APPROACHING THE ZERO HOUR — Entries and workers mass in the arena of the Rodeo Bowl here, discussing common problems and checking equipment before the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo gets under way. Some of the salty stock provided by show producer Tommy Steiner can be seen in the pens. The third performance of the rodeo starts at 8 o'clock this evening. The 47th annual event winds up Saturday night.

Rodeo's second night

Himes, Anderson triumph

By DON WOODS

Jack Himes, local cowboy who won both bare backs and bull riding at the 1979 Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, and won last night's bronc bareback riding competition with a 76 point ride.

Himes won all around Cowboy here in 1979. His ride Thursday night on a horse named Beaver Creek proved high enough, though, to top Sandy Kirby's 74 point ride on Wednesday night.

A 76 point ride by George Anderson, Cushing, in saddle bronc division, won a first place last night on a notorious horse named "Major Reno." The animal has been a featured part of the Steiner stock for many years.

Denny Flynn, Charleston, Ark., came out on top in the bullriding with a 75 point ride, not as good, though, as his 98 point ride last year at one rodeo.

The perfect 100 point ride is a feat that has never been accomplished.

Flynn was gored in 1975 by a bull that just missed his heart.

Second place in bare back riding went to Be Jimeson, Ft. Worth, on Lost Pride with a 69. Third place last night went to Marshall Slayton, Leesville, La., in Chinook with a 58.

Second in saddle bronc riding went to Cody Lambert, Lampasas, with a 75 on Sam Bass. Third place was won by Mike O'Neil, Pearshall, with a 68 on Mr. Chris.

Second place in bull riding went to Donald Chapman, La Porte, with a 67 score. Only two of the seven bull riders stayed on long enough for the score.

In the calf roping competition, Willard Moody took first for the evening with 8.9 seconds during slack time roping.

Jimmie Cooper took second with 8.9 during slack time. Sonny Davis took third with 9.5 seconds.

Steer wrestling competition resulted in a first place in Thursday night's competition for Jimmie Cooper during slack time with 4.3 seconds.

Second place went to Tim Roberts, Dublin, with 4.8 seconds. Third place went to Gary Kersh with 5.1 seconds.

In team roping, first place went to Phil Longacre and James Allen during slack time with 6.2 seconds. Second place was Kim Gripp and J.B. Whatley tied with the team of Dean McMullan and Mike Kelly, both teams with 6.9 seconds.

Third place Thursday night in team roping was also a tie between the teams of Jack Stricklin and Joe Hall and David Graham, Elgin, and John Anderson, College Station, both with 7.8 seconds.

The Owens Country Sausage wagon teamed up with the "Gentle Giants," an eight-horse Belgian Hitch. The horses responded to their red-jacketed driver in a $30,000 harness made in Canada. The harness featured bells and had fittings made of chrome. The six-foot animals maneuvered the antique wagon very close to the arena wall like teams in the past positioned their wagons for freight loading.

J.W. Stoker shined literally with outstanding rope tricks performed under black lights. Clown Quail Dobbis, together with Salt and Pepper, delighted young and old alike with his antics.

expedite the sentencing.

Teague said he planned to appeal the sentence.

Mike Hinton, the prosecutor in the 1974 trial, asked in his closing argument to the jury, "Can you imagine what this has done to Halloween night?"

"How many more years will it be before we have another normal Halloween?"

A jury of 10 men and two women deliberated 46 minutes in returning a guilty verdict and, a day later, deliberated 71 minutes in assessing the death penalty.

After hearing the second verdict, O'Bryan walked quickly to a holding cell nearby and wept without restraint.

The state presented no witnesses in the punishment phase but the defense offered testimony from nine friends and neighbors.

"He was a decent person, peaceful, agreeable, a very nice person," said Dr. D.L. Akin, an optometrist.

O'Bryan had told the jury he and a friend escorted their children on a rain-drenched trick-or-treat.

He said the death candy was given to him by a man at a home in suburban Pasadena and he distributed it to the children.

O'Bryan said Timothy, preparing for bed later, asked for the candy, took two gulps of the powdery sweet and went into convulsions. The boy died a short time later in a hospital.

O'Bryan identified a man he said gave him the candy but police said the man worked on a night shift and was miles away from his home that Halloween night.

Former Big Spring man has date with death Aug. 9

(Special to The Herald)

A former Big Spring resident, Ronald Clark O'Bryan, 36, more recently an optician in Pasadena, Tex., has a date with death Aug. 9.

That is the time of his scheduled execution, set Thursday by State District Judge Frank Price in Houston. O'Bryan was convicted in 1975 and sentenced to be executed for the murder of his son Timothy. The execution date was set by Judge Price after the U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal from O'Bryan.

Texas uses lethal injection to carry out the death penalty, but no executions have been carried out at Huntsville since 1965 when the electric chair was the method of execution.

"I now must appeal to a higher authority and trust they will see through what the court calls the dispensing of justice," O'Bryan said before Price set the execution date.

O'Bryan was convicted of murdering his son by giving him candy laced with cyanide in an effort to collect $10,000 in insurance money.

Investigators said O'Bryan's daughter and four other children also received the deadly candy, but none ate it.

O'Bryan quoted from John 13:7 — "what thou doest, do quickly" — before he was sentenced. He said he was innocent and the victim of "speculation, accusation."

He said his case "mocks the very justice of our system of justice." Marvin Teague, O'Bryan's attorney, and assistant district attorney Don Stricklin both said they felt the biblical reference was intended to

Democrats force tax cut on Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — While holding fast against the tax plan of Ronald Reagan and his fellow Republicans, majority Democrats have put President Carter on just a few weeks' notice to serve up a 1981 cut of his own or risk having one forced upon him by Congress.

That was the message Thursday, when Senate Democrats rejected the 10 per cent tax-cut bid by a virtually united minority and instructed its Finance Committee to write a more acceptable version by Sept. 3. The decision was yet another unofficial concession that there is very little hope left for a balanced 1981 budget, even as that remains a formal target.

Carter may well beat the Senate's timetable for advancing a tax cut. Though the president has consistently opposed any action this year on tax relief, sources within the chief executive's economic circle now say privately they expect a rather broad proposal to emerge in his mid-year budget revision, due no later than July 15.

Key advisers to the president say they want a multi-year tax cut to help spur investment and productivity through the mid-1980s, but they remain convinced it would do little in the short run to pull the country from the current economic slump. They would prefer enactment by the next session of Congress, with retroactivity to Jan. 1, on ground that moving sooner could set off a new round of inflationary expectations just as wholesale and consumer prices have moderated.

But that preference, they concede, likely will be overwhelmed by the rising pressures of an election year, and Carter could well be out with a comprehensive proposal at about the time the GOP meets in Detroit.

Reagan, in a statement issued in Los Angeles, said much the same thing, adding that the Senate vote to delay consideration of a tax cut "rivals Jimmy Carter's empty rhetoric for sheer cynicism."

Melvin Warneke is adjudged guilty

By DON WOODS

Jurors in the 118th District Court trial of Melvin Warneke returned a verdict of guilty this morning. Warneke was charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Carl Wayne Clanton.

The jury deliberated 37 minutes before reaching the decision at 12:45 a.m. Punishment phase of the trial is to begin at 1:30 p.m.

It was not established if there was a gun found in Clanton's pickup after the shooting. Defense testimony from Warneke and his two friends, Doyle Hale and Edmund White, claimed that Clanton had reached three times for a weapon before Warneke's gun "went off."

All three men said Warneke had warned Clanton, twice, not to reach before firing the shot.

State's witness Dr. James Matthews testified that the bullet had entered Clanton's right side and exited through his left side and lodged in his forearm.

Defense testimony included Betty Robinson and Pam Soles, ex-wife of defendant Warneke.

Defense Attorney Wayne Basden contended that Bobby Gwen Bailey, common law step-son to Clanton, and Robert Taylor, Clanton's cousin, removed a gun from the pickup after the shooting.

Ms. Soles testified that she had been contacted by Clanton in November when he walked into her home uninvited. Warneke and his wife had been separated several months at the time, though testimony conflicts on the time of the separation.

District Attorney Rick Hamby charged in final arguments that Warneke was guilty of "reckless conduct, the necessary element of involuntary manslaughter."

Hamby said the crime is punishable by two to ten years in prison. Warneke has applied for probation.

Action/reaction: Will FBI help?

Q. Can the FBI be used in a murder case? Our son was killed in Fort Worth by an unknown person or persons?

A. Ordinarily, the FBI does not enter such cases, unless a federal law has been broken (like the transportation of guns across the state border). The agency will usually offer technical and lab assistance, when asked to do so by local authorities. If you are unhappy with the investigation being done toward solving the murder of your son, it has been suggested you appeal to the Texas Department of Public Safety for help first. You cited a local case, a double murder, where the FBI got involved. The federal agency did not actually enter into investigation of the case but rather provided a 'criminal profile' after studying the evidence. In other words, the agency was saying, in effect, 'here the kind of person you're looking for.'

Police beat— Criminal activity is light but bothersome

Criminal activity in Big Spring Thursday was much like the mosquitoes which appear nightly: harmless, but bothersome.

C.L. Patterson reported Thursday that a garden hose lying in his lawn at 717 Tulane was spliced sometime this week. Patterson taped the hose and Wednesday night the hose was cut again.

Janis Klusman of 3701 W. 80, No. 18 reported that a person known to her knocked over her 1974 Honda 360 c.c. motorcycle around 10 p.m. Thursday. The amount of damage reported was $100.

Police officers discovered around 2 a.m. Friday a plate glass window at the Fina Cafe at 200 N. Gregg was shattered. Charles Leek of 4216 Parkway reported at 11:30 a.m. Thursday a CB antenna stolen from his vehicle between Wednesday and Thursday in front of his residence.

Two traffic mishaps occurred Thursday. A vehicle driven by Van Ed Stanfield of Camp Wood collided at 3:40 p.m. Thursday with a vehicle driven by Helen Compton Walters of Sterling City Route in the 600 block of West Third.

A vehicle driven by Norman Holland Webb of 710 Galveston collided at 12:55 a.m. Thursday with a vehicle owned by Eugene Walter Bryant of Gail Route in a private parking lot on Gregg Street.

GIANT CIGAR LIGHTER—Quail Dobbs, the clown who is starring in the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, looks somewhat surprised as his jalousy organizes enough fire power to take off into orbit. The laugh-maker from Coahoma appeared at the VA Medical Center Thursday to help entertain patients and was due to be at Bob Brock Ford to sign autographs for kids this afternoon. Tonight and Saturday, he'll be back in the Rodeo Bowl. Oh yes, Quail's vehicle is accustomed to this sort of treatment.

Tax Appraisal Board

Budget increase looms

Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board member Jack Watkins told Howard County Commissioners Wednesday not to go into "shock" over a large budget increase.

The county pays part of the tax board's budget.

Watkins told commissioners that budget increases were made necessary by personnel additions and cost of the mandated property reappraisal.

The tax board also needed a contingency fund Watkins said the board was signing checks without the money in the bank to cover them.

Watkins said the Pritchard and Abbot rate for oil and gas appraisal would be $47,500 next year. Consolidating the taxing entities saved the entities an accumulated $25,000, said Watkins.

A complete reappraisal is mandated before the 1982 convening of the Howard County Equalization Board. Total cost will be $350,000. Total Tax Appraisal Board budget is $592,788.

Individual taxing entities will pay four times as much per month than they have in the past because of the increase. "We don't want you all to go into shock with this 400 percent increase," said Watkins. He said the amount would decrease after the reappraisal.

The amount to the county will increase by $1,000 a month for the next four months.

Watkins said the Tax Appraisal Office needs better working conditions. He said conditions for the county mapper were "terrible." The mapper needs a slanted table rather than the flat table he is working on, said Watkins.

Adequate desks are located in another office in the courthouse that Watkins wants in the tax appraisal office "yesterday."

The mapper receives a $22,000 budget but can only do one-third as much work because of the working conditions, said Watkins.

Forsan Mayor J.L. Barron asked commissioners to allow county workers to maintain two Forsan roads. The roads run from Highway 87 to Forsan and from FM 821 to the north.

Commissioners took no action on the request.

A new head librarian was hired. Judith Gray has a master's degree in library science and has experience in all areas of library work.

She was once a resident of Big Spring. She has been residing in Bakersfield, Calif., where she was working part-time for a medical library. She said Proposition 13 stripped the county library there of 48 percent of the staff.

Two pipe line crossings were approved for Phillips Petroleum.

Snyder teen is drowned

SNYDER — David Hill, 18, of Snyder drowned on a church outing at Big Bend National Park Wednesday, park authorities revealed.

Hill apparently was sucked into a deep hole in the Rio Grande, according to Park Ranger Russell Berry. He had been swimming in the shallow, muddy river with a group of 13 teenagers and 16 adults from Calvary Baptist Church in Snyder.

The group was on a five-day trip and were swimming near Hot Springs in the southeast corner of the park when Hill disappeared shortly before 4 p.m. Wednesday, he said.

"The body was recovered at 5:13 by park rangers, who had used drag lines to search the river," Berry said. "Members of the group had been swimming near a deep hole that the victim went into. The body was found at that location."

Services for Hill will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at Calvary Baptist Church, directed by Bell-Seale Funeral Home. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery.

He was born Jan. 15, 1962, in Snyder. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Hill of Snyder.

Deaths

G.W. Burt

COLORADO CITY — G.W. Burt, 69, of Colorado City died at 9:30 p.m. Thursday in Colorado City's Root Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness. Funeral services will be Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Colorado City Kiker-Seale Funeral. Burial will be in Westbrook Cemetery.

Mr. Burt was born Sept. 10, 1910 in Barber, Ark. He was married to Sudie Wilma Snyder in Big Spring in 1932. He was an elder of the Trinity Baptist Church in Big Spring and in Midland. He was a long-time resident of Midland and moved to Colorado City two years ago.

He is survived by his wife of the home; a son, Billy George Burt of Colorado City; a daughter, Sharon Truelove of Colorado City; six sisters, Addie Lee Carroll of Colorado City, Mrs. Dorothy Solomon, Mrs. Exbie Dolan, Mrs. Eula Albert and Mrs. Viola Bailey, all of Big Spring, Mrs. Ruth McDaniel of Lake Thomas and Gertie Nunnlee of Tulsa, Okla.; five grandchildren, three great-grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Skeet group eyes facility

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Action by the Big Spring Steering Committee Thursday could result in a large flow of tourism dollars into the area.

The steering committee will advise City Manager Don Davis and the city council to enter into an agreement with the Texas Trap and Skeet Association for a facility at the Industrial Park. The committee also approved two Sports Car Association races at the Industrial Park.

The committee approved leasing to the statewide trap and skeet shooting group an 80-acre area south of the runway at $25 an acre yearly.

Truitt Thomas appeared before the committee on behalf of the Texas Trap and Skeet Association and outlined what the rifle recreation group proposed.

Thomas said the association wanted to build an 18-field shooting area, consisting of 30 acres. A 50-acre fallout area would be included. The 80-acre site would also have a clubhouse.

The Texas Trap and Skeet Association plan to hold its statewide shoot at the complex at the Industrial Park.

About the statewide event, Thomas said, "It will bring more people to Big Spring than the rodeo." Thomas added that the statewide shoot would bring between 100-150 shooters and about three persons to every shooter.

"This is a purely tourism thing," he remarked.

Thomas added that monthly area shoots would take place for enthusiasts in this area; and a regional shoot that would be held quarterly.

About the Texas Trap and Skeet Association move, Thomas commented, "All in all with their club, they plan to spend about $500,000 (in setting up here)."

Mike Faulkner with the Big Spring Jaycees came before the committee to ask for permission for a car race to take place twice next year under the auspices of his organization and the Sports Car Association.

Faulkner asked for the unused runway and taxi way on the westside of the airport.

Sports Car Association operates presently a race at Bryan.

The races, Faulkner said, would take place the last weekend in April and sometime in July. The race, he added, would be a road race, not a straight-shot drag.

Commenting on the races, Faulkner said, "They (the cars) will achieve speeds in excess of 200 miles per hour on the straight-aways."

Thomason new DAV leader

Past Commander Adelino (Rocky) Vieira installed the newly elected officers of Chapter 47 Disabled American Veterans Monday night. Assisting was Dwight McCann, acting as Conductor.

The officers installed were: Bernie W. Thomason, commander; Fred S. Scott, senior vice commander; Vic V. Ames, first junior vice commander; Sam N. Lewis, second junior vice commander; M.H. (Jack) Spivey, adjutant-treasurer; Joe H. McMinn, chaplain and Y.J. Luna, sergeant-at-arms.

The track for the race would be created by using used tires and 55-gallon barrels filled with water. The crowd would be located on the westside of the course, away from the high speed curves.

"Sports Car Association will foot all the bills and take all responsibility," Faulkner said.

The impact on Big Spring could be substantial, Faulkner alluded. He said that supporting personnel numbering about 1000 would be brought in for the race.

"They (SCA) were just estatic over the possibilities of using it," Faulkner said.

He added, "They desperately want a race in West Texas."

The committee will advise the city council to approve the races with the stipulation that $1,000 per race day be paid to the city and that the Jaycees and SCA be responsible for cleanup.

Mother wants another trip

By the Associated Press

Barbara Timm arrived in Paris today hoping to receive permission to make another trip to Iran, where her son and 52 other American hostages spent their 237th day in captivity.

The Iranian news media reported, meanwhile, that 21 more Iranians had been executed. Most were condemned as narcotics traffickers by Iran's anti-drug crusader Sadeq Khalkhali, but five were accused of anti-government activities in Iran's restive, Arab-populated southwest.

Mrs. Timm's lawyer, Carl McAfee, said his client was on a humanitarian undertaking for all of the hostages who have been held since the American Embassy in Tehran was seized Nov. 4.

Mrs. Timm, of Oak Creek, Wis., is the mother of 20-year-old Marine Sgt. Kevin Hermening, the youngest of the hostages. She has received a waiver from U.S. officials that exempts her from President Carter's ban on travel to Iran by most American citizens.

Tampons linked to disease

ATLANTA (AP) — New medical studies have linked tampons to toxic shock syndrome, a rare and sometimes fatal disease that primarily strikes women under 30, the national Center for Disease Control reported today.

Three studies, conducted by the CDC and state health officials in Wisconsin and Utah, showed the illness can be linked to tampon use, especially continuous use through menstruation.

The syndrome is characterized by high fever, vomiting, diarrhea, a sunburn-like rash and a rapid drop in blood pressure, which frequently results in shock. In most cases, the illness develops during the first two days of the menstrual period.

In its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, the CDC said it has documented 73 additional cases of toxic shock syndrome since 55 cases were documented in May.

Ninety-three women with the disease were included in the three studies, the CDC said. Of these 93 women, 92 regularly used tampons.

The report emphasized, however, that "tampon use by itself is not sufficient to cause the disease."

France builds nuke warhead

PARIS (AP) — France built and tested a neutron warhead and will decide within two or three years whether to include it in its nuclear arsenal, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing announced. The disclosure apparently was aimed at blunting domestic and foreign critics of his coziness with the Kremlin.

Giscard d'Estaing made his announcement at a rare news conference at the presidential palace Thursday that was carried by radio and television nationwide. He did not give details on where or when the tests were conducted, or explain why a decision to produce the warhead would be delayed two or three years.

The State Department said the French tested a nuclear device on a South Pacific island earlier this week, and that Giscard d'Estaing's announcement came as "no surprise" because development of the warhead has been the subject of "extensive public discussion in France over the last several months."

Crime clearance rate here is 54 per cent

Big Spring Police Department had a 54 percent clearance rate for reported crime during the month of May.

According to statistics compiled by the police department, a total of 273 cases were reported during the month of May, and 148 cases were cleared.

As for property, the 273 cases resulted in $72,695.01 in property lost. Police were able to recover $66,389.04 in property during last month.

The largest single category of crimes committed in May was theft. A total of 65 cases of theft were reported, and police were able to clear 28 cases during last month. In terms of dollars, the 65 incidences of theft resulted in $25,041.29 of property lost. A total of $4,072.64 in property was recaptured.

Burglary was also large with 56 cases being reported. A total of 16 burglaries cases were cleared during May. As for property lost, $13,469.22 was taken. Police were able to recover $1,778.90.

By STEVE SNIDER

WASHINGTON — As far as the 1980 presidential candidates are concerned, the convention of the League of United Latin American Citizens this week is an affair most of them prefer to skip.

The top four candidates still in the race, including Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan, Edward Kennedy, and John Anderson are pictured in LULAC's program schedule, but only Anderson is scheduled to appear.

Citizens Party candidate Barry Commoner is also slated to speak to some 2,000 conventioners, including an estimated 750 LULAC delegates.

For LULAC, organized in Corpus Christi in 1929, the 51st annual convention here in the lavish Shoreham Hotel was seen as a chance to showcase the organization and provide a forum for those who want to lead the county into what LULAC has heralded as the "Decade of the Hispanic."

But the absence of the top presidential contenders is not taken lightly by LULAC's incumbent president Ruben Bonilla of Corpus Christi, himself a Jimmy Carter partisan.

Reagan, in Houston today for a Republican unity breakfast and scheduled to be in Salt Lake City tonight and Saturday for events sponsored by the Mormon Church, was reported unable to attend the LULAC convention because of scheduling problems.

LULAC officials specifically said they did not want a substitute for Reagan, although GOP Chairman Bill Brock will speak to the convention this weekend.

"Apparently Gov. Reagan thought a fundraiser in Houston was more important than coming here," Bonilla said Thursday. The Corpus Christi attorney noted that the "prevailing mood" of Hispanics in the U.S. is that Reagan is "uncaring" about issues held dear to them.

Bonilla said LULAC actively sought an appearance by Reagan

"to give him a chance to persuade us to vote for him." Efforts to persuade the former California governor by working through Sen. John Tower, R-Texas chairman of the GOP platform committee, were unsuccessful as well.

If "prevailing mood" of Hispanics was any factor in attracting the candidates, then the biggest disappointment among the no-shows at the convention has to be Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. The Democratic challenger has trounced President Carter in the Hispanic community through the primary election season. Kennedy defeated Carter by a 68 percent to 27 percent margin among Mexican-Americans in the Texas primary.

According to a Kennedy staff member the senator made an infrequent stop in Washington Thursday for work in the Senate, and is scheduled to address the National Council of Senior Citizens in Cincinnati Friday. From there, a Kennedy staff member said the senator goes home to Massachusetts for the weekend.

At one point Kennedy had reportedly accepted LULAC's invitation to appear Saturday morning, some 15 hours after what was hoped would be a Friday night speech to the delegates by Carter.

"We thought he (Kennedy) could be here in front of the full delegation capturing the full drama of the moment by following the president to make his points," said Bonilla. "It is clear that he has captured the votes and the imagination of the Hispanics."

A major concern however expressed privately by some LULAC officials was the possibility of "a repeat of Seattle," referring to a recent meeting of the National Conference of Mayors, where Carter and Kennedy were scheduled to speak. Kennedy's appearance was cancelled by the mayors after pressure from the White House.

Bonilla said LULAC made sure the Democratic rivals were not invited to appear the same day, but he added the president's representatives never made this an issue to LULAC. "They are not foolish enough to say that to us anyway," said Bonilla.

Carter is featured on the front page of Bonilla's reelection campaign brochure, but the photograph of the two incumbent presidents chatting likely is the closest the commander-in-chief will get to the LULAC parlay.

Following a week of meetings in Venice and Europe, the president is scheduled to spend a long weekend beginning Friday at Camp David.

Demonstrations rougher than they used to be

The Japanese used to stage the best kind of mass demonstrations. The students there — and invariably the protest marches were made up of students — would march on the Japanese parliament square or the emperor's digs, raise high their placards, utter a few threats and then go home. When the radical wing got real worked up, they would sometimes throw a pie or some one's face. When the authorities decided enough was enough, they would turn the fire hoses on the demonstrators and that was that. Everybody went home.

How different things are today. The Japanese play rougher with each other. If they have grown more desperate, they are still a couple of leagues behind demonstrators in other parts of the world. In America, for instance, they burn a few cars, set a few buildings on fire, throw a few rocks. To let them know they can play rough, the cops or the militia — who ever has been called to the scene to break a few heads. Don't ever doubt that those truncheons the uniformed gentry brings into play can't give you a headache, if it comes down across your skull or across your back. They smart.

The participants in the mass demonstrations are playing meaner.

A lot of people taking part in the protests that turn into riots say, "What the heck, the rules of good conduct are off this one time and, besides, if we get violent enough we can see ourselves on the 10 o'clock news."

If what happened in Miami is a sample of what we are in for over the summer and into the fall, many Americans had better start looking for places to hide. Its obvious that some people showed up in Miami for the riot that ensued, intent on killing somebody. Red-neck whites were after the blacks. The blacks were intent on doing in some 'honkies.'

The trouble at Fort Chaffee more recently was bad enough. It could have been a lot worse if the civilians who grouped near the Cuban encampment had had an agitator who been able to work them into a frenzy.

No matter how serious a situation is, nothing justifies murder, mutilations or beatings. That's no way to fight racism. That kind of reaction only fans the flames of hatred and increases the lust for retaliation.

The troubles of our long-neglected people aren't going to disappear if we ignore them. Let it be added that there are far better and less expensive ways to solve them than through bloodshed. Our problem is, we are prone to listen only when they cry out in anger.

Comradeship

Around the rim

James Werrell

"Gotcha!" That's the punchline to one of the more excruciating ads on TV, where four guys simultaneously nick their lather-covered faces with conventional razors.

I still use one of those razors that will "getcha," a gold-plated, double-edged Gillette, circa 1953. It was the first razor I ever shaved with, and will probably be the last.

For some reason which I don't completely understand, I take comfort in this fact.

I DO REALIZE that having used this heavy old instrument since fuzz first appeared on my upper lip means that I have resisted the hype for single-edged, banded and twin blades, as well as completely-disposable and electric razors. That in itself may be something to be proud of.

I also suspect that my razor and I have formed some kind of mystical comradeship over the years. Hip sociologists would probably call it male bonding; a phenomenon exclusive of the relationship women have with the weapons they shave their legs and underarms with.

It is a relationship that developed slowly over the years, and one that would have been virtually impossible with razors that are thrown away once a week.

Although I am fond of my razor, my conservatism about methods of scraping hair off the face has its limits. I am definitely against a return to straight razors, leather strops, brushes and hard soap.

It's just that, in my opinion, shaving technology peaked with the invention of the disposable blade. I'll admit to a few subsequent improvements on that blade, but that's my limit.

The razor's edge on a plastic disposable unit runs you about 35 cents, while on a double-edged blade it's about a dime. No big deal, but I hate to get nicked in more ways than one.

Secondly, an old-fashioned razor is a lot easier to keep clean. A twin blade, for example, is a perfect nesting place for muck and old five-o'clock shadow, while a double-edged razor can be opened up and sterilized every once in a while.

IN THE END analysis, though, it is unfair for me to foist my values on anyone. Shaving, after all, is a deeply personal, semi-religious, semi-daily ritual.

But I can't get around the idea that shaving with a weightless piece of plastic is akin to drinking champagne out of a paper cup; both get the job done, but the ceremony is definitely lacking.

I have always suspected that the guys who say they hate to shave are actually saying, "Look, I can produce this manly stubble in a matter of hours, while some of you whimps could go a week without raking a blade across your fair-skinned mugs."

Within the ritual of shaving are intimations of having reached a certain state of grace, or at least of having left puberty behind. Those who must shave claim to hate it, while those who can't shave wish they could.

Is shaving pain or pleasure? All you can say is that the mystery is more than skin deep.

No castor oil

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Last Thursday evening as the Senate dined on, four Republican senators plotted a new strategy to preempt President Carter's imminent turnaround on tax reduction and inform the nation that Republicans no longer prescribe castor oil for economic sickness.

The hour-long session in a Capitol hideaway reached this conclusion: From now on, Republicans will offer a permanent tax-cut amendment to each and every money bill. Although chances of passage in the Democratic-controlled Senate are zero, the move will reiterate Republican primary as the party of tax reduction.

IRONICALLY, THE nay-saying old doctors of the GOP are simultaneously complaining about too much tax-cut elixir dispensed by Ronald Reagan and yearning for old-fashioned Republican castor oil, heavy on budget cuts. Popular though this prescription is with economists and bankers, Republican senators and House members — and presumably Reagan, too — know it as a prescription for defeat.

That is why Republican tax-cutters on Capitol Hill are worried by reports Carter will unveil a tax cut, effective Jan. 1, that could outflank them (as we forecast in mid-May). These Republicans have been asking themselves how to convince the country that Republicans have the tax-cut copyright while Democrats are plagiarists.

That was pondered Thursday evening in the Capitol hideaway by Sen. William Roth of Delaware, the lesser known and less flamboyant co-author of the Kemp-Roth tax reduction bill. Also present were two ardent tax-cutters, Sen. James McClure of Idaho and William Armstrong of Colorado, plus an important ally, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, senior Republican on the Senate Finance Committee.

They decided to offer a tax-cutting amendment to every money-related bill in the Senate (a procedure not permitted under more restrictive House rules). Five bills are early candidates: the debt ceiling, airport trust funds and three minor tax bills.

Tentatively, the amendment will cut personal income taxes in all brackets by 10 percent (the first-year proposal of the three-year Kemp-Roth), will index future tax rates to cover inflation, and will provide accelerated tax depreciation for business. Like Carter's expected proposal, the cuts would take effect in 1981. Roth & Co. prefer an immediate slash in tax withholding, but seem foreclosed by rigidities of the congressional budget process.

The Roth amendment's price tag for the first 12 months is $21 billion, about what the president is considering. But whereas Carter will likely provide only a one-year tax credit, Roth would change the tax code permanently with reduced rates and indexing.

If that nuance is too subtle for voters to catch, at least Republicans can celebrate with profit the phalanx of Democratic "nays" to tax reduction on vote after vote after vote, beginning immediately. Attaching a hopeless congressional rider to repeated bills for propaganda purposes is a hoary Capitol Hill tactic dating back at least to the Wilcox Provision against extension of slavery, which never passed but popularized the issue.

ROTH'S PLOY also will interfere with efforts by self-styled traditionalist Republicans to mute Reagan's tax trumpet. The taste of castor oil was hinted on NBC's "Meet the Press" June 15 when ex-Treasury Secretary George Shultz, now a Reagan economic adviser, subtly stressed spending cuts and de-emphasized tax cuts.

Skin fungus must be identified

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I would like to know what to do for body ringworm. I've had it for about six months and have tried several things. Nothing works. I've got it in my armpits and under my breasts. — Mrs. L.

All body rashes are not ringworm. Ringworm, or tinea corporis, is a fungal infection most common in children. It is a circular, red, scaling patch. Ringworm is treated with skin cream (like miconazole) and oral medicine (griseofulvin). You would need a doctor's prescription for those.

Your condition sounds more like intertrigo — moist, tender patches of redness, especially on surfaces that are hard to keep dry and well-ventilated. Under the breasts and under the arms are typical areas.

Often, a fungus, different from ringworm, can be the culprit. That fungus is candida. Treatment for any intertrigo is to keep the skin dry. Talcum powder helps. Burrow's solution, which is made by mixing a package of it into cool water, can be used twice daily. Ask your druggist for concentration instructions. At times it is necessary to use a skin cream that will kill the candida fungus.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son, who just turned two, had pneumonia last week and was in the hospital for five days. I'd like to know what causes pneumonia and if he is likely to get it more easily from now on. I was wondering if there was a way to prevent it. — C.F.

Most commonly, pneumonia is caused by infection of the lungs by viruses or bacteria. The bacterial pneumonias are treated with antibiotics. For example, pneumonia due to the bacterium pneumococcus is treated with penicillin.

In most cases, there is no permanent damage nor any greater likelihood of getting pneumonia later on. The viral pneumonias, often called "walking pneumonias," are generally less serious than those caused by bacteria. On the other hand, there are no antibiotics for viral pneumonias. In fact, there are only a few medicines effective against only a few viruses. Although there are serious forms of viral pneumonia, most types respond to rest and treatment of uncomfortable symptoms with cough suppressants, aspirin, etc.

A child who has recurrent pneumonias is a different story. That child has to be examined to see if his general natural defenses against infection are working properly. His white blood cells have to be checked to see if they can properly attack invading germs. Too, the child's ability to make antibodies against germs should also be investigated.

A contribution in this field has been development of a vaccine against one kind of bacterial pneumonia — "pneumococcal pneumonia." It is given to those whose doctors consider there is a risk of contracting it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have had gout for seven years. I have been in clinics and seen specialists. They didn't do anything for me but give me pills. When it hits I am out of work for three or four days. Isn't there a shot for gout? — F.W.

Colchicine can be given by vein or by mouth. It is given by intravenous injection when the oral route cannot be used because of stomach upset.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a teenager and I recently accepted Christ into my life. Now I want to witness for my faith to my old friends. How can I do that? — D.J.B.

DEAR D. B. J.: I am thankful that you want to share Christ with others, since this in itself is an indication that you have truly come to know Christ and want to serve Him. I am also thankful because your friends need to know of Christ. They need to know His forgiveness and the joy and purpose He can give them if they will turn to Him.

How can you share your faith? First, I hope you are reading your Bible as a regular part of your life as a Christian. And as you read, I suggest you notice how Jesus dealt with people. Note the love He had and the way He sought to deal with them in terms they could understand. Note also how He always directed them to Himself as the Savior and Lord they needed. Or again, look in the Book of Acts to see how the early Christians reassured that there is no serious physical cause, they overcome the problem. A short trial with a tranquilizer may be helpful.

If there is actual sticking of food or pain with swallowing, that is a different problem. This requires investigation for such conditions as spasm of the esophagus or narrowed areas blocking the normal passage of food.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Could you explain micturition syncope? — Mrs. A.C.

Micturition syncope means fainting after urinating. A person may experience this after being aroused during the night by a need to urinate. It usually comes after having drunk large quantities of fluid. It may be that the sudden emptying of the greatly-stretched urinary bladder causes a reflex that slows the heart so much that fainting results. Not allowing the bladder to become so full may lessen the attacks. If you have this, you should report it to your doctor.

Troubled with gout? To learn about new treatment for this painful disease, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Gout — The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a teenager and I recently accepted Christ into my life. Now I want to witness for my faith to my old friends. How can I do that? — D.J.B.

DEAR D. B. J.: I am thankful that you want to share Christ with others, since this in itself is an indication that you have truly come to know Christ and want to serve Him. I am also thankful because your friends need to know of Christ. They need to know His forgiveness and the joy and purpose He can give them if they will turn to Him.

How can you share your faith? First, I hope you are reading your Bible as a regular part of your life as a Christian. And as you read, I suggest you notice how Jesus dealt with people. Note the love He had and the way He sought to deal with them in terms they could understand. Note also how He always directed them to Himself as the Savior and Lord they needed. Or again, look in the Book of Acts to see how the early Christians shared their faith with others. And then pray that God will help you have love for those around you, and that He will open opportunities for you to share your faith.

Then remember that your life is very important. Your friends know what you once were, and they will be watching your life to see if there is any real change in it. They may even try to tempt you and pull you down, but they will also admire you when you stand for Christ (even if they may not say so openly). So pray that God will help your life to honor Him in everything — your speech, your habits, your attitudes, etc.

Also look for opportunities to share your faith by your words. Perhaps your pastor or some other more mature Christian can help you to understand how to share the Gospel simply. But be alert for opportunities God would open for you to speak about your faith in Christ. Then pray that God will bless your witness and bring some of your friends to Christ.

Resents slap

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Big Oil's arrogance is nothing short of amazing. Even when one of the oil giants is caught ripping off the American public, it puts on an air of outraged innocence. And, more often than not, the Carter administration swallows it all.

Confidential documents disclose how Mobil Oil responds to even the lightest slap on the wrist — by the federal government. Caught allegedly overcharging its customers by $45 million, Mobil was allowed by the president's Economic Policy Group to wriggle out of this multimillion-dollar gouge by giving up $30 million in permissible price increases. Net for Mobil: $15 million of the money it wrongfully took from customers.

THE TROUBLE with the president's guidelines on price increases is that they're strictly voluntary. Aside from jawboning — which can easily be overcome by paid counter-propaganda in leading newspapers — the only stick the administration can wield is cutting off federal contracts and exposing the price gougers to bad publicity. In the case of oil companies, this is a thin reed indeed.

But even the Economic Policy Group's mild finger-wagging apparently outraged Mobil, which is not accustomed to Uncle Sam acting up to an oil company. Mobil, meanwhile, was busy behind the scenes, because somebody slipped the company a copy of a White House memo. It described the harsh measures that the government was considering against Mobil.

Evidently astounded, Mobil President William Tavoulares on April 3 fired off an indignant "confidential" letter to Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

"On grounds of basic fairness and good sense," Tavoulares wrote, "we call upon you to discontinue your present campaign against Mobil. It seems inconceivable to us that in the year 1980 a senior adviser in the White House would even consider attempting the misuse of the full panoply of federal government power to enforce a supposedly voluntary program."

What got Mobil's water boiling, apparently, were staff suggestions that the oil company could be punished by sanctions against such Mobil subsidiaries as Montgomery Ward. This possibility was in fact rejected by the president's wage-price watchdogs.

ANOTHER POSSIBLE weapon against Mobil, discussed in the memo leaked to the oil company, was to lower the amount of federal money that had to be involved in a contract before it could be canceled for non-compliance with the guidelines. The Economic Policy Group memo suggested that lowering the contract figure from $5 million to $1 million — or even zero — "would be more effective and far more dramatic." This would have caught Mobil, but it was also rejected.

The ultimate threat that got Mobil worked up was also mentioned in the bootleg memo: the president's power to price and allocate Mobil's crude oil.

Forewarned by leaks from friends in the government, Mobil reacted with its usual bluntness. Carter caved in, and other Big Business giants are now trying to get the same sweet deal that Mobil got, one official told my associate Tony Capaccio.

TROUBLE IN PARADISE — Among the things that Marxism was supposed to consign to the scrapheap of history were prostitution and the black market. But intelligence reports disclose that the Soviet Union is every bit as troubled by these seamy sides of society as any decadent capitalist country.

Streetwalkers are a continuing headache for Russian authorities. Though the secret police constantly harass the ladies of the evening, Western analysts report that the KGB uses most Soviet prostitutes as police informants.

Oddly enough, according to one Soviet defector, foreign sailors sometimes pay for the hustlers' services with bootleg copies of books by Soviet dissident Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn — a valuable black market item.

A large part of the Soviet black market, in fact, involves printed material. This includes internal passports and work permits, usually genuine. "The Russians don't forge much," a Western analyst reported. "In fact, the only documents we have seen forged are college diplomas."

A high-stakes smuggling operation is in religious matter, such as Jehovah's Witnesses' smuggling of Bibles and religious leaflets.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Regarding Howard County employees (Focalpoint Big Spring Herald, June 9, 1980) and Texas laws, one of which every vehicle owner should be aware, and which is enforced by Mrs. Bednar (County Tax Assessor-Collector) and her aides, is on page 67 of "Registration Questions" for the state of Texas.

The 20 percent delinquency penalty is due anytime a vehicle is operated upon the public streets or highways without the required fee having been paid. However, it will be difficult to establish the fact that a vehicle has been operated unless the owner was apprehended or admits that he operated the vehicle with expired plates.

You will be asked if you drove this car to the Howard County Courthouse. Mrs. Bednar or one of her aides will ask you this question.

If you are one day late or more than one day late in applying for your Texas Vehicle Registration, you will be penalized if you drive your vehicle from your residence or your business location, to the County Court House to register the vehicle, if you tell the truth and say you did drive this vehicle to the County Court House. You may lie about this and not be penalized, as implied in the above quotation. If you tell the truth you will be penalized. Therefore if you lie it will save you money.

Copy of "Registration Questions" page 67 is attached and the words which are underlined were underlined by Mrs. Bednar or one of her aides at the County Court House.

Governors want permanent board

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Governors from states bordering Mexico and the United States are calling for a permanent commission to carry out plans made at their historic two-day meeting here.

The plans include suggestions by Texas Gov. Bill Clements for both nations to relax border-crossing requirements for Mexican tourists and to beef up U.S. immigration staffs as one way to reduce delays and traffic jams on international bridges.

Gov. Manuel Bernardo Aguirre of the Mexican state of Chihuahua, said he would ask for formal action before the meeting ends today. "We must not let the things discussed here languish on the shelf," he said.

Without a permanent international border commission, Aguirre said "the excitement of ideas generated here may just fade into oblivion."

The meeting in this teeming metropolis, the largest Mexican city on the Rio Grande, marked the first time that the governors of states along the international border have met. All six Mexican governors were present during Thursday's opening session, and among American governors, only Edmund G. Brown of California was absent.

Brown's chief of staff, Gray Davis, said the California governor was delayed by state business and was "making every effort possible to join his fellow governors before the convention ends."

The meeting, across the border from El Paso, Texas, attracted more than 100 reporters from across Mexico, and several dozen American newsmen who braved record heat wave to cover the event. The temperature has risen above 100 degrees for 17 straight days.

Clements said the 10 states sharing the international border should do more to promote tourism between the two nations.

"As many as 40 percent of those who apply (to U.S. immigration offices) in Mexico for visas to the United States are turned away," Clements said. "The United States also requires that Mexican visitors must apply in person — in person — for visas, instead of by mail or by proxy, which is standard procedure for European visitors."

He also criticized the Mexican government for requiring passports to travel into the United States, and charging more than $35 each for them.

"Then there is the difficulty of border crossing," Clements said. He cited long lines at international bridges caused by too few border guards and said, "Such delays are discouraging to potential visitors and frequently tend to discourage travel in the border area because of this inconvenience."

Clements' call for more INS guards to handle the heavy traffic jams at international crossing points drew applause from the audience of about 300 persons in the Juarez Convention Center.

Gov. Bruce Babbitt delivered most of his address calling for better mutual understanding of the Anglo and Hispanic cultures in Spanish, while the other governors spoke in their native languages. Babbitt received a standing ovation.

"We can't change history," Babbitt said. "But we must understand history as it is seen on both sides of the border."

He drew enthusiastic applause when he said, "We need an education system in which it is assumed no one is educated until they are bilingual."

'I Am America' Week will begin Monday

"I Am America" Week begins Monday at the Veterans Administration Medical Center here with patriotic programs and activities continuing through the Fourth of July. Patients, employees and volunteers at the Medical Center will participate in special events emphasizing national unity and pride in America.

This project is sponsored jointly by the Equal Employment Opportunity Committee and the Employee Relations Committee at the Medical Center, and supported by veterans' service organizations and volunteers.

The idea originated with employees who felt that patients would benefit from a special emphasis on patriotism, and would enjoy programs and activities that visually express basic American principles.

Scheduled activities for the week include a slide presentation on the life of George Washington; a poster contest for patients, employees and volunteers using the "I Am America" theme; a dress contest, with prizes for the best combination of red, white and blue apparel; a program on each ward by Medical Center employees; a luncheon featuring apple pie and ice cream; and a Fourth of July evening program.

The Medical Center Dietetic Service will provide a special "All American" steak dinner for patients in celebration of the July 4th holiday.

Larry Don Shaw will be the speaker at the Friday evening program, which will also feature musical selections, refreshments, and presentation of prizes to winners of the patient contests for "I Am America" Week.

Soviet bomber crashes off Japan coast

TOKYO (AP) — A Soviet TU-16 bomber, one of a pair of reconnaissance aircraft dubbed the "Tokyo Express," circled a Japanese naval transport and then crashed in the sea and exploded today after its wing-tip brushed the water, the Japanese Defense Agency said.

The bodies of two Soviet crewmen were recovered by the Japanese transport off Niigata, 180 miles northwest of Tokyo, said an agency spokesman, adding the Tupolev bomber usually carries a crew of seven. The other bodies were presumed lost in mile-deep waters.

Known by the NATO code-name "Badger," the bomber was one of pair spotted about 70 miles north of Sado Island by Japanese radar and the crew of the transport ship Nemuro, the spokesman said.

The Defense Agency, Japan's military branch, scrambled four U.S.-made F-4 jet fighters to investigate after one of the planes circled the Nemuro.

A new minister came to a certain church. He was full of sophisticated knowledge and taught little from the Bible.

At the end of two years he was told that one of the leading men of his church was ill. He went to see him. There was no chance for recovery; The man was dying. After a little talk the minister said, "Shall I read to you and pray?"

"Yes," replied the man, and beckoned to his wife to bring the Bible.

A Bible was brought, and the minister opened it and saw a strange sight.

Some books were taken out of it, some pages were torn away, some chapters gone and some verses cut out; it was a shamefully mangled Bible.

The minister said, "Have you not a better Bible than this?" "No," replied the man, "two years ago I had a whole Bible, but as soon as you told me that one book was fiction, I tore it out; and that one chapter was not true. I removed it; and that some verses were unauthentic, I cut them out. If I had another year under you, I think I should have had only two covers, and nothing else."

TWISTER

It came roaring out of the northeast like a freight train. In a matter of minutes, it had changed the lives of hundreds of people and left a path of death and destruction that few would ever forget.

Why do twisters come? And why are some lives taken and property destroyed, while the lives and homes of others are spared without a scratch?

The laws of nature are mysterious. We can only marvel at the power revealed through violent storms and try to be as best prepared for them as possible. We have the promise of our Lord to be with us: "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

One day we will know the answers to many questions that have long troubled us. Until then we can only "trust in the Lord with all our hearts and lean not unto our own understanding."

Renew your own faith this week. Worship in the church or synagogue of your choice.

Reception of Bible in Islamic lands is mixed

NEW YORK — Christian Scripture distributors often meet with mixed reception while sharing God's Word in Islamic nations, according to the American Bible Society.

In spite of this, however, Scripture distribution continues and, in many cases, advances.

Reports received at the American Bible Society indicate that Scripture distributors in Islamic countries often face considerable risk. In some cases, though, workers are surprised at the welcome their Scriptures receive.

Samuel Ismail Fakhr, a distribution representative for the Pakistan Bible Society, described an incident that illustrates how even potentially dangerous situations for Scripture distributors often turn out to have positive results.

"In March of last year, I went to a fair in the town of Shah Kot," Mr. Fakhr wrote to the Bible Society. "Our distribution campaign was going well there until a fanatic 'maulvi' (Muslim preacher) collected a crowd and threatened to shoot us if we did not stop the Scripture distribution."

Mr. Fakhr then went on to tell how police arrived and attempted to control the mob. "The police officers saw the contents of the packets that were distributed at the fair, read them, and told the maulvi that the Gospels and Selections were the teachings of Hazrat Isa (Jesus Christ), and that they could not take any action against us. Especially when the constitution gives minorities the right to practice, preach, and propagate their religion."

Ultimately, over 200,000 Scriptures were distributed at the fair, but the most joyful experience occurred when the maulvi returned once again.

"He came to our stall," Mr. Fakhr wrote, "felt sorry for what had happened, embraced us, and bought a New Testament for his own study."

Statistics gathered by the American Bible Society indicate that in many Islamic nations, Scripture distribution is rising. In Mr. Fakhr's homeland of Pakistan, officially a Moslem nation, Scripture distribution increased a dramatic 100 percent from 1978 to 1979, from 2.08 million to 4.2 million Scriptures.

Scripture distribution in Lebanon in 1979 rose 3 percent to 1.7 million Scriptures, while distribution in Indonesia totaled 10.2 million units.

At Oberammergau

Passion play brochure clears anti-semitism

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith has published guidelines to inform audiences at the controversial Oberammergau Passion Play of "misrepresentation or misinterpretation" about Jews.

The eight-point brochure will be distributed through American travel agents and in the Bavarian village, itself, where half a million persons from all over the world are expected in Oberammergau, to view the pageant about the crucifixion of Jesus.

The Oberammergau Passion Play is staged every 10 years by villagers who carry out a vow of gratitude made by their forebears in the 17th century after surviving a plague.

According to Theodore Freedman, director of ADL's Program Division, "the guidelines are aimed at the predominantly Christian audiences at Passion Plays, who are often not prepared to identify distortions in the image of Jesus — his life as a Jew, his universal mission and the causes of his death on the cross."

These distortions, he declared, "are especially sensitive elements in the area of Jewish-Christian understanding."

ADL, which criticized the 1970 Oberammergau pageant as anti-Semitic, worked with its producers, church authorities and West German government officials to bring about extensive revisions in this year's dialogue and staging. To see how successful the effort has been, Mr. Freedman and Nat Kameny, chairman of ADL's National Program Committee, attended a special preview performance at Oberammergau, May 18, at the invitation of the mayor and the West German government.

Accompanying them is Dr. Leonard Swidler, professor of Catholic Thought and Interreligious Dialogue at Temple University, who prepared the guidelines and cooperated with ADL in suggesting revisions for the 1980 pageant.

The ADL brochure points out that while "important steps have been taken to remove much of the old discredited anti-Semitism" from this year's script, "additional materials of a positive nature still need to be included."

Passion Plays, it asserts, should foster "love for Jews as the people of Jesus."

The guidelines further state that "Passion Plays should portray the events leading to the death of Jesus as a struggle among Jews, chief among them being Jesus... a struggle about the best way to be Jewish, about how to live according to God's teachings — the Law (Torah)."

The guidelines are not only intended for Oberammergau audiences, Mr. Freedman said, but for use at other Passion Plays staged in the U.S. or overseas. The brochure is available through the Anti-Defamation League's national headquarters, 823 United Nations Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10017.

According to the guidelines, Passion Plays must not: — Create the false impression that most Jews of Jesus' time desired his death.

— Depict Jesus as opposed to Jewish Laws (Torah), since he and his disciples were all observant Jews.

Revival set for Phillips

Rev. Richard Smith, pastor Trinity Baptist Church, Roswell, N.M., will be preaching a three-day revival at Phillips Baptist Church, Fifth and State.

The revival begins June 27 at 7 p.m. continuing through June 28 at 7 p.m. and June 29 at 11 a.m.

All are cordially invited to attend.

Home-made services highlighted

The "Castners," a family gospel music group from Lubbock, will highlight the evening services at College Baptist Church this Sunday at 7 p.m. The evenings emphasis concerns the family and a "home-made evening at church."

Included during the evening are activities and classes for all age groups at 6 p.m. A family concert with the Castners will be at 7 p.m., and a family "Home-made Fellowship" at 8 p.m.

Dress for the services is to be informal and homey. A nursery is provided for preschool children and the public is invited to take part in all services of the church. College Baptist is located at the corner of 11th and Birdwell, across from Howard College.

'Divine Love' confab set

More than 100 district conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses will be held throughout the United States this summer according to spokesmen for the group.

Loren H. Spencer, representative for the group in Big Spring, announced that they expect some 975,000 delegates to attend these "Divine Love" District Conventions that will be held in 66 cities across the country.

Spencer said 72 persons will represent Big Spring at a four-day meeting planned for the Dallas Fair Park Coliseum June 26-29. "Love is one of the strongest emotions for good in humans," Spencer said, "and yet we live in a love-starved world. Divorce, crime, delinquency and most other problems besetting man would disappear if the two greatest laws ever given, to love God and to love one's neighbor, were obeyed."

"The 'Divine Love' Conventions will provide practical help for people of all ages in the application of these great laws in our lives," Spencer concluded. Spencer said the sessions are planned for all age groups and all meetings are open to the public.

Crusade set for Lamesa

The Lamesa Black Crusade will begin 8 p.m. July 6 through 9 at St. John Baptist Church, 103 S. 10, Lamesa.

The crusade is co-sponsored by the Lamesa Baptist Association of Dawson County. The Rev. Leon Anderson, Lubbock, will be the evangelist. The Rev. J.H. Nelson is St. John's pastor.

The Progressive Baptist Singers, Lubbock, will provide the guest music.

Carter vows to pray

ST. LOUIS (AP) — After the Rev. Bailey Smith of Del City, Okla., was elected president of the Southern Baptist Convention, he got a telephone call from President Carter, a Southern Baptist, who said: "You're my president."

Smith related that he asked Carter to pray for him and Carter replied, "I have prayed for you and I am going to continue to pray for you in the days to come."

Jewish family break up reason for womens' fear

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "A deeply disturbing psychological barrier" is preventing women from attaining full equality in Judaism, according to a leading authority on Jewish ideals and ethics.

Francine Klagsbrun, author of "Voices of Wisdom" (Pantheon), said that this barrier is based on fear within the Jewish community, among women as well as men, that the advancement of females to full equality with males would shatter the Jewish family.

Addressing the final session of the Winter-Spring series of "Book and Author" luncheons sponsored by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, Ms. Klagsbrun said that this "fear is real" because the sweeping changes introduced by the widespread women's revolution have included "a disruptive element" among its "forces for constructive change."

However, she stressed, that it is blindness for opponents of women as rabbis and prayer leaders "to pretend that Jewish family life has been or in any way will remain immune to the changes that have swept all of society."

She went on to say: "It's blindness to suppose that by officially stressing only the traditional values of women as mothers and homemakers, Jewish women will in any way curtail their activities in society at large — will not choose to pursue careers, not choose to explore options that might preclude marriage or limit the numbers of children reared."

Ms. Klagsbrun said that women's rights is the "one area in which the Jewish ethic is not one of social justice but rather of discrimination and inequality."

In the Bible and Talmud, she said "women are regarded as subservient to men," to be treated with kindness and care as mothers and daughters but not with equality.

She pointed out that signs of inequality can be found in restrictions on the right to give testimony, to take part fully or lead in synagogue services, to become rabbis and to attain the full breadth of Jewish scholarship that has always been open to men.

As an ardent participant in the women's struggle for liberation, she said that she is frequently asked: "How can you devote yourself this way to a religion that treats women as second class citizens?"

Her reply is that she remains fully dedicated and committed to the faith of her people because "the women's issue is not the totality of Judaism," whose truths and teachings are universal, applicable to men and women alike.

Theologian says more study Bible

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan State University theologian says increased Bible study and evangelism is showing up among young people, but it's often not happening within traditional churches.

"There is more religious activity on campus now, but lower percentages of young people in churches," says W. Fred Graham, professor of religious studies. "Within the last half decade there has been a movement to non-denominational expressions of Christianity."

In the university's religious studies department, he says "we have moved from great interest in Eastern religions in the '60's to more students wanting courses on the Bible than we can handle."

"Our newest faculty appointment will be a New Testament scholar — a discipline we would not have chosen even three years ago."

'Abortion party' said to dominate country

DETROIT (AP) — A University of California law professor says an "abortion party" has dominated America for the last decade. John T. Noonan Jr. told Detroit's Catholic Health Assembly that the "abortion party" is a coalition of the federal judiciary and lawyers working with it, backed by such institutions as the American Civil Liberties Union and Planned Parenthood. "Doctors, particularly those at leading university hospitals, and the media, which are wholeheartedly in the abortion camp, make up the remaining segments of the abortion party," he said.

Vatican rebuked for barring Rev. Drinan

NEW YORK (AP) — The independent Roman Catholic weekly, Commonweal, says editorially that the Vatican "erred, both in what it did and how it did it," in barring the Rev. Robert Drinan of Massachusetts from keeping his seat in the U.S. Congress.

Decisions on such matters are "clearly dependent on local circumstances," the magazine editorialized, and are well left to local bishops or national hierarchies, or possibly some procedure involving both with the Vatican.

Temperature records fall in Texas Thursday

DALLAS (AP) — Temperature records fell in most major Texas cities Thursday in a deadly heatwave that has claimed at least seven lives.

Forecasters predicted blistering afternoon highs to top out near 113 again today.

The heat was blamed for five deaths in Dallas Thursday, when the mercury reached an all-time high of 113. In initial reports, medical examiners said heat was a factor, but expected more specific causes of death after performing autopsies.

David Michaelson, 72, owner of a downtown clothing store, and his sister, Sadie, 86, were found dead in their beds by a relative Thursday night. The air conditioning was broken and homicide investigators said the temperature was 110 degrees in the home.

Alejandro Parra, 50, collapsed on his landscaping job and died after being taken home. Gertrude Forrester, listed in her 80s, was found dead by a neighbor in the 100-degree heat of her un-airconditioned home.

Arthur Wygant, 59, of Dallas, died while unloading a truck about 2 p.m.

Heatstroke had been ruled the cause of death for another Dallas man and a Fort Worth man this week.

Eight other persons were admitted to Dallas hospitals Thursday with heatstroke symptoms, including the 67-year-old brother of the Michaelsons.

Electricity usage soared to all-time highs, and residents of two North Texas cities sweltered without power for most of the afternoon.

About 100,000 residents of Garland, a Dallas suburb, and 23,000 in Greenville, about 20 miles to the northeast, were without electricity from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. A Garland city spokesman said the a record demand for electricity, coupled with impairment of a transmission line by tree roots, knocked out two substations.

But John Tarpley, Greenville's electric utilities director, said a member of the power cooperative that connects several small cities apparently had reversed the flow of electricity, causing generators to shut themselves off.

Dallas Power & Light Co. reported electricity usage had passed the record set Wednesday.

At Dallas-Fort Worth Airport, midway between the two cities, a reading of 113 at 4:30 p.m. surpassed the all-time high of 112, recorded on Aug. 18, 1969 and Aug. 11, 1936. The temperature finally declined below 100 at 9 p.m.

Medical examiners were expected to rule today on a possible third heat-related death in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Arthur Wygant, 59, of Dallas, died while unloading a truck about 2 p.m. Heatstroke has been ruled the cause of death for another Dallas man and a Fort Worth man this week.

Daily records were set at Wichita Falls, with 112 degrees; Del Rio, 103; San Antonio, 102; Austin, 102; and Houston, 101.

At 5:40 p.m., only nine of the National Weather Service's list of 30 Texas cities had readings below 100.

And at the Dallas intersection of Elm and Field streets, where a television crew was filming an episode of "Dallas" by the glassy First Intercontinental Building, the temperature was measured at 117 degrees at 3:50 p.m.

National Weather Service forecasters say they see no relief in sight until next week, when temperatures could fall into the cool 90s.

While the soaring temperatures kept air conditioner repairs and sales high, Dallas police said 23 air conditioners had been reported stolen during the last six days.

Glass dealers said they had been kept busy by a rash of calls from people with broken rear and side windows in their cars.

"The heat just builds up pressure or something," said Mike Killingsworth of Nelson-Brantley Glass Co.

Bond denied for accused in church shooting

DANGERFIELD, Texas (AP) — Bond has been denied for Alvin Lee King III, charged with killing five people and wounding 10 during a worship service at the First Baptist Church here.

King remained in fair condition in the criminal detention unit of Galveston's John Sealy Hospital, where he is recovering from a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

State District Judge Bill Move said King would be entitled to a rehearing when he leaves the hospital.

At the hearing Thursday, District Attorney Charles Mac Cobb argued bond could be denied because at the time of the shootings, King already was free on bond stemming from a felony indictment of incest.

King was scheduled to go to trial Monday on the incest charge brought on behalf of his daughter.

Cobb said the case would be presented to a grand jury as soon as possible.

King was in critical condition until Wednesday, when he was moved from the intensive care unit. He underwent brain surgery early Monday.

He shot himself in the head after he allegedly stormed the church during a worship service Sunday.

A heavily armed gunman wearing a flak jacket and helmet kicked in the door at the church and yelled: "This is war!" before spraying the congregation with rifle fire.

Knee surgery won't stop ex-BSHS great

ONE OF THE HARDEST THINGS for any dedicated and competitive athlete to do, especially after having experienced some continued success, is to retire.

For most football players, it occurs after their senior year in high school. Some, however, are skilled enough to continue and play in college football before having to resign to the real world.

But for those skilled enough both mentally and physically to exhibit their skills in professional football, and that is only a handful in comparison to the ones that started with that desire, the withdrawal can sometimes be very painful.

Like many relationships in the world, the longevity of the pro athletes career makes it even more so difficult to throw in the jock strap, shoulder pads and other paraphernalia.

CHARLIE WEST, FORMER STAR ATHLETE AT BIG SPRING HIGH and with Texas Western (now UTEP), will report to the Denver Broncos training camp next month at the age of 34. It will be West's 13th year in the NFL, which far surpasses the average pro gridder's playing span.

Last year, following an exhibition with Dallas, West intimated to me that he might not make it through to the regular season roster, as his aging legs did not have the old snap as in the earlier stages of his career, when he set an NFL record with the Minnesota Vikings by returning a punt 96 yards for a touchdown against the Washington Redskins.

WEST FINALLY MADE IT through the training camp without being cut and played an integral role in the Broncos drive to the NFL playoffs, where they were subsequently defeated by Earl Campbell and the Houston Oilers, 13-6.

But following that playoff loss, West underwent knee surgery, leading many to believe that he would finally retire.

West explained Wednesday in a telephone interview that the surgery was a simple operation to investigate a chronic problem that has plagued him during the past few years.

"I really just wanted to make sure nothing was drastically wrong," he explained. "I wanted them to take a scope while I still had coverage from the league, rather than waiting until I had finished playing and would be liable."

"THE GOOD NEWS THAT IT WAS BASICALLY CLEAN kind of buoyed me," the articulate West explained. "I've been working out since January, two weeks after the operation, and my legs have responded quite well. They feel stronger than they have in years."

West, who played six years with Minnesota and four with Detroit before coming to Denver for the 1978 season, ended up starting for over half of the season with the Broncos last fall at the free safety position. That undoubtedly was a factor in his deciding to make one more attempt at yet another NFL season, as he explained.

"Being able to start as much as I did last season and perform like I know I'm capable is one of the main things that influenced me on embarking upon another season."

"I have not signed a contract for this season," said West, who led the Big Spring Steers to a record of 8-2 in 1963, a mark that is unmatched since that time. "But that's the way it has been since I've been with Denver. They make no guarantees, but did indicate that they did want me to come back."

West, who at 185 pounds is the lightest he has been since his rookie season in 1968, realizes that he has been fortunate to hook up with the Denver organization in the twilight of his career.

"In many other places in the NFL," he stated, "I would have been done in two or three years ago."

CHARLIE WEST

"YET I AM VERY OPTIMISTIC toward my chances of playing one more year," said the former second round draft pick of the Vikings. "The one major factor that helps keep me going now is the coach (Red Miller). He is very appreciative of what I might be able to contribute. This is a great reward for me as a player, to know that I am still respected in regard to helping the team. And in this I mean not only as a player that can produce, but one with experience that can help the younger players."

West admits that he is still viewed as a backup on the present depth chart at both safety positions, and admits that he will once again have to be able to play on the specialty teams in order to make the final Broncos roster for 1980.

"I've still got to do a little of the dirty work," he laughed, referring to the specialty teams that he has performed on throughout his NFL career.

Talking from his cabin on his acreage in woods of Minnesota, which is located about 40 miles north of Minneapolis, he divulged that he had not done any other type of work during the past few months, other than to prepare for football.

"I USED TO GET OFF-SEASON JOBS earlier in my career," he said, "but not the last three or four years. I have been totally devoted to getting myself into the position to make the team in training camp. It's become a full-time job year round as I have gotten older."

With last year's experience cut starting for the Broncos at free safety, the durable ex-BSHS three-star star has served time at all of the defensive secondary positions. His first five years with the Vikings were at cornerback, while he was a starter for Detroit at strong safety.

"I'll play anywhere they want me to," he continued, "but most of my career has been at strong safety. That's my spot."

"Psychologically and physiologically, I'm designed for strong safety. To play that position, you've got to force the action and be a little tougher minded."

Then, with a pause, he added: "In saying that, I'm not saying that I'm any tougher physically than the next guy."

BUT HE DIDN'T CONVINCE ME. Mental toughness and physical toughness are all related. One is no good without the other.

And in the case of Charlie West, it becomes obvious as the years go on that he has both.

To be a success in the NFL in the first place, he had to be a little tougher minded. And to want to play again after another knee surgery at age 34 shows he still has it, and isn't about to go down without a battle.

Boycott, rain take fun out of Olympic trials

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Rainstorms, lawsuits and the Olympic boycott combined to take the glitter off the first five days of competition at the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials.

But officials here hope sunshine and perhaps a world record or two over the final three days will make people forget all the problems that have plagued American amateur track this year.

The athletes took Thursday off and return today to Hayward Field, where the National Weather Service says there will be fair weather through the weekend.

"I have never seen it rain this hard in Eugene,"

Oregon pole vaulter Tom Hintnaus said after waiting through six hours of rain-delayed qualifying on Wednesday. "Now everybody thinks it's like this here all the time."

The rain has not held back the crowds noticeably. For the first five days, 69,610 people attended the competition in the 19,000-seat arena.

Several Trials' records were broken in the first five days of competition but no American or world marks have fallen.

That could change with the appearance of world record holder Mary Decker in the 1,500 meters, Brian Oldfield in the shot put, Franklin

Jacobs and Dwight Stones in the high jump, and Mike Tully in the pole vault.

Oldfield and pole vaulter Steve Smith — both former professionals — made the meet's biggest news by going to court in a successful attempt to win the right to compete in the Trials. They had been denied entry because they are ineligible for the Olympic Games, even though they have regained their amateur status.

The athletes competing in the first five days of the meet said the cold, wet weather and a loss of incentive resulting from the U.S. boycott of the Moscow Olympics kept performances from being what they might have been.

No major surprises at Wimbledon

"WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Three former Wimbledon champions have given notice that they intend to be around a while longer."

Jimmy Connors, 1974 men's singles champion, trounced Sherwood Stewart 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday and announced: "My career is far from finished."

Billie Jean King, six-time winner of the women's singles, and Evonne Goolagong, 1971 champion, both moved into the third round of the women's singles and made similar pronouncements.

That trio was among a handful of players to complete matches Thursday, when the program was once again wrecked by the notorious English weather, which brought hailstorms this time.

Four days into Wimbledon, former women's champion Chris Evert Lloyd has yet to hit a ball. Lloyd is one of a number of players forced into prolonged inactivity by the wet English weather. She was hoping to finally get on court Friday to play her second round match against Christiane Jolissaint of Switzerland.

Lloyd, winner here in 1974 and 1976, had a bye in the first round and has spent four unhappy days waiting for the clouds to lift. They seldom have.

Bjorn Borg, four-time winner of the men's singles title, has played only one match in defense of the championship. His second-round match against former Israeli army sergeant Shlomo Glickstein Thursday was another victim of the rain.

That match is also scheduled to be played Friday, as is No. 2 John McEnroe's encounter with Australian Terry Rocavert. They were 2-2 in the first set when the rains came Thursday.

Women's champion Martina Navratilova meets American Rayni Fox in her second round match — also postponed from Thursday.

Connors' performance Thursday was the most impressive. He took just one hour and 12 minutes to destroy doubles expert Stewart with a display of controlled aggression that he has seldom matched.

"Right now I am hitting the ball as well as I ever have," said the third seed.

mellowed by his marriage and the arrival almost 11 months ago of son Brett.

Last year Connors scowled his way to the semifinals, refusing interviews. Twelve months later he is calm and confident, giving freely of his time to both fans and media.

"Last year was difficult for me," he admitted. "This year is different. I'm concentrating and working hard, and I feel good."

King, winner of a record 20 Wimbledon titles, showed all her fighting spirit in saving two set points before defeating Anne Smith of Dallas 6-3, 7-6 in the second round of the women's singles.

Co-Ed Slowpitch action begins tonight at 9

The Second Annual Big Spring Alliance Co-Ed Slow Pitch Tournament will get underway tonight for the beginning of a three-day affair.

A total of 26 teams entered the affair, which is double elimination competition. Over half of the teams are from out-of-town. Games will run from nine to mid night tonight, from 8:00 a.m. until midnight on Saturday, and on Sunday from 8:00 a.m. until a champion is decided.

There are many local teams entered, and the cities of Midland and Odessa will also be well represented. All action will take place the Johnny Stone Park.

Tournament rules in the Co-Ed affair should make the games interesting. Five men and five women must be on the field of play at all times.

Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place teams, with individuals on the first and second place finishers also receiving trophies. There will also be a MVP to both a male and female player.

The defending champion in the tournament, Cutes and Brutes of Big Spring, will return to make another title run. Last year's second place team, also from Big Spring, Ray Bluhm's Bombers, are entered in the action. Early favorites from out-of-town include Chickaree of Odessa, Chocktaw Tile of Midland and Mustang Chevrolet of San Angelo.

Umpires to meet tomorrow at one

The Big Spring Umpires Association will hold a meeting on Saturday afternoon at one o'clock at the Chamber of Commerce's banquet room.

All members wishing to umpire games in the month of July should be in attendance.

Marquez Brothers Invitational has top rated West Texans

One of the top handball tournaments in this area will get underway at six o'clock this afternoon at the local YMCA when action in the Marquez Brothers Invitational begins.

A total of 28 players have entered the singles affair, with play going on tonight, tomorrow morning, and the finals tomorrow afternoon beginning at four.

There are three divisions in the tournament. It is a single elimination affair, with losers from the first round eligible to compete for the consolation title.

The Marquez Brothers Tourney will have a noon luncheon tomorrow for all participants and their wives, and the finals will be followed by an awards ceremony.

YMCA Assistant Director Jerry Zambrano encourages any local people to come watch the outstanding handball matches, as he looks forward to a successful tournament. "We have probably the best players in West Texas, with the exception of one performer that couldn't come," Zambrano said.

Many out-of-towners will be here. Some of the top first round matches include Bill Arcencibia of Big Spring vs. Tom Heiting of Odessa at six tonight, Tito Arcencibia vs. Joe Ellis of Odessa at seven, and Tom Hill of Austin vs. Ken Smith of Midland at seven. Other top opening matches tonight include George Paredes of San Marcos vs. Larry Marquez of Big Spring, and Tom Cherryhome vs. Raul Marquez of Big Spring, and Odessa George Fierro (an ex-Big Springer) vs. local John Preston.

The Kiwanis scored a 14-13 win over the Blue Angels in UGSA action Tuesday night.

Michelle Baker was the winning pitcher, while Adela Ramirez was the mound victim for the Kiwanis.

Lori Gonzales led the Kiwanis charge with grand slam home during the fourth inning. The win was the Kiwanis' fourth in 10 outings.

Earlier in the week, the Kiwanis had defeated the Blue Angels by a score of 14-13.

UGSA

The Cougars of Big Spring's Division IV league used the three hit pitching of Peggy Calhoun to take a 12-4 win over the Midland number two team in UGSA action Wednesday night.

Esther Rodriguez paced the Cougars attack, as she was a perfect five for five from the plate. Kay Auble added a single and a double, with Daria Henry chipping in with a double and Peggy Calhoun a single.

Jane Truitt was the losing pitcher for the Midlanders.

UGSA

The Eagles Lodge increased their record to 12-2 for the season Thursday night in taking an 11-5 victory over the Graham's Business Machines Roadrunners.

Gloria Bustamonte was the winning pitcher in the contest, as she limited the Roadrunners to only two base hits.

Sandra Arellano was the losing hurler. Tonya Gistap had three singles to pace the Eagles attack. Cynthia Puente added two hits, with Melissa Binehart, Bustamonte, Millie Correa, Della Salazar and Diane Arnold adding singles. Bustamonte's blast was a home run.

Keri Myrick and Hollie Brownfield collected the base hits for the Roadrunners.

The Eagles Lodge win forced them into a tie for first place in the final standings, with the Pioneer Natural Gas Red Flames. The two teams will meet tonight for the championship at eight o'clock at the Roy Anderson Complex.

STARTS ANOTHER WIMBLEDON — United States

veteran Billie Jean King, runs in low to return a shot from fellow American Anne Smith, during their Ladies Singles first round match at Wimbledon Thursday.

Billie Jean, holder of twenty Wimbledon titles, defeated Smith 6-3, 7-6, to reach the second round of the competition.

Pate still hot in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Jerry Pate had the lead, Jim Simons had the positive outlook and Lee Trevino had the fade working again in the $300,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

Pate, a disappointed runnerup again last week in the Canadian Open, fired a no-bogey, 6-under-par 66 for a one-stroke first round lead Thursday over Simons, Trevino and Tom Purtzer, tied at 67.

The group at 68 included recently crowned national seniors champion Don January, Morris Hatalasky, Peter Jacobsen, Leonard Thompson and Tony Cerda of Mexico.

Both Pate and Trevino are notorious hot-weather players and the humid, hazy weather with temperatures reaching into the mid-90's were entirely to their liking.

But each cited another factor as a possible key to their performances on the 7,249-yard Colonial Country Club course.

"I finally started driving the ball decently," said Pate. "I've been driving just awful for several months. And I've been putting great."

"That's a complete turn around for me. For years I was driving it great and putting awful. Now, the putting is still pretty good and I'm starting to get it back in the fairways."

Housewife leading after first round of Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — For most of the school year, Cathy Sherk devotes her time to being a wife and mother. Maybe that gives her incentive when she assumes her alter ego: a promising Ladies Professional Golf Association tour pro.

On 10 of her last 11 weekends, Sherk has been home in Port Colborne, Ontario, tending to the business of a housewife and keeping son Christopher, 5, in school.

But after firing a 4-under-par 69 Thursday, she took a one-shot lead over Muriel Breer and Pat Bradley into today's second round of a $125,000 LPGA tournament.

"I'm thrilled," said Sherk, whose 1980 earnings after making only eight of 21 LPGA events this year are less than one-third of the $18,750 first prize. "I feel good after taking some time off (five weeks). I'll be aggressive tomorrow too. I'd like another 4 or 5 under."

Eva Chang was fourth at 71, while Marlene Floyd, Kathy Whitworth and Pat Meyers were the only other entrants to break par with 72s over the 6,206-yard, par-73 Locust Hill Country Club course.

Eleven players were bunched four shots off the pace at 73. Only two — popular Nancy Lopez-Melton and defending tournament champion Jane Blalock — have won this season.

Donna Caponi Young, the top LPGA money-winner this year with earnings of $136,030, played only six holes before withdrawing because of a sore left shoulder. Young injured her leg, cheek and shoulder Tuesday when she tripped over a golf cart outside the clubhouse.

Olympic diving trials has gold medal field

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) —

The U.S. Olympic diving team that will not go to Moscow will be chosen from a talented field that includes veteran gold medal winners and promising younger divers.

Eight former Olympians, including four medal winners, will be at the Texas Swim Center for the five-day event opening tonight.

Fifty-three divers are shooting for 12 spots on the team, which will tour the Far East instead of going to Moscow. There will be competition in four events, men's and women's three-meter springboard and men's and women's 10-meter platform.

Tonight's opening event is preliminary competition in the women's three-meter springboard. Jenny Chandler of Mission Viejo, Calif., took the gold in the event in Montreal in 1976 and is entered here. Dallas' Cynthia Potter, bronze medalist off the springboard in 1976, also is here.

The women's field also includes Melissa Briley of San Antonio, a member of the 1976 Olympic team.

The men's events feature Phil Boggs, 1976 gold medalist at three-meters, and Greg Louganis, a favorite in both events here.

HEAD OVER HEELS — New York Mets first baseman John Stearns hangs upside-down on the Mets dugout railing at Citi Field Wednesday in vain pursuit of a pop foul during the second game of a doubleheader in Chicago. Bottom of Seattle order embarrasses Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Things looked harmless enough. After a double play, Texas hurler Jon Matlack was facing the bottom third of the Seattle Mariner lineup in the second inning Thursday night.

But then the unexpected happened.

—The No. 7 hitter, Jim Anderson, singled to center.

—And the No. 9 hitter, Larry Cox, a .156 hitter, boomed a two-run home run into the left field seats.

By the time the game was over, Anderson had scored three times and Mendoza and Cox had driven in three runs each as the Mariners pounded the Texas Rangers 8-4 to salvage the final game in a three-game series.

"That's a lot out of the No. 8 and 9 spot, and the No. 7 guy didn't do badly," Seattle manager Darrell Johnson said.

The entire game was played in temperatures of above 100 degrees; as the Dallas-Fort Worth area recorded its highest thermometer reading in history, 113 degrees, Thursday afternoon. It had "cooled" to only 108 by game time.

"I don't know how you'd ever get used to this heat unless you got in a sauna," Johnson said.

Floyd Bannister, 5-6, allowed Texas only three hits until the Rangers knocked him out of the game with a walk and four straight hits in the seventh, cutting the final margin to 8-4.

"The heat was tremendous, and Floyd did a heck of a job. Six strong innings is as much as you could ask from a pitcher in this heat, and he gave it. I was more than satisfied," Johnson said.

The bottom of the Seattle lineup produced the firepower that brought Seattle four more runs in the fourth and another run in the fifth for an 8-0 lead.

Dan Meyer's second of three singles got the fourth-inning rally going.

Cannon explodes in Yankees face

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has found the New York Yankees "guilty of violation of the draft rules which prohibit negotiating with free agents prior to the draft" and has barred the Yankees from signing 18-year-old Billy Cannon Jr. of Baton Rouge, La.

Four teams had protested the Yankees' selection of Cannon on the third round of the recent amateur draft. On Thursday Kuhn upheld the teams' contention that they were "misled by a telegram sent by Cannon's father saying that Cannon would not play professional baseball and would go to college instead."

The teams argued that Cannon had sent the telegram because he wanted his son to sign with the Yankees and was trying to discourage other teams from drafting him. The elder Cannon, the 1959 Heisman Trophy winner at Louisiana State who later played pro football, said he sent the telegram because none of the teams were willing to give his son, a shortstop, the signing bonus he was asking for — reportedly $350,000.

The Yankees received no other penalty for the violation, other than being barred from signing Cannon, and a special draft will likely be held for Cannon.

William Shea, attorney for the Yankees, said the club had no way to appeal the decision. "Unfortunately, under the rules of organized baseball, Commissioner Kuhn is the sole judge, jury and prosecuting attorney in hearings of this nature. Thus the Yankees have no redress or means of appeal from this unfounded decision," he said.

The elder Cannon reacted to Kuhn's ruling by saying, "I'm just too stunned and disappointed at the moment. I have no plans to carry it any further, to bring down the walls of baseball. I don't even know what rights I have."

But Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said he thought Cannon might have grounds for a solid court case if he wanted to try to overturn baseball's amateur agent draft system.

"I am not urging an anti-trust suit Miller, "but I can't picture a better case in terms of knocking out the free agent draft. This decision lays bare what an outrageous monopoly there is in the system they have created."

"Not only do you have the facts of restraint here, but after you have a draft pick, after you indicate you want to play for a team, you still can't, because the commissioner says you can't."

It's Not Adultery; It's Got Another Name

DEAR ABBY: I am a healthy, sociable, easy-to-get-along-with 59-year-old widower whose wife died eight months ago. I am a Catholic but haven't been to church in years and do not want to talk to a priest.

I am seeing a very attractive woman who is 58, never married and is still a virgin. She is apparently normal in all respects, enjoys kissing and very heavy petting, but refuses to go all the way for religious reasons. She insists that her religion (also Catholic) does not allow her to complete the sex act without marriage, for to do so would be committing adultery. I know she is not holding out as a means of getting a husband.

I tried to explain that adultery is engaging in sex with a partner other than one's legal spouse, so as long as neither one of us is married she wouldn't be committing adultery. However, I can't seem to get through to her.

I am not the type to pick up girls at bars; neither would I go to a house of prostitution. I was married for 36 years and am a one-woman man. I don't want to marry yet, and perhaps I may never marry again, but I don't want to end my sex life while I am still able to enjoy it.

Is there anything in the Catholic religion that prohibits voluntary sex between unmarried adults?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Yes, there are several Biblical injunctions against fornication. Read, for instance, the seventh chapter of I Corinthians.

DEAR ABBY: I understand that there are more psychiatrists in Beverly Hills, Calif., than plumbers. That seems incredible. Is it true? And if so, why?

CURIOUS IN NEBRASKA

DEAR CURIOUS: It's true. Their sinks are OK, but their heads are clogged up.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere out there a couple is bringing home their newborn adopted baby. This letter is for the baby's new grandmother.

I know you are happy for the couple, but you're having doubts about the baby's "real" or biological mother. I am that girl's mother.

It has been an agonizing ordeal for her as well as for us—her family. I made sure she ate properly, took her vitamins and iron and was cared for by the best doctors in our area. We all knew from the beginning that giving up the baby for adoption was the right decision, but as the time drew closer to delivery, our selfishness got in the way and we wanted to keep the baby even though it would have been a hardship financially.

For a teen-ager, my daughter showed remarkable maturity and unselfish love for this child to have given it a mother and father through adoption.

This is my first grandchild, and I will not be able to spoil it, but you can, so please love it enough for both of us.

The dangers of caffeine

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Will you please settle an argument. I'm 13 and my best friend is a "coffee freak." Every time I go over to his house, he is drinking coffee.

He tries to get me to join him, but I tell him that coffee is harmful and we always end up in an argument. Is coffee harmful? — Butch, Windsor, Ontario, Canada

Butch: Yes, and the danger is the caffeine which affects different people in different ways.

Caffeine, like other drugs, is apt to have a greater effect proportionately to your body weight. This effect could be anxiety, better known as coffee nerves. Five hundred milligrams of caffeine appears to be the danger level.

Dr. Wallace: I need help

Is walking enough?

CHICAGO, Ill. — Jogging is not the idea exercise for everyone and has been found to cause harmful side effects for some individuals, according to an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Yehuda Schoenfeld, MD of Tel Aviv University Medical School in Israel reports on research that has shown that it is possible to improve physical fitness substantially in three weeks by walking daily with a light backpack load.

Walking can easily be adapted as a way of life and everyone can use a briefcase or shopping bag rather than a back pack, he suggests. By increasing the speed, distance and pack load, it is possible to attain a fairly high degree of physical conditioning, according to Dr. Schoenfeld.

regaining my very best girlfriend. A certain boy started liking me but I already had a boyfriend so he started liking my best friend. Then, like a fool, I got jealous and told my best friend to "get lost."

Now I realize that I made a mistake but she already has another best friend.

I love this girl like a sister and want her to be my best friend again. What shall I do? — Sheila, Marysville, Calif.

Sheila: Talk to your "best friend" and apologize for your foolishness. Tell her you want to be best friends again and that you love her like a sister.

Hopefully, she loves her sister.

Dr. Wallace: Please tell me what to do. My mom was a heavy smoker and between Lent and my nagging she quit. At least I think she did.

Mom has a bathroom next to her bedroom and this bathroom has a special air vent. About six times every evening, Mom goes into the bathroom and opens the window. I think she is sneaking a smoke. Should I mention this to her or just be happy she is not smoking in the rest of the house? — Kris, Valparaiso, Ind.

Kris: Tell her you are proud that she has quit smoking but you think that someone is smoking in her bathroom. Ask her if she knows who this someone could be. Then smile and tell Mother that you love her and want her around for a long time.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"BUT YOU TOLD MRS. WILSON YOU WISHED SOMEBODY WOULD EAT 'EM BEFORE YOU DID!"

THE FAMILY CIRCUS

"Do you know 'Look for the Union Label'?"

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 28, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good day to look over your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Devise quicker ways to handle chores. Maintain a cheerful manner at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make plans to gain your finest aims. Make certain that you understand exactly what close ties expect of you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can now develop good ideas for improving your personal and business life. Use tact in handling a communication.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take time to go over business matters with others for mutual gain. Try to understand your mate's view.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to cooperate more with close ties instead of bucking them and you get good results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There is much work ahead of you so waste no time early in the day in accomplishing your tasks. Control your temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Stay within your budget if you go out for amusement or you will regret it later. Engage in favorite hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle routine chores early in the day and bring more concord at home. Plan how to add to present income via new interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your monetary position and figure out a sensible way to improve it. Make needed property repairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan how to improve the quality of your life through idealistic concepts. Make this a most productive day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Making plans early in the day to gain your personal goals is wise. Take it easy tonight and express happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with fine friends who can help you solve a delicate problem. Take good care of your health.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan how to make your future brighter and then visit with friends and have a good time. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will find the right philosophy to follow at a comparatively young age and it will last a lifetime. Teach to handle money wisely, and to be more considerate of others. Don't neglect religious training early in life.

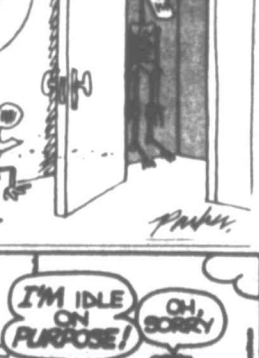

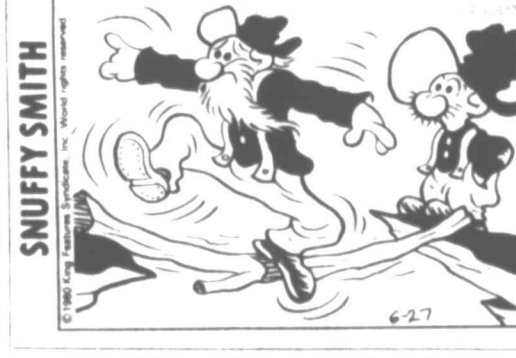

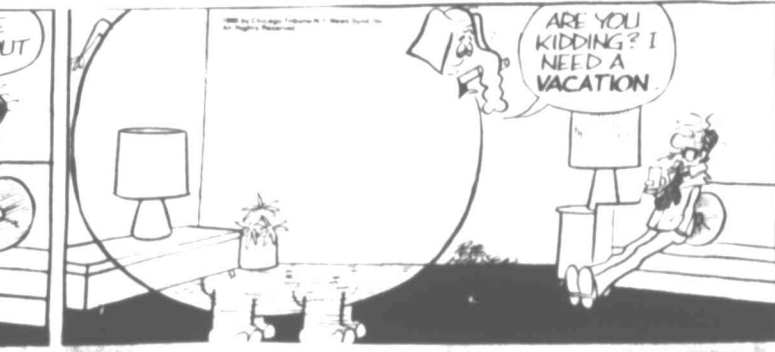

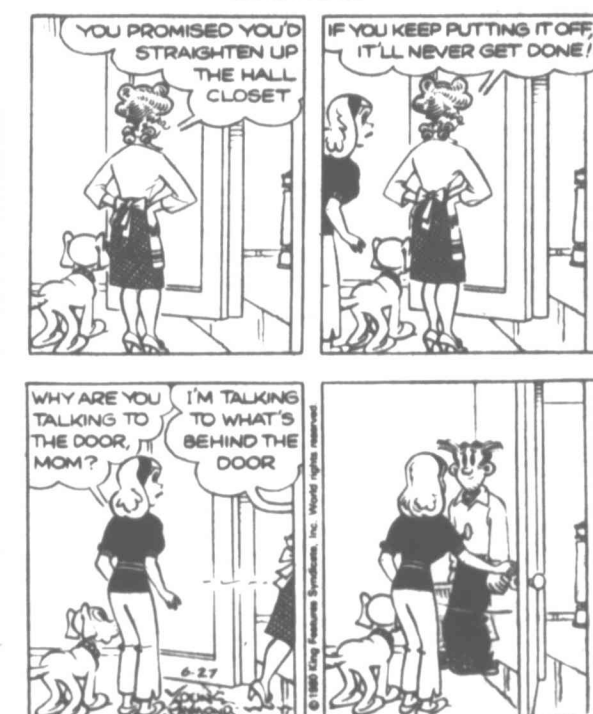

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Cee City kids to get treat

COLORADO CITY — A special day for the children of Mitchell County will be presented under the auspices of the Colorado City Playhouse Saturday.

The Kaleidoscope Company of the Permian Playhouse of Odessa will stage two performances of "In One Basket" at the Opera House here at 2:30 p.m., and again at 7:30 p.m.

"In One Basket" is a collection of folk and fairy tales. Reservations can be made at the Opera House or by dialing the Playhouse number 728-3491. The box office will be open until 5 p.m., today and again from 10 a.m., until 7:30 p.m., Saturday.

Tickets are $2 each.

There will also be a special treat for children of school age. At 4 p.m., there will be a dramatic workshop, also presented by the Kaleidoscope Company, at which time children will be encouraged to climb onto the stage and try their hands at acting.

The workshop will undertake such plays as "The Three Wishes," "Gustav," "The Tale of the Mouse," "The Tiny Little Woman," "The Kangaroo and the Ostrich," "The Needle" and others.

The cast from Odessa includes four boys and as many girls. The actors are either in junior high school or of high school age.

Many gather for confab

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Nearly 2,500 opponents of abortion from across the United States gathered at a National Right To Life convention where political strategies for the election year will be outlined during four days of lectures and workshops.

Opponents of the anti-abortionists planned to demonstrate this weekend outside the Anaheim Convention Center, where by late Thursday the number of convention registrants had more than tripled from the morning sessions.

National Right to Life officials expressed fear that some demonstrators would try to infiltrate the gathering.

Topics for seminars during the convention include voter identification, fund-raising, working for candidates and state legislation strategy.

National Right to Life general chairman Donald Shoemaker said he and other officers spent 30 minutes with Republican presidential front-runner Ronald Reagan before the convention opened.

FOREST FIRE RAGES THROUGH FOREST — A firefighter walks along a dirt road leading to a forest fire in the White River National Forest northwest of Eagle, Colorado. The fire which started Wednesday has burned 5,000 acres of timberland.

Local pilot will take part in July 4 event

Warren will be at the controls of a modified "Pitts" aircraft.

Fly-In activities start with a breakfast at 7 a.m. The fliers will be greeted until 10 a.m. There will be no charge for the meal to the pilots.

The public can share breakfast at a cost of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12 years of age.

Plane rides will be available to the public throughout the day for $5 each. A free plane ride will also be awarded to the winner of a drawing.
