Militants keep captives, Khomeini says

By the Associated Press

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ruled today that the 50 American hostages must remain in the hands of the young militants occupying the U.S. Embassy in Tehran until the new Iranian Parliament decides their fate, Khomeini's office announced.

The 79-year-old leader of the Iranian revolutionary regime vetoed President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr's proposal to transfer custody of the captives to the ruling Revolutionary Council after a meeting with Bani-Sadr and Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

In Washington, President Carter, after spending part of the Easter weekend considering the hostage crisis, said he was near a decision on a new set of economic and diplomatic sanctions against Iran. He remarked that the hostages' captors — he called them "terrorists" — had agreed to release their prisoners to the Iranian government "but the government refused." He did not elaborate.

Talking briefly to reporters after returning from Camp David, Md., he was asked whether he was about to invoke new sanctions. "We'll be deciding that in a few minutes," Carter replied, then went directly to his Oval Office to prepare for a meeting with his national security and foreign affairs advisers.

Press Secretary Jody Powell said he did not know if the White House meeting would lead to an immediate announcement of U.S. retaliatory moves.

Although there was no suggestion from Washington that military action was contemplated, two U.S. senators who visited American Navy pilots on a carrier in the Indian Ocean said the pilots seemed eager to bomb selected targets in Iran.

Today was the 156th day in captivity for the 50 Americans in the embassy and three held in the Iranian Foreign Ministry. Three U.S. clergymen invited by the militants to hold Easter services at the embassy reported the hostages were in excellent condition.

The Revolutionary Council met for 4½ hours Sunday. Ghotbzadeh said it reached a decision on Bani-Sadr's proposal to take custody of the hostages. But he said the decision would not be announced until after it was submitted to Khomeini.

Diplomatic sources said Bani-Sadr and other senior Iranian officials submitted two opposing solutions to Khomeini for his ruling.

They said one solution, backed by Bani-Sadr and Ghotbzadeh, would have meant a transfer of the hostages to government custody to assure the United States and the world that the American captives were secure and in good health.

The other position, supported by some other Revolutionary Council members, would have left the hostages in the militants' control, the sources said.

Khomeini killed another proposal to transfer custody of the hostages a month ago. He has said repeatedly that the question of their release will be decided by the new Iranian Parliament, which is still in the process of being elected. But the U.S. government believes their transfer to the control of the Revolutionary Council would improve the conditions of their confinement and prospects for negotiations for their release.

ADVISE FEMALE HOSTAGES — The only women hostages among the 50 Americans being held by the Iranians are given counselling by Magr. Annibale Bugnini, left, and the Rev. Jack Bremer during an Easter Mass held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Sunday afternoon. The hostages are unidentified.

Carter discusses new sanctions against Iran with key advisers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter met with key advisers for 2½ hours this morning and planned "further consultations" later in the day as he weighed new economic and diplomatic sanctions against Iran.

Carter conferred with top national security and diplomatic aides after Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini blocked the latest effort to transfer control of U.S. hostages in Tehran to the Iranian government.

White House press secretary Jody Powell announced plans for additional talks during the afternoon and indicated he might have more to say later about an announcement of presidential decisions.

Talking briefly to reporters after he returned from an Easter weekend at Camp David, Md., a grim-looking Carter was asked whether he was about to invoke new sanctions.

"We'll be deciding that in a few minutes," Carter replied. The president went directly to his Oval Office, then to the nearby Cabinet Room for the session with most members of his National Security Council.

At one point, Carter remarked that the hostages' captors — he called them "terrorists" — had agreed to release their prisoners to the Iranian government "but the government refused." He did not elaborate.

Spokesman Powell said he did not know if the White House meeting would lead to an immediate announcement of U.S. retaliatory moves. But he suggested it might take some time to prepare to implement some unspecified decisions, indicating that could delay an announcement.

Powell said he knew of no plans for a presidential address to the nation.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and other officials spent part of their Easter Sunday preparing the list of potential sanctions for presentation to the president.

Although there was no suggestion that military action was contemplated, American Navy pilots on a carrier in the Indian Ocean were reported eager to bomb selected targets in Iran.

One official, who asked not to be identified, said in advance of today's meeting that, barring a sudden change for the better in Tehran, there was little doubt a package of sanctions would be adopted. The decision, he told The Associated Press Sunday afternoon, could come "within 24 hours."

In Tehran, meanwhile, the ruling Revolutionary Council reached a decision on a plan to transfer the 50 hostages from the control of the militants holding the U.S. Embassy to the government. But Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said the decision would not be revealed until Monday to give him and President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr time to present that decision to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini for his approval.

The Washington Post, quoting unnamed American officials, reported today that Carter would move ahead with sanctions unless the Revolutionary Council acted "within ... hours" to remove the Americans from the hands of the militants.

Twice before, the administration has considered, but postponed, imposing additional sanctions to allow mediation efforts and Iranian moderates a chance to find a way of freeing the hostages from their embassy captors.

In each case, in February and again last week, those efforts were thwarted by militant Islamic clergymen. By resisting the plan to transfer custody of the hostages, the clerics last week left the United States waiting for the election of the new Iranian parliament, which could not consider the hostage question until June at the earliest.

The sanctions under consideration would include, at the least, a U.S.-Iran trade embargo affecting all commodities except food and medicine plus further cuts in the number of Iranian diplomats allowed in the United States.

Terrorists attack Israeli nursery

KIBBUTZ MISGAV AM, Israel (AP) — Palestinian terrorists attacked a nursery in this kibbutz on the Israeli-Lebanese frontier today, killing an Israeli baby and two adults before troops stormed the building and killed all five Arab raiders and freed at least six hostages, the Israelis said. One of the adults killed was identified as the kibbutz leader, Sami Shani, slain in a counterattack he organized against the raiders holding the nursery. Four children, one adult and 11 soldiers were wounded, a military spokesman said.

All the Israeli civilian casualties came when the Lebanese-based terrorists shot their way into the hilltop frontier settlement shortly after midnight, the spokesman said.

Once inside the northern Galilee outpost, the Palestinians attacked a nursery where kibbutz children aged 1½ to 3 were sleeping with some of their mothers keeping watch, a member of the collective farm, identified only as Avi, said in an interview with the army radio.

The settlers had rescued a number of women and children from the two-story children's house before the troops arrived at the kibbutz, Avi said.

"Members of the kibbutz took one part of the nursery and freed three mothers and two children," Avi said. "We pushed them (the terrorists) into a second area but some children were left inside."

Avi said the terrorists demanded the release of Palestinian prisoners and a plane to fly them out of the country.

The troops stormed the building at about 10 a.m., Avi said, adding: "It didn't take long and it was a clean job."

In Beirut, Lebanon, the Iraqi-backed Arab Liberation Front claimed responsibility for the attack and said the raiders demanded the release of 50 Palestinian prisoners in Israel. The front, one of eight guerrilla groups in Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, said the raid marked the 33rd anniversary of the Arab Socialist Bath Party.

The attack on Misgav Am came on an Israeli national holiday, the last day of the seven day Passover observance marking the Israelites exodus from Egypt.

It also coincided with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's departure for Washington for talks with President Carter on the stalled Palestinian autonomy negotiations with Israel. Most Palestinians oppose the home-rule plan and guerrillas have staged a number of attacks in an effort to torpedo the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

AFTER ESCAPING ATTACK — A mother walks her daughter, Anat, away from the Kibbutz nursery at Misgav-Am which was attacked before dawn Monday by Palestinian terrorists who killed 3 Israelis including one child before being stormed by Israeli soldiers to end 9-hour siege. Anat was inside nursery during attack and still in shock as she was led away.

Eggleston top spender

County candidates file contributions report

By DON WOODS

Campaign financial statements filed Thursday in county office reveal W.R. "Bill" Marsalis received the largest amount of contributions with $1,145. Largest amount was spent by B.L. "Bill" Eggleston with $1,781.

Statements are filed 30 days before the election and again one week before in the Howard County clerk's office. The election is May 3.

A total of 17 candidates are in the running for seven county offices. The seven offices are sheriff, justice of the peace, place 1 precinct 1, tax assessor-collector, county commissioner precinct 3 and precinct 1, and county attorney.

John Burson, candidate for sheriff, received $1,045 from 18 contributors. Those contributing over $100 were himself, $225; Sam Robertson, $100 and Wendell Shive, $100.

Campaign expenses as of Thursday for Burson were $963.

Candidate for sheriff B.L. "Bill" Eggleston filed no contributors and $1,781 for campaign expenses. Expenses included $114.72 for car repair and $67 for gasoline. Car repairs were done by Bill's Wrecking Service, Eggleston's business. Eggleston said his transmission went out while soliciting votes in the county. The amount spent for gas was used while soliciting votes, he said.

Incumbent Sheriff A.N. Standard received contributions from two; J.V. Cherry, $100; and Bill Fryar, $100. He spent a total of $772.22 in his campaign to date.

Filing fee for the sheriff's race is $300 and was paid by each.

In the justice of the peace race, incumbent candidate Bob West received no contributions and spent $856.36 to date in his campaign.

Walter Grise, justice of the peace candidate, received no contributions and had expenses totaling to date $307.

Candidate Raul Marquez received no contributions and has spent $694.92.

W.R. "Bill" Marsalis, candidate, received contributions from three over $100. They are Neal Cook, $500; T. Thomas, $100; W.R. Marsalis, $125;

Hubert Hall, $135; and Marsalis, $200. Total contributions total $1,145. Expenditures to date total $899.42.

Filing fee in the race is $200 and was paid by all four candidates.

In the tax assessor-collector race, Dorothy Moore has received no contributions and spent $1,108.12. Dorothy Bennett received $500 in contributions from S.L. McMurtrey. Mrs. Bennett has expenditures totaling $1,093.91.

Filing fees of $300 were filed by both candidates.

In the county commissioner precinct 3 race, Dick Nichols has five contributors, all contributing over $100. They are F. Roman, $100; Mrs. Oliver Nichols, $116.94; C. Nichols, $100; Myrtle Nichols, $150; and B. Fryar, $101. Contributions totaled $567.94. Expenditures to date total $457.65.

Incumbent Bill Crocker has received no contributions and made one expenditure; $300 for a filing fee.

Both candidates included their filing fee in the expenses.

In the commissioner precinct 1 race, Hershel L. Eason has received no contributions and has expenditures of $1,352.79.

Incumbent O.L. "Louis" Brown also had no contributors and spent to date $393.92.

Candidate Bruce Parker had no contributors and expenses in his campaign of $680.70.

A $300 filing fee was included in expenses of all three commission precinct 1 candidates.

In the county attorney's race, Candidate Fred L. Coleman has received contributions from two people $100 or over. They are W.D. Miller, $100; Sam Furness, $110. Campaign expenses for Coleman total $567.00 to date.

Candidate Robert D. Miller received four contributions of $100 or over. They include himself, a $250 loan; R.E. McClure, $100; C.G. Milstrap, $100 and Travis Floyd, $100. Expenditures to date total $561.85.

Neither candidate included filing fees in their expenses.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Fishing for free

Q. Are there any states where a person over 65 can fish without getting a license for that state? If so, which states are they? We realize you can fish in Texas if you are over 65 without buying a license, but I don't know about any other states.

A. A Wildlife Conservation spokesman and Herald Photographer Bill Forshee, who envisions himself as a veteran angler but not yet 65, said they don't think any state (surrounding or otherwise) permitted out-of-state residents of any age to fish without buying some type of license.

The money going into any state's wildlife conservation program is from taxes paid by the residents of that state. Many states allow their own senior citizens, who've paid the state's taxes most of their lives to fish for free once they're older than 65. There's no reason to let senior citizens from other states do so.

Calendar: LVs to meet

TODAY

A meeting has been scheduled by the LV Nurses Association for 7:30 p.m. at the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Spring City Theater will hold its monthly meeting, 7:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce.

TUESDAY

All students in the Big Spring Independent School District will be returning to classes Tuesday from their Easter vacation.

Tops on TV: Live Texas play

Henry Fonda stars in a play referring to a fictitious town between Big Spring and Colorado City. The play is broadcast live from Dallas at 8 p.m. on NBC. It deals with a cantankerous colonel with cherished memories from his years at a military academy and his struggle with an opportunistic son. Lou Grant is up to his old tricks on CBS at 9 p.m.

Inside: Precaution wasted

ALL OF HER LIFE, Debbie Martinson lived in fear of strangers, and told friends she sometimes slept under the bed when her husband was gone. Last week, she was murdered in her home. See page 5-A.

AFGHAN REBELS capture a Soviet air base 23 miles north of Kabul and kill a Russian general, Radio Pakistan reports, but it doesn't say whether the rebels were able to hold the military base. See page 4-B.

Outside: Dusty day

Sunny with possible blowing dust this afternoon. Fair through Tuesday. Cooling trend Tuesday. High today in the upper 70s, low tonight in the upper 30s. High Tuesday in the mid 70s. Winds will be from the northwest at 15 to 25 mph this afternoon, 5 to 10 mph tonight. Lake wind advisories in effect.

Firestone, UAW to meet

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. and the United Auto Workers are scheduled to resume their talks Tuesday over the company's plans to close six tire plants.

The union objects to Firestone's calling the move — which will idle a total of 8,500 workers at plants in Barberton, Akron and Dayton, Ohio; Los Angeles and Salinas, Calif., and Pottstown, Pa. — "irreversible."

That description violates the contract provision that requires the company to negotiate to save the plants, said union leader Peter Bommarito.

Choir sings with conviction

MIAMI (AP) — A 12-member choir sang with "conviction" in its debut at the Dade County Stockade.

Composed of individuals jailed for such crimes as grand theft and battery, the inmate choir was decked out in red robes given by a local church and black patent leather shoes once worn by police officers.

More than 100 relatives, friends, fellow inmates and local officials, including Dade County Mayor Steve Clark, attended the 1½-hour Easter Sunday gospel concert by the choir which calls itself the Chosen Few.

Fire damages three houses

PEAKS ISLAND, Maine (AP) — Officials are investigating fires over the weekend that caused an estimated $85,000 damage to three houses on this island while the community's new fire engine was back on the mainland.

Officials said two of the fires, which broke out late Friday and Saturday, may have been arson.

The island's 1,000-gallon pumper was shipped to an auto dealership in Portland about three weeks ago for warranty work. It was scheduled to make the 15-minute ferry trip back to the island Friday, but was delayed until Saturday.

Mountain climber found

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — The body of a 23-year-old mountain climber was recovered near the top of 3,600-foot El Capitan nine days after he began his solo ascent up the vertical cliff, park officials said.

A Yosemite National Park Service spokeswoman said a Navy helicopter lowered rescuers Sunday to a ledge about 250 feet from the top of the granite peak to recover the body of David Kays of LaVerne, Calif.

Kays still had rappelling gear around his waist which was secured to ropes so he wouldn't fall, the spokeswoman said. The cause of death was not known and an autopsy was to be performed.

Sadness, souvenirs

Love, oh love, oh lost love

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Memories of a blissful week in 1923, haunted Quintinn Roberts until she decided it wasn't too late to find the young, handsome man with whom she had fallen in love.

The 86-year-old woman launched a search from her Long Beach, Calif., home, for the man she knew as Floyd Patrick Chambers. The search took a Baptist minister friend, the Rev. Dave Sisson, to Kansas City last week to check records in an effort to learn Chambers' whereabouts.

But on Saturday, Miss Roberts learned that her memories and an old photograph on her bureau will be the only souvenir of their week-long romance in 1923. A sister of Chambers said he died in 1963.

"Well, it's nice to have something settled in my mind about what happened to Pat," Miss Roberts said by telephone, adding that all she has now is "memories, four letters and a beautiful picture I say good-night to every night."

Sisson came to Kansas City on Friday to try to unearth some clue to the fate of Miss Roberts' remembered love, and the Kansas City Times on Saturday published a story about the search.

Ann Chambers Russell saw the story and called the newspaper, saying the description and photograph of the man in the story matched that of one of her older brothers who died 17 years ago.

"It sounded like my brother, but his name was Ira Patrick Chambers," Mrs. Russell said. "It's probably him because he never did like his first name and went by his second name most of the time instead."

She said a picture that accompanied the story also led her to conclude that her brother, who was buried in Stewart, Tenn., was the object of Miss Roberts' search.

Miss Roberts was a nurse at an El Paso, Texas, hospital when she met Chambers in June 1923. Records show Chambers was a clerk at a Kansas City bank before going to El Paso for treatment of a lung condition.

The couple fell in love immediately and spent a week together, dancing every night, Miss Roberts said. After that week, she went on to California with a girlfriend, as previously planned, and he stayed behind in El Paso. They exchanged letters for several years, but finally, she lost track of him.

Miss Roberts said she thought about Chambers "off and on for a long time," but lost most of his letters. She said memories of their love affair have come back only in the last year. After putting Chambers' picture on her bureau several months ago, she began her search.

Police beat Bullets whiz in local park

Comanche Trail Park turned into being an unsafe place to spend an Easter weekend for two Spring City residents.

Felix Garcia of 811 N. Goliad was driving through the park area around 7 p.m. Sunday when a bullet struck the driver's side window of his vehicle and exited through the front windshield.

Rojalio Monje of 1005 E. 13th reported someone fired a shot at him around 7 p.m. Sunday while he was near the swimming park area in Comanche Trail Park.

Criminal activity hit the Holiday Inn on Highway 80 East. Linda Kiffe of Kamas, Utah, reported Sunday that someone stole a ladies diamond ring from her hotel room.

Two men were caught with stolen credit cards at the Holiday Inn Saturday night. Two Big Spring residents were victimized by red spray paint Saturday night.

Sidney David Faulkenberry of 603 Elgin reported someone had sprayed red paint on his truck around 9 p.m. Saturday.

Donnie Shanks of 606 Linda Lane reported a similar case of criminal mischief, which occurred reportedly between 8 and 9 p.m.

Police arrested a 21-year-old man Sunday in the 1500 block of Gregg for driving a vehicle, which was reported stolen by Quality Transport.

Two assaults occurred in City Jail Sunday morning. There were four cases of vandalism reported occurring this weekend.

The C & G Quik Stop, No. 1 on 410 Marcy had a plate glass door broken around 10 p.m. Sunday.

Boydston School at 6th and Owens reported Sunday five windows were broken.

John Craig Beckmyer of Ackerly reported someone sometime this weekend had punctured a tire on his vehicle, while it was parked on the Malone-Hogan Hospital parking lot.

Pearley May Lister of 902 NW 2, Apt. No. 4 reported a subject known to her broke a 12 in. by 12 in. glass window at her residence.

Four automobile mishaps occurred between Saturday evening and Sunday night.

A vehicle driven by Albert Riley, 57, of 610 1/2 11th Place drove upon an embankment about 6:20 p.m. Sunday after turning left from E. 12th to S. Goliad.

A vehicle driven by Sheri Herl, 19, of Barcelona Apartments, No. 237 drove off the road into a ditch Sunday morning as it was traveling east on FM 700.

A vehicle driven by Elva Lollar, 58, of 1312 Elm backed into a vehicle driven by Helen White of Sterling City about 6:40 p.m. Saturday at the 300 block of W. 19th.

A vehicle driven by Antonio Chavez, 40, of 410 NW 9th collided about 12 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Gregg and N.W. 6th with a vehicle driven by Nathaniel Wamen, 67, of 904 N.W. 2nd.

HC to host in-service training conference

Southwest College for the Deaf will host an in-service training conference for education diagnosticians for the Deaf Thursday and Friday in the Tumbleweed Room of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard College, according to Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College.

Douglas Burke, executive director of Southwest College for the Deaf and one of the training consultants for the conference explained that there will be approximately 50 trainees in attendance from the various Regional Education Programs for the Deaf throughout Texas.

According to Harriet Kaberline, director of the conference sponsored by The Education Service Center, Region XV of San Angelo, the conference will focus on the assessment of handicapped students and its usefulness in assessing deaf students.

Consultants for the conference will be Douglas

Burke, executive director of SWCD; James Gilliam, University of Texas-Austin; Carlene Dennis, diagnostician from Fort Worth RDSPD; Mary Esther Vasys from Trinity University-San Antonio; and Conference Coordinator, Harriet Kaberline, of the Education Service Center, Region XV in San Angelo.

Care for aged second only to national defense

Nine out of 10 Alabama residents believe using public funds to provide benefits for older persons is a "good idea" according to a University of Alabama survey. Replies from more than 1,000 households ranked care for the elderly second only to national defense in priorities for spending public funds.

The survey was conducted by mailing questionnaires to households representing all geographic regions, age groups and economic levels. The research was directed by David L. Klemmack and Lucinda Lee Roff of the University's Center for the Study of Aging with a research grant from the American Association of Retired Persons — National Retired Teachers' Association and its Foundation. The two associations have more than 86,000 Alabama members.

Aid for the elderly out-ranked such budget items as aid to education (from universities down to elementary schools), the judicial system, roads and highways, and programs to attract industry to the state. Eighty-five per cent of the persons questioned considered attainment of age 60 a satisfactory eligibility requirement for aid.

Two out of every three persons responding to the questionnaire favored use of tax dollars to fund special programs for persons age 60 years of age and older. Ranked in order of preference were: Medicare, exemption from sales tax on drug purchases, RSVP, senior centers, reduced property taxes, income tax exemption, programs for recreation, education and transportation. Programs generally viewed as providing alternatives to institutionalization (home health care, home delivered meals, day care centers for adults, help in doing home repairs, and help in doing housework), received relatively low ratings. In their report, researchers said that "perhaps respondents believed that these services would better be provided by non-governmental sources."

Alcoholism seminar to be held at BSSH

The Big Spring State Hospital will conduct its 44th alcoholism seminar on Friday. It will be held in the auditorium at the Big Spring State Hospital.

These seminars are made possible through the Big Spring State Hospital and are being held in conjunction with Howard College.

G. Dick Miller, Ph.D., Clinical Psychologist in private practice, formerly Assistant Director of Rehabilitation Studies at North Texas State University, Irving, Texas, will be the consultant for this day-long seminar.

This seminar will be of interest to those working in the field of alcoholism and to those of the general public, who are interested in learning more about this problem.

Registration will begin at 8 a.m., and the general session will begin at 9 a.m. A registration fee of $1 will be charged, with an additional charge of $1 for those wishing to receive continuing education credit for attendance will be expected to remain the entire day.)

The theme for the day will be: "Confrontation Skills: Dealing with Alcohol Denial."

Additional information may be obtained from Mr. Clyde J. Alsop, Training Officer, Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Program, Big Spring State Hospital.

Deaths

ROY REEDER R.B. Reeder

Services for Roy B. Reeder, 78, who died at 4:15 a.m. Sunday in a local hospital, of a long illness, will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be in the Trinity Memorial Park. Born July 8, 1901, in Howard County, Ark., he grew up in Dierks, Ark. He attended Draughns Business College in Abilene and was an instructor there for several years. Later he was a bookkeeper for a motor company at Baird, while there, he married Lois Johnson on March 15, 1930. They lived in Amarillo a short time before they came to Big Spring in 1934 and established Reeder and Associates, a real estate and insurance firm. Mr. Reeder was associated in business with Coy Nalley briefly in 1943. Mr. and Mrs. Reeder remained active in the insurance and real estate business until selling to Bill Estes and Bill Johnson in 1963. Mrs. Reeder died Nov. 24, 1971.

He then married Janie Smith April 21, 1972 in Big Spring. They made their home much of the time at

Ark.; three step grandchildren; a step great-grandchild; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers will be Sidney Clark, Duayne Fraser, Lonnie Coker, Robert Stripling, John Davis, Clyde Waits, Merrill Creighton, Clyde Angel, Bill Estes, Bill McRee and K.H. McGibbon. Honorary pallbearers will be deacons of the First Baptist Church, Gideons and the Big Spring Shrine Club.

The family requests any memorials be in the form of contributions to the Gideons or the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital.

Shaws woo county voters Saturday

VOTE SEEKING — Delano Shaw, National Democratic delegate and the uncle of State House candidate Larry D. Shaw, approaches a voter at city hall Saturday to give him campaign literature. The Shaw family and about 10 campaign workers worked the voting polls Saturday for Larry D. Shaw's upcoming Democratic Primary race.

By STEVE HERSHBERGER "Hi! I'm Larry Don Shaw. I'm running for state representative."

As Big Spring voters went to the polls Saturday, they saw a group of enthusiastic workers handing out campaign literature and cards. The supporters were working for Larry Don Shaw of the Knott and Ackerly area, who was trying to communicate his candidacy for another election — the upcoming May 3 Democratic Primary.

Shaw is challenging incumbent State Representative Mike Ezzell of Snyder. By winning in May, Shaw is assured election to the Texas House next November. With a month to go in that election, Shaw, his mother, Bertie, two uncles, Delano and Roosevelt, and about 10 campaign supporters fanned out to the five city polling places, telling voters of their candidate, the young farmer from north Howard County.

Shaw's father would have come to Big Spring and campaigned Saturday, but he was busy working as an election official at Knott, Bertie Shaw said.

Standing outside the polling places, Larry Don Shaw was given the opportunity to meet personally a large segment of the voting population. About 4,000 pieces of literature were given out, the candidate estimated.

This technique will be used in conjunction with door-to-door campaigning in south Big Spring, he said.

"We have saved about 8.5 cents (per voter) by doing this," Shaw said of his at-the-poll campaigning.

The Shaw campaign workers met early Saturday morning, around 8:30, in the candidate's office. They organized and then went to the five different voting precincts.

Roosevelt Shaw was stationed at the 11th and Birdwell Fire Station. Delano Shaw worked the city hall polling place. The candidate himself was at the Big Spring High School Vocational Building, where voters were choosing board members for Howard College and the Big Spring School boards.

Later in the day, the Shaw campaign consolidated forces and moved to the high school.

The response was positive, all the Shaw campaigners agreed.

"I had only one who flat told me 'no,'" Roosevelt Shaw said.

Perryman faces robbery trial

Jury selection is under way this morning for the trial of Jimmy Nathaniel Perryman, indicted for armed robbery of McDonald's.

Perryman allegedly committed the robbery Jan. 14 and was arrested the same day after a chase. A jury panel was also being picked this morning in 118th District Court for a civil trial.

Weather

Fog, light drizzle reduce visibility

By the Associated Press
Fog and light drizzle hovered over parts of South Central Texas and coastal sections early today, reducing visibility to less than one mile.

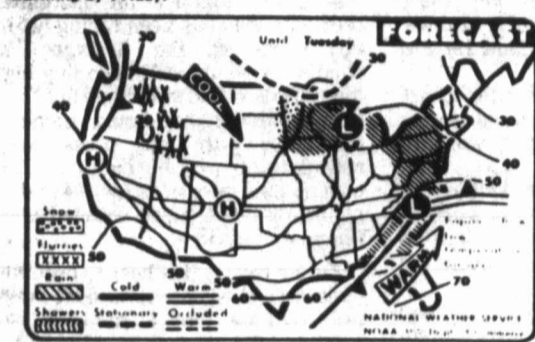

Over the western half, skies were mostly clear with a few scattered clouds.

A slow-moving front located from Wichita Falls to Del Rio separated the warm, humid air in East Texas from the milder, drier conditions in the west.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged mostly in the 40s and 50s in West Texas to the 60s and low 70s in the east. Marfa was the coolest spot in Texas with 37 degrees, and Brownsville was the warmest with 74.

The National Weather Service called for cloudy skies to continue through Tuesday with scattered thundershowers and light drizzle in Southeast Texas.

Sunny skies and light winds were expected to dominate western sections.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the forecast period, today until Tuesday morning, for most of the Atlantic coast states, the Great Lakes, Minnesota and northern Iowa. Snow flurries are forecast for the northern Rockies. Cool but sunny weather is expected for most of the country. Warm weather is forecast for the eastern Gulf and Florida.

Two Colombian hostages reject offered freedom

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Leftist guerrillas freed three more hostages from the Dominican Republic's Embassy on Easter Sunday, but two Colombians among the 20 remaining were reported to have rejected freedom because they expect to make money by staying where they are.

The two reluctant were photographer Jorge Guzman and Luis Valencia, one of the city's best-known gate crashers who puts out a free, irregularly published paper called Diplomatic World.

Guzman, who sold seven rolls of film he took in the embassy for $22,000, anticipates more pictures and more sales. Valencia, who crashed the embassy's independence day reception and was caught there when the leftist guerrillas also came uninvited, is reported planning to write a book on the siege.

The 18 other hostages who today went into their 41st day of captivity were U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, 12 other ambassadors or charges d'affaires and five consuls.

After freeing 26 hostages during the first month of the siege, the guerrillas said they would release all who were not diplomats during Holy Week because of the Roman Catholic Church's fight for the "oppressed" in Latin America.

Two were turned loose on Palm Sunday, two on Holy Thursday and two on Good Friday. The three who emerged on Easter were Albert Byfield, the honorary Jamaican consul; Tito Livio Tiburcio, a Dominican, and Guillermo Triana Ayala, a protocol officer of the Colombian Foreign Ministry.

Among the diplomats held is the papal nuncio, or ambassador, to Colombia, Monsignor Angelo Acerbi. He celebrated Mass on Easter for the captives and their captors, as he does every day.

The guerrillas and the government scheduled their 11th negotiating session this afternoon. A government spokesman said the negotiations "are entering a clearer phase as both parties begin to examine each other's proposed formulas, which have been obtained in writing."

The guerrillas, who are members of an organization called Movement 19, or M-19, have given no indication of reducing their demand for the release of 28 jailed leftists in exchange for the hostages.

Although the guerrillas reduced their list of leftists whose freedom was demanded from 311 to 28, the government has never retreated from its position that is not constitutionally able to free any of them by executive order because they are held for common crimes, not for their political beliefs.

Informed sources say the government has made two alternative proposals.

One is to transfer the trials of some of the 305 suspected guerrillas from military to civilian courts. Along with giving the defendants the additional safeguards of civilian justice, this would mean the immediate release of those who have been held six months without trial.

Activity may be leveling off in U.S. volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Seismic activity at Mount St. Helens, the long-dormant volcano that has caused an eruption of excitement since it began belching ash, steam and gas nearly two weeks ago, may be leveling off, scientists say.

The drop in movement over the weekend contrasts with Thursday and Friday when harmonic tremors — rhythmic seismic activity as opposed to conventional earthquakes — were interpreted to mean a violent lava eruption was imminent.

But there was still plenty of activity at the southwest Washington peak, scientists said. Several earthquakes that measured more than 4.0 on the Richter scale, a level of ground motion, rocked the mountain on Easter Sunday and new ash settled on the volcano, authorities said.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas led the nation in cases of rabies in animals in 1979 and has had 244 confirmed cases this year, the State Health Department reported Saturday.

The 1,195 laboratory-confirmed rabies cases last year represented 23 percent of the nation's total, the department said.

You help buy food for big spenders

Washington is a community populated by the high rollers, the big spenders — those people who either have it made financially or are well on their way toward feathering their nests.

Salaries invariably are high in the nation's capital, but then so are expenses. Those in government and those supported by government subsidies and those who benefit from government tax breaks expect to pay for services rendered.

IT IS GRATIFYING to report, however, that there are areas not affected by double digit inflation. For instance, how would you like to get a complete breakfast of eggs, sausage, toast, fruit juice and all the coffee you want for $1.25, or a complete lunch for $2.75?

Such bargains are available in the Pentagon, but don't bother to make reservations. These dining halls are restricted to top military and civilian brass who earn between $45,000 and $70,000 a year.

How can they keep prices so low, you ask? Easy. The restaurants are subsidized by the taxpayers to the tune of $1.2 million a year.

UPWARDS TO 400 ADMIRALS, generals and other top-ranked military and civilian Defense Department personnel regularly eat things like Delmonico steaks to file of sole in any one of five dining rooms in the building.

Some of the real stars in the Pentagon have their meals brought to their desks, so demanding is their work, but they still benefit from the reduced prices.

The wheeler-dealers don't eat out of paper plates, either. The meals invariably are served in gold-rimmed china by blue-jacketed waiters. Fresh flowers usually adorn each crispy starched tablecloth.

What is the price of food in neighboring restaurants? A steak that costs $2.65 in the Pentagon will set you back $4 in a nearby Bonanza.

PENTAGON OFFICIALS say the prices charged in the building's five dining rooms cover the cost of the food and other supplies. Taxpayers, however, foot the bill for the people who prepare the food — the chefs, the cooks, the waiters and maintenance personnel.

What is the rationale behind the idea of keeping dining areas in the building? Officials say they are necessary to provide a "secure" area in which top military officials can talk about military matters over lunch.

The House Appropriations Committee apparently doesn't subscribe to the story. Several years ago, spokesmen for the committee said the cost of maintaining the dining halls was prohibitive and should be sharply reduced. The panel argued that the dining room could be consolidated for use by the various services rather than each branch having its own.

That will likely happen when Khomeini is appointed Iranian ambassador to the United States.

In the meantime, enjoy your liver and onions.

Problem is Ted

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

"Teddy! Teddy! Ted-dee!" the crowd screamed as he approached the podium one brisk day in 1972.

The crowd went wild as Kennedy rose to speak in behalf of the candidate he was with, George McGovern. People were wondering who the crowd really came out to see, Kennedy, or McGovern. The two were taking a swing through the eastern states in the latter part of the campaign.

Frank Rizzo, then the mayor of Philadelphia refused to come out of his office in City Hall for the rally that was held at a major intersection of the city, right near his ivory tower. He was a great supporter of Richard Nixon. Rizzo always spouted off at the mouth and that day was no exception, saying something to the effect that if Kennedy hadn't shown up, there would have been a much smaller crowd at the rally. This time he was probably right.

That was three years after Chappaquiddick. It was still too soon to run for office, but his popularity was still high.

What happened? How can a man who has been speculated on as to whether he will run through four elections do so badly once he decides to accept the challenge?

Since a large percentage of the voting population agrees with him on many of the issues, what is the problem? Part of it is Kennedy himself, his family and to a large extent, the press and the voters, who feel a Kennedy has a right. With all the brothers it went from the right to become president, to the right to become the party's nominee and now it seems, the right to try. And that's about it.

Fortunately or unfortunately for Kennedy, he is following a "legend." Fortunately, because he is being given a chance he normally wouldn't have gotten, just by serving in the senate, which was his first public office. Even so, most critics would agree he has been a much better senator than either of his brothers. Unfortunately, because of his private life, he hasn't lived up to "the legend."

When you carry the name of Edward Kennedy, you get the roses and the daggers which another politician probably would never get. The public could forgive almost anything he did, if it hadn't been for Chappaquiddick. Now they're wondering if he is stable. He might be wondering why the public can't put it out of their minds. I wonder if he forgets that had it been any other politician, it would have been all over in July, 1969.

It seems those who couldn't have cared less about Chappaquiddick 11 years ago, are beginning to care now. And his other pranks over the years have all added up to make a losing candidate.

Had Kennedy decided not to run this year, against an incumbent president who has been hiding behind the skirts of the hostages, his popularity would still be riding high, the crowds would still come out to see the candidate he would come to campaign with, the press would speculate on why he didn't run and question his intentions for '84 and the public wouldn't be as worried about Chappaquiddick.

But he didn't. He chose to become a candidate. And now, he and his family are learning that a Kennedy isn't forgiven for everything. Instead of being given the right to become president, or the nominee, or a candidate he is only being given the privilege of becoming a nominee. And only because his name is Kennedy.

Chappaquiddick happened close to six months after one assassination and 11 months after the other. The assassinations were so long ago, but after 11 years, Chappaquiddick is still too close.

Now, after 11 years, we're finding out what we knew that day in Philly eight years ago. It was, and is, still too soon for him to run for president.

If Kennedy throws his arms up in disgust to ask when it won't be too soon, he might do well to look at the counted votes. The answer just might be never.

Carter syndrome

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — President Carter's disavowal last week of his three-month-old confession that the Invasion of Afghanistan changed his view of "ultimate" Soviet goals followed a familiar pattern of reshaping positions to his political needs, a syndrome newly apparent in his treatment of germ warfare charges against Moscow.

In an interview with the Washington Post's Meg Greenfield, Carter denied he had ever admitted changing his own mind about the Soviets' "ultimate goals" as a result of Afghanistan. In fact, on Dec. 31, following the Soviet invasion, Carter declared over ABC television that Afghanistan "made a more dramatic change in my opinion of what the Soviets' ultimate goals are than anything they have done" during his administration.

THUS, CARTER'S syndrome: What he says for immediate political impact one day, he denies the next under the stress of changed political needs. The result is that U.S. policy becomes hostage to instant political requirements. That has infuriated U.S. allies, confounded U.S. enemies and consigned Carter's real policy to the murky world of make-believe.

The Carter syndrome has been tripping him and his country in foreign policy for three years, but never so consistently as in these days of the Soviet global offensive and the Carter re-election drive.

On Jan. 23, one month after Afghanistan, the president sounded a call to arms in his State of the Union message. It is "imperative," he said, that Congress approve a 1981 defense bill equal to "a 5 percent real growth in authorizations without any reduction."

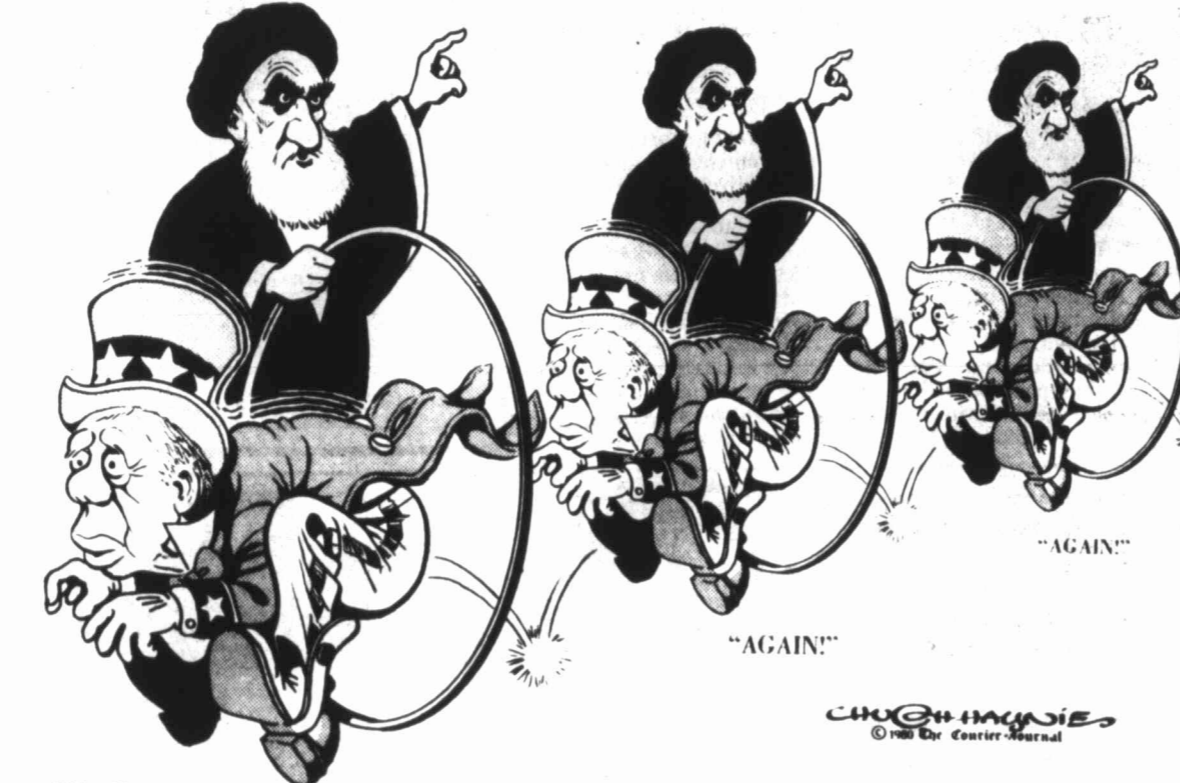

When Carter's budget revisions reached the House Armed Services Committee March 31, he called for a 2 percent real growth. In just three months, the president's perception of political reality had caused him to downgrade drastically what he had told Congress was an "imperative" of military preparedness.

The case of alleged Soviet violations of the 1972 treaty banning biological (germ) warfare also has triggered the syndrome. When the allegations about violations were first heard by Carter last spring, he turned a deaf ear. He did so not because the suspicions had been disproved, but because he did not want to harm his cherished strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT II).

Any proof that Moscow has violated the insistent and specific terms of the germ warfare treaty would have made SALT II its first casualty. So, the wraps were on; the explosion in a suspected biological warfare plant in the closed city of Sverdlovsk, nearly 1,000 miles east of Moscow, was given the quick brush.

Afghanistan changed everything. Suddenly, the same circumstances deemed inadmissible for U.S. scrutiny only months earlier were perceived said a State Department spokesman as having caused "substantial numbers of fatalities perhaps running into the hundreds."

But will Carter insist tomorrow, as he does today, on uncovering the truth about the alleged Sverdlovsk treaty violation? The State Department says he will. The president's record of making policy according to political needs of the moment strongly argues that he will not.

THE L.A. TIMES SYNDICATE

Spleen can be troublemaker

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My wife got out of the hospital and they told her she had the following:

Severe leukopenia (white cell count of 500), also acute arthritis and thrombocytopenia. The term "Felt's syndrome" was used. What do the words "leukopenia" and "thrombocytopenia" mean? Can you help explain all this? — S.R.

Let's begin with Felt's syndrome. As the word syndrome implies, it is a group of conditions that occur simultaneously, in this case rheumatoid arthritis, spleen enlargement and a low white blood count (the leukopenia). Other blood changes are found, the anemia and thrombocytopenia, the latter being a lowered number of clotting elements (platelets). That should clear up most of the confusing terminology for you.

We do not know why all these changes occur in some people who have rheumatoid arthritis, but we know that a consequence of the blood changes, chiefly the low white blood cell count, can be repeated infections. If that is a problem, removal of the spleen is often the answer. The white cell count rises after removal, as do the red cell and thrombocyte counts.

Not everyone with Felt's syndrome needs spleen removal. Sometimes the changes are not serious enough to warrant it. A remarkable thing about the spleen, as you may know, is that it can be removed and its duties taken over by other body systems, a remarkable achievement in biological engineering. (See next item for more.)

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 82 and in excellent health, but recently I was told I am anemic. My red count is low. In the hospital it was found that my spleen was enlarged and was destroying the red blood cells. Please explain how this happens. — Mrs. L.M.I.

During fetal development (in the womb) the spleen's job is to make red blood cells. After birth the spleen's duty changes. It becomes a scavenger, destroying old, worn out red blood cells. It does this by turning into a large spongy filter.

The spleen may become a bit carried away with its responsibility and begin removing too many blood cells indiscriminately — whether "worn out" or not. Of course, the result is a red blood cell deficiency. At times, removal of the spleen is necessary.

As noted in the preceding letter (from S.R.) the spleen has a second important function. It becomes an armory of protective weapons (antibodies) for use against invading germs.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would cervicitis eventually lead to cancer? Is there some treatment for it? — Mrs. R.E.E.

Cervicitis is inflammation (itis) of the cervix, which is the lower section of the uterus. Doctors can find some signs of inflammation in most women. The vagina is laden with bacteria because the mucus-producing glands in the area make it a good place for the growth of bacteria. So the important thing is the severity of the inflammation, also the germ causing it.

Often no treatment is required if symptoms are mild. If there is a great deal of discharge or if the surface of the cervix is eroded, then vaginal suppositories, cautery (burning) of the area, or antibiotics by mouth may be required.

No one can tell you with confidence whether or not such an inflammation would ever lead to malignancy. It is difficult to establish cause and effect in such matters. Millions of women have some degree of cervicitis. Certainly, some might eventually have cancer of the cervix. Many, many more will not, so it is almost impossible to say cervicitis leads to cancer.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have always wanted to lose some weight. I just could not do it. Bill, how I have lost quite a bit by taking laxatives after I eat anything. I was wondering if this is harmful medically. I do have a heart problem. — K.R.K.

That's a perfectly awful thing to do. You are going to ruin the normal motor activity of your intestines. Get a sensible diet. I wish you'd have asked me BEFORE you began this nonsense. I can't predict any heart affects, but they would not be good if there were any.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can read about the causes — and cures — for this troublesome complaint in the booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get a copy, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Does everyone need vitamins? — N.G.

Yes, and that's why we eat food. If you mean does everyone need vitamin supplements, the answer is no.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. W.B.W. — Your husband's failure to ejaculate can be either psychological or physical. Psychological reasons for this are more common. You mention his loss of interest in sex. That itself can indicate that his problem is not physical.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Several of us are concerned about the growing availability of pornography in our community. Do you think we should be concerned? What can we do about it? — Mrs. T.S.S.

DEAR MRS. T.S.S.: Yes, you should be concerned. The widespread availability of pornography today has an inevitable effect on the morals and attitudes of a community. This attitude of easy tolerance will only encourage those who want to push other kinds of filth and evil. Such things will particularly affect young people in a community. As a Christian you should be concerned about every kind of evil, and do what you can to combat it.

I suggest you get together with others who share your concern. I would not be in a position to advise you about what can be done specifically; you and others who band together will need to seek expert advice. It may well be that your community already has laws which limit pornography, but they are not being enforced because no one is speaking out on the issue. Whatever you do, be sure you have all the facts and know what your rights are, as well as the rights of others who may disagree with you.

You should also seek to deal with this problem on another, more personal level. Within your family be sure that you encourage a wholesomeness and openness about such things as sex. Pornography is wrong for many reasons, but one of the most serious is that it treats other people as objects to be used selfishly for one's self gratification. It is the opposite of the Christian view of love, which seeks to do that which is best for the other person. Our young people need to see true love in our lives and be taught the wonder of human love — love given to us by God.

Lost alliance

LONDON — "I think we just made a mess of it," the British foreign secretary, Lord Carrington, said the other day about cooperation between the U.S. and its allies in responding to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. Given that frank spirit, it is possible, after talks with leading officials, to see how the alliance lost its way.

Basically the West Germans, the French and the British governments did their own thing—reacting to the trouble in ways consistent with their national and political interests. They did not pull together with the U.S., and are still not pulling together, because Washington never defined a track which drew them toward joint effort of a serious kind.

West Germany counts as its special interest the maintenance of its eastern policy—or Ostpolitik. Sixteen million other Germans live under communist domination in the state of the east. Berlin is always up for grabs. Important business is to be done with the other countries of Eastern Europe, and with the Soviet Union. So Bonn has a vital national interest in maintaining ties with Moscow.

CHANCELLOR HELMUT SCHMIDT has a special political stake in the Soviet connection. The Ostpolitik separates his coalition government from the uncompromising anti-communists in the Christian Democratic opposition. It enables him to hold by his side the left wing of his own Social Democratic Party. With national elections coming on October 5, both objectives are crucial.

So when the Afghanistan invasion occurred, Schmidt's first concern was to save his Ostpolitik from overreaction by Washington. He visited the White House earlier this month ready to pay a high price. He was prepared to give the U.S. major support in Turkey or Pakistan, or even to put pressure on radical states such as Libya and South Yemen. When all he was asked to do was boycott the Olympics, he acceded with alacrity. Since then he has been busy cultivating economic ties with Moscow, and protecting political ties with East Germany. All the while he has been saying—for him—very nice things about President Carter.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France has the formidable problem of following in the footsteps of Gen. de Gaulle. He has to make his country count for something in the affairs of the world and in a way that is different from the U.S. That national expectation is reinforced by his political interest to neutralize large blocs of Gaullist and communist voters in the presidential elections next year.

The bent of France, in these conditions, is to go into business on its own. The French president has done exactly that.

He cultivated Iran by protecting the Ayatollah Khomeini during his period in exile. He endeared himself to Saudi Arabia by sending troops to help put down the troubles in Mecca. He furnished weapons-grade material for a nuclear reactor to Iraq; and jet war planes. Most recently he has embraced the cause of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

When asked about common objectives, the French claim that the connections they make in Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and with the PLO will help the U.S. once Washington starts to become serious about achieving security in the Persian Gulf area. Such security, the French argue, can be obtained by following another French lead—a deal with Moscow whereby the Russians pull out of Afghanistan and give that country some kind of neutral status.

BRITAIN'S INTEREST IS TO be middle man between the U.S., on one hand, and the French and the Germans on the other. In that way London will maximize its special relation with Washington and its standing with the European Economic Community where it has big fish to fry. In the same way, and not so coincidentally, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher can show that she is a true Tory, able to stand by the American connection and get the most out of the Europeans.

So Mrs. Thatcher tooted the American horn by giving rhetorical support to a tough stance on Iran and Afghanistan. Lord Carrington sounded the European note by pushing the French idea of neutralizing Afghanistan. Together they are using North Sea oil to try out of the French and Germans a much better deal on the financial terms of British membership in the Common Market.

The upshot is what Lord Carrington called a "mess" and what many Americans feel to be a lack of strong support from its allies in this country and the continent. Carrington believes that "nobody in particular is to blame."

But the position of the Germans, the French and the British represents the normal ingredient of alliance politics—nothing new. What is new—what remains new—is the inability of Washington to define a steady position that engages heavy British and German cooperation as a matter of self-interest, and French acquiescence on pain of isolation. For as a British friend said to me the other day, "When the American don't know where they're going, we all get lost."

Dear Editor: I am 17 as of this month (April 27). I am looking for my father, James William Crawford, who would be about 37 or 38 now.

My mother was dating my father in Big Spring. I'd just like to meet him. There would be no problems.

Precautions of strangled Dallas woman wasted

DALLAS (AP) — For most of her life, Debra Martinson lived in fear of strangers — hiding behind locked doors and refusing to open them to visitors she did not know.

The 28-year-old nurse and mother pushed furniture against the doors at night and often slept under the bed when her husband, Don, was away, according to neighbors.

Friends said they had to telephone in advance if they wanted to drop by to visit her. She was taught from childhood to let no strangers in her house, and she grew up determined to make herself safe from intruders.

"My daughter would not admit a total stranger to her home," said Debra's father, John Monroe Woodson. "She would not open a door (to a caller) unless she could see him or know him."

Her precautions were wasted. Last week, she was found dead on the floor of her bedroom, a macramé plant holder wrapped tightly around her neck.

A message had been scrawled on her mirror in rosy pink lipstick. It said: "Now we are even Don."

An autopsy showed she died of strangulation, there was semen in her mouth and her hands and wrists probably had been bound.

Her clothes had been folded neatly, and placed to form a trail leading to her nude body.

There was no sign of forced entry.

"She had a horror of dying like this," said a close friend who requested anonymity. "Debbie Martinson would open a door to nobody."

Don Martinson, 32, a civil trial lawyer, found his wife's body when he returned home after a day on jury duty.

Their infant son, David, was crying in his crib but unharmed.

Martinson said he had tried to call his wife at 5 p.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. There was no answer.

He has yet to give police a detailed statement. A partner in his law firm said Martinson was distraught and under sedation.

"There's not a whole lot we can do on this case until we get some information," said Sgt. Bill Parker, head of the police investigating team.

On Friday, however, noted criminal defense attorney Phil Burleson — retained as a "consultant" in the case — said Martinson was ready for questioning. Burleson was one of the attorneys who successfully defended Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

Police say they have no evidence linking Martinson to the crime, and they have ruled out robbery as a motive. The couple had no known enemies and investigators said the lipstick message may have been designed to throw them off the track.

Medical examiners said Mrs. Martinson had been dead four to eight hours when her body was found, placing the time of the killing between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

LETTER-WRITERS' PRIZE — The 1980 edition of the world-famous Mother's Day Plate by Bing & Grondahl will be awarded to 100 youngsters who write the most appealing letter on "Why I Love My Mother." The porcelain collector's plate is 12th in the series that originated in 1969. The 1969 plate is now valued at over $500.

Put in a good word for mom

Here's news of a contest that should interest every youngster wondering what to give Mom this Mother's Day. Bing & Grondahl, the Danish porcelain-makers often referred to as the "father of collectors plates," will award the 1980 edition of their famous annual Mother's Day Plate to one hundred youngsters who write the most appealing letters on "Why I Love My Mother."

To be eligible, entrants must be full-time students between the ages of 6 and 18. Their letters should be no longer than 100 words and must be received by Bing & Grondahl by April 25.

Winners will be notified the first week of May. They will receive the famous sculpted 6" plate, hand-decorated underglaze in shades of blue, gift-boxed and in time to present on Mother's Day. This year's plate, twelfth in the series that originated in 1969, shows a mother woodpecker feeding her young.

Surprising as it may seem, it's been estimated that only half of the annual Mother's Day Plates are actually presented to mothers. The other half are snatched up by avid plate-collectors. Because the first Mother's Day Plate issued by Bing & Grondahl in 1969 skyrocketed from its original issue price of $9.75 to $535, an increase of more than 500 percent, today many dealers, collectors and speculators buy them as an investment.

"Youngsters often have the deepest and warmest feelings about their mothers," says Paul B. Steffensen, President of Bing & Grondahl, "yet they are usually the ones with the least possibility of being able to give their mothers such a special gift. Now we hope to remedy that situation, at least in a small way."

"The idea of the Mother's Day Plate was to create something specifically for Mother on her day, something that had a universal appeal," Mr. Steffensen continues. With Henry Thelander, the noted Danish artist who has designed each Bing & Grondahl Christmas Plate since 1963, the company chose mother love in the animal kingdom as their continuing theme.

"We are very proud of the fact that his Danish plate is the most popular of all in the United States. In Denmark, we feel very warmly about our mothers. In fact, Denmark was the first country in the world to adopt the American Mother's Day holiday."

All entries, with the entrant's age, name, address and school clearly printed, should be sent to Mother's Day Contest, Bing & Grondahl, 111 North Lawn Avenue, Elmsford, N.Y. 10523.

TEHA meeting is scheduled April 22

The Fairview Extension Homemakers Club met April 1 at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. D.F. Bigony with president Mrs. C.A. Smauley presiding.

The devotional, Luke 24:1-24, was given by the hostess. The thought for the day was "A yawn is a silent shout." Roll call was answered by members and two guests, Mrs. Janet Rogers and Mrs. Dorothy Rogers, naming a job they often put off doing.

Mrs. Janet Rogers, county extension agent, presented the program on adapting the home for independent living for the elderly and handicapped.

Members were reminded of the TEHA district meeting in Monahan April 22. The door prize was won by Mrs. W.N. Wood.

The next meeting will be April 15 in the home of Mrs. Frank Micallef.

Dear Abby

Too Much Expressed On Express Bus

DEAR ABBY: Since the gasoline crunch has become a fact of life, I have stopped driving my car to work in favor of taking the express bus.

I am appalled at the total lack of breeding exhibited by those who ride the buses. They discuss the most personal things at a shouting pitch.

Without wanting to, I have learned what color shorts one woman's husband prefers, and even more personal preferences expressed by tasteless loudmouths who ride the bus.

The other evening, on returning home, a group of regular riders passed around cans of beer, large bottles of wine, potato chips, salami and cheese!

Are these people so friendless that they have to do their social interacting on the bus? How do I escape?

NAUSEATED IN NORTHBRIDGE

DEAR NAUSEATED: Buy a transistor radio with an earplug attachment, and stick it in your ear!

DEAR ABBY: I work for five doctors. I've been here for only one year and have the responsibility of running the entire office. There are four psychologists and one psychiatrist (the boss, whom I will call Dr. J.). There is another girl in this office, and between us we book the appointments, file, type, fill out insurance forms, call in prescriptions, do hospital billing, etc.

The girl I work with is blond, cute and well-built. She's nice and we get along fine. What bugs me is that she can get away with anything. If she starts working on an insurance form and it gets tough, I have to finish it.

If I tell Dr. J. that he is behind on his dictation, he gets hostile and asks me not to bother him with that. If the blonde tells him, he smiles and thanks her!

I'm tired of doing most of the work and not being appreciated. Don't tell me to find another job. I really like my work. Besides, we're in an area where the auto industry just laid off 3,300 workers, and jobs are scarce.

Any suggestions?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Tell Dr. J. that for sake of his business and your peace of mind, you simply must unburden yourself. Then let him have it. And if he knows which side his bread is buttered on, he will be more sensitive to your feelings and will show more appreciation and consideration in the future.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why a woman would feel hurt or insulted if a widower proposed to her and offered her his late wife's wedding rings.

When I was 19, I married a man with five sons ranging from 9 to 15 years old. His wife had been dead for two years. When he offered me his first wife's rings, I felt honored. To me it symbolized that he loved me as much as he had loved her. Furthermore, I felt that if I could accept five human beings that were her flesh and blood, I could certainly accept the rings she had worn.

Although it was hard for the boys to accept me at first, after two years we have a loving family relationship.

PROUD TO BE NO. 2

DEAR PROUD: You are No. 1 in expressing an unusually broadminded, unselfish attitude.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a house party in a very crowded apartment. I had a cigarette in my hand when a friend walked by and brushed her sleeve up against my cigarette and burned a hole in her dress. She was very upset, and so was I. I told her to get the hole mended and I would be glad to pay for it.

She called me a week later to say that she had taken the dress back to the store where she purchased it and they said the hole could not be repaired. Then she said she called her insurance company and was advised that my insurance company would pay for the dress.

I then called my insurance company and was advised that since I had a $100 deductible policy, they could not pay for the dress. When I told my friend this, she said I had a lousy insurance company. By the way, this friend smokes at parties, too.

Abby, just what is my responsibility in this situation? I want to be fair.

SAD SMOKER

DEAR SMOKER: Tell your friend to look in the Yellow Pages for a weaver who is expert at repairing cigarette burns. (Or you look, and tell her where to go.)

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for letting your readers know that trained pigeons still perform a valuable service.

During World War II, I was attached to the 9th Army as part of the Pigeon Signal Company, and when it was impossible to get messages through on radio, our pigeons carried messages across the Rhine.

Both sides used pigeons. Once near Brunswick, Germany, we captured about 2,000 German pigeons! Pigeons are still used in London to deliver blood samples from the hospitals to the lab, as they are faster and cheaper than taxis.

DEAR HAROLD: Thanks for writing. Though it was "for the birds," your letter was interesting.

She writes lots of letters

Crafted criticism from Sweet Corinna

By EVE BLAKE
For The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — When Corinna Marsh gets steamed up over the news, she doesn't wring her hands or agonize with friends. She writes letters. Lots of letters.

Since the 88-year-old Mrs. Marsh steams up frequently, she has, for most of her life, crafted precisely worded and precisely targeted letters to politicians, government agencies, columnists, authors and editors.

The addresses range from Eleanor Roosevelt to President Carter. The FBI and the Department of Agriculture have heard from her as have the editors of Time, Life, Harpers, Redbook, the New York Times and the now defunct Herald Tribune.

"It's important to let people know what you're thinking," the square-jawed great-grandmother said in an interview.

No one has been sent as many daggers as William F. Buckley Jr., her target for 23 years.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Show maturity

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old girl who has been in a lot of trouble but now I've got a boyfriend.

My mom and I didn't get along so I ran away from home and lived with a girlfriend. During this time I met Dave, who was 21 and wild. We were as close as brother and sister but he got sent to the state pen for three to five years.

After that happened I went to live with my grandmother and met Bill. We fell in love and I told him about Dave and that I was writing to him in prison but Bill didn't seem to care. Then I got into some trouble and was sent up the river and Bill was true to me while I was gone.

When I got back Bill said that he didn't want me writing to Dave anymore and that he wants me to get my act together.

I think the whole thing is stupid. What should I do? — S.S., Lake Charles, La.

S.S. You've packed a "lot of living" into your young life.

Hopefully, as you are now maturing into a woman, you have had your "fling" and will make plans and goals for a happy adulthood.

Bill sounds like he has your best interests at heart so I would honor his wishes and stop corresponding with Dave.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20 in care of this newspaper.

Their letters are classic confrontations between a tireless liberal and a prototypical conservative.

She recalls that when they met for the first and only time in 1964, he took her aside and said, "I hope now you'll tell your friends I don't bite," to which she replied, "And I hope you'll tell your friends that I do."

True to her word, about once a month she sends a letter growling at his politics, his manner of speech, his magazine, even, occasionally, one of his infrequent grammatical indiscretions, which he jokes, he deliberately places in National Review in order to chortle over her admonitions.

Thanking him for an ongoing gift subscription to the Review, she wrote, "So much in it is so inherently evil that it makes me feel wonderfully righteous for knowing enough to oppose its clever devilry."

In his reply, Buckley wrote, "I wonder how it feels to be so wrong on so many issues. I must try it and I know of no one better equipped than you to give me instructions."

Although adversaries in philosophy, Buckley and Mrs. Marsh are allies in their love of language, which may account for the acidic affection found in their letters. Sometimes he addresses her as "Sweet Corinna," other times "tormentor." But he sends copies of all his books and a Christmas present each year.

"I don't know why he likes me," she said, her thick glasses unable to hide the twinkle in her eyes. "All I ever do is criticize him."

Certainly criticism is a strong suit in her letters. "You certainly did a wonderful job of cosmetic beautification on Nixon's profile," she wrote to Time magazine in 1956. "Are you already grooming him to look like the President?"

A yellowing clip from the New York Times has her 1960 letter on a new design litter basket: "They are functionally inadequate, esthetically ugly and therefore economically extravagant."

A letter printed in the Herald Tribune asks, "Will someone be kind enough to tell me why we are celebrating the centennial of our own bloody Civil War. Just what is it we are so joyful about, and who is benefiting from the festivities?"

Writing has been part of Mrs. Marsh's life since she began working as a high school English teacher. She later worked briefly in advertising and in 1932 became an editor for The University Society, where she edited music books and children's books. She was married to an editor, Fred Marsh, who died in 1960.

She retired in 1972 at age 80 when, she said matter-of-factly, "We decided it was about time to stop."

Mrs. Marsh now works in a book-cluttered apartment, where reference works spill out of the crammed bookcases and pile up on table-tops. She has neither kitchen nor doorbell, so she cooks on a portable burner and hears her guests announced by sleighbells and wind chimes.

Mrs. Marsh doesn't limit her writing to letters. Since her college days at Barnard, where one of her classmates was Edna St. Vincent Millay, Mrs. Marsh has composed light verse, some of which has appeared in Family Circle, Redbook, the New Yorker, the New York, "Obstacles to Utopia," published last October by Publication Arts.

Sonics breeze past Blazers

By the Associated Press
"Nobody blows out the world champions," said Seattle's Dennis Johnson, responding to a prediction made by Portland's brass Billy Ray Bates regarding Sunday's deciding game of their playoff mini-series, and he was right.

The Sonics, defending National Basketball Association champions, raced to a 25-point third-quarter lead and breezed to a 103-86 victory over the Trail Blazers to win their first-round series 2-1.

Next on the agenda for the Sonics, who are bidding to become the NBA's first repeat champions since the Boston Celtics of 1968-69, are the Midwest Division champion Milwaukee Bucks. That best-of-seven second-round set opens in Seattle Tuesday night.

"Milwaukee has a much better outside dimension than Portland," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "We're gonna have to be ready for that."

One second-round series got under way Sunday, with the Philadelphia Flyers rallying behind Julius Erving in the final period to beat the Atlanta Hawks 107-

104. The other second-round matchups were determined Sunday when the Phoenix Suns and Houston Rockets won the third games of their respective mini-series. Phoenix beat the Kansas City Kings 114-99 and will next face Los Angeles, while Houston won its Texas showdown with the San Antonio Spurs 141-120 and will take on Boston. Those series open in Los Angeles Tuesday and Boston Wednesday.

Sonics 103, Blazers 86
Gus Williams led Seattle's balanced attack with 21 points as the Sonics took command early and never relinquished it. Seattle led 71-46 early in the third quarter and 80-65 going into the final period, saw Portland close within nine but turned aside that challenge with a 13-2 spurt in a span of 3 1/2 minutes for a 94-74 lead.

Bates led Portland with 26 points, while John Johnson added 18 points for Seattle.

76ers 107, Hawks 104
Philadelphia scored 37 points off its fast break, compared to 10 for Atlanta, in winning the series opener.

Julius Erving led the Sixers with 28 points, including 11 in the final period. The Sixers trailed Atlanta 87-81 with nine minutes to play, but Erving drove for a three-point play that started a 12-0 surge that put Philadelphia ahead to stay. But the Sixers did not clinch the victory until, with 20 seconds to play and Atlanta trailing by one, Erving hit Bobby Jones with a lob pass for a layup.

Suns 114, Kings 99
Center Alvan Adams had 19 points and 20 rebounds, making up for the absence of power forward Len "Truck" Robinson because of a knee injury, as Phoenix beat Kansas City.

TIGHT DEFENSE — Three Seattle Supersonics apply the squeeze on Calvin Natt (33) of the Portland Trail Blazers during National Basketball Association playoff action Sunday. Jack Sikma (43) Dennis Johnson (24) and Wally Walker kept an eye on Natt during play. Seattle won the third game of the mini-series 103-86.

No razzmatazz for Masters

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

The golf tour moves to Augusta and the magnificent Masters this week and, thank goodness, there will be no electrical apparatus attached to the shirts of the birdie-chasing elite.

The Masters always has been content to just run a golf tournament, the best in the world. It doesn't need gimmicks to sell its product. It shuns fanfare and folderol. Times change; the Masters, never.

The setting is incomparable — an exacting course fashioned among the stately pines, flowering dogwood and azalea of a onetime Georgia nursery. The cast: All the fairway VIPs, there by invitation only.

This microphone business is a bit bush, as witness last weekend in the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C. It's a TV idea designed to add a little razzmatazz to a sport suffering in the ratings.

Golf commissioner Deane Beaman went for it. Now he would be wise to mix it. Golf isn't a hip-hip-hooray sport. It's a dignified man against course exercise in which concentration is of the essence.

Who cares, anyway, what a group of pro golfers may say on the tee?

Nobody much, but in this case John Schroeder cared a whole lot. John is a serious young pro tourist whose father, Ted, played tennis on the U.S. Davis Cup team and won Wimbledon.

Young Schroeder was fit to be tied — rightfully so — when he found out that a trio of his contemporaries, Tom Kite, Lanny Wadkins and Bruce Lietzke, equipped with microphones, had badmouthed him about slow play on national television while they were waiting on a tee in Saturday's round.

Knowing they were wired for sound but not realizing they were on camera, all three joined in the criticism. Wadkins quipped that Schroeder would realize he was slow "when a pigeon landed on him." Kite said Schroeder should be "fined and fined and suspended." Lietzke agreed.

The whole country was listening.

Young collects!

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Donna Caponi Young, in her 18th year on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, has never gained the recognition of a Nancy Lopez-Melton or JoAnne Carner, or even Jan Stephenson.

But Sunday, she reached a new pinnacle in her already successful career by winning the richest and most prestigious women's tournament, the $305,000 Winners Circle.

"It's probably my greatest day in golf," a beaming Young said after collecting $37,500 for the victory, biggest payday of her career.

Young, with putting the strongest part of her very steady game, shot a 1-under-par 71 for the final round over the 6,242-yard Mission Hills Country Club course to hold off Amy Alcott by two strokes.

Alcott, who had begun the day a stroke back of Young, had a closing even-par 72 as she struggled to a 38 on the back nine after taking the lead momentarily on No. 10.

Young's 72-hole total of 13-under-par 275 was a Winners Circle record, one stroke better than the standard set by Sandra Post last year.

Jane Blalock, with a final-round 68, finished third at 279, while Pat Meyers was fourth at 281, Sally Little fifth at 283, Carner next at 284, and Lopez-Melton and Beth Solomon two strokes further back at 286.

The 35-year-old Young, who had won the LPGA's Las Vegas tournament two weeks ago and now has 16 career victories, credited her putting with making the difference in the Winners Circle, and credited Dave Stockton of the men's tour with her putting success.

"He's helped me out with my putting for a long time," said Young. "We talked on the telephone for about 20 minutes last night, pumping each other up for the final round of our respective tournaments."

The face told the future

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets Coach Del Harris took one look at Moses Malone's face Sunday night and realized the San Antonio Spurs were in for a rough evening in their National Basketball Association mini-series playoff game.

"Mo is a money player," Harris said. "I've seen that look of determination in his face a few times before and he had it tonight."

Malone nullified a 37-point performance by NBA scoring champ George Gervin with 37 points of his own and 20 rebounds to lead the Rockets to a 141-120 victory to wrap up the best of three mini-series 2-1.

Houston now moves on to a best-of-seven semifinal playoff series against the Boston Celtics, and the Spurs already are warning the Celtics to beware if Malone still has that look in his face.

"The way Malone is playing right now, I don't know anybody in the NBA that could stand up to him," said Spur forward Tom Bassett. "If he plays like he did tonight, (Dave) Cowans is in for a rough series."

Malone controlled the boards at both ends of the court in the first half against the Spurs, scoring 20 points and grabbing 13 rebounds. The Rockets could shake the high-scoring Spurs however, leading only 58-54 at the half.

Then came the powerful third quarter when the Rockets outscored the Spurs 17-2 in the first four minutes and it was Malone and Calvin Murphy who delivered the knockout punches.

Murphy finished with 33 points, including 15 in the breakaway third quarter. Murphy closed out Houston's third period by scoring seven points in the final 35 seconds.

"There no use talking about what happened in the third quarter," Gervin said. "I just want to say, may God bless those guys who are still playing. I thought we played Houston very well right down to the last minute."

Malone admitted to having that special gleam in his eye against the Spurs.

"When we get to the main game I'm ready to play, I'll go out with a hurt foot," said Malone, referring to an ankle sprain he suffered in the final regular season game against Indiana. "It was a matter of which team was going to take a vacation, San Antonio or Houston."

"Personally, I didn't want an early vacation so we went out with the intention of winning."

The first game of the Boston-Houston series will be played Wednesday in Boston and the second game also will be in Boston on Friday. The series shifts to Houston for games Sunday and Monday.

Yanks, brass clash again

By the Associated Press

As usual, the owner and manager of the New York Yankees are at odds with one of their outfielders... but this time the cast includes a couple of new characters.

Don't go looking for Reggie Jackson in this brouhaha. Owner George Steinbrenner is the only constant. The manager these days is Dick Howser, not Billy Martin, and the outfielder in question is, of all people, Sweet Lou Piniella.

After reversing themselves twice on the subject of intrasquad games when the Major League Baseball Players' Association struck the last week of exhibitions, the Yankees finally agreed to some intrasquad contests.

Howser left it up to the individual players and Piniella was one of those who declined to play. That was OK, but Piniella also sounded off about it and that didn't sit well.

"I told Lou if he didn't want to play, he didn't have to, but I didn't want him bitching about it," Howser said.

Piniella went home. "I'm disappointed in

Most coaches want to cut a ref

DALLAS (AP) — Eddie Sutton of Arkansas likes it the way it is, and Texas' Abe Lemons says he doesn't care.

But a majority of the other seven Southwest Conference basketball coaches say they want a return to two-man officiating crews for next season.

"I was a very big advocate for the three-man crews," said Rice Coach Mike Schuler, "but three just aren't doing the job."

The Atlantic Coast Conference originated the use of three officials in 1978, and six conferences — including the SWC — followed suit the next year, along with the National Basketball Association and the National Collegiate Athletic Association's post-game tournament.

But the NBA and Big Eight conference have already returned to the two-man system, and the SWC apparently is not far behind.

"It just hasn't worked out," Schuler said of the three-man crews.

"Three officials seem to work well in the Big Ten," said Shelby Metcalf, coach at SWC Champion Texas A&M, "but I think in our case two would be best."

"Two-man crews are fine," said new Southern Methodist Coach Dave Bliss. "College basketball is a tremendous sport. We don't need a shot clock or extra officials to improve it."

But Lemons said he would be satisfied with any number of officials from zero to five.

Most of the SWC coaches who criticized the new system said there are not enough good officials available to make up the necessary number of high-quality crews.

"I still believe in the concept of three officials," said Sutton, "but I'd be the first to acknowledge that perhaps in our league there aren't as many quality officials as we'd like to see."

"Some coaches feel we're better off with two good ones, rather than two good ones and one mediocre one," he continued.

"The number isn't as important as who the individuals are," said Metcalf. "You have to have the right people."

"Three would be all right if you had that many good ones," Texas Tech Coach Gerald Myers concurred, and Texas Christian Athletic Director Frank Windeger said, "I just don't see that we've improved the game any by going with three."

Conference officials gather for their annual spring meeting later this month, and the matter could be decided then.

The voting will be done by faculty representatives, not the coaches, but a coach's opinion could sway his faculty member's decision.

"I prefer three," said Arkansas' faculty representative Al Witte, "but I recognize that I'm just a fan and the opinion of the coaches is more significant."

"If the coaches are strong in their feelings and have good reasons for the cut-back, the faculty reps often are willing to accommodate them."

Afghan rebels kill Soviet general, capture air base
 NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Afghan rebels captured a Soviet-held air base 43 miles north of Kabul and killed a Russian general, Radio Pakistan reported, but it didn't say whether the rebels were able to hold the installation.
 The broadcast Sunday night said the Moslem insurgents overran the Bagram air base after a stiff battle in which 75 Afghan government troops and the Russian general were killed.
 It gave no account of rebel casualties and did not say when the fighting occurred. The general was not identified.
 However, the United News of India quoted Radio Pakistan as saying the general died in a wave of rebel attacks against the air base and other installations north of the Afghan capital.
 The radio attributed the report of his death to unidentified "American intelligence sources," the Indian news agency said.
 Bagram reportedly has become the major staging area for raids by Soviet jets and helicopter gunships, which the Afghans call "flying tanks."
 Reports reaching New Delhi over the weekend from Kabul said the Soviet aircraft had carried out a series of attacks throughout Afghanistan in recent days, inflicting heavy casualties on Moslem rebels and killing thousands of civilians.
 The reports said the Russians had stepped up their air raids in response to renewed guerrilla attacks following the spring thaw in Afghanistan.
 None of the reports could be independently confirmed, and they conflicted with statements in Washington that the Soviets had curtailed their spring offensive, apparently to defuse a U.S.-led campaign for an international boycott of the Summer Olympics in Moscow.
 The Kremlin has poured an estimated 85,000 troops into Afghanistan since last December to prop up the latest in a succession of communist governments embroiled in a two-year-old war with the anti-communist Moslem rebels.
 According to the reports from Kabul, the Soviets have suffered increasing casualties at the hands of the guerrillas since the coming of spring, and fighting has spread throughout the country.

 CBS-News correspondent Dan Rather reported on the fighting from the rebel side, saying there was convincing evidence that Soviet troops are using paralyzing nerve gas on the Afghan population. His report, aired Sunday night on the "60 Minutes" program, was the first by an American TV news crew traveling with the rebels.
 Rather described the war as "18th-century people fighting a 20th-century war," and said the rebels had pleaded with the United States to send weapons.

Pilot program proves lemon not always at fault

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — When it comes to cars, everyone loves to hate a lemon. But sometimes it's not the lemon's fault.

The Better Business Bureau has found that only about one of every three dissatisfied General Motors customers has been vindicated in third-party arbitration hearings run here since December 1978.

The program is part of a pilot project sponsored by the company and administered by Better Business Bureau offices in Minnesota, the San Francisco Bay area, Buffalo and Philadelphia.

In Buffalo, there were 309 complaints between December 1978 and March 28. Of these, 208 were resolved or being resolved through negotiated compromises.

Of the 78 cases that went to an arbitrated conclusion, 23 — or 29 percent — were settled in favor of the consumer; 48 — 62 percent — were settled in favor of GM; and seven — 9 percent — resulted in split decisions, with each side paying part of the repair bills.

The program is a court of last resort, short of legal action, for unhappy owners of Buicks, Cadillacs, Chevrolets, Oldsmobiles, Pontiacs, and GMC trucks that are less than three years old and have been driven less than 36,000 miles.

"Most of the people who come here have been to their dealers and contacted the GM zone offices," said Cynthia Sinnott, who manages the bureau's dispute settlement department. "They have had to pay very costly repair orders, but feel some parts should last a lifetime, rather than give out at, say, 13,000 miles, right after the warranty expires."

She said the bureau tries first to mediate the problem through the Automotive Consumer Action Program.
