Mayor, two council seats at stake

Nine continue quest for city votes

By JAMES WERRELL

A total of nine candidates occupy the slate in races for mayor and two vacated seats on the Big Spring City Council.

A majority, 51 percent, of the vote is required in each of the three contests to assure a victory for the candidate. In the event that no one candidate receives a majority of the vote, the top two contenders will compete in a runoff election on May 3.

This scenario is possible in the race for mayor, which features four candidates, and the race for Place 2 on the council, featuring three candidates. Declaration of a winner in the Place 1 council race is assured Saturday because only two candidates are vying for the post.

The post of mayor was left vacant for challengers when Mayor Wade Choate chose not to run for re-election.

The first to declare for the post was acting Place 1 Councilman Bill Henkel. Henkel, 2706 Coronado, has served for two years on the council and is a long-time local businessman.

He is the former owner of Jo-Boy's Restaurant and the Super-Save Grocery Stores.

"I am running for mayor because I think it is a challenge. I have had two years' experience working with the city manager and the people of Big Spring, and I believe that best qualifies me for the job," he said.

Also seeking the post of mayor is Dr. Jerry Higgins, 1702 Alabama. Higgins is a chemistry professor at Howard College, and a consultant and salesman for the Tretolite Company.

Higgins stated that he wants to be mayor "because there's a certain amount of prestige, and I like to be involved with people who are doers. I like being in the mainstream where the activities are. The mayor's main job is to be a salesman."

Clyde Angel, 706 Hillside, a 51-year resident of Big Spring, also seeks the position of mayor. He is a retired senior vice president of the First National Bank.

"I have no preconceived ideas about what should or should not be done about city affairs," he said. "As a consequence, I will look with an open mind and as logically as I know how at the various problems if I am elected mayor."

Kenny Williams, 407 Lancaster, is the final candidate for the mayor's post. He is an employee of the Big Spring Taxi Cab Company.

When Bill Henkel declared for the post of mayor, his Place 1 seat on the council became open to contenders. Two candidates will vie for the post.

Robert Fuller, 612 Colgate, is a lifelong resident of Big Spring, and the manager of engineering for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company.

"My training as an engineer, I think, will help me take a practical and clear approach in carrying out the duties of the office," he said. "If you are concerned about the future of the town, as I am, you will vote for me."

Pat (O'Brien) Githens, 1618 E. 17th, is presently the pastor of the Faith Baptist Church. He is a former employee of a local radio station where he used the air name of Pat O'Brien.

"I believe I am aware of most of the problems facing our city, and I would like to have the opportunity to work with the other council members, the city staff, and the people of Big Spring in trying to solve these problems," he said. "It is my opinion that the most serious problem facing our city government at this present time is the city's financial situation," he added.

The Place 2 seat on the council became vacant when incumbent Ralph McLaughlin decided not to seek re-election. Three local men will vie for the spot in Saturday's election.

Jack Watkins, 1200 Pennsylvania, moved to Big Spring from Midland in 1953. Since then, he has become involved in local business and agriculture, and served on the city council during 1971 and 1972.

"As I have indicated time and time again, my main concern is that our city government again return to a fiscally sound and responsible business, responsive to the citizens of Big Spring and their wants and needs," he said.

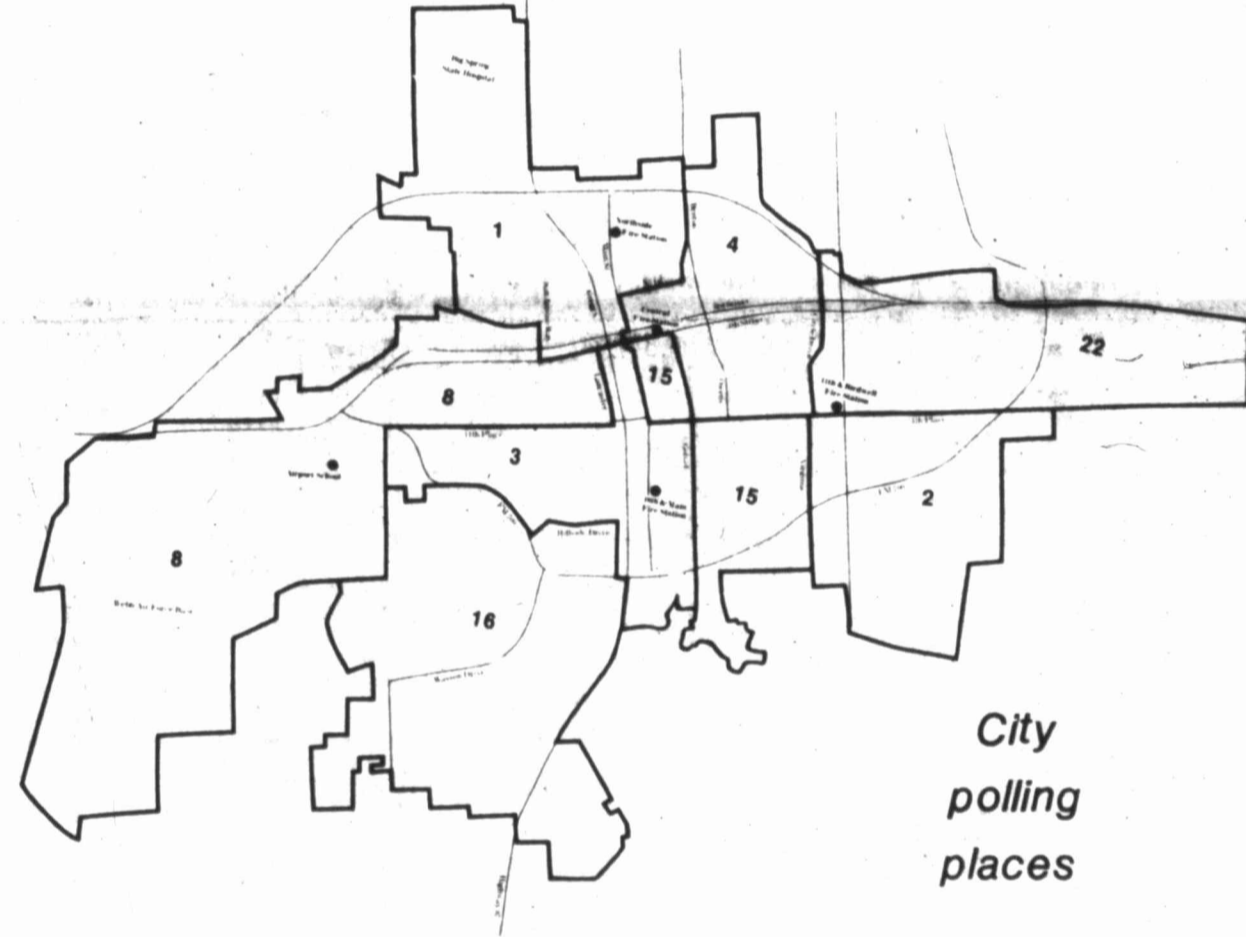

Hal Boyd, 607 Highland, is a lifetime resident of Howard County, and is the personnel director at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

"Part of my work in the past has placed me in a position to realize how important a sound government is for a city, and how important a city is in the encouragement of industrial business and other development," he said. "I am impressed with the potential of Big Spring. I feel that it is unlimited in Big Spring, and I want to make whatever contribution I can."

Fred Maddux, 429 Westover, himself a father of a child with a hearing problem, is credited with introducing the idea of locating a college for the deaf in Big Spring. He is currently the district manager for International Computers, Inc.

"I feel that it would be possible to aid Big Spring in its growth through the '80s by running for McLaughlin's seat, and only hope that, if elected, I can serve the people of Big Spring the way they want and need," he said. "I know that I can and will work towards the continued growth of Big Spring, and endeavor to help bring in a more diversified industrial-type payroll for the city and its citizens."

Fast glance at area elections

County and area residents travel to the polls, which are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., this Saturday to elect persons to guide their communities and schools for the next couple of years.

In rural Howard County two school board races will take place. In Coahoma three men are running for two places on the school board. Donnie Reid and Kirby Brown, both incumbents, are being challenged by J.B. Hall.

Voting for the Coahoma ISD Board race will take place at the Sand Springs Fire Station, the Coahoma Fire Station and the Vincent Baptist Church.

In Forsan, three men are vying for two spots on the school board. Incumbents Alfred J. Stanley and Elbert Strickland are being contested by H.G. Adams.

Voting for the Forsan school board election will be at Forsan High School and the Elbow Elementary School.

In Coahoma an unusual circumstance has arisen in the city council election. Three men are running for three two-year terms. These are Gary Hanson, Ronnie Dodson and Jack Martin.

But in Coahoma there is an unexpired one-year term open; and no one filed for the seat. City Secretary Ina Stout said that write-ins will be taken and the person with the highest total will win. If no clear winner comes from the write-in process or if the winner refuses to serve, the Coahoma City Council at a subsequent meeting will make an appointment.

Voting for the Coahoma City Council election will be at the City Hall.

The Howard County Water Control and Improvement District is holding a board election. The three incumbents, Jimmy Earnest, Ricky Phinney and Oscar Cagle, are running for three two-year term places without any opposition.

Dawson County has four elections going Saturday.

In Lamesa, Incumbent City Councilman Rudy Arredondo is attempting to be re-elected to his second term. He is being challenged by Dr. J.V. McKay.

The Lamesa Independent School Board has two seats open. Roy Byrd, an incumbent, Frank McKinney and Jim Norris are competing in the race, which will be decided by the two highest vote-getters.

The Dawson County Independent School District has three two-year term seats open and an unexpired one-year position up, due to the resignation of Ronnie Brooks.

Running for the seats are incumbents Mike Jones, Truman Hays and Kenneth Miers. Jack Webb and Jerry Kelly are also candidates.

The three highest vote getters will be given the two-year seat; and the fourth highest ballot gatherer will assume the one-year term.

In south Dawson County, the Klondike Independent School District Board race has been complicated by resignations.

Up for election this Saturday are two three-year terms, one two-year term and one one-year term.

Six men, of whom three are incumbents, are running for the places. The top two vote getters in the race, the Secretary of State's office said, will take the full terms, the third place finisher will assume the two-year term and the fourth place candidate will take the one-year term.

Running for the Klondike School Board are Val Stephens, Mike Holcomb, Alton Barkowsky, all incumbents, and Jerry Webb, Jay DeFoe and James Davis.

In Mitchell County, four races are taking place.

In Colorado City, four men and one woman are vying for three places on the city council.

Candidates are incumbent Jesse Munoz, former city councilman J.O. Dockrey, Odus Wise, Nina Crout and Mac McKinnon. The top three vote-gatherers will assume the councilmanic seats.

Three seats are open in the Colorado City Independent School District board race. Coleen Palmer, Mac Perkins, Eddie Phland, Edward

Wholesale prices up 1.4 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices soared by 1.4 percent in March, an 18.2 percent compounded annual rate, while unemployment edged up to 6.2 percent, the government reported today.

March's increase in wholesale, or producer, prices was only slightly less than the huge jumps recorded in January and February.

Food prices at the wholesale level turned up in March following two months of decline while energy costs continued to soar at an annual rate of nearly 110 percent, said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Wholesale prices are watched carefully by economists because they tend to preview similar increases at the consumer level in later months.

Consumer prices rose at an 18 percent-plus annual rate through February, far beyond last year's 13.3 percent pace.

The disturbing boosts in prices since January set in motion President Carter's budget-balancing efforts as well as new credit control steps by the Federal Reserve Board.

The Labor Department's report on unemployment showed joblessness rising from a 6.0 percent level in February. March's 6.2 percent figure matched the January level.

Despite the 1.4 percent increase in the Producer Price Index, Ms. Norwood pointed to some favorable signs on the inflation front.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Gasohol history

Q. The idea of gasohol isn't new, is it?
A. Far from it. Fact is, it's one of the oldest ideas around. We were just too lazy (and oil was too cheap) to do anything about it. Henry Ford designed one of his earliest autos, back in the 1890s, to run on alcohol. The famous Model T was built with an adjustable carburetor so it could run on pure alcohol. As late as 1938, there were 2,000 independent service stations in the Midwest selling gasohol under the brand name "Agrol."

Tops on TV: Bizarre tale

ABC will present the bizarre tale based on the H.G. Wells story, "The Island Of Dr. Moreau," at 6 p.m. It deals with the life of an impassioned scientist exiled to an uncharted tropical island who finds a way to transform fierce wild animals into almost-human creatures. Burt Lancaster, Richard Basehart and the gorgeous Barbara Carrera star. For something a little more realistic (only a little) catch "Dallas" at 9 p.m. on CBS. The shock of the Ewing baby being kidnapped bands the family together as they try to find the infant.

Voter interest high in HC trustees race

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
County residents go to the polls from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday to elect two persons from a list of seven for the Howard County Board of Trustees.

The trustees election is the first to be contested since the 1960's. Voter interest is high in the race. On Wednesday, the Howard County Clerk's office reported 538 voters had cast absentee ballots in the race; and three mailouts were pending. This figure compares to 1979 when 239 voters participated in the Howard County race. The top two vote getters from the following list of seven will win places on the board.

Ned Crandall of 401 Pennsylvania has lived in Big Spring since 1961 with the exception of four years. He is a graduate of Cornell University in New York, being awarded a degree in education. He has served in the U.S. Air Force and is in charge presently of production-line quality control.

In running for the board, Crandall said, "I feel we have a lot of work to do in the vocational and training environments."

He added, "I would like to work with the college board on short- and long-range goals, arranging priorities, I would like to improve the learning environment and opportunities for Howard College students."

Russell DeVore of 538 Westover is an independent businessman who has been living in Big Spring since 1961. He is a member of the Big Spring Evening Lions Club and a past governor of Lions International.

DeVore said about running for the board, "I am willing to work hard with the city council, county commissioners and all interested persons in securing this deaf school program in Big Spring and having it operated by Howard College."

He added, "I'm also in favor of adequate pay for qualified and professional instructors."

Curt Mullins of 2329 Hunters Glen came to Big Spring in 1963, taking the position of Executive Director of the YMCA.

He is presently vice-president of the First National Bank here. He is a graduate of George Williams College in Chicago, Ill., being awarded there a Bachelor of Science in Group Work Education and a Master of Science in Group Work Administration and Institutional Business Management. He is enrolled currently in a three-year graduate program at the University of Colorado School of Banking.

He is past president of the Big Spring Rotary Club and past chairman of the Big Spring Hospital Volunteer Services Council.

Mullins is chairman of the Advisory Committee for the Big Spring State Hospital and secretary of the board for the United Way. He is also a member of the Traffic Commission for the City of Big Spring.

Four vying for school post

By DON WOODS
In the race for an unexpired two-year term on the Big Spring Independent School District Board, four candidates vie for a plurality of the district vote. The election is Saturday.

The candidates are Jerry Foresyth, Joe Allen Millaway, Sherry Wegner and Harold Pearce.

Foresyth said he has a "sincere interest" in the future of education in Big Spring. He has been a long-time supporter of Big Spring school faculty and administration.

He said he feels personally that busing is wrong "but the government tells us to do it. We're between a rock and a hard place," he said.

He is presently vice-president of the First National Bank here. He is a graduate of George Williams College in Chicago, Ill., being awarded there a Bachelor of Science in Group Work Education and a Master of Science in Group Work Administration and Institutional Business Management. He is enrolled currently in a three-year graduate program at the University of Colorado School of Banking.

Even if we win an expensive court battle the district would lose federal aid, he said, if the district developed "a neighborhood plan."

"I'd like to see if there was a way we could turn the waste into some productivity," he said of federal spending in schools.

He also advocated more "community support of athletics and all areas."

Millaway has been an independent distributor of Tom's Candies since August. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1976 and attended Abilene Christian University from Fall 1976 to Fall 1978. He was an advertising and public relations major. He has lived in Big Spring all his life except for two years. He currently resides at 600 Drake.

She said that some people on the board with responsible positions in the community cause people with problems to hesitate to come to them. "One of the things that concerns me is the image of the board," she said.

"The taxpayers, of course, pay for the upkeep of the schools so they should not be made to feel they are imposing on anyone by discussing issues with them," she said.

He is past president of the Permian Basin Society of Professional Engineers and past president and drive chairman of the Howard County Easter Seals.

He said that the 1980's could follow the previous decade where there are not enough skilled technicians to maintain equipment to meet the rapid growths in technology. The community college, Strong said, will have to develop to meet this pace.

He is president of the Texas A and M Club, and a member of the Association of Former Students of Texas A and M.

Foresyth is crusade chairman of American Cancer Society for Howard and Glasscock Counties and vice-president of Big Spring Sanitary Sewer and Water Committee.

Sherry Wegner is interested in better rapport between school board members and the public. She said it has not been in the past what it should be.

"I would want to be regarded as an ordinary person trying to do a responsible job on the board," she said. She is also interested in better school discipline.

He is past president of the Big Spring Rotary Club and past chairman of the Big Spring Hospital Volunteer Services Council.

Mullins is chairman of the Advisory Committee for the Big Spring State Hospital and secretary of the board for the United Way. He is also a member of the Traffic Commission for the City of Big Spring.

He is currently a co-owner of Tate Publishing Company. He recently retired from Cosden after 26 years. He is a life-long Texas resident, he said.

He is also a Big Spring Rotary Club member and served a year on the Parks and Recreation Board.

He is currently assistant vice-president for Big Spring Savings and Loan since September 1978, and resides at 1801 Marcy.

Joe Allen Millaway said he hopes to "contribute some back to the school what I've got out of it by attending here, do a little civic duty, do my part." He believes he can "relate to both sides of issues, not only to faculty members because I've had a lot of them for class, and to students because it hasn't been long since I've been one of them." He can also relate to the wishes of the tax-paying public because he is one of them as well, he said.

She is on the membership committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and a 4-H Club Adult Leader.

She is also a Big Spring High School graduate and attended Howard College at one time. She has lived in Big Spring for 36 years. She and her family reside on Gail Route.

Harold Pearce, 1515 Vines, said, "Due to the fact that my family and I have been a part of Big Spring and the Big Spring I.S.D. for 28 years, I feel that I have a certain obligation to contribute whatever I can to the district."

He is past president of the Permian Basin Society of Professional Engineers and past president and drive chairman of the Howard County Easter Seals.

He said that the 1980's could follow the previous decade where there are not enough skilled technicians to maintain equipment to meet the rapid growths in technology. The community college, Strong said, will have to develop to meet this pace.

Scope of fraud raps against Lance narrows

ATLANTA (AP) — Prosecutors failed to prove former federal budget director Bert Lance and three associates conspired to obtain illegal loans, a judge has ruled in a decision that dramatically narrows the scope of the bank fraud case against the businessmen.

U.S. District Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr. announced Thursday that he will order a directed verdict of acquittal on the conspiracy charge, which took up 47 pages of the 71-page indictment.

The charge, the only one in which all four were named, was the centerpiece of the government's 33-count indictment because it provided a context for the 32 other specific allegations of fraud. Those allegations remain for the jury to consider as the prosecution nears the end of its case.

Under Moyer's ruling, the government now may present testimony only on the specific transactions in the substantive counts, rather than ranging through all of Lance's business dealings for the past decade.

Lance greeted the ruling, which came after a four-hour hearing that jurors did not attend, with a broad smile. He said the decision vindicated his position.

"I think it's in keeping with what we said all the time," Lance said. "The government had no conspiracy to prove because there wasn't one."

Chief prosecutor Edwin Tomko said he did not believe the ruling would have any effect on the rest of his case.

Argued chief defense attorney Nicholas Chillivis: "Nobody has been convicted in this country for overdrafts or failure to have collateral. How can people conspire to do something that is perfectly legal?"

The former bank president and his co-defendants were accused of scheming to arrange $20 million in loans from 40 banks beginning in 1970 and continuing through Lance's eight-month tenure as U.S. budget director in 1977.

As budget chief, Lance was a close adviser to President Carter, his close friend. But controversy over Lance's personal finances and practices as head of the National Bank of Georgia and the Calhoun National Bank began to build during the summer of 1977. He resigned a few months later, saying the affair left him unable to continue his duties.

A Justice Department investigation culminated in May 1979 when a grand jury indicted Lance, former bank president Richard Carr, contractor Thomas Mitchell and former pharmacist Jack Mullins.

Of the remaining counts, Lance is charged in 21. Fifteen allege misapplication of bank funds, five charge false statements to banks and one involves an allegedly false entry in bank records. If he is convicted on all counts, the maximum sentence would be 90 years in prison and $105,000 fine. The conspiracy charge carried a five-year sentence and $10,000 fine.

The only remaining government witnesses in the 12-week trial are FBI agents who analyzed bank records admitted as evidence. Much of their summary testimony would have related to the conspiracy count.

Police clear at least 20 rapes

HOUSTON (AP) — Police say they have cleared at least 20 rapes with the arrest of a 27-year-old man on parole after receiving a 15-year prison term for a 1972 rape conviction.

Lonnice Ray Vanzandt, who was paroled in 1978 after serving six years in prison on a rape charge, was charged Wednesday in state district court with one count of aggravated rape and two counts of aggravated robbery.

Police said they connected Vanzandt with a series of rapes that started last summer after he was arrested for attempted burglary and officers found a robbery victim's car keys in his pocket.

Vanzandt remained in jail Wednesday night in lieu of bonds totaling $400,000.

Useless but appealing

Glorious junk displayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's the ultimate collection of useless objects too appealing to throw away. And it's on display, this vintage Americana, in a make-believe attic at the Smithsonian Institution.

There's an illuminated 19th Century clock that sounds a wakeup alarm and strikes a match to light a lamp.

There's a silk purse made of sows' ears.

There's a pillbox with a small spike inside to impale a half-chewed wad of gum for future use.

There's a pair of scissors that has 18 functions.

There's a stereoscope and 13 pictures of Paris to view through it.

In all, 100 items of glorious junk went on display this week at the National Museum of History and Technology. They will remain in their attic setting for six months.

Several of the objects are associated with famous people:

A stone from the French dungeon where Joan of Arc was imprisoned; hair snippings of presidents from Washington to Pierce; trimmings from President Lincoln's hearse; Mrs. Lincoln's silver coffee service, supported on replicas of chicken legs; a napkin used by Napoleon; and tile from the floor of the Washington railroad station where President Garfield fell when assassinated.

Most of the items in the exhibit were gathered at random by government curators in the mid-19th Century and kept by the U.S. Patent Office.

When the original Smithsonian Institution

PART OF ATTIC EXHIBIT — This is part of a silver coffee service supported by replicas of chicken legs which belonged to Mrs. Abraham Lincoln. This and other objects are part of the Smithsonian Institution's "Nation's Attic" exhibit which is comprised of objects that are of little use but which are too appealing to throw away.

Castle was completed in 1855, the patent commissioner eagerly transferred all but patent models to Smithsonian Secretary Joseph Henry, who became known as the keeper of "The Nation's Attic."

Although some items from the collection were displayed, most were "relegated to study collections in back rooms," said Benjamin W. Lawless, project manager of the new exhibit.

Finally, although "some people always worried it would make the museum look silly," the decision was made to mount an exhibition of the material.

Then the thousands of dust-covered items had to be sorted through to pick what would go on display. One that didn't make it was a complete set of Army VD posters.

As a centerpiece, Lawless chose a 14-foot-tall clock reminiscent of European mechanical tower clocks with music and animated figures activated on the hour.

Among the other items that made it are a colossal American flag, 235 feet long and 104 feet high, packed in a box; a 30,000-watt light bulb billed in 1925 as the largest in the world; collections of safety pins, paper clips, poison bottles and whiskey barrel labels.

And Victorian flytraps and an eyeball massager and a finger gymnasium for limbering piano players' hands.

And the amputated foot of a firehorse.

Dear Abby

The Price of a Drink Doesn't Include Bed

DEAR ABBY: I struck up a conversation with a very good-looking guy at a bar and he bought me a drink (two actually). Well, before I was halfway finished with the second one, he was giving me this "your-place-or-mine" routine.

Abby, what gives a man the idea that all he has to do is buy a drink for a girl and he can make it with her? I realize that women have come a long way. A few years ago a woman without an escort wasn't even allowed to sit at a bar! Fortunately, times have changed, but the attitude of most men hasn't. They still don't consider women their equals. Men continue to do the picking and choosing, and treat women like they were put here on earth to satisfy men.

FED UP IN CONN.

DEAR FED UP: One swallow doesn't make a summer, nor need one drink make a strange bed-fellow. But if you really want to promote equality between the sexes, the next time you strike up a conversation with a guy at the bar, you buy the drinks, and you won't owe him anything.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever possible to forgive and forget? JACKIE

DEAR JACKIE: Yes. But don't dwell on what you're "forgiving" — or you'll never forget.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Scenic Chapter hears Higgins

Highlighting the Tuesday evening meeting of the Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association at the La Posada was the naming of the 1980 Woman of the Year.

Deloris Albert received the honor and the opportunity to represent the chapter at the National ABWA Convention in Phoenix, Ariz., next fall.

Speaker for the evening was Dr. Jerry Higgins who discussed the invention of the thermometer.

The vocational talk was presented by Jerri Dietz, who is employed in the business office of the Big Spring Independent School District.

Margarette Bryant was welcomed as a guest.

Forum women listen to Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Rowe

The Modern Woman's Forum heard Mrs. Cass Hill speak on "Why Foreigners Beat a Path for U.S. Colleges," and Mrs. H.M. Rowe on "Taught to the Tune of the Bureaucratic Three 'R's," as they met March 28.

Mrs. W.E. Singleton served as hostess at the 3 p.m. meeting at K-Bob's Restaurant with Mrs. Bert Affleck, president, presiding. Mrs. Affleck read an invitation from the 1985 Hyperion Club to their Diamond Jubilee Federation Tea and the Big Spring Country Club April 3 at 3 p.m. Mrs. Rosalee Hill was a guest.

Mrs. Hugh Duncan reported for the nominating committee and 1980-82 officers are Mrs. Cass Hill, president; Mrs. C.R. Moad, 1st vice president; Mrs. B.M. Keese, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Bert Affleck, secretary; Mrs. T.G. Adams, historian; Mrs. Fred Whitaker, Federation counselor and Mrs. Woody Smith, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Affleck attended the Western District Convention of Federated Clubs in Pecos March 21-22. Mrs. Affleck reported the convention and Mrs. Hill was elected the 1st vice president of the Western District.

Mrs. Hill stated that American schools are a mecca for scholars from abroad. Those who aspire to leadership positions in their homelands want to have a degree from an American school because it signifies a top quality educational background. American education is rated equal to the best if not the best in the world.

The arrival of students from China and rioting by young Iranian students in this country have turned public sentiment against some who are troublemakers on U.S. campuses.

The Chinese scholars symbolize new times between Washington and Peking so students have been greeted warmly. Public resentment, however, is growing against Iranian students' violence in Beverly Hills and demonstrators in Chicago and Washington protesting the government in Tehran. Mrs. Rowe, in her talk quoting from an article by John C. Sawhill, president of New York University, said, "The function of schools is not to reform society, but to teach children."

Six basic facts emerge as the performance of the schools is examined: 1. Schools are asked to do too much. 2. Students cannot learn what they are not taught. 3. We do not know what makes for an effective learning experience. 4. What is good for the teacher is not always good for the pupil. 5. The way we finance public education is discriminatory. 6. Someone must be in charge.

The task of educating is monumental enough without attempting to right social wrongs. If the function of education is to enable one to become the most that one can be, there is no such thing as a minimum acceptable standard.

Schools provide a key to the future of the society. Local citizenry must take control of the schools and nurture them if they are to operate successfully. The next meeting will be April 11 with Mrs. Hugh Duncan.

Father's friend molests teen

By Robert Wallace, Ed D

Dr. Wallace: I'm 19 years old when I was in the seventh grade I was supposed to keep a 50-year-old's step-daughter company in a motel while the man, a friend of my father's, looked for a job.

It turned out that the man went gambling instead and his stepdaughter didn't show up at all. I stayed in the motel five hours by myself and when the man returned, he said he was too tired to take me home and for me to sleep in the motel.

Unfortunately, during the night he forced me to do things to him and I was scared to death not to.

Ever since that time, I have hated myself for it. Now I'm starting to have nightmares about what happened.

I have told no one what has happened and, in fact, I'm afraid to tell my parents.

This man still comes by our house even though he doesn't live in Nevada. I'm really confused and need your help. — Nameless, North Las Vegas, Nev.

Nameless: You must share your experience with your parents. If you can't do it alone, see your school nurse first and let her contact your parents for a conference.

This "friend" of your father's is very sick and needs to be separated from society. If you don't seek help immediately, your problem will only get worse.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Domestic programs suffer

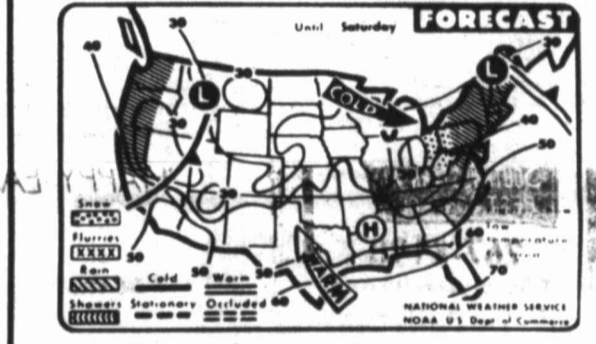

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate budget-writers are proposing a balanced 1981 budget that pays for hefty defense spending increases by deeply cutting domestic programs and by trimming the federal bureaucracy by 5 percent. On an 11-7 vote Thursday, the Senate Budget Committee added more than $5 billion to President Carter's proposed $150.5 billion defense budget. In all, the committee endorsed a $612.9 billion spending package. The panel would compensate for the higher military spending largely through domestic cuts far deeper than either Carter or the House Budget Committee have recommended in their proposed budgets for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1. The Senate panel approved Sen. James D. Exon's proposal to trim 5 percent from all government administrative functions, both civilian and military, that would save an estimated $2.9 billion. The Nebraska Democrat said his amendment was designed to tell the bureaucracy "we want a little more productivity."

Added Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., "Some message has to be sent to the Department of Defense and every other agency that they can't do business as usual." The committee's guns-over-butter approach was achieved by a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats that frequently overrode proposals from the panel's chairman, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. "We have really done a very, very evil job as far as the American people are concerned," said liberal Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "One by one we truly cut the guts out of the American people and the programs they need." While the House committee and the president called for cuts in many social programs, their proposed reductions were much less severe. The House panel also recommended about $8 billion less for defense than the Senate committee. All three spending packages call for achieving the first balanced federal budget in 12 years. The House and Senate are scheduled to begin floor debate on the their budget committees' proposals when Congress returns April 15 from the Easter recess that began today. On March 14, Carter called for balancing the federal budget as part of the administration's efforts to curb inflation, which has risen to an annual rate of almost 18 percent. The conflict in priorities between the House and Senate could lead to an impasse similar to the one last year that delayed final action on the 1980 budget until the current fiscal year was nearly two months old. Also, Senate liberals are likely to challenge the committee's budget on the Senate floor. The Senate committee's proposed $10.1 billion surplus, which has been earmarked for use as a tax cut, results largely from Carter's import fee on oil, which will boost gasoline prices at the pump 10 cents a gallon and raise $10 billion.

Bush looks forward to showdown

HOUSTON (AP) - Republican presidential candidate George Bush says he's looking forward to the April 22 Pennsylvania primary so he can go "head-to-head" with Ronald Reagan. "I still believe it (the nomination) is wide open," Bush said Thursday at his Houston campaign headquarters, "and the thing we have to do is demonstrate that now." He said the Pennsylvania race will give him his first opportunity to go "head-to-head" with Reagan, "with no third party and no crossover (vote)." "I'm looking forward to it," he said. "I think it's going to get everything in focus before the important Texas primary." Renewing his attack on President Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis, Bush said the president "ought to level with the (American) people on Iran." He said "total confusion" surrounds the hostage situation, then accused the Iranian government of "violating every tenet of international law." Bush said Americans were tired of the president's "failed foreign policy." Bush also told reporters he would, if elected, institute a fiscal policy that would reverse the rapidly rising prime rate and chided Reagan for saying he could cut $210 billion in taxes in three years. "Republican voters are going to want somebody who is reasonable," he added. After touring his headquarters, Bush left to continue his presidential quest in Louisiana.

Texas Tech medical veep resigns post

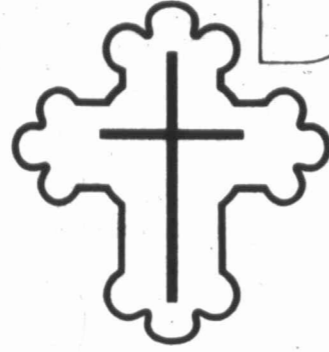

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Dr. Richard A. Lockwood says he will step down from his position as vice president of the Texas Tech University Health Science Center and assume a teaching role with the medical school. "I look forward to the opportunity to devote full time to academics and to returning to patient care activities," he said in announcing his decision to resign in June. Lockwood will remain with the medical school as a tenured professor of surgery and chief of service in proctology. "Following discussions with incoming president Dr. Lauro Cavazos, I have elected to make my resignation effective June 2," Lockwood said Thursday after meeting with the medical school faculty and staff. Lockwood joined the fledgling school of medicine in September 1973 as project director for building programs. He was named vice president in February 1974. "Six years in an institution constantly undergoing change is longer than usual. I have enjoyed administering the affairs of the medical school and the health sciences center for these six years. I have been pleased with our accomplishments," said Lockwood. Lockwood helped develop guidelines for regional medical education and directed the opening of a regional academic health center in El Paso. He also was instrumental in establishing the Permian Regional Academic Center at Odessa.

Don't tell a soul

Thank God Easter is no secret!
 The very word "Gospel" means good news.
 We use that word to summarize the belief of millions that Jesus Christ is God's Son and our Savior — that He suffered, died and rose again for us.
 The reason so many today share our Faith is that the followers of Jesus have always tried to tell every soul the good news.
 That is why we want to tell you and share with you our Easter joy.

DRAIN TANKER - Workers wearing special protective clothing drain the remaining phosphorous trichloride from a leaking tank car in the railroad yard of Boston & Maine Railroad Thursday night. The rupture in the tanker occurred when a switcher engine rammed the car while it was parked at a siding in the Somerville, Mass. yard. Thousands of people were evacuated from their home as the toxic chemical drifted with the wind.

Toxic chemical buried; residents return home

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) - Bulldozers plowed dirt and sand into a pit holding 6,000 gallons of corrosive chemical, and an estimated 17,000 persons began returning early today to the homes they fled when a train accident cracked open a tanker car filled with acid.

The burial was designed to keep the chemical's toxic fumes from escaping into the atmosphere and to assure the safety of the eight-square-block neighborhood that was virtually emptied of population Thursday morning.

State environmental officials were monitoring the neighborhood for any hazardous after-effects, and city employees were checking the sewerage system for traces of the chemical.

An investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board was underway. The agency said it was too early to comment on the cause, but Somerville Mayor Eugene Brune said the trains were "in the wrong place," and blamed an engineer for moving his train without authority.

The accident occurred shortly after 9 a.m. Thursday at a rail yard about three miles from downtown Boston when a Boston & Maine locomotive clipped a tank car containing 13,300 gallons of phosphorous trichloride, a chemical used in water treatment.

The liquid vaporized into acid clouds when it came in contact with moisture in the air.

At least 140 persons, most complaining of skin and eye irritations but one suffering a possible heart attack, were treated, and at least 10 were hospitalized. Many were given oxygen and showers to cleanse their bodies of the hydrochloric and phosphorous acid that formed when the chemical vaporized.

Some 700 persons took refuge at three reception centers, and officials said thousands of others fled to homes of friends and relatives or to motel rooms. The abandoned part of the city housed about 17,000 persons, 19 percent of the city's total population of nearly 89,000.

The area was declared safe at 1 a.m. today, and buses began taking residents from the refuge centers back to their homes. State civil defense director Robert Cunningham said the area was declared open after the burial "neutralized the chemical."

to flood the 20-foot-wide pit dug where the chemical spilled with 60,000 gallons of water. They feared the flooding could create a noxious, gaseous cloud before dissipating in the atmosphere.

At Massachusetts General Hospital, where 23 persons were treated, spokesman Martin Bander said the fumes can irritate the eyes and lungs, while a massive exposure could cause liver and kidney damage.

Somerville officials warned people who were in the area to take showers and wash their clothes to avoid continuing irritation.

Giggles halt holdup

LAPLACE, La. (AP) - A sense of humor can be a handicap for a bandit.

Like the man armed with an automatic pistol who handed a paper sack to a clerk in a clothing store here and commanded: "Fill it up."

When she asked what she should fill it with, it struck him so funny he burst into laughter, and finally staggered out of the store.

St. John the Baptist Parish detectives said Friday all they had on the would-be bandit was a vague description.

Jews celebrate in teeth of oppression

NEW YORK (AP) — In a time of religious oppressions in many lands, of terrorist assaults, seizures of hostages and captivities, Judaism is "celebrating humanity's first bid for freedom and God's confirmation of it." "For with a strong hand the Lord your God brought you out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage," Scripture describes that ancient origin of emancipation from tyranny and enslavement. The struggle for those biblically affirmed human rights still goes on as Jews around the world observe Passover, the season of liberation, considered as vital now as of old. "The struggle for liberty is never over," says Richard Maass, president of the American Jewish Committee, citing the plight of the American hostages in Iran and religious oppression in Afghanistan and the Soviet Union.

But the week-long Passover, which began Monday night with ceremonial seders in Jewish homes and recitations of the age-old story of escape from the bonds of Egypt's Pharaoh, signifies unending hope in the quest for human rights. "It is a classic example of struggle against odds — and how faith in a cause can surmount insuperable obstacles," Maass says. "Let my people go!" Moses demanded, and the account says that through God's miraculous intervention they got away. The observance coincides this year — as was originally the case — with Christian Holy Week, marking the final days of Christ, his crucifixion and resurrection, which Christians celebrate this Sunday. Both observances are celebrations of redemption, the Passover of victory over enslavement, Easter of triumph over evil and death. "Praise the Lord!" go the Psalms sung at those Passover seders, paralleling the Easter mood. "For thou has delivered my soul from death, my eyes from tears. O give thanks to the Lord, his steadfast love endures forever. "Out of my distress I called on the Lord; the Lord answered me and set me free. The Lord is my strength and my song he has become my salvation."

Revival set

A revival starting Tuesday at Foursquare Gospel Church, 1210 E. 19th, will feature the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Morrow.

Morrow is a nationally known evangelist from Charlotte, N.C. He is known for dynamic preaching and inspirational singing. There will be a story time each evening for the children.

Nursery will be provided for babies. Foursquare Pastor Willie Sparks and his wife invite the public to attend.

Sunrise meet Greet Easter

The First Mexican Baptist Church will hold their Easter Sunrise service Sunday morning at 6 a.m. Following the special service there will be a breakfast for all who come.

The regular Easter worship services are scheduled for 10:50 a.m. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated during the evening service at 6 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend. The pastor of the church is the Rev. Johnny Castro.

Hillcrest Easter Service held

Hillcrest Baptist Church is coordinating their Easter Sunrise Service with the VA Medical Center Chaplain Service. The service will be held near the flag pole at the entrance of the Medical Center at 7:00 a.m. Sunday, April 6th. Chaplain Clayton Hicks will give the welcome and invocation. The special music will be presented by Jackie Hancock and the Hillcrest Baptist Church choir under the direction of Raferd Dunagan. The Easter message will be presented by Rev. Phillip McClendon, pastor of the Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The public is invited to attend.

New Mexico conference set

Local Spanish Jehovah's Witnesses will be convening April 12 and 13 at the Carlsbad Civic Center in Carlsbad, New Mexico for their bi-annual circuit assembly.

Delegates from sixteen West Texas congregations and three from Southeastern New Mexico will comprise the convclave of an estimated 1,800.

The Saturday program will start at 1:25 p.m. with song and prayer. F. L. Aleman, District Overseer, will follow with a talk entitled "Please God by Our Obedience." Last year 113,672 persons from all walks of life, obediently dedicated their lives to Jehovah and symbolized that dedication by water immersion. At 2:55 p.m. a discourse "Baptism in Hope of Salvation" will deal with what is involved in a person's dedication and what baptism entails. Thereafter will follow the water baptism of new members. Intermission will follow and the program will resume at 5 p.m. Interesting topics will ensue such as: "Obedience in the Family Circle,"

Ninth annual Tres Rios Women's meet slated

The Rev. Michael F. Murray, a consultant to the Fort Worth Council of Churches, will keynote the ninth annual meeting of the Women of Tres Rios Presbytery April 17 at Odessa's First Presbyterian Church. He will speak on "Servant Leadership — the Church in the 80s" to some 125 women convened for the all-day meeting on the theme, "Singing Praises." The Rev. Murray, a resident of Arlington and a native of Weatherford, is vice-president of Creative Interchange Consultants International, a Florida-based consulting and training firm; an associate in three other consulting firms, and a member of the adjunct faculty of several colleges and universities. A member of Grace Union Presbytery, covering the north central Texas area, he works with about 30 church groups. He received a B.A. from Austin College in Sherman and a B.D. from Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Austin. He has served as pastor to churches in Kingsville, Mercedes and Pittsburgh, Pa. The meeting opens with registration at 9 a.m., with a call to order by Judy Hayes of Odessa's St. Paul Presbyterian Church, president, at 9:30 a.m. Following the opening prayer by the Rev. H.G. Wardlaw, pastor of the host church, there will be a short business meeting, closing with the election and installation of new officers. Workshops will follow Mr. Murray's talk, and closing ceremonies will be at 3 p.m. Tres Rios Presbytery stretches west to El Paso, east to San Saba, north to Seminole and south to Sanderson and encompasses 27 churches.

A Farthing's Worth

CHRISTIANS ARE OBLIGED TO VOTE!
In Romans 13, Paul wrote, "Everyone must submit himself to the governing authorities, for there is no authority except that which God has established. This is also why you pay taxes, for the authorities are God's servants, who give their full time to governing."
Exercising my privilege to vote helps determine whom I must submit myself to, how my tax money is spent, and the direction my community goes. I intend to vote for those I feel will best represent my principles and values. I am obliged to vote.

Organization dedicates funds as living memorial to Reeder

The local American Business Club's latest contribution to the National organization's Living Endowment Fund, amounting to $705, is being dedicated as a living memorial to Roy Reeder of 1602 Klowa Drive, Big Spring, only charter member still in the club.

The idea was conceived by Don Brooks of Big Spring, District 6-A ABC governor, who set out to raise the required minimum of $350 as a pledge toward the Endowment Fund and wound up with more than twice that amount.

Bill Estes was one of the first members approached about the special fund by Brooks and he wrote out a $350 check himself.

The Living Endowment Fund provides scholarships on a nationwide basis for young men and women who study for a career as Physical Therapists in rehabilitation centers like the Dora Roberts Center here.

Reeder, a former Big Spring Chamber of Commerce president and a civic leader here, is largely confined to his home after having been stricken several years ago but his mind remains very active.

In an interview granted recently, Reeder recalled the excitement surrounding the local Ambucs' Charter Dinner Dec. 2, 1935, which was held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Settles Hotel.

Large delegations from the Lubbock and San Angelo chapters of the ABC came here to attend the charter dinner, which was presided over by W. D. Carnett, the Ambucs' first local president. Now Brooks is involved in a drive to reorganize the San Angelo ABC Chapter.

Also in attendance were Roy Burke of Amarillo, second national vice president; and Ernest O. Northcutt, district lieutenant-governor.

The late Dr. D. F. McConnell, then pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation. Other club officers, in addition to Carnett, that year included Curtis Driver, treasurer; Reeder, secretary; and Pete Sellers, Dr. Preston R. Sanders, Lee Porter and Charles Frost, members of the board of governors.

Marvin House Sr., Garland Woodward, Joe Pickle, E.V. Spence and W.T. (Tanlac) Strange represented other civic organizations of the city at the dinner.

Charles A. Frost, a druggist here, served as toastmaster at the dinner.

The menu served included filet mignon, shrimp cocktail, Waldorf salad and was topped off with a nut sundae with fruit cake as a dessert. The whole meal cost something like $2.

Other charter members besides Reeder included Howard Thomas, Frost, Frank R. Howell, J.W. Joiner, Pete Sellers, Red Eubanks, Weldon Bryant, Speedy Moffett, Hugh Duncan, Howard Stephens, Adolph Swartz, Curtis Driver, J.V. Morton, Lee Porter, C.A. Wheelless, J.C. Milburn, Dr. Harvey Kennedy, Leslie R. Smith and Lex James.

In addition to Reeder, Duncan, Stephens, Swartz and Porter still make Big Spring their home.

The ABC National Convention was held here in 1941 and Reeder recalls that Moffett, the former Texas Tech football star who later became one of Texas' most outstanding baseball coaches, rode a horse into one of the convention-goers' meeting rooms.

ROY REEDER

In 1941, the club even had its own orchestra, made up of club members. T.J. Dunlap, then circulation manager of the Herald, directed a program featuring the orchestra.

Among those earlier in the orchestra on who sang with this accompanying group that year included Reeder, Fowler Faubion, Harold Canning, Helen Duley, Dr. J.H. Parrott, Leonard Hilton, Coy Nalley, Mary Whaley and Hugh Duncan.

Reeder also recalls the club membership dropped to about ten during WW II but never failed to meet. The present club has 70 members. It holds its Friday luncheon meetings at the Holiday Inn.

The local ABC has concessions rights annually at the Big Spring Rodeo and the Howard County Fair. It sponsors such popular events as the ABC Relays and the Howard College Olympic Basketball Tournament.

Dr. John Key is the outgoing president this year. He will be succeeded by Calvin Davis.

Nationally, the ABC has 6,000 members. The National Convention, staged in Nashville in 1979, will be held in Dallas this year.

More blood

London wax museum opens new Chamber of Horrors

LONDON (AP) — The public wants more blood, says Madame Tussaud's. So today London's famed wax museum opened a new Chamber of Horrors that is the most gory, ghoulish and gruesome in its 178-year history.

For the first time, modern American murderers are displayed — Utah killer Gary Gilmore before the firing squad, Charles Manson with his gang of girls and Bruno Richard Hauptmann strapped into the electric chair.

For the devotees of London crime, a Victorian alleyway is littered with the victims of Jack the Ripper and other madmen.

"We were very aware that visitors were disappointed with the old Chamber of Horrors, that it wasn't frightening," spokeswoman Juliet Simpkin said. "People were just not finding it bloody enough."

"What we've done will probably fulfill what people want to see. It's pretty nasty — and probably a bit gory, too."

The 40 murderers, murderers and murdering tools are appropriately located in the basement of the museum whose wax look-a-likes of the famous and infamous attract 2.5 million visitors a year.

When Marie Gresholtz Tussaud, a Swiss-French wax artist, brought her collection to England in 1802, she put the more horrible items — including the blade from the French Revolution guillotine — into a separate room. In 1846, Punch, the British humor magazine, dubbed it the Chamber of Horrors, and the name stuck.

Into the chamber went likenesses of Britain's most notorious criminals almost as soon as they were hanged. More than 30,000 lined up for the debut of Eleanor Pearcey, who slew her lover's wife and baby and wheeled them through the streets in a pram.

But capital punishment was abolished in Britain in 1965, and the Chamber of Horrors grew stale. Attendance dropped off. Both adults and children complained to the guards that they wanted to see "more murders being done and people's heads severed."

"We obviously have to draw the line because we are a family organization," said chief researcher Christina Rowley.

"We haven't actually got anyone being murdered," Miss Simpkin joined in, "but by not-so-subtle suggestion, we can give people the chance to imagine what had happened. That should be enough."

In the new Chamber of Horrors, previewed for The Associated Press earlier this week, the execution bell from Newgate Prison rings every 20 seconds as visitors walk down the dimly lit stairs. The air chills as a dark 19th-century London street comes into view.

Laughter and the clink of glasses are heard from The Ten Bells pub to the right. A prostitute beckons from the left.

A scream rings out, and a bloodied body is seen. The shadowy figure of Jack the Ripper flees from his latest victim.

HELPING HAND — Peruvian Consul Alfredo Tejida gives the M-19 guerrilla negotiator before him a helping hand as they enter van outside the Dominican Republic's embassy in Bogota, Colombia Thursday for the tenth round of talks with the Colombian government representatives. The session lasted for fifteen minutes.

Release of more hostages expected

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The release of more hostages from the Dominican Republic's Embassy was expected today — Good Friday — in accordance with the leftist guerrillas' promise to free all their captives who were not diplomatic personnel during Holy Week.

The terrorists of the M-19 organization who invaded the embassy on Nov. 27 freed a Dominican businessman and a Colombian protocol officer on Holy Thursday, leaving 25 still captive in the embassy.

They included U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio and 18 other foreign diplomats and three Colombians, a Spaniard, a Nicaraguan and a Dominican in the non-diplomatic category.

The two men freed Thursday left the embassy with a rabbi who had been admitted to the building earlier in the day, presumably to visit Israeli Ambassador Elishu Barak.

The leftists said last week they would free all the non-diplomats during Holy Week in appreciation for the Roman Catholic Church's support of the "oppressed." They freed two Colombians last Sunday.

Also on Thursday, the guerrillas' masked woman negotiator held her third negotiating session in as many days with government officials, presenting them with a written response to government proposals for ending the siege, a government spokesman said.

No details were released after the 15-minute session, but the talks ended with handshakes and the government representatives were smiling broadly.

A spokesman for President Julio Cesar Turbay said the negotiators would meet again Monday.

The government offered earlier in the week to shift the trials of more than 300 alleged guerrillas from military to civilian courts and to invite foreign human rights groups to Colombia to investigate.

BROWNWOOD — A delegation representing Early retracted its approval of a plan Tuesday permitting Early to be annexed by the City of Brownwood.

The Brownwood city council was informed of Early's decision at the council meeting Tuesday night.

Early city attorney Frank Griffin resigned his position following the meeting of the two communities' city councils.

Brownwood's city attorney William W. Bell said no reason was given for Early's change in plans. Griffin had been doing much of the legal work necessary for such a transaction to take place.

It's just plain Accountability Burns, okay?

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Perennial candidate Accountability Burns wanted to change his name to Accountability Einstein Belcher-Burns. No go, said a Tulsa District Court judge.

District Judge William W. Means denied the request Friday after an associate of former U.S. Representative Page Belcher objected.

Burns, wearing a yellow shirt with "Burns for Mayor" printed across the chest, said he wasn't referring to the former congressman in his application.

Burns said Belcher is his wife's name and he wanted to adopt her name to honor the Equal Rights Amendment. He refused to take an oath to explain further.

last four decisions. The loss, meanwhile, dropped the Andrews record to 12-3.

A big star in the game for the Steers was reliever Wayne Shipman, who stifled the Andrews attack without a run for the last five and one-third innings.

Andrews drew first blood in the contest on a run scoring single in the second inning by Kevin Bartley, who connected after Steer starter

The Mustangs then increased their margin to 3-0 in the third inning, before the Steers used two Andrews errors to cut the lead to 3-1.

Olympic meeting becomes emotional

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has made America's security the underlying reason for the United States to boycott the Olympic Games in Moscow this summer.

President Carter was said to have told some 60 representatives of U.S. sports federations Thursday that the sending of a team to Moscow would damage American security.

Carter was said to have made the comment by telephone during a 2½-hour meeting at the State Department between administration officials and officials of the national governing bodies of 31 Olympic sports.

The meeting was held because of growing concern that the U.S. Olympic Committee, which must make the final decision, may vote April 12 to defy the president and send a team to the Summer Games. The sentiment grew during a session last weekend that was held to present options to the national governing bodies, groups that govern

Ali: Image vs. $$

HOW QUICKLY A PERSON can forget when it seems appropriate. Muhammad Ali, the three-time world heavyweight boxing champion who undoubtedly is one of the most popular people in the world, impressed his throngs of followers for years with his charismatic golden tongue. His ability in the boxing ring, to understate the obvious, didn't hurt him, either.

His philosophies and poetry have been admired by many, even so much as for President Carter to send him on a diplomatic mission to South Africa earlier this year to urge an Olympic boycott.

And earlier in his boxing career, Ali, who understands better than anyone that it is the public's admiration that has helped make him the figure that he now relishes, had a first commandment in regard to the reigning heavyweight champion: "Thou shalt fight the opponent that the public wants."

IN MARCH, WBA PROMOTORS were said to be arranging a bout between their then undefeated champion, John Tate, and the retired heavyweight king. Since Tate was unbeaten, nobody considered Ali as ducking the best for a less formidable opponent.

But WBC Champion Larry Holmes, now seems to be the man to fight if Ali wants to make a comeback. Holmes, although not as flashy as Ali or even a Joe Frazier, is still undefeated in 33 bouts, with 25 of those coming on knockouts. He also is ranked in the boxing heavy weight record books as having one of the longest consecutive streaks of defending his title successfully.

But Ali has made it known since Monday that he will fight Weaver, who has a respectable, but not outstanding, professional record of 21-9. One of Weaver's losses was to Holmes, and most of the rest of the set-backs were to unknown foes.

And even if the records don't say that Ali should fight Holmes, the money definitely does.

WBC promoter Don King claims to have the backers for a 10-million-dollar bout between Holmes and the legendary Louisville Kid. Ali would receive $6.5 million, while Holmes would get a mostly healthy $3.5 million. On the other hand, the money market for a Weaver-Ali bout is significantly less. Ali is said to probably receive $3 million, with Weaver grossing a million.

SO WHY IS ALI DUCKING HOLMES and defying his first boxing commandment?

Some say it is a calculated gamble. Ali feels that he can handle Weaver, and by doing so would create two big pay days with his ensuing bout with Holmes.

"Weaver's no trouble, Weaver would be duck soup," Ali said after watching the muscular man they call Hercules kayo Tate in the 15th round.

The talk abounds in all boxing circles. In defying his own first commandment, maybe Ali is simply employing the old adage, "There's a time to be brave, and a time to be smart."

Maybe his brain, which no doubt is more keenly sharp than his aging body, tells him that to come back to be embarrassed by the undefeated Holmes would do nothing but tarnish his legendary image.

To preserve that bigger than life image, Ali should probably take a lesson from the freshly retired Roger Staubach, and withdraw from the professional athletic limelight while he's considered the greatest.

BUT THEN AGAIN, WHO COULD BLAME a person for not turning down the lucrative millions that await Ali upon his re-appearance into the ring.

Officials give boycott reason amateur athletics and act as a liaison between the athletes and the Olympic Committee.

The meeting quickly became an emotional exchange of opinions by officials of the governing bodies who vented their frustration over the proposed Olympic boycott.

At Thursday's meeting, the sports officials heard from Defense Secretary Harold Brown, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher and White House counsel Lloyd Cutler.

Christopher told newsmen after the closed meeting the administration officials made three points: They emphasized the brutal war being waged by the Soviets in Afghanistan, that deterrents to the Soviet aggression mean that Americans must make sacrifices and "if the United States were to decide to go to the Games, it would be an approval of the Soviet actions."

Brown said U.S. athletes will damage American security if they insist on going to the Moscow Games.

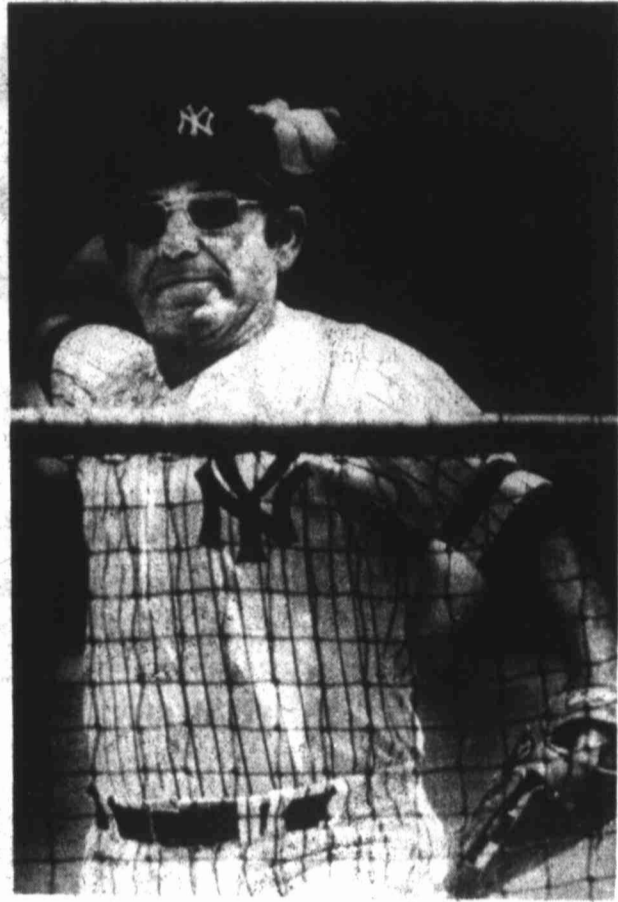

Andrews slams Steer netters

The Andrews Mustangs tennis team showed no mercy on the Big Spring Steer netters here Thursday afternoon, as the visitors dominated action at the Local Tennis Center.

Only three points of 20 were picked up by the BSNS netters.

Aubrey Weaver and Greg Franklin both won their matches in the boys' singles competition for the Steers, while the duo of Todd Gilbert-Scott, Nelson won their doubles match to pick up a point.

The Big Spring girls' singles and doubles were unable to win any of their matches. The Steer netters return to play on April, at which time they host Sweetwater.

In mini-series with Houston

Bass hopes Spurs defense continues

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — There's an unlikely playoff problem confronting Bob Bass, coach of pro basketball's best offense and worst defense. His San Antonio Spurs are playing defense for a change; they just aren't playing much offense.

The Spurs have averaged about 120 points per game for the last three seasons, but scored only 11 in the third quarter and 24 in the fourth quarter in Wednesday night's 95-85 playoff loss to Houston.

The victory gave the Rockets a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-three, National Basketball Association Eastern Conference miniseries. The second game is here tonight. For that contest, Bass would like to keep Wednesday night's defense. But the offense is another matter.

"We have just got to break their defense down. It was just our offense last night. We missed some good shots, some really good shots, we can hit those in our sleep," Bass said Thursday after running the team through a brief workout aimed solely at two offensive plays.

Bass said Houston center Moses Malone and forward Robert Reid have hurt the Spurs by leaving their men to set up double teams on San Antonio's best shooters.

The Spurs had worked out a new play designed just for Houston's defense. But it broke down several times Wednesday night, and Bass had the Spurs concentrate on it in Thursday's practice.

San Antonio traditionally has the NBA's worst defensive team, but things have turned around since Bass took over a month ago for the fired Doug Moe. Before Bass became interim coach, the Spurs had held only one team under 100 points this season.

Meanwhile, it has been 532 games — six years — since the Spurs scored as few as 85 points.

"Defensively, I want to keep the team where it was last night. Our defense was good, really good. They got only 95 points, but we gave them the last six trying to reach in and steal or foul," said Bass.

The dominating Malone, who played 36 minutes on an injured ankle, got only 10 points Wednesday night, 17 under his season average.

"That was really disappointing. A game that Moses didn't dominate, but we didn't win," said Bass.

Houston's Rudy Tomjanovich was surprised that the Houston-San Antonio series has come down to defense because the Rockets have also been known for a potent offense. "If people weren't familiar with the colors of the uniforms, they wouldn't have believed it was Houston and San Antonio," he said. "But the game was decided on defense, and that's what is going to decide the winner of the series."

"Both teams have such explosive offenses. The team that wins will be the one which can slow the other down just a little," he added.

Angels favored in wild AL West

By the Associated Press Gene Autry, the Cowboy, the good guy in the white hat, owner of the California Angels, finally triumphed over the bad guys in the American League West last season. A half-pennant won't be enough satisfaction this time.

"I think we have the best team in our division and we should win again — providing we play well," says Manager Jim Fregosi. "We gained a lot of experience by going through a pennant race and a championship series. It's part of maturing, part of growing up. I feel the team is ready to go all the way now."

The Angels were plagued by injuries last year but still scored 866 runs, most in the majors in 15 years. The ringleader was Don Baylor, who hit 36 homers, drove in 139 runs, scored 120 and won the Most Valuable Player Award.

Fregosi's major worries concern outfielders Dan Ford (knee surgery) and Joe Rudi (Achilles tendon) and the pitching staff — free agent Nolan Ryan has gone home to Texas and the Houston Astros, while Frank Tanana and Chris Knapp missed much of 1979. Hopefully, Tanana and Knapp will join Dave Frost and Bruce Kison, who jumped the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, in the starting rotation.

California made a major off-season trade, sending first baseman Willie Aikens to Kansas City for outfielder Al Cowens. The presence of seven-time AL batting champion Rod Carew at first and Baylor for DH made Aikens expendable. Other key Angels are catcher Brian Downing (at .326, the top right-handed hitter in the league), second baseman Bobby Grich and third baseman Carney Lansford.

At shortstop, Fred Patek and Todd Cruz came from Kansas City to battle with veteran Bert Campaneris and young Dickie Thon.

Kansas City stuck with Whitey Herzog through three division championships — and no pennants — then fired him for finishing three games out. The new boss is long-time Baltimore coach Jim Frey.

Frey was hit with an immediate problem when All-Star catcher Darrell Porter left the team to be treated for alcoholism. Porter is not expected to be released until late April. Until he returns, the catching burden will fall on John Wathan and Jamie Quirk.

Aikens has been handed the first base job while U.L. Washington taking over for Patek at shortstop. The other infielders are standouts, third baseman George Brett and second baseman Frank White. Speedy Willie Wilson (83 steals), Amos Otis and Clint Hurdle, the heralded phenom flop of 1978, form the outfield. Veteran Hal McRae is the DH.

The Texas Rangers have a new owner and a new starting pitcher. The former, septuagenarian Eddie Chiles, may be only slightly older than Gaylord Perry, who admits to 41.

The Rangers finished five games out last year despite one horrible stretch in which they lost 30 of 40 games. A healthy Jon Matlack, who missed most of last season with elbow miseries and won only five games, is a must. Ferguson Jenkins, Steve Comer and Doc Medich are the other starters, but one of them could lose out to fireballing Danny Darwin. Jim Kern and Sparky Lyle form a top-flight relief corps.

Texas will have center fielder Mickey Rivers from the start, but the New York Yankees gave up on him because he didn't put out all the time. When he comes to play he can spark any offense, especially one that also boasts outfielder Al Oliver, third baseman Buddy Bell, first baseman Pat Putnam, DH Richie Zisk, catcher Jim Sundberg and second baseman Bump Wills.

To guard against deep slumps in the Texas summer heat, Manager Pat Corrales will try not to use anyone in more than 130 games.

The Minnesota Twins keep losing free agents. Nevertheless, they finished only six games out last year but now must find a replacement for Dave Goltz in the rotation. There are serious questions behind starters Jerry Kosman and Geoff Zahn and bullpen ace Mike Marshall.

Like Minnesota, maverick Bill Veeck's Chicago White Sox have stayed away from the millionaire free agent market. Nevertheless, they have managed to develop an outstanding young pitching rotation — all left-handed — of Ken Kravec, Richard Wortham, Ross Baumgarten and Steve Trout — plus Ed Farmer in the bullpen.

The Seattle Mariners have promising pitchers in starters Mike Parrott, Rick Honeycutt, Floyd Bannister and Jim Beattie, with Byron Rawley and Byron McLoughlin in the bullpen. Bruce Bochte at first, Julio Cruz at second and DH Willie Horton are proven performers but the outfield received a blow with Juan Beniquez' shoulder injury.

And that leaves the Oakland A's of Charlie Finley ... and Billy Martin. Baseball's new Odd Couple should keep things hopping.

Palmer leads Winners Circle

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Sandra Palmer won the Winners Circle tournament five years ago, but she doesn't want to duplicate that performance in the 1980 edition of the ladies' richest golf tournament.

"I can't win this tournament now playing like I did in 1975; I've got to play better," said the 39-year-old Palmer after her opening round of 6-under-par 66 Thursday gave her a 2-stroke lead in the $305,000 tournament.

"There are just more people out here shooting better scores than there were back then," said Palmer, who won here with a 5-under-par 283 and is looking for her first victory since 1977.

Peggy Conley, Beth Solomon and Vicki Fergon were two shots off the lead with opening-round 68s over the 6,242-yard, par 36-36-72 Mission Hills Country Club course.

Sally Little, Debbie Massey and Jane Blalock were another stroke back at 69 entering today's second round, with Kathy Ahern, Pat Bradley and Kathy Whitworth carding opening 70s.

Is strip mining harmful to health?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Federal officials, who had no answers when Texas strip mine employees asked if working in the mines could hurt them, are looking into conditions at two lignite mines.

Dr. Bob Bernstein of Morgantown, W. Va., project coordinator for National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health, said Thursday the first-ever study was initiated at the request of workers at mines near Rockdale and Monticello, Texas.

"People mentioned they believed they may have been having bronchitis and sinus problems related to lignite dust," Bernstein said in a telephone interview.

Texas produces more lignite than any other state.

"What happened was several workers from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union asked us whether we knew if lignite coal dust was a hazard to health in the same way or in some other way that some other forms of coal are known to be hazardous," Bernstein said.

NIOSH, which operates under the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, had no answer because no thorough studies have been done, according to the project coordinator.

"We did a literature search and frankly there just is not very much known about it," he said.

A spokesman for TUGCO said there have been no reports of health problems at the Monticello-area mine.

"It is our understanding that since there have never been any extensive studies done, that is why NIOSH is interested," said Dick Ramsey, adding "there are no problems that we know of."

IBEW officials in Texas were unavailable for comment Thursday.

Bernstein and another NIOSH official conducted an initial "walkthrough" at Industrial Generating Co.'s Rockdale facility in Central Texas on Monday and Tuesday. A similar initial visit was made at the Texas Utilities Generating Co. mine near Monticello in Northeast Texas last fall, he said.

Railroad Commission records show there are 400 employees at the Rockdale mine. IGC is a division of Texas Power & Light Co., which is a subsidiary of TUGCO, according to TUGCO spokesman Dick Ramsey.

W.E. Davis, general superintendent at the IGC strip mine, said two million tons of lignite are produced a year, most of it for use at a nearby Alcoa aluminum smelter, which is the largest in the country.

The mine has been in operation since 1951, ac-ording to the Railroad Commission.

Davis said employees have reported no health problems and inspections by federal officials have turned up "nothing that has not been corrected," including excessive dust accumulation.

"This is not an adversary hearing or anything like that," Davis said, adding the company is cooperating. "As far as we know, there is no health hazard."

Ramsey said the Monticello-area mine has been in operation since 1974. Railroad Commission records show 500 employees at two TUGCO mines in the area. The lignite is used to provide electricity for customers of the system.

"It is our understanding that since there have never been any extensive studies done, that is why NIOSH is interested," said Dick Ramsey, adding "there are no problems that we know of."

Bernstein said a 1967 study sponsored by a chemical company showed no adverse effects in animals, he said. A study on lignite workers in Czechoslovakia "indicated lignite coal dust may have chronic effects on workers' respiratory systems," said Bernstein.

However, the Czechoslovakian workers in the study lived in a polluted area, possibly confounding the study, he said.

"One of the issues involved is that strip miners of lignite are not eligible for the same monitoring procedures that underground coal miners are eligible for. The workers have no way of knowing whether they are having any problems," he said.

"My inclination is that there may very well not be health hazards at the lignite mines, he said.

Nava named to position of ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed Julian Nava to be the new U.S. ambassador to Mexico, a post vacant since October.

The 52-year-old California educator is the first Mexican-American to be named to the position.

Nava, who received Senate confirmation Thursday, is currently the special assistant to the president of California State University at Northridge, Calif.

He is a historian and the author of several books on Mexican-Americans. The nomination was endorsed by leaders of several Mexican-American associations who called it a signal of a new era in U.S.-Mexican relations.

Former Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey resigned as ambassador to Mexico last October before assuming a role in the presidential campaign of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Nava is fluent in Spanish and has held teaching assignments in Venezuela, Puerto Rico, Spain, Colombia and the United States. He holds a doctorate from Harvard University and was a professor of history at California State for 22 years.

He has no previous experience as a diplomat.

During his confirmation hearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Nava said he believes current relations between the United States and Mexico are "far healthier than the media would have us believe," despite some continuing problems.

Tax breaks for aged discussed

Growing old can have its problems, but senior citizens do have some advantages. Among them are a few tax breaks for persons 65 and over.

For tax purposes, you are considered to be 65 on the day before your 65th birthday, and you can benefit in the year you turn 65, even if it's on the last day of your tax year. For example, if your 65th birthday falls on January 1, 1980, you can file as if you were 65 for all of 1979. And being 65 or over has some special and increased tax benefits.

One of the most important concerns of everyone is whether or not he or she HAS to file a Federal tax return at all. Single persons 65 and over do not have to file a Federal tax return unless their gross income for 1979 was at least $4,300. The limit for a married couple, if only one spouse is 65, is now $6,400, and if both married persons are over 65, it is $7,400. Remember, this is gross income.

(Certain types of income, especially for retirees, is completely exempt from tax, and should neither be reported nor considered when adding up gross income. Among these are Social Security, Railroad Retirement, public assistance, workmen's compensation, and the like.)

Because the filing requirements have been increased, a larger number of persons will not have to file. But, on the other hand, if either spouse had tax withheld, filing a tax return is the only way of getting a refund.

For older taxpayers who do have to file, there is more of a tax break this year than last. The personal exemption for everyone has been increased to $1,000, and senior citizens 65 or older get an additional $1,000 apiece, which, for a couple both over 65, can result in a reduction of income of $4,000.

In addition to the increased exemption, there's the "Tax Credit for the Elderly" for older persons who just might not think of themselves as elderly. This credit can reduce taxes owed, and can amount to as much as $375 for single taxpayers and $562.50 for married couples.

To claim this credit, you must be a U.S. citizen or a resident with some kind of taxable income and some tax liability. The credit is even available to certain taxpayers under 65, particularly those with public retirement system income, like teachers and firemen.

There are some limitations, however; the credit doesn't work in every instance. Persons who receive the maximum Social Security or Railroad Retirement payments, for example, would not be eligible.

The computation is done on a Schedule R or RP, which must be attached to a Form 1040 — a 1040A won't do. If you fill in the necessary information on the Schedule R or RP (whichever one is appropriate for you), IRS will compute the credit for you, and decrease your tax accordingly.

A further benefit for older taxpayers and those who are not so old is the once-in-a-lifetime $100,000 exclusion of the gain on the sale of a personal residence, which for this purpose can be a house, condominium, or stock in a cooperative. If you're thinking of selling that house that has suddenly grown too large, read on before you make a commitment.

Taxpayers who are at least age 55 before they sell their residence, which they owned and lived in at least three years during the five years before the sale, can exclude up to $100,000 of the gain. But only once in a lifetime.

If you plan to sell your residence and not invest in a more costly one, you may want to take advantage of this exclusion. Check with IRS for the complete details of this new law that can save you tax dollars.

Tax planning for retirement can produce savings in other areas too. Generally, when you retire, if you've contributed to your pension plan, you'll recover your costs within the first 36 months of retirement. That means you'll be getting back the money you put toward your pension in your working years — money that has already been taxed. While you are recovering your costs, your pension is tax-free. During this time your taxable income will probably be small, perhaps just some interest and a few dividends.

That's the time to cash in those savings bonds or to think about selling those securities. The interest on the bonds or the capital gains on the securities won't be added to your wages or fully taxable pension to put you in a much higher tax bracket.

When your pension does become fully taxable, and you begin to have to pay tax on it, you can file a Form W-4P, "Annuitant's Request for Federal Income Tax Withholding," with the company or organization which pays you your pension or annuity. This will authorize that your tax be withheld from each payment just like it was from your wages when you worked, and relieve you from the responsibility of having to make estimated tax payments every quarter.

A word of caution: some taxpayers will still have to make estimated tax payments, even with the Form W-4P. If you have income that is not taxed at the source like interest and dividend income; and you expect your tax due at filing time to be $100 or more, you will be required to make estimated tax payments. "Not taxed at the source" means there was no withholding taken out before you got it.

The Internal Revenue Service has many free publications which can be ordered by mail, using the order form in the tax package, or by calling the IRS number listed in the local telephone directory. If more convenient, they can also be picked up at most IRS offices. The following would be of particular interest to senior citizens:

Pub. 17 "Your Federal Income Tax"

Pub. 505 "Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax"

Pub. 523 "Tax Information on Selling or Buying Your Home"

Pub. 524 "Credit for the Elderly"

Pub. 554 "Tax Benefits for Older Americans"

Pub. 575 "Pension and Annuity Income"

In addition to the above publications, the IRS offers year round tax advice and help. This year, because of a special provision by Congress, the IRS is intensifying its efforts to help senior citizens. The IRS has written a special publication, Pub. 1106, "Tax Counseling for the Elderly," to assist volunteers in providing tax advice to senior citizens. For information on a center for tax assistance which would be convenient for you, or for information on any aspect of taxes, get in touch with your local IRS office.

A final word of caution: there are certain persons impersonating IRS employees, with the intention of bilking unsuspecting individuals. IRS employees always carry official identification. If you have reason to believe someone is posing as an IRS employee, ask for identification. If you are not completely satisfied that the person is a bona fide employee, do not give that person any information, and by no means give him or her money.
