Rather than jail

Treatment for drunks?

By JIM DAVIS Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau AUSTIN — Town drunks could be headed for treatment centers instead of jail if the 1981 Texas Legislature adopts a proposal currently being prepared by a House committee.

"This plan emphasizes treatment rather than incarceration," says State Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder, who is heading an interim committee's study of alcohol-related problems.

The committee's work is incomplete, so details are lacking. A fourth draft of proposed legislation is under way.

Also lacking is a price tag on the treatment centers that would be needed under the legislation. Supporters say they won't know the cost until a final version of the bill is agreed on.

Legislation requiring a center in every town would be expensive, they say, while one emphasizing a regional approach would be less so.

The basis of the proposal is the decriminalization of public intoxication.

Currently, a person who is drunk in public can be hauled off to jail. The proposal being studied would remove that possibility unless the person was breaking another law.

Becky Davis, administrative assistant for the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, says the general proposal would require a law enforcement officer to determine whether a person is a threat to himself or herself, or to the public.

"The officer could offer help, take him to a treatment center or take him home," she said. "But he couldn't force the issue."

If the person is incapacitated, the officer could take the person into protective custody and seek help at a treatment center, she said.

The proposal is expected to draw opposition from people who fear it would let drunks clutter up the streets or permit them to get away with other crimes.

Ezzell said he hopes these fears can be eased with facts discovered by his committee.

"This concept is not a new idea," the West Texas representative said. "Thirty-six states have some form of it and none has been repealed."

The proposal would simply offer an alternative to jail, he said. Some law enforcement officers have said they fear tavern owners would be prevented from ejecting or refusing to serve intoxicated persons.

Ezzell says there is no cause for such worry. "I don't know where they get that particular idea," Ezzell says.

Neither would the proposal affect any laws other than public intoxication, he says, and driving while intoxicated would remain a serious offense.

Ezzell lost a re-election bid in last May Democratic primary, but he says several legislators have indicated an interest in sponsoring the decriminalization proposal next year.

One version passed the Senate in 1975 but got lost in the House in the hectic final days of the session.

Ezzell says a task force that includes law enforcement officers, mental health experts and lay citizens will be used to circulate information on the proposal.

Stacy reservoir permit hits new judicial snag

The Stacy reservoir permit of the Colorado River Municipal Water District has encountered another judicial snag.

The Court of Civil Appeals in Austin has granted an extension of time to the Lower Colorado River Authority, one of the protestants, to file its appeal brief. The deadline was to have been July 2, but when one of the LCRA attorneys pleaded a severe backache made it impossible to prepare, the Court extended the deadline for the brief to Sept. 2. The CRMWD then would have until October 15 to file its brief.

Frank Booth, attorney for CRMWD, protested the motion to extend the deadlines, and, on the contrary, filed a motion for the appeals court to expedite the matter. In the meantime, the CRMWD is continuing to take concrete steps toward the Stacy dam project by core borings at the site of the dam and having a scale model of the proposed dam to be constructed and tested at Colorado State University.

Sleeping in class costly Houston-area student

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — For about five minutes Saturday a Houston-area student had a shot at the high school diploma denied him because he slept in civics class.

The Royal Independent School District had decided that the four zeros Eric Scott was given for sleeping in class should be averaged in with his other civics grades. The zeros gave him a failing grade for the class, and prevented him from graduating.

Scott appealed to the State Board of Education, which, initially, voted Saturday to overturn the local district's decision. In a voice vote, board members apparently voted to order the district to recompute Scott's civics grade, this time leaving out the zeros.

A few minutes later, however, board member Laura Tynes of Waco asked Chairman Joe Butler Kelly of Houston to call for a show-of-hands vote.

The vote was eight to eight. Kelly, casting the deciding vote, favored upholding the school district's action.

Mary Ann Leveridge of East Bernard lambasted the Royal ISD for the way the Scott case was handled. She said the local board violated the Texas Open Meetings Law and local grading policies.

"They deprived the petitioner of something I consider a property right, a high school diploma," she said.

Board member Dr. Joseph Gathe of Houston offered an even simpler approach. He said if a student is given zeros for sleeping in class, the student should get "100s" for staying awake.

Texans finally getting used to heat

By the Associated Press

The mercury continues to creep above 100, but doctors say Texans finally are getting used to the heat.

At least 88 persons have died of heatstroke or related causes since temperatures shot above 100 June 23. But in Dallas County, where 70 of the deaths have occurred, medical examiners said they have not seen a heat victim since Tuesday.

Doctors say most people susceptible to heat problems fell victim to the 110 and 113 degree temperatures two weeks ago. Others, physicians say, have become acclimated to the weather, a process that usually takes about two weeks.

"When the body gets really hot, it starts unloading every hormone we know of. It's really spooky," said Dr. James Knoechel of Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. "Eventually, it learns how to work efficiently to control the heat."

'Candy Man' maintains innocence in murder

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — He is a big man, bordering between stout and fat. His eyes are pale blue, so light that when the morning sun reflects on his face, they seem to have no color at all.

He is Ronald Clark O'Bryan, called by his fellow inmates on Texas Death Row as the "Candy Man", known to others as "the man who killed Halloween."

He is sentenced to die for the death of his 8-year-old son Tim, who O'Bryan said in a recent interview, "Was very close to me. I never did anything to that boy. I loved him. I taught him to ride his bike, and we did a lot of things together, fishing, playing ball, just wrestling around."

When Tim died, O'Bryan said, "I felt anger and then sadness and then depression. I wanted somebody to pay for the death of my son. The police were looking for somebody to convict. I became the scapegoat. I was convicted of something I didn't do."

O'Bryan was sentenced to death by a jury after his conviction of murdering his son with cyanide-laced Halloween candy to collect insurance benefits.

A former resident of Deer Park, a Houston suburb, and an optical company employee, O'Bryan has been on Death Row for almost six years.

On that Halloween night in 1974, O'Bryan allegedly gave the deadly candy to his son and daughter and three other children.

Tim was the only one of the five children to eat the candy. He became sick immediately and was rushed to a hospital.

He died one hour later. In a recent appearance before State Judge Frank Price, O'Bryan was formally sentenced to die by lethal injection on Aug. 8.

During the hearing, O'Bryan said to the judge, "As Jesus said to Judas, What thou do, do quickly."

O'Bryan said he in no way meant that he wanted to die soon, only that the sentencing be done quickly so he could appeal "to a higher court."

Southwestern, said in prolonged hot spells, the heart pumps faster to cool the body, the amount of salt in perspiration decreases and the amount of blood in the body increases by about 20 percent. Some people notice their veins are more pronounced during the hot summer months, he added.

"It's not completely clear how it all fits together, but somehow, the body becomes more efficient and generates less heat," Hart said.

More than 20 cities broke the century mark Friday and forecasters said high Saturday should reach 107 in Dallas-Fort Worth and 109 in Wichita Falls, usually the two hot spots in the state.

Residents across the state are making adjustments to the weather. Many cities have asked citizens to voluntarily cut down on lawn watering and in Houston and Sweetwater city councils have imposed rationing ordinances.

Residents of the Houston suburb of Bellaire also have been asked to voluntarily curb water use. Houston Police Chief B.K. Johnson said Friday his officers will begin issuing citations to residents who violate the emergency water conservation measures passed last week.

The city ordinance limits lawn watering to the hours between midnight and 5 a.m. and watering of shrubs and trees with hand-held sprinklers to between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Violation of the ordinance carries a fine of $10 to $100.

City officials say the water pumping system is strained when it hits 390 million gallons. The record usage was set July 2, when pumps delivered 416 million gallons and the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. Friday was close to that at 415 million gallons.

Johnson said a warning would be issued to first-time violators and citations would be issued the second time.

"We have tried through voluntary compliance of our citizens to cut down on usage of water and this has not worked," Johnson said.

LIFE MUST GO ON — Waiting Cuban refugees, awaiting resettlement at Fort Indiantown Gap, Pa., chat recently while hanging out laundry outside the barracks they live

Cuban refugees

Waiting, waiting prime occupation

FORT INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (AP) — Waiting

It has become the primary activity for the Cuban refugees temporarily housed here — about 11,000 of them — while volunteer agencies work at the tedious task of finding and confirming potential sponsors.

Finding things for the Cubans to do has been one of the most difficult tasks faced by his men, according to Lt. Col. Tom Santiago, commander of Area Three, one of several living compounds.

Santiago said some recreational supplies were available, including baseballs and bats, soccer balls and sets of dominoes and checkers.

But there aren't enough to fill the need, and the residents of Area Three mostly sit around all day with nothing to do, he said.

The degree of idleness is such that even a small distraction like a dominoes game can draw enormous audiences among the Cubans.

In Area Five, which houses families and some youngsters, children can be seen playing on an improvise teeter-totter — a board placed on the side of a coal bin.

Parents, meanwhile, sit and watch nearby in the shade of a barracks.

Some of the Cubans arrived at this resettlement center, which federal officials dubbed "Freedom City," as long ago as May 18. The first question usually asked a visitor is "When may I leave?"

The Red Cross oversees recreation and education activities at the camp.

"Beginning English, of course, is the most popular," said Nan Clingman, of the relief agency. Other classes taught are American history and "basic survival," she said.

In the mess halls, Cubans can be seen sweeping floors and wiping tables, explaining that they simply want to be active.

Officials emphasize that resettlement is proceeding as quickly as possible.

"They come here by the plane load, but they leave one by one," said Petty Petrush, a Federal Emergency Management Agency spokeswoman.

Pope John Paul II says of Brazil trip

Visit gives insight to problems

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Tamed but tired, Pope John Paul II returned from a 13-day tour of Brazil on Saturday and said the pilgrimage gave him fresh insight into the problems facing the church, but also into the great resources of the vast nation.

The much-traveled 60-year-old pontiff also hinted he might visit communist Eastern Europe.

A crowd of 2,000 well-wishers in St. Peter's Square, including a group of Poles who came to Rome on bicycles from the pope's native land, shouted "Viva il Papa" when the pontiff appeared at his studio window to give a blessing at noon before retiring for the day.

A few minutes earlier, after stepping off a helicopter in the Vatican gardens, the pope prayed at St. Peter's tomb, then shook hands and exchanged greetings with surprised tourists in the basilica.

"All right, you have enough of this pope for a while," John Paul told reporters who traveled with him on the 7,500-mile journey that took him from the near-freezing temperatures of winter in southern Brazil to the torrid jungle in the north.

The visit was the most grueling of his seven trips out of Italy, but fatigue again showed in his voice, which was hoarse after the delivery of more than 50 speeches and proclamations in Brazil.

The pontiff is scheduled to visit the Philippines in November, but he also indicated Saturday he might undertake a trip to Eastern Europe. "It will also be necessary to go to the countries with which you are concerned," he told Bishop Luigi Poggi, a special papal envoy who takes on missions to Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

New drug advances human organ transplant surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — The use of a new drug — described as the most promising of its kind in two decades — has produced dramatic results in a recent series of kidney transplants, doctors say, offering hope for other breakthroughs in the transplant field.

Barring unforeseen complications, the new agent — a fungi extract — should lead to "revolutionary advances" in all forms of human organ transplantation in the near future, according to a team of scientists working with Dr. Thomas E. Starzl of Denver, the recognized world leader in kidney transplantation.

Using the new drug and kidneys from cadavers, the most difficult to work with, the Starzl group had completed 40 transplants by the end of last week with nearly all of the kidneys functioning normally without rejection problems by the body.

Compared to the more than 1,000 kidney transplants done at the Colorado Health Sciences Center so far, Starzl said in an interview, "These patients have fared better as a group than any cadaver recipients we have been able to do."

Further, the use of the drug, called cyclosporin A, has "cut costs tremendously," Starzl said, with patients being discharged within a week or two. Two years ago, a patient could still be hospitalized after two months, "struggling, sick, getting a lot of steroids."

"The whole flow of care has changed very dramatically," he said. The "tremendous" advantage of cyclosporin A, Starzl said, is its ability to control and depress the body's natural immune reaction — its defense mechanism against foreign invaders — but at the same time not depress the bone marrow production which protects the body from infection, a problem with other immunosuppressive agents. It also has not proved toxic to other body organs.

In recent years, doctors have been reducing the risk of death in patients who receive kidneys from unrelated accident victims — from 28 percent in 1974 to about 5 percent now. The first kidney transplant was done 25 years ago, and more than 30,000 people worldwide have since benefited from such surgery.

In a formal report in the latest issue of the journal Surgery, Gynecology & Obstetrics, Starzl and his associates conclude:

"Results of these studies have shown that cyclosporin A is a superior and safe immunosuppressive drug but that, for optimal use in cadaveric transplantation, it usually should not be given alone. Steroid therapy (prednisone) greatly amplified the value of cyclosporin A."

"Unless major delayed morbidity develops which is not obvious so far, this drug combination should permit revolutionary advances in the transplantation of all organs."

Co-authors with Starzl of the report in Surgery are Richard Weir III and Shunzaburo Iwatsuki, Denver; Goran Klintmalm of Stockholm; Gerhard P.J. Schroter and Lawrence J. Koep of Denver; Yuichi Iwaki and Paul I. Terasaki of Los Angeles; and Kendrick A. Porter of London.

Russia, East Germans may dominate Games

MOSCOW (AP) — The Summer Olympic Games which open Saturday will be noted for two "firsts": The Games are having their initial run behind the Iron Curtain, and, for the first time since the revival of the Games in 1896, is without a team from the United States.

The credo that politics and sports don't mix was obliterated by the U.S. boycott of the Games, initiated by President Carter after Soviet troops intervened in Afghanistan in December.

The U.S., which finished second behind the Soviet Union in total medals four years ago, is joined in the boycott by West Germany, Canada and Japan among others. The exact number of boycotting countries is still not clear, however, since some nations may skip the Games for other reasons.

Twenty-nine nations told the International Olympic Committee they would not attend, with 20 others not responding to the Olympic invitation. The State Department says more than 60 countries are boycotting and that 50 sports federations have broken from their national Olympic committees and opted to stay home.

Boycotting nations won about 40 percent of the medals at the 1976 Summer Games in Montreal, when 87 nations competed after a walkout by 20 African countries. There were 112 countries competing in Mexico City in 1968 and 121 in Munich in '72.

The Soviet Union has labeled the boycott a failure, pointing out that 85 nations have accepted invitations, including several countries heavily courted by Carter to join the boycott. Among them were Great Britain, France, Italy and Australia.

The Soviet Union and East Germany, which finished one-two, respectively, in gold medals four years ago, are expected to benefit the most from the absence of the boycotting sports powers. Of 609 medals in 21 athletic disciplines to be awarded, some observers predict the Soviets could reap a harvest of some 200 medals.

In 1976, the Soviets took home a total of 47 golds and 125 medals, followed by East Germany's 40 golds and 90 medals and the United States' 34 golds and 94 medals.

Without U.S. television coverage — NBC-TV's limited coverage will mostly be seen on its news shows — the U.S. public won't be seeing much of gymnastic charmers like Romania's Nadia Comaneci.

But Comaneci, a standout at the Montreal Games, is back — and she's a little more womanly at age 18. Comaneci won gold medals at Montreal in the all-around, balance beam and uneven parallel bars while scoring the first perfect 10 in Olympic history.

Nelli Kim, a graceful Soviet star, will be back to represent her country with Comaneci. Kim, won gold medals in the vault and free exercises, also with perfect 10s, and led the Soviets to the team gold medal.

The Soviet men, led by world all-around champion Alexander Didiyatin, are heavily favored to dominate the medals in the absence of the Japanese and U.S. stars Kurt Thomas and Bart Conners.

The fiercest rivalries may occur outdoors, on the track, where arch-foes Sebastian Coe and Steve Ovett, both of Great Britain, will battle in the 1,500 meters and Ethiopian Miruts Yifter will meet Lasse Viren of Finland, the four-time gold medal winner in the 10,000.

The Americans' absence will be felt most in swimming, boxing, basketball and track and field. Four years ago, the United States won 12 of 13 men's swimming events, five gold medals in boxing and the basketball title for the eighth time in the nine Olympics the sport has been on the schedule.

Houston batters Braves

HOUSTON (AP) — Jose Cruz drove in three runs and Rafael Landestoy scored three times to lead the Houston Astros to a 9-5 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

Cruz increased his season RBI total to 51 with two doubles and a single while Landestoy went 3-for-4 as the Astros won only their third game in July.

Winner Joe Niekro, 10-7, scattered 12 hits, walked five and struck out two before needing Dave Smith's last-out relief help.

Houston touched loser Larry McWilliams, 5-6, for two runs in the first on Cruz's two-run double. The Astros increased their lead to 5-0 in the second, as Cruz singled home one run and Cesar Cedeno knocked in two more with a triple.

Atlanta cut the Houston margin to 5-1 in the third when relief pitcher Preston Hanna led off with a triple and scored on Chris Chambliss' sacrifice fly.

Houston added single runs in the third and fourth. Enos Cabell led off the third with a single, took second on a fielder's choice and scored on Luis Pujols' single. Cabell scored again in the fourth, reaching on a fielder's choice, stealing second and coming in on Jeff Leonard's single.

Houston added two runs in the fifth when Dave Bergman drove in Landestoy and Terry Puhl with a single.

Atlanta scored in the sixth on Bob Horner's solo home run and added a run in the seventh on Gary Matthews' RBI single and two more in the ninth on RBI singles by Matthews and Bob Horner.

Distance mark set by Decker

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Olf-injured Mary Decker, running unchallenged, continued her assault on the record books, shadowing her fourth mark of the year by winning the 1500-meter race Saturday at an international track and field meet.

Decker's smashing performance of 4 minutes, 0.17 seconds, was the highlight of the two-day competition for the U.S. Olympic team, which has been denied an opportunity to participate at the Summer Games in Moscow.

Russian woman shatters mark

MOSCOW (AP) — Tatyana Biryulina of the Soviet Union set a world record Saturday in the women's javelin with a toss of 229 feet, 11 inches at an Olympic qualification meet outside Moscow.

The previous mark of 229-6 1/2 was held by East Germany's Ruth Fuchs. She set the record earlier this year.

Kratzert leader

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bill Kratzert, a consistent money-winner on the PGA tour, maintained a 1-stroke lead Saturday in the Greater Milwaukee Open with another par-shattering round of 67 for a 54-hole total of 200, 16-under par.

Kratzert, son of a Fort Wayne, Ind., golf pro, is seeking his first tour victory since taking the Greater Hartford Open in 1977.

Top tennis players may boycott Open tourney

BOSTON (AP) — All but five of the top 100 tennis players in the world may boycott next month's U.S. Open in New York because officials plan to stage the tournament without super referees, Harold Solomon, president of the Association of Tennis Professionals, said Saturday.

Solomon, ranked sixth in the world, said players are upset because the Men's International Professional Tennis Council decided to do away with super referees for the French Open, Wimbledon and U.S. Open.

This is the second year super referees have been used and Solomon said the system, agreed to by the players at the beginning of this year, has worked well.

"It provides for an arbitrary referee who has the final say. Not an Italian for the Italian Open, a Frenchman for the French Open and an American for the U.S. Open," he said.

"It's worked completely in the past and there have been great improvements in officiating."

There were no super referees at Wimbledon and players agreed there that they would not enter the U.S. Open unless super referees were used, Solomon said.

The top five players in the world, Bjorn Borg, John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors, Vitas Gerulaitis and Vilas have entered the U.S. Open.

"Right now, 80 of the top 100 have not entered and, with withdrawals before the deadline, I think 95 out of the top 100 won't enter," he said.

"I don't know if they can have a tournament with the top five and then the next guy is ranked 200th."

Sox shut out, 8-0, by John

Despite a drought of victory, however, he has had four straight $100,000 money-winning years.

Howard Twitty, missing only one green and planting his approaches near the pin most of the way, carded a 66. He had an eagle 3 at the 12th hole and birdies on 17 and 18 with putts of 35 and four feet. His round left him at 201 with a 2-stroke edge in second place as par 72 took a licking in cool, misty weather over the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course.

The surprise of the third round was pulled by little-known Dana Quigley, the 1974 Rhode Island Open winner who has done little in three years on the Professional Golfers' tour because of a painful elbow that he injured as a 14-year-old playing basketball.

Quigley, 33, posted a 65 after scoring birdies on four of the first six holes on putts ranging from three to 25 feet. "I had only 25 putts, hit 13 greens and kept popping aspirin to relieve the pain that always seems to be in my elbow," Quigley said. "It was the best putting round in my life."

Quigley said he putts cross-handed and uses a baseball grip Tied with him in third place at 203 was Mark Lye, who also had a sensational day with the iron that left him with five birdie putts of six feet or less on the backside for a 31 and a 66 round.

Colorful ChiChi Rodriguez bogeyed the last hole but rounded out a 68 to be alone in fifth place at 204.

The par wreckers are so bunched together that the pursuit for the $36,000 first prize should resemble the charge of the light brigade Sunday. In all, 43 of the 71 players who made the second-round cut were 6 under or better, and 12 were within six strokes of the lead.

Johnny Miller, with a 70, was grouped at 205 with Jim Dent, who had a 67; George Cadle, 66, and first-round leader Ron Streck, who shot 71.

Four were at 206 — Dan Pohl, Brad Bryant, Pat McGowan and Joe Hager. Scott Simpson, who under the GMO tournament committee setup could have won a $100,000 bonus by coming off his Western Open victory to win this one, faded from the picture with a 77 to stand at even-par 216.

CHICAGO (AP) — New York's Tommy John tossed a seven-hitter, shut out Chicago for the third time this season and recorded his 13th victory Saturday night, riding an 18-hit Yankees attack to an 8-0 triumph over the White Sox.

John, 13-3, was supported by RBI singles from five Yankee batters — four of them in the Yankees' seven-run ninth. Eric Soderholm delivered a first-inning run, then Reggie Jackson, Rick Cerrone, Ruppert Jones and Bucky Dent had RBI singles in the ninth before Willie Randolph added a three-run triple.

Ross Baumgarten, 2-6, took the loss.

The victory improved the Yankees' record to 53-28, matching their best halfway record since 1958.

Red Sox bomb Tigers, 9-3

BOSTON (AP) — Dwight Evans collected four straight hits, including a three-run homer and an RBI double, and Carlton Fisk lined a two-run shot Saturday night, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 9-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers behind the six-hit pitching of rookie southpaw John Tudor.

Tudor is now 2-1.

Phillies edge Pirates, 5-4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Boone's one-out, ninth-inning single scored Garry Maddox and gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night.

Boone's ground single to left came against a five-man infield, as Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner tried to plug all the holes against Boone, a noted groundball player. Tanner brought right fielder Dave Parker in to play second base, which gave the Pirates two players on the right side of the infield and three on the left.

Maddox led off the inning with a single off Kent Tekulve, 5-5. Manny Trillo followed with his third single of the game, Maddox stopping at second. The runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Larry Bowa and Boone followed with his hit.

Saurkraut can claim crown

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Saurkraut, the upset winner of the recent Governor's Handicap at Ruidoso Downs, will be trying to convert today's Billy The Kid Handicap into his fourth win of the season.

A win in the Billy The Kid would clearly establish Saurkraut as the handicap kingpin so far at the meeting.

The Governor's 'cap covered 6 1/4 furlongs and offered a gross purse of $11,070. Today's Billy The Kid will span seven furlongs, putting up a total pot of $10,970.

Today's 12-race agenda gets moving at 1 p.m.

Saurkraut, the property of Jess Burner of El Paso, will shoulder the top load of 121 pounds in the Billy The Kid. Joe Martinez will be at the wheel.

The four-year-old gelding showed his talent for making money when he went to the races a dozen times in '79, belting out a 5-2-0 mark for earnings of better than $13,000. From the way he's now going, he'll be making a lot more money this year.

John (Betty Harless), 116; 3 — Saurkraut (Joe Martinez), 121; 4 — Bradley's Kumera (no rider named at entry time), 121; 5 — Dandy Binge (Wayne Buehrer), 115; 6 — Double B Express (John Cushing), 117; 7 — Rushing Silver (Richard Bickel), 114; 8 — Duquesa (Leroy Coombs), 117; 9 — Vitenpost Jr. (Carlos Rivas), 119.

Vitenpost Jr. was quite an early-season sensation. The four-year-old colt brooded home in the Mesalero Apache Handicap, ending the 6 1/4-furlong dash with a 2 1/4-length win. Next time out, he took a shot at the Sierra Blanca Handicap at seven furlongs and flashed under the wire with a 3/4-length lead. At that point, his 1980 record stood at two wins and a third from four starts, good for earnings of close to $10,000.

But the colt suffered a sharp setback in the Governor's Handicap, fading to 10th as the betting choice.

CUEVAS WORKS OUT — World Boxing Association welterweight champion Jose "Pipino" Cuevas works out at Gleason's Gym in New York. Cuevas, a 22-year-old from Mexico, is training for an upcoming title bout against Thomas Hearns, which will take place in Detroit on Aug. 2.

In Women's National Open Amy widens lead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Amy Alcott fired a torrid 3-under-par 68 Saturday, bringing her 54-hole score to 208 — five strokes below par — after the third round of the U.S. Women's Open golf championship.

The 208 — a record for 54 holes at a U.S. Women's Open — left her eight strokes ahead of Hollis Stacy, a two-time Open winner who had mounted a charge of her own Saturday, shooting a 1-under 70.

Temperatures that soared to 102 degrees bothered the 60-year field as the women toured the par-71, 6,229-yard Richland Country Club course in this 72-hole, $140,000 event.

The opening day field of 150 had been trimmed at the midway point Friday to those players who carded 36-hole scores of 153 or lower.

Alcott shared the opening day lead with Barbara Moyness, but had it all to herself after Friday's second round when Moyness developed trouble on the putting green.

The personable 24-year-old brunette from Santa Monica, Calif., started the day four strokes ahead of Moyness, Donna Caponi-Young and Penny Pulz.

When it was over, Moyness and Caponi-Young each had dropped 11 strokes back while Pulz fell off the leader board, turning in a 77 for a 221.

Despite a wide lead, Alcott told reporters after returning to the clubhouse that she's not a good hot-weather player.

"My tempo gets all messed up," she said. "My heart pumps so fast my swing goes out of kilter. But you try to keep it under wraps and play with what you have."

Looking toward Sunday's final round, Alcott said she wasn't worried about anybody else's score.

"I'm not thinking of people chasing me. I'm out there playing just for me."

Stacy, who had two consecutive bogies on the back nine, recovered her concentration and still managed to post a sub-par round. She blamed the heat for some of her problems.

"I think I lost my concentration because I felt so hot," the 26-year-old from Savannah, Ga., said. "I was so busy trying to get cool again that I think it affected me down there."

Nancy Lopez-Melton, who started the round six strokes back, finished nine strokes behind the leader after shooting an erratic 71 that included two bogies and a double-bogey on No. 17.

"I think I shot myself out of the tournament with those holes," Lopez-Melton said. "But I had a lot of birdie putts."

Among the early finishers Saturday was amateur Lida Kinnicut of West Hartford, Conn., who turned in a 73-230. Judith Oliver of Sewickley, Pa., is the only other amateur going into Sunday's round. She skied to an 80 Saturday.

It's the smallest field of amateurs ever to survive the Open's 36-hole cutoff.

Saurkraut got into the swing of things at Ruidoso with a close second in his summer debut. The fans had him down at 17-1. Next time out, he turned in another second, this time at 5-2. In early June, the gelding was back against an allowance crew, this time at 5 1/2 furlongs, and smashed out a 5 1/4-length win. Three weeks later, he faced an allowance band at six furlongs and came through with a neck win as a 5-2 choice.

That set the stage for the Governor's Handicap. Ruidoso fans apparently felt Saurkraut was in deep water and let him get away at nearly 11-1. He broke toward the tailend of the pack, but quickly rushed up to stake out a solid grasp on third place. In the stretch, he poured it on to win by 1 1/4 lengths.

The victory slice in the Governor's 'cap amounted to $6,642, and that pushed Saurkraut's 1980 earnings up to $12,584. His current record stands at 3-2-0 from six outings.

Here's the way they'll line up for the Billy The Kid: 1 — Whirlapearl, (Darrell Blevins), 109; 2 — Honor

In Stuttgart meet Yanks win nine events

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Jimmy Carnes, coach of the U.S. Olympic track and field team, certainly liked what he saw in his first glimpse of his squad in action.

"I'm very satisfied," Carnes said Friday night after the Americans had won nine of 15 events in an international meet in mostly empty 80,000-seat Neckar Stadium in the Stuttgart suburb of Bad Cannstatt. Rain and cold weather held the crowd to an estimated 5,000-6,000 for the first day of the two-day event.

"The performances were good for this weather," continued Carnes. "This is the first time they (the athletes) have been together."

"This would have been a tremendous warmup meet for the Olympics."

That was the original intention of the meet, which was scheduled several months ago, long before the United States decided to boycott the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow because of the Soviet Union's military intervention in Afghanistan.

Instead of going to the Games, the Americans are participating in seven international meets. The

Camp of Champs turns into roaring success

The annual camp of Champs, an idea conceived by Howard College Coach Harold Wilder, has turned into a roaring success.

The first phase of the camp, this one held for girls invited from throughout the state, attracted 63 athletes.

The men and boys take over Monday and will spend the week through Friday learning the skills required of basketball players. All-star games Friday will climax the camp. Well over 100 men and boys are scheduled to enroll.

The two dormitories on the Howard College campus are being used to house the players.

The 76ers, coached by Jean McIvor of Marble Falls, captured the Big League girls' titlist by Stuttgart meet is kicking off the schedule. The team later will perform in London on Sunday; Oslo, Norway, on Tuesday; Philadelphia next Wednesday and Thursday; Rome on Aug. 5; Berlin on Aug. 8, and Zurich, Switzerland, on Aug. 13.

If the ensuing meets are anything like the first night's performance, the tour will be a four-star success. Of course, international meets do not carry the same impact as the Olympics.

"Nothing can take the place of the Olympics," said Karin Smith, runnerup in the women's javelin with a toss of 193 feet, 8 inches, behind teammate Kate Schmidt, 197-1. "They're special and nothing can replace them."

Some obviously American fans in the sparse crowd, however, were doing their best to make the Americans forget the Olympics and feel at home.

A handful of fans raised a banner reading, "Who needs the Olympics?"

The first time they held it aloft was in celebration of Edwin Moses's runaway victory in the men's 400-meter intermediate hurdles, a race in which the Americans swept the first four places.

Moses's triumph in a relatively slow 48.62 seconds, but good considering the track conditions, had more than the usual significance.

It was his 41st in a row in his specialty and made him the all-time leader in consecutive triumphs in the intermediate hurdles. He previously had shared the record of 40 with Gert Potgeter of South Africa.

Season dates for dove will be set July 23

AUSTIN — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission will set hunting season dates and bag limits on dove-winged and mourning doves, rails and the early teal duck season in its public hearing in Austin on July 23.

The seasons for other migratory game birds, primarily waterfowl, will be set in the commission's next public meeting in late August.

Seasons and bag limits for nonmigratory species such as quail, deer, turkey and other game already have been established for counties under the department's regulatory authority.

At the July 23 meeting, the commission will consider several options within the authorized federal regulations framework for the upcoming dove season.

The delay in setting seasons and bag limits for migratory birds is necessary in order to receive frameworks from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The frameworks establish a number of parameters, including the earliest opening date and latest closing date, as well as the maximum allowable number of hunting days for a particular species. The department has the option of selecting season dates within the framework.

Although the hunting seasons for quail already have been adopted for regulatory counties, the commission will continue its policy of delaying setting of bag limits until late summer quail census work is completed by department

Choate, Kelso await tryouts with the Oilers

MOSCOW (AP) — We may have seen the traditional opening ceremony of the Olympic Games, with athletes marching by the thousand and their national flags held proudly aloft, for the last time.

It will be a very different spectacle when the Moscow Games open in the Luzhniki Stadium a week from Sunday.

At least eight countries will keep their athletes in the Olympic Village for the day and have just a name board and the Olympic flag in the march past, by way of making a token protest against the Soviet military occupation of Afghanistan.

Many members of the International Olympic Committee have wanted this for years. They have pressed for nationalism to be taken out of the opening ceremony and the medals presentation. Flags, anthems and marching legions of athletes are part of the big show the world sees on television. But many critics maintain it destroys the original purpose of the Olympic Games, the friendly competition between athletes as individuals.

"Let us take national flags and national anthems out of the Games forever, and remove the chauvinism and get back to the Olympics Games as they used to be," said Count Jean de Beaumont of France, one of the IOC's senior members.

Beaumont has many supporters in the IOC, which meets in session here next week before the Games open.

Athletes and national teams are breaking no rules by missing the opening parade. There is nothing in the Olympic Charter that compels anyone to take part in the ceremony.

The charter used to lay down precise instructions for the parade. It said each competing national delegation must march behind its national flag.

That was changed for the Winter Games at Lake Placid last January — not because of Afghanistan but because the IOC wanted to find a solution to its China problem. Peking refused to let its athletes compete while the Taiwanese used the old flag of Nationalist China, so the IOC ordered the Taiwanese to design a special Olympic flag and then changed its rules to fit the occasion.

When President Carter called for a boycott of the Moscow Olympics, and national Olympic committees around the world were torn between joining the boycott and supporting the Games, the IOC told them the rules no longer called for national flags.

COAHOMA — This community in east Howard County will have two of its former high school football stars trying to be included on the roster of the Houston Oilers when the team opens training camp Monday at Angelo State University in San Angelo.

Putt Choate, who starred for Coahoma between 1972-74, and Don Kelso, who played from 1973 to 1975, will be in the training camp as rookie free agents. Choate will be attempting to land a spot on the team at linebacker, Kelso on either the offensive or defensive lines.

Both men had heralded college careers. Choate, 6'2, 255, was a two-time All Southwest Conference pick at linebacker while playing for SMU.

Kelso, 6'4", 270, on the other hand, made the 1978 NAIA All-American team, playing defensive tackle at Howard Payne University in the competitive Lone Star Conference. He also made all-Lone Star Conference last year.

This will be Choate's second training camp. He signed in 1979 with the Atlanta Falcons as a free agent. While with the Falcons, Choate became a stellar performer on the special teams during the pre-season.

In a game with the St. Louis Cardinals, Choate broke his leg and stayed on the inactive list through most of the 1979 season.

Choate was released in November of last year. He worked out during the first half of the season while the leg was healing.

Choate had originally felt that he would be back in the Falcons camp this July, but during the spring he sensed something was not right about his status with the Falcons front office and the coaching staff. He began looking elsewhere. He signed as a free agent with Houston in May.

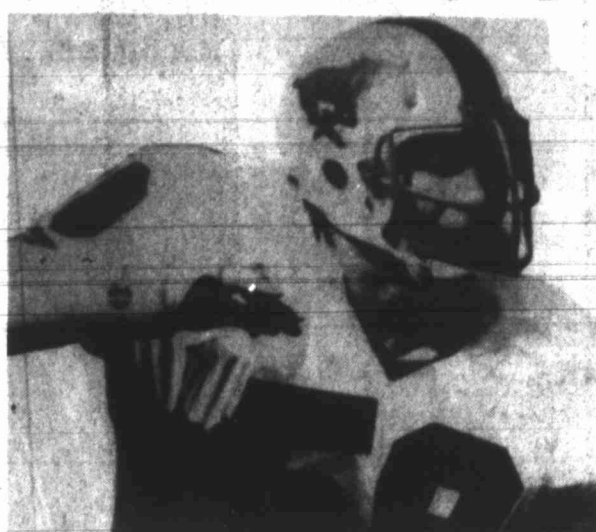

About the Oilers operations, Choate said, "Houston was real, real nice and up front all of the time."

Despite being one of the dominant defensive players in the Lone Star Conference, Kelso was not drafted, but several teams expressed an interest in him.

"At first I got a bunch of letters from other teams," Kelso said. "The last day of the draft, Houston contacted me." He signed with Houston also last May.

Both players have been working out extremely hard for the training camp, which will last about six weeks.

Choate has been lifting

weights, pushing himself through agility drills and running. His work outs have been seven-days a week.

He has been rising at 6:30 each morning. After stretching, Choate's brother, Dusty, has been running him through 45 minutes to an hour of agility drills.

Choate has been running three times a week, and his workouts consist of ten 100-yard dash, 10 50-yard dashes and 10 40-yard sprints.

His speed in the 40-yard dash — a measurement for quickness — is in the 4.7-4.8 range. Choate says times in the 40 are somewhat overestimated.

He contends that speed which a player runs 20 yards is more important.

"Most of your plays develop in a 20-yard span," Choate explained.

As for weight lifting, Choate has been pumping the iron four times a week, recently he cut back to twice weekly. His strength is considerable, for the former SMU stalwart can bench press 420 pounds.

Kelso, too, has been lifting weights and running. He has been pumping the iron three times a week, concentrating on a varied program. He has been running four days a week.

For a big man his speed is surprising; he can run 40 yards in 5 seconds.

Contacted Thursday, Kelso admitted he was a bit nervous. He said the Oilers have mentioned about moving him from the defensive line to the offense line. This possibly is some recognition of Kelso's talent, for the Oilers were crippled at the offensive line last year.

As for a preference where to play, Kelso said, "It wouldn't make any difference." He played two years at Howard Payne at offensive guard.

Choate commented that being included on the Oilers roster will be difficult.

and the mental aspects of the game go hand in hand. This seems to back up the precept that mental mistakes result when the body begins to tire.

To make the Oilers, he plans to use the same formula that almost got him on the Falcons' roster: solid special team play.

"I am hoping to carry that over here," he said.

Cougars rate at top

WACO, Texas (AP) — The Cotton Bowl champion Houston Cougars have been picked in Texas Football Magazine's annual poll to again capture the Southwest Conference football title.

Under a system in which a first place vote was worth four points, a second place worth three, etc., the Cougars rolled up 115 points to 100 points for second place Arkansas.

Coach Bill Yeoman's Cougars, who have won the SWC title three of the last four years, received 19 first place votes out of the 39 cast by writers and broadcasters and compiled by Dave Campbell.

Runner-up Arkansas received five first place votes and was named to share the title on five other ballots.

Texas, which plays training camp in the first SWC game on national television Sept. 1, was third with 66½ points, followed by Texas A&M with 54½, Southern Methodist with 25½ and Baylor with 23.

Texas Tech was seventh, Texas Christian eighth and Rice was last in the poll.

Permian, Childress top football teams in 70s

Odessa-Permian actually was the top winner of the 1970s in the University Interscholastic League with a winning record of 881 percentage on a record of 109-14-1.

Childress was second as the top schoolboy winner with a record of 114-16-3, but was rated the most successful team of the 1970s by the magazine under special point bonuses awarded for playoff victories.

Other top schoolboy winners of the decade included Cuero, 105-16-2; Plano, 107-16-4; Gregory-Portland, 101-15-4; Brownwood, 104-17-2; San Antonio Churchill, 96-16-4; Brazoswood, 95-17-3; San Antonio Lee, 98-18-4, and Seagraves, 98-19-2.

The top five under the most successful team rating included Childress, Odessa-Permian, Plano, Brownwood and Cuero.

Porker ace is in deep fry

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — An investigation is under way into whether University of Arkansas running back Darryl Bowles violated probation by his allegedly unexplained absences from a Tennessee penal institution.

Bowles, 19, was sentenced May 1 to two years at the Haywood County Farm. He was convicted of petty larceny in connection with the theft of a cow last year.

The sentence was reduced at 90 days as long as Bowles abided by farm regulations. He began serving the sentence May 12.

Bowles was granted permission June 10 to leave the farm for daily allergy treatments at the Haywood Park Hospital. Authorities say he has made only three visits to the hospital.

"We checked and found that he went to the hospital on June 10th, the 12th and 16th," said Farm Superintendent Billy Chandler. "He hasn't been back since the 16th of June."

"I've never had something like this happen before. In a way, it's my fault. I wasn't keeping a check on it."

Big catches of striped bass reported at lake

The big news at Lake E.V. Spence is that the strippers are back — not that they have ever been away. However, catches of striped bass last week hit booming proportions, mostly in the intermediate size. There also was an increase in the volume of channel catfish catches.

At Lake Thomas the level of traffic has been the best in years, although there is a substantial amount of this in boating and water skiing as well as fishing.

Reports from Lake Spence included:

Paint Creek Marina — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Christian, Odessa, six strippers to 10 lbs.; T. E. Rickelman and Carl Graham, Abilene, 16 strippers to 8 lbs.; the Oscar Ovalla family of Big Spring, 10 channel catfish aggregating 22 lbs.; Johnny Kramer party from Odessa, 12 strippers to 7 lbs.; Sharon Mosher, Odessa, 13-lb. striper; Larry Leman and party, Hobbs, N.M., 12 strippers to 8 lbs.; Bob and Joyce Dawson, Lubbock, nine strippers to 8 1/2 lbs.

Reserves are being taxed

Water deliveries by the Colorado River Municipal Water District are continuing near a peak during the persistent heat wave. PASCHAL Odom, assistant general manager, said that during the past week deliveries to the cities averaged approximately $65,500,000 gallons a day. Odessa has been taking more than 34,000,000 gallons a day, Big Spring around 11,700,000 gallons, Snyder 5,500,000 daily. Midland, which receives only part of its water requirements from the district, has drawn 13,500,000 a day, and Stanton around 700,000 gallons. So far reserves have held steady, said Odom, although wells were brought on at Snyder when a pump at the filtration plant limited output there.

Officials meet again Monday

LAMESA-Dawson County Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the County Courthouse. Commissioners will confer with Virgil Groat on the realignment of voting precincts and appointment of election judges. They will also receive Leland Miller's annual tax report. A resolution in support of the Law Enforcement Academy will be considered.

Water usage is decreased

SWEETWATER - Wter consumption here has dropped an average of about 600,000 gallons a day since the city instituted mandatory rationing last Sunday, according to Johnny Moore, public information officer. The decrease has dipped consumption to about 2.9 million gallons a day, slightly under the city's absolute ceiling of 3 million per day - but Moore said city officials were nevertheless somewhat disappointed that the drop hasn't been greater. However, cooperation has been good, and Moore said that to his knowledge, so far there have been no violators of the rationing code. The code prohibits outside watering, car washing and filling swimming pools.

Trip enhances knowledge of young scientist

Smithsonian seen by local children

By MICKIE DICKSON

Johnny Webb, 8, first prize winner in the second grade division at the Permian Basin Science Fair for his dinosaur project, got acquainted with a 12-foot fiberglass replica of a Triceratops, his favorite dinosaur, June 25 at the Smithsonian Institute's Museum, Washington, D.C.

The Webb children, Johnny and Christy, 4017 Vicky, and their cousin, Page Pinkerton, 14, Lubbock, were visiting with an aunt, Beverly Jenkins, in Hyattsville, Md. Beverly is a member of the Smithsonian Institute as well as of FONZ (Friend Of the National Zoo).

The West Texas entourage started out at the Smithsonian Institute of History and Technology where the American flag that flew over Fort McHenry which inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner," was displayed. Christy, who has an extensive doll collection, was interested in First Ladies' Hall where all the Inaugural hall gowns worn by United States President's wives were displayed on life-size wax mannequins, and an eight foot dollhouse. Johnny liked the antique puppet of a dinosaur skeleton, the original Charley McCarthy, Mortimer Snerd, and Howdy Doodly and Kermit the Frog from the Muppet show.

The Smithsonian Museum of Natural History was visited June 16. The dinosaur hall was closed, but Johnny got to see the skeleton of a Woolly Mammoth with the animal's original skin stretched over it. The Insect Zoo was viewed next with cage after cage of myriads of insects. The five inch long unicorn beetle, looking like a rhinoceros with a horn on its nose, was Johnny's favorite. Lunch at the Associate's Court for members was next.

The Smithsonian Air and Space Museum was on the menu June 17. The tourists saw a movie of the history of flight on a five stories high screen which gives the viewer the sensation of flight. One picture of the Niagara Falls gives one the sound and sensation of actually going over the falls, causing viewers to hold tightly to their seats.

A mule-drawn canal barge ride on the Potomac River, on a reconstructed portion of the Chesapeake and Ohio in Great Fall Park was the next event. The crew, made up of Department of Interior employees, were dressed in fashions of the 1800's and told stories of barge life when the canal was in operation and families lived on the barge with their mules. As the two mules, Anna and Daisy, pulled the barge, the crew entertained passengers with music played on the banjo, guitar, mountain dulcimer, fiddle and mouth harp.

As guests of FONZ, the young West Texans visited the National Zoological Park when it was closed to the public, and petted the giant Galapagos Islands Tortoise which grows to 400 pounds, and other zoo animals. A visit to the commissary where all the food is prepared for the zoo's 2600 animals was made. The pair of giant Pandas, Ling Ling and Hsing Hsing, which China presented to the United States, was viewed at meal time.

An Amtrack ride through the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains took the group to Harper's Ferry, Va. where they visited Ann Jenkins, their grandmother. Harper's Ferry is located where the Shenandoah and Potomac Rivers join in the Blue Ridge Mountains. A huge rock overlooking the spot where the two rivers join is called Jefferson Rock, and is said to be where Thomas Jefferson once stood and said, "The view from this point is worth the voyage across the Atlantic."

The children fed the swans on the lake at Hagerstown Park where at times big catfish jumped up and grabbed the bread before the swans could get it. Catching lightning bugs in a jar and crayfish was another amusing pastime at grandmother's. The young Texans visited the battlefield of Sharpsburg, called the Battle of Antietam in the north where the supposed bloodiest battle in the world was fought during the civil war. The Monument of Texas Volunteers was viewed, a memorial to the 800 Texans killed in the battle. This battle was a turning point in the Civil War with 2,200 casualties in one 30 minute battle and 4,000 in another three-hour battle, the latter on a road now known as Bloody Lane.

Johnny constructed his Prehistoric Animals display for the Permian Basin Science Fair all alone. The display featured the Permian Period, Triassic Period, the Jurassic Period and the Cretaceous period from 200 million years ago to 70 million years ago. He distributed a list of 16 questions and answers on dinosaurs and small fossils to the public viewing his display, which included models of the dinosaurs existing during each period. In the display were the shell of an Armadillo and a King Crab, the latter hasn't changed in 100 million years according to Johnny. The skeletal remains of an embryo King Crab looks identical to the fossilized embryo of the Trilobite of the Pre-Permian period which was before the dinosaur period.

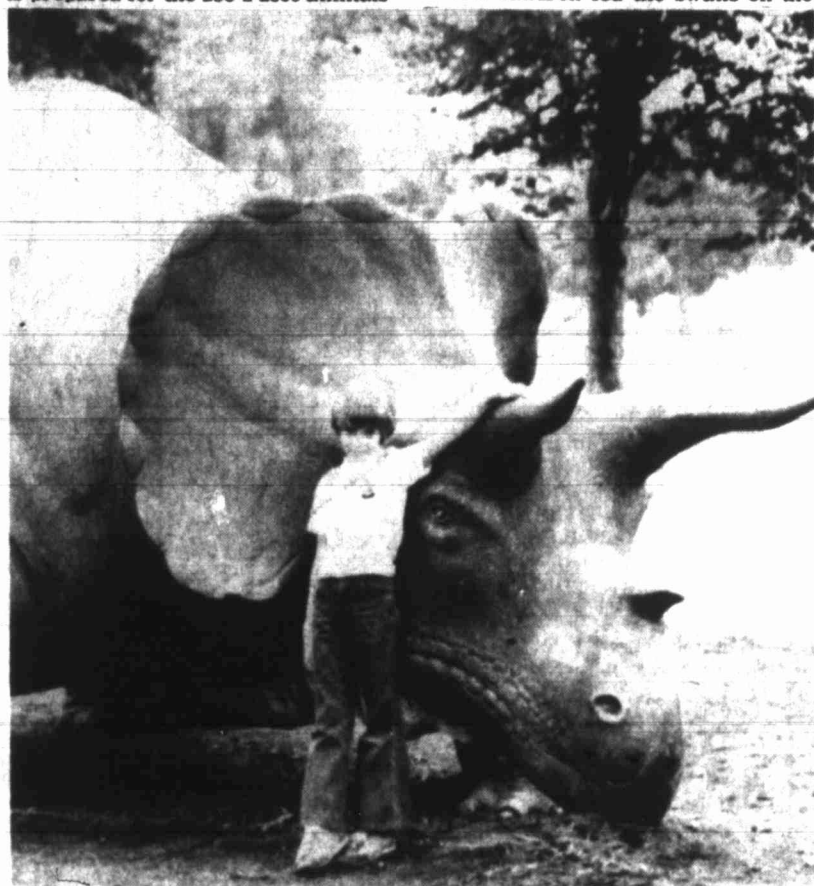

Johnny also has a skeleton of a horned toad, and says that the ankylosaurus evolved into the horned toad. Other experts, however, claim that the ankylosaurus of the crustacean period evolved into the glyptodon and then into the armadillo.

A skeleton of a model dinosaur is buried in a model dig in the project made of mud from behind Johnny's home to look like the Geologist's had just discovered it.

A sign explaining that the coal and oil we use for fuel today may have been prehistoric plants and animals and another one explaining the dating of fossilized remains found by the radio carbon 14 tests are on the display.

One of Johnny's prize possessions is a stuffed Pteranodon, a winged dinosaur, that Beverly Jenkins, the aunt whom they visited, made for him.

Johnny has the makings of a true scientist and is well on his way with his knowledge of prehistoric animals.

TRICERATOPS — Johnny Webb, 8-year-old paleontologist, at the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History, with the replica of a triceratops, one of the five horned dinosaurs of the Cretaceous period, 70-100 million years ago.

'Little People Babies' found in cabbage patch

Lovable enough to be adoptable

By MICKIE DICKSON

A lovable, squeezable group of "Little People" adoptables have taken up their abode in Big Spring. Who are the "Little People"?

In case you haven't heard, they are soft sculpture artwork babies "born" at BabyLand General Hospital, a renovated doctor's clinic in Cleveland, Ga.

The tiny maternity ward at BabyLand General has had a population explosion which necessitated outlets in other cities known as official "Adoption Centers." The "Agency" in Big Spring is the Spoiled Rotten Children's Boutique No. 9 Highland Mall. These Little People Babies must be "adopted," of course, since each requires the love and attention only "parents" can give. A whole procedure accompanies this act, including the signifying of "Official Adoption Papers."

The presentation of an individualized, and notarized, Birth Certificate is part of the "adopting" process to those who take an oath to take care of their new little Person Baby.

The personalized concept of adopting these artwork babies stems from the fact that they are surprisingly realistic and that no two are exactly alike. Each has a facial expression all its own, as each is carefully hand-stitched to birth. Indeed, all "Little Peoples" features are handcrafted, their toes, fingers, knees, elbows, handpainted eyes, and even bottoms and belly buttons. Some even have diaper rash.

Xavier Roberts, Designer-Physician of the "Little People," and four young women artists in their mid-twenties, came up with the "Little People" idea in 1977 and started looking for a place for their "Birth and Adoption Center." Finding the 1900 vintage Clinic Hospital which had been vacant 10 years after 64 active years of operation by Drs. Neel Sr. and Jr., they completely renovated it into BabyLand General Hospital.

Kay Wise, co-owner of Spoiled Rotten, with her family, visited Little People's hospital June 13. "The BabyLand General has a nursery where visitors and prospective adoptive parents look through glass windows at the new and sometimes premature babies displayed," said Mrs. Wise. "The 'birthing' room is done in pink with clouds and a huge tree painted on one wall under which are large cabbage heads inside which are new "Little People Babies" heads. Nurses at the hospital dress in striped uniforms," she continued. Other rooms are the feeding room, dressing room, recess room, examining room, the maternity ward where babies are in incubators, adoption office and parent's waiting room.

"A little girl brought her "Little Person Baby" into the hospital who needed to have her dimpled leg repaired while we were there and the nurse very gently took the baby and told the young "mother" to have a seat, that the baby had to go to surgery and would be right back, just as if it were a real baby," said Mrs. Wise.

It's easy and fun for both young and old to be caught up into the fantasy of the Little Peoples' life-like reality. Even hard businessmen comment on their "refreshing originality." These soft sculptured babies are original artwork pieces to cherish and enjoy, and 95 percent are "adopted" by adults! They don't discriminate against children or single parents.

"Adoption Centers" have rapidly sprung up nation-wide and are continuing to in the nation's gift and other quality shops.

"The response has been remarkable, says the Little People's designer, Xavier Roberts, whom employees deem a creative genius. Roberts signs the Little People Babies' tiny bottoms in limited editions, intriguing collectors and raising the value of these first few thousand soft sculptures. Mrs. Wise said that in the hall of BabyLand General Hospital stands a "Little People Boy" with arms outstretched which is worth $10,000 now.

The "adoption agents," along with their name tag descriptions, insist that "some are mischievous, others have fussy tempers, but most just love to be held." Each wears regular size baby clothes, 12 months to 18 months size usually; except for newborns which would wear new baby sizes. The name tag also states, "We found them in a cabbage patch and just couldn't leave them there."

"So we took them in and became friends. Before we knew it, we'd taken in so many Little People, we had to put some up for adoption!"

"Since each Little Person has such a unique personality, we provide the adopting parents with an official notarized Birth Certificate. And on their birthday, we send them a birthday card."

"No two Little People are alike because of the tender concern of the artists who hand sculpture them. Your love and a magic ingredient make these little characters become your little friends."

"Like most children, they love to play, need plenty of gentle love, and a little discipline, too."

"If you are considering adoption, we'll ask that you please take good care of them. We'll miss them but they do need good homes."

Dear Abby

Shut Your Eyes And Turn the Page

DEAR ABBY: We were both kids when we married. We didn't have a pot to cook in or a window to throw it out of, but we were in love.

He was ambitious, smart as they come, and worked like a horse. I did all the things a good wife should do, including raising three nice kids practically single-handedly while my husband was all over the map on business most of the time.

To make a long story short, we sort of drifted apart. Twenty years later he was a multimillionaire, and we were living in different worlds. That's when he asked for a divorce. He said there wasn't anybody else — he just wasn't "happy."

Well, I wasn't going to hang onto a man who didn't want me, so I didn't fight it. My lawyer got a much better settlement than I asked for or expected, so I am well provided for financially.

I've been alone for four years. He is now married to a younger, stylish woman who is very pretty and active socially. I frequently see her picture (usually with him) in the society section of the newspaper. Abby, every time I see a picture of that woman with my ex-husband, I get so upset I have to go to bed for a week!

I would cancel my subscription to the paper, but I love your column. What should I do?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Don't cancel your subscription. Just quit reading the society section.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a neighbor who brings her dog next door to do his business on MY lawn — and on a leash yet!

That dog's urine has burned white spots all over my lawn. Her lawn is lush, green and perfect.

I would give her a piece of my mind, but I don't have the nerve.

FUMING

DEAR FUMING: I think your neighbor has a lot of nerve and you don't have enough.

DEAR ABBY: I have just received an invitation to the wedding of two friends. Both are professionals and financially well-off.

The invitation indicated that the reception is to be a "potluck feast." I find this very offensive, and think that on such an occasion the least they can do is provide refreshments for their friends.

How should I respond?

DISGUSTED IN SEATTLE

DEAR DISGUSTED: A disgusted guest makes poor company. Decline — with no regrets.

Young artist selected

James A. Martin has always drawn pictures. In fact, he tended to draw in school rather than study.

Approximately two years ago, he became involved with pen and ink drawings while studying under Virginia Whitten. Later he branched out to acrylics and oil pencils after completing a Jerry Seagle seminar.

James' accomplishments in the art fields of drawing and painting has earned him the title as July Artist of the Month. He was selected by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

"My favorite pictures are those of animals," commented the young artist who is a high school junior.

However, James also enjoys painting scenes of the west, including Indians, windmills, mines and old automobiles.

Besides being a member of the Big Spring Art Association and the Texas Fine Arts Association, James, the son of Robert and Nancy Martin, is a member of the Gayhill 4-H Club as well as the First Baptist Church of Big Spring.

He won second and third place ribbons for graphics in the Big Spring Art Association September, 1979 show and this month, James won a first place in landscape in addition to a first and second place in portraits in the Snyder Art Show.

After high school, he plans to continue his study of art in college and art school.

Summer rite performed

Matching swirl candelabrams decorated with wild smilax flanked the altar table at the First United Methodist Church as wedding vows were solemnized between Mary John Cherry and Danny O'Hair.

Dr. J. Weldon Butler, Methodist minister, read the Saturday evening ceremony before a large crescent candelabrum. White trellis decorated with wild smilax backed massive floral arrangements.

Enhancing the sanctuary setting were nine-branch candelabrams accented with a white caladium plant, trellis and large schefflera plants at the base.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Cherry, 417 Edwards Blvd. The groom is the son of Mrs. Jeanette O'Hair, Earth, Tex., and the late Edwin O'Hair.

Wedding music was provided by Charles Parham, organist; Craig Vandiver, guitarist; and Patti Swindell, vocalist.

The bride was presented down the candlelit aisle wearing a formal gown of white organza fashioned in empire design. The bodice, adorned with pearl-studded silk Venice lace motifs, featured a Queen Anne neckline and long, full sleeves gathered to fitted lace cuffs. The gown extended to form a cathedral-length train.

A matching silk Venice beaded-pearl caplet held a waltz-length veil bordered with Venice flowers. She carried an old-fashioned cascade arrangement of pale swiss rose roses, white baby's breath and acure phlox. Tied into the ivory satin streamers which held the bouquet were the wedding rings of the bride's grandmother and great-grandmother.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Kim Boggs, Abilene. Bridesmaids were Mrs.

Jeanne Hill and Mrs. Brenda Chilton, Lubbock, cousins of the bride; and Cindy Fowler, San Angelo.

The bride's table was dressed with beige cloth overlaid with beige floor-length lace and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake over a fountain which was flanked with smaller cakes stationed above Grecian columns. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

The groom's table was draped with brown cloth overlaid with beige cloth. Brass appointments were used to serve the hexagonal-shaped chocolate cake decorated with fresh strawberries.

Servers were Mrs. Lynn Haggard, Lezlie Roberson, Mrs. Brenda O'Brien, sister of the groom; and Mrs. Gayle O'Hair, sister-in-law of the groom.

Both Boeker, pianist, provided music during the reception.

Beauty Basics
Q: I've been doing a lot of sunbathing this summer. Will you give me some tips on how to keep my skin soft and smooth.
A: Before exposing your skin to the sun, it is important to thoroughly moisturize it. This is especially true if you wish to use a tanning oil while sun bathing. If you choose to use suntan lotion, reapply frequently to all exposed areas.
Once you have done this "injustice" to your skin, immediately begin replacing moisture lost by the sun's intense rays. Shower or bathe, being certain to rinse all traces of soap. Apply body lotion lavishly. (An excellent one to seriously consider is Orlane's Body Treatment Lotion.) Every thirty minutes spray the skin with a good skin freshener. This will replace lost moisture and will form a hydro-protective barrier.
Fast attention and consistency will "save" your skin this summer.
