Bodies of eight commandos will be returned to U.S.

Hostages in Iran reported moved

By the Associated Press
The American hostages have been moved to various places in Tehran and will be dispersed to cities around the country to foil any further U.S. rescue attempts, their militant captors said Saturday. Iran's president said the bodies of eight commandos who perished in the aborted U.S. mission will be returned to the United States "with no conditions attached."

Tehran radio reported that Iranian troops found six burned bodies in the "wreckage of two giant U.S. aircraft" and said "these bodies are possibly those of the pilots and co-pilots of the burned aircraft."

A photographer who visited the desert site told reporters the burned bodies were being taken to Yazd, some 125 miles to the south.

The Tehran broadcast, monitored in London, said when two patrols entered one of the U.S. helicopters and brought out a box, the box exploded, killing one guard, and wounding two others.

"Three of the five helicopters left behind by U.S. military personnel in Robat Khan were destroyed by Iranian army planes, the radio reported. The other two were left intact."

The broadcast added, "In one of these helicopters, which were closely inspected, there were maps and communications equipment. The operation commander said the U.S. troops had placed explosive devices in the equipment they left behind and there is a possibility that they may have mined the area."

It also said that "a tanker lorry, heading for Tabas from Yazd, came under fire" during the U.S. effort and blew up.

Iranian officials have said some of the Americans in the rescue mission were left behind, but Tehran radio said "careful air reconnaissance" of the area had failed to find any.

In other developments:
— The Pentagon raised from four to five the number of commandos it said were injured in the attempt and said all of them were going to be treated at military hospitals in Texas.

— Barbara Timm of Oak Creek, Wis., in Tehran to visit her hostage son, told Iranians she deeply regretted the U.S. rescue effort.

— A usually reliable Egyptian magazine called October reported that 40 Iranian troops trained in the United States were involved in Friday's aborted mission. There was no comment from U.S. officials.

President Carter said the attempt, launched early Friday, was canceled because of technical malfunctions in helicopters considered crucial to the mission.

The specially trained commando group, reportedly called Blue Light and trained in the months since the U.S. Embassy was seized Nov. 4, was ordered to leave its base in the Iranian desert in Khorasan Province 200 miles southeast of Tehran, U.S. officials said. Eight commandos were killed and five injured when a helicopter and a C-130 transport plane collided during takeoff under cover of night, but more than 100 survivors were flown out, officials said.

The militants were quoted as saying the hostages had been moved from the embassy "to deprive the criminal Carter of his pretext for such aggression, in order to enable the intrepid nation of Iran as a whole to participate directly in safeguarding the hostages and in order to let the U.S.A. know that such foul methods will not only fail to secure the release of the hostages, but will also force us to revise our position towards them."

"We have decided to keep the hostages in custody in various cities throughout the country... At present, as a political act, the spy hostages are being kept in various places. Details of this decision will subsequently be disclosed to the nation."

Iran's interior minister, Ayatollah Mahdavi Kani, was quoted as telling the newspaper Kayhan the real aim of the mission was to take Iranian leaders hostage.

At a news conference later in the day, Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr confirmed the militants' claim the hostages had been removed from the embassy.

Five U.S. servicemen injured in Iran enter Texas hospitals

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Five American servicemen injured in the aborted effort to free the 50 hostages in Iran were welcomed as heroes Saturday by a crowd of more than 200 at Kelly Air Force Base.

A drum and bugle corps from nearby Lackland Air Force Base played patriotic songs and a contingent of dignitaries applauded as each stretcher was unloaded from the C-141 Starlifter.

An ambulance bus took four of the servicemen to Brooke Army Medical Center for treatment of burns, which a spokesman said covered from 2 percent to 44 percent of their bodies.

The fifth, Airman 1st Class William Tootle of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., was taken by ambulance to Wilford Hall at nearby Lackland Air Force Base.

The four taken to Brooke were identified as Air Force 1st Lt. Jeffrey B. Harrison, 26, Warren, Ohio; Air Force Staff Sgt. Joseph J. Beyers III, 37, Charleston, S.C.; Marine Maj. Leslie B. Petty, 34, Jacksonville, N.C.; and Marine Maj. James H. Schaefer Jr., 36, Los Angeles.

A BANC spokesman said Beyers was in critical condition, Petty was in serious condition and Harrison and Schaefer were in satisfactory condition.

The spokesman declined to give specifics on individual injuries and said it could not be assumed Beyers suffered burns over 44 percent of his body just because he was the one listed in critical condition.

An Air Force spokesman said Tootle, whose presence on the plane was not disclosed until after the jet arrived in the United States, was in good condition with a right knee injury.

The injured servicemen arrived shortly after 2 p.m. CST — 20 hours after they left West Germany. They made a two-hour refueling stop at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey shortly after 10 a.m. CST.

U.S. Rep. Abraham "Chick" Kazen, D-San Antonio and a member of the Armed Services Committee, said two of the servicemen "were able to wave and acknowledge our applause. They acknowledged the presence of the crowd. I think they appreciated it."

Maj. Gen. Lynnwood Clark, head of the Air Logistics Center at Kelly, said he "just wanted to be here to greet them, when they got in. We won't be able to visit with them. The important thing is to get them to medical attention."

Beth Paul carried a red-white-and-blue sign that read: "God Bless America. Welcome Home."
"It adds a little when they get off the plane and see that people care," she said. "It shows we care and are concerned."

A group of about 50 civilians were kept 30 yards from the plane. They said they went to Kelly to show their support for the attempted rescue of the 50 American hostages.

"I think it was a good thing that they tried" the mission, said Diane Petross. "At least they tried."

"I think it's important to be out here," said Air Force Staff Sgt. Don Wise, who wore civilian clothes and brought his wife and two children.

Nine political districts touch

It's all Stone's throw away

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Depending on where he is standing, Gordon Stone can claim to be the constituent of nine different legislators without leaving his land.

Stone's land consists of six sections that span three different counties — Martin, Howard and Glasscock. The meeting point of three counties is an unique political dividing line.

"This is the common meeting point of three congressional, three state senatorial and three state legislative districts," Stone said.

Stone added, "This is very unique." Its singularity comes from the fact that it is the only place in Texas where such divisional meeting points exist.

U.S. Rep. Kent Hance's District 19, State Sen. E.L. Short's District 28 and State Rep. Jim Rudd's District 77 have a common southeast boundary at Martin County.

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm's District 17, State Sen. Ray Farabee's District 30 and State Rep. Mike Ezzell's District 63 have a common southwest border at Howard County.

U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler's District 21, State Sen. W.E. Snelson's District 25 and State Rep. Tom Craddick's District 68 have part of their northern boundary along the Glasscock County line.

Stone added, "Judge (James) Gregg (118th State District) thinks it is the boundary line for several federal judicial districts." Litigants from Martin County go to Midland; litigants from Glasscock County are heard in San Angelo and a litigant from Howard County goes to Abilene.

The land was bought over 50 years ago by Stone's grandfather. He has been living on the land for about 45 years.

Stone votes in Glasscock County or Garden City because his home is located just south of the Martin County line.

Stone commented, "1980 may be the last year."

The Texas Legislature during the next session will redistrict the state with the new census information. With West Texas not growing in proportion to the Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio, the possibility of the three counties being grouped into one larger district on each of the three levels is likely.

Stone has written to each of the nine legislators, inviting them to a reception at his home. The event, Stone said, would be hosted by the Stones and Judge Gregg. Gregg's judicial district consists of all three counties.

So far, Rep. Rudd, who comes from Brownfield, has accepted the invitation by letter. Rep. Ezzell, who comes from Snyder, said last week he would be glad to attend.

Stone said the most difficult part of finalizing the get-together will be arranging it where the congressmen can attend, due to their schedules.

POWER CIRCLE — The circle shows the meeting points of Martin, Howard and Glasscock counties.

MERGING POLITICS — Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stone stand at the meeting point of three counties — Martin, Howard and Glasscock. This point also happens to be the border of three congressional, three state senatorial and three state representative districts. Mr. Stone's right foot is positioned in the districts of U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, State Sen. Ray Farabee and State Rep. Mike Ezzell. Mr. Stone's left foot is in the districts of U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler, State Sen. W.E. Snelson and State Rep. Tom Craddick. Mrs. Stone is standing in the district of U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, State Sen. E.L. Short and State Rep. Jim Rudd. (PHOTO BY BILL FORSHER)

HUNGRY NEWCOMER — Three-year-old Yamile Ponce sucks on an orange at the U.S. Navy pier minutes after she and about 250 other Cuban refugees disembarked from "La Abella," a snapper boat normally used for fishing. Later at the U.S.O. center Yamile ate another meal consisting of chicken, rice, yuca, and beans. Over four hundred Cuban refugees arrived in Key West Saturday, making the total number of refugees who have come here since last Sunday to 2,000.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is a possibility that some secret equipment or documents were left behind in American helicopters abandoned after the cancellation of a hostage rescue mission in the Iranian desert, a senior U.S. military officer said Saturday.

He mentioned certain sensitive communications and electronics equipment as among the possibilities.

But he said the Iranian Air Force may have destroyed this secret material if, as he believes happened, the Iranians bombed the abandoned helicopters.

This officer said he has every reason to believe the Iranian Air Force did bomb the helicopters, as has been claimed by Iranian authorities.

Repairman shot dozen times

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — The body of a 23-year-old city employee who had been shot a dozen times was found near the city dump Saturday.

Herman Polk, a water meter repairman, had been shot in the hands, legs, abdomen and head. "I'm sure they shot him first and got him on the ground, and then finished him off by shooting him in the head," said police detective Ed Vaden.

Two city sanitation workers found Polk's body lying in a ditch about a hundred yards from the city's sanitary landfill. Police said they have no idea why Polk was killed.

"We don't even know what happened for sure," said officer Glenn Barham. "We just know he got shot a bunch of times."

Bullets kill seven

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Seven persons were found shot to death, execution-style, early Saturday in and around the capital of this Central American nation, police said.

Five of the victims, discovered in the suburb of Ayustestepeque, southeast of the capital, had been blindfolded and had their hands tied behind their backs before being shot once in the head, police said.

Flags of the guerrilla Peoples' Revolutionary Army were thrown over some of their bodies, but police did not immediately say whether the victims were leftists or had been shot by leftists.

The other two bodies were found near the Social Security Hospital in downtown San Salvador. A sign near them said the "Death Squad" took responsibility for the killings. It also accused the victims of being thieves.

Reliable estimates put the number of deaths from political violence in El Salvador at more than 1,000 since the first of the year. Leftists are trying to topple the civilian-military junta that has ruled here since October.

LARGE ANTIQUE — Built as the courthouse in 1894, the building was converted to a jailhouse in 1909 when a new courthouse was built. The old jailhouse has been shut down, due to it not meeting state qualifications.

NEW FACILITY — The new Glasscock County jail will contain seven cells which will hold up to 10 persons. It

Historical site treasured antique

Courthouse cost $6,500

By ANDREA COHEN
GARDEN CITY — As with many antiques, it has become unusable.

And as with many antiques, a person would just as soon shave his head before getting rid of it.

So it is with the Glasscock County jailhouse.

Originally built as the courthouse, it was the first permanent structure in Glasscock County in 1894.

"It was a big thing then," says one woman of the jailhouse. "It was a building with two stories. We used to go there for picnics because of the water tank."

The two-story, stone building was constructed of rock gathered from a nearby hill. It was erected on a block of land that has since become the heart of Garden City.

At a cost of $6,500, it was built on the order of the county's first commissioners.

Founder of Garden City was W.E. Chaney, who had owned four sections of land in the general area of Garden City.

According to his son, John, who died in 1977, his father took a quarter section and plotted a townsite on the west 160 acres. A surveyor came in with him and was given half of the lots in the townsite for surveying the land and laying out the streets.

His father gave the county commissioners a block in the middle of the townsite and dug a well on the tract. At the time, the new county had just been organized. He had stipulated this to be the site of the county's courthouse. The commissioners accepted the gift and then took steps to build the courthouse.

At that time, there was a much older Glasscock County community, located approximately three miles north and a little east of the present town.

The area did not have a name. It was a sheep shearing center with a store, a blacksmith shop and a hotel. The owner of the store was named Gardner and that is what the settlement was called.

The older town had two problems. One was that it was located in a valley and the second problem was that water was scarce and wells, such as they were, did not produce much water.

Chaney's father had named his town New California and residents of the older community told him if he would change the name to Garden City, the old town would move over to his site. W.E. Chaney agreed.

Part of the agreement stipulated that the change of names would expedite the establishment of the post office. This was established April 5, 1893.

The first courthouse was proposed at the second meeting of the commissioners in April, 1893. The commissioners ordered the clerk to buy two tables, six chairs, a writing desk and a "good safe" for the county.

The commissioners, probably spurred by Chaney's gift of land and a well, met May 9, 1893, and agreed to issue $7,000 in bonds to pay for the courthouse and jail. They signed an agreement by which J.T. Noyes of Houston was to build the structure. He was paid $6,500. The other $500 probably went for desks, books and supplies. In the latter part of 1894, the building was complete.

The 1890 census showed the population of the county to be 208 persons. Over the next 10 years, the county grew slowly and showed an increase of only 78 in 1900. By 1910, the population had climbed to 1,143.

The sudden growth probably stirred the commissioners at that time to decide the old courthouse was no longer adequate. It was decided to make a jail of the original building and build a new courthouse. This was started in 1909.

The new courthouse posed problems from the outset. The contractor had run into difficulties, because the weather was hot and dry, causing the workers to quit because of the heat. The builder finally gave up, with the building only partially completed. The bond holders took over and hired workers to finish the building.

In 1967, with the jailhouse in deplorable condition, the commissioners wanted to tear down the historic site and build a new jail. Historians opposed the idea.

A compromise was reached when the commissioners decided to renovate the facility, at a cost of $8,420, $2,000 more than the original cost of the structure.

Before the renovation, the jail could accommodate four prisoners in an antique iron cellblock on the second floor of the building. Nothing was on the first floor.

The toilet facilities were limited. There was no place to bathe, and even if there had been, the jail only had cold water.

The jailhouse has been closed for approximately two years, and the building stands empty. A new jailhouse will soon be constructed adjacent to the courthouse. The old jail structure does not meet state qualifications.

The old jail will not be torn down. Along with it being designated a historical site, it is also considered a treasured antique.

A cellblock was added on the second floor and one was also added on the first floor. Adequate toilet facilities had been installed as well as heating and hot water.

Hundreds reported killed

By the Associated Press
Bitter fighting in Kurdistan left hundreds of government soldiers, Kurdish rebels and civilians dead, Kurdish sources in Tehran said Saturday.

A Kurdish leader appealed for international relief for the people of the area in northwestern Iran as fighting was reported in four cities and towns.

Firm adds to force

The Kurdish sources said hundreds of persons were killed in battles Friday in Sanandaj, and that a heavy rocket and mortar attack by Iranian troops destroyed many homes. They claimed army commanders urged residents to evacuate the city and then arrested about 200 who were trying to leave. There was no independent confirmation of the reports.

A Tehran newspaper, Jomhuri Islami, quoted Brig. Gen. Valiollah Fallahi Saturday as saying the army had captured Sanandaj, about 250 miles west of Tehran. Rebel sources in Tehran denied the report and said the army held only the garrison and the airport.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, also reported heavy fighting in Saghez, north of Sanandaj, between government units and autonomy-seeking Kurds. They said Saghez was without water and electricity.

Fighting spread to the towns of Baneh and Marivan, according to the sources, and the rebels claimed they knocked out an army tank in Saghez and two helicopters at Baneh.

Ayatollah Ezedin Hosseini, a Kurdish religious and political leader, issued a statement Saturday asking the International Red Cross and the United Nations Commission on Human Rights for immediate aid that he said was needed to save thousands of Kurdish lives.

The statement, released by Kurdish sources in Tehran, accused the Iranian armed forces of "conducting genocide" against the Kurds. It said hundreds of wounded people were receiving no medical care.

President's mother bids Egypt bye

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Lillian Carter left here Saturday after a four-day sightseeing visit that was soured by news of the failed U.S. hostage-rescue mission.

The president's mother visited two mosques before departing for Paris, where she was to stop over before flying to the United States on Monday.

Egyptian sources said Mrs. Carter, 81, had considered canceling her final day of sightseeing after learning of the failed U.S. rescue mission, but decided against it.

"Poor Jimmy," an aide quoted her as saying when she learned of the failed mission during a tour of the Pyramids on Friday.

The president's mother's two-week tour began with a stop in Paris for a meeting of the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development, where she served as an American delegate during a conference on the employment of women.

Mrs. Carter then flew to Israel where she presented to Prime Minister Menachem Begin a silk-screen print depicting the signing of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty. She gave a print to President Anwar Sadat, as well.

GREETINGS — This Cuban man sees friends as he is greeted by a relative after he was processed in Miami by the Immigration Department. Cuban refugees are still coming into Key West aboard small boats from Cuba and are being sent to Miami for final processing.

Gas costing $3.08 in Paris

PARIS (AP) — Gasoline prices went up another 2 percent throughout France on Saturday, raising the average price of a gallon to the equivalent of $3.08. It was the third increase this year.

The French government said the price hike announced Friday was intended to cover the increased value of the dollar against the French franc.

Strong winds, high seas buffet refugee fleet

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Potential tragedy stalked the Cuban boatlift Saturday as strong winds and high waves buffeted hundreds of boats scattered across the 90-mile stretch of open sea between this Florida resort and Cuba.

Radio Havana, meanwhile, reported that after the nearly 1,000 boats waiting at the Port of Mariel had left the Caribbean island nation, the Cuban government would permit an airlift to allow them to leave.

The report, monitored in Miami on Saturday, did not indicate whether the boatlift would be halted once the boats now at Mariel are filled. More boats were headed for the port.

Coast Guard personnel here, some called from as far away as Virginia, worked 24-hour shifts to keep track of the estimated 1,000 boats on the way to the Port of Mariel on Cuba's north coast or headed home to the United States with refugees.

Key West Port Director Francisco Veliz said 2,500 boats have left since Wednesday, with perhaps 500 setting out Friday despite warnings of bad weather.

About 65 boats had returned by noon Saturday during the week-long boatlift, bringing in more than 2,500 refugees since Cuban President Fidel Castro allowed the boatlift to begin a week ago Sunday.

"I wouldn't go out in this weather in anything smaller than a 30-footer," said Veliz.

Most of the larger boats available in the Florida Keys were rented or bought early in the week, leaving latecomers with no choice but to pay entrepreneurs $5,000 to $15,000 for smaller craft, some barely 16 feet long.

Some boat owners making the trip to Cuba were charging $1,000 or more per passenger. Many other boats were skipped by Cuban exiles going to Cuba to bring back relatives and friends.

Authorities said many of the boats leaving Friday and Saturday had no radios and were not designed to withstand heavy weather.

"We're going to lose some of them," predicted Coast Guard Lt. Roland Insnor. "Seas are 5 to 8 feet and winds are 15 to 17 knots. It's going to get worse tomorrow (Sunday). I'm afraid there's going to be a calamity."

Insnor said it would be possible to use smaller boats to cross the rough Gulf Stream, coursing through the Straits of Florida, "if the captains are good seamen."

Insnor said the barrage of distress calls the Coast Guard was receiving was a bad omen. "Many of these people have no idea where they're at or how to get there. Some of them are going around in circles. Some are headed north, some are headed west."

"A lot of them took off without a chart, and they're calling us to ask us where they're at and how to get to Cuba."

Insnor said since there is no way to communicate with many of the boats, the Coast Guard must depend on other vessels or search aircraft to find the boats in trouble.

"These people aren't sailors," he said.

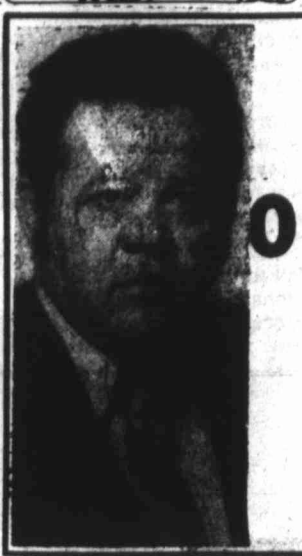

LCRA sells revenue bonds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Directors of the Lower Colorado River Authority announced Saturday the sale of $30 million in revenue bonds to Bache Halsey Stuart, Inc.

The LCRA board accepted the low bid of 7.9513 percent net effective interest rate on the bonds, which will be used to finance additions to the LCRA electric transmission system.

With the bond issue, LCRA cancelled plans to ask the Public Utility Commission for a $25 million rate increase. The LCRA said in a statement it now plans to file a proposed rate increase of $5 million to $6 million in September. If approved, the increase would go into effect in the spring of 1981.

Slaughter relentlessly goes on

The argument pressed by the gun lovers can all be heard now: "Guns don't kill people. People do!"
The truth of the matter is, some guns do kill when the firearms fall into the hands of the wrong people.
It's becoming more difficult all the time to live a normal life and complete an average life span. No one can escape the storm, whether he lives in a metropolitan area or in a cabin in some remote spot of America.

LAST YEAR, no fewer than 105 law enforcement officers were murdered in the line of duty. That represents a 13 percent increase over the previous year. Firearms were used in 95 percent of the cases.

Throughout America, the toll from gun violence proceeds upward at a steady, relentless pace. In 1978, the latest year for which figures are available, guns of some kind were used in 63 percent of the homicides.
The handgun (more likely the Saturday night special) has become nearly everybody's favorite weapon. It cuts everyone down to size. Nearly half the annual homicides are caused by people wielding the handgun.

When someone of prominence in the community or a national figure is cut down, the country expresses profound shock for the moment, yet thousands of other gun fatalities are no less tragic because the victims are faceless.

Fear convinces many Americans that they must own a gun for protection. That feeling is understandable but Police Commissioner Robert J. McGuire of New York says the shop owner or the home dweller is the most frequent victim in a shootout with criminals.

ACCORDING TO McGuire, more than twice as many persons in his city die in "dispute" homicides inflicted with pistols than are killed in holdups. A dozen years ago, a noted American cautioned: "We must keep firearms from people who have no business with guns." Less than a week later, Robert F. Kennedy, who made the statement, was senselessly killed by a maniac who today can't explain why he did it.

Since Kennedy died, thousands of Americans have perished violently because we have failed to heed his plea to make gun owners conform to certain restrictions, to show just cause why they must have the weapons in the first place.
How many more must forfeit their lives before we face up realistically to the situation?

Misses details

Around the rim

Walt Finley

It's beginning to look like President Carter isn't going to invite me to the White House to get my opinion on things, but the next best thing happened.

He asked one of my leaders, Herald Editor Tommy Hart, to confer with him at the White House.

I couldn't wait for Tommy to get back from Washington, D.C., to get all the juicy details but I might as well have saved my time. Tommy is an intellectual, but, for some reason, the really significant facts of life seem to escape him.
"What did Jimmy have on?" I asked. Not that I really care. But my wife, Velma, wanted to know.

"OH, I DON'T KNOW," Tommy said. "A suit and tie."
"Well, what color was the tie?" I persisted.

"I really don't remember," Tommy said. "I rarely pay attention to things like that."

He then started talking about the situation in Iran, and it was all I could do to get him back on the track.

"What's Jimmy really like?" I asked.

"Friendly, but worried," Tommy said.

"YEAH," I INTERRUPTED, "that's all very interesting, but did he ask about me or Big Spring?"

Tommy's answer was a flat "No!"
Well, dear readers, I have done the best I can with Tommy. I'm sorry my information is so sketchy but you'll just have to blame it on the president.

He invited the wrong person.

CURVACEOUS CARLA Walker Harrold, Odessa College information specialist who celebrates her birthday Wednesday, said:

"Some people's mouths work faster than their brains. They say things they haven't even thought of yet."

Gary and Marsha Bishop plan to celebrate their wedding anniversary Tuesday by wheeling and dealing in Wichita Falls. Gary, who observed his birthday Monday, reported:

A medical researcher said a man has a better chance of fathering a son if he eats oysters every day.

Of course, there is no guarantee. There is a certain percentage who will have to settle for a little Pearl.

I can't imagine why Gary is researching the fathering area, anyway.

Would You Want Your Child To Be President?

—Headline
Why not? The way things are going, he might as well have a whack at it.

Silly Landers, former proof positive pro for the Herald, who whooped it up on her birthday last Tuesday, said the story read:

"The aged concrete bridge had been closed to pedestrians and vehicles weighing more than five tons."
Tall Texans?

That former circulatin' man, Gene Kimble now busy with the figures at the Herald, said:

Sen. Kennedy is trying to get his act together by criticizing Jimmy Carter. He is calling it:

Ted and Calious

Former Herald staffer Dale Ferguson and his wife, now residing in Abilene, are proud new parents of a baby daughter. "Grandpa" Don Ferguson, Herald advisor, is busy passing out cigars.

Dale reported a sign in a shoe store: "Come in and have a fit."

I was looking at a life insurance policy I have and noticed the admonition printed on it:

Please do not fold.
I have no intention of doing so.

Speaking of folding, I think the Arabs have folded detente but they aren't doing much about silently stealing away.

You wouldn't believe some of the things that happen in Texas politics, unless you've lived in the state at least six months.

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — In the apparently unending succession of U.S. foreign policy disasters and Soviet triumphs, it's a relief to be able to report a case where the Kremlin blew it — to the advantage of the United States.

The locale of this encouraging exception is Somalia, where U.S. forces will soon be occupying a key naval base that was built by the Russians before they were booted out two and a half years ago by a supposed Soviet puppet, President Mohammed Siad Barre.

Intelligence experts have warned President Carter that it's dangerous to put much faith in the mercurial Barre. But Carter's top advisers have convinced him that the Soviet-developed deepwater port at Berbera is worth the risk.

BARRE "HAS SHOWN himself to be unpredictable and impulsive at times," a confidential CIA analysis observes — an understatement to which the men in the Kremlin can ruefully attest. In fact, the Soviet blunder in Somalia is a classic lesson in how NOT to handle a Third World dictator.

The Russians poured more than $160 million into Somalia after Barre seized power in 1969, the CIA estimates. The Kremlin clearly hoped to make Somalia a key satellite in the strategically important Horn of Africa, from which they could dominate the Persian Gulf.

The Berbera naval base included a communications center, shipyard cranes and a floating drydock, missile storage facilities, an airfield and housing and an outdoor theater for the hundreds of Soviet technicians and their families. Barre greatly expanded the peacetime operations of the Russians' Indian Ocean fleet and enhanced its wartime capability against the West, the CIA noted.

In return for Kremlin gold, Barre allowed the Soviets free run of his country. A 1976 State Department cable stated that Barre "is now completely committed" to the Soviets. More than 2,500 Soviet advisers permeated the Somalian government bureaucracy.

Teachers and civil servants were required to attend weekly indoctrination classes run by the Soviet-created Political Office of the Presidency, and any Somalian official "judged to have a non-socialist attitude (was) retired or dismissed from government service," the CIA reported.

A 1,000-MAN NATIONAL Security Service organized a month after Barre seized power was run by 12 KGB officers and got its technical equipment and personnel training from Moscow.

Neighborhood "orientation centers" — doubling as food distribution centers to gain a captive audience — were operated by the Russians. "Applicants for government jobs, drivers' licenses, passports and other documents (were required) to present letters of recommendation from the directors of their local orientation centers," a secret CIA report stated.

Under the guidance of Soviet economic advisers, Barre nationalized local and foreign businesses in Somalia.

The Russians virtually took over the Somalian armed forces, with a contingent of civilian advisers and some 1,300 military officers. Somalian officers were required to attend indoctrination classes on Marxist-Leninist ideology, and soon found that their careers were influenced more by the Soviets' evaluations than by their superiors.

But the Soviets' heavy-handedness eventually proved too much for Barre. The last straw, apparently, was the Russians' attempt to play both ends against the middle by giving massive aid to the Thiopians, who were engaged in a border dispute with Somalia.

Finally, in November 1977, Barre had had enough of the Russian bear hug, and unceremoniously kicked the Soviets out, lock, stock and barrel.

Intelligence experts told my associate Dale Van Atta they hope the United States can profit by the Russian mistakes.

HOT IDEA: Millions of dollars' worth of energy may be going down the drain — literally — in American homes each month, to the accompaniment of well-lathered bathroom baritones.

The culprit is the standard household shower head, which congressional investigators claim wastes as much as half the hot water used during the average shower.

According to a Congressional Research Service study requested by Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., installation of a flow-restricting device that costs a few pennies could stop this waste. The researchers figure at least 180 million barrels of oil a year could be saved.

Last year the Department of Energy bought millions of the little gadgets, tiny pieces of molded plastic, at a bulk cost of 13 cents each. Even at retail, the simple molded plastic gizmo costs about 35 cents and could cut household water-heating bills considerably, while still providing a satisfactory shower.

The congressional study estimated that most American homes use the energy equivalent of five barrels of oil per year to heat water.

PLATONIC PUSH: Medical students are notorious druggers, boning up incessantly on anatomy and other practical subjects. To encourage them to ponder yonder, the National Endowment for the Humanities has given New York University's medical school $247,681 to provide philosophy courses for its future doctors.

Aristotle and Plato may not help an NYU grad set a broken leg — but they might give him a more philosophical view of a bogey on the 17th hole.

Other prayer

Evans, Novak

CAIRO, Egypt — Despite the neoparaoneic power that cloaks President Anwar Sadat these days, the smug American assumption that Egypt is inextricably locked in as America's faithful, stable ally rests on future events that even Sadat himself cannot fully control.

"Under Sadat," one Egyptian political operative told us, "we have become more pro-American than you Americans." That verdict is unarguable today. The courageous Sadat's latest agreement with President Carter to let Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin once again have his way on procedures to unblock West Bank autonomy talks is proof enough of that.

BUT WHILE Begin continues to obstruct real autonomy for the Palestinians, Sadat faces far worse dangers at home only marginally affected by what happens on the West Bank: Ravaging inflation, particularly high food prices; a disturbing trend back toward Moslem fundamentalism; and — however much denied — growing political hazards from Egypt's isolation in the Arab world.

The key to Sadat's skill in protecting his pharonic dimension lies squarely on the economy. But giddy promises of the good life held out to the Egyptian people as Sadat tied Cairo ever tighter to Washington have fallen dangerously short of expectations.

Anwar sits on an inflation powder keg. "A Western authority on internal Egyptian politics told us. Explosion of the powder keg, would engulf Sadat first and might even doom Carter's whole Mideast peace enterprise that started with Sadat's 1977 visit to Jerusalem. Moreover, if the price of food continues to outpace wages and government subsidies, resentment over the economy will inflame the issues of Moslem fundamentalism on the right and anti-American pan-Arabism on the left, possibly fusing them for the first time.

Warning signals have been emanating from the government of highly-esteemed Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil. Last week a long and remarkable tract signed by Sadat himself was published in major newspapers. It defended Egypt's historically leading role in the Arab world, particularly since the 1952 Nasser revolution of independence.

Justifying the Camp David accords, Sadat said that "no Arab country save Egypt had either the determination or the ability to take that initiative." Furthermore, he insisted, differences over Camp David with "the Arab rejectionist" rulers are only tactical, not strategic; temporary, not permanent. "Egypt remains 'the heart and the vanguard of the Arab nation.'"

The voluminous Sadat treatise follows nearly two years of Egypt's estrangement from the Arab world. It is an appeal to pan-Arab Egyptian nationalists for patience. It is also a declaration of concern over Egypt's continuing exile.

Another signal of problems ahead was the government's last-minute decision early this year not to reduce costly food subsidies. With prices moving up at least 30 percent a year and wages in effect frozen, a subsidy cut would set off immediate riots in large cities.

STILL ANOTHER portent of home front danger is the veiled press attack — clearly government-stimulated — against leaders of the Coptic (Christian) religion, a small but potent minority. Moslem resentment of the Copts was a factor in the recent student riots in Upper Egypt, as was Sadat's brave and uplifting decision to take in the shah of Iran, regarded by some Moslems as an enemy of Islam.

Leg ulcers--look to circulation

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have a dollar-size ulcer on my left leg that doesn't seem to be healing much, if any. I have had pain and I am NOT a diabetic. I would appreciate any suggestions you might have. — A.F.

Ulcers on the lower part of the leg usually are due to circulatory problems. They are called "stasis" (STAYsis) ulcers. If the ulcer is on the inner side of the leg it is more often due to inefficient veins (varicose veins). An ulcer on the outer side of the leg is more often due to high blood pressure or hardening of the arteries.

Whatever the cause, these vessel-related ulcers are difficult to treat and slow to heal. One prominent dermatologist's program for their care includes the following:

Avoid prolonged standing.
Take 15-20 minute rest periods as often as possible during the day, and during this time keep the legs elevated higher than the heart. Lay down and prop up the legs.

Apply cool compresses with Burrow's solution (aluminum acetate) for 15 minutes three times daily. Get some from your doctor.

If the ulcer is not infected, sparingly apply a steroid cream such as a weak hydrocortisone mixture.

If none of these works, then you should consider skin grafting.

Finally, instead of treating the symptom (the ulcer) you should be examined to find the cause and try to bring that under control.

Dear Dr. Donohue: If I came in to see you and said I thought I had gout, could you tell me if I had it without tests, or would you have to make lab tests to be sure? — H.H.

There are certain tip-offs in gout — the pain and swelling of joints, particularly the one at the base of the big toe, also some telltale soft nodules in the skin, especially the skin of the ear. If I noted these, along with your account of pain, etc., I would certainly suspect gout.

If you mean would I still want lab tests, my answer is yes. I would like to know the level of uric acid in the blood and I would like to see if there were uric acid crystals in the joint fluid to prove the diagnosis and the severity.

All these tests tell much about the best treatment for the individual patient. For more on gout see the booklet, "Gout, The Modern Way to Stop It." For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I had a breaking out and suspected the fluoride in my toothpaste as the cause. I switched to baking soda and have not had trouble since. What is your opinion as to fluoride causing allergy? Are there any foods that have fluoride naturally? Our local water supply is not fluoridated. — S.K.

As to the allergy-fluoride link, my unbiased poll of three textbooks, two allergists and one doctor of internal medicine (me) gave these results: four no, one yes and one undecided. I was the one who voted "undecided."

I had not heard of this being a problem. Yet, allergy is such an unpredictable and individualistic thing that I would not entirely rule out fluoride as a cause of your symptoms. Certainly, a trial without it would be worthwhile.

Fluoride is widely distributed throughout nature and the amount in soil and water varies from place to place. Plants get their fluoride from the soil and the atmosphere. Since both the soil and atmosphere differ in fluoride content, depending on where they were grown. The amount of fluoride in any plant should not aggravate your condition.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Why would a person in her 50s get tonsillitis when she never had it before? — Mrs. H.T.J.

It's possible. If the tonsil tissue has not wasted away, which it commonly does as we grow older, it can still become infected with germs. Tonsillitis is less common in adults for two reasons, because adult tonsils have withered with age and because they have usually built up a resistance to the germs that cause tonsil infections. Youth does not have all the advantages.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor: I want to thank Eagle Forum for making it possible for people like me, who are still not sure who to vote for and refuse to be told who to vote for, the opportunity of seeing for myself and hearing for myself and even asking questions of the two candidates running for state representative.

I feel having both candidates on the same platform at the same time is the only way you can find out if what the opponents are saying is true or not. I admire both Larry Shaw and Mike among you? Don't they come from your desires that battle within you? You want something but don't get it. You kill and covet, but you cannot have what you want. You quarrel and fight" (James 4:1-2) Logically, peace would be a better way. But because of the evil within our hearts, we are never satisfied and we want to take what someone else has. This does not mean there will never be periods of peace, or that we should not try to work for peace among men and nations. But lasting peace is an illusion as long as the hearts of men are not changed. That is why I believe the only hope for lasting peace in our world is Jesus Christ. He alone is able to change the basic problem, because He alone can change the human heart. The Bible says, "The heart is deceitful above all things and beyond cure" (Jeremiah 17:9). Yet it also tells us God can accomplish what man cannot do — He can cure the disease of sin. In fact, that is why Christ came, and by faith in Him we can know His presence within our hearts.

Beverly Rybolt

Dear Editor: I was very upset Friday after reading a letter in your column written by Kaye Bunn.

I have known Dorothy Bennett for years and now work with her 5 days a week. I have never heard her say anything unkind about Dorothy Moore!

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why can't all the nations get together and decide to live at peace with each other? I can't imagine anybody wanting war, and yet there seems to be so much strife between nations today. — Mrs. F.J.

DEAR MRS. F.J.: One of the great promises of the Bible is that some day all the wars and divisions which afflict the human race will cease. However, this will not come until the end of time as we know it, when the Messiah (Jesus Christ) comes to rule in power and love. "They will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation will not take up sword against nation, nor will they train for war anymore" (Isaiah 2:4).

Until Christ comes again there is no promise that the human race will enjoy permanent peace. Why is this? The Bible tells us the reason is because of the human heart, which is selfish and covetous. The Bible says, "What causes fights and quarrels

U.S. looks to economic, diplomatic pressure on Iran to end crisis

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sun., April 27, 1980 5-A

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following the failure of the military mission to rescue American hostages from Tehran, the Carter administration now sees a return to economic and diplomatic pressure as the best means of ending the long stalemate with Iran.

Officials, who asked not to be identified, conceded Saturday that consideration of further military action against Iran is on the back burner, leaving the administration with little choice but to pursue with "renewed vigor" the same strategy it had adopted in the early days of the crisis.

Administration officials assessed the new situation after a commando-style operation aimed at rescuing the American hostages from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran was aborted Thursday because of helicopter equipment failure.

Eight American servicemen involved in the operation died when a helicopter and a transport plane collided as they were leaving a refueling area in the Iranian desert after it had been decided to scrub the mission.

Meanwhile, the Iranians worked Saturday to lessen the chances of success for any new commando-type rescue effort.

Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and the militants who seized the hostages last Nov. 4 said the Americans have been moved from the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and are being held in several places in the city. They said the hostages will be dispersed to cities throughout Iran to foil another possible rescue attempt.

Bani-Sadr also said Iran will turn over to the United States the bodies of the Americans killed in the crash.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown told a news conference Friday that the eight bodies were left behind in the wreckage of the aircraft, but that all of the survivors of the mission were safely evacuated. Five members of the force were injured and were flown to military hospitals in Texas Saturday.

Failure of the mission appeared to negate the possibility of any sudden new military action by the United States.

A naval blockade of Iran had been the main military option under consideration, but allied opposition combined with other factors appears to have made that an improbable course of action over the short term.

President Carter himself said Friday that the emphasis now will be on "peaceful and diplomatic means." Many members of Congress, including some with conservative foreign policy views, also have been counseling restraint.

As U.S. officials see it, the administration's trump card now is the rapidly deteriorating economic situation in Iran, resulting partly from the sanctions already imposed by the United States and partly from lingering post-revolutionary chaos in Iran.

Coal output hike likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Domestic coal production is likely to increase 62 percent by 1990 to 1.25 billion tons annually, a coal industry report says.

The report, issued by the National Coal Association, said domestic coal consumption should increase 65 percent to 1.17 billion tons.

Production in 1979 totaled 770 million tons, while consumption was 707 million tons.

Carl E. Bagge, the association president, said the coal industry currently is able to produce at least 100 million more tons than is being consumed and that this situation will continue.

The report showed coal exports are expected to increase 37 percent to 89 million tons in 1990. About 24 million tons would go to Canada.

Oil and gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — An independent researcher recommended Saturday that governments begin favoring the use of oil and gas in plastics, synthetic fibers and synthetic rubber instead of burning them as fuels.

The suggestion was published in a report by Christopher Flavin, a researcher at the Worldwatch Institute, a nonprofit organization that analyzes global resource problems.

"Oil and natural gas are clearly in limited supply, and the process of sorting out priorities in their use needs to begin in earnest," the report said. "Synthetic materials have an important role to play in the future and their production may in fact be one of the last major uses for oil and natural gas."

Production of red meat up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total U.S. production of red meat by packing companies was about 3.1 billion pounds in March, up less than 1 percent from March of last year, the Agriculture Department says.

Beef production, at 1.65 billion pounds, was down 7 percent from a year earlier, and veal production fell 21 percent to 30 million pounds, the department said in a report issued Friday.

Pork production continued to increase in March, rising 11 percent to 1.39 billion pounds, and lamb and mutton production rose 4 percent to 28 million pounds, officials said in the monthly report.

Numerous awards, including a blue ribbon for a perfect score to the Pack for its exposition booth, recognized at the Cub Pack 305 meeting last week at First Baptist activities building.

A red patch vest was presented to Glenn M. Pierce on the occasion of his birthday. Bob Abbott was introduced as assistant Webelos leader, and Brenda Powers as Den 1 mother. Bob cat awards went to Judy Taylor and Sherman Powers. Jason Foust, a new Webelos, got an outdoorsman award. Rex Tucker earned his bear, and arrow points went to Jeffrey Lott and Ricky Swafford.

Danny Reed Jr. won second place in the district Pinewood Derby, it was announced, and Ricky Swafford first in his elimination heat. Webelos had the opening ceremony and Den 3 the stunts, a musical "Whatchamacallit" group. Next meeting is May 27, an important one, said Pierce.

That he will defeat incumbent Nugent Hightower 'betting' half of his savings

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Railroad Commission candidate Jim Hightower says he is "betting" half his savings — $5,000 — that he will defeat incumbent Jim Nugent in the Democratic primary May 3.

The $5,000 is how much Hightower, former editor of the Texas Observer, says he has put into his own campaign.

A whistle-stop campaign from Dallas to San Antonio aboard a 1948 railroad car will highlight the final week of his campaign, Hightower said.

He was interviewed on the weekly radio show State Capitol Dateline for broadcast over the weekend.

Hightower predicted a low voter turnout in the primary, which he said would be a test of the effectiveness of Nugent's television camaign against his "more personal approach."

He said he would have a "good bit" of radio and printed material the final week.

Hightower acknowledged that running against an incumbent commissioner has its advantages because, in these times of rising oil and gas prices, a non-incumbent can tell the voter,

"Look at your own utility bill and you make your own judgment whether there's fairness in the system."

He said commissioners are accustomed "to hiding over on the south side of Austin in that little building and not having to face the press — not ever having to face the people ... This office has more to do with our pocketbooks than any other office and we need to flush it out of the bushes, and I think we've succeeded in doing that in this campaign."

Hightower said he expected the election to be "very close," but added:

"We've got a real chance to win this seat and the billpayers of Texas have never had a chance to win a seat on the Railroad Commission. I think we're about to do it this time. If I get out my vote on May 3, we're going to pack up Mr. Nugent."

Expenses under budget Water sales to cities amount to $1,403,541

Operating expenditures of the Colorado River Municipal Water District are 32.78 percent under budget for the first quarter, but this figure is a seasonal variation. When heavy summer pumping kicks up power bills, expenses will catch up.

Through three months of 1980, expenses amounted to $757,675, whereas one-fourth of the annual budget is $1,006,093. For that period, however, electric power cost $370,828 against a first quarter budget allotment of $570,434. By the same token, maintenance costs at pump stations was up by about $12,000 due to the annual winter preventive maintenance program.

The administrative and general portion of the expenses was $121,656, which is $6,739 over budget, of virtually the amount of an insurance premium paid earlier than a year ago. Recreational expense was $20,938, compared with a budgeted first quarter of $22,743.

Water sales to cities amounted to $1,403,541 for the initial three months, or $125,393 more than the same time a year ago. Sales to oil companies and industrial users stood at $277,167, down $22,750 for the quarter. Recreational income of $19,278 was $19,278, off $4,715.

Sales of water were based on 2,571,500,000 gallons to cities and 451,400 to industries. Of total sales of 3,022,949,000 gallons, 2,154,044,000 gallons came from Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence, which, together had 103,933 acre feet reserves at the end of the month.

Austin lens technician selected Mrs. America

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A 34-year-old contact lens technician from Austin, Texas, beat out 49 other contestants to capture the Mrs. America crown.

Carol Ann McEwen, a mother of two and wife of 14 years, topped runner-up Tina Betz of Somerset, N.J., to win the competition here Friday.

Mrs. McEwen, whose hobbies are reading, crewel embroidery and art, also won the Mrs. Photogenic title during the week-long competition. She received a host of prizes, including a new car, from the sponsors of the pageant.

Also in the pageant's top five were Charmayne Delrosaro from Kaneohe, Hawaii; Deida Boume of O'Fallon, Ill.; and Margo Allison of Severna Park, Md.

The fourth annual pageant was taped for a television special to be syndicated across the country.

Escape suit hits Governor Nigh

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A $2.9 million lawsuit has been filed against Gov. George Nigh and state corrections officials by the widow of a Texas man allegedly killed in 1978 by two escapees from the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

Tina Bobo, of Garland, Texas, whose husband was allegedly slain by Michael Lancaster and Claude Eugene Dennis while they were fugitives from the prison, contends the state was negligent in not preventing the escape.

Dennis and Lancaster were slain May 26, 1978, in a shootout which left three Oklahoma Highway Patrolmen dead and a fourth wounded near Caddo.

Dennis and Lancaster were also suspected in slayings of at least four other persons in Texas and Alabama, authorities said.

David Bobo, 25, was allegedly killed when the convicts came upon him while he was fishing in Texas on April 29, 1978.

The suit alleges the state failed to close a tunnel used earlier by six other inmates as an escape route, allowing Lancaster and Dennis to flee the McAlester prison.

Families of 14 American hostages back attempt

HOUSTON (AP) — Families of 14 American hostages in Iran Saturday said they supported the rescue attempt that claimed eight lives and felt "that every effort should continue to be made to secure the release of our unjustly held relatives."

Dorothea Morefield, wife of American Consul General Richard M. Morefield, read the statement after families of 14 hostages had met with State Department officials throughout the day Saturday.

"We do not believe that an apology to Iran should be made for the attempt to rescue our family members," the statement read. "We not only support the President's decision in this attempt, but feel that every effort should continue to be made to secure the release of our unjustly held relatives."

"We feel that the eight volunteers who tragically died in this rescue attempt are true heroes. Our hearts go out to their families for the sacrifice they have made for their fellow Americans."

Earlier, Barbara Timm of Oak Creek, Wis., in Tehran to visit her hostage son, 20-year-old Kevin Hermening, told Iranians she deeply regretted the U.S. rescue effort.

Ernest Cooke of Memphis, Tenn., whose son Donald is being held captive in the American embassy, said the statement was prepared after the families had received word of Mrs. Timm's apology.

Earlier Saturday, Navy Capt. Richard Stratton, a former prisoner of war in Vietnam who spoke with the hostage families, said he thought the hostages and their families would have to survive.

"These are very, very strong people," Stratton said. "I don't see anyone upset. They are very calm, sensible, deliberate people."

he added, saying that most of the 22 family members attending the briefing were "not interested in the details" of the rescue mission.

Robert Holman, father of Army medic Donald Holman, 27, agreed with Cooke that the briefing revealed nothing new, but said he "was encouraged."

"The State Department decision wasn't questioned," Holman said. "I feel better after the briefing."

Lewis Holman, Donald's brother, said he did not believe the hostages would be harmed.

"You always hope. I'm not disappointed that nothing new was offered," he said. "I felt the president gave it thought and honestly believed that he would get them out alive."

The family members had breakfast together Saturday morning, were briefed by the State Department and then spoke to Stratton, who was a prisoner of war in Vietnam for seven years.

"I think they are doing great," Stratton said. "I see them as frustrated, just like every other American."

session with Stratton at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, where they had been since their arrival Friday. The families were expected to depart today.

Cooke said there was some disagreement among the families about the abortive rescue attempt Thursday morning that claimed the lives of eight soldiers when a helicopter and a C-130 transport collided after equipment failure had aborted the mission.

"You've got hawks and doves," Cooke said. "There are family members who think we should have sent the Marines in Nov. 5 — and others who think it's the worst possible thing to do."

Cooke said the Family Liaison Action Group, formed five weeks ago by relatives of the 50 hostages, will meet next week in Washington and consider offering special recognition to the eight men who died in the rescue effort.

"Several times," Cooke said, "people have expressed regrets and gratitude that these men cared enough to risk their lives. We are very grateful."

With the available identification in the billfold, police went through the channels to reach the party.

The people who lost the wallet returned to the Dairy Queen on Monday. It was two Mexican-American men and an elderly lady, who were traveling from Mexico east to Oklahoma.

'Lifer' flees from pen unit

ANGLETON, Texas (AP) — A 49-year-old inmate escaped from the Retrieve prison unit in Angleton Saturday morning, authorities said.

The prisoner was identified as Raymond Jones, serving a life sentence as a habitual offender on a Dallas County burglary conviction.

Sgt. Stan Ross of the Brazoria County Sheriff's Office said Jones was last seen at the prison farm unit between 9 a.m. and 9:30 a.m.

Jones was described as 5-foot-6, 226 pounds with dark hair and maroon eyes. When last seen, he was wearing white prison overalls.

McLaughlin will compete against 36 other teen-agers for a new car and cash scholarships of up to $2,000.

They sent in the Marines, but the technology failed

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the beginning, you heard it everywhere in America, in board rooms and bar rooms and barber shops and at dinner tables: "Send in the Marines."

It is an old American reaction, but the president said it couldn't be done safely, and so he wouldn't do it.

His first priority, Jimmy Carter said, was to protect the lives of the hostages seized when a mob took over the U.S. embassy in Tehran demanding the return of the deposed "criminal shah," who was then undergoing cancer treatment in a New York hospital.

On Dec. 7, 1979, the 33rd day of the crisis, Carter met at the State Department with families of the hostages. Leaving, he paused in the lobby, where government employees had gathered to see him.

"I am not going to take any military action that would cause bloodshed or arouse the unstable captors of our hostages to attack them or to punish them," he said.

On Jan. 8, Carter said in a briefing for congressmen that anyone who studied the map of Iran could see how insular Tehran is and why a rescue mission would almost certainly fail.

Two weeks later, he said, "I have felt from the very beginning that the initiation of a military action or the causing of bloodshed would undoubtedly result in the death of the hostages."

It was a bluff, intended to hide the truth. From the beginning, a rescue raid was an option. On Nov. 9, five days after the embassy takeover, Carter ordered a list of rescue options. It was delivered to him at his Camp David retreat Nov. 20. For secrecy's sake, the president concealed that truth.

Friday morning, Americans awoke to a slap in the face.

Carter had sent in the Marines — and the Army and the Air Force and the Navy — and the technology failed.

The plan for a two-day rescue mission was drafted and refined and simplified, again and again. In its final version, a fleet of helicopters would meet in the desert and refuel. The helicopters would take off and "nest" overnight in mountains near Tehran.

Ninety raiders in a highly trained "Blue Light" rescue team were armed with incapacitating chemical agents. According to The Washington Post, they were to board prepositioned vehicles on the edge of Tehran in the dead of night, rush through the city and take the embassy by surprise.

The hostages and the raiders would be taken by helicopter to waiting planes at an airstrip outside Tehran and flown out of the country.

The plan had been rehearsed in seven full-scale training exercises in the desert sands of Utah and Nevada, which resemble Iran's desert. Each time the helicopters worked flawlessly.

On April 13, the president approved the plan.

Thursday morning, about the time Carter was meeting with Shimon Peres, leader of Israel's opposition Labor Party, eight helicopters took off from the U.S. aircraft carrier Nimitz with 120 men aboard.

Their destination was the Dasht-i-Kavir salt desert in eastern Iran, about 230 miles southeast of Tehran. The site had been chosen carefully and watched by satellite for weeks.

Six C-130s were poised at staging areas in the Middle East, including Egypt, for a rendezvous.

Carter kept to his normal work schedule.

Twelve hours after the raid was launched it ended, disastrously.

It was 10:30 a.m. Thursday in Washington when the helicopters, each capable of carrying about 40 men, entered Iranian airspace.

An hour and a half later, one developed mechanical trouble and landed in the desert. Its men were rescued by another helicopter.

Another chopper had gyro problems. Its pilot developed vertigo. The chopper returned to the Nimitz.

That left six, the minimum number deemed necessary.

They reached the refueling site in darkness, only occasionally broken by moonlight. The C-130 transports were waiting. The C-130s brought in the command team, made up of volunteers. The choppers were refueled.

Then disaster struck. One of the helicopters could not get off the ground. Something was wrong with its hydraulic system.

Planners had fixed six as the minimum number retired for the scheme to work. A senior U.S. military official explained Saturday that in the planning it had to be assumed that at least one of the helicopters would not start when it was time, the next day, to leave the overnight base in the mountains for Tehran.

The commander of the rescue team recommended aborting the effort. Washington concurred.

Back home, Carter tried to go about his work. At midday he was told one helicopter had gone down. Then he learned the second chopper had returned to the carrier.

Then he learned of the mechanical problem and the recommendation to scrub the mission.

Alone in his office, on the phone to the Pentagon, he considered the situation.

At least no one had been hurt, he commented.

Half the world away, the field commander directed his men to leave the helicopters and climb aboard the C-130s. As they did, the rotor of a helicopter which was flying 15 to 20 feet above the ground sliced into a C-130. Both exploded in flames. Ammunition aboard both craft began exploding, spraying shrapnel. Only one man aboard the airplane could be rescued. Five were injured. Eight died.

The metal was too hot to permit recovery of the bodies.

Four hours had passed between the landing and the evacuation.

At 7 a.m. EST Friday, Carter told the nation: "This attempt became a necessity and a duty."

In Iran, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said the hostages would be killed if the United States tried another rescue.

Saturday, the militants said and Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr confirmed that the hostages had been taken from the embassy and dispersed to several places in Tehran.

Bani-Sadr said they will be taken to other cities later.

He said the bodies of the dead Americans would be returned.

Former Howard College instructor is retiring Why the oil profits soar

Dr. Marshall Box, an instructor at Howard College for 22 years before joining the faculty at Midland College a decade ago, has announced his retirement.

Box is now the occupational vice-president for the Midland school.

Box said he wanted to get away from the high pressure associated with his present job. He also wants to devote more time to his auto-salvage shop and plans to spend a lot of time on the golf course.

Before he started teaching, he ran his own machine shop for seven years. He contracted for work in the oil fields. In 1951, he sold the business and began his teaching career at Howard College.

In 1940, Box joined the Navy. He remained in uniform for six years. He was a chief warrant officer and also did underwater repair. He was stationed at Pearl Harbor for 13 months, beginning in 1941. Not only did he dodge the Japanese bombs of the Naval yards there, he was in on all major campaigns in the Pacific

MARSHALL BOX with the exception of two Jima.

Marshall began his work toward his college degree rather late in life. He enrolled for his freshman year at Howard College at the age of 31. He taught welding and machine shop while attending classes.

He completed work toward his Bachelor's and Masters' degree at North Texas State University and earned the credits necessary for his doctorate at the University of Northern Colorado in 1967.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil companies' profits surged again in the first quarter as petroleum prices spiraled. But executives and analysts say the high-flying oil industry is about to feel some of the effects of a U.S. economic slowdown and new taxes.

Earnings doubled at industry leader Exxon Corp., whose $1.93 billion net set a quarterly record for any U.S. corporation. But Exxon Chairman Clifton C. Garvin Jr. said he doesn't "expect $2 billion quarters coming in" later in 1980.

Mobil Corp., ranked No. 2, also doubled its operating profits.

But its 105 percent gain to $922 million, "should not be viewed as indicative of the balance of the year, due to a higher-than-normal degree of uncertainty in world petroleum markets and in the domestic economy," Chairman Rawleigh Warner Jr. said.

And at the brokerage house of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., "We tend to think earnings will flatten out in 1980 — given no unusual things coming out of Iran," said analyst Jeffrey L. Matthews. "I think the first quarter was the crest of the wave for this industry. Now we're going into a trough — or at least a flattening-out. But that's not bad considering last year was so good," Matthews said.

Oil earnings have been gaining for more than a year as the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries steadily pushed the average world price of a 42-gallon barrel of oil to $30 in the wake of the Iranian revolution and seven-week-long oil production shut-down.

Other reasons cited by analysts for the earnings gains include strong showings by oil companies' chemical divisions and by their marketing and refining operations overseas.

For some, access to comparatively low-priced $26-a-barrel Saudi Arabian crude oil also proved profitable.

Bomb guts Beirut offices of Iraqi News Agency

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb gutted the Beirut offices of the Iraqi News Agency on Saturday. Four Lebanese were hospitalized with injuries, police said.

The explosion appeared to be part of a continuing struggle between rival supporters of Iraq and Iran. Fifteen persons have been killed in fighting in the past two weeks.

The Iraqi Airways office, the Iraqi commercial center and the Iran Air offices were bombed previously.

Woman National Guard sergeant killed in seven-car pileup

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A woman National Guard sergeant died and 13 guardsmen and civilians were injured in a seven-car pileup Friday night on Interstate 35 between Georgetown and Round Rock. The dead woman was identified as Bernice Conger.

Witnesses said the pileup was caused when an auto tried to swerve around the Camp Mabry guard caravan, which was carrying about 20 soldiers to Fort Hood for weekend maneuvers.

Officials at Georgetown Hospital said four soldiers taken there were transferred to Darnell Army Hospital at Fort Hood. Another guardsman was seriously injured when he was hit by a car as he tried to cross the interstate to help victims of the traffic crash.

4,436 cons are pardoned

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — President Julius Nyerere pardoned 4,436 prisoners Saturday in an amnesty to mark the 18th anniversary of the union of his country, formerly known as Tanganyika, and the island of Zanzibar.

A government spokesman said the freed prisoners included women and their babies, and ailing, aged and disabled convicts. However, no prisoners convicted of theft or "sabotage of the national economy" were freed, a government spokesman said.

Union Day amnesties are traditional in this former British colony. Last April 26, Nyerere ordered the release of 6,396 prisoners.

Colombia agreement reported near

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — The Colombian government said Saturday that "a satisfactory balance" had been achieved, and expectations rose that leftist guerrillas would soon release 18 persons, including 16 diplomats, held hostage inside the Dominican Republic Embassy for the past two months.

A government spokesman said another negotiating session would be held Sunday morning in an effort to finalize an agreement, under which it is believed U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio and four other diplomats would be flown with the guerrillas to Cuba, then to Vienna where they would be released.

Earlier Saturday, government sources had expressed concern that the guerrillas had hardened their demands, jeopardizing a settlement. But the communique issued early Saturday afternoon said negotiators, who met for 80 minutes Saturday, "constructed a satisfactory balance" to end the dispute. It was the most optimistic assessment by the government yet.

Under the reported release plan, sources said, a plane would take the guerrillas and five diplomats to Cuba, where it is likely to refuel and fly to Vienna. There the leftists would decide their final destination and the other diplomats would be freed.

Reports from persons with direct access to the bargaining indicated that the flight from Bogota would occur before Tuesday and possibly as early as Sunday. The hostages include the American ambassador, the papal nuncio, 10 other ambassadors, four consuls and two Colombians who say they remain inside voluntarily.

One source said all that remains to be done to end the standoff is to coordinate the arrival of a Cuban airliner that would transport the guerrillas and the others from Bogota. Red Cross officials were also expected to accompany the plane from Bogota.

Still to be worked out are details of transporting the guerrillas from the embassy to the airport, the site where the majority of the hostages would be released once the guerrillas leave the embassy, and whether the Colombian army would provide security for the guerrillas and hostages as they head for the airport.

Bogota traffic, particularly on the route between the embassy and the airport on the western outskirts of the city, is usually snarled. Government officials are thought to be contemplating a departure time when traffic would be light.

The guerrillas, who originally demanded the release of jailed leftist guerrillas, apparently have agreed to a plan to release the diplomats and two Colombians in exchange for international inspection of guerrilla trials and other safeguards of their rights.

Private negotiators, acting behind the scenes but apparently with the consent of the governments involved, also appeared close to arranging a $2.5 million ransom that guerrillas say would go to Colombia's poor.

Marsalis, wife attend meeting

Denton and Johnnye Marsalis just returned from Dallas where Marsalis attended meetings of the Texas Manufactured Housing Association. Marsalis is a member of the Board of Directors, the State Chairman for the Education Committee and is on the State Membership Committee. Marsalis says he feels it is important to have a Big Spring representative attending the meetings to bring information back to the people in the manufactured housing industry.

Marsalis, who is also President of the Big Spring Chapter of TMHA, tries to carry questions for the members to the meetings and then bring them news and items of interest as well as minutes of the various meetings. The Marsalises only recently returned from the Texas Manufactured Housing Association show in Dallas and were able to gather a lot of information by attending the seminars, booths, meetings, etc. to bring back to the people at D&C Sales as well as all members of the manufactured housing industry in our area.

AUSTIN — Buddy Temple has the money and John Poerner has the incumbency, and in their battle for a six-year term on the Texas Railroad Commission, each is milking his advantage for all it's worth.

Temple, 38, a four-term state representative from Diboll, has been a full-time campaigner for 10 months, launched with a $100,000 check from his father, Arthur Temple Jr., East Texas timber baron and vice chairman of the Time, Inc., publishing empire.

Son Arthur Temple III leapfrogs the state, often in his private twin-engine plane. He and wife Ellen, campaigning separately, also have logged more than 14,000 miles in a new motorhome dubbed "The Texas Campaign Express."

One day recently, Temple flew out of Houston before 9 a.m. and returned at 11 p.m., having touched down in Orange County, Huntsville and Corpus Christi, where the waiting motorhome took him west to Freer, then east to Rockport-Fulton.

The candidate showed obvious delight when, at each stop, he was recognized by those who'd seen his television ads — a package of five commercials that cost nearly a quarter-million dollars.

Meanwhile, Poerner, 47, says his business as Railroad Commission chairman is a full-time job that leaves little time for politicking.

But he's not entirely desk-bound. State business and official speaking engagements recently have taken him to such far-flung points as Abilene, San Antonio, Dallas, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Pampa, Weatherford, Mineral Wells, San Angelo, Commerce and Midland — usually by state-owned plane.

Audiences have included the Gulf Coast Society of Petroleum Engineers, the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, Southern Gas Association and Texas Independent Producers and Refiners Organization.

The commission's information office sends news releases about his speeches to media outlets statewide, at taxpayer expense.

Since Poerner's announcement of his candidacy in February, his political trips have been sporadic and often hastily arranged.

Pay plan will be disussed

Howard County Commissioners will meet in regular session, 9 a.m. Monday, in the county courthouse.

Items of business will include:

- A discussion with Zirah Bednar, tax assessor-collector, regarding delinquent taxes.
- A discussion of purchasing furniture for the Adult Probation office.
- A discussion with Bonnie Franklin, county treasurer, regarding bi-monthly pay for county employees.
- Discussion about ballot counter from Computer Election Service for precinct elections.
- Presentation to be made by W.D. Berry regarding Civil Defense properties.
- Consideration for four slots on reserved investigators.

around commission duties. He made one such trip recently to San Antonio, driving the family station-wagon and stopping enroute at newspaper offices in San Marcos and New Braunfels for interviews arranged only a few hours earlier.

But in San Antonio, media attention was on another visiting politician, Ronald Reagan. Poerner paid courtesy calls to clerks and officeholders at the Bexar County Courthouse, and mingled with about 40 businessmen and politicians at a reception in his honor at a downtown club.

Then, Poerner drove to his hometown of Rondo for the weekend. Meanwhile, Temple campaigned throughout East and South-east Texas.

Capitol oddsmakers generally agree the Poerner-Temple contest is too close to call. They're more confident that a second commission race featured in the May 3 Democratic primary, this one between incumbent Jim Nugent and journalist Jim Hightower, will go against the hard-driving but money-poor Hightower.

Poerner says he's confident he'll be re-elected. While visiting the newsroom of the San Marcos Record, Poerner recalled his unsuccessful bid in 1974 for that area's congressional seat. Bob Krueger, now President Carter's special ambassador for Mexican affairs, was the eventual victor.

Poerner was a state representative then, he told a reporter, and he was busy at a constitutional convention in Austin. "Krueger was free as a bird, you know, running around the 32 counties," Poerner said, venting a complaint similar to one he now makes about the free-wheeling, free-spending Temple.

The reporter asked why Poerner says he's confident he'll be re-elected. While visiting the newsroom of the San Marcos Record, Poerner recalled his unsuccessful bid in 1974 for that area's congressional seat. Bob Krueger, now President Carter's special ambassador for Mexican affairs, was the eventual victor.

Lightbulbs for sale

Lions want you to help them turn on the lights

Downtown Lions Club members will be knocking on doors May 5, 6 and 7 — as they have for the past three decades — in hopes residents will help them turn on the lights for children and adults with sight problems.

The occasion is the annual lightbulb sale, proceeds of which largely finance the Lions' prime project of sight conservation and blind work, as well as several other youth and humanitarian programs.

During the first three-quarters of this fiscal year, Lions have spent well over a thousand dollars for glasses and eye examination, principally for children. Through their connections, Lions obtain glasses and aid at a fraction of the regular price, so the figure represents a large number of cases.

Another thousand dollars has gone to programs under Lions sponsorship, such as the free camp for crippled children, the camp for diabetic children, the Texas Lions eye bank (which obtains and delivers corneas for transplants).

Nearly as much has been invested in miscellaneous programs for youth, such as girls softball and boys Little Poerner wants to be commissioner. "I don't ever walk away from a job," Poerner replied.

He said the commission's work educating federal bureaucrats about oil and gas production is unfinished. "The crucial issue for Texas in the 80s will be energy," he said, and experience is a must. "A new person would not be good."

In New Braunfels, Poerner stopped at a popular German cafe and before his ribs-and-sauerkraut plate was delivered, he had worked the lunch crowd, handing out campaign cards.

Some diners recognized his name, but the Hill Country was Poerner's political backyard as a state legislator. Still, he says his statewide name recognition is greater than in the 1978 election.

Next door, at the New Braunfels Herald-Zeitung, Poerner told a reporter that the key issue in the race is "the ability to perform and do the job. The longer you're there, the more you know — it's that simple."

Poerner couples the emphasis on his own hard-won experience with attacks on Temple's monied heritage.

He asked the well-heeled San Antonians at his reception to help him overcome the Temple family fortune. Write a check, Poerner said, "and just add one more zero."

While Poerner appeals primarily to conservative Democrats, Temple draws support from both poles of the party: its conservative business, community and more liberal, labor-oriented and minority Texans.

Recently campaigning among the latter, the dichotomy was illustrated by Temple's appearance. Well-dressed in suit and tie, Temple drew stares from blue-collar union members at a Democratic party picnic in Bridge City, blacks attending the annual Walker County Voters League barbecue in Huntsville, young beer-guzzlers at a chili cook-off in Corpus Christi and the hot and dusty revelers at a rattlesnake round-up in Freer.

Only at the day's last stop, a meeting of the Aransas County Democratic Women's Club in Fulton, was the suited Temple appropriately dressed.

Usually on the defensive about his wealth, Temple played offense at each appearance, attacking Poerner for the campaign chest he has raised.

"Virtually every penny of it is from the very individuals he is supposed to regulate," he told about 50 persons in Huntsville. "So it doesn't take any brains to know whose interests that man is going to be thinking of."

Temple also accepts money from industry sources. The difference, he says, is that such contributors are not his primary source of funds.

In Corpus Christi, he met state Rep. Hugo Berlanga, doing some campaigning of his own at a grocery store parking lot. A television reporter was waiting to interview Temple. Her first question dealt with campaign contributions.

At Freer, a lean, goateed man demanded of Temple, "Do you have any obligations to the oil and gas companies?"

"No," Temple answered. "No, you agree the Railroad Commissioners are prostituting themselves to the companies?" the man asked.

"That's why I'm running," a bemused Temple replied. "You just made my speech for me."

Brown's car costs state

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — Edmund G. Brown Jr. probably won't lose his unpretentious 1974 blue Plymouth, but it's cost the state $2,000 so far in the court fight to keep the governor's symbol of state government austerity.

A small claims court judge, L. Eugene Rasmussen, issued a tentative decision Friday saying he would let Brown keep the car rather than order it impounded to pay an $808 state medical insurance claim owed Barton Memorial Hospital for four years.

Loss posted by Braniff

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International posted a loss for the third consecutive quarter, despite a 31.2 percent increase in revenues.

The net loss of $21.966 million in the first quarter of 1980 came as rising fuel prices and declining passenger traffic bathed many major airlines in red ink.

The Dallas-based airline, which lost $44.3 million in 1979, reported a net loss of $1.10 per share for the first quarter and revenues of $372 million. That compares with net income of $8 million, or 40 cents per share on revenues of $283.5 million in the first quarter of 1979.

Perot did not know of rescue plot

DALLAS (AP) — Computer magnate Ross Perot, who freed two of his employees from a Tehran prison in 1979, did not know of the government's plan to rescue the American hostages from Iran, a spokesman said.

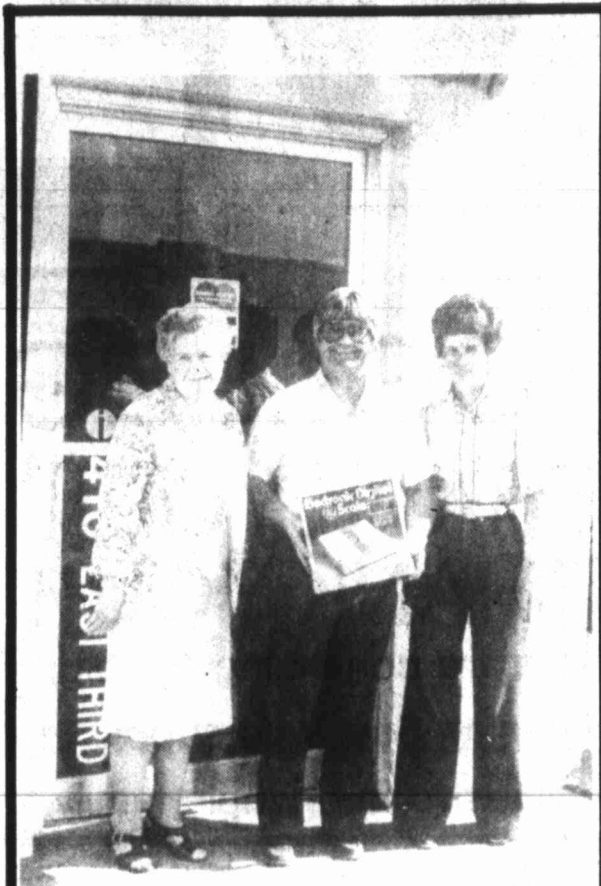

Bill Wright, communications director for Electronic Data Systems, Inc., Perot's company, said Perot was out of town. But he said he talked with him after the unsuccessful attempt to rescue the hostages was announced.

Wright said Perot told him he had not been contacted about the possibility of a commando-type rescue. "He had no advance knowledge of it at all, and we were all as surprised as everyone else," Wright said. Perot hired Col. Arthur (Bull) Simons, a retired Army war hero, to free EDS employees being held by the Iranian government for $12 million ransom in February 1979. Simons and a squad of 14 — mostly EDS volunteers — stormed Iran's largest prison with the aid of an Iranian mob. The two employees, along with 11,000 prisoners, escaped. Simons died of a heart attack last May in Dallas.

Wright said Perot believes "it would be inappropriate for him to comment on the hostage situation" while the government is working to free the hostages.

GOP hopeful Bush defending Carter's hostage rescue try

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Republican presidential candidate George Bush on Saturday defended President Carter's decision to attempt a rescue of the American hostages in Iran. Bush said many of those criticizing the failed mission were guilty of hypocrisy.

"Some of the very people that are carping the most... if the mission had succeeded, they'd be elbowing their way to congratulate him," Bush said.

Bush, conducting a nine-hour campaign visit to Colorado in advance of the state's May 5 precinct caucuses, landed in Denver in mid-morning and then flew to Colorado Springs to address a crowd that had just heard a debate among five candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination in Colorado.

"The President made a tough decision," Bush said of the rescue mission. "I believe he made the proper decision. My only regret is that the mission did not succeed."

Bush said it was too early to tell whether the aborted rescue would help or hurt Carter and added, "I don't want to put a political tinge on what I said."

Bush said the United States is "at a dangerous point in history," but he maintained the country could preserve world peace "if we keep our military forces strong."

Colorado Springs is the home of the U.S. Air Force Academy, the North American Air Defense Command, and Air Force base and an Army base.

He also said he did not believe the American hostages would be in greater danger if dispersed to several locations, as the militants holding them in Iran said was done Saturday.

Bush's Republican rival, Ronald Reagan, is considered to have a decisive edge in the GOP race in Colorado, but members of Bush's staff said their candidate has been making progress in the state and hopes to win as many as 25 percent of the state's delegates to the Republican National Convention.

"It's been a tough year. It's been a very divisive year, but I'm beginning to get things sorted out," Bush said. "The issue is still which candidate is best able to do what we must do — and that is to beat Jimmy Carter in the fall."

Bush mingled briefly with the GOP senate hopefuls trying to unseat Democrat Sen. Gary Hart this fall. "It is absolutely essential we get control of the Senate, and Colorado has a very key role to fill," he said in his speech.

Tito's heart weakening

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Josip Broz Tito's heart is getting feebler and the Yugoslav leader is also having substantial digestive problems for the first time in almost three months, his doctors said Saturday.

"In the past few days, there have been serious disturbances in the functioning of the digestive organs. The general state of health of the president remains exceptionally grave," said the daily medical advisory on the health of Tito, whose 88th birthday is May 7.

Saturday's bulletin indicated that almost all of Tito's organs are failing to function properly. He is in a coma, has severe damage to the liver, his kidneys have failed completely, and his stomach and intestines are bleeding, according to his doctors.

In addition, he is fighting off a severe attack of pneumonia, accompanied by high fever.

The doctors had not mentioned Tito's digestive problems since early February when they said that recovery was being slowed down following the Jan. 20 amputation of his left leg because of circulatory problems. He entered the medical clinic in Ljubljana, some 400 miles northwest of here, on Jan. 13.

Public invited to dance event

Patriotic sounds will echo from the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday when the Big Spring squares present the eleventh annual Square Dance Festival.

The public is invited to see the colorful grand march Saturday at 7:45 p.m., which will be under the direction of George and Veda Colvin, decorations chairman. A flag waving theme of "It's A Special Good Old USA Winding Hoe Down" will unfold as the honor guard of the Big Spring Law Enforcement Explorer Post No. One present the colors to lead off the grand march.

Club caller Randy Phillips, Abilene, and festival chairman J.L. Stevens will be the masters of ceremonies for the Saturday night activities. After the grand march, Jack Abendach will give the invocation and past Chamber of Commerce president Johnnie Lou Avery will welcome the visitors to Big Spring.

The square dance festival will get under way Friday night with a trail-end dance at the Squares Clubhouse on Chaparral Road, with caller Randy Phillips at the mike calling the square dance. The Saturday events will start with a round and square dance workshops beginning at 1 p.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Sleepy Rowning, Jayton, will be calling the square dance and Norman and Helen Teague, Wichita Falls, will handle the Saturday round dancing.

All dancers and spectators will enter the coliseum from the ramp on the east side of the convention center. A special seating section will be provided for the spectators who will be admitted free to the events.

Bottling bourbon, scotch and vodka

He's counting on Texas chauvinism

BAYSIDE, Texas (AP) — Bill Demaree says he's counting on Texas chauvinism to benefit his Bay River Co. — the holder of a state distillery permit. "If you don't drink, don't start. If you do drink, keep your money at home," says Demaree, general manager of the "booze works," as it is sometimes called locally.

Located along the scenic Mission River in Refugio County, the plant has been bottling bourbon, scotch and vodka since June. One can saunter up to the liquor store counter in Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Austin and buy a bottle of the Texas Spirit brand liquor. Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth markets are next on the list of sales outlets.

The $1 million project was begun by Lawrence and Richard Wood, members of a pioneer Refugio family who wanted alternative markets for their grain crop.

The Wood family owns thousands of acres in ranching, agriculture and oil-producing lands and also controls three banks.

Texas liquor laws written after Prohibition prevent out-of-state firms, retailers or wholesalers from operating a distillery. The regulations had discouraged anyone from applying for a distiller's permit for more than 50 years.

When Demaree went to Austin to apply, the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission gave him a form printed in the 1930s.

"It was the blind leading the blind," he said of trying to interpret the old statute.

After a year and a half, the company got its permit in April, 1978.

Demaree, an East Coast-educated native of San Antonio, traveled to Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio and other states to learn the distilling business.

He landscaped a 135-acre tract of land owned by the Wood brothers that had been chosen for the site. Mesquite was cleared, man-made ponds dug and a 19th century schoolhouse moved to the location. The plant itself was built in the style of 19th century cotton gins because the old buildings held up remarkably in all kinds of weather, Demaree said.

He likes it so much he lives here in a renovated farm house.

Five fulltime employees and 12 parttime workers operate the plant. Demaree expects to bottle 80,000 cases in the company's first year.

Local grain is not yet distilled here.

"We're taking raw material, processing and bottling it," he said.

Since all scotch must be distilled in Scotland, the plant imports 30 percent malt whiskey. The raw material is processed and blended with purified rainwater collected in the ponds.

Raw sour mash bourbon comes from a small Kentucky distillery and an Iowa plant supplies material for vodka.

The liquor is sold as Homestead bourbon, Scrimshaw scotch and Boris vodka. It has claimed 1.6 percent of the market in the test areas.

"We would be happy to find 50,000 people in Texas who love us," Demaree said. That amount would buy 100,000 cases a year.

The fledgling company also is going after tourists who could take home a bottle of Texas booze for a souvenir.

Scotch, vodka and bourbon account for 60 percent of all liquor sales in Texas, thus the decision to bottle those spirits and not others.

A quart bottle of Homestead bourbon costs $6.25. State law prohibits samples at a distillery so the curious will have to buy a bottle to judge its taste.

The feds keep close track of the operation. There are forms to be filled out daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly and annually.

One room inside the plant is marked, "U.S. Government office." Agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms set up shop there, complete with a locked metal cabinet bolted to the floor.

"You get so embroiled in federal and state regulations that it almost makes one's life unbearable," Demaree said of the piles of paperwork.

OFF THE PRESS — Charles Beil, president, First Federal Savings & Loan Association, and Mrs. Frances Hendricks, First Federal Director of Public Relations (standing), congratulate Margaret Baum on the completion of her book, "Keep out of Reach of Children." First Federal will host an autograph party for the author Thursday, from 3 until 5:30 p.m.

First Federal to host Baum autograph party

Keep out of reach of children written by Margaret Baum, is off the press and ready for sale in time for Mother's Day giving.

Big Spring and area residents are being invited to an autograph party to be held Thursday from 3 p.m. until 5:30 p.m., hosted by First Federal Savings & Loan, 500 Main.

Combining humorous anecdotes concerning the author's personal experiences in rearing her four pre-school children, with her original songs to fit each occasion, "Keep out of Reach of Children" is for mothers, grandmothers, and anyone who has enjoyed watching the antics of a family of infants. The original songs are geared for elementary pianist mothers and also can be used successfully in school music classes, as well as church school situations.

Of the literary endeavor, Mrs. Baum says: "What started as a 'fun thing' has mushroomed, so to speak, and I'm delighted to be able to expand a project that I stuck in a drawer after its completion. My sincere thanks to friends who encouraged me to open that drawer. I'm honored by First Federal's gesture in hosting the Thursday afternoon autograph party."

On hand to welcome area residents will be officials and employees of First Federal, as well as Mrs. Charles Beil, Mrs. Wallace Hunter, Mrs. Bob Lewis and Mrs. Ralph Gossett. A second informal autograph party will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. until 12 noon in the Parish Hall of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 10th and Goliad, hosted by Mrs. Clemon Jones, Mrs. Trevor Crawford, Mrs. A.G. Edmonson and Mrs. Joseph Dawes.

Dallasite accused of killing male prostitute to be retried

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas accountant accused of murdering a male prostitute will be retried, possibly in May, says prosecutor Mary Ludwig.

State District Judge Tom Ryan declared a mistrial in the case Thursday after jurors deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

Lynn Edward Trout, 32, claimed self-defense in the Dec. 24 stabbing death of Austin construction worker Michael Lewis Glover. Trout said after the mistrial he "most definitely would have preferred a verdict."

"We regret that we didn't get a 'not guilty' verdict," said defense attorney Jerry Birdwell.

Trout's testimony was backed up by his roommate and homosexual lover, Hillcrest High School Assistant Principal George Blair.

Trout and Blair said Glover was a male "hustler" who became violent after the two engaged in sexual relations at Trout's home. Trout said Glover tried to rob him and attacked him with the jagged edge of a broken wine bottle. He said he stabbed Glover in the chest with a kitchen knife in self-defense.

Blair, assistant principal in charge of special education, testified he and Trout had solicited sex from Glover, but that he left the house on an errand while Trout and Glover had sex. He said he returned to find Glover attacking Trout.

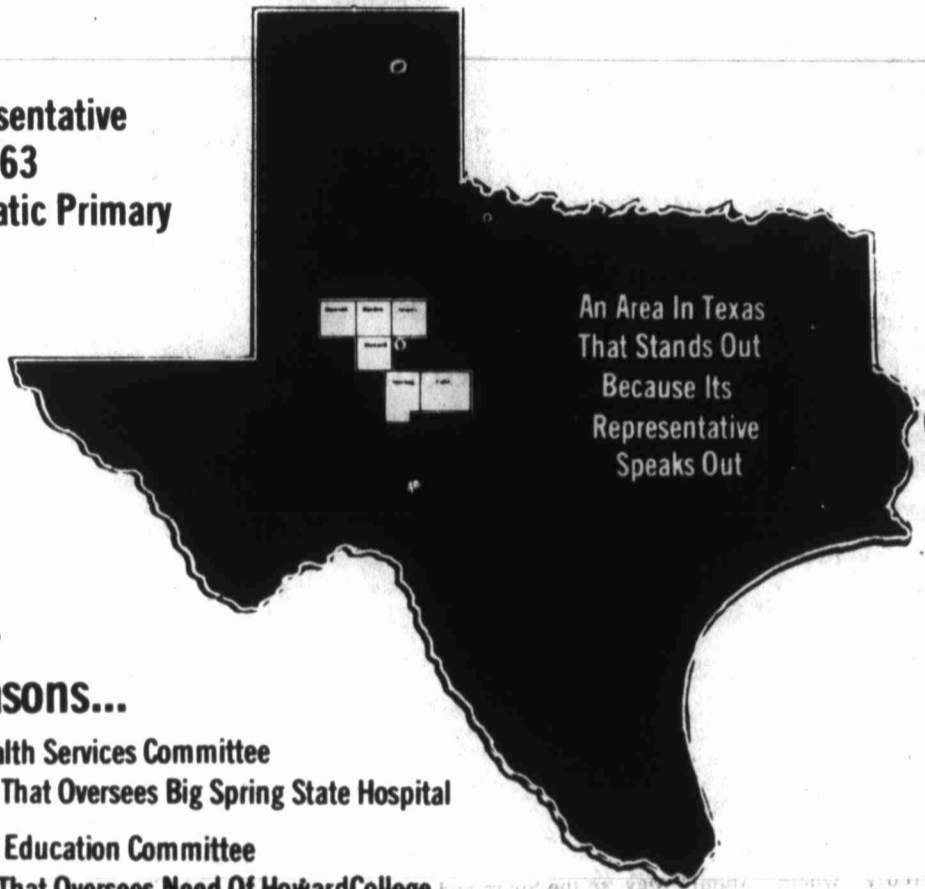

Although Blair said Trout called authorities immediately, two paramedics said the body was cold and stiffening when they arrived. Jurors said the credibility of Trout and Blair was a major problem in arriving at a verdict.

Seventh

Annual

Chuck Wagon Party

HOWDY! — Paula Allen and Robin Ethridge, dance students of Mrs. Ora Burson, will entertain the large crowd expected to attend the seventh annual Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon Party. They will perform the Livingston Saturday Night Dance.

CLASSY ENTERTAINMENT — Each year, museum officers plan only the best entertainment for their 'museum family' members and this year is no exception. Beverly Wheeler, Tammy Spears, Charlotte Beil, Shelley Wood and Cathy Weeks, members of the Meistersingers Girls' Sextet will be on hand to dazzle the crowd.

Food, fun, fellowship combine for Heritage Museum festivities

By ROBBICROW

Family News Editor

Past President Joe Pickle initiated the event in May of 1974.

Since that first occasion, the Heritage Museum has made it an annual tradition to show its appreciation to the many benefactors that make its existence possible.

Three main ingredients — food, fun and fellowship — are combined each year to make the Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon barbecue a much looked-toward-to event in the community.

This year's affair, for members only, is set to kick off May 1 at 7 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Community Center. Chuck wagon tickets are being sold for $6 each. No tickets will be available at the door.

Gerri Atwell has served in the capacity of museum curator since the opening of the house of history on April 18, 1971.

Mrs. Atwell, who has always been a history enthusiast, claims the purpose of the museum is to "preserve our history. Not just mine or yours," she explained, "but everyone's."

Francis Wheat presently serves as the museum's 10th president and will be mistress of ceremonies at this year's party.

Although 'museum family' members only will be allowed to participate in the Chuck Wagon Party festivities, it's not too late to get your name on the membership roll.

Membership is obtained through donations. Minimum amounts are $7.50 for one adult and $10 per couple.

"Memberships are coming in so fast we hardly have time to count them," Mrs. Atwell stated.

Museum membership began at a very low number in 1971, not more than 40, according to the curator.

"I fell like now we have at least 450, including 100 new members signed up by membership chairman Erma Balch," said Mrs. Atwell. "Anyone is welcome to become a member."

A tour through the Heritage Museum is like a trip through a time machine back to early Big Spring.

Sixty-three Caylor paintings, originals and reproductions highlight the museum as do Salinas paintings. Included in one of the many museum displays is a 104-year-old doll.

"We also have movies that tell the complete history of Big Spring," the curator revealed.

Year after year, the barbecue has featured the best of entertainment for museum members and this year is no exception.

Big Spring High School ventriloquist Chris Smith will make an appearance with his pal 'Junior Jackson.' Together, with their man versus dummy act, they promise to mesmerize the large crowd expected to attend.

Chris developed a talent for ventriloquism at the early age of 8.

He has continued his involvement in comedy and likes to perform.

This young entertainer has a number of awards in his possession to prove his unique ability.

"I also received an award to be on the all-star cast of Hamlet," he added.

Eventually, this success seeker wants to become a professional actor or nightclub comedian.

The Tom Castle Band will also be a featured attraction as they step up the tempo with the country and western sound that has made them famous in this area.

Other entertainers will include Paula Allen and Robin Ethridge, dance students of Mrs. Ora Burson, who will perform the Livingston Saturday Night Dance.

The Meistersingers Girls Sextet, consisting of Beverly Wheeler, Tammy Spears, Charlotte Beil, Debbie Fulcher, Shelley Wood and Cathy Weeks, promises to captivate the crowd with their unique talent.

And if the fabulous entertainment isn't enough, museum supporters will be treated to a Texas-size barbecue feast to be catered by Don Newsom.

If all this food, fun and excitement sounds like something you want to be a part of, go by the Heritage Museum at 510 Scurry, give your donation, and then make plans to participate in the 7th Annual Chuck Wagon Party festivities, coordinated this year by Bee Zinn, chairman.

FINALIZING FESTIVITY PLANS — The Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon Party will get under way at 7 p.m. May 1 in the Dora Roberts Community Center. Here, Frances Wheat, museum president; Gerri Atwell, curator; and Bee Zinn, party chairman, discuss plans for the occasion.

Dallasite accused of killing male prostitute to be retried

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas accountant accused of murdering a male prostitute will be retried, possibly in May, says prosecutor Mary Ludwig.

State District Judge Tom Ryan declared a mistrial in the case Thursday after jurors deadlocked 8-4 for conviction.

Lynn Edward Trout, 32, claimed self-defense in the Dec. 24 stabbing death of Austin construction worker Michael Lewis Glover.

Trout said after the mistrial he "most definitely would have preferred a verdict."

"We regret that we didn't get a 'not guilty' verdict," said defense attorney Jerry Birdwell. Trout's testimony was backed up by his roommate and homosexual lover, Hillcrest High School Assistant Principal George Blair.

Trout and Blair said Glover was a male "hustler" who became violent after the two engaged in sexual relations at Trout's home. Trout said Glover tried to rob him and attacked him with the jagged edge of a broken wine bottle. He said he stabbed Glover in the chest with a kitchen knife in self-defense.

Blair, assistant principal in charge of special education, testified he and Trout had solicited sex from Glover, but that he left the house on an errand while Trout and Glover had sex. He said he returned to find Glover attacking Trout.

Although Blair said Trout called authorities immediately, two paramedics said the body was cold and stiffening when they arrived. Jurors said the credibility of Trout and Blair was a major problem in arriving at a verdict.

Joe Willie Jones, Gary Gee

Local thinclads going to state

LUBBOCK — Two Big Spring area athletes were impressive in earning trips to the state track meet with their performance here yesterday in the Region I Boys' Track and Field Meet.

Big Spring's Joe Willie Jones and Coahoma's Gary Gee both earned trips to the prestigious high school meet in Austin in two weekends. Jones headed a small group from Big Spring High that represented themselves in fine form. Joe Willie finished second in the 400-meter dash in a time of 49.1 to earn his trip to Austin. George Ybarra of El Paso Austin won the event with a clocking of 48.5.

Big Spring's Brocky Jones narrowly missed out on a trip to the state meet in the 300-intermediate hurdles, finishing third in a time of 38.5. Harris Mouton of Killeen won the event with a time of 37.9, while a teammate finished second with a mark of 38.3. The Steers mile relay quartet also rose to the occasion, as the group consisting of both Joe Willie and Brocky, along with Eugene Boadle and Mike Domino raced to a season best of 3:21.9 in finishing fourth. Killeen won the event with an excellent clocking of 3:16.6.

Killeen won the affair easily with 107 points. Far away in second place were Midland High and El Paso Eastwood with 30 points. Big Spring was the second best District 5-AAAA in the regionals, outfit with 22 points.

Gee will be going to the state meet in the AA division for the second straight year in the 110-hurdles.

The Coahoma senior, who has been injured most of the year, blaze to a time 14.3 in taking second place in that event. Todd Bradley of Childress won in a clocking of 14.2.

Coahoma's Larry Newton took home two sixth place finishes in the AA competition. He ran a 11.0 in the 100 and a 22.7 in the 200 for sixth place in both.

The Bulldogs finished with 10 points in the meet. Slaton won the AA competition with 58 points, narrowly outdistancing Frenship with 56.

Gervin unhappy with Spurs offer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Three-time NBA scoring champion George Gervin reiterated Saturday that the San Antonio Spurs must increase their contract offer to $1 million per year or he wants to play elsewhere. Spurs President Angelo Drossos broke his own rules last week and revealed that the Spurs had offered Gervin the choice of two new contracts — a $5.1 million deal spread over 35 years or a $2.85 million, 5-year package.

Gervin and agent Pat Healy said at the time that they had already rejected those offers. Healy said Gervin wants a 7-year contract worth $1 million per year or would be forced to request a trade.

Gervin, who won his third scoring title this year, has three years remaining on a make-good contract reportedly worth about $30,000 per year. That's only a third of what some NBA superstars earn.

Gervin and Healy called a news conference Saturday to reiterate their position. But they avoided an outright threat of a trade request.

"It's obvious what might have to be done, but we'll have to wait and see," said Healy.

"I don't feel the San Antonio Spurs have offered me what I'm worth," said Gervin. "It's better for both parties that he straighten this thing out now. I have reached a certain plateau in the game. I feel I can play anywhere."

The $5.1 million offer would have included annual payments of $100,000 for 30 years beginning in 1990. It would not include accrued interest.

"Thirty years is a long time. I'm not interested in that," said Gervin.

Healy said an agreement must be reached by early May, so the Spurs and other NBA teams can set their rosters in time for the May 28 expansion draft.

As speaker at Salvation Army fete

Teaff impressive

Baylor University Head Football Coach and Athletic Director Grant Teaff highlighted an enjoyable Salvation Army's Annual Civic Dinner Banquet here Saturday night by giving an instrumental speech that touched the hearts of the crowd of 200 that attended.

The theme of the banquet was one of love, and Teaff spoke accordingly on the values and benefits of love, both on the athletic field and in everyday life.

Teaff, a well-known speaker nationwide who is now the dean of the Southwest Conference coaches, gave numerous examples of how the importance of love and the display of gratitude can help people achieve success and happiness through peace of mind.

There were numerous awards and honors throughout the night to people that have worked hard to make the Salvation Army a success locally, and Teaff's speech capped the evening in fine fashion.

(AP LASERPHOTO) ROSIE RUIZ — Has been removed from the list of finishers in the New York City Marathon and an announcement of her status in the Boston Marathon may come next week. Miss Ruiz's finish in the New York marathon was used to qualify her for the Boston race, which she won in record time.

Marathon ace Easterling can't believe Rosie Ruiz

WHILE SPECULATION CONCERNING ROSIE RUIZ'S WINNING the female competition at The Boston Marathon abounds, one local lady that actually qualified to run in that prestigious New England trek is certain that Ruiz is something of a farce.

"There are just too many questions," Sherill Easterling, a Howard County algebra prof and marathon ace said Thursday.

"The fact is that the second and third place finishers would know if and when they were passed," says Easterling, who qualified for the Boston Marathon earlier this year in a record setting performance at the Greater Southwest Marathon in Abilene.

"But no one remembers her during the race," says Easterling. "And when she finished, she didn't appear to be too extremely tired. I don't care if you're in good shape, you're going to hurt."

Ruiz ran what appeared to be the fastest time in the history of the Boston Marathon, what would be an outstanding time of two hours, 31 minutes; a time simply too good to be true from an unheard of runner such as the New York city office worker.

BUT WITH THE TEMPTATION TO CHEAT in an effort to gain the glory and the possible lucrative benefits of winning such a title, it is not surprising that somebody actually tried to pull off the stunt.

"That's a shame," Easterling said, "but it's really not surprising. The thing is, a good runner couldn't get away with it, because everyone would be paying attention to them."

Bill Rodgers, who won the men's competition at Boston for the third straight year, agrees with Easterling and many others, as he stated shortly after both were on the winner's stand: "I don't believe that woman had run a marathon. She wasn't tired enough." "But most good runners wouldn't think about it (cheating in a marathon)," Easterling said. "That's sickening, but it's been done before. They caught a man a few years earlier that did it. He finally confessed, though."

"Most dedicated athletes wouldn't even consider doing what she apparently has done. I can't believe she's decent."

Easterling, who qualified for the Boston Marathon by running a time of 3:09:12, in the Abilene affair last month, didn't run this year, but hopes to sometime in the future.

"To run in the Boston Marathon, you've got to plan for a long time," explained Easterling.

"Bill's (her husband) is on a kidney machine here, and I also would have to take off from work to go run in it. I feel that in order to run the Boston race properly, you have to go two or three days early and get acclimated to the conditions."

AND WHILE MOST MARATHON FANS AND EXPERTS REFER TO BOSTON AS THE PRIZE MARATHON, Easterling personally is looking more forward to competing in the New York Marathon in the near future.

"I would really like to run in the New York Marathon," says the Howard College professor. "In that race, you're never out in the country, it's just all in New York City. I think it would be a super interesting race."

A big reason that she would like to run the New York affair is that the normal marathon can tend to become boring. "I ran in Hobbs last week. It was real flat throughout the entire race. It was very easy, but boring."

The race in Hobbs was an eight-mile event called the Golden Yucca. It was so boring that Easterling won the ladies division in a time of 53:54 under very windy conditions. She was also fourth overall, and that in itself can cause problems.

THE PROBLEMS ARE IN THE FORM OF ENVOIUS MALE COMPETITORS who simply can't accept the fact that Easterling, or any woman for that matter, can outrun them.

Easterling explains that it is usually the young male runners that she hears the snide comments from during the races, whereas the older male marathoners invariably cheer her on.

"I get a lot of bad comments when I pass the men during the races. But the negative comments are from the younger ones. The older man usually just say something like 'Hey, you're looking good!'"

Easterling admits that some of the negative comments from her male counterparts do annoy her, but she does not feel that she deserves them in any way.

"I've stopped some of them after they've made some unkind remarks and said: 'Alright, buddy, do you run 70 miles a week? I hurt just as bad as you do inside.'"

Easterling's 70 miles of workouts per week vary depending on her schedule, and she admits that it can sometimes become a very monotonous routine.

"I do sometimes tend to ask myself on the seventh or eighth mile of a daily run what I'm doing," Easterling admits. "It's relaxing and I usually enjoy the runs, but sometimes they can get kind of lonely."

BUT THESE RUNS ARE NECESSARY IF EASTERLING is to continue her success in the field of long distance running.

Her next big race will be in the National Track Federation's AAU Meet in Wichita, Kansas, on May 31. Easterling will run for the Texas Track Club, but currently is not sure in which event that she will run in, although that decision is in regard to which race she can pick up points for her state's team.

And competition is what seems to keep the local marathon ace going.

"The one reason I compete," says Easterling, "is that it gives me something to keep working toward. By running good in a race, it keeps me pepped up. But if you run as much as I do, it really helps if you are still competing for something."

Easterling's career best at Abilene averages out to a 7:12 mile for the 26 mile, 385-yard course, and you don't have to pass one of her courses at Howard College to figure out that very ordinary.

But then again, who ever said that any marathoner, whether they be as legitimate as Easterling or as mysteriously and unscrupulously shady as a Rosie Ruiz, were necessarily commonplace people.

Rookie gets big hit to beat Texas

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rookie Jerry Dybzinski's first major league hit, a seventh-inning home run, ignited a four-run Cleveland rally as the Indians came from behind to defeat the Texas Rangers 8-7 Saturday. Dybzinski's solo homer came off reliever Jim Kern, 1-2, in his first at-bat at Municipal Stadium and pulled the Indians to within 6-5. Rick Manning followed with a base hit, Toby Harrah tripled and Mike Hargrove singled to give Cleveland a 7-6 edge. Hargrove later scored as Jorge Orta beat out a potential inning-ending double play ball. Texas jumped on top 5-0 with a run in the fourth and a grand slam home run by Al Oliver off starter John Denny in the fifth. The Indians began chiseling away at the lead with a pair of runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth to chase Rangers starter Jon Matlack. The Rangers scored single runs in the seventh and eighth innings to cut the Indians' lead to one, but reliever Mike Stanton recorded the final five outs to gain the save. Victor Cruz, 1-2, got the victory in relief.

Blue Jays outlast Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Right fieler Barry Bonnell crashed a ninth-inning grand slam homer to break up a scoreless pitching duel between Toronto's Dave Stieb and Milwaukee's Mike Caldwell and lead the Blue Jays to a 4-0 victory over the Brewers Saturday. Stieb held the Brewers to five hits and increased his record to 3-0, including two wins over the Brewers. Caldwell entered the ninth with a five-hit shutout, but Rick Bosetti singled and John Mayberry reached first when first baseman Cecil Cooper dropped the throw on Mayberry's punt. Caldwell got Otto Velez on strikes, but Roy Howell grounder eluded Cooper at first for a single. Bonnell then crashed a 3-2 pitch over the left field wall for his second homer of the year.

Stargell sparks Buc attack

CHICAGO (AP) — Willie Stargell hit his first homer of the season and drove in three runs, and Ed Ott batted in three runs with a pair of singles Saturday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Pirates left-hander John Candelaria, 2-1, scattered eight hits for his second straight complete game. Dennis Lamp, 2-1, was the loser and could not survive the first inning when the Pirates knocked him out with five runs.

Carlton twirls one-hitter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Left-hander Steve Carlton set a modern National League record by pitching his sixth career one-hitter and Del Unser broke up a scoreless duel with a two-run pinch triple as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-0 Saturday night. The only hit off Carlton, 3-1, was a clean single to left field by Ted Simmons leading off the St. Louis second. Carlton struck out five and walked one in a duel with John Fulgham, 1-2, who allowed only three hits before Unser's seventh-inning triple.

Giants storm by Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jack Clark broke a 1-1 tie with a run-scoring triple in the fourth inning and the San Francisco Giants handed Cincinnati a second straight defeat, beating the Reds 3-1 Saturday behind Bob Knepper's six-hitter. Left-hander Knepper, 2-2, beat the Reds for the first time in more than two years. Four of Cincinnati's hits were in the infield. The Giants scored the game's first run with the help of a balk by Reds starter Mike LaCrosse, 3-1. Rennie Stennett doubled with one out in the second, went to third on the balk and scored on Milt May's grounder to first base.

Twins batter A's, 5-1

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Pete Redfern scattered three hits through six innings, and Rick Sotfield ignited Minnesota's three-run sixth inning with a run-scoring single to help the Twins down the Oakland A's 5-1 Saturday. Redfern, 2-1, struck out six to make him the league leader with 25.

Niekro, La Corte pitch Astros to 6-0 victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Luis Pujols hit a two-run single in the seventh inning to break up a scoreless duel and Joe Niekro and Frank LaCorte combined on a five-hitter as the Astros blanked the New York Mets 6-0 Saturday night. Denny Walling singled to open the seventh inning for Houston's second hit of the game and Jose Cruz was walked by relief pitcher Ed Glynn, 0-1. Neil Allen relieved Glynn and struck out Enos Cabell for the second out before Cesar Cedeño's infield hit loaded the bases. Pujols then lined his game-winning hit to right field. The Astros added four runs in the eighth on Cabell's sacrifice fly, an RBI triple by Joe Morgan, a single by Cruz and LaCorte's infield hit with the bases loaded. Niekro had trouble controlling his knuckleball in the early innings, leading the bases in the first and fourth. But then he settled down and allowed only one hit through six innings. Niekro, 2-1, was relieved by LaCorte in the eighth when the Mets loaded the bases again on a pair of singles and a walk. Jerry Morales hit into a force at second to end the inning. New York starter Craig Swan held the Astros to one hit through four innings but was forced to leave the game prior to the fifth because of a stiff shoulder.

Flanogan baffles slumping KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Doug DeCinces hammered a two-run homer and Baltimore's Cy Young winner, Mike Flanagan, scattered seven hits to shut out the Kansas City Royals 4-0 Saturday as the Orioles snapped a six-game losing streak. Flanagan, 2-2, struck out four and walked one. In two appearances against the Royals this year, the left-hander has allowed only one run in 18 innings. With two out in the Orioles eighth, John Lowenstein walked and DeCinces slammed a 1-2 pitch from loser Rich Gale, 0-3, into the left field bleachers, his third homer of the year.

Bosox outscore Tigers, 12-7

DETROIT (AP) — Boston rookie Bruce Hurst earned his first major league victory, and Butch Hobson, Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans each slammed home runs as the Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers 12-7 Saturday. Hurst, 1-0, allowed just two hits in the six innings he worked before giving way to reliever Dick Drago at the start of the seventh. The 22-year-old left-hander, who was the Red Sox's top draft pick in 1976, was touched for three runs in the first inning. Lou Whitaker singled, Steve Kemp walked and Lance Parrish belted his third homer of the season for Detroit.

ERVING GOES UNDER — Sixers Julius Erving ducks under Boston Celtics Larry Bird's arm on his way to two of his 30 points Friday night in the fourth game of the best-of-seven NBA semi-final playoff series in Philadelphia. Philadelphia won the game 102-90 to go up three games to one.

With win over Celtics 76ers could end series today

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers, throwing up an awesome defense in a National Basketball Association "war" with the Boston Celtics, seek to wrap up the Eastern Conference championship Sunday in Game No. 5 of their best-of-seven series. "We have to play doubly hard even though we're up 3-1," Philadelphia's Caldwell Jones warned after the 76ers made it two in a row on their home court with a 102-90 victory Friday night. "We're going to Boston with the intention of winning the series there," Jones added. "We don't want to have to come back here for Game Six Wednesday night because anything can happen." The Celtics, who managed only a split in the first two games of the series here, have their backs to the wall, but are determined to bounce back, even though their scoring juggernaut has been unable to score 100 points in any playoff game with the 76ers. "We'll be chasing," Boston Coach Bill Fitch said. "We'll be hard to beat from here on in." "We've got to take it to them," rookie Larry Bird said. "They're more of a finesse team. We've got the power to win this series. They're scoring well in spurts. That's what's killing us." "Boston has to stay confident and maintain a positive attitude," said Philadelphia's famed Dr. J, Julius Erving. "They're professionals, and they haven't lost three games in a row all year." "These are two great teams going beyond the point of pushing themselves,"

Sonics face uphill battle Lakers now hold home court edge

SEATTLE (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers can move to within a victory of dethroning last season's National Basketball Association champions, the Seattle SuperSonics, with another triumph Sunday at the University of Washington. The Lakers grabbed a 2-1 lead in the Western Conference final playoff series Friday night by beating the Sonics 104-100 behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Jamaal Wilkes at the University of Washington's Hec Edmundson Pavilion. Wilkes broke out of a series-long shooting slump in the second half and finished with 21 points while Abdul-Jabbar scored a game-high 33 points. The best-of-seven game series moves back to Los Angeles Wednesday night for the fifth contest. "We don't have the home court advantage any more," emphasized Sonic captain Paul Silas. "I thought Friday night was a must game and Sunday is another must game. We must do it Sunday." Silas, oldest player in the NBA at 36, will be appearing in his 161st NBA playoff game Sunday. The Sonics were forced to go to the University of Washington campus because the Kingdome and the Seattle Coliseum, their other two homes, are booked this weekend. The American League Seattle Mariners' baseball club has first claim on the Kingdome and the Coliseum is being used for an ice show. If the series requires sixth and seventh games, they would be held at the Kingdome next Friday night and at Los Angeles Sunday, May 4. The Lakers, who finished four games ahead of Seattle in the Pacific Division during the regular season, lost the first game of the series 106-107 at Los Angeles. But they bounced back to take the second contest 108-99 at home. Even with a 2-1 series lead, Los Angeles interim Coach Paul Westhead refused to make any claims. "Seattle is the world champion," he stressed. "They're the best bread-and-butter team in basketball.

Canada joins US boycott

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian Olympic Association voted Saturday to join the United States in its boycott of the Moscow Summer Games. "We have voted to reassess this decision if the international situation improves," Dick Pound, association president, said after the 137-35 vote. "We will proceed with the selection, honoring and recognition of the Canadian Olympic team."

Canada joins US boycott

External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan said Tuesday that the Canadian government was urging the association to join the boycott to protest Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan. "People were in tears," said pole vaulter Bruce Simpson, one of about 20 athletes who attended Saturday's meeting. "It has such an impact. It's such an emotional thing." "The Canadian athletes felt the government had not taken the strongest possible stance," he said.

Roadrunner Classic hoping for local participation

In an effort to emphasize the importance of running in regard to a person's health, the Big Spring Herald and SportsWorld will be sponsoring the first in what is hoped to be an annual affair when the Roadrunner Classic gets underway on Saturday morning, May 17.

There will be five divisions in both men's and women's competition, and each division will have both a two-mile run and a five-mile jaunt.

The age groups are divided into 12 and under, 13-19, 20-29, 30-39, and over 40.

In addition to the first place prizes for the winner in each divisional run, there will also be door prizes and a pair of Nike's to both the outstanding male and female runners.

Among the door prizes will be monthly memberships to the YMCA, for which the affair is benefitting.

Big Spring Herald Promotions Director Sarah Higgins is encouraging all individuals to run, and also would like to see family groups entering the competition.

"You don't have to be an avid runner," Higgins emphasizes, "and even if people don't run, we're hoping that they can at least come and cheer."

Entry fee for entering a race will be three dollars per person. Each entrant will receive a free T-shirt for running.

The two-mile run will begin at 8:30 a.m. on the 17th, with the five-mile run slated to begin at 9:00 a.m.

The YMCA staff will be holding numerous sessions for all participants in the week before the Roadrunner Classic.

On Monday, they will show a film entitled "Jogging and Your Health."

Tuesday night's function will be a talk about jogging and exercise, in general, while Wednesday night's lecture concerning jogging and the proper equipment will be given by Roland Beal, manager of SportsWorld.

On Thursday night, Y instructor Nadine Teague will speak on jogging and your diet, while Friday night's session will include a film on running.

Prior to the races, the Y staff will hold a warm-up session on the Saturday morning to help all runners properly loosen their bodies in order to avoid possible injuries.

People may register to enter the race at the YMCA, SportsWorld or the Big Spring Herald.

Gillihan nabs 27-pounder at Lake Spence

The big news out of Lake E.V. Spence during the past week was a big striped bass.

Gary Gillihan, Big Spring, brought in a striper that weighed an even 27 lbs. This eclipsed the record 25 lb., 10 oz. striper by Ricky Gipson, Big Spring, in July 1978. (Two larger striped bass have been taken from the lake, but these were by biologists of the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife netting for brood fish.)

Almost as big news was the number of crappie being reported. One party of five strung 188 of them at Lake Spence. Similarly, at Lake J.B. Thomas, strings up to 60 were reported. Most of the catches at Thomas were in shallow water 1 1/2 to 2 feet deep, and crappie ranged mostly from 1 1/2 to 2 lbs. but with some up to 2 1/2 lbs. Black bass also were spawning and biting, as were a few channel catfish.

Reports from Lake Spence included:

Cowboys interesting in basketball

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

MIDLAND — Seven members of the Dallas Cowboys travelling basketball team ventured to Midland College's Chaparral Center Friday night to square off against a group of Midland All-Stars, and if their performance is any indication of the success in the NFL this fall, then the countless die-hard Cowboy fans are in for a disappointing season.

Fortunately for the legendary Tom Landry, however, is the fact that they won't have to dribble and jump too much this fall.

The contest was for the Permian Basin Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society, and for the record, the Midland All-Stars, behind the play of 45-year-old Delnor Poss and former Howard College All-American Archie Myers, took an easy 81-63 win over seven members of the Cowboys' team.

And before you get the idea that the rest of the Midland team were simply a bunch of ringers, that's not the case. You see, this writer was a member of the Midland team. And if you've ever seen Nathan Poss play basketball, you would realize that he's about as close to an All-Star as the Cowboy cheerleaders are ugly.

That's not very close.

Actually, the Cowboys that showed up to play were at somewhat of a disadvantage. The Dallas gridderers that are supposed to have the best basketball talent (Tony Hill, Drew Pearson, Tony Dorsett) were in El Paso to play another charity affair.

This left Saldi's team. It was a mixture including Saldi, wide receiver Bruce Johnson, linebacker Bruce Hutter, offensive tackle Jim Cooper, fullback Larry Brinson, and defensive backs Aaron Mitchell, Aaron Kyle and Benny Barnes. 3,000 fans showed up at Chap Center to watch the show, and while basketball finesse wasn't the main course, the final product was still interesting and enjoyable.

The fans let it be known after the massive 265-pound Cooper scored the Cowboys first bucket who they were for. But that didn't help, as the pro gridder shot about as hard as their muscles were.

The gray-haired Delnor Poss and Archie Myers, who averaged over 36 a game for Howard College in the early 70s, quickly let the Cowboys know what sport they were playing, as the Midland team sloppily breezed to 22-13 lead after one stanza.

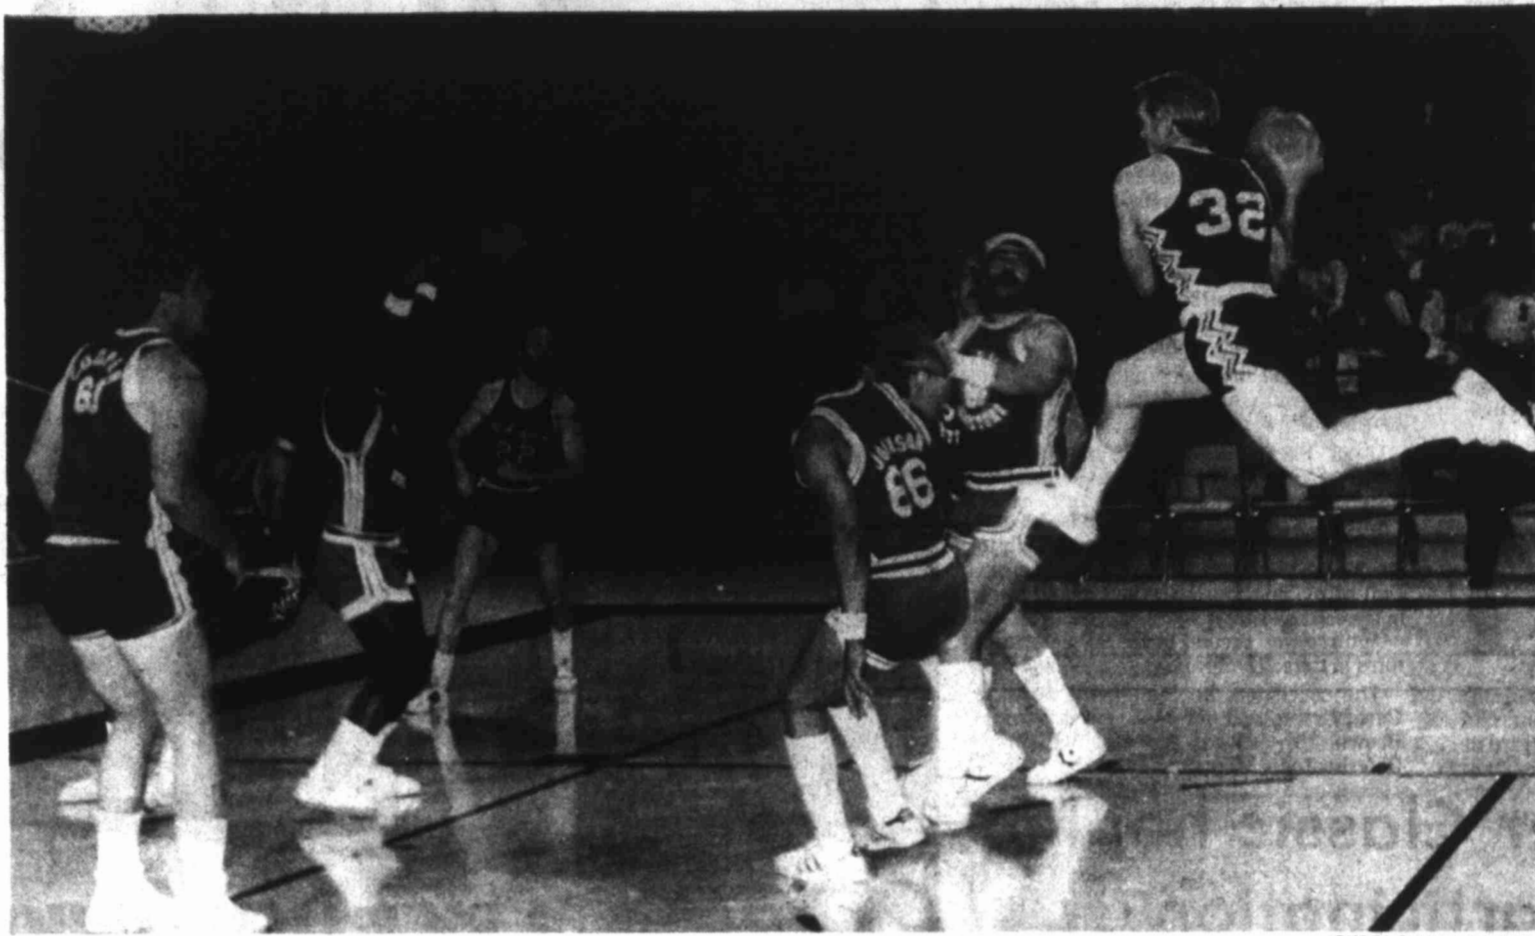

But Saldi, who is the captain of the Cowboys special teams, let it be known early in the game that he considers himself meaner than most. The specialty teams in football are known for their wildmen, and Saldi didn't diminish this stereotype in the least.

He continually threatened Myers and anyone else who challenged him physically and verbally, but Archie quietly and effectively played his own game.

The Cowboys, behind the play of Butch Johnson, seemed to realize they were on the basketball court in the second quarter, and began playing more like it. But Saldi wouldn't allow it.

Barnes entered the contest during this time, but made one bad pass. That was not unusual, as ball-handling (due to physical defense) in the contest would make Magic Johnson puke.

After the bad pass, Saldi seriously demanded to Barnes that he be replaced by Brinson, who is built like a 5'11" gorilla.

ELDERLY MAGIC — Midland All-Star Delnor Poss (32) vaults his 45-year-old body through the air while preparing to release a pass to son Nathan Poss (22) over three Dallas Cowboys during their contest Friday night in Midland College's Chaparral Center. The three Cowboys directly in front of Delnor are Butch Johnson (86), Jay Saldi (87) and Bruce Hutter (behind Saldi). Looking on to see what will occur from the left is Cowboy Jim Cooper (61), former Howard College All-American Archie Myers (who played for Midland), Cowboy Larry Brinson (hands in air). The contest, won by Midland, benefitted the Permian Basin Chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

But Barnes balked, saying to Saldi: "Aw, come on, man, I just got in here. Don't start this mess!"

"Get the bleep out!" Saldi screamed back. "We're trying to look good." With that comment, Saldi firmly nudged Barnes toward the bench. Barnes followed his instructions without trying to create a scene, as Kyle and Brinson shook their heads in disbelief at Saldi's dictatorial attitude.

With Midland leading 46-32 at the halftime, Johnson auctioned what he called "the last football Roger Staubach would ever sign." With proceeds going to charity, a Midland local, after an intense bidding war, gave $400 for the pigskin.

Johnson vowed that the Cowboys were a second half club, but they would play without the services of Barnes.

Barnes returned at the beginning of the third stanza, but in street clothes, and took over the public microphone. In a sarcastic tone, he announced: "Since our coach won't let me play, I'll do my part announcing."

As the two teams awaited the tipoff in the mid-circle for the second half, Hutter related to me "that most of the good players went to El Paso to play. They sent the rest of us here."

The Cowboys, behind the hustling of Johnson, Saldi and Cooper (Johnson had 11 fouls in the contest) stayed somewhat close, and rallied to within eight points with four minutes remaining.

With the fans going somewhat wild, Barnes announced: "Remember the Washington game. We're at our best with time running out."

But Myers, who was upset at Saldi's actions throughout the game, teamed with Delnor Poss to score eight unanswered points and gave the Midland team plenty of breathing room.

Delnor Poss and Myers each had 20 points to lead all scorers in the contest, while Johnson and Cooper led the Cowboys with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

After the game, Kyle came to the Midland bench and intimated that the rest of the Dallas players were just as embarrassed with Saldi as the Midlanders were upset with his attitude.

But Saldi may have just been warming up for the football season that will be approaching in the next three months, and there is no doubt with the many problems the Cowboys have encountered over the off-season probably have many of Landry's troops concerned.

"With the troubles we've had since the end of last season, I think we will have to take three steps back this summer and regroup. But we'll come out charging," Saldi said after the game.

Watson takes commanding lead in New Orleans Open

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tom Watson pulled away from Hubert Green with 6-under-par 66 and established 3-stroke command Saturday in the third round of the $250,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

Watson, a wire-to-wire winner in the Tournament of Champions last week, put together a 54-hole total of 200, a whopping 16 shots under par on the 7,060-yard Lakewood Country Club course. The score equals the low 54-hole total on the tour this year.

"It was another of those hot putting rounds," said Watson, who one-putted nine times for the second day in a row. Watson, the outstanding player in the game for the past three seasons and in full pursuit of fourth title this year, now has led or shared the tournament lead in the last seven rounds he's played.

Green, the defending champion who was tied with Watson at the end of 18 and 36 holes, played well and didn't make a bogey, but he just couldn't keep pace with the best round of the warm, sunny day.

DALLAS COWBOY FINESSE—Three members of the Dallas Cowboys ram together in an attempt to get a rebound during action in their benefit contest Friday night against the Midland All-Stars. Throughout the night, the Cowboys at times seemed to play football with themselves, but the fans loved it. This trio of Cowboys from the left in mid-air are Jay Saldi (87), Jim Cooper (61), and Bruce Hutter. Midland players waiting for the aftermath are Mark Thomas (42), Mark Poss (4) and Delnor Poss (32).

OU Varsity edges alums

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Varsity Halfback David Overstreet flaunted some explosive running by picking up 72 yards on six carries as the University of Oklahoma beat the OU Alumni 17-10 here Saturday night.

Overstreet and starting quarterback J.C. Watts played just two series, long enough to get the Varsity on the scoreboard.

Watts capped a 75-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown sneak.

LESS LITTER IN AREA — Upwards to 10,000 pounds of aluminum containers have been collected on area streets and highways recently, resulting in monetary awards for those who participated. Dorothy Jones (far right) hands the $50 first-place award to Dave Nelson for collecting 375 pounds of metal. Roy Collins (far left), manager of Coors here, refers $25 to Francisco Escodedo for gathering 337 pounds of aluminum containers, good for third place. Faye Rice (center) was second in the contest with collections totaling 367 pounds. She won $25. The Big Spring Board of Realtors sponsored the event as part of a clean-up campaign during Private Property Week. In all, 10,000 pounds of aluminum containers were collected by approximately 70 people. A total of $2,000 was returned to the economy, as a result. In Big Spring alone, Coors purchased over 335,826 pounds of aluminum in 1979, paying out over $65,665.

Jet fighters Lake Spence would be full crash near if history repeated itself Garland

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — Two Marine F-4 Phantom jet fighters en route from California to Florida collided in midair, causing one to crash in a "mushroom of fire" near this Dallas suburb, authorities said.

"It came down and hit; there was a fireball about 300 to 400 feet in the air and then a big explosion," said a Texas Department of Public Safety officer, who declined to be identified.

Pilot Mike Fagan and radioman B.P. Sherrod ejected from the crippled jet and drifted down onto a golf course about a mile north of the crash site, said a Navy spokesman.

Both were taken to Garland Memorial Hospital and later transferred by helicopter to a hospital at Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth for treatment of minor injuries.

Three planes had left the Dallas Naval Air Station on a rescue mission Friday to continue their flight from El Toro, Calif., to Panama City, Fla. After the accident, the two other planes returned to the station, the spokesman said.

"I just can't believe that no one died," said Joyce Weber, who watched the fiery explosion. "I was looking at that huge black cloud wondering if there was going to be a tornado when I saw this plane coming from the clouds."

"There was a huge stream of fire ... straight out of the clouds when it suddenly took a nose dive," she said. "We saw two parachutes just before we heard the explosion when it crashed in a mushroom of fire."

A military investigation was initiated immediately.

If Lake E.V. Spence had received the historical annual flow for the past 11 years it has been in operation, today it would be at spillway level of elevation 1898.00.

This is only one of several "what ifs" and "if onlys" which might be postulated had average conditions held firm instead of the actual sharp deficiency in runoff during the 11-year period. While this exercise doesn't add any water to the big reservoir of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, it does show what could happen under average conditions. And, as any West Texan knows, every dry year puts you that much closer to a wet one.

For the 39 years that gauges have been maintained on the Colorado River at Robert Lee, where Lake Spence is located, the average flow is 94,920 acre feet per annum. During the last 11 years since the Spence dam was closed, the actual average has been only 46,870 acre feet.

Allowing for additional evaporative losses by reason of higher lake levels, Lake Spence today would contain 488,760 acre feet of water had the long-term average inflow prevailed. At this point the lake would be spilling.

Two of the years contributing to the averages, however, are super ones — 437,800 acre feet in 1941 and 369,000 acre feet in 1957. Take out these abnormally high years and the long-term average would be 80,856 acre feet. Using this basis, the net increase in volume for the past 11 years would have been 174,800 acre feet. This would put the lake elevation at 1878.5, or about 11 feet higher than its record level to date.

If you speculate on "what ifs" for this year, the maximum annual average flow of 94,920 now would put the level at approximately 1864.00, or some 12 feet above where it will be at the end of this month.

If you use the average annual flow of 80,856 without the two super years, the lake level would be around elevation 1865.5.

Or if you project for just this year the actual annual average for the past 11 years, the level would be elevation 1857.00, or five feet higher than at the end of April.

Two of the three worst years on record for runoff have occurred in the 11 years since the dam was closed. One was 1970 with only 7,000 acre feet, and another was 1978 with 13,500 acre feet. The worst year on record was 1952 during the historic drought when only 5,600 acre feet went by Robert Lee.

So, if the very worst flow of 1954 were to be repeated this year, Lake Spence still would end up with around elevation 1846.00 and contain some 25,000 acre feet less than now.

But this would mean much higher chlorides because of evaporation and concentrations in low flow of the river, and chlorides are the big problem now.

On the other hand, if that record inflow year of 1941 were to be repeated, the chlorides would be cut by about 300 percent and the result would be a brimming lake with 200 ppm chlorides, which is within USPH standards. Also, with such a runoff as this, one might assume that Lake J.B. Thomas, which has practically no chlorides, would also fill, making it possible to mix Lake Thomas and Lake

Spence water equally, cutting chlorides by half again.

This is happier than speculating on the worst year, but O.H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD, says that there are contingent plants if those worst conditions were to prevail. These involve utilizing well water to mix with Spence water to keep the product to customers at an acceptable level.

DATSUN 210 2-DOOR SEDAN STANDARD MPG
 If you're looking for maximum gas mileage in your new car, you must visit our showroom. No other car sold in America delivers better gas mileage. And that astronomical mileage takes you a long way — 489 miles EPA estimate*. 673 miles highway estimate*. See us for a test drive. We are driven to prove, "It's a long way to empty in a Datsun."
 *Standard Sedan MPG (5-speed): Based on EPA estimates. Use these estimates for comparison. Your mileage estimates may differ depending on speed, distance and weather. Highway mileage will probably be lower than EPA estimate.

Riot followed filming of 'Gideon's Trumpet'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Director Robert Collins recalls a tense scene while he was using 800 actual inmates as extras behind prison walls for "Gideon's Trumpet."

The prisoners were growing angry at the director, and the movie company was forced to get out of the medium security area of the Men's Correctional Facility at Chino.

"Immediately after we got out, they rioted," said Collins. "They broke up furniture and smashed a bus. I think they broke a guard's arm."

That occurred during six days of filming at the prison last year.

"The inmates didn't want us to make as many takes of the scene as I wanted," Collins said. "They said they'd already cheered and didn't want to cheer any more. By the time we made four takes they were very unhappy."

"Gideon's Trumpet," starring Henry Fonda as Clarence Earl Gideon, a poorly educated prisoner who made legal history, airs Wednesday night as a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presentation on CBS. It also stars Jose Ferrer as Abe Fortas and John Houseman as the Chief Justice of the United States.

Gideon was serving a five-year sentence at Raiford Prison in Florida in the early 1960s when the U.S. Supreme Court overturned his conviction because he was not represented by a lawyer at his trial. The prisoners were cheering the court's decision because it would mean many of them would also have to be freed for re-trial.

The screenplay was written by producer David W. Rintels from the book by Anthony Lewis, a New York Times reporter who covered the case. Houseman, besides acting in the movie, was executive producer. His character is not identified by name, but Earl Warren was chief justice at the time.

"It's not really a prison story," said Collins. "It's a story of justice. I found it was one of the really positive and affirmative pieces of material I've come across in terms of our political and social system."

Collins said his biggest problem was that about 90 pages of the 120-page script are set in court. It was also something of a problem that Gideon never comes face to face with Fortas or the Chief Justice.

"The scenes serve as punctuation to each other," he said. "What I did was contrast one with the other. The Washington scenes are very rich and opulent looking. I made the prison scenes as harsh as possible."

BOBBY MILLS

'Edgars' given to writers

NEW YORK (AP) — The halls of the Biltmore Hotel were abuzz with talk of murder, and even Margaret Truman Daniel had a few words to say.

Not about a real one, of course, but the kind of death and violence that won "Edgars" on Friday when the Mystery Writers of America handed out their annual awards.

Mrs. Daniel, daughter of the late President Harry Truman and author of the recently published "Murder in the White House," was guest speaker for the awards ceremony. The Edgar is a bust statuette of Edgar Allan Poe, who is considered the father of the mystery genre.

Senior recital on oboe set today by Bob Mills

Bobby Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal C. Mills, Big Spring, will be giving a senior recital on the oboe today at 3 p.m. at the Rectal Hall, Robert and Nona Carr Education-Fine Arts Building at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

Mills is a 1976 graduate of Big Spring High School. He has been a member of the Angelo State University Band for four years, a member of the marching band, symphonic band, A.S.U. Orchestra and Kappa Kappa Psi Band Fraternity.

Aspiring farmers can get early preparation

By REBECCA TAYLOR Reference Librarian

Spring showers, even small ones, bring out the secret farmer in many people. With the coming of warm weather, and a few drops of moisture, one can see rototillers, shovels, hoes, rakes, etc., crop up with the weeds and wildflowers. Some of the farmers last about as long as the brief desert bloom. However, for those who would like to keep a garden on any size scale, the Howard County Library has information to start you right.

The smallest type 'garden' is the terrarium. In The World of Terrariums, author Charles L. Wilson leads the beginner, step by step, through the development of various types of terrariums. The climate to be maintained determines the four main types: bog, tropical rain forest, temperate deciduous forest, and desert. The author includes extensive data on various types of plants and their suitability for each climate.

Among the extensive collection of books on flowers and house plants are:

Jimmy Dean not always easy going as he seems

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Easygoing Jimmy Dean sizzles like the sausage he sells when you mention government spending, mail delivery and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The veteran singer and television personality, who has been devoting much of his time in the past few years to running the sausage company, has recorded several 30-second radio spots ridiculing the post office, the cost of oil, deficit government spending and the like.

The spots, sponsored and paid for by Dean's Dallas-based company, have been broadcast in 285 cities. They include no pitch for the sausage, although the spots say at the end who paid for them.

"We took on everything," Dean, 51, said in a telephone interview from New Jersey, where he lives part-time. "We've had quite a response. In Memphis, one station said the No. 1 request is the Kenny Rogers song and No. 2 is my commercial."

"People are saying they've always wanted to say this kind of thing. We've only had one refusal that I recall, and that was in Detroit. I said 'A-rab' in one commercial instead of Arab; they have a large Arabian population there."

The radio spots also are critical of welfare, doctors, auto mechanics, the telephone industry and the Internal Revenue Service.

Dean, whose hit songs have included "Big Bad John" and a Mother's Day recitation called "I.O.U.," estimated he devoted 75 percent of his time last year to the sausage business. This Gardening in Containers by Elvin MacDonald, Reader's Digest's Success with House Plants, RX for Ailing House Plants, by Charles M. Evans and Roberta Lee Pliner, and The Encyclopedia of Judging and Exhibiting, by Esther Veramae Hamel. These books discuss indoor gardening from African violets to tomatoes.

For the true case of 'Gardenitis,' only a fresh tilled patch of soil in the open air will suffice. Vegetable gardening has a certain appeal for its image of self-reliance. How to Grow Your Own Vegetables, by Michael Kressy and Growing and Cooking, by Castle Books, are two good guides to growing food for the family.

Kressy's book gives extensive data on planting and yields, while the Castle book includes additional information on serving and preparing certain vegetables.

Many adaptations must be made for either vegetable or flower gardening in this semi-arid climate. Two classic aids to the southwest gardener are Western Garden Book, by Sunset Books, and Southwest Gardening, by Rosalie Doolittle and Harriet Tiedebohl. Southwest Gardening is primarily a guide, pointing out special dry land practices as it teaches basic gardening.

Sunset's Western Garden Book is more of a reference tool. Along with brief basic instruction, there are a "Plant Selection Guide" and an extensive "Western Plant Encyclopedia."

A relative newcomer is Easy Gardening with Drought-Resistant Plants, by Arno and Irene Nehrling. This book deals primarily with ornamental planting; i.e., lawns, flowers, trees and shrubs.

Auditions held for singers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The search is on for 20 undiscovered country music singers or groups.

The best of the 20 will win $11,000 and exposure to some of the most influential people in the Nashville music industry — people who can build careers for others. He or she will earn the title, "The Country Music Star of the Future."

The 20 are being picked at local auditions sponsored by a network of 20 country music radio stations in the South and Midwest.

TV viewing habits of children worrying Captain Kangaroo

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — The captain of children's television is worried about the television viewing habits of children.

Bob Keeshan, known to millions for 25 years as Captain Kangaroo, says he's concerned many parents use television as baby sitters.

"Most of our parents... in this country today do not seem to care about the time spent or the programs being viewed by their young people," he told an audience at Dartmouth College on Friday.

"The most often spoken words in America today are not 'I love you,' 'You did well at that,' or 'That's not so bad, go back and try again, you can do it.'"

Seventh

Annual

Chuck Wagon Party

HOWDY! — Paula Allen and Robin Ethridge, dance students of Mrs. Ora Burson, will entertain the large crowd expected to attend the seventh annual Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon Party. They will perform the Livingston Saturday Night Dance.

Photos by Bill Forshee

CLASSY ENTERTAINMENT — Each year, museum officers plan only the best entertainment for their 'museum family' members and this year is no exception. Beverly Wheeler, Tammye Spears, Charlotte Beil, Shelley Wood and Cathy Weeks, members of the Meistersingers Girls' Sextet will be on hand to dazzle the crowd.

Food, fun, fellowship combine for Heritage Museum festivities

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor
Past President Joe Pickle initiated the event in May of 1974. Since that first occasion, the Heritage Museum has made it an annual tradition to show its appreciation to the many benefactors that make its existence possible. Three main ingredients — food, fun and fellowship — are combined each year to make the Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon barbecue a much looked-forward-to event in the community.

This year's affair, for members only, is set to kick off May 1 at 7 p.m. in the Dora Roberts Community Center. Chuck wagon tickets are being sold for $6 each. No tickets will be available at the door.

Gerri Atwell has served in the capacity of museum curator since the opening of the house of history on April 18, 1971.

Mrs. Atwell, who has always been a history enthusiast, claims the purpose of the museum is to "preserve our history. Not just mine or yours," she explained, "but everyone's."

Francis Wheat presently serves as the museum's 10th president and will be mistress of ceremonies at this year's party.

Although 'museum family' members only will be allowed to participate in the Chuck Wagon Party festivities, it's not too late to get your name on the membership roll.

Membership is obtained through donations. Minimum amounts are $7.50 for one adult and $10 per couple.

"Memberships are coming in so fast we hardly have time to count them," Mrs. Atwell stated.

Museum membership began at a very low number in 1971, not more than 40, according to the curator.

"I fell like now we have at least 450, including 100 new members signed up by membership chairman Erma Balch," said Mrs. Atwell. "Anyone is welcome to become a member."

A tour through the Heritage Museum is like a trip through a time machine back to early Big Spring.

Sixty-three Caylor paintings, originals and reproductions highlight the museum as do Salinas paintings. Included in one of the many museum displays is a 104-year-old doll.

"We also have movies that tell the complete history of Big Spring," the curator revealed.

Year after year, the barbecue has featured the best of entertainment for museum members and this year is no exception.

He has continued his involvement in comedy and likes to perform.

This young entertainer has a number of awards in his possession to prove his unique ability.

"I also received an award to be on the all-star cast of Hamlet," he added.

Eventually, this success seeker wants to become a professional actor or nightclub comedian.

The Meistersingers Girls Sextet, consisting of Beverly Wheeler, Tammye Spears, Charlotte Beil, Debbie Fulcher, Shelley Wood and Cathy Weeks, promises to captivate the crowd with their unique talent.

Other entertainers will include Paula Allen and Robin Ethridge, dance students of Mrs. Ora Burson, who will perform the Livingston Saturday Night Dance.

The Meistersingers Girls Sextet, consisting of Beverly Wheeler, Tammye Spears, Charlotte Beil, Debbie Fulcher, Shelley Wood and Cathy Weeks, promises to captivate the crowd with their unique talent.

And if the fabulous entertainment isn't enough, museum supporters will be treated to a Texas-size barbecue feast to be catered by Don Newsom.

If all this food, fun and excitement sounds like something you want to be a part of, go by the Heritage Museum at 510 Scurry, give your donation, and then make plans to participate in the 7th Annual Chuck Wagon Party festivities, coordinated this year by Bee Zinn, chairman.

FINALIZING FESTIVITY PLANS — The Heritage Museum Chuck Wagon Party will get under way at 7 p.m. May 1 in the Dora Roberts Community Center. Here, Frances Wheat, museum president; Gerri Atwell, curator; and Bee Zinn, party chairman, discuss plans for the occasion.

By ROBBI CROW
Family News Editor

Big Spring secretaries spent a day away from their typewriters, files and telephones to gain additional knowledge to the demanding professions they have chosen.

Dr. Paul Preston spent the better part of Friday revealing applicable strategies and techniques for effective office communication.

The event was held at the Veterans' Administration Medical Center.

A secretaries luncheon broke up the morning and afternoon sessions as professional women and their bosses were given the

Members of the National Secretaries Association and guests were welcomed to the luncheon by NSA President Ella Vonne West.

Highlighting the event was the naming of Secretary of the Year. Each year, the Secretary of the Year Committee of NSA selects the most deserving NSA member for this top honor.

Receiving the award for 1980 was Mrs. Van (Darla) Barton, who works as a secretary at the Texas Department of Human Resources for Valynia Kirby, worker for the Aged, Blind and Disabled; and Toni Rash, family service worker. Mrs. Barton's supervisor is Wayne Chester of Midland.

"I was totally shocked," stated the Secretary of the Year when asked how she felt about receiving such an honor.

She became a member of the NSA 5 years ago. Since her induction, she has served as corresponding secretary of the organization and is currently chairman of the membership committee.

NSA member Jeannie Lewis made the presentation and presented Mrs. Barton with an arrangement of roses.

V.A. Medical Center Director Garland E. Evers introduced the guest speaker whose topic was "Boss and Staff — Keeping Open The Lines of Communication."

Dr. Preston pointed out the importance of being as explicit as possible when trying to express an idea or thought.

"Take time and effort to get ideas across," the energetic speaker stated.

During his hour-long luncheon address, Dr. Preston attempted to give a "10-cent version" of his day-long seminar for the benefit of those secretaries unable to attend all day.

He noted that bosses, as well as staffers, need to be reassured.

Newcomers

C. W. and Kay Dennis were among many new residents welcomed to Big Spring April 11-17 by Newcomer Greeting Service Hostess Joy Fortenberry.

C. W. is employed as a salesman for Shroyer Motor Co. He and his wife are the parents of four children, including Michael, 15; Tommy, 14; Lyndell, 13; and Kimberly, 10. Family favorites are golf, skating, and reading.

Others welcomed by Mrs. Fortenberry were:

WOMAN OF THE YEAR

Emily Ward Woman of Year

Beta Sigma Phi marks its 49th anniversary at awards banquet

By ROBBI CROW
Family News Editor

Amidst a candlelight setting, anxiety and suspense was sensed throughout the atmosphere as members of Beta Sigma Phi awaited the presentation of awards.

K-Bob's Steak House was the place selected for the 49th Anniversary Banquet held April 24 in observance of Founder's Day. Representatives from each local chapter, including Alpha Kappa Omicron, Mu Zeta and Xi Pi Epsilon were in attendance. Serving as mistress of ceremonies was Beta Sigma Phi City Council President Maria Faulkner.

Highlight of this event was the recognition of Emily Ward who was chosen as Howard County Woman of the Year by the sorority.

Making the presentation for this distinguished honor was Jeannie Cunningham.

Mrs. Cunningham began her presentation address stating "Our Howard County Woman of the Year is a very busy woman."

As a compliment to Mrs. Ward's past and present accomplishments and endeavors were recited, Mrs. Cunningham's statement was confirmed.

In addition to being a wife and the mother of two children, Mrs. Ward holds a full time position as Director of Public Relations for Malone-Hogan Hospital. She has served in this capacity for the past 5 years.

HONOR NABBERS
Peggy Payne, Rose Stukel, Pat Tallant

As a member of Commission on Education at the First United Methodist Church, she writes and produces skits and shows for the congregation, averaging two per year and promotes special projects for the church.

She presently serves on several committees, including those of the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival; Chamber of Commerce; Big Spring Herald Citizens Advisory Board; Supervisory Board for Citizens Federal Credit Union; Spring City Council Volunteer Directors, Advisory Board Community Blood Council, and Long Range Planning Council.

Her involvement in professional organizations is also outstanding. She serves as a member of the International Association of Business Communicators, the Texas Society of Hospital Public Relations and the Texas Association of Directors of Volunteers.

For the 1980-82 term, Mrs. Ward was elected Director of the Texas Society of Public Relations, Texas Hospital Association. In 1975 she was chosen to serve on the Public Relations Advisory Board for the Hospital Corporation of America, Nashville, Tenn., a committee composed of 12 public relations specialists selected from the company's 135 hospitals across the nation. The committee acts as consultants for the company in their area.

As Mrs. Ward took the podium, she expressed her true love for the position she holds.

"I have one of the most enviable positions for a woman in Big Spring," she said of her Public Relations job.

Mrs. Ward expressed her interest in people and the importance of personal exchanges."

In closing, this staunch defender of the Stacy Dam project stated "I've been accused of being everything from a conservative to a woman's libber, now here I am Howard County Woman of the Year."

Other presentations made at the annual banquet included Pledges of the Year, Pat Tallant, Alpha Kappa Omicron; and Peggy Payne, Mu Zeta.

Girls of the Year named were Rose Stukel, Alpha Kappa Omicron; Connie Edgemon, Mu Zeta; and Linda Coske, Xi Pi Epsilon.

Beta Sigma Phi of the Year honor was bestowed upon Rose Stukel.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Jay Phinney, a talented vocalist, instrumentalist and composer.

He mesmerized the audience with several of his original compositions, including "Sunshine in the Rain" and "Come and Share My Life with Me."

The Founder's Day Banquet concluded with the presentation of the prize-winning Beta Sigma Phi song which was sung by Ceil Bedell and Barbara Richardson. Linda Miracle accompanied at the piano.

Keep the bugs from biting

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Summer is the ideal time for outdoor activities. Unfortunately, insects that bite and sting think so, too. An issue of Seventeen gives that precautions to help keep the bugs from putting the bite on your summer fun.

Stay away from areas where bees and wasps congregate — trash cans in parks and campgrounds, and fields of flowers and flowering shrubs.

Many people get stung when they step on insects, so always wear shoes when picnicking, camping and hiking. Avoid wearing brightly colored clothing and scented cosmetics or hairspray when in bee or wasp territory.

Dear Abby

Girl Can't Say No And Never Says Yes

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old guy. I saw this pretty girl, so I asked her for her phone number and she gave it to me. I called her up and asked her if she wanted to go out with me, and she said, "I don't care." She told me where she lived so I picked her up. I really fell for this girl, and she must have liked me, too, because we went out a lot after that, but no matter what I asked her, she always said, "I don't care." She has never given me a yes or no!

We are engaged now, and nothing has changed. She still answers every question with, "I don't care."
What is the matter with a girl like that?

A GUY, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

DEAR GUY: She sounds like a girl who can't say no, but whose mother told her never to say yes.

DEAR ABBY: My foreign-born daughter-in-law opened a business on borrowed money in order to bring some of her relatives here. I am entirely sympathetic to this, but what is making me sick with worry is the way my grandchildren are forced to live. They are beautiful and bright. Last summer they went with their mother to the business in the morning and came home with her at night. They did adult work at least eight hours a day. There wasn't time for play or friendships. Since school started, they work after school three or four hours every night and all weekend. These children are now 8 and 9 years old.

My son can provide adequately for his family, but he continues to allow his children to be workhorses. He loves them, but it seems instead of encouraging his wife to become Americanized, he has adopted her lifestyle. This includes using children as laborers.

Are there child labor laws in this state? And if so, is what they are doing illegal?

SLEEPLESS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: The child labor law states that no minor under 14 years of age shall be permitted to work in any gainful occupation, "provided that this law shall not be construed to apply to work in agriculture, domestic service in private homes or in employment by a parent or a person standing in place of a parent."

I share your concern, but it seems that your grandchildren are exempt from the child labor laws. Sorry.

DEAR ABBY: You have said in your column that there is no reason why a man can't be sexually active at 80. My husband interprets this to mean that a man can be just as good sexually at 60 as he was at 25.

Now I have discussed this with my doctor, and he says that as a man grows older his sex drive just naturally diminishes. But with people like you insisting that a man would be able to perform as well at 60 as he did when he was 25, it makes my husband feel inadequate.

Why not just admit that all men slow down, so they won't feel guilty when they do?

WIFE AND REALIST

DEAR REALIST: I have also discussed it with doctors, as well as with gerontologists, and the consensus is that a normal, healthy man can continue to be sexually active as long as he wants to — regardless of his age. In other words, if you don't use it — you lose it.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and have a very important decision to make. I am 28, and this is my first and (I hope) only wedding, and I want it to be perfect. I am having six bridesmaids, a maid of honor and a matron of honor.

All the girls in my wedding party are either a size 8 or 10 — with the exception of the girl who should be my matron of honor, who is at least a size 20. I was her maid of honor when she was married four years ago. She has always been a little on the plump side, but since her marriage she has gained about 40 pounds.

I hate to exclude her from my wedding party, because we grew up together and she has been my closest and dearest friend, but I don't want to embarrass her or myself on what should be the most beautiful day of my life.

What do you think?

UNDECIDED BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Ask your closest and dearest friend to be your matron of honor and don't give it another thought. True beauty comes in all sizes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STEAMING IN NEW YORK: Sorry. In my "be a sweetheart" column, published on St. Valentine's Day, it should have read: "Take a lonely (not homely) girl to lunch."

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ceremony is solemnized in St. Lawrence church

Wedding bells rang Saturday in the St. Lawrence Catholic Church, St. Lawrence, as Rebecca Joann Everett and Larry John Batla were united in marriage.

The candlelight ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Billy de Haas, cousin of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Everett Jr., Ozona. Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Batla, Garden City, are the parents of the groom.

The couple spoke their vows before two spiral candelabrams flanking either side of an archway accented with silk floral arrangements of blue, yellow and white.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Rodney Pyburn and Lani Kay Frerich, organists and Michael Dale Hillger, guitarist. Vocalists were Jacque and Andrea Frerich and Becky and Kim Hirt.

The bride was given in marriage wearing a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned with a Queen Anne Neckline. Matching lace trimmed the Bishop sleeves. Highlighting the skirt, which featured a cathedral-length train, was a tapered pleated center panel. Pearls decorated the fitted bodice.

She chose to wear a two-tiered veil edged in Chantilly lace, which fell from a headpiece adorned with bridal pearls. To accent her ensemble, she carried a silk bouquet of blue, yellow and white flowers.

Gina Everett, Ozona, served her sister as maid of honor. Mrs. Jerry Creel of San Angelo, aunt of the bride, attended as matron of honor.

Bridesmaids included Lisa Steward, McCamey; LaDawn Adeock, Ozona; Mrs. Jody Schwartz and Mrs. Steve Livingston, sisters of the groom, Garden City; Nancy Batla, sister of the groom and Mrs. Mike Batla, sister-in-law of the groom, both of St. Lawrence.

MRS. LARRY JOHN BATLA

Garry Batla, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen included Bubba Everett, Greg Frerich, Jerry Creel, Walter Campbell, Kenny Batla, Mike Batla and Wayne Hirt.

Guests were seated by Jody Schwartz, Steve Livingston, Wade Beasley and Marlin Brown.

The groom's cousin, Heather Hirt, Ruidoso, N.M., served as flower girl, while Justin Southern, Ozona, cousin of the bride, attended as ring bearer.

Following the rite, the newlyweds were feted with a reception in the church parish hall. A supper and dance followed.

The bride is an Ozona High School graduate and is presently attending Angelo State University. The groom is a graduate of Garden City High School and is employed by the St. Lawrence Gin Co. The couple will reside in St. Lawrence.

PLANS REVEALED — Mr. and Mrs. Farris Hammond, Big Spring, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Beckie to Dwight Lynn Harrill. The couple will marry June 21 in Las Vegas, Nev.

Cosmetics versus eye health

FOREST GROVE, Ore (AP) — Women are concerned about the relationship of cosmetic use to eye health, especially if they wear or plan to wear contact lenses, say two women who have undertaken research on the problem.

The Pacific University College of Optometry students, Nancy Jones of Everett, Wash., and Amy Postma of Kapaa, Hawaii, who say no previous research on this topic has been reported, hope to publish a paper on their study in an optometry journal.

Because they wanted to use virgin cosmetic wearers, they selected 12 male subjects. All are optometry students, so they were sympathetic to the project, the researchers report.

Three brands of eye shadow and mascara were used — water soluble, water non-soluble, and waterproof. The male subjects wore the makeup on one eye at a time. The non-made-up eye was the control eye. They kept the makeup on a minimum of eight hours a day.

One type of makeup was used for four days on one eye and then switched for a four-day period to the other eye. Then the subjects had five days off before starting on the next brand.

The researchers used special cameras to take pictures of the tear film and inverted eyelids of their subjects to record the amount of cosmetics found in the tear film and under the eyelids. Each subject also filled out questionnaires on his symptoms.

Ms. Jones and Ms. Postma then correlated the subject's symptoms with the data collected through their observations.

Their general conclusion was that there was no significant difference among the results obtained when the subjects wore each of the three types of cosmetics. However, some of the subjects reported problems with each of the cosmetics when cleaning cosmetic particles off the contact lenses.

These same subjects also reported general discomfort with cosmetic wear. Thus, the problems associated with cosmetic use and contact lens wear appear to be due to individual reaction and not due to a specific cosmetic product.

More research, especially long term, needs to be done on this topic to adequately define the cause-effect relationship, says Dr. Diane Yoltom of the Pacific College of Optometry faculty, who is the advisor for the project.

The students report that for the most part the cosmetic companies were cooperative in the research, two of them providing cosmetics and another calling several times for progress reports.

The men wore the cosmetics both on and off campus — wherever they went. Most of their acquaintances did not notice that they were wearing makeup on one eye.

The research project is supported by a national grant from Beta Sigma Kappa, International Optometry honor fraternity.

Menswear for spring

COLLEGE STATION — Menswear for spring, 1980, looks to "lifestyle" for its inspiration, says Nancy Brown, a clothing specialist. Styles start with a silhouette that combines a sharp, nipped-in waist with crisp-looking fabrics, and then they go "elegant" for dresswear or "space-age" in clothes-for-fun.

Special moods include Hawaiian, nautical and western looks — all strong for spring.

"Style specifics" will include preppie-look sweaters, blouson jackets, linen looks, and two-piece suits," Miss Brown says.

The specialist is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To "top off" today's menswear, shirts are mainly classic, in traditional fabrics — cotton, linen, seersucker and oxford with windowpane textures and classic striping.

Collars will stay in small neat points, both on shirts and jackets.

Sweater popularity will focus on "seersucker look" string-knit items, in addition to real seersucker.

Lots of imaginative pocket treatments give today's slacks and jeans added interest.

Miscarriage risk not increased

Does having an abortion increase the risk of miscarriage if you have a wanted pregnancy later on?

Apparently not, according to a study of more than 3,500 women carried out at the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in Walnut Creek California.

The "Here's News in Medicine" column in the current Family Circle magazine says the study showed no increase in risk in 1,493 of the women who had abortions after already having a child, and only a small increase in risk among the 2,019 who never had children.

Even that small risk among the latter has been eliminated since 1973, notes the Family Circle column, when the dilation and curettage abortion technique was replaced by suction and the use of kelp.

Kelp, which grows in the sea, swells after it's inserted in the cervix and dilates it gently over a period of hours.

This eliminates the need for instrumental dilation, which may sometimes injure the cervix — especially in a woman who never had a child.

Include bread in the diet

COLLEGE STATION — Include bread in the diet — even when trying to lose weight, advises Marilyn Haggard, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Breads are an inexpensive source of thiamin, iron and riboflavin. They also provide protein and are a major source of protein in vegetarian diets."

"In addition, whole grain breads provide a bonus of magnesium, folic acid and fiber," Miss Haggard says.

Generally, the food items put on bread are higher in calories than the bread itself. For instance, a slice of white bread contains only about 65 to 75 calories.

Add a pat of margarine, 35 calories, and a tablespoon of jelly, 50 calories, and the calorie count is more than doubled, she points out.

Four servings of bread are recommended in the daily diet.

One serving might include one slice of bread, one tortilla or one biscuit. Each half of a hamburger or hot dog bun is one serving.

Other bread-and-cereal-group food servings are 1/2 to 3/4 cup cooked cereal, cornmeal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti, or one ounce ready-to-eat cereal, Miss Haggard adds.

Focus on Family Living

Read food labels

From JANET ROGERS
County Extension Agent

Read meat and poultry food labels.

Any prepared food product such as canned spaghetti and meatballs or chicken pot pies containing more than three percent meat or at least two percent poultry is subject to government inspection rules.

The labels of these products must contain certain information. This will help the homemaker to plan her meals so that family members are getting enough of the required nutrients.

In addition, this information will aid anyone who is on a special diet and must know the ingredients present in the product, as well as the nutritive value of the food item.

Look for the following information on meat and poultry food labels:

Product name which must be defined by a truthful standard, the common or usual name or descriptive name.

The product 'beef with gravy' must contain at least 50 percent cooked beef, but 'gravy with beef' must contain a minimum of 35 percent cooked beef.

Ingredients must be listed in order with the ingredient present in the greatest amount listed first and so on down to the least. Spices may be stated simply as 'spices' and 'flavorings' without naming each.

Net quantity must be an accurate measure of the contents, stated in pounds and/or ounces. The container weight is not included.

A USDA inspection mark must appear on all packaged meat or poultry food products that have been federally inspected and approved for wholesomeness.

State inspection marks are required on state-inspected products.

Firm name and address may include that of the manufacturer, packer, or distributor of the product.

Special handling instructions must go on the label of perishable products. Examples are: 'Keep frozen' and 'Keep refrigerated.'

Nutritional information is not required, but some processors voluntarily put it on their labels.

When used, nutritional information is based on an individual serving.

The label will state: —the size of a serving in common household terms such as ounces, cups, slices, pieces,

—the number of servings in the container,

—the calories and the protein, carbohydrate, and fat content per serving, and —the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA's) of protein and important vitamins and minerals.

Open dating (a calendar date on packaged food) is not mandatory.

When used, however, it must be easily read and understood. The date may represent the last date to sell, the last date of peak quality or the date of packaging or processing. The packer must indicate what the date represents.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — At age 3, Christopher Ascarte has been kidnapped twice.

His mother, Lorie Kestler, is accused of snatching him at a California supermarket and spiriting him away to the little Utah town of Beaver.

Three months later, two men grabbed the boy out of her car on Main Street.

With police in pursuit, the men sped four miles to an air strip and jumped in a plane that Christopher's father, Max Ascarte, had kept hiding. The police car, siren blaring, chased the plane down the runway, coming within 10 feet of the aircraft.

It was right out of the movies," says Earl Dorius, who is handling the case for the Utah Attorney General's office. Both parents face criminal charges of child snatching — he in Utah and she in California.

But with as many as three child snatchings in Utah in one month alone, and national estimates of 25,000 to 30,000 each year, authorities in several states are trying to find civil rather than traditional criminal remedies for what is sometimes called custodial interference.

"There's been quite a dramatic increase in the last five years of child-stealing extraditions. It's a rather common occurrence and a widespread problem in the country," said Dorius.

"We're trying to work out a harmonious solution without trying to put two parents in jail," he said. "They get really ugly. A lot of emotions run very high."

The states' efforts to solve the problem seem at variance with a bill currently under congressional consideration. The measure would make child snatching a federal crime, with a penalty of six months in prison for parents who kidnap their children.

The Carter administration opposes the bill because of the cost — an estimated $200,000 a year for investigators from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — and because it would put the FBI in the midst of domestic squabbles.

Utah has joined 17 other states in passing an act that establishes uniform criteria for "which is the best court to resolve the issue of custody," Dorius said. "It requires courts of different states to work together rather than have this battle of judgments with spouses going to court in different states."

Tina Falvo, extradition secretary for Gov. Scott Matheson, said the case of Christopher Ascarte was already in the criminal courts, with both states seeking extradition, when Matheson stepped in and sent letters to both parties.

"I am personally opposed to the use of the extradition process in criminal proceedings to resolve what I perceive to be a highly emotional, domestic dispute," the governor wrote. "The preferred remedy of course would be a full hearing of the issue of custody where both parents are present and can testify. Criminal prosecution of each parent would hardly be in the best interests of the children."

In another case — this one resolved — A Colorado woman snatched her 12-year-old daughter who had become "distracted and despondent" living with her father, Dorius said.

The mother "snatched the child from school, pulled up roots and came to Utah and settled here," he said. The father sought extradition of his former wife, but Utah authorities explained the "mother's side of the story" to the Colorado prosecutor, who then withdrew criminal charges.

In a third case, Matheson refused to honor an extradition request from California where a district attorney wanted to prosecute a Utah man for child snatching against the wishes of the man's divorced wife, from whom the child had been taken.

Dorius said the woman had initially asked for the prosecution, but then changed her mind. "My children think I'm a wicked person for wanting to put Daddy in jail," Dorius said the woman had told him.

After studying both sides of the issue, Dorius said, "We felt the equities were on the father's side and he should not be prosecuted. We tried to get the DA to back off."

In all cases, "We start with the premise that the child's interest is paramount," Dorius said.

Lowell Isom, child welfare supervisor for the Family Services Division in Salt Lake County, said the child who is snatched by one parent from another is likely to have severe readjustment problems.

"The child is being pulled from one parent to another. You wonder what kind of mental stability this gives him."

Adjusting to prematurity problems

When a premature baby is born, the child often instantly becomes the center of an intense emotional and medical struggle concentrating on the infant's survival.

In many cases, the parents' intense struggle with their own special set of problems is overlooked.

Problems start for parents immediately after delivery. The mother must work through four major stages of the prematurity crisis: 1) preparing for possible loss of the baby; 2) acknowledging feelings of failure for having an unhealthy baby; 3) returning to readiness to relate to the baby once survival is assured; 4) coping with the infant's special needs.

The last step means parents' troubles are not over even after the baby comes home from the hospital, according to an article in a recent issue of Texas Medicine, the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal.

After having doctors, nurses and advanced equipment around to take care of the baby, suddenly parents are left alone with a child that often still has several medical problems, cries a lot and requires frequent feedings.

These stresses are compounded by parents' worries if the child develops slowly or has disturbances common to premature infants such as problems sleeping or paying attention.

Luckily medical treatment keeps many premature infants from suffering intellectual handicaps but many still run the risk of having learning disabilities or trouble with school work, especially reading and mathematics, that will show up as they grow older.

Bride-to-be behind bars

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The bride-to-be, en route to a Lake Tahoe area chapel, had her plans for wedding bells shattered by the clatter of a bank alarm.

Patricia Valencia, according to Alameda County Sheriff's deputies, told her fiance she needed to make a quick stop last Saturday to withdraw money from a savings account to help cover honeymoon expenses.

Jimmy Feo pulled his van over outside World Savings and Loan Association in this suburban community across the bay from San Francisco, deputies said.

Ms. Valencia ran inside and deputies allege she handed a teller a note demanding money. The teller pushed an alarm button, and the woman ran outside, authorities said.

Sheriff's deputies said she jumped in the back of the van and told Feo to take her to a restroom.

After questioning, Feo was released. He was left with two wedding bands and a beaded lace veil.

Ms. Valencia, 36, was arraigned on bank robbery charges Monday and was jailed in lieu of $15,000 bail.

The truth about senility

The fear of growing old and becoming senile has replaced the fear of early death, according to science writer, Lawrence Galton, in his new book, "The Truth About Senility and How To Avoid It."

"Senility is not a natural accompaniment of old age, writes Mr. Galton, and what is called senility may be a 'pseudosenility' which can be avoided or if present, erased.

He describes the changes that do and do not normally occur with aging, and conditions that contribute to senility.

He gives specific information on what he terms are "correctables," also describing help that is available to treat physical and emotional problems in the elderly. A chapter on "The Frontiers" discusses new research and offers new hope.

Alpha Tau Rho plans bake and craft sale

Alpha Tau Rho chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Sheri Lepard. Ten members were present. Mrs. Lepard led a discussion on "Living Loveliness."

In other business the chapter members discussed the upcoming Bake and Craft sale to be held May 3 in front of the old bank building.

The sale will begin at 9 a.m. Handmade crafts, homemade cakes, pies, candy and cookies will be sold.

Members were advised to start making their plans to attend the Beta Sigma Phi State Convention to be held June 20, 21 and 22 in Amarillo.

The next meeting will be held Monday in the Signal Mountain Room of the Coahoma State Bank. The members will celebrate Founder's Day with a salad supper and an awards ceremony at that time.

Officers and committee chairmen will be recognized for their contributions and awards for Girl of the Year and Pledge of the Year will be made.

Cactus Chapter, ABWA chooses Woman of Year

Highlighting the meeting of the American Business Women Association Cactus Chapter April 21, was the selection of Essie Jackson as "Woman of the Year" for 1980-81. Chosen from within the membership, Mrs. Jackson has qualified herself well for this distinction.

Mrs. Jackson is supervisor of the collection department of the First National Bank. Her duties include the responsibility for all incoming collections and outgoing non-cash collections. Mrs. Jackson and her one helper sell travelers checks and money orders, and make cash advances on Master Charge and Visa. In addition, they handle the transfer of funds for customers to other banks and bank funds from one bank to another.

Mrs. Jackson graduated from Chireno High School at Chireno, Tex., and attended Stephen F. Austin University at Nacogdoches on year, taking a business course. She took banking courses at Howard College.

The letter of nomination was submitted by Frances Swann and read by Helen McDonald. Tellers Ruth Manuel and Esther Trantham canvassed the vote and declared Mrs. Jackson to be the winner. Mrs. Jackson is now eligible to enter competition for the 1980-81 Top Ten Business Women of ABWA and the "American Business Woman of the Year" awards at the ABWA 1980 National Convention Oct. 30-Nov. 2, in Phoenix, Ariz.

The chapter heard Garlond Evers, director of the Veterans Administration Medical Center, explain the many facets of VAMC and services. The Big Spring facility serves 54 West Texas counties and one New Mexico county. Having been put into service in 1950 at a cost of six million dollars, It's that easy!

When you rip one stocking from a pair of nylons, save the "good" stocking and you can save yourself money.

Here's a tip from the "Reader's Idea Exchange" volume in the current Family Circle magazine, on how to get all the odd stockings the same shade — without dyeing them:

Place them in a pan of lukewarm water with one or two teaspoons of mild soap powder. Bring to a gentle boil and simmer for twenty minutes or so. Rinse in very cold water and dry. It's that easy!

the same plant would cost upwards of sixty-five to seventy-five million to replace today. Mr. Evers attempted to impress upon the group how proud they and Big Spring should be to have the facility in its midst.

VAMC has 375 employees, 223 immediate care beds, 40 beds for extended nursing care and 22 to 24,000 outpatients seen each year. Recently psychiatric inpatient care has been added. Modernization and enlargement of out-patient facilities are a continuing goal.

Margaret Wiles, president, provided over the business meeting and was awarded a "Hand of Friendship Award" in the form of a pearl guard for her chapter pin. Frances Swann and Ruth Manuel reported on their attendance at the ABWA District Meeting held in Lubbock. Vonna Lee Davis gave the vocational talk and Josephine Garcia led the Invocation and Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Gail Earls reported on the Cinderella Girl Pageant and announced the district contest in Big Spring May 16 and 17.

Thirty-two members and guest Sandy Henderson attended.

TwEEN 12 and 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

It's rhyme time

It's time for a refreshing poetry break. One of my many enjoyable "chores" is selecting three from the several hundred that each month are sent to me. It's difficult only because there are so many superior teen poets.

I'm happy to introduce three young ladies and two are on either side of teenage. Sherri Pinelli, 9, lives in Anaheim, Calif., Kim Collins, 15, hails from Fredrickton, New Brunswick, in beautiful eastern Canada, and Kim Moore, 20, is from Astoria, Ore. Welcome.

THIRTEEN IS NOTHING AT ALL
On March 15, a very special eve
An immature brat, I, on my bed lay Waiting for midnight, the magic hour that would bring my much needed
MATURITY
For you see, I'll be 13, a marvelous age.
And all would be fun, exciting and daring.

I will be pretty, boys staring at my great body so tall and slim, and all those neat clothes for it to fit in.

But how alarming, so busy in thought
I forgot the time, it past 12 o'clock and I don't feel different no different at all.
What happened to dreams of beauty and poise and ... good-looking boys?

I've been robbed of my dreams those great and small — thirteen is nothing
NOTHING AT ALL — Kim Collins, Fredrickton, New Brunswick, Canada

THE DAY I WENT TO THE PARK
I went to a park to play on a swing
I heard a bird who knew how to sing
I played with glee on a silvery ring
I had my lunch with a nice old king

And flew straight home on a golden wing. — Sherri Pinelli, Anaheim, Calif.

FOLLOWING DREAMS
I've walked on endless roads to here or there ... or maybe nowhere at all.
followed paths and alleyways and trails that never were.

sought something in life.
not knowing what something more than what I've found.
maybe nothing at all.

following dreams is becoming a way of life. — Kim Moore, Astoria, Ore.

MRS. LYNN C. (CHARLOTTE) WINTERS
First Place Regional Winner

In cake decorating Mrs. Lynn Winters is regional winner

Mrs. Lynn C. (Charlotte) Winters, 1602 Mesquite, won awards on two decorated cakes in the South Plains Regional Show at Lubbock April 19-20.

Mrs. Winters has won first place in the four shows she has entered in the three years she has been decorating cakes.

The competition was held at Lubbock with 200 entries from three states, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Mrs. Winters' chocolate rolled fondant cake with chocolate roses and leaves won the first place ribbon in the special techniques division and third place ribbon in the show.

A pink three-tiered wedding or anniversary cake, also a rolled fondant, won first place in the wedding cake division, first place in the show, special award for best use of color combinations, a Wilton gold medal and a special cash award from Maid of Scandinavia, also rating high in the People's Choice Award.

The wedding cake was pale pink with a spray of gum paste roses, petunias, tiny blossoms, rose buds and violets ranging from pale to bright pink and on to burgundy.

The semi-annual meeting of Decorators of Texas Share (DOTS) was held after the show Sunday to plan the international show to be held in Albuquerque, N.M. in September. This show will be a workshop with demonstrations from the best instructors world-wide.

Mrs. Winters is a therapist technician in the education department of the Big Spring State Hospital. She said, "I have found cake decorating to be a soothing and relaxing hobby and a therapy that works well with the special education children that I work with."

Dressing right may mean the honeymoon won't end

Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue. Everyone knows what the bride is supposed to wear, but what about the bridegroom?

There is no reason for the bridegroom to feel like an accessory at that most special of times. After all it's his wedding day and honeymoon too.

"In an age of liberated men and women, it is time that men recognize that they need a wedding trousseau too," said Burton B. Ruby, President of Jaymar-Ruby, the nation's largest manufacturer of men's quality slacks and a trend-setter in sportswear.

Many young men headed for the altar don't know that a traditional formal daytime wedding calls for a lightweight oxford gray or black cutaway coat, black striped slacks and a white plain or pleated shirt.

Proper attire for the bridegroom at a semi-formal day-time wedding includes a single- or double-breasted dinner jacket in white or colors and matching or contrasting slacks with satin stripes.

While the bride's family traditionally pays for the wedding and reception, the bridegroom is responsible

Follow safety tips for spring cleaning

Time for spring cleanup is here and it's time to check the yard and house for safety hazards.

Accidents in and around the home account for 23,000 deaths a year and 3.5 million disabling injuries. The National Safety Council reports that of the 23,000 deaths, 7,400 are from falls, 5,100 from fires and 3,800 from poisoning.

The following safety tips can help prevent injury or death to the homeowner or to a member of the family, according to an Allstate Insurance Company spokesperson:

Spring cleaning may involve the use of household chemicals. Be sure to read the labels carefully and never mix cleaning agents unless the bottle says it's safe to do so.

Free the yard of loose debris and fallen branches.

the ground so that its distance from the house is at least one-fourth the length of the ladder. It's also a good idea to get some help when carrying a ladder. Its weight can put a potentially harmful strain on your back.

Never stand on a chair or stack of items to reach those hard-to-get places. Use a safety-approved stepladder.

Spring is also a good time to check out a home's electrical system. Insulation on extension cords and other circuits should be checked for wear and proper grounding. Don't "play the expert." Serious electrical problems should be checked out by a licensed electrician.

Working women and heart disease

The incidence of coronary heart disease among working women is not significantly higher than that of housewives, according to the results of an eight-year study, which formed part of the Framingham (Mass.) investigations.

It compared findings on 465 working women, 466 housewives and 722 men, all between the ages of 45-74.

Working women and housewives reported identical but notably more symptoms of emotional lability, tension-anxiety and anger than men. Both working women and men scored higher on scales reflecting "type A behavior."

Such individuals are often impatient, competitive, driven by deadlines, often ignoring fatigue. Working women said they experienced greater daily stress and marital dissatisfaction than the other two groups and were more likely to suppress hostility.

Forget about fashion no-no's

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Forget what they used to say about fashion dos and don'ts. The new rule is if it looks good wear it, says a recent issue of Seventeen.

Anyone can wear a belt the way it's supposed to be worn. So be a little different and buckle your belt backwards! This looks especially good wrapped around a body-hugging T dress.

Used to be, shorts were for the beach only — or your backyard. But when they're waist-pleated, baggy walking shorts, they can go anywhere a skirt can go. Especially when you team them with a pair of bright tights and sweater.

Think sweat pants are just for jogging? Now you can tuck them into bright cowboy boots, add a neat shirt and wear them wherever you'd wear regular pants.

There was a time when hemlines had to be just so. If Paris said skirts were long, that's how we wore them. No more. Now your hemline should stop — anywhere you want.

Just because someone told you pink shouldn't be worn with red doesn't mean that that someone was right. Pink and red can look smashing together, so if the spirit moves you, get out your favorite pink sweater and match it with those red pants tucked away in the closet.

When it comes to fashion, let your mirror be your guide. If you think it looks terrific, defy convention and wear it!

Dessert your diet

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Now you can have your dessert and diet too, says a recent issue of Seventeen. You can save on sugar if you use spices (like cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, ginger) and flavorings (like vanilla) that give an illusion of sweetness.

Cut down on fat by substituting fortified skin milk for whole milk in your recipes — you'll get the same nutrients at half the calories.

Another not-so-obvious calorie cutter is to use a nonstick cooking spray instead of butter to grease baking pans.

The low-cal desserts below will even please non-dieters.

- CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES
By using diet margarine, you cut your margarine-calorie intake in half.
- 1 cup flour
 - ½ teaspoon baking soda
 - ½ teaspoon salt
 - ½ cup diet margarine
 - 1-3rd cup firmly packed brown sugar
 - 9 individual-size packets granulated sugar substitute
 - 1½ teaspoons vanilla
 - 1 egg
 - ½ cup semisweet chocolate morsels
 - ½ cup chopped walnuts
- Preheat oven to 375 deg. F. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt; set aside. Beat margarine, brown sugar, sugar substitute, vanilla and egg until blended. Blend into flour mixture. Stir in chocolate morsels and walnuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on nonstick cookie sheet, leaving 1" between cookies. Bake for 8 min., or until golden. Makes about 50 cookies, 33 calories each.
- COCOA MERINGUE KISSES
Using cocoa instead of chocolate, you get the flavor but only part of the fat.
- 3 egg whites
 - Pinch of salt
 - ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
 - 1 cup granulated sugar
 - 2 tablespoons cocoa
- Beat egg whites with salt until frothy. Add cream of tartar and continue beating until soft peaks form; gradually beat in sugar. Cont. beating until whites are very stiff. Add cocoa, and beat until blended. Preheat oven to 275 deg. F. Spray cookie sheets with vegetable cooking spray. Fit a pastry bag with a large star tube, and fill bag with meringue; pipe stars about 1" across. Bake 25 min. Place on cooling rack. Makes about 54 cookies, 16 cal. each.

Denita's Beauty Basics

Q: My skin seems to be dry, but I have "rash" type bumps on my cheeks. What can I do to clear this up?

A: Make sure that your Toner or Astringent is not too strong for your particular skin type.

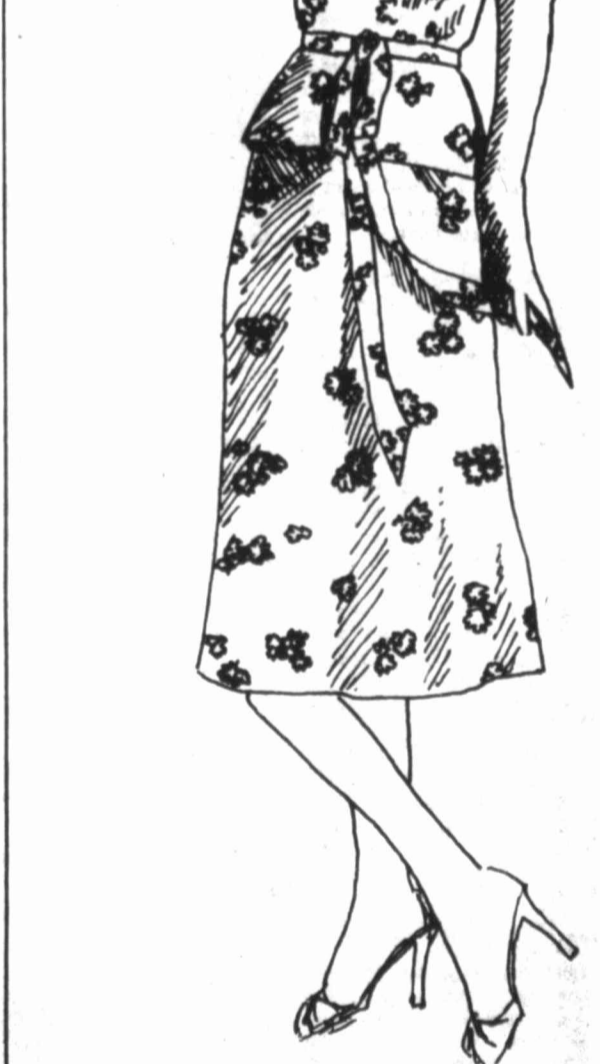

Also, it is very possible that you could be manufacturing your own problem by over-lubricating your complexion with moisturizer. It would be better too, to use a powder blusher rather than a cream.

Soap operas are not all froth

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Whether you're stuck on TV soap operas or just a casual observer, you may find that the soaps' characters can help you get a better focus on your own life.

"The characters on these shows represent permanent friends in a transient world, where families move on an average of once in every five years," says Dr. Valentine Rossilli Winsey, an associate professor at Pace University in New York and author of the syndicated "Dear Val" column. "The reliability of soaps can be comforting and reassuring. They become a frame of reference," adds Dr. Winsey.

The programs can also show viewers that it's all right to express feelings. "On soaps, every passing emotion is spoken out loud," says Dr. Winsey. "This can give the viewer important, relevant clues about how to deal with her own thoughts and feelings." She does warn, however, that soap opera situations are exaggerations and that it is dangerous to submerge oneself too deeply in that
