Iranian news keeps hostage punishment campaign mobilized

By the Associated Press

Tehran newspapers are keeping up a campaign to mobilize support for punishment of the American hostages, with the third paper in six days reporting that most members of Parliament favor spy trials for the captives.

Hojatolislam Hassani, a leader of the Islamic Republican Party that dominates the new Majlis, or Parliament, said 99 percent of the deputies think the 52 Americans should be tried as spies unless Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his fortune are returned to Iran, the revolutionary guards' newspaper, Payam Enghlab, reported Sunday.

The paper quoted Aazam Taleghani, one of the two women in the Majlis, or Parliament, as saying the Americans, for whom today is their 25th day in captivity, should be tried before an international panel of judges.

"When their espionage crimes are proved, we ask the nation to free, imprison or execute them," she said.

Hassani also said the Majlis, should not debate the hostage issue "for two months...because (President) Carter tries to be re-elected by releasing the spies." The Tehran newspaper Donya Iran reported recently that the Majlis would not open its debate on the fate of the hostages before October.

On Tuesday, the Tehran newspaper Ettelalat reported interviewing 23 members of Parliament, and said many of them wanted the hostages tried as spies. Another Tehran newspaper, Kayhan, had a similar report the next day.

The hostage released last week because he was ill, Richard I. Queen, 28, was being examined at the U.S. Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden, West Germany, and U.S. officials said he would remain there for several more days. He is believed suffering from a neurological disorder that caused dizziness and stiffness on his left side.

Queen's parents took him in a wheelchair Sunday to the base post exchange where he got a suit, a shirt and a pair of shoes for his trip back to the United States. His father, Harold Queen, said the young man was "in very good spirits...He's looking better every day."

Meanwhile, Tehran radio reported nine more executions and the trial of three West Germans. Broadcasts said:

Lt. Gen. Houshang Hatam, who was deputy commander of the joint chiefs of staff for a time during the last year of the shah's reign; Kiomars Rajabian, an officer of the shah's Imperial Guard, and six "well-known drug traffickers" convicted by Ayatollah Sadegh Khalkhali's anti-narcotics court were executed in Tehran.

A police officer was executed in Isfahan.

Tehran Radio also reported 500 people have been arrested in connection with the plot to overthrow the revolutionary regime which the government announced last week it had discovered.

Search fails to turn up body of man at Moss Lake

By STEVE HERSHERBERG

In what could be the second Howard County drowning in 10 days, work crews were dragging Moss Creek Lake through 11 a.m. today to determine if a missing person went under Sunday afternoon.

Police have listed as missing Daniel Ortega Diaz, 25, of 503 S. Bell Diaz was released about three weeks ago from the Texas Department of Corrections.

Diver Ricky Womack with the Big Spring Fire Department said Diaz was on an outing with several friends Sunday at Moss Creek Lake. Diaz was reported missing around 5 p.m.

One of Diaz's friends, Domingo Galera, reported last seeing Diaz around 3 p.m., swimming about 100 yards north of the designated swimming area.

Jim Byers, the lake's caretaker, said crews started dragging Moss Creek around 5:30 p.m. Sunday and continued through dark.

"We haven't turned up a thing so far," Byers said.

Moss Creek, which is five miles east of Big Spring, is a flooded canyon. Much of the lake's floor has trees and old lines.

Womack said the body could have moved within the lake.

"There is a current in the lake," he commented.

Womack said that if Diaz drowned and was not discovered, his body would surface about 48 hours after going under. This projection, Womack said, is based on a formula taking in account the temperature of the water, the man's body weight and other factors.

The possibility of a drowning not occurring is very likely, Big Spring Police said today. Womack said that from what police gathered, Diaz and his friends had been drinking, and much of the information surrounding the incident is clouded.

If Diaz indeed went under, his drowning will be second in Howard County within a 10-day span.

The waters of Moss Creek Lake claimed the life of Thomas Pina, 22, of Midland around 5 p.m. July 4. Pina, his family and several friends were spending the Fourth of July at the lake.

Around 5 p.m., some members of the party launched a boat from a dock on the south shore into the water, and the craft drifted 60 yards, unable to start. Pina dove into the water from the dock and began to swim toward the boat.

Pina had covered about 20 yards when he went under, coming back up just once. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Lulu Adams.

Says Anne Armstrong

GOP presents solid front

By ELEANOR MORTENSEN
Marie-Hanks Election Team

DETROIT — Anne Armstrong, on the eve of the GOP National Convention here Sunday, said the Republican Party is more unified this year than it ever has been and predicted a victory at the polls in November.

"It's like old home week, with Ford, Connally, Bush, Crane and even old Nixon supporters working together," she said. "In general, the party is more unified than I've ever seen it."

The South Texas resident whose husband, rancher Tobin Armstrong, accompanied her in Detroit Sunday, served as U.S. ambassador to Great Britain and as special counselor to former President Nixon.

Although a strong supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment, Mrs. Armstrong does not foresee any convention fight on it or other portions of the full platform as worked out in committee session here last week.

She indicated that the news media, seeking to find some news or divisive points since Ronald Reagan's selection as the presidential nominee is assured, has turned to her and others asking questions about ERA and other platform matters.

"I don't disagree with the plank on women's rights. It's a strong one," she said. "But I would have preferred to have an endorsement of the ERA included. I have thought, and continue to believe, that ERA is the quickest way to get equal rights for women, but we still need three states," she said.

She referred to ratification still needed from three states before the ERA can become law. There's also the question of rescission by three states of earlier ERA approval, a matter still not legally settled.

"The time has come for women's rights," she said.

Mrs. Armstrong believes, however, that other planks in the party's platform are far more important as far as the entire nation is concerned.

"On the economy, foreign affairs and our military strength, or our weakness, as it has developed, there the Republican Party is united," she said. "We must immediately begin a strong military buildup and we need to strengthen our intelligence capabilities."

On the economy, Mrs. Armstrong said Republicans took the lead on tax cuts by advocating action now while the Democrats, who first said no tax cut under any circumstances, now are considering one.

"We're calling for a 10 percent across-the-board cut, plus incentives to business to stimulate new jobs," she said of the Republican platform.

Mrs. Armstrong, one of Reagan's candidates as a running mate in November, said she has not talked with the former California governor since several weeks ago when he asked her to send him additional background data.

"He has all the information he needs and has a full picture," she said about the vice presidential prospects. She said she understands Reagan does not plan to talk with any of the candidates before he makes a decision, which he plans to announce Thursday morning.

Foreign travelers are on increase in Texas

DALLAS (AP) — Oil isn't the only business booming in Texas. Foreigners are flocking to see the Lone Star State, hoping to catch glimpses of the Old West or J.R.

One Dallas company specializing in bus tours of Texas cities reports a phenomenal increase in tourists from other countries pouring into a state most foreigners associate with ranches, cowboys and the wide open plains.

"I've been in this business for three years and to begin with foreign tourism was minimal," said Elizabeth Stuart, spokeswoman for Greyline Bus Tours.

"But over the past three years it has increased 300 percent, and especially since the Dallas-Fort Worth airport opened up to direct routes from overseas," she said.

Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, which Texans like to boast as the "biggest" in the United States, has been opening up its expansive air strips to direct overseas flights since 1978. Since that time, local tour companies have reaped the profits.

Interestingly enough, while airlines have been floundering in their domestic flights, international travel into the United States has increased tremendously.

"We have been adding gradually to our international flights," said Jim Street, public information officer for the airport.

"Figures are down drastically on domestic flights, but international travel into the airport has increased steadily and those figures are up," he said.

For the first four months of 1980, international flights into Dallas show a 32 percent increase over the same time period for 1979, Street said.

"Just for the month of April there was a 40 percent increase this year over 1979," he said.

Street attributes the increase in foreign travel to high inflation in the United States and the falling health of the dollar overseas.

"These tourists find they can vacation more cheaply here than in Europe due to inflation in this country and the falling health of the dollar overseas," Street said. "The cheaper costs of hotels and other expenses more than make up for the slightly more expensive air rates to the United States."

According to the Greyline spokeswoman and her colleagues, the state of the American dollar has definitely had an impact on foreign tourism.

"The foreigner used to come purely for business and if they could fit it in they would tour a bit," she said.

Now many of the international tourists come simply for the vacation, especially the Europeans and Japanese.

"These international tourists usually take the group routes," Ms. Stuart said.

Unlike their American counterparts, foreign tourists like to travel with a group from their home country.

Group rates run cheaper and the tourists feel more secure among their own, the Greyline spokeswoman said.

The Middle Easterners, especially the Arabic travelers, have begun to pour into Texas as not only businessmen, but as tourists as well.

International Tours of Dallas, Inc., a company that sells wholesale United States tour packages, reports their biggest tourist increase from the Middle East nations.

"For our company, foreign tourism is up 50 percent, with all but two percent from the Middle East area, especially the Arabic people," said Connie Sparrow, spokeswoman for the Dallas-based company.

International Tours handles primarily package tours which take the traveler to several U.S. cities, and include hotel, food and travel arrangements.

"Since there are so many Arabic people doing business in this country now they are spending lots of money here, especially on tours," Ms.

Sparrow said. "They are very willing to pay the prices of a good escorted tour around the United States."

Package tours usually average around $2,000, she said. "No kidding, it's the ones with the oil money that are buying these tours."

The foreign travelers usually demand an escort because it makes them feel more secure in a country whose language is foreign to them, Ms. Sparrow added.

In Texas, tourists usually ask to go to Houston, and invariably want to see a "dude ranch," Ms. Sparrow said. In Dallas, the company refers the foreign visitors to local tour agencies.

One such agency, Destination Dallas, promotes the city of Dallas on a world-wide basis, said spokeswoman Catherine Manor.

"We usually work out packages for businessmen who want to bring their families over and see the country while they are here."

Texas is a hot spot for the British, in more ways than one, she said.

Nuclear accidents need not raise concerns, experts say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Utilities and the nuclear industry acknowledge that hundreds of unexpected incidents, including operator and equipment failures, occur each year at nuclear power plants. But they deny allegations by an anti-nuclear group that these events raise new safety concerns.

Critical Mass, an anti-nuclear group affiliated with Ralph Nader, released a report Sunday saying more than 2,300 such incidents were reported to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in 1979. A plant in Virginia had 130 incidents and another in Ohio 109.

"This data speaks volumes about mismanagement, poor operator training, lax inspection and frequent mechanical breakdowns," declared Critical Mass director Richard Pollock. "It is a profile of an industry rushing headlong toward another Three Mile Island."

Although utilities and industry spokesmen and NRC officials confirmed the 2,300 figure was essentially correct, they disputed the conclusion that the reports — called license events reports — reflect safety problems at any of the plants.

"I would attach no significance whatsoever to the number of reports," said Carl Michaelson, head of the NRC office that analyzes such reports. "What counts is the nature of what happened and not necessarily how many times it happened."

The survey by Critical Mass gave few specifics as to the type of incidents reported. It said they included equipment failure, human error and "design failure" — all ranging from minor to serious — and provided "an unsettling picture" about nuclear safety.

Action/reaction: Why she quit city job

Q. What made a veteran city employee like Mrs. Howard Shaffer, who devoted more than 23 years of her life to her job, decide to quit?

A. The Herald contacted Mrs. Shaffer, who once functioned as the assistant secretary in the Finance Department and, as such, made out payroll checks for city employees. She said she had a difference of opinion with her immediate superior, Tom Ferguson, and added she thought she deserved a better position than the one she was offered after the municipality underwent a change in administration.

Connally, $12 million delegate finally meet

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Election Team
DETROIT—Two different versions of how John Connally and his $12 million delegate greeted one another emerged as the two came to the Republican National convention Sunday.

Trio returns from course

Steve Drake, Mike Alebar and sponsor Craig Fischer represented Big Spring High School Student Council at the TASC Summer Leadership Workshop in San Angelo the past week.

Some 55 schools, along with 300 students, were on the Angelo State University campus to attend the workshop.

Head consultant of the workshop was Sally Lewis of San Antonio. Participants studied ways to improve their own Student Councils.

Some of the areas of study included duties and responsibilities of officers and members, parliamentary and procedures, organization and planning, evaluation procedures and problem-solving techniques.

Similar workshops are held all over the state during the summer months.

The local Student Council annually sends members to these workshops. Drake is second vice-president of the local Student Council. Alebar is a representative.

cameras. By chance, the one delegate the former Texas governor managed to capture in his $12 million guest for the GOP presidential nomination, Ada Mills of Clarksville, Ark., was on the same plane.

Reporters asked how Connally and Mrs. Mills reacted upon finding themselves face-to-face.

Connally said they had just exchanged pleasantries while getting on and off the plane. Many other delegates from Texas and Arkansas were on the plane, he said, and he and Mrs. Mills didn't have a chance to visit.

Nellie Connally had a more colorful story, however. She told a reporter the greeting involved "lots of huggin' and smoochin'" between the couple and Mrs. Mills.

The one Connally delegate, free of her commitment since Connally withdrew, wasn't saying which version is true.

Mrs. Mills, a small woman in a white suit, was met at the airport by a man who had identified himself as her public relations agent. The two hurried past reporters.

Connally repeated his often-made statement that he has no interest in a vice presidential spot on the Ronald Reagan Ticket. "When I tell you something like that, you can believe it," he said.

He said he could be happy with any of the possible second-spot nominees.

NICE TO BE HOME — Col. Harland Sanders, founder of Kentucky Fried Chicken, relaxes at home after being released from a Louisville hospital where he underwent treatment for pneumonia for 12 days. "It seemed like three months," Sanders said of his stay in the hospital. He has received hundreds of letters and gifts from all over the world including a letter from President Carter and a $200 arrangement of flowers and fruit that someone sent from South Africa.

Shea Stadium tragedy

NEW YORK (AP) — A 28-year-old man with "a long history of mental illness" apparently leaped to his death from an upper level of Shea Stadium, police say.

Police said Bruce Winick scaled a wire barrier on the mezzanine and plunged 100 feet to the pavement outside the stadium, shortly before the start of a New York Mets doubleheader against the St. Louis Cardinals. He was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital. Police called the death an apparent suicide.

The Queens man's companion told police that Winick had been under a doctor's care and the ballgame had been recommended by the doctor as "a therapeutic measure," officials said.

Accusation 'big mistake'

MARATHON, Fla. (AP) — A state Marine Patrol supervisor says authorities have "made a big mistake" in accusing him of accepting a bribe.

Capt. Ralph Tingley was arrested Saturday by state agents who seized $50,000 in cash. He was charged with accepting a bribe to protect marijuana smugglers.

Tingley said the money was dropped off at his house by a man he could identify only as "Lee." "It looks to me like I was set up," said Tingley, adding he was guilty only of bad judgment in not calling authorities immediately.

More women need firing?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More businesses would be operated by women if more women were fired from their jobs, says a business expert.

Being fired from a job can be one of the strongest motivations for anyone to start a business, said Albert Shaper, an Ohio State University business professor.

Affirmative action programs, which require a certain percentage of female employees, have resulted in fewer women being fired by employers who want women on their rolls, he said. As a result, fewer women are being motivated to start their own businesses, he said.

Man dies, officer critical

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — One man was killed and a state Highway Patrol officer was in critical condition after a pickup truck ran off a highway and plowed into them, authorities said.

Officers said tow truck driver Harold Robb Jr., 22, was crushed to death Sunday as he was preparing to tow a damaged car away from the scene of an earlier accident. Four teenagers in the pickup were injured and Officer Rodney Campbell was hospitalized with brain and nervous system injuries and broken bones.

The driver of the pickup, identified as Robert David Jordan, 22, of Huntington Beach, was booked for investigation of felony drunken driving and vehicular manslaughter, said highway patrol Officer John Merritt.

Of deputy sheriff

Females not offered job

By DON WOODS
Neither of the two female sheriff's office employees who recently lost a sex discrimination suit against the county was offered a deputy sheriff position that recently opened up, said Sheriff A. N. Standard.

The disclosure was made during the regular meeting of Howard County Commissioners Court this morning.

County Judge Bill Tune asked Standard if the job had been offered them, adding "would there be some discrimination there?"

Standard replied that "if there was it would have been brought to my attention and would have been my decision — not the commissioner's court."

Tune said he was made aware of the possibility of discrimination by County Attorney Harvey Hooser.

Tune told County Clerk Margaret Ray to retain the tape of the conversation after Standard left the meeting. Taping of court proceedings is routine.

The deputy position in question is one vacated by former Deputy Raymond Bedford who moved to another town to operate a transport service.

DPS to build new structure

LAMESA — The Department of Public Safety is planning to build a new headquarters building here.

The DPS has purchased property immediately north of Gibson's Discount Center on North Main St.

Plans call for construction of a 2,600-square foot building which will house the driver's license bureau and will serve as a headquarters for 10 T-15 troopers patrolling the county.

Susan Skelton is chairman

The Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation announces the appointment of Mrs. Susan Skelton, as Chairman of its 1980 Breath of Life Campaign in Garden City, Texas.

Mrs. Skelton will be recruiting volunteers within the community to help plan and carry out a CF Breath of Life Campaign this fall.

The purpose of the Campaign is to provide the community with information about Cystic Fibrosis and to raise funds to support research, education and care programs for CF patients.

Bernice Nail and Rachel Shaffer, two sheriff's office employees, received the decision from the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans stating that there was no discrimination in the county's practice of lower pay for their positions.

Shaffer Ambulance received a raise in county subsidy from $1,000 to $1,500. The city raised its subsidy correspondingly from $2,000 to $3,000.

City Councilman Jack Y. Smith said 50 percent collection rate from ambulance users was too low.

"I do have a feeling, I didn't express it up there (at the city council meeting), we ought to do something about these bad collections. That's our money and it's costing us," said Smith.

The local ambulance service has suffered a history of bad collections, said County Commissioner William Crocker.

Commissioner David Barr suggested that the county attempt to collect the bills. Smith agreed and proposed that the city and county take possession of the bad debts and try to collect them.

The proposal was placed in form of a motion and passed by the commissioner's court effective July 1.

Check pension plans now to avoid trouble later

How much money would you have if you retired tomorrow? Would your pension be big enough for you to live on?

If you don't know the answers, you could be in trouble.

Most workers in private pension plans are guaranteed certain rights under the Employment Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 — ERISA.

The administrator of any pension program covered by the law must give participants something called a summary plan description, often referred to as an SPD. It must be written in understandable language. It must include information about eligibility requirements for benefits. It must explain how you accumulate benefits, how you can lose them and how you file a claim for them.

There are two basic types of pensions: the defined benefit plan and the defined contribution plan. With a defined benefit plan, the amount of money you will get when you retire is fixed in advance, but your contributions vary. With the defined contribution plan — also known as an individual account plan — it's the other way around; the contribution is fixed in advance, but the amount of money you will get varies. That's because there is a separate account for each participant in a defined contribution plan. The money in each account is invested and benefits depend on the return on the investment.

It is important to know how your benefits are vested. Vesting protects you against losing your entire pension if you change jobs. ERISA sets minimum vesting requirements for all plans covered by the law.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

True, all hearing problems are not alike... and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this free model now, and wear it in the privacy of your own home. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free.

The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

Present Reagan lead over Carter doesn't mean victory in November

DETROIT (AP) — Ronald Reagan has opened a big lead over President Carter in recent weeks, even though many Americans do not agree with the former California governor on his plan for a major tax cut and on other issues, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Carter's continued decline in the judgment of many Americans has also given a boost to Rep. John Anderson's independent candidacy, who is now trailing the incumbent by only 9 percentage points.

Reagan has gained this lead over Carter — now 15 percentage points — as Reagan prepares to assume officially the mantle of the Republican presidential nominee at the party convention here this week.

But Reagan's lead is not necessarily an indication of success in November. In 1976, Carter led then-President Gerald Ford by a 53-36 edge just before the Democratic convention. And that bulge surged to 62-29 edge after Carter won his nomination and before Ford clinched the GOP one. Carter beat Ford by only about 2 percentage points in November 1976.

The latest AP-NBC News poll, taken Tuesday and Wednesday, says Reagan is now the choice of 42 percent of the likely voters interviewed. Carter was named by 27 percent in the mythical November matchup and Anderson by 18 percent. Two percent picked someone else and 12 percent were not sure.

Both Libertarian Party candidate William Clark and Citizen's Party candidate Barry Commoner were chosen by less than one percent of those interviewed.

Likely voters made up 60 percent of the total sample.

But this edge for Reagan does not mean Americans like his stands on the issues.

Reagan has made a 10 percent cut in federal tax in the next year a centerpiece of his campaign.

However, only 19 percent said Reagan's proposal for a tax cut shows he understands the needs of the people. Seventy-one percent said it was just another example of election year politics. The remainder of the 1,949 adults interviewed by telephone nationwide were not sure.

The inflation-weary public wants the federal budget balanced, instead of a tax cut. Fifty-seven percent said they would choose balancing the federal budget, while 33 percent picked cutting federal taxes. Ten percent were not sure.

Reagan opposes abortion, but the public supports it. Seventy-seven percent favor the availability of abortion, while 19 percent oppose it.

And on the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, 43 percent of the public favors it, with 23 percent in opposition. Thirty-four percent were not sure. Reagan opposes the ERA.

Even though many people do not agree with Reagan, they agree that Reagan takes strong stands on the issues — a marked contrast to their opinions of Carter.

By a 56-30 edge, the poll found Americans saying Reagan takes strong stands on the issues and sticks to them. In contrast, only 35 percent said Carter takes tough stands, while 57 percent disagreed. The remainder in each case were not sure.

Perhaps ominously for both major party candidates, Anderson has a positive image in this area as well, even though he is not well known. By a 41-19 margin, Americans said Anderson takes strong stands and doesn't waver from them. Twelve percent were not sure and 28 percent said they had not heard enough about Anderson.

Reagan's margin over Carter can be traced, in part, to a decline in Americans' opinion of his work. Those ratings are now close to the lows the incumbent reached last summer and early last fall.

Carter's overall job rating by the public has dropped from 28 percent excellent or good in late May to 23 percent in this survey.

Americans' rating of his foreign policy work went from 20 percent to 16 percent excellent or good.

The public rating of his handling of the nation's economy went from 15 percent to 12 percent.

Missouri governor declares emergency Heat wave claims lives of 443

By The Associated Press

Missouri Gov. Joseph Teasdale declared a state of emergency throughout the state today because of a prolonged heat wave and put the National Guard on standby.

The heat has claimed at least 443 lives in 15 states since it began three weeks ago, including at least 98 in Missouri, according to an unofficial count by The Associated Press.

Teasdale said he was advised by the National Weather Service that the high temperatures would probably continue for at least another week. On Sunday, it was 108 in Kansas City.

No Guardsmen were actually called to duty. But if they are, Teasdale said they would perform such tasks as helping the elderly in finding relief from the heat.

Temperatures have been so high in St. Louis that Kalle, an adult male orangutan at the St. Louis Zoo who is native to the Malaysian jungle, died of heat prostration, zoo officials announced Sunday.

"Kalle, with his long-haired coat, apparently could not cope with the recent St. Louis heat wave," a zoo spokesman said.

Sunday's high in St. Louis was 96 and that was cool compared with some other spots. It was 107 in Memphis, the hottest day in the city since records were started in 1875. In Batesville, Ark., it was 111.

"We're just going to have to sweat it out," said Rip Howard, a forecaster for National Weather Service in Memphis.

Besides the fatalities in Missouri, there have been 88 deaths in Texas, 84 in Arkansas, 34 in Tennessee, 33 in Oklahoma, 24 in Kansas, 22 in Georgia, 20 in Mississippi, 15 in Illinois, 11 in Alabama, five in Louisiana, four in Kentucky, two each in South Carolina and Indiana and one in Nebraska.

At Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska, 110 people attending an open house were treated for heat exhaustion. The base's thermometer read 97.

The high in Macon, Ga., was 108 and Mayor George Israel declared an emergency. The air-conditioned Macon Coliseum was opened to the public and police cruised in patrol cars, urging those who felt in danger because of the heat to go to the coliseum. City buses, normally idle on Sunday, went on runs to the coliseum.

In Arkansas, the state Department of Pollution Control and Ecology reported that the air in Little Rock was unhealthy for three hours each afternoon because of a high content of ozone.

Ozone is produced from a reaction between sunlight and air pollution, the department said. A high ozone content in the air can cause respiratory problems and hurt plants, the department said.

Meteorologist John Lipe said the state could expect little relief from the heat for at least a week.

Little named director at State National Bank

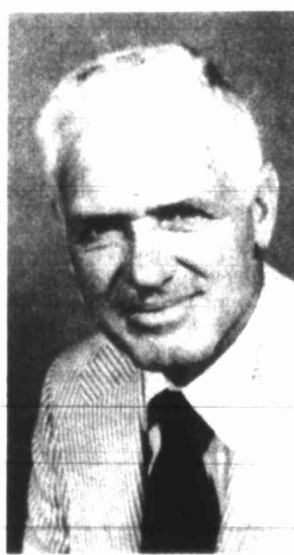

Jim Bill Little, a native of Big Spring and a well-known building contractor, has been named a director of the State National Bank. The board convened Tuesday to confirm Little's nomination.

Extremely active in civic affairs, Little is a past president of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, has been a member of the Big Spring Planning and Zoning Committee for eight years, and is a past president of the West Texas Chapter of the Association of General Contractors of America.

In addition, Jim Bill is presently a director of the West Texas AGC, was a member of the Big Spring school board for over eight years, seven of which he functioned as board vice president; was a member of the panel which organized the Texas Building Branch of the State AGC, is a past president of the Big Spring A&M Club, is a director of the Colorado River Municipal Water District and presently is serving on the local Industrial Foundation.

He is married to the former Nancy Whitney, who is also a Big Spring native. Three children were born to the union: Mrs. Joel E. (Pam) Dyer, Dallas; Linda Little, Aspen, Colo.; and Bill Little, a sophomore student at Texas A&M University.

Little was active in football, basketball and track while attending Big Spring High School. He graduated from the local high school in 1948, after which he enrolled in an Architectural Engineering course at Texas A&M. He graduated there in 1953 and immediately went into the Army. Stationed at Fort Polk, La., and Fort Sill, Okla., Little was assigned to a Field Artillery unit. He left the Army in 1955 with the rank of first lieutenant.

He returned to Big Spring in 1955, at which time he went to work for the A.P. Kasch and Sons general contracting firm. He remained with that company until 1958, when he organized the J.W. Little Construction Company.

A member of the First Presbyterian Church, Little is now serving as a church elder.

Jim Bill was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Little. His late father was a prominent attorney here for years and at one time served as county attorney.

Mrs. Little's father is Herb Whitney, who for many years served as Big Spring city manager.

You can help solve hunger crisis

It's been said, and often in anything but jest, that half the world develops stomach problems by overeating while the other half goes to bed hungry. Sadly, the odds are shifting in the direction of those who never get enough to eat.

What can you do to help, if you are one of those blessed with an abundance of food? The Presidential Commission on World Hunger says world hunger is everyone's problem and everyone's challenge and suggests each of us can do a lot.

— FOR ONE THING, the commission recommends, you can join a community group that is doing something about hunger at home or abroad — such as a neighborhood organization, a civic group, a church organization or an advocacy group for a specific program such as School Lunch "Who's Involved in Hunger" is a brochure made available by the commission, 734 Jackson Place, NW, Washington, D.C. 20006.

— You can also form a group for study or action if none exists in your community. Consult "Who's Involved in Hunger" for groups who can provide information on how to set up a study or action organization.

— Find out what resources your library has on world hunger and how to end it. Learn what resources your school libraries have for different ages. Recommend that sources be added.

— Ask your school officials to include programs on world hunger in their own professional meetings and in assemblies for students. Ask that world hunger issues be included in the school curriculum.

— Meet with local officials to find out about hunger in your community, what programs are available, what the problems are. Ask what local government is doing to end hunger. Discuss how world hunger affects your community.

— Visit local programs to see how they work. Talk with administrators of programs to find out what progress is being made and what the problems are. There are any number of successful programs now in use.

— Find out if local businesses have non-profit foundations that could fund educational activities on world hunger, such as public meetings, seminar series, or action projects. Many businesses and corporations have set up foundations as part of their public relations effort.

— Support local food banks or other food distribution programs, by providing personal time, financial assistance or food. Find out who could use the food bank but does not now participate. If no food bank exists, establish one.

— Ask your senators and representatives what they are doing to end hunger at home and abroad. Seek out news about legislation that has been introduced and read it to become informed about the issues.

— Seek out members of the news media for discussions on the subject.

Offer to provide information or to be a guest on a program.

— Arrange meetings on world hunger issues to help inform fellow members or groups in which you already participate.

— Donate money to groups involved in ending hunger in your community or overseas.

— WRITE TO A GROUP working overseas to find out what they are doing to help end hunger — not just through food aid, but by helping nations grow more of their own food or increase their ability to buy food from others. Find out what their group is doing to improve the diets of the poorest people. "Who's Involved in Hunger" provides names and addresses of many groups working overseas.

Who knows? Helping others may renew your appetite for food you now find unpalatable. That would be reward enough for trying to help others.

Looking back

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

The Heritage Museum is in the process of receiving an antique pay telephone. The only problem with this antique, the way it was described to me, is that it is the type that even I remember. It's a heck of a way to be given a "you know you're getting old when..."

I was also reminded this week of the days of the hair set with Dippy Do. Do you remember that? Those were the days when we would start getting ready for a Saturday night out early in the afternoon when we would have time to sit under the hair dryer for an hour or two to date the guy who was using Brylcreem.

AND WHAT DID we ever do without the Xerox machine? How did we ever survive the days of copying things over or using all that messy carbon paper?

Do you remember the Beatles' television appearance on Ed Sullivan's program?

If you remember any of these things, chances are you're over 25. If you remember Elvis' appearance with Sullivan or the Eisenhower administration, go get your rocking chair.

This week was the wrong time to find out about the museum's donation. I had just celebrated a birthday and was still getting over the trauma of it all.

It's amazing when all of a sudden you begin to feel that you're maturing. I was chugging through the shopping center near my home when two small boys yelled, "Hey lady, it's awfully hot. Could you give us a ride to the other side of the center?"

I SUPPOSE I shouldn't get too upset. I remember hassling one of my cousins about seven years ago at a holiday dinner with all the relatives around. He was 28 and I was teasing him about how close to 30 he was. Well, it wasn't exactly teasing. I felt like being mean that day. That day, I should have kept my mouth shut. After all, someday I'll be 28 and if my 21-year-old cousin said that to me, I'd kick his backside.

But we all know every year gets better. And let's face it. Have you ever known anyone who looked better in their high school graduation picture than later on? It never happens.

Carter on move

Joseph Kraft

Jimmy Carter's singular quality as a political animal lies in an uncanny ability to sniff a rival's weakness and expose it to public view. By that means he has already — in his 1976 campaign and his bid for re-election this year — compiled a formidable list of the most diverse victims.

Abundant signs now show that Mr. Carter is on the move against Ronald Reagan. Mr. Reagan is also likely to go down unless he shows a good deal more acumen — particularly in picking a running mate — than he has demonstrated so far.

The first victim of the Carter tactics was George Wallace. Gov. Wallace's weakness was the "never" view on desegregation. Carter picked a semi-Southern state, Florida, and came on, from his favorite position of underdog, as a man of the New South. Wallace hasn't been heard from since.

SEN. HENRY JACKSON of Washington, despite manifold virtues, bore the stigmata of the Old Politics associated with the big city Democratic bosses. Carter, appearing as the paladin of New Style participatory politics, looked good in Iowa and New Hampshire, and in Pennsylvania drove Jackson back to the Senate.

Congressman Morris Udall of Arizona was a campus liberal, in the mold of Adlai Stevenson. Carter ran against him as the good old boy from the rural South, and finished him in the southernmost of the northern states, Ohio.

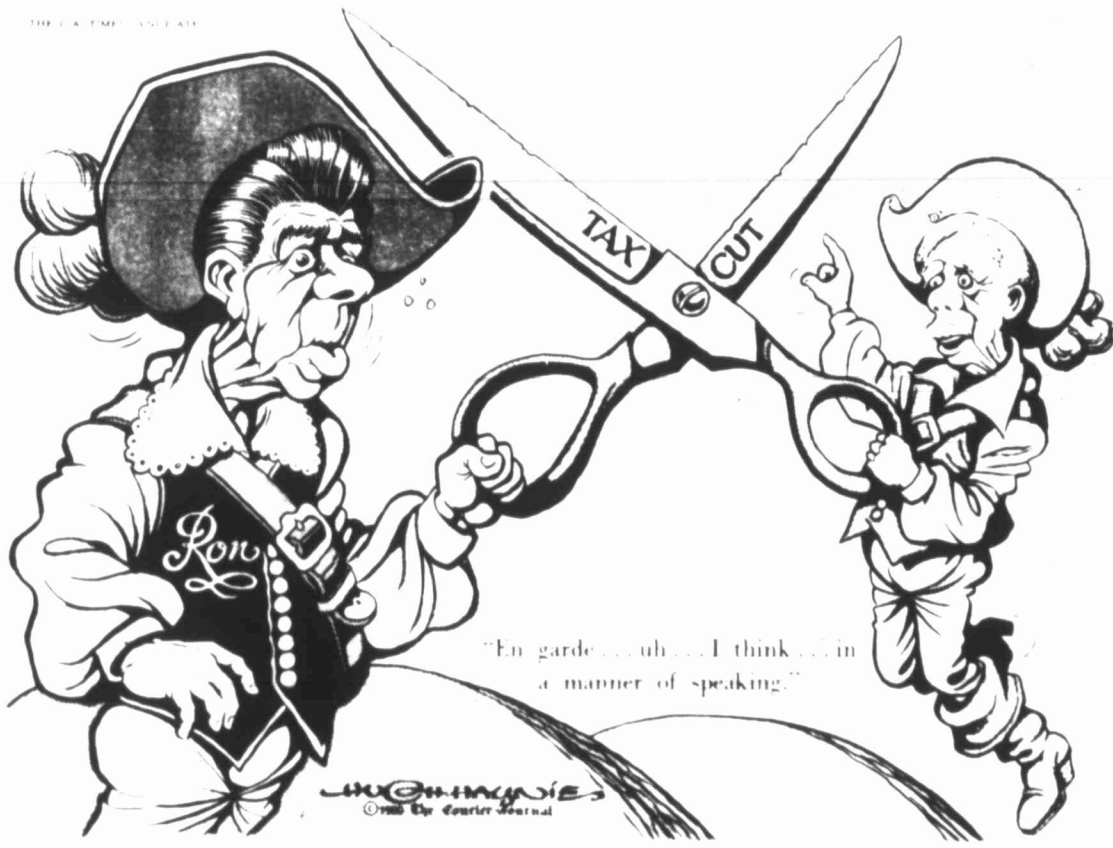

With nobody to profile his protean self against, Carter slumped badly after the 1976 primaries. But he had the delegates, and he started the presidential campaign with a huge lead.

Perhaps because President Ford was behind, he proved to be very tough for Carter. Only when Ford drew abreast in the last few weeks, did Carter identify his weakness — anti-poor people, Republicanism. In the end Carter Beat Ford in Texas by appealing, in LBJ style, to the Baptists of the piney woods, the blacks of Houston and the Hispanics of the valley.

Ted Kennedy was the next to go. The chink in his armor was a personal life summed up in Chappaquiddick. Carter not only raised questions in direct advertising about Kennedy's trustworthiness. He gathered the mantle of office about his person in the White House to show himself as a grave statesman, a veritable Cato of concern about Iran and Afghanistan. By not venturing forth on the frivolous business of campaigning, he smashed the image of Kennedy invincibility.

Gov. Reagan's flaws abound. He has no experience in national or international affairs. Most of his life he has been an actor. He has close ties with the right-wing ideologues of the Republican Party. So to discredit him it suffices to identify him in the mind's eye of the voter as an irresponsible figure, prone to go off half-cocked on such tricky matters as arms control and taxes, and certainly not to be trusted with final management of peace and prosperity.

The administration's record, to be sure, presents something of a handicap to Carter. During his tenure at the White House, inflation has soared and recession has come round again with a vengeance. There has been a notable drop in this country's influence abroad. To the point where the French and Germans have apparently decided to manage alliance policies toward Russia, the Middle East and the Persian Gulf.

Breast cancer not single disease

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: With the increasing number of mastectomies being performed will you please tell us something about oral chemotherapy, which is sometimes used following surgery? How long will I have to take the medicine? Is this oral therapy something new? — L.S.J.

The first thing you have to keep in mind when speaking about breast cancer is that it is not a single disease, but a group of diseases with different treatments and different outlooks.

Treatment depends on several considerations: the size of the tumor, whether lymph nodes are involved, if there has been spread to other organs, the woman's age, her menstrual cycle, her medical background.

Doctors use many oral drugs in treatment. Female hormones, male hormones and anti-female hormones are given. Other chemotherapeutic drugs like fluorouracil are also used. Radiation may become part of post-mastectomy treatment.

You can understand why I cannot tell you how long you will have to take the medicine or what the side effects might be. Yes, it is true that with some tumors oral medicine is given following surgery. But again, this is based on the various factors mentioned earlier.

I know this is far from a satisfactory answer to your question, Mrs. J., but as you can see treatment is complicated. By the same token it is very promising. So much now can be done for the woman with this illness. The oral medicines have been used for many years.

You should contact the organization "Reach To Recovery," which you may have heard about. You can get help and understanding there, plus answers to a lot of questions you may not have included in your letter to me.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Would you please write something concerning the uses of the spleen. I don't think I've read anything about the spleen. If I have one, the doctor says they cannot find it — Mrs. G.H. The spleen never does get much press, does it?

In fetal development the spleen makes red blood cells. When that job is taken over by the bone marrow after we're born, the spleen switches jobs. Now it removes worn out red blood cells. It also makes antibodies to ward off infections.

It sounds like a pretty important organ, but even though the spleen has these major roles to play it is possible to live a healthy life without one. Other parts of the body serve a backup role, just like the one the bone marrow performed for the spleen's old blood making job.

Did your doctor say you didn't have a spleen or did he say he could not find it? The spleen is hard to feel any time, but there are a few conditions in which it shrinks, like the tonsils shrink with age. People without spleens are a little more prone to develop certain infections, but in general they do quite well.

Blows to the abdomen can cause the spleen to bleed. Very often the only way to stop splenic bleeding is to remove the organ.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have angina and occasionally have to take a nitro pill. My big problem is that I cannot sleep at night due to a pulsating through my entire body. If I manage to fall asleep, I am awakened in an hour or two with this pulsating, and I am most uncomfortable. Can you suggest anything? — Mrs. A.R.

There is a remote possibility that the nitroglycerin is the cause. That would be easily corrected by altering the dose or by using a different preparation — one that doesn't have such quick action.

It is more probable that the nitro is not causing this symptom, however. It might be worth your while to have a 24-hour electrocardiogram taken. A small recording device is worn for a full day. It is not all that bothersome. You can perform all your normal activities. Any abnormalities in the heart beat that may be happening during the night would be detected by this long-range heart monitoring. Such monitoring is becoming quite common.

Is angina pectoris dangerous? Is there a cure? If you would like to learn more about this heart condition, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My parents are always hassling me, and I think the only solution is to run away from home. Do you see any other solution? — T.T.H.

DEAR T.T.H.: Running away from home wouldn't really solve anything. In fact, it would give you a whole set of new problems. So I urge you not to do it. It would be wrong, no matter how attractive it might seem to be.

The solution to your problem is to learn to live with your parents. I know that may seem like a very difficult thing to do right now, but it is possible — not with your strength, but with God's. Your parents may not be perfect. But God can give you a spirit of love for them, and a willingness to overlook and forgive shortcomings. (Remember that you are not perfect either, and they have probably shown a great deal of love and forgiveness to you!) I believe also God can give you a new appreciation of your parents. There are many things they do for you for which you should be very thankful.

They also are concerned about you, and many of the things you think they are "hassling" you about may really be things they want you to do because they know they will make you a better person.

The Bible says, "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right" (Ephesians 6:1). Why does God command this? One reason is because your parents are to help you and guide you in the right way, and if you resist them and refuse to obey them you will not learn the right way of living from them.

My prayer is that you would commit your life to Christ. God loves you and is your perfect heavenly Father. He loves you so much that He sent His Son to die on the cross to take away your sins. Invite Him into your life, and ask Him to help you to be at peace with your parents. The Bible says, "If it is possible, as far as it depends on you, live at peace with everyone" — including parents. (Romans 12:18).

GOPs worried

Jack Anderson

DETROIT — The recent rise of William Timmons to the top rank of Ronald Reagan's campaign aides has some prominent Republicans more worried than they like to admit.

Although Timmons' name is hardly a household word, he is well-known in Washington — specifically, known by the company he keeps: Big Business, Big Oil and other big guns in the capital's special-interest community. As one of the city's super-lobbyists, Timmons has grown rich on his fat-cat clients, and the Democrats will be happy to publicize these connections.

TIMMONS IS ALSO a reminder of another GOP skeleton the Republicans would just as soon keep locked in the closet during the campaign: Watergate. As Richard Nixon's congressional liaison man, Timmons worked hard against the former president's impeachment — perhaps too hard.

But it is Timmons' work as a lobbyist that may prove to be a political liability to the Reagan campaign. While his penchant for rich and powerful clients would not disturb conservative Republicans, his devotion to their causes might not sit well with the moderates and Democrats Reagan needs to win over in the fall.

Here is a list of influential corporations and groups Timmons has been hired to represent:

National Rifle Association, Chrysler Corp., which paid him to lobby for its government loan guarantees, Lockheed Aircraft Corp., another supplicant on Uncle Sam's "corporate welfare" rolls.

Northrop Corp., like Lockheed, a top defense contractor.

Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, American Petroleum Institute, Big Oil's Washington mouthpiece.

Several utility and gas companies.

The governor's office of oil-rich Alaska.

These are the interests that have been effectively promoted in recent years by Reagan's new deputy director of campaign operations, his manager for the GOP convention.

ONE OF TIMMONS' first moves as Reagan's convention manager was to resurrect Richard Nixon's secretary of state, Henry Kissinger, for a major speech to the delegates. The question is: Will Timmons show similar loyalty to the clients he worked for if he is given a top post in a Reagan administration?

Footnote: My associate Dale Van Atta made repeated attempts to reach Timmons for comment, but the calls were never returned.

LATEST FROM JIMMY: The traditional convention oratory starting here today gains added piquancy with the latest word from Las Vegas odds-maker Jimmy the Greek: He now rates Reagan a 2.5-to-1 favorite to whip Jimmy Carter's you-know-what in November.

As they circle the paddock in the last hours, Reagan's field of vice-presidential possibilities is rated this way by the Greek:

George Bush: 2 to 1.
Paul Laxalt: 5 to 2.
Richard Lugar: 3 to 1.
Howard Baker: 6 to 1.
Jack Kemp: 15 to 1.
William Simon: 15 to 1.
Donald Rumsfeld: 15 to 1.
Guy Vander Jagt: 15 to 1.

Laxalt would be Jimmy's betting favorite, as acceptable to both conservatives and moderates, if Laxalt weren't pushing for someone else — a moderate like Bush. (Other sources put Bush even farther out front than Jimmy does.)

The only scenario Jimmy sees for a Democratic victory at this point is for Carter to withdraw at the convention and let either Teddy Kennedy, Walter Mondale or Edmund Muskie get the nomination. In that case, — and Jimmy puts the odds of its happening at a realistic 100 to 1 — he'd then rate the election a tossup.

MUSICAL CHAIRS: The low profile being kept in recent weeks by Sen. Harrison "Pete" Williams, D-N.J., has given rise to speculation that he may take the "Spiro Agnew" route out of his entanglement in the FBI's ABSCAM influence-peddling scandal. Sources close to New Jersey Gov. Brendan Byrne are predicting that Williams will resign from the Senate in return for a "no contest" plea bargain. The script then calls for Byrne to step down. His successor would then appoint Byrne — who can't run for governor again after his term ends in January 1982 — to Williams' vacant Senate seat.

KEYSTONE KAPERS: The growing rivalry between Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., and Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh surfaced briefly at the GOP delegation's organizational meeting a few weeks ago. Heinz inspired a boomlet for himself as a favorite son vice-presidential candidate. This visibly embarrassed Thornburgh, who squelched the move with the help of Reagan aide Drew Lewis. The joke going around was that Heinz was aiding his self-promotion campaign by threatening to withhold ketchup from Pennsylvanians.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI: Former California Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, who was defeated by Reagan in 1966, wisecracked the other day that the real reason his old rival is running for president is: "He's just an old, old man in search of a job. He hasn't had one in six years." The conventional wisdom is that if anyone really did bug Republican National Headquarters, it was conservatives seeking support for their suspicion that Chairman Bill Brock and his aides aren't loyal to Reagan. What Brock didn't know is that the anti-bugging expert he hired is the brother-in-law of the National Conservative Political Action Committee's director... Meanwhile, fearful Republicans will be relieved to learn that there's a new bug-detector on the market that's pocket-sized, for personal protection around the clock.

Dear Editor:

I shudder at the thought of Carter going back to the White House for a second term. But if Bush is selected as Reagan's running mate I can't see that the situation would be improved much, if any. We will still be in the financial clutches of the Trilateral Commission. It still controls Bush and through him it would control Reagan. So, whether it controls the nation with Carter or Reagan makes no difference to it. It is still their ball game.

The national TV news media are playing up Bush as the leading contender for that office, but, don't forget, the media, too, are controlled by the Trilaterals. The only way we can end the Trilateral control is to make sure that Reagan selects a good conservative as his partner. We must get word to Mr. Reagan that his selection of a running mate must be from the conservative group. George Bush does not qualify, neither does Howard Baker, they are both tools of the Trilateral. The best way to get that message to Mr. Reagan is to write letters. So, get your letter in the mail. There is no time to lose. The selection will be made during the week of July 20-26.

STRAWBERRIES, STRAWBERRIES AND MORE STRAWBERRIES — Mayor Rolf Dreher of Nersinger, West Germany and baker Willi Galler, center, lead the townsfolk before making the first cut into this huge strawberry cake Sunday. It took the people of the town countless manhours, 60,000 strawberries, 4,200 eggs and some 407 pounds of flour to make this 61 square yards of cake, believed to be the largest of such kind in the world. The cake was cut into 5,000 pieces and sold to an appreciative crowd. The money from the sale will be used for the help of underprivileged children. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Out-of-state owners to pay higher taxes under Arizona law

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A California electric company is sizzling over a change in Arizona's tax laws that will apparently jolt out-of-state owners of the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station for about $200,000 in additional property taxes this year.

A late amendment to the Arizona Legislature's tax-reform package, designed to save taxes for in-state electric cooperatives, means Southern California Edison Co., Public Service Co. of New Mexico and El Paso Electric Co. will pay comparatively higher taxes on their shares of the nuclear plant than the in-state co-owners, state and utility officials said.

The disparity was termed "discrimination" by Southern California Edison officials in an appeal filed here. They added that the disparity will increase considerably before the provision expires in 1983.

The Department of Revenue rejected the utility's claim, and the Board of Tax Appeals is expected to ratify that decision, Assistant Revenue Director Harold Scott said.

Southern California Edison officials say they also may challenge the amendment in court. The New Mexico and Texas utilities did not file appeals.

The amendment was one of several changes in the complex methods used to set values of utilities for property-tax purposes that were approved by the Legislature in April.

Sen. Ray Rottas, R-Phoenix, a member of the conference committee that approved the amendment, said the Legislature may fine-tune the tax-reform package next year, but he said the amendment is not costing the utilities "that much money."

"Those are out-of-state utilities," said Rottas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. "And if we're going to have the plant here... well, need I say more?"

The tax package eliminates the existing method of setting utility values, which led to frequent lawsuits by utilities challenging their values and seeking lower ones, and adopts a formula recommended by the utilities.

But the formula "really killed" some of the electric cooperatives, so the committee adopted the amendment "as a safeguard," Rottas said.

The amendment requires use of standard appraisal methods in setting values for the next three years if the new formula results in an increase of more than 50 percent for a particular utility.

The amendment does not affect Arizona Public Service or the Salt River Project, Palo Verde's in-state owners, because the Palo Verde plant represents a smaller portion of their operations in Arizona and thus did not result in more than a 50 percent increase in their values.

The Palo Verde plant, under construction 50 miles west of downtown Phoenix, had a total value of $846 million this year, up from $426 million last year.

The values established this year for Southern California Edison, which include the firm's portion of the Palo Verde plant and two small facilities, were $76 million last year, $141 million under the new formula, and $145 million under the standard appraisal method to be used under the amendment.

The values for Public Service of New Mexico were $44.6 million last year, $84.5 million under the new formula and $87.9 million under the amendment.

— EFFECT OF TAX INCREASE SHOWN BELOW —

The Board of Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District proposes to adopt a tax rate of $1.27 1/2 $100.00 of value based on a 100% assessment for the on 1980 roll.

This compares to a tax rate of $1.70 per $100.00 of value based on a 75% assessment for the 1979 roll.

The tax rate in fact remains the same for 1980 as compared to 1979.

If an owner's property market value on the tax roll has remained unchanged, the taxes will remain unchanged; if the owner's property value has increased or decreased, the taxes will increase or decrease proportionately.

All property owners whose values were increased on the 1980 tax roll were mailed notices to that effect during the last week of May.

The 1980 tax rate is comparable to the tax rate for the Big Spring Independent School District for the past 12 years.

Louisiana probing death of cattle near waste site

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — State investigators are trying to find out if chemicals from a hazardous waste site next to their pasture killed four of Edmond Ewell's cows and made seven others sick.

Officials at Rollins Environmental Services say their dump cannot be the problem, because there is no hazardous waste in the area next to the pastureland in question.

But the Ewells say the animals got sick after spring rains spilled over the Rollins site and into their pasture. Blood tests on the sick cows proved nothing, said Dr. Tom Greene, who has been investigating the case for the department.

He said tissue samples from the first three cows to die were decomposed and worthless for testing when he was called into the case.

But samples taken Friday from the fourth cow to die are being checked for heavy metals and toxic substances, said Jim Porter of the Department of Natural Resources.

Rollins paid the Ewells in 1974 for about 20 cattle that died after a stock watering pond was contaminated.

Several years earlier, the Ewells lost about 150 cattle to chemicals from another company's hazardous waste site.

Parts of their land is fenced off to keep cattle away from these and other areas where waste has seeped into their land.

Rollins was ordered to clean up the site in April, after the Department of Natural Resources investigated complaints of noxious stenches coming from the site.

Crew prepares the launch of Titanic search

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Deep in the freezing waters of the north Atlantic lie the remains of 1,500 victims of the wreck of the Titanic — the ship that was advertised as unsinkable.

The exact position of the wreck has never been determined. But the crew of the H.J.W. Fay hopes that sophisticated sonar instruments will change that.

On Sunday, the crew unpacked the last crate of equipment and prepared for departure today.

The Titanic, a luxury liner, struck an iceberg on April 14, 1912, during its maiden voyage from England to the United States and went down about 380 miles southeast of Newfoundland.

The 30-day trip — postponed from Saturday when some equipment was delayed — is the first of two that will cost up to $4 million.

Pregnancy can't be hidden forever

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 18, handicapped and have been having intimate sexual contact with my 14-year-old girlfriend and we know she is pregnant. She doesn't want an abortion and because I'm handicapped, I can't help financially. I love this girl very much and want only the best for the child but I don't know what to do. We are both afraid to tell her parents. Please help. — Kenny, Elvira, Ohio

Kenny: Your girlfriend's mother will find out sooner or later that her daughter is pregnant so it's much better that it's sooner. Your girlfriend is very young to be pregnant and needs the direction and advice of a doctor. Please don't wait. See that she shares her condition with her mother immediately.

Dr. Wallace: I am a senior and seriously thinking about going to college to obtain a degree. I know it sounds stupid but can you tell me how long it takes to get the various degrees and give me a little information on them? — Sandra, Klamath Falls, Ore.

Sandra: A bachelor's degree is the first degree obtained and it normally takes four years at a college or university. To obtain the degree one must satisfy the requirements of the institution. Usually the student is required to take courses that allow him or her to be well-versed in all the disciplines — English, mathematics, science, history, etc. One of these disciplines becomes your major, and you might graduate with a bachelor's degree in English.

A master's degree normally takes two years and the student further "masters" his major after obtaining his bachelor's degree first.

A doctor's degree is the highest degree awarded and usually takes from two to eight additional years to complete. The doctor's program is basically researching a particular challenge in a given discipline.

Hope you're not confused.

Dr. Wallace: About a week ago, I discovered that someone looked through my diary. Since I'm an only child, it must have been my mother. I'm 15 and have some secrets that I don't want anyone to know.

Last weekend my girlfriend spent the night with me and left her diary on the bedroom floor. In the morning, her diary had been moved.

It's one thing for my mom to look through my diary, but to peek at my friend's is unforgivable.

What should I do about this? — Kim, Battle Creek, Mich.

Kim: Tell Mom that you think someone has been looking into your diary and nicely ask her if she was the one. If she says no, then don't force the issue. If it was her, then mother is aware that she shouldn't be peeking and should stop.

To peek in your friend's diary is indeed unforgivable.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 16-year-old girl and I've been through a lot so I know darn well what I'm talking about. I'm a party girl (drink, smoke, etc.) but I get good grades and have a part-time job. Dr. Wallace, some of your comments are really rude.

A girl from Hagerstown, Md., wrote to you and you told her to drop the guy because he asked her to go to bed with him. Sex is beautiful if love is involved. If two people are old enough to express love then they should not feel guilty if sex is involved. All of my girlfriends agree. — J.W., San Luis Obispo, Calif.

J.W. Most teen girls who have premarital sex like to think they are in love. Most teen boys are satisfying a biological urge. Everything seems great — that is until the girl becomes pregnant. Sex is beautiful when it is shared by a loving husband and wife and a pregnancy only brings forth more love.

Skipping breakfast myth is exploded

SCHAUMBERG, Ill. — The idea that you don't need to eat breakfast the morning after having a good dinner the previous evening is a myth, according to an article on breakfast and weight control featured in the first issue of a new publication by Cereal Institute, Inc.

The Institute's new publication, CURRENTS in Food, Nutrition and Health, seeks to provide well-informed perspective on relationships between what we eat and good health. It features statements, interviews, and information from well-respected food, nutrition and health authorities.

In the article on weight control, Dr. W. Henry Sebrell, Medical Consultant to Weight Watchers International, Inc., and former Director of the National Institutes of Health, explained in an interview why the body needs breakfast nutrition after a night-long fast: "After all those hours without eating, the calories from last night's dinner have been metabolized and used up by morning, for most people. If you want to avoid a morning letdown, you should eat breakfast," he said.

In fact, experts believe it is especially important for people in a weight control program not to skip breakfast, the article explains. To lose weight, one's intake of calories should be distributed throughout the day, when energy is expended.

An overweight person often concentrates eating toward the end of the day, according to Dr. Sebrell, who described a typical "bad" diet as follows: "You don't eat any breakfast. You eat a light lunch. Then you eat a big dinner, and you eat continuously from dinner to when you go to bed. Now, that's the way to get obese," he said.

How much breakfast should you eat? That depends on who you are. Many nutritionists recommend that about one-fourth of the day's nutritional needs should be obtained at breakfast. But the number of calories you consume at breakfast depends on your total daily caloric needs, the article states.

Breakfast skipping is still a common problem, according to CURRENTS. A recent national survey established that nearly half of all young adults 18-29 skip breakfast on any given day.

Many nutritionists regard breakfast as the most important meal of the day. The Iowa Breakfast Studies, a 10-year research project, clearly showed that a nutritious breakfast improves physical and mental performance.

Dealing with first aid emergencies

If an accident or illness were to strike suddenly, would you know how to give emergency first aid?

Knowing what to do until medical help comes can save a life. The Department of Labor's booklet, First Aid, will help you know how to deal with an emergency until help arrives. For your copy, send $1.70 to The Consumer Information Center, Dept. 130H, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

When a person is injured or ill, somebody has to take charge, send for a doctor, apply first aid, and try to determine the nature of the injuries.

If you're the one in charge, don't move the victim until you have a clear idea of the injury and have applied first aid, unless the person would be exposed to further danger at the accident site. Avoid any unnecessary movement or rough handling, because it might aggravate undetected fractures or spinal injuries.

When someone is bleeding, cover the wound with the cleanest cloth immediately available. Or, use your bare hand and apply pressure directly on the wound. Most bleeding can be stopped this way. If a limb is bleeding, elevate the arm or leg as you apply pressure, providing no bones are broken.

If the bleeding is from an artery (that is, bright, red blood spurts from the wound) apply your fingers to the pressure point where the main artery supplying blood to the hand is located. For the hand, it's just above the wrist. For the foot, it's at the outside of the ankle. Hold the pressure point tightly for about 5 minutes or until the bleeding stops.

Shock may accompany any serious injury and it alone can kill—so it needs to be treated as soon as possible. Symptoms of shock include shallow breathing, rapid and weak pulse, nausea, vomiting, mental confusion, and drooping eyelids. Treat shock by making sure the victim's nose and throat are cleared, control bleeding, and keep the victim lying down, wrapped with blankets. Elevate the feet unless the injury would be aggravated. Give nothing by mouth, especially stimulants or alcoholic beverages.

Dear Abby

Gold Teeth Create Ethical Toothache

DEAR ABBY: PRACTICAL PERSON suggested that considering the value of gold today, it would seem worth while for morticians to remove the gold from the teeth of the deceased before burial. It has been said that some morticians actually do this.

As a retired mortician, I can tell you that it is considered highly unethical for anyone in our profession to go along with this practice.

In the first place, we morticians are not trained in dentistry, and while removing teeth, we might do damage to the appearance of the body.

Also, morticians are advised by both their state and vocational associations that should the family of a deceased request that the gold from the teeth of a loved one be returned, the procedure should be done by a dentist.

RETIRED MORTICIAN

DEAR RETIRED: My dental consultants inform me that it would be like pulling teeth to get a dentist to retrieve the gold from the mouth of a corpse. I am further informed that the gold used in dentistry is not "pure" gold, so assuming one could find a dentist to do it, his fee would probably be more than the gold was worth.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 37. I have two children. My husband was killed on the job in an industrial accident two years ago, and I was awarded a large sum of money. I sued. All the figures were in the newspapers, so the whole town knew how much money I was awarded.

I have some cash, but most of the money I put in trusts for my children's education and future.

My problem is that I have been besieged with phone calls from people who want to fix me up with an eligible man. I hardly know some of these people, Abby. And most of them never paid attention to me before I got all this publicity after winning my suit.

I would really like to marry again, but how can I tell who is for real and who is interested in me for my money?

SUDDENLY SOUGHT AFTER

DEAR SOUGHT AFTER: Accept no dates arranged by people you "hardly know." And if you inform those you do know that all your money is tied up in trusts for your children, it should reduce the stampede considerably. Those who continue to show an interest in you are probably for real.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Take advantage Pork, poultry plentiful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shoppers will want to include pork, poultry, eggs, peaches, plums, nectarines and limes on their grocery list this month, according to the Agriculture Department.

This month will be a good time for consumers and large-scale food users to take advantage of abundant supplies of these items, the department reported.

Pork output this month will run 6 percent to 8 percent more than last year. Chicken will be slightly less than last July's record output but still plentiful. And turkey will soar 24 percent to 26 percent above last July's supply. Egg supplies will be about the same as last July.

The department also says milk and other dairy products will be plentiful, although down from the seasonal peak in May and June.

Beef supplies this month should be adequate, although down substantially from the high levels of recent years.

Crops of nectarines, plums and peaches are reaching their seasonal peak and the California nectarine and plum crops are expected to hit record levels.

A record crop of Florida limes is also anticipated, and supplies should also be large for raisins and dried prunes.

Chinese Elm causes big stir in El Paso

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Mon., July 14, 1980 7-A

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The idea of chopping down a big tree in any city can trigger a controversy. But in this desert country where trees are outnumbered by cacti and scrub brush, some people would sooner chop down their houses.

So the fate of a large elm standing in the path of a new residential intersection has divided the City Council and many citizens into two bitterly opposed camps.

"This doggone tree is a weed. It's a Chinese Elm — they'll grow anywhere," said Alderman Joe Divis.

But Alderman Jim Scherr said, "It's a big tree growing in a desert city. It grew because it was next to an irrigated cotton field. It is beautiful and has provided beauty and shade for many years. It would be a shame to cut it down."

Those opposed to keeping the tree, including Mayor Thomas Westfall, complain that if it remains in the middle of the intersection the city could be held liable if anyone runs into it in a car.

But insurance broker Diane Gass said, "It's in a residential area. You'd have to be speeding, run the stop sign and be drunk to hit it. There would be no negligence on the part of the tree."

After the City Council made a preliminary decision to force the developer to chop the tree down, a group of citizens spurred by local disc jockey Johnny Thompson of KFIM raised enough money to buy a liability insurance policy for the tree.

A city-wide petition was circulated.

The council then gave the tree a stay of execution, but it is not out of the woods yet.

The builder, Willis Shoemaker, wants to make the intersection a traffic circle with the tree in the middle. But council members now want him to re-route the streets so they miss the tree altogether.

"Trees are scarce. In this part of the country these big trees are hard to find," said Miss Gass, who helped arrange a $350,000 liability policy on the tree with a Dallas insurance company. The policy has not been written yet, pending action by the City Council.

Divis said the tree "sooner or later would kill someone" regardless of any insurance policy.

"I think a tree is worth less than a life," he said. "If it were a maple or some other good tree, I'd say fine. But a Chinese Elm — it'll probably get a disease and have to be chopped down someday anyway."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAY 13, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to engage in practical matters and gain added benefits. Resist an urge to change present arrangements even though you've had much success in the past.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study monetary affairs that are important to your progress. Modern methods bring fine results. Be alert at all times.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Personal matters are fine to follow now, but be sure to carry through with what family members expect of you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have fine plans for getting ahead, but take your time in putting them in operation. Relax at home tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to be more successful in business dealings and be more productive. Maintain harmony at home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listening with interest to what allies have to say helps them cooperate more with you, and you with them. Be logical.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put new ideas to work and expand in your line of endeavor. Make contacts that are important and get the right results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Think what must be done to improve relationship with business allies. Delve into new activities and get excellent results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keeping promises you have made to associates is important at this time. Be alert to what is going on around you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Obtain important data you need from the right sources, then go ahead with plans you have made. Express happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Assets from different sources could come your way at this time. Good time to engage in creative activities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't let anyone force you into a situation that you know is not right for you. Be poised at all times today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) One who understands your life's goals can be helpful to you at this time. Come to a fine accord with associates.

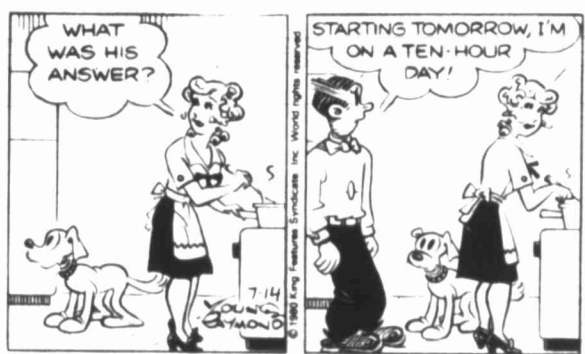

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very capable in working with figures, so direct the education along the lines of finance for best results and success and happiness are assured. Be sure to give religious and ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

World kinder but bitterness still remains

MIAMI (AP) — The world seems a little kinder to Tina Higdon today, kinder than it did two months ago when the young mother's husband and brother were bludgeoned to death by rioters.

Her husband, Benny Higdon, 21, her brother, Robert Owens, 15, and a friend — all of them white — were pulled from their car May 17 in Liberty City, a predominantly black section of Miami, and beaten with boards and chunks of concrete. They were returning from a fishing trip and were unaware of the disturbances.

The federal government promised $71 million to rebuild the riot-torn areas, but Mrs. Higdon, 20, had no money for rent and a baby on the way. So she and her three small children moved in with her parents. The funeral in their native Alabama cost $6,000, and she heard no words of comfort from authorities.

"There is no justice in the world," Mrs. Higdon's mother, Frances Owens, said earlier this month. "Sometimes I think about it and I just explode."

Then the telephone calls and letters started coming in from around the country. Strangers, touched by news accounts of the family's plight, wanted to help. "It really shocked me," Mrs. Higdon said. "It showed a lot of people do care."

The donations have been small. "Five dollars here, $10 there," she said. "It's still a lot to me."

One stranger, Miami fire inspector Charles Allison, started a fund for the family. Collections at the city's 13 firehouses and outside donations have totaled nearly $6,000, he said Sunday.

Mrs. Higdon filed a claim with a state compensation program that provides up to $10,000 to victims of crime. It will be three to six months before she knows if she qualifies.

Higdon and his companions were the first to die in three days of racial rioting that claimed 18 lives and left more than $100 million in property damage.

Five young black men have been charged with first-degree murder in the case.

They face trial in September. Police say they couldn't have made the arrests without help from the local black community.

Mrs. Higdon said she will always feel bitter about her husband's death.

"The bitterness is because of how it happened," she said. "Just some kids going down a road and a bunch of black people yanking them out of the car."

She said she did not hold her husband's death against all blacks.

"We don't hate everybody. You can't, because everybody didn't do it."

After her baby is born in September, Mrs. Higdon said she and her parents may move to Knoxville, Tenn., a few hours' drive from Higdon, Ala., where she and her husband grew up.

"The boys are buried up there on a mountain and we can take flowers," she said. "I just can't take living down here much more. Everybody's been nice, but it's not too far from the house where they got killed. I can hardly stand to go out."
