Clayton attorneys decline examination of FBI agent

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense attorneys, in a stunning and surprising move, today declined any cross-examination of FBI informant Joseph Hauser.

Hauser, the key witness in the Texas Brilab case had been on the stand for more than a week as prosecutors played a score of tapes involving an alleged insurance kickback scheme.

When Hauser finished his testimony today, defense attorneys Roy Minton,

Gerald Goldstein and Ed Mollett, one by one, said "No questions."

The three attorneys refused to give any reason for their action.

One legal advisor to the defense said, however, "The tapes more or less spoke for themselves and didn't really prove anything. There was no need to go back over the conversations and Mr. Hauser has been discredited already."

In the morning testimony, Hauser said he had one last conversation on Nov. 19 with defendant Donald Ray, an Austin attorney, and then 10 days later began serving a 30-month federal prison term on a conviction of insurance bribery and fraud.

On trial with Ray is his law partner, Randall Wood, and Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton.

In the telephone conversation with Ray, Hauser asked the attorney if he needed any money "to operate on, to see some people."

Ray said perhaps "a couple of thousand."

Hauser said, "Would $3,000 be all right?"

Ray said, "Yeah."

Clayton, Texas labor leader L.G. Moore, Wood and Ray were indicted by a federal grand jury June 12 of extortion, racketeering, bribery and conspiracy in an alleged kickback scheme. The government contends Clayton accepted a bribe from Hauser, posing as an insurance executive, in favor of steering a state employee insurance contract to him.

Clayton, Wood and Ray are now on trial in a Houston federal court.

On secret Brilab tapes played Thursday there was a rustle of paper and Hauser counting "one, two, three, four, five" and then saying to Clayton "this is just peanuts."

Clayton said of the $5,000 contribution, "Well let me tell you we appreciate the heck out of it."

The recordings, made by Hauser, are the heart of the government's case against Clayton, a veteran of 20 years in the legislature, six years as speaker, and with hopes of the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1982.

Clayton has insisted the $5,000 was only a campaign contribution, legal in Texas if it is reported to the secretary of state.

The speaker never reported the stack of $100 bills but said there was no need to do that because he planned to return the money at a later date.

Hauser, posing as a representative of a large insurance company, asked the speaker's help in reopening bids on the $76 million-a-year state employee health and welfare insurance contract.

The Hauser tapes had Moore saying, "We want to make a contribution to your campaign. If that creates a problem for us under this type of circumstances, we don't want to do it."

Clayton said, "Let's get this thing and try to take care of it first ... and then, then let's think about that because if we do something now and then we start raising hell about this (the current insurance contract), you know how the damn press is."

Kansas firm will locate manufacturing plant here

Formal contracts for the expansion of Round-Up Tank Inc., of Hillsboro, Kansas, to Howard County were signed in the law offices of R.H. Weaver and John Ferguson here Thursday.

The firm, which expects to employ from 15 to 17 people initially, manufactures fiberglass tanks for use in the oil fields.

Round-Up was attracted to Big Spring, according to its president, Jim Thurston, by the city's proximity to the vast Permian Basin oil fields.

Round-Up was attracted to Big Spring, according to its president, Jim Thurston, by the city's proximity to the vast Permian Basin oil fields.

Putt Fleming, a native Texan, will be the manager here for Round-Up.

The Industrial Club of Big Spring negotiated the arrangement with Jim and Jo Ann Thurston. The local plant will be located in what was the old D.L. Dorland Hangar at the former Howard County Airport northeast of Big Spring.

Winston Wrinkle, president of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, signed the papers on behalf of the local group.

The contract is, in effect, a lease-purchase agreement in that Round-Up Tank can exercise an option to buy the building outright.

In round figures, the Industrial Foundation will spend $160,000 to enlarge the building Round-Up will be occupying. That does not include the cost of the equipment which will go into the building.

Round-Up started out manufacturing farm equipment like gate posts and custom-steel fabric buildings in the early 1970s and expanded by fabricating steel tanks in 1975. Round-Up acquired a second building in Hillsboro in 1978 and began the manufacture of its highly successful fiberglass tanks, which offer maximum resistance to corrosion.

Fleming, who now resides in Wichita Falls, will shortly be moving his family here. His wife's name is Linda.

They have three children: a daughter, Nicki, age 12; and two sons, Tracy, 6, and Rip, 2.

Joe Ward, a resident of Electra, will move here to become production manager. He is scheduled to arrive by the end of next week. He was recruited from another company.

By mid-spring, according to Fleming, Round-Up should be functioning with a work force of 25 to 30 people. Round-Up will likely work two shifts in its local operation, according to Fleming. The firm will initially turn out two tanks a day and ultimately will have a capability of eight tanks a day.

The fiberglass concept in oil field tanks is revolutionary, according to Fleming, who said Thursday, "We don't sacrifice quality for price."

Fleming also said that Round-Up was a growth firm with great potential for expanding its operation in West Texas.

CONTRACT COMPLETED — Winston Wrinkle, president of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, attaches his signature to a contract that, in effect, adds Round-Up Tank Inc., to Howard County's list of industries. Round-Up will occupy a building being prepared by the Industrial Foundation at the old Howard County Airport. Putt Fleming, who will manage the new firm, stands directly behind Wrinkle. Others pictured are members of the I.F. Sidney Clark is seated at the left. Standing, from the left, are Jim Bill Little, Clyde McMahon Sr., Fleming and Leroy Tillery, manager of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Reagan rejects one-on-one debate with President Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan has once again rejected a chance to debate President Carter, but this time he's turned down the League of Women Voters — the very organization whose sponsorship he embraced the first time around.

After repeatedly chiding Carter for ducking what then turned out to be a two-man contest between himself and independent John B. Anderson, Reagan declined Thursday night a league proposal for two more presidential debates, one pitting him solely against Carter and the last also to include Anderson.

Carter had quickly accepted the proposal, an apparent attempt by the league to compromise between Carter's insistence that he meet Reagan alone and Reagan's desire to bring Anderson onto any platform shared by the president.

The league specifically invited Reagan and Carter to meet one another the week of Oct. 12 in Portland, Ore., and then to wind up the series with a three-way debate to include Anderson in Cleveland during the week of Oct. 26.

But Reagan, who was himself in Portland Thursday night, declared he wouldn't agree to any proposal "for a series of presidential debates that would preclude John Anderson" from full participation.

A Reagan spokesman indicated also that the Republican nominee probably wouldn't allow his running mate, George Bush, to accept the league's companion proposal for a three-way debate among running mates in Louisville, Ky., next Thursday. Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Patrick Lucey, John B. Anderson's No. 2 man, agreed to that plan.

Reagan's press secretary, Lyn Nofziger, said he doubted that Bush would participate "unless there are presidential debates. I don't think that's satisfactory."

Carter, speaking at a White House reception in honor of the Congressional Black Caucus, called the head-on meeting with Reagan "essential."

Rain falling at near record-setting pace

September 1980 has now taken its place as the fourth soggiest month in the history of Howard County's rainfall records.

A total of 1.10 inches of moisture had fallen in gauges maintained by the U.S. Experiment Station here during the 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m., today, and the rain continued to pepper down after 10 a.m.

The month's official total currently stands at 10.18 inches.

On only three other occasions has rainfall exceeded ten inches during any one month here. The all-time record was set in July 1902, when the total fall was 12.89 inches. In October 1907, measurements totaling 11.87 were recorded while 10.52 inches fell during September 1936.

The year's tall here through 8 a.m., today amounted to 23.27 inches. There have been only 15 wetter years in recorded history than 1980, and more than three months of the year remains.

This has been a most unusual year for rainfall in this part of West Texas, in that it consistently has rained more in Big Spring proper than in surrounding areas. However, the showers which occurred Thursday and through the night have been classified as "general" and saturated most areas.

Some farmers are grumbling about an over-abundance of rain. They say they need hot weather to salvage what is left of their cotton crop and are afraid they won't get enough of it before the cold weather moves in.

Bill Cregar, who keeps a rain gauge at Elbow, located six miles southwest of town, said the measurement at his place at 8 a.m., today was 1.4 inches.

Clay Bedell, who resides at 625 State Street in Big Spring, reported his gauge showed 1.6 inches this morning.

Ray Walker, who lives 10 miles north of Big Spring, reported 2.2 inches of rain that began to fall at 5:30 p.m., Thursday.

To the east, Coahoma school gauges caught 2 inches of moisture that began falling off and on at 5 p.m. Thursday, then began in earnest at 9 p.m.

Forsan schools report two inches of the wet stuff trapped between 7:30 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m. today.

"We're just flooded out here at Lomax," reported a woman at the Ray Russel place there. She said phones were out and residents were having trouble getting in and out of their homes. Rainfall there was 1.6 inches.

Iran, Iraq moving toward mediation in border conflict

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq claimed today the fall of Iran's burning oil refinery city of Abadan was imminent while both countries appeared moving toward mediation of their border conflict. The two Persian Gulf oil giants dueling with heavy artillery across their border waterway on the fifth day of the war, setting off fires in oil installations on both sides.

Both countries have indicated they will accept Islamic mediation, according to Pakistani Foreign Minister Aga Shahi, a key figure in the 40-member Islamic Conference of Nations. He spoke with reporters in New York in advance of a meeting of U.N. delegates who also are members of the Islamic conference.

Baghdad radio broadcast a statement by Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoun Hammadeh saying Iraq would "welcome any discussion" to end the fighting but warning that "any assistance offered to the Iranian regime, especially in the field of spare parts, will be considered an act of aggression against Iraq's security."

There have been reports, denied by Washington, that Iran might seek spare parts for its American-made planes in exchange for release of the 52 Americans it has held hostage since Nov. 4.

Iran reported "very heavy" civilian casualties in Abadan and Khorramshahr, two major ports on the Shatt al-Arab waterway. Tehran radio quoted Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr as denying Iraq's claim that it had captured Khorramshahr. It said he visited the front Thursday and went within four miles of Khorramshahr.

Tehran radio said "the brave people" of Khorramshahr had set up defenses on all sides of the city and were fighting in the streets and on the rooftops.

The Iraqi military said earlier Iraqi forces had captured Khorramshahr and were closing in on Ahwaz, the capital of Iran's oil-rich Khuzestan Province 70 miles to the north.

State Rep. elect Shaw, Brazel set pace for Howard delegates

Rep. Jones predicts win in Demo chairman's race

By WALT FINLEY
Howard County Democratic delegates, headquartered in Houston's Shamrock Hotel with other 30th Senatorial District Democrats, found themselves in the midst of a hot battle over the party's next state chairman.

Leaders of the local delegation include State Rep. elect Larry Don Shaw and his father Larry Shaw, Knott farmer and veteran "war horse" D.A. Brazel. County Chairman Cecil Riordan is not attending the second state convention.

And there was still discontent among some Mexican-Americans because a black has been vice-chairman for the past eight years, although the browns have the party's largest minority.

"I think I'm going to win but it's going to be in a runoff," Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, said today about the chairman's race.

"It's not going to be a runaway but I think I will win with about 2,000 votes," said Sherman attorney Bob Slagle, the other top candidate to succeed current chairman Billy Goldberg of Houston.

The third contender, who may spoil a first ballot victory for either Jones or Slagle, is Travis County Commissioner David Samuelson, who says he represents the Mod-Con Caucus of moderate-conservative and the American Agriculture Movement.

"I'm hoping that Samuelson's people will vote for me on a second ballot," said Jones.

Jones has the backing of former Attorney General John Hill, a probable candidate for governor in 1982. He also is supported by Comptroller Bob Bullock and some Latin-American groups.

Slagle, who reportedly has the backing of National Democratic Chairman John White, also a probable gubernatorial candidate in 1982, has been endorsed by the board of the Texas AFL-CIO, plus some black organizations.

Slagle and Jones each had hospitality rooms at the convention, making last minute efforts to win support from the 3,900 delegates before the Saturday morning vote.

The convention rules committee, which meets early Saturday, before the last session of the convention begins, will consider a proposal to create two vice chairman posts in order to satisfy both the blacks and browns.

The current vice chairman, Deralyn Davis of Fort Worth, a black, is seeking reelection and is opposed by Margaret Gomez of Austin. The convention opens this afternoon with Bob Strauss, national chairman of the President Jimmy Carter's campaign, as keynote speaker. The convention continues Saturday with election of a new party chairman and vice chairman and the 64 members of the committee.

"The war is with the Republicans, but the first battle will take place on the 27th when, by our choice for party chair, we decide whether it will be "business as usual" for the next two years and beyond," Jones said in a letter to the delegates.

"The war is with the Republicans, but the first battle will take place on the 27th when, by our choice for party chair, we decide whether it will be "business as usual" for the next two years and beyond," Jones said in a letter to the delegates.

Slagle sent another message to delegates saying "the party in the past has relied too heavily upon large contributors...as we have opened our party to decision-making by all its members, so the responsibilities for funding the party belongs to all its members."

Slagle wants individual Democrats to pledge $5 to $25 through a monthly bank draft system to support the party.

In a letter to delegates and alternates, Goldberg wrote: "This convention has been traditionally billed as the 'Governor's Convention,' and was originally designed to bring the Governor and his top supporters together to allow them time to organize not only the Party structure, but the election strategy as well.

"This strategy, in past years, has heavily relied on the power of the incumbent Governor to carry the ticket; we no longer have a Governor, incumbent or otherwise. For that reason, the task of organizing Campaign '80 is more critical today than it would have been in years past. We intend to spend more time at work — at organizational strategy planning — than ever before.

"In addition to electing Party officers and members of the State Democratic Executive Committee, the role of every Democrat involved in the election process will be discussed and planned. You and the other activists at the Convention will be heavily relied on by the Carter-Mondale Campaign and the Texas Democratic Party to carry the state in November. We have lots of work to do.

"To give us more time to consider the 'victory plan,' I suggest that Resolutions submitted at the June Convention not be reconsidered in Houston; because the participants are essentially the same, it seems highly unlikely to me that action by the June Convention would be reversed by the September Convention. Also, after careful review of the goals expressed in the 1978 Platform, and in light of the stagnated progress under the Republican administration in Texas, I believe that we should reaffirm the 1978 Platform.

"Houston is a great city with many wonderful characteristics, but it has some awesome problems as well. One of those is transportation; it can be both difficult and time consuming.

"At the close of the Friday night session, there will be a reception in honor of the outgoing members of the State Democratic Executive Committee and the 1980 Democratic nominees. The reception will be free of cost, and will be held on the floor of the Hofheinz Pavilion. This reception will provide us with an excellent opportunity to visit with the candidates and also to offer our appreciation to the Committee members who have worked so hard for the Party during the last two years.

"On Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. there will be a fund-raising breakfast honoring Ambassador Bob Strauss, Chairman of the Carter-Mondale Re-election Committee. Tickets to the breakfast are one hundred dollars per person; Ambassador Strauss will give an overview of the campaign nationally as well as in Texas. Funds raised at the breakfast will go to the Texas Democratic Party for campaign efforts through October. If you are unable to afford a $100 breakfast any help you can give in selling tickets will be greatly appreciated."

"P.S. Clements has pledged that the Texas Republican Party will spend $2.5 million; your $10.00 contribution toward convention expenses will go a long way in helping us build a fund for our campaign."

And away we go with Walt's "hot shots:"

Does the "Moral Majority" mean that everybody else is the immoral minority?

Ronald Reagan's advisors are trying to erase the image he recently acquired of a bull in a China shop.

(Ronnie learned a lesson about China he was taught as a child: Fragile, do not touch.)

A candidate for office filed a libel suit against another candidate because he called the first man a Democrat.

This, said the plaintiff, is worse than being called a crook.

If he'll just wait a minute, I'm sure the defendant will get around to that, too.

Diehards, such as Gov. Bill Clements and former Gov.

John Connally may as well stop kidding themselves. There's absolutely no way for Ronald Reagan to bring back the Panama Canal.

Reagan declares in his TV commercials "Now it's time to say, 'Enough!'" But then he keeps on talking.

Isn't there some way to stop all the arguing over campaign debates? The only interesting one we can think of would be a debate between Jimmy Carter and County Commissioner Bill Crooker.

One reason voters are turned off by the primaries is the absence of expensive State Questions on the ballot. What fun is it if there's no way to vote NO?

The Texas political conventions will be over Saturday, and we can get on with the serious matters of our time, such as drawing up winning plays for the Big Spring Steers and the Dallas Cowboys.

Democrats will continue to picture Reagan as a fear-some fiend. If he loses the election he can always go back to the movies — in horror films.

The campaign is hardly started, but in the Democratic view, Reagan already makes Frankenstein's monster look like the Good Samaritan.

In New York, Okie Gov. George Nigh took a part in a soap opera being filmed for television. No, it wasn't the thriller entitled "The Nomination of Jimmy Who."

The TV show with the governor in the cast deals with basic emotions — ambition, anxiety, frustration, joy and despair...the very feelings Nigh and Texas Gov. Bill Clements know in their own soap operas, the legislative sessions.

The extra bodices are returning to Texas now and putting on their mourning clothes again.

'Society is burning'

Conservatives speak out at rally

By DON WOODS

A veritable smorgasbord of conservative viewpoints was expressed at a Pro-American Rally sponsored by the Eagle Forum here Thursday night. A crowd estimated at about 50 attended.

State Rep. Mike Ezzell joined nine other speakers for the religiously-oriented program, assuring listeners that he was not of the common breed in politics and was a believer in the "Word of God."

Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel served as a one-man welcoming committee. Angel referred to himself as a "conservative thinker" and voter.

"I'm a conservative, just born conservative," he said to the crowd gathered at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

"Everyone in the world is religious, everyone in the world is moral," said the Rev. Dan Wennerlind, pastor Big Spring Bible Church, in an attack on the "Myth of Neutrality."

"We are not neutral. Let's stop acting like we are," he said. "Jesus Christ was the most biased and most narrow-minded person that ever lived when He said, 'I am the way, the truth and the life,'" said Wennerlind.

On the abortion issue that was cited often during the meeting, Wennerlind said that pro-abortionists claim to be pro-choice, disregarding rights of the unborn and the father, and "giving a person the choice of murder," he said.

"Society is burning. What are the churches doing? Most of them are in the prayer meeting," he claimed.

"The Bible says that Christians shouldn't be involved in politics. The statement of the Bible from cover to cover is this, 'How can you not be involved in politics?'" he said. Bible characters were persecuted by governments through history because they were a threat to the governments, he said.

"Humanists are slaughtering people before we can save them," he said. "It's always open season on unborn babies." The most basic right is the right to life, he said, elevating the importance of the issue above economics or others.

Ezzell encouraged voters to take a stand in the polls on nine proposed amendments from the most recent state legislative session. He claimed an important issue would be the authorization of bingo games for charitable organizations.

Another would allow unmanned tellers in a statewide banking system. Tellers would exist in areas remote from the central bank and unattended.

Two amendments would give the governor of the state more power, said Ezzell. They are the powers to remove officers that he appointed and budgetary execution powers.

The Rev. Phil Thurmond, Christ Fellowship Center pastor, said "God's voice has been heard" but the nation "is not answering to his authority."

Thurmond demanded with a raised voice a return to a pro-family stand. "We need to do something about it. Amen?" he asked.

"It all comes back to our homes," he said. Some teaching in the public school system is "not fit to be heard," he said. Thurmond declined to endorse a candidate.

Donna Lee, Howard County Women Democrats chairwoman, represented the Democratic party at the rally. Eagle Forum President Nelda Reagan said Mrs. Lee was invited to support Eagle Forum's claim to non-partisanship.

Many Democrats disagree with party stances and need to get involved in the party to make changes, she said.

Midland Republican Party chairman David Gotfried outlined the party platform and criticized President Carter's record.

Gotfried said the platform contained a "right to life" plank, windfall profit tax phase out and conversion to coal, a "strong peace" with the Soviets, openness to allies Canada, Mexico and South Korea, death penalty to certain criminals, no national health insurance and care for poor and aged through Medicare and Medicaid.

He said a Republican administration would support building of the MX missile and manned strategic bomber.

He claimed the Republican party has become "the party of the people." While Democrats have become the big business party.

The Rev. Bob McLeod, First Church of God pastor, said, "We need strong families today more than we ever did in the history of the world." He accused the media of "pushing acceptability of homosexual rights and loose sexual morals."

"Find the record, pray, and vote," he exhorted.

The Rev. Bernard Gulley, Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church pastor, said that locals shouldn't be surprised at unconventional behavior by some people along Gregg St., if adults show disrespect for human life by supporting abortion.

Pro-choice persons who say they aren't sure if the fetus is a person are like hunters who shoot at movement in the brush and kill another hunter, argued Gulley.

The Rev. Pat Githens, Faith Baptist Church pastor, said issues thought of as religious originally, are now thought of as political and Christians should again be involved in the issues. They have "stuck their heads in the sand" too long, he said.

Digest

Anti-nukes sponsor meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-nuclear activists are sponsoring a conference for physicians and scientists here to examine the medical consequences of a nuclear war.

"In medicine, if you have an incurable disease the only way to stop it is to prevent it, and we see nuclear war as the ultimate epidemic," said Dr. Helen Caldicott, a pediatrician and president of a group called Physicians for Social Responsibility.

Among the speakers scheduled to appear at the Saturday conference are Cyrus Vance, former secretary of state, and Paul Warnke, former chief arms-control negotiator for the United States.

Federal study insufficient

CARSON CITY, Nevada (AP) — A $4 million federal study on the effects of nuclear weapons testing in Utah, Nevada and Arizona is "totally insufficient," according to Nevada Gov. Bob List.

The three states had proposed that nearly $20 million be spent on the study to encompass activity in the 1950s and 1960s.

"The federal government was responsible for the testing, which has had potentially harmful after-effects on generations of Nevada, Utah and Arizona residents," List said Wednesday. "The message seems to be that it's OK to explode in Nevada, but let's not explore the results."

Movie suit dismissed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed a $20 billion suit against the producers of "Death of a Princess" which claimed that the controversial movie about the execution of a Saudi Arabian princess defamed Moslems.

U.S. District Judge Robert Aguilar said Thursday that the suit, brought by two attorneys on behalf of 600 million Moslems worldwide, bordered on the "frivolous."

Lake Spence is gulping more water today

Lake E.V. Spence, one of the two reservoirs maintained by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, had caught 10,000 acre feet of water from rains this week and likely will trap an additional 8,000 to 10,000 acre feet, according to Owen Ivie, general manager of the water district.

That means the lake could have added as much as three vertical feet from the water coursing down the watershed. If the predicted rise holds true, Lake Spence will have added as much as 12 vertical feet of water in September alone.

It has been predicted that Spence will contain 168,000 acre feet by the time the runoff ceases from rains which fell through this morning. That would leave it only 1.9 vertical feet below its record high. Lake Spence is capable of holding 488,000 acre feet of water, so it is still a long way from being full.

Lake Thomas, the other CRMWD reservoir, has caught 2,000 acre feet from rains this week and Ivie held out hopes that it would receive another 4,000 acre feet. Capable of holding 200,000 acre feet of water, it should contain at least 34,000 acre feet before the runoff ends. That is more water than the basin has held since June 1977.

Reportedly, it was still raining on the watersheds of both lakes late this morning.

Dandy start for Pack 305

Cub Pack 305, sponsored by the First Baptist Church, is off to a good start for the ensuing year. Approximately 45 boys were registered at the pack meeting held Tuesday at the church's activities building. Most of the lads are from the Marcy and College Heights school areas.

Glenn Pierce, Cubmaster, introduced the deal mothers: Den 1 — Doris Vierregghe, 1400 Runnels, assisted by Joyce Arnesaux, 902 E. 14th; Den 2, Jannie Reed, 2900 W. 7th; Den 3 (Mrs. Reed temporarily serving this den also); Den 4 — Anne Fritzier, 4010 Vicky. Also assisting with other dens will be Diane Keys, 538 Westover, and Sharol Oliver, 2506 Fairchild. Pierce is doubling as Webelos leader (boys 10 years old preparing to enter Scouting) until a new leader is obtained.

Boys met briefly with den mothers to whom they were assigned, and meetings begin next week. Next pack meeting is set for Oct. 25 when a large number of awards will be made. Around 80 people attended the meeting.

Police Beat Police busy with mishaps

If it hadn't been for auto accidents, local police could just about have taken the day off Thursday.

Gary Jones, 12, 1212 E. 19th, reported that thieves had stolen his bicycle from its parking place at Goliad School, Thursday afternoon. The bike was valued at $120.

A Nolan Street resident received what evolved into an obscene phone call, 5:30 a.m. Thursday. According to reports, the caller reached the local woman by dialing a wrong number. When he found out it was a wrong number, he became abusive to the woman and her husband, who threatened to call police just before the mysterious caller hung up.

When an accident at 600 Lamesa finally ran its course, 3:15 p.m. Thursday, six cars had been involved. According to reports, a pickup driven by James Davenport, 308 Ayford, was westbound on Lamesa Drive when a car driven north on Lamesa by David Brumley, Gall Route, collided with the pickup.

The collision forced the pickup to spin and hit a car driven by Richard Gamboa, Sterling City Route. The Brumley car continued forward and hit a parked car belonging to Stanley Partee, 3312 Cornell, and two parked cars belonging to A-1 Auto Sales, 610 Lamesa.

No one was seriously injured in the accident.

Six other mishaps were reported Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Opel Abernathy, 1609 Sycamore, and Frances Williamson, 3235 S. Cornell, collided at 13th and Settles, 3:20 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Mary Miller, 1106 E. 15th, and Brenda Randall, 2402 Alabama, collided at 1106 E. 15th, 4:53 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Otilio Melendez, 1005 N. Main, and Jettie Moore, 425 Ryan, collided on the 1500 block of Gregg, 5:03 p.m.

We owe a lot to railroad industry

Most of us are going all out to bring new industry to the community. New industry, of course, means new jobs, which put fresh money into the economy.

By the same token, all of us are prone to take the industries that are already here for granted. Those industries which have been here for years are the backbone of our community.

Most everyone is acutely aware of the contribution Cosden makes toward our economy, both in providing jobs, producing the raw materials that enable satellite industries to prosper and providing the kind of vigorous leadership the city so desperately needs.

PERHAPS ONE industry we're all prone to overlook is the Missouri Pacific Railroad, one of the county's larger taxpayers. West Texas was sparsely populated before the Texas and Pacific Railway began to put down its rails in the late 1800s. As a matter of fact, one of the missions of Capt. R.B. Marcy in 1849 was to disprove the theory that the West was a desert where the white man could not coexist with nature.

Assets of the T & P were, in time, acquired by the St. Louis-based Missouri Pacific Railroad. Big Spring has been a terminal point for the railroad almost from the time it arrived in town.

The railroad not only invested heavily in physical assets since its arrival here but has paid out untold millions of dollars in salaries to people who have sunk their roots here, bought property and promoted the image of the community.

Texas itself should feel eternally grateful for the services provided by the railroads, for the investments it has made within the state, for the encouragement they offer to other industries to locate within the Lone Star State.

The state ranks fifth in the nation in terms of the number of people employed by the railroad industry, according to the American Railroad Foundation (ARF).

In all, there are 29,900 railroad employees with an annual payroll of $619.3 million. Together, they generate $12.3 billion in state and local income tax, according to Warren Fox, chairman of the ARF.

ADDITIONALLY, TAXES levied on railroad property in Texas equal the annual cost of educating 9,098 public school children. These figures serve to show the magnitude of the railroad industry's contribution to the state's economy.

Railroad supply companies located in the state employ an additional 650 Texas residents, bringing the total rail-related employment in the state to more than 30,000. Nationally, the rail industry employs approximately a million people.

The state ranks first in the nation with its freight railroad mileage of 12,924, according to the ARF. Key classes of manufactured products shipped are food and kindred products; pulp, paper and allied products; primary metal products; and chemical and allied products.

Without the railroads, this part of the world would likely still be quite primitive. One might say they 'civilized' what had been a raw frontier.

Hispanic shift

Joseph Kraft

SAN ANTONIO — Jimmy Carter won 87 percent of the Hispanic vote here in Texas four years ago, and barely carried the state. With a Republican governor building party strength in the big cities and suburbs, Carter has to do even better with the Hispanics to win Texas this year.

But a visit to San Antonio, and a trip through the Rio Grande Valley with Ronald Reagan, suggests that the Democratic mission here is almost impossible. The Hispanics are on the move in just the ways that have caused so many other ethnic blocs to part company with the Democrats.

THE GREAT MAJORITY of the Mexican-Americans in Texas, to be sure, work as farm labor in the Valley, or at low-paying jobs around the barrio on the west side of San Antonio. Virtually every amenity of life in the barrio — paved streets, flood control, running water, housing projects, and the new high school — stem from federal aid programs.

Not surprisingly, most Hispanics here tend to identify improvement of their lot with the Democratic Party which sponsored those programs. "We became Democrats," one Mexican-American put it to me, "in the same way we became Catholics."

But the man who made that remark is Ed Prado, an articulate 32-year-old lawyer who was named to a vacant judgeship by Gov. William Clements. Now Judge Prado is running for the job on the Republican ticket, and he introduced Ronald Reagan when the governor spoke in San Antonio the other day. Everybody, including Prado, understands that his name was put on the ballot as a magnet for Hispanic votes. But Prado shrugs his shoulders, and asks what's wrong with putting the Republicans in debt to the Hispanic community. "The Democrats tend to take us for granted, and the time may come when the Republicans can do us some good."

A friend of his, and the man who guided me through the barrio, is an attractive 34-year-old urban economist — Councilman Henry Cisneros — who is widely touted as a likely candidate to be first Hispanic mayor of San Antonio. Cisneros believes the city is on the verge of a great future. The trick is to plug the Hispanic community into the mainstream of Sun Belt expansion. So Cisneros has been working to bring new industry (Control Data and Levi Strauss, for example) and higher education (in particular a graduate engineering school) to the city.

Development, according to Cisneros, can only work for the Hispanic community if it is associated with social purposes. He identifies these with the Democrats, so he backs Carter, but with reservations, and some doubts.

A CITY COUNCILMAN who supports Carter strongly is Bernardo Eustace, a former backer of Sen. Edward Kennedy. Councilman Eustace has rallied to the president, and is pushing his cause by stressing hard the issues of economic deprivation and racial discrimination.

But that approach puts off older Hispanic leaders who are used to making only modest demands of the Anglos. Moreover, there are some Hispanics who are clearly beginning to prosper in small business. Luis De Larosa, a 40-year-old realtor in Harlingen, a county seat in the Valley, is an example. He cast his first vote for John Kennedy in 1960, and was a member of the local Carter committee in 1976. He has done well since then, in part because the Valley has become a popular vacation spot.

Medicine requires round education

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 15 years old and would like very much to be a doctor. I was wondering if you could give me any information on books I should read that will help to prepare me when I get to college. I have tried a few times to read "Gray's Anatomy," but have failed to complete it because of words I can't even pronounce, or know the meaning of. Are there any books I could read and be able to understand? Do you think it would be a good idea for me to do volunteer work at the hospital? — Miss C.K.

The best way to prepare for medical school is to get as rounded an education as you can. Even though it is wise to expose yourself to biology, chemistry, physics and mathematics, do not limit yourself to scientific courses. Skills in communication and writing clearly are important. Your letter certainly indicates you are far along in that area. Learning to speak effectively is also important. A knowledge of literature, history and the social sciences will be invaluable to you. Learning to be an independent thinker and a logical organizer are musts.

I wouldn't try to learn from medical texts now. You can do that in medical school. Learn subjects now that you will not be exposed to in medical school.

Volunteer work in a hospital is another great idea. I am sure it will whet your interest in medicine further. See if you can't get a job involved with patient care — delivering mail, transporting patients. Good luck to you. You'll probably be writing me in a few years to correct a statement I make.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Please help me. I have been eating the frost from the freezer and crave the taste. While making a cheery pie I happened to taste the corn starch and am now eating both. I just can't keep from it, the craving is so strong. I have had this problem several times during my life. I am 45. Could I be lacking a vitamin? One time, several years ago, I ate dirt. I hope you can tell me why a person would do this. — Mrs. H.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What does one lack when she or he wants to eat detergent or chalk? I'm really scared.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am only 11. Help — T.V. Some strange cravings, indeed. Any such craving is pica. There are names given to different tastes — starch, amylophagia; ice, pagophagia; earth or clay, geophagia. Pica sometimes represents an iron deficiency anemia, and in one parasitic disease (visceral leishmaniasis) pica is a rare symptom. Some nervous children develop such habits, and psychological factors lie in the background in some other cases. To find out what is inducing pica, begin with a complete physical examination.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What is the difference between gout and arthritis? — E.B.

To be medically precise, none. Arthritis is inflammation of the joints, and gout is a particular form of joint inflammation. The only difference between gout and other forms of arthritis — rheumatoid, osteo, etc. — is that we do know a good deal more about effective treatment of gout, since doctors can identify the substance (crystals) causing it. There are medicines to interrupt the crystal formation and prevent attacks.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it good to be drinking alcohol when you are on a pill called phenobarbital? I have a boyfriend I care for very much, and I have been trying to tell him that he shouldn't be. He will not listen, so if you will write in your column about it I will cut it out and send it to him. — L.J.

The combination of barbiturates, such as phenobarbital, and alcohol is not a very good one. Both depress brain activity. Thus, a dose of either one, which might of itself be harm-

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I have been married for 10 months and it has been very rocky for us. Now I find myself attracted to a married man who really seems to understand me. Why would it be wrong for me to get a divorce and marry my new friend? — Mrs. A.A.

DEAR MRS. A.A.: It would be wrong because it would be against God's will. You took a vow when you were married, that you and your husband would be faithful to each other as long as life lasted. God takes that vow very seriously, and so should you.

You may wonder why God takes the vow of marriage so seriously, and why he has forbidden divorce except in the most extreme circumstances. There are several reasons for this — including the fact that a society which takes marriage and the family casually will soon disintegrate. But another reason is because God loves us, and wants what is best for us. He knows that what you are proposing to do will only hurt you (and many others as well) in the long run. For example, if you should divorce and remarry this man you would not only break up your own marriage but his as well. And do you think you would really be happy and secure? If your new husband were willing to break up a family once, what reason do you have to believe he won't do the same thing to you?

God wants to make your marriage a happy one, and will help you do this if you will give him a chance. Right now you and your husband have left God out of your marriage, and you have done this because you have left him out of your lives. God commands you to be faithful to each other. "Marriage should be honored by all, and the marriage bed kept pure, for God will judge the adulterers and all the sexually immoral" (Hebrews 13:4). But more than that, He wants you to give your lives to him. Let Christ into your lives, and let him rule and guide your marriage. Don't make a tragic mistake for which you will be sorry later, and which may even harden you toward God. Turn your lives and your marriage over to Christ.

WASHINGTON — Ray Sena is a glib, dedicated man. A little over a year ago, he was fired by Rockwell International after 24 years with the company.

Sena says he was fired because he refused to falsify expenses on Rockwell contracts with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "I refused to participate in this 'Aero-spaces-cam' and now I'm paying the price for being an honest man," he said.

SENAs LONELY battle against the aerospace conglomerate has borne fruit. His charges that Rockwell mis-handled nearly $500 million of taxpayers' money have resulted in investigations by the FBI, NASA's inspector general, the Defense Contract Audit Agency and Rockwell's own internal security division. The results of the FBI probe will be handed over to U.S. attorneys in California for possible criminal or civil prosecution.

Sources in California and Washington showed my reporters Carol O'Connor and Eric Yoder confidential documents that support Sena's charges of high-level chicanery at Rockwell.

The documents indicate that since 1977 top Rockwell executives ordered that certain expenses of an Air Force contract be charged to a NASA space-shuttle project. The reason for the illegal juggling act was that the Air Force contract was a fixed price, while the NASA contract was on a cost-plus basis. Thus any cost overruns on the Air Force contract would have to be swallowed by the company, while extravagance on the NASA contract would be paid by Uncle Sam.

HOWEVER THAT particular bit of corporate sleight-of-hand is resolved, the investigations sparked by Sena's charges have produced a spinoff of still-secret revelations about Rockwell's cavalier attitude toward government contracts. To Rockwell, apparently, "cost-plus" translates into "anything goes."

Because the project was moved from California to Florida before installation of heat-resistant tiles was completed, the company has about 600 employees working around the clock, and collecting overtime pay, to finish the tile work. They are also getting $45 per day in benefits.

One employee was reimbursed by the company — and ultimately the taxpayers — for transporting his live-in girlfriend and her two dogs from California to Florida and back again. He also was allowed $1,200 a month to rent a beach cottage in Florida, $250 a month to hire someone to look after his house in California and $550 a month for rental of two cars.

One employee's wife made a Florida-California round trip at company expense, charged off to NASA, to take her master's degree examination.

Two Rockwell employees made a seven-day visit to London and Paris to see "Moonraker," a James Bond space movie. They took the trip to London ostensibly to "do an in-depth analysis and evaluation of certain

Around the rim

James Werrell

What exactly is a soap opera anyway?

I had never seen one all the way through, having caught only glimpses as I switched the channel to "Green Acres" or "Password" or something. But I had heard that a lot of people, women mostly, like them, and I wanted to learn more.

Tuning in on my first daytime drama, I was immediately able to make a comparative observation. This most certainly is not Shakespeare, I said to myself.

TAKE, FOR EXAMPLE, the following excerpt from Shakespeare's "Hamlet": Hamlet—There's never a villain dwelling in all Denmark, but he's an arrant knave.

Horatio — There needs no ghost, my lord, come from the grave to tell us this.

Now, compare that to the following dialogue from "The Guiding Light":

Man — Did you get those birth control pills because you were involved with someone else?

Woman — Yes! Kelly! He says what he wants, and he gets what he wants!

See, almost no similarities whatsoever. It also doesn't take long to surmise that the acting in daytime dramas is not exactly up to Shakespearean caliber either. The following is a list of famous Shakespearean actors mixed up with some of the better-known soap opera stars. Can you tell which is which?: Sir Laurence Olivier, Dame Edith Evans, Erika Slezak, Sir John Gielgud, Michael Storm, Nikki Gould, Dame May Whitty, Lenore Kasdorf.

No problem, right? I hope I'm not being unfair in saying that Michael Storm would probably be over his head in the role of King Henry VI.

My next observation was that an hour of soap opera equals just about an hour of real time, if you don't count commercials. Say, for example, that an actress puts a roast into the oven, and sets the timer for three hours. It will then actually take three hours (three episodes, three days) before the roast is done.

On "Another World" I saw a man write a letter to his girlfriend, Kit, and it took the same amount of time it would take a real person to think of what to write and get it down on paper.

"Dear Kit," he wrote, saying each word out loud for us as he wrote, "Thanks ... for your ... letters (pause, think) They ... make ... me ... feel ... so good."

IT WENT ON FOR a page and a half, and it was really stupid, mushy letter. I was embarrassed for the guy.

But despite the fact that it seems to take quite a while for anything to develop on a soap opera, it soon becomes apparent that there are rules and constants that apply to every one of them:

—All women are married to either a doctor or a lawyer. The only exceptions are very young women, who are married to students in either law or medical school.

—All men are disenchanted with their marriages and are in love with either a nurse or their sister-in-law.

—All pregnant women are carrying a baby conceived by someone other than their husband. Most likely it is their brother-in-law's.

—Everyone, male or female, has committed a major felony, or is closely related to someone who has.

—No one, male or female, will ever die of old age.

—There are no plumbers in daytime drama.

—No characters in any soap opera spend their afternoons watching soap operas.

—Detectives and reporters provide romantic interest, but never marry. Luckily for them, most have brothers who are either doctors or lawyers.

—No one, male or female, will ever find true happiness.

Retaliation

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Ray Sena is a glib, dedicated man. A little over a year ago, he was fired by Rockwell International after 24 years with the company.

Sena says he was fired because he refused to falsify expenses on Rockwell contracts with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "I refused to participate in this 'Aero-spaces-cam' and now I'm paying the price for being an honest man," he said.

Two Rockwell employees made a seven-day visit to London and Paris to see "Moonraker," a James Bond space movie. They took the trip to London ostensibly to "do an in-depth analysis and evaluation of certain movie studios' capabilities to produce and distribute films on space program benefits." They then went to the movies in Paris. The junket included a trip on the luxury class Concorde and cost the taxpayers $8,272 on Rockwell's cost-plus contract.

Footnote: A NASA spokesman said that "in general, (Rockwell's) overall travel expenses (and) costs were reasonable under difficult circumstances." A company spokesman said Rockwell is "deeply concerned" at the allegations. Ray Sena has brought a $300 million suit against Rockwell.

CARTER'S CLOSET: No one seriously believes that either Ronald Reagan or his accuser, Jimmy Carter, is a racist.

Carter's insinuation was based on Reagan's opposition to the Civil Rights Act of 1964. But if long-gone positions are the criterion — and the president seems to think they are — there's a far uglier skeleton in Carter's own political closet.

On Sept. 24, 1956 — two years after the Supreme Court banned "separate but equal" school facilities — the Sumter County (Ga.) Board of Education met to discuss the site chosen for "the new colored Elementary School that is to be located between Leslie and DeSoto," according to the board's minutes. Jimmy Carter was a member of the board.

White citizens objected to the site, the minutes report, because it would be too close to the white school and children of both races would have to travel the same roads on their way to school.

Board member Carter bought this argument, and proposed the following resolution: "Whereas, the white citizens ... voiced their objection to the site for the location of the proposed Negro school, pointing out the fact that Negro and white children will be walking to and from school together ... This Board respectfully requests that (the State) hold up the construction ... until a new site is selected."

Carter subsequently withdrew the resolution — because of the delay and cost involved, according to the minutes.

SOVIET SHOPPERS: Russian employees of the American Embassy are paid 10 percent of their salary in U.S. dollars — supposedly so they can purchase uniforms through the diplomatic pouch. But as one source reported, "They'll buy anything they can order out of the Sears catalog or any other one they can get their hands on. That's why you see all those designer jeans on the street in Moscow."

WATCH ON WASTE: High-flying bureaucrats at the Federal Aviation Administration have a little-publicized perk — free flying lessons. One FAA desk pilot logged $1,600 worth of lessons last year at taxpayer expense. Though certain criteria are supposed to be met before the bureaucrats take off into the wild blue yonder, an internal memo states that "effective immediately, officials ... may approve private pilot training for themselves and their subordinates."

Broadway prices going up

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the newest sensations on Broadway is David Merrick's musical "42nd Street," but if you want to see it you better be prepared to pay Fifth Avenue prices. Merrick has just increased the cost of an orchestra ticket to $35 on both weekends and weeknights, a record. When the show opened last month, the seats went for $27.50. Two weeks later, the price went to $30, which was the top price for some long-running shows.

Injunction placed on singer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Jerry Lee Lewis, 44, has been ordered by a court to stay away from his estranged wife, Jaren, who has accused him of beating her.

An injunction granted Thursday by Judge Charles O. McPherson prohibits Lewis from "coming around her, threatening her, assaulting, molesting or harming her" or the couple's only child, Lori Lee Lewis, 8.

Mrs. Lewis, who has filed for divorce from her husband of almost nine years, asked for the injunction Wednesday and for part of Lewis' income and custody of their daughter. Mrs. Lewis, 38, and the child live in Memphis.

Loren glad she made film

NEW YORK (AP) — Sophia Loren says that filming her life story gave her "many, many headaches" and "nightmares," but she's glad she did it.

The Italian film star, in New York on Thursday for a two-week tour to promote the film and a new fragrance named after her, said in an interview she found it "very difficult" to play both herself and her mother in the made-for-television movie.

But, she added, she was "quite pleased" with the movie, shot in Italy this summer. It was based on her autobiography, "Sophia: Living and Loving," and is to be broadcast by NBC on Oct. 26.

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP) — While Edmund Muskie grapples with affairs of state in Washington, his dog, Robbie, is tangling with the affairs of the state back home.

Robbie joined 50 dogs, one kitten and a horse named Jamie in a rally and protest march at Maine's statehouse on Thursday.

The animals, wearing placards and accompanied by their masters, were howling about a proposed cut in the budget of the state Animal Welfare Division.

'Rose' and 'Taxi' united

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Frederic Forrest, nominated for an Oscar last year for his role in the film "The Rose," will take an actress for his bride — Marilu Henner of the television series "Taxi," a spokesman says.

A spokesman for the couple said the wedding will be Sunday at the home of friends in New Orleans. It is the first marriage for Ms. Henner, who is 26. Forrest is 42 and was married once before.

After the ceremony, they will return to Hollywood, where she will resume work on "Taxi" and he will begin work on a movie, "One From the Heart." The spokesman said the couple will honeymoon in Europe in the spring.

Practice space shuttle mission has to be halted

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Technical problems forced scientists to halt a second attempt to simulate the flight of the space shuttle Columbia after the mock orbiter stopped working, said a spokesman at the Johnson Space Center.

Officials gave no explanation why the simulator failed and refused to speculate when the problem would be corrected, the spokesman said.

Technical problems forced scientists to abort the first simulated flight Wednesday, midway through the 56-hour practice mission. Scientists decided to re-try the make-believe flight Thursday after data transmission problems were corrected.

The simulated flight was designed to allow astronauts and flight controllers to test procedures used while in orbit. Barring no major complications, the Columbia will be launched next year.

Survivors of Iranian air raid in Iraq return home to Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — American survivors of an air raid on a refinery in Iraq embraced family and friends Friday night during an airport reunion marred by the absence of one man missing and presumed dead.

Relatives and friends who gathered outside the Customs gate at Houston's Intercontinental Airport Friday night tearfully greeted each of the 20 to 30 survivors who made the flight from Amsterdam.

Sharon Johnson and her 11-year-old son Barry were met by her father-in-law L.H. Johnson. Her husband, Harvey Johnson, 33, of Dickinson, was one of three Americans listed as missing and presumed dead after Iranian F-4 Phantom jets pounded a petrochemical plant in Basra, Iraq, on Tuesday.

A Washington Post reporter said witnesses told him Johnson was killed when the first Iranian bomb hit a maintenance garage at the plant.

However, Johnson said he had heard little about his son since his daughter-in-law called him from Amsterdam on Tuesday night. She had left for Iraq Aug. 13 so her son could enroll in school.

"We're still waiting in anticipation that he's alive. But the tension of waiting to hear is getting to be too much," Johnson said.

"We are not taking it that bad. We've got high hopes. If we let ourselves go we might go overboard the other way," said Johnson.

Raymond Delunna of The Woodlands suffered shrapnel wounds to the legs and arms as he fled the bombing in Iraq, escaping with only the clothes on his back.

"I was in the petrochemical complex and we were beginning to start up when the Iranian planes came in. I really didn't see how many there were. When somebody is strafing you, you don't look to see how many there are. They hit our motel pretty bad too. But I don't know how many were injured," said Delunna.

"The only thing I've got is what I have on, a pair of pants, the shirt I was working in and a pair of shoes," he said.

Many of the survivors declined to talk to reporters Friday night, saying only that they were tired and glad to be home.

Billie Harris of Laporte, the wife of Robert Harris, a technician with Foster Associates of Pasadena, said her husband's company "didn't tell him until the last minute to get out."

"In my opinion they could have gotten him out a lot earlier. But that's a wife's opinion sitting over here," she said.

Briceson Cook, 31, of Houston, said his company, Lummas Construction Co. of Bloomfield, N.J., evacuated its executives but left other workers to fend for themselves.

"There was a contingency plan to get the top people out. But for the rest of us, it was every man for himself," said Cook, who added that he escaped by jumping aboard a pickup truck carrying company executives out of Basra.

"People were lining the dusty road and jumping onto any vehicle they could. It was pandemonium. It certainly was not a planned evacuation," he said.

A Lummas Company spokesman in New Jersey declined comment, saying reports filtering back from the war-torn area were conflicting and confusing.

Dear Abby

'Ghost' Host Deserves A Quicker Exit

DEAR ABBY: Charles and I met on a blind date, and we hit it off beautifully. I'm 36, divorced and not hard up for dates. Charles is 40, a lawyer with a terrific personality. He claimed he was a great cook, and invited me to his apartment for a gourmet dinner.

When I arrived at his tastefully furnished bachelor high-rise, he greeted me warmly and handed me a cocktail. Then his phone rang. I'm sure it was a woman. He went into another room to talk privately and, Abby, he left me alone for 30 minutes! When he returned he didn't even apologize! I did my best to hide my anger.

We resumed our conversation — then his buzzer rang. (Someone was calling from the lobby.) He said, "No, don't come up. I'll be right down." Then he said to me, "Excuse me, I'll only be a minute." After sitting alone for another 30 minutes, I decided I had had enough, so I left. When I reached the lobby, I saw my "host" engrossed in a very animated conversation with a young woman. I simply said, "Goodbye, Charles, I am leaving." He grabbed my arm and held me while he told the other woman to "go home, and please don't do anything foolish."

Then he asked me to please come upstairs with him so he could explain everything. I told him there was nothing to explain, his rudeness was inexcusable, and I never wanted to see him again. (His response was unprintable.) Abby, was I justified for leaving as I did? And how would you have handled it?

MANHATTAN

DEAR MANHATTAN: You hung around longer than I would have. I'd have left when my host became a "ghost" for 30 minutes, and then offered no apology.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN A. COFFEE

Reception marks 50th anniversary

John A. and Arian Coffee will be honored at a reception in the church parlor of the First Baptist Church Sunday in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Their children and spouses will be hosts. Friends of the honorees are invited to come and visit between the hours of 3-5 p.m.

John A. Coffee and Arian M. Craig were married Sept. 3, 1930, in the Presbyterian parsonage in Santa Fe, N.M.

Coffee was born in Brownwood, Tex. His wife was born in El Capitan, N.M. It was when she went to Albany, Tex., to attend high school at the age of 16 that she met another student, John A., whose father, Samuel C. Coffee, practiced law there.

After attending Baylor University, Coffee obtained his license to practice law on April 2, 1929. He recently received his certificate from the State Bar of Texas for 50 years of continuous practice of his profession. Following their marriage, they resided in Hereford, where he practiced law and served as county attorney for 4 years.

In May, 1938, the Coffees moved to Big Spring where John A. joined his cousin, Thomas J. Coffee, in the practice of law under the firm name of Coffee & Coffee. The Coffees have been members of the First Baptist Church for the past 42 years.

Coffee has been a member of the Big Spring Lions Club since 1933. He also serves as a member of the Staked Plains Lodge No. 598 and the Lubbock Scottish Rite. He served two terms on the School Board of the Big Spring Independent School District. Mrs. Coffee has been a member of the Lions Auxiliary and has been active for many years in the Big Spring Garden Club.

The Coffees have two children, Barbara Coffee Heinze who lives in Arlington and John R. Coffee, who lives in Big Spring and has practiced law with his father since 1958.

They have four granddaughters, two grandsons and one great-grandson.

REAGAN WISHES A HAPPY 27TH — Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan wishes a happy birthday to Secret Service agent Bob Blossman, right, who turned 27 on Thursday while flying aboard Reagan's chartered plane from Seattle, Washington to Portland Thursday night. Reagan stayed overnight in Portland before attending a breakfast rally and flying to Los Angeles Friday morning.

'Petroleum age at an end' Council suggests billions be spent on solar energy

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — An energy advisory council has recommended proposals to develop solar energy — at a cost of billions a year — and to stimulate production of gasohol.

"Whether we like it or not, the petroleum age is coming to an end in Texas," said Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, member of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

The council Thursday also recommended setting up a low-level nuclear waste dump on state-owned land.

A subcommittee report adopted by the council recommended that only nuclear waste generated within Texas be stored at the site. No specific site was mentioned.

Attorney General Mark White, a council member, warned that restricting waste disposal might not work.

"I don't think you can rely, going into this venture, on not getting other states' waste," said White. "Sometimes if you flout it — saying you won't accept another state's waste, they will try you on, and you often come out second in those fights."

The report left the option of accepting nuclear waste from other states if multi-state disposal agreement is negotiated and approved by the Legislature.

"Since it will require three to four years to get a site operational, it is necessary to have legislation on this issue during the (1981) Legislature," according to a staff summary.

"The high-level waste issue is a much longer range proposition, and we have time to act later if needed. Another subcommittee is now working on high-level waste."

The advisory council, which also includes Gov. Bill Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, adopted a recommendation by Brown's subcommittee to exempt gasohol from the five-cent per gallon motor fuel tax until 1987.

At that time, one cent per gallon would be added to the price of gasohol each year until the tax on gasoline and gasohol — which is 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol — was the same.

Brown's subcommittee recommended state loans to build fuel alcohol plants and a requirement that state agencies spend at least 10 percent of their fuel budgets on gasohol and/or alcohol fuels as they become available at competitive prices.

Dr. Jack Howell of the University of Texas at Austin said solar resources could provide up to 15 percent of Texas' energy needs in the year 2000. "I'm not saying it will but it could ... with the proper incentives," said Howell.

This would be the equivalent of 400 million barrels of oil or two trillion cubic feet of natural gas a year.

To develop solar energy to this extent, however, would cost "billions of dollars per year toward the late 1990s," the report said.

The Solar Advisory Committee recommended the recognition of "solar easements" — rights to access to sunlight, a requirement that all new state structures built after Aug. 31, 1981, use solar energy except where it would not be in the public interest and creation of the Texas Wind Center.

The advisory committee also recommended establishing a non-profit corporation to provide low-interest solar loans, exempting solar companies from the franchise tax and a single statewide license for contractors installing solar energy systems.

"Solar energy is one of this nation's good energy bets, and sun-rich Texas can help lead the way in its development and use," said Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace, chairman of the solar committee.

"I am convinced that solar energy must be developed throughout Texas and the United States as an integral part of the total energy mix," he said.

Wallace reported briefly on a telephone call from Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, in which the congressman reportedly said "the so-called oil glut would be totally consumed within three months" as a result of the Iran-Iraq war unless Saudi Arabia and Kuwait increase production.

Wallace said Wilson, who had sat in on a CIA briefing, told him and Hobby that Iraq "could control all the Iranian oil fields within days if that is its objective."

Wallace said the outlook as a result of the war is for a shortage of home heating oil in the Northeast and "price increases across the board" in petroleum products.

Pope John Paul II opens first synod of bishops today

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II opened his first synod of Roman Catholic bishops today with expectations that it will break no new ground and will reaffirm the church's traditional opposition to birth control, abortion, divorce and extramarital sexual relations.

In a solemn Mass in the magnificent Sistine Chapel, the pontiff declared that it is "the duty of each Christian family to guard and preserve humanity itself. Families must preserve fundamental values of the church."

The pope delivered his homily in Latin, seated in the gold-embossed papal chair with his back against Michelangelo's "Last Judgment."

Solemn hymns echoed through the 15th-century chapel as more than 200 cardinals and bishops in red and purple robes prayed.

After the Mass, Cardinal Terence Cooke of New York told reporters that "the synod would be a wonderful show of support for family life throughout the world." He said he expected "strengthening and reaffirmation" of church values but no major changes.

But Bishop Theobaldus Gomes of Bangladesh, Bangladesh, said he believed there is "much airing out" to be done on the birth control issue. "It has to be debated. Population is one major problem in our country," he said.

"Don't expect any changes in doctrinal matters, because these things simply cannot be changed," said Archbishop Jozef Tomko, secretary-general of the Sixth World Synod of Bishops.

"Our objective is to help Catholic families who must live in an ambience which pays little heed to their Catholic principles. The family in such circumstances needs help if it is to defend its religious values and live by them in the face of pressures from without and confusions within," Tomko said.

In addition to dealing with the basic tenets of the church, and drafting guidelines for dealing with Catholics who ignore them, the bishops will, for the first time since the 1962-65 Vatican Council II, try to find common views on a wide range of other issues facing the world's 760 million Roman Catholics, including the changing role of women, sex education, consumerism and drug addiction.

Birth control appears to be the most controversial issue facing the 216 invited bishops meeting in the historic Sistine Chapel.

Akrla company wins suit against Texas firm

Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. has won a court battle with Texas Oil and Gas Corp. over $1-an-acre oil and gas leases on 33,000 acres at Fort Chaffee, Ark.

Federal Judge Joyce Green ruled in Washington on Thursday that Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus had acted within his authority when he cancelled the oil and gas leases awarded to the Texas firm last year without competitive bidding.

Akrla had filed lawsuits to block the leases to Texas Oil and Gas, which with three other companies has planned to build a new interstate gas pipeline through the Arkoma Basin in eastern Oklahoma and western and central Arkansas.

Akrla has been fighting the proposed pipeline. Andrus contended in a trial that began in July that the awarding of the $1-an-acre leases on the Fort Chaffee land was an "administrative error" and that he had the power and the duty to correct mistakes by his department.

Appeals from Judge Green's court go directly to the U.S. Supreme Court. There was no immediate word whether Texas Oil and Gas planned to appeal the ruling.

Akrla President Sheffield Nelson said late Thursday he was "ecstatic" about the judge's ruling. He predicted that competitive bidding on the leases will result in $150 or more an acre in revenues for the federal government, which currently is using Fort Chaffee to house Cuban refugees. Akrla is expected to be a bidder.

Nelson praised Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., for his help in the Fort Chaffee lease dispute. Bumpers forced the issue to a hearing before a Senate subcommittee where he insisted it was incorrect to award leases on land surrounded by producing gas wells without taking competitive bids.

Competitive bids had not been required by the Interior Department because the Fort Chaffee land — although surrounded by producing wells — is not classified as a "known geological (oil and gas producing) structure."

Texas Oil and Gas charged that Andrus had been subjected to improper political pressure because of a letter urging cancellation of the leases. The letter was from Bumpers and Sens. Russell Long and Bennett Johnston, both D-La.

Bookbindery sold to Dallas publishing firm

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — The 55-year-old Universal Bookbindery, largest manufacturer of its kind in the Southwest, has been sold to Taylor Publishing Co. of Dallas.

Leo Hearn, president of the local firm, announced Thursday the sale was made for an undisclosed cash price.

Hearn was named president of the merged company to be known as Universal Custom Products, Inc. He said the local plant was scheduled to become the manufacturing arm of the Commercial Cover Division of the two companies over the next 12 months.

The expansion should result in an increase in Universal's work force from 165 to more than 200, Hearn said.

Taylor Publishing Co., the nation's largest manufacturer of high school and college yearbooks, plans to relocate its commercial loose leaf cover division in San Antonio as part of the expansion, he said.

Universal plans to manufacture loose leaf covers, hard-cover bookbindings and wedding albums.

Universal was founded in 1925 to bind county records and re-bind library books.

Sunbelt Vs. Frostbelt

Low income Texans win little, lose little in fuel bills fight

WASHINGTON — Low-income Texans won a little and lost a little in a compromise between Sunbelt-state lawmakers and their Frostbelt colleagues in the Senate Wednesday.

The issue was federal assistance for paying fuel bills, which last month threw the House of Representatives into a bitter regional battle, that was won by a united coalition of northeast and midwest congressmen.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday restored much of what had been lost by the south and southwest, enough so that a key senator in the fight, Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, agreed not to oppose the compromise on the floor of the Senate.

The compromise, designed by Vermont Democrat Patrick Leahy, would give Texas $57.4 million in the year beginning Oct. 1, compared to $27.8 million in the last fiscal year.

The House version of the bill would have sent some $35 million to Texas in the next year.

While the figures appear to show Texas a winner in any case, closer scrutiny of congressional action tells a different story.

First, Congress decided last spring to pay for fuel assistance out of the windfall profits tax on oil companies. The formula for dividing some $1.8 billion of the tax was widely opposed; by northerners because 14 of their states would have gotten less aid than last year and by Texans, who felt their state could get $100 million if the problems of extreme cold and heat were given equal weight.

With the numbers apparently on their side, northerners moved in the House last month to devise a new formula to benefit their region and the midwest. The effort ran into stiff opposition, especially from southern lawmakers, who said their region suffers from cold in the winter and extreme heat in the summer as well.

"We're not asking for justice," said Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, who argued cold and heat should be of equal importance in distributing federal aid to the needy. "All we are saying is that, after already being cheated, let's not make it rape."

The coalition of northeast and midwest congressmen won the battle in a 215-199 vote, which saw all but four states vote along regional lines.

That loss of money to the northeast and midwest in the House left southerners in the Senate Wednesday eager to compromise.

Leahy won an agreement with Bentsen and a group of other southern and western senators that they will not oppose the compromise when it comes to a vote on the Senate floor. In turn, that group won a promise that the Senate will not budge from its figures when the House and Senate meet in a conference committee to iron out a final figure.

Even with these deals, Bentsen still has an ace in the hole known as Senate Bill 2978. Sure to spark a renewed Sunbelt vs. Frostbelt skirmish, the bill would make cooling assistance as important as heating assistance when formulas for federal aid are devised.

Some northern members of Congress have called Sunbelt air conditioning "a matter of convenience," but a Bentsen aide said last summer's weather has given Bentsen a strong argument for his bill.

"We saw 2,000 people die in a heat wave that was worse than any blizzard, the Chicago Fire and the San Francisco Earthquake combined. The heat is not in any way just an inconvenience," he said.

Heroin is scarce

Mexican connection severely interrupted

By STEVE SNIDER
States News Service

WASHINGTON — From Dallas, Los Angeles, Miami, New York and elsewhere, the reports to the Drug Enforcement Administration office here are much the same: Mexican heroin is scarce and becoming scarcer.

Once the most popular point of origin for imported heroin, the Mexican connection, by most accounts, has been severely interrupted through a combination of Mexican government scrutiny and U.S. dollars.

Partly because of the downturn in Mexican imports in the past several years, new sources have moved in to what has been a generally sagging U.S. heroin market since the mid-1970s.

Where once only a trickle of U.S.-bound heroin came from Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan, the flow from these three southwest Asian countries — known as the Golden Crescent — now accounts for nearly 40 percent of the total imports. In New York City, southwest Asian heroin accounts for 80 percent of the street supply according to the DEA.

"The figures for Mexican heroin proves what cooperation can do," said a DEA spokesman. "But there's no one in Afghanistan or Iran to cooperate with. The chaos and political and economic disorder is made to order for trafficking."

Figures from various government sources show the following:

— Of the 7.5 metric tons of heroin imported to the U.S. in 1975, 6.5 metric tons, or 80 percent of the total, was from Mexico. The amount of southwest Asian heroin in the country that year was too little to be measured by DEA. In 1976 and 1977 the Mexican share of the market rose to some 90 percent. The most recent figures show that up to four metric tons of heroin were imported in 1979. Of that amount, 38 percent is estimated to have come from southwest Asia, 32 percent from southeast Asia, and 30 percent from Mexico.

— In what the State Department calls a "model" foreign assistance program, U.S. payments to Mexico for opium poppy field eradication have declined steadily from $18.4 million in 1978 to an estimated $8.7 million in 1981. A Mexican government spokesman said the program could be completely funded by Mexico within the next two years.

— The decline in Mexican heroin imports has led the way to a general decline in the street availability of the drug. The result is 50 percent fewer deaths in the U.S. from heroin overdoses now than four years ago, and some 75-80 percent fewer heroin-related injuries.

Mexico's growing financial independence in the drug eradication program has been matched by a political independence as well.

Drug Enforcement Administration agents, once active on the Mexican end of the eradication program, have quit their involvement south of the border at the request of the Mexican government.

"DEA is out of the program entirely because Mexico was concerned about the high visibility of DEA agents in their country," according to a spokesman for the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control.

The focus on Asia comes at a time when poppy production there is at an all-time high.

Mitchell County 4-H'ers dominate steer show here

Mitchell County 4-H Club members fairly well dominated the Howard County Fair steer show held here last week.

Bruce Gale of Mitchell County showed the grand champion steer while Clay Holcomb of Martin County had the reserve grand champion.

Joe Lopez, Glasscock County 4-H, fielded the top animal in the Heavyweight British Breeds division.

Gale was the leader in the Lightweight Exotic Breeds division. His steer weighed 1,120 pounds. Clay Holcomb earned the blue ribbon in the Heavyweight Exotic Breeds Division with his 1,175 pound steer.

In the Prospect division (for animals weighing less than 1,000 pounds), Dalton Maddox of Mitchell County had the grand champion steer, a 970-pound animal, while Kelly Holcomb of Martin County fielded the reserve champion. His steer weighed 980 pounds.

Keith Crane, Howard County 4-H, had the No. One Lightweight British Breeds steer, which weighed 875 pounds.

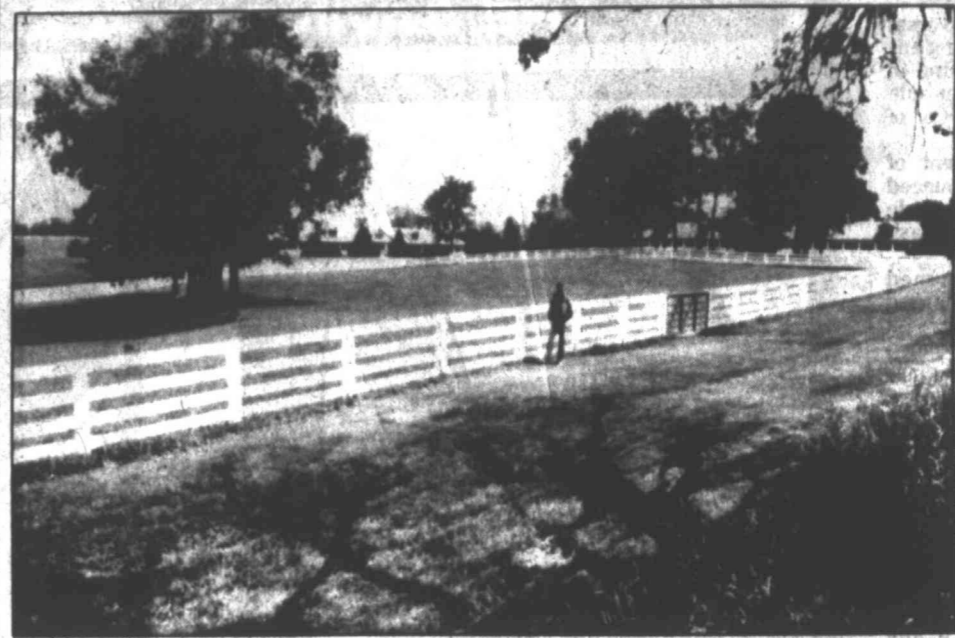

In the Heavyweight British Breeds Division, Todd Neff of Mitchell County had the winner, a 985 pound steer.

Neff's steer then emerged as the grand champion of that division while Duncan Hamilton of Howard County 4-H had the reserve grand champion.

In the American Crossbreed Division, Prospect class, Walton Stone of the Grady FFA emerged as the winner. His steer weighed 890 pounds.

Susan Holcomb of Martin County fielded the steer adjudged the best in the Lightweight Exotic Crossbreed class. Her steer weighed 935 pounds. Maddox's animal proved the best in the Heavyweight Exotic Cross breed division.

Coahoma hosts tough Sonora in Bulldog Homecoming tilt

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs picked a most formidable foe for tonight's Homecoming affair, but that could work in their favor if the visiting Sonora Broncos look at what happened last week.

At that time, the Sonora team was taking an easy 41-0 win over Eldorado, while the Coahoma team was absorbing a 43-0 setback at the hands of Tahoka.

Sonora's early success has been the result of a high powered offense that is led by quarterback David Creek and halfback Johnny Doan. Creek has completed 16 of 26 tosses for 190 yards thus far, while Doan has rushed for 272 yards and numerous touchdowns.

The coach of the Sonora team is no stranger to success, either. He has

Hungry teams seek wins as Sterling City meets Forsan

FORSAN — Two teams hungry for a win meet here tonight when the Sterling City Eagles face the Forsan Buffaloes.

Forsan has won once in three tries, defeating Garden City by a score of 14-0. But the Sterling City team, the defending District 3-A champions, have yet to crack the victory column.

But that can be misleading, as Forsan Coach Ron Taylor explained: "In each of their games, they have really allowed only one touchdown. In last week's game against Miles, they allowed a touchdown on the last play of the game to make the score 13-0, so they really didn't get beat that bad."

Unbeaten Stanton tests mark in Homecoming vs. Reagan

STANTON — The somewhat surprising Stanton Buffs will try to end their most successful non-district slate on a perfect note here tonight when they host the Reagan County Owls with Homecoming festivities in the air.

Stanton has overcome some adversity in the injury department to rack up three straight wins, with two of them coming over larger Class AAA teams. Stanton opened the season by upsetting Tahoka 12-7 and Coahoma 20-18 on the road, then came home last week to totally dominate Crane in a 24-0 triumph.

In that win, the Stanton defense limited Crane to only one first down (on a penalty) and negative yards rushing.

Lamesa goes for big upset

LAMESA — The very surprising Lamesa Golden Tors will seek to continue their winning ways tonight, but it won't be easy, when the Andrews Mustangs come to town.

Lamesa, which has won two of three starts to double their win total in 1979, has defeated Lubbock and Fort Stockton this year, with a loss to Brownfield sandwiched in-between.

Andrews, meanwhile, is coming in with a perfect 3-0 record. They defeated Seminole 29-0, upset Midland High 26-21, and defeated San Angelo Lake View 28-14.

Lamesa's success can be directly related to a new head coach in Jim Warren, who came to the Golden Tor campus from Lockney.

Tough game expected in Klondike

KLONDIKE — The Klondike Cougars and O'Donnell Eagles hook up tonight in the final non-district game for both schools, and if records thus far are any indication, tonight's contest should be an action packed affair.

Klondike brings a 2-1 record into the contest, and is fresh from a 20-14 comeback win over Greenwood, a tilt that saw Mike Arismendez make his debut as a QB successfully. Before that, Klondike defeated Wink 14-0 and lost to Plains 20-14.

O'Donnell, meanwhile, has already equalled last year's win total, going 3-0 in the early stages of 1980. The Eagles opened

Loraine at Sands in Homecoming

ACKERLY — The Sands Mustangs get a chance to get off to their best start in recent memory tonight when they play host to the Loraine Bulldogs.

The Mustangs, currently carrying a record of 1-1-1, are coming off a 14-14 tie in a game in which they rallied in the final four minutes for both of their touchdowns.

Loraine, meanwhile, is 0-2-1, and coming off a scoreless tie with Garden City. They will run a Pro-Set, with a tendency to dive and run the option off of it.

Wolves go for second straight tonight

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Wolves, fresh from a thrashing of Denver City for their first win of the 1980 campaign, go for another tonight when they host the Ballinger Bearcats.

Garden City hosts Miles in Homecoming

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearcats play host to Miles tonight in a Homecoming affair that promises to be a giant challenge for the host team.

Miles comes to town undefeated and unscathed on, having thrashed Water Valley 55-0, Loraine 19-0 and Sterling City 13-0. Garden City, meanwhile, is 0-2-1.

Their tie came, in last week's game directed four Sonora teams to the state championship back in the 60s before moving on to Midland and Seguin. He won district at Seguin, but could not in the rugged District 5-A AAAA wars that Midland plays in. Nevertheless, his record speaks for itself.

Coahoma opened the season with a 22-0 victory over Wall, but things have gone downhill since then. After taking an early 18-0 lead over Stanton, they lost 20-18, and then suffered last week's loss.

The Bulldogs have the leading passing attack in District 6-AAA, with quarterback Phillip Ritchey throwing to receivers Manuel Martinez, Randy Clanton and Shayne Mayhall.

Sterling City's first two losses were by 8-0 to Greenwood and by 6-2 to Merton.

But a big plus for the Sterling City is the return of blue-chip running back-defensive back Lonny Greenfield, a 6'2", 185-pounder who no doubt will help the Eagles cause.

Forsan also returns a stalwart to action this week in the form of D.F. Stanley, who missed his starting position in last week's game at middle linebacker due to a deep thigh bruise.

"Their record is real deceiving," Taylor said. "But we feel it ought to be a good game. If we play like we're capable, we can beat them. The big question is that we're a young team, and it's hard to say how we'll play from week to week."

Reagan County is 1-2 on the year. They opened the season with a 13-7 victory over Crane, but have lost to Iraan and McCamey since that time.

Stanton will once again go with converted quarterback Curtis Williams, who has replaced returning All-South Plains performer Craig Eiland in excellent fashion.

Reagan County is a basically young team, but a group that has lots of potential winning talent. Their offense revolves around tailback James Phillips.

Tonight's game will be a tune-up for Coach Steve Parks' team as district begins next week. A very busy week when the Buffs travel to meet perennial state toughie Seagraves.

He has installed a very simple I-attack offensively, something that he feels has a great deal to do with the early success. "Last year they (Lamesa) ran the split back formation, and to me the split back is a great offense, but it involves a lot of finesse. I installed the 'I,' which is extremely simple and enables you to attack the line of scrimmage."

Key players for the Lamesa squad include tailback Bernard Williams, quarterback Sam Hansard and end Will Wright.

Andrews, meanwhile, has a bevy of experience on this year's team, highlighted by the sensational Van Percy, who is also one of the best track and field performers in the state.

up with a 17-0 win over Wilson, and since then have defeated New Home by 7-6 and Anton by 7-0.

O'Donnell returns three backfield starters to their offense in the form of Gilbert Morales, John Olivian and Johnny Jackson, and have put together a salty defense in the process.

Klondike is gradually healing from some very nagging injuries that have limited Coach Mickey Finley's team thus far, but they hopefully will be full speed when District 3-A (West Zone) action begins next week.

The Loraine defense was extremely sticky in last week's tie, limiting Garden City to a scant three first downs. Meanwhile, their offense moved well from the 20s to the 20s, but couldn't punch it across.

Tonight's contest will serve as added incentive to the Sands team, as it is a homecoming tilt.

Last week's rally for a tie for Sands was sparked by the passing of Shayne Wington and the receiving of Dennis Martin and Alden Franco.

The Wolves got on the winning road in a 21-0 whitewash of Denver City, while Ballinger was tasting a 46-24 defeat at the hands of Wall. The loss, however, was the first for the Ballinger team after two wins.

against Loraine, a contest in which Coach Stu Cooper's Bearcats used their defensive prowess to achieve the 0-0 sister kiss.

That defense will have to rise to the occasion again, as the Miles team is extremely quick. But the Bearcat offense, which managed only three first downs in the tie to Loraine, must improve dramatically to give the Garden City team a chance.

Goliad Black whips Lamesa

The Goliad Black team used two scores and an outstanding defense in continuing with their unbeaten ways, this time in the form of a 14-0 whitewash over the Lamesa Whirlwinds in seventh grade football action.

Robert Garcia had a 10-yard touchdown run for Goliad, with Henry Yzaguirre intercepting a Lamesa lateral and stepping five yards to paydirt for the final score of the evening.

The Goliad Black defense was led by Robert Garcia and Jimmy Rogers, with other defenders drawing the praise of the coaching staff including David Shortes, Randy Ramirez, Collin Carroll, Kim Anding and Brian Reid.

The offense was also outstanding in the contest, with special praise mentioned for the likes of Randy Hayworth, Carl Speck, Jimmy Winchester, Michael Dodd, Kevin Freeman, Ricky Porras and Yzaguirre.

The Black team is now 3-0 for the season. They host the Snyder A team next Thursday.

Lamesa takes tough win over Goliad White

The Goliad White team suffered a 14-0 loss to the Lamesa Whirlwinds in a B team clash of seventh grade football teams, but not before the local crew had dished out some excellent defensive licks and continued to display improvement over the past weeks.

Lamesa scored late in the game to ice the contest, but the Goliad team played well throughout in staying close.

Although the Goliad team could not manage any points, there were some playing offensively that drew the praise of the coaches. This included Pete Baeza, John Ramirez, Ray Marquez, Tony Pineda, Ismael Paradez, Tim Green and Victor Coots.

Defensive stars for Goliad included Ramirez, Baeza, Pineda, Shannon Turnbow, Bobby Madigan, Coots, Billy Earnest, Frankie Pennington and Jason Jiles.

McEnroe takes win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — John McEnroe defeated Vijay Amritraj of India, 6-4, 6-3 in the third round of a $175,000 tournament.

After a week at the fair with the Trinity Memorial bunch, I was inspired to write epitaphs for my tombstone & a few friends.

A tskit, a tskit, I really hate this casket.

For years I fought the dust, now I'm turning to it.

I might as well lie here... I lied everywhere.

Moved... Address unknown.

Hawk Club-Herald Jog-A-Thon postponed until Tuesday PM

The Howard College Athletic Department has announced that the Hawk Club-Big Spring Herald Jog-A-Thon has been postponed from its scheduled time tomorrow afternoon to Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 p.m.

Hopes for a big success in the affair to raise funds for the Howard College Athletic Department are still high, even though the non-stop rain that has invaded Big Spring in the past week has temporarily postponed the running.

The event has been popular thus far in the amount of participants that have planned to run, and Howard College AD Harold Wilder is hoping for even more entrants before the affair.

The Hawk Club-Big Spring Herald running event is not unique around the country, as the concept has been used on many college campuses to raise funds for the athletic departments, which have been hurt with the rising inflation and more stringent NCAA guidelines to curb cheating.

Wilder is reminding anyone interested that times and ability as far as running are not important. What is important to anyone that wishes to participate is to have as much money pledged by sponsors as possible.

Prizes will be awarded to those that bring in the most money, and there are numerous ways to win these lucrative items.

A free jog-a-thon T-shirt will be given to anyone that has 25 Mail Out Sponsor Forms turned in, while a free t-shirt will also be awarded for each Walk-A-Round Sponsor Form completed and turned in.

A free jog-a-thon mug will be given to each jogger who brings in at least 100 dollars in donations through his or her efforts, and this drinking utensil is very handsome and large.

A jog-a-thon warm-up suit will be awarded to each jogger who brings in at least 500 dollars in donations through the run.

Wilder has expressed a goal of $15,000 for Tuesday's affair, and this is not an unreal number, as many local sporting enthusiasts have already raised potentially thousands of dollars.

Many Howard College athletes have obtained local sponsors to help raise monies thus far, and Wilder has indicated that many avid local runners and sports boosters are also slated to run.

Sherrill Easterling, Howard College professor who qualified for last year's prestigious Boston Marathon and is hoping to do the same this year, is probably the most notable runner of the entrants. She plans on jogging at 40 laps (10 miles) during the one hour event, and then running back to her home in Coahoma, some 10 more miles. But while others may gasp for air, it's simply a day's training for Easterling.

MIDLAND — The Big Spring Steers girls volleyball team retained their share of the lead in the District 5-A AAAAA race here Thursday night by taking a 15-5, 15-13 win over the Midland Lee Rebels.

The Steer fems and the Cooper team will square off for what appears now to be the first half title in Big Spring next Tuesday at seven o'clock.

Shell Rutledge and Linda Magers paced the Big Spring win, as each had nine points serving. Rutledge had three aces while serving, and Magers' net play drew praise from Big Spring Coach Patti Purser.

Shawn Koger and Dawn Estes each had four points serving, with Sissy Doss having two and Dee Earhart and Pam Caudill one each.

Big Spring also won the JV contest, taking a 15-9, 15-5 triumph over Lee. The win gives the JV girls a 3-1 district mark, and a season record of 5-1.

Leslie Overman and Amy Ragan had eight service points for the Big Spring JVs, with Sylvia Randle adding seven.

The Big Spring varsity travelled to the Duncanville Tournament this weekend. Their first round opponent will be Richardson Pearce this afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

We realize you have no desire to meet the artist personally. But isn't her work magnificent?

Delicate . . . graceful . . . symmetrical. Yes — and functional. So very functional! Charlotte has to eat, you know . . . this is her insect trap.

Nature is a lesson book in design and purpose. God seems to have taught so many of his creatures to meet necessity with artistry.

It's a lesson man has been learning for ages — with God's own help. Learning to add some beauty as we make our way . . . to enrich the scene for those who labor with us.

Your Church or Synagogue teaches God's design . . . His purpose.

First Baptist Church hosts guest speakers

Two prominent speakers will deliver talks during services Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

Grady W. Lowery, director, Recreation-Aerobics Center and adjunct teacher of church recreation, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, will appear at the 11 a.m. service while Dr. Carlos R. McLeod, pastor of the First Baptist Church Plainview will deliver the sermon at the 6 p.m. service.

Lowery has served in his present capacity since December 1978. He previously was minister of activities at the First Baptist Church in Tulsa, the youth director at East Grand Baptist Church in Dallas, the music and youth director at Bellevue Baptist Church in Hurst, and the youth and activities director at Summer Grove Baptist Church, Shreveport, La.

He has served as consultant to churches throughout the Southern Baptist Convention in the development of recreational ministries and design of recreational facilities.

Dr. McLeod, a native of Farmersville, Tex., attended Howard Payne Baptist College, Texas Tech and Wayland College before he earned his doctorate in Divinity from Wayland in 1974. He graduated from the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth in 1961.

He previously has been pastor of churches in Halfway, Tex., Dallas, Silvertown and Amarillo. He is in the 11th year of his ministry in Plainview. He presently is president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Candidates speak at debate Political remarks by church groups legal?

NEW YORK (AP) — An old, often bogged question about the relationship of religion and politics surfaced sharply this week in the Reagan-Anderson debate, with more tussling about it considered likely as the presidential campaign rolls on.

Under discussion was whether religious institutions and their leaders should speak out in political contests about issues regarded as having religious-moral implications.

Historically, both mainline Judaism and Christianity have vigorously insisted on that role as a basic right and religious duty in the world, but generally without siding for-or-against particular candidates.

Often the churches have faced criticism as "meddling in politics" for trying to apply their principles to public issues, but have kept at it anyway, where possible. Under totalitarian regimes, past and present, such activity has been harshly repressed.

The matter came up in the debate between Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan and independent candidate John B. Anderson last Sunday over a specific instance in Boston cited by a questioner.

Although both candidates generally defended such activity, they differed markedly about it, and Anderson denounced certain aspects of the case in question, apparently blurring some of the particulars.

Reagan sidestepped ambiguities of the specific case, but offered a sweeping defense of churches seeking to inject their influence into political issues with moral ramifications.

Citing religious elements of American founding documents and saying religion-based moral standards have been much abandoned in the country, he said:

"Now I have thought for a long time that too many of our churches have been too reluctant to speak up in behalf of what they believe is proper in government.

"And they have been too, too lax in interfering in recent years with government's invasion of the family, putting itself between parent and child."

Anderson said that "certainly the church has the right to take a position on moral issues," but he voiced some reservations about a specific case that had been mentioned.

It involved a statement on Sept. 12 by Boston's Cardinal Humberto Medeiros, calling abortion an "offense against God and humanity" and saying legislators who support it and those who elect them "cannot separate themselves totally from guilt which accompanies this...deadly sin."

He did not explicitly name any candidates, but the statement came shortly before a Democratic primary election in two congressional districts in which "pro-choice" candidates opposed anti-abortion candidates, both of whom were subsequently defeated.

English actress' life traced in Billy Graham film to be shown here

"No Longer Alone," winner of three prestigious film-industry awards, will be shown Sunday, Sept. 28 at College Baptist Church, 1105 Birdwell Lane. The showing, open to the public free of charge, is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

The film, a true story, takes a close look at a woman who was searching desperately for love and acceptance, but whose cries went unheard by those who surrounded her.

Originally released by World Wide Pictures in commercial theatres, the film is now one hour in length in preparation for its eventual presentation as a television special.

"No Longer Alone" traces the life of an English actress, Joan Winmill Brown. Though she skyrocketed to fame on the British stage, her life was marked by a frantic grasp for personal fulfillment and love. Tormented by a past she was unable to forget, she succumbed to a series of nervous breakdowns; and, at one point, attempted to take her own life.

In her ultimate moment of despair, Joan was invited by a "chance" phone call to attend a Billy Graham crusade. It was here that she first discovered her worth as an individual and began her long struggle to piece her shattered life back together.

Those who have followed Billy Graham's ministry will be interested to know that Dr. Graham appears in the film in some of the footage of his London Crusade, and also in the introduction and conclusion to the film, photographed recently for this special version.

According to William F. Brown, President of World Wide Pictures, "No Longer Alone" was presented with the "Award of Excellence" from the Film Advisory Board of Hollywood, as well as the "Angel" award from Religion in Media in America, as the outstanding religion film of the year. It also received the "Silver Halo Award" from the Southern California Motion Picture Council.

"No Longer Alone" was filmed in color on location in London, and stars Belinda Carroll, Wilfrid Hyde White, James Fox, Samantha Gates, and Gordon DeVol. Simon Williams, who has one of the leading roles in the BBC production, "Upstairs, Downstairs," also stars in the film. The title song was performed by the popular recording artist, B.J. Thomas.

A nursery will be provided for preschool children and there is no admission charge for the film. The public is cordially invited to see this challenging film and to take part in any of the ministries of the church.

First Methodist stages skill festival in marriage, parenting, listening and crafts

First United Methodist Church will stage its first October Festival of Living Academy October 5-26, focusing on communication skills in marriage, parenting, listening, and crafts.

The series of four classes on each Sunday night in October will form a complete course in each topic. Members will enroll in one course only.

Teaching Marriage Communication will be Gene and Imogene Sorley, a team that drew standing room only crowds last March, when they taught this same course. They are back for an encore, by popular demand.

The art of listening will be taught by Dr. John Dolenz, a clinical psychologist at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. He'll be discussing case studies, healthy communication in marriage, "termies" to look for in non-verbal communication, and will wrap up the study on the last Sunday night with exercises in learned skills of the group.

Parenting is a course in dialogue between parent and teenager. Taught by Mary Joyce Harding of Odessa College, this course will focus on the responsibilities of parent to teenager, the responsibility of the teenager to the parent, and ways of instilling self-esteem in the adolescent.

The Sunday night classes will be preceded by supper at 6 p.m., a brief period of entertainment at 6:45 p.m., and classes will convene for one hour at 7 p.m.

"We've had such good responses to our spring mini-courses at our March Specials, that we decided to offer one in the fall," said Dr. Chappel.

Pre-registration is requested, and the community is invited. It's free, of course, except for the meal, which costs $1 for adults and .50 for children.

E. Fourth revival beginning

Four Square has special

Four Square Gospel Church will hold special services with the Rev. Chuck Bayles Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Bayles is from Lubbock and has pastored churches around the state including Lubbock, San Angelo and Pampa.

Pastor Willis Sparks invites all to attend services at the church located at 1210 E. 19th St.

East Fourth Street Baptist Church will begin "Days of Revival" Sunday, continuing nightly through Oct. 3. Leading in these services will be Mickey Fugitt and John Sharp.

Evangelist Mickey Fugitt surrendered to preach on March 22, 1970 at Second Baptist Church in Abilene, Texas. He preached his first sermon, was licensed the following Sunday, and has been faithfully preaching God's Word since. After eight successful years in the pastorate, God has now led him into full-time evangelism.

John Sharp was called into full-time music ministry in Jan., 1979. He had been a soloist at Southcliff Baptist Church in Fort Worth since 1970. He was also an ordained deacon at Southcliff Church.

Service times will be 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. A special youth night service is planned for Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

"It would be a real blessing to have many from our Big Spring area to visit during these great days," said Pastor Guy White.

Church has homecoming

The Coahoma Church of Christ is sponsoring a homecoming event for all former members of the church on Sunday, Sept. 28 at the Coahoma Church of Christ.

All former members are invited to attend the regular Sunday morning worship service which begins at 10 a.m. They are urged to stay for the luncheon to be held at noon.

From 2 until 4 that afternoon the public is invited to attend an open house at the church.

Church gives away Bibles

St. Paul Lutheran Church gave away "Good News for Modern Man" Bibles at the Howard County Fair recently.

Winners were Joy Hester, J.T. Morgan, Myrtle Prather, Maggie Pittman, Homer Cupp, and Elmer Eckert. One Bible was given away each day of the week.

Church of God former pastor to speak

Brother O.D. Robertson will be visiting the College Park Church of God, Sunday. He is the former pastor of the church and will preach both morning and evening services. His wife, June Robertson, will speak at a salad luncheon Monday at noon. All ladies are invited to attend.

Rio Airways accidents investigated; pilots fired

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Six Rio Airways pilots have been fired in the wake of accidents that extensively damaged two planes.

The incidents came just after a National Transportation Safety Board study that showed the rate of accidents on commuter airlines is five times higher than on other airlines.

NTSB investigator Warren Wandel said a Rio Airways Swearingen twin turboprop carrying seven passengers landed about 15 feet short of the Killeen runway Aug. 27.

No one was injured, but the plane was in the air for several hours with structural damage to its left wing, landing gear and engine, he said.

"The damage wasn't noted by the crew or by the other crew who took over after them," Wandel said. "No one noticed it until the plane was pulled in for maintenance, then the maintenance crew caught it."

On Sunday, he said, a pilot on a Rio Airways flight from Wichita Falls failed to unlock the flight controls before takeoff and was forced to crash land on the runway.

Wandel said the DeHavilland Twin Otter, which carried 14 passengers, was airborne by the time the pilot realized the flight controls were locked.

When the controls remain locked, he said, the plane goes into a steep climb immediately after takeoff and can stall and crash.

"Through manipulation of power and flying the craft by using the rudder, the pilot was able to crash land the plane and avoid a serious accident," Wandel said. "By the time the pilot got the control unlocked, he was so close to the ground that he had no option but to pull the nose up and hit (the runway)."

No one was injured in that accident.

All six pilots involved in the accidents were fired and are being investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration.

"Even when the company releases a pilot, we still have to look into his competency," said R.E. Hazlett, FAA air carrier operations specialist. "We're still investigating the pilots in both accidents."

The FAA is authorized to revoke a pilot's license.

F.E. Howe, Rio Airways vice president and general manager, refused to comment on the two accidents, but said the company is "very demanding with its pilots."

Rio Airways, the nation's third-largest commuter airline based in Killeen, operates out of 12 cities in Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee with 200 flights daily.

Benefits for hostages divide Texas senators

WASHINGTON — Here's how the Texas delegation voted the week ending Sept. 18.

AMERICAN HOSTAGES
The Senate Monday decided against special benefits for American hostages in Iran.

By a vote of 41 to 43, the Senate rejected an amendment to the Foreign Service bill to increase the hostages' annual benefits. These benefits, if approved, would have exceeded those given to ex-prisoners of war.

VOTING FOR THE AMENDMENT: Sen. John Tower, R.

VOTING AGAINST THE AMENDMENT: Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D.

Concern for military preparedness dominated floor action this past week, as both the House and Senate passed several bills and amendments designed to increase U.S. defense capabilities. Some key military votes:

DOD APPROPRIATION:
Tuesday the House voted $157.5 billion in appropriations for the Department of Defense. That vote was 351 to 42.

For the first time in 10 years, Congress' defense appropriation exceeded the figure proposed by the White House, with an extra $2.5 billion tacked to President Carter's proposed figure. A large portion — $4.2 billion — of those funds is targeted for development and production of new weapons equipment.

VOTING FOR THE APPROPRIATION: Reps. Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Gramm, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Kazen.

NOT VOTING: Rep. de la Garza.

MILITARY RECRUITMENT:
The House also overwhelmingly passed an amendment to the DOD appropriations package setting aside $100 million for military recruitment. By a vote of 39 to 13, the House agreed to assist the armed forces in meeting its recruiting goals this year. Last year's goals were not met.

VOTING FOR THE AMENDMENT: Reps. Hall, Roberts, Gramm, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Kazen.

NOT VOTING: Reps. Wilson, de la Garza.

NERVE GAS WEAPONS FACILITY:

Both the House and Senate acted this week to begin construction of a factory to manufacture nerve gas weapons. Such weapons have not been produced in this country for 10 years.

Tuesday the Senate voted 52 to 38 for $3.15 million to construct a factory capable of producing the controversial weapons. Although production of the weapons themselves cannot begin without presidential approval, the Senate measure is the first step in the manufacture of nerve gas weapons.

VOTING FOR THE MEASURE: Sen. Bentsen.

NOT VOTING: Sen. Tower.

The House, too, approved funds for the nerve gas facility, which will be built in Pine Bluff, Ark. The vote was 125 to 275 not to kill the $19 million appropriation (a yes vote was a vote to kill the measure).

VOTING NOT TO KILL: Reps. Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Gramm, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Kazen.

NOT VOTING: Rep. de la Garza.
