Carter promises gentler approach

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, admitting he's been "carried away on a couple of occasions" with sharp attacks on Ronald Reagan, was campaigning in the South today after promising to take a gentler, more reticent approach.

Judge orders Cullen Davis to increase child support

DALLAS (AP) — Industrialist T. Cullen Davis has been ordered to increase substantially child support payments to his first wife — but Mrs. Davis says she'll have to sell her jewels because the award is not enough.

Sandra Davis, the Fort Worth millionaire's first wife and mother of his two sons, went to court last month seeking $12,000 a month in child support. State District Judge Linda Thomas ruled Wednesday that Davis must raise his payments from $150 to $3,000.

Mrs. Davis said she was disappointed, adding that her lawyer, William Koons, "just fought and fought and it seems like the wrong guy won."

But she said, "I'm a survivor. I've always done what I could. I guess I'll just have to regroup."

She said she probably will have to sell her jewelry and antiques to keep up with the expenses of raising the two children, ages 17 and 14.

Mrs. Davis had argued that she needed the $12,000 in order to provide her sons with a Mercedes-Benz, maid track," Carter said. The president, who prophesied earlier in the week that Republican Reagan's election would tear the nation along religious, regional and racial lines, said he'll try "to be sure that we do not have a lowering of the tone of the campaign."

Interviewed before setting out today on a two-day swing to Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida, Carter said he is confident he can yet reverse the voter tide that has been going toward Reagan because Americans make up their minds in the last days of the campaign.

"There's still a very large undecided group," he said, adding that he'll concentrate on "the sharp differences between myself and Governor Reagan on the basic issues that face this nation."

In the interview, Carter was asked by ABC News' Barbara Walters if he made some mistakes in personally attacking Reagan.

"Yes, I'll say that," he replied. But he added that Reagan, too, had made some comments about him that "probably are ill-advised. I've made some about him that are ill-advised and I'd like to get in back on the track."

Talking to a handful of reporters later, press secretary Jody Powell said he resents that the press "holds the president up to a higher standard than everyone else" and that if the press is intent on focusing on Carter's criticisms of Reagan "we will get rid of them."

"The question is are those comments any harsher than what Reagan has had to say about the president?" Powell asked. "The answer is no."

At one point in his interview Wednesday, Carter said "I don't think I'm mean."

When Reagan calls him desperate, vindictive or hysterical, the president said, "he shares part of the blame that I have assumed" for the low tone of the campaign.

and more liberal clothing and spending allowances. Davis, a recent convert to fundamentalist Christianity, had testified that he did not want to spoil the boys because he hoped to instill Christian values and the work ethic in them.

In her ruling, the judge said she believed the Davises "have a parental obligation to put certain limitations on the amount and manner of providing luxuries."

She also said she would "decline to exact last minute payments of such magnitude that they represent virtual penalties."

Mrs. Davis contended that her sons deserved the "same privileges and all the extras that Cullen provides for his step-children," the offspring of his third wife, Karen Masters Davis.

And Mrs. Davis said she plans to write a book entitled "The Opera Ain't Over Till The Fat Lady Sings" — an allusion to a statement made by defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes during Davis' trial on charges he killed his step-daughter by his second marriage.

NOBEL WINNER — Nobel Prize winner Czeslaw Milosz talks to reporters through a crack in the door during an early morning interview following the announcement that he had won the 1980 Nobel Prize in literature. Milosz, an exiled Polish poet and novelist, is professor of Slavic languages at the University of California at Berkeley.

Swede wins Nobel Prize in literature

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The 1980 Nobel Prize in literature was awarded today to Czeslaw Milosz, an exiled Polish poet and novelist living in the United States.

Milosz, 69, was born in Lithuania, living in America since 1960, he is professor of Slavic languages at the University of California at Berkeley.

"I received the prize for poetry, written in Polish," Milosz said when reached by telephone at his home. "For that reason, it is for me important. It is important that the prize goes to a writer of less known languages."

Milosz' reaction to news that the Nobel committee had selected his work for the renowned literature prize was modest.

"What do you expect?" he asked. "I hope not to fall into the pitfalls of fame."

The 18-member Swedish Academy of Letters cited Milosz as a writer "who with uncompromising clear-sightedness voices man's exposed condition in a world of severe conflicts." The prize this year is worth a record $212,000.

The Academy took most people by surprise again with an award to a relatively little known writer. Last year the prize went to Greek poet Odysseus Elytis.

In 1953, the European Community of Book Clubs presented its European Literary Prize to Milosz for his first novel, "The Taking of Power."

For chief appraiser for county

Tax Appraisal Board members to begin taking job applications

By DON WOODS
Reaction was generally favorable from Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board members to 13 resumes submitted for the position of chief appraiser.

Board members instructed Chairman Roy Watkins to contact four applicants by phone last night to set up interviews.

The board discussed the resumes in their regular October meeting Wednesday afternoon.

"I think we have four here who are pretty good possibilities," said board member Lila Estes. "Would there be anything to stop us from interviewing people even though bids are being accepted until Oct. 15? Let's get with the program," she said.

The board members are planning to begin interviews Oct. 18, but will flex to allow applicants to meet with them sooner.

"If they want to come day after tomorrow, let them," said board member Jack Watkins.

"We have some good ones here. I think these people have sent resumes to other places. We need to let them know we're interested," said one board member.

The board's most favorable response was over the resume of a Florida applicant. The other three who will be invited first are from Texas.

The board will subsidize applicants' interview trips here with $100 for state candidates and $200 for out of state candidates.

"I think the person's personality has a lot to do with it, too," said Mrs. Estes. "Until you talk with them you're not going to know what their philosophies are, etcetera," said Mrs. Estes.

The Tax Appraisal office has been short handed since former Chief Earl Dean took another job in East Texas last summer. "We're not going to really progress without a chief appraiser," said Board Member Billy T. Smith.

Mapping department progress drew praise from Watkins, however. He had expressed concern earlier about the number of land parcels being mapped to determine ownership.

Mappers finishing 2,712 parcels in September. An estimated 23,000 parcels are in the county and 13,080 parcels have been mapped. A total of 7,319 parcels have been inked. Mapping research, inking, and editing is expected to be completed Jan. 1, 1982.

Mapper Gregg Smith and Field Appraiser Weldon Peoples received

$100 a month raises. A difference in opinion in the terms of the appraisal board's contract with the Big Spring school district was discussed. The appraisal board contracts with taxing agencies to do their tax appraisal work.

Howard County Water District's questioning of their monthly bill for appraisal work was discussed. Their initial payment is $700 a month and $1 for each item appraised. The district is questioning a recent $716 bill.

A petty cash fund was set up for the Tax Appraisal office of $25. "I don't think (Office Director Ruth Mitchell) wants a lot of money down there for a number of reasons," said Watkins.

Board members moved to advertise for someone to do their annual audit.

A personal property appraiser will not be hired until after a chief appraiser is hired. The Tax Appraisal Office has not had a personal property appraiser to go door to door since 1973. He will be hired by the chief appraiser.

Board members approved the purchase of several subscriptions to reference books used by the appraisal office.

Matters of office policy were tabled until a later meeting.

FAILS HIS FIRST DRIVING TEST — Three-year-old Jason Springer, of Detroit failed his first driving test Wednesday when he drove the family car into a school bus and the family home. Jason's mother, Bonnie, said that when Jason was told he would have to wait because his sister was not ready to go to school, he became impatient, took his mother's keys from her purse, and calmly started the car. He accelerated into an intersection, caromed off a school bus, made a hard left turn, and drove straight into the family home, injuring no one. Because this is simply the latest in a series of adventures for the tot, his mother has nicknamed him "Dennis the Menace, Inc."

Iran claims Iraq killing women, children in attacks

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iran claimed today the Iraqis used ground-to-ground missiles for the first time in the war, killing as many as 180 Iranian civilians and wounding hundreds more in attacks on two Iranian cities. Iraq's president, apparently extending attempts to get outside help or mediation to settle the conflict, sent top envoys to four nations.

But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini predicted Iran would win the war and said his goal was to take Islamic government to Iraq, Tehran Radio said. Iranian planes bombed the outskirts of Baghdad.

Iran said Iraqi invaders threatening Ahwaz, capital of Khuzistan Province, were thrown back 13 miles, but Iraq said its planes severely damaged a large factory there. Iraq also reported Iranian attacks on the northeastern city of Kirkuk wounded 18 civilians and that Iraqi anti-aircraft fire drove Iranian warplanes away from the northern cities of Erbil and Mosul.

Iraq claimed its forces "continued to destroy enemy installations and to strike at military and economic targets deep in Iranian territory, inflicting heavy losses in life and equipment." But there was no comment on the missile claim or word on the progress of its key offensive to complete the conquest of the Iranian port of Khorramshahr and move on to the neighboring refinery city of Abadan.

King Hussein of Jordan, brushing aside American and British warnings following his declaration of support for Iraq, said he would send Jordanian troops to fight alongside the Iraqis if they were needed. But he said that was not imminent yet.

The Jordanian port of Aqaba was crowded with about 40 ships, three times the normal number, as supplies for Iraq were diverted there to be moved overland to Baghdad.

In Washington, U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller reported that North Korea's communist government was selling ammunition and medical supplies to Iran. But he said spare parts and other equipment needed for Iran's U.S.-equipped military machine are unavailable on the world market.

At least three Iranian planes raided Baghdad, the Iraqi capital, about 8 p.m. Wednesday, and reporters in the center of the city could see large fires on the outskirts for about 10 minutes. The planes apparently slipped through the city's radar defenses undetected because there was no advance air raid alert.

ONLY FIRST-RATE WORKS KEPT — Dennis Schmidt, a self-taught artist from Victoria, Tex., feels so strongly about the quality of his work that all second rate art is destroyed.

At Big Spring arts, Crafts Festival

Victoria artist makes first stop

Dennis Schmidt, a well-received watercolorist from Victoria, Tex., will be making his first appearance in Big Spring during the upcoming Arts and Crafts Festival to be held Oct. 18-19 in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The festival, which is free of charge to the general public, will feature many top names from throughout the Southwest.

Schmidt's paintings are among the finest self-styled works of art being produced today. Talking about his work, Dennis Schmidt said "every painting must have a completeness of its own regardless of the time involved." This feeling is so strong with this artist that any work of his that he feels is second rate is destroyed.

His dedication to art is well known and is unquestionably apparent upon viewing his work. His versatility is unlimited; a constantly renewing appreciation for different and intimate aspects of his subjects lends him to ever changing concepts of composition, which is a rare ability among popular artists today.

Schmidt openly admits that he is not a socially outgoing person and is often very impatient with the business side of art. However, he is very open about his work and says his paintings are his reflection; his spirit desiring to be one with nature. "Each having of its own, they're never a copy of nature, but a tribute to my mystical respect for the incredible beauty I see in the wild and weathered things around me."

Proficient in most any medium, Schmidt is self-taught and prefers his own unique methods combining opaque and transparent watercolor; a technique allowing almost no mistakes, a discouraging challenge in itself, but well met.

'Jordache Look' bruised

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — This time, the "Jordache Look" was bruised and baggy as an advertising blimp crumpled unfashionably on a pine tree at the Lakehurst Naval Air Engineering Center.

The 170-foot gold and burgundy blimp crashed Wednesday morning a quarter-mile from where the great German zeppelin Hindenburg went down.

Pilot James Buza, 40, of Whittier, Calif., escaped injury when the blimp crashed into a garbage dump and impaled itself on the tree. There were no passengers aboard the blimp, which did not burn.

Security tight at lottery

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Security has been tightened at the Pennsylvania lottery drawings since a grand jury alleged the game was fixed April 24, a state official said.

Revenue Secretary Howard Cohen, whose department supervised the drawing, announced an improved security Wednesday after testifying before a special Senate committee investigating charges that the game was rigged.

The grand jury said last month the Daily Number drawing was fixed when numbered pingpong balls used in the drawing were injected with liquid. The jury recommended charges be brought against six people, some of whom it said bought tickets worth more than $1 million.

Eight-bank coalition set

CLEVELAND (AP) — An agreement with eight banks that is expected to help Cleveland out of financial default by mid-November has been approved by the City Council.

The council met Wednesday to vote on 15 legislative items in the plan. On Monday, it endorsed an amendment limiting the income tax revenue that would become available to the banks to pay off the bonds should property taxes fall short.

The $36.2 million package will refinance $10.5 million of the $14 million in notes Cleveland defaulted on Dec. 15, 1978 and provide money for other debts, including $20 million borrowed from the state.

Fake kidnapping charged

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal indictment has charged convicted Italian financier Michele Sindona and two others with plotting to arrange the financier's fake "kidnapping" a year ago.

Court papers filed Wednesday accused Sindona, 60, now serving a 25-year prison term following his March 27 conviction for fraud in the nation's worst bank failure, with carrying out the plot with the aid of Joseph Macaluso, 54, and Antonio Caruso, 47, both of Staten Island.

The conspiracy began before Sindona's originally scheduled Sept. 10, 1979, trial on fraud charges stemming from his control of Franklin National Bank, which collapsed in October 1974, the government said.

Friday is final day of PTA campaign

Friday is the last day of "Join the Stars in PTA," the unified membership campaign of the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association.

"We hit 100 percent PTA membership Wednesday for the city as a whole," proclaimed city council PTA president Leslie Earnst.

She explained that means Big Spring has as many PTA members as it has students enrolled at the five local schools having PTAs. There are now 1,944 members on the roster of Big Spring PTAs.

"There has been an unprecedented response to PTA membership in Big Spring," related Mrs. Earnst. "We have nearly 1,000 members more than at this time last year."

Marcy, College Heights and Washington PTAs are still short of their individual goals, and we urge parents and friends of the Big Spring schools to send membership dues to their schools tomorrow so that each school can meet its goal," said Marcy's membership chairman Janet Murley.

Cost of PTA memberships is set by each school's unit. They are — College Heights, $1.00; Kentwood, $1.50; Marcy, $1.25; Moss, $1.10 and Washington, $1.

Moss leads city PTAs with 404 members or 147 percent of its goal. Kentwood follows closely with 440 members, 143 percent of its goal. Breakdown at the other elementary with PTAs is: College Heights, 282 members (74 percent); Marcy, 437 members (74 percent); and Washington, 381 members (97 percent).

All classes at Moss and all classes at Kentwood except for afternoon kindergarten have reached or surpassed 100 percent PTA membership. Seven classes at Marcy have at least 100 percent membership.

The five PTAs will be awarding prizes to the top stars in PTA campaign. Prizes include 40 tickets to the giant Hangar 18 movie posters and photographs of Hangar 18 stars are prizes lucky students and PTA members will win.

Kentwood will award some prizes Friday. Other prizes at Kentwood, Moss, College Heights and Washington will be announced sometime next week. Marcy PTA will award prizes Oct. 21 at its monthly meeting.

A major emphasis of the Parent-Teacher Association is parental education. Topics around which local PTAs planned programs last year included how parents can help children cope with pressures, prevention of drug abuse, operation of parent involvement projects and how parents can help students develop science fair projects.

Course in sign language deaf awareness available

Beginning Tuesday, a course in sign language and deaf awareness will be offered through the Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College. The class will be held for eight weeks on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10:45 a.m. until noon, with a total of twenty hours of instruction. Cost of the course is $30.

This course will be specifically geared toward the needs of employees of government agencies, the police and fire departments, City Hall, Department of Public Safety, Sheriff's Department, and people working for local businesses. Special arrangements can be made for those people with alternating shifts. There will be a limit of 30 people in the class.

Church site of reception

Ex-students from classes 1930 through 1939 are invited to a Friday evening reception from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. in the Fannie Mae Aker room of the First United Methodist Church. Many returning students will be there.

The reception will begin at 8 p.m. and persons attending the football game with Midland are invited to attend following the game. Light refreshments will be served.

will be Shannon Gilley, director of the Community Deaf Awareness Grant and interpreter at the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Materials will be discussed at the first class meeting.

Interested persons must pre-register in the Continuing Education Office located in the Horace Garrett Building. For further information, call the Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College at 267-6311, ext. 70.

In anti-Semitism struggle France fighting terrorists

PARIS (AP) — Declaring that France is united in fighting "the hideous germs of intolerance, terrorism and racism," President Valery Giscard d'Estaing ordered meetings and school lectures throughout France Friday to rally public opinion against the wage of resurgent anti-Semitism in which four persons have died.

The president, accused earlier of saying and doing too little about the bombing outside a Paris synagogue last Friday and attacks on other Jewish institutions, said in a five-minute television appearance Wednesday: "I have instructed the Interior Minister to ask the prefects to summon local representatives of different religious organizations, unions and associations fighting for tolerance and against racism, so that they can testify their solidarity among themselves and examine security problems at the local level."

Giscard d'Estaing said also that all the schools on Friday would give "a lesson for pupils on the pluralist, tolerant and fraternal character of French society."

The president denied that the anti-Semitic attacks indicated "the perverted ideas of racism and Nazism" were prevalent in France.

Police Beat Blasting caps found

Police arrested a 17-year-old male transient outside of the Holiday Inn with two blasting caps in his possession, Wednesday night.

According to reports, the man had worked for one day at the Caldwell Electric Company on East IS 20. After learning this, local detectives contacted company officials, and, after a short search, found 39 other blasting caps hidden under a shelf in a storage room there.

The transient faces charges of theft and possession of explosive devices.

The manager of the American Motel, 804 E. IS 20, reported that a woman he knows lived through the window of room 207, 3:30 a.m. today. Damage was estimated at $100. Damage to the woman has not been estimated.

Sometime Wednesday night, a car ran into the concrete block wall at the home of Robert C. Hill, 1419 Sycamore. A corner of the wall had been broken off, and damage was estimated at $750.

Mrs. James A. Mills, 1006 Bluebonnet, spotted a woman stealing her purse from the handlebars of her bicycle at 1417 Wood, but was too late to stop the thief. The purse had contained $25 cash and 20 tickets to the Moss Elementary School Shopping Spree. Total loss was estimated at $45. Burglars stole a car buffer from the Ace Detail Shop, 203 W. 2nd, sometime Tuesday night. The machine was valued at $200.

Six mishaps were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Cindy Hall, 2503 Lynn, and Marilyn Fuller, 612 Colgate, collided

Weather

It's summer-like across the state

By the Associated Press
 It's fall, but the weather was almost summer-like across all of Texas today. Forecasts called for clear skies and warm temperatures statewide. Highs were to be mostly in the 80s and low 90s. A few patchy thin clouds were reported over Southwest Texas and Central Texas before dawn today, but most of the state had clear skies. Early morning temperatures ranged from the upper 40s in northern sections of the Panhandle to the upper 60s in North Central Texas and the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

WEATHER FORECAST
 WEST TEXAS — Fair through Friday, becoming cooler Friday. Highs mid 80s north to upper 80s south and east. Lows upper 40s Panhandle, low 40s mountains to mid 50s Big Bend. Highs Friday mid 70s north to upper 80s Big Bend.
 EXTENDED FORECAST
 WEST TEXAS — Fair and mild, with a slow warming trend Sunday and Monday. Highs Saturday lower 70s north to lower 90s south, warming to mid 80s north to upper 90s southwest by Monday. Lows Saturday mid 40s north to lower 60s south, moderating to upper 50s north and upper 60s south by Monday.

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny weather is expected for most of the nation in the forecast period, today until Friday morning. Rain is forecast for the upper Great Lakes and central Midwest. Cooler weather is forecast for the central Plains. Most of the country will be warm.

Crime compensation fund running low

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas' one-year-old program to compensate the victims of violent crimes is running into fraud and running out of money, says the chairman of the board that administers the fund. "We already see a tremendous problem in the funding," said Herb Harris, chairman of the Industrial Accident Board. "If we had been able to handle the claims the way we should, we would be out of money now." The Senate Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs and a House subcommittee held a joint hearing Wednesday on the Crime Victims Compensation Act. Under the 1979 law, $10-$15 in court costs are set aside in felony and Class A and B misdemeanor cases to make awards to victims of violent crimes — covering hospital bills, lost wages or funeral expenses. Bill McCray of the state comptroller's office said the state can expect $1 million to $1.2 million a year for the fund, and Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland, said "it's running about half of what we need." Harris testified, "We're already running into cases of known fraud or suspected fraud." He mentioned a Houston resident who had tried to change a $40 bill for an eye examination to $1,040. In another Houston case, he said, a victim tried to claim "living expenses that could not exist and dependents who were not dependents." "Do you have reason to believe there are others?" asked Sen. Roy Blake, D-

Nacogdoches. "Yes sir," replied Harris, who added that the board had "stumbled onto" those cases. He said the board did not have a large enough staff to audit claims for possible fraud. In response to a question, Attorney General Mark White said courts might force the state to compensate illegal aliens who are crime victims just as they ordered the state to admit aliens free-of-charge to public schools. White also suggested the compensation fund might be running low because those convicted of crime "are a little reluctant to dig into their pockets on their way to Huntsville." "If the Supreme Court wants to pay them, they ought to dig into their own pockets to pay them," said Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth. "It could mean millions of dollars. Where's it coming from?" White said the law "is subject to dual interpretation" and "raises a serious doubt" that illegal aliens "have been effectively excluded." Harris said no benefits had been paid to aliens. He said, however, staff rejection of claims by aliens has been challenged by some attorneys who have indicated they will test the issue in court. "Possibly, the courts might compel payment," White said.

NEW VAMC DIRECTOR ARRIVES — John H. Stewart (left), new director of the VA Medical Center here, has arrived in Big Spring to assume his duties. He's shown here, along with Joseph E. Rouleau, with a display focusing attention on National Consumer Education Week. Rouleau serves as chairman of the NCEW committee. The display, located in the patients' admission area of the hospital, illustrates the many benefits available for military veteran patients, at the medical center. Items for the display were created by employees of the center. The robot is a brainchild of Mark Miller, a social worker. National Consumer Education Week, which began Sunday, and extends through Saturday. Stewart said that any veteran wishing to inquire about benefits could contact him or the Veterans Benefits Counselor.

Roping, art exhibit benefits Boys Ranch

The 10th annual O.S. Ranch Steer Roping and Art Exhibit is now over and the preparation for the 11th is just beginning. For the past 10 years this unique dedication has produced an event to benefit the boys at the West Texas Boys Ranch in San Angelo. The WTBR operates solely on donations to the ranch and has benefitted over 1,000 boys since 1947. The program has grown through the completion of the Library Learning Center just two years after the OS Ranch benefit began. The annual event had two new attractions this year, a fiddlers contest and a colt sale. The colt sale totaled $19,000, of which 10 percent went to the WTBR. An unnamed colt by Especial consigned by Churchill Farms brought $4,750 to top the sale. This year's artists came from across the Western United States to show their work. Oil, pencil, acrylic, pastels and water color paintings were featured, as well as wood carvings and bronzes. Wayne Baize, Steve Devenyns, Jim Hamilton, John Kittelson, Bob Moline, Tom Ryan, Ray Swanson, and Don Yandell were eight of the 39 artists. Some of the artists were on hand at the OS Ranch headquarters to sign autographs and meet participants. The art brought a total of $182,100, of which 20 percent goes to the WTBR. The events held on the weekend of Oct. 3-4-5 were steer roping, calf roping, team roping, cutting horse contest, and barrel racing. The ropers in the steer and calf roping could enter by invitation only. A steer roping saddle made by Wilford Lewis donated by Bill Price was won by Rex Prather, Post, with 73.94 seconds on four steers. Olin Young, Walter Arnold, Guy Allen, and Arnold Felts placed in the go-arounds. There were 35 Ropers, each had to trip three steers and be in the top 12 fastest average time to make the fourth go-around. A calf roping saddle made by Hillman Saddlery was won by Steve Bland, Trent, with 43.06 seconds on three calves. Kyle Ditto, Roy Cooper, Willard Moody and Junior Garrison were in the top 12 fastest times to make the third go-around out of 50 ropers. Jim Brazile was one of the cowboys who made the final go in both the steer roping and calf roping. Team ropers Jake Barnes and Allen Bach won with 33.90 seconds on three steers. Brad Smith, Clay O'Brien, Tee Woolman, Dee Pickett and Leon Camarillo were in the list that made the last go-around.

Judge denies bond to suspect

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A man arrested in connection with the shooting death of a highway patrolman has been returned from Kansas to Texas where he is being held without bond in the Lubbock County jail, authorities said. Billy Wayne Alexander Jr., 21, was arrested in Liberal, Kan., on a capital murder warrant issued earlier this week by a justice of the peace in Lubbock. He is wanted for questioning in the shooting death of Jerry Don Davis of Slaton. Alexander waived extradition and was returned to Texas Wednesday under guard of Texas Rangers.

Age of 40 is psychological barrier

If you could knock ten, 20 or 30 years off your age, would you — or are you quite willing to play out your hand for the table stakes and not look back?

Harper's Bazaar interviewed a covey of beautiful women, all of whom are into their fifth decade. When asked if the 40-year hurdle was a frightening experience to them, all professed to be facing the future with renewed vigor and maximum lilt.

Consider Diahann Carroll, the actress. She was quoted as saying: "I prefer to be over 40 now rather than ten years ago. I think there is less concentration on middle age. I roller-skate with my daughter and I don't feel the least bit awkward. There are realities, though. Many actresses can make the over-40 transition more easily than I because there are more roles open to white actresses. That part of it is very difficult — the roles simply aren't there."

Mary Tyler Moore, another actress, says she has so much more in her heart and head than when she was 30. "I'm doing now at 42 what most people did at 22," she adds. "Before, I concentrated just on acting and ignored a lot of other areas in my life. I suppose the biggest change in my life now is the transition I'm in — from being married 17 years to having to be independent, on my own. Now that I'm separated, that's a real challenge."

Actress Susan Strasberg said that, when she was younger, she lived life like a horse with blinders on, never seeing the options that she had. She also compared herself to a bottle of wine — the older she gets, the better she thinks she'll be.

Sunny Griffin said she never really came of age until she hit 40. Thanks to dancing lessons she started taking when she was 38, she thinks she's in better shape now than when she was 18.

At 30, Mary Travers said she believed her failure was a catastrophe but at 43 she realizes that those failures were just a part of learning, living and experience. She insists she's not as fragile as she was 13 years ago.

Actress Sophia Loren says that when she was 20 she felt she was 50 — there were so many problems. Success in her chosen profession and a happy environment at home increases her appreciation for life as she now lives it.

Christian Paolozzi Bellin says she stays young because she really doesn't want to grow old. She recommends exercise to everyone, explaining "you can't get past 30 without exercising every day — that's one rule to live by."

According to writer Brooke Hayward, there is a psychological barrier at 40 which affects both men and women. It accounts for a lot of strange behavior in people, especially among men, who panic at the thought of growing old and losing their sex appeal. Susan Kohner Weitz says she has a brother two years her junior she now tells people is two years older than she is.

These women are unique if for no other reason than they admit to be 40 plus. A lot of people we know would just rather the subject had never been brought up.

Human nature being what it is, most of us feel like Khomeini's recent bad fortune is a kind of poetic justice.

Of course, human nature doesn't always afford the best kind of viewpoint.

It's easy to exult in the bombing of Khomeini's beloved oil refineries at Abadan. His followers have to be persuaded not to run on the banks. The pressing into service of civilian transport trucks has damaged supplies of goods in the cities and citizens were being persuaded by Khomeini not to hoard groceries and supplies.

An analyst on the radio last week placed the length of time Iran could fight, in terms of weeks because of limited supplies and fuel shortages.

Troop morale is one of the only things he has going for him due to the ringing Islamic sermons piped over loudspeakers to the troops there.

When Iraqi planes dropped toys and gifts over Tehran recently a paranoid government warned the people to watch out for booby traps.

Their fears have the ring of people backed into a corner.

"God is judging Khomeini for holding our hostages," is a claim I have heard, maybe truth but with a gloating self-righteousness about it.

It is a thought that has gone through the mind of the writer himself. But what is the proper attitude of the Christian to be in a case like this. To hate your enemies is human nature. Divine viewpoint is a fruit of being a "partaker in the divine nature" (II Pet 1:4). Human viewpoint is a fruit of human nature.

Hate is the cause of all sorts of medical problems: ulcerative colitis, toxic goiters, are included in a list of scores of disorders. Bitterness results in weakness in the bones. Doctors

Hate is the cause of all sorts of medical problems: ulcerative colitis, toxic goiters, are included in a list of scores of disorders. Bitterness results in weakness in the bones. Doctors have known for years about the physical problems caused by psychological attitudes.

When the hostages were first captured, you could read the depth of the rage in the actions of groups, such as the one that harassed Iranian demonstrators in Houston, and in individuals.

To those closest to a problem of hate, there is loss of sleep and the etching of their feelings in their eyes and facial muscles.

Correct response to an enemy, rather than defense, is examination of ourselves for blind spots. Is the United States in some way culpable? Has anyone been objective and honest enough to find out?

Our efforts at defense were frustrated when our helicopters burned in a desert sandstorm. Is it possible we could have been out of line in not first doing some careful soul-searching?

A Christian nation would have the understanding of God's sovereignty, that nothing happens outside of his benevolent plan. If we know that the person who "runs the whole show" also loves us infinitely, anxiety is replaced by faith. "A nation under God" would be in the enviable position of being able to relax and wait.

Eventually, an individual or world leader who violates God's principles, as Khomeini has done, will fall upon trouble so vast that he will bring himself down. Then we will need to "ride herd" on our own thought life, because I Corinthians 13 says not to rejoice in the problems of others.

If we can forgive and have a positive national mentality, we can gain good mental and physical health and possibly the friendship of the Iranian nation.

Why not stay home?

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Every time something happens in Iran, the Iranian students in the United States seem to come out of the woodwork, or wherever they live, protesting alleged American involvement, screaming oaths against the U.S. president, and screwing up the traffic something awful.

This is, of course, perfectly legal, but it does go against the grain of many Americans who feel that the streets could be better used during the rush hour than for pro-Khomeini demonstrations.

AS A DEFENDER of free speech, I cannot call for any group to be banned from parading and shouting. But it seems to me that with Iran at war, the students could do so much more good if they went home and defended their country.

From what one can see, the Iranian students have tremendous spirit. Their talents seem wasted in the United States, yelling at the top of their lungs about all the terrible things that are being done to them. These people would make marvelous soldiers in Bani-Sadr's army, and could really play an important part in repulsing the satanic forces which are trying to overrun their country.

Instead of lying down in the streets of Washington trying to stop our buses, they could throw themselves in front of the Iraq tanks. And instead of burning effigies of President Carter, they could lob grenades at the Iraqi soldiers who have invaded their land.

Naturally, all of us here in the United States would hate to see them leave, but we would understand it if they all packed up tomorrow and left for their homeland.

There might be financial problems in the pro-Khomeini students getting back. But I think this could be dealt with by unfreezing some of the Iranian assets in this country, and providing them with free transportation to Tehran.

Let no one make any mistake about this proposal. No Iranian student should be kicked out of the U.S. just because he doesn't like it here. But we should appeal to his patriotism. Instead of the American people looking on with distaste as the students demonstrate, we should urge them to enlist in their own armed services and go forth to fight their holy war where it is taking place.

WE SHOULD MAKE it perfectly clear that we would love to have them stay in America, but their protests are falling on deaf ears here and they are much more needed on the battlefield. I would even hold a ticker tape parade down Broadway as they marched off to the troop ships which would take them back to the land of their birth.

Many people to whom I have suggested my idea seem skeptical. They say the Iranian students don't want to go home. They maintain the students would rather remain here, where they know they are safe from the crazy mullahs who are running their country. They also know they'll be protected in the U.S., no matter what they're protesting, which doesn't happen to be the case in Iran.

But I don't believe it. I know every pro-Khomeini student is dying to leave the oppressive police state they maintain we have over here. So I say, "Iranian Students, Unite and Go Home. Your Country Needs You — And Arrivederci, Gang. We'll Miss You, But When You Gotta Go, You Gotta Go."

Older woman wants legs fixed

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it possible for an older woman to have her bowlegs straightened? — B.L.

Those aren't your initials. I put your longer letter aside, and when I got around to answering it (after considerable research) I could not locate it. Embarrassing. The initials are for "bowlegs." Hope you read the answer.

It is possible to correct bowed legs surgically. The decision to do so depends on the degree of bowing and the purpose of the correction. In an older person, bowed legs can produce abnormal strains on the hip joint, producing osteoarthritis (wear-and-tear type).

One procedure consists of rearranging the attachments of the legs below the knee to make them line up with the thighs. In this, certain bones are rotated and sort of sewn in place. In another, a portion of the bone from the lower leg (a wedge of the tibia) is removed.

As I recall your letter, you were contemplating surgery for cosmetic reasons. This would entail a frank discussion with your orthopedic doctor on the pros and cons of doing it for that purpose. If an arthritic condition is developing, then there is less hesitancy to proceed.

Dear Dr. Donohue: If a person has gout in the big toe so bad at times that he cannot walk is it true that it can turn into cancer? — Mrs. K.M.

No. Where did you hear that? From your letter, you have a lot of incorrect information on the problem (another part of your letter). Write me again care of the Big Spring Herald, and I'll send you the booklet "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It." Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Can you please explain "mixed connective tissue disease?" The doctor said my sister had it and it has been written up in the medical journal. She died recently. Is this hereditary, and is it something that can be transmitted to someone else by clothing given away, like woollens that cannot be washed? — C.H.

A number of skin and joint illnesses have sufficiently common signs and symptoms to share the name connective tissue disease, but each is sufficiently distinctive to be identified by itself, too. To make this a little clearer, recall that a cold, a running nose, a cough and pneumonia are all respiratory tract infections. But they are easily separated into their own more precise diagnoses.

So with the connective tissue diseases — scleroderma, lupus and polymyositis. Mixed connective tissue disease has the mixed signs and symptoms that suggest lupus, scleroderma and polymyositis. That is how the name came into being.

The person with it may have joint pains, joint swelling, swollen hands with tight skin, a sensitivity of the fingers to cold and muscle weakness. A special blood test aids in the diagnosis.

Mixed connective tissue disease is not transmitted from an ill person or his clothing to anyone else. If it is hereditary, that has not been proven. I am very sorry to hear that your sister's illness ended in an early death. Not all mixed connective tissue disease is so severe. You and your family members should not fear that they have contracted this illness from your sister.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Suppose a person is being treated by a particular physician in a group practice, but subsequently wants to be treated by one of the other associates in the same group due to the hateful personality of physician "X." How do you go about changing doctors with a minimum of flap? Should you be blunt about the reason? — S.P.

You can do this without a flap. Just tell the receptionist to make your appointments with Dr. Y instead of Dr. X. You don't need to discuss reasons. No one's professional feelings will be hurt. This doesn't mean that your feelings wouldn't be hurt if you started reading Dr. Lamb's column, however.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I heard someone say recently that true Christians have no need to ask for forgiveness every time they sin. Do you think this is true? — Mrs. E.S.H.

DEAR MRS. E.S.H.: This person may have been trying to say that Christians do not lose their salvation every time they commit a sin. While I agree with that, I believe the Bible also teaches we should seek the forgiveness of God whenever we do sin. I John 1:8 says, "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." However, John goes on to give us one of the great promises of Scripture: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (I John 1:9). God cannot forgive excuses, but he does forgive sins. So I do believe it is important to ask forgiveness when we do sin.

How often do we need a bath or to wash our hands? You see, when we become believers we still are sinners, although God has now made us his children. When we sin we do not lose our relationship as children, but we do lose our close fellowship with God. It is like what sometimes happens in a family. A child may do something wrong, and the fellowship between the child and the parent may become strained. But the child is still part of the family. In order to get back into fellowship when we have sinned we need to confess our sins and repent of them.

When we have unconfessed sin in our lives it has many effects. Our witness to other people will be blunted. Our spiritual lives will be dry and even distasteful. The Bible even says our prayers will not be heard: "your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear" (Isaiah 59:2).

What a wonderful thing it is to know the forgiveness of God. Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered" (Psalm 32:1).

Probe delayed

WASHINGTON — President Jimmy Carter has been spared the humiliation of a pre-election probe into allegations that his Justice Department deep-sixed 15 cases that were considered politically sensitive by the White House.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has been investigating the charges for nearly six months. But a few weeks ago, the word came down from the office of the Senate majority leader, Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., that the probe — in the words of one Judiciary Committee staff member — was to be put on "active hold."

ANOTHER COMMITTEE source was more candid. The investigation was being postponed, he told my associate Indy Badhwar, in the interest of "Democratic unity — not hurting the administration too much before the election."

The probe might have been nearing conclusion at this point had not the Justice Department defied the committee for two months by refusing permission for the panel's investigators to examine its files on the 15 questionable cases.

Only after a unanimous committee vote to subpoena the documents, and a full-Senate vote to uphold the demand, did Assistant Attorney General Philip B. Heymann, head of the Criminal Division, give in. He agreed to allow designated committee staff aides to look at the files. But, in return, he insisted that the department's attorneys not be questioned about the instructions they may have received from higher-ups.

The Senate investigators thus relinquished their trump card. Since the compromise was struck, said one committee source, "I can't say we've done a whole lot."

One of the cases under scrutiny involves a former federal energy regional chief, Kenneth Dupuy, and Georgia state energy czar Lewis Spruill, who was appointed to that post by Jimmy Carter when he was governor. The energy officials were accused of accepting lavish gifts from Georgia oil dealer William E. Corey, who was favored with generous fuel allocations during the gas shortage that came in the wake of the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

SPRUILL HAD ALSO been charged with giving preferential treatment in 1973 to the Plains, Ga., gas station then owned by Billy Carter.

The case was referred to the Justice Department shortly before Jimmy Carter's election. The department sat on it for three years and then dismissed it.

Most of the cases in question were handled by the Justice Department's Public Integrity Section. Among the others that smack of political hijinks are these:

—An investigation into charges that Air Force generals and government lawyers conspired in a smear campaign against Pentagon cost analyst Ernest Fitzgerald, the man who blew the whistle on a $2 billion cost overrun on the Lockheed C-5A program.

—A probe of alleged violations of federal election laws by former Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp when he ran for president in 1976.

—An inquiry into charges by Pittsburgh developer Jack Nard that prominent lawyers with ties to a federal judge committed perjury in a civil suit.

—A probe to determine whether documents were illegally destroyed to protect former Civil Service Commission officials from charges that they conspired to violate the federal merit system.

Footnote: In defense of the Judiciary Committee, one senator's aide claimed that its probe of the 15 cases had been put aside so that investigators could spend more time looking into fugitive financier Robert Vesco's White House connections. Sen. Byrd did not return repeated calls to his office.

SERVICE IS OUR SCHTICK: For some Postal Service employees, it's not entirely a life of snow, rain and gloom of night.

Nearly a year ago, for example, the postmaster at Clarksburg, W.Va., resigned and Julie McCarthy, manager of the bulk mail center at Largo, Md., was dispatched to perform his duties on a temporary basis.

As a trainee in the Service's career executive service, she has been collecting daily living expenses every month while retaining her apartment in the Washington area. During the work week, the taxpayers foot her Clarksburg motel bill of $32 a day. She's allowed $16 a day for meals. On the weekends, she flies home, and the Postal Service picks up the $100 round-trip tab.

To fill her permanent post at Largo, the Service brought in another "temporary," William Christy, from Manchester, Conn. He collects the same per diem for meals and the monthly rent for a furnished apartment. Once every three weeks, he flies home to Connecticut at Postal Service expense.

JIMMY STRIKE SOUT: Before the nation's capital lost its baseball team, U.S. presidents delighted in throwing out the symbolic first pitch of the major league season. But President Carter, a softball player, unfortunately can't find the time to meet with a New Jersey family to sign a historic baseball which has been autographed by every chief executive since Herbert Hoover.

Thomas J. Cooney, father of two deaf youngsters, Tommy and Ronnie, has appealed in vain for an audience with Carter to get his signature on the sports memento. "The president is too busy," responded a White House aide, who advised Cooney to "send us the ball and we will have it autographed for you."

WATCH ON WASTE: The Carter administration recently urged government agencies to cut back on travel expenses by sending only one bureaucrat to out-of-town conferences. But Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., has discovered a U.S. Forest Service manual that complies on one page and endorses junketing-as-usual on the next. At one point, the agency suggests the "possibility" of sending only one official who would then report back to his colleagues. Further on, the management manual grants as many as 35 upper-echelon bosses blanket approval to attend 77 various conferences this year. A Forest Service spokesman insisted he saw "no inconsistency."

Texas Democrats shake funeral mood

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The organizer was warming up, the flowers had been placed carefully in a rectangular pattern around the lectern.

If it hadn't been for the noise of arriving state party delegates and the various political signs around, anyone might have thought a funeral was taking place.

Well, considering the morose attitude of some Democrats this year, perhaps the State Democratic Convention in Houston, recently inadvertently projected the proper image at its opening.

Billy Goldberg added to the atmosphere by sitting around in his final hours as party chairman with his typical downcast expression. Ronald Reagan could announce that he was withdrawing from the presidential race to campaign for President Carter and Goldberg still would look worried.

Once it got under way, the convention more resembled a typical Democratic free-for-all than a funeral.

In contrast with the unity-bound Republican conventions this year, the Democratic get-together featured politics as usual.

Factions caucused and raved about particular grievances. Delegates fought bitterly over the party chairman and vice-chairman races. Pro-gay rights delegates angered those from conservative, rural areas by approving a call for abolishing the Texas anti-homosexuality law.

"We've got to go home and face our people," one West Texas delegate told a reporter after the gay amendment was added to the party platform. "Please, point out that our delegation opposed this unanimously."

The gay-rights supporters managed to add their platform plank by hanging around for the platform vote while many other delegates headed for a plane home or a Saturday night out in Houston.

Even with the party officer fights and yelling about gay rights, however, the Democrats came away in reasonably good shape.

The officer fights featured the losers embracing the winners and pledging support.

Party leaders could hardly have asked for more. One leader said the important thing for the convention was to fight and then make up, rather than to fight and then go home.

The convention bruised the party but did not bloody it. If delegates left worrying about what happened, they at least could be convinced that the worst had not happened.

Texas Democrats have not been as openly optimistic as Texas Republicans this year, but their mood seems to be improving as polls show their man has a fighting chance.

In their contacts with news reporters, state Republican leaders are stressing that the presidential race looks close.

They have been worried about campaign workers becoming overconfident.

If the successful campaign of Bob Slagle for state party chairman is any indication, the Democrats may become as well organized as the Republicans.

Slagle's campaign was impressive. By the time the vote came around, Slagle had made almost every convention delegate indebted to him to some extent. He provided convention agendas, restaurant lists, maps and even bus service — none of which was available from the previous party administration, which quietly backed his opponent.

The most amazing thing about the new party chairman, who hails from tiny Southmayd near Sherman-Denison, was his ability to instinctively know which female supporters would be offended by a kiss and which would not.

He further decided to receive a kiss on the cheek and those who got a quick peck on the lips.

Slagle's victory meant the door for some of the Goldberg administration employees, included party executive director Garry Mauro.

Mauro, a Bryan native, will stay on as head of the party's computerized voter registration and get-out-the-vote campaign, but only through the election. He will resume full-time law practice in Austin after that.

Mauro was the wun-derking campaign director who designed the almost-successful challenge by Bo Krueger against U.S. Sen. John Tower two years ago.

Krueger said recently he almost certainly will seek elective office again but won't seek to go back to his old New Braunfels-based U.S. House seat. The likely race is for U.S. senator, if Sen. Lloyd Bentsen steps down, or Texas governor.

Mauro says he'll likely be active in any future Krueger campaign, but once was enough as campaign manager.

Harold Brown in El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Secretary of Defense Harold Brown was Fort Bliss today to inspect Army missile-launchers and address the local Chamber of Commerce.

Military officials said his visit had nothing to do with "politicizing or checking readiness."

"He is seeing his troops as secretary of defense," said Lt. Col. Ed McDonald.

The 11th Air Defense Artillery Brigade prepared a briefing and demonstration for Brown in a training field north of this desert city. Afterward, McDonald said the secretary would hold a press conference and address a luncheon before departing at 1:30 p.m. MDT.

During his visit, McDonald said Brown will confer privately with General of the Army Omar Bradley, the nation's only living five-star officer. Bradley, 87, who makes his home at Fort Bliss, was given a seat at the head table with Brown.

The 4,000-man, five-division 11th brigade is armed with ground-to-air missiles designed to attack enemy aircraft. McDonald said there were no plans for a live fire demonstration.

'Nothing quaint about Paul Weiss'

Making violins a sensible job to pursue in the 20th Century

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — When you think of a violin maker you think, perhaps, of a wizened old master toiling in an ancient workshop in Cremona, quaintly mindless of time and technology.

You certainly do not think of Paul Weiss. You do not think of a 23-year-old American who believes that making violins by hand is as sensible a pursuit as any for a young man of the 20th century. Nothing quaint about Paul Weiss.

"I intend to make a go of it," he was saying the other day as he stroked a coat of varnish on a cello he had made. He had made the varnish, too, from a formula he found in a 16th century manuscript. This was the 14th thin coat. He hung the cello on a clothesline to dry in the dappled autumn sun.

As a teenager, he had discovered an interest in wood-working. He also had an interest in music.

"I guess the two sort of came together, the violin and my wanting to learn to do highly skilled woodworking."

"Making violins seemed like an interesting combination of both. But where do you learn to make violins? I discovered there are only a handful of violin makers in America, none around here."

"I talked to some violin repairmen. They all told me about a school in England."

So Paul Weiss left home for three years and returned last summer carrying two violins, a viola and a cello, all of his own making, and a diploma, with merit, from the Newark School of Violinmaking, Nottinghamshire, England.

"I was one of only 36 students, 12 in each grade, from all over the world: Australia, France, Switzerland, The Netherlands."

"We had four instructors. They were all professional violin makers and they were not easily satisfied. We worked nights. We worked weekends. We worked until the work felt right in our hands."

"Violin making is not simply precision woodworking. You have to have a complete sense of what you are doing. The sound you seek doesn't come simply from wood-working."

That all sounds mystical and complicated. The place where Paul Weiss goes about his work, though, is simple and direct.

His workshop, which he built, is out behind his family's 150-year-old house on the Byram River, out where a stable once stood, a properly idyllic setting for his patient art.

Now all he needs are customers. He isn't worried.

"I can make nine or 10 instruments a year," he said. "I expect a serious student of music on a tight budget will gladly pay, say, $3,000 for one. Most hand-made instruments cost 10 times that much. I can't expect that at first. The time will come."

"Meanwhile, I suppose I'll have to do some repair work for my bread and butter. But," he said, "I am not a repairman. I am not just a woodworker."

His lean fingers caressed the aged maple of a violin he had made. His voice tightened, like a gut string. "I am a violin maker."

(AP LASERPHOTO)

VIOLIN MAKER — Paul Weiss, a 23-year-old American, is a violin maker, a profession which is pursued by only a handful of people in the United States. Weiss holds up a violin he is working on in his Greenwich, Conn. workshop recently. As a teenager, Weiss was interested in woodworking and then he took up playing the violin. "Making violins seemed like an interesting combination of both interests" according to Weiss.

Iranians accuse U.S. of hostage indifference

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai today accused the United States of being indifferent to the fate of the 52 American hostages in Iran, Tehran Radio said.

"It is not important to the United States if all the hostages are killed because the United States is always after its own interests and is using the hostages as an excuse to be able to do anything it likes," Rajai was quoted as saying in an interview with Japanese television.

A text of a portion of the interview was read on Tehran radio, monitored in Beirut.

The radio said Rajai asserted that the U.S. government's indifference to the hostages, held captive by militants since Nov. 4, "was proven in its military attack on Tabas" — a reference to the abortive U.S. rescue mission last April.

"We saw that the United States, to keep its interests, was prepared to endanger the lives of the hostages," it quoted Rajai as saying. "So whenever the United States mentions the release of the hostages the first victims will be the hostages themselves."

The hostages, now in their 31st day of captivity, were held in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran until the abortive rescue effort. Militants then claimed to have moved them to scattered sites throughout Iran. The militants said the hostages were moved again after the Iran-Iraq war broke out 18 days ago.

The Iranian parliament has begun debating the hostages' fate and a committee of seven has been appointed to study whether they will be placed on trial for alleged crimes. The parliamentary process, however, has apparently been slowed down by the war with Iraq and Tehran Radio has said many of the members of parliament are at the battlefield.

Will the housing collapse?

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to spill drinks, induce overindulgence, and eventually create hysteria at a suburban cocktail party, simply comment about "the coming collapse of real estate prices."

Just those few words are bound to halt levity more swiftly than saying "My broker is E.F. Hutton, and E.F. Hutton says." They might dissolve the elegant into disheveled wrecks seeking the oblivion of martinis.

The reason, which is acutely present in millions of minds, is that a house is a bank. A family with few liquid assets might still feel rich, "you know, because we have enormous equity in our house."

That money in the bank, so to speak, is there to be tapped for college tuitions, for the big trip round the world, and for the retired home and boat and all the other things that go with that way of life.

If the equity goes, so goes the life, and that provokes the question: Can it?

Some commentators think so, but they have a curiously homogenous background. Most, it seems, are or have been involved in the securities business. They have a tendency to view the home as just an investment.

Home costs, mortgage rates and upkeep expenses are pricing millions of first-time buyers out of the market. They do not have the down payments required. They cannot afford the monthly carrying charges.

They probably couldn't get the money anyway, because savings institutions can't find the money to lend. Government and business needs have reduced the money pool. There's not enough for all.

Nothing new about that; housing has been shut out before.

If there isn't at rates that buyers can afford, then the demand is obviously cut, and you cannot have a market made up only of sellers. But in the market described, even sellers might be affected when potential buyers back out because of increased costs.

But, there is the matter of demographics. During the 1960s, a mortgage-lending group observes, some 40 million Americans will reach age 30. They will be seeking homes. They cannot be denied.

Well, on reflection, they could be denied. But can you imagine the uproar, the possible riots that might develop if a generation of young Americans was denied decent housing? Denied what they consider their birthright? Denied what has been popularized as the American ideal?

A house isn't a security, they say. Unlike stocks and bonds, which a person can do without, shelter is an essential of life. It will always be in demand; there is no choice but to demand it. It is necessary.

True, but what about that financial situation? And to that question the analysts who foresee housing prices not only holding their value but gaining even more say that somehow it must be made available.

There can be no other way, they say, and they'll drink to that.

Public attitude proposes barriers

By ROBBICROW
Family News Editor

Society is well aware of the term and its standard meaning.

Commonly, the definition of the word handicapped relates to some form of physical or mental impairment.

In actuality, says Big Spring State Hospital therapeutic supervisor Jim Potter, the true definition means anything but that.

"It's a bad word," protested Potter. "It's origin comes from the mid-14th century and is linked with begging."

Potter explained that the word handicap was derived from four English words — hand in the cap.

"Beggars would stand by the door of a rich person's carriage at a public place and hold out their caps," he said. "They never knew what they had received until they put their 'hand in the cap' to pull out the coins."

Despite the poor word choice, a concerted effort is being made locally and nationally to provide the physically and mentally handicapped with maximum independence, full access to society and the opportunity to develop and use their talents and skills.

Thus, President Jimmy Carter has proclaimed this week, Oct. 5-11, Employ the Handicapped Week.

Speaking primarily of the physically disabled, Potter stated that the handicapped in society make up a large population of often untapped manpower resource. He claims that many have undisclosed abilities because they've never sought and tried.

The therapeutic supervisor is a graduate of Wisconsin State University with a bachelor's degree in physical education and a master's degree in therapeutic recreation. He is also the consultant to recreation at BSSH.

On May 23, 1966, Potter then a junior high school football and basketball coach, was the victim of an automobile accident that left him paralyzed from the chest down.

"So I've had a long time to think on this subject," he said.

Potter feels that society puts additional hardships on the handicapped person, aside from the disabilities he is already faced with.

"Public attitude that the handicapped person is worthless is a major barrier," Potter revealed.

"They are stereotyped as all the same because of obvious signs such as a wheelchair."

He added that physical disability caused by neurological problems is often viewed as retardation because of strange or spastic movements and speech difficulties.

"In reality," Potter said, "the person may be very intelligent."

Also of major concern to Potter are unnecessary physical barriers with which the handicapped people seem destined to cope.

He feels strongly that too many people only pay lip service to the Rehab Act of 1964 and the national standards for making buildings accessible to and usable by the physically handicapped.

"They often feel that if they have enough 'muscle' around they can help the 'poor crippled person' up the steps and into the building," he commented.

As a participant of the working world, Potter believes the handicapped person needs to be encouraged.

Many are productive tax-paying members of society, rather than welfare recipients.

"But more than financially speaking," he continued, "they have pride in reaching their maximum potential for independence."

Potter stressed that handicapped people aren't looking for sympathy. Mankind basically is not sympathy oriented, he pointed out.

"Shortly after I became disabled," he recalled, "I was given sympathy. The little old ladies in the church about tore me up. I didn't want sympathy, I was ready to go on with my life."

Obstacles hindering the employment of the physically handicapped are many says Potter.

"Employees are afraid to hire the handicapped because their insurance won't cover any possible liabilities," he said, pointing out a common reason.

Also the possibility of having to make special arrangements is a mark against society's physically handicapped seeking employment.

"Employers often fail to look at ability and only see the disability which they perceive as a handicap," Potter said.

"However, he continued, 'studies have shown that persons with disabilities have far better work records than their able-bodied counterparts.'

"They take less time off for illnesses and show greater dependability on the job."

Why? Potter explains that if given the opportunity to work, handicapped persons are more prone to appreciate it and not abuse it.

"Hire the handicapped for their abilities," he stressed. "They're probably not as handicapped as you thought."

On the other side of the coin, society is moving strongly toward greater equality for citizens with mental disabilities as well.

Unfortunately, several problems and misconceptions get in the way of employment opportunities for the mentally handicapped.

Mike Cowley, diagnostician of the Special Education Department of BSISD says employers must treat their mentally disabled employees as individuals.

"They must not be compared with fellow employees in terms of productivity."

It is not uncommon for a retarded employee to meet with failure on his new job because of his need for repetitive modeling before the skill is actually learned.

"Even when the mentally handicapped person has acquired certain job skills in vocational classes," conveyed Cowley, "he may have extreme difficulty transferring these skills into a new working situation."

D'Lene Wiley was born 20 years ago with Phynal Ketoroule of years," revealed D'Lene's mother, Mrs. Robert (Kaye) Wiley.

In spite of her mental disability, D'Lene has been able to serve as a productive member of society as an employee.

At the present time, she works as a substitute for the Westside Day Care Center.

However, becoming an active participant in the working world hasn't been an easy task for D'Lene or her parents.

"We put in job applications at over 30 places," Mrs. Wiley counted. "It gets frustrating for her and us. There's always the fear of being rejected coupled with the pressure that accompanies any job interview."

The Wileys admit that it's hard to determine whether or not their daughter was not accepted at certain businesses because of her handicap or because there was no need for any new employees.

Very few job opportunities are open to the mentally handicapped. In fact, most jobs they are capable of doing are performed by volunteers.

"Mentally handicapped persons need repetitive jobs," pointed out D'Lene's father.

Employers are also reluctant to hire a mentally disabled person because of the time it takes to train him.

"Most people are always so rushed they can't take the time," Mr. Wiley said.

Still yet another obstacle, says Mrs. Wiley, is communication.

"We've seen people who don't know how to act or talk to D'Lene. Some just feel uncomfortable around her," she explained.

"But D'Lene can handle herself just fine. She knows that she is different. She has to be aware of it because she's had to deal with it all of her life."

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley feel the public should be made more aware of the on-the-job needs of the mentally disabled.

"They should be treated as individuals," Mrs. Wiley stressed. "Employers shouldn't compare them with any other employees, handicapped or not."

Aside from her job, D'Lene is active on a bowling league. She also has several medals and ribbons in her possession she won as a participant of Special Olympics.

"Progress isn't always easy for D'Lene," Mrs. Wiley said, "but every step she takes is a step forward."

Dear Abby

Stick-in-the-Mud Will Stay Stuck

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a fine, educated, dignified gentleman for two years. I'm divorced, in my 40s; he's in his mid-50s and has never married.

My problem is his programmed way of life. He takes me out every Wednesday and Saturday nights only. And always where he wants to go. If I want to see him on any other night, it's absolutely no. And nothing can move him. He lives alone and has never invited me to his place where we could have complete privacy. If I suggest going to his apartment, he gives me a speech about appearances, his dignity, reputation, and what the neighbors will think. Meanwhile he thinks nothing of staying overnight at my place with my three children sleeping upstairs and my neighbors looking on.

I cater to all his preferences in food, entertainment and even late-night TV, which I do not enjoy. I am constantly feeding his ego. There has been no mention of a possible future or any kind of commitment together. I seem to be getting nowhere.

What are my chances of a future with him?
STYMIED IN BUFFALO

DEAR STYMIED: I would say you have no future with him. And from your description of him, I think you're lucky. Unless you want to share the rest of your life with a selfish, inconsiderate, egocentric, spoiled, inflexible prig.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought To Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

A message to users of Rely tampons from Procter & Gamble.

Women who use Rely* tampons should stop using them and return the unused product to Procter & Gamble for a refund.

Government studies show that tampons are associated with an increased risk of Toxic Shock Syndrome (TSS). This is a newly-discovered disease that affects mainly women who use tampons during their periods.

Toxic Shock Syndrome can be very serious and is believed to be responsible for a number of deaths. Almost all women who have had the disease have recovered.

Some recent studies indicate that Rely was apparently involved with Toxic Shock Syndrome to a greater extent than other tampon brands.

Toxic Shock Syndrome was first reported in November 1978. It is believed to be caused by a toxin produced by a bacterial infection (Staphylococcus aureus). In June 1980, the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC) first linked it to tampon use. No one yet knows how or why tampons are associated with this disease.

In June, based on research conducted up to that point, CDC said that tampon use alone was not sufficient to cause the disease. CDC also said that no particular brand of tampon was more involved than others.

But on September 15, CDC announced a new study. It compared women who had Toxic Shock Syndrome with women who did not. The study confirmed that Toxic Shock Syndrome was associated with tampon use. It also indicated that Rely was apparently involved with more cases than any other brand. Here are the key data available to date:

	DEFINITE TSS CASES REPORTED TO CDC
	≠ Cases Involved	Rely Brand	Other Identified Brands	Tampon Unidentified
CDC Study #1 (completed June 20)	52	17	43	2
CDC Study #2 (completed September 12)	50	35	22	0
Other cases reported to CDC	140	24	19	100
Total CDC cases (through September 23)	242	76	84	102

Brands used totals more than the number of cases reported because some women used more than one brand.

On September 21, P&G convened a scientific advisory group to review all known data relating to TSS. The group concluded that the available data were still fragmentary, but advised that the results of the latest CDC study should not be ignored.

Therefore, on September 22, Procter & Gamble announced it was suspending sales of Rely and that it would refund money to consumers who had Rely in their homes.

The Food and Drug Administration offers this advice to consumers:

"The current evidence indicates that women should stop using Rely. Women who want to reduce their risk of toxic shock even further may want to consider not using any tampons at all, or using napkins part of the time during their periods.

"Women using tampons who develop a high fever and vomiting or diarrhea during their periods should stop using tampons and see their doctors right away."

The FDA and CDC have said they will continue studying Toxic Shock Syndrome to find out what causes it and why it is associated with tampons. Procter & Gamble will participate with the government in this important effort.

In the meantime, Procter & Gamble advises women not to use Rely tampons and to return unused Rely for a refund.

You should know these symptoms of Toxic Shock Syndrome:

- High Fever (102°) and
- Vomiting or diarrhea

If you have these symptoms during your menstrual period, discontinue use of tampons and see your doctor at once.

How to return Rely and obtain refund:

Send your unused Rely tampons with your name and address to:
Rely,
P.O. Box PM006,
El Paso, Texas 79966.
And you will receive a refund including cost of mailing.

NOTE: You may see Rely advertisements in the November issues of various women's magazines. Unfortunately, these issues were already printed when the decision to suspend sales of Rely was made on September 22, 1980.

TASC President to be inducted into Hall of Fame

By MICKIE DICKSON
The Big Spring High School Student Council of 1971-72 will be installed in the BSHS Hall of Fame Saturday at 2 p.m. in the High School cafeteria for serving as president of the Texas Association of Student Councils, along with the 1955-56 council. The presidents of each BSHS student council will also have their names engraved on a plaque to be displayed in the High School Museum.

Governor Preston Smith was the keynote speaker at the TASC convention in March 1972 at Austin. Sam Chappell, president of BSHS Student Council and then reigning president of TASC, addressed some 2,000 students and their sponsors at the convention. His message, "Beyond Consciousness III," was taken from Dr. Charles Reich's best seller, "Greening of America," which divides the last two centuries of American history into three groups. Dr. Reich refers to each group as a consciousness.

Sam proposed a modern Consciousness IV plan created from ideas and efforts first experienced by our ancestors. He suggested to his contemporaries that they, the members of Consciousness IV, revise the ideas and efforts known during the three earlier periods and create a plan so near perfection that it would soar toward the high goal of a better nation and a better world. Sam said, "From Consciousness I would borrow the ideas and dreams of freedom; from Consciousness II, the professionalism and creative strength; and from Consciousness III, the enthusiasm in attempting to solve problems and to right wrongs. Making use of this triumvirate of ingredients, we can accomplish goals that man has tried to reach since earliest time. Sam's speech was radioed back to Big Spring by KBST Radio Station.

The BSHS Honor Band and Campus Review under Bill Bradley, director, was presented as entertainment at the convention and was so well received that they were invited back every year.

The real work of attaining the presidency of TASC for Big Spring High School came the previous year when Sam Chappell was vice president and Scott McLaughlin, president. "The Student Council raised approximately $4,000 in nine months for the TASC campaign in 1970-71 through different projects," said Sam. "Band concerts were given, candy was sold, school dances and Stage Band concerts given plus money saved in the council fund was used to stage the campaign in April 1-2, 1971 in Austin."

"We could never have made it if the entire city of Big Spring had not been behind us," Sam continued. The material we took to the convention was better than anybody else's. We even had a newspaper which the Journalism Department helped us put together and a local printer gave us reduced rates on which pass out at the convention. We had some stiff competition with big schools such as Amarillo High, Corpus Christi Ray and Baytown Lee Senator John Tower sent us a telegram of congratulations for running," said Chappell.

John Talmadge, assistant principal, was Student Council sponsor; Roger Tucker, present counselor at Runnels Junior High, was assistant sponsor. Delegates to the 1971 convention were Belinda Gonzales, Chappell, Bobby Carlile, Cheri Turner Sparks, Denise Bryant, Kae McLaughlin, Scott McLaughlin and Jeff Talmadge who went in place of Randy Womack who had a baseball game commitment.

The executive committee of BSHS Student Council for 1972 were Sam Chappell, president; Lupe Arguello, first vice president; Kae McLaughlin, corresponding secretary; Denise Bryant, recording secretary and Mike Bearden, second vice president.

Prior to the convention the Student Council of BSHS attended the West Texas Forum on March 6 hosted by Odessa Permian High School which assured support of area schools for their campaign for the State Presidency.

Odessa Permian was elected as president of District VIII after they were nominated by Big Spring. Permian was unopposed and Big Spring was afforded the opportunity to speak before the Forum members without offending anybody as would be the case if Permian had had an opponent.

The members of Student Council tried to take a part in every phase of the Forum. Two members of the BSHS Council led a discussion under the title "Function of Committee Organization in the Student Council" which they allowed to expand to include dress codes, sponsors and activity cards.

This method of non-confrontation activism was successful and the council received new commitments for the State Presidency according to Chappell, then vice president of BSHS Council. The Forum seemed to instill a mood of confidence in the group.

Being president of TASC afforded Sam numerous opportunities to speak and broaden his experiences. He represented BSHS in Washington, D.C. in the United States Senate Youth Program. A seminar financed by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation, BSHS was one of two schools for each state, among 100 schools, the other Texan being from San Antonio. He met both senators from Texas, Lloyd Bentsen and Charles Stenholm, in Washington.

Sam represented the state of Texas at the National Association of Student Councils in Vermont in July 1971. In addition, he was called upon to speak at numerous student council conventions in Texas including Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.

Scott McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, 112 Cedar, was president of BSHS Student Council during 1970-71 when the heavy campaigning was taking place. Scott is now married to Mary Kay Cochran, lives at 706 Edwards and is manager of the Saunders Company which his parents own.

Sam Chappell is now practicing law in Anderson, Ind. for the law firm of Davison, Davison and Lacey. Married to Becky James, daughter of the late Buss James and Jewette James of Lubbock, formerly of Big Spring, the pair have two children, Jason, 7 and Angela, 1½. Sam received his Juris Prudence degree from Oklahoma City University, Oklahoma City, Okla. Becky received her masters degree there in 1979, the first master earned in wind instrument performance at that university. She teaches wind instrument classes at Anderson College.

Among numerous homecoming activities beginning tonight with the Community Pep Rally at Steer Gym following the volleyball game, are class reunions. The graduating classes of 1904 to 1930 are to meet in the library of Big Spring High School from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday for coffee. This has been an annual celebration in the home of Helen and Loy Acuff, but Loy is on the sick list this year, so the site has been changed. Fifteen hostesses will welcome all the grads who come. Hostesses are Agnes Currie, Lillian Dawson, Helen Earley, Pauline Garrison, Janice Harris, Joe Pickle, Louise Horton, Clara Johnson, Twila Lomax, Mildred McFall, Bernice Porter, Ida Lou Read, Ruth Rutherford, Mamie Roberts and Kathleen Williams. Those who attended BSHS before 1930 are encouraged to come and help welcome out-of-town grads coming back for homecoming. Please use the flagpole entrance of the school.

Alumni from BSHS graduating classes 1930 through 1939 are gathering for a reception Friday evening from 8-11 p.m. in the Fannie Mae Eaker Room at the First United Methodist Church. The reception will begin at 8 p.m. for those not attending the BSHS-Midland High football game, and

California attorney says speed will be costly

Air Force Board ends last POW review

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A California attorney says the Air Force is too anxious to have the last man missing in Vietnam declared dead and is withholding information that might prove the man is still alive.

An Air Force Board today ends a review of the case of Col. Charles Shelton, the last of 712 Air Force men listed as prisoners of war or missing in action in Vietnam.

Walter E. Shjeflo of San Mateo, Calif., said Wednesday that every other Air Force man whose case has been reviewed since the war ended has been officially declared dead.

Shjeflo represents Marian Shelton of San Diego, Calif., who is fighting to keep her husband from being declared dead on grounds the government would abandon any attempt to account for Americans missing in Southeast Asia.

"I want to know one way or the other," said the mother of five children, ages 17 to 28.

"Once Charles is declared legally dead, there will be no more pressure on the Vietnamese or Laotians to make an accounting," she said.

Shelton's jet fighter was shot down over Laos in 1965 as he flew his 80th mission on his 33rd birthday. He has been listed as a prisoner of war for 15 years, but Mrs. Shelton is convinced he may still be alive.

"We're up against the odds," Shjeflo said. "We don't have the right information. Not only do we not have the information, we don't have all that's here on this base, in the same room, because it's called classified."

"Every previous review has resulted in a change of status to dead," Shjeflo told reporters during a recess of the secret hearing Wednesday. "In the only two cases I know of where the review board recommended leaving the status the same, it was overruled by the Secretary of the Air Force."

Shjeflo disputed contentions by the Air Force that efforts continue to locate live Americans in Southeast Asia even after they are declared dead. He said sufficient personnel were not assigned to the project and "the record is sent to the military personnel center and the Air Force's concern with it is over."

Shjeflo said he was prepared to go to federal court if the review board declares Shelton dead, as he and Mrs. Shelton anticipate. He said he would argue the review procedure was inadequate.

"We feel the proceeding puts on us the burden of proof to show he's alive," the lawyer said. "And we possess no access to any information except through the government."

Shjeflo said the families of men listed as missing in action are not allowed to attend the review hearings that can change the status to officially dead. Only when the case is taken to court can next of kin hear the evidence that changed the status, he said.

The review boards are made up of three officers who served in Southeast Asia.

On the first day of the hearing on Shelton, the attorney succeeded in getting one officer removed from the panel because the Air Force colonel said he did not believe any captured Americans were still alive in Laos.

Military officials confirmed that Shelton's was the last of 712 Air Force review cases of the original 2,500 men unaccounted for in January of 1973.

One Marine and one Navy man also were listed as unaccounted for, a Pentagon spokesman said. Shjeflo said a private organization's interviews of "boat people" revealed "hundreds of reports there are Americans alive there. Some say they delivered laundry to prisons and there were Americans there."

"If Col. Shelton is alive, he's very likely to be one of them," the attorney said. A pilot who served in Shelton's squadron said he felt Mrs. Shelton had a good case.

"Charlie was definitely alive on the ground after he was shot down," said Tony Weissgarber, of San Antonio. An aerial photographer, Weissgarber said there were reports 15 years ago that a Laotian priest saw Shelton alive in a cave after he was captured by the enemy.

"My children have kept my faith up," Mrs. Shelton said. "They all look just like Charles. I could never forget him with them around."

New desegregation plan ordered

ODESSA — The U.S. Department of Justice has ordered the Ector County School District to come up with a new desegregation plan, replacing a plan which allows students to attend the school of their choice.

In a letter sent to the board by Drew S. Days III, the Assistant Attorney General expressed "great disappointment for the shortcomings of the proposed plan."

And finding it

Looking for trouble

NEW YORK (AP) — In red berets and white T-shirts, the Guardian Angels ride the subways, buses and ferries looking for trouble. They've found it — in a surprising quarter.

These self-styled foes of the criminal element tightening its reign of terror in the nation's largest city carry no weapons and take no pay. They're armed with the martial arts — and expected a New York thanks would be their compensation.

It hasn't turned out that way. Some transit police resent them, and others call them vigilantes bent on taking the law into their own hands. Mayor Edward Koch has advised the Angels — mostly blacks and Hispanics — "if you want to engage in paramilitary activity, join the auxiliary police."

It was a simmering feud until Sunday, when one of the Angels — 17-year-old Nelson

Joga — allegedly ran afoul of the law in a Brooklyn subway station.

Joga was escorting 28-year-old Barbara Weissman to the platform about 8 p.m. when, according to police, officer Sheriff Ali, 32, spotted him smoking a cigarette — a violation of the law.

Officer Ray Montoro, a candidate for treasurer in the Transit Patrolmen's Benevolent Association's upcoming election, was among those involved in the incident. When confronted, he says, Joga "went into a spiel."

"I'm a Guardian Angel. I'm here to protect the public," he quoted Joga as saying. Then the youth turned abusive, police said, refusing to identify himself. Five patrolmen responded to a radio call for assistance, and Joga was subdued in a struggle. Montoro was treated for a sprained right hand. Joga's head was cut and he required stitches.

The Angel was charged with assault, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and smoking in the subway. After a hearing several hours later, Joga was freed without bail.

But there is another side to this story. Miss Weissman says Joga was "accused unjustly." Joga says he wasn't smoking. And the leader of the Guardian Angels, 25-year-old Curtis "Rock" Siwa, says the arrest was intended to enhance Montoro's union ambitions.

"The police officer was very abusive," Miss Weissman said Wednesday at a news conference. "He was nasty and he acted like he was looking for a fight. I didn't see any cigarette, but I can't say for sure."

"They just jumped him," she continued. "The boy never started a fight. The police started it." Siwa blames Montoro. "I think he used it (the incident) as a platform for his campaign for union office," he said.

For more than a year, the Guardian Angels have been seeking and getting attention for their subway and park patrols. The arrest of one of their members was news — and the man who called reporters was Montoro.

Union spokesman James Groark says it's not unusual for transit police officers to call reporters when they can't reach public relations people.

But Montoro makes no secret of his dislike for the young men.

"If they were out to help, we would be the first to welcome them," he declared at the time of the arrest. "They are vigilantes who have embarked on and committed shakedowns. I've never seen them help anyone in my nine years of service."

Fumes prompt officials to evacuate 37 families

MONT BELVIEU, Texas (AP) — Fumes seeping into sewer lines have prompted authorities to evacuate 37 families from their homes in this Chambers County community sitting atop a salt dome used to store petrochemicals.

City officials were alerted to the problem this week when Marie Kaier was burned in a flash fire after turning on her dishwasher. Ms. Kaier was treated for minor burns and released from an area hospital, officials said.

A house-to-house search Tuesday by five teams of Texas Railroad Commission inspectors found increasing amounts of gas leaks, Miller said.

Laboratory tests showed gas fumes — a combination of ethane and propane with traces of butane and methane — had saturated a six-block residential area of this community 30 miles east of Houston.

More than a dozen petrochemical companies have storage facilities in the salt dome.

"We told them the facts, that this town was the most dangerous place in the United States that anybody could live, but some wouldn't listen," said Gordon Speer, a Mont Belvieu realtor.

Mayor Fred Miller said the source of the fumes is undetermined, but noted the situation had increased to such an extent in the southwest part of the area that safety precautions were necessary.

"It was enough to alarm us to take some safety precautions. But I don't think we have a dangerous situation," Miller said.

Officials in the nearby community of Daisetta, which also sits on top of a storage dome, have been investigating a similar situation since May. Three public buildings were closed for three months because of fumes from undetermined sources.

Dixon facing burglary rap

Michael Dare Dixon, 405 Donley, is in sheriff's office custody for burglary of a motor vehicle indictment.

Dixon was arrested by sheriff's deputies Tuesday. Bond was set by the district judge at $10,000.

Area schoolboy grid Honor Roll

As the district races in area high school football gets underway, players invariably perform a little better, which makes it harder to judge each week's Honor Roll for outstanding performances.

This week, area teams had only a 2-5-1 record, but there were still many athletes that distinguished themselves on the gridiron.

The Big Spring Steers, starting 15 of 22 underclassmen in their line-up, led 26-point favorite Abilene

High by 21-13 entering the fourth stanza, only to see the Eagles passing game be too much in a 28-21 loss. But two players for the Steers that helped them get that lead going into the final minutes were running back-cornorback BOBBY EARL WILLIAMS, a 185-pound junior, and center-defensive end SCOTT BARNES, a 180-pound senior.

Williams dazzled the home town fans by rushing for 163 yards on only 12 carries, including a pair of 62-yard scoring dashes. He also played defense, making some excellent hits on Abilene runners.

Barnes was all over the field from his defensive end position, making 10 unassisted tackles and being in on three assists. He also helped open some of the holes for Williams and the rest of the Steer backs.

The Stanton Buffaloes enjoyed their biggest win in years last Friday night, knocking off state ranked and perennial district champion Seagraves by a score of 27-21.

The win gave the undefeated Bufts a record of 5-0 and an early advantage in the District 5-A-A-A-A race. Stanton Coach Steve Park mentioned numerous names that could be considered for the Honor Roll on an average week, but felt that in the final result it would be a disservice to some to name any individual. "Too many kids just played too well to single out one or two," said Park. "A lot of them were injured or sick, and came out played good games, anyway. Some played better than others, but they all played well and it was just a great team effort."

The Coahoma Bulldogs ended a three-game losing streak by tying Colorado City 13-13, and Coahoma Coach Roy Winters nominated defensive tackle TOMMY JOE SHIRLEY and flanker-running back MANUEL MARTINEZ for this week's award.

Shirley had just eight tackles for the Bulldog defense that stopped the Wolves for most of the night, but as Winters explained: "He just had an outstanding night defensively."

Martinez, a versatile performer who leads District 6-A-A-A in receiving, scored one Bulldog touchdown on a four-yard run, and set up the other score on a 20-yard pass reception to the Wolves' one-inch line.

The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes suffered a loss to Sweetwater in a contest in which Coach Jim Warren was far from pleased with his team's performance, but one player that did play in winning fashion for Lamesa was tailback-cornorback BERNARD WILLIAMS.

Williams made 10 tackles defensively and graded out an excellent 90 percent in the contest to receive rave reviews from Warren.

The Garden City Bearcats won their first game of the season in a 25-6 romp over Water Valley, and Coach Stu Cooper was pleased with his entire team's performance.

But one player that was better than good was quarterback ALAN JANSA, who had his finest game of the season. Jansa completed nine of 14 passes for 125 yards, as well as rushing for 84 yards and directing his team on four scoring drives.

The Forsan Buffaloes lost a 19-0 decision to O'Donnell, even though they won the stat battle as far as first downs, rushing and passing yardage. Forsan Coach Ron Taylor was far from pleased with his club's performance in the loss, and did not nominate anyone for this week's Honor Roll.

The Sands Mustangs, an up-and-down team so far this season, suffered a 21-8 loss to Smyer, but not all was lost in the game, as Coach Jim White praised the performance of linebackers STEVE BLAGRAVE and SCOTT ROBINSON.

Blagrave, a junior, had 15 tackles in the contest, while Robinson, a senior, also had 15 tackles and intercepted a Smyer pass. "They both played good games," said White, "and really dished out some hard licks."

Grady didn't have much to cheer about in a lopsided loss to a powerful Highland team, but coach Richard Gibson did have words of praise for the play of ALFONSO CORTEZ.

Cortez, a senior, rushed seven times for 40 yards, and also had two long gainers called back due to penalties. A linebacker on defense, he was also the Wildcats' leading tackler.

Steer fems begin 2nd half volleyball at 7

The Big Spring Steers girls volleyball team begins their second half of District 5-A-A-A-A-A action tonight at seven in Steer Gym when they play host to Abilene High.

The Steer fems opened the first half of District 5-A-A-A-A-A action with four consecutive wins, but went into a tailspin, losing their final three games to end in third place behind co-champions Abilene Cooper and San Angelo.

But Coach Patti Purser and her team are hopeful for a return to winning ways tonight, as they realize that if they are to have any type of chance for a district title, they must win the second half.

There will be two preliminary games to the varsity affair tonight. At five the freshmen of the two schools will vie, while the JV contest is slated for six o'clock.

Immediately following the varsity game, there will be a community pep rally in the gym for students and BSHS exes to kick off the Homecoming festivities.

Saints acquire CB Aaron Kyle

DALLAS (AP)—Veteran cornerback Aaron Kyle was waived Wednesday by the Dallas Cowboys and picked up by the New Orleans Saints, a team spokesman said.

Kyle, in his fifth season, had spent most of this year on the injured reserve list, Cowboys' spokesman Doug Todd said.

The Cowboys also announced Wade Manning, a second-year cornerback from Ohio State, underwent surgery Wednesday in Muenster, Texas to have cartilage removed from his right knee. Manning had been on the injured reserve list since the end of the exhibition season.

Different atmosphere

Shankle, a starter since the eighth game of his freshman year, said he was scared his first year against Oklahoma. "I really had no idea what was going on," he said. "It seemed so loud and confusing. Last year I was nervous going in but I had had a good week in practice and felt well prepared. I knew what I was getting into."

"Going in there for that game is totally different from anywhere else," Shankle said. "It's hard to put into words. There is all that noise and tension around you. It's kind of closing in on you at times. In the pit, down there in the line, you can really see it—you can see it in people's eyes—fear and intensity."

However, he says, "It's really the kind of game you like to be in, and it's great to be on national TV too. It gives you a chance to see what you can really do, to prove how good you are."

Ailing airline cuts back salaries and routes

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff Airways has launched a new plan that relies on pay cuts and route reductions to help pull the troubled airline out of its financial morass.

Beset with spiraling operations costs and second quarter losses totaling $47.7 million, the airline unveiled "Operation Turnaround" last week. That plan calls for a 10 percent, six-month employee pay cut, termination of the company's two remaining Pacific flights, other route reductions and more layoffs.

Braniff Chairman Harding L. Lawrence has agreed to take a salary cut of "20 percent or more," according to airline spokesman Jere Cox.

"Braniff employees have been meeting with their respective union leadership to discuss the kind of things they could do to make Braniff even more competitive in today's economy," Cox said.

Cox insists Braniff is no worse off than other major carriers hit by rising fuel costs, inflation and reduced passenger traffic. And Lawrence said last month that Braniff's losses were in line with those of other major carriers.

But Sam Trotter, an industry analyst with the Dallas investment banking firm of Raucher Pierce Refsnes, Inc., said Braniff has had to take "more drastic measures than most."

"Braniff's problems ... have been more serious than those of the other major carriers because of their highly leveraged financial position and the fact that they became one of the most expansionist carriers early in the deregulation period," Trotter said.

"They set on a course of expansion that proved to be more than they could chew, and they wound up with a classic case of corporate indigestion," he said.

The Dallas Times Herald reported this week that Lawrence told union leaders Friday that the financial problems plaguing Braniff warranted drastic reductions in operating costs.

The newspaper said the airline had laid off hundreds of workers in recent months and had negotiated a series of loans apparently designed to ease cash flow problems.

The latest of these moves includes a $39 million loan from a group of banks, and the future sale of nine planes for $72 million.

Braniff took out a $100 million loan in May.

Trotter said Braniff always has carried a "very heavy debt load in relation to shareholders equity."

"This enhances reported earnings during times of operating profitability, but it has a whiplash effect when the company has operating difficulties," he said.

Braniff began to take a beating when fuel costs and interest rates increased while passenger traffic declined, said Trotter. He said the situation became worse because the company was "stuck with a large increase in aircraft ordered during the expansion period."

He said "vicious fare-cutting wars" on major routes hurt both Braniff and other major carriers.

The company's aggressive stance of the late '70s "very nearly dealt them a death blow," Trotter said, adding that "some still believe it may have."

Stock prices plummeted from a high of $18.75 per share in September 1978 to recent lows of $5.75.

Trotter said much of the trading "clearly" has been carried out by speculators who imagine that either the airline will recover or will "pack it in through liquidation or a merger."

"In the latter case a lot of the street betting is that the airline is worth more on the courthouse steps — in liquidation — than it is on the current stock market," Trotter said.

"My feeling is that they will survive," Trotter said, "but it's going to be a long, arduous workout period."

Company fires 400, 50 more could get ax today

DALLAS (AP) — The city's only mass transit system has fired 400 employees who walked out over pay and working condition disputes, and officials say another 50 absent workers could get the ax today.

But the president of a transit workers union branded the terminations a "wait-and-see game" between management and the 600 striking employees.

The Dallas Transit System began purging employees from the payroll on Monday, saying the terminations followed city policy forbidding unauthorized absence for five consecutive days.

Between 350 and 360 workers were fired Wednesday and a total of 37 had been terminated Monday and Tuesday.

DTS general manager Cliff Franklin said he considered the walkout over when the termination letters were mailed out.

"That's it," DTS general manager Cliff Franklin said Wednesday.

But B.J. Simmons, president of the Amalgamated Transit Union Local 1338 hinted the workers may not lose their jobs after all.

"There are a lot of things that are in the mill, but I can't say," Simmons said Wednesday afternoon. "I have been in touch with several authorities that could straighten the thing out."

Dallas city council members approved an emergency resolution supporting the firings Wednesday after a briefing from Clifford, who said he wanted the council's support to quash "rumors on the picket line."

"It seems to me that as long as everybody feels a ray of hope that you will intervene, this situation will continue,"

Franklin told the council. "The current rumor on the picket line is that you will overturn the DTS management, change the policies, give big raises, and bring everyone back to work."

Simmons said if council members investigated the union's demands, "they are going to find out we are right."

Franklin blamed the entire walkout on Simmons, calling the union leader "a liar."

"It's Simmons. Period. He's no more reasonable than a bunch of artificial plants..." Franklin said. "He's not telling the truth. He has misinformed the membership, even to the point of slander or libel."

Simmons said the walkout will continue, no matter what Franklin says.

"Mr. Franklin can say a lot of things, and Mr. Franklin can say it's over, but we say it isn't," Simmons said. "We plan to continue what we're doing right now. I believe that right will always win."

The walkout and firings have severely crippled the transit system and DTS officials estimated it may take between six months and two years to return to the schedules in operation when the walkout started eight days ago.

"It looks like we're going to be operating a small transit system for a while," said DTS spokeswoman Claudia Goad.

She said only 29 percent of the usual number of buses were on the streets Wednesday. The company is accepting applications from terminated drivers, who will lose seniority, vacation and sick leave if rehired, she said.

BSSH Volunteer Services Council wins second place

The Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Services Council recently placed second behind Kerrville State Hospital in the running for the David Wade Plaque given annually to the outstanding volunteer organization in the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation facilities. The award is presented at the Volunteer Services State Council Annual Meeting, held this year in Lufkin.

Twenty-one volunteers and six BSSH staff members represented the local Council. Staff members attending were: Wallace C. Hunter, M.D., acting superintendent; Elma Rosas Martinez, coordinator of Volunteer Services; Randall H. Huey, assistant coor-ordinator; and Sonya Swindell, Circuit Rider program director.

Also representing the Circuit Rider program were Marilyn Prather, clerk from Lamesa and Dona Reed, clerk from Colorado City.

Volunteers going from Big Spring were Jack Y. and Edna Faye Smith, Dolores Norred, Doris Day, Gene Puckett and Hazel Duggan; from Midland — Dorothy Strawn, Tup Ferguson, Geri Collins, Mari Tidmore, Ethel May, Edie and Nugent Brasher, and Lixeen Weaver, who is the out-going State Council chairman; from Lamesa — Katy McSpadden; from Colorado City — Della Fox and Mimie Howell; and from Ackerly — Covie and Murlene Williams, Bill and Faye Wallace.

Traveling caravan-style from BSSH, the group arrived in Lufkin to tour the Lufkin State School, the Deep East Texas Community MHMR Center in Nacogdoches, and the Woodland Retreat for MHMR and LSS clients.

Workshops were held, offering instruction in volunteering at a community center, staff and news media relations, Public Responsibility Committees, and volunteer interchange. The closing session featured an address by John J. Kavanagh, M.D., commissioner for TDMHMR, who answered questions submitted by volunteers and staff.

Air Patrol is searching for airplane

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol and Webb County sheriff's deputies today were searching an area north of the Laredo International Airport for a plane missing on a flight from Brownsville to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

Carlos Gonzales, airport director, said the search began about 1 a.m. after the Twin Piper failed to arrive at its destination across the Rio Grande at Nuevo Laredo.

Gonzales said "possibly two" persons aboard the aircraft which "was out of the midwest somewhere."

"The plane departed Brownsville at 8:30 last night," he said. "It's about an hour, an hour and 10 minute flight. The CAP called around 1 a.m. Supposedly the last radar spot (sighting) was just north of the airport here at Laredo."

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Figure out what you desire in the future and then do your best to attain these aims. Use right methods to solve a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to be of assistance to one whom you are very fond of. Steer clear of a group meeting today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to gain a favor from a higher-up now and advance in your career. Don't overlook an important business matter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A new contact can be helpful to you in gaining the support of an influential person. Come to a better understanding with mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure business matters are handled well before engaging in social activities. Look for quiet pleasure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over your ideas with associates and gain their cooperation. Positive thinking could help you gain your aims.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Work is a pleasure in the morning. Later you have time to spend with associates in constructive pursuits. Be more optimistic.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have every capability early in life to put ideas to work successfully and get ahead in chosen career. Direct the education along troubleshooting lines for best results. Give religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

ROBERT STIGWOOD ANWAR SADAT

Bee Gees sue manager

LONDON (AP) — The Bee Gees are suing their longtime manager, Robert Stigwood, for $86.8 million, British newspapers reported today. They said the group has filed a suit in New York State Supreme Court, charging Stigwood with fraud and conflict of interest. The Bee Gees — brothers Robin, Maurice and Barry Gibb — claim in the suit that Stigwood drew up inadequate recording contracts and delayed paying them thousands of dollars worth of royalties, according to the reports. Stigwood refuted the Bee Gees' claims, the reports added. "These ridiculous allegations are false, baseless and without foundation," the Daily Mail quoted the 46-year-old Australian impresario as saying. The Bee Gees achieved worldwide renown with the release of the album from the movie "Saturday Night Fever." The album sold over 30 million copies and reportedly grossed more than $333 million.

California owes Garbo

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Greta Garbo, the state of California has $41.04 for you. There's also $25 for the estate of the late Marion Davies and small amounts for a host of other Hollywood celebrities. The money, says State Controller Ken Cory, was turned over to the state by banks after being unclaimed for seven years. California, not wishing to hold onto the money and pay the carrying costs, wants to give the money to its rightful owners. Miss Garbo, now living in New York, never cashed a $41.04 cashier's check from Citizen's National Bank in 1952, Cory's office said Wednesday. Miss Davies drew a $25 cashier's check from Crocker Bank in 1942 and never cashed it. The list of performers who are due residual payments for television showings of their movies includes Gene Barry, James Brolin, Dyap Cannon, Bruce Dern, Kate Jackson, James Mason and Vera Miles, among others. Cory's office said there was also a residual payment due to the Screen Actors Guild.

Egypt to re-buy kings

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has suggested "re-burying" Egypt's ancient kings because exposing their mummies to view is against "our religious concept." "I can't accept exposing the remains of Egypt's pharaohs in exhibitions for people to view," Sadat told a cultural gathering here Wednesday. "This is against our religious concept. And when I say that, I mean the commandments of the three religions," he said, referring to Islam, Christianity, and Judaism. "I want you to study this matter which is actually preoccupying my mind," Sadat told the group.

Five seized in triple homicide

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Police staged an early morning raid on a Tyler residence and arrested five Oklahoma men wanted in connection with the shotgun slayings of three teenagers whose decomposed bodies were found in the hills of southeastern Oklahoma. The five waived extradition when they appeared Wednesday before Mrs. Leon Hicks, a Tyler justice of the peace who set their bonds at $50,000 each. Police said the men were scheduled to be returned to Antlers, Okla., today. The decomposed bodies of John Dewayne Henson, 15; his brother, James Myron Henson, 18; and Freddy Dewayne King, 19, were found Monday 20 miles northeast of Antlers, said Oklahoma Bureau of Investigation officials. The youths had been missing since Sept. 14.

Police said the men were scheduled to be returned to Antlers, Okla., today. Oklahoma Bureau of Investigation spokesman Paul Renfro said the slayings were drug related, but he declined to elaborate. Tyler police staged the raid early Wednesday morning after a Smith County deputy sheriff noticed the men at a Tyler restaurant and determined they were the same men wanted in Oklahoma. The five men were identified as Gary Todd Gregg, 20; Edward Wayne Simmons, Jr., 20; twins Larry Don and Terry John White, 17; and Chester Ray Eastham, 31. All are from Blackmon free on bail.

Rickie Lee Blackmon, 406 Douglas, was freed on bond Tuesday after his arrest Sunday on suspicion of rape, aggravated assault and criminal trespass. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin at a total $50,000.

Shaffer selected Employee of Month

Frank J. Shaffer, acting business manager, Federal Prison Industries, (Unicor), has been selected as Employee of the Month at the Federal Prison Camp here.

The Employee of the Month Award is presented to someone who has demonstrated above-average or outstanding performance or who has provided a special service or contribution to a special program.

Recently Shaffer has been performing a dual role as Acting Business Manager and Accountant for Unicor. During the month, Shaffer closed out the financial accounts for both the Electronic Cable and Canvas Bag factories. The combined total sales for the two factories for the month was over $500,000.

The close-out consisted of various financial analysis of all the jobs from both factories consisting of a myriad of forms sent to both divisions represented at Big Spring, plus corporate headquarters.

Shaffer accomplished this two-man job with the utmost professionalism and efficiency resulting in the timely submission of reports with a very minimal amount of overtime, officials of the camp said. Frank's consistent high performance of normal work duties during the month combined with the above noted factory close-outs have qualified him as Employee of the Month.

PLAINTIFF'S ORIGINAL PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER
TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF SAID COURT:
NOW COMES HARKEN OIL & GAS, INCORPORATED, a Delaware Corporation with offices at 2800 Hwy. 277 South, Abilene, Texas, complainant — of W.B. MCKINNEY, Defendant, whose residence is unknown, but who owns an undivided interest in the minerals in the herewith described tracts of land, and for its cause of action would respectively show unto the Court as follows:
I. Plaintiff has acquired, as Lessee, Oil, Gas and Mineral Lessee covering 30.0 acres, more or less, situated in Howard County, Texas, and being more particularly described as follows, to-wit:
All of the West one-half (1/2) of Section No. 42, Block 30, Township 1 North, Texas and Pacific Railway Company, Survey, Howard County, Texas, being further described by metes and bounds as follows: Beginning at the N.E. corner of Section No. 37, Block 31, TWP 1 N, the same being the N.W. corner of this tract out of Section No. 42, Block 30, TWP 1 N; Thence North 77 deg. II. Plaintiff has caused a diligent but unsuccessful effort to be made to locate the Defendant including but not limited to contacting relatives and friends acquainted with the Defendant and a search of the records of Howard County, Texas.
III. Defendant whose place of residence is unknown has absented himself for at least five (5) years successively next preceding the filing of this action during which time he has not paid the taxes on said mineral interest nor has he rendered the same for taxes.

All of the other interests under the property hereinabove described have been leased and the development of adjacent tracts is under way, but the discovery of this unleased outstanding interest is threatening to alter proper development of this property.
WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, Plaintiff prays that this Court appoint a Receiver of the oil, gas and mineral interests owned by Defendant in the hereinabove described tract of land pursuant to the provisions of Article 2320b, Vernon's Annotated Civil Statutes, that the Receiver be authorized to lease the mineral interest of Defendant for development and production purposes on the best terms and conditions offered by Plaintiff to other oil, gas and mineral interest owners in the hereinabove described tract of land and that said consideration, in cash, be paid into the registry of the Court; and thereafter, said cash shall be applied to the costs that may have accrued in this cause and the Clerk shall retain the balance of such funds for the use and benefit of such unknown owners of such mineral interests and that any future payments under said lease shall be paid directly into the registry of the Court and impounded for the use and benefit of such unknown owners and Plaintiff further prays for such other, and further relief to which they are justly entitled.

Major art theft in Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Thieves stole 19 paintings, including works by Renoir, Picasso, Modigliani and Utrillo, valued at a total of $6.4 million, from an apartment in the center of this Mediterranean casino-resort, police said today. The 30-room duplex apartment was occupied by Ronald Headford, 49, of Britain. Headford was the butler to the late Sir Charles Clore, who died one year ago after moving his private collection here. Police said the theft occurred Sunday. A spokesman said passersby, alerted by Headford's cries for help at 4 a.m., called police. Authorities found Headford lying on a terrace, his hands and feet bound. Headford told police that several men woke him around midnight, tied him up and put him in a bathroom before making off with the paintings. Police said there was no sign of a break-in. A spokesman said police remain puzzled about how so many paintings could be taken out of the apartment at a time when many people were still on the streets.

Special election will be held

State Rep. Ezzell to resign

By WALT FINLEY
State Rep. Mike Ezzell announced today that he will resign his seat in the Texas Legislature "around Oct. 15."

The Snyder Democrat will take the position of director of State Health Planning with the Texas Department of Health in Austin.

Preston Goodwin, staff attorney for the Elections Division of the Secretary of State's Office, said a special election will be necessary to fill Ezzell's unexpired term.

Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring and Knott will be sworn in as representative during the 67th legislative session opening in January.

"Even though there is only a short time remaining in the term, the governor will have to call a special election to fill the vacancy," Goodwin said this morning.

He said there are several other cases where legislators are expected to resign before the end of their terms, and a special election will have to be called in each case.

REP. MIKE EZZELL

Texas Gov. Bill Clements was in Odessa this morning to open the Ector County Republican Headquarters and to participate in a political rally with Republican vice-presidential candidate George Bush. Clements could not be reached for comment on when a special election might be called.

In announcing his resignation, Ezzell said:

"It has been an honor and privilege to represent the 63rd District in the Texas Legislature during the past six years.

"It is a responsibility I have not taken lightly and I hope that you will continue to share your concerns with those who represent you on all levels of government as you have shared with me.

Ezzell, who was defeated by Shaw in the Democratic primary, said "I look forward to the new challenge I begin with the Health Department as I continue an opportunity to work not only with the people of this district but with the citizens of the state of Texas.

"The position with the Health Department will allow me opportunity to continue to work in the area I worked in during my tenure in the Legislature.

"As I bring to a close my tenure as your representative I want to especially thank my wife and children for their willingness to share me with you during the years of service."

LUCKY BOY — Five-year-old Jason Messenger, 2511 Dow, sustained only minor injuries after being hit by a car driven by Leora Clark, Sterling City Route, 3:38 p.m. Tuesday. The car was eastbound on Randolph near the intersection of Wason when young Jason ran out in front of it, and was struck by the right front fender. He was taken by ambulance to Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was treated and released.

Dear Abby

Lovers' Opening Night Gets Mixed Reviews

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother of a 17-year-old girl who would rent a motel room for her daughter and the girl's boyfriend so they could have a lovely "first night" experience together?

The boy is my son, also 17. (I will call him John.) John and this girl (I'll call her Jane) are both in high school. They became madly infatuated in just two weeks' time during the summer. Jane told her mother of her desire to go all the way with John, so the mother had a long talk with them, and the three of them planned this all-night session for the two young lovers.

When John told me of these plans, I couldn't believe it, so I phoned Jane's mother and she admitted she had made all the arrangements. She said she liked John and wanted her daughter to be comfortable for her first sexual experience. Can you believe this, Abby?

I told John that I was very disappointed that he was allowing Jane's mother to run interference for him. We then discussed the various methods of birth control and the seriousness of his commitment to this girl. He said he was not "in love" with her — it was just a summer romance.

When John left for this date I told him I wanted him home at a reasonable hour. Well, he stayed out all night, and needless to say there has been a great deal of tenseness between us ever since.

I'd appreciate your comments. And have you heard of this before?

SHOCKED IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SHOCKED: No, this is a first. However, what's done is done, and perpetuating the tenseness for something your son did with your permission makes no sense to me. As I understand it, you approved of his having sex with the girl, but demanded that he come home "at a reasonable hour." It's commendable that your son was open and honest with you and that you were able to discuss methods of birth control with him, but he is a minor and so is the girl, and as a responsible parent you should have urged self-control.

Jane's mother deserves high marks for having built an open and honest relationship with her daughter, but as a responsible parent she should not have condoned and arranged for this weddingless wedding night.

Coahoma Study Club has school and HC programs

The 1941 Study Club of Coahoma met Monday in the home of Mrs. Hattie Swan. Mrs. Quail Dobbs was co-hostess.

Richard Souter, Coahoma school superintendent and Tom Spell, elementary school principal, presented a film of the proposed construction of a new elementary school building. The bond on the proposed building will be voted on Oct. 11.

Mrs. Dene Sheppard presented a program on the historical book of Howard County. The book, to be published by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, commemorates Howard County's 100th birthday. The county was incorporated in 1882.

The history will include pictures and family stories, items about Howard County schools, and stories of all servicemen from Howard County. Sections on the churches and cemeteries of the county will be included as well as clubs, organizations and businesses. A section will be reserved for memorials and tributes to the living.

Coahoma's representatives on the Howard County Historical Commission are Mrs. Jo Callahan and Mrs. Rae Nell Bets. These two can be contacted if anyone needs help with their history.

Mrs. Sheppard distributed papers giving details to use in writing each family story and stressed that all family stories are important.

Mrs. Paul Allen led the club collect and roll call was answered with the number of years each one present had lived in Howard County by the 18 members and one guest present. One charter member, Mrs. G.T. Guthrie, was present.

Mrs. Charley Murphy, president, presided. Two letters of resignation were submitted, one from Mrs. Jack Caudle and the other from Mrs. Lola Keel. These letters were accepted with regret. New members introduced were Mrs. Joan Daniel and Mrs. Billy Jack Darden. Mrs. Phil Wynn presented the Budget Committee report.

Members were reminded to take trick or treat goodies to senior citizens during the month. The meeting closed with the pledge of allegiance to the flag led by Mrs. Wendell Shive.

Mary: A girl is ready to date when she is mature enough to accept and abide by the rules set by her parents. Some girls 14 are capable of dating while others who are 15 and 16 are not. The same is true for boys. — Dr. Wallace.

Fullerton, Calif.

Hello Mary: I'm 16 and going steady with a young lady who is 14. We have been dating for about a year and have a really great relationship.

My girlfriend was allowed to date when she reached her 13th birthday and she has handled the situation beautifully. So, to answer your question, at least partially, I think you, at 15, are plenty old enough to date.

My sister, 15, started dating when she was 14 and already has dated at least 10 different guys. — Tom, Zanesville, Ohio

Whitten named director of HC ensemble group

You won't see them in robes, or singing "stained-glass" music, but before long you will know who they are. They compose the Howard College ensemble group, currently the HC Choralliers. The Choralliers are going through several major changes this year, two of which are a new director and a new name. Joe Whitten, minister of music at the First Baptist Church for the past eight years, and director of the singing group "His Children", has been named director of the ensemble. A new name has not yet been chosen for the group.

"My goal for this new ensemble group is for them to be so good and talented that it would be the desire of many people to be part of the group," said Whitten. "It's a winning chorale group. With a winning football team, the people know that when they go to a game, they will see a great performance. Well, we want to build the same type reputation; when people come to hear us, they know they will be hearing a great performance."

"The ensemble is comprised of 11 students with a maximum of 12 for the group," added Whitten. "The group is designed to be small in order to correlate with a small stage band. Each student was hand-picked in auditions to get the best sound we could possibly achieve."

"The group was formed primarily to promote Howard College at different functions. They will attend banquets, civic affairs, area clubs and will tour area high schools recruiting for Howard College. "With this in mind, it is essential that our music be designed to appeal to a broad spectrum of people. We will be singing music that includes disco, Broadway sounds, contemporary and some gospel," said Whitten.

The group will be travelling with a sophisticated sound system which will include a microphone for each singer. Aside from directing the singing group, Whitten also instructs voice class at HC.

Whitten has a bachelors degree from West Texas State University and completed his masters degree from Texas Tech University.

Whitten is a member of the Centurymen, a national singing group composed of 100 men from across the nation. Whitten has been on eight of ten albums which the Centurymen record each year at Nashville.

The Centurymen also tour the United States two or three times a year, and have also been to Brazil and Europe.

In 1976, the Centurymen were on a television special which was filmed at the Sea of Galilee.

The Centurymen were also on television when they appeared with Bob Hope at the Capitol in Washington, D.C.

Blackmon faces rape charges

Rickie Lee Blackmon, 406 Douglas, was freed on bond Monday after his arrest on suspicion of raping a neighbor.

Blackmon was arrested Sunday on suspicion of three charges: rape, aggravated assault and criminal trespass. Blackmon allegedly burned the woman with cigarettes.

Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin at $25,000 for the rape arrest, $15,000 for aggravated assault arrest, and $10,000 for the criminal trespass arrest.

Bill Mittage will exhibit in festival

Bill Mittag, an Abilene artist who paints the "Southwestern Scenes," is one of the many new artists who will be participating in the upcoming Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival.

The fourth annual festival will be held Oct. 18-19 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum and will be open to the general public free of charge.

Mittag was born in West Texas and raised in New Mexico. He received his college degree from New Mexico State University and has done graduate study at Eastern New Mexico University and UCLA.

He participated in amateur rodeos for several years in the team roping event. His love for horses and the western way of life are expressed through his oil paintings and pen and ink sketches.

His "Southwestern Scenes" range from the Texas hill country to the deserts of New Mexico and Arizona to the Colorado Rockies, and have won him numerous awards in art show competition.

Mittag recently participated in the "County Osage Art Exhibit" in Oklahoma, which is an invitational exhibit restricted to the top 30 Western artists in the Southwest. He is also a member of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame, Lea County (New Mexico) Cowboy Hall of Fame & Western Heritage Center, Texas Fine Arts Association, and the Abilene Fine Arts Museum.

HC ENSEMBLE GROUP GOING THROUGH CHANGES — Joe Whitten, minister of music at the First Baptist Church, has taken on the duties as director of the Howard College Ensemble group, currently known as the Choralliers. The group is searching for a name to fit their new image.

Local United Way begins ambitious fund raising drive

By RICHARD HORN
Howard County has set itself an ambitious goal for the United Way campaign, according to Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Big Spring United Way.

Dr. Hays, speaking at the United Way Kick-Off Luncheon at Howard College yesterday, said that the goal of $250,000 set by the Executive Board and its participating agencies was not "too much", but was more than it had been in the past.

"This is not a goal that Howard County is unable to achieve," said Dr. Hays. The luncheon served as the kick-off for the United Way campaign for this year. Approximately 100 people gathered in the Cactus Room of the Howard College Student Union Building to listen to speeches and introductions of new members of the Executive Board leading the fund raising drive.

Serving as the Vice-chairman of the campaign is Russ McEwen. Troy Frazier is serving as the secretary of the board. Joy Boyd has accepted the position of treasurer, and Tommy Franklin will act as the Board's labor representative. Acting as this year's executive director is Sherrie Bordofski.

The fund raising drive will be in operation for the remainder of the month of October. During that time volunteers will be collecting money from individuals and businesses, representing 12 separate agencies that have joined together to try and raise the $250,000.

Those agencies are: The West Side Community Center; the Howard County Family Serv.; the Red Cross; the Central and the Lakeview YMCA; the Girl Scouts; the West Side Community Day Care Center; the Boy Scouts; the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center; the Howard County Detoxification Center; the Big Spring Boys Club; and the Salvation Army.

"The agencies represented here make up the goal, you people have got to go out and make the goal a reality," said Dr. Hays. "I think this is the most people to have come out for the Kick-Off luncheon that I can remember," he said.

Campaign vice-chairman Russ McEwen said that if the United Way "does its job", then the agencies will be spared door-to-door fund-raising of their own.

Campaign chairman Ron Medley predicted that 1981 will go down as the year that the Howard County UW met its goals, and brought in more money than any other year.

"We have a great advantage this year," said Medley. "We have 12 very well managed and well directed agencies. Because of that, we can not only meet our goals, we can exceed them."

He also stated that, if the local goal is met, 92 cents out of every dollar raised will remain in Howard County.

"If the United Way does its job, we can give a few more alcoholics a chance to be respectable citizens, make a few more cripple people walk, and give a few more less-fortunate children a safe place to play," said Medley. Medley went on to urge all participating volunteers to visit individuals personally, and not by telephone. He also asked that the community be responsive and generous in their donations. "Almost everyone in the Big Spring Community receives benefits from these twelve agencies."

String Quartet will perform here Thursday

The Thouvenel String Quartet of Midland will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m., Thursday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The program will serve as a sort of farewell to the Rev. Harland Birdwell, who will be leaving soon for Roswell, N.M., where he has accepted a pastorate call. Works to be presented by the quartet are the "String Quartet Opus 20, No. 3 in G minor," by Haydn; the "String Quartet No. 6" by Ernst Krenek; and the "String Quartet Opus 59, No. 3 in C Major" by Beethoven. No admission will be charged for the concert.

The quartet is beginning its fourth year of residence in Midland. The group was formed on the campus of Indiana University, where all of the members studied music. Members are Eugene Purdue, first violin; Teresa Fream, second violin; Sally Chisholm, viola; and Jeffrey Levenson, cello.

The quartet is sponsored by the Midland Symphony and Choral Association, and is the only full-time professional string quartet in Texas. In addition to giving a six concert series in Midland, the quartet members teach privately and are also principal chair musicians in the Midland-Odessa Symphony.

Last year, the Thouvenel Quartet's toured the United States. More than 150 concerts were performed in locales that included Boston, the Phillips Gallery in Washington, D.C., New York's Lincoln Center, and Bloomington, Ind. The quartet won the International Leo Weiner String Quartet competition last spring.

In addition to the Midland series, the 1980-81 season will feature a series of four concerts in Carnegie Recital Hall in New York. This cycle will feature the complete works for string quartet by Ernest Krenek, one of the twentieth century's most influential composers.

Make up, skin care tips offered

A course in basics of make up and skin care will be offered by the Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College, announced Martha Fierro, director. Classes will meet from 6:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 13 through Nov. 3 in Science 101.

Instructor for the course will be Denita Kionka, a local cosmetologist. Cost of the course is $9. Mothers and daughters are encouraged to attend. The class is open to all ages.

Interested persons must pre-register in the Continuing Education Office located in the Horace Garrett Building. For further information, call the Adult and Continuing Education Department at 267-6311, ext. 70.

Band Boosters to sponsor supper

Big Spring Band Boosters will sponsor a spaghetti supper in the cafeteria of the Big Spring High School cafeteria prior to the BSHS Steers-Midland Bulldogs homecoming football game.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12. Call the band hall — 267-7463 — if you need tickets. There will be door prizes. The supper will be held from 5 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

15,955 voters are registered

Total number of voters registered in Howard County is 15,955 today, said Howard County Tax Collector-Assessor Zirah Bednar. More are in the mail.

Mrs. Bednar said she expected over 16,900 would register before it was all over. "Now if they will just get out and vote," she said.

School officials receive petition

By DON WOODS
The U.S. Justice Department is suing the Big Spring school system to require officials, demanding that the district "take affirmative action" in desegregating two schools and "correct past effects of discrimination." The petition was filed Sept. 18.

It also asks that the district be ordered to implement plans to desegregate before the 1981-82 school year. School officials and school attorney Richard Milstead received the petition in the mail within the last few days.

U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti filed the suit in Abilene's Federal District Court. The case, which began in 1974, was referred to the Justice Department from the Department of Housing, Education and Welfare.

Litigation involves two elementary schools, Bauer and Kentwood. The petition alleges that Bauer, located in the north central part of town, is 100 per cent minority students and that Kentwood, in southeast Big Spring, is more than 90 percent white.

Milstead said conclusions contained in the suit were inaccurate. Specifically, allegation 16 of the petition claims that "BSISD has engaged in a pattern and practice of discriminatory actions in the context of student assignment and transportation, faculty hiring and assignment, and school construction policies."

Milstead said the statement was an "opinion."

He said on behalf of the attorneys working on the case that, "in general (Big Spring) doesn't operate an intentionally discriminatory school system."

"Some of the things alleged in here are not appropriate to be alleged," said Milstead. He cited, for example, a Jan. 1974 administrative hearing in which Housing Education and Welfare Administrative Law Judge Robert S. Davie found that the local district operated a "dual system of education with respect to five specific schools: Bauer, Lakeview, Cedar Crest, and Gay Hill Elementary schools and Runnels Junior High," according to the suit.

The findings of the administrative judge are not admissible as evidence because the discrimination suit "is not appeal to the administrative hearing," said Milstead.

A Feb. 13, 1976 modification by a body that reviews administrative hearing decisions cleared Cedar Crest, Gay Hill and Runnels from allegations of discrimination.

Future federal funding depends on the outcome of the case. The petition is styled "United States of America, plaintiff, vs. Big Spring Independent School District; Lynn Hise, superintendent," and the seven member board of trustees. Trustees will discuss the suit with Milstead at their regular meeting Thursday night.

The petition, states that the school district was notified Aug. 17, 1973, by Housing Education and Welfare that federal assistance would be terminated if Big Spring "continued to operate racially identifiable schools as vestiges of its statutory dual school system in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

The local school system's case was referred to the Department of Justice on June 8, 1978, from HEW.

"Educationally sound and administratively feasible alternative methods are available," claims the Justice Department.

The administrative hearing was the result. BSISD was denied federal help under three federal programs.

CRMWD reports

Municipal demands for water decline

While September rains were putting water into the Colorado River Municipal Water District lakes, they also were reducing the demand for water to the cities. None complained, however, and least of all the district, for it reported gains of 263,500 acre feet flowing into Lake J.B. Thomas and Lake E.V. Spence during the month.

Municipal demands for September slipped to 1,302,185,000 gallons, a drop of 137,589,000 gallons under the same month in 1979, or down 9.56 percent. The drop from August, when consumption was still near a peak, was 475,000,000 gallons. Municipal use for the year, however, was up by 1,201,830,000 gallons, reaching 11,971,884,000, a gain of 11.16 percent for the year.

Oil repressuring demands, supplied almost entirely out of non-potable water, slid slightly in reaching 142,856,000 gallons, a decline of 9.18 percent. Through the first nine months oilfield deliveries aggregated 1,366,020,000 gallons, a decline of 806,559,600, down 37.12 from the same period in 1979.
