HURRICANE MAP — Map locates center of Hurricane Allen 50 miles east of Montego Bay, Jamaica early Wednesday. It is expected to continue moving west-northwest toward the Cayman Islands.

Hurricane Allen sweeping through Caribbean islands

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Hurricane Allen unleashed 100 mph winds and torrential rains against Jamaica's eastern and northern coasts today and left much of Kingston powerless. Hours earlier, it gave Haiti's southwest peninsula a devastating sideswipe that officials feared would raise the death toll sharply from the 21 known victims in its sweep through the eastern Caribbean.

Allen passed within 10 to 20 miles of the Haitian coast Tuesday night. Officials feared widespread destruction and possibly heavy loss of life on Haiti's isolated Jacmel peninsula.

Miami, Fla., the closest major mainland point, is some 575 miles north of Kingston. If the hurricane reaches the mainland, it is not expected to do so before early next week, according to forecasters.

Still packing 135-mph winds at the center, down from the 170-mph winds of the day before, Allen's center this morning passed within a few miles of Jamaica's north coast, an area lined with tourist hotels from Port Antonio in the east to Montego Bay in the west.

The U.S. National Weather Service said the center of Allen was located about 50 miles east of Montego Bay at 6 a.m. EDT. It said the storm should pass within 25 miles of Montego Bay by late morning, then head out to sea again on a path that would take it 50 miles north of Grand Cayman Island and south of the Isle of Pines off Cuba's south coast, and then into the Gulf of Mexico.

At that time, the weather service said, Allen's eye was just off Jamaica's north-central coast near latitude 18.6 north, 77.3 west, and was expected to continue moving west-northwest toward the Caymans at 20 mph.

It said hurricane force winds extended 55 miles north and 35 miles south, and that gale force winds extended 175 miles north and 100 miles south.

Dr. Jose A. Colon, director of the U.S. National Weather Service in San Juan, Puerto Rico, said the eye of the storm was staying mostly over water, meaning the storm was more likely to maintain its strength and to intensify again when it moved away from land.

Correspondents for government-owned Radio Jamaica said there were as yet no known casualties in the northeast, but noted much of the area was cut off from telephone communications.

Jamaica's electric power authority announced in Kingston that it had shut off its generators before the height of the storm struck after midnight to protect its equipment, and power would probably remain off most of today, the radio reported.

Allen took at least 16 lives on the island of St. Lucia on Monday.

Ex-policeman found him in bedroom

Boocher describes shooting

By DON WOODS

A badly scarred Mark Boocher, shot by former patrolman Sean Curran Feb. 25, painted a picture in words for a 118th District Court jury today of Curran searching his wife's home for Boocher, slamming doors and speaking in a loud voice before the shooting.

Boocher had spent the night with Curran's estranged wife, Katherine, after having dinner at her house at 446 A. Armstrong. She had been helping Boocher move into a house in another part of town, said Boocher.

Boocher, 29, and Mrs. Curran had risen at 6 a.m. to prepare for work. Mrs. Curran planned to take Boocher to his home where he would take his car to work at a mobile home plant, said Boocher.

"I got dressed and ready for work. She was out cleaning the car off. She came in the house and told me to hide," said Boocher.

Mrs. Curran had run into her house, instructing Curran to hide in the back bedroom. As he hid, he said he could hear Curran exchanging loud comments with his wife and he heard three doors slam "looking for me," he said.

Curran opened the bedroom door where Boocher was hiding and threw his motorcycle helmet through the door, said Boocher.

"I stumbled back out of the way and just stood there. When I woke up I crawled to the bathroom," said Boocher.

Defense Attorney Bob Moore asked if it had been dark in the bedroom. "It was pitch dark was it not?" "Apparently," Boocher replied.

District Attorney Rick Hamby asked Boocher to turn his head to show the jury a long, brown crease running from his left eye to his ear.

Boocher said he was blind in his left eye except for light in the lower portion of his frame of vision. He is deaf in his left ear and the left jaw bones keep his mouth from opening properly, he said.

His left ear had been shot off and sewn back on, he said.

Boocher said he didn't remember the gunshot or anything that happened until three days later when he awoke in a hospital. He said he had a fleeting memory of attempting to get to his feet to view his wound but not being able to.

Patrolman Roger Sweatt saw a male lying on the floor when he initially approached the shooting scene at 6:30 a.m. A body from the chest down was prone in the hall with the upper half of his body in the bathroom. Curran was on his knees by the victim with a towel pressed to Boocher's face.

"Mark, can you hear me," Sweatt had asked. There was no reply but Boocher had some movement in his arms and legs.

"There's someone on the way. You're going to be alright," said Sweatt, Curran had said, "God, please let him be alright," said Sweatt.

Boocher had started to move his hands to his face but Sweatt instructed him not to move more than necessary.

Curran lifted the towel briefly and Sweatt saw the extent of the injury. Curran had said, "God," when he saw the wound, said Sweatt.

When the ambulance left, Curran was sitting in a bedroom with his wife and their girl. Detective Avery Falkner had accompanied Sweatt into the room. Sweatt told Curran he was going to have to take his police revolver.

"Go ahead and take it," Curran had said, raising his arms for access to the Colt .357 Magnum. The gun was entered into evidence this morning.

Sweatt had not examined the weapon to tell how many rounds were in or if it was loaded, he said.

Police Dispatcher Janie Schooler had instructed Sweatt to contact Lt. John Wolf when she received a telephone call from Curran the morning of the shooting.

Curran had told her, "I just shot a guy. Please send an ambulance." Curran had turned away from the phone to ask the address. Turning (See Dispatcher, page 2-A, col. 6)

$1,999,454 SWCID budget adopted

HC trustees lower tax rate

A tax rate of 14 cents per $100 valuation, based on 100 percent of market value, was adopted by the Howard College board of directors at their regular monthly meeting Tuesday.

The college tax rate has been 17½ cents per $100 valuation. It means a savings of 22 percent for taxpayers who have property that has not been reevaluated.

Although taxpayers will be paying less than they did last year, college board president Don McKinney predicted that once all property in the county is reassessed that rising costs will force an increase of anywhere from 15 to 25 percent by 1981-82 over that property owners paid last year.

A 1980-81 budget of $1,999,454 was adopted for the Southwestern Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, an adjunct of Howard College. Of that amount, $400,000 will be for equipment already authorized and the remainder for operations.

A total of 21 persons were recommended for employment on the SWCID faculty by Howard College president Charles Hays. Listed with their positions and salaries, they are:

Carla Warrington, communications specialist, $18,083; Jeffrey Davis, admissions counselor, $22,533; Stephen Baldwin, English instructor, $19,830; William Eckstein, Math instructor, $19,830.

Also Richard Fendrich, tutor instructor, $19,830; Samuel Hill, career counselor, $23,500; Bernhardt Jones, director of communications division, $28,500; John Robertson, career-occupations instructor, $19,330.

Also George Taylor, Science instructor, $19,580; Daniel Campbell, science instructor, $16,540; Arthur Dignan, instructor, Occupational related skills, $19,830; Marcus Meyers, instructor, career-occupations, $17,770; Marilyn Meyers, recreational specialist, $17,525.

Also Juanita Tarbet, vocational library aide, $11,000; Robert Coltrane, interpreter, $15,000; Terry Dobson, admissions and placement counselor, $19,590; Shannon Gilley, interpreter-director of Community Education Grant, $21,700 ($8,707 will be funded from the grant); Jim Haslup, interpreter, $15,000; James G. Carrigan, audiologist, $19,380; Jackie Hartgrove, director, LVN program, San Angelo, $20,733; Carol Baldasare, English instructor, $19,580.

Trustees decided to wait until their next meeting before taking action on vehicle bids.

The trustee discussed a proposed college signboard at length without taking any action on it. A friend of the school has offered to give up to $55,000 for construction of such a sign. It likely will be located near the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and will be used to advertise current and future events scheduled in the coliseum.

Dr. Hays says all indications are that college enrollment will be up this fall over last year. SWCID expects to enroll upwards to 30 for the fall term and predictions were made that at least 200 would enroll in the school by Jan. 1.

The instructor-student ratio in the SWCID will be high to begin with, Hays predicted, but will gradually level off.

Hays said he had received a letter of resignation from Bobby Smith, Government instructor, who revealed he would be moving to Port Aransas.

Trustees James (Buddy) Barr and Curtis Mullins missed the meeting. Both were out of town.

Census count fails to make sense to Big Spring city dads

By STEVE HERSHBERGER

The city of Big Spring will be presenting data to the U.S. Census Bureau to challenge the preliminary count here.

"We are planning on filing this week a response," City Manager Don Davis said today. "We have taken exception to the number of vacancies in the census tracts.

The preliminary census count, which is unofficial and designed for local review, showed Big Spring to have a population of 24,266. This compares to the officially recorded population of 1970 of 28,735. A report released in 1975 reviewed that Big Spring had 29,337.

The preliminary report also showed that Big Spring had 10,591 housing units; and of these, a total of 1,634 were reportedly vacant.

Davis said that his staff has found through local records that Big Spring has only 633 vacant housing units. The city manager added that U.S. Postal Service records show the census vacancy numbers for Big Spring to be possibly distorted.

A spokesman for vacationing Postmaster Frank Hardesty said the postal service keeps up a count of vacant houses within the city. The count is made about every two or three weeks, the spokesman added.

"We keep a pretty good count," the spokesman said. "What we came up with was about 600 (vacancies)."

The spokesman broke down the city as far as vacancies. He said the base subdivision is about one-half filled. That subdivision has about 455 total housing units. He added that there are 80 housing units not filled within the Crestwood Trailer Park.

"The rest of the town is pretty well filled," he said.

The vacancy to housing unit data is central to the final census count. The census bureau establishes a person-per-household figure for the city and then multiplies the number of filled housing units by the number. In Big Spring's case, the person-per-household figure is 2.62.

Davis said that with the city's claim of about 1,000 fewer vacancies, the population here could be distorted by 2,600 to Big Spring's disfavor.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Cats roam, hunt

Q. What can be done to get rid of cats that roam the neighborhood at will 24 hours a day? They make nuisances of themselves by ripping open garbage bags, messing in other people's gardens and flower beds, molesting other pets which are being restrained within their own territory and causing disturbances at night and in the early morning. May a property owner legally dispose of these pests when on his property?

A. The city does what it can to control roving animals but it stands to reason animal wardens cannot be assigned to any particular area 24 hours a day to trap such pests which can be elusive. Cats are not like dogs — they reason they 'belong' to no one. A cat remains more feral and practices his hunting skills whereas a dog is more apt to become completely dependent upon humans for sustenance. During mating season, they can become especially troublesome. A property owner has the right to discourage their presence. A lot of nocturnal trips are made by people who have trapped stray dogs and cats and decided that it's time some other neighborhood has to worry over them.

Calendar: Veterans' meetings

THURSDAY

Voiture 1529 of the 40 and 8 and the American Legion Post 355 will hold meetings Thursday nights at seven o'clock and eight o'clock, respectively. Refreshments will be served following both of the meetings.

SATURDAY

A benefit dance and barbecue for cancer patient Pam Crenshaw will be at 7 p.m. today at the Starlight Lounge. The dance is at 9 p.m. with music provided by a volunteer band. For information call Kay Joiner at 3-8389 during the day.

Tops on TV: Hepburn movie

CBS offers the best television viewing selection tonight. Beginning at 8 on Channel 7, "The Corn Is Green," starring Katherine Hepburn, captures the life of an English teacher who meets with ignorance and wariness when she attempts to educate the youth of a small Welsh mining town. For late night viewers, Channel 11 offers the movie, "Wuthering Heights," with Laurence Olivier. It is based on the book by Emily Bronte and concerns a rich young woman who forsakes the love of a servant to marry a social equal.

Inside: Are we ready?

IT HAS BEEN 10 years since Texas suffered through a killer hurricane, but the people in charge of disaster preparedness say our luck may be running out. See page 10-A.

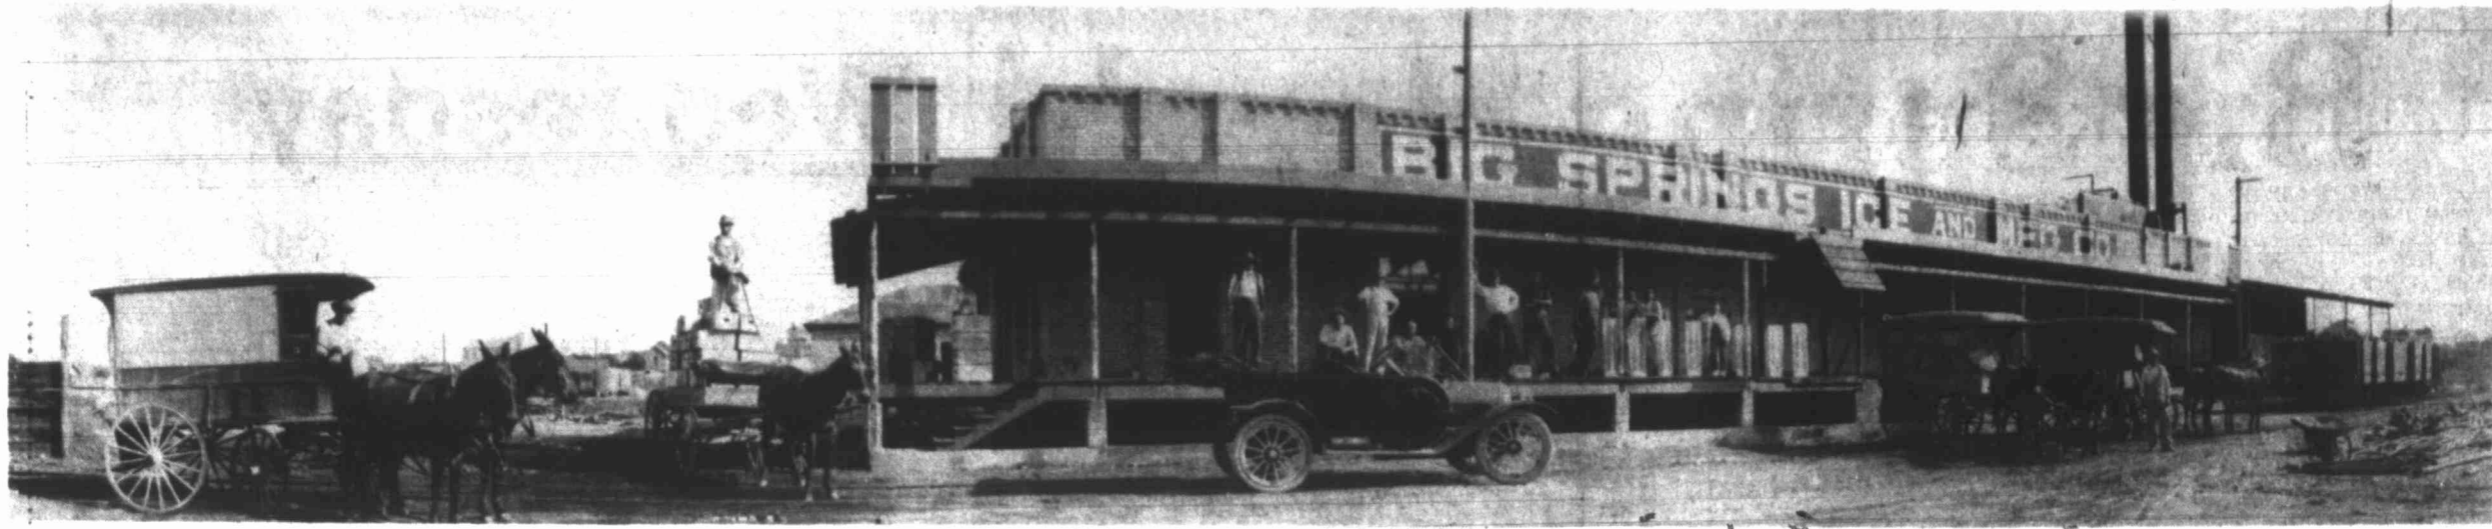

FIFTY years ago today, state Supreme Court Justice Joseph Crater had dinner with a lovely chorus girl and a close friend, got into a taxi and vanished. But each year about this time, police get dozens of tips that the man who became one of the nation's most famous missing persons is just around the corner after all. See page 9-A.

Outside: Hot

Partly cloudy with hot afternoons. Possible thunderstorms this afternoon and tonight. Highs in the upper 90s, lows in the upper 70s. Winds southerly this afternoon 15-20 miles per hour and 10-15 miles per hour tonight.

HUNGER STRIKE ENDS — Family members of the students who were imprisoned in the U.S. ended their sit-in strike in the Imam Hossein Mosque in central Tehran with joyous shouts of "Alla-O-Akbar," meaning God is great. The students released Wednesday have become heroes overnight.

MEMORIES — The above picture, taken of the most popular summertime business in town, was snapped with use of a wide lens by the Willis Art Gallery sometime prior to 1920, perhaps as early as 1910. The Big Springs Ice and Manufacturing Co., was located north of the old T&P Railway tracks not far from the city's principal business district. (Note that the "s" on the city's name was still popular.) Automobiles were still a novelty in those days. That is the reason the one pictured here wound up in the center of the picture. The ice wagons were drawn by mules. Blocks of ice on the firm's docks are ready to load into the wagons. Big Spring then was a sleepy town of perhaps not more than 4,000. The picture was made available to the Herald by H.M. (Mack) Underwood.

Some folks nervous about all the Billyhoo

Democrats to use computers in targeting voters

By WALT FINLEY
This year, facing an all-out Republican effort to put Texas' 27 electoral votes in Ronald Reagan's column, the state Democratic Party is re-evaluating its past campaign techniques.
"I never want to hear another party nominee ask, 'What has the Democratic Party ever done for me?'" remarked Garry Mauro, executive director of the state party, during a breakfast meeting the final day of the state convention in San Antonio.
Mauro, working with state Democratic chairman Billy Goldberg, is constructing a computerized data bank that should guide Democratic efforts to register 250,000 new voters this fall.
So far, the party has spent about $125,000 on a program that will combine a registered voters' list with drivers' license information, census data and telephone information to target likely Democratic voters.

"We can't depend on the local county commissioners to go out and register black and brown voters anymore, and it may not be too efficient to set up folding chairs in a shopping center to register voters," said Mauro. "But if we can mail the best prospects a fill-in registration application with a stamped envelope, we would be making progress."
The registration effort would be followed with a get-out the vote effort, using data bank information, designed to draw the maximum number of voters to the polls.
The handsome Mauro is thinking of blanket mailgrams in areas of high Democratic participation, phone banks and walking lists for volunteers in heavily populated urban areas.

With Gov. William P. Clements Jr., assembling a vast data bank of his own for Republican use and matching efforts underway by the GOP, the Democratic Party can no longer afford to rely on its traditional superiority in numbers, Mauro said.
"Democratic nominees will be able to purchase information from us for less than the private computer firms charge. And in two years, I would hope that every voter in the Democratic primary will get a letter from the governor, if we have a Democrat by then, or the state chairman, congratulating them for their participation and urging them to contribute and work."
"We've never had a good computerized mailing list before," he added.
Such ambitious plans require ambitious fundraising despite some determined efforts this year, the party has spent most of the $300,000 raised, Mauro said. Several events are scheduled this fall to finance the $600,000 vote-getting effort.

A major effort will be made to collect cash at the state Democratic convention in Houston, Sept. 26-27.
Calvin Gambill, Seymour, chairman of the 30th Democratic Senatorial District, collected some money from district delegates at the state convention in San Antonio. He is optimistic about collecting additional funds in Houston for the computers project.
"The Democratic hassle over an open convention is really none of Ronald Reagan's business. But that won't keep him from offering to hold both sides' coats."

Everyone knows that name recognition is one of the biggest factors in winning elections. It makes you wonder what office Billy Carter will run for.

Texas' Democratic Congressmen are taking a very practical stand. They're not getting into fights over any national convention they're not even going to attend.

The Billy Carter issue is the kind Cong. Charles Stenholm can live with. It's not in his district and doesn't involve legislation or finding someone a federal job.

Some Democrats, nervous about all the Billyhoo, are looking for a replacement for Jimmy Carter.

I wonder if they've thought of asking Jerry Ford to run.

Attorney appeals ruling

CHICAGO (AP) — Former state Attorney General William J. Scott has appealed his tax fraud conviction to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.
Scott's lawyer, William Barnett, said Tuesday the appeal will raise questions about the admission and exclusion of evidence during the trial, about constitutional matters and about alleged defects in the grand jury proceedings. He refused to elaborate.
Scott, 53, was sentenced last week to one year and one day in prison following his conviction by a federal jury of under-reporting his income for 1972. He was found innocent on four other counts.

Hostage-taker arraigned

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A 47-year-old man who held 17 co-workers hostage at a General Motors Corp. Fisher Body factory last week has been arraigned on two felony charges, authorities say.
Franklin Rainey, a 26-year veteran of autoworking, was charged Tuesday with felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon, said Richard Thompson, chief assistant prosecutor for Oakland County.
He was arraigned at Pontiac General Hospital, where he has been under psychiatric observation since the 5 1/2-hour siege Thursday. None of the workers held in the plant paint shop was harmed.

Volcano watch at an end

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — The volcano watch has been discontinued at Oregon's Mount Hood, where a flurry of earthquakes startled scientists last month.
Tim Hait of the U.S. Geological Survey said the hazard watch was lifted Tuesday and the warning downgraded to a notice of a potential hazard.
The concern over the Mount Hood tremors stemmed from eruptions of Washington's Mount St. Helens, 75 miles to the north, which followed earthquake activity Mount Hood's hazard watch was put into effect July 11 after the first series of quakes.

Before drop is imported

Serious water shortages predicted in South Plains

LUBBOCK — Residents of the South Plains have been told by a water expert they may expect serious water shortages before a drop of water is imported from other areas.
A.L. Black, a member of the six-state High Plains Study Council seeking solutions to the area's impending water shortages, said it would likely take at least 20 years to complete a water project of the magnitude needed to bring water into Texas.
The Ogallala Aquifer is expected to supply enough water in the year 2000 to irrigate only 56 percent of the acreage irrigated in 1970, Black told members of a service club here Tuesday. That means major water shortages will occur, he added.
The study council, composed of governors and representatives from Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and Nebraska, was created by Congress in 1976 and given $6 million to study alternatives to the rapidly falling water

Higher prices, nuclear power

Less government interference in oil industry advocated

By JOE TAYLOR
WASHINGTON — The nation's oil industry has just completed a study of U.S. energy needs for the next decade and, not surprisingly, it calls for sustained oil production and higher prices, less government interference and increased dependence on nuclear power.
In a report entitled "Two Energy Futures: A National Choice for the 80s," the American Petroleum Institute concludes this country could "regain the energy security lost during the 1970s" and reduce dependence on foreign oil by as much as 50 percent by 1990.
The report issued in Washington by the API — the oil industry's chief lobbying arm — says our current over-dependence (on foreign oil) need not remain if Americans decide now that it is time to get serious about energy.
It quickly points out that crude oil production in Texas, the Gulf of Mexico and throughout the south has been declining but that domestic production can — at best — sustained only if certain steps are taken.
Last year, for the first time in 15 years, production of oil in Texas fell below one billion barrels. According to the API, oil output from Texas has decreased since 1972, when production produced at 1.3 billion barrels.
The API wants fewer controls immediately and more access to Federal lands and offshore leases in

Police beat Criminal activity light yesterday

Criminal activity was light in Big Spring Tuesday.
A total of three instances of criminal offense were reported yesterday to the local police department.
Richard Jenkins of 538 Westover, Apt. 235 reported that between 7 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday the passenger side window of his automobile was broken while the vehicle was parked at the Barcelona Apartments.
Irene Ross of 1015 E. 20th reported that around 10:50 a.m. yesterday some one threatened to kill her.
Another assault was reported at the Southland Apartments, No. 4. Homer Cupp of the above address reported that around 3 p.m. Tuesday someone threatened him.
One automobile mishap occurred on Big Spring Streets Tuesday. Both drivers involved in the mishap were from out of town.
A vehicle driven by Arnold Ray Hartman of El Paso collided at 7:40 p.m. with a vehicle driven by Grady Bigbee of Hobbs, N.M. in the 1100 block of West Third.

Iranians in London jail; hunger strike begins

By the Associated Press
Seventy Iranians jailed in London after an anti-American protest went on a hunger strike today, just hours after U.S. authorities released almost 200 of their countrymen following nine days' detention in Washington and New York.

There was no immediate public reaction from Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime to the release of Iranians in the United States.

Their detention and alleged mistreatment had sparked calls in Tehran for retaliation against Iran's 52 American hostages. Tehran Radio said Monday the Iranian Parliament speaker announced the debate on the hostages would be postponed and judicial officials would be asked to begin trial preparations for the Americans, now in their 27th day of captivity.

Reached by telephone from London, one of the Muslim militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran said they were aware that the Iranian detainees had been set free in the United States, but refused comment.

"We're not answering questions," he said, but he indicated there may be a formal statement Thursday.

The Iranians have not made clear whether they are definitely planning to put the hostages on trial, or were using the prospect of a trial to pressure the United States.

In London, 70 Iranian demonstrators were arrested Monday night after clashing with British police during a protest outside the U.S. Embassy. They were charged with offenses ranging from threatening behavior to assaulting police and carrying offensive weapons.

The Iranians, who refused to identify themselves, were jailed until a court appearance next week. A British Home Office spokesman said they were on a hunger strike today.

Twenty-eight other Iranians were in custody today in San Diego after having been arrested Monday night at the state university campus there during a protest in support of the almost 200 Iranian demonstrators arrested in Washington on July 27.

The San Diego detainees were awaiting a court appearance on charges of resisting arrest, failure to disperse and participating in an unlawful assembly.

On Tuesday, the Iranians detained on the East Coast were released by U.S. officials who determined they were in the country legally. The 171 Iranian men were taken from a federal prison in Otisville, N.Y., to an Islamic center in New York City, where they were joined by 20 Iranian women who had been held in a Manhattan federal corrections facility.

The Iranians paid respects to a portrait of Khomeini and alleged that they had been "beaten, tortured and kidnapped" during their detention. Several displayed marks they said came from shackles. But U.S. officials have denied charges of mistreatment.

The Washington demonstration pitted pro-Khomeini Iranians against anti-Khomeini protesters mobilized by a group led by Iranian exile leader Ali Akbar Tabatabai, a press attache at Iran's Embassy in the United States during the reign of the shah.

Tabatabai was assassinated July 22 at his home outside the U.S. capital, and The Washington Post said today that federal investigators believe the man sought in the killing — Daoud Salahuddin, also known as David Belfield — fled to Iran within days of the shooting.

Tabatabai was shot several days after an abortive assassination attempt outside Paris against Shahpour Bakhtiar, the shah's last prime minister whom the Khomeini regime has accused of instigating a failed military coup against the ayatollah's rule last month.

Some 500 alleged conspirators in the purportedly American-backed uprising have been arrested, and about 40 have been executed so far. Twelve more went on trial for their lives Tuesday, and three others were awaiting verdicts, Tehran Radio reported.

Khomeini came under fire today from fellow Muslims on religious grounds reflecting the centuries-old split between the Sunni and Shiite sects of Islam.

Morocco's supreme council of Moslem clergymen issued a statement calling on all Muslims throughout the world to "rise like one man against Khomeini ... who committed a capital sin in associating the one God with a human person to whom he attributes powers inherent in no one other than the Creator."

The council referred to a statement said to have been made by Khomeini recently asserting that "all prophets, including Mohammed, failed in their mission because they were unable to install justice in the world, a mission that can be accomplished only by a messiah still to come."

Weather Panhandle receives rain, winds, hail

By the Associated Press
Scattered thunderstorms were forecast today for West Texas and portions of South Texas and East Texas.

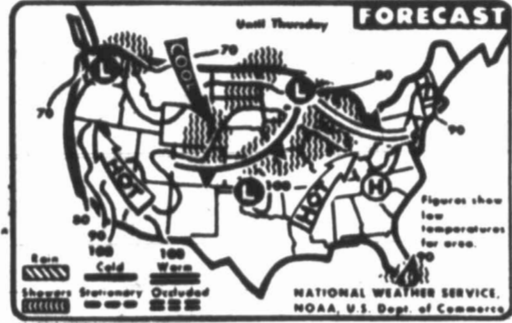

Cooler temperatures were forecast for the Panhandle.

The remainder of Texas was to have clear to partly cloudy skies and warm to hot temperatures.

Highs were to range upward from the middle 80s along the upper Texas coast to 100 to 105 in Central Texas and West Texas and as high as 110 in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Widely scattered WEATHER FORECAST WEST TEXAS — Partly cloudy through Thursday with widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms except southeast. Highs 95 to 102 except 110 Big Bend. Lows 70s except mid 60s mountains.

EXTENDED FORECAST WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy. Continued warm and humid. Highs in the 90s to near 100 extreme south. Lows mid 60s to upper 70s except near 60 mountains.

WEATHER FORECAST — Hot weather is expected in the forecast period, today until Thursday morning, from the Southwest across the country to the Southeast. Cooler weather is forecast for the Pacific coast and Northwest. Other areas are expected to be warm. Showers are forecast in the western and northern Plains and from the eastern Plains into the Midwest and Great Lakes.

N.Y. officials warn farmers about tractors

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — New York City officials have warned farmers that their tractors will be impounded if they blockade the Democratic National Convention in New York next week, the president of the American Agriculture Movement says.

Marvin Meek of Plainview, head of the farmers' group, said his organization will decide today or Thursday whether to proceed with their planned blockade.

Initially, the New York police had indicated they would cooperate with the blockade, Meek said.

"Now they have abandoned us. We feel the Carter administration probably put an excessive amount of pressure on them," Meek said.

The organization represents 500,000 farmers nationwide, he said, adding that the blockade was designed to support the call for an open convention, to encourage dumping President Carter from the Democratic ticket and "to make agriculture an issue" at the convention.

Cat people: A different breed running at large

NEW YORK (AP) — The Iowa Legislature was debating a bill imposing penalties of up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine for motorists who don't stop after running over a dog or cat.

Sen. James Gallagher, a Jessup, Iowa, farmer, rose in opposition. "I can see stopping a car for a dog," he said. "But a cat? You squish a cat and go on."

Gallagher later said he only meant some drivers might not be aware of hitting a cat on a dark highway, but the explanation mattered little to hundreds of feline lovers who sent him angry letters after the bill was defeated.

Gallagher, the owner of four dogs and two cats, said he learned something from the furor, adding: "I don't think dog owners are quite as possessive."

The state senator's musings were one of the latest observations on "cat people" — a breed at large since the Felis catus crept from the desert to become the exalted mouser of better Egyptian homes and granaries 5,000 years ago.

The dog has been man's best friend for 50,000 years. But many cat lovers take perverse delight in noting that their pets have never really been "tamed" like dogs.

And while the nation's 23 million cats and their owners — cats live in one of every five households — are outnumbered nearly 2-1 by dogs and dog owners, many tabby lovers are, well, catly toward those who prefer dogs or, God forbid, no pet at all.

Dr. Peter Borchelt of New York City's Animal Behavior Therapy Clinic said the few studies done on the subject recently are generally inconclusive.

One study, he said, showed dog owners get more emotional satisfaction from their pets, and have better relationships with other people.

"Cat owners are generally a little more aloof or asocial," he said, "while dog owners are more interested in controlling the things around them."

Carol Wilbourn, a "cat shrink" who treats tabbies for aberrant behavior, agreed, saying:

"You can't own a cat. Dogs like to take orders, but a cat lives to please himself. Dog people have to have things under control and like their lives pretty structured. Cat people are more free spirits."

She said that despite this quiet emotional security among cat people, they are indeed less sociable than dog lovers.

"It's more like a cat is a private kind of thing. So cat people are generally more introspective and less gregarious," she said.

Another animal psychologist, Daniel Tortora of White Plains, N.Y., said that despite their devotion to their pets, the urban lifestyle of many cat people makes them uncomfortably close in temperament to people who disdain all pets.

"Cat people don't have the time needed for a dog," he said. "Non-pet people have very little tolerance, and you have to be easy-going to have a pet of any kind. So cat owners are more toward non-pet people than dog owners. Cat people are one step above goldfish owners."

"Usually, cat people are nicer," said Calla Fricke, who makes her living cat-sitting for vacationing New Yorkers. "And their houses are cleaner."

However, even cat haters generally admit that felines are better suited to city apartments because they are usually smaller, cheaper, quieter, cleaner and less troublesome than dogs.

"But dogs are much more responsive than cats," said Cynthia Kohl, who grooms both. "You can't pet them the way you can a dog."

"I hate cats," a fashion designer Susan Obercion said without remorse. "They're too stly. They jump up on the kitchen table and lick the butter. They sneak up in the middle of the night and jump on your bed. They give me the creeps."

Their fighting words to felinophiles who have spent their lives arguing old wives' tales like the one about cats sucking away babies' breath. But cat people have a few, uh, fuzzy claims of their own.

"People get dogs for protection," said Vera Meehan, a 78-year-old widow who lives with two cats in a Manhattan apartment. "But I get just as much protection from my Siamese without all that barking and uproar."

While dogs are traditionally seen as a more "masculine" pet, there are apparently few bona fide "cat ladies" — the stereotypical spinster whose home is overrun with kitty fur and litter.

Many owners do have more than one cat, though. While dog owners buy shepherds, collies and beagles as pets for their children, cat people take in calicoes, tortoise shells and tabbies just for themselves.

They get a second cat to provide companionship for the first but, when pressed, admit they have succumbed to the cat mystique.

It's that mystique that led the ancient Egyptians to mummify favored cats whose mousing days were over, and eventually deify the beast as Bast, goddess of moonlight, fertility, wisdom and hunting.

"Cats can teach you a lot," said Liz Sumski, who has four. "It's something that's hard to put into words. I look into one of my cat's eyes and it's like seeing the past, all of history. It's as if she's a throwback to 100 million years ago."

Joseph Mery, the 19th century French satirist, may have said it best. "God made the cat," he wrote, "to give man the pleasure of caressing the tiger."

Best of times, worst of times

No matter what happens between now and Sept. 22 (the first day of fall), this will be a summer long remembered.

Debilitating heat... no rain... water shortages in cities all over Texas... a time when human behavior ranged between uneasiness and restlessness to wholesale violence against other humans, often coming at times when the victims in no way were able to anticipate such disconcertions.

IT WAS A TIME when multitudes of people were prone to blame everything on the administration, whether it happened to be an increase in the cost of living or grasshopper plagues in the Midwest.

It was a time when the U.S. Census Bureau said Big Spring lost more than 4,000 people in a decade, skidding to 24,208 — yet when the unemployment rate remained very low, compartively speaking. If the figures are true, and the community leaders have been slow to challenge them, this city could wind up with the percentage loss of population higher than any other city in the state.

It was a time when a glut of oil developed all over the nation, yet no sizeable decrease in the price of gasoline developed — something the economists may have difficulty understanding.

It was a time when rainfall fell in the right places on Colorado River Municipal Water District watersheds, yet a time when underground pipes in Big Spring gave up the fight, losing tons of water upon the streets. It was a time, also, when some Big Spring residents somehow got the idea that the water supply was limitless, when they themselves were guilty of not practicing conservation.

It was a time when range feeding should have been excellent, yet a lot of stock had to be kept alive in feed lots, or in pasturelands far removed from home.

It was a time when masses of people in the work force remained on the job beyond their normal date of retirement, simply because they were afraid that their retirement income would not be enough to insure them a quality of living they had gone used to and desired.

It was a time when some housewives went shopping during the morning, fearful that prices would rise during the afternoon.

It was a time when the vacation industry suffered, simply because families reasoned they could not afford the expense of lodging, meals and transportation for more than two or three days running.

IT WAS A TIME when some homeowners installed expensive air conditioning systems in their homes, then refused to use them because utility costs continued ever upward.

It was a time when man found himself earning far more than he dared dream about a decade ago, but a time when he found it increasingly difficult to pay all his bills.

It was a time when some residents dared not venture away from their homes after dark, for fear of having their cars vandalized by young hoodlums looking for that vicarious thrill, that chance to make someone else miserable.

It was the best of times and the worst of times, though the blessings became increasingly hard to come by and the miseries seemed to multiply. Instead of a season, for many it became a state of mind — that period that had to be endured. Few may grieve its passing.

Burst of energy

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

The other night it hit me again. Dewayn was at work, Shannon was in bed asleep and Johnny Carson was making small talk with Angie Dickinson on the "Tonight Show."

There it was, well after 1 a.m.; well after the time most level-headed people decide to hit the sack, especially after a physically and mentally exhausting day at work.

BUT I'M NOT your average level-headed person. Every now and then around 11 p.m. I get this sudden burst of energy, almost like my battery has been recharged or my empty fuel tank has been refilled.

It's like I drank some Nestle's Quick or something.

EVEN THOUGH I probably dragged around the office all day, my eyes barely open, praying for quitting time not to tarry much longer, several hours later it's as if someone threw water in my face. I've been revitalized.

"Hello world, I'm alive and raring to go to midnight."

Now I don't know about you ladies out there, but it's time like these when I go berserk on my house cleaning and interior decorating.

I move furniture, rearrange wall hangings, scrub baseboards and clean out drawers.

Have you ever caught yourself at 2:35 a.m. right in the middle of cleaning out the junkiest closet in the house? I have.

Picture this: You've completely rearranged the living room furniture. It's after 2 a.m. Your husband arrives home from work, totally unaware of what awaits him when he opens the front door.

After he trips over the edge of the couch he was sure used to be on the other side of the room; and after he bumps his head on the misplaced coffee table while trying to pick himself up from the fall he took after running into the couch, he manages to fumble his way to the bedroom for some much-needed sleep only to find the bed completely hidden from view with all the junk you've removed from the closet.

Seeing how tired he looks, you all of a sudden become aware of the fact you're pretty tired too! After all, you've practically renovated your entire house just in the last two hours. And your husband has a pounding knot on his head to prove it.

As you become wearier, the pile of junk on the bed grows bigger and bigger.

"Oh heck," your tired mind tempts you, "it can wait until tomorrow."

So, (carefully) into the living room you both go with arms full of pillows and blankets.

IT NEVER FAILS. Every time I get a case of this midnight madness which possesses me to give the house a face lift, I end up starting more than I can finish.

Looking at the clock, it reveals to me that it's already the wee hours of the morning and almost time to start another full day.

At the time I get these midnight spurts of energy, I love it. I'm normally not so enterprising or ambitious when it comes to housecleaning. So when the urge strikes me, I jump at it.

It's just the morning after that I must pay the price, beginning with the dreaded sound of that alarm clock.

Again I drag myself through the day, much in the same manner as I had the day before.

Only this time hanging over my head is a vivid picture of the unfinished closet to clean that awaits me when I return home bloodshot eyes and all.

Billygoat

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — As details accumulate the charges of corruption and cover-up fade away into the foreground comes the stark realization that the Carter administration showed the same ineptitude in handling Billy Carter that it demonstrates in managing great affairs of state. It is a case of Billygoat not Billygate.

The corruption charge centers around the suspicion that favors were done for the Libyans, who paid the president's brother. But the Libyans did not get what they sought — the release of Lockheed military transport planes or of Boeing commercial jets.

AS TO COVER-UP, Atty. Gen. Benjamin Civiletti did warn the president his brother might be in trouble unless he registered as a foreign agent. President Carter passed along the warning, and Billy registered. The White House and Mr. Civiletti subsequently made statements denying any contact between the Justice Department and the president on Billy's business. So there was an undoubted impropriety.

But not of a serious kind. The warning given by Civiletti eludes moral condemnation. A tenable view is that of legal difficulty. Letting the president's brother march out of sheer stubbornness into troubles he could legitimately avoid would have been a dereliction of duty. Even in the post-Watergate climate, it is not the office of the attorney general to trap the president's brother.

Far from withholding information, moreover, the White House has been pouring it out of every door and window. It is entirely plausible that the first accounts were issued in ignorance of the exchange between the president and Civiletti. As soon as their conversation became known, it was divulged. The fault lay not in a cover-up, but in hasty zeal to come completely clean.

That openness contrasts so dramatically with Watergate that the comparison works to Jimmy Carter's advantage. Indeed, the president's best chance of emerging unscathed from his present plight arises from the possibility that he can take arms against the Billy gatecharge, and smash them to smithereens in the Senate hearings.

The Billygoat charges present no such opening. Billy Carter obviously resents his successful brother. He constantly acts and talks in ways harmful to the president. He is emotionally unstable and has spent time in an institution. He is, in other words, a problem — but a well-defined problem.

THE PRESIDENT and his family and his staff, however, have showed no capacity to deal with the Billy problem. Though it would have been easy and effective, they never told the Libyans to stop messing around with Billy, or else.

Instead of disciplining the younger brother, the president and Rosalynn Carter indulged him. State Department cables were made available to him in an effort to make him feel useful. In the same vein Mrs. Carter suggested to the president that Billy be asked to intervene with the Libyans on behalf of the hostages held in Iran. The president passed that suggestion on to his national security advisor, Zbigniew Brzezinski. Brzezinski arranged through Billy to meet an obscure Libyan diplomat, Ali Houderi. Mr. Houderi later met the president himself.

Those meetings were stupid to the fourth power.

The White House examines the Billy Cartergate affair.

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Low infant gamma globulin count common

Dear Dr. Donohue: We really enjoy your column. I am writing about my 15-month-old boy. He seems to be constantly sick with low temps, diarrhea, sometimes with a cough or sore throat. His doctor tested him and found him to be low in gamma globulin. He is on gamma globulin shots now. How long will he need these injections, and how common is this, and how serious? He's a normal, happy baby otherwise. — Mrs. M.R.

First, what is gamma globulin? It is one of the blood proteins that aid in fighting off infections. They also make us immune to infections, hence their other longer name — immunoglobulins. They are also called antibodies.

Even in perfectly normal infants gamma globulins are quite low. They increase over a period of years to normal adult levels. Your son has a slightly lower-than-normal level, even for an infant, and that might account for his series of infections. It would then be only a matter of time for him to begin a greater natural production of them in his body.

For reasons that are unclear, diarrhea is associated with a low gamma globulin level. That ought to be the marks of a real Christian? How can I get these? — Mrs. T.T.

DEAR MRS. T.T.: Yes, these certainly are to be the marks of a Christian, although far too many Christians sadly, like yourself, do not have lives that are joyful or peaceful. The Bible says, "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control" (Galatians 5:22-23).

Let me ask you several questions. First, do you really understand what Christ has done for you? Do you realize that apart from Him you had no hope, because you were a sinner under God's judgment? Do you realize that Christ's death on the cross made it possible for you to be a child of God, so that you need not fear judgment and death? Do you realize He has given you His Holy Spirit right now? I believe the more we understand what impairs the absorption of folic acid from the intestines. The result is anemia, too few red blood cells.

The body's store of folic acid is never great at any given time, so any condition that impairs its absorption brings fast response. This impairment does not have to be related to alcohol ingestion alone. Other factors may cause the cirrhosis and impair absorption, but non-alcoholic causes are rare.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Two years ago, a friend was diagnosed as having "hairy cell" leukemia. He is 50 and so far has had his spleen removed and one blood transfusion for this. — M.M.

Hairy-cell leukemia gets its name because the white blood cells (lymphocytes) involved have hair-like projections that can be seen with the microscope. I don't think there is a Latin name for this. At least I cannot find one.

It affects mostly older males. Their spleens enlarge and bruises are common. Most of the time, the only treatment needed is removal of the spleen. Your friend might consider immunization with the vaccine that prevents the most common kind of pneumonia (pneumococcal pneumonia). Without a spleen (and its lymphocytes) he may face a greater risk of infections from this kind of germ. That advice applies to most other people who have had spleens removed for other reasons.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor tells me I have urticaria and I will have to find what food is causing it. Could it be collard greens or mustard greens? What will relieve the intense itching? — V.S.

Hives (welts) that recur over a six-week period are called chronic urticaria. As you suggest, the search for the cause begins with the common allergy-producing substances — foods, drugs, pollens, dust, molds. You can experiment with the greens. If you avoid them and the hives go away, that implicates them. Taking them again and producing the hives again certainly is strong proof that they were truly the cause.

In a small percentage of people illnesses can be associated with chronic urticaria — illnesses called collagen vascular diseases, lupus being an example. Infections of sinuses or of teeth may lead to a case of hives. Antihistamines often reduce the itching while the search for the culprit goes on.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Donohue's booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been a Christian for over 10 years, but it seems like I have very little joy or real peace inside. Yet aren't these supposed to be the marks of a real Christian? How can I get these? — Mrs. T.T.

DEAR MRS. T.T.: Yes, these certainly are to be the marks of a Christian, although far too many Christians sadly, like yourself, do not have lives that are joyful or peaceful. I believe the more we understand what God has done for us in Christ, the more we will rejoice, be thankful, and be at peace.

Then are you seeking to do His will each day — not as a burden, but as a privilege and an opportunity? Are you committing each day to His care, and looking to Him to guide you? Life with Christ can be a constant adventure, as you seek to follow Him and see where He will lead.

Also, are you praying and seeking to be used of God in the lives of other people? All around you are people who need Christ, and people who need a touch of His love through you. If you are indifferent to them it means you are wrapped up in yourself — and that is not the path of joy and peace. If you want to know joy, stay close to Christ. And if you would stay close to Christ, you must be willing to go where He is at work.

Much of the problem you describe is often the result of a lack of fellowship with Christ. Set aside a definite time each day for Bible study, meditation and prayer. Let Him teach you — and then obey.

Dear Editor:

I am rather surprised to read some letters, which are not at all factual, calling Jimmy Carter a "do-nothing President". In my opinion, not since the New Deal has any President compiled, in so short a time, so comprehensive and enduring a record in both foreign and domestic policy.

Consider these accomplishments:

(1) The Carter administration created a record-breaking eight million jobs, decreasing the rate of unemployment by 25 per cent.

(2) The Carter administration has worked to control inflation at the same time, improving America's ability to find work.

(3) To make a strong secure America, President Carter has increased defense spending every year he has been in office.

(4) He helped to develop the most comprehensive farmer-oriented agricultural bill in our history.

(5) He acted to save the Social Security system from certain bankruptcy, thus assuring 35 million people who receive benefits and those who make contributions that there will be sufficient funds to meet the system's obligations to them.

(6) Taxes paid by individuals and businesses have been reduced by $28 billion.

(7) President Carter has signed into law the toughest Ethics Bill ever enacted.

(8) He has also signed into law airline deregulation.

(9) President Carter has developed the most ambitious peace-time undertaking in our history to free our nation from our crippling dependence on foreign oil.

(10) He has revived trust in our government — and with it our national pride.

(11) President Carter was successful in the Panama canal treaties.

(12) He was successful as a mediator between Egypt and Israel.

(13) Had the attempt to rescue the American hostages in Iran succeeded, every critic would have hailed Mr. Carter as the greatest President; but owing to the failure of mechanism, the mission had failed, giving an opportunity to the critics to blow from the other side of the mouth.

Dear Editor:

Much has been said recently about censorship. I do not want to extend the issue out but I feel it has not been properly addressed.

The word freedom in the United States and in the world today has been redefined. The freedom that was spoken of in the Constitution is quite different from the term that people use today. True freedom comes by restraint of lawlessness and evil, not by some outside force, but by the character of the people that live in a society. Jean-Jaques Rousseau, a French philosopher, defined freedom in a different way. This type of freedom says that you should be free from all restraints of authority to do what you want, when you want, where you want. This philosophy is called hedonism and does not take into consideration the problems you may have if one person's wants gets in the way of another person's wants.

The real issue in censorship involves the life or death of a nation. The moral fiber of a nation of people determines whether they will be a free people or a weak people under some form of authoritarianism. During the 1930's an Asian that understood this principle made this statement:

"If we can effectively kill the national pride and patriotism of just one generation we will have won that country. Therefore, there must be continued propaganda abroad to undermine the loyalty of the citizens in general and the teenagers in particular. By making readily available drugs of various kinds, by giving a teenager literature and by advertising to him and her psycho-political preparation create the necessary attitude of chaos, idleness and worthlessness."

This quote comes from Joseph Stalin. I am not trying to say that the Communist put dirty magazines in the streets. But it is important to note that Joseph Stalin and many others that study the history of nations realize that a nation's life is involved with the morality or character of the people that live in it. Whether people that hold Marxist ideology cause this or whether it is the mafia or just some Capitalist trying to make a buck, the truth is that it is detrimental to your community and to your country.

When a teenage girl can walk the streets safely at night, this is freedom. When you have a society that is free of incest, child prostitution, sodomy and smut then you are free. We need to seriously consider what is happening in our country today and why it is happening. It could be that someone is pushing Rousseau's philosophy on us, maybe in a grab for power, maybe because of a love for money, maybe because he is selfish and wants to do his own thing regardless of what it does to other people.

I am sure that in San Francisco today there are good parents that would like to take their children out for a walk in the park. The problem is that they have so much freedom out there that the parents do not have the freedom to do this.

Jeremiah was an old testament prophet of Israel during a time when that nation was like ours today. He went out into the streets and cried, "there is death in the city." That is what we have and solution will not be found by spending a few million or billion to start new federal programs to deal with this problem. The solution comes with individual responsibility taken before God and man.

So when you see individuals on a local level taking a moral stand for what is right, that type of censorship looks good to me.

One way to add to Math interest

Have you heard about the Math Baseball League? It was conceived by two Tennessee teachers to stimulate interest in basic math drills by linking them with interest that comes naturally to most young people.

Instead of hitting balls with bats, math baseball players answer problems on flash cards. Depending upon the difficulty, a correct answer scored anything from a single to a home run.

The league has grown steadily since its inception in 1977, particularly since acquiring sponsoring participation in the real thing — major league baseball clubs and players.

Merit Loyalty Grows.

"Former high tar brands not missed," report MERIT smokers in latest survey.

Taste Quest Ends

Latest research provides solid evidence that MERIT is a satisfying long-term taste alternative to high tar cigarettes.

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Smoker Tests Offer More Proof

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar.

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed.

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

PUC penalizes GTE for service below commission standards

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — In a tough and apparently unprecedented order against a large company, the Texas Public Utility Commission has told General Telephone Co. of the Southwest to get better or get lost.

The commission Tuesday penalized General Telephone $4 million, the first time it has taken such drastic action, in approving just over half of the rate increase the company had requested.

General Telephone, which serves 295 cities, had sought an increase of $58.3 million a year. Subtracting the penalty, which lops one percentage point off the company's profit rate, the commission approved increases totaling $31 million a year.

The commission ordered its staff to investigate Feb. 1 whether General Telephone had complied with commission service standards. If it has not, the staff was ordered to schedule public hearings on whether to revoke the company's certificate to do business in Texas.

If General is in full compliance, however, the order provides for removing the $4 million penalty.

"General ought to have the message," said Commission Chairman George Cowden, "that we expect a very substantial improvement in service. The commission is not going to allow a company to provide the type of service General has in this state."

In what Commissioner Henry Moak

Rollins said was an "additional penalty," the order postponed the effective date of the new rates until Oct. 1 at the earliest.

"I would really have no problem if the increase were delayed six months," said Cowden.

Most ordinary household customers of General Telephone would get increases in their monthly bills for basic local service.

Monthly one-party household rates for customers who do not own their phones would rise by $2.40 in Denton, $2.80 in Sherman, $2.35 in Plano, $1.40 in Baytown, $2.30 in San Angelo, $2.18 in Bryan-College Station, $1.85 in Kilgore and $1.65 in Del Rio.

For customers who own their phones, the increase would be $1.10 less per month.

A change in a rating device that clusters cities by population would drop Brownwood's residential one-party rate by $1.35.

General Telephone lawyer Ward Wueste admitted the company had not met four of the commission's service requirements. He blamed most of the problem last year, however, on flooding brought on by Hurricane Camille and a "no-name storm" that knocked out 24,000 of 45,000 phones in the Baytown-Dickinson area.

"A penalty is not appropriate," said Wueste, but if a penalty is imposed "be specific about how the company can get out of the penalty."

"It has a long history of not meeting its service obligations," said Butler.

Board removes small print from insurance

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It should be easier to read and understand your automobile insurance policy, the State Insurance Board decided Tuesday.

By a 3-0 vote, the regulatory agency decreed that beginning June 1, 1981, a new insurance policy form will be used by all companies selling auto insurance in Texas.

"This will give Texas automobile owners a better organized and easier to read auto insurance policy," said William P. Daves, board chairman.

it means the insurance company.

A committee consisting of insurance men and board staffers recommended the new policy and started work in 1977, but its project "has been sitting on the shelf for almost two years," in the words of one agent.

The new policy is modeled after one that is used in more than 30 other states.

Some changes in coverage are included, but actuaries for both the companies and the insurance board say they will not affect the overall price of coverage.

The new form is expected to result in greater use of "combined single limits" liability coverage because this is offered in the body of the policy along with the "split limits" coverage commonly purchased now.

Policyholders will have a choice but would have to pay a little more for combined limits.

Virtually all drivers now buy split limits liability, customarily $5,000 for property damage and $10,000 per person for injuries or deaths, up to $20,000 per accident.

Combined limits liability would provide the same $35,000 total coverage but without restriction as to how the money is divided. If one person were injured and his car totaled, for example, the policy might pay $25,000 worth of hospital bills and replace his $10,000 car.

The new policy will guarantee Texans their liability insurance would meet the requirements of any state where they have an accident, even if the limits are higher than those of Texas.

One thing the new policy will not cover — even for an extra premium — is so-called "fuzz-busters" that detect police radar units.

"We think it is against public policy to insure these devices whose only use is to avoid apprehension for speeding," said Richard Geiger of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office.

Tom Baker of Houston, president of the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas, praised the new policy.

The new policy form replaces one that has been used since 1957. The document has been trimmed from 9,590 words to 6,251 words. The new form must be printed in at least nine-point type, which is larger than most of the type used in a newspaper story or a news magazine. Many insurance policies now are in six-point type, about the size of window ads.

"The proposed policy is shorter, simpler, uses non-technical language, has sections more logically arranged and simplifies some coverages," said a board spokesman.

The new policy will stop calling accidents "occurrences" and just call them "accidents." It will say "you" when it means the policyholder and "we" when

Methodists meeting for Family Night

Members of the First United Methodist Church here will meet at 6:30 p.m. today in Garrett Hall for "Family Night."

"Family Night" is the first Wednesday of each month set aside to honor new members. The program calls for sponsoring families to introduce new members to the congregation.

Highlights of tonight's meeting will be a slide presentation and talk of the Mission Task Force, which went to Hatch, Utah, recently to help build the first church in the Four Corners Indian Ministry.

Seminar for women scheduled Sept. 8

A seminar for women in this area will be offered beginning Sept. 8 under the direction of Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery with leadership by experienced professionals. It is specifically custom-tailored to meet the needs of the women of this area.

Night one: Setting Your Imagination Free; Problem Solving; Opening Your World to New Activities and Interests

Night two: Discovering Your Potential; Ideas for Using More of Your Brains and Talents; Improving Self Concepts, Building Self Respect; Accepting Others

Night three: Goal Setting; Seeing the Big Picture; The Magic of Thinking Big; and the Magic of Believing

Night four: Self Evaluation and Inventory; Defining Personal Values; Crystallizing Goals; Setting Priorities

Night five: Self Motivation; Overcoming Discouragement; Motivational Blocks; Winning

Night six: Visualization; The Dream Machine; Creativity and Inventiveness Unleashed; Risking; Power of Enthusiasm

Night seven: Power of Affirmations; Positive Mental Attitude; Increasing Self Confidence and Personal Growth; Beyond Success and Failure

Night eight: Self-Fulfilling Prophecy; You Can Control Your Destiny; Personal Power; I Dare You

Women of all ages, whether or not they are presently in the work force, are invited to attend. For more information about this seminar and others planned in the future, contact Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, 110 Permian Building, Big Spring, 915-263-1451.

Upon completion of the seminar a certificate and letter of commendation will be provided to the participant. Her employer will receive copies of the commendation letter and progress reports for her personal folder by permission of the participant.

Participants will attend a weekly seminar meeting two hours each night from 7:30-9:30, Sept. 8-Oct. 27. Printed texts, cassette tapes, and other materials will be provided. A personal plan of action will be developed by each participant.

Participants will have the advantage of establishing a client-counselor relationship as well as have the experience of group dynamics provided by the meetings. Also a follow-up program is built into this offering.

Accusations seesaw in Egypt-Israel negotiations

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt says Israel's refusal to consider Jerusalem as part of negotiations on Palestinian autonomy has stalemated the talks and they will not be resumed soon. But Israel was reported to have called Egypt's position the real obstacle to peace.

"There is no possibility for resuming the talks now unless Israel changes its position on Jerusalem," Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly said Tuesday.

He spoke with reporters here hours after the Israeli government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin released a statement saying it was willing to discuss Jerusalem with Egypt but not within the context of the autonomy talks.

The talks were scheduled to resume this week in Alexandria, but were broken off — for the third time in three months — by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to show displeasure over Israel's new Jerusalem Law making the holy city the capital of the Jewish state. The law was passed by an overwhelming majority last Wednesday in the Knesset, the Israeli Parliament.

In a statement authorized by his government, Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman Yoram Ben-Zeev told reporters the Jewish state stood by its longstanding refusal to include the 100,000 Arabs living in Jerusalem in a plan to give limited self-rule to more than 1 million Palestinians who live in occupied territories seized in the 1967 Mideast War.

Israel has maintained the Jerusalem Arabs, who make up about one-third of the population of the city holy to Jews, Moslems and Christians, would not be able to vote for a Palestinian council that would represent Arabs living in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

"Jerusalem is not part of the autonomy," Ben-Zeev said. But he added, "All issues on all matters are subject to negotiation, because the idea is to overcome obstacles by negotiation."

Meanwhile, Begin and his Cabinet drafted a reply to a letter sent by Sadat last weekend. It was not made public but the Israeli newspaper Maariv reported today that the communique was a blunt rebuff that blamed Egypt for the talks' failure.

According to the newspaper, the letter said: "If Egypt complains that all West Bank (Jewish) settlement, and what Israel has done in Jerusalem are null and void ... and demands that they be removed and calls them an obstacle to peace ... then we say all their (Egyptian) demands are null and void ..."

"East Jerusalem is part of the land occupied in 1967, and U.N. Security Council resolution 242 applies to it as it applies to all lands occupied by force," Aly said.

Names in the news

LILLIAN CARTER JOHN CONNALLY

Miss Lillian buys privy

PONDER, Texas (AP) — The president's mother, Lillian Carter, became so enchanted with an outdoor privy she spotted at a local cafe that she immediately bought it, says the restaurant's owner.

"She said, 'It looks just like the one Jimmy used to use when he was a boy,'" said Pete Jackson, owner of the Ranchman's Cafe.

Mrs. Jackson said Mrs. Carter saw the privy when she was lunching with daughter Ruth Carter Stapleton, who lives about 10 miles southeast here in Argyle.

The restaurateur declined to say if the privy was operational or ornamental and also refused to reveal the purchase price.

"Mrs. Carter has enough problems as it is," she told a reporter.

It was not known if the privy would accompany Mrs. Carter back to her home in Plains, Ga.

Connally visits Mideast

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally, who is regarded as a possible candidate for a cabinet post if Ronald Reagan wins the presidency, is on private visit to the Middle East.

Connally arrived Tuesday in Israel, where he will meet with top Israeli officials. He will also take a helicopter tour of the occupied West Bank and Golan Heights before leaving Thursday.

He made no comment to reporters on his arrival from Egypt.

McQueen under treatment

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Steve McQueen has undergone treatment for an unspecified disease at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, according to a spokesman for the actor.

But Warren Cowan would not comment Tuesday on reports that the 48-year-old McQueen was treated for cancer. Hospital officials referred queries to the actor's spokesman.

"He was there last week for two days, perhaps three," Cowan said. "He's been undergoing treatment. The word 'cancer' has never been used, but it's known he has trouble with his lung."

After a six-year hiatus from films, McQueen starred in two films released this summer, "Tom Horn" and "The Hunter." He is not working on any films currently and is in Los Angeles this week on business, a spokeswoman for his office in Santa Barbara said.

Moskos named executive editor of El Paso Herald-Post

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Harry Moskos, managing editor of the Albuquerque Tribune, was named executive editor of the El Paso Herald-Post Tuesday. The appointment is effective Sept. 1.

Moskos, 43, will report to Herald-Post Editor Robert W. Lee, who has said he plans to retire next year.

Moskos has worked on the Albuquerque Tribune since 1969 when he joined the staff as city editor. Before that he was chief of the Associated Press bureau in Honolulu. Moskos, a native of Chicago, joined The AP in Albuquerque in 1961 and served as New Mexico state editor before his transfer to Hawaii.

Firms will be allowed to pay up to 9.7 percent interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Savings and loan associations will be allowed to pay up to 9.7 percent interest on 30-month small-saver certificates of deposit purchased during the next two weeks.

Commercial banks will be permitted to pay up to 9.45 percent.

The Associated Press used the wrong figures in reporting the interest ceilings on Monday.

The ceilings are based on the average 30-month yield of Treasury securities. The new ceilings, which apply to time certificates of less than $100,000, will be in effect for two weeks beginning Thursday.

The ceilings in effect during the current two-week period are 9.5 percent for savings and loan associations and 9.25 percent for commercial banks.

Course in motorcycle safety will be offered at college

A course in Motorcycle Safety will be offered by the Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College, announced Martha Fierro, director. Classes will meet from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. on Thursday Aug. 21 through Aug. 30 in the library of the Horace Garrett Building.

Instructor for the course will be David Reynolds, a certified motorcycle safety education instructor. Cost of the course is $35.

Interested persons must pre-register in the Continuing Education Office, located in the Horace Garrett Building. For further information, call the Adult and Continuing Education Department at 267-6311, ext. 70.

POLICE BREAK UP GROUP OF RIOTERS — Federal Protection Service officers carrying clubs move into a group of rioting Cuban refugees to break up their demonstration at Fort Indiantown Gap Military Reservation Tuesday. (AP LASERPHOTO)

Cuban refugees start three riots

FORT INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa. (AP) — Hundreds of military police and National Guardsmen were posted to a Cuban refugee center here after 500 disgruntled refugees hurled rocks and bottles, stormed barricades and looted the mess hall in one of three separate riots. The reinforcements increased security twentyfold at the sprawling complex, which houses some 5,000 refugees.

Australian government patrolling new nation

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia dispatched three air force planes today to the new Pacific nation of Vanuatu following reports an American yacht from Hawaii had landed on the rebel-held island of Espiritu Santo with automatic weapons.

Officials reported the camp was quiet during a search of its perimeter early today. "I think the situation is well in hand," said Art Brill, spokesman for the Cuban Task Force, an organization set up by the State Department to help with refugee resettlement.

Most of the refugees disapproved of Tuesday's violent outbursts, according to federal officials. "The majority of Cubans are disgusted. They fear the riots will scare sponsors off," said Maj. Robert Flocke, a task force spokesman.

And 900 of 1,900 refugees in one area signed a petition disavowing the disturbances. "They told me they didn't want problems with the police," said one interpreter. "They just want to get the hell out of here."

Meanwhile, at a meeting Tuesday night in Union Township, which borders the refugee camp, township Supervisor Donald Blouch said, "I'm telling people, 'If you see them on your property, shoot them.'"

Thirteen Cubans identified as participants in the rioting were being moved today to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, said Rep. Allen E. Ertel.

An Australian defense department spokesman said the planes, including one C-130 Hercules transport, landed in Port Vila, capital of the new nation, in response to a request from the Vanuatu government of Walter Lini.

He said the planes would carry out reconnaissance missions and patrol sea routes to Espiritu Santo, which is under a blockade enforced by the Port Vila government.

Senior Australian government officials said the planes were sent after Lini's request was reinforced by news reports quoting a senior British military officer as saying the unidentified American yacht had brought a quantity of arms to Santo, capital of Espiritu Santo.

The rebel-held island is located some 200 miles north of Port Vila, the capital of Vanuatu on the island of Efate. Vanuatu is 800 miles east of Australia.

Some 3,000 rebels, led by former bulldozer driver Jimmy Stevens, led a bow-and-arrow rebellion on Espiritu Santo in late May, about two months before the former New Hebrides archipelago received its independence last Wednesday from France and Britain.

Carter, Kennedy aides agree to air differences on television

The Democrats have agreed to disagree — on nationwide, prime-time television. Aides to President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy reached agreement Tuesday to debate convention rules and their sharpest disagreements on the party platform at evening sessions of the Democratic National Convention. That will air the Democrats' differences during prime-time television, giving focus Monday night to what may be the crucial moment of the convention — the vote on a proposed rule to bind delegates to the candidate they were selected to support in primaries and state party meetings. That rule, if adopted, would give Carter the nomination on the first ballot. The Kennedy and Carter forces announced the agreement in a joint statement that emphasized the need to unite the party after what promises to be a turbulent convention in which wide differences on economic policies will be debated Tuesday, also before a prime-time TV audience. Kennedy, who has been increasingly optimistic about the rules vote, went shopping for a running-mate for his long-shot ticket on Tuesday. He discussed the rules question with two influential Senate allies — Majority Leader Robert Byrd and Henry Jackson of Washington — and said later that he told both they were on his list of possible running mates. Meanwhile, Carter was speaking to the National Urban League convention in New York City today, the fourth presidential candidate in three days to appear before the civil rights group. "I am here today to renew my permanent pledge that I will never relent in our joint pursuit of equal rights, equal opportunity and equal dignity for every American," Carter said. He told the largely black audience that he had appointed more members of minority groups to federal judgeships than any previous president, doubled funding for youth employment and was putting the heat on corporations that discriminate by withholding federal contracts. He said he would shortly introduce an economic recovery program in which "literally millions of jobs will be created as we make America's industry more vital and deal with our energy programs."

Robs national bank in Galveston

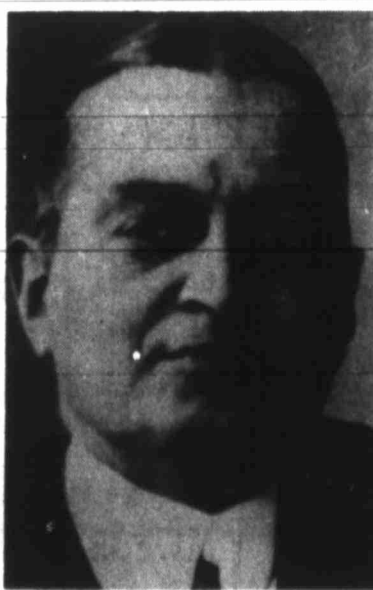

Elderly man wants to die in prison

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Because Santos Casarez Rios was 74 and alone, he robbed a bank so he could die in federal prison where his death would at least be noticed, if not mourned, said a jail guard who has taken Rios under his wing. "He says he's got no one," Sgt. Manuel Benavides, who works in the Galveston County Jail, said Tuesday. Rios apparently spent a good deal of time planning the Monday robbery of the U.S. National Bank, Benavides said. "He told me he had been wandering all over Texas lately, trying to commit a crime so he could be arrested. He wants to die in a federal prison, so he robbed a bank. He said he knew that was a federal offense." Dressed in brown and walking with a cane, he said, Rios entered the bank and — although he speaks fluent English — approached a Spanish-speaking teller. Benavides said Rios asked her if she spoke Spanish and when she said yes, he handed her a note, written in Spanish, that said: "This is a robbery. Fill this bag." After teller Teresa Kalsnes put $10,643 in a paper bag and handed it to Rios, he told her to "call the police," Benavides said. While puzzled customers watched, Rios he propped his cane against the counter and sat down to wait for law officers to arrive. "He is an alert, lively, well-mannered old gentleman," Benavides said of his charge. "He says he's been locked up before." Rios was checked by a doctor when he was booked into Galveston County Jail Monday and, Benavides says, "He's in good health. Heart, blood pressure, everything is all right." Benavides said he spent much of Monday night and Tuesday talking with Rios. "He had no identification on him at all when he was arrested," Benavides said. "He says he didn't enter the country legally and says he is 74." At one point, Benavides said, Rios told him he was going to take the holdup money and "go back to Nuevo Laredo." "We have been talking a lot. He laughs with me, cuts up with me but he won't say where he is from or anything." A prosecutor said Rios has more than 20 aliases and has been arrested 50 times, most of them on immigration violations. Reports from the National Crime Information Center showed at least 19 convictions. Bond for Rios was set at $20,000 after he was charged Tuesday with robbery by threat. Benavides said Rios shares a cell with two other men. "I put him in there so they could watch him and help me take care of him," Benavides says. "If he gets sick, I can have an ambulance here in nothing flat. If he wants something, I stop whatever I'm doing and get it for him. He's a nice old man. I don't want anything to happen to him."

Judge Crater disappeared 50 years ago

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty years ago this week, Judge Joseph Crater flagged a taxi in Manhattan, waved goodbye to friends and rode into history as one of the nation's most celebrated missing persons. Even today his disappearance remains a mystery. Crater, a 41-year-old 6-footer, had thinning gray hair, parted in the middle. His eyes were brown and his teeth false. He didn't drink, but he had an eye for the ladies. He was a state Supreme Court judge. On the night of Aug. 6, 1930, wearing a brown suit and pearl gray spats, Crater dropped by a Broadway box office and arranged for a ticket to a new musical, "Dancing Partners." Then he went to Billy Haas' chophouse on West 45th Street, encountering two friends, lawyer William Klein and Follies girl Sally Lou Ritz. After dinner, he hailed a cab, waved and was driven off. No one knows where he went. Although Crater was declared legally dead in 1939, the case was only closed by police last year. In 49 years, police logged some 16,000 calls from people purporting to know Crater's fate. One caller said Crater was prospecting in California, another

Former astronaut Gordon Cooper using ethanol as fuel for plane

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Former astronaut Gordon Cooper was to continue his trip eastward today on the nation's premier flight of a plane powered by methanol, the "home-grown" fuel he hopes will spell the end of U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

Cooper arrived here Tuesday night after a flight from Sacramento, Calif., that included a stop in Van Nuys, Calif. The fuel truck, which is following them across the country, arrived here about an hour after the plane landed.

"I'm hopeful that this series of flights will open the public's eyes to this home-grown, renewable fuel," said Cooper after landing the converted Piper Super Cub at Van Nuys Airport Tuesday afternoon. "The public is damn well tired of OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) turning on and off the oil faucet and their high prices."

Cooper, who gained fame as an astronaut aboard the Mercury 9 and Gemini 5 space flights in the 1960s, was accompanied on the craft's initial long-distance flight from Sacramento by William Paynter of Union

Flights, a Sacramento-based Piper dealer.

Paynter, who was piloting the 25-year-old telephone cable patrol plane when it landed here for refueling three hours and 20 minutes after taking off, said the fill-up cost only $30 with the 80-cent-a-gallon methanol, almost half the current price of aviation fuel.

"And only 10 cents of that $30 goes to OPEC," he said, referring to the Methanol X fuel which is supplied by his partner, Charles Stone.

Stone heads Future Fuels of America, which has converted some 60 vehicles in the Bank of America's fleet to run on the methanol and natural gas fuel.

The cross country flight of the single-engine plane, which Paynter said cost $50,000 in research and development, is scheduled to arrive in Fort Worth, Texas for an energy fair Thursday. Cooper and Paynter are also scheduled to fly to Springfield, Ill. by Aug. 12 for another U.S. Department of Energy-sponsored fair.

To prove its commercial value, Stone said they hope to convert a Citation twin-engine jet to methanol some time during the next year.

Methanol will eventually be made out of industrial and wood wastes exclusively, according to Stone, without any natural gas.

"The German air force flew on it in World War II," he said, "so it isn't exactly new."

Cooper, who drove from California to Washington, D.C. last month in a methanol-powered pickup truck, said the fuel has long been used in the racing community and contended oil companies were to blame for the fact it's never been integrated into commercial cars.

"They're fighting it tooth and nail," Cooper said, referring to oil companies. "Between our government and the oil companies' monopoly, we couldn't get it out to the public. Our government has a problem of inertia in many areas because of the vast bureaucracy — especially this government."

The converted craft cruises at about 90 mph and has a range of about 400 miles on 30 gallons of methanol.

Texas coast vulnerable to hurricane destruction

By the Associated Press

Although the Texas coastline has escaped a hurricane for a decade since Cecilia killed 11 people and wreaked a record $453 million in damage on Aug. 3, 1970, each year preparedness officials say luck may be running out.

With Hurricane Allen — called potentially one of the most destructive of the century — churning toward the Gulf of Mexico, officials again sounded the alarm that such a powerful storm could bring a "real disaster" to the Texas coast.

"We would have property damage in the millions and millions. Depending on where it hit and the amount of time to get people out, loss of life could be significant," said Calhoun County building inspector Donald Ragin of Port LaVaca.

"I don't want to be a panic crier, but nonetheless the possibility is there," Ragin said. "Pray the Lord it doesn't happen."

Port LaVaca was struck by 175 mile per hour winds that killed 34 persons, injured 466 and caused $300 million in damage when Hurricane Carla whistled through in 1961. It and other coastal areas have grown both in population and property values since then.

In cooperation with the Texas Coastal and Marine Council, Ragin has authored a set of tougher hurricane building regulations which he will submit in October as amendments to the Southern Building Code, the one enforced in most Texas coastal cities.

But with Allen in the Caribbean pointed toward the Gulf, Tuesday he lamented that the Texas Legislature has for years rejected efforts to give counties authority to enforce building codes outside city limits.

"In unincorporated areas of Texas," he said, "people can build a house of matchsticks, wire it with lamp cord and put in plumbing with garden hose and there's nothing any governmental agency can do about it."

Curtis Brown, head of the Coastal Marine Council's Hurricane Awareness Program, said the "worst places to be" should one of the giant storms approach would be Galveston County, Port Aransas-Mustang Island and South Padre Island, all of which have been struck by hurricanes during the 1900s.

Escape routes in those low-lying areas, Brown said in Austin, are cut off by high water long before the storm hits.

Civil Defense officials said they have never let down their guard since Celia, the most destructive storm in dollars in U.S. history, roared ashore at Corpus Christi almost exactly 10 years ago. But Ragin and other officials expressed concern that citizens who never have experienced one of the huge cyclones might not take hurricanes seriously.

"If the announcement were made to get the heck out and if they would sit on their hands, say 'let's have a hurricane party,' the possibility exists for a real disaster," Ragin said, noting a 15 to 20-foot tidal wave washes away buildings or undercuts their foundations on barrier islands.

John Caswell, assistant Civil Defense director for Houston, said only low-lying areas there would be evacuated, but he worried whether all people would heed the warnings.

"Some of the people aren't going to pay attention," Caswell said. "The so-called hurricane veterans that went through Carla think they know what a hurricane is. But Carla was no example of a bad hurricane" because Houston only saw its gale winds.

At South Padre Island, which as grown into a bustling resort dotted with gleaming condominiums and luxury hotels since Beulah's 136-mile per hour winds whistled through on Sept. 18, 1967, fire department spokeswoman Loretta Lineberger said everyone would have to be evacuated.

If they refused to leave, she said, they would be asked to sign a form releasing the town from responsibility for their safety.

"We won't have a problem with the tourists," she said. "It's our own people who think they can ride it out."

In Austin, spokesman David Wells of the Texas Division of Disaster

Emergency Service, said continuous hurricane awareness meetings and drills of Civil Defense teams along the coast had kept them as well prepared as humans can be for nature's most powerful storms.

"Right now we're keeping an eye on it (Allen), getting tracking reports," Wells said. "It's still extremely early to tell what it's going to do as far as Texas. We understand there is still the possibility it could go any number of ways."

But Galveston Civil Defense coordinator Bill Brady was worried about the mammoth storm.

"That's the hurricane of the century," he said of Allen. "A hell of a big tornado is what you've got. If such a storm threatened us, everyone that can leave the area should get out. There's no telling what it would do."

Brady said Galveston County's 250,000 residents, plus 40,000 off-shore drilling platform workers would have to leave.

Brown said "the worst possible case" would be for a strong hurricane to hit the densely populated area around south Galveston Island up that corridor to Houston.

"The fact is that is the highest populated area. It would increase tides in the northern portion of Galveston Bay affecting Harris, Chambers and Galveston Counties.

Caswell said Houston's countless glass structures could stand up to high winds, but not the debris carried by the winds.

"Not one glass window will stand up to a six by-eight board flying through it," he said.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami called Allen a "one-in-a-century type storm" capable of massive destruction. Yet the strongest hurricanes may not always be the most deadly, they said.

The hurricane that killed between 6,000 and 8,000 in Galveston in 1900 packed winds clocked at 85 and estimated at 120 miles per hour. But Galveston Island was inundated by a 15-foot tidal wave and every single building sustained damage.

Two men arrested in bowling alley slayings

HOUSTON (AP) — Police have arrested two men they describe as prime suspects in the July 14 shooting deaths of three bowling alley employees, an investigator said Tuesday.

"We feel confident we've got them," police Lt. H.W. Kersten said after the two men were arrested about noon.

Kersten said one of the men, age 24, was arrested in League City for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

He said the man, following the arrest, gave officers information about the shootings at the bowling alley and told them a second man was involved.

Kersten said the second man, age 19, was arrested near his home in Friendswood. He said neither offered any resistance, and neither has been charged in connection with the killings.

Tommy Temple, 17, Arden Felsher, 17, and Stephen Sims, 25, were killed execution-style at the bowling alley where they were standing guard. All three had been shot in the head.

Gregory Garner, 18, was also shot in the head and lost the sight in one eye. He is the only survivor of the shooting.

The four were shot while keeping an after-hours watch in the bowling alley because the place had been burglarized two days earlier, police said.

Money was missing from a cash register near where the bodies were found.

Kersten said a composite sketch of one of the suspects "barely matches" one of the men arrested.

American tracksters highlight Rome meet

ROME (AP) — American track and field athletes, who boycotted the Olympics, enjoyed a modest consolation prize by beating Moscow gold medal performances in three events at an international meet.

The Golden Gala meet Tuesday night came just two days after the end of the Olympics and was billed as a chance for representatives of boycotted countries to show what they could do against the Olympians.

"We all want to prove ourselves to athletes in each country around the world," said U.S. high jumper Nat Page.

Page finished fourth in his event behind a West German sweep led by Dietmar Moegenburg, who cleared 7 feet, 6 3/4 inches.

But Americans Edwin Moses in the 400-meter hurdles, Stan Floyd in the 100-meter dash and Ben Plucknett in the discus throw all bettered the marks that had won Olympic gold.

Moses, who holds the world record of 47.13 seconds in his event, ran a slow 48.51 and said afterward he felt "ragged" from lack of practice. His time was still almost a fifth of a second faster than the 48.70 that triumphed in Moscow for East German Volker Beck.

"I definitely expected to win if I'd been in Moscow," Moses said. "My result here was better than the Olympic final, so what else can I say?"

Moses led an American sweep. James Walker was second in 48.82 and David Lee was third in 49.67.

Floyd also led a U.S. sweep in the 100 meters, where he is unbeaten this year. He was clocked in 10.20 seconds, setting a new record for the Olympic Stadium here. Carl Lewis placed second in 10.23 and Mel Lattany was third in 10.25.

Alan Wells won the Moscow race in 10.25.

Plucknett upset fellow American Mac Wilkins in the discus, 219-9 3/4 to 218-6. Plucknett surpassed Viktor Rastvorov's victorious throw in Moscow of 216-7 1/2.

While the Americans were beating Olympic times and distances, the West Germans defeated two Olympic champions who were present and competing.

Karl-Hans Riehm won the hammer throw with a mark of 265-0 3/4. That beat the 264-3 here of Soviet gold medalist Yuri Sedych, although it fell short of his Moscow world record throw of 268-4.

In the 400-meter run, West German Harald Schmid set a personal record of 45.17 seconds to win. Olympic champion Viktor Markin of the Soviet Union was third with 46.02.

Five Olympic champions, including two Soviet women and three Italians, managed to win their events.

Soviet Vera Komisova shaved 0.17 second off her own gold medal time to win the 100-meter hurdles. Tatyana Kazankina ran a slow 3:58.94 in the 1,500 meters but overtook early leader Mary Decker of the U.S. to win.

Embarrassed Brazile leaves Oiler camp

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert Brazile of the Houston Oilers can match bulging muscles and defensive statistics with the best linebackers in the National Football League.

But the all-pro veteran has to hide in embarrassment when comparing contracts, according to Gene Burrough, who along with Houston's Jerry Argovitz represents Brazile.

"It's an embarrassment to Robert when he goes to the Pro Bowl every year where he is compared to the best linebackers in the NFL but he makes about half of what they do," Burrough said Tuesday.

Brazile, who wants to renegotiate the remaining three years on his $75,000-per-year contract, walked out of the Oilers training camp in San Angelo Tuesday.

Burrough said an oral agreement had been reached with Oiler management two weeks ago and that Brazile had reported to camp thinking he would receive the amount of the verbal agreement.

"Since that time, the Oilers have put something in writing, but it doesn't come anywhere close to what we

Physicals set for Thursday

Local athletes are reminded that anyone from grades seven through 12 will receive their physicals for the upcoming year during the coming week.

Big Spring Athletic Trainer Everett Blackburn emphasizes that any athlete, boys and girls included, who plans to participate in any sport during the upcoming year must pass the physical.

Boys physicals will be given on August 7, beginning at 1:30 p.m. at both the Malone-Hogan and Cowper Clinics.

Boys taking their physicals at Malone-Hogan should bring their "blue identification" cards with them. Anybody without their cards will be charged 10 dollars without them. Another reminder for those going to Malone-Hogan is that they must stop by the high school trainer's room for a stamp before going.

Hours for the screening will be on Tuesday from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Wednesday from five to nine o'clock in the evening, and Thursday from 8:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Cowper Clinic will give their boys physicals from 1:30 p.m. until all students are completed on Thursday. Physical forms must be picked up at the training room before going, and there will be a five dollar fee at the hospital.

Girls wishing to have their physicals taken at Cowper must do so on Thursday the 7th from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. The girls will need to come by the girls athletic office in the high school PE department to pick up the physical forms before going to Cowper. There will be a charge of five dollars for their physicals.

Girls wishing to have their physicals taken at the Malone-Hogan Clinic must wait until, Thursday, August 14. Time for that event is 1:30 to 4:00 p.m.

CGA Tourney set Sunday

The Chicano Golf Association will be hosting a two-man partnership golf tournament this Sunday at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Handicaps will be used with the golfers in the partnership affair, with tee off time slated for 10:30 a.m. All participants are reminded they should enter before 10:00 a.m.

Merchandise will be awarded to the winning team, as well as prizes for the longest drive and the closest to the pin.

agreed on," Burrough said.

"We sent them a letter yesterday (Monday) and told them we wanted what was agreed on, or something comparable. They did not respond, so Jerry and Robert discussed the situation and Robert decided to leave."

Oiler senior vice president Ladd Herzog denied the Oilers had made a contract proposal to Brazile.

"We have presented them with a financial plan to assist Robert through his current financial difficulties," Herzog said. "We have never indicated that we were willing to renegotiate the existing 3-year contract."

Brazile is the second Oiler to miss workouts because of contract problems. Tight end Mike Barber missed the first three days of workouts before signing a 3-year contract.

"All I'm going to do is prepare for the season by coaching the ones who are here," Oiler coach Bum Phillips said.

"I'm not in a position to say if the club's offer is fair, because I was not involved in the contract discussions. I may think it's fair. What is important is what Robert thinks. He's the all-pro."

Phillips declined to say if Brazile would be fined for leaving camp.

"If there is a fine, that will be between Robert and the Oilers," Phillips said.

Herzog said he did not know when another meeting could be scheduled with Argovitz.

"It is my understanding that Dr. Argovitz was traveling to Baltimore to try to resolve a situation for one of his other clients, Curtis Dickey, and Baltimore," Herzog said.

"Should he be unable to resolve that matter, I further understand he may travel to Canada to sign Dickey with a Canadian Football League team. That would mean it might be several days before we can have further meetings."

Holtz moans about question marks, but Razorbacks appear plenty tough

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The tinsel, mistletoe, and Santa Claus are missing, but the feeling is familiar.

"It's almost like Christmas going into this season," said Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz. "You used to find them and get an idea what was inside."

"For us, you can't find the boxes and your dad's been laid off," he said. "We just have too many question marks going into the season to have any idea how good we can be."

Most of the major questions are on offense.

The Razorbacks went 10-1 last year and shared the Southwest Conference championship with Houston. Only end Jim Howard is missing from the defensive unit that started against Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

Holtz says the Razorbacks are much improved fundamentally on defense.

"One thing I feel is that the defense is going to have to play well all the time," he said. "You don't have to play well on offense all the time, but you do have to play well on defense all the time."

The Razorbacks have been mentioned high in most preseason speculation, but Holtz says, "We're the only team in the conference without an established quarterback and we only have one candidate there."

He is Tom Jones, a third-year sophomore, who played in all 12 games last year, mostly mopping up for all-conference quarterback Kevin Scanlon.

So far, Jones' major claim to fame is his bloodline. He is the brother of Bert Jones, quarterback of the Baltimore Colts, and son of Dub Jones, a former Cleveland Browns standout.

Jones arrived at Arkansas at 6-foot-1 and 164 pounds. Now, he's pushing 6-foot-3 and 190.

"Consistency is the thing I worry about at quarterback right now," Holtz said. "Jones has ability to make some big plays. You can get by if he's consistently bad, but it's easier if he's consistently good."

"A successful life is built on a series of successful days. A successful game is built on a series of successful, consistent plays."

Holtz has used the split back formation while putting together a 30-5-1 record the past three years at Arkansas, but the Razorbacks practiced almost exclusively in the I formation during the spring.

He says he is still undecided about this fall, although some believe the Razorbacks will use both formations. Either way, there are plenty of running backs — Gary Anderson, Thomas Brown, James Tolbert and Mark Douglas for starters.

In addition to quarterback, the Razorbacks' biggest problems appear to be at wide receiver and in the offensive line. Freshmen figure to back up Bobby Duckworth and Gary Stiggers as the receivers.

George Stewart, an All-Southwest Conference choice last year at guard, is back along with Phillip Moon, who has started every game at tackle for the past two years. Joe Shantz, 6-foot-3 and 272, is expected to replace Greg Kolenda at the other tackle. Keith Houfek, 6-foot-3 and 241 will be the biggest center Holtz has had.

Reeves to replace Landry as Cowboys play caller

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — There will be an abundance of new faces when the Dallas Cowboys take the field Saturday in their first pre-season game of 1980 — including a new play-caller.

Coach Tom Landry called the team's offensive plays throughout the 1970s but this season, while he fine-tunes his defensive platoon, he has temporarily turned that chore over to offensive coordinator Dan Reeves.

The assistant coach is no newcomer to play-calling and quarterbacking duties. A halfback when he played with the Cowboys, Reeves was a quarterback in college at South Carolina.

He recalls one play his college coach sent in that may have put Reeves in the football history books. The Gamecocks were backed up to their own 1-yard line, and Reeves was instructed to call a sprint-out pass.

The receiver made the catch, but was still in the end zone and was dropped in his tracks for a safety.

"I never heard of another one like that," Reeves said with a wry grin. "I mean, anybody can give the other team seven points with an interception. It requires delicate skill, timing and other intangibles to complete a pass and hold the other side to two points."

On a more serious note, Reeves told interviewer Frank Luksa of the Dallas Times Herald he's ready to call Cowboy plays, but will not be offended if Landry decides to resume the chore himself.

"I couldn't be too disappointed if he comes and says 'I want to do it.' We've been pretty successful doing it that way. I may be disappointed but never to the degree where I'd be upset," Reeves said.

Given a choice, he said he would prefer to make the play-calling decisions on the sidelines, rather than from a press-box perch.

"On the field you cut one more line of communication," he explained. "If you're calling plays from the press box you have to tell somebody who tells somebody else who tells the quarterback."

"It's like telling a joke. If it goes through four people, at the end the joke changes. The play could change, too."

What can fans expect from plays called by the offensive coordinator?

"If I do call plays I think you'll see us go deep (on passes) more often," he said. "It might not work but it will pressure the defense into worrying about it. That will open up other things."

Reeves also said he is preparing to deal with the second-guessing he believes will be inevitable.

"You set up a game plan and ideally everything works, except that never happens," he said. "So whether you go for the big play or keep it on the ground... there'll always be second-guessing."

"I've second-guessed coach Landry but never openly, because he's the head coach. Everybody will be a little more outspoken about second-guessing an assistant coach, I imagine."

Houston census count 300,000 off

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., Aug. 6, 1980 3-B

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite a preliminary census count they say is short by at least 307,430 residents, city officials are confident final figures will match earlier estimates of 1,737,000.

The preliminary count of 1,429,570 was released Tuesday and city officials retained hopes Houston still will pass Philadelphia as the nation's No. 4 city, exceeded only by New York, Los Angeles and Chicago.

Bernie Petterson, the planning department's research chief, said the preliminary figures do not include all of Houston's geography.

"The geography is only as of Jan. 1, 1978, an arbitrary date set by the Census Bureau," he said.

"When we get a final figure it will be as of Jan. 1, 1980, and will include annexations made in 1977 and 1978."

Petterson said that, without a doubt, three major components will add to the Tuesday count — the annexed areas, nearly 45,000 as yet uncounted housing units, and a downward revision for a "much too high" vacancy rate that involves more than 67,000 units.

"We played around with some numbers and we came up above 1.7 million and we were working with reasonable figures," he said.

"The annexed areas, for example, are growth areas that had about 71,000 residents when annexed and they have grown since annexation. The uncounted households are a major percentage of the undercount and the vacancy rate will come down."

Houston had a 1,232,802 census in 1970 and staked claim to the No. 5 ranking in 1975 by passing Detroit.

Philadelphia's preliminary count has not been released but Roscoe Jones, Houston's planning director, is among those who believe Houston will rank No. 4 after the final 1980 counts are recorded.

Philadelphia had 1,950,098 residents in 1970 but had dropped to about 1,815,000 by 1975 and recent estimates have indicated a preliminary 1980 count of about 1,450,000.

Petterson said Houston's preliminary count was based on 640,240 households with 2.71 residents per occupied unit.

"The 640,240 units, at first glance, look excellent, maybe 99 percent," he said. "But the 11.35 percent for 67,557 vacant units is too high. From 6 to 8 percent would be a legitimate rate for vacancies."

He said Houston had a vacancy rate of 7.97 percent in 1970 "and it has been as low as an estimated 3.1 percent" since then.

The estimate of 2.71 residents per household, he added, appears to be quite reasonable. The 1970 rate was 3.09.

Petterson said census checking can work both ways.

"I was shocked when I realized the preliminary figure included the City Prison Farm on Lake Houston," he said.

"Well, the prison farm isn't in the city limits, so we'll be losing the 1,200 they counted there."

Keeping hurricane neutral

MIAMI (AP) — As the forecasters see it, keeping powerful storms inoffensive is important.

The names given tropical storms and hurricanes are approved by a gathering of meteorologists from around the world to assure their neutrality, said National Hurricane Center spokesman Noel Risnychok as Hurricane Allen threatened southwestern Haiti and Jamaica.

Hurricanes were first named in the 1950s to avoid confusion when there was more than one storm at a time. At first, the names were female, but men's names joined the storm field in 1978.

"It just naturally progressed," Risnychok said. "Later, when it became important to not offend anyone, the names were picked because of their neutrality."

The names approved for 1980 are: Allen, Bonnie, Charley, Danielle, Earl, Frances, Georges, Hermine, Ivan, Jeanne, Karl, Lisa, Mitch, Nicole, Otto, Paula, Richard, Shary, Tomas, Virginie and Walter.

Were rabbits multiplying?

SARATOGA, Wyo. (AP) — W.B. Alcorn's calculator — lost last September when he dropped it in a pasture — doesn't look the same anymore, but after months as a missing object it still knows the time of day.

Alcorn and his family had searched in vain for the calculator as it lay under deep snow in sub-freezing temperatures. In the spring, the land was burned off.

Finally, Alcorn's father spotted it. "A horse had stepped on it and it was kind of dis-shaped," Mrs. Alcorn said. But the calculator, its clock and alarm still worked.

"The alarm was set for 6:30 at night," Mrs. Alcorn said, explaining her husband had set the time to prepare for a trip.

"Several times during the winter we noticed rabbits were out there just sitting around that spot at 6:30 in the evening," she said, "so I guess they must have been attracted by the alarm."

GOVERNOR'S REPORT

by William F. Clements Jr.

Much has been written about the initiative and referendum proposal I will submit to the Legislature in 1981.

Unfortunately, a great deal of misunderstanding remains — some of it, I fear, due to deliberate efforts to opponents to confuse the issue.

Here is a kind of primer on the subject, which, I hope, may serve to clear some of the cobwebs.

Initiative is the power of people to enact laws independently of a legislative body. Referendum is the power of the people to repeal an unwanted law.

Twenty-three states already have some form of initiative and/or referendum. No state that ever has adopted initiative and referendum has repealed those powers.

Polls have indicated that some 70 percent of Texas favor initiative and referendum. Eighty-seven percent of Texas Republicans who participated in a May 3 party primary referendum indicated they want authority to initiate and repeal legislation via petition and the ballot.

A constitutional amendment would be required to give Texans that power.

Regardless of some concern, there has been no pell-mell rush to pass new laws or repeal old ones in the I & R states. Use has been restrained.

I feel it is important, however, that voters be given the powers of initiative and referendum for use in those situations where the legislative process refuses to respond to the clear will of the majority. Particularly in the area of taxation and spending, citizens should have emergency clout to deal with an unyielding bureaucracy.

I propose a procedure by which at least 10 percent of those voting in the last gubernatorial election have to sign a petition to get a recommended law on the ballot. The petition requirement for a constitutional amendment election should be a minimum of 15 percent.

To prevent concentration of petition powers in the major cities, signatures should have to come from 75 percent of the 254 counties. And the Legislature, then, should have authority to approve the petition as submitted or to offer voters an alternative version. Where an alternative is submitted, voters should have a choice at the statewide election between the original and the legislative option.

The U.S. Supreme Court has held that I & R constitutes no violation of the Republican representative form of government.

Legislatures still account for 99.5 percent of all laws passed in the 23 states which have I & R.

Opponents claim bad legislation, too many issues for the ballot, emotional issues and ill-conceived laws are spawned by I & R.

The truth of the matter is that in the 23 states using I & R, only 20 percent of the issues submitted for initiative action get enough approving signatures to get on the ballot, and two-thirds of those which make it to election are defeated. Obviously, no legislation which violates the state or federal constitution or federal law can be adopted by either initiative or legislative routes.

No radical initiative legislation has been approved in the I & R states, regardless of opposition charges. Many of the arguments used by opponents have been raised throughout history against other expanded efforts of people to control governments.

During framing of the U.S. constitution, James Madison argued tyranny would result if citizens were in control of government. Thomas Jefferson countered that the real tyranny lay in centralized government. A compromise was reached, but the election of U.S. senators by direct vote was not permitted for many years. Not until 1920 did women get voting rights.

The Texas Constitution states: "All political power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their benefit." Initiative and referendum will help keep that principle alive.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 7, 1980

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a good chance now to improve conditions at your residence which has proved difficult to do in the past. Don't force any issues with family members at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study your home well and get rid of whatever has become obsolete and not functional. Plan how to gain your aims.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Making changes in routines now can bring increased efficiency and produce more. Take no risks with your reputation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study your financial status and know how to improve it ethically right now, so you can be more affluent in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't tolerate persons you know who are detrimental to your best interests. Show that you have spunk.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You need to be more introverted today so that you know where you are headed and can make fine plans for the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look to a close tie for ideas on how to gain a cherished wish. Attend a group affair in the evening and show you have poise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Follow your inclinations where worldly matters are concerned and get excellent results. Postpone business affairs in afternoon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You get good ideas from a practical and imaginative friend which you should put in operation as soon as possible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can easily fulfill those promises you have made if you get an early start. Curb your temper at all times today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the best ways of pleasing your associates for mutual benefits. This can be a particularly fine day for you.

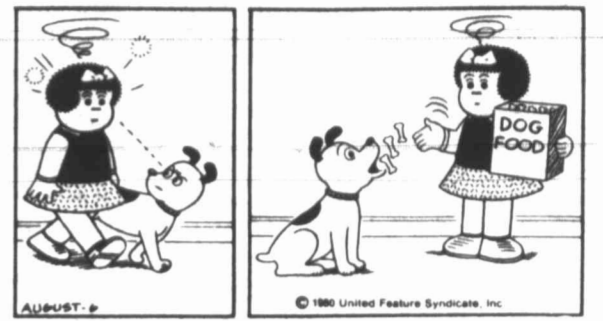

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have much work ahead of you, and if you are not sure about some of it, confer with experts. Be logical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talking over long-range goals with associates could prove beneficial in the future. Handle business matters wisely.

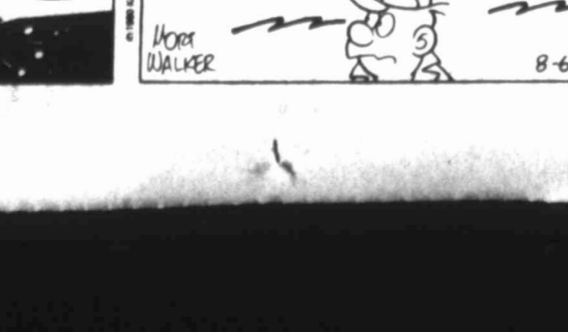

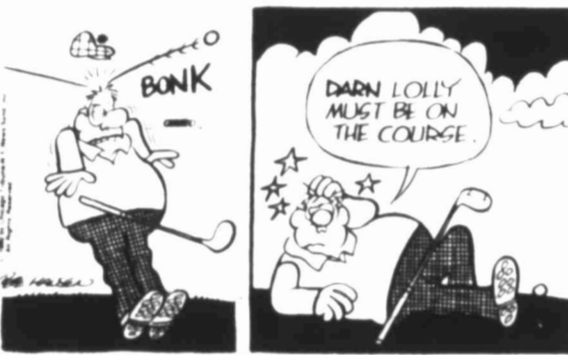

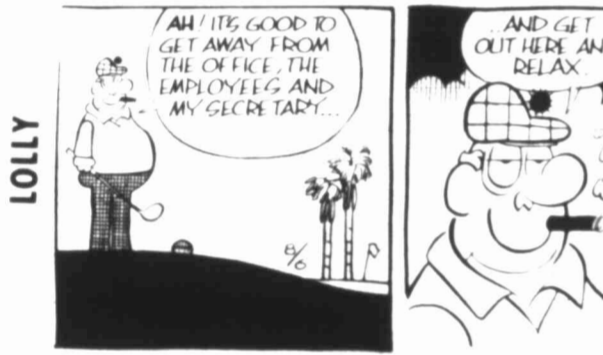

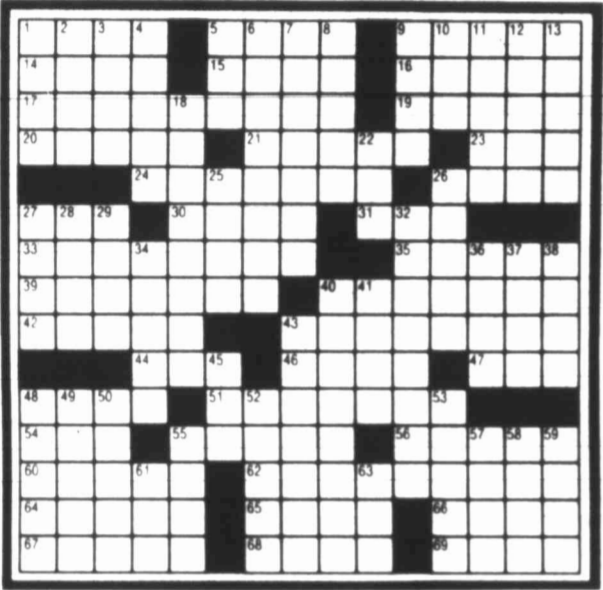

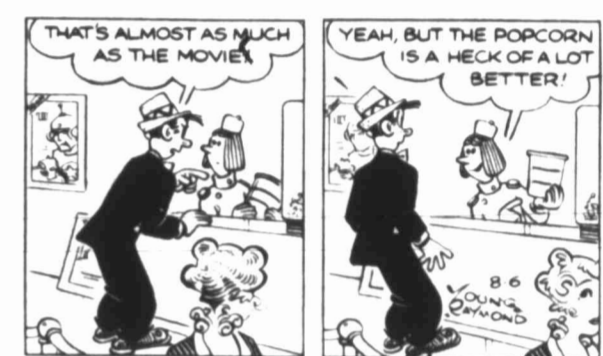

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will know how to maintain harmony in the home, even at a young age, and the education should be directed along the lines of law and social service to make the most of this fine talent. Don't neglect ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Colonial Daughters meet in Abilene

Members of Texas Chapter of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century met recently in Abilene in the home of Mrs. Bernie C. McCrea.

Special guests for the meeting were Mrs. Louis W. Patterson, president general of the National Society, and Mrs. Wiley W. Lowrey, corresponding secretary general, both of Oklahoma City.

Delila Baird, chapter president, presided. Mrs. Jimmy Hale, chaplain, voiced the opening prayer before the buffet luncheon.

Following lunch, Mrs. Hale gave a brief devotional. Mrs. Whit Clark led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance and gave the National Defense report.

Josie Baird, chapter registrar, reported two applications pending with the registrar general. These are Mrs. Gene L. Dulaney of Snyder and Mrs. Richard Denham of Midland.

Three guests, prospective members, were introduced including Mrs. Karl E. Wallace of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Margaret Barnett and Mrs. Helen Dawson Corbean of Big Spring.

Mrs. McCrea introduced Mrs. Patterson, president general, as speaker. Mrs.

Patterson is active in many patriotic societies other than Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century, and is a participant in social, service and cultural activities in her community.

The speaker gave an informative program on the Jamestown settlement, its purpose, trials and survival under difficulties.

In commemoration of the 375th anniversary of the founding of Jamestown to be celebrated in 1982, Mrs. Patterson has chosen her President General's Project to be a good copy of a portrait of King James I.

The portrait will be a copy of one in William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va. It will bear a plaque with the name of the society, and will be hung in the Old World Pavilion in Jamestown.

Texas Chapter was organized in Washington, D.C. in April 1977. Delila Baird was organizing president.

The chapter has grown from 15 charter members to 36, including four juniors. Twenty-eight of the 36 members trace their lineages back to Virginia.

This gives the group a special interest in the President General's Project for 1982.

DAVA has meeting

The Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary held their monthly meeting with Doris McMinn presiding, senior vice commander, due to the illness of Gertrude McCann, commander, at the VFW Post Home following a dinner.

The colors were posted by Linda Luna, sgt.-at-arms. The Auxiliary was then led in the pledge of allegiance by Margaret Barnett, patriotic instructor. Nine members answered roll call. Sue Watkins was introduced as a guest prior to joining the organization.

Delores Scott, VAMC hospital chairman, reported serving 50 patients at the monthly coffee. Those furnishing cakes were Elsie Prevo, Clara Lewis, Delores Scott and Katie Nelson. Ellen Thomason furnished the coffee. Katie Spivey, State Hospital chairman, reported on the luncheon. Commissioner Kavanaugh thanked all of the Volunteers for their work at the hospital and told them how much their work was appreciated.

Connie Manuel, hospitality chairman, expressed her appreciation to those who brought food for the dinner preceding the meeting.

The Unit received two Certificates from Day Auxiliary State Department. One for making their quota for the year and one for completing all required reports and sending them in before the deadline.

The closing ceremony was held and the Auxiliary was dismissed with a prayer.

Keeping flowers blooming

To prolong the life of cut flowers, keep these tips in mind from a current Family Circle feature on flower crafts:

The best time to cut flowers is in the evening (contrary to what you may have heard) before the plants do their growing. New growth is soft and wilts easily.

The next-best time to cut flowers is in the early morning, after the dew has gone but before the sun is high. Cut stems at a sharp angle, with a knife, not scissors.

Exceptions to this angle-cut rule: flowers with milky sap such as dahlias, poppies, some daisies and poinsettias, which should be cut straight across. Break off chrysanthemums.

Place flowers in a pain of warm water as soon as they are cut. Remove any leaves that will extend below the water line. Leave flowers soaking in a cool place for several hours before arranging.

Note: To avoid seepage of milky sap, place stem ends in boiling water or in the flame of a candle for 30 seconds before putting in water.

A wide-mouthed container is best for cut flowers because it allows more air to circulate. Change water daily. Cut off 1/2" or so of stem ends daily. Cut woody stems under water. To avoid clogged stems, let tap water stand at least 20 minutes before submerging flowers in it.

Never, never, never put flowers in direct sun, near candlelight or on a TV set, because heat drastically reduces flower life. Avoid drafts, too. Don't mix flowers with fruits or vegetables, producers of ethylene gas that will shorten flower life.

How to save on drugs

Only 15 percent of last year's prescriptions were written for generic drugs, even though substituting a generic for a brand-name drug can often cut drug costs in half. So says a comparison-shopping survey in the current Family Circle magazine.

In order to spend less on drugs, Family Circle advises you to always ask your doctor, when he writes you a prescription, if he can prescribe the generic or least expensive form of a drug. In 47 states — Indiana, Louisiana and Texas are the exceptions — your pharmacist can substitute the generic equivalent of a brand-name drug, unless your doctor notes "no substitution" on your prescription.

Don't make the mistake of thinking "generic" is less effective than a brand-name drug.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister, who lives 1500 miles away, blurted out in a telephone conversation that after I had left home (some 20 years ago) our father had raped her! Abby, she knew I worshipped our father, and he adored me. I was his favorite. He has been dead for six years.

At first I felt sorry for my sister who has had to live with this terrible secret all these years. (Our mother still doesn't know.) Then I began to feel anger and resentment toward her for having told me. She made ashes of all my loving memories of my father. Now I'm asking myself, why did she suddenly decide to tell me? What good purpose did her telling serve?

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Assuming that what your sister told you is true, the only possible good achieved by telling you was the relief she felt in getting it off her chest. She surely must have known that it would destroy all your loving memories of your father, so don't discount the possibility that she may still be suffering from sibling rivalry, and this is her way of getting even with you and your father. However, since your father is unable to defend himself, don't rule out the possibility that perhaps it never happened.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my daughter asked me a question she's asked often: "Where's my daddy?" That's not easy to answer. I felt like saying, "He's probably in jail. Or dead from an overdose."

My daughter is 2 1/2 years old, and she's seen her father a total of five times — three of which have been support hearings.

What do you tell a child when her father makes no move to see her or accept any responsibility for her?

How do you tell a child that her father uses drugs? And has been under the care of a psychiatrist, who told her mother if she stayed around much longer she'd probably end up dead from one of his beatings?

I realize that a 2 1/2-year-old child is much too young to understand these things, but in the meantime, what do I say?

NORTH BEND, OHIO

DEAR NORTH BEND: You say, "Daddy is sick, and with God's help, I hope he gets well enough to be a good daddy to you." Period.

DEAR ABBY: Can you take one more letter about being "the other woman" in a married man's life?

We worked for a large company. I was 20, he was 29 when we became involved. It was to last 10 years. I told myself all the usual things — "He never promised me anything, we weren't hurting anyone, he really doesn't love his wife, he can't divorce her, blah, blah."

He was smart, highly respected and went up the ladder in the company. He kept telling me I gave him incentive and peace of mind to make it possible. Then he got a big promotion that meant moving 2,000 miles away. Did he turn it down? Of course not!

A big testimonial farewell dinner was given in his honor. Naturally his wife was there. After hearing all the compliments and congratulations, he gave his speech. He told us all how much he owed to his wonderful wife. He took her hand and asked her to rise and share the honors. They looked adoringly at each other, then he took her in his arms and gave her a long and obviously affectionate kiss. Their children applauded.

Later on he said something to me about grabbing a plane every now and then to meet him somewhere. But it was all over. You see, I had never seen him with his wife, and it was my fantasy that they hardly spoke, let alone touched. He used to tell me that what we had was beautiful. It wasn't. All that sneaking around was cheap, tawdry and dishonest. Please print this. I want to carry it in my wallet.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Engaged couple honored at reception by parents

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hill honored their son, Alan, and his bride-elect, Kathy Shelton, with a reception in the Garrett Hall of First United Methodist Church on July 27 from 2-4 p.m.

Tina Teague registered guests at a table holding homemade bride and groom figurines. Peach carnations accented the setting.

Guests were served refreshments from a table draped with floor-length earth-colored cloth trimmed with lace. Shanna Farmer and Mrs. Willard Hendrick served punch from a silver punch bowl holding a fresh fruiting.

Coffee was poured by Connie Sheppard and Mrs. LeRoy Hollingshead. A silver wine cooler held the centerpiece of astra marie lillies, Mr. Walnut and peach carnations entwined with lace flower.

Other members of the houseparty were Mr. and Mrs. John Cherry, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Bledsoe, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Dibrell, Mrs. Bill Norris, Mrs. Robert Blassingame and Mrs. John Knox.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Beil, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hatfield, Mr. and Mrs. Al Valdes, Willard Hendrick, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Renshaw, Mrs. Don Newson and Mr.

and Mrs. Maxwell Green were members of the houseparty.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Hulme, Midland; and Mrs. Charles Parham Sr. and Mrs. James W. Rhea, Grand Junction, Tenn.

Beauceants entertain children

The Annual Children's Day and Family Picnic of the Social Order of the Beauceant was held Aug. 2, at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Porter. Twenty guests, Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, Mrs. Mary Ehlman, Pearl Bradshaw, and Judy Gray.

After dinner, the group visited in the patio and backyard. The area was decorated in a Fiesta theme with yellow and orange paper flowers and butterflies attached to the trees and shrubs.

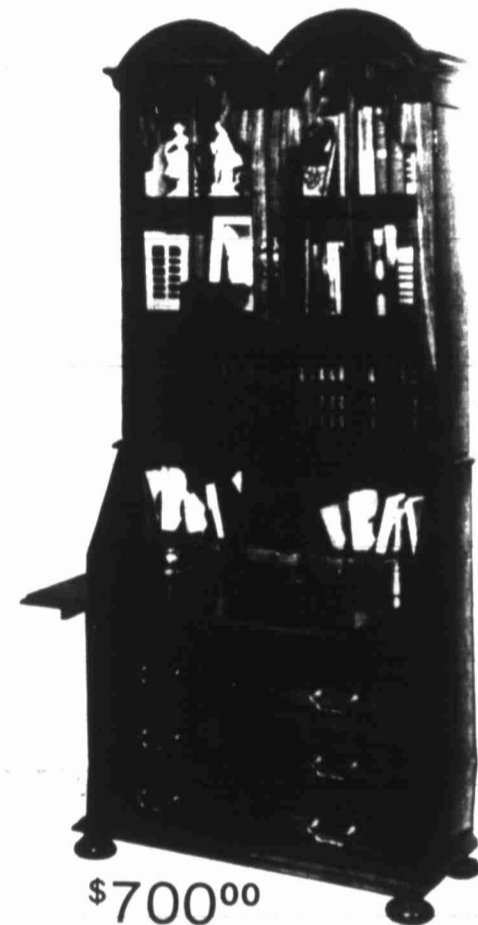

The next regular meeting of the Beauceant will be Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Hall.

Salad savvy given

To make your salads more nutritious, keep these pointers in mind when selecting greens:

According to a current Family Circle feature on "Delicious Main-Dish Salads," the darker the leaves, the more vitamin A and C they contain. The best greens for iron are spinach and beet; spinach is the highest in potassium and calcium content; the top sources for vitamin A are spinach, beet greens and watercress; for vitamin C, beet greens.

He recovered from reefer madness

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I am writing because of the letter you published from Kim of Galesburg, Ill., who was an honors student and active in school activities and was an avid marijuana smoker.

She ended her letter by stating that pot does not cause one to do bad things. She blames the individual, not the drug.

Please allow me to share my story with your teen readers. I'm 19, have a job, my own car, get A's and B's in college and I'm active in swimming.

I started smoking pot when I was only 10 and was a steady user for almost eight years. At first I felt that pot had no lasting effect on me. I was always a good student but when I got to high school, I seemed to lose my ambition — I just didn't seem to care about anything but having wild times with my fellow "smokers."

Sometime midway through my senior year I realized that I was throwing my life away. I stopped using pot and started getting my act together.

It was difficult but slowly I started getting my ambition back.

My pot smoking friends are still doing their thing. The only thing that concerns them is where they are going to get their next "lid" or how they are going to pay for it. I thank God I was mature and wise enough to realize that pot smoking was the villain. Yes, Kim, it was pot that caused me to go astray. — Dan, Fullerton, Calif.

Dr. Wallace: I don't know why I'm writing to you. I have no problem for you to solve, I'm not disagreeing with any of your answers and I have no message for my fellow teens.

I am 16 and have a crush on a 28-year-old teacher at my school. Richard is married and has two lovely children. Although we are in love, we know that we will never break up his marriage. We have a simple and pure relationship, sharing each others joys and sad moments. He has never pressured me into having sexual relations and I respect him for that.

I know our love won't last but when it is over, I will have no regrets of having loved my teacher. — Linda, Alliance, Ohio

Linda: Your letter sounds sweet and innocent but in reality, Richard is unprofessional (if everything you said is correct) and should not be teaching school.

He should be sharing his joys and sad moments with his family, not you. Do yourself, Richard, his wife and two children a favor and end this relationship regardless of how simple and pure it is.

I know you didn't ask for advice but I couldn't help saying a few words. Besides, it was free.

Dr. Wallace: My grandmother lives with us and I think she hates me. She constantly lectures me on my choice of friends, and thinks that I am a tramp. She tells terrible untrue stories about me to my mother (her daughter).

My friend says that Grandma is crazy but that doesn't make me feel any better. Please help me.

I don't think I can take her much longer. — Patty, Seymour, Ind.

Patty: I doubt very much if Grandmother hates you. At times older people, because they want to feel needed, get involved in things they normally wouldn't.

As long as Mother doesn't take what Grandmother says seriously, forget what Grandmother says and "chalk it up" to her advanced age. Sometimes it's hard, but show Grandmother respect and give her love. She needs both.

If you can't close it, try to open convention

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a catchy slogan, just right for a Democratic convention's campaign button: Open Convention.

There'll be more slogans coming, as in: "free the delegates, let them vote their consciences, make the Democratic National Convention a body that can deliberate and not just a rubber stamp."

The only trouble with all of that is that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, just like President Carter, spent six months and a good many million campaign dollars trying to close the same convention by winning enough delegates to make its nomination a foregone conclusion.

Carter succeeded. That's why Kennedy is campaigning now to open the convention he would have preferred to see closed in his own name. Unless the commitments of the delegates are erased before the nomination roll call next Wednesday, Kennedy loses.

The numbers are simple: Carter has 1,986 delegates on his side, and it will take only 1,666 to win him renomination. Kennedy has 1,234.

Kennedy didn't begin his campaign against Carter advocating an open convention. He began it as a hefty favorite in the polls, a challenger many Democrats considered a sure bet to lock up the nomination during the presidential primary elections.

And in moments of candor, his own people will confess that their current demands for an open convention in which delegates wouldn't be bound to candidates would

Talmadge in runoff for Georgia Senate seat

By the Associated Press
 Sen. Herman Talmadge, denounced by his Senate colleagues for financial misconduct, overwhelmed five Democratic primary election challengers but not by a great enough margin to avoid a run-off vote later this month.

Talmadge's victory came Tuesday in Georgia's Democratic primary after the toughest re-election campaign of his political career.

In other primaries, Rep. John B. Anderson won a spot as an independent presidential candidate on Michigan's general election ballot in November, and Sens. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., easily won renomination.

Talmadge, 66, will face Lt. Gov. Zell Miller in the Aug. 26 run-off election to decide Georgia's Democratic nominee for U.S. Senate.

With nearly three-quarters of the vote counted, Talmadge had 40.8 percent of the vote and Miller 24.7 percent. Georgia requires a run-off election if no candidate gains 50 percent of the vote.

Talmadge, a popular Georgia politician seeking his fifth Senate term, was denounced by the Senate after an investigation of his finances. Miller, a 48-year-old career public official, had the support of many prominent black leaders, including Coretta Scott King and Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson.

In a six-man race for the GOP Senate nomination, former state GOP chairman Mack Mattingly won the right to meet the winner of the Talmadge-Miller runoff in the November general election.

In Michigan, with 60 percent of the vote counted, Anderson had gained 35,000 votes, far more than the 3,000 to 5,000 needed. The amount required by law to get on the ballot is three-tenths of 1 percent of all votes cast in the election.
