1980 Census Bureau figures released

Big Spring's population: 24,208

By STEVE HERSHBERGER
Preliminary census figures received by local officials showed the city of Big Spring had a 15.8 percent drop in population from 1970 to 1980.
The census figures, which are unofficial and are designed for local review by administrators, read that Big Spring presently has a population of 24,208. This compares to the officially recorded number of 28,735 living here in 1970.
The Howard County seat was not the only entity to lose population. Howard County and two communities within the county also showed unofficial population losses during the last decade.
Howard County has an unofficial population of 32,229. This compares to an unofficial census figure of 37,796 living in the county during 1970, meaning a 14.5 percent population drop in the last 10 years.

Coahoma had a preliminary count of 1,067, down 8.7 percent from the official 1970 census figure of 1,158.
Forsan figures showed a miniscule decline during the 1970's, as the oil-rich community in south Howard County has an unofficial population of 222, compared to the 1970 census count of 237.
The figures, which County Judge Bill Tune and City Manager Don Davis received today, represent the enumeration in this county through a mail out and two special phase programs.

Residents of this county received one of two census forms on March 28. The first form consisted of 12 questions on demographics, such as personal identity, marital status, ethnic background and the such.
The second form asked questions included on the short form and several other socioeconomic questions, such as a family's fuel use, plumbing, insurance, language use, employment, education and income.
Residents were asked to complete the form and send it in by April 1.
The U.S. Census Bureau waged two follow-up campaigns designed to count those missed in the earlier enumeration efforts.
On April 7, "T-Night" was conducted to count those living in hotels, motels and recreational vehicle parks.

On April 9, "M-Night" was staged where a drive was taken to count those in charity-type missions, truck stops, bus stations, parks and even under bridges.
In response to the preliminary report, Davis said, "I am not at all surprised by the numbers, just a little disappointed."
He added, "We are trying to review and verify it." Davis said his staff questions the figures showing the number of housing units and vacancies in Big Spring.
The report showed that Big Spring has 10,591 housing units, and of these, a total of 1,634 are vacant.

Davis said the census bureau has established the population per house here at 2.62 persons. This means, he said, that if a mistake was made in the housing count, then Big Spring's unofficial population could be distorted.
"We feel that this is the crux of the answer," Davis said about the accuracy of the preliminary report.
Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel said, "It surprises me there is that much drop."
He added, "This is not realistic. This is just a personal opinion." The biggest question mark on the accuracy of the census report for the mayor is the number of vacant houses.

"To me 1,600 vacant houses doesn't seem possible," he said.
Other housing and vacancy data shows much as Big Spring did. Howard County has reportedly 13,853 housing units and 2032 vacancies; Forsan has 106 housing units, 19 vacancies; and Coahoma 409 housing units, 41 vacancies.
As for the preliminary report, a Coahoma city councilman said he had not read the figures from the census bureau. But, he said he did not believe the city of Coahoma would show an increase in the enumeration.
"As for the city limits, I don't see where we have grown that much," he said.

TOTAL LOSS — This truck owned by Thompson Van Lines, Arlington, Va., was traveling northbound on Hwy. 87 approximately 20 miles north of Big Spring when it caught fire, destroying the truck. The driver, Herman Slade said the fire started in the brakes. Texas Highway Patrolman Glen Redmon, Howard County Sheriff's Department and the Ackerly and Jonesboro fire departments were called out to the scene approximately 6 a.m. today. It took workers three hours, 20 minutes to extinguish the flames. The truck was destroyed, however, no injuries were reported.

Moving van destroyed

Call for water in vain

By DON WOODS
A female deputy sheriff called the Howard County Warehouse in vain for a county water truck to respond to a moving van fire this morning. She was told no one at the warehouse could drive a truck.
The moving van, owned by Thompson Van Lines, Arlington, Va., was a total loss.
The deputy was told that the whole county road crew was paving roads in Forsan. When she asked to speak to someone in charge, the man told her he would try to raise someone on the radio. The effort was fruitless.
An Ackerly water truck arrived after the van had been destroyed totally.
The fire started at 6 a.m. about 20 miles north on Highway 87. Deputy Gary Porter got the call. He was dispatched with two other officers at 6:45 a.m. Jonesboro and Ackerly trucks were dispatched to the scene.

The Jonesboro unit ran out of water at 8:30 a.m. Big Spring police called Ackerly for a water truck.
The driver, Herman Slade, was not injured. The Thompson home office was notified by the Howard County Sheriff's Office of the fire.

Sheriff's office vehicles left the scene at 9:20 a.m. after Department of Public Safety Trooper Glen Redmon notified the sheriff's office of the loss.

Big Spring's drug sniffing dog accidentally strangled

Ace, the Big Spring Police Department's drug-sniffing dog, died in an accident at his new quarters, this morning.
Acting Police Chief Sherrill Farmer issued a statement, today, that the dog had been chained to a building enclosed by a fence. Ace attempted to jump the fence and his chain became entangled, strangling him.
Ace had originally been under the care of Sgt. Richard Doane. When Doane left the department, Detective Jimmy Lockhart was tapped as the new handler.
Ace's housing had been only temporary, and Lockhart was in the midst of constructing new pens for him when the accident occurred.
In addition to the news release,

Farmer issued the following statement of thanks to those who contributed funds for Ace's purchase: "We are grateful to the 73 individuals and organizations who contributed to the fund for the dog sniffing dog."
"Although we had the dog for only a little over a year, he was involved in most of the drug raids conducted by this department and was instrumental in the location of many types of narcotics."
"After the dog was purchased and trained we still had a surplus of the donated funds. Since an equitable distribution of the money would not be feasible, we will probably use the funds for some narcotic related activities."

Ammunition bunker blows up

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An ammunition bunker blew up at a Navy submarine base Tuesday, triggering several explosions and setting off brush fires, authorities said. There were unofficial reports that one person was killed and four missing.
Paramedic units were sent to the scene, a submarine support facility at Ballast Point, on the San Diego Bay side of Point Loma.

Lots of ceremony, no violence

Deposed shah of Iran buried

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran was buried in exile today with all the pomp and ceremony accorded a ruler, but with only one chief of state present, Anwar Sadat.
Former President Richard M. Nixon stood by Sadat's side.
The state funeral, a traditional

Moslem ceremony, was surrounded by the greatest security precautions ever seen in Cairo, but no major incidents were reported.
Pahlavi, who died Sunday at the age of 60 after a six-year battle with cancer, was laid to rest in Al Rifaiya Mosque, a huge Islamic house of prayer where his father was interred briefly in 1944, and where members of Egypt's former royal family lie.

The shah's widow, former Empress Farah Diba, and their three eldest children attended the burial. As the mourners entered the mosque, a cannon fired a 21-round salute.
An Iraqi Shiite clergyman led the prayers for the dead inside the burial chamber. Princess Ashraf, the shah's twin sister, broke down during the burial and had to be rushed out.

Pahlavi's body was brought earlier in the day to the Abdeen presidential palace from Maadi hospital, where Pahlavi had spent the past month fighting cancer and its complications.
There it lay in state in the palace's main hall, in a closed coffin wrapped in the Iranian flag, with four generals standing around it, swords out but held down to the floor.
The former empress arrived in a black limousine with the shah's oldest son and heir, former Crown Prince Reza, 19. Princess Ashraf came next in a separate car. Both women were dressed in black, with black scarves on their heads.
They were met by Egyptian President Sadat, wearing the uniform of the commander-in-chief of Egyptian armed forces, and his wife, Jehan.
The two families paused briefly by the coffin, went upstairs to Sadat's office, then came back down again for the reading of prayers from the Koran after the arrival of other relatives.
The shah's family, including his other son, Ali Reza, 13, and his two daughters by Farah Diba, Farahnaz, 16, and Leila, 9, stood by the coffin while the entourage recited the opening lines of the Koran.
After the readings, mourners inside the palace came out to a large tent set up in the outdoor square for observances during the Moslem holy month of Ramadan. Other mourners had waited there, including foreign ambassadors, Nixon and former Greek King Constantine.
The mourners sat in the tent as six sailors in white uniforms with sky-blue trim carried the coffin out of the palace. The coffin was strapped to a caisson drawn by six black Arabian horses.
Police lined the 1 1/4-mile route along which Sadat and the Pahlavi family walked for 30 minutes behind the closed, flag-draped coffin to the Al Rifaiya Mosque. Sadat led the procession behind the caisson, flanked by Nixon and Prince Reza.

Electrical rate issue

PUC, TESCO reach agreement

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Public Utility Commission examiner today again postponed a hearing in Texas Electric Service Co.'s rate hike case as attorneys continued trying to negotiate a settlement.

Lawyers for the company and the cities involved said an agreement had been reached, but representatives of the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now said they did not agree to the settlement.

Don Butler, representing several of the cities involved, said the proposed settlement would be taken to city councils later today.
TESCO originally asked for $123 million in increased rates. The proposed settlement would give only $64.1 million in increases, said Carter Burdette, TESCO's attorney.
Bob Martin, TESCO spokesman, said the reduced rate hike would mean the company would have to come back for another rate increase sooner than it had planned. PUC staff members had recommended increases totaling $69.4 million.
Dorothy Harwood, an ACORN lawyer, complained after today's brief hearing that her organization was not told of the negotiations until they were under way.
"It looks like an already-agreed thing," she said.
ACORN objects to several specific portions of the proposed settlement. The group wants commercial and industrial customers to pay a greater share of the rate increase than they would in the proposed agreement.
Hearing examiner Mark Zepps told the parties to return Wednesday morning. He said ACORN is entitled to a hearing of the case if it continues to reject the settlement.

Local officials discuss compromise rate hike

By JAMES WERRELL
City fathers considered a compromise proposal on raising electrical rates submitted by the Texas Electric Service Company (TESCO), today.
A special session was called at 1:15 p.m. today so that city officials and council members could discuss a compromise in the company's proposal to raise electric rates. The first half of the meeting was held in closed session, after which members reconvened to take action on the proposal.
TESCO which serves 78 cities in North, Central and West Texas, had asked for a $123 million rate increase. That would raise a monthly household bill of $40 to $56.
Staff lawyers for the public Utilities Commission (PUC) had recommended a $69.4 million increase. TESCO and PUC officials, and several intervenors spent most of last week trying to reach a settlement that would probably range somewhere between the two proposed figures.

At press time, the results of the Big Spring discussion were unknown. But, according to City Manager Don Davis, the bottom line is that the council will have two options in regard to the proposal: accept it or reject it.
"If it is accepted, then for all intents and purposes that will be used to determine the new rates. It would have to be officially approved by the PUC, but that would be a formality," said Davis, this morning.
If the compromise is rejected, the PUC will serve as mediator, with counsel for both TESCO and the cities presenting their points of view.
Davis was briefed about the proposed compromise during a trip to Dallas, Monday. He provided the details of the plan to the council, this afternoon.
Prior to the meeting, Davis stated that the decision would rest solely on the shoulders of the councilmen.
"I plan to make no recommendation on this thing one way or the other," he said.

Action/reaction: Job requirements

Q. I recently went to apply for a job with the Western Container company. They said that I need not apply unless I was disabled or retired from the military. I talked to a retired military person who got a job with the company, and he is drawing $800 per month from the government, plus the pay he will receive from Western Container. Meanwhile, I do not have any income and am searching for a job. This is unfair and discriminates against me. Why are job requirements like this?
A. Bob Jackson, the plant manager for Western Container, said his company is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Thus, Western Container is not establishing job criteria of a person being retired military or disabled. He did say the company has certain skill requisites for each position, and that Western Container is trying to place those persons with these skills in the different jobs. Western Container welcomes any person to apply for a job with the company. Applications are being taken at the Texas Employment Commission.

Tops on TV: Tough choice

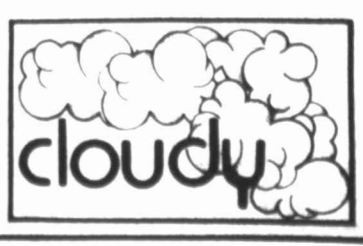

For the first time in a long time, viewers have a tough choice to make tonight. At 7:30 CBS will present the movie "Network." It stars Faye Dunaway, William Holden and Peter Finch in a story about cutthroat executives in the TV industry. It was Finch's last role before his death, and he won an Oscar for it. It features special underwater footage of the denizens of the deep, and the story of the only man known to have survived an attack by a white shark.

Inside: No signs yet

Faulty valves blamed

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla. (AP) — Two faulty valves are being blamed for the spill of about 10 gallons of radioactive water at the Crystal River nuclear power plant, a spokesman says.

No one was exposed to radiation in the Monday incident and the water was cleaned up, said Bill Johnson, a spokesman for Florida Power Corp., which owns the facility 90 miles north of Tampa.

Johnson said the accident was reported to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and he did not expect any delay in the generator's scheduled return to service next week. Crystal River has been shut down since Feb. 26 when other valves caused another spill.

Young mother charged

CHICAGO (AP) — A 19-year-old South Side woman has been charged with killing her 5-month-old baby by regularly feeding the child alcoholic beverages, police said.

Diane T. Kent was arrested Sunday and charged with murder after the Cook County medical examiner's office reported that her daughter, Mary Jean, died June 23 of liver failure due to acute alcoholism, authorities said.

According to police, the woman said she had given her daughter regular doses of a mixture of beer and water since the child was three weeks old. She gave no reason for her actions, police said.

Plane plans shelved

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The plan to dismantle Howard Hughes' huge flying boat, the Spruce Goose, and send pieces of it to museums around the country has been shelved.

Summa Corp., owner of the wooden plane, announced Monday that the eight-engine plane that dwarfs today's Boeing 747s will go on public display next month near the Queen Mary, a former luxury liner that is now used here as a tourist attraction.

The Spruce Goose, which is 220 feet long and has a 320-foot wing span, flew only once — 33 years ago with Hughes at the controls. It has been locked in its hangar since.

TV war epic cut back

BOSTON (AP) — One of the most ambitious projects ever undertaken by American public television, a 13-part history of the Vietnam War, may have to be cut back because neither government nor business wants to finance the effort, a Boston public television station says.

The biggest blow came last week when the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the official funding agency for public TV, turned down WGBH-TV's request for $1 million. Program Manager Peter McGhee said he believes many companies are reluctant to participate because they fear the series "may open wounds." WGBH may sponsor an on-the-air drive to fund the $3.8 million project, McGhee said.

Bilingual petition shaky

MIAMI (AP) — A woman who is fluent in six languages is heading a petition drive to abolish Dade County's bilingual programs and make Miami an English-speaking city.

Emmy Shafer, a survivor of the Dachau concentration camp of Nazi Germany, says she has collected more than 7,000 signatures toward the 25,213 needed to put the proposal on the Nov. 4 ballot. The Dade County Commission's declaration in 1973 making Miami bilingual encourages Latinos to ignore American ways, she says. But Eduardo Padron, a Cuban and college educator, said Latinos will defeat the referendum.

Bentsen's measure designed to change energy aid bias

(Special to The Herald)

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen recently pointed out that 1,200 Americans have died because of the heat over the past month and urged approval of his legislation that would amend the Energy Assistance Act to eliminate a bias favoring the North.

Bentsen introduced his amendment Friday morning, then testified before a joint hearing by the Senate Committee on Aging and Labor. His bill would change the formula under which low income energy assistance funds are distributed to individual states, to give equal weight to cooling needs and heating needs.

"In a national tragedy of major proportions more than 1,200 Americans — most of them aged or infirm — have died of heat-related causes during the past month," Bentsen said in his testimony.

"We will never know how many of them died needlessly. We will never know how many of them lost their lives because they could not afford to own or operate a fan."

Bentsen said that Senate debate last year on the low income energy assistance program "was tinged with

Police beat People not neighborly

Several people were less than neighborly in the city, Monday.

Joel H. Alvarez, 14, 1214 Lindburgh, reported that a nearby resident pointed two pistols at him and two of his friends, 9:20 p.m. Monday. Police will investigate further today.

John P. Liggett, 18, 609 E. 13th, told police that someone he knows hit him over the head with a brass artillery shell. Liggett was not severely injured.

Margaret Jimenez, 207

Benton, who is pregnant, told police that a man she knows kicked her in the stomach and stole her car. The car was later returned, but Mrs. Jimenez may press charges anyway.

Eliazar Rodriguez, 405 W. 5th, reported that someone strolled past his home and fired a gun through a window in the home, damaging the window, a curtain and a picture frame. Damage was estimated at $75.

U.S. embargo on grain splits Texas lawmakers

WASHINGTON — The votes of the Texas delegation for the week ending July 24:

HOUSE

U.S. GRAIN EMBARGO: Wednesday the House rejected a measure to halt the U.S. embargo of grain to the Soviet Union by cutting off funds for the embargo. That vote was 135 to 279.

The proposed amendment to the State-Justice-Commerce appropriations bill for fiscal year 1980 would have prohibited the use of appropriated funds to implement the embargo. Imposed in January in response to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, the embargo has been criticized as ineffective and unfair to farmers.

VOTING YES: Reps. Roberts, Leath, Hightower, Hance, Loeffler, Kazen.

VOTING NO: Reps. Hall, Wilson, Gramm, Pickle, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm.

LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION: The House approved an amendment Tuesday to restrict the jurisdiction of the Legal Services Corporation, which provides legal services for the poor.

The House voted to prohibit the agency from using funds for "promoting, defending, or protecting homosexuality." The vote was 290 to 113.

The amendment is part of an administration appropriations package that the House approved Wednesday.

VOTING YES: Reps. Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Gramm, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Hance.

Four convicted killers flee from Georgia prison

REIDSVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Georgia authorities issued a nationwide lookout today for four convicted killers with "nothing to lose" who sawed through a barred window, put fake guard badges on their blue pajamas and slipped away from a maximum security prison.

No one noticed they were gone Monday until the fugitives called a newspaper reporter.

Prison spokeswoman Lucy Justus said today police were looking for a blue 1971 Plymouth Fury, Georgia license EDN-639, which the fugitives may be using.

The fake guard uniforms fooled security guards who challenged the men as they left the 2,100-inmate Georgia State Prison, authorities said Monday.

Their flight from fourth-floor cells was so well executed that more than an hour after Charles Postell of The Albany Herald told prison officials of his "news tip" the escape had not been confirmed.

Postell's call, said Col. William Lowe, deputy commissioner of the Department of Offender Rehabilitation, "was the first time we knew about it."

"It seems very strange" no one heard the sawing of bars numbering in the teens that must have taken several weeks, commissioner David Evans said as federal and state agents combed the Southeast for the four.

Evans said he believed the men fled the prison to avoid transfer to Death Row at the Diagnostic Classification Center at Jackson.

Postell said the fugitives told him "we all decided we'd rather be dead than stay here another day. Conditions here are inhuman."

They were identified as Troy Leon Gregg, David A. Jarrell, Timothy W. McCorquodale and Johnnie L. Johnson, all in their 20s or 30s.

McCorquodale was convicted of the torture-slaying of a teen-ager, a

Sen. Stevens, who regards the land controversy as a states' rights issue, called for the vote Tuesday to table the wildlife refuge amendment.

Order bans wining juries

AMITE, La. (AP) — Jurors sequestered in the 21st Judicial District may no longer have wine with their dinner — and they can blame a jury that rolled up a $630 food and liquor tab.

"New dining rules will permit jurors to a standard breakfast, a $3 to $4 businessman's lunch and a good dinner," Chief Judge Burrell Carter said recently.

Those meals will be eaten at the hotel where jurors are staying, rather than at local restaurants, he said.

Carter said he imposed the new rules after learning it had cost $1,605.09 to house and feed 12 jurors, two alternates, and two deputies serving as guards during a three-day trial last December.

The meal total was more than it cost to feed parish grand juries in December, January and February. Records indicate grand juries charged $612.22 worth of food — and no liquor — to the parish during those three months.

"In considering low income energy assistance those of us who represent Sunbelt states made the point that heat is a serious threat to vulnerable elements in our population."

"This position was ridiculed by many of our colleagues, some of whom went so far as to oppose assistance for cooling even under the limited, medically-qualified conditions finally included in the bill."

Panel reduces cancer radiation estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Academy of Sciences committee has reduced its estimates of how much cancer may be caused by low-level radiation, according to the rewritten version of a controversial report released today.

The Biological Effects of Ionizing Radiation, or BEIR, report, first released more than a year ago, was ordered redrafted when members of the committee that wrote it quibbled about mathematical models used to estimate cancer risks.

The influential BEIR reports, first written in 1972 and revised in 1977 and continue on their way after they told the guards they had security checks to attend to, he said.

Postell, who has conducted several Death Row interviews, said Gregg called him at 9:30 a.m. and told him that he and three others had escaped and were in Jacksonville, Fla.

He said he called the office of Warden Charles Montgomery about an hour later and told officials he had heard from the four. He was told "everyone is accounted for at this time," Gregg is in his cell," Postell said.

Postell called again at about 11:45 a.m. and was told officials were checking on a possible escape. Lookouts eventually were posted in Georgia and South Carolina, and later throughout the Southeast.

"The real story is that it took me four hours to convince anybody they were not really up in their cells," Postell said.

Both the original and revised versions of the new report, called BEIR III, said all low-level radiation causes small and virtually unmeasurable health effects in humans, such as cancer and birth defects.

The new study said there is no apparent threshold below which radiation ceases to have adverse effects on humans, but those effects can be so small in a large population that they are masked by more prominent causes.

Coahoma trustees set tax rate at 81 cents

COAHOMA — The Coahoma school board set the tax rate at 81 cents per $100 valuation in a special meeting held here Monday night. The new rate represents a reduction of about 20 percent for taxpayers in cases where property has not increased in value.

Landowners can still expect a reduction even if their land has been reappraised and the classification changed.

One major landowner whose land values increased from $22,812 to $36,332 still had a reduction in taxes of over ten percent. The percentage of tax reduction will vary according to the amount of valuation increase.

The board boosted the assessment rate in 1979 from 75 to 100 percent, effective this year, but lowered the tax rate more than enough to offset that and the increase in land classification set by the county appraisal board.

Recent stories appearing in public print regarding an increase in taxes are not in keeping with the facts, according to School Supt. Richard Souter.

Native of Big Spring named personnel director of Abilene

Pamela Collins, a native of Big Spring, has been named personnel director for the City of Abilene. She formally assumes office Aug. 18.

Her starting salary will be $25,000 annually. She has been with U.S. Brass since 1977.

Ms. Collins said she switched from a corporate job to city administration because "all my experience is in manufacturing and industry. I feel it would be a challenge to work in municipal government."

Son granted asylum in U.S.

ACLU defending Soviet parents

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it will represent the parents of a 12-year-old Ukrainian boy granted asylum in the United States because the parents' rights are threatened.

"It would be ironic, indeed, if in our eagerness to give young Walter Polovchak the right to enjoy our freedoms, we took away the basic due process and human rights of his parents," ACLU Executive Director Jay A. Miller said Monday.

The boy told authorities he ran away from his parents' home in Chicago two weeks ago because he did not wish to return to the Soviet Union with them. The family moved from the Ukraine to Chicago in January.

After Walter was found by Chicago police at a relative's home, he was placed in the temporary custody of the state Department of Children and Family Services, then given political asylum by the U.S. government.

A hearing will be held Wednesday on who will get permanent custody of the youngster. Staff attorney Lois J. Lipton said the ACLU will ask Juvenile Court Judge Joseph C. Mooney to dismiss the state's request for permanent custody.

Miller and Ms. Lipton maintained that the process which put Walter in temporary state custody were improper. Usually, only habitual runaways or abused or neglected children can be taken from their parents in such proceedings, they said, adding that the matter should never have been brought into juvenile court.

There is no evidence Michael and Ann Polovchak are unfit parents, Ms. Lipton said. "They've lived in plain, but clean surroundings," she said, adding that she does not know if the parents would return to the Ukraine without Walter.

"It's very clear Mr. Polovchak feels terribly distraught about what has happened — he would be devastated if he lost his son," Ms. Lipton said.

Miller said the Polovchaks were not represented by an attorney at the hearing at which their son was placed in custody of the state, and said they had no interpreter and did not understand what was happening.

"Normally, we stand for the expansion of children's rights, but we have never taken the position parents have no rights over their children," Miller said.

"The political implications of this case tend to obscure what we are dealing with here," Ms. Lipton said.

Few problems crop up in grain transportation

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — For the first time in a decade, railroads are moving with little difficulty what could turn out to be a record winter wheat crop, officials say.

Operators of grain elevators across the Midwest have complained in recent years about a lack of rail cars during harvest. When cars haven't been available and the storage bins are full, the grain is piled on the ground where rain eventually can cause it to spoil.

Winter wheat, which generally is grown from Texas to Nebraska, is considered the country's prime bread-making grain because of its high protein content. The harvest was almost complete this week in Nebraska, and combines are gearing up to tackle the spring wheat crop on the drought-stricken northern Plains.

"We've had practically no complaints from elevator operators, which is very unusual for this time of year," said John Michael, transportation industry analyst for the Interstate Commerce Commission. "There are no widespread shortages of cars. It's 300 percent better than at this time last year."

"Exports are down somewhat, and we haven't had the backup of cars at the ports that we normally do," said Cal French, traffic manager for the Kansas City Terminal Elevator. "And the car supply finally has caught up with demand."

The fleet of hopper cars nationwide has grown by 10 percent in the past year to nearly 300,000 cars. More than 30,000 hopper cars have been loaded each week during July, according to the Association of American Railroads.

City councilman sues Ma Bell

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — City Councilman David Diaz, who says he got nothing but loud crackling and static on his telephone for three days, has sued Southwestern Bell to try to land "a blow for the little man against a big giant."

Diaz filed a $501,000 breach of contract suit Monday against Bell for alleged "mental anguish and a general loss of reputation" because his law clients couldn't reach him Friday, Saturday or Sunday.

"My purpose in filing the suit," he said, "is to recover my losses and to let the little man know there's something he can be done against Ma Bell. At least we can strike her in the knees."

Diaz claims the phone company is in violation of the state's Deceptive Trade Practices Act with its claim that it provides reliable service.

Diaz said he wasn't aware of his telephone problem until someone who tried to call him told him about it. Later, he claimed that he got nothing but "loud crackling and static" when it rang.

The attorney said several calls to company produced only an answering service tape telling him to call back later.

Southwestern Bell officials would only say that the suit is being studied by company attorneys.

Leo Freeman in custody

Leo Lester Freeman is under arrest in Henrietta on a charge of theft of a 1974 Pinto from Vickey Heintz, July 21. The charge was filed Monday by Detective Ted Lancaster in the office of Justice of the Peace Bob West.

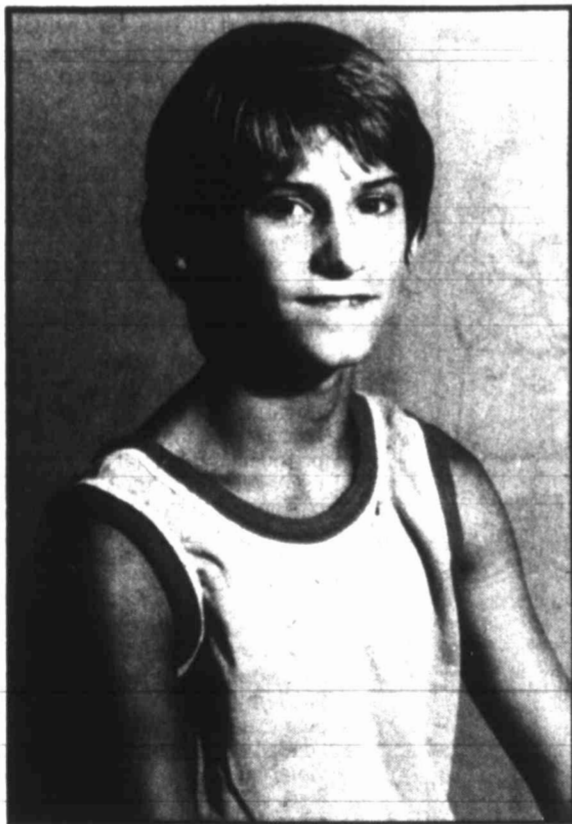

Authorities in Henrietta were suspicious and began following the Pinto, said Lancaster. As they followed they radioed for a check on the car's license tags. Freeman was arrested when the car's tags matched those of the Pinto stolen here.

Docket call set for today

District Attorney Rick Hamby said the aggravated assault trial of suspended Big Spring Patrolman Sean Curran probably will begin Monday in 118th District Court. Prosecutors will know for sure after docket call Tuesday afternoon.

Other cases that might go to trial are Tony Gilbert Coates, DWI felony; Luis Martinez, felony possession of marijuana; and Robert Earl Mesker, voluntary manslaughter.

Iranian crises is an enduring thing

The Iranian problem has been fermenting for a long time. There's no indication it will improve in the immediate future, not with a leadership whose members have expressed a preference for living in the Seventh Century.

A reader recently brought in a copy of the Sept. 30, 1981, New York Times, which devoted part of its front page to a mounting crisis in Iran. Also included was a picture of Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh, then premier of the Middle Eastern nation.

A.M. ROSENTHAL, who authored the Times article, said that Britain's formal warning that a dispute over Iranian oil posed a potential threat to peace. News of the treat was delivered to the United Nations Security Council, after which diplomatic talks began on new attempts to settle the case through direct negotiation or mediation.

Iran was being difficult, the newspaper intimated. It was refusing to abide by the International Court of Justice ruling that the British be allowed to retain management of the oil fields pending a settlement.

It had also ordered the expulsion of about 350 British technicians from the oil fields within a matter of days, an edict the British wanted to negate through a decision handed down by the Security Council.

Mossadegh, who was later to be humiliated publicly, flew in to New York for the UN debate on the issue, according to the story in the Times.

THE UNITED STATES was being encouraged to take part in the discussions. It was reported at the time that America might join in the sponsorship of a neutral resolution but the U.S., at the time, was being as chary as possible about the situation. A number of delegates to the United Nations were all for wording the resolution in such a way that all the blame would be placed on Iran.

The United States, working through the Shah, later was to become fast friends with Iran and the honeymoon lasted a long time.

The Iranians, of course, got their fill of life as it was lived under the Shah and then rebelled. They accused the United States of supplying the military muscle and the money that kept him in power for years. When the Shah was overthrown, the U.S.'s name became mud in Iran.

Things have gone no where but downhill between the nations since that time.

Exhausting trip

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

We grew up together. We attended the same church, belonged to the youth league, went to school together and as we grew older, circulated in the same group of friends. It was only fitting that I should attend my cousin's wedding.

When my aunt was assured I would be in attendance, she assigned me the duty of registering guests. She made the assignment through my mother, therefore creating some confusion as to when and exactly how I was to perform the important task.

reception, a hall in New Waverly, 10 minutes from the church. That was all fine, but it would not be until almost 5:30 that barbecue and trimmings were served. That left a lot of time for sitting around after having sat in a car and church for all those hours.

I was given a break from the sitting. My responsibility of registering the guests meant that I had to walk from table to table to ensure that every one there had signed the book.

IT GAVE ME A chance to talk to some people I hadn't seen for a long time — all with the question: "When are you getting married?" "Next summer's my turn," I replied to all inquiries. After that it was back to sitting again.

Finally dinner was served and it was followed by more sitting until the band set up and was ready to play. The rest of the evening was filled with dances with my brothers, my cousins (my 12-year-old cousin was tearing up the dance floor) and other members of the family.

At about 9:30 we finally departed, arriving home at 10:30. A long, tiring day with no end in sight. The next day meant another eight-hour drive back to Big Spring.

It was not an enjoyable trip, just a tiring one. At least I had a day to recuperate. Barry had to be at work the next morning.

P.S. While on their honeymoon in New Braunfels, Tommy's bride was jumping on the bed to keep him awake and hit the light fixture. She had to have nine stitches put in her head.

AFTER DRIVING for eight hours on a Friday after having been at work since 7 a.m., my fiancé and I arrived in Navasota at 12:45 a.m. We were tired from the long trip in my little car and went directly to bed.

The next day was as hectic as the day before. I was up at 8:30, busy getting ready for the afternoon's activities. Being as there were seven people to use one bathroom, preparation started early. By 1:45 p.m. everyone was ready to leave. The only problem was we had an hour's drive to Huntsville where the wedding was taking place at 3. We got a late start and had to rush to get there in time.

Once I got there I discovered I should have been there an hour earlier. My aunt wanted guests registered as they came into the church. Expecting the traditional hour-long ceremony of the Catholic church I was quite surprised by the 15-minute ceremony that was to follow.

By 3:45 p.m. we were at the Benefitted, too

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — While Billy Carter was prospering from his Libyan connection, big brother Jimmy Carter accrued some financial benefits of his own from a Saudi Arabian benefactor.

The story of how President Carter became indebted to a Saudi-controlled bank was first revealed in this space. I reported that in 1978 the bank cheerfully renegotiated a Carter business loan, which was tantamount to handing him $60,000 at a time when he was financially strapped.

THE TRANSACTION has now been spelled out by Thomas Parry, an investigator for the Senate Judiciary Committee, in a confidential memo to Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah. The memo reports that Ghaiith Pharaoh, "the son of the man who advises the Saudi Arabian royal family how to deal with the United States," acquired 98.4 percent of the stock in the National Bank of Georgia.

Parry calls the purchase "a dubious investment in a bank that had been losing money and doesn't pay dividends." But he points out a possible attraction, which may have led to this strange acquisition. "The assumption in financial circles," suggests the Parry memo, "is that Pharaoh acted for the Saudi royal family in purchasing the National Bank of Georgia. The bank's biggest borrower just happened to be Jimmy Carter. Thus the president of the United States found himself deeply in hock to a Saudi Arabian financier with close ties to the Saudi government."

The Saudis gained access, the memo relates, "to the bank's confidential files, which contained embarrassing information about the president's financial affairs. The files revealed that the Carter peanut business wrote $3 million in overdrafts and unprocessed checks to repay peanut commodity loans during the 1975-77 period."

"WHILE CARTER WAS scrounging money for his 1976 presidential campaign, the business borrowed $1.15 million from the bank to buy peanuts, without a single peanut in bonded storage to secure the loan, in violation of the loan agreement. By Sept. 1, 1977, the business was insolvent to the tune of $410,000."

At the time, these facts had been successfully covered up by a president who had promised to bare his finances to the electorate. Presumably, he was not anxious to have the hidden details publicized at the time they became available to the Saudis in 1978.

"Of course," recounts the Parry memo, "the Saudis remained discreetly silent. The friendly

Pharaoh not only kept quiet about Carter's financial irregularities, but renegotiated the loan to Carter's advantage.

"According to a memo in the bank files, dated May 1, 1978, the bank renegotiated the repayment terms. This resulted in a savings of $60,000 for the Carter family in 1978. The president owned 62 percent of the business and, therefore, was the largest benefactor."

He was also liable for 100 percent of the debt, as the only partner who had the money to pay. But the memo describes a business reverse, meanwhile, which "resulted in a severe strain on the president's finances in 1977 — a strain that was relieved by the opportune $60,000 renegotiation."

Not until two years later did Carter's trustees quietly move his financial obligation from the Saudi-controlled bank to the Trust Company Bank of Georgia, which was free of Arab taint. But that's another story.

Footnote: The Senate investigator winds up his confidential memo with a pertinent observation. "The press and the public have been conditioned by Watergate," he writes, "to expect a 'smoking gun' — a taped conversation, a full confession by one of the conspirators or some other dramatic evidence. I am not at all confident that a 'smoking gun' exists. Perhaps the American people need to be re-educated about scandal. It should be considered scandal enough that the president would allow himself to come under financial obligation to a foreign power or that he would permit his brother to be used by a Muammar Qaddafi, who arms world terrorists and condones an attack upon the U.S. embassy in Tripoli."

HIGH-PRICED MOVES — Back in 1973, Congress ordered the Defense Department to encourage competitive bidding for the shipment of employees' household goods to and from overseas posts. The savings in lower freight costs is measured in the millions.

Yet the old ways were left undisturbed for delivering shipments between the continental United States and Hawaii or Alaska. For instance, it costs the taxpayers $85.15 to move a ton of household goods from Oakland, Calif., the 2,500 miles to Fairbanks, Alaska; yet shipping the same amount 7,300 miles to Munich, Germany, costs only $68.58.

For the last two years, the House has approved legislation that would plug this loophole. But each time, the measure has been blocked in the Senate — thanks to the obstruction of Sens. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Warren Magnuson, D-Wash.

deal, the anniversary itself being overshadowed by the coronation of the week before of Queen Beatrix (an event that provoked demonstrations leading to riots).

But much of Amsterdam did what came naturally and took to the streets to welcome the Canadians, deluging them with tulips as they had a generation and a half earlier.

It was a spontaneous recollection of a historic shared triumph and a reaffirmation of the sense of solidarity among free people that dates from it.

There ought to be more of that going around.

Ladies package tour

Art Buchwald

(Since Art Buchwald is now leading in the polls against Carter, Reagan and Anderson, his political managers have advised him to take a few weeks off to formulate his summer strategy. He left behind some of his favorite columns.)

PARIS — What happened to all the little old ladies in tennis shoes? I am happy to report that they are alive and well and most of them are on package tours in Europe.

Because traveling abroad has become so expensive, you do not see many Americans on the Continent any more.

Occasionally, a bearded kid with an American flag on the seat of his pants may walk by your cafe table, but it isn't like the old days when there wasn't a corner of Europe that didn't have a "U.S. Go Home" sign.

IF IT WEREN'T for the little old ladies in tennis shoes, no one would be aware that the United States still exists, and it makes any red-blooded American's chest swell with pride when he sees a battalion of them marching down the Champs Elysees, Piccadilly or the Via Veneto, to the tune of "Colonel Bogie's March."

Make no mistake about it, the little old ladies in tennis shoes still strike terror in the hearts of every tour director in Europe.

Most of the ladies are veterans of previous overseas tours, experienced in hand-to-hand combat at flea markets, versed in the skills of fierce haggling in souvenir shops, trained to assault churches and museums, and prepared for sneak attacks on any American Express branch in the country.

The cemeteries of Great Britain, France, Italy, the Benelux and Scandinavian countries are dotted with graves of tour guides who expired trying to keep up the pace set by these indomitable souls. At airports all over Europe you see fresh young guides barely out of college, wearing their tour uniforms, waiting nervously for their group to jump off the plane and encircle the city. Screaming "We take no prisoners," the little old ladies, carrying their duty-free shopping bags from the previous airport, climb aboard their buses determined not to miss one single thing included in the price of the tour.

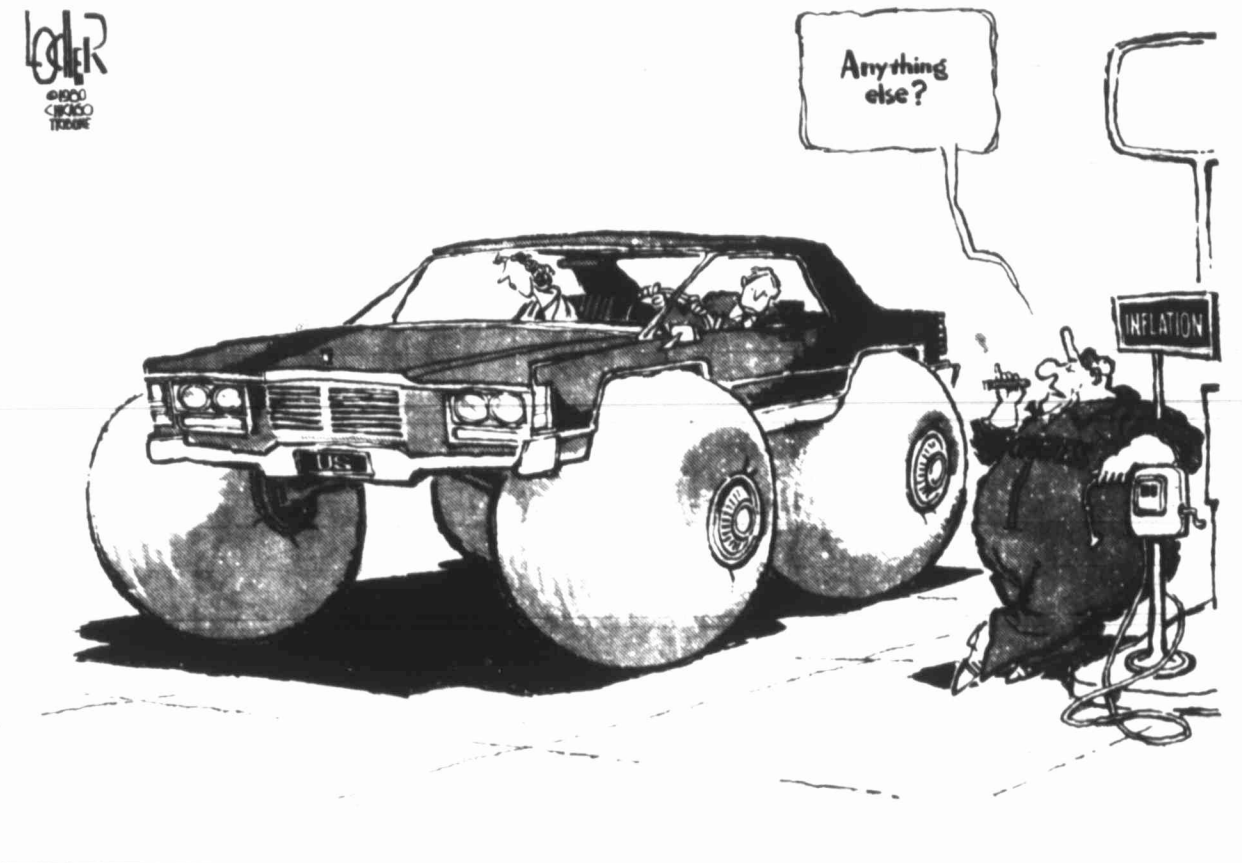

No mountain is too high for them to climb, no fjord is too wide for them to cross. Heaven help the guide who forgets to stop for tea in Zermatt (included in the package) or leaves out a church in Montmartre. Let a waiter skip a salad course in Salzburg or a cheese plate in Brussels, and he'll get a karate chop he'll remember for the rest of his life.

In the last 30 years, Europeans have seen their countries invaded by American, Japanese and now Arab tourists. But none of them has ever shown the strength, the moral fiber or the staying power of the little old ladies in tennis shoes.

WHY DO THEY do it? When most Europeans have lost interest in tourists, when waiters and concierges and shopkeepers have become more surly, when most things are cheaper in the States, why do the ladies keep traveling abroad?

The answer came from a little old lady sitting next to me at Fouquet's. "Someone has to carry on," she said simply.

"The young people can't do it because they don't have the money; the middle-age people can't do it because they don't have the stamina. If it weren't for us little old ladies in tennis shoes, no one would remember what an American looks like. We've all taken a vow that as long as we can climb the steps of the Piazza di Spagna in Rome, or wade on the beaches of Monte Carlo, we will see that the sun never sets on an American tourist."

Tick fever virus infection

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: When we were vacationing in the Colorado mountains my little boy broke out in a rash and had a high fever. The doctors there told us it was Colorado tick fever. What is it? At the time I was just too worried about my boy to ask many questions, and we had to hurry back home because my husband's vacation was over. — Mrs. G.G.

Colorado tick fever is a virus infection prevalent in the mountainous areas of Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. It is one of the few viral illnesses in the Western Hemisphere spread by ticks. When the tick bites, the virus passes into the victim's blood. There may be fever, chills, headache, muscle ache, abdominal pain, vomiting and a body rash. The entire illness lasts about seven to 10 days, and full recovery is the rule.

The only way to prevent the illness is to avoid ticks. Wear protective clothing and keep pant legs tucked into socks. Use insect repellent, and if you are camping out inspect each other's clothing and body for ticks so that they can be promptly removed. Not every tick transmits the illness; only those that have acquired the virus. The symptoms usually occur three to six days after the bite.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have stomach troubles. I seldom have heartburn or sour stomach. It's just burp-burp-burp-burp all the time. I emphasize bland foods, have tried all the antacids on the market and have my hiatal hernia under control with medicine. We usually have a Manhattan before the evening meal, but when I pass that up for a few days it makes no difference. Same with cigarettes. No difference. I've been checked for ulcers, etc. I am 64, 5 feet 10 inches and weigh 170 pounds. Any help you can give will be greatly appreciated. — E.T.

Most of the gas in the stomach comes from swallowing air while eating. That's always a good premise with which to begin your search for a burpless life.

You have had examinations, so serious problems have been excluded. Here's a partial problem checklist — rapid eating or drinking, chewing gum, sucking candy, swallowing through straws, loose dentures (that's correct). If you give it some thought you can probably come up with a supplemental list at least that long.

A trick to prevent repetitive burping is to swallow your teeth. That will stop you from swallowing air. I don't mean for you to do this while eating but afterwards, when you have a bout of burps.

A low-fat diet will reduce the production of carbon dioxide in the stomach. This is somewhat helpful for some people with the problem. Carbonated beverages should be avoided for the same chemical reason. You can afford to lose some of those 170 pounds, too, especially with your hiatal hernia background. It helps. For further discussion see the booklet "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains — a Checklist." For a copy, mail 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I cannot get my husband to a doctor. I am sure it is either fear or pride that makes him so stubborn. He is in his late 50s and is about 30 pounds overweight. Recently, he developed a swollen breast. There doesn't seem to be a lump. I think he is afraid of cancer. Can you allay his fears? I always wondered why people would have to write for advice to a doctor's column. Now I know. — Mrs. L.V.

Yes, your husband should be examined for the reason that I'm sure is in the back of your minds — to be certain this is not cancer. Cancer in the male breast is rare, but it does occur. It is 100 times less common than cancer of the female breast.

Cancer, however, is not the only possible cause for your husband's breast enlargement. An abscess may cause this. He may have an innocent growth. Too, enlargement of a single breast occurs in many men over 40 without there being any serious implication.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What does the Bible mean when it says that God chastens or judges those that He loves? — R.M.

DEAR R.M.: You are perhaps thinking of a verse such as Hebrews 12:5-6 which teaches us, "My son, do not make light of the Lord's discipline, and do not lose heart when he rebukes you, because the Lord disciplines those he loves, and he punishes everyone he accepts as a son."

To understand this verse you need to realize that God has a purpose for every one of us. When we come to Christ we have begun the first step in that purpose, for God's will is for us to believe in Christ and trust Him alone for our salvation. But that is not the end but the beginning of a whole new life as God's child. When we come to Christ we are born again into the family of God, and as spiritual babes we are to grow. God's will for us is that we would follow Him and be Christ's disciples. God's will is that we would "be holy and blameless in his sight" (Ephesians 1:4).

And so we are commanded to "out off your old self, which is being corrupted by its deceitful desires; to be made new in the attitude of your minds; and to put on the new self, created to be like God in true righteousness and holiness" (Ephesians 4:22-24). In other words, God wants to change you. He wants to take away those things in your life which are wrong, and add things which bring honor to Him.

And how does God bring this about? The Bible says we are like plants, and that God often prunes us or takes things away which will keep us from bearing fruit as we should. God "cuts off every branch in me that bears no fruit, while every branch that does bear fruit he trims clean so that it will be even more fruitful" (John 15:2). Sometimes through the painful circumstances of life God will show us our need of walking closer to Him and turning away from sin in our lives. Always pray that you will be open to whatever God will teach you in such situations.

West Texas congressman praises action

WASHINGTON (AP) — "A step in the right direction" was the echo from West Texas congressmen after President Carter announced an increase in government price support loan rates for wheat and corn.

"This is a small step in the right direction but we still must have changes that will realistically reflect the tremendous increases in cost of production with which farmers are faced," Rep. Jack Hightower, a Democrat from Vernon, said.

"It's a step in the right direction," Rep. Charles

Stenholm, a Democrat from Stamford, said. "It's not all that's going to be necessary in the long run but may be the only politically achievable level in this Congress."

"I think this is definitely a step in the right direction," Rep. Kent Hance, a Lubbock Democrat said. "I wish they'd been able to provide this same type of action in January."

Carter announced the decision Monday to raise the loan rate for wheat from $2.50 a bushel to $3 and the rate for corn from $2.10 a bushel to $2.25, effective Oct. 1.

The announcement followed a White House meeting with some farm organization leaders.

Hance, Stenholm and Hightower — whose districts stretching from Abilene to Amarillo produce the bulk of the state's corn and wheat — noted that inflation has sent the cost of producing a bushel of wheat close to $5.

The price support loan rate is the amount farmers can borrow from the government by using their crops as collateral.

Stenholm, a farmer, said he did not want to "poor mouth" the decision because it represents an improvement but the $3 figure still is unrealistic because of the high production cost.

Hance said an earlier increase would have countered problems caused by Carter's partial embargo of grain exports to the Soviet Union.

He said this increase is an improvement but another might be necessary in a few months if the market does not stabilize.

The Lubbock congressman raising the loan rates for wheat and corn to the same amounts that Carter announced Monday.

Sen. John Tower, the state's Republican senator, said the administration decision was an "attempt to toss a bone to the American farmer. He should have done this much earlier as Congress has been trying to do."

Tower said he supports a bill raising the rate to $3.30 for wheat and $2.25 for corn, and he noted that it has not moved out of committee because of administration opposition.

Both Tower and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said they were co-sponsors of last week's amendment that passed by voice vote.

Bentsen said Carter's decision was "something that had to be done, with farm income expected to fall by a third for 1980 and possibly more if the drought continues. I've been urging this for many weeks now."

Meanwhile, the three West Texas congressmen attended a weekend meeting in Ottawa, Canada, on wheat pricing problems in the export market.

Carter increases support loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — After months of pressure from farmers and rural members of Congress, the administration is boosting federal price supports on major grain crops to help ease what President Carter calls "a serious cost-price squeeze" on producers.

"Increases in the cost of fuel, fertilizer and other production items have outpaced increases in farm receipts, causing net income for many farmers to fall this year," Carter said in his announcement Monday.

During a meeting with farm leaders in the cabinet room, the president said he felt "deep concern about the unfortunate plight of farmers and ranchers in particular this year with the unbelievable pressure on them from the cost-price freeze relationship."

He said the "adverse weather conditions," apparently referring to the heat, have been "very severe and also threatening."

The meeting included 18 representatives of farm organizations, as well as Gov. Arthur A. Link of North Dakota, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and other administration officials.

At the Agriculture Department later, Bergland and other officials said federal outlays will rise by about $1 billion over the two months remaining in this fiscal year and in the bookkeeping year that will begin on Oct. 1.

But farmers pay interest on crop loans and are expected to repay most of them. Thus, they said, the net costs to taxpayers will be less than $100 million through next fiscal year.

The USDA said retail food costs "will be slightly higher" as a result of the higher crop supports "but more grain will be in reserve to protect against crop shortages" in the future.

"Consumers of wheat products will pay about $150 million more for those products — less than 0.3 cents per loaf of bread," a background paper said. "If the higher feed (corn and other grains) prices were all passed on to meat consumers, meat prices would rise by less than 0.5 cents per pound."

Overall, it said, the higher crop supports could boost the government's consumer price index by about 0.1 percent.

Wheat price-support loan rates — the amount farmers can borrow from the government by using their grain as collateral — are being raised to $3 a bushel under which farmers can store grain and collect federal payments for doing so.

Under the reserve program, farmers store their grain until prices rise to a specified release level at which, if they choose, they can pay off the loans and redeem their grain. If prices rise still further to a "call" level, farmers must repay their loans or forfeit.

The release and call levels also will be higher to reflect the increases in the loan rates.

Officials said also they will seek legislation to permit still higher support loan rates for 1980-crop grain stored under the new reserve program.

All of the actions relate to 1980 crops, including winter wheat that already has been harvested, and other crops, including corn and soybeans, that will be harvested over the next few months.

Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., applauded the president's actions. He said that especially among grain farmers, "there has been a very great depression, particularly compared with the cost of production. Those costs have skyrocketed."

Jack Feigenhauer, president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, said he was "just elated."

Toddler biggest star?

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — With the help of a crooked smile and some good connections, 16-month-old Wesley Ivan Hurt may become the year's biggest little movie star.

The toddler, grandson of director Robert Altman and son of writer John Hurt of Fremont, steals scenes from the likes of Robin Williams and Shelley Long in Altman's latest film, "Popeye." Wesley plays Swee'pea, the "orphank" left abandoned to the maritime cartoon hero.

"He was terrific," said proud mother Christine Hurt. "He followed everyone who was talking. He didn't stare into the camera. He acted completely natural."

Problems not recurring

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A former drug rehabilitation counselor says the arrest of David A. Kennedy for investigation of drunken driving doesn't signal a recurrence of personal problems for the 25-year-old son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Don Juhl, who supervised Kennedy in three months of drug related therapy that ended earlier this year, said Monday. "As far as the problems of the past go, they're all over. He is in no kind of trouble."

Police said Kennedy was driving the wrong way on a downtown street shortly after midnight Saturday. After failing a roadside sobriety test, he was booked at the Sacramento County Jail for investigation of drunken driving and failure to have a driver's license. He was released on his own recognizance, authorities said.

'Plumber' wants to return

SEATTLE (AP) — Egil "Bud" Krogh is taking the Washington State bar examination in hopes of returning to the law practice he lost after being disbarred for his work as a "plumber" in the Nixon White House.

Two months ago, the state Supreme Court voted 7-2 to allow Krogh to be readmitted to the bar if he passed the bar exam. Krogh, 40, of Bellevue, was one of 715 persons taking the three-day law examination that began Monday.

Krogh was disbarred in 1975 for his role in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Ellsberg had released the classified "Pentagon Papers" about the Vietnam War.

Krogh pleaded guilty in 1974 to a federal conspiracy charge for the illegal search. He served four months and 17 days in prison before parole.

The results of the exam are not expected for three months.

Newton conviction upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Huey Newton, co-founder of the Black Panthers, faces up to two years in prison following an appeals court decision upholding his 1978 conviction on felony weapons charges.

The California Court of Appeals ruled Monday that Newton's conviction on charges of being a felon in possession of a firearm was justified. It returned the case to the Alameda Superior Court, where Newton has already been given a two-year term. That sentence could be reduced.

Newton, who founded the Panthers with Bobby Seale in 1966, remains free on $130,000 bail.

Deepwater port taking shape in Gulf of Mexico

GRAND ISLE, La. (AP) — The nation's first deepwater port for supertankers — the Louisiana Offshore Oil Port — is beginning to take shape in the Gulf of Mexico.

Huge, 2,000-pound sections of the pumping platform are moving into place 19 miles south of Grand Isle, and divers are hooking up buoys — where the huge supertankers will tie up — to one of the biggest chains ever made.

"This is the first visible part, other than the jackets sticking up out of the water. This is the first real thing as far as the offshore pumping platform," LOOP spokesman Terry D. Trovato said Monday.

The underwater structures that will anchor the platforms to the seabottom 110 feet below have been up for more than half a year, waiting for the platform itself, he said.

While they sat in the Gulf of Mexico, workers on shore assembled everything else — the 46-foot buoys, the pumps, the pumping platform's five deck sections, and the two pieces of a separate three-deck platform where offshore workers will live and work controls for the pumps.

"When they're brought out, almost all the equipment is already bolted to them. It's brought out as one giant piece," Trovato said.

The pumping platform's lower deck sections carry three pumps that will work together to push 1,100 gallons of oil a minute through the 37 miles of pipeline between the platform and a salt dome in Clovelly.

The pumps will run on electricity produced by gas turbine generators on the upper deck, where meters will also measure the flow of crude.

Controls will be 150 feet away, on a smaller, three-story platform.

Two of the largest derrick barges in the Gulf, able to lift 1,600 tons each, had to be used together to set three 2,000-pound sections of the pumping platform into place. The other two are lighter and can be lifted by one derrick.

Between the pumping platform and the buoys are more than 1½ miles of pipeline, ending at the 90-foot-wide bases which anchor the buoys. These bases are themselves anchored with 5-foot-wide steel piles sunk 90 feet into the seabottom.

The chains which attach the buoys to them are made of 6¼-inch steel forged into links three feet long. They have to be big to hold fast against the ocean's pull on ships that can weigh up to 700,000 tons before they're loaded with crude — ships longer than four football fields.

With the chain attached to its bottom, the buoy is lifted from its barge and onto the water. There valves are opened to let seawater flood into a hollow lower compartment, bringing it upright and pulling it down.

When only the buoy's top 10 feet and a big "birdcage" around lights, a radar reflector and other navigation aids are above water, divers attach the chain to the base.

Senate investigators skeptical of Vesco

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Senate investigators try to find out whether the Billy Carter-Libyan affair is merely a case of a "boob" brother or one of White House influence peddling, two senators say fugitive financier Robert Vesco claims to have engineered the whole deal to embarrass President Carter.

Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who interviewed Vesco in the Bahamas over the weekend, said Monday they were skeptical about the Vesco story.

DeConcini said he wasn't convinced, but Hatch said Vesco has been right before and he thinks further investigation might bear out the allegation that Vesco arranged Libyan payments of $220,000 to Billy Carter that the president's brother said was a loan.

The two senators said Vesco maintained his motive was vengeance for the administration's refusal to drop federal fraud and embezzlement charges against him.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of a special Senate subcommittee, said his panel will hold two hearings on the politically explosive controversy before the Democratic National Convention begins Aug. 11. The select panel was meeting today to consider hiring a non-partisan attorney.

Bayh, in Indianapolis, refused to speculate on the outcome of the special Senate inquiry, to be conducted by members of the Judiciary and Foreign Relations committees, but said, "The two things that stand out are the stupidity of Billy Carter and the Libyans."

"It's one thing if we got a brother out here who's a boob and causing embarrassment to the president. We all can sympathize with that."

"It's another if he has in some way or other influenced the course of government. We have no evidence of that, but there certainly has been a lot of insinuations."

At the White House, spokesman Jody Powell said President Carter opened his Monday Cabinet meeting by reassuring his department heads that in the case of his brother, "we have nothing to hide and that nothing will be held back and that everything is being laid out."

Powell added that Carter would be seeking advice from one of his closest and oldest friends, Atlanta lawyer Charles Kirbo. The press aide said that Kirbo, who arrived in Washington over the weekend, "brings a degree of detachment that none of us here has."

DeConcini said Vesco claims to have documentation showing that in January he arranged Libyan payments to Billy Carter.

As for Bayh's select panel, he said it also will investigate reports that members of Congress received payments from Libya but said that even if those reports are true, "that doesn't mean any of them have been influenced, just like I hope we'll find that the present administration hasn't been influenced by Billy Carter's antics."

The president's brother registered July 14 as a foreign agent to avoid a grand jury investigation into his Libyan connections.

Billy Carter was reported to be in Washington Monday, but his whereabouts were unknown. "There is no way for me to know why he's coming and when he's coming," Powell said. "There has been no request or arrangements made for him to stay here (at the White House)."

'Wrong man' defendant wins reversal

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Jeffrey Streeter's second day in court went much better than the first. This time he went home.

Two weeks ago, Streeter thought he was doing a stranger a favor when he agreed to stand in for a man charged in an assault case. He never dreamed he would be convicted. But he was.

Polk County Judge Edward Threadgill reversed that conviction Monday, saying the wrong man had been found guilty in the July 15 trial.

"I sat there thinking what if I had to go back to jail," said Streeter, who could have been sentenced to up to a year in jail. "I was nervous. Some words they were using I couldn't understand. It was making me scared because I didn't know what they were saying."

"I didn't relax until the judge told me I could go."

Streeter's trials began when Tampa attorney Warren Dawson spotted him in a hallway outside the courtroom and asked him to sit in for defendant Lee Marvin Anderson.

Dawson didn't tell the judge about his spur-of-the-moment switch, an idea he concocted to prove that witnesses couldn't identify Anderson. Three eyewitnesses then proceeded to identify 19-year-old Streeter as the person who beat up an old man in a parking lot on April 17.

Before delivering his verdict in the non-jury trial, Judge Threadgill was told of the substitution, but he said he had no alternative but to find Streeter guilty based on the evidence.

Dawson, who apologized for the switch in a letter to the court, argued that to try Anderson again would constitute double jeopardy and violate a state law requiring trial within 90 days of an offense.

Assistant State's Attorney James Horrell objected, calling the request "preposterous and ridiculous." Horrell contended Anderson was never tried.

Threadgill, who denied contempt motions against Dawson on grounds that he had not intended to obstruct justice, sided with the state and ordered the Anderson case docketed for trial on the original charges of assault and battery.

West Texas gas dealer pays $150 penalty

The Department of Energy has taken legal action against one retail gasoline station in the West Texas area for charging prices in excess of that allowed by Federal regulations.

The action results from audits concluded at 23 area stations by the Department's Office of Enforcement during the period April 1 through May 31, 1980. The time period of the audits may vary from station to station depending on the individual circumstances, but generally includes the period Aug. 1, 1979, to the date of audit. Overcharges are not normally continuous during the audit period but occur at various times within the audit time frame.

The dealer signed a Consent Order with the Department and agreed to immediately reduce its selling prices. This dealer also paid a civil penalty amounting to $150.

Motorists may report suspected gasoline overcharges by calling the Department's toll-free hotline at 800-424-9246.

Streeter spent the night in jail before being released on his own recognizance. He called it "the worst day of my life."

To untangle the mess, Threadgill heard motions Monday from three attorneys who all wanted to clear Streeter. But: —The state wanted Anderson brought to trial

A Consent Order is neither a charge of violation by the Department nor an admission of guilt by the dealer.

Most stations audited are selected as a result of complaints received from individuals, consumer groups, or other information indicating the possibility of violations.

ATTENTION ALL MEMBERS OF GERMANIA FARM MUTUAL

I have just returned from our 84th annual convention in Brenham, Texas.

I am happy to announce that many of our members have told others about GERMANIA, and we still continue to grow ABOUT 3/4 BILLION DOLLARS each year.

Many of you have gone to great lengths and expense to protect your property from fire, theft etc., and have made it possible for us to maintain our rate for 1981 the same as it has been for the past two years.

This year I was on the Resolution Committee. During our Monday session, a proposal was made and passed that a no deductible, no depreciation endorsement be added to our policies on (qualified buildings only). Also a GERMANIA PLF No. 148 policy on jewelry, furs, paintings and etc. can now be obtained.

January 1, 1979 GERMANIA organized their own stock company, (GERMANIA INS. CO.) This permits us to write general liability, home owners, and on some types of business. Beginning Jan. 1, 1981, we will insure automobiles, pick-ups and trucks, RV's and others.

May 20, 1980 we experienced one of the largest hail losses in several years. I would like to thank those of you who REPORTED YOUR LOSSES IMMEDIATELY. This helped us to determine how many adjusters we would need in the area. Also to those of you who reported losses and MADE A LIST OF DAMAGES, and then waited for the adjuster to come by, so that your loss claim could be approved.

Our new office building will be completed about August 30, 1980, and by September, Management and office personnel will be moved in. This will help in processing our loss claim and application much faster.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION ON OTHER COVERAGE PASSED THIS SESSION, PLEASE COME BY MY OFFICE.

Thank you

Today about 1/2 half your electricity is made from lignite coal.

And a good thing, too, because our biggest contract for low-cost natural gas (which we also use to make your electricity) expires this year. This contract has been in effect for almost 20 years. It's helped us keep the cost of electricity lower here than in many other parts of the country.

Next year when we have to start paying much more for natural gas, electricity is going to cost more. There's no way around it.

But your bill won't be as high as it would be if we weren't making about half your electricity with economical, abundant lignite coal from Texas.

Accused church slayer found incompetent for trial

DAINGERFIELD, Texas (AP) — Alvin Lee King III, the accused slayer of five people gunned down during a church worship service, stuck out his tongue at news photographers after a jury found that he is not competent to stand trial at the present time.

The jury ordered King, facing five charges of murder and 10 of attempted murder, to return to Rusk State Hospital for continued psychiatric observation and said he could be found competent to stand trial at some future date.

King, a former high school math teacher, is accused of shooting 15 worshippers at the First Baptist Church of Daingerfield on June 22. Five churchgoers died during the rampage.

The only evidence submitted during Monday's hearing was a letter from Rusk clinical director Dr. James A. Hunter, who requested that King be returned to the maximum security facility for further observation.

"With regards to the question of the insanity of the defendant...I would respectfully decline to judge on mental competency at the time of the shooting because I do not have sufficient information," Hunter said in the letter.

King's attorney, Percy Foreman, and Morris County District Attorney Charles Mac Cobb agreed with the recommendation.

Foreman told jurors the hearing was merely a formality since State District Judge B.D. Moye already had committed the defendant to Rusk for evaluation. The two attorneys said Moye's order would be binding for only 21 days and a jury would have to make the commitment decision after that time.

King recently was transferred to Rusk from a Galveston hospital where he was recovering from what police said was a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head.

Although Moye placed a gag order on the attorneys, Foreman said he would seek a verdict of innocent by insanity should the charges ever come to trial.

"You certainly can't try it by reason of alibi," Foreman said.

The famed Houston attorney, who declined to talk about the shooting, said he would make no effort to obtain King's release.

"He will be retained in custody until his trial or trials," he said.

Suit aimed at pageant organizers

Miss Texas' title challenged

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A lawsuit challenging Terri Eoff's right to be Miss Texas for 1980 is not directed at Miss Eoff, but at organizers of the Miss Texas Pageant to determine their integrity, plaintiffs in the case contend.

"I think Terri is a terrific actress and she'd probably do well as a Miss America," said Bobbie Lynn Candler, Miss Dallas for 1980 and first runner-up to Miss Eoff of Lubbock at the July 12 Miss Texas pageant. "It's not a personal thing, it's a legal matter that has to do with enforcing the rules."

Miss Candler was one of the first witnesses when a hearing opened Monday on the suit, which seeks an injunction to keep Miss Eoff from representing Texas in the Miss America Pageant this fall.

The plaintiff, Miss Dallas Scholarship Pageant Industry which sponsored Miss Candler, claims Miss Eoff violated pageant rules by exceeding the time limit during her talent presentation. That, the suit says, gave her an unfair advantage over contestants, such as Miss Candler, who obeyed the time limit.

Rose Raley, Miss Candler's manager and president of the Miss Dallas contest, said the $8,000 her organization spent grooming their entrant is not the heart of the matter.

The real issue, she said, is the "moral and legal integrity of the pageant system."

Roland Smith, a judge in beauty pageants in Georgia,

MISS TEXAS GOES TO COURT — Miss Texas, Terri Eoff of Lubbock, and her father Ted Eoff (left photo) wait outside Judge Hal Lattimore's 96th District Court during the first day of testimony in the hearing to decide who will wear the Miss Texas crown to the Miss America pageant. toled reporters he came to watch the trial "to see if anything is on the up-and-up."

"There are a lot of disputes about the Miss Texas Pageant," Smith said. "This is one of the few state pageants that people all over the country complain about."

Attorneys for the defendants, Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant Industry, claimed Miss Candler had violated some pageant rules herself, exaggerating her height on pageant forms, wearing shoes that did not conform to pageant guidelines and failing to give her evening gown to pageant authorities as required.

She admitted listing her height as 5 feet 5 inches, when she really stands a shade less than 5-4.

"I'm not the first to do it and I doubt I'll be the last," she said, adding it is common knowledge that pageant judges favor taller women.

She also admitted keeping the gown to protect it, she said, from other contestants.

College drama professor Mason Johnson testified he timed Miss Eoff's talent presentation — a scene from a drama — at four minutes, 44 seconds, nearly two minutes longer than the 2:50 time limit.

Miss Eoff won a standing ovation after the performance. Johnson called it "superb," but said Miss Eoff probably could not have achieved the same dramatic effect had she stayed within the time limit.

In addition to the injunction, Miss Candler's backers are seeking damages and legal fees. State District Court Judge Hal Lattimore said he would consider those matters after ruling on the injunction.

Survivor of bus crash files suit

DALLAS (AP) — An $8.5 million damage lawsuit was filed Monday against the Central Texas Bus Lines by a survivor of the June 5 bus crash on a state highway near Jasper, Ark.

Lelia Pate, 59, of Irving, filed the lawsuit in the 14th State District Court in Dallas for damages incurred from the crash.

It is the first lawsuit to be filed against the Central Texas Bus Lines by a survivor of the accident. The accident on Round Top Mountain in north Arkansas killed 20 people and injured 13.

The lawsuit also asks for a temporary injunction to prohibit the bus company from disposing of the wrecked bus or altering its condition in any manner.

Mrs. Pate is seeking $8 million in punitive damages and $500,000 in actual damages. Her husband, Alexander Graham Pate, was one of 20 people killed in the accident.

Authorities said the bus crashed against an embankment, crossed the road and plunged 50 feet down into a wooded ravine.

An official investigating the crash said the driver, James Jefferson Thigpen, 60, of Lancaster, may have had trouble shifting the bus because of mechanical problems. Tom Calderwood of the National Transportation Safety Board said investigators found the clutch in the bus was out of adjustment and that the shift linkage was binding against the rear axle.

Another investigator, Claude Harris, said the brakes on the bus had only "70 percent effective braking" power.

No signs yet of Carter losing renomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Billy Carter scandal remains the hottest topic among politicians of both parties today, but there are no signs yet that the heat — and some $200,000 dedicated to "opening" the Democratic convention — will wind up denying President Carter renomination.

Several Democratic governors and party officials are resisting attempts by some Democrats in Congress to break Carter's hold on a majority of Democratic delegates by changing the rules for next month's national convention.

Democratic National Chairman John C. White said the open-convention advocates have "absolutely no chance" of success.

Interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" show this morning, White said he had talked Monday with delegates and state party chairmen. "They're furious that these congressmen would come in at the last minute," he said.

However, one Democratic governor joined the effort, another leaned toward it, and other party leaders acknowledged that they were watching developments, particularly on Billy Carter, and could change their position.

Typical of the watchful officials was New Jersey Democratic Chairman Richard J. Coffee, who said "like anyone else, I follow these things on a day-to-day basis."

And Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California assessed the situation by saying that while he believes Carter has the needed convention votes for nomination, he sees "a few cracks in the ice."

The $200,000 effort to overturn the party rule that

$1 million deal made by Loch

Loch Exploration, Inc. has announced the purchase of certain assets of Scientific Petroleum, Inc. headquartered in Gainesville, Texas. The assets consist of oil and gas producing properties located in southern Oklahoma and north Texas, and leasehold interest in the general geographical areas of the producing properties.

Purchase price was for cash and notes totaling approximately $1 million.

Loch also announced the purchase, through its American Well Servicing Company partnership, of B&T Well Service, Inc., a well-established firm located in San Angelo. The firm is engaged in the oil and gas well servicing business related to workover of existing wells. The purchase price also was $1 million and was for cash and notes.

Just recently, Loch acquired the assets of another well servicing business through American Well Servicing Company — Damsen Petroservices — located in Forsan, a subsidiary of Damsen Oil Corporation, N.Y. The price of that acquisition was for $4.4 million in cash and notes.

Glenn Loch, President of Loch Exploration, said that the company has now broadened its base into the energy field through its entry into the growing oil field service business, through its 50 percent ownership in American Well Servicing Company.

Loch Exploration is a young exploration firm organized a year ago and became a public stock company in February, 1980 through a public offering of its common stock.

would automatically nominate Carter was announced Monday by seven members of the House.

Also Monday: —Vice President Walter F. Mondale, suggested as an alternative to either Carter or Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as the Democratic presidential nominee, said he was not a candidate for the presidency. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., mentioned too as an alternate candidate, also has said he is not running.

—White House spokesman Jody Powell said President Carter had told his Cabinet at its weekly meeting that his administration has "nothing to hide" concerning his brother Billy.

—Republican candidate Ronald Reagan said, not surprisingly, that he "couldn't be happier" with the strife among the Democrats. He smiled as he said, "I think they've got some very serious problems."

—Independent candidate John Anderson said the Billy affair was a valid campaign issue. "When you have a president whose own brother is registered as a foreign agent...for a country led by a man like Colonel (Moammar) Khadafy...who is the very epitome of violence, of terrorism...that is bound to be an issue," he said.

Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., spokesman for the "Committee for an Open Convention" said the $200,000 will be spent to lobby Democratic delegates to vote to waive the rule requiring delegates at the convention to follow the results of state primaries and conventions.

That rule, being challenged by Kennedy, would assure Carter of more than 1,900 delegate votes. Only 1,666 are needed for the nomination.

Gov. Hugh Carey of New York joined the House members in calling for an open convention. "Those delegates are not dummies," Carey told reporters during an appearance on Capitol Hill. "They're not robots. They come to a convention to make the last clear judgment of what's best for the party."

However, several of Carey's Democratic colleagues disagreed.

"I believe we should maintain the integrity of the process as it is now in place," said Gov. Scott Matheson of Utah, who added that he is watching the investigation of the president's brother and could change his mind.

"The matter must be investigated promptly," said Matheson. "I have supported the president but I am awaiting the outcome of the study before making any final decision."

A spokesman for Gov. Brendan T. Byrne of New Jersey said the governor has not changed his strong support for Carter and would oppose any effort to open the convention.

Coffee, the New Jersey Democratic chairman, also described himself as a strong Carter supporter "at this point...but like anybody else, I follow these things on a day-to-day basis."

Gov. Bruce King of New Mexico said the disclosures of Billy Carter's dealings with the Libyan government "haven't shaken my confidence in the president, but I'm very disappointed that at this point in time."

Another strong supporter of Carter, Gov. Robert Graham of Florida, said, "The delegates should vote for the candidate they were elected by the people to vote for. We are morally as well as legally committed."

Gov. Brown of California, himself once a candidate for the nomination, said he is remaining neutral on the question of an open convention.

But the congressmen working to release delegates from commitments to support Carter or Kennedy, told a news conference they are making the move to try to prevent Ronald Reagan from being elected president in November.

"It would be irresponsible for us not to take these actions which will make sure that Ronald Reagan is not the next president of the United States," said Barnes, who has said in the past that he believes it would be hard to get Carter elected.

Barnes said that in addition to Carey, Gov. Richard Lamm of Colorado has promised to "help in any way he can" and would lobby other Democratic governors when the National Governor's Association meets next week in Denver.

Joining Barnes at the news conference were Reps. Jerome Ambro and Tom Downey of New York, James Weaver of Oregon, Norman Dicks and Al Swift of Washington and Edward J. Markey of Massachusetts.

Rogers led Abilene nips Big Spring

ABILENE — Abilene used the wildly effective Mac Rogers two-hit, 15-strikeout performance in taking a 3-1 victory over the Big Spring All-Stars in the District 3 Senior League playoffs here Monday night.

The loss in the double elimination tournament forces the Big Spring crew to play Wolfe City tonight at 8:30 p.m. The survivor of that contest advances in the tournament, while the loser is eliminated.

Rogers was very wild in the contest, walking seven and hitting Big Spring's Lupo Ontiveros twice with pitches. But the Big Springers also helped him by leaving 10 baserunners stranded.

Abilene scored all three of their runs in the third inning. The Abilene team used a pair of errors to start the inning, then slashed three hits off loser Tommy Rodriguez to plate their runs.

Big Spring countered in the fourth when Rogers walked across a run, but then pitched his way out of the jam.

The Big Spring hits were a second inning single by Oscar Limon and a third inning double off the bat of James Walker.

Rodriguez and reliever Wayne Shipman, who entered the game in the fifth inning, allowed but five hits in the contest.

Dorris reports to Oilers

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston starters defensive end Andy Dorris and tight end Mike Barber began trying this week to get to Oiler training camp. So far, only Dorris has made it.

Dorris, anxious not to lose the foothold he gained on the starting position last year, signed a one-year contract Monday, but will continue negotiations with the Oilers on an improved deal.

Barber, meanwhile, remained the lone holdout as Oiler veterans went through their third day of drills on the Angelo State University campus.

Astros overcome mistakes to win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Houston Astros live by making the fundamental plays. They almost died Monday night by cutting their lifeline.

The Astros, National League Western Division leaders, beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-2 on Cesar Cedeno's two-out, 10th-inning triple following a walk to Jose Cruz.

The winning blow came off reliever Ron Reed, 6-4, and made a winner of reliever Joe Sambito, 6-1.

The Astros never will win a division title with this team by knocking down any fences. They win on pitching, defense and speed.

They almost left these attributes at home Monday night. Fortunately for the Astros, the Phillies' couldn't hit rookie Gordy Pladson, a customary thing when they see a new pitching face.

Pladson allowed just four hits in the eight innings he worked. Sambito replaced him in the ninth after Houston pinch hit for their starter.

Sambito gave up one hit, struck out three and walked off with the victory.

Houston manager Bill Virdon said that in his mind he gave the triumph to the rookie pitcher, who was recalled from Tacoma of the Pacific Coast league July 14.

"He pitched very well, better than that," said Virdon. "He threw strikes. He got his slider over. He's a good, strong kid."

The Astros took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a triple by light hitting Craig Reynolds, and Cruz' single.

The Phillies tied it in the fourth with the help of Houston's second of three crucial mistakes.

Pete Rose walked, and Bake McBride lofted a fly to right-center. Cedeno in center and Dave Bergman in right charged after the ball, but both stopped and it fell for a double. Rose advanced to third and eventually scored.

Cedeno said it was Bergman's ball, but since the right fielder hadn't played much this year, he (Cedeno) would take the blame for a ball that should have been caught.

With Spurs

Gervin inks unique and lucrative pact

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — "Ice man" George Gervin, lured by a prizefighter-type bonus that compensates him for every game above 35, the San Antonio Spurs win each season, has come to terms with the team after a summer-long stalemate.

Gervin and Spurs president Angelo Drossos told a Monday news conference they had agreed to a re-negotiated contract that likely would cause the NBA's scoring champion to play out his career here.

Drossos and Gervin announced they had settled on "a substantial increase" in salary and a bonus package that would compensate Gervin for each victory above 35 each season. Drossos likened the bonus package to prizefighters being well rewarded for each victory.

Although declining to reveal the terms or length of the contract, Drossos said it would put Gervin "among the top" in pay for professional basketball players.

The smiling Gervin, too, would not discuss figures but said, "It's been a heck of a summer for me, being under a lot of pressures. I feel like a big load was lifted off my shoulders. We got it together on years and money."

Drossos said the agreement should end Gervin's periodic dissatisfaction with his contract, which has been renegotiated twice in the past two years. Gervin still had three years left on a five-year pact that was paying him a reported $375,000, far below what other league superstars collect.

"George felt he did not want to come back continually requesting a change in his contract. Once and for all, we wanted to finalize his agreement in such a way to compensate him for his playing ability, and to provide security for his career."

The contract was believed to assure Gervin a salary somewhere between a reported $650,000 a year "final offer" by the team and the $1 million Gervin said he wanted to provide security for his family.

Drossos added that the Spurs were doing away with individual merit for all players and that each team member would be rewarded with bonuses for each game won from 35 victories to 56 triumphs, a policy he said would cost the team up to $1 million a season if the team wins 56 games.

Head coach Stan Albeck said he believed the bonus approach was unique for the NBA, but might set a pattern.

"From my standpoint, it makes coaching easier," Albeck said. "I think it'll start a trend. It's a nice arrangement. You know the guys are going to play hard every night."

US Olympians worry about future desires

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doug Brown and Harvey Glance, two former Olympians who co-captain the U.S. men's track and field team, say the Americans would have taken home plenty of medals had they gone to Moscow for the Summer Games.

Still, the two athletes believe it is time to forget 1980 and the U.S. boycott of the Moscow Games and look forward to the next Olympic Games in Los Angeles in four years.

"We, as athletes, have to serve as ambassadors to our sport," said Glance, a 1976 Olympian in the 100 meter sprint and 400-meter relay. "We're disappointed we're not in Moscow, but we learned to roll with the punches. I would like to forget it and look to the future."

Glance said, however, had he been in Moscow he would have come up with pure gold.

"All I have to do is look at the times in Moscow to know," he said. "With the times I had in Montreal, I could win the gold in Moscow. And I finished sixth in Montreal."

Brown, who would have been in his third Olympic Games as a steeplechaser, said, "This would have been the best team since '68. It's just so easy to see would have done very well. I base my opinion on some of the times and distances our people have done."

Brown cited, as examples, the high and intermediate hurdles and 100 meters "and we would have come up with gold in both relays."

Brown and Glance were among the 81 of the 101-member men's and women's track and field team who issued a statement here protesting the boycott of the Moscow Games which was called by President Carter to protest the Soviet military presence in Afghanistan.

The athletes said the effect of the boycott runs much deeper than just the members of the 1980 team.

"We represent the athlete whose dreams were smashed and therefore chose to forego the opportunity to become an Olympian by not participating in the Olympic trials, we must remember the athlete whose desire was diminished by the knowledge that he or she could not go to the Olympic Games, and thus lost the competitive edged needed to become a member of our Olympic team; and we must remember those young Americans whose goal of becoming an Olympian is reduced to wondering if there will be another Olympics," said the statement read by Brown to the news media.

More than 500 athletes, coaches and managers are in Washington for a five-day celebration, highlighted Wednesday by the receiving of commemorative gold medals, authorized by Congress, and dining with President and Mrs. Carter at the White House.

"The future of the Olympic movement is being steadily jeopardized by political influences which only serve to undermine the Olympic ideals."

Rangers acquire Figueroa

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers have acquired one sore-armed pitcher and sent another to the minors, the team announced Monday.

The Rangers acquired New York Yankee pitcher Ed Figueroa, a former 20-game winner who has been on the sidelines with elbow problems at various times during the current season.

To make room for Figueroa, the Rangers sent right-hander Steve Comer, bothered by shoulder problems throughout the season, to their Tulsa Drillers farm club in the Class A Texas League.

"We are hopeful that Steve will be able to work out his difficulties," Ranger president Eddie Robinson said Monday. "He'll have a chance to get in the groove with Tulsa and we hope he'll be back with us shortly."

Figueroa, 31, had a 16-13 record with California in 1975, then followed with 19-10 and 16-11 record with the Yankees. The native Puerto Rican went 20-9 for New York in 1978, but was only 4-6 last year before undergoing surgery on his right elbow.

Olympic basketball becomes complex

MOSCOW (AP) — Italy defeated Spain today 95-89 in the Olympic basketball tournament, and the picture grew more complex in the gold medal race.

Three teams — Italy, the Soviet Union and Brazil — still had a chance to meet undefeated Yugoslavia in Wednesday's final.

The Soviets, with a 2-2 record, were to meet Cuba, 0-4, later today Brazil, 2-2, could stay alive by beating Yugoslavia today. Italy was through with the preliminaries at 3-2, so its fate hinged on the Soviets and Brazil.

Were a three-way tie to develop after today's games, the team to advance would be the one with best goal average, which was the Soviet Union going into today's later games. Normally such a tie would be resolved according to win-loss records among the three, but in this case, each of the three has lost one game to one of the others.

Spain, meanwhile, still had a chance for a bronze medal

As Oilers release 27 Choate avoids cut

SAN ANGELO — The Houston Oilers made their first major cut of the summer training camp here this weekend, with one of the two performers from the West Texas community of Coahoma still on the roster heading into the third week of practice.

A total of 27 people were cut, reducing the NFL Central Division Club's line up to 82. The Oilers must get down to 43 before the first regular season game.

Putt Choate, the former Coahoma and SMU linebacker star, made it past the first big reduction, as he continues his quest for a spot on the NFL team.

But another ex-Coahoman, Don Kelso, wasn't as fortunate. The former Howard Payne defensive tackle was among those released by the Oilers.

Competition is bound to become more intense this week, as the Oiler veterans are in camp beginning yesterday, thus giving the free agents and rookies a much bigger test.

Phillips following Monday's workout.

"He just wanted to tell me why he wasn't here," Phillips said. "He knows he needs to be here, but he said he has something he believes he must do."

Barber caught 26 passes for 377 yards and three touchdowns last season in an offense that, he said, did not utilize his receiving skills.

He reportedly is seeking a contract exceeding $100,000 annually. His old contract paid less than $60,000 a year.

While Barber fumed over his contract, new Oiler quarterback Ken Stabler left the afternoon workout early after he became overheated in the 100-degree West Texas temperatures.

Phillips said Stabler lost about eight pounds during the sweltering workout and started having stomach cramps. Stabler's departure allowed No. 2 quarterback Gifford Nielsen and rookie Craig Bradshaw to get extra work.

Bradshaw is the younger brother of Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw and is bidding for the third-string spot among Oiler signal callers.

"Craig has a bright future," Phillips said of the seventh-round draft choice. "He has improved tremendously since he came here and I think he will improve that much again by the time camp is over."

Western athletes find cure for boredom

A new Olympic category, food-throwing, was unofficially added to the program Monday. About 30-40 athletes in Australian, British and Brazilian jackets, frustrated by the 11 p.m. closing of the disco, went on a rampage in the dining hall at the Olympic Village.

They left a mess, but no real damage.

"They came through the exit and started hollering 'Music, Music, Music,'" said Mike Perry, the American coaching the Swedish basketball team who witnessed the incident. "Then they went to one end of the dining hall hollering 'Russians out of Afghanistan, Russians out of Afghanistan'."

Perry, who said there were an equal number of male and female athletes involved in the food fight, attributed the rowdiness to Olympic steam-blowing and boredom.

"It's really the first thing that's happened here in terms of excitement at the Village. One of the reasons, I think, is that many athletes have finished competing, and now it's partytime."

"I'm afraid for the rest of the week it's gonna be a lot like this. There's nothing for them to do — the disco closes at 11. All the cartoons and movies are in Russian."

"They wanted something to do. What you had was a lot of young people with a lot of energy."

"The responsibility of being the heavy favorite after the American boycott, and the bitterness for having to compete in a crippled event, have just cracked my nerves," he said.

TWEEN 12 and 20 — You are what you think

Dr. Wallace: I'm 17 and considered myself a "plain Jane." I had tried all different kinds of beauty aids and bust enlargers but none of these things made me beautiful.

I never dated because of my poor self-image. I was always shy and constantly put myself down.

Then I discovered it wasn't my looks, it was my attitude that needed an overhaul. Now I no longer feel sorry for myself and can actually say that I like myself. I date two or three times a week and the young men treat me with the utmost respect.

Please print my letter so other teens can benefit from my experience. — Jane, Alliance, Ohio Jane: Thanks for sharing. I'm thrilled that you found one of the basics for happiness — self-esteem. Congratulations!

Annie: Have a chat with your mother and tell her to inform your stepfather that he was out of line with his comments. If Mother won't, then tell him yourself. He is very foolish and needs to take an Amy Vanderbilt course on etiquette.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 17-year-old girl who does not smoke, drink or get involved sexually with boys.

Last week, my stepfather of three weeks said that he wanted me to start taking the pill "just in case."

I was shocked and didn't say anything. What should I do? — Annie, Rock Island, Ill.

Dr. Wallace: My parents won't allow me to spend the night at my friend's house. I'm a 14-year-old girl and I can understand that my parents love me and want to protect me, but it just doesn't seem fair.

I have a certain friend whom I have known since fourth grade. My mom promised that I could spend the night with her this summer. I asked her tonight and she said no because I was too young to spend the night away from home.

I'm a responsible, mature young lady and would never knowingly get into trouble. Please comment. — Linda, Porterville, Calif.

Linda: I feel strongly that people should keep their promises to their teens or be their adults. You are definitely old enough to spend the night with your friend.

Dear Abby Railroad Widow Forced To Cover Her Tracks

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to be married in the eyes of God only? As the widow of a retired railroad man, if I marry again, I'll lose my widow's retirement benefits.

Five years ago I fell in love with a fine and decent man — a retired disabled widower. We love each other and want to marry, but that means giving up my widow's benefits, and we can't make it on his check alone. So we are forced to live in sin.

I'm a God-fearing woman, Abby, but we love and need each other, so we're living together.

We are trying to get a law passed (like Social Security) that will permit widows of railroad men to marry, but until we do, we are in a bind.

Please print this, Abby, because we railroad widows don't have anyone fighting for us. We are the forgotten people. Thank you.

M. IN PASSAIC

DEAR M.: I have heard that there are some compassionate ministers who will bless a common-law union such as yours, enabling you to be married in the eyes of God even though you are not married in the eyes of the law. If there's one in Passaic, I hope he contacts me. I also hope someone champions your cause so railroad widows can remarry without losing their benefits.

DEAR ABBY: A very good friend of ours is in the real estate business. Several months ago we gave him a referral, and he got the listing and sold the house. He said when it closed escrow, he would either give us a gift certificate for a department store, or he and his wife would take me and my wife out to dinner.

Last night we went out to dinner with them at a very nice restaurant. When the check came, you can imagine our shock when he said, "Well, let's split the bill."

He must have forgotten his offer, so I paid my half and didn't say anything.

Should this be ignored? Or is there a way I can mention his promise without causing embarrassment on either side? JUST DON'T KNOW

DEAR JUST: He's probably forgotten his promise, so don't mention it. But if he reads this column, you may collect after all.

Mayor disputes DDT contamination report

RIO HONDO, Texas (AP) — Mayor Jeff Burke said he'll continue to eat fish from a local waterway despite a federal agency's warning the stream is contaminated by DDT.

"I contend that the contamination report is always timed to coincide with the annual pre-budget planning days so that more public funds will be granted for what I term highly questionable studies," Burke said Monday.

The Arroyo Colorado, a natural drainage stream from the Rio Grande, winds through this Lower Rio Grande Valley community of 2,500 on its way to Laguna Madre.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service last week said it found Arroyo fish contaminated with the pesticides DDT and Toxaphene and wants part of the Arroyo closed to sport fishing.

The service said it found concentrations dangerously above the safe level set by the Food and Drug Administration and asked the EPA to close the stream between McAllen and the Port of Harlingen.

The section in question lies below here but Burke says the publicity is hurting the entire area.

"Many people in Rio Hondo, Arroyo City and the Circle X area depend on the fish, shrimp and crabs taken from the Arroyo Colorado for a livelihood," he said.

DDT was banned for general use eight years ago and Burke said the chemical went out of use locally in 1964.

"At that time, it no longer became effective against certain insects," said the one-time crop duster.

"After all these years of runoffs and even a hurricane, where could it be coming from?" He asked.

The Fish and Wildlife scientists theorized local fish may have built up a resistance to the chemical, which could be in the soil.

The arroyo will not be closed any time soon, according to several federal and local officials.

Roger Meacham, a spokesman for the EPA in Dallas, said Monday his agency lacks authority to close the waterway but is trying to find the DDT source and develop a plan to lower the concentration.

A state agency might close portions of the waterway or post "fish at your own risk" signs, he said.

The arroyo winds through the fertile agricultural lands of the Valley, where irrigation and aerial pesticide spraying are considered essential for cultivation.

DDT concentrations can adversely affect animal reproduction, the Fish and Wildlife Service said, by building up in animals through the natural food chain. Birds tested along the arroyo exhibited up to 71 ppm levels of the pesticide.

Burke said he wanted proof that the chemicals can harm the animals.

"We got more damn birds around here than anywhere in the world and the Valley puts out more pesticides than anywhere in the world," he said.

"If they do have 30 ppm in them, it probably will take many more years to disintegrate. But the damage has been done and I don't believe in scaring people unduly," he said.
