Mother-in-law slain in Odessa Chamber office

Local man charged with murder

By JAMES WERRELL
A statewide manhunt has been mounted for a Big Spring man suspected of killing his mother-in-law in Odessa, Friday.
Police departments, the Texas Rangers and other law enforcement agencies have joined in the search for Mark Edward Powell, 27, 500 E. 16th. A first-degree murder charge has been filed against the suspect in connection with the shotgun slaying of Loyce Chapman, 46, public information specialist with the Odessa Chamber of Commerce.
Mrs. Chapman was cut down at point-blank range with a shotgun

Friday afternoon while working in her office. Police reportedly arrived at the Chamber building soon after the shooting to find the victim lying in a pool of blood.
According to reports by witnesses, the assailant entered the building through the front door and proceeded directly to Mrs. Chapman's office. After an argument, witnesses said, the man stated, "O.K., I'm leaving," and exited through the back door.
Moments later, he returned wielding a shotgun believed to be a 12-gauge model, and opened fire without a word, witnesses said.
Odessa paramedics said Mrs.

Chapman was shot twice, in the back of the neck and in the left side of her chest.
Local law enforcement officials were alerted immediately after the murder that the suspect might be enroute to Big Spring. After receiving the alert, Big Spring Police began surveillance of Powell's residence.
Early in the evening, police received a call from a local resident that Powell was back in the city. Police deployed several patrol cars to blockade the area, and entered the home, only to find it empty.
"The ironic thing is that we had him (Powell) in custody early Friday morning. We picked him up for public intoxication about 2 a.m.," said Sgt.

Arvin Henry. "He paid his fine and went free about 9 o'clock that same morning."
Powell had reportedly become very upset when his wife left him a week ago, said Henry. Powell is suspected of threatening several local citizens in an effort to learn his estranged wife's whereabouts during the last week.
Odessa Police are coordinating the search for the suspect. The search now centers in the Austin and Houston areas, said Odessa Detectives, Saturday.
Odessa Sheriff's Deputies discovered Powell's Volkswagen abandoned in northwest Odessa around 5 p.m. Friday. The suspect was last seen driving a white, 1978

Ford LTD, but investigators believe that as many as three other cars may have been used to evade pursuers.
Investigators have remained tight-lipped about details of the suspect's flight, but think he may have shot up a mobile home that had belonged to "the victim's (Mrs. Chapman's) daughter after the murder and prior to abandoning his vehicle in Odessa," according to a memo issued to local police.
Odessa Police would neither confirm nor deny reports that Powell was heavily armed, but local police were warned that the suspect might be carrying a shotgun, a .22 caliber pistol and maybe another weapon.

And you thought it was hot, eh?

The reading on the temperature gauges at a couple of local banks here Saturday reached 103 degrees.
No one apparently tried to fry an egg on the sidewalk but a coyote was seen chasing a rabbit, and both were walking. Most of the people were staying under air conditioners out of the heat or were swimming in public or neighborhood pools.
Saturday's hot spell was relatively cool, however, compared to that achieved June 30, 1907, when the temperature attained a sizzling 117 degrees for an all-time area high.
The gauges had registered 113 degrees the day before that and had soared to 112 June 28.

Following the record high June 30 last year, the temperature sagged to 89 degrees that night. Many Big Spring and area people saw fit to sleep in their yards because their houses didn't begin to cool off until long after midnight.
Mother Nature has turned up her blast furnaces only during the last couple of weeks. Up until the last week in May, the weather has been delightful. With the 'dog days' of summer ahead, however, no one knows what to expect.
The best job in town could be that of the iceman.

Congressional candidate Patman captures Demo nod

By the Associated Press
State Sen. Bill Patman came from behind Saturday to defeat Nueces County Judge Robert Barnes in their hotly contested race for the Democratic nomination in the 14th congressional district.
Although Barnes had conceded the election late Saturday night, Patman would say only that "it looks very optimistic."
"He got more votes in his home county than I did in mine, that's what went wrong," said Barnes.
In late returns, Patman collected 25,439 votes or 51 percent to 23,969 or 49 percent for Barnes.
Patman had been considered a slight favorite in the race because of his strong showing in the rural precincts during the May 3 Democratic primary.

Austin attorney Mike McCormick defeated incumbent Judge W. T. Phillips in the race for Place 2 on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.
The race was one of three statewide judicial runoff elections determined in the Democratic primary.
McCormick, who grabbed the lead early, led by a 53 percent to 47 percent margin late Saturday night.
Incumbent Judge Tom Davis defeated Austin Attorney Edith Roberts in the Place 2 Texas Court of Criminal Appeals race Saturday. Davis collected 62 percent of the vote to 38 percent for Ms. Roberts.

Houston Court of Civil Appeals Judge Jim Wallace defeated Austin Court of Criminal Appeals Judge John D. Phillips for the Place 1 spot on the Texas Supreme Court.
Only 151 votes were cast in Saturday's Howard County Democratic runoff election. Voter apathy could be blamed on the fact that all local races had been determined in the primary election held May 3.
Howard County voters supported James P. Wallace, Mike McCormick and Tom Davis in state races Saturday.
Wallace outpolled John D. Phillips, 88-43, in the Howard County balloting for Associate Supreme Court Justice Place One.
In the race for Justice of State Court of Criminal Appeals Place 2, McCormick was supported by 102 voters in the county, compared to 49 for W.T. Phillips.
In the race for Justice of State Court of Criminal Appeals Place 3, Davis received 96 votes to 56 for Edith Roberts.

Carr women flee Cuba

Joyful reunion at airport

"I'm delighted to be here. I like it," Mrs. Heidee Diaz Carr, sister of Mrs. Al (Lilliam) Valdes said, not long after reaching Big Spring Friday afternoon.
Mrs. Valdes went to Midland Regional Air Terminal Friday to pick up Heidee and her daughter, 22-year-old Madeline Carr.
The reunion was joyful if perhaps not as emotional as that day in late May when Heidee and Madeline were allowed to step aboard the shrimp boat "Rubber Duck" in the Havana harbor.
The Rubber Duck, which had Lilliam and Norma Valdes of Port Everglades, Fla., among its passengers from Key West, Fla., to Cuba, had been in Cuban waters for over two weeks before the Carr women were allowed to leave Cuba.

The two Carr women are among the more than 100,000 Cubans who have fled their homeland over a period of months. A Freedom Flotilla, composed of thousands of water craft of all kinds, provided the transportation of the refugees to America.
Heidee's husband, Manuel Grand, also came to America and is now in a refugee camp in Wisconsin. He likely will join his family here at an early date.
Heidee and Madeline were two of 247 refugees who rode the Rubber Duck back to Key West from Cuba. The boat is quite small and the refugees had to stand up all the way.
The Rubber Duck had pulled out of Key West May 8 and did not return until May 23.

During that time, Lilliam left the boat only once. She asked for and was granted permission to make a phone call back to Big Spring, a decision that cost her an estimated $200. She made $15 for a boat ride each way from the Rubber Duck, anted up another $25 each day for a bus ride to the Hotel Tretton (where she made the phone call) and paid $70 for the three-minute phone call.
The Rubber Duck, incidentally, was struck for six hours on a sand bar within sight of Key West after its return to U.S. waters before it was freed by a government craft.
Mrs. Carr is a college graduate, qualified to teach. Her daughter has been in college about four years, still needs some credits to graduate.
The two were not allowed to bring any possessions or money with them upon their return here.

A total of $33,000 was raised here to help the Al Valdeses get their relatives out of Cuba and into America. Much of that money, put up in the form of guarantees, was never used. Al Valdes was to say later he had offers for far more financial help than he was able to use.
Three friends of Mr. and Mrs. Valdes spotted Lilliam aboard the Rubber Duck on its return passage to Key West and called Al long distance to reassure him that the arduous adventure was about to end for the Big Spring woman.
Lilliam is scheduled to spend much of today introducing the Carrs to members of her church, First United Methodist, and telling her story to those attending church.

Managing editor in Tulsa attempts suicide

'I was a live-er---not a die-er'

...EDITOR'S NOTE — Gordon Falls, 56-year-old managing editor of The Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune, jumped into Keystone Lake in a suicide attempt Tuesday night. He realized then that he did not want to die and held on until he was rescued. Here is his story as it appeared in the Tribune on Friday.
TULSA, Okla. (AP) — I looked and I cried.
I had been crouching for minutes on that narrow ledge 30 feet above the angry black, swirling water at Keystone Dam. I was shielded from the headlights of passing automobiles by a guard rail.
I stood erect, prepared to jump.
A car I hadn't seen approached from the south. Slowed. Stopped.
"Kind of dangerous on that side of the railing, isn't it?" the young driver asked.
"Fishing," I said.
"OK, be careful."
He left.
I was alone again.
Never in my wildest dreams could I have imagined the events in my life that would put me on this ledge.
Personal degrading circumstances that ruin people's lives. Business experiences that continually weaken the fibers of success-oriented men and women. Fear and frustration.
That damn car had gone only to the end of the bridge and was turning around.
I jumped.
Hitting the water was like being swatted with a giant paddle. It stung. My head throbbed.
From the depths, as always, I surfaced.

The spot from where I had jumped was miles above me.
My legs were paddling, but not because of my conscious thought. I was staying afloat.
How do you die in water? Lie face down? Let the current drag you out and under? Stop breathing?
You can NOT just stop breathing. It is impossible.
Instantly I knew I was a live-er — not a die-er. It has taken me more than 50 years to live this life, but the review took only moments.
I swam.
I swam the length of the concrete structure fronting the reservoir. I examined the gates. They were closed. I knew I wouldn't be sucked through them so I began swimming toward the riprap (rock) embankment I could see beyond those gates. The current was so swift I could make no headway. I returned to the protection of the concrete reservoir wall.
I swam the length of it again and again.
There was no way out of this unless someone came.
Did that driver return to see my jump? I hoped so.
One more swim.
Still I could make no headway against the current, either to the south or the north shoreline, which was closer.
I was very tired. My head dropped below the water line and I gagged. But this only drove me to more swimming.

I suddenly realized that hanging down the reservoir wall were heavy steel beams with steps. I grabbed a beam and found a step. I clung.
I still was up to my armpits in water, but I was secure on a platform. The next step was beyond my reach. I didn't care. I was safe.
I would cling until exhaustion forced me back into the water and thus by default give me the objective I originally sought — oblivion.
A siren sounded. They were going to open the gates. Was this routine? Could they be hunting me?
There was no other sound, just rushing water.
Would opening the gates create greater currents that would force me off my perch?
I knew men died going through the gates and into the swirling waters below.
Then a light. Voices. I cried, "Help."
"Where are you? Are you hurt?"
"No" and "here" were my tearful responses.
The "no" was encouraging to them, but the "here" didn't mean a thing.
Minutes later the light, the men with the rope and my son, whose tear-streaked face shone in the floodlights above, all found me.
One came down the precarious wall to steady me.
Cheerful men greeted me with words of support and encouragement.
My son was confused and bewildered, but he let the authorities take over.

A sheriff's lieutenant drove me to Tulsa. He may go down in my book as the most gentle, kindest man I have ever known.
My city editor came in from his rural home — to help me.
My family came to comfort me.
The physician at the hospital where they took me was big, blustering and friendly.
My lawyers visited me at the hospital. They came as friends.
A wealthy friend called, demanding the best medical care possible be given me and offering to pay all expenses.
Hundreds of people, including my newspaper's owners, called my home. Always the same question: "What can we do to help?"
Friends brought in dinners for my family.
To all these people, I say thanks — especially to my physician who said, "You were suicidal, but you are not now suicidal."
My final salute is to my family. I have always been "needed" for the paycheck I bring in to provide haircuts, buy Christmas toys and to help pay for repairs to the numerous automobiles of all shapes and sizes in my driveway.
I am also wanted with all the fervent love and passion that 11 children and a wife can muster.
If this recitation can bring just one person from the bottom of life back to the top, or near the top, I will feel the public humiliation I am experiencing not to have been in vain.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Killing narc dogs

Q. What would be the penalty if someone killed the Big Spring Police Department's narc dog?
A. In most states, killing a police dog is treated the same as killing a police officer. In Texas ambiguity exists. A recent seminar attended by members of the Big Spring PD reported killing a narcotics dog would be treated as killing a peace officer. Of course, prosecutors in practice may not attempt to try a person on killing an animal on first degree felony charges. Likely a district attorney would try the accused on criminal mischief charges, destroying city property. These charges would still constitute a felony, for the narc dog's value is well over $3,000.

'Outlaw' in designers' war

Willie jeans latest entry

DALLAS (AP) — Willie Nelson, patron saint of "outlaw" country and western music, has gone through a lot of phases and stages in his rise to fame as an American folk hero.

Now the progressive country musician has put his name on a pair of blue jeans, of all things.

Sales of the jeans bearing Willie's name have been so far above projections that the line is overshadowing everything else at Mr. Fine, the Dallas-based manufacturer.

Sales of 200,000 were projected for the first year. In the first two months, 500,000 pair moved off the racks.

Now that the jeans have been on the market four months, "we expect them to reach 1 million very soon," said Carlos Montero, president of Mr. Fine.

By July, Willie jeans will be in major stores coast-to-coast, he said.

"It's the most successful thing this company has ever done, and I'm talking 14 years," Montero said.

The sales attest to Nelson's huge following, said John Patrick, who is in charge of Willie's clothing line.

"He bridged the gap between traditional country and western and the young people who were into rock 'n' roll. Before him, it was unbridgeable," Patrick said.

The price was Willie's one stipulation in agreeing to the project, he said.

"He's doing it as a favor for a friend of his," Patrick said. "But he wanted a jean that was not a designer jean, but one at a moderate price ... He wanted to make it acceptable to middle America."

Montero claims the quality of Willie jeans, which sell for $28 retail, "is as good or better than many $50, $60 and $70 retail jeans."

Designer jeans, the expensive trend of the '70s, have "reached their peak," he added.

"There's a lot of rumblings in the market that it is not necessary to have a designer's name but to have a garment that's well-designed, regardless of the name," Montero said.

"New conservatism always transcends into fashion. We felt a popular figure with whom we can identify would be a good vehicle in fashion. And we didn't have to be aggressive to more than double our predictions."

"We think the personality label is going to be much more important than designer labels."

Retailers also like the celebrity jeans for their marketing potential, Montero said. The jeans' introduction in several cities will coincide with Willie's concerts and in others, with Willie's new film,

"Honeysuckle Rose."

Jubilee time in Ballinger

BALLINGER — Ballinger's sixth annual Courthouse Lawn Harvest Jubilee will be held June 21-22.

A flea market will be in operation both days. A horseshoe pitching contest and a fiddlers' contests will get under way Saturday. Country-Western music singers will take over at 2 p.m., Saturday, at which time anyone who can play an instrument or sing will be encouraged to take part in the program.

Byrd says no chance for SALT II this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd said Saturday the SALT II arms-limitation treaty with the Soviet Union won't be brought to a Senate vote this year.

"It's unrealistic to think in those terms," Byrd said in answer to a question about former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's comments in favor of quick consideration.

Vance said in a commencement address at Harvard University last week that "the Senate must ratify the SALT II treaty before the end of the year."

And Secretary of State Edmund Muskie, a senator himself until Vance's recent resignation, said Friday that the administration was still pursuing ratification.

But when asked if the treaty might be brought up before the November elections or in a special session afterwards, Byrd answered both times with a crisp "no."

Byrd, D-W.Va., said he still favors ratification of the arms limitation treaty "in the national security interest of this country." But he also said chances of passage are virtually nonexistent as long as Soviet troops remain in Afghanistan.

"The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan knocked the treaty into a cocked hat for the rest of this session," he said.

Vance said he thought "the two issues are separable."

The treaty, signed last June, was to be considered late last year but was delayed by various matters. Since the late-December Soviet military activity in Afghanistan, Senate Democratic leaders have held it back from what they believe would be certain defeat.

BSHS senior joins Army

John S. Pfeiffer, a Big Spring High School senior, recently enlisted in the U.S. Army and will leave for eight weeks basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C., Aug. 26.

According to SSgt. Monte Cleveland, Big Spring Army recruiter, Pfeiffer has been guaranteed specialized training as an infantryman at Fort Benning, Ga. Upon completion of this training, he will receive a $3,000 cash bonus for his chosen job specialty and will be assigned to Fort Lewis, Wash.

Pfeiffer, son of Richard and Shirley Pfeiffer of 801 Marcy, Big Spring, enrolled in the Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP) which matches a soldier's educational savings two-for-one up to $8100 during a four-year enlistment, explained Sgt. Cleveland. The new VEAP bonus, available only in certain areas and for a limited time, adds an extra $6000 to the fund.

Cannoneer training

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic combat training with advanced individual training. Students learned the duties of a howitzer or gun section crewman and received instruction in handling ammunition, setting fuses and preparing charges, communications and maintenance.

Winton entered the Army in February 1980. His mother, Mrs. Nora C. Winton, lives at 3125 Forest Park, San Angelo.

During the month-long tour at Aviano Air Base, Italy, the unit participated in NATO exercise "DAWN PATROL '80."

The exercise was designed to promote better coordination and cooperation of multi-national forces and to demonstrate a readiness to deter aggression along the southern flank of NATO influences.

Probe begins on Clark trip to Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department has begun investigating whether Ramsey Clark and nine other Americans should be prosecuted for violating President Carter's travel ban to Iran, Attorney General Benjamin R. Civiletti said Saturday.

Civiletti said the results of the Treasury investigation, launched at his request, would be reviewed by both the civil and criminal divisions of the Justice Department for possible prosecution under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act.

Convictions under the law are punishable by imprisonment of up to 10 years and fines of up to $50,000.

Clark, himself a former U.S. attorney general, and the other Americans, including a Nobel Prize-winning biologist, attended the "Crimes of America" conference during the past week in Tehran.

Some of them visited the U.S. Embassy there Saturday and delivered a box to the Iranian militants. The Americans would not say what the package contained. Apparently, no visits were made with the American hostages.

Three members of Clark's group returned Friday to the United States and the others, including Clark, were expected to return this weekend.

"I don't know when he's coming back," said Georgia Clark in New York when asked about her husband's travel plans.

Civiletti said any actions taken against the group would fall under the emergency economic powers act, which technically is administered by the Treasury Department. Carter invoked the law on April 17 to bar certain transfers of money to Iran, thereby effectively banning travel to the country.

The State Department said that Clark's group was denied an exemption to the ban because the administration feared the Tehran conference, which was attended by representatives from 60 countries, would be a "propaganda circus."

Capt. Bradford wins trophy

MINOT, N.D. — Capt. David G. Bradford, son of retired Air Force Major and Mrs. L. Galen Bradford of 1700 Lancaster, Big Spring, Texas, is a member of the 91st Strategic Missile Wing, Minot Air Force Base, here, winner of the Omaha Trophy.

The Omaha Trophy, first awarded by the citizens of Omaha nine years ago to the Strategic Air Command (SAC), is now an annual award presented to the best wing in SAC.

The wing at Minot set a new record for SAC, by becoming the first missile wing to capture the award. Selection criteria is based on evaluations in combat readiness, security and the unit's overall contribution to the accomplishment of the SAC mission.

Captain Bradford's wife, Irene, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius A. Boehning, of Route 1, Hankinson, N.D.

MARINE AID — A U.S. Marine lifts a Cuban refugee from the "Playboy", when she was unable to leave the boat unaided. The woman refused a stretcher and the Marine carried her into the Truman Annex processing center. The "Playboy" carried some 80 refugees and was the only boat into Key West Saturday, as the "Freedom Flotilla" draws to a close.

Boatlift sputters; may be in final days

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The "Freedom Flotilla" sputtered to a standstill Saturday after bringing nearly 112,000 Cuban refugees to the United States since early April.

By midday, U.S. Coast Guard spotters had sighted only one vessel, carrying about 50 people, crossing the Florida Straits from Mariel, Cuba, to Key West.

No new arrivals have docked since Friday night, giving U.S. officials a chance to relax after processing 1,767 boatloads — a total of 111,758 men, women and children.

Arriving boat captains said there were from 12 to 20 boats left at Mariel harbor late Friday, although Havana Radio said about 50 were left.

But Key West Coast Guard Cmdr. Samuel Dennis told all Coast Guard and Navy ships patrolling the 90-mile route from Mariel to Key West not to relax too soon.

OPEC price policy meeting

New increase possible

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Oil ministers from member nations of the divided OPEC oil cartel meet here Monday to seek a common policy for setting prices. There were indications that a new price increase was imminent.

Industry sources from the Persian Gulf countries said Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil producer, was willing to increase its price by $3 to $4 per 42-gallon barrel if the other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries accept the Saudi price formula.

Saudi Arabia and other moderate members of the 13-nation OPEC have reportedly been trying to stop the frequent irregular increases in the price of oil. The average OPEC price increased by about 100 percent in 1979 and by about 20 percent so far this year.

At the end of 1979 the average official price was $25.50 per barrel, but recent increases by individual members have pushed that figure to almost $31. Some OPEC members tag additional charges onto official prices.

Experts estimate that gasoline and heating oil prices in the United States go up about 1 1/2 cents for every $1 increase in the average OPEC price.

Hospice care seminar slated

The Permian Basin Professionals on Aging will be conducting a seminar on the Hospice movement June 10 at the Midland College Roadrunner Room. The Rev. Sam Hulsey will be speaking about hospice from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Hulsey will be assisted by Sharon Holman, president of the Midland Hospice; Gail Wilson, RN; and Judy Jones, Social Worker.

Hospice care is designed to make dying as pain-free as possible for the terminally ill patients and their families. It is aimed at letting the terminally ill of any age lead lives as full as possible by controlling pain and by keeping them as alert and involved in decision-making as their situation permits.

Everyone interested in the Professionals on Aging or the Hospice program is welcome to attend the seminar. The Roadrunner Room is located in the Administration Building.

Afterwards, prices are to be pegged to a complex formula based on the inflation index of the Paris-based Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the rate of "real economic growth" of industrialized countries.

The proposed program also calls for OPEC oil prices to be fixed in terms of a group of Western currencies rather than the dollar, thus protecting OPEC against a fall in value of the dollar. The dollar would still be the principal currency used to pay for oil.

Arab sources contended the proposed formula offers a "definite schedule" for oil price hikes instead of the unpredictable leaps in prices that disrupt economic planning.

The same sources said that the proposed long-range pricing strategy implies annual increases in oil prices of 10-15 percent. This would mean a price of at least $60 a barrel within the next six years.

OECD officials have said the West and Japan will lose about $150 billion this year as a direct result of oil price increases, and about $250 billion more because of anticipated economic slowdowns because of the increases.

Agency's staff playing crucial role understanding wild volcano

WASHINGTON — Nestled in the low, rolling hills of the Virginia countryside is a sprawling, modern seven-story complex that houses the U.S. Geological Survey. This government agency's staff and scientists are playing a crucial role in helping the world understand what's happening at the ravaged, ashen, tree-strewn Mount St. Helens, 2,940 miles away. Here, 19 miles from Washington, a sophisticated array of computers, electronic communications devices and a vast wealth of technical knowledge and manpower back up field scientists monitoring the volcano.

Still, scientists are faced with saying one thing much too often, admits Frank Forrester, the director of public information for the Geological Survey: "We say we don't know what the volcano will do because monitoring volcanoes is still far from an exact science," he says. "It's not like watching a storm come closer and closer with radar and satellite equipment."

The volcano monitoring and projection techniques are still far from being an exact science because there is not enough prehistoric data on eruptions and a volcano's behavior — considered by the Geological Survey to be crucial to making reliable predictions about future behavior.

It is the responsibility of the Geological Survey — a division of the U.S. Department of the Interior — to keep the public and the decision-makers of the state, local and federal level aware of the dangers associated with natural phenomenon.

Here, in Reston, a vast geological library staffed by experienced professionals have just about every relevant piece of background information about volcanoes at their fingertips.

A computer system is used to record and analyze the patterns of the seismic tremors.

Scientists have concluded that the more rhythmic the tremors, the more likely an eruptions of some type will take place.

"The scientific knowledge available on volcanoes is extensive," admitted volcanologist Roy Bailey, "but to a large extent, the key element in our assessments remains an experienced scientist on the spot."

The analysis of the tremors, through computers, has been made possible by the study of Manua Loa, Kilauea and other Hawaiian volcanoes, which are in an almost constant state of activity. However, they do not have violent eruptions, but simply blow off steam and lava at frequent intervals.

In 1912, scientists set up the Hawaiian Volcano Observatory, and in 1948 the operation was taken over by the Geological Survey as a key component of its field operations that are directed toward studying volcanic activity.

Both the support computer equipment and the rapid communications system came into play in that statement.

HISD, city file replies to desegregation suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Independent School District and the city of Houston filed replies Friday to a desegregation suit, the city saying it was not involved and HISD claiming integration efforts have already begun.

In a reply to a May 15 motion by the Justice Department that seeks to bring 23 school districts in the Houston metropolitan area into a 24-year-old desegregation suit, school officials said HISD has tried every feasible means to desegregate.

HISD should be given time to achieve voluntary urban-suburban integration, the motion said, as opposed to a court-ordered plan that would result in "disruption and trauma."

The motion asks U.S. District Judge Robert

O'Connor to focus on whether the city has achieved the status of a unitary school district, meaning one that has taken steps to achieve integration.

The school system plans to start a "magnet school" plan this fall in hopes of attracting suburban students to inner-city schools by offering specialized courses at the magnet schools.

$2 million youth jobs bill draws Tower's fire

WASHINGTON — An opponent of big federal budgets, Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, is prepared to sponsor amendments quashing — the administration's $2 billion youth employment bill if it goes to the Senate floor, a spokesman in his office said. The proposal, which the White House calls Carter's "major new domestic policy initiative this year," would spend about $2 billion during the next two years to help unemployed urban youths acquire basic education and job skills. The bill is currently in a pair of Senate sub-committee meetings.

When Carter unveiled the program, Tower reacted critically. "The administration is ignoring one of the biggest stumbling blocks in the path of youth employment — a soaring minimum wage. With the sort of cost, employers cannot afford positions which could be filled by a young person with only minimal education and work skills," Tower said.

"So even if a federal program of the sort the president is proposing were to accomplish its goals, young workers would still find themselves priced out of the job market."

Tower's assertion, that raising the wage floor tends to put people out of work, is opposed by organized labor. "These arguments have been around for a long time," an AFL-CIO spokesman said. "In point of fact, the economy has improved every time the minimum wage has been raised. The unemployment rate certainly haven't suffered either."

AFL-CIO voting report cards showed Tower scored no "right" votes on 17 bills labor monitored last year. Texas Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, who said he has not yet taken a position on the administration's youth employment bill, scored a 47 percent AFL-CIO approval rating for the year.

To help battle unemployment, which black leaders said contributed heavily to the recent race riots in Miami, Tower favors lowering the minimum wage for youth to give employers the incentive to hire young unskilled workers, press secretary Linda Hill said.

Looking beyond Carter's specific youth bill, "Tower also maintains we're making a mistake by increasing the minimum wage in chunks at regular intervals," Hill said. The minimum wage of $3.10 an hour will go to $3.35 an hour next year.

The $900 million for Education Department programs during the next two years that would be "targeted to one million junior and senior high school kids who are low-achieving in the poorest urban school districts," explained Education Department spokesman Alan Alexander. Most of the remaining funds would go to the Department of Labor to help older youth and dropouts acquire basic job skills.

Merle Haggard signed for South Plains Fair

LUBBOCK — Merle Haggard, one of the giants of country music, has been signed to replace Charley Pride as the opening attraction for the 63rd annual Panhandle South Plains Fair, general manager Steve L. Lewis has announced.

Several free shows including the annual fiddlers' contest, will launch the fair on its eight-day run Sept. 20. Haggard, along with Susie Allanson, will be on stage in Fair Park Coliseum on the following day at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Haggard, who last appeared at the fair in 1971, was one of country music's top male stars of the 1970s, garnering 31 Country Music Association nominations during the decade — the same number as Loretta Lynn.

With hits like "Okie from Muskogee," which became an anthem for working class citizens during the peak of campus turmoil in 1969, Haggard became a symbol as a proletarian poet. He cultivated a genius for gauging the mood of the country and expressing it through songs he wrote and sang.

Haggard recently has branched out into acting, like Kris Kristofferson, Willie Nelson, Dolly Parton, Jerry Reed and other country music stars.

He just did a small part in a Clint Eastwood movie, "Bronco Billy". He also had roles in the television movies, "Centennial" and "Huckleberry Finn". In addition, he's making plans for a gospel music album.

Tickets for the Haggard show are $4, $5 and $6. All seats are reserved. Mail order applications for tickets may be mailed to the fair association, P.O. Box 208, Lubbock, Tex. 79408. Requests will be processed in the order in which received, but orders will not be filled until late July. All requests must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Deliveries of water to Big Spring decline

May production figures of the Colorado River Municipal Water District flashed signs that water output for the year should pull about even with 1979 during June.

The disparity was reduced to 5.50 percent in May, when 1,509,681,958 gallons were pumped to cities and industries. Moreover, municipalities increased their quantities by 2.38 percent, and in June the cut-off of Texas Electric Service in Ward County will have run its one-year comparative span.

During May the cities took 1,342,697,000 gallons, and there was about one week during a period of thundershowers when consumption was down. If the percentage gain is applied to last year's totals, cities could use 1.5 billion gallons in June.

Oil companies and industries used only 166,984,958 gallons in May, down 41.30 percent from a year ago.

Deliveries to cities in May showed: Odessa 627,049,000 gallons, up 5.28 percent; Big Spring 219,532,000, down 2.78 percent; Snyder 93,702,000, up 16.16 percent; Stanton 5,785,000 gallons, down 26.99 percent; Midland 393,629,000, down .95 of one percent.

ONLY ONE LIKE HIM — 'Red Lightning No. 11,' voted Bull of the Year and rated the Best Bull at the 1978 National Finals Rodeo, will be just one of the tough bucking bulls rodeo fans will be able to see at the 47th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo June 25-28. The stock will be furnished by Steiner Rodeo Company of Austin, noted across the United States for its top bucking stock. The show starts at 8 o'clock each evening.

Parade will precede annual rodeo, reunion

Rodeo enthusiasts are sure to get their fill of excitement June 25-28, when the Big Spring Rodeo Association stages its 47th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo in the Rodeo Bowl.

The lovers of pure rodeo should be delighted with this year's four night event, as the spotlight will concentrate on the pure athletic skills of the entries.

A downtown parade will precede the June 25 rodeo, which will include floats, bands, and sheriff's posses from San Angelo, Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Snyder. There will also be a cash prize of $200 awarded to the first place float, $125 to the second place float and $75 to the third place float. The parade will begin at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys will be featured each night in a rodeo dance to be held in the Dora Roberts Fair Building on the rodeo grounds. Thought of as "the dance band of Texas", Hoyle will provide dance music each night after the rodeo.

A downtown street dance will be held Tuesday, June 24, beginning at 8 p.m. The dance will be held on Main Street between 3rd and 4th sts.

Rodeo fans will be entertained by a variety of top entertainment during the rodeo. Quail Dobbs of Coahoma, will present his famous "Apollo" car act as well as working in the barrel during the bull riding. He will be joined in the arena by the hottest bull fighting team in Pro Rodeo today, "Salt & Pepper."

Leon Coffee & Mike Moore will not only be protecting the cowboys during the bull riding but will keep the fans on the edge of their seats with their daring "Disco bull Fighting."

J.W. Stoker, Weatherford, Texas, will also present his internationally famous "Black Light" trick and fancy rope act. Stoker, considered the dean of fancy rope artist, has appeared at such large rodeos as the Fort Worth Stock Show, Denver, Colo., Houston, and several foreign countries.

Top rodeo stock will again be furnished by the X-S Ranch of Tommy Steiner from Austin. Steiner again promises to send only the very tops in bucking horses and bulls for this year's rodeo. While the arena action will be fast paced, Don Endsley will handle the announcing chores and will keep the rodeo fans well informed on the arena action.

Adult ticket for each performance will sell for $4. Children 12 years of age and under will be admitted for $2. Tickets will be available at the gate as well as The First National Bank, Ward's Boot & Saddle, First Federal Savings, Smallwood's Western Wear, Driver Insurance Agency, and Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Entering final round

Nelson takes Atlanta lead

ATLANTA (AP) — Larry Nelson, the quiet little man from nearby Acworth, Ga., scorched the back nine in 5-under-par 31 and established a 2-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $300,000 Atlanta Golf Classic. A gallery of family and friends, many of them young, followed him in his trek over the pine-crowned hills of the Atlanta Country Club course, shot a loudly cheered 4-under-par 68.

Nelson, slowed by a hand injury early this season, put together a 54-hole total of 203, 13 strokes under par, in his quest of a third PGA Tour title.

Andy Bean, the big guy who set a variety of records in his runaway victory here last year, was 2 shots back at 205 after a 69.

Bob Shearer, the globetrotting Australian who led the first two rounds, was ambushed by a double bogey-5 on the 16th hole and dropped back to third at 206. He matched par 72 in the muggy heat that reached into the low 90s.

"Larry is a proven player," Shearer said. "He played very, very well. He could have blown the golf tournament open on the front nine, but missed some key putts. And then he played the

Outlasting Genuine Risk down the stretch

Temperance Hill surprise Belmont winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Temperance Hill, whose trainer had considered not running him because of an off track, scored a stunning upset Saturday in the $283,700 Belmont Stakes, beating the filly Genuine Risk, who made thoroughbred racing history by becoming the first of her sex to run in all three Triple Crown races. At the top of the stretch, it looked as though Genuine Risk, first in the Kentucky Derby and a controversial second in the Preakness, might add the Belmont to her laurels. The crowd of 58,990 cheered her on, but Temperance Hill charged up on the outside to win. Many in the crowd turned out in anticipation of a duel between Genuine Risk and Codex, who beat racing's glamour girl to the wire in the Preakness and then withstood a foul claim and an appeal to the Maryland Racing Commission. Another lure was the human battle between Vasquez and Angel Cordero Jr., the rider of Codex. The stewards had called the two jockeys before them Thursday and warned them against doing anything but paying attention to the business at hand.

Neither duel ever materialized as this day belonged to Temperance Hill, who was not nominated for the Kentucky Derby because when the nominations closed back in February, he still had not won a race. Now he has won one of the most important races of the American turf.

In Cotton Mize Invitational

Field narrowed to three

The field has narrowed to only three teams entering today's final games in the Third Annual Cotton Mize Invitational Fast-Pitch Tournament at Johnny Stone Park.

At press time Saturday night, there were still teams remaining. Three of those, however, were eliminated in the late games Saturday night that extended past midnight.

Mississippi Chemical Company of Carlsbad, New Mexico, and the local favorite, Cotton's Chipper, were undefeated entering their 12:30 a.m. confrontation last night.

The other four teams still alive with one loss at press time were Jacksboro, Pollard Chevrolet of Big Spring, Levelland and Cycle City of Carlsbad, New Mexico.

Cotton's Chippers advanced into the finals of the winner's bracket by taking wins over Tahoka, Snyder and Pollard.

The Chippers defeated Tahoka 7-2 on Friday night, and then used a near perfect game by the ageless Cotton Mize yesterday afternoon to topple Snyder 14-0. Mize allowed just one hit, and that was the only baserunner.

The Chippers then defeated the unbeaten Pollard's team by a score of 5-0 on Rodney Paige's one-hit shutout.

There will be the championship game of the loser's bracket at 1:00 p.m. today to start the final action. The winner of that game advances to play the loser of the last night's 12:30 contest. The survivor of the 2:30 p.m. game will then play the champion of the winner's bracket. Should the challenger win, one more game would be necessary to declare a champion, but should the winner's bracket toughie claim another triumph, the tournament would be decided.

The crowds have been excellent at the tournament thus far, with a good mix of local enthusiasts and out-owners of the Belmont race track.

It also paid off handsomely for those who wagered on Temperance Hill. He returned $108.80, $32.8 and $15.20. The highest winning return in the 112-year history of the Belmont is $132.10 on Sherluck in 1961.

Temperance Hill, ridden by Eddie Maple, completed the 1 1/2-mile race in 2:29.45 as he beat Genuine Risk by two lengths. Rockhill Native, the beaten favorite in the Derby and the pace-setter Saturday, was another 1 1/2-lengths back and two lengths in front of the lightly raced Comptroller.

Genuine Risk, owned by Mrs. Bert Firestone and ridden by Jacinto Vasquez, paid $7.80 and $5.20. Harry A. Oak's Rockhill Native, ridden by John Oldham, was $10.40 to show.

UTEP's Foreign Legion captures another NCAA track crown

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas El Paso's deep, talented "Foreign Legion" won the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships for the second straight year Saturday.

While Jeff Woodard of Alabama equalled the American high jump record of 7-foot, 7 1/4 inches. The Miners, led by Suleiman Nyambui's victories in the 5,000- and 10,000-meter races, rolled up 69 points in continuing their dominance of the national collegiate competition. The victory gave Texas-El Paso an unprecedented sweep in the past academic year of the NCAA Cross Country, Indoor and Outdoor championships.

UCLA finished a distant second in the team competition with 46 points, Florida State was third with 42 and Southern California fourth with 36.

While Nyambui, the 26-year-old sophomore from Tanzania, was completing his long-distance double Saturday by taking the 5,000, the last event of the program, it was the unheralded Woodard who delighted a Memorial Stadium crowd estimated at 8,500 with his brilliant high jumping.

After matching the American and collegiate marks of 7-7 1/4, set by Dwight Stones on Aug. 4, 1976 at Philadelphia, the 22-year-old Woodard from New Albany, Ind., had the bar raised to 7-9.

That height was a half-inch over the world mark of 7-8 1/2, shared by 1976 Olympic champion Jacek Wszola of Poland and Dietmar Mogenburg of West Germany and set on consecutive days last month. But Woodard couldn't quite clear it.

"The first one (attempt after he had won the competition), I really wanted," said Woodard. "After that, I was ready to quit. My goal is always just to win."

Which he did, breaking the NCAA record of 7-7 that Stones had established four years ago.

Texas-El Paso also was a big winner. The Miners, in grabbing their third team championship in the past six years — they finished second or tied for second in the other three years, scored in nine of the 21 final events.

In addition to Nyambui's two first-place finishes they got victories from freshman Bert Cameron of Jamaica in the 400, sophomore Steve Hanna of the Bahamas in the triple jump and junior Thommie Sjöholm of Sweden in the hammer throw. And they picked up valuable second-place finishes from sophomore Wilfred Muli of Kenya in the 800 and Carlos Scott in the discus.

Nyambui, who won the 10,000 Friday night in 29:21.85, came back to take the 5,000 Saturday in 13:44.43.

Muli, a surprise runner-up in the intermediate hurdles, ran 49:69, behind the sizzling 48:87 clocking, the fastest in the world this year, turned in by David Lee of Southern Illinois.

Cotton Bowl participants had big pay day

DALLAS (AP) — The universities of Houston and Nebraska did more than play football in the 1980 Cotton Bowl game Jan. 1 — they also made a lot of money.

Cotton Bowl officials announced Saturday that Nebraska and Houston will receive a record payment of $1,724,133 each from the New Year's Day classic.

That's approximately $200,000 more per team than the 1979 payoff.

Houston must share the revenue with other members of the Southwest Conference, and will get $600,000 as its part of the gate and television revenues. The other eight SWC teams will receive record checks of $225,000 each.

The cash haul is the second-biggest payoff among the four major bowl games this year. The Rose Bowl gave bigger checks to Ohio State and Southern Cal, more than $2 million apiece.

Sandra Palmer takes lead in LPGA Championship

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Veteran Sandra Palmer, a non-winner in her last 69 tournaments over the last three years, beat brisk, swirling winds Saturday for a four-under-par 68 and the third-round lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Association Championship.

The 39-year-old Texan, accustomed to playing under such difficult positions in her home state, forged a one-shot lead with her 54-hole total of 211, five-under par at the Nicklaus Golf Center's Grizzly course.

South African Sally Little, the 36-hole leader with June Blalock and Nancy Lopez-Melton, posted a one-over 73 and was a single shot back at 212.

Blalock took a 75 in the wind that gusts to 30 mph and dropped to third at 214. Beth Daniel, the tour's winner last week, shot a 73 and was tied for fourth place with Burara Moyness. Moyness shot 74. They were tied at 215.

Lopez-Melton, seeking her second LPGA Championship in the last three years, ran into seven bogeys and slumped to a 78. That left her at 217, six shots off the pace going into Sunday's final round.

Donna Caponi Young, this year's leading money-winner and the defending champion here, shot her second par round of 73 in three days and was tied at 217 with Lopez-Melton and three other golfers.

Palmer explained why she is a good wind player by saying, "Mainly because I don't hit the ball as high as the other players."

Palmer, eluding to the fact she has not won since 1977, said after her four-birdie round, "I didn't even know where the press tent was. I had a good time for a change."

Captures her fourth French Open title

Chrissie's back

PARIS (AP) — American Chris Evert Lloyd trod the red clay of Roland Garros Stadium like a queen Saturday and defeated Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-0, 6-3 for her fourth French Open tennis title.

Hitting deep, with relentless accuracy, she pinned the Romanian to her baseline and dictated play through 1 1/2 hours in warm sun.

At the start of this year, Lloyd took two months off from tennis to be with her husband, British Davis Cup player John Lloyd, and was unsure if she would play again. She came back four weeks ago and has added $75,000 in winnings to the family bank account.

The French title was worth $42,500. She previously won it in 1974, 1975 and last year.

Ruzici, the French Open champion in 1978, played well enough to keep Lloyd on the go in long rallies on the slow surface. But the 25-year-old American usually had the last word.

For a whole hour Ruzici toiled in the heat, playing rallies of 20 and 30 strokes and forcing three games to long series of deuces. But she still had nothing to show for her hard work. Lloyd won the first set 6-0 and led 2-0 in the second. She then had the worst of a strange line call which gave Ruzici a break point against service. Lloyd stopped playing for a few seconds and looked puzzled, but she shrugged her shoulders and served for the next point. She netted a forehand and lost her first game.

Ruzici, who had been drooping in the heat, revived and won two more games before Lloyd smacked a forehand past her for the winning point.

But the Romanian confessed to being well-beaten.

"I felt a little tired in the heat even after the third game," Ruzici said.

"She kept her strokes long and kept me on the baseline. When I did get to the net, she passed me."

"At the start of this year, I didn't know what my future would be," Lloyd said. "But this win has given me my confidence back in time for Wimbledon."

She missed the entry deadline for Wimbledon, which starts June 23, but has been given permission to go into the tournament as a wild card.

Madlock withdraws appeal

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh third baseman Bill Madlock withdrew his appeal of a 15-day suspension and $5,000 fine imposed by National League President Club Feeney and was on the sidelines when the Pirates opened a four-game weekend series with the New York Mets.

In a prepared statement, Madlock said he made his decision to avoid further publicity that would do a disservice to himself, to baseball and to the Pirates.

Hall shatters vault mark

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rundy Hall of Texas A&M smashed meet and stadium records in winning the pole vault title Saturday at the NCAA Track and Field championships with a leap of 18 feet, 2 1/4 inches, his career best.

In erasing the NCAA record of 18-1 1/2, set by Mike Tully of UCLA in 1978, and the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium mark of 18-1 1/2, established this year by Billy Olson of Abilene Christian, Hall added the collegiate outdoor title to the indoor crown he won earlier this year.

His winning leap Saturday came on his final opportunity.

The 21-year-old junior from Port Lavaca had passed his first attempt at 17-11 1/4, but when Tom Hintnaus of Oregon cleared that height on his initial chance, Hall had to jump.

He missed both chances at 17-11 1/4, but then sailed over the bar on his first shot at 18-2 1/4, nearly two inches better than his previous high of 18-0 1/4.

That put the pressure back on Hintnaus, the 1978 NCAA runner-up. After having passed his first chance at 18-2 1/4, he missed two straight turns, giving the title to Hall.

Hall, last year's second-place finisher, then had the bar raised to 18-6 but was unsuccessful in three attempts.

Army Sgt. wins trap phase in Olympic trials

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Army Staff Sgt. Earnest Neal of Fort Benning, Ga., hit 99 of 100 targets in Friday's final round to win the trap phase of the 20th U.S. International Shooting Championships and Olympic trials.

Neal posted a four-round score of 392, three ahead of his persistent challenger, Air Force Master Sgt. Terry Howard.

Neal was the first-round leader, but Howard of Scott Air Force Base, Ill., took over the lead after two rounds. Neal went back in front to stay after Thursday's third round.

Both Neal and Howard earned spots on the U.S. Olympic Shooting Team, which is being selected despite the boycott.

Peter Piffath Jr. of Lloyd Harbor, N.Y., finished in third place at 385, and Walter Zobell of Jackson, Mont., finished fourth at 384.

Connie Hoyle of San Diego, Calif., won the women's division with a four-round total of 366. Loral Delaney of Anoka, Minn., finished second at 361, and Frances Strotman of Jackson, Mont., was third at 352.

Tom Crouch came over from Odessa for some extended fishing and reported a total of 13 bass ranging from 3 1/2 to 6 lbs.

Fishermen also reported good catches of yellow catfish, and L.G. Nix, Big Spring, reported 12 and 13-pounders. A number of channel catfish were caught also.

Crappie fishing was fair to good. Ellis Warren, Midland, had a 3-lb. specimen on his

State boxing officials to stop "Tough Guy" bouts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State boxing officials are trying to stop the spread of "Tough Guy" fights — amateur contests that lure untrained street brawlers into the ring for a quick and dangerous series of bouts.

An unemployed Beaumont man suffered brain damage and was left paralyzed after being knocked out at the Texas Tough Guy Heavyweight Boxing Contest in Beaumont in April, the only such competition staged so far in Texas.

At least two other such contests are planned, and the Boxing and Wrestling Division of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards wants to ban them.

"The whole idea goes against what we are trying to do, promote legitimate boxing in Texas," said Bob Busse, director of the boxing and wrestling division.

The Tough Guy contests begin with newspaper ads to lure fighters. Promoters of the "Baddest Man Contest" in Corpus Christi on June 10-11 calls for "bar brawlers, factory workers, students, street fighters, policemen, truck drivers, bouncers, fishermen and bull bondsmen."

No kicking or biting allowed, the ad says. Professional and experienced boxers are banned.

The winner will be determined in a series of bouts in two nights. The bouts consist of three rounds of two minutes each.

Busse said he has talked with the Baddest Man Contest promoter and told him to either get endorsement of an approved amateur organization or seek the state licenses needed for pro bouts.

"I don't think legitimate amateur athletic programs would sponsor them," Busse said.

"My opinion is that it is dangerous," said Busse. "I'm concerned about it. I have not talked to anyone who has been able to convince me otherwise."

Peter LeBlanc, an artist and inventor who lived at the Beaumont YMCA, apparently felt it would be safe. At 29, the big man (6-foot-3, 220 pounds) had never boxed before entering the Beaumont Tough Guy contest.

Anthony Richards, LeBlanc's friend, said they planned to use the money to pay the $350 demanded by a company to promote a game LeBlanc started well, winning one fight the first night and two the second. With a minute to go in his third fight of the second night he was knocked out.

"It was like any other knockout," said promoter Bubba Busceme. "He just got caught with a shot and went down."

Royals use Hurdle to overcome Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Clint Hurdle's three-run homer and two-run triple led the Kansas City Royals to a 7-2 victory over the Texas Rangers Saturday for their fifth victory in a row.

Rich Gale scattered eight hits, picking up only his second win against six losses. The loser was Gaylord Perry, 3-4, who gave up six hits and five runs and lasted only four innings.

The loss was Texas' fourth straight and ninth in 11 games.

Hurdle's home run, his fifth, came in the second inning after Amos Otis walked and Willie Aikens singled.

The Royals scored two more runs in the fourth on a run-scoring single by Frank White, his steal of second and Willie Wilson's single.

Dave Rajsch took over Texas' pitching duties in the fifth, but he walked Darrell Porter and hit Aikens. Hurdle cleared the bases and knocked out Rajsch with a two-out triple into the right field corner.

Texas got a run in the second on Richie Zisk's single. Gale's wild pickoff attempt and Dave Roberts' RBI single. Al Oliver opened the sixth with his third straight single, moved to third on Zisk's double and scored on Pat Putnam's sacrifice fly.

Niekro baffles Giants

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Morgan stroked two doubles and drove in two runs and Joe Niekro scattered five hits to lead the Houston Astros to a 3-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday night.

Niekro, 6-4, struck out four and walked none in helping the Astros to their second consecutive victory over San Francisco.

Houston took the lead in the third. Terry Publ singled and stole second. Publ scored on a Morgan double but Morgan was thrown out at the plate while trying to score on a single by Denny Walling.

Rafael Landestoy led off the fifth with his second triple in as many games. Morgan delivered Landestoy with his second double of the game and Walling singled to drive in Morgan.

Pitcher Ed Whitson took his seventh loss in nine decisions for San Francisco.

Expos outlast Cardinals in 13th

MONTREAL (AP) — Bill Almon singled with one out in the 13th inning to score pinch-runner Tony Bernazard from third base, giving the Montreal Expos a 2-1 victory over St. Louis Saturday.

Elias Sosa, 3-2, who replaced reliever Woodie Fryman in the 12th inning after the Expos' left-hander had worked two innings to extend his scoreless string to 23 innings, earned the victory. Reliever Jim Otten, 0-1, took the loss.

Mets rally in 11th past Cubs

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Hodges' pinch single capped a two-run 11th inning rally that carried the New York Mets to a 6-5 victory Saturday, their second straight over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Neil Allen, 3-4, the fourth Met pitcher, was the winner in relief despite allowing the Pirates to take a 5-4 lead in the top of the 11th. Grant Jackson, 5-2, took the loss.

Keough hurls Oakland victory

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Matt Keough pitched his ninth complete game in 13 starts this season, beating the Boston Red Sox 4-1 with a six-hitter as the Oakland A's ended a five-game losing streak.

Keough, 7-5, led the American League in complete games. Mike Torrez, 1-6, took the loss.

Padres hand Reds 6-1 defeat

CINCINNATI (AP) — Consecutive doubles by Gene Richards and Ozzie Smith highlighted a three-run San Diego seventh inning and gave the Padres a 6-1 victory Saturday over the Cincinnati Reds.

San Diego rookie Gary Lucas, 3-2, pitched the first six innings and gave up just one hit — a solo home run by Dan Driessen in the fifth. Rolfe Fingers provided relief help for the Padres while Cincinnati's Mike LaCoss, 4-5, took the loss.

Paul Dade started the winning rally with a single to left, and Richards followed with his third hit of the game, a ground ball that hopped over first baseman Driessen for a double. Smith's ground rule double and a single by Jerry Mumphrey scored two more runs.

Schmidt led Phillies smash Cubs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Schmidt led a 14-hit attack with three hits and Randy Lerch gained his second victory of the season as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-2 Saturday night.

Lerch, who has lost seven times, allowed five hits in 6-3 innings before being relieved by Dickie Noles. Lerch struck out two and walked four. Noles gave up one hit in gaining his fourth save.

The Phillies scored their first run in the second on Bob Boone's double, a fielder's choice and a single by Manny Trillo. They made it 3-0 in the fifth when Pete Rose doubled to a left-center and scored on Bake McBride's single to right.

Twins extend Blue Jays string

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Mike Cabbage singled home Rob Wilfong with the winning run in the seventh inning Saturday as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Toronto Blue Jays, 3-2, extending their losing string to five games.

Left-hander Darrell Jackson, 2-3, took the win. Dave Steb, 5-3, who won the distance, took the loss for Toronto.

Braves scalp Dodgers

ATLANTA (AP) — Gary Matthews belted a two-run homer and Larvell Blanks added a three-run double Saturday night, carrying the Atlanta Braves to a 6-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Matthews hit his fifth home run this season in the third inning following a single by Chris Chambliss. Both hits came off starter Dave Goltz, 3-3.

Doyle Alexander, 3-2, pitched his first complete game this year in hot, humid weather. He scattered 10 hits and lost his shutout on Reggie Smith's homer in the sixth.

The homer was Smith's 11th of the season.

Pearland resigns

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Strong-armed pitchers, possibly Texas' best two high school shortstops and a small-town slugger dominated the schoolboy baseball tournament.

Pearland belted San Antonio Roosevelt, 9-4, Friday night for the Class 4A championship, with shortstop Craig Smajstrla extending his fantastic playoff hitting binge.

Austin Westlake, with first-round pro draft choice Kelly Gruber making incredible defensive plays, edged defending champion DeSoto, 11-10, for the 3A title.

Linden-Kildare nipped La Grange, 8-7, for the 2A championship, and catcher Herbert Johnson of Waskom cracked a 375-foot bases-loaded home run and two triples for seven RBIs and scored three times in a 13-0 rout of Falls City for the Class A crown.

Colmesneil avenged a 6-3 loss in the finals to Palmer last year by beating the defending champions, 9-0, for the Class B title.

Johnson's hitting performance was thought to be the best by a player in a single game in the tournament's 32-year history.

Smajstrla, a 5-foot-6, 140-pound junior, set a tournament record with six hits in two games. In the two-game series, he had three RBIs, scored three times and stole a base.

In nine playoff games since district competition, Smajstrla had 23 hits in 32 at-bats for a fabulous .719 average. Fearland's John Dempsey won the championship game with a three-hitter, striking out 12 — and collecting three hits himself — to raise his record to 15-1.

Westlake's Calvin Schiraldi, a Texas Longhorn recruit and 15th-round draft choice of the Chicago White Sox, struggled through eight innings against a dangerous DeSoto team in a game that almost turned into a brawl in the fourth.

Schiraldi, 18-1, gave up 11 hits but left the tying run on third base by striking out the final two hitters in the eighth, or first extra inning. The score was tied 9-9 at the end of seven but Westlake got the eventual winning run on Gruber's infield hit with the bases loaded in the top of the eighth.

Gruber, selected by the Cleveland Indians in the recent draft, once raced 50 yards to grab a popup and repeatedly threw out runners from deep short.

Westlake collected 14 hits — a two-run homer by Brent Bradshaw and 13 singles, including four by second baseman Jim Arrington, off three DeSoto pitchers.

The near-brawl started after Westlake first baseman Jeff Arrington tagged Brad Perrier, and Jim Arrington, his brother, bumped Perrier. Players from both benches charged the field, and several had to hold off Kevin Smith of DeSoto, who was finally escorted toward his dugout by a coach.

Afterwards, DeSoto runners upended Jim Arrington at least twice, and Barry Stachs of DeSoto taunted Jeff Arrington by backing up almost to home plate on a bunt, after first making a move toward first. Arrington tagged him out near home plate.

The 21 runs by both teams in the Westlake-DeSoto game were the most ever scored in a championship game. The game lasted three hours and four minutes.

La Grange rallied for four runs in the bottom of the sixth to take a 7-6 lead over Linden-Kildare only to lose, 8-7, when shortstop Greg Tricek threw wild on a ground ball in the top of the seventh, allowing Alan Coleman to score the winning run.

Boycott will hurt L.A. in 80

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Olympic Committee official F. Don Miller believes the boycott of the Summer Games in Moscow next month will have an adverse effect on the 1984 Games in Los Angeles.

Miller, USOC executive director, told sports editors Friday he does not believe the Soviet Union and nations friendly to the Russians will participate in the Summer Games in the United States in four years.

"The Soviets now say they will participate because it is now to their advantage to say so," Miller told the Associated Press Sports Editors convention. "When we get to 1983, depending on world tensions, the Soviets and the other Socialist countries will not participate."

Miller also said there will be a meeting of the presidents of the 25 National Governing Bodies of the sports in the Summer Games in Chicago next Tuesday to discuss the raising of money for pre-Olympic and post-Olympic competition.

The USOC announced Monday the start of a fund-raising campaign to gain $30 million by Nov. 1 to carry on present training and sports medicine programs and hold the extra competitions.

Miller said the USOC needs to raise $9.7 million to make up for the loss of anticipated revenues brought about by President Carter's call for a boycott, $8.5 million for the expanded competitions and $12.5 million to maintain the USOC programs.

The federal government could provide $10 million in matching funds, although the Senate appropriations committee voted out a bill calling for only $6 million. A Carter administration spokesman said the president would ask Congress to increase the figure.

Miller also told the sports editors that the amateur athletes who are chosen to the U.S. Olympic team, although they won't be going to Moscow, will be honored in Washington next month, probably July 30.

GOES FOR THE FOURTH — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali holds up four fingers proclaiming that he will defeat Larry Holmes and win the championship for an unprecedented fourth time. Ali made the statement after speaking to a class reunion at Harvard University, Saturday.

Francona named tourney's MVP

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Terry Francona, whose torrid hitting led Arizona to the NCAA baseball title Friday night, was named the outstanding player of the 1980 College World Series.

Francona hit 458 in the series, driving in six runs, and stole three bases. His 18 total bases led the eight-team series field.

Three of Francona's Wildcat teammates joined him on the all-tournament team, which was selected by sportswriters and sportscasters Friday night following Arizona's 5-3 victory over Hawaii.

The other Wildcats were first baseman Russ Clements and pitchers Craig Lefferts and Greg Bargar. Lefferts went the distance earlier in the week to shut out Michigan and the two Arizona hurlers combined to beat the Rainbows in the title game.

The Rainbows, a young team who surprised even their coach with their strong showing, placed three players on the all-tournament squad.

Colin Tanabe, a catcher, third baseman Kimo Perkins and shortstop Eric Tokunaga joined Clements and Paul Hundhammer of Miami to complete the infield.

Outfielders named to the squad were Francona, Lyle Brackenridge of California and Jim Paciorek of Michigan. Paul Maruffi, who played right field for St. John's, was named to the all-tournament team as designated hitter.

Baylor golfer takes state lead

DALLAS (AP) — Baylor University sophomore Tom Dunn of Conroe fired his third straight even par round Saturday for a one-stroke lead after 34 holes of the 71st Texas State Amateur Golf Championship.

Dunn had one bogey, one birdie and 16 pars.

Odessa's Lelan Chiles, one of three players to beat par Saturday, was tied with Plano's Richard Ellis and second-round leader David Sann of Dallas at 217, one shot back of Dunn.

In rebuilding year Arizona wins crown

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — For Coach Jerry Kindall, watching his Arizona Wildcats win the NCAA baseball championship by struggling through the losers' bracket was a big thrill in itself.

Having four players named to the College World Series all-tournament team was icing on the cake, especially since the two pitchers chosen to the select squad were from Arizona.

And outfielder Terry Francona was named outstanding player.

"These kids have battled time and time again and have never once given up," Kindall said.

His Wildcats defeated Hawaii 5-3 Friday night with superb pitching from a staff that had the worst earned run average of any team in the Series.

teams with only two seniors in their starting lineup, surprised everybody by making it to Omaha in the first place.

"We weren't supposed to be here," said Coach Les Murakami. "But baseball is a funny game, almost magical. One of these years we'll be back and be so powerful we'll win it. We just didn't have the experience this year."

Hawaii catcher Collin Tanabe, an all-tournament selection, agreed.

"It's no matter that we lost," Tanabe said. "We're still No. 1. Second place is just as good for the first time to the College World Series."

Arizona, finishing 45-21-1, was ranked second in the nation coming into the series a week ago. But St. John's stunned the Wildcats, 6-1, in the opening game and the Wildcats had to come back the hard way.

"We keep pushing. We go after them," said Dwight Taylor, whose two-out double in the ninth inning Thursday night beat California 11-10 and sent the Wildcats to the title game.

Arizona starter Craig Lefferts, pitching on only three days rest after shutting out Michigan, 8-0, said he only had six good innings in him. He was right.

In the seventh, Hawaii came within 5-3 on four singles off him. But the Wildcats brought in Greg Bargar and he slammed the door, sending down the remaining seven Rainbow batters in order.

Arizona, after the loss to St. John's, beat Florida State, Michigan, Hawaii and California to gain a berth in the title game.

URBAN COWBOY CROWD — Actor John Travolta, (left, in hat) holds on to his Lone Star Beer, and watches as crowds of people try to get a glimpse of him. Sitting next to Travolta are Dianne Von Furstenberg and other personalities. The group is gathered at Gilley's Club in Pasadena Tx. Thursday night to celebrate the premiere of Travolta's latest movie, URBAN COWBOY. A large portion of the movie was filmed at the club.

'Urban Cowboy' puts Travolta in the theater limelight again

By MARIE HOMEYER
"Urban Cowboy" is the country version of "Saturday Night Fever," only with a little more story and a little more class. Starring John Travolta, the Robert Evans-Irving Azoff-produced movie depicts the life of a blue-collar worker in his favorite hang-out — Gilley's in Pasadena, Texas, billed as the world's largest honky-tonk. As Bud, Davis, a small town boy who moved to the big city for a well-paying job, Travolta plays a better performance than in his previous hit movies. More than just displaying his ability to dance, "Urban Cowboy" gives Travolta the chance to display his talent for acting. In addition to the complimenting the performance of Travolta, unknown Debra Winger gives the movie some warmth and depth as she plays the confused, misguided wife, Sissy. After a chance meeting at Gilley's and a rather short courtship, Davis and Sissy are married. The real action starts there. From argument to argument, rejection to rejection and jealousy scene to jealousy scene, the plot thickens and the action grows more intense. At the conclusion of the movie, the screenplay writers James Bridges and Aaron Latham have the audience on the edges of their seats. The movie verges on soap opera logic, but the writers and director walk the fine line skillfully. From the conniving other woman to the evil, no-good other man, from the understanding and experienced-in-the-ways-of-life uncle to the missed communications, "Urban Cowboy" has all the makings for a great soap opera. The producers at that point steer in a different direction. Action-packed movie results. "Urban Cowboy," like Travolta's other two successes, "Saturday Night Fever" and "Grease," is greatly improved by the music. Country star and owner of the honky-tonk, Mickey Gilley makes many appearances in the movie, both acting and singing. He supplies some great music with some of his best songs. Joining Gilley was the Charlie Daniels Band. The soundtrack for the movie is excellent — in country-western standards. But what would Travolta be without dancing. Disco, rock-n-roll or country, Travolta has the talent to excel at it all. He can make even the simple, easy-going style of country-western dance seem sophisticated and difficult to master.

"Urban Cowboy" has brought John Travolta past his weak moment of obscurity and into the limelight once again. It is definitely one of his best movies — a winner by all standards.

Movies help propel science fiction books

REBECCA TAYLOR

Star Wars! The Empire Strikes Back! Star Trek! Only a few years ago since fiction fans were hard to find and considered rather odd by the general public. Now most individuals would tell you that the "Enterprise" is a star ship rather than an ocean going vessel, and that Luke Skywalker is the blond hero of "Star Wars", not an Indian. Such concepts as black holes, laser beams, time warps, and alternative universes, are common knowledge, especially among the younger generation.

The phenomenal rise of science fiction into the public consciousness has paralleled recognition and development of the genre as a literary form. Although there have always been quality authors of SF, they were long overpowered by inferior quality pulp writers.

The Howard County Library has a sound and growing collection of science fiction and fantasy. Classic works are being added along with brand new selections. The following new books by established authors are now on the shelves:

—Frederick Pohl deals with black holes and alien super cultures in "Beyond the Blue Event Horizon." This book is the spellbinding sequel to "Gateway", which won the Hugo, Nebula and John W. Campbell Memorial awards.

—Another pioneer SF writer, A.E. van Vogt, published "Cosmic Encounter", this year. The collapse of the time spiral dumps individuals from many eras into the same time period.

—Robert Silverberg, widely known for his editorial prowess, has just released his long awaited novel, "Lord Valentine's Castle." The young ruler of a gigantic world is robbed of his own body and his identity is submerged in another form. He must encounter many trials to reestablish his identity and re-capture his throne. —Larry Niven, another editorial great, the sequel to his prize winning "Ringworld." The Ringworld Engineers explores the building of the fascinating world built into a hoop about its primary. —Marion Zimmer Bradley is widely known for her Darkover series. In the "House Between the Worlds", an experiment with drug enhancement of ESP sends subjects on an out of body trip to alternate worlds instead.

The following relative newcomers are contributing to the growing literary stature of SF. —John Varley, in Titan, creates a strange world within a living intelligence. A spaceship captain must reassemble her crew and escape from the fairyland world. —Piers Anthony, in "Split Infinity", has created both a future world and an alternate universe where magic works and unicorns and werewolves roam. —The Last Immortal, by J.O. Jenson, is the personal odyssey of Tec, an alien robot, on a voyage in which the destinies of humans and robots reach a classic confrontation. —Just for fun, is "Barlowe's Guide to Extraterrestrials," an artists concept of some of the great aliens of science fiction literature.

It offers more appeal to Texans and country-western music lovers. Houston skylines, Pasadena oil fields and refineries and some of the best country-western music combine to welcome in another smash hit for John Travolta.

Mad Magazine presents:

'Up The Academy': Comedy about kids

"Up The Academy" is a wild and whacky movie about the incredible adventures of teenage boys who turn a strict military academy into a howling inferno of fun. The film is loaded with great rock-n-roll songs. What's more, Mad Magazine's revered hero, Alfred E. Neuman, is a visible guiding force in the screen comedy.

A Mad Magazine presentation, "Up The Academy" is a Warner Bros. release produced by Marvin Worth and Danton Rissner. Robert Downey directed from a screen play by Tom Patchett and Jay Tarses. Bernie Brillstein was executive producer.

That raft of tunes that are heard through "Up The Academy" are performed by top rock-n-roll artists Cheeks, Blow-Up, Sammy Hagar, Blondie, Ian Hunter, The Babys, Pat Benatar and Jonathan Richmond And The Modern Lovers. Done is that rare spirit of Mad Magazine, "Up The Academy" follows the exploits of America's busiest delinquents. These fiery oddballs — they include sons of a Mafia godfather, a black faith healer, a tricky politician and an Arab oil sheik — are utterly intimidated by a school threat that they'll be whipped into military shape. Instead, their plotting and capers build. They cook up a rare form of military drilling, then sneak off in the dark to win instant affection inside the walls of a strange girl's school. There's an unbelievable kind of soccer game, with an X-rated cheering squad. Then the devilish genius of those kids explodes in a fabulous climax.

A wonderfully kookie tale of today, "Up The Academy" has a fine cast headed by a young Wendell Brown, Tom Citera, J. Hutchison, Ralph Macchio and Harry Teinowitz as those incredible cadets.

Among those sensational new rock-n-roll songs that are heard throughout "Up The Academy" are "Kicking Up A Fuss" done by Blow-Up, "X Offender" sung by Blondie, "We Gotta Get Out of Here" done by Ian Hunter, "Bad Reputation" sung by Sammy Hagar, and "Coquette" performed by Cheeks. That music is available on an "Up The Academy" sound track LP from Capitol Records.

Marvin Worth, producer of the uniquely comic "Up The Academy," has a long-standing love for the outrageous. As a comedy writer, he created materials for zanies like Milton Berle, Jackie Gleason and Steve Allen. Working the outrageous in a different vein, Marvin Worth has produced the dramatic screen blockbusters, "The Rose" and "Lenny," which earned seven Academy Award nominations.

Robert Downey, director of "Up The Academy," has shaped rare comedy classics that include "Putney Swope" and "O'Greaser's Palace." He is a gifted writer, as well as director. "Up The Academy" was filmed on location in once quiet Salina, Kansas, which began to ferment as setting for the movie's notorious Sheldon R. Weinberg Military Academy. Besides those hilarious cadets and strange instructors, the characters include eight harem wives, four mafiosos, a bevy of Las Vegas showgirls, a dynamite lady disco thrower and 10 ancient trombone players.

With a crew like that, what can go wrong? Also starred in "Up The Academy" are luscious Barbara Bach, as the world's most curved lieutenant colonel, Tom Poston, Ian Wolfe, Antonio Fargas, Stacey Nelkin and Leonard Frey as Keck. Director of photography was Harry Stradling.

Spray and starve ants and roaches

There are two basic offensives against ants and roaches, according to the entomologists at the Johnson Wax Biology Center, Racine, Wis.:

If they are already in your home, you can get rid of them with a residual spray, such as Professional Strength Raid Ant & Roach Killer. Spray where the bugs hide — along baseboards, under sinks, around drains, behind the refrigerator and cabinets, in any dark cracks and crevices. Repeat every two weeks. The dried spray kills the insects when they walk over it.

The best way to keep ants and roaches out of your home is to be sure all food is tightly sealed or put away where they can't get at it.

Smokers experience withdrawal

Habitual smokers experience physiological withdrawal within one hour without a cigarette. British psychologists have concluded. Even small degrees of nicotine deprivation produce discomfort, disrupt concentration and cause task performance to suffer.

Tests were conducted on 56 men between the ages of 20 and 32. Half the group was composed of nonsmokers; the other men smoked more than 15 cigarettes a day. The smokers were given drugs which affected the rate of nicotine excretion and changed the urine pH. Some smokers were caused to experience accelerated nicotine excretion, as evidenced by acid urine; the others were manipulated to conserve nicotine in the bloodstream, producing alkaline urine. The performance of these two groups of smokers, along with that of the nonsmokers, was measured during a 50-minute exercise of numeral sequence recognition.

The nonsmokers consistently performed better; their concentration and accuracy improved steadily over the 50 minutes. The smokers performed at a lower level of accuracy, but for the first 40 minutes, both groups of smokers produced virtually the same results. After 40 minutes, the performance of the smokers who had been caused to excrete nicotine quickly deteriorated.

Asthma triggers polio

A growing body of evidence indicates that severe childhood asthmatic attacks may be associated with a polio-type of virus, as yet unidentified.

Boys under the age of 10 appear at greatest risk of developing pain, paralysis and other indications of severe degeneration of the motor nerve fibers. Prior vaccination against polio offers no protection from the syndrome, which characteristically sets in about one week after an asthmatic attack. The victims may not have indicated other allergies in the course of skin patch tests.

The first signs of the disease are usually a congested or runny nose, cough and wheezing. The early stages closely resemble a bad cold, although there may also be pain in the upper arm or shoulder. Within a few days, however, paralysis or limpness begins to affect the shoulder and arm. Once it has set in, physicians thus far have induced only slight degrees of recovery.

Trampoline Protection Needs Another Bounce

DEAR ABBY: We recently bought a trampoline for our children. Soon all the neighborhood youngsters started coming over to jump on it.

We talked to our lawyer about the possibility of our being sued should a child get hurt on our trampoline. We own rental property and other assets that could be lost in a lawsuit, and we wanted to be sure we were protected. He suggested we ask the parents of the children to sign the following form:

DATE: _____
 NAME OF CHILD: _____
 I hereby give my consent for my above named child to play on the trampoline located at _____ Houston, Texas, and will not hold the owners of said trampoline responsible for any injuries sustained by this named child while playing on said trampoline.

MOTHER _____

FATHER _____

Some of our neighbors refused to sign it. Others said it was insulting and unnecessary, as they were "not the type" to sue.

We don't want to make enemies of our neighbors. What do you (and your readers) think of asking our neighbors to sign such a form?

HOUSTON PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I think you are wise. But what about those children who come into your yard and use your trampoline without their parents' knowledge or consent? A trampoline is an attractive nuisance, you know, so in order to be fully covered, you should talk to your insurance agent. Leaving nothing to chance is a good policy.

When two people are married, the subject of monograms often comes up. Here at Accent Shoppe, we maintain the selection of a monogram is largely a matter of taste; that is, you should select the combination of letters you and your fiancée find most appealing. The size of the letters should be in proportion to the piece being marked. Three letters are most popular, but two or four are also correct. A single initial is considered a marking rather than a monogram. Although many brides enjoy having their silver and linen monogrammed, most gifts come unmarked in case of duplication. Lucky you, isn't it fun to choose your initials for your new things?

Denita's Beauty Basics

Q: I understand that the sun can have some damaging effects. Please give me some tips on how to prevent these.

A: First of all, know that the effects of the sun is like a "time bomb." The damaging results may not appear for years, and then it's too late. Be certain to take extra good care of your skin during and after tanning: SPF—sun protection factor—labeled on tanning products indicates the degree of protection of sunscreen in the product. The higher the rating (on a scale of 2-23) the more sunscreen. Begin tanning with a high SPF product and limit initial exposure to the sun; gradually increase time. Pay particular attention to your face. Use a good sun block. This does not mean that your face will not tan or that you will not have that summer glow; it will guard your complexion as you tan slowly and gently, and with less chance of peeling. It's a good idea too, to wear a hat or visor to help protect your face. Do this for yourself now, you may thank yourself years from now!
