

Rising lava has bad side affects

COUGAR, Wash. (AP) — An "eruptive plume" of volcanic gas and ash spewed 16,000 feet above the summit of Mount St. Helens early today and officials evacuated all areas within 15 miles of the peak.

The first eruptions in more than 120 years from the snow-covered volcano 40 miles northeast of Vancouver, Wash., apparently posed no immediate threat to life.

But officials feared it could signal a rise of lava within the 9,877-foot peak that would suddenly thaw snow and icefields, triggering mudslides and flooding, said Nolan Lewis, director of emergency services for Cowlitz County.

River watchers, who keep an eye on area rivers during times of heavy rainfall and spring melt, have been alerted to watch for rising water, Lewis said.

On Thursday night, officials evacuated loggers and the few nearby residents as the volcano twisted in the grip of powerful internal forces and erupted with an explosion heard 45 miles away, belching volcanic ash over acres of pristine snow.

The Cowlitz County Department of Emergency Services and Skamania County sheriff's office said they had not determined how many persons had been evacuated from buildings in the sparsely populated area.

With the volcano spewing ash for the first time since 1857, vehicles heading up the mountain were stopped at this hamlet of 150 residents, which lies just outside the 15-mile zone, local fire officials said.

"We have an eruptive plume," said Kurt Austermann, U.S. Forest Service spokesman. "(It) was not incandescent. The top of the column spread more than five miles across, and ash was falling on the base of the mountain.

"What appeared to be a flowing avalanche of ash was observed moving down the northwest flank of the mountain."

In another report, Lewis said, "There appears to be an eruption on the southeast side of the mountain and an even more violent one on the northwest side."

Austermann said observers at a ground station reported at 4:45 a.m. that the plume had become less dense, indicating a decrease in the intensity of the eruption.

Undulating cracks pushed out from the summit, a new crater heaved and expanded and scientists who flew over the peak Thursday night said the mountaintop appeared to be swelling on its south side while slumping to the north.

"This is like standing next to a dynamite keg and the fuse is lit, but you don't know how long the fuse is," said volcanologist David Johnston as he stood above the peak's timberline.

"I'm genuinely afraid of it," he said.

In Port Ludlow, Gov. Dixy Lee Ray expressed excitement at the news of the eruption.

"I've always said I wanted to live long enough to see one of our volcanoes erupt," she said with a grin.

Scientists were fanning out over the mountain today and hoped to plant more instruments around it to seek clues to the activity that has rumbled underneath it for a week. Earthquakes of up to 4.6 on the Richter scale of ground movement have been recorded in the sparsely populated area of southwestern Washington, 40 miles northeast of Vancouver.

The snow-covered, 9,877-foot volcano had been dormant since 1857.

Besides the crater, the Oregon Air National Guard found 20 steam vents, including 14 at the peak, after the eruption Thursday. Don Mullineaux of the U.S. Geologic Survey said an arc of fractured ice 1,000 yards long appeared to be moving slowly down the mountain.

"The considerable seismic activity is an indication that things are moving like fury," said Kurt Austermann, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman.

He said the crater, which measured 200 feet by 250 feet late Thursday, apparently was expanding. Scientists flying over the crater reported ice and rock were falling into the crater.

"There is no estimate on how big (it) is now," said Austermann of the crater. "Our observers reported cracks on the top of the mountain itself. Parts of the crater itself were heaving and falling in. The north side of the thing was heaving upward."

"Our folks reported that they were observing a large crack running east to west from the top and it was opening and closing."

He said there was no evidence of mudslides and no lava was seen coming from the crater.

Absentee voting might set record

Local election officials today said the absentee voting which has been taking place may be one of the highest in recent years.

"I think this is going to be the heaviest we have seen in years," Tom Ferguson, city finance director, said.

As of noon today, 172 voters had cast ballots in the city election, which has races for mayor and two council positions.

A total of 200 persons had voted in the school board election. Five mail-in ballots have been received for the school trustees election.

For the Howard College Trustees, 205 voters had cast ballots at the County Clerk's office. A total of five votes have been received by mail for this race.

Authorities report 92 dead, missing

Waves collapse northern oil rig

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Ninety-two men were reported dead or missing today in the worst disaster in the history of the North Sea oilfields, the capsizing during a storm of a huge offshore rig used as a floating hotel for oil workers.

The rescue center in Stavanger, on the Norwegian coast, said 23 bodies had been recovered from the icy seas, 69 men were missing and 133 survivors had been rescued.

There were hopes that some of the missing men were trapped, still alive, in the movie theater of the capsized rig, the Alexander Kjeiland. It was overturned in 240 feet of water but with four of its five steel legs still extending above the water 100 miles west of the coast.

The storm had subsided, but the weather was still poor and visibility was limited to 150 yards because of fog. Rescue officials said 46 ships and 23 helicopters from several countries were taking part in the search for bodies and survivors. A lifeboat with 30 men aboard was found after dawn.

The rescue center said it hoped to send divers and diving bells out to try to rescue anyone trapped alive in air pockets within the wreck.

Phillips Petroleum, which chartered the French-built, pentagon-shaped rig, said there were 225 men aboard Thursday night when the storm hit it with 60-mile winds and 20-foot waves.

Phillips spokesman Per Bjorklund said the workers were changing shifts, crossing a bridge connecting the hotel platform to a production rig about 300 feet away, when a huge wave collapsed one of the hotel rig's five steel legs, and it overturned.

The hotel rig's unused drilling platform, weighing 200 tons, made it top heavy when the platform leg broke and unbalanced the rig, experts explained.

The capsizing pulled away the bridge, and the production rig stayed upright. The 85 workers aboard it were evacuated to Stavanger.

Bjorklund said there were 170 Norwegians and 35 Britons aboard the hotel platform, and the rest were from Finland, Spain and Portugal.

One of the survivors, 35-year-old Olav Forsheim, told reporters he was in the theater with 25 to 30 other workers waiting for the film to begin "when we heard explosions outside."

GET THE EYE DROPS — Despite the use of a gas mask, Sgt. Jimmy Hensley (center) seems to have suffered some ill effects from a CS-gas grenade exploded in a bathroom at Big Spring High School, 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

Police seeking two suspects in gassing

Investigators have two possible suspects in the gassing of the Big Spring High School, 11:30 a.m. Thursday.

According to police reports, a CS-gas grenade was detonated in a bathroom of the high school. The gas is used by law enforcement and military forces, and is extremely irritating to the eyes and respiratory system, said Lt. Claude Morris.

After the grenade exploded, the entire school was evacuated. Some of the gas may linger for months in the school, said one investigator.

Officers have spoken with witnesses who fingered two male juvenile students in the incident. The pair faces possible charges of malicious mischief and committing a terrorist act.

Texas senators in minority as tax bill passes

States News Service

WASHINGTON — Both Texas senators were in the minority Thursday as the Senate passed the oil Windfall Profits Tax and sent it to President Carter for his signature.

Republican John Tower and Democrat Lloyd Bentsen were on the losing end of 66-31 vote giving final approval to the tax first offered by Carter nearly a year ago.

The president is expected to sign the bill, which will tax away an estimated $27.7 billion of revenues oil companies are slated to receive by 1992 because of decontrolled prices.

The $27.7 billion is 23 percent of the more than one trillion dollars ($1,000 billion) in extra income the companies will get because of price decontrol during the same 10-year period.

Tower called the tax "a mindless monstrosity" that will deprive producers of money needed for new exploration and development.

The Congressional Budget Office estimates the tax bill sent to the president will result in domestic oil production of 7.4 million barrels a day by 1990. Decontrolled prices without the tax, the estimates show, would result in production of 7.9 million barrels a day by 1992.

Police beat Car of film firm employee looted

Malicious vandals wreaked havoc with a 1973 Ford Thunderbird belonging to David Sink, 2708 Central, between 1 and 1:15 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, the car was parked behind the administration building of Howard College when the vandals used a sharp instrument to scratch and dent the left side of the auto. In addition, a windshield wiper was bent away from the car. Damage was estimated at $800.

Burglars invaded a car belonging to Carole Fontana, an employee of Sunn Classic Pictures Inc. staying at the Holiday Inn. Stolen from the vehicle were a nylon shoulder bag, several personal checks, a billfold containing assorted credit cards and $150 in cash, and keys to the car and motel room. Loss was estimated at $700.

Burglars stole 40 pounds of meat and a six-week-old puppy from the home of W.G. Shipman, 1200 Mobile, Wednesday night. Loss was estimated at $60.

Sometime during the last five months, thieves lifted a large assortment of jewelry from the home of Mary Jane Ward, 1733 Purdue. Value of the items is over $200.

Vandals, possibly male juveniles, broke the side window of a car belonging to Linda Miller, instructor in the ADN program at Howard College, was elected chairperson for the Council of Practice at the state convention for the Texas Nurses Association, which was held March 18-22 in McAllen.

The Council of Practice is made up of six chairpersons elected from 12 conferences which deal with different nursing areas. Ms. Miller is chairperson of the Conference for Nurse Education.

"The job of the council is to state clearly the position of Texas Nurses-Association on the issues that are coming up on nurses," Ms. Miller said.

The position is held for a two-year term and Ms. Miller said the group will probably meet about 4-6 times during that term.

When the council meets, their job will be to write a position paper which the TNA will present to the Texas Legislature to let them know the nurses' position on an issue. In becoming a chairperson, Ms. Miller said she is looking forward to "meeting interesting people, becoming more articulate, having more impact as an individual and feeling that I have contributed to the

THE BRIGHTER SIDE

A wise businessman we know has what he calls his "Trouble Tree." It is located about a block away from his house, where he has to pass it every evening on his way home.

"When I reach that tall poplar tree in the evening," he explains, "I leave all the troubles and worries of the day right there. 'Let them hang on the branches if they want to,' I say to myself. 'I'm through with them for the day.' And I throw back my shoulders and stir up a grin and get ready for a fine evening with my family. I used to take my troubles home to my wife, and often they would stay with me all night, and I'd get up the next morning with a grouch.

"But no more! I hang them on the Trouble Tree, and five nights out of six they have all blown away by morning."

For the record

In the 1980 Newcomers Guide, published Thursday as a supplement to the Herald, Staked Plains Masonic Lodge 598, Howard County's oldest Masonic organization, was inadvertently left out of the listing of benevolent organizations.

Lodge members meet regularly at their lodge hall at Third and Main Streets. The worshipful master is B. Tom Morrison.

Staked Plains Lodge 598 will observe its 100th anniversary in 1984, having been organized only two years after Big Spring was founded.

Other organizations omitted include the Texas Nurses Association District 24, Tex-N-Cap and Warren's Real Estate.

Ellen Brooks is president of Texas Nurses Association District 24. Members meet at 7:30 p.m., the second Tuesday of each month, usually at Howard College.

Texas-N-Cap stands for Texans in Nursing Coalition for Action in Politics. Ellen Brooks chairs the group. Its meetings are set during times that the organization is in session.

In the Realtors' section, the firm of Warren Real Estate was not included. It is managed by Sherman Smith and he maintains an office at 501 N. Gregg Street. The business phone number is 267-5981.

The Newcomers supplement erroneously listed the Rev. David Pole as pastor of the Ackerly United Methodist Church. The Rev. Mr. Pole, now at Ropesville, once served the North Birdwell Methodist Church as its pastor but has never been assigned to the Ackerly Church. The Rev. Roy R. Havens currently serves the Ackerly United Methodist Church as its pastor.

The Herald is happy to report the additions and corrections. It would be all but impossible to compile a complete directory, mainly because some organizations cannot always be reached by telephone or are too new to the community. The Herald tries, however.

Subway crashes into train

NEW YORK (AP) — A subway work train slammed into the rear of an elevated passenger train in the Bronx, sending 11 persons to hospitals.

Most injuries were minor, and neither train derailed in the crash. The accident occurred shortly after 11 p.m. Thursday on the southbound IRT No. 1 line near 230th Street and Broadway in the Marble Hill section.

Ezzell to keynote Institute

State Rep. Mike Ezzell, Health Services Committee chairman, will be the keynote speaker at the Sixth Regional Institute on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse at the Civic Center in Abilene April 30.

Perspective '80 will focus on new ideas, developments and trends in the fight against alcoholism and drug abuse. The program will be co-sponsored by the West Central Texas Council of Governments and the Texas Commission on Alcoholism.

The program will begin at 8 a.m. with registration and end at 3:15 p.m. Registration fees of $10 will be charged for general admission and $5 for students and senior citizens. Sessions featuring prominent workers in alcohol and drug rehabilitation will be scheduled throughout the day.

After the crash, the passenger train was moved south to the 225th Street station, where riders received medical attention. Police said nine persons refused treatment.

Three persons were admitted at Jewish Memorial Hospital in Manhattan, and four others were treated and released. Night administrator Dan Ratcliffe said two men were admitted with back injuries and a woman was admitted with a head injury. He refused to identify them.

Treated and then released from North Central Bronx Hospital were motorman Antonio Soto, 35, with a back injury; conductor Robert Corcoran, 33, with head and facial lacerations; motorman Anita Bowen, 28, with a lower back injury, and passenger, Edward Fallon, 45, with unspecified injuries, according to administrator Ken Felerman.

Service was suspended on the line for about three hours after the accident. The cause of the mishap was under investigation.

Mexico ups price of gas

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government announced Thursday that it is raising the price of natural gas exported to the United States from $3.625 to $4.47 per 1,000 cubic feet, effective immediately.

Foreign Minister Jorge Castaneda said the new price is "exactly the price the United States is paying this minute for Canadian gas." Jorge Serrano Diaz, the president of Pemex, the Mexican state oil monopoly, said earlier this month that Mexico would not sell gas to the United States "for one cent less" than Canada.

Castaneda said U.S. Undersecretary of Energy Leslie Goldman and other officials agreed to the new price during a two-day visit to Mexico City this week.

The United States imports about 300 million cubic feet of gas daily from Mexico and nearly 10 times that much from Canada.

CROWN OF THORNS

Barbed wire on battlefield,
Civilization tangled in blood, suffering, death.
Christ sees it from Heaven
And remembers
The crown of thorns!
A Roman soldier's idea of a joke —
Jesus wore it dying for our sins, such as Barbed wire on battlefield.

Something to go to Church about:
It was God's Son they crowned with barbed wire.
Thorns, that is;
Crowned Him Prince of Peace —
Someone to pray to, believe in, live for
In a world eager for happiness and hope,
Famished for love and deploring at last His Crown of thorns on battlefield.

Mondale, Kennedy call for unity

HOUSTON (AP) — Vice President Walter Mondale praised President Carter's record, Robert Kennedy Jr. invoked his family's name and both asked for party unity as they wooed Texas Democrats Tuesday night.

"Stand behind the man who stood behind you and return Present Carter to the White House," Mondale told approximately 1,200 party members who turned out for a $125-a-plate fund raising dinner honoring Texas Democratic party chairman Billy Goldberg.

Mondale, who has been on the campaign trail since November for the president, flashed the "thumbs up" sign before telling the audience, "We must face the real problems that exist in the real world today — no matter how painful."

Kennedy, stumping for his uncle, Sen. Edward Kennedy, said, "There are 129 Kennedy grandchildren, and every one of them is a Democrat."

He insisted he was not attacking Carter personally, "but the policies of a president." However, the 26-year-old law student had harsh words for the president.

He said Carter's policies "are not in line with the Democratic platform of 1976 and not in line with the country."

The young Kennedy accused Carter of failing to provide leadership, and said he thought Carter's indecisiveness had started a "trend toward a lack of commitment" in the United States.

Mondale emphasized Carter's record as a peacemaker, saying the Camp David peace talks were "the first time in 2,500 years" Israeli and Egyptian leaders had met.

He said the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan presented "a new serious challenge to world peace," and claimed Carter was meeting the challenge by pushing for "increased defense support."

"The Soviet military buildup is serious, dangerous and real," Mondale said. "We must respond to it."

Kennedy, also on the campaign trail since November, blasted Carter for failing to enact a national health care plan.

"We are the only industrial nation in the world besides South Africa that does not guarantee its citizens basic health care," he said. Often speaking over boos and catcalls, Kennedy challenged the pro-Carter audience to "name one stand he (Carter) has ever taken and stuck with, one promise he's kept, one position he's not waffled on."

But prior to his attack on Carter, Kennedy called for unity by saying his family would support the party in the November general elections "no matter who the candidate is."

Mondale said the two most serious problems facing the nation are skyrocketing oil prices and the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Mondale also said earlier at a press conference that Sen. Kennedy's win in the New York primary was a "surprise," but added Carter had won 18 of 20 primaries.

He said Carter would not ask Kennedy to withdraw from the race for the sake of party unity because "it's a free country. People can do what they please. We won't try to intimidate anybody."

Melinda Corwin competes in Lubbock Spelling Bee

Melinda Corwin is Lubbock bound Saturday for the finals in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal sponsored Regional Spelling Bee.

Melinda, 14, won the Howard College Spelling Bee Feb. 19 and the right to represent the county at Lubbock. She also won the Runnels Bee Feb. 13.

She has to "study many hard hours at home and when you have time and just any time" for the contest, she said. She studies from a practice book supplied by the Herald. The book contains first round, intermediate and final words; samples of what she will be up against in the contest.

Melinda won the Goliad bee last year, she said, and was runner-up in the Howard College contest. In addition she has won classroom contests as an elementary student. Spelling has always been her forte, she explained.

The Lubbock contest will be held in the Lubbock Christian College Coliseum, starting at 1 p.m.

Accompanying her will be members of her family and a friend, Bronwyn Allen, who won second division honors Saturday at the Big Spring Choral Solo Contest.

Melinda had a conflict in dates between the bee and a University Interscholastic League Band Solo contest. The band contest, however, was postponed until May 10 because some of the judges had schedule conflicts.

She will perform a marimba solo at UIL.

Expenses of her trip to Lubbock are being paid by the Herald.

A victory at Lubbock would qualify her for an expenses-paid trip to the National Bee in Washington, D.C., later in the year. Several scholarships are offered to winners there. Big Spring has supplied several regional winners in the past.

Candidates will speak

COAHOMA — All candidates for political office are being invited to attend the Meet The Candidates Night, scheduled to be held at 7:30 p.m., Monday in the Coahoma High School Cafeteria.

The candidates will be introduced to the crowd and each will be allowed to speak.

The program is being sponsored by the 1941 Study Club and, of course, is free to the public.

Plans shaped for Heritage Museum's Chuck Wagon Party

Plans are taking shape for the Heritage Museum's Chuck Wagon Party, scheduled Thursday, May 1, in the Dora Roberts Community Center. General chairman of the event is Mrs. Bee Zinn.

Only museum members are eligible to attend the annual event, but those who would like to qualify can do so by joining the museum membership now. Don Newsom, a long-time museum supporter, will cater the event.

Entertainment for the Chuck Wagon Party is still being arranged, according to Mrs. Zinn.

Mrs. Cofer is presented emblem pin

The Elk's Ladies Auxiliary, in conjunction with the Past Exultant Rulers, were hosts at a 30th Anniversary Dinner and Dance held March 22. Honored at the event were lodge charter members and guests. The evening was highlighted by the presentation of the ladies golden butterfly emblem pin to Mrs. Oliver Cofer, first lady, by Mrs. Morris Robertson, president. The serving table was draped with white cloth overlaid with green. A brass candelabrum decorated with white carnations and spider mums accented the setting as centerpiece. Silver and crystal appointments were used. Host couples included Mr. and Mrs. Cofer, Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Woodall and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Crown.

Mrs. Stewart is elected president

Members of the 1948 Hyperion Club met March 20 in the home of Mrs. Robert Rember. Mrs. W.F. Winn served as co-hostess. Mrs. H.W. Smith, president, presided over a short business meeting. New officers elected included Mrs. Merle Stewart, president; Mrs. Jack Irons, vice president; Mrs. Rember, secretary; Mrs. Roy Lamb, treasurer; Mrs. Smith, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Winn, reporter. Mrs. Kelley Lawrence gave a program on the historical aspect of the Panama Canal, using the book, "The Path Between the Seas" by David McCullough. She began with the French Syndicate's attempt and a cameo of Frederick de Lesseps who built the Suez canal but failed to build the Panama Canal. Mrs. Lawrence then revealed the history of the American achievements. The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Stewart.

TwEEN 12 and 20 — Are dads more difficult to please?

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Keeping my room clean and helping with the rest of the house are my chores. My mom will tell me how nice things look but my dad will always say, "Connie, did you do your chores today?"

If you ask me, dads are much harder to please than moms. Do you agree? — Connie, Florence, Ala.

Connie: As a charter member of the dads club, I can't agree so I took a poll of my family. My son thought that I was harder to please but my daughter thought her mother was harder.

My wife feels that dads are harder to please and I think mothers are harder. After this scientific survey was completed it can safely be said that about half the dads are harder to please than moms and about half the moms are harder to please than dads. Connie, I hope you can get the message, because I'm confused. Dr. Wallace: I'm a guy and I am a senior in high school. My problem is that I'm afraid that I will never get married, but being married is my biggest dream.

I want to share my life with someone I love and who loves me. Every time a car goes by with a "just married" sign on the back, I wish it was my bride and me in the back seat. Do you think my shyness will keep me from gaining my goal — marriage? — Donnie, La Habra, Calif. Donnie: There are numerous "shy" guys who are happily married and children call them Daddy. But, first things first. Those who look for a marriage partner usually end up disappointed. Date as many girls as is reasonable (there are many shy girls looking for shy boys) and let cupid be your guide.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Who will be crowned 1980 Snake Queen?

Leanna Tolle and Beverly Wheeler complete the list of 10 contestants vying for the title of Miss Diamondback this year.

The other eight include Kim Deel, Tracy Dykes, Lisa Griffice, Shana Hohertz, Cay Luedeck, Valeri Meeks, Kim Redding and Debby Thompson.

Eighteen-year-old Miss Tolle is a 12th grade student at Big Spring High School. Her favorite pastime is photography.

"I really like to use special effects," she stated. "I try to put personality into my photos to give them originality."

Leanna feels she is a true representative of her zodiac sign, Sagittarius.

"A Sagittarius is temperamental, practical and honest and sometimes critical. I'm all of those things," she said.

Miss Tolle claims she enjoys doing just about anything.

"I like to be with people who like to have fun," she concluded.

Contestant Beverly Wheeler feels that since the snake is a true symbol of West Texas, being crowned 'Snake Queen' would be a great honor.

This 16-year-old Big Spring High student has set high goals for her life and she plans to achieve them.

"I rely on God to help me through everything I do," she commented.

Beverly feels her ability to care for others is one of her greatest assets because "that's what our lives are mainly based on."

One of 10 hopeful contestants will step up as the 1980 Miss Diamondback Queen as Carol Morehead, 1979 queen, steps down.

Attend this year's 1980 Rattlesnake Round-Up to be held at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. and don't miss the crowning of Miss Diamondback Sunday evening.

New credit card rules Plastic may carry less clout

Your pocketbook of plastic may carry less clout than it used to. The impact of the recent credit controls announced by President Carter varies according to where you live, the type of credit you have and how much you spend.

More than a week after Carter unveiled his anti-inflation program, including moves designed to down consumer spending by making it harder to buy now and pay later, lenders are still trying to figure out exactly what to do.

"We don't see any clear cut trend," Tim Lynch, a spokesman for MasterCard formerly Master Charge, said on Tuesday. "Most banks aren't promoting new cards ... Others are making the qualifications more stringent."

U.S. Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of the House Banking subcommittee on consumer affairs, called officials of the Federal Reserve Board to testify at a hearing on the controls today. Another hearing by another subcommittee was scheduled for next week.

Among the things faced by the millions of Americans who already have credit cards are bigger minimum monthly payments, limits on cash advances, annual fees and higher interest charges.

Differer cards, however, have different strings. There is also a difference between the "travel and entertainment" cards like American Express or Diners Club, whose customers generally must pay their bills in full each month, and the bank and store cards which offer users the option of paying a little bit at a time and incurring a finance charge on the balance.

James Stetler of Diners Club was quoted by Advertising Age, a trade journal, as saying: "The new ruling is meant to restrain consumer credit and not business expenses. Diners Club members use the card primarily for business expenses."

A full-page American Express ad in The Washington Post on Tuesday, addressed to cardholders, said: "You are expected to pay your bill in full every month ... You don't get in over your head. That's why our Cardmembers can continue to use

Lawyer gives account of 7 trials of Jesus

The Big Spring Child Study Club met March 17, at the Dora Roberts Community Center with 16 members present.

A program was presented by Gil Jones, a prominent Big Spring trial lawyer. He gave an account of the seven trials of Jesus as seen through the eyes of a present day trial lawyer.

The president read a letter of resignation from Annette Hodnett. Her resignation was accepted by the club. Nominations to fill the vacancy were requested by the president. Voting will take place at the next regular club meeting.

A nomination committee was appointed to submit a slate of officers for the club year 1980-1981. The committee is composed of Bonnie Neel, Gail Berringer and Sandra Haney.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by co-hostesses, Mrs. W.A. Moore and Mrs. Delbert Donelson.

Rosebud Garden Club plans April flower show

Mrs. H.B. Beckcom and Mrs. Tommy Hubbard hosted the Rosebud Garden Club meeting at the Dora Roberts Community Center March 25.

Polly Mays spoke on the birds of Texas. As she displayed the slide pictures she also played a tape recorded song of various birds. She revealed a number of facts about the birds and told where they could be seen in the Big Spring area.

Mrs. Lou Hill and Mrs. Wilma Seyse were guests.

Mrs. Beckcom will serve as chairman for a flower show the club will have in Mrs. Jerry Avery's home on April 26.

The next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., April 8, in Dora Roberts Community Center. At this time, Mrs. Odell Womack, Master Flower Show Judge, will conduct a workshop.

DEAR PLANNING: Nursing is one of the most interesting and rewarding professions a caring person could choose. As a nurse, you may indeed carry a bedpan; but you will also comfort a frightened child, calm and reassure an anxious patient, alert a physician to a change in a patient's condition, teach people how to care for themselves, and much, much more. And you can do these in a variety of settings — hospitals, clinics, physicians' offices, schools, public health agencies and in private practice.

Talk with your school nurse or contact a school of nursing in your community for information about professional nursing. Then share that information with your high school counselor. He has a lot to learn!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old woman who has always had a very deep voice. I think it is getting deeper with age, because I am being called "sir" more frequently when I talk on the telephone.

Can you think of something snappy I can say to correct these people who call me "sir" without embarrassing them too much?

GETTING IN DEEPER

DEAR GETTING: Skip the correction unless it's important for the gender-bender to know whether you're a "sir" or a "madame."

DEAR ABBY: I went out to dinner recently with friends and asked for a doggie bag for the leftover rolls, as I heard that according to the laws, once a basket of rolls is placed on your table, they are not to be served to anyone else.

My friend said I was mistaken — that bread and dinner rolls should not be taken home. I left the crackers because they were individually wrapped in cellophane and could be used again.

Who is right?

MARGARET H.

DEAR MARGARET: You are.

Hunt's house of silver melted down

NEW YORK (AP) — A financial edifice of silver that one of America's wealthiest families had been building for months lay in apparent collapse today.

And the aftershocks were still being felt in the nation's stock and commodity markets.

For the Hunt family of Dallas, it was a bitter climax to one of the most ambitious investment plans in the country's history.

They had reputedly accumulated $3 billion worth of silver, maybe much more. Some said the Hunts were close to cornering the market for one of the world's most valued commodities.

But on Thursday, falling silver prices and debts on their investment forced them to sell out much of what they owned, setting off wide swings in the markets and a storm of controversy.

The price of silver for April delivery tumbled to $10.80 an ounce in New York, down $5 from Wednesday's comparable price.

The stock market plummeted to its lowest level in five years, then just as quickly rallied again. The Dow Jones industrial average, down more than 25 points a half hour before the close of trading, wound up with only a 2.14 loss at 759.98.

There was no way of knowing how much financial damage had been suffered by the Hunt family, which has enormous holdings in oil and gas, real estate and other businesses ranging from pizza restaurants to the Kansas City Chiefs football team.

Nelson Bunker Hunt, one of the children of the late, legendary oilman H.L. Hunt, has steadfastly declined to comment all along on his investments in silver or what he planned to do with them.

Hunt wasn't available for comment Thursday.

Whatever his plan, it looked like a big success until very recently. Silver began last year at $6 an ounce. This past winter it reached $50, an increase that

NELSON BUNKER HUNT

$100 million, Elliot J. Smith, a Bache executive vice president, confirmed late Thursday.

The Hunts did not respond immediately, Bache officials said. So the firm sold out most of the family's silver holdings to liquidate some of the debt.

Afterwards, Bache said the Hunts still owed it an unspecified amount of money. But it added that there was adequate collateral on that debt in the form of stocks and bonds.

From mid-afternoon on, trading in Bache's stock was suspended at the order of the Securities and Exchange Commission. It last traded at $8, down $1.25 from Wednesday.

Harry Jacobs Jr., chairman of Bache Group, the brokerage firm's parent holding company, said the silver sell-off had only a "negligible" financial impact on the company.

Still, the Securities Investor Protection Corp., an agency set up in the early 1970s to protect brokerage house customers in the event of trouble, said it was prepared to act if necessary.

Hugh Owens, chairman of SIPC — roughly similar to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. in banking — said, "If worse comes to worse we'll be ready."

The stock market's afternoon sell-off appeared to stem from fears about the possible impact on Bache, and the subsequent recovery in stock prices evidently signaled an easing of those fears.

But it was plain that government regulators and others would still be asking a lot of questions in the days and weeks ahead.

"It was a scary thing," one broker said. "And I'm sure the reverberations will be felt for some time to come."

Nelson Bunker Hunt born with silver spoon in mouth

DALLAS (AP) — He doesn't drink, smoke or bellow at his subordinates, and he doesn't give interviews. Nelson Bunker Hunt lets his wealth — the legacy of a colorful Texas oilman — speak for itself.

But Hunt moved from the financial page to the front page Thursday when his financial house of silver teetered on the edge of collapse and sent shock waves rippling down Wall Street.

The enormous Hunt family wealth, estimated in the billions of dollars, was pumped from the dusty Texas and Oklahoma oilfields by Bunker's father, the late H.L. Hunt, a gambler who parlayed a $5,000 inheritance into one of the world's great oil fortunes.

"I've never tried to become the biggest oilman or anything else," he once remarked. "There are times when I've wished I'd wake up stone broke. It would be a great adventure to see how good I was, to see if I could create lots of wealth again."

Liberals called the outspoken architect of the family fortune a symbol of big business and the far right. Conservatives lauded him as a great spokesman. He considered himself a constructionist and Calvin Coolidge the last really good U.S. president.

His sons are intuitive businessmen who have spread the family wealth into, among other things, real estate, coal, sugar beets, professional football, thoroughbred race horses and silver.

race horse owner, control of one of the nation's largest independent oil companies and vast holdings in silver.

"My position is sizeable," he admitted recently, but added, "It's bad luck to talk about your money or count your money."

Bunker is a quiet man who doesn't quite fit the popular mold of a wealthy Texan. He is portly and balding with a penchant for privacy and chocolate-brown suits.

He is fastidious about keeping his affairs to himself. He firmly but politely declines interview requests and refuses to discuss either his personal life or his business dealings.

Silver speculators first noticed Bunker in December 1973 when foreign experts discovered the wily Texan snapped up 20 million ounces of the metal and had his eye on still more.

Associates said Bunker, seeking a safe investment, turned to silver after his Libyan oil holdings were nationalized in June 1972.

"I'm bullish on silver," he declared 15 months ago after industry experts had estimated the Hunt family had garnered a third of the world supply.

During the time of the Hunt purchases the price of silver climbed from about $2 an ounce in 1972 to a peak of $52.50 an ounce in January. Experts estimated then that the Hunt family silver holdings totaled about $3 billion.

But silver prices began dropping steadily after the January peak.

Hunt and four Arab investors announced plans Wednesday to issue bonds backed by more than 200 million ounces of silver bullion.

Investors interpreted that to mean Hunt needed cash and might dump some of his huge silver holdings if the bond issue could not be arranged.

The Bache Group, an international investment firm, said it sent a $100 million "margin call" — a demand for more collateral against loans — to the Hunt family on Wednesday. The Hunts did not meet the call and Bache sold out most of the Hunts' silver holdings, an executive said.

Following that action, the price of silver plummeted, drastically Thursday, closing at $10.80 an ounce, down $5 from the previous day.

It was not known how much Bunker lost in the frenzied silver trading Thursday.

But his father once observed, "Credit is more essential than cash. If you have cash you spend it and your out of money."

dwarfed even the spectacular rise of gold over the same period.

But in January, silver, along with many other commodities, began to decline. By this week, it was below $20.

That meant that a lot of the Hunts' paper profit had vanished. Because they had used borrowed money to finance part of their investment, it also meant that the collateral on the loans was worth much less than it had been.

On Wednesday, Nelson Bunker Hunt announced in Paris that he and several wealthy investors planned to issue bonds backed by 200 million ounces of silver bullion. Observers saw that as evidence that he wanted, or needed, to raise some cash.

The same day, Bache Halsey Stuart Shields, a large investment firm that has long had business dealings with the family, sent off a "margin call" to the Hunts for more collateral.

The call — a notice to put up more collateral against loans — was for more than

Seventh inning comeback gives Steers 14-13 win over Snyder

By NATHAN POSS

Tommy Rodriguez raced in to score on a wind blown infield single by Tim Shaver to culminate an exciting rally and boost the Big Spring Steers to a wild 14-13 win over the Snyder Tigers here Thursday afternoon in Steer Park.

The game was played in the midst of continuous high winds, and hitters from both teams took advantage of the circumstances to connect on 33 hits, including four home runs, during the contest.

Snyder's Jay Vincent gave a prelude to what was going to happen, as he slammed the first pitch of the game off Steer hurler Bradley Files over the left centerfield fence for a home run. The Tigers then added another run in the first on a triple by Bobby DeGrate and a single by Sam Willis.

After narrowing the Snyder lead to 2-1 in the bottom of the first, the Steers erupted for six runs in the second to take a 7-2 lead.

Lupe Ontiveros, Blake Rosson, Beef Armendariz, Mark Warren and Tommy Rodriguez hit safely on consecutive trips to the plate, chasing Tiger starter James Neves from the mound. Vincent entered to try and squelch the Steer uprising, and did, but not before Tommy Olague and Ontiveros had added singles that allowed the Steers to take a five-run lead.

Snyder scored two runs in the third, but were stopped from scoring any more when Rusty Hayworth gunned down Kyle Short on a grounder with the bases full.

After Vincent walked leadoff Steer hitter Armendariz in the third, Bobby DeGrate came in to pitch for the Tigers. The Steers added two runs off DeGrate on a walk, a sacrifice and an error, and Shaver then climaxed a four-run third with a two-run homer that gave the Bovines a seemingly comfortable 11-4 advantage.

Snyder scored once in the fourth, but Ontiveros nullified that by leading off the Steer half of the fourth with a home run.

Snyder then made their charge for victory in the top of the fifth, and it was nearly good enough to win.

An error, two hits, a walk and a hit batsman allowed the Tigers to narrow the Steer advantage to 12-7, and Big Spring Coach Howell Martin replaced Files on the mound with the bases loaded with reliever Robert Moran.

The strategy backfired for the moment, as Vance Gafford slammed Moran's second pitch over the fence for a grand slam and allowed Snyder to ease within one at 12-11. The Tigers then scored two more runs in the inning on hits by Neves, Willis and Short to take a 13-12 lead.

With the lead, Snyder relieved with their ace pitcher, Tony DeGrate. The junior who destroyed the Big Spring offensive line last fall in football looked unshakable in the fifth and sixth innings, striking out four of the seven batters he faced.

But Moran settled down in the sixth and seventh innings to keep the Steers within one entering the bottom of the seventh.

Warren, who had four hits on the day, managed a single to center to open the inning, and Rodriguez punched a bunt past DeGrate to put runners on first and second with nobody out.

With DeGrate obviously shaken, Dickie Wrightsail was hit by a hard pitch from the 230-pound Tiger hurler to load the bases.

Warren then scored to tie the game when Olague launched a sacrifice fly to rightfield, with the other two Steer runners advancing to second and third.

Shaver then hit what appeared to be a high foul over the Steers dugout down the first baseline, but the windy conditions blew the ball toward the playing field, as it landed between the confused Tiger first and second basemen. First baseman Willis retrieved the ball quickly, but his throw to the plate was not in time to catch the speedy Rodriguez, who scored in a cloud of dust to give the Bovines the win.

The Steers, now 4-10 with the win, travel to Midland Lee tomorrow to take on the District 5-AAAA first half leaders. Snyder falls to 5-9 with the loss.

Tough field expected

Steers entered in San Angelo Relays

The Big Spring Steers track team will be one of 16 units in the Division I title chase today when the preliminaries of the prestigious San Angelo Relays get underway here at San Angelo Stadium.

Central and defending champion Killeen should battle for the team title in this weekend's affair.

Killeen, paced by the all-around ability of John Walker, is said by some to possibly have the best track team in Texas history.

Walker is currently ranked in the top ten in the state in three varied events — the 100-yard dash, shot put and high jump. The 205-pound senior bound for the University of Texas on a football scholarship is also on the school's sprint relay and 1600-meter relay, which has respective times of 41.8 and 3:21.

Walker's personal bests are a 9.7 100, 6-foot-8 high jump and 58'2 1/2" in the shot. He is undefeated in the 100 and high jump, and has suffered only one loss in the shot put, as a result of competing in the high jump at the same time. He still claimed second place in that shot put event, not being able to compete in the finals.

Killeen also boasts such bests by individuals as a 21.6 220, 1:57 in the 800, a 4:23 mile, an intermediate hurdles time of 38.1, a 14-9 in the pole vault, and a 24-2 long jumper.

San Angelo should be able to challenge Killeen in most of those events, while Midland High boasts on one of the state's top weight men in David Simmons, who is the favorite both the discus and shot put.

Big Spring, hoping to improve on last week's performance in the ABC Relays on their home turf, should rely on the 1600-relay for their biggest point potential. In the individual events, Joe Willie Jones, Edwin Matthews and Jack Odum have been consistent point producers for the Steers. Jones earned points in four events last week in the ABC Relays, while Matthews scored in three events.

Other schools previously not mentioned in Division I include Eagle Pass, Hereford, Abilene High, Abilene Cooper, Midland Lee, Killeen Ellison, El Paso Riverside, El Paso Burges, El Paso Eastwood, Odessa, and El Paso Austin.

The El Paso schools will no doubt have a big say in the distance events, as they perennially are tough in those events.

Bergland determined to boost farmers' prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland is determined to help boost farmers' grain prices and will soon begin "relatively huge" and sustained government purchases of corn to help boost those prices, according to sources.

One of the sources said Thursday the secretary is worried about depressed grain prices and their crunch on financially-strapped farmers.

Bergland also was reported chagrined over rumors that government grain purchases would be held down because of budget considerations.

The Agriculture Department also is buying wheat, part of the grain President Carter embargoed from delivery to the Soviet Union earlier this year.

But the first wheat purchase, announced this week, was only 16.6 million bushels, a little more than 10 percent of the wheat Bergland earlier said would be bought. The idea is to remove the grain from the market and thus help boost prices to farmers.

Offers to sell corn to the government also are being considered as an announcement of how much has been bought is expected to be issued by USDA early next week.

According to the sources, who asked not to be named, Bergland has become increasingly concerned that grain market prices still are sagging, despite his assertions that the wheat and corn embargoed by Carter Jan. 4 would be isolated from the market to help protect farmers.

Thus, one of them said, "You may see some big action soon on corn buying, maybe as early as Monday, when those purchases are announced."

Under questioning by a reporter, Bergland said a stepped-up buying program

"is one of the options we're considering" to help jolt market prices of grain out of their doldrums.

Bergland also said high interest rates are hurting farmers by making bank loans prohibitive, causing many to "live hand-to-mouth" by selling grain at depressed prices simply to pay current expenses.

Those sales, he said, are helping depress market prices by allowing grain to trickle into the marketing system in quantities large enough to offset government purchases so far.

Later, in remarks issued by USDA's Office of Governmental and Public Affairs, Bergland said Carter week plans to send to Congress early next week a revised budget for the fiscal year that will begin on Oct. 1 "which will be in balance" for the first time in 12 years.

Bergland said his department will share in the budget-cutting to be recommended to Congress — another source said USDA's share of the cuts would be about $900 million — but that "our belt tightening, however, must not deter us from meeting our basic obligations" to farmers and others.

"For instance, we will not back off in the slightest from our commitment to offset the economic impact to farmers of the suspension of grain sales to the Soviet Union," he said.

Moreover, Bergland said, the grain purchases "will continue, unaffected by the budget exercise ... until we reach our targets."

Bergland has said the government will buy about 4 million metric tons of wheat — about 146.8 million bushels — to be held by the United States "for overseas assistance" as a food reserve.

A metric ton is about 2,205 bushels and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4

bushels of corn.

Officials have not said how much corn the government will buy, but theoretically it could range up to 9 million metric tons or about 354 million bushels, the amount of corn that had actually been contracted for sale to the Soviets when Carter suspended further deliveries.

Carter's order affected 17 million metric tons of corn and wheat. Eight million metric tons sold under an earlier agreement were exempted.

Prior to Carter's action, the Soviets were expected to buy 25 million metric tons of grain over the entire 1979-80 year, which runs through Sept. 30. But at the time of the partial embargo, they had actually only bought about 21 million.

Not counting the 8 million metric tons exempted, that left about 13 million metric tons — about 4 million of wheat and 9 million of corn

— as a potential burden on U.S. market prices.

It is this grain that Bergland says must be removed from the market in some way, including the possibility of the government buying it all.

Under questioning by a reporter, Bergland said a stepped-up buying program to sell most of rice crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to sell all of about 5.5 million hundredweight of rice it acquired under the government's price support program.

Officials said Thursday the sales would "virtually clean out" the remaining stocks of rice owned by the federal government. The rice came from the 1975 crop.

John Goodwin of the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service said the rice will be sold at the current market price or $11.20 per hundredweight, whichever is higher.

The Commodity Credit Corp., which acquired ownership of the rice after producers decided not to repay price support loans extended by the government, will offer the rice to prospective bidders sometime in April and continue the offer until further notice, he said.

Goodwin said the CCC will "carefully evaluate all bids in order not to break the market for rice. We want to be sure that the CCC rice sales policy in no way disrupts normal marketing channels, and under no circumstances will we dump rice on the market."

Last year farmers produced a record rice harvest of 138.7 million hundredweight. Added to previous stocks, the total 1979-80 rice supply is around 168.3 million hundredweight, according to recent USDA figures.

But domestic and overseas demand is large, and rice prices have recently been relatively high. Department experts project those may average in a range of $9.50 to $10.25 per hundredweight over the entire rice marketing year, compared to $8.16 in 1978-79.

Carter offers budget cut plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, facing a potentially tough re-election fight, is opposing a congressional plan to eliminate Saturday mail deliveries as part of the drive to balance the 1981 federal budget.

Carter presented his long-awaited budget-cutting plan to key members of Congress Thursday. His proposal, calling for $15 billion in spending cuts, closely parallels the 1981 budget recommended last week by the House Budget Committee, which urged $16.5 billion in reductions.

However, the president's list calls for a cut of only $250 million in the subsidy for the U.S. Postal Service. The House committee, proposing an end to Saturday mail deliveries, slashed $836 million from the subsidy.

The proposal to end Saturday mail deliveries has been one of the most controversial recommendations in the current effort to balance the federal budget for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1. It is also the proposal that probably would affect more Americans directly than any other yet suggested.

Rep. James M. Hanley, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Post Office Committee, asked the House Rules Committee Thursday to permit a floor amendment that would set the cut for the postal service at $250 million as the president is proposing.

Except for the smaller postal service cut, Carter's budget-balancing plan contained few surprises. The cuts fell heaviest on domestic programs, but included a $1 billion cut for defense from the original Carter budget submitted in January.

As expected, the revised proposal calls for eliminating the $1.7 billion federal revenue sharing program for states. However, it proposes that $500 million be added to the budget for "transitional assistance payments" to cities hurt by the end of revenue sharing.

Although the House Budget Committee has twice rejected the city aid proposal, liberals are expected to propose it again when the budget reaches the House floor.

Carter's other major proposed cuts include:
 —Eliminating $1 billion in proposed anti-inflation aid for cities.
 —Delaying welfare reform efforts to save $859 million.
 —Deferring $1.1 billion in such energy initiatives as the solar energy bank.

—Adjusting government retirement pay for inflation once a year instead of twice for a savings of $1.4 billion.

—Deferring $850 million in purchases for the strategic petroleum reserve.

—Eliminating law enforcement assistance grants to save $89 million.

—Reducing youth and other public job programs by $600 million.

Carter announced his intention to balance the budget in a March 14 speech in which he called for $13 billion to $14 billion in budget cuts as an anti-inflation move. But he delayed making public his list of proposed reductions.

Chagra sentencing today

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Sentencing is set for noon CST today for big time gambler Jamiel A. "Jimmy" Chagra, captured in February after he disappeared for six months following his conviction on drug dealing charges.

U.S. District Judge William S. Sessions could sentence Chagra to 10 years to life in federal prison.

Chagra, known for high stakes gaming at Las Vegas blackjack and craps tables, was convicted Aug. 14, 1979 in federal court in Austin for continuing criminal enterprise.

Prosecutors contended Chagra masterminded a "Colombia Connection" marijuana and cocaine smuggling operation that moved drugs from South America into the United States.

Chagra, free on bond a week after the Austin trial, failed to report to U.S. probation officers at Las Vegas, Nev.

His bond was raised from $400,000 to $3 million and Chagra was declared a federal fugitive.

FBI "wanted" posters describing Chagra were distributed in January.

Drug Enforcement Administration agents arrested Chagra Feb. 21 when they stopped his car along the Las Vegas, Nev. Strip. Agents said they found $187,000 in a diaper box in the car.

Chagra, represented in court by his brother Joe, waived extradition and was moved back to El Paso March 1. He has been held at La Tuna Federal Correctional Institution near here.

Evangelist predicts 'Rapture' day Tuesday

DALLAS (AP) — Radio evangelist Willie Day Smith says according to his calculations, the "Rapture" predicted in the Bible — when all Christians will be swept up into Heaven — will occur next Tuesday.

Smith says he, for one, is not planning to remain on earth that day.

"I'm going to cancel my radio programs. If I leave April 1, I can't make the radio programs," said Smith, whose sermons are broadcast by 29 radio stations.

The 49-year-old evangelist said he arrived at his prediction by carefully reading the Bible and making calculations. He said the Rapture is linked to the birth of Israel, which became a nation in 1948.

He said thousands of Christians will be changed to immortal bodies, swept up and transported to Heaven, leaving the non-believers behind on April 1.

Death toll in mine accident rises to 31

ORKNEY, South Africa (AP) — Standing beside a mine shaft more than a mile deep in the world's largest gold mine, Aaron Masiza suddenly heard screams. He looked up and saw a "mary ann," an elevator loaded with fellow miners, hurtling down.

"Before I knew what was happening I saw strange particles fly through the air...and later noticed it was human flesh. I also saw limbs," Masiza said.

This morning, the day after the accident in the Vaal Reef mine, John Eplett, the mine manager, said the original reported death toll had been revised from 23 to 31. Originally it had been reported that 20 blacks and 3 whites died when the mine hoist plummeted to the bottom of the shaft at an estimated 160 miles an hour.

But Eplett said, "Looks as if there were more blacks dead than we feared. Twenty-eight, I think. The top deck must have been almost full."

The two-deck elevator cage has a capacity of 40 miners. Eplett said the hoist apparently jammed against the shaft wall as it began its descent.
