GROUNDING — Robert McClure, owner of Trans Regional-Air and Sherry Johnson, secretary at the company, are shown taking a walking tour of the Big Spring Airport. Most flights were grounded Saturday as a result of the rain. The weatherman is giving the Spring City a 50 percent chance of rain today. High temperatures are expected today in the high 60s.

How much is too much? Yep, when it rains it pours

Some local residents were trying to add levity to a lingering situation Saturday by telling others: "We're taking out flood insurance."

Gushing waters continue to pose somewhat of a problem to people living in low-lying areas here as rain pelted down most of Saturday, continuing weather patterns that struck Howard County the middle of the week.

Few are really mad about the soggy countryside but the farmers are hoping for a lot of sunshine and the return of hot weather. Many are going to have to have it if they make any kind of cotton crop at all, but the question remains: How much (rain) is too much?

Big Spring was visited by another 1.1 inches of rain Friday. The showers lasted through the night. The clouds continued to pour tons of moisture upon the county Saturday. Upwards to 1.5 inches reportedly fell in some areas before the sun set, and the risk was great that more rain would fall before daybreak today.

Moss Creek Lake's rain gauge showed 1.2 inches of rain had fallen in the 24-hour period ending at 4 p.m., Saturday. That builds the week's total to more than seven inches.

The Wilkinson Ranch, located ten miles west of Big Spring, soaked up three inches in a 24-hour period ending Saturday afternoon and has had eight inches since last Monday. Ray Russel of Lomax reported light rain fell there throughout Saturday, turning heavier around 4 p.m.

Mrs. John Couch, Luther, said she had had 1.5 inches since Friday afternoon. That makes seven inches for the week and 13 inches thus far for September. On the year, the Couch gauge has trapped more than 23 inches.

"We could have used all this back in the middle of July," said Mrs. Couch, referring to the cotton crop that went too long without moisture at a very critical time.

Dispute over alcohol tests

SP engineers end picketing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Southern Pacific Railroad service was halted by a surprise strike in seven Western states Saturday, but less than 24 hours later, the union complied with a court order and called a halt to the walkout over mandatory intoxication tests.

"We're busy getting the men back to work after being served with a temporary restraining order," said Amy Foster, a spokeswoman for the 2,300-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Southern Pacific spokesman Henry Ortiz said: "It appears the picket lines are coming down. I don't know whether that means the men are going back to work or just stopping picketing."

Ortiz also said although no talks were scheduled on the intoxication test issue, "we will be talking to the union on the issues as soon as we can get the people together."

Shortly after the strike began Friday night, Southern Pacific spokesman Jim Loveland said the line was "effectively shut down west of El Paso, Texas."

The walkout affected 20,000 employees and 6,500 miles of track in Texas, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Nevada and Oregon. Operations in eight other states SP services were not affected.

The engineers were ordered back to work Saturday by U.S. District Judge William Ingram.

Ms. Foster said union representatives in the affected area were telephoned by union general chairman Leonard Foster and were told "to pull down the picket lines. I would assume they have already ceased" picketing, she said.

Loveland characterized the surprise walkout Friday night as an "illegal wildcat strike" because of an SP "experiment" employing an "electronic gadget" to ferret out any engineers coming to work under the influence of alcohol.

"No one who has taken the test has failed," Loveland said.

"We think if we can get together we can settle this. We consider it a minor issue," Loveland said.

Kay Holland elected by Demos, Slagle named party chairman

By WALT FINLEY

Kay Holland, Goliad Middle School teacher, was elected to the 30th Senatorial platform committee at the State Democratic Convention in Houston Saturday.

She was the only Howard County resident elected to a district office.

The energetic campaigner, shortly after her selection, said:

"I think politics is so exciting. It's a little like catching fish."

State committeewoman Jay Ray of Big Spring did not seek re-election. Mava Cooper, Roscoe, wife of Nolan County Democratic Chairman J.B. Cooper Jr., was elected to succeed Mrs. Ray. She was unopposed.

Calvin Gambill, Seymour, was elected 30th District committeeman for a third term. He drew no opposition, despite recent rumors he faced a tough battle.

"I have spent 30 years in Democratic Party politics," Gambill said. "I think President Jimmy Carter is going good, but it will take a lot of work to re-elect him."

Others in the area elected members of the new State Democratic Executive Committee at the convention, by senatorial districts, include:

Charles Scarborough, Abilene and Margaret Mills, Waco, district 24.

Harris Kerr, Midland, and Patti Ivey, Robert Lee, district 25.

Dan Hemphill, Odessa, and Ken Odam, Lubbock, district 28.

Tom Tollet, Littlefield, and Donna Forbes, Claude, district 31.

Texas Democrats elected Sherman attorney Bob Slagle as state party chairman in a floor vote indicative of the party's vow to rein in the governor's mansion.

In a raucous roll call vote, Slagle won 2,194 to 1,487 over El Paso State Rep. Luther Jones. Conservative Travis County Commissioner David Samuelson received 57 votes.

Boos punctuated the nominations of the three candidates for the powerful political office.

Numerous speakers pointed out it was the first time in memory that Democrats have chosen their state party chairman in an open convention. Previously, the speaker was chosen by the Texas governor, who is titular head of the party, or the gubernatorial nominee.

However, Democrats lost the governorship in 1978 when Bill

KAY HOLLAND

Clements became the first GOP Texas governor in this century.

Jones had been recommended 20-11 by a convention committee, but Slagle was brought to the floor on a minority vote. Samuelson had been nominated from the floor.

"Now let us move forward," a beaming Slagle said after his election. "Let us keep one thing in mind: Beat the Republicans."

Earlier top Democratic strategist Bob Strauss told group that President Carter may be down 50 to 75 electoral votes now "but I think we can get him home if we work."

"We are doing a lot of measuring," Strauss told the fund-raising breakfast, "and by ever measure we have made Ronald Reagan fails to meet the threshold of acceptability for president from the people of this country."

Actors strike might be ending

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The West Coast boards of two actors unions, which have been on strike for 69 days, on Saturday gave overwhelming approval to a tentative agreement for a new three-year contract with producers.

The boards said some actors might begin work on some shows prior to completion of the ratification vote.

The vote by the boards of the Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists came during a five-hour meeting at the SAG headquarters.

Iraq claims capture of oil city

Baghdad bombed

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq claimed its forces captured a key oil city 50 miles inside Iran on Saturday and said it launched air strikes all along the Iranian border in the sixth day of the Persian Gulf war.

Iran denied that the city of Ahwaz had fallen and called the Iraqi claim "a great lie."

Iranian jets attacked the Iraqi capital twice and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime spurned diplomatic efforts to end the fighting between the Moslem nations. Iran's air force chief said the war would go on until the Iraqi government "is annihilated."

Baghdad Radio said Iraqi troops captured Ahwaz, capital of Iran's oil-rich Khuzestan Province, and that the city's ethnic Arab population welcomed Iraqi troops with embraces. The radio told the people of Iraq the army was in Ahwaz and "your Arab brothers there are now under our protection." The city is 70 miles northeast of Abadan and 330 miles southwest of the Iranian capital.

Tehran Radio said Baghdad's claim to have captured the city was "a great lie" by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. The radio said Iranian forces were "still launching attacks from Ahwaz."

Iran reported heavy casualties in Iraqi air raids on the city earlier in the day.

Iraqi military communiques said warplanes inflicted heavy losses on Iranian forces in a series of strikes that ranged from Ahwaz in the south to Rizaiyeh in the north, only 100 miles from the Soviet Union's border. Iraq said it lost two planes in the far-ranging raids.

Iraq claimed it made destructive air raids on Sanandaj, north of Kermanshah, and set oil tanks ablaze in Masjed-e-Soleyman, 70 miles north-east of Ahwaz. Iraq also said its forces killed 80 Iranians in fighting 20 miles into Iran from the border crossing point at Qasr-e-Shirin in the central sector of the front.

Members of the U.N. Security Council huddled in New York prior to another meeting on the conflict between the two Persian Gulf states after Iran rejected mediation talks with an Islamic bloc delegation.

The Islamic countries went ahead with a "goodwill" mission headed by President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq of Pakistan. Zia arrived in Tehran and was received by President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr who has said talk of mediation is "meaningless." An Iranian religious leader said the Iran-Iraq war would "not solve the problem" of 52 American hostages, who mark their 330th day of captivity today.

Low-flying Iranian Phantom jets, operating alone and in pairs, bombed the Iraqi capital of Baghdad and anti-aircraft fire rattled throughout the day. Tehran radio also reported raids on the northern Iraqi cities of Kirkuk and Mosul.

In the Iraqi offensive aimed at Ahwaz — the capital of Khuzestan Province — and Dezful in the central sector of the front, Iraqi forces said they captured the town of Susangerd and raised the Iraqi flag. The town is about 20 miles from the Iranian border and 30 miles northwest of Ahwaz.

Iraq reported capturing large numbers of Iranian tanks and taking towns on the approaches to Dezful, 70 miles north of Ahwaz.

Iran's news agency said Soviet-built Iraqi jets attacked residential areas and the railway station in Ahwaz and that 28 were killed and 129 wounded in the raids. The agency said two Iraqi MiGs were shot down when they attacked Hamadan, 350 miles to the north.

Iraq has claimed its forces have taken about 125 square miles of disputed land.

Reagan hurt by stands against ERA, abortion

NEW YORK (AP) — Ronald Reagan's opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment and abortion appears to be costing him votes in his quest for the White House, particularly the votes of women.

The latest Associated Press-NBC News poll says Reagan draws less support from women than from men. And Jimmy Carter is the beneficiary of that difference, drawing much of the support among women that Reagan fails to get.

At least part of that weakness in Reagan's appeal to women comes from his stands against both the proposed ERA and abortion. Support for both is significant among all likely voters.

And Reagan does the worst among women who disagree with his positions on the two issues.

Interestingly, independent John B. Anderson, a strong supporter of the ERA and opponent of efforts to ban abortion, benefits only marginally from his policy differences with Reagan and Carter.

The AP-NBC News poll, taken Monday through Wednesday, says Reagan is the choice of 45 percent of the male likely voters, while Carter is the choice of 31 percent — a 14-point edge. Independent candidate Anderson is the choice of 13 percent and the rest were undecided or named others.

In contrast, the women among likely voters split their votes, with Reagan getting 39 percent and Carter 36 percent, with Anderson garnering 13 percent. Thus, Reagan enjoys a clear margin among men and only a rough split among women.

Reagan is strongly opposed to abortion and opposes ratification of the ERA. Carter and Anderson support the ERA. Carter personally opposes abortion, but he has said he does not support a constitutional amendment to ban abortion. Anderson has come out strongly for the right of a woman to have an abortion.

Both abortion and ERA are backed by people likely to cast ballots on Nov. 4, the AP-NBC News poll said.

A woman's right to an abortion is favored by a 72-34 margin among likely voters, with the remainder not sure. The ERA is backed a 41-28 edge, with 13 percent saying they are not sure and 16 percent saying they haven't heard of it.

On both issues, Reagan does best among those who agree with him.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Stop light data

Q. Are there plans to reinstall a regular stop light at 15th and Goliad Streets? If so, how soon can we expect it? Traffic backs up as deep as 15 cars on 15th Street about 8 o'clock each morning, when drivers are using Goliad to get to work or to school, making it very hard for the east-west traffic to clear the intersection.

A. The suggestion to install a light at that corner was presented to the Big Spring City Council by the Traffic Commission during the council's regular meeting on Sept. 9. During that meeting, the council approved the installation of several traffic signals, but this was not one of them. The consensus of the council was that the traffic problem at this corner was limited to those times of the day when parents were either picking up or dropping off their children at the schools along Goliad. Therefore, the cost of a new traffic signal may not be warranted. Councilmen, however, asked for more information about signal costs and traffic counts at the intersection for possible future action.

Birdwell resigns as rector of local Episcopal parish

The Rev. Harland (Steve) Birdwell has resigned as rector of the local Episcopal parish, effective Oct. 31, to accept a call from St. Andrews' Church in Roswell, N.M.

The minister of the Church of St. Mary The Virgin, in making known his plans to the wardens and the vestry of the church, said the decision to move was one of the most difficult of his life and he made it only after much thought, prayer and consultation with friends.

He said he was approaching the age at which it is most difficult for a priest to move in the Episcopal Church and it was his judgment that St. Mary's had reached a point when new leadership was needed.

The Rev. Mr. Birdwell visited St. Andrew's upon invitation Sept. 14, was elected rector that evening and the call was extended the following day.

Birdwell, a native of Snyder, is a well known civic worker here and was founder of the multi-story Canterbury Retirement Center located at 17th and Lancaster Streets, which he serves as a director.

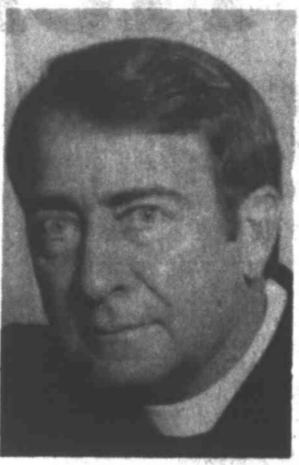

Birdwell came to Big Spring as the Episcopalian rector in 1968 and has served the local church since that time. Ordained into the priesthood in December 1965, he served as vicar of All-Saints Church in Colorado City and St. Stephen's in Sweetwater for three years prior to coming here.

An ex-Marine, Birdwell was in private business in Snyder from 1949 to 1961.

He was also founder and director of the Howard County Detoxification Center and the Howard County Family Counseling Center.

Among other duties he assumed was that of director of the Clinical Pastoral Education, Big Spring State Hospital; has been a member of the Patient Consent Committee of the Big Spring State Hospital; and has served as assistant chaplain of that institution.

He was an instructor in the Howard College School of Nursing, a director of the drug rehabilitation program of Howard County, a board member of the Howard

HARLAND BIRDWELL

County Council on Aging, twice president of the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship, a board member of the Salvation Army, the West Side Community and Day Care Center and a member of the screening committee of the Big Spring Police Department.

In 1958, he was named winner of the Outstanding Young Man Award by the Snyder Jaycees. In 1971, he was the ABMA's 'Boss of the Year.' In 1978, he was selected as the Outstanding Citizen of the Year by the West Texas unit of the National Association of Social Workers.

The Rev. Mr. Birdwell was educated at Texas Tech, the University of Kentucky and the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Kentucky after graduating from Snyder High School. He also attended the College of Preachers and Canterbury Summer School in England.

He is married to the former Charlene Ellen Smith. Two children, Cindy and Scott, were born to the union.

The local Vestry has formed a Search Committee to seek a successor to The Rev. Mr. Birdwell.

Julian Gonzales accepts offer

A graduation held by Malone-Hogan School of Radiologic Technology August 30 signaled achievement for two, while an orientation program held at the school the same week marked the beginning of two years of study for another five.

Commencement exercises for second year students Julian Gonzales and Melissa Brown were held that Saturday in the Cactus Room at Howard College. Gonzales won the Student Achievement Award.

Graduates of the two-year program are eligible to take the American Registry examination for Radiologic Technologists anywhere in the United States, according to Dr. Buerk Williams, Medical Director for the school.

"It's satisfying to know that students graduating from our program are highly regarded by prospective employers, Julian Gonzales, for instance, has been hired by a Longview hospital, Longview Regional Hospital.

It's a new hospital, just opened and owned by Hospital Corporation of America, parent company of Malone-Hogan Hospital," said Dr. Williams.

Beginning their training that same week, August 25-19, were five first year students, Janet Wiggins, Natalie Blackshear, Valerie Jones, Don Addy, and Lorraine Langford.

They all look like average, white-collar workers — some carry briefcases and newspapers. But others carry guns, have top secret government clearances and use special keys to operate a restricted elevator.

Once inside the unmarked, three-story office building, they report to heavily guarded rooms packed with electronic gear, world maps with flashing lights, decoding machines and paper shredders. They are not Army generals or CIA spies, but in a way they are fighting a war.

It is the war waged by a multitude of policing agencies against drug smugglers, illegal aliens and gun-runners.

The low-profile El Paso Intelligence Center here is where the U.S. government pools information from officers in the field and redistributes it to them — it's where the government's right hand gets to know the government's left hand.

"Several agencies might each have a single piece of information," said Deputy Director Horace Cavitt. "An airplane's tail number from the FAA. A license plate from Texas DPS. A name or a description from a police department. A suspicious situation from a sheriff."

"Sometimes when you piece all the bits of information together you see a pattern."

Once the pattern is recognized, surveillance is set up, Cavitt said. Then, officers in the field make the "bust."

Evidence of some arrests is contained in framed pictures that decorate the halls. They are aerial reconnaissance photographs, some of ships on the high seas which Cavitt said were "loaded down with marijuana."

Others show ships being unloaded on remote stretches of beach, with large bales of marijuana being stacked on shore while hidden agents watched before making the arrests.

"Narcotics, guns, aliens — that's what we're after," said Cavitt, who helps run this information clearinghouse set up by the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration in 1974 with 35 persons.

Today it has a staff of 130 and includes officers from eight federal agencies who share information on smugglers with local police, sheriffs and state troopers.

The Federal Aviation Administration is among the agencies with men here, because, Cavitt said, "over half of all aircraft stolen are used to smuggle narcotics."

"Because of this, we seek out notification of stolen aircraft — we already know there's a 50-50 chance it'll be loaded with dope."

In some cases satellites and other sensing devices used by the U.S. military help spot smugglers. The information is relayed to the center by U.S. Customs officers assigned to certain military units.

The U.S. Coast Guard has men here, as do federal marshals, the FBI, immigration, customs, the DEA and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

"This room is lined with lead and is totally soundproof when the door is shut," said Cavitt, who had to use a key to get the elevator to go to the top secret third floor — there is no button marked "3."

In a much larger room adjacent to the "cone of silence" about 10 persons monitor electronic screens, answer phones, chart targets on giant world maps or drink coffee. It is the command headquarters.

"It is interesting when a case starts breaking and you're following it here and assisting the field officers," Cavitt said.

Four fem GIs exhibited homosexual tendencies

ATLANTA (AP) — Four female soldiers at Fort McPherson have been granted honorable discharges by officials who allege the women exhibited homosexual "tendencies and acts."

Base spokeswoman Lulu Croft said the dismissals at the southwest Atlanta base this week came as a result of an inquiry by the Army's Criminal Investigating Division. The investigation was checking allegations of homosexual behavior, she said.

"The allegations... were substantiated in each case by the investigation," Ms. Croft said.

She said charges were pending against two other soldiers, an enlisted woman and a female officer.

No other such discharges from the Fort McPherson base have occurred within recent years, Ms. Croft said.

Each of the four enlisted women received an honorable discharge based on her previous performance of duty and military record, she said. The four were "roughly 22 to 30" years of age and worked in clerical jobs. At least one was in the military police.

The women were dismissed "since homosexual persons are considered unsuitable for military duty and are not permitted to serve in the armed services in any capacity," Ms. Croft said.

The women's names were not released. Ms. Croft said such action "would be inappropriate and it might be an invasion of privacy."

The Army discharged 198 men and 104 women in 1979 for alleged homosexual activity.

Fort McPherson houses the Army's Forces Command, which controls combat troops in the United States, Panama and Puerto Rico. With nearby Fort Gillem, the installation employs 2,000 military and 4,000 civilian personnel.

Myths about aging plague society

Few people ever plan on getting old. It just happens, and invariably it comes as a surprise and a shock to many. Aging is the price one pays for living and, considering the alternative, it's not a bad price to pay.

People are plagued by society's myths about aging, according to Dr. Alvin T. Levenson, chief of geriatric psychiatry at the University of Texas Health Science Center's Medical School in Houston.

ONE OF THE beliefs is that senility is an inevitable part of growing older, according to Levenson. "We are too quick to write off people as senile," the doctor says, adding that often we use senility as an excuse so that we do not have to cope with an older person's problems.

Another common myth is that everyone ages in the same way and at the same rate, according to the doctor. This belief fosters segregation of the elderly from life. "Chronological age often is a very inaccurate prediction of individual physical, mental and emotional status," Levenson adds.

"The myth of unproductivity also needs to be scrutinized more carefully," Levenson says. "It's an individual matter. The capacity for some form of gainful employment can usually continue as long as an individual wishes."

Then there is the matter of the "suffering old," a myth that should be examined more closely, the specialist in aging said. "All aged do not suffer, despite loss. Their capacity to rebound is often a function of reactions to similar situations in younger years."

Levenson is convinced that aging can be a successful experience, despite the myths, if people plan carefully for the December in life that is sure to come — if they stay here long enough.

"How successful you age psychologically depends in part on how well you maintain your psychological comfort throughout life," Levenson pointed out. "If you're successful at getting your defenses to equal the stresses of life before you reach 65, the chances of success after 65 go up."

Levenson says that first and foremost among the ingredients for successful living is that a person must be aware of what makes him psychologically comfortable. "We must look at those areas of our lives that reduce anxiety, such as work, recreation, marriage, associations with peers and education, and realize which ones are most important."

"We must look at how our needs are being gratified now, acknowledge these needs and make contingency plans for the elder years," he explained.

"Some people are more flexible than others, they just roll with the punches. Others are more rigid. These are the people who might consider actually writing down their plans for the elder years," the specialist said.

PLANNING FOR financial stability should be a must, according to Levenson, adding: "It's very expensive to age gracefully. People should make sure they have adequate money to provide for themselves when retirement comes."

(That becomes increasingly difficult as inflation eats away at nest eggs).

Fear of loss grips many people who have made a few laps in life — the loss of money through retirement, loss of a mate to death or loss of capacity through health. People should look down the road and decide how they will handle such losses.

Finally, Levenson says one of the major keys to successful aging lies in knowing yourself and your needs and how to meet them best now and in the future.

Walt Finley

Busy, busy Bill Hinkle, who celebrated his birthday Friday, just heard why the Roman Coliseum "Flight Shows" went out of business. The lions ate up all the Prophets.

A Florida vacation I saw advertised is described as a cruise in a "shanty houseboat."

Inflation has left most of us so strapped, I have a feeling many of us will be staying home next summer in our own shanties.

BROADCASTER JIM BAUM added class to his show by interviewing one of my leaders, Herald Editor Tommy Hart Friday morning. Jim revealed on his birthday Thursday that "some folks have been so scared by reading about the harmful effects of smoking that they have decided to give up reading."

Former Herald word chaser, Susan Andrews Allen, now livin' the good life in Amarillo and who celebrates her birthday Wednesday reminded me: A diet is mind over platter.

My former wildcat oilman neighbor, Roger Beard, said: Marriage is like a midnight phone call. You get a ring and then you wake up.

I WAS KIND OF PROUD when I got lucky and won second place for my "Rim" columns in the Harte-Hanks editorial contest.

Judge Allan M. Lazarus, managing editor, The Shreveport Times, commented: "His (Meaning me) columns offer an interesting variety of subjects and an engaging sense of humor." I was awarded $25.

I was eating breakfast at Herman's Restaurant last Sunday when low and behold from across the room boomed the voice of that frustrated Shakespearean actor the honorable District Attorney Rick Hamby:

"Walt don't spend all your prize money on breakfast!" So now dear readers, I'm once again my sweet, humble self.

TONY RODRIGUEZ, husband of the Herald's "Little Agate" and who stole a scene in "Hangar 18" will celebrate his birthday Friday in Miami, Fla. While in Miami this past week, Tony met a year-old boy named "Ty."

His father told Tony they named him Ty so that if he turned out to be stupid, he could at least spell the name.

When the population was enumerated, we were told we must answer a lot of personal questions or risk a large fine.

It's beginning to look like the government has taken leave of its senses.

One of the U.S. representatives who voted himself a pay raise (you can't fault these fellows for lack of gall) said:

"We are not two-bit Congressmen." He is right.

Dime a dozen is more like it!

There is a disagreement over whether Russian troops in Cuba are "combat" troops or "training" troops.

What is the difference between combatting or training somebody else to combat?

I just don't want to be the combate.

MARGIE GUZMAN, sister of Mary Helen Saldivar, Herald word chaser, celebrated her birthday Saturday as did Mary Helen's niece, Tracie S. Carmona. The Herald staffer said:

A little boy asked her mother if all fairy tales began with "once upon a time." "No," replied the mother, "today most of them begin with 'if I am elected.'"

Fast fingers Sandra Green, Herald word maker, asked:

Did you hear about the meteorologist who asked for a transfer because the weather didn't agree with him?

Greatest mistake

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It was inevitable that China opened its doors to the Western nations it would be corrupted by our evil ways. This thought occurred to me when I read in the newspaper that the National People's Congress had just passed the first income tax law "to safeguard China's economic interests." The leaders of the People's Republic have assured the populace that the law, in its present form, only affects 21 out of China's one billion population. The reason is that the bill provides for the equivalent of a $6,375 annual exemption, and except for 21 Chinese performers, artists and writers, no one else in the nation makes that kind of money.

LET THE people of the People's Republic beware! You may be safe from the Chinese IRS this year and possibly next year, but there hasn't been an income tax bill ever passed that didn't eventually include a majority of the country.

I can see a meeting of the 1982 National People's Congress. The Communist Finance Committee is scratching for revenue.

"Comrades, it is urgent that we raise another billion yen to pay for our cradle-to-the-grave birth control program."

The only way to do this is to lower everyone's exemptions and raise the rate of the income tax. We will assure the people that instead of 21 people being affected, only 10 million out of one billion will have anything to worry about.

"Of course, why didn't I think of that?"

Six months later, the deputy finance minister returns from a trip to the United States and reports to the party, "Comrades, I have seen a wondrous thing in America — a thing that no Chinese person would believe."

"So tell us, Wong Pu, what is this wondrous thing?"

"I have seen a machine that takes the income tax out of a person's salary before he receives his check."

"You are a capitalist load liar, Wong Pu. No such machine could do that."

"I swear on — who's in power this week?"

"Jiang Xiang."

"I SWEAR ON Jiang Xiang's head that I am telling the truth. I went to a U.S. zipper factory and asked a foreman how much salary he made. He said $450 a week. Then someone handed him his check and it was for $200. The head of the factory said a machine took out the $250 and mailed it to the government."

"If we can get one of those machines," a worker in the finance department said, "we could lower the tax exemption and only 300 million people would have to pay any income tax."

"The treasury department gave me one as a gift," the deputy finance minister said. "We can start right away."

"Of course, there would be a certain uproar about the tax, so the Chinese IRS could throw in a few tax-deductible items. For example, if you had lunch with someone and talked about the gang of four, it would be considered a business meal and could be deducted. If you took the head of your commune to the Beijing Opera in hopes he wouldn't make you clean out the horse barns, that would be a legitimate entertainment expense."

"And if you used your air raid shelter to store rice, it would be considered a tax shelter until there was an air raid."

Bureaucrats being bureaucrats and politicians being politicians, I predict that by 1990, one billion Chinese will be paying income taxes, except for 21 people who will be in the oil business.

It is not my place to criticize the National People's Congress in Beijing, but by starting an income tax in their country they have opened a Pandora's box that can never be shut. The moment you slap a personal income tax on your people, you invite H.R. Block to invade every commune in the land.

There are always a lot of people that sit on the sidelines and criticize others' abilities without really knowing or understanding the work they do. We, the Utilities Dept., have five-two man crews fighting a seemingly endless battle against main line breaks.

So if Mr. Proctor is a full time complainer on this subject, it may be to his advantage to look in to this job opening.

Carter courts Javits

Evans, Novak

NEW YORK — One discreet White House job feeler to Sen. Jacob K. Javits got nowhere, but President Carter is being urged to keep trying in view of what is at stake: the presidential election itself.

The fear in the Carter camp is that Javits, old and ailing, could in the twilight of a distinguished political career prove the instrument of Carter's defeat. Javits, though upset for Republican renomination in the Sept. 9 primary, is running on the Liberal ticket. That could strengthen the Liberal Party's presidential nominee, Rep. John Anderson, sufficiently to let Ronald Reagan defeat Carter in New York.

Contrary to the bravado displayed by Carter campaign manager Hamilton Jordan on his most recent political mission here, the president simply cannot be re-elected without New York's 41 electoral votes. Although Jordan told New Yorkers his chief could do without their troublesome state, the hard reality is that Ronald Reagan will have been elected president without anybody staying up for late returns if New York goes Republican.

SECRET POLL RESULTS from New York consequently make unpleasant reading at the White House. Carter and Reagan are in a virtual dead heat, with two unpleasant details from the president's standpoint: First, although Reagan has yet to win over the state's normal Republican vote, he may well do so; second, the big, habitually Democratic Jewish vote is simply not coming around to Carter.

Under these circumstances, New York's Liberal Party — which had been lingering through a slow death of attrition until it became a shelter for the non-collaborating Anderson and Javits — could do in Carter. "I'm afraid Javits and Anderson on the same ticket could bring support to each other without endorsing each other," a Carter strategist told us.

Jack English, the New York Kennedy Democrat who since the national convention has been Carter's deputy national campaign chairman, had this in mind on the evening of Sept. 9 when he heard the shocking news that the state's increasingly conservative Republican electorate had rejected Javits. English urged the president to place a condolence telephone call to the liberal Republican.

Carter did so. Nothing so crude as a job offer was made in return for Javits bowing out of the race. But the promise of a high-level diplomatic post was conveyed from an authoritative Carter operative to a Javits confidante. It aroused no interest, and Javits is now on the state ballot to stay.

The establishment Republicans who have been Javits' closest supporters told him that it would be "ignominious" to close out his political career by quitting the Senate race in return for an ambassadorial post. It is indeed ignominious for Javits, at age 76 in his 24th year in the Senate, to finish as a pawn in presidential politics.

IT IS ALSO demeaning for Javits, once considered New York's premier vote-getter, to find himself running third to two unknowns, ultra-liberal Democratic Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman and Javits' Republican conqueror, ultra-conservative township supervisor Alfonso D'Amato of Hempstead, Long Island.

Medicine requires round education

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

(E.M.G. writes asking about frozen shoulder.)

A frozen shoulder means that there is severe restriction of all movements of the shoulder joint. There are two kinds of frozen shoulder — primary and secondary.

Primary frozen shoulder just happens, with no cause to be found. It may come on suddenly or develop over a prolonged period of time. In addition to limitation of movement there is pain, especially at night.

If a disease cause can be found, it is called "secondary." The cause may be rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis or a fracture.

The primary kind may get better on its own while the pain is treated with analgesics, like aspirin. Occasionally, cortisone shots are required to provide relief from pain. Some orthopedic surgeons try to break the inflammation scar tissue that forms in the frozen shoulder by manipulating the joint while the patient is under anesthesia. For the secondary kind, those same measures are used while the underlying cause is being treated. A specially-designed program of physical therapy involving exercises for the shoulder joint may be very effective for some people. It is important to regain joint mobility within the limit of pain as quickly as possible.

Dear Dr. Donohue: How can you get rid of cramps that come on with exercise? — N.N.

It sounds a bit smug to tell you that the best thing for muscle cramps is prevention, but it's true. First, I'll answer your specific question.

Gentle massage is probably the best way to relieve a mild muscle spasm, which is what a cramp is. Application of ice to the muscle area also is effective.

We are not really certain why cramps occur, but they have some pretty good ideas. Water (and hence mineral) loss from sweating is a strong candidate for cramp villain. Lack of adequate blood circulation to the affected area is another. Both of these can be cut off at the pass by assuring adequate fluid intake, particularly on very hot days, and by eating no sooner than a few hours before athletic activity.

If you take these precautions and still get cramps, you may need help in stretching the muscles. Stretching exercises and muscle massage before activity is helpful. Exercising muscles on a regular basis, and not just on the days of activity (like the day of a golf outing) is essential. For other tips on cramping, see the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." For a copy, write me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What, if any, are the therapeutic advantages of saunas? Do you consider them safe? Do they eliminate poisons in the system by sweating? — M.M.

Sauna devotees make claims for improved circulation in the body as a whole. I can understand that, but I cannot buy the idea of saunas eliminating poisons from the system by way of opened pores.

Saunas should be used cautiously by people who have high blood pressure or heart disease. There is a considerable loss of fluid and salt from sweating. The heart may be over stressed in trying to maintain blood pressure through vessels expanded by the heat at the same time body fluid is being lost in sweating.

In all probability, saunas have no bad effects on healthy individuals. For me the benefit is the relief felt when walking out of them.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Does training at high altitudes increase my endurance when I return to normal elevations? — M.C.

That trick has been tried, but there is no good evidence that it works.

Nations spending lots for arms

It's not easy beating inflation but world arms expenditure did that in 1979, rising by considerably more than the 12 percent overall jump in world price levels.

Spending topped a half-trillion dollars, according to the latest annual survey of "World Military and Social Expenditures."

Much of the increased cost of arms is a consequence of ever more complex and expensive technology. Where a World War II tank cost about $50,000, the new U.S. battle tank is priced at $1.5 million. Vast funds have also been poured into anti-tank weaponry to produce "smart" missiles that can destroy targets at a single shot.

That's progress?

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I feel like most of the people in my church are just "playing church" and are not really sincere. I have gotten so discouraged that I have no interest in attending church any more. Can you understand why I would feel that way. — Mrs. F.G.

DEAR MRS. F.G.: Yes, I can understand why you would feel that way, but I do not agree with your feelings or your decision to stop going to church.

In the first place, you must be careful of a harsh judgmental attitude about others. Remember that some of Jesus' sharpest comments were directed at those Pharisees who were outwardly very religious but were full of pride and arrogance — attitudes which God dislikes. There may well be many people in your church who are sincere believers, although they may not be spiritually mature or may be what Paul called the Corinthians: "Brothers, I could not address you as spiritual but as worldly — mere infants in Christ" (I Corinthians 3:1). And yet Paul did not give up on the Corinthians, but sought to help them grow up in their spiritual understanding.

Then you also should realize that even if your church has many people in it who apparently have little interest in spiritual matters, God does not necessarily want you to withdraw from it. For one thing, you need the fellowship of other believers, so even if (after prayer) you feel God wants you to leave this particular group, you should ask him to lead you to Christians who will help you grow spiritually. Bit it may be that God wants you to stay in this church and have a ministry in it. If what you say about it is accurate, there are people in it who need to know Jesus Christ in a personal way. There may be others who need to be challenged to a deeper level of commitment and discipleship. And God may want you to be used of him in sharing Christ with others there.

The church at Sardis had a good reputation, and yet God said that it was spiritually dead. But his command was this: "Wake up! Strengthen what remains and is about to die" (Revelation 3:2). And God may want you to "strengthen what remains" in your church — beginning with your own life.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: I am writing in regards to the letter written by Don R. Proctor which appeared in Monday's Herald.

As a Utilities foreman, my job requires replacing and repairing busted water mains. I think it's high time someone read the views about this subject from the other side of the "river."

There are always a lot of people that sit on the sidelines and criticize others' abilities without really knowing or understanding the work they do. We, the Utilities Dept., have five-two man crews fighting a seemingly endless battle against main line breaks.

These crews practically work around the clock, some of us even put in over 100 hours overtime in a single month. Furthermore, the Water Dept. receives 20 or more calls a day — every day! When I read Mr. Proctor's letter, I was deeply hurt and I'm sure the rest of the department feels the same way. We now have an opening and City Hall is taking applications for anyone interested in giving their full attention to the water breaks in town.

So if Mr. Proctor is a full time complainer on this subject, it may be to his advantage to look in to this job opening.

Founding of Sunday School to be observed in local church

The 200th Anniversary of the Founding of the Sunday School will be observed at First United Methodist Church with a worship service today at 10:50 a.m.

A dramatization of the beginning of Sunday School in 1780 will be followed by recognition and dedication of the leaders and teachers of the Christian Education Department.

The Sunday School movement dates back to 1780 and a newspaper publisher in England, Robert Raikes. Looking at the plight of thousands of children who were working sixteen hours a day and spending their spare time on the streets, Raikes felt they should have a chance to write and become acquainted with the Scriptures.

To accomplish his dream, he began to hold school for the youngsters on Sunday mornings, the only time they were not required to work. The idea spread quickly through the English-speaking world, in part through Raikes' influence as the editor of The Gloucester Journal.

Sunday School showed phenomenal growth and soon became a popular international movement. In our own nation the idea took root early and over the years Sunday Schools have become an important educational component of nearly every Protestant Church. The First United Methodist Church is joining other Protestant churches across the United States, Canada, England, and other nations during 1980 to remember and celebrate the 200th Anniversary of the Founding of the Sunday School. Many churches plan to use the occasion to look at the past, to examine their present, and in light of both to begin planning for more effective programs in their churches to make educational mission available to all.

Eliminating hunger... feeding the world... wiping out the malady of malnutrition. These are worthy and respected ambitions. To be obtained, causes and solutions need to be better defined. Most simply stated the problem is not lack of food. It is lack of money. Therefore, it is a common error to look to the farmers of this country to solve the world's hunger problems. If we want to eliminate the malnutrition around the world, if we want to feed the world... then everyone must share the cost. Not just the producers. Farmers and ranchers will be doing more than their share because they will be working harder, spending more money and taking greater risks. Discussions of possible solutions will be included in upcoming decisions on agricultural policies. Hopefully, those decisions will be fair to the men and women whose agrarian abilities have made it possible to even consider solving the problem.

Whatever his FBI boss wants

Mexican-American plays Russian

By JOE TAYLOR
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON — One morning in December, 1976, Raul Salinas' boss called him in and told him to shave off his moustache.

Salinas, who grew up in Alice, Tex., is an FBI agent stationed in the nation's capital. His superior told him he needed an agent to take part in the arrest of a disgruntled CIA employee who wanted to sell some sensitive documents to the Russians.

Salinas is a stocky man, with short black hair. His boss thought he could pass for a Russian. He thought for a minute and agreed... a Mexican-American playing a Russian... how funny... well, whatever the boss wants.

This former CIA man had thrown a box over the big iron fence at the Russian embassy and the Russians, thinking it was a bomb, called the FBI.

As it turned out, the Russians didn't know the box was full of secret papers and a note promising more classified information if some money were paid.

The FBI plan called for Salinas, who once dreamed of being a Texas Ranger, to deliver a bag containing about $4,000 to the employee while other agents watched.

"I had on this Russian coat and a Russian hat and I was driving a van," Salinas recalls. "I drove out to Bethesda (Md.) and threw the package with the money in it and then drove away. It was his house. This guy was standing out there raking leaves. They picked me to do this because they thought I looked like this Russian chauffeur."

At first, the man didn't touch the package, but when a group of boys on a bicycle came up and started to pick it up, the ex-CIA man fought them for it. Then FBI agents who had been watching the whole affair went in, arrested the man on extortion and espionage charges and that was that. He is still in prison.

Such has been the time Salinas has spent in Washington since arriving here in 1968 after spending time in Texas as a disc jockey and newspaper reporter. He worked as an aide to U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, and then joined the U.S. Capitol Police after the Washington, D.C., riots of 1968 before going to work for the FBI.

Now, Salinas, 33, has another responsibility. He is assigned to the Equal Employment Opportunity and Public Affairs Office at FBI headquarters in the capital. His job is recruiting minorities and building good will in the Hispanic community.

He also moderates a weekly FBI-produced public service radio program airing on about 70 stations in 15 states.

Although he's run into a few skeptics who think he's sold out, Salinas doesn't equivocate. He likes the FBI and he's proud he's an agent.

"I'm trying to establish better rapport with the community," he says. "We have a responsibility to serve the community, and if you don't have support, we all suffer."

He frowns when asked about some of the negative reaction.

There was the time in New York when a professor asked him point blank if he considers himself a sellout and why he joined an organization that harrasses his brothers and sisters. That hurt, he says.

In Houston, shortly after Jose Campos Torres died when he was thrown into a bayou by three Houston policemen, he ran into more anger as he spoke to a group about the FBI. This time it was from members of the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC).

"I was on the hot seat a couple of hours," he says. "Everybody was emotional. Some people came up to me and implied I'm not their friend."

But, he says he tells them "the day when I feel the FBI isn't conducting professional investigations, then I'll turn in my badge."

The FBI itself admits that recruitment of minorities had been lax until recently. Of about 8,000 agents nationwide, only about 240 are Hispanic and 230 black.

Through the radio show, Salinas hopes to change that. He'll speak at schools and to groups, anywhere they will listen.

One thing about it — he's adept at using his personal experiences to convince others about the FBI. He tells how he helped investigate the assassination of Chilean Ambassador Orlando Letelier in Washington several years ago. He tells about going to Arkansas to help process the Cuban refugees. In both cases, his ability to speak Spanish was invaluable.

"I'm come from a little town and gotten to do things most young people can't do," he says. "I've been a lot of places and I'd like to help others. But you can't convince some groups the FBI is on your side. It takes time to win some of them over."

And winning them over, he says, is a battle worth fighting.

Senate on record against Carter's grain embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate went on record against President Carter's grain embargo Friday despite a warning that it was answering the mistake with another.

The senators adopted by voice vote a move to place an anti-embargo rider on a bill that had already been amended to ban the Justice Department from spending money to require busing of students for integration.

Opponents of the grain embargo kept their amendment alive by a motion to reconsider the vote. This carried 43-39 and opponents of the amendment agreed to the voice vote.

The amendment would forbid any federal expenditure to enforce the embargo ordered by Carter last January in retaliation for Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Shortly before the vote, Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., took the floor to say the embargo had resulted in "a weak dollar, a chronic trade deficit, inflation and economic stagnation."

"Having said all that," he added, "I must also say that one mistake does not deserve another."

"It would humiliate the nation and embarrass its president," Stevenson said. "There never is a good time for doing that."

"But the events in Poland and Southwest Asia make this a particularly inappropriate time to undermine the presidency and the authority of the U.S."

The bill still must return to the House for consideration of other Senate changes.

Sens. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., George McGovern, D-S.D., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., argued strenuously Thursday night against the grain embargo, saying it has hurt American farmers much more than Soviet leaders.

"Brezhnev is not going to go hungry," McGovern declared, referring to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev. "The Soviet military command won't go hungry."

Dole called the embargo on grain shipments "a disaster," and Pressler pointed out that the Red Army is still in Afghanistan.

"In terms of strategic action, the embargo has failed," Pressler said. "In the meantime, it is costing U.S. farmers hundreds of millions of dollars."

However, Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., said there is evidence the embargo is having an effect, forcing the Soviet Union to pay more for grain on the world market, leading to labor unrest and causing embarrassment in the Kremlin by showing weakness in the Soviets' farm system.

Hollings also said farmers apparently "are ready to sacrifice" for the sake of Carter's "limited response" to the Soviet military action.

That support, Hollings said, was indicated by Carter's Democratic primary victory in Iowa shortly after the embargo was announced.

Texas utility pushing for PUC control of rates

By JACKIE CALMES
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — In the jargon of the industry, it's known as "giving up the O.J."

Swear off orange juice? Hardly. Rather, local governments in 77 small cities, primarily in Central and East Texas, have relinquished original jurisdiction over setting rates to the Texas Public Utility Commission in Austin.

Of those 77 cities, 69 are in Texas Power & Light Co.'s service area, including the largest city on the list — Corsicana, population 20,000 — and the smallest — nearby

Mustang, population 8.

TP&L says that's just a coincidence. But city representatives say TP&L put the squeeze on its smaller customer cities, lobbying them to give up the O.J. to a utility commission that critics describe as pro-industry.

Other utilities, notably West Texas' Community Public Service, reportedly are following TP&L's example.

Several sources say TP&L's campaign occurred before it filed with the commission for a rate increase last January, and after the 1979 legislature rejected a utility-sponsored measure to remove original jurisdiction from all cities, large and small.

Texas cities have first shot at setting utility rates for their residents. But in 1975, the legislature created the utility commission, to which companies can appeal if they are dissatisfied with locally set rates.

It was utility lobbyists' idea in 1975 to let the cities keep original jurisdiction. They viewed the fledgling commission as a pro-consumer trap while relations with cities had been profitable.

Then cities began slashing rate hike requests. Utility appeals became routine. In 1979, lobbyists were back at the legislature with their unsuccessful pitch that cities be stripped of rate-making authority.

Utilities say city rate reviews are a waste of time and money. It is true that city action is effectively meaningless. That's because the commission has jurisdiction over rates in rural areas and it ultimately applies the same rates to the cities when utilities appeal.

Even so, most local officials — whether they enjoy the political mileage of standing up to a utility or sincerely believe companies should have to justify their rates to the people who pay them — jealously guard their right of original jurisdiction.

Corsicana officials did not. Last November, they voted 3-2 to give up the O.J.

"They (the notice) flooded in here just because TP&L came in for their rate case," the commission's Ms. Bartow says.

"TP&L put an exerted move on for them to do that," says Texas Municipal League attorney Don Butler, who represents cities in rate cases at the commission.

"I'm surprised, given the political pressures that were applied, that they're weren't more cities that gave up jurisdiction," Butler says.

About a year ago, he recalls, several city officials sent the municipal league copies of letters they had received from TP&L.

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Buck Belue fired two touchdown passes, kicker Rex Robinson became the school's all-time leading scorer and a swarming defense set up two quick fourth quarter touchdowns as 10th-ranked Georgia buried Texas Christian 34-3 in college football Saturday.

The Bulldogs, struggling offensively early in the game, finally assumed command on their sixth possession when freshman tailback Herschel Walker bolted 41 yards to the 8, setting up Belue's 4-yard scoring pass to Ronnie Stewart.

Walker, suffering a slightly sprained ankle on the play, was used briefly as a decoy in the second quarter, but never carried again the rest of the day and finished with 69 yards on 9 carries. Officials said the injury wasn't serious, but that they were no taking no chances.

Razorbacks hang on to tame Hurricane

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Ish Ordonez kicked a 41-yard field goal with 7:28 left in the game and 15th-ranked Arkansas eked out a 13-10 victory over fumble-plagued Tulsa Saturday.

Tulsa lost five fumbles and turned the ball over on downs once at the Arkansas 2, but still came within a hair of tying Arkansas. Stu Crum's 46-yard field goal attempt with 2:40 to play was wide right and Arkansas killed the clock.

Tulsa had a chance for a chip shot field goal when it drove 35 yards to the Arkansas 3 with less than six minutes left in the third quarter, but the Hurricane disdained the field goal. Running back Kenneth Lacy's fourth-down dive was inches short of a first down.

Oklahoma Sooners shocked by Stanford Tribe, 31-14

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback John Elway fired three touchdown passes and burned fourth-ranked Oklahoma with some timely running as he led Stanford to a 31-14 upset Saturday.

Elway hit on 14 of 25 passes for 187 yards as the Cardinals jumped to a 17-0 halftime advantage on the rain-slicked artificial turf of Owen Field.

Stanford stretched the lead to 31-0 before Oklahoma finally scored.

Elway, a 6-foot-4, 202-pounder, threw two of his scoring passes to split end Andre Tyler, and scored once as the Cardinals rebounded from an upset loss last week to Boston College and pushed their record to 3-1.

The defeat snapped a 20-game home winning streak for the Sooners, 1-1, after a 29-7 victory over Kentucky two weeks ago. Oklahoma had not lost since it played Texas at Dallas last year.

Art Schlichter on target as Ohio State triumphs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Quarterback Art Schlichter set a school record with three touchdown passes Saturday, propelling second-ranked Ohio State to a 38-21 romp over Arizona State in a matchup of college football unbeatens.

Schlichter, a junior, now has 21 touchdown passes in his career. That breaks the Ohio State record of 19, which Schlichter shared previously with John Borton and Rex Kern.

Unknowns boosting 2 teams

By The Associated Press
They're a couple of "who's he?" running backs, virtually unknown. Yet they lead the American Conference in rushing. And on Sunday, when the Oakland Raiders meet the Buffalo Bills, they perform on the same field.

First, with 235 yards, is the Raiders' Kenny King, obtained from Houston in the deal that sent defensive back Jack Tatum to the Oilers. A year ago, King played in the shadow of two-time rushing champion Earl Campbell. Understandably, King didn't get the ball much — three times all year for a whopping nine yards gained.

Second, with 199 yards, is the Bills' Joe Cribbs, a second-round draft choice out of Auburn who gained 1,205 yards as a junior and 1,120 as a senior. His 16 touchdowns in 1978 and 34 TDs overall are Auburn records for a season and career.

Oh, don't write off Campbell just yet. He's third with 174 yards, but he may not be at full strength Sunday when the Oilers face Cincinnati because of a recurring groin injury which knocked him out of last Sunday's Oilers victory over Baltimore.

Also on Sunday it's Chicago at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Tampa Bay, Dallas vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Los Angeles at the New York Giants, Minnesota at Detroit, New Orleans at Miami, Philadelphia at St. Louis, Atlanta at San Francisco, the New York Jets at Baltimore, San Diego at Kansas City and Seattle at Washington. Monday night's game is Denver at New England.

By now, more than a few fans figured, the Raiders would be staggering around the depths of the AFC West and the Bills would be stumbling around the bottom of the AFC East.

Surprise! The Raiders, written off as a hopeless case with the departure of quarterback Ken Stabler, have won two of three games to remain, at this stage, a team with that to be reckoned. And the Bills, supposedly defenseless, have won all three of their games to lead their division.

Ponies batter Mavs, 52-16

DALLAS (AP) — Sophomore running back Eric Dickerson scored three touchdowns as the Southern Methodist Mustangs turned two interceptions and a blocked kick into scores in a 52-16 rout of the Texas-Arlington Mavericks Saturday night.

The 6-3, 205-pound, Dickerson got the first two touchdowns on a pair of three-yard runs in the first quarter, the second one coming after Lane Smith interception and 20-yard return to the UTA 27.

SMU, now 3-0, padded its lead to 21-0 on Mike Ford's 12-yard pass to Anthony Smith in the second quarter, and reserves lacked on two more touchdowns before half time.

Wes Hopkins' interception and 41-yard return to the 21 set up a one-yard sneak by quarterback Mike Fisher in the second quarter. Cornerback Dick Blaylock blocked a UTA kick in the end zone giving SMU the ball on the 14, and Lance McIlhenny hit Edward O'Brian with a pass for the touchdown with three seconds left in the first half.

Soph tailback Tony Hernandez gained 77 yards in 12 carries for Stanton. Tackles Greg Douglas and Danny Hernandez glistered on offense for Stanton.

On defense, linebacker Johnny Christian, cornerback Rusty Allred, tackle Danny Hernandez and linebacker Greg Douglas were impressive for the Buffaloes.

Language arts gives achievement tests

By JANA WHITEHEAD
Several times during the school year the Megaphone reporters will highlight a new faculty member at Goliad. Mr. Royce Don Cox is the vice-principal. He attended Carney High School in O'Brian, Texas. He went to West Texas State University in Canyon, Texas for his Master of Education degree. He also attended Sul Ross University. Mr. Cox enjoys golfing, bass fishing, and officiating at baseball and softball games.

The first coaches' dance was held last Saturday night at the YMCA. The dance drew a very large crowd of sixth, seventh and eighth grade students. The next dance will be held in about a month.

Last week the Goliad students started their annual achievement tests. The tests were administered Tuesday through Friday. All of the students in Goliad took these tests. Mr. Lee J. Freeze, counselor at Goliad, supervised the testing, which was done through the Language Arts department. The volleyball girls divided into four teams this week to play each other in practice games. The Mavericks, Steers, Yearlings and Longhorns are the teams. The Goliad volleyball teams will be in action Sept. 30 against Colorado City.

Last Thursday the Goliad Maverick football teams went up against Lamesa. The games were played at Blankenship Field. The Goliad Black team won with a score of 14-0. The Goliad White team lost 0-14.

The Goliad choirs sold shampoo to raise money for choir funds. At last report the shampoo sale was being called a success. The Megaphone reporters would like to wish the choirs good luck.

Beginning last Monday one student from the seventh grade and one student from the sixth grade received a Goliad button. The students' names were drawn out of stacks, one for the sixth grade and one for the seventh grade. Timothy Dan Carroll won the seventh grade button and the sixth grade button was won by Kevin Williams.

The students at Goliad really appreciate the hard work that our custodians give us this year. These men are: Leo Hatten, Luis Martinez, Edward Mendez and Manuel Vargaz.

Attention focused on parent involvement

Research is confirming the obvious — parents are important people in the development of the child. "The decade of the eighties," says Hester Herbst, president of the Texas PTA, "will find parents re-examining their roles as the child's first and most important teacher and becoming more directly involved in the educational process." A recent Gallup Poll even predicts that "the next great advance in education will come when parents and teachers work as a team."

Texas PTA, the largest organization representing the interests of parents in the state, is focusing attention during October on opportunities for parents to participate in the educational process through a series of programs sponsored jointly with Educational Testing Service and World Book-Child Craft International, Inc. Programs will be held at West Texas State University in Canyon on Oct. 13, the Midland Convention Center on Oct. 15, and the El Paso Public School Administrative Office on Oct. 16. Teachers, counselors, school administrators, and parents from public, private, and parochial schools are encouraged to attend the seminars, which will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude around 2:30 p.m. on these dates.

Dr. Keith Osborn, keynote speaker for the Canyon and Midland conferences, will address the group on the role of the parent in education during the 1980's. Currently a professor of elementary education at the University of Georgia, Osborn formerly served as the first national director of Head Start and was a member of the planning committee for the popular TV series "Sesame Street." He has written numerous articles for parents and professional journals on innovative programs for early childhood education and on the effects of TV violence on children.

Nebraska given help?
Fry cries 'foul'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — University of Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry has charged that a former aide of his supplied the University of Nebraska with volumes of information about Fry's coaching tendencies that helped Nebraska in its 57-0 humiliation of Iowa last Saturday.
 In a story in Saturday's editions, the Des Moines Register quotes Fry as saying that Jerry Moore, a former assistant on his staff at Southern Methodist, cooperated with Nebraska. Fry did not claim there was anything illegal about the assistance Moore allegedly gave Nebraska.
 Moore was an aide with Nebraska in 1972, then succeeded Fry as North Texas State head coach when Fry came to Iowa in 1978.
 Fry said Nebraska had "the book, the audibles, the whole thing."
 "We came here so quick that we left six years of game film from North Texas State, plus the last two at Southern Methodist," Fry said.

 "I'm an old coach who sticks with things that work. You break down eight years of films, throw the information in a computer, and you can get a pattern of tendencies in a hurry."
 "The films are silent and you don't acquire audibles from silent films. I don't know the extent that North Texas cooperated with Nebraska, but Jerry spent a week at their last spring practice."
 He said he and his coaches were suspicious during the game because Nebraska seemed to know so much about his team. He said his suspicions grew as he studied the game films "so we started calling around."
 "I won't call Tom Osborne (Nebraska coach) because Nebraska did nothing illegal in acquiring all the information possible," Fry said. "They beat us, 57-0. But with all the information they had, they're not as good as it seemed and we're not as bad."

Pups win 2 games

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Junior High Bullpups completely dominated play here Thursday night, taking two shutout wins over the Stanton Junior High teams.
 Coahoma won the seventh grade contest by a score of 18-0 and the Stanton game by a score of 30-0.
 Coahoma scored twice in the seventh grade game's opening half, the first on a 33-yard run by Louis Salazar following a blocked punt, and the second on a seven-yard run by Jimmy Paul. Both PAT's failed.
 The Coahoma seventh graders edged the game in the final frame when Jimmy Trawick ran in from the four. The PAT failed.
 Offensive stars for Coahoma, now 1-2 for the year, were Barry Stafford, Paul, and Darrell Aberberg.
 Defensive plaudits for the Coahoma seventh graders went to Ben Neel with six tackles, Salazar with four and Gary Vaughn with five stops.

Fumbles betray Ponies in game with Loraine

ACKERLY — Fumbles, caused for the most part by a wet ball, betrayed the Sands Mustangs here Friday night in their game with Loraine. The visitors won, 20-0.
 The resident Mustangs dabbled the ball nine times during the game and lost possession on seven occasions.
 Following the recovery of a Sands miscue at the Sands five in the opening period, Tony Williams scored from one yard out on a dive play.
 In the second, QJ Hector Sanchez sneak across from a yard out for Loraine's second score following recovery of a Sands fumble. A reverse pass from Williams to Amando Rodriguez produced the two extra points.
 In the third, Williams went across from three yards out for Loraine's third TD of the night. A Sands fumble set up that score, too.
 On defense, Scott Zant and Ronnie Long stood out for Sands. The Mustangs could make only one first down and 48 yards in total offense against Loraine's rugged line.
 The Ponies will host Smyer next Friday night.

'Fame' musical drama of Manhattan hopefuls

Metro Goldwyn-Mayer's "Fame" is a contemporary musical drama set against the background of Manhattan's celebrated High School of Performing Arts. It's a hard look at the lives of eight young people trying to gain a foothold in the worlds of music, drama and dance during their four years of attendance.

Every film has a vision and "Fame's" belongs to director Alan Parker. An Englishman making his first film in America, as well as his first film since the Oscar-winning success, "Midnight Express," Parker found New York to be an exhilarating mixture of the glamorous and the tawdry. It is this vision, as well as the director's feelings for the young people who struggle to make it in this great city, that are at the heart of "Fame."

As a contemporary musical drama, "Fame" is a provocative mixture of romanticism and realism. The streets and classrooms of New York City form a gritty backdrop for the hopes and dreams of the students of the High School of Performing Arts. Dramatic excerpts in the film range from Shakespeare to stand-up comedy; the musical embraces temporary rock and disco.

The first draft script, written by Christopher Gore and initially developed by coproducer David De Silva, was submitted to MGM and sent on to Alan Parker for his consideration. Intrigued by the potential of the original script and after spending time at the school, Alan Parker accepted the project.

After some cooperation from the New York unions, Alan Parker and producer Alan Marshall were able to bring their English colleagues — Director of Photography Michael Seresin; Production Designer Geoffrey Kirkland; Editor Gerry Hambling, and Camera Operator John Stanier, — with them to New York, maintaining their collaboration on every film over the last ten years.

Talent and having the right quality for a role, rather than experience, were the guidelines set down by Parker for casting. One of two of the cast will be familiar to some filmgoers. Barry Miller, who portrays Ralph, a hip, young Puerto Rican, has been seen in "Saturday Night Fever" as the pathetic member of John Travolta's group of friends. Irene Cara, cast as the ambitious and gifted singer, Coco, has appeared in leading roles in "Aaron Loves Angela" and "Sparkle," as well as in numerous Broadway and off-Broadway shows. Maureen Teefy, portraying Doris, a sheltered Brooklyn girl who blossoms during her years at the High School, was seen in "1941."

Additional cast members of "Fame" are versatile comedienne and actress Anne Meara.

Forty-sixth Street Jam — An upbeat, high tempo musical is played out on New York's West 46th Street for MGM's "Fame," which opened Friday in Big Spring through release by United Artists, a Transamerica Company.

The Windsor Story' Modern romance tragedy

By MARY CRAWFORD
LIBRARIAN, HUNT LIBRARY

"And they married and lived sadly ever after." Fewer tales of modern romance have ended on a more dismal note than that of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. In this biography, the authors give us the most intimate, revealing portrait that has been presented of the royal couple.

The Murphys became acquainted with the Windsors after World War II when both were officers in the U.S. Air Force Reserve and did tours of duty in Paris. In 1947 Charles Murphy helped the Duke with his autobiography, A KING'S STORY, and in 1955 he and Wallis did her THE HEART HAS ITS REASONS. Over the years the writers saw the century's most celebrated romance fraying out before their eyes. The position Wallis Simpson wanted, to be Queen, her husband had forfeited in order to have her as his wife. The love he craved, she could not give. Each had ended by defeating the other.

Wallis Warfield, born in Baltimore, Md., June 19, 1896, came from the poor branch of a rich family, never quite on the social level of her other relatives. From this background she escaped at 20 to marry Lt. Spencer, a Navy pilot who turned into a drunkard and sadist. She divorced Spencer and took a Latin lover, who wound up dumping her. She was luckier in 1928 when she married Ernest Simpson, an Englishman, decent and considerate, who even had money. But, being English, when he realized the King of England had serious intentions toward his wife, Simpson evaporated, leaving the field clear for Wallis' ascension — it was hoped — to the throne.

The Simpsons met the then Prince of Wales at a house party in 1930. The heir apparent, long accustomed to having his way with the ladies, soon added Wallis to his collection of lovelies. Though the world has wondered for years how the iron-willed American managed so quickly to captivate the Prince, the answer was simple: He had been waiting for the woman who would dominate him. He had a personality deficiency — a need for a mother-mistress. He felt he had found in Mrs. Simpson "the perfect woman" and for 36 years his belief never faltered.

The ascension of Wales to the throne, his failure to make Wallis his commoner Queen, the ensuing abdication and famous "woman I love" speech, their marriage in France are all familiar to the world's readers. The self-imposed exile of the Windsors from England then followed, and for nearly 30 years the couple wandered the earth.

The present Queen Mother of England is credited more with the ostracization of David and Wallis than any other royalty. It was she, as Queen Elizabeth at King George VI's side, who first refused acceptance of the divorce and denied her the title of "Her Royal Highness." The Duke of Windsor would never settle for the humbler "Her Grace" or "Her Highness" for his wife, as prescribed by Royal protocol, and so alienated himself from his homeland.

The long years as Duke and Duchess of Windsor, without employment or portfolio, curdled their relationship, but they were doomed to continue together. The fairy tale became a nightmare when the Duchess took as a lover a notorious homosexual, Jimmy Donahue, who kicked her in public and eventually died under suspicious circumstances. The Duke forgave her for her five years of infidelity, as he forgave all her misdemeanors.

Partying was the way of life for the Windsors. Their companions were the gay and glittering jet set, and the gentility of its members ebbed away over the years.

Story hour gets kids used to reading books

By JUDY FRANKLIN
CHILDREN'S LIBRARIAN

There are people who believe books are only for school-aged children and older folks who have nothing better to do or can't get out to do something else.

No so! Even the smallest toddler can benefit from a story time. Not only does such a time strengthen the bond between parent and child, but also helps a child adjust to the idea of books being an information source and thus helps ready a child for school.

Through the reading of picture books a child learns an appreciation of fiction. Beginning Science books can teach a child that his or her questions do have answers and the answers can often be found in books. A love of poetry can be nurtured by the reading of such all time

Dr. Seuss favorites as "I Had Trouble In Getting To Solla Sallow" and "Horton Hatches The Egg." Baseball fans of all ages enjoy "Casey At The Bat" by E. L. Thayer.

The Howard County Library has a story route set up to visit various kindergarten classes and day care centers enabling us to help introduce children to the various forms of literature. When the children's stories are read, finger games are played and occasional films are shown. At first our visits are limited to one-half hour or less, but as the children adjust to the new activity, our time at each place will extend slightly until a full hour is available to each group. The purpose of our visits is to encourage reading and start a life-long enjoyment of literature.

With all the visual stimuli our children receive in the form of television shows and movies, they sometimes find books rather dull. To develop to his or her full potential, a child must be able to draw mental pictures of things. Books can help develop this. Nothing has been invented or created that was not first "seen" in the mind. The experience of sitting in a story hour group allows a child to let his or her imagination soar.

REFLECTIONS OF THE PAST LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

By MICKIE DICKSON

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This article is the second in a series of updates on vintage homes in the Big Spring area. As information is received on the present ownership and use of these properties, other articles will appear.)

The Price-Johnson home at 800 Main, which has housed a bank president, a funeral home, a tea room, a chiropractor's office and rooming house and witnessed the wedding of one owner, is on property owned originally by T and P Railway and is located in the original townsite of Big Spring.

This home, now owned by Mrs. T. Edgar (Bonnie) Chambers, may be turned into a showplace in the future.

The Wasson home on the corner of Main and 9th Streets is still part of the Chalk estate.

The Covert-Shick home at 510 Gregg, owned by Robert H. Moore III is for sale or lease for commercial purposes.

Ed Price, then president of the First National Bank, built the magnificent 15 room home at 800 Main to be near his work in 1906. Price lived only two years to enjoy his home, dying in 1908.

The family kept the home until 1916 when Lewis Price, a brother, sold it to Mrs. Cora Melton. The Price's used a coal furnace in the basement for heat.

Mrs. Melton had a fireplace built in the living room, in front of which she married C.S. Holmes, postmaster, Sept. 19, 1918. The wedding was performed on a Sunday morning before a group of friends before time for Sunday School. The couple then attended Sunday School and church at the First Baptist Church, site of the present Post Office, traveling to Mineral Wells that evening for a wedding trip.

Paul Rix bought the mansion in the late 1920's and turned it into a funeral home, operating it into the 30's until the depression hit, then sold it back to Mrs. Holmes. The house originally had a stairway from the front entrance and another from the kitchen area, meeting at a landing just below the second floor and continuing three steps onto the next story. The stairway was taken from the kitchen area in this interim.

Dr. Ora Johnson, chiropractor, bought the home in 1942, putting a clock on the front gable with a Chiropractor sign over it. Dr. Johnson and her husband, James "Jay" Johnson with daughter, Charlene Kee, lived in the home and office combination, renting bedrooms to relatives of patients of Malone-Hogan Hospital, then across the street.

to Forsan at 16 to finish school, living with the Leland L. Martin family, then superintendent of schools.

Bonnie Jo married T. Edgar Chambers in 1937 and the couple had two daughters born in Hall-Bennett Hospital. The pair worked with Shell Pipeline on the Gulf Coast for 33 years. Mrs. Chambers returned to Big Spring Nov. 1, 1979, to purchase property and settle here.

Mrs. Chambers replaced the water and gas lines, carpeted the house throughout and enlarged the third floor apartment at 800 Main.

The elaborate home on the opposite corner of the 800 block of Main was built by C.H. Wasson, who lived there two different times. It was owned by numerous people and was once used as a boarding house. It is now part of the Chalk Estate, although the Chalks never officially left the ranch to live in it.

The Covert-Shick home at 510 Gregg was built originally for the Chandlers who sold it to Joe and Will Fisher. The Coverts bought it in 1905 and Holly Covert Shick lived the best years of her life in it, beginning as a young person, then married to Nat Shick with whom she celebrated every wedding anniversary in it until his death. Lillian Shick Dawson, their only child, was born there, and one of the first surgical operations in the area, an appendectomy, was performed on Holly there. Lillian was later married from the family home.

W.C. Covert came to Big Spring with the first passenger train as an engineer, and the Coverts enjoyed the railroad in many ways. The two children Holly and Eddie often rode the train to Stanton to visit friends. In 1898 Mrs. Covert ordered a magnificent five-pedal piano from Wing and Sons in New York which arrived by train at the Covert's summer home in Arkansas first, then was transported via train to Big Spring. Holly began taking piano lessons on it at age ten and later it was transported by train to Kiddkey College in Sherman where she studied music instead of graduating from Big Spring High School. Lillian Dawson still owns the piano.

Robert H. Moore III, attorney, bought the Shick home with the idea in mind to turn it into a law office. However, he and his partner, John A. Burgess, bought and refurbished the home at 708 Main for an office instead. The home is now for sale or lease to someone who will use it for commercial purposes.

The future for the Johnson property looks promising and the valuable location of the Shick place on Gregg Street will probably attract a purchaser in the near future.

A small kitchenette was installed on the second floor to accommodate the upstairs guests. The attic was made into an efficiently apartment with kitchen and bath. Curbing, parking spaces and sidewalk on the north side were installed.

Mrs. Kee has fond memories of the many fine people who sojourned in their home over the years as guests while waiting on their relatives in the hospital.

around the perimeter of the front yard, iris and other flowers which bloomed throughout the seasons, lit at night by a carriage lamp, until selling it to Bonnie Chambers in February.

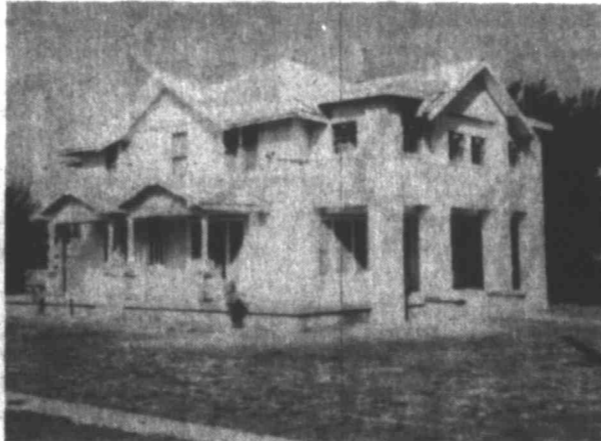

The Johnson's removed the fireplace from the living room, putting a wall in front of it on which daughter Charlene painted a mural in oils.

An outside stairway formerly existed on the northwest side of the house. Vandalism forced the Johnson's to remove this.

Bonnie Chambers, formerly Bonnie Jo Kilpatrick, bought the Johnson home with the dream of making it a showplace for her 43 year collection of antiques. Bonnie was born in McClelland County, Texas and came

Garden City wedding performed Saturday

The First United Methodist Church, Garden City, was the setting for the Saturday evening wedding ceremony uniting Patricia Sawyers and Michael Smith. The Rev. Jim McWilliams, pastor, read the 7 p.m. rite before arrangements of white gladiolus, peach carnations and white spider mums atop brass pedestals. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Fry, Garden City. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Midland; and Mr. and Mrs. Smiley

Smith, Greenville, Miss. Mrs. Bryant Harris, Garden City, provided traditional wedding music as the bride was escorted down the aisle. She chose to wear a floor-length gown of pastel floral chiffon designed with a scoop neckline and long, sheer bell sleeves which tied at the wrists. The gown was accentuated with tucks across the lower skirt. A peach-colored ribbon sash defined the waistline. To complement her attire, she carried a nosegay of peach roses and stephanotis sprinkled with baby's breath. Tammy Sawyers, Garden City, attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a gown of peach crepe-back satin which fell to floor-length. The groom's brother, Rodney D. Smith, attended him as best man. Guests were seated by Lennie D. Smith, also brother of the groom. Following the ceremony, the newlyweds were feted with a reception at the home of the bride's aunt, Joe Melanie Calverley, Garden City.

Pre-teens speak up about working moms

What do pre-teens think about their mothers working outside the home? Some were interviewed on the subject, and here's what they said: "It would be good to have a time each week when everyone in the family sat down and discussed plans and what they were going to do." This child sees a strong need for holding family discussions. As pressures and commitments increase for the family's adults and older members, there may be a tendency to forget — or overlook — needs of its less-vocal or younger members. "Don't work overtime or on weekends. That's the only time we (mother and child) have together." "Take it easy — don't work too hard or you might get a heart attack." This child is reflecting a common concern of children. They develop fears about their own security when they see parents working "too hard." They may fear that if mother gets sick, no one will be around to care for them. Implications of the trend toward more and more mothers working are many. Child care is a leading concern of working mothers. Some must all too frequently rely on a "patch-quilt" arrangement for some kind of child care before and after school. Others rely on a "latch-key" arrangement in which the child is left home alone after the parent leaves for work. Here, the child locks up the house and goes to school, only to return home to an empty house after school. A major concern in this arrangement is safety: are "latch-key" children safe? As the decade of the 1980's begins, each of us must consider how this trend of more and more mothers working outside the home will affect our lives, the lives of our children and our communities. Armed with this awareness of how children feel about working moms, mothers can do something about their children's concerns. With other family members helping, there can be regular family conferences, whether they occur at meal-time or special times.

Dear Abby: Wife's Vacation Plans Cause Husband's Reservations

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman, married 16 years and have two children. I have a dream. I want very much to go on a vacation with no husband, no children — just me alone. I want a week of doing whatever I want to do, with no pressure from anyone, without worrying if everyone else is happy and content. I would dearly love freedom from all home responsibilities — to sleep as late as I wished, eat when I want, go to sleep when I like, and not have to explain why. A place at the beach would be my idea of heaven! My husband thinks my "dream" of a one-week vacation all alone is "unnatural." He thinks a happily married woman who has this kind of dream is crazy. Well, do I see a psychiatrist, or go to the beach?
NEEDS A BREAK

DEAR NEEDS: Assuming your children will be properly looked after, I see nothing unnatural about your dream. And surely, there is nothing "wrong" with anyone (male or female) who wants freedom from all responsibility for a week. Go to the beach, and send your husband to a psychiatrist if he thinks you're crazy.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26, female, black, single, ready, willing and able. There is a new teller at the bank where I deposit the company checks. He's black, too, about the right age for me and totally dreamy. I observed that he doesn't wear a wedding ring, which may or may not mean anything. After I made the deposit this morning, he touched my hand when he handed me the receipt. Then I looked up and saw that beautiful smile, and my heart melted. One of the girls who work at the bank told me that he asked her if I was married or going with anybody, so he must be interested in me, too. How can I let him know that I would like to know him better without appearing too forward?
LILLIAN

DEAR LILLIAN: Just keep making those deposits, and watch the interest grow!

DEAR ABBY: My grandma came to me for advice. She's 75 and has been married for 58 years. I'm 21, and I've been married less than a year. Grandma says Grandpa (he's 76) is impotent, and he blames her. He says if she were "more of a woman," he would be more of a man. He told Grandma that if she didn't cooperate more he was going to find himself another woman. (They live in a senior citizens' complex and he wouldn't have to look far.) Poor Grandma is so upset I feel sorry for her. What advice can I give her? (P.S. I am serious.)
CONCERNED IN EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR CONCERNED: Tell Grandma that the University of Oregon Medical School in Eugene has an excellent human sexuality program. She and Grandpa should look into it. It could save their marriage. (P.S. I am serious, too.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANYONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE: The gestation period of a mother's advice is anywhere from one hour to 50 years. Losing one's mother before having thanked her for the many precious things she taught you is one of life's greatest tragedies.

Campaign for PTA continues

Moss and Kentwood schools this week surpassed their goals of 100 percent PTA membership in the "Join the Stars in PTA" campaign, according to the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association. Kentwood currently tallies 132 percent with 400 members and Moss 121 percent with 330 members. Having set a goal of PTA membership equal to the number of students enrolled at the five schools having PTA units, the PTA Council stands 86 percent of its way to that over-all goal with 1,676 members on its rolls now.

Standings at the other schools are, Marcy, 365 members, 60 percent of goal complete; College Heights, 255 members, 66 percent of goal complete; Washington, 336 members, 85 percent of goal complete. Several children at Moss have sold 20 PTA memberships each, reported Moss chairman Sheila Michie of the all-out effort there. All except two of Moss' 14 classes now record 100 percent PTA membership. Special education teacher Mary Ann Heffington won the four free "Hangar 18" tickets Moss PTA gave Tuesday at its September meeting.

Kentwood's second grade class leads membership at that school. With 21 students, Jan Stroup's class has recruited 73 members — 350 percent above class goal.

District director visits local B&PW

Kathy Peters, District Eight director, Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, visited the local B&PW Club Sept. 22, 7 p.m. at K-Bob's.

She was accompanied by Diane Newland. Both are members of the Uptown Chapter, B&PW Club in Midland.

Mrs. Peters spoke on goals, opportunities and achievements of the organization.

She revealed that 53 percent of the nation's work force are women.

"Each B&PW member is a representative of the working woman," Mrs. Peters stated.

B&PW members actively participate through educational programs. They help support training centers and seminars which are designed to promulgate the Individual Development Program by training not only the young, but also providing refresher courses for women who are already in the business world.

Mrs. Peters stressed the need to communicate more successfully.

"It's an art," she said. She also revealed the importance of bettering one's best as well as increasing creativity ability and awareness.

"Women help women for logical and practical reasons," she stated.

Mrs. Peters is past president of the Midland Club and has served as corresponding secretary and State Nominating Committee chairman. She is a long-time employee of the First National Bank of Midland.

The Fall District Eight Conference scheduled Oct. 4-5 in Midland was explained by Mrs. Newland.

The theme will be "Personal Growth and Development." Members planning to attend from Big Spring are Louise Nuckolls, Wilma Clark, Lois Eitzen, Edwina Welch, Alpha Morrison and Edith Gay.

Jennie Lawson was introduced and welcomed as a new member.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Firstborns get the smarts

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Teens: True or false, firstborns tend to be somewhat brighter than later children?

If you're a firstborn, you probably said true. And you'll be happy to learn that on the average, firstborns do score higher on intelligence tests than their siblings.

In recent years, scientists have exploded old myths and developed new insights into personality and behavior. Below are some findings that might help you figure out what makes people tick, from Seventeen magazine.

— It is a myth that women have a weaker sex drive than men. The sex research of Masters and Johnson in recent years shows that women's basic physical capabilities for sexual response actually surpass those of men.

— We used to think that personality and behavior patterns became fixed in the first few years of life. A host of newer studies shows that dramatic change can take place throughout a person's lifespan.

— There is little correlation between the divorce of parents and the later divorce of their children. What affects a child is the quality of his or her relationship with the parents, regardless of whether the marriage breaks up.

— Typically, a young woman will marry a man with a background similar to her father's — in economic level, occupational class and general lifestyle.

— Contrary to the image created by some movies and books, gifted children do not generally grow up to be unhappy or maladjusted. In fact, one study showed that gifted children tend to be blessed with good social adjustment and, later, are relatively free of marital and sexual problems.

— Studies now demonstrate that men are just as capable of "mothering" children as women. Whether it's the mother or father who holds, feeds and stimulates the baby appears to be unimportant: Babies develop strong feelings of attachment to whichever parent is the primary source of such comforts.

Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend and I are very much in love, but my mother doesn't like him because she thinks that he is a liar. He didn't help matters by calling and telling me that he was in the hospital because he was involved in an automobile accident. I took him seriously but he was only joking.

My mother doesn't want me to see him anymore even though he apologized to me and my family. Do you think my mother is right? — Freda, Scranton, Pa.
Freda: If she is not, she is awfully close. What he did was cruel and inconsiderate and very immature. You know if he is a liar or not. If he is, you are in for much grief as long as you are going with him.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SEEING TRIPLE? — Triplets who were adopted at birth 19 years ago by three separate families in the New York metropolitan area are seen together for the first time on NBC-TV's "Today Show" Friday morning in New York. Earlier this week, David Kellman, center, recognized his own face in a news picture of reunited 19-year-old twins and said, "They've got to be my brothers." A call to Eddy Gelland, right, and Robert Shafran, left, led to the trio's reunion. Kellman's mother Claire, says the triplets "talk the same, laugh the same, and hold their cigarettes the same."

WARREN, Minn. (AP) — Lloyd George Melgard, retired bachelor farmer and admitted romantic, lives alone on the windswept prairie of extreme northwestern Minnesota. But he's far from lonely. Little wonder. Melgard, 63, lives in a 24-room mansion filled with oil paintings, Meissen porcelain, books, Hawkes crystal, tapestries and recordings of chamber music and operas. He attends symphony concerts, lectures and ballet performances in Winnipeg, Manitoba, 120 miles north, and Grand Forks, N.D., 30 miles southwest.

"My life is full. The world is rich and I've made my life rich," he said. "I live a metropolitan life in a rural environment. I feel I live as well in my prairie home as anyone in Minneapolis or New York. I admire art, and I listen to fine music. I read all the time. The older I get, the more I want to learn."

He's made nine trips to Europe, hunting art treasures and antiques. In his prairie palace, Melgard does needlepoint and petit point, and corresponds with some 400 friends scattered around the world. He spends more for postage, Melgard says, than for groceries.

"My mailbox is my window to the world," he said. "Correspondence had made the world so small that I feel at home anywhere."

He says people are isolated only if they isolate themselves. Visitors from every state, all Canadian provinces and many foreign countries have signed Melgard's guest book. At the request of the U.S. State Department, he once put up in his home a touring delegation of Japanese agrusinessmen.

Melgard does his own housework: "I'm the cook, I'm the yardman, I'm the maid."

Melgard inherited 640 acres from his father, a Norwegian immigrant who became a banker and owner of 3,600 acres of flat, rich Red River Valley farmland. He has an interest in 800 more acres. Melgard, who suffers from gout and "hurts with every step," has leased the land for the past 13 years.

His home and holdings notwithstanding, Melgard dismisses suggestions that he's wealthy. Everyone has priorities, he says, and his have been to live among "pretty things."

"I've never bought a new car, and I've never been on a hunting or fishing trip," he said.

Melgard became a serious collector while serving 10 years in the Army. After returning from the South Pacific and Europe with "half a railroad boxcar" filled with crated items, he had his 1881 farm home rebuilt and modernized.

On one living room wall he hung a 6-by-9 foot Bavarian tapestry. On another hangs a painting bought in Berlin. A glass-topped table came from Italy, and handcarved chairs from Germany are upholstered with Melgard's own needlepoint. Heavy white rugs cover most of the polished black walnut floors.

It takes Melgard three days to clean the huge Czechoslovakian chandelier over his dining room table. Antique china, wine glasses and crystal goblets are displayed in wall niches. The beveled glass windows are draped in heavy damask.

His mansion had become such an attraction several years ago that Melgard was forced to pull the drapes at night and hang a "No More Visitors" sign on his mailbox for privacy. Some tour visitors, he said, were "like rabbits — scurrying all over the house, nosing into every nook and cranny."

But his "prairie palace persona" is not so famed that it protects him from jarring encounters when he makes occasional forays to big cities for more "pretty things."

In fashionable New York stores, for example, he says clerks sometimes "look down their noses" at him when he identifies himself as a farmer. He says he counters such behavior by examining a piece, commenting on its origin and asking, "Is this the best you have?"

Several years ago, after delivering livestock to the South St. Paul stockyards, Melgard stopped at a fancy St. Paul furniture store. He was wearing coveralls. Manure clung to his boots.

Salespeople ignored him — until everyone else had been waited on and he was the only customer left in the store.

"I bought $3,000 worth of stuff," he recalled. "By that time, the clerks didn't seem to smell the manure at all."

Bridal Lines
by Tomi Cheate & Kathryn Perry

The wedding cake has been a delicious part of marriage for so long that brides often wonder how the tradition began. Here at Accent Shoppe, we have been able to trace wedding cake back to some American Indian tribes — and to some Fiji Islanders. In both cases, brides offered their husbands cakes of meat. The Romans broke a cake made of gilded meal over the bride's head as a symbol of abundance. The early Britons baked large baskets of small, dry crackers for weddings, and every guest took one home — thus the tradition of taking wedding cake home "to dream on." So bon appetit, brides: you're sharing a delightful tradition with brides of yesterday.

Erno Laszlo introduces beautiful bodyskin.

Why total skin care.

The skin on your body is just as important as the skin on your face. And now Erno Laszlo is helping you look after both with the kind of scientific care for which we're famous.

Conditioning Ritual.

Like facial skin, bodyskin needs to be toned to look sleek. Our remarkable Conditioning Soap was laboratory formulated to stimulate the skin by helping to sweep away dead skin cells and roughness.

This leaves your skin primed for the next step. While your skin is still moist and warm, apply our pHellyl Bodyskin Lotion. Creamy yet greaseless, it's immediately absorbed into your skin so your body feels silkened and supple.

Creaming Ritual.

Dry skin is delicate and needs special care. That's why we have created our Cream Soap. Rich in emollients, it provides the moisturizing lather your body will welcome.

For further protection apply pHellyl Bodyskin Cream. Soon your skin will be moist and glowing without a trace of dryness.

Interchanging the Rituals.

Your bodyskin will tell you if you need to condition and smooth it or cream and moisturize it. In colder climates or after skiing, Erno Laszlo recommends the Creaming Ritual. In warmer climates or after physical activity follow our Conditioning Ritual. Either way, beautiful bodyskin is yours with Erno Laszlo.
