COUNTRY-WESTERN FANS, ALL — People by the hundreds milled around on the infield at Memorial Stadium before Willie Nelson arrived to begin a two-hour show. The "happening" was declared an outstanding success by the estimated 10,000 who attended.

WILLIE DOES HIS THING — Probably the most popular country-western singer in the world today, Willie Nelson, closes his eyes in rendering one of his favorite numbers to an appreciative audience of perhaps 10,000 in Memorial Stadium here Sunday night. Thousands more milled around outside or drove by to catch a glimpse of what went on.

HAPPINESS IS A GATHERING AND A SONG — The mood of the throng who gathered in Memorial Stadium Sunday evening for the Willie Nelson show was definitely light-hearted. Nelson didn't arrive until about 8 p.m., but some of the people began filling into the stadium as early as 3 p.m. For those, it only allowed more time for visitations.

Show comes off without a hitch

Thousands cheer Willie

By ANDREA COHEN
Between 8,000 and 11,000 people crowded into Memorial Stadium Sunday night for the long-awaited Willie Nelson concert.

Nelson and his band played for approximately two hours to benefit the Jaycees Texas Campus for the physically handicapped in Gonzales. The campus is for accident victims from 18 to 35 years of age who have become paraplegics and quadriplegics. The two-year campus, with approximately 40 students, also has a hospital where the students learn to become self-sufficient.

According to Billie Smith, wife of Lynn Smith, president of the Jaycees, they were very pleased with the crowd. "Nelson was kind and a sincere man," she said. "He was very sincere when he was signing autographs and while being interviewed. He consented his time and money for this campus. He's a good man."

According to Smith, the supply of brisket and cola which was offered at the concert was sold out. The Jaycees stayed late to clean up the stadium.

The show went off with no major incidents. Sherrill Farmer, acting chief of the Big Spring Police Department, who had almost the entire police force working thought the "police did a good job."

Sheriff A.N. Standard said there were "no problems." Standard had 16 regulars and reserves working both in the office and at the stadium.

Some of the people who had not observed parking rules discovered their cars had been impounded. Two wreckers ordered by the police were kept busy hauling away vehicles which had been impounded.

A constant flow of traffic started down Kentucky Way, the street fronting the stadium on the north side, about 3 p.m., and continued until after Nelson ended his performance at 10 p.m. The policemen directing traffic had been well rehearsed and did a commendable job.

Many of the people living close to the stadium brought their lawn chairs to the front yard and listened to the music. Purdue Street, which feeds into Kentucky Way, had never seen the like of traffic it carried Sunday.

Guards investigated for drug smuggling

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Two state prison guards are expected to be fired as early as this week for allegedly smuggling marijuana to Oklahoma State Penitentiary inmates, prison officials confirmed Sunday.

According to a prison source who asked to remain unidentified, some of the resignations may have been the result of inmate-employee relations discovered by prison officials.

The Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs has been investigating for several months, but according to prison sources, the agency has delayed action on the alleged violations due to the volatile situation believed to exist at the prison.

New policies and procedures recently enacted by Warden Al Murphy have sparked unrest among inmates and staff members as well, department officials, including Murphy, say.

A new policy prohibiting inmates from transferring money from one trust account to another prisoner's account may have indirectly contributed to the amount of smuggling activity inside the prison, officials said.

Prison sources indicated that the infirmary may be one of the key links in the movement of currency to inmates.

In an article published in today's edition of The Daily Oklahoman, the officials said they had knowledge of an investigation of drug dealing and contraband smuggling at the institution.

Four members of the prison infirmary staff have resigned in recent weeks as the probe examined that area, the officials alleged.

Those resigning were identified as Phyllis Kooztz, a diet technician; Virginia Nelson, a registered nurse; Betty Price, a records clerk, and W.B. McKinney, a prison paramedic, the source said.

In August 1979, Nelson was held hostage for two hours by a convict armed with a scissors blade in the prison medical services building.

Nelson resigned in July, while the other resignations occurred in the past two weeks.

Coal miners reported out, many Poles return to jobs

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Most Polish strikers returned to their jobs today after winning government promises of major reforms but workers at eight Silesian coal mines remained out, the Polish news agency said.

The government dispatched a special commission under Minister of Coalmining Wlodzimierz Lajczak to the southern coal region where miners and workers in "related industries" walked out last Friday, PAP said.

Buses and trolleys packed with workers moved through the streets of Gdansk for the first time in more than two weeks. At the Lenin Shipyard, headquarters for the strike, workers poured through the iron gates. The portrait of Polish-born Pope John Paul II that the strikers had put on a fence was gone.

"We got everything that could be obtained in the present situation," said strike leader Lech Walesa. But the strike leaders recognized the continued supremacy of the Communist Party, leaving in doubt the ultimate effect of the concessions to them. And the impact on other countries of the Soviet Bloc was unclear.

The transport strike in Lodz, Poland's second largest city, was reported over, and radio stations in the cities of Wroclaw and Szczecin reported transport and all other enterprises operating normally there.

In Warsaw, the government released five of the 25 political dissidents who were arrested for support of the strikers. More releases were expected later today.

There had been no official confirmation that the strikes had reached the coal fields, source of Poland's most vital export.

"The strikes were undertaken with the purpose of settling just problems of coal miners and parallelly to support demands of the coastal workers," PAP said.

HELLO, WORLD — Willie Nelson takes time out to visit with fans and sign autographs after arriving in Memorial Stadium here Sunday evening for his concert. A record

10,000 fans took time off to file into the stadium and listen to two hours of Nelson music. It was the biggest crowd ever to file into the stadium.

'Vision quest' ends in death

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Delgado died alone and naked in a shallow pit, covered with buffalo hide and willow branches. Food, water and the insulin the young diabetic needed were 100 yards away.

Another man was in a similar pit 200 yards away in an area above Point Conception, which the Chumash Indians consider sacred.

Delgado, raised a Roman Catholic in a family of eight children, died during an Indian "vision quest," an Indian cultural and religious rite during which a young man proves his endurance and readiness for manhood, and also hopes to see a vision, to get guidance from the spirit world.

No legal ruling has been made on the death as yet, but Archie Lame

Deer fears the death will harm his efforts to revive interest in native American Indian religion.

Lame Deer, a hereditary Sioux medicine man, had left the two men in the pits for four days and returned July 16. He says he was performing a ceremony at the 3-foot-deep pit when he realized Delgado was dead.

"I still had another man to attend to," he said. "I went to the other man, we smoked a pipe together and halfway down the hill I told him our brother had passed away. I fed him and then we went back up and I called the police."

Why didn't Delgado call for help from the other man, or go get his insulin?

"That's something we will never be able to understand," said Lame Deer.

"Ron was very secretive. He never gave us his telephone number."

A toxicological screening of the body by the Santa Barbara County coroner has produced no significant results yet, said Sheriff's Lt. John Wells.

"The cause of death will probably be a combination of exposure and his diabetic state," Wells said.

Wells said, however, that the Delgado case probably will go to an inquest jury, which will decide if the death was due to natural causes, suicide or negligence.

Delgado's mother said that during a family argument she told her son, "One day without insulin, Ronnie, and you are going to be dead." She said that her son responded, "Archie won't let me die."

Lame Deer said he had no guilt about Delgado's death. He said Delgado had helped him prepare others for vision quests and knew the procedure.

Wells said that as part of his investigation, he is gathering information on Indian religion and on Lame Deer.

"How are you going to be able to rule on his authenticity?" Wells asked. "How are you going to judge when it's legitimate ... if you don't understand the Indian instructions and traditions?"

Lame Deer said Delgado took a sweatbath and smoked a pipe containing wild tobacco, but no hallucinogens, before the vision quest began.

Rig fire extinguished

PORT O'CONNOR, Texas (AP) — Soaring flames that engulfed a runaway gas well have been extinguished, but officials say it may be days before workers can board the twisted rig to search for three missing men.

An oil company spokesman said that the well bore apparently collapsed Sunday, sealing off the flow of gas that had fueled the inferno. "There is no bubbling at the rig, no fire on the platform or coming from the hole itself," said Kent Young, a spokesman for Tulsa-based Cities Service Co.

Two men were killed and seven others injured by the blast Saturday that turned the wildcat rig into a torch with flames leaping 100 feet into the air.

Flames still spouted 75 feet into the air early Sunday at the well located about 18 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico.

The roaring blaze and intense heat hindered the search Saturday and Coast Guard officials said they cancelled the it Sunday because they thought it unlikely the three missing men were in the water.

"We had aircraft and surface vessels on the scene so quickly it kept the search area very small, very well concentrated. We feel like there was virtually no chance that anybody was in the water without being detected," said Coast Guard Lt. Jerry Robichaud in Corpus Christi.

21 killed in accidents

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State troopers were "cautiously optimistic" Monday that the holiday traffic death toll would not reach their predicted total of 45 fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

By noon today, 21 highway deaths had been reported to the Department of Public Safety.

"It does look good at this time, the count is lower than expected," DPS spokesman Bill Carter said. "We are cautiously optimistic that we might not reach 45."

However, he said drivers should not relax. "We urge motorists returning home to avoid excessive fatigue, drinking and be especially alert for dangerous drivers," Carter said.

The latest accident to be reported was a head-on collision north of San Angelo between a pickup and a semi-trailer rig.

The driver of the smaller truck, James Herman Knight, 40, of Bronte, died about 1:40 a.m. Monday in the wreck on U.S. 277, near the town of Orient, Carter reported.

The driver of the big rig was hospitalized with a broken kneecap.

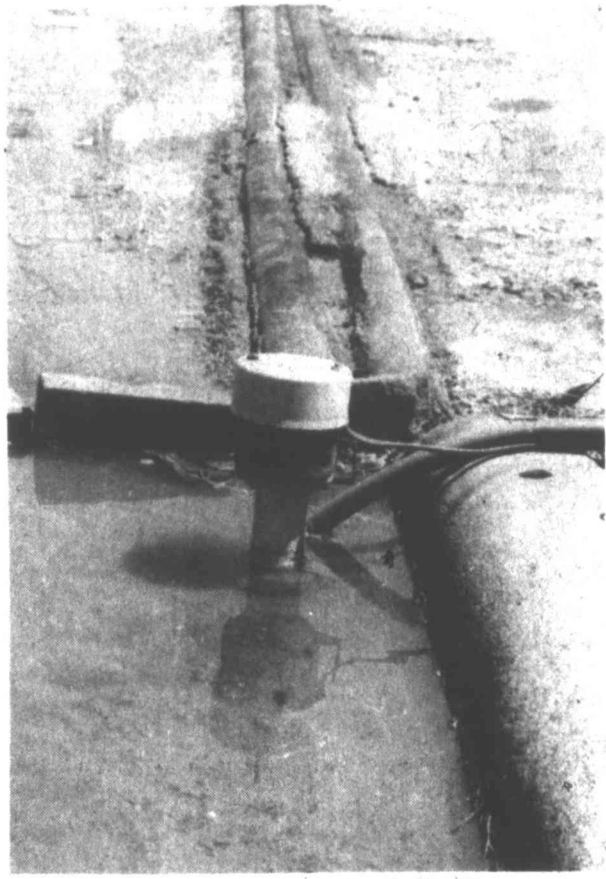

The DPS' traffic toll also included four Liberty residents killed in a truck accident in Houston and three children who died in single-vehicle wrecks.

The Houston collision took the lives of Nettie Blakes, 41; Ethel Blakes, 18; Roy Dell Callicutt, 15 and 2-year-old Kevin Kirkwood.

A 15-month-old Vietnamese girl was killed in an auto-pedestrian accident in Amarillo and an 8-month-old girl died when the car she was riding in went out of control and overturned in Midland County.

The body of an unidentified motorcycle accident victim was found in Grapevine Sunday.

Pedro Pichardo, 32, was killed in a two-car collision late Saturday in El Paso.

Every man for himself

Paramilitary unit prepares for disaster

BRISTOL, Texas (AP) — The leader of private commando-style military unit says his group is doing nothing illegal — it's just preparing for a time when it's "every man for himself."

Dallas weapons dealer Ricardo Cleofas Lopez says his Special Combat Operations Team, which operates a 250-acre training camp near this small Ellis County town, is preparing for "emergencies."

Law enforcement officers say the goings-on have frightened local residents, but investigators admit they cannot prove any wrongdoing.

"SCOT is both a non-political and non-subversive organization," 40-year-old Lopez said in a recent interview. "We're just out there training in the event of disasters, riots, strikes or economic collapse."

"We're just a bunch of guys who gather together to get training — mainly middle-class Americans that can see fun and relaxation in good training."

Lopez, whose organization has been advertised in Soldier of Fortune magazine, defends the commando-style activities on the basis of self-preservation.

"We know that in the event of ... emergencies, the police will not be able to maintain order. It would be every man for himself."

"I love life, but I deal in death and destruction," he said. "I mean, let's face it, guns are designed to kill people. Like that old saying, 'God created man, but Colt made them equal.'"

"They're preparing for a revolution," said Paul Martin, police chief of nearby Ferris who claimed his officers have information that Lopez' trainees have included members of the Brown Berets, a militant Mexican-American organization.

World oil surplus may hold until 1981

NEW YORK (AP) — A "huge cushion of surplus" oil could delay for more than two years a new world oil crunch in the event that OPEC's biggest producer, Saudi Arabia, cut production by 1 million barrels daily, an oil industry newsletter says.

But Petroleum Intelligence Weekly cautioned Sunday that "despite the present surplus, there's little reason for oil-consuming nations to feel complacent about the future supply outlook."

A recent reduction in Organization of Petroleum

Exporting Countries oil output to a 4 1/2-year low of about 27 million barrels a day "has succeeded in bringing current supply into line with actual current consumption," it said.

Total Western world inventories are expected to peak at 5.8 billion 42-gallon barrels by early fall, the newsletter said, and a "huge cushion of surplus stocks, could linger for another one or two years."

Inventories in some European nations are equivalent to 120 days supply, the trade publication said, while Japan's stocks are at a record 110 days and rising, and U.S. stocks would last about 75 days.

"If Saudi Arabia cut production 1 million barrels daily starting tomorrow, it could still take until the autumn of 1981 to erase the accumulated surplus" of 400 million barrels above normal levels and a longer period could elapse "before a supply crisis developed," the industry newsletter said.

Reports that the Saudis might order an output cut greater than 1 million barrels a day to bring pressure on Israel to give up its claim to all Jerusalem "ring ominously in the ears of consumer nations," the newsletter said.

Enrollment up in CC schools

COLORADO CITY — Students attending Colorado City schools will henceforth be required to pass, with an average of 70 or better, both major and minor subjects in order to be promoted.

School board president Tom Rees said there would no longer be any free rides by students in class rooms.

Enrollment on the first day of schools here last week increased by 46 students over a year ago. Total student count was 1,424 last Tuesday, including 400 in high school.

Raises given officials

STANTON — Ten percent pays raises have been approved for all Martin County elected officials except the county commissioners and the county attorney.

County Commissioner Jeff Miles tried without success to reduce the pay of commissioners to $600 monthly, kill the $1,200 travel allowance for the county judge and terminate the position of deputy treasurer.

Sexual impotence well-kept secret

It is seldom a topic of living room, or even locker room, conversation, so few people know that sexual impotence is fairly common. Various estimates say 50 percent to 100 percent of all adult men have at least short episodes of impotence sometime in their lives.

These short periods often go away without treatment because they are related to a specific, usually short-term situation. But impotence becomes a much bigger problem when at least 25 percent of intercourse attempts are unsuccessful because the man does not have an erection, according to one medical reference book.

Many cases can be treated successfully either through counseling or medical methods, says C.E. Menendez, M.D., in an article in the August issue of Texas Medicine, the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal. Dr. Menendez, a professor at the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center in Lubbock, suggests seeing a doctor to determine what treatment is necessary.

Cases often occur because the man is unhappy. Often several sessions with a trained counselor can help relieve impotence caused by trouble with the sex partner, low self-esteem or other problems.

Often too much emphasis on performance and a fear of failure can add to impotence. But counseling helps these problems by working on the underlying, basic cause of unhappiness.

When impotence has a physical cause, it can include diabetes (one of the more common causes), alcohol or drug abuse, aging, malfunctioning glands or other disorders, Dr. Menendez says.

Warm Labor Day looms in Texas

By The Associated Press
A weak cold front brought slightly cooler temperatures and a hint of rain to the Panhandle and central plains today, but a sunny and hot Labor Day was forecast for most of Texas.

A few overnight showers developed along and south of the front in the southeastern Panhandle, and temperatures dropped into the 60s there.

Highs in the 80s, along with widely scattered afternoon thundershowers, were expected today in the Panhandle, along the coast and in parts of southwest Texas.

Elsewhere in the state, partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 90s were predicted. Temperatures were expected to rise above 100 in extreme north central Texas and in the Big Bend, however.

Overnight temperatures were mostly in the 70s and 80s, with a southerly wind blowing at 10 to 20 mph.

Mills: Tax cut would be inflationary

You may not admire the man but you have to respect his wisdom. Former congressman Milbur Mills fell from grace when his drinking habits and nocturnal escapades, said to have been brought on by too heavy a work load, but he remains the most knowledgeable man about federal taxes in Washington.

In an appearance before an American Taxation Institute meeting in Boston recently, Mills said that the idea of a tax cut prior to the general election in November — an idea that became a political football with both major parties — would be highly inflationary and should be shunned at all costs.

MILLS SPEAKS with experience.

He recalled that the tax cut enacted in 1975, one in which he was deeply involved, is now recognized to have been highly inflationary.

The tax cut voted five years ago was aimed at neutralizing the effects of the 1974-75 recession. Mills pointed out that the only thing a tax cut does is make a recession more palatable while working to feed the flames of inflation.

Mills also told his Boston audience that the tax cut fever that had practically been taking the nation's capital by storm was dying out because congressmen had gone home for talks to constituents where they found that people were far more interested in controlling inflation than they were in having taxes reduced.

Most everyone you talk to these days grumbles about rising taxes but they are openly hostile to the idea of galloping inflation. They don't mind working hard for their dollars but they want them to be worth something when they go to the store with them.

IN HIS TALK, Mills went on to say that a tax cut, in itself, is not necessarily inflationary if it is geared toward the stimulation of business and industry, thereby creating more jobs. It was his contention that the Congress would be a lot more likely to pass a tax cut aimed at points that would fight inflation rather than make it worse if it waited until after the elections to shape up its legislation. Prior to those elections, for obvious political reasons, any tax cut is going to be shaped in such a way that it favors individuals rather than stimulation of business and industry.

To put it simply, putting more money in the hands of the people is not going to help the inflation fight. The problem is, classically put, that inflation is "too much money chasing too few goods." Increasing the money for individual spending while production is down simply increases the inflation rate by driving up prices.

History shows that a nation's people have to accept a little austerity in order to guarantee the health of their financial system. It may complicate problems for the unemployed and the low income groups but it's the way the system works.

What is rich?

Around the rim

Andrea Cohen

Most of us want to be rich. Most of us dream of being rich someday. How many times have you heard a man say, "Someday I'm going to find a rich woman who will marry me and keep me in a style of which I'd like to be come accustomed."

WHAT IS RICH, really? Most of us feel poor, but that's a bad choice of words. The word is broke. Webster's definition of broke is without money, penniless. Cohen's definition is when you take the extra money at the end of the month after paying the bills to go out for dinner and you end up praying someone, who is a good cook, invites you for dinner.

Rich is having an abundance of money at the end of the month. The rich is having extra money all the time.

But everyone's definition is different. For instance, I'd feel rich if I had my own washer and dryer. I'd feel wealthy if I had a maid to throw the clothes into the washer and dryer. I'd feel very rich if I owned my own laundromat. I'd feel like a millionaire if I never did laundry because I could afford to wear each outfit only once and throw it away.

Rich is when you can afford an extra refrigerator. Ultra rich is when you can afford to stock it.

To some, rich would be buying a new Cadillac. To me, rich would be affording the repairs on the vehicle I drive now.

But when it comes down to the bottom line about what rich is, it is being able to afford anything you want if you work hard. Ultra rich is being able to buy anything you want because your daddy worked hard. But being really rich is when you can afford it, and nobody you can remember in your family ever worked hard.

RICH IS WHEN you pay the bills and there is enough money to cover it all. Very rich is when you can afford to hire a secretary to pay all the bills. Ultra rich is when daddy has an office in Dallas or New York where all the kids, spouses and grandchildren just send the bills to be paid and never think about it again, until daddy gives a lecture on exorbitant spending habits. The lecture on thrift comes through. After all, how do you think he became rich to begin with?

Oh, this whole subject is getting depressing. I think I'm going to go home and rework the budget. Instead of paying all the bills, I think I'm going to throw them all up in the air. The ones that land right side up will get paid. Then I'm going out for dinner, to a restaurant.

Poland in balance

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — Extreme caution by the outside world distinguishes the present phase of the recurrent Polish crisis. The general restraint indicates that, while nobody can admit it, there now exists in Europe an harmonious balance of power.

In that context, the grievances raised anew by striking Polish workers can perhaps be worked out through concessions from the Warsaw government. If so, an indent can be made against the time when age forces a change in the Soviet leadership. But if not, the whole world is into deeper trouble.

THEORETICALLY Europe should be a vortex of turbulence. A divided Germany lies at the heart of a divided continent. To the east are authoritarian regimes led by Communist parties dedicated to centralized economic control. To the west are open regimes with market economies. Each side does violence to the beliefs of the other every minute of every hour of every day.

But national interests transcend ideological preferences. As A.W. DePorte of the State Department has pointed out in a recent pamphlet on the "superpower balance," the division of Europe answers the security needs of the major powers.

With Germany split, Russia faces no threat to its preeminence as a land power on the continent. France and Britain and their smaller allies feel able to contain West Germany ambition within the European Economic Community. The East Europeans can look to Western Europe as an economic and cultural counterweight against Soviet imperialism. The U.S. finds in rapport with the West Europeans a solid base on the continent.

Weighed in that balance, the issue of labor troubles in Poland is truly trivial. So all the outsiders have moved to defuse the present crisis.

Russia started by announcing that the works of the Polish leader, Edward Gierk, were being published in the Soviet Union. That was an unmistakable way of saying Moscow was leaving matters up to him. Only subsequently, when Gierk's position seemed in doubt, did the Soviet leadership begin to collect in Moscow, and show signs of genuine concern.

THE U.S. REACTED with studied calm. Secretary of State Edmund Muskie said: "Internal problems in Poland are for the Polish people and the Polish authorities to resolve." President Carter said: "We are being very reticent ... in expressing our views."

In Western Europe, the Vatican, which is crucial because Pope John Paul is a Pole in touch with the hierarchy of his country, counseled restraint. Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany canceled a projected trip to East Germany to prevent the Polish troubles from becoming an issue in either of the two Germanys.

Setting the Polish dispute, even with all outsiders showing restraint, is not child's play. The Polish workers have demonstrated impressive unity, and great tactical skill. Still, having extracted concessions by strikes in 1970 and 1976, there is a tendency to get heady about how much the traffic will bear. This time they have demanded free trade unions and more press liberty — two conditions that lessen the control of the party in Poland, and do not exactly obtain in the Soviet Union.

On the other hand, the regime has already guided Poland far down the path to economic liberalization. The country enjoys private agriculture, trade unions that are not total stooges, and exposure to the international economy.

Ulcerative colitis a tough problem

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My 12-year-old has ulcerative colitis and is in and out of the hospital continuously. Her life is severely restricted. She is on high doses of prednisone. When the dose is reduced, she has trouble. Will she need an ileostomy eventually? Why do doctors wait so long before advising surgery? She had two weeks without symptoms, but lately the bloody stools have been more frequent. Hope you have time to shed some light on this ugly disease. — B.J.K.

First, I want to say that you are on the right track in trying to learn all you can about this problem. There may be a branch of the National Ileostomy Association in your area to help in this.

Ulcerative colitis can be very difficult to control. Small ulcers appear on the surface of the large bowel (the colon). This produces the bloody diarrhea and the abdominal pain. Although the cause is not known, about 75 percent of patients can be managed with steroids (your prednisone) and sulfa drugs.

Surgery is reserved for serious complications, like uncontrollable bleeding, perforation of the colon or when a child's growth is inhibited. You must remember that once the surgery is done the colon is gone, so every effort is made to delay it for as long as possible. When the large intestine is gone, an opening from the small intestine to the outside is provided. That is an ileostomy.

I cannot argue with your description of this disease as "ugly," but many ostomates lead productive lives despite the obvious handicap. The products from the small intestine are collected in a pouch and drained by a tube. Once mastered, the care of the ostomy apparatus is not terribly difficult, and the wearer engages in normal activities.

Your doctor wants to see if your daughter will have a lessening of symptoms on the medication alone before resorting to surgery to remove the bowel. It may, of course, have to come to that. Is your daughter drinking too much milk? Sometimes dairy products aggravate symptoms.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please shed some light on the cause of chalazions, the cysts on the eyelids. For the past year and a half I have been plagued by them. I have had two removed a year apart, only to be replaced by others. I have seen countless doctors, but they all see the only answer in bathing or surgery. I have done both, but they seem to keep popping up. I have thrown all my makeup away and bought new products. I now use hypoallergenic kinds, all to no avail. Please let me know if there are any new discoveries about these awful lumps. The last doctor gave me a prescription for tetracycline, and I don't know if this will help. — R.D.

When special glands of the eyelids (meibomian) become infected, chalazions result. The only treatments are the ones you have tried — surgery to open them up and scrape them, anti-bacterial ointments and eye washes. Some ophthalmologists try weekly massages of the lids to keep the glands well-drained. I sympathize with you and wish there were some new discovery for the problem. Perhaps your latest antibiotic preparation will be the answer. Try to avoid all makeup around your eyes for a week.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A nurse told me she thinks I may be slightly anemic. If it's the sensible thing to do, I could get to a doctor, but if there are ways I can build up my blood again, I'd prefer trying that. I'm over four score years old and am real healthy. — J.W.

No one can tell for sure by looks alone if a person is anemic. Even if this were possible it would be necessary to find out what kind of anemia it is. See your doctor.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Do people realize what an excellent laxative a cup of hot water first thing in the morning is? — This always works for me. — B.L.

Nothing wrong with that. Some patients find equally good results from a glass of gold water, or, for that matter, a cup of hot coffee. The idea is to give the gut a bit of stimulation to get it moving.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that vitamin C causes dehydration? — R.S. Why would it?

For better understanding of colitis and other intestinal ailments, their causes and treatment, write to Dr. Donohue, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

You can lose weight if you really want to! The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My problem is that I become critical of other people very easily, and then I say things that get me in trouble and cause me to lose friends. What can I do about this? — M.S.

DEAR M.S.: I need not tell you that this is destructive. It is also sin in God's eyes, and you must do all you can to eliminate it from your life. The Bible says, "Brothers, do not slander one another ... who are you to judge your neighbor?" (James 4:11, 12). The Bible also warns us about things the Lords hates: "haughty eyes, a lying tongue ... a false witness who pours out lies and a man who stirs up dissension among brothers" (Proverbs 6:17, 19).

What can you do to rid your life of this critical and harsh spirit? First, you need to commit your life to Jesus Christ — every aspect of your life, including your attitude toward others and your tongue. Have you ever turned your life over to him, and invited him into your life? If not, take this first step and turn to Christ in repentance and faith. And if at some time in the past you have put your faith in Christ, you need to confess this sin to him for cleansing, and then determine to follow him as Lord of your life.

Then ask Christ to help you love others. Your problem (at least in part) is that you do not love others as you should. You do not want to help them know the joy and peace of Christ, and you are not seeking to help them in other ways as well. But Christ wants you to help, not hurt, others. He wants you to see other people as he does, not merely through human eyes. At the present time it sounds like you are trying to build yourself up by tearing others down. But that is wrong, and when you really understand that God loves you and he loves others as well, you will no longer feel the need to be so critical. Therefore, as God's chosen people, holy and dearly loved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience" (Colossians 3:12).

Dear Editor:

After watching on television the Democratic convention, it is sickening to say the least how the American people embrace Socialism, and that is exactly what we are now embracing with the good ole' Democrats. The Democratic party once known for the working man is now the party of the government, it is no longer the party of the working people or the poor people.

Mr. Kennedy now wants $12 billion more in federal money and another deficit by putting people to work. Why in the world should people work when all they have to do is sit on their backside and stick out their hand to the federal bureaucracy and the Democratic party and say, "I am poor. I am a minority. I am out of work." Every man, woman, and child in this country is a minority, and everyone, even the president of a corporation is considered the people of this country. This is how the Democratic party has come about. The take-over of the people is by proclaiming to be for the people, and to free the people.

All I want from the Democratic party is for them to quit trying to redistribute the wealth from the productive people to the lazy non-producers. If the government will quit stealing our money, then we would not have the good ole' Democrats up in Washington who want to give all our money away on all these social programs. Have you ever wondered why those rich Democrats don't give some of their own money to the poor and the minorities?

I heard a local man on the radio the other day, Cecil Riordan, who is in the insurance business, say he is glad of the Wind Fall Profit Tax. This is not a Profit Tax, it is nothing more than an excise tax, and confiscation of private property. This is like the government going into an oil man's office and saying "We are taking 30 percent of what you make." Even though, he is now paying 30 to 40 percent of what he makes in taxes. The government has come out with another plan to take another thirty to seventy percent of what the man makes. I bought and paid for a lease, and I sat down on that lease and ate pork & beans and Vienna weiners and spent money borrowed on some other equipment. I had a chance of going broke, but finally I hit a little well that would make five barrels a day, then the government could come in and say, "We are taking 35 to 70 percent away from you. I wonder if Riordan would mind if the government came in and said they wanted to take 40 percent of his insurance business."

It seems that the people who want to give away other people's money, we used to call them Socialists. I wonder, Riordan, would you give 40 percent of your business to help the poor people? To help the unemployed? That is the Democratic way. Anytime confiscation of private property is condoned by any man in business, whether he's a Democrat or a Republican or even independent, then this is Communism.

Now if we are going to work for a centralized government which our good ole' Democrats in Washington want us to do, then we should go ahead and embrace Socialism now, and cut out all the pain and the time involved in doing it.

I'd ask Riordan again if he advocates centralized government controlling his insurance business, controlling his income, and controlling the type of house that he lives in. This is the role that the Democratic Party is taking, and how a man with any intelligence whatsoever, can embrace plain old Socialism is beyond a poor high school graduate.

This may sound like another radical, in fact, I may be a radical, but I'm not Republican and I'm not a Democrat. I do believe in the freedom that we were born with in this country, and that our forefathers fought for.

How many times have you seen the government and the groups that have planned to take over the people of a country claim to do it in the name of helping the poor, helping the minority, and freeing the people. This is the same rhetoric, and as I watch the Democratic Party talking about the only thing that is going to help the cities is more federal dollars. There is no federal dollars in this country, all that they have in this country is a confiscation of the people's wealth to put into the federal coffers to give to the non-producers, and to the people that claim to be a minority or don't want to work, who expect the government to help them. This is going to stop when they pay the working people of the country get tired of carrying four or five non-producers on their back, which is just about to come to that point. That is going to be the day that the Democratic Party is put into its place, one of Socialism. We may then rebuild the ideals and principles that our forefathers started so many years ago, that if you work you're rewarded, if you don't work, you are not rewarded. This is the only principle capitalism and the private enterprise system is of, what this country was founded on, and when we get back on those principles then this country will prosper again as in the last years.

Since the Democratic Party has had control of Congress for the last 45 years, we have steadily declined into Socialism. If we don't reverse the trend that this country has taken, then surely within the next ten years this will be a Socialistic country.

Riordan also stated that the big oil companies are responsible for the high price of gasoline. This is so much hog wash. I can remember when the oil companies that are now big companies started in business. They had to pay my father in gasoline stamps, and he had to take and trade them for gasoline. The big oil companies that they claim today were just small companies back in the old days, and I thought this was just part of the American dream, that in this country you had the possibility and the opportunity to grow as a company. It seems ironic that now that these companies have prospered and grown in this country that we've built are the "bad guys" and the government, the good ole' Democrats are the "good guys." Business and anything related to the energy field are the "bad guys." How simple it seems that the days have passed that the oil man was hungry, broke, working on everything he could so he could go back out into the oil field and maybe get another wildcat going to help this country when it was in its interest. All of a sudden, since the powerful government, and the Democratic Party can't rob him of enough wealth at one time, they are finally beginning to confiscate that which he built with his bare hands.

Cecil G. Gilstrap

Backing will be needed for energy

One of the bright prospects for investors in the 1980s is the production of synthetic fuels, according to a Wall Street Journal report.

Passage of the $88 billion synfuel program by Congress gave impetus to what was anticipated as a major new industrial activity for the future anyway. The public funds which will be pumped into projects are likely to make synfuels, a $100 billion industry by 1990, the Journal estimates.

If ingenuity and enterprise is to be unleashed in this new angle of energy production, it will need the financial backing of American investors. The interest on Wall Street adds up to extra excitement overall in the search for new sources of energy, and the efforts for energy independence.

Not just another pretty face

Organic but ugly

LOS ANGELES — Organic isn't always beautiful. In fact, sometimes it's downright ugly.

"There are all kinds of skin scrubs on the market, but ours is probably the ugliest when it's on the face," laughs Martin Mandelker, Ph.D., inventor of the Nuage line of natural skin care products.

Although fresh herbs and rare vegetable oils look great in a salad, they aren't particularly attractive when used on the face.

"I know our scrub looks horrible when it's applied, but unlike make-up, it does a lot more than give you just another pretty face. The natural approach to glamour lets the real you shine through."

Most cleansing scrubs are formulated of alkaline soaps and harsh abrasives.

"It contains no soap, detergent, abrasives or chemicals, but it removes make-up and smooths as well as the other products without scratching or upsetting the naturally acid pH balance of the skin."

Mandelker learned about the use of herbs through years of apprenticeship with Indian herbalists in the Southwest.

"We don't have to add any preservatives to the scrub to prolong its shelf life," he adds with pride. "There are no chemicals in any of our products. Even the herbal scent is natural."

All Nuage products are sold through the home sales approach. For additional information contact Mandelker's wife, Gayle Harper at 2049 Century Park East No. 1800, Los Angeles, CA 90067.

Dear Abby

Sex Survey Results Keep Pouring In

DEAR READERS: TIRED IN LINCOLN, NEB., wrote: "At age 50 and after 30 years of marriage, I would like to forget about sex altogether. I can't believe I'm the only woman who feels this way. Please poll your readers, Abby, and if they're honest, I think you'll find I'm right."

As of today, I have received:
TOTAL RESPONSES:..... 227,606
Agreed with TIRED:..... 114,005
Disagreed:..... 113,601

Called from the mail, some interesting comments:

"TIRED should be grateful her husband is normal. My husband and I, dedicated Christian Scientists, were programmed against "sensuality" (sex). After the birth of our only child, at age 37 my husband wished to return to the celibate life—married, but no sex. I suddenly came to my senses, divorced him, and now I am married to a normal Presbyterian."

ANONYMOUS

"I'm also tired. Tired of living with a slob. I have to nag my husband to shower and use a deodorant. I don't think he knows where his toothbrush is. So if he can live without a toothbrush, I can live without sex."

I'M 53 ... HE'S 58

"TIRED is gonna be surprised when she finds out there's sex after death, 'cause if there isn't, how could it be heaven?"

EVY IN ST. PAUL

"We took a poll at our office. Nine women agreed with TIRED, and six disagreed. (Five out of those six were under 30. What do they know?)"

THE OFFICE GANG IN CHICAGO

"I'll be 85 soon, my husband is 90, and we still make love regularly. This is my second marriage and his third. I wholeheartedly disagree with TIRED. Poor thing. Her husband must be a poor lover."

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

"I'm 69 and my husband is 79, and I have been pretending for years that he satisfies me. He doesn't, but he'd be crushed if he knew, and besides, it takes less than a minute."

FIRST CLASS ACTRESS

"After 35 years of marriage to the same man, I equate sex with any other bodily function—like blowing one's nose. I'm with TIRED."

BORED IN TEXAS

"Just before I was married (at 19), my mom gave me a little pep talk about sex. She said, 'Honey, sex is a man's game, and women aren't supposed to enjoy it, they are just men's playthings. So pretend you're enjoying it and put up with it to make him feel like a man.'

"I said, 'But, Mom, what if I like sex?'"

"She said, 'You're just like your father!'"

ALLENTOWN, PA.

"Tell TIRED IN LINCOLN, NEB., if she's still faking it after 30 years she can send her husband to Milwaukee. I'm 62 and my husband is dead, but I'm not."

WILLING IN WISCONSIN

"So TIRED submits to sex as a favor to her husband. Tell her if she wants to do something 'nice' for the man she loves, to bake him a cake!"

ALASKA LADY, AGE 56

"Thanks for asking for this survey. I thought I was the only 50-year-old woman who was tired of sex. I'm also tired of cooking."

WINNIPEG, CAN.

"I'm 82 and my wife is 80, and after 50 years of marriage, we still enjoy our conjugal relationship. Abby, why are you asking only the women? Please take a survey to poll the men. It will open your eyes, Dearie."

Sock it to moths

Sock it to moths with this tip from the "Reader's Idea Exchange" column in the current Family Circle magazine: Take an old sock—one without a mate—and stuff a few moth balls in the toes and suspend them from hangers in storage closets or garment bags. Not only are the clothes protected from insect damage, but the moth balls don't touch the clothes...so there are no camphor bits left in pockets or linings!

Sensitive nature causes problems

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Mona and I have been going steady for the last two years and we are both almost 18. When we are together we fight most of the time but when we're not, it's beautiful.

We fight about stupid little things and are always threatening to break up but we never do. When I'm with her, I'm usually bored but when we are separated I miss and want her. I've dated other girls without Mona knowing but I always like Mona better.

I'm a sensitive guy which causes some of the problem. Mona thinks I'm moody. I hope you can give me a little help. — Frank, Gothen, Ind.

Frank I think you are already aware of the major problem — your sensitive nature and the fact Mona can't cope with it. It appears to me that Mona is really special to you. Stay with her and the first time you see her every day, say something nice about her. It's contagious.

Overcoming sensitivity is difficult but not impossible. Before you lash out — count to 10 and think!

Dr. Wallace: I disagree with your answer to the girl who was two hours late arriving home from a date and besides that she was drunk. You said that her date had the responsibility to bring her home on time and sober.

I was reared to be responsible for myself. If I was late returning from a date, I was to blame, not my date. I think 16-year-old girls should not hold their dates responsible for anything.

This girl is not mature enough to date if she cannot control her destiny. Girls need to realize in their teens that they must rely on themselves. Maybe then they can be treated as equal with males. — Samantha, Marysville, Calif.

Samantha: I will change my answer to read that both parties are equally responsible.

ble to see that all dating rules are adhered to. This goes for boys as well as girls.

I can see your point (it's a good one) but sometimes the girl has no control over what time she arrives home since she is not driving. Being drunk is a different situation!

Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend and I are both 16 and have been going together for seven months.

My older jealous sister (jealous because she can't get a boy) has lied and told my mother that my boyfriend and I made love and that I'm pregnant. Would you believe that my mom believes her?

I've never made love to my boyfriend. What can I do to make Mother believe me? — Patty, Coos Bay, Ore.

Patty: Fortunately, it won't take long for Mother to realize that you are not pregnant. She will be able to see for herself.

If Mother won't wait, have her take you to your family physician for proof. Mother is in error for her mishandling of this situation.

Carter returns to South

Reagan vows 'bigger pie' for everyone

By the Associated Press
President Carter courted the heart of the old Confederacy and the power of the union today as both he and Republican challenger Ronald Reagan literally made picnics of their Labor Day kickoff for the fall campaign.

Reagan, for his part, promised "a bigger pie, with bigger slices, for everyone." The GOP nominee, whose bandwagon has bogged down recently while venturing into foreign policy, put himself back on the domestic offensive with broadsides aimed at Carter's "litany of despair, of broken promises" for the American worker.

But Reagan, in remarks prepared for a gathering on the shores of New Jersey — and with the Statue of Liberty as his backdrop — also took the occasion to salute "those brave workers in Poland...under Communist domination."

Thus Reagan, who has been severely criticized for his own remarks on China and Vietnam, made it clear to the state's many residents of Eastern European heritage that there will be no repetition of the monumental gaffe by the previous Republican nominee, Gerald R. Ford.

It was Ford, remember, who insisted in a debate with Carter in 1976 that Poland did not suffer Soviet domination. He later retracted the remark, but only after allowing it to fester for some time.

Carter, launching a week-long series of forays outside the White House, made his first stop a return to the Deep South, the bedrock of his 1976 election and a region he almost certainly must hold if he is to win again.

After an afternoon picnic in Tusculum, Ala., an annual affair which attracts visitors from Tennessee and Mississippi as well as several Alabama communities, Carter was headed back to the White House to play host to an outdoor gathering of 1,000 labor leaders.

Though Reagan clearly has cut into the Carter's grip upon the South, most union leaders are returning to the president's fold after many had bolted in favor of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

One, United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser, declared Sunday that "When our membership gets to know and understand Reagan...our membership will support Carter with enthusiasm."

But Reagan, in New Jersey, took his case directly to the blue-collar voter. "Eight million out of work!" he declared. "Inflation running at 18 percent in the first quarter. Black unemployment at about 14 percent...four straight major deficits run up by Carter and his friends in Congress. The highest interest rates since the Civil War...."

"This human tragedy is Jimmy Carter's. He caused it. He tolerates it. And he is going to answer to the American people for it," Reagan said.

Reagan said that in his proposal for a 30 percent tax cut over three years, "we are talking about a way to bring labor and management together for America. We are talking about jobs, and productivity and wages. We are talking about doing away with Jimmy Carter's view of a no-growth policy."

Chicago averts season sweep

Cub talks ball past Morgan

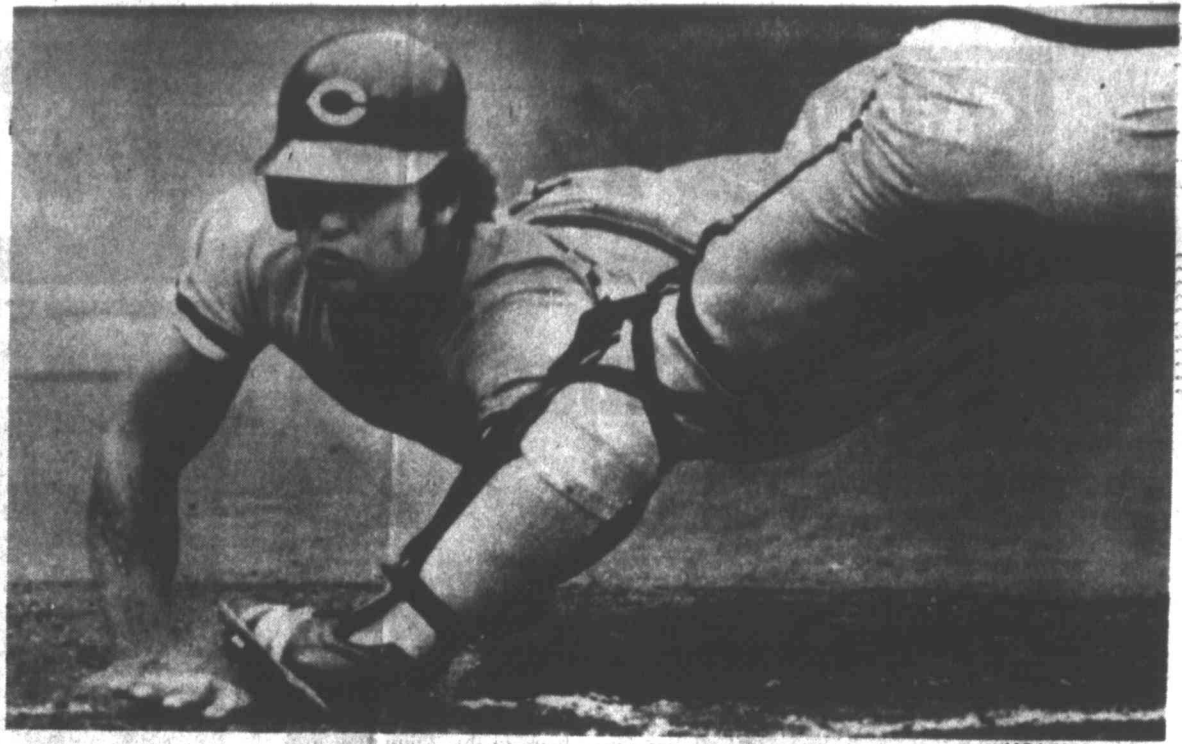

By the Associated Press

Knowing the Chicago Cubs have won only two of 14 extra-inning games, Tim Blackwell did a lot of talking to the ball after he slapped a grounder between first and second in the bottom of the ninth inning Sunday.

There have been two previous season sweeps in the major leagues, both by Baltimore in the American League. The Orioles swept Kansas City 12-0 in 1970 and Oakland 11-0 in 1978.

The Chicago victory also was only the third in the last 17 games between the two teams and stopped Houston's victory string over the Cubs at 13 straight.

In other National League games Sunday, Pittsburgh moved into first place in the East Division despite losing to Cincinnati 5-4; Los Angeles took a pair from Montreal, 2-0 and 7-0; San Francisco crushed the New York Mets twice, 11-4 and 9-4; Atlanta stopped St. Louis 6-2 and San Diego clobbered Philadelphia 10-3.

OESTER GOES IN — Cincinnati Reds' Ron Oester dives headfirst into home plate as Pirates' catcher Ed Ott waits for the throw from cut-off man Tim Foli on a hit to the left field corner by Reds' pitcher Tom Seaver in the fourth inning of Saturday's game in Pittsburgh. The Reds won that game, 5-3, and Sunday's game, 5-4, to sweep the series with Pittsburgh, which has lost seven in a row.

White hits, but Brett doesn't

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Those regarding Frank White as merely the best-fielding second baseman in the American League may have to revise their thinking.

Oh, the Kansas City Royals' second-sacker is still playing up to his Gold Glove reputation — but he's also developing into one of the game's top clutch hitters.

Brett walked twice but was held hitless in three official trips to the plate as his American League-leading batting average dipped three points to .403.

The victory gave Kansas City, which hasn't lost a series since early July, an 11-3 season edge over the Rangers.

Connors advances to fourth round

NEW YORK (AP) — The new Jimmy Connors plays remarkably like the old Jimmy Connors, and in an even year especially, that should strike fear into the rest of the field at the U.S. Open tennis championships.

But Connors warned that if it's to his advantage to get angry on the court, he won't hesitate to throw a tantrum or two. "When it's time to get upset, I'll get upset. Don't worry."

Big Spring Herald SPORTS Monday

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SEPTEMBER 1, 1980

Preseason means plenty of "ifs"

Exhibition games don't count. Everyone knows that. Still, it's got to make you wonder...

Atlanta 51, Baltimore 35; Tampa Bay 11, Washington 6; Seattle 30, New England 23, and Miami 20, New Orleans 0.

Four make finals

Mike Weaver, Don Osborne, Wally Slate and Bob Shaffer have advanced to the finals of the annual Big Spring Country Club Labor Day Golf Tournament.

The winner will be determined in 18 holes of medal play today.

Pooley wins open

ENDING COTT, N.Y. (AP) — Standing on the 18th green at the En-Joe Golf Club, Don Pooley asked Lee Trevino who should put first.

The $49,500 first prize pushed his 1980 winnings near $150,000 — nearly tripling what Pooley had won before.

Texas favored in tonight's battle

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas Coach Fred Akers and Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz feel the earliest Southwest Conference football game in history tonight is to their disadvantage.

Both agree it beats what he had ahead of them.

Two schools. Both Arkansas and Texas will each realize some $200,000 from the ABC Television network.

They were expected as the two bitter rivals collide for the 62nd time. Texas has won 46 games and there have been no ties.

On the light side Super trooper clears road
 METAIRIE, La. (AP) — Motorists on Interstate 10 in this New Orleans suburb braked and gaped at the sight of a trooper casually tossing a two-foot-square chunk of concrete off the highway.
 State police on Sunday got a spate of calls from drivers who had swerved to avoid the obstruction, including one who predicted that police would need a crane to move it.
 Trooper Kip Fellon, the first officer to get there, thought he'd need help with the foot-thick, two-foot-square slab.
 "It looked like concrete — it looked sort of like marble, in fact," he said. "But I pushed it with my foot and it moved real easy, so I just picked it up and threw it over the side."
 It turned out to be styrofoam.
 "Everybody looked at him like they thought he was the Incredible Hulk," said Sgt. Pat Touchard.

Group tries to entice aliens
 ASHFORD, Wash. (AP) — Creatures from outer space may hold the secret to solving the energy crisis, according to the leader of a group that is trying to entice aliens to land here.
 "Space ships have never been seen to land at a gas pump to refuel," said Wayne Aho, president of the New Age Foundation. "We're interested in the alternate forms of energy that they have," he said.
 The foundation plans to build a replica of a flying saucer with a diameter of 60 to 90 feet and set it on the southwest slope of Mount Rainier, which Aho contended is a popular alien landing spot.
 Aho said Sunday his group hopes the saucer will provide a homey feeling for visitors from outer space and encourage landings.
 "We want to give them a clear message that they are welcome to use the facilities," Aho said.

Hunt discusses silver collapse 'Should have unloaded'

DALLAS (AP) — Nelson Bunker Hunt says he and his brother Herbert "should have unloaded" some of their vast holdings in silver late last March instead of letting the market crumble around them.
 Hunt told the Dallas Morning News that the price of silver got too high and he wished now that he had dumped his holdings and had not tried to outlast the vast fluctuations in the precious metal's price.
 The newspaper reported in a copyright article Sunday that Hunt, his brother Herbert and a Hunt-controlled Bermuda-based company had controlled 155 million ounces of silver bullion, futures and forward contracts on Jan. 2 worth more than $5.4 billion.
 The newspaper said the Hunts' personal holdings were equivalent to 36 percent of all the silver consumed and 57 percent of new silver produced by free world countries in 1979.
 "I think at $50 (the Jan. 21 price of silver) the market got too high and it caused a lot of problems," Hunt said in one of his first interviews since March when the price of silver plunged to less than $20 an ounce.

 "On my side," he said, "I wish the market had never gone over $20. That would have been much better. Because, you know, we didn't sell anything, we didn't buy anything."
 "But the fact that it went high caused everybody to start screaming and yelling. So looking back, we should have unloaded some of it."
 The Dallas billionaire said the governors of the nation's commodity exchanges and speculators who disrupted trading and caused market confusion were the culprits in the price collapse.
 He also told the newspaper he may have underestimated the determination of commodity exchange regulators and government agencies to break him and his brother.
 Hunt confirmed reports of a European meeting involving him, New York commodities broker Norton Waltham and some overseas investors suspected by the U.S. government of trying to corner the silver market.
 At the time, Hunt and the foreigners together controlled more than 85 percent of the world's available silver, the newspaper said, prompting federal officials to suspect the Hunts of involvement in a worldwide silver conspiracy.
 Two major commodity exchanges altered their rules because of the Hunts' vast holdings, hoping to choke off the rise in silver prices, the newspaper said.
 Hunt said that dried up the market, left fewer traders willing or able to buy silver and stranded the Hunts with extensive holdings they could not sell.
 When the market collapsed, the Hunts had to float a $1.1 billion loan to help cover their silver investments, but Hunt said public disclosure of that fact did not embarrass him.
 "Now, it didn't bother me none. Actually, there's no secrets in the world anyway," he said. "This is an age of informers we live in. The IRS has got their informers. The FBI have got their informers ... the CIA and so forth. A person is just kidding himself if he thinks he's got any secrets."
 "I talk to people, but I never worry about what they're going to do, or write, or print. I don't care. When you get to this point in life you don't really give a damn. I'm the same way about buying a few silver contracts," he said.
