TYPICAL REACTION — Pretty Yolanda Bailon reacted the way most Big Spring area residents did to this morning's 'million dollar' rain — with a 'million dollar' smile. Yolanda went even further. She couldn't resist taking off her shoes and wading in to see if the "pennies from Heaven" were, in fact, genuine or a mirage. The rains reportedly were the best since October.

Heavy rains up to six inches reported in area

Heavy rains were reported locally today with one area reporting over six inches.

Carl Robinson, who lives four miles south of Luther, reported the six-inch reading.

In other areas around Luther approximately four inches of rain were reported. Ray Walker, one mile east of Fairview said he had 2.9 inches.

In Big Spring, the U.S. Experiment Station's gauge had caught 1.28 inches by 8 a.m. with rain starting at 2:30 a.m. Even heavier rains fell later in the morning.

Four to 4½ inches have fallen at Lake Thomas. In Gall, two inches of rain has been reported.

Heavy rains of five to seven inches fell in the Snyder area.

In Elbow, 8 of an inch has been measured. Ray Wilkinson, 10 miles north of Big Spring, reported 1.75 inches.

Approximately two inches has fallen in the Coahoma area with approximately 2½ inches gauged in Ackerly.

In Lomax, 1.3 inches have been reported, but only .3 of an inch fell in Garden City.

Martin County received 1.2 inches and Mitchell County had .03 to one inch falling through the night.

The rains eased up shortly after 11 a.m.

The area farmers, no doubt, were the happiest among area residents. Many now have enough moisture in the ground with which to plant.

Heavy rains have fallen on the watersheds of both Lake J.B. Thomas and Lake Spence, offering hope that both CRMWD reservoirs will catch substantial amounts of water.

The heaviest fall occurred at the Lake Thomas pump station, where the fall was measured at 4½ inches. Snyder reportedly had up to seven inches of rainfall. Most of that runoff will wind up in Lake Spence.

The final figure on the water entrapment likely will not be known for several days.

Route still to be determined

'Port to Plains' awaits funding

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

The "Port to Plains" highway has been approved by Congress, the chairman of the State Highway Commission said Wednesday during a press conference.

Sam Waldrop said a law included the highway bill allows for the construction of a connector between the Panhandle and the Coast.

"The connector is waiting for funds," Waldrop said. Congress did not appropriate any money for the construction.

Waldrop added that the route of the "Port to Plains" highway has not been determined.

"We will not make a designation on that until we get the funds," Waldrop said.

Waldrop clarified several misconceptions about the "Port to Plains" highway.

"We are not building any 500-mile thoroughfare," he said. "It will be done by bits and pieces." The development of traffic arteries will be determined by location, traffic and importance, Waldrop said. He added that a four-lane highway will be constructed between San Angelo and Eden as an example of the highway department meeting the traffic needs of a particular area.

Waldrop said several roads will be developed to carry traffic from the Texas Northwest to the Southeast.

"One road is not going to meet all the needs," he added.

Repairing highways will be a major priority of the highway commission.

"This is where I see so much of the funds going," Waldrop said. He added between $10-$15 million will be spent rehabilitating Interstate 20.

"It is over 20 years old in this year," Waldrop said about I-20, adding that the highway has a 20-year life.

Energy situation alters freedom of Americans

The shaky energy situation is threatening one of America's freedoms — the freedom of mobility, Sam Waldrop, Chairman of the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission, told a luncheon sponsored by the chamber of commerce to observe National Transportation Week.

"Americans have grown used to moving about with ease and economy, Waldrop said. "We can choose times, places and modes of travel. This has given us incomparable choices in jobs, homes and almost unlimited opportunities for education and cultural enrichment."

With rising gas prices and a cloudy petroleum future, Waldrop said, "The foundation of our transportation has been shaken." According to him, about 96 percent of our transportation is fueled by liquid energy.

The price of fuel, which was 70 cents last Spring, is affecting our social and economic fabric, Waldrop told those in attendance.

"We need to be more selective of the modes of transportation," he said. "We need to make the truck and automobile more efficient."

He urged citizens to heed to Gov. Bill Clements call for car pools and development of park and ride systems. Waldrop pointed out a 10 percent increase in passenger load would have a definite effect on saving fuel.

Waldrop also called for the repair of existing highways. Congested, out-moded highways and public transit systems will not conserve energy.

"We need an additional rehabilitation of transportation," Waldrop said.

He added, "How ingenious transportation engineers, planners and administrators are in facing up to the fuel situation is the key to the future."

Carter may have put stop to Cuban refugee influx

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that could effectively stop the flow of Cuban refugees to the United States, President Carter says that henceforth only those screened in advance by U.S. authorities in Cuba will be accepted.

If Cuban President Fidel Castro accepts those terms, Carter said Wednesday, the United States will send boats and planes to ferry the refugees safely out of the island country.

No longer, Carter declared, will the United States allow itself to be used as a "dumping ground" for Cuban criminals and mental patients.

A few hours after the president appeared before reporters at the White House to reveal the new policy, a jetliner chartered by the U.S. government removed several officials and their dependents from the U.S. Interests Section in Havana, at least temporarily.

It was not clear how many were left behind, although the State Department, which accused Cuba of a "virulent and continuing anti-American campaign," said some essential employees would remain in Havana.

With no formal diplomatic relations between the two countries, the Interests Section is what passes for a U.S. Embassy in Cuba.

There was no immediate indication what, if any, direct connection the decision to remove most U.S. diplomatic personnel from Havana had with Carter's new policy on accepting refugees. However, Carter noted in his announcement of the policy that he did not know how it would be received by Castro. He said the Cuban leader "has so far refused to cooperate with us."

Under the former policy of accepting any Cuban who could make it to a U.S. port, an estimated 39,000 have poured into the United States in the last three weeks via an illegal, ragtag armada of small craft, often operating under unsafe conditions.

Carter said Castro has "refused to permit a safe and orderly" exit of refugees, and reported that seven deaths have resulted. "Responsibility for those deaths rests on the shoulders of Fidel Castro," the president asserted.

Many Cuban exiles and refugees already in Florida expressed support for Carter's new policy. But they warned of uncertainty as to how it will be received by Castro.

"In Cuba, you never even know what time of day it is," said refugee Juan Hernandez, 50, as he arrived late Wednesday in Key West. "One day, public to donate funds that would keep the facility open.

The donations, including the money reported this morning, now total $8,004.88. That leaves the directors $5,901.45 short of their objective.

Checks should be made out to the Halfway House Fund and forwarded to the Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring 79720.

that fountain of dollars for a quick solution."

The Coast Guard, meanwhile, ordered all Americans in the Cuban port of Mariel, where refugees have been loaded during the boatlift, to return immediately to the United States — without refugees.

But a crewman on the 65-foot Greyhound IV, which brought 164 refugees into Key West late Wednesday, said an immediate return may be impossible for the estimated 1,000 to 2,000 boats still at Mariel.

Appraiser Dean resigns

Ruth Mitchel lands tax job

By DON WOODS

Shortages of chief appraisers in Texas has reached the "critical" stage, said Chief Appraiser Earl Dean while discussing his resignation Wednesday afternoon with members of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board.

Dean received two calls the morning of the meeting from Texas appraisal boards requesting information about chief appraisers.

He gets similar calls often. "That is a critical shortage. It's just that simple," he said.

Mrs. Glen (Ruth) Mitchel was appointed director of the appraisal office to supervise office activities while the tax appraisal board is deciding on Dean's successor.

Chairman of the Board Roy Watkins was not surprised by the hiring of Dean by Kaufman County. "I've been afraid all along that something like this would happen," he said.

He said that all over Texas, chief appraisers were being hired from other counties.

"I don't think, frankly, we could meet the salary he will get in another place," said Roy Watkins.

Dean said his plans had been to remain in Big Spring but the offer was too good to refuse. "That's the reason we're moving to Kaufman County in East Texas the first week in June."

His resignation is effective May 31.

Dean said 12 Texas counties are currently seeking people to fill chief appraiser posts. He said the qualifications of chief appraiser are a minimum of three years experience appraising property and Registered Professional Assessor certification.

Jack Watkins said that in time chief appraisers would not be scarce. The reason, he said, is that numerous state taxing entities will be having their appraising done by one of the 254 appraisal boards being established. All of the numerous taxing agencies have appraisers that could be suited for the chief appraiser job.

He said Howard County had gotten an early start, but that by the 1981 deadline, "they're going to start taking the cream off the bluejohn and there's going to be a lot of bluejohn left."

Watkins was referring to the practice of the tax appraisal boards keeping the most experienced appraisers for chief appraisers.

He proposed going to Dallas and recruiting an appraiser without certification and training him. In Dallas, there are many appraisers who have been working under a chief appraiser for several years. Here their chances of advancement would be greater, he said.

"Do you think there is anyone in the various (local) taxing entities that is qualified?" asked Chairman Watkins.

Board members discussed the possibility of contracting with appraisal firms for appraisal work.

Board Member Lila Estes proposed Mrs. Mitchel for the job. Mrs. Mitchel had turned in an application. However, she refused the title of chief appraiser.

"This is purely selfish for the tax board, but if she accepted she would do it for a lot less," said Mrs. Estes.

Mrs. Mitchel protested that she wasn't qualified. She said when people come in with questions she wouldn't be able to answer them.

Others on the board agreed that some members of the public could be hard on a chief appraiser without answers.

Dean proposed that Mrs. Mitchel be contracted to do only the work she has "expertise" in.

Mrs. Estes informed Dean that, "That's not your decision." "I know, Lila," he replied. "I was just making a suggestion."

Mrs. Mitchel said she would find it easier to say, "I don't know" if she had another title than chief appraiser.

Board Member Billy P. Smith, moved that they pay Mrs. Mitchel $100 a month extra for being office director.

Mrs. Mitchel immediately refused the offer. Mrs. Estes said, "I would quit and leave it in a heap before I would take $100 a month."

Smith withdrew the motion saying he had based the suggestion on an incorrect determination about her present salary.

Mrs. Estes asked if Mrs. Mitchel would be willing to accept the appraiser title at a later date. Mrs. Mitchel told her it was possible.

"Lila, I think you're beating a dead horse," said Chairman Watkins. "I don't think so," she replied.

Cuban refugees dilemma

'One false move and you're stung'

By MARK LACTER

WASHINGTON — Victor H. Palmieri, the U.S. Coordinator for Refugee Affairs, may not be a career man at the State Department — but you'd hardly know it. Walking into a congressional hearing room the other day to discuss the Cuban refugees dilemma, Palmieri looked very much the statesman: navy-blue pinstripe suit, subdued tie, and a diplomatically correct delivery. In other words, he didn't say much. In fact, when several reporters asked him to clarify the administration's dual policy of "open arms" for the refugees and enforcement of immigration laws concerning entry into the United States, Palmieri merely reiterated the muddled rationale. "Doesn't that make perfect sense?" he asked, smirking slightly and placing his hand in his trouser pocket. And then came the capper: "Actually," said Palmieri. "I'm trying to make less than perfect sense."

It was only in the last indiscretion did the 50-year-old Palmieri, on the job for just five months, reveal a personality more suitable during his days as a crisis manager for the Penn Central Railroad and the scandal-ridden Teamsters' Central States Pension Fund.

Palmieri has gained prominence over the years by delving into the most complicated, the most hopeless managerial dilemmas and working extended hours to unravel the mess. In this respect, he seems to have come to the right place.

But the massive influx of Cuban refugees clearly is more than just a managerial problem — it's a political one as well. One State Department official compared the development of a coherent policy to "walking through a bed of hornets' nests — one false move and you're stung."

So Palmieri has opted for the high road — in essence calling for restraint in deciding where the thousands of Cubans are to be resettled until after the "emergency" is over.

This waiting game "is not really his style," says a close friend who has followed Palmieri's career. "Victor likes to come into a situation and take charge immediately. But there are other forces at work, like the White House and the humanitarian aspect of the problem."

All of which became painfully obvious during testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee earlier this week when Sen. Edward Kennedy — making an appearance as chairman for the first time since last fall — grilled Palmieri at length about everything from an alleged double standard between the treatment of Haitian and Cuban refugees to the filing of the ambassador's prepared statement just a few minutes before the hearing began.

"None of us has had a chance to go over this thing," growled Kennedy in an obviously contrived manner. Waving Palmieri to continue, the Massachusetts senator finally found an administration official to confront, and took full advantage of the opportunity.

Despite this inadvertent tussle with presidential politics, most of the marks on Palmieri's performance thus far have been pretty good. "He's managed as well as can be expected," said a State Department career diplomat. "The guy has some government experience but nothing which would really prepare him for this (the Cuban problem). It's a slow process but he's learning how to cope."

Senior Awards Assembly will be held Friday

The annual Senior Awards Assembly will be held in the Big Spring High School Auditorium, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Friday. Those students who have been awarded scholarships from colleges and universities will be recognized.

In addition, the boy and girl chosen as winners of the American Legion Awards will be identified.

Highlight of the assembly annual is the naming of the valedictorian and the salutatorian.

Cindy Knight will open the program by leading the group in the Pledge of Allegiance. Sonya Reyna will offer the invocation.

John F. Smith, who is completing his 20th year as high school principal, will extend congratulations to the graduating seniors and greet visitors.

Lynn Hise, superintendent of schools, will address the group, after which Joe Horton, the senior counselor, will pass out the awards.

Following the awards ritual, the installation of 1980-81 Student Council officers will get under way, with the outgoing president, Cindy Knight, officiating.

Senior class officers will undertake the reading of the class will. The benediction will be offered by Leny Sanchez. The program will be concluded with the singing of the school song.

'Concert On The Lawn' set Tuesday at VAMC

A nostalgic evening of picnics on the grass, familiar music by live performers, and visits with friends and neighbors is planned for next Tuesday, when a "Concert On The Lawn" will be presented at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the VA.

Garland E. Evers, director of the Big Spring VAMC, is inviting the public to join VA employees and patients on the front lawn of the hospital to hear a musical program covering selections from the fifty-year span of the VA.

The Big Spring High School Concert Band, Stage Band, and Chorus will offer popular and patriotic musical numbers, and the evening will be highlighted by the performance of "An Easter Cantata," an original work by John W. Peterson, which will be sung by the Crestview Baptist Church Choir.

The range of musical selections on the program will swing from stirring marches, such as the immortal "Stars and Stripes Forever," to Irish jigs and the exotic "Malaguena," performed by the Big Spring High School Concert Band. The Stage Band will open another musical door with such items as Count Basie's popular "One O'Clock Jump," and the Chorus will offer medleys of pop and patriotism.

The high school bands are Ag department maps open house

The Texas Department of Agriculture will hold its grand opening-open house Monday at 10:00 a.m., at its new facility in Southwest Crossing Shopping Center, located at Brownfield Highway and Loop 289 in Lubbock.

Wayne Cure, Supervisor District 2, Texas Department of Agriculture, states that the official ribbon cutting will be at 10 a.m. with refreshments and a tour of the building to follow.

directed by Steve Waggoner, and Mrs. Marjorie Dodson leads the Big Spring High School Chorus. The Crestview Baptist Church Choir is directed by David Scott.

Members of the audience are invited to bring picnic suppers to the concert, and should bring blankets, stadium seats, etc., to sit on as chair seating will be available for hospital patients only. Soft drinks will be furnished to the audience.

According to Shirley Berryman, Chairperson of the VA 50th Anniversary Committee, "Community get-togethers for inexpensive family fun are rare, and we feel that everyone will enjoy an outdoor evening of picnics and live music. We hope to fill up the front lawn of the Medical Center — and it will hold a lot of people!"

The "Concert On The Lawn" will begin at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, May 20, and no fee for admission will be required.

Speaker booked by AICHE

Robert H. (Bob) Marshall, a director of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, will be the principal speaker at the May meeting of the Permian chapter of that organization, scheduled to get under way with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum in Midland.

Johnny's Barbecue will cater dinner at a cost of $4 a person. The meal will be served at 7 p.m.

Marshall subject matter will be on environmental standards, organizational activities as they pertain to the Permian section and activities of the government program steering committee of the AICHE.

Reservations can be made in Big Spring through Ralph Jordan at Corder no later than Monday. Jordan can be reached by dialing 263-7661.

Job to pay $18,100 annually

"She (Mrs. Mitchell) knows the feeling that the members of the board are against her," said Mrs. Estes. "I'm not against her; I'm just going by what she's saying," said Jack Watkins.

Mrs. Estes proposed the title of temporary chief appraiser for Mrs. Mitchell because she wanted her to have the deserved "pay" and "recognition."

But Mrs. Mitchell again refused the job if it entailed a title that would give her the responsibilities of chief appraiser.

Board Member Don McKinney made a motion that they hire her as office director at a salary of $18,000 plus $10 a month car allowance that would put her with a higher salary than other appraisal office employees.

Mrs. Estes seconded it and the motion passed unanimously.

Mrs. Mitchell has 12 years experience, with appraising having assisted in the setting up of the office by Pritchard and Abbot Appraisers in 1968. Mrs. Mitchell took a seven-year "sabbatical" from the office.

Also in the meeting the board of equalization was chosen for 1980.

Chosen for the board were Hudson, Lander, Southland apartment owner; Lee Porter, former county judge; Edgar Phillips, farmer.

State Property Tax Board has issued a statement reminding Texans of their right to appear before local boards of equalization to appeal values assigned to their property for ad valorem tax purposes.

Taxpayers who rendered their property to the local assessor must be notified of the time and place of the board of equalization meeting if the assessor raised the value rendered.

There are two situations in which taxpayers are entitled to receive an adjustment in their tax value; if it exceeds market value and if it is valued higher than similar property.

Also in the meeting, Pritchard and Abbot Appraisers were chosen to appraise oil and gas properties in the county. Four companies bid for the job.

Board Member Don McKinney made the motion. He was asked by Mrs. Estes why he made the motion for Pritchard and Abbot when it was not low bidder.

He replied that Pritchard and Abbot has proved itself as a good company in the past and has a local office. The other three bidders had offices in other parts of the state. Pritchard and Abbot submitted a $47,500 bid, Truett Pritchard submitted a $40,200 bid, Tom Pickett Company submitted a $63,500 bid and Laythom-Stults submitted a bid of $74,000. All bid prices were on an annual basis.

Boyd Latham, Jr., Laythom Stults representative, said "If it's determined by the lowest bid I'm afraid we're going to be out of luck. It's been our experience that we're not usually the lowest."

Low bidder Truett Pritchard is the nephew of E.S. Pritchard of Pritchard and Abbot. Truett worked for his uncle at one time. He said they had "good relations" but that "the old gentleman has been at it a long time."

He said his company was trying to establish business in West Texas.

The contract with the county was accepted for computer work. The Tax Appraisal Board had been working for some time on a contract with the county to use the computer in the office of Tax Assessor Collector Zerah Bednar.

Due to the lateness of the hour, action on items concerning 1980-81 budget, appraisal office policy, insurance and adjustment in salaries was postponed until the next meeting.

Local control over price of electricity an illusion? Deaths Beaty

By JAMES WERRELL

Local control over the price of electricity is only an illusion, said City Manager Don Davis, this morning.

TESCO's (Texas Electric Service Company's) presentation to the city is really superfluous. The rate will be fixed in Austin regardless of what happens here," said Davis.

He was referring to the request by TESCO for a 17.7 percent systemwide increase in revenues. Davis believes that no matter what the city decides to do, the question of whether electric bills will go up will be decided by negotiations between the company and the State Public Utilities Commission.

According to the city manager, Big Spring has the semblance of control over its own rates, while rates of unincorporated towns in Howard County are automatically determined by the P.U.C. But once Big Spring sets its rates, TESCO has the option of appealing that decision to the P.U.C.

"It is really beyond our expertise locally," said Davis, who will meet with TESCO Manger Hooper Sanders today to try to get a clearer picture of what the company wants.

Following official procedure, the city will have four options, said Davis. They are: approval of the rate hike as presented by TESCO; approval contingent on a decision from the P.U.C.; outright denial of the hike, which would be appealed to the P.U.C.; and a suspension of any decision for 120 days, with the option to suspend for another 90 days at the end of that period.

Hidden in TESCO's proposal is another hike which would also cost customers more in the end, said Davis. This concerns him more than the proposed hike in residential rates.

"What I'm really worried about is the possible hike in municipal rates," he said. "Last year when residential rates rose by about seven percent, municipal rates went up by 22 percent," he added.

Davis does not claim to completely understand the complicated system which governs rates for a wide range of specialized services. He does estimate, however, that if the hike were approved as is, cost of power for street lights would rise by 50 percent and costs of water pumping would rise by 38 percent.

"And customers are going to have to pay for that, too, somewhere along the line," he said. "To be fair to TESCO, though, those municipal costs may have been repressed for a long time, and we may be playing catchup."

As stated, TESCO has asked for a 17.7 percent hike in its rates. The company then, however, states that a monthly bill of $40 would rise to $55 if the hike is approved.

That hike is obviously more than 17.7 percent, so where is the discrepancy?"

"That figure includes the added fuel cost," said TESCO Manager Sanders. "We are losing the Old Ocean fuel gas contract that we have had for 20 years, and we will have to replenish cheap gas with fuel at today's prices," he explained.

According to Sanders, the contract with Old Ocean will expire on Jan. 1, and the added fuel cost will be passed on to customers regardless of whether a hike is approved. It will be listed separately from base rate charges as ordered by the P.U.C. several years ago, said Sanders.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Roy (Attie) M. Henderson, of Mitchell County; a son, Ira Edward of Halls; seven grandchildren; and 12 great-grandchildren.

Her husband died Nov. 17, 1968; and her son, Aubrey, died in July of 1968.

Police beat Thugs win some, lose some Burglars, both successful and unsuccessful, were busy in the city Wednesday.

After pulling the screen from the kitchen window in the home of Jan Parrell, 205 E. 22nd, intruders stole a number of items from inside, between 11 p.m. and midnight Wednesday. Stolen were an electric skillet, a clock radio, eight towels, a set of sheets, two wall plaques, a set of silverware, several pots and pans and some necklaces. Value of the items has not been estimated.

Burglars tried to break into the Frito Lay Warehouse, 709 E. 1st, sometime between 6 and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday. They succeeded only in kicking the lock off the door. Damage to the lock and the door was estimated at $50.

A thief snatched a phone-answering machine from the box office of the Ritz Theatre, 401 S. Main, 10:30 p.m. Wednesday. Fortunately, the thief was nabbed briefly by theatre owners, and the machine was returned. Unfortunately, the thief ran from the theatre and disappeared into the night.

Vandals shot a hole in a plate glass window at the home of Nathan Hughes, 2900 Lawrence, Wednesday night. Damage was estimated at $100.

A woman driving a dark green Oldsmobile drove into the Seven-Eleven Store at 11th and Johnson, filled up with $16.86 worth of regular, and left without paying, Wednesday.

Three mishaps were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Hilda E. Urbie, 105 N.E. 8th, and Wanda E. Tubbs, 2512 Wasson, collided on the 500 block of Scurry, 2:59 p.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to Mark Murphy, P.O. Box 137, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene on the 2500 block of S. Gregg, 7:15 p.m.

A vehicle driven by Alonzo Arenibaz, 811 W. 3rd, struck the roof of the drive-in window of the Texas Electric Service Company at 409 Rannels, 12:51 p.m.

Harte-Hanks management foresees record year

The management of Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc. predicted 1980 will be another record year for the diversified communications company, despite the uncertain economy, at its annual shareholders' meeting in San Antonio, Texas, recently.

"We have in place a highly talented, capable, committed group of professional managers, supported by sound financial and control systems that will provide them with the information that will let them be effective in managing," said Larry D. Franklin, executive vice president of the company and president, Newspaper Operations.

"Although the remainder of 1980 will be a real challenge, we feel good about our ability to cope with this challenge, and we are confident 1980 will be another record year for Harte-Hanks," Franklin said.

Focusing on the decade ahead, Robert G. Marbut, president and chief executive officer, said, "We define our purpose not in terms of the products that we produce, but in terms of the needs that we meet, the needs for information and entertainment. We believe that given the environment in the 1980s, people's needs and appetites for both information and entertainment will continue to grow."

Continuing, Marbut said, "The Harte-Hanks strategy for the '80s calls for us to continue to improve and expand our mainstream operations and, at the same time, to stay on the leading edge of both the print and electronic thrusts of the communications industry.

"It is a strategy that balances the need for long term growth and improvement with our responsibilities for consistent short term performance.

"It is a strategy aimed at capitalizing on the opportunities to enter any attractive geographic or special interest market with one or more lines of business under the communications umbrella.

"It is a strategy that is needs-oriented. Thus, as the needs of the marketplace change, so will Harte-Hanks," said Marbut.

Also addressing the shareholders about upcoming challenges and opportunities in their areas of business were Wayne Kearl, senior vice president and president, Broadcast Operations; and C. Ben Rodgers, senior vice president and president, Consumer Distribution Marketing.

Harte-Hanks Communications owns and operates 28 daily newspapers and 68 non-daily publications in 43 markets. One of those is the Big Spring Herald.

Bus destroyer arrested

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police have arrested a Virginia man and charged him with ripping a sink from a bus station restroom to retrieve 50 cents that went down the drain.

Officer Donna Meredith said Charles Walker, 30, of Norfolk was arrested at the Trailways bus terminal after an employee said he found Walker with the ripped-out sink in his hands Tuesday night.

Walker, who was being held Wednesday, was charged with malicious destruction of property and public drunkenness. "He said he was trying to get his 50 cents back which was deposited in the basin," Ms. Meredith said.

Brake failure in mishap

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — A school bus driver says that a brake failure led to an accident in which she and 20 junior high school students were injured.

The bus rolled over Wednesday in a ditch at a Joplin intersection.

There were no serious injuries. About 50 eighth-graders from Carl Junction Junior High School were returning to school from an outing in Joplin. The bus was driven by Doris Lawver, 51, of Carl Junction, who reported the brake failure, police said.

Mack Truck has layoffs

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Mack Truck Co. will lay off 2,683 production and management employees at the end of the month and company President Alfred W. Pelletier said crimped sales were to blame.

The layoffs could last into 1981, Pelletier said Wednesday.

The company employs 15,800 workers in plants at Allentown, Macungie, Pa., Hagerstown, Md., and Hayward, Calif. He said high interest rates and lack of money caused customers to cancel orders, leaving Mack with a high inventory of unsold trucks.

Oakland teachers dismissed

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — In a cost-cutting move, the Oakland school district has decided to lay off 355 workers at the end of next month, including 205 teachers.

The school district said the laid-off workers made up 10 percent of the system's work force.

"It is absolutely necessary to effect these reductions in order to balance the 1980-81 budget," Superintendent Ruth Love said in a memo to the school board. Lay-off notices were in the mail Wednesday.

Parachute drop staged

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — The 38th anniversary of the founding of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps was marked by female paratroopers in combat dress staging an all-women parachute drop.

The 152 paratroopers and jump masters, wearing camouflage fatigues, helmets and 25-pound ruck sacks, leaped at one-second intervals Wednesday from C-130 transport planes 1,200 feet over a dusty field called Sicily Drop Zone.

The Women's Auxiliary Army Corps was established May 14, 1942. In 1943 it became the Women's Army Corps. It was disbanded in April 1978.

Social Security puzzle

Where do we go from here?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of four articles investigating the Social Security Program.)

WASHINGTON, D.C. — To take a look at the changes in the Social Security Program since its inception in the mid-1930s, it is easier to follow the hypothetical Social Security history of one worker from his first program participation until his retirement at age 65 in 1980.

Let's say that in 1937 the first deductions were withheld from John Doe's paycheck. On the maximum wages taxable, $3,000 at that time, John's 1 percent deduction totaled $30 a year.

Forty-two working years and several tax increases later, John's withholdings totaled $1,403.77 a year (his share alone) on the maximum wage of $22,900. By his retirement party in 1980, he had paid in a total of $12,890.64 to the Social Security Program and began drawing maximum benefits of $653.80 each month. (Presumed benefits are based on maximum allowable. Actual benefits paid to workers are based on the number of quarters of coverage over the years and, in most cases, will be much smaller than fictionalized here.)

Congressman

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

At that monthly rate, it is easy to see that if John were only able to withdraw the total he had paid into the program, he would exhaust his funds in less than two years. But, Social Security isn't comparable to a checking account where you can withdraw only that which you have deposited. It is a pay-as-you-go retirement supplement. Or, in case of death or disability, it could be compared to an insurance program for John and his family. It also includes the benefits of medicare.

If John lives to the average age of 72, he could conceivably receive almost $55,000 in retirement benefits alone.

Where is that money coming from? From today's contributing worker, whose deductions are necessarily increasing (just as John's did over the years, but at an escalated rate).

With Social Security benefits tied to the cost of living, with life expectancies increasing yearly, and with the sheer rising volume of beneficiaries, the costs of the program begin to look impossibly burdensome, if the system continues as it currently operates.

And, looking on to the years when our "baby boom" population, currently in the workforce and therefore contributors, begin to draw benefits and the birth rate continues to remain at current low levels or drops even lower, we begin to see a shifting sea-saw of workers paying in and beneficiaries taking out.

The above is an oversimplified illustration of an extremely complicated program. The problems which have fostered many of the questions being asked about the future of the program do, however, become apparent.

In 1970, there were 25.4 million beneficiaries drawing some $31.07 billion in total benefits. By 1981, it is estimated that there will be approximately 35.9 million people receiving almost $171.7 billion in total benefits.

The final, and overwhelming, question presents itself: Where do we go from here? Next week, in our final article on Social Security, we will take a look at some of the proposed changes to the system and hope to find a few answers.

Forecasts calls for much flash flooding

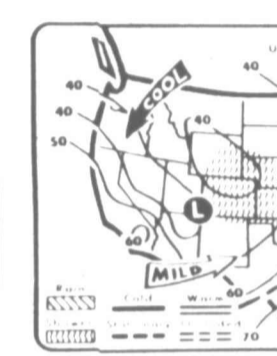

By the Associated Press
Thunderstorms raged across Texas today, prompting forecasters to warn of the possibility of flash flooding over much of the state.

Forecasters said that the soil was saturated from rains of the past two days and warned that additional rainfall would rapidly run off into already swollen streams and creeks.

The 4 Panhandle counties included in the flash flood warning were Potter, Randall, Deaf Smith and Oldham.

The National Weather Service issued a flash flood warning before dawn for four Texas Panhandle counties and issued flash flood watches for eastern, southern, northern and southeastern sections of the state.

Salesman and loot return

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A salesman who disappeared in March along with an estimated $500,000 in jewelry has been returned from Mexico to face felony theft charges.

Robert Kolitz, 24, was jailed in San Antonio Wednesday night in lieu of $25,000 bond. An arrest warrant had been issued for Kolitz April 9 after investigators alleged he fled to Mexico with the jewelry from an exclusive north San Antonio store.

Kolitz disappeared on March 26. His car was found the next day abandoned near the International Bridge in Laredo with several thousand dollars worth of jewelry scattered in the back seat.

Police Lt. Dave Keene said Wednesday night they had recovered most of the missing jewelry.

Kolitz's attorney Anthony Nicholas said there had been some negotiation with police before the arrest, but refused to elaborate.

Keene said authorities got a tip on the missing salesman's whereabouts. "I think he was getting tired of running and hiding," said Keene.

San Antonio police said they had the help of Mexican authorities.

Kolitz was located in a Mexican resort on the Yucatan Peninsula and

Texan given sentence for kidnaping

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — Elmer Glenn Sweeney, 37, of Irving, Texas, has been sentenced to two to four years in prison for kidnaping a 17-year-old girl in Cleveland and forcing her to ride to Colorado.

The girl, a runaway from Bellevue, Mich., claimed during Sweeney's trial in Littleton District Court that Sweeney forced her to ride nearly naked in the truck cab and one time offered her sexual services over his citizens' band radio for $50.

The girl was freed by sheriff's deputies on Interstate 70 at Strasburg after they were contacted by a passerby whom the girl had asked to help her.

Sweeney claimed the girl rode with him willingly.

The girl said that she met Sweeney at a Cleveland truck stop and asked him to take her to Florida. Sweeney said that he would do so, but that he first had to drop off a load of furniture in Utah. Sweeney was a driver for North American Van Lines.

Asked why she did not run away from Sweeney during the trip, the girl said Sweeney told her he had a gun in the truck.

Most exhibits not shown to public

A trip to Washington, D.C., without a tour through Smithsonian Institution would be unthinkable.

The museums cover a lot of things, from First Lady gowns to locomotives, from the Hope Diamond to food fed the astronauts.

What people may not realize, however, is that if a visitor viewed every single exhibit in the 12 museums and the National Zoo, he or she would have seen less than three per cent of the Smithsonian's national collections.

THE REMAINDER — some 76 million artifacts and specimens — are not on public display. They are carefully preserved in extensive study collections, protected in storage cases, conserved in special laboratories or loaned to other museums.

Not many know, perhaps, that the Act of Congress establishing the Smithsonian in 1846 didn't even call for public exhibitions. Instead, it required the new government entity to accept the nation's collections, then to arrange and classify them so as to "best facilitate the examination and study."

Some of the artifacts at Smithsonian are so rare they are neither placed on exhibit within the Smithsonian nor loaned to another museum. A curator reminds us we have a responsibility to future generations of researchers and museum visitors. If the last few specimens of an extinct population are damaged by light in an exhibit hall, it would be impossible to replace them.

Vehicles like the 1905 Mercedes and the Cunninghams of the 1920s, now in the museums, simply cannot be replaced. Because only a small portion of the cars can be displayed at one time, the division tries to rotate them so that new acquisitions can be seen by visitors.

THE B-29 CANNOT be viewed by tourists due to limited exhibit space, although the National Air and Space Museum has one in its possession. That would be the Enola Gay, which dropped the first atomic bomb on Japan. Its 140-foot wingspan is 20 feet longer than the museum can accommodate. (The Enola Gay is kept at a storage facility in suburban Maryland).

Other Smithsonian treasures are kept from public view because they are needed for important research. One exhibit in the Smithsonian built not for exhibition but research is the coleoptera, a display of the 7 million beetles that represents the 137 known families of this insect. The institution has 46,000 clutches of eggs, 10,000 birds, nests, 30,000 parasitic wasps and 500,000 mammals not shown to the public.

There is much to be seen in Washington (some say the living fossils are more interesting than the dead ones). At Smithsonian, chances are you could devote the rest of your life to visiting Smithsonian's 'attic' and never see it all.

"I'm mad," Eddie Chiles says. "Shoot, Eddie, I'm mad too," I answer back to the radio, "What you gonna do?"

"Let's get rid of the liberals in Congress," Eddie gives as his solution.

Contrary to Eddie's opinion, the trouble is not the liberal, spending Congress. It is numbers. There are simply not enough Texans in the United States Senate. In other words, we are outnumbered and underrepresented.

were in those years."

WEST TEXAS TRIED to break away in 1915 and become the state of Jefferson. In the 1920's and 30's, John Nance Garner used spillover talk to manipulate his colleagues in the House, and then later as the presiding officer in the Senate.

The latest attempt came in 1974-75 when State Sen. Bob Gammage of Houston and Dallas Rep. Fred Agnich proposed the idea.

It started as a joke directed at the Northeastern states, Gammage said, "Why not split Texas up into five states, get our 10 U.S. Senators, and outvote New England?"

Everybody chuckled. But when the laughing died down, a few folks got a little serious about the idea. U.S. Rep. Jim Collins went so far as to come out publicly in favor of spillover.

Gammage argued that Texas was one of the major agricultural, industrial and shipping states in the nation. The Lone Star State is four times the size of New England and is roughly equal in population.

Gammage pointed out Texas is underrepresented in the federal system. New England has 12 senators and Texas only two. Of course, with five Texas states, we would still be two short. The representation in the U.S. House of Representatives would not change.

The other states would fight us tooth and nail. The matter would have to be taken into the Supreme Court, where that body of learned scholars, who make two plus two equal five, would find a way to find the Treaty of 1845 unconstitutional.

The hitch is here. If the Supreme Court said the portion that gives Texas the right to divide is unconstitutional, then the whole treaty would be unconstitutional. Texas, then, would become an independent republic.

Of course, most Texans probably like this solution best. A Texan could be elected president every time, we would not have to worry about deficit spending — our constitution forbids it — and the winner of the Southwest Conference would be the national football champions every year.

Bring on the tamales and Texas red. Eddie, we have been saved.

Wrong Signal

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of criticism about President Carter's failure to go to Marshal Tito's funeral. The White House has reacted strongly to the criticism and various spokesmen in the Administration have been ordered to go out and defend the President's decision.

"It all boils down to a question of signals," the Administration spokesman, in charge of leaking to columnists, said. "President Carter was terribly saddened by the marshal's death, but if he went to Tito's funeral, he would be sending the wrong signal to Moscow."

"How's that?" I said.

"If Carter had appeared in Belgrade, he would have had to say hello to Leonid Brezhnev, and if he had said hello to him, Brezhnev would have gotten the message that the United States was not as upset about the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan as we really are."

"Why didn't Carter go to Belgrade and not speak to Brezhnev? This would have been a stronger signal as to how we felt about the aggression."

"Yes, but our allies would have been very upset if Carter didn't speak to Brezhnev at the funeral, because it would have been a signal that Carter wanted to rekindle the cold war."

I said, "Carter wouldn't have had to discuss Afghanistan with Brezhnev. He could have kept the conversation light by talking about Cuba."

"Believe me," the spokesman said, "this decision was given a great deal of thought. At first we believed the President should go, if for no other reason than that this would be a signal that the U.S. would not tolerate any Soviet interference in Yugoslavian affairs. But we felt we could send the same signal by shipping over Vice President Mondale and Mrs. Lillian."

"Apparently, the Yugoslavs didn't get the signal," I said. "They thought Carter stayed home for political reasons and didn't care if Tito had died or not."

"If they got that out of it, then there was a mixup of signals. The President was very heartbroken by Tito's death, and if it hadn't been for Brezhnev deciding to go to Belgrade, Mr. Carter would have been one of the chief mourners. The other consideration was that the President can't be photographed looking sad at this time as this would be a signal to everyone that things are worse than most people think they are."

"I GUESS YOUR problem in the White House now is to send another signal to the Yugoslavs asking them to disregard the previous signal concerning the President's absence, so they won't send a signal to Moscow saying they want to be friends."

"We're working on that now," the spokesman admitted. "The President is going to Italy next month, and probably will visit Belgrade to make up for his failure to say goodbye to Tito last week. He'll lay a wreath on Tito's grave, which is a pretty strong signal to the Soviets to keep their cotton-pickin' hands off Yugoslavia."

"Do you think the Yugoslavs will get over their hurt that Carter never came to the funeral?"

"Yes," he said, "as long as we explain to them that Tito would have wanted it that way."

Why weight loss fasts are touchy

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it really possible to lose 10 pounds in a week? I have seen claims of this. My doctor gave me permission to go for one week on water and one multi-vitamin pill daily. Result? Loss of one quarter of a pound a day or one and one-quarter pounds for the seven days. — Disappointed, L.L.L.

When you cut off energy from food, your body eventually turns to stored energy — its sugar and glycogen deposits. This begins a day or two into a fast. Much of the early weight loss is in water and stored sugar. When these are gone, the body next turns to stored fat and protein. Losing stored fat is OK. Losing protein is not, because that means muscle tissue is being broken down.

Now, what about calories? If you lost a quarter of a pound day, you burned up about 900 more calories than you took in. (The rule of thumb is that a pound of body fat translates into 3,500 calories.) Even sleeping burns calories (about 500 in eight hours). A day of light activity burns another 2,000 calories. All this is very simplified, of course.

So why, if you took in zero calories, did you lose only a quarter of pound a day when even sleeping 24 hours should have pared off about a third of a pound? That's not even figuring expected water loss. Maybe you didn't lose liquid weight or didn't have it to lose. People react individually and not with mathematical precision. Our bodies are not accountants. They don't like to add — or subtract.

It is possible, though, even probable, to lose 10 pounds the first week of a fast. You don't give any weight and height statistics. If you were not overweight to begin with the process of weight loss would have been much slower than for a fatty.

Such discussions can begin to get circular. I'd just like to say that I'm glad you did this under supervision. For most, one to two pounds of weight loss a week is a reasonable goal. You'll find weight loss discussed in more detail in the booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing." For a copy, mail $5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: First, I'll get right to the point, then I have lots of other questions. I'm 15 years old and would like to know if you can tell from a blood test if a person ever smoked marijuana. — V.M.

Just the marijuana — one question to a customer.

After smoking marijuana cigarettes the active ingredient THC can be found in the blood. Its level reaches a peak in 15 minutes. It cannot be found after three hours. The chemical cousins of THC can be tested for in the urine. They may be detected up to 24 hours after smoking marijuana. I may get to some of your other questions later on, V.M.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 81 and have arthritis. To add to my miseries I have a red, burning tongue. Can you suggest anything? — M.B.K.

The possibilities are many. A diminished flow of saliva is sometimes seen in people with rheumatoid arthritis or, for that matter, in many elderly persons generally. That can lead to a red, sore tongue. Another possibility to check out is a deficiency of the vitamin B-12 or lack of another important B vitamin (niacin). candida yeast infection can show as a red, sore tongue early on in the infection.

If you have a decreased saliva flow this might be alleviated with things like sour lemon drops. Pellagra, which can be associated with the vitamin deficiencies I mentioned, should also be investigated. That can

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I honestly believe I have repented of my sins and accepted Christ as my Savior. However, down inside of me there seems to be a voice telling me that I need to do more in order to be saved. Is this true? — Mrs. R.L.

DEAR MRS. R.L.: It may well be that you have a feeling down inside that you ought to do more in order to be forgiven — but that feeling is wrong. The Bible tells us that we can do nothing — absolutely nothing — which will earn our salvation. Christ has done it all by taking our sins upon Himself on the cross. He alone was perfect, and yet in His love He was willing to have our sins placed upon Himself. And because Christ has paid the penalty for your sins and mine, all we have to do (and all we can do) is commit ourselves to Him in trust. That is why the Bible says, "For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith — and this is not from yourselves, it is the gift of God — not by works, so that no one can boast" (Ephesians 2:8-9).

I believe one of Satan's oldest tricks is to get us to doubt God's word and cause sore mouth.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the normal platelet count? What would be considered an exceedingly low count? Does iron affect them? — R.R.

The function of platelets is to form clots. Iron does not affect them. A low platelet count is one of less than 50,000. An exceedingly low count is one less than 10,000 to 20,000 (per cubic centimeter of blood).

Dear Donohue: What is your opinion of alfalfa pills? I mean as an arthritis reliever. — R.D.

I admit that I have no experience with them, but I can find no mention in the medical literature on the effectiveness of alfalfa in arthritis. I do not believe these pills will be harmful, except as they may raise false hopes for the relief of pain or be a financial burden, limiting a total diet.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Memory refreshed

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The FBI always seems to have trouble uncovering scandals that involve its own wrongdoing. I reported eight years ago, for example, that the G-men were spying on prominent movie stars, athletes, civil rights leaders and writers. The FBI denied it, so I was happy to help. I told the FBI where its secret files were stashed and published the file numbers.

Now the bureau is denying my story that House Speaker Tip O'Neill was a target of the ABSCAM caper. Apparently they need more help from this quarter, so here it is:

IF THE FBI will question one of their ABSCAM go-betweens, a New Jersey contractor named Joseph Silvestri, he can remind them how they pressured him repeatedly to bring O'Neill into their phony Arab influence-buying scam. He can refresh their memory about how the G-men offered $50,000 for netting the Speaker, and how they later upped this to $75,000.

As I reported, O'Neill never became involved in the ABSCAM operation, because Silvestri didn't really know him, and was unable to find anyone who'd introduce him to the Speaker.

If the FBI needs corroboration of Silvestri's testimony, agents can speak to his attorney, Alfred DeCotis. After he read my column and the FBI's denial that O'Neill was ever an ABSCAM target, the attorney told my associate Gary Cohn:

"I have studied the Jack Anderson column and reviewed the matter with my client, Mr. Silvestri, and I have no reason to take issue with any of the factual assertions in that article."

Here are some more details that may be helpful:

Silvestri, trying to ingratiate himself with the FBI's undercover operatives, whom he believed to be Arab influence-seekers, made his offer to produce O'Neill at a meeting in the Plaza Hotel in New York last October with operatives Tony DeVito and Mel Weinberg. (Weinberg is a convicted conartist who agreed to work with the FBI and actually designed much of the ABSCAM strategy.)

As evidence that he knew O'Neill, Silvestri showed the undercover men a photo of his wife with the Speaker and Rep. James Howard, D-N.J. The photo was taken at a Howard fundraiser, and proved nothing.

At a meeting in the Hilton Hotel in Mt. Laurel, N.J., last November, Weinberg told Silvestri that his "Arab" clients would pay $75,000 for O'Neill. The increased ante was apparently put up after the ABSCAM team checked with higher-ups at the Justice Department in Washington.

When Silvestri came to Washington that same month, the agents pressed him to arrange a meeting with the Speaker. Hoping to stall the ABSCAM agents until he had figured out some way of actually meeting O'Neill, Silvestri assured them he'd set up a meeting in Boston at a later date.

Meanwhile, Silvestri tried to appease the agents by offering to introduce them to other influential politicians. One of them was North Carolina's Lt. Gov. James Green, a member of Jimmy Carter's re-election campaign team. The ABSCAM agents told Silvestri they weren't interested in Green, but wanted O'Neill.

If the FBI needs more leads, I'll try to oblige.

Footnote: A spokesman acknowledged that the FBI's original statement denying that O'Neill's name had never been mentioned during the ABSCAM investigation was wrong. But the spokesman still insisted that O'Neill had not been "a target" of the investigation.

CASUAL CHICAGO: A typical Mafia initiation ceremony has been described by insiders as something of an elegant Old World ceremony. Members of the Mob family sit around a table and join hands. They discuss the "goodness" of La Cosa Nostra, the rules the proposed member must abide by, and his professional qualifications — say, the number of murders he had participated in.

THE APPLICANT THEN has his finger pricked, and the blood is smeared on a mass card with a picture of a saint holding a child. The card is then set on fire and the fledgling Mafioso passes it from hand to hand while he recites an oath of allegiance and expresses the hope that he will burn like the card if he betrays his oath.

But in Chicago, the initiation ceremony is as breezy as the lake front. According to insiders, the Mob simply throws a big banquet to welcome the new member of the crime family.

GIMME A BREAK! The tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee is accustomed to petitions from citizens and special interests seeking a break on income taxes. But some of the requests are really off the wall.

A Long Island lawyer, for example, asked for a tax credit on $1,700 worth of tickets to the Summer Olympics in Moscow, arguing that President Carter's boycott will prevent him from using them and he probably won't be able to get a refund from the Russians.

WATCH ON WASTE: As Art Buchwald shrewdly noted many years ago, the true status symbol in Washington is a free, reserved parking place. Since Jimmy Carter initiated the practice of charging Executive Branch employees for their reserved parking spots, Congress is the last bastion of the free-parking perk — and the legislators are guarding their privilege jealously.

Texas appeals court rules Wednesday

All criminal proceedings open to press

DALLAS (AP) — Jubilant newspaper editors say Texas' highest criminal appeals court upheld freedom of the press and the public's right to know by requiring open courtrooms in all criminal proceedings.

"We think this is a very great decision in the spirit of the First Amendment as it was intended," said Tom Simmons, executive editor of the Dallas Morning News.

However, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said it considered no constitutional issues when it ruled Wednesday that a state district judge in Houston acted illegally when he issued an order April 28 closing a habeas corpus hearing requested by a Death Row inmate.

Last year the U.S. Supreme Court outraged journalists by ruling that some pre-trial criminal hearings may be closed to the press and public.

Editors and media lawyers hailed the Texas decision as a victory for freedom of the press and the public's right to know.

"The court has affirmed what it considers to be the law: that the public and the press have an absolute right to observe law in action and that judges can't close legal proceedings to deny that right," said W. Robert Brown, legal counsel for the Houston Chronicle.

Judge Sam Houston Clinton wrote in his opinion that the court was not faced with a constitutional issue involving "tensions between freedom of the press, the public right to know and right of an accused to a fair public trial."

Clinton said the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure "plainly and unequivocally" requires that "the proceedings and trials in all courts shall be public."

Vernon McManus wanted State District Judge I.D. McMaster to set aside his kill-for-hire conviction in a 1976 slaying. The hearing has not been held.

McManus contended he was poorly defended because his attorney was having an affair with, and later married his wife. He also said a prosecutor instigated perjury by a female witness with whom the prosecutor was having an affair.

McMaster said he ordered the hearing closed because of "the lewd, lascivious and sexual nature of the allegations" to be considered and the damage they might do to the reputations of the people involved.

However, the appeals court said there was a pressing public need to know.

"McManus is protesting that the criminal justice system failed him through like frailties of two of its principal participants... If the system failed McManus, it at once surely deserved the public. In demonstrating that failure... McManus will provide the public with some information on which to base adjustment or reform in the criminal justice system," the opinion said.

"The decision is a huge step forward, (it's) getting back to sanity on these decisions," said Dick Tarpley, executive editor of the Abilene Reporter-News. "It's the way we've contended all along it should be."

"I think Clinton's ruling is in the best interests of newspapers in Texas, but more importantly in the interest of the public," said Beaumont Enterprise-Journal editor Cleve Hamm.

"We were delighted with the decision. It may mean we have momentum away from the creeping tendency toward secrecy," said Ray Mariotti, editor of the Austin American-Statesman.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled last year in a New York case, Gannett vs. DePasquale, that the Constitution permits a judge to close pre-trial suppression of evidence hearings. Media representatives have protested applying the rule to trials and other kinds of hearings.

Charles Babcock, a Dallas media law specialist, said lawyers in Texas "always have felt that we had a better argument here for keeping proceedings open because our Texas Constitution and Texas Code of Criminal Proceedings are different from the U.S. Constitution and the New York statutory procedures."

Babcock said the Texas Constitution provides that all proceedings is a very positive step."

James E. Crowther, general counsel and executive vice president of the Houston Post, commented "The highest criminal court in this state has reaffirmed something we always knew: the public's business should be conducted in public."

proceedings shall be open, while the U.S. Constitution says the defendant shall have a right to an open trial.

"Our interpretation of this has been that in Texas the public has a right rather than just the defendant having a right," Babcock said.

He said there was no conflict between the Texas decision and the Supreme Court, because "this was a situation where the Supreme Court doesn't require (an open trial), but neither does it prohibit."

"That doesn't mean at all that the Texas Legislature or Texas Constitution can't provide for open hearings in all instances."

Babcock said he was unsure what precedential value the case would have, although "court recognition of the Texas right to open

JOHN RUBINSTEIN

Son meets dad's forecast

NEW YORK (AP) — Virtuoso pianist Arthur Rubinstein said he knew from the time his son, John, was 4 years old that he would "amount to something."

Tuesday night at the Longacre Theater, Rubinstein, 93, said his son had more than met his forecast.

John Rubinstein, 32, was performing in the hit play "Children of a Lesser God" — a role that brought him a Tony nomination for best actor — and his father was in the audience. Rubinstein plays a man who marries a deaf woman and communicates in sign language.

The famed pianist asked his son: "How do you do it, this play?"

"Daddy, it's all in the fingers," his son replied.

Singer to host country show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Bill Anderson, the country-western singer, is to be the host when a nationally syndicated television show, "Backstage at the Grand Ole Opry," debuts in the fall.

Show Biz Inc., which is syndicating the show, said the 30-minute program would include interviews with country music singers and performances by them.

Son not coming back

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., convicted of fraud in a $66,000 payroll kickback scheme, has decided he won't seek re-election after all.

The 13-term congressman had insisted since his October 1978 conviction that he would continue to seek office. A month after his conviction he won re-election by a 4-1 margin.

Diggs, 58, said he was resigning for personal reasons, but did not say what they were.

He said the announcement was not motivated by the hope that it would prompt a reduction in his three-year prison sentence. He said neither he nor his attorneys have had any contact with judges or prosecutors on that possibility.

Diggs was convicted of paying several aides inflated salaries, then accepting kickbacks from them. His appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court is pending.

Man of Year is carpenter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 25-year-old carpenter who moonlights as a model has been named Man of the Year by Playgirl Magazine.

Playgirl said Wednesday Bill Davidson of Los Angeles was judged by Playgirl's readers to be the most exciting man to appear nude in the magazine's centerfold in 1979.

Davidson said he didn't feel exploited. "Not at all. I don't think there's anything wrong with showing my body to women who want to see it," Davidson said.

"The way I look at it, it's kind of like a work of art. People used to go to museums to see nude male statues. This is just a modern-day version of that," he said.

'Dallas' neighbors want filming stopped

PARKER, Texas (AP) — A man and his wife who live next to the ranch where part of the prime time television series "Dallas" is filmed, have asked a state judge to prohibit further filming at the 164-acre spread.

John and Susan Barber filed a suit in a state court Wednesday asking that Lorimar Productions, CBS and South Fork Ranch owners Joe and Natalie Duncan "stop filming and find another Dallas house" for the series.

A hearing has been scheduled for Friday morning.

Officials of the production company could not be reached for comment, and Duncan said he "would like to talk" about the suit but that his lawyer had told him not to comment.

Being the neighbor of a celebrity like J.R. Ewing, the conniving heel of the series, is no picnic, even if he is fictitious, the Barbers said.

"If I could describe it succinctly, it's like living in a shopping center parking lot," Barber said.

"Cars coming and going, people slamming car doors and standing in the middle of the street to take pictures, airplanes buzzing the place. Even in the dead of the winter, with snow on the ground they still come. We just want it knocked off."

The problem worsened during the Easter weekend, Barber said, after a Dallas newspaper published directions. He said "literally thousands" drove out and gawked at and around the ranch, 30 miles northeast of Dallas.

Barber said "every form of transportation — except trains — come out here to look. Even military helicopters have flown over. It's like they were flying in my back door and going out the front."

Lately, he said, it's dangerous to stand in his yard.

"We have two little girls, ages 3 and 6, and our driveway is so close to the road that it's real hazardous for them to play in the front yard," Barber said.

He started looking for a lawyer, he said, after tour buses began stopping regularly for a look at the ranch and when he started hearing reports that a British travel agency was going to arrange flying tours of "J.R. Country."

"That kind of motivated me to take some action," Barber said. "My wife was thinking about opening a Kool-aid stand."

Israelis kill Palestinian guerrillas

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops killed three Palestinian guerrillas who tried to cross the Israeli-Lebanese border on a raid coinciding with Israel's celebration of its capture of Arab East Jerusalem 13 years ago and the 32nd anniversary of Israeli independence.

An army command spokesman said an Israeli patrol intercepted the infiltrators, carrying automatic rifles and grenades, Wednesday night near Kibbutz Hanita, an Israeli collective farm in western Galilee about five miles inland from the Mediterranean.

There were no Israeli casualties in the clash, the spokesman said.

The army said the guerrillas carried a list of Palestinian guerrillas imprisoned in Israel, indicating they planned to take hostages and demand the release of the prisoners. All three were about 20 years old, were members of the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and crossed a U.N. buffer zone in southern Lebanon patrolled by Dutch troops, a spokesman said.

In Beirut, the Popular Front claimed that the guerrilla "suicide squad" stormed a military dormitory in Kibbutz Hanita and killed or wounded dozens of Israelis in a three-hour battle before the Palestinians were killed.

The Popular Front said the raid was in retaliation for an Israeli raid on the south Lebanese coastal highway May 8 in which seven guerrillas were killed.

The last Palestinian border raid occurred on April 7 when guerrillas seized a nursery in Kibbutz Misgav Am, in the northeast panhandle. One Israeli boy and two adults were killed before troops stormed the building and killed all five guerrillas.

The Israeli army stepped up its border patrols this week to block Palestinian attempts to sabotage Israel's Jerusalem Day celebration Wednesday or to attack today on the independence anniversary.

Israel observed Independence Day last month in accordance with the Jewish lunar calendar, but the anniversary date is today according to the Gregorian calendar. Similarly East Jerusalem was captured and annexed in June 1967, but the anniversary this year fell on May 14 according to the Jewish calendar.

BRAIN TEASERS — Puzzle editors Ethel Brauer, left, and Audrey Likely looks over a puzzle magazine at their New York office at the American Institute of Physics Wednesday.

Good for children and others, too

Brain teasers for nation's best

NEW YORK (AP) — A farmer had three sons and 17 horses.

In his will, he bequeathed that the horses be divided among the sons, the eldest to get half of them, the second son one-third, the third son one-ninth. How did they divide the horses?

Stick around for the answer.

It's one of the puzzles designed to tease some of the nation's best brains. It appeared in a little publication called "Inside AIP," the newsletter of the American Institute of Physics.

"We have about 900 names on our circulation list and they include Nobel laureates as well as school kids in the mail room," Audrey Likely, the editor, explained. "We try to strike a balance, some for the PhDs, some for the school kids."

Here's one for the PhDs:

Letters have been substituted for numbers in this addition problem: XEBHLLNL plus XRBGLNL plus XEPNWLNL equals XXXGNNH. The same letter stands for the same digit wherever it appears — except for one. One letter is wrong. Which one?

Here's one for the kids:

Tim, Joe and Sam are digging identical holes in a field. When Tim works with Joe, they dig one hole in four days. When Tim works with Sam, they dig one hole in three days. When Joe works with Sam, they dig one hole in two days. When Tim works alone, how long does it take him to dig one hole?

The puzzle editor for "Inside AIP" is Ethel Brauer. She professes not to enjoy puzzles particularly, except for crossword puzzles, at which she is a whiz.

Only once in her memory, she said, and it happened just last week, has she printed a bum puzzle.

"Can't be done," an irate physicist wrote her. "Neither Joe nor Ted nor Sam nor Sue could have won the French prize." Just so. Apologies will be made next issue.

"Inside AIP" is chock full of erudite information of special interest to physicists in various branches — optics, acoustics, rheology ("things that flow," a rheologist explained, "think of catsup"), astronomy, crystallography — but the puzzle, according to editor Likely, is a favorite feature of all of them.

All right, end of suspense. Here come the answers.

It takes Tim, a slowpoke, 24 days to dig a hole alone.

The wrong letter, obviously, is the first X in the answer. It should, of course, be a W. The sum, clearly, is 155,622,272. That's enough. Figure out for yourself the three numbers that add up to that.

Oh, yes, about those horses. Borrow a horse from a neighbor and make the division among 18 horses: nine, six and two. That adds up to 17. Just right. Return the borrowed horse. Simple.

Eating right will make feet light

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor

For weeks now, over 140 of you have been shaping up to show your stuff at Big Spring's first Roadrunners Classic scheduled to begin Saturday at 8:30 a.m.

You've spent hours jogging around Blankenship Field. You've spent weeks bettering your final mile clocking. At night your dreams feature you breaking the finish line tape in the thrill of victory as friends and family cheer you on.

But then again, maybe you haven't gone quite so gun ho over this upcoming event which is being sponsored by the Big Spring Herald, YMCA and Sportsworld.

You probably just signed up to see if you could really run two or five miles without stopping. Or maybe you're just going to take it at an easy pace with a friend.

Whether your out to set a city record or just out for fun, the word is you'll be a winner one way or another in the long run if you eat properly prior to competition.

"Runners should enter a race with an empty stomach," said Nadine Teague, associate physical director at the YMCA, and coordinator for the Roadrunners Classic.

"If food is in the stomach, cramps will probably develop because of the large volume of blood pumped to the stomach to aid digestion."

This decreases the amount of blood needed for oxygen to the stomach muscles. And like any muscle with oxygen, cramps develop.

Miss Teague revealed several factors effecting the time a stomach empties, including level of conditioning, emotional status and what you eat.

"As you become more fit," she added, "the heart becomes strong enough to supply both muscles and stomach with sufficient blood provided full exertion is not happening during exercise.

"It also takes two to four hours longer to empty a stomach under stress, as before competition," she pointed out.

Miss Teague advises classic contestants to eat their pre-competition meal at least two to three hours prior to the run.

"But this varies for various athletes," she said. O.J. Simpson doesn't eat on game days. Muhammad Ali eats six hours prior to a fight. The New York Jets serve a pre-game meal five hours before a kick off.

Medically, the pre-competition meal should satisfy certain requirements. It should be high in carbohydrates, low in sugar, low in protein and fat, contain three glasses of liquid and be easily digestible.

"For Saturday morning," Miss Teague continued, "we recommend a glass of orange juice, cereal with low-fat milk, lightly buttered toast, potatoes and a minimum of two more glasses of fluids."

The meal should be eaten at least two to three hours before competition. Two small pancakes with a minimum amount of butter could be substituted.

Because many of the runners will not be up at 5:30 a.m. Saturday morning, some fruit juice, grapes or bananas (carbohydrates) and water is suggested for those eating at 7:30 a.m.

"Carbohydrates are the best source of immediate energy for competition," Miss Teague explained. "However, remember the more blood flowing to your stomach, the less blood flowing to the leg muscles."

Foods high in carbohydrates are bread, spaghetti, macaroni, potatoes, porridge, fruit and fruit juices.

Because sugar is the quickest source of energy, it would seem to be an ideal pre-competition meal. Many in the two-mile competition; Jerry Zambrano, physical director at the YMCA; and Sherill Easterling, who hopes to emerge as the victor of the five-mile competition.

coaches recommend this before a race, such as a chocolate bar.

However, sugar has its drawbacks too, said the run coordinator.

"A large amount draws water into the stomach and intestinal tract and often causes cramps. But a teaspoon or so of any form of sugar is usually not enough to cause problems," she said.

Still believing in the great protein myth, many athletes eat steak before competition. Protein is not an immediate source of energy.

Russian weight lifters bring caviar to meals. Despite all the medical evidence that protein supplies quick energy and builds stronger muscles, protein supplements continue to engulf money from the athletes pocket.

"A well-balanced meal," emphasized Miss Teague, "can save you money." Even though Babe Ruth once ate 20 fat-loaded hot dogs just before a game, most researchers in sports medicine will tell you that you won't be able to perform the best after a fatty meal.

To get the most in performance, extra fluid in the system is suggested. Exercising causes fluid loss. Besides sweating, water is blown off with each breath.

After the loss of three percent of body weight in fluid, the body temperature rises, muscles heat up and contraction is not as efficient.

Liquid meals, containing carbohydrates, fat and protein, eaten 2½ hours before competition, usually leaves the stomach empty, according to Miss Teague.

"Athletes usually prefer solid meals for satisfaction," she pointed out.

"The Friday night meal should be high in carbohydrates, low in protein and fat.

Halve slices.

Wash grapes and divide in small clusters. Layer pineapple, bananas, and oranges. Mount grape clusters in center. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, slowly pour chilled carbonated beverage over fruit. Makes 5 cups.

For more tips on pre-competition diet and exercise, be at the YMCA today at 5:15 p.m. in the Roberts Room.

Linda Ward, Y Pastoral Instructor, and Cam Ryan, Big Spring High School P.E. teacher, will detail proper food intake and exercise for the Roadrunners Classic.

The public is invited to attend at no charge. If you haven't signed up for this local foot race, it's not too late.

"Entries will be accepted up until race time Saturday morning," revealed Miss Teague.

Entry fee is $3 per person.

WALKING WITH ROYALTY — Oil paintings of Prince Philip and Queen Elizabeth II seem to be walking away from an annual antique and art sale in Toronto, Canada, Wednesday. In fact, the feet are those of volunteer helper Terry Collins, who carried the paintings off to await pickup by the buyer. The portraits sold for $25 apiece at the charity sale.

One of two in teen suicide pact succeeds

MERCER ISLAND, Wash. (AP) — A teen-ager who died when his car slammed into the brick wall of a school gymnasium made a suicide pact several weeks ago with his girlfriend, who was seriously hurt in the crash, fellow students say.

Students at Mercer Island High School said Jason Perrine, 16, and Dawn Swisher, 15 — who had been dating for about two months — had talked openly about driving off a cliff at nearby Snoqualmie Falls, driving off a bridge near North Bend, or driving into the wall at the school.

On Monday, Jason drove his 1972 automobile through a gymnasium wall at North Mercer Junior High School, where he and Dawn once went to school.

Wednesday, Mercer Island police were still trying to determine exactly what happened, but the King County medical examiner has classified Jason's death as a suicide. Police estimate the car was traveling between 90 and 120 mph when it hit the wall.

Jason left a note at home saying he would kill himself but it didn't say why, authorities said.

Bill Pattie, a counselor at the school said he didn't think any of the counselors knew of the death pact even though the students had been counseled for truancy and bad grades.

"I believe they were more involved with each other than they were with school. Their lives were wound around each other," Pattie said.

Mike Mead, a fellow student, said he tried to talk the teen-agers out of the pact.

"I got into several big arguments with Dawn about it," he said. "But it was difficult to argue with her because she had such set views on life and death. She thought she was going to be moving on to something better," he said.

Pecan nut casebearer control data listed

By DAVID G. FOSTER
County Extension Entomologist
Martin, Howard, Glasscock,
Upson, and Reagan Counties

Now is the time to be checking pecan nutlet clusters for pecan nut casebearer eggs or nutlet feeding damage from this destructive pecan insect pest.

Detection of eggs or feeding damage indicates when chemical control applications should be made.

Adult female moths will soon be laying eggs on the pollinated nutlets, eggs should hatch in 4 to 7 days and then the young worms will attack the nutlets.

Eggs are usually placed singly on the tips of nutlets. Eggs are flat and blue-greenish white in color when first laid but take on a pinkish red color after 1 or 2 days. Eggs are small in size, about the size of a pinhead.

Young worms hatching from eggs, first feed on leaf buds and then attack the small nutlets. First significant nut entry is expected on May 19th.

Young worms cut a hole into the base of the nutlets and feed inside the nutlets. As the small worm feeds, pellets of frass are produced and collected outside the nutlet in fine webs.

At least 100 pecan nutlet clusters should be checked on trees in home yards for eggs and worm feeding damage. Check trees 2 to 3 times a week for the next 2 weeks. Where eggs are detected, chemical treatments should be applied in 3 to 6 days. Where feeding damage is detected, chemical treatment should be made that day. Sevin, Zolone, or malathion sprays may be used for control of pecan nut casebearers on home yard trees. Commercial producers can use azinphosmethyl (Guthion), carbaryl (Sevin), endosulfan (Thiodan), or phosalone (Zolone). Check the label on the chemical container for rates of application, mixing and application instructions.

A second insecticide application about 7 days after the first is needed in most years for effective pecan nut casebearer control.

The pecan nut casebearer has 3 generations per year. It is about 42 days between the occurrence of each subsequent generation. Some years the second and third generations of this insect may cause considerable nut damage. Total nut loss is usually greater during the first generation because an individual larvae may destroy a complete nut cluster.

Zinc can be applied to the foliage of pecan trees when applying an insecticide for casebearer control. Regular zinc applications are needed for good development of pecans in this area.

For further information on pecan pests and their control, contact your county Extension agent.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are for people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, or national origin.

Nurse's aide program announced by college

The Howard College Adult and Continuing Education program announces a 270-hour Nurse's Aide Course. The course will begin May 27 and end June 10. Classes will meet Monday through Friday.

The course will cover Basic Patient Care which will be divided into classroom and clinical study. There will be time provided for G.E.D. preparation and classroom study. If a person meets entrance requirements, they will be admitted to the program. Students must go through an interview session, and this must be completed on Thursday.

May 22. Each student will be responsible for the purchase of his-her supplies which will range from $35-$60. The cost of the course is free.

Instructor for the course will be Sue Easterling, Ms. Easterling is a registered nurse, and she has taught several nursing courses at Howard College. Upon satisfactory completion of the course, the instructor will verify the issuance of a certificate to the student.

Students must pre-register in the Howard College Adult and Continuing Education office located in the Horace Garrett Building. For more information, please call 267-6311, ext. 70.

Adult Education Department at HC expands its services

The Adult Education Department continues to expand its services to the community. The classes are held at the Big Spring State Hospital, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Big Spring Camp, Nutritional Health Site, Canterbury Retirement Center, and Mountainview Nursing Home.

The learning center at Howard College will be open from 8 a.m. until 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and on Fridays from 8 a.m. until noon. These new hours will begin May 19.

Adult Education provides instruction in basic reading, writing, conversational English, life coping skills, and G.E.D. preparation.

Classes are free and registration is open year round. Enroll today for G.E.D. preparation. If you are interested in Adult Education, please contact the Adult Education office at 267-6311, ext. 70.

DIVINE GUIDANCE FOR WEIGHTY DECISION — In this day of numerous decisions motorists in the area of Burnet, Texas are advised they can seek guidance in their search for the right size brew. No one could explain how the advertisements on the billboards happened to be side-by-side.

Clayton cautions opponents

'Magic number' still to come

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton says candidates to succeed him as leader of the Texas House are counting their votes too soon.

"The magic number doesn't come until January when you see it on the board or in the ballot box (when the Legislature meets in January)," Clayton said Wednesday at an impromptu news conference.

He said he sticks by his statement that he will seek an unprecedented fourth term as speaker unless he is indicted in the FBI's Bribe (bribery and labor) investigation and not vindicated by around Labor Day.

Clayton said he set the Labor Day deadline because "if you get through by then, then it doesn't carry over into the fall elections."

"I was pleased it didn't carry over into the primaries and hope it doesn't affect the general election," he said.

A federal grand jury in Houston is studying evidence gathered by the FBI and reportedly will take some action in early June.

Campaigners for Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, who is running against Clayton, claim he has the votes to win. Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, says he can beat Bryant if Clayton is not running.

Clayton said he was disappointed that conservative Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, dropped out of the race to succeed him. He said it was healthy to have numerous candidates.

Nabers endorsed Bryant on Wednesday, but only if Clayton is out of the race.

Asked what he thought of the endorsement of Bryant by Rep. W.S. Heatly, D-Paducah, a longtime Clayton supporter, the speaker said, "Makes you wonder what the commitment was."

With 108-103 triumph over 76ers Lakers closing in LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers need just one more victory to wrap up the National Basketball Association championship, but if Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's hurting, they may be, too.

The Lakers won 108-103 Wednesday night to take a three games to two edge over the Philadelphia 76ers in the best-of-seven championship series, but Abdul-Jabbar suffered a sprained left ankle which may limit his playing time — or efficiency.

Answers to Abdul-Jabbar's availability for Friday night's sixth game in Philadelphia — add to a possible seventh in Los Angeles Sunday — are expected Friday morning. Team physician Dr. Robert Kerlan said that an evaluation would be made then to judge "what the pain and discomfort is."

Abdul-Jabbar hurt the ankle when he came down on it awkwardly after a shot late in the third quarter. He left the game, but returned in the fourth quarter. Although limping, the 7-foot-2 center scored 14 of his 40 points in the final period and tallied a key three-point play that broke a 103-103 tie with 33 seconds left.

Before being whisked away to a nearby hospital for precautionary X-rays after the game, Abdul-Jabbar said, "It really hurts, but I felt I had to come back."

Playing his finest game of the series, Abdul-Jabbar hit 15 of 24 floor shots and eight of nine from the free throw line, and also had 15 rebounds and four blocked shots. Amazingly, he even dominated the game by his absence when he went out to have the ankle examined and taped.

The contest had been tight all the way, and Los Angeles was ahead 69-67 when Abdul-Jabbar hobbled off. The fired-up Lakers then ran off a 12-6 string to go into the fourth quarter with an 81-73 lead. The 76ers began closing the gap in the final five minutes of the contest, tying the game before Abdul-Jabbar's layin and free throw and Norm Nixon's two insurance free throws in the final seconds.

"The difference was our inability to control the game when Kareem went out," said Julius "Dr. J" Erving, who scored 36 points for the 76ers and sparked the late comeback. "They scrambled and gambled and put up a lead and then we had to play catch up."

"That lead we built up when Kareem was out was the big thing," said the Lakers Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who had 15 rebounds and 10 assists to go with his 14 points for Los Angeles. "They came back, but they couldn't come back enough."

"It was the wounded animal syndrome," said Laker Coach Paul Westhead, explaining the scoring spurt. "We played group basketball. We weren't going to let the absence of Kareem keep us down."

Guard Norm Nixon chipped in 20 points for the Lakers, and forward Jamaal Wilkes added 14.

Darryl Dawkins had 23 points for Philadelphia, and Lionel Hollins, with 10 points, was the only other 76er in double figures

Ali-Holmes rescheduled

NEW YORK (AP) — The promoter of the Muhammad Ali-Larry Holmes World Boxing Council heavyweight title fight says the bout, which will mark Ali's return to the ring from retirement, will take place in this country sometime in August.

Murad Muhammad said Wednesday that the undefeated Holmes and Ali will meet in the United States in late summer rather than in Brazil on July 11. The 165,000 Maracana Stadium in Rio de Janeiro was to be the site but was ruled out because of several problems, one of which was complaints by the stadium executive that construction of the ring and seats would damage the grass at the height of the soccer season.

"We feel that the United States is the best place for the fight," Murad Muhammad said. "It was our investors' decision to bring it here, but the July 11th date was too soon."

"We are in negotiations with some major arenas and have one specifically in mind. An announcement on the site will come soon."

Murad Muhammad and Don King, who has arranged all of Holmes' title fights, are co-promoters of the title bout being bankrolled by Los Angeles-based Prime Sports. Ali is expected to receive about $8 million and Holmes $4 million of the total proceeds.

"The delay will help Ali, it will help Holmes and it will help the promotion," Murad Muhammad said.

With month long possibility Reggie foresees strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson, the New York Yankees player representative, says he thinks a strike next week by the Major League Baseball Players Association is a strong possibility.

"I'm not pessimistic, but I think there's a good chance of there being a strike," Jackson said Wednesday night. "And if there is one, it will probably be a long one — a month or so."

Jackson, who has been sitting in on negotiations the past two days, called the compensation issue "the overwhelming problem. If there is a strike, it will be over compensation," he said.

The owners made a new compensation proposal this week but Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, said it did not contain substantial changes from management's original position. The owners are demanding a replacement player from the organization of a team signing a prime free agent.

"There won't be any give-ins by the players," Jackson said. "We gave in on that a few years ago."

Although the players won clear free agency several years ago, they agreed that a player must have six years of major league service before he can sell his services on the open market.

"There has been some improvement," Jackson said of the negotiations, "but not in the major areas."

NFL rejects complaint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League has rejected complaints by the Washington Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles accusing the Dallas Cowboys of illegally working out athletes eligible for this spring's draft, according to a published report.

The Washington Post, in its Thursday editions, says that the Cowboys were accused of administering an illegal hand-eye reaction test to potential draftees who were in Dallas for physical examinations.

Under NFL rules, any type of workout must be conducted away from the team's city and without the use of league players.

The Redskins also alleged that Dallas scouts, not doctors, administered the test, according to the Post. The Cowboys were also accused of having possible draftees work out with Dallas players, according to Post sources.

"Complaints like this happen all the time," said Dallas general manager Tex Schramm, who said the charge that Cowboy players worked out with potential draftees was "totally false."

As for the eye-hand test, "It was a very technical point," Schramm said. "The league determined we were within the rules," he said.

40-year old reliever stifles Houston again

Fryman burns Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Montreal relief pitcher Woodie Fryman, 40, doesn't smoke the tobacco he grows on his Ewing, Ky. farm, but it doesn't bother him to burn the Houston Astros.

Fryman has retired the last 17 Astros batters he's faced over two consecutive nights, including 12 in a row Wednesday to preserve Scott Sanderson's victory and help the Expos to a 1-0 shutout of the Astros. It was only the second shutout for the Astros this season and kept them from regaining first place in the National League Western Division.

"The last two or three times I've pitched I've really been in a groove, that's my secret," Fryman said. "I've had god breaking stuff, a good fast ball and I've been hitting the spots. It's easy to look good when all that's going for you."

Fryman's relief effort Wednesday night gave the Expos a sweep of the abbreviated two-game series with the ageless reliever earning saves in both games.

Asked if he expected to still be pitching in the major leagues when he was 40, Fryman said "I didn't expect to be pitching when I was 25 but I'm still here. Gene Mauch told me once I could pitch until I was 40. He knew I took care of myself. I don't drink or smoke."

But Fryman sent the Astros down in flames, striking out four of the last five batters he faced and earning his fifth save of the season.

Sanderson held the Astros to four hits until he left the game with a back spasm after walking the leadoff batter in the sixth. Tony Bernazard had doubled down the first base line in the fifth inning to score all the runs the Expos needed.

Houston threatened in the fourth when Jose Cruz singled and reached third base on a stolen base and grounder with two outs but Jeff Leonard struck out.

Losing pitcher Ken Forsch, 4-2, and Terry Puhl hit back to back singles in the fifth with one out but Craig Reynolds and Denny Walling flew out to end Houston's last rally.

Forsch scattered six hits before leaving with a stiff shoulder after the eighth inning and was the victim of the Astros' recent hitting slump.

"It puts pressure on the pitcher if you're not scoring any runs but I can't think about that when I go out to pitch," Forsch said. "I've got too many other things to worry about, like getting the batters out."

Teague wins Y fem tourney

Nadine Teague claimed the championship in the Women's Open Division in the YMCA Racquetball Tournament here this week.

She defeated Sherry Walker in the finals of her division, with Ann Couvillion capturing the Open fem's consolation title.

In the Women's Class B Division, Shelane Roberts topped Maggie Gonzales for the title.

The Mixed Doubles crown was won by Lee Rau and Ann Couvillion, who defeated Sheryl Vetter and Craig Neighbors. Pat and Alice Weaver won the consolation trophy in this division.

NL Roundup

Cubs 5, Dodgers 2
Dave Kingman slammed his eighth home run and drove in three runs to lead Chicago over Los Angeles. Lynn McGlothen, 2-0, earned the victory with relief help from three pitchers. Bullpen ace Bruce Sutter, the last of them, recorded his ninth save. Bert Hooton, 3-3, took the loss.

Mets 7, Reds 6
Jerry Morales snapped an 0-for-23 slump with an RBI single in the 10th inning to lead New York over Cincinnati. John Stearns opened the 10th with a double and two outs later, Morales — who had come into the game as a defensive replacement — slapped a single to left.

Pinch-hitter Harry Spilman had tied the game for Cincinnati with a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth. It was the second straight pinch homer for Spilman.

"He hit a good pitch," loser Tom Hume, 3-2, said of Morales' game-winning hit. "I threw a sinker and jammed him."

Pirates 3, Giants 2
Jim Bibby and Kent Tekulve combined on a five-hitter to lead Pittsburgh over San Francisco. Bibby, 5-0, left the game in favor of Tekulve after giving up a leadoff double to Bill North in the eighth inning. Tekulve gained his fourth save.

The Pirates ended a 19-inning scoring drought with unearned runs in the first two innings off Bob Knepper. Dave Parker's RBI single in the eighth provided the Pirates with their winning run.

Phillies 9, Braves 1
Steve Carlton gave up only two hits in six innings and Pete Rose drove in four runs as Philadelphia routed Atlanta.

Carlton, 6-2, did not allow a run until Bob Horner led off the sixth with his first homer of the season. Carlton, who struck out four and walked three, now has yielded only five hits to the Braves in 15 innings this season.

Rose had an RBI double in the second, keyed a four-run third with a two-run single and doubled home another run in the fifth.

Cardinals 2, Padres 1
Keith Hernandez singled and scored two runs, the second on an error in the sixth, to give Roy Thomas his first victory of the season as St. Louis edged San Diego. Thomas, entering the game with a 6.61 ERA, allowed just one run on five hits through seven innings before giving way to reliever Silvio Martinez. Martinez himself needed last-out relief help from Mark Littell, who earned his second save.

HOME PLATE FLOPPING — Montreal Expos' center-fielder Andre Dawson (10) and Houston Astros' catcher Alan Ashby (14) doing the home plate flop after Dawson was tagged out in the first inning of the National League

Roberts, Rangers homer Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was only fitting that Dave Roberts and the game with a spectacular play, although it wasn't needed to make it a memorable night for the Texas utilityman.

Roberts had already experienced wild cation following his first career grand slam home run, and a weird period of dizziness after being struck in the throat by a hard grounder.

"I probably won't forget this one," Roberts said after his slam and solo homers by Mickey Rivers and Richie Zisk had powered the Rangers to a 6-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Roberts was hitting .111 when he connected on a 1-0 pitch from Paul Hartzell, 0-1, who had replaced the injured Scott McGregor at the start of the fourth inning.

The ball was hit into a stiff wind, which registered gusts of 25 miles an hour during the game, but the only question was if it would stay fair. It hit the left field foul pole for a 4-2 lead.

"I knew I hit it hard enough," Roberts said, "but the wind was blowing it down. The ball must have hooked 30 feet."

Rivers homered later in the inning and Zisk in the seventh, both off Jim Palmer, who made a rare relief appearance after missing two starts with a bad back.

The Rangers loaded the bases in the fourth on a single by Zisk, a walk to Danny Walton, and the first of four hits by Jim Sundberg. They stranded 11 runners, two in the third after failing to score on a single, a stolen base, a walk and a double.

The Orioles stranded 12, three in the eighth when reliever Sparky Lyle retired pinch hitter Benny Ayala after Gaylord Perry issued a walk to force in Baltimore's third run. For Perry, 3-1, it was his 282nd career victory.

Dan Graham had four hits for the Orioles, including an RBI single in the third, giving him six consecutive hits and 7-for-8. But he grounded into a double play in the ninth after Gary Roenicke walked and Eddie Murray reached on an error by shortstop Pepe Frias.

With one runner aboard, third baseman Roberts then made a fine backhanded stop of pinch hitter Rick Dempsey's smash, ending the game.

In the eighth, Roberts took a smash by Lee May hard on the throat and was unable to make a play.

"I still had time with May running," Roberts said. "But as I bent down for the ball, everything started to spin and my instinct told me not to throw."

McGregor, struck on the left knee by a Frias' liner, had precautionary x-rays taken and they proved negative.

West Germany announces boycott

President Carter's Olympic boycott initiative received a major boost today when the West German Olympic Committee voted by a 59-40 margin to keep its team away from the Moscow Summer Games.

The decision, which came two days after France decided to attend the Olympics, was expected to have wide repercussions in encouraging other teams to boycott.

After the French Olympic Committee voted Tuesday to send its Olympians to the Summer Games, Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie called the move, "uncomprehensible ... that a free people, whether Europeans or Americans, whether athletes of nonathletes ... would chose to attend the Olympics in view of the Soviet Union's military intervention in Afghanistan.

The vote of the 54-member West German Olympic Committee came after a four-hour debate in a hotel ballroom and climaxed months of controversy in West Germany over the U.S. proposal to boycott the Games because of Soviet military action in Afghanistan.

In the face of France's defection, the United States saw a pro-boycott vote by West Germany as essential in helping persuade other countries not to send teams to Moscow. Nations now expected to follow West Germany's lead are Australia, Japan, The Netherlands, Portugal — and possibly Italy and Denmark.

Tatum ready to compete for job

HOUSTON (AP) — New Houston Oiler defensive back Jack Tatum says former Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler took the Raiders to the Super Bowl and he can do the same thing for the Oilers.

"I don't think he is going to win a Miss America contest," Tatum said of the bearded Stabler. "But there's nothing wrong with his head or his arm. He took us to the Super Bowl out there and he can do it again."

Stabler was traded to the Oilers on March 15 for Oiler quarterback Dan Pastorini. Tatum followed on April 29 in a deal that gave the Oilers a pair of draft picks and sent running back Kenny King to the Raiders.

Tatum said he didn't know where he would fit into the Oiler defense, which already contains a pair of top-flight safeties in Mike Reinfeildt and Vernon Perry.

"I don't expect to walk in and be handed a job," he said. "I expect to compete for a job. They can't sit one of them (Perry or Reinfeildt) down after they way they played last year."

Reinfeildt led the National Football League in interceptions and Perry picked off four passes in an upset victory over San Diego in the American Football Conference playoffs.

"My role will be a football player," Tatum said. "I'm willing to play anywhere I can help the team get to the Super Bowl."

Tatum's controversial book, "They Call Me Assassin," discussed his penchant for hard-tackling, but Tatum said he is not a dirty player.

"I hit people as hard as I can," he said. "I break up as many plays as I can. But I don't play dirty. I don't want to hurt people."

Tatum said he was looking forward to the competition against Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh. "I'd be happy if we played the Steelers 16 times," he said. "Pittsburgh's the best. You only get better playing against the best."

Watson seeking "Texas Bonanza"

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Tom Watson, riding the hottest streak in golf, had his sights today on the $300,000 Colonial National Invitation and a jackpot only he can claim.

And if his capitalistic colleagues are correct, Watson may just pull it off.

"The odds are against it of course," said former Masters champion Charles Coody, "but if any guy can do it, he's the one."

Watson, 30, said he would like nothing better than to extend his current victory streak to four, which would give him the $54,000 Colonial prize plus an additional $200,000 bonus.

Called the "Texas Bonanza," sponsors of the Byron Nelson and the Colonial offered golf's greatest cash prize to anyone who could win both tournaments.

"Tom's on such a streak now it doesn't make any difference if he's playing for $600,000, $60,000 or $60," said Ray Floyd.

"I'd say the odds really are in his favor," said Ben Crenshaw.

Watson captured the Nelson crown and $54,000 last week in Dallas and extended to 12 the number of consecutive rounds in which he has either held or shared the lead.

"Just four more rounds," he grinned. "I'd like to keep the streak going just four more rounds."

"Just four more rounds," he grinned. "I'd like to keep the streak going just four more rounds."

Nelson and the Colonial offered golf's greatest cash prize to anyone who could win both tournaments.

"Tom's on such a streak now it doesn't make any difference if he's playing for $600,000, $60,000 or $60," said Ray Floyd.

"I'd say the odds really are in his favor," said Ben Crenshaw.

Watson captured the Nelson crown and $54,000 last week in Dallas and extended to 12 the number of consecutive rounds in which he has either held or shared the lead.

"Just four more rounds," he grinned. "I'd like to keep the streak going just four more rounds."

Horse race fixing trial accuses top jockeys

NEW YORK (AP) — Accused horse race fixer Con Errico was seen with several big winners in the mid-1970s on days when he allegedly paid jockeys to cheat at Saratoga and Aqueduct, a former FBI agent says.

Joseph Fanning, who as an FBI agent was assigned to New York tracks, said Wednesday at Errico's trial in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn that a better identified as Harry Kachougian won $129,168 in a Dec. 9, 1974 triecta.

That was one of nine days when the 58-year-old Errico is accused of bribing jockeys, possibly some of the nation's top riders, to hold their horses back at one of the two New York tracks.

SOMEONE TO LOOK UP TO — Tonight Show host Johnny Carson, right, grimaces as he looks up at Los Angeles Lakers basketball star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar when Kareem was on the show during taping Tuesday night in Burbank, Calif. Quipping about his reported shyness, Jabbar said "I was thrust seven feet into the public eye."

Fanning said that other days on which Errico was seen with Kachougian were Aug. 2, 1974, when the horseplayer won $91,560, and two days later when Kachougian won $109,055 at Saratoga. Errico is accused of fixing both races.

Fanning also said Errico appeared in a group of undercover surveillance photographs taken with a number of men.

Fanning's statement followed surprising testimony by Puerto Rican-born jockey Jose Amy, who implicated 10 top jockeys in alleged race fixing. Mentioned were Angel Cordero Jr., Jorge Valasquez and Jacinto Vasquez—all riding in next Saturday's Preakness at Pimlico, with Vasquez set to ride Kentucky Derby winner Genuine Risk.

It was noted during Amy's testimony Wednesday that the 10 are probably protected from criminal prosecution by the five-year statute of limitations.

Amy further testified that he knowingly lied to a grand jury last December about four of the several races he had said Errico tried to fix in 1974-75. He said he then went before the grand jury again last March 14 to retract his statements.

The four races about which he recanted all occurred after March 24, 1975. Errico was arrested March 22, 1980, two days short of protection by the statute of limitations. If Amy had not recanted, it is conceivable that some big-time jockeys could have been indicted and arrested

Warren named Golden Tors football coach

LAMESA — The Lamesa Board of Education was unanimous in hiring Jim Warren to take over the Lamesa High School Golden Tors football program.

Warren will move to Lamesa from Lockney, where he has been the head coach for the past six years.

A 1963 graduate of McMurry, Warren began his coaching career in Anton. Following Anton, he served one year at Mt.

Pleasant and four years at Plains. He then coached at Sudan before moving to Lockney.

A native of Plains, his cumulative head coaching record is 68-54-4.

He will take over the job in Lamesa at the end of the school year. Warren is presently serving as the junior high principal in Lockney, a job that he has held since the end of football season, at the urging of the Lockney superintendent.

Auxiliary meets

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Auxiliary met May 6 at the post home in Silver Heels to install new officers of the Auxiliary for 1980-81, prior to separate business meetings.

Jessie Broughton, past president of the local Auxiliary, installed the new officers who were Ethel Knapp, president; Clara Lewis, senior vice president; Katie Spivey, junior vice president; Margaret Barnett, treasurer; Mary Murphy, chaplain; Pat Highly, conductor; Myrtle Morris, guard; Bonnie Franklin, instructor; Gertrude McCann, secretary; Jessie Broughton, trustee; Pauline Petty, musician; and Johnnie Kemper, Delores Scott, Lois Ferguson and Frances Loftis, color bearers.

Mrs. Knapp, president, presided at the business meeting of the Auxiliary. Committee reports were made.

Ms. Petty reported that cake and coffee were served to the patients at Veterans Administration Medical Center May 5. Mrs. Petty also reported the presentation of an American flag to Sands School at Ackery by the Auxiliary and the Post in a ceremony April 22. Bill Everett, Sands superintendent accepted the flag for the school.

TWINS GRADUATE — Pictured, left, are Donald and Ronald Wheeler, twins sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Wheeler, 1800 Grafia Drive, who graduated from Texas Tech University May 9. Donald received a Bachelor of Music Education degree and Ronald received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Advertising. Both Donald and Ronald graduated from Big Spring High School in 1975, and attended Howard College before attending Texas Tech University.

Lodge will select Rebekah of the year

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the I.O.O.F. Hall at 9th and San Antonio. Gay Smith, noble grand presided over the 31 members present. They reported 30 visits to the sick.

Harold and Peggy Allen, being in waiting, were escorted into the lodge room and the Degree of Rebekah was conferred upon them.

Sheri Wilson announced that the Past Noble Grand Club will meet in her home, 2411 E. 24th St., May 19. Sandwiches and ice cream will be served.

Members were alerted to begin preparation for selecting the Rebekah of the Year from Lodge No. 284. Members voted to be regular volunteers at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. Lila Holland will be the representative and Mrs. Wilson will be the deputy representative.

Selected for the President's Project Committee to work toward a community service fund were Marion Savell, Corynne Cunningham and Nell Burgess.

May birthdays were celebrated with a salad supper and cake. Honored were Hugh Rhyme, and Lola Majors.

The Ladies Encampment and the Ladies Auxiliaries Patriarchs Militant will meet Friday at 7 p.m. A pot luck supper will be served. The lodge will meet again in the I.O.O.F. Hall.

Good Relationship Beginning to Smell

DEAR ABBY: I don't know exactly how to start this, but I've just got to get help with this problem. I am a young working mother with two preschool children who need to be watched while I'm at work. I refuse to leave them with just anybody, so I was thrilled when I finally found a woman who can come to my home early every morning and stay through supper. She is wonderful with the children. They love her and she loves them, and I couldn't ask for a more reliable woman. But there is one thing about her that is very hard to take. She smells! When I come home from work I can hardly stay in the house, it smells so bad. I open the windows and spray air freshener all over, but the smell stays on the furniture. What should I do? I don't think I can tell her she smells, and I could never find anyone else with her qualifications to look after my children. Any suggestions!

SUFFOCATED: You must tell her! But do it with kindness. Let her know that the children love her, and you need her. Then tell her that it is essential that she bathe and change all her clothes daily. (P.S. If she is bodily clean, and her clothes are clean, she should see a doctor. A strong body odor can be a symptom of a serious disease.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband, while playing cards at the home of a friend, tapped the bowl of his pipe against the rim of a crystal ashtray and it cracked immediately. It was an old and lovely ashtray and would be very costly to replace today. My husband offered his sincere apology — but said nothing about replacing it.

On another occasion, at a party in our home, a guest accidentally knocked over a cordial glass and broke it. (It belonged to a set.) She offered her apologies for the shattered glass. I feel that if someone breaks something in the home of another, restitution is in order. My husband says that hosts are aware that accidents can happen; therefore, they should not use anything that is either impossible or exceedingly costly to replace. Neither should the host expect restitution for damage or breakage. What is your view?

DEAR READER: If a guest chips, breaks, burns or soils something in the home of another, he should make every effort to replace it. Furthermore, irreplaceable antiques belong in a china closet.

DEAR ABBY: My 18-year-old daughter had a baby. The father did not want to accept any of the responsibility, so my daughter decided to give her baby up for adoption in order to provide it with a loving mother and father. It was a very difficult decision, but that's the way she wanted it, and we, her parents, went along with it.

LOVING GRANDMA: Only if you'd feel comfortable answering the questions concerning this grandchild that would naturally follow.

(Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Modern Woman's Forum has Rhodesian program

The Modern Woman's Forum heard a program on Rhodesia and installed new officers as they met May 9. Mrs. Elra Phillips hosted the group at Canterbury.

Mrs. Bert Affleck, president, introduced the speaker, Mrs. Bernard Zilberg, who told about her life in Rhodesia, and the family's move to Big Spring. Dr. Zilberg, her husband, is a pediatrician at Malone-Hogan Clinic.

The Zilberg's left war-torn Rhodesia in June 1979 for Big Spring. The last three years of their residency there was bad with the last year the worst when they were refugees.

Mrs. Zilberg was involved deeply in the cultural development of Rhodesian culture. Leaving the country which they loved forced her to give up a lifetime of activity in Salisbury, Rhodesia's cultural affairs.

Mrs. Zilberg represented Rhodesia as president of the Organization of Jewish Women at an International Council of Jewish women at Atlanta, Ga., in May 1978.

One of her cultural involvements was with African art which she displayed several different articles of in the form of mats, rugs and statues. Officers for the 1979-80 year were installed by Mrs. C.R. Moad who used the "Rainbow Service" as a focalpoint because the rainbow is a symbol of the blessings of the presence of God in the lives and experiences of men and women.

Rainbows appear in the wake of a storm. Light passing through raindrops causes us to see the different colors. When God's love and truth pass through the hearts of people, those about them are blessed. Deeds performed in the name of Jesus and for His glory create lasting rainbows of service.

As officers were installed, each one of them added a color to the Rainbow of Service. Mrs. Cass Hill, the new president, was given the color purple as leader and director of the club. Other officers receiving the color of their office were Mrs. Moad, first vice president; Mrs. B.M. Keese, second vice president; Mrs. Bert Affleck, secretary and reporter; Mrs. Hugh Duncan, treasurer; Mrs. W.E. Singleton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T.G. Adams, historian; Mrs. Fred Whitaker, Federation Counselor and Mrs. Woody Smith, parliamentarian. Each officer installed was given a scarf the color that she represented in the Rainbow Service.

Members stood to give their support of the new officers and united in the club collect.

The club will not meet again until Sept. 26.

Women of St. Mary's have luncheon and style show

The Women of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Episcopal, met May 10, at 12:30 p.m. at the parish hall for a salad luncheon and style show. Ellen Ezell registered the guests.

The luncheon tables were decorated with crepe paper in spring colors, and a variety of spring flowers in clay pots. Approximately 50 members and guests attended.

Jo Lipscombe, president, chaired a short business meeting, during which delegates to the Diocesan Council were elected and a nominating committee for next year's officers was appointed. Florence Lenox announced the tasting tea to be held by the Church Women United in the near future.

Liza Bowman, vice president, gave the devotional, which consisted of a scripture reading from the Sermon on the Mount, and a discussion of ways God has given to overcome anxieties.

Denita Kionka was the commentator for the fashion show. All models were members of the Episcopal Church, and all the outfits being modeled came from the Bargain Box, located at 109 Main St. The Bargain Box is owned and operated by the Women of the Church.

Models, accompanied by Karen Barker at the piano, were Diane Lewis, Linda Mitchell, Cindy and Kristen Marshall, Caroline Blagg, Kay Burns, Dorothy Rae Edwards, Florence Lenox, Mishell Fuller, Lellah Adkins, Rietta Kionka, Norma Wade, and Gini and Andrei Polo.

Names were drawn from a straw hat, and a dozen door prizes were awarded.

Poppy Sale will begin May 24

Local VFW post Commander Jack Spivey announced that annual sale of Buddy Poppies on the streets of Big Spring will be May 24.

"More than one-half of the net proceeds received from the sale will remain here in our own community to meet the calls from needy veterans," Commander Spivey pointed out.

The Post maintains a relief fund in which all net profits are placed. This fund is available to provide relief for local veterans.

As in previous years, these symbolic flowers of Flanders Field will be sold by a group of volunteer members of the VFW Post and members of its Ladies Auxiliary.

They will be assisted by volunteer workers from youth groups in the community.

"The balance of the proceeds of the sale is used to help maintain the nationwide rehabilitation service of our organization," added the commander.

"We contribute one penny for each Buddy Poppy sold to the operation of the VFW National Home for widows and orphans. This is the only home of its kind in the world," he concluded.

Pageant is postponed

The District Cinderella Girl Pageant, previously scheduled for this weekend has been postponed.

The event has been rescheduled for June 6-7. Entry deadline, according to co-director Gail Earls, is June 3.

By MICKIE DICKSON

A Shakespearean Festival? You bet Coahoma AWAKE students are presenting three Shakespearean plays Saturday at 7 p.m. at Coahoma Elementary School.

"Hamlet," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Julius Caesar" are the three attractions to be portrayed by grades 1-6 of the AWAKE classes. AWAKE is a program for the gifted children of Coahoma Independent School District and is an acronym for "Awareness of the World Around us Through Knowledge and Education." An in-depth news article on AWAKE will appear in the Sunday edition of the Big Spring Herald.

The production of these Shakespearean classics came out of a desire of AWAKE students to study the middle ages. Grades 1-6 chose the subject, "Joust" for Fun which included a study of how squires became knights and the armor worn in tournaments. How vassals paid homage to their lords, the minstrels and the stories they sang in court. The monasteries and the monks who handcopied books were also studied. Calligraphy or lettering was included in the study.

AWAKE students welcomed the opportunity to learn about dramatics, costuming, stage design and production in preparation for the presentation of the festival. Included in the study was the opportunity to attend a drama at the Globe Theater in Odessa. Seventh and eighth grade girls attended the production of "Julius Caesar" performed by Shakespearean actors from New York at the Globe Theater. Shakespearean Festival Feb. 28.

The festival is a means of reaching two AWAKE goals. The first is for each student to develop a good self-image and awareness of his strengths and weaknesses. The second is for each student to become involved in real-life challenges. This involves the highest level of thinking by making informed choices and decisions and becoming producers.

"Hamlet," directed by Martha Spell, sixth grade teacher, is a drama of murder and political intrigue in Denmark involving Prince Hamlet, the son, played by Matt Winn, Claudius, Denmark's king and Hamlet's stepfather, played by Gary Vaughn and Gertrude, Denmark's queen and Hamlet's mother played by Kim Clanton. Other characters in the play are Gabriel Morales, Johnny Helm, Barry Stafford, Lisa McCoy, Mark Roen, Scott Earnest, Jody Reid, Coley Dobbs, Thomas Hoggard, Terri Ball, Trina Whitaker, Shela Reid, Rene Morales and Eric Drewery. Musicians are Shellie Dorn, Terrie Tucker, Jenice Shaughnessy, Zach Creech and Brian Caloway.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is a Shakespearean comedy played by strolling actors as an elaborate hoax on a drunken tinsmith, picked out of the street and placed in the luxurious bed of a rich lord, as sport for the household. Mrs. Bill (Enola) Ballard, mother of Kent Ballard who plays Patruccio, a suitor of Katharine's, is the director. Baptista, a rich gentleman, is played by Nancy Newman. Katharine, his eldest daughter, by Karen McCoy; Bianca, his youngest daughter, by Tina Robertson; The remainder of the actors are Dee Jon Douglass, Angela Reid, Shanna Fowler, Colleen Fowler, Traci Dorsey, Andrea Ray, Janiece Shaughnessy, Anne Dameron, Elana Himes, Jeff Scott, Michelle McCuistian, Sylvia Sargent, Dee Jeter, Jimmy Smith and Paige Wilson.

Former addict gives warning

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Dr. Wallace: I am a former drug user who really messed up my life and I'd like to share my experiences with your reading audience, hoping that they will help show teens that drugs are not the way to go.

I'm a 17-year-old girl and I started taking drugs when I was 8 years old. In the last nine years I've been on (at one time or another) marijuana, LSD, speed, Quaaludes, Valium, cocaine and a few more. When I was high, I thought it was a blast but all drugs have done was ruin my life and destroy our family.

Because of taking drugs, I've been in and out of institutions, group homes, foster homes and drug treatment centers. I have a record as "long as your arm" and I'm now on parole (not probation). In fact, my brother (a drug user) is doing time for armed robbery.

I am not proud of my past and plan to do much better in the future.

Hopefully, this letter will be the first step in keeping my life straight. — Laura, Mesa, Ariz.

Laura I'm thrilled whenever I hear about a misguided teen who finds the "right path." Your message is loud and clear and will reach many teens. Thanks for taking time to share.

Dr. Wallace: My life is really messed up and I need help. I'm 18 and left home because I felt my father was too strict. He doesn't know where I am but I do keep in touch with my mother.

Anyway, I'm living with my boyfriend, Ronnie. We are both working but we are just making enough money to live on.

I really love Ronnie and he says that he loves me, but he happens to be seeing another girl. I saw them together last week and confronted him with it.

Well, it didn't seem to bother him because he started to pack his things and told me that he was moving out. I told him that if he left me that I would commit suicide. It worked because he is still with me.

But here is my problem. I'm confused and don't know what to do. Do you think that if we got married that he would be faithful to me? I was also considering getting pregnant to see if that would settle him down.

Please help me. — Jody, San Diego, Calif.

Jody: Marrying Ronnie at this time would be a big mistake but getting pregnant would be an even bigger one.

It's clear to me that the only reason Ronnie is still around is because he feels sorry for you.

Your best bet would be to call your mother and tell her that you would like to come home. This will give you time to think and get back into a positive frame of mind.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old guy and I'm confused. Last week I had a really neat dream that I fell in love with a beautiful girl. Now, all I can think of is this girl.

I know it's silly but I feel stupid thinking about a girl who does not exist. Please tell me I'm normal. — Brian, Worland, Wyo.

Brian: You are normal and I might add, very fortunate. Your dream was much better than the nightmares so many have.

Before long, a cute mortal Worland female will make you forget all about your "dream girl." In the meantime, enjoy her.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Recipe party held for bride-elect

Kathy Cowan, bride-elect of Randle Jones, was honored with a recipe party Monday at 2:30 p.m. by Mrs. Louis Stallings and Mrs. Kenneth Froman. The affair took place in the country home of Mrs. Stallings.

Each guest brought her favorite recipes, which were placed in a recipe file given to her by the hostesses.

The refreshment table was dressed with an ecru lace cloth and appointed with an arrangement of white daisies and lace and blue ribbon streamers. Guests were treated with ice-cream, cake and lemonade.

The honoree and her mother, Mrs. James W. Cowan, were each presented a white daisy corsage matching the table arrangement.

The couple will be married May 24 at the First Baptist Church.

On the light side It's all in the voice

DALLAS (AP) — When you fall in love on the telephone, your hairdo and your perfume don't count — it's all in the voice.

Which makes the long-distance romance of Anne Blankenship and Michael Adriaschko all the more unlikely.

Adriaschko, product manager for a Detroit electronics company, telephoned a concern near Dallas to complain about a misplaced order and reached Miss Blankenship, who had laryngitis.

"Customer service," she rasped into the phone.

"That's ridiculous — a girl with laryngitis on the job trying to please customers," Adriaschko said. They struck up a conversation.

Electron called off

BROOKVIEW, Md. (AP) — The wheels of democracy turn very slowly in Brookview, if at all. The town election scheduled in the Dorchester County community for last Saturday was called off because no one wanted to run for office and town Commissioner Paul Knode warned that the town council faces extinction if someone doesn't become interested.

One thing led to another, and after six weeks of phone calls, she flew to Detroit to meet him. They plan to marry May 24.

Adriaschko says that he became interested in Miss Blankenship because she knew the Ukraine wasn't a part of Texas.

Farmer's union to support foreign buying prohibition

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Farmers Union will "put all its guns" next year behind a bill prohibiting foreign purchases of Texas farm land, a spokesman says.

Press Officer Ron Butler acknowledged, however, at a Wednesday news conference that "We have had complaints from members of our own organization that they don't want to be restricted to whom they sell things."

Butler said older farmers "weren't hot on the issue" in 1979, when the House killed a bill prohibiting further purchases of Texas farm and ranch land by foreigners.

Real estate and oil interests opposed the proposal.

Asked how much acreage foreigners own in Texas, Butler said foreigners voluntarily had reported ownership of 500,000 acres. "It's got to be many, many times that," he said. "I say even half a million is a problem."

Butler said foreign speculation in prime Texas farm land drives prices up and "threatens the family farm system" by making it impossible for young farmers to acquire acreage.

"The problem is not any better" than it was in 1979, said Butler. "In fact, it is worse."

He said despite the federal disclosure law he was unable recently to track rumors that foreigners were buying Brazos River bottom land in the Waco area for speculation. He said all he found was that the land was first purchased for "$1 and other considerations" by a Colorado investment firm and was being held in trust by a Chicago bank.

"We're not only against foreigners owning land but also against many (absentee) corporations," said Butler. "It doesn't matter whether they live in Tokyo ... New York City or ... Mexico City."

He said with the erosion of the dollar and the instability of foreign economies, there is additional pressure to invest in the United States. "We're not trying to add to any international tensions," he said. "It's a constitutional right to protect our natural resources, and I feel it's an obligation to protect our natural resources."

Butler said by "giving away (Texas) food at bankrupt, clearance-sale prices on the world markets" and buying foreign oil at high prices, "we're eroding the base that is our only means of rebalancing our trade deficit."

"We not only have an energy shortage, we're on the verge of having a food shortage," said Butler.

Butler said none of those invited to the news conference — including speaker candidates and members of the House Agriculture Committee — had attended.

Prison board still will meet despite deadline

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Although a deadline set by the owners has expired and Starr County residents still say they don't want a prison in their community, the Prison Approval Board will meet here May 22 to again consider buying La Casita Farm.

The State Board of Corrections voted April 22 to spend $7.8 million for the 3,200-acre farm. The farm would be the site of a maximum security prison for the overcrowded prison system.

Minutes after the board decided to buy the farm, the three-member Approval Board voted for a 30-day delay in the purchase. The Approval Board was confronted by Starr County officials against the prison.

Gov. Bill Clements and Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said area residents were entitled to more information on the prison.

Starr County Judge Blas Chapa, who appeared before the Approval Board in April, said Wednesday his opinion has not changed.

"I don't think they are going to change the peoples' minds here. We want to change (the board's mind), but they won't change ours," said Chapa, who owns a homestead overlooking La Casita.

The Corrections Board heard more complaints Monday when it met in McAllen. Chapa said he gave the board a long list of questions he wants answered.

Last week W.J. Estelle, TDC director, apologized at a civics club meeting in Rio Grande City for the secrecy surrounding plans to buy the land.

On Wednesday, a TDC plane took eight Starr County residents, including Chapa's son, to Huntsville for a tour of the prison system.

Last week Clements said public hearings about the prison would be convened in Starr County. No such hearings have been held.

The owners of La Casita set an April 23 deadline for the sale and have said the deadline was firm, but Armstrong and Board of Corrections Chairman James Windham said Wednesday they think the deadline is still available.

"If it was available then, barring some dramatic change, it will be available now," Armstrong said.

"We have every indication that it will be" available, Windham said.

Armstrong said the Board of Corrections, which will meet a half-hour before the Approval Board on May 22, will be asked again to present its side of the argument.

"The governor has been pushing the board to make their case a little better to us," said Armstrong.

He said Starr County residents now are more "fully informed" about the prison.

"I think some may have changed and will be supportive, but for others it may have reinforced their opposition," he said.

Windham said the Board of Corrections would recommend a prison site to the Approval Board "just like last time." He said the La Casita site was under consideration, "among others." He made it clear, however, he still considers La Casita the best place.

HEREFORD, Texas (AP) — One might logically wonder what a horsewoman and a historian have in common. Or an author and an artist and a cowgirl. And a bootmaker? Of course.

For here in this Texas Panhandle city, they all come together in the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage.

It is a rather innovative tribute to those women past, present and future whose contributions to the Western heritage are deemed noble, notable or both.

The hall is dedicated to the pioneer spirit of all women.

"Our purpose is to honor the Western woman," explained Margaret Formby, the president of the fledgling project.

"We have a long way to go but we feel like it will be worthwhile. In fact, it is worthwhile now. It will really be unique when the museum is completed."

By virtue of its name alone, one might suspect that Hereford is cow country. It does indeed boast one of the greatest concentrations of feedlot cattle in the world.

But with its flat, fertile farmlands, Deaf Smith County also reigns as one of the state's leading farming centers.

"We treat foods with respect, not chemicals," is the motto of Hereford's Arrowhead Mills Inc., whose organically grown foods are sold nationwide.

A city of some 15,000, Hereford launched the Cowgirl Hall of Fame in 1974 with the announced goal of calling attention to its cows and crops and more subtle charms.

"At the time, we really needed something in Hereford," acknowledged Roy Faubion, then president of the Chamber of Commerce.

As a visitor once observed:

"After the farming, and the steak restaurants, and the Mexican food restaurants, and the occasional dances, the residents admit there is very little to do."

It began with the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame Rodeo and has gained modest ground since. Art shows, benefit balls and other projects produce operating funds.

"Rarely is a donation rejected," said one of fiercer with a wry smile.

The city provided land for a permanent museum and plans call for a unique underground structure east of downtown Hereford.

Underground housing is not yet a regional rage, but the concept has growing support throughout the South Plains and the Panhandle.

As the Hall of Fame people point out, earth-concealed structures are free of noise, dirt, pollens, radiation, violent winds, vandalism, fat utility bills and costly insurance.

The long-range program includes a center for Western art, a documentary center, exhibits on honorees, a founders' room, a gift store and nature trail.

Additionally, there will be a corral for demonstration of rodeo cowgirl techniques and a "sarsaparilla saloon" with afternoon stage shows.

Currently, 28 women have been inducted into the feminine equivalent of Oklahoma City's National Cowboy Hall of Fame. Most are cowgirls.

But among the honorees are Enid Justin of Nocona, Texas, founder of Nocona Boot Co., and author-historian Perry Blakely of Pendleton, Ore.

The hall includes a mother-daughter tandem — pioneer rancher Kathryn Cabot Binford and 1979 honoree Nancy Binford of Wildorado, Texas.

Nancy Binford helped organize the Girls Rodeo Association (GRA) in 1948 and served as its president 10 years later.

The first edition of the Cowgirl Hall of Fame's annual magazine, Sidesaddle, carried a cover portrait of 1977 inductee Rhonda Coy Sedgewick of Newcastle, Wyo. She is a rodeo organist and expert horsewoman.

Final action near on food stamp bailout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is ready to put the finishing touches on emergency legislation to keep 21 million Americans from doing without food stamps next month. Unless that action comes by the end of today, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says, the aid will stop June 1.

Working late into the night Wednesday, the Senate voted 69-18 to approve a $3 billion appropriation to keep the food subsidy program going through the Sept. 30 end of the fiscal year.

The House had voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to approve $2.56 billion for the same purpose despite warnings that the smaller amount probably would not cover the program for the rest of fiscal 1980.

A Senate-House conference committee was meeting today to reconcile the two versions. Congressional leaders said beforehand they expected the group to complete its work in time for both houses to approve a final figure by day's end.

The Senate also gave Bergland a pointed warning Wednesday that he can expect no further help from Congress for the rest of the fiscal year — even if the money runs out. That was intended as an alert to the administration that benefit levels should be cut if necessary to make the appropriation last.

Some senators argued against that warning, citing a deepening recession and rising unemployment. With one in 10 Americans already receiving food stamps, they said, Congress might have to again rescue the program if the economy performs below expectations this summer.

But Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., who sponsored the warning amendment, said it was time to impose "discipline" on the Agriculture Department.

"There might be some minor disruption" for food stamp recipients if there is a cutback in benefits, he said. "But it wouldn't be unduly painful for any recipient. We have been quite generous. We've got to get some discipline."

An even higher amount, $3.3 billion, was recommended to run through Sept. 30 by a separate Senate-House conference that approved raising the food stamp budget for the remainder of this fiscal year and for fiscal 1981.

But that measure, approved by the Senate on Wednesday, only outlines how the program is to be operated and sets spending ceilings. It does not actually provide any money.

Congressional food stamp critics say the administration has deliberately tried to stampede action on extending the program to prevent a more deliberate review that could reduce cheating and over-spending.

The program's cost will continue to spiral, according to the Congressional Budget Office, which estimated the cost would rise to $10.4 billion in the next fiscal year if unemployment reaches 8 percent, as some economists have predicted.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Avoid whatever confusion is about you and expend your energies on the logical aspects of your main interests. Obtain facts and figures you need to gain your aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Listen carefully to ideas of associates and know what they have in mind. Curb your temper when dealing with outsiders.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't make any promises that will be difficult to keep and could cause worry. Seek personal happiness in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what it is you want so that you don't waste time in going after it. Sidestep one who is detrimental to your progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get rid of whatever stands in your way of progress. Make new contacts of worth who can be helpful to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can gain a personal aim now by going after it intelligently. Attend a group affair in the evening and express happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't become too involved in a family dispute and all goes smoothly. Have more vision where your work is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle personal affairs before delving into a new enterprise. Show perseverance in the face of a tough situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go to a financial expert and solve a money problem that has been troubling you. Show others that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take time from regular routines and make plans that could give you added income in the future. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use more caution in handling work today, since carelessness could cause you losses. Take needed health treatments.

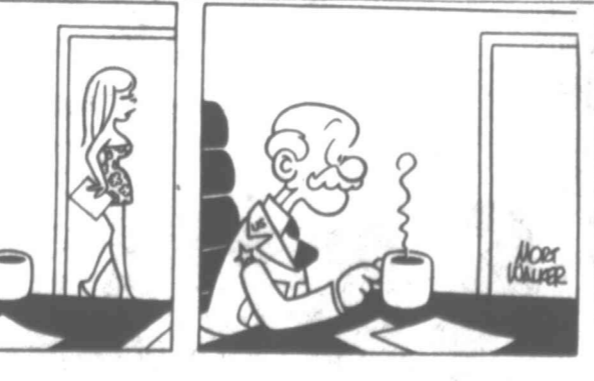

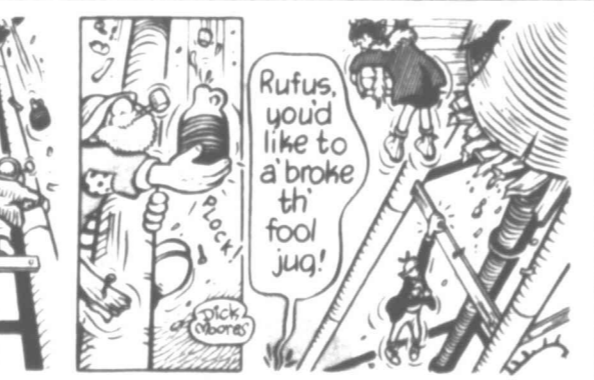

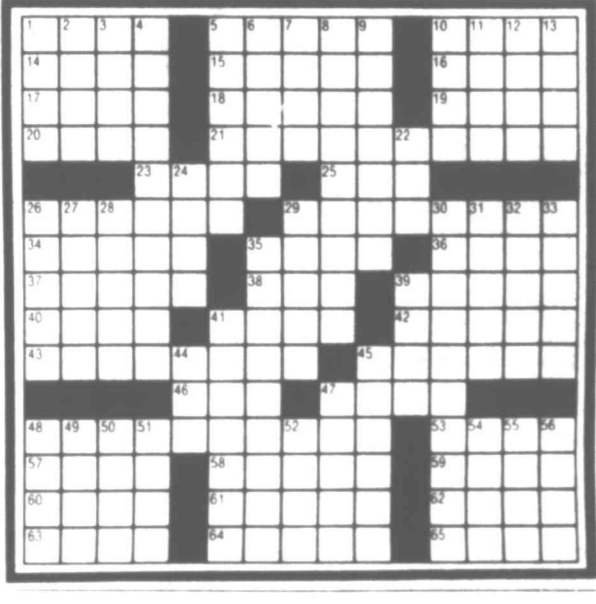

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure business matters are handled well in the morning and then seek relaxation later in the day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A new enterprise should be studied well before making definite plans. Come to a better understanding with loved one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who thinks logically and can easily solve difficult problems, but be sure to teach to finish whatever has been started, and then there can be much success during lifetime. There's a fine athlete here.

Personnel chief hired at VAMC

Garland E. Evers, VAMC director, announced the recent employment of two new employees. Entering on duty as Chief, Personnel Service, was Ken Sinclear who transferred to the local VAMC from Houston, where he was employed as a personnel staffing specialist by the Houston VAMC. Sinclear has been employed by the Veterans Administration since beginning his career in Brecksville, Ohio in 1966 as a Corrective Therapist. He has served at medical centers in Alexandria, La., Temple, Texas, and Bonham, Texas, prior to his transfer to Big Spring. Sinclear is a native of Kerrville and graduated from the University of Texas at Austin in 1966. Accompanying Sinclear on the move to Big Spring are his wife and two sons.

Sinclear is active in Little League and Boy Scouts. Carol Wermuth joined the nursing staff of the local VAMC as assistant chief, transferring from the VAMC in Dayton, Ohio, where she functioned as associate chief nursing service for education.

Ms. Wermuth began her VA career in 1972 as a clinical specialist for acute care and instructor in nursing education at the VAMC, Seattle, Wash. She had been employed by the VAMC in Walla Walla, Wash., prior to her appointment in Seattle. She is a native of Niagara Falls, N.Y., attending Roberts Wesleyan College, Rochester, N.Y., and the University of Washington at Seattle. She co-authored an article on chronic obstructive pulmonary disease which has published in health and lung in 1973.

Business:

A crisis of survival in the United States

NEW YORK (AP) - The most influential political party of the past 40 years has been the Socialist Party, said Prof. Richard Eels. "Almost every plank of its 1932 platform is now law."

Eels commented in support of his thesis that threats to private sector enterprise in the United States, though more subtle, are just as real as they are in some of the world's poorer, less developed nations.

In such countries the retreat of the private sector - not just its businesses but institutions, rights and freedoms too - may be forced by revolutionary takeovers, guerrilla wars, cartels and terrorism.

In the United States, says Eels, the attack is dispersed, but equally relentless: Protest against institutions, growing dependence on government, erosion of private property rights and freedoms.

"The absence of a highly visible socialist-communist movement here is simply the absence of a familiar symbol of enterprise under attack, rather than an indication there is no attack at all," Eels declares.

Eels has just written "The Political Crisis of the Enterprise System," a little volume with an alarming theme: Private enterprise could be on its way out if it doesn't adjust to political realities.

But, said Eels in an interview, private enterprise doesn't protect itself in the political arena. Its avoids mixing its economic well-being with political issues. Its critics know politics better.

One of the paradoxes, said Eels, is that those who benefit and profit from the productivity of private enterprise - bureaucrats, political figures, academics - are among its most persistent attackers.

Yes, he agreed, sometimes even the President of the United States and the U.S. Congress, when votes are to be found in that direction.

It appears, he writes, "that whatever distrust the public has of government, it is not as high as that felt toward the business community." Government enterprise may be preferable, that is, simply because it is considered a lesser evil.

The professor isn't vindictive; he treats the issue as a social and political phenomenon, though his personal belief is that the loss of private enterprise means the diminution of choice, of freedoms, of creativity, of private property and even of personal privacy.

He is not a doomsayer though; in fact, a purpose of the book, one of many he has written as director of Columbia University's program for the study of the modern corporation, is to describe a rescue plan.

"The business corporation, in the fullest realization of its potential, should be a microcosm of the larger society," he writes. It cannot, he says, consider economics - profits - its sole guidepost.

Instead, it must be pluralistic, as the larger society is. It must consider and factor into its decisions a variety of forces: government regulation, consumerism, environmentalism, stockholder activism.

Lane appointed museum chief

PITTSBURGH (AP) - John R. Lane has been appointed the next director of the Museum of Art, Carnegie Institute.

Lane, who now serves as assistant director of the Brooklyn Museum, is to assume his new post July 11.

Leon A. Arkus, who has served as director of the Museum of Art for the past 12 years, is to retire June 1.

Winning sweepstakes prizes real easy--if you know how

NEW YORK, N.Y. - A house in the country, a new Mercedes, a 40-foot yacht - are these the things that dreams are made of? Yes, but some people are doing more than dreaming.

Millions of people compete for these and thousands of other prizes by entering sweepstakes and contests. And they're not just casual entrants either. With 18 percent inflation and $1.50-a-gallon gas, men and women are approaching giveaways with newfound respect and with a sense of purpose worthy of a Wall Street investor.

The tremendous demand for sweepstakes and contest information - as well as tips - has given rise to a publication aimed solely at sweepstakes fans.

"I've always been a sweepstakes and contest nut. Because I've won thousands of dollars in prizes, people were always asking my advice. A couple of years ago, I decided to turn my hobby into a business. I started Sweepstakes Newsletter. This is the way Mark Pollachek recently described the founding of his publication.

Today, just two years later, thousands of subscribers turn to Sweepstakes Newsletter each month. In it, they find the best of the current national sweeps. Also, there are tips on increasing your chances of winning. Sweepstakes Newsletter often profiles big winners. Recently, there was a series of articles discussing the ways of lessening the tax bite on winnings.

According to Editor Pollachek, "There are a number of ways to significantly increase your chances of winning. I've made a list of ten surefire tips which I'll be happy to send to anyone requesting it." (Send your request to Tip Sheet, Department GR, Sweepstakes Newsletter, P.O. Box F, Andover, New Jersey 07821.)

A consistent sweepstakes winner, Harriet Brown of Rockford, Ill., won more than 200 prizes last year alone. She's won a trip to Hawaii as well as trips to Washington, D.C. and baseball's All-Star game. In addition, she has collected a mink stole, six TV's, a washer-dryer, a model

Noise can be hazardous to your health, warns director at UT

HOUSTON — Noise — it's a fact of life in the city. Roaring engines, screeching tires, sirens, blaring horns and the rumble of construction equipment all contribute to the constant din that most of us try to ignore. But often, our bodies just won't let us.

Noise, or unwanted sound, is not just a nuisance. It can reduce efficiency, cause accidents and play havoc with emotions. Irritability, insomnia, depression and aggressive and hostile behavior are usually unidentified, yet common, symptoms of noise-related stress.

Noise can cause hearing loss, high blood pressure and cardiovascular problems and may worsen ulcers.

Noise may adversely affect the developing fetus. In a recent Japanese study of over 1,000 births, there was evidence of a high proportion of low-weight babies in noisy areas.

Studies have shown that the learning ability of children may be seriously impaired by exposure to excessive noise. In Inglewood, Calif., the effects of aircraft noise on learning were so severe that several new and quieter schools had to be built.

Noise, since ancient times, has been a thorn in the side of man. The Roman poet Horace complained incessantly about the early morning clatter of chariot wheels in Rome's streets.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that some 20 million Americans are exposed to potentially harmful noise levels every day. Another 16 million already have impaired hearing due to disease, genetic damage or noise pollution.

Dr. T. Walter Carlin, director of The University of Texas Health Science Center's Speech and Hearing Institute, said that levels of 85-90 decibels (decibels are used to measure sound pressure) definitely have the potential for causing hearing damage as well as other non-auditory health problems. He said that special emphasis is being placed on hearing conservation all across the country during Better Hearing and Speech Month in May.

Research has shown, he said, that hearing loss occurs when tiny inner ear hair cells are destroyed by excessive noise over prolonged periods of time. Like brain cells, these hair cells do not grow back; the damage is permanent.

"Hearing loss due to noise is the most difficult to handle," he emphasized. "Hearing aids are useful to some of these people, but most units do not include the higher frequencies, which are the first to go in this type of hearing loss."

Another condition called tinnitus, symtomized by a ringing in the ears, can also be caused by prolonged exposure to loud noises, he explained. Tinnitus occurs when the inner ear hair cells begin to move on their own without outside stimulation. The only remedy for this condition is use of a tinnitus masker, an instrument that essentially masks the ringing with a more pleasant sound.

According to an EPA report, noise loud enough to cause hearing damage is everywhere in the city.

Some of these potentially harmful sources include lawnmowers, motorcycles, power tools, heavy traffic, car washes and rock music. Others are fast food restaurants, air conditioners, heavy construction equipment, delivery trucks, city buses and jet airplanes. Vibrations booming from disco loudspeakers sometimes measures as high as 130 decibels. At 140 decibels, noise usually causes pain.

Who should be worried about noise and possible hearing loss?

Everyone, Carlin said, but certain groups in particular. Anyone who has gone through basic training, or been exposed to aircraft noise and gunfire while in the armed forces should be concerned about further exposure to excessive noise.

People who constantly listen to rock music over stereo headphones and people who target shoot as a hobby should be concerned, he said. Those people living in the inner cities, where noise is a factor 24 hours a day, should pay special attention to excessive exposure to loud noises, he added.

"Industry workers who are exposed to eight hours of constant punishment from noisy equipment should wear ear protection such as ear muffs, ear plugs or both," Carlin emphasized.

"Such exposure is bound to have a lasting effect on hearing," he said. "I've known families, three or four generations of industry workers, who just expect to lose their hearing." They consider hearing loss as an occupational hazard.

He offers these suggestions: —Avoid noise whenever possible.

—Wear ear protection, at work and at home, whenever you're exposed to loud noise for long periods of time.

—Turn down the volume on stereos, radios and televisions particularly when wearing headphones.

Doctor returns to Catholic hospital

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A obstetrician-gynecologist who was barred from Seton Medical Center because he performed abortions at a local clinic has been allowed to return to the Roman Catholic hospital.

Dr. Michael Seitzinger filed suit against the hospital after he was told in July 1979 that he could no longer practice at Seton because of association with the clinic. Gene Attal, director of community relations for Seton, said Wednesday that hospital officials decided to grant full medical privileges to Seitzinger.

State District Judge Peter Lowry, who previously issued a temporary order requiring Seton to allow the doctor to practice at the hospital, was told of Seton's decision at a Wednesday hearing. A hearing scheduled for today was called off, Attal said.

The Texas Civil Liberties Union represented the doctor, and claimed the hospital policy was unconstitutional and contrary to state law which says, "No physician, nurse, staff person or employee shall be discriminated against for their willingness to participate in abortion procedures at other facilities."

Attal said the Seton decision does not change the hospital's stance against abortion.

Miss USA will give up much freedom

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — A new Miss USA will be crowned tonight and the reigning Miss USA, Mary Therese Friel, says her successor will have to get used to having less freedom.

"I've been around the world and to half the states in the country," said Miss Friel, 21, of Rochester, N.Y. "It was a loss of freedom that I wasn't used to, but I became a public figure and they had to keep track of me."

The two-hour finale of the two-week pageant will be broadcast live on CBS and will feature Bob Barker as master of ceremonies and Helen O'Connell as anchorwoman. There are 51 contestants — from the 50 states and Washington, D.C.

Singer Donny Osmond will provide entertainment. Tonight's winner will be eligible to compete in the Miss Universe pageant.
