Dense fog reported in Permian Basin

By the Associated Press
A weak cold front triggered shower activity in South Texas today, but most of the state had decreasing clouds and warmer temperatures.

The front was located before dawn along a line from Del Rio to Lufkin. The rain was mostly south of a line from Laredo to Palacios and mostly light. Amounts were mostly under .10 of an inch.

Forecasts called for cloudy skies over southern and eastern sections of the state with occasional light rain over South Texas. The rest of the state was to have decreasing cloudiness and warmer temperatures.

Highs were expected to range from the 40s in Northwest Texas to the 70s in the Big Bend country of Southwest Texas. Most areas were to have readings in the 50s.

Dense fog was reported during the pre-dawn hours in the Permian Basin. Travelers advisories were issued for the Midland area because of the fog.

Gasoline prices jump 8.5 cents in month

Gasoline prices in Texas have zoomed to record heights in the past month, and motorists will be hard pressed to find a gallon of any grade of gas selling for less than $1 anywhere in the state.

A survey of 378 service stations by the American Automobile Association shows that the price of full-service gasoline has jumped an average of 8½ cents per gallon since AAA's last survey a month ago, while the price of self-service fuel has shot up an average of 7½ cents. These increases far exceed the rate of price increases recorded during last summer's fuel shortage.

Although gasoline availability on weekday nights remains the same as in January with 30 percent of the stations pumping gas after 8 p.m., availability has declined somewhat on Saturday night, with 48 percent of the stations staying open compared to 51 percent last month.

Water, sewer systems problems reviewed

Assistant city manager Bill Brown briefed members of the Water and Sanitary Sewer Committee on problems which must be resolved if the city is to upgrade and expand its water and sewer systems in a meeting held Monday evening in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

Committee members were also offered maps of both systems and were asked by chairman Kenneth Patrick to study them before making recommendations for improving the systems before the next meeting, which will be held at the Water Treatment Plant, 16th and Virginia Streets, at 7 p.m., next Monday.

The City of Big Spring has a total of 7.5 million gallons elevated storage capacity and a total of 5½ million gallons of clearwell storage on the treatment plant property which can be pumped into the elevated storage system, providing a total of 13 million gallons of water to serve customers and fight fires in the event of necessity, according to a report prepared by Brown and his staff. The city needs to expand its elevated storage system, particularly in the south part of town, the report indicates.

Committee members were asked to consider 19 points for improvement of the water treatment system and nine points toward upgrading the sewage treatment plant system.

Any recommendations the committee makes will be reviewed by the city council and could be incorporated into a bond issue that may be taken before property owners later this year.

Install new Arkla Servel Gas air conditioning now and the price will drop $100. You'll receive a $100 rebate direct from the factory if you buy now, and install before May 1 plus no payment is due until May. But the price is not all that will drop when you install Gas air conditioning. The amount of gas energy needed to keep your home cool will drop, and so will maintenance costs.

New Gas air conditioning systems use less gas because the constantly burning gas pilot has been eliminated, and replaced with a new pilotless ignition system. That makes Gas air conditioning more energy efficient. And using less energy will save you money.

Gas air conditioning is dependable. It's built to last and last, with no loss of cooling capacity. Hand-crafted of sturdy stainless steel components, Gas air conditioning has fewer moving parts and no compressor to wear out or break down. That means less wear and tear, and lower maintenance costs. And to prove its dependability, Gas air conditioning gives you a ten-year no sweat warranty.

Gas air conditioning. It's quality constructed to lower maintenance and operating costs... to save energy and money. And if you add adequate conservation measures to your home, like storm doors and windows, caulking and insulation, you can save even more.

Drop the high costs of summer cooling now. Call Pioneer for a free cooling survey and cost estimate. We'll drop by your house to help you determine the gas system that fits your cooling needs best. There's no obligation.

Texas colleges get help from lobbyists

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Texas system of publicly supported higher education is one of the largest in the nation and accounts for billions in expenditures from the state budget. In the third of six parts, Associated Press newsman Lee Jones examines competition among the state's colleges and universities.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "THANKS, FRANK."

The big red letters trailed a light tow plane in slow circles over Memorial Stadium as Texas eked out a narrow football win over Rice University on Oct. 6.

Frank Erwin, star of the big-time college lobbyist league, deserved the thanks, say those who prize the University of Texas' expansion, internal growth and pre-eminence among Texas schools.

Did the Texas College Coordinating Board want to limit UT-Austin's enrollment? Erwin helped push through legislation denying it that power.

Were new colleges to be built at San Antonio and Midland-Odessa? Erwin worked to make them part of the UT system, not independent schools as the Coordinating Board envisioned.

Do small colleges covet UT's and A&M's Permanent University Fund? You can bet Erwin will fight on for a separate fund to keep them happy.

Erwin, former chairman of UT regents, has been in the middle of just about every major dispute over the quantity, quality and financing of higher education for 15 years. He donates his time and talents and is as much a part of the lobbying scene as big oil and organized labor.

All 15 state university governing boards send emissaries to protect their interests during the Legislature.

So do the 47 junior college districts and private colleges, who organized the highly influential Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas (ICUT).

ICUT's latest triumph was legislation raising the maximum state "tuition equalization grant" for private college students from $600 to $1,136 a year.

"The rewards of lobbying have convinced more and more institutions that's the way to go," says Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, chairman of the House Higher Education Committee.

Kenneth Ashworth, commissioner of higher education, says, "There must be at times 50 or 60 representatives of colleges and universities working over the Legislature, depending on what the issue is."

Erwin and Bill Parsley, director of public affairs for Texas Tech, said establishment of the formula system for financing state colleges 20 years ago eliminated much of the competition.

"Ninety percent of the time all of us work together," Parsley said. But he also observed that "a considerable amount of money" — $390.3 million this biennium — is not appropriated by formula and schools compete for those dollars.

Mrs. Delco sees the competition for legislative favor as more intense than Erwin and Parsley portray it: "Everybody is turf-protecting. ... If UT gets a swimming pool, why can't we have a community auditorium, they say."

A serious example of "turf-protecting" was last year's unsuccessful attempt to earmark funds for construction at 17 state universities.

Erwin said he "desperately" worked to help the smaller schools pass their State Higher Education Assistance Fund (SHEAF) because "if they have that, they won't be coveting the Permanent University Fund."

"We were all busting our ass to help get the new SHEAF fund so they would have a fund and leave us alone," he said.

Another attempt to create SHEAF, which Gov. Bill Clements, Speaker Bill

Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby oppose as extravagant, is expected in 1981.

Lobbying for higher education involves amateurs as well as old pros like Erwin and Parsley, mainly gung-ho alumni.

"Texas Woman's University is the most graphic example. My God, they have more little old ladies with green and blue hair who come down and say we've got to do something for TWU," Mrs. Delco said.

Ashworth says competition would be bad only if "the Legislature were incapable of separating the wheat from the chaff in terms of what they are hearing. I have enough faith in our political system to think it is going to work."

The commissioner himself lobbied this year for a bill to stop the clamor of state university "centers" on junior college campuses for money to construct buildings.

"We are concerned that the state cannot maintain adequate funding of our presently existing system of higher education, much less the support of additional units such as would become permanently implanted if the centers are funded to build their own campuses or facilities," he told a Senate committee.

The bill failed, however, leaving the centers free to continue their fight for permanence.

Competition for students seems to be developing as enrollment, the key to higher education funding formulas, levels off.

"They are raiding. Yes indeed. I think there is a real effort to do that," says Mrs. Delco, adding that seven out-of-town universities provide off-campus courses in Dallas.

Off-campus students mean more state dollars under the formula system, and Erwin thinks schools with falling enrollments view them as their salvation.

"Rather than fire faculty, close buildings and make other cuts that would be painful, they are actively recruiting. One way is off-campus teaching. East Texas, TWU and North Texas State are active in Dallas. Sul Ross had an off-campus program in El Paso until they got caught at it," he said. The Coordinating Board said recently that "much duplication and competition had developed among institutions" for off-campus students as early as 1973.

Since it obtained legislative authority in 1975 to regulate off-campus teaching, it has whittled the number of off-campus courses from 4,164 to 3,164. Next: Quality and control.

In Atlantic alliances

Soviet moves creating strains

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet occupation of Afghanistan is producing fresh strains in the Atlantic alliance as some Western European nations are showing a reluctance to rally behind the Carter administration's get-tough stance toward the Kremlin.

The United States and France represent perhaps the two most divergent views within the alliance, although other European countries agree with France that the Soviet action in Afghanistan, however deplorable, need not lead to a resumption of the Cold War.

French sensitivities became evident last week when word leaked out that several Western allies, including France and the United States, were planning a high-level meeting in West Germany on Feb. 21 to try to coordinate a response to the Soviet action.

French sources said Monday they were worried that the premature disclosure might induce the Soviets to view the proposed meeting as "provocative."

They said France would have been willing to take part in an "informal consultation" of Western countries, but backed out altogether when press leaks suggested the meeting had a more serious purpose.

Plans for an allied meeting subsequently were scrapped although Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance still intends to travel to Bonn next week for bilateral consultations.

Over the weekend, Carter administration officials expressed anger at the French action but both countries sought on Monday to minimize their disagreements.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said differences "should not be exaggerated." A French diplomatic source, who asked not to be quoted by name, said the two countries actually are "very close" in their perception of the "dangers" implicit in the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. The source clearly indicated, however, that the United States and France are far apart on diplomatic strategy for countering the Soviet action.

He suggested that the Soviets will not be responsive to U.S. calls for a global boycott of the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow or for the immediate withdrawal of Russian troops from Afghanistan.

Instead, he said, the West should quietly undertake negotiations with the Soviets to determine whether there would be a level of Soviet influence in Afghanistan that would be acceptable to the West and to the Soviets as well.

"If there is any common ground, he said, then a negotiated Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan may be possible.

"We must have a clear idea of an attainable aim," the source said. "The attainable aim is a negotiated withdrawal." In contrast, the Carter administration believes quiet diplomacy is not enough. It has called for a long-term sustained action by the Western allies to meet what it considers a blatant example of Soviet aggression.

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity. A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true. Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat. That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it. The fuel we use costs money. And the cost of the fuel to produce your electricity is shown separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for. And to remember: it takes fuel to make electricity.

JOHN BELUSHI PAT BOONE

Belushi not impressed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm moved by this, but not a lot," John Belushi told an audience at UCLA as he accepted the annual "Jack Benny Award" for excellence in comedy.

"Anyway, I had nothing better to do today," said the former star of "Saturday Night Live" as he accepted the award Monday.

He told the audience he considered the award special because it had been given by students, but received groans when he said he would not return to the NBC television show where he gained fame. "Well, maybe I will return — when hell freezes over," he replied.

Boone selling prayer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Pat Boone, who says he thinks the crisis at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran will end soon, is distributing an orchestrated prayer for the release of the Americans.

Boone says he got the idea for "The Hostage Prayer" after praying at Christmas for the 50 Americans held since Nov. 4 by militants demanding the return of the deposed Shah of Iran.

"A friend and I were talking later and decided radio stations needed some type of song asking God to provide for the hostages' release," he said. The recording is a recitation of what Boone feels a hostage might be praying: "Lord, bring us home."

JERRY COLONNA ALEX HALEY

Comedian recovering

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Jerry Colonna, whose career was launched after Bob Hope signed him on for his radio show, is recovering slowly but is in good condition after a series of heart problems, officials say.

Colonna remained hospitalized Monday at the Motion Picture and Television Country Hospital. The 75-year-old comedian, who suffered a stroke in 1966, has been hospitalized since May 29 at the Woodland Hills facility.

Known best as the comedian with the walrus mustache and popping eyes, Colonna began his show business career as a musician. He joined Hope's radio show after they met in 1938, and starred in dozens of films and television shows through the 1950s and 1960s.

Class boycott averted

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — After a protest by parents who threatened to boycott classes, school officials have reversed a decision not to allow elementary students out of class to attend a college lecture by "Roots" author Alex Haley.

The school board had decided to let some 600 older students go to today's lecture at Southern University because it was geared to a college-level audience and because seating was limited. However, after the protest grew, officials said the university guaranteed seating for 2,000.

Southern University, the nation's largest predominantly black university, had invited all public school students to attend the lecture by Haley, whose book traced the ancestry of his family through slavery and back to Africa.

Connally criticizes FBI bribery probe

HOUSTON (AP) — Republican presidential candidate John Connally took time from a fund-raising dinner in his honor Monday night to criticize the FBI for its handling of recent bribery investigations.

Connally referred to allegations by the FBI involving officials in several states, alleging an insurance kickback scheme. "Here you have an obvious scheme on behalf of the FBI to test the morality and integrity of public officials," Connally said. "I think it is an extension of the FBI role that goes too far."

"So far as I can see, they were not investigating any crimes. On the contrary, they were guilty of trying to create a situation, creating circumstances, testing morality."

Connally spoke with newsmen prior to a speech before 1,500 persons attending the fundraiser at Albert Thomas Convention Center. The $100 per plate dinner netted an estimated $170,000 for Connally's campaign fund, officials said.

Connally suggested at one point "there must be more to it than we know now." He then added, "Obviously, the more that comes to light, they weren't investigating a crime, they were enticing those individuals into their lair."

The GOP presidential hopeful said the Justice Department would be hard pressed to prove their investigation was not a case of entrapment. "It looks to me like the FBI deliberately set out to entrap a number of people," Connally said.

The former Texas governor later told the dinner crowd the United States would have to make drastic changes if it is going to survive. He suggested new alliances in the Middle East, and said the economic future of America lies in a Pacific-based common market.

Connally also called for new western alliances that ultimately would "look to push Castro and communism plumb out of the Western Hemisphere."

The United States is facing the fourth crisis of its history, Connally said. The first three were its founding, the War Between the States and the great depression. "The fourth crisis is on us today," he said. "It is whether or not any nation founded on the free market system can survive in a world of totalitarian governments."

Carter pins hopes on luck

NEW YORK (AP) - After watching the economy expand last year, contrary to expectations of his economic advisers, President Carter is hoping his luck might last a while more.

In doing so, however, he is conceding the administration's vision of the economic future is blurred and that maybe hope, rather than insight or perhaps control of events, is the beacon that guides it.

Cox foresees "a steep drop" in economic activity beginning soon, if not already, and persisting into the third or July-August-September quarter. It would be followed by "modest" recovery later in the year.

OUTSTANDING WORK - Several employees were presented with superior performance cash awards recently at the VAMC during an incentive awards program.

Eton tuition costs up, top hats off!

LONDON (AP) - The boys at Eton, Britain's noted boarding school for the sons of the very rich, are protesting a new tuition hike that may empty the pockets of even their upper crust folks.

The young scholars have called on the school to allow families to "pay what they can" towards the whopping yearly bill of $7,182, more than the charge for room, board and tuition at most U.S. universities.

Why is Eton, for 540 years a breeding ground for lords, dukes and prime ministers, suddenly raising a generation of penny-pinchers?
