Senate confirmation hearings open today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opening-day niceties out of the way, the 97th Congress today began taking a close, although generally sympathetic, look at the people Ronald Reagan wants to run the government.

Senate confirmation hearings opened today for Cabinet nominees Richard Schweiker for the Department of Health and Human Services, Caspar Weinberger for Defense, Malcolm Baldrige for Commerce, John R. Block for Agriculture and Donald T. Regan for Treasury.

Also, the House and Senate were meeting jointly today to carry out a constitutional requirement that they certify Reagan's victory by certifying the Electoral College vote results.

Reagan's Cabinet choices received a generally sympathetic reception before Senate committees newly controlled by Republicans.

At his hearing, Defense Secretary-designate Weinberger predicted that Reagan will wait six months before trying to renegotiate the SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union.

Schweiker conceded to the Senate Finance Committee that there is no easy way to put the Social Security system on a solvent footing.

"It is going to be some tough medicine. I don't think there is a popular answer. But it is necessary for us to do it," he said.

Agriculture Secretary-designate Block caused a stir a few weeks ago when he indicated a belief that U.S. food production could be a major diplomatic weapon in the new administration.

Today, Block told the Senate Agriculture Committee that he would be "very reluctant" to use a food embargo against foreign countries as a tool of diplomacy.

Hearings on Reagan's nomination of Alexander Haig to be secretary of state, his touchiest appointment, are to begin Friday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Some Democrats have said they want to examine Haig's role as former President Richard M. Nixon's chief of staff during the days before Nixon was forced from office because of the Watergate scandal of the early 1970s.

But Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, a respected Democratic member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, called Monday for Haig's confirmation.

"For those who are insatiably curious about the Nixon era and Watergate, there are plenty of books they can buy," Nunn said.

Reagan sought 'low key' reception in El Paso

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Local Republican leaders did some last-minute scrambling after President-elect Ronald Reagan decided he wanted to see a crowd on hand for his reception at the airport here.

Initially, Reagan had wanted the arrival to be "low key," but changed his mind two days beforehand.

"At first, they didn't want anybody at the airport at all," said El Paso County GOP Chairman Ralph Scoggins. "Then Saturday afternoon, they changed their minds."

Scoggins was able to hire a mariachi band and spread the word so that about 250 citizens showed up at the airport for the Monday morning arrival of Reagan, who then went by car across the international border to Juarez for a meeting with the president of Mexico.

Scoggins said the brightly costumed mariachi musicians were hired after some of Reagan's advance men heard the folk music Saturday night and suggested the band be at the airport for the arrival.

A reception line of 21 persons including Texas Gov. Bill Clements was hastily assembled as Reagan stepped down from his jet.

In another last-minute turnaround, U.S. Ambassador to Mexico Julian Nava almost was left out of the meeting between Reagan and Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo. Nava was at the El Paso airport an hour before Reagan's arrival Monday, but he was not wearing an official identification badge when the presidential parties arrived at the Art and History Museum in Juarez, Mexico.

A small group of national pool news reporters and the entourage of both leaders entered the museum, but guards kept Nava out by mistake.

Officers push investigation in Big Spring oil sales swindle

By JAMES WERRELL

Agents who broke a suspected local oil scam are "tying up loose ends," this morning, said Texas Ranger Eddie Almond, who coordinated the investigation.

"We anticipate another arrest in the future, but can't say for sure when at this point," said Almond.

A team of area law enforcement agents arrested John Theford Sims, 67, Odessa, Monday morning on charges of stealing crude oil. His bond was set at $20,000 by Justice of the Peace Bob West, and made by the local law firm of Brown and Brown.

Sims, who is a pumper for the Jaco Oil Company of Midland, is suspected of being involved in an elaborate scheme to receive payment from Cosden Oil and Chemical Company for oil that Jaco may never have delivered.

The scam is thought to have taken place at the W.B. Currie Lease, just east of Big Spring. A plan had initially been in effect to run a 48-hour test of the oil units on the site, but that plan was abandoned when officials discovered that a pulling unit was being used on two of the three rigs.

The pulling unit, said a representative of the Texas Railroad Commission, indicated that the wells were being "worked over," and that a production test would have been meaningless. This does not rule out the possibility of such a test in the future, he added.

A production test would allow authorities to gauge just how much oil the three rigs are capable of producing. These figures would then be compared to those of oil sales to Cosden.

Three girls re-enter all-white school accompanied by judge

BUCKEYE, La. (AP) — A state judge showed up at all-white Buckeye High School today, accompanying three white girls who entered classes for the second day in defiance of a federal judge who wants them bused to an integrated school.

State District Judge Richard Lee was carrying a court order and accompanied by a constable. On Monday, he had ordered state troopers to escort the girls to class, but U.S. District Judge Nauman Scott later ordered the troopers to stay out of the case.

The girls entered the school without saying anything to the two dozen reporters clustered at the entrance. When the school bell rang, they went to class, accompanied by the constable, Newton J. Paul Jr.

Principal Charles Waites, appearing tense, told reporters that the federal judge's order apparently had not been served on the constable because marshals could not find him Monday.

Waites said he would not disobey the state order to let the girls attend class. Lee personally accompanied the girls to the guidance office before classes, in apparent defiance of Scott's order.

Scott's order said all state officials should stop interfering with his desegregation plan drawn up in August for public schools in Rapides Parish. Since Lee is an elected state judge, he presumably was covered by the order.

The girls and their parents want them to go to Buckeye, near their homes, and went to Scott's court to transfer custody to friends living in that attendance zone.

The girls and their parents insist the issue is busing — not race.

Draft registration completed here by 30 males born in 1962

Thirty young men registered Monday for the non-existent draft at the local post office, said Nile Cole, window technician.

Men born in 1962 must register this week. Cole said that registration is being conducted at the service counter inside the post office. At the service counter, men will be handed a blank registration form, and a brochure explaining the need for registration. The whole process takes "about three to five minutes," Cole said.

All forms are mailed at the end of each day to the Selective Service Bureau, he added. Any clerk at the service counter is available to help men in filling out their forms.

The post office service counter is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Following the week-long registration, males will be required to register within 30 days after they reach age 18. Registration was resumed last summer, five years after the draft was ended following the protests of the Vietnam era.

Registration is currently under fire, and may face challenges from the White House and the Supreme Court.

AWARD FOR BRAVERY — Joe Hernandez, 710 N.W. 8th, (right) receives a special award from Councilman Jack Y. Smith, while Patrolman Barry Smith looks on, Monday morning. On Dec. 15, Hernandez witnessed a hit-and-run accident which took place in front of his home. Officer Ira Harrison was able to subdue two of the passengers in the hit-and-run vehicle, but the driver eluded him and fled on foot. Hernandez chased the suspect, threw him to the ground and held him until officers could make an arrest. The young hero was cited for showing "a great deal of courage and public pride in his assistance to the Big Spring Police Department."

Big Spring construction records plunge in 1980

Total construction during 1980 dropped by over $2.7 million compared to figures for the previous year.

Construction in 1980 totaled $4,929,301, compared to $7,650,120.50 for 1979. The downward spiral was reflected in the total for December, which came to only $145,412, compared to $445,630 for December of 1979.

That makes December the second slowest month for construction during the year, edged only by February during which only $123,799 worth of construction was tallied.

January was the most active month for builders with $1,291,465 in total construction costs.

The largest project during December was the construction of a new sign at Howard College. Estimated cost was $64,000.

Plainsmen Homes will build a new home at 3209 Duke at a cost of $36,240. Leland Pierce will construct a new commercial facility at 1606 East FM 700 at a cost of $23,700. These were the only three projects to top $10,000 during the month.

Action/reaction: Midwife woes

Q. What do you do when a midwife doesn't fill out a birth certificate for your baby, and won't do it. The baby is four months old.

A. Margaret Ray, county clerk, advises that birth certificates should be filled out within five days of birth. Midwives are supposed to be registered with the county clerks office, and are supposed to fill out birth certificates within the proper amount of time. Failure to do so may result in a Class C misdemeanor. Mrs. Ray said that charges would have to be filed by the Bureau of Vital Statistics, and advised that anyone having trouble with a midwife should contact her office first.

Khomeini may like guarantees

KUWAIT (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's health has deteriorated recently and Iranian authorities are considering sending him to France or Switzerland for treatment, a Kuwait newspaper said today.

The paper, Al Anbaa, quoted travellers from Tehran as saying Khomeini's son Ahmed left for Europe to arrange for his father's hospitalization.

However, Tehran Radio said Ahmed attended a cabinet meeting in Tehran today that his father presided over. Both the French and Swiss Foreign Ministries said they knew of no plans for a visit by Khomeini.

The 80-year-old leader of the Iranian revolution suffered a heart attack a year ago but reportedly recovered after a brief hospitalization.

Al Anbaa said Khomeini's health has been a major factor in the mounting friction between the hardline clergy of Iran's Islamic Republican Party and the more moderate followers of President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

Chapman pleads innocent

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark David Chapman pleaded innocent today to charges that he shot and killed former Beatle John Lennon. The suspect's lawyer said he would mount an insanity defense.

Chapman, 25, stood motionless, his hands at his side, and ringed by armed court officers, as he entered his plea during a brief appearance in Manhattan Supreme Court before Justice Herbert Altman. Tight security was in effect throughout the courthouse.

The only words he spoke were, "Not guilty," in response to the court clerk's query on how he pleaded to an indictment charging murder in the second degree, the most severe charge possible under current New York law and punishable by a maximum of 25 years to life in prison. A charge of first-degree murder is only used in the killing of a police officer.

Chapman was ordered to return to court Feb. 25, and Altman said he would set a trial date then.

The judge appointed two psychiatrists, Daniel Schwartz and Bernard Diamond, and psychologist Milton Kline to examine Chapman.

Defense lawyer Jonathan Marks said outside court that he would present an insanity defense. "That's clearly the issue," he said in response to a question.

Marks said he has "an excellent relationship" with his client, but he declined to comment on any specifics.

Lennon was gunned down Dec. 8 outside the Dakota apartment building where he lived with his wife, Yoko Ono, and their son, Sean, on Manhattan's West Side. Chapman was arrested at the scene.

Three-year-old shoots self

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 3-year-old boy fatally shot himself with a revolver his mother kept under her pillow to fend off potential burglars, police said.

Henry Lawson Jr. died Sunday morning after he shot himself in the jaw while playing with a .38-caliber revolver, police said.

The boy's mother, Pasadena Brandon, sought help from her landlord, who in turn summoned paramedics. The child was pronounced dead at the scene.

Four million veterans to share in dividend

Nearly four million veterans who have kept their GI life insurance policies in force will share in a record $619.7 million dividend during 1981. Administrator of Veterans Affairs Max Cleland announced today.

Because of higher interest rates earned by insurance funds, the amount to be paid to policy holders during 1981 is $53 million above the 1980 figure.

In Texas, 197,061 insureds will receive $31,788,000.

No application is needed, Cleland stressed. Dividends will be paid automatically during 1981 on the anniversary date of the in-

Polish farmers take building near border

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — About 70 farmers have taken over a government building in a town less than 10 miles from the Soviet border to demand an investigation into alleged official corruption, sources reported today.

The sources said the protest began a few days ago in the small town of Ustryki Dolne in the southeastern corner of Poland. They said a delegation of farmers from nearby Rzeszow today joined those occupying the building.

According to the sources, the farmers have demanded that government inspectors be sent to investigate the farmers' charges that "they are cheated there by everybody."

The sources did not elaborate on the alleged cheating, but it may involve prices the government pays farmers for their produce or availability of tractors, fertilizer and building materials.

The government and Poland's private farmers, who produce three-fourths of the nation's food, have been at odds recently over some of the farmers' intention to form an independent labor union.

Reagan meets with Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh from a "wonderful" meeting with the president of Mexico, Ronald Reagan is sitting down for a talk with the former general whose nomination to be secretary of state could prompt the incoming president's first test on Capitol Hill.

In addition to the hour-long meeting with Alexander M. Haig Jr., the president-elect planned to meet later today with former Sen. Richard Schweiker, picked to head the Department of Health and Human Services.

Before today, Haig and Reagan had not met since the Republican convention last summer.

Reagan is meeting later in the week with other Cabinet nominees and, with just two weeks before Inauguration Day, still has two Cabinet-level posts to fill.

A Reagan source who asked not to be identified said those two jobs — education secretary and special trade representative — probably will be decided before Reagan returns to California on Thursday.

Several persons have turned down invitations to head the Education Department, which Reagan hopes to abolish eventually.

The incoming president arrived in Washington Monday night on his third visit to the capital since his election.

'Hiding place' saves $1,000

It was bad for Jess Shumate, Southland Apartments, but not as bad as it could have been.

Sometime early this morning, a thief lifted Shumate's wallet from the living room of his apartment. The wallet had contained $1,400 in cash, $1,000 of which was tucked away under a flap inside the wallet.

As luck would have it, the wallet was discovered by a local cab driver lying on the back seat of his cab. The thief had discovered only $400 of the cash, and had dumped the wallet with the hidden $1,000 in the cab.

Burglars kicked in the front door of the apartment of Cindy Correa, 1513-B Wood, early Monday morning. Once inside, the intruders broke out six windows panes, demolished a rocking chair and stole a stereo system. Loss including damage was estimated at $395.

While Linda McGlothlin, Sterling City Route, was waiting on a customer at Church's Fried Chicken Restaurant, 3:25 p.m. Monday, someone stole her wallet she had left on a table. The wallet had contained $109.

One mishap was reported Monday. Vehicles driven by Ruth Puga, 501 E. 18th, and Gayla Henderson, 1611 Jennings, collided at 18th and Goliad, 4:10 p.m.

Jarvis to aid Texas tax group

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A state tax relief organization is getting help — a lot of it — from Howard Jarvis, who led the campaign that resulted in California's tax-cutting Proposition 13.

Texas 13 announced Monday that Jarvis will make an 18-city tour of Texas, beginning in El Paso today and ending next Monday with a rally in Austin, the day before the Legislature convenes.

Former Attorney General Waggoner Carr, president of Texas 13, said his organization's legislative program includes a push for initiative and referendum, which Californians used to reduce their local property taxes in 1978.

The Texas Research League says Texas' state and local tax burden is the lowest in the nation, at 8.53 percent of total income.

In addition to Jarvis' appearance in El Paso, he will go to Lubbock and Midland on Wednesday; Odessa, Abilene and Fort Worth on Thursday; Tyler, Waco and Dallas on Friday; Lufkin, Beaumont, Galveston and Houston on Saturday; Victoria and McAllen on Sunday; and Harlingen, San Antonio and Austin on Monday, Jan. 12.

Carr said Texas 13 was not named for Proposition 13 but for the original 13 colonies "which fought against unjust and burdensome taxation."

He said his organization is a coalition of 28 local groups with about 55,000 members.

Texas 13's legislative program for the 1981 session includes:

—No new state taxes for another two years. Texas has not had a state tax increase since 1972.

—Return of the treasury surplus to taxpayers.

—Reduction of the number of state employees.

—A constitutional amendment requiring a two-thirds vote in each house to raise taxes.

United Way trustees to elect new officers

The Big Spring-Howard County United Way Board of Trustees will elect new officers for the 1981-82 campaign year at its annual meeting beginning at 5:15 p.m., Thursday in the Tumbleweed Room of the Howard College Student Union Building.

The election will be conducted by Board members from names submitted by the nominating committee and any nominations from the floor, said Sherrie Bordofsky, executive director of the Big Spring United Way.

The nominating committee is made up of Johnnie Lou Avery, chairperson; Dub Moore, Drew Mouton, Earl Archer and Dana Moore.

The Board will also vote on the alternatives for allocations of United Way funds. Recommendations for alternative ways of allocating United Way funds were formulated from information provided by the Central Office of the United Way. These alternatives were then sent to each Board member to study before the meeting Thursday.

Currently, the Big Spring United Way by-laws state that "In the event of non-receipt of sufficient funds, all funds received shall be distributed on a proportionate share basis as determined by the ratio of each organization's net agreed goal to the total received. Any surplus accruing may be decided in the same manner among the Agencies or be retained for emergencies which might arise, the determination thereof to be made by the Board of Trustees or Executive Committee."

The Alternative proposals for possible amendment to the by-laws are: (1) Leave as presently stated in the by-laws in Article IV, Section 3 (b), which in essence is percentage cuts across the board. (2) Hold pre-budget hearings to determine funding quotas and then if quota is not met, hold post budget hearings and re-allocate according to Board approved criteria and according to re-appraisal of individual agency and as to the agency needs as determined by the allocation committee. Each Agency would appear at both budget hearings to justify requests. (3) Hold no pre-budget hearings but set community United Way quotas, and following the campaign, request prospective agencies to appear and decide on allocations based on: amount of money in hand, and which agencies are approved to receive funds. This requires re-evaluation of individual agencies and their budgets each year.

(3) Hold no pre-budget hearings but set community United Way quotas, and following the campaign, request prospective agencies to appear and decide on allocations based on: amount of money in hand, and which agencies are approved to receive funds. This requires re-evaluation of individual agencies and their budgets each year.

The election will be conducted by Board members from names submitted by the nominating committee and any nominations from the floor, said Sherrie Bordofsky, executive director of the Big Spring United Way.

The nominating committee is made up of Johnnie Lou Avery, chairperson; Dub Moore, Drew Mouton, Earl Archer and Dana Moore.

The Board will also vote on the alternatives for allocations of United Way funds. Recommendations for alternative ways of allocating United Way funds were formulated from information provided by the Central Office of the United Way. These alternatives were then sent to each Board member to study before the meeting Thursday.

Currently, the Big Spring United Way by-laws state that "In the event of non-receipt of sufficient funds, all funds received shall be distributed on a proportionate share basis as determined by the ratio of each organization's net agreed goal to the total received. Any surplus accruing may be decided in the same manner among the Agencies or be retained for emergencies which might arise, the determination

The Alternative proposals for possible amendment to the by-laws are: (1) Leave as presently stated in the by-laws in Article IV, Section 3 (b), which in essence is percentage cuts across the board. (2) Hold pre-budget hearings to determine funding quotas and then if quota is not met, hold post budget hearings and re-allocate according to Board approved criteria and according to re-appraisal of individual agency and as to the agency needs as determined by the allocation committee. Each Agency would appear at both budget hearings to justify requests. ARREST RIPPER SUSPECT — Police Constable Robert Hydes, left, and Sergeant Robert Ring arrested truck driver Peter Sutcliffe, a suspect in the infamous Yorkshire Ripper series of slayings in northern England. The two officers were photographed in Sheffield, Eng. Sunday night.

Police holding 'Yorkshire Ripper' suspect in protective custody

LEEDS, England (AP) — Police guarded the wife of truck driver Peter Sutcliffe at a secret hideaway today, protecting her from the mob that howled "Kill him!" when her husband was indicted for the last of the 13 Yorkshire Ripper killings.

Police officials said 30-year-old, Czech-born Sonia Sutcliffe was put in protective custody after more than 1,000 men, women and children screamed curses and obscenities at her husband when he made a brief appearance Monday in the magistrates' court in the nearby mill town of Dewsbury.

Mrs. Sutcliffe and her gray-haired father also came in for a barrage of abuse when they arrived at the court escorted by detectives. Police sources said she had been questioned as a material witness, but they did not expect any charges would be filed against her.

The police were careful not to formally identify the 35-year-old Sutcliffe as the Yorkshire Ripper, the mass murderer blamed for the savage slaying of 13 women in northern England in the last five years. But a general relaxation of fear and tension in the Yorkshire and Lancashire cities the killer terrorized indicated the public believed the biggest manhunt in British police history was over.

"Almost like the old days," said the manager of a tavern in the red light area of Leeds. "We've not seen so many girls about for ages."

"It's incredible how the atmosphere has changed," said a streetwalker in Manchester's sleazy Moss Side quarter. "I don't have to keep looking over my shoulder all the time."

Rain in forecast for southern Texas

By the Associated Press
Rain was in the forecast today for the Pacific Northwest and southern Texas, changing to freezing rain or snow over the Tennessee and Ohio Valleys. Snow was expected over the Great Lakes, the mid-Atlantic states and northern New England.

A cold snap continued to grip the Eastern Seaboard, and at least seven deaths have been blamed on the frigid temperatures.

Some 10,000 residents of Toms River, N.J., were without electricity early today after a Jersey Central Power & Light Co. transformer failed. Police cruised through the shore community during the night as temperatures dropped to 12 degrees, using loudspeakers to wake residents and urge them to leave for warm buildings.

The Yorkshire Ripper had eluded police since 1975 and had become a public bogeyman in northern England. Nine of his victims were prostitutes, and this together with the mutilation he inflicted on them resulted in his being nicknamed after Jack the Ripper, the killer in 1888 of six prostitutes in London's East End, who was never caught.

Police sources said he may be charged later with some of the other 12 killings. But prosecutor Maurice Shaffner said there was a lot of work still to be done.

Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-New Mexico, chairman of Senate Science, Technology and Space Subcommittee, talked with President-elect Reagan two weeks ago about the space program.

The talks were "encouraging . . . We have a president who is very interested in space and the role of technology in the world," he said.

Schmitt, who was an astronaut aboard Apollo 17, added "Reagan has an opportunity to state a purpose for U.S. activities in space, something we haven't had since Jack Kennedy in 1960."

Winn acknowledges that revitalizing the space program will not be as easy as it was in 1961 when Kennedy declared that men would walk on the moon.

"We had a challenge then and we all grabbed for it," Winn said about the moon program that between 1961 and 1975 cost $25 billion.

In fact how much money Reagan is willing to commit to space development remains the crucial question. NASA budget analysts in Washington are not counting their chickens until they hatch.

"It's unclear right now what Reagan will do," said Don Kelley, a financial expert for NASA. "Right now we're planning to submit the same budget we drew up for Carter."

"When Carter came in he gave us $25 million more than the year before and we were happy to get it," Kelley said.

The approved 1981 budget allocates NASA $4.3 billion for research and development, 115 million for construction and 1.1 billion for administration and program management.

Kelley said the shuttle, which once launched will act as an outer space base for tests, will cost $1.9 billion in 1980 and is expected to cost the same in 1981.

U.S. space program expected to make comeback this year

WASHINGTON — The U.S. space program, which had taken a backseat to pressing national economic problems in recent years, may make a comeback in 1981.

The space shuttle, hounded in the past by construction problems and bad press, is back on the front pages this week with the announcement that a spring launch is scheduled.

And congressional leaders say they have indications President-elect Reagan may promote a push for U.S. superiority in space exploration.

Rep. Larry Winn, R-Kansas, the ranking minority member on the House Science and Technology Committee, said this week Reagan will probably declare in his inaugural speech next month that the U.S. will "remain number one" in space.

The U.S. space age hit its peak July 20, 1969 when millions around the world watched Ohio native Neil Armstrong step on the Moon.

Public interest in space exploration, however, dipped in the 1970's when many leaders questioned "spending billions on rockets while people go hungry," Winn said.

Winn, who also is a member of Reagan's transition team at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), said there seems to be renewed curiosity in space at least partly piqued by the public fascination last month with the Voyager I trek to Saturn.

Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-New Mexico, chairman of Senate Science, Technology and Space Subcommittee, talked with President-elect

Reagan two weeks ago about the space program.

The talks were "encouraging . . . We have a president who is very interested in space and the role of technology in the world," he said.

"It's wait and see," Kelley said.

Reagan has not recently made any public statements on space exploration. A Reagan press spokesman said this week the president-elect "does support the space program" but would not elaborate. Reagan was a booster of space exploration when he was governor of California.

Government scientists claim the U.S. has fallen behind the Soviet Union in space technology and development. The Soviets now spend 2 to 3 percent of their gross national income on space, about twice the U.S. outlay during the Moon race in the 1960's.

Moreover, much of the Russian space investment is earmarked for military purposes, such as surveillance, interception of communications satellites and eavesdropping.

"Let's don't kid ourselves," Winn said. "A lot of the Russian programs are military. We have to meet that. There has to be a (U.S.) space program."

Still, Reagan's top advisors have delivered conflicting signals on how the new administration plans to tackle space exploration.

...in your filter, on your bill.

The filter in your heating and cooling unit is there to collect dust and lint. But when the filter's full, the unit has to work longer to force air through. And that forces up your energy bills.

It's a good idea to check your filter once a month. A dirty filter should be cleaned if it's a permanent filter or replaced if it's a disposable. And that's an easy job . . . to overlook.

To help you remember when you checked your filter, we've included a filter checklist with your December bill. You can tape it right to your unit.

Lawyers 'on trial' in new publication

One of the most provocative of the books recently published is "Lawyers on Trial," written by Philip M. Stern. The tome is described as a "book for people who are fed up for lawyers — and for lawyers who are troubled about their own profession."

Complementing Stern's literary effort is the work of Paul T. Hasse, who propounds virtually identical queries in his role as chairman of the Help Abolish Legal Tyranny (HELP), a Washington-based public interest group that claims approximately 30,000 members across the country.

THEY ARE CERTAINLY not the first to note that too many aspects of the conduct of the legal dodge have, if only occasionally, become a national embarrassment.

A non-contested will, signed and duly witnessed, should be a relatively simple thing for a court to accept but Americans find themselves oftentimes paying three times more in attorney's fees to probate the testaments of deceased relatives than they pay funeral directors to bury the dead.

Stern and Hasse, in efforts conducted independently of each other, have advanced the state of the art by codifying the arguments against some of the practices of a profession purportedly committed to public service.

HALT takes dead aim by saying: "Lawyers with obscure language and over-complicated procedures have woven legal webs around nearly every aspect of private, business and public life. The law has become remote, mysterious and intimidating to American citizens, even in its most routine civil applications."

The overdue overhaul of the inequitable system requires the drastic revision of countless federal, state and local laws. That would be no easy task, let it be added, because lawyers are very prominent in the makeup of legislative bodies.

THE ROAD TO REFORM would appear then to be, at best, difficult but Hasse's organization is proposing a series of relatively modest measures to bring about reform, including substitution of every day English for legal jargon in all contracts.

Stern would implement a more radical solution — establishment of a National Legal Service "placing legal help on a par with all other parts of the justice system and making it equally available to all citizens."

Each approach would appear to have its shortcomings; particularly any proposal like Stern's which would boost the amount of government involvement in the legal affairs of individuals or businesses.

No matter who's recommendations we follow, this much is for sure: Action is urgently needed to correct an increasingly difficult situation.

THE MAGAZINE STAND — Well, there it is. TIME has chosen its Man of the Year and it is the president-elect. On the cover is a drawing of Ronald Reagan in blue jeans, a denim shirt and a western belt. On the inside, the headline to the cover story reads "Out of the Past, Fresh Choices for the Future." The story on his ranch is headlined "Where the skies are not cloudy." Throughout the story there are Norman Rockwell-like drawings of Reagan on a horse, riding down from the mountain to slay the wild beast.

Poor Ronald Reagan. The media has already begun sucking him dry. The stomach pumps are ready to go to work, after a brief pumping session with everyone who knew John Lennon. No stone will be unturned. Monday CNN had the scoop of the year; they interviewed the man who owns the company that makes Ronald Reagan's jelly beans.

AH, BUT BACK TO TIME. I don't disagree with the things the article seems to be saying, but it is a perfect example of the media's tendency to create myths that they can later destroy. Ronald Reagan is not the Lone Ranger. He is going to make mistakes, probably one or two that will hurt the country. One of the reasons that Jimmy Carter ended up in a bloody heap at the end of his term was that in the beginning the media built him up to be something that he wasn't.

One of the problems with the mass media is that they allow people to have hard opinions of people that they have never met, that they have never been within 1,000 miles of. Have you ever heard a conservative talk about Ted Kennedy, or a liberal talk about William F. Buckley? Whew! The media provides a single picture of a man, no matter how hard they try to present a full person. The public gets a human being sifted through some one else's eyes.

FROM WHAT I KNOW OF HIM, I like Ronald Reagan. In interviews he comes across as being kind and thoughtful, and I think his leadership will be good for the country. There are people who seem to have an adolescent crush on the man. For them he is the embodiment of some Hollywood-created fantasy of the American Male. TIME Magazine wrote for those people. There's nothing wrong with that I suppose, but for a national newsmagazine that prides itself in giving intelligent information it's shameful. Let People Magazine do the celebrity profiles. A President should not be treated like a Hollywood celebrity.

I THINK REAGAN is a good man, but he is about to start a job where good intentions mean little and results mean everything. He knows that there will be things that he cannot accomplish the way he wants to. At that time, I'm sure TIME and everyone else will enjoy telling us about his tumble from the horse.

Link with Mob

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — When the Teamsters Union's executive board met last Oct. 8 at the La Costa Country Club on the California coast to discuss politics, Jackie Presser had a candidate in mind for president of the United States.

The pressed, pomaded secretary-treasurer of Ohio Teamsters Local 507 knew that 14 of his 20 fellow union vice presidents preferred not to make a choice between Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan.

Presser, nevertheless, delivered an impassioned 20-minute speech in favor of Reagan. The speech was persuasive: The Teamsters' executive board voted unanimously to endorse Reagan. A Teamsters official told my associate Tony Capaccio that Presser's efforts at La Costa "were very instrumental" in swaying the board.

UNION INSIDERS say that Presser took the Reagan plunge as a way to gain national recognition and to establish himself as a candidate for Teamsters president when the union holds its national conference next June. But Presser's strategy may have backfired.

As his reward for getting the Teamsters endorsement for Reagan, the aggressive Presser was named to the new administration's labor transition team. This brought him some unwanted publicity about his reported links to organized crime.

Presser has never been so much as indicted for any crime, but his name keeps popping up in affidavits and courtroom testimony as a man with ties to the Mob. Recent New Jersey State Police files, for example, identify him as the man Cleveland mobsters had to see for approval of loans from the Teamsters Union.

Presser vehemently denies any connection with the underworld. But internal Justice Department files compiled in 1977 contain several unfavorable references to him.

One analysis describes Presser as "a well-known corrupt union leader," whose "fingers are out to pick whatever pockets he can." Another statement in the file says, with a strange mixture of hedging and denunciation, "It was alleged that his organized crime associations are a known fact."

THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT file also connects Presser to the late John Nardi, who "may well be the most powerful organized crime figure in Cleveland." It names Presser and his father, William, as Nardi's associates.

Government documents also claim that both Presser and Nardi were close to Anthony Liberatore, described as "a monument to the infiltration of organized crime in Cleveland..." (with the reputation of being a "mover" in promoting ongoing criminal activity.)

As for Teamsters Local 507, which is Presser's power base in the union, the Justice Department file notes that investigations of the local's books in 1973 and 1975 by the Labor Department "disclosed that 507 appears to be operated for the specific purpose of converting its funds to the use of this three principal officers."

Footnote: Presser told us the Justice Department files are "absolutely false, and added: "I'm surprised that a journalist of Jack Anderson's credibility would print such fiction."

Errant head-hunters

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — That J. Stanley Pottinger, an erstwhile John Anderson backer with a yen for Teddy Kennedy, has been given the top rating for a subcabinet appointment in the Reagan administration comes naturally for the president-elect's headhunters.

Pottinger is an accomplished Washington lawyer with an impressive record of government service. What he lacks is the slightest empathy for Ronald Reagan, with what Reagan stands for or with Reagan's goals for the nation.

Such subjective considerations were simply excluded by Reagan's headhunters in feeding thousands of names into the computer since Nov. 4. The operation run by E. Pendleton James, a Los Angeles-based professional headhunter who fits corporate managers into proper niches, is non-political and non-ideological.

STAN POTTINGER is a classic case. As the Nixon administration's assistant attorney general for civil rights, he fought for steady federal intervention in favor of racial minorities. That clearly is not in harmony with Reagan's intentions.

More startling is Pottinger's political record. For the 1980 presidential campaign, he contributed $1,000 to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, gave $250 to George Bush and ran, unsuccessfully, for Maryland delegate to the Republican National Convention pledged to Rep. John Anderson. The one consistency in these electoral preferences: no support for any kind, any time for Reagan.

None of this is noted on Pottinger's computer punch card in the Reagan transition office, a card which incredibly gives him No. 1 (tops of three) ratings. Still, some Reaganite ideologue might restore reality by eventually throwing away Pottinger's card. The same is not true of David Gergen.

Gergen, a Nixon-Ford administration speechwriter who now edits Public Opinion magazine for the American Enterprise Institute, is a conservative Republican but no Reaganite. As a sometime adviser to Bush's presidential campaign, he not only was stridently anti-tax cut but belittled Reagan personally. Even today, Gergen does not embrace Reagan's tax-cutting philosophy.

Yet, Gergen is set to join the White House staff as deputy to chief of staff James Baker — unless he gets something better. The something better is running the International Communications Agency (ICA, formerly the CIA). Gergen, his anti-Reagan past unnoted, is front-runner for this coveted position.

While anti-Reaganites get preference, there is back-of-the-hand treatment for longtime Reaganites such as Ohio state Sen. Donald (Buz) Lukens. In an administration filling up with officials who did not support Reagan for the nomination in 1980 or in 1976, Lukens dates his Reaganite loyalties back to that first try for president in 1968.

Lukens' desire to become chief of congressional liaison may have been reaching too high, but it was rudely and summarily rejected on grounds of inadequate experience. Whatever he may lack, former Congressman Lukens would have brought to that highly-political post personal and ideological commitment to Reagan. The same cannot be said of the man who got the job: Federal Election Commission (FEC) Chairman Max Friedersdorf, a professional Washington office-holder and former Nixon aide without ties to Reagan.

Yeast can be stubborn enemy

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter has had yeast for a year. She has been treated twice and told she would always have it. Can you help, please? — L.S.

There are situations in which vaginal yeast infection is difficult to get rid of, especially if the woman has another illness, like diabetes. But often, with persistence, even the most entrenched yeast infection will yield to therapy. The medicine used may have to be taken for longer periods of time than perhaps your daughter has in the past, well after all symptoms have disappeared. Premature discontinuation of medicine may be a factor in her chronic infection.

Your daughter must also do the usual things that lessen the likelihood of yeast growth. She should avoid occlusive (tight-fitting) underclothing, such as panty hose. They keep the genital area moist, an environment yeast like. Cotton underclothing should be worn. If one medicine has not worked well, then a switch to another one might do the trick. There are several available.

And, finally, she may have an infection with organisms other than a yeast, some of which cause very similar symptoms. It would be worthwhile for your daughter to check out the possibility of infection with trichomonas or Hemophilus vaginalis. Neither of those would respond to medicine for yeast infection. For more information on this troublesome problem, see the booklet "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." For a copy, write to me care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Donohue: Is it true that a woman with diabetes should not use birth control pills? If so, why? — Mrs. P.P.

Birth control pills are not absolutely forbidden for diabetic women. The pill may make it more difficult to control blood sugar, though. Further, diabetes, as you know, places women at a higher risk for development of blood vessel disease. The pill, too, seems to add to the risk of developing such problems. The thinking, then, is why add one risk factor to another? This is one reason why some doctors discourage use of birth control pills for their diabetic patients.

If the diabetic woman feels that the Pill is the only reasonable method of birth control for her, then the doctor watches her more carefully for either disturbance in her blood sugar or for signs of developing blood vessel disease.

If you are diabetic and want to use the Pill, you would do well to discuss this with your physician.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 17 years old and am dieting. On the diet it says to drink 10 to 12 eight-ounce glasses of water a day. Why all the water? My parents think this will damage my kidneys. How many ounces of water a day can you drink safely without taking chances of hurting your kidneys? — C.H.

Do you mean you are taking that much water in addition to other liquids, like milk, pop, juice? The normal range of liquid intake for people in temperate climates is from one to two and one-half quarts a day. That means all liquids. You are taking two and a half quarts in water alone. Don't forget, you get a lot of liquid in food.

I can think of one reason why a diet plan would suggest such a high liquid intake. In the early stages of a very restrictive diet (close to starvation), or in diets where the amounts of carbohydrates are very low, there is an increased production of urine, hence heavy liquid loss.

Two and a half quarts of water a day

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am 16 years old, and I find myself doing all sorts of things just because I want to be accepted by others. On the outside I act like everything is OK, but on the inside I am really lonely and empty. How can I conquer this? — R.W.H.

DEAR R.W.H.: I think you have put your finger on a very important problem. We often do things, not because we really want to (at least at first) but because we are hoping others will accept us and like us if we do them. It is particularly a problem for people your age, but no generation is free from it. The problem is that this kind of thing — in addition to making us do things that are wrong in God's eyes — never really brings us happiness and peace inside, as you have discovered.

This is why the Bible warns us repeatedly about being influenced by others in a bad way. For example, the book of Proverbs says, "Enter not into the path of the wicked, and go not in the way of evil men. Avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it, and pass away" (Proverbs 4:14-15).

I believe the answer to your will not damage your kidneys. But if you keep up that amount in addition to other sources of liquid, you could get into trouble. You might dilute the concentrations of minerals in your body. So it is not a good idea to keep up such a large intake of water for long periods.

What kind of a diet are you on? Are you sure it is a sensible one? I think you had better check it out. Mother seems to have some good instincts. Ask her.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My son, who is 48, had a checkup. He checked out all right, but the doctor noticed a lump on his back about the size of a quarter and he said it was a lipoma and he could take it out in his office. My son has hesitated to have it done. Please tell me if a lipoma is serious, and what is it? — B.M.C.

A lipoma is not a serious condition. It is a benign growth of fatty tissue. If one becomes bothersome because of its location it can be removed rather easily.

In response to reader requests, Dr. Donohue's publisher now has a complete listing of all the booklets on various medical problems. Readers wishing this list can write him care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for return mailing.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

When you give your life to Christ by an act of simple repentance and faith in him, several things happen to you. For one thing, you become a part of God's family. Another thing that happens is that God's Holy Spirit takes up residence in your heart, and you enter into a very real personal relationship with God. You also will begin to find other young people who belong to Christ, and you will find they can become a new circle of friends who will be far deeper and wonderful than those you are trying to find now.

Don't get into a pattern of living right now which you will only regret later in life. In Jesus Christ you can know peace with God, peace with others, and peace within yourself.

Weather helps cotton harvest

Dry, warm weather allowed area farmers to make good progress with the 1980-81 cotton harvest during the past week.

B. B. Manly reported that 31,000 cotton samples were classed at the USDA Cotton Marketing Services Office in Abilene during the week ending Jan. 2, which brought the seasonal total to 119,000 samples classed.

An additional 7500 samples were classed at Munday, TX; which brought the seasonal total to 19,000 samples classed at that office. The combined total of 138,000 compares to 773,000 samples classed at the two offices by this time last season.

Local cotton prices fluctuated slightly during the past week, and closed steady to 1/2 cent per pound lower for the week. Staple 31 or longer cotton sold at mostly 35 to 37 cents per pound over CCC loan values. Staple 30 or shorter cotton sold at mostly 30 to 34 cents per pound over the loan. Mixed quality lots sold at mostly 69 to 78 cents per pound. The supply was moderate. Demand was moderate to good, and trading was mostly slow.

Cottonseed prices paid producers ranged from $110 to $125 per ton.

The quality of cotton classed in Abilene continued lower than usual this season, with grades being very low for the peak harvest period.

Grades were 1 percent white, 36 percent light-spotted, 61 percent spotted, and about 2 percent tinged. Grade 53 comprised 33 percent, grade 52 comprised 22 percent, grade 43 comprised 21 percent and grade 42 comprised about 11 percent. About 9 percent of the cotton classed was below grade. Fiber length was 38 percent staple 31, 32 percent staple 32, 16 percent staple 30, and 9 percent staple 33; with the average length being 31.3. Micronaire readings were 91 percent within the 35 to 49 range. About 7 percent were low mike, and 2 percent were high; with the average mike being 41. About 45 percent of the cotton classed in Abilene was reduced in grade because of bark or grass content.

The quality of cotton classed at the Munday Cotton Marketing Services Office was slightly higher than during the previous week. Grade 42 was the predominant grade at 40 percent. Grade 52 comprised 33 percent, and grade 43 comprised 15 percent of the cotton classed. Fiber length was 46 percent staple 32, 33 percent staple 31, and 17 percent staple 33. Micronaire readings were 87 percent within the 35 to 49 range. About 20 percent of the cotton classed was reduced in grade because of bark or grass.

Psychiatric tests ordered for sons of slain mother

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A 38-year-old Amarillo man — charged but released last month in the murder of his wife — has agreed to leave his two small sons in the custody of child welfare officials for three months while they undergo psychiatric evaluation.

"We've got them for another 90 days," Potter County Attorney John Tull said Monday, referring to Monty Baker, 7, and his brother David, 5, who were taken from Floyd Baker, 38, on Dec. 5, when the charges were filed against him.

Baker was ordered released from jail on Dec. 16, however, on grounds of insufficient evidence.

A hearing on Baker's petition to regain custody of his children was scheduled Monday in county court-at-law, but an agreement was reached out of court to allow child welfare officials to keep them pending psychiatric examinations.

Three local youths nominated to U.S. Service Academies

Rep. Charles W. Stenholm, D-Texas, has announced the names of three Big Spring youth included in a slate of nominees to the United States Service Academies.

Gaining nomination to the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., were Deborah Shroyer, 2910 Goliad, and Brent Alan Raney, Sterling City Route. Nicholas J. Brown, P.O. Box

3, received a nomination to the Military Academy in West Point, New York.

The Academies will now examine and appraise the nominees and select a Principal for admission, with Qualified Alternates. Alternates may be given further consideration, depending upon available vacancies.

Physical fitness, stress release program offered

The "Y" is offering a Physical Fitness and Stress release program involving the scientific technique of Hatha YOGA. Body awareness is one of the key focuses of the Yogic exercises that are taught in this class. By keeping your body awareness you are able to enhance your abilities to work with tight muscles, stiff, rigid joints and tension buildups throughout the body.

The actual physical exertion used in the technique of YOGA is a series of stretching, twisting and bending in a variety of movements that effects virtually every part of your body. What is unique about Yogic exercise is that the movement is performed with emphasis placed on self-awareness. This important factor allows you to begin to work with your own limitations and abilities. In addition, the benefits that can be derived from both the physical movement and the consciously controlled breathing, that will be taught in this program, are extensive.

A new, six-week, twelve class session will begin at the Big Spring YMCA today, at 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. It is open to both men and women of all ages. Fees are $15 for "Y" members and $25 for non-members. If you would like to attend and decide that you do not wish to join, the first class will be free of charge.

W-2 forms should be received by Feb. 2, according to IRS

Employees who have not received their Wage and Tax Statements (Form W-2) from their employers must still file their tax returns by April 15, the Internal Revenue Service advises.

To avoid delays in receiving the W-2, employees should furnish their employers with a current address, the IRS says. If employees do not receive the statement by Feb. 2, they should first contact their employer. After Feb. 15, 1981, the employee should ask for help by calling the IRS toll-free number listed in the telephone directory.

The IRS reminds taxpayers that they must have a W-2 form from every employer they worked for during the year. Even if an employee is unable to get a W-2 before the filing deadline of April 15, a timely return must be filed. Report all income and attach a statement explaining the tax computations for the missing wage and tax information, the IRS says.

Rising death rate among the young

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Teens: While reading a local newspaper, my eyes were drawn to an article from the New York Times News Service about the death rate for North Americans.

The death rate among adolescents and young adults is rising sharply at a time when improved health care has steadily reduced mortality among all other North Americans.

Dr. Julius Richmond attributed the rising death rate among young people to alcohol, drug abuse and mental problems. The chief causes of death among young people in the 15 to 24 age group were motor vehicle accidents, other kinds of accidents, suicide and murder. For black youths, murder was by far the main cause of death, while white youths were more likely to die in automobile accidents.

Many of these deaths, said Richmond, were linked to alcohol and drug use and were therefore very difficult for medical authorities to deal with.

This is shocking data but hopefully these words to the wise will help turn this trend around for the better.

When I was 9 years old my stepfather first molested me. This went on for four long years. I was very shy and afraid so I didn't tell anyone about it.

When I was 12, out of desperation I turned to pot and booze but soon I was taking anything that I could lay my hands on. When I was 15 I overdosed on pills. I tried to stop taking them but I couldn't. Later I was at my sister's house and overdosed again.

During my high I actually saw myself dead. I wanted to stop again but I couldn't. Finally I found the answer.

After searching for love, happiness and peace of mind for eight long, long years, I found God. He didn't care what I had done. He forgave me and shows me every day that he loves me.

Teens, take it from an ex-stoner. You can change your ways. Look to God. He is not hard to find. — Gigi, Fremont, Calif.

Gigi: Thanks for sharing your wonderful story with us. Your letter will touch more than just teens.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, Copy News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Abby

Half-Brother Deserved His Half-Welcome

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband's half brother, from whom he had not heard in 33 years, appeared at our door with his wife. They had driven from California, arriving at our place in Ohio just as we were finishing our dinner. We were hurrying to get to a meeting so we didn't offer to feed them. It was very awkward.

My husband asked them where they were staying, and they said, "Nowhere." I'm sure they were planning to stay with us, but I was expecting my parents from out of town in a few days, and we have only one guest room, so I didn't offer. However, I did invite them to come back the following evening for dinner.

Now my husband says blood is thicker than water — that we should have asked them to stay with us until my parents arrived. I think we did enough asking them for dinner. Please settle this argument.

MRS. VERSUS MR.

DEAR MRS.: If these long-lost relatives knew where to find you, they could (and should) have written or called to let you know they were coming. Blood may be thicker than water, but after 33 years in California it might have thinned out a little. I vote with you.

DEAR ABBY: I must respond to your letter from IN LOVE IN JERSEY, the woman who was in love with a homosexual. Your advice to "do yourself (and him) a favor and give up" probably cost them both a valuable friendship. Gay men make marvelous friends. They are warm, sincere, understanding and will do anything for a friend. Maybe she wasn't so much in love with him as she valued his friendship.

My best friend is gay (I am a woman), and we think the world of each other. Friends are hard to come by, and it shouldn't matter whether they are male, female or gay. LOVES A GAY IN PORTLAND

DEAR LOVES: IN LOVE IN JERSEY didn't just "love" a gay; she was in love with him, and wanted him to marry her. She asked if I thought he could change his sexual preference.

I told her his chances for changing were zilch and advised her to give up. Granted, gays make wonderful friends, but they are not for marrying.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

The annual achievement awards women who have made it to top

These days it's not hard to find women who excel in their careers. Yet, there is a small select group of outstanding achievers, reports Harper's Bazaar in the August issue, who seem to have cornered the market in accolades. One of the choices of the magazine's panel of editors has already won a prize that makes us all feel we're part of the winner's circle. Seven in all, here are Bazaar's 1980 top achievers:

CAROL BELLAMY: As president of the New York City Council, Carol Bellamy keeps her eye on the spending policies and budgets of the city, and she finds facing the "double challenge of saving money and advancing the social system" in the 1980's "immensely exciting." Dedicated and ambitious, she's had to make personal sacrifices in pursuing her public career, but she says "nobody forced me to — no one is twisting my arm. What I am is the choice I have made."

SARAH CALDWELL: She began her remarkable career as a math and musical prodigy — now she's the premier woman conductor in America. Sarah Caldwell always believed she'd have a concert violin career until she discovered opera, which for her combines "a remarkable variety of the things I love best: music, theatre and singing." Based in Boston, she has received much critical acclaim for her work and "believes new and great works will be composed, and is eager to make operatic films... done her way."

SHIRLEY HUFSTEDLER: Shirley Hufstедler's impeccable legal credentials and 12 years' experience on the bench for the Ninth Circuit of the U.S. Court of Appeals, make her a prime speculative candidate to be the first woman justice on the Supreme Court. Meantime she has her hands full as Secretary of the newly formed Department of Education where she'll put her efficiency, effectiveness and compassion to good use. She has succeeded where few women so far have because, as she notes, "I was never afraid of ideas and independent action."

JANE BRYANT QUINN: Her columns appear in Newsweek, Woman's Day, and are syndicated by the Washington Post, and Jane Bryant Quinn's output is prodigious. She started to write about money because she likes to do it and had a knack for it, but she claims she's not an economist — it's all logic and common sense. She is primarily interested in "teaching people that managing incomes and understanding monetary forces in our society are not beyond their grasp."

SUE SIMMONS: Anchoring the news broadcasts on Channel 4, NBC's flagship station in New York City is Sue Simmons, who spent ten years as a secretary and then decided to get into broadcasting jobs in several cities. Now back in her native New York, she attributes her on-the-air professionalism and TV journalist success to "a combination of common sense and the right training" — training received in a neighborhood where "you had to look over your shoulder," and where "when people talk, you have to listen because your survival may depend on it."

TWYLA THARP: Twyla Tharp's choreography, whether set to the music of Cole Porter, Jelly Roll Morton, the Beach Boys, or

Scott Joplin, has been original, exuberant, and totally American. Heading up (and dancing with) her own 16-member company, she is intensely disciplined and dedicated enough to survive several years without much encouragement or financial help. She has since been amply rewarded with grants and prizes, but she is proudest of her "ability to simply keep going — to produce works I am pleased with at the time and then begin on others which I hope will be a little richer and more mature than what went before."

GENUINE RISK: The first of her sex to win the Kentucky Derby since 1915, the great filly, Genuine Risk, has a name that reminds us of what often is required of the best — a willingness to take a chance when the odds are not in your favor. Take her example: triumph at 13-to-1!

American family ain't what it used to be

The once-typical American family — a husband in the labor force, a wife at home and their children, is no longer the status quo. "A scant 15 percent of all families adhere to this traditional model," according to a current Family Circle magazine article, "The New American Families."

Today's American family is more likely to be either a single living alone, a divorced parent with one or more children, a couple who have decided not to have children, or a middle-aged couple who have raised their children, and are facing a second life-style together as an "an empty nester" family unit.

More working women (over half of all women now work), the staggering divorce rate, the declining birthrate and a longer life expectancy are among the cause: mentioned in Family Circle as changing the American Family's lifestyle.

Million dollar lawsuit

It could happen to you

A guest in your home, swimming in your pool, slips and falls on the diving board, causing a serious back injury.

You give a friend a ride on your snowmobile. You accidentally hit a rock and the vehicle overturns. Your friend loses a leg in the mishap.

While you are cutting your lawn, your mower catches a piece of metal and hurls it into the air, striking a child playing nearby. The child loses sight in one eye.

Chances are, fortunately, that you won't be witness to all three of these mishaps in your lifetime. However, any one of these, or another accident, could happen. And you could be sued, whether you are responsible or not.

Could you afford to pay the settlement? Suppose one of these cases results in a judgement against you for $1 million. Your present homeowners policy may cover a portion of it, perhaps $100,000, but if the settlement requires you to pay more, where will the rest come from? Your present assets? YOUR FUTURE WAGES?

The Allstate Insurance Company suggests you consider purchasing a personal umbrella policy, also referred to as an excess liability policy. Many inurance companies offer these policies which, in most cases, are designed to provide liability protection for most personal non-business activities. The coverage provided is over and above your underlying coverage, whether it's auto, homeowners, etc. It can provide you with coverage of up to $1 million or more, depending on the company and your present amount of liability insurance. So, essentially, your personal umbrella policy works with your present insurance to provide greater liability protection.

Policies vary by insurance company, but most personal umbrella policies should offer coverage for both you and your family for most personal injury and property damage liability losses. Also, many of these policies cover you anywhere in the world you may travel.

Allstate suggests you review your present coverages. Check your present policy or call your agent to be sure you are adequately covered. If you are not, ask about excess liability coverage. It's usually inexpensive and having it may give you peace of mind just knowing that you are covered in case a million dollar lawsuit occurs.

Local basketball fans to receive national juco treat in ABC Classic

The most interesting match-up nationally in the young junior college season takes place Thursday night in Big Spring's Dorothy Garrett Coliseum when the Midland College Chaparrals square off against the Westerners Texas College Westerners in the first round of the ABC Classic.

The contest, with the winner advancing to the championship round on Friday night, pits the number one ranked juco team in the nation at the present time, Midland College, against last year's NJCAA champion, Western Texas.

Midland has earned their number one ranking by reeling off 14 straight wins, while WTC has slumped somewhat this year.

That slump is in the form of an 11-3 record under first year coach Larry Dunaway, who replaced the most successful Nolan Richardson during the past year. Richardson's WTC team posted a 37-0 mark in winning the national title last year.

Named NFL Coach of the Year in narrow vote

Buffalo's Chuck Knox honored

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Knox, who guided the Buffalo Bills to their first division title since the 1966 American Football League season, was named today The Associated Press Coach of the Year in the National Football League, narrowly edging Atlanta's Leeman Bennett.

The Bills, who were 5-11 and 7-9 in Knox's first two years in Buffalo, soared to 11-5 this year and won the championship of the American Conference East for their first playoff berth since 1974. They faltered last Sunday in San Diego, losing 20-14.

Knox received 27 1/2 of the 84 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters, three from each NFL city. Bennett was a very close second with 26 1/2 votes and Sam Rutigliano of Cleveland was third with 18. The only other coach to receive more than three votes was Oakland's Tom Flores with 4.

It is the second time Knox has been selected AP Coach of the Year. He earned the honor in the 1973 season when he turned Los Angeles around from a 6-7-1 loser into a 12-2 National Conference West champion. It was the first of five consecutive division titles for the Rams, who were 5-4-15-1 under Knox during 1973-77.

When he came to Buffalo in '78, he inherited a team which had won just five of its 28 games in the preceding two seasons. Barely three months after his arrival, he traded O.J. Simpson to the San Francisco 49ers in exchange for a bunch of draft choices. The Bills' new era was under way.

"We didn't set a timetable," Knox said of the Bills' rebuilding. "We just wanted to get competitive as soon as we could."

Their offense was competitive, to say the least, thanks in part to rookie running back Joe Cribbs, who gained 1,185 yards. But it was the defense — Knox's specialty — which made them so competitive this year. Th defense which had been ranked 14th in the league in 1979 was the best in the NFL in 1980.

When the Bills' division title was secure, linebacker Shane Nelson said pointedly: "This season is no fluke."

Like the Bills, the Falcons surged to surprising prominence in 1980. Under Bennett's guidance, they won their first division championship ever, beating out the Los Angeles Rams in the National Football Conference West with a 12-4 record. And, like the Bills, Atlanta was stung in its first playoff game this year, beaten 30-27 by Dallas.

Rutigliano brought Cleveland an unexpected division championship as well as the Browns nosed out Houston for the AFC Central title with an 11-5 record. But they, too, were beaten in their first playoff game, falling 14-12 to Oakland.

No one else got to work out, so we're at no disadvantage as far as that goes.

"It comes down to the kids," the Steer mentor continued. "Unless they (the players) work out a lot on their own, they are going to get out of sync, and I think it was obvious we were in our loss to Snyder last week."

"When you're tired, you can't play defense and you can't shoot well. I think both cases applied to us in the loss to Snyder," Haller summarized.

The Steers enter the Colorado City matchup with a mark of 6-9. Haller knows that four of his starters tonight will be James Doss, Dickie Wrightsil, Bobby Earl Williams and Fletcher Johnson, but the fifth starter has not yet been decided. Both Jerald Wrightsil and Robert Rubio, who have drawn starting assignments this year, have been sick in the past week and are not at full speed.

"I really don't know that much about Colorado City right now," Haller admitted. "I wish I did, so I could get a little better idea of who to play and how much I'd like to get everybody in the game, but we'll just have to wait and see."

The varsity game tips off at 8 p.m. At 6:05 the junior varsity units of the two schools will square off.

Steers prep for 5-A-A-A-A in two games this week

It's the final week for tuning up for District 5-A-A-A-A boys basketball action for the Big Spring Steers tonight when they host Colorado City, and Coach Ed Haller is hoping that the two games his squad will play this week will serve that purpose.

"We hope these two games this week will get us back ready for district action," Haller said this morning. "I felt we were ready entering the Christmas break, but we got completely out of whack during that layoff. That new layoff the UIL put in really screwed us up, and I don't like it."

Haller is referring to a new rule that the state's schoolboy legislators put in that states that basketball teams can't work out the two days before Christmas, as well as the two days after Christmas. Since the third day after Christmas was a Sunday, it actually made it a six-day layoff for the Steers.

"But," Haller continued, "everybody's in the same boat. No one else got to work out, so we're at no disadvantage as far as that goes."

Like the Bills, the Falcons surged to surprising prominence in 1980. Under Bennett's guidance, they won their first division championship ever, beating out the Los Angeles Rams in the National Football Conference West with a 12-4 record. And, like the Bills, Atlanta was stung in its first playoff game this year, beaten 30-27 by Dallas.

Rutigliano brought Cleveland an unexpected division championship as well as the Browns nosed out Houston for the AFC Central title with an 11-5 record. But they, too, were beaten in their first playoff game, falling 14-12 to Oakland.

George Allen might return

Skins fire Pardee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Beathard, the general manager of the Washington Redskins, was to fly to the West Coast today to begin the search for a replacement for Jack Pardee, who was fired Monday as the team's head coach.

Beathard indicated he probably would look for a successor to Pardee among the ranks of assistant coaches in the National Football League, but would not rule out the possibility of a return by former coach George Allen.

Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke, who fired the 44-year-old Pardee, said nothing about a possible replacement.

Beathard said that if the choice came down to an assistant in the professional ranks or a college coach, he most likely would go with the man from the NFL.

The general manager said he did not intend to talk to Allen on this trip, but "it's not up to me to eliminate him. Mr. Cooke is going to hire the coach."

Allen coached the Redskins from 1971 until his firing at the end of the 1977 season.

According to today's editions of The Washington Post, two men are reportedly at the top of Beathard's list — John Robinson, coach at the University of Southern California, and former Oakland Raider Coach John Madden.

And, the newspaper said, a list of highly regarded NFL assistants includes Joe Gibbs, offensive coordinator for San Diego; Dan Reeves, offensive coordinator for the Dallas Cowboys; Tom Bass, defensive coordinator at Tampa Bay; Dick Coury, the Philadelphia Eagles' wide receiver coach; George Perles, the Pittsburgh Steeler's defensive coordinator; and Marty Schottenheimer, the Cleveland Browns' defensive coordinator.

A move by Cooke to Allen would be a surprise. Allen, who said Monday he had not been contacted by the Redskins, noted in an interview from his Palos Verdes, Calif., home that "with any job I took, I would have to have complete control of the football program."

Asked if he was interested in the job, Allen said "it isn't right for me to comment on anything like that at this time. It's distasteful, like talking when somebody has passed away."

Meanwhile, the Redskin players expressed surprise and what some termed shock at the news of Pardee's dismissal.

"I hate it," said Ken Houston, who was benched during much of 1980, his final season with the team. "I hate it for him. Last year he was coach of the year. This year, we didn't win as many as we should have. It wasn't his fault."

Said related to Bum's firing

Campbell makes demand; more money or trade

HOUSTON (AP) — Earl Campbell, the National Football League's three-time rushing champion, wants to renegotiate his contract with the Houston Oilers or be traded, the team's general manager says.

However, Ladd K. Herzog said Monday the Oilers will not renegotiate "under any circumstances."

"We believe Earl is being fairly compensated," Herzog said. "We renegotiated a six-year deal for him last year in good faith and expect him to honor his contract."

Campbell nor his agent, Witt Stewart, could be reached for comment.

The star running back's ultimatum is thought to be related to the New Year's Eve firing of Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips. The two men met Monday, their first meeting since Phillips was ousted by owner K.S. "Bud" Adams.

Campbell, who has won the rushing title in each of his three pro seasons, received a new contract last February worth about $3 million, including an annual salary of about $300,000.

Campbell's initial contract paid him less than $150,000 annually and was deferred over a 40-year period.

Following the renegotiation, the Oilers were involved in bitter contract disputes with tight end Mike Barber and linebacker Robert Brazile. Both were told the club had a policy against renegotiating pacts.

The former Heisman Trophy winner from Texas gained 1,450, 1,697 and 1,934 yards in his three pro seasons. He had four 200-yard games in 1980 and set an NFL record for most carries in a season with 373.

Ed Biles, named to succeed Phillips as head coach, has said he intends to run Campbell less next season and distribute the team workload.

Cowboy attitude continues amazing Dutton

DALLAS (AP) — John Dutton keeps being amazed by the team he joined 18 months ago.

"I've never seen anything like it," said the Dallas Cowboys' defensive tackle who was obtained from Baltimore for two high draft choices. "This team never loses control. They just know they can win no matter the situation."

Dutton said he still had butterflies from Sunday's 30-27 come-from-behind victory over the Atlanta Falcons in the National Conference divisional playoffs.

"The feeling on this team is hard to explain," he said. "They just never get down on themselves. Even when we were behind 24-10 we still had confidence we were going to win."

"When I joined this team, I could just sense a different feeling. I knew they were used to winning but I didn't know what was behind it. Now I know. Confidence. Confidence in your teammates. Confidence in the system. (Coach) Tom Landry is incredible."

Dutton said "At Baltimore there was never that much confidence. We always end up getting beat like Atlanta did Sunday."

He said the Cowboys were looking forward to a good boogie when they take the field Sunday in the NFC title game against the Philadelphia Eagles in Veteran's Stadium.

"It helps draw a team together when you have everybody against you," said Dutton. "We like to go to places like Atlanta where you get booed. It sort of like the Christians and the lions. Only the lions don't always win."

Dutton said "I think we'll settle down quick after the Atlanta win. The lockerroom was pretty much low key after the Falcon game. We were emotional to each other but we knew we couldn't think that was the biggest win of the year."

Cowboys forced to wear blue jerseys by Eagles

DALLAS (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles have seized upon the "great blue jersey jinx" for Sunday's National Conference title game with the Dallas Cowboys.

The Cowboys will have to wear their blue jerseys Sunday in the NFC title game in Philadelphia because the Eagles have opted to wear white.

Normally, the home team wears solid colors, such as the green the Eagles wore earlier this year in Veteran's Stadium.

Dallas always wears white at home and normally gets to wear white on the road. However, St. Louis and Los Angeles always make Dallas wear blue and now the Eagles have seized upon the idea.

The reason: Dallas is only 10-10 in the 21-year history of the team in blue jerseys.

The last time Dallas wore blue it was blasted 38-14 in Los Angeles.

Flight attendants get big surprise from happy Pokes

DALLAS (AP) — As Monica Stock left Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium with her three friends and co-workers, the Dallas Cowboys trailed the Atlanta Falcons 24-10 in Sunday's National Football League playoff game. It was the start of the fourth quarter, the time when the women always have to leave.

"Don't worry, girls. Cowboys will win by three," Miss Stock told her colleagues. "I just can't figure out where the three points will come from, is all."

In the car, all the way to Atlanta's airport, she kept trying to perk up the spirits of her glum companions, all of whom are dedicated Cowboys fans. After all, they had been the flight attendants on all the Cowboys' road-game charter flights during the season.

They reached the airplane and started putting things in order for the team's arrival. Only Ms. Stock was confident. The others — Jackie Moseley, Patty Ringness and Maria Surgeon-Root — began practicing their "better-luck-next-time" facial expressions as they started warming food, preparing liquid refreshments and rehearsing the lines they would use to commiserate with men who had just blown a chance at the Super Bowl.

None of their portable radios worked. They had no idea what was happening back at the football field.

They began wondering what they could say to console Danny White, the quarterback whose brooding had shrouded the Monday-night flight home from Los Angeles, after a 38-14 bombing, in a funeral pall.

They remembered the Braniff executive who met them at the hatch after that LA game and said, "Don't smile — no matter what you do, don't smile, don't laugh or look happy."

Then, just as the game ended, an airlines agent hustled aboard and told them the score. Cowboys by three. And what a party on the way home.

"We couldn't even serve the food," said Ms. Stock.

"Nobody slept on the way home," said Ms. Ringness. "It would have been like sleeping through a hurricane."

As retired quarterback Roger Staubach climbed aboard for the ride home, the entire team rose to its feet for an ear-splitting, unison rendition of, "Roger Whoooooo?" much to the delight of Staubach's replacement, a grinning and exuberant White.

League rules prohibit any player drinking more than two beers on a post-game flight but sources say several rather large, muscular men got what looked to be quite tipsy on that flight from Atlanta.

JOHN THOMAS SMITH

John Thomas Smith earns two more NFL distinctions

Former Big Spring Steer great John Thomas Smith has been named to a couple of the highest honors in the NFL in a pair of postseason awards during the past week.

Smith, who plays for the Kansas City Chiefs as a punt returner and wide receiver, was honored on the NFL All-Pro team as selected by the Pro Football Writers of America, and was also named the best special teams player in the NFL by a panel of NFL experts and the Football Digest.

He earned these awards with his outstanding punt returning during the 1980 season, as he led the NFL in that department by returning 40 punts for 581 yards.

He also was a very distinguished wide receiver, catching 46 passes for 655 yards and two touchdowns.

The former record setting Big Spring athlete has already been named to play in the NFL Pro Bowl in Honolulu on February 1. He earned that in a vote by AFC players and coaches.

The Associated Press will announce their All-Pro team later this week, and Smith is probably a First Team selection in that group that is recognized widely.

As Oiler office complains to NFL

Reports say Bum Phillips to take Saints job today

HOUSTON (AP) — O.A. Bum Phillips, ousted Houston Oilers coach, meets today with John Mecon, reportedly to discuss the head coaching job with the New Orleans Saints.

Phillips son upset; Might leave Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — New Houston Oiler coach Ed Biles says he'll battle his predecessor, Bum Phillips, if that's what it takes to keep Phillips' son, Wade, on the Oiler coaching staff next season.

Phillips, fired as Oiler coach last week, is a leading candidate for the New Orleans Saints job and might ask his son to join him in putting a new coaching staff together.

"I certainly will battle for him," Biles said. "I've offered him a position on this staff."

Biles, who is in the process of forming his own staff, pointed out that the contracts of all Oiler assistant coaches run through the 1981 season and they could not move without a release.

"I'd have faith and confidence that Bum wouldn't try to take them," Biles said. "But I realize that it's improbable that our entire coaching staff will remain intact."

Wade Phillips, a defensive assistant under Biles since 1976, said Monday his father's firing was unfair and he might not want to remain with the Oilers, although he has been asked.

"I have a difficult decision to make here without even thinking what will happen in New Orleans," Wade Phillips said. "Eddie has offered me a better position than I had. To be honest about it, even if Bum hadn't been my father, it would be hard to stay with the Oilers."

"My father has bounced back, but I'm still trying to make the right decisions. From some of the things I've said about right and wrong, I think it's becoming obvious what my decision will be."

Biles, who left Monday for the East-West All-Star game at San Francisco, said he is considering increasing the Oiler coaching staff from seven to nine.

"Money won't be a problem with (owner) Bud Adams," Biles said. "He understands our needs and is aware of the idea."

Biles said he would make no hasty decisions on his coaching staff.

"Four teams are still playing," Biles said. "There are coaches on those staffs worth talking to. I'm not going to rush this thing through. We've got to get the right people."

one by one they all came to me and said they wanted to leave. It's too much of a coincidence," Herzog said.

Phillips denied the charge, saying his first contact with a member of the Saints organization was Monday evening "and that was with a friend, not with anybody in a position to hire me."

However, Phillips admitted, the "friend" arranged the meeting with Mecon.

Herzog said his information came from Will Stewart, running back Earl Campbell's agent.

"Witt said Earl told him Bum said he had the New Orleans job," Herzog said. "If that's the case, then Bum is guilty of tampering according to league rules. I called the Commissioner (Pete Rozelle) to let him know the situation."

Phillips was fired Wednesday by owner K.S. "Bud" Adams. Ed Biles, his defensive coordinator, was chosen Friday to replace him.

Six assistant coaches also remain on the payroll and the National Football League team wants to keep them "because continuity is important to the club. I don't want wholesale turnover," Herzog said.

Phillips said he also talked to Rozelle on Monday, saying he "didn't do anything I'm ashamed of."

"The only thing I've done for the coaches is to try to find out where they stood," Phillips said. "There were loyal to me and it's only right that I'm loyal to them. But I haven't asked them to follow me anywhere because right now I don't have a place to go. I'm confident I'll get a job, but I don't have one right now."

South Alabama finds Top 20 ratings make foes hostile

By The Associated Press

Football still rules in Alabama, but Cliff Ellis and his University of South Alabama Jaguars are more than just pretenders to the throne.

South Alabama climbed from 17th to No. 15 in The Associated Press college basketball poll Monday as top-ranked DePaul retained the top spot for the fifth consecutive week.

"Football is still king in Alabama, but we've created a monster," said Ellis, who coached South Alabama to consecutive appearances in the NCAA tournament the past two seasons.

"In the beginning, we were getting maybe 1,500 people to come to our games. Now it's more like 7,000 or 8,000 a game. And our people expect us to win now."

South Alabama hasn't been disappointing its Mobile-based backers. The Jaguars are 10-1 this season, and that includes a nine-point victory over then seventh-ranked Ohio State.

"We started getting national attention after beating Holy Cross by 24 points on the road, and the eyeballs really got bigger after we beat Ohio State," added Ellis, who knows a national rankings has put pressure on South Alabama, a school with an enrollment of about 8,000.

"This is our third week in the poll and already everybody we meet is playing us like we're national champions."

DePaul, 12-0, collected 59 of 62 first-place votes and 1,237 points out of a possible 1,240 in the balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters in staying ahead of No. 2 Oregon State and third-ranked Virginia.

Oregon State, which outlasted then No. 13 ranked Arizona State 71-67 last weekend, were tabbed No. 1 on two ballots and received 1,159 points.

The Cavaliers, who had a scare last week before edging James Madison 53-52, garnered one first-place vote and 1,088 points.

Preseason favorite Kentucky and Notre Dame exchanged the Nos. 4 and 5 positions. The Wildcats, who beat both Maine and Georgia last week, collected 989 points, while the Irish, an easy winner over Davidson and the only team to defeat Kentucky this year, got 915 points.

Wake Forest moved up two notches and took over the No. 6 spot in the poll with 874 points — seven more than UCLA which retained the No. 7 slot.

Maryland advanced a notch to No. 8 with 773 points, while Louisiana State and Michigan rounded out the Top 10. LSU, No. 10 last week, collected 744 points and the Wolverines had 664.

Minnesota and Clemson are both newcomers to this season's Top 20, replacing Texas A&M and Indiana.

Runnels splits games with Sweetwater

Runnels Junior High boys basketball teams split a pair of games here Monday evening with Sweetwater JHS as the teams resumed play following the Christmas break.

The Runnels Red team scored a 22-14 win over the Sweetwater B team for their 10 rebounds for the Runnels crew, with Arthur Jackson adding four points.

The Runnels White team is now also 1-2. Both Runnels teams will resume play on January 19, at which times they travel to play the same Sweetwater teams.

FREEZING FRANKS — Browns' Elvis Franks lets off some steam late in Sunday's AFC playoff game against the Oakland Raiders in Cleveland. Sub-zero temperatures and a 14-12 defeat at the hands of the Raiders marked the end of the season for the Browns as Oakland advances to the AFC championships next week against San Diego.

Rice's Alborn to join exclusive contract club

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football coach Ray Alborn likely will join an exclusive club next week — he's expected to become only the third football coach in Rice history to have a signed contract.

Alborn, who has directed the Owls the past three seasons without a contract, will be offered a three year pact, Athletic Director Augie Erfurth said Monday.

And Alborn, mentioned last week as a candidate for the head coaching job at Texas Tech, likely will accept the offer.

In his third year at the helm, Alborn led the Owls to a surprising 5-6 season in 1980 including victory over defending Southwest Conference champion Houston.

Erfurth said he would meet with Alborn next week when the Owl staff returns from the NCAA meetings scheduled Sunday through Wednesday to iron out details.

Erfurth said only two other football coaches, Bill Peterson and Al Conover, had signed contracts. The rest, including Jess Neely, worked on a handshake.

"But things have changed now and we want to do everything we can to help Ray," Erfurth said. "Some recruiters would use that against Rice, saying the coach might not be around because he didn't have a contract."

Alborn said he was hitting the recruiting trail.

"I've got a good job here," Alborn said. "All I'm worried about now is putting my head down and getting to work."

Frank Robinson gets Giant interview

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Robinson, the Baltimore Oriole's first-base coach and major league baseball's first black manager when he piloted the Cleveland Indians, is expected to go to San Francisco today to discuss the Giants' vacant manager post.

The Baltimore Sun reported today that Robinson's afternoon interview will take place with San Francisco Giants President Bob Lurie, who fired Dave Bristol as manager at the winter meetings in Dallas last month.

"All I know is the Giants called me and said they wanted to talk to me," Robinson said. "It's the first time this has happened since Cleveland, and I've almost forgotten what I'm supposed to say."

Robinson was fired in June 1977 after 2½ years as manager of the Cleveland Indians.

"My name has been tossed around every time a managing job opens up, but nothing ever happens," Robinson said.

Lurie reportedly has several other candidates in mind to take over the Giants, who finished in fifth place in the National League West last season with a 75-86 record.

A decision is supposed to be made sometime in the next week, according to the newspaper.

Robinson said he and New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner still have been talking about a trade of pitcher Ron Guidry for Lynn. He said he wanted the late-contract matter cleared up before he started talking trade again with New York.

3rd quarter spells loss for BSHS girls

ODESSA — The Big Spring Steers girls basketball team failed to score a point in the third quarter, and the Odessa High Bronchos took advantage of it to take a 48-39 win here in a District 5-A contest.

The Big Spring girls were playing with much illness and injuries, but still outplayed the OHS team except for the one stanza.

After the Steers took an early lead, OHS came back for a 26-25 halftime lead. But a cold third period in which the visitors failed to score anything allowed the OHS team to take a 12-point lead into the final frame.

Sissy Doss played the contest with the flu, while Monette Wise could not play because of illness. During the contest, Sylvia Randle twisted an ankle and Shirley Dixon suffered ligament damage to her knee.

The injury factor, along with the scoreless third period helped spell defeat for the Steer ferns.

Odessa also used the height advantage of 6'11" Julie Wallace in the contest. Wallace scored 14 points and controlled the backboards for the Bronchos.

Big Spring was led in the scoring column by junior Elise Wheat and sophomore Shell Rutledge, who had 12 points.

The win puts OHS at 1-1 in league play and 6-11 on the year, while Big Spring fell to 0-2 and 4-14 with the loss.

The Steer ferns return home for a bout with high flying San Angelo on Thursday. San Angelo is 16-1 on the year.

By quarters: Big Spring 13 25 25 39; Odessa 13 26 38 48. BIG SPRING (39) — Doss 10-2; Billalba 0-0; Rutledge 5-12; Randle 0-0; Wheat 4-12; Dixon 3-0-4; Overman 2-7; TOTALS 15-39.

ODESSA (48) — Simmons 5-10; Baker 2-2-6; Rummough 3-0-8; Hamilton 4-2-10; Wallace 7-0-14; Geren 0-2; TOTALS 25-48.

Bosox Lynn, Fisk challenge pacts

BOSTON (AP) — Outfielder Fred Lynn and catcher Carlton Fisk could become free agents this year if an arbitrator decides the Boston Red Sox sent out their option-year contracts two days too late.

Marvin Miller, director of the Players Association, informed the Red Sox Monday that he has filed a grievance seeking immediate free-agent status for both players because the club failed to mail them contracts before the Dec. 20 deadline.

Haywood Sullivan, Red Sox vice president and general manager, said, "It is our position that we have binding contracts with Fred Lynn and Carlton Fisk."

Last week, Miller informed the Red Sox that under baseball's 1980 basic agreement, both Lynn and Fisk were eligible to arbitrate their 1981 salaries, and if the Red Sox failed to agree to the arbitration, both automatically would become free agents.

Lynn and Fisk are two of only four players in the major leagues who signed under the 1976 agreement, and the four are the last ever to have an option year.

When asked why the club even mailed out contracts to Lynn and Fisk if it thought it already had valid pacts with the pair, Sullivan said, "I can't say anything because I don't want to jeopardize my defense. We'll see what happens in litigation."

Miller met Monday with a representative of the Players Relations office to set up a grievance hearing. If nothing is settled in the grievance, binding arbitration is the final step.

Miller said the players association also was ready to file for salary arbitration for Lynn and Fisk between the Jan. 15-25 period, but that may be unnecessary if there is a decision by then on the late contract grievance.

In a related matter, Sullivan said he and New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner still have been talking about a trade of pitcher Ron Guidry for Lynn. He said he wanted the late-contract matter cleared up before he started talking trade again with New York.

King shot .814 from the field, hitting 48-of-59 field goal attempts, including 20-for-25 in his 50-point effort Saturday night. He also scored 30 points on Friday night as the Warriors snapped the Boston Celtics' 12-game winning streak, and started his week with 32 in a game at Kansas City Tuesday.

NBA honors Bernard King

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernard King of the Golden State Warriors, who scored 112 points in three games last week, including 50 against the Philadelphia 76ers, was named the National Basketball Association's Player of the Week for the period ending Sunday, Jan. 4.

King shot .814 from the field, hitting 48-of-59 field goal attempts, including 20-for-25 in his 50-point effort Saturday night. He also scored 30 points on Friday night as the Warriors snapped the Boston Celtics' 12-game winning streak, and started his week with 32 in a game at Kansas City Tuesday.

Robinson was fired in June 1977 after 2½ years as manager of the Cleveland Indians.

"My name has been tossed around every time a managing job opens up, but nothing ever happens," Robinson said.

Lurie reportedly has several other candidates in mind to take over the Giants, who finished in fifth place in the National League West last season with a 75-86 record.

A decision is supposed to be made sometime in the next week, according to the newspaper.

Robinson said he and New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner still have been talking about a trade of pitcher Ron Guidry for Lynn. He said he wanted the late-contract matter cleared up before he started talking trade again with New York.

Louisville finally wins

By The Associated Press

Even after his defending NCAA champions had broken a five-game losing streak, Louisville's Denny Crum sounded a beaten

"I felt like if we were going to get beat, we might as well get beat with our younger guys in there," Crum said.

So, he inserted freshmen Lancaster Gordon, a guard, and Charles Jones, a center, into the starting lineup, and his Cardinals rolled over Tulane 73-53 Monday night.

Gordon scored 13 points, including five in a run of nine by Louisville early in the first half as the Cardinals took a 17-8 lead.

Jones, however, gave way quickly to regular center Derek Smith, who led the Cardinals, now 3-7, with 19 points and 13 rebounds.

"If I had to pick a game before the season that we'd lose, it would have been Tulane," Crum said of his Metro Conference foe.

In the very early going, it looked like another washout in the works for the beleaguered Cardinals, whose most recent victory has been way back on Dec. 13 over Maryland. Louisville missed nine of its first 10 shots until Gordon got them going with a 20-footer.

"That's been our pattern so far this season," Crum said. "That's why we've been getting behind. If they (Tulane) had shot the ball well, we'd have been behind again."

While Louisville was avoiding yet another upset, 10th-ranked Michigan could not. The 9-1 Wolverines saw the first blemish appear on their record this season in an 81-74 loss to Purdue in the first half of the Big Ten Conference opener.

Freshman Russell Cross scored 21 points, while Drake Morris and Keith Edmonson added 20 each for the unranked Boilermakers, 8-2.

Purdue hit 37 of 49 field goal attempts for a single-game conference record percentage of 75, and first-year Coach Gene Keady called it unbelievable. "This was the best game of the year for us," he said. "We played with intensity and took care of the ball."

Michigan's only lead of the game was at 4-2. Cross tied it 4-4 off an offensive rebound, and the Boilermakers were on their way.

In other games involving ranked teams Monday night, second-ranked Oregon State downed Arizona 61-49, No. 3 Virginia trimmed Delaware 88-69, seventh-ranked UCLA drubbed Washington State 87-61 and 14th-ranked Arizona State clobbered Oregon 104-64.

The night's games also included the first at his home court since Missouri center Steve Stipanovich accidentally shot himself in the arm. The center originally told police he was shot by a gunman who broke into his apartment, but later, he admitted the wound was self-inflicted.

Stipanovich did not start, but he scored nine points, grabbed a team-leading 12 rebounds and received a 30-second standing ovation when he entered the game midway through the first half. Missouri defeated Navy 88-67, incidentally
