Colorado City woman writes 'Trapper Lady'

By CAROL HART
Being sidelined as a result of knee surgery and seeing an advertisement in the Big Spring Herald run by a publishing company were the two ingredients which lead Mrs. Viola Young Iglehart to getting her first book, "Trapper Lady," published.

Mrs. Iglehart, who lives in Colorado City, said the book was the "first thing I've ever tried," writing, with the exception of a few articles she wrote in high school.

"I've wanted to write for years," she added, "I've never had time."

Knee surgery left her unable to walk for awhile, and Mrs. Iglehart decided to try her hand at writing to "kill time with something constructive." She worked on the manuscript for several months, but didn't know how to get it published," she said.

An advertisement in the Herald by Carlton Press in New York City looking for manuscripts caught Mrs.

VIOLA IGLEHART

Iglehart's eye, and she sent the company her manuscript.

"They accepted it," she said. "I sent them the manuscript in January 1980. I pay part of the printing costs in return for a larger percentage of book sales."

The book went on the market the last of October. Carlton press is in charge of publicity for the book, and also provided the cover design.

"Trapper Lady," is the story of a 35-year-old woman who leaves her husband and children in search of a new identity, and finds herself in a cabin near the Canadian border, where she learns to trap. Mrs. Iglehart said the book is purely fiction. The title is derived from the CB handle the woman takes for herself, "Trapper Lady."

The book tells the story of how the woman learns to live alone in the wilderness, sharing her home with a wolf cub she befriends.

"I'm trying to do more writing," Mrs. Iglehart said. Time for this comes between caring for her family, she said. "I like to tell people I'm a domestic engineer," she said. "In other words, I'm a housewife."

She and her husband Roy, who works for Safeway, have five children. Their son, DaWayne, attends Western Texas College in Snyder, while their daughter, Deborah, goes to Texas State Technological Institute in Sweetwater. Children living at home and attending school in Colorado City are Charles, Roger and Wendell.

The family has lived in Colorado City 14 years. Mrs. Iglehart is active in the First Baptist Church choir there.

Collin County candidate declared winner by one vote

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — It took three recounts and almost three weeks to decide who had been elected Collin County clerk but when the smoke had cleared, Margie Craft had won.

By one vote.

Mrs. Craft was sworn into office Monday shortly after county commissioners completed a canvass of votes in her battle against Democrat Helen Starnes, a former chief deputy clerk.

The Republican candidate asked for a recount after initial results from the Nov. 4 general election showed Mrs. Starnes had won by a 291-vote margin.

The recount showed Mrs. Craft, appointed to the job last summer, had won by a 41-vote margin. But a second recount cut Mrs. Craft's margin to five votes.

Mrs. Starnes then requested a third, manual recount.

After only 17 of the 56 boxes had been recounted, the results showed Mrs. Craft ahead by one vote.

But State District Judge John McCra recommended that Mrs. Craft be declared the winner, according to Donna Strub of the county election office.

"The district judge's recommendation was that Mrs. Craft is the winner by one vote," Mrs. Strub said. "Mrs. Craft has been certified as the winner."

Two-day work week solves nursing shortage

DALLAS (AP) — Faced with a crippling shortage of nurses, officials at Baylor University Medical Center came up with a unique work program they hope will cure critical staffing ills and boost the morale of its nurses.

The plan — called the TwoDay Alternative — employs nurses for two 12-hour shifts on Saturdays and Sundays for full salary. Those nurses have the rest of the week off.

The hospital's other nurses now will work Monday through Friday, a work week almost unheard of in the 24-hour profession.

"The nurses are overjoyed, they're ecstatic," said nurse recruiter Carole Ellerbe. "I think we are going to have some nurses more happy in their careers and we are close to filling our vacancies."

The weekend workers be on the job for 12 hours for two stretches on Saturday and Sunday. The day-shift weekenders will be paid for a 36-hour week, the late shift will get paid for 40 hours and both categories will enjoy the same benefits other staff nurses receive.

"It's great," concurred Tricia Ault, a pulmonary-unit nurse. "They work 24 hours, yet they are paid for 36 to 40 hours with full benefits. Can you imagine that?"

Mrs. Ault predicted that other Dallas-area hospitals will go to the same plan because their nurses are "leaving like you wouldn't believe."

"It will mean extra money and so much extra time," said Maureen Brewer. "Time is money. If I can work 24 hours and get the same pay, I certainly will."

The hospital administration also is happy, since a severe shortage of nurses at the facility apparently has been alleviated by the plan. The hospital had been averaging 40 nursing vacancies per shift.

"The nursing shortage has worsened in the last few years," said Ms. Ellerbe.

Psychic helps police in Angelo murder quiz

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Police say a Dallas psychic has given investigators "extremely sensitive" new information in the effort to track down the bandit who killed a jewelry store clerk nine months ago.

Police Chief Travis Johnson said authorities contacted John Catchings after the self-described psychic helped locate the body of a missing Ennis electrician last month.

He said Catchings provided details on 10 different aspects of the investigation during an initial 90-minute meeting with police at an undisclosed date.

Catchings also led authorities to a .22-caliber firearm that police believe the bandit may have used to shoot Sheila Gay Elrod, 22, to death on Feb. 12.

Ms. Elrod was apparently alone when an unknown number of bandits robbed the store of jewelry valued at $100,000. Authorities said she was shot five times.

Johnson said divers searched for two days before finding the weapon in the Concho River near two downtown-area bridges. He declined to provide any more details about the firearm, which was sent to Dallas for ballistics tests.

"The first thing he (Catchings) told us was that the weapon was in the mud under the bridge." Johnson told the San Angelo Standard-Times in an article published Tuesday. "He also detailed some facts that he couldn't have learned from media coverage of the case, as well as some new information."

Johnson declined to divulge any specific details, saying the "information is extremely sensitive."

"The investigation is continuing. That's all I can say at this time," said Johnson.

Johnson said Catchings is helping with the investigation free of charge, but noted that a $15,000 reward is being offered for information in the case.

"I would guess Catchings would be entitled to the reward when the case is resolved," he said.

Janelle Billingsley feted at miscellaneous shower

Janelle Billingsley, Ackerly, bride-elect of David Long, Knott, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Nov. 22 in the home of Mrs. Jerry Hall, Ackerly. Guests were registered at a polished table in the foyer by Mrs. Dudley Coleman. The rectangular refreshment table was laid with a floor-length white lace cloth over white linen. The bride-elect's chosen colors of white and navy were used in a centerpiece of mums and carnations with white tapers. Crystal and silver appointments were used. Mrs. Robert Hunt and Mrs. Rex Zant served petit fours, fresh fruit, and banana slush.

The honoree, her mother, Mrs. Ed Billingsley, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Woodie Long, were presented white and navy corsages.

The hostesses presented Miss Billingsley with a vacuum cleaner. Guests from Big Spring were Mrs. Boyd Day, grandmother of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Eugene Clanton and Carla, Mrs. Michael Gamble.

Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Bobby Goolsby and Cheryl of Odessa, Mrs. Garland Gaines and Tonda, from Christoval, Mrs. Larry Sloan, Kay and Judy, from Merkel, Mrs. James Billingsley, Tarzan, and Mrs. Charles Mickelson, San Angelo.

The couple will be married Jan. 1, at the Ackerly Church of Christ.

Dear Abby

No Sweet Sorrow at This Party's Parting

DEAR ABBY: About the question, "Who else is coming to the party?" You say it's bad manners to ask. I say, sometimes it's good to know.

I recently broke up with John, the man I had lived with for two years. It was a very unpleasant parting with much bitterness on both sides. All our friends were aware of it. A couple with whom John and I had been very friendly invited me to a party and told me to bring a date. The man I brought was an old friend of whom John had always been insanely jealous.

When we arrived at the party I was shocked to see John there. I had all I could do to keep John and my date from each other's throats. Everyone there knew what was going on. It was a miserable experience.

Afterward I asked this couple why they had invited John and me to the same party, and they said, "You are both our friends, and we didn't want to choose between you."

They should have told me that they had invited John, so I could decline. Now I'm sorry I didn't ask, "Who else is coming?"

Do you still think that would have been rude?
SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR SAN FRANCISCO: No. In your case, it would have been shrewd.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the letter from the policeman who resented mothers who threaten their kids by telling them that if they don't behave, a policeman will lock them up in jail.

I'm a nurse, and I resent parents telling kids who are in the hospital, "If you aren't good, I'm going to get the nurse and she'll give you a shot!" Then they wonder why kids are afraid of doctors and nurses.

My sister is a school teacher, and she has told me that parents threaten their children with "the teacher." Then they wonder why kids hate school.
JOY IN TULLAHOMA, TENN.

DEAR JOY: And in some quarters the surest way to scare a kid is to say, "I'm going to tell your mother." (And Mamma says, "Just wait until your father comes home!")

DEAR ABBY: It is appalling to think that people will stoop to sneaky, devious methods to get rid of their company. Whatever happened to honesty? What's wrong with saying, "Well, folks, I've enjoyed your company and we've had a pleasant evening, but it's getting toward my bedtime and it's time to say good night."

Then see them to the door cheerfully and go to bed without any feeling of guilt. A lie is still a lie.
HATES A LIAR

DEAR HATES: Nothing is "wrong" with simply announcing that the party is over and it's time to go home. But no matter how you phrase it, it's still sending the company home, and that takes courage.

DEAR ABBY: This is for SENSITIVE, who was embarrassed and annoyed because someone he called "English Teacher" insisted on correcting his grammar in the presence of others. To paraphrase Lord Chesterfield's advice to his son: Worry your education like your watch. For use, and not for show.

A REAL HOLIDAY TREAT FROM THE COUNTRY KITCHEN

TWEEN 12 and 20 — 15 days will lick caffeine habit

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm an 18-year-old graduate who has a big problem. When I was 14, I was allowed to stay out as late as I wanted to. Then I couldn't get up the following morning so I was always late for school.

Then someone introduced me to a "stay-awake" pill that you can buy at the drug store without a prescription. I tried them and they really worked. They were loaded with caffeine.

Now four years later I'm still taking these pills and I'm really jumpy most of the time. I know that I should quit but I've tried and I can't. Help! — Mike, Fort Smith, Ark.

Mike: You can quit — cold turkey — if you really want to. Instead of popping the pill, chew a stick of gum or better yet, nip a raw carrot or a piece of celery. If you stay off the pills for 15 short days, you've got it whipped. Mike, please read the following letter from Julie.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and pregnant and living with my parents. Since I'm the nervous type, I drink a lot of coffee. My mom says the coffee won't affect me or the baby but my dad said that coffee is bad for both of us. I drink about 10 cups per day. — Julie, Seattle, Wash.

Julie: I think father knows best. Dr. Ann Strassguth of the University of Washington studied 1,529 pregnant women and found that the babies of the mothers using large amounts of caffeine were less active and had poorer muscle tone at birth than babies of mothers who used small amounts of caffeine.

Your coffee habit could be the cause or at least a contributor to your nervousness. Heavy coffee drinkers many times exhibit "coffee nerves" — nervousness, irritability, agitation, headaches, insomnia and many times even twitching muscles.

Heavy caffeine intake can be considered anything in excess of 750 milligrams per day. A brewed cup of coffee is 125 while a cup of instant coffee is 90. A cup of tea is 65 while a cola soft drink contains 50.

It doesn't take too much time to figure you are in the heavy category. You owe it to yourself and your baby to cut back on your coffee habit.

Send questions to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent, stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace, in care of this newspaper.

One in 10 older folks not sensitive enough to cold

The next time a cold wind slices through your clothes, you may wish you could not feel the cold at all. But as many as one in 10 older people are in real danger because they are not sensitive enough to cold.

Sometimes people, especially those over age 65, have bodily malfunctions that keep them from noticing cold and regulating body temperature well. So when they stay in a consistently nippy atmosphere (sometimes no colder than 65 degrees Fahrenheit) for a long time, body temperature can drop low enough to be fatal from a condition called "accidental hypothermia."

Since hypothermia's symptoms may be similar to those of some other diseases, no one knows positively how many people die from it yearly. But the risk is very obvious because thermostats are going lower as heating bills go up.

Instead of the often obvious symptoms (such as hard, white, numb areas) that can indicate frostbite, hypothermia symptoms can mimic other diseases and be less obvious. Meanwhile, the victim's body can slow down until unconsciousness occurs and ultimately the heart stops.

Once the core of the body has gotten cold enough to be hypothermic, several days can pass before unconsciousness occurs. In the meantime, symptoms may include bloated face, pale and waxy or occasionally oddly pink skin, trembling in one part of the body, slurred speech, dulled awareness and slow response. (The victim probably will feel cold only before acute hypothermia occurs and not afterward). Most hypothermia symptoms are signs of other diseases so a physician should be contacted to make an accurate diagnosis.

Protection against hypothermia includes wearing warm, multi-layered clothing, especially protecting the head, hands and feet, drinking warm liquids (except alcohol because it causes heat loss), proper nutrition, keeping the thermostat reasonably high and checking a room thermometer regularly. These are good ideas for anyone but are especially important for those older people whose natural warming methods are weakened.

Sometimes the body loses the ability to shiver and blood vessels may not distribute body heat properly. Losing these two natural warming methods may be especially serious for the aged who often have less muscle mass and slower chemical processes, which are two other heat-producers. To make matters worse, sometimes the aged cannot move around very much to get warm and they do not eat properly so there is less fuel for the bodily chemical processes to use to make heat.

Grand jury takes no action in infant death

DALLAS (AP)—A Dallas County grand jury has taken no action in the case of a 7-month-old infant squeezed to death by her father's pet python last month.

The child, Toni Lynn Duboe, was found dead by her parents Nov. 8 in their Dallas apartment. The baby had been strangled to death and was covered with dozens of needle-fine tooth marks, police said.

The girl's father, Robert Eugene Duboe, grabbed the snake from its perch above the baby's bed and wrestled it into another room, shot it with a .25-caliber revolver and partially severed its head with a kitchen knife, investigators said.

Officers said the snake, which had tremendous strength, forced its way out of a covered 30-gallon aquarium and slithered into the baby's crib.

Duboe told police he found a trail of blood from the crib to a wooden ledge above the baby's head.

Police took the case directly to the grand jury without filing any charges.

The top winner received 92 points, placing Whitaker in the top 10.

Money for wife's attempted murder not returned to Texan

HOUSTON (AP)—Walter Ray Duckett won't get his $2,300 back.

Duckett, 30, is under a 10-year probation sentence on a jury conviction on a charge of solicitation of capital murder. Prosecutors said he paid $2,300 in an unsuccessful attempt to have his estranged wife killed.

Hatten agreed with the prosecution and turned the money over to the district attorney's special crimes unit.

State District Judge William Hatten was asked Monday to see that the money was returned to Duckett. Prosecutors objected, contending the state should get the money since it was linked to a criminal case.

Duckett's lawyers then said the restaurant owner would match the amount if the court awarded the money to the Shriners Crippled Children's Institute.

Garbo considering screen comeback

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Greta Garbo may appear on the movie screen again for the first time in 40 years, according to a Swedish weekly magazine.

Garbo, 75, signed a contract last October with unnamed American producers for a remake of "The Story of Gosta Berling," based on the Swedish novel by 1909 Nobel Prize winner Selma Lagerlof. Aret Runt magazine claimed.

Recalling episodes from the original shooting 56 years ago. The principal role—Elizabeth Dohna—would be played by another actress.

"Gosta Berling," first released in 1924 with a script by Mauritz Stiller, is said to be Garbo's favorite among her films.

Rumours of Garbo comebacks—all of them false—have cropped up intermittently since the Swedish actress made her last film, "Two-Faced Woman," in 1941.

Aret Runt chief editor Sven Broman, co-author of a book on the reclusive actress nicknamed "The Divine," wrote the story about her possible comeback.

Broman said a clause in the contract gives Garbo three months to make the final decision, and said she has another 30 days left to withdraw. If she accepts, shooting of the film could start in the United States sometime after Christmas.

Garbo, playing an old woman, would add color to the new version of "The Story of Gosta Berling" by

'Goddess' washed up at age 11

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — After a decade of being worshipped as a living goddess, Sunina Sakya is learning how to live as an ordinary 13-year-old girl.

No longer carried, she has learned how to walk. No longer isolated, she is learning to mix with other children.

No longer living in a temple, she is learning the responsibilities of home life.

When little more than a year old, Sunina passed a stringent series of tests to prove her worth — ranging from unblemished skin to an extremely serene composure and an acceptable horoscope — and was installed as Nepal's "Raj Kumari," or "Royal Virgin Goddess."

Nepal has several Kumaris but only one "royal" Kumari. She lives in Katmandu and is prayed to directly by the Himalayan nation's king in a Hindu and Buddhist practice of virgin worship that dates back to the sixth century B.C.

According to legend, an ancient Nepalese king so offended the Devi (goddess) Kumari that she refused to have anything to do with him directly, maintaining contact with him only through a young virgin.

His subjects believe that the king, who maintains near absolute control in this rugged, landlocked country, receives his power through the reigning royal Kumari.

Sick Nepalese also worship Kumari to seek cures, politicians make offerings hoping to advance their careers and others come before her in keeping with the demands of various ceremonies.

Kumari also is very popular with the tourists.

For 10 years, Sunina was so worshipped. She lived according to a strict code in a special temple in the capital. Every morning her servants bathed and dressed her.

The few times each year she briefly left the temple — normally she was not allowed out even into the courtyard — she was carried so her feet would not touch the ground. Devi Kumari's every whim, if it did not violate the code, was instantly satisfied.

Her only duty was to sit goddess-like on a throne or at a window — and be worshipped.

Then, inevitably, Sunina displayed a human frailty. One day Sunina complained of stomach pain and an uneasy feeling.

Guru Ma, a 75-year-old temple custodian, promptly reported to the priests that Sunina had reached retirement age.

"I was worried that her menstruation period might begin soon," he explained recently.

Temple rules forbid a child to hold the title of Kumari after she demonstrates she is human, and one clear sign is loss of blood. Bleeding also can result from the loss of a tooth, a wound or an internal hemorrhage.

Other Kumaris have ended their reigns by shedding a tear.

"How could you consider (a child) a goddess if she cries like any of the other girls?" asked Guru Ma.

So, at age 11, Sunina retired.

One of the first things Sunina had to do after returning home was learn how to walk correctly, neighbors recalled.

Also, she suddenly had a family instead of servants, and was expected to assume her share of household chores.

"My mother scolds me for not taking care of my brothers and sisters," confided Sunina, the eldest of the three girls and two boys in the family.

For the first year, to ease the transition, Sunina was tutored privately in her home. She then entered a local girls school as a fifth grader.

Her teachers describe Sunina as a girl of "a very few words," and these do not include reminiscences about her life as a goddess.

"I should not speak about the temple...I have forgotten the role of (goddess)," she said shyly.

Sunina also is learning English, but would like to forget two words she heard frequently as a goddess.

Many tourists who came to see her would shout "Hi! or Hello! in a loud voice," she confided. "These are words that I do not like to hear anymore."

Iranian message delivered

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a 16-day wait, the United States today received the official Iranian message that could determine how far apart the two countries are in negotiations for release of the 52 American hostages.

A three-man team of Algerian intermediaries that arrived here Tuesday night went to the State Department at mid-morning today and were met by Harold Saunders, assistant secretary for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs.

The envoys made no comment before heading into a meeting with Saunders, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carswell, State Department legal adviser Roberts Owen and Arnold Raphael, an assistant to Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie.

Muskie also scheduled a luncheon with the diplomatic delegation.

"We are certainly interested in getting the fullest possible response from Iran," State Department spokesman John Trattner said Tuesday. "I think that's obvious." He said the Algerians probably will remain in Washington several days.

In advance of today's meeting, administration officials said they expected "difficult questions" from Iranian authorities about an American note delivered by the Algerians earlier this month in response to the four conditions set by the Iranian Parliament on Nov. 2.

The American message explained that restrictions on presidential authority prevent the administration from fully meeting two of the demands — cancellation of U.S. financial claims against Iran and confiscation of the scattered wealth of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Iranian officials have indicated the explanations were not persuasive and that further clarification is needed.

"I would imagine we are going to have some difficult questions on financial matters and timing," said one U.S. official, who asked not to be identified. Another official said he did not expect the Iranians to demand a yes-or-no response.

The two other demands — a pledge of non-interference in Iranian affairs and release of more than $8 billion in frozen Iranian assets — are not viewed here as major obstacles.

The signals from Iran, however, have been conflicting.

Various authorities in Tehran have described the U.S. response as conciliatory and cool. Last week, a spokesman for Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai was quoted by Greek radio and television as saying Iran wanted either a "positive or negative" response to its conditions for releasing the Americans, now in their 389th day of captivity.

The Algerian intermediaries refused to comment on their mission as they arrived at nearby Dulles Airport.

Police probe bus shooting

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas Transit System driver whose bus apparently was fired upon Tuesday says he believes the incident was related to a month-long walkout.

"I worked all the way through the strike, and I had threats and whatever, but I ignored all that and kept working," said Charles Moseley.

Although no bullet was found in the bus, police said they believed the projectile that shattered a window came from a small-caliber pistol.

No one was injured. Two men were taken into custody shortly after the incident was reported at 8:35 a.m., but were cleared later. One of them, however, was booked on an unrelated charge when a .22-caliber pistol was found inside his car.

Two other DTS buses were fired upon in the same East Oak Cliff neighborhood last month during the height of a wildcat walkout by union bus drivers and mechanics.

On Oct. 14, 9-year-old Alisa Williams was critically wounded by a sniper's high-powered bullet. Her condition is reported to be slightly improved.
