DIRECT LINE TO SANTA CLAUS—Santa Claus may be a man on the run but he's never too busy to talk to his best friends, the children of the world. Kids in the vicinity of Cecilia Street in Big Spring have found they can get a direct line to the North Pole by using this special hookup.

Little Lori Brashears had to use a stand to reach the phone but, from the look on her face, it was worth the effort. Jimmy Voight (left) and Genea McHaney await their turn to bend the old gentleman's ear.

Former Soviet premier Kosygin dies at age 76

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexei N. Kosygin, who resigned from the Soviet premiership in October after 16 years as head of the government, died Thursday night of a heart attack, Soviet and diplomatic sources reported.

There was no public announcement of the death, but Western diplomats said they had been informed of it by Soviet officials. Other Soviet sources also confirmed the death to reporters, and said the 76-year-old Kosygin died of a heart attack.

Kosygin had been reported in critical condition for the past several months at a clinic near Moscow. He suffered from heart and circulatory problems, sources said, and hadn't been seen in public since the closing of the Moscow Olympics Aug. 3.

Sources said the ex-premier, whose resignation Oct. 23 was officially attributed to health reasons, would be given a state funeral, possibly on Red Square.

Some Soviet leaders, such as former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, have been buried, while the ashes of others have been placed in the Kremlin wall after their funerals.

The last Red Square funeral was that of Fyodor Kulakov, a member of the Communist Party's ruling

ALEXEI KOSYGIN

Politburo, in 1978.

Kosygin succeeded Khrushchev as premier in 1964, and was replaced himself as premier by Nikolai A. Tikhonov, 75.

The Foreign Ministry made no announcement about Kosygin today. After the ousted and disgraced Khrushchev died in 1971, no official announcement was made for three days.

In Peking, the official news agency Xinhua reported Kosygin's death in a two-paragraph dispatch without comment. It quoted foreign news agencies from Moscow.

Today was the 74th birthday of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, who had announced Kosygin's retirement at a national parliament session. At the time, Western analysts were uncertain whether Kosygin had left his post in good political favor.

Brezhnev did not praise Kosygin at the parliament session, but later issued a statement of "warm gratitude" for his services.

Kosygin was not presented with any awards when he stepped down, but analysts said this may have been due to his poor health. He did not attend the parliament session.

But there was almost nothing said publicly about the longtime Soviet premier after his resignation. Soviet officials even expressed uncertainty about what posts he still held.

He was the "supreme survivor" of Soviet politics, an occasional hothead who also displayed a sense of humor and warm human emotions.

He was 13 when the Bolsheviks swept to power in 1917. Twenty-three years later he had climbed within that government to become deputy premier under Josef Stalin and later premier.

Clauses rescued by law officers

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Santa and Mrs. Claus should have taken the sleigh.

Instead, the Clauses were rescued by law enforcement officers after their parachutes were blown off course from a landing at the Denton State School.

The couple aimed for a landing on the front lawn of the school at 9 a.m. Thursday, but were blown away by strong winds.

Security guards at the school, for retarded youngsters, were joined by Cornith Police Chief Richard Mankoff when he heard the call on his radio.

Earthquake hits central Iran; 26 reported dead

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An earthquake hit central Iran early today, killing 26 people and causing "considerable" damage to Moslem shrines, Tehran Radio reported.

The broadcast said the quake killed eight people in the holy city of Qom and "fractured" the gold dome of the Massoumeh shrine in the Shiite capital 80 miles south of Tehran.

The official Pars news agency said four other people died in the nearby village of Chesmeali. It said the villages of Dizijan, Kalanqueshin, Qal-e-Cham and Dastjerd were also damaged but the extent was not yet known.

Pars said the quake measured 5.7 on the Richter scale and that its epicenter was estimated at 125 miles west of Tehran.

This would place it in the vicinity of Semnan, a provincial capital of 300 people in the foothills of the Elburz Mountains.

The quake was also felt in Qasvin, 100 miles east of Tehran, and the cities of Arak, Deligan and Ray, Pars said.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every incu number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

An earthquake of 5 on the scale can cause considerable damage and 6 severe damage. The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, which occurred before the Richter scale was devised, has been estimated to have had an 8.3 reading.

Israeli troops raid Palestinian guerrilla bases in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli troops backed by helicopter gunships raided Palestinian guerrilla bases in southern Lebanon early today, and Lebanese authorities said the Israelis killed more than a dozen Palestinians and Lebanese and three Syrian soldiers. Israel said one of its soldiers was killed and three were wounded.

A government announcement over Syria's state radio confirmed the Syrian deaths, the first as a result of Israeli attacks since Syria sent its army into Lebanon in November 1976 to end the 19-month Lebanese civil war.

The Lebanese government of President Elias Sarkis termed the pre-dawn attack an "overt aggression" and said it was lodging a "strongly worded complaint" with the U.N. Security Council without seeking a debate.

Yasser Arafat's PLO said about 600 Israeli raiders were shielded by a big artillery barrage aimed at coastal and inland targets from Israeli batteries along the border and naval gunboats off the Lebanese coast.

The Israelis said Palestinian gunners fired a volley of Katyusha rockets into northern Israel in apparent reprisal for the Israeli raid, the 20th Israeli strike inside southern Lebanon this year. No damage or casualties were reported in the rocket barrage.

The Tel Aviv military command said its forces "attacked and destroyed" six guerrilla targets and killed 10 to 15 guerrillas around the village of Mahmoudiya, six miles north of the Israeli border with Lebanon.

"The goal was to kill terrorists and destroy their equipment," the commander of the raiders was quoted as telling Israel's armed forces radio. "All went according to plan," he added.

An Israeli spokesman said the raiders destroyed staging bases and equipment used by the guerrillas for attacks on Israel. The troops were evacuated by helicopter gunships after destroying guerrilla bunkers, mortar emplacements, ammunition and tents, he said.

Israel said the raid was part of its ongoing campaign of "preventive measures" aimed at foiling "terrorist" attacks from southern Lebanon, the PLO's main base of operations.

Iranian says assets must be deposited in Algeria

By The Associated Press

Iran today told Washington that to win release of the hostages the U.S. government must deposit "the gold and confiscated wealth" of Iran with the Algerian central bank and offer good will guarantees about return of the late shah's fortune, a top Iranian official was quoted as saying.

the "final reply" from Iran. Delegation leader Rehda Malek, the Algerian ambassador to the United States, told a reporter in Tehran that the Iranian response already has been transmitted to officials in Washington.

The comments by Behzad Nabavi, Cabinet-level adviser to Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, addressed the Iranian demands that are seen as most difficult for the United States to meet: return of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's wealth and release of the estimated $8 billion in Iranian assets frozen in the United States.

There was no immediate comment from U.S. officials, or formal statement from Malek or the other two Algerian diplomats as they boarded a flight to Algiers.

Nabavi was quoted as saying his government interpreted U.S. letters as "possible acceptance" of Iran's conditions for the hostage release and that the "signature of the American president is not enough for the (Iranian) government."

In what he called Iran's "final reply," Nabavi said "the U.S. government has been informed that it should not only sign the letters and hand them to the Algerian government before the hostages are released but should also transfer the gold and confiscated wealth of the Iranian government to the Algerian central bank," Tehran radio said.

"As for other properties and assets and the riches plundered by the deposed shah and his relatives ... acceptable guarantees as good will for a proper implementation should be given to the Algerian government," he was quoted as saying.

Woman stopped in suicide try

STANTON — A woman on probation in Martin County attempted suicide twice in a county jail cell there, Thursday, but was halted both times by deputies monitoring her on closed circuit television.

The prisoner was knotting sheets apparently to be used in a suicide, last night said Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders.

Earlier the same day, she had broken a glass jar of jelly with the intention of cutting herself, the sheriff said. Normally there are no glass items in the cells. Saunders said everything has been taken out of the cell, but a mattress.

A deputy was watching her both times on the television monitor. Saunders said they had watched her because she had suicidal tendencies. She has been a Big Spring State Hospital patient.

The woman is on probation for burglary of a house but was arrested for an alleged violation. She has been on probation four years on a 10-year probation.

Action/reaction: Traffic toll rises

Q. Doesn't the traffic death toll keep going up in this country, despite the fuel crunch and the 55-MPH speed limit?

A. After a temporary dip, the upward spiral has resumed. Projections made by the Highway Users Federation say a record 53,700 Americans will have died in traffic deaths by the end of the year, highest since 1973, when 55,511 Americans perished. That means an average of more than 417 people will have died in auto mishaps each day of 1980.

Bus driver cleared

DALLAS (AP) — A former city bus driver has been cleared of charges of firing a shot into a crowded bus. The incident, which came during a drivers' strike, critically wounded a 9-year-old girl. The jury deliberated nearly five hours before returning the verdict Wednesday in the case of Ray Charles Goff, 23, Goff, his wife, sister and two friends testified that he was at home Oct. 14 when Alisa Williams was almost totally paralyzed by the sniper's bullet.

'Feds' not trusted

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — An avowed racist accused of the sniper slaying of two black jockeys says he would rather be tried on state murder charges before he faces federal civil rights charges in the case.

"I don't trust the feds at all," Joseph Paul Franklin said Thursday in an interview with radio station KALL. "The feds would definitely try to railroad me."

Franklin, 30, Mobile, Ala., is charged in the Aug. 20 slayings of Ted Fields, 20, and David Martin, 18.

Six fishermen rescued

OSHKOSH, Wis. (AP) — Six fishermen were rescued by helicopter after spending three hours on a sheet of ice that broke off from the shore of Lake Winnebago.

Officer Seven Dinger of the Winnebago County Sheriff's department said the men were fishing Wednesday on the 5-inch-thick ice a mile offshore when it broke off in late morning. Spectators on shore called for help, but a rescue boat was unable to reach them.

The helicopter was called in from the Air National Guard station in West Bend and made the rescue in early afternoon. Officials said the men were more embarrassed than hurt.

Iranian deadline set

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — A Superior Court judge says he will allow lawsuits against Iranian assets to proceed if the U.S. hostages in Iran are not freed by Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

An estimated $15 million in goods bound for Iran, including an entire city of modular housing units, are backed up at the port of Vancouver.

Clark County Superior Court Judge John Simas has been granting government requests for delays in processing claims against the Iranian goods, but he said Thursday he will allow the suits to go ahead if there is no resolution of the hostage crisis by Jan. 20.

Two cent fine imposed

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman angry because her estranged husband allegedly hadn't paid alimony showed up outside his apartment early one morning and began demanding money. The husband, a police officer, issued a summons.

But a judge said the case wasn't worth two cents and fined the woman exactly that.

"This case isn't worth more than the two cents I'm going to impose," Judge Jerome Becker told defendant Alice Rubin in Criminal Court on Thursday. She and her husband, Police Officer Martin Rubin, who is assigned to the Brooklyn district attorney's office, have been separated for about five months. Both are in their 50s.

Foiled robbery try affects ex-resident

The manager of the Town and Country Savings Association in McKinney, Springler recalled he just moved to the rear of the vehicle and began slashing another tire.

The two thugs backed into his car even as he heard air escaping from their tires. Springler jumped into his vehicle and gave pursuit.

When the two luckless men ditched their car, he went to a service station, called police and told them where the two had fled on foot.

The two suspects were later found huddled in a muddy ditch. McKinney police chief Doyel Davis said Springler had to be "one of the bravest men in Collin county."

Most of the excitement was over by the time Underwood arrived on the scene. James Lee, incidentally, was once a star golfer in local amateur circles.

Tax payers pick up tab

Calendars go to million

WASHINGTON — As the New Year approaches, there's one item that most every household in the nation will probably soon purchase. A 1981 calendar. A lot of folks will buy them — glossy, much-embellished calendars, featuring monthly prints of everything from mountains to models, cats to cars, or the less ornamental more functional varieties, for those who don't need entertainment when they check the date.

Others will receive their calendars free-of-charge, thanks to the business-minded proprietors of gas stations, flowers shops, candy stores and other establishments. More than another million families will also receive their calendars gratis — courtesy of their local congressmen. And at the expense of the American taxpayer, who are left with the more than $1 million annual tab for the time-honored tradition.

Each year, the nation's 435 representatives are each entitled to 2,500 free calendars, to be distributed among constituents — in particular to schools, civic groups, newspaper editors and influential persons — as a year-end stocking-stuffer. And U.S. senators, who need not fret every two years about reelection, are each allocated 1,000 calendars.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, does not send out calendars, while his Democratic counterpart, Lloyd Bentsen mails out "only a few," according to a spokesman. Defeated congressmen like Bob Eckhardt of Houston and retirees like Ray Roberts of McKinney and Joe Wyatt of Bloomington, are restricted to 200 calendars, while their replacements will get 2,500 to distribute in January.

Although congressmen may choose from two varieties, most select the United States Capitol Historical Society's calendar — a particularly ornate affair, embossed with month-by-month views of historic Capital sites and featuring Revolutionary War citations for each day. (On Dec. 13, 1981, for instance, next year's calendars inform interested parties that on that same date 200 years ago, "Congress declared a day of Thanksgiving for victory at Yorktown.")

This year, it is estimated that $871,870 in taxpayers' funds were expended to purchase the calendars, apart from mailing and related expenses. Most Texas congressmen distribute the calendars each year. Aside from the purchase price, there's a totaling cost involved in sending the calendars to citizens in their often far-flung districts. Which is not to say that elected officials in the nation's capital pay for the postage.

Buried within the congressional franking regulations, which permit members to send mail free-of-charge, is an innocuous provision allowing members to mail the calendars without dipping into their personal or political funds. (By contrast, Christmas cards must be purchased and mailed at members' expense.)

Haig nomination opens Nixon tape talk again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Alexander Haig's nomination as secretary of state is rekindling congressional interest in the famous Watergate tapes from Richard M. Nixon's White House.

With the Senate Foreign Relations Committee preparing to conduct Haig's confirmation hearing next year, sources at the National Archives said Thursday there have been a number of "requests from Capitol Hill" to listen to tapes of conversations between Nixon and Haig that never have been made public.

Apparently it was aides to Democrats on the committee who were inquiring about the tapes, since a spokesman for Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said the panel's incoming chairman "hasn't asked for them and at this point doesn't intend to right now."

The tapes are in the custody of the National Archives under federal law, and it would take either a court order or permission from Nixon himself for members of Congress to gain access to them.

Haig, nominated this week by President-elect Ronald Reagan, has said he is prepared to answer any questions congressmen have about his service during the Nixon administration. Nixon himself is said to have assured Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, that there is nothing on the tapes that would damage Haig.

Feds studying latest Chrysler aid plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials are studying intently the latest pieces of Chrysler Corporation's complex survival plan while awaiting a formal request by the ailing automaker for another $400 million in government loan guarantees.

The federal Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board met for 75 minutes Thursday, the second session this week, to keep track of the automaker's fast-moving efforts to cut more than $1.5 billion in costs through concessions from its employees, banks and suppliers.

The meeting was called "informational" by Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, who heads the board. "Nothing really (is) to be decided" until Chrysler formally requests more loan guarantees, he said.

Miller said the board probably won't meet again until after the weekend, after the board's staff studies new information that he said had been sent by the company.

Earlier, Chrysler spokesman Wendell Larsen said the formal request could come as early as today.

Arctic cold front moves southward

A strong Arctic cold front, accompanied by rapidly dropping temperatures and gusty winds, moved southward across Texas today.

The front was located early today along a line from Longview to College Station to Cotulla and to just west of Marfa. The front was expected to move into the Gulf of Mexico before afternoon.

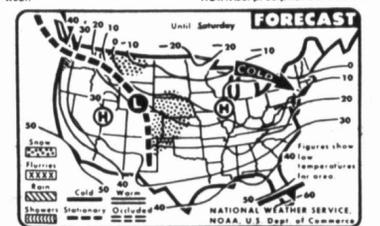

Forecasts called for cloudy skies and colder temperatures statewide today. There was a chance of snow flurries in the Panhandle and light rain or drizzle in South Texas.

Dense fog formed ahead of the front in some areas, including Houston where the National Weather Service issued travelers advisories because of hazardous driving conditions.

Skies were mostly cloudy statewide early today. Temperatures ranged from the mid 20s in the Panhandle to the mid 60s in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

WEST TEXAS — Cloudy and much colder with a slight chance of snow flurries Panhandle and light drizzle south. Decreasing cloudiness north, cloudy south and continued cold tonight and Saturday. Highs mid 20s north to upper 50s far west. Lows lower teens north to mid 30s south. Highs Saturday 40s except low 50s south-west.

WEATHER FORECAST — Cold weather is expected in the forecast period, today until Saturday morning, for most of the country. Warm weather is expected for the Southwest and Gulf coast. Snow is forecast from the Texas Panhandle into the central Plains and for most of Montana.

HUD appointee drops out

Reagan facing opposition to secretary choice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan's plans for filling the rest of his Cabinet appear to be unraveling after a top candidate for secretary of housing and urban development withdrew.

But a knowledgeable source in Reagan's transition office said Sanchez was quietly dropped because withdrawing because new ethics-in-government laws would force him to sell all his business holdings.

But a knowledgeable source in Reagan's transition office said Sanchez was quietly dropped because of information that had been learned about his personal background. The source declined to be identified or discuss the matter in detail.

Sanchez, one of the few members of a minority group under consideration for a Cabinet post, is chief executive officer of a construction, property management and investment firm in Fresno, Calif. He told The Associated Press it was "financially impossible" to return to government because of the ethics laws, which require one to "give up everything he's involved in, plus his shorts and socks."

Meanwhile, the transition source said, Reagan was having second thoughts about his expected appointment of conservative Colorado attorney James G. Watt as interior secretary.

Watt heads a legal defense foundation that has contested federal environmental regulations. The source said Reagan and his advisers were considering changing their minds about naming Watt because of complaints that "he's (Watt) too committed to one group and the philosophy for which it stands."

Of the five Cabinet posts Reagan still has to fill, only one appears to be firmly settled — energy secretary, which is expected to go to former South Carolina Gov. James B. Edwards.

Richard Lyng, former president of the American Meat Institute, is a leading candidate for agriculture secretary, but a final decision has not been made on that post.

The choice for education secretary has yet to be made, according to sources involved in Reagan's transition. Marva Collins, a black educator from Chicago, said Thursday she had been contacted by transition officials about the post. "They asked if I would consider it and I told them I would," she told WBBM-TV of Chicago.

Reagan's problems in filling his Cabinet have been compounded by his desire to find at least one woman or minority member with similar political views. The elimination of Sanchez was a setback in that effort.

As a result, Reagan aides said more announcements on Cabinet members will not be made until next Monday at the earliest.

The Washington Post reported today that Jeanne J. Kirkpatrick, a political science professor at Georgetown University, is the leading candidate to be appointed U.S. ambassador to the United Nations. The 53-year-old woman is a Democrat who supported Reagan in 1980.

Change coming to Washington

WASHINGTON — The watch begins as the weather here is changing: cooling gradually as it always does this time of year, with days of 50 degree sunshine occasionally stretching up the Potomac River to break the drift to winter.

For those who have lived here through several administrations, each beginning with a guarantee of rapid movement in one direction or another, there is a sense of deja vu now in the regular irregularity of weather and the pace of yet another scaffold construction for yet another presidential inauguration.

This time around, the inauguration will be on the west side of the Capitol. There is more room than on the traditional east side location facing the Library of Congress and to the west, on a clear day the roads to the Department of Energy, the Washington Monument and the Interior Department appear to far out like a spider's legs from the "Hill."

Much can change in the days between the writing and reading of a column and change is clearly in the wind down one broad avenue of Washington and up another.

At midweek, the name at the top of the Interior Department list is James Watt, a 42-year-old Wyoming native.

Interior is traditionally a job for a fan of wilderness and wildlife preservation: a check on the competing interest of energy exploration and development.

Watt's nomination as Interior secretary was still only a rumor Wednesday when President-elect Reagan defended him to the press, calling him a foe only of "environmental extremists."

As head of an anti-regulatory legal team financed by some of the nation's largest energy and natural resources firms. Watt has argued among other things that Interior has no right to limit access to federal land by designating it a wilderness area.

BSHS junior captures trip to Washington

Johnny Hatch, a junior at Big Spring High School was the winner of the 1981 Government-in-Action Youth Tour contest, held Monday, at the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative in Stanton.

Hatch was presented an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. by the Cooperative, which sponsors the annual event.

Eight students from three area high schools participated in this year's oratorical contest. Each student gave a five to eight minute talk on: "Alternative Energy Sources. Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow."

Johnny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Duncan, 2504 Lynn Dr., Big Spring, will join the some 50 other students from across Texas, who are also winners of similar contest. They will depart in June 1981 for the 12-day trip to the Nation's Capital, visiting with their Congressmen, visiting historical sites and hopefully, visiting with the President of Environmentalists have promised to fight his nomination in the senate.

Even those who thought themselves in the know were left shaking their heads over the choice made at the Department of Energy.

Former South Carolina Gov. Jim Edwards is a nuclear-power booster who once headed an energy panel of the governor's association.

That is not a wealth of experience when compared to even the longest of shots mentioned for the job, Rep. Phil Gramm of College Station. But, as a current joke notes, Edwards does have some experience with drilling and gas: he is an oral surgeon.

Jim Wright calls for firing of Volcker

DALLAS (AP) — House Majority Leader Jim Wright Thursday has called for the firing of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker, saying his actions, combined with increased interest rates, were "spinning" the nation into a recession.

After being honored Thursday as Democrat of the year by a group of Democratic businessmen, the Fort Worth congressman said Ronald Reagan's first act after taking office Jan. 20 should be to fire Volcker.

Although Volcker cannot be fired until his term ends in August 1983, Wright apparently was suggesting that Reagan put enough pressure on the Fed chief to make him resign.

He said he believes the country is in an "economic emergency" brought about by "the stupidity of the Federal Reserve Board."

Regulations escalate cost of housing

Granted the cost of housing has gone into the stratosphere, it wouldn't be quite as high if government regulation didn't enter into the picture. So says Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas.

Bentsen, who serves as chairman of the Joint Economic Committee in the Senate, said U.S. regulation can add as much as $2,500 to the cost of a domicile — and those costs can go even higher for Americans seeking to take part in federal housing programs. They have to plow through an avalanche of paperwork in order to do business with the federal government.

THE GOVERNMENT has some unusual ways of doing things. For instance, the way it goes about appraising property. In 1963, the General Accounting Office recommended that the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration start using the same appraisal form, rather than two different ones.

Thirteen years later (in 1977), VA and FHA officials were still dragging their feet on the issue. In 1976, some 50,000 American home owners had to pay $75 to the VA for an appraisal, then turn around and pay another $60 for an FHA appraisal because neither agency would accept the other's figures. Each agency, says Bentsen, apparently feared that cooperation would somehow threaten its own program.

Bentsen sought to lighten the paperwork burden and cut out needless costs heaped on participants in federal housing programs. Somehow, Bentsen got his legislation through Congress in 1978 which, in effect, requires all federal housing agencies to eliminate paperwork duplication by adopting common forms wherever possible.

Bentsen recently received a report from the Department of Housing and Urban Development on efforts by the agencies to comply with his legislation.

ACCORDING TO HUD, some success has been achieved. Officials report that the FHA, the VA and the Farmers Home Administration have so far agreed on 20 common forms for such things as mortgages, home appraisals and settlement statements. They hold out hope they can develop 200 more common forms in the not-too-distant future.

Not only have the agencies reduced duplication in their housing programs, eliminated some of their requirements, simplified and clarified others, but, according to Bentsen, they have served to improve the working relationship among the three agencies.

The victory is good news for beleaguered Americans but, as the senator points out, it's only one skirmish in the war against excessive government paperwork. Every elected officer sent to Washington should devote a little time doing what he or she can to cut it down to size.

It fits the bill

Around the rim

James Werrell

People who say, "I only go to the movies to be entertained," should start gathering up their popcorn money: "Flash Gordon" is in town.

People who make such a statement usually "have better things to do than go to the movies," and "don't want to plunk down good money on something that is going to make me feel depressed for three days."

I am a different type of moviegoer; one who will go to see just about anything that comes to town. In other words, I'm a sucker.

NONETHELESS, I think I can recognize the kind of movie a choosier viewer would like when I see one. My general impression is that in order to be "entertained" the once-a-year viewer must exit the theater with the firm conviction that he has not missed something better on TV while he was inside.

Secondly, a movie that clotheslines you with a "message" is not likely to be considered entertaining in this particular context. Persons seeking entertainment don't like to sit in darkened theaters, scratching their heads and muttering, "What the heck is this all about?"

Finally, in order to be "entertaining," a movie must have good production values, decent acting and a plot that doesn't sit too long in one place.

"Flash Gordon" fits the bill to a T. The movie is right off the comic page, and everyone plays it straight from start to finish. Apart from the fact that Flash is a New York Jets' quarterback (who could blame him for leaving Earth?) and Dale is a New York travel agent, there is no attempt to modernize the characters.

When, for example, Flash and Dale meet for the first time on a roller-coaster of a plane ride, there is none of the hip, pseudo-sophisticated, bitchy repartee that we have grown accustomed to and bored of. Dale just says things like "Hold me, Flash, I'm frightened," and he, quite sensibly, falls in love with her on the spot.

As is so important in a movie like this, the logic of the plot is completely unimportant. Ming the Merciless is out to destroy the world; Flash and company want to stop him; and that's all that matters.

THE VARIOUS SETS, costumes and modes of transportation have also remained true to the comic strip and the old black-and-white movies starring Buster Crabbe. Everything is slightly tacky, and looks as if it were designed by the people responsible for the '59 Cadillac. I was pleased to see that the spaceships still land on planets by skidding along the surface until they come to a stop in a cloud of dust.

The movie also offers a variety of weird intergalactic creatures, plenty of fights, a very sexy daughter of a very evil emperor (my wife would insist on equal time to out the prince of the forest people), some hairbreadth escapes and, basically, nonstop action. What it doesn't offer is a headache from overtaxing your brain.

All in all, I'd have to say that "Flash Gordon" is a very entertaining movie.

Good qualities

Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON — Others might be better. But Gen. Alexander Haig obviously possesses the qualifications to be secretary of state.

So if Ronald Reagan wants him, questions arising from Watergate ought not stand in the way. On the contrary, there is now occasion for putting firmly in the past a scandal, perhaps overblown at the time, that is now unmistakably harmful to the precarious position of the United States in the world.

Gen. Haig's qualities hardly need reiteration. He personifies authority, and his designation as secretary would transmit a positive message to this country's friends and adversaries. He is highly articulate, and he deals comfortably with the public, the Congress and his opposite numbers around the world.

ABOVE ALL, the commands a broad strategic view of America's interests that goes far beyond the vulgar toughness associated with so many in the Reagan entourage. Haig is not only familiar with the Soviet military buildup and the perils it presents in view of the weakness of Western Europe and the instability of the countries around the Persian Gulf. He also understands, from his days in the Nixon administration, both the limits and advantages of arms control agreements with the Soviet Union. He is equally conversant, from experience in the Nixon administration, with the assets and liabilities that flow from the China connection.

Compared to the other members of the Reagan cabinet, Haig is of high caliber and he would bring to the new administration a quality that is now in dangerously short supply. There is a crying need for his broad strategic sense.

Moreover, the diverse character of this country's foreign interests, and the complexity of the way the parts fit together, insures against a possible weakness in Haig. He may lack the instinct of restraint. But by its very nature, the American strategic outlook fosters a sense of measure.

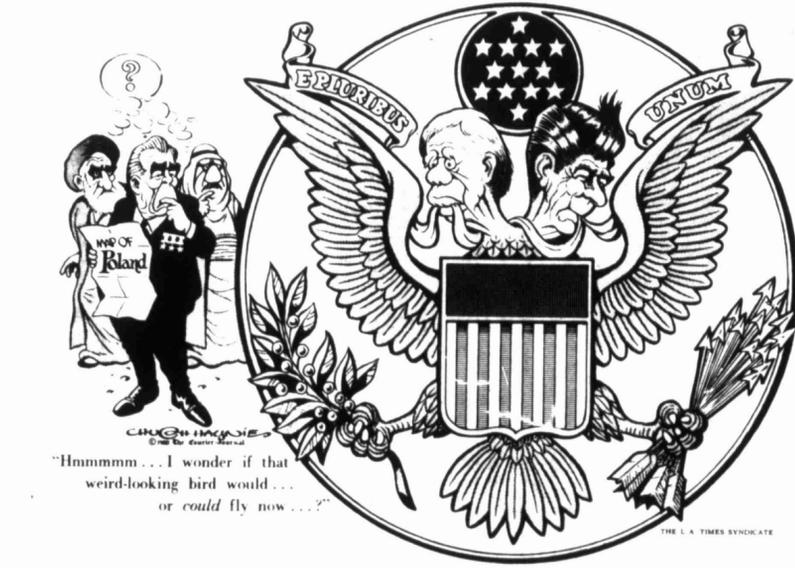

As to Watergate, Haig's role falls into two phases. At the outset of the Nixon administration, Haig was involved in several ugly operations — the wiretaps, for example, and the secret bombing of Cambodia — that led step by step to the Watergate coverup. But he was a relatively junior officer at the time, acting under orders, not initiating policy.

That whole period, furthermore, was subject to meticulous scrutiny by the Watergate special prosecutor. It is hard to believe any serious wrongdoing on Haig's part would have escaped that scrutiny. In any case, the law has been duly applied. Good procedure alone dictates a closing of that chapter.

A SECOND WATERGATE phase concerns Haig's behavior as White House chief of staff during the last months of the Nixon Administration. At that time Haig participated as a main player in an administration that was systematically trying to dupe the American people and their elected representatives in the Congress. He did some ignominious things — things like shoving around cabinet officers and abusing the trust of senators.

Still, as top aide to a crooked president, he was in an impossibly position. In the end, he did bring off a safe transition from Nixon to Ford. Whatever hanky panky figured in Ford's pardon of Nixon, was part of that transition. To me, anyway, it makes sense to give Haig the benefit of the doubt.

For in the end what is at stake here is the legitimacy of government in America. Elected authorities require associates of their own choosing. The country cannot go on turning the knife in its wounds over and over again. To the nightmare of Watergate there must be put a term, an act of finality.

"Hmmm... I wonder if that weird-looking bird would... or could fly now..."

Molar pregnancy detection easier today

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: A relative recently had a therapeutic D&C for a hydatidiform molar pregnancy. We are concerned because her doctor has mentioned the possible need for chemotherapy. Will you please explain this problem for us? Is it likely to recur and what are the chances for future pregnancies? — Mrs. N.I.G.

The term mole, as used here, has to be thought of in a different way than you normally would. The medical definition of "mole" is a fleshy mass. A hydatidiform mole is a placenta that becomes a mass of grape-like growths. The placenta is that part of the uterus that allows the fetus to be nourished by the mother.

It is thought that the formation of a hydatidiform mole is preceded by the death of the embryo. Often, as a sign, there is a disproportionately fast growth of the uterus for that month of pregnancy. Vaginal bleeding is seen frequently in this condition. No fetal movement is felt and signs of fetal life are absent.

Although a hydatidiform mole is considered a benign disease, a very small percentage of them can develop into malignancy, so that is watched for. There are tests (of hormone levels) to tell if this is occurring. Ultrasound is a newer medical tool in diagnosis.

There is also a variety of this mole which penetrates the muscle of the uterus, and this is treated with the chemotherapeutic agent methotrexate. Such moles recur in only 1 to 2 percent of women, so that makes the odds for a successful future pregnancy good.

Dear Dr. Donohue: The doctor tells my son he has collagen disease. How bad is this and can it be cured? Please explain how it works on the body, and the cause. — Z.B.

Collagen diseases are a group of illnesses with one thing in common — difficulties with the joints, ligaments, tendons and muscles. Collagen is best described as a mortar-like substance found in joints, ligaments and between muscles. It helps support and hold us together. Another term for collagen disease is connective tissue disease, the latter term being used more today.

To answer your question in any depth I'd have to know which of the many collagen disturbances your son has. Lupus erythematosus, scleroderma and polymyositis are a few of them. The treatment and outlook is different for each.

How collagen problems develop is not known. There is a widespread inflammation of connective tissue and of blood vessels serving it. Many collagen diseases are treated with drugs to suppress this inflammation — like the steroids. The severity can vary from something that is not much of a problem to a situation that creates a good deal of discomfort and calls for a change in lifestyle. I hope your son has a very mild form that will be well-controlled.

There is a group of inherited illnesses that fall into the "collagen disease" category. These are most often present at birth. I don't think you mean this kind of collagen disease.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I want information on granuloma annulare. This is a bluish circle about the size of a quarter, a little puffy on the inside (and white there). It hurts a little when pressed. It looks like it is in the skin or under it. I have had this on the lower leg for about a year. Please tell me about it. — Mrs. J.A.

Granuloma annulare starts out as a flesh-colored to pale-reddish, purple circle. Its edges enlarge, leaving a slightly depressed center. Eventually it heals without scarring, but that can take months to years. Usually no treatment is needed. Sometimes steroids are applied to the surface, and dry ice (solid carbon dioxide) has also been used. Don't attempt treatment yourself without your doctor's approval. I assume this has been diagnosed by your doctor as granuloma annulare.

Shingles can be a painful disease! For a copy of the booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor: I read in the papers and see hear on TV it appears that the whole of the national news media (controlled by the Trilateral Commission) are determined to sell the American people on the idea that the only way for America to be energy efficient is from fossil fuels (oil and coal). They also spread the utterings of Jane Fonda and Tom Hayden and their following that all nuclear devices will destroy the nation. This idea, to say the least, is misleading. Jane and Tom have never, to my knowledge, supported anything that was promotive of growth and prosperity for the United States.

The fossil fuels deposits are largely controlled by the oil companies and they are the ones to really benefit by keeping America dependent on these fuels. Whereas if we turn to fusion for energy agricultural industry will be the main beneficiaries from this, and it is inexhaustible as well as being much less expensive to produce. Unlike fossil fuels which are becoming more and more expensive to recover as well as being highly air pollutive, fusion is virtually non-pollutive and cannot be controlled by the oil companies.

There is one congressman, Rep. Mike McCormack, (D-Wash.), who is pushing hard to get a program started that will, eventually, relieve the United States of total dependence on fossil fuels. The Trilateral Commission and Oil Companies are spending millions of dollars to keep McCormack's program from the American People by keeping it off TV and out of large circulation papers. Have you seen it in any of them? The spotlight is the only paper that I have seen it in, never on TV, nor on radio.

A turn to fusion for energy would be a great boon to the agricultural industry of this nation and could not be controlled by the Trilateral Commission and/or the Petroleum Companies.

If the farming element, of this area, wants to show that they support an era of clean air and less expensive fuels then you should write to: Rep. Mike McCormack, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515, and let him know that this area does support him on his fusion program. I also suggest that you write to Rep. Charles Stenholm (same address) asking him to cooperate with Rep. McCormack on this issue.

We all know that there will always be a demand for fossil fuel products. So, what we want to do is usher in a source of energy, that cannot be exhausted, so the fossil fuels will continue to supply those other needs.

Dear Editor:

I have read your editorial of Dec. 5, 1980, with interest, and I answer your queries as follows: 1. I do not like the present state-by-state primary system which determines far in advance of the national conventions who the presidential candidates will be; 2. I would like to opt for one national primary on the same day which should replace the present system which takes very long. I don't think there will be much difficulty in picking one date for such balloting. In my opinion, the last day to vote in the primaries will be a Saturday or a Sunday.

WASHINGTON — The Immigration Service reserves a special bureaucratic hell for aliens who have the slightest taint of narcotics in their past. Thieves, rapists and even murderers have less trouble gaining admission to the United States than someone convicted of even the most minor drug charge.

Six years ago John Lennon, the mourned ex-Beatle who was just murdered in New York City, came close to being deported because of a 1968 marijuana bust in England. I took up his case in 1974. I reported that the deportation move was really a political vendetta against Lennon, who had been outspoken in his opposition to the Vietnam War.

LENNON WAS ABLE to beat the trumped-up deportation rap, partly because of official embarrassment over my columns and partly because of the superb legal work of his attorney, Leon Wildes.

Since that time, the public attitude has changed toward both the Vietnam War and the drug habits it spawned. Most Americans now agree with Lennon that the war was a tragic mistake, and his arrest for possessing a small amount of marijuana for personal use is no longer considered a horrendous crime.

But to the Cotton Mathers in charge of U.S. immigration laws, time has stood still. They continue to make it easier for crooks and cutthroats to enter this country than for someone who has been found guilty of a marijuana violation, however mitigating the circumstances.

The latest case involves no internationally known celebrity, but an Air Force master sergeant from Sioux City, Iowa, and his pregnant Korean wife.

Sgt. Dan Karpuk, at 37 a 16-year career airman, was married — with the military's blessing — to Cong Sun An, a 24-year-old Korean, in August 1979. He knew that before he met her she had been busted on a marijuana charge, but saw no reason why that should make her a pariah.

For Cong Sun An had been arrested when South Korean police found a single marijuana seed — officially logged at one-tenth of a gram — in the apartment she shared with another American GI. He used the place for pot parties; she never indulged. But to protect the American, she admitted her guilt, and was sentenced to two years' probation. She subsequently met and married Karpuk.

IT WASN'T UNTIL Karpuk went to the American Embassy in Seoul to apply for an entry visa for his wife that he discovered the marijuana conviction had put her on an intractable blacklist. A consular official told Karpuk that a 30-year-old law prevented any waiver of Cong Sun's exclusion.

"The law regarding a drug conviction is antiquated," the consular official told him. "It does not take into account unique circumstances." The official told Karpuk his wife might have been given clearance if the charge on her record had been murder — but with a narcotics charge, it was no dice. The official added that he would deny even discussing the subject with Karpuk.

The sergeant protested. What about the thousands of Cuban and Vietnamese refugees who were allowed into the United States without the screening being given to his wife? The embassy man had no answer.

The best he could suggest was that Karpuk somehow get special legislation introduced in Congress that would grant an exception to the rigid immigration statute in her particular case. So far, Karpuk hasn't been able to obtain this break.

Meanwhile, Karpuk's parents in Sioux City told my associate Sam Fogg they are waiting with increasing frustration to meet their daughter-in-law — and the grandchild who's due to be born next March.

UNDER THE DOME: Brevity is not only the soul of wit, it can be a bureaucrat's shield and buckler venturing onto Capitol Hill. Leaving a congressional oversight hearing on currency laws, Don Melbye, congressional liaison chief for the controller of the currency, was heard explaining to a sidelong, "The less you say, the less they can attack."

—Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., has been a Carter administration bete noire.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I used to be a real Christian, but since I moved to another city where I don't know anyone I have slowly been losing my faith in Jesus. What can I do to get back into fellowship with God? — V.A.

DEAR V.A.: You have already hinted at one of the reasons you are having problems. You have cut yourself off from other Christians and it is much easier for Satan to attack you and create doubts in that kind of situation. You need other believers to encourage you and teach you, just as an ember needs other embers to make a fire.

How can you get back into fellowship with God? First, realize that although you have wandered from God, he has not wandered from you. He loves you, and he wants your fellowship. "Surely the arm of the Lord is not too short to save, nor his ear too dull to hear" (Isaiah 59:1).

And because he loves you and is willing to forgive you, you can pray to him and he will hear. You need to confess your sins to him — your spiritual coldness, your failure to use the means of spiritual growth he has given you, your doubts. And you have his promise, which is absolutely trustworthy: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9). Don't delay, or doubt his word. Get on your knees and open your life to him again.

Then you need to take steps to see that this does not happen again. You need to seek out other believers in a church where Christ is preached. Many of them, you will find, have been through the same struggles you have, and they want to help you find out how the Lord can be trusted in every circumstance. Then you need to be disciplined in your life, turning to God's word every day and praying.

BSHS choir members victorious in Midland

In addition to the excitement students feel at this time of year, Big Spring High School choir members have a special reason to be celebrating.

Choral students from Region VI-A participated recently in pre-area auditions held at Lee High School in Midland, and for the third consecutive time this season were victorious over all the other schools in the region. The pre-area auditions, which are actually the All-state Choir semifinals, are held to determine which students will go to area auditions, which are the All-state finals.

Big Spring had 10 students to qualify, plus two alternates. They are: first soprano, Beverly Wheeler and Melody Holmes, and first alternate Tammye Spears; second soprano: Diana Johnson and Charlotte Beil; first altos, Felecia Ford, second alternate; second alto, Shelley Wood and Cathy Weeks; first tenors, Mark Warren and Jeff Harwood; second tenor, Bruce Webb; and baritone, Rodney Smith.

Of these ten students, five placed first in their sections. They are: first soprano, Beverly Wheeler; second soprano, Diana Johnson; first tenor, Mark Warren; second tenor, Bruce Webb; and baritone, Rodney Smith.

Mother charged in child deaths

SHAWNEE, Okla. (AP) — A preliminary hearing will be Jan. 13 for a 25-year-old Tecumseh woman charged with first-degree murder in connection with the apparent pillow-smothering deaths of her two young children.

Linda Marsh was ordered held without bond during an initial appearance Thursday before Pottawatomie County Special Judge Jesse Robinson Field.

She was arrested late Wednesday after she summoned a neighbor to her home where her 3-year-old daughter, Jamie, and 11-month-old son, Joshua, were found dead. They apparently had died about 9 a.m., investigators said.

Tecumseh Police Department spokeswoman Anita Gibson said the young victims were described by neighbors as being "well behaved and nice as could be — just little angels."

Investigators said Mrs. Marsh and her husband, Gary, were respected in the community since they moved there in the summer.

They said Yao's lawyers argued he confessed his crimes and deserved leniency because he cooperated with the court and demonstrated a relatively good attitude since the trial began Nov. 20.

Yao, a former Politburo member, was the media manipulator of the Gang of Four during the 1966-76 cultural revolution. He helped control the party propaganda machinery including the leading newspaper, The People's Daily.

Yao and his co-defendants, including Mao Tse-tung's widow Jiang Qing, face possible death sentences if they are convicted of treason, frameups and persecutions that allegedly led to more than 30,000 deaths.

The trial is closed to foreigners on grounds party and state secrets will be divulged.

Dixon band to play at inaugural

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — Members of the high school band in Ronald Reagan's boyhood town are ecstatic over news they will be marching in his inauguration parade after all, says principal James German.

"When I told them, all bedlam broke loose," German said Thursday after getting word that the inaugural committee had reversed an earlier decision excluding the band from the festivities.

Reagan, who was born in nearby Tampico, graduated from Dixon High School in 1928.

The school had been so confident the 92-member band would be invited to the Jan. 20 inauguration in Washington that new purple and white uniforms were ordered. But, last week, the parade committee released the band list and Dixon High School was not on it.

Phone calls, letters and considerable pressure from Reagan supporters ensued, including suggestions from Gov. James Thompson and Sen. Charles Percy, both Republicans.

Faltering economy causes Texas Instruments cutbacks

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Instruments Inc. will reduce the hours of 17 percent of its worldwide work force — about 15,000 employees — beginning in January and lasting at least through March.

The company cited a "softening in demand for certain company products," along with economic "uncertainties" in 1981, in announcing the cutbacks Thursday.

TI, the largest private employer in Dallas County with about 30,000 workers, has about 90,000 employees worldwide.

"We are not going to break it out by plant site," said public relations director Norman Neureiter. "We are not going to break it out by city and location. Various people are affected in different business areas according to different business needs."

He said the employees are not being laid off. "The people affected will be working, but working a lesser number of hours, varying from plant to plant," Neureiter said.

If demand for some TI products continues to decline, "further cutbacks could be necessary," he said.

The primary areas to be affected are TI's semiconductor and consumer-related products divisions. Other TI divisions will continue regular work schedules, including digital systems, government electronics and geophysical exploration.

A month ago, TI ordered two-week holiday vacations for about 7 percent of its work force. Neureiter said the latest cutbacks represent a "deterioration of the situation."

Neureiter said TI has shortened workweeks when "business conditions demanded them." During the 1970 and 1974 recessions, the cutbacks were deeper than those to begin in January, he said.

Although the company said the cutbacks will end "on the earliest date that business conditions permit," officials predicted they would continue at least through the first quarter of 1981.

"We remain cautious about the near-term, despite some indicators pointing to an ending of the U.S. recession," TI president J. Fred Bucy and chairman Mark Shepherd Jr. said in a joint statement in the third-quarter report.

"The weakness in U.S. capital spending, continued high inflation rates, a worsening European recession, and the Japanese economic slowdown could dampen economic activity well into 1981."

Gang of Four propagandist asks life to be spared

PEKING (AP) — Yao Wenyan, the Gang of Four propagandist, asked the Supreme Court today to spare his life, Chinese sources said.

They said Yao's lawyers argued he confessed his crimes and deserved leniency because he cooperated with the court and demonstrated a relatively good attitude since the trial began Nov. 20.

Yao, a former Politburo member, was the media manipulator of the Gang of Four during the 1966-76 cultural revolution. He helped control the party propaganda machinery including the leading newspaper, The People's Daily.

Yao and his co-defendants, including Mao Tse-tung's widow Jiang Qing, face possible death sentences if they are convicted of treason, frameups and persecutions that allegedly led to more than 30,000 deaths.

The trial is closed to foreigners on grounds party and state secrets will be divulged.

Air Force says Texas MX site would require private land

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Air Force says it would have to buy 91,500 acres of privately owned land and move 1,400 families from their homes if it locates the MX missile system in the Clovis-Dalhart area of Texas and New Mexico.

An environmental impact statement released Thursday by the Air Force also forecasts a net increase of $1.1 billion in earnings in the area in 1987 if the missile system is located there.

But briefing officers made it clear at a news conference here that the Air Force's first choice for the MX site is a broad expanse of Nevada and Utah, Texas-New Mexico is considered only as an alternative, they said.

The Utah-Nevada area is thinly populated, and the MX would permanently require only 895 acres of privately owned land.

Lt. Col. Bill Verkest, environmental planning officer for the MX project, said the chief advantage of the Texas-New Mexico site would be "less impact on the natural environment."

According to the environmental impact statement, a number of endangered plant and animal species would be adversely affected if the MX system is placed in Utah-Nevada. Most of the Texas-New Mexico area is cropland or rangeland.

The system involves 200 missiles with multiple warheads and 4,600 underground, garage-like protective shelters, connected by 8,500 miles of two-lane paved roads. There would be two large operating bases — Clovis and Dalhart — if the MX is located in Texas-New Mexico.

Land acquisition that would be required if the MX system is built in Texas-New Mexico would include 8,300 acres adjoining Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, N.M.

"It will not be possible to avoid privately owned land in Texas-New Mexico," the Air Force's environmental impact statement said.

It said one possibility is a split system, located partly in Utah-Nevada, partly in Texas-New Mexico. It would involve moving 140 Texas and New Mexico families from their homes, Verkest said.

Verkest said a final decision on the site for the MX probably will be made this summer after public hearings and the completion of a final environmental impact statement.

Ed Miller of Henningson, Durham and Richardson of Santa Barbara, a firm that worked on the preliminary statement estimated the government would need to spend $200 million on land if it used the Texas-New Mexico site.

A major concern about placing the MX in the Panhandle has been the water required for construction and operations.

Verkest said at the peak of construction, estimated to be 1986, the project will require 30,000 acre-feet of water annually, while the water demand when it starts operating will be 13,000 acre-feet.

An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

The chief concern about water is depletion of the Ogallala Aquifer, but Verkest said "a relatively small portion will be withdrawn from the aquifer."

The environmental impact statement said some short-term construction needs

Alternative missile site would reach from Dalhart to Clovis, N.M.

MISSILE IMPACT — Antonia Handler Chayes, undersecretary of the Air Force faces reporters at the Pentagon in Washington Wednesday where she detailed the Air Force's draft environmental impact statement on MX missile deployment area selection and land withdrawal and acquisition.

might increase aquifer depletion rates by up to 5 percent.

But, it said, "the long-term impact is low throughout the area."

The Clovis area, however, said he would have no comment on the draft environmental impact statement until after he had a chance to review it. Tower, who will become chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said previously he thought the review would find the Utah-Nevada location the only practical site.

Cerebral palsy victim gets Christmas doll

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Thanks to Austinites who responded with a flood of phone calls, an Austin girl suffering from cerebral palsy now has the "Mrs. Beasley" doll she wanted for Christmas.

Five-year-old Tammy Burke grew accustomed to the doll during physical therapy sessions in California. But Mrs. Beasley remained behind when Sgt. Rodney Burke moved his family here after a transfer to Bergstrom Air Force Base in August.

storm," said Ruth Burke, her mother.

Air Force official started a worldwide search for the red-haired doll, similar to the Mrs. Beasley doll featured on the television show "Family Affair."

But the search ended quickly in Austin. Within three hours Wednesday morning, after a story in the local newspaper, the Burkes received 46 calls from people who said they might have the right doll.

The blond, blue-eyed child, who has no use of her legs, little use of her arms and cannot speak, used the doll as a teaching aid. Tammy's speech development stalled without Mrs. Beasley. The doll is no longer made, so the search began.

The sound of the doll's "voice" would prompt Tammy to "chatter up a Learn to Swim classes set

The Big Spring YMCA is concerned about the safety of everyone around water. Even though the temperature outside is not exactly summer weather, a person can learn swimming skills in a heated pool. According to Bob Cappel, Executive Director, "The YMCA has always stressed the importance of any youth learning to swim and drownproof, but it is equally important for adults, especially parents who encourage their child to swim, learns to become drownproof." This is why said Cappel, the YMCA is promoting the new Adult Learn to Swim Class on Mondays and Thursdays, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. The Learn to swim class, according to the Director, is designed to teach the Adult learners the basic skills, plus developing confidence in the water so that anyone can enjoy the water rather than sitting on the side. The YMCA will be providing babysitting for programs of eight weeks. This will allow both parents to enroll. Babysitting is $7.50 an hour per child.

Fees for the class will be $7.00 for YMCA members, and $15.00 for non-YMCA members. Check out today the YMCA's adult learn to swim. Get involved, drownproof.

Urban 'kickers' stampede retailers for Texas toppers

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — You can copy his style of dressing, disco to his two-step music, wear his boots with your three-piece suits ... even drive in his pickup truck.

But when you city slickers start hoarding a cowboy's manly headgear, you've done quite preachin' and gone to meddlin'.

The market on those distinctive head coverings, it seems, has been cornered by urban cowboys — those cubed folks who like to deck themselves in glittery versions of working cowboys duds.

"It's those kickers," grumbled Will Windham, manager of Fort Worth's Leddy Bros. Western Shop. "Kickers" is an abbreviated form of a more descriptive phrase that has something to do with cows, but in 1980 lingo means "those people who dress like cowboys but don't do nothing — you know, barroom cowboys," he said.

Manufacturers and retailers say the demand for hats has caused a serious nationwide shortage and has bucked prices higher than a mechanical bull rider.

Orders, which are running six to eight weeks behind schedule, often are short when they do arrive.

"They still owe me 25 percent of what I bought," said Windham. "I'd take another 50 percent of what I did buy if I could get them. I ran out of black hats a couple of weeks ago."

Louis Luskey, who runs Luskey's Western Store and claims to be the Fort Worth's biggest western-wear retailer, said his stocks are "exceptionally low."

"This is the first time since World War II that anything like this has happened," said Luskey, who fills mail orders to all 50 states and about 100 countries.

His normal warehouse inventory is about 12,000 hats. But this week, he has about 3,000 in stock.

"During normal years a real fine hat would go for between $25 and $50," he said. "Today, the average-selling hat runs between $100 and $150 and we stock them up to $350. Ten years ago nothing was made in that range."

Luskey built his trade on ranchers and farmers, but now his clientele comprises mainly high school and college students and professionals.

"Doctors and lawyers who wouldn't have worn a hat a couple years ago are now a common sight," he said.

"Girls are wearing hats more now, too."

"They're also buying the accessories — like hatbands with feathers, horse hair and jewelry — that can add between $5 and $5,000 to the price."

"There's no problem there, though," added Windham. "If I had a hat to go with every band I'd be all right."

Dan Russakov, general manager of Ryon's, said demand is "six or seven times what it was just a year ago. We could probably sell 40 percent more if we could get them."

Manufacturers estimate industry production will be short of demand by about 12 million hats this year, said Johnny Ward, general manager of Bailey Hat Co.

Ward said his company planned to make about 1.2 million hats but could sell more than twice that number if it had the machinery, raw materials and trained workers. Bailey is putting its customers on allocation and already is sold out through next April, Ward said.

"If we wanted to, we could be sold out through 1984," he said. "There's just no way to prepare for a bubble like this. I never would have dreamed that it would happen."

Gary Rosenthal, president of Stetson Co. in St. Joseph, Mo., said employees "are just breaking our backs to get out as many as we can."

To counter the crunch, Stetson is adding a wing to its Danbury, Conn., hat-body plant and erecting balconies in its St. Joseph factory to install new production lines. The company also may expand from one and a half shifts to two.

Rosenthal and Ward said they aren't worried that the cowboy look might be another fad that soon would evaporate.

"We feel very good about it," Rosenthal said. "We don't think it's trendy or faddy."

Comptroller sees $5 million in budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock estimated today that Texas legislators will have more money to spend in 1981 than some have expected.

Bullock made a "bottom-line" forecast of $27.9 million that the state government will get from taxes and other sources of revenue during the 1982-83 fiscal period. That is the same estimate he will present the 67th Legislature when it meets Jan. 13.

The current estimate compares to $22.7 billion in revenue available for the 1980-81 financial period.

"Our estimate indicates clearly that Texas continues to enjoy a business climate and economic blessing far more substantial than other regions of the country," Bullock said.

The comptroller said his revenue forecast includes an estimate $568 million surplus expected at the end of the 1980-81 period next Aug. 31.

'Centennial civic center' defeat blamed on turnout

ODESSA — A new drive may be mounted to give Odessa a "centennial civic center" even as proponents of the plan are still trying to analyze Tuesday's defeat at the polls.

The bond proposal inspired only 18,892 people to vote, or 21.48 percent of the eligible electorate. The margin of defeat was 506 votes — 5,193 favored the proposal but 5,699 didn't.

The bond issue received a plurality in only four of the 15 election ballots.

It was the fourth time in 21 years to bring such facility to Ector County, although it was the first time the matter had ever been brought to a vote by the constituency. Past efforts to bring a civic center never before got that far.

One county commissioner blamed the low voter turnout for the loss.

Anthony Hunt Library to close for holidays

The Anthony Hunt Library at Howard College will be closed beginning Friday, through Jan. 12 for the Christmas holidays, according to Mary Crawford, Head Librarian at Howard College.

All residents of the Howard College area are reminded of the availability of the library's facilities, said Crawford. A library membership card can be obtained by adults and junior and senior students of inclusive high schools. I.D. cards are presented to Howard College students, she added.

The Anthony Hunt Library is open six days a week, four nights and on Sunday afternoons, for a total of 64 hours. Extensive reference holdings include 207 magazine titles, 14 newspapers, the Big Spring Herald from May 1, 1932 to the present, the Wall Street Journal, Standard and Poor's weekly business reports and indexes in subject areas of science and technology, education, literature, poetry, plays, book reviews and the Reader's Guide index to general knowledge.

The Anthony Hunt Library is a community college library. Citizens are urged to use the 30,000 volumes held, the microfilm readers and reader-printer, copier, tape and record decks, type-writing rooms and many other study aids. If needed material is not on hand, the

Dear Abby

Thoughts of Therapist Undo Wife's Mental Health

DEAR ABBY: I wrote to you a year ago, saying that I had been married for 17 years, had a nice family and a good husband, but he and I just weren't able to communicate with each other. I had spells of depression, cried easily and didn't know what to do. You suggested that my husband and I should get counseling at our local mental health clinic. Well, he refused to go, so I went without him, and now I have another problem.

I have fallen in love with my therapist, Abby, he's the kindest, most gentle and understanding man I've ever met. He has helped me so much, I am a new woman. It's even helped my marriage. But what am I going to do about the therapist? I'm afraid if I tell him how I feel about him he'll drop me as a patient, and I don't want that. Even though there's no hope for making my dream come true (I dream about him nearly every night), I look forward to our sessions. Please help me.

CALL ME SHIRLEY

DEAR SHIRLEY: Tell your therapist how you feel about him so your feelings can be discussed and recognized for what they are. Most therapists are familiar with such situations and know how to deal with them. He is there to help you, and in order to be helped to the fullest, you must be completely open and honest with him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married 29-year-old woman. I recently changed jobs, and my problem is my supervisor. He's a conceited, middle-aged married man who fancies himself to be quite a fox. He keeps asking me to go out with him. I told him no from the start, but he kids me about it every day, and I go along with the kidding, pretending it's all in fun, but I know he is serious.

Abby, I don't want him for an enemy, so how can I get him to leave me alone without insulting him?

REDHEAD

DEAR REDHEAD: Tell him that you have a very tender conscience, and if you were ever to see him outside the office you would surely break down and tell your husband — and his wife. That should cool him off.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to KEEPING THE PEACE, you wisely wrote: "Speak up. Silence implies agreement."

That caused me to recall the words attributed to the prominent German theologian, the Rev. Martin Niemöller: "In Germany, the Nazis first came for the communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time there was no one left to speak for me."

ARTHUR H. PRINCE, MEMPHIS, TENN.

DEAR ARTHUR: The above has been in my column several times over the years, but it's worth repeating.

Ex-POWs exhibit preserved artifacts and memorabilia

The Permian Basin Chapter of American Ex-POWs, Inc. met Dec. 13, in the Bonanza Steak House in Big Spring. Commander Ernie Boyd presided.

Members from Odessa and Stanton as well as Big Spring were in attendance. The Chapter welcomed four new members, Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Fannin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Purser, Big Spring residents.

National membership was accepted for Mr. and Mrs. W.R. Purser, Jr., who reside in Napa, Calif.

As a part of the program, Ex-POWs exhibited and discussed artifacts and memorabilia preserved from their P.O.W. internment period. Everett Waldrum, chapter vice commander, an Odessa resident and ex-Marine, was interned in Manchuria during World War II.

Among the items he displayed was a jacket made from a Navy blanket which he had cut and sewed entirely by hand, including hand-made button holes.

"It may not have been the latest fashion, but it did aid in surviving the severity of the winter cold in Manchuria," Waldrum stated.

Interesting museum items from European and Japanese P.O.W. camps were also shown and discussed by other ex-POWs who were present. These items have been preserved from conditions from mild to severe for over 36 years by these Ex-POWs.

Ruth Sweatt receives BSAA Tipping of the Brush Award

Becky Smiley reported on the recipient of the association's 1980 scholarship award.

The annual Christmas sale was cancelled this year.

The BSAA has exhibits at Citizen's Federal Credit Union and City Hall. These are changed each month and involve six artists.

December artists at the credit union are Martha Conway and Gladys Shortes Exhibitors at the City Hall are Shirley White, Oma Anderson, Bonnie Hale and Elsie Merrial.

Anyone interested in exhibiting at the City Hall should call Shirley White. Bess Waggoner is in charge of the credit union display.

Give him a taste of his own medicine

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: My boyfriend and I broke up because he moved and had to attend a different high school. Every day I think of him at least 100 times and all the songs I hear remind me of our precious moments.

I haven't seen him for about two months but he does call me once in a while to let me know that he is a "lady's man" at his new school. Some of his lines have been, "I had to be dismissed early from class on my first day of school because the girls were disrupting class because they were trying to get my phone number" and "In one day three girls asked me to a dance."

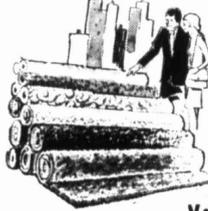

All this talk really makes me jealous, but I still think that he likes me. Please advise me what to say when he calls again. — Patty, San Mateo, Calif.

Patty: Tell him to make his conversation short because you have limited incoming calls from boys to five minutes. That way all the boys who want to call you will have a fighting chance to reach you!

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

FRIGHTENED AT PRACTICE — A 14-year-old girl is frightened during instruction on the use of a semi-automatic rifle during Jewish Defense League practice near Los Angeles last Sunday. JDL leader Irv Rubin encourages members of the organization to prepare for what he sees as the inevitable clash with "enemies of the Jewish people."

Conservative Republicans attempt to block Reagan CIA appointment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conservative Republicans, upset with the CIA's performance under President Carter, are trying to block Ronald Reagan's expected appointment of CIA deputy director Frank C. Carlucci to the second-ranking job at the Defense Department, GOP sources say.

Carlucci, 50, who also served in the Nixon and Ford administration, is reportedly the choice of Defense Secretary-designate Caspar W. Weinberger to be his deputy.

But some conservative Republicans have launched a behind-the-scenes campaign to deny Carlucci the influential job, charging that he contributed to the weakening of U.S. intelligence and aided Carter's campaign to win ratification of the SALT II treaty, sources said.

The Republican sources, who asked not to be identified, also said Carlucci is coming under attack for his lack of defense experience, particularly in light of Weinberger's limited background in military matters.

"A lot of people think he doesn't know nothing about defense," said one source.

In addition, the source said right-wing Republicans felt Carlucci "didn't do enough to stop the prostitution of the intelligence data" that the Carter administration cited to back its relatively optimistic assessment of U.S.-Soviet military balance.

"Many people feel he participated in a grand deception, that he underestimated Soviet capabilities and intentionally allowed misassessments to mislead the Congress in the national intelligence estimate," said another source.

The source claimed that if Congress had been correctly advised of Soviet strength, they would have voted more money to beef up U.S. military forces.

Another source complained that Carlucci presided over the "decimation of the (overt) operations section of the CIA" as deputy to CIA director Stansfield Turner, who critics contend has relied too much on electronic intelligence gathering while downplaying the use of agents.

Carlucci was not available for comment Thursday.

Although Weinberger's close relationship with Reagan would normally seem to guarantee approval of his hand-picked deputy, Carlucci's opponents contend the appointment would carry a high political cost.

Sources said that Carlucci's critics include conservative Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an important early backer of Reagan's 1976 presidential bid and a senator with strong ties to the GOP's influential right wing.

Carlucci worked under Weinberger when the defense secretary-designate directed former President Richard M. Nixon's Office of Management and Budget and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carlucci also served as ambassador to Portugal between 1975 and 1977 before taking the No. 2 job at the CIA in 1978.

Irish guerrillas end hunger strike

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Seven Irish guerrillas ended a 53-day hunger strike after British Prime minister Margaret Thatcher made it clear she would not give in to their demand for political prisoner status, even if they started dying.

A solidarity fast started this month by 30 other men in the Maze Prison and three women in Armagh Prison was expected to be called off today.

"We are delighted that the hunger strike is over," a government source in London said after the seven guerrillas ended their fast Thursday.

The British secretary for Northern Ireland, Humphrey Atkins, announced the end of the hunger strike by the seven and reiterated the British stand that political status will not be accorded to people convicted of violence.

But he promised a review of prison conditions, and the hunger strikers cited the pledge in a statement issued through their supporters.

Informed sources said the Catholic hierarchy, opposed to suicide as a political weapon and fearing worse violence if a hunger striker died, was responsible for ending the fast.

They said emissaries of Cardinal Tomas O. Fiaich, the primate of all Ireland who got a letter from Mrs.

Thatcher on Wednesday reiterating there would be no concessions, had emissaries in contact with the hunger strikers and their families.

The cardinal greeted the end of the action by saying, "Thank God. The decision will be welcomed with great relief by all sections of the community."

In the Irish Republic, Prime Minister Charles Haughey said, "I now look forward to a period of reconciliation in Ireland."

The seven took salt water only and in the last days some of them could not hold even that down and were vomiting bile. The weakest of them, 26-year-old Sean McKenna, was like a "yellow skeleton," a relative said after visiting him.

A Belfast doctor who asked not to be named said the men will first be drip-fed intravenously as they would be incapable of eating.

"The trouble is that if you give them too much fluid it could cause heart damage. But if you give too little it will not revive them," he said. "McKenna, whose eyes reportedly are damaged by the fasting, could need a corneal graft to recover his eyesight."

John Yudkin, emeritus professor of nutrition at London University, said it will be several weeks before the hunger strikers are back to full strength.

Lennon records top nationwide charts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ten days after his death, John Lennon is atop almost all American record charts with both a single, "Starting Over," and the album he recorded with wife Yoko Ono, "Double Fantasy."

"Starting Over" was the No. 1 single in charts released Wednesday by the three major music trade publications — Billboard, Cash Box and Record World.

"Double Fantasy" took over the No. 1 album slot in the first two magazines but was No. 2 in Record World.

Disc jockeys said they had expected the sales and were equally unsurprised — and in most cases unimpressed — by the first signs of what some predict will be an inundation of records about Lennon.

The only song anyone seems to be taking seriously is Bobby Vinton's "It Was Nice to Know You, John."

Lennon's last No. 1 record in Billboard was "Whatever Gets You Through the Night," in November 1974. The latest charts reported on the first full week of sales since Lennon was gunned down in front of his New York apartment Dec. 8.

Geffen Records released the single only two months ago and the album a few weeks later. Company president Ed Rosenblatt declined to give details on sales figures for the two records.

"Suffice it to say they were hits before what went down in New York last week went down," he said.

Maybe Duran walkoff is blessing for fans

For those of you expecting to find the answer to what happened to Roberto Duran during that now notorious eighth round in his rematch with Sugar Ray Leonard by watching the replay tonight on the tube, forget it.

Those at ringside can't explain why the rugged Duran suddenly walked out of the ring with 16 seconds left complaining of cramps. Most people, including me, can't understand when a man is being paid some eight million dollars to defend his world title can simply walk off without showing obvious signs of pain. Especially Duran.

One man that can offer some interesting ideas is Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, the man who was Muhammad Ali's personal physician. And even though some of his thoughts are interesting, Pacheco himself admits that he remains dumbfounded by what happened.

Says Pacheco: "To quit with 16 seconds left in the round, something had to snap within Duran. He says he had stomach cramps. If he had a real cramp, he would not be able to move as well as he was, but let us say he just had a pain. And let us believe he was feeling weak. Let us assume that is true.

"If the pain is that bad, can he not ride out the last few seconds of the round and then have the doctor called over to his corner?" Pacheco asks. "And, weakness, all fighters feel that at one point or another during almost any fight. But fighters get their second wind."

"I say this all because it just doesn't add up. If ever there were two fighters who knew no pain, it was Ali and Duran. Ali broke his jaw in a fight and separated ribs and he wouldn't stop. Duran, the fighter of the decade, was the animal, the one who would never quit. Yet he quit. Why?"

Gosh, Ferdie, I can't answer that either. It's kind of like what Tom Landry said after the LA Rams destroyed the Cowboys last Monday night. "If I understood why games like this happened, I'd be a genius. Either that, or a rich gambler."

But back to Duran. Many people close to the fight scene wonder about Duran's mentality in the days of the fight. He was very detached. Before the fight, when he walked off, and the next morning as he devoured a huge meal.

Some people have drawn comparisons between the Duran walkoff and the way Sonny Liston quit on a young Ali (then Cassius Clay) in Miami. But Pacheco claims that you can't compare the two.

"Liston was taking a terrible beating," Pacheco explained. "Duran was staking nothing of the kind. He wasn't himself, yet he was still just a point or two behind and there was half a fight to go. He had not been hurt, he had not been humiliated like Liston."

And despite the fact that Duran made the eight million, his pride must definitely still be hurting, whether he'll admit it or not. Especially since he comes from Panama.

You see, in the US of A, Ali does what he does in October (put on an embarrassing performance in a heralded heavyweight fight against Larry Holmes) and the people forgive him. But that's not true in Panama.

In Panama, says people from Duran's entourage, what their main man did will probably be conceived as cowardice, whether it was or not. They want their heroes to be very macho, and what Duran did with only 16 seconds left is not.

But everything is not lost in such a debacle! Actually, I see it as a strong point for the boxing fans of America.

Ali made a reported 10 million dollars for his sub-par 10-round performance against Holmes. Then Duran gets eight million in another title fight and walks out with 16 seconds to go in Round 8 complaining of cramps. Many people felt fleeced when they paid 30 bucks for the Ali-Holmes affair, and now feel that the public has been "had" yet another time by Duran.

Now people may not pay $1,000 for a ring-side seat, or even $30 for a closed-circuit seat to these events. Lets face it, you have to be a little soft in the head to pay those prices in the first place, and totally ignorant the second time around.

And although the world's crazy, it's not ignorant, and things will probably get a little more strict around the world of boxing.

Which means that maybe some of these big fights will be back on home TV, and back in the hands of a public that is becoming quite cynical.

Ferguson won't be punished

BRAMPTON, Ontario (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers is legally free to continue his quest for 300 major league victories, but baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says his investigation is continuing.

Ferguson, 38, was given an absolute discharge Thursday on a charge of possession of cocaine. The verdict means he has no criminal record, although an indeterminate finding of guilt was registered. Two other charges of possession of marijuana and hashish were withdrawn.

After the day-long provincial court trial, Ed Greenspan, Jenkins' lawyer, said he hoped Kuhn would reach the same decision as Judge Gerald Young. But a spokesman for Kuhn Thursday night said the commissioner's only statement on the verdict was that his own investigation was continuing.

Jenkins, who was awarded the Order of Canada in 1979, was charged Aug. 25 after three grams of cocaine were found in his luggage at nearby Toronto International Airport, when the Rangers were in Toronto to play the Blue Jays.

He appeared before Kuhn in September, after the charge was laid, and was suspended. The Major League Baseball Players Association filed a grievance and the suspension was lifted over protests from Kuhn.

Young, the judge who fined National Hockey League player Don Murdoch, now with Edmonton Oilers, $400 two years ago for the same offense, commented as he made his judgment, "Times do change."

After listening to a string of character witnesses who praised Jenkins for his work with young people and charities in his native Chatham, Ontario, Young said his main considerations must be the protection of society, rehabilitation of the accused and the establishment of a deterrent. He said he could not help seeing Jenkins' look of remorse during the trial.

The judge said there was no need for rehabilitation, that Jenkins had done much for society and society was not in danger. "You have built up quite an account," he told Jenkins, "and I think now you can draw from it."

Greenspan argued that if an absolute discharge was not granted, Ferguson, who won the Cy Young Award in 1971 as the best pitcher in the National League, would likely be barred from baseball and stopped in his quest for the milestone of 300 career victories. Jenkins, 12-12 in 1980, has won 259 games in his career.

Greenspan claimed Kuhn "has a gross misrepresentation of this case, and it is not beyond the realm of possibility a conviction will lead to suspension. An absolute discharge will show the law of the land has been recognized. If Ferguson Jenkins is given a suspended sentence, convicted or fined, it will amount to his banishment from baseball."

Outside the court, surrounded by newsmen and fans, Jenkins said he felt more relief that it was over than he did after a baseball game. "I just hope people, especially in my community, will look at all this as a mistake," he said.

Clippers kayo Mavs

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego guard Freeman Williams has been in the Clippers' starting lineup recently because Phil Smith is sidelined with an ankle injury. Williams, who has made the most of his opportunity, is wondering what's going to happen when Smith returns to action.

"I'm just getting in the groove," said Williams after scoring a game-high 32 points Thursday night as the Clippers rolled to a 102-92 National Basketball Association victory over the Dallas Mavericks. "It's good to win. We kept our composure at the end tonight. We're getting better at doing that."

"I don't know what will happen when Phil comes back."

The triumph was the third in a row for the Clippers and their ninth in the past 14 games. San Diego is 15-20 overall.

Woodward, Kansas; Mary Coyle, Rutgers; and LaTaunya Pollard, of Long Beach State. The Coyles are twin sisters. The tournament starts Friday at FIT, and moves to Madison Square Garden Saturday for the championships.

Illini open tournament with BYU

By The Associated Press

LoU Henson doesn't know if his Illinois basketball team measures up to its No. 17 ranking, but he'll get some indication tonight when the Illini meets another Top Twenty club in the Volunteer Classic in Knoxville, Tenn.

Henson's Big Ten power faces 18th-ranked Brigham Young in the tournament opener before host Tennessee plays Iowa.

"Brigham Young is a super team," says Henson. "I'd rate them above Missouri and Marquette. They're huge."

As for his team's Top Twenty stature:

"It's nice to be ranked but I don't think it's good for your ranking to get ahead of your team. I feel like we are a pretty good ballclub but we can do a lot better. We need to come along and improve defensively and offensively and take care of the ball a little better."

The Illini is undefeated in four games while BYU, of the Western Athletic Conference, has a 5-1 record.

The Volunteer Classic is one of many holiday tournaments across the country starting tonight.

Among others, top-ranked DePaul will play in the Chicagoland Classic; No. 2 Kentucky will be in the Kentucky Invitational; No. 12 Wake Forest will see action in the Cable Car Classic and No. 13 Texas A&M will compete in the Virginia Tech Invitational.

Only one ranked team was in action during Thursday night's limited play, and No. 15 Louisiana State rolled past the University of New Orleans 96-66 as Durand Macklin scored 18 points.

The Tigers from the Southeastern Conference led 42-30 at halftime, then blew the game open in the first four minutes of the second half behind their high scorer.

The game's leading scorer was Oscar Taylor of New Orleans, who collected 27 points.

Not so very many years ago the Garden was the mecca of college basketball. Eight of the best teams in the nation would play a holiday tournament there. There would be eight more doubleheader dates during the winter, featuring top teams.

But the city game fell on hard times in the city. St. John's, Fordham and Manhattan built new gyms to house their teams. New York University dropped the sport and the college game started drying up on the Garden.

In Holiday Bowl

Mustangs face gunner

By The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pass-happy Brigham Young, stinging from four straight bowl defeats, throws uncanny quarterback Jim McMahon at Southern Methodist tonight in a Holiday Bowl battle of wild and woolly offenses.

The game, rated close to a tossup, will be televised regionally on a delayed basis. A near-sellout is expected at the 52,000-seat San Diego Stadium for the 8 p.m. CST match pitting the Western Athletic Conference champions against the Southwest Conference co-runnerup.

Only a junior, the 6-foot-1 McMahon will be concluding the greatest single season ever by a college quarterback. By completing 64 percent of his passes, he broke 26 NCAA offensive records, including 4,571 passing yards and 47 touchdowns.

SMU Coach Ron Meyer says flatly that McMahon is the closest quarterback he's seen to Bob Griese, the former Purdue great.

"You don't stop Jim McMahon," said Meyer. "We're just trying to hold him to 200 or 300 yards maybe."

McMahon averaged 444 yards passing in Brigham Young's last 11 games — all victories — with a season high of 545 in a 70-46 rout of Utah State.

"We're hoping if we mix up our coverages enough and get some heat on him, we might confuse him once or twice and intercept a few," said Meyer.

For McMahon, it's the chance he's been waiting for. Two years ago, after guiding Brigham Young to another WAC title, he brooded on the bench when Marc Wilson started against Navy in the first Holiday Bowl.

"I was disappointed, I thought I should have been the one," said McMahon.

Cougar Coach LaVell Anderson leaves no doubt about BYU's strategy.

"We might run it a time or two so we can say we established our ground game but I have a hunch we'll have the ball in the air most of the time," he said.

Southern Methodist

counters with one of the nation's deepest sophomore-dominated squads.

Sophomore tailbacks Craig James and Eric Dickerson, who both gained nearly 1,000 yards while alternating at the position, scored 11 of the Mustangs' 18 rushing touchdowns. Freshman quarterback Lance McIlhenny directed SMU to four victories in its last five games.

On defense, Southern Methodist starts six sophomores and a junior on a unit that forced 19 interceptions, blocked six kicks and recovered 18 fumbles.

"Somewhere along the line we are going to stop them from attacking us," said junior defensive tackle Harley Armstrong, an all-Southwest Conference selection.

"The scary thing (about Brigham Young)," said Meyer, "is that the more guys you send after the passer the more receivers they send in to your secondary."

Against European champ

Ali planning comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Not wanting to retire and leave boxing fans with the memory of his battering at the hands of Larry Holmes, Muhammad Ali says he is going back in the ring to fight European heavyweight champion John L. Gardner.

Ali, who has held the world heavyweight title an unprecedented three times, said Thursday in London: "If you judged all fighters on one performance, you would have to stop a whole lot of them from fighting." He was referring to his loss to World Boxing Council champion Holmes on Oct. 2, a bout in which Ali lost every round and did not answer the bell for the 11th.

Harold Smith, president of Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, Inc., told The Associated Press by telephone from Los Angeles that Ali "has asked me to make the fight."

"This is Ali's fight," he added. "If the fight is made, it will take place the first week in March ... in one of three places — Kingston, Jamaica; the Bahamas, or Puerto Rico. It definitely won't be in the United States, mainly because the media in the United States would be hard on Ali."

There has been a general consensus in the United States that Ali should retire. In Chicago, Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, said there have been negotiations for a fight with Gardner but "Ali has not signed and I have not signed, and I have exclusive rights."

British promoter Mickey Duff said from Las Vegas, Nev., that he is Gardner's manager and that Gardner had not signed a contract but had signed a letter of intent with Smith to fight Ali.

Ali, in London to promote his film "Freedom Road," which already has been shown on American television, explained that he wanted to set even more records in the ring.

"I want to go on because I'm the only man in the history of the sport with the chance of winning the heavyweight title for a fourth time," Ali said. "I had one bad fight against Holmes because I had taken the wrong pills for a thyroid condition. Let me fight Gardner, and I say that if I lose or look bad beating him, I will get out of boxing."

Ali also denied he was having a speech problem

Rutherford given rule reception in Detroit

By The Associated Press

Things certainly seemed different for Jim Rutherford and the St. Louis Blues Thursday night.

Rutherford, until two weeks ago a goaltender for the Detroit Red Wings, returned to the Joe Louis Arena as a member of the Toronto Maple Leafs. His former teammates weren't very kind, handing him a 5-3 loss that was Detroit's fourth straight National Hockey League victory.

As for the Blues, their trip to Boston Garden was a lot more productive than usual. St. Louis blew out the Bruins 7-3 for only their second victory in 15 games in seven years in the Garden.

Elsewhere, Rick St. Croix registered his first NHL after the British Broadcasting Corp. decided not to broadcast a taped interview the 38-year-old Ali made with veteran interviewer Roy Plomley.

"When you get as great as me, people always look for some type of downfall," Ali noted in a live interview on the London commercial station Capital Radio. "You people talk so distinctly, so properly. We were slaves and given English. Blacks understand me."

Apparently the BBC felt that British listeners would have trouble understanding Ali. A BBC spokesman said Ali probably was suffering from jet lag when he made the interview with Plomley.

shutout in Philadelphia's 2-0 win over Colorado, and Montreal blanked Calgary 4-0 as Rod Langway scored two goals and set up another.

Red Wings 5, Maple Leafs 3. "I wasn't nervous or anything," said Rutherford, who was traded to Toronto for center Mark Kirtson on Dec. 5. "During the pregame skate, it felt really strange on the ice. It didn't seem like the same place. It's been a big adjustment for me."

So has winning been a big change for the Wings, who were 3-14-3 under Ted Lindsay but are 5-4-2 with Wayne Maxner behind the bench.

"I'm the kind of coach who is never satisfied," said Maxner, who took over for the fired Lindsay on Nov. 26.

Playoff berths up for grabs

By The Associated Press
After 15 weeks of bumping heads, the American Football Conference finally decides who will go to the National Football League playoffs.

While all five National Conference playoff berths have been clinched, seven AFC teams are in the running for its five playoff positions.

The final weekend of the regular season gets underway Saturday with four teams who can't make the playoffs, including a unique announcer-less contest in Miami's Orange Bowl between the Dolphins and the New York Jets. The other contest pits the Chicago Bears against Tampa Bay.

Sunday, Cleveland is at Cincinnati, Denver travels to Seattle, Baltimore hosts Kansas City, Atlanta is at Los Angeles, Green Bay goes to Detroit, Philadelphia is at Dallas, Washington travels to St. Louis, Buffalo is at San Francisco, Minnesota is at Houston, New England travels to New Orleans and the New York Giants host Oakland.

The regular season ends Monday night with Pittsburgh at San Diego.

The Jets, 3-12, are going after their sixth straight victory over Miami, 8-7. And the game will be a first in television history as NBC will have neither a play-by-play announcer or a "color man" there.

Chicago running back Walter Payton will be after his fifth consecutive NFC rushing title when the Bears, 6-9, meet the Bucs, 5-9-1. Payton leads the NFC with 1,330 yards on 288 carries.

On Sunday, the fun begins for the AFC playoff picture. If Buffalo, 10-5, beats San Francisco, 6-9, or if both Buffalo and New England lose, the Bills win the AFC East. If New England, 9-6, topples the Saints, 1-14, and Buffalo loses, then the Patriots are the division champions because of a better division record.

Now come the complications. If Buffalo does not win the AFC East, it can get a wild card berth if either Cleveland, Houston, San Diego or Oakland lose. New England can be a wild card if it wins and either San Diego or Cleveland loses.

In the AFC Central, if Cleveland, 10-5, downs Cincinnati, 6-9, the Browns win the title. If Cleveland loses, Houston wins, regardless of how the Oilers fare against Minnesota.

Houston, 10-5, can clinch a wild card by beating Minnesota, 9-6. Cleveland and Houston are assured of at least a wild card if New England loses.

Pittsburgh can be a wild card if New England loses, Cleveland and Houston win and the Steelers, 9-6, beat San Diego, 10-5.

If San Diego beats Pittsburgh in this game of musical chairs, the Chargers win the AFC West. If San Diego loses, Oakland, 10-5, would win the division regardless of how the Raiders do against the Giants, 4-11.

Oakland can clinch a playoff spot by winning while San Diego, if it loses, can be a wild card if either Houston or Cleveland lose.

Buffalo has come too far to let the playoffs slip away against San Francisco of all teams. Buffalo favored by 6.

Browns 27, Bengals 20
Cincinnati could ruin things for Cleveland. Don't worry. The Bengals won't. Cleveland favored by 4.

Broncos 17, Seahawks 14
Wouldn't it be a shame if Seattle's perfect home record — no wins all season — ended now? Seattle favored by 2½.

Lions 24, Packers 20
No playoffs but a fine recovery year for Detroit, last year's doormats. Detroit favored by 6.

Chiefs 24, Colts 21
It won't be easy on the road, but few things have been for Kansas City the past few seasons. Baltimore favored by 3.

Oilers 20, Vikings 13
Rebuilt Minnesota could threaten Houston's playoff plans. The Vikes are safe after nailing down the NFC Central last week. Houston favored by 10.

Patriots 31, Saints 14
There ain't gonna be any bag heads in the Superdome this week. New England favored by 9.

Raiders 28, Giants 17
Al Davis won't have to worry. There won't be anybody scalping tickets for this one. Oakland favored by 7½.

Eagles 19, Cowboys 17
Dallas is still trying to get the license number of that truck that ran over the Cowboys in LA last Monday night. Dallas favored by 4.

Cardinals 20, Redskins 10
Jim Hart won't start for St. Louis, but Otis Anderson will. St. Louis favored by 2.

Permian is closing in on crown

Port Arthur Jefferson, ending a 23-year absence from the state schoolboy football finals, and Odessa Permian, a two-time winner over the past 15 years, end a four-month gridiron trek Saturday with the state 5A championship game.

Texas Stadium officials are expecting a crowd of up to 23,000 for the 2 p.m. kickoff.

Permian reached the finals with a 21-3 win over Highland Park last Saturday, while Jefferson advanced with a 34-7 shellacking of San Antonio Holmes.

Jefferson's chief offensive weapon is quarterback Todd Dodge, who has set a 5A season record with 2,935 yards and a career record for completions with 372.

The Port Arthur squad has averaged over 400 offensive yards per game this season and that's cause for concern by Permian mentor John Wilkins.

"We've never faced an offense quite like this one," Wilkins said, adding that Jefferson's defense has been "overshadowed."

"Their defense is very aggressive, but it's been overshadowed by their offense," he said. "Their defense is as good as their offense."

But Wilkins is not in the habit of downplaying his own team.

"I didn't come out of West Texas on a load of sticks," Wilkins said after Permian's win over Highland Park. "We play good football out there."

But Wilkins says he's never seen anything like Jefferson's offense, headed by quarterback Todd Dodge.

In the past 15 years, Permian has made five state final appearances, winning in 1965 and, most recently, beating Baytown Sterling in 1972.

No announcers at game Seeing but not hearing

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS commentator John Madden happened to pick up the phone in the National Football League's office one day. It was Don Ohlmeyer, the man behind NBC's no-announcer game.

"You're sure putting the pressure on me," said Madden, who will be heard on the second NFL national television game Saturday, Chicago-Tampa Bay.

"That's a tough act to follow."

For Madden and his sidekick, Gary Bender, it won't be easy following an honest-to-goodness TV happening. Anything they do — good or bad — will be magnified because the earlier game on NBC between Miami and the New York Jets will be minus a play-by-play announcer and an expert analyst.

Since Ohlmeyer came to NBC from ABC four years ago, he's been putting pressure on his own people, demanding excellence in substance and style on all sports programming.

Ohlmeyer, the executive producer of NBC Sports, termed the no-announcer game a production exercise intended to sharpen the efforts of everyone connected with football telecasts.

"I think our announcers are the best in the business. But sometimes production people use announcers as crutches," he said. "Our goal here is to always improve our product. I think that will be the result of our so-called announcerless game."

"An area that has been lax in television, particularly sports television, has been advances in the audio end. On Saturday, I think you'll hear the sounds on the field more crisply and clearly than ever before."

Ohlmeyer has been an admirer of Soviet television's capacity to provide high quality sound in its sports events. He's even taken a page out of the Russians' spy book by talking to the FBI and the Army to come up with new audio devices "to capture and present the sounds of the game as you would expect to experience them in the stadium."

To compensate for the sounds of silence from the broadcast booth, NBC plans to inform the viewer of game detail with pertinent on-screen graphics, particularly ball carrier, receiver, primary tackler, down and yardage. The clock has been wired to go directly onto the screen in key situations.

Green is again on All-East

NEW YORK (AP) — Hugh Green, Pitt's three-time All-American defensive end and winner of the Lombardi Trophy as the nation's best lineman, was named to The Associated Press All-East team today for the fourth year in a row.

Green's teammate at defensive end, Ricky Jackson, also was named to the All-East team, along with two other members of the Panthers' defensive line, tackle Bill Neill and middle guard Jerry Boyarsky.

Pitt's Lambert Trophy Eastern champions led the nation in both total defense and rushing defense. The Panthers yielded only 205.5 yards a game overall and just 65.3 yards a game on the ground.

They also placed three players on the All-East offensive unit — tight end Benjie Pryor, tackle Mark May — the Oiltank Trophy winner as the nation's top interior lineman — and running back Randy McMillan.

Pryor and May were repeaters from the 1979 team, as were Navy guard Frank McCallister and Syracuse linebacker Jim Collins.

The rest of the offensive unit consists of wide receivers Mike Fainestock of Army and Tim Odell of Rutgers, tackle Bill Dugan and guard Sam Farrell of Penn State, center Tony Bubniak of Colgate, quarterback Oliver Luck of West Virginia and running back Rich Diana of Yale.

The only non-Pitt player on the defensive line is tackle Howie Long of Villanova. The other linebackers are Mike Kronzer of Navy and Darryl Talley of West Virginia.

Falcons, Philadelphia favored in NFL games

By The Associated Press
Now that they've dethroned Los Angeles in the National Football Conference West, the Atlanta Falcons get a chance to punctuate their brand new championship against the Rams face-to-face.

Out with the old, in with the new. Go with the Falcons, attractive four-point underdogs. Want some others? Well, you can get Denver and 2½ against Seattle, Kansas City and three at Baltimore and Philadelphia and four at Dallas. They all look good to this Pro Picker.

Last week's 9-5 (5-9 with the points) left the season log at 121-83-1 straight up and 80-125 with points. The picks:

Bears 21, Bucs 17
Chicago was a 23-0 winner the first time they met. Tampa Bay has improved since then, but not that much. Game is rated even.

THE LIGHT TOUCH
Sherry Wegner

Here it is four more days 'til Christmas... and everyone's hoping they get what they want, instead of what they deserve. (I want & deserve a rest!)

This time of year always makes people sentimental. In fact, I saw a man crying the other day... his wife was spending the money he had saved for his Las Vegas trip on presents for the kids.

Talk about commercializing Xmas. A week ago I purchased an appliance from a local dept. store & informed the salesperson that it was a Xmas gift. He promptly asked if I would like to purchase a warranty policy also. I said no, that the recipient could do that after Xmas & gave him the name of same. Within 4 days the recipient-to-be received a letter offering to sell her a policy for her new appliance. Needless to say, the element of surprise is gone, & I might add a classic example of commercialism.

Ladies, why don't you surprise your husbands with a set of tools from BIG SPRING SEED & CHEMICAL, 602 N.E. 2nd. Bob, Jimmy, Beverly, Cruze, James, Johnny & myself want to wish all of you A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS.

Yes. We have a Christmas Angel living at our house. And most of the excitement of this joyous season revolves around her.

Of course, she is not an angel most of the time. She is a very special little girl — very special because we love her.

At church this Christmas she'll be one of the "angels" singing to the shepherds the joyous news of Jesus' birth.

We are glad the church has become an important part of her life. That's where she has learned that she is very special to God.

So are we all!

The joy of Christmas at our house... and in God's House... begins with the realization that Jesus was born because God so loved the world.

Episcopals see vesting of Northwest Diocese bishop

The Northwest Texas Diocese of the Episcopal Church vested a new bishop recently. Sam Byron Hulsey is the third Bishop of the diocese.

Immediately following the consecration of the bishop, he is vested according to the order of bishops. A mitre is placed on his head; a shield-shaped pointed hat, which symbolizes the tongues of fire that appeared over the apostle's heads during pentecost.

The lappets hanging down the back are vestiges of the bookmarks of the Old and New Testaments which were laid as a yoke across the shoulders of the newly-ordained bishop.

The episcopal ring is also a sign of the Gospel. It has the seal of the Diocese of Northwest Texas engraved into the stone.

The gold pectoral cross is a symbol of the order of bishops, as it has a green stone on it whose color also symbolizes the bishops. The cross, a gift of the people of the diocese, has a small arrow head from Andrews County set in the center, and is engraved with other regional symbols: a shock of wheat, a boll of cotton, an oil derrick, a cow, a sheep, an iris (The state flower of Tennessee where Hulsey served), a crozier (from the seal of the Diocese of Dallas where he began his ministry).

Hulsey will be presented the crozier (pastoral staff) used by both his predecessors as Bishop of Northwest Texas.

St. Paul Lutheran Church plans heavy Yule schedule

The third and last advent service of St. Paul Lutheran Church will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. by Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, Sunday.

Special music will be provided by the adult choir directed by Suzanne Haney, accompanied by China Long, on organ.

This last advent service will be an informal one and will be held in the Fellowship Hall.

On Dec. 24, at 6:30 p.m. the children of St. Paul Lutheran Sunday School and Mid-Week School will present the annual Christmas program in the sanctuary.

The title is "Come, Lord

Jesus" by Siegfried H. Fenske. Mrs. Kohl, Gayle Mimmick and Mrs. Haney are in charge of the program. Mrs. Long is again accompanist.

The program has its theme the advent candles and is a four part series. Each part depicts a candle and its meaning.

The parts are prophecy of Christ, first advent, coming into the heart by faith and second advent.

There are 39 children taking part in this program. Each child will have a speaking part and speaking parts are interspersed with Christmas songs.

At 10 a.m. on Christmas Day a special service is planned for members and guests. It is to be conducted by Kohl. Special Christmas music is to be presented by members of the adult choir.

Mrs. Haney will direct, accompanied by Mrs. Long. The service will differ from the usual service in that it will be composed of Scripture, hymns and stories that tell the Christmas story.

On Dec. 31, Kohl will conduct the New Year's Eve Service at the church. Communion services will be at midnight.

Special music by the adult choir will be presented.

Adventist Church split threatened over writings

NEW YORK (AP) — "The spirit is not given, nor can ever be bestowed to supersede the Bible."

So wrote the late Ellen G. White, a founder of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and regarded as conveying in her writings the spirit of prophecy. But two penalized ministers say her authority gradually has been elevated to a level with Scripture.

Conflict about it, surging in several independent Adventist journals, has shot tremors through the academic-ministerial ranks of the generally calm denomination, with its far-flung missions and medical work and emphasis on the early return of Christ.

"It's a traumatic experience," says the Rev. Raymond Cottrell of Calimesa, Calif., one of the church's leading Bible scholars. "There's been nothing in the past 75 years to match it."

The friction over it resembles in part that of the Protestant Reformation which 500 years ago declared its adherence to "Scripture alone" in defiance of Rome's insistence also on church tradition.

Officially, like the rest of Protestantism, Adventism regards the Bible as "the only rule of faith and practice." But Cottrell says most church scholars recognize that the sway of Mrs. White's writings has become enlarged since her death in 1915.

"But she herself definitely repudiated any such tendency," he says.

The issue came to a head in the withdrawal of the ministerial credentials of an influential church theologian, Desmond Ford of New Castle, Calif., and long-time minister Walter Rea of Arcadia, Calif.

"As loyal Adventists, we are to believe the Bible and the Bible alone," says Ford. "But the church has gotten away from that and that's tragic."

The Australian-born Ford, 51, says of Mrs. White's writing is being "almost substituted for the Bible."

"This is not the official position, but it has become the practical position and the impression in the congregations," he says.

Hebrews establish center

NEW YORK (AP) — The Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the Reform branch of U.S. Judaism, is establishing a new religion action center in Washington, D.C., to seek to inject religious principles into national affairs.

Alexander I. Ross, head of the union's social-action commission, says the center will serve as a "visible presence in our nation's capital of the religious conscience in the struggle for social justice."

San Salvador 'crimes' reach ears of Pope

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — An appeal has been sent to Pope John Paul II by about 100 American Catholic leaders to raise his voice against the "heinous crimes" of the military regime in El Salvador where thousands, including 14 priests and nuns, have been slain this year.

"We urge you to use your holy offices to intervene in behalf of the poor and those yet living in that tortured country," the message said.

"We beg you to marshal the spiritual and diplomatic forces of the entire church in support of our brothers and sisters in El Salvador... who are dying for each other in order to be free."

Signers of the message included Bishops Thomas Gumbilton of Detroit and Peter Rosagos of Hartford, Conn., and heads of numerous national organizations of priests and nuns.

Birthplace of Jesus mobbed

BETHLEHEM, Israel (AP) — Christmas pilgrims to Jesus' birthplace will have more trouble finding room in the inn than his parents did 20 centuries ago, writes Baptist Press reporter Norman Jamerson.

"Had Mary and Joseph had to contend with the 30,000 visitors expected Christmas Eve in Manger Square, Jesus may have been born in a tour bus. There are only 40 hotel rooms in Bethlehem."

"Of course, if Jesus had not been born in Bethlehem, there would be no crowds there at Christmas. But he was, and that fact is the magnet for the iron-spirited crowds that crush the bleak little hamlet of 15,000 people annually."

Baptist set up conference for evangelism training

Dr. Bailey Smith and Dr. Frederick Sampson will be among the 11 pastors, evangelists and lay persons to address the annual Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference at the Tarrant County Convention Center in Fort Worth, Jan. 19-21.

Smith, president of the Southern Baptist Convention (SBC) and pastor of the First Southern Baptist Church in Del City, Okla., will address the conference at 11:20 a.m. during the closing session Wednesday morning.

Sampson, a native of Port Arthur and pastor of the Tabernacle Missionary Baptist Church in Detroit, Mich., is one of the most successful black pastors in America. He will speak at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday and 10:35 a.m. Wednesday.

Theme of the five-session conference is "Evangelize — Now is the Time." Dr. L.L. Morriss, director of the Texas Baptist Evangelism Division, said the theme was chosen because of "growing reports of revival in local churches and the fact that baptisms apparently will be up for the second year in succession.

"The Texas Baptist

Evangelism Division believes that now is the time for renewed efforts in evangelism," he said.

Other speakers include Carlos McLeod, Baptist General Convention of Texas (BGCT) President and pastor of the First Baptist Church, Plainview; Adrian Rogers, immediate past president of the SBC and pastor of Bellevue Baptist Church, Memphis, Tenn.; Jimmy Draper, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Eufless; and Daniel Vestal, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Midland.

Also included are Charles E. "Tremendous" Jones, president of Life Management Service, Inc., Harrisburg, Pa.; Rick Ingle, a Denton evangelist; Joe Ford, director of Evangelism Development for SBC Home Mission Board, Atlanta, Va.; Oscar Thompson, professor at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth; and David Ray, an Abilene evangelist.

Ron Dunn of LifeStyle Ministries in Irving will lead the conference in Bible study during each of the sessions.

The conference sessions of inspirational speeches and music begin at 6:30 p.m. Monday; 8:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 6:25 p.m. Tuesday; and 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The Evangelism Division of the BGCT sponsors the conference which is free and open to the public.

St. Mary's hosts services

A Festival of Lessons and Carols will be featured at the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The old traditional carols, accompanied by familiar readings of the Christmas story, make this service an integral beginning to the celebration of Christmas.

On Christmas Eve, the Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 11 p.m., and is preceded by a reception and refreshments in the parish hall. The Holy Eucharist will again be celebrated on Christmas Day at 9 a.m. Celebrant for both services is The Ven. Richard Wilson, Archdeacon of the Diocese of Northwest Texas.

The public is invited to attend all of these Christmas services.

Fonda to be released

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Actor Henry Fonda will be released from a hospital after doctors are sure that his heart medication is working, a spokeswoman at Cedars-Sinai Hospital says.

F

GIVING A COLD SHOULDER — Jessica Dankworth, 5, of 1623 Kirby Road, Lebanon, Ohio, got a ski lift of a different sort from her father, Tom. Jessica is just a beginner at Sugarcreek Ski Hill in Bellbrook, Ohio, where a machine makes the snow when temperatures are low enough.

Balloon floats 1,500 miles to bring couple Christmas

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Curiosity over a toy balloon bouncing in a rural field has resulted in an unexpected Christmas gift for a middle-aged Texas couple who have never been out of the state — an all expense paid visit to California.

The day after Thanksgiving, a Santa Barbara shopping mall — La Cumbre Plaza — launched 7,000 red and white helium party balloons to herald the arrival of Santa Claus. They filled the skies over Santa Barbara and then disappeared on a warm west wind.

Two days later, 1,500 miles away near Rankin, Tex., Jim and Almira Braden were deer hunting when they noticed a bright red object blithely dancing along the ground ahead of them.

"They were about ready to shoot it," said La Cumbre spokeswoman Dana Fox, "but decided to take a closer look."

It was a fully inflated balloon with the following message printed across it: "Season's Greetings from La Cumbre Plaza, La Cumbre Road and State Street, Santa Barbara."

Man accused of burglary

Harvey Joe Mansfield, 19, Coahoma, was arrested Sunday on suspicion of burglary. Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin at $15,000. Mansfield was arrested at S. 87 and FM 700 Sunday and transferred to county jail.

The Braden's weren't exactly sure where Santa Barbara was but took a chance on California and wrote the city's Chamber of Commerce to inquire about their find, said Ms. Fox. They had heard of the town from recent press reports about President-elect Reagan's hilltop ranch, which is nearby.

"We thought it might be interesting to know how long it took the balloon to reach Texas from the date it was released," wrote Mrs. Braden, a 51-year-old hospital nurse. "Thank you for any information you might be able to send us."

La Cumbre officials were so excited about the whole thing that they called the couple back instead, and with a Christmas gift they won't soon forget — a free vacation in sunny Santa Barbara. "When I called to tell her," said Ms. Fox, "she was so excited, just as tickled as can be. They have never been out of Texas before."

Former SCLC leader says Reagan will improve lot for blacks

HOUSTON (AP)— The Rev. Ralph Abernathy, former president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Thursday he was convinced that president-elect Ronald Reagan "will improve the lot of blacks."

In Houston for a series of meetings, Abernathy said he liked Reagan's programs for jobs for minorities and investment money for private industries. Once a close associate of the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Abernathy said he has asked Reagan to state in his inaugural address a commitment to fight against the resurgence of the Ku Klux Klan and Nazi groups.

Abernathy, who supported Reagan in the presidential election, said he is still a Democrat and would have stayed there if the party had nominated Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., for president.
