Consumer prices rise moderately

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose 0.9 percent in April, the smallest monthly rise in more than a year, as the costs of goods and services moderated across the board, the government reported today.

The increase in the Consumer Price Index last month was a marked improvement from the 1.4 percent increase registered in each of the first three months this year.

If prices continue to rise for the next 11 months at the same rate they did in April, the year will end with an inflation rate of about 11 percent, compared with 13 percent last year.

Prices had been going up at a compounded annual rate of 18 percent in the preceding three months of 1980.

The Labor Department report credited "smaller price increases for energy items, particularly gasoline" and less rise in the cost of food, clothing and home financing rates.

"About half the slowdown can be directly attributed to gasoline prices, which were unchanged in April following a nearly 4 percent increase in March," said Patrick Jackman, a Labor Department economist.

"With interest rates continuing to come down and food stable for at least another month, I'd expect next month's inflation rate to be the best we'll see in a while," he added.

In another report, the Labor Department said the inflation-adjusted average weekly earnings of Americans fell 1.2 percent from March to April. The decline came as inflation outpaced a 0.3 percent decrease in hours worked and no change in hourly earnings.

Spensible earnings — what a married worker with three dependents would have left to spend after federal income tax and Social Security deductions — also dropped 1.2 percent from March to a level 6.7 percent below April 1979.

The April increase matched the 0.9 percent rise in January 1979 and was the smallest since a 0.6 percent increase in December 1978.

The report gave these breakdowns: — Food prices went up 0.5 percent last month, compared with a 1 percent increase in March.

— Housing costs rose 1.3 percent in April, compared with 1.6 percent in the preceding month. "Mortgage interest rates rose less than in March, but house prices rose more," the report said. It added that home heating oil prices went up 0.5 percent, "the smallest increase since the summer of 1978."

— Clothing costs advanced 0.3 percent in April after rising 2 percent in March, when many women's clothing prices were boosted.

— Transportation prices went up 0.6 percent last month, compared with 1.7 percent in March and 2.8 percent in February, as gasoline prices held steady and used-car prices fell. It was the smallest increase in almost two years for transportation items, the report said.

Treasury Secretary G. William Miller told The Associated Press in an interview earlier this week that he was confident double-digit inflation would be tamed by year's end.

Miller said he believed Federal Reserve Board action in March to restrict the growth in business and consumer credit had "remarkably corrected inflation psychology" that prompted Americans to buy now to avoid future price increases.

A similar forecast has come from Data Resources Inc. of Lexington, Mass. The nation's largest forecasting company predicts prices will rise at an annual rate of 8.5 percent in the final quarter this year.

The onset of recession may be one reason for the slowdown.

Texas movie expert says

Former Webb AFB buildings good bait for future filmings

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

Executive Director of the State Film Commission told the Big Spring Steering Committee Thursday future filmings could take place in this city if the city maintains the former Webb Air Force Base in its present state.

"Fewer and fewer installations of this sort are in existence," said Mrs. Pat Wolf, the five-year head of the governor's bureau which promotes the state as a location for movie productions.

She added, "I can't help believe that this is an attractive selling point for this area."

Mrs. Wolf said World War II movie productions have remained consistent in their demand for facilities. She advised the steering committee to maintain the runway, the main gate, barracks and officers' quarters.

"I think it is important they remain in their present state," Mrs. Wolf added.

PAT WOLF
She also asked the steering committee to send the film commission photographs of Big Spring and the surrounding area. "If you could document the areas on the base of World War II vintage photographically, I could promote this area a lot," Mrs. Wolf said.

The film commission executive said movies pump a substantial amount of money into the state and into the particular filming locale. So far this year, movie companies have committed over $76 million to Texas for filming.

She added that even if a movie production uses its own technicians and laborers, about one-third of the movie budget goes into the local economy.

Mrs. Wolf also mentioned that Schick Sunn was extremely pleased with its filming of "Hangar 18" in Big Spring.

"They expressed an interest in future filming for their company," Mrs. Wolf said, adding that the Utah-based filming company has told others in the industry about Big Spring.

"They have done more for us than any full-page ad could do," Mrs. Wolf said.

In other action, the steering committee approved leasing to J & K Industries the east end of building 609. The west end of Building 609 is occupied by DeWeese Auto Repair.

The rent decided upon by the steering committee will be $250 a month.

The committee approved leasing to Special Education Co-op building 26. The education co-op consists of the Coahoma, Forsan, Glasscock County and Stanton school districts. The building is to be used for office space and classroom instruction.

The committee set the rent at $476 a month.

The committee also approved leasing the Runway Inn to Lamar Green. Green is planning on setting up a restaurant in the building.

The committee set the rent at $200 a month and five percent of Green's monthly gross income above $10,000.

Shaw will be principal speaker at Youth Achievement Banquet

Larry Don Shaw, state representative-elect, will be the principal speaker at the annual Zale's-Herald Youth Achievement Banquet scheduled to get under way at 6 p.m., Saturday in the Big Spring Country Club.

Sixteen youths from four area high schools are eligible to attend the banquet, having been selected from the dozens of nominations submitted by school officials, parents and friends. A neutral committee picked the finalists on the basis of scholastic achievement, leadership and community contributions.

The student selected as the grand prize winner will be awarded a watch by Zale's Jewelers. All students attending the banquet will receive for some kind of award from Zale's.

Oliver Cofer, advertising director of the Herald, will serve as master of ceremonies. Also representing the Herald will be publisher Tom Watson.

Superintendents and high school principals of Big Spring, Sands, Coahoma and Forsan high schools will be special guests at the banquet, as will the mayor of each community. Because of a conflict in schedule, Forsan High School likely will not send its student representation to the banquet. The senior class at Forsan is on its annual spring trip.

Rick Miller, new manager of Zale's Big Spring store, will be in attendance. Other Zale officials expected are Naman Lipinsky of Lubbock, area vice president, and Jim Anderson, Odessa, district manager. Students in competition for the grand prize who are eligible to attend the banquet are:

BIG SPRING — Mary Kathleen Griffin, 1805 Kiowa; Cindy Knight, 529 Scott; Carrie Little, 6 Highland Cove; and Victor Mellinger, 1100 Thorp.

COAHOMA — Timothy Joe Ballard, Rte. 1, Box 106; Rhonda Griffin, Box 164, Coahoma; Kerri Jo Reed, Rte. 1, Box 306; and Gregory Bob Wright, Rte. 1, Box 297-A.

FORSAN — Valerie Adams, Sterling City Rte., Box 123; Kelli Kendrick, Garden City Rte., Box 135; Charles Edward Parker, Box 27C, Sterling City Rte.; and Cheryl Welander, Sterling City Rte., Box 8.

SANDS — Lesli Guitier, Rte. 1, Box 64, Knott; David Hall, Box 236, Ackerly; Michael David Long, Ret. 1, Box 6, Knott; and Danny Paul Peugh, Box 42, Star Rte., Stanton.

Dawson County tops in cotton production

LAMESA — Dawson County produced more ginned cotton than any other county in Texas the past season. A report circulated by the Texas Cotton Association, dated May 9, reveals that 255,523 bales have been processed in the county. Less than 93,000 bales were ginned within the county a year ago.

In cotton actually produced on Dawson land, the county ranked second to Lynn County. Lynn grew a total of 222,257 bales, Dawson farms grew 222,184 bales.

In ginning, Lynn finished immediately behind Dawson with 247,922 bales.

Lubbock County ranked third in ginning with 245,519 bales while Gaines County was fourth with 213,780 bales.

Completing the list of top ten ginning counties are:

Crosby, 193,681; Terry, 187,787; Martin, 178,646; Haskell, 149,692; Willacy, 149,645; and Hidalgo, 144,604.

Dawson's crop came off 286,892.2 harvested acres. A total of 307,419.2 acres had been planted in the county.

Texas production was up dramatically over last year, jumping from 3,650,763 to 5,301,902 bales.

WATCH OUT FOR THAT FIRST STEP — Local police spotted this car dangling over the concrete embankment across from the Sonic Drive-In at 1200 S. Gregg, but figured that there wasn't much they could do about it. It looks as if the car rolled after being parked. Or maybe the driver just decided to take a shortcut.

Weekend considered critical in Miami's fight for peace

MIAMI (AP) — Although most of the national Guardsmen have pulled out and there were only a few minor incidents during the night, police in riot-scarred Miami say the weekend will be "a very critical point in time."

Meanwhile, Michael Watts, whose acquittal with three other white former policemen in the death of a black man touched off the rioting, was in critical condition today after an apparent suicide attempt.

According to police, Watts had said he was contemplating suicide because of trouble with a girlfriend, not the Arthur McDuffie case.

Some 2,000 National Guardsmen went home Thursday, but 1,000 others remain on standby as police warned of rumors that racial violence may flare anew this weekend.

"I would have to place some credence in the kind of information we are getting," Dade County Sheriff Bobby Jones said. "It's a very critical point in time."

In three days of rioting after the acquittal Saturday, 15 persons died and fires and looting caused $100 million in damage.

Touring the rubble-strewn streets of the city's black northwest section late Thursday, Gov. Bob Graham said, "You can feel the violence this community has been subjected to. You feel a sense of the frustration and rage that led to this and the morning after sadness."

The owners of property damaged by arsonists, vandals and looters will be eligible for low-interest rebuilding loans since the Small Business Administration issued a disaster declaration on Thursday.

And Labor Secretary Wally Orr said the state has asked for $15.6 million in federal aid to be used in part to put 10,000 youths to work this summer.

The governor told city and county officials, seeking still more help, he has had a "strong commitment of support" from President Carter, who was to visit next week.

"I wouldn't think the President would come without being prepared to make some substantial announcement of federal assistance," he said.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: HH budget

Q. The money problems of the Halfway House has been very much in the news lately. What kind of a budget does it operate under, anyway?

A. Average costs per month run to $8,891. Directors say the rehabilitation facility will be self-sustaining if it can just pay off its old debts, all dating beyond 1978. Salary paid working personnel total $48,108 annually. In addition to the executive director, those on the payroll include a cook, assistant cook, resident manager, counselor-clerk, a maintenance and transportation person, an assistant resident manager and a dishwasher.

Tops on TV: 'Reward' thriller

ABC will present two premiere movies back-to-back on the small screen tonight. At 7 o'clock, you can catch "The Long Days of Summer." Starring Dean Jones and Joan Hackett, the story deals with a Jewish family living in Connecticut in 1938 which becomes involved in the racial tensions of the era. At 8:30 p.m., Michael Parks and Richard Jaeckel star in "Reward." It deals with a cop who quits the force to solve his partner's murder. NBC's "The Greatest," airing at 8 o'clock, reportedly has little to offer, but Muhammad Ali fans will probably find it hard to resist anyway.

Halfway House Fund reaches $13,000 goal

The decision of Mike Barry, an employee of the Halfway House, to share equally a $1,000 gift from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Barry of San Angelo, with the rehabilitation facility served to put the Halfway House Campaign over the top.

A total of $13,769.88 has now been raised in the drive, which started a little more than two weeks ago. A total of $13,581.91 was needed to erase all the old debts of the Halfway House.

Had the campaign failed, the Halfway House would have had close and the directors would have entered a plea of bankruptcy on behalf of the agency.

The campaign again benefitted from strong support during the 24 hour period ending at noon today. Including the Barry gift, a total of $960 was forwarded to the Herald, which is coordinating the drive along with the directors. An anonymous giver sent in a $200 check.

Mrs. Jean Hughes Wood not only contributed $100 but gave the Halfway House two bed sheets as well, after reading of an appeal initiated by the facility for linens.

Rescue mission finds only bodies after devastating volcano eruption

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — A dog rescued from the desolation near Mount St. Helens was the only sign of life as helicopter crews flew dawn-to-dusk missions, seeking survivors of the volcano's devastating eruption but finding only bodies.

Late Thursday, U.S. Forest Service spokesman Terry Virgin said the death toll from Sunday's blast stood at 17, with possible sightings of 15 other bodies. Ben Bena, a Cowlitz County sheriff's deputy, said all 17 known dead had been recovered.

The Forest Service also placed the list of missing at 71, a figure reached after consulting with other law enforcement agencies. Authorities said some persons may have been vaporized by the explosion, which U.S. Geological Survey scientists say may have been equal in power to the largest hydrogen bomb ever detonated on earth.

Virgin said a dog was found near the bodies of two victims and brought to safety Thursday, but he had no details on its location. He would not speculate on whether the animal's discovery could mean a chance of other survivors near the volcano.

Helicopter crews were airborne despite foul weather, ferrying bodies to a temporary morgue being set up at the Toledo airport.

Damage estimates from the blast, meanwhile, soared past half a billion dollars, and President Carter was visibly shaken Thursday after touring the southwest Washington region he earlier declared a major disaster area.

Robert Stevens of the Federal Emergency Management Agency said a disaster relief center would be established today in nearby Kelso. He said the government was prepared to offer low interest loans, grants, unemployment compensation and housing assistance for up to one year for people displaced by the blast, which leveled thousands of acres of pristine forest and sent mud and debris racing down rivers.

The volcano ejected only steam from its gaping crater Thursday but shot its white displays up to 20,000 feet at least once. Seismic noise — which some geologists say could mean the movement of molten rock deep within the peak — was recorded in the afternoon.

Tim Hait, a USGS geologist, called the Sunday blast "a 10,000-year event. The odds of having another

Ackerly couple free on $1,000 bonds each

David and Carrie Harvelle, Ackerly, are free on $1,000 bond each. David was arrested on a felony check warrant. Carrie was arrested on a misdemeanor check warrant.

A complaint filed against David Harvelle Thursday by Jerry Grimes, Pollard Chevrolet business manager, alleges that Harvelle wrote a $799.54 check to Pollard Chevrolet March 13 without sufficient funds in the bank to cover the check.

Both are named in a suit filed Thursday in 118th District Court alleging their debt of $1,992 to W.J. Sheppard Real Estate and $867.79 for repairs.

The Harvelles allegedly rented 621 Cayler from the company Nov. 27, 1978.

Bailey posts bond by mail

Bond for Gerald M. Bailey, charged with felony theft, was received in the mail Thursday in the amount of $10,000 at the Howard County Sheriff's Office.

Bailey, Hondo, was arrested in Hondo May 16 where he was released on bond set by a justice of the peace there.

In addition, Howard County deputy sheriff, Paul Silva has civil papers to serve one Mr. both of them and Department of Public Safety Trooper Bill Jennings has warrants for them.

Bond was set at $1,000 each by Martin County Judge Jimmy Mathis. They were released from Stanton jail on bond. Harvelles are expected to appear at the sheriff's office here today.

Returns not worth effort

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Restaurant and hotel owners along this state's Gulf Coast have withdrawn their backing of the Miss USA Pageant, saying economic returns have not equaled the effort of staging the beauty contest here the past two years.

The move came as the Miss USA Pageant Coast Committee discussed Thursday whether to offer to host the pageant for another five years.

Businesses had backed the nationally televised contest as a way of attracting tourists. But some restaurant owners say they're not making up for the cost of providing free food and inkeepers say the pageant creates occupancy problems during the peak tourist season.

Judge orders new trial

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A New Jersey appeals court has ordered a new trial on a woman's charges that she was so frightened by an explosion near her home that all her hair and body hair fell out.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court overturned a judge's dismissal of the suit, ruling Thursday that doctors said Colleen Dolan's hair loss could have been caused by a 1974 explosion at Atlantic Chemical Corp.

The company's lawyers had contended the loss of hair was an "extraordinary occurrence not reasonably to be expected of a normal person."

'Largest' jury list made

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Authorities here are getting ready to call up 1,000 people for jury selection in the murder trials of six men charged in the November deaths of five anti-Klan demonstrators.

The jury list, ordered this week by Superior Court Judge James M. Long for what he said could be a long process, was believed to be the largest ever in Guilford County and one of the largest in the state's history, say court officials.

Each of the six men is charged with five counts of first degree murder and rioting. Five other men also charged with murder and rioting will be tried later.

Civil right suit filed

DETROIT (AP) — A native of Morocco has filed a $1.6 million civil right suit against the state Department of Corrections, contending Southern Michigan Prison officials allowed him to be subjected to ethnic slurs when he worked there.

Mohamed Mahi, who filed suit Thursday in U.S. District Court, also contended officials did not give him a proper hearing on complaints against him by other employees. Last month, Mahi's charges of expense account cheating among some colleagues in the prison transportation department were supported by a state auditor's investigation.

Prison Warden Charles E. Anderson had no comment on the suit.

City officials contemplate plan to redeploy policemen

City officials are considering a plan to put more police where the action is, said City Manager Don Davis, this morning.

"We are contemplating changing shifts within the police department to better align the officers with the heaviest activity," said Davis. "We will redeploy people according to the days of the week and the hours of the day when the activity is heaviest," he added.

According to Sherrill Farmer, captain of patrol, this may be done by creating a fourth shift at the department to beef up manpower during heavy activity.

"Right now we have three shifts, a swing shift and three traffic people. The traffic division might be melted into the swing shift to create four equal shifts," said Farmer.

The fourth shift would then be scheduled so that its time of operation would overlap with that of another shift during peak activity periods.

"We are really looking at the whole department. We might make some scheduling changes in the detective division, too," said Davis.

What is the main reason for the changes?

"If I had to cite one reason for the change, I guess it would be the rash of vandalism we have been having lately," said Davis.

Elisa Aguirre, Stanton, and Elbert Strickland, Forsan, collided.

Lewis, Ms. Aguirre and 14-year-old Norma Aguirre were taken to Malone-Hogan.

Six other mishaps were reported Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Temple Foster, Midland, and Lloyd F. Davidson, I-20 Trailer Park, collided at Fourth and Johnson. After the collision, Davidson's vehicle struck a vehicle belonging to Earl D. Archer, P.O. Box 2376, forcing it into the Ted Phillips Building at 1306 Rannels.

Plane stolen in C-City

COLORADO CITY — A Cessna 206 airplane, valued at $62,000 and owned by Jake Awtry of the Cuthbert community, was stolen from the Colorado City airstrip last weekend and recovered later in Ozona. The aircraft had been abandoned.

The back seats of the six-passenger plane had been removed and a residue of marijuana was found in the craft.

Vega is moved to county jail

Jesse Angel Vega, 1502 A Virginia, was transferred to county jail Thursday where he was released on $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Vega has been charged with arson in connection with a Tuesday fire in a condemned house.

Reagan virtual king of GOP hill; Bush cancels weekend appearances left in the primary season. He was expected to announce a decision next week, as early as Sunday, on whether he was quitting the race.

Reagan had no comment Thursday on Bush's likely withdrawal, and a Reagan spokesman, Joe Holmes, said the campaign was being cautious about interpreting the underdog's moves as a sign he was quitting.

Carter, used to attacks from Republicans and from party rival Edward M. Kennedy, found himself being criticized Thursday by fellow Democrat Henry M. Jackson.

The senator from Washington, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972 and 1976, told a party dinner in Chicago that the Democrats are in trouble under Carter.

"Many Americans in this election year would like to vote for none of the above," he said in apparent reference to Carter and Reagan as the likely candidates in the general election.

"We would be kidding ourselves if we failed to recognize among the voters a distinct lack of enthusiasm for the choices they are likely to face in November," he said.

Although he said his criticisms were "not directed personally" at Carter, Jackson omitted Carter's name from a list of Democratic presidents he said had "made America work."

"When large numbers of working people believe that a Democratic administration has reverted to the economic policies of Herbert Hoover, we are in trouble," Jackson said.

"When Democrats are accused of trying to fight inflation by throwing people out of work — the very thing we accused Richard Nixon of doing — we are in trouble."

Jackson, a former Democratic national chairman, has been neutral in the battle between Carter and Kennedy. He has been mentioned as a possible compromise candidate, but Rick Cocker, his press secretary, said he "has not encouraged anyone to do anything on his behalf."

Carter spokesmen said Thursday night that they had no immediate comment on Jackson's blast.

Kennedy also kept up his barrage against the president on Thursday. Speaking at the Martin

State museum commission may be axed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Sunset Advisory Commission tentatively has voted to kill a state museum commission that didn't want to live anyway.

On another issue, Sen. A.R. Schwartz of the Sunset Commission indicated he is ready to carry his feud with the real estate lobby to his alma mater — Texas A&M.

The Sunset Commission accepted a staff proposal Thursday to abolish the Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz Memorial Naval Museum Commission and to transfer its responsibilities to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The vote was 7-0.

A staff report said the Parks Division "has a range of experiences in administering and developing historical sites and museums," including Dwight Eisenhower's birthplace and the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park.

It said the Nimitz commission had adopted a resolution recommending that it be abolished and administration of the museum be transferred to Parks and Wildlife.

The Nimitz commission of nine members was created in 1969 to commemorate the memory of Nimitz, a World War II naval leader from Texas, and the "era of supreme U.S. naval power."

The Nimitz museum is at Fredericksburg, and attendance has grown from 10,000 a year to more than 55,000.

Schwartz, D-Galveston, questioned whether the Texas Real Estate Research Center at A&M has done "anything constructive."

He instructed the Sunset staff to find out who purportedly requested reports from the center "critical" of the Deceptive Trade Practices Act and a property tax reform bill before the Legislature.

"Given the opportunity to destroy a public interest versus a private interest, I'm sure they would destroy the public interest," Schwartz said of the real estate lobby.

In other action, the Sunset Advisory Commission — which reviews the usefulness of state agencies — tentatively voted:

— 7-1 to extend the life of the Veterans Affairs Commission, with the addition of one more member to the current five-member commission. It stated two of the six members should be from the general public.

"Could we at least provide they not be conscientious objectors," said Schwartz, who wanted to keep an all-veterans commission.

— 7-0 to continue the State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers.

GOD FORGIVES. Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Customers urged to return 'Winnie-the-Pooh' lights

Sears, Roebuck and Co. today appealed to consumers to return some 46,000 "Winnie-the-Pooh" plastic nightlights that could cause a shock to children. No injuries have been reported.

Sears said some of the lights were manufactured with insufficient glue, permitting the front cover to detach from the light assembly and exposing the internal electrical wiring.

The nightlights were sold for approximately $1.50 in Sears retail stores from 1977 until earlier this year. They feature a picture of Winnie-the-Pooh on the square plastic cover.

Other retailers sold about 9,000 of the lights with different cartoon and nursery rhyme characters depicted on the white plastic cover. The cover can be rotated so the picture can be turned to an upright position regardless of how the light is plugged into an electrical outlet.

This is the third public announcement regarding the nightlight recall within 30 days. The Consumer Product Safety Commission made the first announcement on April 17, and Sears mailed the release to news media throughout the nation at the same time.

The nightlights are being recalled by their importer, Danara International of South Hackensack, New Jersey.

The recalled nightlights bear the following inscription embossed on the orange plastic backing: "Danara International Ltd., 115 volts, 1/4 watt."

Consumers should return Winnie-the-Pooh nightlights to their Sears store for a refund. Nightlights purchased elsewhere should be returned to the place of purchase, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

With its stance on white supremacy, South Africa is unique among the nations of the world.

If its apartheid policy offends a lot of people, its healthy economic state is envied the world over.

South Africa maintains a big military striking force, the best in all of Africa and one of the best in all the world. The military isn't the tail that wags the dog in South Africa, however.

Many nations, when they come face to face with a financial crisis, authorize the printing of more money. South Africa's currency, on the other hand, is backed up by gold. The glittering metal is produced in great quantities in the African nation.

SEN. O.P.F. HORWOOD, Minister of Finance in South Africa, recently announced huge tax concessions for private enterprise and individual tax payers — thereby cutting the private sector in on the gold bonanza.

He scrapped a ten percent loan levy on personal and company tax, cut the top individual marginal tax levy, abolished a surcharge on imports and gave relief to Black taxpayers.

The South Africa budget-makers plan to keep total spending in 1980-81 to a rise of 14 percent, a standstill in real terms after inflation is discounted. Some selected areas, like defense and education, will get sizeable increases.

The South Africa budget does nothing to damage the political reputation of the prime minister, P.W. Botha, who pledged last November that the new government would be geared to boosting private enterprise and reining back the public sector.

An economist praised the country's budget, saying "it is conservative in its financing but it redistributes substantial money from the State to private business. That is where the stimulus to growth comes."

Sen. Horwood conservatively estimates the gold mining tax at something over $1 billion, considerably more than his estimate for the 1979 budget.

THE STAGGERING price of gold on the world market, of course, benefits South Africa enormously. The state's tax take from mining operations may soon produce so much revenue that it could afford to abolish personal income tax. (Personal income tax was reduced an average 23 percent across the board this year.)

By cutting personal income tax so sharply, Sen. Horwood hopes to spur spending by the man on the street. Government spending will be financed in full by non-inflationary means — taxes and long-term loans floated on the local capital market.

Gold is providing a foreign exchange bonanza for South Africa never before experienced. For that reason, the nation can afford to expand its economic base without fear of balance of payments problems.

The budget allowed for increases in social pensions, food subsidies, and in capital appropriations for cheap housing.

Texas, with its enormous capabilities for producing energy, was in a situation not unlike South Africa a few years ago but the Legislature, trying to play Santa Claus to groups that yelled the loudest, has just about spent the state into the red again.

When will law makers learn to say "no" when it is best for the citizenry in general?

Not to be pampered

Around the rim

James Werrell

I learned the other day while leafing through a popular men's magazine that fashion designer Ralph Lauren's real name is Ralph Lipschutz.

No offense to the Lipschutzes of the world, but I think Ralph made the right decision with the switch. After all, who would rush out to buy the Lipschutz line of Western Wear.

FURTHERMORE, WHO would want "Lipschutz" emblazoned on the seat of their blue jeans. The name doesn't exactly conjure up images of sagebrush, stagecoaches, and pinto beans simmering over a campfire.

Neither, for that matter, do the names St. Laurent, Gucci, Sassoon or any of the others that adorn the various designer jeans, which, in turn, adorn the nation's more fashionable derrieres.

I was happy, therefore, to see that Stanley Marcus (of Neiman and...) included Levi's, along with old Madeira and the Concorde, on his list of best things. I think both Stanley and I will ride out the fashion-jean craze in our respective pairs of shrink-to-fits.

There is a great deal of comfort and security to be derived from having that little simulated leather patch with the two mules trying to tear a pair of blue jeans in half perched snugly on your hip.

Which makes me wonder what's happening to the concept of plain old blue jeans, anyway. Messrs. Levi and Strauss made the first ones so that California gold miners could get through a hard day of panning without ripping their britches.

As times changed, Levi's evolved into a pair of pants you could get motor oil on, play touch football in, or cut the legs off of without remorse when the weather got hot.

No way could you do all that with a $40 pair of Gucci's. To add insult to injury, I have it on good authority that some people actually send their fashion jeans to the dry cleaners!

THIS GOES against everything I hold sacred about blue jeans. They are made to be abused, not pampered in polyethylene on some dry cleaner's rack.

Back in the good old days, I would try everything short of actually having two mules pull my jeans in half to give them that worn look. Jeans so broken-in that they left you on the verge of accidentally mooning your friends would be treasured and set aside for special occasions.

If a pair of well-faded jeans was needed in a hurry, a cup of bleach could be added to the wash water. The fact that the bleached jeans self-destructed within two days seemed irrelevant at the time.

Guns with girl friends who could sew were privileged to wear jeans covered with patches. The hard part was deciding which jeans you could bear to cut up to make the patches out of. Real dustbowl chic!

My most cherished pair of Levi's became cutoffs last summer. Fortunately, I had another pair that was coming along nicely to take their place.

I also have a brand new pair stuffed into a corner of my closet. Maybe someday, after I've washed the fuzz off a few times, I'll wear them in public.

Rocky start

Joseph Kraft

Almost everybody in Washington likes Ed Muskie. So there has been a sympathetic audience for his debut as secretary of state. Too sympathetic in fact.

For Secretary Muskie is off to a rocky start. He has turned his back on his best shot. He has run after events in ways that are likely to flash bad signals to the Russians, the allies and this country.

Washington represents Muskie's richest opportunity. There has been no serious, comprehensive review of foreign policy since the Nixon-Kissinger critique of early 1969. Not surprisingly public opinion is in fragments. The various components of the executive branch and the Congress are at sixes and sevens on every major policy issue. The country does not know its own mind on Russia, on Iran, on the Persian Gulf, on Israeli-Arab affairs and, perforce, on relations with the allies.

The ideal time for a sorting out of views, to be sure, is not now. Bureaucrats tend to play cagey games at election time. But nothing very good is going to happen anywhere in the world until the U.S. organizes its views.

MUSKIE IS the right man for that job. He has the political clout and the questioning skills to force out relevant comment — not only in the State Department but from all other departments and agencies. He has the orderly mind and analytic penetration required for the formulation of sweeping ideas. So during the coming months he has a chance to take the town, as it were, to develop the intellectual framework for a new set of basic foreign policy choices.

Unfortunately Muskie has allowed his friends in the Congress and State Department to enlist him in their causes. He has given countenance to the idea he should be the battering ram for the Congress in its running battles with the executive branch. He has leaned on State Department officials who have as a principal motivation the settling of scores with the president's national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski. As a result, Muskie found himself hurled into a maelstrom of complex policy battles on his trip to Europe last week.

His trip to be sure had to be made. There was no graceful way for Muskie to avoid a meeting with the allied foreign ministers in Brussels. Nor could he have ducked an encounter with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Austrian State Treaty in Vienna. But as the new boy, he could have used both occasions to put a hold on foreign policy developments pending further immersion.

Instead, Muskie went to Europe trailing clouds of policy statements. He indicated that, while still sore at Moscow about the invasion of Afghanistan, the U.S. aimed to return to normal communications with Russia. He said that he favored an approach to Iran that combined "carrots and sticks." He let it be known he hoped the Europeans would abide by previous pledges they had made to invoke sanctions against Iran. He also expressed concern lest the Europeans go forward with a Middle East "initiative" that might sabotage negotiations the U.S. is fostering between Egypt and Israel.

WHETHER THESE goals are right or wrong, giving them advance public expression conveys an unfortunate message. The Russians are now on notice the U.S. is prepared to return to more cooperative relations.

Age can affect wound healing

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you tell me if the medical profession has ever discovered a way to help older people heal more quickly? I remember my grandfather had a difficult time healing a cut on his hand. Now, I am approaching 70 and have some cuts on my thumbs. They are sore, and buttoning my shirt causes pain. I am thankful we have pushbutton switches on lamps, believe me. My doctor said he couldn't help. I also have cracks on my lips. I wish I could find some vitamin or anything else to speed the healing. Can you suggest anything? — L.L.

The speed of healing depends on several factors — the severity of the wound, its location, its blood supply and whether or not there is infection. These are only a few of many considerations. Age is another one.

As we grow older we cannot expect to heal as fast as we did when we were young. The blood supply is not as good, especially to the extremities (hands, feet etc.) The tissues of the skin tend to lose some of their elasticity and we are not as nutritionally fit as we once were — a very important factor.

This brings me to your vitamins question. Much attention has been given to the role of vitamin C in wound healing. And much has been written about zinc being helpful. I have no compelling evidence that any substance can accelerate wound healing. I do not want to dismiss your complaints as being due to advancing age alone. A trial of vitamin C will not hurt you, but you shouldn't expect miracles. You might also want to try some vitamin B, which may have something to do with lip cracking. If there are signs of infection in your wounds, you should have that attended to.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 45, overweight, with a family background of different types of heart disease. My father had his first heart attack when he was 42. He died at 60. My mother suffered from severe hypertension and died at age 61.

I am an active person, walk a mile a day, bowl, and golf in summer. My blood pressure is 166-98. I am told that is "in the ballpark." Is this normal? I do have ringing in the ears, but have for years. I guess I should be satisfied, but somehow I'm not. Can you comment? — Mrs. D.H.

You list a number of factors considered risks for development of heart disease. Your family history, high blood pressure and obesity are the ones to which I refer. Regarding your blood pressure — the one reading, even though high, does not give much information by itself. Is it still elevated after rest, and is it elevated on several readings?

In any event, you can do yourself a favor by losing weight and watching carefully the amount of salt you take. These two simple measures alone can help bring your pressure down, make you feel better and lessen the risks. You can't do anything about your family history, but you can use your willpower to modify the factors you have something to say about. Please don't smoke. Incidentally, the ear ringing might cause me a bit of concern. That can be a part of a blood pressure problem.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 78 and have progressive loss of hearing. Some time ago I read an article concerning hearing loss caused by a stirrup-shaped bone in the ear that it can be fixed. Can you tell me if there is such an operation and if it is feasible and successful? — H.B.

Yes, there is such a bone, and there is such an operation. To perceive sound, we must be able to transform soundwaves in the air into electrical impulses. Part of this process involves a chain of three small bones in the middle ear — the stapes, the malleus and the incus.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you honestly know any Christians in politics? Frankly, I wonder if it's possible to be a Christian and also be in politics. — G.G.

DEAR G.G.: Yes, I know a number of people who are committed Christians and are involved in politics, not only in America but in other countries as well. In fact, they believe that God's will is for them to have this particular responsibility, and they want to be faithful above all to Him. You might be surprised to discover groups of Christians who are in politics on every level who get together regularly for prayer and Bible study. I have spoken to many of these groups myself, and have been impressed with the commitment of many of the people in them.

I am sure politics has its special pressures which sometimes make it difficult for a Christian. For example, by the nature of his job, a politician is constantly under pressure to grant special favors or make decisions which will help one group of people and be opposed by another group. That kind of situation makes it easy

When soundwaves strike the eardrum, the vibrations created are amplified by these bones to the hearing nerve in the inner ear. They are sent to the brain via that nerve as electrical impulses.

There is an operation to correct trouble with this chain of bones. It is called a "stapedectomy." If the hearing problem lies with these bones, a stapedectomy can provide dramatic improvement. Simple testing can tell you whether this is your problem.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is there any danger in using glasses you can buy in the store without prescription — just for up close reading, etc.? — Mrs. E.E.

Not if they do the job for you. We all are subject to presbyopia as we grow older. Telephone book numbers become harder to read. The non-prescription glasses, of course, would not help for distance vision. Quite simply they act only as magnifiers, not for correction of specific defects. The latter require prescription lenses. However, it is best to have your eyes properly refracted. When used at all, it should be only for such use as you describe.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

for a dishonest man to take advantage of people, but it also stresses the importance of public officials who will be honest and fair. Or, again, a person in politics often has a great deal of power over other people, and this makes pride and self-centered actions very real possibilities.

The Bible contains many examples of outstanding men of God who were leaders in government. Joseph, for example, was given the highest position in Egypt next to the Pharaoh (Genesis 41). Daniel was made prime minister in Babylonia, and we are told that even his enemies "could find no corruption in him, because he was trustworthy and neither corrupt nor negligent" (Daniel 6:4). While many of the kings of the Jewish people were evil, some were good men like Hezekiah who "did what was right in the eyes of the Lord" (2 Kings 18:3).

The Bible commands us to obey those who are in lawful authority, and especially to pray "for kings and all those in authority, that we may live peacefully and quietly in all godliness and holiness" (1 Timothy 2:2).

People's opiate

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — According to Karl Marx, religion is the opium of the people. But in the Soviet showcases of Marxism, the opium of the people, deprived of religious opiates, are turning to the real thing.

As with everything else in the Soviet Union, reliable figures on drug abuse are hard to come by, but the government's official figures are laughable. The Kremlin reported there were 15,000 registered drug users in the entire country in 1978, but intelligence experts estimate that there are perhaps 40,000 junkies in the republic of Georgia alone.

One expert on the Soviet Union told my associate Bob Sherman that heavy drug use is still a relatively minor problem for Soviet police, whose resources are devoted heavily to keeping track of political dissent.

"NEEDLE DRUGS like morphine, usually stolen from a hospital or dry goods store, sell for about 2.5 rubles ($2.75) an ampule and opium for 3 rubles ($3.30) per ampule," the analyst said. "There is little cocaine available, although some is produced in Soviet Georgia."

The chaos that has engulfed Southeast Asia and the Middle East has affected the drug traffic within the Soviet Union just as in the Western world. Afghanistan, Iran and Pakistan have replaced the Indonesian "Golden Triangle" as the major source of smuggled heroin. Both production and traffic have spread north into the Soviets' Central Asian republics, according to intelligence sources.

Marx had no slick aphorism for alcohol, but its consumption has given the Soviet Union a national hangover. From a pre-Revolution per capita consumption of 7.75 liters of vodka in 1913, the 1968 figures show that 9.1 liters of vodka were drunk for every man, woman and child in the Soviet Union. By 1972, the per capita consumption had risen to 10.8 liters — and that's not counting all the illegally produced spirits.

The effect of alcohol consumption on Soviet society is hard to estimate; its effect on the economy is equally staggering. Western analysts reckon that 27 percent of the money Soviet citizens spend on food and drink goes for hard liquor, which accounts for 15 percent of all purchases of any kind.

THE KREMLIN is on the horns of a dilemma when it comes to booze. Ideologically, the Soviet government disapproves of liquor consumption, a need for which belies the supposed idyll of life in a communist paradise. It conducts endless, heavy-handed propaganda campaigns against the Demon Vodka.

But as a practical matter, the government liquor monopoly makes a hefty profit on its citizens' hopes of finding surcease from Soviet reality at the bottom of a vodka bottle. In fact, Western experts believe the Soviet budget would shrink by 11 percent if the government liquor industry were ever shut down. CARTER COMES THROUGH: On the morning of April 24, just as six C-130 cargo planes were taking off from bases in Egypt on the ill-fated rescue mission to Iran, Jimmy Carter was conducting a domestic rescue mission of his own in the west wing of the White House.

In this case, it was the Federal Trade Commission that was being held hostage — by special-interest groups and their spokesmen in Congress. Unless the consumer watchdog agency had its regulatory teeth pulled, Congress was ready to kill it.

Part of the FTC's problem all along had been the belief on Capitol Hill that Carter would accept any evasiveness of the agency that Congress chose to decree. But at the April 24 meeting with Senate-House conferees on the crippling FTC proposals, Carter presented a "bottom line" beyond which he would not go. If his demands were not accepted by the conferees, he warned, he would veto the FTC legislation.

In particular, Carter threatened a veto if Congress included a provision that would stop the FTC from pursuing investigations it had already started, such as those affecting children's TV advertising, funeral homes, agricultural cooperatives and industrywide standard-setting groups.

The "bottom line" strategy worked. The conferees kept all of Carter's demands in their final version.

TV TO-DO: Saudi Arabia's protests over the TV show "Death of a Princess" caused a minor backstage flap between two Republican senators, Charles Percy of Illinois and Jacob Javits of New York.

Before the film was shown on public television, Percy went straight to President Carter with his objections to airing the film — and implied that Javits shared his opinion. Javits, whose Jewish constituents might wonder at his concern for Arab sensitivities, told my staff Percy hadn't had his permission to use his name in lobbying against the broadcast.

TV WATCH: If the Carter White House sometimes seems like a soap opera or a situation comedy, the reason may lie in overexposure to source material. At last count there were some 65 television sets scattered around executive mansion offices. Most are assigned to the higher-ups, but some relative peons also get TVs in their rooms because, a White House official explained, "they need a TV set to do their jobs." Think about that one for a minute.

XEROX GORED: In the manuscript of "Man, Woman and Child" his latest novel, Erich Segal had a character offering to "Xerox" some pages. But when the book came out, the line had been changed to "make Xeroxes of" the pages. The publisher's lawyers explained to Segal that Xerox Corp. "would not allow its name to be used as a verb."

Iranians execute nine smugglers

By the Associated Press

An Iranian firing squad executed nine more convicted drug smugglers, bringing the total to 29 in two days of sentencing by the regime's toughest judge. Meanwhile, Tehran Radio announced preliminary meetings of the Parliament that is to decide the fate of the U.S. hostages, who began their 202nd day in captivity today.

The nine smugglers were shot Thursday immediately after being sentenced at the end of a two-day trial by Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali, the official Pars news agency reported. It said one woman convicted on drug charges Wednesday had her death sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Khalkhali said one of the leading smugglers offered to pay about $30 million to be acquitted "but the court and the Iranian nation's representatives did not have any mercy on these people and passed death sentences on all of them."

The judge, who has presided over the trials and executions of numerous members of deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime, revolted Washington officials last month when he held a news conference at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran to display the charred remains of American commandos killed in the abortive attempt to rescue the 53 American hostages on April 25.

Since the rescue bid, the militants holding the hostages have been reported dispersing their captives to 17 cities across Iran. Tehran Radio said an unspecified number of the Americans were moved last Saturday to the city of Qazvin, 100 miles northwest of Tehran, and were housed in a building once used by Savak, the deposed shah's secret police.

The state radio also said that Iran's new Parliament, which has been empowered by Iranian Revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to decide the hostages' fate, will be inaugurated Wednesday after a series of preliminary meetings.

The ruling Revolutionary Council said the deputies, most of them headline Moslem clergymen, would meet Sunday with Khomeini and would be briefed on Monday and Tuesday "on the situation in the country," the radio said.

Meanwhile, a London newspaper reported that Iran is inviting European parliamentarians on an all-expense-paid trip to Tehran for a June 2 conference on the last 25 years of U.S.-Iran relations.

Politicians ineffective, poll shows

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Top business executives, responding to a survey, said the nation's politicians are "ineffective and perhaps incompetent" leaders unable to instill confidence in their ability to quell a recession.

Researchers said 71 percent of the executives polled rated the national leadership as poor and 20 percent said it was only fair. Just 2 percent termed it "good," while the category of "excellent" drew no votes at all.

The survey was conducted for Paul R. Ray & Co., Inc., a national and international executive search firm based in Fort Worth. It polled the chief executives of Fortune's top 1,600 businesses, and received 220 responses.

Results were accurate within two percentage points, according to Moore Diversified Services, a Fort Worth market research firm which conducted the survey over the last 10 days of April.

"This is a little harsh, but I would say the leadership of this country has been ineffective and perhaps incompetent," said Charles M. Harper of ConAgra, Inc.

Eighty-nine percent of the executives thought the economy is already in a recession and another 10 percent said one is almost upon us. Seventy-one percent felt the recession will be "very deep" or somewhat deep, and will last 12 to 18 months.

The National Bureau of Economic Research, a private organization that economists rely on to designate recessions, has not yet called the current slump a full-blown recession.

However, the unemployment rate, a key indicator, equals the levels of unemployment in four previous post-war recessions.

Researchers said 17 percent of the executives indicated they will delay capital investments until they see how the economy develops. But 71 percent said they saw no alternatives to increasing investments.

Retained earnings are the first choice of 63 percent of the executives for funding significant future capital investment. Only 16 percent said they would borrow or issue debt instruments.

The executives said lower capital costs would be the No. 1 incentive for spurring significant growth in capital investment.

"We don't want to work for the bankers," said Southland Corp. chief executive officer John Thompson. "We like to work hard, but we like to work for ourselves."

President Carter's stand against participation in the Olympics was endorsed by 82 percent of those businessmen replying.

Wear a Buddy Poppy

Commander M.H. Spivey of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2013, urges all citizens of this area to wear VFW Buddy Poppies on Memorial Day.

The Poppy is a symbol of respect and appreciation for the men who have given their lives and health in the service of their country.

VFW volunteers will sell the Poppies in Big Spring Saturday. This will mark the 58th consecutive year of the sale by Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The Poppy, as the memorial flower, was inspired by the opening words of Col.

John McCrae's immortal poem, "In Flanders Fields" which paid tribute to the men who lost their lives among the fields of Poppies in one of World War One's historic battlefields.

Veterans organizations in the United States first sold Poppies in 1921 in response to an appeal from Madame Guerin of France for funds to aid needy and disabled veterans.

In 1922, the VFW conceived the idea of selling Poppies made by disabled veterans in U.S. hospitals to support a national veterans welfare program.

The symbolism of the Poppy was promptly accepted by the American people and the sale was an immediate success.

In 1980, more than 10,000 posts of the VFW will participate in the sale. Nearly 100,000 volunteers will sell more than 15 million Buddy Poppies, the majority of them during the two-week period preceding Memorial Day.

The funds derived from the sale, under VFW rules, must be used exclusively for welfare of disabled and needy veterans, and the widow and orphans of deceased veterans.

Dear Abby

Clearing the Air — And Your Kids' Lungs

DEAR ABBY: I just read an article stating there is now conclusive evidence that secondhand cigarette smoke is damaging to the non-smoker.

I am a non-smoker, but my wife smokes enough for both of us. She has quit several times, but she's never been able to kick the habit for good. Her excuses are that when she quits smoking she gains weight, and smoking "relaxes" her. I've even heard her say, "Well, a person has to die of something," which is the most stupid excuse of all.

What worries me now is the fact that we have three small children who are the innocent victims of secondhand smoke in our home. Abby, I know my wife would quit if she could because she's really tired. You've probably heard from hundreds of heavy smokers who have quit for good. Which method is the most successful? Cold turkey, cutting down gradually, hypnosis, stop-smoking clinics? Or are there other methods?

Please help me to help my wife without being a nag.
FREDDY IN ENCINO

DEAR FREDDY: The best thing I've ever seen on how to quit smoking is the new booklet titled, "Clearing the Air." It contains a variety of sensible approaches. What may seem silly to some may work a miracle for others. It may take a while for your wife to find the combination that will work for her, but if she really wants to quit smoking, she can.

The booklet is free to anyone who wants it and can be obtained by writing to: Clearing the Air, Box A, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md. 20205. Please let me hear from you in six months, Freddy. And if any of my readers send for this booklet, I would appreciate a progress report from you, too. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I are having a difference of opinion.

He says it is not possible for a girl to get pregnant the first time she goes to bed with a guy. I say it is. Who is right?

VIRGIN (AGE 15)

DEAR VIRGIN: You are. Trust me... not him.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought To Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Furniture restoring takes time, patient, hard work

Restoring old furniture by refinishing it is one way to solve budget problems. Although refinishing takes time, patience and real work, it yields excellent rewards.

The wise beginner will choose a piece that is simple in line and has flat surfaces rather than one that is highly ornate. You can look for pieces in attics, basements, garages, used furniture stores, at household auctions, and in newspaper ads.

If you are interested in learning basic furniture refinishing techniques, enroll in the Furniture Refinishing Workshop sponsored by the Howard County Family Living Committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The workshop is scheduled for May 27-30. Class will be held each day at the county barn from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Following the demonstration of each technique, you will be able to work on your own project. It would be wise to wear shoes and clothing that can't be damaged.

For additional information, contact Janet Rogers, County Extension Agent, 267-8469.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

White collar crime hits blue collar organization

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An international union representative once told FBI agents he was worried his dealings with two insurance salesmen might have been illegal, a federal agent testified Thursday.

"He was concerned to such a degree that he was going to return home to get his personal affairs in order in anticipation of future legal action," FBI agent Monte Smith testified about Jack Wheatley.

Wheatley, a representative of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union, is on trial in federal court with four other union officials and two insurance agents. The men are charged with conspiring to give lucrative union insurance contracts to certain companies in exchange for kickbacks and gifts.

Smith interviewed Wheatley during a 17-month investigation that led to a Feb. 27 indictment by a Brownsville grand jury. Wheatley asked why his dealings with insurance businessman Robert Massey were being questioned, Smith said.

The agent said he and another FBI man gave Wheatley a copy of the federal law dealing with illegal influence of union officials.

"He felt there may have been a technical violation," Smith said. "He was concerned he may have done something illegal."

The agent was the first of more than 15 government witnesses expected to testify. Others include bank officers who will be asked about copies of cancelled checks, cashiers' checks and other documents that purportedly show money changed hands.

The trial before U.S. District Judge James DeAnda will run two to three weeks.

Other men on trial are Michael P. Kleemeyer, a Brownsville insurance salesman in business with Massey; Conrad Truss, business manager of Plumbers and Pipefitters Local 142 of San Antonio; and Oscar Dale Seastrunk, Robert Melton Bradshaw and Alva "Pat" Patterson, all officials of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union Local 100 of Dallas.

Three other men named in the indictment have been granted a separate trial.

Grand jurors contended more than $300,000 changed hands in the form of loans, cash, guns and boots.

The three defense lawyers say their case will be based on assertions Massey and Kleemeyer simply offered the best insurance program available and that none of the monetary transactions was done to influence union officers.

"Massey and Kleemeyer offered a better policy, with more benefits at a lower price and that's the sole reason they (local unions) gave it (policies) to them," Eduardo Rodriguez, attorney for the Dallas men, told the jury in opening remarks.

Wheatley, who lives in Dexter, Mich., has the Texas-Oklahoma territory for his union. He is accused of tipping Massey to whenever local unions needed new insurance policies.

Massey was convicted in 1978 in a related investigation of using union funds to operate his personal business.

REFLECTIONS

Strange how a landscape sets the imagination to work. Right now, looking at this scene, I can imagine all sorts of things.

Winged steeds riding to heavy music — pioneers in the wilderness — castles on the cliffs — boats at high speeds.

Look at the magic that enables the lake to mirror the rocky mountain peak and the heavens! The vastness and stillness of the scene sets my mind to wondering about time and space and things I will never understand.

But in standing here and wondering so, I feel like I've been near God. There is a place where I can find Him always — in Church. Will you come with me?

Roving cleric active in mid-East intrigue

NEW YORK (AP) — That bearded cleric roving trouble spots of the Middle East in his black cassock and flat-topped kalimata, Eastern Rite Roman Catholic Archbishop Hilario Capudji, has become a familiar actor in events there, but to many he remains a little known, ambiguous figure.

It's highly questionable, under Vatican directives, whether he's even supposed to be in that region.

Various other anomalies and controversies surround the 58-year-old Syria-born churchman who has cultivated links with the Palestine Liberation Organization and the Iranian militants holding U.S. hostages and who presented himself as intermediary to retrieve bodies of Americans killed in a rescue attempt.

He says his actions are as a pastor, as a Christian, as a man and as an Arab.

But his background and role have been nebulous and unclear in some respects, including general Western uneasiness over his Eastern Rite Catholicism, which he brings.

However, his official ecclesiastical assignment, since his release in 1977 from an Israeli jail where he served time for smuggling guns to Palestinian guerrillas, have been in Latin America and more recently to Western Europe, not to the Middle East.

He has been back there recently, writes National Catholic Register's Ghobzadeh, describes him as friend of Iran who has shown independence and strength of spirit.

"One thing is apparent," writes National Catholic Register's Ghobzadeh, "he is acting like a free agent involved in all the intrigue that goes with Middle East politics and religion."

Capudji is part of the Syrian Rite of Eastern Rite Catholicism, the Melkite rite, says their patriarch in Jerusalem, and has become an intermediary between the PLO and the Israelis.

Capudji's role in negotiations between the Israelis and the PLO is unclear. He has been seen with a Western journalist in a Jordanian prison, and he has been seen in the East which he brings.

However, his official ecclesiastical assignment, since his release in 1977 from an Israeli jail where he served time for smuggling guns to Palestinian guerrillas, have been in Latin America and more recently to Western Europe, not to the Middle East.

Council he would fight "to the last drop of my blood" for the liberation of Palestine.

The Melkite rite is one of numerous branches of Catholicism's Eastern Rite, often called "Uniate." They retain their own rituals, canon law and allow priests to marry. They were among Eastern Orthodox Christians who returned to union with Rome and the papacy after most of the Eastern Orthodox split from it in 1054 A.D.

THE REV. JOHN GOODWIN

ACTS to sing at Trinity

Set aside Sunday night 6 p.m. as a special night of blessing as the Celebration Singers from Bacon Heights Baptist Church in Lubbock present the musical drama, "ACTS."

Set in Biblical times, ACTS presents the story of the Christians of the early church gathering in secret to tell what happened after Jesus' resurrection. Experience with Peter, Luke, Silas, Paul, Ananias, Lydia, Helena and the jailer the remembrances of excitement in the early church at that time.

One of the featured soloists will be the church's own Tim Yates.

Missionaries set to speak Sunday

Newly appointed missionaries to Cameroon, West Africa, John and Annona Sue Goodwin will be guest speakers in a special service Sunday at the Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church according to Rev. Terry Wilson, pastor. The service will begin at 10:45 a.m.

The Goodwins, both children of missionaries, grew up in Ghana, West Africa. During the service here they will discuss African culture and customs and will display native artifacts. Mrs. Goodwin will also minister in music and the Rev. Goodwin will deliver the sermon.

A native of West Texas, Goodwin received a master of arts degree in sociology from West Texas State University in 1978. He earlier earned a bachelor of arts degree with a double major in Theology and Sociology from Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

He was ordained by the West Texas District of the Assemblies of God while serving as co-pastor at First Assembly in Hereford, Texas. He was an instructor at Evangel College in Springfield, Mo. for two years before receiving missions appointment.

The couple has two children, Cherisse, age 2, and Karen, age 4.

Mother's honored at St. Thomas feast

St. Thomas Altar Society recently held a Mother's Day feast honoring mothers of the community, serving a meal of age.

Fave's flowers, donated by the Altar Society, were corsages for the honored mothers. The Altar Society honored all the mothers with corsages and gifts and a typical Mother's Day meal in their honor.

Music was provided by some church musicians. Games were played and prizes awarded to lucky ones.

The feast was held at St. Thomas Catholic Church. The feast was held at St. Thomas Catholic Church. The feast was held at St. Thomas Catholic Church.

Professor incredulous

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Harvard Divinity School professor says he could hardly believe a recent California poll which said 84 percent of those interviewed believe nuclear war is likely and that they will not survive it.

Incredulous at such fatalism, the Rev. Harvey Cox told a church consultation of the National Council of Churches that he asked students in his classes to respond to the poll.

Science, which in its erroneous presumptions has downgraded religion, may by more mature, fuller insights reinforce it, says a scientist-theologian whose achievements have won the world's biggest cash prize.

Science, religion seen as congruent

NEW YORK (AP) — "Science is both the cause of the problem and the answer to it," says Ralph Wendell Burhoe of Chicago, the first American winner of the $200,000 Templeton Foundation Prize for progress in religion.

"As is often the case, science makes mistakes in the beginning, and it indeed has been a factor in diminishing religious belief for several centuries," Burhoe says. But religion can be strengthened again, he adds, by a more grown-up science.

SMILES — Among the 24 mothers honored on Mother's Day are Genoveva Lajias and Monsa Rowha. The Mother's Day feast was held at St. Thomas Catholic Church.

"The solution is not in some constructive theology or philosophy cutting religion off from science, but in bringing them back together in a more truthful way, more faithful to the best in both."

Burhoe, 68, a long-time leader in academic organizations exploring links between religion and science, is to be presented with the 1980 Templeton Prize in ceremonies Tuesday in London by Britain's Prince Philip.

The annual prize, established in 1972 by American investment counselor and United Presbyterian layman John M. Templeton for strides in religious understanding, exceeds the Nobel prizes, now about $190,000.

Can budget figures withstand many odds?

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders are worried about the chances of getting their colleagues to go along with a compromise $613.3 billion budget that contains the largest peacetime defense spending increase in history.

If the figures placed on paper by a House-Senate conference committee can withstand the reality of a worsening economy — with the possibility of lower tax revenues and higher unemployment payments — it would be the first balanced budget in 12 years.

The leadership began polling House members Thursday to get a feel for the budget's support. However, initial signs point to serious difficulty in pushing the package through the House on a vote expected next Thursday.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Majority Whip John Brademas, D-Ind., agreed that the vote looked "tight" and that formidable opposition was building against the budget for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1.

Already opposed by many conservative Republicans and liberal Democrats, the compromise is now under attack from an influential group of liberal-to-moderate Democrats who object to the high defense spending.

O'Neill, D-Mass., said about 40 Democrats who voted for the House version of a balanced budget earlier this month had told him "they doubt if they can vote for" the compromise.

"If we lose 40, we really have problems," O'Neill said, adding that such a loss of Democratic votes would put the fate of the budget firmly in the hands of Republicans who traditionally vote against Democratic spending plans.

Rep. William Brodhead, D-Mich., one of five conference committee Democrats to oppose the compromise, said opponents had "an easy 100 (Democratic) votes" against the budget, a number that would make its approval extremely unlikely.

However, Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., Budget Committee chairman, said he was "optimistic" that the budget would clear the House, drawing votes from moderate Republicans and Democrats. Senate approval is seen as almost certain.

WILLIAMS PREPARES NEGOTIATIONS — Big Spring Black team running back Bobby Earl Williams prepares to make his move on an unidentified Gold team defender during last night's spring game involving members of the 1980 Steer football team. The Gold took the spirited contest, scoring late in the game to take a 14-12 win.

Coach Harris pleased with mental improvement

Gold rallies for spring game win

By NATHAN POSS
Sports Editor

"We think we're on the way to being mentally tough," first year Big Spring Steer football coach Ralph Harris said this morning after contemplating the action in last night's Black-Gold spring game. "We plan on winning, and not just striving for mediocrity."

Harris was speaking of the progress that the Steer gridders have made since his arrival on the BSHS campus in March, and especially in the past three weeks during spring training.

"We set some long range goals when I came here," said Harris. "The first was to get the staff ready, and the second was to get some confidence in the kids and get them excited about playing football. We've done that."

But Harris is still not ready to concede that his team is ready for world beater status, as he explained. "The execution of the offense is not there yet. We have not arrived."

"But we're (the coaching staff) pleased. The main thing about last night is that the kids had fun and competed hard and fought hard."

Fought hard they did, and an exciting final two quarters resulted that produced moments of anxiety on both sides of the field.

The final product was a 14-12 win by the Gold squad, as both teams traded leads in the final two stanzas.

The Gold team had taken an early 6-0 lead when sophomore-to-be Danny Stephens bolted over to score.

The spring finale was split into six eight-minute stanzas, and neither squad could crack the magic line again until the fifth period when sophomore-to-be quarterback George Bancroft dove in from the three to tie the game at 6-6.

Bancroft's scoring burst came five plays after a

Bobby Earl Williams interception and nifty return to the Gold 13-yard line had set the stage.

Both teams quickly traded fumbles after the Black's tying score, but the Gold again fumbled the ball away, with Bancroft recovering on the opponent's 31.

Black quarterback Chuck Gibbs fired a pass to yet another rookie-to-be, Alan Trevino, who made an excellent catch for a 22-yard gain and a first and goal at the one.

Gibbs sneaked in for the go-ahead TD on the next play, giving the Blacks a 12-6 advantage.

Bill Brown scored on an option for a two-point conversion, but a motion penalty nixed the play, and the Black couldn't convert their next opportunity at the two-points. This penalty proved to be costly in the final score. 7:03 remained in the game at this time.

The Gold team, now needing a score to tie the game, reverted to a trick play, as halfback Ben Watson took a pitch around left end, held up and tossed a strike to split end Reggie Anding, who accepted the delivery and danced into the end zone untouched to knot the score at 12-12.

Quarterback Tracy Spence then ran to his right and scooted into paydirt for the all-important two-point conversion with 4:35 remaining, giving the Gold team the margin of victory in the intra-squad tussle.

Spence stopped the ensuing Black drive with an interception, but the Black had one more chance at starting a scoring drive.

Starting at their own 20, the Black was pushed back to their own one in two plays, but Williams made an outstretched catch and run of a Gibbs pass for a first down at the 33.

But time ran out in the game after one more play, allowing the Gold team to own the bragging rights in their friendly two-hour feud with their teammates.

Harris admitted that last night's contest only exhibited a "skeleton of our game, as we didn't put in a lot of the things that we will in the fall."

The basic reason for this, as he explained, was that he and his staff were trying to put in just the basics during the three-week spring training period.

"We tried to leave people alone as far as learning a lot of new plays and series, and let the offensive linemen work on the fundamental things," Harris stated. "The burden falls on the offensive line when you put in a lot of new things. It's not that much of a problem to teach the backs their basic assignments."

Harris again stressed the defense, and the fact that the Steer gridders must improve physically during the summer in becoming stronger and quicker for next fall's tough slate, which opens on the road against Snyder.

"We must get to the point that we can physically defeat the opponent," Harris mentioned. "But the defense must set the tone for the entire team. I feel that we have the people that can whip people physically, but we still have a lot of work to do."

Harris said that not a great deal was determined in regards to starting positions, and this can be looked at in both a positive and negative fashion.

For Angels

Bell's music too much

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The spectre of a players' strike came in the midst of the best start Buddy Bell has had in nine years in the major leagues.

"Usually I'm hitting 200 at this time of the season," he said after his two home runs and two singles drove in four runs and led the Texas Rangers past California 12-6 Thursday night.

"But despite the good start I don't think a layoff would be any harder for me than anybody else. I don't think I've been thinking about it, although it's been in the back of all our minds," Bell said. His 4-for-5 night raised his average to .350 for the year.

Both Bell's homers came off reliever Jim Barr, who took over for starter Don Aase, 3-4, after Mickey Rivers' RBI single, Bump Mills' two-run homer and Al

Oliver's single in the fourth.

But Bell greeted Barr with a towering homer into the leftfield bleachers, then came back to hit a solo home run in the sixth, California manager Jim Fregosi brought in Chris Knapp to pitch the final two innings.

"I think Jimmy got me out of there so I wouldn't have to face him (Bell) again, but it would have been different the third time," Barr said.

Asked what he would have done differently, Barr laughed and said, "Walk him!"

Texas starter Jon Matlack, the player representative, was knocked out by four hits and five runs in the third inning and admitted the possibility of a strike might have affected his pitching.

"Not consciously, but it may have," Matlack acknowledged. "I pitched non-professionally tonight. I did not pitch my game."

He left with two outs in the third, after Al Cowens' three-run double completed a rally that wiped out a three-run lead and put California ahead 6-4.

But Danny Darwin sparked in relief for Texas. He struck out six of the first eight men he faced and watched while Bell and Mills hammered away to give him his third victory in four decisions.

Darwin finished with 10 strikeouts. He and Matlack together had 15, a Ranger record.

"Danny had to be throwing 95 to 98 mph, in that area," Ranger catcher Jim Sundberg marveled. "He really threw some fast balls past some fast ball hitters. His control was exceptional. His fast ball was running in on some right-handed hitters."

Astros power by Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston Manager Bill Virdon was a reasonably happy man considering the curious atmosphere surrounding the Astros' 8-5 victory over the New York Mets.

Two of the things that pleased him the most were home runs by Craig Reynolds and Cesar Cedeno. Those two homers lifted the Houston season total to 21 compared to the club's total of 49 for all of the 1979 season.

Reliever Frank LaCorte was another source of pleasure for Virdon as the hard-throwing right-hander earned his fourth save in relief of Joe Niekro, 5-2, who gave up 11 hits in less than seven innings.

"We're way ahead of our schedule," said Virdon of the homers which were part of a 17-hit attack on five Mets pitchers. "We try to enjoy them when we can get them."

Reynolds' first-inning drive off New York starter Mark Bombardieri was his first of the season while Cedeno's two-run homer in the fifth off loser Kevin Kobel, 0-4, was his third.

"LaCorte has greatly improved his control,"

Virdon said after his reliever lowered his ERA to 0.45 for 15 appearances. "That's the thing he's done this season that he hasn't done before. The arm has always been there."

LaCorte limited the Mets to two hits over the final 21-3 innings after New York had pulled within 8-5 with a three-run seventh that finished Niekro.

Reynolds staked Niekro to an early lead but New York tied it with a run in the second on a double by Steve Henderson and two wild pitches by Niekro.

Niekro claimed that his position as Houston's player representative didn't distract him from concentrating on his pitching. But Virdon said, "I didn't think he was real sharp tonight, he got the job done; that's about all."

Houston went back in front against Kobel in the third when Alan Ashby singled in one run and Niekro double scored another. But the Mets scored again in the fourth on the first of Mike Jorgensen's two doubles and Henderson's RBI triple.

Cedeno's homer put it out of reach despite Niekro's continued struggles.

Governments continue support of boycott

By the Associated Press

As the deadline nears for filing applications for the Summer Olympics, Spain's government has announced its support for the boycott movement but Japan is considering sending a mini-team to Moscow.

Nations intending to participate in the Summer Olympics must submit their applications by midnight Saturday. The International Olympic Committee says the official list of entrants will be announced Tuesday.

An Associated Press count shows that 51 nations have decided not to attend the Games.

In a statement issued Thursday, the Spanish government said it opposed participation because Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan had "caused a grave alteration of the international situation that affected the spirit of peace and friendship for a normal development of the Olympic Games."

Spain's ambassador to the Soviet Union, Juan Antonio Samaranch, is a member of the IOC. Spain's Olympic Committee was expected to meet today to decide whether to follow its government's recommendation.

The Japanese government is supporting the U.S.-led boycott movement, but the Japanese Olympic Committee planned to meet with the nation's 22 sports federations to discuss a proposal to send only athletes with legitimate chances to win medals to Moscow.

In other Olympic developments on Thursday: —Israel's Olympic Committee voted 17-8 to stay home. Prime Minister Menachem Begin has been an outspoken support of the boycott initiated by U.S. President Carter.

—Turkey's government announced it would not authorize sending a team to Moscow.

—The Belgian government said it could not oppose the decision of the Belgian Olympic committee to send a team to Moscow, but that it would withdraw all administrative, diplomatic and financial support of the team.

—The government of the Bahamas announced its support of the boycott, although the decision whether to send a team will be made by the nation's Olympic Committee.

Baseball sides reach settlement The show will go on

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's longest night has resulted in a settlement of the lingering contract dispute between players and management and averted a strike which threatened unprecedented interruption of the major league season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, and Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for the 26 owners, struggled through a marathon day and night of negotiations, finally hammering out an agreement in a seven-hour wrap-up session.

Terms were not disclosed immediately because the settlement must be presented to the Player Association's Executive Board and membership for ratification. Neither party would comment on the final disposition of the difficult, free agent compensation issue, the major stumbling block throughout the talks.

"We've reached an agreement for four years," said Grebey. "We think it's a good one. There's something in it for everybody."

Miller called the settlement a victory for both sides. "That's what collective bargaining means," the union chief said. "When you reach an agreement without a strike, it's a great victory for everybody concerned."

The settlement means today's games will be played as scheduled. Grebey said only one team might have transportation problems but that he expected the schedule to be followed.

"It's a good deal all around," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who made his first appearance in the talks. "There was a lot of honest goodwill all around. The parties worked hard at it. I'm ecstatic."

This mutual victory was not easy to achieve and several times as the final day of negotiations stretched into night, it seemed a strike was inevitable.

The crisis atmosphere began at 10 a.m., EDT, Thursday when Miller and his negotiating team, which included attorneys Dick Moss, Don Fehr and Peter Rose, arrived for talks. The management team was one hour late, setting a pattern which was followed throughout the day. Grebey and the owners' negotiators were also close to an hour late for an afternoon meeting and a half hour late for the final night session. Miller was clearly annoyed by management's tardiness throughout the day.

The first meeting between the two sides lasted only 1 hour, 25 minutes, from 11:15 in the morning to 12:40. When Grebey and his people left the midtown hotel where talks were held, they seemed downcast. "Right now, things don't look so good," said Lee MacPhail, president of the American League.

He might have been even more disheartened if he had heard what Miller had to say at that point.

"There has been a lack of good faith (in the bargaining) from beginning to end," Miller said. "What could prevent a strike, he was asked.

"It would take a small miracle," Miller snapped. Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett also painted a gloomy picture.

Miller was asked if the strike deadline still stood. "There's no reason to stop the clock," he said. "We need an agreement."

Thirty minutes later, at 10 p.m., Grebey's team returned to the hotel, again a half hour late for a scheduled meeting with Miller. "We're still working away," the veteran labor negotiator said.

This time, they kept on working. As Thursday night's games ended one by one, the talks continued on the 17th floor of the midtown hotel. Finally, the last game was completed at about 11:45 p.m. and the possibility still existed that the strike would be declared.

The first indication of a break came at 2:20 in the morning when Moffett and Vaughn arrived to report that the two sides were still bargaining and that progress had been made. Moffett said he thought they might have a statement in about an hour.

Grebey's party then left the hotel and walked a few blocks to American League headquarters where they met with a committee of management people, including members of the Player Relations Committee and Executive Council, and presented terms of a tentative agreement.

The settlement provides a new collective bargaining agreement, with improvements in minimum salaries and pensions among other items.

The key issue throughout was the clubs' demand for a system of free agent compensation, allowing teams losing a "premium" free agent to receive a replacement. The union had rejected the owner formula for determining whether a player warranted compensation and there was no immediate indication of what compromise might have been reached to permit a settlement.

Steers improve

He said that the fact that many positions remain equal means that the competition in the fall should be fierce, but at the same time he is still searching for more on the field leadership.

"We need some people to step out and take control," said Harris. "We need more on the field leadership, in order to help us get over the crises that we will encounter in on the field situations throughout next season."

Numerous underclassmen played key roles last night, and this was encouraging to Harris. "I was pleased with a lot of the younger kids that played," the new Steer mentor stated. "They got in there and mixed it up with the older kids."

"Fundamentally," he continued, "we are still not doing that good of a job. But all the kids are working hard to learn and accept what we're teaching them. They have been very coachable."

"We're getting to the point that it means a great deal to the kids to play well," Harris related. "If we can continue with that attitude, it will make it so much more conducive to stick together and strive to win. The harder they work, the harder it will be to surrender when the fall comes."

In NCAA regional playoffs

Longhorns resume familiar rivalries

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Four warm weather teams with a combined victory total of 206 games opened play today in the NCAA Central Regional baseball playoffs.

Pan American, an at-large entry from Edinburg, Texas, was matched against Hawaii in the 1:30 p.m. opener. Texas, the No. 4 team in college baseball, and Louisiana Tech were paired at 7:30 p.m.

The tournament winner goes to the College World Series at Omaha, Nev., June 30.

In the past 10 years, the Central Regional winner has finished in the top four seven times, and Texas won the national championship in 1975.

"We've met Pan American and Louisiana Tech so much in the playoffs, I'm almost tired of seeing you guys," joked Coach Cliff Gustafson of Texas, the Southwest Conference champion and host team for the tournament.

"We've had a keen rivalry with Pan American," Gustafson told a press conference Thursday. "I can't recall any game that was not close and hard fought... I can say the same about Louisiana Tech."

Texas and Hawaii have never played, but Gustafson said Hawaii "had possibly the toughest schedule of any team here."

Gustafson said he would bypass pitcher Keith Creel, the second leading college winner with a 15-1 record, and start Jim Acker of Freer, Texas, in the opener with Tech, the Southland Conference winner.

Arkansas wins first round regional tilt

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Arkansas shortstop Rob Kauffman plucked a grounder from the infield Thursday night to ignite a double play that quelled a ninth inning Oral Roberts University rally and gave the Razorbacks a 3-2 win in the NCAA Midwest regionals.

Arkansas and ORU had been tied at 1-1 going into the final inning, but ORU pitcher Jeff Heathcott gave up back-to-back home runs by John Hennell and Kevin McReynolds for a 3-1 Razorback lead.

ORU had the bases loaded with no outs in the bottom of the ninth when Mark Bonner smashed a grounder up the middle. Kauffman dove for the ball, fielded it and pitched it from a prone position to second baseman Randall Carter. Carter threw to first for the double play.

The Titans added their second run of the night on Bonner's grounder. Kelvin Torve hit a fly to center field to end the game, giving Razorback Steve Krueger his 13th win of the season with no defeats.

Krueger pitched out of several jams and survived a smash off his pitching hand in taking the win.

Arkansas, 44-20, plays Missouri at 8 p.m. Friday.

Missouri defeated Wichita State, 5-4, while Nevada-Las Vegas defeated California 3-2 in the other first-round games Thursday. California meets Wichita State and Nevada-Las Vegas battles ORU at 5 p.m. Friday.

Arkansas' first score came in the third inning when Kauffman scored on a sacrifice fly by Carter.

ORU, 38-15, tied the game in the sixth inning when Dave Yobs scored on a double by Jeff Baker.

Heathcott, 10-4, was the losing pitcher for the Titans. He gave up only six hits, including three in the ninth inning, in the loss.

Red Sox compete in Pecos Tourney

PECOS — The Big Spring Red Sox will be competing in the Pecos Memorial Day Baseball Tournament here this weekend.

The Red Sox first contest in the affair will be against the Pecos Pirates at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Cowboys sign draft choices

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have signed a series of one-year contracts with rookies James Jones of Mississippi State and Jackie Flowers of Florida State, team officials announced Thursday.

Jones, a third-round draft pick, is a 5-10, 200-pound running back slated to fill the tailback spot behind Tony Dorsett, head coach Tom Landry said.

Flowers, a 6-0, 194-pound wide receiver, was plucked in the ninth draft round.

Situation not critical, Gov. Clements says

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The 1981 Legislature must consider disposal of wastes from nuclear power plants but there is no immediate crisis in handling low level radioactive wastes from doctors' offices and hospitals, says Gov. Bill Clements.

"We do not think there is a crisis situation as some have reported, and we think we can handle the disposal of low level wastes at this time," Clements told a Capitol news conference Thursday.

Clements replied to last Saturday's action of the Texas Medical Association's house of delegates in urging Clements to push the Texas Department of Health in immediately designating several temporary waste storage sites.

The 288-member governing body of the TMA said lack of disposal areas for low-level radioactive products used in diagnostic and therapeutic medicine created an "imminent peril" to the public health and welfare of all Texans.

The TMA said private physicians, hospitals and laboratories in Texas must

Donahue, Thomas wed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Three years of dating have come to an end for actress Mario Thomas and television talk show host Phil Donahue — they're honeymooning in Europe today.

Donahue and Ms. Thomas were wed Wednesday in a private, double-ring ceremony at the home of her parents, comedian Danny Thomas and Rosemary Thomas. Spokeswoman Gloria Luckinbill said only family members — including Donahue's five children from his first marriage — attended the civil ceremony.

Ms. Thomas wore a simple white satin street length dress and spring flowers in her hair. After a dinner reception, the couple left for Europe.

It was the first marriage for the 39-year-old actress, who starred in the 1960s television series "That Girl" and has become well known in recent years for her work in feminist causes.

She met the 44-year-old Donahue three years ago when she was a guest on his hit syndicated show, which is based in Chicago. The couple said they would maintain homes in both Chicago and New York.

British industry 'terrific'

LONDON (AP) — Twentieth Century-Fox chief Sherry Lansing says she thinks there's plenty of life left in Britain's cash-starved movie industry.

Miss Lansing made her comments to reporters here Thursday before heading back to California. She had stopped over here following a visit to the Cannes Film Festival in France.

"I think British film industry is terrific," said the 35-year-old Miss Lansing, the first woman to head a major Hollywood studio. "Some of the finest directors ever have come from here, as well as many, many true giants of the cinema."

"I believe there is a future for British film makers and we are going to try to help Britain," she said. Miss Lansing said she was planning two feature films to be made here.

Pianist stands by designer

NEW YORK (AP) — Jazz pianist Bobby Short says he'll go to court next week to stand by jeans designer Gloria Vanderbilt, who contends the directors of a plush apartment building turned down her purchase of a $1.1 million duplex for fear she might marry the black entertainer.

"We're not planning to get married," Short was quoted as saying in today's Daily News. "But frankly I don't think it's any of their business at all what we do."

He said he would be on hand to testify when the case comes up before Manhattan Supreme Court on Tuesday.

Texas Chemical Council gives award to BSHS student

Texas Chemical Council has presented awards to graduating seniors from over 160 Texas high schools because of excellence in chemistry, science, math and related subjects.

Those receiving awards were named "outstanding seniors" from their schools in the science-chemistry-math field. Selections were made by principals and teachers on the basis of scholarship, imagination and scientific aptitude. Only one student per school could be nominated.

Glen Ronald Margolis, Big Spring, is among the winners. Glen's likely college major is Political Science.

Texas Chemical Council President Gary Dillard of Houston said 1980 was the 26th consecutive year for the Council to make science awards. He said the intent of the Council is to encourage outstanding high school students to pursue a chemical career or continue studies in the science field.

In addition to receiving the science awards, the winners were invited by the Texas Chemical Council to participate in an essay contest, with the winning writer and his or her school to split a $1,000 cash award from the Council.
