Jury finds Candace Montgomery innocent

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) — A four-month legal nightmare ended for Candace Montgomery when a jury found her innocent of murder, but her attorney says the summer afternoon she killed a friend with 41 blows from a three-foot ax will haunt her forever.

The 30-year-old suburban housewife was acquitted of murder Wednesday after she confessed she hacked her former lover's wife to death in self-defense.

The sandy-haired, bespectacled defendant began trembling when the verdict was read at 4:40 p.m., but stared straight ahead, her hands clenched in her lap.

Ushered quickly from the courthouse, Mrs. Montgomery and her husband, Pat, avoided news reporters and photographers. They soon will move to Atlanta from this North Central Texas city, where residents have talked of little but the grisly killing since Mrs. Gore's mutilated body was discovered June 13.

The innocent verdict, returned by a nine-woman, three-man jury that deliberated just over three hours, climaxed a sensational trial marked by dramatic testimony and legal maneuvering.

Each day, residents of surrounding towns lined up outside the courtroom to get a ringside seat for the show that beat anything on daytime television. The spectators' reaction to the verdict was mixed.

But lead defense attorney Don Crowder, whose antics resulted in two contempt citations from State District Judge Tom Ryan, said he was, "Very pleased. Very pleased."

Asked what convinced the jury to find his client innocent, Crowder said, "If I knew that, I would be a millionaire."

The dapper young attorney shocked a packed courtroom during jury selection by announcing his client had killed Mrs. Gore, but was fighting for her own life at the time.

District Attorney Tom O'Connell said while prosecutors were not surprised by the self-defense angle, "what we didn't know... was just what the specifics of the self-defense theory would be."

O'Connell declined to comment on the verdict itself, saying, "We do our job, and they do their job."

Jurors and family members also refused to comment on the trial's outcome.

Crowder based his self-defense case on Mrs. Montgomery's brutally detailed account of her visit to Mrs. Gore's Wylie home on Friday, June 13.

She said the former schoolteacher struck her twice with the ax after confronting her about a 10-month affair she had with Allan Gore.

The petite defendant said she tried to escape three times during a frantic struggle on in the utility room of the Gore's Wylie home. Mrs. Montgomery said she finally wrested the ax from Mrs. Gore and hit her on the head.

Mrs. Gore fell to the blood-slickened floor, but the sobbing defendant told jurors she could not stop herself from slamming the ax into the woman who sang with her in a church choir.

Pathologists described the slaying as a "classic case of overkill."

A medical examiner said the victim had been struck in the head 28 times — the blows collapsing her right eye into a sinus cavity and splitting her skull down to the brain tissue at least once.

Psychiatrists testified Mrs. Montgomery was reacting on an instinctive level and that her rage could have stemmed from a 20-year-old incident the defendant could remember only under hypnosis.

ACQUITTED OF AX MURDER — Candace Montgomery leads a trail of press members down the steps of the Collin County Courthouse in McKinney Wednesday after she was found innocent of the ax slaying of her former lover's wife last June. Mrs. Montgomery pleaded self-defense in the case which was decided after three hours of deliberation. Montgomery is escorted by a sheriff's department officer.

Two BSSH patients killed by excessive medication?

At least 15 persons in Texas mental hospitals, including two in the Big Spring State Hospital, probably died from excessive medication, a clinical psychiatrist has told the Dallas Morning News.

A team of mental health experts was on the Big Spring State Hospital campus earlier this year compiling facts in the case. The experts were hired by the Justice Department. The findings likely will be used in a federal lawsuit to be heard in May by a Dallas judge.

The Dallas paper said in a copyright story today that the patients choked to death on food or vomit, according to records obtained from the hospitals through the Freedom of Information act. Each of the 15 patients were on psychotropic drugs at the time of death, said the doctor, an expert on psychiatric drugs.

Psychotropic drugs are administered to alter a patient's personality, he said.

"All these drugs cause neurological problems, and when they are given in combination and in high dosages without strict monitoring, this is what happens," the psychiatrist told the newspaper. "I use these same drugs in my facility, but I never had anybody die from choking to death... psychiatrists (at Texas facilities) ought to be better trained in the effects of psychotropic drugs."

The suit was filed in 1974 on behalf of an 18-year-old mentally retarded patient who was receiving six drugs.

Four people have also died this year from choking at Terrell State Hospital; three at Rusk State Hospital; two at Vernon Center; and one each at Austin State Hospital and Kerrville State Hospital, according to hospital records, the News reported.

The names, ages, and sex of those who died were not included.

The psychiatrist was critical particularly of two practices mentioned in the federal suit — over-medicating elderly patients and the practice of "polypharmacy," in which one or more drugs are used to treat an illness.

"The psychiatrists would not identify the hospitals he said abuse patients by over-medicating."

Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation officials have denied the allegations in the lawsuit. Justice Department officials, who entered the case as a friend of the court, say they hope the case will result in sweeping changes in the state mental health system.

Stenholm discusses issues with Big Spring businessmen

By RICHARD HORN
U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm (D-Texas) said today that he is glad businessmen and women are getting involved in the issues and problems that are facing the country.

"For too long, in the past, business people have merely complained about the state of the country. I think they have finally awakened," he said.

An estimated 50 persons, mostly members of the Big Spring business community gathered this morning to hear Stenholm discuss the political and economic issues being dealt with by Congress. The meeting took place at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce office.

One of the issues that was on the minds of those present was the Windfall profits tax recently passed. Stenholm said the tax would be adjusted no matter who won the upcoming presidential election.

"Although I believe President Carter has caused some problems with his anti-oil company rhetoric, I think the president deserves credit for deregulation of oil. That is a very unpopular stand for him to take, and I don't believe he has gotten any credit for it," he said.

"President Ford had the opportunity to get the deregulation in 1974, but he chose not to. The windfall profits tax was necessary for getting that deregulation."

Stenholm said that he felt that if the tax remained the way it is now, the country would be hurt by it.

Stenholm said he is a member of a small coalition of conservative Democrats who are concerned about the direction the country is following.

"We are doing battle and getting out voted by both sides of the House," he said. "There is a prevailing myth that all of the Republicans in Congress are conservative. That is just not true. But we have to participate in the system as it is. That means we are going to have to get into the trenches and fight," he said.

"I feel like the president catches a lot of blame for many of the problems of the country, but I think Congress deserves a lion's share of the blame."

In reporting on recent activity in Congress, Stenholm stated that the last vote he cast was the vote to expell Cong. Ozzie Meyers, of Pennsylvania.

"I feel it was the proper vote," he said. "I wish Congress was perfect and free of blame in all matters, but it is not that way. I am glad Congress faced up to its responsibilities."

Stenholm continued, "At the same time, I'm glad that Bill Clayton was found innocent of charges in the Briab case. These two incidents point out something very important. So often, after an accusation is made of a public official, he is guilty until proven innocent. I wish that would change."

The freshman representative also made some comments concerning the census program, saying that the Sunbelt can expect to gain 12 to 14 additional representatives from the count.

"Almost every large city feels that it has been miscounted. I have not seen any final figures, but if everyone has been miscounted in the same way, that should not change any of the distribution," he said.

Stenholm also commented on the Social Security system, saying that it would be a mistake to make Social Security voluntary.

Stenholm was scheduled to make tours of the Industrial Park and the Federal Prison Camp. Following that he spoke to a gathering of Senior Citizens at the RSV Senior Citizen Center.

A reception was scheduled for the Congressman this afternoon at the Democratic Headquarters at Third and Runnels. He is scheduled to leave for Big Spring Airport following a meeting with a delegation from Lamesa.

No of (fence) intended, Wegner says

Fencing causes touché situation at airport

By DON WOODS

A fence built on the abandoned runway of the Howard County Airport by a local rancher will be moved soon, because of dangers posed to pilots who may have to make emergency landings there.

Sid Clark, accountant and Big Spring Industrial Foundation member, said Bob Wegner was in violation of a lease agreement in building the fence. Wegner has leased grazing rights to the airport property.

"They're going to reroute that fence. It's my understanding that they were trying to have seen some drawings," said Clark.

Wegner, owner of Big Spring Seed and Chemical, however, said he received permission from former Industrial Foundation member Jack Redding of Texas Electric Service Company.

"I made sure to get their permission before I did anything," said Wegner. Originally the agreement was to fence around the runway, but Redding reportedly allowed Wegner to fence across the runway, said Wegner.

"I was told by the committee that I could fence off the runway," said Wegner. Wegner is the husband of Sherry Wegner, former candidate in the recent Big Spring School Board race.

Clark, however, said he knew of no permission that was given by the foundation to fence the runway. He said that on aerial maps the runway is crossed out but that pilots in trouble might land there. He said the fence would not cause major damage.

Granville Hahn, Industrial Foundation member, said the runway may have to be used by Colorado River Municipal Water District. Hahn said Western Container has an option on the hangar where CRMWD is now housed. If Western container exercises its option, the Industrial Foundation may negotiate for CRMWD to move to the former Howard County Airport, where they would have access to a runway.

The fence on the runway would pose problems, said Hahn. He also said that if a company that built airplanes rented a hangar at the former airport they would need the runway.

Wegner said he understood that if the foundation needed the runway in the future he would need to move the fence.

Hahn said he was angry when he first saw the fence. He said Wegner had been authorized to graze cattle in the airport but not to destroy the runway. Holes were dug in the runway to sink posts for the fence, which includes a double gate.

Hahn indicated that he held nothing against Wegner for building it.

Clark had agreed to write a letter to Wegner to inform him that he was in violation of the lease agreement, said Hahn. Clark said the letter has not been written.

Witnesses say woman told of removing child's heart

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A psychiatrist told jurors that Patricia Ann Frazier sliced the heart from her 4-year-old daughter's chest last winter because she thought the child was "a clone" possessed by the devil.

Defense attorney Harold Lerew told jurors that he intended to prove Mrs. Frazier was insane at the time she carved the child's heart out with a butcher knife.

Police found the body of Khunji Wilson wrapped in a blood-soaked quilt on the front seat of a car on Feb. 22. Her heart had been cut out and wrapped in a washcloth near the body.

Rusk State Hospital psychiatrist Dr. S. Srinivasan, testifying as the first defense witness Wednesday, said he believed the woman was a "paranoid schizophrenic."

"I don't think she understood the wrongfulness of her conduct, or could conform her behavior to the requirement of the law," he said.

The 23-year-old woman killed her child because she "thought it was evil," Srinivasan said. "She felt that it was a clone of the baby... that the devil or something possessed the baby and she had to kill her."

Prosecutors wrapped up their case against the Wichita Falls woman Wednesday afternoon and defense testimony was to resume today.

Joe Blocher, staff development coordinator for Taliaferro Community Health Center in Lawton, Okla., said he had talked with Mrs. Frazier before the child's death.

The woman had traveled to Oklahoma from Wichita Falls, and when Blocher asked her why she was in Lawton, "she said she was commanded to follow a red truck," he testified.

Earlier Wednesday, two prosecution witnesses testified Mrs. Frazier called them the night of Feb. 22 and said she had cut out the child's heart.

Geraldine Galbert, a relative of the defendant, said Mrs. Frazier told her there was "a demon in the house and I had to get rid of it."

One juror burst into tears when a graphic photograph of the mutilated child was shown to the jury.

Katherine Burton, a family friend, said she notified police after the bizarre phone call and then drove to Mrs. Frazier's house.

She said Khunji had never shown signs of neglect and that Mrs. Frazier seemed affectionate toward the child. But the woman showed no sign of emotion after the child's death, Mrs. Burton said.

Action / reaction: First daily paper

Q. Could you give the date the first daily newspaper made its appearance in the United States?

A. The Pennsylvania Packet and Daily Advertiser appeared as a daily paper on Sept. 21, 1784. The journal, published by David Claypoole and John Dunlap, was published as a weekly in 1771. It sold for four pence a copy. The Pennsylvania Evening Post and Daily Advertiser makes the same claim. It appeared as a tri-weekly from June 24, 1775 to Jan. 7, 1779, when it became a semi-weekly.

THURSDAY

The Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will have its second night of registration for beginning square dance lessons from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. at the Westside Community Center, 1311 W. 4th. Instructor will be James Moore. For more information call 267-5030 or 263-2917.

First public meeting to discuss plans for centennial celebration of the coming of the railroad to Big Spring will be at 7 p.m. in the Howard College Auditorium.

The Eagle Forum will present a film entitled, "Let Their Eyes Be Opened," at 7:30 p.m. at the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. The film is on humanism. Mrs. Janet Wolfe of Big Spring will have an open discussion after the film. Everyone is invited to attend.

FRIDAY

Benefit chili supper will be held from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Center in the Industrial Park. A dance will follow the chili event. Admission is $2.50 per person.

The Howard County Library will have Story Hour for pre-school aged children from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m.

For $2 you can tour the March of Dimes "Haunted House," 800 Johnson, from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m.

Tops on TV: Rape and marriage

If you thought Damien was nasty last night, wait until you see him tonight. In what amounts to a double-feature, NBC will present the continuing saga of the devilish boy in "Damien-Omen II" at 8 o'clock. This competes with the CBS feature with the charming title "Rape and Marriage: The Rideout Case," airing at the same time. It deals with the controversial case of the wife who sued her husband for rape.

Debate of hostage release is postponed by boycott

Amid stormy scenes at the Parliament building, many Iranian deputies boycotted public debate on the American hostages today, leaving the 228-seat legislature short of its 179-member quorum and forcing postponement of the session until Sunday.

Sixty-six deputies defied appeals by Tehran radio and Iran's chief Judge Sadegh Khalkali that they attend today — many of them protesting any action on release of the captives before the U.S. presidential elections Nov. 4.

Khalkali, the stern Islamic judge who has sent scores of convicted criminals before firing squads and is known as a hardliner on the hostage issue, stormed to the rostrum, screaming and waving his white turban over his head, and pleaded for a quorum so debate could begin.

The deputies in attendance shouted that debate should be held even without a quorum, a Danish radio correspondent reported from the scene.

Saying he was "no friend of the United States or Jimmy Carter," Khalkali said that regardless of the effect of the hostage issue on the presidential election, it was a problem the assembly was obliged to tackle, the reporter said.

Dozens of boycotting deputies milled outside.

They sent a message into the hall saying a debate would only "help the cause of the United States, and especially Jimmy Carter," the reporter said.

A source close to the debate said the boycotters wanted to stay clear of the U.S. election to avoid any appearance of collusion with the Carter administration over release of the hostages, in their 362nd day of captivity today.

The protest by hardline deputies was joined by a second smaller faction which opposes releasing the Americans on general principle. Some deputies have called for spy trials for the hostages.

After a delay of an hour, only 162 deputies showed up and parliamentary Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani dismissed those gathered in the assembly hall.

He lashed out at the Western news media and again claimed the United States was involved in the Iran-Iraq war. "At the very moment when we were due to discuss the special commission's report on the hostages, the defenseless people of Dezful were smothered in blood and dust by ground-to-ground missiles," he said, referring to last week's Iraqi rocketing of the army garrison town.

County clerk estimates 1,500 absentee votes

Howard County Clerk's office employees are awash in absentee ballots for the Nov. 4 general election.

"Friday that'll be all we will be able to do," said County Clerk Margaret Ray. She attributed the turnout to the intensity of the presidential election year campaigns, rather than interest in the local precinct 3 commissioners race between incumbent W.B. "Bill" Crocker, Republican, and challenger Dick Nichols, Democrat.

Workers in the county office are also receiving many mail-in ballots. Of 673 ballots mailed out, 318 were returned. Wednesday, the office received requests for 21 more ballots to be mailed out.

However, reporters for Pars said it was not clear that all deputies would agree to discuss the hostage issue at that time.

Many deputies have said they were more concerned about the Iran-Iraq war and Rafsanjani. President Abohashan Bani-Sadr and other officials met today with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to discuss the conflict, Pars said.

Absentee vote deadline looms

Absentee voting increased to 823 today in the office of Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray.

Wednesday 138 ballots were cast in the office. Today, 38 were cast. A total of 11 ballots arrived in the mail today. Three were mailed out.

Wednesday, 21 ballots were returned in the mail. Total mail-out is 697 with a total of 329 returned. Deadline for voting is Friday at 5 p.m.

Colorado City reception slated for two physicians

COLORADO CITY — A Sunday reception has been planned in the C.C. Thompson Room of the City National Bank here for two medical doctors new to the community, George Lindsey and William Jones, and their wives. Hours are from 2 to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served by members of the Ambassadors Club, chamber directors and friends of the Chamber. Dr. Jones, who was born in Fort Worth, graduated from Big Spring High School. His wife, Veanda, is a native of Big Spring. Dr. Lindsey grew up in Divine and San Angelo.

Sentence probated

Ricky Ricardo Gonzalez, 17, 110 Andre, entered a plea of guilt in 118th District Court to burglary of a habitation Wednesday. He received a seven-year probation sentence.

Gonzalez broke into the apartment of Wyoming Hotel owner J. C. Nixon on Oct. 25 and was arrested by Detective J. D. Carter inside the apartment. Gonzalez had allegedly burglarized the apartment several times during the last few days while the owner was at lunch. Approximately $1,000 in cash, guns and tools were taken.

Forgeries net 10 in prison

GARY Ralph Greeson, Pasadena, received a 10-year prison sentence when he entered a plea of guilt to forgery in 118th District Court Wednesday. Greeson wrote a hot check to William Bowers. Greeson was charged in a complaint filed by Detective Avery Falkner in Justice of the Peace Bobby West's office Sept. 23. Greeson was arrested Oct. 17 by police and transferred to county jail Oct. 20. Bond was set by West at $25,000.

Police Beat 'Floppy hat' grabs purse

A grab-and-run thief snatched Leitha Earnest's purse while she was walking across the parking lot of Furr's Cafeteria, 12:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Ms. Earnest, Route 1, was walking back to her car when a blond, slender boy wearing a "floppy hat" grabbed the purse hanging from her wrist. He then made his getaway in a car parked nearby.

The purse had contained several credit cards, a checkbook and an Instamatic camera. Loss was estimated at $70.

Thieves stole a Dodge van full of an assortment of tools from the Jones Insulation Company at the Big Spring Industrial Park, early Wednesday morning. Van and tools were valued at $9,119.

While Officer Pat Dunham was on routine patrol early this morning, she spotted an open door at Sam's Place, 2805 W. Highway 80. Closer inspection revealed that burglars had broken the hasp on the door and rifled a cigarette machine, a juke box and two pool tables. Loss has not been estimated.

Denson R. Henry, 1004 S. Main, hurt himself while loading a 410 gauge shotgun, 11:50 p.m. Wednesday. According to reports, the gun discharged due to mechanical problems, and the bolt struck Henry's right hand.

While Willie Jean Harvey, 106 Carey, was on vacation earlier this week, vandals shot pellets through two windows in her home, and bent the antenna on her car. Damage was estimated at over $100.

Vandals also smashed the passenger window on a car belonging to Tommy Blewett, 710 Creighton, Wednesday afternoon. Cost of the damage has not been estimated. The driver of one car and the driver and passenger in another were treated for minor injuries at Malone-Hogan Hospital and released following an accident. Wednesday. Vehicles driven by John Taylor, Knott Route, and Bill Davis, 3233 Cornell, collided at South Gregg and FM 700, 7:36 p.m.

Treated and released were Taylor, Davis, and Shirley Davis, also a resident of 3233 Cornell.

Two other mishaps were reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Ariene M. White, Coahoma, and Linda D. Wilson, 707 Tulane, collided on the 700 block of Tulane, 11:21 a.m.

Vehicles driven by Judy Lane, 1506 State, and Norman Webb, 710 Galveston, collided on the 300 block of West 17th, 2:48 p.m.

Dentist survives sea ordeal

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A 36-year-old dentist from Sussex, England, says she survived 4½ days adrift on the Atlantic Ocean because she was determined "that the sea wasn't going to have me." Dereka Dodson was rescued Tuesday by a Navy submarine tender as her life raft drifted 180 miles east-southeast of Charleston. Angus Primrose of Hampshire, England, owner of the 33-foot sailboat that sank and cast the couple into the sea, was missing and presumed drowned.

The two left Beaufort, N.C., Oct. 22 for Florida. The boat overturned and sank in 50 mph winds Thursday, Miss Dodson said. She managed to hang onto a life raft, but Primrose was washed overboard.

Doctor to be arraigned

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — A Beverly Hills pediatrician and hypnotist will be arraigned in Superior Court on Nov. 12 on charges of killing an elderly woman who made him sole heir to her $3 million fortune.

Dr. Raymond LaScala, 65, was ordered to stand trial following a hearing Tuesday in Municipal Court. He is charged with killing Georgia Mahoney Thera, 89, who adopted him last year, by injecting her with insulin.

A criminal complaint filed Oct. 6 charges LaScala with murder, grand theft, solicitation of murder, witness tampering and conspiracy to forge prescriptions and sell illicit drugs.

Ulcer medicine to be used

BOSTON (AP) — Women with unwanted body hair caused by glandular imbalances can be helped by a medicine generally prescribed for ulcers, a study says.

In a report in today's New England Journal of Medicine, doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington reported giving the drug cimetidine to five women who were plagued by excessive hair, mostly on their faces.

"Cimetidine produced a decrease of 64 percent in the rate of hair growth in four of the five patients," the doctors wrote. Dr. Robert A. Vigersky said the medicine reduces hair growth in women who have excessive levels of androgen, a sex hormone.

Transvestite pleads

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A woman whose $7,000 sex change operation was paid for by the state has pleaded guilty to welfare fraud, saying she worked while on welfare "out of total desperation."

Pamela Felipe, 29, formerly known as Frank Felipe, pleaded guilty to a charge of welfare fraud on Monday in Ramsey District Court. She told Judge Harold Schultz that she went on welfare while working as a beautician so the transsexual surgery would be paid for by the state.

Court records indicated she ran up bills of over $12,000 during her 18 months on welfare. The judge scheduled the sentencing for Dec. 9.

Weather

Temperatures dip below freezing

By The Associated Press

Wichita Falls. The weather service issued freeze warnings for a large part of the state Wednesday.

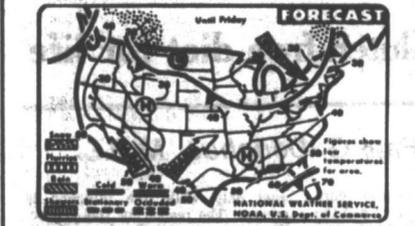

The low temperatures were brought about by a cold, dry dome of air resulting from a large area of high pressure centered in the central and western parts of the country.

Cloudy skies, which discourage low temperatures, were restricted to the Lower Rio Grande Valley, McAllen reported .02 inch of rain.

Forecasters said temperatures would climb into the 60s and clear skies would prevail everywhere except the Lower Rio Grande Valley and southeastern coastal area.

Who will win the votes of local children? Goliad students show big interest in election

By DON WOODS

"It Goliad Middle School was the United States who would win the presidential election?"

That's the question Sharon Oliver's Language Arts class is trying to answer by registering Goliad students for a school-wide straw vote on Friday. Three students from the class, Melissa McCain, Sandra Martinez and Monika Miranda, addressed the schools 783 students Wednesday morning to inform them on the issues.

The presentation was timed to correspond with Tuesday night's presidential debate.

Melissa McCain campaigned for Ronald Reagan. Wearing a Reagan hat and a Reagan T-shirt, she addressed the issues of abortion, defense, energy, and price controls thoroughly.

"I'm impressed with her speech but, of course, I'm prejudiced," said Jim McCain, her father and First National Bank employee.

"I haven't told her who I'm voting for yet. I want her to make up her own mind," he said.

President Jimmy Carter was represented by Sandra Martinez. She said "a lot of people have a lot of confidence in Carter," she said. "Being a president is not an easy job." Later, she explained: "They have lots to do, you know, they have to make big decisions. A lot of times their wives do the job."

Candidate John Anderson was represented by Monika Miranda in a brief speech. Monika concluded with a plea for the students to "vote their conscience."

"We had to find out the candidates' views on the issues. We took time out of our class work to work on it," she said later.

Monika said her speech for Anderson was brief because she had wanted to speak for Reagan. The class voted to determine who would speak. The speaker getting the most votes was allowed to choose who she would speak for.

"We're interested in the candidates because when we get older we'll be affected by the decisions they will be making," said Melissa. "There may not be a world then. If there's a nuclear war the countries will most likely be destroyed."

"Some people put up signs and stuff. Some made announcements," said Monika. Announcements over the intercom system were made by Tracy Kilgore, Chrystal Patrick and Kim Anding.

Others spoke in advisory period classes and collected registrations. "A hundred percent of them wanted to register to vote," said Principal Jim Holmes.

The class has been working on the election since the second week of school, said Monika. In the last four to five weeks three groups were picked to research the candidates, said Mrs. Oliver. "I'm real proud of them," she added. All 31 of her students were seated before the quirming assembly during the speakers' reports.

Six students passed out campaign literature from tables as the students filed out of the gymnasium. "They're going to be voters. You're going to have to be tough with them," Mrs. Oliver told the literature passers.

Friday, all registered students will form lines in front of the voting places that correspond with their registration numbers. Registration for the students was not mandated.

The Howard County Clerk's office was contacted for use of real-voting booths, but it was too close to the election for the clerk to release them.

When the class was asked after the presentation who would win Friday's election, Reagan backers responded first with a chorus of support. Carter forces rallied quickly with support for their candidate. Anderson did not figure in the voice vote.

Iran claims forces holding out

Iraq mopping up resistance

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq said today its forces were mopping up Iranian resistance on the Khorramshahr-Abadan highway and on the eastern approaches of Abadan to set the stage for a final onslaught to take the city of 350,000 inhabitants which houses one of the world's largest oil refineries.

Tehran Radio conceded that Iraqi artillery pounded Abadan through the night and into this morning, killing several people in Iran's besieged city on the disputed Shatt al-Arab estuary, Iraq's only water route to the Persian Gulf.

But Iran said its forces were holding out, that its jets bombed Iraqi positions in the western part of Khorramshahr and near Abadan and that revolutionary guards were still stopping the Iraqis from crossing the bridge outside Khorramshahr that leads to the 10-mile highway south to Abadan.

The Tehran command also claimed squads of Abadan defenders mounted overnight hit-and-run raids on Iraqi forces on the highway from Abadan to Mashahr, 50 miles to the east-northeast, destroying tanks, armored personnel carriers and fuel tankers.

Iran said Wednesday it downed two of Iraq's long-range Soviet-built bombers deep inside its territory, one of them near Qom, the holy city where Khomeini has a house.

Qom is about 100 miles south of Tehran, the Iranian capital. Iran said the other bomber was downed near Esfahan, 145 miles south of Qom.

"All six crew members of the bombers were burnt in the fire of Allah's punishment," the Iranian communiqué said.

Iran also claimed its planes inflicted heavy damage on refineries on the southeastern edge of the Iraqi capital of Baghdad and Basra, Iraq's southern port on the Shatt al-Arab waterway that once divided the two nations.

But Iraq denied reports of damage at the Baghdad refinery.

Mickie Dickson lauded for dentistry article

A newspaper article on dentistry, authored by Mickie Dickson, the Herald's Family Section, in 1980 Science Writers Awards competition, was among the final articles considered by the judging committee.

Mickie received a letter of appreciation for her efforts in providing dental health information to Herald readers from J. Robin Wright, Manager of Spokesman Services for the American Dental Association.

First places in the competition were won by Marge Hanley, food editor for the Indianapolis News, and Howard J. Sanders, editor for Chemical and Engineering News, a monthly magazine in Madison, Wis. Mrs. Hanley substituted three articles she wrote on the relationship of food to dental health. Her writing was submitted by the Indianapolis District Dental Society.

Sanders won his award for a 12-page article entitled "Tooth Decay" in which he explored causes and preventive measures related to dental disease.

Both winners were honored at the ADA's 12th annual session Oct. 12 in New Orleans and received $1,000 in cash.

Mickie's entry was sponsored by the local dental society.

Government studies show that tampons are associated with an increased risk of Toxic Shock Syndrome (TSS). This is a newly-discovered disease that affects mainly women who use tampons during their periods.

Toxic Shock Syndrome can be very serious and is believed to be responsible for a number of deaths. Almost all women who have had the disease have recovered.

Some recent studies indicate that Rely was apparently involved with Toxic Shock Syndrome to a greater extent than other tampon brands.

Toxic Shock Syndrome was first reported in November 1978. It is believed to be caused by a toxin produced by a bacterial infection (Staphylococcus aureus). In June 1980, the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC) first linked it to tampon use. No one yet knows how or why tampons are associated with this disease.

In June, based on research conducted up to that point, CDC said that tampon use alone was not sufficient to cause the disease. CDC also said that no particular brand of tampon was more involved than others.

A message to users of Rely tampons from Procter & Gamble.

Women who use Rely® tampons should stop using them and return the unused product to Procter & Gamble for a refund.

But on September 15, CDC announced a new study. It compared women who had Toxic Shock Syndrome with women who did not. The study confirmed that Toxic Shock Syndrome was associated with tampon use. It also indicated that Rely was apparently involved with more cases than any other brand. Here are the key data available to date:

CDC Study #	Brands Used*
	Rely Brand	Other Identified Brands	Tampon Unidentified	Total
CDC Study #1 (completed June 20)	52	17	43	2
CDC Study #2 (completed September 12)	50	35	22	0
Other cases reported to CDC	140	24	19	100
Total CDC cases (through September 23)	242	76	84	102

Brands used totals more than the number of cases reported because some women used more than one brand.

On September 21, P&G convened a scientific advisory group to review all known data relating to TSS. The group concluded that the available data were still fragmentary, but advised that the results of the latest CDC study should not be ignored.

Therefore, on September 22, Procter & Gamble announced it was suspending sales of Rely and that it would refund money to consumers who had Rely in their homes.

The Food and Drug Administration offers this advice to consumers: "The current evidence indicates that women should stop using Rely. Women who want to reduce their risk of toxic shock even further may want to consider not using any tampons at all, or using napkins part of the time during their periods."

"Women using tampons who develop a high fever and vomiting or diarrhea during their periods should stop using tampons and see their doctors right away."

The FDA and CDC have said they will continue studying Toxic Shock Syndrome to find out what causes it and why it is associated with tampons. Procter & Gamble will participate with the government in this important effort.

In the meantime, Procter & Gamble advises women not to use Rely tampons and to return unused Rely for a refund.

Nevada inmate surrenders two hostages

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — An inmate at Nevada Maximum Security Prison surrendered today after holding two nurses hostage in the jailhouse infirmary all night demanding "a news expose of this whole place," a corrections official said.

Charles Wolff, director of the prison, said, "It's all over."

"As of 6:14 (PCT) this morning the last of the hostages were removed from the hospital area and the two nurses and inmates that were up there are all in good shape and no injuries and David Wayne has been taken into custody."

Armed with a knife, David "Bang Bang" Wayne took the two women and a guard hostage late Wednesday, said John Slansky, superintendent of the prison. The guard was released unharmed a few hours later, he said.

Seven inmates were in the infirmary with Wayne, but they were "just there," Slansky said, and did not appear to be taking part in the incident.

Wolff said, "It ended through negotiation. We had three negotiators including a news reporter and a psychologist and they negotiated for about 11 hours through the night and finally he agreed to release the hostages as of about 6 o'clock this morning."

Negotiating for release of the nurses were Wayne's wife, Terese, Wolff, psychiatrist Robert Whitmore and newsmen Tad Dunbar from KOLO-TV in Reno.

Stress caused by divorce can be awesome

A million Americans will struggle through the 'divorce experience' this year — 300,000 more than shared the ordeal a decade ago.

Numbers can be numbing but many people come to realize that one takes a calculated risk when they agree to exchange marriage vows with another individual.

It isn't the number of divorces that impress people at the Texas Health Science Center (and others similar to it), but rather the stress that invariably accompanies the dissolution of many unions.

"THERE'S ONLY one thing more stressful than divorce, and that's the death of a spouse," Sylvia Roberts told a group at a special seminar on divorce held recently at the UT Health Science Center's School of Public Health in Houston. (Ms. Roberts is a Louisiana attorney and general counsel for the National Organization of Women's Legal Defense and Education Fund).

Divorce is an emotional crisis triggered by a sudden and unexpected loss, according to Roberts, and society is prone to downplay the emotional trauma involved.

"Meanwhile, the person getting a divorce must deal not only with an emotional crisis, but also with the economics of the situation," Ms. Roberts added.

Anxiety, tension, insomnia, sadness, feelings of worthlessness, depression, self-pity, anger, resentment, guilt, bitterness, humiliation and rejection are just a few of the emotions experienced during and immediately after a divorce.

A recent study showed that divorced people reported loss of weight, somatic complaints, self-pity and death wishes more frequently than did individuals who had lost a loved one or persons hospitalized for depression.

According to Ms. Roberts, it may take up to two years to recover from all those stresses. "It is extremely important not to become immobilized, or you cannot possibly protect your economic interests," she said.

"You may feel defeated, but you must seek emotional and legal help. The first step is to prepare emotionally for what may turn into a legal struggle. You must overcome the social stigma that you're crazy if you go to a marriage counselor. Then to protect your interests, you must find a good lawyer. Ms. Roberts says that "just any" lawyer will not do, that they should be checked out. Furthermore, she adds, clients shouldn't use lawyers for emotional support, pointing out that they are not therapists, social workers or magicians.

Divorce can be dealt with more effectively, according to Dr. Camille Lloyd, assistant professor of psychology at the UT Medical School, if the individual realizes that it is normal to feel angry, depressed, resentful and fearful.

"Persons getting a divorce can benefit if they recognize that these are normal reactions to a loss," Dr. Lloyd explains. "It's extremely important to fight a tendency to withdraw from society. Social support — from friends, family, community groups and church — is an important mediation factor in divorce."

Where children are involved, many people allow their angry feelings to be submerged in feelings of rejection and lowered self-esteem, according to Dr. Lloyd.

"IT'S EXTREMELY important for a person to talk those angry feelings out to an independent adult who is willing to listen. Suppressed anger too often turns to depression," she emphasized.

Counselors at the seminar offer these guidelines for coping with a divorce:

— Take small risks and give yourself permission to make mistakes.

— Set realistic goals for yourself and acknowledge your accomplishments, no matter how small they seem.

— Consider the present as a series of choices, not inevitabilities. Learn what you can from an unpleasant situation and make plans to move ahead.

— Be assertive to enhance your opinion of yourself as an independent single person.

— Seek help when you need it — from family, friends or professionals.

To which we might add: Life goes on, and nothing is bigger than life. Those approaches may seem to simplistic but if people under stress use them in facing up to travail they likely will conquer any kind of stress — and everybody lives with stress of some kind.

Goodbye, hello

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

It seems strange that I should be writing a farewell rim today. Ever since I became engaged I have thought I would be in Big Spring for many years to come.

Three weeks ago everything changed. My fiancé, Barry, and I decided to move our wedding date from June 6 to December 27. With that decision came the need to resign my position at the Herald and look for a new one in Lubbock.

After a nerve-racking week, I was hired by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and begin my duties on Monday. All of this has been happening so fast I have had little chance to inform people about my move. Also, I have had little time to think about how all of these decisions are affecting my life.

I am a little apprehensive and a little sorry to be leaving. This is only the second time in my life I have moved to a strange place and started a job in unfamiliar surroundings. I hope this move will go as well as the first — the move to Big Spring.

Working at the Herald has been a lot of fun and I have learned a lot more. My colleagues have made it all successful and fun. It will be hard leaving them on Friday but leave them I must.

Tommy and Walt, Jamie, Nathan, Bill and Don have been great to work with over the past two years. And, although he has just started here, I will miss working with Richard, too.

The part of my life in Big Spring that I will miss the most is my association with St. Paul Lutheran Church. Pastor Kohl and the members of the congregation accepted me with open arms and never made me feel a stranger to them or to the area. In fact, Pastor Kohl has made such an impression on me that I find it hard to judge others on an objective basis. I keep comparing all ministers to him and somehow they just don't measure up to my high opinion of him. But I will try not to let it stand in the way of my enjoying the next church I will belong to. I hope they will be an open and loving as the congregation in Big Spring.

There are some things about Big Spring I won't miss. First of all, I won't miss the potholes that were determined to send the front end of my little car flying into the street. I also will not miss the awful tasting water that, even after two and one half years, I cannot drink unless it is ice cold.

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank my neighbors, Jamie and Gretchen Werrell, for being such great friends as well as neighbors. They were always there whenever I needed help and when I needed a puppy. I will miss them very much.

So, goodbye Big Spring, hello Lubbock.

War and peace

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — People talk "war and peace" as if the issue were entirely up to the U.S. But Russia also plays a major part. So before judging the candidates, it makes sense to assess the present Soviet stance in the world.

Moscow has recently shown new signs of firmness. Particularly revealing is the dramatic public reception the Russians accorded to the visiting puppet leader from Afghanistan, Babrak Karmal. President Leonid Brezhnev embraced him at the airport, and said at a dinner in his honor that the Afghan revolution was "irreversible." That means the Russians are sticking firm by their commitment in Kabul, cost what it may. It will be four or five years, Russians here freely admit, before Soviet troops are out.

THE RUSSIANS SHOW equal determination not to let the unrest which recently swept Poland spread there or to the rest of Eastern Europe. In the last few days they have allowed the East Germans to tighten the rules of contact with West Germany. Moscow thus announces a willingness to crack down hard — even at the expense of harmony with Western Europe.

Then there is the Soviet behavior in the Persian Gulf crisis. Moscow is simply allowing assets to accrue — firmly up ties with Iraq by arms shipments; with Syria by a new security treaty; with Iran by encouraging clients such as Libya to help Tehran. Whatever happens in the Gulf the Russians will be in good position to pick up some pieces.

Within that context, the Russians continue to negotiate with the U.S. on arms control. In other words, with their vulnerable positions secured, and the way open for new advances in the Persian Gulf, they are also prepared to move forward with the arms limitation treaty known as SALT II.

Jimmy Carter's Russian policy centers on passage of the SALT II treaty. He also proposes a modest defense bill, centering around a new missile, the MX, and a Ready Deployment force. He would put further pressure on the Russians by firming up ties with China, by pushing hard on human rights, and by courting the Third World countries, including the radical regimes.

But with the Russians toughing it out, Carter has no chance for early Senate ratification of SALT II. Indeed, he has hurt the cause by bringing the treaty front and center as a partisan — almost personal — political issue. In the process he may even have compromised the credibility of his most weighty witness — Defense Secretary Harold Brown.

NEITHER CAN CARTER hold the line on defense spending. His emphasis on the China connection and on human rights panics the Russians into a steadily increasing arms buildup. The buildup combines with successes scored by radical regimes in Asia, Africa, and Latin America to fortify hawks in the Pentagon and the Congress. Thus Carter's good intentions work now, as they have during the past four years, to fuel the arms race. His policy remains the prisoner of his self-righteousness.

Governor Reagan approaches the Soviet Union all grows. He would scrap the SALT II treaty.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: In response to your column entitled "Big Hearted": It was announced recently that Herald staffers had won several journalism awards. Is it possible that a new category of awards has been instituted, one for "Yellow Journalism"?

First of all, what do you actually mean by the word "bureaucrat", which you so often refer to? According to Webster, it means "a government official following a narrow, rigid, formal routine." Are you defining as bureaucrats the lowly clerk, all federal employees, only heads of agencies, or just those who live in Washington, D.C.? Exactly who are you referring to? Later on in the column, you talk about "the typical worker in Washington...The federal government now employs more than 15,000 lawyers — that ought to tell you something." What does it tell us? That the "bureaucrat" is a lawyer? That only lawyers are "typical workers in Washington"? Or that out of all the federal agencies scattered across the U.S. all 15,000 lawyers work in Washington? It's hard to know exactly what we are being told!

Furthermore, who or what is this "army of paper shufflers" that "get what they want" from Congress? Is it every federal employee, or is it just "bureaucrats"? If you were referring to all federal employees, let me tell you what federal employees do. They are the people in the VA Hospital that take care of the sick veteran who fought for our country's freedom. They are those in the VA Regional offices who send the checks to the disabled veteran or his widow and children. They are the ones at Social Security who do the paperwork and send the old disabled their checks. They are the people who work at military bases (remember Webb, and how the loss of that federal payroll hurt Big Spring!). They are the people in the agricultural programs, the Federal Prison System...I could go on and on. But believe me, Congress does not give any federal program "what they want."

Have you ever bothered to find out what those 58,000 psychologists and social workers you mentioned do? These are the people who work with veterans, help rehabilitate prisoners, and work in many more agencies. The U.S. has over 220 million people — 58,000 social scientists is not nearly enough to handle all the emotionally ill.

And what did you mean about the "lowest paid clerk makes nearly $8000 a year — more than the college graduate could expect a few years ago"...what was that same clerk making then? How does that $8000 compare to the average household income in Big Spring — $18,412, according to the Chamber of Commerce. Apparently, you are saying that "lowly clerks" should not make a livable wage, even though that clerk has a highly detailed, responsible job for which he or she had to qualify with a high school education and passing an extensive examination. This is more than is required for many non-government jobs that pay the same or more.

Are you not aware that "bureaucrats" (by your definition, all federal employees) have the same deductions as anyone else taken from their paychecks, and face the same battle against inflation?

There are seven major federal agencies in the Big Spring area, with a combined employment of just over 600 people (not bureaucrats). Visit any of these agencies and you will see that these people earn their paycheck — not by "rallying the energy to show up for work on payday" — but by providing services that the citizens of Big Spring and the rest of this country demand!

I am aware that editorials are given much more journalistic leeway than actual reporting, but you still cannot take a few random statistics, add a few labels and innuendos, and have an editorial. Editorials should state opinions, yes — but not misrepresentations, generalizations and potshots that end up slandering a large segment of American workers. If there is waste in the government, report it. But stop using government workers as the "goat" when you need a last-minute idea for a "Rim."

Dear Editor: I would like for the following to be published in your letters to the editor, readers' service feature or any other appropriate section.

I have been diagnosed as having a collagen disease, specifically Poly-myositis (the Lupus family). I would like to correspond with anyone who has Poly-myositis or a similar ailment, or a relative of anyone who had the disease. There does not seem to be a specific or uniform treatment nor a definite prognosis. I would be happy to share my experiences with others for mutual aid, comfort and hope.

Please write to: Anne Jorrie, P.O. Box 38283, San Antonio, TX 78233.

Dear Editor: Please go to the polls Nov. 4 and vote against Amendment 3. The Amendment on the ballot is brief and tells you little, but what it actually will do is this: Strip all us Texans of our Constitutional right to vote on the ones who will appraise our County properties (this applies to all property owners, city and rural — everyone pays county taxes). We could no longer vote on a Board of Equalization to hear our grievances.

These rights will be given to an appointed board, their hired Chief Appraiser and their appointed Board of Equalization. These will be beyond any control of the citizens they are taxing, and in 1982 we would not even have the access to all public records that we now have! If you have not yet had problems, consider the potential of the above.

The politicians are hoping to get this Amendment passed before we wake up and discover we've been duped — again! Let's hang on to this precious right to vote. This is one of the principles of our democracy. Vote against Amendment 3, JHR98 and pass the word to your friends, relatives, etc., as I am doing. Once this right is gone we'll never get it back!

Dear Editor: With all the mud-slinging and political rhetoric, will the debate really help the 'undecided' know how to vote?

As an American citizen and a Christian, I have a responsibility to look deeper than promises, party or personality. I must look at the basic moral principles which have been written into the two platforms. Moral issues have made this nation the greatest in the world and others are looking to us to remain the champions of freedom, but we can do this only if we maintain standards and principles which God can bless.

Briefly, the positions of the Republican and Democratic platforms are:

	Rep.	Dem.
Abortion	oppose	favor
ERA	oppose	favor
Salt II	oppose	favor
Balanced Budget	favor	oppose
Homosexual Rts.	oppose	favor
National Health	oppose	favor
Busing, integration	oppose	favor

Sources are the Republican National Convention, Congressional Quarterly (Aug. 16, 1980) and U.S. News and World Report (July 28 and Aug. 25, 1980).

Dear Editor: We are all excited about the excellent story Mickie Dickson ran in Sunday's Herald about the choir. She certainly showed a personal interest in the students and reflected that interest in the article she wrote. We thank her for going to the trouble to get thorough coverage of the contest and then writing it up in an interesting way.

Gluten-free diet for life

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Several years ago I was told I had sprue. I had the intestinal gas and diarrhea you mentioned when you discussed sprue in a recent article. I was put on a gluten-free diet. My doctor told me to avoid wheat products because they contain gluten. I began feeling better on the diet, and I did substitute foods like rice and potatoes, as you advise. Recently, I found by experimenting that I could eat some of the gluten foods without trouble, so I started eating everything. Very recently, I started getting the same old symptoms, so I returned to the gluten-free diet and improved again.

My question: Must I stay on this diet the rest of my life? If I should eat the wheat-gluten products again, what would happen? Do my physically besides the symptoms? What's the basis for this problem, anyway? — Mrs. G.

Two theories are given to explain why some people have trouble with foods that have the protein gluten in them. One is that their digestive tracts lack the enzyme needed to break the gluten down. The other explanation is that their systems make antibodies against the gluten. In any event, toxic levels of gluten accumulate and damage the lining of the intestine, producing the distress.

The disease usually does not go away, so the gluten-free diet has to be adhered to for life or until the doctor gives an OK to go off it. If you keep eating gluten products, the changes in the cells of the intestine will gradually reappear. These changes are reversible, however, by discontinuing the gluten foods. From what you tell me, I think it unwise to do any further diet experimentation.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am taking Teldrin and also Sumycin daily. They have helped my chronic sinus infection and my allergy condition so much that I would like to continue indefinitely with them. Could this be harmful? I am 59. — J.C.

The Teldrin (chlorpheniramine) is an antihistamine, the Sumycin (tetracycline) is, of course, an antibiotic. The antihistamine can be taken safely for extended periods by most people, but any antibiotic should be used only while the infection is present. The reason for this restriction is because of the tendency of antibiotics to kill off useful organisms along with the ones causing the infection. Once your sinus infection is cleared, the antibiotic should be discontinued.

Here's a rule: All medicines should be taken for the shortest period of time possible in the lowest effective dose possible. There are exceptions, and lest some readers become alarmed I should note that certain chronic infections do call for lifelong use of a medicine, including antibiotics. Most infections do not fall into that class of illness. Your other sinus questions are answered in the booklet you asked for, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." Other readers can have a copy by writing me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband has recurring pain on the side of his neck under the ear. The doctor told him he has carotidynia. Can this lead to an aneurysm, clotting or stroke? — Mrs. J.P.

The basis for carotidynia pain is similar to that for migraine headaches. With a migraine, arteries that lead to the brain suddenly go into spasm, then dilate. The dilated artery throbs and produces the headache. With carotidynia, one of the carotid arteries does the same thing; it goes into spasm, then dilates and throbs, causing pain in the face and neck. The name is derived from the carotid artery and the word dynia (pain). There is one carotid artery at each side of the neck.

Why this happens has not yet been explained. The doctor can confirm carotidynia by placing a little pressure on the artery with his finger. If this produces pain, the diagnosis can be made. As with migraine, the drug propranolol is favored in treatment. Carotidynia does not lead to aneurysm (vessel ballooning), clotting or stroke. I might as well give you the pronunciation of that tongue-twister. It's "cuh-ROT-ih-DIN-ee-yuh."

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I know the Bible says we are to be thankful all the time. But how can we be thankful when things aren't always going the way we wish they would? — T.L.B.

DEAR T.L.B.: It is easy to be thankful when things are going well, but the Bible tells us we should be "always giving thanks to God the Father for everything, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ" (Ephesians 5:20). Or again it commands, "Be thankful... whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of our Lord Jesus giving thanks to God the Father through him" (Colossians 3:15, 17). Incidentally, both of these passages come from letters which Paul wrote while he was in prison and (by human standards) would have seemingly had little cause for thankfulness.

How can we be thankful even in difficult circumstances? This is a big topic, but let me mention three reasons for us to be thankful in every situation if we truly know Jesus Christ and have committed our lives to him. First, we can rejoice and be thankful because we belong to Christ, and no circumstance we may ever face can change that wonderful truth. Jesus said concerning those who are his followers, "No one can snatch them out of my Father's hand" (John 10:29). Paul wrote, "For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future... nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:38-39).

Then we can be thankful because we know that eventually all the problems and difficulties of this life will be eliminated when Christ's Kingdom fully comes. The injustice and pain we presently experience will come to an end, because Jesus Christ will triumph over all the forces of evil. "There will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain" (Revelation 21:4).

Finally, we can be thankful in every circumstance because we know that God can use the difficulties of life to draw us closer to himself and bring us to trust him (instead of our circumstances) more. By faith, we can "sing to the Lord with thanksgiving" (Psalm 147:7).

Cuba looks for U.S. diplomatic overture

HAVANA (AP) — Whether it be through baseball, ballet or loosening the economic embargo, it's time for the United States to take the lead in its diplomatic dance with communist Cuba, say officials of Fidel Castro's government.

What they say they want is eventual restoration of full diplomatic relations and an end to two decades of cold war between the two countries.

The release of 33 Americans from a Havana prison this week was the latest in a series of small conciliatory steps toward Washington made since last spring, when strident anti-American propaganda during the Castro-orchestrated sea-flight of Cuban "riff-raff" to U.S. shores put a distinct chill on Cuba-U.S. relations.

The Cuban president has also halted the exodus of refugees to Florida, returned two skyjackers to U.S. custody and allowed most of the 400 Cubans jammed into the U.S. diplomatic mission in Havana to leave for America.

"I don't know what the United States could want next," one Cuban official said privately, echoing feelings expressed by other government authorities.

Non-Cuban diplomatic observers in Havana agreed that at this point Castro is looking for some reciprocal move from the Americans, although he cannot expect it until after the U.S. election next week.

One diplomatic source suggested several possibilities: inauguration of regularly scheduled air service between the two countries, cultural exchanges, a selective lifting of the U.S. embargo for such items as medicines, or even the visit of a major league American team to baseball-loving Cuba.

"But they can't expect any action on the big items," said this diplomat, who asked not to be identified.

—Lifting the economic embargo.
 —Returning the Guantanamo Bay U.S. naval base to Cuban control.
 —Suspending American reconnaissance flights over Cuba.

Washington has its own list of obstacles to normalizing relations:
 —Cuba's military interventions in Africa.
 —The strong Soviet presence in Cuba.
 —The long-standing issue of compensation for $2 billion in American property nationalized by Castro in 1960.

The Cubans, nonetheless, believe progress can be made — as long as President Carter is re-elected.
 "Look at it: Carter is the only president in 20 years to do something about bringing the two countries closer together," said the Cuban official. Carter in 1977 established low-level diplomatic ties with Havana.

Ronald Reagan, on the other hand, has taken a hard line on Cuba, which he calls "this problem festering just off our shores."
 The Republican presidential nominee earlier this year said the U.S. Navy should throw a blockade around the Caribbean island in retaliation for the Soviet military move into Afghanistan.

None of the Cuban overtures to the United States means the Cubans are eager to forsake their Soviet friends. The relationship is deeply rooted economically and ideologically.

Some of the few bright spots in this old, mildewed city are the displays of "solidarity" with the rest of the socialist world.

In the heart of Havana, on a street of drab office buildings and a few thinly stocked shops, a colorful pavilion celebrates last month's joint Cuban-Soviet space flight. Above huge portraits of cosmonauts Arnaldo Tamayo Mendez and Yuri Romanenko and a replica of their Soyuz spacecraft, a sign proclaims Medicare is too important to turn over to the man who opposed aid to the aged. Republican Ronald Reagan.

One-man debate

Inflation top issue, Wrinkle tells Lions

Winston Wrinkle said he knew how John Anderson felt when he appeared as a one-man debater. Wrinkle, long-time leader in Republican circles here, appeared as speaker at the Downtown Lions meeting Wednesday, but his Democratic opponent was unable to appear. Nevertheless, Wrinkle made his presentation.

He thought Ronald Reagan's record as governor of California demonstrated an ability to control spending and turn a deficit into a sizeable surplus over eight years. Also to slow rate of budget increase and stabilize civil service hiring.

The speaker saw inflation as the major issue of the 1980 campaign, noting that commodities had increased 40 percent over the past four years. The oil windfalls profit tax, he said, is an excise tax that will cost Texas $13 billions. Even if Reagan is elected, he thought prospect of an outright repeal is dim because "Texas is an oil producing state and there are a lot more non-producing states."

Dear Abby

Hospital Room Not A Hospitality Suite

DEAR ABBY: I just returned from 12 days in the hospital, and I am exhausted!

The ordeal of my surgery was bad enough, but what really wore me out were the visits I had from well-meaning friends and relatives. I looked like hell and felt like hell and didn't want to see anybody.

I had a "Do Not Disturb" sign on my door, which didn't mean a thing. People would knock on my closed door, and if there was no response, they'd slowly open it and peek in to see if I was up. If my eyes were closed, they'd tiptoe in, sit down and wait for me to get up. Once when I was dozing, a cousin came in and just stood by my bed. (I could feel her breathing on me.) Then she leaned down and whispered, "Honey, are you awake?"

I pretended to be asleep, but she kept asking if I was awake until she finally got me up. Then she stayed an hour and a half telling me who was getting divorced, who died and who had cancer.

Abby, if you have a letter in your files advising your readers not to visit sick friends in a hospital, please dig it out and run it again. It's too late to help me, but it could help others.

EXHAUSTED IN COLUMBIA, S.C.

DEAR EXHAUSTED: I dug out a dilly and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: Please remind your readers that even if a patient isn't seriously ill, he is in the hospital to get well, not to entertain visitors.

I just came home from the hospital, and I'm glad I had the foresight to tell friends and relatives I didn't want any company.

My roommate in the hospital appeared to welcome graciously a constant stream of friends and relatives, but I noticed how relieved she was after they left, because she really didn't feel up to seeing them.

Please ask your readers to check first to see if a patient REALLY wants company before popping in with a surprise visit. A card may be much more appreciated.

RECOVERING FROM SURGERY

DEAR RECOVERING: Well said. And while we're on the subject, I wonder why everyone thinks a "No Visitors" sign on the door means everyone but him?

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the column about children who are taught to call their parents by their first names:

We have some twins here in Olympia, Wash., who did the same thing.

When they started school, after the first day they came home and demanded to know, "How come we don't have a father and mother like everybody else?"

NO NAME, PLEASE

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.F.D. IN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILL.: I think the quote you are searching for is the statement made by the famed British obstetrician and gynecologist, Lord Brain, who said, "When, wherever you live in the world, you can have children only when you wish, that will be a revolution with more far-reaching effects on the pattern of human culture than the discovery of atomic energy."

Papas are parents, too

COLLEGE STATION — Fathers are parents, too, says Cindy Wilson, a family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Encourage their efforts in bathing, diapering and care of the infant, she advises.

Bath-time is an excellent place to start, she suggests.

Time spent willingly and happily by a parent with his or her child during the developmental years goes a long way toward promoting mutual respect and continual communication during the period of adolescence, Mrs. Wilson adds.

Marcy T-Shirt Day is slated for Nov. 12

The Marcy School P.T.A. met Oct. 21 with Mrs. Nelda Reagan, president, presiding. Scout Troop No. 305 led the flag ceremony.

The 1980-81 budget was read and approved. Mrs. Yvonne Kimbell, carnival chairman, gave the carnival report.

A project committee was appointed to study possible projects to be funded by carnival receipts.

Mrs. Reagan presented for approval an emergency resolution asking for increased state support of public libraries. Texas is last among 46 states which give state support to public libraries at 16 cents per capita as compared to an average 82 cents nationwide.

The resolution reads: "It is resolved that the Texas P.T.A. go on record in support of $1 per capita support to Texas public libraries by the legislature which convenes in January 1981." The resolution passed unanimously and will be sent to the State P.T.A. Conference in El Paso Nov. 16-17.

Marcy T-Shirt Day was set for Nov. 12. T-shirts will be sold Nov. 3-5. Mrs. Janet Murley reported that Marcy made 80 percent of its membership goal with 469 members, and then drew the names of winners of "Hangar 18" pictures, a ticket to the movie, "Hangar 18," and a T-shirt.

Margaret Baum, author of "Keep Out of reach of Children," presented the program, reading several anecdotes from her book of incidents in the lives of her children.

Mrs. Susan Dawes sang several songs written as a result of those incidents.

Ideas that work for you

Cookies may produce even more tooth decay than sugar alone, according to the "Here's News in Medicine" column in the current Family Circle magazine.

Reporting on research being done now on the cariogenic — tooth decay-producing — potential of foods, Family Circle notes that chocolate and caramel are less cariogenic than sugar, while potato chips, often considered innocuous, are moderately decay-producing.

Research also shows that breakfast cereals containing 8 percent, 14 percent or 60 percent sugar have almost equal tooth decay-producing potential.

Next time you're out shopping with your children and need to buy them socks, but aren't sure if the socks fit, try this tip from the current Family Circle magazine.

Have your kid make a fist. Wrap the sock around the fist over the knuckles. If the heel and toe of the sock meet, the sock is the correct size.

To help demystify the abbreviations doctors use in writing prescriptions, a current Family Circle magazine article, "Taking Your Medicine: What You Should Know," lists the most common ones including: Rx (prescription); Sig (label); ac (before meals); pc (after meals); bid (twice a day); tid (three times a day); qid (four times a day); hs (at bedtime); gt (a drop); prn (as needed).

To get a v-e-r-y expensive ($65 to $150) perfume scent you adore without paying through the nose, take a tip from a current Family Circle magazine feature, "The Budgeter's Guide to Buying Fragrance!"

Buy a lower-priced perfume in the same fragrance category. If a performer uses a similar base and skillful chemical blending, he can often approximate if not duplicate, the notes (characteristic scents) of the higher-priced perfume, says the magazine.

With the aid of some top perfumers, Family Circle worked out a chart listing nine of the best-known luxury perfumes and gives moderate ($35 to $90 an oz.) and inexpensive ($6.50 for 1.9 oz. to $35 an oz.) alternate choices for each.

The worst consumer rip-offs by garages occur along interstates and other highways, where service station operators are usually unconcerned with building up a repeat business.

So says a current Family Circle magazine feature, "How To Find An Auto Mechanic That Won't Rip You Off." The very best way to avoid a blatant rip-off, notes the magazine, is to get out of your car as soon as you stop and watch closely everything the attendant does.

He will be far less inclined to pull a "fast one" if there is a chance of being caught in the act.

A single strand of a fabric softener sheet — the kind used in the clothes dryer — works as well as an entire sheet to take the static out of permanent-press items. So notes a Family Circle reader in the magazine's current issue. One sheet contains about seven strands; so, one roll of 40 sheets will take care of 280 loads!

To make your perfume fragrance last and last and last on your skin, learn to layer suggests a current Family Circle magazine article, "The Budgeter's Guide To Buying Fragrance." Start with bath oil, followed by a dusting of scented powder or body lotion. Finish with a spray of cologne and a few strokes of perfume.

It's not hard to soften glue. A how-to tip in the current Family Circle suggests pouring a few drops of vinegar into the glue container. Stir or shake thoroughly.

Don't despair if you don't have, or can't get, touch-up paint in the right color for chipped spots on your car's paint job. Take a tip from the current Family Circle magazine and try clear nail polish on the spots.

Be sure to clean the spots thoroughly before applying the nail polish. The polish will help prevent rust spots from forming. A Family Circle reader did this two years ago to a spot the size of a 50 cent piece and, so far, no rust.

Rebekahs to celebrate Halloween with dinner

The Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284 met Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. with Lillian Rhine presiding over the 16 members present, ten of whom were past noble grands. Nineteen visits to the sick were reported.

A Halloween party slated for Nov. 1 at the I.O.O.F. Hall was announced. It will begin with a pot luck dinner at 7 p.m. Each member attending is asked to bring a cake to be auctioned off. Members of the lodges will furnish the entertainment. Those who wish to should dress in costume.

The Mullen Odd Fellow Lodge will serve a Thanksgiving dinner to the public at the lodge hall Nov. 21. Tickets will be sold by lodge members.

The November refreshment committee was appointed. Committee members are Rosa Lee Hill, Ega Lee Patterson, Timmie McCormick, Mattie Roberts

Doll Show is success

The recent three-day doll show and sale at Heritage Museum by Allene's Doll House, Austin, was a decided success. More than a thousand visitors and collectors attended the weekend show, Oct. 24-25-26.

Collectors came especially for the doll show from Monahans, Midland, Lamesa, Lubbock, Andrews, San Angelo, Sterling City, Ft. Stockton, Balmorhea, Forsan, Wichita Falls and other towns, according to Gerri Atwell, curator.

Mrs. Atwell said that Allene Rollins and Virgie Boardman, owners of Allene's Doll House, were well pleased by the response of the public to the show and sale.

Courting Lady Luck

Dr. Wallace: My best friend is very lucky. Everything she touches turns to gold. I never seem to have any luck. I know this is a stupid question but is there any way for a person to improve her luck?

I need all the help I can get. I'm trying to get this cute boy in history to notice me. — Glendora, Battle Creek, Mich.

Glendora: I'm sure these hints will improve your luck more than a four-leaf clover or a rabbit's foot.

1. Plan Ahead. Anticipate a situation and prepare for it.

2. Be willing to take risks. Many experts feel that risk taking is a trait often associated with high achievement. To overcome the fear of failure, ask yourself, "What's the worst thing that could happen if I do it?"

3. Look at something familiar in a different way. The ability to see everyday things in a new light is an important aspect of creativity.

4. Form helpful relationships. This isn't using people. It simply means taking advantage of the opportunities that come your way through friends.

5. Turn a misfortune into an advantage. When your approach to one goal is blocked, instead of feeling sorry for yourself, use a different approach or substitute another goal. — Good luck!

Dr. Wallace: I moved to Oregon last February to live with my grandmother and fell in love with a guy who is in the Coast Guard. Even though I loved this guy, I was homesick for my friends and family in Santa Barbara, Calif., so I went home.

A few weeks later my parents kicked me out of the house so I contacted my boyfriend in Oregon and now I'm living with him. My parents know where I am and we even write to each other.

The problem is my grandmother. She says that I should be living with her instead of with my boyfriend and that I should be ashamed of myself. But I'm not.

I love this guy very much and besides, Grandmother is very old-fashioned. Her ways are not mine. She just doesn't understand that times change. Please tell me what you think of the situation. — Joanne, Astoria, Oregon

Joanne: Times do change, but not always for the better. I agree with Grandmother. You should be ashamed of yourself.

With birth control

Why some women take chances

Although no one can say how many accidental pregnancies occur annually, statistics show that there are two million abortions and more than half a million babies born to unwed mothers each year.

Studies also estimate that over half of all U.S. births are the results of accidents. Such unwanted pregnancies used to be explained by ignorance or lack of available contraceptives.

But today, reports the current issue of modern birth control methods as widely available and effective as they are, researchers are finding the reasons for these unwanted pregnancies to be quite different and quite complex.

A variety of unconscious drives may motivate a woman to become pregnant.

According to psychoanalyst Dr. Z. Alexander Aarons, "We may speculate that although a woman did not wish to become pregnant, the fact that she did suggests that unconsciously she may have wanted to."

Wanting to become pregnant, and wanting a baby are of course not the same, says Dr. Aarons. But the experience of pregnancy, however inconvenient, almost always brings feelings of newness, excitement and self-confirmation. The woman now feels "I'm a real woman, I'm normal, I've created life."

Besides gratifying the woman's self-image, reports Dr. Ruth Lidz, a Yale psychiatrist, pregnancy flatters the impregnating male. Many men resent a woman's use of birth control, and complain about the "waste" of their semen.

Thusly, a woman may "forget" to use birth control because she needs to provide her macho partner with the desired proof of virility.

A common manifestation of unconscious drives is denial: a woman simply refuses to recognize that she's sexually active and might get pregnant. A woman who is conditioned to associate sexuality with reproduction finds birth control guilt-inducing, speculates Dr. Elizabeth Small of Tufts University Medical School, so she therefore makes mistakes that bring punishment for "sinful" indulgences.

Dr. Priscilla Boekelheide, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of North Carolina, sees failure to practice birth control as the expression of old or current problems — ambivalent feelings toward an absent father, rivalry with a mother, a negative self-image, or an intensive need to be mothered. "If a sexually active woman cannot resolve internal conflicts about herself as a woman, about her relationships with partners, about conditions past and present," Dr. Boekelheide concludes, "then she may become pregnant."

Carnival kicks off Saturday

College Heights PTA Carnival is slated to kick-off Saturday.

Carnival hours will be from 5-8 p.m. Hot dog and chili dog dinners will be served all evening in the school cafeteria.

Interested persons can buy discount tickets to the carnival's attractions Friday until 9 a.m. in College Heights foyer, says PTA mothers each year.

Early discount tickets will sell for 6 for $1, while tickets will sell Saturday night for 25 cents each.

Special feature of College Heights Mardi Gras will be a disco room with live music by Rampage, the six-player combo of former College Heights student, Doug Baum.

College Height's room decoration contest will be judged prior to carnival kick-off. The winning class will be awarded $20, reported carnival chairman Kay Roberts. She added that children are invited to wear Halloween costumes to add to the Mardi Gras atmosphere.

PTA asks carnival-goers to park in the north half of College Heights parking lot or in the Goliad lot since the paved parking area in front of the school will be roped off for several attractions.

For the first time in years, the school's carnival supper is being served in College Heights cafeteria instead of at Goliad Middle School, according to Mrs. Roberts. Advance dinner tickets are not being sold this year. Rebecca Pierce is chef-in-charge.

Parents are reminded that donations of cakes, cookies, pies and other goodies should be taken to College Heights Saturday from 9 a.m.-12 noon.

Stars, athletes boost Reagan campaign with Dallas gathering

UNIVERSITY PARK, Texas (AP) — Cowboys from Tinsel Town and America's Team stumped for Ronald Reagan as the GOP hopeful wrapped up his last scheduled Texas campaign swing before the Nov. 4 election.

Reagan made his third stop of the day Wednesday in this posh Dallas bedroom community and was greeted by about 8,000 cheering GOP faithful who packed Southern Methodist University's Moody Coliseum to hear Reagan renew his attack on Jimmy Carter's term in office.

"Jimmy Carter has demonstrated his inability to lead our nation," Reagan told the partisan crowd of conservatives, who often interrupted his 55-minute speech with chants, whistles and cheers.

Before his appearance here, Reagan taped several television interviews and told WFAA-TV in Dallas that he supports federal aid for Texas schools ordered to provide a free education to the children of illegal aliens.

Reagan and his wife Nancy were about 20 minutes late to the rally, entering the ribbon-draped arena under a banner that said, "There's Never Been Any Debate — Reagan Is The Winner."

The coliseum, liberally sprinkled with Reagan-Bush campaign placards, was literally jammed to the rafters with a crowd ranging from businessmen in three-piece suits to college students in comfortable sweaters.

As Reagan waded through the audience after being introduced by Gov. Bill Clements, he paused to shake hands and flash a tired but happy smile. A collection of stars, athletes and state and local GOP candidates joined the applause from the stage.

Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, who joined Reagan earlier in the day in Houston and Fort Worth, drew a standing ovation as they told the audience to elect Reagan because he is "pro-life, pro-God and a fabulous American."

Although Dallas Cowboy coach Tom Landry and former Cowboy quarterback Roger Staubach failed to win the applause given Rogers and his wife, they ended the evening on a light note by giving Reagan a Dallas Cowboy jersey bearing his name and the number 12 — Staubach's old number.

"Can you imagine what a moment this is for a fellow who played guard?" quipped Reagan as he held up the blue and white jersey to the cheering crowd.

During his speech, much of which was familiar campaign litany, Reagan received his loudest and longest ovations when he ripped Carter's energy policies.

Reagan challenged Carter's statement during Tuesday night's debate in Cleveland that oil imports had declined 35 percent, saying the decrease was not due to conservation "but recession."

He also called the windfall profits tax an "excise tax" that only burdens the consumer, and said the Department of Energy has spent "$10 billion, but has not produced a quart of oil."

"The answer (to the energy problem)," Reagan said, "is to take authority away from the government and put it back in the hands of those who are experts."

Reagan has an appearance scheduled in Texarkana today before leaving the state.

Bush courting Hispanic vote in Texas today

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — George Bush was back in South Texas today — continuing the intensive Republican pitch to the state's Hispanics as the race for Texas' crucial 26 electoral votes goes to the wire.

Bush told a small crowd at the airport here that school districts burdened by a federal court order to provide a free education to the children of illegal aliens could expect federal aid from a Ronald Reagan administration.

The GOP vice presidential nominee planned to visit the Rio Grande Valley and San Antonio before flying north to Dallas later this afternoon.

A Houston federal judge this summer told Texas schools to open their doors to the undocumented children. Several border school districts have complained the additional schoolchildren would overburden their already strained budgets.

Bush said he supported the judge's decision, but added that the federal government should help the school districts "so no overburdened school community will be forced to carry a burden they can't bear."

"No one of conscience, no one of concern, can say these kids shouldn't be educated," he said.

Bush also contended that federal programs designed to bolster minority businesses have diminished under the Carter administration. He promised that under Reagan, such programs would flourish.

The Republican vice presidential hopeful met with a group of about 20 Hispanic leaders after his arrival in Corpus Christi.

After the meeting Nelson Rodriguez, a spokesman for the Hispanic Chambers of Commerce, said the group of about 14,000 businessmen has decided to endorse the Republican ticket.

Bush is scheduled to speak to about 500 supporters at a Corpus Christi rally this morning before traveling to Harlingen and Dallas this afternoon.

Girls Scouts one of many needing help

The Girl Scouts, one of the agencies supported by the United Way, now has 51 troops with 96 adult supervisors in this area. Over 556 girls from the ages of 6 to 17 are involved in the program here.

A total of 99 girls and 36 adult sponsors participated in this year's Day Camp while 106 girls attended resident camp.

In a Girl Scout-sponsored track and field meet, 345 girls and 100 adult sponsors were involved. Another 375 attended the annual Father-Daughter banquet.

The girls in the scout movement found lots to do with their time. Over 100 proficiency badges and cookie badges were earned by members. Thirty-five of the girls attended state, national and international events in learning and growing activities.

Such programs would have to be sharply curtailed if the United Way failed to meet its goal this year.

Profit in taste and money

Penny wise, richly good

Tighten your belt... Watch your pennies... Be a thrifty-minded shopper — all slogans appropriate for this inflationary period. Keeping the family food budget in line while trying to serve your family the foods they love and need can be a challenge.

On-the-go life-styles require recipes with ease of preparation. Economizing on time and money doesn't mean forfeiting good taste or the foods you like! These main dish recipes help stretch those important food dollars and prove that nutritious meals that are long on flavor and taste can be prepared on a budget.

Turkey Patties are an economical version of veal cutlets. Corn meal, enriched with B-vitamins and iron, provides a great grain flavor to the turkey mixture. Nutritious Old-Fashioned Vegetable Beef Soup and Dumplings is another recipe with an old-fashioned price. Ground oat flour thickens while providing the wholegrain goodness of 7-B vitamins, vitamin E and 9 minerals.

Chicken takes the spotlight when it's prepared on the top of the range and served with a moist corn bread stuffing. A touch of old-fashioned country cooking can be found in Country Chicken Skillet Supper.

So what are you waiting for? Begin using these penny wise and richly good recipes and you'll profit in both taste and money!

COUNTRY CHICKEN SKILLET SUPPER

Corn Bread Dressing:
1 pan corn bread, cooled, crumbled
One 8-oz. can whole kernel corn, undrained
1 egg, beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons margarine
Chicken:
One 2-1/2 to 3-1/2 lb. broiler-fryer, cut up
1/2 cup enriched corn meal
1 teaspoon paprika

CHICKEN TAKES THE SPOTLIGHT

1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
1 tablespoon margarine
One 10-3/4-oz. can condensed chicken broth

For corn bread dressing, combine corn bread, corn, egg and seasonings in large bowl. Sauté onion and celery in margarine until tender; add to corn bread mixture, mixing well. Set aside.

For chicken, wash chicken parts; shake off excess moisture. Coat chicken pieces in combined corn meal and seasonings. Brown chicken in margarine in large skillet. Reserve 1/2 cup chicken broth; add remaining broth to chicken. Cover; continue cooking over medium heat for 30 to 35 minutes. Uncover chicken; continue cooking about 10 minutes or until most of the liquid has evaporated and chicken is thoroughly cooked. Remove chicken from skillet; keep warm.

Place corn bread dressing and reserved chicken broth in skillet with drippings. Cook over medium-low heat, stirring frequently, for 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 4 servings.

OLD-FASHIONED VEGETABLE BEEF SOUP AND DUMPLINGS

Soup:
1/2 lb. stew meat, cut into 1/4-inch pieces
1 tablespoon margarine
4 cups water
One 16-oz. can tomatoes, undrained, chopped
2 medium-sized carrots, sliced
1 medium-sized potato, diced
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup Ground Oat Flour
2 teaspoons parsley flakes
2 beef bouillon cubes
1/2 teaspoon each salt, basil and thyme leaves
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Dumplings:
1 cup original pancake mix
1/2 cup Ground Oat Flour
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 teaspoon parsley flakes

For soup, brown meat in margarine in 4-qt. Dutch oven. Add remaining ingredients; bring to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat. Cover; simmer over low heat for 1 hour or until meat is tender, stirring occasionally.

For sauce, melt margarine in small saucepan; blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk; add parsley and bouillon cube. Cook over medium heat until mixture is thickened and bouillon cube dissolves, stirring constantly. Serve over patties.

For patties, cook onion, green pepper and celery in 1 tablespoon margarine in 2-qt. saucepan about 3 minutes or until tender. Add water, corn meal, poultry seasoning and salt; mix well. Cook over medium heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until thickened. Cool 5 minutes. Add turkey and eggs to corn mixture; mix well. Shape to form 8 oblong patties; pan-fry in remaining 1 tablespoon margarine in large skillet about 5 minutes per side or until thoroughly cooked and golden brown. Prepare sauce while patties are cooking.

For dumplings, combine all ingredients, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. To make 12 dumplings, drop by rounded tablespoons onto simmering soup. Cover; simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Makes 4 servings.

GROUND OAT FLOUR

1. PLACE 1-1/2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked, in blender or food processor.

2. COVER; blend about 60 seconds. Makes about 1-1/4 cups.

TURKEY PATTIES

Patties:
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup water
1/2 cup enriched corn meal
3/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups finely chopped cooked turkey or ground uncooked turkey
2 eggs, beaten
Sauce:
1 tablespoon margarine
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
3/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
1 chicken bouillon cube

For patties, cook onion, green pepper and celery in 1 tablespoon margarine in 2-qt. saucepan about 3 minutes or until tender. Add water, corn meal, poultry seasoning and salt; mix well. Cook over medium heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until thickened. Cool 5 minutes. Add turkey and eggs to corn mixture; mix well. Shape to form 8 oblong patties; pan-fry in remaining 1 tablespoon margarine in large skillet about 5 minutes per side or until thoroughly cooked and golden brown. Prepare sauce while patties are cooking.

For sauce, melt margarine in small saucepan; blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk; add parsley and bouillon cube. Cook over medium heat until mixture is thickened and bouillon cube dissolves, stirring constantly. Serve over patties.

Grand jury refuses to indict solon

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A Galveston County grand jury has decided not to indict State Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz for punching a Houston attorney during a heated courtroom argument.

"The Galveston County grand jury considered all the evidence pertinent to the incident," said District Attorney James Hury. "They have returned a no-bill without any recommendation."

Schwartz, D-Galveston, admitted he struck W. Briscoe Swan Jr. during an Oct. 20 argument in the courtroom of State District Judge Ed Harris. Swan claimed the senator threatened to kill him, but Schwartz argued he was provoked.

The 32-year-old Houston lawyer had asked the grand jury to indict Schwartz on a felony assault charge carrying a maximum penalty of 10 years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

Hury said Swan still may file misdemeanor charges with a justice of the peace or a municipal judge.

"There was no basis for trying to file the felony charge," Schwartz said.

El Paso Co. reports sharp earnings drop

HOUSTON (AP) — The El Paso Co. reported a sharp drop in earnings, citing a halt of liquefied natural gas shipments from Algeria and lower chemical manufacturing profits, officials reported.

Third quarter earnings of $8.7 million, or 18 cents a share, compared with $38.4 million, or 83 cents a share a year earlier. Revenues, however, increased from $832 million to $882.1 million.

In the nine months ending Sept. 30, earnings of $49.6 million, or $1.6 a share, compared with $110.4 million, or $2.40 a share in 1979. Revenues rose from $2.1 billion to $2.8 billion.

A price dispute led to the curtailment of Algerian shipments on April 1. An El Paso spokesman said no settlement has been reached despite recent meetings with representatives of the Algerian and U.S. governments.

"The curtailment will continue to exert a substantial adverse impact and earnings for the entire year 1980 will be significantly below last year's record level," the spokesman said.

Group warns Texas Baptists to beware of 'single-issue politics'

HOUSTON (AP) — The Christian Life Commission has warned Texas Baptists to beware of the individuals and groups who crusade to defeat a political candidate "solely because of his view on a single issue."

"No particular political or economic system or ideology can be equated with the will of God," said the commission's report Wednesday to the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The 3,706 delegates, the most ever to attend a state Baptist convention, elect trustees and debate several resolutions before the three-day conference adjourns today.

Among the resolutions is a commendation of "The Baptist Standard," the denomination's weekly publication that conservatives claim has unfairly criticized their movement to gain control of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The commission's report referred to the so-called Christian New Right movement trying to rally Christians at the ballot box to elect candidates favoring conservative beliefs next Tuesday.

But the report warned Baptists to "be wary of movements which judge a public servant's Christian faithfulness solely on the basis of his stand on a few issues."

The commission, the convention's public affairs branch, also criticized those concerned about abortion and other controversial issues for "the patently unfair and immoral practice of crusading for the defeat of a candidate solely because of his view on a single issue."

In other business Wednesday, delegates re-elected the Rev. Carlos McLeod, of Plainview, as state president and refused to debate so-called liberalism in Baylor University's religion department.

Racial shootings suspect to be questioned today

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Joseph Paul Franklin, held under $1 million bond today as authorities prepared to question him about racial shootings in five cities, was a high school dropout reared in a broken home by a mother he hated, relatives say.

The avowed racist and drifter, wearing a long-sleeved shirt that hid the tattoos which helped officials identify him, appeared in court here Wednesday and was ordered held pending a hearing next week to determine whether he will be sent to Salt Lake City.

The 30-year-old Alabama man is wanted there on federal charges of violating the civil rights of two blacks by killing them, Aug. 20. Officials say he used a dozen names and disguised himself to elude the law for months.

"I'm innocent," Franklin told reporters Wednesday, calling the charges "trumped up... because of my racist views." Asked if he held racist views, he replied: "Oh, definitely... I'm against race mixing and communism."

At a hearing Wednesday, U.S. Attorney Gary Betz backed his request for high bond by listing incidents of officials want to question Franklin about.

Betz cited the May sniper wounding of National Urban League President Vernon Jordan; sniper slayings of blacks and white women in Cincinnati, Johnstown, Pa., Indianapolis and Oklahoma City; the alleged defrauding of a Utah hotel; and bank robberies in Tennessee and Georgia.

He said Franklin is also named in an escape warrant in Florence, KKY, WHERE HE WAS JAILED A MONTH AGO.

Betz said Franklin is a drifter who hasn't held a job for three years and has used 12 aliases, wigs and other disguises to avoid authorities.

Attorneys countered that Franklin has no felony convictions, but four misdemeanor convictions. They declined to elaborate.

Dark glasses hid Franklin's eyes and a long-sleeved shirt hid his tattoos of the Grim Reaper and an eagle as he arrived at the courthouse.

His court-appointed counsel, James Whittemore, argued bond was too high, insisting Franklin's alleged link to other crimes was mere "suspicion."

Franklin was arrested in Lakeland on Tuesday night, three days before a scheduled visit there by President Carter. Authorities say Franklin sent a threatening letter to Carter four years ago accusing him of "selling out to blacks."

Names in the news

ALLEN LUDDEN JOHN PHILLIPS

TV personalities spar

NEW YORK (AP) — You can't expect to be the favorite when you get in a fistfight with the nation's most famous oddsmaker, says Brent Musburger. Musburger, anchorman of CBS-TV's "NFL Today," learned that recently when he and Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder tangled when in a midtown bar over the amount of time Snyder was getting on the National Football League pre-game show. The show is 21 minutes long, and must be spread among several personalities, news and previews. Snyder, 61, took a swing at the 39-year-old Musburger before Musburger's brother broke up the fight Sunday. "I'm just terribly upset about it," said Snyder. "I'm sorry, and I'm sure Brent is too. I'm not a fighter. I'm not a lover. I'm just a worker."

Inmate denied parole

TRACY, Calif. (AP) — Robert Beausoleil, a follower of convicted mass murderer Charles Manson, has been denied parole in a unanimous decision by the state Board of Prison Terms. The three-member board voted Wednesday on the 33-year-old inmate's parole request. Beausoleil, convicted of first-degree murder in the July 1969 slaying of musician Gary Hinman, is serving a life sentence at the Deuel Vocational Institute. Manson, now serving multiple life sentences for the 1969 Tate-LaBianca killings in Los Angeles, lived with Hinman in 1968. Beausoleil was arrested in the torture slaying of Hinman two days before the Tate killings.

'Password' host at home

Rock star to cooperate

NEW YORK (AP) — John Phillips, the leader of the 1960s rock 'n' roll group the Mamas and the Papas, has agreed to cooperate with federal prosecutors and testify against a co-defendant in a drug sale conspiracy case, the Daily News says. Under an agreement with the U.S. attorney, the 44-year-old Phillips entered a secret guilty plea Friday to a single charge of drug conspiracy, the News said Wednesday. The singer was arrested in August at his summer home in Southampton. Phillips has promised to testify as a government witness against Jeffrey Bedzin, 35, of Manhattan, in U.S. District Court in Manhattan. Bedzin is charged in a seven-count indictment with conspiracy to possess and distribute tens of thousands of Quaaludes, amphetamines, barbiturates and other drugs. Phillips, who is free on bond, is to be sentenced Jan. 26. He faces a maximum of 15 years in jail and a $25,000 fine.

Warner-Amex Wins rich Dallas cable franchise

DALLAS (AP) — Warner-Amex officials say they won the "Super Bowl" of cable franchises when they walked off with the multi-million dollar cable TV franchise for the city of Dallas. Warner-Amex Communications Inc., was awarded the largest single cable TV franchise in the country Wednesday in an 8-2 vote by Dallas city council members. "I'm just overwhelmed by the enormity of what happened," said Warner-Amex President Gus Hauser. Wiping tears from her eyes, company representative Anne Hall said Dallas is "what it is today because it attracts the very best from around the world." Company officials have estimated it will cost $146 million to construct the Dallas operation, which will be an 80 channel advanced version of the company's highly publicized QUBE system in Columbus, Ohio. The company stands to make millions of dollars a year during the last half of the 15-year franchise, according to one cable analyst. Warner-Amex officials have said it could take four and a half years to complete the Dallas project, but service to some Dallas residents may be available as early as August 1981. Seven months of bitter debate and careful consideration drew to a close Wednesday with the awarding of the franchise to Warner-Amex. Six companies submitted bids for the franchise last March. The Dallas franchise is considered the biggest single award in the nation because larger cities such as New York, Philadelphia and Houston have opted to split their franchise among different cable companies. "This has been a long period of time. There has been a lot of time, energy and money spent by all six firms... We do sincerely appreciate the time and energy that was put in this with the full knowledge that right at this particular moment there are five disappointed companies," said Dallas Mayor Robert Folsom. The Dallas franchise was awarded after a selection process that included a review by the city staff and an analysis of all the bids by Horn's Cable Television Information Center, a Washington-based non-profit organization. Both the city staff and the independent consultant suggested Warner-Amex over Cox Cable Communications Inc., Sammons Communications Inc., Storer Cable Communications, Vista Cablevision and United Cable Television Corp. Although the council approved the franchise Wednesday, it still must meet next week to pass an ordinance that will give the award the effect of law.

BSHS well represented among Texas pro stars Johnson, West records stand out

Big Spring High School and a few surrounding towns were well represented in this month's issue of the "Texas Sports" magazine in regard to professional football players, as such names as Charley Johnson, Charlie West, Sammy Baugh, Don Maynard and Jerry Norton were all among the top Texans who have made their presence felt in the NFL throughout the years.

The magazine listed the top names in the categories of rushing, passing, pass receiving, scoring, pass interceptions, kickoff returns, punts and punt returns, and there was no town with the size of Big Spring that had two ex-performers listed.

Johnson, who played here in the 1950s, was ranked fourth among Texans who have played the pro grid sport. The former St. Louis Cardinal, Houston Oilers and Denver Bronco completed 1737 passes in 3392 attempts in the NFL, good for 24,510 yards and 710 touchdowns.

Sweetwater ex Sammy Baugh, who distinguished himself during his career with the Washington Redskins, was ranked fifth among Texans. Baugh completed 1693 passes in 2995 attempts for 21,886 yards and 188 touchdowns during his sparkling career.

Leading the Texans list was Y.A. Tittle, who played his high school football at Marshall.

West, one of the all-time great athletes in BSHS history, was ranked in both the punt return and kickoff return department.

He was listed second among Texans in all-time punt returns by professionals, returning 158 for 1099 yards and a 7.0 average. One of the punt returns was for a touchdown, and that an NFL record 98 yarder.

West, who played with Minnesota, Detroit and Denver before leaving the NFL this past August, was ranked tenth in the all-time Texans kickoff return list.

Ironically, the only man with more punt return yardage than West is Mike Nelms, who plays with Washington this season. Nelms' yardage was accumulated in the past three years in the Canadian Football League.

Naturally, NFL great Don Maynard, who played his high school football in Colorado City, is among the leaders in both pass receiving and scoring.

Maynard, who retired from the New York Jets as the leading pass receiver in NFL history, ranks first among Texans in pass receiving yardage (11,906), average per catch (18.6) and touchdowns (88). He is second to Charley Taylor of Denison, who owns the NFL record of 649 career pass receptions, 10 more than Maynard.

Maynard is also ranked sixth in the Texans in pro scoring list, as the swiftly accumulated 532 points in his distinguished career.

Returning forwards give Hawks high hopes for 1981 season

KENNETH JONES

SEAN MOUND

The Howard College Hawks, whose dream of a 20-win campaign was shattered last year in a dramatic WJCAC playoff loss to Amarillo College, have high hopes of reaching that magic figure as the 1980-81 season nears.

And Howard College Coach Harold Wilder feels that the 20-win plateau could be accomplished this year, as the Hawks return what could be the best one-two punch at forward in the competitive juco league, as well as their top shooter.

The outstanding forwards Wilder speaks of are in the form of 6'6" Ron Akins and 6'7" Kenneth Jones. Akins averaged 20 points per game and was among the WJC's leading rebounders, while the surprising Jones averaged just under 10 points a game and was always impressive with his floor play. The shooting accuracy of Jeff Faubion also returns to give the Hawks a long range artist. These three will be joined by fellow sophomores Bobby Word, Walter Hall and Sean Mound.

Wilder feels that if the sophomores can perform as they are capable and provide leadership for the incoming freshmen, the Hawks could very conceivably bring home the elusive conference championship trophy at the season's end.

And those freshmen have some impressive credentials, as Wilder went nationwide in the off-season in his recruiting efforts.

He landed the massive 6'5" Randy Corker of Trenton, New Jersey, who has the best high school credentials of any Hawk. Other rookies on the HC team expected to see extensive action include Crushon Loving, Les Hirsch and Jerome Johnson.

Loving is a talented guard from Chicago, with Hirsch being a top scoring threat from the Houston public schools. Johnson, a steady and heady guard, was a teammate of Corker in Trenton.

The Hawks will be put to the test soon, as the season opens with a pair of games at home. Next Thursday, November 6, the Howard College men open against McMurry. Then, on November 11, the Hawks and Hawk Queens play host to Cisco in a double-header.

That contest will mark the home opener of Coach Don Stevens' Hawk Queens, who open the season on the road Saturday night against Ranger.

Cisco, by the way, is coached by the locally popular Tom Collins, who tutored the BSHS program a couple of years back and is always an interesting specimen, whether on or off the court.

Season tickets are now on sale at the business office at Howard College, or in the Athletic Department, which is located in the northwest corner of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Defense big advantage in taking division lead

Spurs new look stuns NBA foes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — No one ever doubted the San Antonio Spurs' ability to score. After all, they have led the NBA in point production ever since they joined the league, sparked by three-time scoring champion George Gervin.

The free-wheeling Spurs offense was racking up 119.4 points a game to lead the league last season under laid-back coach Doug Moe. But their opponents were pouring in 119.7 points on the other end of the court against a defense which ranked 22nd. That has changed this season under the discipline of new coach Stan Albeck and early in the season the new-look Spurs are the hottest team in the NBA, capturing nine of its first 10 games with a surprising display of defense.

The team is scoring less, but enjoying it more and Albeck warns his team will get stronger as the season progresses.

Gervin's average is down from 33.3 last season to 28.2 this fall while Albeck distributes playing time among all 11 players. This has enabled the Spurs outscore opponents by a 111.2 to 104.7 margin while jumping off to their best-ever start.

Uncharacteristically, San Antonio is ranked third in the NBA in offense, but it has moved up to 11th in defense while establishing the league's best record.

"We are for real," proclaims longtime captain James Silas after the Spurs beat the defending world champion Lakers 108-102 in Los Angeles last weekend.

"We are thinking championship."

San Antonio was picked to finish no better than third or fourth in the newly aligned Midwest Division after sending high-scoring Larry Kenon to Chicago, hiring a new coach and changing its style of play. But this week it was perched comfortably four games ahead of pre-season favorite Kansas City.

"I felt very good about this team starting off," said Albeck, who added muscle and height by bringing in defensive-minded centers Dave Corzine and George Johnson. "They worked hard in training camp. The bad rap was they played no defense. We've proved that wrong through exhibition season."

"The press in L.A. was in shock when we held the Lakers to 102 points in L.A."

Albeck and Silas also credit the Spurs bench strength for the team's early success. Known as "the arson squad," the six reserves are outscoring opponents' counterparts 40.6 points to 32.7 and Albeck has no reservations about using them in squads of five for long stretches while the starters rest.

"One L.A. writer said Albeck did a strange thing by putting in all reserves in the second quarter," the San Antonio coach said. "That's why our bench helped win this ball game (120-112 over Portland). I think the bench is getting better game by game. I don't think we're where we can be by the end of the season."

Last year San Antonio averaged 44.7 rebounds and gave up 45.4, but this year it is grabbing 45.4 boards while the opposition is managing just 39.9. Gervin is still second leading scorer in the NBA, Corzine is first in field goal percentage with .652 and Johnson, a 6-11 jack-in-the-box, is second in blocks.

Intimidation factor is not among NBA statistics, but Johnson and Corzine's performances in the middle have helped the Spurs outshoot their opponents .511 percent to .446 percent so far.

"This is the best I've felt since coming to San Antonio," said Silas, the only current team member who made the move from Dallas in 1973.

There is only one nightmare in this dream of a city of champions — three more parades.

Steers host San Angelo girls in biggie

The Big Spring Steer girls volleyball team ends their regular season tonight with a slim hope of continuing it toward the state playoffs.

The Steer fens go into their second half battle tonight here in Steer Gym with a 5-1 mark, while the San Angelo girls sport a second half mark of 6-0.

A win by Big Spring tonight would throw the second half race into a three-way tie between the Steers, San Angelo and Abilene Cooper. That, of course, depends on Cooper's ability to defeat hapless Abilene High.

San Angelo and Abilene Cooper tied for the first half title with records of 6-1, thus hurting the Big Spring chances severely.

A San Angelo win tonight would vault the Bobcat girls into the state playoffs, as they would be the undisputed second half champs, as well as sharing the opening half.

Game time for the varsity match is seven o'clock, while the JV units of the two schools will battle at six.

Philadelphia a town of firsts

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia sports fans awakened today back in a state of euphoria.

All of the city's major sports franchises were in first place in their respective leagues. And, at a time when fans had barely come back to earth following the Phillies World Series triumph.

There it was, however, the Philadelphia 76ers leading their division in the National Basketball Association; the Philadelphia Flyers atop their division in the National Hockey League, and the Philadelphia Eagles with the best record in the National Football League.

Of course, the basketball and hockey seasons are young, and it's a long, long way to the playoffs. The Eagles also have a rugged road to the Super Bowl in New Orleans. Philadelphia fans, however, are living for today.

And today the city sits on the top of the sports world.

You can't help dreaming if you're a Philly sports buff. Can the 76ers win the NBA title, the Flyers the Stanley Cup, the Eagles the Super Bowl? Is it possible that Philadelphia, once a doormat among major sports teams, could win every major sports title in one year?

It's possible, although not likely. The Eagles under coach Dick Vermeil have a very impressive team. It has attained its status despite injuries to a number of key people. And experts said the Eagles had no depth.

Vermeil wastes few words. He claims his defense is one of the top three, if not the best, in the NFL. He rates his offense, especially when running star Wilbert Montgomery returns to action, as good enough to win a division and conference title.

Vermeil shys from claiming the Super Bowl. If you know Vermeil, known fondly by his players and fans as "The Little General," he probably expects to bring that Super Bowl trophy home to William Penn's town.

The 76ers also feel they have the talent to win it all. They went to the finals last year, and any team with a Julius "Dr. J." Erving leading the way, can't be dismissed. Erving is surrounded with an excellent supporting cast, including the master of the dunk shot, Darryl Dawkins.

The Flyers are a blend of young talent and sturdy veterans, led by Bobby Clarke, Paul Holmgren, Bill Barber, Mel Bridgman and Reggie Leach. Coach Pat Quinn is a recognized strategist, a coach who appears to have the knack for being a disciplinarian, but still able to maintain the respect of his players.

There is only one nightmare in this dream of a city of champions — three more parades.

Ousting McMullen from Astros won't be easy

HOUSTON (AP) — If anyone should know the rights of a limited partner, it would be John McMullen, currently the beleaguered general partner of the Houston Astros.

McMullen was a limited partner in the ownership of the New York Yankees and he didn't like his silent role. So he purchased the Astros for $19 million and set up his own list of limited partners.

When McMullen fired popular Astros president and general manager Tal Smith on Monday, it created a furor among many of the 25 limited partners. Some of them met in New York Wednesday to plan strategy for ousting McMullen.

Edward Randall, of Houston, and New York attorney David LeFevre, are among the most outspoken of the limited partners.

"It's not just the firing of Tal Smith that has all the partners upset," LeFevre said. "It's a series of things. The days of putting up with John McMullen's idiosyncrasies are over. This has been brewing for a year. He has created tremendous ill will among the limited partners."

They have not questioned McMullen's right to make unilateral decisions under the general partnership agreement.

Randall, whose firm handled the financial transactions when McMullen purchased the club, said however, the limited partners might try to prove their investments had been damaged by McMullen's actions.

LeFevre, a New York attorney who owns 10 percent of the Astros, declined to say how many of the limited partners attended Wednesday's strategy session or what approach they might take in challenging McMullen.

The Greek-Musburger take fight to NY bar

By the Associated Press

Lots of cowboys get hot under their blue or white collars and take pokes at one another. It happens all the time. But when Jimmy the Greek and Brent Musburger try to bounce each other off the saloon wall, the vibrations can be heard all over CBS.

In this era of gossipy journalism, The Greek taking a punch at his "NFL Today" anchorman makes for a splashy headline and it will certainly bolster CBS' ratings Sunday when the curious tune in for a possible rematch.

And of course, no such thing will happen on the air. TV personalities may have varying degrees of the journalist in them, but underneath it all, they are entertainers, troopers if you will. The show must go on Sunday, and it will. The public rarely knows what's happening under the make-up and TV lights.

We can expect Musburger and the Greek to make light of their fight, which happened last Sunday night at a midtown New York bar.

"When you're involved in a fight with America's oddsmaker, it's rather depressing because you realize there's no way you're gonna be the favorite," Musburger said Wednesday from his home in Los Angeles. "The punch landed, but it certainly was nothing. I don't feel it today."

The Greek said words that shouldn't have been said prompted him to lose his temper. After the one punch, the fight was broken up by Musburger's brother, Todd. The two combatants then went outside and made peace. "I was sorry, both of us were sorry. It was an unfortunate thing," The Greek said Wednesday from his New York office. He said the last time he was in a fistfight was in 1957.

But the underlying cause for the fight, why a 61-year-old man would try to sack a 39-year-old colleague, won't go away so easily. It involves "playing time," the amount of exposure the on-air personalities are getting on the tightly formatted "NFL Today."

"You just don't want to be forgotten about. I spend a lot of time and money putting my end of the show together and I have a lot to say. I would like to say it," the Greek said. "I like the kid. This is the only time we've ever had any troubles. After five years, we're allowed to have one stinking little argument."

When South Carolina meets Georgia Heisman could be decided Saturday

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — For all the noise that is being made over him, George Rogers Jr. may be one of the quietest people around.

He gets plenty of opportunity to talk with sportswriters from all over the nation who want to interview one of college football's hottest running backs.

Rogers gives the interviews — up to an hour and a half at a stretch — but always in a soft Georgia drawl.

Rogers is the leading ground gainer of the offense-minded South Carolina Gamecocks. He has carried the ball 169 times for 1,089 yards in seven games for an average of 6.4 yards per carry this season.

Last year he was seventh in the voting for the coveted Heisman Trophy, the award presented to the nation's top collegiate player, and the school's public relations department is pushing him for the prize this season.

The senior tailback says he tries not to let the chase for the Heisman preoccupy him.

Behind Moses Malone Houston edges Dallas

HOUSTON (AP) — Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta was so angry he benched his entire starting team in the second period, but Rockets Coach Del Harris was just glad to come away with a win in an intrastate contest that snapped a two-game losing streak for Houston.

Moses Malone scored 38 points and grabbed 21 rebounds to carry the Rockets to a 109-103 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night despite a late rally by the Mavericks.

"They are an expansion team, but they are all pros," said Harris. "It is easy to take them lightly. But they have good balance. I was pleased with the game except for a few mental lapses."

But Motta was furious at his team's performance in the first half.

"They didn't deserve to play," Motta said about benching his starters. "I've done this before and it usually works."

Dallas, which dropped its fourth game in a row, trailed 70-54 with seven minutes to play in the third quarter, but fought back to tie the game at 82-all going into the final 12 minutes.

"We get a big lead and we stop playing aggressive," said Malone. "We need to play aggressive against all teams. They (the Mavericks) are a real good team. The beat us during the pre-season. Tonight we showed them that we had a better team."

Motta was whistled for a technical foul with his team leading 99-97 with 2:38 left in the game.

Houston's Calvin Murphy hit the technical shot and Robert Reed connected on two free throws to give Houston a 100-99 lead before Joe Hassett, who scored 15 points in the second half, hit two free throws to give

Area grid Honor Roll

It was not a very good week as far as a won-lost records go for area high school teams, and it hopefully will improve this Friday night. Nevertheless, there were some successful efforts from the gridders worthy of this week's Area Grid Honor Roll.

The Big Spring Steers played their usual aggressive game, but the much larger Midland Lee Rebels finally wore them down and found the weak spots in exploding in the third period for a 26-7 win. But two players that excelled throughout the contest were seniors BILL BROWN and MARK WARREN.

Brown was all over the field from his defensive end position, as Coach Ralph Harris explained. "He recovered a fumble early when they were in scoring territory that helped us stay with them. He is also a good emotional player with plenty of hustle. We broke down on our containment at the ends, but it was never to Bill's side."

Warren, who came from the baseball team this year to join Harris' evolving program, played a wide receiver position for the Bovines. He had one excellent reception over a Lee defender for a 35 yard gain, but it was his blocking that won his award. "He did an excellent job of blocking," said Harris, "which is the primary responsibility of our wide receivers. He's also a good receiver when we can get the ball to him."

The Garden City Bearcats won their third game of the year over the Meadow Bronchos, and a big role was played by halfback-defensive end SCOTTIE HILLGER. Hillger rushed 19 times for 92 yards and two touchdowns, and was also in on numerous tackles. "We had a lot of good efforts," explained Bearcat Coach Stu Cooper, "but this was the first time in a while that a back here has approached the 100-yard mark."

The Grady Wildcats went past the 500 mark in winning percentage, with seniors LEANDRO GONZALES and LARRY KEY playing im-

September Carrier of the Month: Joe Moreno

Joe Moreno has been selected as the September Herald Carrier of the Month. Winners of the monthly award are chosen on the basis of sales, service, collections and record keeping.

Tony Whitt, Joe's district manager, says Joe has a nice personality and is a friendly carrier, traits that are always helpful when providing a public service. His efforts show, because he was also honored as Carrier of the Month in February of this year.

Joe had no complaints during September, his bill was paid by the 10th, his books are in order, and he maintains porch delivery of his 92 papers. He also has a trained substitute to handle his deliveries when Joe is gone or ill.

We are sure we are again joined by Joe's customers on Route 167 when we congratulate him on winning the Carrier of the Month award for September.

Here to there in underwear

OTTUMWA, Iowa (AP) — Tom Arnold is getting down to basics — like his underwear — for college. The Indian Hills Community College sophomore needs money for tuition, room, board and expenses. So he will strip to his underwear Nov. 14 and walk the 20 miles from Albia to Ottumwa. Donors have pledged to pay for each mile he completes, and proceeds will go for his college education.

More than $400 has been pledged to the cause, and Arnold estimates he needs another $600 to meet next quarter's expenses.

"I have some real pretty white cotton boxer shorts with red hearts I'm going to wear, along with a white T-shirt," Arnold said, adding the outfit, "isn't very sexy."

His shorts, he said, will be embroidered with his walk's slogan: "From Here to There in Underwear."

No candle in 'pumpkin'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Yes, Linus, there is a Great Pumpkin — and it's not some mythical being. Tens of thousands of Los Angeles area commuters see it every Halloween.

In Los Angeles, the Great Pumpkin — also known as Smilin' Jack — sits on a hill overlooking Harbor Freeway. And children know that if they can get their parents to drive them to a parking lot nearby, they'll get free caramelized popcorn.

Smilin' Jack is actually a 50-foot high natural gas storage tank in a Union Oil facility. When it was built and painted orange in 1952, Union Oil lore has it that a worker said, "Gee, that looks like a pumpkin."

Every year since, the company has painted on a 73-foot black-and-white grin with 4-foot teeth and 18-foot nose and eyes.

On nights before Halloween, the tank is illuminated. This year the 30,000 watts of quartz light were turned on Tuesday night, and will continue through Halloween.

When full, the pumpkin-shaped tank holds 80,000 barrels of natural gas. If it were a real pumpkin, Union Oil figures it could make 26,800,000 pies.

Federal deficit for 1980 second worst in history

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, battling recession and inflation at the same time, ran up the second-worst deficit on record in the last fiscal year. There was twice as much red ink as the year before.

The Treasury Department closed the books Wednesday on fiscal 1980, which ended Sept. 30, and announced that the deficit was $59 billion. That was exceeded only by the $66.4 billion deficit of 1976.

The deepening deficits were due largely to the recession, which cut government receipts, and inflation, which forced up spending.

The government collected $520 billion during the year, compared with $466 billion in 1979, and spent $579 billion, up 17.3 percent from the previous year. The 1979 deficit was $27.7 billion, lowest since $4.7 billion in 1974.

The Carter administration has forecast a deficit of $29.8 billion for the current fiscal year, but that could go higher if there is a tax cut in 1981.

The 1980 deficit was almost $20 billion higher than President Carter had projected in January, before the economy was staggered by rampant inflation and a sharp decline in economic output.

Spending also increased to accommodate higher defense costs, the influx of refugees from Cuba and Haiti and several natural disasters, including the Mount St. Helens eruption.

Recession took its toll on corporate tax collections, which dropped 1.6 percent to $64.6 billion.

At the same time, inflation pushed Social Security payments — which are tied to inflation and represented the largest single federal expenditure — from $118 billion in 1979 to $134.4 billion in 1980. Social Security taxes rose 15.6 percent to $138.8 billion.

In other areas:
— Individual income taxes totaled $244.1 billion, up 12 percent from 1979.

FBI receives Brilab campaign contributions

HOUSTON (AP) — The $5,000 surrendered to federal authorities by Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton has been returned to the FBI in Washington, according to U.S. Assistant Attorney Ron Woods.

Clayton and co-defendants Donald Ray and Randall Wood were acquitted last week of extortion, fraud, conspiracy and racketeering in an alleged insurance kick-back scheme.

"The FBI put the money into the funds from which the $5,000 given Clayton originally came," Woods said Tuesday.

The government had charged Clayton accepted $5,000 from Deer Park union leader L.G. Moore, with promise of another $500,000 when a lucrative state employees insurance contract was reopened.

Clayton admitted he took the stack of unmarked $100 bills from Moore, who is to be tried on similar charges, but had planned to return the money.

Clayton's team member named

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Craig Washington, a member of Speaker Bill Clayton's defense team, has been named speaker pro tem of the House of Representatives by Clayton.

The Wednesday appointment makes Washington, D-Houston, the first black to hold the largely ceremonial post.

Washington was among the lawyers who represented Clayton at the speaker's recent federal trial in Houston on corruption charges. Clayton was acquitted on Oct. 22.

Simple precautions and good common sense can make Halloween Night an enjoyable event for all. The Big Spring Police Department urges everyone to consider the following precautions so that a night of fun and thrills for children doesn't become a nightmare of real danger or tragedy.

Persons wishing to participate in trick or treat fun should turn on outdoor lights to let children know they are welcome, and lessen the chances of spills or accidents. Don't invite children into your home. Fancy operations should be set up in carports or on porches. Wrap homemade treats, and reserve them for neighborhood children. Give wrapped, commercial items to children that do not know you. Be good-natured and tolerant, but don't permit unlawful acts. Distinguish between harmless pranks and malicious mischief or vandalism. Report the latter to Police Department, immediately!

If you feel you must trick or treat, consider the following. Trick or treat groups should be accompanied by an adult. Any child too old to be escorted is too old to be out trick or treating. It is a young child's activity. Groups should be small, four or five in number, so each child can receive proper attention without the donor feeling "swarmed." Children should remain in view of the accompanying adult, and no child should be permitted to enter a residence. Child molesters can and will take advantage of Halloween.

Teen years are a good division line for trick or treat age. Yard and garage parties are suited to older children. A responsible teenager may accompany a group, or may enjoy dressing in a "scary" costume to dispense treats. Because of children in the streets, teenagers should avoid neighborhood auto cruising during trick or treat hours. Remind all children that the laws on vandalism and malicious mischief are not suspended during Halloween.

Set time and boundary limits for your children. Warn them to avoid residences where the "welcome" lights are not on. Sickness or other problems might make it impossible for some homes to offer treats. No tricks are to be played because treats were not offered. Remember, they may not be as lucky as you. Children become careless from excitement and they look forward to only the good things about Halloween. Your preparation can alert them to the possible danger, show them how to avoid accidents at risky roadways, crosswalks, vehicles jutting and help them to have a safe and H-o-r-r-i-b-l-y good time.

The trick or treat deadline should be 9:00 P.M. Small children should not be out on the streets at a later hour. If households will firmly discontinue treats after 9:00 P.M., children will not be encouraged to remain out at hours detrimental to their safety and welfare. It is also unwise to open one's door at a late hour just because a voice states "trick or treat." Look to see who is at the door before you open it.

People in rural areas should plan group activities for their children. Groups should not be transported into strange neighborhoods to pick up more "loot." They don't know the people, and their presence might be resented with neighborhood "cranks" and neighborhood dogs. Even familiar dogs are overly excited by the unusual activities, and should be avoided on Halloween Night.

Some costumes, wigs, etc., including commercial merchandise, are highly flammable, and may even "explode" in flames. Elaborate, cumbersome costumes are not for trick or treating. Do not restrict movement or vision of your child. Each child should have a flashlight or one in that group. If a jack-o'-lantern is used, it should be battery powered. Candles could cause troubles. Add reflective strips or patches to costumes for increased visibility after darkness.

Have an understanding with your child that he is not to eat any food received from people that the child doesn't know personally. Some individuals play cruel tricks by inserting medicines or sharp items into treats. Home inspection under good lighting is in order. Check the rinds of fruit and the wrappers of commercial products for signs of tampering. Discard unwrapped food and homemade treats received from strangers. Their health and sanitary habits are unknown to you. If any harmful items are located in treats, report it to the Police Department.

Keep your sense of humor, and have a safe, enjoyable Halloween! Please help us help you.

Two policemen, mistaken drug suspect wounded in shootings

DALLAS (AP) — Two lawmen and a man mistaken for a drug suspect remain hospitalized today as police officials try to figure out what went wrong when an early morning drug raid erupted in wild gunfire.

One of the wounded officers — an undercover investigator working the raid in plain clothes — was shot by another police officer who apparently mistook him for an assailant, police said.

Dallas County Sheriff's Deputy Steven Carrell was shot in the stomach by another officer, said Dallas police spokesman Bob Shaw. Duncanville policeman Dan Robertson was wounded in the legs and shoulder and a man identified as Doy Vanderberg was shot in the abdomen, Shaw said.

All three were listed in fair condition today following surgery, according to a spokesman at Parkland Memorial Hospital.

Shaw said the confusion began about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, when five law enforcement officers went to a house in Southwest Dallas to serve the final arrest warrant in a massive drug raid that began Tuesday night.

The contingent of officers knocked on the front door of the house, received no answer and went to a side entry, he said.

"When they knocked on that door," said Shaw, "somebody inside the house yelled, 'Wait just a minute.' Moments later this guy ... appeared at the door with a pistol in his hand."

Shaw said two of the officers shot at the resident and he fired at them. Police information officer Ed Spencer said "all the officers who were there said he (the resident) fired first."

There were 12 shots, "all in the space of a few seconds," said Shaw.

The officers at the scene summoned help by radio and when extra police officers arrived, Shaw said, plain-clothes deputy Carrell was standing in front of the house holding a pistol.

"It was all in the dark now ... when he turned toward the officer with a gun in his hand, I guess he (the policeman) shot him (Carrell) once in the stomach," said Shaw.

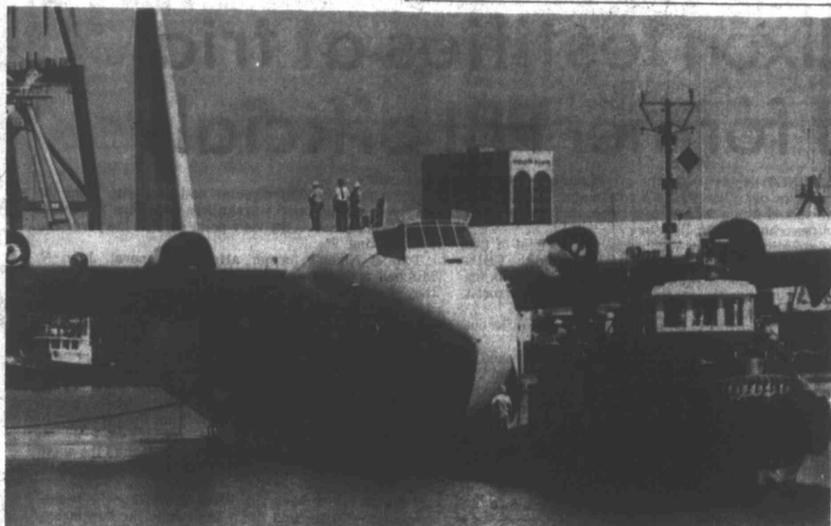

Shaw, who termed the shootings "unfortunate," said it was several hours before officers realized they had tried to arrest the wrong man.

"Right then," he said, "they thought they were dealing with a doper named (in the arrest warrant). It was only later in the morning we discovered the guy's name ... he's lived there since early in the summer and is clean as a whistle — no prior arrests."

Duncanville Police Chief Michael Courville said the officers were trying to serve one of about 70 arrest warrants issued along with 99 indictments Monday by a Dallas County grand jury.

Courville said the effort capped a nine-month investigation of illegal drug trafficking in the suburban cities of Duncanville, DeSoto and Lancaster.

"This arrest was to be the last one of the night," he said. "The others had gone without any problems."

In Jamaica's bloodiest election campaign

Prime minister candidates claiming victory

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Prime Minister Michael Manley's socialist government imposed tight security for parliamentary elections today after opposition leader Edwards Seaga escaped unharmed from an election-eve sniper attack in a Kingston slum. Both Manley and Seaga are predicting victory following Jamaica's bloodiest election campaign.

Police and bodyguards fired an estimated 200 rounds at the snipers who shot at Seaga's motorcade Wednesday night as it passed through the capital's Nannyville district. No one was wounded, but one man was hurt when he fell from a speeding security vehicle.

Seaga continued his tour of slum areas after the shooting, the latest in a string of violent attacks in the seven months since Manley called elections on this Caribbean island.

Police say at least 450 persons were shot to death this year, many of them in political attacks. The dead include a member of Parliament, Roy McGann of Manley's People's National Party, who was seeking re-election.

Government troops were ordered out in force for the voting and public service announcements urged the nation's 990,000 eligible voters not to let the months of violence deter them from voting.

Nearly 6,500 polling stations were set to open at 7 a.m. and close at 5 p.m., with results expected around midnight.

Manley wound up his campaign with a marathon motorcade from Mandeville, about 65 miles west of Kingston, to the capital. The procession stopped at each town along with way as the prime minister got out to press the flesh. Manley's hands were wrapped in elastic bandages to protect him from the overenthusiastic handshakers among the dancing and singing crowds that rocked to a pounding reggae beat roaring from portable loudspeakers. Many in the crowds hailed Manley with his party's traditional clenched-fist salute.

Seaga closed out his campaign with a rally in his own constituency, a desperately poor area of western Kingston. He predicted he would win 85 percent of the votes cast in the district and be returned to the Parliament for a fifth term.

He has warned that his Labor followers will shut down the country with a general strike if the elections are not fairly conducted.

Both candidates predicted their parties would be victorious and billed the election is the most important for this economically-troubled country of nearly 2.3 million people since the island gained independence from Britain in 1962.

He warns that a victory by Seaga's Jamaica Labor Party would turn the nation over to what he calls a "capitalist elite" and turn back the strides made by his party.

SEAGA HEARS GRIEVING WOMAN — Edward Seaga, leader of the opposition Jamaican Labour Party and candidate for Prime Minister in today's national elections, hears the story of how this woman lost her son to political violence.

Politic's business world not donating to conservative Republicans in election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The business world's political fund-raising groups are donating heavily to the powers-that-be in Congress despite challenges to some of them by conservative Republicans espousing pro-business views.

It may not be the philosophies of the key Democratic leaders that impress the fund-raising business groups, however, as much as the power they will continue to wield in the next Congress once they are re-elected.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, pointedly reminded potential contributors of that political fact of life in an unusual letter to business fund-raising groups last month.

In the letter, Wright, facing a tough race in his normally safe district, noted the importance of his party post and added: "I will be coming back to Congress. But anything you give to my opponent just makes it that much more costly for me."

Asked about the letter, Dave Lindsey, a Wright aide, said, "Jim Wright isn't vindictive but he does remember who supports him and who opposes him."

Wright, who is considered a leading contender to eventually succeed House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., has received $85,741 from business groups, compared to $20,950 for GOP challenger, James E. Bradshaw, according to figures compiled recently by the Federal Election Commission.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, are two other congressional leaders fighting for their political lives.

They have both received considerable donations from businesses.

Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., House Agriculture Committee chairman and head of the Democratic Caucus, is being aided by $87,060 from business groups — many with agricultural interests — while his opponent, John Sonneland, has received only $875 from business PACs.

In addition, Ullman, Magnuson and Foley have drawn strong financial support from organized labor.

Sens. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, and Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., Senate Budget Committee chairman, have also benefited from the generosity of business PACs, even though neither faced a tough re-election battle.

Not all influential committee chairmen, however, are favored by the business groups.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., the liberal chairman of the House Interior Committee, has received $24,525 in business donations while his challenger, Richard Huff, has been given $47,950 by business PACs.

Business PACs have also taken aim at Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, giving him $35,276 compared to $222,281 to his conservative Republican opponent, Rep. Steve Symms.

But in most cases, the party leader or the incumbent on a key committee has the clear edge.

Nixon testifies at trial of former FBI officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the same building where the legal battles over Watergate were fought, Richard M. Nixon walked into a federal courtroom and waved from the witness chair to a startled jury.

In dramatic testimony Wednesday at the trial of two former FBI officials, the former president said the FBI's director had authority to approve warrantless break-ins in foreign intelligence cases at the height of terrorist activity in the early 1970s.

"We must recognize," he said, "it was quite different than it is today."

Nixon's appearance in U.S. District Court evoked a sense of deja vu: The man who had been driven from the White House by a scandal stemming from a break-in was in court six years later to testify about other break-ins ordered during his administration in the interest of national security.

Moments after he began testifying, three persons interrupted with shouts of "War criminal" and "He's a liar." Secret Service agents rushed to Nixon's side, but the former president appeared unruffled and U.S. marshals ejected the hecklers.

Jurors, sequestered during the seven-week trial, appeared astonished when chief prosecutor John W. Nields Jr. called Nixon to the stand.

"How are you employed?" Nields asked.

"Retired," Nixon replied.

The former president's 45-minute testimony focused on the FBI director's authority to order warrantless searches and White House efforts to combat terrorism and the dissent swirling through the country during the Vietnam War.

The two former FBI officials on trial are W. Mark Felt, once the bureau's No. 2 man, and Edward S. Miller, former head of the domestic intelligence division. They are accused of violating individual civil rights by authorizing warrantless break-ins at the homes of friends and relatives of radical Weather Underground fugitives. If convicted, they face up to 10 years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The break-ins occurred in 1972 and 1973 — when, Nixon said, thousands of terrorist bombs were exploding across the country.

Nixon said the FBI director had authority from the president to authorize warrantless break-ins in foreign intelligence cases — the very point defense lawyers have been making.

Two of Nixon's former attorneys general, John N. Mitchell and Richard G. Kleindienst, testified Tuesday they never were asked to approve such break-ins.

Nixon also said there was "hard evidence that the Weathermen had very definite foreign connections," the standard that the defense and Nixon agreed must be met before a warrantless entry could be approved.

Telling jurors that he delegated to former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover the authority to make decisions on warrantless break-ins, Nixon said: "In matters of foreign intelligence, the line went directly from the president to Mr. Hoover."

Hoover's successor, L. Patrick Gray III, had the same authority because it rested "with the office, not the man," Nixon said.

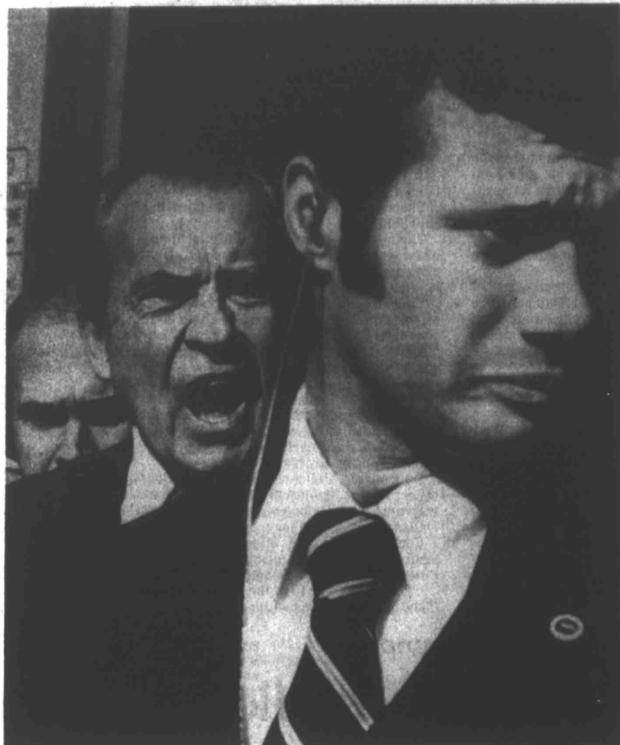

Felt and Miller have admitted authorizing the break-ins, but said Gray told them to resume the burglaries, which had been stopped by Hoover in 1966. Gray was indicted along with his former top aides but has been granted a separate trial.

The entries approved by Felt and Miller, conducted to photograph information rather than install electronic surveillance devices, were called "black bag jobs."

Nixon said he personally authorized warrantless searches in 1970 as part of the controversial Huston plan, a proposal to take covert actions against terrorist groups such as the Weather Underground.

The former chief executive said he revoked the plan four days later after Hoover raised objections, but he added, "I did not intend (the revocation) to be a prohibition" against the FBI director's conducting warrantless break-ins. "It just meant things went back to the way they were."

Nixon said there were more than 40,000 bombings or bomb scares, with 23 persons killed and millions of dollars in property damage, between January 1969, when he took office, and April 1970, just before the Huston plan was developed.

RESPONDS TO QUESTION — Former President Richard Nixon standing behind a Secret Service agent in downtown Washington Wednesday responds to a reporters question as he heads for the U.S. District Court House to testify at the trial of two former high officials of the FBI, W. Mark Felt and Edward Miller. The two are on trial for approving warrantless FBI break-ins at homes of radical Weather Underground fugitives.

CAP search does not find missing plane

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) The Civil Air Patrol planned to search third day today for a missing single-engine plane with a California man aboard.

Lt. John Peoples of the local CAP said a dozen search craft from San Antonio, Austin and the Midland-Odessa area found nothing in their flights over a 360 square-mile area south of here the past two days.

Missing was E.F. Tetyplace Sr., 55, of Santa Cruz, Calif., a salesman who took off from the San Antonio International Airport at 9 a.m. on Oct. 22 without filing a flight plan.

The search in Bexar, Wilson, Atascosa and Karnes Counties was centered in an area between Pleasanton and Cenedy, a CAP spokesman said, because the plane left the local radar scope about three miles south of Braunig Lake.

To help decide Medicaid contract

State board hires consultant

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Board of Human Resources has decided the lowest and best bidder for Texas' $2 billion Medicaid insurance business will get the four-year contract — even if it is not Bradford National Corp.

Board members made their decision Wednesday and hired Touche Ross Co. as consultant to help them choose between Bradford and H. Ross Perot's National Heritage Insurance Co.

A state district court judge had scheduled a hearing for today on Perot's suit to prevent the board from signing a contract with Bradford, a New York firm.

Former Attorney John Hill, Perot's lawyer, said he would announce today whether the suit would be dropped in view of the board's latest action.

The board voted July 15 to give the contract to Bradford after its staff and actuarial consultant said Bradford would do the job cheaper than Perot's firm, Attorney General Mark White said this month the vote created a binding contract.

Marshall Duke, Bradford's attorney, insisted Bradford has a binding contract but said the firm would cooperate with the Touche Ross study "to the extent we can do so without prejudicing Bradford's rights."

After White held earlier this month that Bradford had the contract, board Chairman Hilmar Moore said the board had no choice but to sign.

Moore said Wednesday, however, a "clarification of the attorney general's opinion" empowered the board to break the contract "at any stage if we deem it not in the best interest of the state."

The contract could be terminated even before it is signed if the board determined NHIC would do a better job, Moore said.

Perot asked the board to require both bidders to disclose "any criminal investigations of their companies" involving bribery or pay-offs to get or keep contracts.

The Dallas millionaire said he would be willing to make such an agreement and challenged Bradford to say the same.

"We respond to the board, not to Mr. Perot," Duke later told reporters.

Board members also resolved to review the process by which its staff and consultants arrived at their recommendation of Bradford and to "determine the weight, if any, to be given to that recommendation."

Perot has maintained the staff misled the board into thinking Bradford would be the least expensive while NHIC really was the low bidder.

HARD TO BEAR — A popular stuffed animal, the "Pot Belly Bear," is being pulled off the shelves of department stores because it may have wire in it that could injure a child. A spokesman for the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission said hundreds of thousands of the bears have already been sold.

Improper handling of funds is shown

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — University President Ralph Schilling, who will retire Aug. 31, 1981, said the fund transfers were a mistake. "We readily admit there were deficit expenditures. The funds should never have been transferred," he said. "It was a mistake. It was an error but it's been corrected."

The audit report noted $5,661 was spent for an October 1978 board meeting in Dallas, more than 500 miles away from the South Texas college campus. "The total cost included 24 (Dallas) Cowboy football packages at $90 each, 12 extra hotel rooms, a move to a more expensive hotel, airline fares and entertainment expenses," the report said.

Expenses from the meeting and $40,081 in supplemental salaries for Schilling were paid from private funds originally donated to upgrade the university's school of business, the report said. It is a common practice at Texas public universities to solicit private donations to supplement the state salary of college presidents.

The fund usually used to pay the supplement was overdrawn and transfers from the business school improvement fund were made to cover Schilling's increments between Sept. 1, 1975, and Aug. 7, 1980, the report said. The resulting shortage in the business school fund was covered with $58,324 from the state general fund monies paid to the university. The $58,324 went to pay professors' salaries. It is those funds which should be repaid, the audit recommended.

On Aug. 7, 1980, Schilling transferred $47,754 from the supplemental salary fund to the business school improvement account to repay money that had gone for his salary and the board meeting.

Pope ends freeze on dispensation of vows

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II has ended a two-year freeze on granting dispensations from vows of priestly celibacy with guidelines that appear more relaxed than the standards used by Pope Paul VI, Vatican experts said today. "It will depend on the Vatican's interpretation of the pope's guidelines," said a top-ranking Rome cleric who asked that his name not be used.

The new papal directive, which refers only to priests and not to nuns, was contained in a letter sent Wednesday to bishops and heads of religious orders from Cardinal Franjo Seper, the prefect of the Vatican's Sacred Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith. The Roman Catholic Church's celibacy rule is believed to be the reason for the sharp increase in the defections of priests in recent years. Defections are running at the annual rate of about 4,000, or one percent of the world's 400,000 priests. In the United States alone, nearly 8,000 priests are said to have left the priesthood since 1965.

In 1963, there were 167 requests for dispensation worldwide but by 1968 the number soared to 2,263 and most of them were granted by Pope Paul. However, sources said Paul, who died in 1978, had tightened the rules in the last years of his pontificate and would not, for example, consider the case of a man only ordained for a few years. The letter said the new "norms" are the results of a long study ordered by the pope "to determine the causes involved and to find a suitable solution" to the increasing requests for release from celibacy vows. It includes the caution that "a process of such serious importance as this not be considered as a right which the Church should recognize indiscriminately." "Equally to be avoided is the notion that a dispensation from celibacy in recent times can be considered to be the result of some quasi-automatic summary administrative process." But one expert said the guidelines were "more precise and somewhat more relaxed than the ones used by Pope Paul," toward the end of his papacy.

Mother faces extradition on childnapping charge

GRENVILLE, Texas (AP) — Brenda Carol Scarbrough says she is confused about why she will be extradited from Texas to stand trial in Mississippi on a kidnapping charge for taking her own children away from her husband in Tennessee.

A tearful Mrs. Scarbrough listened quietly as State District Judge William Parker explained Wednesday that her avenues of appeal had been exhausted — he was ordering her extradition to Mississippi.

"This has been a nightmare for me. I have never been in trouble before. I have never understood it from the start," Mrs. Scarbrough told The Associated Press in telephone interview from the Hunt County jail early today.

Mrs. Scarbrough said she took Dawn Elizabeth and John Emerson Scarbrough, then aged 4 and 2, from her husband's Memphis home last year because she feared for their safety.

She was charged with kidnapping in DeSoto County, Miss., in September of 1979. Her husband, John Scarbrough, filed the charge contending his wife took the children through Mississippi on the way to Texas.

"I did not. I went from Memphis to West Memphis, Ark., to Little Rock, Little Rock to Texarkana, and Texarkana to Denison, (Texas)," she said.

Mrs. Scarbrough said she still was married at the time although her husband had "temporary custody" of the children. She contends her husband filed the charge in Mississippi because Tennessee, Arkansas and Texas have no laws against "childnapping" by a parent.

A year-long battle to avoid extradition began after her arrest in Greenville in September of 1979 and ended in August when the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a lower court's extradition order.

Her children returned to her husband after her arrest. She made her home in the Hunt County jail from that September until May of 1980 when Greenville residents, responding to articles in the local newspaper on the woman's plight, arranged to post her $2,000 bond.

"The people here in Greenville have been super ... they have really been fantastic about the whole thing. I have made a bunch of friends here, true friends, and I am really glad I chose Greenville to be my home," she said.

After the appeals court ruled against her in August, she returned to her cell to await extradition to Mississippi, a trip she says could come as early as Friday or Saturday.

"I'm afraid because I don't know what kind of power he

(her husband) has down there. Apparently he has quite a bit or I would not be down here (in jail) so long," she said.

But she hopes she can see her children for the first time in a year when she goes to Mississippi.

"I was going to try to see if we (my husband and I) could become friends, at least for the kids' sake," she said.

"I've got all kinds of things on my mind. I'm kind of mixed up and I don't know what is going to happen — I want the best for my children."

Mrs. Scarbrough said she is frightened, "scared of the unknown" because she faces a sentence of from two years to life if convicted on the Mississippi charge.

"I don't understand it. I haven't from the start. I just don't know," she said. "The whole thing has been weird."

Medoff discovers 'diamonds in rough' at SWCID

'Children' playwright still angry young man

By JAMES WERRELL
At 40, with a Tony-winning play to his credit and a score of other projects in the works, Mark Medoff is still very much the angry young man.

"I still write out of rage," said the author of "Children Of A Lesser God," which won awards for best play, best actress and best actor, this year. "I have always been angry and cynical. I believe there is not much future in human relationships."

Although the anger is still there, the writing of that play represented a turning point in Medoff's work and, at least peripherally, in the lives of deaf persons across the country. The play was inspired by an actress who is deaf, and, more significantly, features roles for actors and actresses who actually are deaf.

"There are almost no parts for deaf or hard of hearing actors in the theater. The ones that exist are all played by hearing actors," explained Medoff.

"Children Of A Lesser God" features roles for a central character who is deaf and for two others who are hard of hearing. The play is 80 percent "signed," expressed through the hand language used by the deaf.

"The way the audience understands the signed parts is that a hearing actor lets them know through his response or in some other way what's been said," said Medoff, who is fluent in signing and regards it as a "beautiful second language."

A unique play, a unique playwright, a unique set of circumstances; all these factors combined to bring Medoff to Big Spring, perhaps to offer some students of the Southwest Collegiate Institute For The Deaf the opportunity of a lifetime.

An important link in this chain of events was Medoff's decision to allow "Children" to be produced in Dallas. Due to a special relationship between Medoff and Paul Baker, managing director of the Dallas Theatre Center, the play will appear in Dallas this season, long before it would ordinarily have been released to regional theaters.

"Paul produced my first play when I was only 28. He did a new play of mine a couple of years ago; he is really committed to young writers," said Medoff. "Once he literally whisked me off the stage, out of reach of a hostile audience after a performance of one of my earlier plays," he added laughing.

In order to produce the play in Dallas, Medoff needed actors to play the deaf characters, and one of those who auditioned was Steve Baldwin, history instructor at SWCID. Baldwin received a "call-back" from Medoff a few months later, and in the course of their conversation Baldwin mentioned that an untapped reservoir of talent might be found right here at SWCID.

"To be honest, I came because a member of your staff had auditioned in Dallas. I didn't expect to find a great deal," Medoff told an audience of SWCID students. "But much, much to my surprise, I found some diamonds in the rough."

Due to those auditions on Oct. 18, some students may be interviewed again, and may eventually be asked to join the cast of the Dallas production.

"I was careful to warn them that show business would destroy their lives," Medoff said, "only half-jokingly."

"Children Of A Lesser God" is the story of a deaf woman, about 26 years old, who has been in institutions since she was six. She refuses to learn to speak, stating persuasively that she feels at home in a world of silence and sign language, and that she is not fond of hearing people anyway.

She becomes involved, however, with a hearing teacher; they fall in love, and are married near the end of the first act of the play.

At the end of the play, the audience still isn't sure whether they stand any chance of survival," said the author.

This, as Medoff pointed out, is not a theme that shouts instant commercial success, and the play's touch-and-go evolution into a smash hit reflects that. New York producers were forced to give away about 10,000 free tickets to preview performances to assure an audience, and the night after the play's opening, a transit strike paralyzed the city, said Medoff.

"Eventually, though, we started to develop an audience through word of mouth and reviews. The first reviews were very confused. Walter Kerr, drama critic for the New York Times, wrote an insanely intellectual precis so that you couldn't tell if it was good or bad.

Woman's hot checking ends in jail sentence

Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin levied six fines last week, averaging $50 a fine, for hot check writers.

One female was jailed when she was fined $203.50 and unable to pay. She will remain until she earns jail time at $5 a day to pay off the fine or until someone pays the fine, said Heflin.

The same woman has written eight more hot checks. Heflin said they will be filed separately. Possibly the eight checks can be filed as a felony under a law providing prosecution for a "check writing spree," said Heflin. The spree entails a number of checks written in a one or two day period, said Heflin.

The woman wrote the checks to pay for clothes for herself, her husband and children. Her husband is in the federal prison camp here.

Heflin has eight more warrants ready for serving.

Law Enforcement Academy graduation booked Friday

The Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy has announced completion of the 22nd session of basic law enforcement training. Regional departments represented in this session were: Andrews Police Department, Stanton Police Department, Odessa Police Department, Odessa Fire Department, Ector County Sheriff's Department, Sullive Police Department, Midland County Sheriff's Department, and Midland Police Department.

The school was funded by a Criminal Justice Division grant through the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission and followed standards set by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education.

Moss Lake will be closed during month of November

Moss Lake will be closed during the month of November so that the lake caretaker can take a vacation, said city officials, Tuesday.

The city follows this policy each year. The lake is kept open seven days a week for the other 11 months of the year.

Local cost of living below national average

By RICHARD HORN
According to the quarterly cost of living index released by the American Chamber of Commerce Research Committee, Big Spring stands at 3.8 percent below the national average in cost of living.

Among 11 cities of more than 500,000 population represented in the third quarter of 1980, living costs ranged from 32.3 percent above the national average in New York City to 3.0 percent below the average in San Antonio. Eight of the 11 cities studied showed living costs above the U.S. average, which was based on price per data collected for 229 cities of all sizes throughout the country. Big Spring was one of the cities surveyed.

The eleven representative cities and cost of living indexes, based on the national average of 100 are: New York, N.Y.-132.3; San Jose, Calif.-120.0; Detroit, Mi.-

117.4; San Diego, Calif.-114.5; Chicago, Ill.-111.1; Houston, Tx.-104.6; Columbus, Ohio-103.3; Denver, Col.-103.1; Indianapolis, In.-99.2; New Orleans, La.-98.9; San Antonio, Tx.-97.0.

In comparison, the all-items index for Big Spring was 96.2, or 3.8 percent below the national average.

The all-items index is based on six components. Among the 11 largest cities in the report, the grocery items index ranged from 95.2 in San Jose, Calif. to 112.9 in New York City. The housing index displayed considerable greater variation, with a high of 165.0 in San Jose and a low of 96.6 in Columbus, Ohio. Utilities showed the broadest range, running from 62.0 in San Diego to 229.5 in New York City.

For transportation, the range was bracketed by a high of 125.2 in Detroit, and a low of 98.0 in Denver.

Health care was lowest among the large cities in New Orleans, which posted an index reading of 92.8, and highest in New York, where the index was 149.9. Miscellaneous goods and services cost least among the major cities in San Antonio, with a 96.8 index reading, and most in New York, where the figures was 116.5.

In Big Spring, the six component indexes were 99.4 for grocery items, 91.9 for housing, 100.8 for utilities, 92.2 for transportation, 96.1 for health care, and 98.3 for miscellaneous goods and services.

Of the 28 Texas cities included in the survey, Big Spring ranked as the sixth lowest city in cost-of-living, behind Texarkana, Hereford, Temple, Killeen, and Amarillo.

Of the six Permian Basin cities included in the survey, Big Spring had the lowest cost of living index.

HC chapter of OEA elects new officers

The Howard College chapter of the Office Education Association has elected its 1980-81 slate of officers, according to Mary Deats, instructor, business division, and sponsor for OEA.

They are: Charles Doan, president, Kathy Herald vice president, Carla Clanton, secretary, Debbie Butler, treasurer, Mary Loper, parliamentarian and Stefanie Ausmus, historian and reporter.

The conference was aimed at getting OEA chapters together to share ideas and teach officers to perform their jobs more efficiently.

Anyone interested in joining OEA may come to the next meeting, scheduled for Nov. 3, Room 205 of the Horace Garret Applied Science Building, at 9:45 a.m.

Watson posts $15,000 bail

Watson was arrested on suspicion of possession of cocaine Monday. He was transferred and released the same day.

Rotary District Governor to visit local club Nov. 4

Wayne P. Sturdivant, Amarillo, Rotary District Governor, will visit the Big Spring Rotary Club Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Sturdivant, presently a senior partner in the law firm of Gibson, Ochsner and Adkins in Amarillo, is one of 381 Rotary governors throughout the world who are representatives of Rotary International in districts composed of member clubs. Each district leader supervises the clubs in his area.

Sturdivant graduated from the University of Texas School of Law in 1954, after which he was immediately licensed to practice law in the State of Texas, and commenced his practice in Amarillo, where he has practiced continuously for 25 years.

Sturdivant graduated with honors from the University of Texas School of Law, and having enrolled in R.O.T.C., after having served in the United States Army as an enlisted man, he was graduated as a distinguished military student.

He is past president of the Amarillo Bar Association, past president of the Texas Association of Defense Counsel; a member of the International Association of Insurance Counsel; and a Fellow of the Texas Bar Association.

Big Spring Art Association members select two artists

Two members of the Big Spring Art Association have been selected by that organization to display their recent works at Citizens Federal Credit Union. The exhibit, which features the work of Shirley White and Madeen Blair, is open to the general public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., through Friday.

While both artists differ on their subjects, both seem to prefer the medium of oils. White, talking about her work, said "I like to paint about all types of paintings, except portraits. My favorites are windmills, quails, and flowers especially roses and bluebonnets." In addition, that versatile individual also enjoys doing needlework, quilts, and dolls.

Blair, on the other hand, prefers portraits over other subjects. "While on a trip to the Orient this past July," she said, "I sketched people in the airport and on the plane, and hope to get some of them on canvas soon."

As to her dedication to her art, Blair said "I try to paint some every day; sometimes as much as four or five hours. Painting is never a bore to me... it is new every day."

Rifle Line, Color Guard place first

The Big Spring Steer Ranch Rifle Line and Color Guard won first places in the Sar Angelo Auxiliary Competition Saturday.

The Big Spring Flag Line captured second in their division.

The four members of the Flag Quartet, Brenda Salazar, Lisa Leal, Michelle Torres and Christy Garcia received a first division.

Brenda Salazar won a second division and Tammie Moore won a first division for their flag solos.

Abel Solis, Greg Hartfield, Robby Ruten, Glenn Meminger, Martin Solis and Tony Shortes received first divisions for their rifle solos. Tom Cudd, Jay Purser and David Armstrong won second division.

Team to offer county families help in preparing histories

A renewed effort to have all Howard County families represented in the county historical book being prepared by the Howard County Historical Commission is being made.

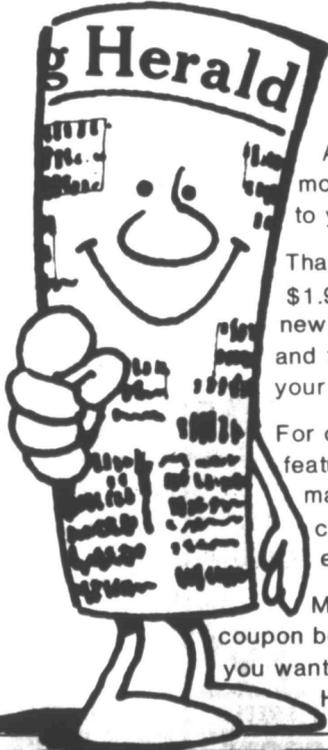

A team, consisting mostly of retired teachers, will assemble at a place still to be announced from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 9, to offer families help in preparing their family histories for the publication.

Up to 500 words can be reserved in the book without charge to the family. In addition, two pictures can be

Dear Abby

Good Loving a Matter Of Interest, Not Age

DEAR ABBY: You have stated repeatedly that men can be sexually active at 80, and I wish you would cut it out! You are wrong, but you seem to have an obsession about this subject.

I am an honest 60-year-old man who begs to differ with you. A man is no stud at 60. In fact, most men are on the decline starting at about 40. Some even before that. I suppose there are a few exceptions, but very darned few. The men who write to you saying they are just as good at 70 as they were at 30 are either lying or kidding themselves.

The next time you consult a gerontologist, please pick an honest one and make sure he's informed on sexology. The cemeteries are full of men who tried to prove they were just as good lovers at 60 as they were at 30. Thank you. SIXTY AND NO STUD

DEAR SIXTY: I did say that men can be sexually active at 80, which is true. Much depends on their attitude, the state of their general health, and whether they have an interesting and interested partner. I did not say that all men are just as good lovers at 60 as they were at 30. All are not. Some are better!

DEAR ABBY: The letter asking whether marriage between a Republican and Democrat could ever work interested me because my marriage was also "mixed." My husband was a devout Republican and I a dedicated Democrat.

Every election day we'd both go off to the polls and cancel out each other's vote. We talked about it, argued about it and even laughed about it. In spite of our political differences, we had a wonderful 40-year marriage. He's been dead for three years, and I'm certainly going to miss him this November.

VOTING FOR CARTER

DEAR VOTING: So will Mr. Reagan!

DEAR ABBY: After a miserable marriage and traumatic divorce, I married a woman so wonderful that it made everything that had occurred previously seem like a bad dream from which I had finally awakened. She has given me faith in myself, joy beyond description, inspiration, and the kind of love I thought existed only in romantic novels. My two little ones (I have custody) adore her as she does them.

Paradise, right? Wrong! She has one habit that drives me up a wall. She is NEVER on time for anything. If she says "a few minutes," it can mean an hour. An hour can mean three.

Abby, I cannot count on her to be on time for anything. Nor can anyone else. She is always behind and running late. It is an exasperating fly-in-the-ointment of what would otherwise be a union made in heaven. Can you, or any of your experts, suggest a cure?

BEWILDERED IN BUCKS COUNTY

DEAR BEWILDERED: Not unless the lady wants to be cured. By your own account, she has five virtues and only one fault—wasting time. Her five virtues are "unions made in heaven," "have worse tradeoffs," "Nag her—but count your blessings instead of the minutes."

CONFIDENTIAL TO ARIES IN ASHTABULA, OHIO: It may sound shocking, but I believe it's possible to love several individuals at the same time with nearly equal tenderness, and we need not lie to assure each of our passion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEE: Better to marry a man you can live with than to marry the first man you can't live without.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

A CHILD'S IMAGINATION — plus paper, glue and ink are all that's required to create Halloween characters — witch, vampire and friendly goblin. Because there's no pumpkin carving required, it's safe and more fun for kids.

Pumpkin wizardry with paper and ink

That same old face. Squinty eyes. Triangle nose. A mouth with three teeth. Ho-hum.

This year, see how the pen can be mightier than the sword when creating Halloween pumpkins.

Three ways of decorating pumpkins are described below:

WITCH — Create an enchanting witch. Make her hat out of wrapping paper by twisting a long piece into a cone and securely taping it to a matching piece cut into a donut shape. The hat band is made out of complementary colored gift wrap and taped to the cone. To make locks of hair, curl ribbon and tape to the top of the pumpkin. Cut the nose and mouth out of construction paper and glue into place.

VAMPIRE — "Happy Halloween," says this scary Count Dracula look-alike. His hair is black gift yarn stuck to the top of the pumpkin. The eyes and eyebrows are made of one piece of construction paper colored with marking pens and glued into place. The nose is white construction paper outlined in black. Lift the nose up at the tip for a more life-like appearance. The mouth, ears and fangs are also cut out of construction paper (outlined in black) and glued into place. Place Dracula on a pedestal made from a block of wood encircled with colored paper. His cape is the final devilish touch, made from folded gift wrap.

FRIENDLY GOBLIN — This happy fellow will especially appeal to the younger children. To make bug-like eyes, glue 7-inch round white paper dessert plates (outlined in black) to the pumpkin. Glue black circles on one edge of each plate to make the pupils. Fashion his mouth from white construction paper outlined in black. For hands, cut white lightweight poster board or use white work gloves attached to sticks.

Planned Parenthood officers announced

Margaret Chappell, outgoing President of Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, announced the results of Planned Parenthood's first major fund raising campaign at its recent annual meeting. The two-month campaign resulted in $35,909 to be used in the 1981 year.

Although the formal termination of the campaign was Oct. 16, Planned Parenthood continues to need funds for equipment such as an autoclave (sterilizer) and educational materials for patient and community education. Contributions will be accepted throughout the year and tours of the different clinics are available by contacting the Executive Offices in Odessa.

Ms. Chappell announced the 1980-81 officers for Planned Parenthood at the annual meeting. They are: President, Munro Shintani Ph.D.; Vice-President, Charlotte Williamson; Secretary, Melissa Hirsch; Treasurer, Bob Dutton. New members on the Board of Directors are: Chris South — Seminole, Velta Tischhauser — McCamey, Larry Turpin — Seminole, Dr. Bernard Zilberg — Big Spring, Carol Owen — Big Spring, Andrea Cohen — Big Spring, Sue Willbanks — Big Spring, Dr. Greg Bortha — Midland, Harris Kerr — Midland, Gary Patterson — Midland, Bertha Jimenez — Midland, Dr. Jay Mendez — Midland and Dr. Bob Hardy — Midland.

Sarah Weddington, Assistant to the President of the United States, was the guest speaker at the event.

The program included the presentation of the Margaret Sanger Award to Ms. Chappell and to Ms. Ruth Bell for their significant contributions to the advancement of voluntary family planning in the Permian Basin area.

The services provided by Planned Parenthood include physical examination, birth control education and provision, cancer screening, pregnancy testing, venereal disease screening, counseling on all areas of family planning and educational materials and programs. Women also receive information on nutrition, dental care and referrals to other service agencies in the local areas.

The examinations are done by local doctors and nurse practitioners.

Planned Parenthood has clinics in Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Wink, Lamesa, McCamey, Seminole, Ft. Stockton, Andrews, Monahans and Pecos.

Mrs. Humphreys named teacher for October

The Local Unit of Texas State Teachers Association is honoring a teacher for each month of the school year. Mrs. Dorothy Ford Humphreys is recognized for the month of October, and Alberto's Crystal Cafe is treating her to a free dinner. Mrs. Humphreys teaches Special Education at Big Spring High School, and she has taught in Big Spring for 20 years. Her teaching experience totals 24 years. She has earned Bachelor of Science and Master of Education degrees and has taken post graduate courses. Colleges she has attended include Hardin-Simmons University, University of Texas, Texas Tech University, and Abilene Christian University. She has teaching certifications in elementary, secondary business and English, and special education. Mrs. Humphreys is active in Texas State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Classroom Teachers Association, and serves as Vice-president of Association of Retarded Citizens. She is also a member of Order of Eastern Star and East Fourth Baptist Church.

TSIA TEACHER OF THE MONTH — Dorothy Humphreys receives a plaque from Joe Dawes, president of the local Texas State Teacher's Association, congratulating her as October's Teacher of the Month.

Public centennial meet called Thursday

The first public meeting to discuss plans for the impending centennial celebration of the coming of the railroad will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Howard College Auditorium. Interested individuals, as well as representatives from the various groups and organizations in the community, are encouraged to attend the meeting and help shape plans for the area-wide celebration to be held May 24 thru May 28, 1981. John Taylor, chairman of the steering committee for the centennial celebration, said the purpose of the meeting was to receive input from organizations in the area. He said a questionnaire would be given to all those attending the meeting asking what they would like to see during the celebration and ideas or projects they might be willing to undertake in conjunction with the five-day festivities. In addition, Taylor said that a list of ideas previously submitted to the steering committee for consideration would also be given to participants to study for possible implementation. Taylor, who stressed the fact that the public meeting would be kept short, said that the deadline for submitting ideas by the various groups would be Dec. 1, and that the guidelines for the clubs and organizations would be mailed to their representatives by Jan. 1, 1981.

HC trustees authorize bids for renovation of buildings

The Howard College board of trustees authorized the school's administration to take bids on the renovation of several buildings on the main campus at the regular monthly session held Tuesday.

College president Dr. Charles Hays, said, however, that construction — which could run in the neighborhood of $70,000 — would be delayed until the administration was certain there was enough money in the budget to pay for such an undertaking.

Among other improvements, the plan calls for expansion of administrative office space. The board approved the hiring of Margaret Warren as the school's bursar, Diane Lynhart as a school counselor at Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf and Charles Shumake, who will be assigned to administrative work at SWCID. A board committee appointed by board president Don McKinney will lend further study to a proposed expansion of the school's telephone system. The board is looking most favorably at the present time on a $96,000 lease agreement with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, which would allow the school to have as many as 350 stations at Howard College and SWCID.

The school administration was also authorized to ask for bids on the new coliseum sign, money for which has been donated by a friend of the college. The sign can be electrically operated and will contain two moving or stationary lines for advertising events planned for the coliseum.

It was also announced that a sound system purchased recently for the school's use is already operable, although three minor pieces have yet to be shipped. The system has met universal approval, according to Dr. P. W. Malone, board member.

In his monthly report to the trustees, Dr. Hays said the college had earned an extra $1,500 by holding last year's cotton crop grown of College property in Martin County an extra four months. Hays also revealed that a Del Rio delegation had petitioned Howard College to offer an ADN nursing course in that city. The course would be completely financed by Del Rio money, Hays said.

McKinney also offered a report on the Oct. 7-11 convention of the Association of Community College Trustees, which was held at the Sheraton Waikiki Hotel in Honolulu. McKinney attended the convention, as did Dr. Charles Warren, Harold Davis and Dr. P. W. Malone. Conflicts in schedules prevented Buddy Barr, Curt Mullins and George Weeks from attending.

McKinney said that next year's convention will be held in Boston.

Police Beat

Vandal activity costly in city

Crime was slight by expensive in the city recently.

Vandals decided to try to drive a parked tractor through a fence at the Cameo Homes Company at 11th and FM 700, Monday morning. They succeeded in demolishing 60 feet of fence surrounding the facility, causing $300 worth of damage.

Burglars smashed a window and made their way into the Handy Hut, 2609

Wasson, Monday night. The store had just received a shipment of 20 cases of Coors Beer, and the intruders stole it. The suds were valued at $184.

Thieves stripped a car belonging to Robert Burris, 1402½ Main, of its alternator, starter, radiator, timing chain and three tires, Sunday night. Loss was estimated at $160.

A thief entered the restroom of Building 938 at the Big Spring Industrial Park and stole a 10-gallon water heater and an electric floor heater. Cost of the items has not been estimated.

Thieves drove a 1972 Mercury belonging to Johnny Owens, 609 State, away from its parking place at 1414 E. 3rd, sometime Sunday night. The car was later located on the 100 block of Owens, but it was minus a battery. Cost of the battery has not been estimated.

Two mishaps were reported Tuesday.

Vehicles driven by Anthony Shankles, 4110 Bilger, and Myrtle Fortner, 1206 Johnson, collided on the 500 block of S. Birdwell, 7:58 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Samuel R. Morris, P.O. Box 522, and Eusebio Ramirez Sr., 817 W. 6th, collided on the 1000 block of West Fourth, 9:11 a.m.

Tuning In
by Nathan Poss

Alborn must feel justice with big win over Aggies

RICE UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL COACH RAY ALBORN probably has the feeling that justice has prevailed following last Saturday's win over the Texas Aggies at Kyle Field by a score of 10-6.

You see, the Rooster, as he affectionately was known by players while serving as an assistant at Rice, felt victimized by the big A&M machine last spring.

First, in the midst of spring training, the offensive coordinator at Rice the past two years, Ted Unbehagen, left the Houston campus to coach the offensive line at A&M. Unbehagen explained his decision as being that the Aggie alumni pump so much money into the athletic program that it was something he couldn't turn down.

So Alborn went to West Virginia U to hire a man named Dick Rader as his offensive coordinator. Rader, who has worked for much of his coaching career with former Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen, is well versed in the running game. This helped Alborn in deciding to utilize his new offensive coordinator's knowledge and change the long-time pass happy Owls to a ground attack.

But alas, Rader was only on the Rice campus for one month before A&M raided again, this time luring Rader to the College Station campus. To say the least, the Rooster (Alborn) was furious.

It's frustrating when an opposing rival hires two offensive coordinators away in a period of a month, but when it's the Aggies, a likeable, yet most excitable guy such as Alborn has been known say naughty words.

Especially when it happened to be A&M. Alborn, probably the most entertaining coach in the Southwest Conference for writers as far as one-liners go, doesn't like Aggies, or anything associated with them.

A person that knows Alborn as well as I do through my playing experiences under him could probably write a small book detailing his Aggie stories, but the newspaper is no place for such a matter.

All I can say for Alborn is that by beating A&M last Saturday in College Station, it probably gave him more personal satisfaction than beating Alabama would have. Especially after losing his top aides to them last spring.

THIS YEAR'S NFL GAMES are proving to be the wildest in history, as there is absolutely no telling who is going to win, no matter what the bookies say and what previous records would indicate.

DON SHULA, Miami Dolphins coach, credits former NFL czar BERT BELL with keeping the game competitive by giving the worst teams the top picks in the annual draft. Another big factor that Shula cites is the expansion of the number of teams to 26.

"We had fewer teams back in the 60s and more good players could be brought in. It's different now. You have one pick out of the first 28. You can't afford to make a mistake."

FORMER BIG SPRING STEER GREAT JOHN THOMAS SMITH played a big role in the Kansas City Chiefs 20-17 win over the Detroit Lions last Sunday, which gave the KC team four straight wins and put them back into the thick of the AFC West race. Smith had six catches for 87 yards in the game...

Quotables

GEORGE STEINBRENNER visited the Yankee clubhouse during a game in September and sat in front of GRAIG NETTLES' locker chatting with newsmen. Nettles came along, looked at his boss, looked up at the name above the locker, and straight-faced: "You know, they're right. That Nettles is overweight."

THE SAN ANTONIO SPURS are playing something new to them this year in the NBA-defense. And Golden State's scoring ace BERNARD KING can attest to that.
