TIME FOR A LAUGH — Republican Presidential candidate Ronald Reagan takes time for a laugh while speaking to press at a news conference in a Beverly Hills, Calif., hotel Tuesday night.

Carter, Reagan looking ahead to Illinois contest

By the Associated Press

Solid in the South, President Carter and Ronald Reagan are girding for showdown contests in Illinois, seeking victories that could point their way to rival nominations for the White House.

For Democratic Sen. Edward Kennedy and for Reagan's Republican challengers, the Illinois presidential primary election next Tuesday has become a must. Unless Kennedy can stop Carter there, it will be hard for the Massachusetts senator to stop him at all. Republicans George Bush and John B. Anderson face the same situation against Reagan.

Both Carter and Reagan enter Illinois buoyed by towering landslides in three southern states.

Reagan won big in Florida, Alabama and Georgia on Tuesday, trouncing Bush. Anderson, who didn't campaign, ran a distant third.

In the Southern primaries, Carter won bigger over Kennedy, who all but wrote off the competition in the president's home territory.

And Carter swept past Kennedy in Oklahoma's Democratic caucuses, winning by a 3-to-1 margin. Carter and Reagan were the early leaders as both parties caucused in Washington state.

In his own Georgia primary, Carter got 10 votes for every Kennedy ballot. That dwarfed Kennedy's victory margin in his home Massachusetts primary one week earlier.

"We whipped him," Carter told

Georgia Gov. George Busbee.

Carter was quick to note that Kennedy had skipped the South. The president told supporters in Birmingham, Ala., by telephone that "it's not feasible to be elected unless you're a national candidate."

Let anyone miss the message, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the Southern by-meant a Kennedy ticket would be doomed to failure because, "History shows us that no Democrat can win the presidency if he writes off a whole section of the country."

Carter won with 88 percent of the vote in Georgia, 82 percent in Alabama and 61 percent in Florida. One surprise there: Nine percent of the voters marked No Preference.

Kennedy came closest in Florida, and he only got 23 percent there, boosted by the support of Jewish voters angry with the Carter administration's admittedly mistaken vote for a U.N. resolution critical of Israel.

Patrick Lucey, deputy chairman of the Kennedy campaign, said the challenger got "about what we expected" in the South.

Lucey predicted that the campaign tide would turn when Carter is held accountable for the nation's economic woes. Kennedy has been saying that regularly. He needs to prove it in Illinois.

Reagan's GOP landslides were almost as hefty as Carter's margins.

He beat Bush 73 percent to 13 percent in Georgia, 69 percent to 26 percent in Alabama, and 57 percent to 30 percent in Florida.

Reagan captured 105 votes for the Republican presidential nomination to 9 for Bush. That gave Reagan a national total of 167 to 45 for Bush. It will take 998 to win the GOP nomination.

Carter picked up 181 delegates in the three primaries, and was assured of at least 30 more from Oklahoma's Democratic precinct caucuses. Kennedy managed to take 26 out of the South, and one uncommitted delegate was chosen in Florida.

Nationally, Carter has 268 delegates in his column, Kennedy 141. The target for Democratic nomination is 1,666.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., also stayed away to campaign next for the April 1 Wisconsin primary.

The Democrats will battle for 179 delegates in Illinois. Kennedy has been pointing to the contest for weeks; he said that and the New York primary on March 25 are the contests in which his challenge will take hold.

Kennedy has defeated Carter only once, in Massachusetts.

A poll published by the Chicago Tribune said Carter is favored by Illinois voters by a wide margin. The Tribune said the president was preferred by 62 percent, Kennedy by 23 percent.

Two statewide polls released today — one by the Tribune, the other by the Chicago Sun-Times and WMAQ-TV — rated Anderson the preferred candidate among Illinois Republicans.

The Tribune poll showed Reagan so close behind as to be in a virtual tie — 33 percent to 31 percent, while the Sun-Times-WMAQ poll had Anderson ahead 39 percent to 30 percent. Bush had 20 percent and 15 percent, respectively.

Tuesday night, Anderson predicted that Illinois will be a showdown between him and Reagan. "I do believe it will be a different race when he comes to Illinois," Anderson said. "If the people want an alternative, I will present myself as that choice."

Since there is no party registration in Illinois, Anderson could gain in his home state from the kind of independent and crossover Democratic support that helped boost him to strong second place finishes in Massachusetts and Vermont primaries.

Reagan, in Beverly Hills, Calif., said the Illinois primary is an important test he wants badly to win.

'State of mind' murder trial issue

By DON WOODS

Mary Tillis is being tried today on murder charges accusing her of causing the death of Eugene Vanderbilt Jan. 12 at Dickie's Lounge.

Ms. Tillis was with Elmer Green the night of the murders when he shot Gene Vanderbilt, according to state's witness Ken Turner. Turner testified that Vanderbilt turned and fired on Green after two shots were fired.

Green and Vanderbilt were both killed in the melee.

Turner testified that Ms. Tillis was in a "rowdy" mood when she entered the bar at 6:30 p.m. Turner had arrived there at 6 p.m.

Turner testified that she had vowed to kill Vanderbilt and his family shortly after arriving. He later testified under cross examination by District Attorney Rick Hamby that she made the statement "within seconds," of the shooting.

Defense Attorney Pete McKinney, Colorado City, objected to statements of the defendant's state of mind when she entered the bar. He claimed that state of mind at the time the shots were fired should be the object of questioning.

District Judge Jim Gregg dismissed the jury and discussed the matter out of their hearing. He granted McKinney's objection. He called it a "running objection" so that the objection would not have to be entered again.

McKinney raised the same objection again after the jury came back in, when Turner again testified of the defendant's state of mind.

Gregg granted the objection and asked the jury to strike the statement.

Turner testified that when Vanderbilt stood up to go to the restroom he asked his wife, Gwin, for his "stuff," referring to the pistol. Gwin refused to produce it from her purse so Vanderbilt got it himself, said Turner.

Mary Tillis, sitting at another table, reached into her purse under the table, said Turner, and came up with an object. Turner couldn't tell at the time what it was.

As Vanderbilt was walking away from the two tables Mary Tillis and Elmer Green stood up. Turner said he saw "something shiny" they were arguing over. "Mary Tillis and Green stood up and they had a shiny object in their hands and they were arguing over it," he said.

Vanderbilt turned and drew his weapon after the first two shots were fired. He walked toward Green while he was firing, said Turner. The shooting occurred around 8:30 p.m. Turner said he was sitting next to Vanderbilt and his wife before Vanderbilt excused himself.

McKinney objected to Turner's testimony about the murder scene because Hamby led the witness. The objection was sustained.

Hamby then asked Turner if he had heard Ms. Tillis's statement that she was going to kill Vanderbilt and his family shortly before the shooting.

Turner said that he had. McKinney began asking Turner why his testimony out of the hearing of the jury had been changed. Turner said he had not understood the questioning. When Hamby questioned Turner again, McKinney objected to bolstering and leading the witness. Hamby had said he knew that Turner knew the difference between five minutes and one and a half hours. The objection was sustained.

McKinney raised another objection almost immediately that Hamby was asking the witness to repeat testimony that had already been made. The objection was again sustained.

McKinney then asked Turner to clarify his testimony concerning the time sequence and his statement by Ms. Tillis regarding the killing of the Vanderbilt family.

Children were asked twice during testimony to leave the courtroom because of language used by witnesses.

Isaiah Green took the stand for the state. He stated that he was the cousin of the late Elmer Green. He also stated that it was his understanding that Green and Mary Tillis were married. Isaiah was at the bar the night of the murders.

Breakthrough in crisis dismal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance sees no breakthrough in the hostage crisis before May. U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim says even that forecast may be too optimistic.

In separate statements Tuesday, Vance and Waldheim counseled patience despite the failure of the U.N. investigating commission to make progress toward release of the approximately 50 American hostages being held in Tehran.

Vance was meeting with Waldheim today in New York to see if the commission can be revived. Waldheim said Iran needs time to iron out the "strange power situation" which prevails in that country.

Vance, after briefing members of Congress, said no breakthrough is expected before the elections for the Iranian parliament are concluded. The first phase of the elections begins Friday but the parliament is not scheduled to convene until May. Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr predicted the hostages won't be released before "mid-May at the earliest."

But Waldheim, in an interview with PBS' "MacNeil-Lehrer Report," said the resolution of the crisis may hinge on how well supporters of Bani-Sadr's moderate policies do in the elections.

"The kind of support (he receives) will be of great importance for a possible solution to the problem," Waldheim said. Implicit in his remarks was the possibility that the crisis could go on indefinitely if backers of the militants holding the U.S. Embassy compound win a majority. Two weeks ago, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had said that the fate of the hostages would be left up to the parliament.

Vance, Waldheim and Iranian government authorities all indicated Tuesday that the work of the U.N. commission was only suspended and they held out the possibility it may still produce progress. Waldheim also said he has received assurances that the hostages are "safe and sound."

Nonetheless, Waldheim indicated that Khomeini was to blame for the mission's inability to carry out its assigned task.

The mission went to Iran with a mandate to examine Iranian grievances against the deposed shah, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, and to meet with the American hostages as a first step toward an early solution of the crisis.

The commission left Iran early Tuesday without fulfilling the second objective. A day earlier, Khomeini had ruled that the commission would be allowed to meet only those hostages alleged to be spies.

On Tuesday night, Waldheim said it was his impression that Khomeini personally supported the original mandate of the commission. The Carter administration has made it known privately it had the same understanding.

Despite signs of growing congressional and public impatience with the marathon crisis, now in its 130th day, the administration appears to have ruled out the use of force to end it.

Agricultural Appreciation Program speech

Cotton Incorporated sells idea

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

Cotton Incorporated sells an idea that leads to the sale of a bale of cotton, Dukes Wooters, President of Cotton Incorporated, said Tuesday night at the Agricultural Appreciation Program sponsored by area banks at the Howard County Fair Barn.

"We are working toward 100 percent cotton products," Wooters told some 300 people in attendance.

Wooters explained the activities of Cotton Incorporated, which is a cotton research and marketing firm. He also defended several criticisms directed at him and the cotton company by an Illinois congressman, U.S. Rep. Paul Findlay.

"Cotton Incorporated is a fiber company owned by cotton producers in America," Wooters said. "It formed because cotton lost its market to synthetic fiber companies."

Wooters said, "We recognize how hard it is to produce a bale of cotton." He then listed several agricultural research and marketing operations which the cotton firm has conducted.

A large portion of the cost in cotton farming is between the stalk and gin, Wooters said. Recognizing this, Cotton Incorporated developed the module builder, which allows the farmer to harvest the cotton faster. The module builder also adds convenience in hauling cotton, for if the gin becomes overloaded the cotton harvesting process is not stopped.

The cotton company also developed a new way to take the fuzz off the seed. The process is called the loop acid method.

Cotton Incorporated also is conducting extensive research in textiles. Wooters reasoned that if Cotton Incorporated can make textile manufacturing more efficient, then more cotton can be sold.

"Our Textile Research and Development Division has developed fire-proof cotton," Wooters said, adding that over one million yards of cotton have been sold for flame resistant clothing.

Those buying the fire retardant cotton have been steel workers, firemen and aluminum workers.

The company also is working in blending fabrics. Wooters said Cotton Incorporated has developed a 60 percent cotton to 40 percent other fabric blend for shirts.

The research has paid off for the cotton industry. Manhattan Shirt Company was the first to take on the natural blend cotton shirts. Since then other clothing manufacturers have followed the lead.

"We developed a product for 100 percent cotton shirts," Wooters said.

"It wasn't an easy job selling 100 percent cotton."

This innovation has caught on as Ship and Shore are marketing 100 percent cotton blouses. Sheets with 100 percent cotton are on the market.

Cotton Incorporated also carries out economic research. The company publishes a Monthly Cotton Summary. "It gives you a country by country account of the supply of cotton," Wooters said.

Cotton Incorporated started in 1971 to serve on behalf of the American cotton growers.

"We started out in a cubby hole in the Empire State Building and with a yellow pad," Wooters said.

Since then, Cotton Incorporated has grown to represent 100,000 cotton growers, who voluntarily join.

The board of directors consists of representatives from each cotton growing state. Membership is proportioned to the number of cotton bales produced.

Wooters told the crowd, "We have built a company that is owned by you."

The company has a budget of $20 million, which pays for textile, agricultural and economic research. The company was the exclusive fiber-related business to advertise on the 1980 Winter Olympics.

"We contracted with ABC to be the only company to advertise on the Winter Olympics," Wooters said, adding that he negotiated with fiber companies to help pay the advertising cost.

At the end of his speech, Wooters answered several criticisms directed at him by Congressman Findlay, a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

Findlay charged the president of Cotton Incorporated with circumventing an act of Congress.

In 1976, Congress passed a law; one provision of the act was that the president of Cotton Incorporated could not receive a higher salary than the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, who receives annually $60,000.

Wooters, who was receiving $120,000 at the time, gave up his salary for nine months, while working for Cotton Incorporated. Financial pressure he said forced him to assess his place with the company. He decided to stay with the cotton company and earn the salary given to him by the board of directors.

Findlay also has criticized the accounting of Cotton Incorporated. Wooters pointed out that an office within the Department of Agriculture studied Cotton Incorporated's books.

"They could find every dime," Wooters said.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Iron important

Q. Why is the mineral iron so important to the human body?

A. Physicians say it is so important because it helps make an important component of the blood, hemoglobin. Most iron is absorbed in the intestinal tract from the foods you eat and is transported to the bone marrow. There it combines with protein to make hemoglobin, the red substance in red blood cells. These blood cells, made in the bone marrow, live about 120 days and are broken down in the spleen. Most of the body's three to five grams of iron are present in the blood.

Rent for the wealthy

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan residents are used to paying high rent — but $1,500 a day for a six-room apartment? According to builders of the new Palace Hotel, some will be paying that or more.

A spokeswoman for Harry Helmsley says the developer is close to renting two of the triplexes at the top of the 51-story hotel overlooking St. Patrick's Cathedral and hopes to rent two others on a daily basis. She would not reveal the names of those interested in the apartments, which are due for completion in October.

She said the apartments, which will include two-story living rooms and solariums, should go for $500,000 to $700,000 a year or more.

Buses in short supply

CLEVELAND (AP) — School officials may be 45 buses short at the start of junior high school desegregation next week.

U.S. District Judge Frank Battisti denied a request Tuesday that he waive certain laws and safety standards to permit the use of leased buses that have hydraulic brakes instead of air brakes. The district has leased 125 buses to supplement the existing fleet of 147.

Cleveland will begin desegregation of 22,000 junior high students, including 11,300 who will ride buses, on March 18. Officials said they would seek further help on the bus problem from the state.

City officials quitting

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — City officials will stop trying to block the reinstatement of a white police officer who shot and killed a black woman last year, says Mayor Richard Arrington.

The announcement from the black mayor came Tuesday after a judge denied a stay of an order returning George Sands to the force. Arrington did not say when Sands would resume his duties.

The shooting touched off weeks of racial tension. Sands, an unpaid leavee since October, asked for reinstatement three weeks ago.

Sick leave abused

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police in the City of Brotherly Love average 16.8 sick days a year, and the department should make a "sustained effort at reducing the abuse of sick leave," says city commissioner Thomas Leonard.

The first major audit of the police department in 14 years also said a strict policy on such abuse could save Philadelphia $6 million while the reduction of some services, such as mounted patrols, could save the city another $15 million.

Police Commissioner Morton Soloman called the audit "very fair" but argued police sick leave is closely monitored.

Students make it home

LOWVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — More than six hours after school let out, some 300 Lewis County students finally got home — with a snowplow escort.

Classes were halted early Tuesday afternoon when more than a foot of snow, whipped up by wind gusts of more than 60 mph, closed the roads leading from this village in northern New York. A convoy of snowplows eventually escorted the busloads of children home.

But 25 students at the Lowville Academy, also in Lewis County, weren't so lucky. They had to take refuge with local families when the bad weather hit.

SBA loans deadline nears

Pancake lovers

Kiwanis Club preparing to feed army Thursday

The Big Spring Kiwanis Club is preparing to feed an army Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m. — an army of pancake lovers.

The local service club is setting a table for the community. At a cost of $3, diners can eat all the pancakes and bacon they can hold, and wash it down with coffee, tea or milk.

Jack Alexander and Don Yates are co-chairmen of the annual event and they have delegated duties to practically every member of the club, from mixing pancake batter to individuals who clear tables after the diners have finished.

Entertainment will be provided during the evening. A committee consisting of Gene Adkins, Craig Fischer and Bill Shaffner is seeing to that.

A crew will show up at the cafeteria as early as 3 p.m., to set up tables and grills and get supply lines in order.

Proceeds from the meal go toward the support of Kiwanis Club charities.

Police beat Thugs take spring break

Not a single theft, burglary, assault or any other type of major crime was reported in the city Tuesday.

Offense reports are what local police use to list vital information regarding a crime that is reported to them. On Tuesday, not one was filled out by any members of the department.

There is an irony in a situation like this. Despite the potential danger to life and limb, most police prefer action to the routine doldrums of a day like Tuesday.

"I'd rather work nights for just that reason," said Sgt. Jerry Edwards, recently. "There's always a chance something will happen. Otherwise it can get kind of dull."

Nothing serious happened Tuesday, but police were alerted that a male caucasian, 47 years old, five feet nine inches tall, weighing 155 pounds walked away from the Federal Prison Camp here, during the day.

Officers also arrested four drunks, settled two fights, answered three "animal problem" calls, closed four open doors while on patrol, arrested two juveniles for delinquent behavior, and responded to a call of broken water pipes at the high school.

One traffic accident was investigated Tuesday. Vehicles driven by Billy Briggs, 2701 Clanton, Maria Hernandez, Southland Apartments, and Elias Ortega, 817 N.W. 6th, collided at 100 Airbase Road, 3:56 p.m.

Tuesday may have been dull, but the city appreciates all the dull days it can get.

Budget-cutting fever hits Stenholm, 8 other texans

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Budget-cutting fever hit the House of Representatives in earnest Wednesday, with a group of 68 congressmen led by Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, unveiling a plan to bring federal spending in line with federal income.

Included in the proposed $26.4 billion budget reduction calls for an end to $2.4 billion in revenue sharing to the states and cutting public service jobs funding by more than one half.

In a statement released Wednesday morning, Gramm and co-leader Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., said cuts in 27 separate budget items proposed for this year, is recognition that "there are casualties in every war."

Gramm was joined by 8 other Texas congressmen in proposing the cuts.

This move in the House follows a similar statement of support for a balanced budget in the Senate and increasing speculation here that President Carter will call a joint session of Congress soon to discuss his own revised budget plans.

"The time for talking about a balanced budget has passed," Gramm said. "Unless the inflationary pressure of federal deficit spending is eliminated, we will intensify an economic crisis comparable only to the great depression in its impact on our people and our country."

Calling itself the Coalition for Fiscal Responsibility, the House members proposed an across the board 17.5 percent cut in the budgets of more than a dozen regulatory agencies, including $193 million out of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The plan does not call for changes in the proposed Pentagon budget of $147.8 billion, which is 23.9 percent of the entire federal outlay.

But the plan does call for more than $1 billion worth of cuts in foreign and multilateral aid, including major reductions in U.S. support of United Nations development programs and the U.N. Children's Fund.

In addition to Gramm, the 60 congressmen include Texans Richard White, Joe Wyatt, Charles Stenholm, Marvin Leath, Jack Hightower, Kent Hance, Sam Hall, and Bill Archer.

Merely drop in budget bucket

Stenholm returns $30,000 in unused operating funds

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Charles W. Stenholm today announced that he has returned a total of over $30,000 in unused 1979 operating funds to the U.S. Treasury and after one year in office is streamlining other operations in his congressional office.

While I realize that $30,000 is merely a drop in the $500 billion-plus Federal budget bucket, if every Congressman in Washington had made the same expense cuts, we could have saved a total of over $13 million last year, Stenholm said.

He also pointed out that he plans other operational changes, including the elimination of a number of standard constituent congratulations, such as weddings, anniversaries, birthdays for those under 90 years of age, sending new parents copies of the publication "Infant Care" and other congratulatory mail.

"I'll be very honest," Stenholm said, and tell you that these forms of constituent communication are very helpful to incumbent Congressmen. At the same time, they keep a Congressman in touch with the people he serves and are appreciated by those who receive them. But, the facts that they also cost money.

"It is very easy for Congress to talk about cutting the budget and quite another thing to actually make those cuts personally, he continued. In all good conscience, I cannot ask others to make economic cuts before I have done all that is possible to cut my own operational expenses.

Stenholm said he was not minimizing the importance of constituents' communications, but felt he needed to streamline his operations in order to offer more services at less cost. He said he would be relying more heavily on the District radio, television and newspapers to keep constituents informed of his work in Congress.

"I'm pleased to say that the news media has been very cooperative in what I feel is a joint responsibility — to keep people informed. It is important that every person in the District has access to my voting record in Congress, as well as a clear understanding of the reasons behind that vote.

Stenholm also said he would be reorganizing staff responsibilities to place more emphasis on his Abilene and Stamford District offices as the initial contact for assistance with any personal problems constituents might be having with various government programs or agencies.

"We receive untold numbers of requests to help the elderly with Social Security benefits, for instance," he explained, "or Veterans' Affairs or Medicare-Medicaid problems or any problem dealing with the government. We answer each and every one of these requests. Having our District offices prepared to work with these cases will improve the speed of this service and give the people more personal contact with my office.

Light bulbs to be sold

In anticipation of an edict by Gov. Bill Clements, who will proclaim the week of March 16 through March 22 as Texas White Cane Week, the Sand Springs Lion's Club is planning a week-long effort of selling light bulbs to area residents.

The Lion's Club of Texas have for a long time been supporting all phases of sight conservation. Their Kerville Crippled Children's Camp has for several years served in the off-season as a facility for training the blind.

The Lion's Clubs of Texas also gave a unique Eye Bank Program which the Sand Springs Club will be supporting during this week by soliciting donors for this program. Anyone wishing to support these projects by purchasing light bulbs may call 393-5249 and the bulbs ordered will be delivered, or they may be purchased at Marshall Day's Body Shop in Sand Springs.

Anyone wishing additional information about the Eye Bank program can call the same number and a member of the Sand Springs Club will come by and explain it.

87 persons seek jobs at local Lantex plant

Through noon today 87 persons have applied and 24 interviewed for job openings in the Lantex Hydraulics Plant that is to open in July, Gerald Damm, office manager of the Texas Employment Commission, said today.

Lantex Personnel Director Don Welch will continue to interview applicants through tomorrow.

"He is looking for 20 people with maintenance-type background," Damm said. "He is looking for people to set up that equipment out there."

"He will be leaving at noon Thursday," Damm said. The TEC manager said that his office will continue to take applications after tomorrow and have them transferred to the Lantex Personnel Office in Lancaster.

Those hired for the maintenance will be notified sometime in the next several weeks. Those being hired for machine shop work will be contacted near the first of June.

Lantex is looking primarily for machine shop workers: persons with drill press, lathe or sawing experience.

Surprisingly, Damm said, "They are not looking for welders."

Lantex will train most of its workers at this Big Spring plant. The hydraulics firm plans to work with Howard College in training workers with necessary skills.

Welch said of the applicants, "I have been overwhelmed by the people."

Local grand jurors studying murder cases

The Howard County Grand Jury was seated Tuesday to consider three murder cases and 36 other felonies. Assistant District Attorney Don Richard does not expect grand jury to be over until this afternoon.

"We've scheduled people through noon tomorrow," he said Tuesday.

Included on the docket for grand jury deliberation is the case in which Sean Curian, Big Spring policeman, allegedly shot

Mark Boochee Feb. 25. The case was not expected last week to be presented due to Boochee's hospitalization, however Boochee was released Friday morning and the case was added to the docket.

Property in city rezoned

By JAMES WERRELL
The Big Spring City Council gave final approval Tuesday to a plan to release 65 acres of Industrial Park property to the General Services Administration for use as a school for the deaf.

The property will be released to the GSA, which will in turn release it to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which will in turn release it to Howard College. Upon this property the Southwest College For The Deaf will then be built.

Another piece of property in the city was rezoned for future development during a joint meeting of the council and the Planning and Zoning Board, 9 a.m. Tuesday. The property is approximately half a block of vacant land bounded by Main Street and 11th Place.

It is owned by Attorneys

Roger Brown, Bob Moore and John Burgess. It had been zoned Family 2, but was rezoned to Retail on an emergency reading.

"When the money market gets better, we plan to develop the property as retail office space," said Burgess.

Complaining that its members had not received any information about a proposed ordinance change, the Planning and Zoning Board asked that consideration of the change be tabled until it could be studied further.

"This is the first I've heard of this proposition, and I haven't been provided with any information. I'd like to look it over before we make a decision," said board member Walter Wheat.

The ordinance was to have discarded parts of the zoning code regulating the drilling for oil wells in the city. The new ordinance approved last week by the council covered that issue more completely, said City Attorney Elliott Mitchell.

"The new drilling ordinance would cover the situation without regard to how an area is zoned. The zoning ordinance does attempt to regulate drilling by zones. If we pass a comprehensive new drilling ordinance, we will have a conflict," he said. "The new one will control drilling much more stringently, and more thoroughly regulate it. The zoning ordinance would be obsolete," he added.

The problem will be reconsidered at the council's next regular meeting.

The council also agreed to a plan to construct a building adjacent to the Energy Efficiency Products Company at the Industrial Park. The agreement calls for the company to sign a 10-year lease at 12 percent interest and cost plus 10 percent. The building would belong to the city.

The council also okayed a request by Jerry Worthy to advertise for bids for city-owned property. The property consists of approximately 10 acres of vacant land located directly north of Mount Olive Memorial Park Cemetery.

Members also approved a plan to remove traffic lights at Second and Scurry and Second and Runnels. The lights will be replaced with two-way stop signs.

In another issue involving traffic, the council approved a plan to establish pedestrian crosswalks on Warehouse Road near the Federal Prison Camp. The crosswalks would be installed for prisoner safety.

Designer lines unveiled today

Boy Scouts have new uniforms

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Boy Scouts could purchase their entire outfit for $11 after the last uniform change, but that was 58 years before fashion designer Oscar de la Renta added his touch.

The Boy Scouts of America haven't changed much about their uniform since the alterations of 1922. But today BSA officials are unveiling a new designer line of uniforms that will cost a Scout in the neighborhood of $38, sans coat.

De la Renta kept the basic look of the traditional uniform, but he did away with the outdated garter tabs on the shorts and added a few extra pockets.

"We felt the uniform should meet several criteria," de la Renta said. "It should be suitable for strenuous activity; it should be made from an easy care fabric; and at the same time the wearer should still look like a Scout."

The new uniforms won't be in use for the four million American Cubs and Scouts until August. But the old-style shorts and slacks will still be considered "regulation," officials said. In fact, they've reduced the prices of the older uniforms as the designer stock moves in.

Little old ladies who need help crossing the street will still recognize a Scout, since the only noticeable change is that the once all tan regular uniforms now will have dark, olive green slacks and a tan shirt.

BSA officials say the changes were made "in response to requests received from the membership."

"It was just a question of updating," said marketing director Matt Dortman. "Members said they never had enough pockets, so we added patch pockets to the pants. We're also using a heavier weight of fabric for durability."

The fabric weave also is tighter, "so a Cub Scout in Minnesota is not going to be standing outside with the cold wind blowing through his trousers," said J. Jay Cassen, national director of the BSA supply division, who asked de la Renta for the new designs two years ago.

"We have tested hundreds of pairs across the country, rather quietly, rather secretly," he said. "We've had a lot of positive feedback."

The uniform also sports new headgear, including a cap that looks more like a baseball cap than the traditional beanie-type cap.

Cub Scouts, troop leaders and den mothers also get a new look, although the younger scout uniforms are still the traditional navy blue with yellow trim.

The newest feature on Cub outfits is reversible shirts with collars that can be tucked in when a neck scarf is worn. Leader uniforms are basically the same with heavier fabric and a wider selection of uniform styles.

The Scouting movement was founded in England by Lord Baden-Powell and made its way to America just after the turn of the century.

American Scouts celebrated their 70th birthday on Feb. 3, the anniversary of the day Boy Scouts of America was incorporated in Washington, D.C.

How times have changed

Brown at back of pack

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Four years ago today, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. casually launched a campaign which rocked the Democratic Party and inflicted stunning defeats on front-runner Jimmy Carter.

In 1980, that same Jerry Brown is way back in the pack in every presidential primary and caucus race he has entered. He has spent $2.1 million on a campaign that has won more space in the comics — via Doonesbury — than on the front pages, and has not yet gained him a single delegate.

What happened to Brown? Where did all the so-called charisma go?

The most important factor, Brown's closest backers say, is that this time he is challenging an incumbent president in his own party.

That is different from 1976 when Brown was the "ABC candidate" — Anybody But Carter — the last hope for backers of other Democrats to stop then "outsider" Carter and deadlock the convention.

But instead of being the only viable alternative to President Carter today, Brown is odd man out in a three-way race against Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. And in his second presidential campaign, Brown, now 41, is no longer a new face.

Finally, there is the new ingredient in 1980 which Brown's New Hampshire campaign coordinator, Mike Gage, calls "the Governor Moonbeam" factor, an emphasis by cartoonists, comedians and columnists on Brown's Zen Buddhist comments, his talk of "spaceship earth" and his romance with rock star Linda Ronstadt.

Shah readied for another operation

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is reported being readied for another serious operation in a Panamanian hospital.

A privately owned local television station said sources at Paitilla Hospital, a private medical center, told it the deposed monarch, who is living on an island off the Pacific coast of Panama, would be admitted soon for the surgery.

The report could not be confirmed, but most media in Panama clear such reports with the government.

In Washington, a White House official said the shah's condition was not serious enough for the U.S. government to consider letting him return to New York for the surgery. Another White House source pointed out that his return to the United States would further damage the chances of freedom for the 50 or so American hostages in Tehran.

Pahlavi, 60, was admitted to the United States from Mexico last fall for removal of his gall bladder and cancer treatment. This prompted young Moslem militants in Tehran to seize the U.S. Embassy and hold its occupants hostage, demanding that their former ruler be returned to Iran for trial. But the Carter administration rejected the demand and helped arrange asylum for him in Panama.

Kean said the shah was also suffering from severe anemia and a deficiency of white cells and platelets in the blood.

Howard to show little or no growth

The government is even now gearing up for the taking of the 1980 census. The result of that census will be important for a lot of reasons, not the least of which is the planning that will go into legislative redistricting.

Already projections on the census have been made by legislative officials in Austin and they are interesting.

HOWARD COUNTY, for instance, will likely grow by something less than 400 over the 1970 head count, surveys show. The growth in the entire 63rd Legislative District, which Mike Ezzell represents in Austin, will total only about 5,000 and most of that gain is shown in Snyder and Scurry County, up by an estimated 4,500.

Big Spring remains the biggest city in the six-county district but Snyder, with a projected population of 20,000, is gaining on it, or so think legislative officials in Austin.

The 1980 census, of course, will be a lot more than mere nose-counting. Not only will legislative districts be withdrawn on the strength of the tabulation but it will determine how federal funding will be apportioned, which programs are approved for which localities.

It must be unsettling to some that there are signs of unrest and instability within the Census Bureau. The latest indication of turbulence arose there in late February, half a hundred days before the head counting was to begin. The bureau's director, Earle J. Gerson, was relieved of his post and reassigned to other, less formidable duties. The shift reportedly occurred because of Gerson's failure to report a major foul-up in the addressing of census questionnaires by a commercial firm to his superiors.

THERE IS MORE. Gerson himself had only been in the top census job for a few months. Last year his predecessor was axed when the Carter administration became concerned about the Census Bureau's ability to conduct an accurate count. Moreover, minority group spokesmen have already expressed concern that they will be under-counted this year.

'Sweeps' conducted by the Immigration and Naturalization Service within Mexican-American communities have raised fears that Mexican-Americans will be wary of participating in the head count.

If the heads of high bureau officials have to roll in order to insure an accurate count, so be it. Too much hinges on it for any of us to be satisfied with a slapdash effort.

Carter imitating Hoover

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — House Republican leaders on March 4 nearly muffed the golden opportunity handed them by Jimmy Carter's imitation of Herbert Hoover's economics, and they may yet be tempted to out-Hoover the president.

President Carter's response to the horrors of 18 percent inflation: no price-wage freeze, no tax reduction, deeper spending cuts, a budget balanced by tax increases. That is not only the New Deal repudiated but resembles President Hoover's economics that condemned the Republican Party to a half-century in the wilderness, from which it has not yet emerged.

To counter Carter's Draconian economics, the Republicans have the Kemp-Roth bill's steady income tax reduction intended to fight inflation by restoring prosperity. But what Carter is doing looks so much like old-fashioned Republicanism that old-fashioned Republicans can scarcely resist it. Minority leader John Rhodes put out word that his newfangled tax reduction would have to be dropped while Republicans outdo Carter with even deeper spending cuts.

HOWEVER, YOUNGER Republican congressmen committed to Kemp-Roth — including Rep. Jack Kemp himself — vigorously dissented at the secret March 4 session. "I really believe we saved the tax cut," one Kemp supporter told us. Nevertheless, the Republicans may be too timid to vividly contrast with Carter's massive political gamble.

It is a gamble, because it marks this unprecedented Democratic response to economic adversity: Americans, tighten your belts! Presidential aides, voting public demands for less government spending, consider this good politics. But how can it compete with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's price controls and Ronald Reagan's tax cuts?

The answer by one of Carter's most trusted advisers: "The federal government has been profligate over the years, and now we are tightening our belts. The American people also have to tighten their belts, until we can lick this." That can be summed up in one word: austerity.

The current Carter budget's most painful austerity is predicating budget-balancing on $75 billion of additional federal revenue, including $49 billion in new taxes (the oil "windfall" profits tax, Social Security tax hikes and inflationary jumps into higher individual tax brackets). This stunning Carter tax increase is mostly ignored on the presidential campaign trail, mentioned only once in a while by Reagan and never by his adversaries.

It was mentioned often at the March 4 meeting, however, by congressmen opposed to out-Hoovering Carter. The lead argument against abandoning tax reduction was delivered by the highly respected Rep. William French of Minnesota, followed by California's Clair Burgener and Michigan's David Stockman. Kemp and Georgia's Newt Gingrich, representing the freshman class, chimed in.

The resulting consensus: House Republicans will press for a balanced budget and a tax reduction. Kemp regards that as inglorious retreat, but his supporters believe at least declaring the goal of a balanced budget is needed to make tax reduction credible.

More damaging to Kemp's economic strategy than such lip service to old-fashioned Republicanism is the shrinking of his tax reduction. Congressmen left the March 4 meeting talking about a $25 billion one-year tax cut — a far cry from Kemp-Roth's 10 percent annual drop in individual rates.

"That's odd... h-h-h-h's supposed to be afraid of m-m-mice..."

Crohn's disease: Ike lived with it

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Our dear grandson, 16, has Crohn's disease, ileitis, or "Eisenhower" disease. We are very concerned. Can you tell us anything to ease our minds? Can you tell us how to cope with it? Is this treated by diet or medicine? Do you know any place we can write for information? — Mrs. E.F.

Crohn's is a serious problem, no question about that. But it is far from a hopeless one. It's known by the other names you list. It earned the name "Eisenhower's disease" because the former president was afflicted with it.

This should tell you that it need not be incapacitating — if a man could carry on the heavy duties of the presidency with it. A close friend of mine manages to conduct a busy medical practice in spite of having Crohn's disease.

It is inflammation of the small intestine, especially of the last foot or so of the structure, the ileum, (large intestine) hence the term "ileitis." Why this happens is not known. It usually strikes between the ages of 15 and 35.

As you know, the small intestine is where food is absorbed. Any inflammation of it impairs absorption, causing diarrhea, weight loss, abdominal pain and low-grade fever.

The severity depends on how much of the small intestine is involved. The problem can be mild, with only occasional flare-ups, or be persistent and painful.

Sulfas drugs are used, and in more serious cases cortisone-like medicines. Surgery is reserved for complications, bowel obstruction for example. X-rays tell the doctors much about the severity.

The boy's mother should ask her doctor to locate a chapter of the National Ileitis Foundation, which will have helpful information.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I enjoy wine with meals. With all the articles about the dangers of overindulging I sure don't want cirrhosis to slip up on me. Could it? What would the symptoms be? How does a doctor tell? — Mrs. B.J.

Wine in moderation won't cause cirrhosis (scarring) of the liver. The chronic abuse of any alcohol will.

There are warning signs. Initially, the liver enlarges (fatty liver). As damage occurs liver cells die and scar tissue forms in their place. The shrunken liver can't perform its tasks — as in breaking down proteins, converting of food sugar into stored sugar and metabolism of certain hormones. Further, the shrunken liver prevents the normal flow of blood, which must pass through it on its way back to the heart. This causes accumulation of fluid in the abdomen area (ascites).

None of this happens with moderate wine use. If it did, whole populations who drink wine routinely with meals would be cirrhotic.

A doctor checks the size of the liver and orders blood tests to learn if it is functioning and if a patient has cirrhosis.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Potentates' pal

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The real "Abscam" — attempts by oil-rich Arabs to buy influence from American politicians with petrodollars — has come uncomfortably close to Jimmy Carter's White House, as I reported in an earlier column.

Yet these genuine Arab bribery attempts have received far less attention than the FBI's phony Abscam operation directed at members of Congress.

Carter is not the only presidential candidate, however, with embarrassing ties to the Middle East's oil moguls. John Connally, the wheeling-dealing Texan, has close professional and financial relationships with the Arab potentates.

AS A PARTNER in the Houston law firm of Vinson & Elkins, Connally gives legal, financial and political advice to wealthy Arab investors. One of his clients is Ghaith Pharoan, the Saudi Arabian who bailed Bert Lance out of his money troubles by buying his National Bank of Georgia stock at a generous price. Pharoan's father is the top adviser to Saudi King Khalid on how to win friends and influence policy in America.

The Connally law firm, from which he has received more than $450,000 per year, has several Arab nations as well as oil companies among its clients. Connally has been aptly characterized as "the top Arab money lawyer in the United States."

Indeed, Connally is more than just a legal adviser to the Arabs. With Pharoan and another Arab businessman, Connally purchased controlling interest in the Main Bank of Houston. He also has entered into other business ventures with the oil sheiks.

Connally's Arab connections raise disturbing questions about his controversial speech on the Middle East last October. With a great rumble of his oratorical artillery, he called for immediate Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory, a Palestinian homeland, and American military bases in the Sinai Peninsula.

The Connally plan, if sharply criticized by the American Jewish community, drew rave reviews in the Arab world. In fact, two months ago the Kuwaiti newspaper Al Anba issued an editorial call for an Arab campaign fund to help Connally's faltering presidential bid.

Aware that Jewish voters could hurt his presidential aspirations, Connally and his advisers have vehemently denied that his plan is anti-Israel. But an incident that occurred shortly after his October speech raises serious questions about Connally's objectivity on the Middle East.

DAVID MARSTON, who was a Republican candidate for mayor of Philadelphia, publicly embarrassed Big John by canceling a scheduled picture-taking session with him. Marston later told reporters that he had told Connally in a private meeting, "I think I ought to tell you that I disagree with your Middle East policy, I think it's wrong."

My associate Gary Cohn has now learned some startling details of that meeting. Sources who were present quoted Connally as insisting that his speech was not anti-Israel, and had been misinterpreted by the press and the American Jewish community.

Marston, the sources said, suggested that Connally meet with Jewish leaders to set the record straight. Connally is quoted as replying: "Nobody pushes John Connally around. I don't have to be interrogated by those people."

The sources say Connally continued: "Time is not on the side of the Arabs. Time is on the side of the Arabs, and the Jews ought to realize that."

A Connally spokesman denied these quotes in a telephone interview; Marston refused to comment on them.

Interestingly, the man who wrote Connally's controversial speech, Samuel Hoskinson, was dumped by the new campaign director, Charles Keating. And Connally has been making overtures to several Jewish leaders in an obvious effort to convince them that he is not anti-Israel.

Footnote: A draft of the Connally speech was reviewed by former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Sources say Kissinger might get his old job back if Connally makes it to the White House.

Slave Day

Around the rim

Members of the working force know it as a 'day-off', but I question the reasoning under which it was named.

Obviously it was named by a male whose day away from his regular five-day-a-week job consisted of 18 strenuous holes of golf, a couple of games of racquetball, a quick trip to Baskin-Robbins for a triple dip chocolate almond ice cream cone and back home for a three or four hour nap.

I have a couple of other names for my days-off and Slave Day is the nicer of the two.

THE MAJORITY OF working women work twice as hard on their days-off than at their regular job away from home. In fact, it often gets to the point where they actually look forward to going back to 'work' the next day for a much-needed rest from dirty clothes, screaming kids and fast-talking vacuum cleaner salesmen.

Well, on my last 'day-off', I decided to be daring. I ignored the week's worth pile-up of dirty laundry, I put the unmade beds out of my mind, I took the baby to my mother's house and I headed for the golf course.

I was going to experience first hand this thing called a 'day-off'.

Barely knowing one end of a golf club from the other, I teed up at hole No. 1 and away I went.

It took me almost as long to play three holes as it took others (steadily passing me) to play nine.

I still can't figure out why that ball always wanted to go left when the distant green was obviously on the right. Most of my time was spent looking for the golf ball.

Finally I got smart, though, and if it took me longer than five minutes to find where my disappearing shot landed, I just got another ball out of the bag and started playing it. (Hmmm, a box of balls per game, I guess that's not too bad.)

However, my fun (?) day of leisure did have its bad points. I was somewhat embarrassed a few times when I forgot to hit the ball.

As far as a mere amateur could tell, my grip was okay and my swing was fair.

The problem? I just forgot to hit the ball. I noticed a few passing motorists got a kick out of it too. (Oh well, at least I brightened someone's day.)

BY THE TIME I wandered out to the ninth hole, it was time to call it a day.

(Don't be surprised if the next time you go to play golf you're required to wear a motorcycle helmet for protection because of some woman whose golf balls continually passed uncomfortably close to the heads of others playing the game a few days back.)

Anyway, when I returned home, needless to say I was discouraged to find the beds were still unmade, the dirty clothes hamper was still full and supper was waiting to be cooked.

Was my so-called day of leisure worth it? Heck no. I didn't wash, therefore we didn't have any clean clothes. I didn't clean house and that just put me that much farther behind.

Days-off? Who has time for 'em'?

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My boyfriend wants me to move in with him. He says we ought to see if we are really compatible before we get married. I wasn't brought up this way, but I wonder if maybe he's right. — M.M.

DEAR M.M.: Your boyfriend is wrong, no matter how persuasive his arguments may sound. It would be wrong for you to do this because God's word makes it very clear that such an arrangement is displeasing to Him. Throughout the Bible sexual sin is seen as a very serious matter. "You shall not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14).

The love between a man and a woman is a very beautiful thing, and God has given it to the human race. But the full expression of that love is to be realized only in marriage. The problem with the arrangement your boyfriend is suggesting is that there is no lasting commitment by either of you. But God's eyes marriage is a vow before Him, and a deep commitment between husband and wife which is not to be broken as long as they live. That is one reason sex outside of marriage is wrong. Only in the mutual commitment of marriage can true love between a man and a woman reach its fullest meaning.

I believe there is another issue for you to face also, and that is the place of God in your life. Your letter suggests that you have had a good family background, and I am thankful for that. But what place does God have in your life? Have you ever really acknowledged your sins to Him, and asked His Son, Jesus Christ, to come into your life and rule?

God has placed you on this earth for a purpose. His will is not just that you be happy, but that you serve Him and love Him. So far in life you seem to be looking out for yourself mainly, trying to find some kind of happiness on your own. How wonderful it would be if you would turn your life over to God, and let Him guide you as you seek His will! And the time to begin following Him is now, by keeping yourself pure and seeking a husband who loves God and wants to serve Him also.

Dear Publisher:

Our family takes exception to the "Around The Rim" column in your March 10 edition. We consider Ms. Cohen's attempts at sick humor to be a slur to a great youth organization.

If Ms. Cohen wishes to speak of extortion, then she should be made aware of the blackmail imposed on the American public by the OPEC Nations and the PLO as a result of the continued support of Israel by the United States. Everytime that "Mr. USA Smith" stands in the Israel "Take" window "Abdul OPEC-PLO" raises the price of his "Cookies," "Cookies" that were $5 to $10-barrel in 1973 are now around $40-barrel and rising, sans yeast. 30c-gallon gasoline in 1973 is now $1.20-gallon as a result.

The Girl Scout Cookie program has benefited every family that has girls in the Scouting activities. What has the OPEC-PLO vs Israel blackmail of the U.S. done for these and all other American families??? Take a look at your pocketbook and your draft age children and think.

Dear Editor:

We would like to extend our appreciation to Nathan Poss, sports editor of the Big Spring Herald, for his press coverage of the Hawk Queens throughout the season. In a time of transition for women's sports, many schools experience difficulty in getting any coverage and very little recognition for their successes. We feel very fortunate in having such a person as Nathan on the local paper.

I would also like to state that in the history of the Region V Women's Basketball Tournament there has never been the quality or quantity of coverage as provided by Mr. Poss and the Big Spring Herald on this year's tournament.

In addition, I thank all of the local radio stations for their interest and support and especially KFNE-FM for their support in broadcasting many of our games.

To our fans, who are growing in number, we truly appreciate your attendance and loyalty.

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to you and Nathan Poss, Sports Editor, for the excellent coverage of the Region 5 NJCAA Women's Basketball Tournament. Nathan did a super job.

Also, I would like to thank all the volunteers who donated their time to work during the tournament. Without them, the tournament would not have been the success that it was.

Most of all, a Special Thanks to Coach Don Stevens and the Hawk Queens. They are still number one.

Dear Editor:

When the Cannibal Draw crowd gathers for its third annual reunion May 23, we intend to initiate plans to invite the wives, sisters and all the old-time girl friends of all eligible members to a special get-together sometime in the near future.

For this idea to become a reality, some real planning will have to be done.

There are many ways that this event can be staged. Some have suggested a picnic at the park with catered food, or perhaps the ladies might form various committees to prepare the food and the beverages, with the cost being shared by all who attend. Perhaps the fairbarns would be a suitable site.

Such a meeting means we would have to plan for 150 people or more.

I suggest that any of the women with different ideas for such a reunion pass them on to their husbands or brothers, in order that they can be presented during the discussion.

For the information of women who were born prior to 1930 and who resided in the Cannibal Draw area in east Big Spring, who may not have a husband or brother, they are as big a part of this as anyone else.

A reminder to all: The attendance goal for the 1980 reunion is 55. Anyone with ideas about the reunion can contact me by dialing 263-0815.

Brilab investigation continues

FBI focuses on company connections

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal agents are looking at alleged vending machine business connections of two key figures in the Brilab investigation, The Houston Post said in its Wednesday editions.

L.G. Moore, a Houston labor leader who allegedly gave House Speaker Bill Clayton a questionable $5,000 campaign contribution, and reputed New Orleans underworld boss Carlos Marcello are both being investigated by the FBI, the Post said.

The paper quoted unnamed federal sources as saying the investigation focuses on Moore's five-year tenure as the head of the state Amusement Machine Commission. He retired as its chairman in mid-1979.

At that time, Marcello allegedly ran the now-defunct Pelican Amusement Co. of Louisiana, and investigators are looking at a possible connection between the two, the newspaper said.

Moore also is being investigated in a separate Justice Department inquiry for alleged involvement in an extortion scheme involving B&B Vending Co. of Dallas and the Teamsters, the newspaper said.

FBI and Internal Revenue Service personnel began investigating Moore and B&B Vending after allegations that two Teamster officials, who were paid company consultants, extorted funds.

Moore, now regional director of the Union of Operating Engineers, may have served as a liaison for undercover FBI agents, Marcello and numerous local political figures, the newspaper said.

The government also alleges Marcello has attempted to influence state and local officials from Louisiana to California.

Moore and Houston Port Authority Commissioner John Garrett were among several persons called to testify before a federal grand jury in Houston when the Brilab (bribery-labor) probe opened last month.

Both Moore and Garrett served on the amusement commission at the same time, something that was "probably a coincidence," according to Jackie Vaughan, executive vending commission director and a friend of Moore.

"Both men (Moore and Garrett) are regarded here as above-board, honest men," Vaughan said.

Moore, Garrett and B&B officials could not be reached for comment Tuesday night.

CBS gains momentum, wins weekly ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS seems to have regained some of the momentum it lost to ABC's Winter Olympics coverage, winning the networks' prime-time ratings race for the week ending March 9 by a full point, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

Some industry experts had forecast the Olympics, broadcast in mid-February, would put ABC in the lead for the rest of the season.

But after two winning weeks in a row for CBS, and a dozen in the last 17, ABC's lead for the season is down to two-tenths of a point, 19.7 to CBS' 19.5, with NBC third at 17.7.

CBS, in the most recent survey, listed eight of the week's 10 highest-rated shows, including No. 1 "60 Minutes." CBS scored as it has most of the season with its regular lineup, though the network did get a boost from the classic motion picture, "The Wizard of Oz," No. 8 in the ratings.

CBS' rating for the week was 19.6, to 18.9 for ABC and 16.9 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, almost 20 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 28.7, and Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, 28.7 percent watched at least part of the broadcast.

The two remaining Top 10 shows belonged to ABC, and of them was the premiere edition of "That's Incredible." The new show, which resembles NBC's "Real People" program, was fifth in the ratings, while "Real People" finished 12th.

"Real People" was, in fact, NBC's top-rated program. CBS won the week despite a rather poor showing at the bottom, with three of the week's five least-watched programs, including "Hawaii Five-O" in 59th place, followed by the premiere of "Beyond Westworld" in 60th and "The Chisholms," tied with an NBC movie, "Brave New World," for 61st. ABC's "One in a Million" was last in the ratings.

The week's Top 10 shows:
 "60 Minutes," with a rating of 28.7 representing 21.9 million homes, "M-A-S-H," 27.7 or 21.1 million, "Alice," 27.4 or 20.9 million, and "The Jeffersons," 26.4 or 20.1 million, all CBS; "That's Incredible," 25.4 or 19.4 million, and "Three's Company," 25.2 or 19.2 million, both ABC, and "One Day at a Time," 25.1 or 19.1 million, Movie, "The Wizard of Oz," 24 or 18.3 million, "Archie Bunker's Place," 23.7 or 18.1 million, and "Dukes of Hazzard," 23.6 or 18 million, all CBS.

On the light side

It's a bird, it's a...

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Next time you hook an extra large Pacific Northwest trout, don't be surprised. It just might be the result of Dr. Gary Thorgaard's experiments with his sterile super fish.

Thorgaard's theory, simply put is: If a fish hasn't got fooling around on its mind, it can channel that energy into something commercially constructive — like growing.

Though reluctant to discuss his discovery until the results are verified and published, the Washington State University geneticist says he has produced genetically sterile rainbow trout by dipping the eggs in a hot water bath at a certain stage of development.

The Inland Empire Fly Fishing Club of Spokane gave Thorgaard a $3,000 grant for the study, said Dr. Alton R. Stier, club secretary and Spokane pathologist.

"We expect to see some differences this year. I think it's entirely feasible to have eight or nine-pound fish in eight or nine years using this method," Stier said.

Susan 1, the system 0

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — The ringing of a grocery store cash register is music to Susan Miller — it covers the sound of other shoppers groaning.

The Midland woman received $161.38 in free groceries, plus a $2.37 refund, on a recent shopping day with coupons and refund slips.

"I still can't believe it," she said. "They actually paid me to cart the groceries out of the store. Savings like that don't happen every week."

Mrs. Miller said she normally saves about 50 percent on her grocery bill, but the store where she set her record featured double coupon savings.

"I didn't know what to expect until the groceries were checked out ...when the final coupon was subtracted the store actually owed me money. The cashier even autographed my sales slip."

She said her husband Bruce thought she was "totally nuts" when she started clipping coupons. "Now he always asks if I want a wrapper before he throws it away."

Her next goal — a $250 freebie.

Price shrinks more than $300 in two months

At last, the glitter of gold and silver fades

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold and silver, the bright stars of the speculative firmament just seven weeks ago, seem to be losing their luster.

The buying fever that pushed the price of a troy ounce of gold to a peak of $875 in January has broken and the price has shrunk more than $300.

And silver, which skyrocketed from $6 to $50 in about a year, now has dropped below $30 an ounce.

Some economists now say that trader overreacted to international crises following the Iranian seizure of American hostages and the Soviet Union's decision to send troops into Afghanistan.

"The war psychology fever has died down," said Jeffrey Nichols, an economist with Argus Research Corp.

"It doesn't look like we're going one-on-one with the Soviet Union."

Inflation, both in the United States and other industrial countries, played a big role in pushing up the prices of gold and silver. With paper money losing value, precious metals looked like a safe haven.

But in recent weeks traders have been painfully reminded that gold pays no dividends and that interest rates have risen to record highs in the United States as the Federal Reserve Board tightens credit to fight inflation.

"When you can take your dollars and make 16 or 17 percent, it's a heavy price to pay to own gold," said Fred Bogart, the head of precious metals trading for Republic National Bank of New York.

"The speculator wasn't seeing a good return on his money," said Guy Cheney, a metals trader with Bache Halsey Stuart Shields in London. "He was seeing a far more advantageous proposition in some of the interest rates, some of the money markets, so he decided to sell. And once the selling came it was rather like a snowball."

The latest darling of the speculators is the previously maligned dollar. Buoyed by high interest rates, it is at its highest level in months against most major currencies and since the beginning of the year has risen almost 10 percent against the once-powerful Swiss franc.

In the current psychology of the gold market, bad inflation news is even being taken as bad news for the price of metals. Traders have paid a lot of attention to speculation that President Carter will impose some form of credit controls and slash federal spending.

"The mind of the market has moved to inflation, and that President Carter will take bold, incisive action against it," said James Sinclair, the head of a New York investment firm bearing his name.

The speculative surge in gold and silver spilled over into other metals, and those have also declined from their highs. Platinum, which reached $1,085 an ounce, has slipped as low as $858. Copper, whose price rose to $1.46 a pound, dipped below a dollar.

None of the metals is cheap by historical standards, of course. "If you went into the bush six months ago and came out now and I told you gold was selling for $560, you wouldn't believe it," said Bogart. Gold then cost just under $400 an ounce, up from $225 at the beginning of 1979.

Traders say Arab investors, who were big buyers two months ago, aren't investing as much in gold these days. "They are putting money into certificates of deposit at the banks," says Joel Goodman, the head of precious metals trading for Deak-Perera, a large New York firm. Those certificates now pay 17 percent or more.

Part of the rush of Arab money into gold was prompted by the United States freeze of Iranian assets. That was seen as a warning that "any investments you have in the United States, you may not be able to get," said Bogart. Those fears have eased as the U.S. emphasized the extreme nature of the Iranian provocation.

This week, after the price went below $600 an ounce, sales of gold to individuals in the United States picked up dramatically. "We've sold a tremendous amount of gold across the country the last two days," Goodman said late Tuesday.

"People look at this as a buying opportunity," added Goodman, who has a doctorate in psychology.

The drop in prices has dampened the rush to sell rings, tea sets, loving cups and other things made of gold and silver. "Business is dead," moaned the head of one New York firm that buys such items for their metal content.

Electricians fired for patriotic gesture

NORTH PERRY, Ohio (AP) — Ten electricians on the crew building the Perry nuclear power plant have been fired for refusing to remove decals from their hard hats that pictured the American flag and said "Free the Hostages," the workers said.

The incident Tuesday involved employees of the L.K. Comstock Co. Inc., a Danbury, Conn. subcontractor at the plant being built 35 miles east of Cleveland for the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

The decals were produced as part of a promotion by the Erie (Pa.) Morning News.

The electricians said they placed the flag decals on their hard hats to show patriotism and support for the hostages in Iran.

Lester Wuerfl, vice president of Comstock's home office, said company policy "is not to have anything else on a hard hat except the company sticker."

"The flag's a symbol of our country," said one fired worker, Douglas H. Brunswick, 37, of Bedford. "We've been promoting patriotism on the job and thought this would help boost morale. Evidently, they want us to pledge allegiance to Comstock."

"The decals don't damage or deface the hat, interfere with the quality of our work or slow down production."

Brunswick said the workers were warned Friday to remove the decals because they violated company policy.

He said company officials told 13 workers wearing the decals Tuesday to remove them or be fired. He said three workers removed the decal and the rest were told their jobs were terminated.

The workers said they will file a grievance with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

A MESSAGE SENT — Pulaski Circuit Court Judge Harold R. Staffeldt pauses in front of the courthouse where the jury is deliberating the Ford Motor Co. reckless homicide trial in Winamac, Ind., for the third day. Staffeldt said regardless of the verdict the 10-week-old trial has sent a message to American industry.

More oil sighted on coast

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 12-mile-long oil slick drifting 50 miles south of American waters prompted Coast Guard officials to string oil containment booms across the southern entrance to the ecologically sensitive Laguna Madre.

The ribbon of heavy brown oil, possibly from a runaway Mexican well in the Bay of Campeche, ranges in width from 600 yards to four miles.

All of this is just as a precaution because we don't know what the trajectory of it (the slick) will be," Capt. Gerald Hinson, Coast Guard on-scene coordinator in Corpus Christi, said.

The Coast Guard deployed oil containment equipment at the Brazos Santiago Pass after the sighting of the slick Monday. Two Navy oil skimmers also were put in the water, said Lt. Harry Vaughan.

The pass is the southern entrance to the Laguna Madre, an ecologically sensitive inland waterway that serves as a breeding ground for many commercially important species of marine life.

Three Coast Guardsmen also have started patrolling beaches along South Padre Island for signs of new oil washing ashore, said Hinson.

"The beach patrols will run up and down the beach especially in the highly inhabited and trafficked areas."

Jose Luis Garcia Luna, director of offshore exploration for the Mexican national oil company (Pemex), said Tuesday there is almost no oil coming from the well.

"At this very moment, there is no flow of oil from the well to the sea," he told Television Station KGFT in a telephone interview from Mexico City.

But a Pemex spokesman in Mexico City said late Tuesday "very little oil is coming from the well, but it is still coming out. We have not been able to control it. That's the truth."

The Coast Guard had been awaiting an invitation to send oil recovery equipment to the well but Luna said that no longer would be necessary if things continue on course.

"Today (Tuesday) the well is not blowing oil and we have it under dynamic control with the help of the relief wells. We are now working on the last stage of work trying to plug the bottom of the well with cement," he said.

The well blew out June 3 and has polluted Gulf waters with more than 110 million gallons of raw crude oil.

Balanced budget won't help inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although President Carter intends to make a balanced 1981 budget the centerpiece of his new anti-inflation strategy, almost no one expects it will do much to bring down the nation's inflation rate.

Then why is he bothering? For one thing, he has to do something. For another, it's widely believed that government deficit spending is inflationary. And those who accept that premise will be reassured that Carter has done something.

The president may announce his anti-inflation program by Thursday. It's expected to include a balanced budget, selective credit controls and a new initiative to conserve energy. Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., the House majority leader, said Tuesday that congressional leaders and administration officials have tentatively agreed on almost $15 billion in budget cuts for 1981, although there were reports Tuesday the cuts would range from $12 billion to $15 billion. White House officials say revenues also may be increased $5 billion.

Carter originally proposed a 1981 budget with a deficit of $15.8 billion. The government has not operated with a balanced budget since 1969.

One reason a balanced budget won't help much in the short term is that a major share of the nation's inflation is coming from high energy prices and high interest rates, neither of which would be directly affected.

Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, said the reduction in inflation from a balanced budget could be measured in "tenths of a percent." That's not much from the recent annual rate of 18 percent, although that rate is expected to ease somewhat as the year wears on, even if nothing is done.

Critics of the balanced budget approach, and they are many, say that by balancing the budget, the administration will be trading little gain against inflation for reduced economic output and increased unemployment. Critics also worry that the emphasis on the balanced budget may mislead inflation-weary Americans into expecting too much, with the result that an already disillusioned public may become even more so.

The chief reason the administration is frantic about dealing with inflation is concern that it could worsen. Financial markets have been in turmoil since the latest inflation reports and the release of Carter's red ink budget for 1981.

Charles L. Schultz, the president's chief economic adviser, said it is vital to keep higher energy prices from becoming locked into the nation's underlying inflation rate.

'Houston Plan' may end

HOUSTON (AP) — The so-called "Houston Plan," the city's alternative to federal thermostat requirements, may be axed although officials charged with its enforcement contend it's working well.

City Councilman Frank Mancuso says he wants to discuss the possibility of ending the 18-week-old program because government officials say the federal plan may end when it expires in April.

The city's plan allows thermostats in public buildings to be set two degrees lower in the summer and one degree higher in the winter than the federal standards of 78 and 63 degrees.

Phil Baker, deputy energy official in charge of enforcing the plan, says about 30 percent of Houston's 35,000 to 40,000 businesses have obtained energy licenses from the city.

He said one oil company, he declined to identify, saved about $30,000 a month in energy costs since instituting the new thermostat settings.

However, the plan has come under fire from religious leaders who contend assessing churches a half cent per square foot to help fund the $750,000 plan is a violation of the separation of church and state doctrine.

"I've been getting bunches of call from churches complaining about it," Mancuso said. "We have to license churches just like any commercial business."

Odom Fanning, acting manager for the federal program, said the compliance rate nation-wide has been about 75 percent and added he did not think the Energy Department would ask Congress to renew the plan.

Ex-wife making plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chip Carter's ex-wife, Caron, reportedly is making wedding plans again. Mrs. Carter, who separated from President Carter's son in November and was granted an uncontested divorce last month, will be married in late spring to an Atlanta dentist, according to Washington Post columnist Maxine Cheshire. The columnist said Tuesday that Mrs. Carter's mother, Mrs. Ben Griffin of Hawkinsville, Ga., confirmed her daughter's plans to wed Dr. Steve Morgan. Mrs. Griffin, reached by The Associated Press, declined to elaborate. Mrs. Carter, who was married to Chip, 29, for six years, teaches school near Atlanta and is the mother of 3-year-old James Earl Carter IV.

Actor getting involved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The star of a hit play about a malformed Englishman says he has met hundreds who suffer from similar afflictions, and he urged Congress to fund research that might lead to a cure. "They are trapped inside bodies that don't work and aren't beautiful," said Philip Anglim, currently leading the touring company of the Broadway hit, "The Elephant Man." Anglim portrays John Merrick, who suffered from a rare genetic disease called neurofibromatosis. He appeared Tuesday before a Senate appropriations subcommittee to seek $298 million for the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Strokes.

Senator calls for same

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, who is of Japanese ancestry, says the United States should put all Iranians in this country into relocation camps "the way we did with the Japanese in World War II." "We interned 110,000 Japanese during World War II and we managed all right," the California Republican said in an interview, published Tuesday, with the Sacramento Bee. He said only non-citizen Iranians, not Americans of Iranian descent, should be affected.

Hayakawa said such a move would give the United States "a few bargaining chips" in its effort to win the release of Americans held hostage in Iran.

No interviews with Amy

WASHINGTON (AP) — So you want to read an interview with Amy Carter? Not likely, says the White House. Mary Finch Hoyt, press secretary to Rosalynn Carter, says the president's wife "blew her stack" when asked if her 12-year-old daughter could be interviewed. Mrs. Hoyt said several organizations have asked and all have been turned down. Young Amy apparently is involved these days in a number of activities — including baking. Mrs. Hoyt said Tuesday she was in a supermarket over the weekend and saw Amy and a friend "with their heads in a bin and a Secret Service Agent." "According to Rosalynn, they spent the afternoon making brownies from one end of the kitchen to another," she said.

Abilene funeral home not laughing at error

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — The Elliott-Hamil Funeral Home isn't in the frozen food business, but you can't tell by checking the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Yellow Pages for this West Texas town. Instead of being listed with the other funeral homes in the Yellow Pages, it's listed under the classification: Frozen Food-Wholesale. Penny Young, a telephone company spokesman, blames the mixup on a computer error. "I know that we will make amends with the customer. We're awfully sorry," she said. The funeral home's co-owner and general manager doesn't find the mixup the least bit funny. "I wish some of the persons who have been calling him think it is."

John Hammil says he is "absolutely heartsick" about the mixup. "We feel sure that a lot of people will find the unfortunate mistake humorous. We are understandably upset by the error," Hammil said. The mixup was in all 70,112 new telephone books distributed in Abilene this week. The telephone company spokesman said Bell is liable only to the funeral home for the cost of the advertisement. The operators of the funeral home didn't completely miss out on being listed under funeral homes. An insurance firm owned by the same people, Elliott Insurance Co., is listed under funeral homes instead of under life insurance companies.

Takes Exception To 'Exceptional'

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter from the mother of a Mongoloid child in which she refers to him as "exceptional" and "special." I must thank you for printing such letters, since they always give me a good laugh. Imagine having the gall to use words describing excellence, superiority and noteworthiness in reference to people with mental and physical deficiencies.

I can hardly wait for a SWAT team to discover that their "special" weapons are slingshots, or to hear of the shock of a teacher who has been refused tenure as a result of his or her "exceptional" work in the field of education.

WILLIAM G. ANDERSON, JR.

DEAR MR. ANDERSON: My Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary defines "exceptional" as "forming an exception; rare. Also, 'better than average,' and 'below average.'"

And "special" is defined as "that which is distinguished by some unusual quality; being other than usual; unique." I am always pleased when a reader "gets a good laugh" from something in my column, but the letter I published about the Down's Syndrome (please, not "Mongoloid") child was not meant to be amusing. Furthermore, what gives you a good laugh strikes me as being funny—meaning "different from the ordinary." And more than a little cruel.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is engaged to marry a young man she went with all through high school. (She is 21 and he is 22.) He went overseas, but was sent home before his hitch was up because he had been having "blackouts." He spent several months in the hospital under observation, and was then discharged, but he still sees a psychiatrist once a month at the VA hospital here.

My daughter told me he has struck her several times lately. She said last night he slapped her hard across the mouth because she disagreed with him on some small thing. He cried and apologized afterward so she forgave him.

What worries me is that after they are married they will be living in another state and I am afraid of what he may do to her.

How can I get her to postpone her wedding until I am sure he is all right? Or should I just leave well enough alone and hope for the best? She says she loves him, but at times she's afraid of him.

I don't like to interfere, but I can't let my daughter make what could be a serious mistake. Should I contact the boy's doctor and ask him some questions? Please give me some advice.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Your daughter should postpone her marriage. She should ask to accompany her fiancé on his next visit to the doctor, and together they should get a complete report on his condition and the prognosis. No girl should marry a man she is afraid of.

DEAR ABBY: After 27 years with me, my wife, Phyllis, is reasonably able to cope with weirdos of any stripe. She recently had an encounter with a flasher here at our railroad station in Connecticut, and I'd like to pass on her solution to the confrontation as a sort of primer for future victims.

Confronted by our Westport flasher, raincoat agape, my fashion-conscious wife glanced briefly at the man, then whispered to him, "Sorry, Shorty, I can't read the label on the coat," whereupon he angrily buttoned up and slunk off in a huff.

I want to call him but my mother and father thought that I shouldn't but will let me.

'There's hope for me' Six lives of Mary Jane

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Friends called the rich society girl Mary Jane. Then she became a swinger — in New York, Paris and Hollywood — giving gossip columnists fodder by dating homosexuals and making pronouncements against marriage and her father.

Next, Jane Fonda became a "sex kitten," in then-husband Roger Vadim's "Barbarella" and other movies.

The scantily clad, blonde-haired star of the space fantasy film was a far cry from the wife and mother who came back to Hollywood in 1969 to appear in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

And she was further still from the blue-jeaned, clenched-fisted activist who threw Black Panther fund-raisers, got thrown off Army bases and was called a traitor in the House of Representatives for her trip to Hanoi in the midst of the Vietnam War.

The word "traitor" came up again last year when the Academy Award-winning actress was nominated by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to the California Arts Council. There were men in the state Senate who had not forgotten her broadcast to U.S. servicemen over Hanoi radio: "How does it feel to be used as pawns?"

The woman who once said, "Property is theft," now owns a $500,000 ranch in Santa Barbara. She runs a Beverly Hills exercise studio, is president and sole shareholder of two production companies and owns 500 shares of stock in Columbia Pictures.

Miss Fonda, who refused repeated interview requests, lives in a modest Santa Monica house with her husband, Tom Hayden, 40, their son, Troy, 6, and her daughter Vanessa Vadim, 11.

The ranch has been turned into an ecology camp for poor children and offspring of those who support the Haydens' Campaign for Frances Seymour Brokaw, the second of Henry Fonda's five wives, slashed her throat when her children, Jane and Peter, were 12 and 10. Jane thought her mother had died of a heart attack. She was enlightened by a schoolmate who got the facts from a fan magazine.

She attended Vassar for two years where, "I went wild and got into lots of trouble." She went to Paris to study art. But when Fonda found she was spending most of her time in Left Bank dives, he took her to New York, where she spent time in Greenwich Village dives.

She worked as a photographers' model, appeared with her father in two plays and eventually tried the movies.

For a long time, she resisted the beckon of Roger Vadim, who had a reputation for collecting beautiful actresses. She said she detested him, but appeared in "La Ronde" in 1964. The romance and her sex star movies began.

Her consciousness-raising began when her daughter was born and friends in France began asking her to justify the Vietnam War. Vadim said, "When she talks about politics all the time, there is not time to establish feelings."

"I have more important things on my mind besides marriage and family," she said.

She was defensive about her movie roles when she began her political tours, trying to distribute anti-war literature on Army bases, putting on anti-administration plays in GI coffeehouses. "I'm up to my eyeballs in guilt that I made 'Barbarella,'" she said.

She divorced Vadim in 1973 and married Hayden later that year.

When the war ended, her husband ran a losing campaign for the Democratic nomination as U.S. Senator from California. But he was appointed by Brown to three state panels. The couple influenced Brown to appoint a censured former POW to the Board of Supervisors of conservative Orange County.

When the "boat people" were forced by the Vietnamese government into leaky ships without enough food or water, Miss Fonda once again took her unique line. "I don't know if we can expect the Vietnamese people to turn free those millions of people overnight," she said, "people who were involved in a war much more hideous than any repression only five years ago." Yet, she donated money to friends who flew medical supplies to refugees.

"New facts keep coming into one's life, new feelings," she has said. "As long as I'm changing, there's hope for me."

FROM SEX KITTEN TO FAT CAT — In 1967 swinger-actress Jane Fonda made the movie "Barbarella." In 1970 political activist Jane Fonda led a rally to free the Soledad Brothers. She says her consciousness-raising began during the Vietnam War, when she was denounced as a traitor for her support of Hanoi and life now is a fight "to make the world human again." And her "tremendous salary" helps support the anti-big-business political campaign of her husband Tom Hayden.

Exports of corn nearing government projections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grain exports, notably shipments of corn, are at record levels and continue to edge close to what government experts projected before President Carter shut off the Soviet Union early this year.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday one reason is that the Soviets have been scrambling to find other sources for its grain imports. That has triggered competition among other foreign buyers for U.S. corn. Carter canceled further U.S. grain shipments to the Soviet Union Jan. 4 in retaliation for its occupation of Afghanistan. The Soviets, beset by a short harvest last year, have been scouring other markets, including Argentina and others, to help make up its shortfall.

The higher estimate of U.S. corn shipments reflects a decrease in export availability from Argentina as a result of deteriorating crop prospects and growing world demand as importing nations seek new sources of grain in the face of strong competition from the USSR, officials said.

In all, the report said U.S. corn exports are now expected to be a record of about 2.4 billion bushels. That is 125 million more than experts had projected for 1979-80 on Jan. 28, several weeks after Carter's action. Also, the new corn export figure nudged to within 100 million bushels of the 2.5 billion bushels predicted last Nov. 13, long before the partial embargo was ordered.

Consequently, the report said, prices of corn at the farm are expected to be about 5 cents a bushel more than was indicated six weeks ago, averaging $2.30 to $2.50 a bushel over the entire crop marketing year, which will end Sept. 30.

Last November, the price forecast was $2.25 to $2.55 a bushel at the farm over the entire year.

On Monday, the Agriculture Department acknowledged the Soviet Union has made some headway in finding grain to offset part of the shipments canceled by Carter. But officials added the Soviets would not come near making up the entire amount.

The partial embargo affected 17 million metric tons of corn and wheat that the Soviet Union was expected to take from the United States in the 1979-80 year, which will end Sept. 30. Orders for 8 million metric tons, specified under an earlier agreement, were exempted.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat.

On a tonnage basis, the U.S. corn exports now projected at about 2.4 billion bushels this season would be equal to 61 million metric tons.

Figures for wheat were unchanged from the January forecast, a total of nearly 1.33 billion bushels to be exported in the wheat marketing year, which will end May 31. That is equal to 36.1 million metric tons.

Last November, wheat exports were projected at 1.4 billion bushels, or some 38.1 million metric tons.

The farm price of wheat was estimated at $3.70 to $3.90 a bushel, unchanged from January. It was projected last November to average $3.60 to $3.90 a bushel at the farm over the entire marketing year.

Overall, total U.S. exports of feedgrains — mainly corn but including sorghum, barley and oats — were put at a record of 69.1 million metric tons in 1979-80, up 15 percent from 61 million last year. Last November, the projected total was 71.1 million metric tons.

Florida vegetables in 'highly variable' state

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says Florida vegetable crops are in "highly variable" condition at this time, ranging from "poor to mostly good."

Low temperatures moved through production areas during the last week, causing "substantial plant loss to cucumbers, squash, tomatoes, peppers and potatoes in northern and west central areas," officials said Tuesday in a weekly report.

In Texas, it said, cold weather damaged some melons, young cabbage plants, cucumbers and some onions and potatoes.

Indonesia will get American rice, wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia will get $51 million worth of U.S. rice and wheat under a new Food for Peace arrangement.

The package, announced Tuesday by the Agriculture Department, includes more than $40.7 million worth of rice, an estimated 117,000 metric tons, and $10.3 million worth of wheat or flour, around 60,000 metric tons. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds.

Officials said the agreement calls for Indonesia to get the commodities this calendar year.

Florida gold heist

Thief 'knew his trade'

MIAMI (AP) — It was a "monster hit" — perhaps the nation's largest — and whoever walked out of the Miami jewelry store with as much as $8 million in gold knew his trade, an insurance investigator says.

"Sophisticated crime? Hell, this is almost a masterpiece," Richard F. Andrews said Tuesday. "Nobody even knew the place was hit until about 2:45 Sunday afternoon."

Miami police and the FBI say they don't know much about the theft at the Trendline Jewelry. The store's owner also owns a company that lost $790,000 in precious metals last week at Miami International Airport, Andrews said.

The robbery is history's largest gold theft and the biggest robbery of any kind ever in Florida, he said.

"I've never heard of any gold theft bigger — anywhere," said the investigator for The Jewelers' Mutual Co.

"I've been in this business a long time and I've handled a lot of big theft cases, but this one is No. 1 already. We're talking gold worth close to $8 million on the retail market. Even if you were going to sell it all on the scrap market the value would be $5 million."

A $100,000 reward was offered for information leading to arrests and convictions. Andrews said his only clue was a trail of blood he noticed along the wall and floor in a hall.

The thieves made off with 300 pounds of gold, he said, and "literally thousands" of ring mountings, bracelets and other jewelry.

"Whoever hit the place knew what was going on inside and they knew the place was closed for the first time on a weekend in years," he said, without disclosing why the store was closed.

"They knew how to jam the electrical equipment to get in and they knew what to do once they got inside."

Miami police who went to the store Sunday reported the thieves jimmied burglar alarms and pulled the lock cylinders from a door, according to spokesman Angelo Bitsis. Then they took gold, jewelry and silver coins sealed in 5-gallon containers.

"They were in there for three, four hours," said Andrews. "The only things they didn't get were the three safes they couldn't open."

Trendline owner Al Weinberg owns several other gold and jewelry companies, including Precious Metals Inc. That firm lost an aluminum container filled with $790,000 in scrap gold and silver last week.

Trendline has been a center for people selling gold and silver and jewelry as price of the metals soared in recent months.

The Guinness Book of World Records does not list the biggest gold robbery. It lists the greatest jewel robbery as a 1976 theft in Florida of $6 million in jewels and $1 million in other items.

The 1978 robbery of an estimated $5 million from Lufthansa Airlines at New York's Kennedy International Airport was the nation's biggest cash theft, authorities said at that time.

Ralph Harris named BSHS football coach

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Thirty-four-year-old Ralph Harris, who has turned two high school grid programs around in impressive fashion, has been named as the Head Football Coach at Big Spring High School.

The announcement of Harris as the Steer grid mentor came this morning from Athletic Director Ron Logback, who was in charge of hiring the new football coach at BSHS.

Harris will inherit a program that has not won a District 5-AAAA game since 1974, and has won only three games in the past four years.

But his success thus far in dealing with such situations was the primary reason that Logback decided on Harris. "We were looking for a man that had previously been in situations similar to ours, and had turned it around," explained Logback, who served as the Steers football coach the past two years, before the Athletic Director-Head Football Coaching job was separated.

There were other factors involved that Harris displayed that were encouraging to Logback. "He (Harris) is a motivator, a dynamic personality," explained Logback. "He also fit in with the attitude that we were looking for in that he is a very optimistic person."

A total of 24 applications were received for the job, and after careful consideration, Logback narrowed the list to three people. These three were interviewed over the past two weeks.

"One thing that we felt was very important was that he was very interested in the total program," Logback continued, then explaining, "By that, I mean that he realizes that all of the sports in our program are important."

"He also is interested and believes in the development of the program down through the seventh grade, which I feel is very important toward success at the varsity level," Logback further stated.

Harris, who graduated from Atchison High School in Atchison, Kansas, attended college at Highland JC in Kansas and received his college diploma from Sul Ross State University. He was an all-around athlete throughout high school and college. The new Steer football coach actually began his coaching career in Big Spring, as he was at Runnels JHS in the 88-89 school year.

He then moved to Devine, where he served as the varsity defensive coordinator and the Head Basketball Coach. He served at Devine for three years under former Big Spring assistant Doyle Parker, who is now the football boss at Pearland.

From Devine, Harris received his first job as a Head Football Coach at Class A Dublin in 1972.

Prior to Harris' arrival at Dublin, that school had won only five games in the four previous years, and was coming off an 0-10 season.

But Harris went 7-2-1 in his first year there, and followed that with records of 9-1 and 6-4.

Having revamped the Dublin program, he left to take the reins of Class AA Sealy in 1975, where he has stayed until the present time.

Sealy was in the midst of an 18-game losing streak when Harris arrived, but he gradually turned that school's fortune around, culminated in the 1978 season when the Eric Dickerson led team went 15-0 and won the Class AA state championship.

Harris' records at Sealy display continued improvement. In his initial season of 1975, the Tigers went 2-8. Sealy then achieved records of 4-6, 7-2-1, 15-0 and 6-4 under Harris' tutelage.

Taking over sagging programs, this gives the new Big Spring mentor a combined head football coaching record of 56-27-2, including the state championship in AA.

Harris will hopefully arrive in Big Spring to take over his new job on March 24. Logback indicated that Harris would be free to bring in two assistants with him before the start of spring training, in order that he may more easily indoctrinate the Big Spring athletes and coaches with his system.

Following spring training, there will be more decisions made by Harris and Logback as to the status of the assistants currently here.

Harris, who will be paid $24,000 per year, is married and has four children.

Buckeye muscle scares UCLA

By the Associated Press
Rebounding — from a midseason slump and on the offensive boards — is what has gotten Ohio State this far. And it's what the 10th-ranked Buckeyes are hoping to use Thursday night to beat UCLA in the third round of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Clemson, 22-8, plays Lamar, 22-10 before UCLA, 19-9 and Ohio State, 21-7, go at it in the West Regionals. Also on Thursday night it's Purdue, 20-9, vs. Indiana, 21-7, and Duke, 23-8, vs. Kentucky, 29-5, in the Midwest Regionals.

In Friday night's regionals it's Iowa, 21-8, vs. Syracuse, 26-3, and Maryland, 24-6, vs. Georgetown, 25-5 in the East and Louisville, 29-3, vs. Texas A&M, 26-7, and Missouri, 25-5, vs. Louisiana State, 25-5 in the Midwest.

"We're getting more offensive rebounds now," says Herb Williams, Ohio State's 6-foot-10 center who scored 25 points and grabbed nine rebounds to help the Buckeyes rip apart Arizona State 89-75. "All of our guys are following their shots and putting the ball back in."

"We're attacking the boards, which I'm not sure we were doing a few weeks ago," Jim Ellinghausen, a reserve forward for OSU, said, looking back to a spell in which the Buckeyes lost three straight games and of five against other teams from the Big Ten.

"Lately we've been getting a lot more second shots, and that will win you a lot of games. I think we're concentrating on blocking out more. We've stopped being hesitant under the basket," said Ellinghausen.

Larry Brown, UCLA's coach, is concerned about Williams' presence under the boards for OSU, particularly if the officiating is loose.

"If they let it go, it'll be tough on us because Ohio State plays power offense and loves to get the ball inside to Williams," Brown said. "If we win, it'll have to be with defense and quickness."

"I've seen Ohio State play a few times and I haven't seen a better team this season. Playing them is like playing a pro team, they're so physical. They're bigger than us at every position, they're well coached, and I'm a little frightened."

If the Bruins win the tournament it'll be the surprise of the year — and that in itself must sound strange to fans who remember when the NCAA tournament was known only half-jokingly as the UCLA Invitational.

The Bruins, who won 10 championships in 13 years, entered this year's tournament unranked — but they put to rest the suggestion they didn't deserve to be in the 48-team field by shocking top-ranked DePaul 77-71 in last Sunday's second-round game.

UCLA's victory wasn't the only upset of this tournament. Equally shocking was Lamar's 81-77 triumph over fifth-ranked Oregon State. It was, Lamar Coach Billy Tubbs said, "the best we played all year," and he said the Cardinals would have to play at least as well to beat Clemson in a meeting of unranked squads.

The natural rivalry of seventh-ranked Indiana against No. 20 Purdue comes into play in the Midwest.

"We played twice last year and got to go to New York and play them again in the National Invitation Tournament," said Purdue Coach Lee Rose, "and to behold we end up against them this year in the NCAA."

"Both teams play with commitment and emotion, yet it comes down to which team executes best."

Moran tames Lamesa on no-hitter as Steers take win

LAMESA — The Big Spring Steers used the no-hit pitching of senior Robert Moran to stifle the Lamesa Golden Tors in taking a non-district win by the score of 4-0.

Moran was superb on the windy afternoon, as he allowed only three walks and struck out five to record the no-hitter in his first varsity start.

It was his fourth pitching appearance of the season. He had appeared three times in relief, also with encouraging results.

The Steers managed only six hits themselves, but made the most of them to collect plenty of runs for Moran, who transferred to Big Spring from a school in California.

Mark Warren led off the first by drawing a free pass to first, and promptly stole second. After one out and a Tim Shaver walk, Warren scored when Lamesa made an error after throwing Shaver out at second on Tommy Olague's grounder.

Olague, who moved to second on the play, scored later in the first when Blake Rosson hit a sacrifice fly to the deep portions of the outfield. Nursing a 2-0 lead in the third, Warren and Olague struck again. Warren singled to open the inning, and scored with two outs when Olague slammed a double.

With Moran keeping the Golden Tors in check, the Steers added an insurance run in the sixth inning. Sophomore Tracy Spence doubled to start inning, and later scored when Rusty Hayworth connected on a double to give the Bovines a 4-0 advantage.

The win was the second in seven starts for the Big Spring team, which goes to the Eagle Pass Tournament this weekend before starting District 5-AAAA play next Tuesday at Abilene. The Steers will play McAllen at 2 p.m. on Friday afternoon in their Eagle Pass Tourney opener. Entering the season, the Steers questionable pitching staff was the main concern of Big Spring Coach Howell Martin, so the performance by Moran had to be an added boost.

Since it was Moran's first start, Martin had planned to only use him for a few innings, but his performance made the Steer mentor change his mind. "I was only going to pitch him for three innings, but he had a no-hitter going, and he was really keeping the ball down," said Martin.

The win evened Moran's record a 1-1, while Lamesa's Lazado took the pitching loss.

Oxholm and Heiden were matched in the same pair and the Norwegian left the 21-year-old American behind from the start of the race.

Oxholm won the race in 7 minutes, 17.40 seconds. Heiden was clocked in 7:32.92 and placed only sixth in the race.

Earlier Tuesday, Heiden won the opening 500-meters race in 39.35 seconds. Terje Andersen of Norway was second in 39.60, Oxholm third in 39.91, Jan-Egil Storholt of Norway fourth in 39.92 and Craig Kressler of Midland, Mich., fifth in 40.58.

Wenzel family gains World Cups

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — This year has definitely been the year of the Wenzels in Alpine skiing.

Hanni, 24, the elder of a German-born family who moved to the tiny principality of Liechtenstein, won two gold medals and one silver at the Olympic Winter Games in Lake Placid, N.Y., then captured her second World Cup.

Her latest World Cup triumph came at the expense of such established stars as Austrian Anne Marie Moser Pröell and Swiss downhill specialist Marie Therese Nadig.

Andreas, her younger brother who was a silver medalist in the Lake Placid giant slalom, Tuesday gained the family's second World Cup of 1980.

He clinched the men's trophy, his first, beating, among others, Swedish superstar Ingemar Stenmark.

The Swede, a triple World Cup winner, was penalized by rules allowing only four best results in each speciality in compiling the overall standings.

However, it was Wenzel's cleverness in downhills that gained him victories in the combined and the additional Cup points which made the difference between him and Stenmark, who has always refused to start in skiing's fastest speciality.

Wenzel, like Stenmark a slalom specialist, said he became a downhiller for the purpose of winning the Cup.

Spills and injuries foiled his efforts last year.

"It paid off this season," Andreas said after piling up an unbeatable lead of 204 points in the overall Cup standings, with two World Cup races still to go.

Stenmark, aware that slalom wins alone would not be enough for his fourth World Cup, tested a downhill course last fall and gave up the idea after suffering a bad spill and a neck injury.

Wenzel built up his points through an upset win in a giant slalom at Oberstaufen last week and a second place in the combined at Lake Louise, Canada.

He gained the clinching points with a fourth place finish in the giant slalom here Tuesday, in which Stenmark, a double gold medalist at Lake Placid,

Intentional miss gives 76ers second chance win

By the Associated Press

Doug Collins did exactly what he was supposed to do — he missed a free throw.

Collins' miss, with two seconds to play at Atlanta Tuesday night, gave Philadelphia teammate Julius Erving a chance to grab the rebound and sink the tying basket as the buzzer sounded ending regulation play, and the 76ers went on to beat the Hawks in overtime 102-97.

"It was a dogfight, but we managed to pull it out with a miraculous play," said Collins, who almost became the goat when he missed the first of two foul shots with two seconds to play and the Sixers trailing 88-86, but made up for it when he missed the second try.

Had he made that shot, Philadelphia would still have trailed by one point. But by missing, he gave his teammates a shot at the rebound and tying basket.

"What you have to do on a play like that is make sure you box the guys out," said Atlanta forward Dan Roundfield. But Erving refused to be kept away from the rebound and converted it for the tying basket.

Forward Bobby Jones then took command in overtime, scoring six points as the Sixers pulled away.

Philadelphia's victory, combined with Boston's loss, moved the Sixers within one game of first-place Boston in the Atlantic Division race.

Atlanta led by as many as 11 points in the third period before Philadelphia rallied. Jones led the Sixers with 21 points and Erving had 18, while Roundfield had 28 for Atlanta.

Pacers 114, Celtics 108

Reserve guard Joe Hassett, Indiana's outside shooting specialist, scored 13 points in a 17-4 fourth-quarter burst that carried the Pacers past Boston, snapping Indiana's eight-game losing string.

Hassett hit three three-point goals and a pair of two-pointers as the Pacers turned back a Boston rally that had closed the gap from 16 points to five. Boston trailed just 89-84 before Hassett's long-range shooting put the game away.

Knicks 129, Rockets 109

Knicks guard Ray Williams, playing what he called "my best all-around game of the season," scored 35 points, handed out eight assists and grabbed six steals as New York beat Houston.

"We played badly, our worst game all year," said Rockets Coach Del Harris. "Our defense was gone. Our tempo was gone. It looked like it was the first time we had met all year."

Spurs 111, Bullets 104

San Antonio snapped an eight-game losing streak by beating Washington at Landover, Md., and moving one-half game ahead of the Bullets in their race for the final Eastern Conference playoff spot. NBA scoring leader George Gervin led San Antonio with 41 points and backcourtmate James Silas added 26, including 12 in the final six minutes.

Bulls 100, Kings 98

Kansas City's lead over Milwaukee in the Midwest Division was trimmed to 1½ games as the Kings lost to Chicago. A dunk by Artis Gilmore with 1:04 to go was the winning margin for the Bulls. Scott Wedman missed a shot at a tie for Kansas City.

Cavs 132, Nets 119

Mike Mitchell's 31 points led Cleveland over New Jersey. Three-point plays by Mitchell and Dave Robisch in the final two minutes clinched the victory for Cleveland.

Nuggets 96, Warriors 87

Dan Issel scored 31 points for Denver, including a pair of free throws with 1:13 remaining that helped edge the victory over Golden State, which got 29 points from Robert Parish.

Lakers 121, Clippers 106

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 28 points and 12 rebounds helped Los Angeles beat San Diego and take a one-game lead over Seattle in the Pacific Division. The Lakers outscored the Clippers 37-21 in the fourth quarter to pull away and drop San Diego one game behind Portland in their battle for the final Western Conference playoff spot.

Instant replay to be used during playoffs

NFL meeting produces changes

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — The feud between National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and Al Davis continued to hold center stage at the NFL meetings here, but two new officials added for next year's playoff games won't be assigned to arbitrate their differences.

The NFL Competition Committee on Tuesday assigned the two officials to work in playoff games henceforth, but without authority to call penalties. They will merely be there to help the other seven officials assigned to the games and discuss controversial plays.

The additional two would be members of regular crews used on NFL games during the season.

"We will have instant replay with live personnel," said Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, referring to the demands by many that television replay be used to decide controversial plays.

"I suggested it, I'll take the blame," said Schramm, the committee chairman.

Most of the other rules changes simply represent different interpretations of previous rules.

Schramm said that sticking, clubbing or swinging at the head had previously been penalties only if the head was struck. Now, if the blow hits the body and glances to the head, the offender may be penalized.

Chop blocks, which were illegal for backs last season, now will include tight ends.

Also, the quarterback will get a quick whistle when hit by a defensive player anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. Previously, the rule only applied when the quarterback was in the pocket.

Meantime, Rozelle said Jack Tatum's book, "They Call Me Assassin," will be studied by the league office to determine if any action should be taken. Tatum wrote that he often took pleasure in meting out punishment to opponents.

Tatum is a defensive back for the Oakland Raiders.

Davis, general managing partner of the Raiders, was still steaming Tuesday over the vote 24 hours earlier by NFL owners of 22-0 with five abstentions against allowing him to move his team to Los Angeles. Davis announced such an intention last month.

Meanwhile, Monday's vote was felt in Los Angeles where the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors balked at signing a joint powers agreement that would conditionally commit the board to putting up a $5 million loan to help finance the Raiders' move to the L.A. Coliseum.

Supervisors Yvonne Bradwaite Burke and Ed Edelman said they wanted the two other agencies involved in financially backing the Raiders' move, the Los Angeles City Council and the L.A. Olympic Organizing Committee, to "share the risk" in advancing money for that move.

A board vote on the matter was delayed until next week.

The concern stems from an agreement reached between the Coliseum Commission and the Raiders stipulating that if the move collapses, the football team will receive "the amount necessary to compensate it for actual damages, expenses and costs."

Spectacular Bid syndicated for 22 million

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Spectacular Bid, who may become the leading thoroughbred money-winner of all time this year, has been syndicated for a world-record $22 million and will become a stud in 1981.

The announcement Tuesday by owner Harry Meyerhoff said the syndication of Spectacular Bid, who won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness Stakes last year, was for 40 shares worth $550,000 each.

Spectacular Bid joined Affirmed as the only thoroughbreds to exceed $2 million in career earnings when he won the $350,000 Santa Anita Handicap on March 3. "Bid has won 21 of his 25 lifetime starts compared to 22 wins in 29 outings by Affirmed.

"I retain 20 shares of the colt and the other half are in the process of being sold to a syndicate that includes Hall of Fame breeders and owners from Europe.

Heavy rains have left the Rancho Bernardo course silt-laden and soggy, which will probably affect play at least in the early rounds of the 72-hole event.

Post hoping to warm up for another big year

RANCHO BERNARDO, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Sandra Post, who once won 10 years on the women's golf tour without a victory, is a textbook case of tenacity.

Not long ago the question the 13-year veteran heard most often was: "When are you going to retire?" She changed all that last year by winning $195,000 — second largest total ever by a woman golfer. With official 1979 earnings of $178,750, she was less than $19,000 shy of Nancy Lopez-Melton's staggering total of $197,488.

"I'm just hitting my peak," said Post, who turns 32 in June.

With Lopez-Melton sitting out this week, Post is among 19 of the tour's top 20 money winners entered in the $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament at Rancho Bernardo Country Club.

Silkwood case returns

New trial necessary?

DENVER (AP) — A federal court jury decided last year that Karen Silkwood wasn't responsible for the plutonium contamination she suffered shortly before her death, awarding her estate $10.5 million for the injury to her health.

Now, says her lawyer, another jury should be allowed to decide whether her civil rights were violated by employees of the FBI and the Kerr-McGee Corp. because of her efforts to organize her union and improve worker safety at the Crescent, Okla., nuclear fuels plant where she worked.

The two counts concerning civil rights were dismissed by U.S. District Judge Frank T. S. Tuesday. Danny Sheehan, a lawyer with the Washington-based Christian Public Policy Defense Fund, asked the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to order those counts back to the district court, where a new jury would hear them.

The Crescent, Okla., plant, owned by Kerr-McGee, was closed in 1975. Miss Silkwood died in an automobile accident on Nov. 13, 1974.

The lawyers for the 24 Kerr-McGee and three FBI employees did not debate whether Miss Silkwood's civil rights were violated. They argued only that the First and 14th Amendments protect only from government interference in the right to assemble, speak freely and petition for change. The only citizens protected from private conspiracies against their civil rights are those being harassed because of their race, the defense lawyers argued.

Depositions gathered so far in the case show that Miss Silkwood's home phone was tapped, that she was placed under personal surveillance and that her personal diaries were photographed by intruders sent by Kerr-McGee officials, Sheehan said.

What we have here is in reality a labor dispute, said Lee Cook, a Chicago attorney representing Kerr-McGee defendants.

Part of the record also shows that the National Labor Relations Board investigated Miss Silkwood's complaints of her harassment and turned the matter over to the FBI for criminal prosecution, Sheehan said. Nothing was done by the FBI, he said.

The Oklahoma City federal court jury that awarded the $10.5 million after a sensational 11-week trial last year decided that Kerr-McGee's negligence was responsible for her contamination with radioactive plutonium.

That jury was not allowed to consider the questions before the appeals court.

There was no indication when the three-judge panel might rule on the appeal.

Headmistress is accused in doctor's death

GREENWAY, Va. (AP) — Jean Struven Harris, headmistress at the exclusive Madeira School, used to lecture her assembled students frequently about the need for integrity.

She has said that word "integrity" so many times that some of the students call her "Integrity Harris," said Sonya Knight, president of the boarding students at the school.

Now Mrs. Harris is accused of murdering Dr. Herman Tarnower, a wealthy New York heart specialist who wrote the famous "Scarsdale Diet" book.

The 400-acre campus on the banks of the Potomac River — complete with riding stables, tennis courts and swimming pool — was quiet Tuesday. The 325 female high school students began a three-week spring vacation at the end of school last Friday.

But the headmistress was not forgotten.

"Mrs. Harris is a fine woman and a fine headmistress and no matter what happens I will always believe in her," said Laura Gill, president of the day-school students.

Mrs. Harris' arraignment before a Westchester County judge Tuesday on a second-degree murder charge shed little light on the circumstances of Tarnower's death late Monday.

She had a bruised upper lip and her lawyer said, "She suffered the bruises at the house." Police said there were signs of struggle in the upstairs bedroom where the 62-year-old doctor was found bleeding to death, shot three times.

Mrs. Harris was backing a car out the driveway of Tarnower's $500,000 mansion in Purchase, N.Y., when police arrived. She told them there had been a shooting and surrendered a .32 caliber pistol from the glove compartment of her car, police said.

"I have no idea what happened in New York and I'm shocked by it all," said a faculty member who asked not to be named. "Jean Harris always seemed to know exactly what she was doing and she was a good headmistress. I just hope this doesn't hurt the school."

Mrs. Harris, headmistress at Madeira since 1977, had known Tarnower for some time and was said to be a frequent guest at his house. Her name was first among the acknowledgements in his "Scarsdale Diet" book and he credited her with helping research and write it.

"On behalf of everyone at the school, I can only say that we are most distressed to learn of unfortunate events affecting Mrs. Harris, the headmistress," said Madeira school president Alice W. Faulkner. She added that she had been informed Mrs. Harris was resigning her position.

"We have a very strong administration in place and I am sure that we can continue in a strong way and continue as normally as possible," Mrs. Faulkner said.

Two-thirds of the Madeira students live on campus and pay $6,130 a year for tuition, room and board. Founded in 1906, the school boasts many notable alumnae, including Washington Post Co. board chairman Katharine Graham.

DETROIT (AP) — Music and flowers will join as a tribute here to Johannes Brahms, the German composer, from April 10 to 12.
Multi-colored flowers of almost every variety will be featured in the floral exhibits and displays as part of the Brahms Festival Flower Show at the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House. The Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan is sponsoring the festival jointly with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to benefit the orchestra.
At the same time, the orchestra, led by Antal Dorati, will play a prominent part in the third international Brahms Congress at Wayne State University.

Contract awarded for mansion renovation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Many of the important decisions about refurbishing the Governor's Mansion have been made, but Gov. Bill Clements says there are some "very hard opinions both ways" on what color the exterior should be painted.
"There's been a lot of discussion on whether we should go back to the yellow-tone brick or keep it white," Clements said at a Tuesday news conference at the empty mansion.
The conference was called to announce the awarding of a $745,000 contract to Lawless and Alford Construction Co. of Austin for the renovations. The 1979 Legislature approved $1 million for the project, and a private group is trying to raise an equal amount for the job.
Homer Foerster, director of the State Purchasing and General Services Commission, said the work would begin soon and is expected to take 420 days.
Dallas architect Jim Hendricks reeled off a list of interior work that will be done on the two-story home built in 1856. He said the idea is to make the mansion look much like it did when it was built.
But no one at the news conference, including the governor's wife, Rita, would commit to a color for the outside.
Hendricks said the mansion, southwest of the Capitol, was originally a yellow-tone brick. It was painted beige a few times between 1880 and 1900, and was not white — its present color — until 1914.
Mrs. Clements, who has worked closely with architects on the project, and the governor said there have been many discussions about the outside color. Clements said they are "very hard opinions both ways."

Asked if he and his wife had differed on the color, Clements replied, "For your information, we don't argue about anything."
Hendricks said it would cost $3 million to $4 million to build a similar Greek revival-style home today. The mansion underwent changes even before it was built, he said.
Legislators in the 1850s allocated $14,500 for a mansion that sported wings at either end, but all bids for the project were over $20,000 and new plans — without wings — were drawn.
The refurbished mansion will be furnished with items collected by the private Friends of the Governor's Mansion. Ashley Priddy of Dallas said the group wants to raise $1 million initially — and perhaps another $1 million later — for 18th century art and furniture. He said $116,000 already has been raised.
Hendricks said nine chimneys removed from the house as they deteriorated will be restored, but there will be only one woodburning fireplace — in the upstairs living quarters.
