor of the two semester system for next year, there has been a revision of the English curriculum. Next year, some of the English electives that will be offered to juniors and seniors in one semester classes, include: Research Writing, Short Stories, Folklore, Science Fiction, Novels, Development of British Literature, and Shakespeare. All of these classes are subject to cancellation if too few students register for them.

More money-raising campaigns have sprung up around school lately, besides those of the French Club's Lovebuds, and the Color Guard's candy and beef jerky sales. The junior class is now selling candy bars for a dollar a piece, and they come with a coupon for a free hamburger from Dairy Queen. The choir is selling ~~drift flowers~~ arrangements in various colors for $2.05 each. And selling the Corral staff is selling stylized T-shirts with the slogan, "Journalists do it Pica by Pica" on the front, for $11.50 each.

Quill and Scroll is starting an aluminum and bottle drive to raise money for the journalism banquet, which is scheduled for May 16. All those wishing to contribute to this drive, please stop by room 120.

Upcoming this week for the boys' golf team is a tournament in Odessa on Feb. 14 and 15. For the girls, it's Feb. 13-15 in San Antonio.

For the boys' basketball team, there are two games. The first is Big Spring vs. Cooper (there) on Feb. 12. The second is on Feb. 15. It's Odessa vs. Big Spring (there). The girls' basketball team has only one game this week, and that is Big Spring vs. Cooper (here) on Feb. 11.

Finally, on Feb. 15-16, the Big Spring swim team will travel to Midland to participate in a district swim meet.

'Hardhat and Legs'

Movie like a whirlwind

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sharon Gless was swept into the TV movie "Hardhat and Legs" like a whirlwind romance.

"I got a call in the morning," she said, "the script was delivered at noon, at 4 p.m. I gave my decision and that night I was on a plane to New York."

She stars with Kevin Dobson in "Hardhat and Legs," a romantic comedy airing Saturday on CBS. It was written by Garson Kanin and Ruth Gordon, their first collaborative effort since the 1952 movie "Pat and Mike," starring Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn.

"It was fun. I'd never worked in New York before," Miss Gless said. "I was the only Californian in the cast. The movie's almost like a love letter to New York. "Apparently they were having trouble casting it. I don't know who I replaced. They'd tried to reach me the day before but I was at the county fair. The producers called the fair and asked them to page me. They said they don't page unless someone has died. They said, well somebody has died. But I didn't hear the page."

She said Dobson suggested her for the part. She'd been a guest star on "Kojak," in which Dobson was a regular, and they had worked together in "The Immigrants" for an Operation Prime Time syndication.

In the movie, she plays a socialite who teaches a sex education class, and Dobson is a construction worker. She passes his construction site regularly, and he usually can see only her legs.

"He actually falls in love with her legs," Miss Gless said. "He hardly sees her face. He keeps whistling at her. Finally one day, she's had it and comes around and lays into him."

"He follows the legs and ends up attending her sex education class, not that there's anything new for him to learn. He pursues her and she keeps rejecting him. She comes from money and obviously frowns on a hardhat."

The socialite is a divorcee with two children, and is forced to choose between them and Dobson. "We have a very schmaltzy ending," the actress said. "It's right out of the 1930s."

Miss Gless did "Hardhat and Legs" back-to-back with another movie written by Kanin. She plays Carole Lombard in "The Scarlett O'Hara War," part of the "Moviola" series to air on NBC this May.

Miss Gless got her start with small parts in the series "Marcus Welby, M.D." and "Faraday and Company." Then she was cast as Maggie, the kooky secretary, in "Switch." Her most recent series was "Turnabout" for NBC, with John Schuck.

"JONI" — It was through the encouragement of one of Joni Eareckson's physical therapists that she began writing and painting with a brush held between her teeth. Joni has become an accomplished artist, and her works have been reproduced on a popular greeting card line. In this scene from the new World Wide Pictures release, "Joni," Joni Eareckson portrays herself, and the physical therapist is played by Cloyce Morrow. The movie will open in Big Spring at the Ritz Theatres in April.

Controversial author says

More probes needed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The author of a controversial book that first disclosed Elvis Presley's drug abuse says additional doctors should be investigated, as Presley's Memphis physician was.

Sonny West, who helped write the book "Elvis: What Happened?," says at least three other doctors or dentists in Los Angeles or Las Vegas prescribed drugs for Presley.

Presley's physician, Dr. George Nichopoulos, had his medical license suspended for three months and was placed on probation for three years by Tennessee medical authorities for indiscriminately prescribing drugs for the late king of rock 'n' roll and nine other patients.

"The FBI ought to go after these others," suggests West, who was a bodyguard for Presley.

The book, published 15 days before Presley died in August 1977, created a stir by revealing the singer had abused "uppers and downers" for years.

In testimony last month in Memphis before the Tennessee Board of Medical Examiners, the white-haired Nichopoulos said Presley took pills to sleep, wake up, feel better for concerts and relax after them. In effect, he confirmed many of the book's disclosures that had been so controversial when the publication was released.

West, the author with cousin Red West and Dave Hebler, who also were Presley bodyguards, says he doesn't feel particularly vindicated by Nichopoulos' testimony.

"There's not too much vindication, but people called us liars and we weren't," he says.

West, now an actor and horse breeder living in Los Angeles, says he understands from news reports about the Nichopoulos hearing that Presley's drug use was worse than he realized.

"I didn't realize he was getting that many shots," the former bodyguard says. "His rear end already was a pin cushion."

After the book was published, West says the authors had trouble making people believe their story.

"People have verbally dressed me down," he says. "Everyone seemed to think he was straight, but he experimented with all kinds of things. He liked a 'dreamy high.'"

Many of Presley's close friends denied the accusations and said the three ex-bodyguards were striking back because Presley had fired them a year before the book was published.

"We wanted to help him," West says, referring to Presley. "We wanted him to see that he was destroying himself."

Three hits in 3 tries for Foreigner

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Three times at bat, three hits.

That's the box score for Foreigner, the Anglo-American power rock combine that won rookie-of-the-year awards in 1978 from every major record industry group or publication that gives such accolades.

Well, almost every group. The National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences nominated Foreigner as best new artist, but gave the Grammy to Debbie Boone.

But while Miss Boone has yet to repeat the success of "You Light Up My Life," Foreigner has spent the last two years proving that the success of its debut album — which featured such hit tunes as "Cold As Ice" and "Feels Like the First Time" — was no fluke.

The group's two albums since then, "Double Vision" and "Head Games" have both sold well in excess of a million copies.

In fact, founding Foreigner Mick Jones — pinned down between mouthfuls of quiche and salad in his hotel suite — figured the group's total U.S. sales to be somewhere in the neighborhood of 12 million records. Worldwide, the band has filled halls in some 300 nights' worth of concert dates.

Soap opera actress makes it big

Texas girl follows tradition

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Roger Vadim's latest discovery is an Oklahoma-born, Texas-raised soap opera actress named Cindy Pickett.

She follows a distinguished tradition. Other Vadim proteges: Brigitte Bardot, Catherine Deneuve, Annette Stroyberg, Jane Fonda. All but Miss Deneuve he married.

Vadim, who introduced a new sexuality to the screen as a member of France's New Wave of the 1950s, is bringing out his first film in three years, "Night Games." Cindy Pickett stars as a Beverly Hills wife whose sexual repression is played out in nightly fantasies.

Cindy Pickett came to town on terminal leave from CBS' "The Guiding Light," in which she has appeared for three years. "It was time to move on," she explained, although she was grateful for the schooling in "the closest thing to live television."

She and Vadim joined in an interview. There seems to be no romance, but a mutual respect between them; like Jane Fonda, even during their marriage, Miss Pickett refers to him as "Vadim."

Magazines supply good at library

By REBECCA TAYLOR

If you are planning to trade cars or want to buy or sell a used car, one of the most helpful sources of information is the N.A.D.A. "Used Car Guide." This monthly publication is one of several new magazine subscriptions at the Howard County Library. The Guide gives the average loan value and average retail value for 1973-1979 models of domestic and imported cars and light trucks, in the southwestern market area. It also lists the value of certain factors such as low mileage or vinyl tops.

Two other new subscriptions to well-known magazines are "House and Garden" and "Southern Living." Both magazines emphasize home and leisure pursuits. Travel, gardening, decorating and cooking are primary areas of interest. Delicious new recipe ideas, the latest in home furnishings, and leisure sports news are items included.

Two magazines designed for the woman are "Cosmopolitan" and "Texas Woman." There are articles on health fashion and personalities, with a distinctly feminine slant. "Texas Woman" speaks primarily of the Texas scene and most of the advertisers are Texas based. Both magazines also feature fiction short stories and excerpts.

Two relative newcomers to the magazine world are "US" and "Nuestro." Both are special interest magazines designed for a specific clientele.

"US" is a 'personality' magazine. Articles and photographs are of persons in the public eye. Most of the items are of movie and television stars, but human interest, sports and political figures are also given some coverage.

"Nuestro" is a serious magazine devoted to the interests of chicanos and advancement of that cultural group. Articles on politics, current events, finances and cultural information are part of a well balanced news magazine.

Fort Worth - A capacity crowd bid big money to establish a new world record price on a pen of commercial hereford heifers in Fort Worth, recently. Previous highs were shattered when Wm. A. Belford, Canton, Oklahoma, bid $1,600 each for a pen of 20 heifers consigned by the Summerour Ranch at Dalhart, for a total of $32,000 for the set. The purebred herefords were calves in the fall of 1977 and sold bred to hereford bulls. They had been selected as Reserve Champion Pen of Heifers in the THA Show earlier in the day.

The Commercial Hereford Heifer Show and Sale is an annual event sponsored by the Texas Hereford Association, headquartered in Fort Worth, that is held in conjunction with the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show. Another record was established when the 418 head of bred females offered brought a total of $360,965 for an average price of $864. Previous high was the $736 per each average price paid for bred heifers in 1979. The 240 open females that sold brought $137,560 for a $573 average.

Thirty pens of heifers paraded before a three-man judging team competing for championship honors and part of the $5,000 premium money. Judging the event

Game of power politics Repeat of 1923 story?

AUSTIN - The governor unhappy because legislators didn't approve his proposals on state expenditures and law enforcement - calls a special session.

House and senate members dutifully assemble in their respective capitol chambers at 10 a.m.

The House sends a large delegation to the Senate to sign several Glee-club songs, including Auld Lang Syne.

The Senators applaud loudly, pass a resolution thanking the "press boys" for accuracy and efficiency in the prior regular session, adjourn the special session at 11 a.m. and go home.

This scene is from March 15, 1923, when Gov. Pat M. Neff tried to force legislators to adopt his programs by subjecting them to the inconvenience of a special session.

But a similar scene - surely this time without any kudos to the press - might occur this August if Gov. Bill Clements tries to play power politics, independent-minded lawmakers.

The governor can force the members to come to Austin, but he can't make them see things his way.

Many Austin political gossips recently speculated that Clements is realizing that a special session could become a fiasco that could damage him politically.

They pointed out that Clements had tied tax relief to the proposed special session. That could allow him to back out if the state surplus wasn't sufficient for significant tax relief.

But Clements seems as determined as ever on a special session. He said last week he definitely would call one in August after the Democratic National Convention.

The governor thus continues to dig his trench for an oncoming battle with the legislature and to pour concrete around his options.

Gov. Neff was determined to have his way on school finance and tighter laws against bootlegging, initiative and referendum and wiretapping in drug cases.

Neff may actually have had his way to some extent, since he called two other special sessions in 1923 that I haven't researched.

But even if he did, that doesn't mean Clements will become a fiasco that could damage him politically.

Inflation rate tied to necessities of life

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of energy, food, housing and health care jumped 17.6 percent last year, a group of private economists said Saturday in a stinging critique of President Carter's anti-inflation policy.

The National Center for Economic Alternatives, an academic research organization that studies economic problems, said skyrocketing prices for these "necessities of life" accounted for virtually the entire increase in 1979's overall inflation rate of 13.3 percent.

Prices of all other items rose 6.8 percent, only slightly more than in 1978 and actually less than in 1976, the center said.

Center co-director Gar Alperovitz said the administration's "failure to face up to the real causes of inflation now require wage and price controls."

Thus, he joins a growing number of economists, including the former head of Carter's anti-inflation program, Barry Bosworth, who advocate controls to battle the worst inflation in 33 years.

The Carter administration and a majority of private economists still oppose controls, saying they have not worked in the past and would prove burdensome and costly.

Energy, food, housing and health care make up two-thirds of the household budget for 80 percent of American families, Alperovitz said.

The center considers these items necessities because they can't be avoided easily. Families must pay the rent or mortgage payment, buy groceries, gasoline, fuel and electricity, and seek medical care when illness strikes.

As recently as 1976, the prices for these necessities rose only 3.7 percent, while non-necessities increased a much higher 7 percent, the center said.

Tight monetary controls have pushed interest rates to record-high levels, while price decontrol of domestic oil is fueling energy inflation, Alperovitz said.

Alperovitz said wage and price controls are "inevitable."

But, he warned that unless the administration and Congress "address the underlying causes of inflation and not its symptoms," wage and price controls could be a disaster for Americans.

"Controls by themselves won't work. The day they are lifted will be the day inflation re-explodes," Alperovitz said.

The center says inflation won't be solved unless the government invests more heavily in solar energy and mass transit, while pushing much harder for conservation, including gasoline rationing.

It also calls for a massive expansion in the supply of housing, with federal help, and hospital cost-containment legislation and a program to stabilize cattle and grain supplies.

Letter Writing Week slated

The Postal Service has announced it will sponsor a National Letter Writing week from Feb. 24 through March 1.

Objectives of the special week are to focus attention on the power of the written word and letter writing to shape public opinions, preserve memories, lift spirits, and link people and to encourage more personal correspondence.

There will be special school activities, highlighted by the publication of a new 64-page book, "All about Letters," prepared by the Postal Service with the cooperation of the National Council of Teachers of English. The book is designed for students in grades six through 12 and will be distributed by the Council.

During National Letter Writing Week, many post offices will offer to students special guided tours of their facilities.

In addition to schools, National Letter Writing Week will also be observed by business, media and trade associations. Museums, public libraries and other buildings of historic significance will be encouraged to display books about letters and letters written by famous people who have helped influence the course of human events throughout the ages.

The occasion will also be marked by the issuance of a special three-pair set of U.S. postage stamps.

Prominent Americans in all walks of life are being asked to share with the Postal Service letters from their experience that have preserved memories, shaped opinions, and lifted spirits, the three themes to be stressed during letter-writing week. The results of this survey will be made available during the week.

SNOW STALLS TRAFFIC — About 50 cars and trucks were stalled for several hours Friday on Interstate 44 west of Springfield. Up to 20 inches of snow fell in parts of southwest and south-central Missouri, forcing Gov. Joseph Teasdale to press the National Guard into service.
