BRILAB WINNER — Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton was all smiles Wednesday as he talked with newsmen after he was acquitted of a Federal Brilab charge by a jury in Houston. The Federal jury found him and two Austin attorneys not guilty on all counts.

Bad health cited

Kosygin resigns

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin has resigned "on health grounds" and been replaced by his first deputy, 75-year-old Nikolai Tikhonov, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

Kosygin, who is 76 and has been premier since 1964, has been ill most of this year, reportedly with heart and circulatory problems. He was said to have suffered two heart attacks in recent years, and Soviet sources have long let it be known he was eager to step down from power.

His resignation was announced to the Supreme Soviet, the national Parliament, by President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The departure of Kosygin, who was last seen in public almost three months ago, further underlines the 73-year-old Brezhnev's unquestioned role at the top of the Kremlin hierarchy. Tikhonov, a former locomotive fireman and metallurgical engineer, is regarded as a protégé of the Soviet president.

The change in leadership is not expected to affect Soviet foreign policy, which is believed firmly in control of Brezhnev and veteran Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. But, although Kosygin's resignation may stem solely from his ill health, it could symbolize a transition in Soviet economic policies.

"Somebody had to take the blame for what seems to be a very serious stagnation in almost all important areas of the national economy," Vadim Medish, a Russian studies professor at American University, said in Washington of the resignation.

Kosygin was nominally in charge of the country's centralized economy.

Speaking in a strong voice at the Supreme Soviet, Brezhnev announced Kosygin had asked to be relieved of the premier's job because his health had recently deteriorated and he needed to "rest."

The 1,500-member Supreme Soviet voted immediately to release Kosygin from the post and accepted a Communist Party proposal for Tikhonov to replace him.

Brezhnev said Kosygin also asked to be relieved of his membership in the party's ruling Politburo. The move appeared to indicate Kosygin's total retirement from the top decision-making bodies.

Western analysts, noting Tikhonov's advanced age, said he is likely to be only a short-term replacement for Kosygin, leaving open the question of when younger people might begin to occupy the nation's top jobs. The average age of the Politburo is 64 years.

Tikhonov, Kosygin's top deputy for four years, has been performing the premier's duties in recent weeks.

Kosygin's departure leaves Brezhnev as the last member of a Soviet leadership "troika" — with Kosygin and then-President Nikolai Podgorny — that inherited power from Nikita S. Khrushchev when Khrushchev was ousted 16 years ago.

Though the three shared the leadership, Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist Party, steadily overshadowed the others. Finally, in May 1977, he took over Podgorny's presidential post.

All defendants in Brilab trial found innocent

Speaker Clayton acquitted

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton and two Austin attorneys lashed out at their accusers in the Texas Brilab trial after the trio was cleared of influence-peddling charges that threatened to scuttle carefully nurtured reputations and careers.

Clayton, Randall Wood and Donald Ray were found innocent of six counts of bribery, extortion, racketeering and conspiracy by a federal court jury Wednesday afternoon.

The three maintained throughout the trial they had been manipulated and entrapped by a convicted felon the FBI hired as an informant to assist the agency in the 10-month undercover sting operation.

Ray was quiet and soft-spoken throughout the lengthy trial, but after the verdict he blasted U.S. Attorney Tony Canales of Houston, who aided the prosecution.

"He is a small-minded politician using this case for his own advantage," said Ray, 39. "I will ask for a U.S. Senate investigation of the FBI activities in the Brilab case."

Clayton, the three-term speaker from the farmlands of West Texas, handed Canales a wooden stake after the verdict. On the stake were two plates.

One was inscribed with a Canales quote from August of this year, "I want to drive a stake into the heart of Billy Clayton."

The other plate read, "Oh Lord, make my words tender and sweet today, for tomorrow I may have to eat them."

On his way out of the Federal Building Clayton, told reporters, "I told you news people this would happen. This has been an experience I never expected and don't want again. But the verdict supports my belief in the court system. We are now going away for a few days rest."

Wood also chided the federal government and Canales for bringing the case to trial.

"The real tragedy was not the fact we had to go through this mess," said the 36-year-old attorney. "The tragedy was that a jury had to put a stamp of disapproval on what our federal government did."

"There will be from now on some concern about anything done by the FBI and that is a shame. But the responsibility must rest on the shoulders of U.S. Attorney Tony Canales and his assistant, chief prosecutor Ron Woods."

Wood said he would have done nothing different and Canales also defended his role in the prosecution.

"This case had to be tried," he said. Prosecutors contended Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe and the promise of $500,000 more a year from labor leader L.G. Moore to reopen the bidding on a multi-million dollar state employees health insurance contract.

Clayton denied repeatedly on the stand that he had ever accepted a bribe. He acknowledged receipt of the $5,000 but said he considered it a campaign contribution that he intended to return.

The veteran legislator has been embroiled in a heated bid for an unprecedented fourth term as speaker, but declined to say Wednesday night if he still is a candidate.

Moore, regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, also was indicted on the charges and is to be tried later.

Accused ax murderess weeps

Attorney swings baseball bat

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) — Accused ax murderess Candace Montgomery sobbed openly as her attorney swung a baseball bat over his head in a dramatic recreation he says demonstrates his client acted in self defense when she hacked her ex-lover's wife to death.

Don Crowder substituted the bat for a three-foot ax believed to be the murder weapon as he told jurors Mrs. Montgomery was fighting for her own life when she killed Betty Gore, a fellow church choir member.

"You don't know who attacked whom with the ax, do you?" he asked several law enforcement officers called as witnesses during Wednesday's testimony.

Raising the bat over his head, Crowder said Mrs. Montgomery could have wrested the weapon from an attacker while the weapon was raised in an unwieldy position.

The 30-year-old defendant, a mother of two, was visibly shaken by the demonstration and wept during much of the testimony.

As prosecutors paraded four lawmen across the stand, Crowder repeatedly intimated that the killing was sloppy because it was unplanned and because his client was fighting for her own life.

Police photographs introduced Wednesday show Mrs. Gore, 30, was struck squarely in the face with the ax.

"She must not have been defending herself," Crowder said.

Crowder had stunned spectators during jury selection Monday by admitting that Mrs. Montgomery killed the fifth-grade schoolteacher in self defense.

Spectators line up daily to jam the 200-seat courtroom in the century-old Collin County Courthouse, reopened because the new courthouse couldn't accommodate the turnaway crowds.

The curiosity-seekers — mostly older ladies — show up early with sack lunches, knitting and binoculars — and stay late to watch as the auburn-haired defendant is whisked out a courthouse door into a waiting car.

In other testimony Wednesday, neighbors described a blood-spattered scene they found when they entered the Gores' unlocked residence and discovered the mutilated body on June 13, a Friday.

"I saw a massive amount of smeared blood on the floor and an ax on the floor," Lester Gaylor testified.

Traces of blood in a nearby shower led police to speculate the killer washed away blood after the slaying.

Larry Don Shaw unopposed in state representative race

Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, who filed for the position of state representative of the 63rd District in the special election Nov. 22, will have no opposition in his bid for the job.

Prison camp tour offered Friday

The Big Spring Federal Prison Camp will offer a tour of the facility Friday from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

The tour will be conducted by a selected group of inmates, and will include tours of the food service, chapel area, one of the dormitories, and the industry facilities. The tour itself will begin at approximately 1 p.m., but visitors are invited at any time during the two hours interval. Refreshments will be served.

The deadline for filing passed Wednesday without anyone else entering the race.

Shaw has already gained the Democratic nod for the position and will run unopposed in the general election Nov. 4.

The vacancy was created when Mike Ezzell resigned the job effective Oct. 15 to accept a $34,000 a year job with a state agency in Austin. Gov. Bill Clements then issued an order for the Nov. 22 special election.

Six counties in the 63rd will be affected by the special election. They are Borden, Coke, Dawson, Scurry and Sterling, as well as Howard.

The special election will give Shaw some seniority over other freshman representatives who will be sworn in during January. That could become an important factor when committee appointments are made during the next session of the legislature.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Road work

Why doesn't the county do something about the roads northeast of town (Hilltop, Neil, and Loop) so that they don't flood when it rains?

A. County workers maintain 900 miles of roads which they are constantly at work on, including the roads northeast of town, said County Engineer Bill Mims.

Tops on TV: 'Paradise Alley'

The choice tonight is between a pretty good Sylvester Stallone vehicle and a fairly promising premiere movie. NBC features Stallone in "Paradise Alley" at 8 o'clock. He is one of three Italian-American brothers who get involved in big-time wrestling. This competes with CBS' "The Last Song," starring Lynda Carter and Ronny Cox. She plays a woman who becomes the target of desperate men when she inadvertently comes into possession of a crucial tape recording.

Tells Democrats to unite Carter tours East Texas

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — President Carter climaxed a whirlwind, three-city campaign tour by straddling the Texas-Arkansas border and encouraging Democratic backers to unite and "stomp the Republicans."

With Texas' 26 crucial electoral votes still hanging in the balance, Carter spoke at this two-state city of 52,000 Wednesday after bragging in Beaumont about his energy program and taking credit at a Waco rally for the state's declining unemployment rate.

Standing on a podium under clear, blue skies at the Texarkana post office, which sits across the state line, Carter flailed Republican opponent Ronald Reagan for "wanting to dismantle" Democratic-sponsored social legislation such as the minimum wage, Social Security and Medicaid.

The president said Republicans have tried for years to label Democratic programs designed "to alleviate human suffering" as "socialist" and "communist."

Carter drew applause when he pointed out that former presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson also had spoken from the same border site.

Local Democrats predicted the president would win support from the agricultural-based area of Northeastern Texas and Southwestern Arkansas simply because he is a Democrat.

"This area has lots of dyed-in-the-wool Democrats," said Miller County, Ark., Democratic chairwoman Louann Dean. "That's the way they were born and raised."

Carter was joined in Texarkana by a entourage of top Democrats from Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

The chief executive, who carried Texas over Gerald Ford by only 129,000 out of more than four million votes cast in 1976, was introduced by U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

With a broad grin on his face, Bentsen reminded the crowd of his early endorsement of Carter's reelection bid "when he was at the bottom of the polls."

In Beaumont, Carter told an enthusiastic crowd of shipyard workers his energy policies have fueled Texas economic boom.

Carter said the "long, hard but successful battle" for a comprehensive energy program has led to a record number of drilling rigs, more wells in the planning stage and more coal being mined than ever before.

As a result of these increases, Carter said, more than 900,000 jobs have been made available to Texans, the average per capita income in Texas has increased 40 percent, and unemployment has been slashed dramatically during his term.

The president's remarks drew favorable response from many of the yard workers.

"Mr. Carter has shown he has the leadership and the capability that this country needs," said Mark Jackson, a 27-year-old welder. "He doesn't claim to be perfect, he admits when he has made a mistake, and he is trying, and I think that is a lot more than you can say for his opponent."

Later in Waco, a crowd estimated at 5,000 gathered on the airport concourse to hear Carter's assertion that his administration is responsible for a 30 percent drop in the state's unemployment rate over the past 2½ years.

He also said he was wearing his "stomping boots" which are "designed to stomp Republicans on Nov. 4."

Carter added that high-top boots have other uses.

"Republicans have a habit of spreading a lot of horse manure around right before elections, and as you know it's getting pretty deep all over the country."

HE'S GROWN ACCUSTOMED TO THE PLACE Interpreter Bob Coltrane with Margaret Ellen Arnold, student

Instructor likes area, job There's no doubt about it

Bob Coltrane was hesitant about moving from South Carolina to Texas this summer to take on his new job as interpreter at the hearing impaired and sign language.

"Sign language is something a lot of people in Big Spring are turning on to. We've gotten a lot of calls about it. People are really getting excited about it here," the 29-year-old interpreter said.

"I said no way. It's hot and flat and you're not getting me out there."

After immersing himself in his new job and living in Big Spring for two months, his opinion has changed.

"The weather is nice out here and Big Spring sure isn't flat," he said last week.

In his job as interpreter, Coltrane serves many functions. He interprets for SWCID students who are taking courses at Howard College, interprets at extracurricular activities, helps SWCID students with their problems in communication in a hearing world and teaches sign language courses.

His contact with people in Big Spring caused him to express pleasure at the reaction in the area to the hearing impaired and sign language.

He also sees this excitement as a way of finding and training interpreters in the new college district program to develop interpreters, an area in which he said there is a great need.

Coltrane, who has deaf parents, has been signing since the age of two, but he stressed the difference between someone who signs and interpreters.

In order to obtain certification as an interpreter, a person must not only have the skills of sign language, but more importantly, the interpreter must have an awareness of deafness and adhere to the profession's code of ethics.

"Confidentiality is important. I would never divulge what I said for a deaf person in a telephone call, or even that I made the call," Coltrane explained.

Becoming an interpreter requires testing by a state or national board. There are only about 700 people who have obtained the Comprehensive Skill Certificate, which Coltrane has, and only about a dozen people have the Master's Comprehensive Skill Certificate.

Coltrane will become eligible for the master's level in four years.

Before coming to Big Spring, Coltrane worked at East Carolina University, where he served as an interpreter and teacher. He has worked as a freelance interpreter for several years and has worked as an interpreter in public schools, workshops and on television.

Coltrane graduated from high school in South Carolina and took classes at East Carolina University. He is a second year graduate of Life Underwriters Training Council.

He is a member of Fantasy, an artistic sign language group which performs throughout the country.

Other professional organizations in which he has been a member include the National Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf, National Organization of Folklore, involving deaf folklore, Trident Forum for the Handicapped and the South Carolina Association for the Deaf.

Coach's daughter dies

DALLAS (AP) — The 22-year-old daughter of a New Jersey Nets coach died after a speeding car ran into the bicycle she was riding across an intersection, police said.

Pamela A. MacKinnon, the daughter of Nets' assistant coach Robert MacKinnon, was hit about 12:24 a.m. Wednesday and thrown from her 10-speed bicycle. She died at the scene from multiple injuries, investigator Jim Phillips said.

Phillips said the driver of the car was arrested and jailed briefly after the accident, and that charges were pending against him. Phillips declined to specify the nature of the charges.

Alabama man to be retried

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Tommy Lee Hines, a mentally retarded black man, has been ordered to undergo psychiatric examinations to determine if he is competent to be retried on charges of raping a white woman.

The tests are to determine if Hines is able to assist in his defense and understand the charges against him, according to an order issued Tuesday by Circuit Judge Charles Crowder.

His arrest in Decatur in May 1978 sparked demonstrations by blacks and counter-marches by the Ku Klux Klan. His October 1978 conviction was overturned by the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals.

Prison can't meet deadline

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland corrections officials say they can't meet a court-imposed deadline for reducing overcrowding at the state prison in Hagerstown.

The state asked a federal judge on Tuesday for a seven-month extension of the Jan. 1 deadline for eliminating the practice of housing two inmates in cells designed for one. The state said it was hampered by construction delays at new prison facilities.

The court order requires that the population of the medium-security prison, which now stands at about 1,050, be reduced to 617 by January.

Shroud study complete soon

ESPAÑOLA, N.M. (AP) — A scientific study of the authenticity of the Shroud of Turin should be complete within three months, according to Raymond Rogers, a spokesman for the researchers.

The shroud, which is purported to be the burial cloth of Jesus Christ, bears the likeness of a bearded man with wounds like those the Bible says were suffered by Jesus.

Preliminary reports by some of the 18 scientists involved in the study cast doubt on the authenticity of the shroud. Dr. Walter McCone, a Chicago microscopist, said the cloth probably dates from about 1400. Rogers said Tuesday a full report would be released by January.

Disney shows canceled

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — A number of prominent entertainers are refusing to cross picket lines at Walt Disney World and have canceled performances, according to a Disney spokesman.

The pickets were set up by 107 striking park musicians. Construction work on the park's $800 million futuristic center, Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow, was slowed Wednesday when about 250 of 760 construction workers conducted a sympathy strike.

Disney spokesman Charlie Ridgway said the acts canceled this week included the pop-soul group The Spinners, singer Frankie Laine and the pop group Peaches and Herb.

14-year-old boy held in killing of parents

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — A judge says he will order psychological testing for a 14-year-old boy held as a suspect in the slayings of his parents in rural Uvalde County.

County Judge Jerry White said the partially decomposed bodies of Ollis Stubbs, 46, and his wife, Karen Lynn Stubbs, 44, were found by deputies Sunday outside their home off State Highway 127 about 12 miles north of Sabin.

Uvalde County authorities said the couple appeared to have been shot and an autopsy report was pending.

Ollis Stubbs retired from the Navy and had been reported missing since Oct. 6 when he failed to report to work at a Texaco warehouse in Sabin. The couple's teen-age son had been telling people his parents were on an extended vacation, the judge said. He said the boy, charged tentatively with engaging in delinquent conduct, would be ordered to undergo psychological testing.

For hostages' release

Conditions may be added

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — New conditions for the release of the American hostages in Iran may be added to those outlined by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, a hardline member of Iran's Parliament said today.

He said a special committee of the Parliament has finished a report on the 52 U.S. hostages, and the proposed conditions for their release will be presented to the full assembly on Sunday.

But Ali Akbar Nateq Noori, a member of the Islamic Republican Party who sits on the seven-member committee, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press "some more conditions may be added" to the four basic terms outlined by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Last month Khomeini said the conditions were the return of the late's shah's fortune, a U.S. pledge not to meddle in Iranian affairs, dropping of law suits against Iran, and release of $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets.

Noori said the conditions proposed by the panel would remain "secret" until they were unveiled to the 22-member assembly on Sunday, the hostages' 358th day in captivity.

Asked if the United States was likely to accept the conditions, he said, "Maybe not now that some more will be added, for the conditions may not be limited to the four conditions" of Khomeini.

Despite some optimistic predictions that the issue could be solved in a matter of days, Noori suggested the whole process may be time-consuming.

"It is unpredictable because opinions vary in the Majlis," or Parliament, he said.

He added it "won't take more than one week" for the first round of debate but that more rounds may be necessary if the full assembly refers the report back to committee for further study or changes.

Noori, who headed the special courts that tried suspected members of the underground anti-clerical group known as Forghan, said more time might be consumed while the U.S. government considers the conditions.

Iraqi tanks hit Ahwaz

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iran said its forces beat back more Iraqi attempts to penetrate into Abadan, but it admitted enemy gains in neighboring Khorramshahr and said Iraqi tank fire had reached Ahwaz, the capital of oil-rich Khuzistan Province 70 miles to the north.

Iran's official Pars news agency reported heavy fighting Wednesday to the east and south of Abadan, including a battle at the bridge over the Bahmanshir River, gateway to the refinery city on the disputed Shatt al-Arab waterway that flows into the Persian Gulf.

But it said the Iranians held off renewed tank assaults on the bridge, and Tehran Radio said: "The Iranian forces are ready to defend their trenches with the last drop of their blood."

It said Abadan came under fierce artillery and tank shelling again Wednesday evening.

Plans to construct alcohol plant told

LITTLEFIELD — Texaco Inc., a Fort Worth-based corporation, has announced plans to construct an alcohol plant capable of producing 20 million gallons here. Anticipated cost is $79 million.

The project is awaiting final approval for funding under the Urban Development Action Grant program. UDAG is administered by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Anticipated time of construction is 24 months.

The work force for the plant will approximate 250. Texaco officials say the plant will use about 8 million bushels of corn or the equivalent each year.

The end product in the plant, 199.5 proof completely denatured alcohol, would be mixed with gasoline to become gasohol and would be used in automobiles, farm implements and for irrigation pump fuel.

SCHOOL EXPLOSION — Injured children lie scattered on the ground after an explosion today at a state-run school in Ortuella, Spain. Rescue workers said 24 bodies were removed from the debris and many other children were still trapped.

Explosion rips through Spain school; many dead

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — A powerful explosion ripped through a grammar school in Spain's northern iron-mining region today, killing at least 64 children, officials said. More than 100 others were reported injured, many of them seriously.

Rescue workers dug frantically through the debris and grief-stricken parents carried home the bodies of their sons and daughters after the blast, blamed on gas, partially demolished the "Marcelino Ugarte" school in Ortuella, eight miles northwest of here.

Officials said many children were still trapped and cries could be heard. There were about 700 children aged 6 to 10 in the state-run school, comprised of three buildings. The explosion almost completely destroyed one of them, officials said.

The disaster, police said, was apparently due to the explosion of a propane gas tank in the basement of the demolished building. That blast caused the explosion of an adjacent boiler, police said.

The explosion's full impact hit a classroom where there were more than 40 children, officials said. All of them were believed killed, as well as their woman teacher.

All rescue services in Vizcaya Province, one of Spain's Basque provinces, were mobilized. More than 5,000 persons were working in the rescue operation. Bodies were being taken to two hospitals in Bilbao.

There were dramatic scenes as parents and relatives sought their children. More than 100 weeping women shouted the names of children who remained unaccounted for.

Both sides claim victory in Republic bank suit

DALLAS (AP) — A complex decision in a sweeping discrimination suit filed against the giant Republic National Bank of Dallas has lawyers for both sides claiming victory and predicting that issue will end up before the U.S. Supreme Court.

U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham, in a 277-page ruling, held Wednesday that the bank discriminated in its initial placement and promotion of all black and female hourly workers.

But the judge said he found no evidence of discrimination in dozens of other categories contained in the lawsuit that first went to court in 1973 and stemmed from a discrimination complaint filed in 1971.

"The most significant point is the finding that black and female non-exempt hourly employees were discriminated against with regard to initial job placement and promotion. That represents the bulk of the employees at Republic, and represents the bulk of the potential damages," an attorney for the plaintiffs said.

Higginbotham's ruling contained no mention of back pay or damages Republic could be forced to pay as a result of the decision. That issue would have to be settled in a separate hearing.

Bank spokesmen have declined to comment on the potential cost if Republic was ordered to pay back wages and salaries to 15,000 employees, former employees, and applicants represented in the suit.

But Republic Vice President Paul Stotts said the bank's "exposure" is less than the $15 million that would require Republic to give special notice to the Security and Exchange Commission.

"It's a split decision, but a lot of it goes for the bank. From a very quick reading, the initial impression is that we won on at least two-thirds of the issues in the case," said Stotts, who headed a task force that assisted lawyers for Republic.

DISCUSS PLANS — The Big Spring-Howard County United Way Campaign committee held its second meeting Monday at noon at Howard College to discuss plans and strategy for the drive. All workers, campaign captains, and division chairmen meet weekly to talk over the work completed and what work is still to be done. Dr. Charles Hays (foreground), president of United Way, exchanges ideas with four members of the committee. From the left, they are Doug Warren, chairman of the Out-of-Town division, Bert A. Harris, of the Boys Club; Phil Corbin and Larry Speck, both of the Boys Scouts.

Man convicted of trying to kill officer in gun fight loses appeal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld a 45-year sentence for a Lamar County man convicted of trying to kill policemen during a gun battle that started on a town square.

James Charles Bray was convicted of attempted capital murder in the July 21, 1976, incident.

Testimony showed Bray was carrying a briefcase as he walked in the town square at about 8 a.m. Policeman Steven Kinnard walked up to Bray, who pulled a gun from the briefcase and stuck it in the officer's face.

He ignored Kinnard's order to stop and walked away. A chase ensued and Bray opened fire. Policemen returned the fire.

The chase ended at Bray's house. After an hour, six officers and Bray's mother entered the house. Bray again began shooting, and the police shot back, wounding Bray in the buttocks.

The indictment charged Bray with trying to kill a police sergeant who entered the house.

Bray's appeal raised several points, including the trial court's refusal to appoint an investigator to make a physical inspection of the house.

The appeals court threw out all points of the appeals and upheld the conviction.

Weather Freeze warning in North Texas

By The Associated Press

A freeze warning was in effect for the Texas Panhandle and northern half of the South Plains for tonight after a cold front moved into the state, dropping temperatures over most of Texas.

Early morning lows were expected to dip into the mid 20s by dawn Friday in the Panhandle and were expected to be below freezing, but not quite as cold over central and western counties of the South Plains.

The National Weather Service warned persons in the freeze warning areas to take precautions to protect tender vegetation.

The front was expected to move through the state, dropping temperatures over most of Texas.

Sightline to provide answers

Dr. Marshall Cauley and Dr. Harold Smith, optometrists, have announced the addition of a new consumer education service called Sightline, the first in this community. This service enables consumers to call the Sightline number, 267-2020, and request to hear recorded messages on a variety of eye health topics.

According to Drs. Cauley and Smith, the Sightline service is an efficient, fast method to provide the public with the latest eye health information. The 14 professionally recorded messages provide accurate answers to the most commonly asked questions about eye care and eye health.

The Sightline number is in operation 24 hours a day. Callers need not identify themselves, which overcomes the reluctance or hesitation of many to make a phone call of a personal nature.

Titles of the tapes include: (1) What is an optometrist? (2) Your eye vision examination; (3) Cataracts; (4) Glaucoma; (5) Your child's vision and reading; (6) Lenses that change color; (7) Special glasses for special purposes; (8) When the time comes for bifocals; (9) Things to know about sunglasses; (10) What to know about eyewear quality; (11) Limitation of just one pair of glasses; (12) Enticement of "Glasses while-U-wait"; (13) Contact lenses — the modern marvel; (14) Those new invisible bifocals.

Bird lovers, northern due here tonight

Big Spring's first northern is due to arrive here sometime this evening. For that reason, the bird lovers of the city should bring in their hummingbird feeders.

The little birds will try to hang around as long as there is something for them to eat and Bebe McCasland, one of the area's best known nature lovers, says the birds should be on their way to warmer climes by now.

The birds will head south "if they get the message," Mrs. McCasland says.

Fidel Castro did what was needed

There are still people in this country who feel that Fidel Castro would have aligned Cuba with the West had not the United States given him the cold shoulder when he needed equipment and supplies to rid his nation of Batista.

America, let it be added, has a reputation for obstructing the people who would fight tyranny in their own country while taking the vipers to its breast.

Be that as it may, the United States should feel obligated to Senor Castro. Fidel took resolute action to stop the wave of skijacking which have been plaguing east coast airports in recent months.

ALL TOO many Cubans who professed to be homesick for their native land and who were disgruntled over the help they thought would be coming to them once they reached America were slipping aboard American airliners with what they claimed were bottles of gasoline and commandeering the planes. The results: A lot of planes were making unscheduled flights to Havana, loaded with passengers who wanted to go elsewhere.

Castro said, in effect, that enough was enough, that the pirates were breaking his idea of the law and would be arrested and prosecuted if they landed in his country. A couple of them did, as if they wanted to test Fidel. The fact that they were recent expellees, social undesirables whom Castro preferred to live elsewhere, made the Cuban premier's decision easier to make. What ever his reason, accept it for the results it got. The Cuban refugees quickly learned "you can't go home again."

CASTRO'S SELF-INTEREST in this case has performed a considerable service not only to the publicly grateful American government but to a vast majority of the world's nations whose leaders had become jittery over the high incidence of piracy. Those countries had long been anxious to find ways to terminate it.

As a matter of fact, some of the world's leading countries had participated in meetings where solutions to the problem were discussed. Such meetings focused on national obligations in prosecuting or extraditing offenders. Such rules would be effective only if everyone accepted the rules.

Cooperation — that's what makes good neighbors and lasting marriages. Maybe, just maybe, Castro is holding up the olive branch, hoping America will reciprocate with one gesture or another that will ease the cold war between the two countries.

If all would-be skijackers could be convinced that landing a seized aircraft anywhere on earth could have for them only one consequence — immediate extradition and immediate trial — the problem would disappear.

An utter waste

Around the rim

Don Woods

The special election Nov. 22 to name a person to fill the vacuum left by resigning State Rep. Mike Ezzell is more than a shameful waste of taxpayer money.

It's also a violation of common sense. I know it's corny, but it really is the principle of the thing.

The cost to the six counties involved is $6,000 approximately, a mere drop in the bucket if compared to federal spending of our blood, sweat and tears. But which of us would complain at picking up the $6,000 that is being thrown into the street?

BUT THE REAL problem with this special election is that it is so ridiculous it's almost funny. You've got one man, Larry Don Shaw, who spends his money to file so he can get on the ballot so he can tilt Quixote-like against a non-existent opponent. Then his inevitable win (you can bet on this one!) puts the clamps on an exciting six-week term in a legislature that is not even in session.

Shaw is obviously the only man for the job as he is inheriting it in January.

So why isn't there a provision in the election code that allows Gov. William Clements to appoint Shaw to the post, rather than put six counties through the ordeal of an election? Salaries alone will account for $500 just in Howard County.

Since no one else is running for the post, an appointment would be simple and costless.

I know, I know, Vernon's Election Code specifies a special election in the event of the resignation of a representative. That's fine in a situation where a man resigns while the legislature is in session.

OR EVEN IN A case where a representative resigns during the middle of his term. But I don't understand why an amendment hasn't been passed before to allow gubernatorial appointment of a legislator when he resigns in the last months of his term, when there is only one man who wants the job. It's ridiculous.

Where can we lay the blame for this debacle? Clements is to be credited for his inclination to adhere closely to a law which he did not make. Shaw should run for the unexpired term because it gives him experience and some seniority. It would be an even bigger mess if he hadn't run.

IT COULD BE said (by Monday morning quarterbacks) that those who passed the election code should have made it a little broader. But it's really one of those ridiculous situations where no one is really to blame but someone should do something about it.

Someone is. Scurry County is trying to combat the move through the courts, even though their fight will be more expensive than holding an election.

But it seems that they feel the same way I do about the principle of the thing. Maybe their efforts will cure the problem for other districts who face the problem later in the state.

If something is not right and it costs more to correct it than to go along with it, pay the larger amount to have it corrected. Like the guy on the Fram oil filter commercial says, "You can pay me now or you can pay me later."

It will be worth the cost later. The individual who had to pay may not be directly benefited, but the cropping up of the benefit in another county benefits the whole state.

What happens in one part of the state has to effect the whole, good or bad. It is the fact of interdependence.

On an optimistic note, it's great that there will be those who will go out and vote, even though there will be no choice on the ballot. But they show they appreciate the privilege of having a say in the selection of their office holders.

Nixon nixes Schultz

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — One test of just how much influence Richard M. Nixon really exerts in the Reagan camp will be whether Ronald Reagan, if elected, names industrialist George Schultz as secretary of state. Nixon, surprisingly, opposes his former Cabinet strongman for the post.

Schultz, now the California-based president of the Bechtel Corp., is the clear front-runner inside the Reagan camp for the State Department post. But Nixon has passed the word to Reagan operatives that he thinks it would be a bad selection indeed.

IRONICALLY, NIXON plucked economist Schultz from the obscurity of the University of Chicago in 1969 as his unexpected choice for secretary of labor. Schultz quickly rose to a dominating position in the Nixon administration, ending up as secretary of the treasury. Nixon's opposition to Schultz to become secretary of state is based on the belief he would be too friendly with foreign service professionals, always high on the former president's enemies list.

On orders from the top, the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has abruptly halted a "finished intelligence" report on the status of Soviet anti-ballistic missile (ABM) progress.

The hold order, issued personally by CIA director Stansfield Turner to last until after the Nov. 4 election, caused a quiet but unsuccessful revolt in the CIA. Turner's reason: The intelligence report is expected to show Soviet gains in the field of ABM technology and in the use of anti-aircraft radar for detecting incoming ballistic missiles, which violates SALT I. Turner and the White House feared that the all-but-completed assessment would lead to the press and damage President Carter on the defense issue.

SHACKLING BEGIN Heavy White House pressure is being applied to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin not to stage another Israeli invasion of Lebanon, but Jordan's new alliance with Iraq is making it much harder to restrain him.

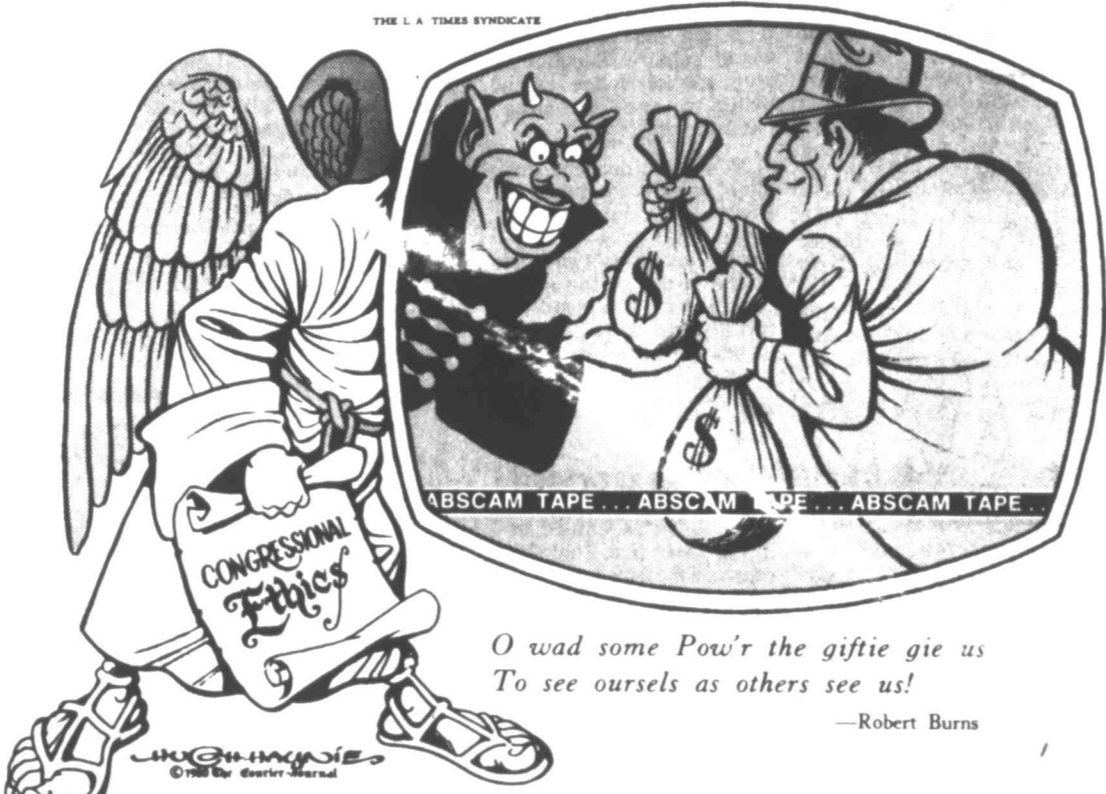

"If Jordan gets involved militarily in the Iraq-Iran war, Israel will move," a White House aide told us. That would put President Carter in a political bind. If he lets Israel get away with it, he will mobilize the entire Arab world against the U.S. If he forces Israel to withdraw as in the past, he will alienate the all-important Jewish vote just before the election.

The temptation for Begin to move now is extreme. Once the election is over, Begin knows that the U.S. would react harshly and publicly to any new incursion into South Lebanon.

CARTER'S KOCHPHOBIA Even though President Carter seems to have moved ahead in New York, his operatives in the state still regard Mayor Ed Koch of New York City with fear and loathing.

NO MEETING of Carter's New York campaign organization is complete without the president's men inveighing against Koch. They express loathing that the mayor's critical statements cost Carter the state's Democratic primary last spring and fear that he might yet deprive the president of the state's 41 electoral votes Nov. 4. The Carterites claim Koch has privately commented that Ronald Reagan in the Oval Office would be no disaster for the city.

A footnote: Fears of Koch aside, Carter's New York operatives consider the battle for the state all but over. They have canceled special media advertising campaigns aimed at disaffected Jewish voters on grounds the effort is no longer needed.

Doppler test checks blood flow

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My doctor wants me to go to a vascular laboratory for a Doppler study. I would like to know what I have to do in this test, and how it is done. — E.P.G.

Physics teachers explain the Doppler effect by using the example of a train whistle. If you stand on the platform of a train station, the pitch of a whistling locomotive drops suddenly just as the train passes you. Please don't ask me to explain why this happens. However, the same phenomenon can be used to detect the flow of blood in a vein.

A tiny beam of sound is directed to a point in a vein. It's roughly like a sonar, the echo device surface ships used to detect submarines in World War II. If the blood in a vein is not flowing, because of a clot, for example, no sound wave is reflected back to the Doppler machine. If the blood is flowing, like the train whistle, its sound wave pitch will change as it flows past the Doppler machine.

Your work is simple. You do nothing but show up. You rest comfortably during the examination, and feel nothing. All the work is done by the examiner. It's a wonderfully simple examination, but cannot be used in all cases to detect blood flow because some blood vessels are too hard to locate with the sonar beam. When it can be used, so much the better for the patient.

Dear Dr. Donohue: This is in reference to your response to Anonymous and her question dealing with herpes genitalis: What you pointed out was very true, but isn't it also true that herpes labialis can be contracted in the genital region via oral-genital sex? — W.T.

Yes, herpes labialis (herpes type 1) — of the lips — can be contracted in the genital area in that way. The booklet "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment," which you ask for, should be of further help. Other readers can obtain a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, asking for it by name. Enclose 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR MR. T.T.L. — You mention two medicines, each of which is used for gout, one to relieve an attack in process and the other a preventive medicine taken to avoid attacks. You need further guidance from your doctor as to dosage and frequency, etc.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Will you please send me information on pseudogout? My doctor let me read his big book, but I do not understand it. Is it something that will go away? Does one's diet affect it? I am taking Butazolidin Alka. — Mrs. J.J.

Gout and pseudogout are not the same illness, even though both attack joints. In common gout, uric acid crystals are formed in the joints; in pseudogout, calcium crystals are found there, and often in the tendons around the joints. The knee joint is most frequently involved in pseudogout. As with the other gout, an attack is sudden and subsides in from one to two weeks. The knee is most frequently involved. In regular gout the big toe is usually the site of the onset.

Diet restriction will not help in pseudogout. In fact, there is no way to prevent the deposition of the calcium in the joints. Sorry to say we have not advanced as far in drug treatment of pseudogout as we have with the uric acid type. During an attack of pseudogout, phenylbutazone (the generic name for your Butazolidin Alka) and indomethacin are used to control pain and inflammation. If there is continued pain between attacks, aspirin is often used.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have called the reference department in the library, but they can't help. My question is: Are all British doctors addressed as "Mr."? I just came across a crime novel in which a British non-surgeon doctor was addressed as "Dr." Please settle this for me. — M.M.

My friends from the scented isle tell me it is a tradition dating back to the time when barbers were surgeons. The term "Mr." was adopted to distinguish them from others in the profession, who were known as "Drs." British surgeons today, of course, are doctors, but they revert to the "Mr." out of respect to that tradition. They're all fine gentlemen.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: Most of the citizens of Big Spring and Howard County missed a rare opportunity recently when they didn't turn out to meet and listen to Sissy Dolvin, who spoke in the Cactus Room of Howard College.

I am sure that by this time nearly everyone knows Mrs. Dolvin is our President's aunt.

Aunt Sissy spoke for at least an hour on many issues in the presidential campaign and on Jimmy Carter. She told the audience again what most Americans already know, that Carter is an honest, hard-working, dedicated man who has a burning compassion for the good and the welfare of the American people, and a desire for human rights and peace among all the people throughout the world.

Everything that this lovely, charming and gracious lady said was the truth and was a delightful change from the gutter-type rhetoric and hogwash which Ronald Reagan and his Texas lieutenants have been dishing out to the people for the past four years.

The governing bodies of our city will surely be held responsible for giving Big Spring a black eye.

To the best of my knowledge, not one person showed up who represented the city council, the Chamber of Commerce or the school system to welcome our distinguished guest. On the other hand, a few days previously these same people turned out in numbers to greet a group of second string lieutenants of the Republican party.

Certainly no one would say that men such as John Connally and Bill Clements command or deserve more respect than does Sissy Dolvin.

A public statement of apology by these various groups to the citizens of Big Spring and to Mrs. Dolvin is surely in order.

Dear Editor: Every four years about this time we get all steamed up over voting — some say it's "our duty", others say "what god does it do?" Me? I say "thank God for everyone who sacrificed and died that I might have the RIGHT to vote!" That's why I do not take lightly any attempt to strip me of that right which is what Amendment 3 on the November ballot is designed to do. This Amendment as stated on the ballot looks innocent enough, but looking into the sections not printed on the ballot we find that we're delegating to an appointed bureaucracy all our rights and powers to local control of our taxing authorities. We would no longer have the RIGHT to vote on the ones to assess our County taxes or to vote on the ones to be our Board of Equalization.

The American Revolution was sparked by "taxation without representation" and those patriots fought a war to secure our right to be represented by our direct votes. If we let this Amendment pass we will immediately have "taxation without representation" once again because our rights will be taken away and given to an appointed board.

If you think about it a minute or less there will be no way you could vote for this Amendment because our Constitution would be amended to read, in essence, "we agree that we no longer want any local control over taxes or taxing authorities, and we no longer care about our right to vote — just turn it over to an appointed board and we'll do what they decree from now on." No! We can trust no one, outside of our God, with that much power and no restraints!

Spread the word and go vote against Amendment 3 HJR98 Nov. 4.

Mrs. Glen (Peg) Ball Strawn, Tex.

Watergate odor

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department's stalling, shifting and stonewalling in the investigation of a $30 million Libyan bribery plot give off the familiar whiff of a Watergate.

The plot was cooked up by fugitive financier Robert Vesco, who conspired with henchmen of Libyan dictator Muammar Qaddafi. Stripped to its essentials, the scheme involved paying off Democratic Party bigshots with Libyan petrodollars to obtain the release of U.S.-made transport planes that had been embargoed by the State Department.

ONLY TWO PLANES were delivered. But details of the conspiracy, fed to the U.S. attorney's office in New York by an undercover informant and Vesco associate, provided evidence that cried out for a thorough investigation. My associate Indy Badwar has reviewed this evidence, including transcripts of taped telephone conversations and investigators' notes. It is shocking.

There were clear indications that the investigation could have borne bitter fruit for the Carter administration and it was allowed to die on the vine.

The Justice Department's handling of the case raises some disturbing questions:

— Why was the investigation called off by higher-ups in Washington? The $35,000 requested by the New York investigators to keep digging was a mere pittance compared, for example, to the hundreds of thousands the Justice Department was willing to invest in the Vesco caper. Did the direction of the Vesco probe — pointing to the White House instead of Capitol Hill — have anything to do with the decision?

— Why has Philip Heymann, head of Justice's criminal division, suppressed documents relating to the investigation? In response to inquiries from the Senate Judiciary Committee, he has stonewalled in the classic Watergate manner. Heymann's explanation for keeping the lid on is that he must protect the grand jury investigation. This is preposterous; the U.S. attorney's investigation was virtually extinguished by the refusal of funding. Is it possible that Heymann is using the grand jury secrecy requirement as a shield to conceal, rather than reveal, the scandal?

— WHY HAS THE Justice Department, which has had such great success convicting members of Congress in a phony influence-peddling scam, proved unable to obtain a single indictment in the genuine, unsolicited attempt at bribery in the Libyan case? Yet the Libscam case has been under investigation since February 1979.

— Why did Justice Department bigwigs reject the advice of their Public Integrity Section that a Watergate-style special prosecutor be named to get to the bottom of the affair? When Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., repeatedly pressed for an answer to this question, Heymann responded with phrases worthy of a Nixon-era apparatchik stonewalling Watergate queries: "Because I think it's a matter of executive privilege," he said. He added that the attorney general "ought to enjoy the lonely splendor and pain of calling special prosecutor matters himself and should not be subjected to ... challenge."

— Why has the Justice Department — as one source close to the case reported — threatened the star informant in the Libyan scheme with a 77-count indictment if he testifies about his role in the undercover investigation? Like the mastermind of the Abscam caper, the government's inside source in the Libyan conspiracy, Vesco associate James Feeney, is a convicted con man. When he was convicted recently of bank fraud in Denver, Feeney tried to present evidence at his pre-sentencing hearing to show how he had cooperated with the investigation of the Libyan matter.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently I had a bad accident, but escaped with hardly a scratch. Do you think God was trying to tell me something through this event? — F.A.

DEAR F.A.: Yes, God may certainly want to use this event to teach you some things about life and about your relationship to God. In fact, I know many people who have had some serious problem — an accident, an illness, the death of a loved one — and God has used that event to bring them closer to himself. Tragically, however, many other people turn their backs on God and never learn what he may want to teach them through such a situation.

What is it God wants to teach you? I'm not sure what all his reasons are, but let me suggest some possible reasons. For example, God may want to teach you about the shortness of life, and our need to live for him. We often think that life will continue indefinitely and that we need not worry about death. But sometimes God may allow something to happen to us (or to someone we know) to show us how fragile and short life really is. The Bible says, "Man born of woman is of few days and full of trouble. He springs up like a flower and withers away; like a fleeting shadow, he does not endure" (Job 14:1-2). That means we should live for God now, and commit our lives to Christ now, while there is still time. There is no greater or higher purpose in life than to live for Christ. Have you ever committed your life to Jesus Christ, asking him to come into your life and save you, and telling him that you want to turn your life over to him and do his will?

Tax collections reflect auto industry's woes

Gross collections from motor vehicle sales and use taxes in Howard County for the period from Sept. 1, 1979, to Aug. 31, 1980, amounted to $1,261,061.48, according to a report issued by the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock recently.

Bullock said the automobile industry's woes brought about by sagging sales during the past year are reflected in the state's income from the motor vehicle sales tax.

The four percent motor vehicle tax levied on the sale of cars, trucks, motorcycles and mobile homes amounted to $439.4 million, according to Bullock. This, he added, was $3.7 million less than was collected during the previous one-year period.

One of those counties which showed an increase was Harris County, invariably the number one contributor of motor vehicle sales tax. During fiscal year 1980, Harris collected more than $93.6 million, up from $93.1 million collected the previous year.

Martin County collected $265,841.31 last fiscal year. Mitchell County's collections amounted to $216,072.32. Dawson's total amounted to $631,562.21. Collections in Glasscock County came to $31,853.29. Borden County reported collections of $18,705.66.

Motor vehicle sales taxes are collected by county tax assessor-collectors and the county retains five percent of the amount. The rest is sent to the state. Howard County's sale of the tax amounts to $63,052.57.

Bond holders may face tax

NEW YORK (AP) — Be careful, or those old Series E government bonds you bought during World War Two might cost you a pile of taxes, conceivably even more than the face value of the bonds.

What it amounts to is that your contribution to the war effort in 1941 might be your tax liability in 1981. No need to rush things, because you have at least until 1981 to decide what to do, but be forewarned.

The situation develops because the U.S. Treasury has indicated it plans to retire the bonds when they reach age 40, instead of extending their maturities again as it has done several times in the past.

The decision means Uncle Sam will pay bondholders the money he owes them, that is, face value and accrued interest, and many bondholders then will repay Uncle Sam the taxes they owe on the interest.

For example, a $1,000 bond bought in 1941 for $750 has a value today of about $3,000, and the $2,250 difference between the purchase price and the current value could be taxable as ordinary interest income.

Not everyone will face a tax liability, since some bondbuyers long ago chose to pay annual taxes on the interest as it was earned.

Most buyers, however, accepted the option of deferring tax payments for the life of the bonds. That life is now coming to a close, and so the tax deferrers are facing a day of reckoning, albeit with a choice.

The choice is to reinvest proceeds from the Series E bonds in Series HH bonds, which continues the process of deferring tax payments until a later date, when the owner might be retired and in a lower tax bracket.

There are, however, at least two big differences between Series HH and the popular Series E bonds — known as war bonds in the early 1940s and savings bonds since then.

1. Unlike Series E bonds, which were sold at a discount from face value — remember, a $25 bond sold for $18.75 — Series HH bonds are sold at face value and earn semiannual interest payments, paid by check.
2. Taxes must be paid each year on the interest earned on Series HH. Note, however, that the reinvested funds themselves remain sheltered, at least for the 10-year life of the Series HH bonds.

The first E bonds to reach the 40-year retirement date will be those issued during May 1941, which suggests that holders have until next spring to decide whether to bite the bullet or continue deferrals.

Which will it be: To face the sting of outrageous tax payments now? Or take shelter in the new Series HH bonds, and thus delay again the day of reckoning.

Bondholders, it's your choice.

Acker gives up county attorney job

MIDLAND — Midland is losing its county attorney. He is Leslie Acker, who has been in office since 1976.

The Midland county commissioners have named Robert Rendall to fill out the remaining two months of Acker's term.

Acker, 36, said he would become affiliated with Lone Star Abstract Co., as its closing attorney. Acker's resignation becomes effective Oct. 31.

Acker was due to be succeeded in January by Rendall, a Republican, who defeated another GOP candidate, Richard Moore, in the primary election last May 3. Rendall is unopposed in the general election.

Nancy Reagan claims Carter 'very vicious'

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP) — When Nancy Reagan is angry, she takes long baths where she carries on imaginary conversations with her husband's critics.

"I'm always terrific in the tub," she said. "I always say just the right words in just the right way, and they never talk back."

With Election Day less than two weeks away, the wife of Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan presumably has reason for many baths. She is ripping mad, she says, because President Carter has been attacking her husband as a "very vicious level."

"I think campaigns are character revealing," Mrs. Reagan said. "You reveal yourself in how you choose to fight your battles. . . . I deeply, deeply resent Mr. Carter's attempts to paint my husband as someone he is not."

The attacks, she said in an Associated Press interview, are "on a very unkind, very vicious level."

Mrs. Reagan's manner was conrolled as she sat in a salmon-colored den at Wexford, the Reagan's rented house that Jacqueline Kennedy designed as a family retreat when John Kennedy was president.

Mrs. Reagan described Carter's remark this week that Reagan is advocating measures that could move the nation closer to nuclear war as "a terrible thing for anyone to say."

She paused, regaining control of her shaky voice: "In this day or age, what a war would mean is so devastating and so frightening that it's a terrible, terrible thing to say. . . . I have no respect for anyone who does that."

Mrs. Reagan also said she wishes the campaign were over, that if they lose "it won't be the end of our lives" and that she has mixed feelings about wanting her husband to be president.

"On one hand, you think of the life you had before and the life you could have with your husband and children," she said. "Certainly it would be calmer and more peaceful. But on the other hand, I feel more strongly about this election than I have about any of the others. . . . Ronnie has all the qualities of leading that we need now."

Mrs. Reagan described herself as a superstitious woman who cries easily, and worries constantly "about just about everything."

She said she doesn't smoke, enjoys an occasional vodka and orange juice and says "damn" once in a while, but nothing stronger.

To get her mind off the campaign, she loses herself in the latest best sellers, such as William Styron's "Sophie's Choice" and Barbara Goldsmith's story of Gloria Vanderbilt, "Little Gloria . . . Happy At Last."

Perfectly tailored, precisely coiffed, Nancy Reagan at 56 is a disciplined woman, yet sentimental: "I have every letter Ron ever wrote me and every picture my children ever drew."

Mrs. Reagan said she is a traditionalist, avidly opposed to legalizing marijuana, abortion "unless the mother's life is endangered" and unmarried living together: "They're just playing house."

Voters in Middletown not concerned with nuclear politics

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) — A runaway nuclear reactor terrified this town 19 months ago, but fears have faded and most locals have other things on their minds as the national election approaches.

"The outside world thinks that we should be thinking about nuclear energy. But we living here think the big thing is the economy," says Mayor Robert Reid.

"We have the same problems that other communities have, except for that one little thing sitting down there that gives us a unique position."

That "one little thing" is the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant. Ever since the March 28, 1979, accident, radioactive water and other contaminated waste, including the reactor core, have been festering at the site.

But this middle-class, conservative community considers itself "back to normal." The throngs of reporters and rented cars have disappeared. A single elderly volunteer directs rush hour traffic on Union Street, the main avenue lined with elaborate Victorian houses.

People quietly pursue their jobs at government installations and private firms: Hershey Foods, Bethlehem Steel, the Mechanicsburg Navy Depot, the New Cumberland and Letterkenny army depots and the state capitol in nearby Harrisburg.

The accident's primary legacy seems to be what Reid gently labels "mixed feelings" towards nuclear power and the plant operator, the Metropolitan Edison Co.

The crisis spawned a band of fervent anti-nuclear activists who participate religiously in hearings on utility rates, cleanup activities and the future of an undamaged reactor at the plant site.

As she folded clothes at a local Laundromat, Alice Duncan, a 32-year-old Penn State student, said the accident and its continuing aftermath had added stress to her life. But when she decides for whom she will vote, she said, "Nuclear power will be part of it—but not the whole package."

One man, a 25-year government employee who works with local emergency planners, said the accident has made people more aware of nuclear energy's potential dangers. "but I don't believe that will have anything to do with the presidential election."

The Republican mayor, concerned about local health and welfare, asked President Carter this month for federal aid to decontaminate the plant. But he says he intends to vote for GOP hopeful Ronald Reagan.

Both major party candidates have supported nuclear energy, and both have stressed the need for careful adherence to safety regulations. Carter has said he favors other energy sources, especially solar power.

"I know people who are anti-nuclear, and they have told me they are going to vote for Reagan, who is more or less pro-nuclear," he added. "The economy is uppermost in their minds. First of all they want to be sure they have jobs and can support their families."

Texans on watch for vote fraud

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas elections are riddled with vote finagling and plots to steal elections, according to witnesses at a hearing convened by several Mexican-American organizations.

"I am fully aware that abuses, irregularities and illegalities have existed and I have every reason to suspect that they continue to exist," Secretary of State George Strake said Wednesday.

George Korbel, a San Antonio attorney who serves on a Federal Election Commission panel, offered a list of how-to's for election thieves.

Korbel and Strake said the lack of state and federal prosecution of vote fraud has contributed to the problem.

"Little if anything has been done to deal with even blatant election fraud, and this includes both the state and federal authorities with jurisdiction to handle the matters," Korbel said.

Officials from the secretary of state's office agreed with the Hispanic leaders that Attorney General Mark White has a poor record on election fraud matters.

"The record speaks for itself," said Doug Caddy, director of the elections division for the secretary of state. "There just was nothing being done to pursue these violations. From the attorney general on down you have a record of failure to prosecute."

Flavorful foods for fall

Have your pumpkin and eat it too

The colorful appeal of pumpkins in the fall is hard to resist. One can't help bringing home two or three inexpensive pumpkins to decorate the doorstep or brighten Halloween windows.

But pumpkins are more than just an attractive display. "They are a nourishing vegetable," reports Tina Engleman, Director of Educational Services for Tupperware, "with 1 cup of pumpkin puree supplying 1 1/2 times the Recommended Daily Allowance for vitamin A. They're very tasty, as the popularity of pumpkin pie proves, and easy to prepare for cooking."

Your Halloween pumpkin should be put to delicious use, according to Mrs. Engleman, by cooking the flesh down to pulp. "Pack the pulp into 1- or 2-cup plastic storage containers with seals," she suggests, "and it will keep either for a few days in the refrigerator or, looking ahead to when pumpkins are no longer available, the pulp may also be frozen. It will still retain its delightfully fresh flavor, for this vegetable freezes especially well."

To obtain a pumpkin puree, you can bake the pumpkin by cutting in half crosswise, removing seeds and strings, placing cut side down on a shallow baking pan and baking in a 325 degree oven at least one hour or until very tender. Scrape pulp from shell and put it through a food mill.

Or, you can boil the pumpkin. Remove seeds and fibers, cut into large chunks and remove the rind. Place chunks in a saucepan with small amount of water, cover and boil slowly about 30 minutes or until tender. Drain, mash, strain for 30 minutes to remove excess liquid.

The seeds make delicious snacks when toasted and

Dedication of Avenue of Flags to be solemnized Nov. 11 at VAMC

Mrs. E.L. Perkins, 803 E. 12th St., hosted the meeting for the Gold Star Mothers on the morning of Oct. 16.

Mrs. S.R. Nobles, president, presided and opened the meeting according to the ritual.

Mrs. Herbert Smith, hospital representative, reported that coffee and cake were served to approximately 50 veterans Oct. 15 at the Veterans Administration Medical Center. She was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. A.W. Moody.

It was announced that a Dedication of the Avenue of Flags will be held on Nov. 11, Veterans Day, at the VAMC. Immediately preceding this ceremony a wreath will be placed at the War Memorial on the Howard County Courthouse lawn.

A letter of appreciation was read from Joseph Rouleau, chief of volunteers at the VAMC, for the continued services rendered to the Veterans.

The Gold Star Mothers will decorate the 6th floor, the Nursing Care Unit, of the VAMC for the Christmas holidays, the first week in December.

Mrs. Truett Thomas reported on her trip to Washington, D.C., on Gold Star Mothers Day, Sept. 28, at which time she attended an annual Observance Program at the Arlington National Cemetery. Following this service a wreath was placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier by the National President, Mrs. Katherine Mannion.

The Community Service report showed eight vases of flowers and 25 trays of food given to friends and shut-ins, also six memorials and $55 in donations to worthy charities.

The November meeting will be the morning of Nov. 20, in the home of Mrs. Thomas, 1608 Osage.

Dear Abby

Memory Disease Can't Be Forgotten

DEAR ABBY: About two years ago I began to notice a change in my husband. He became increasingly forgetful and easily confused even though he was only 50. He had a physical checkup and was found to be in excellent health, but his memory got so bad it wasn't safe to let him drive anymore. Then he had to quit work.

We saw several doctors before one finally seemed familiar with my husband's condition. He told us he had Alzheimer's disease, for which there is no known cure. Alzheimer's disease occurs in people as young as 40 and 50 as well as in some older people.

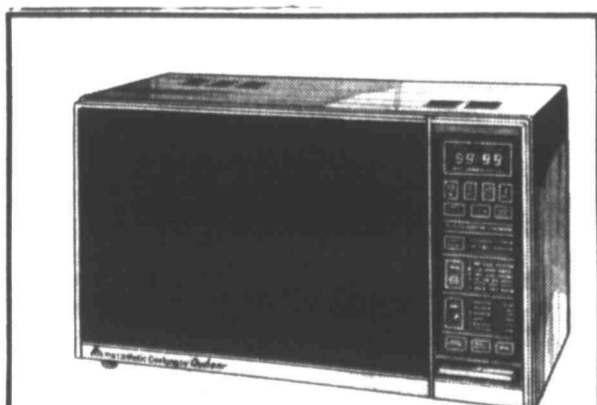

Abby, my husband is too young for a nursing home, and besides, he is completely healthy otherwise — only his mind is affected.

I fear for his safety and have to watch him every minute. For a while he seems perfectly normal, then he becomes dependent and forgetful.

Have you ever heard of Alzheimer's disease? I feel so helpless. How do others cope with this affliction?
DESPERATE IN N.Y.

DEAR DESPERATE: You are not alone. Approximately one million people in the U.S. suffer from Alzheimer's disease. There are now groups of concerned friends and relatives who have banded together to provide support, develop and disseminate helpful information, and encourage much needed research on Alzheimer's disease.

Send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope to Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, 32 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10004 for up-to-date information. It's free.

The frost isn't on the pumpkin yet

Clayton says he may stay in speaker's race

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Billy Clayton said all along he would stay in the 1981 speaker's race if he were cleared of Brilab corruption charges before the "frost was on the pumpkin."

"My plans have not changed. The frost is not on the pumpkin yet," the speaker said in a telephone interview from Houston after his acquittal Wednesday night.

But Clayton was less emphatic than he might have been and ducked repeatedly when asked if he could simply say the words, "I am a candidate" for an unprecedented fourth term.

Aides said he planned to spend time consulting fellow House members and other advisors, and the unspoken message was Clayton needs to size up his support.

Also hedging was Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, who had captured conservative support — including that of Gov. Bill Clements — as Clayton's successor should Clayton be convicted.

Lewis would not immediately declare his withdrawal from the race, saying: "I think it would be unfair to make any comment on it at this time."

"I think probably Gib and I need to talk," Clayton said.

A variety of scenarios have been played out in Capitol conversations about what might happen should Clayton be found innocent.

In one, Clayton decides to bow out after numerous members tell him, "Billy, I'm for you. But even though the jury acquitted you, those tapes looked bad to my folks. If I vote for you, I'm through as far as they're concerned."

But in another scenario, Clayton calls in all his chits for past favors, insists on a face-saving fourth term, tells House members he wants nothing beyond that and agrees to new limits on his power as Speaker.

The House, in turn, welcomes a breather from the hot and heavy race between Lewis and Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas. Some legislators, uncomfortable with Lewis' lobby ties and Bryant's intensity, see two more years of Clayton as an opportunity for new choices to emerge if Clayton is re-elected speaker.

Former Rep. Mike Mill-

sap, Lewis' campaign manager, said Clayton's style would be to announce his re-entry into the speaker's race only if he could prove to the world he already had it won.

"If Bill Clayton comes out and says, 'I am a candidate for speaker,' he will do so by laying out 90 to 100 names of pledged supporters," Millsap said. The 150 House members elect their speaker by majority vote on the first day of the legislative session in January.

Despite Lewis' hedging, Millsap said he would not be a candidate against Clayton "under any foreseeable circumstances." The key word seemed to be "foreseeable."

Bryant issued a statement saying he was "relieved" for Clayton and his family but believed the Brilab case demonstrated the need for reforms to trim the power of the speakership.

The Legislature needs to "permanently eliminate the impression that the way to change public policy is simply to visit the speaker's office," Bryant said.

Rusty Kelley, Clayton's

executive assistant and an undicted co-conspirator, said that partly as a result of Brilab, Clayton was interested in creation of an ethics commission that would issue guidelines of "do's and don'ts" for legislators.

"He is very serious about it," Kelley said.

Kelley said he would recommend that Clayton make himself less accessible to lobbyists by following a daily calendar of appointments "so we can talk about who he is going to see before he sees them."

Joseph Hauser, the FBI's chief witness, came to see Clayton without warning and left after giving Clayton $5,000 which Kelley kept in his credenza for more than three months.

Kelley also spoke of installing closed circuit television "so we can see who is waiting" in Clayton's anteroom.

Kelley, whose involvement in Brilab cost him over $20,000 in legal fees and travel expenses, said he felt he as well as Clayton was vindicated by the verdict.

Gov. Bill Clements, who has had a friendly working relationship with Clayton, welcomed the verdict.

"I am delighted that he came out of it with an acquittal. I just can't tell you how pleased I am with that verdict. I think it is marvelous," Clements said.

Comptroller Bob Bullock, two of whose former employees, Randall "Buck" Wood and Donald Ray, were acquitted with Clayton, also hailed the verdict.

"They were put through this ordeal by the federal government, our government, and it was wrong from the start. These three persons were snared into this sham because they were led to believe they could do something good for the state employees of Texas," Bullock said.

Juror portrays Clayton as honest man fighting world full of crooks

HOUSTON (AP) — One of the jurors who acquitted Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton in the Texas Brilab trial portrayed the veteran politician as an honest man fighting for his career against a world of crooks.

"It was like two worlds fighting, with Clayton in the honest world and I think Joseph Hauser is one of the finest crooks in the business," said Jimmy Haynes, 24, of LaPorte. "I feel like a lot of people put a lot of different words in Clayton's mouth."

Clayton was accused of taking $5,000 to exert his influence in reopening bids for a multi-million dollar state employee health insurance contract. Hauser, an FBI informant, arranged the meeting where the money was handed to Clayton.

Haynes was part of a seven woman-five man jury that deliberated eight hours before finding Clayton and Austin attorneys Donald Ray and Randall Wood innocent of wire fraud, conspiracy, extortion, and racketeering, following a six-week federal trial.

"I'm glad the decision has been made," Haynes said. "The tapes were difficult and I don't think the government presented a concise, good case."

When asked if any one item swayed jurors to vote in favor of Clayton's innocence, Haynes had a quick answer.

"Chip Holt, of the Secretary of State office," he said.

Holt, an election code expert, testified earlier that Clayton was not required to return any political contribution that he would not use. Under cross-examination, Holt said prosecutors had asked him to change his testimony.

Clayton had planned to seek a fourth term as Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and once indicated he would like to run for governor in 1982. But Wednesday night, he would not say if he planned to stay in the race for speaker.

Clayton's political future hung in the balance during the trial. And though he voted to acquit Clayton, jury foreman Tye Holman said he was not certain he could support Clayton in a gubernatorial race.

"I don't know if I could support him or not," Holman said Wednesday. "I think he's suffered a lot of damage from this. What I'm trying to say is, I don't like to see people make a futile effort."

However, Holman added that he "had no trouble" accepting Clayton as an elected official.

Another juror, Mary Lou Lesseraux, said she would have no problem throwing her support behind Clayton should he decide to run for governor.

$600,000 invasion of privacy suit nixed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today rejected a $600,000 invasion of privacy suit brought by an Arkansas family against WFAA-TV in Dallas.

The Ivan C. Justice family sued the station over a televised report regarding the death of their son, Ivan M. Justice, whose body was found in a field in Northwest Dallas County in June 1977.

Justice and his employer, Richard Lamport, both whom had been abducted, died from numerous gunshot wounds.

In July 1977, according to court records, Dennis Trout of WFAA said in a newscast, "Investigators are quoted as saying that they believe the two had a homosexual relationship."

Mr. and Mrs. Justice and their daughter, Marty, said the statement was without basis in fact and was false. They contended it was made only to give the broadcast a "shocking" and "sensational" twist.

In addition to $600,000, the family sought a retraction and apology broadcast at the same hour of the day and for the same length of time as the original broadcast.

The trial court granted summary judgment for the station and Trout.

The 5th Court of Civil Appeals at Dallas affirmed the ruling, stating that in Texas relatives cannot collect damages for the invasion of privacy of a deceased.

The appeals court said a 1979 case held that the right for invasion of privacy is limited to persons "about whom facts have been wrongfully published."

The Supreme Court said it could find no reversible error in the lower court rulings.

Can amendment relieve clogged appeals court

By JIM DAVIS
Harris-Texas Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Each Wednesday about 9 a.m. State Capitol reporters gather around a table outside the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals office.

That's when a clerk brings out the stack of copies of the court's written opinions for the week. And it's usually quite a stack.

The opinions run from half-page quickies saying there were no real issues to be considered to lengthy dissertations on numerous complex questions raised by defendants.

On one recent Wednesday, there were 29 opinions for a week that was judged by the happy reporters to be a light one — only nine cases or so for each of the three three-judge panels.

That may not seem like much until you consider how much research must go into each case. The judges do have clerks to help, of course, but they must do much of the work themselves.

No wonder a criminal case can take more than a year from the time of conviction until action by the appeals court.

Until a couple of years ago things were even worse. Only three justices had to handle all criminal appeals. The legislature finally made possible an expansion to nine justices and allowed them to meet in three-judge panels. But much of the relief that innovation offered has been nullified by the growing number of appeals.

The Texas Judicial Council reports that the court disposed of 2,307 cases in 1979 yet faced a growing backlog thanks to 3,166 appeals filed during the year.

After finding that the expansion was no cure-all for the criminal appeals problems, the legislature in 1979 approved a constitutional amendment that supporters think will help some more.

The proposal — No. 4 of nine possible amendments voters will consider on the Nov. 4 ballot — would permit an intermediate system of criminal appeals.

The 14 civil appeals courts would be able to consider appeals of criminal cases instead of only civil actions.

Strangely, the two types of appeals are handled differently in Texas. If you're unhappy with a civil case decision as a final court, you appeal through an intermediate court to the Supreme Court and then possibly to the Supreme Court. But an unhappy defendant in a criminal case appeals directly to the Austin court.

Expanding the jurisdiction of the intermediate courts would ease the burden of the Criminal Appeals Court without adding a new, costly criminal appeals system, proponents argue.

Opposition appears centered in the ranks of lawyers who fear that the quality of the civil justice system will be hurt by the change.

A more important question is whether placing another appeals layer into the criminal justice process will solve the obvious existing problems.

Might not the proposal lengthen the delay in getting a final judgment in a criminal case to appeal? Might not the intermediate courts in the urban areas where most criminal cases

Inflation erodes most of income gain in America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Median income of American families rose by 10 percent last year, but inflation eroded all but a fraction of the gain, the Census Bureau said today.

The median family income in 1979, compared to 1978, was $17,540, the bureau said. But inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, rose by 10.5 percent, the bureau said.

The number of families with incomes below $12,500 a year and 65.4 percent showed incomes of less than $25,000.

Analysts said the growth of median income was affected by an increase from 1970 to 1979 — from 11 percent to 15 percent — in the proportion of families headed by a woman with no husband present. Another factor was an increase, from 28 percent to 30 percent, in the number of families headed by persons under the age of 35.

inflation left the median family with only 6.7 percent more purchasing power over the decade.

The Census Bureau said 28.7 percent of families had incomes below $12,500 a year and 65.4 percent showed incomes of less than $25,000.

More than 25 million

Americans — 11.6 percent of the population — were below the poverty level in 1979. The number living in poverty, defined as below $7,412 for a non-farm family of four, rose slightly from 1978.

The number of poor elderly persons living in poverty rose from 3.2 million in 1978 to 3.6 million last year.

The report said there were no significant changes in 1979 in the relative incomes of white, black or Spanish-origin families. Whites had a median income of $20,520; blacks, $11,650, and Spanish-origin families, $14,320.

A typical black family had 57 percent of the income of white families, the bureau said.

PETEY ON THE SPOT — A foul pop from Kansas City batter Frank White is deflected by Philadelphia catcher Bob Boone (right), but the Phillies hustling first baseman, Pete Rose (14) came in to catch the ball and record a big out in the ninth inning of Tuesday night's World Series clincher for the Phillies.

While Brett vows Royal return

Phillies finally end choker status

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies will never be the same. They need never again wear the label "chokers" because, finally, they wear the label "World Champions."

"For a long time we carried that label as chokers," Phillis shortstop Larry Bowa complained. "People said we choked, but there wasn't a guy on this team that choked."

"All of the problems we had were the same as everybody else, the same problems that Kansas City had, the same problems every team has," Bowa said. "With this team, though, everything is magnified."

The Phillies were born in 1883, one of baseball's original franchises. Until 1960, they had been in only two World Series, 1915 and 1950, but they had never won. In 1941, the Phillies lost 111 games for a .279 winning percentage. In 1961, they set a major league record by losing 23 consecutive games.

In 1980, however, all those years were forgotten — as Bowa said, "We had some ghosts to put to sleep" — and with their 4-1 victory Tuesday night over Kansas City in Game Six, the Phillies claimed their first World Series title.

"Frankly, I thought it was going to be the same old thing until August," Bowa said. "I'm the first to admit, we didn't play good baseball, offensively or defensively."

In August, the Phillies finally overtook the Montreal Expos and Pittsburgh Pirates, who had exchanged the National League's East Division lead most of the season. The Phillies clinched the pennant in their last series of the season in Montreal.

"They talked about the smug, overpaid Phillies," Mike Schmidt, the Series' Most Valuable Player, said. "They said the Phillies don't put out. I just hope now that we get the credit as a team we deserve.

"I want to make a point. People claimed this was a dull World Series," Schmidt said. "Well, maybe after our playoff series with Houston, it seemed like it, but you can't see better baseball in a World Series, better pitching or hitting. There was no sloppy baseball in this Series, and anybody who says this was a dull World Series ought to have his head examined."

On Wednesday, the city of Philadelphia turned out en masse to pay homage to their Phillies. The team and Manager Dallas Green were toasted in a parade along Broad Street from Center City to Veteran's Stadium. Many fans had stayed up all night, cheering in the streets and savoring that moment of glory they had awaited for so long.

"So many people in this organization have worked very hard and waited so long," Green said. "That includes scouts, front office people and everybody connected with the organization."

"I've been a Phillie for 25 years, and I know what a special feeling it is. We've all waited a long time for this," said Green, who took over as Phillis manager last summer from Danny Ozark. "It finally came down to the players getting together and grinding it out."

Almost forgotten in the revelry over Philadelphia's victory were the obstacles the Royals had overcome to get to the Series.

In their 12 years in Kansas City, the Royals had never made the Fall Finale, losing three consecutive years to the New York Yankees in the

"The World Series is something I'll tell my grand-children about," he said. "I won't tell them I played in a playoff. When they ask who won the World Series, I'll tell them we lost the first one, but we won the second."

Brett was asked if the fans of Kansas City would be disappointed.

"Sure, they're disappointed," he said, "but I think when we beat the Yankees, it was like winning the World Series for our town."

"Feelings are hard to express," Royals All-Star George Brett said. "I can forget losing in the playoffs, but I will never forget this. Losing the playoffs already is forgotten."

In Kingdome by 107-102

Mavs stun Sonics

SEATTLE (AP) — While Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta was reveling in his expansion team's second victory ever and its first on the road, his counterpart seemed to be asking, "Where am I?"

"We played like we were the visitors," said Seattle SuperSonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "We played with no enthusiasm. When that happens, nothing happens on the floor."

The Sonics returned home Wednesday night after a five-game road swing and fell to the Mavericks 107-102. Seattle, which was 33-8 in the Kingdome last season, has lost both its home games this year.

Motta, who took his former club, the Washington Bullets, into the National Basketball Association finals against Seattle in 1978 and 1979, said the Sonics road swing was a factor.

"I love to play a team that has been on the road because I consider a first home game almost like a road game," he said. "I think that affected Seattle."

But Motta saved some of the credit for his Mavericks who never trailed in the game and led by as much as 19 points, at 79-50 with 4:09 to go in the third quarter.

"We had some fine individual performances — Richard Washington's surge in the third quarter was good because we were just trading baskets for a while."

Pistons set embarrassing NBA losing record

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia 76ers beat the Detroit Pistons — and lost a record in the process.

"I'm glad their streak didn't end against us," said Philadelphia Coach Bill Cunningham after his team's 94-93 triumph Wednesday night extended the Pistons' losing string to a National Basketball Association record of 21.

The Pistons' losses, 14 at the end of last season and seven so far this year, wiped out Philadelphia's dubious mark of 20 set in the 1972-73 campaign.

"They will just have to learn to win games like this, the way we have," added Cunningham.

Detroit Coach Scotty Robertson was not so sure that this year's team deserved to be saddled with the negative mark, considering that it has been spread over two seasons. "I feel bad for my guys," he said. "Many of my guys didn't have anything to do with last year."

Added Robertson: "We may be 0-7 so far, but we're going to continue to be positive; we're going to play hard every night."

Elsewhere in the Nba, Boston whipped New Jersey 108-104; Milwaukee trimmed Indiana 119-105; Washington stopped Cleveland 109-96 and Dallas beat Seattle 107-102.

Julius Erving's 26 points led the 76ers over the Pistons. Detroit, with Terry Tyler contributing eight early points, grabbed a 27-22 lead at the end of the first quarter. But the 76ers got nine second-quarter points from Darryl Dawkins and led 49-43 at the half.

Larry Bird scored a game-high 29 points and Rick Robey contributed eight key points in the final period to cement Boston's victory over New Jersey. Robey led a late rally during which the Celtics broke a 93-93 tie to go ahead, 106-98.

The Nets blew two chances to tie the game in the final minute, when they were trailing by just two points.

Bucks 119, Pacers 105

Junior Bridgeman and Brian Winters scored 24 points apiece as Milwaukee beat Indiana. The Pacers led 61-50 at halftime but didn't score for more than five minutes at the start of the third quarter while Milwaukee ran off 14 points.

Indiana never led by more than one point after that, and two free throws by Bridgeman with 37 seconds left in the period put Milwaukee ahead to stay at 81-79.

Bullets 109, Cavaliers 96

Bobby Dandridge scored six of his 20 points during a 16-4 streak in the last quarter to enable Washington to pull away from Cleveland.

Controversy on South African boxing site a CBS headache

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Sports Writer
If the decision-makers at CBS had their druthers, they would rather televise a different, heavier weight championship fight, air it live, and let it do it anyplace other than where it's happening.

But since this is an imperfect world, CBS will show the heavyweight title fight Saturday between champion Mike Weaver and South African Gerrie Coetzee on a six-hour tape delay from Bophuthatswana.

While Larry Holmes, the world Boxing Council champion, usually fights on prime-time television on ABC, this is the second time in three fights that the World Boxing Association championship will be shunted to a Saturday afternoon from southern Africa.

NBC had former WBA champ John Tate's waltz over Coetzee last year from Pretoria, and it decided to handle its journalistic obligation and moral dilemma over the fight emanating from apartheid South Africa by giving airtime to opponents of the broadcast.

This time it's CBS' headache. Southern Africa again beckoned promoter Bob Arum, who determined his best deal was offered by a hotel in Bophuthatswana, a geographical entity that is recognized as an independent state by one country, South Africa.

CBS shelled out $600,000 for the bout, peanuts when compared to the $2 million ABC paid for the tape of Holmes' shutout of Bophuthatswana champion Mike Weaver Oct. 31-29 days after the mismatch. "But nothing comes cheap, considering the criticism CBS has received."

Among the dozen or so letters and telegrams sent to CBS Sports calling for the cancellation of the broadcast were these messages:

"On behalf of many thousands of New Zealanders we appeal to you to cancel coverage of the Weaver-Coetzee fight thereby denying apartheid a firmer propaganda victory."

"Seeing a white South African, Coetzee, and a black American, Weaver, fighting in the artificially created 'homeland' of Bophuthatswana, in front of what will appear to be an integrated audience, creates a false picture in the minds of Americans."

Winfield, Yankees wait for clearance

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego slugger Dave Winfield won't conduct any discussions with the New York Yankees "until we get clearance from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn," his agent says.

The Yankees are attempting to work out a deal to obtain Winfield, the National League's runs-batted-in champion in 1979, before the Nov. 13 major league re-entry draft.

Yankee management is reportedly concerned that the three-time All-Star might already be drafted by the maximum 13 teams before New York could select him. By trading for Winfield, the Yankees would have at least two weeks to work out a contract before the bidding war begins. Winfield, 29, figures to be one of the top players available.

Padres' President Ballard Smith granted the Yankees permission this week to talk to Winfield about his free agent plans. He said the Padres are seeking a player with major league experience, rather than a first-round choice in the free agent draft next June.

Winfield was reported by the New York Times to be among 17 players to have declared for free agency Wednesday. That would preclude him from negotiating financial terms with any team but San Diego until Nov. 10, but he would be able to discuss other contract items.

Winfield's agent, Al Frohman, was not available to confirm the report, but he said earlier that "we have not spoken to any club and no club has called us. We are playing 100 percent clean," he said, to avoid possible tampering charges.

Of the possible trade to New York, Frohman would only say, "Dave wants to go to a major city, and a team that has a chance to win."

Lions look at ex-Poke guard Burton Lawless

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Detroit Lions Coach Monte Clark says he's trying to carve a spot in the club's 45-man roster for Burton Lawless, a former Dallas Cowboys offensive guard who was cut after he was traded to the Miami Dolphins.

Lawless, a six-year National Football League veteran and part-time starter for Dallas, performed for Clark after the Lions' practice Wednesday.

"Don Shula (Miami's coach) gave me his name. I brought him in and liked what I saw," said Clark, who is struggling with an injury-plagued offensive line.

Lawless, 26, earned a starting job with the Cowboys in his 1976 rookie season but minor injuries forced him to share the spot. He started six games for Dallas in 1977, when the club won Super Bowl XII with a 27-10 victory over Denver.

The Cowboys sent him to Miami on a conditional trade during this season's training camp, but Shula released him.

"He was traded to Miami and they were going to have him play tackle, but then a guard got hurt," Clark said. He could not explain why Shula cut Lawless, "but at this stage we're fortunate to come up with him."

Two Lions starters had limited practice Wednesday, while center Amos Fowler remained on crutches and did not work out. Starting guard Homer Ellas was hampered by a knee injury; defensive end Bubba Baker has a hip pointer.

Area grid Honor Roll

It was an average week percentage wise for the area high school football teams, but there were some big surprises that were not expected. The reason for some of these big surprises were the outstanding play of some area griders, with many of the performers on this week's Honor Roll coming out of the ranks of the line.

The Coahoma Bulldogs ended a string of five winless games in upsetting the highly favored Kermit Yellow Jackets, and Coach Roy Winters found it hard to single out any individual performers.

He did nominate a group of performers for the award, however, as the Coahoma offensive and defensive lines are this week's Bulldog honorees. The offensive line consists of TRACY VAN NESS, LYNN HINSLEY, FARON PHINNEY, REAGAN BROOKS and JEFF THOMPSON, while the defensive front that helped stop Kermit's attack included T.J. SHIRLEY, JAY HALL, MIKE RUPARD and TERRY RUSSELL.

"It was very, very difficult for the coaching staff to pick out one individual in the big win," said Winters. "But I felt that the lines were the key to the win. They played very good games."

The Sands Mustangs also pulled off a big upset in exploding past Meadow by a count of 34-6. Coach Jim White named quarterback SHAYNE WIGINGTON and guard-linebacker STEVE BLAGRAVE as this week's plaudit winners.

"Wigington came off the bench and threw for two touchdowns, ran for two more scores and did a bang-up job of directing our attack," said White. "Blagrove was in on 21 tackles, and had 15 at half-time. He's just getting better every week. He's been a devil on defense."

The Big Spring Steers lost a lopsided battle to the state's number four ranked team, the Odessa Permian Panthers. Steer Coach Ralph Harris mentioned the outstanding effort of Bobby Earl Williams and Scott Barnes, who went full blast in the contest. But Harris decided not to name anyone on this week's Honor Roll, as he explained: "We had a couple of people that really played hard, but nobody that played well. In all honesty, nobody deserves it."

The undefeated Stanton Buffaloes won a 14-13 decision over Morton, but Buff mentor Steve Park felt like Harris on this week's Honor Roll selections from his team.

"We had some people that played well one-way, but nobody that had an overall good game," said Park. "It was our worst game of the year, and I'd rather wait until we play better."

The Grady Wildcats surprised a number of people in upsetting the Borden County Coyotes, and two big reasons why were the efforts of ALAN WAGNER and RON DEATHERAGE.

Both had five big tackles in the wide open six-man tilt, with Wagner adding an interception, and also breaking up two passes that would have been Borden County touchdowns. Deatherage had three receptions for 58 yards and a touchdown to go along with his defensive performance.

"Both played real well on defense," said Grady Coach Richard Gibson. "We changed everything up a little bit and they were big reasons for our success in containing Borden County."

The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes ran into the stingy San Angelo Lake View Chiefs in dropping a 21-0 decision, but one person that created havoc on the Chiefs was Lamesa defensive end WILL WRIGHT.

Wright, a 210-pounder senior, was in on nine tackles, with five of them being unassisted.

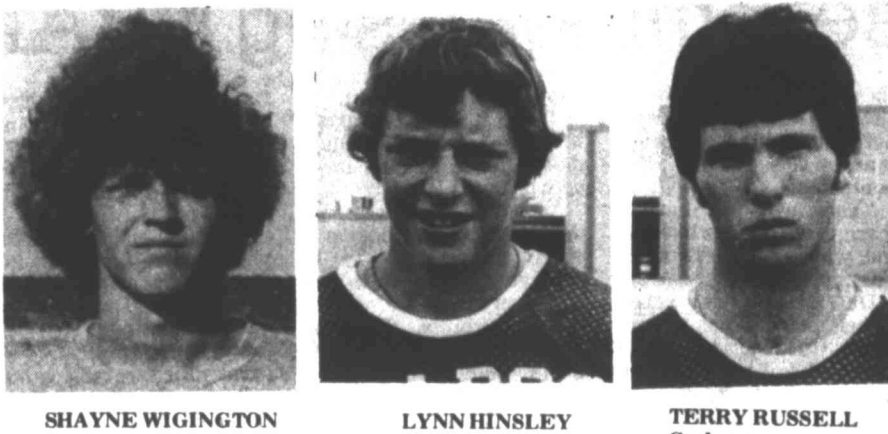

The Garden City Bearkats were simply overpowered by the highly touted Klondike Cougars, but Coach Stu Cooper's team did not go down without a fight.

A leader of that Bearkat team in the Klondike loss was DUANE HIRT, a 170-pound junior who was in on an astronomical 24 tackles. "We were just pleased with Duane's all out effort," Cooper explained. "It was the highest anybody has graded out all year, and that says something for a defensive lineman."

The Foran Buffaloes suffered a very disappointing 27-13 loss to Ropes, but Coach Ron Taylor wasn't without words of praise for a couple of his performers.

He cited the efforts of senior end-cornerback JAMES BRISTO and junior defensive tackle RICKY BEDWELL. Bristo had eight tackles defensively and graded out a very high 77 percent offensively, while Bedwell, a 6'4", 208-pounder, had 10 tackles in the contest.

"Ricky has improved and is really becoming a good football player for us," said Taylor. "And James has been a very consistent player all year. He's played extremely well in the past two games."

Speed gun maker sues NBC 1 mill for remark

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Manufacturers of the JUGS Speed Gun claim in a $1 million lawsuit filed Wednesday that they were libeled in remarks made by National Broadcasting Co. announcers on a World Series telecast.

The lawsuit against the broadcasting company was filed in Multnomah County Circuit Court by JoPaul Industries Inc. of the Portland suburb of Tualatin.

The lawsuit says NBC-TV announcers Tony Kubek and Tom Seaver falsely stated on a telecast last Wednesday night that the JUGS Gun does not accurately measure the speed of baseball pitches.

JoPaul Industries, whose major line is baseball pitching machines, asked NBC to make a retraction before the series ended. The series ended Tuesday night with victory for the Philadelphia Phillies.

"We know they received the request and there was no retraction," said Rob Nelson, national sales manager for JoPaul Industries. "We determined that a JUGS Gun was not being used."

In the letter asking for a retraction, JoPaul lawyer Jack L. Kennedy wrote that Kubek and Seaver "commented extensively as to the pitching of Steve Carlton, and while discussing his performance stated that the JUGS Gun was measuring the speed of his pitches at 88 to 89 mph."

"Your announcers then stated that Mr. Carlton was pitching faster than 88 mph and the JUGS Gun was not an accurate measuring device."

After JoPaul Industries objected to the remarks, Executive Producer Don Ohlmeyer of NBC Sports said, "We are not in the business of making JUGS look good or bad. That is not our concern. We're concerned only with giving facts to our viewers."

Ohlmeyer said the accuracy of speed guns has successfully been challenged in traffic courts, adding, "They have shown that some speed guns have clocked trees going 45 miles an hour."

Phillie fans go nuts in celebration

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chanting, shouting, delirious with championship fever, more than half a million fans paid tribute to the team that won the World Series for the first time in its 98-year history.

The fans lined the city's main north-south artery Wednesday for a parade to honor the Philadelphia Phillies, who clinched the world championship baseball title Tuesday night over the Kansas City Royals.

The caravan, with a high school band blaring at the lead, ended at John P. Kennedy Stadium where 85,000 fans gathered for the Phillies' victory ceremony.

Spectators lined the sidewalks four and five deep. Thousands waved pennants and held homemade signs aloft. Tons of confetti streamed down from rooftops as fans screamed in a glorious din for the Phillies.

Fathers hoisted little children on their shoulders. Construction workers watched from scaffolds and tipped their hard hats for a job well done.

At Broad and Snyder Streets, a south Philadelphia intersection that was swamped after the victory, Phil DiBattista surveyed the scene and remarked, "It's really bringing the people together, just like when the Pope came up Broad Street."

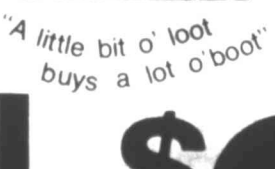

"The Pope came and gave us love. And now the Phillies are giving it to us again," he cheered.

Phillies Manager Dallas Green and general manager Paul Owens lifted their arms throughout the parade as players Pete Rose, Larry Bowa and Tug McGraw shouted "We're number one" to the delirious fans.

The parade's most popular player was McGraw, the relief pitcher who sauntered in many times in both the National League Playoffs and the World Series to close out the opposition.

He beamed and waved as he saw signs, "McGraw for President," and "Tuga-della."

At the stadium, Gov. Dick Thornburgh told the excited throng, "Nobody competes with the Phillies today. Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, today is the baseball capital of the world."

Comparing Schmidt Brett in World Series

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Reflecting on the 1980 World Series, looking through the mirror darkly:
Mike Schmidt won the "Battle of Third Baseman," in the end outshining the celebrated George Brett for MVP honors.
"You can't compare Brett and me," Schmidt said after leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a clinching 4-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night. "George is a line drive hitter who strives to make contact with the ball. I am, of course, what you call a power hitter. We have different personalities."
"Brett is the best pure hitter in the game."
Statistics were close. Schmidt batted .381, with two homers, six runs scored and seven batted in. Brett, the year's .300 hitting marvel, batted .375 with one homer and three runs batted in. Both protected their field positions zealously.

On what is toughest

SWC backs answer running question

DALLAS (AP) — Gaining yards in the Southwest Conference is getting tougher. Only two runners are gaining more than 84 yards per game. Some of the league's top backs were asked why.

Q: What is the toughest thing about being a running back in the Southwest Conference?

Gary Anderson, Arkansas: The competition. In our conference, every team has a great defense. They're all physical and they're all quick. You take punishment every week.

Walter Abernombie, Baylor: Having to take on so many good linebackers has to be the toughest thing for me. Every team in the conference has good linebackers and it's a real challenge for me to prepare for them each week.

Terald Clark, Houston:

Getting up Sunday morning. That's when I know I've been punished the day before. SWC defenses seem to think run, and they have the best teams in the nation against the rush.

Calvin Fance, Rice: The toughest thing is the balance and overall strength of the defenses. A running back has to get adjusted to the great punishment he receives week after week.

Eric Dickerson, SMU: The

toughest thing a running back in the league has to face is the tremendously hard hitting that takes place every time you touch the football. Being able to take a hard hit is probably the toughest thing there is.

A.J. "Jam" Jones, Texas: To me, this is probably the toughest conference in the nation. There is so much competition here, and so much hitting. Being a running back, you especially know about that. Johnny Hector, Texas A&M: The biggest adjustment was adapting to college ball from high school. And from that standpoint, blocking and learning to read defenses was the toughest thing.

Kevin Haney, TCU: Overall, there's just too much talent throughout the conference and as far as playing goes, the speed of the defensive players including the backs, linebackers and even some of the linemen is catching up to us. So we can't just outrun many people. You just can't see many people running around the outside much anymore.

Wes Hightower, Texas Tech: Probably the toughest thing about the SWC is the physical test you take every week. Getting beat up every week and having to come back strong the next week can get pretty rough.

Ax murder testimony

Victim's husband tells of affair

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — A neighbor of a 30-year-old Wylie housewife testified today he found her blood-splattered residence unlocked and discovered her mutilated corpse in a utility room.

"There was blood everywhere," testified Jerry J. McMahon in the second day of the murder trial of Candace Montgomery.

McMahon and two other neighbors went to the Gore residence after long-distance telephone calls from Allan Gore, who said he was concerned when his wife Betty did not answer the phone.

"There was blood on the floor and traces of blood in the bathroom," testified neighbor Richard Parker, a relative who sold the Gores their home three years ago.

Both men said the Gores' infant daughter, alone in an adjoining room, was "very distressed."

Gore quietly told the hushed courtroom Tuesday afternoon that Mrs. Montgomery instigated their love affair almost two years before the slaying.

Mrs. Montgomery sat emotionless as Gore told of their noon-time meetings at a nearby motel from December of 1978 to October of 1979, when the affair ended.

The brown-haired witness told jurors in a reserved voice that he and Mrs. Montgomery met at church and had sexual relations every two to three weeks during the 11-month affair.

State District Judge Tom Ryan interrupted Tuesday's opening testimony several times to shush an overflow crowd jammed into the 100-year-old Collin County courtroom.

Defense lawyer Don Crowder had already stunned spectators during jury selection Monday when he said Mrs. Montgomery killed Betty Gore with an ax on June 13 in self defense.

"On June 13, Candy Montgomery killed Betty Gore," Crowder announced to the shocked courtroom.

"She did so with an ax. She did so in self defense. The homicide was justified."

The two women met in the fall of 1977 at church where they sang together in the choir.

Mrs. Montgomery hosted a baby shower for the murdered woman in June 1979 and was babysitting the Gore's 5-year-old daughter the day of the slaying.

Crowder said his client will take the stand in her own behalf.

Gore was on the stand about 2 1/2 hours Tuesday, twisting his hands and answering questions in a monotone while the wood-handled ax sat inches from his elbow.

"In October 1978 I had a private conversation during which she Mrs. Montgomery indicated to me that I was very attractive to her and she wanted to know if I was interested in having an affair."

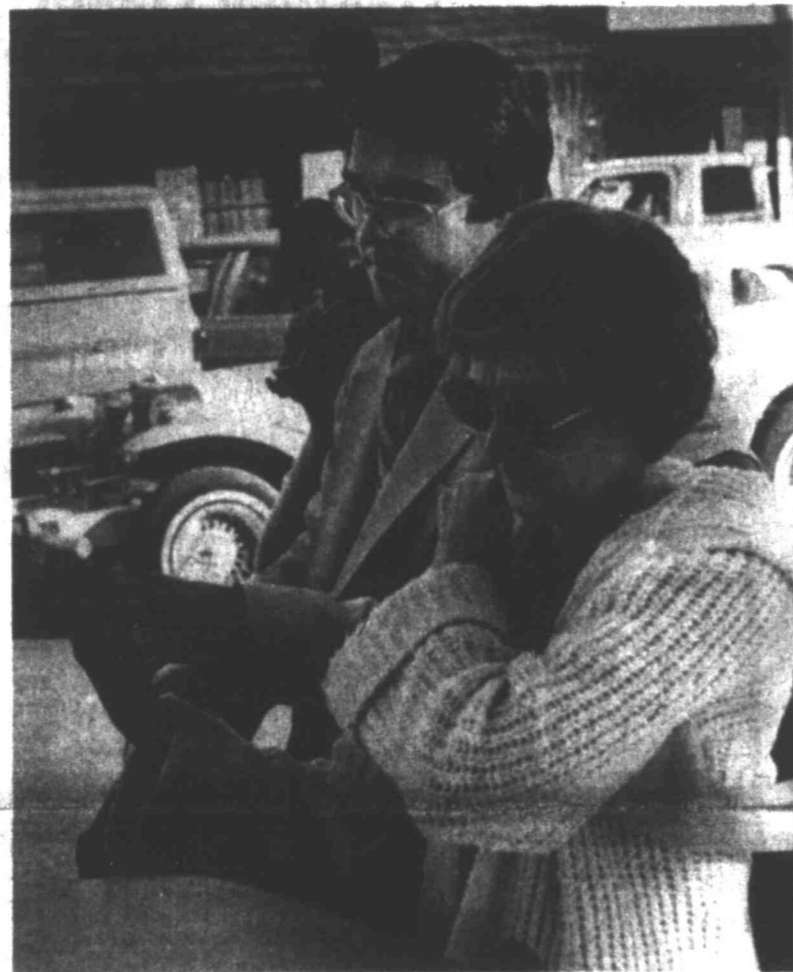

He said his initial response was negative but that he changed his mind after further conversations.

Gore, the leadoff witness for the prosecution, said he would leave during his lunch hour and "she would make arrangements at a motel and I would meet her there," he testified.

He said the couple did not always have sexual relations during their private meetings before the affair ended gradually and permanently near the end of October in 1979.

Under cross examination Gore said he knew of no reason why Mrs. Montgomery would want to kill his wife.

Gore said he was in St. Paul, Minn. on a business trip, the night of the slaying at the couple's home in Wylie, a small town south of McKinney.

ACCUSED AX MURDERESS — Candace Montgomery prepares to climb into a car Tuesday after leaving Collin County Courthouse in McKinney with her husband, Pat Montgomery. Mrs. Montgomery is accused of killing a Wylie, Texas schoolteacher with an ax last summer.

Herald to publish state poll

A statewide presidential election poll conducted by the Department of Political Science at Texas A&M University will be published next Sunday by Harte-Hanks Communications newspapers, including the Big Spring Herald.

Telephone interviews currently are being conducted to obtain a 500-person sample drawn randomly from all Texas telephone numbers. Only respondents 18 years old or older are interviewed.

Harte-Hanks is paying the poll's costs in exchange for exclusive distribution rights for its 14 Texas newspapers.

The poll seeks to establish the voting preferences at this time in the presidential race. Respondents are asked whether, at this time, they would vote for Democrat Jimmy Carter, Republican Ronald Reagan or Independent John Anderson.

They also are asked how they voted in the 1976 presidential race between Carter and Gerald Ford, how likely they are to vote on Nov. 4, whether they have a party loyalty.

Anderson's supporters are asked how they would vote if he were not in the race. This question is designed to determine whether Anderson's presence on the Texas ballot hurts Carter or Reagan.

The polling is under the supervision of James Dyer and David Hill of the Department of Political Science faculty.

Steer recovery from Mojo vital vs. Lee

In 1979, a Big Spring 42-0 loss to the state's fourth rated football team would have been considered normal. But this is 1980, and the shelling that the Steers received at the hands of Odessa Permian undoubtedly has first year Big Spring mentor Ralph Harris concerned.

"If we keep playing like that, the people here need to get rid of ol' Ralph Harris," the BSHS coach said, obviously speaking in the first person.

"We didn't play at all twice this year," he continued. "The first time cost us a win against Levelland, the second time cost us a total embarrassment against Permian."

"And in both cases, it was obvious that we just weren't ready to play," Harris philosophized. "Against Levelland, I tried to convince the kids that we had to get with it and play well in order to win, even though everyone knew we were favored. And against Permian, it was my responsibility to get our players believing that we had a bonafide chance to win."

"But," he added, "we never performed at all against Permian. It looked like a total lack of self-confidence."

"But it's a two-way street, and in that sense, it's my responsibility that we didn't play well."

Asked if he could see the poor performance coming prior to the Permian game, Harris said no.

"I was real excited going into the game," he explained. "I felt that we had gotten ourselves ready to play, and I think we had a good plan of attack. They (Permian) are not a complex team, but they do the fundamentals so well."

"We didn't play well, and got no breaks early, and it just seemed to snowball on us. And there was a point in the game," Harris admitted, "that most of our team seemed to quit carrying the fight to them."

The Mojo mystique was seemingly a negative factor in the minds of the Steers, as Permian is not that much better than Abilene or Midland, teams the Steers led going into the final stanza, only to lose by slim margins.

Harris admitted that maybe some of the Steers were in awe of the Permian tradition. "I can't think it's the fear of injuries, but that we fear ourselves and our abilities to compete with those people."

"When we play people like Permian and are a big underdog," the Steer coach stated, "we've got to go in with the attitude that we've got nothing to lose. We simply need to strap it on, but we didn't!"

Things really aren't going to get much easier for the young Steer team, which no doubt is a year away from being rated as a factor in the tough District 5-AAAAA. This week they play host to Midland Lee, and next week it's Abilene Cooper, then Odessa High.

The Lee Rebel-Steer match-up will be quite interesting for the local fans, as the Midland school is coached by former BSHS boss Spike Dykes, and has many former Steer assistants on the staff.

Dykes, the last coach to have a winning record at Big Spring (40-1969), has been to Alice, the University of Texas, the University of New Mexico and Mississippi State between his BSHS and Lee stops.

He's also the coach that gave Ralph Harris his first coaching job after the present Steer mentor graduated from Sul Ross, assigning him to Runnels Junior High back in 1968.

Whether the familiarity there has anything to do with it or not, 1980 versions of both Big Spring and Lee are most similar.

Both run an option attack, and both have made the bulk of their offensive yardage on the ground.

Lee sports the top rusher in 5-AAAAA in fullback Calvin Riggs, while Big Spring's exciting junior, Bobby Earl Williams, is the number two rusher in the district.

"They have big backs and a very big line," Harris noted. "I'm sure they'll try to hammer it down our throats, because that's what they've done to everyone else. It will simply be our strength against their strength."

The big problem with that concerns the injury situation in the Steer camp right now, where the local gridders are still very beat up from the Permian game.

Both defensive tackle Tony Molina and defensive end Greg Scarbro are listed as doubtful, and Harris stated that a total of five different players will be tried at the two defensive tackle positions in the first quarter of the Lee game.

"We don't have the size of Lee up front," he explained, "so it's just a matter of playing several kids early and seeing who can do the best job."

It's not going to be an easy task for the Steers to defeat the favored Lee team, but nothing would please Harris more.

"When I got this job, I felt very good because I knew it would be a chance to beat some of the very best high school coaches around," Harris explained.

Steer fems stay on unbeaten path

The Big Spring Steers girls volleyball team continued to maintain their perfect record in District 5-AAAAA second half action here Tuesday night, taking a 15-4, 15-0 triumph over Midland Lee.

The lopsided win was the fourth straight without a loss in second half play, and allowed the Big Spring girls to remain tied with San Angelo for the second half lead. San Angelo and Abilene Cooper shared the first half title.

Runnels volleyball has bad night

The Runnels Yearlings girls volleyball teams suffered through a rough Tuesday evening, as they dropped a pair of games to the Colorado City eighth graders.

The Red team lost by 5-15, 15-11 and 12-15. Debbie Holguin had eight service points in the loss.

The White team then dropped a 15-10, 8-15, 13-14 decision. Janet Anderson, Tanya Gilstrap and Lisa Subia each had seven points, with Melissa Fuller adding six.

The two Runnels teams will combine forces this weekend and enter the Snyder Tournament.

The next match for the Big Spring girls will be extremely important, as they travel tomorrow night to face Cooper.

"We finally beat somebody bad that we should have," said a happy Big Spring Coach Patti Purser. "We played very well, and I hope we can meet the challenge tomorrow night."

"We have been showing improvement every game this half," Purser continued. "Instead of being up and down, we are maintaining our consistency."

Leading server point wise for the Steers in the win over Lee was Shell Rutledge with eight, while Sissy Doss chipped in with seven. Pam Caudill added six, Elise Wheat four, Bea Magers three and Janie Phillip two.

Wheat also performed well at the net.

The Big Spring JV team also took a triumph in a rout, by scores of 15-4, 15-2 over the Lee JVs. Leslie Overman had 10 service points for the Shortorns.

While both the Steer varsity and JVs are on the road tomorrow night, the BSHS freshmen will play host to Snyder at 5:30 p.m.

Lana Fletcher adding eight. Carletta Lewis and Chandra Wright both were praised for their defensive play.

The Black team then finished off the night by taking a 15-6, 15-3 triumph over Colorado City. Monique Wise had 10 points to lead the Black servers, with Tammy Green adding eight and Michelle Padron seven.

Klondike stops Barkats

GARDEN CITY — The Klondike Cougars continued their assault on District 3-A (West Zone) opponents here Friday night, taking a 48-0 win over the scrappy Garden City Barkats.

The massive Klondike team used three touchdowns by Marty Trevino in the contest to spark their attack, which netted 380 yards rushing.

The Klondike defense, meanwhile, held the Barkat offense to only five first downs and four yards rushing. Garden City gained a measure of respect by passing for 107 yards.

Klondike opened the scoring in the first period on a 21 yard run by Lonnie Ferguson, and then added two touchdowns in the second quarter for a 20-0 halftime lead.

The much larger Cougars then capped the rout in the final half, scoring once in the third stanza and adding three touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Trevino scored once in the second quarter and twice in the fourth period. Mike Arismendez scored once, and James Martin booted four PATs successfully.

Baum ends 16-year association with KBYG

By RICHARD HORN
On his last day as the radio announcer for KBYG in Big Spring, Jim Baum spent the majority of his Morning Program looking back over his 16 years at the station. Using old tapes of interviews and reports, he relived a part of recent Big Spring history. "I went all the way back to when Fred Davis and I had a two-man show called 'Pow-Wow,'" recalls Baum. "It was a lot of fun to put that kind of retrospective together. We had some good highlights. It hurts to think that all of that is over."

It is over because Jim Baum is moving to Colorado City, where he is completing plans to buy radio station KVMC. Purchase of the station is pending the approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

"Owning a station has been an objective of mine ever since I got into radio announcing 22 years ago," said Baum, who is 44. "I want to own because I like the idea of having something, and living or dying with it. I decided I wanted to work for my family and myself."

Baum was born in Des Moines, Iowa, but has spent most of his life in West Texas, graduating from Abilene High School. Before owning a radio station became his main objective, before he even thought about announcing radio, he wanted to play professional baseball.

"In high school, that was all I ever wanted to do," he recalls. "I went to Sul Ross University (in Alpine) on a baseball scholarship. After a year I decided that I wanted to get into the big leagues."

By 1956, Baum had worked his way into the Pittsburgh Pirates farm system, playing in Clinton, Iowa, and Jamestown, N.Y. "After one year," he said, "it became clear that I was not going to become a big leaguer. So I went back to Abilene, and sat around waiting to be drafted. Not by the Dallas Cowboys, but by Uncle Sam."

Uncle Sam did not call him either. But, shortly, station KRBC in Abilene asked him to do play-by-play announcing for baseball, because of his experience and knowledge of the game.

"Well, I got into that, and it was like a bug had bitten me," said Baum. "I really fell in love with announcing. They asked me to stay on and do football games, and I part of it, as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Congress, in the 17th Congressional District.

He still speaks excitedly of the race. "I was on a crusade," he remembers. "I was out to set the world on fire. I believed then and I believe now that the middle income wage earners are the most neglected class of people in the country. The poor people get the programs, and the rich people get things going their way. Everybody else gets caught in the middle."

Baum came in third out of seven other candidates, although he got 74 percent of the vote in Howard County. He claims that people still ask him to run again, but his mind is made up not to.

"As soon as the election was over I wanted to run again," he says. "But everyday that the election gets further into the past, my interest in it wanes."

Baum took a leave of absence from KBYG to run for the office. When he returned, he received what he considers his two biggest honors. In 1978, he was awarded the UPI News Award for Texas for his sports and editorials. The following year he went one better and was named UPI National Sportscaster of the year.

"That one really made my heart beat a little bit faster," he recalls.

Baum considers himself a lifelong sports devotee, and a true Dallas Cowboy fanatic. "You can ask the people I work with," he says. "A Cowboys game on Sunday will effect my whole week. If they win, then my week goes really well. If they lose, then it takes me until the middle of the week. I have already decided that a team to be announced later will play the Cowboys in the Superbowl this year."

In his 16 years as an announcer in Big Spring, Baum has heard and seen a lot. He shared some of his impressions:

"What I remember the most about my first day in Big Spring was how helpful and supportive the people were. In fact, that memory will probably stand out the most in all of my memories of Big Spring."

"I remember how impressed I was with the first city council meeting that I covered. I thought that this was where the basic concept of democracy began. I thought also that it was interesting that the news media was able to second guess all of the city fathers. Twenty-twenty hindsight remains strong."

"A lot of politicians have come through here that I had the privilege to interview. Don Yarbrough was through here. He was probably the most likeable politician I ever interviewed. And then there was Ralph Yarbrough. He had to be the most suspicious guy I ever talked to. He wouldn't even answer a question until he was sure that I had the tape recorder turned on. I don't know what he was thinking.

"I still have a couple of speeches I give about things that I think need to be worked on. I don't understand why the President of the U.S. can only run for two four year terms, and a congressman can stay in office all of his life. That is what turns them into politicians. I think we also need to pay attention to the special interest groups that keep them there."

"I remember a policeman we had here in the late 1960's. His name was Paul Alexander and he was fantastic at recovering stolen cars. He could find them faster and better than the F.B.I."

"What has impressed me the most in the time that I have been covering news of deaths is that a split second can alter a person's life. I've seen a mother being told that her child has been killed in a wreck. I've seen a man come out of his store after closing, and the next second he was shot dead."

"I've learned some things, too. I've learned never to carry anything obscene in my wallet, because if I'm ever in a wreck they're going to stand there and look through my wallet. With the kinds of things that can make it into wallets, it would embarrass me to death if I were dead."

"One thing I really love about the job is how people will call me up to chat while I'm on the air. I'm talking about people I don't even know. They'll call me up during a program and tell me how they feel and that they just got out of the hospital and that kind of thing. I never would find out who they were."

After his last program at KBYG, Baum made a gift of some of the tapes from over the years to the Heritage Museum. "I felt that some of those tapes might have some historical significance. There's one interview there with Mrs. E.V. Spence on the day they dedicated Lake Spence to her husband. I thought hearing her describe her husband might interest some people in the future. There is also one in there of the late Robert Currie of the State National Bank describing how the bank was robbed.

Baum and his wife, Margaret, and their four children will be moving to Colorado City as soon as arrangements can be made.

"I'd love to stay in Big Spring and commute," he says. "But it is much better that I become a tax paying citizen of Mitchell County, since I'm going to be running a radio station there."

Baum expressed his appreciation to current KBYG owner Hugh Frizell and to Dick Fields, who is making an application with the FCC to obtain the station license.

Heroic feats of former

Heroic achievements during World War II of a former resident of Big Spring, Homer L. Sanders, are recounted in a recently-issued book "Tenth Air Force Story" by Kent C. Rust. Sanders' parents were Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Sanders.

During his days in the China-India-Burma area, Sanders was a colonel. Now he is a retired major general and lives with his wife Jean in Albuquerque, N.M.

"On Oct. 24, 1942, Col. Sanders, the Group C.O., and Capt. Charles Dunning, group engineering officer, flew into northern Burma to locate 'traitor forces' — forces composed of Japanese and Burmese traitors reported by British Intelligence," the book relates. "Bad weather in the mountains and rain thwarted the search north of Sumprabum. Next morning the two tried again but found the weather east of the Naga Hills impossible. They returned to base and over lunch decided to make one more try.

"Accordingly the pair took off at 1345 and had just cleared the ground and made their turn when they ran smack into 97 Japanese bombers and fighters coming in to raid the airfields at Dinjan and Chabua in full strength and to work over the airfields at Mohanbari and Sookerating.

"Unseen the two P-40s climbed up along the mountains and went for the top covers of 15 Oscars. Col. Sanders took the leader of the right element while Capt. Dunning took his right wing man. As Col. Sanders blasted the leader, the left wing man chandelled, got onto Capt. Dunning as he came in slightly behind Sanders, and shot the Captain through the head as he passed by. Sanders then took on the rest singlehanded.

"Sanders annoyed them for 40 minutes but did not know the results. Every time Sanders made a pass at one, at least seven of the Japs would jump him. He worked on eight Zeroes, withdrawing and trying to run them out of gas. He chased them awhile and then they chased him — a mutual chasing society.

"Afterward, although Col. Sanders did not make any claims, British AA gunners confirmed two Oscars for him. They, however, had not seen what went on in the chases over the Naga Hills, but five Oscars later were found in the jungle.

"Throughout the first months of 1943, the 51st Group had only one meeting with Japanese planes in the air. Col. Sanders received warning that about 48 Japanese planes were headed for the Digboi Oil Refinery. He positioned his group's planes on both sides of the enemy's projected line of flight and practically annihilated them."

Non-aquatic classes set

Bob Cappel, YMCA Executive Director, announced that registration for non-aquatic classes for youth are now being taken. The team will begin Oct. 27.

Gymnastic class are taught for all levels. Beginners classes meet on Monday and Wednesday from 4 p.m. until 5 p.m. The advanced classes meet on Mondays from 5 p.m. until 6 p.m. and on Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m. These classes are under the leadership of Manuel Hinojos. Hinojos has been involved with gymnastics many years. He attended college at North-eastern Louisiana University on a gymnastics scholarship. He has now brought in talents in gymnastics to the YMCA.

Efforts are under way to improve the program with the development of a team. Hinojos is aided in the program by Carolyn Torres, Mark Mathews and Mary Jane Ward.

Medical care's 'more' decade said under way

This year marks the start of the "more" decade for medicine and taking care of medical care with more basic medical needs, scientific advances, more governmental regulations, Basin County Medical more patients and more doctors, the Texas Medical Association (TMA) executive director told area doctors Tuesday in a talk at the Big Spring Country Club.

Phenomenal improvements in medical care are helping control many medical problems including some childhood diseases and heart disease. This progress has led the United States surgeon general to announce that the nation's health is better than ever.

Scientific advances will be especially helpful in handling the increased patient load predicted when Texas' and the nation's population, especially the aged population, increases in the next 10 years, C. Lincoln Williston of Austin, TMA executive director, told doctors from Howard, Glasscock and Martin counties.

To meet these challenges, TMA has adopted several priorities to help make sure change is constructive, Williston said. The first priority is review of the state's Medical Practice Act when the Texas Legislature revises it starting in January. One of TMA's major emphases in the Sunset legislative process is to keep a good law that defines who can prac-

Contestants compete for Miss HC title

"Xanadu" will be the theme, Howard College will be the place and the date is Oct. 28 for this year's Miss HC pageant scheduled to get underway at 8 p.m.

Among the 19 contestants will be 18-year-old Leanna Tolle and 19-year-old Laura Caudill.

Medical technology major Leanna is the daughter of Don and Clara Tolle of Big Spring. She plans to continue her education at Texas Tech University upon graduation from Howard College.

"I'm hoping to become a lab technician in a hospital," she revealed.

Favorite pastimes of the Miss HC hopeful are photography, water skiing and racquetball.

Also adding excitement to the competition will be Laura Caudill. She is the daughter of Mrs. Carolee Caudill of Big Spring and Don Caudill, Abilene.

Looking to the future, the HC sophomore plans to transfer to Angelo State University after graduation from the local college.

Swimming, racquetball and bike riding occupy her spare time.

The pageant is being sponsored by the Student Government Association.

LEANNA TOLLE

'You can't afford not to' Give kids good education

"PTA is a sleeping giant that we need to wake up," state PTA executive Alvis Bentley told parents and educators attending the district PTA leadership conference in Midland last week.

Local PTAs sent 11 members, including principals M.A. Barber and C.L. Carlile, to the conference. Theme was "The 80's - New Opportunities for PTA."

"Education is the single most important investment we can make in the U.S.," keynote speaker Keith Osborn told the conference, referring to the dollar and cents payoff of education.

According to Osborn, West Germany spends 18 percent of its gross national product on education, while Japan spends 16 percent and Russia 15 percent. He said these countries attribute their post-war booms directly to education.

Compared to these figures, the United States spends only 7 percent of its gross national product on education.

Improved teacher salaries across the nation is imperative in attracting and keeping the quality of teachers America wants, according to Osborn.

"I'm asking you to be selfish. Give kids a good education because you can't afford not to," emphasized Osborn.

In other recent local PTA activities, the Big Spring Council of the Parent-Teacher Association met at Moss school Friday.

Howard County Librarian Judy Gray spoke to the council about the Texas State Library proposal now before the state's Legislative Budget Board.

Mrs. Gray explained that at 16 cents per capita Texas is last among the 46 states which give state support to public libraries. She said that 16 cents figure compares to an average per capita state expenditure of 82 cents nationwide.

The Legislative Budget Board is considering a request by the Texas public library system for an allocation of $1 per capita.

Mrs. Gray urges local citizens to write members of the Legislative Budget Board indicating their support of the proposal.

Local state senator Ra Farabee is a member of the committee.

Cards and letters should be addressed to Farabee at other Legislative Budget Board members at Capitol Station, Box 12666, Austin, Tex. 78711, according to Mrs. Gray.

Superintendent of School Lynn Hise also spoke to the Council.

Mother-to-be is honored

Mrs. Guy (Rosemarie) Sitton was feted Oct. 10 with a noon baby shower in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flare Room.

Hostesses for the event included Lydia Eaguerra, Daria Balleis, Annett Montgomery and Virgil Garcia.

Revenues, expenses of CRMWD increase

Revenues for the Colorado River Municipal Water District were up through September, but so were expenses. Over-all, however, the financial picture was within one-third of one percent of budget estimates.

Dawson farmer enters race for county commissioner

LAMESA — Orvis Davis, a long-time Dawson County farmer, has entered the race for county commissioner, Precinct 3, as a write-in candidate.

Racquetball tournament starts Oct. 31

The Big Spring YMCA will hold the First Annual Halloween Racquetball Tournament on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1.

Receipts for the nine-month period of 1980 amounted to $6,002,671, up defeated when Alton Addison won without a runoff.

Davis has been a resident of Precinct Three for the past 50 years. He and his wife Gloria have five children, only one of whom is still at home.

Trophies will be awarded to men's first, second and third place in A, B, and C divisions and the first and second places in consolation.

$188,336 over the same period in 1979 thanks mostly to increased municipal use during the unusually hot dry summer. Cities paid in $167,000 more for the nine months, oil companies $1,000 less, recreational users $5,000 more as lake levels rose.

Expenses aggregated $3,185,116 up $166,836 for the nine months, chiefly due to higher power bills. The $1,837,787 for electric energy was up by $68,000 for the period and would have been up vastly more had it not been for much lighter deliveries in the forefront of the year and the ability, thanks to timely runoff, to deliver more water from Lake Thomas and less than estimated from Lake Spence during the record summer deliveries of June, July and August. Perhaps September reflects more accurately the change in power rates.

During that month in 1980 the district delivered 210,779,000 gallons less, due to abnormally heavy rains, but it paid $77,081 more for electric energy.

Other costs went up too, particularly in the period of unprecedented deliveries to the city during the summer.

For instance, maintenance labor was up $18,000 and general maintenance expense up $44,000 in order to make certain there were no major interruptions during a time of critical demand. Water royalties also were up to $27,000.

Administrative expense was up $10,000 in amounting to $354,000 for the nine months, and recreational expenses of $68,880 were within a few hundred dollars of budget estimates.

MISHAP — Sgt. Jimmie Hensley views the results of a wreck that occurred at FM 700 and Goliad, 4:53 p.m. Monday. Vehicles driven by Dornell Eckert, Route 1, and Gloria Jeffers, 4107 W. Highway 80, collided at that intersection. Mrs. Jeffers' daughter, Gloria Ann, 14, was taken to Hall-Bennett Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries and released.
