Montgomery found competent to continue murder trial

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — A judge ruled today that Candace Montgomery, accused of axing to death the wife of her onetime lover, is competent to finish her murder trial. State District Judge Tom Ryan announced his ruling after hearing from McKinney psychiatrist Dr. Thomas L. Thornton. Thornton said today he tested the defendant on her "mental status" at his office on Saturday and found her "fully competent to stand trial." Ryan ordered the examination after a defense psychiatrist testified Friday that Mrs. Montgomery dissociated herself from the slaying of Betty Gore after she hit her at least 41 times with a three-foot pile ax in the Gore home last summer. Mrs. Montgomery testified the victim had learned that she had an affair with Allan Gore and a fight resulted. The defense unexpectedly claimed self-defense last Monday when the trial began. Ryan appeared annoyed today at an article published Sunday in a Dallas newspaper which said Mrs. Montgomery had been judged competent. "I wonder if it's even necessary to have this hearing," Ryan asked the half-empty courtroom. He called defense lawyers and prosecutors, who are under a gag order, to his chambers prior to the trial's resumption in early afternoon. The defense unexpectedly announced last Monday when jury selection began that Mrs. Montgomery, 30, would admit to the slaying but would argue that self-defense would be the issue.

Dr. Maurice S. Green of Dallas, who said he has counseled Mrs. Montgomery since Sept. 2, testified she suffered a "disassociative reaction" to the slaying at Mrs. Gore's home in nearby Wylie. Mrs. Montgomery "was aware she was hacking Betty Gore to death," he testified, but "everything seemed to be in slow motion... almost like she was a spectator... At the present time, she still has some of the symptoms." Green also said, however, a disassociative reaction is "not that unusual." Lead defense attorney Don Crowder, meanwhile, spent the weekend a free man despite a second contempt citation from Ryan, who fined him $100 and ordered him to jail for 72 hours.

County feeling money 'squeeze'

By DON WOODS
Howard County Auditor Jackie Olsen expressed concern about the county's payment of October bills and employee payroll in a special meeting of the Commissioner's Court this morning. Howard County may have to transfer funds from the Road and Bridge Department budget to make ends meet. But Road and Bridge can not spare very much of its allotment, said Mrs. Olsen. Revenue sharing funds received from the federal government have also been spent, she said. County Tax Assessor Collector Zirah Bednar turned over $37,000 collected so far on the new tax roll. "And that's all," said Commissioner David Barr. Mrs. Olsen said October was a low time last year for tax collections. Commissioner William Crooker downplayed the seriousness of the report, suggesting that it was "a little squeeze." Expenses amounting to an estimated $1,000 will come at an unopportune time in the Nov. 22 special election to elect Larry Don Shaw to the unexpired term of former Rep. Mike Ezell, said County Clerk Margaret Ray.

two pickups was denied, because of the cutback. Commissioners considered solutions to complaints by farmers about caliche from county roads in fields adjacent to the roads. The caliche is washed into the fields by rain and pulled in the fields by tractors when farmers turn them around on the roads. "They spend a lot of time keeping the rocks out of their fields, and I can see their problem," said County Engineer Bill Mims. Commissioner Paul Allen suggested trying a device that picks up rocks when pulled behind a tractor. The county may try the machine on a rental-purchase plan. Commissioner Barr said the device would cost less than $3,000 if commissioners buy it. Another alternative is to concrete dips where moisture collects. "If we keep the moist areas concreted, instead of caliche, we'll be okay," said Mims. The process could be completed over the next few years, with concreting being done as the need arises. Also considered was placing sand instead of caliche in areas where caliche winds up in fields. In other action, commissioners okayed use of one ballot box in each of the four commissioner precincts, rather than one in each of 21 voting precincts, in the Nov. 22 special election. They also approved use of paper ballots. Howard County Judge Bill Tunc said the emergency nature of the special election allowed Howard County to get approval for limited boxes and paper ballots from the secretary of state's office. Otherwise, as in designated elections, okay of use of limited boxes and paper ballots must come from the federal government. Faustino Aguilar, computer operator for the tax collector-assessor's office, was given a raise from the $365 a month he is given in the budget, to $310 a month. Tax Assessor Collector Zirah Bednar said the salary was closer to that of computer operators in other counties. Aguilar has been handling increased responsibility, she said. He has been with the county almost two years and works without a supervisor. Crooker was concerned about the effect of the raise on the salary structure, but was reassured after comparing salaries of chief deputies in other offices. "As we looked it over it is not going to throw it out of line with other salaries," he said. The position is not similar to any others in county offices, said Mrs. Bednar. Crooker moved to grant the raise.

Commissioner Barr seconded the motion. Mary Spillman, secretary for Texas Ranger and Texas Highway Patrol (DPS) offices, will be allowed retirement and insurance benefits, it was moved today. Mrs. Spillman, wife of Police Detective David Spillman, began working 20 hours a week in the DPS office. She later accepted responsibilities in the Ranger's office, giving her 30 hours a week. Part-time employees do not receive retirement and insurance benefits, but the county defines part-time as working less than 20 hours a week. Charlotte Burson, district clerk's office deputy, is retiring and will be replaced by Colleen Barton, wife of Misdemeanor Probation Clerk Mike Barton. James Horton, coordinator of the Nov. 22 "Old Fiddler's Contest" in Highland South Mall, requested use of 150 county chairs for the event. The request was granted.

NEW CHIEF — Newly appointed Big Spring Police Chief Elwood Hoberz will take over that post on Dec. 1. Hoberz was chosen for the job after a citizens' committee reviewed 30 applications from across the state.

Will meet again Wednesday

Iran fails to reach decision

By The Associated Press
Iran's Parliament, the Majlis, failed again today to reach a decision on the fate of the 52 American hostages after a debate of nearly six hours and will resume the discussion Wednesday, informed sources in Tehran reported.

A Tehran Radio broadcast said the United States was indulging in "wishful thinking" about the debate. "They are now bragging about the imminent release of the hostages," it said after the session. "This is a rumor with which they want to gratify themselves."

Continuing the secret debate that began Sunday, the 228-member Majlis met for four hours in the morning, recessed for two hours for prayers, and then met again in the afternoon for nearly two hours.

No meeting will be held Tuesday because it is a religious holiday. But the parliament will meet again Wednesday to continue the debate. Like today's meetings, it will be a special session since the regular meeting days are Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday.

"It is not clear when a decision will be reached on the hostage issue," a spokesman at the public relations office of the Majlis said before the morning session. Tehran Radio reported the Majlis also discussed the war between Iran and Iraq at the morning meeting.

Two factors appeared to be extending the debate, which some reports had suggested would be resolved in a single day. One was the wave of optimistic rumors from the United States of imminent release for the hostages, which a Tehran radio broadcast today implied was a form of pressure on Iran.

The other was Iran's battlefield losses to Iraq in the 36-day-old Persian Gulf war. Iranian officials have accused the United States of siding with Iraq in the conflict.

A reporter for Pars, the Iranian news agency, who attended the opening session of the debate Sunday said "most probably" the hostage issue "will be decided in the near future" because "it is a very important issue."

The Majlis public relations office said the parliament would not meet Tuesday because of a religious holiday and would decide today whether to hold a special session Wednesday. Its regular meeting days are Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday.

Moosavi Tabrizi, a deputy contacted by telephone from Beirut after the first round of debate Sunday, predicted it might take a "week to 10 days" to decide the conditions for the release of the Americans, who today were spending their 359th day in captivity. Mohammad Mohammadi, a deputy from a party closely linked to the young Islamic militants holding the hostages, said his faction would try to prolong the debate.

The Majlis voted Sunday to hold the debate behind closed doors for "security reasons." The first secret session lasted for two hours and 15 minutes, and the deputies reportedly heard a report from the seven-member commission that drafted proposed terms for the release of the Americans. No details were made public, but Mohammadi said the debate was contentious, and there was little common ground among opposing factions.

Before going into secret session, the deputies by a vote of 101-87 voted down a motion to postpone the debate indefinitely pending developments in the 36-day-old Iran-Iraq war. Pointing to the gallery crowded with foreign correspondents, many deputies asked why the Majlis should be concerned with 52 Americans when hundreds of Iranians were being killed in the war.

The speaker of the Majlis, Hashemi Rafsanjani, linked the United States to the Iraqi rocket attack Sunday which the Iranians said killed at least 64 persons in residential areas of the military garrison city of Dezful. Directing his words to the foreign press, Rafsanjani said: "You should pay attention to these important events happening in the region with the incitement of the same superpower whose hostages will be discussed in the session today."

He also accused the United States of feeding the Iranian intelligence on Iranian troop movements gathered by the advanced American radar observation planes stationed in Saudi Arabia after Iraq invaded Iran.

Arabs make threat of 'grave oil situation'

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The United States would "precipitate a very grave oil situation" and alienate the conservative Persian Gulf states if it tilted the scales in the Iran-Iraq war by supplying Iran with military spare parts, Arab officials and oil industry sources on the Arabian peninsula warn.

Most Arab oil officials ruled out the possibility of another oil embargo. But they predicted Saudi Arabia and other Arab oil states would call off the production increases they are planning to offset the cutoff in exports from the two warring gulf nations. "We would reconsider our oil production policy, with a view to exporting just enough of it to meet our financial needs for economic development, and not in any way to help those who deliberately hurt us," said an official in Kuwait.

Another high-ranking Arab official who refused to be identified said the Arab gulf oil states would be "intolerably offended" if Washington helped non-Arab Iran against Arab Iraq.

"Anti-American feelings already are brewing in the gulf region, with some Arab governments producing more oil than they should, only to help out the non-communist industrialized nations," he said.

"These governments have been raising their production levels against the wills of their peoples who do not see the United States worthy of assistance or sympathy by the Arabs."

Since the war began Sept. 22, Carter administration officials have maintained a neutral stance but in the past week have labeled the Iraqi attack an invasion and said they oppose the "disembowelment" of Iran. Those statements have led Iraq to charge that Washington is supporting Tehran. Iranian officials, however, charge America is backing Iraq.

As for the possibility of military equipment being sent to Iran, Vice President Walter Mondale said Sunday the administration was not negotiating any deal to exchange the 52 American hostages held in Iran for military equipment. But in an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation," he left open the possibility of delivery of $70 million in U.S. military equipment already bought by Iran if the hostages were freed.

"We would like to see the American hostages released, the Iraqi-Iranian war ended, and stability re-established in Iran," said one official in Bahrain. "But nothing of this should be done at Iraq's expense. The Arabs will not tolerate this."

"No Arab government can condone a U.S.-triggered reverse in the Iran-Iraq war without risking public resentment," said an oil industry official of the United Arab Emirates.

San Angelo hosts student leaders

Representatives of the Big Spring High School Student Council attended the District 8 Fall Forum held in San Angelo over the weekend. Title of the program was "Dare to be Different."

George Faulkner, high school principal at San Angelo Central, welcomed the group during the morning session, after which the Texas Association of Student Council's president, W.D. (Dub) Rhodes of Eagle Pass, spoke.

The chief speaker during the morning was Tom Massey, state representative from the 60th District.

Following lunch, the students broke into discussion groups, choosing subtopics, such as safety and scrapbooks.

Big Spring representatives led the discussion on how to achieve outstanding student council status. Bobby Brasel, Big Spring Student Council president, was among the speakers.

Following the business meeting, the Big Spring delegation toured old Fort Concho.

Representing Big Spring at the meeting were Charles Ragan, Russell Stukel, Monette Wise, Dawn Estes, Cathy Weeks, Julie Hunter, Dee Earhart, George Bancroft, Kim Grant, Debbie Cowan, Teresa Alexander, Phillip Koger, Becky Stephens, Amy Ragan, Jody Martinez, Lori Marin, Mack Abalar, Charlotte Bell, Steve Drake, Alan Trevino, Kim Jones and Kay Pollard.

The Big Spring sponsor, Craig Fischer, was also present. The spring forum will take place in Andrews in March.

The Big Spring council is now the district vice-president.

Nets 24 convictions

Fraud, bribery, kickbacks probed

DALLAS (AP) — A three-year federal investigation into fraud, bribery and kickbacks in the Dallas-based Army Air Force Exchange System has resulted in 24 convictions and implicated more than 50 companies — and a newspaper reports additional indictments are expected this week.

The number of convictions is about evenly split between representatives of the agency who took payoffs and officials of other companies who offered the bribes, said assistant U.S. Attorney Ann Srebro, who is coordinating the investigation here.

And the Los Angeles Times says more indictments will be handed down soon.

"Let's face it, the AAFES is rotten to the core," an attorney close to the investigation told The Dallas Morning News last month. The Dallas newspaper said those accused of taking bribes range from low-level merchandise buyers to the upper echelons of management.

A task force of FBI, Internal Revenue Service, Justice Department and Air Force investigators is focusing on the $3.5-billion-a-year AAFES buying division, where 303 employees select, buy and price consumer goods.

Federal agents already have investigated about a quarter of the purchasing department personnel — or about 80 employees — at the Dallas agency.

And the inquiry continues despite grumbings among AAFES employees that federal investigators have illegally tapped telephones, intercepted mail and obtained information through coercion. Investigators heatedly deny those charges.

"AAFES has had a history of corruption for at least 10 years, but nothing of the scale we're seeing now," said a federal investigator who asked that his name not be used.

"The scope of this scandal may exceed the scope of the old military club scandals, the slot machines in Vietnam and so on, during the mid-1960s."

In the meantime, several AAFES employees have petitioned U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to end the investigation. But federal sources have told the Dallas News that the request comes at time when efforts should be accelerated, not stalled.

"I don't think it (corruption) is prevalent," said Col. Kenneth Knowles, general counsel for the AAFES. "The number we're talking about is relatively small. We're talking about 20 persons (indicted or implicated) out of some 60,000 employees."

"But as long as we keep getting leads, we'll keep turning information over to the FBI."

The highest-level employee convicted so far is Walter Lee Shepherd, now serving four years in prison after pleading guilty earlier this year to three counts of bribery and income tax evasion.

Shepherd, 54, was the second-highest civilian officer at the purchasing agency's southwest regional office in San Antonio. He pleaded guilty to accepting bribes from a publishing firm to ease a contract for Bible sales at San Antonio and Oklahoma facilities.

Election judges school slated

There will be a school of instruction for all election judges and clerks on Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the 118th District Courtroom, Third Floor, Courthouse.

Ms. Lucille C'de Baca, Secretary of State's office, will be here to assist in this school, County Clerk Margaret Ray said, today.

COMPLETELY RENOVATED — The new North Side Day Care Center has been given a new face.

PLENTY OF SPACE — The interior of the center has been completely paneled and rejuvenated with three activity rooms, a kitchen area, offices and new bathrooms.

Project cost $27,000
North Side Day Care Center needs sponsor

By JAMES WERRELL
Big Spring's North Side Day Care Center is ready for the pitter of little feet.

Making the facility a reality has taken over a year, but it is now ready to function as a day care center for qualified north side residents. All that is needed is a civic organization or church group to staff and maintain the center.

"The center has been completely renovated, and now it's up to a community group of some kind to volunteer to run it," said Bill Hall, director of community development for the city. "It will be a similar operation to the one over at the West Side Day Care Center."

The West Side Day Care Center is presently the only facility of its kind operating in the city. According to Hall, the purpose of the North Side Center is to provide a more conveniently located building for working mothers in that area.

According to plan, now that the building has been made ready for use, a private, non-profit group in the community must assume the responsibility of running it.

"It can be any interested group that meets the criteria of the TDHR (Texas Department of Human Relations). That could be just about any community or church related group," said Hall. "The center could then be used by any qualified families in the community. Even if it is run by church group, it would be completely non-denominational."

Once a group has volunteered to take on the responsibility, it can apply for federal funding through the TDHR, said Hall. This would provide monies for utilities, salaries, food and most other day-to-day operational costs, he added.

"We would really like to get this thing rolling immediately. Raymond Waugh, director of TDHR in Midland, is very much interested in the project, and will help us apply for funding as soon as a group has come forward," Hall said.

For more information, contact Hall at City Hall, 263-8311.

Police Beat
Two face drugs investigation

Two local men were arrested early this morning on suspicion of possessing drugs.

Police stopped a car driven by Terry Brumley, 26, 2506 Seminole, which matched the description of a car that had eluded patrolman late Sunday night. When the officers peered inside the car, they saw what appeared to be a bag containing a green leafy substance on the seat between the driver and a passenger, William J. Watson, 22.

Officers patted down Watson, and found a small vial that contained a white powder which officers said may be cocaine. Both men face charges of public intoxication and possession of under two ounces of marijuana.

Also Watson faces a charge of possession of a controlled substance.

Thieves syphoned 120 gallons of regular gasoline from two trucks parked at the Gregg Street Exxon Station, 2100 S. Gregg, sometime Saturday night. The gas was valued at $75.

Vandals slashed a tire on a car belonging to Albert Gonzales, 406 Owens, sometime Saturday night. Damage was estimated at $150.

Gregoria Paradez' son heard a noise outside the family's home at 506 S. Bell, about 11 p.m. Saturday. When he checked a few minutes later, he found that someone had blown out the front and rear windows of the family pickup with a shotgun. Damage was estimated at $120.

Thieves lifted a purse belonging to Karen Hahn, 2900 Macaulan, from her car, Saturday night, while the auto was parked in the lot of the Ritz Theatre. The purse had contained several credit cards and some personal papers, and loss was estimated at $60.

Several Big Springers were treated for minor injuries and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital, following auto accidents this weekend.

Raul Rodriguez, 1901 Donley, and Tony Flores, 304 N.E. 8th, were treated and released after a car in which they were passengers struck a fire hydrant. The car was driven by Cruz Diaz, 711 N.W. 9th, and it struck the hydrant at Northwest Ninth and Lancaster, 10:56 p.m. Saturday.

Rocky Torres, 2619 Chanute, and Richard Trevino, 1410 Mesa, were treated and released after Torres drove his vehicle into a utility pole on the 1200 block of West Third. The accident occurred, 2:20 a.m. Sunday.

Natural gas pipeline blast kills worker

GARDEN CITY — March Beltran Gonzales, 38, Sterling City, was killed when a natural gas pipeline blew apart Saturday at a gas plant near Garden City.

Another man injured in the accident, Armando Robledo, 44, was admitted to a San Angelo hospital suffering from undisclosed burns.

Gonzales and Robledo were cutting into a natural gas line at the Valero Hydrocarbon Co., in Garden City about 8:30 a.m. The line was not supposed to have any pressure but when they began cutting the line, the pipe blew apart and struck Gonzales in the head. Scattered debris and pieces of pipe also struck Robledo.

Heavy storms hit North Texas

By The Associated Press

Heavy thunderstorms, accompanied by hail and high winds, pounded North Texas today as a cold front made its way across the state.

Wichita Falls received 1.30 inches of rain between midnight and 3 a.m., and golf ball-sized hail and winds up to 55 mph were reported at Graham, northwest of Mineral Wells.

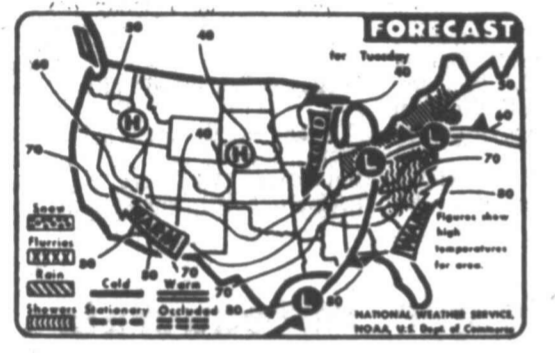

By dawn, the cold front extended from east of Amarillo to west of San Angelo and into southwest Texas. Skies were clear behind the front, but gusty winds to 36 mph were reported in far West Texas.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s and 70s ahead of the front and in the 40s and 50s in West Texas. Extremes at 4 a.m. were 44 at Dalhart and 78 at Brownsville.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast for the Panhandle, northern and southern parts of the state today, with clear to partly cloudy and windy weather in West Texas. Highs were expected to reach the 50s and 60s in the northwest and the 70s and 80s over the remainder of the state.

Three to remain behind

Pardoned Americans to arrive from Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Thirty Americans pardoned by President Fidel Castro were to be flown to Florida today, but three others were staying in Havana, presumably to escape prosecution at home.

The U.S. Justice Department chartered an Air Florida plane to fly the freed men to an airport near Miami where relatives were expected to meet them. U.S. security officers were to be aboard the plane — "after all, some of these guys are experienced hijackers," said a diplomat at the U.S. diplomatic mission in Havana.

American officials in Washington said some of the returnees would be arrested on hijacking or other charges but would not say how many.

Cuban and U.S. officials refused to identify the three men who chose not to go home but said they could remain in Cuba or go to a third country.

The Castro government announced on Oct. 13 that the Americans were being freed in response to appeals from congressmen, social organizations and relatives of the prisoners. But other sources said it was more of a signal to the U.S. government.

"It's meant as a positive step toward the United States, part of a general pattern of attempts at reconciliation," said a Western diplomatic source.

There were also suggestions that Castro was trying to give President Carter a boost in his campaign for re-election. Cuban officials acknowledge that their leader has made clear he believes Ronald Reagan's election would be disastrous for Cuban-American relations. But they insist that the prisoner release was part of a continuing Cuban effort to end 10 years of cold war with the United States.

Improving U.S.-Cuban relations suffered a setback last spring when Castro opened the Cuban port of Mariel to boats from Florida that ferried some 120,000 refugees to Key West in an uncontrolled exodus that squeezed Carter into a difficult political corner.

Castro finally shut off the human flood in September. In other gestures toward Washington, the Cuban government allowed 400 would-be refugees packed into the U.S. diplomatic mission to return unmolested to their homes and be processed for emigration, and it returned two refugees to U.S. authorities after they hijacked an airliner to Cuba.

Pope warns of dangers of 'unethical medicines'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II today warned of ethical dangers posed by artificial insemination, birth and fertility controls, organ transplants and new drugs.

In a major speech on medical ethics, the pontiff said there are "alarming voices" denouncing the harmful effects of "a medicine that cares more for itself than for man whom it must serve."

The pope addressed a group of Italian physicians in a private audience at the Vatican.

"Science is not the highest value to which all the others must be subordinated," he said. "Higher... is the right of individuals to their physical and spiritual life and to their psychic and functional integrity."

"The truth is that the technological development... suffers from a deep ambivalence," he said. "While it allows man to take control of his own destiny, it exposes him to the temptation of going beyond the limits of a reasonable control of nature, risking the survival and integrity of the human person."

The 33 men were the last American-born prisoners in Cuban jails. Most were arrested in the past two years, but one of the alleged hijackers, Anthony Bryant of San Bernardino, Calif., had been in Cuba for 11 1/2 years, and three of them — Melvin Cale, Henry Jackson and Louis Moore, all of Detroit, Mich. — would have completed their eighth year next month.

Speaking in Italian, John Paul said, "Scientific progress... cannot pretend to place itself in a sort of neutral ground."

"Ethical rules, founded in the respect of the person's dignity, must illuminate and discipline the medicine in the research phase as well as in the application of the results achieved," he said.

He said doctors must consider "the implicit danger to man's right to life of such discoveries in the field of artificial insemination, birth and fertility control and hibernation, of retarded death, of genetic engineering, of the psychic drugs, of organ transplants."

The pope said even though scientific knowledge has its "proper laws to follow, it (scientific knowledge) must recognize above all an insurmountable limit in the respect of person and in the protection of his right to live in a worthy way as a human being."

UW concept: One agency helps another

The United Way campaign, which is now getting in full gear, fills a critical need in the community — not the least of which is the help it gives to the Salvation Army.

WITHOUT THE money allotted it by the UW, the local Salvation Army post would have to cut back on a lot of its services. Few people realize how much help is extended by the Salvation Army over a period of a year. Consider the following:

- A total of 1,886 persons were provided with individualized spiritual counseling.
- 6,899 youths were provided with educational, recreation and camping experiences.
- 3,456 adults were touched in one way or another by religious, educational and cultural activities initiated by the SA.

- Emergency financial assistance was extended to 3,688 families.

- Traveler's aid service offered by the SA went to 2,877 families.

- 500 school age children might have missed the thrill of Christmas but for parties arranged by the SA.

- 26 women, victims of spousal abuse, got shelter, counseling and referral, thanks to the Salvation Army.

- 4,681 transient-migrant persons were provided with overnight shelter, clothing and incidental services by the SA.

- Over the year, 16,583 persons received hot, nutritious meals through the local citadel.

- Another 1,062 cases were provided with employment counseling and referral.

- 261 adults were admitted to 90-day work therapy and rehabilitation.

- Individualized counseling was made possible for 5,644 persons.

- Group counseling was provided for 1,014 individuals.

- Disabled veterans were not forgotten. A total of 1,689 were offered shelter pending hospitalization and/or food, clothing and traveling aid assistance.

- 158 persons admitted to community-based correction for shelter, counseling and employment referral.

- 2,372 persons were served by HELPLINE for counseling and community referral information.
- Eight volunteers and professionals provided 384 hours of relief service to victims of Hurricane Allen in South Texas.

- 2,337 persons institutionalized in local federal, state and private institutions received visits from friendly volunteers, personal care kits, refreshments and programs of interest and enlightenment, thanks to the Salvation Army.

THE SALVATION ARMY is only one of a dozen agencies which depend on financial assistance from the United Way to keep its doors open.

No man is an island, apart from the whole. No public agency can exist without assistance provided by someone who cares. The United Way cares, and seeks to help provide.

Southern chickens

Evans, Novak

WACO, Texas — The spectacle of Jimmy Carter barnstorming through the South two weeks before the election as foe of big government and defender of the oil industry reveals that campaign manager Hamilton Jordan's victory plan is off schedule, with time running out

The president's men are still genuinely confident that, thanks to the return of Democratic voters and hopefully a break in the Iranian hostage situation, they will be on top Nov. 4. But they privately admit they had expected to be moving well ahead by now, with undecided voters flooding to Carter. The source of the shortfall is easily identified: the president's deteriorating Southern base.

Carter this election could not rely on a solid South, as in 1976, while concentrating on big Northern industrial states. Ronald Reagan leads in four Southern states and is no worse than even in four more. As Carter campaigned in Texas, the Democratic politicians who greeted him confided that Reagan has a clear lead for this state's 26 electoral votes.

THE PRESIDENT'S SOUTHERN chickens are coming home to roost. After voting in 1976 for a fellow Southerner they believed shared their ideals, rural white Southerners feel betrayed. In Texas and Louisiana, not only big oil moguls but small royalty owners were incensed by Carter's windfall profits tax.

No politician can abruptly alter his tone more easily than Jimmy Carter. In the oil-producing states, the windfall tax whose passage he boasts of so much elsewhere goes unmentioned. It is as if Carter's greatest energy triumph had been repealed miserably.

In two days of oil-state campaigning, he referred to the tax just once (without the pejorative "windfall" description): his speech to an airport rally in Waco began by promising next year to "eliminate the tax on the small royalty owners of Texas and Oklahoma and Louisiana." Here, at Beaumont and in New Orleans, he congratulated himself for oil decontrol — a feat never mentioned by the president elsewhere.

The familiar theme of branding Reagan a nuclear-happy warmonger is muted in the hawkish South, where the president claimed he had restored the nation's defenses, which actually are considered by non-partisan experts to be in deplorable condition. Carter improbably took credit for the Trident missile, the air-launched cruise missile and the new battle tank and armored personnel carrier. Even more improbably, Carter declared: "Defenses were weakened under Republicans, but under Democrats we're putting our nation strong."

Everywhere, Carter stressed his credentials as a Southern conservative. "I'm from the Deep South, from Georgia," he said in Beaumont. "My philosophy in government is probably about the same as yours. I don't believe... that government ought to stick its nose in the minds and hearts and jobs of people in the private enterprise system."

BUT TWO WEEKS from Election Day may be too late to keep Carter's Southern chickens away. The deaf ear the president turned to pleas from Texas Democratic leaders to stop scapegoating the oil industry is well-remembered. In the South especially, Democratic politicians truly dedicated to Carter's re-election are hard to find.

"Y'know, I may have a solution to our somewhat similar dilemmas."

THE L.A. TIMES SYNDICATE

Lettuce now considered Vitamin K

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: As I sit here preparing my lettuce salads as part of my anti-heart attack diet I wonder something: I wonder, with all the vitamin K in lettuce, why people should not avoid it, since this vitamin plays a role in clotting. I am a nurse and have seen the way doctors pour anti-coagulants into heart patients. Then why not tell them to avoid foods with vitamin K in them? I really would like an answer. —C.P.H.

That's an interesting question. I have never heard it brought up, as a matter of fact, but I think you can go on tossing your low-calorie lettuce salads after all.

Blood forms clots in a very complicated way. Tiny cells (platelets) are necessary for it. In addition, there are 10 proteins that circulate in the blood, all of which are also required for clot formation. These are the coagulation factors.

Vitamin K is needed by the liver to produce four of those coagulation factors, and the blood thinners you speak of stop the liver from making them. Blood thinners KO vitamin K, so clots are not formed.

Now, specifically to your question: Foods are not the only source of vitamin K. It is also made by bacteria in our intestines, and that corrects any deficiency that might occur through diet restriction.

Secondly, only a small amount of K is needed, and there is a long list of foods it. Cabbage, cauliflower, pork liver, soybeans, spinach all have more vitamin K than does lettuce. It would have to be a restrictive diet to produce any measurable lowering of vitamin K levels. There is only one recorded case of a lack of vitamin K from inadequate food intake in the medical literature.

Thirdly, vitamin K is stored in fat deposits, so there is always a good supply around. It would be next to impossible to try to thin blood by eliminating vitamin K foods. You have to resort to blood thinners.

Still, it's a good thought. My conclusion: The benefits of lettuce in a low-calorie diet more than outweigh the barely negligible effects of its vitamin K content.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter (18) has been told she has tarsal tunnel syndrome in her feet. I was wondering if you thought medication is a must. Would like to know a bit more about this. —Mrs. T.M.

You have seen a discussion here earlier of CARPAL tunnel syndrome, a wrist nerve problem. TARSAL tunnel syndrome might be called carpal tunnel syndrome of the ankle-foot. Tarsals means ankle and carpal wrist.

The nerve to the bottom of the foot passes through a narrow compartment (tunnel) made of tendons and ligaments. If any of the parts of the tunnel become swollen, because of injury or inflammation, for example, they will squeeze the nerve. That causes a numbness or burning sensation on the bottom of the foot. Likewise, in carpal tunnel syndrome the large nerve to the palm must pass through a similar tunnel. That too can be squeezed for the same reasons and with the same results.

The treatment for both conditions is rest. Steroids are often injected into the tunnel to see if that will lessen the swelling and the pressure on the nerve. If the results from rest and local therapy are not good, then surgery can be done to remove the pressure. Local therapy here refers to steroid injection. The surgery is to open the compartment — enlarge the tunnel.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I know that costochondritis refers to some condition of the heart. Would you please give me some more definite and tangible explanation of the cause and cure? —N.W.R.

Costochondritis is not a heart problem, but it can produce chest pain that can imitate that of a heart condition. The two root words are "costo" (ribs) and "chondro" cartilage.

Costochondritis is inflammation of the cartilage that joins the ribs to the breast bone. It may be treated with simple analgesics, like aspirin, or other pain relievers. For really troublesome pain a numbing drug, like Novocaine, can be injected into the area to relieve tenderness.

CONFIDENTIAL TO G.M.G. — The doctors who have described the use of urea ointment for nail removal (in the article you enclosed) are most trustworthy. Their institution is internationally famous. So long as the account is accurate, it sounds like a trustworthy method of painless removal. Check with your own doctor, who may be familiar with or have experience with the urea ointment idea.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Not all back pain originates in the back. In his newest booklet, Dr. Donohue explains the spine, its muscles and nerves and how you can help yourself avoid back problems or ease those you may already have. For a copy of the new booklet, "Backache and Spine Problems," send 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think there are any false prophets in our own day, or did they only live during Biblical times? —E.V.

DEAR E.V.: Let us be clear on what the Bible means when it talks about false prophets. A true prophet in the Bible was a person who proclaimed the Word of God clearly and completely. At times his message may have included statements about the future, but for the most part his message was a declaration of God's truth. The true prophet did not deliver his own idea about things, or seek to water down his message to make it more acceptable to people. Instead, his concern was to be faithful to the Word of God.

False prophets, on the other hand, claimed to speak for God but in reality delivered a false message. Their goal was not faithfulness to God, but often instead was popularity or profit. Their message was often directly opposite that of the true prophet. Jeremiah, speaking of the false messengers of his day, declared, "From the least to the greatest, all are greedy for gain; prophets and priests alike, all practice deceit. They dress the wound of my people as though it were not serious. 'Peace, peace,' they say, when there is no peace" (Jeremiah 6:13-14).

Are there false prophets today? Certainly! All around us are people who claim to have the truth of God, and yet their message is not the true Gospel of Christ. Some of them are found in the cults and sects which have become popular today. Others may even be within organized churches which are Christian in their basic beliefs, and yet these men deny the basic convictions of the Christian faith through their writing or preaching.

That is why every Christian must be alert, and must know clearly what the Bible says. We are not to be harsh and unloving toward others, but we must honestly confront untruth with truth. We must be "speaking the truth in love" and not be "infants, tossed back and forth by the waves, and blown here and there by every wind of teaching and by the cunning and craftiness of men in their deceitful scheming" (Ephesians 4:14-15).

Race against time

Around the rim

Robbi Crow

Next to Christmas, it was the most anticipated event of the year when I was a little girl.

The earlier you were out on the streets, equipped with a mask, brown paper bag and flashlight, the more loot you were able to haul in for a pretty good night's work.

No, I wasn't the neighborhood burglar. I was the neighborhood witch — at least one night out of the year, anyway.

Kids have always loved the magic of Halloween that allows them to be whatever their imaginations conjure up.

Miniature ghosts, goblins and one-eyed monsters swarm the sidewalks, stalking from house to house in hopes of being treated with delicious goodies, not tricked with practical jokes.

EVEN ADMIRER HEROES like Superman and the Incredible Hulk can be spotted in their capes and masks, roaming the streets with mysterious brown paper bags overflowing with bubble gum, chocolate bars and peppermint taffy.

It's a race against time, each spook rushing to fill his or her sack to the rim. But when mom says it's time to quit, few moans and groans can be heard in the night's darkness, for everyone knows the best is yet to come.

The remainder of haunted Halloween night is spent making careful bargains with brothers, sisters and friends — "I'll trade you three cherry gumdrops for two sticks of tooty-fruity gum."

To the mind of a child, it's nothing more than fun and games. However, what once was a holiday of candy, cake and costumes has transformed into a holiday of caution, concern and alarm.

The thought of new cavities and the inevitable tummy aches sure to result from the over-consumption of too many goodies in too short of time, is the least of mom's worries as the "holiday of the dead" fast approaches.

Over-shadowing the night's excitement is the grim possibilities of piercing needles hidden in a seemingly harmless popcorn ball or broken glass stuck deep inside a taste-tempting scarlet candied apple.

Such instances headline the newspapers year after year, turning a used-to-be safe holiday into a true-to-life horror.

Halloween trick or treat groups are noticeably smaller today than those that used to scamper through the streets during my childhood.

GOODIE STOPS have been necessarily cut short by concerned moms who limit their children's doorbell-ringing to the homes of grandmas, aunts and close friends.

Moms that do allow their children to visit unfamiliar residences make it a point to caution their children from eating anything before they have had a chance to go through the contents with a fine tooth comb.

Some even go one step farther, exchanging the treats their children bring home with some previously bought or homemade ones of their own.

In any event, watch out for your little ghosts and goblins this Halloween. Make sure they're not tricked by booby-trapped treats.

People, bureaucrats

Joseph Kraft

MIAMI — Delta Flight 1131 from Atlanta to Miami last Saturday morning told a story of how much better Americans work as people than as cogs in a machine, or bureaucrats. This is what happened as I observed it from a front-row seat in the tourist section.

Shortly after takeoff, there came from the first-class section a loud, anguished wail. A male voice cried: "I don't want to live. I want to die."

LOOKING UP THE aisle I saw a dark man in a white shirt standing with his head in his hands. He looked Cuban, and I mentioned that to the man in the seat next to me. My neighbor said something about probably being skyjacked to Havana.

At that moment a stewardess came by and closed the curtain between the first and tourist section. I asked what had happened. "Somebody in there is sick," she said nonchalantly.

A few minutes later I heard from the first-class cabin a sustained pounding against the side of the aircraft. Then silence. The stewardess came by to say they would be serving a light snack. At that point there was a shattering noise from the first-class cabin.

The captain then announced that we were running into a spot of bad weather. The seatbelt sign was flashed, and service of the snack suspended.

Shortly thereafter the captain announced that we were beginning our descent. A stewardess came by and collected the portable trays used in the front row of seats. Several minutes later we landed. Both the shortness of the flight and the look of the ground and airport where we touched down made it clear we had not reached Miami. But only when we had taxied to a stop at the gate did the captain reveal the facts.

He announced that one of the passengers had been ill. The plane had landed at Orlando, and the passenger would be taken off. There would be a short waiting period to take on more fuel, then we would continue on to Miami. There was a loud burst of applause from the passengers.

THE CURTAIN between tourist and first class had been opened. I saw the man in the white shirt being escorted off the plane. I approached one of the passengers in first class, and received a brief description of what had been going on.

The man in the white shirt, after his cry of anguish, had started to beat his head against the side of the plane. A stewardess eased him back into his seat. When food and drink were served, he smashed a tray to the floor. Hence the loud crash.

Then he rose and started to try to open the Exit door. "That could have been very dangerous," the first-class passenger said. But one of the stewardesses brought him back to his seat and talked to him quietly all the way down to Orlando.

The captain appeared in the cabin. I went up, introduced myself and said I would like to write about the superb handling of a difficult problem. The captain seemed pleased, and gave me his card. It identified him as Charles Rarick, of Dallas. He said I would have to clear any reporting with the public relations staff in Miami.

I said I understood that. I told him I had a lunch that would be tough to make given the delay of the plane. He agreed to wire ahead so that the public relations people could be alerted.

When the plane arrived in Miami there was an agent to meet me. He had received word from the captain but no information about what had happened or what I wanted to do. When I told him, he said he would have to take it up with his supervisor. Since it was a Saturday, he wasn't sure that anybody from public relations was on duty. I suggested that they might be called at home.

We proceeded to a ticket counter just outside the corridor leading to the gate. The agent said he would go inside and bring back the supervisor. I asked him for a card so I could keep track of things. He said he wasn't important enough to have a card.

By good fortune I met at the ticket desk the young man who was meeting me to take me to the lunch. He agreed to call the other people coming to lunch and ask for a delay. Then I waited for the agent and the supervisor.

About 10 minutes later the young man who met me reappeared. He had not been able to reach his friends on the phone. We had to be on our way or we would miss the lunch. The agent and the supervisor had not appeared. So I left my card and the name of my hotel with the man at the ticket desk, asking that the supervisor call me at his earliest convenience.

The Delta public relations office, which I called two days later, tells me they telephoned my hotel late that night. I never received the message. So I filed this report.

Dear Editor:

"Courage," the late Senator Adlai Stevenson once said, "has gone out of style." I believe that his comment applies to the coming elections as well. What is needed today is the courage to stop thinking of political issues in terms of grey, and to start thinking again in moral terms.

Yet groups with an expressed interest in the political process who also offer us elevated moral choices, such as the Moral Majority, are shot at from all sides. Why? Basically, because they have the courage and conviction to take a stand on issues of importance to them individually and to us as a nation. The Moral Majority base their beliefs about homosexuality, abortion and pornography on the Bible as it has been interpreted for hundreds of years of Western culture. Some people may object to their stand on these issues, but I think that their effort to hold American legal thought accountable for the current public morality is an admirable one.

But rhetorical criticism alone will not change the moral and social problems that now plague our country. Courage is essential — the courage to take a stand on issues which are of importance to each of us and to our nation. I hope that on Nov. 4 each of us will take a moment to reflect on the importance of this election, and the opportunity it offers to take a positive moral stand.

With help of psychic

Body found in Dallas murder case

DALLAS (AP) — Diantha Dickens had just about given up hope of ever finding her 18-year-old son again when a psychic confirmed her worst fears.

Detectives looking for Michael Dickens were pretty sure the young electrician was dead. But they couldn't find a body.

Sunday afternoon, Ennis detective Ron Roark and two other detectives went to a wooded creek bed near the Dickens home — an area volunteers had searched dozens of times since Dickens disappeared Aug. 1.

Under a pile of brush and shrubbery, they found Mike Dickens' decomposed body — in a location that psychic John Catchings had described to them in great detail a few days earlier.

"I'll say this, we went right to the body within 10 to 15 minutes of the time we got there," Roark said Sunday night. "He (Catchings) told us we would find a shoe first and we did. We found a pile of tires and boards and everything and then I located a foot.

"I think that did it when I found the shoe. You know how you get that feeling. It was there.

"I just started digging." A tearful Mrs. Dickens said Sunday night she had mixed emotions about the discovery.

"From several days after Mike's disappearance, I had a very strong feeling he was dead," she said Sunday night, choking back sobs. "At least now we know. Before, there was nothing to adjust to because we never knew if Mike was dead or alive."

She said a friend told her to call Catchings and when she did, he told her Michael was dead.

"He just said very calmly, 'I get very bad feelings about this. I think your son has been killed,'" Mrs. Dickens said. "He told us exactly where to go to find the body and he said Detective Roark would be the one to find it. And he did."

Catchings, who has aided several police investigations, said he found out late Sunday night his feelings were right. It was the kind of case, he said, that made him wish he were wrong.

"They called me about 30 minutes ago and told me they had found the body," he said Sunday night. "It's not really what you'd like to be congratulated for. You want to be objective and give somebody hope. I hope I can say, 'He's hit in the head and wandering around and doesn't know who he is.'"

"But the vibrations I had were very strong from the beginning that he was dead."

Roark was only one of several detectives searching for Michael, a good-looking blond who left for his job at Ferguson's Electrical Shop in Ennis at 7:15 a.m. Aug. 1 and never was seen again. The more he learned about Michael, Roark said, the more he was convinced the boy was not the type to drop out of sight with no explanation.

On Aug. 4, a young man who had been seen driving Dickens' yellow Datsun was arrested. He spent three weeks in jail, but was released and never charged with any crime, authorities said.

Catchings said he has picked out a photograph of the person he believes killed

Dickens. And Roark said because of Catchings' accuracy in locating the body, they are hoping to use his information to put together a murder case.

But that's about all he will say about the investigation. "They've got a very cool character they won't be able to crack without more evidence," Catchings said. "I told them where the body was located. They brought some maps and some articles that belonged to the boy. Using the boy's high school senior ring ... and the map, I picked out the creek I felt like he was buried in and described to them in detail where I thought he was. He (Roark) was very closed-mouthed and didn't tell me anything, trying not to give me any information one way or the other."

Catchings said he knew very little of the case. A lengthy story on Dickens' disappearance and the subsequent arrest and release of a man appeared in Sept. 28 editions of The Dallas Morning News.

"I knew the boy was missing and I knew he went off to work in the car and he was an electrician and that's about it," Catchings said. "I don't try to concentrate on a crime ahead of time. I would rather go into something cold without knowing a whole lot about it."

Roark called Catchings' work "very amazing."

Zaire attempts overthrow of Zambia, reports say

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambian security forces have captured more than 40 heavily armed men from neighboring Zaire who planned an attempt to overthrow the Zambian government, President Kenneth Kaunda said today.

Kaunda told a news conference at least three high-ranking officers in the Zambian security forces were involved in the coup attempt and that it was backed by white-ruled South Africa.

Kaunda, who has governed this southern African nation since its independence from Britain in 1964, also said there were two people in his government who "do not deserve to be called Zambians." He did not name them and did not elaborate.

He said the men from Zaire had split into two units — one operating from Chilanga south of the capital and the other from the copper belt in northern Zambia. He said more than 10 of them are still at large.

The president said early this year he received information that a former Zambian businessman, Elias Kaenga, was recruiting Zambian dissidents and Zaireans from Katanga Province to overthrow him.

His announcement came amid a deteriorating security situation in the country. The president ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew on Thursday, the eve of its 16th anniversary of independence.

Widow of two U.S. senators of Texas dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lucile Sanderson Connally, the widow of two U.S. senators from Texas, is dead at the age of 90.

The native of Texarkana, Texas, first came to Washington in 1904.

Mrs. Connally died at her Washington home Saturday of a heart attack.

She married Sen. Morris Sheppard in 1909, when he still was a U.S. representative from Texas. Sheppard became a senator in 1913 and served until he died in 1941.

She married Sen. Tom Connally, D-Texas, the next year. He died in 1963.

Productivity up the highest in three years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The productivity of the U.S. economy reversed a string of six quarterly declines to post a 1.4 percent annual rate of increase in the third quarter, the government reported today. It was the largest rise in two years.

The rise in productivity, which has a major impact on inflation, was the first in the private business sector since the fourth quarter of 1978, the Labor Department said.

Productivity gains in the third quarter were even larger when agriculture was excluded. Non-farm businesses showed a quarterly increase at a 2.6 percent annual rate, the first rise in three quarters and the largest in three years.

Productivity for the entire private business sector declined at a 2.7 percent annual rate in the second quarter, while productivity for the non-farm business sector fell at a 3.7 percent annual rate.

Productivity measures how many goods and services are produced in one hour of paid working time. As the productivity rate rises, businesses can offset higher labor costs from increased production, and the savings can help stabilize prices at the retail level.

Parole recommended for triple slayer

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — The state pardon and parole board has recommended to the governor that Frederick Thomas Freeman, who shot his wife and her parents to death 19 years ago, should be paroled and allowed to begin a new life as a cabinetmaker in Arizona.

The triple slayer promised the board Sunday that if freed, he would never return to Choctaw County, the site of the sensational crime, or Oklahoma.

After considerable deliberation, the board unanimously recommended clemency from his life sentence. Gov. George Nigh also must approve the parole before it is granted.

The board's vote stipulated that the 53-year-old convict must be banished to Phoenix, Ariz., where he says he has the job.

If Nigh signs Freeman's parole, it will end the imprisonment of one of the prison system's best known inmates, and one of only a handful who has been confined for so long for one crime.

Angered with his wife, who tried to divorce him during a previous prison term, Freeman went to the farm of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Golden, near Boswell on July 19, 1961.

There Freeman, then 34, fired 11 rifle shots into Golden, nine more into Golden's wife, and six into Mrs. Freeman.

After the shootings, Freeman kissed his four small children goodbye after they had witnessed the killings, and then fled, shooting a large hog that stood in his way.

Party honors Phillips

H.O. (Hub) Phillips enjoyed the company of three generations Oct. 18 when they joined him in the celebration of his 76th birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Abernathy hosted the backyard cookout at their home in Big Spring.

Phillips was born to pioneer ranching couple John Jay Sr. and Lora Ethel Phillips in 1904.

Leaner years forced John Jay Sr. to supplement his ranch income by working for the T&P Railroad in Big Spring where his children could continue their education.

He later settled in the Lomax Community in Howard County where he has farmed, ranched and worked in the oilfields around the Lees Community.

Phillips and his wife, Gladys, moved to Stanton in 1948 where they continued farming and ranching. They have four children, 13 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Dear Abby

'Family Affair' May Cause Bad Blood

DEAR ABBY: After trying for five years to get pregnant, I went to a fertility specialist. He gave me some tests and everything checked out perfectly, so he suggested that my husband take some tests. At first my husband refused, but after much pleading and nagging, he finally consented. He found that his sperm count was very, very low, which accounted for my inability to conceive.

Now my husband wants me to have an artificial insemination using his brother's sperm. His brother, who has been married less than a year, agreed to be the donor on the condition that absolutely no one except the three of us knows about it. He definitely does not want his wife to know. He says if she's told, she might forbid it. And if we do it without her approval and she finds out later, it might break up their marriage.

Abby, I would feel deceitful and guilty not letting his wife in on these plans. And even if she did approve, I'm afraid my brother-in-law might take a special interest in our child, or it might create a special bond between them. And what about the child? Should he be told that his "uncle" is his biological father?

I told my husband I would rather have an anonymous donor from the sperm bank — that way I'd never have to face the father, and I wouldn't feel guilty. My husband says if his brother is the donor, our baby will be a blood relative and seem more like his own.

I am terribly torn. What should I do?

CHILDLESS

DEAR CHILDLESS: Don't go along with your husband's scheme unless you feel absolutely comfortable with the idea and have the unconditional approval of the brother's wife.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has heart disease among other things and can walk only a few steps without resting, so his doctor arranged for us to get a "Handicapped" sign for our car.

Abby, you would not believe the number of people who think special parking for the handicapped is only for people in wheelchairs. We have been cursed at, insulted, and on one occasion had garbage thrown at our car for using the special parking space provided for the handicapped.

My husband doesn't appear to be ailing, but believe me, he is a very sick man. Our neighbor, who has had a stroke, says he has had the same problem, so please explain this to your readers.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: You explained it well enough. And if any readers out there need preferred parking for health reasons, your local department of motor vehicles will issue you a permit at your doctor's request.

DEBATE PREDICTION — Republican vice presidential candidate George Bush, appearing on NBC-TV's "Today" show from Washington today, predicted that President Carter will be on the defensive in Tuesday night's presidential debate in Cleveland. Bush also said he thought the American hostages in Iran should be released immediately.

Politicians won't let Lincoln rest in peace

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Ronald Reagan rubbed his nose for luck. John B. Anderson put him on political posters. And Jimmy Carter, at least according to the Republicans, insulted him.

The politicians just won't let Honest Abe rest in peace out at Oak Ridge Cemetery. It's not enough that local folks put Abe's name on everything from an auto parts store to a tavern in the Land of Lincoln. Just let election time roll around, and the politicians put poor, old Abraham Lincoln to work.

The Republicans are the most frequent offenders — after all, Abe was the first GOP president 120 years ago — and Republican Gov. James R. Thompson and State Party Chairman Don Adams used him to battle President Carter recently. Carter visited Illinois on Sept. 22, and Thompson quickly noted Carter's absence from the Ronald Reagan-John Anderson debate just the day before.

"And then the next day," said the governor, "to come winging out of the White House to the site of the birthplace of the first presidential debates... I think it's an insult to the state and the people of Illinois."

Never mind that Thompson got his history mixed up. The famous debates between Lincoln and Stephen Douglas were during their race for the Senate in 1858. Lincoln lost, but the debates propelled him into national prominence.

And then Adams got into the act, noting that when Carter visited Lincoln Land Community College here, he never stopped at the Lincoln tomb. "Jimmy Carter... neglected to pay his respects," sniffed the state chairman.

A month later, GOP nominee Reagan did stop at the tomb, leaving a wreath and, for good luck, rubbing the nose of the bronze Lincoln bust outside.

Forms easier to read

Plain English makes a comeback

By the Associated Press
Word by word, clause by clause and sentence by sentence, the fine print in legal documents is getting easier to understand.

Insurance policies refer to "you" and "we" instead of the "undersigned" and the "party of the first part." Credit agreements warn of what happens if you don't pay your bills on time, instead of "upon failure to make any payment herein agreed."

Even the federal government is trying to make its regulations shorter and simpler.

The "Plain English" movement began about a decade ago. The insurance industry developed standardized forms for auto and homeowners policies. Banks started to review their loan applications.

By the end of the 1970s, revised insurance forms were in use in almost three-fourths of the 50 states.

New York became the first state to pass a broad-based "Plain English" law, covering not only insurance forms but a wide range of other documents. The 1978 act requires all consumer contracts for less than $50,000 to use words with "common and everyday" meanings.

Connecticut, Maine and Hawaii now have similar laws, and the Council of State Governments reports that the idea is under consideration in more than a dozen other states.

The New York attorney general's office has brought only one suit under the "Plain English" law — a challenge to the readability of rules and regulations issued by the Lincoln Savings Bank for holders of safe deposit boxes. The case was settled, without penalty, when the bank agreed to change its forms.

Nathan Riley, a spokesman for the attorney general, said the 2½-year-old statute has helped consumers. "I think that the law has made the agreements more accessible to people," he said.

Plain Talk Inc., a non-profit organization set up in Washington, D.C., a little more than a year ago to encourage the use of simple language, has prepared a model law, now under consideration in the District of Columbia.

Ramsey Seldin, president of Plain Talk, said the model statute would cover all consumer contracts, small business agreements and district regulations. It would apply to all consumer contracts involving amounts up to $100,000 and to all consumer real estate transactions, regardless of price. Violators would face a $50,000 penalty.

Reformers still face one problem: How simple is simple enough? Some states rely on readability formulas, counting words and syllables to decide whether something can be understood by a person of a given age or with a specific amount of education. Seldin said, however, that formulas should be used only in conjunction with other tests — by the kind of people who will actually have to read and understand the forms, and by panels of educators and other experts.

Montana warden to head N.M. prison system

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — The state's incoming Secretary of Corrections says the first thing he wants to do is hire a "first line warden" for the New Mexico Penitentiary.

Roger Crist, who is leaving the job of warden at the Montana State Prison to take over the top corrections job in New Mexico, also told The Albuquerque Journal in a recent interview that acting warden Felix Rodriguez is not being considered for the post. Crist said once a permanent warden is named, Rodriguez will resume the position of deputy secretary of corrections. The hiring of Crist culminated an extensive search by the Department of Corrections and the office of Gov. Bruce King.

Rodriguez has served in an acting capacity since former secretary Adolph Saenz' resignation. Saenz served briefly, taking over the job in the midst of the bloody Feb. 2-3 riot at the New Mexico prison in which 33 inmates died.

Crist said he believed he fell somewhere in the middle of the two. Crist is scheduled to begin his new job on Nov. 3.

COWBOYS MONKEY BUSINESS — Sunday's Dallas Cowboys vs. San Diego Chargers game drew these expressions from Deena, an avid Cowboy fan, at Texas Stadium. Deena brought her owner, Mike Stover of Dallas, to the game to watch the Cowboys beat the Chargers, 42-31.

Chargers beaten, 42-31

Team with death wish

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The San Diego Chargers found themselves in a "bad" situation Sunday night. They couldn't even be comfortable when they forced the Dallas Cowboys to punt.

Quarterback Danny White completed three touchdown passes and totally unsettled the Chargers by running for first downs twice from punt formation in a 42-31 National Football League victory on national television.

Dallas upped its record to 6-2 to remain a game behind the Philadelphia Eagles in the National Conference Eastern Division, while San Diego dipped into a tie with Oakland in the American Conference West with 5-3 records.

"Danny White is just super," said San Diego Coach Don Coryell. "His scrambling and his making the big plays were the difference. Then on those two runs he made off the punts, well, they were great plays."

"We worked on the fake punts and always have a contain man. But White just beats us," Coryell added. San Diego built a 24-14 halftime lead behind quarterback Dan Fouts, who had a wild 58-yard touchdown pass to John Jefferson which caromed off a Dallas defender and a 9-yard scoring toss to tight end Kellen Winslow.

But the Dallas defense victimized Fouts with four interceptions and the Chargers fumbled the ball away three times; twice running back Chuck Muncie was the victim.

Dallas struck for 21 points in the third quarter as White recovered his form after a first-half interception that Charger linebacker Woodrow Lowe returned 16 yards for a touchdown.

White's passing set up two touchdown runs of a yard each by rookie fullback Timmy Newsome and his running for a first down from punt formation was responsible for a score.

The touchdown passes from White traveled 17 yards to Butch Johnson, 12 yards to Jay Seldi and 9 yards to Billy Joe DuPree. White finished the night with 22 completions on 34 attempts for 260 yards.

"Neither of White's running plays on punting downs was called," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "Whenever he runs with it, it is his own doing."

"It was an important game for us," Landry said. "We felt we had to win to keep pace with Philadelphia. I feel pretty good with our record at the halfway point. We had so far to come since training camp." Dallas controlled the ball an amazing 47:00 in San Diego's 18:08 in holding down the NFL's highest scoring machine.

White said "the runs from punt formation are never planned. I did it the first time because their contain men turned their backs. The second time the snap was a little high. I thought it might be blocked and took a few steps to punt, then saw an opening. I know that had to be discouraging to their defense."

"I thought we really played great on offense in the second half. But I wasn't feeling too good after I threw that interception to Lowe. I had to do something."

Fouts had some impressive statistics as he passed 44 times and completed 21 for 371 yards.

"We tried hard and stayed after them. We all played our guts out. You have to give them credit. They took advantage of their breaks," he said.

"I wouldn't say we fell back in the (AFC West) pack. We're still in first place," Fouts added.

San Diego wide receiver

Jefferson, who had 8 catches for 100 yards, said, "I didn't feel comfortable at halftime even with us leading 24-14. I knew something was coming. Coach Landry will always do something to try to beat you."

Jefferson scored in the second quarter after a pass intended for Charlie Joiner skipped off Joiner's hands, hit defender Steve Wilson in the helmet, and bounced back into Jefferson's arms. He traveled 47 yards untouched on the weird play.

"Charlie got stuck pretty good, then the ball just bounced my way," said Jefferson, who celebrated the touchdown in his native Dallas by spinning the ball like a top in the end zone.

"Usually I just pitch the ball to the referee but this was the first time to play in Texas since high school and I said if I got into the end zone I would do something special," said Jefferson.

"We knew they were one of the best teams in the league and we knew we would have to give our best effort for 60 minutes and that's just what everybody did," said Dallas defensive end Ed Jones.

Coetzee may yet surprise

SUN CITY, Bophuthatswana (AP) — South African Gerrie Coetzee has had two chances to win the heavyweight boxing title and failed both times. Is his career now doomed to oblivion?

Two boxing officials believe Coetzee — if he can get American-style training and conditioning — is capable of being the best heavyweight in the world.

"The kid has a future," said promoter Bob Arum after Coetzee was knocked out by Mike Weaver in the 13th round Saturday after having the World Boxing Association champion in trouble in the eighth round. "He has a punch that can knock out (World Boxing Council champion) Larry Holmes."

But both Arum and Rodrigo Sanchez, president of the WBA, agreed that Coetzee has to go to the United States for better training than he has received from his manager Hal Tucker, a Johannesburg lawyer.

"If Coetzee doesn't get some professional training and conditioning," Arum said, "he'll remain the best eight-round heavyweight in the world."

Coetzee had Weaver reeling from savage right hands in the eighth, but then ran out of steam.

"Tucker should stick to negotiating purses and contracts and stay away from things he knows nothing about, like training, selecting opponents and things like that," Arum said.

Sanchez said American training would make Coetzee a first-class heavyweight but that his talents were wasted in South Africa.

"We in the WBA are going to send coaches here but they will work with amateurs and with local trainers," he said. "Working with the professional fighters now hanging around South Africa would be a waste of time."

In the aftermath of the fight, Weaver wearily signed autographs for hotel guests Sunday with his left hand because of the pounding he gave Coetzee.

"Man, this right hand is hurting," Weaver, a 28-year-old former Marine from Los Angeles, said. "I can't move it."

Doctors thought Saturday night that Weaver might have fractured a bone, but later examinations showed that it was just bruised.

Coetzee also hurt his right hand, his nose had a deep gash, and he sported vivid red welts around his eyes.

"But I feel OK," Coetzee said, even if he didn't look very good. Arum, who had both Weaver and Coetzee under contract, announced Sunday that Coetzee was free to go his own way.

"I think any fighter who loses should be free to look for somebody else," said Arum. But Arum said that he wasn't abandoning Coetzee.

Weaver is spending several weeks in South Africa to do promotional appearances and Arum said he would be discussing Weaver's next title defense with Don Manuel, Weaver's manager.

A likeable Irishman

Cooney looms as star

By The Associated Press
You don't have to be Irish or live on Long Island to like Gerry Cooney.

The kid is good. He is more than a neighborhood flash. He may be just the shot in the arm to cure the dreariness in heavyweight boxing that seemed destined to follow the 20-year heady high of Muhammad Ali.

It's too early to pass judgement. He could be the ring toast of the next generation. On early appraisal, he has the ingredients — size, hand speed, destructive punching power, Hollywood good looks, a rare boyish charm.

Conceivably he could fit the mold of a new Dempsey, Marciano, Louis or Ali. It is possible also that his bubble could burst as did that of George Foreman and big John Tate.

The next few months should be interesting and revealing. Cooney should next get a shot at tough, hard-hitting Mike Weaver, the World Boxing Association champ. Then, should he win, a chance later in the year against the long-suffering World Boxing Council titleholder Larry Holmes.

Until recently, nobody knew who he was. He fought the fringe guys — the nobodies going nowhere and somebodies who had already been. He disposed of all with dispatch.

Last May 25 he fought Jimmy Young, who many thought was robbed of a decision over Ali at Landover, Md., in 1976. Cooney left Young a battered, bloodied hulk, stopped in four rounds.

Last Friday night, at Long Island's Nassau Coliseum, they fed young Cooney a 38-year-old warrior, Ron Lyle, who had learned his skills in a Colorado penitentiary while serving a murder rap, who twice decked Foreman and outfought Ali for 10 rounds before being stopped in the 11th.

This was no soft touch for the kid. But Cooney came out with fists flying and 2:49 later it was over — the muscled Lyle lying flat on his back on the apron of the ring, unable to hear the count of referee Arthur Mercante.

It was a slashing, brutal attack, uppercuts drilled to Lyle's body with jackhammer rapidity. Then Cooney shot a thunderous left to the body. Lyle went down like an oak felled by an axe.

It was Cooney's 24th straight victory, 21st by knockout, since he began boxing professionally four years ago.

Cooney's corner erupted into a fountain of Irish green jackets and shamrocks. Kids by the hundreds — refugees of the hockey Islanders — poured out of the stands to the edge of the ring.

Cooney is a superb physical specimen — 6-foot-6 tall, 225 pounds, handsome enough to beat Sylvester Stallone out of the title role in "Rocky." He is strong and quick with a left hook that is deadly.

Only Joe Louis in recent memory was able to destroy a foe with such éclat.

"I thought he did an outstanding job," Shula said of Woodley. "He kept his cool and there was good communication... You take everything into consideration, the pressure that was on him, the way he reacted to the responsibility and I was very happy with him."

"He does what he's supposed to do," one NFL scout said of Woodley. "He stays out of trouble and he gives the Dolphins a dimension they don't have with Griese or Strock; he can move."

Miami is still very much in the running for a playoff berth with a 4-3 record going into the final game of the first half of the NFL season. This is in spite of an offense that has produced only 14.1 points per game to rank a lowly 24th in the league.

The Jets, led by Kevin Long and Scott Dierking, have rushed for 339 yards in their last two games. The emphasis on the run is at least partially a product of injuries to wide receivers Lam Jones, Wesley Walker, Derrick Gaffney and Paul Darby.

CALM AFTER VICTORY — It was a calm Jim Plunkett adjusting his collar as he listened to reporters' question in the Raider dressing room Sunday minutes following Oakland's 33-14 win over hapless Seattle Seahawks.

Rookie leads Dolphins in game with NY Jets

NEW YORK (AP) — David Woodley, who wasn't even a full-time starter in college, is currently the only rookie starting quarterback in the National Football League. And a national audience will see what he can do tonight when Woodley leads the Miami Dolphins against the New York Jets.

"It's kind of like I've got a lot to learn and no time to learn it," said Woodley, who shared quarterback duties with Steve Ensminger at Louisiana State last season and was the 214th player chosen in the NFL draft.

Woodley had an impressive training camp, prompting Coach Don Shula to trade backup quarterback Guy Benjamin to New Orleans. That left Woodley as Miami's No. 3 passer behind Bob Griese and Don Strock.

Shula alternated his quarterbacks early in the season, with Woodley getting his first shot as a starter on Sept. 28 against New Orleans. That turned into a disaster when he was intercepted three times in the first half before being yanked in favor of the veteran Griese.

"I was disappointed," said Woodley. "I knew one of the biggest things I had to look out for was to get down on myself. I had to go back to

Improved defense helps SA

By The Associated Press

George Gervin is still doing the bulk of the scoring for the San Antonio Spurs this year, but now the team has a new coach and a defense that actually defends.

The Spurs' game plan in the '70s was to give the ball to Gervin and outscore the other team.

That formula only worked about half the time as Gervin led the National Basketball Association in scoring three times and the Spurs had one of the worst defenses in the league. After a season-opening loss, Coach Stan Albeck's new system has resulted in eight victories in a row, including a 108-102 road triumph Sunday night over the defending league champion Los Angeles Lakers.

In the only other NBA games, the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 111-98 and the Milwaukee Bucks bombed the Washington Bullets 111-88.

"This year we play more as a team than in years past," Albeck said after San Antonio's latest triumph. "Our second group was the key to our win tonight. We're playing great defense. And great defense wins in this league."

"We're playing good basketball," said Gervin, who led the Spurs with 25 points. "Stan has initiated a good system to play by, with everyone on the team contributing."

Lakers forward Jamaal Wilkes agreed that the Spurs are a different team.

"They play more of a team game than before. Everybody contributes, and they are full of confidence."

The Lakers led 32-20 after one quarter, but a 35-13 spurt by San Antonio gave them a 10-point halftime margin. The Spurs didn't take the lead for good until Gervin hit a jumper with 4:08 remaining in the third quarter for a 70-69 advantage.

Baylor Bears eyeing breather this week

By The Associated Press
The unbeaten Baylor Bears, enjoying their finest football prosperity in the 81 years the school has been playing the sport, can toy with San Jose State Saturday while the remainder of the Southwest Conference jockeys for the stretch run.

(AP LASERPHOTO)

STOPS DRIVE — Cedric Mack (37) of Baylor University intercepts a Texas Christian University pass to Bobby Stewart on the Baylor eleven yard line in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon to stop TCU's drive in the first quarter. Mack had an eight yard return. Baylor won the Southwest Conference game 21-6.

Browner to keep yap shut

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's 23-3 victory over Cincinnati was educational for Oiler Earl Campbell and Bengal Ross Browner. From now on, Campbell will run with his eyes open and Browner will play with his mouth shut.

"I'm reading my blocks better now," said Campbell, who pounded the Bengal defense for 202 yards rushing and touchdown runs of 55 and 3 yards. "I used to squint when I ran, but now I keep my eyes open."
Sunday's game, which catapulted the Oilers into a tie for the lead in the American Football Conference Central Division, also was an eye-opening experience for Browner, the outspoken Bengal defensive end.

Prior to Sunday's game, Browner said the Oilers had no class, that he disliked the Oilers from Coach Bum Phillips on down and that he would buy his fellow defensive linemen dinner if they defeated the Oilers.
After the game, Browner declined to retract his statements, but said he had learned a valuable lesson.
"Next time, I'll know just what to do," he said. "I'll keep my mouth shut and just go out and play the game."

For the second week in a row, Campbell broke the 200-yard mark, making him only the second runner to put together back-to-back 200-yard performances. O.J. Simpson did it for Buffalo in 1973 and 1976.

Shoots down Pittsburgh Steelers Sipe demanding respect

By The Associated Press
Give Brian Sipe an opening, any little opening, and you're in trouble.

The Pittsburgh Steelers learned that lesson the hard way Sunday as Cleveland's passing star riddled their defense for 349 yards, a club-record 28 completions and four touchdowns in leading the Browns to an emotion-charged 27-26 victory.
"I can't express what this win means to all of us," said Sipe. "It feels like a million bucks. This is the greatest feeling we've ever experienced. It's just electric. It's been a long time coming, and I feel like enjoying it. I plan on having some fun tonight."

Not having much fun at all lately are the Steelers, defending National Football League champions who have now lost three in a row. The last time that happened was in 1976, and that's also the last time Pittsburgh didn't make it to the Super Bowl.
The NFL's 16-game regular season schedule reaches its midway point tonight when the New York Jets host the Miami Dolphins in the finale of the eighth weekend of action.

In other games Sunday, the Houston Oilers trounced the Cincinnati Bengals 23-3, the Dallas Cowboys outscored the San Diego Chargers 42-31, the Philadelphia Eagles trimmed the Chicago Bears 17-14, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers edged the San Francisco 49ers 24-23, the Oakland Raiders defeated the Seattle Seahawks 33-14, the Buffalo Bills beat the New England Patriots 31-13, the Atlanta Falcons edged the Los Angeles Rams 13-10, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Baltimore Colts 17-10, the Kansas City Chiefs trimmed the Detroit Lions 20-17, the Washington Redskins topped the New Orleans Saints 24-14, the Green Bay Packers defeated the Minnesota Vikings 16-3 and the Denver Broncos trimmed the New York Giants 14-9.

Despite injuries to quarterback Terry Bradshaw, running back Franco Harris and a host of other regulars, the Steelers appeared headed for victory when Sidney Thornton's 26-yard run gave them a 2-14 lead going into the final period. But Matt Bahr, who earlier kicked two field goals, booted the extra point after Thornton's TD off the left upright and it bounced away — and that was all the opening Sipe needed.
Sipe, who earlier had thrown touchdown passes of 5 yards to Calvin Hill and 6 yards to Greg Pruitt, hooked up with Pruitt on a 7-yarder with nine minutes to play. Don Cockroft missed the extra try, but Sipe gave him another shot when he lofted an 18-yard touchdown pass to Ozzie Newsome with 5:38 remaining.
"I'm terribly relieved," said Sipe. "It's been so long since we've beaten these guys, it's nice to know it can be done."
"It's our biggest game, without question," said Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano.
Oilers 23, Bengals 3
Houston's Earl Campbell gained 202 yards on 27 carries and joined O.J. Simpson as the only rushers in NFL history to post successive 200-yard games — Campbell had 203 last week, while Simpson did it in 1973 and again in 1976 — as the Oilers kept pace with Cleveland atop the American Conference's Central Division at 5-3. Pittsburgh is 4-4, Cincinnati 3-5.

"All last week in practice I concentrated on not letting just one defensive player stop me, and it paid off on the long touchdown run," said Campbell, who scored on runs of 55 and 3 yards.
Cowboys 42, Chargers 31
Dallas stayed only one game behind Philadelphia in the NFC East and San Diego fell into a tie for first with Oakland in the AFC West as Danny White led a 21-point third quarter surge that offset a similar point explosion in the second period for the Chargers.
White threw three touchdown passes and twice made first downs from punt formation, while rookie fullback Tim Newsome twice scored from 1 yard out in the third quarter.
Eagles 17, Bears 14
Tony Franklin kicked an 18-yard field goal with 2:02 to play and Louie Giammona, filling in for the injured Wilbert Montgomery, ran for 79 yards to help the Eagles raise their record to 7-1, best in the NFL.

"I'm really excited to be 7-1," said Eagles Coach Dick Vermeil. "A lot of people expected we would have a letdown this week, after beating Dallas, but we didn't."
Buccaneers 24, 49ers 23
Garo Yepremian's 30-yard field goal with 47 seconds remaining gave Tampa Bay its victory. It was the 198th field goal of his 13-year career.
Joe Montana completed 24 of 31 passes — including a club-record 13 in a row — for 200 yards for the 49ers.

Defensive end Dan Pastorini at quarterback for Oakland three games ago, threw three touchdown passes to Bob Chandler and Chris Bahr kicked four field goals as the Raiders posted their third straight victory.
Bills 31, Patriots 13
Joe Ferguson threw to Frank Lewis for two touchdowns and Joe Cribbs ran for 108 yards and two TDs as Buffalo snapped a three-game losing streak.
"We try to go into each week like it's an important game — but in reality you've got to look at this one as being the biggest," said Lewis.
"This was a big game for us because the Patriots were leading the conference and we knew we had to win," Cribbs added.
Falcons 13, Rams 10
Steve Bartkowski fired a 54-yard scoring strike to Alfred Jackson with 1:15 remaining to enable Atlanta to break Los Angeles' five-game winning streak.
"Bartkowski just told me to give him a good route and to be ready," Jackson said.

"He just made a perfect pass."
Cardinals 17, Colts 10
St. Louis tied an NFL record set by Dallas in 1966 by sacking Baltimore quarterback Bert Jones 12 times in beating the Colts.
"It's been a long time since I've seen an offensive team so dominated," said Cards tackle Dan Dierdorf. "Offensively, we didn't play all that well. It was the defense that did it."
St. Louis' defense had recorded only seven sacks in the team's seven previous games before breaking loose against Baltimore.
Packers 16, Vikings 3
Tight end Bill Larson, signed by Green Bay last week, caught a 4-yard touchdown pass from Lynn Dickey for the go-ahead score with 13:33 to play. Dickey later threw a 12-yard scoring pass to Paul Coffman for the winning margin.
Broncos 14, Giants 9
Otis Armstrong rushed for 106 yards and one touchdown and Jim Jensen gained 92 yards and scored the other Denver touchdown as the Giants suffered their seventh straight loss.

Temple, Killeen tangle Friday

By The Associated Press.
Defending state champion Temple's annual clash this Friday night against Killeen will be more than just a football match between two long-time schoolboy rivals in Central Texas.

Temple, the winner of 47 consecutive regular-season contests, last lost a non-playoff game on the last night of the 1975 season.

On that night nearly five years ago, Killeen administered a 31-13 lathing to the Wildcats.

Temple, ranked first among Class 5A teams in The Associated Press schoolboy football poll, won No. 47 last Friday by running up 399 yards rushing, including 146 by running back Kenneth Davis, who dashed 52 yards for a touchdown.

While Temple's win wasn't really unexpected, unranked Duncanville's second win of the year tossed the North Texas schoolboy football scene into near-shock.

Quarterback Mark O'Brian threw two touchdown passes and ran for another score as Duncanville surprised seventh-ranked Eules Trinity, 38-27.

Duncanville's other win of the year came on an opening night triumph against formerly top-ranked Lewisville.

Eules Trinity was the only loser among the ranked teams. Fourteen other squads posted shutout wins.

Quarterback Tom Dodge threw three touchdown passes to lead No. 2 Port Arthur Jefferson to a 44-7 win over Beaumont Forest Park.

In other games involving top-rated 5A teams, No. 4 Odessa Permian blanked Abilene Cooper, 19-0; fifth-ranked Highland Park slipped by Mesquite, 17-8; and sixth-rated Bryan trounced Waco Connally, 48-0.

Eighth-ranked Lubbock Coronado creamed Lubbock, 26-0; No. 9 Plano stormed Richardson Pearce, 49-0; and 10th-ranked Brazoswood ambushed Calhoun, 63-0.

No. 3 Conroe had the weekend off.

Bay City, the No. 1 team in Class 4A, was not scheduled.

Running back Rocky Collette rushed three touchdowns to lead second-ranked Gregory-Portland to a 42-7 win over Sinton.

Third-rated Beaumont Hebert edged Silsbee, 14-7; No. 4 Gainesville clobbered Grapevine, 53-16; fifth-ranked Andrews edged Fort Stockton, 21-20; and Wichita Falls Hirschi, No. 6, defeated Burkburnett, 28-20.

No. 7 Corsicana embarrassed Dallas Lincoln, 55-0; eighth-seeded Paris posted a 28-13 win over Sulphur Springs; ninth-ranked Navasota steamrolled A&M Consolidated, 43-6; and Ennis, No. 10, overwhelmed Dallas Madison, 39-7.

In Class 3A, No. 1 Childress edged Idalou, 6-0; second-ranked Pittsburg blanked Prairiland, 34-0; fourth-rated Stamford stomped Abilene Wylie, 33-12; and fifth-spotted Allen outshot White, 15-7.

Trevino winner in links play

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Lee Trevino scored a two-stroke victory over Sandy Lyle of Britain in the $40,000 4-under-par 68 and a 54-Johnnie Walker 80 Open hole total of 206.

Farm

Organic farming may be useful

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department official notes that conventional farming now is borrowing a number of approaches from organic farming.

Meanwhile, a report prepared for a group of food and agricultural science specialists concludes that a substantial shift to organic farming would have a major economic impact.

Conventional farmers use chemicals, commercial fertilizers, synthetic pesticides and additives in animal feeds while organic farmers use naturally occurring substances such as phosphatic rock, limestone, animal manures and nitrogen derived from the use of leguminous plants.

During an organic farming seminar last week at the University of Nebraska, Anson R. Bertrand, the Agriculture Department's director of science and education, said increases in the price of fuel and nitrogen fertilizer have brought conventional and organic farming closer together in several areas of farm management.

He noted particularly the search for multiple approaches to handling crop pests.

"Much can be learned from the experiences of organic farmers," Bertrand said. "We need to look at their cropping and cultural practices — the kinds of systems they use for rotating crops, preparing and planting seeds and harvesting, the kinds of equipment used."

Texas Democrats still favored in Railroad Commission races

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Two Democratic candidates for the Texas Railroad Commission, who had hard fights in their party primary, are favored in the Nov. 4 election.

Republican candidates complain they have not been able to campaign effectively because most GOP contributions have been siphoned off for the presidential race in Texas.

The sole Libertarian candidate has a unique idea — do away with the powerful commission that regulates Texas' oil, gas and transportation industry.

In the race for a full six-year term, Rep. Arthur "Buddy" Temple, 37, D-Diboll, is faced by Henry C. "Hank" Grover, 53, former GOP state senator who once ran a close race for governor.

In the contest for the two-year unexpired term, incumbent James E. "Jim" Nugent, 57, former state representative from Kerrville, is challenged by Austin attorney H.J. "Doc" Blanchard, 56, Republican who formerly was a Democratic senator from Lubbock, and Libertarian candidate David Hutzelman, 39, Houston telecommunications expert.

"I believe I can make a persuasive case for 'sunsetting' the Texas Railroad Commission," said Hutzelman, who distributes "wanted" posters calling himself "The Sunset Kid."

He said if elected he would try to get the commission abolished when it is reviewed by the Texas Sunset Commission in 1983.

Temple, heir to an East Texas timber and publishing fortune, is the big spender of both races. Near the end of September, he reported spending $954,212 for the $51,000-a-year post. Most of the money was spent in defeating Commissioner John Poerner last spring in the Democratic primary. Temple reported contributions of $910,339. Since April 24 he has spent $365,604 and has raised $356,612.

Grover, who has been called the "phantom" candidate because of his low profile during the campaign, reported he raised $44,661 and spent $12,407 through Sept. 25.

Nugent, trying to keep the post to which he was appointed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe two years ago, reported he has spent $601,079 in the primary and general election campaigns. He had contributions of $53,931.

Most of Nugent's spending was against his primary challenger, Jim Hightower, former Texas Observer editor and former aide to U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough. Since April 24, he has spent $187,356 while raising $150,397.

Blanchard reported expenses of $13,068 and contributions of $18,356, including more than $6,000 of his own money.

"I'm just not going to use any more of my own money," he said recently. "I'm not going to beg."

He said he was not withdrawing from the race but "I just can't do any more."

Blanchard said when he entered the race, at the urging of State GOP Chairman Chester Upham of Mineral Wells, he was told he could expect strong support.

"The governor has never appeared with me at any event," he said, adding he was not even invited to the big Houston fund-raising event for Ronald Reagan, where other statewide candidates appeared.

Hutzelman reported spending $2,465 with contributions of $3,375, including $3,000 of his own money.

Nickeling under!!!

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — William Hazelett, an assembly line worker at a General Motors plant, felt he was being nickeled and dimed by his employer and his union. So he decided to pay them back — in nickels.

Hazelett's problem arose when he received both GM supplemental and unemployment benefits and federal Trade Readjustment Act benefits during short layoffs. Like thousands of other GM workers nationwide, he recently was told that he had to reimburse the GM fund for the money he received from the federal government. In Hazelett's case, the bill came to $1,495.25.

To protest, Hazelett, 29, decided to let the GM fund, administered by the United Auto Workers, have its money back in the form of 29,905 nickels.

First stop on Thursday was the Pontiac State Bank, where he obtained the coins.

Hazelett loaded the coins into a wheelbarrow and headed for the Pontiac Division employment office, which helps handle the fund. After marking his name on each roll of nickels, he handed them over.

American Petrofina's net income improves

DALLAS — American Petrofina, Inc. has announced that net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, was $84,964,000, or $7.89 per share, as compared with $65,480,000, or $6.12 per share, in the same period last year.

Net income for the three months ended September 30, was $28,431,000, or $2.64 per share, as compared with $37,883,000, or $3.54 per share, in the third quarter of 1979, which included an after-tax gain of $10,128,000 on the sale of a refinery.

Gross revenues for the third quarter were $467,493,000 and $1,485,014,000 for the nine months as compared to $427,817,000 and $1,129,678,000, respectively, for the same period of 1979.

Net income from the production of crude oil and natural gas was significantly higher than in the same period of the preceding year, reflecting higher prices, a gain which was limited, however, by the Windfall Profit Tax. The cost of an expanded exploration program offset part of the increased income from this segment.

Net income from refining and marketing, while up substantially from the preceding year, did not show an improvement during the quarter as demand for energy products declined.

Petrochemical profits were off sharply during July and August, reflecting the reduced demand which began in the second quarter. Significant strengthening in both price and demand in this segment occurred during September.

On Oct. 21, the Company announced a 20-cent increase.
