Election to cost taxpayers $1,000 plus

Boyd to run unopposed April 28

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Big Spring City Council and Hal Boyd learned first hand at 7:30 a.m. today that fact can be stranger than fiction, especially in the political arena.

Boyd, the council decided, will be running unopposed April 28 in a run-off for the Place 2 seat on the council.

The city council took the action after City Attorney Elliott Mitchell said that the council's certification of Boyd on April 8 as the winner of the Place 2 race did not satisfy the legal requirements of the City Charter.

Article V, Section 6 of the charter reads that a candidate for city office must have a majority of the votes in a regular election to win. If a majority does not exist, a run-off must take place between the two top votegetters not more than 10, nor more than 20 days following the regular election.

Of last Tuesday's action to declare Boyd the winner, Mitchell said, "That was without effect."

Boyd was the leading vote gatherer of three in the April 5 Place 2 race. He captured 1,664 ballots or 49.3 percent of the vote. He was followed by Jack Watkins, who had 1,408 votes or 41.8 percent of the ballots cast, and Fred Maddux, who had 297 or 8.8 percent.

Boyd and Watkins were to be in a run-off, which was to take place April 28.

On April 7, Watkins officially withdrew from the Place 2 race, saying even if elected, he would be out-voted on a majority of the issues by those presently on the council.

"I just don't see any light at the end of the tunnel," Watkins said in withdrawing. "I would be outvoted 3-2 if I had won the runoff. I just couldn't see putting up with two years of frustration if elected."

After Watkins resigned, Mitchell contacted Maddux, asking the third place finisher if he wanted to be in the run-off.

"I asked him if there were a run-off would he want his name on the ballot," Mitchell said. "He said 'no.'"

Based on Maddux's verbal agreement, the council certified last Tuesday Boyd the winner of the Place

2 race.

Last Friday, Mitchell said, "There is a legal argument that Hal Boyd has not been duly elected. If that were the case, Ralph McLaughlin would still be the Place 2 city councilman."

This question over Boyd not being properly elected came largely from the city not receiving an official statement of withdrawal from Maddux.

On Saturday, the city received from Maddux a withdrawal statement.

But this morning, Mitchell expressed concern over a new issue.

"The city may not be able to withstand a voter challenge," Mitchell said. He added that Boyd still did not gain 50 percent plus one of the vote in the election.

"Our charter provision just stops," Mitchell said. "It doesn't enlighten the people who read it." The city attorney added that there are no state laws or case law to direct the city in the matter.

Mitchell told the council, "At this time, the safest route is to call for a run-off election."

Mitchell added, "It is my opinion Hal Boyd's name be placed on a subsequent ballot."

Boyd will be the certain winner of the Place 2 race.

"At this time, I don't think there could be any write-ins," Mitchell said. After the council approved the April 28 run-off, McLaughlin presented a letter of resignation from the Place 2 seat.

Cost of the election will be $1,000 to $1,500. The city will operate polling places at five locations. These are the Northside Fire Station, the 11th and Birdwell Fire Station, the 18th and Main Fire Station, the Central Fire Station and the Airport Elementary School.

Absentee balloting will take place at City Hall, starting this Friday and running through April 24.

Of the run-off situation, Boyd said, "I regret the inconvenience this caused and the expense."

He added, "I don't see any recourse. We certainly have to stay within the confines of the law."

Dallas convict charged with lipstick murder

DALLAS (AP) — A television repairman convicted twice of sex offenses and once for impersonating an FBI agent has been charged in the strangulation death of a young lawyer's wife, whose body was found near a message scrawled in rosy pink lipstick on a bedroom mirror.

Donald Wayne Hemphill, 30, remained in Dallas County jail today in lieu of $500,000 bond set by Night Magistrate Tom Boardman. He was arrested early Sunday by homicide detectives and arraigned on murder charges before Boardman later in the day.

Investigators said Hemphill had made several repair calls at the Martinson home in the weeks preceding the slaying.

The nude body Debra Martinson, 28, was found March 31 by her 32-year-old husband in their fashionable North Dallas home.

A macrame rope was wrapped around her neck and her husband, Don Martinson, found a neat trail of her clothing nearby.

The note "Now we are even Don" was emblazoned in lipstick on a bedroom mirror, causing the case to be called the "lipstick murder."

While police said they had not yet determined why the message was left, they theorized it was designed to throw investigators off the trail.

"It's kind of strange, really," said police spokesman Bob Shaw. "Mrs. Martinson's husband's name was Don, but so is the suspect's."

Martinson was not available for police interviews until some time after the slaying, homicide investigators said. He later hired noted Dallas criminal attorney Phil Burleson, who told reporters he gave police records that might aid the investigation.

Officers said Sunday those records showed Hemphill was called to the Martinson's residence March 10 to fix a television antenna. The documents also showed Hemphill returned on March 14 because he previously did not have all the necessary parts, police said.

The records indicated a third appointment on March 22 was not kept, investigators said.

They were accompanied by an official of the Red Lion and Sun, the Iranian equivalent of the Red Cross, and Iranian Health Minister Moussa Zargar.

economic blockade at the mouth of the Persian Gulf because, he reasoned, it would cut off oil from Saudi Arabia and other Arab countries as well as Iran.

If the United States is serious about world war, Habibi said, it should seriously consider whether it is worth surviving or not.

Howard College newspaper rated as best in state

The Howard College Hawk Reporter was named by the Texas Inter-collegiate Press Association last weekend as the best overall student newspaper published by two-year and smaller four-year member colleges.

Howard College's 1979 yearbook, The Hawk Review, won second place overall at the annual TIPA convention held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Beaumont.

of Big Spring, staff writer.

The Hawk Reporter is published by The Big Spring Herald.

The awards were presented to Miss McQuerry and Miss Ross, who currently serve as co-editors of the Hawk Reporter, during the awards luncheon Saturday.

Second place in the overall newspaper competition was won by Tarrant County Junior College-South Campus and third went to Tarleton State University.

Sul Ross State University took first place in the overall yearbook category and Western Texas College in Snyder won third place.

In addition to the TIPA awards, the Texas Junior College Press Association also announced their annual award winners last week. The Hawk Review won third place overall in the division which included all two-year colleges with student populations under 2,000.

Division II includes all two-year schools and four-year colleges with less than 6,000 students. HC competed against 29 colleges in division II.

Jim Brown, who now attends the University of Texas at Alington, won two first place awards in the yearbook competition. As editor of the 1979 Hawk Review, Brown won for layout and design and for student life copy.

Rogers won a first in the advertising category for his work last fall as business manager.

Henry won a third place in feature photography for a photograph of the front walkway of the HC Administration Building.

Ray Abelar and Ricky Touchstone, both who attended HC last year, won awards for their work on the 1979 magazine. Abelar won a second for news feature writing and Touchstone received a second place for sports photography and a third place for feature photography.

Mike Rogers, a freshman at HC, won third place in division II in the advertising campaign category.

Five persons die in plane crash

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Military helicopter crews today begin a tedious recovery operation at the mountain-side site of a weekend plane crash that killed five persons south of Juarez, Mexico, authorities said.

The twin-engine Cessna 320, bound for El Paso, slammed into the side of a 5,800-foot mountain Saturday, officials said. Mexican authorities did not locate the wreckage until Sunday afternoon.

The best overall newspaper award was based on five issues of the Hawk Reporter published last fall under editor Ritchie Priddy. Priddy, of Big Spring, is now studying journalism at Texas A&M University.

Other members of last fall's winning staff were: Delaina McQuerry of Coahoma, news editor; Lisa McMillan of Forsan, feature editor; Bobby Wristen of Lamesa, sports editor; Mike Rogers of Big Spring, business manager; Yolanda Ross of Big Spring, staff writer; Mike Henry of Coahoma, photographer; Choy Pittman of Big Spring, photographer; Courtney Carroll of Fort Worth, photographer; and Tammy Williams However, a family member, Tony Conley of Carlsbad, N.M., identified the victims as John William Miller, 54, president of an El Paso-based oil exploration equipment company; Miller's wife, Patricia; Mr. and Mrs. William O'Connor of Houston, friends of the Millers; and Otis Brown, an employee of Miller's company, Globe Universal Sciences International.

Conley, the Millers' son-in-law, said the group was on a vacation trip. He identified O'Connor as head of an electronics manufacturing company in Houston.

Miller was a former Midland, Texas, resident, where he had been a city councilman. He had moved his company headquarters to El Paso in recent years and lived on the Washington Ranch about 25 miles southwest of Carlsbad.

The helicopter pilot, after returning to Fort Bliss, said they located the bodies of four men and one woman, but were unable to reach the crash site on the steep mountainside, about 100 feet below the peak, Joyce said.

Rainfall totals .15 inch here

The arctic cold front which gripped the area over the weekend gradually released its grip between midnight Sunday and dawn today.

Some young plants in the area may have been damaged when the temperature dipped to 28 degrees Sunday night, well below the freezing mark.

Some moisture accompanied the front but it didn't do much to break the extended dry spell. The official measurement at the U.S. Experiment Station here was .15 of an inch, bringing the year's total to 1.33 inches.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: 'Love thy neighbor'

Q. The item you had in Action-Reaction April 8, I feel, was directed at me and my friends. The writer complained that children from the ages 5-13 were riding their skateboards, skates and bicycles on their sidewalks and bumping into their automobiles. We were under the impression sidewalks are public property. As for bumping into their automobiles, we haven't done that. Either they don't like us, or the writer just exaggerated. What can we do about this?

A. You can start by trying to 'love thy neighbor.' Sidewalks usually are on private property, put there for public use. If you show the proper respect for property owners, they invariably will respect you.

Texas probation appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to study the method used by Texas to revoke a convicted criminal's probation.

The justices said they will hear arguments over a Texas court ruling that the state's method meets constitutional standards.

Danny Vincent, whose probation was revoked in 1978, argues that the state violated his due-process rights by not holding a preliminary hearing to determine whether there was probable cause to believe he had violated the terms of his probation.

Vincent pleaded guilty to burglary in 1977 and was sentenced to six years' probation on the condition that he refrain from alcoholic beverages.

On Feb. 6, 1978, Vincent was stopped for driving while intoxicated in Perryton, Texas, and state authorities soon thereafter sought to revoke his probation.

Vincent, who could not post bail, was jailed for more than a month before receiving a probation-revocation hearing. Under Texas law, persons facing such revocations are entitled to a hearing within 20 days of asking for one but Vincent did not know his legal rights.

His probation eventually was revoked, and Vincent was ordered to begin serving prison time on the burglary conviction. The revocation was upheld last Sept. 19 by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Indira escapes knife

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A man hurled a knife at Prime Minister Indira Gandhi as she left the Parliament building today but she escaped unhurt from the assassination attempt, Indian news agencies reported.

The knife, a stiletto type with a 4-inch blade, apparently wounded one of Mrs. Gandhi's bodyguards, but his condition was not immediately reported.

Police overpowered the would-be assassin and arrested him. The United News of India said he was identified as Chandbal Lalwani, from Baroda, in western India, but the motive for his attack was not known yet.

Roads within county Sealcoating discussed

Howard County Commissioners considered a proposal to sealcoat 30 miles of county road in their regular meeting this morning.

The roads are distributed evenly among the four precincts.

The project is planned for mid-June, however, the county budget will only allow for sealcoating for 25 miles. The proposal was presented by County Engineer Bill Mims.

Mims said Forsan officials have asked him if Howard County workers would sealcoat Forsan streets. Forsan would agree to provide materials with county workers providing the labor. "We can knock it out in half a day," said Mims. "It's all the streets they got and we need to preserve them," said Commissioner Paul Allen.

A contract for a two-way radio for Mims' truck was awarded to Motorola. The cost will be $1,180, compared to a $1,349 bid from Permian Electronics and a $1,436 bid from Communications Engineering Company.

District Attorney Rick Hamby requested a resolution showing county approval of four positions for reserve investigators. The item wasn't included on the agenda so action will be delayed until the next meeting.

Hamby said three former police officers assist him on occasions. Though their activity is limited the state administrative arm told Hamby they needed a copy of the commissioner court minutes that showed them approved.

The positions are non-salaried. Hamby said the officers take statements.

Two county road crossings were approved for county roads. One was for Phillios and one was for Getty Oil companies.

A summer hiring was approved for three high school students. The three workers will work out of a pick up under the supervision of Bobby Zellars. Zellars has been in charge of the summer work program for the last five to six years. He will make $5.56 an hour with the other three workers making $3.10, minimum wage. The workers, who are usually football players, said Mims, will be doing general maintenance work.

A petition circulated by Linda Arsiaga, Justice of the Peace Bobby West's secretary, requested bi-monthly paydays for county employees. The petition revealed 24 for and 11 neutral on the proposal. None signed the petition against the proposal.

Paydays currently come at the end of the month. State employees are the only ones receiving once-a-month paychecks, said County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin.

Commissioner Bill Crooker said there would be additional "intangible costs" to the new system. He referred to the cost of the checks themselves and reprogramming of the computer for the bi-monthly system.

Approval of employee handbooks put together by Mrs. Frantins office were approved.

Most U.S. taxpayers filing returns early

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxpayers, probably inspired by the prospect of higher refunds, have filed their 1979 federal returns in advance of Tuesday's deadline at a faster rate than last year, the Treasury Department reports.

As of April 4, the Internal Revenue Service had received $8.1 million returns of an expected $3 billion.

The return rate is 3.3 percent higher than a year ago, and higher refunds may be the prime motivator, IRS spokesman Larry Batdorf said last week.

At the same time last year, the IRS had made 38.74 million refunds totaling $19 billion, or an average of $490 per return.

This year, refunds totaling $23.6 billion, or an average of more than $590, have been sent to 39.9 million filers.

"Obviously, this is the result of inflation," Batdorf said of the 20.5 percent increase in the average refund.

Meanwhile, the Treasury said today that $3 billion in refund checks were being mailed today after being held up over the weekend because of concern the government would not have enough money to cash them.

Officials say they believe there now is sufficient cash because the government expects to receive a large amount of money from people who waited until the deadline to pay their taxes.

The speedy filing has, however, resulted in an increase in errors that will delay refund checks for some taxpayers.

As of April 4, Batdorf said, 6.3 percent of those who filed the 1040 long form made mistakes of one sort or another, compared with 6 percent last year. The error rate on the 1040a short form was 5.6 percent, up from 5 percent a year ago.

The most common error among long-form filers has occurred when "people looked at the wrong tax table to calculate their total liability," the spokesman said.

Meistersingers enter Festival of Rockies

The Big Spring High School Meistersingers will perform for adjudication May 11 at the Festival of the Rockies, which will be held in Denver and Estes Park, Colo. May 9-May 12.

The Festival of the Rockies is sponsored by International Music Festivals, a non-profit corporation organized to encourage and support high performance standards by amateur bands, orchestras and choirs at music festivals held throughout the world. Festival activities include adjudication by a panel of distinguished musicians and music educators.

Prior to their invitation, the Big Spring High School Meistersingers were required to submit an audition tape, and were selected on the basis of the musical standards determined by the Advisory Council of International Music Festivals. The Advisory Council is chaired by Dr. Charles H. Webb, Dean of the Indiana University School of Music. Dr. Wilfred C. Bain serves as the Auditions Chairman for the organization. Dr. Bain was the active Dean of the Indiana University School of Music from 1947 to 1973, and also served as the Artistic Director of the Opera Theater there.

The 14 member Meistersingers have won many sweepstakes awards at University Interscholastic League Contests. This year, they had the highest number (32) of members in the All-Region Choir. Their Director, Marjorie Dodson, received her Masters Degree in Music Education from Texas Tech University. She directed choirs in Brownfield, Midland and Odessa along with teaching private voice and piano lessons.

While in Denver and Estes Park, the students will perform for adjudication May 11 at the Festival of the Rockies, which will be held in Denver and Estes Park, Colo. May 9-May 12.

Couple back from coast

Mr. and Mrs. H.M. (Mack) Underwood have returned from a two weeks' trip that took them to Los Angeles and Huntington Beach in California and Las Vegas, Nev.

The Underwoods retired to Big Spring several years ago after spending much of their adult life in California but said they hardly recognized Southern California anymore, so drastic have been the changes.

The last time they were in the area, that part of California had six freeways. It now has 61.

The Underwoods recall they paid as little as $1.10 a gallon for gasoline (at Van Horn, Tex.) and as much as $1.39 a gallon (at Nothing, Ariz., located between Wickenburg and Kingman).

Underwood is now making final preparations for the third annual Cannibal Draw Reunion, which will be held the evening of May 23 at the Brandin' Iron Restaurant.

He has mailed out 101 invitations to the reunion.

One of those expected to be here is U.S. Cong. J.J. (Jake) Pickle of Austin, who has already put the date on his calendar.

Another person who might appear is Dr. Thomas Joe Williams, formerly on the Hall-Bennett Hospital staff here, now a resident of Kerrville.

Consultant boom noted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The current state of the economy is making more and more companies turn to outside management consulting firms, according to an industrial spokesman.

Dennis J. Callaghan, president of Theodore Barry & Associates, a management consulting firm, says the demand for consultants is increasing because of declining productivity, increased costs, changing markets and increased government regulations.

Guide to credit for confused consumer

By LOUISE COOK
By the Associated Press

Recent government and industry moves to restrict the use of credit have made it more important than ever for consumers to learn the rights and responsibilities of buying now and paying later. Specific credit terms vary from lender to lender and state to state. The basic principles of credit use — and misuse — are fairly standard, however, and the American Bar Association has prepared a 36-page booklet to help clear up confusion. The booklet, called "Your Guide to Consumer Credit and Bankruptcy," costs $1. It is available from the American Bar Association, Order-Billing 157, 1155 E. 60th St., Chicago, 60637.

The ABA booklet explains what credit is and shows you how to compare costs for different types of credit. It includes chapters on applying for credit, checking your credit record, correcting credit mistakes, figuring out whether you have reached your credit limit, dealing with debt collectors and, if all else fails, going bankrupt.

Shopping for credit is a key. There are two terms — finance charge and annual percentage rate — to keep in mind when you're looking at the cost of a loan. The finance charge is the total amount — in dollars and cents — you pay to use the lender's money. It includes interest and special charges like service fees or credit-related insurance premiums. The annual percentage rate — expressed as a percent — is the rate of interest on a yearly basis. Lenders must tell you both the finance charge and the annual percentage rate.

Decide what you are looking for when you borrow money. Are you willing to pay more in the long run in exchange for lower monthly payments? A three-year, $4,000 loan at 11 percent annual interest would mean monthly payments of $131. Your total interest over the 36 months would be $716. A four-year loan for the same amount of money at the same rate would mean monthly payments of only $103. But your total interest over 48 months would be $962.

The cost of open-end or revolving credit like the kind you get on bank cards depends not only on the annual percentage rate, but also on the way your outstanding balance is calculated. The creditor has to tell you which method is used: average balance, previous balance or adjusted balance. The adjusted balance method is the cheapest; the previous balance system is the most expensive.

Wise use of credit includes knowing when to stop. How can you tell you have reached your limit? "There is no general, all-encompassing answer," says the bar association. There are some danger signs, however. You probably are at or near your limit if:

—Monthly payments for all your debts except your mortgage add up to more than 20 percent of your monthly take-home pay — after taxes.

—You never pay more than the minimum due each month. Many creditors are increasing the minimum payment; if you can barely manage the existing minimum, you could be in trouble when new rules take effect. Try to increase payments on your own, gradually, so you won't face a sudden boost, all at once, later on.

—You use credit to pay for things you used to buy with cash. Credit should not be used for everyday purchases like groceries.

Popular 'envoy' told not to drink waters

WASHINGTON — "Big Jim" may have gone to that great pigen in the sky, but his legacy lives on.

The late hog, named after the Illinois Governor James Thompson, was bestowed upon the Chinese two years ago by a visiting trade delegation.

Big Jim took the country of one billion by storm. Thanks to a prodigious reproductive capacity, he sired dozens of little Big Jims.

The irrepressible fellow quickly became the most famous hog in China and an important symbol of Sino-American friendship.

Big Jim took up residence in China while U.S. officials were trying to set up an exchange of swine breeding scientists between the two countries.

But just a few months after his arrival, he came down with a deadly disease called toxoplasmosis. Despite around-the-clock care, the weary hog succumbed.

Big Jim's passing was mourned by Chinese and Americans alike. But no one was more saddened than Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill.

In a touching tribute, Findley spoke of the animals' "untimely" death, how he had served as a "pioneer" in Sino-American hog breeding.

"He died for a good cause," the Illinois Republican sighed.

Findley predicted that Big Jim's death would pump renewed vigor into efforts to exchange swine scientists with the Chinese.

A few weeks ago, after months of on-and-off negotiations, the Chinese sent word to Findley that they would be willing to partipate.

Although a definite date has not been set, the current plan is for each country to exchange scientists specializing in swine, corn, and soybeans. The Chinese corn and soybean specialists will conduct their work at the University of Illinois, in Champaign-Urbana.

Findley, who spent more than two years trying to get the exchange off the ground, confessed he was "elated" by the news.

"I had frankly just about given up on it," he said. "I thought it had gotten lost in the bureaucracy of a billion people."

As for Big Jim, well, he didn't live to see the breakthrough with the Chinese, but he was there in spirit.

And some congressional staffers fondly recalled this week that the hog's brief but illustrious career not only served the cause of diplomacy, but inspired some lighter moments as well.

After it became known that Big Jim had taken ill, for example, staffers on the House Agriculture Committee occasionally would say to each other, with a chuckle, "We're rooting for him to pull through." Rooting refers to a habit hogs have of digging up dirt with their snouts.

An aide to an Illinois congressman, meanwhile, had his own theory about Big Jim's demise.

"I told him not to drink the water but he didn't listen."

Wintry cold front moves out of Texas

By the Associated Press

The last vestiges of a wintry cold front moved out of Texas early today, leaving fair skies across the state.

Early morning temperatures remained in the 30s and 40s. Westerly winds prevailed across the state at 10 to 15 mph.

On Sunday, the harsh Arctic front brought rain to the eastern half of Texas from Lufkin to San Antonio. New Summerfield, southeast of Tyler, received 2.52 inches of rain in less than 24 hours.

Light rain, mixed with some snow, was reported north of Austin and in Northeast Texas from Sulphur Springs to Texarkana.

El Paso began digging out from an unexpected snow storm that dumped as much as six inches of snow in some parts of the city Saturday and left thousands shivering in the dark.

El Paso Electric Co. officials estimated about 50 utility poles snapped and left 15,000 residents without power until early Sunday.

The National Weather Service predicted fair skies and warmer temperatures statewide today. Afternoon highs should range from the 50s and 60s to the 70s in the southwest.

"Losing Hair? Try This At No Risk"

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss...and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss...but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already sick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are sick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days—at their risk—if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail.

There are no miracle workers anymore

It takes an occasional trip to Washington to make one realize that the chief actors in the continuing drama of national and international politics are not pawns being moved around by an unseen hand but flesh and bone, capable of inspired action on occasions but also guilty of monumental blunder at other times.

When the former Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger, told a group of newspaper editors recently that he believed President Carter and Cyrus Vance were dealing with the Iranian crisis as best they could, under the circumstances, he didn't seem to be patronizing either individual.

And when Admiral Stansfield Turner, now chief of the CIA, reiterated that he would not hesitate to use journalists on intelligence missions, after being challenged for taking that stance by several of the newsmen present, he did not appear to be trying to tamper with the rights of a free press but rather, in his own words, said he "hoped that reporters would feel a sense of patriotism equally as strong as that of the average American."

The newsmen present for the briefings were jolted into reality if they went there thinking the situation in Iran could be easily resolved.

Carter has no easy options. Presidential candidates George Bush and Ronald Reagan said the chief executive waited much too long to sever diplomatic relations with the Iranians and he may have been guilty of dragging his feet, but none dared to suggest that Iran be bombed into submission nor a blockade be set up to deprive the rest of the world of the right to enter Iranian waters.

No industrialized nation in the world now using Iranian oil wants to be cut off from that supply, and the United States could very well be courting their enmity by setting up the blockade and mining the waters of the Persian Gulf.

There seems to be far fewer hawks in this country than there were prior to and during the early days of the Vietnam War. There will be even fewer in the future, when most every nation of any size masters the secret of atomic weapons.

If problems are worked out in the Middle East, and that Gordian knot may never be cut during our lifetime, the solutions will come not on the battlefield but at conference tables.

Meanwhile, life goes on in Washington. President Carter gets up with the Iranian crisis in the morning and goes to bed with it at night. He needs all the help and advice he can get, and he's not getting much of the kind he can use.

Washington itself has taken pretty much of a hard line against him. In short, the anvil chorus is in good voice, but no one seems to have any solutions. The second guessers are waiting to come out of the wings after the creases have been ironed out. Right now, those critics are showing very human characteristics by remaining mute.

Turning leaf

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

I'm turning over a new leaf. I've decided instead of joining the National Society of Procrastinators, I'm going to start making lists.

Today's priority was to get this column written under threat of death from Tommy Hart. Then it was to get my laundry done, buy Nathan Poss the bottle of vodka I lost to him in a bet and get my taxes mailed out.

SOMEWHERE FURTHER down on the list was to do my checking account statement, buy a new litter box for the cat who is now mothering three kittens, pick up a laundry basket so I can stop dragging clothes to the laundromat in paper bags and do my dishes.

Well, at least my laundry is done. I suppose even the best of us procrastinate once in a while except for a certain few.

I met a graduate student in college who had an entire year's strategy planned out. By Oct. 1, his ideas for his final project were to be submitted to his advisor. Two weeks later, he was going to have his idea picked and outlined. Research for the first phase was to be completed by Nov. 15, the second phase by Dec. 15th and the third phase by Dec. 21. The first draft would be finished by Jan. 10, the second draft by Feb. 28 and the final draft finished by the end of March. He would have it professionally typed and ready to submit by May. And he had all these plans written out. It was unbelievable that something like this existed. Everyone I knew started their final projects a week before they were due.

Or how about the woman who has her outfit all ready for the large formal dinner a week before the event takes place? I always thought the only way to do it was to get the gown to the cleaners two days before the dinner and run out and buy a matching purse that afternoon.

IT'S THE SAME with a large dinner. When I was in Philly in November, plans called for me to cook dinner for 12, to be eaten at six o'clock. I ran out and bought the chicken at four. We did sit down to dinner a little after six. Not bad. They all thought I was organized. They didn't know I had turned into superwoman for a few hours. It was either that or the chicken wasn't cooked. And I know that my private body-guard named Vito who was staring everyone down during dinner was not the reason they didn't complain.

So to make life easier, I am making daily lists. But it doesn't stop there. We also have our weekly lists. Write letters to Cindy, Sharon, Frank, Wendie, Mike, Elaine, Lisa, Sue and Diane. They've all been waiting for three months. And give the living room a good cleaning. Only next Monday we'll see if they get done.

Then we have the "one of these days" list. For instance, get that drawing framed, give the entire house a good cleaning and write to Mom, Bern, Aunt Martha and Aunt Mae. I figure the four of them will always love me no matter how long it takes for me to get a letter out. No rush. But it will get done. Eventually.

Now along with my laundry, the column is written. That should make the man who owns the laundromat and Tommy Hart very happy. Everything else will have to wait until tomorrow. Or Wednesday. Or one of these days.

Sadat as Statesman

Joseph Kraft

CAIRO, Egypt — Alone among active political leaders, Anwar Sadat rises to the level of international statesman. His traits, if not those of a dying species, at least command attention, and several of them asserted themselves when I visited the Egyptian president at his villa outside Cairo the other day.

Solitude struck me first. Like all other rulers, including even the ayatollah, Sadat has to work his will through a large bureaucracy which he manages through various ministers and a personal staff. But to an extraordinary degree Sadat separates himself from his administrative apparatus the better to identify himself with his people as a whole.

HE SPENDS LARGE chunks of the year out of Cairo — visiting Alexandria in the summer, and Aswan in upper Egypt during the winter. He meditates by himself for several hours each day. Ministers and aides who come too close are mysteriously dropped. Only the other day, Hassan Kamel, a veteran diplomat who served Sadat for years as chief of the presidential staff, was suddenly moved to another post.

His press secretary, Mme. Himmat Mustafa, is a lady who makes appointments. During my interview I took all the notes and did all the taping. The only interruption came when a security guard supplied Sadat with a match for his pipe.

Avoidance of the trivial detail that preoccupies the mere technicians of leadership is another Sadat characteristic. When I asked him what he had in mind for his talks with President Carter about Palestinian autonomy, he remarked blandly: "The main question should be what do the words 'full autonomy' mean." Getting him to fill in the particulars was agonizing work. When I remarked that he has a justified reputation for talking in airy generalities, he just laughed.

Concentration on the big subjects goes with avoidance of detail. Whatever else Sadat may do in the months and years ahead, he is very unlikely to go back on the peace with Israel. In our chat, he referred to it over and over again as "a great achievement." When I suggested the achievement might be undone, he said:

"History never goes backward. The language of mobilization and bitterness has been brought to an end. The October war was our last one."

Nobility figures largely in Sadat's makeup. He is faithful to his engagements and shows bravery in supporting vanquished allies. In his talk with me, he did not criticize President Carter or anybody else for shabby treatment of the shah of Iran. But he cried "Shame on those who once courted him, and then turned their backs." He said proudly that except in Egypt the shah has been "wounded in his inner feelings." He noted that Egypt, like Panama and many other countries, have long prohibited medical practice by foreigners, including even Michael DeBakey, the eminent American surgeon who operated on the shah here. But in Sadat's mind larger considerations waded those regulations away. "In every civilized country," he said, "DeBakey would be welcome to train the doctors."

Lastly comes a powerful sense of occasion. Sadat seized the moment for the 1973 war. He seized the moment for the visit to Jerusalem. He precipitated the Camp David summit. Now he is forcing the pace for a new decision by May 26 — the target date for agreement on Palestinian autonomy.

Bronchitis: Anatomy of a wheeze

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would it be possible for you to devote a future column to the subject of bronchitis? — T.M.

Sure. It's an important subject that I've touched on briefly from time to time.

Air gets to the lungs through a system of increasingly narrower pipes. The largest pipe, the trachea, is the firm structure you feel in the front of your neck. At about mid-chest level, the trachea forks off into two smaller pipes, the bronchi, which conduct air to the right and left lungs.

These divide again and again, into ever smaller tubes, the smallest being the bronchioles. These lead air into the end sacs of the lungs — the alveoli. Bronchitis is inflammation of these tiny airways. If the airways themselves become inflamed that is pneumonia. Enough anatomy.

Bronchitis can be acute or chronic, two words you hear a lot in medicine. In this case, acute bronchitis means it is caused by some sudden event, for example, an infection, either bacterial or viral.

The airways are lined with mucus-producing glands so that if inflamed there is a great outpouring of mucus. Or muscles around the bronchi may go into spasm, making them narrower, causing the wheezing of bronchitis. Irritating fumes can do the same thing.

Once acute bronchitis has been treated things usually return to normal. Chronic bronchitis is different because it is most often our own fault. I have to list cigarette smoking high among causes. Smokers' airways are in a perpetual state of constriction because they don't stop long enough for them to bounce back. There is also the constant mucus production that causes the coughing.

The strict definition of chronic bronchitis is cough and mucus production three months a year for two years. Although chronic bronchitis implies actual damage, things can be done to make life easier. You can guess the chief one — quitting the weeds.

With chronic bronchitis, airway infections have to be treated diligently. Some medicines help expand airways. Preventively, some doctors put patients on low doses of antibiotics during seasons of increased respiratory infections, like winter.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have asked a general practitioner, an internist, a dentist and a nose and throat man. None could find the reason for my bad breath. The internist did prescribe a liquid medicine. Butibel. It tastes terrible and is not controlling the bad breath. I smoke a pack and a half of cigarettes a day. I know this creates smoky breath, but mine is not just smoky. People don't want to get too close to me. Please help. — J.S.

With all this attention you probably have been examined for the usual causes of bad breath — teeth and gum disease, slowing of the flow of saliva, lung infection and digestive disorders. A few others, such as diabetes and liver or kidney disease, are possibilities.

Heavy smoking can cause more than smoky breath. I suggest you stop to see if that will correct the problem.

The Butibel is to soothe the digestive tract in the event that this was contributing to your bad breath. If it is not working, tell your doctor.

A rare condition called "ozena" can produce an offensive odor that often cannot be perceived by the person who has it. It causes a chronic greenish nasal discharge and scab formation in the nose.

Dear Dr. Donohue: When I first get up in the morning the lower part of my back is so stiff that I can hardly straighten up. After a couple of hours

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am 9 years old, and I would like to know how to be a good person. — S.O.

DEAR S.O.: I am thankful you want to be a good person. You are old enough to know that not everyone is good — in fact, there are a lot of people in the world who are not very good. But God wants you to be a good person. The Bible says, "A good man obtains favor from the Lord" (Proverbs 12:2).

How can you be a good person? The place to begin is to realize that you cannot be truly good without God's help. In fact, the Bible tells us that by nature we are not good. That does not mean we are all completely evil; a person may be good most of the time. But God is perfect, and no matter how good we are we still are very imperfect. This is what the Bible calls sin — our failure to do good in God's eyes. Like everyone else, you need to be forgiven of your sins by God — God wants to forgive you. Have you ever invited Jesus Christ to come into your life? He loves you, and He died on the cross to take away your sins.

most of the stiffness disappears. What is the cause, and can anything be done about it? The symptoms seem so obvious and follow such a consistent pattern that one would think this could be solved. — R.R.

This could mean many of several things, from faulty sleeping posture to an aging mattress to rheumatoid arthritis. My first suspicion would be rheumatoid arthritis. R.A. most often acts this way, with stiffness and pain on arising and easing of it during the day. A doctor could confirm this and begin you on a drug and exercise control program.

"Bad Breath Can Be Correct" is the title of a booklet by Dr. Donohue explaining the causes and cures of bad breath. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would it be wise for a person with angina to eliminate coffee from his diet? — J.F.

Yes. Either that or use the decaffeinated kind. Caffeine is a mild stimulant, yet it might be enough in some people to cause extra heart activity and hence angina pain. Eliminating the coffee as a trial would be worth the effort.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Editor,

There are two things that are tough when one moves frequently.

One is moving into a new area and being confronted with getting to know the area, customs and making new friends. The second is having to leave all those friends and a acquired customs behind when moving on.

The first — I found when I moved to Big Spring almost two years ago — wasn't tough at all! The natural tendency of Big Springers seems to be friendliness. It stands to reason, then, that leaving Big Spring will be tougher than usual.

On Thursday, April 17, I will be leaving Big Spring and many friends. I thank each one of you that I have met in person, on the phone or via KBST's airways.

My thanks also to Paul Fezelle,

Lery and Sherry Walker, Greg and Lynn Smith, John and Ellen Brooks, the Winston Wrinkle family, Greg Cole, Kim Hall and Bill Hall for making me feel like a part of the family during those times when mine was 1400 miles away; to Nadine Teague for her catching enthusiasm and to Lucille Moran for all the early morning donuts, and especially the justification to eat them when my diet said NO!

If a poet didn't, he should have said a life is shaped as carefully as a sculptor sculpts a marble statue. Some pieces must be left behind to contribute to the overall shape and success of the finished product, even when the sculptor hates to chip away at his creation.

My thanks to ya'll!

Ellen Porter weds Dr. Allen in Mathis

Ellen Porter, became the bride of Dr. Jeff Allen on March 29 in the First United Methodist Church, Mathis.

The Rev. Charles Simpson performed the 7 p.m. ceremony before an altar enhanced by palm-flanked candelabums and arrangements of white gladiolus and chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Porter, Mathis, and the late Thomas Porter. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Allen Jr., Graham, Tex. He is the grandson of Mrs. Ruth Carter Allen, Big Spring.

The bride chose to wear a gown of pale ivory starched chiffon designed by the House of Bianchi. Appliques of satin Venice lace covered the natural waisted bodice and defined the Queen Anne neckline.

The flared skirt fell to floor-length and extended into a chapel-length train of lace-encircled scallops. A tiny Juliet cap adorned with matching Venice lace held the chapel-length veil of illusion.

She carried a bridal bouquet of white and pink roses and stephanotis sprinkled with baby's breath.

Mrs. Janice Porter served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Kim Porter and Lisa Porter.

Nathan Allen Jr. attended his son as best man. Groomsman were Louis Pitcock III and David Behrens.

Guests were seated by Will Porter, Bob Porter, Davey Donnell and Dr. Henry Lide. Immediately following the rite, Mr. and Mrs. Allen were feted at a buffet dinner and dance at Tynan Recreation Hall.

The bride is a graduate of Mathis High School and Southwest Texas State University, San Marcos. She received her Masters of Agriculture from Texas A&M University.

The groom graduated from Graham High School and attended West Texas State University. He graduated from Texas A&M University College of Veterinary medicine in August, 1979.

Upon returning from a wedding trip to New Orleans La., the newlyweds will make their home in Graham.

Family Living Committee plans educational events

The Howard County Family Living Committee met April 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the County Extension Office. Members attending were Mrs. Frances Zant, Mrs. Lonnie Wright, Mrs. Bob Wren, Mrs. Millie Hartfield and County Extension Agent Janet Rogers.

The committee met to plan several upcoming educational events that will be available to county residents.

A Housing Tour for May 21 or 23 was planned. Three homes will be toured from 9:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

A specific date will be selected as soon as home owners are contacted.

The committee will also sponsor a Furniture Refinishing Workshop May 27-30 from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. daily. The workshop will be held at the county barn. Other educational programs were discussed and will be planned in detail at a later meeting.

The committee reviewed the County Long Range Plan. A survey sheet will be provided for each committee member to suggest which educational programs will help families learn to cope with changes in nutrition, health, family stability, aging, housing, resource management and clothing.

These recommendations will be for 1980 through 1985. This assist agents in planning educational programs which will benefit the entire community.

For additional information on any of the educational events, contact Mrs. Rogers at 267-8469.

Word to parents on sitters' rights

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Cindy, 15, from Merced, Calif., has problems with the lady she baby-sits for and would like some advice from her peers. Tina Jolley, 18, who resides in London, Ontario, Canada, and Phil Locke, 15, who hails from Santa Barbara, Calif., will do the honors.

Dr. Wallace: I baby-sit for a lady who constantly arrives home several hours later than she tells me. Yesterday, she was supposed to be home at 7 but didn't get home until 9:15. Because of this, I missed a basketball game that I wanted very much to attend.

I like the lady and the little girl whom I baby-sit for and I need the money. My mom thinks that I should quit the job but I'm not sure I can financially exist without it. I'd like to hear what other teens have to say. I'd also like your advice. — Cindy, Merced, Calif.

Cindy: Don't quit, but the next time you have something planned and need to leave at a certain time, tell the woman about it when she calls you.

If she can't promise that she will be home at the designated time, ask her to find another baby sitter but tell her that you want to continue being her baby sitter.

Hello Cindy: Why do you think that this lady is your only source of income? Good baby sitters, such as you, can easily find employment. If I were you, I'd quit and baby-sit for more considerate employers. — Tina, London, Ontario, Canada

Hello Cindy: I see no reason to quit. Parents need training and guidance just like teens. So Train this parent. Start off by charging her double for the first hour she is late, triple for the second, etc. Then train her to call you if she plans to be home late and ask your permission. Finally, when she calls and wants to stay later and you say no, she comes home on time. Thus, being trained, your parent will be an excellent employer. — Phil, Santa Barbara, Calif.

If you would like to be a teen guest writer, please write to me in care of this newspaper.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Readers' Defense Takes Bull by the Horns

DEAR ABBY: This is in protest of your ignorant evaluation of a time-honored art which you labeled "the brutal and bloody business of torturing and killing animals for sport and entertainment — bullfighting."

What an outrageously ethnocentric remark! Bullfighting first appeared as early as 2,000 years before Christ. Since then it has flourished in Spain, Portugal and Latin America. For centuries, kings and noblemen as well as commoners have involved themselves in that sport.

Abby, as a foreigner, it is unfair for you to criticize the customs of another country. In Spain, bullfighting is considered an art, not merely a sport. When you say the animals are "tortured," it shows that you don't know anything about bullfighting. The bulls used in the arena are bred especially for their ferocity to kill men! It takes enormous skill and courage for a 175-pound man armed only with a cape and sword to face a wild bull weighing 2,000 pounds. And when the time comes to kill the animal, the men often kill the bull with a single thrust of the sword! (Tell me that chasing a fox with a pack of trained dogs, riding on horseback and using guns to kill is more sporting! The same can be said of your hunting birds and animals!)

In conclusion, I wish to inform you that in most cases the meat of the bulls killed in the arena is sold cheap to the city's poor or given to orphanages.

C. FERNANDEZ

DEAR C.: Many wrote to defend bullfighting. In fact, to my amazement, a high school teacher of Spanish in Delaware, Ill., instructed the entire class to write to me to protest my answer and defend the "art" of bullfighting.

DEAR ABBY: What have you got against bullfighting? OK, so it's outlawed in the U.S. But how about the brutal and bloody sport that's making millions of dollars — called boxing?

Those in the ring are not animals, they are human beings, and they are in there to kill each other for sport, entertainment — and money! And when you get right down to it, ice hockey is a "brutal and bloody business," too. And so is football. Think about it, Abby.

NORTH DAKOTA FAN

DEAR FAN: I've thought about it, and I still disapprove of any sport (spectator or contact) in which blood (animal or human) is spilled.

DEAR ABBY: I must commend you for speaking out against bullfighting. Unfortunately, there are people in the world who believe it is good entertainment to watch dogfights, cockfights, etc. There are even people who condone using live rabbits for training greyhounds (for dog racing). The rabbits are put onto the track with no chance of escaping, and although exhausted, the terrified creatures run until they are caught and torn to shreds!

There is absolutely no justification for these barbaric acts against animals. They demoralize human beings, and lower us to the days of the gladiators when animals were pitted against each other as the crowd roared in excitement and amusement.

Keep up the good work, Abby. The world needs more people like you.

MS. JERI ZUPANCIC

DEAR ABBY: I don't see anything wrong with bullfighting. They feed the bulls well, let them live for four years and then put them in the ring where they are killed instantly. I think putting animals in a zoo is more cruel.

SPANISH STUDENT

DEAR ABBY: In your country you fatten up your bulls, run them up a chute at the stockyards and hit them over the head with an axe before they become hamburger or steaks. Your bulls have no chance to fight for their lives. Ours have. Ole!

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOUNG PHILOSOPHER IN TUCSON: You are on the right track. Tape this on your mirror: "Time is the coin of your life. It is the only coin you have, and only you can determine how it will be spent. Be careful lest you let others spend it for you" (Carl Sandburg).

Beating the wrinkles rap

Almost all faces can expect a few wrinkles, eventually. But, by avoiding the most common causes of wrinkles, it's possible to postpone them, diminish them, perhaps even escape some of them altogether. To smooth the way toward this endeavor, Clinique Laboratories offers these suggestions for beating the wrinkles rap.

One of the principal causes of wrinkled, leathery skin is the sun. Protect your face, and your whole body, with a truly effective sun block. This doesn't mean you can't tan. It means you tan without damage.

Poor circulation brings on wrinkles. To get your blood going, all the way out to the tiny capillaries that nourish the skin, make a habit of daily exercise. Yoga, stretching, headstands, or anything that gets your head lower than the rest of you.

Avoid tension in the neck and shoulders. This not only cuts down circulation to the head and face, it also leads to a tense, wrinkle-making facial expression. Relaxation, as all the travel-folders tell us, does wonders for your looks.

Dry skin is most likely to be wrinkled skin. If your skin is unusually dry, take precautions. Be sure your soap is mild enough. Use moisturizer day and night. Get portable lubrication in stick form — keep it with you for on-the-spot help. Give up whistling, this encourages wrinkles in the upper lip. Sing instead. Maintain even weight. A lot of gaining, then losing, leaves skin (including facial skin) in slack, saggy condition. This is asking for wrinkles. Check your diet. For wrinkle-resistance, you need some interior lubrication from fats and oils. A completely fat-free diet may sound like a good way to lose weight, but it will leave you with cranky, sluggish insides and a prune face. You also need plenty of protein which counteracts flabbiness, helps prevent puffs and pleats under eyes. Learn about exfoliation. This means sweeping off the dead skin flakes that form a dull, crusty surface on your skin — a surface more likely to fold into creases than the fresher, more supple layer of skin that's underneath. If all else fails, there's always plastic surgery. Or dermabrasion (exfoliation done in greater depth, by a dermatologist). In most cases, these methods can give a face a new start, and help it forget its lines.

Big Spring Association of Life Underwriters will have its regular monthly meeting at noon Thursday in the Holiday Inn.

The association members will consider the election of officers for the coming year.

Curt Mullins, vice president of First National Bank in Big Spring, will be the speaker for the meeting. His topic will be on investment securities.

Razor trends

BOSTON (AP) — Single-blade razors users are a vanishing breed, according to Samuel Schell.

Schell, president of Gillette Co's Safety Razor Division, says that currently 55 percent of the "wet shave" market is controlled by twin-blade razors, with this number increasing annually.

Schell predicts that by 1983, 90 percent of all razors will be twin-bladed.

The C.R. Anthony Store, which has moved from its downtown location to the College Park Shopping Center, will stage its grand opening at 10 a.m., Tuesday. The store embraces 18,000 square feet and has been arranged with the customer in mind.

Bob Johnson will continue as manager of the store. Johnson has been associated with the local firm for many years. He first became a store manager for Anthony's at Crane, Tex., and later served in a similar capacity at Seminole, Tex., before moving to Big Spring.

Anthony's opened its first store in the Big Spring area in 1941 under the management of M.C. (Cuin) Grigsby, who now serves the parent firm as area supervisor and who still resides in Big Spring. As area supervisor, Grigsby works closely with the Anthony's president in the general office.

Grigsby said Anthony's

The Big Spring store has turned out no less than 36 people trained by Grigsby who have gone on to manage Anthony stores.

Over the years, Anthony's has made good use of such slogans as "cash buys more now than credit ever will" and "nationally known products at popular prices."

Anthony's got its start with a single store in 1926 and today has more than 300 outlets, most of them located in the Great Southwest.

Grigsby said Anthony buyers visit markets throughout the world to purchase goods that are displayed in company stores, a policy that will be continued.

TAR president speaks to Realtors Tuesday

Several hundred men and women working in the West Texas real estate profession, from El Paso and Odessa and San Angelo to Abilene, will gather at 12 noon, Tuesday in the Howard College cafeteria to hear David L. Stirtion of Houston. Stirtion is the president of the Texas Association of Realtors.

Rufus Rowland, meeting chairman for the Big Spring Board of Realtors, said this morning:

"Members of nine boards will be attending. We are also looking forward to a 10 a.m. workshop conducted by James T. Sawyer of Austin. Sawyer, who is the executive vice president of the association, will moderate the session which will focus on a diversity of specialized information related to Multiple Listing Service, professional standards matters and board organization."

Fred Gage of Odessa, vice president of TAR, past president of TAR, Wallace A. Moritz, Jeff Brown of Big Spring, TAR director, and many other acknowledged leaders are expected for this meeting.

As Rowland says, "We know that Stirtion will have many important things to say to us. For example, we know that the National Association of Realtors has asked all realtors to join in talking to congressmen about seeing to it that the Federal spending growth rate is slowed by 2 percent. It is a fact that if we can slow the growth rate of our national expenditures that we will be able to reduce the amount by $18 billion during fiscal 1981."

Stirtion is also expected to stress the fact that "the outlook of the citizens of our country is being transformed. People used to feel that government was too big for corrective political action. Now they want to be active politically. And, I for one, have no fear about the outcome in any case where the majority really rules."

"The way we evaluate candidates that we might support is to ascertain their positions or commitment to the principles of the free enterprise system, the rights of private property ownership and fiscal responsibility in government."

Stirtion flies his own airplane on photographic and appraisal missions as well as on his travels for TAR. A veteran of active and reserve duty as a Navy fighter pilot and squadron commander during World War II, Stirtion has done a great deal of appraising and teaching of real estate courses since his wartime days.

Among the board presidents who plan to attend the Big Spring session are Bob Ingram, San Angelo; Virgil Tower, Odessa; Joan Ramey, Midland; Pearl Calk, El Paso; Merie Kemper, Del Rio; Eugene Gibson, Brownwood; Pearl Locke, Andrews-Gaines County; Bobbie Hooker, Abilene; and Pat Medley, Big Spring

Salaries will be discussed

Coahoma school district board trustees meet at 7 p.m. today at the schools' administration office, located at High School and Main Streets in Coahoma.

The board will discuss salaries for all personnel for the 1980-81 school year. The board will also conduct an election for the Region 18 ESC board of directors and will renew agreements for commodities for the 1980-81 school year.

The Runnels Junior High boys' track team finished the 1980 season with a second place finish in the Sweetwater Meet over the weekend.

The Yearlings scored 113 1/2 points to earn their second place finish.

Highlighting the Runnels effort were the 400-meter relay and 1600-meter relay outfits, as both capped first place finishes. The quartet of Eric Sherman, Jerry Wrightsill, Juan Williams and Joey Herrera won the 400-relay in a time of 48.53, while the same group won the 1600-relay in a time of 3:51.93.

Two other Yearlings also won first places in the individual competition. Sherman won the 400 with a time of 58.39, while Guy Dias won the pole vault with a leap of 8'.

Taking second place finishes for the Yearlings were Jerry Wrightsill (100), Salvador Trevino (400), Juan Williams (200), and Robert DePorto (1600).

Joey Herrera won third place in both the long jump and the 200, while other third place finishers for the Yearlings included Elijah Aldridge (discus) and Wrightsill (high jump).

Richard Hilario took fourth in the 800, with Raul Enriquez was fifth in the 1600. Earning sixth place finishes for the Yearlings were Terry Borofsky (1600), Leon Barraza (100), Aldridge (shot put), Ariste (discus) and Sherman (high jump).

The Runnels B team in the 1600-meter relay finished third. That group was comprised of Daniel Ariste, James Carrillo, Richard Hilario and Salvador Trevino.

The Runnels group also won the Weight Man's 440-relay in a time of 53.41. That was the group of Jimmy Cearly, Ariste, Carrillo and Aldridge.

Coahoma, Wylie take 6-AA JHS girls title

COAHOAMA — Coahoma and Wylie took the eighth and seventh grade District 6-AA girls track titles here Saturday afternoon, respectively.

The Coahoma eighth grade girls winning performance was highlighted by the 400-meter relay and 800-meter relay wins, which gave them 40 important points en route to a winning 150-point performance. The Coahoma girls also placed second in the 1200-meter relay, which was good for 16 points.

Four Coahoma girls registered first place showings in the eighth grade division. T. Henry was a double winner in the long jump and 200-meter dash, while Paige won the 100-meter hurdles and L. Kerby won the 600-meter dash.

Wylie won the seventh grade competition with 106 1/2 points, taking a narrow victory over Ballinger, who accumulated 102 and 1-3rd points. Coahoma finished sixth in the seventh grade affair with 57 and 1-3rd points.

Creech was the lone Coahoma seventh grader to win a first place, as she triumphed in the triple jump with a mark of 27' 1/2".

As Celtics take 3-0 series lead Rockets nearly dead

HOUSTON (AP) — The curtain could come down tonight on one of the most predictable shows in the National Basketball Association when the Houston Rockets host the Boston Celtics in the fourth game of their NBA Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series.

The Celtics, although not playing their best, defeated the Rockets 100-81 Sunday for the ninth consecutive time this season to take a 3-0 lead in the best of seven series.

And talking about making it 10 in a row only brings out comments that have been repeated nine times.

Each camp has its lines memorized perfectly. The Celtics can't slack up and the Rockets can't give up.

"I'm just glad that if we had to start a seven-game series tomorrow, we wouldn't have to play the Rockets," Boston Coach Bill Fitch said. "There are a lot of other teams I'd rather play than the Rockets."

"You'd think after losing that many games to us, they might give up on us. But they have never given up. They just keep coming at you. They haven't really played poorly in any of the games."

Rockets Coach Del Harris picks up the monologue with the "stiff upper lip" approach.

"If a baseball player goes 0 for 10, he doesn't quit and say he'll never get another hit," Harris said. "There's always a tendency when you lose a few games to blame anyone but yourself, the referees, the coach, your teammates. We've got to keep from doing that."

The script for Sunday's game called for Nate Archibald to come off the bench, hit nine of 10 shots from the field and to combine with Larry Bird to lead a game-winning third-quarter surge.

Archibald followed the script with 20 points and Bird had 18 as the pair helped outscore the Rockets 16-4 over the final 4:44 of the third quarter. The Celtics, who shot only 36 percent in the first quarter, finished on the run, pumping 67 percent in the third period.

"We were rolling in the fourth quarter," said Bird. "We had to keep the pressure on them. Just because we were ahead by 14 doesn't mean we win the game. You have to pressure and play defense to the end."

But the end may be approaching for the Rockets if they can't find a winning combination. None has worked so far.

"They've tried a lot of combinations on us this year and they seem to be running out of them," said forward Cedric Maxwell, who scored 19 points. "We show them so many combinations coming off the bench that it is hard physically for them to contain us."

Sonics, 76ers take NBA wins

After the Sonics beat the Bucks at Milwaukee 112-107 Sunday to even their best-of-seven National Basketball Association playoff series at two victories apiece, the Sonics will be at home when the series resumes Tuesday night and also for the seventh game, if necessary.

The Sonics led all the way Sunday, scoring the first 10 points of the game and building the lead to as many as 18 before being rallied back a late Milwaukee rally. Seattle guard Gus Williams led all scorers with 23 points.

In the other Western Conference second-round series, the Phoenix Suns staved off elimination by beating the Los Angeles Lakers 127-101. Los Angeles, leading 3-1, will get another chance to wrap up the series Tuesday night on its home floor.

In the East, Boston and Philadelphia both moved within one victory of advancing to the conference finals by winning Sunday. The Celtics clobbered the Houston Rockets 100-81 to hit 3-0 and the 76ers beat the Hawks at Atlanta 107-83 to take a 3-1 lead. Both can end their series at home, Boston playing tonight and Philadelphia Tuesday night.

Suns 127, Lakers 101
Paul Westphal scored 25 points and six other Phoenix players hit double figures as the Suns beat Los Angeles to stay alive. Phoenix went ahead early in the first period, built the lead up to 25 points in the third quarter and was never threatened.

76ers 107, Hawks 83
Darryl Dawkins opened the third quarter with an 18-foot jumper, Maurice Cheeks hit three straight field goals and Philadelphia went on to outscore the Hawks 35-17 in the period to move from a 46-46 halftime tie to a commanding 81-63 lead going into the final period.

Reserve forward Bobby Jones and Cheeks led the Sixers with 20 points apiece.

USOC move could halt Olympics

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Tears glistened in Robert J. Kane's eyes as the U.S. Olympic Committee president conveyed the news that, for the first time in history, the United States will not be sending a team to the Olympic Games.

Ralph Mann, a silver medalist in the hurdles in the 1972 Olympics, choked up while discussing the decision and had to walk away from a group of newsmen.

Although almost everyone anticipated a pro-boycott vote, there was nothing cut-and-dried about it. The decision wasn't an easy one to make, as evidenced by the emotion displayed following Saturday's historic vote by the USOC's House of Delegates.

Yielding to pressure from the Carter administration, the delegates voted by a 2-to-1 margin to boycott the 1980 Summer Games in Moscow as a protest against the Soviet Union's military intervention in Afghanistan.

Douglas F. Roby, one of two Americans on the IOC, told The Associated Press that if the Carter administration is able to get the Western bloc of nations to join the U.S. boycott, the International Olympic Committee would not stage the Summer Games, which are scheduled to begin July 19 in Moscow.

"If they get the important ones (nations), it is my opinion the IOC will cancel the Games," Roby said, mentioning Great Britain, France, West Germany, Australia, New Zealand and Canada. "The IOC doesn't want to see any half-baked Games."

Many of the delegates said the keys to quick passage of the boycott resolution were stirring appeals by Vice President Walter Mondale and USOC treasurer William Simon, a former cabinet member in the Nixon and Ford administrations.

Lendl takes River Oaks title

HOUSTON (AP) — Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia finally got the playing conditions he wanted — gusty winds accompanied by 46-degree temperatures and clay courts softened by overnight rains.

"It is nothing unusual to play in weather like this in my country," Lendl said Sunday after he had blitzed Eddie Dibbs 6-1, 6-3 to win the $30,000 first prize in the $175,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

Earlier in the week, with temperatures in the 80s and clear skies, Lendl complained the courts were too hard and too yellow. But Sunday, it was like playing at home.

"The clay was fine too, just like on the center court at my club at home," said Lendl. "The rain softened it up. It was just like playing in Europe."

Carter speaking out on Iran: Not much time left

WASHINGTON, AP — The No. 2 man at the State Department is warning that the Soviet Union is increasing its military force in Afghanistan while President Carter is saying "we don't have much time" to wait for allied help in dealing with Iran.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher said Sunday the Soviets have "well over 100,000 troops" in Afghanistan.

That is a sizeable increase over previous administration estimates of between 80,000 and 85,000 Russian troops in Afghanistan, with an additional 20,000 to 30,000 massed on the border.

Christopher, who offered the new assessment on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers," said the Russian generals "are asking for more troops" and said he had just read an analysis comparing the difficulties the Soviets are having in Afghanistan with those the United States had in Vietnam.

"The Soviet Union is having a great deal of difficulty with the Afghan army," he said. "They're pouring in additional troops. I think they are being shown that when they try to go in and take over an independent country, shoot up its mosques, execute a number of its people, they can't easily subjugate that kind of a country. The Afghan people are a brave and determined people and they are giving the Soviets a great deal of difficulty. If I were sitting in the Soviet Union, I would not regard that as the kind of an event that would encourage me to repeat it."

Sunday, a top White House official who asked not to be identified, picked up the Carter theme of expecting prompt action from U.S. allies to bring economic and diplomatic pressure on Iran in hopes of forcing a release of the 53 Americans held hostage there.

"We are looking to see what our allies are prepared to do," the official said.

In an interview Saturday with European television reporters, Carter disclosed that he had sent to the leaders of Great Britain, France, West Germany and Italy "a specific date" by which time he hoped to achieve success from an unspecified common effort designed to free the 53 Americans held in Tehran.

"We don't have much time left," Carter said in that interview, a transcript of which was made public Sunday by the White House.

"We prefer to keep our actions nonbelligerent in nature, but we reserve the right to take whatever action is necessary to secure the safe release of our hostages," Carter told the European reporters.

While neither Carter nor the senior White House official would disclose the date, it was reported to be sometime next month.

Three killed in fiery crash

DALHART, Texas (AP) — Three visitors from out of state were killed in a fiery two-car collision Sunday afternoon.

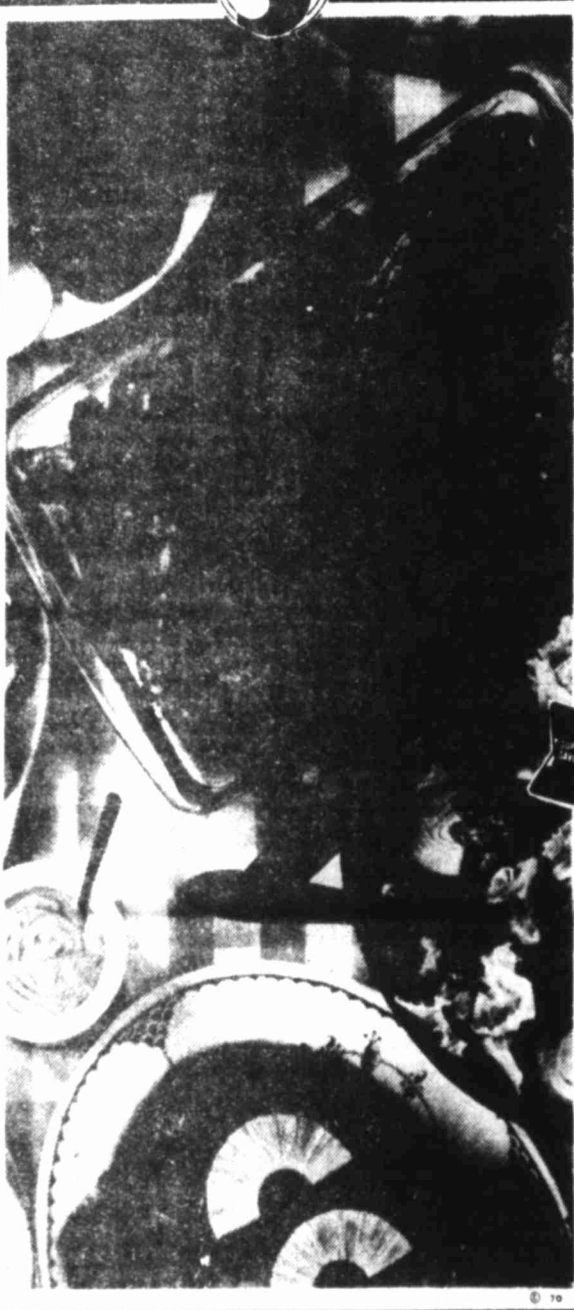

Burned beyond recognition were Ralph Morris Junkin, 65, and his wife Elizabeth Margaret, 62, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; and Scott Ekstrom, 21, of Albuquerque.

The accident occurred about 2:30 p.m. on U.S. Highway 54 near Dalhart, in the northwest corner of the Texas Panhandle.

Texas Department of Public Safety troopers said Ekstrom's westbound car crossed into the oncoming lane and struck a trailer pulled by the Junkins. His car then hit the rear of the Junkins' car, causing the gasoline tank to explode. Both vehicles caught fire, officers said.

'Lily-white' school adjusts to refugees

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) —

The pretty 14-year-old clutched her books and stared at the faces around her, the blue eyes and yellow hair so different from her brown eyes and dark hair — and from that of her friends back home in Vietnam.

It was the first day of school in America for Ha Le, one of the "boat people" who fled Vietnam last year.

The California youngsters in the sunny schoolyard looked different and stood in knots far apart from Southeast Asian students like herself.

Ha remembers wondering if she would ever make friends.

Today, almost a year later, Ha speaks some English and is making progress in her classes, but her dream of finding many friends among the Americans is still only that.

Ha is a student at Costa Mesa High School in Orange County, where the influx of Indochinese refugees into the United States has had its greatest impact, along with Los Angeles County to the north.

According to the California Department of Education, there were 6,689 Indochinese students in Orange County schools during the 1979-80 school year and 7,377 in Los Angeles County.

Costa Mesa counts almost 150 Indochinese among its 1,750 students; next fall there will probably be 180.

Most Southern California schools, familiar with helping Spanish-speaking youngsters with English and American customs, would have little trouble absorbing that number of foreign students.

But Costa Mesa High was different. Until the Indochinese students arrived, the school had less than 3 percent minority representation.

"I guess you could say we were lily-white," said Principal Robert Packer.

"The school went through its own kind of culture shock." The misunderstandings are occasionally amusing. Last fall, some newcomers taken to a pep rally thought they were witnessing a religious ritual.

But few occurrences are so innocent. "There are tensions," Packer said. "We've been very fortunate in that we haven't had any overt things."

In December, he said, an American girl and an Indochinese girl argued heatedly in the lunchroom, attracting a crowd. Administrators dispersed the students.

The only serious incident at the school involved non-students. In March, two members of rival Indochinese gangs ran into each other on campus while meeting dates after school; one drew a gun. He was arrested, Packer said, and school officials now watch for intruders.

American youngsters are also trying to adjust to the changes.

"Our students aren't used to being a minority at times," said Cordelia Gutierrez, a Spanish teacher and coordinator of the "English As a Second Language" program. "When they walk into the lunchroom and it's three-quarters Indochinese, it's a shock."

"You see very little crossing of friendships," the teacher added. "I think the Indochinese kids are leery of the Anglo-American kids, and our other kids have some real prejudices to cross over."

The problems faced by the Indochinese students are not confined to possible differences with classmates, said Dr. Lam Le Trinh, former South Vietnam minister of the interior and now a teacher-counselor at Costa Mesa High.

"Many spent a long time in Asian camps, went through many hardships, even rape," he said. Some are also lonely at home. Ha, for instance, lives with her uncle's family while her parents, brothers and sisters remain in Vietnam. She hopes they will eventually join her in California.

The youngsters must learn basic survival — how to shop, use a phone, take a bus. And they must overcome their early training to appear agreeable at all times.

Many will smile or say yes to something they don't understand. As a result, teachers have a hard time knowing when something must be explained.

Ha listens attentively, even when conversations go too fast for her, and smiles instead of asking questions. Asked about friendships with American students, she says only, "It's hard to get along when you don't speak English."

The lack of outside funding for Costa Mesa's Vietnamese student programs is compounding adjustment problems. Trinh, who counsels and teaches special civics and American history courses — is paid by federal funds.

But the local Newport-Mesa Unified School District must subsidize the rest of the Vietnamese program, which consists of four part-time instructors teaching English courses.

Still, teachers and staff members at Costa Mesa High are doing their best to prevent further polarization of students, Packer said.

Through a big brother-sister program, American youngsters and staffers help new arrivals with problems and questions. The student council also includes two Indochinese members.

Administrators have also organized meetings for teachers, to make them better aware of the students' problems. At one, Indochinese graduates returned to describe in now-fluent English their fears and concerns when they started school.

"Overall, they're very motivated to learn and seem eager to get involved in the mainstream as quickly as they can," Packer said. "I guess we've been guilty of seeing them as an entity. Now we're seeing them as individuals. We're learning, too."

Salad days in Milford

MILFORD, Mass. (AP) — What's green and red and has 1,000 heads? Milford's contender for the world's biggest antipasto.

After two hours of labor, the 300-foot-long salad was unveiled Sunday inside the town hall as part of Milford's bicentennial celebration.

The antipasto contained more than 1,000 heads of lettuce and 100,000 other ingredients, including tomatoes, cheeses, peppers, onions, olives and dressing.

Its fate: to be eaten by the public at no charge.

The Milford Brothers of the Brush and the Bicentennial Belles sponsored the making of the antipasto and said there is no record size listed in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The event is one of several scheduled this year. The town officially was 200 years old last Friday.

One hump or two

NEWPORT, Del. (AP) — Tired of feeding your car? Gus Scaran feeds his transportation hay. You can do that if you have three camels in your garage.

Scaran, 56, a Newport businessman, loves to ride his camels and watch peoples' reaction. He dreams of one day having a herd of 30 and holding camel races all over the country.

Meanwhile, he is happy to saddle up Sheik, Seba and baby camel, Nur, for parades, celebrations and visits to schools.

"That Sheik is a proud turkey when he's all dressed up," says Scaran.

Owning camels means being part of countless nativity scenes at Christmas. Scaran said there was one scene in Philadelphia when Sheik let his hunger get the better of him.

"Sheik leaned over, snatched the robe off Joseph, and ate it," Scaran recalled.

Scaran said he keeps his camels well fed on a daily bale of hay and some oats "and anything else they can find, from tin cans to aluminum siding."

And when his camels feel homesick, he takes them to Atlantic City, N.J., "for the sun and sand, of course."

Three die in fire spurred by high winds

HEBRONVILLE, Texas (AP) — A fast-moving fire that left three persons dead in the first fatal residential fire in 25 years may have been ignited by a gas kitchen stove apparently turned on for extra warmth, investigators said.

The fire, spurred by high winds, raced through a two-story frame house early Sunday, gutting the residence and leaving four persons hospitalized, firemen said.

"This is the first time I remember anyone being killed in a residential house fire in my 25 years here," said Hebronville Fire Marshal Gocha Ramirez.

The victims were identified as Alonzo Vivanco, 42, and his two daughters, 17-year-old Ivon and nine-year-old Isela. Their bodies, burned beyond recognition, were found huddled together in an upstairs bedroom, Laredo fire investigators said.

Two other persons in the house — including Vivanco's wife — were hospitalized in Corpus Christi for treatment of burns. Vivanco's two grandchildren were hospitalized in Falfurrias.

Vivanco's 38-year-old wife, Gloria, and nine-year-old Marivel Morales, a guest at the house, were listed in fair condition at Memorial Hospital in Corpus Christi late Sunday, a hospital spokesman said.

Aaron Vivanco, 4, and Alma Vivanco, 3, were listed in good condition at a Falfurrias hospital, a spokesman said.

Laredo fire investigators said the blaze apparently was ignited by a kitchen stove that had been turned during a sudden cold snap. Strong winds in the South Texas community were blamed for whipping the fire out of control.

Seven reported dead in twisters, floods

By the Associated Press

Texas shivered in near-freezing temperatures and French Quarter bar patrons were flooded out in New Orleans after packs of thunderstorms churned across the South, spawning destructive tornadoes and torrential rains that killed at least seven people.

"Noah said it's got to stop sometime. We're still looking for the dove with the olive branch," said F.M. Pearce, civil defense director in Louisiana's St. Tammany Parish, as the Pearl River rose.

But Jefferson Parish, New Orleans' most populous suburb, was under as much as 3 feet of water early today after nearly 14.5 inches of rain fell in three days.

Police warned that poisonous water snakes might flee swamps for higher ground, and two persons were treated after being bitten by fire ants from a floating colony.

Civil Defense officials in Gulfport, Miss., estimated $10 million damage after a twister ripped off roofs, shattered windows, wrecked airplanes and demolished a community center.

Rivers were rising under 6½ inches of rain in 30 hours, and Wade Guice, director of civil defense for Harrison County, said he expected 50 homes to be flooded before water receded.

About 200 houses were damaged, either by flooding or wind, Guice said, adding 17 persons were injured, none seriously.

Authorities declared a state of emergency in Gulfport and imposed a 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew. Additional police and deputies were called in to patrol the city.

In Jackson, residents began packing in anticipation of a repeat of last year's Easter flood that drove 17,000 people from their homes. But officials said flooding would not be extensive.

La. Gov Brad Dye was among those who worked into the night packing around their homes.

"Everybody is either moving out or they're moving up," said his wife, Donna. "You can hardly get down the street, there's so much traffic."

Report shows oil, gas drilling up in U.S.

DENVER (AP) — Petroleum Information, Inc., the oil and gas industry's reporting service, says 17.5 percent more oil and gas wells were drilled during the first quarter of this year than during the same period last year.

And the overall success rate during the first quarter of this year was 72.1 percent, compared with 68 percent during the same period last year.

"Moving into April, the industry showed no signs of the kind of severe slump that hampered petroleum exploration last spring," the Denver-based reporting service said.

Petroleum Information said that the Rocky Mountain region's rig count hit an all-time high on March 31 with 414 units at work. The previous high was 411, set Jan. 14.

First quarter 1980 totals showed 6,565 new oil wells and 3,494 wells drilled for gas. During first quarter 1979, 4,361 wells were drilled for oil and 3,698 for gas, Petroleum Information said.

The reporting service cited more emphasis on drilling near known fields, better weather in Texas and Oklahoma, and "an improved operating climate in California" as reasons for the brisk drilling activity.

Drilling in and around known petroleum deposits was up 21.7 percent, from 9,099 wells to 11,073 wells.

Texas was the busiest drilling state with 4,304 wells drilled during the first three months of the year. During the first quarter of last year, bad weather slowed activity in that state and only 3,862 wells were drilled, the reporting service said.

The second most active state was Oklahoma with

Kennedy claims boost in Arizona, but Carter moves further ahead

By the Associated Press
Sen. Edward Kennedy claims his victory in Arizona Democratic Party caucuses has unearthed a cactus in President Carter's Rose Garden, but in party meetings in three other states the president's lead for the party's presidential nomination grew.

In fact, the delegate selection process in South Carolina, Virginia and Washington this weekend added to the president's margin over Kennedy despite the Massachusetts senator's showing in Arizona and a likelihood of similar results in Alaska.

But Kennedy saw his Arizona victory — he seemed assured of gaining 16 of the state's 29 delegates to the Democratic National Convention — as leading to similar results in Pennsylvania, where 185 delegates are at stake in the April 22 primary.

"The Southwest has spoken," Kennedy said Sunday in Philadelphia when he learned of the Arizona results.

"The Northeast has spoken," he said, referring to his earlier victories in New York and Connecticut. "The next state is Pennsylvania and we look forward to carrying the same message ... and we're hopeful of getting a similar response."

Then, aiming a barb at Carter's tactic of staying in the White House, Kennedy added: "I think yesterday that Jimmy Carter found that there's a little cactus ... growing in the Rose Garden."

Going into the weekend caucuses, Carter had 691 of the 1,999 delegate votes needed for the party nomination. Kennedy had 491.

At various stages in the complicated process of choosing delegates to the convention, weekend Democratic meetings broke down this way:

—Arizona: With 74 precinct caucuses reporting, Kennedy had 55 percent of the vote to Carter's 45. That would give Kennedy 16 delegates and Carter 13, but state Democratic delegate selection chairwoman Jean Westwood said late returns from eight rural precincts could make the final breakdown 17-12 in favor of Kennedy.

—South Carolina: Carter's forces won 34 delegates and Kennedy got one as the state completed its selection process. Two were uncommitted. The president had established this pattern in earlier precinct caucuses.

—Washington: State party chairman Joe Murphy says weekend conventions in the state's four largest counties should give Carter a 2-1 margin over Kennedy, equalling his margin in Washington's March 11 precinct caucuses. That would give Carter at least 29 of Washington's 57 delegates, with as many as 14 going to Kennedy and another 14 uncommitted.

—Virginia: In conventions in five of the state's 10 congressional districts Carter gained 21 delegates and Kennedy two. Twenty-one more delegates will be chosen later in the other five districts, and 14 will be elected at a state convention.

—Alaska: With results from 13 of 19 district conventions, Kennedy supporters claimed 47½ of the 289 delegates being selected for the state convention next month. Carter's forces picked up 17 of the seats, and 107½ went to uncommitted delegates. Three of the state's 22 districts did not hold conventions. The state convention will choose 18 delegates who will cast Alaska's 11 convention votes.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After rising this year at an average rate of 1.5 cents per gallon a week, retail gasoline price increases have slowed dramatically in the last three weeks, possibly foreshadowing a drop in prices at the pump, oil industry analyst Dan Lundberg says.

The average price of all grades of gasoline nationwide from March 21 through April 11 rose only 0.36 cents a gallon to $1.237, an indicator of an overall cooling of the U.S. economy, said the publisher of the weekly oil industry Lundberg Letter.

In an interview Sunday, where senators face a proposal that would increase defense spending over what President Carter has recommended, but would make deep cuts in social programs.

Lundberg says gas prices might be heading down

Lundberg said the slackening pace of gas price increases will probably lead to a rollback in prices.

"There is a slight but clear turnaround in the price acceleration to an actual deceleration," Lundberg said. That turnaround, according to Lundberg, reflects a "price sensitivity" by motorists which demonstrates the American consumer's growing resistance to price increases in all areas of the marketplace.

"This deceleration in price increases, both at wholesale and retail levels, is not a price sensitivity that should be judged in a single frame of reference. What motorists are paying for all things — food, rent, clothing — is reflected in their price sensitivity to gasoline."

Lundberg said the gasoline price slowdown is a potential indicator for the economy as a whole.

"Perhaps we have nationally peaked on the inflationary cycle. That may indicate that that is the direction of the whole economy."

The slowdown in gasoline price increases, Lundberg pointed out, has actually been developing over a period of weeks. Prices, which jumped markedly early in the year from the average $1.021 price at the end of 1979, have increased at a lower rate recently.

Fed budget cutting center stage this week in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal budget takes center stage this week as Congress returns from its 10-day Easter recess and resumes the politically distasteful job of cutting government spending in an election year.

The budget action begins Tuesday on the Senate floor.

where senators face a proposal that would increase defense spending over what President Carter has recommended, but would make deep cuts in social programs.

Later in the week, the House is expected to consider its budget-balancing proposal, which would provide less money for defense than the Senate wants, but also would carry less disruption of social programs.
