Bus plunges into Tampa Bay; 31 die

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A 609-foot freighter rammed the Sunshine Skyway Bridge at rush hour today, tearing away a large section of the 15-mile span and sending a Greyhound bus plunging 140 feet into Tampa Bay. At least 31 persons were killed, the Coast Guard said.

Coast Guard spokesman Russell Woodall said a bus, two cars and a truck plunged into the bay.

He said there were reports that the bus landed on top of the cars in the water.

Phillip Biebender, a Coast Guard spokesman in St. Petersburg said 17 bodies were recovered within hours after the freighter Summit Venture hit the bridge in a thundershower. The accident occurred during the morning rush hour.

The bus was resting in 20 feet of water.

About 300 feet of the bridge collapsed where it crosses the main shipping channel.

One car was seen hanging over the edge of the torn bridge but its four occupants crawled to safety.

Richard Hornbuckle, 60, of St. Petersburg, driver of the car, said, "It was raining cats and dogs. It was dark. The wind was blowing like a hurricane."

"I was doing about 25 mph; the Greyhound bus passed me doing about 35. There was a stalled car in front. As I came to the very top of the bridge, I saw the rest of it was out. I applied my brakes immediately and stopped within 2 feet of going in. I bailed out and went back to stop other cars."

"We got all the other cars stopped. I looked down and saw my car with all four doors open. I figured the Lord was real good to the four of us."

Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Paul Scott said authorities at first believed 90 persons may have drowned because they thought the bus was filled.

But Robert Rodriguez, a local manager for Greyhound, said the bus was carrying 22 passengers and a driver.

Rodriguez said the bus left St. Petersburg for Miami at 7:05 a.m. and did not arrive as scheduled in Bradenton, on the other side of the bay.

Authorities said it appeared the passenger car and the bus had just passed a slower moving vehicle on the bridge when they sped onto the torn section. The bus plunged over the edge and into the bay, but the car was able to stop barely in time.

Divers from the local sheriff's department were dispatched to the area to search for survivors.

Scott said it was unlikely there were any more survivors. He said no other persons were seen bobbing in the water and there probably was no air pocket in the submerged bus.

"It's been more than two hours since that bus went under," Scott said.

The Summit Venture was heading north when it apparently hit one of the spans on fixed bridge that climbs up steeply to 803 feet where ships are supposed to go under. The vessel struck the bridge at the point where it starts to slope steeply upward. The ship became lodged in the bridge.

A 289-foot span between supports of the bridge was completely knocked and another span of equal size was hanging. The ship was towed away from the bridge.

Divers from the local sheriff's department were dispatched to the area to search for survivors.

"We don't know how many other people might have gone in," said Chief Paul Scott, a Coast Guard spokesman in Miami. "But we've got a report of a bus and some cars going off."

He said Coast Guard rescue personnel spotted two bodies in the water but could not immediately recover them. He said one survivor was pulled out by the Coast Guard.

Scott said one of the spans at the south end of the bridge, which soars over the mouth of Tampa Bay between St. Petersburg and Bradenton, was knocked out when hit by a ship at 7:38 a.m.

"There was a thundershower at the bridge at the time, and visibility was zero," Scott said.

Sgt. Jim Kelley of the Hillsborough County Sheriff's Office in Tampa said there had been wreck on the bridge shortly before the ship hit.

"A (state) trooper was investigating an accident when it happened," said Kelley. He said several sheriff's divers were sent to the scene to help in the rescue.

The Sunshine Skyway is a 15-mile bridge-causeway with twin roadbeds. It crosses Tampa Bay at St. Petersburg. The skyway is a system of twin bridges 864 feet long and four smaller bridges with six causeways.

Uncle Sam slow as cold molasses

Who says the federal government isn't responsive to the needs of us little folks?

City Attorney Elliott Mitchell received a call, Thursday afternoon, from a Mrs. Green with the Justice Department. She wanted to advise him of steps that would have to be taken in order to consolidate the polling places for the runoff election for Place 2 on the city council.

It was Mitchell's sad duty to inform Mrs. Green that the election was held nearly three weeks ago.

"To be fair to the Justice Department, we were supposed to have submitted that request (for polling place consolidation) 60 days before the election," said Mitchell. "But I really can't be sure if that would have been enough time either."

FLORIDA TRAGEDY — The bow of the freighter Summit Adventure sits amid the superstructure of the Sunshine Skyway Bridge after an early morning accident when the ship hit the bridge. A Greyhound bus was dumped into the water, killing at least 31 persons.

Planning group audits books

Employee embezzled funds?

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission is currently conducting a complete audit of its operations after an employee was caught embezzling funds.

Ector County Judge Gary Watkins, who is a member of the commission's board, said, "There have been funds taken. There is probably going to be some criminal prosecution involved."

Commission Executive Director Ernie Crawford discovered a fund shortage within the agency sometime in April, Watkins said. Internal investigation by Crawford after his discovery started to point to a possible misappropriation by an employee there.

Crawford called a meeting on April 15 of the officers of the board of directors. The officers voted for an audit.

Crawford told the Herald this week, "We know that funds were misused by an individual. We are in the process of verifying all payments made to us by state and federal agencies."

Officials with PBRPC have declined to identify the individual.

"The individual has been pretty well identified," Watkins said. "My concern is prejudicing any statements he or she made."

Big Spring City Councilman Jack Y. Smith, the city's representative on the commission, told the Herald that Crawford had written him informing him of a possible misappropriation of funds. Smith said Crawford's estimate of the amount taken was $20,000.

Crawford has refused to confirm an amount and what was involved in the misappropriation. He did say that law enforcement officials have been contacted on the matter.

The report from the auditors will not be released until the next meeting of the commission's board of directors.

"It will not be made public until the board meeting on May 21," Crawford added. "It is not public record until the auditors complete their work and write their report."

Crawford added, "I basically know what the results will be." The suspected employee, meanwhile, has been released from the commission's payroll.

PBRPC is one of 24 area review agencies in the state of Texas. The commission serves to study federal and state grant applications made by West Texas political entities. The commission also functions as a coordinator of public services within a 16-county area.

The Permian Basin Commission consists of 16 counties, five school and college districts, 25 municipalities, nine soil and water districts and two hospital districts. Both Howard County and the city of Big Spring are members.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Newspaper costs

Q. The price of a newspaper cost 5 cents in 1930 and is 20 cents today. That's an increase of 200 percent. Why so much?

A. Newspapers held the line longer than any other industry on price increases, but they were victims of inflation like every other business. As an example, newsprint costs $62 a ton in 1930. Last year, it rose to $378 a ton and is still going up. The payroll of the average newspaper likely is ten times what it was 40 years ago.

Calendar: Political conventions

TODAY
Houston Oiler Billy "Whiteshoes" Johnson will speak at the University Scholastic League banquet at 8 p.m. at the St. Lawrence Parish Hall in St. Lawrence. Cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for Garden City students.

SATURDAY
A phone survey will be conducted today and Sunday to determine health care needs in Big Spring.

The Howard County Library will show two films from 1:30 p.m. until 2:30 p.m. They are: "Tutankhamun: The Immortal Pharaoh" and "Cicero: The Queen's Drum Horse."

United Girls' Softball League will have a parade at 4 p.m. starting at 10th and Main. Opening ceremonies of the season will be at 5 p.m. at the softball complex. Call Jane Upton at 7-8901 for details.

Baton twirling lessons at YMCA, 11 a.m. until noon. Tips will be provided the next four Saturdays.

Republicans call county convention for 1 p.m. in 118th District Courtroom.

Howard County Democrats will gather at the county convention at 7:30 p.m. in 118th District Courtroom.

Howard County Youth Horseman Club Open All Breed Horse and Barrel Racing at 10 a.m. at the HCYHC arena 1/2 mile off Highway 87 on the Garden City Highway. The public is invited.

Tops on TV: 'The Love Tapes'

Those who caught the first half will want to tune in on the action-packed climax of "King Kong" airing at 7 o'clock tonight on NBC. For a romantic tale about slightly better matched couples than Kong and his date watch "The Love Tapes" at 8 o'clock on ABC. Mariette Hartley and Loretta Swit star as a couple of ladies looking for love with the perfect partner through a videotape dating service. Late-night viewers shouldn't miss "After The Thin Man," airing at 11 p.m. on Cable Channel 11. It's almost as good as "The Thin Man."

Inside: 'Greatest psychotherapy'

THREE YEARS AGO, Jorge Gonzalez of Bogota, Colombia, was a bizarre, malnourished child, with oversized ears, a pointed chin, a tiny mouth — and no tongue. Since then, he has been transformed — and his life turned around — by plastic surgery at a New York hospital. See page 12-A.

YOU WON'T FIND fight attendants doubling as roughnecks, but American Airlines is dipping a tentative toe into the oil business. See page 6-A.

Outside: Cloudy

Partly cloudy and fair tonight and Saturday. Warmer Saturday afternoon. High today in the low 80s, low tonight in the upper 50s. High Saturday in the mid 90s. Winds will be from the south at 15 to 20 mph today and gusty, 10 to 15 mph tonight.

Coming Sunday in the Herald: Moms, baseball and politics

Featured on page 1-C in Sunday's Herald will be a story by Family News Editor Robbi Crow on three extra-special mothers whose roles in motherhood are extraordinary. A single mom, a mom who performs her motherly duties from a wheelchair and a mother who lost her only child in the Vietnam War will tell it like it is.

Longtime Glascock County resident Jennie Teele talks about the changes in the county and lifestyles over the past 74 years.

Mother's Day is Sunday and several mothers and their daughters have things to say about each other.

One week after his stunning upset, Larry Don Shaw talks of his election to the Texas Legislature.

Trustees hire BSHS principal

By DON WOODS
William A. McQueary, New Caney, has been chosen as Big Spring High School principal by the school district board of trustees.

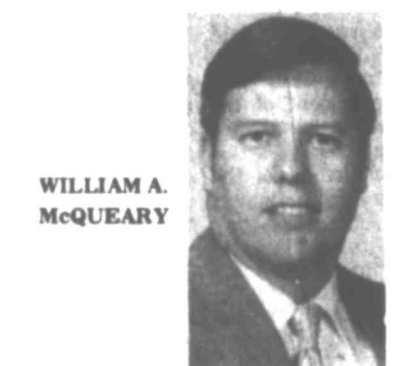

"I guess the bottom line," said McQueary, "is that right now I have a principal's job in part of the Houston suburbia sprawl." He has three sons that he feels could be raised better in Big Spring. "I'm from Mineral Wells, which is on the verge of that area, and my wife has lived in Midland," said McQueary in a telephone interview this morning.

The trustees made the selection in their Thursday night regular meeting. Former principal John S. Smith was given an administrative position earlier this year.

McQueary, who received his training at North Texas State University and Texas A and M and graduated from there, has been principal at 1,300 student New Caney High School since 1977.

He is married and has three sons; Tim, Toby, and Tom. He and his wife plan to move here sometime between now and July 1 when his job officially starts.

He received his bachelor of science degree from Texas A and M as well as his graduate degree and graduate work from 1969 to 1973. He majored in Educational Administration.

WILLIAM A. McQUEARY

He is a certified professional life teacher, principal and superintendent.

McQueary was a teacher and counselor at Georgetown High School from 1967 to 1970. He was a teacher at LaVega High School from 1970 to 1971. He was assistant principal at Marilyn High School from 1971 to 1973.

He was principal from 1973 to 1977 at 500 student Rosebud-Lott High School.

McQueary is 36 years of age, six-foot tall and weighs 205 pounds.

Architect Daryle Hohertz was selected to design a structure for storage and restrooms at the new track in Blankenship Field. Cost of the structure will be $35,000 including architectural fees.

The district received $100,000 in donation for building the track. Cost of the track and field facilities will be $55,362.72; stands will be $19,000. Cost of the storage and restroom facility brings the total to $109,362.72.

Interest on the donation through July is $8,516 for a total of $108,516. "It was almost a wash-out," said Assistant Superintendent of Business Don Crockett.

The current tax assessment ratio for school taxes of 75 percent of market value of property was raised to 100 percent in accordance with Senate Bill 621. However, the increase does not mean taxes will be raised.

This action was taken one year in advance of the mandatory requirement by the state.

Trustees emphasized that it was not known if taxes would be lower or higher until the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board submits property valuation figures in June and the school board approves a budget.

The Social Security Referendum was discussed by trustees. The school board voted to withdraw district employees from social security on Sept. 14, 1978. The action dictates withdrawal before Dec. 31, 1980 unless the state of Texas is notified. The board decided to poll teachers again before the final decision is made.

The auction of three buses was approved. They are a 1965 International, a 1965 Chevrolet and a 1961 Chevrolet. The auction will be in June.

The buses' titles are held by the state of Texas because they were partially bought with state funds. Transportation Division of Texas Education Agency must give approval for final disposition. Money from the sale will go to the district's transportation fund.

Average time period of use for buses is eight years in Texas. No new buses will be bought to replace the auctioned buses.

Two new coaches were employed for the six-week period of Spring training. They are Robert D. Purser and Stanley Caffey.

Don Crockett said he foresaw an overspending of the gasoline budget of 10 to 15 percent this year.

"The big question is what are we going to budget next year for gas," he said.

Youth achievement awards nominations reminder issued

Time is running out for families or friends who are planning to nominate deserving youngsters for the Zale's Herald Youth Achievement awards.

Seniors in Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan and Sands high schools are eligible for the honors.

Entry blanks have been appearing regularly in the Herald in recent weeks and should be filled out and forwarded to the Herald no later than Monday.

Youngsters will be judged on their work in school, their extra-curricular activities in school, church and religious groups and in special volunteer-citizenship activities.

Photos should be included in each of the nominations sent. The nominations should be mailed to The Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring 79720.

Those chosen will be special guests at a banquet scheduled for Saturday, May 24, at the Big Spring Country Club. That event gets under way at 6:30 p.m. A banquet speaker is being lined up.

Zale's Jewelers, co-sponsor of the banquet, provides gifts for the outstanding students at each school.

Oliver Cofer, who is coordinating the program on behalf of the Herald, reminded that a number of outstanding students may be ignored unless someone goes to the trouble of nominating them for the honors, that no one can be considering unless they are nominated.

GOP, Demos to elect state delegates Saturday

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Connoisseurs of the fine art of politics will have Saturday a grand opportunity to partake in vintage wheelin' dealin' of the Howard County kind.

The Democrats and Republicans meet tomorrow — at separate times, of course — to hold their county conventions. The menu for these parties includes the selection of delegates to the state conventions and consideration of resolutions.

The Republicans will be early starters at 1 p.m. in 118th District Courtroom. Their agenda starts with the choosing of a permanent chairman and permanent secretary.

Committees then will be formed for credentials, resolutions, nominations and rules.

The credentials committee certifies the eligibility of the delegates from the May 3 precinct conventions. Republicans had last Saturday two polls for their county primary. These polls were at Goliad School for precincts 3, 16, and 19 and Marcy for all other voters.

The resolutions committee will review proposals from the precinct conventions. If a resolution is passed affirmatively out of the committee, the general convention will vote whether to send the statement to the Republican State Convention this summer in Austin.

The Goliad precinct convention passed resolutions on the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion, silent prayer and initiative and referendum.

The ERA resolution calls for the Texas Legislature to rescind its approval of U.S. House Resolution 208, which established the legal basis for the 27th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. This amendment denies discrimination on the basis of sex.

The Goliad convention also approved statements calling for the Texas Legislature to pass laws permitting silent prayer or meditation in public schools and providing for initiative and referendum.

A resolution passed at the Goliad precinct convention calls for a constitutional amendment to protect human life at every stage of development.

The nominations committee will deal with the selection of delegates to the GOP State Convention in Austin this summer. Under state party rules, Howard County will be allotted 12 delegates.

The Democrats will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the District Courtroom. Their itinerary will be similar to that of their GOP adversaries.

A permanent chairman and secretary will be elected. Committees for credentials, resolutions and nominations will be chosen.

The Democratic County Convention will be markedly different than the Republicans. This difference lies in the selection of presidential delegates.

The Republicans choose presidential delegates through their primary. The Democrats' presidential primary was simply a beauty contest. Delegates from Texas to the National Convention are to be chosen at the state convention.

The county convention is the second step to the National Convention which is to be held in New York City. To make it to New York, a person must go to the State Convention which is this June in San Antonio.

The county convention will be a battleground for those wanting to go to the Alamo City. Howard County is allotted only 11 delegates this year. The County Chairman, Cecil Riordan, automatically gets to go; so only 10 others from the 22 precincts are eligible.

Riordan told the Herald that not more than one delegate and one alternate may come from one precinct. Also coming into play will be the makeup of the delegation. Party rules have it that the state delegation must reflect the demographics of those attending the county convention.

As for resolutions, Democrats will consider urging Congress to pass laws allowing states to regulate abortions and to propose an amendment to the states for election of federal judges.

Democrats will also consider urging the Texas Legislature to pass laws allowing silent prayer or meditation in public schools and to establish party purity rules in primary voting.

Party purity is a spoiled child issue of diehard Democrats. It has been at numerous Howard County Democrat Conventions. In 1975, the Texas Legislature considered establishing voting registration where a person when signing up declared his partisan preference. The measure died in the legislature.

The county convention will consider party purity once more with the qualification that a person wishing to vote in the opposite party's primary must re-register within 60 days of the election.

The Democrats will also discuss resolutions calling for the rescinding of the Equal Rights Amendment and establishing by Congress of a set time standard.

A resolution asking for a change in the Texas Election Code will be taken up. The change involves holding local and primary elections on the same day.

Delegates to the Republican convention are as follows:

William Henning, Mary Joy Cowper, Daniel Wrenner, Peggy Winner, Robert Griffin, Norma Porter, Ralph McLaughlin, Don Woods, Charles Sweeney, Granville Hahn, Glenda Nell Barnwell, Pauline Nelson, Hood Barnwell, Betty Newman, Beverly Johnson, Billy Johnson, Nathan Poss, Billye McLaughlin, Lester Carson, G.K. Chadd, Freda Chadd, Libby Schwartz, Andrew Schwartz, John Currie and Dorothy Edwards.

Polly Mays, Winston Wrinkle, Betty Wrinkle, Bill Sheppard, Dene Sheppard, Ethelyn McCann, David Holmes, Jane Thomas, Clyde Thomas, Cecil Peurifoy, Holly Peurifoy, David Wrinkle, Charles Bell, Joan Bell, Robert Brown, Curt Mullins, Chris Mullins, Kim Hillman, Doug Mays, Morris W. Delegates and their presidential preferences are as follows:

From the Washington Place School Precinct — Linda Patterson, Carter; Rafer Dunagan, Carter; Randal Patterson, Carter; Barbara Cooper, Carter; D.C. Cooper, Carter; Eddie Acry, Carter; Larry Don Shaw, Carter; Jack Murdoch, Uncommitted; Margaret Murdock, Uncommitted; Cecil Riordan, Kennedy.

HC nursing program has 16 members to graduate

The 16 members of the Class of 1980 Associate Degree Nursing Program were among the graduates honored at Thursday night's Howard College commencement exercises.

The new nurses, most of whom will remain in the Big Spring area, are now eligible for licensure as Registered Nurses, and will travel to Austin July 9-10 to write the required State Board Examinations.

Immediately prior to the commencement exercises, these graduates were honored at a nursing convocation conducted by the faculty of the ADN Program.

Each of the new nurses appeared for the first time in complete graduate uniforms, wearing the graduate cap of Howard College.

During the brief ceremony, the nurses were presented with the gold and white school pin, two interlocked circles, representing the entwined relationship of the nurse and the patient. Both the pin and cap, which will identify these nurses as Howard College graduates throughout their nursing careers, are long-time nursing traditions.

Members of the Class of 1980 Howard College Associate Degree Nursing Program are: Annette Beams, Lois Belev, Fria Boyce, Sheri Holdampf, Brenda Kemper, Melinda McCollum, Maurine Mitchell, Dianne Powell, Karen Stevens, Nancy Vassar, and Leslie Yarbrough, all of Big Spring.

Others graduating were: Jean Campbell, Freida Henderson and Peggy Rankin, all of Snyder; Gail Roach of Stanton; and Sandra Zinke of Roscoe.

The Howard College Associate Degree Nursing Program enjoys full accreditation by both the Board of Nurse Examiners for the State of Texas, and the National League for Nursing.

Vassar honored as outstanding student

Nancy Vassar, a member of the graduating class of 1980 Howard College Associate Degree Nursing Program, was recently honored as the fourth annual recipient of the Dorothy Garrett Outstanding Student Award, announced Dr. Lettie Lee, Director of the ADN Program at Howard College.

The prestigious Garrett Award was established by the ADN Advisory Committee in 1977 to recognize the top nursing graduate in each class of the Howard College program.

Among the criteria used as a basis for selection of the recipient are: Academic and clinical excellence, consistent participation in student and professional activities, leadership qualities, and outstanding inter-personal relationships with faculty, students, and hospital personnel.

Ms. Vassar, in addition to receiving an individual plaque, was honored by her name being engraved on a permanent plaque on display in the Horace Garrett Building. The award was formally presented at the annual Nursing Convocation by Dr. Lee.

NANCY VASSAR

"Nancy has consistently shown excellence during her two years at Howard College," stated Dr. Lee. "She is a worthy recipient of the award, which also honors a very gracious and generous lady, Mrs. Dorothy Garrett."

"Ms. Vassar has been a credit for her class, and will continue to be a credit to the Associate Degree Nursing Program throughout her nursing career," said Dr. Lee.

Police beat Bandit grabs cash, whisky

An armed robber made off with over $100 cash and two fifths of whisky from Pug's Liquor Store, 4504 West Highway 80, 7 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, a man in his mid-20s walked into the store, pulled a blue-steel revolver on the clerk, and demanded all the cash in the place. The robber was approximately 5-feet, 11-inches tall, and was wearing a green and yellow pullover shirt.

He walked out of the store with $105 in cash, an unknown amount of coins and two fifths of Canadian Club Whisky.

At 8 p.m., police arrested a 24-year-old Midland man who fit the robber's description on West Highway 80 near the Travel Inn. Officers will question the suspect more closely before charges are filed.

Ronald Waichner, 1403 Park, parked in front of his surplus store at 609 E. 2nd, 7:20 p.m. Thursday, and walked to the back of the store. When he returned to the front of the store, his 1979 Pontiac Firebird was gone. The auto was valued at $5,000.

Officers stopped an 18-year-old local man for a traffic violation on the 900 block of Scurry, and discovered a small arsenal in his car. One billy club was lying on the floorboard of the car; another was lying on the back seat; and a pistol was hidden in the console of the auto.

The man was arrested on suspicion of carrying

Auto industry layoffs hit high of 284,000

DETROIT (AP) — Layoffs in the U.S. auto industry have hit a 1980 high with more than 284,000 workers out of work.

That layoff figure, announced Thursday for next week, is about 36 percent of the production work force of the five automakers. Most of the increase represents workers included for the first time.

Ford Motor Co. began including layoffs in component plants. General Motors Corp. also included some for the first time.

Of the new total, more than 210,000 will be furloughed indefinitely.

Comparable figures this week were 201,350 indefinite and 65,000 short-term layoffs, with the latter figure not including any counterpart to the 15,000 workers temporarily furloughed from component plants next week.

Total layoffs in Canada will rise from about 20,000 to 30,000 from a production force of 65,000.

GM said it will have 114,000 workers on open-ended furlough next week against 107,000 this week. Two weeks ago, the figure was 82,000.

The No. 1 producer also will briefly idle 32,900 on 11 assembly lines and 2,200 in component plants in Kokomo, Ind., and the Buffalo, N.Y., area. This week, 33,900 were furloughed from assembly plants.

Ford said it will have 52,400 laid off indefinitely, up from 50,400, and would lay off 14,000 from seven assembly lines. Another 7,300 will not work at engine plants near Cleveland, the Livonia, Mich., transmission plant, the Dearborn, Mich., frame plant and stamping plants in Buffalo, Chicago and Woodhaven, Mich.

This week, Ford had 27,715 out of assembly plants.

Weather Lightning kills two South Texas men

By The Associated Press
Isolated thunderstorms hovered over the Panhandle today, but skies began to clear as a strong cold front that drenched Texas soil for several days moved southward.

The National Weather Service reported Thursday night golf-ball sized hail pounded Plains, about 65 miles southwest of Lubbock.

Lightning killed two South Texas men Thursday as thunderstorms accompanied by damaging winds and hail rumbled across the state.

Forecasters predicted scattered thunderstorms would develop late today in the Panhandle, while the rest of the state would enjoy clear to partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 70s and 80s through Saturday.

WEST TEXAS FORECAST — Widely scattered thunderstorms mainly western Panhandle this afternoon and tonight. Otherwise partly cloudy today, becoming fair tonight and Saturday. Warmer most sections through Saturday.

Hights today upper 70s Panhandle to mid 90s Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight near 50 Panhandle and mountains to low 60s south. Hights Saturday mid 80s Panhandle and mountains to mid 90s Big Bend valleys.

EXTENDED WEST TEXAS: Clear to partly cloudy Sunday but with a chance of showers and thunderstorms during the first part of the week.

Halbouty to keynote tech session in Odessa

The GPA Permian Basin Regional meeting will be held next Thursday at the Inn of the Golden West, Odessa. Keynote speaker for the Technical Session will be Michel Halbouty, consultant, Houston. Opening the Technical Session will be GPA Vice President, Bruce Withers, Mitchell Energy Corp., The Woodlands.

Technical presentations for the morning session are:

"Design Considerations for Nitrogen Rejection Plants" — Richard Harris, The Randall Corp., Houston.

"Filtration and Separation in Gas Processing Plants" — Boyd Hamilton, King Tool Co., Longview.

"Personnel Training by Simulators" — Don Cooper, Phillips Petroleum Co., Odessa.

Following Mr. Halbouty's presentation, the afternoon session will consist of:

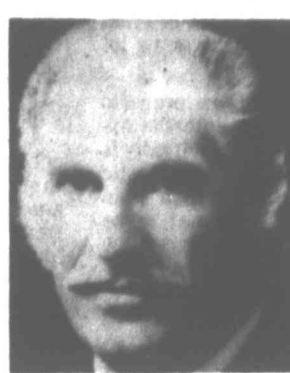

"Update of the Extractor Process" — Don Judd, Northern Natural Gas Co., Midland.

"Epoxy Aids for Large Engine Foundations" — Michael Sweeney, Creole Production Services, Houston.

"Energy Savings in Gas Engines" — Dwayne Marquis, Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville.

Program chairman is Stewart Young, Amoco Production Co., Odessa. The morning session chairman is C.L. McGowan, Amoco Production Co., Odessa; the afternoon session chairman, Ron Brice, R.G. Brice and Co., Midland.

There will be a safety seminar at 1:30 p.m., Wednesday with Hugh F. Keepers, safety director of the Railroad Commission of

MICHEL HALBOUTY

Texas, Liquefied Petroleum Division, the speaker.

Halbouty is recognized in the oil industry as one of the world's outstanding geologists and petroleum engineers and is internationally renowned and respected for his scientific ability in petroleum exploration.

He is considered an outstanding authority on the geological and engineering problems of North America, and is rated as one of the top experts on the geology of Gulf Coast Salt Domes. He is also most active as an operator and producer — producing and operating in many oil and gas fields in the United States.

He is a graduate of Texas A&M University, having received his Bachelor of Science Degree in 1930 and his Master of Science Degree from the institution in 1931 in Geology and Petroleum Engineering. In May, 1956, he received the Professional Degree in Geological Engineering from Texas A&M University (the first to be conferred by the University).

TROUBLES

Years ago the inhabitants of a small town got into the habit of constantly complaining about their problems, troubles, difficulties — real and imaginary. It was a soured, unhappy community. When the condition kept getting worse, an angel appeared, gave to each person in the community a bag and instructed that each one should put all his troubles in his bag and then hang the bag on the picket fence surrounding the village church. At a given signal the villagers were then to run at their top speed and pick out whichever bag of troubles they wanted.

The scramble, confusion and fighting that resulted was extraordinary — especially since each person wanted only to get back his own bag of troubles.

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A 32-year-old Abilene man has been charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of Hardin-Simmons University student Lorenzo Gutierrez, authorities said.

Abilene police arrested Michael Wayne Hill on Thursday and brought him before Justice of the Peace Silas Clark, who set bond at $7,500.

No coat, no tie proclamation

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — At first, it seemed as if Gov. Bill Clements was ready to take his casual dress policy one step further than last summer.

"We will have a no shirt, no tie proclamation today," he told his weekly news conference Thursday.

What he meant to say, he explained, was that he again is suggesting state employees take off their coats and ties during the hot summer months as an energy-saving measure.

The coatless and tieless period begins May 26 and extends through Sept. 1.

GOD FORGIVES. Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Carter pulls another surprise from hat

It's never easy to determine what is going on in the political game in Washington, even if you have a score card. Let it be added that everything in Washington is political — even when it comes to which way to point a statue.

President Carter pulled another surprise out of his hat when he named Sen. Ed Muskie as his Secretary of State. One can conclude either that Carter likes the grit in the Polish race (National Security Chief Ziggy Brzezinski is of Polish extraction) or he felt that Muskie's home state, Maine, was being neglected by his administration.

THERE WAS A time a few years ago when Muskie was regarded as presidential timber. He cast a Lincoln-like shadow. The novelty of a Democrat winning in a state of rock-ribbed Republicanism intrigued a lot of people. He was taciturn.

There are those who are prone to read all sorts of things into the appointment of a man who admittedly is liberal in his political views. Domestic views and those needed in a man working on the international scene aren't always the same. In fact, they often are just the opposite.

Muskie may not be the hardliner Brzezinski is but he likely will be tougher to deal with than his predecessor, Cyrus Vance. The 66-year-old Muskie came into international prominence 12 years ago when Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey chose him as a vice president candidate on the Democratic ticket. That was the election in which Richard Nixon took Humphrey to the woods and began to develop a lust for power that was to lead to his undoing.

A former governor of Maine and a one-time state legislator, Muskie was first named to the U.S. Senate 28 years ago. He waited until 1972 to seek the Democratic presidential nomination. Muskie won't be starting his job 'cold-turkey.' He has consulted political leaders in such far-away places as Israel, Egypt, the Soviet Union, West Germany, Poland, Portugal, Spain and Belgium.

THE APPOINTMENT could be more political than diplomatic, but then most government appointments are. Mr. Muskie in some ways may be more of a front man for Mr. Carter's White House policy makers and career people at the State Department than his own man.

Mr. Carter faces a difficult challenge in getting re-elected. For that reason, Muskie's job could be of short duration. But, for the remainder of 1980, Mr. Muskie will stay very busy, trying to find out what has happened and what has gone wrong over a period of several years.

Mr. Muskie has this going for him: Few people have to ask who he is. He's been very visible in the nation's capital for a long time.

The way it works

WASHINGTON — As a child of the Sixties I am willing to buy any conspiracy theory about our government. The latest one going around has to do with how the Post Office is handling the mail, now that it is facing its 1987 financial crunch.

The theory is being pushed by Herman Talcott, whose book, "Today's Post Office Could Never Find Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," has been on the best-seller list for months.

Talcott told me, "Have you ever wondered why you can get a catalogue from Hammacher & Schlemmer the day after it's posted, but it takes two weeks to receive a check mailed to you from the same city?"

"I admitted I had."

"WELL," HE TOLD ME, "the Post Office has installed new computers that sort out the junk mail from the letters you are really waiting for. The junk mail goes first priority and first-class mail goes out only when there is space available in the mail pouch."

"I can't believe it," I said.

"It's true," he said. "Friday I got a catalogue from Neiman Marcus in Dallas, Texas, which was mailed on Thursday and a letter from my aunt in Bethesda which said, 'Grandpa died this morning. His last wish was to be buried in Arlington Cemetery. Could you ask President Eisenhower if he could arrange it?'"

"That's strong evidence to back your theory," I admitted. "But I need more than that to make me believe the Post Office is not doing a good job."

"ALL RIGHT," Talcott said. He took out two envelopes. "I got both of these on the same day." One was from Gun and Rod Magazine offering a 50 percent discount if I subscribed by April 30, 1980. The other was a "Dear John" letter from a college coed I was going to marry after the Korean War was over.

"Do you need further proof?" Talcott said. "My American Express bill arrived at the house the same day it was sent out. A letter from my agent asking me if I was interested in writing the screen version of 'Casablanca' came in two days later."

"How does the computer distinguish between mail you don't want to get and mail you're waiting for?"

"IT HAS A SCANNER which reads the addresses. All mail addressed to 'Resident' gets sorted first. Then any letters that have a cellophane window are neatly placed in the same pile. Those that say 'IF YOU OPEN THIS ENVELOPE NOW YOU COULD WIN A MILLION DOLLARS' get special handling. Then the scanner picks out all the electric, gas and oil bills to make sure they're delivered on time."

"And finally it gets around to sorting the first-class mail," I asked.

"No," he said. "Then it breaks down, and takes a week to be repaired."

"Well, no computer is perfect," I said. "I'm sure the Post Office will get its scanner bugs worked out in the next decade." "Even if they did," Talcott said, "they have a fail-safe system to make sure your first-class letters don't arrive before your bills and junk mail."

"ARE YOU SURE?"

"I'm certain of it. The Post Office has developed a new conveyor belt to mutilate any personal letter that slips through the system. Any hand-addressed envelope with a 15-cent stamp will automatically self-destruct once it hits the belt."

"I still wasn't about to buy Talcott's conspiracy theory until I got home that evening and found my wife crying. 'We've been invited to the White House for a State Dinner.'"

Bronchiectasis: Lung tube problem

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please discuss bronchiectasis. Some of my questions are: Is it crippling? Can it be cured? When I take antibiotics does this bring the lung back to normal? What precautions should I take? — I.R.

Bronchiectasis can be serious, but not everyone who has it will be severely affected.

As you imply, it is a lung problem. Bronchiectasis is a widening of those tubes — the bronchi — through which air is drawn into the lungs. With the widening there is a production of thick mucus. Often the cause is recurring lung infection. Sometimes it is inherited. Sometimes no cause can be found. Rarely, chronic sinus inflammation accompanies bronchiectasis.

Simple measures, like postural drainage, help remove the congestion. Postural drainage can require some bizarre bodily contortions, so I'd prefer not to try to outline them for you. Your doctor can help you in a better setting.

The antibiotics do not correct lung damage, they combat respiratory infections that make bronchiectasis worse. Sometimes small doses are given in high-infection seasons to protect the bronchiectasis patient.

Avoiding such infections, so far as that is possible, and, obviously, giving up smoking if you indulge, are just two preventive steps you can take. The degree of crippling depends on the amount of lung damage done. Control is more the word than cure.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How can I cure or stabilize sweaty palms? I am in good health and eat well. I was on tranquilizers but they didn't help. Also, how good is "Drysol," which is applied to the palms to keep them dry? I have not been able to find it anywhere. — Mrs. M.R.

Emotional stress is the most common cause of sweaty palms. I can only judge from my "sweaty palm" mail that there's an awful lot of emotional stress out there. Fear, excitement, pain, mental effort can cause sweat to appear on the palms. I suppose this is why you had the tranquilizers prescribed. I'm glad you gave up on them, since they didn't seem to help.

There are a few illnesses associated with hyperhidrosis (excess sweating) — diabetes, hyperthyroidism, even menopause, which is not an illness. You can seek a physical basis for your complaint, even though chances of finding one are slim.

The product you ask for is a commercial name for a lotion of aluminum chloride hexahydrate in alcohol. Your druggist should be able to find a substitute or order some for you if you want to give it a try. You apply it to the palms at night, then wash it off in the morning. Why not try a nice pair of cotton gloves to wear on social occasions? I think they're neat.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I drink heavily and recently have had a strange dull feeling on my right side toward the back. Could this be an early sign of liver problems? I am too ashamed to speak to my own physician. If I stopped drinking alcohol altogether would I get the DTs? Please tell me how to handle this. — Ashamed.

It could mean liver disease or trouble with the gall bladder or the pancreas. The effects of alcohol abuse are not limited to the liver.

The point is that you are never going to find out much by wondering. Alcoholism is such a common problem today that there's hardly a practicing physician who closes his office for the day without having encountered some facet of it.

With proper medical supervision you should not experience delirium tremens (DTs). You've got a good medical reason to quit, which is a blessing of sorts. After you get straightened around medically, your next step will be to contact people who can help you psychologically — such as a local branch of Alcoholics Anonymous. Promise me you will take this advice. I'd like to see a follow-up note from you.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can birth control pills make a person gain weight? — B.B.W.

Both weight gain and weight loss have been reported by some women taking birth control pills. This tells you and me very little. The way to find out if the pill is causing your weight gain (which you do report in another part of your letter) is to use an alternate contraceptive method and watch the scales.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of the booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

loving relationship.

I am concerned also because many courses in sex education place too much stress on this subject alone, leading to a distorted view of love and marriage. Sex is certainly part of a normal marriage, but there is much more to marriage than just sex. Marriage has many responsibilities, for both husband and wife. It also has many joys and pleasures which include such things as mutual companionship, emotional support and spiritual fellowship.

The Bible teaches that sex is much more than a physical relationship. It was intended by God to be an expression of love and commitment between husband and wife. For this reason, the Bible clearly teaches that sex outside of marriage is wrong in the eyes of God. In God's design, sex is not to be used selfishly. Furthermore, the misuse or abuse of sex will have inevitable harmful effects in a person's life. For example, a person who disobeys God's law and indulges in sexual relations with a number of people will almost certainly never know the joy and security of a lasting, relationship. I believe both the family and the church should take responsibility for teaching young people about the Biblical meaning of love and marriage. The Bible has much to say on this topic, and its standards and teachings are often different from those we hear in our secular world. Remember also that the best instruction a young person can get on the meaning of Christian marriage is the example set by a Godly mother and father. "Train a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not turn from it" (Proverbs 22:6).

The sturgeon

Around the rim

James Werrell

Good buddy Don Richard was telling me the other day how mad he is at the Iranians.

Don, of course, is upset about the hostages, but something else also has him pretty peeved. It seems that the Iranians are perpetrating the proverbial homicide of the golden goose.

In this case, however, it's not a goose but the huge Caspian Sea sturgeon that produce the best caviar in the world. Caviar isn't gold, but at $260 a pound it might as well be.

that of the caviar that arrives in the U.S., 95 percent is Iranian and five percent Russian.

One female sturgeon alone is a treasure trove of caviar, providing a full 20 percent of her weight in roe. One she is relieved of her eggs, they are forced through a sieve made today of strong, absorbent cotton, but in earlier times, of horsehair.

Wire meshes would harm the fragile eggs.

AFTER STRAINING, the caviar is washed carefully in salt water, and then packed in salt, which helps to preserve it. The caviar is usually stored in two-kilo tins, and refrigerated to 29 degrees.

Freezing would ruin it and a temperature rise of even a few degrees can affect flavor and quality.

There are several different varieties of fine caviar, but the rarest of all is the golden roe of the sterlet sturgeon. Unfortunately, only about 40 pounds of sterlet are produced annually, and all of it ends up in the Kremlin or, in the past, on the table of the Shah.

Legend has it that in earlier times the precious sterlet caviar was wrapped in sable and rushed to the Imperial Palace in St. Petersburg.

I realize that after reading this, you will probably rush down to the corner store and pick up a couple of pounds of beluga caviar at $260 a pound. If that's a little steep, Iranian Sevraga caviar is a steal at half that.

And if you are too much of a skin-flint to spring for the imported stuff, there are some affordable caviars made from the roe of North American lumpfish, whitefish or salmon. This caviar may not taste exactly like the real thing, but for $3.25 a jar who's complaining?

"NOT ONLY ARE those (string of expletives deleted) killing off" the sturgeon, they are also ruining the caviar by processing it wrong," said the disgusted Richard.

My consumption of Iranian caviar has been limited to twice in the last 27 years, but I was nonetheless moved by Don's speech. Because of this, and because Don has mentioned forming a Save The Sturgeon Committee, I thought a little information about the precious eggs might be in order.

The aforementioned sturgeon is a fearsome looking fish that can reach a length of 12 feet and a weight of over a ton. Surprisingly, though, the fish's savage appearance conceals a gentle nature.

Once netted, sturgeon hardly resist their captors.

Most of the world's sturgeon now reside in the Caspian Sea, a vast inland salt sea set in the heart of the Eurasian continent. Amazingly, sturgeon used to abound in almost all U.S. coastal rivers. Before the turn of the century, the fish were so plentiful that their caviar was given away free in saloons to spur sales of nickel beers.

Unfortunately, domestic sturgeon were practically wiped out by pollution and overfishing. That means

Taking its toll

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — There is an Alice-in-Wonderland atmosphere in the back rooms of the White House where a cheerless Jimmy Carter is trying to cope with a deteriorating foreign policy and a flagging economy, without losing his political balance.

Under the terrible pressure, the president doesn't explode with temper tantrums. This isn't his style. He just becomes more grim, more gloomy, more secluded. He tends to shut himself off and remain alone with his decisions. These are the times when the phrase, "the president's burdens," becomes real.

HE MANAGES TO get along on less than six hours of sleep each night. Even this is sometimes interrupted by urgent messages, sometimes by his own troubled mind. During the daylight hours, aides report he is more irritable and brusque than he used to be.

But his angry frustration is detectable more in the cold look in his eye and the clenching of his teeth, as if he were suppressing a quiet, seething rage. "When I get angry," he once told me, "I get quiet. My friends claim — I can't see myself — but there is a muscle in my jaw that moves." The muscle has been twitching a lot lately.

But if Carter has been an indecisive president who has held back from military measures, he is a decisive politician who responds to the public mood. He refrained from military action as long as the majority of voters approved of restraint. But as the public began to lose patience with this policy, he shifted to a harder line.

The president simply concluded that his conciliatory policy had become a political liability. "He could no longer afford to be patient. It was costing him votes," a White House source said. This was the real reason Carter dropped the conciliatory approach and contemplated military action.

THIS ALSO HAD the advantage of diverting the American people's attention from their economic woes. Here again, the president has been more proficient at public relations than economic solutions. Secret White House minutes show that he has repeatedly put the stress on political appearances.

Once he happily cited a poll showing that "a majority of the American people now view the Democratic party as fiscally responsible." He promised that "the good work of the administration will begin to be reflected in the polls."

He also called upon his Cabinet officers "to travel around the country to report to the people on what each of them is doing within their department to reduce the rate of inflation." Another time, he asked Cabinet members "to fully cooperate... with the White House staff when they are asked to speak to groups around the country on the inflation program."

Other minutes quote the president as asking his staff "to consider ways in which he could personally help in enhancing public awareness and understanding of the choices that will soon face him."

Jimmy Carter may have been a poor president, but he is a superb politician.

LOOSE CASH: To fight inflation, President Carter has tried to stop Americans from spending so much money. He has encouraged the Federal Reserve Board to jack up interest rates and tighten the money supply. This has left most Americans with less money to purchase homes, automobiles and other wants.

Yet at the same time, the Treasury Department wants to eliminate an investment tax on the Arabs whose exorbitant oil prices are fueling inflation. Foreigners who buy bonds in this country are soaked a 30 percent tax on the interest they earn. By abolishing the tax, Treasury officials hope to encourage the Arabs to invest more petrodollars in the United States.

An internal Federal Reserve Board document identifies the OPEC countries as the biggest beneficiaries of the tax proposal. "Since 1974," states the document, "the OPEC countries have become the largest net purchaser of corporate equities. The U.S. does not have a tax treaty with the Middle East oil producers, and (the tax proposal) would be of great importance to investors from these countries."

KREMLIN WHISPERS: Soviet leaders are having serious second thoughts about stirring up the Iranian left, according to U.S. intelligence analysts. The deterrent is not American missiles, but Ronald Reagan.

While the Kremlin's election observers aren't exactly enchanted at the idea of Jimmy Carter under the thumb — as they see it — of Zbigniew Brzezinski, they view the election of hardline anti-communist Reagan with even greater distaste. And they figure that if the Iranian situation gets completely out of control, it would increase Reagan's chances for election. So they've reportedly decided to cool it in Iran.

SYNDICATE SUN-LOVERS: The Mob makes most of its illicit millions in the big cities up North, but the crime families like Florida's sunshine as well as the most law-abiding citizens do. By the latest FBI count, there were 81 permanent Mafia residents in southern Florida and another 25 commuters. Of the 15 underworld families in the country, 16 are represented in Florida.

WATCH ON WASTE: If the U.S. Senate sometimes seems complacent about the American motorists' problems, it might be because the august body's high muckamucks travel in government-supplied automobiles. No less than 22 of these vehicles, some with chauffeurs provided, are available for use by Senate bigshots. The free rides, some of which are made in Lincoln Continentals, cost the taxpayers $68,000 a year to lease and maintain. An additional $140,000 pays for the chauffeurs, who ostensibly double as "messengers."

Onassis daughter divorces

CHUR, Switzerland (AP) — Twenty months after they exchanged vows in Moscow, Christina Onassis and Sergei Kausov have been divorced in Switzerland.

Swiss lawyer Ettore Tenchio said Thursday the divorce was granted on the grounds of "irreconcilable differences" between the Greek shipping heiress and her Soviet husband.

The divorce took effect Wednesday, three weeks after a property settlement hearing. However, Tenchio refused to disclose details of the settlement.

Mrs. Kausov, daughter of the late Aristotele Onassis, has been a legal resident of Switzerland since 1975. She was not available for comment.

Haiti's president marries

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The wedding of Haiti's president and a divorced mother of two will be celebrated in a Roman Catholic cathedral here, church officials say.

Archbishop Francois-Wolf Ligondé said Thursday the ceremony could be held in the Catholic Cathedral because Michele Bennett's previous marriage, held in a Methodist Church, had been annulled.

The wedding of the president-for-life, Jean-Claude Duvalier, and Miss Bennett, is set for May 27.

Star leaves bikes behind

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've left bicycles behind." That's the word from Dennis Christopher, who played the fast-pedaling, impressionable young hero of the hit movie, "Breaking Away."

The role has meant that Christopher is called on a lot these days anytime events focus on cycling. And Thursday, he was here to promote a Central Park "bike-a-thon" to raise money for cerebral palsy research.

He said it was great seeing the photographs of all the people who bicycled around the Big Apple during a recent transit strike. But he said he no longer rides bikes himself.

"I've left bikes behind," he said.

Government backs down on predator controls

WASHINGTON — Faced with mounting political and scientific pressure in recent months, the Interior Department has backed down from its ban on research into the predator poison Compound 1080.

The research ban came last November on orders from Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, who said this week he will allow the department's Fish and Wildlife Service to join with Texas A & M University in a study of the "toxic collar."

The collars contain pouches of Compound 1080 affixed to sheep and goats. An attacking coyote bites through the collar, ingests the poison and dies within an eight-hour period.

Andrus' decision to continue toxic collar research follows hearings in both the House and Senate, that included testimony Compound 1080 affects only attacking predators and poses no harm to humans or other animal species.

Several Texas congressmen and Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, have pending legislation to continue use of the poison on the western range.

Despite the change of heart on the toxic collar, Andrus said Interior will maintain its ban on general use of the poison, which environmental groups have told Congress is a major health concern.

Recent scientific experiments have claimed Compound 1080, once ingested by predators, can not be passed on to other animals once the dead predators are scavenged by carrion.

"We will insist that the research be conducted under stringent controls, and we are proposing formation of an ad hoc oversight committee balanced between representatives of sheep and goat raisers on the one hand and environmental groups on the other," Andrus said.

Roping match to help support Boy's Ranch

SAN ANGELO — John Bonner, president of West Texas Boys Ranch, has announced that a special match roping between Roy Cooper of Durant, Okla., and James Owens, of Iran, Tex., will be held in the boys ranch arena Saturday, May 17. In addition to the match roping there will also be a $100 two calf average jackpot roping with the top ten ropers in the average roping a third calf, a $50 two-go open GRA approved barrel race, and a $10 two-go novice barrel race for horses which have not won over $250 in competition.

Trophy buckles and saddles will be awarded average winners in both the jackpot calf roping and open barrel race, buckles courtesy of M.L. Leddys and Brooky Broome in memory of Hardy Taylor, and the saddles courtesy of D & W Pipe Supply and C.H. Poyner Construction, both of Big Lake. Cooper and Owens will rope eight calves each.

Admission to the roping is by donation. Calves are furnished by Amos Owens and Kenny McMullen. Buck Owens of Barnhart is chairman of the roping again this year, with Pam Davis of Lubbock organizing the barrel races. Volunteers from the ranks of the boy's ranch directors, roundup wagon bosses, and staff will be handling chutes, gates, announcing, judging, flagging, and timing.

First go of the barrel race starts at 10 a.m. The calf roping begins at 1 p.m. and the match roping will be held after the first go of the open calf roping, followed by the second go of the barrel race and then the last go round of the jackpot calf roping. Bonner concluded by reminding everyone of the traditional all beef barbecue to be served in the ranch's M.S. Doss Food Service Center for $3 per plate from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Will perform a Galt concert at 2:30 p.m. May 15 in Big Spring High School Auditorium. Tickets available at Chamber of Commerce, Citizens Federal Credit Union and First Federal Savings and at the door. $4.00 general admission.

Means to trade crude for fuel

Airline invests in oil industry

DALLAS (AP) — You won't find any flight attendants doubling as roughnecks, but American Airlines is dipping a tentative toe into the oil business.

Although soaring jet fuel prices are taking bigger bites from airline revenues, American so far is the only major airline to venture into the oil business.

"We don't plan to take oil out of the ground, refine it and put it in our planes," said airline spokesman Art Jackson in Dallas. "We plan to use it as a means to trade crude for fuel."

American got into the oil business when it invested $60 million in 1977 to purchase the Howard Corp. from the Republic of Texas Corp., an affiliate of Republic National Bank.

Howard, now known as the AA Development Corp., owned oil and gas properties that the airline has developed in anticipation of producing enough oil and gas to meet 15 percent of its fuel needs by 1982.

The fuel interests now are managed by AA Energy Corp., a sister corporation of AA Development. AA Energy drilled 30 wells last year, intends to drill 30 to 40 this year and manages 53 wells on 200,000 to 250,000 acres.

Jackson said oil and gas properties were not the main interest in purchasing Howard, which also owned related real estate interests, the common stock of the Round Rock Lime Co., three shopping centers and about six acres of downtown Dallas.

However, he said the oil and gas became a serious consideration as the price of jet fuel escalated.

"It started as a serious consideration when we purchased the corporation," he said. "It was an investment that makes a lot of sense. When it came to a situation where fuel was either hard to get or getting expensive, the logical thing to do was to try to find something to hedge... I hate to use that word, but that's what it is... expenses."

The energy companies had pre-tax earnings of $1.7 million in 1979 and produced 932,000 barrels of oil and 2.90 billion cubic feet of natural gas. The properties currently produce 4,000 barrels of oil and gas per day, said Jackson.

Although American's board of directors approved a $15 million annual expenditure for fuel development, the airline has spent only $12 million in the past three years, Jackson said.

"We anticipate that by 1982, the airline will not have to put any money in, the subsidiaries will be able to handle it," he said.

Back in 1973, when fuel prices were first on the rise, major airlines informally discussed purchasing tankers, refineries and basically, going into the oil business to offset rocketing costs.

But then, as now, the expense of such a venture knocked it out of the realm of practicality.

And although Delta and Eastern were the only airlines to report a 1980 first quarter net profit, no other major carrier has tried an alternative similar to American's.

"We have looked at the possibility of buying into some kind of oil arrangement, but nothing has come up so far," said Trans World Airlines spokesman David Venz in New York.

"It's not something you can say never to, because you just don't know what kind of deal may fall in your lap tomorrow morning."

Venz said the New York-based carrier forked over 30 percent of its direct operating costs in 1979 for fuel.

"It is staggering what we have to carry (in fuel costs)," said Jim Ashlock of Eastern Airlines in Miami. "We have explored about everything we could but we'll be all right if it (the cost of fuel) keeps from going into uncontrollable gyrations."

"It is still our number two expense at Eastern Airlines (behind personnel) but it's getting a hell of a lot closer than we'd like to see it."

'Death of a Princess' to air

PBS defies pressures

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite mounting pressure from a major corporate underwriter, several congressmen and the U.S. State Department, the Public Broadcasting Service says it won't change its plans to air a film that has enraged Saudi Arabia's royal family.

In quick succession Thursday, the head of the House Foreign Affairs Committee asked the film "Death of a Princess" be canceled and the State Department urged "appropriate consideration" be given Saudi concerns.

Meanwhile, Mobil Corp. — which has contributed some $30 million to public television programming in the past decade — suggested PBS "review its decision" to broadcast the film Monday night.

The two-hour movie, produced by Antony Thomas and David Fanning, recreates Thomas' effort to learn more about the 1977 public execution of Saudi Princess Misha'al and her commoner lover. They had been accused of adultery.

Mobil, backer of the long-running "Masterpiece Theater" series, said in an advertisement in major newspapers that PBS' airing of the film "raises some very serious issues" in the obligations of a free press and the role of the government in supporting public TV.

Acting Secretary of State Warren Christopher suggested PBS give "appropriate consideration" to the Saudi position, adding the department had no doubt PBS would assure "viewers are given a full and balanced presentation."

In Congress, Reps. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, urged that the film not be shown, saying it was "regrettable that the decision was made by an organization funded in part by the U.S. government." The committee's ranking Republican, William Broomfield, R-Mich., said broadcasting it would have "an adverse affect on U.S. interests at home."

But Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., called the criticism a blatant attempt to appease Saudi Arabia and protect U.S. oil sources.

"We are not turning a deaf ear to people's concerns," said Mark Harrad, PBS' director of information, "but we are not in the business of making foreign policy. We are interested in the free flow of information."

At least 10 PBS stations have announced they will not carry the film, which prompted the Saudi Arabian government to order Britain's ambassador to leave the Middle Eastern country after the film was shown in England last month.

Saudi officials contend the film is an inaccurate presentation of that nation's culture and is disparaging to the Moslem religion. Thomas maintains all dialogue was faithfully transcribed from interviews, and all facts were checked.

Borden High School grad gains PhD in Home Ec

Martha Elaine Couch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Couch of the Luther community, will be awarded a PhD in Home Economics from Texas Tech University today in ceremonies at Lubbock.

Dr. Couch's graduate dissertation was in the area of skills self-assessment of volunteer 4-H leaders.

Dr. Couch was a 1968 graduate of Borden High School in Gall. She was graduated with a Bachelors' degree in 1972 and a Masters' degree in 1976 in Home Economics from Texas Tech.

She has been an employee for eight years of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service as a County Extension Agent (1972-1975) and as the Area 4-H and Youth Specialist (1975-present). In her current position, she advises and counsels with the Extension professionals and volunteer 4-H leaders in the 40 counties of the Panhandle and South Plains area.

She was an outstanding 4-H member in Howard County from 1959 to 1969. As a member of 4-H she won many state, district and county awards, was the 1963 Gold Star award recipient, and was the 1969 state winner in the Home Management record book contest.

Attending the graduation ceremony will be Mr. and Mrs. John Couch of Big Spring, Mrs. Illa Scott of Sweetwater, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Little of Big Spring, and Annette Couch of Lubbock.

'He who laughs last did not understand the joke'

DUNCANVILLE, Texas (AP) — First-grade students at Alexander Elementary School have given new meanings to some old sayings.

As a writing exercise, the first grade teachers gave their students the first half of some cliches, and asked the students to complete the sentences.

For example, the teacher would provide this phrase: "Don't count your chickens before..." The students then were asked to fill in the blank.

"The kids didn't even know what a cliché is," said teacher Myrna Dobbins. "We gave them part of a cliche and let them finish it in their own way. They were very serious about it."

The results. Here's a sampling.

"Don't count your chickens before you cook them."

"Don't put all your eggs in the microwave."

"All's fair in hockey."

"People who live in glass houses better not take off their clothes."

"All work and no play is disgusting."

"Eat, drink and go to the bathroom."

And, finally, "He who laughs last did not understand the joke."

U.S. relationships with major oil suppliers shown very fragile

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deterioration in U.S. relations with Iran, Libya and now Saudi Arabia has put the United States at odds with three of its major oil suppliers, highlighting the nation's sensitivity to foreign pressure on the energy nerve.

American dependence on foreign oil was dramatically demonstrated in October 1973, when the Arab members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries stopped shipments in a bid to influence U.S. policy on Israel.

Despite the long gasoline lines caused by the 1973-74 crude oil embargo, U.S. dependence on foreign crude increased from 18.7 percent in 1973 to almost 36 percent in 1977.

Since then it has leveled off, and even declined slightly to 34 percent in 1979.

But U.S. diplomatic relations with Iran have been broken off; those with Libya have been strained; those with Saudi Arabia, merely irritated so far.

The range of problems — the seizing of hostages, the rejection of diplomats, the scheduling of a TV film — show how fragile are the relationships on which U.S. oil supplies depend.

The United States has been doing without Iranian oil for the last six months, since militants seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran Nov. 4 and took the Americans there captive. President Carter then ordered a halt to oil imports from Iran, to free U.S. responses to the situation from that complication.

The nation could probably do without oil from Libya — which provided 3.5 percent of the United States' total oil supply last year — if Washington's current efforts to expel four Libyans were to bring on the loss of those imports.

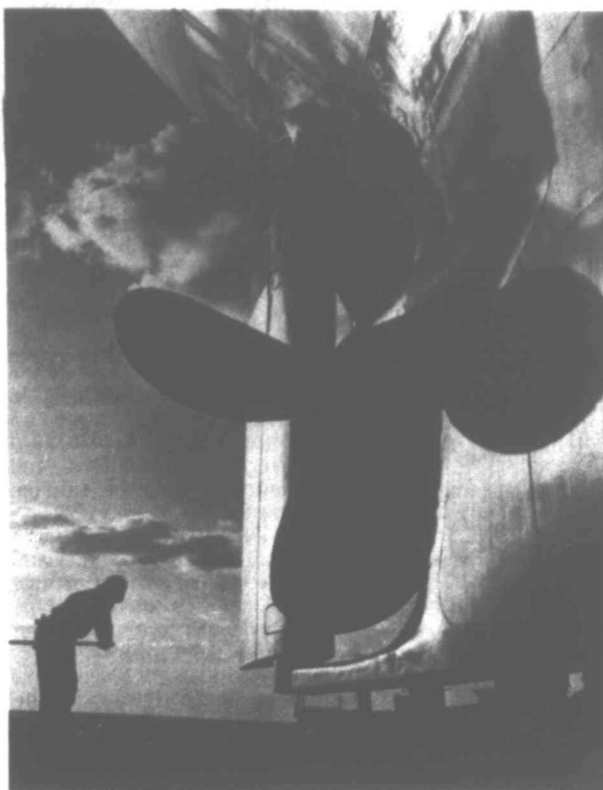

The State Department has alleged that the four men were responsible for a campaign of intimidation and harassment against dissident Libyan students in the United States, a campaign ordered by Libyan dictator Moammar Khadafy.

Currently, there are no U.S. diplomats in Libya.

Prodded by high fuel prices, tight money, a mild winter and a growing recession, American consumers and industries have cut oil consumption substantially, leaving refiners and suppliers with exceptionally large stockpiles that would cushion the impact of a small import cut-off.

The loss of Saudi Arabian oil, however, would hurt more.

Saudi Arabia is the largest single foreign supplier of oil to the United States, providing 7.3 percent of total U.S. oil needs in 1979.

1,000 robberies apparently pulled by man with principles

HOUSTON (AP) — The 23-year-old man says he has principles even though he may have committed as many as 1,000 robberies.

That is why, he said, he did not use a .44 revolver when Officer Gary Bailey arrested him Wednesday after spotting him driving a stolen vehicle.

"I wasn't going to open up on that man," the high school dropout said. "He was doing his job. He's got a family. Whatever you do, you've got to have principles."

In telling police of hundreds of robberies, he also said he had killed one man with a shotgun. There was no sin in that killing, he added, because "the dude had put a contract on me."

Robbery and homicide detectives were studying what charges to be filed.

On the light side

Only third place?

DENVER (AP) — Donna Kehler put on a bikini, climbed aboard a camel and rode around a downtown plaza for an hour singing "Dixie" and throwing chocolate drops to bystanders — all to win third prize in a radio station contest.

Denver radio station KIMN had asked its listeners what they would do for a pound of gold. The winner is going to cut his car in half. The runner-up must sit in a bathtub full of beer while playing cymbals and a trombone.

Mrs. Kehler's stunt Wednesday was good for a trip to Mexico.

She shrieked when she got a look at Clyde the camel, but the contest promoters made her carry through her stunt. Afterward, she said she'd do it again.

Mrs. Kehler's husband also was a good sport about the whole thing, although his task was somewhat less glamorous. Bob Kehler, an Air Force sergeant, was sent to stand behind Clyde with a shovel.

Missing: Horsetail hair

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Beware of horsehair rustlers, warns a district attorney's investigator.

The warning came after Bernard Smollen complained that his secretary was missing along with 100 pounds of horsetail hair worth $20,000 from his brush company.

It's been a year since Linda Rea Gilson told Smollen she was taking time off to get away from the pressures of life. Long before that, he was trying to explain the shortages of horsehair that he sells for processing into violin strings.

Ramp-eating festival

MOUNT ROGERS, Va. (AP) — When folks around here mix ramps and bluegrass music, they come up with an annual Whitetop Mountain Ramp Festival.

The annual Grayson County festival is set for Sunday. During the event, contestants will try to down the most ramps — a vegetable some call a vile-smelling, sweet-tasting treat from Mother Nature and others call just an onion with a garlic taste.

The winner of the ramp-eating contest will receive a fistful of prizes — plus a bottle of mouthwash. Proceeds benefit the Fire Department and rescue squad at the tiny community of Mount Rogers.

Boy saves man on fire

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A quick-acting schoolboy used a garden hose to douse the flaming body of a 67-year-old Arlington, Texas, man who apparently set himself on fire, officials said.

Ray Mitchell, 12, said he was on his way home from school Thursday when "I smelled something like a sweet, sickly smell and looked over the fence and saw him on fire, getting on his knees."

Raymond T. Lowder was listed in fair condition Thursday at Parkland Memorial Hospital's burn center with burns on 60 percent of his body, including his head, face, abdomen, right shoulder, side and thigh.

Arlington Fire Marshal Charles Killingsworth said Lowder apparently set himself on fire with gasoline.

"There was a quart plastic milk jug half full of gasoline and a pack of matches sitting next to him," said Killingsworth.

Mrs. Dale Hamilton said Lowder kept repeating, "All I want to do is die," as she attempted to comfort him as they waited for an ambulance to arrive.

The fire marshal said Mitchell "deserves a lot of credit for possibly saving the man's life."

CWU hold 'May Day'

May Fellowship Day was celebrated Sunday, at 10 a.m. at the Salvation Army Citadel. The celebration is sponsored by Church Women United, and was hosted by the Women of the Salvation Army.

The Call to Worship was given by Mrs. Lt. Bill Thrasher. The soloist for the meeting, with three selections, was Jackie Hancock.

The prayer of affirmation and support was given by Mrs. Phyllis Gautreaux.

The speaker for the event was Mrs. Major David Mikels from Dallas. She is the assistant divisional home league secretary, and works in the Department of Women's work for the State of Texas. She has been a Salvation Army Officer for 25 years.

Her talk at this meeting was on "Spirit of the Living God." The theme of her talk was for women to take up the challenge of rededicating their lives through being filled with the Holy Spirit and then go out and witness.

The Women of the Salvation Army served refreshments in the Fellowship Hall to the 45 women from nine different churches in Church Women United.

Church women get training

The Women of the Church of the First Presbyterian Church held their Annual Birthday Objective and Offering meeting Monday in the Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Noble Kenemur presided at the meeting. A film strip was shown by Susan Frazier on a program for training young people in serving their churches. A talk "Fill the Empty Sandals" was given by Danny Kenemur, concerning getting our youth interested in this program.

Former Big Springer placed in 'Who's Who'

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., has announced that Raye Nell Dyer, formerly of Big Spring, has been named to the 1980 program of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

A recognized institution of the American academic community, this Who's Who award is conferred annually upon outstanding student leaders. Over the past 45 years, more than 1,200 colleges and universities have adopted this program as part of their annual campus honors. Selections are made by campus nominating committees and are based on decidedly above average academic standing, community service, leadership ability and future potential.

School has Open house

Open house and pre-enrollment for fall 1980, was held at the Big Spring Christian Academy at Building 505, Industrial Park, Thursday evening.

Held in conjunction with the Christian Education Rally held that night 7:30 p.m. at the New Life Covenant Chapel, Building 320, Industrial Park.

Interested families are invited to review the facilities. The curriculum at the BSCA Accelerated Christ in Education highlights the overall Christian environment offered by the academy.

Sixty students from a broad religious spectrum are currently enrolled at the academy, where they received a total education package aimed at developing the spiritual, mental and physical portion of the child. The success of private Christian schools has made it possible for a new school to open every seven minutes within the United States.

Information concerning registration requirements and tuition may be obtained calling: Principal Bruce Hinshaw, 267-6251.

Priest withdraws from office on Pope's wish

By The Associated Press

A second Roman Catholic priest has withdrawn from elective politics in keeping with the pope's wishes to discourage political activity by the clergy, but other priests and nuns made no move to resign their political posts.

Although the Rev. Robert J. Cornell believes "service in Congress is no more inconsistent with the priesthood than teaching government and history," he has canceled his election bid.

The Wisconsin Democrat, a former two-term congressman, announced Tuesday he would join Rep. Robert F. Drinan, a Jesuit who has served as a Massachusetts congressman for 10 years, in withdrawing from politics.

Drinan announced Monday that he was accepting with "pain and regret" a directive not to seek re-election.

Cornell, 60, also said he was acting in obedience to the wishes of his Roman Catholic church superiors.

But he added, "Since the application of the highest moral principles should be expected of clergymen, it would seem desirable to have them engage in the political process, which has suffered from such disrepute in recent years."

Cornell, a member of the Norbertine Fathers and teacher at St. Norbert College in De Pere, Wis., represented the 8th Congressional District from 1974 to 1978.

"You've got to be part of the world without being worldly," said the Rev. Victor Yanitelli, a commissioner on the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

Yanitelli, a Jersey City Democrat, Jesuit and chancellor of St. Peter's College, said he would step down if asked, but felt priests "have to be citizens."

In Michigan, Sister Ardeoh Platte, who interprets her ministry as "political in nature," says she will stay on the Saginaw City Council. "My whole religious life gives me strength and courage to work for human life, and I came to be aware of how important it is to bring about change in systems and structures that affect whole nations and communities," she said on Tuesday.

Sister Platte said she would leave the sisterhood or give her council post if the pope asked nuns to refrain from holding public office.

The Rev. Don Eder, communications director for the Diocese of Saginaw, said canon law pertains only to priests' political roles.

"Sisters don't even exist in canon law," he said.

Evangelistic team cleared for home

An evangelistic team from the Crestview Baptist Church is in Germany preparing to return to the states.

The team is serving through the World Evangelism Foundation of Dallas in a Germany-USA Evangelistic Partnership. The Big Spring team is also serving with five other teams in Germany. They are working with the Baptist Church in Wuppertal-Elberfeld.

Rev. Sammy J. Sims, of Big Spring, Texas, is serving as team leader. He is being supported by team members: Vonelle Sims, Clifton Platte, of Big Spring; Reg. Mulligan and Sammy Waddell, both of Tusculumbia, Ala.; and Eugene McElhany, of Louisville, Ky.

During their two-week partnership with the German church their purpose is to share the message of Jesus Christ with the people there.

The team will conduct worship services, Bible studies, concerts and fellowships. Team members will visit schools, hospitals, nursing homes and prisons. They will also make personal home visits, share their testimony and extend invitations to attend church.

O.K. Bozeman, Jr., administrative vice president of World Evangelism Foundation is serving as team coordinator.

The team members are composed of lay people and their pastor who pay their own expenses and give two weeks of their time to this effort.

Dr. W.H. Jackson, Jr., president of World Evangelism Foundation, said: "This is the second World Evangelism Foundation has been invited to Germany for a partnership mission. This European country which has so much materially has asked us to work with them in sharing the gospel."

The teams returned to the states Tuesday.

Church youth to wash cars

The youth of First Mexican Baptist Church are having a car wash Saturday at the Highland Texaco Service Station.

The car wash is a project of the youth to help sponsor the youth revival scheduled for May 16-18 with the Mireles family from Freer.

The car wash will begin at 8:30 a.m. Youth group president is Albert Arriola. Pastor is the Rev. Johnny Castro.

Synod plans headquarters

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod plans construction of a new $9.8 million headquarters building, set in a hillside of a wooded, parklike area in nearby Clayton.

The four-story building, to be situated on the west side of the church's Concordia Seminary campus, is expected to be completed by May 1982. It will include a chapel between two office wings and a three-level parking garage.

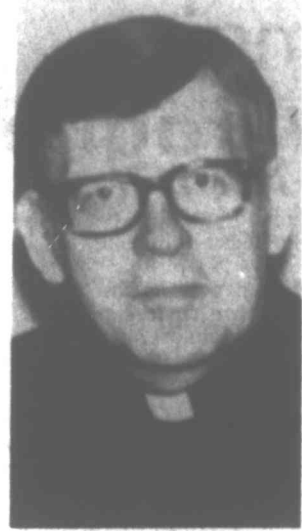

The 2.7 million-member denomination, one of three main U.S. branches of Lutheranism and the sixth largest denomination in the country, has been leasing its St. Louis headquarters where an administrative and service staff of 280 work.

Treasurer Norman D. Sell said rising costs of leasing, expected to hit more than $1 million annually by 1983, had been a major consideration in the church's decision to build its own headquarters.

Sister Kane honored

CHICAGO (AP) — Sister Theresa Kane, the nun who last fall welcomed Pope John Paul II to Washington's Shrine of the Immaculate Conception with an appeal for admission of women to full ministerial rights, has received the 1980 U.S. Catholic award for furthering the cause of women in the church.

The Rev. Mark J. Brummel, editor of the national Catholic magazine, said in presenting the award that she had received the true meaning of the word, "loyalty," by speaking "difficult words in public" to help heal the wounds of women who "long to serve the church in roles now denied them."

THE REV. ROBERT J. CORNELL

Davis walks church aisle

EULESS, Texas (AP) — Millionaire Cullen Davis, acquitted in two sensational trials stemming from a 1976 shooting incident at his $6 million mansion, has "made a public commitment for Christ," according to the pastor of a Baptist church in this Fort Worth suburb.

Witnesses said Davis walked down the aisle to the altar in a symbolic gesture of receiving Christ as his personal saviour.

Draper said evangelist James Robison was with Davis during the Sunday service, but Draper said Robison did not urge or pressure Davis to take the walk.

Robison, a television evangelist who lives in nearby Hurst, said he and Davis prayed together about six weeks ago.

Pope meets with Runcie

LONDON (AP) — The newly installed Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, had a meeting scheduled Friday in Accra, Ghana, with Pope John Paul II for "greeting, private conversation and joint prayer," the first get-together for the two church leaders.

Pleas heard for patience

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of the abortive U.S. attempt to rescue American hostages in Iran, a succession of religious leaders have urged President Carter to return to a policy of patient restraint in resolving the problem.

Such pleas have come from the United Methodist General Convention, Roman Catholic Archbishop John R. Quinn of San Francisco, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops; the Rev. Howard Rice, moderator of the United Presbyterian Church, and the American Friends Service Committee, among others.

Carter sees 'historic error' if Soviet Afghan moves not resisted

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Carter, although declaring "detente with the Soviet Union remains our goal," said today it would be "an historic error" to underestimate the challenge posed by Russia's occupation of Afghanistan, particularly to Iran and Pakistan.

Enunciating something of a domino theory for the Persian Gulf region, Carter noted that Afghanistan long served as a buffer against expansionism in the area and said:

"Soviet success there, even at the high cost in blood and respectability which Moscow is now paying, could turn Afghanistan from a roadblock against aggression into a launching pad for further incursions. "This would threaten Pakistan and Iran, but not those nations alone. Soviet aggression in Afghanistan — unless checked — confronts all the world with the most serious long-term strategic challenge since the Cold War began."

To underestimate the challenge, Carter said in his text for an address to the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia, "would constitute an historic error — an error with probably historic consequences."

It was Carter's first speaking trip outside Washington in more than six months — since U.S. hostages were seized in Tehran — and it was the forerunner of other journeys, some avowedly political.

Promising anew that the nation "will not rest" until the 53 captives are free, the president harked back to the ill-fated hostage rescue effort of April 24 and said:

"I regret only that it did not succeed, and that eight gallant men died in the accident as the rescue team was leaving its desert rendezvous."

Despite his strong words about the Soviet Afghan intervention, Carter said his goal of arms control, and particularly strategic arms limitations, "remains as strong as ever."

Although the administration agreed to shelve Senate consideration of the SALT II treaty with the Soviets after the Afghan crisis erupted in December, Carter asserted: "Of course, we will seek its ratification at the earliest opportune time."

He also argued that the time is "fast approaching when we must think beyond SALT II — to negotiating wider, more comprehensive arrangements dealing with strategic weapons and with weapons of less than continental range."

At the same time, Carter said, "There can be no business as usual in the face of aggression." And he said anew that "we will continue to impose economic and political costs on the Soviet Union until it withdraws its armed forces and restores the independence of Afghanistan."

After the speech, Carter had on tap a "town meeting" at Temple University.

While today's trip bears a "non-political" label, even the pretense of avoiding direct campaigning soon will vanish. On Thursday, Carter announced an avowedly political trip to Cleveland May 29.

That's just five days before voters in Ohio and seven other states hold the final primaries of the election year. And Thursday's announcement left room for a later expansion of the president's travel plans.

Pennsylvania Democrats held their primary April 22 and gave the president's rival, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, a relatively narrow majority.

Carter had planned a Philadelphia visit last November but canceled it after American hostages were seized in Tehran Nov. 4. The hostage crisis prompted the president to remain in the Washington area and to pledge he would not campaign until the captives were freed.

Now the president has decided he has stayed home long enough and must have fresh direct contact with his constituents. So his schedulers revived November's plans and set up today's trip.

The trip came just a few hours after the oath-taking

Thursday night of the new secretary of state, Edmund S. Muskie.

It also came five days after Carter and his advisers decided against a presidential trip to Belgrade to attend the Thursday funeral of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

When White House press secretary Jody Powell was asked about criticism of Carter's decision to stay home and send Vice President Walter F. Mondale to Belgrade, Powell responded: "It's obviously the press quoting the press." Nevertheless, Powell is leaving open the distinct possibility, if not probability, of a Carter visit to Yugoslavia next month following a state visit to Italy and a seven-nation economic summit in Venice.

Had Carter attended the Tito rites, the Pennsylvania trip, which was announced before the Yugoslav leader's death, would have fallen casually once again to the vagaries of presidential travel plans.

When Souls Communicate

When souls communicate — it's like prayer. There may never be a word spoken — just a sigh, a wish, a hope, a longing. A child trying to express some simple feeling to its Mother. Mother trying to express her devotion to her child.

All prayer is founded on the idea that God loves us and cares about the things that affect us. Jesus taught us to pray "Our Father" — He wanted men to see God's love on the parental level.

When you feel the need to pray, reach out with your heart to God. You may not be able to find words. Yet He hears. He understands those deep feelings we find hard to express.

In church our efforts to communicate with Him are strengthened by the fact that many others are praying with us. They need Him just as much as we do. And we need their longings, their hopes and wishes and feelings to help us express our own. Join us in prayer at your local church or synagogue.

Exploratory drilling increase is recorded

(Special to The Herald)
DENVER, Colo. — U.S. exploratory drilling in search of new oil and gas fields is showing an increase compared to 1979. Petroleum Information Corporation says. Comparing the first four months of this year with last year, PI reported a 5.5 percent increase in new field wildcats, with 2,164 wildcat wells completed.

Of these wildcats, 199 were gas discoveries, 209 found oil and 1,756 were dry holes.

Other exploratory drilling, which includes drilling of wells to extend known fields or to find deeper pay zones, also reflected the trend toward more exploration. PI counted 1,522 wells completed in this category, up 14.7 percent from the same time last year.

Of these exploratory wells, 346 found oil, 422 found gas and 754 were dry holes.

With this increase in exploration, the success rate remained almost level with last year, PI reported. The success ratio for new field wildcats was 18.8 percent through April, compared with 19 percent at that time last year. The 50.5 percent success in other exploratory drilling remains unchanged from the comparative 1979 figure.

PI noted that six of the top 10 U.S. crude oil producing states showed increased drilling during the first one-third of the year.

The top two producers, Texas and Oklahoma, had major increases. Texas gained 821 wells during the comparison period, with 5,725 wells completed. Oklahoma showed a gain of 790 wells, with a total of 2,508 completions through April. Both states were slowed significantly in early 1979 by severe weather problems.

Other gainers among the top producing states were: Alaska, 51 wells, up 15; California, 547 wells, up 173; Kansas, 1,528 wells, up 221; and Mississippi, 171 wells, up 8.

Top producing states showing declines in 1980 drilling activity included Louisiana, 1,255 wells, down 225; Wyoming, 305 wells, down 90; New Mexico, 444 wells, down 9; and Florida, 3 wells, down 3.

The Chase Manhattan Bank Group of 29 "larger operators," primarily the major U.S. oil companies, reflected a drilling increase of five percent during the four-month period. PI said Chase Group operators completed 2,161 wells during the period, compared with 2,058 in 1979. Among the 1980 total were 504 gas wells, up 7 from last year and 1,244 oil wells, an increase of 125, or 11 percent.

Activity in the northeast states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia showed an especially hefty increase compared to 1979. Well completions in these states showed an increase of more than 50 percent for the four-month period, with 4,256 wells completed.

While irregular availability of data in the northeast area tends to make short-term comparisons somewhat less meaningful, other indicators confirm an active increase there. One such indicator is the number of new plans filed by operators to drill wells (new locations). These locations in the northeastern states increased from 3,430 in the first third of 1979 to 7,186 for the same period this year.

Well completions in the Rocky Mountain Region, an area of high interest this year, were down slightly. Completions for the 4-month period slipped to 1,545, compared to 1,665 last year. Observers continue to predict a strong year, however, based on other indicators. New locations filed by operators during the period totaled 2,361, up from 1,343 at the same time last year.

Involuntary manslaughter

Singer sentenced to jail

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-composer Barry Sadler, best known for his "Ballad of the Green Berets," was sentenced to four to five years in prison after pleading guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the shooting death of a songwriter in 1978.

Sadler's attorney, Joe Binkley Jr., said Thursday he will ask Criminal Court Judge Raymond Leathers to suspend the sentence in the death of Lee Emerson Bellamy.

Metro Police detective Jim Sledge testified Sadler had apologized "for lying to me" when he claimed the December 1978 shooting was in self defense.

Sadler, 38, had told reporters he fired one shot at Bellamy, in self defense, in a parking lot outside co-defendant Darlene Sharp's apartment.

A tongue: 'Greatest psychotherapy in the world'

NEW YORK (AP) — Three years ago, Jorge Gonzalez was a bizarre, elfin child. He had floppy, oversized ears, a bird-like, pointed chin and a mouth that was tiny at its opening and huge inside. He was 10 years old and looked 6.

Doctors said his strange appearance was due to an unexplained birth defect: Jorge was born without a tongue.

The defect distorted his facial structure. The absence of a tongue made eating a problem and caused malnutrition. But in 1977, he came from Bogota, Colombia, to New York, where a plastic surgeon created a tongue for Jorge out of tissues and muscles in his neck. Next month, in the latest refinement on the operation, the tongue will be trimmed and sculpted. Doctors say he already looks and feels much better.

"From the first operation to now, he's grown tremendously — almost a foot," said Dr. Richard Boies Stark, attending surgeon of the plastic surgical service at St. Luke's Hospital Center.

"When he first came up from Colombia, he was stunted in growth because of malnutrition. Everything he ate he had to push with his finger to a little gullet in the back of his throat.

"He also wasn't able to handle liquids very well. He'd choke," Stark said.

In addition, the boy could hardly talk.

Today, with his new tongue, Jorge can eat normally. His speech also has improved, said Stark.

The doctor said there were no clues in the family history or in his mother's pregnancy as to why the child was born tongueless. He is an only child, born when his mother was in her 30s.

Jorge was not mentally dull, Stark said, but he was socially retarded.

"Other children were very cruel," Stark said.

Before the operation, the inside of Jorge's mouth was larger than normal and seemed even more cavernous because there was no tongue. There was bone where there should have been muscle, trimming the mouth to a smaller-than-usual opening.

Jorge's operation was a rare procedure, say medical authorities. There is little in medical literature about tongue reconstruction.

The first operation was in July 1977, when Stark reconstructed the tongue and did a bone graft. A year later, a larger bone graft was made. Last year, the tiny opening to his mouth was enlarged to give him a better bite.

A special fund set up by some of Stark's former patients paid for Jorge's anesthesia and stay at St. Luke's. "We did not charge anything," Stark said.

Jorge's tongue was made from the neck's strap muscles, which run from the collar bone to the chin. They account for certain sounds one hears in the voice.

First, his doctors made a slit on each side of the front of his neck. The flesh and muscles were pushed up and out, forming a ridge in the shape of a suitcase handle under his chin.

This ridge eventually became his tongue. It was skinned, partially detached from the neck, then pushed up into the mouth through the jaw, using a tunnel created by snipping into the jawbone and cutting away some other, useless bone that had grown into Jorge's mouth where a tongue should have been.

The strap muscles are "in front of the voice box and not terribly important," Stark said. "We can do without them, and I think this was probably a better use."

Yellow ribbons and a prayer for hostages on Mother's Day

CLEWISTON, Fla. (AP) — At first, Leola Smith was sort of embarrassed about the whole idea. But nobody laughed, and on Sunday this small community will be adorned with thousands of yellow ribbons in one big Mother's Day prayer for the hostages in Iran.

"I guess it's pretty idealistic," said Mrs. Smith, head of the 21-member Jayceettes chapter in Clewiston, a farm and fishing town on the banks of Lake Okeechobee.

"We know it's not going to free the hostages," she said. "But we thought if the hostages' mothers heard about it, well, it might touch their hearts."

Sunday, the 190th day of captivity for the 53 Americans in Iran, has been named "Yellow Ribbon Day" by Leon Bemby, mayor of this town of 3,800.

The Jayceettes fashioned more than 4,000 bright yellow pin-on bows, distributing them in schools and shops and giving them to clergymen to hand out at Sunday services.

Patients at Hendry General Hospital will find yellow ribbons on their Sunday meal trays. The Clewiston 4-wheel-drive club agreed to help distribute ribbons. Mrs. Smith produced a radio public service announcement with the strains of the hit Tony Orlando song, "Tie A Yellow Ribbon 'Round The Old Oak Tree" as background.

But there will be no ribbons on trees. Clewiston has more palms than oaks anyway, and we wanted a dignified expression of concern," said Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Smith said the Jayceettes took their theme from the lyrics of the song, in which a man returning home after many years in prison asks his love to tie a ribbon on the tree if she wants to see him again. When his bus arrives, he's greeted by hundreds of ribbons.

But the symbolism runs deeper in the nation's heritage. "In the Civil War, women wore yellow ribbons when their men went away to war," Mrs. Smith said.

The idea of wearing yellow ribbons for the Iran hostages originated earlier this year with Jayceettes in Tennessee. In April, the U.S. Jayceettes urged all 3,000 local chapters to join in.

"We want the hostages to hear that the yellow ribbons are all over America. Maybe somebody over there will tell them," said Jan Zook, of Bowbells, N.D., the organization's administrative vice president.

As area athletes well represented Jones, Gee ready for state meet

By NATHAN POSS

AUSTIN — Numerous Big Spring area athletes will be converging on the prestigious Texas Boys State Track and Field Meet that begins this afternoon with high hopes of earning statewide recognition with their performances.

Representing this area will be Big Spring's Joe Willie Jones, Coahoma's Gary Gee, Stanton's Lewis Henry, Freddie Silva, Curtis Williams and Ernie Byrd, and Klondike's James Martin.

The meet is split up into two days of action. The field events begin today at noon, and continue tomorrow at 10:00 a.m., while the running events will be held on both Friday night and Saturday.

The Class AA and AAA running finals will be held beginning at 7:00 p.m. tonight, while the Class AAAA, A and B running finals will begin at noon tomorrow.

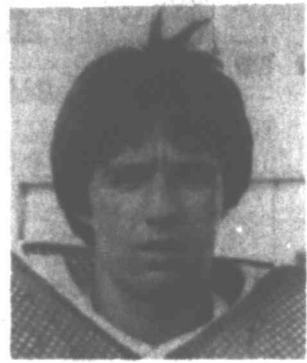

In running action tonight, Coahoma's Gary Gee will be making his second consecutive trip to the state meet in the 110-meter high hurdles.

Gee, who ran a 14.3 at regionals to take a second and qualify for the state meet, has not been at full speed this year due to a hamstring injury that he suffered very early in the season.

He ran as fast as 14.2 last year, and feels that he is very capable of bettering that in tonight's action.

"My leg feels great," he said from an Austin motel Thursday night. "It hasn't given me any problems lately."

Gee will have to run faster than the 14.2 in order to win, if things go as expected. Waller's Rod Clark ran a 14.15 in winning his regional two weeks ago, but has cracked the 14 second barrier on occasion this year. Clark's teammate, John Bell, also has run a 14.2, as has Todd Bradley of

GARY GEE

Childress, who edged Gee in the Region I meet.

"I am running in the lane next to the fastest guy here (Clark)," Gee said, "and if I can keep up with him I feel I have a good chance at winning it."

Gee won the regional last year, but suffered the misfortune of falling over a hurdle in the state meet. But his experience under the pressure should help tonight. His 14.3 regional time is the fourth best among his competitors entering tonight's finals.

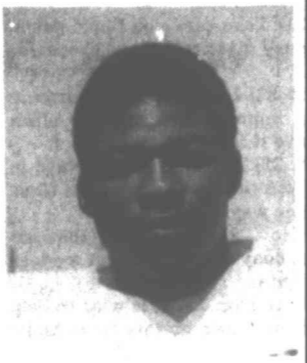

Jones will be competing in the Class AAAA's tough 400-meter field tomorrow afternoon.

The Big Spring senior who scored in two events at the regionals ran a 49.1 in finishing second in the Region I AAAA meet two week-ends ago. But Joe Willie came back to run a 48.8 in the state qualifiers warm-up meet in Abilene last weekend.

Realistically, the 400-meter affair should be a two-man show between Jerry Nichols of Port Arthur Lincoln and Keith Barnett of Houston Yates. Nichols ran an outstanding time of 47.14 in winning his regional, with Barnett second in a time of 47.78.

Jones' time is the fourth best among those participating, and he feels that he will have to run his fastest time ever tomorrow.

"That's really moving," he said when informed of the time's run by Nichols and Barnett. "But I feel that I can run a 48.5."

A 48.5 would probably get Jones a third in the state meet, and this no doubt would be pleasing to him.

"To run a 48.5," the Steer Senior said, "I've got to come out of the blocks good. I have had a problem coming out of the blocks in many of my races, and it loses me two or three seconds. That's the most important aspect I can see in order to improve my time."

Stanton's Lewis Henry will be entered in the Class A long jump, and he and the rest of the Stanton 400-meter relay team will compete in that event.

Henry will probably have to improve on a 21-2 regional long jump in order to place, with Somerville's Raymond Woodfork the early favorite at 22-7 1/2.

Henry, Silva, Williams and Byrd ran a 44.44 in the regionals two weeks ago. This is the sixth best time of the teams entered in the Class A field. The best is by Falls City, an early favorite for the team title, with a clocking of 42.69.

The other area participant, Klondike's James Martin, will be competing in both the shot put and discus. He is considered to have a very good chance at winning the discus, as his regional toss of 157-1 is the second best entered, just behind Bobby Easterling of Rochester's toss of 157-3.

Steers to stage unique scrimmage

The Big Spring Steer football team will be holding a unique type of scrimmage tomorrow when the troops finish their first full week of spring training under new Coach Ralph Harris.

The action, which is set to begin at 9:00 a.m. in Memorial Stadium, will be run east and west, instead of north and south as in a normal scrimmage or game.

Harris explains that the different look is to film the action from behind the quarterback. The ball will be snapped at the 50 yard-line on every play, with the offensive team trying to move in a direction from the home bench toward the visitor sideline.

"We're still just getting past the fundamentals and beginning to work from a team standpoint," says Harris. "By filming like this, it gives us a better chance to look at the full team's execution."

First downs and scores will not be accounted for, Harris also mentioned.

The Steer gridders began their spring orientation of their new coach's system last Friday, working strictly on defense for three days. The team then worked exclusively for three days on offense, finally beginning to put it together as a full unit today.

Harris has been happy with the response of the gridders thus far, and encourages the public to come watch the practice sessions and tomorrow morning's scrimmage. "We'll promise enthusiasm," Harris has said.

Working strictly on fundamentals thus far, Harris and his staff have had a chance to evaluate some of the abilities and how the team was responding to a new system, and certain things didn't surprise Harris.

"The more experienced players caught on quickly to what we're doing," the Steer mentor said. "The winners are coming to the top and revealing themselves."

Harris and his staff had also had some valuable field time to look at some of the strengths and weaknesses of the team.

"Our feet quickness needs a lot of work," he said, "but our basic speed is not bad."

"Our strength also needs improving. We're not as strong as we should be."

"But," he added, "the effort and the concentration have been very good thus far."

David and Goliath Tourney starts tonite

The Big Spring Athletics Fourth Annual David and Goliath Slow-Pitch Tournament will begin tonight when a pair of Class A teams hit the field at 7:30 p.m.

The 34 team field will boast two extremely tough divisions.

There will be a 27-team field with some of the better teams in the area competing for David's side of the tournament.

In the seven-team Goliath field called the Open Division, only the top area teams will be entered. They will play a round-robin schedule, with the winner of the Goliath side meeting the survivor of the double elimination David side for the championship.

The championship affair will be around 5:00 p.m. on Sunday. Games will proceed well into tonight and Saturday night.

Big Spring Athletics, a local sporting goods store, is helping sponsor the tournament. They have bought an impressive display of trophies, watches, travel bags, and other assorted prizes for outstanding teams and individuals. Highlighting the award list an imposing 6'4" trophy that will be given to the winner of the David-Goliath match Sunday afternoon.

Tournament Director John Weeks will be assisted by the local Kwiksilver team that is putting on the competition, which will be held mostly at the Johnny Stone Park. All of the games except 12, which will be at Stink Creek, are slated for the two-field Johnny Stone Park.

Entered in the Open Division are Odessa's Electric Service and MSA, the Brownwood Brewers, and Goodrich, Golden Life, Alcar and Magic, all of Odessa.

UGSA holding opening day parade Saturday

The Big Spring United Girls Softball Association will hold an opening day parade tomorrow afternoon beginning at four o'clock.

The parade will begin downtown and proceed north to the Roy Anderson Complex for ceremonies. All of the girls teams will have decorated vehicles for the event, and they urge any other league, male or female, to participate.

Following the opening ceremonies, there will be two games in Division II and III.

Umpires Association meeting

The Big Spring Umpires Association will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 p.m. at the Chamber of Commerce's meeting room.

Games for the upcoming two weeks will be assigned at this time.

Advice to the Lakers: Don't make Dawkins mad

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Darryl Dawkins, who plays center for the Philadelphia 76ers when he isn't roaming the wilds of his adopted planet Lovetron, lists "Chocolate Thunder" among his favorite nicknames.

So he didn't react too kindly when a couple of Los Angeles writers, unimpressed by his 18-minute performance in the Lakers' 109-102 victory in the opening game of the National Basketball Association championship series, changed his nickname to "Chocolate Blunder" — or worse, "Chocolate Pudding."

"They should know better than to mess with my name like that," said Dawkins as he killed time in the lobby of the Sixers' hotel in Los Angeles Wednesday prior to the second game of the series. "I'm no dessert. But they can call me whatever they want — I know I'll come up solid."

Hours later, the 6-foot-11, 252-pound Dawkins did just that, scoring 25 points in 39 minutes and playing a solid all-around game in helping the Sixers even the best-of-seven playoff finals with a 107-104 victory.

The next two games of the series, both afternoon contests, will be played here Saturday and Sunday. Game Five is scheduled for Los Angeles Wednesday night.

"Darryl is a guy who wants to win," said Sixers Coach Billy Cunningham. "He is willing to work for it and he showed it. He was a completely different ballplayer."

"In the opener Sunday I blew my cool," said Dawkins, who picked up three early fouls in that game and finally fouled out in the fourth quarter. "I didn't stay in and play my game. I got out of the offense. This was a different story. I got myself going early and got better and better."

To keep Dawkins out of foul trouble and in the game, Cunningham switched him away from the Lakers' awesome center, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, and had him guard Los Angeles' less potent forward, Jim Chones. While Abdul-Jabbar was brilliant with 38 points and 14 rebounds against slender Caldwell Jones, the move worked in that Dawkins managed to stay off the bench.

The victory enabled the 76ers to take away the homecourt advantage in the series, which Los Angeles had earned by winning 60 games during the regular season to 59 for Philadelphia.

"We came out to their building and got a split," said Cunningham. "We would rather have won two, of course, but we have to be satisfied. Now they have to win at least once in Philadelphia."

No Laker team has won in Philadelphia since 1975, a streak of nine losses. It's a streak that's about to end, says Chones.

"We know we are better than they are," claimed the Los Angeles forward.

Barber led Flyers move to NHL final round

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bill Barber has been waiting a year to vent his frustration. The Minnesota North Stars felt his fury.

Barber scored two goals and one assist, set two records and tied two in triggering the Philadelphia Flyers to a 7-3 victory over Minnesota and into the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup finals.

The Flyers now sit back and wait for a winner to emerge from the semifinal between the New York Islanders and the Buffalo Sabres. Then the Flyers can start the final best-of-seven set for the silver cup first awarded in 1893. Buffalo won Thursday night and trails the Isles, 3-2.

Barber scored nine goals in the series with the North Stars, tying the NHL record established by teammate Reggie Leach in 1976. He also tied the record of three shorthanded goals in a playoff year set in 1969 by Derek Sanderson.

The Flyers' veteran winger set a mark of three shorthanded goals in one playoff series, and established a new club mark of 12 points (nine goals and three assists) in one series.

Minnesota Coach Glen Sonmor took his team's elimination gracefully.

"Nobody likes to lose, but we lost to the best team in the league. We kept trying and trying. Nobody threw in the towel. They were best over the season and should prevail in the finals," Sonmor said.

"They just force you and force you," said Sonmor of the Flyers, who swept Edmonton in a three-game preliminary playoff series, and then ousted the Rangers 4-1 in a best-of-seven. "Their power play came to life. They continue to score shorthanded. It's not lucky."

Stacy confident as Atlanta LPGA begins

ATLANTA (AP) — Hollis Stacy is full of confidence as she enters the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament beginning today on the rugged hills of the Brookfield West Country Club course.

"I think I'm primed for this part of the country," said Stacy, a two-time Women's U.S. Open champion who has enjoyed success on this par 73, 6,270-yard course in her home state.

Her confidence was boosted last week when she edged Amy Alcott in a sudden death playoff to capture the Women's International event at Hilton Head, S.C., only a few miles from her Savannah home.

Stacy, who in her sixth pro season ranks among the top 20 in career earnings, won here in 1977 with a 10-under-par 209 total and tied Gloria Ehret for second place a year later when the twosome lost in a three-way sudden death playoff against Janet Coles.

"I'm very confident going in because I am hitting the ball so solidly," Stacy said. "I'm hitting the ball as well as I have in three years. I'm ready for the next three tournaments. I seem to play my best golf in April and May."

Because of her success here, Stacy has to rank among the favorites a field of 102 players, including five amateurs. One of the five is Hollis' sister, Martha, who plays on the women's team at the University of Georgia.

Canada's Sandra Post is the defending champion in the elite field that includes seven of the season's top 10 money winners, including the top three.

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 10, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The only benefits that come to you during the daytime are those which are not planned. The evening finds all kinds of interesting ideas soaring through your consciousness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle worrisome matters early, then engage in favorite hobby. Be with gentle persons in the evening and be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Friends could prove disappointing now, so carry through without asking them for aid. Be more tolerant of others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be objective in handling civic duties and get fine results. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find the best method for ridding yourself of worries. Don't lose your temper over a situation that displeases you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care you don't get in trouble with one over a money matter. Engage in outside activities with congenials.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look over your surroundings and make plans for improvement. A civic affair could be disturbing, but take it in stride.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) There could be delays in regular routines, but later you can make up for lost time. Improve your health in some way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget all that extravagant spending and get busy making a talent work to your benefit. Avoid arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It is wise to help family members who need your help at this time. Make plans to have added abundance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to complete your chores with fewer interruptions. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't take any risks where present security is concerned. Enjoy the social in the evening, preferably at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study personal problems well and know how best to get rid of them. Engage in recreational activities with congenials.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of seizing opportunities to advance that come up unexpectedly. Teach early to be happy at study since a positive attitude will bring success. Be sure to give good religious training early in life.

Weather again causes PGA tour to stop

DALLAS (AP) — It was an all-too-familiar scene on the professional golf tour this year, rainy day boredom. Lee Trevino was describing a new technique for helping high handicappers playing out of bunkers.

Leonard Thompson was deeply engrossed in a rap session. Others were playing backgammon and watching television.

Outside, a thunderstorm raked the Preston Trail Golf Club, site of the Byron Nelson Classic.

Soon the word came: First round postponed; a makeup 36 holes Sunday for the low 60 survivors of 18 holes on Friday and Saturday.

There was some grumbling. It was the ninth time on the Professional Golfers Association tour this year that a round has been suspended, cancelled, or postponed.

In 11 of the 18 tournaments there has been at least rain or a delay.

The Nelson Classic is infamous for its rain delays or weather problems.

Four years ago a vicious storm tore through the course the day before the tournament, knocking down trees and flattening the press tent. Last year rain and lightning forced tournament officials into three delays.

"Well, we got the Pro-Am in and now we've just got to play the cards as we have them dealt to us," said an official for the Salesmanship Club, which runs the $300,000 tournament for charity.

Postponements can mean bad news for players with physical ailments.

For example, Thompson said "I've got a bad knee. I have difficulty playing 36 holes. That means I have to make a decision after the rounds Friday and Saturday whether want to try 36 holes on Sunday or just withdraw so I'll be okay for Colonial (next week)."

Only two threesomes had teed off before the decision was made to quit. All scores were cancelled, including a double bogey six on the Par 4 No. 2 hole by Bill Galloway.

Defending champion Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus and Trevino never teed off in pursuit of the $54,000 first place prize.

Nelson joked: "Well, we're consistent. It (the rain) happens to us every year. Of course, it will make the course easier now. The greens will hold great and the player can shoot right at the flag. It will be several days before the greens are slick again."

"Let the players on the tour have soft conditions and they'll shoot some low scores."

APPEAL TO HIGHER AUTHORITY — Chicago Cubs catcher Barry Foote holds ball aloft in appeal as Jerry Turner of San Diego Padres awaits outcome during double steal in eighth inning Thursday at Chicago. Turner scored from third after Kurt Bevacqua stole second. Umpire John Kibler ruled Turner safe in spite of Foote's appeal. San Diego won, 9-6.

Major League Roundup

Chisox rookie hurler baffles elder hitters

By the Associated Press

Robert Burns composes his poetry on the pitching mound but he uses his middle name anyway and prefers to be called Britt Burns.

Under any name, Burns is proving to be one of baseball's top rookies. He pitches like a 30-year-old with a 20-year-old arm, which is his real age since he won't turn 21 until June 8.

The former Birmingham, Ala., prep star — his high school earned run average was an outrageous 0.12 with 292 strikeouts and only 30 hits in 139 innings — notched his first complete-game victory in the majors Thursday night, scattering nine hits as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Kansas City Royals 8-2. His American League ERA is a sizzling 1.00.

Actually, it was Burns' third consecutive route-going effort, but the previous two were 1-0 and 4-1 setbacks.

"A complete game is just sort of a bonus," Burns said "I feel good any time I'm able to go out and give the club a chance to win. To me, that's doing my job."

Burns got some offensive support from Claudell

Washington, who rapped a pair of RBI singles. The first came in a three-run second inning and the second one highlighted another three-run uprising in the fifth when the White Sox chased loser Paul Splittorf.

Meanwhile, Burns walked one and struck out eight. He allowed a home run to Frank White in the second inning and an RBI single to White in the ninth.

"If you look at Burns out there, you'd think he was 30 years old and a 10-year veteran instead of a 20-year-old rookie," said Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa. "He's got a tremendous amount of poise and he knows how to pitch in certain situations. It's not common to find that much poise in a pitcher as young as he is."

Blue Jays 9, Angels 2

The Blue Jays not only set a club record by winning their sixth game in a row but also gave them undisputed possession of first place in the AL East, one-half game ahead of the idle New York Yankees.

Paul Mirabella and Joey McLaughlin combined to pitch a six-hitter while Damaso Garcia drove in Toronto's first two runs, John Mayberry hit a two-run homer and Otto Velez collected three singles and a double.

Mariners 4, Tigers 3

The Mariners, blanked for eight innings by Jack Morris, rallied for four runs in the bottom of the ninth to make unbeaten Rick Honeycutt the first six-game winner in the majors.

Rodney Craig started the rally with a one-out single, Bill Stein walked and Ted Cox singled to score Craig. Morris walked Bob Stinson to load the bases before giving way to Aurelio Lopez.

Padres 9, Cubs 6

Kurt Bevacqua's two-run pinch single and Jerry Turner's steal of home featured a four-run eighth-inning San Diego rally. Dave Winfield walked with one out and Willie Montanez doubled. Relief ace Bruce Sutter took over for starter Rick Neuschel and gave up a run-scoring single to Bill Fahey, an intentional walk to Turner and a two-run single to Bevacqua. Turner and Bevacqua then put on a double steal with Turner scoring.

"That proves that Sutter is only human," said Padres Manager Jerry Coleman. "You know, on any given day..."

Low salt, sugar content

Make snacking good for kids

Gone are the days when teachers smiled upon cookie and punch breaks in kindergartens across the land. "Administrators of school lunch programs are putting nutrition first as they plan meals and snacks," says Dr. Sarah Short, Syracuse University Nutrition Professors and mother of three. "When in 1977 the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs advised Americans to decrease their consumption of refined sugars and salts, educators assumed greater responsibility for the quality of snacks our children consume."

Dr. Short reports the trend to better eating for school children is thriving in New York City, where two mothers have incorporated their own business furnishing nursery schools and day-care centers with snack foods which are nutritious as well as appealing to children.

"Many mothers who want to maintain their children's healthful eating habits at home have asked me to describe characteristics which make a snack food nutritious," says Dr. Short, offering, "A good general rule I use is that an ideal treat is low in salt and sugar content, while actually providing some of the nutrients a child needs, like the complex carbohydrates abundant in whole grains, fruits and vegetables."

She adds, "In any discussion of healthful eating for the young, it's important for parents to remember that their child's nutritional pattern is actually established in the all-important first year of life. The ideal diet mainstay throughout that crucial period is, of course, mother's milk. If a mother cannot, or chooses not, to breast-feed, then her best alternate form of sustenance is commercially-prepared infant formula."

Dr. Short says she recommends that parents provide newborns one or the other, or a carefully-planned combination of both, of these recommended diet mainstays throughout the entire first year of life, for she says unmodified cow milk is too high in protein, salt and some other substances, and too low in Vitamin C, E, iron and copper for a newborn.

"It's also important for parents to delay introduction of solid foods until their child's digestive system is ready to metabolize them. That's usually sometime between the fourth and sixth month of life," she says, adding that it is important to ask the child's pediatrician for guidance regarding the individual youngster's ideal time for solids introduction.

Snacks which merit Dr. Short's endorsement for serving to older children include crisp, vitamin-filled raw vegetable bits served with a cottage cheese-based dip, for cheese is rich in protein, calcium and riboflavin. And surprisingly, she also recommends cheese pizza as an ideal snack food, particularly when it is made with a whole grain crust.

Other treats she heartily endorses are popsicles made from pure fruit juice, snacks guaranteed to thrill children on hot, humid summer days.

Following are recipes for two appealing and nutritious snacks.

8 slices of whole wheat bread
Margarine
One 8-oz. can tomato sauce
8 slices pepperoni or sausage, cooked
1 cup grated mozzarella cheese
Grated fresh Parmesan cheese
Oregano

Spread one side of each of the bread slices with a thin coat of margarine. Place slices, buttered sides up, on a cookie sheet and broil them for 2 minutes. Remove from the oven and spread each slice with tomato sauce, about 2 tbsps. of the grated mozzarella,  $\frac{1}{4}$ -tsp. of oregano, and a bit more of the grated Parmesan. Make 4 "sandwiches" from the bread slices and divide pepperoni or sausage slices evenly among them. Broil until the cheese bubbles and browns slightly, remove from the oven and serve warm.

Whole Wheat Carrot Cupcakes

1 cup cooking oil
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
4 eggs
2 cups whole wheat flour
1-3rd cup nonfat dry milk powder
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. baking powder
3 tsp. ground cinnamon.
3 cups finely-shredded carrots

In a large mixer bowl, blend the oil and sugars well. Add vanilla. Beat in eggs, one at a time. In another bowl, stir together the flour, milk powder, baking soda, baking powder, 1 tsp. salt and cinnamon. Thoroughly blend this with the egg mixture. By hand, stir in the carrots. Pour the batter into muffin tins (makes 12 plump cupcakes). Bake in a 350 degrees F. oven for 40 minutes or until cake tests done. Apply topping when cool.

Dear Abby

Shut Up And Eat!

DEAR ABBY: You missed the obvious in the case of the man whose ladyfriend scolded him for eating with his elbows on the table and talking with his mouth full. It is evident that he is going with the village nag because nobody else will have him.

More people are turned off by bad table manners than bad breath, body odor and a terrible temper combined. I recently invited an elderly gentleman over for dinner. I will not ask him again. Seeing him talk with his mouth full of food was more than I could bear.

Since advertisers have no product for sale to improve table manners, the offending man should be glad his ladyfriend only scolded him. She could have rejected him. Not even dogs bark with their mouths full!

DOG'S BEST FRIEND IN D.C.

DEAR FRIEND: It takes all kinds of people. Read on for another view:

DEAR ABBY: With our world falling apart and so much suffering, how do people get hung up on such little things? A man could have worse faults than eating with his elbows on the table. If I could call my husband back, I wouldn't care if he put his knee on the table. Sign me

70 AND LONESOME

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went on a two-week trip last year and hired a woman to stay in our home and look after our children.

After we came home, I couldn't find my favorite pair of earrings. They were only costume jewelry, but I like them and wore them with many outfits.

Last evening my husband and I went to a movie, and as we came out, there was this friend who stayed at our home last year, wearing my earrings! Up until that time I wanted to believe that I had just misplaced them. Needless to say, I was shocked. Shall I ask her to return my earrings? Or should I just wait and hope she reads your column and brings them back?

MRS. A

DEAR MRS. A: Ask her. But don't expect her to bring them back. Anyone who would steal would probably lie.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL HURTING IN VICTORIA, TEXAS": All love affairs would be pain-free if both parties quit caring at the same time. But they never do, so be a big boy and don't whine, beg or crawl. It's over.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought To Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Planters Garden Club meets at Reddy Room

Mrs. Paul Guy and Mrs. Cass Hill were hostesses to the Planters Garden Club meeting Wednesday. Mrs. Guy, president, presided over the 3:30 p.m. meeting in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

Members answered roll call by naming an instance when being a member of the garden club helped them.

Watering the rose garden at Comanche Trail Park during the month of June was discussed. Mrs. Fannie Kent reported on the Garden Club Council where the annual Fall Salad luncheon Sept. 29 was discussed. This luncheon will be at Dora Roberts Community Center. New officers installed by Mrs. Guy are Mrs. Cass Hill, president; Mrs. Pat Highley, vice president; Mrs. J.O. Murphy, secretary; Mrs. Gladys Sanderson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Peggy Rogers, treasurer and Mrs. Fannie Kent, council delegate.

The meeting adjourned after refreshments until June 4.

Daughter born to Colburns

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald R. Colburn, Lubbock, announce the birth of their first child, Lacy Leigh, born May 4 at 7:09 p.m.

The infant made her debut at Reese Air Force Base Hospital weighing 7 pounds 4 1/2 ounces. She measured 18 1/2 inches in length.

Maternal grandfather of Lacy is Leroy Statham of Big Spring. Great-grandparents include Louis Shaw, New York; Stewart Foote, Otey, N.Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Young, Big Spring. Great-great-grandfather of the infant is W.R. Young of Fort Worth.

Doctor discusses need for breast milk banks

Blood banks and tissue banks are familiar concepts, but banking breast milk is a new idea to most people. Rolt Habersang, M.D., associate chairperson of pediatrics, Texas Tech University Regional Academic Health Center (RAHC) at Amarillo, and Tia Habersang, R.N., B.S.N., Neonatal Intensive Care head nurse, Northwest Texas Hospital, are exploring the possibilities of establishing a breast milk bank in Amarillo.

"It is our goal to set up a breast milk bank for premature babies," he said. "We especially want to do this because mothers' milk is more digestible and has immunological advantages that commercially prepared formulas do not have."

Habersang discussed the need for a breast milk bank in Amarillo and the steps necessary to establish one at the Third Annual Seminar of the High Plains Perinatal Association held recently. The seminar co-sponsored by TTUHSC, was at the Regional Academic Health Center, 1400 Wallace Boulevard.

Marion Howard, Ph.D., assistant professor and director of the Teen Services Program, Grady Memorial Hospital, Atlanta, Ga.; discussed teenage pregnancy and its consequences. He conducted a workshop session on adolescent sexuality and decision making.

Clara McPherson, Ph.D., associate professor of food and nutrition, Texas Tech University, discussed prenatal nutrition and Nathan Goldstein, M.D., Amarillo pediatrician, addressed infant nutrition.

Roger Perry, M.D., associate professor and associate chairperson of obstetrics and gynecology, Texas Tech, Helene Botsonis, R.N., B.S.N., nurse representative to the State Advisory Board of the Texas Perinatal Association in Amarillo and March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation volunteer advisor, and Bob Simpson, state representative and attorney at law presented a panel discussion on perinatal services.

Other workshop sessions included a clinical ultrasound demonstration by Walter Taylor, M.D., clinical gynecologist for Dallas International Ultrasound Institute, Inc., and a discussion of management of the pregnant diabetic by Wendell Ashby, M.D., assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology, TTUHSC, Amarillo.

Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center certifies that this continuing medical education activity met the criteria for 5 credit hours in Category I of the Physician's Recognition Award of the American Medical Association, provided the program was completed as designated. Amana. Radarange. ROTAWAVE. COOKING SYSTEM

A rotating shower of power that cooks more evenly and cooks most foods faster than ever before!

A rotating antenna beams microwave energy directly at food in a uniform, rotating pattern.

SO FOODS COOK MORE EVENLY!
Even rows of cookies or several potatoes cook more evenly than ever before.

MOST FOODS COOK FASTER!
Some foods like cakes, pies and muffins now bake up to twice as fast.

COOKS MORE CONVENIENTLY!
Most foods require no turning because the Rotawave antenna rotates microwaves through the food.

BETTER FOOD QUALITY!
Breads, cakes, even egg dishes turn out lighter and fluffier. Meats brown more evenly.

Sale $639.95

Fears of darkness shared by many

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 17-year-old girl who is terrified of the dark. I know it sounds foolish but I can't help it. I've tried sleeping without a nightlight but I panicked and started screaming.

When at a movie theater and the lights go out, I almost jump up and start yelling. I wonder what will happen to me when I get married and have children. What am I going to do? I can't go on living like his. — Shirley, Huntsville, Ala.

Shirley: Your emotional "hang-up" is more common than you think and in most cases the person can be helped. Stop by and share the problem with your family doctor who will recommend a professional person who can help!

Dr. Wallace: We were having a family discussion on how much more money a college graduate would make than a person who does not attend college.

Would you please be so kind as to find out for me? — Connie, San Diego, Calif.

Connie: A study done by Harvard University shows that the average college graduate working from age 25 to 65 will make $444,000 more than the non-college grad. That comes to a little over $11,000 more per year for the college graduate.

That more than covers the cost of tuition, even to Harvard.

But please remember there are exceptions to all situations. Some corporation presidents never attended college and some college graduates are unemployed. And, as a general rule, women college graduates earn less than men.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old girl who was dating a 18-year-old guy. Everybody in my family thinks that we made love and continually throw it up to me.

I'm pure and did not do what they think and I've done everything but can't convince them that I'm innocent. What can I do to convince them? — T.A., Shepherdsville, Ky.

T.A.: You don't have to convince your family that you are innocent. You told them the truth and that should be the end of it.

Do not discuss it again, but if your parents insist, ask them to take you to a doctor so you can go on about your business of being a teen-ager.

Industrial arts students bring home five firsts

Big Spring High School students scored ten hits in the Texas Industrial Arts State competition out of ten entries May 2-3 in Waco.

Big Spring received five firsts, four seconds and one third place in the state contest, having ten architectural drawings that qualified for the regional contest.

Students placing in second year architectural ink division were Jim Buske, first place; Brad Glaser, first place and Ernest Jara, second place. Ricky Robertson placed first in the second year architectural pencil division with Keith Sheedy placing second and Mike Hicks, third.

Gary Hernandez and Randy Menges placed first and second respectively in the first year pencil division.

Ernest Jara placed first in the metric division and Ricky Robertson second in the commercial drafting division.

Entries of the students were mainly home and commercial building plans.

U.S. Border Patrol cutbacks

INS disagrees with Bentsen

By STEVE SNIDER
WASHINGTON — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, says manpower and fuel cutbacks in the U.S. Border Patrol are "crippling" enforcement efforts in his state, but the Immigration and Naturalization Service disagrees.

because of a lack of fuel," Neither administration official has yet responded to the senator, but an INS spokesman Thursday disputed Bentsen's figures and assessment of the situation in Texas.

Verne Jorvis, INS public information officer, said only 100 agents from the agency's southern region (Florida to Arizona) have been transferred to south Florida to handle the Cuban influx. The decrease in fuel use, he said, was a May cost-cutting move by regional INS officials.

officials in Texas have gotten directly in touch with us about the situation," said Jack Devore, Bentsen's spokesman. "They said if they arrest an illegal alien, the Border Patrol is telling them they don't have the fuel to pick him up so they should turn him loose."

St. Louis TV anchorman began career at local radio station

Larry Forniquet, who got his start in radio with station KBST in Big Spring, currently is anchorman for KTVI-TV in St. Louis, Mo. He now uses the name Larry Conners.

Larry's father worked in the oil fields at the time the family lived in this area. Larry is 29.

Asked recently how small Big Spring is, Larry said the name used to be plural until one of the springs dried up.

Winston Wrinkle, owner of KBST, recalls Larry as a hard-working, ambitious youngster who overcame a slight speech impediment to get to the top.

Forniquet left here to work for an Amarillo radio station and enroll at West Texas State University, where he majored in political science.

While in Amarillo, he won several news service awards for reporting and was offered a job at an Amarillo television station.

Following his graduation, he got a television job in Houston and planned to go to night school to get a degree in law.

News telecasting in Houston, however, began to

Striking workers refuse to vote on Ozark offer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Striking Ozark Air Lines mechanics have refused the company president's request to vote on Ozark's last contract offer.

A union spokesman said the members of the Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association reviewed the last offer at an informational meeting Thursday but "saw no need" to take a vote.

Ozark President Edward Crane attended the closed meeting at the union's request and appealed for the vote by the full membership. Crane told the mechanics the union's demands were jeopardizing the future of the airline.

"He told them he felt it was appropriate to put the last offer to a vote of the full union," said Charles Ehler, Ozark public relations director. "He said he was concerned about the future competitiveness of the company in today's airline industry."

The mechanics walked off the job early Tuesday after talks broke down over wages and pension benefits. The union had been working without a contract since May 1979.

The two sides were relatively close on wages before the talks broke off, according to an informational sheet handed out to union members before the meeting began. However, the union was seeking raises every six months while the company offered annual increases.

Both sides' proposals amounted to a 33.8 percent increase over the 36-month contract, according to the informational sheet.

Safe drinking water to come

CRYSTAL BEACH, Texas (AP) — The water tower on Bolivar Peninsula is filling, but the area's 3,000 residents are still several days away from having safe drinking water, officials say.

Bolivar Peninsula Water Supply Corp. office manager Pat Rollins said Thursday a patch divers placed on a 12-inch water line appeared to be holding, but said she did not know when drinking water for area residents would be safe.
