Assassination try made on former Iranian minister

PARIS (AP) — A band of would-be assassins shot their way into former Iranian Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar's apartment building today, killed a French policeman and a woman neighbor, but could not get past an armored door protecting the Iranian exile leader, police reported.

All three attackers were captured, one of them with facial wounds suffered in a gunfight with police, authorities said. Three other policemen were reported wounded.

In Tehran, an Iranian group called "Guards of Islam" announced it had condemned Bakhtiar to death, but it made no mention of the abortive assassination attempt.

First reports said there may have been four or five terrorists, but authorities said they believed there were only three. Police said they had not yet been identified but were believed to be Arabs and were 25 to 30 years old.

Bakhtiar, leader of exile forces opposed to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime, was not hurt. He later told French radio the terrorists were "professional killers that the government in Tehran sent to France." Sadegh Khalkhali, a leading revolutionary judge in Iran, has said repeatedly that killers dispatched by Iran would hunt Bakhtiar down.

The police spokesman gave this account of the attack.

The three gunmen told the policeman outside the apartment building in the posh Paris suburb of Neuilly that they were journalists. Once inside the lobby, they started shooting and ran upstairs.

When they reached the door of Bakhtiar's apartment on the third floor, they shot a police guard dead and wounded another. Hearing the noise, a neighbor woman, Yvonne Stein, 45, opened her door and was shot. She died later in a hospital.

SUPER WOMAN? — Not exactly, at least not in the car-lifting sense. Officer Patricia Dunham helped investigate an attempted theft of a 1980-model car from a transport parked at the Holiday Inn, Thursday night. The theft failed, but the cars rolled on the transport, and three of them were damaged.

Freed hostage given rousing sendoff today

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Freed hostage Richard Queen left for the United States today, one week after his surprise release from Iran by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime following 250 days in captivity.

With a hug and kiss for his teary-eyed nurse, Queen, who is suffering from multiple sclerosis, walked stiffly aboard a U.S. Air Force C-141 Starlifter hospital plane for the 10-hour flight to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington, D.C.

Queen was freed from occupied U.S. Embassy in Tehran after Iranian officials said they could not treat him. Since Saturday, he has been undergoing tests and treatment at the Air Force Hospital in Wiesbaden, where his illness was diagnosed.

The 28-year-old bachelor was accompanied on the ambulance ride from the hospital to the Rhine Main air base by his nurse, Maj. Tomi Carner, of Sanibel, Fla.

He was helped up the seven steps to the plane by a medic.

Queen's parents, Harold and Jeanne, also boarded the medical evacuation flight. They were reunited with their son last Friday, shortly after he arrived in Switzerland from Tehran. He was transferred to Wiesbaden on Saturday.

Officials said Queen was accompanied by two State Department physicians, a 10-member medical crew and a flight crew of nine. Thirty other patients were also aboard the flight, the officials said.

Secretary of State Edmund Muskie was scheduled to welcome Queen and his parents in Washington, officials said.

Before leaving for his flight, Queen got a noisy send-off from about 200 doctors and nurses at the Wiesbaden hospital.

Despite the early morning chill, the white-coated staff members stood on the steps of the hospital, clapping, waving and shouting their farewells under a banner proclaiming, "Good Luck Richard," as he was wheeled out of the building to a waiting ambulance.

The young diplomat was held hostage since Nov. 4. Fifty-two others remain captive in Iran.

GNP declines sharply through June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy tumbled at an annual rate of 9.1 percent from April through June, equal to the worst quarterly decline during the last recession in 1974-75, the government said today.

The steep decline in real gross national product — the inflation-adjusted output of goods and services — proved even greater than Carter administration economists initially predicted.

They had expected a drop of between 8 percent and 9 percent, seasonally adjusted.

During the first quarter of 1980, the gross national product rose 1.2 percent.

Despite the precipitous plunge last quarter, administration economists point to new signs the economy will begin to recover soon, including a sharp increase in housing starts, lower interest rates and easing inflation.

Nevertheless, private and government economists now see unemployment reaching about 9 percent and then remaining somewhere around 8.5 percent through most of next year. Moreover, signs of industrial lag continue with production at the nation's factories expected to continue declining for several more months.

The Commerce Department reported that before adjustment for inflation, the nation's output from April through June stood at an annual rate just exceeding $2.52 trillion, slightly above the first quarter level.

However, when adjusted for double-digit inflation, the nation's output was at an annual rate of $1.41 trillion.

An annual rate figure indicates what would happen over the course of a year if this quarter's economic conditions continued for three more quarters. Inflation, as measured by the so-called implicit price deflator rose 10.4 percent in the second quarter, compared with a 9.5 percent increase in the first quarter, the department said.

The decrease in real output last quarter was attributed to a sharp 9.6 percent falloff in final sales, following a 1.5 percent rise in the first quarter, the department said.

The sales plunge occurred primarily in the consumer sector, where people cut back purchases in the housing and auto sectors.

The output figures are preliminary and will be revised in coming weeks, the department said.

The decline in the GNP reported today was identical to the worst drop during the last recession, when the gross national product fell at an annual rate of 9.1 percent in the first quarter of 1975.

But George Schultze, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, predicted a recovery from the recession will begin soon, although he said it would be a slow recovery.

Schultze pointed to indications that the housing slump has bottomed out and auto sales — while still down — are improving.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that the long-slumping housing industry turned around in June, with construction starts surging 30.4 percent and building permits up more than 28 percent.

Starts of privately owned single- and multi-family houses rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.019 million units last month, compared with 913,000 in May, the department said.

While June's figures clearly mark a turnabout in the depressed industry, last month's activity still was far below levels of a year earlier, the Commerce Department reported.

Department officials said the 538,600 single- and multi-family housing units started during the first six months of this year were down 38 percent from the 867,000 during first half of 1979.

Last June, housing starts stood at an annual rate of 1.91 million units.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Moon Landrieu called the June housing figures an important sign that the Carter administration's economic policies are working.

Bush key to GOP strategy

Northeast, Midwest to be target

DETROIT (AP) — Ronald Reagan and George Bush, accepting their roles as the Republican presidential ticket at a festival of party unity, are opening a campaign that will be directed at traditionally Democratic strongholds in the Northeast and industrial Midwest.

"We're obviously going to concentrate in the Eastern and Central time zones," Drew Lewis, a top Reagan campaign aide, said Thursday night, on the floor of the GOP National Convention as delegates waited to hear the acceptance speeches of the two nominees.

Bush, who spent his youth in Massachusetts and Connecticut and was educated in the Northeast, is a key element in that strategy.

Accepting the presidential nomination he had sought for 12 years, Reagan expressed his strategy with a speech that called on Americans to cross party lines "to build a new consensus with all those across the land who share a community of values embodied in these words: family, work, neighborhood, peace and freedom."

Reagan closed his acceptance speech by urging the delegates to "begin our crusade with a moment of silence." With that, he bowed his head, his eyes closed. The hall fell silent.

A moment later, Reagan opened his eyes, jerked his head upright and said, "God bless America." The delegates erupted into a tumultuous demonstration.

Reagan, Bush and their families stood on the podium waving to the joyful throng. Joining the 1980 Republican ticket on the podium was former President Gerald R. Ford and his wife, Betty.

All day Wednesday, even through the balloting that gave him the presidential nomination, Reagan had sought a way to convince Ford to take the vice presidential nomination and when the negotiations failed settled on Bush as his choice and made a dramatic midnight appearance before the convention to announce it.

Thursday's final session of the convention had none of the high drama of the night before.

'Hangar 18' will be shown here Aug. 1

The chance for Big Springers to see themselves on the silver screen is just around the corner, announced Leroy Tillery, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, today.

A special showing of the movie "Hangar 18," filmed largely in and around the city, has been scheduled for 7 p.m., Aug. 1, said Tillery.

He has been in contact with executives of Sunn-Schick Pictures, Inc., the movie's producers, for much of this week. It is hoped that two prints of the film will be made available in order to accommodate a larger crowd.

"If we just get one print, we can sell about 400 tickets. If we get two prints, we can accommodate nearly 600," said Tillery.

The local premiere will take place at the Ritz Theater, and will be attended by "eight to 10" Sunn-Schick executives, said Tillery. Tickets will be sold in advance at the chamber office at $5 apiece.

More information about the event will be forthcoming as plans solidify.

AND NOW, THE CAMPAIGN — Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan and running mate George Bush are joined by former President Gerald Ford Thursday night at the finale of the 1980 Republican Convention.

Howard College experiences summer enrollment increase

Enrollment at Howard College has experienced more than a 54 percent increase for the second summer session over the same period last year, announced Jan Dunagan, registrar at Howard College.

Howard College has enrolled a total of 319 students. This compares to a total of 206 students for this same period last year.

The Howard College campus and Lamesa campus have a combined total of 242 students, 12 of those enrolled in the Emergency Medical Technology program offered in Lamesa.

Forty-five students are enrolled in the LVN program in San Angelo, while the Big Spring campus has registered 20 students in its LVN program.

Contact hours (actual class time) have also experienced an increase over this same period last year. Total contact hours for the second summer session last year were 29,770. This session's total is 45,569. There was a total of 12,864 academic contact hours and 16,906 vocational-technical hours for the second summer session last year. This session's total is 45,569; with 14,856 academic contact hours, and 30,713 vocational-technical contact hours. This is 15,799 more contact hours over the second summer session of last year.

"This increase is important," said Mike Bruner, vice president for business affairs at HC. "As Howard College's funding is based on the amount of contact hours received per semester, the more contact hours we have, the more funding we receive from the state."

Police beat Burglars hit animal hospitals

Maybe it was cat burglars that hit two animal hospitals in the city, Thursday night. Intruders broke into the Highland Animal Center on South Highway 87, sometime Thursday night, and made off with a CB radio, some cash and possibly some drugs meant to be used on animals. Because all the cabinets in the center had been ransacked, officials are unsure of all that is missing. Intruders also struck at the Thompson Veterinary Hospital, 1701 W. 4th, sometime Thursday night. Stolen were six bottles of animal pain-killing drugs. Total loss has not been estimated. Police arrested a 58-year-old, Roswell, N.M. man after the suspect stopped his truck dead in the middle of the road on the 100 block of South Gregg, 12:30 a.m. today. As Officers Troy Hogue and Mike Dawson approached the cab of the truck, the driver reportedly appeared to be "arguing with himself."

Officers learned that the man thought there was a passenger in the truck with him. There wasn't, and the officers had to drag the driver from the truck. As they did so, the truck rolled forward and struck the patrol car parked in front of it. The driver was transported to the Big Spring Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Three brand new cars were damaged in an attempted theft, Thursday night. The thief had attempted unsuccessfully to steal a 1980-model auto from a transport truck from Arlington while it was parked at the Holiday Inn. The cars rolled, and three of them rammed together while still on the transport. Cost of the damage is unknown.

A thief drove off with a motorcycle belonging to Lucy Piper, 1309 Wood, while it was parked at 1205 E. 11th, early Thursday afternoon. At 4:20 p.m. Thursday, police arrested a 28-year-old male suspect in the theft on the 1100 block of S. Runnels, and returned the $400 bike to its owner.

The windshield of a pickup and the back window of a car were smashed at the home of George Zafonotis, 426 Dallas, 1:45 a.m. Thursday. Zafonotis saw a red and white Ford pickup leaving the scene with three men inside. Damage was estimated at $225.

Vandals also broke the windshield on a 1977 Chevrolet belonging to Veta Williams, 433 Edwards, sometime Thursday morning, with a large rock. Damage was estimated at $200.

Police arrested a 25-year-old local man at the scene of an accident, 8:43 p.m. Thursday. Checking the man's car, officers allegedly found a .22 caliber revolver and a small amount of marijuana.

Thieves lifted the evaporative cooler from a window at the home of Lonnie Wrightsil, 506 N. Lancaster, sometime Wednesday night. The heater was valued at $75.

Thieves also stole 40 letters from an illuminated sign at the Medicine Shoppe, 100L S. Gregg, early Thursday morning. Loss was estimated at $50.

A 1976 Lincoln Continental was stolen from the driveway at the home of John Birdwell, 2311 Allendale, Thursday morning. Value of the auto has not been estimated.

Norma Molina, 507 N.E. 6th, told police that someone had stolen her male German shepherd from her house, early Thursday morning. The pooch was valued at $100.

Burglars stole $15 cash from a wallet inside a dresser drawer at the home of Margaret Jimenez, 207 Benton, early Thursday morning. Officers will investigate further today.

Joan L. Sanders, 600 S. San Antonio, reported that two blouses were stolen from her home, Thursday night. Cost of the items has not been estimated.

Two mishaps were reported, Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Lee B. Alexander, 2002 Merrily, and Patricia A. Ochoa, Route 2, collided in the parking lot of the McDonald's Restaurant, 8:46 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Doretta A. Menefee, Andrews, and Danny C. Smithwick, 709 Aylford, collided on the 1000 block of Birdwell, 5:30 p.m.

ROLLING ALONG — Police Lt. John Wolf peers inside a truck that had been driven by a mixed-up man on the 100 block of South Gregg, early this morning. The driver had allegedly been mumbling to himself inside the cab of the truck which had been stopped in the middle of the road. When officers pulled him from the truck, it rolled into their patrol car.

Officials looking for cause

NEW YORK (AP) — City and state officials are trying to determine what repairs had been made by a private contractor on an East Side apartment building rocked by a gas-leak explosion that injured 24 people.

The explosion blew out partitions between four apartments on the third floor and showered the street with glass and debris when two maintenance men tried to light a gas stove Wednesday night. The gas had been turned off in the 16-story Parker Crescent building July 10 because of a reported leak, officials said.

Porn king files appeal

ATLANTA (AP) — Convicted porn king Michael Thevis has filed an appeal of his racketeering conviction, claiming that the federal judge who tried him committed dozens of errors.

Thevis was convicted Oct. 21 in Rome, Ga., of trying to monopolize the peepshow and pornographic publication industry through arson, murder and extortion. Three of Thevis' co-defendants also asked in federal appeals court that their convictions be overturned.

Thevis was sentenced to life in prison on a murder conspiracy charge in the trial, along with 20 years on the racketeering counts.

Case before grand jury

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The case of two men charged with transporting into the United States 13 aliens who died in the Arizona desert will likely go to a federal grand jury next week.

Elias Nunez Guardado, 26, of El Salvador, and Mateo Preciado Navarro, 54, of Sonota, Mexico, waived their rights to a preliminary hearing in U.S. Magistrate Court Thursday.

The two men are charged with one count each of transporting illegal aliens into the country in connection with the July 4 weekend incident. Twelve Salvadorans survived the ordeal and are expected to be material witnesses in the case.

Cases to be dismissed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Authorities say the cases against a man and a woman linked to the Hells Angels racketeering-drug trial will be dismissed.

Prosecutors said they intended to drop charges against Rudy Witt, 37, of Sacramento, Calif., and Lynette Rudy of Pinole, Calif. Witt, who was accused of conspiracy and in custody for 13 months, and Miss Rudy, who is charged with drug violations but had her case severed because of pregnancy, were to have been tried with 24 club members this fall.

Witt was among 18 defendants tried in October when a jury failed to reach a verdict on conspiracy charges and a mistrial was declared.

Plea entering delayed

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — Lawrence Sigmund Bittaker's entering of a plea to charges that he raped and killed five teen-age girls has been delayed until July 28.

Bittaker was arraigned Thursday, but stood mute before Superior Court Judge Bernard Lawler. Bittaker refused to even acknowledge his identity.

Bittaker is charged with 27 felony counts, including murder, kidnapping and rape. His defense attorney, Albert Garber, said Bittaker wasn't psychologically ready to enter a plea.

Complaint unfounded

David Brown, Jr., 1506-B Wood, was released from custody when Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin dismissed a complaint of threatening with a deadly weapon.

Brown was arrested Thursday by sheriff's deputies when his sister-in-law told them Brown had threatened to shoot a man. The complaint turned out to be unfounded, said Heflin.

Ornelas posts $5,000 bond

Ricky Ornelas, 17, 508 NE 10, was released on $5,000 bond Wednesday set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Ornelas is accused of aggravated assault of Robert Munoz with a knife on July 11. Charges were filed Monday by Detective Dave Spillman in the office of West.

Ornelas was arrested Wednesday.

Bromm draws foreign duty

ADANA, Turkey — S-Sgt. Charles W. Bromm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bromm of 518 Glenwood, Grand Rapids, Mich., has arrived for duty here at Incirlik Common Defense Installation.

His wife, Neita, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Hodges of 1006 E. 12th, Big Spring, Texas.

Commissioners work on budget

Howard County Commissioners meet today at 3:15 p.m. in continuation of a budget workshop.

Commissioners recessed Monday afternoon and reconvened Wednesday.

A pay hike for county employees has been discussed. Also, commissioners have discussed changing the tax rate on private property to comply with mandates of Senate Bill 621.

Deaths

Bess Kennedy
Mrs. George (Bessie) Kennedy, 77, died Wednesday morning at her home. Services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Trinity Baptist Church with Dr. Claude N. Craven, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Kavanaugh praises vols

'Verbal interaction' importance stressed

Volunteer work in state hospitals is a "crucial factor" in a dehumanizing age, said State Commissioner of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Dr. John J. Kavanaugh while addressing the Volunteer Services Council at their quarterly luncheon Thursday.

"Despite advances in an electronic age there is still a great need for humanism," said Kavanaugh. "Doctors have become so involved with hooking people up to machines, they forget the personal contact with the patient."

The importance of "verbal interaction" can not be replaced with a machine, Kavanaugh told the crowd of 180 gathered at the Allred Building at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Kavanaugh was identified as a "volunteer advocate" in an introduction by Mrs. John (Lexeen) Weaver, Volunteer Services State Council chairman.

Kavanaugh has met with 22 of 28 local volunteer services councils in Texas since his appointment as acting commissioner in 1978, said Mrs. Weaver.

Volunteer work in Texas has equaled 424 full-time employees and $5.8 million in benefits, said Kavanaugh.

Locally volunteers contributed $49,500 in cash and $213,000 in food, prizes and gifts.

The Big Spring council put three on the Texas Volunteer Services Council: Mayor Pro-Tem Jack Y. Smith, Lexene Weaver and Edie Brasher, said Kavanaugh.

State Rep.-elect Larry Don Shaw, and Betty Ezzell, wife of State Rep. Mike Ezell were introduced.

Assistant Commissioners Charles Scholz and James Adkins also were introduced.

Vealmoor man is found hanged to death in closet

Dewey Hanks, Knott Route, opened the locked door of his son, Dugan Dude Hanks', room Thursday night to find the 37-year-old hung by a belt from the clothes rod in a closet.

The son was last seen alive at 4 p.m. when he went to his upstairs bed room and locked the door after retrieving the mail and the newspaper. Dugan lived with his parents at their house two miles south of Vealmoor.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hanks called him for supper at 7 p.m. there was no answer. They found the door locked when they went upstairs to check. Thinking it strange that there was no sound of a fan running in the room, they opened the door.

The senior Hanks found the son in the closet and took him downstairs, still thinking he was alive. The Howard County Sheriff's office was called soon after.

Deputy Sgt. Robert Puente received a call from the Big Spring Police dispatcher at 7:30 p.m. He and Reserve Deputy Faustino Rios arrived at the house at 7:38 p.m.

Dewey Hanks met the pair in front of the house and took them inside where the son's body lay. Puente did not find a pulse and called Justice of the Peace Bobby West.

Dugan had had sustained mental problems for some time.

Residents of Cross Plains will pray for rain

CROSS PLAINS — It might have been the thing that worked for Sweetwater, so Cross Plains is going to try it — praying for rain, that is.

Ministers of the community are holding a prayer session for rain at 8:15 this evening in downtown Cross Plains.

After the residents of Sweetwater engaged in a public prayer session last month, more than five inches of rain was trapped in some gauges within the area and the Sweetwater reservoirs caught a two months' supply of water.

Weather Current heat wave worst on record

By the Associated Press

The current Texas heat wave today became the worst heat wave ever in the Dallas-Fort Worth area as the mercury climbed past the 100-degree mark for the 26th consecutive day.

A National Weather Service spokesman said in the old record heat wave of 25 consecutive days of temperatures over 100 the average daily temperature was 104.5 degrees, compared with the current average through Thursday of 107.2.

The reading at Dallas-Fort Worth was expected to reach 107 or 108 today, forecasters said.

Both Dallas and Wichita Falls recorded 108 Thursday and several Texas cities had readings above 100.

Forecasts called for a few scattered thunderstorms in Southeast Texas and in the mountains of Southwest Texas. The remainder of the state was to have clear skies and continued hot temperatures.

Highs today were to range from around 90 along the coast to near 108 in North Central Texas and in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

There were no immediate reports of rainfall amounts from Southeast Texas.

Local credit union's directors laud Choate

Wade Choate, treasurer and general manager of Citizens Federal Credit Union, was recently recognized by the credit union's board of directors for his 15 years of service to the local financial institution.

Choate, who also served as mayor of Big Spring from 1972 to 1980, went to work for the large credit union in June 1965, just ten years after the credit union was organized.

During the board's regular meeting Thursday, credit union board president Cal Lowry discussed Choate's numerous accomplishments as manager of Citizens Federal Credit Union.

Among the most notable of these accomplishments cited by Lowry were the credit union's phenomenal growth under his leadership, his decision to add many services that had previously been unavailable to credit unions, the decision to convert the former military credit union to a community credit union, and the construction of the modern facility on FM 700.

Choate's first credit union experience, however, was not with Citizens Federal Credit Union in 1961. He served as organizer and first president of the Howard County Employees Federal Credit Union in Big Spring. Since that beginning, Choate has worked extensively within the credit union movement on the local, chapter, state, and national levels.

His extensive credit union activities at the state level — eight years as either an alternate director or as a director of the Texas Credit Union League — helped earn him an appointment as the first representative from a federal credit union to be named to the State Credit Union Commission in January 1973 by Gov. Preston Smith.

Elected in 1972 to represent the Texas Credit Union League as a director to the Credit Union National Association, Choate joined ten other Texas representatives to the national organization in Madison, Wisc. National directors from all 50 states, Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico are chosen due to their outstanding achievements in the credit union movement and are responsible for establishing policies and procedures for the entire credit union movement.

Choate believes strongly in the credit union movement and the role and functions of credit unions in providing assistance to their members. He also has strong con-

AUSTIN — In an effort to dispel concern that some Mexican fruits and vegetables that cross the border are contaminated with illegal pesticide residues, officials of the Mexican government and a national growers' union met with Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown earlier this month to spread the word that their country's produce is well-regulated.

Millions of dollars of fresh produce from Mexico are sold in the United States every year.

According to Jorge Ibarra Castaneda, president of Union Nacional de Produccion Horticola, "We are probably more strict in our use of agricultural chemicals than some farmers in the United States."

With Ibarra were Jorge Gutierrez Samperio, representing Mexico's Secretary of Agriculture; Marco Antonio Martinez, director of Mexico's pesticide program; and Raul Ramirez and Guillermo Cota, union board members.

The Mexican government tests for pesticide residues by sampling produce at trade enterprises, packing plants and growing areas and sending them to laboratories located around the country.

The government also publishes an Annually Authorized Pesticide Tolerances Manual which lists pesticide tolerances for more than 40 crops. In addition to these and other safeguards, Mexico has implemented a bilateral agreement with the U.S. to sample agricultural exports and imports to keep residue levels within legal limits.

Mexico has just purchased highly sophisticated testing equipment in the U.S. that will be added to their program, and 10 chemists are in this country being trained to use it.

Brown said he met with the officials because pesticide residue is of concern to both sides of the border. "Trade is a two-way door," said Brown.

One of the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board members was erroneously reported on page one of Thursday's Herald as absent from the board's Wednesday meeting.

Don McKinney was absent, not Billy T. Smith as the story reported.

The Herald regrets any embarrassment caused by the error.

Residents of Cross Plains will pray for rain

CROSS PLAINS — It might have been the thing that worked for Sweetwater, so Cross Plains is going to try it — praying for rain, that is.

Ministers of the community are holding a prayer session for rain at 8:15 this evening in downtown Cross Plains.

After the residents of Sweetwater engaged in a public prayer session last month, more than five inches of rain was trapped in some gauges within the area and the Sweetwater reservoirs caught a two months' supply of water.

Weather Current heat wave worst on record

By the Associated Press

The current Texas heat wave today became the worst heat wave ever in the Dallas-Fort Worth area as the mercury climbed past the 100-degree mark for the 26th consecutive day.

A National Weather Service spokesman said in the old record heat wave of 25 consecutive days of temperatures over 100 the average daily temperature was 104.5 degrees, compared with the current average through Thursday of 107.2.

The reading at Dallas-Fort Worth was expected to reach 107 or 108 today, forecasters said.

FRESH WATER FROM AN OLD WELL GIVE LOVE

"I remember a young man pleading with me to trade my cold soup for his bread," Benno Fischer told me.

Benno, an associate architect of a church, was describing his experience with the millions of Jews thrown into concentration camps during World War II.

"I was so hungry and knew that the soup would satisfy my hunger more than the bread," he continued. "But this man was dying, so each day I set the table by his bedside and slowly bit off pieces of the bland crust of bread."

"When the Americans finally arrived, we were taken to the nearest hospital given a physical exam," Benno explained. "The doctor told me I lived for one reason: Out of love for my fellow prisoner, I traded my soup for the bread. The bread had enough nutrition in it to keep me alive. The soup had no source of nourishment. Loving is giving and giving is loving! And in giving love, you find life."

Our hoarders make it hard on mints

If business people in this area ask for pennies to round out a transaction, be sympathetic. There is a nationwide shortage of such coins.

The government is turning out 60 million of the coppers daily but hoarders apparently are queering the Treasury Department's plan to keep the cents in circulation.

The shortage of such coins apparently is more pronounced in the east than in other parts of the country but it exists everywhere.

THE HOARDERS anticipate a shortage of copper, which could only force up the prices. The metal now sells for about 90 cents a pound. Mint officials say the price would have to go to at least $170 a pound in order for anyone to make any money at it. Some of the banks around the nation are offering as much as $1.25 for a dollar's worth of pennies. There are supposed to be 35 billion pennies in circulation but as quickly as the banks release the coins some of the people squirrel them away in jars, rather than carry them around. There is nothing more irritating to a man than to walk around with a pocket full of pennies and a woman dislikes the thought of having her purse weighted down with coppers.

The practice of the people to hoard the pennies can only fuel the fires of inflation. Some merchants who find they can't make change are prone to level off prices to the nearest nickel.

Metal of any kind is getting into such short supply that the time may come when we deal exclusively in paper currency or with a credit card. The price of gold has long been out of sight and it appears recently that silver would join it in the stratosphere.

When Charlie Chaplain, the famed movie clown, was in his prime, he refused to carry coins of any kind around on his person. He would either deal exclusively in currency or have an accompanying lackey pay his bills for him.

CHAPLAIN'S WAS an admirable financial state in which to operate. Now, circumstances may dictate that we all function similarly. The time appears to be approaching when metals become too valuable to man in industrial pursuits to waste them printing coins of the realm.

The State National Bank here is curtailing the sale of pennies to collectors in order to have enough for business transactions, according to Charley Havens.

Pennies are given out only to regular bank customers who need the coins to make change in their businesses.

Even now, State National is not getting as many pennies as it asks for from the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas. The Federal Reserve people prorate pennies out to banks so that no institution gets shortchanged. Most banks get penny delivery every two weeks from the Federal Reserve Bank.

Are they fun?

as it turns out, the nearest restaurant is 2 1/2 miles away and, likely as not, doesn't serve breakfast.

You're apt to get too much sun, with the result that your nose peels. Either that or you pick up a case of athlete's foot by walking around some swimming pool without your shoes.

If you go to the mountains, you likely wind up wishing you had planned to spend your leisure time on the sea coast. It works both ways.

If you included plans to see a big league ball game or a professional golf tournament on your trip, chances are your favorite player, renowned for hitting home runs, never gets the ball out of the infield or the golfer you like to follow decides to pass that particular tournament.

Checking out time in some motels is 9 a.m., or 30 minutes earlier than you had planned to sleep.

The best advice I've heard about vacation is: Take more money and fewer clothes than you think you'll need. Come to think of it, if you spend more money than you had budgeted, chances are you'll have to pawn some of the clothes to get home.

The best thing about any vacation is being able to talk about it after getting back home. After all, who knows if you exaggerate a little?

I often think that we look upon vacations as fun only when we view them in retrospect. In execution, they rarely work out as well as they're planned. They're fine for kids, who don't have to do any of the planning, and the banks, from which you usually get the money to underwrite such a venture.

It doesn't take you long once you hit the road to realize the sharks are out there — waiting to attack the pocket where you keep your wallet.

Some families approach vacations with detail not unlike the Allied Commanders worked out details for the invasion of Normandy during WW II.

Usually you start your planning with insect repellent, medicine to cure motion sickness and balm to ease the curse of a rash.

The mosquitoes you run into on your veritable Isle of Paradise are invariably worse and more prolific than those you have learned to live with at home.

The accommodations you booked back in March aren't quite what you expected. For one thing, management neglected to add the tax to the estimated cost. The registrations clerk always manages to put you next to a party that goes on all night. And,

Hostage politics

Joseph Kraft

The release of Richard Queen provided a rare bit of good news from Iran — but also something more. The event shattered the administration's claim that there was no responsible figure to deal with in Tehran. It deepened the suspicion that domestic political considerations have governed President Carter's handling of the hostage question all along.

Back in November, with the Tehran embassy besieged, the president thrust himself forward as a take-charge leader. He visited with families of the hostages. He negotiated with diplomats shuttling between Washington and Tehran. He left unlit lights on the White House Christmas tree as an indication the hostages were "a constant preoccupation of mine." And he used his deep involvement in Iran as a reason for not entering the primary debates with Sen. Kennedy.

WITH THE FAILURE of the rescue mission in April, it became plain that there was no more political mileage in the hostages. Kennedy was a goner by that time anyhow. Carter came out of the Rose Garden, barnstormed through the country and began to profile himself against Ronald Reagan by visits abroad. When it was observed that Carter seemed, suddenly, to have turned his back on the hostages, the charge was denied in the most vehement way. At the American Embassy in Madrid on June 26 for example, the president said of the hostages: "This problem is constantly on my mind, and I never meet with a foreign leader or in a group of foreign leaders without very early raising this problem with them."

But the circumstances of Mr. Queen's release falsify that claim. The president was fishing in Alaska when Queen was let out and his first reaction to the news was one of skepticism. Far from being as once asserted "constantly preoccupied" by the hostages Carter had taken his distances. The fact is that his pattern of behavior on the hostages corresponds exactly to political advantage.

Precisely because of his early personal commitment, Carter was under tremendous pressure to do something about the hostages. When dealing with the Ayatollah Khomeini proved hard, the president fell into a famous trap — the mirror-image fallacy. Basically the administration bought the mirror-image fallacy that traditionally befuddles "enlightened moderates" confronted with revolutionary regimes. The fallacy lies in the notion that, on the other side, there are sensible, responsible people (people even as you and I) who would be prepared to compromise their way to an acceptable outcome if only the militant hard-liners could be eased out of the picture.

Even before the shah fell, the administration and the State Department were casting around for a middle-of-the-road civilian coalition as a replacement. Though no such animal existed in Iran, the administration insisted on finding it even amidst the frenzy that swept in the regime of the Ayatollah Khomeini. Thus as soon as the hostages were seized, a line of communication was opened up (through Ramsey Clark among others) to Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan. As it happened, the administration's embrace only made it easier for the religious militants around the Ayatollah to force Bazargan from office.

STILL THE administration persisted in the effort to find good guys in Tehran. Through Secretary General Kurt Waldheim of the United Nations, it began talks with Abolhasan Bani-Sadr — first in his role as foreign minister; after January in his role as president of Iran. In the course of those talks, Carter made significant concessions.

He accepted the principle of an international tribunal sitting in judgment on relations between past American presidents and the shah of Iran. He bound the shah out of this country and through Panama to Egypt. He suspended a declared policy of economic sanctions against Iran, and held his hand on military action.

When the negotiations collapsed, the administration had a ready-made alibi. There was no government in Tehran. Only chaos and confusion.

But the release of Queen belies that excuse. It shows that there is a ruler in Tehran with authority to cut one hostage out of the pack and effect his release in an almost surgical matter at a time of high turbulence associated with an attempted coup d'etat. That ruler, now as in the past, is the Ayatollah Khomeini.

In other words, the failure to win release of the hostages is not a matter of crazy circumstance. It is a matter of inability to read a political situation correctly, of willingness to pay out concessions to an uncompromising regime in return for nothing, of dribbling away bargaining strength. The hostages are as far from being free now as they ever were. The country has suffered a national humiliation — not because of the nature of things, but mainly because of the policies of Jimmy Carter.

Moto for VP

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — When Ronnie offered me the vice president's job on the Republican ticket a few weeks ago I was sorely tempted to take it. But at the last minute I told him, "I could do it, Ronnie, but it would be wrong."

I knew he was disappointed. "But you're the only one in the party who thinks the way I do, except of course for Nancy. We could make a great team," he pleaded.

"IT'S TRUE," I said, "that we both believe in the same things and a strong dollar and a weak Soviet Union, but I think you have to balance the ticket with someone more liberal than either one of us, if we hope to get back the worldwide respect America has lost in the last four years."

"Do you have any suggestions?" he wanted to know.

"I do. But I don't know if you'll go for it."

"Try me," he said.

"I believe you should have a Japanese person for vice president."

"Do you mean a Japanese-American?"

"No," I told him, "I mean a Japanese-Japanese. You see the Japanese are taking over anyway and they might as well have a say in our government. You just read where the Ford Co. was going to become partners with Toyota. The Chrysler people are in bed with Mitsubishi and Hitachi has announced they soon will start building computers in the U.S. It would be very helpful to the American economy to have a Japanese businessman as our vice president."

"I don't know if it's such a great idea. There are still some people who remember Pearl Harbor," he said.

"There are a lot more people riding around in Hondas, Ronnie," I said. "Look, the Japanese have the image of efficiency, productivity and discipline. That's what this country needs more than anything else right now. A Japanese vice president of the United States would serve notice on the world that you intend to make America No. 1 again even if it means dumping Sony TV sets all over the globe."

"But I don't know any Japanese businessmen. How would I be sure that I could work with one in the White House?"

"THAT'S THE BEAUTY of it. You never would know. They are very polite and very quiet and would kill themselves rather than complain about not being anything as vice president. But there's no one like them when it comes to making a single reflex camera. The Japanese are going to bail out every U.S. business in the next 10 years, so why not select one of them that can help us now?"

Ronnie said he needed time to think about it.

Well, it's obvious he didn't take my suggestion, because not one Japanese-Japanese name ever came up in the vice-presidential selection process. Some say the conservatives balked at the idea, while others maintained that the only way they could get a Japanese businessman to run on the Reagan ticket was to get the White House to buy 1,500 Datsun cars.

"Nope... never saw these political-action fellows before, but they can help me fight if they like!"

Patient's confidence is vital

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have always been one to have complete faith in what my doctor tells me, but we have a daughter-in-law who constantly disagrees with her doctor's advice because someone else's doctor says "this is the way."

For example, our daughter has a six-month-old baby whose doctor had him on low-fat milk and water at about three months, vegetables at five months and at six months some meat. It constantly causes friction between the two girls when the daughter-in-law says, "Well, so and so is taking care of a foster child and the doctor for that organization says nothing but formula."

It is very upsetting because it is my daughter's first baby and she is a good mother, and it worries her to think maybe she isn't doing right, even though she trusts her doctor the same as I.

I am really grateful that these two are not at home at the same time because it certainly causes a lot of friction. I never can think of an answer quickly enough to cool down the situation.

Why does advice conflict? — Concerned grandmother.

Advice conflicts because doctors are individuals, each with individual experience and convictions. I am sure both these infants will thrive and not be nutritionally shortchanged.

You have hit on an important topic, the trust of the patient in the doctor, and that is why I selected your letter. It is most important that a patient have confidence in his doctor. That does not mean he cannot ask questions. But instructions should be followed. When neighbors or relatives offer free advice, they should be ignored. They are not doing any service, but are destroying the trust a patient has in the doctor.

I do not say this out of any blind sense of loyalty to a profession. When I began practicing I shared an office with an older physician. He healed people through the force of his personality. It wasn't that he used different medicines than I did, but he used them differently.

Time and again I would see his patients come in appearing anxious and ill. They left with relief on their faces. I am positive he cured them with his words and kindness as much as with his medicines. It was then I began to understand the importance of this relationship a patient has with a doctor. To weaken that is wrong, no matter how well-meaning your daughter-in-law may be.

Thanks for your letter. I am saving it.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have tic douloureux in my lower jaw. Is there any cure for this? Where did the name come from? — Mrs. B.W.

Another name for tic douloureux is trigeminal neuralgia. It is a paroxysm of stabbing pain in the cheek, chin, gums or lips. The French name means "painful wince." I don't have to tell you that this is exactly what one does when the abrupt pain occurs. The pain lasts only a short time, but is of great intensity. One patient told me it is like being stabbed with an ice pick.

Usually no basis can be found for the pain, but we know that it originates in the trigeminal nerve, the one that serves the face area. Medicines help control the pain. If drugs do not work, the nerve that triggers the pain can be deadened with an injection of alcohol. It may be necessary on occasion to cut or relieve pressure on that nerve to abolish the pain completely.

Dear Dr. Donohue: In your opinion, will the wizards of tissue transplant

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have fallen into sexual deviation, although I didn't really intend to. I'm not happy and I want to get out. How can I do this? — T.Y.

DEAR T.Y.: A sexually deviant lifestyle is not God's will, and I am thankful you want to break away from it. Like any sin which grips a person, it may not be easy for you to leave it. But it is important for you to act on your desire to leave it at once; any sin, if it becomes a pattern of living, tends to make us spiritually calloused and hardened, and it becomes harder and harder to leave it.

How can you break away from this? First, commit yourself to Jesus Christ. God loves you. He loves you in spite of all your sins, and He wants to forgive you and make you part of His family. This is why Jesus Christ came — to make it possible for you to be forgiven and restored to God. He came "so that we might die to sins and live for righteousness" (1 Peter 2:24). By faith, ask Christ to come into your life and be your Lord and Savior. He ever perform one of their miracles for emphysema? — A.H.H.

If you are referring to lung transplants, I am optimistic that anything is possible. I am also optimistic that another miracle will occur before that to prevent themselves from getting emphysema by quitting the habit of smoking.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I know that there is danger of trichinosis from fresh pork. Can you also get it from salt pork or does the salt kill the germs? — Mrs. D.

You get trichinosis from infected undercooked pork. Salting or drying are not reliable ways to kill the parasite that caused trichinosis. This organism is killed by heating at 130 F or higher. Cooking meat until there is no trace of pink fluid or flesh remaining does the trick. Storage in a freezer at five degrees F for three weeks sterilizes meat also.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Donohue for his booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

has promised to do so, and He will become your constant companion and strength.

Then you will need to take definite steps to break away from your present way of living. Notice that I say "definite" — because you need to be clearcut and decisive here. Get as far away as you can from every situation and person that would tempt you to resume your old way of living. The Psalmist said, "I have kept my feet from every evil path so that I might obey your word" (Psalms 119:101). Paul told young Timothy, "Flee the evil desires of youth, and pursue righteousness, faith, love and peace, along with those who call on the Lord out of a pure heart" (2 Timothy 2:22).

Most of all, let Christ fill your life. Get into His Word, the Bible, and get into the fellowship of a church where Christ is preached. "Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Come near and He will come near to you" (James 4:8).

Dear Editor:

It's Old Settlers Reunion time again. Friday, July 25, is the big day. For Howard and Glasscock Counties, starting at 10 a.m. at Comanche Trail Park in Big Spring. A big barbecue dinner will again be served. All over 62 eat for free, all others pay $2. Just the meat bill for this affair is over $800. More funds are needed to defray expenses.

Bill Henkel, president, or Don Brooks, vice president, will accept your donation. Remember the Old Settlers Dance the same night at the Dora Roberts Exhibit Building at the fairgrounds. Hoyle Nix and the West Texas Cowboys will play for the dance. Dance tickets are now on sale at KHEM and Henkel's Super Sav at 1610 Gregg. The dance tickets are $3.50 each.

This will be the last year Bill Henkel and Don Brooks will be serving as officers of the Old Settlers Reunion. The job is open for two volunteers. Election of officers will be during the program Reunion Day.

See you at the Old Settlers Reunion Friday.

Bill Henkel, president
Don R. Brooks, vice president

Dear Editor:

I'm wondering how I can be billed for water I have already paid for. My family and I have paid water bills here since 1925 and we never failed to pay the bill. As the lady said, "Did you pull it out of the air," or maybe we're paying for all this water running down the streets of Big Spring.

President throwing punches early

Carter doesn't waste any time

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)

President Carter, throwing his hardest punches yet in the early rounds of the fall political slugfest, says Republicans offer narrow vision and simplistic solutions, and "we will whip the Republicans all over our great nation" in November.

Campaigning in Florida even before the final gavel had fallen at the Republican National Convention in Detroit, Carter lost no opportunity to take both subtle and direct jabs at newly crowned GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan.

And even with his own expected renomination still subject to the Democratic National Convention in New York next month, Carter challenged Reagan to a series of debates. The challenger quickly accepted.

In an appearance here and in Jacksonville before returning to the White House late Thursday night, the president mentioned Reagan by name just once — while calling the former California governor's tax cut proposal inflationary. At the same time, however, Carter all but promised a tax reduction program of his own next year.

Carter said the GOP is a party that "opposes Social Security, the minimum wage, Medicare; the party that brought us the disgrace of Watergate."

By contrast, he said, Democrats represent "compassion and courage" and don't try to avoid controversial issues. And, borrowing from traditional Republican themes, Carter stressed his own commitment to defense, "peace through strength," and his opposition to a "free lunch" for those able to work.

The president said the GOP was a party "with a narrow vision, whose leaders are inclined to shoot from the hip, a party that will be defeated in November if Democrats in an honest way present their record to the American people."

The president's "shoot from the hip" comment and another reference to the political risks Carter took in supporting the Panama Canal were aimed at Reagan, who opposed the treaties and has been accused of using figures without proper attribution.

The president arrived here from Sapelo Island, Ga., where he had spent the week fishing and relaxing, for a day of politicking.

As he campaigned, Carter told reporters he thought Reagan and his vice presidential nominee, George Bush, were "a very good ticket." He said he looked forward with confidence to a "hard-fought and thoughtful campaign."

While decrying the tax cut advanced by Reagan — starting with a 10 percent, across-the-board reduction effective Jan. 1 — Carter held out the strong possibility of initiating a 1981 tax cut himself after the election.

He said the GOP tax plan eventually would lower taxes 30 percent, $280 billion over five years.

"The shock of that and all that flood of extra money coming into the economy, I think, would restimulate the inflationary cycle in a devastating way," Carter said.

The president said he believed instead in a "steady course," adding, "probably a tax reduction and other stimulating efforts in 1981 is the best course to follow." Maintaining that it is difficult to resist cutting taxes this year, Carter said,

"It is not easy in an election year because it is easy to promise magic answers from massive cuts....I will not do that until I am sure that the federal government has exercised proper discipline in setting an example for the rest of the nation."

In his debate challenge, Carter told Reagan he hoped "at least three or four debates can be scheduled so that we can thoroughly discuss issues of national concern and of interest to the people of particular sections of our nation."

Later, he told reporters he wanted to debate Reagan first, with additional debates scheduled later to include independent presidential candidate John Anderson and others.

The League of Women Voters, which sponsored the 1976 presidential debates, is scheduling four debates this fall, but no decision has been made on who will participate or where they will be held.

The league has scheduled three debates for presidential candidates — one each in the second and fourth weeks of September and another in the last week of October, plus a debate between the vice presidential candidates in early October. No exact dates have been selected.

The board of trustees of the league's education fund will meet Aug. 4-7 to decide on the criteria for participation and format and to select the sites. League officials said about 200 cities have asked to host a debate.

Group on aging to hold hearing in San Angelo

The Governor's Committee on Aging will conduct a public hearing in San Angelo next Friday on a proposed, three-year State Plan on Aging.

The hearing will be at Angelo State University (Houston Harte Center), 2700 West Avenue N., beginning at 1:00 p.m.

Pup Kinkle of Austin, a member of the Governor's Committee on Aging, will be the presiding officer for the hearing. Also attending will be Bob Gibbons of Fort Worth, who serves on a statewide advisory panel for the Committee.

The San Angelo meeting is one of 10 hearings scheduled across the state on the proposed State Plan on Aging, which outlines the goals and objectives of the Governor's Committee on Aging for the three-year period of Oct. 1, 1980, through Sept. 30, 1983.

The other hearings are scheduled in Amarillo, Austin, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Pharr, Tyler and Wichita Falls, either on July 24 or July 25.

The Governor's Committee on Aging administers some $40 million in federal funds allocated annually to Texas under the Older Americans Act for the maintenance of a statewide network of services for senior citizens.

These services include nutrition programs, transportation systems, counseling programs, information and referral systems, in-home services, employment programs and assistance in acquiring facilities and developing programs for multipurpose senior centers.

In addition to these services, the proposed new plan implements mandates of the 1978 amendments to the Older Americans Act, including the establishment of a long term care ombudsman program, as part of an expanded national focus on advocacy for the vulnerable elderly.

Federal and state funding for these services are channeled through the state's 28 Area Agencies on Aging (AAAs), (several of which serve the West Texas region: the Concho Valley AAA in San Angelo, the Permian Basin AAA in Midland, the West Central Texas AAA in Abilene, and the Middle Rio Grande AAA in Carrizo Springs).

The hearings will be open for comment on the plan by interested citizens, according to Mrs. Chris Kyker, Coordinator of Aging.

Additional information about the hearings or the plan may be obtained from the Governor's Committee on Aging in Austin or the Concho Valley AAA, 5002 Knickerbocker Road, San Angelo, 76901, (915-944-9666), Mrs. Kyker said.

A REAL VACATION

They had waited for this real vacation — this long trip — for years. But this time it was different, this time he wouldn't be going back to his job.

At first, retirement seemed frightening, like being shut off from the mainstream of life. He had seen too many men age beyond their years, after their career ended. He had no wish to be on the sidelines. He and his wife could have moved to a warmer climate and just have taken it easy. He didn't want that. So, before he left home, he had a long talk with his minister.

He found that there was plenty a man his age could do. Financially secure, he could afford to volunteer for a job. In fact, through the Church there was work he could do that would spread to the farthest corners of the world.

Right now, he is enjoying this vacation. He is savoring every moment of it. Because, when he gets home, he's going to lead a full and useful life. And that's the way he wants it.

BOSTON (AP) — In a celebration lubricated with Ernest Hemingway's favorite double frozen daiquiris, the author's manuscripts, war medals and stuffed trophies go on public display for the first time tonight at the John F. Kennedy Library.

Mary Hemingway and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis, widows of the writer and the president, were among 150 Hemingway friends, family, and aficionados planning to attend the official opening.

Kennedy and Hemingway never met, but the writer's fourth wife picked the harborside building as the most suitable place for her husband's papers and artifacts.

The Hemingway Room, located on the library's fourth floor, is mainly intended for people researching the author's work and life. But folks who just want to look around will be allowed in, too.

Donna Summer marries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Donna Summer, the queen of disco rock, wore white organdy and lace as she married her longtime boyfriend, Bruce Sudano of the rock group "Brooklyn Dreams."

Ms. Summer and Sudano, both 31, were married Wednesday at The Church on The Way.

"There were no celebrities there. It was an intimate, family affair," said Ms. Summer's manager, Susan M'unao, who was maid of honor.

Sudano's brother, Barry, was best man, and Ms. Summer's 7-year-old daughter by a former marriage, Mimi, was flower girl.

Ms. Summer, a native of Boston, and Sudano, who is from Brooklyn, N.Y., met in 1977 and have been constant companions ever since. He co-authored her hit songs, "Bad Girls" and "Startin' Over."

NEW YORK (AP) — Although Ronald Reagan rose to political prominence as president of the Screen Actors Guild, don't look for that organization to endorse the Republican standardbearer for president of the United States.

James Cagney at 81st

MILLBROOK, N.Y. (AP) — For his 81st birthday, James Cagney dined at home with friends, read some of the thousands of greetings from around the world and then watched his old friend Ronald Reagan accept the GOP nomination on television.

The veteran actor had a home-cooked dinner of roast leg of lamb at his Stanfordsville farm in this southeastern New York town Thursday. Also dining with him was Don Zimmerman, the Academy Award winning director who encouraged Cagney to come out of retirement to play the New York City police commissioner in "Ragtime."

Child custody fight

Mother, grandmother indicted in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A mother and grandmother were indicted by a Dallas County grand jury Wednesday for interfering in a child custody case.

The child, year-old Tabitha Hunter, first came public attention when she was reunited with her mother in Dallas Jan. 2 after being taken from her South Carolina home by the woman's estranged husband.

The mother, Tavette Vinter, 23, and grandmother, Starnes, were indicted on charges of interfering with child custody.

Tabitha's custody case was taken to court in temporary custody of the Texas Department of Human Resources, though she was to remain with her mother on the condition they remain in Dallas County.

Tabitha's court-appointed lawyer, Mary McKnight, filed Tabitha's grandmother back to South Carolina in March, and Mrs. Vinter soon followed.

A May 27 court order mandating Tabitha's return to Dallas County within 24 hours was ignored, she said.

Mrs. McKnight, as lawyer for the child, filed the complaint against the woman.

Tabitha is currently in custody of the Lexington County (S.C.) Department of Social Services, and her mother and grandmother have been arrested in South Carolina and are awaiting extradition procedures that would return them to Dallas County.

The question of Tabitha's custody is still pending. State District Judge Theo Bedard said Mrs. Hunter, the child's father, and the child's paternal aunt and uncle are all seeking custody.

"This grand jury will indict people for interfering with child custody," Mrs. McKnight said. "This is good. Maybe people will stop taking the law into their own hands. It's really hard on the children."

College board's chairwoman says

Not enough fat for cutbacks

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' hand-picked chairwoman of the Texas College Coordinating Board says there's not enough fat left in the board's payroll to allow the 5 percent yearly job cutbacks Clements has demanded.

The board takes its final vote today on an $11.3 million 1982-83 budget request that falls short of the employee cutbacks sought by the governor.

A preliminary vote was taken Thursday when the board sat as a finance committee.

Clements' requirements would drop the staff from 175 now to 151 in fiscal 1983, but the budget calls for a staff of 168.5 employees in that year.

Beryl Milburn of Austin, board chairwoman, had been expected to push for further cuts to satisfy Clements.

Instead, she asked for and obtained approval of a mildly worded motion asking Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth to seek out an additional 3.5 jobs to cut, adding he had "done a superb job of reducing the staff by 5.4 percent" this year.

Cutting 3.5 jobs more than Ashworth's past and planned job eliminations would result in an 11 percent total reduction over 1980-82 instead of the 15 percent Clements wanted.

"I feel the Coordinating Board must lead the way. I think the higher education community has resisted any reduction whatsoever in employees," Mrs. Milburn said.

Board member Paul Teague, a Texas City union executive, said the board had no business even asking Ashworth to find more jobs to cut unless it also was ready to tell him where.

"Unless we want to face up to it and tell him what to cut and where, any motion... is a public relations motion and a farce," Teague said.

Teague was the only member who voted against Mrs. Milburn's motion.

Mrs. Milburn said in an interview after Thursday's action that Clements "won't be satisfied" because he is convinced a 5 percent annual reduction is feasible.

Christian humorist slated for College Baptist special

His approach may be a humorous one, but the motive behind that approach is far more serious. That's probably why Dan McBride of Jacksonville is so good at what he does.

McBride, a Baptist minister turned humorist, entertainer and satirist, does much more than poke fun at the modern church. He makes his audiences, usually church groups, laugh at their own unwillingness to do what they know they should do, which in turn compels them to start doing it.

"When I first started doing this everybody said don't get involved in something like this because it won't work. But what I've lost in dignity I've made up for in ability to communicate. People are unaware that while I'm entertaining I'm also preaching. I've found that church people need to laugh at themselves. If they take themselves too seriously, they don't take God seriously enough," McBride said.

"I have this one song on the tune of 'Countin' Flowers on the Wall' called 'Countin' Stragglers in the Hall.' So many churches are caught up with numbers, keeping rolls. They say, 'We only need two more to have 300, nobody stops at 298.' So they hunt 'em down in the halls." That may sound a little extreme, but McBride gets his point across. "People laugh and then they realize, 'Hey, we're doing that.' Often that's enough to get them to change.

One of his three albums, "Tiptoe Through the Tithes," teases ministers for being so careful not to step on toes when asking for contributions. "They're almost apologetic about it."

McBride, a big man with a very noticeable Texas drawl, started out to be a country and western singer when he was a teen-ager. He gained stage experience while performing each week on WFAA's Saturday Night Shindig, which was on both radio and television.

After more than 2,000 performances in 16 years, visiting 37 states, and entertaining civic groups and churches in 14 different denominations, McBride has discovered that all churches have similar problems and his ministry "holds up a few mirrors" to expose these problems.

People laugh, lives are changed and McBride just keeps singing. And he's making a living at it. McBride will be at College Baptist Church, 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Mormons celebrate 150 years around the world

The Big Spring Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is celebrating the church's 150th year of existence this year.

All over the world, the various wards of the church and their leaders are having activities to commemorate this birthday.

The Big Spring ward held two functions locally, and the Stake will meet later this month to celebrate Pioneer Day in honor of their ancestry who made the long trek with handcarts.

On the morning of July 4 at 6:30 a.m. the primary children had a flag raising ceremony. Mark Settles led 25 parents and children in the pledge of allegiance.

Marshall Horn gave a talk on the unsung heroes of the Revolutionary War and gave the history of what happened to some of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Church completion stalled

Big Spring may have a new church building in its midst, if the local Seventh Day Adventist Church can raise money to complete their structure on the south end of Parkway.

The outside of the church is almost finished. All builders lack inside is the bathroom fixtures, air conditioning and appointments.

Church members began in February with $1,000 and eight families and not large ones at that. The work has not progressed much lately, said church member Dr. Oseas Sulaton.

He said there was no way to tell when the building would be finished. The complete structure will cost $50,000 to $65,000 raised from members. The building is approximately 36 feet by 108 feet.

There are 13 rooms including a main sanctuary, balcony, four bathrooms, church office and three classrooms. The church has approximately 150 to 270 members.

Banks told church members investing in the building is "too risky," said Sulaton.

The church's pastor has gone back to Florida and they are without a preacher, except when someone comes in from somewhere else, said Sulaton.

Patriotic songs were sung by the group. The young children had a parade in the parking lot of the church, with gaily decorated bicycles and tricycles, and bright costumes. When the parade was over, the group enjoyed a pancake breakfast, cooked by the fathers of some of the children.

On the 12th of July the Ward held an old camp meeting family reunion. Beginning at 4 p.m. the group began to gather for fun and games, at the church at 1803 Wasson Road. A tarp was raised for shade, with tables and chairs for visiting and reminiscing. Kegs of home made root beer were kept flowing.

A volleyball game was going for the young people. Water fights and egg tossing contests soon followed. A pie eating contest was in the making. An old fashioned dinner on the ground followed.

After the food was eaten and the tables cleared, the group was entertained with skits, musical numbers and amateur acts. The evening of fun and entertainment was climaxed with good country music and singing.

Smokey Rigdon, Bishop Steve Marshall, and his first counselor Marshall Horn played and sang to the accompaniment of guitars. Elaine Wallace rendered a solo, Exodus, on the piano. The Don Fortner family gave a skit on the Irish and the Scotch.

Approximately 150 members, their friends and guests attended this birthday celebration.

In other parts of the United States, there will be musicals, theatricals, special parades, a hand cart trek through the canyons in Utah, and other forms of celebrations to which the public will be invited to honor the 150th year since the Church was first organized with only six members in Palmyra, N.Y.

Roman, Eastern Orthodox take stab at reunification

ATLANTA (AP) — Centuries after the Great Schism split the churches of Rome and Constantinople, six Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churchmen have begun the task of healing the old wounds and spiritually reuniting almost a quarter of the world's population.

Greek Orthodox Archbishop Stylianos, primate of Australia and New Zealand, was chosen president of the three-member Orthodox delegation in the reunification session held May 29 through June 4. The primate discussed the talks, held on the Greek islands of Patmos and Rhodes, while he was in Atlanta for the Greek Orthodox Clergy-Lay Congress.

The two churches, which separated in the Great Schism of 1054, A.D. have slowly begun turning toward one another, first with what the archbishop called a "dialogue of love" beginning in the 1960s and later with a "dialogue of theology" initiated about five years ago.

In technical meetings during the late 1970s it was decided the seven sacraments, which both churches hold in common, would be the topic of an initial series of talks beginning with the June session.

The reunification of about 200 million Orthodox and more than six million Roman Catholics is the "ultimate goal" of the dialogue, but Christians should not expect that within the next few years, he said.

Following discussions of the sacraments, all other matters of church doctrine and practice will be considered over a period of years. Somewhere down the road, the primate said, delegation will tackle the issues of papal primacy and infallibility, which he called the "crucial point" of the discussions.

The June meeting, in fact, almost collapsed when a newspaper reported that Pope John Paul II had said papal infallibility would not be negotiable in the dialogues. The session continued only after a Catholic delegate assured the Orthodox the report was misleading.

After a day of worship and prayer on Patmos, the group repaired to larger Rhodes, which had suitable facilities for the four-day-long discussion portion of the meeting.

Both groups of theologians and clergymen met separately for two days before bilateral talks began, the primate said. The next days were devoted to setting procedures for continuing the dialogue. Stylianos was selected head of the Orthodox delegation, representing 14 autonomous churches. Cardinal Jan Willebrands, chairman of the Secretariat for Christian Unity, is head of the Roman Catholic group.

Three committees were established to study "the mystery of the church and the Holy Eucharist in the light of the mystery of the Holy Trinity," he said. Each committee studies that topic.

The main body meets again in two years, but a coordinating committee will meet in Venice next May to monitor the work of the committees.

"My general impression is that we started in a very good way, in a mature attitude toward each other. I would say nobody could have expected more from this first meeting. It was not meant to be an extensive discussion of theological items as such," he said.

Big Spring gains Assembly

The West Texas Council of the Assemblies of God has begun a new church at 1008 Birdwell Lane, formerly the St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

The purchase of the property marks the formation of a new assembly in Big Spring. Trinity Family Church was organized on May 3, 1980.

The Rev. Wayne Ziegler of Odessa, has been elected to serve as pastor of the new congregation. Rev. Ziegler is a graduate of Southwestern Assemblies of God College in Waxahatchie. A native West Texas, Rev. Ziegler was Associate Pastor of First Assembly in Odessa and previously pastored Bethel Assembly in Snyder.

Trinity Family Church is a Full Gospel Evangelical Church.

WCG meets for Psalm study

The Women of the Church of God met July 11 when Hettie Minix presented the final Bible study of the book of Psalms.

Each lady shared a Psalm that had meaning to her. Mrs. Minix revealed several facts about the book. Kathryn Thomas took Psalms 135 as a text for the worship period.

Psalm 123 was paraphrased by Vera Blackburn. The Fellowship time following the service was attended by 11 ladies.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Arah Phillips, Aug. 11 for a prayer retreat.

Agency coordinating relief efforts

DENTON, Texas — Warning that the world is yet to come, officials of 11 federal agencies are coordinating efforts to combat drought-stricken western states.

Thursday's meeting of the Federal Emergency Management Agency VI headquarters was the first of three planned potential droughts at the United States.

The region includes Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, and Arkansas; of Louisiana and Iowa the northeastern Texas.

"Even though we have been suffering intense water shortage, we may be yet to come Dale Milford, the director, warning that traditionally torrid August was still ahead.

"President Carter concerned about the heat conditions that present over a large part of the United States, should not wait until the middle of emergency conditions before going to combat them."

Milford said his agency has organized a task force to coordinate the effort in granting agencies in farming, ranching, business, and to Carter.

The federal government representatives in Greg Shuler of the House domestic affairs committee; Dick Sanders, FEMA; Robert Hol the Administration of Mike Massey of the Business Administration; Robert Livezey of National Weather Service; Roger Sandman, Agriculture Department.

Other federal representatives included Newcomb of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; Krause of the Federal Home Administration; Dennis Welliver, Federal Crop Insurance Corp.; Tom Cotter, Community Services Administration; and Jane Cronin and Fred of the Department of and Human Services.

Sandman said he asked the Agriculture Department to give weekly updates on drought and its effect that USDA involvement depend on how severe drought is and how long it lasts.

Because harvest in the affected agricultural areas is a few months behind, said agency officials, it is advised to file for now but instead show until after harvest to accurate measure damage can be made.

Livezey of the service predicted temperatures and normal rainfall for area of the United States extending from the south to southern Texas. Livezey said the weather has remained long over the south parts of the United States because the jet which pushes cool air from the north is stronger and the wind is not blowing southward ordinarily does.

Additionally, he said, southerly winds are from the arid Southwest of the Gulf of Mexico, inhibiting the formation of thunderstorms.

Between the north stream and the south winds is a high pressure system that covers the Southwest and portions of the Livezey said.

Agencies coordinate relief efforts

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Warning that the worst may be yet to come, officials from 11 federal agencies met here to coordinate efforts to bring economic relief to residents of five heat plagued and drought stricken southwestern states.

Thursday's meeting at the Federal Emergency Management Agency Region VI headquarters was the first of three planned for potential drought areas in the United States.

The region includes all of Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, and Arkansas, part of Louisiana and Iowa, and the northeastern half of Texas.

"Even though we already have been suffering from an intense wave ... the worst may be yet to come," said Dale Milford, the region VI director, warning that the traditionally torrid month of August was still ahead.

"President Carter is very concerned about the extreme heat conditions that are now present over a large part of the United States," said Milford.

"The president feels we should not wait until we are in the midst of emergency conditions before gearing up to combat them."

Milford said his agency has organized a task force to coordinate the effort of the 11 agencies in granting relief to farmers, ranchers and businessmen, and to report to Carter.

The federal government representatives included Greg Shuler of the White House domestic policy board; Dick Sanderson of the FEMA; Robert Holiday of the Administration of Aging; Mike Massey of the Small Business Administration; Robert Livezey of the National Weather Service; Roger Sandman of the Agriculture Department.

Other federal representatives included Gerald Newcomb of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service; William Krause of the Farmers Home Administration; Dennis Welliver of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp.; Tom Cotter of the Community Services Administration; and Mary Jane Cronin and Fred Kelley of the Department of Health and Human Services.

Sandman said Carter has asked the Agriculture Department to give him a weekly update on the drought and its effects, but that USDA involvement will depend on how severe the drought is and how long it lasts.

Because harvest times in the affected agricultural areas is a few months away, he said, state agencies would be ill advised to file for relief now but instead should wait until after harvest time so an accurate measure of damage can be made.

Livezey of the weather service predicted hotter temperatures and less than normal rainfall for a large area of the United States, extending from southern Iowa to southern Texas.

Livezey said the hot weather has remained so long over the southwestern parts of the United States because the jet stream, which pushes cool air along the northern tier of states, is stronger and the cool air is not blowing southward as it ordinarily does.

Additionally, he said, southerly winds are blowing from the arid Southwest instead of the Gulf of Mexico, inhibiting the formation of thunderstorms.

Between the northern jet stream and the southerly winds is a high pressure system that covers most of the Southwest and central portions of the country, Livezey said.

Morrow new representative of local group

The National Headquarters of the Disabled American Veterans has appointed James G. Morrow the DAV-VAVS representative for the years 1980 and 1981 at the Big Spring VA Medical Center.

Morrow is a 27-year retiree. He served in the Southeast Pacific Theater with the Army during WW II and with the Air Force in Korea.

He urges everyone who can to enroll as a Medical Center worker in V.A. Voluntary Service Program and like thousands of other people serve as an invaluable link between society and hospitalized veterans. It will give those who volunteer an opportunity to offer unselfish, dedicated service to those less fortunate than themselves.

Those who would serve can call 263-7361 and ask for details.

Breast cancer victims benefit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Younger women who are given multi-drug therapy after surgery for advanced breast cancer have a better chance of long term survival, a panel of experts says.

called stage I breast cancer is a type with small, localized tumors and no evidence of spread to the lymph nodes. The adverse effects of drug therapy outweigh benefits, the panel said.

Because of these advantages to women who just go through menopause, doctors should consider giving this supplemental chemotherapy to many treated for advanced breast cancer, the panel said Wednesday.

However, the group assembled by the National Institutes of Health said women with a less severe form of the disease that has not spread elsewhere should not get secondary chemotherapy.

Search is under way for face of the '80s

Would Helen of Troy have launched a thousand ships, or even one? Probably not. A Helen of Troy of the '80s may have been considered a great beauty in her day, but today's image and the fashion of the face of the '80s might not quite qualify.

The highest paid model in history — in 1973 — and Marlene Dietrich, who modeled that record three years later, have aggressive jawlines, clearly defined brows and the strong faces that reflect women's new push for recognition and independence.

Houston woman named Secretary of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — A Texas woman, honored as secretary of the year, has a secret: she's not a secretary. She's a public relations executive.

She noted that new technology has freed many secretaries to do more administrative work and said that in order to be successful a true executive secretary or administrative assistant must acquire just as much knowledge as an executive vice president.

'Wifely' duties

DEBORAH, 20, is a high school senior who has a list of wifely duties. She says she doesn't need to learn these duties and asks the teen guest writers to give their opinions.

Dr. Wallace: My mother is really a nice person but she is not in tune with the "now" generation. I'll be a junior in high school come September and Mom thinks it's time to teach me the duties of a wife — cooking, washing, ironing, housecleaning, mending and grocery shopping. I told her that these are not wifely duties, they are simply duties.

85 may be the limit

BOSTON (AP) — Human beings may never be able to advance their average life expectancy beyond a peak of 85 years, a scientist says, but the quality of life in old age will improve and people will be spared lingering terminal illness.

Sharon: As in every profession there are those who are effective and those who are not. The great majority of school nurses are effective.

Low cholesterol diet and heart disease

A Senate subcommittee chairman says the government should not disregard a recent scientific report contending there is no evidence to link low-cholesterol diets with reduced heart disease — a finding disputed by the American Heart Association.

Earlier this year, a report by the 15-member Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Science questioned the value of recommending modest reductions in saturated fats and cholesterol in the American diet.

On Wednesday, the American Heart Association disagreed with that position, saying that "because of the magnitude of the problem of coronary artery disease, we cannot temporize in advising about diet or any of the risk factors — but we must do what seems prudent and safe today."

Eagleton said if the government continues to distribute guidelines recommending a reduction of fat and cholesterol in diets, it should include a statement about the "deep division in scientific opinion" on the relationship between cholesterol and heart disease.

Towns impose conservation measures

By the Associated Press

Towns across Texas are implementing a variety of conservation measures as hot, dry weather continues to evaporate water supplies and increased demand strains pumping systems.

Despite record usage, most of the state's larger cities appear to have ample water and adequate pumps. An exception is Austin, where an overworked pump on the northwest side of town broke this week for the second time this summer. Water supplies in that part of the capital city are low, and residents have been asked to cooperate with an odd-even plan for outdoor watering.

In Houston, the City Council has given Mayor Jim McConn authority to further restrict water usage. McConn already has ordered residents to water lawns only between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m.

Capacity pumping was reported in Amarillo, Lubbock, Orange and Beaumont, where a voluntary rationing plan is in effect.

The smaller towns of Texas, however, have been hit hardest by the arid weather.

"We just got over a terrible problem here," said Babe Aycock, mayor of the Central Texas town of Mart. "We had a major water line break Sunday, on a nine-mile line of pipe."

Mart's water supply was sporadic for three days.

"The heat and the drought has been drying up the ground and cracking it, then the pipe was real crooked," Mrs. Aycock said. "As soon as we'd lay a line of pipe, another place would bust open. It went on like this for three days!"

Workers replaced about 400 feet of pipe, and the mayor estimated it would cost the town more than $5,000 for repairs.

The 650 residents of Grafrod, in north Central Texas, may be forced to haul water from nearby Mineral Wells again. City Councilman Cecil Bibens says the reservoir is down to 2 feet, and the council plans to meet in emergency session today to discuss additional conservation measures.

Residents already are under a water rationing plan.

"We got enough water for another three weeks, maybe," said city secretary Ariene Howard. "Then we'll have to start hauling again."

Bibens said the city also is investigating the fate of an application for funds to build a new reservoir. Grafrod applied for the grant after the city was forced to import Mineral Wells water in milk trucks during late April and May.

In the West Texas town of Silvertown, officials believe money talks as far as water conservation is concerned.

The town's 1,000 residents will "pay through the nose" for missing the dangerously low supplies, said city secretary Jerry Patton.

"We've adjusted our water rates way up to force residents to conserve," Patton said. "Hopefully, it will make them think about it, anyway, when that water bill comes in."

"Our water production had been 612 gallons per minute, and has gotten down to 307 gallons per minute," he said. "Both our wells are way down due to the hot, dry conditions and we are running into real supply problems."

In far East Texas, residents of West Orange have been asked to curtail all outdoor watering. The water district board is considering police patrols and fines for violators. A city spokesman said the water supply is down to 20 feet in 42-foot capacity tanks.

Nearby Pinehurst already has ordered an odd-even plan for outdoor watering, and the city council is considering an ordinance to cut off service to non-compliers.

Private water department officials in Vidor, also in far East Texas, have warned residents on their system to stop outside watering or face a water cut-off. The city water department has requested voluntary rationing.

The North Texas Municipal Water District has asked all of its members to reduce consumption by 15 percent because of the heavy

No prospects of immediate relief

Heat death toll nears 1,000

By the Associated Press

The unofficial death toll from the 27-day heat wave that is smothering the South and Midwest neared 1,000 today, with close to 700 of the fatalities reported in the past week alone.

There have been 986 deaths in 20 states, according to an unofficial count by The Associated Press. Last week at this time, there had been 294 fatalities.

There were no prospects of immediate relief.

The National Weather Service predicted that the searing heat will continue at least through the beginning of next week. Temperatures over 100 degrees were reported in many areas Thursday, with Hutchinson, Kan., among the hottest at 112. The thermometer at the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport hit 100 for the 25th consecutive day.

In Georgia, Gov. George Busbee declared a state of emergency Thursday, saying the state's farmers face disaster if the heat wave continues. Emergencies have also been declared in Alabama and Missouri.

The U.S. Agriculture Department said a variety of crops, including cotton, sorghum and soybeans, have suffered in the heat belt. Millions of chickens have died.

In Illinois, heat-relief centers opened throughout the state, but the turnout has been low.

"People just don't seem to want to leave their homes," said Alexander County Coroner Tom Bradshaw.

"A lot of older people have air conditioning, but they don't use it because it's too expensive to run," said Judy Bogart, a spokeswoman at Jewish Hospital in Cincinnati.

Glenn and Lorine Graham of Wichita, Kan., don't have an air conditioner, but have discovered a cooling-off device that children have known about for a long time — a lawn sprinkler.

"We just sit on the porch in the afternoon and set the sprinkler so it hits us every time it comes by," Mrs. Graham said. "People think we're nuts, but it feels so good."

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said Thursday that the hot weather is being caused by an unusually persistent wind pattern in the upper atmosphere.

There is a strong clockwise flow of air at about 10,000 to 20,000 feet over most of the country, with strong counterclockwise wind flows along both coasts, according to Robert E. Livezey of the agency.

In such a system, air sinks toward the earth and compresses, causing it to heat and dry, Livezey said.

In another weather-related development, Michigan Gov. William Milliken said he will seek federal disaster assistance for state residents who had property damaged in the severe thunderstorms that hit the southern part of the state Wednesday.

Droughts, heat sapping lands of agricultural productivity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government weather experts and crop watchers say there is little chance for a significant break soon in the massive hot-weather system that has baked fields and livestock in much of the nation.

"Widely scattered, localized showers may provide some temporary relief, but there is nothing in current weather patterns to suggest a significant change from present conditions within the next week and a half," the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

Even in areas where drought has not taken hold, the hot weather saps moisture from the soil and puts severe stress on crops and livestock.

Although crop and livestock prices have increased significantly over the last couple of weeks, officials said the dry weather is not the only factor.

"Livestock and poultry prices have responded to declines in slaughter and seasonal increases in demand, as well as some delays in slaughter due to hot weather," officials said.

"Crop prices reflect the outlook for continued good demand in 1980-81."

The heat wave continues in the southern Great Plains for the fourth straight week and has expanded into the central Plains, the Corn Belt and the Southeast, the report said, adding:

"Crops continue to deteriorate in the Southwest as soil moisture is depleted and stock ponds dry up due to the heat and lack of rain."

But the harvest of winter wheat — which provides about three-fourths of the total U.S. wheat output — is "nearly completed from Texas to Kansas and is progressing well in other states," it said.

"The intense heat is not expected to cause widespread deaths for cattle and hogs, as it has with poultry," the report said.

"The heat will slow weight gains for livestock and will impair milk production from dairy animals in the most severely affected areas. The major milk-producing states have not, however, suffered much from high temperatures."

The report also said that:

"In Texas, new growth of pastureland is nonexistent. The condition of dryland cotton and sorghum, which has advanced to the heading stage, is poor. Irrigation supplies are low. In Arkansas, several million poultry have reportedly died from the heat."

"In the western Corn Belt, crops are showing signs

A mole who came in from the heat

DETROIT (AP) — Notes found under table of Windsor, Canada, pub, as made available to and decoded by CIA (Soviet citizen found under same table is assisting Royal Canadian Mounted with their inquiries):

COMRADE VASSILY: Cover to infiltrate revolutionary group plotting to overthrow President Carter in Detroit blown almost immediately. However, by great fortune, I was suspected of being media representative of KGB, Moscow, Idaho, issued Radio-TV credentials and assigned a sky booth in Joe Louis Arena where dissidents known as Republicans are meeting. Other moles named John Chancellor, Walter Cronkite and Frank Reynolds sit with backs to large window, facing away from action. I do not know why, am working on it. SIGN OFF: BORIS.

COMRADE VASSILY: Advise Politburo revolutionaries openly denounced Carter as weak, inept, inane, insincere, naive, incompetent, insensitive, defeated, finished. Police stand by and do nothing. Blatantly advocate B-1 bombers, cruise missiles, neutron bombs, a three-ocean Navy. Banners proclaim "Elephants Eat Peanuts." It is some kind of code, am working on it. SIGN OFF: BORIS.

COMRADE VASSILY: As we suspected of many American cities, Detroit's glittering glass skyline is a facade. There are tramcars running here that have not been seen on the streets of Moscow in 50 years. Hotel rooms with cardboard walls are rented on a most temporary basis. The maid keeps knocking on my door saying, "Time is up." I don't know what it means, but I am working on it. SIGN OFF: BORIS.

COMRADE VASSILY: Democracy in action is not as dangerous as we have been led to believe. In debate, a skilled parliamentarian with a large mallet cuts off the nyets before any dissident has a chance to speak. It is an admirable system, we should study it more. SIGN OFF: BORIS.

COMRADE VASSILY: The revolutionaries take great care to disguise themselves in cowboy hats, baseball caps, New England sou'westers and other strange regalia including a head gear with an elephant trunk, but there is more regimentation than dedication among them. They are taken in groups to the meeting hall in large buses and wear buttons identifying their local cell. Many, however, defect across the river to Canada after dark, where prices are cheaper and the vodka halls remain open two hours longer. A high official of the Hiram Walker distillery is in charge of the host committee luring defectors.

I am not quite sure what the real appeal of Windsor, Canada, is, but I am working on it. SIGN OFF: BORIS.

NL dominance remains the mystery question

LOS ANGELES — The atmosphere swelled with most favorable weather and many Hollywood greats in the beautiful setting in Elysian Park Drive on All-Star Day, giving the air of something unique, at least to this West Texas writer on vacation in Southern California.

But in the end, the result was the same, yet another win by the National League in the prestigious summer classic. It was the ninth consecutive win for the NL All-Stars, and their 17th triumph in the last 18 games over their American League counterparts.

After Fred Lynn gave the AL a 2-0 lead with his two-run homer in the top of the fifth, the National League exploded for a 4-2 win, and the mysterious question that seems to haunt the American League continued.

In the post-game conference room just outside the National League showers (usually the Dodgers), both sides, including their managers, offered their philosophies on the streak, which would seem to be embarrassing for the AL.

CHUCK TANNER ENTERED the room, and being the gentleman that he is, announced to the reporters, photographers and other players already assembled that "The beer's on me."

After some routine questions about the course of the game, Tanner was questioned about the NL streak, and he answered as if it would be like a fire in a future All-Star game.

"I really can't explain the difference in the National League winning streak," the Pittsburgh manager stated. "This afternoon, our defense was the key. It was great."

GREAT IT WAS, as the NL stars committed no errors, with the Yankees Willie Randolph's two miscues hurting the AL badly. In point of fact, since the streak began in 1963, the National League has not made more than one error in a game, and once reeled off a streak of 11 consecutive flawless contests.

Tanner ended his stint on the podium moments later by offering a little of his insight into the National League's streak, and their 4-2 win on that sunny evening a little more than a week ago.

"The National League All-Stars came here with a great attitude. They came but with one thing in mind, and that was to win," said Tanner.

It seemed a little outrageous of a statement to this reporter, as I'm certain the American League didn't come with the intentions of losing.

BUT BALTIMORE MANAGER EARL WEAVER didn't take long to prove my thoughts on the matter, as the short, animated and excitable Oriole skipper was told of Tanner's remark.

"Hell, that's crazy," Weaver nearly shouted. "We wanted to win as badly as they did. I'll admit we enjoyed the atmosphere that comes with the All-Star game, but my main purpose was still to help the American League win the damn game."

"It's very disappointing," he continued, "especially when managing. We did all we could, but they just scored more. That's what seems to be happening lately, they've just scored more runs each game."

Told of a statement made during batting practice by the American League's losing pitcher, Tommy John,

All-Star experience proves interesting

The All-Star game was a happening more than a game, and it appeared extremely hard to decide who enjoyed the atmosphere the most — the players, media or fans.

Nevertheless, while the game was played with intensity by both sides, there were many interesting pre-game conversations, comments and gestures that makes such an affair fun — especially for a reporter making his first time All-Star appearance.

Here is just a little of the action behind the scene...

NATIONAL LEAGUE MANAGER CHUCK TANNER was as polite in person as he seems to be on TV, and his quietly father-like image no doubt reflects the Pittsburgh theme on the way to their World Series triumph last year — "We are family."

Tanner downplayed his managerial success in the World Series and the All-Star game, claiming: "Any good manager has got to have the good players to do it. I have just been fortunate to surround myself with as many good players as possible."

"I've been blessed with the fact that I managed a great team last year and again this afternoon," Tanner said immediately after the game. "It all tastes so good, you'd like to do it one more time."

TANNER LATER STUCK HIS FOOT in his mouth, but wasn't around to find out. Stressing the winning attitude of his team, he said, "Nobody on our team left after they were out of the game or during it. They were all cheering for each other, and wanted to win very badly."

Sorry, Chuckie, that ain't so. I'm sure they wanted to win, but they weren't always around.

Walking into the restroom of the National League clubhouse en route to the interview room during the top of the ninth inning, while the AL made one more futile attempt at victory, Houston's towering righthander, J.R. RICHARD was decked out in his disco clothing smelling good and combing his hair. He asked reporter if the game was over yet.

Then Chicago Cubs $700,000 a year relief ace BRUCE SUTTER made an honest and somewhat hilarious confession after hurling the last two innings for a save.

"He (Tanner) told Kent Tekluve and me earlier today that we wouldn't be used until the last two innings, if we were to be used. Before that, he would have had a hard time finding me," Sutter said.

"Why, Bruce, where were you," a reporter queried.

"Well," Sutter said, sounding like a kid caught stealing from the cookie jar, "I was back in the locker room, messing around with Tekluve, eating sandwiches and watching the game occasionally on TV."

JERRY REUSS, enjoying an excellent season with the Dodgers, who whiffed all three of the hitters he faced in the All-Star game, was the biggest clown.

Approaching the mass of microphones, he joked "Looks like you guys have a microphone for the Dodger infield."

Later, a writer asked Reuss to explain his success this year.

Said Reuss with a grin: "I assume you're talking about winning ball games, and not being successful elsewhere."

FINALLY, NATIONAL LEAGUE PRESIDENT CHUB FEENEY gave his theory on the success of his league in the summer classic, stating: "Fans who pick the American League All-Star team do a lousy job each year. Or maybe our fans are more knowledgeable."

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, JULY 16, 1980

Big Spring advances to championship tilt

ABILENE — The Big Spring Senior League All-Stars put themselves into the best possible position at the District Tournament championship here Thursday night, using the overwhelming pitching of Tom Cudd in taking a 5-2 win over Abilene.

Cudd hurled a one-hitter in the contest, and struck out nine batters in the process. The only hit off Cudd didn't escape the infield.

The win allowed the Big Spring team, which is comprised of 14-15 year olds, to be the only unbeaten team in the district affair, with Abilene and Abilene Northeastern each now having one loss each.

Those two teams will meet tonight, with the winner then meeting the Big Spring crew tomorrow afternoon at four in the finals. The Big Spring team, however, is afforded the luxury of having to win only one of a possible two games tomorrow afternoon in order to win the tournament.

Cudd was also blessed with a strong defensive performance from his mates, who also ripped the Abilene pitchers for six hits.

David Anguiano and Jinx Valenzuela both had doubles for Big Spring, with Robert Rubio, Adrian Saldivar, Tony Ontiveros and Kevin Watson each adding singles.

In District 3 Tourney

Stanton remained alive in the District 3 Little League Tournament here Thursday night, scoring in the bottom of the sixth inning with the bases loaded to eke out an 8-7 triumph over the Midland Tower team.

The win allowed the Stanton Little Leaguers to remain in contention for the District 3 title, and was a big difference from their opening loss to Midland Eastern by a score of 37-1. The game meanwhile, dropped Tower out of the tournament.

In a second round contest played last night, the Lamesa All-Stars showed no mercy on the Big Spring Texas League All-Stars, taking a lopsided 23-0 victory.

Kevin Farmer was the winning pitcher for the Lamesa team, and had sufficient help from the plate from the likes of Richard Diaz and Ken Williams, who both homered.

Stanton will now face the survivor of the Big Spring International-Big Spring National contest, which will be played tonight in the National League Park, while the Texas League will move

Local 13-year olds take exciting win

ABILENE — The Big Spring 13-Year Old All-Stars remained in their District Baseball Tournament, scoring twice in the bottom of the seventh inning to take an exciting 11-10 win over the Abilene Northeastern All-Stars.

Chris Lamb provided the knockout blow for the Big Springers, connecting on a two-out single to score Mark Walker from third for the winning run.

Lamb was the hitting star throughout the rest of the game. Besides his game winning hit, he had a home run and a single. Other hitting safely for the Big Spring team included Mark Walker with a double and two singles, Doug Walker

Trevino maintains lead in British Open 2nd round

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Lee Trevino, stalking and swaggering through the relatively better weather, cut out a 4-under-par 67 and took sole control of the early second round lead Friday in the 109th British Open Golf Championship.

Trevino, who won this old title in 1972, the last time it was played on Muirfield's windswept links, had a 36-hole total of 135, seven strokes under par.

He backed off from a little, two-foot, par-saving putt on the 12th, looked to the TV tower and put his finger to his lips. After he had the putt safely tucked away, he picked the ball out of the cup, looked to the tower and said, "OK, now."

And he kept rolling along on a string of pars spiced by an occasional birdie. After moving ahead alone with a two-putt birdie four on the ninth, he scored from about 12 feet on the 10th, then birdied again on a two-putt on the 17th.

The only other man among the early starters able to make a move was Horacio Carbonetti of Argentina, who shot a course record, 7-under-par 64. He'd started with a fat 78 in the opening round, however, and finished 36 holes at par 142.

Dale Hayes of South Africa had a 70-141.

Larry Nelson and Craig Stadler of the United States were at par 142. Each had a second round 70. Bob Gilder shot 71-146.

AMERICA'S HIGHEST GAS MILEAGE WAGONS.

We've got loads of wagons loaded with mileage* Come down and see for yourself. Four out of the top eight wagons* tested for EPA estimated gas mileage were Datsuns! Check us out, we've got the right wagon for the right price right here in our showroom. We're going all out to prove... It's a long way to empty in a Datsun wagon.

210 SPORTWAGON. Our lowest priced wagon. Yet it doesn't feel like an economy wagon. It feels rich! It's roomy on the inside and great on the mileage.

31 EPA EST. MPG 409 EPA EST. RANGE 43 EPA EST. HWY. 567 EPA EST. HWY.

510 WAGON. Our astonishing family wagon has full size room and four-door comfort. Now powered by the revolutionary, new NAPS-Z engine that delivers more performance and more than 30% more mileage than last year.

30 EPA EST. MPG 396 EPA EST. RANGE 40 EPA EST. HWY. 528 EPA EST. HWY.

810 WAGON. This is Z-powered elegance with outstanding mileage at an affordable price. Plush on the inside with fuel-injected power on the outside with fuel-injected quality.

21 EPA EST. MPG 304 EPA EST. RANGE 27 EPA EST. HWY. 391 EPA EST. HWY.

*Based on EPA estimates. Use these estimates for comparison. Your mileage and range may differ depending on speed, distance and weather. Highway mileage will probably be lower than EPA estimate. †Not applicable to 810 wagons.

Wildcat located in Howard County

F.W. Holbrook, Midland, will drill the No. 1 Whittaker, an 8,000-foot wildcat in Howard County, one-mile northwest of the depleted one-well Van-Gris (Wolf-camp) field, separated by 7,740 and 8,293-foot failures, 3/4-mile east of a 7,850-foot failure and four miles west of Vincent.

Location is 467 feet from the south and 1,200 feet from the east lines of 19-25-H&TC.

The Van-Gris opener, Van Grisso Oil Co. No. 1 E.J. Carpenter, drilled to 6,702 feet, was finished May 12, 1954 for 497 barrels of 37.3 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 782-1, through a 22-64-inch choke and perforations at 6,675-702 feet.

The 7,850-foot failure, Getty Oil Co. No. 1 Binie White, was temporarily abandoned Sept. 21, 1979.

Amoco Production Co. will drill the No. 1-B Texas Land & Mortgage Co. as a location east stepout to a two-well southwest extension area of Fusselman production in the Coahoma, North (Fusselman and Clearfork) field of Howard County, four miles east of Coahoma.

Location is 467 feet from the north and west lines of 17-30-1s-T&P. Contract depth is 9,500 feet.

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — Some South Carolina hogs better have a sweet tooth because the world's largest milkshake is coming their way.

Workers at the South Carolina Peach Festival on Thursday whipped up 3,000 gallons of milk, 3,000 gallons of ice cream and bushels and bushels of Cherokee County peaches. Enough to fill 45,000 18-ounce cups.

Officials had planned to give anyone buying a ticket to the festival all the milkshake they could drink. But the county health department said the 55,000-pound milkshake wasn't fit for human consumption because the container in which it was prepared wasn't properly lined.

Bobby Donahue, a health department official who helped mix the shake, said, "I guess they'll pump it out into a tanker and feed it to the hogs."

Bidders besiege action

DEADWOOD, S.D. (AP) — Protesters in 19th century costumes, television crews and Chamber of Commerce officials hawking T-shirts — they were all there for the bang of the auctioneer's gavel over Pam's Purple Door.

"Save our ladies," shouted about two dozen women dressed in 1880s dance-hall girl costumes. "Don't Change Deadwood!" read one sign.

Deadwood's four brothels were closed in a police raid earlier this summer, and their landlords go on trial in September on charges of maintaining a public nuisance.

"I didn't know I had so many friends," said Pam Holiday, owner of Pam's Purple Door, also known as the Frontier Rooms Brothel.

People lined up outside the National Guard Armory two hours before the auction started. By the time it began, the small auditorium was packed with several hundred people, bidding $15 for a knickknack, $25 for a wall plaque.

One auction-goer, eyeing the displays of appliances and furniture, said, "Where's all the kinky things? There aren't any."

The most unusual items for sale included fake fur pillows, velvet drapes and one erotic statue.

In the back of the room, the local Chamber of Commerce was selling 400 T-shirts for $7.50 each. The purple and white shirts read, "I Was There, Pam's Purple Door Brothel Auction."

Synfuels perks research

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House recently passed legislation that takes a major step toward energy independence for the United States, when my colleagues and I approved the Energy Security Act of 1980 by a margin of 317 to 93.

Congressman

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

Commonly referred to as the "synfuels" bill, this act promotes research and development of numerous forms of alternate energy sources, aiding the United States in our effort to lessen dependence on foreign oil imports. The United States Synthetic Fuels Corporation (SFC), created by the legislation, will assist in the production of alcohol fuels, gasohol, solar energy, geothermal energy, and various other types of badly needed synthetic fuels.

The federal government will be distributing loans, loan guarantees, price guarantees and purchase agreements to facilities that produce synfuels. Facilities that use agriculture and forestry resources to manufacture less than 15 million barrels of alcohol annually will be under the jurisdiction of the USDA, while most larger facilities will be overseen by DOE.

This far-reaching energy plan also provides government-subsidized loans to help cover the costs of in-aided development of alternate fuel sources to the point that they account for over 2 million barrels a day. Currently, the United States uses about 18 million barrels of oil per day, and of this approximately 7.5 million barrels are imported.

stalling solar heating equipment and making conservation improvements in residential or commercial buildings. In this way the government will be able to reward those who seek to make their homes more energy efficient as well as those who choose to use solar-powered electricity to heat and cool their structures.

With this energy bill, the Congress has finally begun to come to grips with the serious energy problems facing our country. By developing a wide range of alternate energy sources, we will lessen our dependence on the OPEC nations and others. As a result the United States can begin once again to control our own energy future.

I have been working especially hard to secure government backing for alcohol fuels production, and this bill provides for $1.45 billion in subsidies, through the departments of Agriculture and Energy, for fuels produced from agricultural crops or crop residue as well as from various types of waste. The Congress has directed the SFC to work toward a 1982 production level of at least 60,000 barrels a day of alcohol. The goal for 1990 is for alcohol fuels to supply at least 10 percent of our nation's domestic gasoline consumption.

The total energy output goal for the synfuels program is the equivalent of no less than 500,000 barrels of crude oil a day by 1987. By 1992, the SFC should have

'Train, don't strain'

Art of running tips

Running may turn out to be one of the most significant experiences in a person's life. It is not always fun from the start. The body may be out of shape, muscles are soft, joints are stiff and the heart and lungs are not used to working hard.

Many, however, feel the goal is worth the struggle. After a few weeks, runners feel refreshed, have more energy, zest, sleep better and feel better than they have in years. Results don't happen the first day, but there's no hurry. A lot of books on running use the term "Train, don't strain" and this is important advice.

This Saturday, at 8 a.m. many runners will begin a 2.5, 6.8 or 13.1 mile race. Not all the runners are in this event for the competition. Many run to increase their time or to enjoy the atmosphere of being around other runners. Some people feel conspicuous when they enter their first run. Most people admire what they are doing.

The more a person runs the more efficient his/her style becomes. The secret of style is to run naturally. Keep the body straight, head up and lean slightly forward. There is no need to exaggerate arm motion. Run with the elbows bent, but not held tightly against the chest. Hands should be relaxed.

Don't worry about the length of the stride; do what feels natural. Each foot should strike the ground at the heel and roll forward, finally pushing off with the toes. If this feels unnatural, try landing flatfooted. Don't run on your toes because this causes sore calf muscles and possible strains on the Achilles tendon.

If running slowly, the mouth does not need to be open wide. As the runner moves faster, there does not need to be a fear to gulp in as much air as possible.

Runners should keep these guidelines in mind remembering that running is for fun, too.

The public is welcome to come watch some West Texas runners this Saturday, July 19, at 8 a.m. Starting line is in front of the Big Spring Airport. If anyone is interested in entering the event, registration forms are available at the sponsors place of business — the YMCA, KBST or Big Spring Athletics.

Dawson County will purchase 'Jaws of Life'

LAMESA — Dawson County commissioners have voted to purchase a piece of rescue equipment dubbed the "Jaws of Life," which will be used in automobile and industrial accidents which occur in the area.

The power tool fits snugly into the trunk of a police car or a similar kind of vehicle. Cost of the tool is estimated at $5,700.

Tidwell will enter contest

LAMESA — Michelle Tidwell won the right to represent Dawson County in District Farm Bureau Queen competition in a contest staged here last Saturday night.

Other contestants included Joanie Hanson, Darla Holcomb and Robin Robinett.

The District contest will be held in Big Spring next month.
