Safety was the cause for celebration here Wednesday night as Getty Oil Company honored the 59 employees of its East Vealmoor gas plant for having completed a full year without a lost-time accident.

Employees of the plant were presented a certificate of commendation by C.F. (Pete) Gee, Tulsa, manager of the natural gas plants department.

Gee also presented the East Vealmoor employees a Gas Processors Association award for working 500,000 man-hours without a lost-time accident, from February, 1975, to May, 1979. They also received a GPA "Bronze Award" for working five years without a disabling injury, from February, 1975, to February, 1980.

John H. Anderson, natural gas plants operations manager, Pampa, presented Joseph A. Holmes awards to four East Vealmoor employees who last year completed 20 years of service without a lost-time accident. Receiving these awards were L.M. Rivera, F. Gonzalez and C.A. Dykes.

The awards were presented during a banquet held at the Brandin Iron Steak House.

Speakers for the event included Gee, Anderson, and Charles E. Smith, Manager of Public Affairs for Getty Refining and Marketing Company, Tulsa. T.L. Chambers, Safety Director, Pampa, presented a slide and film program.

The Big Spring safety awards banquet is one of nine scheduled during 1980 to recognize safety records attained during 1979. Locations of others are Dodge City and Pratt, Kansas; Perryton and Pampa, Texas; Duncan, Oklahoma; Jackson, Mississippi; Lake Charles, Louisiana; and Hobbs, New Mexico.

Weather Flash flood watch issued in Panhandle

A flash flood watch was in effect today for western sections of the Texas Panhandle and forecasts called for thunderstorms over central and western sections of the state.

Counties included in the flash flood watch were Sherman, Hansford, Moore, Hutchinson, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Roberts, Hemphill, Porter, Carson, Randall, Armstrong, Gray, Wheeler, Donley, Collingsworth, Hall and Childress.

The turbulent weather was triggered by the combination of a surface low pressure system southwest of Lubbock and a stationary front extending from western Oklahoma through the southern Panhandle into eastern New Mexico.

Forecasters said the surface low pressure system and the stationary front were expected to combine with a strong upper level disturbance moving eastward out of Arizona to trigger showers and thunderstorm activity in West Texas for the next 2 days.

Some of the thunderstorms could become severe by late evening, forecasters warned.

The remainder of the state was to have mostly cloudy skies.

Highs were to range from near 60 in the Panhandle to the 80s across central, eastern and southern sections to the 90s in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Thunderstorms rumbled across much of West Texas during the night, but most of the turbulent weather ended before dawn.

There were scattered reports of hail mainly between Abilene and Childress. Golf ball sized hail was reported 10 miles west of Hamlin, northwest of Abilene, and in Estelline County northwest of Childress.

Volunteerism called necessary for 4-H

Despite the fact that men and women must work more today due to the high cost of living and the trend to "look-out-for-number-one," Americans seem to be volunteering more today than ever before.

A Census Bureau survey estimates that 37 million Americans are performing services valued at nearly $50 billion per year with the number gradually increasing.

All this is good news for 4-H, a program for youth aged 9 to 19. Volunteers are a necessity in the 4-H program, points out Linda Fuchs and Andy Vestal, Howard County 4-H Agents.

If the necessary services are to be provided, volunteers must do the work, because there are not enough professional staff members for these many tasks.

Besides, volunteers in 4-H or any organization have better morale because the individual spirit flourishes best in useful contact with other. The essence of volunteerism — people helping people — will be constant but all 4-H needs new volunteers now to keep pace with changing times and new human needs.

Currently, there are more than 24,000 volunteers serving the Texas 4-H program, says Fuchs and Vestal. Over 100 of these are in Howard county. They contribute an average of some $1,000 each in time and resources annually. These are the people

Farm Lake alteration compromise feasible

ASKING FOR DIRECTIONS?? — Two women test drivers at Goodyear's tire proving ground at San Angelo, Texas, engage in a conversation about the operation of the 200-ton haul truck they drive in an effort to test and evaluate 12-foot diameter earthmover tires.

LUBBOCK — Farmers and ranchers on the southern High Plains who want to modify playa lakes for better agricultural use may be cutting off a secondary income by destroying habitat for waterfowl and other game sought by hunters.

On the other hand, according to Texas Tech University researchers, it might be possible for the producers to have their cake and eat it, too.

Dr. Eric G. Bolen said it might be possible to develop management plans that will lead to the preservation of selected playas as unspoiled natural areas and to develop modification techniques on others that will incorporate wildlife benefits.

Bolen and Dr. C. David Simpson are co-principal investigators for a study to examine the wildlife potential of the playa lakes on the southern Great Plains. The study is supported by a $73,513 contract from the federal Water and Power Resources Service, formerly the Bureau of Reclamation, of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

The contract was made with the Texas Tech University Department of Range and Wildlife Management. Both investigators are members of the departmental faculty. Bolen also is associate dean of the Texas Tech Graduate School.

Between 16,000 and 20,000 playa lakes are the prominent hydrographical feature of the southern High Plains. Most are wind-deflated depressions, and in wet years they contribute between 230,000 and 250,000 surface acres of aquatic habitat to the semi-arid plains.

In recent years farmers in the intensively cultivated area have frequently converted many into pits to reduce evaporation losses and to increase land area for cultivation. Cattle grazing the shallow lakes sometimes destroy much of the wildlife habitat surrounding them. In addition, because of the loss of irrigation water from the underground Ogallala Aquifer, there has been talk of various schemes for using the playas in the future as water storage areas.

"The dwindling subsurface water for irrigation places demands on playas that diminish much of their integrity as wildlife habitat," Bolen said. He and Simpson have planned their research project so that subsequent management strategies might be developed to enhance the lakes' wildlife values or, at least, maintain them.

The region's winter waterfowl populations, particularly mallard ducks, often exceed 1 million birds, Bolen said. In addition to mallards, pintails, blue-winged teal and cinnamon teal breed in the area.

The ring-necked pheasant is known to do well as do the long-billed curlew, the American avocet, Wilson's phalarope and sandhill cranes. In all, close to 40 species of shorebirds also use the playa habitat.

WASHINGTON — To some it was just bureaucratic bungling. To others it was a perfidious plot.

Technicians at the U.S. Department of Agriculture borrowed the tape of an interview Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland had with Judy Allen, a Washington reporter for the Thomson Newspapers.

Bergland has drawn fire from farm states because the Feb. 12 interview quoted the secretary as "not sure" if Americans should be concerned with the declining number of family farms in the nation.

Continued complaints about the interview prompted USDA officials two weeks ago to pick up the tape with Allen's approval and have it copied by the department's audio specialists.

One half hour after it had been taken to the USDA by Joseph MacDavid of the agency's public affairs branch, both sides of the cassette were completely erased.

"He called me up and said, 'Judy, you'll never guess what happened,'" Allen remembers. "I don't have any proof that it wasn't accidental. Still, it was pretty weird."

Weird perhaps, but an accident nonetheless says MacDavid, who said the copies of the tape were to be

Hardin-Simmons rodeo HC team wins trophy

David McGuire took first place in calf roping and Cody Lambert took first in saddle bronc riding to lead the Howard College Men's Rodeo Team to first place at the Hardin-Simmons University Rodeo held in Abilene April 17-19, according to Skipper Driver, coach of the Howard College rodeo team.

Lambert, a freshman from El Paso, took first place in the saddle bronc riding event with a score of 73 points. Lambert is currently in the lead for all-around cowboy as he is first in the region and first in the nation in the saddle bronc riding event.

McGuire, a sophomore from Big Spring, won the calf roping event with a time of 9.65.

Wes Smith, a freshman from Carlsbad, N.M., won second place in the steer wrestling competition with a time of 4.85. Guy Miller, a sophomore from Lamesa, placed fourth in the steer wrestling competition.

James Garlick, a freshman from Van Horn, and Bill Stockton, a freshman from Big Spring, won first in the team roping event.

Garlick also split second and third place in the bareback riding event and placed fifth in the saddle bronc event. Garlick is currently in second place for all-around cowboy and is third in the region in bareback riding competition.

Also placing in the team roping were Tracy Glover, freshman from Midland, and Cliff Kirkpatrick, freshman from Post, who won second, and Gib Bell, freshman from Dryden, and Cliff Kirkpatrick, who placed fourth.

Jessie Doss, a freshman from Big Spring, placed fifth in the calf roping event.

The men won the team trophy with a total point score of 418.5 and are currently 60 points out of second place in the regional standings.

The HC Women's Team took the third place team trophy as Cricket Phelps, from Alamogordo, N.M., won first in the breakaway roping event; Sherry Altizer, sophomore from Del Rio, won second in the barrel racing event; and Pam Mitchell, sophomore from Tularosa, N.M., placed third in the goat tying competition.

Miss Mitchell is currently leading in the girls' all-around competition, as she is first in goat tying and third in breakaway roping regional competition.

Miss Altizer is second in the region in the barrel racing competition.

The HC rodeo teams travel to Snyder April 24-26 to compete in the Western Texas College Rodeo.

Rice export agreement with Japanese fails

By STEVE SNIDER
States News Service

WASHINGTON — American negotiators have apparently failed to reach agreement with the Japanese on rice export levels from that country, a situation that Texas rice millers and others hope will lead to trade retaliation by President Carter.

The Rice Millers Association, a collection of 33 rice companies including 12 Texas firms, has filed an unfair trade practice complaint with the administration, claiming massive exports of Japanese rice at deflated prices will have "disastrous" effects on the U.S. rice industry. The losses are already $200 million per year, the group said.

The RMA said large Japanese rice crops are purchased by the country's government at up to five times the market value, then unloaded on the market at far below the world price. The group said the government subsidies violate international trade law.

At meetings in Japan this week, administration and industry officials attempted to get agreement from the Chira government to restrict subsidized rice exports to 200,000 metric tons annually. Japanese exports in 1979 were nearly 870,000 metric tons, roughly 10 percent of the world rice trade, and is

Inflation news: Good for farmers, bad for consumers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has both good and bad inflation news.

From the consumer's standpoint, this month, it's not so good. But to the farmer, it could be reason to smile.

Food prices have had a moderating influence on the nation's jumpy inflation rate for the last six months. While the cost of energy, housing and borrowing soar ever higher, grocery bills have stayed fairly steady.

In fact, food costs rose hardly at all during the first two months this year.

But government economists disclosed Tuesday that food price rises are catching up with the rest of the nation's economic trend.

They moved up a full 1 percent for March, approaching the 1.4 percent increase for the economy as a whole last month.

That news is certainly bad for consumers. But it isn't necessarily good for farmers.

As the Agriculture Department explained, the food price increase was due to marketing costs: packaging, transportation and energy. With continued abundant food supplies, prices paid to the farmer actually declined by 2.2 percent in March.

But the department's chief economist, Howard W. Hjort, told the farmer not to despair. His turn is coming.

"By the time the president's (anti-inflation) program is successful, food prices will start taking up the slack," he noted wryly. Hjort said that food prices appear to be running "countercyclical" to the overall economy.

Hjort said there was a good chance food prices would climb at a steeper rate than inflation in general by the end of 1980 and the farmer will definitely share in the increase.

Farm prices "are going to have to catch up. And it will take place," said Hjort.

He declined to estimate specifically what food increases will be like by the end of the year.

On-farm tests proved it...

In 56 comparisons over the last three years, certified Lockett 77 from Pioneer produced an average gross income of $309* per acre... giving it a $42 per acre advantage over competitive varieties.

Why such an advantage? Outstanding seedling vigor with excellent cold tolerance and seedling disease escape help Lockett 77 make a good stand. Added to that are multiple disease tolerance, hardy plant characteristics, and early maturity... a combination that helps Lockett 77 deliver outstanding performance.

Farmers who've grown certified Lockett 77 are well pleased with results. Jack and Paul Hopper at Knott recorded a lint yield of 1,553 lbs./planted acre in 1979. Ben Roming at Lariat got 830 lbs./A. And over the last four years at Tell, Texas, Clinton Halford averaged 975 lbs. of lint per acre with certified Lockett 77.

Anderson doesn't worry candidates

HOUSTON (AP) — George Bush and Ronald Reagan say they aren't worried about losing votes to John Anderson if the Illinois congressman runs for president as an independent.

During their one-on-one debate Wednesday night, the two candidates for the Republican presidential nomination agreed that Anderson is more likely to draw votes away from President Carter than from the GOP ticket.

The confrontation between the two remaining contenders for the Republican nomination failed to produce fireworks as Bush and Reagan outlined their differences on taxes and foreign policy in polite fashion.

"It didn't seem to move as the other debates did," Bush said after the one-hour confrontation. "It didn't have the zip. Maybe, I contributed to that. I don't know."

"It just seemed long to me."

"There hadn't been any fast balls thrown that I couldn't answer," said Reagan. "So, I was satisfied with that."

Anderson was to have been the third man on the stage at Albert Thomas Auditorium, but he withdrew and sources in his campaign indicated that the congressman would announce today his intention to campaign for president as an independent.

Bush, a former Republican Party chairman, said he didn't believe an independent candidacy by Anderson "is going to make that much difference."

Bush added that "I believe he's more apt to pull from Jimmy Carter."

Reagan agreed, saying, "I believe whatever he's going to get, he'll take from the Carter side rather than from our side."

At one point, Reagan made the remark that appeared to eliminate Bush from consideration as a possible running mate if the former California governor gets the nomination, but later he called his comment "an ill-chosen bit of humor."

The remark was a reference to a major disagreement between the two men over taxes.

Reagan advocates a 30 percent across-the-board cut in income tax rates to be phased in over a three-year period, a proposal pushed in Congress by Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., and Sen. Bill Roth, R-Del.

"Your plan would risk exacerbating the deficit," said Bush.

The dispute over taxes dominated the opening minutes of the debate. Later, when taking questions from the audience, the candidates were asked if they would name the people they would consider as running mates.

Both declined, but then, Reagan, with a chuckle, added, "Whoever I picked would have to agree with the Kemp-Roth tax bill."

"I didn't mean it that way," Reagan said later when reporters asked if his remark was meant to eliminate Bush from consideration for second place on the GOP ticket.

"I never thought of that at all, so it was an ill chosen bit of humor," said the GOP front-runner.

The major difference between the two on foreign policy centered on Reagan's proposal that the United States consider a blockade of Cuba as a response to the Soviet move into Afghanistan.

Bush has branded the proposal impractical, saying it would "require the entire Atlantic fleet," and also has derided it by saying, "It wasn't Cubans who invaded Afghanistan."

During the debate, Reagan emphasized that he mentioned the blockade as a hypothetical suggestion and that there might be other, better responses.

Asked about criticism that facts and figures he uses during campaign appearances are incorrect, Reagan disputed his critics and said, "I have confidence in the facts and figures I use." But he also acknowledged that anyone ad-libbing answers during campaign appearances is bound to make some mistakes.

Both men repeated their frequent criticism of Carter's handling of the Iranian crisis, but both also supported mining Iranian ports to tighten economic pressure on the Tehran government. They said they doubted the Soviet Union would risk a conflict by attempting to thwart U.S. mining of the ports.

More military, less social proposed by two Texans

WASHINGTON — A pair of Texans have entered the week of congressional budget wrangling with proposals aimed at higher military spending and fewer social programs than the administration wants.

Republican Sen. John Tower and Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, in separate proposals, argue that increases in President Carter's defense budget should be accomplished by further cutbacks in regulatory agencies and jobs programs.

The House Wednesday begins debate on the proposal of its budget committee to spend about $611 billion in fiscal year 1981, including $147.9 billion in military outlays.

On the Senate side, a proposal of $612.9 billion in total spending and a $155.7 billion defense budget, will likely come to the floor late this week or early next week.

Tower and Gramm's ideas for federal spending are only two of many challenges to the president's $150.5-billion defense budget. The White House plan for total 1981 spending is similar to the House proposal.

Gramm, in a joint plan with Rep. Marjorie Holt, R-Md., wants a $5.1 billion increase in the House defense budget, including restoration of $1 billion the House Budget Committee recommended be cut from spending on the MX Missile system.

West Texas has been proposed as an alternative site for the controversial missiles by the Air Force. An MX supporter, Gramm said he will support whatever decision the Air Force makes on MX bases, "even if they want to put it in College Station."

To meet the military increases, Gramm and Holt propose first, a $1.7 billion cut in public service jobs. The same amount would be cut from the "bureaucratic overhead" of dozens of federal agencies, including items like travel, printing and equipment purchases.

Also under the plan, 17 federal regulatory agencies — from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco & Firearms to the Securities and Exchange Commission — would lose approximately 20 percent of their proposed 1981 budgets.

Tower's proposal to lop $27 billion off the Senate Budget Committee's $612.9 billion 1981 spending plan, includes major cuts in federal agencies as well, including elimination of some programs completely.

Department of Labor spending would be reduced by $7.5 billion and cuts in regulatory and other independent agencies and the Agriculture Department would be more than $4 billion.

Both the Legal Services Corp. and the congressional Office of Technology Assessment would be eliminated under Tower's plan.

The ranking GOP member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Tower supports the $157 billion 1981 defense spending proposal passed by that panel.

Firearms to the Securities and Exchange Commission — would lose approximately 20 percent of their proposed 1981 budgets.

Both the Legal Services Corp. and the congressional Office of Technology Assessment would be eliminated under Tower's plan.

By MICKIE DICKSON

"Excitement? Yes, plenty of it," says Mrs. Jack (Mildred) Buchanan, Luther, "When there's a local fire everyone gets excited for the next one might be his!"

The volunteer fire departments of Howard County get plenty of help from their women folk in fighting fires.

Be careful how you address a fire fighter of the Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department; you might be speaking to a lady.

The Coahoma Volunteer Fire Department has five women volunteer fire fighters, one of whom is an emergency medical technician. Mrs. Jane (Richard) Gilmore took EMT training at Howard College about three years ago, and teaches the other volunteers what to do in emergency situations at the Monday night training sessions.

Mrs. Gilmore has been a volunteer fire fighter for about eight years and for three years had gone to more fires than the men. Jane started by accompanying her husband when he was the only volunteer besides his boss, Robert Helm, with whom he alternated, so he wouldn't have to go alone.

About seven years ago they were fighting a local grass fire when the truck ran out of water. Gilmore dumped the shovels and brooms off the truck and left her with three ranchers who were just watching to control the fire. She said to the ranchers, "If you want to help, take one of the brooms and shovels and let's get busy." After looking surprised at taking orders from a woman, the men pitched in and they kept the blaze controlled until water arrived in 30 minutes.

An amusing incident occurred one night when she threw her boots and socks in the fire truck to don on the way to a car fire on the Garden City Highway. She was putting the boots on when she screamed, "There's a rat in my boot." Billy Sullivan, who is now the Coahoma fire chief, started driving all over the highway, and she kept screaming, "Stop this car, there's a rat in my boot." Upon stopping, a baby possum was found on the floor where he had crawled out of the boot which she had thrown away from her. Mrs. Gilmore rode the rest of the way with her feet on the dash.

When covering another car fire near the Mitchell County line on IS 20 about five years ago, someone handed Jane a flashlight and asked her to direct traffic. She was dressed in her fire jacket, boots and hat when a highway patrolman came up and thanked her for directing traffic. Answering, "You're welcome," the surprised patrolman said, "My God, you're a woman, what are you doing here?"

"I'm directing traffic, what are you doing?" "I guess I'm directing traffic," the non-plussed officer replied.

Mrs. Gilmore said that at first the volunteer firemen were very protective and wouldn't let her do anything. If she told them what to do they'd do it, but it took time for them to develop confidence in her ability to do her job. Now she works right along beside them and that's where they want her. Jane is an LVN at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. She has attempted to resign as a volunteer several times but the department won't accept her resignation.

Marlene (Mrs. Brian) Jensen is the Coahoma Volunteer's secretary and has been a volunteer about four years. Her mother, Melba (Mrs. Joe) Swinney, has been a volunteer almost a year. Other women volunteers are Kelly (Mrs. Randy) Overton and Cheryl (Mrs. Don R.) Wilson.

Two other ladies who help the Coahoma volunteers are the Coahoma city secretary, Ina Stout and clerk, Cindy Bobo. The fire phone, which rings simultaneously in all the volunteer's homes when the number, 394-4696, is called, is answered in the city hall by these two from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the location of the fire is written on the blackboard in the fire station.

Mildred Buchanan said that the wives of the Luther community help by getting their husbands out of the field, or wherever they may be and on their way to fires and telephoning other volunteers to help. As the siren is blown, farmers leave their fields and follow the fire truck, too.

About ten years ago a group of Luther women took fire drill training in the old Gay Hill School, learning to drive the truck and operate the water pump if it should ever be necessary.

Mrs. Hollis (Mildred) Puckett, co-owner of the H & M Grocery, said that the women in former years helped fight grass fires with wet burlap bags, following the fire truck in personal cars. Mrs. Puckett carries cold cokes to the fire fighters many times. Fire calls come into the grocery, 399-4333, the community gathering place, where there is a CB base radio to the fire truck.

Fire fighting is 'fun' say some of the women volunteers. Others say that 'not every woman is cut out to be a fire fighter' but all agree that it is exciting.

The women fire fighters of Howard County share their favorite recipes with Big Spring Herald readers.

LYNDA CARTER JANE FONDA

Not a good week for Mom

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — If President Carter calls his mother to get a sympathetic ear for his troubles with ayatollahs, economists and politicians, he's likely to hear that times are tough all over.

It hasn't been a good week for Lillian Carter. Her Pond House was broken into this week while she was touring Africa, police said Wednesday. Plains Police Chief William Thomas said it could not be determined whether anything of value was taken, but big, obvious items, such as the television, were still there.

The break-in was discovered by Mrs. Carter's grandson, Buddy Carter, who stopped by the weekend house outside Plains after fishing in the pond with a friend.

And in Cairo, Egypt, on Wednesday, Mrs. Carter had to take part of her tour of a nursing school in a wheelchair after she was momentarily affected by the 95-degree heat. The 81-year-old first mother recovered quickly. She is to fly home Saturday.

Carson purchases hotel

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Now Johnny Carson has some place to go on his frequent absences from his "Tonight Show." He and hotel executive Ed Nigro bought the Aladdin Hotel and its casino for $105 million.

The Aladdin's owners have been under order to sell because of violations of hidden ownership laws designed to keep organized crime out of the legalized gambling business.

If state gaming officials approve the deal, it will be "Johnny Carson's Aladdin." State officials said they didn't foresee any problems.

Nigro, who will be president and chief executive officer, said Carson "plans to take a very active role."

Movie star caught speeding

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Barbarella and Wonder Woman took on the California Highway Patrol and lost.

Patrolman Newton Tobin bagged movie star Jane Fonda, who starred in a motion picture as science fiction superheroine Barbarella and has since gone on to better roles, while Miss Fonda was allegedly doing 75 mph on U.S. 101 in Ventura County on Sunday.

Even if Tobin wasn't impressed with his prey, he might have noticed Miss Fonda's passenger, television's Wonder Woman, Lynda Carter.

Miss Fonda faces a maximum $50 fine for breaking the 55 mph limit.

Inmate can keep profits

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Assassin James Earl Ray can keep any money he makes from his hobby as landscape painter, a Tennessee official says.

Although Ray is prohibited by state law from profiting by writing a book about the 1968 slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Attorney General William Leech said Wednesday that Ray can keep money from artistic works not related to his crimes.

Anna Sandhu, Ray's artist wife, says she and her husband had a joint art show and sale at an Oak Ridge museum in March.

"James had four paintings," she said in a telephone interview from Knoxville. "We still have two of them." Ray gave away one as a gift and the fourth was sold. Without giving the price, Mrs. Ray said, "He did very well."

Carter to meet pope in June at the Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — President Carter will meet Pope John Paul II at the Vatican June 21 before attending the summit of the leading Western industrial nations in Venice, Vatican sources said today.

John Paul II visited Carter at the White House in October and had a general review of problems of world peace. This time, Vatican officials say, the talks are expected to focus on more concrete issues, such as Iran.

Carter arrives in Rome June 19, will meet Premier Francesco Cossiga and other Italian officials, and go sightseeing before the audience with the pontiff.

Last week, U.S. Ambassador Richard Gardner told the American Club in Rome he was having a problem "explaining to the Secret Service that there are no cars in Venice.

"I keep getting highly classified cables asking me to describe the routes for the motorcade. And I try to explain to them that there is no motorcade possible in Venice. There might be a gondolacade, but they don't believe there is a city in the world that has no motorcars."

'No one knows' about herbicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Introducing himself only as an ex-GI who had been exposed to Agent Orange in Vietnam, Max Cleland, head of the Veterans Administration, called several VA hospitals to ask if his health had been endangered by the herbicide.

To his astonishment, no one knew what he was talking about.

Dr. Paul Haber, the VA's assistant chief medical director, took it from there. In a conference call, he told the medical chiefs of staff and environmental health physicians of the nation's 172 VA hospitals:

"You folks had better get your act together." Only a few days earlier, Cleland had assured Congress that every veteran who suspects his ailments are tied to the herbicide can get counseling and a thorough physical exam at any VA hospital.

Each case, Cleland said, is entered into a computerized record so the veteran can be located if experts should conclude that exposure to Agent Orange can lead to long-term harm.

So far, 10,000 veterans have complained of ailments or sought information and 1,600 have applied for disability payments. Only a handful are getting benefits because the VA's position is that "no conclusive evidence" has linked the herbicide to the cancers, liver disorders, personality changes and other difficulties the veterans complain of.

When shooting halted the parade

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Friday should be a perfect day for the Battle of Flowers parade, the most festive of fiestas. As fine a day as last year — before the shooting started.

Last April 27, Ira Attebery — a 64-year-old recluse with a history of mental problems — fired from his parked motor home into a crowd of about 5,000 gathered for the start of the parade.

Six police officers fell seriously wounded as Attebery emptied his 12-gauge shotgun. Dozens of other startled spectators were hit by spraying pellets.

Attebery switched to a semi-automatic military rifle, killing Ida Dollard and Amalia Castillo and wounding other bystanders before the carbine jammed on the second clip of ammunition.

Then, as police threw tear gas and riddled his motor home with bullets, Attebery selected a revolver from his 15-gun cache and pumped a single fatal shot into his brain.

Three dead and 50-odd injured, more than 30 by gunfire. The drama at the corner of Broadway and Grayson lasted 90 minutes.

Some of the wounded still have nightmares. Others face lifetimes of pain from the shotgun pellets they still carry in their bodies.

Some people — such as Gus Burggraf, owner of the tire store where Attebery parked — refuse even to talk about it.

Last week, Mayor Lila Cockrell appealed to local news media to focus attention on this year's 10-day Fiesta, not on last year's horror. She ended the letter, "Viva Fiesta!"

But the sadness and pain linger.

"We can't control what other people might do, but it sure did change a lot of lives. I don't think any of us will ever forget it," said Bob Walker, whose liquor store is across the street from the scene of the shooting.

"Not a day goes by that I don't think about that day and what it did," said one of the wounded officers, Sgt. Gary Nagy, 33, whose wife was also hit by gunfire as she ran to his side. "Something, anything, reminds me of it. Then I think what that day did to me, and what's to come in the future."

Isabel Hernandez is a constant reminder to her parents of that spring afternoon.

On April 27, Isabel was a week overdue. Armando Hernandez tried to shield his pregnant wife, Irene, from Attebery's bullets, but she fell wounded, shot in the thigh. Isabel was born three days later, without complications. Her parents are saving news clippings for her.

"Just about every night, I get the chills," said Mrs. Hernandez, 20. "And then I thank God I'm OK and my baby is all right."

A rifle bullet tore through Kathi Lapping's neck. "They said that if it had been an eighth of an inch over, I wouldn't have made it," she said.

For a long time, Mrs. Lapping, 32, and her 9-year-old son, T.J., wouldn't stand near the windows at home. T.J. still doesn't like to stay alone.

Diane Wick, 29, Mrs. Lapping's sister from St. Louis, had come to Fiesta to visit. She suffered superficial pellet wounds to the face. "I have occasional nightmares even now," she said.

Hazel Brown struggles not to weep when she thinks about the day her oldest daughter, Ida Dollard, died. "I just keep praying that I can keep on, for the children's sake. But you know, it's really hard to pretend there's nothing wrong when you really feel like crying all the time."

Lt. Robert Maldonado, 41, the most seriously wounded of the police, has undergone three operations. He carries more than 100 pellets in his body. The scars on his legs look like measles.

Maldonado once jogged regularly, gardened and played racquetball and golf. Now he can't run or even bend over to pull weeds.

"I landscaped my house, and it's beautiful. I haven't been able to work on it since this happened. That's one of the things I miss," he said. "Physically, I'll never be the same."

Howard Attebery, 67, of Poplar Grove, Mo., often drives past the cemetery where his brother is buried but hasn't visited the plot since the funeral.

"I think about it every once in a while, mainly when I go past his grave," Attebery said by telephone. "There's nothing that can be done about it. It was one of those things. I can imagine the hurt and the pain those other people have been feeling. I wish it hadn't happened."

Ira Attebery had received outpatient psychiatric treatment at a veteran's hospital in Missouri. He was supposed to have been taking a maintenance dose of Thorazine, a powerful tranquilizer used to control psychotic behavior. But the 19 Thorazine bottles found in his motor home were almost full.

Bexar County Medical Examiner Dr. Ruben Santos said traces of the drug PCP — "angel dust" — were found in Attebery's body. Angel dust, usually used by young persons, causes erratic behavior.

Ira Attebery "always thought the police were after him. He thought the police had followed him to San Antonio," said his brother.

Attebery's first shots were aimed at the six officers. Maldonado believes the dead women merely got in the way.

Worthan seeks national OEA treasurer's office

Sonya Worthan believes she has a treasure of a deal and plans to keep it.

Miss Worthan, a sophomore at Howard College, was elected national treasurer of the Office Education Association during OEA's national convention held last May, and will finish her term in office this April.

But she doesn't want it to end there. She is planning to run for national treasurer again. She will campaign for office by attending state caucuses during the National Leadership Conference which is being held April 23-28 in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

If she is elected again, she will be the first OEA officer to ever be re-elected to office for a second term on the national level.

Miss Worthan has been a member of OEA for six years. Two of those years were at Big Spring High School, where she served as social chairman and vice president. The other four years of service were at Howard College.

When thinking back on her years as national treasurer Miss Worthan said, "I have learned more in the past than I had learned in all my years of school."

Learning to speak in front of a group is the greatest gift I received from being national treasurer."

As national treasurer, Miss Worthan's duties have been to support the national president and correspond with local chapters of OEA. She does public speaking and often speaks on OEA and memory training.

Rock Island financing being sought

Railroads to consider shipper offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad will consider in the next few days an offer from shippers on a three-state route of the bankrupt Rock Island Railroad to finance its operation of that line.

But MKT attorney Art Albin declined to say whether the railroad's management would accept the offer made by the shippers at a meeting in Washington.

"We hate to risk shippers' money because we have no way to guarantee it would be successful," Albin said. "We'd hate to jeopardize their financial situation on such a marginal operation."

Service along the 450-mile route from Herrington, Kan., through Oklahoma City to Fort Worth, Texas, stopped Mar. 23 when federal operating subsidies expired.

On Wednesday, the shippers offered to loan the MKT $1.5 million to restore service and said they would pay higher freight rates so it would have the money to repay that loan.

"If there's anyway to save the rail service of the Rock Island — it affects so many people — we'll be glad to do our share," said John McPherrin, vice president of Dolese Bros. Co. of Oklahoma City.

The proposal was tentatively endorsed by federal regulatory officials attending the session.

"It's essential that service be provided on this line," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., added.

Although other railroads have assumed temporary operation of other segments of the Rock Island at their own risk, the MKT had offered to assume operation only if the government provided $3 million in start-up money. Officials of both the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Railroad Administration reiterated, however, that no such funds are available.

Albin the railroad's management would decide whether the proposed loan coupled with a surcharge would be sufficient to assume the line.

The Dolese Bros. Co., the Sun Petroleum Products Co. and a coalition of other smaller shippers each agreed to put up $500,000. A group of grain shippers said they would also provide MKT loans of $200 per car once service is resumed.

"The shippers understand the risk of that money, that they could lose it," said Garland Rice of the Atchison County, Kan., Co-op. "But without it (service) they could lose a lot more."

Since trains stopped running, the shippers have been forced to stockpile much of their goods and rely on trucks to move the rest. It's the increased cost of truck transportation that has prompted their offer of financial help.

Sun Petroleum said relying on trucks would cost an additional $2 million a year, possibly forcing it to close its Duncan, Okla., refinery, and farmers say truck transportation adds $7 a ton to the cost of fertilizer and $200 a carload to the cost of grain.

Methodists begin drive to end racism in U.S.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The predominantly white United Methodist Church, declaring "we have sinned against our sisters and brothers of other races," is introducing hiring quotas for its clergy and lay ministries as part of a drive to wipe out racism in America.

Saying the nation's second largest Protestant denomination has shared in the "racist system in the United States," the church governing conference approved the quota system Wednesday as part of an eight-point program.

The 9.6 million member church is one of the first denominations to follow the example of the National Council of Churches in adopting measures to assure minority representation.

The drive is aimed at wiping out discrimination against American Indians, blacks, Asians, Hispanics and Pacific islanders.

The church governing conference ruled that hiring of non-whites must be done, in proportion to their representation in society, at all levels of clerical and lay work "until...our voluntary performance makes that practice unnecessary."

It also called for national and local church programs to "increase the appreciation of other heritages" among its members and to work for equality in housing, education and medical care for non-whites.

The United Methodist Church, second in size to the 13 million member Southern Baptist Convention, is 95 percent white.

Its quadrennial conference also approved a new confession. It says: "We have sinned against our sisters and brothers of other races in thought, in word and in deed."

Delegates to the meeting, which ends Friday, declared that while racial discrimination has been officially outlawed in the United States, "social, economic and political institutions still discriminate."

"The racist system in the United States today perpetuates the power and control of those of European ancestry," they said.

The church said it has shared in that system, even while believing that "racism is a rejection of the teaching of Jesus Christ" and that all people are "equally valuable in the sight of God."

Coincidentally, a black minister scheduled to speak at a three-day convocation of a United Methodist Church congregation in Laurel, Del., last weekend said he was asked not to attend after the congregation had learned of his race.

Rev. Randolph Jones, pastor of the Southside Church Center in Philadelphia, said the action "stunned" him. "I know all kinds of racism, but I thought that overt thing was about over."

Jones said the pastor of the rural congregation told him he could not participate because some of the church members "would be upset at Energy—

SGA elects K.B. Watson

AMARILLO, Texas — K.B. Watson, chairman of the board and president of Pioneer Corporation (NYSE), was elected today as second vice chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Gas Association.

The election was held during the association's annual convention in Dallas.

The SGA is a regional trade association composed of more than 80 natural gas utility companies and gas pipeline companies operating in the South and Southwest. The utility members serve a total of 17 million customers, and pipeline members transport about 80 percent of the nation's interstate gas supply.

Economy in trouble -- II

Public payroll getting smaller

Associated Press Writer
The country's public payroll is getting smaller. More and more cities and states are laying off workers or not filling vacancies as they try to balance budgets squeezed by rising costs and a drop in federal aid.

Large-scale firings are still the exception rather than the rule; Most areas report they are managing to cut employment by attrition instead. But government and union spokesmen say the situation will get worse as the economy weakens and as July 1 — the start of the fiscal year in many places — approaches.

Federal statistics from the Census Bureau show that state and local employment grew at an annual rate of 4 percent in the years from 1967 to 1974. The rate of growth slowed to 2 percent and then, in 1977 and 1978, to 1 percent. After 1978, public employment started to drop.

"It's not new," said Don Wasserman, director of research for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. Virginia is typical. State employment had been growing by 5 percent a year until 1979 when Gov. John Dalton put a freeze on hiring. Dalton said job vacancies could be filled only if the agency involved could justify its action to him. About 115 jobs — roughly two-tenths of a percent of the state payroll — have been eliminated so far.

Gov. Hugh Gallen of New Hampshire has proposed a similar plan; vacant jobs could not be filled unless he and a fiscal committee from the Legislature agree. Gallen also wants to freeze upgrading of state employees from one pay level to the next.

Virginia and New Hampshire have avoided outright firings. Detroit hasn't Almost 400 police already have been laid off. Mayor Coleman Young, facing a potential budget deficit of $56 million, wants to lay off an additional 703 members of the 4,600-member force — 670 of on Sept. 5 and the rest on Jan. 1, 1981.

Officials in New York City say no layoffs are planned, but the city payroll has been reduced by attrition. Kansas City, Mo., is laying off 76 of its 5,110 employees, ranging from professional engineers to laborers. An additional 100 jobs will be left vacant.

"We're trying to minimize layoffs and maximize transfers," said Tom Lewinsohn, the city's personnel director.

A major problem for many cities is the potential loss of federal revenue sharing funds. President Carter has proposed eliminating the $2.3 billion program under which the states get block grants, then passed about 44 percent of the money on to local governments.

Unemployment in the private sector also is putting pressure on public workers. Tax revenues — from individuals and companies — are going down at the same time demand for services is going up. "We anticipate that we'll see some (layoffs), particularly in local government as the tax bases start to shrink with the shutdown of certain companies," said Thomas E. Schneider, executive director of the Montana Public Employees Association.

Gene Denton, the city manager of Wichita, Kan., blamed a combination of inflation, federal cutbacks and salary increases for a hiring freeze instituted on April 1. Cleveland is cutting about 650 from its work force of 10,000; 150 people will have to go when federal funds for public service jobs run out.

Wasserman is critical of federal lawmakers. "The administration has planned and wants a recession," he said. "They have talked of a recession with glee. It's quite obvious that we fault the administration and many in Congress who have tried to outdo the administration in cutbacks."

Local spending lids as well as federal ones have caused the loss of jobs. In New Jersey, for example, municipal budgets cannot increase by more than 5 percent a year without specific voter approval. Jack Trafford, executive director of the New Jersey League of Municipalities, said the limit was reasonable when it was enacted in 1976, "but with the inflation rate the way it is today, that's not very much...Every year you cut and cut and cut, and now many municipalities are cut to the wire."

Newark, N.J., cut its work force by 12 percent, including 258 police officers; Paterson laid off 188 administrative employees in 1979 and city officials are talking about firing 48 firefighters and 47 policemen this year; Orange eliminated 80 workers. "The present belt tightening will get worse," said Trafford.

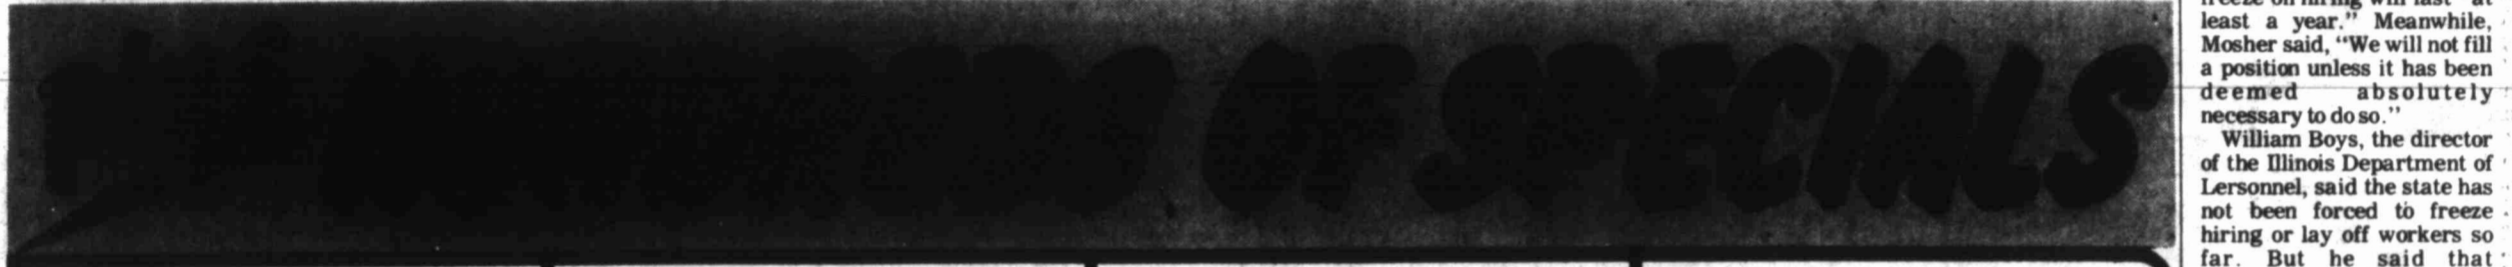

Out in Wyoming, Robert Cantine, executive director of that state's Association of Municipalities, was equally pessimistic. He said mass layoffs have been avoided so far — "More of what we have is doing it through attrition. It's less painful that way." But he also said that local governments got only a tenth of what they asked for from the state this year. "It's going to be extremely difficult next year," said Cantine. "I think it's going to get much worse."

Robert Mosher, the state comptroller in Iowa, said that a recently announced freeze on hiring will last "at least a year." Meanwhile, Mosher said, "We will not fill a position unless it has been deemed absolutely necessary to do so."

William Boys, the director of the Illinois Department of Personnel, said the state has not been forced to freeze hiring or lay off workers so far. But he said that unemployment in private industry is having its effect on the state all the same. "I have noticed a considerable increase in the number of people applying for state jobs," Boys said.

Should doctors kill condemned, splitting topic

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors swear to heal the sick. But should they kill the condemned?

Three months ago, two Harvard professors argued that if physicians help with executions by drug injection, they will be taking part in "a corruption and exploitation of the healing profession's role in society."

Now it appears that the nation's doctors — at least the ones who feel strongly enough to write letters — are evenly split on the question.

In today's issue, the New England Journal of Medicine publishes a sampling of the reaction it received to the controversial stand taken by the two experts in its Jan. 24 edition.

William J. Curran, a lawyer who is head of the medical ethics program at Harvard Medical School, and Ward Casscells, an internist on the school's faculty, argued then that physicians will violate their Hippocratic Oath if they oversee the lethal drug injections, which is America's newest form of capital punishment.

Virginia Bates, the journal's letters editor, said the article prompted 40 letters, an unusually large number, and they were evenly divided between doctors who agree and those who say participation in executions should be an individual decision.

Not everyone took sides. Dr. Pamela Hemphill of San Francisco, for instance, argued that the Harvard men muddled the capital punishment issue by acting possessive about the means of death.

"The electric chair and the gas chamber have been used for years, and I have not heard electricians' unions or plumbers' unions decrying the use of their tools," she declared.

Dr. Marilyn Ward of Syracuse, N.Y., went even further. She questioned the morality of psychiatrists whose courtroom testimony can lead to the conviction and eventual execution of criminals.

Some doctors took the side of J. Robert Nelson of Georgetown University's Kennedy Institute of Ethics. He contended, "This abhorrent practice would corrupt and brutalize the physician..."

Others agreed with Dr. John D. King of St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, Ill., who noted that doctors can kill in wartime or in self-defense. He concluded, "Conduct in the matter ought to be left to individuals, not organizations."

Another doctor, Herbert H. Kersten of the Fort Dodge Medical Center in Iowa, took the prisoner's point of view. He thought many condemned inmates would prefer the lethal injection to electrocution.

Holding on for new car

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — A pregnant Fort Myers woman says she is determined to win a car that a dealership is giving away — so determined that even going into labor won't get in her way.

"I'm prepared to have my baby here (in the showroom) if that's what it takes," said 22-year-old Cassandra Sapp.

Ms. Sapp, who is two months pregnant, is one of two persons clinging to a new 1979 Plymouth Arrow car dealer Ken Lee of Fort Myers says he will give to the person who holds onto it longest.

Lee's rules are that contestants must hold onto the auto and that during the hourly 10-minute break each contestant is allowed, someone must act as stand-in.

Tradition's new wrinkle

DENVER (AP) — The businessman's tradition of wearing a suit and tie to work has been given a new wrinkle by some Denver men who work on — not in — the city's office buildings.

Bob Pearson and four fellow ironworkers decided they should offer a salute to the legions of neatly dressed office workers. So, on Tuesday the five men donned their own suits and ties — along with the mandatory hardhats — as they helped raise two 66-ton steel trusses nearly 100 feet and set them in place on a partly completed 42-story building in Denver's business district.

Lions gain lesson in Texas history

Downtown Lions received a lesson Wednesday in Texas history as well as an explanation of a supplemental program for gifted children in the Coahoma schools.

Scott Earnest and Jodie Read narrated "Thirteen Days to Glory" their project on the Alamo.

One hundred and fifty-four Texans marched into the mission complex of San Antonio de Bexar Feb. 22, 1836 and immediately came under bombardment. Col. Wm. Travis' appeal for reinforcements ended: "I shall never surrender or retreat... victory or death."

The letter was fated to be the result when only 32 reinforcements, with virtually no supplies, reached the defenders. They died to the man. The boys had constructed the entire Alamo mission layout to reference

Another trial date for Roloff

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The state of Texas again is asking the courts to put evangelist Lester Roloff out of the child care business if he refuses to get a state license.

State District Judge Charles Matthews has set a May 13 hearing on Attorney General Mark White's latest suit against the Corpus Christi preacher.

It frustrates intent of code

Judicial candidate calls technical 'foul'

By DON WOODS

Jim McCormick, place 2 candidate for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, is running on a platform of discontent with the number of criminal cases being reversed because of technicalities.

He was in Big Spring Tuesday on a swing through the West Texas area.

He called W.T. Phillips, the incumbent candidate, "a leader in this trend of reversing district court convictions on technicalities."

McCormick cited as an example the case in which a man running a house of prostitution was released because the indictment didn't include terminology stating the crime was committed "knowingly."

"This is the kind of picky things," McCormick opposes as a basis for appeals.

JIM McCORMICK

He cited as another example a case in which a man indicted for theft was released because the charge to the jury did not include that the property was taken without effective consent of the owner.

"It frustrates the intent of the 1978 code," said McCormick.

He said cases are being reversed because of the personal feelings of the judge about the legislation rather than the legislation itself.

"Most cases that are reversed are re-tried and you're talking about a big expense to taxpayers," said McCormick.

The constitution guarantees a fair trial, not a perfect trial, he said. Hearsay, for example, can slip into the evidence and unless it damages the defendant's case it should not be made a basis for reversing decisions.

The other issue in his platform is the belief that judges should not just sit on the bench but also get involved in solving problems of the whole criminal justice system. McCormick accused Phillips of doing this. "I think I have the experience and background to be very effective in this regard," he said.

He briefed for the appellate court when he first got out of St. Mary's Law School in Austin. He became familiar with the court workings as an assistant district attorney in Austin. He worked with former District Attorney Bob Smith in Austin.

McCormick was a member of the committee that wrote the Texas Penal Code in 1973. He is currently writing Branch's Annotated Penal Code, a major work on Texas law. It is a competitor with Vernon's Penal Code.

McCormick received his Bachelor of Arts degree from University of Texas in Austin; J.D. degree from St. Mary's Law School. He was briefing attorney for the court of criminal appeals; assistant district attorney, Travis County; executive director, Texas District and County Attorneys Association and instructor of legal research and writing, St. Mary's Law School.

In addition, he taught criminal law and criminal justice at Southwest Texas State University. He has been on the board of directors of the National District Attorneys' Association and National Association of Prosecution Coordinators president in 1978.

The nine judges of the appeal court run for six-year terms. Three run every two years.

McCormick and his wife were in Midland, Odessa and Lubbock Wednesday.
