Texas tour bus crashes; 20 die

JASPER, Ark. (AP) — A tour bus from Texas with 34 persons aboard careened off a "suicide curve" and plunged 50 feet down a rocky ravine in a mountainous area of northern Arkansas early today, killing at least 20 people. Police said the brakes apparently failed.

"In 27 years with the state police, it's the worst I've ever seen," said Capt. Billy Bob Davis, commander of Troop I of the Arkansas State Police at Harrison. He estimated the death toll at 21. One of the 21 was missing and presumed dead.

"It looked as though the brakes apparently had failed," Davis said.

Frank Wise, administrator of the Boone County Hospital at Harrison, said 13 persons were treated there for injuries. One was listed in critical condition. The condition of the others was not immediately available.

State police said the passengers were all from the Dallas area.

Some of the victims still were trapped under the bus and surrounding timber four hours after the accident occurred.

Davis said the bus was northbound down a steep hill of the two-lane Arkansas Highway 7, a scenic route. It traveled along a ditch on the right side of the highway for more than 200 feet, then hit a culvert and veered off the road, landing nose down in rugged terrain 50 feet below the shoulder of the highway, he said.

Keith Hopper, a spokesman for Central Texas Trailways in Dallas, said the bus was chartered by Mrs. R. W. Jacobs of Irving, Tex. The tourists apparently "had no affiliation with any organized group."

Hopper declined to comment on state police reports that the brakes had failed.

Davis said the driver and three or four passengers were thrown out of the bus. At least four were found on the highway. Davis said the driver, who has not been identified, was among the dead.

A nearby resident heard the crash and alerted authorities.

Elmer Dunn, 61, of Grand Prairie, Texas, was among those who received minor injuries.

Dunn said the group left Dallas early Wednesday for a trip to Branson, Mo., and Eureka Springs, Ark.

He said he was riding on the left side of the bus, toward the rear, and was almost asleep when the bus ran off the road in a curve.

The windows were knocked out from the impact of the crash. Dunn said he hit the back of the seat, then slid to the floor and crawled out a window.

He said one side of the bus was demolished. There was no fire.

The accident occurred shortly before 1 a.m. one mile south of Jasper.

Twenty of the bodies were taken to a funeral home in Harrison.

Authorities said identification of the female victims was difficult because purses were scattered in the wreckage.

The bus was chartered by Central Texas Trailways of Waco, Texas, and left Dallas early Wednesday for a four-day holiday in Missouri and Arkansas, officials said.

J. Ganner, assistant general manager of the bus company, said in a telephone interview this morning that he had not been notified officially of the accident.

A nearby resident who heard the crash and went to the scene had alerted authorities.

Raymond Johnson, 62, also of Grand Prairie, was sitting near the back of the bus with his wife and was dozing at the time of the accident. "I heard the bus hitting some rough places," he said, and it plunged down the embankment.

State police said the brakes of the bus apparently failed and the bus followed a shallow ditch along the right side of the highway until it hit a culvert, then veered down the embankment, shearing off trees 36 inches around.

The bus landed in a rocky, tree-covered ravine about three-fourths covered (See Bus, col. 1, page 2-A)

FATAL CRASH — Rescue workers try to free victims of a bus crash that was fatal to at least 20 people in the early hours today near Jasper, Ark. Thirty-three people from the Dallas-Ft. Worth area were on the charter bus.

Potentially fatal chemicals stolen from local hospital

A local hospital this morning found missing from its secured storage area several cylinders of potentially dangerous chemicals.

According to Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard, Cowper Hospital reported a 9:14 a.m. today four cylinders of nitrous oxide — laughing gas — and six cylinders of oxygen taken from a locked storage space just outside the main hospital area.

Entrance into the storage area was made by breaking the locks, a spokesman for Cowper said.

If inhaled in sufficient quantity, both of these chemicals could be fatal.

"Anybody with common sense would not have any use for it," the hospital spokesman said.

Standard added, "There is or could be some hazards if these are in the hands of incompetent people."

Standard said the six containers with nitrous oxide are colored blue and the four containers of oxygen green. The Sheriff's Department has the serial numbers of all the cans.

DIRT WALLS CONTINUE TO FALL — Safety officials are dwarfed in the background as they stand near the edge of the large sink hole that continues to grow near the West Texas community of Kermit. The sink hole which is located near an oilfield is threatening the storage tanks, and oil workers spent Wednesday all day trying to empty 100,000 barrel oil storage tanks.

As sink hole deepens in desert near Kermit, so does mystery

KERMIT, Texas (AP) — A puzzling sink hole that swallowed huge chunks of desert near Kermit has oilmen scurrying to save nearby storage tanks and one well from the widening chasm.

Workers from Petro Lewis Co. spent Wednesday trying to plug an oil well and reroute pipes as slabs of earth fell into the yawning hole several hundred yards away.

"This just makes us sick," said a foreman for the Denver-based oil company. "But we can't risk losing the whole thing to shifting ground. This well produced 50 barrels a day and we've spent $20,000 (in one day) to try and save it."

Oil pipelines from a nearby Shell tank farm were shut down Wednesday when the ground around them collapsed and two pipelines which feed the tanks were broken, a Shell spokesman said in Houston.

Late Wednesday the hole was less than 200 yards from the tanks, which were being drained. They hold a total of 122,000 barrels, the spokesman said.

When first discovered Tuesday morning, the hole was only three yards wide. By nightfall Tuesday it was the size of a football field, still growing and filling with water and oil from nearby pipelines.

By Wednesday night, officials estimated it was larger than three football fields — 250 yards long, 200 yards wide and 70 feet from ground level to the black muck gurgling in the hole.

Winkler County Sheriff's deputies and Department of Public Safety troopers are barring the curious and keeping an eye on two nearby roads as the hole expands.

Hank Krusekops, a Midland geologist for the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the oil and gas industry in the state, speculated that water could have seeped into salt deposits below the ground, causing them to melt and weaken the ground.

Law-and-order vs. defendant's rights key issue in runoff races

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Law-and-order versus the defendant's rights. This is what voters will be deciding Saturday in two of three statewide races in the Democratic Primary runoff.

The runoff will be featuring races for two seats on the Court of Criminal Appeals, the highest appellate court for public-related offenses, and one seat on the Supreme Court, the highest appellate court for civil matters.

Mike McCormick, 35, a tough prosecution-minded attorney from Austin, is challenging incumbent Judge W.T. Phillips, 67, for Place 2 on the Court of Criminal Appeals.

McCormick said while in Big Spring April 24 he was dissatisfied with the present court.

"W.T. Phillips is a leader in a trend of reversing district court convictions on technicalities," McCormick said.

McCormick mentioned one case as an example. The court reversed a case where a man running a house of prostitution was convicted. The reason, Phillips decided for reversal, was the indictment did not include terminology stating the crime was committed "knowingly."

"Most cases that are reversed are retried and you're talking about a big expense to taxpayers," McCormick added.

McCormick was awarded a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Texas and a Doctor of Jurisprudence from St. Mary's Law School. He was the briefing attorney (See Two, col. 4, page 2-A)

Okie relocates oil firm here

Economics caused an Oklahoma businessman to agree today to a contract here to lease a building at the Howard County Airport to relocate his oil field service operations.

"I think the economy is better here than I have seen it," David Jobe, the proprietor for an oil field service business, said. "Some of the places I had visited seemed to be sitting still."

Jobe signed a one-year lease arrangement for Building T-41 at the County Airport. The building, which was an old training hangar, is around 5,000 square feet. Jobe will be paying a rent of $275 monthly.

Jobe will begin operations Friday. He employs six persons and has moved them all to Big Spring.

He also has several contracts with area businesses to do sand blasting and welding.

"I am not starting from square one," Jobe, formerly of Duncan, Okla., said.

In the future, he will also be producing small metal buildings.

"Sometime next week, I'll go back to Oklahoma and bring out my shop equipment to start building these metal buildings," Jobe said.

Friday deadline for summer courses at local high school

Those individuals planning to register for summer courses at the local high school must sign no later than Friday. The hours will be from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., and the $30 per unit tuition fees should be paid at the time the student signs for the course or courses he or she wants.

Courses will be offered only if a sufficient number of students enroll. Government, all levels of English, American History and possibly some Math courses likely will be taught.

School hours will be from 7 a.m. to 12 noon Monday through Friday, starting June 10 and extending through July 4. July 4 will be the only holiday observed during the summer course.

Last year's summer school had about 120 students registered. There have already been 30 pre-register for courses this year.

Assistant High School Principal Craig Fischer reminded students that this is the final summer they will be able to get quarter credits for summer schooling.

Q. Haven't the Germans perfected a motor vehicle capable of getting 1,580 miles to a gallon of gasoline?
A. That is true. Unfortunately, the "car" is only a foot high, holds a single person and averages only six miles per hour on a gently banked oval track.

Halliburton, city dads compromise on expansion

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Big Spring Steering Committee and a representative from Halliburton Services decided to compromise their objectives during a meeting at noon Wednesday.

Coy Schofield, the training administrator for Halliburton, told the committee of the company's wishes to expand its training operations here.

To accommodate this expansion, Schofield said, "We need to enlarge. The best place is Building 644." Halliburton's plans called for adding, 3,640 square feet to building 644. The proposed cost of constructing the improvements is $112,000, and Halliburton projected starting toward the addition Jan. 1, 1981.

Conflict arose over the new leasing arrangements the expansion would create.

The city's position was set out Feb. 5, 1980, in a letter from City Manager Don Davis to Schofield.

"My preference in accomplishing these improvements would be for Halliburton Services to make the modifications at your expense, with $474.76 amount deducted from your monthly rent over the duration of your existing contract (33 months)," the letter read. The $474.76 figure came, however, from a construction estimate of $15,667.

Members of the committee stuck to the position of Halliburton constructing the building at their expense and for the structure to revert to the city after a certain period of time. Halliburton would get to lease the 3,640 square feet rent free until the construction cost is realized.

To this, Schofield said, "It doesn't give us much incentive."

Halliburton is presently leasing two large and one smaller building at the park, paying a monthly rent of $1,020. Schofield said Halliburton would not be able to afford the rent and could not recover the cost of construction.

"What I am telling you gentlemen is we need an incentive here," Schofield said. "We would like to realize something."

The city then proposed Halliburton pay rent on at 7½ cents per square foot for the new structure, and their present rent of $1,020 on the three other buildings. A total of $1,000 would be deducted from the total rent payment, until the building is paid for. This means Halliburton would pay $293 monthly for their space.

In other action, the committee approved allowing D.L. Dorland to build a hangar south of Building 44. The building is to be located along the aircraft parking ramp. The monthly rent for Dorland, the committee decided, would be $100.

The site, known locally as "suicide curve," has been the location of many fatal traffic accidents. Nearby, the state Highway and Transportation Department is constructing an emergency ramp consisting of deep gravel. The ramp is intended to allow drivers traveling down the extremely steep hill to slow their vehicles when they go out of control.

Dunn said the tour was scheduled to travel to Branson, Mo., Wednesday night and remain there through Thursday night. He said the bus was delayed in Queen Wilhelmina State Park Lodge in northwestern Arkansas for about five hours Wednesday afternoon because of a faulty fuel pump.

Dunn said the tour was to go to Eureka Springs, Ark., just across the Missouri state line, on Friday to attend a passion play. The schedule called for the tourists to have a one-night stopover Friday in Rogers, Ark., in the extreme northwestern part of the state, before returning to Dallas on Saturday.

List of survivors from crash

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Thirteen persons were taken to the Boone County Hospital in Harrison with injuries early today following the crash of a chartered bus near Jasper.

for the Court of Criminal Appeals.

He was also a member of the committee that wrote in 1973 the Texas Penal Code. He is presently writing Branch's Annotated Penal Code.

Phillips was first elected to the Court of Criminal Appeals in 1976, after having practiced law for 39 years in Waco.

He has countered McCormick by saying, the purpose of the court is to study appeals and make sure lower court decisions are in accordance with the U.S. Constitution.

He also points out that he has written over 900 opinions on cases.

Phillips was awarded a Bachelor of Arts from Baylor University and his Doctor of Jurisprudence also from the Waco private college.

In the May 5 Primary, McCormick captured 40.59 percent of the vote, compared to Phillips' 32.82 percent.

Incumbent Judge Tom Davis, 58, is campaigning on his experience in his race for re-election against Austin-based attorney Edith Roberts, 41, for Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 3.

Davis has had over 20 years of experience in the judiciary. He was a district judge from 1959 to 1971. In 1971, he took the position of criminal appeals commissioner with the court.

He became a judge on the court in 1978 and has served two years.

Davis is regarded as a moderate member of the court with some leanings toward law and order, two area prosecutors said.

Roberts emphasizes her possible status as the first woman on the state's top criminal appellate court. She maintains this quality would lend a fresh approach to the court.

She is a graduate of Baylor University's law school. She was the first woman to serve as an assistant in the Travis County District Attorney's office. She is now in private practice.

A poll by the Texas Bar Association shows 66.7 percent of the responding attorneys favored Davis' re-election. A total of 15.5 percent favor Roberts for the judgeship.

In the general election, Davis had 41.33 percent of the vote and Roberts 31.16 percent.

United Way trustees approve $250,000 budget for 1981

After three days of budget hearings presented by the various member agencies of the United Way, the Howard County United Way board of trustees approved a $250,000 budget Wednesday for the 1981 United Way campaign, according to Ron Medley, United Way campaign chairman.

The United Way Budget Committee, which consists of Dr. Charles Hays, chairman; Medley, Dana Moore, Jerry Phillips, Sid Clark and Charles Bell, held budget hearings for three days last week and asked that each agency provide them a realistic budget of their agency within which they could operate and would not have to carry on any additional campaigns outside of the United Way.

After the agencies provided the Budget Committee with their request, the committee studied their requested budget and accepted them. The committee then presented the budgets to the trustees for their approval.

Medley told the trustees "these budgets represent more money than we have ever raised in Howard County. Myself and the others of my committee feel that this should be obtainable from the citizens in our community."

"Our committee, prior to the budget hearings, felt that we should be able to raise $250,000 and it just so happened that all of our budgets and operating expenses equal this amount," said Medley.

"I can assure you that we will not be able to obtain this without a lot of dedicated people and hard work. The Executive Board, the Campaign Committees and myself are dedicated to reach this goal. We feel that by October, our campaign month, we will be well organized, well planned, and enthusiastically prepared to accomplish this task."

Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Big Spring United Way, told the trustees, "this is a realistic goal and can be reached if the people of Big Spring all pull together and support these agencies that help so many of our citizens."

"This is an ambitious goal that we certainly feel we can achieve," said Medley. "Communities of our size should be in the range of a half million dollars. We need to get together and help support those less fortunate than us. Inflation and recession affect us all, but it affects those less fortunate than many of us," concluded Medley.

In other action taken by the trustees, a new agency was accepted into the United Way.

The DeTox Center is now an agency supported by the United Way. The primary function of the DeTox Center is to help alcoholics or drug abusers.

The center takes a person, male or female, who cannot be admitted to the VA or state hospital. They keep him or her for 5-10 days to "dry out". During this time, they receive medical care and are counseled. If officials feel it is necessary, they attempt to put the person in an AA unit, and then return them to their jobs. The DeTox Center's program is partially supported by the patients themselves.

Other agencies helped by United Way Funds are American Red Cross, West Side Center, Girl Scouts, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, YMCA, YMCA Lakeview, Salvation Army, Big Spring Boys Club, Howard County Family Services, Boy Scouts and the Day Care Center.

Judge rules no action

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A judge has ruled that Utah officials may not prosecute two convicted killers on charges stemming from another slaying 13 years ago, according to a deputy attorney general.

Michael Deamer said Wednesday the circuit judge ruled that Myron Lance and Walter Kelbach had been denied their right to a speedy trial on the charges.

Lance and Kelbach are serving life sentences in the slaying of two men who died in a 1966 killing spree that left five dead. Earlier this year, the attorney general's office filed charges against them in the slaying of a teen-ager who was among the five killed.

Harry Truman remembered

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) — They haven't found his body, but crusty old Harry Truman, who refused to leave his home on the slopes of a volcano, will be remembered in a memorial service this month.

Truman, 84, has been missing since the May 18 blast of Mount St. Helens that buried the area where he lived under mud and rubble. He had lived on the mountainside for 50 years and had scoffed at warnings that he might be in danger.

His relatives, including sister Geraldine Whiting, have scheduled a memorial service for June 14 at the American Baptist Church here.

Elderly persons harmed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two elderly people were hospitalized for observation after five men burst into a senior citizens home, pistol whipped residents and raped a blind woman, police said.

Capt. Joseph Lordan said police had few leads in the case. The incident occurred late Tuesday when the men, all apparently in their 20s, went from room to room terrorizing about 11 residents. Residents were treated for injuries and an 68-year-old blind woman was raped, he said. The men fled with about $100.

"Every time you think you've seen it all, something like this happens," he said.

Young nurse suspended

DOWNERS GROVE, Ill. (AP) — A hospital here has suspended a young nurse following the "unexplained deaths" of two patients under her care, says the attorney for Linda Kurlie.

Attorney Aldo E. Botti said Wednesday the 24-year-old woman was suspended May 29 after working at Good Samaritan Hospital for about seven months. He said the hospital's notice told her the suspension followed the deaths of two patients under her supervision and added he was told the deaths came from a sugar deficiency apparently caused by an overdose of insulin.

Botti said his client was innocent. Hospital officials declined comment.

Staff of 50 to 60 expected for SWCID fall semester

When Howard College begins its registration in the middle of August, it will be taking applications also for students for the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College, told the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday that the college branch for the deaf will be started then regardless of whether the college gets $299,000 from the state for rehabilitation of the Bachelor Officers Quarters at the former Webb AFB.

He is hopeful that this will be coming through soon, also that the General Services Administration will make the east end of the Webb AFB area available to HEW, and thence to Howard College.

Dr. Hays said from 100 to 150 students are expected the first semester. Inquiries are coming in at the rate of one a day, and so are applications for instructional and other jobs. He anticipated a staff of 50 to 60 at the outset, representing a million dollar payroll.

"One of the problems is to see if Big Spring can absorb and supply housing to that many professional families within the next three months," he said. There is a potential for growth up to 1,500 students (90 percent of deaf and students with seriously impaired hearing do not go to college-level training now) in five years. This would call for a budget of upwards of $10,000,000, financed out of state and federal funds.

At the beginning, he said, many of the students may require preparatory work, but they will be phased as soon as possible into vocational and technical training. The further advanced ones may participate in regular Howard College classes through help of interpreters (sign language) and note takers, plus tutors.

Dr. Hays traced the efforts to obtain the college from the city's effort a year ago when the state said there was a moratorium on new institutions. Thus, Howard College became involved. Doug Burke, he said, is heading the program and is one of the best qualified deaf educators in the country. Other outstanding personalities in the field will be sought for the faculty, he said.

Weather Another tornado hits Panhandle

By the Associated Press
A tornado destroyed one home and about 20 barns as it roared through a rural area north of Stinnett in the Texas Panhandle late Wednesday.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said no one was injured. Heavy rain accompanying the tornado and several heavy thunderstorms moving through the area forced the closing of Texas Ranch Road 207 about three miles north of Spearman.

Egg size hail was reported at Umbarger and golf ball size hail pelted Vega. Very heavy thunderstorms moved across portions of the Panhandle late Wednesday before moving northeastward into Oklahoma early today.

Forecasts called for more widely scattered rain mainly afternoon and evening thunderstorms in Northwest Texas and in the mountains of Southwestern Texas.

The remainder of the state was to have mostly clear skies and very warm to hot temperatures. Highs were to be mostly in the 90s except along the upper Texas coast where readings were expected to remain in the 80s. More scorching heat was in store for the area along the Rio Grande between El Paso and Brownsville. Highs along the river were expected to be between 100 and 112.

Some patches of low clouds were reported before dawn in South Texas and East Texas, but most of the state had fair skies.

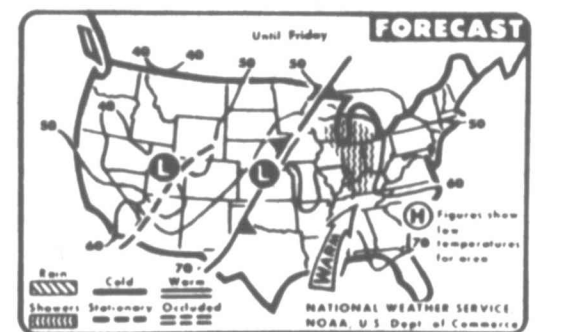

Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 70s. Extremes ranged from 67 at Marfa and 88 at Amarillo to 78 at Corpus Christi, Palacios and Galveston.

Presidio had the highest reading in Texas Wednesday with a 107.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy with continued very warm to hot afternoons. Highs 90s mountains and north to near 100 south except near 115 Big Bend. Lows 60s mountains and north to 70s south.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy north and mountains through Friday with widely scattered mainly afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms. Mostly fair south through Friday. Continued very warm to hot. Highs low 90s north to near 100 south except near 112 Big Bend. Lows mid 60s north to upper 70s south except near 60 mountains.

Forsan Municipal Swim Pool opening announced

The Forsan Municipal Swimming Pool has opened for the summer.

Hours are from 2 to 5 p.m., Tuesdays through Sundays. Forsan residents and their guests may attend.

The pool will also be open from 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays for those who work during the day. This policy will be continued as long as enough swimmers show interest.

Forsan residents who are interested in taking beginning swimming lessons may sign up with Jan East, pool director, at the concessimn area. Lessons will be held at times convenient to students and instructors.

Buses to the pool will run Tuesday through Friday. The bus will leave the Berea Area at 1:45 p.m. and arrive at the pool at 2 p.m. The bus will depart at 4 p.m. and arrive at the Berea Area 4:14 p.m.

Children unable to swim will not be allowed on the bus unless accompanied by an adult.

Don't drink like fish and expect to swim like one

A lot of drownings occur because people who drink like fish cannot swim like them afterward.

Alcohol can kill even good swimmers because it affects balance, coordination, vision and reasoning powers. It is easy to see why someone who has been drinking can fall out of a boat, lack the coordination to swim well, swim the wrong direction (some even swim down instead of up in dark water) or make bad decisions and die, the Texas Medical Association says. This scene is so common that 60 percent of the deaths related to water recreation involve alcohol, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department estimates.

The drinking boat driver is as dangerous to himself and others as the drinking driver. The wide-open lake offers no safety because the drinker must cope with fuzzy vision and impaired judgment, plus the normal hazards of boating. The drinking boater faces further hazards because alcohol may impair the ability to distinguish red and green, which are the colors of boat safety lights.

If a crash between boats does occur, the drinker has decreased survival chances because studies show that even people who can swim when sober do not perform well at all when drunk. One tragic example is the case of the healthy young water show worker who drowned in a swimming pool after drinking at a party.

The safe thing to do after a day of mixing hot sun and cool drinks is to let someone else handle the boat. Or better still, go easy on the alcohol and enjoy the other attractions of the water, TMA says.

LOW BRIDGE — Two members of a sailing craft's crew duck to avoid being struck by the mainsail as the helmsman works to adjust the canvas to get maximum benefit from the prevailing winds. The three people were enjoying an outing at Moss Creek Lake on a recent warm afternoon. What the three might have lacked in expertise in matters maritime, they certainly made up for in enthusiasm.

Jobless pay near-record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of people filing initial claims for unemployment insurance remained at near-record levels in late May, bolstering expectations of a sharp jump in last month's jobless rate, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said a seasonally adjusted 673,000 unemployed Americans filed initial claims for jobless benefits in the week ended May 24, down only slightly from the record 675,000 who filed claims the week before.

U.S. Census Bureau to conduct tests for local employment

The U.S. Census Bureau still has work to do in the Big Spring area and needs the assistance of local people to finish the job. Census officials will be at the Texas Electric Service Company building Friday afternoon, at which time they will undertake the testing of people who would like to help complete the census.

All persons interested in that kind of employment should be at the TESCO building promptly at 2 p.m. Friday.

Clean-up set for Forsan

The community of Forsan met at the Forsan High School Cafeteria Tuesday to plan their Spring Clean-Up Campaign.

The clean-up is scheduled for Saturday, June 21. Everyone is urged to meet at the Forsan Community Center at 7 p.m. with shovels, pickups, or just the desire to work hard and have fun with their neighbors.

Thurber reunion focuses attention on coal

The annual reunion of the Thurber Historical Association will be held June 14-15. The event is mentioned here because, after almost 60 years, coal fever is again raising in the Thurber community.

(Thurber itself is located on IS 20 east of Ranger. Travelers passing through Thurber, can look to the surrounding hills, all scarred, and realize that coal once was mined there).

TEXAS INDUSTRIES, a Dallas-based firm engaged in the manufacture of cement and light-weight aggregate, has opened a strip-mining operation south of New York hill in what was known as the Pickle-Simon field near Thurber.

Upwards to 20,000 tons of coal have been mined there in the new operation. This will, no doubt, increase as the company reaches full production. The company expects to mine 125,000 tons during the first two years and 135,000 tons the third year.

Thurber coal is, by no means, considered 'clean' coal. It has a thin parting of slate and sulphur about midway of the seam, and must be crushed and washed before it can be burned. This is accomplished at the mine before the coal is trucked to a new cement installation near Hunter, Tex., and a light-weight aggregate plant near Streetman.

Entertainment during the June 14-15 reunion will include old movies, fiddle music, puppets and, quite likely, a guided tour through the coal mining operation.

THURBER ONCE had 25,000 people, give or take a few. Now it consists of a service station, a restaurant and a house or two. There are no motels or other overnight accommodations in the immediate area but lodgings is available in Ranger, Mineral Wells and Stephenville, none of which is too far removed.

America's decision that oil alone could solve its energy problems led to Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company's decision to close its Number Three Mine in Thurber in 1923. Now America has decided it needs coal to cut down on the use of important oil and will use coal to produce part of its energy, thereby encouraging the mining of coal in a West Texas area that actually is not very well known.

The reunion will focus the spotlight on Thurber. The activity to recover the coal in the Pickle-Simon field is apt to keep it there.

Taxers strike back

Evans, Novak,

WASHINGTON — As part of his non-stop debate challenge to President Carter, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy made a serious effort to amass all remaining presidential candidates confronting an empty chair representing the absent Carter. The idea died when Ronald Reagan rejected it.

Top Kennedy aides approached Reagan's political high command just before the June 3 primaries with a proposed debate between Carter, Reagan, Kennedy, Rep. John Anderson and, if he were still running, George Bush. When the president inevitably refused to appear, he would be represented by an empty chair.

Reagan's men said no, contending they would wait until after the nominating conventions. Actually, they were surprised that Kennedy would risk unfavorable comparisons with the more articulate Anderson, who is wooing Kennedy's liberal constituency. But Kennedy would agree to any format in order to dramatize Carter's refusal to debate.

DEFENSE OR TAX CUTS? When Rep. Jack Kemp urged House Republicans to oppose the final version of the budget resolution despite its high defense spending levels, his telephone rang off the hook with outraged calls from defense experts who, like Kemp, are advisers to Ronald Reagan.

INCLUDED WERE Dr. Paul Inkle, director of the Disarmament Agency during the Ford administration; Dr. John Lehman, who was Inkle's deputy director and retired Lt. Gen. Edward Rowny, a former arms control negotiator. All pleaded with Kemp not to join anti-defense liberal Democrats in an unwholly alliance sure to defeat the budget resolution.

Kemp, who will be chairman of the defense policy panel on the Republican national platform committee, wants high defense spending. But he contends that the high taxation levels in the budget resolution undercut basic Republican economic arguments for the fall campaign. Before taking that position, he conferred with Reagan's national chairman, Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, and won his support. Reagan himself has stayed neutral.

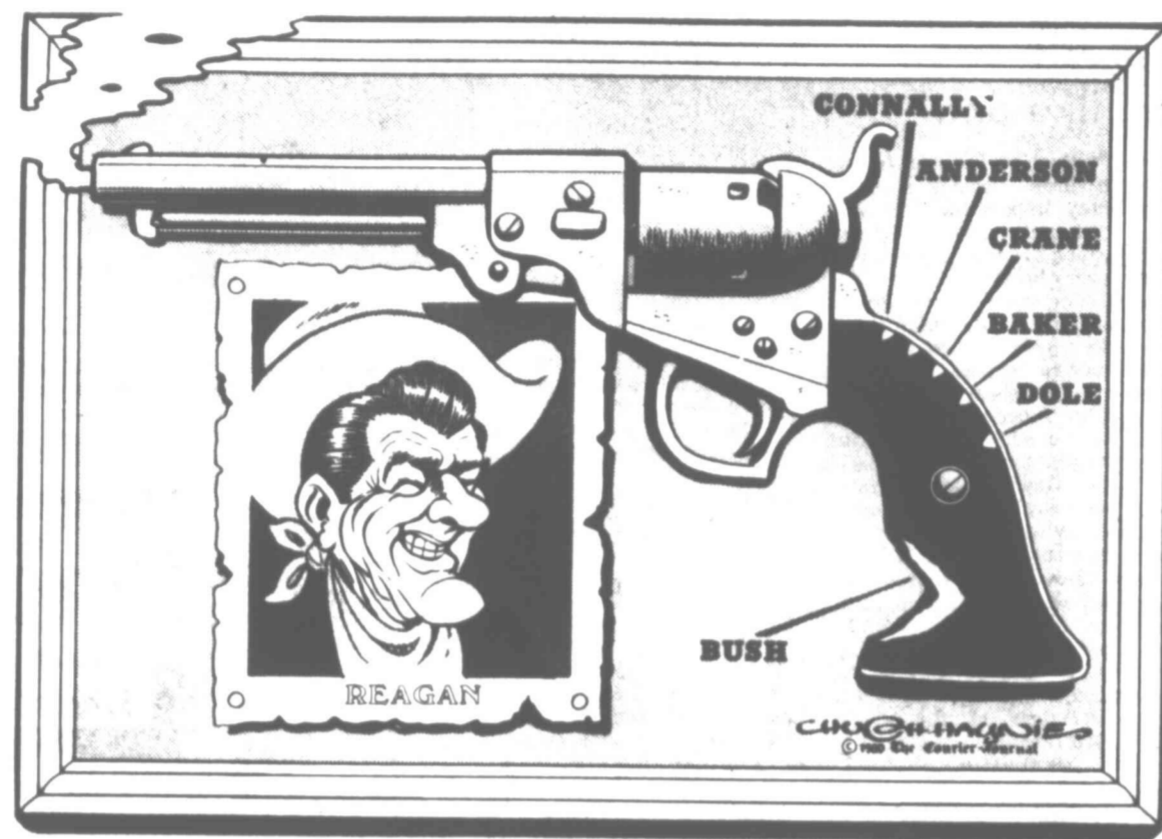

RR LOVES HENRY Ronald Reagan stunned a closed-door breakfast session here recently when he praised Henry A. Kissinger as "a great American" who had served "honorably" as secretary of state for Presidents Nixon and Ford.

What surprised the television-radio correspondents at the off-the-record session was the difference between the appraisal of Kissinger and Reagan's dismissal of Kissinger at a Boca Raton, Fla., press conference during the Florida Republican primary campaign last winter. On that occasion, he said that Kissinger would never be secretary of state in his administration.

When one reporter at the breakfast here recalled the earlier remark, Reagan looked startled, then said: "I don't remember saying that." Still, there is no chance Reagan as president would reinstate Kissinger at the State Department.

RECRUITING IN NICARAGUA Latest intelligence out of revolutionary Nicaragua points to this ominous development: a decision by the Marxist Sandinista government to train young Nicaraguans to fly Soviet MiG fighter aircraft in an Eastern European flight school.

The report, circulated at highest Pentagon levels by the Defense Intelligence Agency DIA, places the flight-training school in a surprising location: Bulgaria.

Death Valley Days Memento

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Fast heart raises anxieties

Dear Dr. Donohue: This question may seem a bit out of the ordinary, but I have become concerned about several friends of mine who are taking "speed" to lose weight and stay awake. They are taking pills that look like miniature aspirins and are white. Will these pills have any short- or long-term bad effects? Do you think I am being overanxious, or is there cause for concern? The pills are being made by college students. —S.S.

The wisdom of using amphetamines for weight loss is questionable at best. They do not suppress the "appetite centers" of the brain. They do stimulate other areas of the brain, causing agitation and activity. They raise blood pressure.

The use of amphetamines to overcome sleepiness, except in special cases, (narcolepsy, for example) should also be discouraged. The amphetamines should be used only under medical supervision. Abuse of them can cause insomnia, personality changes, headaches and disturbance of the heart beat. The users should know better.

Yes, you have good reason for concern. Besides, drugs manufactured in crude facilities often contain various impurities, increasing the dangers.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was involved in an accident four years ago that caused damage to my back. My family doctor then prescribed Percodan to ease the pain. I have taken it daily since. I have been warned that I shouldn't be taking it, but I don't know what else I should do for the pain. My back condition was called non-operable then. I'll look for your answer. —D.L.M.

Percodan is a combination drug containing a semi-synthetic narcotic drug similar to morphine, also aspirin, caffeine and phenacetin, another pain-reliever. It may be habit forming.

I am sorry you are having such severe back pain this long after your accident. Perhaps it is time to consult a neurosurgeon or a neurologist to see if any procedure is now available to ease your pain.

If there is none, and if only a narcotic can make your pain tolerable, then, under your doctor's guidance, it is acceptable to use it. Your kidney function should be checked from time to time because of the phenacetin in the Percodan. It might also be time to see if a non-narcotic pain reliever can be used. At any rate, it is time for re-evaluation of your problem and your medication. If a non-narcotic medicine is to be used you may have to withdraw from the present medicine gradually, especially in light of the amounts of it you have been using for such a long time. For a discussion of such pain, see my new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems." For a copy, mail 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What can you tell me about Behcet's syndrome? I was diagnosed as having this in 1974. I am on prednisone. —Mrs. L.P.

Behcet's syndrome is a rare and unpleasant condition. The disease is characterized by recurring ulcers of the mouth and genital area. Often the eye is inflamed.

It's another one of those illnesses whose cause is not known. People who have it may have an accompanying arthritis. There is a very peculiar reaction that takes place in people with Behcet's. After they have had a needle injected into their skin, they often develop a little pus-filled sore about 24 hours afterward at the injection site.

The symptoms of Behcet's come and go, and there may be periods of weeks or years when there are no symptoms at all. Steroids (such as your prednisone) are used for treatment. I hope you will soon enter a period where all your symptoms go away.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Have you heard of flu vaccine being given for herpes simplex infection? How effective is it?

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: The most important thing I have learned in college is that I don't have all the answers. I particularly don't know anything about God. How can I find out about Him? —B.C.N.

DEAR B.C.N.: I recently conducted a mission in Great Britain at two of the most respected universities in the world. One of the things which interested me most was the spiritual hunger and the searching for God which characterized a vast number of the students and faculty. I think many of them had discovered what you have expressed.

How can you find out about God. You already know that you cannot discover God just by your own intellectual powers. In fact, the Bible warns us that our minds can lead us astray if we are not careful. You know that there are many, many competing philosophies today. They may have been proposed by equally brilliant men, and may seem equally logical. Yet they cannot all be right, and none of them can tell you about God with any certainty. But you can know about God and, more than that, you can come to know Him personally. You can do this because God has not left us to grope and feel blindly for Him. No, God has revealed Himself to us. He has done this by coming down on this earth in the person of His Son, Jesus Christ. That is an incredible thought — God has walked on this planet! How do I know this is true? Because Jesus Christ not only was born uniquely and lived a unique life; He also died and then rose from the dead. If this is true — and it is — Jesus Christ is God's Son and you can come to know what God is like by looking at Him.

When you look at Christ, the Son of God, one of the greatest things you will discover is that God loves you. The proof of that is that He was willing to bridge the gap between Himself and you — a gap caused by sin. And by committing your life to Christ in faith and trust, you can discover for yourself that God is alive and comes into your heart.

I have read of this being tried, but have no evidence that it is effective in treating herpes infections. Because such infections are widespread and so troublesome, literally hundreds of ways have been sought to alleviate the condition. Most have been discarded as impractical or useless.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

I was told that a pregnant woman should not eat food cooked in a microwave oven. Is there any truth to this? —Mrs. E.A.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hard to stop

Around the rim

Steve Hershberger

"Well," I told my friend, "it looks like it's going to be Reagan and Carter in November."

"Uh huh," he replied knowledgeably. "Guess so. I'd never vote for Reagan."

This was a curious statement, for my friend holds to the principles and views that the former California governor has. He is for a stronger defense, and Kemp-Roth and opposed to abortion and federal administration of welfare.

"Why?" I asked him. "Oh, you know, he is too old," he said. "I think his health would interfere with his performance in office."

THIS QUESTION of age, and hence health, has been mentioned in various degrees since Ronald Reagan began his move for the Republican presidential nomination.

Although Reagan — at least to my limited knowledge — is in good health, the truth of the matter is that some of our best presidents were men of poor health.

Andrew Jackson came to Washington in 1822 standing 6-ft. tall and carrying just 129-pounds. Observers at the time thought Old Hickory's health was so poor he would not be able to make it through one term. Jackson served two.

Jackson suffered from a childhood disorder that made him spit and drool constantly. He also had a condition of itchiness that made him scratch ceaselessly.

In his 74 years, he suffered from at various times dysentery, small pox, gunshot wounds, bronchial infection, severe toothaches, malaria, acute headaches, diarrhea, and partial blindness.

Even with his poor health, Jackson was able to establish the supremacy of federal law over state laws during a turbulent time in our country, the period before the Civil War.

He could claim three foreign affairs triumphs: the 1823 Treaty with Siam — the first American pact with an Asian country; an important trade

Ties questioned

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The patriotic rhetoric that is accompanying the Pentagon's pending massive budget increase serves to obscure a sordid, politics-as-usual fact of life; the American flag is being wrapped around one of the biggest peacetime pork barrels in history.

While Senate and House hawks raise shrill alarms about Soviet military superiority, the private talk in Capitol cloakrooms centers on more practical considerations — how to ensure fat defense contracts for home states and congressional districts. Here are some examples of the "super-patriots' super-salesmanship:

THE POWERFUL Texas delegation — led by Rep. Jim Wright, the House Democratic leader, and Sen. John Tower, ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee — is demonstrating once again that it can bring home the bacon. Without even a vote, Wright succeeded in getting approval of $10 million to study expansion of production on the F-111 fighter-bomber, which General Dynamics builds in his district. And when the White House eliminated $112.9 million for A-7K attack planes produced by Vought Corp. in Grand Prairie, Texas, the Texans bullied the administration into restoring the money.

Fairchild Republic's plant in Hagerstown, Md., was to have closed production of the A-10 anti-tank plane this year after delivering a final order of 106 aircraft. But under pressure from the Maryland delegation, the administration agreed to increase the production run to 198 A-10s and extend it over four years. Rep. Beverly Byron, D-Md., even managed to secure a $30 million House authorization to produce a new two-seater version.

Frank Saltinsek used to be the House Armed Services Committee counsel. Now he's a lobbyist for Grumman Aerospace Corp. A legislative aide told my associate Peter Grant that Saltinsek "is hovering around constantly" and "calls every day." His efforts apparently paid off: The House granted Grumman $500 million of the Pentagon budget increase.

A weapon's performance sometimes runs second in importance to political clout. Northrup's F-18 plane, for example, has had problems with landing gear malfunction, leaky fuselage and faulty wing design. But Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., in whose district Northrup manufactures the F-18, had no difficulty getting approval for an increase in this year's plane orders from 48 to 72, at an additional cost of about $500 million.

THE HOUSE Armed Services Committee staff, noting that the Patriot missile had performed properly in only five of its last 12 test shots, cut back its budget by $90 million. But the missile's builder, Raytheon, is in a district next to House Speaker Tip O'Neill's. After a agreement with Great Britain; and payment from France for debts to Americans from plundering Yankee ships during the Napoleonic Wars.

The spirit of Jackson's presidency fostered Jacksonian Democracy which is still present in many of our political institutions today. He also set an enduring pattern for selecting the president. This was showing the electorate a humble beginning, success through self-reliance and a commitment to democracy.

George Washington was a hypochondriac, being overly occupied with imaginary ailments. He used a variety of folk medicines and herbs to ease his ills and believed in blood letting for medicinal purposes.

The first president of this country died — not surprisingly — taking his own pulse.

WASHINGTON, IT must be remembered, was indispensable to this country. He established our federal system by setting a model for the presidency. In other words, he created the role of the presidency as the chief executive.

Abraham Lincoln suffered from chronic depression. Historical accounts relate that friends believe our 16th president was contemplating many times suicide.

Lincoln established several enduring principles for this nation, principally this nation can not be divided.

He also set forth the democratic ideal of equality and civil rights.

Lastly, Franklin Roosevelt was paralyzed from the waist down. He suffered from hypertension and heart problems.

Despite his many problems, he led this nation out of the worst economic disaster it had ever experienced and led this country through World War II.

Men with lesser hurdles have done much less as presidents. Look at Harding, Hoover and Arthur. History shows that presidents with great obstacles have overcome them. Reagan, if elected, could be the rule, not the exception.

When I reported last March that some 100 Iranian Jewish refugees were having trouble getting visas to enter the United States, the State Department hotly denied the story. "Thousands" of Iranian minority refugees, including Jews, had been allowed into the country in recent months, the department said.

New evidence has come to hand that confirms my original story, and exposes the State Department's denial as misleading at best. One of the nation's most distinguished Jewish leaders, who dislikes publicity and requested that his name be withheld, wrote me a letter on the subject. The Iranian Jews who were allowed into the United States, he wrote, were largely those who had been to this country before and held valid re-entry visas enabling them to return within four years.

But he indicated that first-time applicants were often running into bureaucratic red tape at our Paris and London consulates — just as I had reported.

In addition, a confidential internal State Department memo confirms my report that Foggy Bottom officials can't decide how to handle the Iranian Jewish refugees stranded in Europe. When immigration authorities tried to get some guidance on the subject, the State Department failed to send a key representative to discuss the situation.

My report brought quick, if temporary, results. Less than two weeks after it was published, cables were sent to U.S. consular officials instructing them to show "sympathy and understanding" in processing entry applications from Iranian Jews and other minorities.

But since April 7, when President Carter announced tighter restrictions on Iranians, even those with long-standing visas are having problems getting into the United States.

SPOOK SCOOPS: Frustrated in their efforts to deal with Iran's mercurial mullah, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the CIA's headquarters personnel have resorted to voodoo: The swivel-chair spooks have installed a dashboard centering on Khomeini's portrait. This black magic may not hurt the ayatollah, but it helps the CIA let off a little steam.

Bluestocking bureaucrats at the CIA were scandalized to learn that a toothsome young secretary had "blown her cover" in a recent issue of Playboy magazine. Her willingness to bare everything may cost her job; she has already been transferred. Insiders suggest the spooks may simply have been offended that their pet poseur didn't even rate the centerfold, and was in fact paid less than $100 for her exposure.

House votes to kill bill

Carter promises veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is vowing to veto legislation to kill his 10-cent-a-gallon gasoline fee, but lopsided votes against him in both the House and Senate suggest he faces a losing battle.

The House voted 376-30 and the Senate 73-16 Wednesday to repeal the fee. Both votes were well over the two-thirds margin that must be delivered in both chambers to override a veto.

The bill to formally kill the levy could reach Carter's desk later today after the House and Senate resolve minor differences over what form it should take.

Wednesday's votes dealt Carter one of the severest congressional energy defeats of his presidency.

If Carter follows through on his veto threat, he could become the first Democratic president to have a veto overridden since Congress in 1952 forced an immigration bill into law over Harry S. Truman's protest.

Carter has cast 21 vetoes, including two this year, all of which have been sustained. While the House passed a simple bill to knock down the fee outright, the Senate attached it to a 30-day extension of the federal debt limit.

Thus the House was having to decide today whether to go along with the Senate version or to request a conference with the Senate to iron out the differences.

Regardless of its form, the measure to kill the fee is expected to reach the president before week's end.

Carter told reporters Wednesday he plans to veto the bill in whatever form it reaches him and even if no more than one member of Congress is willing to support him. Carter said imposition of the fee was "not a popular decision...but in my judgment it is right for our country."

Failure to impose it, the president said, will "send a clear signal to oil-producing nations and oil-consuming nations that we do not mean business, that we will not take a firm stand to conserve oil and we will pay much higher prices for oil in the future."

Victims' families want book profits in escrow

CHICAGO (AP) — The story should be told, but no writer and no lawyer should profit from the macabre tale of mass-murderer John Wayne Gacy Jr., says the older brother of the last of Gacy's 33 young male victims.

"It's the idea that people are just going to, I don't know how to put it exactly, you know, make money off it, that disgusts me," said Kenneth Piest, a 26-year-old medical student.

The story of America's most notorious multiple slayer is potentially worth millions in book and other media rights. The issue of just who should reap those profits is at the center of a suit by Harold Piest, father of the slain 15-year-old Robert Piest.

In a telephone interview from his parents' suburban home in Des Plaines, Ill., Kenneth Piest said only the public should profit from artistic works exploring Gacy's pathological mind.

Gacy, 38, now on Death Row, was sentenced to die in the electric chair after being convicted March 12 in the sex-related slayings of 33 young men and boys. Most of the bodies were exhumed from shallow graves in a crawl space under Gacy's home near Des Plaines.

The suit was filed against Gacy, his two Chicago defense lawyers, a Houston writer, the writer's California literary agent and the agency. It asks a Cook County judge to place into a court-run escrow account profits derived from any exclusive media rights to the story.

On May 27, Circuit Court Judge George Higgins granted a second 10-day restraining order, blocking Gacy, the writer, the agent and his literary agency from using any profits derived from the case. A hearing on the matter is set for this Friday. A new Illinois law already bars Gacy from making money by selling his story. The law orders that profits from sales of a convicted felon's story be held in a state escrow account to pay claims awarded to relatives of the victims.

But James Corrigan, the Piest lawyer, said the family thinks the law should cover more than just Gacy's profits.

"Their point is that if a book is published, Gacy and his lawyers and others should not be unduly enriched," Corrigan said.

Gacy has signed a contract assigning exclusive rights to his story to Houston writer Clyde Burleson and Burleson's West Coast literary agent, Robert Goldfarb, according to Goldfarb. Gacy also has released his defense lawyers, Sam Amirante and Robert Motta, so they can freely discuss their involvement in the case.

Burleson and Goldfarb said they plan to interview Gacy and retrace his life to delve into the psychological forces that drove the man.

"I'm just not a sensationalist guy," said Burleson, 46, whose first book, "The Jennifer Project," was about the recovery by the CIA of a sunken Soviet submarine from the Pacific Ocean.

"I think the driving question in this Gacy thing is: 'Why, why did the man do it?'" Burleson said. "I want to do an insider's book to crawl around John Gacy's head, to walk the streets he walked."

"It is either going to be a work of the quality of 'In Cold Blood' or 'The Executioner's Song' or it will not be at all," said Goldfarb. "It's got to be an important work."

Kenneth Piest, referring to Norman Mailer's Pulitzer Prize-winning book, "The Executioner's Song" — a "true life novel" about convicted killer Gary Gilmore's 1977 execution by a Utah firing squad — said: "We don't fear the serious kind of thing on it, but that takes time."

Goldfarb said he thought the Piest suit was groundless.

He said: "No money has changed hands. No money has been pledged."

The suit originally included Amirante and Motta. But Higgins excused them, and they agreed to place their profits under court control.

But Amirante said: "I think it's absurd. Why go after the lawyers? Why not the prosecutor, or some reporters?"

American Civil Liberties Union, who represented Amirante and Motta at the May 27 hearing, argued for safeguard against prior restraint of publication.

Kenneth Piest said his father's suit is not aimed at preventing publication, but only at possible gross commercial exploitation.

The Illinois law barring Gacy from gaining financially from his crimes — dubbed the "Son of Sam" bill for the New York murders committed by former postal clerk David Berkowitz — took effect Sept. 22. Its sponsor, state Sen. Lynn Martin, said he introduced it to block book profits to a Rockford man convicted of murdering his six sleeping children in 1978.

"I just couldn't believe it," Mrs. Martin said. "The thought that he might profit financially by killing his kids made me sick."

But she said the law should not be extended to block writers, movie or television producers and lawyers from financial profits derived from works about crime.

Mortgage rates finally start to drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — After climbing steadily for 2 1/2 years, home mortgage interest rates finally are coming down.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which oversees the nation's savings and loan associations, reported Wednesday that the average interest rate on loan commitments fell from a record 16.59 percent in April to 15.72 percent in May.

That was the first decline since October 1977 and was the sharpest one-month drop on record, the board said. The comparable figure for May 1979 was 10.83 percent.

The commitment rate is the interest rate a thrift institution agrees to charge on a mortgage to be closed at some future date.

Conventional mortgage interest rates rose to more than 17 percent in some areas earlier this year, but have begun easing as the developing recession curbs demand for business and consumer loans.

While the commitment figure for future loans is dropping, the interest rate on mortgages actually closed last month rose to a record 13.98 percent, the bank board said. That was up from 13.46 percent in April and marked the 36th consecutive monthly increase. By comparison, the average closing rate in May 1979 was 10.56 percent.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday that the vacancy rate for apartments fell from 5.2 percent in the fourth quarter of 1979 to 5 percent in the first quarter of 1980.

Both figures are considerably below the 6 percent to 7 percent vacancy range most experts say is needed if renters are to have a significant choice about where they choose to live.

Georgia inmate saves himself from execution

ATLANTA (AP) — After family, friends and lawyers failed to stop the death watch for Jack Howard Potts, the 35-year-old convicted killer saved himself from the electric chair with a last-minute decision to renew his appeals and use publicity to force improvements in Georgia jails.

Shortly before, a U.S. District judge had refused to allow friends and American Civil Liberties Union lawyers to intervene on Potts' behalf. Earlier, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused to issue a stay of execution. And Gov. George Busbee also said he would not intervene to stop the first execution here in 16 years.

The newly launched appeals could delay his execution, which had been set for 10:30 a.m. today, for two years, lawyers said.

Potts, facing twin death sentences for the kidnapping and murder of 24-year-old Michael Priest in May 1975, had fired his lawyers last fall and said he was ready to die.

When his mother visited Wednesday afternoon, Potts still was resolved to die and his last words to her were, "Goodbye mother, I'll see you in heaven," she said.

But at 7 p.m., after hours of pleading by his brother and a former girlfriend, he changed his mind, just 15 hours before he was to be executed at the Georgia State Prison near Reidsville.

"Jackie Potts is not afraid to die," said a statement written by anti-death penalty lawyers and signed by Potts.

"His new religious faith (Catholicism) convinced him that he could be of assistance to other people," the statement said. "He discovered that he could use the media attention that had focused on him to publicize the inhuman and unconstitutional conditions under which all the inmates of the Georgia State Prison at reids-ville have suffered."

Priest's mother, Mary, was furious when she learned from a television report that Potts had won a stay of execution.

"Why doesn't he just get it over with? He has played with us — everybody — for five years," the suburban Atlanta hairdresser said. "You know what I think of when I see the taxes taken out of my paycheck every week? I'm helping to support the man who killed my son."

Potts changed his mind after his brother, John, and former girlfriend, Diane Nicholson, spent hours "begging him constantly" to renew his appeals.

The stay was granted by U.S. District Judge William C. O'Kelley, who had denied the "next friend" petition of the ACLU and joined by Potts' friend, the Rev. Murphy Davis, and a cousin, Leonard Potts. The ACLU had argued that Potts was not mentally competent when he decided not to continue appeals last fall. But O'Kelley ruled Potts was competent and that neither Davis nor Leonard Potts were qualified to intervene as a "next friend."

The stay will remain in effect until O'Kelley holds a hearing on Potts' petition for review of his case. No date was set for that hearing.

Begin reveals talks with king of Jordan

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Israeli officials negotiated with King Hussein of Jordan over the disputed West Bank territories, but did not reach an agreement, the Amarillo Globe News has reported.

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin revealed the talks for the first time during an interview with three American journalists in Israel.

The American journalists included James L. Whyte, vice president and general manager of the Globe News, and Bill Shipp, associate editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

The newspaper reported in its Wednesday editions that Begin said there had been talks "many times" with Hussein. He declined to say where or when the meetings took place.

The Constitution reported in its Thursday editions that Begin's disclosure of some details of attempts to negotiate a peace settlement with Hussein startled some members of his own staff.

The 67-year-old prime minister said negotiations were first begun by the Labor Party government and later tried by his own foreign minister, Moshe Dayan.

Under the proposal offered Hussein, Israel would have retained total control of Jerusalem, maintained troops at strategic points in the West Bank and offered Jordan a free port at Haifa, Begin said.

Israel would have also given Jordan parts of the West Bank, including the valley of the Jordan River, Begin said.

"The little king said 'totally unacceptable, under no circumstances,'" Begin said, adding that Hussein insisted on control of the entire West Bank and East Jerusalem.

Begin also told the journalists Israel intended to establish 10 new settlements on the West Bank and reinforce present settlements there.

He said the settlements would be the last ones set up on the West Bank.

Mexico now channel for drug traffic

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Illegal Mexican drugs are being eradicated but the country has become a channel for heroin and marijuana from South America to the United States, authorities were told Wednesday.

Ninety-four percent of known opium and marijuana fields have been wiped out and the remainder will be destroyed by the end of this year, said Samuel Alba Leyva, attorney general of Mexico.

He joined attorneys general from New Mexico and California at a border crime conference here. Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt told 150 delegates that crime problems spanning the border "are too important to be left to diplomats in Mexico City and Washington, D.C."

Terry Grimble, director of the Arizona Drug Control District in Tucson, described drug traffic from South America through Mexico to the United States. It has created addiction and crime problems in Mexico, he said.

Southbound traffic includes $47 million in stolen property and $625,000 worth of stolen cars from California alone, said George Deukmejian, California attorney general. American cars which sell legitimately for $20,000 in Mexico are stolen in the United States and peddled at half price south of the border, Deukmejian said.

Beagley in comeback

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The national pro rodeo circuit found competition ending this past weekend at Ingleswood, Calif., and pro cowboys are now looking forward to major rodeos in such cities as Fort Smith, Ark., Santa Maria, Calif., and Reno, Nev.

Reno's Association Rodeo is a key stop for the cowboy traveling the national Pro Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) circuit, offering an anticipated total payoff of more than $100,000. The rodeo paid a total of $96,400 in 1979.

Reno will open June 25 and run through June 29, featuring Cotton Rosser's Flying U stock in six performances. Reno is also a Winston Series Rodeo; cowboys who accumulate the most points during the year at Series rodeos earn a $10,000 cash bonus from the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

Jerry Beagley of Medicine Lodge, Kan., who was seriously injured at the Black Velvet Pro Rodeo Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas only two weeks ago, has proved that a few knocks on the head don't slow him down. Beagley won the Ingleswood bull riding competition this past weekend with an 86-point ride on Flying U's "Widow Maker" for $1,321. Only days before, Beagley placed second in New Orleans bull riding competition for $1,500.

At the Black Velvet Tournament, Beagley sustained head injuries requiring some 200 stitches. The determined cowboy, who was runner-up to the 1979 bull riding world title, currently stands seventh in PRCA world standings with a total of $11,825.

Other Ingleswood winners included Gary Hemsted of Anderson, Calif., who won the bareback riding and $855. Hemsted won the second round of bareback competition, scoring 80 points on Flying U's "Two Bits." The win moves him into eighth place in PRCA bareback standings with a total of $8,037.

In saddle bronc riding, Skeeter Humble of Phoenix, Ariz., and Bob W. Brown of Bedford, Tex., split first place at Ingleswood for $795 apiece. In steer wrestling ranks, Jack Hannum of Ogdon, Utah (who was third for the steer wrestling world championship last year) took home that event at the Ingleswood rodeo for $1,176.

It was a day for the Camarillo family in the other timed events at Ingleswood. Brothers Leo Camarillo of Lockeford, Calif., and Jerold Camarillo of Oakdale, Calif., split first-place honors in the calf roping for a total of $1,014 each.

Both brothers also placed in the team roping. Jerold, along with partner Julio Moreno of Marysville, Calif., split first place (with George Richards of Humboldt, Ariz.

and partner Matt Silveira of Nipomo, Calif.) Leo, along with partner Tee Woolman of Llano, Tex., won the second round of team roping for $673. The win moves them into the lead in PRCA team roping standings with a total of $11,214, passing former leaders Doyle Gellerman of Oakdale, Calif., and Walt Woodard of Stockton, Calif., by $435. Gellerman and Woodard had led the team roping standings since early in the 1980 season.

In other PRCA national standings, Butch Kirby of Alba, Tex., has pulled out in front of Denny Flynn of Charleston, Ark. in PRCA bull riding world standings. Flynn had also led PRCA standings in that event for virtually all of the season thus far; Kirby now leads by $770, with a total of $20,281.

Seven instructors will teach at District 7 4-H Horse Camp

SAN ANGELO — Seven well-known instructors will teach here June 12-15 at the District 7 4-H Horse Camp.

Dr. Darrell Ueckert, coordinator, said registration for the camp will begin at 5 p.m. June 12, at the 4-H Building.

Sponsors are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Tom Green County 4-H Horse Club and San Angelo Board of City Development.

Purpose of the annual camp is to provide training from experts in basic horsemanship and in showing horses at various events.

Ueckert said two parts of the program are new this year: instruction for youths who like speed events (barrel racing and pole bending) and for adults wanting to increase their horsemanship skills so that they might teach others.

Instructions in arts and crafts are also scheduled.

The camp, to end Sunday noon, June 15, will be at the San Angelo Rodeo and Fairgrounds.

Ueckert said the fee this year is $30 plus $10 for the maintenance of the grounds.

The instructors, all from the area, are Jo Ann Snodgrass, Rusty Ryan, Jim Hargett, Terry Criner, Jimmy Pool, Jamie Pool and Kathy Wheeler.

Local woman $100 richer

A Big Spring woman won recently $100 in a contest conducted by the Fuller Brush Company.

Frances Hooper of 1611 State was one of three persons in West Texas to win in the Team Builder Contest. The contest allowed an entry for each person who recruited a person for Fuller Brush employment.

Frances, who is a Fuller Brush representative here, recruited six persons.

About winning, she said, "I was shocked. I had never won anything."

Frances said she and the family plan to use the money toward a vacation this summer in Kerrville. She will be rewarded the check Monday afternoon in Lubbock at a Fuller seminar.

Area reopened near Volcano

SEATTLE (AP) — With seismic activity dropping off, loggers, reporters and residents will be permitted to enter a 20-mile "red zone" around Mount St. Helens that previously had been off-limits to all but rescue workers.

The area was formally reopened today, but those entering the area had to have special permits. The first permits were not expected to be issued until Friday, and then could only be used when the mountain is visible. The volcano has been quiet for the past few days, with intermittent bursts of steam containing little ash.

Pearson installed as chairman of THA

HOUSTON — Alton Pearson, President of Hillcrest Baptist Hospital in Waco, was installed as chairman of the Texas Hospital Association (THA) during ceremonies held May 28, at the Association's 51st Annual Convention and Exhibit Show here.

He succeeds W. Clay Ellis, FACHA, Administrator of Wichita General Hospital in Wichita Falls.

Pearson has been active in THA for many years. He has served on various committees and councils, has chaired the State Hospital Advisory Committee on Utilization Review and has represented his region as a delegate to the Association's House of Delegates. Pearson has also held a number of positions on the THA Board of Trustees. These include a three-year term as Trustee, followed by terms as Treasurer, Vice-Chairman and Chairman-Elect. He currently represents Texas as a delegate to the American Hospital Association and is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

Pearson began his career in hospitals as Director of Personnel and Public Relations at Hillcrest Baptist Hospital. He was elevated to the position of Assistant Administrator within two years and served in that capacity for 14 years until being chosen as the Executive Director of Baptist Memorial's Geriatric Center in San Angelo. He returned to Hillcrest two years later as the Administrator and has been the chief executive officer of that institution since 1971.

Other officers elected by the THA House of Delegates at their final convention were: George M. Fleming, Ed.D., FACHA, executive director, San Jacinto Methodist Hospital, Baytown, chairman-elect; Gordon H. Russell, administrator, Hi-Plains Hospital, Hale Center, vice chairman; and Jerry A. Howard, administrator, Highland Hospital, Lubbock,

Two New York residents sue City of Odessa for $400,000

ODESSA — Two New York residents, Robert John O'Conner and Patricia Ann Sebak, have filed suit against the City of Odessa, claiming they were beaten while in the custody of city police two years ago. They are seeking $400,000 in damages.

Two former policemen and three other unidentified police officers have also been listed as defendants in the suit.

O'Conner and Sebak claim their injuries from the beatings forced them to seek treatment at a hospital here.

Group of Monahans residents march in support of doctor

MONAHANS — A group of Monahans residents staged a march into downtown Monahans Tuesday afternoon, urging the reinstatement of Dr. Robert G. Holston at Ward Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Holston, a general practitioner, was suspended from using the county-owned hospital in August 1979 by hospital administrator Robert Hill.

Hill's action was reviewed by the hospital medical staff the same month and was affirmed by the five medical doctors on the staff.

Hill declined an invitation to reveal the reason for Dr. Holston's suspension.

Dancer's variation

BALTIMORE (AP) — Aspiring dancer Donald Roeske takes center stage this weekend, not in a performance but in graduation ceremonies. He's the first — and only — graduate in his class of 1980.

Roeske, 17, is the only senior at the Baltimore Actors' Theater Conservatory. He graduates Saturday.

After attending John Carroll High School in Bel Air for the first three years of high school, he decided to become the only student in his class at the conservatory.

Roeske, who plans to major in dance next year at Towson State University, said he switched to the conservatory to get some special training before going to college.

The Baltimore Actors' Theater, a private group, opened the school in September to provide preparation in the theater arts along with conventional academic training. Students study traditional academic subjects in the morning and study music, drama and dance in the afternoon.

The school, on the campus of the College of Notre Dame, now has 10 students.

'Racehorse' rides to defense

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — TV cowboy Dusty Farlow will get a noted, real-life trial lawyer — Richard "Racehorse" Haynes — if he's indicted for shooting "Dallas" millionaire J.R. Ewing.

Someone — speculation about "whodunit" is driving "Dallas" fans nuts — gunned down ornery J.R. in this season's last episode of the CBS television series. And Farlow, a San Angelo rancher, is a prime suspect.

"The only thing Dusty is guilty of is poor marksmanship," says Haynes, who believes J.R. deserves to die.

"If he doesn't die, then lightning ought to strike him," Haynes told The San Angelo Standard-Times.

"Dusty is a lamb among wolves, while J.R. is outside the bounds of propriety within Christian morals," Haynes said.

The Houston defense attorney says the case is complicated by reports that Farlow died in a plane crash. But grand jurors apparently heard secret testimony that Farlow was not on the plane and they may indict him for attempted murder.

Grain prospects improve for Soviet Union recently

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for the Soviet Union's 1980 grain harvest have improved in recent weeks, but Agriculture Department officials say it still is too early for making firm production estimates.

However, most of those orders were cancelled by President Carter Jan. 4 in retaliation for the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan.

Although Moscow has been able to make up some of the curtailed grain from other foreign sources such as Argentina, U.S. experts say Soviet supplies have been squeezed severely and that planners hope for a bumper harvest this year to help rebuild stockpiles.

The report said that by late May spring plantings by Soviet farmers totaled about 82.1 million hectares of grain and pulses, which includes bean crops. That represented about 84 percent of the planned area for spring-planted crops, it said.

One hectare is equal to about 2.47 acres.

A month ago, the agency said its preliminary studies showed the Soviet Union may have nearly 32.2 million acres of winter grain — crops planted last fall — for harvest this summer, sharply more than last year and possibly equal to the area of winter crops harvested in 1978.

Two years ago, the Soviet Union harvested a record total grain crop of 237.2 million metric tons. But the 1979 harvest plummeted to 179 million metric tons, creating the need for additional U.S. grain to meet livestock feed requirements.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds. It is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat.

Moscow's target announced for 1980 is a total grain harvest of 235 million metric tons.

On May 9, the USDA agency said the Soviet goal "is not likely" to be met, based on conditions prevailing then. It said, however, that 1980 production could range between 190 million and 230 million metric tons.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers who were fortunate in having a good harvest of white corn last fall are seeing some of the best prices in years, thanks to a crop failure in South Africa.

White corn accounts for a small share of total U.S. corn output but is a big item in this year's export market, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Last year's total corn harvest was a record of nearly 7.8 billion bushels. But white corn production, representing only about 33.3 million bushels, declined from 1978.

Meanwhile, South Africa, which normally is the largest supplier of white corn on the world market, has had poor crops for two years running.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Make peace with Dad

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 14-year-old girl in a woman's body. Already I have been pregnant and had an abortion. When my dad found out that I was pregnant, we got into a big fight and now we hate each other. It's been this way for the last three months and my nerves are getting shot. Help! — Tammy, London, Ontario, Canada

Tammy: Be the one to offer a peace agreement. Talk to your dad and tell him that you made a big mistake but that you learned from it and that it won't happen again.

Tell him that you love him very much and that you want him to be your daddy again. With those words, he can't continue to hate and neither can you.

Dr. Wallace: I am a 14-year-old girl with a very serious problem.

My stepfather is unkind and has beaten me up several times. My mom seems totally oblivious to this fact and merely excuses his actions.

But at this time, this is not my problem.

What I want to do is find my real father. I know his name but not much more. My mother will not give me any information about him, but instead starts screaming at me telling me that he is probably in jail.

Is there any possible way to locate my father with this small amount of information? If so, where do I go? If not, what other information do I need?

I desperately need an answer because my mother is threatening to send me away. "So I won't ruin her marriage." — Caren, Seattle, Wash.

Caren: Contact your local Salvation Army. They do need to know more information such as where your father was born, where your parents were married, your father's birthdate, his occupation and where he was last seen.

But even if you can't find out all of the information, the Salvation Army will help.

Dr. Wallace: My sister ran away with her boyfriend because she told him that my parents were beating her, which was not true. The only time my parents hit her was when she cussed at them and they only hit her across the mouth.

Now my parents are worried and I don't know how to help. — Bonnie, Columbus, Ohio

Bonnie: The best thing you can do is to be a trusting, loving daughter and to bring joy to your parents.

You have an advantage. You have observed your sister so now you know what not to do.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20 in care of this newspaper.

Wooden utensils need care

COLLEGE STATION — Wooden cooking utensils need special care — for safety's sake, a clean look and longer utensil life, says Lillian Chenoweth, a family resource management specialist.

Special care should be taken with boards used for raw meat products, she cautions.

Mrs. Chenoweth is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Always clean the surface of chopping boards, butcher blocks and other wooden cutting surfaces with a hot, sudsy cloth — or keep the surface wet 5-15 minutes with a bleach and water solution. Rinse thoroughly and dry with a clean towel.

Periodically, stains and scratches may need sanding with fine sandpaper. Wash the surface thoroughly after sanding. When dry, rub the board with clear mineral oil, let stand a few hours, then wipe off excess oil.

For new wooden surfaces, the wash-and-oil treatment serves as a conditioning step before using the surface.

Wooden spoons also may require occasional care, including sanding, washing and rubbing with oil.

Avoid leaving a wooden utensil in a microwave oven when cooking, too, since it will dry the wood and may cause it to crack.

Discover pearls, the symbol of love

Birth date in June? — lucky you, says the Jewelry Industry Council, the pearl is the birthstone for June. Long before the beauty of polished gems was known, pearls were a mark of distinction, wealth, and power. Throughout history, royalty and notable families treasured and collected pearls.

The magical quality of pearls has intrigued many for centuries. Inspired by the pearl's mystical beauty, legend tells of primitive people adding a pinch of powdered pearl to cosmetics and medicines.

During the Middle Ages, if you were feeling on edge or anxious, you would take a little powdered pearl in lemon juice. Even patients with serious ailments, such as heart trouble, were treated with powdered pearls and lemon juice. But, the pearl's association with matters of the heart does not end there.

The symbol of love and romance, pearls have been used throughout history as an expression of lovers' affections. Today, a strand of pearls is one of the most popular gifts a groom gives to his bride. As it happens, June's the month for brides as well as pearls.

Discover the magic of pearls for yourself. Whether you are a June-born woman or not, the magic works for anyone who wears them. The pearl's unique and delicate beauty brings out the best in every woman. Pearls complement every skin tone and enhance the feminine mystique. It makes sense that the pearl is also a symbol of life and vitality.

And, who isn't interested in looking more youthful? Every woman! Small wonder pearls are the favorite of women everywhere.

Mr. Galton explains that they are used to neutralize, at least temporarily, stomach acid and are commonly employed for heartburn and digestive upsets.

Cost may be a factor in choosing an antacid, writes the author, and so are taste and efficacy. Liquid preparations "have an edge" he writes, and for the person on a salt-restricted diet for any reason, the sodium content of the antacid should be checked, too.

Health Guide gives pros and cons of milk

Adults who are in good health can develop an intolerance to milk even though as children they drank milk without ill effects. The symptoms of the intolerance may be unexplained cramps or diarrhea and flatulence, science writer, Lawrence Galton, explains in his "The Complete Medical, Fitness Health Guide for Men." Small amounts of milk in cereals and in coffee may cause no problem for these people.

Vaccine gives lungs a break

You've passed the half-century mark. You use cream to keep the hands soft, moisturizers to keep the face glowing, maybe a tint for the hair. But what support do you offer to the body machinery that faces the elements?

What part of your body is it that has been struggling just as long and hard as the face and hands and hair — but getting no help? Your lungs.

Fifteen to 20 times a minute, they are in direct contact with the pollutants in the air. They breathe in more than 100 times more air than your face sees in a day. They work at the vital job of supplying you with oxygen and expelling carbon dioxide generated by muscle and brain work.

Chemicals, irritants, bacteria viruses — they are all drawn into the lungs. Most of the time they are successfully rejected, but as we age, the defense mechanisms that help protect the delicate cells of our lungs from infection work less effectively. And if you catch a cold, the increased secretions place an additional strain on the lungs and on their defense mechanisms.

So it may be an appropriate time to give the lungs a little help, in the form of a vaccination to protect you and your lungs from one of their toughest adversaries, pneumococcal bacteria.

Pneumococci are the No. 1 cause of bacterial pneumonia. It is roughly estimated that they account for up to 1,000,000 cases of pneumococcal pneumonia annually in the U.S., and the Surgeon General recently reported that the disease has been responsible for 54,000 deaths a year.

A vaccine that offers highly effective protection against the most serious and prevalent strains of pneumococcal pneumonia is now available. This vaccine is encouraging news for people over 50, (particularly those over 65) and for most individuals over the age of two who suffer from chronic health problems like heart disease, lung or kidney malfunctions, and diabetes, all of which increase the risk of serious complication from pneumococcal pneumonia.

More than three million Americans have been vaccinated since the vaccine was released in 1978. The vaccine has been well tolerated. However, mild reactions at the injection site do occur commonly and mild fever occurs occasionally.

Honesty Is Best If You're Old Enough To Take It

DEAR ABBY: Some years ago, I was raped and became pregnant. I gave birth to a baby boy, but under the circumstances I couldn't bring myself to raise him. My best friend — I'll call her Minnie — was happily married but wasn't able to bear children, so she and her husband adopted my son. That decision worked out well for all of us. I visited them often and watched the boy grow up in a fine environment.

Here's my problem: In Minnie's eyes, the boy is now old enough to understand the circumstances of his birth, adoption, etc., and they want to tell him the entire story. They think he has the right to know all the facts of his birth, including the fact that I am his mother and his father was a rapist.

I have always felt that honesty is the best policy, but in this instance, I don't think the boy needs to know all the facts. Because of this disagreement, I am no longer speaking to Minnie and her husband.

I would like your opinion. WAITING IN SARATOGA

DEAR WAITING: Honesty is always the best policy. You don't say how old the boy is, but he should be told only as much as he can comprehend. Very young children can understand "adoption," but the other details of his birth should not be disclosed until he is sufficiently mature to handle them. (P.S. I question the wisdom of telling a child his father was a rapist.)

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a physician. We recently attended a medical convention where there were about 3,000 physicians present.

Maybe it's because lately we have all become so weight-conscious, but I was really shocked by the number of fat physicians I saw there. More than half the doctors were visibly overweight (my formerly svelte husband included). Have you any statistics dealing with physicians being overweight?

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: In a survey of 900 family physicians, sponsored by the American Academy of Family Physicians, 62 percent of the M.D.s who responded said they wanted to lose weight. More than one-third of that group wanted to lose more than 10 pounds, but 89 percent said they had not followed a specific weight-loss diet in the last six months.

(P.S. Two-thirds recognized the necessity of controlling their sugar and cholesterol intake, but only a little more than 50 percent said they themselves followed that advice.) Physician, heal thyself!

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon, and am keeping my own name instead of taking my husband's name. When we have children, what last name should we give them? We don't want to hyphenate our last names since both are quite long.

B.J.

DEAR B.J.: In America, children traditionally take their father's last name. But since you have already broken with tradition by keeping your own last name, you're obviously not concerned with tradition, so choose whichever name you prefer.

Out of consideration to your children, I recommend they take their father's last name, or use the hyphenated combination of both your names — regardless of how long they are. Either would create fewer identity problems throughout their lives.

P.S. If anybody out there has had to deal with this problem, I am interested in knowing how it was handled.

Sign language club to be organized

All interested adults and teens are invited to the first meeting of a new sign language club in Big Spring. This will be an organizational meeting to decide the club's name, how often it will meet, how it will be structured, and what its activities will be. The meeting will be at College Baptist Church, 1105 Birdwell Lane, at 7 p.m., June 16.

The sign language club is the brainchild of Carla Warrington. Ms. Warrington, who has been teaching sign language at Howard College in addition to her work with the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, said, "I am hoping that the club will attract people who want to learn sign language, as well as those who already know some signs and want to stay in practice. Sign language is fun to learn and use, and with the college for the deaf opening soon, it will be great for us to be ready to communicate with the students when they come to Big Spring."

Merle Norman and Ford launch search for 80's face

A worldwide search for a young woman whose face most typifies the beauty and fashion "Face of the 80's" was launched here today by Merle Norman Cosmetics and Ford Models, Inc.

"We are pleased Merle Norman is sponsoring this international search with Eileen and Jerry Ford, whose agency has been responsible for discovering such famous models and Cheryl Tiegs, Suzie Parker and Beverly Johnson," said Joyce Phillips, owner of the Merle Norman Studio in College Park Shopping Center.

The "search", which begins this month and will end in Monaco in September, is expected to uncover scores of beautiful young women.

A two-year Ford Models agency contract, valued at $50,000, goes to the young woman a jury of fashion experts identifies as having the "Face of the 80's."

"We also anticipate discovering a number of potential models right here in the United States," said Eileen Ford. The search is open to all women from the ages of 16 to 21, married or single, who have or have not had professional modeling experience.

To enter the search, applications must be picked up at the Merle Norman Studio. The deadline for submitting applications is July 31.

Joyce Phillips said, "It could be the chance of a lifetime. Any young woman who thinks of herself as especially attractive with the potential to become a model has the opportunity to be judged by the experts in the business."

The original elimination will be based on photographs submitted by applicants. Two head shots (one in black and white, one in color) and one full length color in a bathing suit is required.

A "Face" will be selected from each of the 50 states. From that group, 12 finalists will be identified for a trip to New York where a panel of fashion experts, headed by the Fords, will select the "U.S. Face of the 80's."

The U.S. "Face" will receive an all-expenses-paid trip to Monaco in September where a jury of the world's leading designers and stylists will select the international "Face of the 80's."

Beautiful young women from more than 20 countries will be involved in the final evaluation in Monaco," Ford said. "In addition to the contract with the agency, being selected as the "Face of the 80's" will bring the prestige and recognition that comes with having a face identified as the most beautiful and fashionable in the world."

"Merle Norman has long been known as the 'Place for the Custom Face.' We're excited to be a part of this search that will identify the most beautiful face of tomorrow," said Joyce.

She added that young women who enter the search will be given a free booklet featuring tips on applying makeup for photography. Applicants may also schedule free makeup lessons at the Studio.

Saga of one town's quest for a barber

SAMBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Most small towns want their own doctor, their own dentist or maybe a crack at big industry. Not Samburg. It wants its own barber.

The 463 residents of this no-frills West Tennessee hamlet have gotten along nicely with just the basics: a post office, a fish company, four churches and groceries, a couple of cafes and six motels — to catch the overflow crowd that converges on nearby Reelfoot Lake each summer.

But long hair and a long ride have sent city fathers on a mercy mission.

"The closest barber is in Tiptonville," Mayor John Van Cleave said Wednesday. "Our people have to drive 14 miles to get a haircut and gas is getting so high, and some of our people are old and crippled and they can't get out like they used to."

There's one beauty parlor in town, the mayor said, but unisex hair cutting apparently hasn't caught on in rural Tennessee. The beautician doesn't cut men's hair.

"We had one here," Van Cleave said. "But he left a few years ago."

The barber — his name has slipped Van Cleave's mind — is believed to be somewhere in Kentucky.

"We're going to try to get him back. We're going to do everything we can, but he might not want to come back," the mayor said.

Short sales tax form unveiled by Bullock

(Special to the Herald)
AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock has unveiled a new streamlined sales tax return — the best and shortest in the nation — that he says will reduce paperwork and bookkeeping chores for most Texas businesses.

Bullock said the short form sales tax return is about the size of a postcard and will be into use this month.

"The best and shortest in the nation, bar none," he said of the new return, "and it won't take a fancy-pants Dallas lawyer to fill it out."

Bullock said 85 percent of all Texas sales tax permit holders will be able to use the short form.

"Now more than a quarter-million taxpayers can fill out their taxes on a pre-printed 9-by-4 inch card in probably less time than it takes to make out a grocery list."

The new short form requires less information from taxpayers than the current sales tax return and state, city and metropolitan transit authority tax rates are combined in one computation.

The new form will also shorten processing time within the Comptroller's office.

Bullock said the design of the form is the result of a concentrated effort by his department to adopt reform measures that assist taxpayers by "making paying taxes as uncomplicated as humanly possible."

"Cumbersome forms at the Comptroller's office are going the way of gas-guzzling cars — into the junk heap."

Bullock said federal officials say government required paperwork at state and local levels nationwide costs between $5 to $9 billion to prepare each year.

"And, they didn't count the frustration level of those who have to do this paperwork and bookkeeping," he said.

"Our new return is just short of being revolutionary. It's a current application of some old advice: Keep it short and keep it simple," he said.

Monthly taxpayers will begin using the new form in June to report their May taxes and quarterly taxpayers will use the new form starting in July to report April, May and June sales.

Permian Airways announces system-wide schedule change

Permian Airways has announced a system-wide schedule change, which went into effect last Sunday.

Permian, a scheduled commuter air carrier serving Texas and New Mexico, will now offer over 285 weekly flights, within an 11 city network. This network consists of daily flights between Midland-Odessa, Lubbock, Amarillo, San Angelo, San Antonio, Big Spring, El Paso, Carlsbad, N.M., Hobbs, N.M., Roswell, N.M., and Ruidoso, N.M.

Permian Airways inaugurated scheduled Air Service May 1, 1979, by offering 45 weekly flights, within a 3-city network.

Charles L. Ceppi, president, Permian Airways since March 1, 1980, feels that air service throughout the Permian Basin is a vital necessity to the communities being served.

Ceppi said, "The future is bright for Commuter Airlines, even with the price of aviation fuel on a continuous rise, with good planning and sound management, Commuter Airlines can be a strong and viable success."

As of June 1, we will be able to save the passenger both time and money. By utilizing our Joint Fare agreements with the majority of the major airlines, you can fly Permian for as little as $17 in some markets.

"For example, the one-way fare from San Angelo to Midland will be $44.

"If that passenger connected with any coach class carrier out of Midland, it would only cost that passenger $17 to fly from San Angelo to Midland. The passenger also has the added convenience of checking his bags once, all the way to his final destination. We are trying to keep our fares as low as possible, even though the fuel prices continue to rise."

Cattlemen will meet

AUSTIN — The Independent Cattlemen's Association is having its 6th annual convention and trade show in San Antonio June 26, 27 and 28.

Theme of the convention is, "1980 — A New Decade for Independent Cattlemen." Former Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe, U.S. Sen. John Tower, Texas Animal Health Commission Executive Director Dr. John Holcombe and KTRH-Radio Farm Show personality Ben Oldag are among the dignitaries who will attend the convention.

The headquarters hotel is the Hilton Palacio del Rio. All meetings and activities will take place at the San Antonio Convention Center near the Hilton.

"We have outstanding programs planned for all who attend and we encourage everyone interested in the future of the ranching and farming industry to come hear our speakers," said ICA President Roy Wheeler of Pleasanton.

Registration for the convention will be held from 2-6 p.m. at the Convention Center on Thursday, June 26.

Those who register are invited to attend a cocktail party at the Fiesta Room and River Court at the Convention Center from 6 to 8 p.m.

Friday, June 27, at 10:15 a.m., Briscoe will address the first general session. He will be followed by Sen. Tower at 10:45 a.m.

Barielle Nail Strengthener Cream was first developed for the care and treatment of the hooves of Thoroughbred race horses. The professional groomers (70 percent are women) noticed a surprising side effect. Their own nails improved in strength and condition with its use. Barielle was then refined until its present formulation of mineral oil, lanolin, beeswax, vitamin E and animal protein was perfected to protect against moisture loss, chipping, splitting and breaking. Another common denominator between race horses and humans is the damage that running can do to the feet. Barielle Total Foot Care Cream, rich in safflower and sesame oils, was consequently developed. A companion product, Barielle Professional Protective Hand Cream, moisturizes and protects hands from harsh environments.
