

Weather Dense fog creates hazardous driving

By the Associated Press
Dense fog caused hazardous driving conditions early today in the Panhandle and across much of South Texas. Drivers were warned of hazardous conditions. Visibility dropped to well below a mile in many areas during the early morning hours. A cold front moved slowly southward across the Panhandle during the night, becoming nearly stationary before dawn on a line from Childress to Tucumcari, N.M. Forecasts called mostly for cloudy skies statewide.

with intermittent drizzle or freezing drizzle in the Panhandle and widely scattered light rain or drizzle across all of the southern half of the state. Freezing drizzle was forecast for tonight in the Panhandle and in extreme northwest portions of North Texas and into other areas of North Texas possibly before dawn Saturday. Most of the state is expected to have colder temperatures Saturday. Highs today were to remain warm except in the Panhandle. Readings were expected to be mostly in the 50s and 60s except in the Panhandle where readings were expected to reach only the 30s.

WEST TEXAS - Cloudy and cold Panhandle today, partly cloudy central and south. Widely scattered showers southwest today and tonight. Continued cold Panhandle and turning colder central portions tonight and most sections east of mountains Saturday. Intermittent freezing drizzle or snow flurries north and light rain or drizzle south tonight and Saturday. Highs mid 30s Panhandle to mid 70s Big Bend. Lows near 20 Panhandle to near 30 south. Highs Saturday near 30 Panhandle to mid 70s Big Bend.

EXTENDED
WEST TEXAS - Cloudy and cold Sunday, becoming partly cloudy with a gradual warming trend by Tuesday. Highs 30s north to 60s southwest and upper 70s Big Bend valleys Sunday, warming to 50s and 60s most sections Tuesday. Lows upper teens north to around 40 southwest, warming to mainly 20s and 30s by Tuesday.

WEATHER FORECAST - Rain and snow are expected in the forecast period, today until Saturday morning, for most of the Mississippi except for Gulf and Atlantic coastal areas. Snow is also forecast from east of the Rockies to the central Plains.

Pornography market titans also target of FBI 'sting'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three alleged titans of the nation's $4 billion hardcore pornography market are fighting federal charges today as a result of yet another FBI undercover "sting."
The three, along with a fourth man who dropped dead only moments before FBI agents arrived to arrest him, allegedly dominated a burgeoning market for magazines and films with such titles as "Three in a Tub," "Debbie Does Dallas," and "Hot and Saucy Pizza Girls."

"This wiped out the whole top echelon of the pornography business in this country, and that's never happened before," said one knowledgeable source who requested anonymity. "Hopefully, this is going to have a major impact on the pornography business," said William Nettles, the Miami FBI agent who coordinated the investigation. "These are the biggies."

The dead man and one of the alleged kingpins have been linked with the crime syndicate the FBI calls La Cosa Nostra. FBI men worked undercover for more than two years, posing as smut dealers themselves and fending off threats of violence, as they painstakingly penetrated the highest levels of pornography distribution rings, the FBI said.

As the undercover phase ended Thursday, prosecutors went before a grand jury in Miami and won indictments against the four and 41 others on charges of interstate trafficking in obscene materials.

The alleged kingpins named in the indictments: -Reuben Sturman, 55, a millionaire resident of the posh Cleveland suburb of Shaker Heights. The son of a Russian immigrant, he built a fortune from a start as a comic book salesman. Forbes magazine in 1978 called him "the number one merchant of sex in the United States."

-Michael "Mickey" Zafferano, 67, alleged boss of an East Coast pornography distribution ring based in New York. He died of an apparent heart attack only minutes before agents arrived to arrest him Thursday. Law enforcement officials have identified him as a captain in the syndicate family of Joseph Bonanno and the late Carmine Galante.
-Robert "Debe" DiBernardo, 42, of New York, described by authorities as a major East Coast pornography wholesaler. Law enforcement officials say he is a member of the New Jersey syndicate family of Simone "Sam the Plumber" DeCavalcante.

For the birds
NEW YORK (AP) - To honor the National Audubon Society's 75th year of protecting and enhancing the bird life of America, the British Post Office has presented Russell W. Peterson, the society's president, with a set of new stamps featuring four of Britain's most popular water birds.

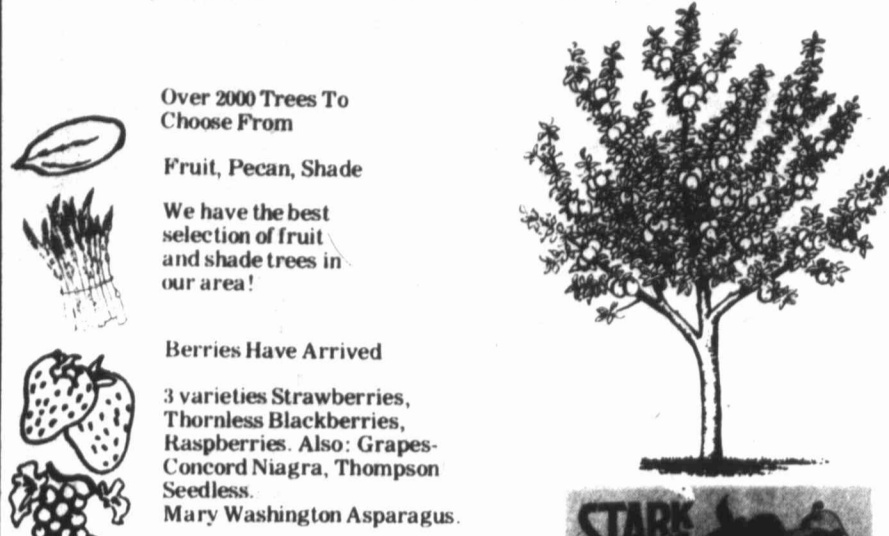

The stamps, designed and painted by British bird-life artist Michael Warren, include the Kingfisher, Dipper, Moorhen and Yellow Wagtail, some of the protected inhabitants of the streams and marshes of the English countryside. The BPO's first stamp issue of 1980 marked the centenary of England's Wild Bird Protection Act of 1880.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL

A tired farmer, oppressed by the noonday heat, sat under a walnut tree for some rest, and as he sat there he looked at his pumpkin vines and said to himself, "God is really very foolish and inexperienced. He puts big heavy pumpkins on a frail vine that has so little strength it has to lie on the ground. And then he puts small walnuts on a big tree with branches that can hold a man. Any man could do better than that!"

Just then a breeze dislodged a walnut from the tree under which the farmer sat, and the walnut fell on the critic's head. The old man rubbed his head ruefully and said, "It's a good thing there wasn't a pumpkin up there instead of a walnut."

Stanton native attends White House meeting

Texas Tech University Student Association president Gary Hanson, a native of Stanton, is participating in a White House meeting on foreign and domestic policy issues in Washington today.

The meeting is being held in the Old Executive Office Building of the White House. As part of the day's program, visitors met with President Carter in the East Room of the White House and then attended a reception.

Participating in the meeting, from 9:30 a.m. - 5 p.m., are senior members of the White House staff, members of the National Security Council and domestic policy staff, and student association and government leaders from colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Additional discussion sessions focus on specific areas of involvement for students, including draft registration and the current situations in both Iran and Afghanistan.

"I am honored to be

among the students who were invited to attend this meeting," Hanson said before leaving Texas. "And I'm really looking forward to the trip to Washington."

Hanson is a 21-year-old senior marketing major. He has been involved in student government at Texas Tech for the past four years.

His activities at Texas Tech include serving on the student Senate, Business Administration Council, and the President's Advisory Committee on Freshman Orientation.

He is also past president of Sigma Chi social fraternity.

Higher education -- VI

Decade to be difficult in Texas

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Texas system of publicly supported higher education is one of the largest in the nation and accounts for billions in expenditures from the state budget. In the last of six parts, Associated Press newsman Lee Jones examines the future of higher education in Texas.

public universities, the state commissioner of higher education believes.

But Kenneth Ashworth hopes hard times won't bring on a continuation of a "body count game" that threatens the value of a college degree.

Ashworth, 47, has become a Jeremiah, warning educators of doom unless they restore the standards that once lent prestige to a college degree. His recent book, significantly, is entitled "American Higher Education in Decline."

Ashworth, who became commissioner in 1976, outlined in an interview some of the problems, as he sees them, that face higher education in Texas:

— Stabilizing enrollments, with some schools suffering declines that might jeopardize their existence.

— A consequent scramble for students, accompanied by debased standards that call into question the caliber of Texas graduates.

— Inflation that squeezes both the universities and their faculties, threatens faculty morale and could deter bright young people from becoming college teachers.

— Fragmentation of the state's system of higher education.

— Overemphasis on new buildings, draining away money that should be spent in the pursuit of excellence.

"Larger and larger portions of entering classes are graduating, which indicates standards have been reduced. I get lots of complaints that students are unable to produce once they graduate," Ashworth said.

He said higher education is caught between runaway inflation and either low growth or no growth in enrollment, which is the chief factor in determining a state college's legislative appropriation.

"So there is what I refer to as the body count game. ... If you flunk students out after they get in, it doesn't do you any good financially," Ashworth said.

But schools that don't demand competence risk the very enrollment decline they feared, once word gets out that employers won't hire their graduates, he said.

Ashworth said shrinking enrollments might even prompt the Legislature to consider closing some universities.

"On the practical side, we don't need any more colleges and universities in Texas. It's going to be difficult to maintain those we have. ... It's going to be very difficult to close any schools, but I wouldn't be surprised to see that issue come up in the next five or six years," he said.

Ashworth said college presidents of the 1970s were "dreamers, builders and promoters" but a new breed will be necessary in the 1980s because "the big problem will be faculty morale."

"Declining purchasing power, concern about their security, continuing attacks on tenure, the problem of inadequately prepared students — all significantly affect morale. If we lose our best faculty and don't bring on young faculty that are preparing for the future, and if our faculties become demoralized and have to actively recruit students to protect their positions, we will have some real problems of quality," he said.

Ashworth said the state's system of university education, with 15 governing boards operating 37 general teaching institutions, is "pretty well fragmented" as it enters the 1980s.

Whether fragmentation is good or bad is "a political question" for others to decide, he said, but Ashworth indicated it works against excellence.

"The problem of a large number of governing boards is they tend to become locally oriented and lack statewide perspective," he said. The old Board of Regents for State Senior Colleges, which governed senior schools, "was like a small coordinating board and was able to spot questions of duplication before they ever got to the Coordinating Board level. When a school has its own governing board, it is not able to look at whether there is duplication and how what they are doing compares to the others."

Until the Coordinating Board moved its headquarters in January, Ashworth could look out his window at the University of Texas' $6.6 million swim center two blocks away, which symbolizes another problem on his list.

For Ashworth, the swim center represents a squandering of UT's wealth on elaborate buildings instead of investing it in "academic enrichment."

He looks for renewed efforts in the Legislature to create a constitutionally dedicated construction fund for colleges that don't share the revenue from the Permanent University Fund. Ashworth fears a construction fund might enable universities to build campuses for their satellite centers. This, he believes, would erode the Coordinating Board's authority to shut down a center if its enrollment drops.

Once a "center" has buildings of its own — a campus — it becomes "permanently implanted" and politically impossible for the board to eliminate, Ashworth believes.

Ashworth's jeremiads extend to society as a whole, but he finds in a dismal future a new and important role for the universities:

"The human mind is the most unexploited recreation area there is, and higher education is the vehicle for opening it up."

WINDOWS OF THE SOUL

Eyes have been called the windows of the soul. Clarity, expression and size — all of these are supposed to reveal character. A child's eyes seem innocent. But small, closely placed eyes may also indicate deception. Some even say that you can tell a criminal by his eyes.

Calling it nonsense, even scientists find it hard to dispel the old wives' tales that have persisted for centuries.

Eyes, in a certain sense, can be the windows of the soul — precious windows through which you look at life. Don't judge another man by his eyes. Look instead through eyes of understanding and compassion, for in God's sight we are all equal. If your inner vision has been a bit faulty lately, why not start going to church next Sunday?

JUDGES ATTEND REGIONAL SEMINAR — Thirty-five justices of the peace attended a 40-hour Texas Justice of the Peace Training Center seminar Jan. 20-25 in San Antonio, which is based at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. The seminars are held in compliance with article 5872, Section B, of the Texas Revised Civil Statutes. Among the judges attending were, left to right, Pat Kitchens of Post, Garza County, Precinct 4, Place 1; Wes Morgan of Stanton, Martin County, Precinct 2, Place 1 and Zora Robinson of Post, Garza County, Precinct 1, Place 1.

Average citizens may pay for thefts from wealthy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — People of average means will pay more for homeowners' insurance because of silverware thefts from the rich unless the State Insurance Board does something, the board was told Thursday.

"Silver is at $37 an ounce. When gold was $32 an ounce it was buried at Fort Knox," said John F. Knight of Republic Insurance Co. in Dallas.

Because of this, he said, burglaries of silverware are on the increase, with insurance companies paying for huge losses covered by homeowners' insurance.

Knight, speaking for the Texas Insurance Advisory Association, urged the board to set a limit on homeowners' coverage of silverware, goldware and pewter. He suggested $5,000 but said he was "not hung up on that amount."

Someone with lots of silverware could get more coverage with a separate policy for about 20 cents per $100, he said.

There already is a $500 limit on homeowners' coverage of jewelry and a $500 ceiling on payments for gold and silver bullion. Again, added coverage can be bought.

James C. Burford of Aetna, also speaking for the TIAA, told of a $67,000 silverware claim in West Texas, where the homeowner's policy provided only $36,000 for all his household goods.

In another case, he said, $60,000 worth of silverware was stolen, against a total household contents coverage of $50,000.

"Many insureds are not aware that their silverware exceeds the total contents coverage," Burford said.

Knight said burglars seeking silver don't go to the homes of persons with average incomes but seek out rich neighborhoods — "They are going to where the silverware is."

But homeowners' rates result from the total loss experience of insurance companies, and Knight said large losses from silverware thefts from rich homes could cause everybody's premiums to rise.

"The have-nots, as respects silver, are subsidizing the haves," Knight said.

Doug Bennett of the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas opposed placing a ceiling on homeowners' coverage of silverware, partly because of "the fluctuating value of silver."

He said a limitation would be "an unnecessary restriction on our clients, the insurance buying public."

The board also received a request from the agents association to allow full replacement cost coverage of contents in "secondary homes" — generally those used for leisure activities.

W.R. Campbell of Dallas, said for the TIAA — which represents insurance companies in the property field — that the organization gave "qualified approval" to the idea.

He warned there needed to be restrictions on coverage of contents of hunting cabins and lake houses, which often are filled with cast-offs from an owner's primary residence.

"A TV set that might be five or six years old and was bought for $200 — if something happens to it, you might have to replace it with a $600 or $700 set," he said.

Earthquakes safety net

MANILA (AP) — Southeast Asia experiences at least one severe earthquake a year and a blockbuster tremor every decade.

According to seismology experts, the region extending from Thailand to Papua New Guinea is one of the world's most seismically active areas. The lives and property of some 200 million people are liable to sudden destruction.

In view of this, efforts to predict and prepare for earthquakes are increasing. A regional network for earthquake prediction and preparedness has been set up by Hong Kong, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Thailand.

The network provides information on the magnitude and location of earthquakes in the region, thus aiding the organization of rescue and relief efforts.

Campaign aides happy Kennedy continues jabs

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP) — The campaign accusations between Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and President Carter are getting hotter all the time, and Kennedy and his aides couldn't be happier.

Campaigning in New Hampshire, Kennedy lashed out in harsh terms against the president Thursday, accusing him of misusing his office for political purposes and of pursuing policies that "have deserved the national interest."

The Massachusetts senator, who returns to his New Hampshire campaign today after spending the night at his Cape Cod home, also lectured the president about telling the truth.

"Those who so relentlessly use the word truth should at least respect the truth in their own campaigns," he declared.

Kennedy's attack was a response to criticism Carter leveled the night before. Speaking at a nationally televised news conference Wednesday night, Carter said some of Kennedy's recent comments on the Iranian crisis "have not been true, they have not been accurate, and they have not helped our country."

Early Thursday morning, Kennedy's press secretary, Tom Southwick, denounced Carter for taking a "low-road" approach to the campaign and for being "strident." But at the same time he and other Kennedy aides made it clear they were delighted Carter had attacked his principal challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kennedy has been trying to goad Carter out of a no-campaign posture, and Southwick said Carter's statements showed he "blew his cover" as a president who said he would remain above the political fray while dealing with crises in Iran and Afghanistan. Southwick added that Kennedy's aides were "ecstatic" when they watched Carter at his news conference, and Kennedy said, "I'm glad we're finally getting him engaged in the course of debate."

Some of Kennedy's aides also seemed to hope Carter would respond to Kennedy's latest attack, something the president left to two administration spokesmen.

White House press secretary Jody Powell told reporters that all of Carter's State Department and National Security Council advisers "share the same sense of disgust and outrage" at Kennedy's campaign statements.

Powell, asked about Kennedy's assertion that Carter's policies are a national disservice, replied, "I think that's an exaggeration."

And Hodding Carter, the chief State Department spokesman, said: "I understand the desperation of a man who is way down in the polls. Let him have his brief moment in the sun."

An aspirin by any other name . . .

Pain-reliever ads misleading

EDITOR'S NOTE — Seven years after the Federal Trade Commission first tackled the problem of misleading and confusing ads for pain relievers, the ads haven't changed much. This is the last of a three-part series.

By KEVIN MCKEAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the pain relievers Americans spend nearly $1 billion a year on are mostly aspirin.

But you would never know it by searching the typical drug store display, or confronting the bewildering advertisements on television, radio and in print.

Anacin promises "Fast pain relief." Bufferin says it is "Twice as fast as aspirin." Alka-Seltzer has "The sound of fast relief." Yet the pain-relieving ingredient in each is aspirin.

"This is a separate species of unfairness to the public. They're essentially creating the confusion they're capitalizing on," says Joel Brewer, a Federal Trade Commission lawyer who is senior attorney for over-the-counter drug advertising.

You can pay more than three cents a tablet for aspirin in the 24-tablet size of Bayer, or less than one-tenth that for the large size of an unknown brand. Yet they may be equally good for your headache.

The makers of non-prescription drugs defend the ads. "Everybody knows that Bufferin is aspirin with buffering agents. I don't think there's anything misleading about that," says Harry Levine, vice president for corporate communications for the maker of Bufferin.

The premium that consumers pay for name-brand products helps support advertising. But, much of the pain reliever advertising is "confusing and misleading to the consumer," a panel of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has concluded.

In 1973, the FTC challenged ad claims of three drug makers — American Home Products (Anacin), Bristol-Myers (Bufferin) and Sterling Drug (Bayer). An administrative law judge has ruled that the first two firms must back up their claims with scientific proof, but both cases are under appeal to the commission. The Sterling case is still pending.

The FDA panel advises these people to consult a doctor before taking aspirin: —The approximately two in 1,000 people who are allergic to aspirin (this includes from 6 percent to 20 percent of asthmatics).

—People who have a history of ulcers, stomach distress or problems of internal bleeding, since aspirin tends to increase bleeding.

—Women in the last three months of pregnancy, since aspirin can interfere with infant blood clotting or delay or prolong labor.

—Hemophiliacs or persons who are taking drugs to prevent blood clotting (anticoagulants), because aspirin's anti-clotting action may make them dangerously liable to bleed.

—Diabetics or sufferers of gout, since aspirin can interact or interfere with prescription drugs for these conditions.

—Arthritis, since, despite the sales of "arthritis strength" aspirin products, doctors say it is dangerous to self-medicate arthritis, which can develop into a crippling disease.

When buying aspirin, check to see that it is pure white, does not contain broken tablets and does not have a vinegary smell, all signs of age or poor manufacture.

Be especially careful in giving aspirin to children. Many of the roughly 100 people a year who die of aspirin overdoses are children accidentally poisoned by well-meaning parents. Use children's aspirin and follow carefully the directions on the label.

The first symptom of aspirin overdose is a ringing in the ears. That means you should stop taking aspirin, or, if you think you may already have taken too much, contact a doctor or poison control center.

Here is a rundown on some other pain relievers: —Anacin: aspirin plus the wake-up ingredient caffeine, about one-quarter the amount in a cup of coffee.

Anacin has slightly more aspirin per tablet than regular aspirin (400 milligrams versus 325 milligrams) but you take fewer tablets, so it all evens out.

—Bufferin: aspirin plus two buffering agents which help reduce the acidity of the stomach which causes some of aspirin's irritation. But the amount of buffering may be insufficient to completely overcome aspirin's acidity, and some doctors recommend taking aspirin with food, with a glass of milk or with an antacid like Maalox, Di-Gel or Mylanta.

—Alka-Seltzer: aspirin plus large amounts of buffers, adequate to overcome aspirin's acidity. But it is unwise to mix aspirin with alcohol since both irritate the stomach, diminishing Alka-Seltzer's value as a hangover remedy. Alka-Seltzer also has a high sodium content and so may be inappropriate for persons on a low-salt diet.

—Tylenol, Datril, Bayer Non-Aspirin Pain Reliever, Anacin-3, etc.: these all contain acetaminophen, the leading aspirin substitute. Acetaminophen has the same pain- and fever-reducing power as aspirin, but has no effect on inflammation and so is of little value in arthritis or pains that are caused by swelling. Acetaminophen provokes less stomach upset than aspirin. But it is not a harmless drug, and overdoses can cause severe liver poisoning. Some doctors believe the danger of overdose is greater in alcoholics, whose liver metabolism is altered by drinking.

—Combination drugs: Excedrin, Vanquish, Empirin Compound, etc.: these contain combinations of aspirin, acetaminophen, and other related pain relievers, plus caffeine and other mild stimulants, buffers or, in some cases, antihistamines to promote drowsiness (Excedrin P.M. for example).

Cookie sales to begin on Feb. 29

The 1980 Cookie Sale Kick-off luncheons were held this week in Abilene at the Girl Scout Service Center and in Big Spring at Furr's.

Service Unit Cookie Chairmen from the 15 counties of the West Texas Girl Scout Council attended the pre-sale training in order to help troop cookie chairmen prepare each Girl Scout troop to sell effectively.

Mrs. Jayree Shaw, council cookie coordinator, announced Feb. 29-March 15, as the time of this year's sale.

Bill Ayers, Fort Worth Representative of Famous Foods of Virginia, said that all Girl Scout cookies are made with 100 per cent pure vegetable shortening and all are absolutely free from artificial preservatives.

Seven varieties being sold in the sale are Thin Mints, Peanut Butter Patties, Sandwich Cookies, Shortbread, Peanut Butter Sandwich, Sesame Wheat Crackers, and the Granola Cookie. All seven sell for $1.50 a box, all seven can be kept in the freezer for year around enjoyment.

The Cookie Sale gives Girl Scouts an opportunity to earn money for troop activities. There are individual girl awards including a cookie patch, Brownie-Dad overnight, Camperships, and Cookie Currency credit for Council events and Wider Opportunities. The Council Cookie Pusher Award is given for selling the most cookies by a Brownie, a Junior, a Cadette, and a Senior Girl Scout.

The sale is held annually to build and maintain Council properties and to provide year round troop use of Camp Boothe Oaks at Sweetwater, for program activities, and national and international opportunities for girls and adults.

The Cookie Chairmen in this area are: Jane Doane, Big Spring, 267-6214; Debbie Burrow, Big Spring, 263-8952; Donna Fish, Big Spring, 267-1196; Mary Finch, Big Spring, 263-3104; Shirley Reed, Coahoma; Linda Smelley, Big Spring, 354-2251.

RUTH SWEATT Artist of the Month

Ruth Sweatt is Artist of Month

Ruth Sweatt has been recognized by the Chamber of Commerce as Artist of the Month of February.

"I have enjoyed art all of my life," says Mrs. Sweatt. "I can remember when I was in grade school, my mother would find me drawing when I was supposed to be doing my homework."

Mrs. Sweatt states that her mother encouraged her to stop drawing and start studying.

"She thought that I would starve as an artist," Mrs. Sweatt continues.

She took her mother's advice and finished high school and worked her way through college. While in college, she took several art courses and has taught arts and crafts in junior high and grade school.

Mrs. Sweatt completed her first oil painting in 1938 while she was teaching in Vincent, Tex.

"Delphia Gordon helped me with my first painting," she recalls.

By continuing to teach school for 38 years, Mrs. Sweatt was able to help put two boys through college.

"There wasn't much time for myself back then," Mrs. Sweatt states, "but when I retired in 1974, I decided that it was time to see if I could paint."

With the help of several local artists and a workshop or two, she was able to begin her painting adventure. Her favorite subjects are landscapes and buildings.

Besides being interested in painting, Mrs. Sweatt is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, Wesley United Methodist Church, Howard County Retired Teachers Association, Busy Bee Hobby Club, Wednesday Canasta Club and Associate Matron of Laura B. Hart No. 1019, and Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Rhodes presents program

The home of Mrs. Leo Parker was the site of the Feb. 7 meeting of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club. Eight members and one guest, Emily Pike, were present at the 9:30 a.m. meeting.

The program was presented by Zula Rhodes on "Adapting the Home for Retirement." She suggested ways to make the home safer for older persons.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Ruth Morton on Feb. 21 at 9:30 a.m.

New member welcomed

The Lomax County Girls Extension Homemakers Club met Feb. 11 at the home of Mrs. David Roberts. Mrs. Harvey Coffman was welcomed as a new member.

Three guests present were Mrs. Bertha Shires, Mrs. Gene Perry and Mrs. Herschel Romine. Mrs. Bob Adkins presided.

The devotion was read by Mrs. Roberts from II Corinthians 4:8-10. Members then voted to bake 10 cakes for the Big Spring State Hospital during the month of April.

Receiving the 'It' gift was Mrs. Romine. The club will meet at her home March 10. Bill Rogers will present the program on "The Cunts."

Project report given

The 1955 Hyperion Club held its February meeting in the home of Mrs. Charles Beil, 502 Highland Drive. A report was given on the club's project by chairman, Helen Mahoney.

The Club is working on directories for Canterbury House. The committee had a sample, which was approved for printing by the members.

The program was an original presentation of "Women in Literature." Lila Brewster, serving as narrator, introduced Ellen Ezell, Annie Mat Angel, Cecil McDonald, and Barbara Anderson, and the characters from literature whom they represented, spanning the centuries from the Greek era to modern literature.

Co-hostesses, Lois Cave and Pat Moore joined Mrs. Beil in serving refreshments using a Valentine theme.

Initiation ceremonies scheduled for Feb. 26

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met at 7:30 p.m. in the I.O.O.F. Hall at Ninth and San Antonio. Gay Smith, Noble Grand, presided. Twenty members were present.

The members voted to have initiation ceremonies Feb. 26.

Members also voted to help make silk flowers for the group after the meeting by the February refreshment committee. The committee including Grace Lee Grider, Delia Sullivan, Norma Newton, Lola Majors, Leona Hughes and Annie Branson.

Term Sweetheart, Earl Wilson, was honored as the members sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

The next regular meeting will be Feb. 19 in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Tissue Issue No Bowl Game

DEAR ABBY: What would you think of a daughter-in-law telling you at the dinner table that she thought you used too much toilet tissue? She said this right in front of her husband, my son!

I told her I would be happy to buy her some more toilet tissue if she was low on it, but she insisted she had plenty — she just resented my extravagance!

This same daughter-in-law informed me shortly after her baby was born that I would have to telephone a week in advance for an appointment to see the baby. Meanwhile, her mother runs in and out whenever she feels like it.

I am not a difficult mother-in-law, Abby. I have another daughter-in-law with whom I get along beautifully.

I am so upset about the way I have been treated that I am considering selling my property and using the money to travel and enjoy myself instead of leaving everything to my two sons. I am a widow (only 56) and am considered quite well-to-do.

The other son (with the nice wife) says I should sell everything, travel, and live it up. The son with the dreadful wife says, "Don't sell. Keep it. You'll get more for it later."

What should I do? If my husband were alive, he would leave nothing to the son with the terrible wife, since he never liked the girl. Your advice is needed.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: If it's necessary to sell your property in order to travel and live it up, sell it. Just keep enough to insure your future security. (P.S. Widows would be wise to discuss their financial matters with the trust officer of their banks, rather than with their children.)

DEAR ABBY: When a 17-year-old boy asks a girl to a school dance, how long should he be kept waiting for her answer?

The boy is our son, and the girl has kept him dangling for a week. I think she's keeping him dangling, hoping she will get a better offer, and if she doesn't get one, she'll go with him.

So, how long should he dangle?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If he's been dangling for a week, he should consider himself cut down and free to ask another girl.

Members to make lap robes

The Sew and Chatter Club met in regular meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ervin Daniel. Thirteen members and one guest, Mrs. Hazel Blair of Fantana, Calif., were present.

A round table discussion of nutrition and weight loss was held. One member brought a large number of cut quilt squares and plans were made to make them into lap robes for patients in V.A. Hospital and nursing homes. The club will have two quilts to make for sale soon.

The next meeting will be Feb. 27, in the home of Mrs. H.V. Crocker. The birthdays of Mrs. Lawrence Robinson, Mrs. C.M. Weaver and Mrs. A.C. Moore were observed.

Field trip planned

The Busy Bee Hobby Club met Feb. 7 at the home of Mrs. Lena Davis. A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by those present.

President Wilma Seyse called the business meeting to order and members made suggestions for projects for the coming months. Members will take a field trip in March.

Mrs. Hazel Reed was welcomed as a new member.

16 is too young to be tied down

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and have a boyfriend in the Marines stationed in San Diego. He is 18 and we talked about marriage after I graduate.

The problem is that I'm a junior and I can't date guys because we are engaged. I want to have fun my last two years in school, but I really do love my Marine. Please help. — Janet, Cortez, Colo.

Janet: Your letter plainly shows why 16-year-old girls should not be engaged or going steady with boys who are not close by.

The help I offer is to talk to your fiancé either on the telephone or in person on his next leave (no letters), and tell him the situation. If he is mature, he will understand and give you the freedom to be a 16-year-old junior in high school.

If he balks at this, tell him you care about him but that you are not willing to sacrifice your last two years of high school and that if he wants you, he will wait.

Dr. Wallace: My brother is a Scorpio and I'm a Leo and we fight constantly, like every minute we are together. We are driving our parents up the wall. I'm told that our signs are not compatible and there is no hope for us. Is this true? — Susie, Santa Rosa, Calif.

Susie: A good firm disciplinary program enforced by caring, understanding and loving parents will do wonders in making your brother compatible.

Dr. Wallace: I don't know who you think you are by telling a 16-year-old girl it's better to have her parents a little too strict than a little too loose.

This will make the girl go astray. And why shouldn't she? After all, her parents are telling her that they don't trust her.

Dr. Wallace: you wouldn't like it if your parents never trusted you. I'm so mad that I will never read your column again, I promise. I dare you to print my letter. — Velma, Nashua, N.H.

Velma: I don't see what being a little too strict has to do with trust, but why discuss your letter anymore because you aren't reading this column anymore. But in case you are taking a peek, I'm glad you didn't keep your promise and I love you and want you as a loyal reader.

Dr. Wallace: I am very much in love with a 22-year-old guy who has been living with another girl who recently had his baby. He told me last week that he doesn't love this girl and that he really loves me.

My parents do not like this guy and think he is a no-good louse. They think that I should not see this guy ever again. I'm 20 and confused. What should I do? — Mari, Fort Smith, Ark.

Mari: Your parents are wise and I agree with them 100 percent.

Influence comes early

NEW YORK (AP) — The sense of protectiveness and comfort that a Jewish child experiences within the family during his early years may determine the extent of that child's identification with Judaism as an adult, according to a survey.

The survey was conducted for the Central Conference of American Rabbis and the Jewish Communal Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee.

It was conducted in Little Rock, Ark., and in Chicago, and involved two groups in each city. One group included individuals active in the Jewish religious community who indicated their desire to pass on their Judaism to the next generation.

EVANGELISTS GARY AND CLAUDIA GALLEY

Galleys speak, sing

Evangelists Gary and Claudia Galley, Assemblies of God representatives for the Walter Hoving Home for Girls in Garrison, N.Y. will be appearing at the Evangel Temple Church, 2205 Goliad, on Monday at 7 p.m.

They are appearing in conjunction with a film showing of John Benton's best-seller "Cindy!" The full color motion picture will be shown free of charge and Pastor Terry Wilson invites the public to make special plans to attend.

A nursery attendant will be present during the service for those needing someone to care for their small children.

Jail, prostitution, and pimps become Cindy's way of life. How would Cindy escape all of this? Highly dramatic with scenes of intense emotion, the viewer will laugh and cry with Cindy and her three-year-old daughter, Melody.

Catholics promote credit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The education office of the U.S. Catholic Conference has set up a new agency, the Tax Credit Office, to promote the idea of educational tax credits for parents of youngsters attending private elementary and secondary schools.

National director of the office is Perry Edward Antony, former associate coordinator of education in the Florida Catholic Conference.

The Reverend Ole V. Olds, National Evangelist for the Church of God, will conduct revival services at the College Park Church of God, located at 603 Tulane, in Big Spring, according to the pastor, Rev. Earl Akin.

The revival is scheduled to begin on Wednesday, February 13, and will continue nightly at 7:00 p.m. through February 24.

Evangelist Olds has been in the ministry for thirteen years and is an ordained minister in the Church of God. Prior to his present responsibilities, the Reverend Olds served as a pastor for eleven years and as a State Evangelist for two years. He has been the guest speaker for numerous religious convocations. His ministerial experience and speaking ability make him an effective preacher and soul winner.

When not busy in evangelistic meetings, the Reverend Olds resides with his family in Fort Worth, Texas.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 16, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's new aspects can bring you all sorts of opportunities, so be alert at all times. Make sure that you understand with clarity just what others are expecting of you now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find out how you stand with others and do whatever is needed to improve relations. Try to understand your mate's views.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make new acquaintances who can help to enrich your life in many ways. Attend a group meeting that is worthwhile.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Allow time to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take part in new activities that are fine for you but first know all the facts concerning them. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your mate may have a change of attitude, so go along with new ideas for best results. Take it easy tonight and express happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show more interest in civic affairs and gain the respect of others. Make this a most productive day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve your environment so that it is more inspiring and brings you greater comfort. Come to a better understanding with mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what a good friend has to suggest for greater pleasure ahead. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get rid of whatever is causing disharmony at home and be happier in the future. Put your talents to work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to study a new project well before you put it in operation. Don't take any risks that could prove costly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make long range plans that could give you added income in the future. Come to a better understanding with family members.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are likely to be upset about matters you can't change, so concentrate on whatever brings you inner peace.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can understand both sides of a situation, so teach to stand up for what is right and success and happiness will follow. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

(AP LASERPHOTO) RATHER SUCCEEDS CRONKITE AS ANCHORMAN — Dan Rather, right, listens Thursday as Walter Cronkite answers questions at news conference at CBS in New York City. Conference was held to announce that Rather, the correspondent of '60 Minutes' is succeeding Cronkite as CBS anchorman.

Rather begins next year Cronkite to step down

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Cronkite, for many years one of the nation's most trusted television newsmen, will step aside early next year as 'CBS Evening News' anchorman for a man he calls "the champion" — Dan Rather.

"We — and you — will be in the best of hands," the grandfatherly Cronkite said Thursday in reporting the network's decision moments before signing off with his familiar "And that's the way it is."

CBS News' selection of Rather to succeed America's best-known broadcast journalist climaxed years of speculation as to who would guide network television's No. 1 nightly news program after Cronkite, who was anchorman and managing editor for the "Evening News."

"I can't think of anybody in this entire business," Cronkite told a crowded news conference Thursday afternoon, "who is as qualified as Dan Rather for this job."

CBS News President Bill Leonard said Rather, perhaps most-recognized for his tough questioning of President Richard M. Nixon during the Watergate scandal, had signed a new, long-term contract with the network. He would not discuss terms, nor would Rather.

Leonard said Cronkite would continue as "Evening News" anchorman, a position he has held since 1962, at least through the presidential inauguration in January. He said Cronkite, 63, would retain an active role with the network after that, covering hard news and special events and working on documentaries.

"I've inaugurated every president since Harry Truman, and I want to do more," said Cronkite, who in a 1974 Phillip-Sandler survey was chosen TV's most trusted and objective newsman. A 1972 Quoy survey gave him a "trust index" of 73, 17 points higher than President Nixon.

Leonard said the choice of Rather, clearly over CBS News colleague Roger Mudd, was in the making for some time. But the announcement was sudden, probably hastened by a desire to keep Rather at CBS.

Rather, a correspondent for "60 Minutes," CBS newsmagazine and TV's top-rated prime-time show this season, acknowledged he had "listened carefully" to other proposals. There was one report he had been offered $8 million for five years, a figure neither he nor network executives would confirm.

Cronkite, a former foreign correspondent for United Press (now United Press International), joined CBS News in 1950. Millions of Americans associate his presence with coverage of the space program and political conventions.

Rather, like Cronkite raised near Houston, joined CBS News' Dallas bureau in 1962.

Small nuke leaks common

WASHINGTON (AP) — Small leaks of radioactive gases from two nuclear plants, including Three Mile Island, caught public notice this week, but federal regulators say such leaks are not unusual and, in themselves, not dangerous.

"Before Three Mile Island they would never have had public attention. ... There was not a public health problem" in either case, said Dudley Thompson, acting deputy director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's office of inspection and enforcement.

The NRC staff was to make a report later today to the five-member commission about the two releases of small amounts of radioactive Krypton 85 gas from the crippled Three Mile Island plant in Pennsylvania earlier in the week.

Thompson said in an interview Thursday that the NRC's concern about the releases at Three Mile Island and also at the Calvert Cliffs reactor in Maryland stemmed partly from increased public sensitivity about any such reports.

NRC officials did not immediately have available the number of unexpected releases reported over the last 12 months, but Norman Moseley, head of the division of reactor operation and inspection, said they probably number 60 to 80.

In addition to unexpected releases, nuclear plants regularly release radioactive material which has built up in reactor waste treatment facilities.

Thompson said the agency wants to know about even small leaks to help alleviate any public fears, adding: "Since Three Mile Island, utilities are going to be a rather suspect source."

New rules, already approved by the five commissioners and expected to be published in a few weeks, would require reporting of virtually all unplanned releases of radioactive materials, no matter how small.

The Calvert Cliffs incident involved the release of 40 curies, well below federal limits, of radioactive Xenon-133 gas Monday and Tuesday. It was not reported and was only discovered by an NRC inspector reviewing plant logs.

The NRC staff has indicated unhappiness over the way the utilities reported the events, although small radioactive releases normally would not require immediate notification under current rules.

There are an estimated 3,000 to 4,000 incidents, mostly minor, reported to the NRC each year from nuclear power plants. But Moseley said he was not aware of any recent discharges of radioactive material above federal levels.

"Releases (of radioactive material) occur from nuclear plants all the time," said Thompson. He said the agency's concern is to make sure that the concentration of radioactive releases are within federal limits and that any unplanned releases are disclosed as soon as possible.

Given the complexity and size of a nuclear reactor, "there are bound to be some leaks" of radioactive material inside the plant, Thompson said. This material builds up in the waste treatment system and is periodically vented, within the federal limits, into the air or nearby water system.

For example, Robert Arnold, a vice president of General Public Utilities, owner of the Three Mile Island plant, said an average of 1,000 curies of Krypton 85 were released into the air each month during normal operation of the plant's Unit 1 reactor during 1978.

Coast Guard crew will testify now

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Now that crewmen from the oil tanker Capricorn are committed to a story, the commander of the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn says he'll tell his side of the collision that killed 23 of his crewmembers.

A lawyer for Capt. George J. Sepel said Thursday the skipper refused to testify last Saturday before a Marine Board of Inquiry because only Blackthorn crewmen had been called to the witness stand at that point.

Jerome Flanagan said Sepel was willing to testify all along, but "I wanted them (the Capricorn crewmen) committed to a story before they heard what our people said."

Adm. Norman C. Venze, head of the board looking into the Jan. 28 Tampa Bay collision, said Sepel would testify after the next scheduled witness, Blackthorn Ensign J. Ryan.

Since Ryan wasn't expected to take the stand until sometime today, Sepel wasn't expected to testify before next week. Ryan, who injured his back in the collision, has attended the hearing in a special orthopedic wheelchair.

Meanwhile, Coast Guard officials said a "test lift" of the sunken buoy tender had been scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday. But a spokesman said there was a chance an attempt might be made late Friday to lift the Blackthorn from 50 feet of water in Tampa Bay.

When he refused to take the stand, Sepel cited the military equivalent of the Fifth Amendment, which protects against self-incrimination.

"We had had two eyeball witnesses from the bridge of the Blackthorn and I thought it was about time we heard from somebody on the bridge of the Capricorn," said Flanagan.

Most of Thursday's session was taken up by the continued testimony of Lt. David B. Crawford, the Blackthorn executive officer, who was the 13th witness on the 13th day of testimony.

Crawford repeated earlier testimony that he tried to radio the tanker Capricorn shortly before the crash and received a garbled reply.

Meanwhile, divers examining the sunken cutter Thursday morning were startled to find a gash 30 feet long and 10 feet wide in the hull of the sunken cutter — six feet above the Blackthorn's water line. The ship had been resting on that side.

That seemed to support the earlier testimony of a

Blackthorn crew member who said he saw the tanker's 12-ton anchor embedded in the cutter after the collision. The crewman theorized the anchor and its heavy 900-foot chain pulled over the 180-foot cutter.

The anchor apparently tore free and was found on the bottom of Tampa Bay after the cutter sank. The heavy chain remained attached to the Capricorn as the 605-foot vessel swung around and ran aground. Then it was cut off.

Nine bodies have been recovered so far. Divers found none of the 14 missing crewmen Thursday.

After the cutter was pulled into an upright position Wednesday the Coast Guard had hoped to begin a compartment-by-compartment search for bodies. Spokesmen said the ship wasn't yet stable enough for divers to enter all the flooded compartments.

Under cross-examination Thursday, Crawford admitted he wasn't sure what ship made the garbled reply he heard on a handheld radio just before the crash. And he said he couldn't be sure the call was a response to his own call.

He said he had tried to reach the Capricorn when it was about two miles away by calling, "This is the Coast Guard Cutter Blackthorn outbound, over."

Crawford said he heard a garbled answer that sounded like, "... just out of anchorage... there shouldn't be any problem."

He said Ensign Ryan was on the bridge looking with binoculars in the general direction of the oncoming vessel. He said its lights just became visible as the ship emerged from behind a brightly lit Russian cruise ship.

Eagle Pass teen-ager bitten by rabid cat

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) — An Eagle Pass teen-ager, bitten and clawed by a cat believed to be rabid, has flown to London to take a series of anti-rabies vaccinations not yet available in the United States.

Blake McBeath, 18, is the second Eagle Pass resident this month to travel to England for the Human Diploid inoculations John David Sumpter, 5, flew to London Feb. 5 after he had been bitten by a cat confirmed to have rabies.

Andy McBeath said his son was bitten and clawed on both legs Jan. 31, by a cat that officials believe was the same animal that bit the Sumpter Youth Feb. 3.

"He didn't report that he was bitten. He thought the shots would interfere with his baseball and would be too painful. He thought they were just minor bites and claw marks. He later talked to a nurse friend who convinced him of the seriousness," said the elder McBeath.

He said his son began taking anti-rabies shots in Eagle Pass last Sunday. However, he said they decided to send his son to England when a doctor in Atlanta told them the Human Diploid vaccine was better and less painful.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not yet approved the use of the Human Diploid vaccine in the United States.

Anti-rabies treatment in the United States includes a painful series of 21 shots. McBeath said the treatment in England takes only a couple of days.

Three children from Eagle Pass or its sister city, Piedras Negras, Mexico, have died of rabies in the last year. Authorities in the border area conducted massive pet vaccination drives last year in an effort to combat the outbreak.
