Korea's bloody rebellion cools down

KWANGJU, South Korea (AP) — A bloody citizens rebellion against martial law cooled down today after spreading over the southwest corner of South Korea. Government officials were reported to have agreed to some demands aimed at ending the disturbances.

Three days of insurrection against the South Korean government's martial law crackdown left at least 57 persons dead and almost 400 injured or wounded in this riot-torn and paralyzed city, hospitals reported.

Mass protests reportedly occurred in at least 16 other cities in southern Cholla Namdo province Wednesday and early today. In some cases, police stations and other institutions came under attack, the reports said.

As Acting Prime Minister Park Chong-hoon issued an appeal for an end to the bloodshed, an estimated 100,000 demonstrators held a peaceful rally at the provincial headquarters to denounce the Seoul regime and try to reduce tension.

Local leaders met with martial law authorities earlier in the day and one leader told the rally that the officials had agreed to some conditions to end the disturbances. Younger demonstrators shouted down the speaker.

The speaker, whose identity was not reported, said the martial law authorities had agreed to some points and had acknowledged that they "noted" or "understood" some other demands made by the demonstrators.

The demands included the government's consent to withhold troops from Kwangju until order is restored, to release all persons taken into custody — said to number about 900 — and to acknowledge publicly that the military had used excessive force in trying to quell the revolt.

They demanded further that the government pay compensation to the families of the dead and wounded, that it promise no retaliation against the rioters, and that it broadcast a "true account" of the incident without bias or distortion on the government-controlled radio.

The speaker did not indicate which of these demands the martial law officials had consented to and which they merely "noted" or "understood."

Other demonstrators burned the central police station in Mokpo, on the coast 50 miles southwest of Kwangju; raided a police army in Naju, midway between the two cities, and cruised the highway linking the three cities in convoys of commandeered army, police and civilian vehicles looking for recruits.

Anti-government demonstrations also were reported in Kwangyang county, south of Kwangju, and nearby Kohung and Hwasun. There were unconfirmed reports that protests had broken out in 16 of the 26 cities and towns in Cholla Namdo.

The military leaders were attempting to contain the uprising but so far were not acting decisively to put it down. The thousands of paratroopers and other troops who Gen. Lee Heung, the martial law commander, rushed to Kwangju pulled out of the city but took up positions around it.

The army also set up roadblocks to the east and southeast of the area in an attempt to keep the uprising from spreading to the Yochon industrial area on the south coast.

Police inside Kwangju did not interfere with the mobs, which the martial law command said was armed with 3,500 weapons, including light machine guns, automatic rifles and revolvers, and 46,000 rounds of ammunition taken from military armories.

The command said the demonstrators also commandeered 232 vehicles, including four armored personnel carriers and eight riot control vehicles equipped with tear gas launchers, and had destroyed or severely damaged 21 police substations, 13 government buildings and two TV stations. The streets were littered with broken glass, rocks, wrecked cars and gutted buses, and all offices and shops were shuttered.

Witnesses said 11 persons were killed Wednesday when paratroopers guarding the provincial government building fired on demonstrators trying to run them down with commandeered buses and armored personnel carriers. Other rioters set up two light machine guns on the roof of Chonnam University's hospital and opened fire on troops.

The demonstrators carried signs demanding the resignation or death of Gen. Chun, the release of jailed dissident leader Kim Dae-jung, who was born near Kwangju, and the immediate lifting of martial law, which was proclaimed last October after the assassination of President Park Chung-hee and expanded last Sunday after tens of thousands of students rioted in Seoul, Kwangju and other cities.

The martial law command accused Kim of plotting to use the student rebellion to overthrow the government, raising the possibility it might sentence him to death.

Western Container Company due to sell bonds June 13

By DON WOODS

Western Container Company will be setting up operations in Big Spring after finalization of sale of $4.5 million in bonds to a bank June 13, said Industrial Foundation President Winston Wrinkle at a Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday.

First National City Bank in Houston is buying the revenue bonds. Western Container already has a plant manager in Big Spring.

The company plans to start production 60 to 90 days after the bond sale.

Western will set up operations in the new 90,000 square foot hangar in Big Spring Industrial Park.

Texas Electric is installing heavier electrical wires and transformers capable of handling the high electrical load required in making the plastic two-liter soft drink bottles.

Wrinkle said trucks will make several deliveries of the bottles each day.

The non-profit Howard County Development Corporation has negotiated a five-year lease with Western with 94 years in options, said Wrinkle.

In regard to another prospective industry, Wrinkle said Lantex President H.C. Mercer will be in Toledo, Ohio, today specifically to discuss the Big Spring plant with officials of Dana Corporation.

Dana bought Lantex several weeks ago. Mercer has stated that sale of the company will not change the lease agreement between Lantex and Big Spring Industrial Foundation.

George Weeks, Howard College trustee, reported that employees for Howard College Institute for the Deaf will be hired within the next 90 days.

Johnnie Lou Avery, of the Chamber's beautification committee, said Big Spring won a third place Achievement Award for 1979 statewide competition.

Edna Womack, award sub-committee chairman, will represent Big Spring at the award ceremony in Kerrville June 18-20.

Gov. Bill Clements will present the awards.

Russ McEwen was chairman of the beautification committee that year.

Joe Pickle, of the Chamber's Highway Committee, said Congress authorized location of a connector route through Big Spring without granting money for it. "We should focus our attention on getting this road dedicated to four-lane," said Pickle.

Dr. John Key, Cultural Affairs Committee, said the 11 underwriters of the Midland-Odessa Symphony Orchestra concert May 15 will have to put up $80 to $90 each to absorb losses from the concert.

The Chamber passed a resolution recognizing the outstanding citizenry of Adolph Swartz who died May 9.

Converted $20,000 to personal use?

Planner's money plans fizzle

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

The board of directors of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday authorized its director to turn over to the Ector County district attorney evidence on an alleged misappropriation of funds involving a RPC employee.

The board gave commission director Ernie Crawford the power after an audit by the firm of Elms, Farris & Company showed that the commission's financial officer Ron Schroeder had converted some $30,000 to personal use.

Commission Chairman Gene Cummings, who doubles as mayor of Fort Stockton, said, "Upon completion of the cash audit, it was determined that a closed account had been reopened and that the proceeds from two checks were not accounted for."

Cummings added, "It was ascertained that Mr. Ron Schroeder, Financial Officer of Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, had misappropriated one check in the amount of $4,500 and the second check in the amount of $15,371."

According to the audit, Schroeder had reopened on Dec. 4, 1979, an account at the First National Bank in Odessa that had been closed two months previous in October. The account was opened with a deposit of a Workman's Compensation premium return amounting to $19,961 and an interbank transfer of $5,000.

The bank statements from the account were to be sent to a personal post office box of Schroeder.

"Subsequently," the audit report reads, "on Dec. 10, 1979, a check was drawn to the order of Energy Investments, Inc. in the amount of $4,500. The check was signed by W.E. Smith and countersigned with a facsimile stamp for Ernie Crawford. The check was endorsed by Energy Investments, Inc."

Energy Investments was a company set up by Schroeder, said an employee at the commission, who asked not to be identified.

A second check was written Dec. 19, 1979, to the order of cash in the amount of $15,371.

"The entire check was typed and identified as an interfund transfer with the exception of the payee space which was handwritten," the audit reads. The check was signed by Jerry Tschauer and countersigned by a facsimile stamp for Ernie Crawford.

The check was endorsed by the handwritten name of Schroeder.

On March 20, 1980, a final deposit was made in the account in the amount of $2,000. This deposit was a payment from the Midland County Hospital for the Emergency Medical Services program.

The account was closed April 3, and the balance was transferred to the commission's administrative account.

A cash deposit of $6,000 was made to the commission's administrative account April 3.

Sometime in the middle of April, a bookkeeper told Crawford of irregularities in the finance department.

Crawford then contacted Tom Kenagy of Elms-Farris, CPA's.

According to a commission memorandum, Kenagy told Crawford April 11 about the two misappropriated checks.

"I then confronted Mr. Ron Schroeder, the Financial Officer, concerning the two checks," Crawford says in the memo.

Schroeder told Crawford that he had borrowed the $4,500 for a period of two weeks until he could secure a loan from his wife's credit union and had returned the money.

Contractors agree to try once again to repair coliseum roof

John Gary and Daryle Hohertz, former partners in an architectural firm here which drew up plans for the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, volunteered Wednesday in a meeting with Howard College officials to contract the firm of Siveley and Haney about needed repairs to the roof of the coliseum.

The $2.5 million building has leaked badly during recent rains and college trustees, in their regular meeting

Tuesday, were unanimous in their opinion that legal action should be taken if Siveley and Haney of Abilene, general contracting firm for the structure, does not correct the problem.

Gary and Hohertz said they would recommend that the college take "other alternatives" if the contracting firm does not undertake corrective action within ten days or two weeks. The term "other alternatives" could mean, of course, the issue could wind up in a court of law.

Leakage problems are not confined to the Garrett Coliseum, according to the architects, nor to Big Spring. At least one other new building here experienced serious leakage during the rains. Similar complaints have been voiced by owners and tenants of new structures throughout the Southwest.

College officials here are hopeful the general contractors will respond to the challenge with dispatch. Meanwhile, they'll keep their fingers crossed and their mops and buckets handy, in event another deluge hits the area.

Head start funding looms

Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission passed with favorable review Wednesday a grant application made by the Big Spring Independent School District to the Department of HEW for the continuation of Head Start funding in Howard County.

Big Spring ISD is requesting $200,795 from HEW with a local match of $80,602. The total project budget, which will run from Sept. 1, 1980, to Aug. 31, 1981, is $321,397.

The Head Start program will serve 215 children between the ages of 3 and 4.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Filter tips

Q. Do filter cigarettes really offer any more health protection than regular smokes? I've heard it both ways.

A. The Health Insurance Institute says that filter cigarettes may be more detrimental than those without filter tips. The real culprit is supposed to be carbon monoxide, which is much higher in filtered smoking. Carbon Monoxide, according to the HII, is likely more dangerous than nicotine and tar, once considered the prime reason for the high mortality among smokers. Dr. G.H. Miller, director of Studies on Smoking, Edinboro, Pa., says nicotine in minute quantities inhaled by smokers is not deadly; carbon monoxide is. The basic problem with carbon monoxide, according to Dr. Miller, is that it produces cholesterol-plaque, which can increase arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure.

Tops on TV: 'Every Little Movement'

The theme for the Shirley MacLaine special "Every Little Movement" is physical fitness, so it is easy to see why gymnast Kurt Thomas is a guest. But why Dean Martin? Oh well, it still looks like the best bet for viewers tonight. It airs at 9 o'clock on CBS. Instead of the late-night news, you might want to try "The Righteous Apples" on PBS at 10 o'clock. It is the Public Broadcasting System's first try at an extended series produced in this country.

Attorney undecided

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — An attorney for the first person convicted on charges of violating Maryland's new hazardous waste laws says he was surprised by the verdict but has not decided whether to appeal.

William Grigsby was found guilty on two counts of unauthorized storage and transportation of hazardous wastes, including PCB, and one of unauthorized operation of an oil-handling facility. He was fined $20,000 Wednesday and given a year's suspended sentence.

The laws, which went into effect in 1977, govern transportation and storage of federally designated hazardous substances. Grigsby operated a storage depot in Sharptown.

Three held for mail theft

ATLANTA (AP) — Three California men have been bound over to a federal grand jury on charges of plotting to steal registered mail — valued at some $1 million — from an Eastern Airlines plane.

Authorities allege one of the three is the hold of a May 14 Los Angeles-to-Atlanta flight and stuffed mail into suitcases marked for Kansas City where the bags were to be picked up.

One of the men was charged with violating federal stowaway laws and stealing registered mail, while the other two were charged with aiding and abetting him. The three appeared before a federal magistrate Wednesday.

Speaker to be arraigned

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A former state House speaker is to be arraigned next week following his indictment by a federal grand jury on charges stemming from alleged kick-backs and influence peddling.

The indictments handed down Wednesday included allegations that Edward P. Manning demanded $7,500 but settled for $3,500 to arrange the 1977 purchase of over-priced furnishings for some Statehouse offices. The overcharges later were refunded to the state.

The charges carry penalties of up to 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine, said U.S. Attorney Paul Murray. He said Manning, who left the House in January, would be arraigned next week.

City reaches agreement

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Just hours before a threatened strike deadline, police and city officials reached agreement in a dispute over police demands for pay for work missed in a May 2 strike.

Under the terms of the agreement reached Wednesday, the police chief will be allowed to determine on a case-by-case basis whether officers may get paid days off or additions to their retirement benefits.

New officers elected by local ministers

The Howard County Minister's Fellowship held its last meeting of the Spring at noon Monday at which time new officers for the year were elected. They take office in August.

William F. Henning, Jr., minister of the First Presbyterian Church, was named president; the pastor of First Methodist Church, Edwin Chappell, was elected vice-president; Phillip McClendon, pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church, will serve as the organization's Secretary. Continuing in the position of treasurer will be Dr. Kenneth Patrick of First Baptist Church.

The business of the meeting was conducted by outgoing president Carroll Kohl, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Outstanding students from Bible classes at Coahoma High School and Big Spring High School, together with their teachers, were guests of the Minister's Fellowship for lunch.

Bible in the Public Schools is a major project of the Howard County Minister's Fellowship. Over the years, Bible classes have been sponsored at Big Spring, Coahoma and Forsan High Schools. During the past year, over 75 students have studied Bible, taught at Big Spring High School by Elizabeth Johansen, and at Coahoma High School by Charlie Murphy. Funds for Bible in the Public Schools are raised each Fall through a campaign that is jointly sponsored and promoted by the Minister's Fellowship and the Big Spring Herald.

Among the outstanding Bible students present at the meeting were Bobby Padron and Lynn Brockman from Coahoma High School and Doug Pounds, Mona Lisa Portillo, Jackie Piper, David Shanks, and George Bentley of Big Spring High School.

The Bible teachers reminded the members of the Minister's Fellowship to encourage all students in their churches to consider strongly Bible as an elective study option when pre-registering for next year's classes.

Computerized aircraft possibility in future

WASHINGTON — Fighter pilots of the future will be able to sit in their cockpits reading the latest issue of Aviation Weekly while the on-board computers maneuver the aircraft, track the enemy, fire missiles and assess the "kill."

These space-age wonders will be built by robotics, the R2D2s of the world, in factories run by computers.

This is the futuristic vision of James Beggs, executive vice-president, aerospace, of General Dynamics, one of the nation's largest military aircraft manufacturers.

Beggs Tuesday addressed about 60 financial analysts attending a two-day seminar here on defense spending in the coming decade.

The future, according to Beggs, may arrive in Fort Worth, Texas first. General Dynamics has invested $100 million to install robotics and computers to run their Fort Worth plant where they make the F-16 fighter planes that are powered by Pratt and Whitney engines.

While the analysts were fascinated by Beggs' predictions, they were more interested in how much money could be made over the next 10 years by investing in defense companies.

The answer, in a word, was plenty.

Under pressure from this country's NATO allies, the Carter Administration had planned to increase defense spending significantly over the next decade. Defense increases have been immunized against congressional changes by recent events in Iran and Afghanistan.

"Most Americans favor increased defense," said Dr. Edward Jayne, associate director of national security affairs in the federal Office of Management and Budget.

The debate in Congress now is over how much to increase the defense budget. Some Republicans, raising the spectre of a world controlled by superiorly-armed Russians, want to increase Carter's proposed $150 billion defense budget by $31 billion.

The House Budget Committee has settled on a $147.9 billion budget for the Pentagon while the Senate has come in with the largest defense proposal, a $155.7 billion package.

"I think if the various federal spending programs were submitted to a popular referendum, defense spending would come out number one," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, who is among the military industry's top supporters in Congress.

"Defense is the most important part of federal spending. It is my feeling we should fund our defense priorities first and other spending programs should get the rest that is left in the budget."

Whatever the House and Senate finally agree on the Defense budget seems guaranteed to be larger than Carter asked for, and that's good news to Connecticut defense contractors and their potential investors.

Jayne, Beggs and several other seminar participants indicated that the largest budget increases will come in the area of new or improved aircraft and ships. And, because of the huge capital investment needed to start aircraft or ship manufacturing, new companies are not likely to spring up to bid on the contracts. That means existing companies, including Texas firms that handled some $5 billion in Pentagon contracts during fiscal year 1978, will get a hefty share of the new defense business.

Energy Production gauged in Howard County

A discovery has been reported in Howard County. Pennsylvania reef gas production was re-opened in the Luther, Southeast (Siluro-Devonian oil) field with recompletion of W.C. Blanks, Midland, No. 1 Blasingame, former Siluro-Devonian extended, 1 1/2 miles northwest of the former Pennsylvania reef gas opener and 11 miles north of Big Spring, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 4,153,000 cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 9,520-1. Gravity of the liquid was 59 degrees.

Scheduled as a 10,200-foot wildcat, it was finished March 6, 1979 for 185 barrels of oil, gravity unreported, plus 10 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 802-1, through a 22-64-inch choke and open hole at 9,986-926 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from the north and 1,320 feet from the east lines of 28-32-20-T&P.

The original opener, Maralo Inc. No. 1 Kilpatrick, was finished Dec. 6, 1978 for a calculated, absolute open flow of 3.1 million cubic feet of gas daily, with gas-liquid ratio of 10,800-1, through perforations at 8,594-653 feet. It currently is temporarily abandoned.

The field's Atoka gas opener and lone producer from that pay also is temporarily abandoned.

State Demo chief slaps Clement's 'power grab'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg says Gov. Bill Clement is pressuring legislators to elect conservative Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, speaker of the House.

Goldberg said in a statement Wednesday that Democrats as well as Republicans have felt pressure from the governor, and Goldberg called on Democrats to resist.

"Loyal Democrats cannot stand by while a small group of wealthy Republicans makes a partisan attempt to control the House of Representatives," Goldberg said.

Lewis is asking House members to elect him speaker in January 1981 if Speaker Bill Clayton is not a candidate.

His chief opponent is Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, a liberal to moderate legislator who is running against Clayton and anybody else who wants to be speaker.

Twenty of the 24 Republican state representatives expected to return to the House in 1981 issued a statement Tuesday endorsing Lewis.

"At no time in the history of Texas government has a governor become so blatantly involved in trying to affect the election of a speaker of the Texas House of Representatives," Goldberg said.

He said that during the past week, Clements had used "every amount of force available to his high office to gain support" for Lewis.

"And that pressure and force has not been limited to House members within his own party."

Goldberg said he did not endorse any candidate for speaker because all are Democrats, "but I am committed to fighting this obvious power grab."

House members elect the speaker on opening day of each regular legislative session. It takes a majority of 76 votes if all 150 House members are present for the election.

"There is absolutely no truth in Mr. Goldberg's statement. As usual, he is babbling utter nonsense," Clements responded. "I have taken no stand in the speaker's race. To my knowledge, there are no Republicans running."

"I can only conclude that Mr. Goldberg is again backing a loser — this time for speaker of the House of Representatives — and he is unhappy about his position," Clements added in a written statement.

Right to appear before local boards of equalization stressed

AUSTIN — The State Property Tax Board (SPTB) today reminded Texans of their right to appear before local boards of equalization to appeal values assigned to their property for ad valorem tax purposes.

SPTB Executive Director Kenneth Graeber noted that "the right to appear before the board of equalization is the single most important remedy available to taxpayers regarding the value placed on property."

"The board of equalization is the taxpayer's opportunity to be heard in an informal setting and without incurring expensive court costs," Graeber added.

He pointed out that each local government which collects property taxes must have a board of equalization (BOE) to hear taxpayer appeals on values, and that most BOEs meet in the period ranging from May until about mid-July.

Taxpayers who rendered their property to the local assessor must be notified of the time and place of the board of equalization meeting if the assessor raised the value rendered.

Even those who did not render still have the right to appear before the BOE, but persons in this category will have to learn on their own when the board will meet.

Graeber pointed out that BOE meetings are open to the public, and the time and place must be posted in the administration office of the jurisdiction and with the appropriate county clerk. A city BOE, however, is not required to file notice with the county clerk.

The information is also available from each local tax office by phone; and, at least 10 days before the board meets, notices must also be published in a local newspaper.

Graeber said there are two basic situations in which taxpayers are entitled to receive an adjustment in their tax value:

If it exceeds local market values — If you can find and submit to the BOE the kind of evidence which indicates that the value assigned to your property is too high, then you would be entitled to a reduction in its valuation.

If it is valued higher than similar property — Regardless of what other property like yours is selling for, the value of your property on the tax roll should be about the same as the value for all similar properties in the jurisdiction.

The State Property Tax Board director reminded taxpayers that the BOE's sole authority is over the value of property. "The board must limit the taxpayer's discussion only to matters concerning property values. Discussions regarding the amount of taxes or the injustice of taxation merely waste the taxpayer's time."

"These complaints should be referred to the appropriate governing bodies," Graeber added.

Are you ready for four-day work week?

Are you ready for the four-day work week? The abbreviated work schedule could be ordered by the Department of Energy as a national energy conservation measure.

Some workaholics may wonder what ever happened to the six-day work week. They are used to putting in some time on the job every day in the week, if for no other reason than they don't feel right hanging around the house on Sunday. Advocates of the four-day work week still want the labor force to put in 40 hours a week but extend their daily schedule to ten hours.

PROponents of the four-day work week believe that for many industries this change may increase workers' productivity and job satisfaction. Increased leisure time is important to our society, they insist.

Still, in many occupations, ten-hour days may result in added worker fatigue, with accompanying loss of productivity and increased on-the-job accidents.

That extra two hours away from home could disrupt family life in some instances, too. It's come to the point where many workers feel they have to moonlight on their days off, in order to make ends meet. This would further increase the incidence of fatigue and could result in job opportunities for the unemployed.

Some argue that the work week should indeed be shortened, but that the work day remain at eight hours, while workers are paid at the same 40-hour week. In other words, they are proposing that the worker receive a paid day off each week, in addition to being free on weekends. Advocates of this plan ignore basic economic facts.

Productivity would suffer. If wages remained constant while the work week was cut back to four eight-hour days, worker productivity would decline 20 percent.

THERE ARE agencies in this country which are working for opposite objectives. The other group is urging us to boost, not cut productivity. Our nation's growth rate in productivity is at a dangerous low, compared with our global competitors. America cannot long remain a thriving, economically sound nation without boosting its productivity.

Critics of the four-day, 40-hour week plan also point out that industry would be forced to pass on to the consumer the increased costs from the extra day off with pay, thereby feeding the fires of inflation.

There are serious flaws in the four-day work week scenario. Any energy savings fantasy could well be a hoax. A congressional study tentatively concludes that the potential savings from fewer trips to and from work would be more than offset by more recreational travel over longer weekends.

Time of judgment

Around the rim

Don Woods

The concept of the separation of church and state can be a real can of worms.

The First Amendment grants churches immunity from congressional mandates. In effect, the church is protected by the state.

But hold on for an idea you may not have considered in the church-state relationship. The church has a very real protective over the state.

WHEN MORALS FALL apart the society falls. The same is true with the family structure. The church, as it gives out God's Word, is salt for a society. That is, it is a preservative.

A government does, at times, legislate morality and without the church's input of divine viewpoint, it is severely handicapped.

Without that input crime will gradually run amok. The government needs the church.

Martin Luther's relationship with a local governing official, Frederick the Wise brings this concept out.

It seems that Fred, who was called an Elector, governed the area including the Whittenberg University where Luther taught. Fred was, in fact, the founder of it.

Frederick was a long time protector of Luther, just as the state should protect the church. But Luther turned the tables on him in an unexpected way.

In a letter of 1522, Luther told the elector that, "I am coming to Whittenberg under a much higher protection than the Prince Elector's... I could protect Your Grace more than he could protect me."

Their relationship was one which, it would be seen, would pave the way for the church-state relationship that constitutional framers would develop. These framers inserted the First Amendment on the insistence of clergy. But the framers themselves understood the importance of freedom of religion.

Supporting the five rights contained in the First Amendment (religion, speech, press, assembly and petition) is a belief that holds them together like an iron pin. That is a man's right of expression.

Where did the church and state get off the track? Who's fault is it, the church's or the state's?

"He who believes most protects most," said Luther in his letter. I think his statement is the answer.

The church "believes most" and will go on if the government falls through but the government will not go on if the church disperses. The church, therefore, "protects most" and carries the blame for national decline.

THE CHURCH GOT off the track in failing to extend the scope of God's word to secular areas. Consequently, the state began to exercise power in areas of family, school and economics.

"Today, current court cases see claims by state agencies which would entirely eliminate the First Amendment immunities for religion," said Rev. John Rushdoony in the May "Chalcedon Report," P.O. Box 158, Vallecito, Calif. 92551.

Could God be judging the church through the state for its failure to teach divine viewpoint? Did He use states to punish Israel in antiquity?

Again, Rushdoony puts it right. "Today, we are in a time of judgment, because men have sought, all over the world, both freedom and blessings from the state rather than from God our King. As a result, they have gained slavery and curses."

Sub sinks SALT

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — U.S. spy satellite pictures conclusively show that part of the giant, new nuclear submarine, presumably of the Typhoon class, launched by the Soviet Union in Sverdmsk two weeks ago is concealed by a tarpaulin cover, in probable violation of the SALT II treaty.

Naval experts here say the back portion of the submarine — the largest underwater vessel ever built — has been entirely concealed ever since the launch. They suspect this reason: to prevent U.S. satellite cameras from photographing the ship's missile launching holes.

Although not ratified by the U.S. Senate, both the Russians and the U.S. have said they will abide for now by the terms of the new treaty. That document imposes an "obligation" on both sides "not to use deliberate concealment measures associated with testing." That means missile launchers, land or sea, may not be concealed during the testing phase.

High-resolution cameras could penetrate the tarpaulin cover, intelligence experts say. But those cameras were sacrificed in 1979 by budget cutbacks in the U.S. defense program.

CARTER'S FRIEND CAREY Gov. Hugh Carey has replaced his fellow New Yorker, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, as No. 1 on the White House hate list, not just because he has called for an "open Democratic convention but because he broke an early promise not to cause trouble for President Carter.

ANXIOUS TO HOLD the national convention in a state with a governor friendly to Carter, Democratic National Chairman John White interviewed Carey before New York City finally was picked as the 1980 convention site. Carey told White he not only liked the president but intended to endorse him. The endorsement never came.

Carey boosters have been whispering for months about the governor as Vice President Walter Mondale's running mate on a "third force" compromise ticket. But there is no grand conspiracy behind Carey's call for both Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to release their delegates. New York insiders consider it an impulsive statement that Carey probably wishes he had not made.

CHRISTOPHER EXIT? Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, one of former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's most loyal allies, came within a hair of quitting when he read about President Carter's gratuitous insult of Vance in Philadelphia May 9.

Christopher's aides said he could not understand why Carter felt compelled to make such a point of Vance's presumed weakness in contrast to successor Edmund Muskie's "much stronger and more statesmanlike" foreign policy posture. Christopher was also nursing another grievance against Carter: that Carter had passed him over despite the speculation that he, not Muskie, would be picked to succeed Vance.

But Christopher swallowed his anger and decided to stick with his announced decision to remain until Muskie gets acclimated. Some State Department officials believe he may in the end change his mind about leaving and remain with Muskie through this year at least.

A footnote: Speculation that Berl Bernhard, long a Muskie intimate, will leave his law practice and take Christopher's job as No. 2 diplomat disturbs State Department professionals.

Heel spurs: Curse of joggers

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you please tell me anything about spurs on the heels? Are they calcium deposits? I'm a jogger. — Mrs. G.R.

Until I began authoring this column I just didn't realize how many heel spurs there were in the world.

Heel spurs are an effect, not a cause. The cause for the formation of these little bony outgrowths is a condition called plantar fasciitis (fash-EYE-tiss).

The plantar fascia is a dense band along the bottom of the foot. It attaches to the heel and gives the foot stability. It can take a buffeting, and if it is repeatedly injured, heel spurs begin to form. It's a common problem for joggers. Maybe that's why there are so many heel spurs around. You ask about calcium. The spurs are bone growths from the heel and in that sense they are calcium, but this has nothing to do with the amount of calcium you take in, if that is your thought.

The pain and irritation can be helped with a heel doughnut placed over the most tender point. Arch supports and heel lifts also bring relief. Stretching exercises for the calf muscles (such as rising on the toes) can reduce the pressure on the plantar fascia. I spoke of

I would recommend a bit of such exercise prior to going into a jogging program.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 31-year-old son has suffered for years with excruciating headaches. He was told they were migraine, but we wonder. Are migraines accompanied by numbness in parts of the face and hands? — B.F.

Migraine headaches can keep company with many strange nerve-related symptoms. The headache is usually one-sided (one or the other side of the head), but numbness of one or both hands has been noted in some patients. It is not difficult for the doctor to distinguish a classic migraine from other forms of headache. Ergot preparations taken early in the onset of a migraine attack can help interrupt it. I am taking it for granted that your son has had an examination to exclude other possible causes for numbness of extremities — spinal injury, etc. For other causes of headache, see the booklet, "How to Tame Headaches." Send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald. Ask for the booklet by name.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have suffered from rheumatoid arthritis for a number of years. Just last week my doctor ordered a routine chest X-ray for me. He told me later that I have arthritis of the lung. What is arthritis of the lung? I had always thought it was limited to the joints. — G.J.

I'm sure your doctor said "rheumatoid lung." Am I right?

Rheumatoid arthritis is a joint inflammation disease, but about 20 percent of persons with that have the same kind of inflammation in the lung lining (pleura). This is pleurisy — pleural inflammation. In a few people, the lung tissue itself can be involved, and there may be scarring or nodules in the lungs. This is not common.

The rheumatoid lung can be painful. Apparently you are having no symptoms. That is a good sign. Should you develop painful symptoms (as from deep breathing) later on, this bit of your "history" will be important information.

The treatment for rheumatoid lung is to control the rheumatoid arthritis with the usual medication — aspirin, for example. This lung involvement is an example of how rheumatoid arthritis may affect many organs, and not just joints.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have two questions. How do keloids form on scars and what can be done to alleviate the condition? — M.R.

Keloids are large scar-like masses. They represent an over-ambitious response of the body to an injury. Why some people are keloid formers is not known. The tendency seems to run in families, and it is more prevalent among dark-skinned people. For some, even earring puncturing can form an unsightly keloid. Many Properly fitted shoes with leather insoles and padding are often the simple answer. On occasion, surgery may be needed to correct a serious deformity.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: It distresses me (as a member of a minority group in our country) that so many people are guilty of racism. What do you think is the best way of getting rid of racist views? — O.B.

DEAR O.B.: I have traveled in almost every part of the world, and I don't believe I have ever been to a country which did not have at least some racism. I believe it is one of the most universal evidences of sin in human life. Sin, after all, is very often rooted in pride, and pride is at the heart of racism. It is interesting that even in the early church there were some who found it very hard to accept one of another race. (See, for example, Peter's prejudice against Gentiles in Acts 10.)

But it is also clear in the Bible that racism is wrong. All people and races are created by God, and His love extends to all. As Peter discovered, "God does not show favoritism, but accepts men from every nation who fear him and do what is right" (Acts 10:34, 35). The Bible also says, "From one man he made every nation of men, that they should inhabit the whole earth; and he determined the times set for them and the exact places where they should live" (Acts 17:26).

What is the answer to racial prejudice and hatred? I believe there is only one ultimate and complete answer, and that is Jesus Christ. Only Christ can truly change the human heart, and only Christ can give us true love for others. The Bible stresses that when we come to Christ, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free, male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus" (Galatians 3:28).

I hope you will give your life to Christ, and let Him love others through you. I do not believe we will ever completely erase the blot of racism, but Christians should do all they can to see that it is conquered in their own lives and show by their love for others that racism is not right. In heaven there will be people "from every tribe and language and people and nation" (Revelation 5:9).

Sometimes keloids form internally where there has been scarring, as from surgery. Unless they are causing pain or disruption they are left alone.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is hammer toe caused by some diet deficiency? I have a grand nephew who is 20 and having trouble with his toe. I fear it will result in hammer toe. He eats a lot of spicy foods. — Mrs. B.B.L.

Hammer toe results from the shrinking of tendons of the toes. The far end of the toe bends downward causing a hammer-like appearance. This is not caused by diet. It can be by short shoes or a previous toe injury. It is commonly seen in people who have very high arches or who wear shoes that force the arches upward.

Mob or Public

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Legalized gambling has become a popular way for state and local governments to attack their financial problems — a quick fix for the insatiable demands of pothole repairs and maintenance.

Scores of states and localities have adopted some form of legalized gambling, from horse and dog racing to bingo and state lotteries. Half a dozen states have shown interest in following the example of Nevada and New Jersey, the only states where casino operations are now legal.

The big question is: Can government-run gaming operations be kept free of corruption, or will they eventually slip under the control of organized crime?

A STILL CONFIDENTIAL report prepared by the Nevada Gaming Control Board's audit division chief, Dennis C. Gomes, raises disturbing questions about the rush by state and local governments to prescribe legalized gambling as a cure-all for their financial ills. The report lists the results of 43 investigations carried out by the board in the late 1970s.

Two main categories of crime are dealt with in the report: 1) embezzlement by individual casino employees and 2) fraudulent schemes directed at casinos by organized-crime elements.

At the Stardust and Fremont Hotels alone, the board's auditors reported, "it has been determined that approximately 20 percent of all slot (machine) revenues during an approximate one-and-a-half-year period was fraudulently taken" as part of an employee embezzlement conspiracy. The total loss was roughly $7 million.

More ominous was the auditors' report on swindles perpetrated by out-of-state high-rollers with ties to the Mob. One example: "Approximately 54 conspirators joined in a secret agreement to defraud the Paradise Hotel and Casino of more than $400,000 by obtaining money under false pretenses through credit."

The conspirators, "many of whom were alleged members of organized crime," were from Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, the report states. They eventually got away with at least $325,000, which was "the primary contributing factor to the subsequent financial failure and closure of the casino."

LEGALIZED GAMBLING, chairman of the New York-based National Commission on Gambling Incentives, told my associate Tony Capaccio that the Nevada report "showed a pattern of operations at casinos, and that same pattern will be exported to Atlantic City."

He could have added "to any community that legalizes gambling." Whenever there's big money to be had, the Mob sends in the vultures.

MEMO TO DETROIT: The cure for the ailing auto industry isn't to hit the taxpayers for more multimillion-dollar loans. The solution is to build a better car.

Once upon a time, Detroit auto makers produced the best cars in the world and sold them for the cheapest prices. Then the auto tycoons discovered they could increase their profits by lowering quality. The quicker the customers wore out their cars, the more often they would come back for new ones.

The motor makers also learned that they could gain a higher return on larger, luxury models laden with accessories. They kept designing cars to fatten their profits rather than benefit their customers — until the customers began turning to foreign makes. Today, imports account for one-fourth of the new-car sales.

The auto workers also seemed more concerned about collecting more wages than improving their workmanship. They kept demanding more pay for poorer performance until their productivity fell behind that of the Germans and the Japanese.

Yet the Detroit auto industry still has the technology, engineering and experience to build the world's finest cars. American auto workers are also better-educated and more experienced than assembly line workers anywhere else.

So Detroit possesses the secret to its own predicament; just build a better automobile.

Dear Editor:

After reading the lucid account of the tragic death of Kaylee Thomas, I now feel well qualified to participate in the exercises in logic which are sometimes offered by the Readers' Digest.

Example: Four men are seated in the club car of the Orient Express: one wears a green deerstalker cap, one is smoking a Dr. Grabo pipe, one is Oriental, though was educated at Harvard, and one is a deaf mute. While passing through Belgrade, a Sioux Indian Chief enters their car and orders a tequila sunrise. Who killed the conductor?

Lubbock: Town bucks city hall

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Who says you can't buck city hall? Residents of this South Plains city of 160,000 not only can, but often do.

The reason: competing electric companies.

"We're the largest city in the country with dual electric service," explained a power company executive, "and the competition keeps us on our toes."

Says a customer: "You call one of them and they're out in a zip, and they better be. If one is unresponsive, we just switch systems. The biggest advantage is that we're one town that can buck city hall."

The competing companies are Southwestern Public Service and the municipally owned Lubbock Power & Light Co.

If you're keeping score, Southwestern has slightly more than half the customers. But traditionally, officials say, business is split about 50-50.

"Therefore, service is excellent."

And service is not the only advantage.

"Lubbock customers buy their electricity at a better price than other cities out here," Hendrie said. "The total bill is lower for most customers."

For instance, Lubbock citizens recently paid either Southwestern or LP&L $54.33 for 1,000 kilowatt hours of electricity. Southwestern customers in Amarillo, 115 miles to the north, paid $59.14.

"That's a $60 annual dividend," quipped Hendrie. The city reaped another, more obvious dividend in May of 1970 when a killer tornado tore through the city and inflicted widespread damage.

With two power systems, the city was not crippled nearly to the extent of Wichita Falls when it suffered a similar disaster last year.

Municipally-owned power companies are not too uncommon, particularly in Texas. San Antonio and Austin are two cities with their own power systems.

Garland, a Dallas suburb, has both a private and a municipal system, but differs from Lubbock in that each company has territorial rights.

Customers have no choice, and thus competition is not a factor.

Lubbock Power & Light purchases its fuel from one company, Pioneer Natural Gas. It currently pays $2.38 per 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

Six years ago, before the energy crunch, the city paid 26 cents for the same amount.

"The $2.38 price may sound high, but I bet it's a lot less than what Austin and San Antonio are paying," said one city official.

Said Hendrie: "We're not trying to make a profit, just expenses. Our rates are based on delivering electricity essentially at cost. Southwestern has been willing to live all these years with the same rate we charge."

One reason it can do so is that Southwestern's old, long-term gas contracts lower its overall fuel costs. The private company also has converted some of its power plants to coal.

Despite customer complaints to the contrary, there is little evidence of waste in the dual system, Hendrie said. "They're not paying more, they're paying less."

Most criticism is philosophically and not financially motivated and is directed solely at LP&L. Governmental entities should not compete with free enterprise, critics say.

For one thing, counters Hendrie, the free enterprise system thrives on competition.

Adrian Saldivar honored as Teacher of the Year

Adrian Saldivar, Immaculate Heart of Mary principal, was honored as Teacher of the Year Tuesday morning by Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary.

"We have a yearly project choosing Teacher of the Year," said Auxiliary President Ethel Knapp. She said the auxiliary appreciated Saldivar's initiation of patriotic programs for the students at the school.

The women presented him with a speech and a red rose at the ceremony at 8:30 a.m.

Texas Electric's business office will be closed

Monday
May 26

Emergency repair crews will remain on duty just in case you need them.

"Theoretically, a customer could change companies every three days," said Carroll McDonald, formerly of Southwestern and now with Lubbock Power & Light.

Fortunately, most don't.

Spokesmen for both companies are reluctant to criticize the other and do agree that it is the customers who benefit most from the unique situation.

"Certainly both companies are very interested in keeping their customers happy," said Vaughn Hendrie, a spokesman for the municipal firm.

The system is changing: Is it good to get reward for failure?

NEW YORK (AP) — A common thread connects their fates — the brothers Hunt after their silver speculation collapsed, Chrysler Corp. after it misread the market, First Pennsylvania bank after it misinvested.

In each instance public or private resources were rushed to their aid because, it was said, the collapse of any could hurt many. They benefited from the size of their mistakes, and fears of the impact.

To reward inefficiency or failure is just one example of how the U.S. economic system is changing in ways that alarm some while earning the praise of others. Some foresee in such practices an erosion of the market system; others say it is our humane duty to temper the system.

Whatever, the system is changing, and here are a few, and only a few, of the possible reasons why.

The growing regulation of enterprise.

To do without regulation, say its supporters, is to return to longer hours, lower wages, child labor, dangerous work sites, pollution of air and water, monopolies, and dozens more undesirable practices.

Today, even the most conservative business people support some degree of regulation. Some, in fact, seek it. When regulation helps a company retain privileges, philosophical opposition often goes out the window.

A very large number of people, however, fear regulation. The Center for the study of American Business at Washington University, St. Louis, wonders if regulatory growth hasn't itself gotten out of control.

It states that the number of federal regulatory agencies established between 1970 and 1979, twenty-one, is more than twice as many as in any previous decade, including the New Deal years of the 1930s.

Not only are the agencies proliferating, but so are budgets. During the 1970s they grew at an annual rate of about $250 million in constant dollars (more than a half-billion if inflation is included). Fiscal 1981 spending is budgeted at $6.9 billion, and could amount to more.

Good-bye! Germany, I like Texans Auf weide sehen, Vaterland, I'll stay here

By MICKIE DICKSON
Texan's friendliness has captivated Martha Bier. Coming from a European country where churches are cold, impersonal and formal, she is amazed at the warmth she experienced in Big Spring's First Church of God.

Martha, whose last name is synonymous with beer in our language is from Hochheim, Hessen, Germany, about 15 miles from Frankfurt. Hochheim is noted for its wine or beer, the principle industry. The English royal family has favored Hochheim wine since the days Queen Victoria drank it. A statue of Victoria was presented to the town where it's displayed in the vineyards. Other industries in Germany besides their superior beer and wine are coal mining, iron, the automobile industry and agriculture. The Volkswagen, Mercedes Benz and Opel are manufactured there. The agriculture is similar to ours except they do not grow cotton.

Martha is visiting the Ronnie McDonald's, 800 W. 18, who lived in an apartment in her father's home in the 1960's for about four years. The McDonald home is furnished with some beautiful German pieces.

Joseph Bier, her father, owns a huge three-story home which is divided into apartments which he's rented to Americans since 1962. Martha took English in school from the fifth grade on and did very well because of her close contact with Americans at home. Martha lives in the attic apartment just above her parents' and her father raps on his ceiling to awaken her in time for breakfast each morning which she shares with her parents. Breakfast usually consists of bread or "brot", boiled egg, marmalade, and coffee or tea.

Germans have their big meal, supper or Mittagessen, at noon when each one wishes the other guten appetit (good appetite) before the meal. Waiters wish the diners guten appetit in restaurants. Potatoes are always served in lieu of bread at this meal. Cake and coffee are served between 3-4 in the afternoon, and the evening meal is usually sandwiches.

When the German people eat, they use the knife and fork both together, holding the fork in the left hand, the knife in the right. Food is put on the fork by scooping it up on the knife and laying it on the fork, relaying it to the mouth with the left hand.

In the better restaurants and in fish stores, tanks of fish are on display where diners and housewives pick out live fresh fish. The housewife can, if she wishes, take the live fish home in a plastic bag of water and put it in the bathtub until ready to prepare it for the family to eat.

Children go to school from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. six days a week after the fourth grade. Younger children go only five days. School dismisses only six weeks in the summer and three weeks each for Easter and Christmas.

Martha has a responsible position in the Dresdner Bank in Mainz, about five miles from her home where she buys and sells gold and silver for the bank and its customers. The value of the metals is available over Telex each day, but fluctuates so much that she phones when a customer wants to buy or sell to check up on it. By watching the political situation in the world on the news each night, she can tell whether gold and silver will be up or down on the market and advises her customers. So far she's been about 80 percent right. Martha is so impressed with Texas that she would like to work in the Houston area in the banking business.

Martha drives a red Volkswagon Rabbit, for which she pays 1 DM (deutsche mark) 17 pfennings a liter for gas. One gallon is equal to about 2 1/2 liters. The United States $1 is equal to 1 DM or mark (54c) and 85 pfennings (40c) making 94c a DM (mark) is 100 pfennings.

Martha, who is 28, makes 2,600 marks (DM's) a month. By the time her deductions are taken out for social security, income tax, insurance and a church tax for the Vatican, her take home pay is 1,600 DM's or about $900 a month. Everyone makes enough money to have everything they need and are satisfied with it. German people do not have luxury items.

Inflation is not as rampant in Germany today as it was a year ago. Germans make good salaries but everything is high. Germany has no very poor people. Everyone who wants to work can. "There is a welfare system but only the lazy ones who do not want to work are recipients," said Martha.

GUTEN TAG: VATER — Martha Bier of Hochheim, Germany, pictured here talking to her father whom she greets, "hello, father," in German, relays her desire to remain in Texas while her Big Spring hostess, Nell McDonald, listens in.

Hochheim is in a mountainous region. The streets are narrow and winding. Everyone rides bicycles and most drive small cars. A few rich people have big cars. The houses have large rooms to accommodate the massive furniture for which Germany is famous. Land is very expensive, selling for 100 DM's or marks a meter (39.37 inches) or more.

Unlike West Texas, it rains often in Germany. Summer weather is somewhat like our Spring. Winter is rainy and foggy with not as much snow as in previous years. Public swimming pools are opened May 1.

Ostern (Easter) is celebrated for two days, Karfreitag (Good Friday) is the beginning when school is out and everybody is off work until the next Tuesday. The Easter bunny brings colored eggs which are hidden as in America. A midnight mass is held on Saturday and Ostern feuer (Easter fires) are started burning at midnight at homes in the hills illustrating Christ's resurrection. Martha says the fires burning in the hills is quite impressive as the families leave church.

Christmas is celebrated twice. On the night of Dec. 5 children clean a pair of shoes and put them outside the door for Nikolaus to fill with sweets if they've been good and switches if they've been bad. The Christmas tree is put up on Dec. 24, not before, and taken down Jan. 6. Christmas Eve the family opens their gifts. Dec. 25 is the religious celebration of Christ's birth in churches and homes. Dec. 26 is for visiting relatives and friends.

Dec. 31 is the celebration of Sylvester, the last day of the old year to welcome the new year. Firework displays are shown throughout the nation at midnight. Church bells ring, cars, boats, and ships blow their horns and everyone hugs and kisses, wishing each other the best for the coming year.

When a couple is married, on the eve of the wedding, friends and relatives come over and throw old items like cups, saucers and plates in the yard hard enough to break them in pieces. The fragments, which the couple picks up as they are broken, are supposed to bring them good luck.

During the week television programs start at 4 p.m. and shut off at 11:30 or midnight Monday through Friday. On weekends it is on from 4 p.m. to 1 a.m. TV programs are not interrupted by commercials which are shown at the end of each one.

During World War II, the town of Mainz was completely destroyed by bombs, while Hochheim wasn't touched. The town square of Hochheim had a small Madonna and child figure in it and residents believed the Madonna protected the town, so they put up a large figure later. The small one is now enshrined in the Catholic church which Martha attends.

Recipes

Nell McDonald, Martha Bier's hostess, shares favorite German recipes with Herald readers.

NEEL McDONALD'S FORELLE NACH MUELLERIN ART
A Mueller is a miller, a Muellerin is the miller's wife. So it doesn't take too much imagination to see why trout turned in flour then fried is called "Trout in the art of the miller's wife."

Ingredients:
6 live trout, each between 3 1/2 to 1 pound
Butter
Flour
3 lemons
Utensils: a large frying pan.

Preparation: 1/2 hour
Kill trout by striking on the head with a hammer. Clean and rinse in cold running water. Dry with a towel. Sprinkle with lemon juice and turn in flour until well coated. Fry in hot butter until done. Serve on prewarmed plates with lemon slices and parsley butter.

NEEL McDONALD'S SEMMELKNOEDEL (Untranslatable)

Semmelknoedel are "bread dumplings" about the size of a tennis ball. Served in place of potatoes, actually that's about the same as saying champagne served in place of wine, they are wonderful with gravy. I have yet to see the Texan that didn't like them.

Ingredients:
1 pound stale French bread, unsliced or 450 grams Knoedelbrot (or 12 Semmels)
1 pint or 1/2 liter milk
3 eggs
1-3rd cup loosely packed, fresh, chopped parsley
1 small onion
1 level teaspoon salt
1 round tablespoon flour
3/4 level teaspoon lard, no substitute

Utensils: a large pot and a large frying pan

Preparation: 3/4 hour
Cut stale bread, including crust, in very thin slices about 1-16 inch thick. In Germany cut Semmels or use Knoedelbrot. Heat, but do not boil milk. Pour hot milk over stale bread and let sit for 20 minutes. Finely mince onion. Fry onions and parsley together in hot lard until onions are glassy. Add parsley, onions, egg and salt to bread. Knead together to a uniformly consistent dough. Fill the large pot 3/4 full of water and bring to a boil. With wet hands form 6 Knoedels. Drop in boiling water and cook 20 minutes. Drain and serve.

SAURE LEBER
Saure Leber is a favorite in all of Germany and is found on practically all the menus of all the Gasthauses.

Ingredients:
1 1/2 pounds pork or calf's liver
3 rounded tablespoons butter or lard
1 medium onion
3 cups boiling water
1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar
1 1/2 rounded teaspoons flour
1 1/2 level teaspoons salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper
Utensils: a large frying pan with cover.
Preparation: 3/4 hour

Cut liver in slices about 3-16 inch thick. Then cut in cubes about 1 inch square (or have the butcher do it). Cut onions in thin rings, then cut rings in halves and quarters. Melt fat in pan. Add liver cubes and brown both sides very lightly. Add onion rings and flour. Stir well with a fork to blend flour with hot fat. Brown liver to a light brown. Add BOILING (important — cold water will make the liver tough) water and vinegar. Stir well with a fork or egg whisk to prevent lumps. DO NOT SALT. Cover pan and simmer on low heat for 30 minutes. Add salt and pepper after removing from stove immediately before serving.

ROTER RUEBENSALAT (Red Beet Salad)

I. Pickled beets — Use as is with a few onion rings.
II. Fresh beets, do it yourself — Cut tops from beets and brush clean in running water. Cook until tender, about 1 1/2 hours, in salted water. Quench with cold water to make peeling easier. Peel. Marinate in: vinegar and water 1:1, with salt a little sugar, onion rings and a little horseradish. Marinate 3 days. Serve with a few onion rings.

DRABBENSALAT (Shrimp Salad)
Cook and clean shrimp or wash and drain canned shrimp. Mix with mayonnaise. Spice with celery salt, dill. Optional: Chopped boiled eggs, chopped Sellerie (celery), chopped pickles or minced onion. Let marinate 1 hour. Serve cold.

Pre-nuptial festivities spotlight future bride

Tell truth about fight

Dr. Wallace: I am a girl 15 who needs a quick answer. About a week ago, I got into a fight at school and I hit another girl in the nose and broke it.

Honestly, it was in self-defense.

Now her parents are taking me to court for assault and battery. There were no witnesses to the fight. I'm sorry for what happened and I've never been in trouble before. I'm scared and don't know what to do. Please help. — Julie, Weirton, W.Va.

has been the best year of my life.

My problem is that my mom's fiance only allows me to see him on Friday and Saturday nights. I would also like to see him on Sunday but the answer is always no.

Mom loves my boyfriend like her own son and we both love his parents.

Do you think I should be able to see him on Sundays? — S.S., Mount Vernon, Ohio

My last name is Witt and the teacher said, "With a little more brains, Brian, you'd be a half-Witt."

The class started laughing at me, and I was so embarrassed I almost cried. After class the kids were calling me all kinds of names such as stupid, half-brain and half-bright.

I'm afraid to tell my parents what happened, but I don't want to see that teacher again. What can I do? — Brian, Seattle, Wash.

Julie: Your best friends in this case are Mom and Dad. Tell them what happened.

A schoolyard scrap such as yours will never reach the courts, but still tell your parents what happened.

Dr. Wallace: I always read your column and guess what? I've got a problem for you.

I'm going with a super nice 17-year-old boy that I love very much. We have been going together for a year now, and I will admit it

That's only my thoughts — remember, you mother has final say.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 12 and I never want to go to school again. Yesterday we were having quiz games out loud in social science and the teacher asked me who was buried in Grant's tomb. All of a sudden my mind went blank and I told her that I didn't know.

The refreshment table was centered with an original centerpiece fashioned with the hostess gift, a yellow Teflon electric skillet, cookie cutters, wooden utensils and dried flowers.

Cheese, cookies, a cold vegetable tray and dip were served to guests.

Kathrine Cowan, bride-elect of Randle Jones, has been spotlighted recently in a number of pre-nuptial festivities.

The home of Mrs. Bill Pollard was the scene of a kitchen-gadget shower honoring Miss Cowan on May 16.

Co-hostesses for the affair were Kay Pollard, Mrs. W.A. Moore, Lavoy and Laura Moore, Mrs. J.W. Tipton, Mrs. Charles Lewis, Mrs. W.A. Riley and Karen and Lisa Riley.

The honoree, her mother, Mrs. James Cowan; and Mrs. Alpha Jones, mother of the prospective groom, were presented corsages designed of tiny cookie cutters, ribbon and dried flowers.

Mrs. Clyde Angel, Mrs. J.E. Hogan, Mrs. P.W. Malone and Mrs. J.E. Mathews were hostesses for a bridal brunch given in honor of Miss Cowan at the Big Spring Country Club Blue Room on May 17.

The hill-top home of Mrs. Daryle Hohertz was the site of a pounding feting Miss Cowan on May 18.

Guests showered the bride-to-be with a variety of culinary supplies. The hostesses presented her with an ice cream freezer.

Co-hostesses for the event were Andrea Teresa and Shanna Hohertz, Mrs. Pascal Odom, Jill Odom, Mrs. Jerry Foresyth and Jackie Foresyth.

After refreshments of fruit and cheese, those attending shared wedding and career plans.

Miss Cowan will marry Jones Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

"King Heroin" Makes A Lousy Ruler

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a column you ran eight years ago when I was in high school. It helped me make a decision about drugs I have never forgotten. I wasn't a drug user, but some of my friends were into drugs and trying to get me to join them.

DEAR TAMMY: The article you enclosed is indeed worth a rerun, and here it is:

Now that kids in their pre-teens are trying drugs, I hope you will reprint it. You have been so good about reprinting articles that have helped people, please don't let me down. If it helps just one kid like it helped me, it will be worth it. Thank you.

TAMMY IN LITTLE ROCK

"King Heroin is my shepherd, I shall always want..."

These tragic words, part of a twisted rewording of the beloved 23rd Psalm, were discovered recently in Reidsville, N.C., in a closed car alongside a dead heroin addict. She was 23 years old.

Her death was ruled a suicide. A hookup with the car's exhaust had sent carbon monoxide fumes from a running motor into the vehicle. Here's the complete "psalm."

"King Heroin is my shepherd, I shall always want. He maketh me to lie down in the gutters.

"He leadeth me beside the troubled waters: He destroyeth my soul.

"He leadeth me in the paths of wickedness.

"Yea, I shall walk through the valley of poverty and will fear no evil, for thou, Heroin, are with me.

"Thy Needle and Capsule comfort me. Thou strippest the table of groceries in the presence of my family. Thou robbest my head of reason.

"My cup of sorrow runneth over. Surely heroin addiction shall stalk me all the days of my life and I will dwell in the House of the Damned forever."

Also found in the car with the dead woman was the written message:

"Jail didn't cure me. Nor did hospitalization help me for long. The doctor told my family it would have been better, and indeed kinder, if the person who got me hooked on dope had taken a gun and blown my brains out. And I wish to God he had. My God, how I wish it."

Anderson facing many problems getting name on all state ballots

WASHINGTON (AP) — In West Virginia, citizens who sign a petition to get John Anderson's name on the November ballot as an independent presidential candidate and then vote in a state primary could actually be sent to jail.

It's just one of many obstacles Anderson faces in getting his name on the ballot in all 50 states, a move that is necessary if his independent run for the presidency is to stand a chance.

In Kentucky, officials have notified the Anderson campaign that the presence of the congressman's name on the Republican primary election ballot May 27 — before he dropped his GOP campaign to run as an independent — will block him from an independent slot on the ballot in November.

In Michigan, officials are requiring Anderson to hold a nominating party convention even though he has no intervention of forming a third national political party to get himself elected.

In California, where Anderson campaigned today, he must obtain 101,300 signatures by Aug. 8. But his supporters were barred from seeking signatures on petitions until after the June 3 presidential primary.

Legal barriers have yet to stop Anderson's campaign in any state, but it is becoming clear that they could. Much time and money are going into the problem, and it sometimes seems lawsuits are as plentiful as chicken dinner speeches in other campaigns.

West Virginia is a prime example of state where elections laws designed to discourage third-party and independent candidacies are proving troublesome.

There, potential supporters are being told that by signing petitions in his behalf, they will forfeit the right to vote in hotly-contested primary elections June 3.

Anderson, a House member for 20 years, must obtain 7,500 signatures on petitions by June 2, the day before presidential and local primary elections in the state.

There have been 1,949 names gathered over the last three weeks so that means another 5,551 signatures must be found over the next 12 days.

Anyone who signs a petition and then votes in the primary can be sent to prison for 10 days under a state misdemeanor statute.

"People are saying, 'I'll be damned if I'm going to give up my vote,'" said Jim Grant, Anderson's West Virginia campaign coordinator.

Only 1 of each 40 persons approached have agreed to sign, Grant said.

He said while he senses a deep well of support for

Anderson in the state, many voters want to insure their right to vote in closely-fought congressional and local races.

I think the real crime may be way we treat public inebriates

AUSTIN — The implications of treating public intoxicants instead of jailing them will be the topic when a statewide task force meets to discuss the proposed draft legislation for an Alcohol Services Act for Texas.

The group will meet today at the Joe C. Thompson Center at The University of Texas at Austin.

"Right now, being drunk in public is a crime in Texas," Ross Newby, executive director of the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, stated. "I think the real crime may be the way we treat public inebriates."

Newby, a recovering alcoholic, has been jailed for public intoxication himself in the past. He notes that estimates for the cost of arresting and booking public inebriates vary from $58.06 to $294 each, while they could be treated at a cost of $11-15 per day.

The proposed bill does not alter any law against driving while intoxicated or crimes committed while under the influence of alcohol, he said.

Aides to House Speaker Bill Clayton, Sens. Chet Brooks and Ray Farabee, and Rep. Mike Ezzell have been invited to the meeting.

Among task force members is Clyde Alsup, Big Spring State Hospital.

WHEN RALPH HARRIS TOOK THE JOB as the football coach for Big Spring High School, he was quite aware of the fact that the Steers had suffered through the past few seasons.

And according to many local fans, suffering is a mild word. The truth of the matter is that the BSHS team has won only three games in the past four years, and is winless in District 5-AA competition since Bob Burris' 1976 team defeated Abilene Cooper.

But Harris has had a coaching history of turning around such programs, and he made it known upon his arrival to this writer that he is convinced that the local grid team can return to the successful ways of the 1960s.

"We're progressing," Harris said yesterday. "Going into spring training, we were shooting for two things." "First, that the coaches are ready," he stated. "By that, I mean not only the varsity, but down through the junior high system. I've been real pleased thus far with them."

"The second thing is to build confidence in the youngsters playing," he continued. "I think we have accomplished that."

While Harris feels that the all important aspect of belief in one's self by the players has come a long way, the road to success has not yet been totally paved.

"HOW MUCH WE'VE IMPROVED in the fundamentals of the game, I just don't know," the Steer mentor stated. "We still need improvement."

While Harris and his staff have been impressive thus far in building that confidence and providing leadership, there are still certain mental things that he is seeking from this team.

"We need to discover some leadership from among the players," he stated emphatically.

"We've found some quality individuals," he said, "people that have a great deal of ability."

"But we still need the middle of the road people to come along," Harris continued. "By this I mean those kids that aren't great athletes, but will contribute to the program in what's needed to win."

And as he hinted, leadership will help solve that shortcoming.

LIKE ANY PROGRAM THAT IS IN THE MIDST of revamping itself, whether it be in sports, politics or business, there will be some hard feelings.

Harris has experienced these problems at every coaching stop, and Big Spring proved to be no different, as he and some of the coaches already here didn't see eye-to-eye. But that's to be expected.

"We're just about through with completing our staff for the next year," Harris revealed, mentioning that there are less than a handful of vacancies there.

"I don't hold anything against the coaches that were here that didn't agree with me," Harris began philosophizing. "It's just like in November in the elections. We might have a new President, and with that he'll bring in a new Secretary of State, and so on."

"Now that doesn't necessarily mean that the one there now isn't doing a good job."

"But," he said, returning to the reality of the Big Spring situation, "a guy's got to have his people working with him that believe in him."

Nicklaus rated better than Watson

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Golfer Jim Simons believes Jack Nicklaus would beat Tom Watson most of the time if you could match golf's two professional superstars in their primes.

"I don't think at this point Tom has what Nicklaus had," said Simons before the first round today in the $360,000 Memorial golf tournament. "Jack is the greatest pressure player I've ever seen. And he's the most composed player I ever saw."

"I like the guy who can gear himself up for a golf tournament and win. That's what Nicklaus did."

Nicklaus, 40, owns two all-time records, 17 major tournament victories and career earnings of $3.5 million in 20 professional years. The 30-year-old Watson's totals are three majors and $2 million in his PGA tour decade.

"It looks as if Jack's majors record may never be broken. As great as Tom is, he's not even close to Jack's majors," Simons said.

Simons, the 1978 Memorial champion, offered some reasons why Nicklaus is mired in the worst slump of his career and Watson is off to his best start ever.

Nicklaus has not won since August 1978. Meanwhile,

Watson has reeled off 12 victories in that stretch.

Simons said of Nicklaus: "He's pushing too hard. He's to the point where he's playing poorly for him. He may doubt himself. That's not characteristic. Jack is as strong-willed as anyone."

"I think he needs more competition. There's no substitute for competitive golf. You can practice all you want at home, but you're not going to accomplish anything."

Nicklaus made only 12 tour appearances in 1979, spending time with his family in Florida and tending to his businesses. He has played in just seven tournaments this year, finishing in the top 10 only once.

"It's not the physical part, it's the mental part that Jack has let slide. But I don't have any doubt he will win again. If he had won at the Doral (second), it would have done a lot for his psyche," Simons said.

The nine-year pro from Pittsburgh is puzzled over Watson's success, which includes five tour victories and more than $331,000 in earnings this season.

"He hits a lot of poor shots," Simons said of Watson's game.

Steers conclude spring training tonight

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

Local football fans will have their first chance to take a game look at the 1980 Big Spring Steers tonight when the team concludes their spring training drills with the annual Black-Gold contest at seven o'clock in Memorial Stadium.

It will also give fans an opportunity to see the changes in the program that newly appointed football coach Ralph Harris has employed. Harris, who two years ago directed Sealy to the Class AA state championship, accepted the BSHS job in March.

Harris wasted absolutely no time in attempting to revamp the Steer grid program, which has suffered through some very embarrassing seasons the past few years.

Tonight's game will last the regular 48 minutes that a high school contest usually does, but will be split up into six quarters of eight minutes each, instead of the normal four times 12 situation.

The first two eight minute stanzas will feature the junior varsity, while the final four quarters will have members of the varsity team going against each other.

While the junior varsity and the varsity will be separated, their point production will not. Members of the black varsity unit and the black JV team will combine their scores for the total, and the same is true for both the Gold varsity and Gold JV squad.

The only exception to a real contest is that the kicking game will be absent. On fourth downs, teams may either go for the first, or simply advance to ball 35 yards downfield and surrender possession, in lieu of punting. All teams will also have to go for the two-point conversion after all touchdowns.

The coaching staff will also be split for tonight's contest. The 12 assistants that have worked with Harris throughout spring will be split into two groups of six, with the Steer head mentor taking a back seat.

Coaching the Black team will be Tom Koger, Stan Caffey, Dennis Launerey, John Schafer, John Velasquez and Randy Britton, while the Gold team will be directed by the staff of Bob Purser, Larry Helton, E.C. Robertson, Bob Zellars, Robin Wall and Frank Ibarra.

Harris has implemented a split-back option attack sprinkled with numerous passes.

Directing the Gold team will be junior quarterback Tracy Spence, while the Black signal caller will be senior Chuck Gibbs.

Spence will operate with a backfield of quick senior halfback Ben Watson and sophomore Danny Stephens. He will more than likely be throwing his passes to a receiving trio of Reggie Anding, David Bordofski and Bobby Braesel.

Returning starter Scott Barnes will provide experience to the Gold offensive line, while Ed (Too Tall) Vela will give the Gold defense some returning experience from his line-backing position.

Gibbs will have the services of two returning lettermen in his backfield in the presence of Bobby Earl Williams and Bill Brown. Williams is a junior who has the potential to become an outstanding high school performer for the Steers.

Gibbs receivers will be Tommy Madigan, Carbert Newton and Mike Sauls, with converted tackle Greg Jones in the line.

The 225-pound Jones played at fullback in his sophomore and junior years on the BSHS varsity.

Strike at midnight

Nothing new in baseball talks

NEW YORK (AP) — With a strike deadline only hours away, baseball negotiators faced a nearly impossible task today, meeting for one last time in an effort to reach an agreement on a new contract that would prevent a play stoppage.

There was little hope that a strike could be averted after another round of fruitless talks Wednesday.

"Unless there is a complete change of heart, we're headed pell mell for a strike," said federal mediator Kenneth Moffett.

"We're in deep trouble," Moffett said no progress had been made at Thursday's session when the players' association presented a revised proposal to owner representatives.

"Sitting at the end of the table and hearing the two sides, it sounded to me as if we were a month away from a deadline instead of 30 hours," the mediator said.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, said there would be no avoiding the deadline in his talks with management.

"A strike creates pressure," Miller said. "Removing the deadline creates no pressure."

Miller said player representatives of all 26 major league teams had been sent telegrams restating the will of the union's executive board which voted unanimously on April 1 to strike unless a contract is negotiated by May 23.

"Games Thursday night will be completed. The strike begins May 23," Miller said. "Nothing changes that except an agreement."

But the two sides seem miles away from any settlement.

"We did not make any progress," Miller reported. "We have negotiated for six months and produced nothing even approaching an agreement, even with a strike deadline. That's the best shot for progress. Now they propose removing the deadline and then work for an agreement. They say if we reach one, it would be retroactive. Well I learned a long time ago that if you're offered zero retroactively, it's still zero."

Ray Grebey, chief of the management negotiating team, dismissed a player association proposal made Wednesday which Miller said had "substantially revised downward" a number of union demands.

"It contained nothing new or that we hadn't already talked about," Grebey said. "And there was a serious omission. It didn't deal with compensation."

Miller bristled at that description.

Miller said the players had offered reduced demands in the areas of minimum salaries, pension contributions and "split" contracts for players who perform both in the major and minor leagues in a single season.

SMU track program signs blue-chippers

DALLAS (AP) — Three high school athletes who are No. 1 in the nation in their specialties are among eight track signees at Southern Methodist University, track coach Ted McLaughlin announced Wednesday.

They are hurdler Dennis Brantley of Houston Worthing, half miler Rick Raymond of Richardson Pearce, and hammer thrower Anthony Defarno of Lincoln, R.I.

Brantley is a two-time state champion in the 110-meter hurdles, winning the title last weekend with a time of 13.1 seconds, second-fastest time ever by a high schooler. Brantley also won the 300-meter intermediate hurdles title last week in 36.8 seconds, also the fastest time in the nation.

Raymond finished second last week in the 800 meters, but his 1:50.62 clocking earlier in the season is ranked the best in the United States.

Defarno's hammer throw of 201-5 is also best in the nation. He will join a trio of talented throwers at SMU, including Richard Olsen, who beat the U.S. record by eight feet two weeks ago at the West Coast relays.

UIL suggests transfer change

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—A University Interscholastic League committee has, in effect, recommended abolishing a transfer rule that has been both denounced as unfair and hailed as the savior of amateur athletics.

The recommendation Wednesday of a 21-member committee of legislators, coaches and school superintendents goes to the U.I.L. Legislative Council. The council of 20 superintendents will decide Nov. 2 whether to present the committee's proposal for approval in April to more than 1,300 member schools of the U.I.L.

UIL Executive Director Bailey Marshall said Wednesday the council has in the past usually forwarded recommendations "by committees such as this one" to member schools.

If approved by a majority of the schools, the exemption for senior athletes that is now in the rule would be extended to grades 9-11.

Basically, the committee's proposal states that athletes who change school districts are eligible if the executive committees of both districts approve the transfer and the student's parents testify the transfer was not made for athletic purposes.

The current rule — which was adopted to halt recruiting among high schools — prohibits a student from participating in varsity football or basketball for one year following a transfer from one school district to another. Seniors are exempted.

The committee recommended that if the rule is changed, the issue should be resubmitted to the schools in the spring of 1983, after administrators have had a chance to decide whether it is working.

Prior to the committee vote, Mary Keller, a lawyer for the Texas Civil Liberties Union, said she felt the original rule was designed "to protect and not to punish — but the consequence of the rule has been not to protect but to punish."

"It doesn't stop recruiting," she said. "It only forces it down to younger students who are at a more vulnerable age."

A father who unsuccessfully challenged the rule in court suggested lie detector tests could be used to prove a student-athlete who moves into a new district had not been recruited.

"The one-year rule shames the state of Texas," said Joe Sullivan of Austin, "because it has as its origin the presumption of guilt."

Sullivan sued on behalf of his son after IBM transferred him from Vermont to Austin. His son, who sought to try out for the varsity basketball team at Anderson High School, now has finished his freshman year of college.

UIL Athletic Director Bill Forney said the rule was first adopted in 1925 to curb illegal football recruiting by high schools. He told of a Breckenridge football team with 33 players, only seven of whom lived in Breckenridge. Basketball was brought under the rule in 1933.

Retired UIL Executive Director Rhea Williams said he once questioned a Breckenridge oilman about recruiting athletes by offering jobs to their fathers. The oilman, he said, "put his cowboy boots in front of us and asked, 'What in the hell are you going to do about it?'"

"There is not a rule in the (UIL) constitution that wasn't put there to correct an evil," said Williams, who himself lost a year of athletic eligibility when he transferred from Avery to Clarksville in Northeast Texas.

AL Roundup Angels batter Rangers again

By the Associated Press

A stomach disorder kept California's Al Cowens from sleeping all week, but he slipped the Texas Rangers a knockout drop in the form of a pinch three-run homer Wednesday night.

The towering blast off Sparky Lyle was Cowens' first homer in a California uniform and capped a four-run seventh inning that enabled the Angels to defeat the Rangers 9-8, their third consecutive triumph in Arlington Stadium where they won only once in each of the last three years.

Two nights ago, Cowens was in the hospital.

"I had stomach cramps so bad I couldn't sleep, so I went to the hospital at 3 a.m.," he said. "I had to get some shots so I could sleep."

He must have taken a quick medical lesson because his three-run shot put the Rangers to sleep.

If the baseball season ends tonight — and the players are scheduled to strike at midnight, for how long nobody knows — the final American League games will be meaningless. The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox have "insurmountable" leads in their respective divisions.

The Yankees took a 1½-game lead over Toronto in the AL East by defeating the Detroit Tigers 9-5 in 11 innings while the Blue Jays were thrashed by the Boston Red Sox 11-2. In the AL West, the White Sox bowed to the Minnesota Twins 3-2 but maintained their one-game advantage over Kansas City when the Oakland A's shaded the Royals 4-2 in 14 innings. The White Sox are not scheduled tonight.

Elsewhere, the Cleveland Indians downed the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 and the Seattle Mariners edged the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5.

In beating Texas, the Angels also got solo homers from Larry Harlow and Dan Ford and a two-run shot by Todd Cruz. California's seventh-inning rally erased a 7-5 Texas lead and negated a homer by Richie Zisk of the Rangers in the bottom of the seventh.

NL Roundup Maybe Phils, Reds know something

By the Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds played their three-game series as if it were coming at the end of the season. With a players' strike likely after tonight's games, maybe it was.

The two teams combined for 40 runs and 67 hits in the series, with the Phillies winning two of the games, including Wednesday night's cliff-hanging 9-8 decision. The matchup saw some aggressive play usually only seen in the playoffs or late in the season when a pennant is on the line.

With the Reds leading 8-7 going into the ninth, Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt led off with a shot down the third base line that took a hop over Ray Knight — who had two triples, a single and four RBI in the losing cause — and head into left field.

Schmidt decided to try for a double and when left fielder George Foster's throw came behind to win both games of the doubleheader. Mike Easler's solo homer and a bloop RBI single by Bill Robinson won the opener in the ninth inning and Tim Foli's first homer and an RBI groundout by Steve Nicosia brought the defending World Series champions back in the second game. Foli's homer, which tied the second game in the seventh inning, was only the 18th of his 11-year National League career.

Expos 3, Braves 2

Rowland Office's out-out double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Ron LeFlore from second base to give Montreal the victory. Atlanta had tied the score in the top of the inning on Joe Nolan's two-out, pinch-hit single that temporarily denied Steve Rogers his fourth victory in eighth season.

Mets 5, Astros 1

Lee Mazzilli drove in two runs and Doug Flynn scored three times to support pitcher Pete Falcone as New York downed Houston. Falcone, 3-2, allowed only four hits, including Enos Cabell's homer that gave Houston its only run, through eight innings before being relieved by Neil Allen, who picked up his seventh save.

Dodgers 5, St. Louis 3

Los Angeles won its sixth straight game and 10th in 11 decisions with a four-run eighth inning highlighted by Dusty Baker's three-run homer. St. Louis starter Bob Forsch held the Dodgers to three singles and had a 3-1 lead through seven innings before they struck back. Steve Garvey preceded Baker's homer with an RBI single.

Giants 4, Cubs 1

Vida Blue held Chicago to four singles after the first inning and finished with a six-hitter to register his fourth straight victory.

Is Soviet Union recruiting teams?

By the Associated Press

With more than 40 countries boycotting the Summer Olympics, the Soviet Union needs all the teams it can get.

That's why, it would seem, Soviet officials have made a rather unique gesture to Colombia's Olympic team.

In an apparent move to save what's left of their scaled-down Olympics, Soviet officials will fly the Colombian team to Moscow for the Summer Games.

Meanwhile, Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), said it would probably not be until Tuesday before he gets "a full report from Moscow" regarding exactly how many countries will attend the Games.

Although the deadline for entries is Saturday, Killanin said: "I would be ready to extend the deadline to help any national Olympic committees which are late in making their decisions."

Killanin was back home in Dublin, Ireland, following a trip to both the Soviet Union and the United States, where he talked with the heads of both countries in an attempt to take politics out of the Games.

Killanin said Wednesday he had told Soviet President

Dry eye in the sky

BILLINGS, Mont. (A) — Youngsters determined to swig a little illegal brew this Memorial Day weekend — and thereafter — would do well to look up as well as over their shoulder for the law.

It's time for Sheriff Richard Shaffer's dry-eye-in-the-sky crackdown on the annual wave of high school beer busts.

Shaffer said his deputies will fly over isolated areas of the county looking for the crowds that signal a party in progress.

On the ground, other deputies will move in and give tickets to anyone under age 19 caught with booze.

Shaffer said the special patrol was prompted by rumors that beer bust tickets were on sale for $5 apiece at the city's two public high schools.

He has complained to the Public Works Board that a dairy cooperative is pouring so much milk and cream into the system that, as it thickens, it clogs his waste treatment equipment.

Glady's Blum, spokesman for the Green County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, said the group's co-op collects milk daily from about 400 farms for butter fats tests, then pours it down the drain.

Officials are seeking ways of mixing more water to thin the goo.

Syrian diplomat readies for trip to work for release of hostages

Syrian diplomat Adib Daoudy left Damascus today for a meeting in Geneva with U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim before flying to Iran to begin the latest U.N. effort to win the freedom of the 53 American hostages now in their 201st day in captivity.

Waldheim named Daoudy last weekend as his envoy in efforts to negotiate a settlement of the crisis.

But Iran insists Daoudy's mission "is completely separate" from the hostage issue. An Iranian spokesman said Monday that the Syrian's mission to Iran was limited to considering "the shah's and American crimes" in Iran.

Daoudy was a member of the five-man U.N. commission that visited Iran in March to look into Iranian grievances against the United States and deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The effort collapsed when Iranian authorities refused to let the commission talk with the captive Americans.

Meanwhile, Iran has won support from Islamic foreign ministers who unanimously condemned the aborted U.S. rescue effort last month.

A resolution adopted by the 39 Moslem foreign ministers, meeting in Islamabad, Pakistan, said the U.S. rescue effort represented "armed aggression" against Iran. The conference also deplored the imposition of economic sanctions against Iran by any country, a slap at the Western European nations that have decided to sanction Iran over the hostage crisis.

However, the ministers called on Iran "to work toward a solution of the question of the hostages in the spirit of Islam."

In Washington, the Carter administration marked the 200th day of captivity for the hostages with new criticism of Iran's revolutionary regime.

"Every day is one day too long," said State Department spokesman Hodding Carter. "It's an additional day in which Iran continues to violate international law and the basic precepts of both human rights and diplomatic behavior."

Iran ignored the U.S. criticism. In other developments: — Two helicopters from Afghanistan carried out a rocket and machine gun attack on a number of rural homes in northeastern Iran, the official Chinese Xinhua news agency reported from Tehran.

CETA leader returns for questioning

HOUSTON (AP) — A. Miguel Romo, deputy director of Houston's CETA program, says he'll return to Saginaw, Mich. to answer questions his former employers have about how he handled funds as director of a federally-funded program there.

Romo was director of SER-Jobs for Progress, a hispanic manpower training and placement program, before moving to Houston last July.

SER, (Service, Employment and Redevelopment) conducted an audit that showed about $10,000 in SER funds had been deposited in two separate private agency accounts and were either misappropriated or questionably spent.

"The monies are missing and we can't account for them," said Thomas Zuniga, chairman of SER's board of directors. "When he (Romo) left for Houston, we got hit with all these bills we couldn't pay."

Libyan accused of attempted murder in Rome

ROME (AP) — A 25-year-old Libyan accused of attempted murder in Rome was quoted today by police as saying he was "sent by the Libyan people to kill opponents" of Libya's radical government, which is believed behind a string of eight murders of Libyan dissidents in Europe in the past two months.

Police said Mansur Mezaroni Belgazem was picked up outside a Rome restaurant Wednesday night minutes after a gunman fired three pistol shots at the Libyan-born proprietor, Salem Mohamed Fezzani, a naturalized Italian who has lived in Rome since 1959.

The 45-year-old Fezzani escaped injury by diving to the floor as the shots rang out. Police said they were looking for a second man seen fleeing the restaurant with Belgazem.

The attempt came as gunmen murdered two more of Libyan strongman Moammar Khadafy's exile foes in Europe.

Police in Athens found the body of Abu Bakr Abdel-Rahman on Wednesday.

Authorities said the 23-year-old furniture factory worker from Tripoli had been virtually decapitated with a large knife 24 to 48 hours before his body was discovered.

Neighbors said Abdel-Rahman was a known critic of Khadafy. But Athens police said they had information he was an officer of the Libyan police. They refused to elaborate.

The hit men struck Tuesday night in Rome, killing the Libyan-born owner of a lumber trading company who recently took out Tunisian citizenship.

Investigators found the body of Mohamed Fouad Buhjar, 55, under his bed in a rooming house in downtown Rome. He had been strangled with a nylon cord and then stabbed repeatedly in the chest and stomach, police said.

A note attached to the cord was signed "Libyan Revolutionary Committees in Rome" and warned that "the enemies of the people will be reached wherever they are," authorities said.

Three other Libyan exiles have been murdered in Rome, two in London and one in Bonn since March 21. Last week a group of Libyan exiles in Egypt appealed to Italian President Sandro Pertini to protect Libyans living in Italy, the former colonial power in Libya.

The mercurial Khadafy, autocratic head of the oil-rich North African nation's radical regime, has been quoted as saying Libyans living abroad must return home or face "physical liquidation." But in an interview last Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program, he denied ordering the wave of murders and said he wants the exiles to come home so he can "protect" them from the revolutionary committees, over whom he said he had no control.

Foreigners who traveled or lived in Libya recently said the committees are believed to include members of Khadafy's secret police and were set up to silence a budding anti-Khadafy movement among Libyans living abroad.

Social Security system not broken beyond repair

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of four articles investigating the Social Security Program.)

Washington, D.C. — Remembering that the Social Security Program originally was based on the concept of being an income supplement program (not a retirement program) and was designed as "pay as you go" program, we can easily see that a serious shift in the program's balance has occurred since its inception in the 1930s.

The system itself is not broken beyond repair, but does need some mending. The political question facing the Congress is: At which end of the see-saw do you either add or subtract weight to achieve the necessary balance?

We must first face the political reality that even mentioning the reduction of any benefits in Social Security causes most reelection-minded Congressmen to stop dead in their tracks, even those of us who realize that the program has become overburdened with social welfare-related programs never originally intended. It is not popular to point out to voters that they have a responsibility to provide the major portion of their retirement income, either through other pension and retirement systems, or savings, and that the government can't do it all without increasing taxes.

So, in reality, benefits are likely to increase over the years, particularly since payments are now tied to the rising cost of living.

On the other side, the workforce that is trying desperately to support the program, cannot be expected to continue to carry the full load and continue to bear larger and larger increases in the cost of the program.

Some changes, such as taxing of Social Security payments, which I oppose, are not the answer. Changes in the long-range future of the program should come in incremental stages. I agree with the recent report by the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons when it recommended that: Whenever benefits are reduced or deliberated (and I would place personal emphasis on the latter) or the rules governing eligibility or benefit computation are changed in any manner, lengthy transition periods must be provided to protect the reasonable benefit expectations of people."

If the program is on an unbalanced see-saw, we must not ignore that inflation is the crucial fulcrum — or balancing point — in the center.

Until inflation, with its ramifications on either end of the Social Security see-saw, is brought under control, neither the worker nor the beneficiary is going to be positively affected.

At that time, change, in whatever legislative form advisable, can be gradually phased in to restore balance to a system that is vital to our ever-increasing elderly population and other deserving disabled and survivor beneficiaries.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Can Charlie stay for lunch?"

"That depends. Which one is Charlie?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Despite some tension from plans you had expected to work out well but didn't, you still have unexpected opportunities coming your way. Keep poised at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An associate could come up with a fine idea that makes your job easier, so carry on and give it your full support.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take extra time to concentrate on what you wish to accomplish in the days ahead and start action without delay.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Engage in outside business affairs that may prove lucrative for you. Go after personal aims that are important.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Go to a higher-up who can give the support you need at this time. Be sure to be more diplomatic with others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Following the suggestions of kin is wise now. The evening is fine for the social side of life. Think and act constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact those who can be of assistance to you in some way and improve your financial situation. Strive for increased happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good time to make long-range plans that could give you added income in the future. Sidestep an opponent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Seek the company of friends who have talent and are not too introverted and you gain benefits. Use tact with everyone.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't waste time with persons who like to waste your time. Use new method for advancing in your career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Analyze well any new outlets you are interested in and make definite plans for the future at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find a better system for handling your obligations in the future. Establish more harmony with family members.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A fine time for communicating with outsiders and getting excellent results. Obtain advice from financial expert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a razor-sharp mind, so be sure to give the best education you can afford, and a very fine future is assured. One who could get bogged down by details if not careful. Religious training and sports are important.

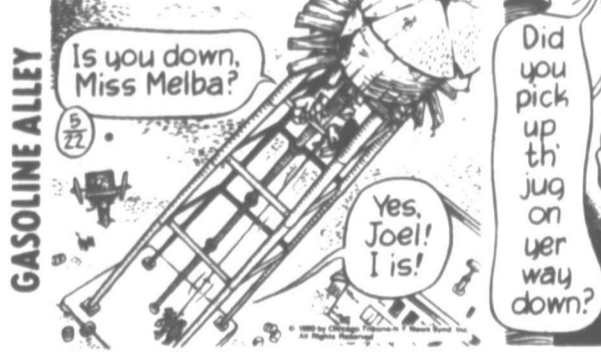

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Legacy of pain in riot-torn Miami

'Do they think this is justice?'

MIAMI (AP) — Shanreka Perry was playing in front of her house when a car, careening out of control with a shattered windshield, smashed into her. Barely alive when she reached the emergency room, the 11-year-old black girl pulled through. But her left leg and hip were amputated.

Andy Vasquez, a 25-year-old medical student, was struck by a bullet and paralyzed — probably for life — from the neck down. Bertha Roger, doused with gasoline and set afire, will need years of therapy to regain use of her charred arms.

Black, white and Latin, these are victims of the rage that swept Miami last weekend after four white former policemen were acquitted in the beating death of a black man.

Fifteen people were killed and nearly 400 injured in the frenzied wave of violence, fires and looting.

When Miss Perry reached Jackson Memorial Hospital last Saturday night, her eyes were dilated and she seemed near death. Emergency room nurses went to work and "brought her back from the dead," said neurosurgeon Barth Green.

In another room at the same hospital, Jeffrey Kulp was still unconscious Wednesday. He was a white passenger in the car that hit Miss Perry. After the accident, Kulp was pulled out of the car, beaten on the head, shot in the back and had his ear cut off.

Vasquez, a student at Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn., was visiting relatives here when he was caught in the violence. A bullet smashed through his car door, hitting the base of his neck and crushing his spinal cord.

When he learned he would be a paraplegic, his only question was whether he could return to medical school.

"You can," Green said. "But it'll be tough."

Vasquez' aunt said, "God willing, in a year he'll be walking."

Mrs. Roger, a 53-year-old restaurant cleaning worker, was driving home from her brother's house Saturday night. Two cars parked across Northwest 22nd Avenue blocked her way. A brick shattered the car window and gashed her head. Rioters sloshed gasoline into the back seat and ignited it.

As she jumped out, her blouse burning, she was beaten with sticks and rocks.

A young black woman and her boyfriend emerged from the crowd, pulled her to safety and persuaded a neighbor to drive her to the hospital. Mrs. Roger hid under blankets in the car's back seat.

She probably will lose 15 percent of her skin, Dr. Joseph Colletta said.

Skin grafting will begin in two weeks, and she may be out of the hospital in a month. But "she'll need several years of rehabilitation," to regain use of her arms, he said.

Mrs. Roger's boss at Tuttle's Restaurant says she can have her job back even if her recovery takes three years.

Her daughter-in-law, Ileana Roger, who bears a 4-inch cut on her jaw from a rioter's rock, is bitter.

EX-Big Springer to graduate from Boys Ranch High School

Cody Dwayne Carroll, a former resident of Big Spring who has been making his home at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch at Amarillo, will graduate from the Boys Ranch High School May 26. Thirty-eight seniors will be receiving their diplomas during the commencement exercises on that date.

In the four years Cody has lived at Boys Ranch, he has been an active member of the Boys Ranch family; participating in choir and drama and holding membership in the Bible Memory Association, Thespians, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America and the Rodeo Club.

Cody has maintained status on the A and B Honor Roll and was a member of the one-act play contest and has been published in Who's Who in American High Schools. After graduation, Cody plans to attend Texas Technological University in the fall.

Now in its forty-first year, the Ranch has been providing a home, education and training for more than 3,000 homeless, troubled boys from every state of the nation. At the present time, there are nearly 400 boys between the ages of four and 18.

A baccalaureate service for the graduates will be held Sunday, May 25, in the Boys Ranch Chapel.

TABS test results will be made public at trustees meet June 12

In March, 1980, the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills tests were administered to all regular program students in the fifth and ninth grades in the Big Spring schools. Results have been received, and those reflecting district-wide achievement in math, reading, and writing will be made public at the June 12 board meeting, as required by law.

Individual student test results are also available. These may be obtained by contacting the principal or counselor of the school in which the student is enrolled. A printed report of the test results will be given on an individual basis and will not be distributed to groups of students in the classrooms.

It works!

Since 1974, the year the 55MPH speed limit began, it's been the single biggest factor in reducing highway deaths... by more than 36,000. And don't forget 55 saves gas.
