Explosion rips open Kentucky school; one dead

INDEPENDENCE, Ky. (AP) — An explosion that ripped open a northern Kentucky high school, killing one person and injuring 31 others, occurred while workmen were testing natural gas lines in the area, a utility official said today.

William Dickhoner, president of Union Light and Heat Power Co., said Simon Kenton High School was being serviced directly from a four-inch natural gas transmission line, instead of a parallel two-inch distribution line that should have been used.

Dickhoner acknowledged that the crewmen's work may have contributed to Thursday's explosion. But he said a pressure increase was being performed in accordance with federal safety procedures.

Dickhoner said the utility would cooperate with state and federal investigators in their probe of the explosion.

A dozen art students were painting Halloween goblins on the school's windows Thursday when a fiery blast from the boiler room next door slammed them across the room, killing one teen-ager.

"We heard a sudden hissing, like steam, coming from the wall ... five seconds, and the whole wall blew up," said art teacher Linda Whittenburg. A half-hour later, after some 1,000 students had fled the school, a second explosion rocked the building, triggering a fire and gutting three floors in the north wing.

The cause of the noontime blast, which injured 33 people, had not yet been determined, Kentucky fire investigators said.

The tremor from the second explosion rattled homes a half-mile from the school, residents said.

John Engle, the school district's business manager, was in front of the school when the first blast occurred. "It's an absolute miracle there weren't 200 kids killed," he said.

"There were immediate flames in the first three windows on the bottom floor," he said. "My first thought was that I could see 30 kids in the art class being incinerated immediately."

The boiler room is in a north wing added to the original 45-year-old building, about 10 years ago, Engle said.

Many students were in the cafeteria, at the other side of the building, when the blast occurred, and that may have lowered the number of casualties.

Financial woes compel decision

Halfway House will close

By JAMES WERRELL
The Big Spring Halfway House, oldest such institution in Texas, has fallen victim to rising costs and inflation, said its director, Helen Smith, this morning.

The Halfway House, 901 W. 3rd, has operated in the city since 1960. It had been an adjunct to the Big Spring State Hospital for the first 15 years, and an independent institution for the last five.

"The board of directors made the decision at a meeting Wednesday night to close the Halfway House because of rising costs and a decrease in funding by state agencies," said Ms. Smith.

The 17 patients now residing at the facility will be transferred to other halfway houses in Lubbock, Plainview, Midland, Odessa and Abilene, by Oct. 15. Records and property owned by the Halfway House will be disposed of by Oct. 30, after which the facility will be completely vacated.

"This was a very tough decision for the board, but the members felt that it was in the best interest of the community not to again go into debt," said Ms. Smith. "We owe a great deal of thanks to the community and volunteers such as the senior citizens' group that has made our life at the house much easier during the past months," she added.

The house had operated almost solely on funds from the Texas Rehabilitation Commission and the Big Spring State Hospital. The hospital had provided the house with 90 percent of its patients, said Ms. Smith.

During September, however, the water bill for 17 patients totaled $665. "That's an average of $39.12 per patient. Electricity averaged $40 per patient, and that still leaves costs for natural gas, rent and gasoline," said the director.

During the last 20 years, the Halfway House has provided a structured environment for patients attempting to reenter society after spending time in institutions. It has always existed through state funding.

The situation is different in other cities, explained Ms. Smith. The Odessa Halfway House, for example, receives $20,000 a year from the city; a portion of the money received through taxes on liquor-by-the-drink. The Texas Commission on Alcoholism also provides the Odessa facility with $18,000 a year, said Ms. Smith.

The community rallied to the side of the Halfway House directors earlier this year, donating more than $16,000 to retire old debts accumulated by the facility over the years. That enabled the Halfway House to get completely out of debt at the time, but inflation has since taken its toll.

Texans register, but will they line up at polls?

By the Associated Press
Both Republican and Democratic campaign workers say they've registered a large percentage of the crucial minority voters in Texas, but they aren't so sure those people will show up at the polls on Nov. 4.

GOP nominee Ronald Reagan and President Carter both have stressed the importance of Texas' vote in the November outcome and both have spent time wooing the growing ranks of Mexican-American and black voters.

Experts say the minority vote is critical to both candidates. But one political analyst says the minorities may not be interested enough to get out and pull levers.

"What's going to make the difference in this election is the turnout of the minority vote," said George

Christian, an Austin political consultant for the past 11 years. "There's no way to predict it, but right now there's apparently considerable apathy among the black and Hispanic voters."

Christian said that despite the Carter campaign's "vast" voter registration drive that ended Oct. 5, the Democrats are in trouble. "It's tough because the people you have to go out and work to register are not traditional voters, they're people who have very few voting habits," he said. "Your chances of getting a large percentage to the polls are much less."

Gary Mauro, director of voter registration for the Texas Carter-Mondale campaign, said minority voters were the "targeted program" and black and brown voter registration "was the highest in Texas history."

"How important is the minority vote this year? It'll make up a good 60 percent of our vote," said Gary Mauro, director of voter registration for the Texas Carter-Mondale campaign. "We did very well in South Texas and San Antonio."

Mauro agreed that new voters can be unreliable, but said that the Democrats' target group of 600,000 registrants was carefully selected as likely to go to the polls.

Christian predicted that Carter would get only about 40 percent of the Anglo vote, so "of course he has to have Mexican-Americans and blacks."

About one in every three Texas voters is black or Hispanic, he said.

ARTIST'S DRAWING OF PROPOSED ADDITIONS IN COAHOMA SCHOOL SYSTEM

Saturday's election will decide fate of $6 million bond issue

$6 million bond issue at stake

Coahoma election Saturday

Coahoma voters will go to the polls Saturday to decide a $6 million bond issue for the building of a new elementary school and underground tunnels to connect the building with the high school and junior high.

The new school, which will be planned for completion in 14 to 18 months, will have facilities for classes not available until recently. These include art, music, occupational therapy, speech therapy, special education, audio-visual class room, activity room, band hall, and a room for gifted and talented students. Presently, the old elementary handles 530. The new school would accommodate 700 students.

Connecting tunnels would be used by high school and junior high students going back and forth to lunch at the elementary school cafeteria.

The room would be a combination cafeteria for all three schools as well as an auditorium for the elementary students.

The new school would also include a modern learning library research center with access from most of the building's classrooms. The research room would serve as the nerve center for the educational aspect of the school.

The new school would house grades kindergarten through sixth grade. Sixth graders have currently been attending at the junior high. Their new facilities will free the rooms used in the junior high for junior high use.

Bonds will pay for demolition of the old elementary building, paving and landscaping, a new gym and the underground corridors.

Andrews architects Huckabee and Donham prepared the proposals for the new school. Joe Smith, First Southwest Company, is financial advisor.

The present school is 50-years-old and studies question the structural capacity.

Residents of Howard County election Precincts Seven and Nine vote at the Coahoma Fire Station. Precincts five vote at Vincent Fire Station.

American among three Nobel Prize winners in medicine

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Americans and a Frenchman today won the 1980 Nobel Prize in physiology or medicine for their discoveries on how genetic makeup determines whether a person successfully combats cancer and other diseases.

The award went to genetic researchers and immunologists Baruf Benacerraf, a Venezuelan-born American citizen working at Harvard University; George Snell, of the Jackson Laboratory in Bar Harbor, Maine, and Frenchman Jean Dausset of the immunological laboratory of St. Louis Hospital of Paris University.

The three share the coveted prize, this year carrying a sum of $211,000, for their work on "genetically determined structures on the cell surface that regulate immunological reactions."

Snell, who was born in Bradford, Mass., in 1903, is the oldest recipient. He will be 77 in December.

Benacerraf, who was born in the Venezuelan capital of Caracas and will be 60 on Oct. 29, has been an American citizen since 1943 and head of the pathology department at Harvard Medical School since 1970.

Dausset, who will be 64 on Oct. 19, is from Toulouse and has worked at the hospital since 1963. Interviewed by telephone in his Paris apartment, Dausset said the two Americans with whom he shared the prize were "excellent friends and, even though we didn't work together, we have been exchanging the results of our experiments for a long time."

He said he had visited the others' laboratories in the United States and they had visited his institution. In Boston, Benacerraf said he was "overwhelmed, very pleased" by his selection ... It's quite a surprise. You can never expect to get something like this.

Snell, who was away from his home visiting Newburyport, Mass., learned of his award in a three-way telephone call from his three sons, after the announcement was made on the radio.

"It's the most overwhelming thing that can happen to you," the soft-spoken 76-year-old scientist said. "We're enormously pleased."

"The work stretched over a long period of time," he said. "It's not a sudden burst of light, but something you plug away at over quite a long period."

Hospital administrator, John Bingham, arrives

Malone-Hogan Hospital is on the verge of a new growth period, according to John Bingham, new administrator of the hospital.

Bingham met Thursday with members of the Big Spring news media, where he outlined his philosophy and goals of the hospital.

"I think that Malone-Hogan should tailor its needs to the needs of the community," said Bingham. "We should also reach beyond the immediate Big Spring area, because this hospital can attract from a great distance."

Bingham moved into the administrator slot Oct. 1, replacing Norman Knox, who has recently been named administrator of Highland Memorial Hospital in Pampa, northeast of Amarillo.

Malone-Hogan is capable of handling 153 patients at a time. It is currently operating with 114 rooms being used. "Obviously there is room for some growth there," said Bingham.

"I would have to say that reaching this hospital's potential would have to be one of my long range goals. I feel that the best way to do that is to get in touch and keep in touch with the patients and the Big Spring community, and find out what they want and need in the way of health care," he said.

Bingham describes his role as "being able to assist, guide, and influence the directions of the hospital, by working with the outside community."

He continued, "The job of the administrator is one that requires a lot of 'people skills.' I need to understand and meet the needs of the people that are doing the actual skilled service to the community."

Bingham holds degrees in Economics and Business Administration from the College of Idaho in Caldwell, Idaho. After graduating in 1970, he worked at the Caldwell Memorial Hospital, starting as an assistant purchasing agent, and moving up to Director of Materials Management.

In 1977, Bingham began work on his Masters degree in Health Administration at Georgia State University in Atlanta.

After earning his Masters in June, 1978 Bingham came to Texas to become the Assistant Administrator at Pasadena Bayshore Hospital in Pasadena, Texas. While there he developed and implemented major construction projects in nuclear medicine, physical therapy and radiology.

Both Pasadena Bayshore and Caldwell Memorial Hospitals are affiliates of the Hospital Corp. of America. It is through HCA that Bingham came to Malone-Hogan.

Bingham has been active in community affairs in both Pasadena and Idaho. He was on the Red Cross board of directors in Caldwell in 1973 and is included in the Who's Who of American Colleges and Universities.

His wife, Deb, is a graduate of the College of Idaho. She has a degree in elementary education. She will be joining him in Big Spring in November. They have a two-year-old daughter named Kimberly Sara.

A reception will be held for Bingham on Tuesday Oct. 14, in the hospital classroom from 3 to 5 p.m. All members of the community are invited to meet the hospital's new chief executive.

Dick Fields acquires station KBYG here

Dick Fields has purchased the interests of Ten-Tex Corp., in radio station KBYG here and will assume active management of the facility no later than Jan. 1.

Bob Taylor will serve as interim manager during Fields' absence from the city.

Fields comes here from Middleton, Wis., located near Madison, where he was an account executive with stations WTSO and WZEE.

Fields says he was attracted to this area by the business potential it has. He explored the possibility of locating in both the Midwest and Deep South before coming to Big Spring.

Station KBYG has its studios near the entrance to Comanche Trail Park and Fields said one of his first objectives would be to upgrade and perhaps expand the KBYG equipment. He has asked the station's engineer to prepare an equipment priority list for him.

Fields, who grew up on a farm near Jasper in southwest Minnesota, says he is a country-western music fan and will stick with that format here.

Upon his arrival here this week, Fields said he was immediately impressed by the friendliness of Big Spring and its people.

Dick received his BS degree in Labor Economics from the University of Wisconsin and his MBA from the same institution.

He started his career in radio a dozen years ago in KWBB in Rochester, Minn., as an announcer and music director.

Although he loves all kinds

DICK FIELDS

of music, he adds, with a smile: "I can't carry a tune."

He plans no changes in the station's personnel.

He was a member of the Jaycees and the Big Brothers in Racine, Wis., at which time he was program director for WJRN.

This is his first plunge into a station ownership situation and he said he was looking forward to the challenges it will present. He conceded that the competition for his share of the advertising dollar and audiences will be spirited, considering the fact that Big Spring has three other radio stations, including one FM outlet.

His wife's name is Donna. She is a registered nurse, now working for the University of Wisconsin. He is one of three sons born to Loyal and Marjorie Fields. His brothers are Craig, who works for the John Deere firm in Kansas City, Mo., and Dan, who deals in grain in Minneapolis. His parents now make their home in Bella Vista, Ark.

Families have to evacuate area

County homes still under water

By MICKIE DICKSON
Is Big Spring a semi-desert area? If that's so, there is a mammoth oasis in the area now.

Over 300 acres belonging to A.J. Pirkle Jr., 626 Tulane, is under approximately 10-12 feet of water since 19 1/2 inches of rain fell during September. Pirkle owns the farm land surrounding the Alan Murphy house, which is approximately three miles north and three and a half miles west of the Lamesa Highway 87. The Murphy house and barn are still submerged in water up to the eaves of the roof.

Marion Newton Jr. who farms Pirkle's land said, "About 50 bales of cotton is under water on 48 acres. It was waist high and loaded with bolls."

Dub Rhoades' home, a quarter mile east of the Murphy home, was flooded by two inches of water, which ruined carpets. Furniture would have been damaged had not neighbors and friends helped in its removal. The heavy furniture was floated on neighbor Richard Yarbar's raft.

Less than a quarter mile east of the Murphy home is Richard Yarbar's red brick home and farm. Yarbar's home wasn't damaged, but the old Goodman home on the property, which he was using for a barn, was completely submerged. It contained tools, tractor parts, oil and other farm necessities. A 5 gallon can of oil was picked up. It floated out in the field from the barn. Along with householders and farmers, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is having its own problems in the area. On Oct. 5 the phone company had a heavily equipped truck, a pickup truck and a large motorboat with two men laying temporary lines through the water in an attempt to bring service to about 14 subscribers. Some of the phones are still out at this writing.

Joe Holbert, Midland, and Wade Franklin, 1101 Grafia, of Southwestern Bell, said they had surveyed the area for a week trying to find out what to do.

G.C. Broughton farms the 420 acres around the Rhoades home. They are all in cotton.

Pirkle said that the water problem starts about the Fairview Gin on Highway 87. As the low-lying areas fill up, the former lakes overflow and form their own little rivers running southwest. In earlier years most of the land was pastureland, which held water better than the cultivated land does. Now the water flows more freely. Fields are laid out to drain water from them into bar ditches to keep it from building up and flooding the fields.

For school equipment

Less costly bids taken

By DON WOODS
Big Spring school trustees turned down more expensive bids for complicated, overhauled offset printing equipment, in favor of a less expensive bid for new equipment with fewer capabilities.

School system budget was amended to include $8,424 to purchase the new A.M. Multigraphics printer. Multigraphics offered a bid lower than A.B. Dick's $8,800 bid.

The overhauled machinery with more automation would have cost $11,837. The unit now would cost $35,456.76. Both quotes are from Multigraphic bids.

Another "factory modernized" unit, advertised by A.B. Dick, would have cost $8,200. The factory installs current parts in a used machine.

Assistant Superintendent of Business Don Crockett questioned the quality of the overhauled machines. "Quality is something we could never tie these people down to," he said.

Trustees elected the new model in view of the adequacy of their current printer which was also bought new in 1958.

The old printer has broken down frequently resulting in excessive down time.

Local Red Cross Executive Secretary Alice Baucham requested school district cooperation in a disaster relief program. The trustees asked her to specify which school buildings she would need.

Ms. Baucham said school buildings would be used to house local residents after churches in the program fill up in case of a disaster.

She was asked by trustees to specify how many people could be handled in churches before school buildings are needed.

Ms. Baucham requested use of school gyms for temporary housing because of shower and rest room facilities contained in them.

Trustees decided city officials should be conferred with because they are drawing up disaster plans since the local Civil Defense office has lost its funding. Dr. James Matthews referred to the Civil Defense office as "going down like the Titanic."

Superintendent Lynn Hise said he assumed other districts were allowing their schools to be used for temporary shelter because he

Basic dried silk floral design course offered

A course in basic dried silk floral design will be offered by the Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College, announced Martha Fierro, director.

Classes will meet from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Oct. 14 through Nov. 13 in Horace Garrett Building.

Instructor for the course will be Glenna Hughes, associated with Creative Decorations. Cost of the course is $30.

Trustees discussed changes in seating at Memorial Stadium. Changes in seating may be necessitated by increased attendance at ball games.

Most fans sit on the west side but trustees fear overcrowding at concession and rest room facilities.

Feasibility studies are in the works. Seating will be as usual for tonight's Midland game.

The stadium officially seats 10,000. However, according to Crockett, that many could only be seated if all 10,000 people sat on their allotted 18 inches.

Police Beat Child taken to Odessa hospital with injuries

Vicky Lynn Lyons, 4, 3210 Cornell, is in stable condition at Odessa Medical Center after being struck by a vehicle in the north parking lot of the Big Spring Herald, 2:25 p.m. Thursday.

According to police, Vicky had been playing in the dirt behind a vehicle parked in the lot. When the vehicle backed up, it struck the girl, fracturing her skull. The vehicle then left the scene.

Vicky was first taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital in a private vehicle, and then to the Odessa facility by the Shaffer Ambulance Service.

Using reports by persons at the scene, officers deduced that the vehicle may have been a truck driven by J.B. Hardeman, 60, 104 N.E. 9th. Hardeman is a seafood dealer, and he traveled to Colorado City and Snyder to sell his goods before he was arrested by Snyder authorities, 8:45 p.m. Thursday.

"We don't know what charge, if any, will be filed.

Right now, there is no indication that he (Hardeman) knew that he had hit the girl," said Detective George Quintero, this morning.

R. Richardson, 1510 Runnels, heard a noise on his front porch, 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, and went to investigate. He found nothing, but the next morning he noticed that someone had stolen his steel lawn chair valued at $75.

Three other mishaps were reported Thursday.

Vehicles driven by Jennifer Byrd, 406 Goliad, and Veva Strom, 501 Westover, collided at 13th and Goliad, 3:18 p.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to Daniel Deleon, 1707 Young, and A.C. Bebee, 1315 Wright, collided on the 900 block of Runnels, 5:34 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Patricia M. Deanda, 807 Aylford, and James R. Easterling, 3701 Connally, collided in the parking lot of the Big Spring High School, 8:07 a.m.

Reagan sweep could hurt

Jim Nugent spent the better part of two hours in Big Spring Thursday, reminding members of the news media and the constituency that he, too, is a candidate for office in the Nov. 4 general election.

Nugent, an incumbent State Railroad Commissioner and a Democrat, says his only worry in his campaign for reelection is that Republican Ronald Reagan will score a landslide victory over Democrat Jimmy Carter next month and carry a host of GOP candidates to victory with him.

Nugent, a native of San Angelo, says that is unlikely to happen. He concedes Reagan may be the favorite in the presidential race but that the Reagan-Carter face-off could still go either way in the state.

Nugent's opponent next month will be another West Texan, Doc Blanchard, a Democrat turned Republican who hasn't been making much noise in the campaign. Blanchard is a former Lubbock resident.

Nugent freely admits he likes his job in Austin and thinks he is well qualified to serve the people. He is a graduate engineer and an attorney. He has devoted much of his adult life to public service, having been a member of the Texas Legislature before he entered the State Railroad Commission race.

Nugent said here that more confrontations over who will control the state's resources can be expected and that the Windfall Profits Tax being exacted against Texas royalty owners takes money out of the state that rightfully belongs to residents here.

On the plus side, the granite-jawed West Texan said that higher oil prices have year added 29 million barrels of newly discovered oil, Nugent said, adding "higher prices and enhanced recovery methods have made it economical to take more oil out of the ground than ever before."

A record rig count and drilling pace throughout the year added 29 million barrels of newly discovered oil, Nugent said, adding "higher prices and enhanced recovery methods have made it economical to take more oil out of the ground than ever before."

"If we would just let the free market operate in the discovery and production of oil, we would be far better off as a state and a nation as a whole."

Nugent said that his office had impressed upon the oil companies the importance of getting the "little man" in the fight to throw out the inequities of the Windfall Profits Tax law by inscribing on the checks sent to each royalty owner the amount removed from the check for taxes.

A typical royalty owner, he pointed out, might be qualified to receive a check for $195.18. The Windfalls Profit Tax on that amount alone would be $63.72 and would be so noted on the checks going to the royalty owner, Nugent said.

Nugent made the trip here by plane. He was met at the Big Spring Airport by Cecil Riordan, Howard County Democratic Chairman, and Mack Underwood, a party worker. Riordan took Nugent to the courthouse for a round of introductions before the candidate took off again.

He said he likely would swing through West Texas again before election day.

Fire hazard, brake loss suspected

Some GM cars being recalled

DETROIT (AP) - General Motors Corp. has recalled 62,500 of its cars to check for and correct problems that could cause fires or front-wheel brake failure.

GM said Thursday that 24,700 1980 Chevrolet Impala and Caprice models equipped with the 3.8-liter (229 cubic inches) V-6 engine have been recalled to check whether the front brake pipe is rubbing against the left front edge of the engine oil pan.

That could make the brake line wear through, draining fluid from the front hydraulic circuit and disabling the front brakes, GM said. The rear brakes still would work and the dashboard warning light would light up, the company said.

The brake line will be relocated if necessary, GM said. Some 25,400 1981 cars in the "X-body" series - Chevrolet Citation, Pontiac Phoenix, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Skylark - equipped with the 2.8-liter (173 cubic inches) V-6 will be checked to see if a power steering hose lies too close to the exhaust manifold.

Heat could damage the hose so that fluid would leak onto the manifold, causing a fire, GM said. The hose will be rerouted if necessary.

Another recall will bring in 12,400 1980 diesel-equipped Oldsmobile Toronado models to check a wire in the exhaust gas recirculation valve. GM said the wire could become pinched between the air-cleaner assembly and the EGR switch mounting bracket.

Insulation on the wire could, if pinched, wear through and cause a short circuit and fire, GM said.

All repairs will be done without charge, GM said it knew of no injuries or accidents arising from any of the three problems. The company said it had unconfirmed reports of smoke or fire on five X-cars and knew of two wiring harnesses that had melted.

THE LOST SHEEP

Luke 15:1-32

Star Wars was one of the most popular movies ever made, and its sequel has proven to be just as successful. What is it that draws people to movies of this type? Movies such as this present forces of good and evil in very clear, colorful terms. No one has any doubt who the "bad guys" are - and of course everyone is delighted when the "good guys" win out over the forces of evil.

The stories Jesus told didn't always have the "good guys" winning, and that was probably hard for people to swallow. The stories of the lost sheep and the prodigal son are really examples of people who wandered away from the path of goodness. Jesus seems to be saying that the Father goes looking for those lost souls - lost sheep. And when they are found, there is great joy in heaven.

We are loved despite our failings. The Father seeks no revenge - only our return to Him.

PRAYER: Thank you for the love you give us Father, regardless of our mistakes. You are truly a God of mercy.

People with skills in great demand

One looks into the classified section of almost any newspaper and is prone to wonder why there are any unemployed people. The truth is, industry is begging for people with certain skills, whether it be typing or an ability to tune an automobile engine.

Sad to say, employers often find it harder to fill a certain job demanding some finesse. The people are out there, it is true, but many are content to go through life without developing techniques that can earn them comfortable livings. That kind never holds a job anywhere very long. They may work as a fry cook here for two weeks, then quit to take another job as a ribbon clerk.

THE DEMAND of the services engineers, computer programmers, nurses and secretaries is now greater than ever before. So says a survey made of employment agencies across the nation.

The supply shortage in these skilled fields has been with us for a number of years and the situation is not likely to improve in the near future.

Considering the salaries that are being paid for people entering those fields, it's little short of amazing that more people are not attracted to them. However, an employer doesn't just walk out on the street and pull in an individual. Each job calls for considerable preparation.

According to the Congressional Quarterly, petroleum engineers were offered an average of $23,844 a year upon leaving college, almost twice as much as social science graduates.

The College Placement Council, a non-profit group based in Bethlehem, Pa., conducted the survey on salaries and reported that computer science majors were next in line on the pay scale, with an average starting salary of $18,696. New graduates in accounting got $15,516 and business majors $14,616. (The survey was completed in July).

THE COLLEGES across the land, it seems, simply cannot produce enough petroleum engineers, accounting or business majors to meet the nation's expanding needs for industry.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, it is estimated that over the decade ending in 1985, some 49,800 engineering graduates in an average year will have the choice of 56,500 new jobs. About the same ratio applies to computer graduates. The University of Missouri at Rolla estimated the nation's 14,000 new college graduates in computer science this year can pick from among 55,000 jobs.

There is a big demand for bank tellers, bookkeepers, clerical workers, cashiers and typists, too. The BLS projects a 30 percent expansion in such occupations over the next decade. In the nursing field alone, it is estimated there is a nationwide shortage of 100,000. One of the problems in that field is said to be average salaries.

For those who are willing to study and work, opportunities for employment were never better.

Can't somebody do something about Howard Cosell?

Sure, I know he's an easy target, but I've had just about all of him I can take. He made his reputation as an announcer the fans love to hate. Now, if my powers of observation haven't totally deserted me, I think the fans just hate him.

TRY TURNING ON the TV in a crowded room just as that penetrating nasal buzz that is Cosell's voice ushers us multisyllabically into another sporting event. A murmur of discontent among the spectators soars into an outcry of pain and frustration: "Oh, nooooo! It's Howard!"

There is, at first, waffling and indecision. This is a game, or a fight, or a match that we really wanted to see but how can we endure Howard for another two hours. Another minute. Another millisecond.

If the crowd is uniformly weak, it will settle into a state of communal masochism for the duration. Braver souls will stick cotton into their ears or turn off the sound altogether.

Either way the fans lose. Cosell rose to prominence as a verbal sparring partner for Muhammad Ali. Although he was practically useless as a blow-by-blow announcer for an actual fight, he was an adequate foil for Ali's inspired jinks.

Cosell then became a professional oddity, trading on his outlandish diction and vocabulary. He was not the first, but was surely the most obnoxious of the bruise-their-ears school of announcers.

Eventually, however, the fans began to realize that the growth of Howard was not benign but painfully malignant. Before we knew it, he had spread to the very marrow of the body of sport.

And the growth becomes ever more virulent, with no cure in sight.

Perhaps everything about Howard's personality would be bearable if only he would just tell us something we need to know. During the Tuesday-night Astro game, Howard intoned with all the solemnity of a monk that "batters know what to expect from Forsch because he is the kind of a pitcher that likes to get ahead on the count early."

Well, thank you Howard! Now, would you please provide us with a list of pitchers who like to get behind on the count.

During Wednesday night's game, he informed the listeners that "these Astros are a tough, quick team. But they have only a one-run lead, and a team like Philadelphia will find it much easier to come back under those circumstances than if the Astros had taken advantage of the run-scoring possibilities earlier in the game."

Essentially what you're saying, Howard, is that if the Astros had more runs they'd have a better chance of winning the game. Have I got that right?

Couched in Howard's obtuse verbiage is a box, which, when opened, contains a shell, which, when opened, contains no nut. All the nuts are on this side of the TV screen watching him.

Teddy to rescue

WASHINGTON — Heading pleas from President Carter, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has agreed to cut five TV commercials for the Carter-Mondale ticket, but only under conditions that completely bypass Gerald Rafshoon, Carter's chief media adviser.

Kennedy will make the commercials in New York City soon. Political advertising expert David Sawyer will be in charge of production, and the ads will be written by Kennedy's speechwriter Bob Shrum. The new Kennedy series is tentatively scheduled to be aired in the major battleground states of the Northeast. Carter's recruitment of Kennedy to tout the president's re-election over TV suggests that the resident may be running scared.

Almost all pro-Carter TV and radio commercials are under Rafshoon's direct control. Kennedy, however, blamed Rafshoon for systematic below-the-belt blows during the primaries, and wanted no association with him.

REAGAN'S TV WARS
Rep. Jack Kemp of New York has enjoyed at least some preliminary success in his uphill fight to restore substance to Ronald Reagan's presently issue-free television media campaign.

KEMP, WHO ALONG with other Republican leaders has been deeply distressed by the flabby quality of Reagan's TV spots, offered a rough outline for six new commercials to Reagan media director Peter Dailey. After studying them, Dailey called back to say he liked three of the ideas and might produce them.

They would include spots showing Reagan talking about taxes, inflation and "people." These are similar to the hard-hitting commercials used by Reagan in the early primaries, which were shelved by Los Angeles advertising executive Dailey when he joined the campaign last summer. At this writing, however, only Dailey's lifeless spots are being seen on television screens in opposition to President Carter's lethal commercials assailing Reagan.

SILENCING CIA
Adm. Stansfield Turner, director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), at the initiative of the White House has issued orders that there is to be no "finished" intelligence assessment of Soviet defense capabilities against missile or bomber attack until after the election.

That order is believed by CIA veterans to be unprecedented. It stymies any chance that the CIA can substantiate its suspicions that the Russians have been cheating on the U.S. by building anti-ballistic missile (ABM) or anti-aircraft defenses. Such weapon systems are banned by U.S.-Soviet treaties.

Spy-satellite pictures analyzed by the CIA have recently shown Soviet work on a giant radar near Moscow designed to repel incoming ballistic missiles. Now the "finished" intelligence estimates of the giant radar will have to await the post-election period.

NIXON PREDICTS
Not one dissent was made when former President Richard Nixon confided to old Republican friends at a private dinner party in Washington that Ronald Reagan would win the presidential election by cutting deeply into the normally-Democratic blue-collar vote.

A footnote: Nixon praised Reagan but said his problem is that "he may be too nice a guy," particularly in contrast to what Nixon calls the "hardball" aides in Jimmy Carter's White House.

"I graciously offered to hold their coats and I'll thoughtfully pick up the pieces afterwards."

Back problem may be aging process

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am told by my doctor that I have degenerative lumbar disc disease. Can you, for heaven's sake, tell me what that means? — B.D.

Think of a disc as a doughnut with the outer part of the ring made of tough fibers. The inner part is a semi-solid plastic-type material.

If the spine were a continuous straight structure, there would be no flexibility of body action. If you've seen back X-rays, you easily note that the spine is aligned in sections. The discs provide a cushioning support between sections.

All discs are subject to a lifetime of stress and strain, so with years they may thin towards the outside and dehydrate on the inside. They may shrink. All these changes are part of the degenerative process your doctor referred to. The most common place for this to happen is the lower spine (the small of the back).

The word "disease" is frightening. In this case, it need not mean that there is an insidious process going on in the body causing your back problem. The term refers here only to the ordinary processes of aging — the thinning and dehydration I mentioned.

Usually, degenerating discs produce transient symptoms. The pain responds to rest, heat and appropriate exercise. Occasionally, the inner, semi-solid part of a disc may protrude through a weakening in the fibrous outer ring. That is called a herniated disc, and requires more detailed treatment — traction, for example, and at times surgery.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that there is no cure for diabetes? I had one doc treating me who told me in 1965 that I had diabetes and he put me on a diet and I had to take a pill every day. That doc died, so now I have another doctor, who said I am on the borderline and I don't have to worry. He took me off the pills, which I used to take. I am quite worried. — Mrs. M.L.

There may not be a cure for diabetes, but there certainly is treatment. The cornerstone of that treatment, especially for those who do not have to take insulin injections, is diet. This is particularly true for those who are overweight. I suspect you were.

In many diabetics the cause is not a lack of insulin, but the fact that their own insulin does not work. There's too much body weight for the amount of insulin they produce. By getting rid of fat, the available insulin gets into proper balance and begins working again. Also, stored fat works against the effects of insulin.

Now about your pills: You don't have to worry about being taken off them. Only a few of your kind of diabetics need the pills in addition to diet restrictions. I am certain your doctor has given you a diet to follow. He will check your blood sugars to make sure you stay in control. There may come a time when you will need the pills again, but it is safe and sound to try diet alone as your physician is asking you to do.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My young granddaughter has developed what is called spondylo-epiphyseal dysplasia tarda. Can you explain these words? — Mrs. C.B.C.

I can break the term down for you. Spondylo means vertebra, the bones of the spinal column. Epiphysis is that part of a bone where growth takes place. Dysplasia has many meanings; here it refers to an abnormality of development. Tarda means late.

The illness, present from birth, may not be noted until late — age five or six. Then there may be pain in the back and in large weight-bearing joints, like the hip. X-rays show a narrowing between the bones of the spine. Children with this problem are often of short stature and are prone to develop some arthritic changes of the joints.

Dear Dr. Donohue: What causes loss of hair in men at an early age? — J.H.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know we live in an evil world, and it seems like it is always going to be this way. Why should Christians bother with programs to improve conditions on this earth when we know such programs will fail anyway? — S.M.

DEAR S.M.: If for no other reason, we should do such things because our Lord commanded us to do them, and gave us the example of his own life to follow. Jesus was known as the one "who went about doing good" (Acts 10:38). He went about "healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people" (Matthew 9:26). When Jesus spoke to his disciples about the final judgment, he said they would be judged by the way they had treated those who were sick or in need of clothing or food or other practical help.

We see this same concern for those who are in need throughout the New Testament (as well as the Old Testament). The early church had an extensive program to help those in need, and appointed specific people to oversee it. (See Acts 6:1-6). James spoke about the hypocrisy of saying we have faith and yet not meeting the practical needs of others: "If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, and ye give them not those things which are needful to the body; what doth it profit?" (James 2:15-16).

Remember, God created this world, but sin has done great evil to it. Christ "appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself" (Hebrews 9:26). The Christian knows it is never God's will for sin to rule the lives of men, and he resists sin wherever it is found. Jesus healed the sick, even though we know those same people would some day get sick again and die. We too do what we can, although we know that only in Heaven will all the problems of this life be finally eliminated.

Most often hereditarily. Never take a chance on diabetes! For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes — The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Editor:
This is a sincere letter to the Big Spring Street and Sewer Depts. I came from New Orleans, La., where rainwater and swamps are a way of life.

What I'm trying to say is, where streets have caved in or worsened as the result of the rains, first make an underground sewage line, with pipes, then fix the streets, put in man holes. That way, men can go in from time to time to check the sewers.

Oh yes, the man holes have to have lids over the holes, so cars can drive over them.

I care about Big Spring. The people are nice, even the few soreheads I know. Don't let Big Spring fall into a creek bottom.

Maybe the Sewage Department in New Orleans can tell you all how it is fixed. Those Cajuns care about people, too.

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter's Democratic allies in the Senate, as I reported earlier this week, have handed him a reprieve on a Judiciary Committee investigation to determine whether the Justice Department whitewashed its politically embarrassing criminal cases.

The official excuse for putting the probe on the back burner was that the committee's investigators are too busy looking into the manner in which the Justice Department handled a grand jury inquiry into Robert Vesco's attempts to use White House insiders to solve his many legal problems in the United States.

BUT HERE'S the catch: The Vesco facts won't be forthcoming before the election either. Despite a laudable effort by Sens. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah — who head a special subcommittee looking into the Vesco affair — the case is simply too complicated to permit a quick and easy probe.

In short, Vesco's dealings with White House insiders, and the Justice Department's bootless investigation of them, may eventually come forth to haunt the president. But Carter will not be forced to deal with the problem before he faces the voters.

Inasmuch as the public won't be getting all the facts from the Senate Judiciary Committee before Nov. 4, I'd like to present the inside story of Justice Department obstructionism, as sworn to by the former foreman of the Vesco grand jury.

He is Ralph Ulmer, a plodding, kindly man of stubborn integrity who once attempted to resign in protest against the manner in which he thought the Vesco case was being mishandled. In three recent, closed-door sessions with DeConcini and Hatch, Ulmer delivered a stinging bill of complaints against Justice Department attorneys. Here are some of the particulars, as assembled by my associate Lucette Lagnado:

—In so many words, the grand jurors were told not to hand down any indictments. If they did, the prosecutor warned, the Justice Department would simply refuse to take action.

—A Justice Department attorney asked the jurors to sign a "bill of ignorance," a legal ploy which would have exonerated all individuals listed on the document. The panel members refused to vindicate anyone, and Ulmer slashed the proposed writ with an "X" and returned it.

—The prosecutors sought to withhold key documents, tape recordings, unclassified documents and letters from the grand jury. Ulmer had to battle in order to obtain a tape on which Carter's Georgia lawyer, Charles Kirbo, is quoted as urging a potential witness not to be too cooperative with FBI agents.

—R.L. Herring, a key witness and a convicted felon, tried to write to Ulmer with a request to testify about Vesco's attempt to induce favors from presidential assistant Richard Harden, White House chief of staff Hamilton Jordan and President Carter himself. Herring's letters to Ulmer went undelivered until he began sending them to Judge John Sirica with the request that they be passed to the grand jury foreman.

Herring and other critical witnesses were badgered by the prosecutors, who openly belittled the witnesses' testimony before the jurors.

—The panel was never given the opportunity to question then-Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on the government's efforts to extradite Vesco from Costa Rica. The prosecutors gave the jurors conflicting times for Vance's appearance, and when he showed up, a quorum could not be mustered. The jurors had to be content with a written affidavit.

—The president ducked out of an appearance before the jury on the grounds that his "security" would somehow be jeopardized. The White House also turned down a suggestion that Carter meet with one or two jurors. In the end, the grand jury had to settle for a videotape of Carter responding to timid questions put to him by respectful Justice Department attorneys.

GASOLIN GO-AROUND: For four years now, I have been campaigning in favor of gasohol — a mixture of gasoline and alcohol that could help lessen the nation's dependence on foreign oil.

As part of this continuing series, I disclosed last May that an important Energy Department report on the future of gasohol had apparently been influenced by two advisers who had close ties to Mobil Oil. They were on the seven-member panel that produced the generally negative gasohol study.

Rep. Tom Daschle, D-S.D., subsequently asked the General Accounting Office to take a look at the energy panel and its gasohol assessment.

ACCORDING TO the investigators' still-secret report, the built-in bias against gasohol was even more egregious than suspected. Not a single independent representative of the growing gasohol industry was on the special committee or its parent body, the Energy Research Advisory Board. The procedures used to set up the alcohol fuels panel, said the GAO, were "highly personalized and non-systematic." There was no reference list of potential experts and the "selection officials relied on personal knowledge and word-of-mouth recommendations."

The committee took only two days to meet and draw up its anti-gasohol conclusions, said the GAO. No public announcement was made of its meetings, and no detailed minutes were kept.

Despite President Carter's personal endorsement of gasohol, it is painfully obvious that his Energy Department 'poo-bahs do not take it seriously.

Footnote: Some members of the alcohol fuels panel clearly had conflicts-of-interest, said the GAO investigators, but there was slight evidence that they unduly influenced the report.

Official criticizes emergency care at State Fair

DALLAS (AP) — Medical care at the State Fair of Texas "is the worst of anywhere in the region" and jeopardizes the lives of heart attack victims, says the president of the Dallas chapter of the American Heart Association.

"We've criticized it for years, but it's just tilting at windmills trying to get it changed," said Dr. Jack Atkins, also a professor at Southwestern Medical School.

For the second time in two years, a heart attack victim was dead on arrival at Baylor Medical Center after being transported from the fair by private ambulance.

Gerald Ferguson, 38, who suffered a heart attack on the midway the opening day of the fair this year, was transported to the emergency room by Professional Ambulance Co., a private company hired by the fair. Private ambulance companies hired by the stadiums "provide transportation and that's it," Atkins said.

Private ambulances are not equipped with the medicine, monitors and machines to treat heart attack victims that are standard on city ambulances, said Capt. Troy England, head of the city's emergency medical service department.

England said two city ambulances arrived at the midway four minutes after receiving the call, but discovered Ferguson already had been taken away by the private ambulance.

"If I had been the patient, I would not have wanted to be transported right away (by the private ambulance)," England said. Ambulance and fair officials refused to comment on the matter.

At last year's Texas-Oklahoma game, 64-year-old Charles Kedy of Oklahoma was dead on arrival at Baylor after suffering a heart attack at the Cotton Bowl.

After that death, Dr. Michael Schwartz of Yukon, Okla., wrote Gov. Bill Clements and other officials outlining problem areas he saw in medical care.

At Saturday's Texas-OU game, where 72,000 fans are expected, one doctor, two nurses and 17 paramedics will be on duty. The paramedics were added after last year's fatal heart attack.

During the fair when there is no game, one first-aid station is setup and staffed with two registered nurses. It is not equipped with medical emergency equipment.

By comparison, the University of Oklahoma sets up an eight-bed emergency room staffed by six doctors, about 20 registered nurses, paramedics and 50 Explorer Scouts to carry stretchers during games.

The Iowa State Fair provides three Red Cross first-aid stations and a medical emergency team on the grounds.

Atkins said the fair is not the only place with large crowds and inadequate medical care. He said most large events have sparse care, including Dallas Cowboys games at Texas Stadium in Irving.

"In this day and age, it's very disturbing that our coverage is so poor," he said.

EXAMINING A SIGN OF HATE — In a city already shaken by the murder of six black males in less than three weeks, this cross was burned in a predominantly black neighborhood of Buffalo, N.Y., Thursday night.

Jerome S. McIntee, an investigator for the Erie County District Attorney's office, and City Councilman-at-Large Herbert L. Bellamy examine the charred remains.

Ex-officer says three-fourths of cops carried throw-down guns

HOUSTON (AP) — Seventy-five to 80 percent of Houston's police officers in 1977 carried throw-down guns or had access to them, according to the sworn statement of a former officer.

A deposition given by former officer William E. Byrd acknowledged department officials "didn't directly condone" the practice of planting weapons to justify the shooting of an unarmed suspect, but "they know it happens."

Byrd's statement was read Wednesday to a federal court jury that will decide a $2 million civil suit filed by John and Billie Webster of Shreveport, La. The suit was filed against the City of Houston, the police department and six former officers.

The couple's 17-year-old son, Randall, was shot in 1977 following a high-speed chase with police. Two officers were convicted last year of perjury and conspiring to plant a throw-down gun next to the teenager's body.

Byrd said there was no departmental policy advising officers to use throw-down guns, but added the weapons were used "to cover yourself on an individual basis."

"Let's take in a situation where a police officer gets into a building and is searching the building and a burglary suspect jumps out on him and startles him and he shoots him," the deposition said.

Officers would go into such situations with their guns pulled, and anyone who didn't was "either braver than I am or the man is a fool," Byrd said.

However, he added, "it looks bad before a grand jury for him to go down there and say, 'Here I am, I shot an unarmed man.'"

"A lot of burglars, especially in schools and small buildings, are going to be juveniles. In a situation like that it will cause less friction and less publicity on the situation if they used something like that (a throw-down gun)," Byrd said.

J.T. Olin, a former officer named as a defendant in the suit, acknowledged he originally told authorities Webster was armed but later changed his story after being granted immunity from federal prosecutors.

Olin testified Wednesday he saw former officer Danny Mays, another defendant, pull back his gun as if he were going to strike the youth, but said he did not see the weapon hit the young man before it fired.

"... You know if a killing ended up being an accident that there would always be the accessibility of a throw-down?" asked K. Michael Mayes, the Websters' attorney.

"Yes," Olin replied.

Six black males slain

Buffalo community in traumatic situation

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A vicious killer who cut out the hearts of two black taxi drivers may have been "touched off" by the murders of four black men who were shot in the head with a .22-caliber pistol, the county prosecutor says.

But District Attorney Edward C. Cosgrove said Thursday he didn't believe the two sets of slayings were committed by the same person.

A manhunt by some 100 policemen — the biggest effort in Erie County history, he said — has been launched to find the killers.

"I can't imagine a more serious, traumatic situation occurring in a U.S. community," Cosgrove said.

Hours after the discovery Thursday of the mutilated body of cabbie Ernest Jones, 40, the sixth murder victim in three weeks, a 10-foot cross was set ablaze in a black residential neighborhood.

Cosgrove blamed "kooks and drunks" for the incident and warned them not to "jeopardize the peace" of the black community, which has been traumatized by the slayings.

The black community was "very quiet," Cosgrove said.

No one has been arrested in the cross-burning. Jones' body was discovered in a parking lot along the Niagara River in Tonawanda, a northern suburb of Buffalo.

He was slashed across the neck and his heart was cut out after he died, Cosgrove said. No murder weapon was found.

On Wednesday, the body of another cabbie, Parler W. Edwards, 71, was found stuffed in the trunk of his taxi in Amherst, also a northern suburb. Edwards was bludgeoned to death, his heart was cut and ripped from his body after death, Cosgrove said. A blunt instrument believed to be the murder weapon was recovered, he said.

In neither case was the heart recovered. Cosgrove said he did not believe a cultist was responsible for the killings.

Cosgrove has not ruled out the possibility that Edwards and Jones were killed by the same person who killed four black men last month. But the circumstances were different enough to suggest two killers, he said.

Between 30 and 40 telephone tips already have been received in the killings, and despite an ongoing work slowdown by Buffalo police over a wage dispute, Cosgrove said homicide investigations have not been hampered.

But he urged the police to "put aside" their differences for now.

The 22-caliber killings began the night of Sept. 22 when a 14-year-old was shot to death in a stolen car in a supermarket parking lot in Buffalo.

Former Houston mayor says

Police shooting isolated incident

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Houston mayor Fred Hofheinz told a federal jury that the police slaying of an unarmed teen-ager was "a very isolated incident" and not a "condemnation of the whole chain of command."

Hofheinz testified Thursday in a $2 million federal court suit filed against the city of Houston, the police department and six former officers by the parents of a Louisiana teen-ager shot to death by police in 1977.

However, U.S. District Judge George E. Cire dismissed the suit against two of the former officers after attorneys for John and Billie Webster of Shreveport, La., rested their case Thursday.

The judge dropped the suit against Paul D. Dillon, who testified he didn't know the gun found next to the body was placed there by officers, and J.A. Estes, who said he overheard discussion of the throw-down gun.

Randall Webster, 17, was killed following a high-speed chase by police. Two officers were convicted last spring of perjury and conspiring to plant a throw-down gun next to the teen-ager's body to justify the shooting.

Hofheinz, who was mayor from 1974 to 1978, had asked Cire to quash his subpoena and had told Webster family attorney K. Michael Meyes that he would be a hostile witness.

In combative responses, the former mayor admitted he once criticized the police department for a "pattern of excess and coverup," but he defended his administration's efforts to increase supervision of the department to prevent incidents of excessive force.

"In this case one officer acted wrong but that is not a condemnation of the whole chain of command. I think we did a marvelous job during my administration of increasing supervision. One slip up does not condemn four whole years," he said.

Attorneys for the Websters tried to show that superior officers knew about the throw-down gun and therefore the city and the department is liable for damages.

Cire said he did not "think a throw-down or coverup is a direct violation of constitutional rights." But he said knowledge of throw-down guns by superior officers could be used to show the city's responsibility for the officers' actions.

In a sworn statement read to jurors earlier, former officer William E. Byrd said 75 percent to 80 percent of Houston policemen carried or had access to throw-down guns in 1977. He said department officials "didn't directly condone" the practice of planting weapons to justify shootings of unarmed suspects, but that "they know it happens."

RHONDA CAMP

Chamber recognizes four young artists

Kathy Miller, Rhonda Camp, Scott Ringener and Debbie Lee are being recognized by the Chamber of Commerce as Artists of the Month.

Kathy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Miller, is a senior at Big Spring High School. She is active on the varsity swim team and is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Besides art, Kathy's hobbies are swimming and skiing. She is also active in the College Baptist Church Youth Department. The young artist has been taking lessons from Virginia Whitten for six years and hopes to major in art at college.

Kathy is very accomplished in oil, pen and ink, and drawing. Undertaking watercolor is her next goal. Rhonda, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Camp, is a junior at Coahoma High School.

This artist of the month has many varied interests and hobbies, including sewing, swimming, tennis and skiing.

Having studied art in school and with another teacher, Rhonda is now studying under Mrs. Whitten. She plans to continue art as a career.

Although Rhonda has mainly done oil paintings, she is also talented in her drawing ability, producing unusual pen and ink works. Scott Ringener, a member of the Big Spring High School Band, enjoys playing handball and tennis. This 15-year-old sophomore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merel Ringener.

In spite of his busy schedule, Scott still finds time for art. Although he has not fully decided about his college major, he does plan, in some way, to pursue his interest of art.

Scott handles all art mediums with excellent skill. Fifth grader Debbie Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Lee, has only been taking art for about one year.

However, she has made rapid progress, especially in her pen and ink and watercolor work. Besides art lessons, Debbie also finds time for her music lessons and her work with Girl Scouts.

Club program is energy oriented

The GFWC Forsan Study Club met Oct. 6 at the Elbow School.

The meeting was called to order by Shirley Summers, president. Emily Elrod and Sharon Cregar reported on the success of the money making project, the Homecoming Smorgasbord.

Plans were made for members to attend the Western District Fall Board Meeting and Workshop, Oct. 24-25 in Big Lake. Mrs. Elrod gave each member a schedule of events.

Sue A. Holguin gave a short history of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs for the Federation Counselors Report. Kathy Pickett, corresponding secretary, read a letter from Western District President, Jackie Hendricks, urging the club's Conservation Department to make a poster for display at the Western District Board Meeting, depicting the work of their three divisions.

Susan Gaston passed out a brochure on the book of the History of Howard County.

She encouraged each member to send her family or business history to the Howard County Historical Commission.

Carole Hope presented a program on "Energy for the Eighties." After a brief history of the energy crisis, she then gave conservation tips in the areas of automobiles, heating and cooling homes, dressing properly, hot water heaters and the laundry room.

Regina Gaston gave each member a Home Energy Analysis from Texas Electric. Nola Story informed the members of the General Federation of Women's Guide to Conserving Energy. The GFWC's main emphasis was cooking, transportation and heating.

The hostesses were Sharon Cregar, Mary Anne Hartin and Susan Gaston.

The next meeting, opened to the community, will be Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. at the Forsan High School Auditorium.

Larry Don Shaw, State Representative for the 63rd District, will speak on "Challenges of a New Decade."

Husband's Time-Outs Deserve a Penalty

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are friendly with another couple whom we do not see very often because of the distance between us. We have dinner at one home or the other about twice a year. Tonight they were our guests. They arrived promptly at 6:30 p.m. and we had drinks on the patio. At 7 p.m. my husband went inside and turned on the TV to catch the beginning of a football game. After 15 minutes, he joined us, "freshened" the drinks, then went back inside to watch the game, leaving me to entertain the couple. I tried several times, without success, to root him out. At 7:30, my husband emerged, put the steaks on the grill (on the patio), then he ran inside again to watch the game, returning in time to turn the steaks. He rushed through dinner and — you guessed it — he sneaked in to watch the game again. I made conversation with the guests until the game was over. Then my football fan joined us for a spirited 20 minutes of conversation, after which our guests departed, saying they had a long drive home.

Needless to say, I am terribly upset and wonder if we will ever see these lovely people again. What should I have done? And how can I keep this from happening again?

FOOTBALL WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: You should have kicked your husband in the end zone as soon as he started to pull the disappearing act. And in the future, don't schedule a dinner party on a football night unless everybody enjoys football and wants to watch it together.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle something for us. My husband and I, who have been married for two years, had a party for some of our close friends before my husband began law school. All of us are in our 20s.

My 20-year-old brother was invited. He did not accept, but said he'd "drop by" if he could.

Well, in the middle of the party, my brother phones, asking if he can drop by with our father! I told him he had a lot of nerve putting me on the spot that way, and no, he could not bring our father because it might put a strain on the entire evening.

My father contends that there would have been nothing wrong with "surprising" me and dropping by just to say hello. I feel that not everybody belongs everywhere, and had I wanted my father there, I would have invited him along with the rest of the guests. What do you think?

S.M. IN N.Y.C.

DEAR S.M.: People with good manners, be they parents, adult children, best friends, or whoever, never "drop by" for surprise visits uninvited — particularly when they know a party is in progress.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a really fabulous girl. Everything was going along famously until a month ago when she got herself a dog.

Ever since this dog came into her life she seems to have transferred all the affection she had for me to the dog. She cuddles him, kisses him, strokes him and calls him all the pet names she used to call me. She even holds him on her lap the whole time I'm with her. Abby, this mutt is literally coming between us.

In case you think this is a gag, her name is Cindy, the dog's name is Tiger and my name is Norman. If you think I'm jealous, you are right. But what can I do about it?

NORMAN

DEAR NORMAN: Insist that Cindy treat you like a dog. (P.S. If she refuses, bite her in the leg.)

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Civitan's benefit ARC from candy-box project

The first meeting of the Civitan year was held Oct. 1 at Furr's Cafeteria from 5:30-6:30 p.m.

New officers are Micki Potter, president; Terry Grimes, vice-president; and James Potter, secretary-treasurer.

The dinner meeting began with the appointment of Ralph Norris as sergeant-at-arms and Jerald Wilson as chaplain.

George Colvin reported that the candy-box project has again netted over $200 this month. The current balance in the local account for the retarded citizens projects is approximately $450.

A check has been sent to the Association for Retarded Citizens locally to cover the club's share of sponsoring the bowling league.

It also was noted that the candy box located in Furr's Cafeteria has netted over $1,000 toward this cause since November, 1979.

Tom and Beverly Greiner were deputized to register voters on Sept. 27. A table was set up in the Highland Mall and 49 voters were registered with mail-in forms given to a dozen more.

Halloween candy was also sold with a fair amount of success. Robert "Pete" Wilson was accepted as a new member to be initiated at a later date.

Ralph and Mary Ann Norris and George Colvin volunteered to help the Potters update the by-laws for the chapter.

The president gave each member a list of businesses to contact in view of expanding membership throughout the community. She announced that the next District Conference will be held in Arlington, Oct. 31.

The next meeting is scheduled for Oct. 14, 6 p.m. at K-Bob's Restaurant, with Bill Barrett, Lt. Governor for the region, as guest. He is from Abilene and will formally induct the new officers at that time.

Anyone interested in joining the Big Spring Civitan Club should contact any member.

WILL THE BOND ISSUE CAUSE INCREASED EVALUATION OF PROPERTY?

No, the evaluation of property is done by the County Appraisal Board to equalize evaluation county-wide and has no relation to the bond issue. This evaluation process is State mandated.

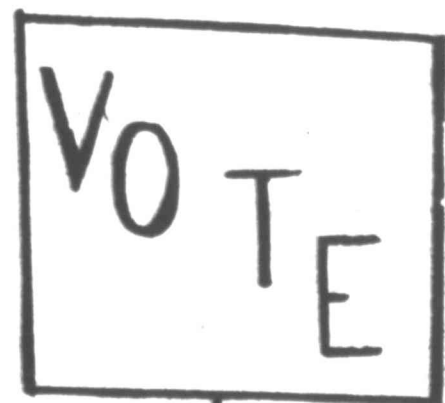

WHAT IS THE COST OF INDIVIDUAL PROJECTS INCLUDED IN THE $6,000,000 BOND ISSUE?

The estimated cost for each project:
 Grades K-6 elementary school, cafetorium and gymnasium, (121,250 sq. ft. at $42.68 per sq. ft.)

$5,175,000

Underground connecting corridors between the cafetorium, High School and Jr. High School (5600 sq. ft. at $41.07 per sq. ft.)

WHO PLANNED THE NEW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL?

Elementary teachers and school administrators made recommendations to the architect in developing the design of the building to suit the educational needs of the students.

WHY BUILD A CENTRAL CAFETORIUM?

Food is prepared at the present elementary cafeteria for all three schools. Jr. High and elementary students are served meals there, but food must be transported to the High School and served in the lunchroom in that school. The new cafetorium will allow for all food to be prepared and served in one location. The present high school lunchroom will be converted to much-needed classroom space. The cafetorium will be large enough to accommodate students from all three schools and also can be utilized for banquets by the school and community. It will serve the elementary school as an auditorium for special programs and assemblies.

ARE EXTRA CLASSROOMS INCLUDED IN THE CONSTRUCTION?

24 regular classrooms are included in the plans for the elementary building. At the present time, 22 rooms would be filled by the current enrollment of grades Kindergarten through six. Some of the grades are nearing enrollments which will require additional sections. All of the 24 rooms will probably be used by the time of occupancy. There are also 7 rooms which will be used for special classes and the activity room which could be converted into four classrooms. (If the enrollment increases, adjustments can be made to take care of additional growth.) The two extra rooms will be needed for population growth.

WHY WERE UNDERGROUND CORRIDORS INCLUDED IN THE PLAN?

The underground corridors connecting the High School and the Jr. High to the cafetorium were planned to serve as a multi-service structure:

1. Provide all-weather protection for students going to and from the cafetorium.
2. Provide underground protection for all three schools in the event of severe weather.
3. Serve community as a severe weather shelter after school hours.

WHY BUILD ANOTHER GYMNASIUM?

The gym used for Jr. High athletic events offers little bleacher space for spectators. It would call for major re-structure to redesign the existing gyms to accommodate spectator seating. The proposed gym will be utilized for Jr. High athletic events with adequate seating and also allow the elementary school to have a more comprehensive physical education program with "dressing out" for the upper elementary grades.

Judge doesn't take

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lansing District Court Judge William Collette isn't taking his broken foot sitting down because this is the time of the year for running.

Collette is running — hobbling may be a better word — for election Nov. 4.

"This is terrible," says Collette, who has a cast on his left foot and is on crutches.

"I'm being laughed at by every court employee and all my friends. If it wasn't right in the middle of the campaign, it would be funny," Collette said Thursday.

What isn't so funny is how he broke the foot.

"I was just getting started (campaigning) and as I was leaving the third house I'd been to, I turned to say goodbye and started down the steps," he explained.

Instead of landing on the step, his foot hit the edge and his body weight shifted back on it.

Up to necks in knowledge

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — Three eighth graders on a field trip to a marsh got little too immersed in their studies.

They were stuck up to their necks in mud Wednesday and were pulled, unharmed, to safety.

The three, whose names were not released, were members of an earth science class at Beaufort Junior High School, officials said. They became impatient during a trip to a Beaufort Bay marsh to gather marine samples and decided not to wait for the tide to rise. They began walking over the mud to the water.

The class was equipped with boards and poles, but "the students were whooping it up, didn't do what the teacher told them, and some people got hysterical," said Principal Riddick Trowell.

"I'm distressed, but the students really were in no danger," he said, adding future trips are still on for the marine biology program.

Biological aspects of smoking subject of lecture presentation

Paul Ausmus, who heads the Science Department at Howard College, will give a discussion titled "The Biological Aspects of Smoking" at the next Library Lecture scheduled Oct. 23.

Ausmus has been a teacher with Howard College for many years and many persons will be interested in hearing his lecture. His research into the topic of smoking has been extensive, and he will make his presentation with charts, slides and visual aids.

The program will be in the Tumbleweed Room of the Student Union Building on the Howard College campus at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 23.

Refreshments will be served following the discussion and question-and-answer period. The Anthony Hunt Library is sponsoring the program.

All residents of the Howard College area are invited to attend Ausmus' lecture, which is open to the public without charge. All junior and senior students of Big Spring and surrounding towns are urged to take advantage of the program. It is hoped, also, that many Howard College students will be able to schedule the discussion, and a special invitation is offered to students, faculty and administrators of the Southwest College Institute for the Deaf.

U.S. 'ready for war,' Brown says

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Secretary of Defense Harold Brown sees at least one encouraging aspect of the Iraq-Iran war, despite his insistence that the United States is strictly neutral and only wants to see the fighting stop.

"Even after almost two years of lack of supply and running down of an Iranian military, which was supplied and trained by the U.S., Iran has nevertheless stood up pretty well," the defense secretary told reporters Thursday during a trip here to visit troops at Fort Bliss.

During the visit, he knocked reports of a weakened, ineffective U.S. military.

In Washington, The Associated Press Thursday obtained a copy of a memo that reflects new orders from Brown to military officers telling them to stress what he calls "the positive factors of our readiness" rather than shortcomings.

The memo from Maj. Gen. James H. Johnson, a senior operations officer on the Pentagon's top military staff, also said Brown has decided not to send Congress a periodic report on the services' combat readiness. Although the memo did not say so, it is presumed the report will be held up until it is revised to meet Brown's wishes.

"The Iraqi forces have been supplied and trained by the Soviets, and here's an example of a conflict between those two," Brown said in El Paso. "Many people have been surprised that the Iraqis have been able to stand up as well as they have. It says to me that American military equipment and training are pretty good."

At a Chamber of Commerce luncheon later, Brown insisted that U.S. military forces are "ready to go to war if necessary." He denied that his declaration was prompted by Republican presidential challenger Ronald Reagan's charges that the Carter administration has allowed the nation's defenses to sag.

"The important question is, are we able to go to war if necessary and to fight effectively? Let me assure you, the answer to that question is yes," Brown told civic leaders of this West Texas city.

Earlier, reporters repeatedly questioned Brown about possible political motivations of his trip and his remarks about military preparedness less than a month before the Nov. 3 presidential election.

"For the secretary of defense to speak about the capability and readiness of U.S. military forces can hardly be seen as a political event," Brown said.

Brown met briefly in private with the nation's only living five-star general, Omar Bradley, a resident of Fort Bliss, and afterward, Bradley, 87, joined the defense secretary at the head table.

Brown said the military's own combat readiness ratings had been misinterpreted in the press.

"A low rating indicates that shortcomings make the division unable to perform its full wartime mission," Brown said, but he said it does not mean that division is incapable of combat. He compared it to an automobile that failed inspection because its backup lights did not work.

Earlier Thursday, Brown addressed the sergeant-major's academy at Fort Bliss and then rode a helicopter to a remote desert training field in the vast military reservation northeast of El Paso.

Air Force is recruiting furloughed airline pilots

DALLAS (AP) — Some flight crews laid off by financially strapped airlines may find job security with a former boss.

Uncle Sam wants the furloughed pilots and navigators with military experience to return to the fold. And a trio of recruiters has been assigned to convince the former officers they can pursue a new career in an old uniform.

A special team of Air Force recruiters will meet with laid off flight crew members in Dallas Oct. 17-25, said Capt. Vincent Ricci. He said a similar team already met with laid off pilots in Denver and other recruiting forays are planned in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago and New York.

"The indications we have from the industry is that there will be about 800 former Air Force pilots on furlough by the first of January," said Capt. Pat Caldwell in San Antonio.

He said 39 pilots filled out applications in Denver three weeks ago and that nine of the pilots said they have made up their minds to return to the Air Force.

Qualified pilots and navigators will be able to negotiate their own assignments and would enter the Air Force at the same rank they held when they left the military, said Caldwell.

He said the program is designed to help beef up Air Force ranks in the face of a projected shortage of 2,000 flight-qualified positions by the end of 1981.

"Of course that projection does not effect first line units or Air Force readiness," said Caldwell. "Those units are run at 100 percent."

He said that the shortage will fall in such areas as the Air Force Training Command and other flight-rated support positions.

To qualify, the flight crew members must have previous military experience with the Air Force, Navy, Marines or Air National Guard, must sign up for at least four years and must meet the requirements for active duty retirement.

Caldwell said the Air Force is targeting the furloughed flight crews as part of on-going program to recruit former officers. He said the program saves the Air Force on training costs.

"We figure the average training savings at $1.5 million per man," said Caldwell. "That savings includes the cost of his undergraduate flight training, his major weapons system training and 1,000 to 1,500 hours of flying time. We are buying experience."

Question marks are the order of the night as two teams gunning for their first District 5-A AAAA win of the year tangle tonight in Memorial Stadium when the youthful Big Spring Steers play host to the Midland Bulldogs in a Homecoming affair.

Royal defense stops NY, 3-2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Frank White is batting .714 against the New York Yankees in the first two games of the American League playoffs, exactly 286 percentage points below Kansas City's level of confidence.

"I shouldn't say this," grinned the Royals' second baseman moments after he nervously helped turn a double play to save a 3-2 victory and give Kansas City a commanding two-game lead in the best-of-five American League playoff series.

"But I will. We're going to get 'em this time."

"This was the hump we needed to get over," said catcher Darrell Porter, the third man involved in a dramatic eighth-inning play that infuriated Yankees owner George Steinbrenner and turned Mike Ferraro from an obscure third-base coach into the center of controversy.

"We finally beat them in a close game," Porter said. "We stopped them from doing what they always did to us before."

The Royals nicked Yankees starter Rudy May for all three runs in the third inning, on Willie Wilson's two-run triple and an RBI-double by U.L. Washington. The Yankees scored their two in the fifth on an inside-the-park home run by Graig Nettles and Willie Randolph's RBI-double.

But the Royals won it in the eighth and ninth when the Yankees failed to score despite four base hits.

"We can win three under any circumstances," said Yankees Manager Dick Howser, reminded that no team has ever rebounded from an 0-2 start to win a playoff series. "But this just makes it a little tougher. We'll do the same things that got us here."

Tonight in Yankee Stadium, Tommy John, New York's 22-game winner, will oppose Kansas City left-hander Paul Splittorff, who cautiously admitted the lion's share of the pressure will rest on John.

"When you're two games up, you feel like you have less to lose," said Splittorff, a veteran of Kansas City's bitter playoff losses to New York in 1976, '77 and '78. "My job is still the same. But we've been through this before and hopefully we've gained from our experiences."

Right-hander Dennis Leonard, Kansas City's only 20-game winner during the regular season, nursed his one-run lead into the eighth and struck out leadoff hitter Bobby Brown. Then Willie Randolph singled and Bobby Murcer fanned. Up came Bob Watson, who drilled a fastball into left field.

Randolph rounded third base and dug for home on a signal from Ferraro.

But left fielder Wilson, in perfect position to catch the hard bounce off the wall, turned and fired to third baseman George Brett, who turned and fired to Porter at the plate.

Porter caught the ball, braced, and held on as Randolph slid into his tag. Dangerous Reggie Jackson, the on-deck hitter, watched helplessly as Randolph was tagged out.

"We got taken out of the eighth inning with Jackson next at bat," fumed Steinbrenner. "The players didn't lose it."

The outspoken Yankee owner dispelled any doubt that he was implying Ferraro lost the game with a statement he made later.

"There's no way you can send the runner," he said. "He's been doing that to us all year."

first two games of the year, and actually taking an eight-point lead into the final stanza in their league opener against heavily favored Abilene before succumbing by a 28-21 count.

Midland has the same 2-2 record as the Steers, but the Purple Pack of their first year head coach, Pat Culppeper, are generally taken with a different amount of respect than the host Bovines.

The Bulldogs entered the season ranked by many as the favorite to win it all in District 5-A AAAA. But with potential All-State tailback

Jerry Zachery out for the season since the second game with a broken leg, Midland has been somewhat erratic.

Opening the season with a convincing 27-7 win over Amarillo Tascosa, Zachery rambled for over 170 yards and Midland looked double tough.

But in the first quarter of their contest with Andrews, Zachery sustained his season ending injury, and Midland faltered in an 18-14 loss. The Bulldogs rallied, however, in their non-district finale, as stellar quarterback Michael Feldt accumulated 178 yards rushing and 140 yards passing to lead Midland to a 33-21 win over highly rated Lubbock Monterey.

Feldt drew some rave reviews for his performance against Monterey, as the Associated Press named the 205-pound senior as the highlight player on their weekly Honor Roll list statewide.

But Midland then faced Odessa Perman in their 5-A AAAA opener, and the quick Mojo defense issued havoc on Feldt and company, holding the Bulldogs to only four first downs (zero in the opening half) in a 31-0 whitewash.

The Steers, meanwhile, have been both impressive and poor. After opening with a pair of wins over Snyder and Sweetwater, the Big Spring crew were beaten by Levelland, 15-8, a team that had no business winning.

But Big Spring bounced back last week to nearly upset Abilene. Only the passing of Loyal Proffitt and some costly mistakes by the Steers in the final stanza allowed the Eagles to escape with the win.

Still, most teams probably don't respect the Steers, despite their improved play this year. Harris feels this is an edge for his young team, which starts nine underclassmen defensively and seven offensively.

"I'm sure we're not going to get a whole lot of respect until we prove we can beat somebody in district play," Harris said. "I really doubt if Midland actually believes that we can beat them, no matter what they're told."

Midland enters the game with a front wall that resembles a college one in regards to size, but Harris explains that they are not that quick.

"They're no doubt a big team, the biggest one we'll see this year," Harris said. "But although they do have some quickness, their overall quickness is not that good."

Much of that quickness comes in the form of Feldt, who Dave Campbell's "Texas Football Magazine" rated as the second best quarterback in the state in high school football at the start of the year.

"He is just an outstanding quarterback," Harris said. "He makes so many big plays, especially when he scrambles. And that's what hurt us so badly last week in the final quarter."

Feldt, who victimized the Steers in Midland's 31-0 win last fall, fell prey to knee surgery shortly afterward, but looks to be at full speed this time around.

Entering the Permian game, he was averaging over 200 yards per game in total offense. But the Mojo defense kept him under heavy pressure all night, eventually throwing the talented signal caller to negative 49 yards rushing. But then again, Permian has not yet been scored on, and is giving up only an average of five first downs per game.

When Feldt is not passing or running the option wide, he will likely hand off to fullback Scott Yochum, a 195-pound senior who Harris describes as a very good back. Yochum averages over 70 yards per game rushing, even after Permian limited him to only 14 steps on the ground. Defensively, the Midland team is again paced by the versatile Feldt.

"He makes any tackle that goes past three yards," Harris explained in drawing a picture of the Midland defense. "He's by far their best defensive player, just running all over the field."

Another big key for the Midland defense, which played well in the 31-0 loss to Permian, is middle linebacker Gary Willis, a 220-pound senior.

But that's where the question marks for Midland begin, as injuries and numerous lineup changes instituted by Culppeper this week make the Bulldogs an opponent hard to predict.

Willis is listed as a doubtful starter due to a bad bruise on his back, with Greg Spencer possibly taking his place.

Nevertheless, Harris stated that the Midland defense is not as bad as the 31 points yielded to Permian would indicate.

"Midland got whipped bad by Permian in the kicking game in the first half," explained Harris. "Permian stayed in Midland's end of the field in four-down territory a great deal in the first half, but couldn't score but 10 points."

Other changes in the Midland lineup occur at right tackle and tight end, where Culppeper, a former star griddy at the University of Texas and the head coach last year at Northern Illinois, looks for improvement.

Forsan praying as Stanton arrives

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes will be trying to pull off what would have to be considered one of the biggest upsets in the state tonight when they play host to the undefeated Stanton Buffaloes in a District 5-AA contest here at 7:30 p.m.

Stanton, ranked as high as sixth in some state polls, is coming off a big upset win over powerful Seagraves in their district opener, and could very easily take the Forsan team lightly.

But it would still take a tremendous effort from Forsan, who lost their 5-AA opener to O'Donnell and takes a 1-4 record into tonight's contest.

The Harris Rating System has Stanton as a 42-point favorite in the game, which prompted Forsan Coach Ron Taylor to comment: "Our main preparation for the game is to have a prayer meeting every day."

"We're looking for a good team effort," Taylor continued. "Sometimes you've got to look at things realistically, and in that it doesn't look like we have much of a chance. But anything can happen on a given night."

"You can look at it two ways," said the Forsan mentor. "First, I doubt that they will be as high for us as they were for Seagraves, and that's to our advantage. But second, they realize that they now have a very good chance at winning district if they win the rest of their games, so they'll get after us."

Stanton Coach Steve Park admits that his team will no doubt not be as high for Forsan tonight, but still hopes for a good effort.

"Our kids were emotionally and physically drained after the Seagraves game," he explained, "but we can't look past Forsan. They have had some bad luck, but have the ability to be a good ball club."

A big difference in the schools is the experience factor. Stanton is blessed with loads of it, while Forsan will be starting six sophomores and a pair of freshmen.

Rejuvenated Bearkats host Sands

GARDEN CITY — A pair of teams with 1-3-1 records, Sands and Garden City square off tonight in the District 3-A (West Zone) opener, and both have high hopes of getting off to a winning start in league play.

As far as scores go, Garden City has been the more impressive of the two, although the game appears to be a toss-up. The Harris Rating System ranks Sands as a five-point favorite.

Sands has lost two consecutive games in which their offense has not performed up to par, but Coach Jim White is hoping that those nights are over.

"We've put those first five games behind us," he explained. "Tonight is a big chance for us to get a win and get on the right track for district action, and our practices have been good this week."

Meanwhile, Garden City Coach Stu Cooper and his Bearkats also feel tonight is an excellent opportunity to start league play on the winning track, although he knows it won't be easy.

"They're going to be tough," said Cooper. "They're strikers, and their record is not indicative of the type of team that they have."

Both teams seem to have similar qualities, and both Cooper and White feel that tonight's game is very evenly matched.

"It's pretty well balanced between the teams," noted Cooper. "I guess it will just boil down to who wants it the baddest and who executes the best. At least that's the way we're looking at it."

White feels his team could be an excellent one at any time, but doesn't know what to expect tonight. "We've been like an old car that hasn't been tuned up," philosophized White. "Sometimes we run and sometimes we don't."

Lamesa, Snyder seek 2-AAAA win

LAMESA — The Snyder Tigers, pre-season choices to contend for the District 2-AAAA title, will try to regain their composure and win their first game of the season after four disappointing losses tonight when they invade Lamesa to face the Golden Tornadoes.

Snyder has lost to Big Spring, Midland Lee, Sweetwater and San Angelo Lake View, but that could be deceiving, as Lamesa Coach Jim Warren explained.

"Snyder's a lot better than 0-4," he said. "They've played four tough football teams, and played them all well. They could have won any of those games with a little luck."

Lamesa, meanwhile, started off the season with no one expecting anything from them. Coming off a 1-9 season, however, the Golden Tors are 2-3, with a 1-2 district record. They have beaten Lubbock and Fort Stockton, while losing to powerful Andrews, Brownfield and Sweetwater.

Coahoma fish score late to win

COAHOMA — Scott Mayhall ran over from the one with 35 seconds remaining to rally the Coahoma ninth grade football team to a 26-22 win over Post in action here Thursday evening.

In the evening's second game, the Post JV team scored a 20-6 win over the Coahoma JVs.

The Coahoma ninth graders had taken an early 6-0 lead when halfback Mike McKinley threw a 43-yard scoring pass to Richard Seals, with the PAT failed.

Post rallied to tie the game shortly afterward, only to see McKinley run over from the seven in the second stanza, with Mayhall hitting Clem Moran for a two-point conversion and a 14-6 half-time lead.

Post came back to tie the game in the third stanza, but McKinley once again put the Bulldogs on top of a six-yard run. The PAT failed, leaving Coahoma with a 20-14 lead.

But Post rallied to take a 22-20 lead midway in the final frame, only to see Coahoma drive 64 yards to set up Mayhall's winning run.

Offensive stars for the Coahoma fish, now 3-1 for the season, included Chuck Stevens, Greg Wilbourne, Jeff Devers and Mayhall. James Sanders, David

Steer volleyball opens second half with win over Abilene

The Big Spring Steers half of District 5-AAAAA volleyball team got off to an excellent start in the second contest was played in Steer Gym.

High point server for the Steers, now 1-0 in the second half and 11-6 on the year, was Sissy Doss with eight points. Shell Rutledge added six points and Bea Magers five. Three of Magers' service points came on aces.

Rounding out the Steers scoring were Pam Caudill, Dawn Estes and Dee Earhart with three, and Elise Wheat with two.

Big Spring Coach Patti Purser was pleased with the win, which snapped a three-game losing streak for the Steer fems. "We had excellent teamwork, and our offense came alive again," said Purser. "We looked for the open spaces and hit them, something we hadn't been doing well lately."

The Big Spring JV and freshmen teams were not as fortunate, however.

The Steer JV lost a 15-8, 13-15 match to Abilene JV, with Melissa Blassingame pacing Big Spring with nine. Amy Ragan added seven and Tracy Williams five service points.

The Big Spring freshmen team lost a 3-15, 6-15, decision to the Abilene fish.

The Steer varsity goes for their second straight win in the second half of action on Tuesday night, at which time they host Midland.

Runnels continues winning

The Runnels Yearlings girls volleyball teams continued with their successful ways, sweeping a pair of games here Thursday night from Andrews.

The White team boosted their season record to 7-0 by taking a 15-5, 14-16, 15-3 triumph over the Andrews White. Tanya Tompkins had nine service points to pace Runnels, with Julie Miller adding eight.

Tompkins was praised for her spiking in the match, with Lisa Subia's setting also excelling.

The Runnels Red teams then defeated the Andrews Black squad by a score of 11-15, 15-2, 9-15. They have a season record of 4-6.

Adrienne Allen had a good night serving, for the Red team, being credited with 15 points. Debbie Holguin praised for her setting, while Trish Clemons played a good game at the net.

The Runnels White team ventures to the Plains Tournament this weekend.

Klondike, New Home in opener

KLONDIKE — The Klondike Cougars and the New Home Leopards face off tonight in the District 3-A (West Zone) opener for both schools.

The Cougars, rated eighth in the state in the Class A Harris Rating System, are favored in the contest by 19 points, but New Home could be dangerous.

But Klondike, under the direction of Mickey Finley, should be ready to explode. The Cougars are back at near full speed after being hobbled by injuries throughout much of the non-district slate. They looked strong in their last outing, defeating Class AA O'Donnell by 28-0.

Goliad girls sweep pair

Goliad Junior High's girls' volleyball teams both scored straight set wins over Andrews in action Thursday afternoon.

The White team scored a win by scores of 15-10, 15-10. Lana Fletcher had 11 service points to pace the White team, with Tracey Kilgore adding 10. Suzanne Bowers played an excellent defensive game for the Whites.

The Goliad Black team took a 15-13, 15-6 win over Andrews. Millie Correa had 11 service points for the Black team, with Denisa Brown adding seven. Tammy Green and Monique were cited for their court coverage, while Elizabeth Hernandez played great defense at the net.

The Goliad girls return to action next Tuesday, at which time they meet Colorado City in the Runnels gym at four o'clock.

Coahoma Akers, Switzer praise foes as shootout nears

POST — The Coahoma Bulldogs seek to end a streak of four winless games tonight when they travel to take on the scrappy Post Antelopes.

The Bulldogs, who usually sport a winning record at the season's end, have lost three and tied one game since opening with a 22-0 win over Wall.

Coahoma, which doesn't start District 6-AAA action for another three weeks, seems to be improving, however, as they led Colorado City entering the final minute of last Friday night's contest, only to settle for a 13-13 tie.

Post, meanwhile, is 2-2 on the year. They have won both of their home games, and lost both of their contests on the road. They are coming off an open date.

Coach Roy Winters of Coahoma describes Post as small and quick. "They are very, very quick and aggressive," said Winters. "but not blessed with any big bruisers."

Post relies on a good quarterback in Drew Kirkpatrick, an elusive runner that also passes well. He gets help from tailback Alonzo Luna.

The Bulldogs are coming around as far as the injury situation is concerned, although 210-pound sophomore tailback Rodney Whitworth is still out of action. 200-pound fullback Jay Hall is also injured, although he is expected to see limited action.

DALLAS (AP) — The psychological war between Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer and Texas Coach Fred Akers, former teammates at the University of Arkansas, is always one of the more interesting sidelights of the annual meeting of the two teams.

They spread the adjectives on thick when describing the other team in an annual exercise of respect and shadow dancing.

"Texas is the best team in the country," said Switzer before Saturday's nationally televised 11:50 a.m. showdown between the unbeaten and No. 3 ranked Longhorns and the No. 12 rated Sooners, who lost two weeks ago to Stanford.

Switzer continued "They have a better offense than they did a year ago and that's without (wide receiver) Johnny (Lam) Jones. They have good runners and I've never seen a tight end who is a game breaking player like Lawrence Sampleton. Their offensive line is really good."

"On defense, (tackle) Kenneth Sims is the No. 1 lineman in the country. He'll probably be a No. 1 (National Football League) draft pick next year. Their secondary is inexperienced but overall they are better on defense than they were a year ago."

Akers, warming to the task, said "We haven't faced a team with the talent of Oklahoma. Their offensive line is awesome. Their defense is quick and agile as always."

He added "The Oklahoma-Colorado game looked like a track meet. OU must have had to change shoes by the third quarter for wearing them out. Their backs have good speed. I don't know how many runs of over 50 yards they had. You know some teams couldn't score 82 points against air."

Church school game highlights SWC week

The game of games in the Southwest Conference Saturday is not the annual war between two states.

Although the national television cameras will be trained at 11:50 o'clock in the morning on the meeting between No. 3 ranked Texas and No. 12 ranked Oklahoma in the Cotton Bowl, there's an epic game in Waco Saturday night you can only hear on the radio unless you're at Baylor Stadium.

Never in the history of the two schools in a series that stretches over 62 previous games have Southern Methodist and Baylor met with unblemished records.

The only other time Baylor has played SMU when it was perfect was in 1916. SMU has come into the Baylor game undefeated three times.

In 1923, SMU was 8-0 but Baylor had two ties to mar its record.

In other games this week involving SWC teams, Texas Christian is a field goal choice over Rice, Houston is a one-point pick over the Texas Aggies, Arkansas was a prohibitive favorite over Wichita State, and oddsmakers feel Texas should be a two-point nod over Oklahoma.

SMU defensive back John Simmons puts the Baylor-SMU game in perspective, saying "This is probably one of the biggest games SMU has had in years. Baylor is a good physical football team."

Coahoma JHS splits pair

POST — Coahoma and Post Junior High Schools split a pair of football games played here Thursday evening.

The Coahoma eighth graders upped their record to a perfect 4-0 with a 14-12 win over Post. Coahoma struck first in the opening quarter when Steve Hector rambled in from the 10. The PAT failed.

Post tied the game at 6-6 in the same stanza, but Coahoma's Shawn Justice gave Coahoma the lead for good in the second period when he tackled the Post quarterback for a safety.

Coahoma increased their lead to 14-6 in the second stanza when John Swinney connected with Hector on a 19-yard pass play for a touchdown. The PAT failed, but Post could only score six more points the remainder of the night, allowing the Coahoma eighth graders to hold on for the win.

Bobby Henry, Hector, Mark Bennett and Swinney were cited for their offensive play, while defensive plaudits were given to Ricky Delacruz, Robbie Henry, Justice and Billy Brant.

Post avoided a sweep by winning the seventh grade contest by a score of 20-0. The Post team used three short runs in the opening half of their margin of victory.

PEOPLE ON THE MOVE

On affluent avenues like this one . . . and on the more modest streets and lanes as well . . . people leave and people come. For all of them, moving is a traumatic experience that touches deep chords of family life.

Psalm 121 was originally written as a "pilgrim song" for those journeying to Jerusalem to celebrate religious festivals. Perhaps its message is just as appropriate in our moving experiences . . .

The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth and even for evermore.

Part of getting one's bearings in a new neighborhood is finding a place of worship where the family will continue or renew its spiritual life. There will be new friends there eager to welcome you . . . and to share with you their faith.

New church organized

A new church, Emmanuel Baptist, located at 2107 Lancaster Street, has been organized here.

Six weeks ago, a group of Christians met to discuss the possibilities of a new Southern Baptist Church in Big Spring.

A decision was made to meet for four Sundays for worship and Bible study, with the understanding that a decision to organize a church would ultimately be made.

A New Testament Church was formally organized at the end of that period and a decision followed to affiliate it with the Big Spring Southern Baptist Association.

The church extended a call to Allen E. McHam of Big Spring to serve as the church's pastor and the invitation was accepted. McHam previously served as pastor of Baptist Temple, Big Spring, the First Baptist Church, Tatum, N.M., and Trinity Baptist Church, Kaufman, Tex.

McHam is a graduate of Dallas Baptist College and attended Southwestern Seminary.

The church structure formerly was occupied by Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Alive in Christ revival to start

The Alive in Christ Revival will begin Sunday, at the College Baptist Church in Big Spring with an evangelistic message by Fred Swank. Services will begin at 11 a.m. Sunday, and 7:30 p.m. during the week.

The public is encouraged to attend.

Dr. W. Fred Swank has pastored only two churches during his ministry, coming to Sagamore Hill Baptist Church as pastor in 1933 from Tuxedo Baptist Church, Tuxedo, Texas. After almost 43 years as pastor of Sagamore Hill, Dr. Swank retired in December 1975. His first year of retirement was spent in Brussels, Belgium where he served as interim pastor of the International Baptist Church. Since his return he has been active conducting revivals. He spent the summer of 1979 in Panama for the Foreign Mission Board. His wife, Elizabeth, accompanies him in all his work and assists in the revivals.

There will be a noon service during the week days. Lunch will be served by the host church at 11:45 as the people arrive. After a brief song and prayer Elizabeth Swank will bring us a timely word concerning the following subjects: marriage, the authority of the Bible, church attendance, sorrow, influence and aging.

On the first Sunday, Mrs. Swank will meet with the young adults and Adult I, during the Sunday School hour. At this time she shall speak on rules for a successful marriage. On the last Sunday she will meet with Adult II and Adult III and speak on "Aging," or "How to Grow Old Gracefully."

Dewey's to perform here

A very talented family will soon be appearing in Big Spring. The Singing Deweys of Nashville, Tennessee will present a gospel music presentation at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, in the Howard College Auditorium.

The family group consists of Levey and Cleon Dewey and their two daughters, Cindy and Susie. The Deweys have traveled as a family unit since 1967, singing across the United States at denominational conventions, churches, fairs, colleges and have been on such T.V. programs as PTL, 700 Club and The Jimmy Swaggart Show. They have sung on the Grand Ole Opry, at the People's Church in Toronto, Canada, and in the Avon Shakespearean Theatre. Recent trips include several visits to Central America, Pacific Islands, India with Dr. Mark Buntain and Europe; one of which resulted in a fund raising effort to help build a church for missionary work among the Indians of the San Blas Islands. A large part of their remaining schedule is taken up by churches and conventions on a regular basis.

The Deweys originally recorded for Heartwarming Records, but more recently have been working with LTD Productions, their own music company. It was under this label that "Because of Yesterday" which won the 1974 SESAC "Gospel Song of the Year," was published. Another release entitled "Heaven's Sounding Sweetener (All the Time)" has been recorded by Jimmy Swaggart as well as numerous other people and remains high in the charts. Levey and Cleon write most of their material, including such song hits as "Jesus Is the Best Friend," "Welcome Back, Jesus," "Battle-Scarred" as well as many others. Cindy and Susie also do some writing of their own, and have recorded several albums.

The Deweys play 15 different instruments during their program ranging from various stringed instruments to keyboard and wind instruments. Bring the whole family because it is truly a musical experience to remember.

Golden Agers Club forms

The Golden Agers Club was organized Monday evening at the First Church of God, Main and 21st Streets. Eleven members of the church were present plus Rev. and Mrs. Bob McCray.

The decision was made to limit the minimum age to 55 years, and to welcome all golden agers of Big Spring. Officers elected were Vera Blackburn, president; Lucy Holly, vice president and Georgia Cauble, secretary-treasurer. Frances Miller was appointed chairman of the telephone committee by Mrs. Blackburn.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Oct. 14 in the home of Ethel Hickson, 107 E. 17th.

Evangel Temple pastor completes sixth year

Sunday marks the sixth year of ministry at the Evangel Temple Assembly of God Church for the Rev. Terry Wilson and his family. Wilson and his wife, Linda, and their daughter, Kim, moved to Big Spring in October of 1974 from Blue-jacket, Oklahoma where they had pastored for 18 months.

Wilson is a 1968 graduate of Southwestern Assemblies of God College, in Waxahachie, Tex. He earned his Bachelor's degree in Christian Ministry. Rev. Wilson is a 1964 graduate of Kermit High School in Kermit, Tex. Upon graduation from college, Wilson worked in Dallas for Collins Radio and later for Titcher's of Dallas (now Joske's) as a personnel manager. From there he went into full-time ministry in 1971, in the area of evangelism. He took the church in Oklahoma in January of 1973 and came to Big Spring 18 months later.

Since being here he has served the Assemblies of God as sectional youth leader, for two years, and for the past two years has served in the capacity as sectional missions representative. When Webb Air Force Base was in Big Spring he was the contact pastor for the base with the Assemblies of God.

In June of 1978 Wilson and his wife went to Belize in Central America to help Missionary Ray Fairbanks build a church in Corazal Town in northern Belize.

During the time Wilson has been in Big Spring he has worked with the Church league softball, basketball programs and has been a member of the Umpire Association and for the past two years has worked with the YMCA's Gray-Y basketball program.

Every Sunday night from 9 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Wilson is the gospel DJ for the church's radio ministry "Sunday Night Live" heard on radio station KBYG. The program presents the gospel in song with some of the top recording artist in gospel music. The program is written up each week and is presented by the church and from the album collection of Midland QB Feldt: Better than Mildren?

Big Spring Steer football fans will have the chance to see one of the very best athletes in the state compete tonight in Midland High's Michael Feldt.
 Feldt, who plays quarterback and free safety for the Bulldogs, is a 6'1", 265-pound senior that can do it all. Listed in the pre-season as the number two quarterback in high school football in the state, he is also an excellent basketball and baseball performer.
 Although it may not be fair to compare him, one official and former coach of many District 5-AAAAAs wars through the last 20 years classified the Midland High signal caller as being "the best athlete in this district since Jack Mildren."
 That's quite a comparison, as Mildren, the former All-Stater at Abilene Cooper, later starred as a quarterback for the powerful Oklahoma Sooners, and was a starting cornerback for the New England Patriots.
 But Feldt has lived up to those expectations when given any room to operate, as evident in a sparkling performance against Lubbock Monterey that earned him the spotlight in the AP statewide Honor Roll.
 Midland High Coach Pat Culpepper, himself a former college star at Texas, reaps praise on his ace QB. "If I were at a college, he'd be my quarterback," said Culpepper, who after serving the past few years as head coach at Northern Illinois, should know. "I've never seen any better than him. He's the kind that can win a national championship for you."
 "And he's a worker," Culpepper added. "He's no prima donna. His heroes are guys like James Steer (former UT quarterback that led the Longhorns to a national title), who would get in there and fight, not a guy standing back there with his shoes shined waiting for a block."

BSHS must stop Feldt

 Goebels, a 6'7", 275-pounder, is being replaced by David Vinson, a 180-pound senior, while massive 6'5", 250-pound tight end Wade Johnson is being replaced in the Midland offensive lineup by Wally Klein.
 But both Goebel and Johnson are expected to see action, with Johnson moving to a starting defensive tackle position alongside Goebel.
 As Zachery was injured, the Bulldogs replaced him with smaller twin brother Terry. But Terry is being replaced this week by Johnny Garza, a 150-pound scatback who Culpepper is hoping will prove enemy defenses to be honest with Feldt on the wide action.
 Big Spring, meanwhile, is also searching for the right combinations, and will have some position changes. Scott Barnes, a two-way starter at offensive guard and usually defensive end, will move to defensive tackle and join Tony Molina there. The defensive ends will be manned by David Shanks and Greg Scarbro.
 Tony Kennedy, a junior, is also scheduled for his first start at the middle linebacker position, although regular sophomore starter George Bancroft should also see plenty of action there.
 One place with no changes will definitely be in the Steer offensive backfield, where quarterback Tracy Spence and running backs Bobby Earl Williams and Richard Evans are situated.
 Nevertheless, tonight's contest is one which is hard to pick from past performances. Midland is no doubt favored, as the Harris Rating System gives the Purple Pack a 13-point advantage.

 But, as Harris said: "You can't judge Midland on what they did last week, or us, for that matter. People think I'm crazy, but we didn't play well at all against Abilene. But luckily, they didn't play that well, either."
 Harris and the Steers received many congratulatory comments for their improved play against Abilene, but the Big Spring coach isn't listening, and will be far from happy until the Steer prove they can win 5-AAAAAs.
