Carter hasn't met Irani terms

By The Associated Press

President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said President Carter has not met his terms for removal of the American hostages from the control of the militants holding them, and the Revolutionary Council won't take custody of the captives until he does. A top White House official said the Carter administration is not sure what the Iranian leader wants.

"It is not important to us what opinion President Carter has expressed. What is important is whether or not he takes the measures we have specified," Bani-Sadr said in a statement distributed by Paris, the official Iranian news agency.

"If he does, the Revolutionary Council will undertake responsibility for the hostages until the Majlis (Parliament) gives its opinion on the matter. Otherwise it will not."

On Tuesday night, the White House aide said U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim had spoken by telephone with Bani-Sadr and then advised Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that Iran was waiting for a new statement of U.S. intentions.

The aide, who requested anonymity, said, "We don't know specifically what they're looking for. We would like to be as helpful as we can. Obviously there are limitations beyond which the president cannot go."

Earlier Tuesday, Bani-Sadr told a rally the council had agreed to take control of the hostages until the new Iranian parliament decided their fate if the U.S. government pledged to abstain from all hostile action and propaganda against Iran until their fate was decided by the new Parliament.

In the first round of parliamentary voting, the clergy-dominated Islamic Republican Party won 49 seats, supporters of Bani-Sadr captured 18, independents won 21, and several minor parties won a total of 13. It was reported today that the other 16 seats will be filled in a second round of parliamentary voting expected to be held in about a month. A government-appointed commission is now investigating claims of vote-rigging in the first round of voting.

Bani-Sadr's apparent determination to end the embassy standoff likely will be made more difficult if the Islamic Republican Party wins a parliamentary majority. Party members, mostly Muslim clergymen, have backed Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the militants holding the American hostages in their demands for the return of the shah in exchange for release of the hostages.

A short time after Bani-Sadr spoke Tuesday, Carter told White House reporters the offer was a "positive development" and that he would defer imposing further sanctions against Iran. However, Carter repeatedly ignored reporters' questions as to whether he intended to accede to Bani-Sadr's conditions.

Asked whether the silence meant acquiescence, a senior White House aide said, "This government is not aware that it has engaged in any hostile action or provocation...The president's remarks constitute our statement on this matter. I think I have made myself abundantly clear."

458 ballots cast in absentee voting

Ablene's voter turnout, boasted as high by the Ablene Reporter-News, is lower than the ballots cast in Big Spring. Absentee voting deadline for city races was Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Absentee votes cast in the city council race there totaled 337.

A total of 458 citizens voted absentee here compared to 232 during last year's race.

Almost twice as many Big Springers voted absentee in this year's city election as in last year's.

"It looks like it might be a heavy turnout. We might even get some more absentee ballots in the mail by tomorrow morning," said Tom Ferguson, city secretary, today.

The deadline for voting absentee passed, Tuesday, but mailed ballots will still be accepted until 10 a.m. Thursday.

In the Howard County Junior College Race a total of 536 votes were tabulated. Three mail-in ballots have not been received.

Absentee voting in the Big Spring Independent School District race totaled 513. Three mail-in ballots are still out in that race, also. The deadline for mail-in balloting is 10 a.m. Thursday in both races.

Totals are not official until the votes are counted Saturday night after polling places close.

There will be no run-off in either school board or junior college races, unless there is a tie. Top vote getters will fill spots in the boards. One slot is open on the school board and two on the college board.

In the city council race a majority is required for a win, so a run-off election may be required.

Thursday deadline for voters' registration

Where have all the voters gone?

By WALT FINLEY

There are two kinds of people in this world, novelist-critic Henry James supposedly said, (although he didn't say it to me) those who divide people into two kinds and those who don't.

Being one of the former, I'd like to divide people into two kinds: those who vote and those who don't.

Here's a prediction, based on Howard County voters' past performance in presidential general elections.

About 8,500 persons will vote in Howard County May 3, and about 2,500 who are old enough to vote, won't. More than 2,500 of them can't because they aren't registered. And about 4,500 are registered, but they won't bother to vote.

Why? Well, the reasons you get when you query non-voters on the issue are as varied as potato salad recipes at a family reunion. "I couldn't find anyone I was mad enough to vote against" to "My dog had a headache."

But basically there are two schools there we go against of non-voters: those who are making some sort of statement about the candidates by not voting and those who have some sort of logistical problem.

(There are probably some people who are apathetic, but pollsters haven't been able to find them. Practically nobody is willing to admit he doesn't care.)

But back to the two schools on non-voters.

The Committee for the Study of the Electorate found in a privately-funded study that those who are making some sort of statement about the quality of the candidates greatly outnumber those who make statements giving some logistical reason.

(Texas ranks fourth among the states in presidential election year voting. Texas casting 2,082,319 for Jimmy Carter and 1,963,300 ballots for Gerald R. Ford in 1976.

Also blacks, young persons, residents of areas dominated by only one political party and rural residents are less likely to vote, although there are some striking examples of political mania in rural areas where the two-party system is about as healthy as a grasshopper in a DDT factory.

People who have been politically active in the past but quit voting usually don't fit the conventional mold of the non-voter, however.

According to the Committee for the Study of the Electorate, they're in the older age brackets, educated, affluent, white and usually, alienated.

In the same study, people were asked who their political heroes were. They chose John F. Kennedy, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Dwight D.

There is very little time left to register for the May 3 Democratic and Republican primaries.

Deadline for in-person registration at the county courthouse is 5 p.m. Thursday.

Deadline to get mailed-in registration applications post-marked is midnight, seven hours later.

If you're not currently registered to vote, you'll need to return a completed registration card to the election office by deadline, or you will not be allowed to vote on May 3.

At last count, Howard County Tax-Collector officials said there are 13,893 registered voters in the county.

paid for with public funds — in an attempt to "get out the vote," never mind for whom?

Dorothy Moore, chief deputy in the Howard County Tax Assessor-Collector's office, says the "get out the vote" promotional efforts of her office are good for the community.

"We're trying to expose people to the concept," she says. "A lot of voters, once they vote, will go back. They realize it's not as much trouble as they thought it would be."

Voting, says Mrs. Moore, "is the one chance I have, along with everyone else, to be on the same footing with everybody. I don't want to see us get in the posture of it being fashionable not to participate. That allows someone to make the decision for you."

Only 27 percent of the eligible electorate voted for Jimmy Carter in 1976, Mrs. Moore illustrates, which decided the political and government leader of the country for the remaining 73 percent.

For many on-voters, there's a problem of confidence.

Sixty-eight percent of the interviewees acknowledged they stayed away from the polls because they believe "candidates say one thing and do another."

Fifty-five percent agreed that "it doesn't seem to make any difference because things never work out right."

Fifty-two percent agreed that "Watergate has shown officials are just out for themselves."

And 50 percent found no fault with the statement that "candidates seem pretty much the same."

On the logistical side, 10 percent didn't vote because they couldn't get to the polls on time, 21 percent said registration rules make it difficult to vote and 12 percent passed up the franchise for the lack of a babysitter.

In his book, Politics in States and Communities, Thomas Dye quotes a recent study which shows the belief that "a few big interests" run the government is increasing, the belief that government "wastes a lot of money" is held by 70 percent of the electorate, nearly half the electorate believes the people running the government "don't know what they are doing" and nearly a third believes that "quite a few" public officials are "crooked."

Who exactly are the people who don't vote?

According to Dye, cynics of both the right and left ends of the political spectrum are less likely to vote than those of the center, poorer, less educated persons are more likely to skip elections, which may explain why voter turnouts are lower in the South, except in states like West Virginia, where heavy union activity in the coal mining industry has spawned heavy participation in political activities like voting.

You guessed it, there's another school of thought on that concept, too.

Kim Finley, my son, a government-journalism student at the University of California at Santa Barbara, is a member.

"The only form of protest now is leaving the ballot empty," says Kim. "If we had a ballot in there that said, 'We don't care for either of these guys,' you'd have a way to express your dissatisfaction. If that got 51 percent, then it would be time to look for someone else."

He said the Santa Barbara Bare Facts Press, which couldn't be described as the house organ for establishment politics, gave its readers a bit of political advice recently.

If you're not sure whom to vote for, it said, don't vote. "It only encourages them."

Student dies after fraternity initiation

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — An 18-year-old Ithaca College freshman died early this morning after a fraternity initiation ritual in which he did calisthenics in a hot room, authorities said.

Joseph Parella of the Bronx died about 4 a.m. at Tompkins County Hospital, officials said.

The tentative cause of death was heat stroke or heat exhaustion, said Dr. John Maines, an assistant medical examiner. An autopsy was scheduled.

A college spokesman said the incident was under investigation.

'We really don't know where the patients are'

High turnover traced to low pay

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

The superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital echoed Gov. Bill Clements' budget director that the state MHMR system is woefully lacking a computer system.

"We don't have a patient tracking system," Dr. Grace Ferguson said Monday in remarks about a recent management review undertaken by the State Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Paul Wrotenbery, the governor's budget director, gave the findings of the management audit during the MHMR board meeting last Thursday.

"We really don't know where the patients are," Dr. Ferguson said. She added that a patient could be released from one mental institution in the state and later be readmitted to another without either of the two doctors having such knowledge for the patient's case history.

Wrotenbery said "data processing facilities, resources and nature of application by MHMR are in the Dark Ages." He added, "Data processing is not used out there to any significant degree."

Ferguson said, "This is one of the priorities for the 1980 Mental Health Plan."

The management audit went on to criticize MHMR's personnel system and its control of outlying institutions by central headquarters.

The MHMR board learned that turnover in the system is 40 percent.

Herman Wilkins of the Texas Railroad Commission and also head of the auditing team said, "management is the responsible party, yesterday, today and tomorrow."

He added, "Turnover can be reduced, and it can only be reduced by good, effective management."

Dr. Ferguson said that turnover is high and particular in the entry-level jobs.

"Most turnover is in the lower echelons," Dr. Ferguson said. "It is more like 60 percent at that level."

The reason, Dr. Ferguson said, is basically salary. The Texas Legislature sets salaries for MHMR workers, and the wage scales are low.

"Salary is the main reason (for high turnover)," Dr. Ferguson said. "They (wages) are low, and they are hard to live on."

She added, "For the entry-level people the motivators are the pay-check."

Dr. Ferguson said that high turnover over hampers to a degree patient care. The people are gaining care at a MHMR center, Dr. Ferguson said, develop relationships slowly. When a worker, who is close to a patient, leaves, the impact is definite.

"It is very hard on the patient," Dr. Ferguson added. "This is a system wide problem, just not with Big Spring."

She added that this is expensive for the state, for a person is trained by the MHMR system and then he leaves, getting a better-paying job.

Wilkins said that turnover has gotten so acute that MHMR once sent recruiters to college campuses to fill jobs requiring three to four year's experience.

Wrotenbery said the review showed lines of authority from the central office of the outlying institutions are weak.

"There is almost a non-recognition of the central office," Wrotenbery said.

Ferguson took exception to Wrotenbery's remark, saying that communication between Big Spring and Austin are fine.

The state hospital superintendent said the gist of the meeting last week was the board reversed itself and is now committed to a 5 percent staff reduction.

In January, the MHMR Board backed Gov. Clements' call for a 5 percent staff reduction in state agencies.

"The board wants management efficiency and no cut back on services," Dr. Ferguson said.

Action/reaction: Fire guards quiz

Q. Why doesn't Howard County grade fire guards in rural areas of the county, specifically FM 821 and 2183? Both Mitchell and Glascock Counties do.

A. Crews have spent the last few weeks clearing ditches of brush, said Road Superintendent Clifford Hart. The precaution is adequate for preventing spread of fire if one starts from the road, said Hart. "We keep out lottage pretty clean," he said. If anyone wants fireguards on their own property they grade the land themselves, he said.

Violation of rights?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The arrests of 48 Iranians on charges of trespass and resisting arrest should be thrown out as a violation of the Iranian's constitutional guarantees of free speech, their lawyers say.

The 48 were arrested after the disruption of a speech by Fereydoon Hoveyda, who served as ambassador under the now-deposed shah.

Their attorneys, in an appeal filed Monday with the state Supreme Court, urged the charges be thrown out or the conditions of their trial changed. The trial judge has barred the general public from the courtroom and ordered only one defendant in the room at a time.

Problems surface over county probation clerk's appointment

By DON WOODS

More problems surfaced over the supervision of county court probationers when District Judge Jim Gregg appointed County Court Coordinator Mike Barton as county probation clerk Jan. 15.

"The law doesn't recognize him," said Adult Probation Officer Guy Talbot. He said Barton fails to meet the educational requirements specified in the state criminal code.

The code requires that a probation officer have a bachelor degree from an accredited university and a year of graduate work in a related field.

"I don't see any problem there," said Gregg. "He's not a probation officer, he's a clerk."

Talbot said Article 42.12 of Vernon's Criminal Code states that the district judge will appoint a probation officer and that the probation officer will appoint clerks or other employees if needed.

"I didn't appoint Barton a clerk nor have I been instructed to do so by the district judge or Texas Adult Probation Commission," said Talbot.

Talbot said proper channels for hiring a probation clerk include a contract requiring the county judge to "comply with laws of the state of Texas and revoke probations when other violations occur."

The county judge would also agree to "give records to 118th District Court to keep accurate records here and Austin," Talbot said he hasn't been receiving records from county court.

"After the provisions have been made, the Adult Probation Commission would entertain a proposal to hire Barton as a part-time clerk," said Talbot.

Gregg insisted no contract was necessary. "The state's not going to run my probation department," said Gregg. If forced to operate by state standards the adult probation department could be run on county funds, said Gregg.

The county provides office space and equipment, said Gregg, and the state provides salaries.

Gregg said Talbot talked with him Monday morning about the necessity of a contract between the state and county judge Bill Tune.

She said the money is before Barton could be paid.

Gregg said this morning, though, that he told Talbot Monday to authorize the payment of the $200 a month salary.

Talbot said he was asked by Jim McDonough, staff director of program services for the state commission on adult probation, if he needed another probation clerk. He replied that he did not.

He said he already has a probation clerk and that he does not need another one. He said he pays the clerk $150 a month and that she more than earns the money.

Gregg said the money for the salaries comes from the probation fund consisting of state funds and all probation fees that are paid.

Talbot said his office is already drawing supplemental state funds.

Gregg said Barton's responsibilities include submitting probation records to 118th District Court, but not to the state. He is also responsible for meeting with probationers monthly and collecting fees.

Barton said some probationers are not paying probation fees, but that the condition was up to the discretion of Tune.

"The judge didn't feel that they needed to pay fees," said Barton.

The probationers number 15 to 20, said Barton, who are not paying any probation fees. He added that they make monthly reports.

Tune declined to say why he had not required the usual monthly fees, but said, "You've gotten all the answers out of me you're going to get."

Tune said no misdemeanor probation fees were being paid by probationers prior to Jan. 15. "I don't see that I have to give a reason," said Tune.

County Attorney Harvey Hooser said there was nothing improper about Tune's decision to forego probation fees.

Tune said of Barton's appointment to the clerk position: "It's going extremely well."

Barton supervises around 40 probationers. He collected $130 in probation fees in January and $290 in February, according to County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin. Probation fees normally total $10 a month per probationer.

Nearly $100,000 in March Local construction continues upswing

Construction in the city rose by nearly $100,000 during March, compared to the same month last year.

Construction costs totaled $424,325 during the month, compared to $324,765 for March of 1979. This brings the total for the year-to-date to $1,839,589, compared to $1,048,792.50 for the same period last year.

Helping to account for the increase was the proposed construction of a new facility by the Higginbotham Bartlett Company at 200, 202 and 204 Nolan. Cost of that project is estimated at $106,000.

Another major project, a commercial enclosure, will be undertaken by the HFA Development Company at 501 Birdwell. Estimated cost is $102,000.

Roger D. Brown, local attorney, will construct a new office facility at 1101 Main, costing $30,000. A new private club will be built by Andres Gamboa at 1100 West IS 20, also costing $30,000.

Wimley White will begin a commercial project at 311 N. Lancaster with an estimated cost of $25,000.

A new residence will be built by Signal Mountain Homes at 2612 Central. Estimated cost is $40,000.

Perhaps the most unusual permit of the month was one for $1,500 issued to Schick-Sunn Pictures, Inc., allowing the company to move an alien spaceship from the Industrial Park to Moss Lake, and back again.

Police beat Burglars loot three cars

Burglars hit three vehicles in the city Tuesday.

After tossing a rock through a passenger window in a car belonging to Carl W. Barnes, Coahoma, intruders lifted a purse from inside. The car had been parked at the Ritz Theatre, Tuesday night.

The purse had contained a checkbook, wallet and two credit cards. Cost of loss and damages has not been estimated.

A combination clock-calculator was stolen from the glove box of a car belonging to Jack D. Powell, 2715 Carol, Tuesday. The car had been parked at the Jiffy Car Wash, and loss was estimated at $100.

A 12-volt battery was funneled back into the same fund that district probation fees go into. The money is used to operate the adult probation office, along with funds collected from felony probationers and state funds.

Bob West is promoted by American Petrofina

DALLAS — American Petrofina, Incorporated, today announced effective April 1, management consolidation of information services and accounting functions for two wholly owned subsidiaries, American Petrofina Company of Texas (energy operations) and Cosden Oil & Chemical Company (petrochemicals and plastics).

S.R. West, controller and assistant secretary-treasurer of Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, is being promoted to assistant controller of American Petrofina, Inc. He will report to S.T. Bogan, vice president and controller.

The transfer of responsibility for the information services activities composed of systems and programming, and data processing to the accounting department coincides with the retirement of Kenneth K. Byrd, vice president, information services for American Petrofina Company of Texas.

Reporting to West will be W.W. Taylor, controller of petrochemicals subsidiaries; B.G. Hagar, controller of energy subsidiaries; W.D. Gunter, controller, accounting systems; and F.N. Willoughby, general manager, information systems.

West, a native of Amarillo, received a BBA degree with an accounting major from West Texas State University. He joined Cosden in 1962 at Big Spring as an accountant. He was named general accounting supervisor in 1968, and later that year was appointed assistant secretary-treasurer of Cosden. On January 1, 1972, he was elected controller and State University. work load of the department as a whole had increased as a result of the resignations.

The pay of the police officer is "locked in" once the annual city budget has been drawn. That usually occurs in October. At that time last year, the pay of the police officer was boosted ten percent.

Rookie policemen in Odessa start with a base pay of $950 a month. That is increased to $1,245 after three years, excluding educational incentives. An Odessa officer may draw up to $150 a month extra in education incentives after a year of service.

Other incentive pay includes $30 a month for graduates of the FBI Academy; $60 a month extra for associate college degrees; $100 a month for bachelor degrees; $20 a month for intermediate certificate police training; $50 a month for advanced certification; plus $2 a month for an A or B license or instructor's license.

Odessa officers can claim any combination that pays $150 a month.

In Midland, the base pay for officers is $1,068. That is raised to $1,297 in 24 to 30 months.

In San Angelo, an officer starts off at $945 a month. That is raised to $1,192 after three years. Starting pay for officers in Big Spring is $950 a month.

September 1978 when two probationers were ordered to report to Barton.

Around the end of October of the same year County Attorney Harvey Hooser said an attorney general's opinion "indicated we should work through the district probation office. From now on we'll send our probation judgments up there."

Hooser said the revised statute instituted by the past state legislature allowed for the probation clerk and nullified the attorney general's opinion.

In November of 1979 Juvenile Probation Officer Ed Cherry was being considered for the misdemeanor probation officer slot, however, the Juvenile Board did not react favorably to the proposal.

Gregg said it was about that time that Tune discussed the possibility with him of appointing Barton to the position.

Blowing dust forecast for South Plains area

By the Associated Press

Heavy thunderstorms rumbled across Southeast Texas and Northeast Texas and dense fog caused hazardous driving conditions in South Central Texas and in the Hill Country.

Light drizzle combined with the fog to make driving conditions hazardous. Travelers advisories were issued for the Austin area, the San Antonio area and the Hill Country because of the patchy dense fog. Visibility in the Austin area was reduced in places to as low as a 1/8th of a mile.

Forecasts called for mostly cloudy skies statewide with the possibility of showers and thunderstorms existing for all but Southwest Texas. The showers and thunderstorms were to be most numerous and heaviest in North Central Texas.

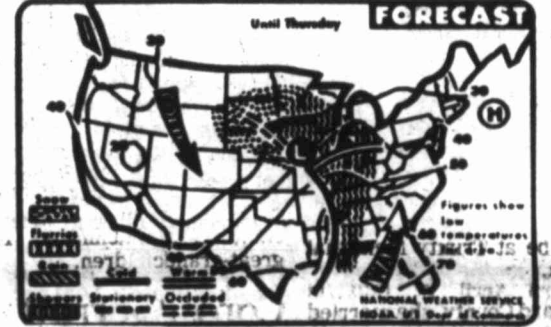

It was to be windy in West Texas where blowing dust was expected in the South Plains.

WEATHER FORECAST

WEST TEXAS - Windy today with blowing dust mainly South Plains. Chance of showers and thunderstorms north and east. Fair most sections tonight. Windy Panhandle and mostly fair elsewhere Thursday. Highs low 60s north to upper 70s south except near 90 Big Bend. Lows mid 30s mountains and north to upper 40s south except low 50s Big Bend. Highs Thursday upper 50s north to upper 70s south except near 90 Big Bend.

EXTENDED

WEST TEXAS - Partly cloudy through Sunday. Cool Friday and Saturday warmer Sunday. Chance of showers Panhandle Sunday. Lows Friday night 20s north to 40s south. Highs Friday and Saturday mid 50s north to near 80 Big Bend. Lows Saturday night near 40 north to low 50s south. Highs Sunday mid 40s extreme north to mid 80s Big Bend.

WEATHER FORECAST - Showers are expected in the forecast period, today until Thursday morning, from the central Gulf to the Midwest and changing to snow over the northern and central Plains. Warm weather is forecast for the Southeast, cold weather for the western Plains. Mild temperatures are expected for the west coast and Northeast.

Carter crushes Kennedy hopes

MILWAUKEE (AP) - President Carter crushed Sen. Edward Kennedy's campaign comeback with a double-landslide in Wisconsin and Kansas, gaining the votes that put him more than half-way to renomination in what is now a two-man Democratic contest.

Ronald Reagan strengthened his virtually unbreakable grip on the Republican nomination and stands as the candidate the Democrats almost certainly would have to defeat to hold the White House. He captured Wisconsin's primary election on Tuesday, ran away with Kansas, and said that while he wasn't claiming to have the nomination clinched, "it does make for a substantial lead."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a distant third to Carter and Kennedy, said he was through as a candidate. "This will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," he said.

Rep. John Anderson's Republican campaign hit the skids in Wisconsin. The Illinois congressman had campaigned diligently through the state and hoped Democratic crossover would fortify his showing. But he placed third, behind George Bush, raising questions about his ability to build a third-party candidacy as some supporters urged.

The midwestern primary victories strengthened Carter and Reagan as they head for a Saturday election in Louisiana. Southerner Carter and conservative Reagan are strong there, and virtually certain to add to their towering leads in nominating delegates.

Carter emerged from the Tuesday primaries with a national total of 852 delegates, more than half the 1,666-vote majority he'll need to win at the Democratic National Convention. Kennedy has 427.

Reagan's victories swelled his total to 343 of the 998 it will take to gain the GOP nomination. Bush, the former U.N. ambassador who ran second in Wisconsin and third in Kansas, has 72.

Anderson has 57. Bush and Anderson said they would press their campaigns to overtake Reagan, but that will become ever more difficult as the competition moves to southwestern and western states in which the former California governor looms strong.

Kennedy's next target is the April 22 primary in Pennsylvania; he went campaigning there today after gaining the endorsement of the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Carter let the numbers do the talking. Spokesman Jody Powell said the president termed his victories evidence of "very important and very strong support."

Wisconsin campaign manager Curtis Wiley said Carter "was elated at the spread" by which he defeated Kennedy.

It was 56 percent to 30 percent in Wisconsin, 57 percent to 32 percent in Kansas.

So he conceded the election and the campaign. "The voters have spoken and have given their verdict on my last contest in which I participated in 1980," he told supporters in Milwaukee.

Deloris Albert named Woman of the Year

Deloris F. Albert, secretary to publisher Tom Watson of the Big Spring Herald, has been selected as Woman of the Year by the scenic chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

Mrs. Albert was presented with a trophy at Tuesday's meeting of the organization. Watson previously had been chosen as Boss of the Year by the ABWA and awarded an appropriately engraved trophy.

Mrs. Albert has served in her present capacity for the past six months. Her duties include the sorting and opening of mail, writing receipts and deposits for checks received by mail, scheduling and proofing of legal notices, church ads, national advertisements, keeping records of inches and lineage of the legal ads and national ads, page numbers and circulation number of advertising inserts that go to the corporate headquarters of the newspaper.

In addition, she types and mails all correspondence for the publisher and six other department supervisors. She maintains the correspondence file, forms, sick leave, vacation schedules and files on new applicants, that in addition to all other routine duties of a secretary.

Before she was promoted to her present position, she worked in the classified ad section of the Herald. At one time, she worked in Civil Service at Webb AFB. She presently operates on a part-time basis the Spencer Shop, which she also owns.

Mrs. Albert has attended Howard College, where she took courses in Business Math, typing and keypunch. She completed a course in Files Management and Disposition, Payroll and corsetiere training.

She is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Salvation Army, the National Association of Executive Secretaries and is a Sunbeam Leader (a girls' scouting group). She teaches a Sunday School class and had done volunteer work in nursing homes, the VA Hospital, State Hospital, the Salvation Army and the girl scouts.

She has had a perfect attendance record for six years in the scenic chapter of the ABWA and has held several offices in that organization.

Other candidates for the honor included Vicki Morrow, employed by the Social Security Administration as a Date Review Technician; and Jeanine Rundell, a Title I teacher in the Sands ISD system.

'Rapture' day does not occur; credibility gone

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Millions of Christians remain on earth today, but the credibility of self-proclaimed prophet Willie Day Smith may have vanished.

According to Smith's Biblical calculations, he and millions of other believers were to have instantaneously and inexplicably disappeared from the earth Tuesday afternoon.

The occasion was the "rapture," the day when the Christian faithful are summoned to heaven to be with Jesus Christ.

The only known disappearance Tuesday was Smith, the Southern Baptist who broke with his background to become a non-denominationalist proclaimer of the end.

Smith, 47, locked himself inside his home in this Dallas suburb most of the day. When he finally emerged Tuesday evening, he shouted to one local reporter, "Stay off his property or I'll call the police. Stay off my telephone. Get out of this area."

A Texas Tech graduate with a chemical engineering degree, Smith based his calculations on a combination of intense scripture study and what he called "Hebrew numerics."

He said he realized he was putting his credibility on the line with his pinpoint calculations, but he would not flinch from his belief.

"I have nothing to lose but my reputation," Smith said shortly before his target date.

Is it 'goodbye' to newsprints?

The idea certainly isn't new but Thomas L. McPhail, associate professor of journalism at Carleton University, said recently that the door-to-door newspaper had better be getting ready for retirement.

"It's only a few years away and the replacement already is on the job," McPhail said.

"The situation appears to be relatively simple," McPhail added. "If the news is gathered electronically — on VDTs, teletype, computerized data bases, electronic resource libraries, portable consoles — from around the corner via cable or via around-the-world satellites, then it is only a matter of time before electronic collection of information will lead to electronic dissemination of the same information into North American homes and businesses."

McPhail is telling us that the newspaper printed in a central plant as we now know it will become passe, that electronic devices in the future will print your paper inside your home or bank the information you seek until you are ready for it and then flash it onto a screen.

McPhail's comments are contained in a paper entitled "Goodbye (Almost) to Newsprint: Future Shock for Press is Next." The report, published by the Journalism Resources Institute of Idaho State University, also highlights some of the major telecommunications experiments currently under way in this country and peers at the technology behind the experiments.

"It is important to note that what is being discussed here is not a set of services or a set of concepts that have yet to be developed technologically," McPhail writes. "Today everything exists off the shelf to develop interactive information systems delivered electronically to homes and offices."

McPhail adds that the development of telecommunications is not a matter of 'if,' but simply a question of timing and ownership. Who will own the information resources, and how long it will take cable companies to develop information service, will largely be determined by the regulatory climate," he said. "However, the substitution of paper by electronic means is central to the Information Age. No industry will be more affected than the newspaper industry. If it doesn't act aggressively, it will be a victim of future shock."

The newspaper industry was a long time coming out of the 19th Century. It clung to old concepts in printing techniques, in relaying news and in editorial stances. Its hand was forced by other media, which threatened to make it as extinct as the dodo bird. To its credit, it ultimately did get the message, after which it returned to its rightful place at the head of the parade in the news-gathering business. It will fight to stay there, but with weapons which even now may not have been perfected.

Sign of times

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

According to evangelist Willie Day Smith, the Lord was supposed to have returned yesterday.

Obviously He didn't or you wouldn't be reading this rim, hopefully. (Either that, or you got left.)

The first thing I overheard when I arrived at work last Friday was that some evangelist had predicted the rapture (the return of Christ for all Christians) would take place Tuesday.

Christ's return.

I certainly don't profess to be an intellectual Bible scholar (just ask anyone in the Criswell Bible Study Class with me at Hillcrest).

However, I do know that the Bible says only God Himself knows the exact time His Son will return.

"But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not even the angels of heaven, but my Father only." (Matt. 24:36)

The thought of Jesus returning has always excited me. I'm ready! And if He was going to return Tuesday, that suited me just fine.

The seemingly hopeless condition of the world we see on the television, we hear about over the radio and we read about in the newspaper I believe is a sign of the times.

"Watch therefore, for ye knoweth neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh." (Matt. 25:13)

SO FRANKLY, if God hasn't even told His angels it's hard for me to believe that He told Willie Smith.

Although no one knows when, Christ will someday return.

"And ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars..." (Matt. 24:6)

"For nation shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be famines and pestilences and earthquakes in divers places." (Matt. 24:7)

Great strides are being made each day toward world evangelism. The gospel is indeed reaching every corner of the earth.

Although I'm anxious for the coming of Christ, I know that every second He delays, is an opportunity for someone who doesn't know Christ as their Savior to accept him.

Even though it wasn't Tuesday, I believe the return of the King of Kings for his followers isn't that far off.

Tuesday, though, wouldn't have been a bad day. Any bills due after that wouldn't have had to be paid, but most of all, I wouldn't have had to worry about writing a Wednesday rim.

I have no desire to be left on earth during the seven years of trials and tribulations, especially during the Battle of Armageddon and because of the grace of God in sending His Son to die on the cross in my place, I won't be.

Will you?

I've always been a little leary, however, of those who attempt to predict the date, hour and minute of the end of the world.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

I'd like to say something about Bill Henkel, who is running for the office of mayor. Bill is a hard working man who understands the problems of the working people.

Dear Editor:

Chuck Smith, who was right with him all the time... Dewayne Saverance, a new Jaycee who milked snakes all weekend... Dub Clinton, who did the announcing for the demonstrations... Jerry Holton, another new Jaycee who helped with hunter registration... Wayne Pierce, who does such a good job with hunter weigh-in... Perry Culwell, for arranging the party with the movie people. All these people were there the entire weekend and pulled an extremely difficult project off without a single argument or fuss.

There are many people in this town who work for a salary. We don't have a lot of money because it takes everything we make just to get by.

Henkel has always treated the working folks with a lot of respect and made them feel welcome in his place of business. These folks feel comfortable around him and feel like he fairly represents them on the city council. He has always had time to listen to the complaints and the suggestions of the working people.

We had approximately 4,000 people come to the show, which is one of our best turnouts in years, plus we made a great deal of money to go for paying on the playground equipment we put in at Comanche Trail Park.

Dear Editor:

I hesitate to mention a wrong impression the Herald gave in the Monday paper, but I feel it is something that should be amended. In the caption under a page one picture of the Rattlesnake Roundup, showing a snake on the head of the handler, the statement is made: "The head adornment is 100 percent live rattlesnake-milked, of course."

Dear Editor:

As editor and reporter for "The Voice," we would like to thank Steve Hershberger for his article on V.O.T.E. (Sunday's Herald). We hope the story helped improve the community's understanding of our group, and our purposes.

The inference seems to be that if a rattlesnake has been milked, it is no longer dangerous. Nothing could be further from the truth. In fact, milking tends to "hack 'em off" and there is no way to get all the venom. I wanted to correct this before someone makes an unwise attempt to recreate the trick shown in the picture.

Membership is open to any citizen. If an elected official joins, he is a member within his capacity of private citizen; but his membership will not forestall V.O.T.E.'s scrutiny of his performance as an elected representative.

Otherwise, the Jaycees cannot say thank you enough to the Herald for all the publicity and assistance given us to help promote the Roundup. Special thanks go to Robbi Crow and Bill Forshee. The Herald has always given the hunt excellent coverage and these two fine people went far beyond just covering an assignment.

If the article piqued anyone's interest in the Voice Of The Electorate, we would be pleased to have you attend our next meeting, April 7. Also, I'd like to thank all the girls at the Chamber of Commerce for helping us to field all the hundreds of telephone calls and letters that come in requesting information every year. Those fine ladies were invaluable this year and acted like we'd done them a favor by letting them help us.

On the verge

Joseph Kraft

I leave the United States for another trip to Europe and the Near East with a sense of black despair. Economic and foreign policy verge on collapse. A survey of the political field discloses no Lochinvar riding to the rescue.

The tightening of credit by the Federal Reserve Board is the important new element in the economic picture. It seems certain to drive the country into recession. Some major corporations and financial institutions are going to be hit very hard, and already the search is on for the weak link.

Chrysler has a federal loan guarantee for $1.5 billion. But what use is that if money has to be borrowed at close to 20 percent interest? Various savings and loan institutions, especially in California, are rapidly losing funds. A number of major cities — including New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Washington as well as Cleveland — are in grave difficulty.

EVEN IF THE NEXT MONTH or two passes without a major bankruptcy, the steep recession which looms will play havoc with the federal budget. Heavy outlays for unemployment insurance, welfare and other social payments that rise when times are bad are a certainty. Revenues are likely to be cut by bond holders taking tax losses. Despite all the tough talk of cutting the budget, there is almost sure to be a big deficit in the fiscal year beginning next fall.

Combine the deficit with the subsequent measures to stimulate the economy that will be politically required, and the fight against inflation goes by the boards. The best guess is that by April or May a steep recession will be on. Before the end of the year, efforts to stimulate recovery will be under way. That means inflation will take off again — from a level of about 8 or 9 percent annually.

In foreign policy, setback has followed setback. Afghanistan has been conceded to the Russians already. Pakistan has been obliged to settle for a neutral position. Iran has drowned itself in anarchy. It is by no means clear that the U.S. can secure the southwest coast of the Persian Gulf — including Saudi Arabia.

For the Soviet Union has established itself as the paramount power in the area. American efforts to redress the balance are halting at best. This country's partners in Europe and Asia, far from supporting Washington, are taking their distances the better for going into business for themselves with Russia and the Arab oil-exporting countries. In consequence it is not even clear the Carter administration can push through with its one diplomatic triumph to date — the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

POLITICAL ANTIBODIES WOULD normally be set up by such unhealth in economic and foreign policy. But in confusion, voters have turned to traditional concepts and private values as a means of measuring candidates. A couple of those best qualified as public servants — John Connally and Howard Baker — have already flunked the personality test. Two others — George Bush and John Anderson — look like failing soon. Though Sen. Kennedy won in New York and Connecticut these victories seem to be only a reprieve. So President Carter and Ronald Reagan emerge.

With respect to the president, there is no reason to believe a second term will show improved performance. He has learned little and forgotten nothing. He remains the outsider running against the powers. If anything there will be added to his defects the one sure result of electoral success — arrogance.

Angina--Which kind?

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband has to take nitro pills for his heart. He has heart spasms. The attacks are getting much too frequent and he sometimes has a sore chest for several days. He carries the nitro pills with him at all times. The attacks are often at night and we can't figure out what causes them. Can you offer any suggestions? — Mrs. H.E.W.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband has a bladder problem, for example. There are other forms of treatment for angina that can be tried — other medicines, like propranolol, in addition to the nitroglycerin. Your husband is due for a re-evaluation of his symptoms.

This calls for a long answer. I shortened your letter, Mrs. H.E.W. Let's look at regular angina first — arm and chest pain caused by reduced blood flow to the heart muscle itself. The usual cause of the lessened flow is blockage by fatty deposits inside the arteries leading to the heart.

A muscle that continues to be exercised while it is getting insufficient blood will produce pain. Medical students perform a little test to prove this for themselves. They are given a rubber ball to squeeze for as long as they can. A blood pressure cuff is put on the arm to cut off blood supply to the muscles. Soon the ball-squeezing student gets arm pain, the same kind the heart would give.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please explain what "arterial venous pinching" means. My doctor looked into my eyes with a light and said I had it. — Mrs. D.T.

A doctor gets valuable information by looking at the vessels in the back of the eye. He uses an "ophthalmoscope."

The blood vessels are easy to see with that scope and he can guess what vessels are like in other parts of the body. Changes that occur with high blood pressure can be seen there. Looking at the eye vessels can also give an idea of what arteries are like. Telltale signs can indicate diabetes.

The difference is that the student can stop squeezing, but the heart has to go on working. If it has to work harder while a person is shoveling snow, for example, the blood deficit is more pronounced and severe pain results.

Now there is a variation of this problem, and it sounds from your letter that this may be what your husband has. It's called "Prinzmetal's angina" (after a doctor). In this, the blood vessels are not always clogged. However, for other reasons the vessels go into spasm (narrow) causing a temporary reduction of blood flow through them. Angina (pain) results. Another difference with this kind of angina is that pain may occur when a person is at rest. Between attacks, the heart performs normally.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could a hiatal hernia cause heartburn? — Mrs. G.K.

Yes, such a hernia (in the gullet) might allow stomach juices to splash upward and cause the unpleasant pain referred to as "heartburn." Of course, the heart is not involved.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Another form is "angina decubitus." Here the heart pain occurs during sleep.

Chest pain from any angina would not last for days. If this is a new sign your husband should report it to his doctor.

Many non-heart related conditions can cause angina-like pain — a gall bladder problem, for example. There are other forms of treatment for angina that can be tried — other medicines, like propranolol, in addition to the nitroglycerin. Your husband is due for a re-evaluation of his symptoms.

clients. He blames his distress on the restaurant food. Please, — Mrs. E.C.

Alcohol irritates the lining of the stomach. A hiatal hernia is a hernia of the stomach (the upper part bulges up into the esophagus), so alcohol would irritate it just as it does the stomach proper. The amount of liquor you tell me your husband consumes will do more harm than just to the hiatal hernia. He needs help to quit. Heavily spiced foods can also irritate the hernia.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the usual cause of body odor, what we used to call "B.O."? — N.V.

The prime cause is the chemical reaction of sweat and normal skin bacteria.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What effect does consuming large amounts of hard liquor have on a person who has a hiatal hernia? My husband is a salesman and eats out a lot with

My answer

Billy Graham

Dear Dr. Grahams: My father died several years ago and my mother has recently remarried. Mother tells us she is a lot happier with our stepfather than she ever was with our father, and we resent it very much. Are we wrong to feel this way? — W.H.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My mother has recently remarried. Mother tells us she is a lot happier with our stepfather than she ever was with our father, and we resent it very much. Are we wrong to feel this way? — W.H.

DEAR W.H.: I suppose your resentment is understandable, and perhaps your mother has not been as wise as she could have been in saying this to you. However, you need to get rid of this resentment, because it is wrong and will only poison your relationship with your mother. The Bible says: "Get rid of all bitterness, rage and anger, brawling and slander, along with every form of malice. Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you" (Ephesians 4:31-32).

One of the reasons you perhaps feel the way you do is because you loved your father, and you do not like the judgment your mother has passed on his character. But you also love your mother, and you want what is best for her. If she has found happiness with your stepfather, you should at least be happy for her and be thankful. Whether or not your mother's statement is justified, ask God to help you get rid of any resentment you feel and forgive your mother for any bitterness she may still have over your father. The Bible says, "A man's wisdom gives him patience; it is his glory to overlook an offense" (Proverbs 19:11).

Then do all you can to make your stepfather feel part of the family — which he is. In your own minds he may never take the full place of your natural father, but welcome him and give him all the love and acceptance you can.

Don't let things which were said or done in the past hold influence over you. Christ loves you, and God both forgave you and forgot your sins because of what Christ did for you on the cross. "Above all, love each other deeply, because love covers over a multitude of sins" (1 Peter 4:8).

Prime up again to 1930

NEW YORK (AP) — Soaring prime interest rates have jumped another unprecipitated percent, as banks adjust for the rise in their funds.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's largest, posted the new four day after 19 1/2 percent. Citicorp was expected to raise its rate to 20 percent.

"The cost of money is high and bank has continued to rise," Chase said, "and that adequately covers the 19 1/2 rate. We are not expected to raise the rate until the end of the year."

The prime rate — banks charge to borrow — has risen to 19 1/2 percent, the highest since 1980. The rate is expected to rise to 20 percent by the end of the year.

The Federal Reserve Board has been slow to curb borrowing, but it has raised the prime rate to 19 1/2 percent.

Chase renewed toward 20 percent shortly after the Fed had raised the prime rate to 19 1/2 percent.

A growing number of analysts are predicting that the prime rate will hit 20 percent as banks are forced to raise their rates to cover the cost of their funds.

The prime rate is expected to rise to 20 percent by the end of the year.

Washington State is expected to receive a new round of federal funds. The state is expected to receive $1.5 billion in federal funds over the next five years.

The Soviet Union is expected to receive a new round of federal funds. The state is expected to receive $1.5 billion in federal funds over the next five years.

Prime rate up again to 19 3/4

NEW YORK (AP) — The soaring prime lending rate has jumped another notch, to an unprecedented 19 3/4 percent, as banks continue to adjust for the rising cost of their funds.

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, posted the new rate Tuesday, four days after it jumped to 19 1/2 percent. Other banks were expected to match the new rate soon.

"The cost of money to the bank has continued to increase," a Chase official said, "and therefore to adequately cover our costs, the 19 3/4 rate was considered more appropriate now."

The prime — the rate banks charge their biggest and most credit-worthy corporate borrowers — has increased eight times since March 4 and 14 times so far in 1980 in reaction to the Federal Reserve Board's attempts to curb inflation by slowing the growth of borrowing debts. One month ago, the prime stood at 16 1/2 percent.

Soon after Chase and some other banks boosted their prime rate 1/2 percentage point to 19 1/4 percent Friday, a majority of major banks, including top-ranked Bank of America, went to the 19 1/4 percent level.

Chase renewed the climb toward 20 percent Tuesday, shortly after second-ranked Citibank and No. 4 Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. joined the majority at the 19 1/4 percent level.

A growing number of analysts are predicting the rate will hit 20 percent soon as banks are forced to pay more for their funds. The federal funds rate — the rate banks must pay for overnight loans from other Federal Reserve system banks — stood at 19 1/4 percent Tuesday.

The prime rate applies to loans for a relatively few number of corporations, while smaller and less credit-worthy corporations generally must pay a few percentage points above the prime.

The cost of consumer loans is not tied to the prime but generally moves in the same direction. The interest rates on home mortgages at most lending institutions, for example, have recently risen to between 15 and 17 percent.

Six months ago, shortly before the Fed announced its first round of credit restraints, the prime stood at 13 1/4 percent.

Soviet defector opts to return to homeland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Friends of a Russian ballet dancer who defected to the United States in January are surprised by his apparent change of mind and return to the Soviet Union.

State Department officials said Yuri Stepanov returned to his country Tuesday evening aboard a Soviet Aeroflot airliner.

Stepanov had defected in January and was dancing with the New Jersey ballet until about 10 days ago, friends said.

At that time, he went into New York City, visited a Russian-language bookstore, and then spent several days at the Soviet Embassy in Washington. Shortly after that, friends said, he told American officials he wanted to return to Russia.

"I'm absolutely sure he wanted to stay in this country," said Yuli Vzorov, one of Stepanov's former teachers in the Soviet Union. "He was absolutely glad to be out of the Soviet Union and told me he had been planning to his defection for five years."

After returning from New York, Vzorov said, Stepanov was "in a very bad mood."

Carolyn Clark, director of the New Jersey ballet, said Stepanov "seemed very happy... Then all of a sudden he disappeared. It's all rather odd."

State Department officials said they conducted a lengthy briefing with Stepanov during which he convinced them his desire to return was genuine and was not made under duress. Soviet authorities were present during the interview, they said.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., tried to temporarily block Stepanov's return to permit an "independent inquiry" into his decision to go back. But the White House and State Department refused to intercede, said a spokesman for Helms.

The cost of learning -- II

How students are coping

EDITOR'S NOTE — A college education today costs thousands of dollars — dollars that many people just don't have. Students and their families are searching for new sources of money. Here, in the second of two articles on the cost of learning, is a look at how some people are managing.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Darrell Williams, a junior at the University of Notre Dame in Indiana, has a $500 scholarship, one part-time job at the campus radio station and a second part-time job at a fast food stand.

Andres DeStefano, a senior at Slippery Rock State College in Pennsylvania, has a loan and a grant from the state's Higher Education Assistance Authority.

Howard Brownlee, a junior at Michigan State University, has a Veterans Administration loan, a part-time job and a working wife.

As the cost of going to college has risen, students and their families have had to struggle harder to pay the bills.

Joe Paul Case of the College Scholarship Service of the College Board estimated that seven out of 10 of the nation's 12 million college and university students are getting some kind of financial aid. Case said about $14 billion in public and private money was available to help students during the current academic year. He predicted that the total would rise next year, but he had no specific figures.

The money takes the form of scholarships, grants and low-cost loans. About half of it is given out according to financial need, Case said.

Interviews with students, parents and financial aid officials indicate that just about everybody needs help these days. "We've had to raise our scholarship aid program," said Steve Kezerian of Yale University. He estimated that about 40 percent of Yale's students get help from the school itself.

Pam Shingler, a

Loans issued under the program have a low interest rate — 7 percent a year — and students are not required to pay any interest at all while they are in school. The government guarantees the loan and pays the lender a bonus to help make up the difference between the 7 percent rate and current market interest rates.

The program does not require lenders to provide money to students, however. And rising interest rates have made money scarce for all types of loans. Ronald Wilson, the director of consumer loans for the Michigan National Bank, said, for example, that the bank discontinued its participation in the student loan program last November. "It's the supply of funds," he said. Fran Pforr, public relations manager for First Bank of New Haven, Conn., said the bank was still issuing student loans, but had curtailed the program because of a decrease in available funds.

Harleigh Howerton, senior vice president of the First National Bank of Fort Collins, site of Colorado State University, said his bank will begin making student loans this fall — but only to people who are permanent residents of the city. First National is the only bank in Fort Collins participating in the Guaranteed Student Loan program.

spokeswoman for Slippery Rock, said about 70 percent of the students pay for their education with the aid of grants, loans or scholarships or through work-study programs. "That number seems to rise every year," she said.

"I am by no stretch of the imagination rich," said Williams, the Notre Dame student. "It's a sacrifice on my parents' part... I don't see how they do it."

Ms. DeStefano worked to supplement her loan and grant. She got help from her parents. "I also started buying used books rather than paying the bookstore top prices," she said.

Bob DiSpirito, the head football coach at Slippery Rock, has a son who is a junior at the school. Two more sons will enter college in the fall. "The crunch is on," he said. "We're asking the kids to help themselves by getting jobs and we're searching into student guaranteed loans."

Legislation passed by Congress in 1978 extended the interest benefits available under the Guaranteed Student Loan program to all students, regardless of family income.

C. Lee Winder, the provost of Michigan State University, said the school has tried to increase financial aid as tuition has increased. But he added: "I certainly have the impression that, increasingly, students are finding it necessary to seek a part-time job."

Robert H. Strotz, president of Northwestern University, where tuition will go up 10.5 percent next year, said: "Additional aid has been set aside so that no student currently enrolled will be forced to leave the university for financial reasons."

LULAC wants Clements to parole 'symbol'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) has urged Gov. Bill Clements to reconsider his denial of parole to David Ruiz, plaintiff in a suit to change state prison conditions. Clements recently refused to grant the parole recommended by the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Clements' veto of his parole was a destructive act," U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice is considering Ruiz' suit, which involved months of testimony by dozens of witnesses last year. Ruiz, of Austin, is serving a 25-year sentence for armed robbery and was denied parole in 1977 by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Bonilla said not only the Board of Pardons and Paroles but also Sheriff Raymond Frank of Austin had recommended parole for Ruiz. Bonilla said Ruiz had a parole plan that included "the two essential ingredients for success — a guarantee of employment and strong family support."

Bonilla challenged Clements to say what role, if any, the Texas Department of Corrections had in the decision to deny parole. The TDC is the defendant in Ruiz' suit.

Friend's welcome in Teen's home?

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17, a girl, and very mentally mature for my age. My problem is that my mother won't allow me to have any boys in the house unless she is there. There is absolutely no reason why she should not trust me.

Once in a while a boy will stop by just to visit and if my mom isn't home, we've got to stand out on the front porch, come rain or shine.

Dr. Wallace, I'm innocent and I think my mother is inconsiderate. I'd appreciate your opinion — Sandra, Hayward, Calif.

Sandra: I agree with you. The home should always welcome teen's friends until the teen or the friends demonstrate that they cannot be trusted. But any time friends (either sex) visit when parents are not home, the parent should be told that friends were over and who the friends were.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 14 and I love this 18-year-old guy very much. I have had my eye on him for the last three years and believe me, it's not puppy love.

My problem is that I don't see him that much and we only talk once in awhile. How can I get him? Help! — Jenny, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Jenny: I honestly don't think you can get him, so I can't give much help.

If in three years you have only progressed to talking with him once in awhile, it might be many more years before you have him calling on you. Don't waste your time.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 12-year-old girl who once had a lot of warts but now I have only two. Last summer I started feeling self-conscious about all the warts on my hands. I tried several medicines but they didn't work so every night when I said my prayers, I asked God to remove my warts.

Slowly, one by one, the warts went away and the two I still have are shrinking. — Kim, Gadsden, Ala.

Kim: Thanks for sharing your wonderful experience. The miracles of the Almighty never cease to amaze.

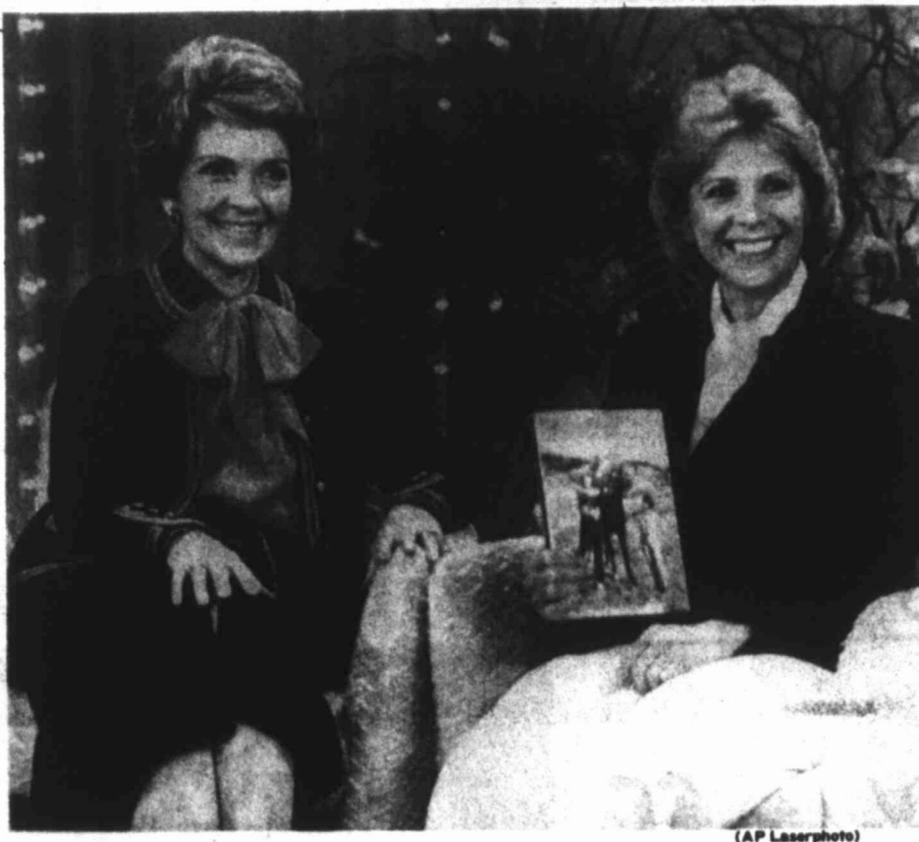

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sara Kuykendall scores a hit with performance at UIL contest

Sandra Kuykendall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J.W. Kuykendall, was dubbed, "One of the finest high school performers" that Dr. Josh Crane, former drama school instructor of Burt Reynolds, has ever seen. Sandra was named as a member of the District All-Star Cast and was one of the top eight performers.

Dr. Crane, head of Speech Communication at Texas A and M University, judged the One-Act Play UIL Contest for District representative at McMurry College, March 27.

Sandra, a senior at Big Spring High School, played Peggy in Ernest Kinoy's "Goodbye to the Clown," a little girl who has trouble coping with the death of her father. Dr. Crane said that the performance of BSHS students of this show was one of the best that he had seen. To deal with the subject of death is difficult, but the performers handled it extremely well.

Chris Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith, 3911 W. Highway 80, played the part of the imaginary playmate, the Clown, and was named to Honorable Mention, All-Star Cast.

Others in the cast were Amy Smith, the Teacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith; Robert Hughes, the Principal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hughes; Victor Mellinger, the Uncle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Basden and Karissa Osment, the Mother, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osment.

Owner of Marile's Specialty Shop demonstrates cake decorating

Decorating a cake is truly an art as was demonstrated to the City Extension Homemakers Club by Marilee Kemery. The meeting was held March 28 in the Pioneer Flame Room with Mrs. John Jackson and Mrs. Merle Hodnett, hostesses.

Cake decorating can be fun as well as profitable explains Mrs. Kemery. She makes her cakes from scratch and never uses prepared mixes. There are as many as 400 different tips that can be used to make leaves, liners, flowers, etc., as well as pans of all shapes and sizes. Mrs. Kemery decorated an Easter Cake that was served to 17 club members and three guests. It complimented the Easter theme that was used to decorate the refreshment table.

Easter eggs were drawn from an Easter basket by the members and guests to determine who would win the door prize. Sherri Callahan, a guest, drew the prize egg.

Mrs. Neal Norred and Linda Fuchs were in charge of the recreation.

Mrs. Frances Zant, president, presided over a short business meeting. She introduced Mrs. Larry Shaw, Linda Fuchs and Sherri Callahan as guests. Roll call was answered with "My favorite plant or flower." Mrs. Merle Hodnett read the devotional from James 3, 5-12. Hostesses for the next meeting will be Mrs. Johnny Green and Mrs. J.P. Gordon.

Bridal shower honors Mrs. Stephen Foster

Mrs. Stephen Foster was feted recently with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs.

Shirley Darden. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Juanita Jones and Mrs. Jeannie Darden.

napkins with the bride and groom's name were used. Blue mints and nuts were served. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

Shower honors Weavers

A baby shower honoring Mrs. Mike Weaver and her son, Jeremy Blake, born March 2 in Midland, was held March 27.

The home of Mrs. Jimmy Johnson was the scene of the festivity with Gail Newton, Ann Fields, Jeanie Knocke, Laura McEwen, Marlene Kasch, Jill Heith and Cindy Middleton serving as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Weaver was presented with a corsage of baby socks for Jeremy.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth centered with an Easter basket filled with daisies. Yellow accessories were used.

The honoree received a high chair from the hostesses.

Quade Weaver, 10, brother of the new baby, was an honored guest.

For the record

The birth announcement of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Weaver published Monday should have read 201 E. 6 for the address. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jolie Ray Jeter, Paducah and Norma Spencer, Vernon.

Mr. and Mrs. V.E. Jones, Big Spring, are the great-grandparents instead of the great-great-grandparents.

The Herald regrets any inconvenience these errors may have caused.

Staffettes meet at VAMC

After the business meeting, refreshments were served by hostesses Selma Hicks, Carolyn Stamey and Joan McNamara.

A program titled "What You Are Is Where You Were When" on video tape followed.

Next month's meeting will be a social outing to Midland theatre and for dinner. Members interested should contact Sue Dahl or Paula Evers for reservations. Members will meet at building 7 of the medical center March 27 at 5 o'clock to car pool to Midland.

She Won't Cut the Cord This Way

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 and pregnant by a married man. (I'll call him Donny.) When we fell in love, Donny said he was separated from his wife but his divorce was coming through "any day," and then we'd be married, so I really wanted to have his baby.

I just found out that Donny is still living with his wife, and there is no divorce in the works. Abby, I never knew love could turn to hate so fast. I'm five months along and now it's too late for an abortion. I don't want to keep this baby now, and I never want to see Donny again.

Donny's wife called me and said she was sorry I was in such a mess. Then she asked if I would let her and Donny have my baby. She said they would pay all my expenses and I could go on with my life like nothing happened.

What do you think of the idea, Abby? No way will I keep this baby, and I don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. Please tell me what to do.

MESSED UP AT 16

DEAR MESSED: You say you don't want to keep the baby and you don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. A wise decision. Feeling as you do, contact a licensed adoption agency. If you give your child to Donny and his wife, you can expect to be involved with Donny forever.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago a co-worker fixed me up with her brother (I'll call him Sam), who lost his wife about a year before. I'm a 56-year-old divorcee. Well, Sam and I hit it off beautifully. He's 62, very attractive and has no financial worries.

We have a wonderful time together. I especially appreciate Sam's patient, gentlemanly behavior. Almost every other man I've dated since my divorce has tried to rush me into bed after the first date. Sam never tried to go beyond a good-night kiss.

Sam's sister told me yesterday that Sam is really crazy about me and would ask me to marry him tomorrow, but surgery he had six years ago ended his sex life.

How can I let Sam know that I don't give a hoot about that?

CAPRICORN

DEAR CAP: Tell Sam's sister.

DEAR ABBY: A minister wrote to say how easy it was for him to get into the homes of total strangers and urged you to warn readers to be more careful. His letter prompts this response:

Ten years ago we invited the public to purchase paper products directly from our company, which is a wholesale distribution concern.

We accepted personal and company checks with no demand to verify identifications. Over a 10-year period, we processed over 150,000 checks of which only 14 were no good! (Our total loss was less than $300.)

We are convinced that 99.9 percent of the people are honest and law-abiding, and our experience proved us correct.

What a shame that the news media report only on this small percentage of unethical and dishonest people.

MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESSMAN

DEAR BUSINESSMAN: It's not "news" when people obey the law, love one another and live happily ever after. Crime, corruption, violence and misfortune ARE news.

I, like you, am inclined to expect the best from people, but when you leave your warehouse I'll bet you not only lock the door, you turn on the alarm.

'Strangest' case baffles Dallas police

DALLAS (AP)—Detectives investigating the bizarre slaying of a young Dallas woman have declined to speculate on possible motives or why the killer left a message scrawled in rosy pink lipstick to the victim's husband.

Investigators have canvassed a fashionable North Dallas neighborhood for clues since attorney Don D. Martinson found his wife's body sprawled on the floor of their bedroom Monday.

A macramé plant hanger was wrapped around her neck, and a message, "Now we are even Don," was scribbled in pale rose lipstick on a bedroom mirror.

Dallas County Medical Examiners ruled

Tuesday that Debra Martinson, 28, died of strangulation by a cord-like object. Examiners were uncertain whether she had been sexually assaulted.

"This is one of the strangest cases I've ever seen," said investigator Gerald Robinson. "We don't know what the implication of the note is, but we have several theories." He declined to elaborate.

Officers said Mrs. Martinson apparently had been dead several hours before her husband discovered the body. The couple's 15-month-old son was in a baby bed in another room, crying. The child was unharmed.

Mrs. Martinson was nude except for a watch, a wedding ring, and rollers in her hair, said Officer Roosevelt Benjamin.

Benjamin said the woman's body was sprawled face up near the foot of a large bed, he said. Marks were found on her wrists and ankles, indicating she had been bound with tape, Benjamin said.

Her clothes were found on the floor strung out in a neat pattern, starting with blouse and bra, panty hose, panties, and skirt, leading from the bedroom door to the body.

Nothing in the house was stolen or broken, and police said there was no evidence of a forced entry.

A law partner of Martinson's, Robert A. Fanning, said he failed to see any possible link between Martinson's law practice and the slaying. He said Martinson mainly represented insurance companies in civil proceedings.

"It just couldn't have had anything to do with his law practice. No way," said Fanning. "It's just not the kind of practice that sparks that kind of feeling with people. It's just the most conservative kind of practice you have."

Fanning said he believes the note was written "to throw investigators off the track. It wasn't related to anything in his domestic or private life. It couldn't have been."

Names in the news

JEAN STAPLETON AND CARROLL O'CONNOR

'Dingbat' to be stifled?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Edith Bunker, who drove husband Archie crazy for years in the hit television series "All in the Family," is finally going to be stifled—permanently.

A production source says the character, one of the most beloved on the small screen, probably will die in a show next fall. Edith, as played by Jean Stapleton since 1971, was a shrill "dingbat" to bigoted Archie but displayed an open-hearted common sense to millions of viewers.

Edith has made only sporadic appearances since the show became "Archie Bunker's Place" this season. Miss Stapleton's desire to leave the comedy series was the prime factor in the decision to move the show from the Bunker home to Archie's tavern.

Carroll O'Connor, who plays Archie, "said he wants to kill her off," according to a source with Norman Lear's Tandem Productions.

The details of Mrs. Bunker's demise have not yet been decided upon.

Eyes are all for parents

WASHINGTON (AP)—Toddler James Carter was smiling at the Easter bunny, but some of the folks in the White House garden were keeping a close eye on his divorced parents.

Chip Carter, son of the president, and his ex-wife Caron appeared together at the White House on Tuesday. Mrs. Carter appeared first, along with James and mother-in-law Rosalynn, then Chip Carter came over and exchanged a few words with his ex-wife, who reportedly is engaged to be remarried.

James has been visiting his dad here for the past several days. The 3-year-old got to sit on an adult-sized bunny's lap and accepted colored Easter eggs from two organizations.

Haig has heart surgery

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Alexander Haig Jr., now president of United Technologies Corp., is undergoing "routine" heart surgery today, company officials say.

Haig was to undergo the elective operation at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston. Chief surgeon was to be Dr. Denton Cooley of the Texas Heart Institute.

Haig served as former President Richard Nixon's chief of staff and as commander of NATO forces before taking the post with the Hartford-based corporation.

Fund raising activity

'Family West-Fest' at park discussed

The Caprock chapter of the National Foundation for Birth Defects (March of Dimes), met at K-Bob's restaurant, at noon, Monday, with the following present: Jerry Reid, chapter chairman, Karen Rawlings, Diane Austin, Edith Gay, Lettie Lee, Mike Stephens, Howard Mott, Dr. Brian Caplan, Dr. B.J. Zilberg and D'Ann Reid, field representative, Lubbock.

D'Ann Reid reported that a goal will be $20,000, to be raised by the Caprock chapter. The chapter is comprised of six counties, Howard, Dawson, Scurry, Glasscock, Martin, and Mitchell. About a third of this goal has been reached.

Plans were discussed at length for a fund-raising activity. "Family West-Fest" at Comanche Trail Park, Sunday afternoon, May 1, followed by a country-western dance in the evening. Such things as sack racing, horseshoe pitching, and numerous other games and contests will be the order of the afternoon's Family West-Fest. Howard Mott has accepted the overall chairmanship. Chairmen of the various game and contest activities will be appointed soon. So mark your calendar to bring the family out and join the fun.

Two legislative bills were discussed and the board recommended that letters be sent to respective representatives in Washington: HR-5409 which would increase mileage for volunteers from 8 cents a mile to 18 cents for un-reimbursed workers and HR-5093. For volunteers with 50 or more hours that $750.00 exemption be claimed on income tax deductions. All interested volunteers are urged to write their representatives. The passage of this bill, according to its proponents, will increase the appeal for volunteerism, and will affect all volunteers.

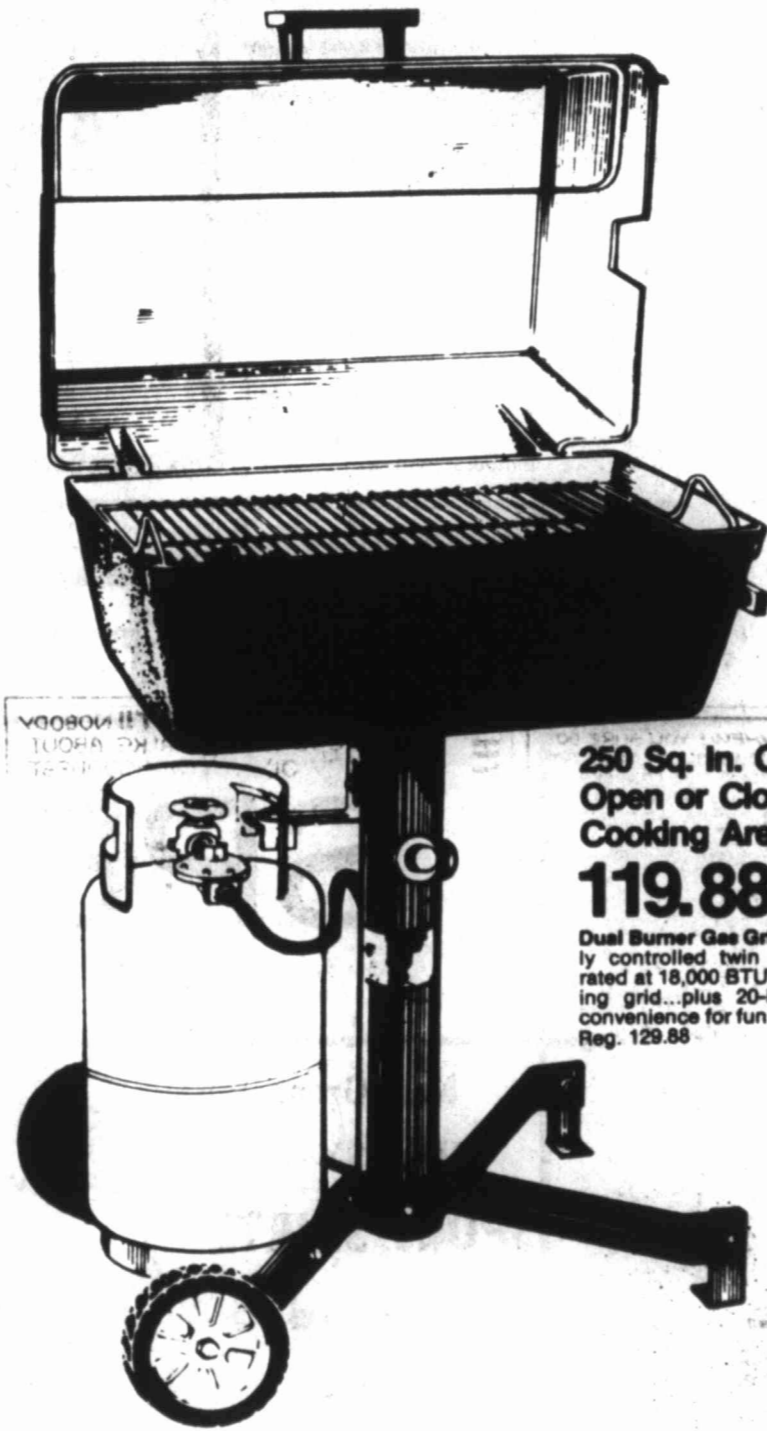

Miss Reid said that according to Shirley Edwards, owner of Kentucky Fried Chicken establishments in this area, on the weekend of July 4th, Kentucky Fried Chicken will donate 50 cents to the March of Dimes, for every bucket of chicken bought. Also during the entire month of July they would have March of Dimes coin collectors in all their places.

Next meeting is scheduled for April 28, time and place to be announced.

On the light side

When the mule was king

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Neither Kate nor Alice seemed really impressed with the plans to honor them and all mulekind as they stood in front of the state Capitol in their Easter harness finery.

Hitched behind them was a red cart, trimmed in gold, which they had pulled 50 miles, during three days, from the Santa Fe community south of Nashville.

John Robert Skillington drove the cart to the Capitol to deliver a personal, hand-lettered invitation to Gov. Lamar Alexander to attend April 12 Mule Day festivities in Columbia, near Santa Fe.

The annual event commemorates the heyday of the mule, dating back to the 1840s when Columbia became the nation's largest mule market and as many as 20,000 mules changed hands on its streets each year.

Alexander accepted the invitation, but his office said he won't enter the liar's contest the night before.

Maine wins pothole prize

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — Maine won the nation's annual pothole prize but the man in charge of the highways called it all a little overdramatic.

The Road Information Program, or TRIP, a Washington-based industry group, said Tuesday that with a pothole rate of 108 per mile of paved highway, Maine ranked worst in a survey of 33 states.

"I couldn't even make a statement," said Maine's Acting Transportation Commissioner Richard A. Luettich. "My normal reaction would be that I think they're being a little overdramatic."

TRIP spokesman Jim Crosson said statistics were compiled from information supplied by various state, federal agencies and industry.

TRIP estimated Maine's repair costs at $6.4 million.

Mr. L.E. Phant, please

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City Zoo director Ernest Hagler didn't need to look at the calendar when the caller offered to donate a pet boa constrictor named "Julius Squeezer."

He knew it was April Fool's Day.

There were more than 300 such calls to the zoo Tuesday, beginning with an early morning call at home offering a gorilla.

"I was pretty sleepy, but I finally caught on and I told him if he brought it in, we'd accept it," Hagler mused.

Then there was the rash of calls at the zoo for A.L. Gator or L.E. Phant.

Hagler says he tries to keep a good perspective on the annual foolishness, even to the point of tolerating calls April 2 when some unsuspecting persons finally get around to returning the hoax calls to Mr. Gator or Mr. Phant.

Postal service meeting cutbacks

Mailbox instead of pocketbook

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, choosing to hit customers at the mailbox instead of the pocketbook, now is considering elimination of Saturday deliveries as the only practical way to meet proposed budget cuts.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger told the agency's governing board Tuesday there appears to be no way to maintain six-day mail service, despite President Carter's recommendation for a much milder budget cut than what Congress is considering, unless postage rates are increased sooner than anticipated.

Bolger said he has ordered task forces to study the effects of reducing mail deliveries from six to five days a week and the impact of that on labor relations. Just a week ago, Bolger told the House Budget Committee that cuts aimed at balancing the federal budget to help tame inflation would mean either elimination of Saturday mail or faster rate increases.

President Carter's proposal to trim just $250 million from the Post Office budget for fiscal 1981 — instead of the $836 million recommended by the House Budget Committee — was widely viewed in Congress as an effort to maintain Saturday deliveries. The Budget Committee suggested ending them.

Nevertheless, Bolger told the Postal Service's governing board at a Baltimore meeting, in remarks released in Washington, that higher rates would be inflationary in themselves and that cutting service appears to be the only feasible way to make up for the loss of federal money.

"And the only service cut that could possibly achieve savings at the level being discussed is elimination of a sixth day of delivery," he said. "As undesirable as this may be, the Postal Service may have no other choice."

Bolger did not specifically mention Saturday deliveries, but that has been the day considered more likely to be cut if the Post Office goes to five-day delivery.

Ending Saturday mail deliveries probably would affect Americans more directly than any other budget cut proposal. Representatives of rural areas have opposed it because weekly newspapers frequently are delivered then.

Bolger said last week that eliminating Saturday mail, but continuing six-day window service, would save about $686 million in the first year and more than $1 billion a year by 1987. It also would cost about 15,000 to 20,000 jobs, mainly among urban letter carriers, he said.

Regardless of the budget cut, the Postal Service already plans to raise rates next year to cover higher operating costs, and Bolger said additional increases to make up for reduced federal subsidies would defeat the purpose of the Carter administration's budget-balancing program.

Mexicans streaming into U.S.

Holy Week trek begins

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The annual trek of Holy Week visitors has begun, and immigration officers say travelers from Mexico are streaming across international bridges in traditional, large numbers.

"It's big, believe me. I don't know the exact number because we only count by the month. But there's more this year than last," said A.A. Lachowsky, immigration supervisor at the Brownsville Gateway Bridge.

The Holy Week trip is a vacation for most people, but it started out of necessity when the Mexican Revolution of 1910 curtailed the powers of the Roman Catholic Church. Clergymen to this day cannot wear religious garments outside church buildings.

"During the Mexican Revolution when priests and members of the church were persecuted, there was a great migration to Texas and California during Holy Week," said the Rev. Richard Shirley, chancellor of the Diocese of Corpus Christi.

"Here, they could celebrate the last days of Christ, without fear of persecution. It became a religious tradition and every year there is another, great migration."

Mexican visitors began crossing the Rio Grande on Friday to spend the holiday with friends, relatives or at shopping centers. Most will return the day after Easter.

The Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce has prepared special signs identifying merchants who will accept pesos this week. Special city tours and information packets also will be available for Mexican visitors.

A Brownsville Chamber of Commerce spokesman said hotels and motels are full. Many Mexican vacationers will spend the week at South Padre Island.

An estimated 3,000 to 5,000 persons will come across at Laredo each day this week, said L.T. Barr, Immigration and Naturalization Service supervisor.

Immigration officials, faced with budget cuts, said they are trying to keep all bridge lanes open. The agency's overtime funds were cut, and the number of Sunday and holiday inspectors reduced.

The agency abandoned plans for new permits and will continue honoring the temporary cards.

Stuard led Cooper takes 4-1 win over Steers

By NATHAN POSS

The Abilene Cooper Cougars used a quick explosion in the sixth inning and the clutch pitching of lanky Kyle Stuard to take a 4-1 triumph over the Big Spring Steers in a well-played contest here Tuesday afternoon in Steer Park.

The win allows the Cougars to remain tied at the top of the District 5-AAAA standings with Midland Lee and Crosstown rival Abilene High. The trio each have records of 4-1.

The Steers, meanwhile, fell to 1-4 in district play and are 5-11 on the season.

Big Spring Coach Howell Martin started a lineup featuring an all sophomore infield, as four rookies and five juniors dotted the Bovine lineup. The youthful look, which is commonplace on this year's team, didn't show, as the young squad committed only one error in the field.

What hurt the Steers the most, besides the Cooper bats in the sixth, was their inability to plate runners after they reached scoring position. The Big Spring crew stranded nine runners in the contest, and on three occasions left runners on third base at the end of an inning.

The contest was a pitchers duel early, as the hard throwing Stuard and Steer starter Tommy Rodriguez controlled the contest. Rodriguez put the Cougars down without a hit in the first three innings, and Stuard pitched himself out of jams to stop the Bovines in the same span. The Steers left runners on second, the bases loaded, and on second and third in the first three innings, respectively.

In the Cooper fourth, Kirk Russell reached first after Steer centerfielder Mark Warren couldn't hold onto a lazy fly ball after a lengthy chase, and then advanced all the way to third on a sacrifice bunt by Jay Zumwalt. The Cougars, still without a hit, then unleashed a perfectly executed squeeze play, as Art Martin had down a hard bunt in the void between Big Spring's pitcher and third baseman to score Russell. Martin's bunt single was the first hit of the game off the fiery Rodriguez.

The game stayed at 1-0 until the sixth. Shane Awalt led off with a crisp single to left, and one out later Zumwalt singled. With the Cooper bats seeming ripe to awaken off the tiring Rodriguez, Martin summoned sophomore Moe Rubio from the bullpen.

But the Cougar bats, who entered the contest with every hitter batting over .300 in district play, wouldn't be denied. Martin quickly greeted Rubio with a single to left to plate Awalt, and Stuard then helped out his own cause by smashing a triple to right to score two more runs and give the Cougars a 4-0 advantage. Rubio then retired the final two Cooper hitters of the inning to escape further damage.

Big Spring didn't quit, as Tim Shaver led off the bottom of the sixth with a single, and Blake Rosson then reached base on a throwing error by Cooper third baseman Jeff Welch, with the wild loss allowing Shaver and Rosson to advance to third and second, respectively. After an infield popout, Stuard hit Beef Armendarez with a pitch to load the bases.

Finch hitter Brent Pearce then drew a walk on a 3-2 pitch to send Shaver home and narrow the Cooper lead to 4-1, and the Steers seemed ready to explode as Mark Warren, who entered the contest with a 15-game hitting streak, came to bat.

But luck was on the Cougars side, as Warren hit a hard shot right at Cooper shortstop Russell, who pulled off a quick double play to halt the Steer uprising and end Warren's consecutive game hitting streak.

Neither team could score in the seventh, as Stuard, who is bound for Texas A&M on a football scholarship, retired the Steers in order.

The Steers will return to play again at home on Thursday when they host Andrews in a non-district contest. They will return to 5-AAAA action on Saturday, at which time they play host to Odessa High.

5-AAAA Roundup

Abilene Cooper, Midland Lee and Abilene High remained tied for the District 5-AAAA first half lead by scoring wins in action Tuesday afternoon.

The trio now have 4-1 records. Cooper stopped Big Spring 4-1, while Lee nipped Odessa Permian 5-4 and Abilene trimmed San Angelo by a score of 7-2. In the other 5-AAAA contest, Midland remained in contention for first half honors by taking a 7-6 win over Odessa High.

After Cooper, Lee and Abilene's records of 4-1, Midland is now 3-2, Permian and San Angelo are 2-3, Big Spring is 1-4, while Odessa High is winless in five starts.

Saturday's 5-AAAA action will have a major say in the 5-AAAA first half race. Lee is at Abilene High in the headliner, while Cooper travels to Midland, Odessa is at Big Spring and San Angelo visits Permian.

SAFELY TO THIRD — Big Spring Steer sophomore Tommy Olague slides safely into third base during a recent game at Steer Park. Olague was one of four Steers to make it third in yesterday's loss to Cooper, with three being stranded. Olague played an excellent game in the field for the young Big Spring team, as he halted numerous Cooper threats with his glove play.

But will be back for season opener Baseball players strike

DALLAS (AP) — Taking dead aim at management's wallet, the Major League Players Association has called not one, but two strikes against baseball.

And the surprising part is that neither of them is coming on Opening Day, which had seemed to be the logical target. Instead of endangering the start of the regular season, the players chose a two-pronged attack that they hope will do the greatest possible economic damage to the owners.

The owners, however, struck back at the players' pocketbooks, saying they would leave training camps open but refusing to pay meal money, allowances and hotel costs.

The players said Tuesday they would cancel the final 92 games of the spring training exhibition schedule and then they promised that unless a new Basic Agreement is negotiated by midnight on May 22, they not play games starting the following day.

The canceled exhibitions include lucrative intrastate series in California between the Angels and the Los Angeles Dodgers, and in Texas between the Rangers and Houston's Astros. And for their second strike date, the players chose the weekend before Memorial Day, traditionally one of baseball's largest revenue periods.

"We're trying to hurt them in the pocketbook as deeply as we can," said Mike Marshall, who doubles as player rep for the Minnesota Twins and the American League. "We refuse to allow them to generate any more money before Opening Day."

The players were prepared to stay in training camps and continue working out, even playing intrasquad games to stay in shape if management wants that. But they will not play exhibition games where admissions would be charged.

In return, a spokesman for the owners said camps will remain open to those players who wish to work out for the remainder of the spring training period. But, "since the individual player contract requires that players will appear in scheduled exhibition games and since the players have announced they will not appear in such games, meal money, allowances and hotel costs will not be paid."

Several of the player reps left the impression the players might not stay at the camps if they didn't get their expenses.

"I'll be on strike Wednesday and I'll be off strike on Opening Day," Marshall said.

Many players had expressed a sentiment for striking immediately rather than waiting until the season is under way. In 1972, players walked out three days before the start of the season and remained on strike for 13 days, causing 96 games to be canceled. But the strategy this time was altered.

"I came here with the feeling that doing something early would be in our best interest," said Jon Matlack, player rep of the Texas Rangers. "I was not totally convinced but I was leaning in that direction. After listening to the thoughts in the meeting, though, I think this is the better route to take."

Holmes calling Ali's bluff

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The question is who Muhammad Ali will come back against. The fact is Larry Holmes is the No. 1 heavyweight in the world today.

Holmes rules the World Boxing Council share of the planet as heavyweight champion. He has won all 34 of his fights and has scored knockouts in all six of his defenses, the last being an eight-round battering of big Leroy Jones Monday night at Caesars Palace.

The World Boxing Association part of the globe is ruled by Mike Weaver, who ascended to that position with a crashing left hook that left John Tate out cold with 45 seconds left in the fight Monday night at Knoxville, Tenn.

Weaver's record is 21-9. He has lost a 12-round decision to Jones and he was stopped in the 12th round last June 23 after a tough effort against Holmes.

All says he will come out of retirement against Weaver and then fight Holmes.

"Bob Arum was prepared to go to Weaver if he wants and negotiate — the same as he would have gone to negotiate with Tate," Bill Curf, a spokesman for Hyatt Management Corp., operator of the New Orleans Superdome, said Monday night. "It's entirely possible we're looking at an Ali-Weaver fight."

Arum claims such a fight will take place in the Superdome in late June. The price mentioned is $10 million.

Promoter Don King said Tuesday he has $10 million — he wouldn't say from where — for Ali to fight Holmes.

"I was talking to Ali this morning (by telephone)," said King. "He wants a package deal. First he wants to fight Weaver and then Holmes. I said, 'Let's cut jivin' each other. He's the only heavyweight champion.'"

But it's likely Holmes' next opponent won't be Ali.

Saying, "I don't need Ali, he needs me," Holmes looked at Scott LeDoux, who was present at the Tuesday morning news conference, and said: "In a week Scott LeDoux and I'll sign a contract if Ali doesn't sign to fight me."

King said a Holmes-LeDoux fight would be in late May or early June.

Holmes was skeptical that the 38-year-old Ali, who retired last May, would fight him, at least first.

"Ali don't want no part of me," said Holmes. "He told me that when he fought Leon Spinks in New Orleans."

All beat Spinks in the Superdome in September 1978, in his farewell fight.

Outstanding performances spark Howard County Special Olympics

Outstanding performances were in abundance during the Howard County Special Olympics, as numerous people experienced success throughout the spirited competition.

There were a total of eight different age groups, ranging from an 8-9 age group through a 26 and older division.

Josh Hughes and Ralphie Agurrie each captured wins in the running events in the 8-9 age group, with Hughes' being in the 50-meter dash.

In the boys' 10-11 age group, Sammy Hilarlo won the 50-meter dash, while Baron Sonnetag finished second in both the 50 and 100-meter dash.

In the boys' 12-13 age group, Bobby Emerson exhibited versatility, as he won the 100-meter and 200-meter events, as well as placing second in the softball throw and the standing long jump.

Felix Anguiano, Joe Paul Rushing and George Luna all were impressive in the 14-15 boys group. Anguiano won the 100-meter, 200-meter, the softball throw and the standing long jump. Rushing finished second in the 100-meter and the 200-meter, while Luna was third in softball throw and standing long jump.

Celtics get No. 1 pick

NEW YORK (AP) — Talk about the luck of the Irish. The Boston Celtics don't wear shamrocks on their sleeves for nothing.

The Celtics, the team with the best record in the National Basketball Association this season, have the first selection in the league's draft June 10 because of a series of exceptionally lucky — and crafty — occurrences.

With the No. 1 pick, won in a coin flip with the Utah Jazz Tuesday, the Celtics are in a position to take any senior or hardship entry they want.

The team with the best record normally picks last, when All-American centers like Purdue's Joe Barry-Carroll are rarely around. But the Celtics have Detroit's first-round pick because Red Auerbach, Boston's shrewd president and general manager, pulled a fast one on the Pistons.

Ex-Piston M.L. Carr signed as a free agent with Boston. As compensation, Auerbach unloaded high-scoring Bob McAdoo, a gifted player but a round peg in Boston's square scheme of things. Red additionally demanded Detroit's two first-round draft choices, its own and the one it received from Washington.

Red gets what he wants. "Everyone in the league thought Red pulled a real steal," said an NBA source.

If the Pistons and Celtics hadn't agreed on compensation, NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien would have stepped in. "The normal procedure is for the commissioner to send something from Boston to Detroit but not two draft picks going the other way. There was no likelihood of O'Brien ruling like that," the source said. "Right now, you couldn't trade McAdoo for Carr."

Then the Pistons finished with the worst record in the Eastern Conference, making the Celtics' pick one of the two most valuable in the league.

Just how valuable depended on the coin toss, which annually determines which of the worst two teams gets first crack at the best college players.

The toss was held in O'Brien's midtown office. Frank Layden, general manager of the Jazz, was on a phone hookup and called "heads."

It came up tails. Boston had lucked out again.

With 6-foot-8 center Dave Cowens nearing 32, Auerbach needs a dominating center. Carroll is 7-1 and Virginia's Ralph Sampson 7-4. Auerbach will speak to Sampson, who has said he plans to return for his sophomore year in Virginia but is willing to listen to any offer.

LIVE WIRE — Minnesota Vikings head coach Bud Grant tries to get a better grip to hold a lively orangutan named Bruno Tuesday. The orangutan was all part of an April Fools Day joke played on Grant by the Vikings' office personnel. The 15-month-old animal met Grant in his office doorway when he arrived for work.

NL West appears wild

By the Associated Press
Nolan Ryan and Joe Morgan are Houston Astros. The Los Angeles Dodgers added Dave Goltz and Don Stanhouse. Rennie Stennett, Milt May and Jim Wohlford now perform for the San Francisco Giants. The San Diego Padres signed pitchers Rick Wise and John Curtis and traded for four regulars. Chris Chambliss and Al Hrabosky are Atlanta Braves.

Only the defending champions, the Cincinnati Reds, as is their custom, stood pat in the National League West. Nevertheless, Manager John McNamara says there is "no doubt in my mind that the Reds will be even in '80."

The main reasons for that statement, McNamara says, are outfielders George Foster and Ken Griffey, who missed 40 and 66 games, respectively, last year. "Too many people," he says, "judge improvement only by the number of free agents that a team signs. That's a mistake."

The Reds have a lot of familiar faces — pitcher Tom Seaver, catcher Johnny Bench, first baseman Dan Driessen, shortstop Dave Concepcion, third baseman Ray Knight (who hit .318 in 1979 as the replacement for departed Pete Rose) and Foster in left field.

Reserve Junior Kennedy is the likely successor to Joe Morgan at second base, while Griffey, Dave Collins and Cesar Geronimo are contesting for the other two outfield spots. Griffey, however, is coming off knee surgery and is engaged in a bitter salary battle that led the Reds to put his name on the waiver list to see who might be interested in him in a trade.

Much of the Reds' 1979 success was due to the arrival of young pitchers — starters Mike LaCoss and Frank Pastore and reliever Tom Hume. Much of the 1980 outlook depends on how well Bill Bonham recovers from the tender elbow that has plagued him for several years.

The punchless Astros, who took the Reds to the wire before finishing 1½ games out last year, added the fireballing Ryan (for a $1 million a year) to a staff that already boasted flame-throwing J.R. Richard, knuckleballer Joe Niekro, with Joe Sambito in the bullpen.

The Astros have a surplus of infielders and outfielders and Manager Bill Virdon has countless lineup possibilities. Cesar Cedeno has moved back from first base to center field. That means one of last year's outfielders — Jose Cruz, Terry Puhl or Jeff Leonard — likely will switch to first base ... unless third baseman Enos Cabell moves there.

Catcher Alan Ashby and shortstop Craig Reynolds are fixtures but it remains to be seen how much Houston can get out of 36-year-old second baseman Morgan — if he plays second. If healthy, he could supply some much-needed power to a club that hit only 49 home runs last season and was last in the league in runs scored. They did, however, steal a league-leading 190 bases.

The Dodgers dropped out of the race early in 1979 after two winning straight pennants, but Manager Tom Lasorda, baseball's reigning eternal optimist, insists, like Douglas MacArthur, that "I shall return."

The only undecided position is center field, where Rick Monday played only 12 games last year before undergoing Achilles tendon surgery and must contest several holdovers, plus hotshot rookie Rudy Law.

Rockets, Spurs meet in new season

HOUSTON (AP) — With roller coaster regular seasons behind them, the Houston Rockets and San Antonio Spurs start over tonight in the first game of their best of three National Basketball Association mini-series in The Summit.

Houston Coach Del Harris, completing his first season as head coach, watched the Rockets careen through a frustrating season that was filled with injuries to key personnel from start to finish.

The Spurs, the defending NBA Eastern Conference Central Division champions, likewise sputtered under two coaches. At one point, the Spurs lost eight straight games and then put together seven victories in nine games to clinch the playoffs.

Now, both teams are ready for the new season. "I understand the reason we had the season we had," said Spur forward George Gervin, the NBA scoring champion for the third straight year. "That's why it doesn't bother me. We had our chance to sit on top of the Central Division for two years, now we have to regain the crown another year."

"This is my time of the year because this is definitely for the money. I don't care who they put against me. I'm going to be ready, and whoever guards me had better be ready."

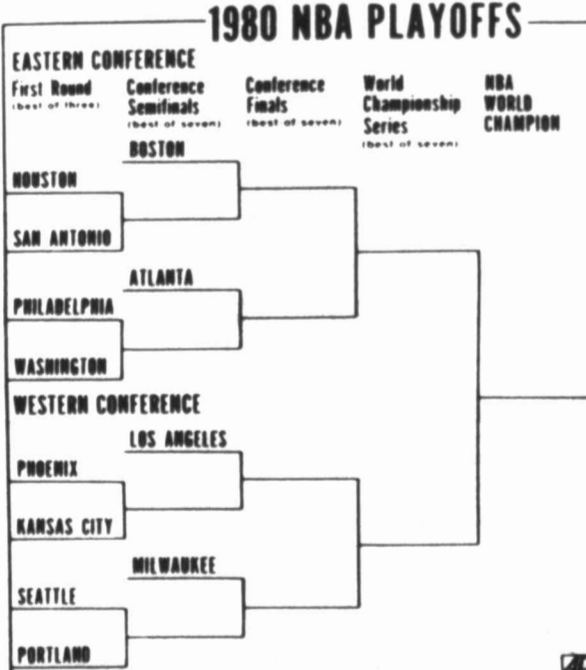

San Antonio Coach Bob Bass, who replaced Doug Moe during the season, said Houston's home court advantage won't be that important in a mini-series.

"The home court advantage is not as prevalent in the playoffs as it is during the regular season," Bass said. "During the season, it's always a two or three-game trip. This is just over there and back."

Harris, who has had to improvise his starting lineup throughout the season because of injuries, expects center Moses Malone to be back in the lineup tonight despite an ankle sprain suffered in the regular season finale against Indiana.

That's been the story of the Rockets all season and the major reason they did not equal last year's 47-35 record, Harris said.

"There was nothing I could do," said Harris, whose Rockets finished 41-41. "My moves were primarily dictated by our injury situation."

Environmental impact of Stacy reservoir draws little flak

No new concerns were expressed Monday evening in Coleman when the U.S. Corps of Engineers sought to determine the scope of its statement of environmental impact of the Stacy reservoir.

The hearing, conducted in the Coleman County courthouse by Col. Donald Palladino, Fort Worth district engineer, drew statements from six individuals of approximately 100 attending. The Colorado River Municipal Water District, which holds a permit for the Stacy project, had filed for a permit under section 404 of the federal clean water act. Col. Palladino said that only documented and environmentally relevant evidence would carry weight.

The Lower Colorado River Authority, which has been the chief opponent of the Stacy dam, intervened as expected. L.C. Meyers, attorney for LCRA, claimed that CRMWD was building the reservoir only as a cooling pond for Texas Utilities Services, Inc., with whom the District hopes to sign a contract.

He also argued that no consideration had been given to the hydroelectric potentials of the dam; no flood control factors had been proposed; that impact of a pipeline to the Midland-Odessa area on environment should be considered; and that the Corps should delay its report until LCRA's appeal of the Stacy permit is decided by the courts.

James T. Padgett said that his family, which had lived in the area for a century, had 3,000 acres to be inundated and "I hate to get run out by people fronting for a public utility." His wife, Lillian, wanted to know if the Colorado River at Stacy would have "stagnant water like below Spence dam." Their son-in-law, Robert S. Morris, San Antonio, raised several questions about engineering, potential effects on highways, water tables, and adverse effect of high wage scales on the area when the dam is built.

The effect of Stacy on Matagorda Bay was raised by Murray Walton, who said he was representing the National Wildlife Institute, a private environmental group. Although the Highland Lakes chain is between Stacy and the Gulf, he worried that flow of the river into the Gulf would affect adversely the shellfish industry.

Ross Jones, Coleman, speaking for the Central Colorado River Authority, said that while some few unfortunately would be dispossessed or inconvenienced, the project holds a tremendous benefit for Coleman and West Texas. Any environmental changes, he said, would be beneficial by providing great recreational opportunities.

Col. Palladino set April 14 as the deadline for submitting other statements or extending remarks. The most optimistic projection for a preliminary statement is mid-October, he said, and a final ruling possibly by February 1981. O.H. Ivie, general manager, and other representatives of the CRMWD attended the hearing which included less than half an hour of testimony. Assisting Col. Palladino were David B. Barrows, ecologist who heads the permits sections, and James Candler, biologist, who will help shape the environment statement.

American host families sought for 100 Scandinavian students

American host families are being sought for 100 Scandinavian high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and Finland, for the school year 1980-1981, in a program sponsored by the American Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE).

The students, age 16 and 17, will arrive in the United States in late August 1980, attend the local high school, and return for their homes in late June 1981. The students are all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in Scandinavia and have pocket money and medical insurance.

All interested families should contact Jane Feathers, (915) 949-0295, or write 2830 Colorado, San Angelo, 76901, for details. Letters should contain the writer's telephone number. ASSE is also seeking American students, ages 16-18, who would like to spend a high school year with a Scandinavian family or participate in a five-week family stay in the summer of 1980.
