LOOKING THROUGH THE RUBBLE — Fire officials inspect the remains of a low-income apartment complex in suburban Wauwatosa near Milwaukee, Wis., that burned Monday. Authorities suspect arson in the blaze, and federal officials are calling for an investigation. Residents of the suburb protested last week when they learned the building, under construction, was to house low-income families.

On local housing industry

Capehart will have impact

By JAMES WERRELL

The Big Spring City Council today was provided with a crystal ball forecast for the future of the city. That forecast came in the form of an 86-page economic impact analysis of the closure of Webb Air Force Base prepared by Economics Research Associates. An overview of the findings in the report was given at today's regular council meeting by Fred Sutton, project leader for the company.

The report dealt with three areas which will be affected by the base closure: residential real estate; the Big Spring Independent School District; and fiscal operation of the city itself.

In two of the three areas, the firm used three different population growth scenarios, zero, low and high to compute possible impact. For the school district, the firm included negative population growth statistics.

According to the report, the Capehart Housing Complex at the Industrial Park will play a large part in the local housing picture for the next five years.

The complex comprises 258 buildings, providing 460 dwellings. Most of these will cost $25,000 or less, and most will be sold within the next year, said the report.

"We foresee that supply of housing in this area, from $12,000 to $20,000, will exceed the demand through 1985. The greatest surplus will occur in 1981," said Sutton.

In relating this housing shift to the future of the school district, the report estimates that 18 students per year will move to the Capehart Complex. Applying the different population rates, the report listed scenarios ranging from a net decrease in student enrollment of 196 in a negative growth situation, to an increase of 451 students in a high growth situation.

"The school district is still in the contraction phase following the base closure. We predict, though, that if the student population increases, state aid will increase proportionally," said Sutton.

In the area of fiscal operations, the report stated that when the base closed, the economic base of the city was insufficiently diversified.

"As the city and county grow, so will the need for funding," said Sutton.

According to the report, only 30 percent of the city's General Fund revenues are provided through property taxes. The other 70 percent comes from sources such as sales taxes, fees for services, fines and other income producing areas.

"As the population increases, so will the level of expenditures. With rising expenditures and an added 10 percent inflation factor adjustment, the city will have to look for some way to provide funding," said Sutton.

Mayor Wade Choate feels that the residential shift may cause problems in the future.

"This brings back reminders that some areas in the city will have a large number of unoccupied homes under $25,000. People are moving up, and we may see a decline in the condition of the areas they are moving out of," he commented.

Choate added that city officials had been aware of the situation facing the school system, but that something must be done to insure financing for the city in the future.

"The city gets only 30 percent of its money from taxes. Because of inflation and other increased costs, some adjustment will have to be made. Reevaluation of property will help, but that may not be enough," he concluded.

Administrative guidelines, not state law, overlooked

Administrative guidelines, not state law, were overlooked by city staff last Friday, City Manager Don Davis said Monday.

The policy breach came last Friday when the city posted notice of the Big Spring Steering Committee meeting at the airport; this contrasted with a practice of previous months where the agenda was publicized on the first floor of city hall.

"They (steering committee's agendas) use to be posted at the Industrial Park," Davis said. "When it came to my attention, then I had it posted downstairs."

Davis added, "Friday we didn't do it."

The steering committee is a seven-member board responsible for advising

U. N. commission may withhold info on exiled shah

The U.N. commission left Tehran today with a veiled threat to withhold its report on the alleged crimes of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi until it is allowed to see all the American hostages.

"The commission is not in a position to prepare its report and has informed the Iranian authorities accordingly," the five-man panel said in a statement as they flew to Switzerland and New York after their 17-day visit ended without a visit to the captives.

During a stopover in Zurich, Commission Co-Chairman Mohamed Bedjaoui of Algeria, told reporters the panel's mission "was not a failure, but of course we are disappointed. It was a step on the road. But it was not a failure," an apparent reference to some of the evidence collected in Tehran.

The commission left without seeing the approximately 50 hostages after Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini backed the demands of their militant captors, and Iran's Revolutionary Council rescinded its decision to take custody of the Americans who began their 129th day in captivity in the U.S. Embassy today.

Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who saw the commission off at the airport, said he hoped the panel would return to Iran to finish its work. But he reiterated the regime's position that freedom for the hostages will be decided by Iran's new Parliament, which won't convene for another month.

"The commission's task in investigating the crimes of the ousted shah has not faced a failure. It's departure is just a temporary halt," Ghotbzadeh told the official Iranian news agency Pars. "The commission could carry out its mandate completely and without halt with a bit of patience."

He also said an unidentified member of the Revolutionary Council met with the hostages at the embassy late Monday night and "it was proved again that the hostages are healthy." He did not elaborate.

A spokesman for the Iranian foreign ministry told Pars that the commission members were headed to New York to consult with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and would return to Iran to resume their work. Asked about that, commission member Louis-Edmond Pettiti of France shrugged and answered "perhaps." Bedjaoui said: "We haven't reached the end of the road."

Bedjaoui flew to New York today from Zurich. Three other commission members went to Geneva and the Frenchman to Paris. All were supposed to arrive in New York on Wednesday.

In a separate development today, Tehran Radio announced that three members "of the former regime and the dissolved Savak" were executed by firing squad at Evin prison in Tehran after being found guilty of "corruption on earth and waging war against God." The broadcast was monitored in London.

Before the commission members left Tehran, Ghotbzadeh got into a heated discussion on the runway with one of the militants who arrived unexpectedly to turn over a package of documents from the embassy files. What the argument was about was not immediately known, but the militants have accused Ghotbzadeh of being a liar.

The embassy captors, after setting conditions last week for a meeting between the hostages and the U.N. group which the latter rejected, announced Thursday they were ready to give the Revolutionary Council custody of the captives and let it proceed with the meeting. Then over the weekend they set new conditions for the transfer of custody and demanded Ghotbzadeh's replacement as the council's representative in the transfer.

The council then went to Khomeini, the 79-year-old religious leader of the Iranian revolution, but he backed the embassy militants. Reviving their conditions that the U.N. panel rejected previously, he said the commission could question hostages the militants said were involved in crimes against Iran but could not see all the Americans until it issued its "report on the crimes of the deposed shah and interventions of the invading United States in Tehran."

The commission refused and packed its bags.

City engineer's contract voided by city council

Following a meeting in closed executive session today, the Big Spring City Council voted to void its contract with Engineer Roy Crim.

This is the second time in which Crim's responsibilities to the city have been cut. The engineer had been on permanent retainer with the city for mapping consulting and surveying services at $3,000 a year.

In a move to cut costs in the fiscal budget for 1979-80, many of these services were dropped by the city. Crim had, however, been under contract for projects at the Big Spring Industrial Park, and others involving Economic Development Administration monies.

Today those services were also terminated.

"There are two exceptions, and those are already under way," said Councilman Larry Miller. "He will continue to work on the upgrading of the water and sewer treatment plant and the renovation of the airport terminal. All other projects will be dealt with on an individual basis."

"It was just costing the city too much money," said Councilman Bill Henkel.

"It was something the city couldn't afford to maintain," said Miller.

In other action discussed in closed session, and then later approved, the council voted to pay City Detectives an additional $2,662.36 for car expenses.

In 1979, the council voted to pay detectives a car allowance for use of personal cars, instead of providing city cars for use on the job. This plan was abandoned this year, when buying city cars was deemed more economical.

But the detectives had incurred more expenses than their car allowances had provided for, and today the council voted to pay the money back.

"This is an 80-20 proposition. That $2,662.36 figure represents 80 percent of the expense," said City Manager Don Davis.

In the final issue to be discussed in closed session, councilmen were advised that the city was responsible for damages to the John Wayne Americana Club when a city sewer main backed up into the lounge.

Damage to carpeting and cost of deodorizing the facility came to approximately $2,230. Members voted to award not more than that amount, and empowered City Attorney Elliott Mitchell to negotiate on costs where money can be saved.

Democrats won't support bill taxing benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic members of a House Aging Committee panel today called a proposal to tax Social Security benefits a "sham" and vowed to support legislation prohibiting it.

Rep. John Burton, D-Calif., who chaired a hearing on whether to levy a tax on Social Security income, conceded that it would be politically unwise for Congress to do so.

In opening statements, Burton and at least six other colleagues told an advocate of the new tax that they would hear him out but "are approaching the issue with a closed mind."

Henry Aaron, chairman of the Advisory Council on Social Security, smiled and commented that he felt like a man invited to his own lynching.

"The proposal to tax half of Social Security benefits would treat Social Security like private pensions, rather than like welfare," he told members of the subcommittee on retirement income and employment.

Aaron, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, a private research organization, said the council believes the Internal Revenue Service made a mistake in 1941 when it ruled that Social Security benefits were not taxable. Aaron said the agency wrongly viewed the income as a form of gift or gratuity.

Aaron also recommended that Congress enact legislation increasing the retirement age at which a person can receive full benefits from 65 to 68, effective around the year 2000.

Under present law, the benefits of those who retire between 62 and 65 are reduced by 6.67 percent a year, and the benefits of those who continue working after age 65 are increased.

Thelma Rutherford of the Gray Panthers organization for elderly persons opposed any tax or increase in the age for Social Security payments.

Instead, she proposed that the financial dilemma of the Social Security retirement trust fund be met by reducing the unemployment rolls and scrapping mandatory ages when a person must retire.

She said the situation is now that "some of the elderly have to put back groceries when they reach the checkout counter because they don't have enough money to meet the sum run up on the cash register."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: It's the law

Q. What is the state law about passing on a bridge that has two-way traffic?

A. We've been asked this before. It is illegal to pass anyone when approaching a bridge and within 100 feet of it. However, once you are on the bridge you can pass, provided there is no double stripe down the middle of the road.

Tops on TV: 'Plutonium Incident'

CBS presents a version of the China Syndrome tonight with its 8 p.m. Movie, "The Plutonium Incident." Janet Margolin and Bo Hopkins star as a group of workers at a plutonium processing plant become aware that the site's safety conditions are dangerously inadequate.

PBS offers something at 9:10 p.m. which may be fascinating to young and old. "TV: The Fabulous Fifties" takes a look at the experimental days of TV's youth, featuring clips from dozens of the early programs. Highlighting the program will be Lucille Ball, David Janssen, Michael Landon, Mary Martin, Dinah Shore and Red Skelton.

Calendar: Farmers meet

Firefighters follow police

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City firefighters, who last week rejected a contract offer, have followed the lead of Philadelphia police in filing for binding arbitration, union officials say.

The announcement Monday came as negotiations between Mayor William Green and the Fraternal Order of Police remained at a standstill. The FOP expects arbiters to be selected and begin meeting within a month.

Both departments face a July 1 contract deadline, and both have lost officers to a March 1 furlough brought on by a projected deficit of $167 million. Green said last week that binding arbitration could add to the city's financial woes.

Ringleader convicted

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — The alleged ringleader of a gang shootout that left five people dead in a San Francisco restaurant faces life in prison after being convicted on murder charges.

Tom Yu was the last of four members of the Joe Boys gang to be convicted in connection with the 1977 killings at the Golden Dragon. He was convicted Monday on five counts of first-degree murder, 11 counts of assault with intent to commit bodily harm by force and two counts of conspiracy to commit murder.

Pan Am starts sale

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American Airways passengers could save up to $2,257 with what the airline says is the first international 2-for-1 fare.

The special rate, announced Monday to mark National Airlines' merger with Pan Am, will be given to passengers who travel between March 10 and April 9 on any National flight between Florida and New York or Washington, D.C.

Those taking the flights will be issued passes so that two persons may travel for the price of one from May 15 to Dec. 15 on Pan Am or National routes between the United States and eight countries or between New York and Los Angeles or San Francisco.

Officials plead innocent

MIAMI (AP) — Two Dade County school officials have pleaded innocent to grand theft charges in what has been dubbed here the "gold plumbing caper."

Trial for Johnny Jones, who was suspended as superintendent, and Solomon Barnes, suspended as principal of MacArthur South High School, was set Monday for April 21. Prosecutors contend the men tried to use $9,000 of district money to buy luxury plumbing fixtures, some gold-plated, for private use. Defense attorneys said they would challenge the constitutionality of the indictments, the evidence and the law under which the men were charged.

Larger sewer mains are proposed by committee

The Sanitary Sewer and Water Committee voted the extension of larger sewer mains and the extension of the sewer treatment plant outfall line to a point closer to the receiving stream as priority items in a meeting held Monday evening in the City Hall Council Room.

Second on the list of suggested improvements to the sewer system is a package arrangement that calls for in-place repair of damaged sewer lines and the installation of additional manholes so that the maintenance of sewer lines may be more readily accomplished.

Two suggestions will be incorporated in the third recommendation approved by the committee. They include the replacement of the Banks lift station and the installation of an Ozon generator at the Birdwell lift station, which would assure freshness of sewage received at the sewage treatment plant, and lower the hydrogen sulfide content of sewage influent to the sewage treatment plant.

Two items will also be combined on the fourth recommendation to be presented to the city council March 25. They include the purchase of a Vector-Jet and mud pump plus purchase of sludge handling equipment or land acquisition for sludge disposal.

Dr. Kenneth Patrick, chairman of the Sanitary Sewer and Water Committee, urged as many committee members as possible to attend the March 25 meeting.

Local student council named vice-president

Big Spring High School Student Council won the office of vice-president at the Spring Forum of District Student Councils in Crane Saturday.

The local council was also named Outstanding District Student Council for the fourth straight year. Andrews High was also named as an outstanding council in the district.

Other officers named were: president, Andrews High; secretary, Andrews High; treasurer, Colorado City High; parliamentarian, Kermit High; junior high program director, Kermit Junior High; Outstanding Safety School was Kermit High.

All officers will serve for the 1980-1981 school year. Big Spring had been serving as secretary-treasurer for the past three years.

Saturday's program was headed by Mark Minnis, a nationally known motivational speaker from Kansas. He conducted leadership workshops throughout the day.

Next year's fall forum and spring forum will be held in San Angelo and Andrews respectively.

Representing Big Spring High at the forum were: Craig Drake, Tiffany Whiteside, Steve Drake, Brad Small, Lisa Leal, Becky Stephens, Julio Cerda, Shana Hohertz, Debbie Archer, Charlotte Beil, Cathy Weeks, and Felicia Ford. Sponsor was Vice-Principal Craig Fischer. After a brief visit to the Council stopped at the new Permian Mall in Odessa before returning to Big Spring.

Carter to raise wage guidelines 2 1/2 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is preparing to raise his administration's voluntary wage guidelines to allow pay increases of up to 9 1/2 percent this year, but labor leaders say their support for worker wage restraint won't last much longer if inflation escalates further.

Government and labor sources said Monday Carter has decided to accept a union-backed proposal to loosen the wage guidelines from last year's 7 percent ceiling to a range of 7 1/2 to 9 1/2 percent — and even higher for some workers who receive cost-of-living raises.

The sources, who declined to be named, said Carter will announce the revised guidelines as part of a major speech he is expected to deliver within a week on his new inflation-fighting efforts, including a renewed drive to balance the 1981 budget.

A Pay Advisory Committee of representatives from business, labor and the public proposed nearly two months ago that Carter adopt the higher guideline figures. But final action by the president was delayed because of an unsuccessful struggle by some government officials to tighten the committee's proposed guidelines — a position strongly opposed by labor leaders.

At a meeting of the pay committee Monday several business and labor officials complained that the administration was taking so long to approve the guidelines that they soon would become outdated by changing economic conditions.

Carter's chief inflation adviser, Alfred E. Kahn, refused to tell the committee whether the president had decided finally to accept the panel's guideline proposals, as sources have continued to say. He did not want to preempt Carter's own announcement. Kahn promised a formal response from the president would come within a matter of days.

though I can not tell you how many days." Meanwhile, in the seven weeks since the panel proposed the higher guidelines, inflation has shown signs of accelerating from last year's 13.3 percent rate, and labor leaders warned that even a 9 1/2 percent wage ceiling will be unacceptable if inflation continues to surge.

Right track

DETROIT (AP) — The Rev. Larry Lee Shaver, who works for the Lutheran Church in America as a combination pastor and parish developer, wants to build a church to serve an area here. But since there is not a whole lot of desirable land around, he plans to build it over the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks.

The up-in-the-air church will be called Christ the Servant Lutheran Church, he said.

Preliminary contacts with the city and the railroad have turned up no major objections to the plan, he said. The project is estimated to cost $1.5 million.

Please notify

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lecturer was about to address a business association here when the association's director reminded its members.

"Every week we pay return postage for mail that goes to our members and is not deliverable because you have moved, changed your post office box number or died without letting us know."

Theft suspect held in jail

Lawrence Eugene Delaney, 21, 507 E. 17th, was transferred to county jail today where he is being held on $10,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

The bond was set after his arrest on suspicion of theft over $200 and under $1,000. He is also under arrest on a parole violation. Bond has been denied on that charge.

Delaney allegedly stole a car Wednesday from Kent Brown, 1629 E. Third, and was arrested in Lubbock.

Delaney's parole officer, Juan Hernandez, midland, is in Big Spring today.

Five-year-old is injured

Fernando Morales, Jr., 5, Coahoma, fell from the cab of a pickup Monday morning and received a head laceration. He was admitted to Malone-Hogan Hospital.

The child's mother also fell from the cab. They were among seven people in the cab of the truck. His mother, Guadalupe Morales, was also cut in the fall but not admitted.

NITA TARBET HONORED BY LIONS
Ed Shive presents coveted plaque

Lions Honor Nita Tarbet during ceremony Monday

Nita Tarbet was presented the Outstanding Citizen of the Year Award by the Big Spring Evening Lions Club during a meeting held Monday evening. Lion Ed Shive made the presentation.

Mrs. Tarbet said she was emotionally touched by the surprise announcement and gave credit for her success in overcoming her childhood world of silence and isolation to her teacher.

"What I am today is because a teacher took time to help a dirty, ragged, handicapped child."

Mrs. Tarbet then gave a sign language version of the song "Feeling" for the benefit of the Lions, their ladies and other guests.

Mrs. Tarbet is the third recipient of the Evening Lions' Club award. Past recipients of the coveted plaque have been Clyde McMahon Sr. and Johnnie Lou Avery.

Nita is the wife of Bob Lee Tarbet, a stillman at Cosden's refinery here. She is the mother of three children, ages 18, 16 and 14.

She is a teacher's aide at Forsan and previously has served in that capacity at Midland, Big Spring and Coahoma.

She attended elementary school at John Tracey Clinic in Los Angeles, Calif. The school, incidentally, was named after the son of actor Spencer Tracy. The son was also deaf.

Mrs. Tarbet attended high school in North Hollywood, Calif., San Fernando Junior College and Hollywood College.

She has given upwards to 150 speeches on problems of the deaf. She has been on television and has served as a disc jockey on radio. Her hobby is art.

She has received awards for her art and for lip reading.

ROSE VOTES — Rose Kennedy casts her vote today in Palm Beach before going to morning mass at St. Edwards church and then to do some shopping on Worth Ave.

Reagan, Carter favored to win three southern primaries today

Ronald Reagan and President Carter bid for solid southern endorsements today as Georgia, Florida and Alabama held presidential primary elections keynoting a crucial, three-week burst of campaign competition.

While conservative Republican Reagan and Georgia Democrat Carter ranked as the favorites in the contests, they will be tested again, and again, in 15 states that could point to the outcome of the campaigns for the White House nominations by April 1.

There were precinct caucuses to judge the candidates of both parties in Washington tonight, Alaska, Hawaii and Oklahoma held Democratic precinct caucuses.

Sen. Edward Kennedy has given Carter something close to a bye in the southern primaries. The Democratic challenger already has turned his attention to Illinois, which votes next Tuesday. The delegate stakes are far higher there, and the political climate more inviting to the senator from Massachusetts.

But Kennedy did mount an election-eve radio campaign in Tampa and Miami, Fla., trying to capitalize on Carter's admission that his administration blundered in voting for a United Nations resolution critical of Israeli settlements. In that advertisement, Kennedy said the vote would jeopardize Israeli security. He said the vote made U.S. foreign policy the "laughingstock of nations throughout the world."

But Kennedy, who defeated Carter for the first time in Massachusetts, kept his southern investment to the bare minimum.

Carter is virtually uncontested in his home primary in Georgia, and his advocates are asking for a shutout. At a minimum, they want to do better in Georgia than Kennedy did at home in Massachusetts, where he gained 65 percent of the vote to Carter's 29 percent.

In a dwindling Republican field, Reagan's only major southern rival was George Bush, who said he would be satisfied "to be reasonably close" to the former California governor. He didn't define that in numbers. "Everybody assumes that all three of these states are strong Reagan states, and I know that," Bush said.

He took some comfort in weekend public opinion polls showing Bush narrowing the gap in Florida — but those were conducted before Reagan won the South Carolina primary by landslide Saturday.

That runaway led John Connally to withdraw from the race. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee quit last Wednesday.

Rep. John Anderson of Illinois bypassed the contests to compete in his home state. Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois scaled back his campaign, saying only a miracle would give him the nomination. Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas has said his campaign is "on hold."

That left Bush in the two-way race against Reagan that he always said he wanted — but in states that made his task forbidding. "I'll take all I can get," Reagan said Monday. "I'll take a victory in all three states."

Former President Gerald R. Ford, on the brink of a second campaign for the White House, was due in Washington on a political tour featuring a GOP fundraising speech tonight.

But Ford wasn't ready to make a move. An aide, Robert Barrett, said the former president wants to assess the results of today's primaries and the Illinois contest before deciding whether to run.

Today's voting began as early as 6 a.m. EST in Alabama, and at 7 in Florida and Georgia. Most of the polls will be closed by 7 p.m. Florida was the biggest prize, and the most closely contested.

The Democratic ballot there matched Carter, Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who is skipping everything until the April 1 Wisconsin primary. The Florida primary awarded 100 Democratic nominating votes, apportioned on the basis of candidate showings in the state's congressional districts.

The Florida GOP ballot listed Reagan, Bush, Anderson, Baker, Connally, Crane, Dole, Harold Stassen and Benjamin Fernandez.

There were 51 GOP delegates at stake in Florida. In Georgia, where former Mississippi Gov. Cliff Finch and two other minor candidates are on the Democratic ballot, the primary was for 63 votes for the presidential nomination.

Gov. George Busbee asked for a massive show of support for Carter, who got 83 percent of the vote four years ago.

First lady Rosalynn Carter has said she wants a shutout — all 63 home delegates for Carter and none for Kennedy.

Even in Georgia that's a tough target, since the president would have to get 85 percent of the vote in each congressional district.

The Republican field is like Florida's, dropouts and all. That primary will award 36 nominating votes.

In 1976, Reagan swept Georgia with 68 percent of the vote, after Ford got 53 percent to beat him in Florida.

Alabama was holding its first presidential primary, for 45 Democratic delegates and 27 GOP nominating votes. The southern returns seemed certain to enlarge Reagan's lead in delegates. He now has 62, to 36 for Bush.

The caucuses in Washington began the process of selecting 37 Republican delegates, and while they weren't bound to candidates, Bush got a boost there with the endorsement of Gov. Dan Evans.

The Democratic delegate count entering Tuesday's competition was 115 committed to Kennedy, 87 for Carter. Kennedy got his edge in Massachusetts; Carter was a cinch to reverse it in the South.

In addition, Carter campaigners say he is assured of at least 55 delegates in Minnesota, where Democrats have caused but returns are still coming in by mail.

Democratic caucuses tonight will sample candidate strength in competition for 58 delegates in Washington, 42 in Oklahoma, 19 in Hawaii and 11 in Alaska.

The first of an expected 2 million Floridians voted this morning, some of them in the rain. The early turnout was very heavy in Broward County and in the St. Petersburg area to light in Jacksonville and Dade County (Miami).

The voter turnout was described as light in Georgia and Alabama, but elections officials in Georgia predicted a good turnout because of mild, sunny weather. Skies were fair and temperatures warm in Alabama, where officials said they expected 500,000 of the state's 2 million registered voters to cast ballots.

Two face $3,000 bail set charges

Efrain Montoya Mier and Pedro Montoya were transferred to Big Spring Monday from Reagan County Sheriff's Office in Big Lake. Mier is charged here with aggravated robbery and burglary of a habitation. Montoya is charged with burglary of a habitation.

The two were in Big Lake for grand jury proceedings. They are charged there with two counts each of aggravated assault and robbery by assault, according to District Clerk Hazel Carr.

Humberta Mier is also charged there with two counts of each offense. He was transferred to Big Spring Feb. 15.

Allegedly the three burglarized the home of Jose Garcia Rodriguez and Maria Rivera Rodriguez in Reagan County and in the course of the burglary committed another offense that constituted aggravated robbery.

Humberta Mier is also charged here with burglary. All three men have been transferred to Howard County jail. Humberta Mier was freed Feb. 28 on $20,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin.

Bond on Efrain Mier is $50,000 for the aggravated robbery charge and $20,000 on the burglary of a habitation charge. Bond on Pedro Montoya is $20,000 on burglary of a habitation charge set by Hefflin.

All three were arrested by Dallas Police Safety Trooper Phil Upton in San Angelo Jan. 5 during a routine traffic stop.

Deaths

Ina Wallis

COLORADO CITY — Ina Wulfen Wallis, 95, a former Colorado City resident, died at 4 a.m. Monday at Tucson, Ariz. Services are pending at a Tucson funeral home.

Born Aug. 14, 1884, in Round Rock, she came to Colorado City with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wulfen, in 1885. She had lived in Colorado City until 1917.

Survivors include a daughter, Ina Jo Stott of Tucson; two sons, Ben and Bert, both of Tucson; a sister, Dera Winn of Colorado City; nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Police beat Residence vandalized; cassette player stolen

The residence of O.H. Daily, Jr., 1709 Johnson, was ransacked and vandalized Sunday. Entry had been gained by the back door, which had been kicked in.

Included in the damage were a color television, sheet rock, the back door and a clock. A gallon of paint was poured on the living room carpet. Value, $1,044.

Alvine Free, 1302 Stanford, reported an eight-track cassette player stolen from her vehicle while it was parked in front of her residence between Thursday and Monday afternoon. The vehicle had been left unlocked.

A man went into Big Spring Cook Wholesale, bought merchandise and then assaulted Donna Millaway while she was working Monday morning.

Two mishaps were reported Monday.

Vehicles driven by William Boadle, 103 Jefferson and Truly Edgington, 3055 Nineteenth collided at Tenth and Lancaster, 4:28 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Jana Wegner, Gall Rt. Box 192 and Donna Swindell, 1905 Wasson collided at the 300 block of Tenth, 1:20 p.m.

Campaign against 'windfall profits'

Opponents working on 8 senators

WASHINGTON — Several hundred opponents of the pending tax on "windfall" oil profits gathered on a lawn a few hundred yards from the Capitol Tuesday morning, kicking off a second-day assault of Lobbying against the revenue measure.

Under a flag hoisted atop a portable oil derrick along Pennsylvania Avenue, the demonstrators, mostly independent oil producers from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, divided up the names of congressmen that must be contacted if the tax bill is to be changed before congress passes its own compromise version.

But even among the key organizers of the three-week-old movement, the chances of major changes in the bill appear slim.

"We're realistic and we don't know how effective we can be in getting what we want out of this bill," said William Watts of Woodboro, Texas. "If we can change the minds of eight senators we'd be happy but that will be hard to do."

The trip to Washington probably would never have occurred if not for a House-Senate conference designed to iron out the two separate versions of the windfall tax passed by the two bodies.

The Senate, led by Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, exempted independents who produced less than 1,000 barrels a day from the tax, for a total of $197 billion. The House version, however, carried no such exemption.

The dollar amount on its bill was some $297 billion. The compromise adds $50 billion to the Senate total, of which independents are set to pay some $22 billion over the proposed seven-year life span of the tax.

Watts, an independent oil producer, agrees with his brother independents the name of the tax is wrong. "This has nothing at all to do with profits, it doesn't even address profits. It's an excise tax on oil at the wellhead and it's something the consumers are eventually going to have to pay," said Watts, a partner in North American Production Co.

The point missed by most of the people involved in oil policy and consumers as well, Watts claims, is the pivotal role of independents, who explore for all the domestic oil and plow back an estimated 105 percent of their income into new exploration.

"I can't give an estimate, but there are going to be a lot of plugged wells. A lot of stripper wells (marginal production) are not going to stay in production when their profit is taken away," said Watts.

The independent oil lobbyists have taken pains not to pick a fight with major oil companies in their talks to Congress, organizers say, but there is resentment nonetheless.

"We didn't want to battle with the majors, but it's gotten down to that," Rep. Charles Morgan, an Oklahoma state representative, said. "They go overseas and every penny they spend in royalties and drilling benefit from foreign tax credits. "The independents do all the domestic drilling and Washington aims this law at the very people who are finding U.S. oil.

"The majors have their professional government relations people here all the time, they influence a great deal of what goes on here. We've been taken advantage of."

The group will parade through Washington Wednesday and then continue attempts to send the windfall tax compromise back to the drawing board before congressional action, expected in late March.

15-year-old being questioned

UKIAH, Calif. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy has been arrested for investigation of the kidnapping of Timmy White, the 5-year-old who was brought to freedom by another kidnap victim, police said today.

Ukiah Police Chief David Johnson said the 15-year-old was arrested Monday and booked at Mendocino County Juvenile Hall for investigation of joining Kenneth Parnell, 48, in the Feb. 14 kidnapping of White in Ukiah.

Parnell also has been charged with the kidnapping of Steven Stayner, now 14, seven years ago in Merced. Stayner brought the younger boy to freedom.

Americans only count for revamp

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements wants the 1981 Legislature to count only American citizens in population totals used in redrawing legislative and congressional seats, Secretary of State George Strake says.

Strake spoke Monday to the State Republican Executive Committee.

Clements has asked the Census Bureau for figures showing numbers of non-citizens, including illegal aliens, in all Texas census tracts.

Strake said Clements plans to use the data to "assure the Legislature doesn't violate the one-man one-vote principle by diluting the voting strength" of citizens.

Strake said he believed Clements would "get what we want from" the Census Bureau.

B.D. Daniels, chief of the secretary of state's elections division, gave as examples two different congressional districts, each with 500,000 people but one located near the Mexican border and the other in North Texas.

The border district might have only 300,000 American citizens in it while the North Texas district might have 400,000.

"That's unfair. That's not one-person one vote. ... We want to have the data base to assure that the Legislature reapportion on the basis of citizen count, not the total count," Daniels said.

Clements told the Census Bureau in his letter that the U.S. Supreme Court had held in a case from Hawaii that non-citizens may be excluded from the population count used in redistricting.

He said creating districts on the basis of both citizen and alien population would be unconstitutional because it might dilute the voting strength of minority citizens.

The governor demanded a count of the aliens in each census tract.

"I feel so strongly about these points that I am willing to state publicly my opposition to your efforts to count all illegal aliens unless the Bureau of Census so revises its redistricting data program," Clements said in his Feb. 13 letter to the bureau.

Weather Scattered showers forecast for today

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast today for much of Texas.

Forecasts called for cloudy skies statewide and scattered showers in northern, southern and western sections of the state.

Highs were to range from the upper 60s in the Panhandle to the 80s in South Texas.

Light rain was reported during the night in West Texas.

High-speed train rail is not a pipe dream

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An inside track on gaining federal funding is at stake in the race between Ohio and Texas to become the first state to have a high-speed rail test track.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-Youngstown, mentioned the rivalry Monday night at a hearing on his bill to locate a 20-mile test track between Warren and Ashtabula.

He said Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-Toledo, has been advised by officials in Texas that "they intend to be first." But Meshel thinks Ohio can and should win the race.

He predicted that the first state to build a test track eventually will see it become a national facility.

Wilkowski has been in the vanguard of lawmakers seeking development of a rail network linking major cities in Ohio and connecting with urban centers in neighboring states.

Meshel said the increased interest by Texas, which has hired expert Japanese consultants, should serve as proof to skeptics in the Legislature that a network of high-speed passenger trains serving Ohio and the Midwest "is not a pipe dream."

The House is considering an identical companion to Meshel's bill as a way of speeding the hearing process, the Mahoning County lawmaker told the Senate Highways and Transportation Committee.

Under his proposal, the Legislature would be empowered to move forward with acquisition of the land for the test track and of a similar area near Marion for use as "a land bank," Meshel said.

The legislation also authorizes acquisition of a high-speed passenger rail research facility for studying methods of moving trains at speeds of 130 miles per hour and faster. Research also would be conducted by the facility into methods of using Ohio coal as railroad fuel, the senator said.

"Jobs would be created immediately in the Trumbull County area," he added.

The senator said Ohioans must realize that the need for rail travel in the future should be obvious, because of the energy problem and spiraling costs of highway travel, and, increasingly, the inability of the airlines to meet demands made upon them.

"The air is filled with planes of all sizes," he said, adding that airports such as O'Hare in Chicago and Kennedy in New York are so crowded that many people fear to land there.

"Catastrophes are missed every day from inches," he said.

He also said his bill does not contain funds for acquiring the land and research facility, but suggested to the committee, which is headed by Sen. Thomas E. Carney, D-Girard, that it might want to add an appropriation. Meshel estimated the cost of planning and land acquisition at $2.7 million.

The cost of Wilkowski's envisioned network of high-speed corridors in Ohio has been estimated at $6 billion to $10 billion. But he has said often that the federal government will have to get into the picture at some point, and that Ohio should be in a position to capitalize on it when that time arrives.

No change in Tito's condition

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Doctors treating Yugoslav President Josip Broz Tito reported today there had been no essential change in his condition overnight.

The 87-year-old Communist leader was reported in "very grave" condition on Sunday and his eight physicians have not changed their assessment since.

Rationing plan would prove costly

An organization known as Highway Users Federation is working to keep the government from adopting a gasoline rationing system and makes some good points.

Even now, the U.S. Department of Energy is proposing a standby gasoline rationing plan which would go into effect if there were a 20 percent shortfall in supplies of gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oil, although just how the shortfall would be measured remains unclear.

IN COMMENTING ON the proposal, the HUA says, "Because of the plan's far-reaching effects, the public has a right to know exactly what the Department contemplates doing."

HUF says the plan would cost $2-5 million a year to administer. It would require 5,000 additional federal employees plus another 5,000 state and local employees. The taxpayer, however, would pay a far greater price by allowing DOE to redistribute income through a coupon sales scheme.

DOE would give coupons worth about 40 gallons of gasoline a month to owners of personal vehicles. Anyone not needing the coupons could sell them — for whatever price they could get — to those who need fuel.

DOE estimates the coupons would sell for about $1.60 a gallon, which would entitle the holder to buy gasoline at the going retail price. As of now, the cost at the pump, plus the cost of the coupon, means the motorist would be paying something like $2.80 a gallon for gasoline.

In effect (says the HUF), the government would be godfathering the transfer of money from individuals who need to drive a lot to those who rely less on the automobile.

IF, AS DOE forecasts, coupons could be sold for $1.60 a gallon, 40 coupons a month would be worth $64, a nifty $768 annual bonus for an individual or family who could muster 40 coupons a month to sell. The sellers would be subsidized by individuals or families who need extra coupons. For instance, many Eastern urbanites could be expected to reap a windfall at the expense of Westerners who don't have alternate transportation available. With 143 million licensed drivers in this country, the transfer of cash and coupons would become a massive cottage industry.

The highway user would not be the only one who would pay dearly. All Americans would be permitting DOE to set national priorities by deciding who would and would not be exempt from rationing, a far-reaching power to surrender.

Perhaps the most crucial point (says HUF) is that once rationing has been triggered, DOE's plan contains no mechanism for shutting it off. Like any other government bureaucracy, it could go on forever.

The Highway Users Federation suggests we look very carefully before we leap.

Memories

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Several weeks ago I had the pleasure of attending the Ray Price concert at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It was a very good concert despite the lack of people in attendance.

I have always liked the music of Ray Price — ever since I began listening to country-western music in college. He has a very easy listening style and a style that is very easy to dance to. In fact, I learned to dance to some of his songs.

I BECAME HOOKED on country-western music when I was a freshman in college. I was working my way through school as a waitress in a small barbecue cafe outside of my hometown. All that was ever played on the sound system was country music. After a while I began to like it.

It was soon after that I learned to dance to the music. I was a hopeless country music addict after that. Dancing to country music is fun and great exercise. You are dancing with someone not dancing at them. Also you can talk to the person you are dancing with. I have had some great conversations with people I have danced with. It's a great way to get to know someone.

Dancing, plus waiting on tables, kept me in shape while I was in college. Working and going to school left little time for a formal exercise program.

While listening to Price sing, many pleasant and some not so pleasant memories came crowding back. I had lots of fun at the Saturday night dances in Navasota. There was little else to do in my hometown besides cruise the streets and waste gasoline. I made many good friends at the dances, friends that have lasted over the years.

Then when I moved into an apartment in College Station after having commuted for three years, I started going to the dances that were held at a place called Lakeview.

LAKEVIEW WAS the social event of the week for many students at A&M. It was a fairly large place and many students packed the place for an evening of socializing and dancing. With the ratio of men to women at A&M at that time, women didn't have any trouble finding a partner. Getting together with a group of my friends at Lakeview was one of my favorite pastimes.

All these are pleasant memories brought back by the singing of Ray Price. But the one unpleasant memory was that of a very close friend of mine. I met him at one of the dances in Navasota and he became one of my best friends. The memories of him are pleasant, the memory of his death is not. He was killed in an automobile accident about a year ago. He was on his way home to Hempstead after one of the Saturday night dances when an on-coming car swerved into his lane and crashed head-on with him. He was thrown from the car and his neck was broken. He was only 24 years old.

This weekend I will have a chance to return to my old stomping grounds. I will be going home for the weekend to visit my family. I also plan to get reacquainted with some of my old friends. Maybe the band will be playing some of Ray Price's songs.

Scam ignored

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Of all the prosecutions against officeholders now in various stages of progress, the most fascinating is the FBI's Abscam investigation. This has involved FBI agents in bedsheets posing as Arab oil moguls trying to buy influence from susceptible congressmen.

But the Justice Department, has shown less interest in the real Abscam, which involves genuine Arabs passing out petrodollars to curry favor with the White House. The authentic Arab scams apparently have struck too close to home, implicating members of President Carter's personal and political family.

GIVEN THE SPECIAL difficulties of detecting the gossamerlike crimes of politicians and the advantages they have over ordinary felons in avoiding prosecution, the FBI filmed the bribery scenes. The cameras caught congressmen collecting bribe money from the phony sheiks and stuffing the cash into their jeans.

"Does it show?" asked Rep. Richard Kelly, R-Fla., as he straightened out a $25,000 bulge in his pockets. Rep. Raymond Lederer, D-Pa., allowed that he was "no Boy Scout" as he allegedly pocketed a $50,000 bribe, and Rep. Michael Myers, D-Pa., was heard on videotape remarking: "Money rides. Bulls — walks." The distinguished Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., was reportedly seen engaged in an unseemly tug of war with an intermediary for possession of a briefcase bulging with $50,000 in bribe money.

The embarrassed politicos have denied the implications of these memorable scenes. Their discomfort, meanwhile, has provoked outright glee inside the White House. The fact that most of the compromised congressmen are fellow Democrats has not diminished the hilarity. For the Georgians who occupy the White House have developed an intense loathing for the Congress people who so often have thwarted them.

The phony Arab influence-buying scheme has also deflected the attention of the press and public from actual Arab influence-buying schemes that could embarrass the Carter's administration. Here are some of the genuine Abscam operations that the Justice Department is contemplating with noticeable reluctance:

BILLY CARTER'S LIBYAN CONNECTION — The president's flamboyant kid brother has come under investigation as a possible agent of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi's terrorist-coddling government. Billy junketed to Libya and was treated like royalty by the Libyans who picked up the first-class airline, hotel and limousine bills for his entire party of eight Georgians. The Libyans also handed out expensive gifts, including a silver-embossed saddle for the president's brother.

Qaddafi hoped Billy would put in a good word with the president for release of $60 million worth of U.S. transport planes to Libya. The sale had been embargoed because of the Libyans' support of international terrorist groups. It's unlikely Qaddafi would have unrolled the red carpet for a gas station proprietor named Billy Smith.

ROBERT VESCO CAPER — Qaddafi enlisted the aid of international swindler Robert Vesco in another attempt to spring the embargoed transport planes. This led to the intersection of an old Texas buddy, James Day, with Democratic National Chairman John White. When White later met with the Libyan ambassador for drinks at a rooftop restaurant, the FBI filmed the rendezvous.

White subsequently told a federal grand jury that Day had asked him to set up a meeting between the ambassador and President Carter — a request, White swore, that he had refused. The names of White House staff chief Hamilton Jordan and Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher were also mentioned before the grand jury, but no solid evidence was offered linking them to the plot.

The grand jury was convinced, nevertheless, that a genuine bribery attempt had been made, involving some $30 million in potential bribes — far more than the few hundred thousand in the FBI's fake Arab scam. Yet the grand jury's request for a modest $33,000 to continue its investigation was ignored by the Justice Department. And a recommendation by the department's public integrity section that a special prosecutor be appointed was rejected by Philip Heymann, head of the criminal division.

BERT LANCE CASE — The president's former banker and budget director, now on trial in Atlanta for alleged banking crimes, was bailed out of a financial jam by a Saudi Arabian businessman. Lance desperately needed to sell his stock in the National Bank of Georgia. The obliging buyer, who paid far more than the market price was Ghaith R. Pharaon.

It turned out the Pharaon was the son of Saudi King Khalid's chief adviser on American affairs. Indeed, Pharaon admitted to me that he had bailed out Lance on the recommendation of his father who was not averse to doing a multimillion-dollar favor for a man close to President Carter.

Not long afterward, Lance and some Arab associates were accused by the Securities and Exchange Commission of illegally covering up an attempt to take control of a Washington banking firm. The case was settled quickly.

Footnote: Jimmy Carter is not the only contender with questionable ties to Middle East oil moguls. In a future column, I will examine Republican John Connally's Arab connection.

Jimmy's Texas

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The burly stranger seated at table No. 1 with President Carter and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt at the White House state dinner March 5 is the key to Carter hopes for carrying Texas in November: Pevton McKnight, a state senator and oil wildcatter who is one of the richest, most powerful men in east Texas.

McKnight has been an outspoken critic of Carter administration energy policies and votes the conservative line in the Texas legislature. But since following then Gov. Allan Shivers into support of Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower as a young legislator in 1952, McKnight has been a loyal Democrat.

ACCORDINGLY, HE shunned pleas from his good friend, Republican presidential hopeful John B. Connally, and instead accepted the invitation of yet another Texan, Carter campaign chairman Robert Strauss (who was responsible for McKnight's seating at the Schmidt dinner). McKnight is raising funds for Carter from fellow oilmen (the amount fast approaching $100,000) and is one reason for optimism by Texas Democrats that the president can carry the state against any Republican except Connally. ANDERSON'S THIRD PARTY?

Republican leaders have their fingers crossed that Rep. John Anderson really meant it on NBC's "Today" program that he is considering a third-party independent race for president following his certain rejection for the Republican nomination.

It is much too late for Anderson to get on the ballot in many states as an independent candidate, but even a few will drain critical votes away from probable Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter. That's because Anderson's support in Republican primaries has come not from Republicans but from Democratic voters crossing over to back him as a bonafide liberal without Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's perceived character flaws.

A footnote: Middle-road Republican congressmen who had backed Anderson for House party leadership are furious with his statement that he could not support any Republican presidential candidate who opposes the SALT II treaty. That covers every Republican hopeful but Anderson.

BYRD TOPS ENVIRONMENTALISTS

The fact that President Carter on March 5, after weeks of indecision, decided against the environmentalist lobby on coal conversion regulations can be attributed in large part to one of the most powerful figures in Washington: Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia, majority leader of the Senate.

As Carter vacillated and agonized over what to do, Byrd was on the telephone nagging for the president to decide. The senator, representing a major coal-producing state, made clear how much he wanted that decision to favor an Energy Department scheme and oppose a rival plan by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

The EPA version would have made the present Clean Air Act provisions even more stringent in converting utilities from oil to coal. EPA Administrator Douglas Costle pressed hard on this theme in sometimes heated meetings, playing on Carter's environmental concerns. But whatever the president's philosophical inclination, he ultimately heeded Byrd's counsel in an election year.

How air travel causes ear stoppage

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: In about two weeks I will be taking a commercial air flight. My previous experiences have been painful. On landing, it seems that my neck glands are going to explode from the pressure. My ears stop up and I get a bad headache. I have tried chewing gum, yawning, etc. I might add that on the evening of my arrival I have to be in top condition because I will be meeting people important to my husband's career. Do you have any suggestions for me? — Mrs. C.

What you feel is a common complaint. On landing, the atmospheric pressure changes in an aircraft and the auditory (eustachian) tubes close. These tubes lead from the throat to the middle ear. When they close, a vacuum is created in the middle ear. Blood vessels expand and leak fluid. This produces the stopped up ears and fullness in the throat.

Swallowing, chewing gum and other maneuvers do not work for all. Sprays are available to shrink membranes covering the auditory tubes and keep them open. A decongestant (phenylephrine) taken by mouth might help.

Even if you decide to try some of the medicines mentioned, you should continue to try the other tricks, like constant swallowing during descent. Good luck.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My scalp and hair are very oily, even after I shampoo. Can you give me any suggestion as to what I can do about this condition? — M.J.K.

It is not clear why some people produce more skin oil (sebum) than others. Frequent shampooing with a mild soap often is all that's needed. If that does not clear the condition, using a shampoo with selenium sulfide for a short time may help. In stubborn cases, steroid lotions can be tried briefly — such as one with 0.1 (one-tenth of 1 percent) of betamethasone. People with the problem should avoid excessive perspiration.

In answer to another question, there are medical conditions associated with excessive skin oiliness. It is seen in Parkinson's disease, for example. The booklet, "Good Health for Your Hair," might offer other clues. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: We're studying endocrine glands in our health class and we thought you could tell us more about the thymus and the pineal. Our textbook gave us almost no clue to function and the books aren't very new. We would appreciate anything you could tell us. — T.G.

Do I have to do this in 25 words or less?

The pineal gland sits on top of the brain. Its function is only now beginning to be understood. One substance produced by the pineal is melatonin. This seems to help us know when it is day or night. In fact, its production depends on the presence or absence of light.

The thymus (located in the upper chest in adults) "programs" certain white blood cells to recognize what is and what is not "us." If the body is invaded by foreign substances (like bacteria), these programmed white cells mobilize to fight off invasion.

I'm afraid we're not going to get terribly far with this answer, T.G. A book titled "Textbook of Endocrinology" (by Williams) explains more fascinating things about these structures. "Gray's Anatomy" is another good and easily available source for information.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A while back, a wood tick got behind my ear. I pulled it off. About three days later it scabbed. This fell off, but another formed. I still have sores there to this

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like very much to believe in life after death, but I simply see no evidence for the survival of the soul. Can you give me any evidence? — T.A.C.

DEAR T.A.C.: Throughout history men have wondered about life after death, and most have believed that life after death was probable. For one thing, there seems to be an instinctive sense in the heart of each of us that this life is not all and that we were born for eternity. The Bible says God has put his feeling in our hearts. "He has also set eternity in the hearts of men" (Ecclesiastes 3:11).

But is there any evidence? Let me ask you a question: What kind of evidence would it take to convince you that there is life after death? Wouldn't the most convincing proof be if someone died and then came back to life again and could tell us if there was life after death? I think you would agree this would be evidence of the strongest kind.

And that is what happened to Jesus Christ. The tough Roman soldiers who nailed Him to a cross had undoubtedly witnessed many deaths. When they took Jesus' body from the cross there was no doubt that He was dead. He was placed in a tomb, and the tomb was sealed. But several days later Jesus Christ was alive! Paul, writing about two decades after Jesus' resurrection, pointed out that He had been seen by over five hundred witnesses. "Most of whom are still living" (I Corinthians 15:6).

My concern is not so much your immediate pain as the fact that this sore has not healed. This may mean a foreign body is present or that malignant changes are taking place. I don't want to scare you or others who may have an innocent sore. But everyone should follow rule No. 1: A sore that does not heal needs to be examined. Get this done, OK?

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you give me some information on vitamins for hair? I ordered some by mail and now I wonder about it. — Mrs. A.F.

Honestly, A.F., I just don't know of any vitamins "for hair" — except under most unusual circumstances, like near-starvation. Then you'd need them all. I guess the place to write would be the company selling the vitamins. They may know something I don't.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

witnessed many deaths. When they took Jesus' body from the cross there was no doubt that He was dead. He was placed in a tomb, and the tomb was sealed. But several days later Jesus Christ was alive! Paul, writing about two decades after Jesus' resurrection, pointed out that He had been seen by over five hundred witnesses. "Most of whom are still living" (I Corinthians 15:6).

But I must warn you about one thing. Apart from Christ, you are not prepared for eternity. Yes, you will live after death, but if you do not know Christ you will be doomed to an eternity alone, apart from the presence of God. That is why Christ came — to give you the gift of eternal life. Our greatest problem is our sins, and it is sin which eventually separates us from God throughout all eternity. But Christ died for your sins on the cross, and He rose again from the grave to demonstrate beyond doubt that He has conquered sin and death and hell. Turn to Christ and trust Him for your salvation. Then you too can have the hope of eternal life.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Democratic voters get a chance May 3 to say who they think the Democratic presidential nominee should be.

Or they can vote "uncommitted." The 35-27 decision was made Monday by the State Democratic Executive Committee after nine months of indecision.

The non-binding voter opinion poll will have no direct effect on selection of national convention delegates who will choose the nominee.

In some ways the "beauty contest" balances a similar poll by Texas Republicans, although the GOP straw vote directly affects selection of national convention delegates.

Backers of the Democratic referendum, including supporters of Sen. Edward Kennedy, claimed the poll was necessary to gain voters' views.

Opponents, including many supporters of President Jimmy Carter, contended it had no practical value and would just divide the party. As a result, the May 3 Democratic primary ballot will ask:

"From the following, who is your preference for the Democratic Party's 1980 nominee for President?"

"1. Jimmy Carter.
"2. Edward Kennedy.
"3. Edmund G. Brown.
"4. Uncommitted."

The order on the ballot was decided by a drawing at the committee meeting.

The "uncommitted" choice was added by a 34-28 vote.

State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg, an avowed backer of Carter, said he had spent the last 10 days checking "grassroots" sentiment and found "little or no enthusiasm for a poll on the ballot ... there have been no requests from any of the candidates."

Goldberg said he thought the question should be decided on the basis of "what is best for the party ... we are not depriving anyone of a right to vote.

They can come to the conventions and discuss the candidates all they want."

"This is an opportunity for the people of Texas to take part in the Democratic process," said Richard Solo, Dallas, a Kennedy supporter. "Let them state their feelings, not ours."

"This will lead to bitterness in the end, it will confuse the voters, it is very dangerous and detrimental to the party," said Bob Hauge, Houston.

"A presidential primary may be cosmetic but it will get the people out to the polls and that is what politics is all about," said Frank Thompson, Houston.

"A convention is very easy to railroad contrary to the will and wish of ordinary Democrats," said Frank Aldrete, El Paso.

The state Democratic committee decided last July against picking national convention delegates on the basis of a presidential straw vote, as Texas Republicans will do. The Democratic delegates to the New York convention will be picked on the basis of "sign-in" polls taken at each of the 31 senatorial district caucuses in the June 20-21 state convention in San Antonio.

Earlier, Goldberg welcomed any of the supporters of John Connally, and the former governor himself, if they wanted to return to the Democratic Party. Connally, a former Democrat, quit Sunday as an aspirant for the GOP presidential nomination.

"We are not out to exclude anyone," Goldberg said. "Many of these people I predict will be disenfranchised because their favorite son spent $10 million in the GOP ranks and won only one delegate ... In fact, I would like, today, to welcome him (Connally) back if he wants to work with the party. Of course, he won't be chairman of the board or queen of the May, but we welcome him."

Goldberg quoted from political polls taken in early 1979 and in February. He said these showed that Democratic strength among Texas voters has increased from 39 percent to 56 percent, while Republicans are only about 20 percent of the voters.

He said this increase was due to two things — hard work by the state Democratic party and "the poor and insensitive performance of Bill Clements, the Republican governor."

Dunagan's $100,000 gift

First endowed professorship for UTPB goes to Dr. Olien

The first endowed professorship for The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, made possible by a $100,000 gift from J. Conrad Dunagan of Monahans, has been awarded to Dr. Roger Olien of Midland, UTPB chairman of history.

Olien, an associate professor, was named the "J. Conrad Dunagan Fellow in History" at a meeting of The University of Texas System Board of Regents in Houston Friday.

Dunagan's gift establishes an endowment, the income of which will support research and writing on regional and business history.

UTPB President V.R. Cardozer said the establishment of the first endowed professorship is a landmark step in the development of UTPB.

Regents also accepted a $20,000 gift from Louis Rochester of Odessa — the first installment on a pledge of $100,000 which will eventually support a second professorship. Rochester, chairman of the board for Murphy and Rochester of Odessa, is chairman of the UTPB Development Board.

Several years ago, Rochester was the primary developer of the Coronado Hills addition in Big Spring and last year he was governor of Rotary District 573 which includes Big Spring.

Dunagan, a long-time friend of the university, also serves on the Development Board. A scholarship contributor himself, he was instrumental in establishing the Permian Honor Scholarship Foundation, which provides scholarships to outstanding graduates of Permian Basin high schools to attend an area junior college for two years and UTPB for two years. He is chairman of Permian Coca Cola Bottling Co.

The UTPB Development Board also includes two members from Big Spring — John A. Currie and Joe Pickle.

First women in state customs

Patrolwomen ready to work

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — Four Texas women, sworn in as the state's first customs patrolwomen, are ready to begin the training that will soon have them patrolling the Rio Grande for smugglers.

The four were sworn in Monday and are to report to the U.S. Customs Service Academy in Brunswick, Ga., by Wednesday.

There, Ofelia Estrada, 30, of El Paso; Ramona Martinez, 26, of Harlingen; Maria Ochoa, 26, of Mission, and Josephine Plata, 25, of Texas City, will undergo 16 weeks of training in basic law enforcement.

Jack Compton, director of the U.S. Customs, said the patrol division in Laredo said specialized customs law enforcement training will come later. "They will patrol with the men until they get some experience," Compton said, "but they will have the same duties as their male counterparts."

"We work between the points of entry, right on the (Rio Grande) river (which separates Texas and Mexico). We deal with smuggling only."

Under the umbrella of the U.S. Treasury Department, customs agents confiscate drugs, weapons, electronic equipment and other contraband forbidden from crossing the border.

They do not deal with illegal aliens, who are the primary responsibility of the U.S. Border Patrol under the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Monnier was sent back home and ordered to return to the barracks Monday after finding a babysitter.

Incumbents are running again

FORSAN — Ballots are being printed for the April 5 alderman race in the City of Forsan.

The election likely won't create too much excitement in Forsan, since the only names which will appear on the ballot are the incumbents — the mayor and two aldermen.

J. L. Barron, who was elevated to the mayor's post when Jack Lamb died, will seek another term.

Also, seeking reelection will be aldermen L.M. Casselman and Jim Alexander.

Curiosity almost kills Abilene 'cat' Monday

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Louise Green had been curious about her husband's locked wooden box since his death in November of 1976.

Finally, her curiosity got the best of her and while doing some spring cleaning Monday, she pried it open.

Inside, she found some personal papers and a live .30-millimeter cannon shell.

"I kept shaking and shaking (the box) until this live bullet fell out," she said. "I thought 'God almighty, it could have blown up,'" she said.

The shell was about 55 years old, she said. Her husband had been in the National Guard and saved it without her knowledge since 1926.

THE ONE WAY

by B.W. Briggs, Minister

Last Tuesday we began teaching the Word of God through this form of media. We are thrilled at the opportunity and pray it will enrich your life. After all, if the Bible were not inspired, or God-breathed, as some say, it would still be the most enriching piece of literature available to man! Among the many things spoken of in last week's article, was the origin of our article title. I explained that we in the churches of Christ believe that there is unity to be found, and that it is God-demanded; God-provided; God-preserved, and God-breathed. I asked the question last week, "IS THERE ONLY ONE CHURCH?" Well, I affirmed that there indeed was. This week I'll let God speak on the subject. I mean, He's earned the right hasn't He? The Bible does teach that there is but ONE CHURCH. In Ephesians 4:4, Paul begins by saying that there is ONE BODY. If we can find out what the body is, then shall we know already of its quantity. There is only one body says the apostle Paul. Keep in mind now that Paul claims to be speaking in the Spirit. For that check the third chapter, verse five. Also, Paul claims to teach every congregation or church the same thing. For that proof see 1 Cor. 4:17; 7:17; 14:33. Therefore, whatever Paul says to the Ephesian brethren, he says to all of the brethren everywhere! Now, let's define what the body is. In that same letter, chapter one and verse twenty-one, Paul says that the church is the body. He states that Christ has been made head over all things to the church, which is HIS BODY, the fulness of Him that filleth all in all. Let me ask you some questions. What is the fulness of Christ? The Bible says the Church is! What is subjected to His feet? The body of the church is. The universe, though it does not see Christ himself visibly, sees him when they see the church. Now, let me ask you another question. How many heads does the church have? Paul said in Ephesians 4:5 there is but one Lord. Since Christ is Lord and there is but one Lord, then how many heads does the church have? Obviously, it has but ONE. Well, how many bodies does the Lord have? ONE says Paul! Only one, none others. You can add one and one, can you not? It gives you two everytime, doesn't it? Well, Paul says there is but ONE LORD and ONE KINGDOM. Paul says there is but ONE HEAD and ONE BODY! Next week we will examine some texts that religious leaders use to prove there is more than one church. How they can say that is a contradiction in the terms of God; but nonetheless, they say it! Until next week, count up all the churches you can see if you find oneness even in Big Spring. WEST HIGHWAY 80 Church of Christ

Names in the news

MARGARET THATCHER      JOHNNY CARSON

Prime minister all there is

PARIS (AP) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher says she does not think of herself as a woman. "I regard myself as a prime minister." Mrs. Thatcher's comment came during an interview on French television Monday night when asked how her all-male cabinet officers regard her. "Do not forget that I have had years of training as a lawyer and a scientist," she said. "The thing I notice is that I therefore tend to look at things much more logically than my colleagues. "Maybe it is that women are much more logical, much more reasonable, much more sensible, and I also tend to make up my mind very quickly."

Toilet trademark nixed

OTTAWA (AP) — A john might be a portable toilet or a "a client of a lady of negotiable virtue," a Federal Court of Canada says, but "Here's Johnny" is just too readily associated with Johnny Carson and "The Tonight Show" to be allowed as a trademark for portable toilets.

Carson had appealed a decision by the registrar of trademarks to allow William Reynolds, of St. Catharines, Ont., to use the trademark for his business of renting portable outhouses.

Before making his decision Monday, Justice Patrick Mahoney accepted as evidence in which 63 percent of those polled in a random survey connected "Here's Johnny" with Carson or his show.

Therefore, the phrase was not registerable as a trademark without Carson's permission, he ruled.

Singer honored at home

NEW YORK (AP) — Millie Jackson made her reputation in Brooklyn — but she's not sure it's one the New York City borough wants to note.

The soul singer, whose shows and gold albums contain some off-color banter, was stunned when Borough President Howard Golden called to say that Friday would be Millie Jackson Day in the community where she first gained fame.

They said the borough president would be at the ceremony, said Miss Jackson, who will perform that night at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. "They said it was to set an example about Brooklyn. And I said, 'Are you sure it's me you want? I'm the example you want?'"

Novelist creates fund

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — James Michener, whose best-selling novels have made him one of America's favorite authors, has established a $500,000 endowment for young writers at the University of Iowa.

"The single goal of this endowment is the publication of better books," said Michener, 73, in announcing the gift Monday. Grants from the fund will give struggling writers "six more months of paid grocery bills or another year of typing."

Michener, whose works include "Tales of the South Pacific," "Hawaii" and "Centennial," said he is "naturally worried about who is going to come along to take my place."

Deadline for capping of oil spill passes

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — An unofficial deadline for capping a runaway Mexican oil well has passed and U.S. Coast Guard officials say they still have not received an expected invitation to help recover oil at the Bay of Campeche site.

"They anticipated something all day and nothing came in," a spokesman for the Coast Guard's national pollution control team in Washington said late Monday.

Officials of Pemex, the Mexican national oil company that owns the well, and Coast Guardsmen agreed in February to set March 10 as a target date for shutting off the pesky well's 9½-month-old flow.

U.S. and Mexican leaders had agreed that if oil still leaked by that date, Pemex could invite the Coast Guard to bring oil-skimming equipment to the well.

Jose Luis Garcia Luna, head of Pemex's offshore exploration, said crews have lowered the well's output to 400 barrels a day. When Ixtoc 1 blew out June 4, it was spilling an estimated 30,000 barrels a day into the Gulf of Mexico.

Some oil traveled 500 miles northwest and blackened miles of South Texas beaches in August and September.

If Pemex asks for Coast Guard clean-up assistance, a seven-member team with two skimming barriers would be sent, said Lt. Harry Vaughan of Corpus Christi.

The crew would be part of a specialized Pacific strike force, directed by Lt. Cmdr. Jim O'Brien. He helped draw up the agreement with Mexican officials last month about cooperative efforts at the well.

U.S. officials say capping efforts are not as crucial now as two months ago, when oil was polluting Gulf waters at 10,000 barrels a day or more. But there still is oil in the water, and if we can collect it at the source, that is for the best," Cmdr. Joe Valenti, director of the national pollution control team, has said.

The Coast Guard would not be involved in actually capping the well. Crews have been pouring salt water and drilling mud through two directional wells in preparation for final cementing.

Bad weather reportedly has hampered work at the well.

Capt. Gerald Hinson, on-scene coordinator for a regional monitoring team in Corpus Christi, said last week 400 barrels a day easily could be handled by the special team.

Strong southerly currents off the Texas coast have kept most oil far away from U.S. waters this winter. The current gradually will break down this spring.

A Coast Guard ship reported finding two new patches of oil on Monday.

Hinson said one was 12 miles long, ranging in width from 600 yards to four miles.

4-H'ers practice energy conservation tips

From LINDA FUCHS
Assistant County Extension Agent
While people can't do much about the weather, they can do something about soaring energy costs.

People often forget about low or no cost homes. 4-H'ers are learning that parents aren't the only ones who can conserve energy but that they can help too. They have learned that they can save a lot of energy by practicing things they know they should do but sometimes don't.

Here are some energy conservation tips which 4-H'ers would like to share with you.

1. Turn out lights when you leave a room; they add unnecessary heat on hot days as well as electricity.
2. Keep doors and windows closed securely to keep in air-conditioning in the summer and heat in the winter.
3. Take short showers approximately 4 minutes instead of tub baths.
4. Keep water heaters between 120-140 degrees F.
5. Match the pan size to burner size when cooking.
6. Use lids when boiling water or cooking foods.
7. Fix leaky faucets, you can lose up to 60 gallons of hot water per week.
8. Be sure there is no extra space around vent pipes; seal with duct tape boards or other insulative material.
9. Use plants to add moisture to air during the winter.
10. Wrap hot water pipes to prevent heat loss.
11. Open and close doors quickly.
12. Keep filters clean.

Last Will An ILL Testament

DEAR ABBY: You rattled my cage with your advice to HURT IN ORLANDO, telling her to keep quiet after helping a well-to-do aunt in so many ways, then learning that this aunt was leaving her nothing in her will.

You should have told her to speak up. Sometimes elderly people need to be reminded of the favors people do for them.

It could be nicely put, such as: "I have enjoyed shopping for you, paying your bills, doing your paper-work, taking you to dinner, cashing your checks and looking after your home. Why have you never considered remembering me in your will?"

She surely couldn't take offense at that. I never could bring myself to tell my father of the many injustices I suffered from his thoughtlessness. Now that he is gone, I regret deeply that I never spoke up. It may not have changed the way he left things, but I would have felt better if I had spoken my mind.

MRS. A. IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR MRS. A.: A reader in Rockville, Md., feels that my advice was on target as far as it went, but that it didn't go far enough. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Hold the phone! You told HURT IN ORLANDO (after she'd written that she took her aunt out to dinner, did her shopping, handled her paper-work, paid her bills, cashed her checks, looked after her home, etc. - and got left out of her will. "Keep quiet. Your disappointment is understandable, but it's her money and she has the right to do whatever she wishes with it.")

Shades of opportunism! Echoes of greed! Don't you think your advice should have included something like the following: "Congratulations, dear. Not all of us get the opportunity to help someone else in such a clear-cut way. Your good feelings as a result should far outweigh the loss you now feel. Surely when you did these things for your aunt, you had no motive in mind such as ultimate payment."

Abby, whatever happened to Judeo-Christian ethics? Whatever happened to the lessons taught by the Good Samaritan, by Jesus, by Moses through the Ten Commandments? Whatever happened to plain common decency-without money as a goal?

Good God! And I'm not even a church-goer. What must the religious fraternity think?

GEORGE H. LEONARD

DEAR GEORGE: If the "religious fraternity" had any thoughts on the subject, they didn't share them with me. But read on for a worthy suggestion from a reader in Denver.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SYRACUSE SUE: A smart girl never tells a man that he's "too old" for her; she tells him that she's "too young" for him.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Lennodine Dunlap retires from Southwestern Bell

Southwestern Bell Service Representative Lennodine Dunlap will retire this month with 28 years service.

Mrs. Dunlap began her Southwestern Bell career in Big Spring as an operator. She remained in that job until two years ago when she transferred to the business office as a service representative.

A reception for Mrs. Dunlap, was held March 4 at the Holiday Inn.

Concerning her retirement, she commented, "I have no regrets. I'm ready to retire and relax."

She added, "It's amazing how things have changed over the years. I remember when it used to take five operators to place a call to New York. Today it's processed in seconds. It's all very exciting, but I'm still ready for retirement."

Property clean-up discussed

The Texas Star African Violet Club met March 8 at the home of Mrs. Loma Crocker for a regular meeting. Members discussed the property clean-up scheduled for April and it was voted to water the rose garden at Comanche Trail Park during the month of July.

Malinda Blackburn conducted a question and answer session concerning African Violets. Questions asked included "Do plants need more water under lights?" "Should rooting leaves be taken from the bottom row?" "How do you increase humidity?" and "Why are African Violets called African Violets?"

Sorority plans rush season

The Alpha Kappa Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its regular meetings Feb. 12, at the home of Jett Moore and Feb. 26 at the home of Linda Miricle.

President Rose Stukel called the meetings to order. The success of the Valentine Ball was reported on. Mrs. Moore announced that coffee and donuts were served at the Veterans Administration Hospital Feb. 23.

Information about the B.S.P. State Convention to be in June was given along with State Service Project details on nominating state service projects 1980-81.

The donation to the Presbyterian Home for Children in honor of Mrs. Protor was discussed.

The coming rush season scheduled for March was also discussed with members turning in names of prospective members. A salad supper was scheduled for March 11 at the home of Ceil Bedel for the rushes.

The program Feb. 12 on the history of Valentine's Day was given by Mrs. Moore as prepared by Ceil Bedel.

The meeting closed with the secret sister exchanging of Valentine gifts.

The program Feb. 26 on wills and estates was given by District Attorney Rick Hamby.

Chaplain Butler speaks on stress

Chaplain Lee Butler was the guest speaker at the March 6 meeting of the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. L. Z. Rhodes. Other guests included Mrs. Velma Rankin, Mrs. Lucile Petty, Mrs. Irene Smith, Mrs. Pam Tingle and Mrs. Joe Dunn. Chaplain Butler spoke on stress and the various ways to deal with stressful situations.

"Stress is the basis of most illnesses," he said. "It is not what happens to you in life, but how you handle the situation and how you react to it."

Chaplain Butler revealed that work should be balanced with play, stressing that work and relaxation are both important. He suggested one get plenty of sleep and rest, work off tensions and talk out troubles, confiding worries to a sympathetic friend.

"You have to realize that there are no easy ways or single solutions to the problems of life which cause stress," he pointed out. "So learn to accept the things you cannot change, have the courage to change the things you can and the wisdom to know the difference."

Mrs. Sybil Dufer won the door prize. Next meeting will be held March 20. Janet Rogers will present the program.

Spring convention plans made

The Veterans of WWI Barracks of 1474 and its Auxiliary met March 8 at Kentwood Older Adult Activity Center with 27 members present. Three guests of the auxiliary were Mrs. Tavia Marricle, Mrs. Betty Lloyd and Mrs. Lola Cockerham. Mrs. Homer Haygood, a member of long standing, attended from Snyder where she now lives.

Mrs. Virginia Bryant, president, presided over the Auxiliary meeting. Orders from the Department of Texas President, Mrs. Etioil Matthews, were read by the secretary. A bake sale will be held Saturday in Highland Mall.

Plans for attending the District 19 Spring Convention at Lubbock April 12 were discussed.

C. D. Phillips, commander, presided over the Barracks meeting. Officers nominated for the new year were M. B. Ireland, commander; V. C. Barber, senior vice commander; W. E. Moren, Junior vice commander; L. R. Mundt, quartermaster; C. D. Phillips, chaplain; Lee Castle, judge advocate and J. D. O'Barr, first year trustee.

Roy Little was feted with a birthday cake in honor of his 90th birthday, brought by Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Cockerham.

Mrs. Fryar to attend 101st TSTA convention

Mrs. Gladys Fryar, vice president of the Howard County Educator's Association Local Unit of the Texas State Teachers Association, plans to attend the 101st annual state convention of the Association March 20-22 in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Fryar is a kindergarten teacher at Coahoma. She will be a voting representative to the 1980 T.S.T.A. house of delegates. This official governing body will meet during the convention to act on proposed amendments to the T.S.T.A. constitution and consider committee reports, resolutions, and other business.

These official delegates, numbering about 1,500, are elected from the more than 500 T.S.T.A. local associations throughout the state. They are certified by districts on the basis of one delegate per 75 members or major fraction of 75, to represent the total membership of T.S.T.A.

KNOW YOUR CARRIER

Kim Kirkham

Thirteen year old Kim Kirkham is a member of the Student Council at Runnels Junior High where she is an eighth grader.

She became a Herald carrier in January and is making wise use of her spare time. Kim makes a good profit for the time invested on her route which encompasses the 300-900 blocks of 13th and 14th Streets from Johnson to Owens. Her hours are short leaving plenty of leisure time for her school and personal activities.

Kim likes the people on her route and likes the profits she collects from her route work. She is putting some of her earnings in the bank. Working with people, performing a service and handling money - all work together for an understanding of the business world.

Kim's parents are D.E. and Marie Kirkham of 1404 Nolan. If you want your son or daughter to gain business experience through a Herald route, call 263-7331 or stop by the Herald for a carrier application. Chances are, he or she could be earning and learning through a route soon.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAR. 12, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is splendid for getting things done but later deceptive influences are in effect. Maintain a cheerful manner and be more thoughtful of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can impress one in power in the morning with your abilities. But don't rest on your laurels. Be more encouraging.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use your intuition, which is accurate now, in handling financial affairs. Think along optimistic lines. Be logical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your intuition is working fine early in the day, but don't trust it later. Don't take any risks when dealing with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans to have more abundance in the future. The planets are most favorable for getting ahead in career matters.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure to complete any work left undone before taking on new work. Discuss important business matters with financial experts.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan early for whatever you want to do, then carry through intelligently. This can be a particularly fine day for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time to put your business affairs in better order. Await a better time for looking into new outlets. Use care in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Support persons who have been loyal to you in the past. Show increased devotion to loved one. Plan for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your money situation and make plans to have more financial security. Strive to be more efficient in your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have conferences with higher-ups early and gain their support and goodwill. Take time to improve your appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Obtain the information you need from the right sources. A financial expert can give advice for a plan you have in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep busy at tasks that can bring you added income in the days ahead. Be sure to handle important business matters wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who can solve difficult problems, so direct education along lines of investigations for best results. Give as fine a religious training as you can in order to maintain an optimistic manner. One who will like sports.

Nolan Richardson takes Tulsa post

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A West Texas coach whose unbeaten team will be competing in the national junior college tournament next week has been picked to succeed Jim King at the University of Tulsa.

Nolan Richardson, 38, is leaving Western Texas Junior College to replace King, who resigned Feb. 1 after five consecutive losing seasons.

King's assistant, Bill Franey, has been interim coach. Richardson's teams in his three seasons at Western Texas have compiled a 93-13 record, including this year's 33-0 mark going into the junior college tournament next week at Hutchinson, Kan. He will continue to coach the team through the tournament.

The team has averaged 101.5 points per game this year while holding opponents to an average of 60. A university committee screened more than 100 applicants in the past month to pick a successor.

Terms of Richardson's contract were not announced. Richardson is a 1965 graduate of Texas Western, now the University of Texas at El Paso. After a brief period with the San Diego Chargers of the National Football League, Richardson played a year for the Dallas Chaparrals professional basketball team.

He coached 10 years at Bowie High School in El Paso. Names of two possible assistant coaches were reported Monday. They were Andy Stoglin, an assistant at San Diego State until he resigned two weeks ago, and Franey.

Richardson will be the first black head basketball coach at a major college in Oklahoma.

BASKETBALL MANIA — Gary Joe Bragg, of Imperial, shakes his fist, as fellow basketball heads Gary Kaiser and Todd Moritz urge Imperial's girls basketball team on to victory in an opening Class-C game with Omaha Cathedral, in the Nebraska Girls State Basketball Tournament.

Mental errors hurt Big Spring cause

Coronado rallies to overcome Steers

By NATHAN POSS Sports Editor

Lubbock Coronado spotted the Big Spring Steers an early 4-1 lead before rallying to take a 7-6 win here Monday afternoon in a non-district contest played in Steer Park.

The win was the sixth without a defeat for the Coronado team, while Big Spring falls to 1-5 with the loss. All of the Steers losses have been to either Coronado or Lubbock Monterey.

Coronado scored a run in the first inning off Steer starter Brad Files, but the Big Spring team quickly came back to take the lead in their half of the first.

Mark Warren walked to open the inning, and with two outs, Tom Olague singled to drive home Warren and tie the score. Big Spring's Tim Shaver then gave the Bovines a 3-1 lead by slamming a line drive over the left-centerfield fence for a home run.

The Steers added another run in the second inning when Tommy Rodriguez singled and came around to score to give the Big Spring team a 4-1 lead.

Coronado began their surge to victory in the fourth inning, using two doubles, a single and a walk off Files to narrow the Steers lead to 4-3. But with runners on second and third and two outs, Mark Warren relieved Files and got Russell Young to ground into an inning ending out to halt the Coronado uprising.

The biggest blow of the game was yet to come. After the first two Coronado runners reached base in the fifth inning, Bryan Brock drilled a towering home run over the left field fence to give the Lubbock team a 6-4 advantage.

Big Spring had the chance to score plenty in the final two innings, but could only manage to send two runners home.

Warren opened up the bottom of the fifth with a single, and Dickie Wrightsil advanced to first when hit by a pitch. Blake Rosson then executed a sacrifice bunt that moved Warren and Wrightsil to third and second, respectively.

Olague then walked to lead the bases, and Shaver hit a sacrifice fly to score Warren and narrow the Coronado lead to 6-5. But Coronado's Gilbert Castro retired Rusty Hayworth to end the Big Spring threat.

Big Spring had a chance to hold Coronado within one run in the sixth, but a two-out mental error by Olague allowed Coronado to boost their lead to 7-5.

But Big Spring came back in their half of the sixth, although it would not be enough. Rodriguez was safe on an error to open the inning, and then advanced to third when Lupe Ontiveros smashed a pitch deep to left-centerfield field. Coronado leftfielder Sam Law could not hold on the ball, and Ontiveros ended up on second.

But with this golden opportunity, the Steers could not take complete advantage of it. The next batter, pinch-hitter Greg Pearce, grounded to the shortstop. Rodriguez held up at third, but pinch-runner Moe Rubio raced to third on the grounder. This caused a scene, with Rodriguez finally being thrown out at the plate.

Warren then followed with a single that scored Rubio and brought the Steers to within one at 7-6. Wrightsil then was out on a close play at first, with the Big Spring runners moving to second and third. But Castro allowed Coronado to maintain the lead when Rosson grounded out.

Coronado couldn't score off the Steers third pitcher, Rodriguez, in the top of the seventh, and it appeared the Big Spring team might knock the score when Olague led off the inning with a single.

But Castro retired the final three Steer hitters, two on strikeouts, to end the game and protect the lead for good.

Castro, who went the distance for Coronado, picked up the win. Warren absorbed the loss for Big Spring.

The Steers will try to get back on the winning track today when they visit the Lamesa Golden Tors in a 4 p.m. contest.

Big Spring Coach Howell Martin, though disappointed with the loss, is still not ready to concede the season for his youthful troops. "Even though our record is not that good, we've proved to ourselves that we can score runs and come back. I still feel we can be a factor in the district race."

NIT Roundup

USL sneaks by Longhorns

By the Associated Press

The second round of the National Invitation Tournament produced some surprises in Southwestern Louisiana and Murray State.

The three Big Ten teams also won. That was no surprise at all.

While Southwestern Louisiana was pulling off a 77-76 upset over Texas at Austin and Murray State was stunning Alabama 70-62 at Tuscaloosa, the Big Ten representatives continued to make their presence vitally felt Monday night in the nation's oldest postseason basketball tournament.

Michigan defeated Texas-El Paso 74-65, Illinois stopped Illinois State 75-65 and Minnesota turned back stubborn Mississippi 58-56 to move into Thursday night's third round. Michigan will play then at Virginia, a 57-55 conquerer of Boston College Monday night; Illinois will play host to Murray State and Minnesota will entertain Southwestern Louisiana.

St. Peter's will visit Nevada-Las Vegas in the other third-round game. The Peacocks edged Duquesne 34-33 and the Runtin' Rebels trimmed Long Beach State 90-81 in Monday night's other NIT action.

Carl Jordan's jump shot from the free throw line under tight defensive pressure with four seconds remaining led Southwestern Louisiana over Texas. That was the second time in the NIT that the Ragin' Cajuns had won as time ran out.

"That was a heck of a shot," said Texas Coach Abe Lemons of Jordan's jumper. "He hadn't done much all night. It was the kind of shot you'd want them to take... but he made it."

After Jordan put the Ragin' Cajuns on top, Texas called time out with four seconds left. Texas freshman Fred Carson got the ball to the 6-foot-10 LaSalle Thompson but his 6-foot shot hit the rim as the buzzer sounded.

"If he'd just got it up above the rim it would at least had a chance to go in," said Lemons.

The Longhorns, NIT champs in 1978, lost two subs over the weekend to injury and illness, and Lemons said, "I guess it was just time for us to quit anyway. We hardly have any players left."

Mike McGee scored 25 points to pace Michigan over Texas-El Paso. The Wolverines held a 35-28 advantage at the half and never relinquished their lead.

"McGee's a great player," said UTEP Coach Don Haskins. "We knew McGee was going to hurt us because 6-5 forwards have hurt us all year."

Haskins conceded, however, that his players were tired.

"We were in the Chicago airport for six hours and we didn't practice," he said. "We came over today and practiced for an hour. That hurt us. Then we got behind and we kind of lost our poise. We were trying to score eight points at a time."

Slow-Pitch sets meeting tonight

The Industrial League Slow Pitch Association will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 7:00 at K-Bob's Restaurant.

Anyone interested in playing is urged to attend tonight's session.

Sports in brief

Morality the issue in Raider move to LA

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Managing general partner Al Davis of the Raiders finds himself in an almost untenable position today because he wants to move to Los Angeles and the National Football League demands he stay in Oakland.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said 22 of the league members voted against permitting Davis to move his team to the vacant Los Angeles Coliseum with five abstentions and Oakland not voting.

Rozelle said the "morality of hop-scotching franchises" was one of the main factors in Monday's vote.

Davis said he still plans to play in Los Angeles but Rozelle retorted, "The Oakland Raiders will play their games in the Oakland Coliseum in 1980."

The Commissioner said, "We will schedule them in Oakland," but he admitted that the issue still must be settled in the courts. No fewer than six court actions currently are pending on the matter.

Davis said he was allowed in the meeting for only about 30 minutes. He said that he did not want anxiety in the NFL but simply wanted the same rights granted to Carroll Rosenbloom, who arranged for the move of the Los Angeles Rams from the Coliseum to nearby Anaheim prior to his death last spring.

Myers decides to stay at Tech

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Iowa State will have to look elsewhere for a basketball coach, said Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers. He has decided to stay put.

Myers said Monday he has withdrawn his name from those considering the Iowa State post. "Texas Tech is a great university with a great basketball tradition and I'm convinced that Texas Tech is committed to a quality basketball program," said Myers, who recently visited Iowa State for an interview.

"I am pleased with the interest Iowa State showed in me," he said, "but I feel there are things which can be accomplished at Texas Tech and I want to be a part of those accomplishments."

Yankees beat Rangers on homer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Eric Soderholm, acquired from Texas last November, slammed a tie-breaking three-run homer in the seventh inning Monday night, giving the New York Yankees an 8-5 victory over the Rangers in the exhibition baseball opener for both teams.

Soderholm's blast over the left field wall came off former New York relief ace Sparky Lyle after Garry Smith doubled. Bob Watson singled and Jim Spencer popped out.

NCAA Midwest Regionals a sellout

HOUSTON (AP) — The NCAA Midwest Regional tournament this weekend at the Summit is a sellout. Summit officials said the last tickets for the Friday night games and the Sunday afternoon game have been sold.

The Friday pairings place Texas A&M against Louisville at 7:07 p.m. and Missouri against Louisiana State at 9:37 p.m.

The winners meet Sunday afternoon, with that winner advancing to the NCAA semifinal round March 22 in Indianapolis.

Coahoma girls win Crane meet

CRANE — The Coahoma girls scored 146 points to race to the championship in the Crane Invitational Track Meet here this past weekend.

The Coahoma fens won the meet easily, as second place Crane finished with a total of 105 points in the eight-team field.

Coahoma was bolstered by outstanding efforts by their relay teams, as they picked up 52 points in the three relay events. The 440-relay and the mile relay won their events, while the 880-relay finished third.

Coahoma also had many girls winning first place ribbons in the Crane meet. Those were Fay Fryar in the 440-dash, Gayla Paige in the high jump, Karen Woolvorton in the 220-dash, and Darla Henry in the 100.

ing points in the individual events included Kari Robinson, Carmen Holman, Lori Phinney, Paige, Andrea Fowler, Brenda Rinard, Vicki Buchanan, Fryar, and Robin Burchett.

The Coahoma girls will try to capture another title this weekend when they enter the Ozark Relays.

The Coahoma boys didn't fare as well, however, as they could manage only 12 points in the Crane Invitational Ambrosius Uranga collected eight of those points with a second place finish in the 330-hurdles.

Here are the first place finishes and the Coahoma finishes in the Crane Invitational Girls Track Meet.

Shah needs emergency surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is ill and must be admitted to a U.S. military hospital in Panama for emergency surgery, friends say, but the Carter administration is resisting the step, the Daily News reported today.

The former Iranian ruler underwent a gallbladder operation in New York on Oct. 24 and was treated for cancer after the administration permitted him to enter the country as a "humanitarian gesture."

The shah's admittance touched off the Nov. 4 seizure of Americans at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by militants demanding his return.

He is now said to be suffering from a dangerously enlarged spleen that must be removed immediately, according to the newspaper.

U.S. officials say the shah can get adequate treatment at a Panamanian facility, Paullina Hospital, in a Panama City, the News said.

The newspaper also quoted Carter administration officials as saying Monday that the shah's condition was probably being exaggerated.

However, the State Department said it could not confirm or deny the newspaper account.

The News said a team of leading U.S. surgeons is standing by, waiting for the dispute to be resolved.

According to the News, friends of the shah say they would prefer that he be readmitted to the United States for the operation rather than to Gorgas Hospital, operated by the Defense Department.

However, because some 50 American hostages are still being held in Tehran, the White House informally urged that the issue of readmission not be raised officially, the newspaper said.

The News also quoted unidentified sources as saying the shah feared extradition from Panama, which invited him to take up permanent residence Dec. 15.

Grand jury hears case

Justice of the Peace Bob West ordered at an examining trial Monday that officer Sean Curran, charged with the shooting of Mark Booscher, be held over for the grand jury today.

At the trial at 1 p.m. Monday, Assistant District Attorney Don Richard put Detective Avery Faulkner and police dispatcher Jeanne Schuler on the witness stand.

Ms. Schuler testified that she took a call from a man whose voice she recognized as belonging to Curran. The man said "I just shot a guy" and told her to call an ambulance.

Faulkner said when he arrived on the scene he found a man suffering from a head wound. He and another officer took a weapon from Curran that had been fired once. There were no other weapons in sight, said Faulkner.

Talk by AHA head slated

Dr. David Rickey, local American Heart Association head, will present a talk entitled "Prevention of Heart Disease" at the Salvation Army Citadel, 600 W. 4th, at 7 p.m. today.

Dr. Rickey will show a film and hand out brochures. A question answer period will follow the presentation. The public is cordially invited to attend by the Ladies Home League, sponsors.

Dr. Pat Thomas is candidate

COLORADO CITY — Dr. Pat A. Thomas, 29, will seek a position on the Colorado City Independent School District board of trustees.

Thomas and his wife, Cindy, have two children, ages 4 and 3.

A native of Granbury, Texas, Thomas attended York College in Nebraska, Tarleton State University and Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine.

He has been a resident of Mitchell County about 18 months.

Travel expense is increased

Howard County Commissioners amended the budget of the county agent's office in their afternoon session Monday. The office exceeded its budget by $406.45 for travel expenses to out-of-town stock shows.

The budget was amended by that amount to allow County Treasurer Jackie Olson to pay bills.

Eastern Airlines attendants afflicted by 'red sweat'

NEW YORK (AP) — A mysterious "red sweat" has afflicted flight attendants on Eastern Airlines flights between New York and Florida, the Wall Street Journal reported Monday.

The newspaper quoted Eastern officials as saying that many flight attendants have reported spots of red fluid on their faces, chests and hands, as well as red spots on their faces, chests, backs and thighs.

The spots, say the attendants, are pin-prick size, and last for hours. Officials said they do not believe the fluid is blood.

The Journal quotes airlines officials as saying that at last 60 attendants have been affected, many of them two or three times. The newspaper says at least 120 cases of the malady have been reported.

Most cases have been reported in the past two months, almost all of them on Airbus A300 flights between New York and Florida.

"We are doing all we can to pin this down," said Dr. David Millett, Eastern's director of flight medicine told the Journal. "We don't want flight attendants with red spots."

The newspaper said attendants are worried about the effect of the "red sweat" on their health and looks, and said union officials have said they will ask the Eastern to ground the Airbus A300 if no solution is found.

The newspaper reported Eastern has enlisted the aid of experts at Columbia University, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Duke University and the U.S. Air Force, but that no cause for the symptoms has been determined.

The newspaper said none of the attendants has hemophilia, and that other theories — ranging from a rare malady involving colored perspiration to a reaction to some contaminant on the plane — have been suggested.

The Journal reported that no other carriers had reported similar outbreaks. It said Airbase Industrie, maker of the plane, said no other airline that uses the craft has reported anything similar.

Neil O'Brien CC director

LAMESA — Neil C. O'Brien, formerly of Bowie, Tex., has been named executive director of the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce.

The job has been vacant seven months. O'Brien, a native of Pennsylvania is a 22-year veteran of the Marine Corps. He retired from the service with the rank of Gunnery Sergeant in 1974.

He was executive director of the Fairfield, Okla., Chamber of Commerce for two years before taking the Chamber post at Bowie.

O'Brien and his wife, Dian, have one child, age seven.

O'Brien served with the Marines in Korea, Japan, Okinawa and Vietnam. He formally takes over as the director of the Lamesa Chamber in early April.

Tower to open Lubbock office

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) has announced he will open a regional office in Lubbock to serve the West Texas-Panhandle area.

"The needs of citizens in the vast and vital West Texas area can no longer be adequately served by existing state offices in Dallas, Austin and Houston," Tower explained. "Opening an office in West Texas will give me better insights into the needs and concerns of the area, and will give citizens there faster and easier access to their senator. I hope people will use the new office for help with federal-related problems, to get information and to make their views known."

Inflation hits your electric bill just as hard as it does your grocery bill.

Every time you go to the grocery store you can see what inflation's doing to your food bill. But because you don't buy electricity by the can, you probably don't realize how inflation affects the cost of electricity.

Fuel costs are going up, particularly natural gas. Equipment costs are up. Power lines, transformers and poles cost us more every day. Just like milk costs you more every day.

The millions of dollars we must borrow to build plants to ensure your electricity needs in the future are costing us more.

The cost of building these plants is higher, too, because of inflation. And because of the time and money it takes to comply with an ever-increasing number of government regulations. The longer it takes to build, the more inflation takes its toll.

Inflation, overregulation and rising fuel costs are all making your electricity cost you more. But by using electricity wisely you can do your part in keeping that cost down in your home.

At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for.

JACK REDDING, Manager, Phone 267-6383
