Remaining prison hostage released

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Heavily armed police regained control of the smoldering Idaho State Penitentiary this morning after a tactical team rescued the last remaining hostage being held by rioting prisoners.

No deaths were reported but several inmates were injured.

"We have a lot of inmates who are angry and upset out there," said state Corrections Director C. W. "Bill" Crowl, "but our top priority is getting this prison back in operation again."

Crowl said the most pressing need was to find a place to hold about 50 maximum-security prisoners.

"I suspect the maximum-security wing is completely inoperable" because of fires and destruction during the night, he said.

Crowl said inmates apparently took a car from the prison repair shop and plowed it through the middle of the maximum-security wing.

After the hostage was freed and the prison yard swept by law officers, all of the approximately 500 inmates were herded out to the prison athletic field and were served breakfast surrounded by about 100 armed officers. After two hours the prison was declared under control.

Firemen were busy putting out the last of the fires. Nearly all the prison was burned during the night by the rampaging inmates.

A special prison tactical team using tear gas freed the guard, Lynart Orr, who had been held hostage for nearly 18 hours and been protected by five inmates from other rioting prisoners.

At sunrise about 200 law enforcement officers who had ringed the facility closed in. Prison guards, state and local police and sheriff's deputies stormed into the prison.

Inmates began trickling out of the cell houses, hands over their heads.

moving toward the football field. At least one canister of tear gas was fired toward one of the buildings by police.

Ladders were used to put rifletoting law officers on top of buildings in the compound.

The decision to send in the tactical team came after inmates had burned nearly everything in the prison compound and fears for the hostage's life grew, Crowl said. Only the kitchen was spared the flames.

Crowl said the inmates were brewing a big batch of homemade whiskey and he feared that when it was ready, the inmates would go on "a wild drunk."

The only other hostage taken in the riot, guard Calvin May, was released unharmed just before nightfall Wednesday. Efforts to free Orr through negotiations failed when inmates refused to talk further after dark.

Water pumping again

Officials find no evidence of toxic chemicals in supply

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas and Longview officials will start pumping water from Lake Tawakoni, and say they feel the water is "safe" after lab reports indicated no detectable levels of toxic chemicals in drinking water samples.

"The water is safe, and there is no question about its purity," said Tom Taylor, director of water services for the city of Dallas. Pumps were reactivated late Wednesday night, he said.

Taylor said Dallas authorities were "satisfied" with test results from the Texas Department of Water Resources in Austin, where samples of Lake Tawakoni water were tested for traces of arsenic and two herbicides that may have leaked from chemical canisters buried near the lake.

"We will restore water service from Lake Tawakoni sometime before the weekend," Taylor said.

The lake supplies 10 million gallons a day to Longview, and 20 percent of the water for Dallas and its suburbs.

Longview city manager Ray Jackson said his city will begin pumping water from the lake again since state authorities had determined the water was safe.

Drinking water samples were taken from Wills Point, Lakeview, South Tawakoni, MacBee Water Supply Corp., Greenville, Commerce, and the Dallas East Side Plant, said Charles Foster, director of the state health department's Water Hygiene Division.

The analyses showed no detectable levels of arsenic, 2-4-D and 2-4-5-TP, and therefore meets EPA regulations as well as state health department regulations, Foster said.

However, EPA officials said the results of their tests were not complete.

"We sampled water from the lake for arsenic and the two chemicals, one of which is high in dioxins," said Eddie Lee, spokesman for the EPA in Dallas.

Sixteen chemical containers were unearthed Tuesday from a pit behind the Iron Bridge Division of the Sabine River Authority, 300 yards from Lake Tawakoni, under the supervision of the Environmental Protection Agency and the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Officials at the SRA, as well as the water departments at Dallas and Longview, have conducted several tests on water and soil samples to determine if any hazardous chemicals had leaked into the water.

Crimes with handguns cited

Congressmen criticized for stance

By JOE TAYLOR

WASHINGTON — Pointing to an increasing number of crimes committed with handguns, a Washington-based organization has criticized 113 congressmen and 45 senators for sponsoring legislation to dismantle existing federal gun controls.

Handgun Control, Inc., of Washington, D.C., said nine of 10 Texas congressmen who have sponsored an anti-gun control bill in the House received campaign contributions from at least one of three anti-gun control political action committees.

The group also cited U.S. Sen. John Tower, who the group said received $1,300 in campaign contributions from the anti-gun control groups since Jan. 1, 1978.

As part of a stepped-up campaign in favor of gun control, the group Wednesday sponsored what spokesman called "handgun control events" in the nation's capital.

The events included a press conference at which victims of handgun mishaps recounted their stories and a walk to the White House to picket to protest of President Carter's failure to submit a handgun control bill to Congress.

Pete Shields, chairman of the organization, said he was protesting a "war that took the life of our 23-year-old son, Nick."

That war, he said, "allowed a Saturday Night Special to flow without restraints from hand-to-hand."

Shields said his organization is fighting the so-called federal Firearms Law Reform Bill, which is now pending in Congress.

If passed, he said, it would allow persons convicted of a "broad range of crimes" to own firearms. He said it would "effectively dismantle existing control laws."

Proponents of the bill say current restraints are not working and tie up the enforcement agencies with needless red tape.

Besides Tower, Texas congressmen who support the bill include: Reps. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin; Marvin Leath, D-Marlin; Joe Wyatt, Jr., D-Bloomington; Kika de la Garza, D-Mission; Richard White, D-El Paso; Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford; Kent Hance, D-Lubbock; Tom Loeffler, R-Hunt and Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson.

Each received a contribution from political action committees of either the National Rifle Association, the Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms or the Gun Owners of America, all of which support repeal of the control laws, the organization said.

One Texas congressman, Rep. Jim Collins, R-Dallas, supports the bill but has taken no contributions from the groups, according to Handgun Control, Inc.

Spokesmen for four of the congressmen acknowledged that the congressmen had taken contributions for the groups' committees but denied a connection between the contributions and support for the anti-control bill.

Charles Holmes, a spokesman for Leath, said the congressman "gets very upset when people charge that you do things in response to a contribution."

Action/reaction: Water suit planned?

Q. Does the City of Big Spring have any plans to file suit against the Colorado River Municipal Water District, alleging that corrosive water has damaged the city's water mains, not to mention all the pipes in our homes?

A. As far as is known, no such suit has been prepared or is even being contemplated.

Calendar: 'Texas Style' dominoes

TODAY

The Big Spring American League All-Stars and the Midland North Central All-Stars meet at 8 p.m. in the District 3 Little League All-Star Tournament in the National League Park. Winner of tonight's game advances to Friday's final round.

Organizational meeting of Big Spring Running Club will be held at YMCA, 7 p.m.

Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater is the site of melodrama "Oils Well That Ends Well" presented by the Spring City Theater, 8 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children 6-12 and children under 6 free.

Third annual "Texas Style" National Domino Tournament, Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

FRIDAY

Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will meet between 9 p.m. and midnight at the Howard County Fairbarn. The meeting will be a part of the 56th Annual Old Settlers Reunion.

Dorothy Garrett Coliseum is the site of the third annual "Texas Style" National Domino Tournament.

Persons interested in joining the Howard County Young Democrats can attend an organizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas office building. For any information concerning the organization call Kaye Holland at 267-8910.

"Old Settlers Reunion" for Howard and Glasscock Counties, Old Settlers Pavilion, Comanche Trail Park.

A senior citizens dance will be held in the former Webb AFB Officers Club, 8 to 11 p.m. For citizens 60 years of age and older, dance is sponsored by the Nutrition Center. Old citizens can bring guests less than 60 years of age. Live band. Admission cost, $1.

Domino tournament lures upwards to 70 teams today

Upwards to 70 teams had registered for the third annual National Championship Texas-Style Domino Tournament shortly before noon today.

Competition was to get under way this afternoon, after the entries had been treated to a Texas-style barbecue.

The barbecue and the tournament itself were scheduled for the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The championship duo likely will be known sometime around noon Saturday.

Harold Hall is serving as director of this year's tournament, having accepted the responsibility after the founder of the tournament, George McAlister, moved out of town.

A larger field than last year was predicted, which means the prize money could be bigger than last year. A total of 72 tandems competed for the honors a year ago.

Very few Howard County teams are included among the first entries, something that mystifies tournament officials. The entry fee is $100 per team.

Many of the teams entered crossed several state lines to get here.

McAlister returned to team with Lloyd McLeod of Big Spring in the tournament. He and McLeod co-authored the book, "Texas Style Dominoes," which was printed a couple of years ago.

Among early arrivals were the Newcombe brothers from Kansas City, Mo. They were Travis, Jerry, Robert L. Newcombe and Edward J., all considered formidable players.

Paul Meek of Dallas, president of American-Petrofina and a veteran domino player, came in for the tournament.

Others on hand included Stacy Jennings, Denton, and Perry (Lucky Pierre) Price, Phoenix, and Ted (Tad) Price, Houston.

Helping Hall with details of the meet are J.D. Nelson, Walter Wheat, McLeod and Mel Prather. Wheat and McLeod form the rules committee.

Prime minister apparently chosen

More executions in Iran today

By the Associated Press

Twenty more officers and men of the Iranian army and air force were executed in Tehran at dawn today for taking part in the military plot to bomb Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's home and overthrow his revolutionary regime, Tehran Radio reported.

Another man was put to death for killing four persons because they "were not prepared to renounce their Islamic beliefs and embrace Marxism," the Iranian government radio said.

The executions brought the total in Iran this week to 51, including 25 convicted of involvement in the conspiracy. At least 500 persons were reported arrested for being part of the plot, and death sentences are expected for most of them.

Tehran Radio said the plotters executed today included four captains and a first lieutenant, all of them air force pilots; an air force technician and army noncommissioned officers.

An Islamic revolutionary court found them guilty of plotting a coup against the Islamic republic, planning to bomb Khomeini's home in northern Tehran and "mutinying against the Islamic regime," the broadcast said.

The others executed this week were convicted of other counter-revolutionary activities and drug offenses.

On the political front, Iran's official Pars news agency reported that President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr appeared to have chosen Mostafa Mir-Salim, the chief of the state police and deputy interior minister for political affairs, to be the Iranian republic's first prime minister.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

"Oils Well That Ends Well" melodrama presented by the Spring City Theater, Comanche Trail Park Amphitheater, 8 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children 6-12 and children under 6 free.

Tops on TV: Gold and big women

It's almost inconceivable that a movie with the title "Gold Of The Amazon Women" could be any good. Nonetheless, that is what NBC has to offer at 8 p.m. It stars Bo Svenson (not, we repeat, not Bo Derek) as an adventurer searching for treasure in the jungles of South America who runs into a tribe of statuesque women. A better bet would be "The Sugarland Express," airing at the same time on Channel 11. Steven "Jaws" Spielberg directed the flick, which deals with a young couple pursued through Texas by a high-ranking policeman. Then, of course, there's always "Barney Miller" at 8 p.m. on ABC.

Inside: Tourist attraction?

WHEN MOUNT ST. HELENS blew her top in May, officials of the tourist-loving region of Seattle worried the volcano would send travelers packing. Well, tourism is down, but the traffic jams around the mountain indicate to some that they may have a tourist attraction right under their noses. See page 10-A.

SENATE LEADERS ARE pledging some kind of congressional investigation into Billy Carter's ties with the Libyan government, and President Carter's chief spokesman says the White House will be open and honest about it. See page 11-A.

Outside: Upper 90s

Sunny days and fair nights through Friday with very warm afternoons. High today and Friday in the upper 90s, low tonight in the upper 60s. Winds will be from the southeast at 5 to 10 mph today, southerly 10 to 15 mph Friday.

Good example of natural phenomenon

Wink sink not beginning of apocalypse, pros agree

By JANN SNELL
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Wink Sink is not the beginning of the apocalypse, but rather an example of a natural phenomenon that has been going on for thousands, a research geologist said Monday.

"There have been all kinds of bizarre statements about the sink, everything from correlating it with the Mt. St. Helens' eruption to the configuration of the stars," Dr. Art Goldstein, a geologist with the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology, said.

Goldstein and Robert Brumgardner, another research geologist at the bureau, have been watching the sinkhole and have run special tests to determine its origin.

The hole was first observed in early June and has developed into an oblong depression, up to 400 feet across and 110 feet deep. The sink is filled with water to within 35 feet of the rim.

Both scientists agree the most likely explanation for the hole is gradual erosion of a salt bed lying 1,100 feet beneath the surface.

The water table in the West Texas area near Wink and Kermit is about 35 feet beneath the surface. But everything beneath the table is saturated with water that is continuously flowing, Goldstein said.

Over time, the water dissolved the salt layer and eventually the roof of the salt layer caved in.

"It is a very slow process, but a point is reached where the salt roof is eroded away to the point that it can no longer hold up the layers of earth above," Baumgardner said. When this point is reached, the roofs on different layers of sediment above the salt layer cave in and the hole rises like a bubble to the surface, he said.

"We don't expect the hole to get any deeper, but the sides will continue caving in because they are quite steep," Goldstein said.

The sink naturally will continue caving in on itself until it becomes shallower and within perhaps 100 years it will fill in completely, Goldstein predicted.

The scientists have run highly precise gravitational studies on the area to determine the nature of the salt cavity and how fast it is sinking.

To support their theory that the sink is a natural occurrence caused by erosion of the salt bed, Goldstein points to several similar depressions in the West Texas area.

He said other lesser sinks — ones that have eroded and filled up with time — can be detected with air photographs.

Both scientists admitted they are not sure what caused the sink, nor would they predict whether another could appear in the near future.

Concrete markers, however, have been stationed in the area around the sink to detect any shifts in the earth, Goldstein said.

Goldstein believes the Wink Sink can be explained neatly as a part of the earth's history in the area, dating back 250 million years.

The sink has opened in an area that once was covered by a shallow salt sea known as the Delaware Basin.

"It is very controversial as to how the salt deposits came to exist," Goldstein said. But the current theory is that the salts deposited along the marshes surrounding the sea, he said.

Over the last 250 million years, the prehistoric sea dried up and layers of sediment covered the area, leaving behind only the layer of salt that runs beneath the surface throughout West and North Texas.

The Estelina Spring in the Panhandle is another geological example of the effects of the salt bed on the water table, Goldstein said.

At the spring, the water bubbles up so salty that crab and seaweed live in it and the saline water is a major cause of pollution to the Little Red River, he said.

Pena released
Jimmy Pena, 1100 block of N. Aylford, is free on the authority of District Attorney Rick Hamby on a forgery charge.

Pena is a federal probationer for transportation of illegal aliens. He was released to a U.S. Marshal July 16.

Talley Griffin of Gail first in barrel racing

COLORADO CITY — Talley Griffin of Gail won first place in the 16-to-19 age bracket of girls' barrel racing the opening night of the Colorado City AJRA Rodeo here Wednesday.

Miss Griffin was clocked in 1878 seconds.

Amber Echols of Lamesa finished second in the event in the time of 19.02.

James Doss, Big Spring, was third in the down roping competition, age 16-19 bracket, in the time of 21.32.

In the 13-15 age group, Kip White of Big Spring was third in the down roping in the time of 27.63.

About $800 in prize money will be at stake in the rodeo, which will extend through Saturday night. Over 300 youngsters from throughout the state are competing.

Three join local police department

The Big Spring Police Department has hired one slightly used and two new employees.

Patrolman James Hicks, after taking a short leave from the force, rejoined on July 16. A new patrol officer, Elizabeth Van Cleve, 28, will begin work on Aug. 1.

Ms. Van Cleve, a native of Carrijo Springs, has a degree from Southwest Texas Junior College, and served as a dispatcher with the San Angelo Police Department before joining the Big Spring squad.

Hired as secretary for the Major Crime task Force was Paula Smith, 22. She had recently been an employee of the Texas Tech University Medical Center in Lubbock, but is a Big Spring native, having attended schools here.

Cuellar was arrested Friday.

Midland firm maps venture near Knott

North American Royalties, Inc., Midland, will drill the No. 1 Lillie Mae as a 10,600-foot Fusselsman wildcat and as a 3/4-mile southwest outpost to the opener of the two-well Isaac (upper Pennsylvania) field of Howard County, two miles north of Knott.

Location is 330 feet from the south and 1,320 feet from the west lines of 11-34-2N-T&P.

The discovery, the firm's No. 1 T.W. Williams Estate, drilled to 10,868 feet, was finished March 27, 1979 for 233 barrels of 47.4 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,841-1, through a 12-64-inch choke and perforations at 9,266-304 feet. The following tops were picked on ground elevation of 2,625 feet; Yates, 1,942 feet; San Andres, 3,589 feet; Spraberry, 6,648 feet; Pennsylvanian, 9,262 feet; Mississippian, 10,175 feet; and Fusselsman, 10,483 feet.

Judge Tune takes sardines to property tax seminar

A State Property Tax Board seminar in Midland was attended by five Howard County officials Wednesday.

The afternoon meeting was for providing information to taxing entities on setting the tax rate.

County Auditor Jackie Olson, County Clerk Margaret Ray, Commissioners William Crooker and Louis Brown, and County Judge Bill Tune left the courthouse at 10:45 a.m.

Judge Tune joked, displaying a can of sardines, "I'm taking my lunch."

Police beat Four suspects in custody

Police have four suspects in the hog-tying and robbery of a local man early this morning.

At 2:30 a.m. today, three men and a woman kicked in the door of the Holiday Inn room where Manuel Del Real, 59, of Colorado City was staying. The thugs then forced Real to lie face down on his bed, where they tied him and stole his pants.

Inside the pants were a checkbook containing $500 in cash and a change purse with about $3 worth of coins.

At 3:05 a.m., officers arrested three men just outside the Fiberflex Company on suspicion of robbing Real. Arrested were Tom Zantrop, 18, Jackson, Mich.; Gary Mannor, 19, Sands; and Ronald Callender, 22, 2900 W. Highway 80.

A female suspect, Mary Ybarra, 31, 1001 N.W. 1st, was arrested at her home, 5:48 a.m. today. All face charges of aggravated robbery.

Pauline Matthews, 200 Goliad, told police that, while in a parking lot at 207 N. Benton, a man grabbed her around the throat, choked her, and hit her on the head. She stated that she would press charges when the assailant is caught.

Bonnie Chambers, 800 Main, complained that a man she knows repeatedly walked onto her property at 2509 Gungler without her permission. The man may also have stolen parts from a car parked there.

Three mishaps were reported Wednesday.

A vehicle driven by Ector Franco, 314 N.E. 10th, struck a street sign at 1100 N. Lamesa, 1:24 a.m.

A vehicle driven by Ophelia Mayfield, 2708 Crestline, struck a parked vehicle belonging to Austin Pyles, 311 W. 6th, 2501 Gregg, 5:43 p.m.

Vehicles driven by James E. Sharp, Bobby Street, and John W. Anderson, 3906 Connally, collided at South Highway 87 and Heran, 5:55 p.m.

After bumped in showers Aged minister shoots man

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An 81-year-old retired Baptist minister, described by friends as "peaceful and just" apparently shot a Fort Worth man that bumped him in a YMCA shower room, then held police at bay for 45 minutes Wednesday night, police said.

The elderly resident of the YMCA reportedly shot another resident and then barricaded himself into a room until the resident manager "talked to him about the Lord" and persuaded the elderly man to surrender to police.

Michael Slobadgen was in stable condition at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth Wednesday night with a gunshot wound to the shoulder, hospital officials said.

The shooting occurred outside the elderly man's room when Slobadgen walked up to talk things after bumping the minister earlier in the third floor shower room, police said.

About a dozen police surrounded the YMCA and stood outside the elderly man's door, trying to persuade him to surrender.

Two blocks around the building were cordoned off, and officers kept curious onlookers out of range of the shuttered windows of the barricaded room.

Finally, Joe Mayes, resident manager, spoke to the "Reverend," as residents called him, and the man opened his door.

"I just talked to him about the Lord," said Mayes, also a retired minister.

Police then assisted the partially crippled man to a waiting patrol car and confiscated a .38 caliber pistol from his room.

"Usually he just sits up there and preaches to the guys," said Mayes.

Deaths Zane Donald

Services for Zane Donald, 43, who died at 6:55 p.m., Tuesday in a local hospital, will be at 4 p.m. today in the Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel. Officiating will be Dr. Weldon Butler, district superintendent of the Plainview District of the United Methodist Church. Burial will occur in Trinity Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Merle Ringener, Travis Crow, Lee McMurtrey, Dickie Jones, Jim Baum, and Rodney Fraland. Honorary pallbearers will be members of his Sunday School class, the Saints and Sinners.

Clyde Burns

Clyde A. Burns, 71, died at 2:30 p.m., Wednesday following a sudden illness.

Services will be at 11 a.m., Friday in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. Roy R. Havens, First United Methodist Church of Ackerly, officiating. Burial will occur in Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Mr. Burns was born Sept. 5, 1908, in Rotan, Tex. He had been a resident of Ackerly since 1916. He was a member

Pair might face assault counts

Henry Franklin Edwards, Route 1, and Steve Joel Mundell, Forsan, were arrested on suspicion of aggravated assault Wednesday. Mundell was arrested on suspicion of criminal mischief.

The pair allegedly attacked James Michael Thurman and Betty Berry, Lubbock. Some glass in the car was allegedly broken in the incident.

"We're going with the aggravated assault because we don't know if the criminal mischief is going to be a felony," said Detective George Quintero. A conference between the county attorney and the district attorney will determine if the damage was extensive enough to warrant a felony charge, said Quintero.

Authorities will also have to prove that the damage was intentional, he said.

Major Crime Task Force is investigating Mundell's involvement in the case.

Bond was set on Mundell at $10,000 by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin. Edwards' bond was set by Heflin at $5,000 for each charge. Edwards is free on personal recognizance.

Car insurance hike inevitable

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Insurance Board Chairman Bill Daves says a car insurance rate increase is inevitable.

Daves said at the close of Wednesday's auto insurance hearing that the board will make a decision in "mid- or late August" and new rates will take effect Nov. 1.

A rate increase must be ordered, he said, because "inflation is justifying or demanding it."

Board actuaries recommended an 18.9 percent average statewide increase that would raise Texans' premiums by $257 million a year.

Insurance companies said they need a 28 percent increase, or $379 million in higher premiums.

Actuaries for both sides agreed the culprit was inflation, and Joe Eddins of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office said Detroit auto makers also must share the blame.

"With new car sales off by 30 percent to 40 percent over last year's results, car manufacturers and dealers have one primary alternative to soften the great loss in cash flow, and that is to increase prices on auto parts," Eddins said.

Auto parts are the main ingredient in auto accident costs paid by insurance companies, he said.

"The State Farm Auto Crash Parts Index for January 1980 reported that General Motors increased parts prices by 10.9 percent during 1979. Ford increased their parts prices by 14.1 percent and Chrysler's parts prices went up by 23.4 percent during the same period," Eddins said.

The general inflation rate in 1979 was 13 percent.

Gavlon Daniel, board actuary, said that in some lines of insurance, Texans are filing fewer claims but the average cost of each claim is greater.

Property damage liability claims are down 3 percent, he said, but the average cost of settling them is up 15 percent, he said.

"The only thing that seems to be consistent is inflation," Daniel said.

He said his rate recommendation recognizes for the first time that insurance companies are going to collect more premiums even if rates do not rise.

"People are buying new cars and their value is higher than the cars they replace — the rate schedule is higher even if we don't raise rates," Daniel said.

If the board adopts the staff recommendation, yearly auto premiums for typical adult drivers will rise by a low of $9 in San Angelo to a high of $76 in Rockwall County, northeast of Dallas. Harris County (Houston) would continue to have the highest rates, with a typical driver's premium jumping from $433 to $494.

The board also heard several endorsements of a proposed readable car insurance policy and said it will decide on July 29 whether to adopt it.

Board members indicated they will approve the new policy, which is 3,500 words shorter than the present standard policy and uses common words instead of insurance jargon.

Richard Geiger of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office said one thing the new policy will not cover at all is radar detection devices, such as the Fuzzbuster.

"We think it is against public policy to insure these devices, whose only purpose is to avoid apprehension for speeding," Geiger said.

Rebecca Lightsey, managing director of the Texas Consumer Association, praised the new policy, which would go into use on June 1, 1981, if approved by the board.

"Insurance is one of the leading consumer problems, right behind auto repairs. One problem is individuals can't figure out what they are buying. If the readable policy will clear up a number of problems simply by being able to understand who is responsible for what," she said.

Howard Young Democrats to organize, discuss election

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

Like the Mount St. Helens volcano, the Young Democrats here are planning to explode Friday from a long awaited dormancy in time for the general elections this fall.

Interested persons will attempt to re-establish the Howard County Young Democrats at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Company office.

The move to revive the organization is being made principally by Kaye Holland, a delegate this year to the Democrats State Convention, Doyle Ditto, Jay Shaw and Cindy Hopper.

Ms. Holland said the organization is open to anyone between the ages of 14 and 35, who supports the causes of the Democratic Party.

In order for the local political organization to become chartered with the Texas Young Democrats at least 10 persons must join, Ms. Holland said.

Friday's agenda will be devoted to informing those in attendance about the Young Democrats. Ms. Holland said she will present the different activities that are open to the organization. She added that an effort toward drawing up a constitution will be made, along with determining a mode to select officers.

Dunn charged with indecency with three-year-old girl

Earis Lee Dunn, Jr., 1602-B Lincoln, is charged with indecency with a three-year-old girl. He was charged in the office of Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin Wednesday in a complaint signed by Detective Avery Falkner.

The girl, Department of Human Resources workers have been called in to investigate.

The victim reportedly was examined at a local hospital. Hospital officials alerted welfare officers, who, in turn, called police.

Falkner arrested Dunn at his home, 11:23 a.m. Wednesday.

Lamesa closed campus voted

LAMESA — The Lamesa school board has voted to make the Lamesa Middle School a closed campus, which, in effect, will keep students from leaving the campus during the noon break, unless they gain permission to go home.

During past school sessions, the middle school students have been crossing a busy thoroughfare to patronize a nearby grocery store.

In other action, the trustees have accepted the resignation of 15 teachers and hired 18 others for the 1980-81 school term.

Brownwood folks schedule periods of prayer for rain

BROWNWOOD — Brownwood will join the list of communities which have scheduled periods of prayer for rain.

People of all religious persuasion have been invited to gather on the south steps of the Brown County courthouse at 6 p.m., today to ask for divine help toward relieving severe drought conditions which have plagued Central Texas for more than a month.

A spokesman for the sponsoring organization said "we are hoping for enough persons to attend to form a symbolic ring, hand-in-hand around the entire courthouse. We simply want to gather together in the love of Jesus Christ and ask God to send rain."

The prayer session is expected to last about 20 minutes.

Needed rain falls in Panhandle area

By the Associated Press
Badly needed showers and thundershowers rumbled across the Panhandle Wednesday night and early today, bringing .54 of an inch of rain to Dalhart. By dawn, however, the showers were diminishing.

Waco established a new heat wave record Wednesday after 31 consecutive days of triple-digit readings. The previous record was set in the summer of 1969.

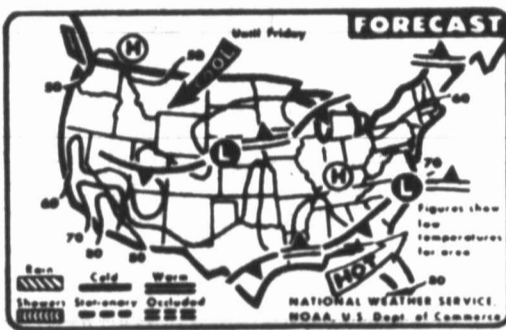

Several other Texas cities also recorded temperatures in the 100-102 range.

Early this morning, skies over most of Texas were clear, except for patchy light fog along the middle coast.

Pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s, with readings in the low 80s in South Texas.

Another sunny, hot day was forecast for today. Widely scattered afternoon thundershowers were expected over the northern Panhandle and Southwest Texas mountains. Afternoon highs were expected to range from the mid-90s to near 105.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS - Partly cloudy with a chance of afternoon and nighttime thundershowers. Continued very warm to hot afternoons. Highs 92 to 108 except upper 80s mountains. Lows middle 60s to middle 70s.

WEATHER FORECAST - Hot weather is expected in the forecast period, today until Friday morning, across most of the southern tier of states and into the Plains. Cool weather is forecast for the Northwest. Other areas will be warm.

Estimated cost of Comanche Peak nuclear plant spirals

Estimated dates for operation of the Comanche Peak nuclear plant have been revised to 1982 for Unit 1 and 1984 for Unit 2, and the estimated cost of the plant has been changed to $2.235 billion or $972 per kilowatt, Bill Marquardt, president of Texas Electric Service Company, announced.

The revisions resulted from studies which were done as part of the regular review of the construction program. The new cost estimate is an increase from the $1.7 billion estimate made in 1977. The change in schedule means an estimated delay of about one year for each unit.

"Even at this higher cost, Comanche Peak will still mean substantial savings to our customers compared to what they would pay for electricity produced by natural gas and oil," said Marquardt.

For example, he said, in 1985 electricity produced by Comanche Peak will cost about 25 percent less than electricity produced by gas and oil.

Marquardt emphasized that the new operation dates and cost figure are still estimates that are subject to further revisions.

"We still face a number of unknowns," he said. "Completion dates and costs for any major construction project - not just nuclear plants - are constantly being influenced by factors that can't be controlled or predicted, such as future inflation rates and regulatory changes."

He noted that costs of the company's lignite-fueled power plants have increased steadily over the years. The first plant was finished in 1971-72 at a cost of about $125 per kilowatt. By 1977 construction costs for those plants had grown to $275 per kilowatt, and current estimates for new units are running as high as $750 per kilowatt.

"But because nuclear plants present some unique problems, we know we will be making some further substantial changes in the Comanche Peak design.

"Some changes have already been indicated by studies into the Three Mile Island accident, and reviews are underway to determine if others are needed. Still other changes have been under consideration by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for some time," he said.

But he noted that regulations that will govern some changes are still being developed. "We've attempted to estimate the cost of these upcoming changes. We know they will contribute significantly to the announced delay of the plant and the new cost estimate, but we don't have enough information yet to know the full extent of the impact as to both time and money it will take to implement these changes. It may be more than we anticipate at this time."

These changes include such major items as: Implementation of any improvements which a review indicates are necessary to make control room instruments provide additional information.

Addition of a separate display console which will indicate key information relating to safety of the plant.

Establishment of a technical support center which will support activities in the plant's control room in the event of an emergency.

Establishment of a near-site emergency operations center from which additional operational support can be provided.

"We want to make any changes that are needed to enhance the safety of Comanche Peak, and we are benefiting from the experiences of the nuclear industry in this respect. But these kinds of changes, which we have been making continuously since we began building the plant, are expensive and time-consuming," Marquardt said.

"We've based our previous schedule and cost estimates on existing design requirements and safety regulations, as well as on the nuclear industry's previous construction experiences. But it's become clear that these previous experiences have not been a good barometer to use in predicting timetables and costs for new plants such as Comanche Peak."

"It would be fair to say that we are not building the same plant we started building in 1974. The design that was acceptable then has been changed steadily through new interpretations of existing requirements and regulations, as well as additions of new requirements."

He noted the Department of Energy has recognized the effect of these changes in a study which says, "Compliance with new requirements for safety, greater quality control and environmental protection has increased design complexity and has had a major impact on construction schedules and plant costs."

"What this means is," Marquardt said, "in trying to estimate completion dates and costs, we're facing a moving target."

This, he said, is reflected in the estimates for the number of manhours needed to build the plant. "In 1972, we estimated it would TAKE 1/4 MILLION MANHOURS. By 1977, that estimate had increased to 29 million, and now we believe the increased complexity of the plant's design means it will take 50 million manhours to build the plant."

Changes in the design and the scope of the work required has added to costs in the following areas:

Labor costs, $240 million. Material, $55 million. Engineering work, $150 million.

Cost of borrowed construction money, $90 million. Marquardt also listed some examples of specific areas in which costs have gone up:

Concrete. The materials and labor required to place reinforcing steel and concrete in the more complex structures required of new plants has been about twice what was estimated based on experience at older plants. The result has been an increased cost estimate of about $70 million.

Piping. The labor required to install piping and pipe support systems in order to meet more stringent seismic (earthquake) requirements imposed on all plants now being built has been 2 1/2 times what was estimated. The cost difference is expected to be about $50 million.

Electrical systems. The amount of materials needed for electrical systems has gone up by about 35 percent, adding some $45 million to the cost estimate.

New Hebrides rebellion ends with foreign troops arrival

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) - The eight-week, bow-and-arrow rebellion in the New Hebrides ended peacefully today - a week before the archipelago gets independence - when 200 British and French troops landed on the island of Espiritu Santo, the government there reported.

Not a shot was fired and there was no resistance from the rebels on the South Pacific island, spokesman John Beasant said in a telephone interview from Port Vila, on Efate island, the capital of the 72-island chain 800 miles east of Australia.

He said rebel leader Jimmy Stevens, a former bulldozer driver who took over Espiritu Santo on May 28 with a band of tribesmen armed with bows and arrows, was on hand to meet the 100 British commandos and 100 French paratroopers.

"I understand there was a big crowd in Luganville to see them land," he said.

Stevens, who has said he gets his orders from God, had promised to meet any arriving military force with dancers and flowers.

"I don't know if he met them with flowers, but it was peaceful," said Beasant.

He said the paratroopers were dropped in first, cleared the airfield and then the other troops landed. The French came from neighboring New Caledonia on Wednesday; the British had been in Port Vila for more than a month.

No other details were immediately available, and it was not known what action the government would take against Stevens and his supporters. The chief minister of the New Hebrides government, Father Walter Lini, an Anglican priest, said earlier that he would deport all foreigners involved in the rebellion.

Espiritu Santo is the largest and richest of the New Hebrides, which have been administered jointly by Britain and France for 74 years. The central administration is controlled by pro-British politicians, and Stevens had the support of many of his island's 4,000 French settlers.

He also was supported by a group of right-wing American businessmen who hoped the island would become a tax-free haven where private enterprise would operate without government controls.

The New Hebrides is scheduled to become independent July 30.

When weather heats up, zanies take over

There is supposed to be a wholesale rush toward the warmer climes, what with America being in a bad way for fuel supplies. Hopefully it won't turn into a stampede.

The crazies take over when the temperatures shoot upward. And when the heat becomes unbearable, as it did throughout the south in recent weeks, the idiot fringe really takes charge. To put it another way, the Zanies do more than bark at the moon. They're apt to strike anywhere and do anything. They commit senseless acts of vandalism. They pummel their children for no good reason. They drink too much, drive too fast and talk too loud.

MULTIPLE KILLINGS are more apt to happen when the weather becomes unbearably hot. Husbands and wives are far more likely to exchange verbal thunderbolts and insult each other's antecedents if the cooling system isn't working and the sun is beating down.

When it's 110 in the shade and there is no shade, the theft of air conditioners skyrockets. The sinister sounds of night grow in intensity and the patience of voters with public servants grows thin.

A Federal Aviation Administration said recently that someone responsible for broadcasting false flight instructions to airplane pilots probably was a candidate to be squirrel food, that no one in his right mind would try such a thing. Invariably, something like that happens when the days get long and the weather warms up.

The Bureau of Missing Persons can expect an increase in the number of requests for its services when summer comes on. The people who develop wanderlust are far more apt to consult roadmaps and avenues of escape when the nights as well as the daylight hours are balmy.

Ministers have come to expect more people seeking counsel. The Russian Roulette players fall out in force. The young drivers playing 'chicken' in their cars greatly increase in numbers, and deaths go up accordingly.

Figures prepared by the government show that, with one important exception, crimes peak in the summer and ebb in the winter. The exception is personal larceny of less than $50, which tends to reach a high point in October and plummets in the summer, apparently because schools are closed and thefts in such institutions decrease significantly.

THOSE CRIMES which have the strongest tendency to rise and fall with a change in the seasons include household larceny, thefts of less than $50, forcible-entry burglary, assault and motor-vehicle theft.

About nine million cases of household larceny took place each year nationally during 1973 to 1977, the years studied by the U.S. Justice Department. The largest average monthly estimate — 919,000 — was chalked up in July and the smallest estimate — 578,000 — was posted in February.

No-force burglaries recorded a 54-percent swing with the seasons.

When the weather gets cold, man is more apt to pursue ways of staying warm and doing what he can to see that the desired degree of warmth continues.

Make what you will of man's erratic behavior when nature turns up the thermostat. Some say the Grand Architect of the universe is giving us just a small sample of what to expect if we don't accentuate the positive and eliminate some of the negative. You can draw your own conclusions.

Predictable end

Around the rim

Steve Hershberger

Fact is stranger than fiction. It has been to my dismay, however, that fiction can not in the least mirror the irrationality we are constantly beset with.

There is an exception, though. The movie, "Brubaker," shown here recently at two theaters, gives a picture of the forces of good fighting with one hand behind their back the forces of evil. Evil wins, of course, but not after a gallant struggle by good to right the wrongs.

EXTRAORDINARILY, this movie showing Robert Redford portraying Henry Brubaker as the warden of Wakefield Prison documents so well the occurrences in the late 1960's at an Arkansas Prison Farm.

In 1966, Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican, was running for governor of Arkansas. Rockefeller ran strong on eliminating corruption in the state government and cleaning up the state's prison system.

When he came into office in 1967 as the first GOP chief executive in the Land of Opportunity since Reconstruction, Rockefeller came in contact with a 67-page report on the Arkansas Prison System. The report, which was prepared in August, 1966, was so hard hitting that the previous governor, Orval Faubus, suppressed it.

From what he learned, Rockefeller came up with one Thomas Murton, 39, an assistant professor of criminology at Southern Illinois University.

Murton had served in Alaska as a superintendent of a U.S. Army stockade. When Alaska became a state, he served as the acting chief of corrections there.

Upon arriving at Cummins Farm, Murton found the prison to be an anachronism to modern criminal justice.

The prison was ruled by a few powerful trustees, as only six hired-staff were on the prison's premises. These trustees made out work assignments, menus, bedding details and controlled other aspects of prison life.

THERE WERE NO guards, as shotgun-toting trustees lived over the prison. Trustees lived a life different from the rankman. Each lived in a refrigerator-and-TV-furnished shack.

The prison was ruled by fear. Two devices were used to punish the prisoner. One was a five-inch wide, five-foot long strap called the "hide."

The second device was the "Tucker Telephone." This apparatus was an old-fashioned crank telephone. A prisoner getting a "phone call" was strapped to a table, and wires leading from the telephone were attached to his big toes and genitals. The crank was spun and the victim was jolted by several electric shocks.

By 1968, Murton was able to turn Cummins Farm around, but in January of that year a 59-year-old prisoner sentenced to the farm for killing his brother gave the reform warden a shocking revelation.

Reuben Johnson led Murton to a field and said that three bodies were buried in three adjacent sites he pointed to. Johnson further informed Murton that over 200 men were buried in the area.

Murton ordered a convict crew to start digging. As Johnson had said, three bodies were unearthed from the three sites. One body was headless; another had its skull crushed; and the third had its arm broken behind it.

Murton charged the men had been illegally executed.

The revelation sent state officials reeling. Rockefeller himself refused for several weeks to comment. One state representative claimed the bodies were uncovered from a paupers graveyard, but a state newspaper made the observation that the nearest potter's field was several miles away.

Needless to say, Murton was fired. The only reason, Rockefeller gave, incredibly, was that Murton was a poor administrator.

Last flat in Paris

Art Buchwald

(Since Art Buchwald is now leading in the polls against Carter, Reagan and Anderson, his political managers have advised him to take a few weeks off to formulate his summer strategy. He left behind some of his favorite columns.)

It is incumbent on every columnist to see "Last Tango in Paris" and comment on it. Some critics have called it the greatest movie of our time. Others have written that it is one of the great ripoffs of the film industry.

But having seen the movie, I would like to advance the opinion that most critics have missed the point of the picture.

"Last Tango in Paris" is not, as it has been described, the story of an aging American (Marlon Brando) and a young girl (Maria Schneider) in a desperate sexual battle for survival. It is really a simple heartwarming film about two people trying to rent the same apartment in Paris.

ONLY THOSE WHO have ever searched for an apartment in Paris can appreciate what Brando and Miss Schneider go through for this lovely flat near the Seine.

In the film, Brando plays a washed-out American, whose wife has just committed suicide. He wants the apartment in the worst way. So does the young French girl.

They meet by accident in the empty flat and you see Brando's mind working. He figures if he rapes the girl, she'll go away and he'll get the apartment.

But Miss Schneider, a child of the French bourgeoisie, is made of sterner stuff, and she puts up little resistance to Brando's assault. As a matter of fact, while she's being bounced around by Marlon, she is really measuring the floor to see how much carpeting it will take.

The next day they are back at the apartment again. Brando has brought a table, chairs and a bed to assert his claim to it. But Miss Schneider is not impressed and walks about the place as if it were hers.

This infuriates Brando and he throws her down on the bed and keeps muttering, "It's mine, it's mine." Miss Schneider just laughs at him.

All the time they are making love, she is looking at the window, trying to figure what size curtains she'll need for the room.

BRANDO, EXHAUSTED and fearful that he'll lose the flat, visits his mother-in-law and dead wife. We see the tiny hotel he lives in and realize why Brando is so intent on getting the apartment. Miss Schneider goes off with her fiancé and we discern why she wants a new place to live.

Back to the apartment. Rather than being frightened by Brando's brutality, Miss Schneider becomes more determined than ever to wrest the key away from him.

The next time they meet, she's in her wedding dress and Brando is so mad he throws her in the tub. Miracle of miracles, the plumbing works, and Brando gives Miss Schneider a bath while she figures out what color scheme would go best with the white medicine cabinet.

By this time, Brando is worn out and figures the apartment isn't really worth it. He leaves without telling Miss Schneider his name.

A little battered from the sexual encounters, Miss Schneider returns triumphantly with her fiancé to show him the flat.

"And rest assured I'll pick a running mate who can fill my shoes if it's ever necessary."

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Signs of Vitamin A poisoning listed

Dear Dr. Donohue: I understand that taking vitamin A (50,000 units a day) for a period of time will cause skin rash and liver damage because the vitamin is oil soluble and is stored in quantities in the body. My question is: Would these harmful effects also result from taking large quantities of the vitamin A in water soluble form? — J.R.W.

Yes, they would. "Fat soluble" refers to the action of the vitamin in the body. It means that any excess is attracted to and stored in fatty deposits (in the liver chiefly for vitamin A). There is almost always enough of this vitamin stored in the liver at any given time to take care of needs for up to two years.

An excess dose of vitamin A in whatever oral form will increase the body stores of that vitamin. The reason water preparations are used is to increase absorption by the body for people who may require this. The storage still occurs ultimately in the fat tissue.

Too much vitamin A on a prolonged basis can cause fatigue, bone pain, headache and dry scaly skin. You don't interpret the term "period of time." Your 50,000 units a day should not hurt. But if you continue that for more than a month or so, you might develop vitamin poisoning.

The water soluble vitamins (like B) are that way naturally. They just are not attracted to fatty deposits, hence are not stored. Therefore, the excess is excreted harmlessly.

If you have learned you have a vitamin A deficiency (which is rare) you probably have deficiencies of other vitamins as well. In any event, I urge caution in dosing yourself with any fat soluble vitamins.

For a complete discussion, read the booklet "Vitamins: Facts You Need to Know." For a copy, send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My mother has Waldenström's macroglobulinemia. She has started chemotherapy treatment. Could you please tell us about this disease and how it will affect her? — Mrs. B.L.

This is a blood problem.

We sometimes think of blood as a liquid in which there are only red cells to carry oxygen, white ones to fight infections and something we vaguely refer to as plasma. Blood is more than that. It carries many other substances, including important proteins, like albumin and globulin, which brings us around to your mother's problem — macroglobulinemia.

In this there is an excess production of a certain kind of globulin — "macro" (for large). This has the effect of slowing down blood flow, causing tiredness and confusion. Enlarged lymph nodes and anemia are part of the picture.

Often drugs must be used in the treatment (the chemotherapy you mention). In some cases, radiation of the enlarged lymph nodes is necessary. Your mother should begin to feel better when her therapy has had time to work.

Sometimes, if the blood is slowed down too much the large proteins can be removed by a remarkable process called "plasmapheresis." The blood is removed, the unwanted proteins extracted from the plasma and the rest of the blood returned to the patient.

We don't know why Waldenström's macroglobulinemia occurs. Most patients show improvement with the chemotherapy.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I say warts and moles are the same things. Right? — N.W.

Wrong. Moles and warts are not the same, even though one may be mistaken for the other. Moles are "nevi," that is, collections of cells in the skin that have been there since very early in development. They may make themselves visible later on. They are commonly brown, and can be as small as a pinhead or several inches across. They may be flat, slightly raised, hairless, hairy, smooth or rough. If a mole enlarges, darkens, crusts, bleeds or becomes inflamed, one should see a doctor.

Warts are caused by viruses. Again, they vary in shape. They usually remain the same size after they have matured, and often disappear a year or two after their appearance. Handling frogs causes neither warts nor moles, and I wish you could see the collection of down-home cures I have for warts.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am 10 years old and I would like to know how I can tell if I have Jesus in my heart. — E.R.

DEAR E.R.: Yes, you can know that you have Jesus in your heart — and furthermore, it is the most important thing you can know in life, because it tells you that you are a child of God and He will always be with you now and in eternity.

How can you know? Jesus Christ has promised to come into your life — and into your heart — if you will invite Him. Have you done this? If so, Jesus Christ has come in and is already there. You can know that because He has promised — and he cannot lie! Listen to what He said: "Here I am! I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will go in and eat with him, and he with me" (Revelation 3:20). Here Jesus says that He is knocking at the door of our hearts. And if we will let Him in, He will come in, and have fellowship with us.

But maybe you are not sure if you have really invited Christ into your life. If you are not certain, I hope you will take that step of faith right now.

When you invite Jesus Christ into your life you first of all are admitting that you need Him in your life. You are acknowledging that you are a sinner, and that you need His forgiveness — the forgiveness He purchased for you on the cross. Then you are admitting or accepting that He wants to come in, and you are asking Him to do that. Furthermore, you are inviting Him to come into your life not just as an occasional guest, but as your Lord. That means you want Him to rule and direct your life, and you are yielding it to Him.

You can invite Christ into your life by simple prayer of faith right now. Just tell Him that you are sorry for your sins, but that you want Him to forgive you and come into your life. And He will — because He has promised to do so.

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — There's an unpublicized but important athletic event that's not on the official schedule of the Moscow Olympics — the free-style entrapment of Western visitors by Russian prostitutes working for the Soviet secret police. And the Russians are after as many gold medals as they can hook.

Indeed, U.S. intelligence experts glumly predict that some West Europeans, or even Americans, with access to sensitive intelligence information, have already been caught up in the lush toils of comely KGB agents they have met in the festive Olympic atmosphere. The danger comes when the unwary victim, blackmailed by the threat of embarrassing publicity or a one-way ticket to the Gulag Archipelago, agrees to spy for the Kremlin when he returns home.

ALTHOUGH THE HUGE influx of foreigners into Moscow during the Olympics may make it more difficult for the KGB to maintain its normal surveillance, the chances of a genuine pickup are slim indeed. Intelligence sources told my associate Dale Van Atta it's safe assumption that any Russian woman who makes sexual overtures to a foreigner — or who responds to such overtures — is working for the secret police.

The reason is as obvious as the Soviets' perennial housing shortage. As one source explained: "The girl can't take the John back to her apartment because of the relatives living with her. And the hotels are constantly watched. So any girl who does this successfully must have the protection of the police — or the KGB." If she has her own apartment — a rarity in Russia — she is certainly working for the KGB, he said.

A typical example of the Soviet badger game was the case of a vacationing American engineer who did top-secret research for an Air Force contractor. The compliant chippy startled him by screaming rape, and the cops came bursting in. The engineer spilled everything in the six-day interrogation that followed.

Another case involved the administrative aide of a U.S. senator. A toothsome young lady named Natasha was seated "by chance" at his table in a Moscow hotel, and a pickup followed. Natasha dragged him from store to store to buy presents for her, and casually got him to sell her dollars for rubles at the black market rate.

The KGB flesh peddlers cater to all sexual preferences, the experts noted. They have homosexual men and women on their payroll, as well as gigolos who prey on susceptible foreign women.

STEPPING STONE? Shirley Hufstедler, Jimmy Carter's controversial choice as secretary of the new Department of Education, has embarked on a busy cross-country speaking tour to sing the praises of the president. Insiders tell me the reason is that Carter has promised to make her the first woman on the Supreme Court.

Critics complain that Hufstедler's Supreme Court ambitions have led her to follow middle-of-the-road policies, hoping to avoid controversy that might block her appointment to the high court.

But Hufstедler's actions as education secretary — and her appointment to the post itself — stirred bitter resentment in the Hispanic community. They insist that Carter promised he'd appoint a Hispanic, as a sign of his support for the Hispanic community — particularly for bilingual-bicultural educational policies.

"Hufstедler and Carter are stalling the Hispanic community in the back," Colorado State Rep. Federico Pena bluntly charges.

The key to implementation of the Bilingual Bicultural Education Act are regulations that must be published in the Federal Register before the Office of Civil Rights can move in. After lengthy stalling, Hufstедler has agreed to publish regulations next month.

But Hispanic leaders tell me the regulations "are so watered-down and weak that we're worse off than when we started this struggle."

ENVIOUS DIPLOMAT: Testifying behind closed congressional doors, Myles Frechette, the State Department's Cuba desk director, commented a bit wistfully: "The Cubans are tremendously flexible in their foreign aid program. There are no strictures. There are no legislative amendments. There is no Congress. The Cubans can do whatever they want." Then, realizing who his audience was, he added quickly: "I did not imply any criticism."

SPITEFUL SLOWDOWN: Like a reformer drunk, the scandal-ridden General Services Administration is showing positively Puritanic zeal in filling supply requisitions for federal agencies according to the strict letter of the law. GSA officials say the time-consuming process is required by new restrictions designed to prevent further fraud and waste. But some officials think the GSA is deliberately going overboard. The Nuclear Safety Oversight Committee, for example, has been stymied since its formation three months ago because GSA still hasn't provided enough desks and typewriters.

Baylor coed may graduate before punished

WACO, Texas (AP) — Four Baylor University coeds bared more than their souls when they chose to expose curvaceous forms in September's issue of Playboy magazine — despite administrative threats of expulsion to any would-be posers.

Three of the four apparently escaped the wrath of university President Abner McCall by graduating before the magazine featuring "Girls of the Southwest Conference" was published. But a spokesman for the university said disciplinary proceedings will begin against the fourth coed, though she, too, may graduate before the pending action goes through. When Playboy solicited coeds to pose last spring, McCall vowed to expel any Baylor student who appeared in the magazine.

Playboy spokesman Dan Sheridan said the Baylor coeds were chosen because they were about to graduate and would not be liable for any kind of retaliatory action. The Southwest Conference cover article features 38 women from nine schools in the conference. The pictures include identical twins Shirley and Suzanne Williams of Southern Methodist University, who posed clothed, as well as Texas Tech coed Dee Dockray who sprawls on the edge of a bathtub in the buff.

Anne Brinkman of the University of Houston posed nude with an oil pump, and Baylor's Kai Lynne lounges in a hot tub covered by no more than warm water. SMU psychology graduate Erin Bann, who posed partially clad in a lilac nightgown, cooed "my parents think it's wonderful." "I've always had a creative flair, and this is one more thing to do," she added. Cheryl Coggins, Baylor psychology graduate, said she was "very flattered" to be asked to pose.

Miss Texas Pageant being sued by sponsors of first runnerup

DALLAS (AP) — Disgruntled sponsors of the Miss Texas Pageant first runnerup contend in a lawsuit that the contest was unfair and the winner should be ordered to surrender her crown.

Pageant organizers called the suit "sour grapes" and said there was no reason to dethrone the reigning Miss Texas, Terri Eoff.

If a state district judge grants Miss Dallas Scholarship Pageant's request during a trial next Monday, Miss Eoff's title and her spot in the upcoming Miss America competition will go to first runnerup Bobbie Lynn Candler, the current Miss Dallas.

Miss Dallas sponsors claim Miss Eoff violated the time limit during the talent competition that counted towards half the contestant's final score.

The sponsors contend Miss Eoff's dramatic reading at the July 12 pageant in Fort Worth ran four minutes and 45 seconds, well past the two minute and 50 second limit spelled out in the Miss America Pageant entries committee manual.

"It was to her benefit to be allowed to continue well beyond the time limit," said Rose Railey, a director of the Miss Dallas pageant. "I don't know of anybody that's ever violated the time limit that excessively after signing a contract that says she will abide by the rules."

"If they (Miss Texas officials) are going to arbitrarily choose which rules they are going to enforce, how can I continue to enter girls in good faith?"

Miss Eoff was not available for comment, but her sponsor in the Miss Lubbock Pageant, Jack

Geddis, called the lawsuit "a bunch of hogwash."

Pageant organizers said the rules are only considered guidelines.

"There is no statement in the Miss America rules that says a girl will be penalized if she goes over (the time limit) — it just says she may," said B. Don Magness, chairman of the board for the Miss Texas Pageant, said.

"If she (Miss Dallas) had won, there wouldn't have been anything said about it. This is just a case of sour grapes."

But Miss Candler, who is not a party to the suit, said she had been treated unfairly.

"I have no sour grapes," Miss Candler said. "I'm not directly involved in the suit."

I have no malice to Terri or any qualms about her. I think she's an excellent actress. She's obviously a good enough contestant to beat several girls who were veterans.

"She doesn't seem the type to violate the rules, whether she knowingly did it or not. But it wasn't run fairly and I didn't have a fair chance to win."

Many observers had picked Miss Candler to win the Miss Texas title. She had been a runner-up twice before and, according to unwritten rules, a girl can compete only three times for the crown.

Miss Dallas sponsors said if Miss Eoff is not forced to surrender her crown then they will file suit to recover $25,000 they spent to prepare their contestant.

FLAG AND FLOWERS — An unidentified boy hands a bouquet of flowers to freed hostage Richard Queen as the consular official arrived at his parents' new home in Lincolnville, Maine. Queen is holding an American flag given to him when he arrived at the airport in Owls Head on Wednesday.

Administration won't reverse tax cut stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, told that the Senate probably will pass a tax cut this year, says the administration is not about to reverse itself and pretend that today's persistent inflation has become acceptable.

But that's exactly what would be required for the administration to endorse a Republican plan calling for Congress to vote immediately on a tax cut to take effect Jan. 1. Miller told the Senate Finance Committee on Wednesday.

He pleaded for the committee to delay action on any tax cut until early next year, saying a premature vote might undo all the government's recent efforts to slow inflation by restricting credit and federal spending.

The committee, which seems inclined to reject Miller's recommendation, sought advice today from several private economists.

The House Ways and Means Committee, meanwhile, arranged to hear from Arthur Burns, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and the current chairman, Paul A. Volcker.

The Democratic-controlled committees scheduled the hearings after congressional Republicans and their presidential candidate Ronald Reagan, began pressing for an immediate vote on a $36-billion tax cut that would take effect next year.

Republicans say the reduction — 90 percent of which would go to individuals — is necessary to offset part of the tax increase caused by inflation and to revitalize American business.

Inflation for the first six months of 1980 measured an annual rate of 14.8 percent. The Labor Department said Wednesday that consumer prices in June rose 1 percent, an annual rate of 12.4 percent — a faster pace than during the previous two months but administration officials insisted that falling mortgage rates will help keep inflation below double-digit levels for the last half of the year.

Nevertheless, Miller told the Finance Committee the GOP proposal would fuel another round of classic inflation, too much money chasing too few goods. The individual relief would be felt almost immediately, putting more money into consumer hands. But, because it would take much longer for the business tax incentive to show effects, the supply of goods could not keep up with the increased demand, he said.

Old Settlers Reunion set

The 56th Howard and Glasscock County Old Settlers Reunion will be held Friday beginning at 10 a.m. at the Old Settlers Pavilion at the Comanche Trail Park.

Events include a barbecue, fiddlers exhibition, dance and square dance exhibition. The price of the barbecue will be $2.

The Old Settlers Reunion has been held continuously since 1929. It is a day set aside in the two counties to honor the pioneers and residents of these two hardy counties.

Camp employees holding blood drive Wednesday

Something few people ever think about is the need for blood — until a family member or friend requires it. Then it must be available. Each day in our area, someone receives a blood transfusion. Perhaps it is a mother in childbirth, or a newborn infant needing a complete blood exchange. Possibly it is an open heart surgery patient or it may be the inevitable accident victim.

Unfortunately, some accidents cannot be avoided. Because of this, the need for blood increases during this season of the year.

While health insurance may pay for necessary blood costs such as processing, cross matching and administration, it cannot provide the blood itself. Blood can only come from people willing to give it. The Big Spring Federal Camp Employees have been asked to support the summer community blood program to help assure the availability of blood should you, a family member or other community member ever need it.

The Big Spring Federal Camp employees will be holding a blood drive next Wednesday, between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Not only has the camp been an asset to the Big Spring community by providing jobs and helping the economics of Big Spring, but it has helped meet the health needs within the community by participating in these blood drives.

The public is urged to go by July 30 and share a gift that is priceless.

MARCHING THROUGH — A demonstrator among a crowd of about 30 raises his hands as they walk through a police line Wednesday night in a predominantly black section of Chattanooga, Tenn., following a second night of racial unrest. The outbreaks of sporadic firebombings and rock throwings follow by a day the verdict of an all-white jury which acquitted two Ku Klux Klansmen and reduced the charge of another who were accused in the April 19 shooting of four black women.

Howard County Junior Rodeo starts July 30

The 35th Annual Howard County Junior Rodeo commences July 30 at 8 p.m. and continues every night through Aug. 2 in the rodeo bowl southwest of Big Spring.

Buckles will go to all-around boy, all-around girl and winners in seven other events. These include breakaway roping, pole bending, barrel racing, goat tying, bull riding, bareback bronc riding, calf roping and ribbon roping.

There will also be goat sacking as a special event and a nightly drawing for a gift certificate.

Entries close promptly at 5 p.m. Friday. Entry forms may be obtained at the Howard County Extension Office, room B3, county Courthouse.

All proceeds go to Howard County 4-H Clubs.

Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children. Stock will be produced by Fred Cordell.

Tax Counseling for Elderly sponsors needed, IRS says

Application packages enabling public service organizations to apply to sponsor Tax Counseling for the Elderly programs nationwide or in their areas are ready for distribution, the Internal Revenue Service has announced.

Elderly (TCE) is an IRS administered program through which organizational volunteers provide free tax information and assistance to individuals age 60 and over. Organizations which sponsor programs may be reimbursed by the IRS for expenses incurred.

The IRS urges private or public non-profit organizations and agencies with experience in volunteer activities to apply for TCE sponsorship for the 1981 Federal tax filing season (Jan. 1 through April 15, 1981).

The application package for TCE contains program guidelines with rules and requirements for sponsorship and an application form to submit.

Applications to sponsor TCE must be submitted by interested organizations no later than Aug. 15, 1980. Selections will be made in October, according to the IRS.

Organizations can obtain the application package by writing or calling the IRS at: Tax Counseling for the Elderly Program, Taxpayer Service Division TX-T-1, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224. (202) 566-4904.

Ornelas is charged in stabbings

Ricky Ornelas, 17, 508 NE 10th, was arrested and charged in connection with the stabbing of Tony Mata Saturday.

Ornelas was free on bond in the July 11 stabbing of Robert Munoz at his home, 105 NE 10th.

Munoz said Ornelas had chased another male through Munoz's backyard. When Munoz tried to stop the attack he himself was stabbed four times in the back, he said.

"I was trying to save this kid's life and protect my property," he said. His wife and child were inside the door that Ornelas and the victim seemed to be heading toward, said Munoz.

Munoz recuperated three days in Hall-Bennett Hospital. He received a puncture to one of his lungs.

Police Detective Dave Spillman is investigating the case. He filed the charge on the Munoz stabbing July 11 and on the Mata stabbing Saturday.

Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Bobby West at $5,000 on the first charge and $10,000 by Justice of the Peace Lewis Hefflin on the second charge.

Ornelas is free again on bond. He was arrested at the Howard County Sheriff's Office.

Fort Worth fair will be national model

WASHINGTON (AP) — An "energy independence fair" next month in Fort Worth, Texas, will be used as a model for others around the country, says House Majority Leader Jim Wright.

The Fort Worth Democrat said Wednesday about 150 booths from businesses and government agencies will be set up Aug. 8-9 at the Tarrant County Convention Center with information about how individuals can save energy.

"Its purpose is to demonstrate what is being done and more important what can be done to make this country energy independent again," Wright said at a news conference. He said that in connection with the fair the Department of Energy will write a manual for other cities to use for planning similar events.

Comedian Sellers loses battle

LONDON (AP) — Comedian Peter Sellers, British star of more than 40 hit movies that in 20 years made countless millions roar with laughter, died early today without regaining consciousness after a heart attack. He was 54.

Sellers died at 12:28 a.m. in the intensive care unit of London's Middlesex Hospital, 34 hours after suffering his third major heart attack in 16 years.

At his bedside were his fourth wife, actress Lynne Frederick, and two of his three children by previous marriages, Victoria, 15, and Michael, 26.

"Every effort was made to keep his heart going but it just did not respond," a spokesman told reporters. "There was a very rapid deterioration. He had really had all the drugs and all the machines it is possible to have. His death was entirely due to natural causes. His heart just faded away."

The hospital, not far from a movie theater showing the star's latest hit "Being There," had been inundated with telephone calls, telegrams, flowers and cards from well-wishers and fans.

Sellers had been scheduled to fly to Los Angeles today to join his wife for a vacation and her 26th birthday Friday. But he collapsed in his hotel suite Tuesday afternoon, and she flew to London Wednesday. She said they had talked on the telephone Monday night and he was "absolutely fine, really bubbling."

Sellers suffered his first heart attack in 1964, seven weeks after marrying his second wife, Swedish actress Britt Ekland. He had another major attack in 1977 and was fitted with a pacemaker. Last May he was admitted to a hospital in Dublin after a mild attack

MAN OF MANY FACES — Actor Peter Sellers, the man of many faces, died early this morning in a London hospital. From left is Sellers as Inspector Clouseau in "Revenge of the Pink Panther," as a nun in "The Magic Christian," as criminal Fu Manchu in "The Fiendish Plot of Dr. Fu Manchu," as Sir Guy in "The Magic Christian," and in character in "There's a Girl in My Soup."

Miss Ekland brought their daughter, Victoria, to London from Stockholm Tuesday but did not herself visit the hospital, saying Miss Frederick and not she should be with him.

Sellers made 54 movies over a period of 29 years and a fortune said in press reports to total nearly $12 million. His first big international hit was "The Mouse that Roared," in 1959; his greatest success was as the bumbling Inspector Clouseau in the "Pink Panther" series.

Despite his fame, wealth, homes on two continents, private jet, yacht, expensive cars and love life with beautiful women, he remained riddled by doubts.

"I have no personality of my own whatsoever. No personality to offer to the public. I can't do anything within myself. I have nothing to project. I've got so many inhibitions that I sometimes wonder whether I exist at all," he confessed.

The stormy passage of his four marriages and other love affairs made constant headlines. He married Australian actress Anne Howe in 1951. They divorced 11 years later after having two children, Michael and Sarah Jane. He married Miss Ekland in 1964 and they divorced in 1969. In 1970 he married socialite Miranda Quarry and they divorced in 1974. He married Lynn Frederick, with whom he had only just been united this year after a split.

Stanton man arrested following wild caper

STANTON — Bond has been set at $48,000 here for Jimmy Kelley Meek, 22-year-old Stanton resident, who allegedly robbed several businesses and stole a vehicle here Monday.

Peace officers arrested Meek as he was trying to put gasoline in a vehicle at a gas station. Charges against him range from burglary to unauthorized use of a vehicle to felony criminal mischief.

According to Sheriff Dan Saunders, Meek was trying to negotiate a curve in his 1976 Chevrolet when he lost control of the car. It wound up in car dealer Jim Wheeler's yard.

The car hit with such impact, it knocked down two cypress trees, crashed into another vehicle and knocked over a brick wall.

Meek took off on foot, with Wheeler and some of his neighbors chasing him.

Later, Meek allegedly broke into the Wheeler Motor Company where he stole a 1980 Buick off the showroom floor, the sheriff said.

While driving around, Meek allegedly burglarized a truck stop, and a drive-in restaurant, Stanton police officer Darrel Brown discovered a gasoline pump nozzle in the vehicle Meek was driving while in the process of robbing the service station, Saunders recalled.

Brown and Martin County Deputy Charles Sebastian finally captured Meek as he was trying to escape from the station on foot. Meek currently is confined to the Martin County jail.

Damage to Wheeler's yard was estimated at $1,200. The other havoc Meek allegedly wracked reportedly cost thousands of dollars.

Ethnic cultures featured Map of China released

By ROBERT C. RADCLIFFE
National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON — The first widely distributed map of China the world has seen in many years has now been published by the National Geographic Society.

The updated map of the People's Republic of China includes details of surrounding nations as well as a pronunciation guide to Pinyin, the new system of spelling place names to represent the sounds of Chinese characters, in Romanized spelling, such as Beijing for Peking and Guangzhou for Canton.

The reverse side of this political map features the peoples of China. It includes illustrations and cultural profiles of the ethnic groups sharing the vast country of nearly a billion people and a map showing the regions where they live.

Minority Six Percent
More than 10 million copies of the oversized 90-by-37-inch map are being mailed with the magazine's July issue, which also includes a picture portfolio and story on Shanghai, "China's Born-again Giant."

Numbering 56 million, China's minorities are a mere 6 percent of the total population, but they inhabit more than half of the country's territory, much of it deserts, steppes, and mountains.

Up to now, only a relative handful of China specialists have known much about the 55 colorful and varied ethnic groups who share the country with the 900 million Han Chinese.

However, in the last two years many of these "other Chinese" have been met by Americans and other tourists traveling beyond the eastern third or so of the country where most of the Han Chinese live.

The minorities differ from the Han Chinese in customs, historical development, religion, race, and language. Muslims in western Xinjiang province for instance speak a language related to Turkish and their faces suggest Europe as much as Asia.

In the desolate mountainous southwest, the herdsmen of yaks, sheep, and goats and the rugged farmers belonged to the one-time theocratic Buddhist state of Tibet under full Chinese power since 1959 after seven centuries of intermittent control.

In the north live seminomadic Mongols, descendants of Genghis Khan and his hordes who swept west across Asia and on to Vienna in the 13th century.

In the south are peoples whose roots may stretch into Southeast Asia and share customs with peoples of Thailand, Laos, and Vietnam.

"Most Up-To-Date"
National Geographic editor Gilbert M. Grosvenor says the peoples of China map is "without question, the most accurate, up-to-date map of its kind ever published, a genuine cartographic contribution."

Some 500 advance copies of the map given out in the capital, Beijing, were received with enthusiasm by Chinese scientists and officials who were particularly impressed by the presentation of ethnic minorities. Geographic cartographer Ted Dächtera traveled to China and worked with the Cartographic Publishing House and the Central Academy for National Minorities to produce the map.

The 40-plus ethnic figures and costume details on the map were painted by Washington area artist Yang Hsien-Min, a native of China.

Sheppard wants to compare accounts of GOP convention

Billy Mac Sheppard is anxious to see a television tape of the Republican national convention. That way, he can tell how near it was like what he saw.

Sheppard, a Big Spring delegate to the GOP convention, gave highlights of his impressions to the Downtown Lions at their meeting Wednesday. "You probably saw more of it than I did," he quipped.

He did have high praise for the City of Detroit, which pulled out all stops for the visitors, even to the point of special schools for service people who were to come in contact with the visitors.

The biggest glut was from the media. For some 2,000 delegates, there were 7,000 members of the press, television, radio and photographic corps. Texas television stations alone had eight crews, and always the national networks had three or four crews on the floor. Everytime celebrities appeared, they were swarmed on like locusts.

The convention, as most do, thrived on rumors, this time mostly on who would be the vice presidential choice. In the earlier stages, things were so dull that members of the press were even interviewing each other. Security was tight, and only those who had business at the convention hall even got near it.

Sheppard thought stories of conventions being times for partying were myths. "I didn't get through and in bed until about 3 or 4 a.m. and then had to make a 9 a.m. caucus. Everybody ought to make one convention but once every four years is enough."

Several awards presented during Pack 305 meeting

Several awards were presented at the Pack 305 meeting Tuesday in the First Baptist Activities Building. Dale Olson presided in absence of Cubmaster Glenn Pierce.

Quade Weaver, Jason Foust, and Troy Nelson earned Webelos awards. Janie Reed presented Bobcat pins to Todd Phillips and Mark Reynolds, and a Bear badge to Danny Reed.

Olson said the Webelos likely will have a campout soon, and on Friday, Aug. 15, Cubs will join with others for a district Indian rally at the Scout Roundup Grounds off Country Club Road. Den awards were received by Danny Reed and Todd Phillips.

THE ONE WAY
By
B.W. Briggs
BAPTIZED UNTO MOSES IN THE CLOUD AND IN THE SEA Last week we began a study of this 1 Corinthians 10 context with special focus on verses one and two. The question brought to my attention was concerning the definition of baptism. If baptism, properly defined, is immersion or an overwhelming, then how could the said definition apply to the above context? We left off last week by showing that the fathers (Israel) were under the cloud and had walls of water on both sides. Therefore, they were covered or overwhelmed by those two elements. Remember, Paul states that they were baptized in the cloud and the sea. Both are essential! Note also that all had to be under the cloud, between the water, and cross to the other side for salvation. If they had failed to respond to God's command through Moses, they would have perished at the hand of Pharaoh and lost salvation at the hand of Jehovah! ALL must cross over in faith! "Under the cloud" and "Passed through the sea" seem to prefigure the dual process of submersion and emersion in baptism. The baptism of 1 Corinthians 10 was death to the Egyptians and salvation to the Israelites. From Exodus 14:31 we see that the people fully accepted Moses, God's servant, and their leader and master following this supernatural work of God. I hope this explains to you the nature of the baptism spoken of by the apostle Paul in 1 Corinthians 10. Just as they were immersed or covered by the cloud and sea. And just as they passed from death to life through that baptism, so are we brought from death to life through New Testament baptism. We are immersed (covered) in water and raised to walk in a newness of life. Paul called baptism a baptism into Christ death, and a burial with him. He said that when we are raised from baptism, therefore, out of the water, we are a new creature, ready to walk in a "newness of life." And note, this command is given unto all, just as all of Israel were baptized under the cloud and sea. The prefigure of baptism relates to our Christian baptism, or baptism into Christ (Gal. 3:27; Rom. 6:3-5). Our baptism saves in that it is the process by which we are translated out of the kingdom of darkness, into the kingdom of His dear Son! It is where we are saved (1 Pet. 3:20-21). It is where faith brings us to (Mark 16:16). It is a commission for all to account themselves with (Matt. 28:18-20). It is the act, synonymous I might add, of calling upon the name of the Lord, or at least companion to it (ACTS 22:16). It is the new birth where one is born again of Water and Spirit (John 3:3-5). As Israel received salvation and new relationship at the crossing of the sea, so the individual today at baptism receives salvation in Christ, and a new relationship with the Father, in the church, His beloved Kingdom! I hope this answer helped. Write me again at any time. I'll always try to answer any question submitted.

TAX INCREASE EXPLANATION
This notice of proposed Tax Increase by the Big Spring Independent School District is the second notice required by State Law.
A tax rate of 1.27½ on $100.00 of value based on 100% assessment for the 1980 roll is proposed.
The 1979 tax rate was $1.70 on 75% of $100.00 of value.
If an owner's market value on the tax roll has remained unchanged, the taxes will remain unchanged.
All property owners whose values were increased on the 1980 tax roll were mailed notices to that effect during the last week of May.

People line roads to view eruption

Volcano may boost tourist trade

SEATTLE (AP) — Mount St. Helens' devastating blast in May had tourists quaking and canceling their Northwest vacations, but the latest eruption awed spectators with 10-mile-high plumes, and some officials hope the volcano could bolster the shaky tourist trade.

People more than 100 miles away scrambled to high spots in north Seattle on Tuesday evening to gaze at billows of dust and moisture glistening in the setting sun.

Drivers on Interstate 5 put on the brakes for the latest display, visible as far south as Corvallis, Ore.

"It was like the Fourth of July... It was a gorgeous sight, it was incredible," said Bill Wippel, who was driving by.

"There were gobs and gobs and gobs of people," reported Barbara Johnson, a Gifford Pinchot National Forest receptionist who was called back to work to help handle calls. "There were cars lined up along the roads wherever they could park."

Officials are hoping the volcano will become a tourist attraction, like Idaho's Craters of the Moon, Oregon's Crater Lake or Hawaii's active volcanoes.

"If it erupts, and you're in the area and you can collect some ash that will be a topic of conversation 20 years to come," said Steve Wilson, of the Idaho Department of Visitors Services.

"Many people go to Hawaii to see the volcanic activity there. Given the right marketing, I think you'll find it could be an attraction."

The enthusiasm over Tuesday's eruption was partly because the blast was less damaging than May's. The ash fall was relatively light and missed major population centers. And it consisted of lighter material that traveled in a cloud and dissipated over Canada.

Since the May 18 blast, which leveled thousands of acres of forest land and killed dozens of people, officials said tourist revenues in Washington state dropped 10 percent to 20 percent from last year, but part or all of that may be due to the national recession.

To combat the tourist scare, there has been a national campaign promoting the scenic Northwest.

"What if it happens again?" asked travel advertisements, referring to the suddenly famous mountain. "While you're enjoying some of the finest country on earth, you may be lucky enough to see the old girl go off. And if there's a little more ash, you can take some home, free."

A "truth squad" has been outlining the good things to see and do in Washington, Oregon and Idaho. United Airlines took reporters from around the country on a wine-and-dine tour of the region, and a $148,000 state ad campaign boasted: "Except for our new tourist attraction, we're about the same as last year."

Farm
 Producer cutbacks, not heat, responsible for price hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior Agriculture Department official says the recent price boosts for some commodities, including hogs and broiler chickens, are mainly the result of producers cutting back, not of the scorching weather that has gripped much of the nation.

Moreover, Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist and policy analyst, says this summer's heat wave, although it has caused extensive crop and livestock loss in some areas, so far has not had much effect on food prices in general.

Even if the hot, dry weather hangs on the rest of the summer, it probably would not have much effect on food prices this year or in the first half of 1981, Hjort told a news conference Wednesday.

Despite recent price increases for some items, Hjort said, "By and large, farm prices for foods are still below where they were a year ago."

Corn prices are now up 3 percent from a year ago, hogs up 10 percent — after being severely depressed last spring — slaughter steers up 6 percent, eggs up 20 percent and broilers up 50 percent, he said.

But farm prices of wheat are down 3 percent from a year ago, soybeans 4 percent, slaughter cows 3 percent and feeder cattle 16 percent.

Since last fall, the USDA has been predicting retail food prices in 1980 would go up an average of 7 to 11 percent from 1979 levels, depending on the weather, crop yields and the general economy.

"Our current estimate is within that range," Hjort said.

Further, he said, the most likely increase still being looked at by department experts is in the range of 8 percent to 9 percent this year.

"That assessment can accommodate some rather wide-ranging scenarios with respect to drought," Hjort said.

Pressed further, Hjort said USDA economists have a "point estimate" now that food prices may go up 8.4 percent. Before the drought, it was 8.3 percent.

His comments followed a report by the Labor Department that retail food prices rose 0.5 percent in June, allowing for seasonal adjustment.

The Agriculture Department uses price figures that are not seasonally adjusted. For example, the June food price increase was 0.6 percent. As he has before, Hjort said food prices — after showing only modest increases in the first half of this year — are expected to gain sharply in the third quarter because of rising prices of some commodities, including cattle, hogs and

Comments on support for dairy farmers requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public is being asked to submit written comments on a proposal that would boost federal price supports to dairy farmers in October, an action the Agriculture Department says would mean higher prices for milk in grocery stores.

Under law, USDA is required to adjust the support price each Oct. 1 and again on April 1 to reflect changes in production costs.

Deputy Secretary Jim Williams said Wednesday the formula, if applied as the law now requires, would raise supports to around $12.73 per 100 pounds of milk sold to make butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk, an increase of 66 cents.

"It could result in a 5- to 6-cent per gallon increase in milk prices at the retail level," the announcement said.

Comments can be sent by Aug. 18 to Director, Procurement and Sales

Division, Room 5741, South Building, USDA, P.O. Box 2414, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Soviet grain harvest good

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department analysts say prospects for the Soviet Union's 1980 grain crop continues to look favorable.

"Current reports from the USSR indicate that both winter and spring grains are in good condition in most areas of the country," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said Wednesday.

Earlier this month, the department forecast the total Soviet grain harvest at about 215 million metric tons, up 20 percent from last year's reduced output of 179.3 million. A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds.

Earnings hike listed by W.R. Grace & Co.

NEW YORK — W.R. Grace & Co. reported an increase in earnings of 36 percent for the second quarter of 1980. Higher income from Grace's operations in chemicals, natural resources, and specialty retailing accounted for the increase.

The second quarter results, coupled with the new earnings high posted in the first quarter, raised net income for the first half 25 percent.

Sales for the second quarter ending June 30 reached a new quarterly high of $1,541,418,000, an increase of 13 percent over the $1,358,828,000 for the 1979 second quarter which were restated for poolings of interests. This year's second quarter net income rose 36 percent to $63,188,000, versus $61,123,000 for 1979's three month period. Earnings per share increased 34 percent to $1.79, up from $1.34.

Excluding the negative impact of adjustments for foreign currency translation (FAS No. 8) and provisions for losses on divestments, earnings were $99,328,000 versus $62,101,000 for the comparable 1979 period, an increase of 60 percent.

Earnings per share, before these non-operating factors, were $2.13, up 77 cents or 57 percent from the $1.36 for the 1979 second quarter.

For the first six months of 1980, Grace's sales amounted to $2,905,521,000, which was 15 percent higher than the $2,525,824,000 for the similar period in 1979. Net income for the first half was $148,423,000, or 25 percent higher than the $118,284,000 for the 1979 period.

Per share, Grace earned $3.19, as compared to $2.60 for the first six months of 1979, an increase of 23 percent. Excluding the effects of FAS No. 8 and divestments in both periods, 1980 earnings through June were $155,647,000, or $3.34 per share, against $94,416,000, or $2.16 per share for the 1979 first half, increases of 58 percent and 55 percent, respectively.

Grace, an international chemical company with related natural resources activities and selected consumer services, operates an agricultural chemicals plant on IS 20 East in Big Spring.

Cisco city dads adopt water rationing plan

CISCO — The city council here have adopted a standby water rationing plan, patterned after one adopted in Sweetwater recently.

The proposed plan will not be used unless the water situation worsens.

The proposed plan has two phases: In Phase I, residents are notified they must stop watering yards. Violators could be fined up to $200.

Phase II calls for an odd-even rationing system based on addresses of residents.

The Cisco watering system has been crippled since a water valve broke earlier this month.

A broken valve Sunday dropped the water pressure from 80 to 20 pounds for approximately three hours.

Senate leaders promise probe of younger Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are pledging some kind of congressional investigation into Billy Carter's ties with the Libyan government, and President Carter's chief spokesman says the White House wants to be open and honest about it.

But what form the probe and the administration's response will take has yet to be decided.

"In general, we are dedicated to the proposition that we ought to be as forthcoming and straightforward in this matter as we possibly can be," presidential press secretary Jody Powell told reporters Wednesday.

Powell added, however, that he could not say whether President Carter's aides would be available to testify before Congress concerning the activities of the president's younger brother.

Billy Carter registered under protest last week as a foreign agent for Libya and said he had received $220,000 in payments from the Libyan government which he said were the first installments of a $500,000 loan.

On Tuesday, the White House announced that the president's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, used Billy Carter as an intermediary last fall in seeking Libyan assistance to free the American hostages in Iran.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that President Carter met with the same Libyan diplomat as Brzezinski about three weeks later, on Dec. 8, to discuss a stiff U.S. rebuke over the burning of the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli four days earlier.

However, the Post said there was no suggestion that Billy Carter helped arrange the president's meeting.

At the Capitol, Senate leaders agreed to continue their discussions today in an effort to break an impasse over whether the matter should be investigated by the Judiciary Committee, by part of that committee or by a special panel drawn from several committees.

Whatever their decision, Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., and Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., told reporters, using identical words, "There will be an investigation."

Republicans pushed for a special Senate committee, similar to the one that looked into the Watergate scandals of the Nixon administration. Democrats resisted this and wanted the investigation done by the Judiciary Committee or a panel drawn from it.

At the White House, Powell was quick to assail any suggestion that the Billy Carter case in any way resembles Watergate.

"When I hear these (congressional Republicans) compare this to Watergate, it seems to me it might be worthwhile to make that comparison in detail," Powell said. "I think it will be very clear that in this instance the president has not attempted to obstruct justice or to influence the Justice Department or to contact the head of the criminal division" or have his chief of staff and the White House counsel mislead the public "in a conspiracy to withhold information."

Republicans on both sides of the Capitol were calling for the appointment of a special prosecutor in the matter.

"I don't know how even under the fairest attorney general you can get an investigation that would appear to the public to be unbiased when it's the president's brother," Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said.

In Los Angeles, Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan gave his support for a federal investigation, saying, "Any time a charge is made I think we're better off if we clear the air."

In San Francisco, independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson also called for a special prosecutor, although he said he was not accusing President Carter of personal involvement in any wrongdoing.

Anderson said having the president's brother intercede with Libya on the Iran crisis was "unbelievably distressing. The impropriety of any member of the president's family dealing with a foreign power is so egregious it goes beyond description."

In New York, Billy Carter refused to discuss details of his loan agreement with the Libyan government.

"The loan was set up by an agent of mine, and the loan agreement is not public," he said on a WABC-TV interview program. "I'm not going to make it public. I have some privacy."

In another development, The Atlanta Journal said Atlanta real estate developer Thomas Jordan claims to have introduced Billy Carter to the Libyans two years ago in hopes of profiting from the relationship.

Jordan told the newspaper that in mid-1978 he was told that "the wealth of the Libyan state would be at my fingertips if I would deliver the younger brother of the president of the United States to Tripoli, so I delivered him."

Billy Carter flew to Tripoli later that year with Jordan and others.

Jordan said he agreed with Carter to establish an agency to represent Libyan business interests in the United States, but none of the wealth he hoped for ever materialized.

EXPLAINING PATH INSIDE CONTAINMENT BUILDING — William Bennie, left, and Michael Benson, Three Mile Island engineers, explain to newsmen during a news conference Wednesday in Middletown, Pa., the route they walked during their entry of the containment building housing the damaged nuclear reactor. The two were the first humans to enter the building since the accident March 28, 1979.

In tomb-like reactor building

Engineers discover no surprises

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) — Two men put on paper jumpsuits, cotton overalls, firemen's cloaks and pants, three pairs of gloves, two pairs of plastic booties, rubber boots, hoods and breathing masks

Then they walked into the gloomy chamber that was the site of the nation's worst commercial nuclear accident. It was "a little like walking into a tomb," said William Behrle.

For 20 minutes Wednesday, he and Michael Benson explored the dark, cavernous reactor building at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant, where 16 months ago a radiation-releasing accident contaminated the plant. They were the first humans in the building since then.

When they emerged, they reported few surprises and little evidence of damage. "The outstanding visual evidence of the intervening months since the accident was the condition of the floor. There was rust and discoloration," Behrle said.

However, the exploration was limited because, from their vantage point, the two men could not see the damaged reactor, steam generators, pressurizer or reactor cooling pumps. And their high-intensity lamp failed after 10 minutes, forcing them to use smaller lamps.

The men, who volunteered for the mission, said the only surprise they found was a dented stairwell door, which senior plant official Robert Arnold said probably had swung open and hit a pipe from the force of a hydrogen explosion during the accident.

The concrete floor was littered with several pieces of amber colored glass that may have come from a broken light bulb, Arnold said.

"We were very happy with the experience and with what we saw. Conditions do not appear to be any worse than we expected — perhaps a little better," he said. "The next step is another entry a month from now, probably into areas that were not covered today."

Benson, 27, a nuclear engineer, and Behrle, 36, a TMI senior engineer, went through months of training before stepping into the 203-foot-high building at 10:06 a.m.

"I felt kind of relaxed," Behrle said. "I was not apprehensive." During their 20-minute stay — limited by the air supplies they carried — the two took radiation measurements, samples and photographs that will be used to plan future steps of the multimillion-dollar reactor cleanup.

The pair measured radiation levels in the 400- to 700-millirem range — "about where we hoped they would be and somewhat lower than we had calculated," Arnold said.

Preliminary tests indicate the men were exposed to about 200 millirems. The federal limit for nuclear workers is 3,000 millirems every three months.

The U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission monitored the entry from a command center at the plant.

An entry attempt on May 20 was aborted when the 1,000-pound door to the containment failed to budge. Technicians repaired a rusted latch mechanism and tested it last week to make sure it would open this time.

Demo president, GOP veep?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — It is difficult to conceive of a situation when the U.S. could be served by a Democratic President and a Republican Vice President, but just such a possibility — albeit a slim one — exists during this election year.

Such a stunning scenario centers around the candidacy of independent presidential candidate John Anderson and whether or not he might be able to carry enough states to prevent a majority of electoral votes from going to either the Democratic or Republican candidate.

Should no one person win a majority of the electoral votes, the House of Representatives would be called upon by the Constitution to elect the president among the three highest electoral vote recipients in the general election. On the other side of the Hill, the Senate would then select the Vice President. Therefore, if one political party controlled the House and another party the Senate, we could wind up with a President and Vice President of different parties. Highly unlikely, but possible.

The constitution is rather hazy and does not spell out all of the actual procedures involved, but each state's delegation in the House is given one vote in such an election. No mention is made of what happens if a state's House delegation divides evenly. While unlikely in Texas' delegation, with 20 Democrats and four Republicans, there are eight states having an equal number of congressmen from each party.

Congressman

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

In the case of tie votes within a state's House delegation, no one would receive that state's one vote until the tie was broken. This could prevent any candidate from receiving the necessary 26 votes for a majority in the House.

A number of unresolved matters would have to be decided by the House Rules Committee before the House would ever vote, including whether the election would be open to the press and the public or be conducted behind closed doors. The 1825 rules, the last time such a situation occurred, provided that the election was conducted in a closed session of Congress.

Decisions would also have to be made on: Whether Members would vote by secret ballot or have their votes made public; whether the vote of each state would be by secret ballot or be made public; an whether a plurality or a majority is required within a state caucus to determine that state's one vote. A majority is more than half, whereas a plurality simply means the vote would be determined by whoever receives the most votes, even if he received less than a majority.

In all likelihood, these speculations will remain just that — speculations, although interesting ones. Any such situation would rely on the success of an independent candidate and independents have rarely done well in our history.

The complicated electoral system has been questioned in the past, as many feel that the presidency should be by majority vote, period. If the presidential election should be left to the House this year, we would almost surely be forced to face this issue squarely, to prevent the possibility of a President of the United States being elected who was not the choice of the majority of the voters in this country.

Terrors of 'the deep' not confined to ocean

The terrors of the deep are not confined to murky ocean mysteries. "The deep" can be a few feet of water in the neighborhood swimming pool or area stock tank.

The hazards of these calm waters are revealed by Texas Department of Health statistics that show swimming pools and tanks claimed about 45 percent of the 585 people accidentally drowned in Texas last year.

Major dangers of these seemingly safe waters are swimmers' carelessness and overconfidence, the Texas Medical Association (TMA) says. If they do not take simple precautions such as checking the depth before diving and watching where they are swimming, even experienced swimmers can hit their heads on pool sides or bottom. Submerged trees and rocks add to dangers in tanks.

Diving boards are another springboard to danger through carelessness or overconfidence. But even the best swimmers can be injured if a diving board is sick or in bad repair.

Overconfidence in estimating swimming ability often plays a role in drowning because of exhaustion, which is another big cause of swimming pool drownings. Stepping or falling into deep water, cramps and losing a flotation device such as a raft or inner tube also are major causes of pool drownings, according to a federal survey.

Knowing how to swim could save many people in such situations but often drowning victims, especially young children, do not know how to swim even well enough to get to the nearby shore. Alcohol adds to problems, can confuse even a good swimmer and contributes to some pool drownings, TMA says.

TMA recommends everyone learn to swim at least well enough to survive falling in water and that adults keep a close watch on young children in the vicinity of a body of water. Teaching youngsters about wise water behavior is another important task for adults because it can help prevent the perils of overconfidence and carelessness when the child is older.

Harte-Hanks dividend listed

The board of directors of Harte-Hanks Communications, Inc. has announced a dividend of 17 cents per share payable Sept. 20, to shareholders of record on Sept. 1. This will be the 39th consecutive quarterly dividend paid by the company.

Melodrama to highlight next Starlight program

Next Starlight Specials program in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheater will be the Spring City Theater production of its summer melodrama, scheduled to start at 8 p.m., Thursday through Saturday.

Pete Jones emceed a program in the amphitheater last Sunday which featured singing groups from the North Side Church of Christ and a Hobbs, N.M., church group.

Plans are already being made by officials of the North Side Church of Christ to host a singing convention for area groups next year in the amphitheater.

All Starlight Special programs are sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Council of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Screened police chief hopefuls facing quiz

COLORADO CITY — Members of the city council here will interview four screened candidates for the position of police chief at 5 p.m. here today. The sessions will be open to the public.

City manager Ray Mason said the council had screened the four applicants from 14 inquiries for the position that opened March 31, when Chief of Police Fred McWhorter resigned.

Names of the four applicants were not made public by the council.

Mason himself has submitted his resignation to the council, effective Friday. The council has had one inquiry about the job. Mason will remain in Colorado City to become assistant administrator at Root Memorial Hospital.

Mason moved here in April 1979 from Tahoka.

PREVENTION — Pictured above is a demonstration of the proper way to floss by gently guiding floss between the teeth, moving it just under the gumline to remove bacterial plaque buildup which causes gum disease.

Dentists reveal primary tooth destroyer

What can you do to have healthy teeth and gums? The majority of dentists today are telling their patients, "It's up to you to take care of your teeth and gums. You know what's happening in your mouth. It's something you must take care of for yourself."

As adults we are more prone to gum disease than to cavities. It is gum disease that is the primary destroyer of otherwise healthy teeth. The statistics tell a grim story. It is estimated that 7 out of 10 adults have some form of gum disease, from mild to advanced. After the age of 40, gum disease is the main cause of tooth loss.

The most common cause of gum disease is plaque, a colorless coating of bacteria that forms on tooth surfaces, and under the gumline between the teeth. By controlling bacterial plaque, dentists believe that we can help prevent gum disease and tooth loss. Many people mistakenly believe they are taking excellent care of their teeth and gums. Brushing twice or three times a day is not necessarily the answer. Brushing alone cannot remove the bacterial plaque and food particles that collect between the teeth, especially below the gumline between teeth.

We now know that, along with daily brushing, the daily use of dental floss is essential for good dental health. Since plaque forms constantly, it's important to floss once a day. Flossing can effectively clean the plaque and debris between teeth and below the gumline between teeth where most gum disease starts. You may not see or feel plaque but it's there.

With a little practice, it's easy to become proficient at flossing. Simply wrap about 18 inches of floss around your middle fingers. Using thumb and index fingers, guide the floss gently between the teeth. Curve floss into a C-shape around each tooth and using an up and down motion scrape the sides of the teeth. Move the floss gently just below the gumline. Repeat this for each tooth. As the floss becomes soiled move it to an unused portion to avoid redepositing plaque. After completing the entire mouth, you'll be amazed at the really clean and fresh feeling you get after flossing.

Fletcher's announce birth of daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Fletcher announce the birth of their daughter, Laci Erin, July 19 at 4:52 a.m. in Malone-Hogan Hospital. Laci made her debut weighing 6 pounds 5 1/2 ounces and measuring 19 1/2 inches in length.

Laci's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Marion Slavens and Mr. and Mrs. James Felts, Big Spring. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Fletcher Jr., Big Spring.

The infant's great-grandparents are Mrs. J.E. Fletcher, Mrs. Francis Bolt and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nall.

A simple test at home to check for plaque on teeth is to use disclosing tablets which can be supplied by your dentist or purchased First, brush and floss as you usually do. Then, chew tablet and swish it around in the mouth. It's harmless and may be spit out. The spots on the teeth that retain the red color are plaque. Brush and floss until the red leaves the teeth. The color may remain on gums for a while after plaque is gone, so don't overdo brushing or gums may get irritated. After becoming proficient at brushing and flossing, there is only an occasional need for disclosing tablets to make sure that the good work is being kept up.

According to Dr. Howard Marshall, a New York periodontist who specializes in the prevention and treatment of gum diseases, many people don't know that they have gum disease until it's too late. To help the public, Dr. Marshall has authored a book, "How To Save Your Teeth, The Preventive Approach," to be published in October. Says Dr. Marshall, "Most people are surprised when told they have a problem. Patients say, 'But I don't feel it! How come it doesn't hurt?'" "If unchecked," says Dr. Marshall, "gum disease can advance to the tooth's root and destroy bone support. That's when you can start losing teeth."

Dr. Marshall offers a simple test to help recognize the signs of gingivitis, the early stage of gum disease.

- 1) Do your gums bleed when you brush?
- 2) Has the color of your gums changed from pink to red?
- 3) Are your gums swollen and tender?
- 4) Are your gums receding with noticeable spaces between the teeth?

If you suspect, after examining your gums, that you have a problem, Dr. Marshall suggests a daily flossing program in conjunction with regular brushing. A total program should also include use of a fluoride toothpaste, use of disclosing tablets to check for plaque, cutting down on sweets and regular professional checkups. Let your dentist be the final judge of the condition of your teeth and gums.

Gift of Sight Leaves Lasting Legacy

DEAR ABBY: As a teen-ager a few years ago, I underwent two cornea transplants — one in each eye. I have seen your columns urging people to donate their organs. Maybe the two corneas I received came from people who got the idea from your column.

I want to address my feelings to my unknown donors. "I never knew you, yet your generosity changed my life. You died, yet a part of you still lives."

"You gave of yourself. It was the last thing you gave, and you gave it to someone you didn't even know."

"My life is so different because of you. Every day I am reminded of the gift you gave me."

"I wonder about you often. Who were you? What were you like? What wonderful things did you see through these eyes?"

"Your generosity helped a stranger, and with the help of God you created a miracle — the miracle of sight."

Abby, I can only praise your work in this area. It means the world to those of us who have benefited from it. God bless you.

SEEING AGAIN

DEAR SEEING: Thank you for a beautiful letter as well as another opportunity to let readers know that they, too, can give the gift of sight. To get a donor's card, call your local Lions Club. It is listed in your phone directory.

DEAR ABBY: My boss jingles the change in his pocket constantly which drives me nuts! Whenever he stands up, he puts his hands in his pockets, then it's jingle, jingle, jingle until I want to scream. He stands by my desk while doing this.

I told him that it bothers me, and he said, "Oh, it bothers my wife too, but it's an old habit I can't seem to break."

Abby, how can I help him break this old habit? He knows it's irritating to me and others, but he goes right on doing it.

UP A WALL

DEAR UP: Ask him if he really wants to break the "old habit." And if he does, try this: As soon as he approaches you, ask him if he has change for a $5 bill, a $10 bill, or whatever it takes to deplete his coin collection. Repeat this procedure daily. End of problem. (P.S. It could also be "end of job," but it's a solution.)

DEAR ABBY: Why would a man insist on knowing where his wife is every minute of the day? Do you think he suspects that she might be fooling around?

B IN BIRMINGHAM

DEAR B: Not necessarily. Maybe he just wants to be sure where she is while he's fooling around.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Egg facts revealed

NEW YORK, N.Y. — If the extent of your knowledge about eggs is that they go great with bacon, you might want to take a look at these egg-eating facts in the May issue of Seventeen.

Eggs have all the essential vitamins (except C), iron and minerals — and they're only 80 calories each.

Eggs are one of the best — and cheapest — sources of high-quality protein.

Lettuce egg whites can be frozen for use at a later date. Just freeze them in an ice-cube tray — one egg white per compartment. When frozen, pop cubes out, store in a well-sealed plastic bag.

Brown eggs are not more nutritious or tasty than white eggs. The color of the egg just tells what kind of chicken laid it.

It is perfectly alright to eat an egg with a cracked shell — but only in a thoroughly cooked dish.

LEMONY MEAL STARTERS

Cool recipes for summer fare

Tip: Chilled soups for warm days

A chilled soup makes a splendid first course for a warm day especially if it has the tangy flavor of lemon. A perfect example of such is Chilled Lemon Soup ... another, Chilled Cream of Carrot. Chilled Lemon Soup requires no cooking ... just a blending of ingredients and chilling. Cream of Carrot needs only the cooking of the carrots, blending and chilling.

Both of these flavorsome concoctions are made with bottled reconstituted lemon juice. This convenient form of lemon juice is economical and if kept in the refrigerator, it is always chilled and ready for a myriad of uses. What is more, reconstituted lemon juice provides the uniformity necessary to consistently good recipe results.

Here for your making are both of the recipes which were developed in the 34th floor test kitchens of Borden Foods:

CHILLED LEMON SOUP (Makes about 3 cups)

- 1 (10 3/4-ounce) can condensed cream of chicken soup
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) light cream or milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/4 cup ReaLemon Reconstituted Lemon juice
- Ground nutmeg
- Chopped parsley

In medium bowl, stir soup until smooth; stir in cream, water and curry. Chill several hours. Just before serving, stir in ReaLemon. Thin to desired consistency with additional milk. Garnish with nutmeg and parsley. Refrigerate leftovers.

CHILLED CREAM OF CARROT SOUP (Makes about 6 cups)

- 2 pounds carrots, pared, sliced, cooked and drained (reserving any liquid)

- Water
- 1 cup (1/2 pint) light cream or milk
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon celery salt
- Dash pepper
- 1/4 cup ReaLemon Reconstituted Lemon Juice

Chopped chives
Combine reserved carrot liquid and water to make 2 cups. In blender container, blend half the carrots with 1 cup liquid until smooth; pour into medium bowl. Repeat with remaining carrots and liquid. Stir in cream, sugar, celery salt and pepper. Chill several hours. Just before serving, stir in ReaLemon. Thin to desired consistency with additional milk. Garnish with chives. Refrigerate leftovers.

Honey facts for Texans

The importance to the world of the honeybee and her product can be traced throughout history. Almost every civilization has valued honey as a food, a medicine, a trading commodity, and a social and spiritual force. The Spanish, Dutch, and English settlers introduced the true honeybee to the Americas near the end of the 17th Century, though there were other types of bees in the Americas long before the explorers came. After the settlers brought honeybees to the American continent, beekeeping became an important occupation. The Indians of North America thought the honeybees brought misfortune and called them "white man's flies," for when the bees arrived, it meant that the settlers had come to stay.

"I can remember well, as a boy growing up on a Texas farm, the delight of a meal which included homemade biscuits, still hot from the oven, which we smothered with sweet, golden honey. As a boy, I knew without question that it was some of the best eating around; the fact that it provided a rich, natural source of high-quality food energy was what made my mother happy to serve it to us.

"Today, Texas honey and bee production is a complex, thriving industry which provides consumers with top quality honey. At the same time, beekeepers and their bees afford farmers with pollination services vital for abundant production of many of the state's crops.

"No matter how you like it — as a versatile cooking ingredient or poured straight from the pitcher — we think that you'll find the following facts and recipes provide a variety of helpful ways to take full advantage of the golden goodness Texas honey has to offer." Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner of Agriculture, said.

bring to a boil. Remove from heat; add tea bags. Let steep, covered, 5 minutes. Remove tea bags and spices. Dash in bitters to taste, if desired.

HONEY BISCUITS

- 1 cup butter
 - 1 cup honey
 - 2 eggs, beaten
 - 4 cups flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
- Melt butter in saucepan. Add honey and boil together for 2 minutes. Cool. When cool, add beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients, add all at once to the honey-butter mixture. Mix well. Let stand 10 minutes. Shape into balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and press with fork. Bake at 350 degrees F for 15 minutes. Yield: 5-6 dozen.

Two tablespoons of honey added to your favorite cake mix will make the cake more tender and less crumbly. For best results, add the honey in a fine stream to the batter as you beat.

HONEY-PUMPKIN ICE CREAM PIE

- For a change, try this filling in a flavorful graham cracker crust
 - 1/2 cup honey
 - 1/2 cup canned or cooked mashed pumpkin
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon ginger
 - Dash each of nutmeg and cloves
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 quart vanilla ice cream
 - One-third cup broken pecans (optional)
 - 1 baked 9 inch pastry shell
- Combine honey, pumpkin, spices, and salt. Bring just to a boil, stirring constantly. Cool. Beat in softened vanilla ice cream and add nuts, if desired. Spread in baked pastry shell. Freeze until firm. Trim with whipped cream and pecan halves, if you like.

HONEYED GRAPEFRUIT

A special treat for breakfast or dessert
Cut grapefruit into halves. Section and cut membranes. Drizzle honey over top and heat under broiler 3-5 minutes.

SWEET POTATO SOUFFLE

- 2 cups sweet potatoes, boiled and mashed
 - 1/2 cup honey
 - 2 teaspoon cornstarch
 - 1 cup pecans
 - 3 eggs, beaten
 - 1 tablespoon cream
 - Marshmallows
- Blend all ingredients except marshmallows. Place in buttered dish. Bake slowly 30-40 minutes, or until knife comes out clean. Cover top with marshmallows. Continue to bake until brown.

HONEY COLE SLAW

- 2 tablespoons honey
 - 1 cup sour cream
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon onion, finely diced
 - Pinch pepper
 - 1 teaspoon vinegar
 - 1 medium head cabbage, shredded
- Combine all ingredients except cabbage; mix thoroughly. Pour over chilled cabbage and toss well. Serve immediately.

ZING-ZANG POTATO SALAD

- 2 cups potatoes, peeled and diced
 - 1/2 cup bacon, diced
 - 3 tablespoons flour
 - 1/2 cup vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon onion, diced
 - 1 tablespoon pimiento, diced
 - 1/2 cup honey
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1 tablespoon green pepper, diced
 - Salt and pepper
- Cook diced potatoes until done. Drain. Cook diced bacon until done. Remove bacon from pan and blend flour in pan with bacon fat. Add other ingredients and cook until thickened. Pour over potatoes and serve hot.

HONEY-ORANGE GLAZED BEETS

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 2 teaspoons cornstarch
 - 1/2 cup orange juice
 - 1/2 cup honey
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 (15 oz.) can beets, sliced or small whole, drained
- Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in cornstarch. Gradually stir in orange juice, honey, lemon juice, and salt. Stir and cook over medium heat until mixture thickens. Add drained beets. Reduce temperature to low and heat thoroughly. Serve hot. Yield: 4-5 servings.

Food sweetened with honey will have a better flavor if kept until the day after baking before serving.

DIABLO MEAT SAUCE

- 1 cup catsup
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1/2 cup wine vinegar
 - 1 medium onion, chopped
 - 1/2 cup honey
 - 2 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 2 teaspoons chili powder
 - 2 teaspoons dry mustard
 - 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- Combine all ingredients. Bring to a boil; simmer 10 minutes. Brush on meat.

HONEY TOUCHDOWNS

- An "after-the-game" treat which will go over big
 - 1 lb. choice hamburger meat
 - 1 clove garlic, chopped fine
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - 1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
 - 2 tablespoons honey
 - 2 tablespoons vinegar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - Pinch of oregano
- Fry or broil hamburger meat in suitable sized patties. While meat is cooking, brown garlic in butter in separate pan and add other ingredients. Simmer 10 minutes. When meat is about two-thirds cooked, smother with sauce and simmer until your guests arrive.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you should avoid confrontations with others and to make sure you channel your energy in the right direction. Make long-range plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to be more subtle with higher-ups if you wish to advance in career activities. Make new acquaintances of worth.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Engage in practical matters that could pave the way to added income in the future. Be happy with loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to come to a far better understanding with mate now. Make plans that can bring advancement in your career.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) This a day when you can gain your aims by being more direct. Express happiness with the one you love.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to help close ties who are having problems at this time. Take any treatments that will make you feel more dynamic.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care of regular routines early in the day so you'll have more time for recreation later. Be poised.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Obtain important data you need from the right sources. Adopt a philosophy that can be good for you in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan what must be done to put your affairs on a more solid basis. Allies can be helpful. Be grateful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your position well and know where to make changes that could give added income in the days ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you truly want the pleasures you pursue today and are not wrongly influenced by others. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day to handle practical affairs wisely, so avoid time-wasting friends for now. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go after personal goals in a sure and steadfast manner and get excellent results. Be more cooperative with associates.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will know how to put energies in the right constructive channels and there could be much success in lifetime. Teach to be openminded and to take an interest in sports. There is musical talent in this chart.

Struggling actors have most to gain

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Barbra Streisand has a beautiful estate in Malibu, drives expensive cars and spends thousands of dollars a year on designer clothes and shoes.

Hollywood apartment with two other women. She drives an economy car and works weekdays as a legal assistant and weekends in a food store.

They're both actresses — card-carrying members of the Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists — and both grew up in New York. But there the similarities end.

Miss Streisand commands staggering sums for working in her profession. For "All Night Long," a film co-starring Gene Hackman currently in production, she is reportedly being paid $4 million plus 10 percent of the gross box office receipts.

Miss Price, 24, hasn't worked as an actress since she moved here five months ago. In New York, she appeared in the movie "The Warriors" and worked as an extra and in commercials to supplement her acting earnings — which varied from $12,000 during a six-month stint on a public television series to $4,000 the next year.

But Miss Price and other struggling actors constitute the vast majority of SAG and AFTRA membership and have the most to gain from the current strike, which has shut down most American film and prime-time television productions.

The public has some exaggerated notions about the superstar and the struggling actor, but the difference in lifestyles at the top and the bottom is vast.

The pages of magazines are filled with Paul Newman in nifty sports cars, Farrah Fawcett sunning by the pool, Larry Hagman demanding and getting fabulous fees.

In terms of material goods, at least, it seems stars can order the moon served up on a silver platter — and get it. Sometimes it's even part of the terms of their employment.

There's the old story of Richard Burton and Liz Taylor having chili from the chic Beverly Hills restaurant Chasen's flown to the overseas sets of "Cleopatra." It may not be true, but one publicist says the tale inspired other stars to order their own chili because they figured it was the "in" thing to do.

Superstar contracts usually provide for large per diem payments for living expenses while shooting on location — sometimes up to $5,000 or $10,000 a week. This pays for the motor home or hotel suite, the maid or chef and other little extras.

"I have heard of actors who used drugs having written into their contracts that all medical supplies would be provided by the film company, which meant drugs had to be supplied to them," said one film publicist.

Aspiring actors, on the other hand, supposedly work as waiters or collect unemployment while waiting for the big break.

Actually, these days many actors moonlight in less glamorous fields like real estate and telephone sales.

The lack of prospects doesn't discourage newcomers. SAG signs up new members at the rate of five a day. Performers become eligible after winning their first speaking roles.

These struggling actors aren't getting any help during the strike from the unions, who pay no strike benefits. But then they've been existing largely on their outside jobs — or off the earnings of a spouse or lover — anyway.

When they work in acting, they earn SAG-AFTRA minimums — now $225 a day or $785 a week — or a little more, depending on the studio. But they get no fancy dressing room trailer or private maid.

Howard College offers lower education costs

"Parents can save at least $1,658 a year on room, board and transportation costs by having their college-age children attend Howard College instead of leaving home to attend college," said Cheri Sparks, financial aids officer at Howard College.

"We took the costs of room, board, tuition and fees, books and supplies, and transportation (based on 4 round trips at 16 cents per mile) of two of the more popular two-year universities that the majority of our students attend after leaving Howard College," said Sparks, "and compared them to the costs of staying here in Big Spring and attending Howard College."

"In the state-supported out-of-town college, the combined costs were $2,364, as compared to Howard College's $706. In the out-of-town private college polled, the total costs were $3,918, as compared to Howard College's $706. These comparisons are based on costs at state-supported institutions and private colleges on the average."

"Besides the lower costs of attending College, students can receive additional savings by applying for financial aid," added Sparks. "The Financial Aids Office is accepting applications for financial aid, and we urge anyone wishing to attend Howard College in the Fall to come in now and complete an application."

"There are many forms of financial aid packages. They include a combination of grants, scholarships, part-time employment and loans."

"A financial aid package is based on many variables, such as the applicant's parental income (or if independent, the student's income), assets, medical expenses, size of family and number of children in college. Aid may be available, even to families with 'middle level' incomes," said Sparks.

"We currently are offering a new application for miscellaneous scholarships," said Assistant Financial Aids Officer Ann Duncan. "We are encouraging all students interested in receiving a scholarship, but feel they are not eligible, to come by our office and complete the one-page application. The monies for these scholarships come from clubs, organizations, and memorial scholarships. The form enables us to suggest and recommend students for one of these scholarships to the various donors."

"Students who have already applied for financial aid will be eligible for these scholarships, as well as those students who may not qualify for federal need-based aid," said Duncan.

"Students who plan to attend Howard College in the Fall should apply now for financial aid," said Duncan, "as it takes four to six weeks to complete processing."

In 1979-80, Howard College students received over $200,000 in aids of all types. For additional information, contact the Financial Aids Office at 915-267-6311, extension 28.

Below is a chart of a comparison of the 9-month costs of a full-time student's attendance at state-supported and private colleges as compared to Howard College.

Over years, it's waters have claimed ten lives

Is Moss Lake too dangerous for swimming?

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
In its 40-year history, the waters of Moss Creek Lake have claimed 10 lives, reliable sources say.

According to lake rangers and old-time residents, a total of eight persons had drowned prior to this year.

So far, in 1980, two men have drowned at the lake, which is about six miles east of Big Spring. Both of the mishaps have occurred in July, taking place within a 10-day time span.

There are no records documenting deaths at Moss Creek Lake due to drowning. Neither the city nor county have kept such records. The Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife began in 1975 keeping records where the waters of Moss Creek have claimed a life.

The lake was created in 1939 as part of a public works project directed by the Roosevelt Administration. A dam and concessions stand, which are still there, were constructed that year.

It was, however, several years after the dam was constructed that water filled up the area to form a lake, said a relative of Frank Covert, long-time Moss Creek Lake Ranger, who is now deceased.

"The first couple of years it was too dry for any of that (drownings) to happen," the relative said.

The first drowning to take place at the lake occurred in March 1947. It would be some 13 years before another reported mishap at the lake occurred.

In the 1960's, a total of five drownings occurred at the lake. Strangely, two of these mishaps occurred on holidays: Easter Sunday, 1965, when two young children stepped off a ledge and drowned; and Memorial Day, 1969, when an 18-year-old star athlete from Stanton died — tragically just one week after graduating from high school.

In July 1970, the lake was closed to swimming and wading after a nine-year-old Sand Springs lad drowned while on an outing with seven friends. Public Works Director Nolen Chafin ordered the closing, saying the lake was too dangerous because the lake had receded from dry weather. Chafin said the new shore line created from the evaporation created unfamiliar characteristics for wadders, making it possible for a person to step over his depth.

The ban on swimming continued until 1976.

Former Lake Ranger Ron Robey, who served from 1971-76, said the lake is too dangerous for swimming and wading.

"The lake is totally unsafe for swimming," Robey said. "There is no adequate swimming area there."

Robey commented that the city created a suitable swimming area in 1961, but has failed to maintain the area since.

Ike Rupard, who served as a lake ranger for several years, recalled where the waters of Moss Creek took six lives. He said most drownings occurred where the body was not in water higher than seven feet.

He added that some cases of drowning were from lack of caution.

"Two cases I know," Rupard, "the persons couldn't swim."

Here is an unofficial list of reported drownings at Moss Creek Lake.

March 27, 1947: Arvel Moore, 39, of the Midway Community fell overboard after he stood up in his fishing vessel. Instead of hanging onto the capsized boat, Moore decided to swim to the dam and came up 100 feet short.

June 5, 1966: Andrew Wilson, 49, of Midland drowned suddenly when he stepped off a ledge. On a Sunday, Wilson and his wife arrived at the lake for a day of fishing. Around 8 a. m., the minnow bucket the couple was using to hold their bait drifted from the bank they were fishing from at the lake. Wilson waded after the bucket in his trousers and T-shirt and stepped off a ledge. He could not swim. The body was found in 30-foot water 20 minutes after the mishap, but rescuers were unable to revive the man.

April 19, 1965: An Easter outing turned into a grim tragedy for a young couple as two of their children stepped off a ledge into deep water and drowned. The victims were Eraul Padilla, 10, and his sister, Susanna Padilla, 8. Their parents were Mr. and Mrs. Eraul Padilla, residing at 1005 Northwest First.

The two children were wading with a third youngster in a thronged swimming area. The third child lost sight of the other two about 4:30 p. m. that day. He went to tell people on the shore that Eraul was missing.

Valuable time was lost as the child told several persons on the shore, but as Eraul Sr. reported, "They did not listen."

Initially it was thought that only Eraul had drowned, as airmen from Webb AFB began diving for the body. Airman 3C George Willey found the body of a child and began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The crowd exclaimed, "That's a little girl, not the boy."

Divers found the body of Eraul about one hour later.

Sept. 10, 1967: Alfred Uribe, 22, residing at 105 Northwest Eighth took his wife on an outing at Moss Creek Lake for the afternoon. While playing in the water, he stepped into a 13-foot hole and drowned. The drowning was blamed on the fact that Uribe could not swim.

May 30, 1969: Benjamin Taylor Avery, 18, a recent graduate of Stanton High School, was on a Memorial Day outing with his family at the lake. Around 1:15 a. m., he swam after a beach ball that had floated up from the swimming area. He called for help and then went under. He was found in water eight feet deep, 30 feet from the swimming area.

July 28, 1970: Perry Raymond McKnight, 9, of Sand Springs was swimming with seven friends at the lake around 3 p. m., a mother attending the outing called for the boys to come out of the water. Perry did not show. The mother was unsure if he was still in the water or wandered off. A search was made of the shore and crews began dragging the lake. Crews found the body in six feet of water, 25 feet from the shore.

July 11, 1972: Frank McCleskey, 55, was found about 12:15 p. m. in 10 feet of water about 30 feet from the east shore. He was found after a fisherman discovered a life jacket floating in the lake. Officials said he apparently slipped from his fishing raft.

July 4, 1980: What appeared to be a jesting matter turned into tragedy for a Midland party on Independence Day.

Thomas Pina, 22, of Midland was spending the day at Moss Creek with his family and several friends. Around 5 p. m. he plunged into the water to swim toward a stalled boat about 60 yards from a boat dock on the south shore.

He went under once 30 feet from shore and came back up yelling for help. One witness says, "He started swimming and we thought he was just fooling around when he yelled for help." The body of a supposedly good swimmer was found in 12 to 15 feet of water about 30 feet from shore.

July 13, 1980: Waters of Moss Creek claimed a second life within a 10-day time span as the body of Daniel Ortega Diaz, 25, of 503 S. Bell here was found July 15 floating about 100 yards from the dam. Diaz had been listed as missing since the previous Sunday, when a companion had last seen him swimming about 100 yards north of the designated swimming area.

Industrial booth to be featured

The Industrial Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Howard County Fair Association, plans to add a new division to the 1980 Fair.

It will be entitled the Howard County Industrial Exhibition. Purpose of the exhibit is two-fold. It will educate the public on the wide variety of products manufactured in Howard County and will give local manufacturers a chance to promote their products.

A display case might consist of actual products, posters, photographs or other exhibits. The booth might be manned or unmanned.

The booth should be operational by 4 p. m., Monday, Sept. 15, and should remain open until 10 p. m., Saturday, Sept. 20.

Forms are being mailed to the various manufacturers here and should be returned to the fair association as soon as practicable.

Ambulance, taxi costs to rise

Northside projects OKed

By JAMES WERRELL
Northside residents will soon have a new basketball court and a completed day care center in the neighborhood.

The Big Spring City Council decided during Tuesday night's meeting that both projects would become a reality. The day care center had been undergoing renovation for several months, when the company doing the work suddenly defaulted on the contract in June.

Subsequently, the city has lodged a lawsuit against Association D Contractors, a Pecos firm, for the nearly $6,000 worth of work remaining. Tuesday night, the council voted to accept a bid by Harry Money Enterprises of Big Spring to complete the renovation.

Although the bid, $11,125, was the only one received, it was within the city's guidelines, and was acceptable to council members.

A hard-surface basketball court will be built at the Northside Park at a cost of $6,804. The council accepted a bid from Herrera Masonry Contractors, 209 N.E. 6th, to complete the project.

"This court will be built as a result of public hearings on the north side last year. This is just one of several improvements we have made at the Northside Park, which was listed as one of the big priorities at the public meetings," said Bill Hall, director of community development. His office will provide funds for the projects through Community Development Block Grants.

Both ambulance and taxi cab service will cost Big Springers more, as a result of actions by the council Tuesday. Members allowed each service to raise its rates.

In amending the contract with the Shaffer Ambulance Service, the city added a new twist that may prove financially beneficial in the future. The city raised its monthly subsidy to the service from $2,000 to $3,000, but also dealt itself a portion of the company's accounts receivable in the process.

Shaffer has been having trouble collecting its bills, and estimated that it would be successful in gathering only about 20 percent of its delinquent debts. The city volunteers to use its own personnel to collect bills over 90 days old for city coffers.

Of the amount collected by the city, 20 percent will be turned over to Howard County, which recently agreed to raise its subsidy to Shaffer from $1,000 to $1,500 a month.

Council members compared Big Spring's taxi cab rates to those of other area cities before granting an increase. After reviewing the books of Bill Lee, owner of the local service, Tom Ferguson, city finance director, declared that local rates were well below those of Odessa, Midland and Abilene.

Although the cost of the first one-fifth of a mile in a local cab will drop from $1.15 to $1, each additional fifth will rise from 10 cents to 20 cents. The cost of the first mile will rise from $1.55 to $1.80.

"The way I figure it, that's within about a dime, either more or less, of the rates in the other cities," said

Councilman Robert Fuller.

Both motions to raise rates passed unanimously.

What may have been the hottest issue of the evening was quashed by the council. Consideration of a second and final reading of an ordinance amending the franchise with Big Spring Cable T.V., Inc. was tabled.

"The city manager (Don Davis) is not here, and due to the nature of this issue I think we should wait on it," said Councilmen Jack Y. Smith, with the other members agreeing.

Council members also discussed the recent rash of water leaks in the city. They were told by Assistant City Manager Bill Brown that reports of water problems had slowed to 69 during the last five days; a lot, but considerably fewer than in June and the earlier part of July.

Brown has assigned one city crew to work eight hours, five nights a week, while four crews operate during the day. Crews also rotate weekend work so that leaks are being plugged seven days a week, he said.

A total of 1,470 feet of small-inch pipe has been replaced with new pipe, said Brown, and more replacements are scheduled in the near future.

Ferguson told the council that he and the city manager have met with financial advisers to discuss bond payment schedules for funds needed for water system repairs. Those schedules will be revised and presented to the appointed city financial committee, which will help shape the proposal for a bond election in the fall, Ferguson added.

Gilmer earns college degree after serving in three wars

Thirty-three years and three wars after he graduated from Big Spring High School, Joe John Gilmer has earned an associate degree at Odessa College and is planning now to complete his study toward a bachelor's degree at some school of higher learning in either New Mexico or Arizona.

Gilmer was born Aug. 10, 1945, in Coahoma and moved with his parents to Big Spring while still an infant. He attended a Catholic school on Big Spring's north side the first year he became eligible to attend classes. He remembers he enrolled in the second grade at old Central Ward school, where the Howard County Library is now located.

He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1934. He was working for the late J.B. Pickle in the White House Grocery Store at the time. He later attended San Angelo Business College for about six months.

He returned to Big Spring to enlist in the old Civilian Conservation Corps. After serving out his enlistment period, he went to work for Ralph Linck, who operated several grocery stores here.

On Dec. 3, 1940, Gilmer enlisted in the U.S. Army. He served overseas during WW II and saw combat duty in Germany. He went into the Active Reserves after peace was declared in Europe. While working for Collins Drug Store and Cut Rate Drugs here, he was recalled to active duty 89 days following his discharge from the military. He had a few brushes with the enemy in the Korean campaign and later in Vietnam.

He also fondly recalls his peace-time tour of duty in Germany, a country he regards as "excellent." In all, he spent 30 years and four months in the service of his country. He finally retired from military duty June 30, 1971, in Albuquerque, N.M.

After traveling for several months to visit his children in California and Kentucky and his brother and sister in Big Spring, he moved to San Antonio in January 1972. He went to work as a warehouseman for the NCO Club at Fort Sam Houston. He continued with that facility after it was combined with the Officers Club and Enlisted Man's Club, remaining there until the force was reduced.

He accepted employment as a night desk clerk with a motel in San Antonio but later had to be admitted to

Registrations begin Aug. 21

Beards, mustaches nixed at Coahoma

COAHOMA — Back-to-school registrations for students will begin in public schools here Aug. 21, the school board decided during its regular meeting Monday evening. Hours are from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

In other action, the trustees decreed that students would not be allowed to wear beards or mustaches and sideburns must not come below the bottom of the ear.

Sharon Hamby was hired as a Special Education teacher in high school while Tomasa Perez was named to a similar position in kindergarten. Joyce Covert and Gayle Henry were employed as bus drivers.

The trustees adopted the student handbook for grades 6-12 with only one major change.

Mrs. Dale Ferguson was reassigned from a fourth grade teacher to the Gifted and Talented program in the secondary schools. The board accepted low bids from the Rainbo Baking Company in Lubbock for all bakery products used in the schools and Gandy's Dairies of San Angelo for all milk products.

The board also voted to publish the first notice of the school tax rate, which will be 95 cents per $100 valuation based on 100 percent assessment. The tax rate for 1980 will be lower for property owners in cases where the value of residences remain the same.

The only increases will come in areas where values change.

In addition, the board approved the Gifted and Talent Program (kindergarten through the 8th grade) to offer a demonstration for the State School Board convention in San Antonio Sept. 26-28.

Supt. Richard Souter was authorized to look into the school district's policy for leasing and purchasing school cars.

The bid of D.V. Cook for the school house, to be moved, and that of Delroy Buchanan to remove the old VA tin barn, was approved.

Reagan finds Bush easy to deal with New Betty, same old Jerry

By WALT FINLEY
Thoughts while tuned to the Republican convention last week, plus more thoughts while viewing President Carter's fund raising visit in Texas.

Texas Republican delegates are home from Detroit proud of their role in the presidential nomination. If it hadn't been for them, Ronald Reagan wouldn't have won by more than about 1,850 votes.

Texas Democrats are already scoffing at the GOP convention. They're saying that at their convention Jimmy will show us the neat, decisive way to pick a vice presidential nominee.

All in all, last week was the worst ever for the Detroit chapter of the Jimmy Carter Fan Club.

After negotiating with Jerry Ford, Reagan found George Bush easy to deal with. Ford wanted equal billing, but all Bush asked for was someone to pinch him.

If we had Reagan and Ford as "co-presidents," what would they do about the Hot Line to Moscow — give Jerry an extension phone?

The press said Gerald Ford gave a "stemwinder" speech but during his remarks, the camera panned in on a woman delegate who was fast asleep in her chair.

It is still the Grand Old Party but since Mrs. Ford had a face lift, we had a brand new Betty.

But we had the same old Jerry. The delegates presented him with a gold convention badge.

In reaching over to take it, he almost dropped it.

Wayne Newton was one of the convention entertainers.

I remember when he was a fat kid with a soprano voice. Now he is a fat cat who owns a lot of Las Vegas.

I think a lot of people who get elected delegates to national conventions want to go so they can wear funny hats in public without anyone talking about them.

Commentator Bill Moyers said government reminds him of the young man who went to a fortune teller who told him, "You'll be poor and unhappy until you are 30."

"Then what will happen?" he asked.

"You'll get used to it," she told him.

One of the planks in the Republican platform is revocation of the 55 miles-per-hour speed limit.

But neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have a plan to make it possible for us to pay for the gas.

Meanwhile, back at the White House, President Carter reportedly isn't half as worried about the Russians withdrawing from Afghanistan as he is about Billy withdrawing from Libya.

And it's hard to tell who wants

Carter's job the most — Reagan or Kennedy.

Kennedy is busy printing buttons for the Democratic convention. They will say:

Ted
Instead

The GOP convention speech by the mayor of Providence, R.I., was ruined for me when he said, "Our athletes are not participating in the summer Olympics."

And he pronounced it "ath-a-letes."

A lot of Republican recruits are people turned off by the Administration. They say what they know about Jimmy Carter is all they need to know about Ronald Reagan.

Truck flip hurts driver

A Quality Transport truck driver was injured slightly when he failed to negotiate a curve three miles south on highway 820 south of Coahoma at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Edward King was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital for possible internal injuries sustained when he was slammed against the steering wheel.

Shaffer Ambulance had difficulty finding the accident site when a Turner Properties personnel gave the wrong highway. King had been taken to Coahoma by his brother by the time the ambulance arrived.

King was taken to the hospital by ambulance from Coahoma.

County voter registration up 200 percent

Howard County voter registration increased during last week's Republican convention by 200 percent over the week before with 10 registering between July 7 and July 11 and 25 registering last week.

"Somebody even filled out a deputy card to register voters," said Tax Collector-Assessor Office Deputy Dorothy Moore.

"Several came in and took out groups of cards to be distributed," she said.

She was not able to tell if registrants were taking a pro-Reagan stand.

Total registration stands at approximately 14,690.

Future activities are planned by Glasscock County 4-H Leaders

Nineteen adult 4-H leaders of Glasscock County met recently in St. Lawrence Hall (Garden City) in a planning session. Kathryn Burch and Norman Kohls, county extension agents and Jan Bryson, agent-in-training, attended the meeting.

Plans were made for a benefit dance to raise funds. Leon Halfmann will head the project to defray expenses for van repairs and expenses.

Hubert Frerick and Wayne Halfmann with a committee will make plans for a "Tractor Rodeo" Aug. 16. Delmer Batla offered his gin yard for the event. Any 4-H club member from nine to 19 may compete in this event.

The Adult Leaders Association will sponsor a concession stand at the trailer auction Aug. 28 at the St. Lawrence gin. Mrs. Wayne Halfmann, chairman, or Mrs. Charles Pechacek, co-chairman, should be contacted by those wishing to donate food or time to this project.

The possibility of having a "Shooting Sports" project this fall was discussed. Those interested in helping with this project or in attending the Shooting Sports Project Workshop for leader training in Brownwood should contact the County Extension office in Garden City for details.

The fall retreat of the Adult Leaders' Association will be held in Indian Lodge at Fort Davis Sept. 27-28. All adult leaders are encouraged to attend the retreat. George Schwartz and Betty Page were elected to be voting delegates.

Travis Pate and Doris Schwartz will be recognized as Glasscock County's outstanding adult leaders at the event. The outstanding 4-H boy and girl of District VI for this year will be recognized. 4-H members who wish to apply for this award can pick up application forms at the extension office. These forms must be returned by Aug. 8.

Mrs. Adams is hostess

Mrs. T.G. Adams served as hostess when members of the Rook Club met July 18 at K-Bob's Steak House.

Seven members and one guest, Mrs. Fannie Kent, were in attendance. Mrs. Kent and Mrs. Woody Smith tied for high score.

Mrs. J.P. Allen will be hostess for the Aug. 15 meeting.

Lovelaces announce Andrew Lee's birth

Mr. and Mrs. David Lee Lovelace, 2600 Crestline, announce the birth of their first child, Andrew Lee (Andy), born July 15, 2:04 p.m. at Malone-Hogan hospital, weighing 7 pounds 4 1/2 ounces and measuring 20 1/2 inches in length. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Reavis, 3711 Connally. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Lovelace, 2606 E. 24th.

Great-grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reavis, Lawton, Okla. and L.G. Shreve, Sand Springs.

City residents confused by idea

Two-month bill just suggestion

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
 Big Spring City Hall has been getting a flood of telephone calls over efforts to update the water department's clerical operations, said two officials acting in City Manager Don Davis's absence.

Assistant City Manager Paul Fezell and Finance Director Tom Ferguson said Monday Big Spring residents have expressed confusion about an item brought up by Davis in the city manager's report at the July 8 city council meeting.

At the meeting, Davis reported that billing for water use was about a month behind. He said that the July statements water customers were receiving at the time represented consumption up to May 31.

In his report, Davis mentioned one possible solution to catching up with the lag. His suggestion was to delay sending this month's statement and then mail out a combined bill for July and August at one time.

Davis commented at the meeting, "We feel the most expedient way would be to pay two bills in August." By combining, the situation would then exist where the bill a customer received at the first of the previous month's water use.

In the July 10 edition, the Herald reported that several councilmen spoke to possible problems involving this proposal. Most councilmen voiced their concern that water customers on fixed incomes would have problems in budgeting the bill.

Davis said that if the plan were adopted the city would have to exempt late charges and allow water customers to pay the bill in three months.

Fezell said Monday, "We are not trying to stick it (water billing) on track."

How the city got off track involves delays in the meter reading that caused billing to fall behind.

"In the past couple of years," Ferguson said, "there have been some problems that got us behind."

Fezell added, "We have been behind on our meter reading." The backup was caused from icy weather at certain times last year that prevented meter readers from making their rounds. The city also has been plagued by vacancies in the meter reader position. Ferguson said at one time the city had only two meter readers doing the work of five.

Davis devised a plan earlier this year to get the city current in its meter reading. Fezell said yesterday the city is now caught up.

The second step in making things right in the water department is the billing process. Complicating the billing process is the city trying to convert its water records from its present IBM computer to a functions system at Howard College. All city records except the water departments are programmed with Howard College's computer.

The suggestion of Davis to hold back July's bill and then send it with the August statement was designed to give the city time to convert to the computer at Howard College.

Fezell said the plan would mean water customers would receive this year 10 monthly bills and a statement for two months.

The only thing, both officials remarked yesterday, is that the combined July-August statement was merely a suggestion—the city council did not okay the plan July 8.

Tower to open office in Lubbock

Sen. John Tower will arrive in Lubbock this weekend for a series of appearances, including the official opening ceremonies for the Senator's West Texas Office in downtown Lubbock.

Making his first appearance in Texas since his leading role in the Republican National Convention, Tower also will hold a press conference at 10:45 a.m. Saturday in his West Texas Office, 730 Court Place, 1001 Main Street.

Tower served as chairman of the Republican Convention's Platform Committee, where his leadership of the proceedings was credited by many observers with helping to foster the unified mood exhibited throughout the party's meetings.

The public is invited to the West Texas Office's official opening, which will include a ribbon cutting ceremony at 11:15 a.m. Saturday, followed by an open house.

Following the open house, Tower will address the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce's International Trade Seminar luncheon at noon Saturday in the Hilton Inn.

The Senator will also appear at a Lubbock County Republican Party fundraiser Friday night that will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the home of a former Lubbock mayor and Texas Republican gubernatorial candidate, Dr. Jim Granberry.

BAND VAN TURNOVER — Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen Redmon investigated an accident Monday afternoon on IS 20 in Coahoma. Four Houston men were shaken up when the driver lost control of a Chevrolet van and a U-Haul trailer carrying band equipment. The four were not hurt. Witnesses said the van was not speeding but could have been turned over when the wind began whipping the trailer. The van was traveling east.

Flowers planted on grounds of Big Spring State Hospital

A total of 35 shrubs and 20 flowers were planted on Big Spring State Hospital grounds Tuesday morning by the Howard County Extension Office staff and the local 4-H Club Council, composed of the two officers of each of the five local clubs.

Howard County Commissioner William Crooker

Trio charged for possession

Charges were filed Monday against three arrested July 15 on suspicion of possession of methamphetamines at the home of Larry Glen James.

James; his wife, Danya Jeannie and Mark Lewis Nairn were charged in a complaint filed by Major Crime Task Force Member Mike Eggleston in the office of Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

The three were arrested in a raid on the James home at 510 Donley.

sold $200 worth of plants and herbicide to the Volunteer Services Council through his business, Mr. G's, 2301 Gregg, for use in the project.

Crooker surveyed the grounds a few weeks ago for the 4-H Council to determine what kind of plants would grow best.

The Adolescent Section of the hospital will care for the greenery and plant other flowers when the ones planted bloom.

Local registration turnout exceeds estimates

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

A larger than expected number of 20-year-olds turned out Monday on the first day of Selective Service registration, Big Spring Postmaster Frank Hardesty said today.

A total of 94 young men showed up Monday to the local post office at Main and Fifth to fill out a nine-item form.

"We registered a few more than we thought we would," Hardesty commented. He added that he had estimated about 60 would come yesterday to fill out a Selective Service form.

The postmaster projects about 600 would sign up locally. He based this prediction on a national estimate of two percent of the population would be registering.

Hardesty said today that if the turnout continues to be strong, the original projection of 600 could be eclipsed.

In Coahoma, Postmaster Eddie Engel said, "We had two register."

He added, "We didn't have a rush." The reason, he said, was that many 20-year-olds were working and were just not able to come in and register yesterday.

"I look for them to come in the latter part of this week," Engel said.

Yesterday was the kick-off day for the first draft-related act since 1973 to go into effect. Those born in 1960 began registering Monday and will continue through Friday.

Beginning next week, those born in 1961 will register.

Next January, those born in 1962 will be required to sign up. After that, all young men must register upon reaching their 18th birthday.

For the registration, men are required to fill out a card giving their name, sex, date of birth, current address, permanent address and social security number. There is also a box a man may check if he wants to be contacted by a military recruiter.

No draft cards are involved. About 90 days after the registrant fills out the Selective Service form, he will receive a letter confirming he has signed up and making it official.

Failure to register could mean a fine of up to $10,000 or five years in prison.

The turn-out here is remarkable after a three-judge federal panel in Philadelphia enjoyed registration by declaring the Selective Service Act, which was signed last month by President Carter, unconstitutional because the measure does not include women.

On Saturday Supreme Court Justice William Brennan reversed the lower court's decision. Brennan stated that the questions about the law's constitutionality must still be resolved.

Hardesty said that yesterday's registration activity went smoothly, adding that the post office was able to handle signees during the day.

"It seemed like it was going slow," Hardesty said.

Both Hardesty and Engel said they will be lenient in handling the registration. The original plan was to have men born between January and March to register Monday; between April and June, Tuesday; between July and September, Wednesday; and between October and December, Thursday. Those who were unable to show up at the post office earlier in the week could register Friday.

Both postmasters said that if a person was unable to come on the intended day to come whenever it would be convenient within the week.

Head count is delayed

U.S. Census Bureau figures for Big Spring have been delayed. Reports are preliminary head count will be announced some time this week but could be delayed as long as ten days to two weeks.

The updating of figures compiled in Odessa and Midland reportedly have caused the delay. Some West Texas communities received preliminary head counts week before last.

The figures translate into money for local governments since census data is used to determine the distribution of funds for more than 100 federal programs and the distribution of more than $50 billion annually to state and local governments.

District headquarters for the U.S. Census Bureau is in Lubbock. City officials there are estimating that the final count within city limits there will be somewhere between 83,000 and 185,000.

Amarillo officials have estimated the population of that city at 157,395 but Census Bureau's preliminary estimates fall considerably short of that—145,395.

It was estimated that 2.5 percent of the nation's population was not included in the 1970 census figures.

PRESS THE FLESH, MATIE! — A baby hawk growing to maturity in a tree nest on the grounds of the VA Medical Center here flaps his wings as a way of greeting a curious human. "If you've got a couple of worms on you, you can stay for dinner," the fledging seems to be saying. In the inset, the momma hawk watches from an overhanging wire, prepared to intervene if the human gets too close to her offspring.

WE'VE BECOME BETTER SPORTS

Better, that is, if you like local sports. Because that's what you're getting more of in the Herald.

The Herald Citizen's Advisory Board recommended that Big Spring wanted more local sports news. So Herald Sports Editor Nathan Poss set out to satisfy their request.

We, in turn, decided to make sure the job was being done. A random comparative study of the sports section showed the Herald had 30% more local sports in March of 1980 than in the same month a year ago.

To catch more play-by-play action in Big Spring, read the Herald sports section. Where there's more local coverage than ever before.

All you have to do to have the Herald delivered is drop this coupon in the mail. Or call 263-7331.

Then start enjoying more of the news that's in your ballpark.

NOW THE HERALD HAS MORE LOCAL SPORTS

Mail this coupon to the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring TX 79720. It'll bring you the Herald 6 days a week, now with more local sports.

Mutt's Lounge destroyed

Mutt's Lounge, 602 W. 3rd, was gutted by a fire that may have been started by an arsonist, around midnight, Tuesday. Local firefighters responded to the blaze, 11:50 p.m. Tuesday, but were unable to save any of the interior of the lounge, said Ricky Womack, local arson investigator. Once the fire had been coused, however, investigators noticed that two pool tables and two cigarette machines inside had been rifled.

"We also found quite a bit of flammable liquid spread around the place," said Womack, this morning. Combining the area, officers picked up a 34-year-old local man near the scene for public intoxication.

"He is a suspect, but we have three more people we are investigating," said Womack.

Patricia Brown, 424 Dallas, knows the man who threw two cans of orange juice at her home, one of which crashed through a bedroom window, 3 a.m. today. Damage to the window was estimated at $10.

Burglars lifted speakers from two local cars, Tuesday. While an auto belonging to Robert W. Little, Sterling City Route, was parked at K-Bob's Restaurant, 9 p.m. Tuesday, intruders took two stereo speakers valued at $58.

Two chrome auto speakers were stolen from a car belonging to Cindy Lou Correa, 907 E. 16th, around 5:30 p.m. Tuesday. Loss was estimated at $20.

Dear Abby

Whole Country's Gone to the Dogs

DEAR ABBY: Concerning your advice to the Richmond man who asked what could be done about barking dogs. Calling the police won't work. A barking dog was driving me crazy, night and day, so I called the police. An officer came to my house and told me there was nothing I could do about it. He then suggested I simply trap or shoot it! Personally, I don't think it's very sporting to hunt domesticated animals, so what's my next move?

PERPLEXED IN PLAINVILLE
(P.S. Abby, Plainville, Kan., has a population of about 3,000, and there's an ordinance here against discharging firearms inside the city limits, where I live.)

DEAR ABBY: If you want peace and quiet, away from the noise of barking dogs, don't move to Bel Air, Calif! They will investigate your complaint by coming out to see if the dog is being neglected or abused in any way. And if it is, they will help the dog and fine the owner!

NO DOG LOVER

Economic battlefield taking shape

The next decade will be crucial for the United States, Smith predicted, adding that America is simply buying time in following a policy of conservation, developing synthetic fuels and adopting the windfall profits tax. Those programs will not provide the solution to America's woes, according to the speaker.

George S. Smith Jr., Midland, Pegasus District Production superintendent for Mobil Producing, Texas and New Mexico, warned local Rotarians at their noon luncheon Tuesday that problems existing today in Iran and Afghanistan are setting the stage for an economic battlefield which will deeply involve America.

Smith said this country will remain dependent upon foreign oil until we develop adequate coal and nuclear power facilities.

The windfall profits tax, Smith maintained, is a tax on revenues, not profits. He urged Rotarians to vote for candidates who believe we have energy problems and who offer solutions.

Smith said he is convinced the government needs to encourage oil companies to produce more gas and oil rather than penalize them with the so-called profits tax. "There is a solution outside taxation," Smith concluded.

The speaker is available for programs offered by any Big Spring club or organization. Those interested can contact Toni Brewer, Mobil Oil, Midland.
