Project to stock lake 'very successful'

The walleye is a fish that weighs from one to over 20 pounds. Its color varies from olive green on the top, to yellow on its sides, to white on the belly, and it is considered to be one of the finest tasting freshwater fish in the world.

Moss Lake is full of walleye. Fishery experts from the State Parks and Wildlife Service conducted a netting survey at the lake Friday, and discovered that a project to stock the lake with walleye has been extremely successful.

"We have been stocking Moss Lake for the past five years and now we have a really sizeable population here," said Bill Follis, biologist with the netting crew. "The idea was to stock the lake with an additional large predator because we felt that Moss had an overabundance of forage and food for game species. We had a good population of game fish — bass, catfish and croppie — but they just weren't biting."

The theory was that with the addition of walleye, the forage and food fish would diminish, and game fish would be more anxious to strike at lures and bait.

"Now it's just a matter of getting the fisherman out here to fish for the walleye," said Follis.

Although there are plenty of walleye to be caught, said Follis, the species is elusive. The best way to catch the fish is to use a medium-small hook floating five to 15 feet under the water.

"The best bait is worms or night crawlers, but they'll bite on minnows or small spinners," said Follis. "The walleye bites real slow and real light, so it will have a fairly different feel until the fish is actually hooked. The fishermen have to learn how to catch them, and to have some patience in the beginning."

Walleye will begin their spawning run in February, and continue through March. Most of the spawning will be concentrated around the dam at the lake, or near rock formations under the water, said Follis.

The fish is primarily a nocturnal feeder, and will bite best at night or early in the morning, he added. The walleye netted at Moss Lake ranged from 3 to 6.5 pounds, but others in area lakes have reached 14 pounds or more.

The limit on walleye is five-a-day, and 10 in possession.

By the way, if you don't have a favorite recipe of your own, Follis recommends dipping walleye fillets into a light batter of beer, flour, a little baking soda, and a dab of prepared mustard, and frying them.

"Now that's delicious," he said.

Senate committee opens door for speedy confirmation of Haig

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee opened the door Saturday for speedy confirmation of Alexander M. Haig as secretary of state when Democrats and Republicans reached an apparent consensus not to hold his nomination hostage for White House tapes.

Though no formal decision was reached, Democrats appeared ready to accept a Republican-backed compromise which would allow Haig's appointment to reach the full Senate floor by Inauguration Day, Jan. 20, regardless of whether any tapes have been obtained and reviewed by then.

Under the proposal advanced by panel chairman Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, the committee will ask immediately — and subpoena if necessary — the logs and indexes for 100 hours of recorded conversations between Haig and Richard M. Nixon in 1973.

Specific recordings, held now by the National Archives, could then be subpoenaed if a review of the logs indicated that a particular conversation might be relevant to Haig's evaluation. But Baker warned that legal challenges by Nixon and others could delay delivery of any tapes for weeks or months, if ever, and he intends to proceed with a confirmation vote in time for Ronald Reagan's swearing-in as the 40th president.

Members of the panel's Democratic minority appeared mollified at Percy's assurances that he would pursue any recordings which might cast new light on the Haig case, despite the retired general's repeated testimony that he did nothing improper while serving as Nixon's chief of staff prior to Nixon's resignation in disgrace.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., the panel's senior Democrat, earlier asked the committee to immediately issue subpoenas for all 100 hours of the Nixon-Haig tapes, recorded between May 4 and July 18, 1973. Republicans argued that such a blanket review would cause undue delay and lead to a "fishing expedition."

Earlier Saturday, Haig testified that the Soviet Union was encouraged to foment trouble in Africa four years ago by the congressional decision to bar secret military aid to anti-communist groups in Angola.

El Salvador leftists launch 'final attack'

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Heavy fighting erupted here Saturday night and leftist guerrillas, in a radio broadcast from a station they had seized, announced their "final offensive" against the ruling junta had been launched.

An air force spokesman said there was automatic weapons fire, and hand grenades were lobbed in an attack at the Ilopango military airport, eight miles east of San Salvador. He said 200 government soldiers were rushed to the military base to fight the guerrillas.

Battles were reported at six other places in the capital.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

A message broadcast over a radio station seized by a group of guerrillas claimed leftist forces were moving in toward the center of the capital. The report could not be confirmed.

Soon after the guerrillas seized the radio station, the government hooked up all stations in the capital into a nationwide network and started broadcasting details of a military ceremony that had taken place earlier in the day.

There was no official explanation for the military broadcast.

Scattered shooting could be heard in the area around the Camino Real Hotel downtown, punctuated by an occasional explosion apparently of bombs or hand-grenades.

The communique, broadcast by a woman, said the offensive was mounted by the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, a federation of five of the six leftist guerrilla groups waging a war to overturn the military-civilian junta.

The front and the Democratic Revolutionary Front, a federation of leftist political and activist groups, recently announced the offensive and plans to set up a Marxist regime in El Salvador prior to the Jan. 20 inauguration of President-elect Ronald Reagan.

Gunfire was heard in the poverty-stricken neighborhood of Mejicanos, where left-wing guerrillas attempted a take-over Friday night; outside a national guard post in the capital, near the armed forces general staff headquarters and other areas.

The guerrilla broadcast urged soldiers not to obey their officers.

Farabee will head powerful State Affairs Committee

By JIM DAVIS

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — During eight years as lieutenant governor — and thus presiding officer of the Texas Senate — Bill Hobby has cultivated the image of a cool, if colorless, official. This year, he builds on the image.

While most other state officials here in Austin last week fussing around in preparation for Tuesday's opening of the 1981 legislative session, the lieutenant governor was vacationing in Ireland, reportedly riding to the hounds after the foxes.

Maybe Hobby isn't so colorless after all.

Before crossing the Atlantic, Lt. Gov. Hobby made his choices for coveted committee chairmanships.

According to informed Capitol sources, Hobby this week will announce the following chairmanships:

Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls will head the powerful State Affairs Committee, replacing Bill Moore of Bryan, who lost a re-election bid last year.

This will only be Farabee's fourth session as senator, but his close ties to Hobby and reputation as a steady, fair and intelligent leader pushed him ahead of more tenured senators.

His direction of State Affairs undoubtedly will be 180 degrees different from the irascible Moore's long tenure. Moore didn't earn the nickname "The Bull of the Brazos" by being Mr. Nice Guy.

But Hobby is likely to use State Affairs and his good friend Farabee to handle particularly important legislation that he wants to push or kill.

Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris of Dallas to move to the Economic Development chair vacated by retiring Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells. This appointment keeps Economic Affairs under the tutelage of a dedicated conservative, pleasing the business lobby.

Sen. Grant Jones of Abilene will continue as head of powerful Finance Committee, which writes the Senate version of the bill that determines how much money each state agency receives.

Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena continues as chairman of Human Resources, which handles people issues such as welfare. While no flaming liberal, Brooks falls into the

Suit filed against OIL for $85,000

Big Spring based Oilfield Industrial Lines, Inc. (O.I.L.), and its parent corporation, Synergistic Technology Corporation, of Dallas, are being sued for over $85,000 by Mako Oilfield Services, Inc., of Brenham.

The suit stems from allegations by Mako that O.I.L. did not pay for equipment received on or about Nov. 20, 1980.

According to a petition filed in 118th District Court, Mako, which sells oil field related equipment, entered into an agreement with O.I.L. for the purchase of a piece of equipment at the cost of $85,278.00. The Brenham company alleges that it was advised that payment for the equipment would be received when the equipment arrived in Big Spring.

The petition, filed on Friday, states that no payment has been received by O.I.L. or Synergistic Technology Corporation, although Mako alleges that the equipment is now being used by the Big Spring corporation.

The Brenham company is asking for the full price of the equipment, according to the petition.

liberal-moderate camp in the conservative-dominated vote.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas will change chairmanships, from Education to Jurisprudence. Mauzy, like Brooks, was among the 11 Killer Bee senators who angered Hobby and conservatives two years ago by preventing passage of a split presidential primary bill.

Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland will move from heading Intergovernmental Relations to the more-prestigious Education Committee. The committee won't be as important as in the past, however, since the education finance bill will be handled through the Finance Committee this time.

Sen. John Traeger of Seguin is the likely choice to replace Snelson at intergovernmental relations.

Sen. H. Iati Santiesteban of El Paso will become the first Mexican-American to head a major standing committee when he takes over Natural Resources. Former Sen. Joe Bernal headed a federal programs committee back in the '60s, but that was before many committees were reorganized and consolidated in 1972.

RAY FARABEE

MOPAC dispatchers walk off job in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — An undetermined number of Missouri Pacific Railroad dispatchers walked off their jobs in North Little Rock and in two other states late Friday night in an apparent protest over the suspension of two employees, Missouri Pacific officials said Saturday.

A railroad spokesman in St. Louis, Mo. — who declined to be named — said some of the dispatchers established pickets outside four locations in North Little Rock early Saturday.

He said the walkout started in North Little Rock and spread to Palestine, Texas, and Kansas City, Mo.

The spokesman said federal Judge G. Thomas Eisele issued a restraining order Saturday afternoon to stop the dispatchers from picketing in North Little Rock. Similar restraining orders also were issued by federal judges in Kansas City and in Tyler, Texas, the railroad spokesman said.

Eisele also scheduled a show cause hearing on Tuesday for the dispatchers to argue the reasons for their protest, the spokesman said.

Willard Schultz, the railroad's regional manager for Texas and southern districts, said about 20 dispatchers walked off their jobs in Palestine. But he said the dispatchers didn't establish pickets.

The railroad spokesman in St. Louis said railroad service wasn't interrupted by the walkout. But he said the employees hadn't returned to work Saturday.

"We now fully expect to be back to normal quite soon," the spokesman said.

The dispatchers' jobs were filled by management and dispatchers that didn't participate in the walkout, the spokesman said. There are about 150 dispatchers employed throughout Missouri Pacific, he said.

The North Little Rock dispatchers who walked off their jobs apparently were disturbed by the suspension of two employees for medical reasons last month, the spokesman said.

CHECKING QUALITY — Marsha Gross, an employee of the Western Container plant, shows members of the Big Spring Industrial Park steering committee what goes on in the quality control lab at the plant. The plant, which manufactures plastic bottles for soft drinks, was the subject of tour by members of the steering committee and the media Friday. JFK's body altered, new book reports DALLAS (AP) — President John F. Kennedy's body was "altered" soon after his November 1963 assassination to make military doctors think all the bullets hit him from behind, says a book to be released this week.

Author David S. Lifton interviewed former employees of Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland who said the body arrived at the back door in a plain metal shipping coffin shortly before a ceremonial coffin was accompanied by first lady Jackie Kennedy through the front door.

The 747-page book, "Best Evidence," has been shrouded in secrecy by Macmillan Publishing Co. Inc. pending its scheduled release Tuesday at a Washington press conference. Some of the 75,000 copies, however, were placed inadvertently on the shelves of a Dallas bookstore.

One witness said he saw the shipping coffin arrive in an unmarked black hearse, and another said he thought it arrived by helicopter. They and other former personnel said they were ordered not to talk about anything they saw that night under threat of court-martial.

The "camouflage of body alteration disguised a political murder as a historical accident... by a lone malcontent" named Lee Harvey Oswald, Lifton wrote.

He said it was a "plot involving the executive branch of the government to remove Kennedy from office."

Lifton, a 40-year-old computer engineer, began researching the assassination in 1965 after reading an FBI report that said the body arrived at Bethesda's autopsy table with evidence of "surgery of the head area, namely, in the top of the skull."

Doctors at Parkland Memorial Hospital in Dallas had operated only on Kennedy's throat, Lifton wrote, and "no one had touched the president's head — certainly not with a surgical instrument."

"If someone had altered the head, the configuration of the wounds at Dallas was not the same as at Bethesda," he said. "The head was thrust backward (according to a movie film taken by Abraham Zapruder) by the impact of the bullet from the front, yet the autopsy performed at Bethesda showed an impact from behind."

After reading to a neurosurgeon the autopsy doctor's description of damage to Kennedy's brain, Lifton was told he was not describing a gunshot injury but probably the result of a brain being "sectioned" by a physician.

"How could a bullet create that kind of damage?" Lifton said the surgeon asked.

Lifton believes the surgery was to remove an incriminating bullet — not Oswald's — from the president's head.

Red Brigades set execution deadline for kidnapped judge

ROME (AP) — The Red Brigades terrorist organization said Saturday it will kill a kidnapped judge within 48 hours if Italian newspapers do not publish statements by radical leftists jailed at two prisons.

The terrorists, who kidnapped and killed former Premier Aldo Moro in 1978, set the deadline in their ninth message since abducting Judge Giovanni D'Urso Dec. 12. A journalist from the Rome daily Il Giornale D'Italia picked up the communique in a wastebasket in front of a Rome movie theater after receiving an anonymous phone call saying it was there, authorities said.

D'Urso's captors said last Sunday that their "death sentence" against the judge could be lifted if the views of their comrades held at two maximum security prisons were aired. Justice Minister Adolfo Sarti and all major Italian newspapers have rejected the terrorists' demand.

The deadline came as the Italian Communist Party, the largest in the West, accused the government of yielding to blackmail Saturday after the Socialists, the second-largest party in the ruling coalition, printed excerpts of a statement by jailed terrorists.

In a stormy parliamentary debate, the Communists and neo-fascist Italian Social Movement called on Christian Democrat Premier Arnaldo Forlani to defend his government's stand against terrorism.

Cracks appeared in Forlani's four-party coalition of Christian Democrats.

Stenholm sponsors internship program

Students and teachers interested in participating in the second summer internship program sponsored by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm can pick up applications at the Congressman's Abilene District Office in the Federal Building.

Applications for the program, which will include two Omar Burleson Congressional Interns and two Lyndon Baines Johnson Congressional Interns, must be postmarked by midnight, Feb. 14, and mailed to the Abilene office.

The interns selected will receive full Congressional Office experience at Stenholm's Washington office, with one intern from each program to serve during June or July of this year.

"After the overwhelming success evidenced by our first internships last year, I had no hesitation in sponsoring the program again," Stenholm said. "The four young people who served during the initial program were truly outstanding workers and I feel that the experience they received will serve them well in the future, whether in a government-related field or as private citizens."

Selection for the internships is made by a District-wide seven-person selection committee, chaired by former Congressman Omar Burleson.

Applicants for the Burleson internships must be 18 years of age at the time he or she is in Washington, allowing high school seniors who have enrolled in an institute of higher learning to be eligible. Others eligible include any student or graduate student who was enrolled during the preceding academic year at any of the District College, universities or technical institutes, or any other school, if the person's home of record is within the District.

Infant fork-and-spoon sets being recalled

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American distributor will recall 29,000 training fork-and-spoon sets because infants who use them may become ill from swallowing bits of metal which flake off, the government said Saturday.

The Food and Drug Administration described the sets as a "moderate to severe health hazard" because the metal contains doses of cadmium. Parents were advised to discontinue at once use of any flaking utensils.

An agency spokesman said the recall by Cribmates Inc. of Long Island City, N.Y., was voluntary.

The utensils are labeled "Training Fork and Spoon, a Perfect Size for Baby's Little Hands." They were made by the Soung Fea Enterprises Co. of Taipei, Taiwan.

The sets have been distributed in the U.S. since August 1979. Consumers who think they have some of the utensils should return them to the place of purchase.

FDA analyzed the sets after receiving a complaint from a Buffalo, N.Y., consumer.

FBI Abscam conduct going on trial

NEW YORK (AP) — With a fifth congressman convicted on Abscam charges, the government's conduct during the undercover sting operation now is going on trial.

U.S. District Judge George C. Pratt, who has presided over three Abscam trials, will begin holding due process hearings Monday in Brooklyn that could scuttle seven Abscam convictions, including Friday's guilty verdicts against Rep. Raymond Lederer.

Two of the other six convictions recorded in Abscam — those of Philadelphia City Council officials — have already been thrown out on grounds of entrapment and government misconduct.

Lederer, a Pennsylvania Democrat who was the only congressman indicted in Abscam to be re-elected, was found guilty late Friday of bribery, conspiracy, accepting an illegal gratuity and traveling interstate in aid of a racketeering enterprise.

Lederer was unavailable for comment Saturday. A family spokesman said he was en route to Philadelphia.

The jury took 5½ hours to find the three-term congressman was not entrapped Sept. 11, 1979, when he accepted $50,000 from undercover FBI agents in a Kennedy Airport hotel room in return for promising to introduce immigration bills for two supposed Arab sheiks.

A defendant claiming entrapment says he wouldn't have committed a crime if not induced and enticed by the government. The government must show the defendant was predisposed to commit the crime.

Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti said the government's actions in Abscam were legal and proper. The FBI says none of its actions in Abscam violated rules issued by the Justice Department last week.

In Lederer's trial, a department memo suggesting entrapment surfaced.

Raymond Lederer, D-Pa., from photographers Friday night after he was found guilty of bribery-conspiracy charges in the Abscam trial at the U.S. District Court in Brooklyn. IRS publications answer farmer's tax questions

Today's modern farmer has many unique tax situations, and a free publication from the Internal Revenue Service can help answer the questions that arise from these situations.

IRS Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," covers a wide range of subjects, such as soil sales, crop destruction, chicken purchases, casualty losses and share farming. Examples of how to prepare the Form 1040 and related schedules, and listings of important tax dates which affect farmer's throughout the year are also included. "Farmer's Tax Guide" is written in a clear, understandable style and can be a source of valuable information for today's farmer, according to the IRS. This handy reference can be ordered on the order form in the tax package, or by calling the IRS Tax Forms Information number listed in the local telephone directory.

*NEW UNIVERSITY ENERGY RESEARCH PROVES: HARD WATER ADDS 29% TO WATER HEATER ENERGY COSTS

Water heaters were found to use less gas or electricity when operated exclusively on conditioned water. Study showed hard water added up to 29% annually on gas heating costs and 22% on electric. Your savings will vary according to local water characteristics.

Hard water deposits—collecting inside plumbing, pipes and appliances—require extra energy and boost energy costs.

And you get additional savings with Culligan conditioned water in your dishwasher, clothes washer and other water-using appliances.

Homestead exemptions applications mailed

The Big Spring Independent School District has mailed out applications for homestead exemptions for the 1981 school tax roll.

All persons are entitled to receive an exemption of $5,000.00 from the market value of their residence homestead as of Jan. 1, 1981, for 1981 school tax purposes.

In addition, all persons who are 65 or older as of Jan. 1, 1981, or under a disability for purposes of payment of disability benefits under Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance, as of Jan. 1, 1981, or whose disability falls within the definition of disability found in the Federal Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Act as of Jan. 1, 1981, are also entitled to an additional exemption of $10,000 from the market value of their residence homestead as of Jan. 1, 1981, for the purpose of 1981 school taxes. Proof of age or of disability is required for this $10,000 exemption. Last week's mailing went to all persons who had a homestead exemption on the 1980 tax roll. These applications should be completed and returned by mail or brought in person to the Big Spring Independent School District Tax Office, 708 11th Place, not later than April 1, 1981.

Application forms are available in the school tax office for anyone not receiving an application by mail. This would include new residents, persons who have a different homestead this Jan. 1 than they did last Jan. 1, and any others who did not receive the exemption last year.

The same law which created these homestead exemptions specifies that these exemptions can be granted only if a valid application is filed with the school tax office by April 1, 1981.

Doctors attack the ultimate disease

A movement to bring about nuclear disarmament is growing among U.S. doctors, who describe a nuclear attack as the "final epidemic."

The doctors have breathed new life into an existing group called Physicians for Social Responsibility and have asked for an audience with President-elect Ronald Reagan.

IF THE PHYSICIANS had stopped there, one could reasonably accuse them of "preaching to the choir," because the U.S. has gone a long way toward disarmament in recent years, having virtually abandoned the arms race to the Soviet Union.

But to their credit, the doctors realize that and have obtained the help of Soviet physicians to organize International Physicians for Prevention of Nuclear War.

THE PLAN IS FOR DOCTORS in both countries to pressure their political leaders to disarm nuclear weapons.

Of the two groups, we suspect the Russian doctors have the toughest job. It is apparent that Russian leaders, while probably having no intention of using nuclear weapons, plan to use nuclear superiority to blackmail the U.S. and the free world to acquiesce to Soviet domination.

IT IS HERE, OF COURSE, that the U.S. faces a horrible dilemma. Unilateral disarmament ultimately means submitting to Soviet domination. Continual buildup of nuclear weaponry might increase the chance of the ultimate war, the doctors' "final epidemic."

The world has lived with such a problem for decades now. The doctors are trying to inject sanity in an insane situation. They deserve the backing and encouragement of the entire world with the hopes their movement will grow and bring pressure on leaders to abandon nuclear weaponry.

BUT IT WON'T MAKE MUCH SENSE if the pressure for disarmament is directed exclusively at the United States.

Dog gone

Around the rim

Walt Finley

She cuddled me during almost every pro and college football game and the World Series for the past seven years.

She always met me at the front door. It didn't matter if it was 5 p.m. or midnight. She loved me, even when I lost my temper. She had the prettiest, most expressive eyes I've ever seen. I loved her.

He said, "Don't leave the task to another man. For this is your task in the master plan."

Inspired by "The Bridge" author unknown, Maureen said.

A Big Spring mother was attempting to teach her little girl the alphabet.

"What comes after 'u'?" she prompted.

"Know," was the child's reply.

There has been some mention of the ice cubes in the Luzianne tea commercial that sink to the bottom of the pitcher.

My wonderful aunt, Mildred Ladd, said that's probably because they were made of hard water.

IF THERE IS ANYTHING harder than breaking a bad habit, it's trying to refrain from telling people how you did it.

My bashful aunt, Marie Chastain, sent me a notice from "Circle of Cosmic Consciousness" that said:

"The Circle is sponsoring a retreat at Hermitage Landing — two nights and one full day of glorious relaxation and celebration of Cosmic Love."

Aunt Rea commented: "In our day, we used to call that 'making out' and we certainly didn't advertise it."

THAT TRAVELIN' MAN, Kenneth Hart, reports:

The late mayor of New York City, Fiorello LaGuardia, delighted in working with the people who ran the city. He rode fire trucks to fires and answered police calls in police cars.

He also sat as a judge in police court where one night an elderly lady was brought before him, charged with stealing a loaf of bread she said was for her family.

"I've got to punish you," LaGuardia said, "that's the law, so I fine you $10." But he reached into his own pocket and paid the fine.

"Furthermore," he said, "I fine everyone in this courtroom 50 cents each for living in a town where a person has to steal bread to feed her family." After the bailiff collected the fines, the woman left the courtroom with $51.

AGELESS "RED" McMAHEN, retired Herald pressman, asks:

Do you ever get the feeling that paying money to the government is like trying to fill the bathtub with the stopper out?

Watch-on waste

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Every presidential candidate within memory has vowed to combat the waste in Washington, but none has been more vociferous on the subject than President-elect Ronald Reagan.

Few modern presidents should be in a more advantageous position to attach governmental waste, fraud and mismanagement. He was elected largely by voters who are fed up with high taxes and federal interference in their lives. They can be expected to bring pressure on Congress to help Reagan keep his campaign promise to "get the government off our backs."

The conservatives in Congress, with their increased clout, won't need any public prodding. Several senators, such as Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, are eager to go after the federal spend-thrifts who treat the taxpayers' money with cavalier contempt.

FOR THE PAST 33 YEARS, I have specialized in the butchery of sacred cows in Washington. I have conducted a watch on waste that last year exposed the mispending of billions. My files on the federal profligates are hereby offered to the new president.

Their extravagance has been unbelievable both in magnitude and pettiness. Here are a few areas where hundreds of millions of tax dollars could be spared.

Their extravagance has been unbelievable both in magnitude and pettiness. Here are a few areas where hundreds of millions of tax dollars could be spared.

Unless quick action derails the federal gravy train, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will shell out an estimated $80 million in illegal payments for subsidized housing in New Jersey alone, my associate Indy Badhwar has learned. The money is supposed to subsidize rents for poor. But it isn't helping the poor; it's a boondoggle for politicians.

President Carter's inflation fighters spent $356,000 traveling around the country last year telling the people to spend less.

IMPROPER AND ERROENOUS procedures cost Uncle Sam $230,000 in the past two years on contracts with private moving companies. For example, a mistake in calculating weight factors on one contract resulted in hiring a mover who charged about $100,000 more than a competitor would have.

The National Science Foundation blew $60,000 studying the sexual maturity of lizards, another $65,000 trying to discover what makes people laugh and cry.

A high-ranking General Services Administration official figured out a way to get a bargain-rate excursion fare to Hawaii by assigning himself a bogus business trip from his Seattle base to Anchorage, Alaska, where the excursion was offered. The ticket-juggling scheme got him 39 days in Honolulu — worked so well he did it again a year later.

The GSA continues to squander money even after widespread exposure of scandal and corruption. Every year, for example, the government's property managers waste $10 million on purchases of xerographic paper alone. Auditors found that 85 percent of the $41 million a year spent on copying paper goes to two suppliers; less than one percent goes to the lowest bidder.

UNTOLD MILLIONS ARE LOST each year to forgeries, embezzlement and fraud because GSA doesn't bother to see whether purchases are ordered by properly authorized officials.

Because of poor planning, the government paid more than $25 million for office space in downtown Washington that stood empty while gas shelled out rent. It will also need extensive renovation before any federal agency can move in.

The Fish and Wildlife Service spent $75,000 to ferret out black-footed ferrets in the wideopen spaces out West. The feces of Siberian ferrets were imported to help dogs get the scent. But alas, not a ferret was found.

The Environmental Protection Agency has nearly $134,000 worth of unused airline tickets lying in boxes behind a stenographer's desk. At this writing, no attempt had been made to get refunds.

UNDERSEA THREAT — The possibility of mining the Persian Gulf as a military option raises the question of how well the United States is prepared to protect its own shores from mines.

The answer to jogging

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The jogging fad peaked in early 1980, and running analysts predict it will be all downhill for 1981. This does not mean that the hard-line jogger, who cannot be rehabilitated, will give up the sport. But the person who tried it for kicks and because everyone else was doing it has finally come in from the cold and has gone back to doing pushups in his bedroom.

No one knows why jogging fell off. Some believe when President Carter stumbled in a race last year, it was the beginning of the end for amateur runners. Others theorize that many people discovered you never got to talk to anyone when you were jogging after work, and you could meet a much better class of people in a warm singles bar.

I DATE the beginning of the end for jogging to last summer when I went to see Guggenheim and found him in his garage.

"How about a five-mile run to the Pentagon this morning?" I asked.

"I can't," he said. "I'm working on something that could make me rich."

"What is it?"

He showed me a round piece of wood. "I call it a wheel."

"What good is it?"

"It's no good by itself. But when I attach it to another wheel with this crossbar, and connect it to these other two wheels in the back and put this seat on top and an engine here to turn the wheels, a person won't have to jog any more."

"You're a dreamer, Guggenheim. Who would want to ride when he could run instead?"

"Don't you see, man? This invention will free millions of joggers from having to use their own legs. They can cover twice as much territory in half the time. They won't have to worry any more about aches and pains in their bodies — they won't even have to breathe heavily. They can just sit there and enjoy the view. The wheel will take the pain out of jogging."

BUT I THOUGHT PAIN was part of jogging. I was under the impression people jogged because it hurt all over.

Some do, but there are millions of people out there who have low pain thresholds. That's the market I'm going for.

I TOOK ONE MORE look at Guggenheim's crude machine and realized I was gazing into the future. I always knew that someday man's genius would lick the jogging problem once and for all. But I never thought it would come so soon.

To the editor:

As a German group of amnesty international we want to express our concern for the fate of well over 100 prisoners sentenced to die in the State of Texas.

We believe that a civilized society does not require such an archaic, cruel and inhuman sentence. Besides this the danger of judicial errors is a strong argument against death penalty.

It is also a fact that the often mentioned deterrent effect does not exist which was proved many times, also in the U.S. with comparisons between retentionist and abolitionist states. So death penalty does not protect public from crime.

Isn't it even possible that a person committing a crime loses all his inhibitions to kill when his own life is in danger?

We know that for several years, nobody has been executed in Texas and we appeal to the humanity of all Texans to help us in our efforts for the total abolition of this punishment.

New ski-bunny wants help

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: At age 55, I have decided to take up skiing. My daughter thinks I'm bananas. That's fine with me, I tell her. I put up with her silly shenanigans all of her life. Why can't I have some fun now myself? Yet, I seriously want to know if you think it is out of the question for me to do this? — Mrs. R.E.

There's no reason why you should not try skiing at 55. Many people have started at your age. Since about 60 percent of all skiing injuries happen to legs and knees, you should take especially good care of those structures. For this, it is important to buy good-quality equipment — skis, bindings, boots. If you are not willing to do that, you should not ski. A qualified instructor, which you'll find at most slopes, will show you how you can avoid most of the accident-producing mistakes.

Finally, be aware of fatigue, the greatest single contributor to skiing accidents. Stop when you feel the least bit tired, which should be frequently in your early stages. Finally, get yourself in shape a bit first. Try a bit of jogging or swimming to improve your heart and lung systems. This will also strengthen your leg muscles so you can put up with the twists and turns of skiing fate. Other 55-year-old ski-bunnies, take note.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I was interested in the letter from Mrs. P.G. who said her husband breaks out in hives after playing tennis. Has he considered the dye on the handle of the tennis racquet? Our daughter did not like the feel of paper on her arm when working in school, so I got her a piece of vinyl-covered cloth. It was navy blue. She broke out in hives.

Since I felt this was the only new thing she had come into contact with I removed it, and she was not bothered again. Several weeks later we tried the vinyl again — hives again. I think we found the cause. Perhaps the handle of the tennis racquet is causing this man's problem. He might try a different racquet or remove the wrap from the handle. — Mrs. J.

That's certainly a good thought. For a trial, there are cheap terry cloth coverings for racquet handles.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I have been skating in competition for four years. I noticed that the toe next to the big toe is turning under. Is this due to my skating? I haven't noticed this in my companions. — Miss R.I.

Many figure skaters develop hammertoe, in which the tips of the toes begin to bend downward. The number of toes involved and how severe the bending depends on the number of years skating. The best prevention calls for the skate to fit less snugly in the toe area. And, of course, the skates must be changed as the foot grows. Neglecting that is the chief contributor to the problem. If hammertoes are not painful, they will not interrupt your career. Make sure you are not making things worse with too tight skates.

Dear Dr. Donohue: This concerns my 31-year-old son, who has an office job. He runs six out of seven days a week, is a nervous type, and is always doing something. Also, he has three young ones who keep him on edge with their normal screaming and fighting. I saw him last week when he came back from running and thought he looked as though he was going to drop. He's thin, by the way. I'm just wondering about moderation. Should I scold him? — D.B.

So long as his general health is good, and so long as his runs are not making him feel ill, then the running is fine. Not only will it benefit him physically, but many find running a great an-

Air fares---up, up and away!

For a time after Congress passed the 1978 Airline Deregulation Act, air fares took a tumble. Free to compete for business without Government price-fixing, the airlines cut prices to boost business.

There are still some bargains in plane tickets. But inflation has offset much of the consumers' gains resulting from deregulation. Holiday travelers found many fares increased by 6 percent. Several lines are cutting back, too, on promotional flights at discount rates — the so-called "super savers" for passengers flying during weekends and non-business hours.

BUT THIS DOESN'T mean competition will differ from church to church. Your denomination may have regular procedures to follow when a congregation seeks a pastor, or the governing body of your congregation (the deacons or elders, or whatever group has authority) may make this decision.

The important thing is not the mechanics — at least as long as they do not get in the way of choosing a pastor. The important thing should be deciding in advance what type of person they will seek for pastor. All too often, I'm afraid, churches do not devote enough time to this question, or else they set up standards which are either unrealistic or unspiritual.

I would urge any group seeking a pastor to spend time studying the Bible to see what the Bible has to say about pastoral qualifications. First and Second Timothy and Titus would be good places to start. A pastor, for example, should be above reproach in his personal life — including his family life, his handling of his finances, and his relationships with people. This is partly because he is to be a model for other Christians. He also should be a person who knows and loves the Word of God. He should therefore be a diligent student of the Bible. (This means, incidentally, that the congregation should allow him time to study, and not expect him to be going to meetings all the time.) Many other qualifications could be listed. Most of all he should have a love for Christ and a capacity for the spiritual needs of people.

Let me suggest one other thing. As a congregation searches for a pastor, it should also study what responsibilities God has given to the congregation as well. All too often congregations hire a pastor expecting him to do all the work. But the congregation should be just as busy, seeking to work for Christ under the pastor's leadership.

There's an old saying — if your feet hurt, you hurt all over. Dr. Donohue's booklet, "Relief and Care of Your Feet," shows you how to avoid and take care of foot problems. To get your copy, write to Dr. Donohue in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

business. And that means keeping rates as competitive as the economic situation will allow.

On busy routes especially, the careful shopper can still find some real buys.

A NEW YORK AFFILIATE of Texas International Agency now offers New York-Washington service for as little as $29, depending on the time of day and day of the week. This not only beats the price of competing air carriers, but is even $3 less than Amtrak train service for the same trip.

Air lines have not found a way to beat inflation. But forced competition without the protection of Government-fixed rates is still a big help to the penny-pinching traveler.

My answer

Billv Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How do you think a church should go about choosing a pastor? I know he should be a godly man, but what procedure should our church set up? — S.C.

DEAR S. C.: I am sure that will differ from church to church. Your denomination may have regular procedures to follow when a congregation seeks a pastor, or the governing body of your congregation (the deacons or elders, or whatever group has authority) may make this decision.

The important thing is not the mechanics — at least as long as they do not get in the way of choosing a pastor. Scholarship goes to Chicago senior PRINCETON, N.J. — Dawn Biggs, a junior at Immaculate High School in Chicago, is the 1980 recipient of a $2,000 college scholarship from the Newspaper Fund as this year's winner of the Fund's Urban Writing Competition.

Dawn, who hopes to attend Northwestern University in 1982, wrote the winning story in the competition among students who participated in the 1980 Urban Journalism Workshops co-sponsored by the Fund and local newspapers.

She attended the workshop at the Youth Communication Center in Chicago. For the 1980-81 school year, Dawn is Editorial Director of New Expressions, a city-wide newspaper published by high school students at the Youth Communication Center.

Urban workshops are intended to encourage minority high school students to improve their skills and consider careers in newspaper work.

Dawn's story was a well-researched feature on punk rock, highlighting Alice Cooper night at Chicagofest and the damage done to the ear by the punk rock concert sound. The story was written for the Urban workshop's laboratory newspaper, and was selected from 13 entries from 18 urban workshops operated nationally by the Newspaper Fund.

The scholarship reserved for Dawn will apply to tuition, room and board for her college study, and has a maximum value of $2,000 each year and is renewable for four years.

On Jan. 12-13 semester tests will be given. On these two days there will be open campus. Classes will begin at 9:00 a.m. and will dismiss at 2:30 p.m. On Jan. 12 classes 1, 3, and 5 will be held. On Jan. 13 classes 2, 4, 6 and 7 will be held.

Results of the 1980 conferences indicate that the dtiros who participated returned to their newspapers with ideas of how to approach the hiring and general encouragement of minorities at their newspapers.

In addition to the grant to ASNE, the Newspaper Fund approved grants totaling $57,000 to operate 22 summer workshops for minority high school students in 1981. These programs will attract approximately 350 students, and are operated as a way of building the supply of talented minorities preparing for news careers.

The 22 Urban Workshops, the largest number sponsored since the program were begun in 1968, will be co-sponsored by grants from newspapers in the areas the workshops serve.

Also, one student from each Urban Workshop will be selected as the program's best writer, and will compete in a national Urban Writing Competition for a Newspaper Fund scholarship.

In addition to these new and expanded Newspaper Fund programs, the foundation will continue its program for high school journalism teachers, college student internships, career information and Editor-in-Residence programs during 1981.

Up to 50 inexperienced high school journalism teachers will be selected next spring to attend summer courses and workshops designed especially for high school teachers. They will receive grants up to $350 each. The Teacher Fellowship Program has provided grants to more than 7,000 teachers during the past 22 years.

Goliad Allen wins contest

By JANICE ALLEN

Each nine weeks every homeroom teacher will select one student to be honored as a Golden Maverick. A Golden Maverick is a student that the teacher thinks is dependable, courteous, friendly, cooperative, responsible, and honest. Mr. Freeze said, "It is a great honor to be recognized as a Golden Maverick." Pictures of the Golden Mavericks will be displayed in the outer foyer. The Golden Mavericks will be honored with a party featuring some activity such as swimming, skating or bowling.

$10,000 of newspaper fund goes for jobs

PRINCETON, N.J. — Increasing the supply and demand for minorities at newspapers will receive a record share of the Newspaper Fund's grants in 1981, and the programs those grants finance will be co-sponsored by more newspapers and industry associations and foundations than ever before.

The national effort to increase the demand for minorities at small and medium-sized newspapers will continue in 1981 with the help of a $10,000 Newspaper Fund grant to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, which will sponsor a series of conferences for editors and minority reporters.

These regional conferences will be sequels to four similar ones operated this year at the University of Arizona, Penn State University, Indiana University and the University of Oregon. Funding for those programs came from the Gannett Newspaper Foundation and the Newspaper Fund.

In addition to the $10,000 to be provided by the Fund, an additional $10,000 will be requested from other newspaper foundations and individual newspapers to cover the cost of operating the 1981 conferences. So far, plans have been made for sessions at Florida A&M University, the University of Missouri and the University of North Carolina, and ASNE minorities committee chairman Dick Smyser is considering proposals from other journalism schools interested in operating conferences.

She is the wife of Joe Horton, a Cosden employee, and the mother of four sons: Gregg, working for Cosden in Dallas; Walter, with Dennard Creatives in Dallas; Derek, a sophomore at Texas Tech; and Doug, a senior in Big Spring High School. She is a native of Midland and graduated from Midland High School. Patti is a broker and has completed two segments of the GRI certification.

In the spring of 1977, Janelle Britton started part-time in real estate. In only a matter of months she elected to work full-time in the field. Her husband is Ellis Britton, McCann Corp., and their children are Jimmy and Juli, both students at Southwest Texas State U. in San Marcos, Texas. Janelle has lived in Big Spring since 1972, moving here from San Angelo. She is a native of Stanton, Texas, and attended Stanton High School and McMurry College in Abilene, and Howard College in Big Spring. She is a real estate broker.

She was a high school teacher and her husband, Harold Davis (now with GAMCO) was the first full-time coach and athletic director of Howard College. Janell first tried real estate in the spring of 1959, but soon moved to El Paso and did not again work in real estate until 1976. She is the mother of a son, Alan, married to Mary Gooch Davis and working in Abilene as a CPA; and Chris (soon to be the bride of Bob Manis) who is an elementary teacher in Arlington, Texas. Janell is a graduate of Paducah High School and North Texas State University, Denton, Texas. She is a sales associate.

Shorthand shortage

Shorthand is still a marketable skill, according to recent surveys, says Doris Hubregtse, director of mid-management at Howard College.

Too many students have been discouraged from attempting shorthand because of the emphasis on the use of machine dictation, said Hubregtse.

Recent publications have pointed out the critical shortage of secretaries. Surveys show that the majority of employers prefer dictating to a person rather than to a machine. Many executives use a combination of machine and personal dictation for expediting business correspondence.

Even with machine dictation, secretaries are needed to take telephone messages, impromptu dictation and minutes of meetings.

More requests for secretaries who take dictation are made than can be filled, according to Hubregtse.

Persons interested in developing or improving shorthand skills may enroll for beginning shorthand at Howard College for the spring semester.

Red hot Raiders meet San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Oakland Raiders can look back fondly to their game with the San Diego Chargers about three months ago and say to themselves, "That's where it all began to come together."

Will it all come apart on Sunday or will the Raiders, preseason write-offs as just another collection of losers, chalk up yet another upset and reach the Super Bowl once again?

"That probably was the turning point of our season," Tom Flores, Oakland's mild-mannered coach, said of the Raiders' 38-24 victory over the Chargers, a victory which avenged an earlier 30-24 overtime loss to San Diego.

"We had our backs to the wall (Oakland went into the game with a 2-3 record), we had just lost our No. 1 quarterback (Dan Pastorini had sustained a broken leg the previous Sunday against Kansas City) and we were playing one of the hottest teams in the league (San Diego was 4-1). We won, got our confidence back and GETTING READY — Dallas Cowboys' running back Tony Dorsett, right, slips on a pair of gloves as he and teammate Dallas linebacker Mike Hegman walk onto the field in Philadelphia Saturday for a workout. With the high temperatures in the teens today the Cowboys will play the Eagles for the NFC Championship in Philadelphia.

Vermeil says pressure takes fun from prepping

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Vermeil, coach of the Philadelphia Eagles, winced at the question — was he having fun preparing his team for its first championship game in two decades, Sunday's National Football Conference title match against Dallas?

"The last five or six weeks, it's been a little less fun each week," Vermeil said. "Each week has been a little more intense, a little more demanding. I'm not enjoying my players as much as I did earlier."

Tom Landry, coach of the Cowboys, can understand that. He has been in the postseason pressure cooker for a lot longer than Vermeil.

"Every year is two seasons," Landry said. "The first one is 16 games long. Then we go into the playoffs. That's a new season. There's new enthusiasm, new sparkle. Everything is sudden death."

Landry thrives on the pressure of the playoffs but still remembers a time when his team was in a situation similar to the Eagles — challenging for the championship for the first time.

"We played Green Bay," he said. "It was '66 and '67, and the Packers were awesome. We were young and inexperienced, but I don't see Philadelphia that way. They're at the point of maturity, where they should be ready to play for the championship. This is their third year in the playoffs."

Vermeil, however, doesn't seem sure his team's time has come.

"I can't read them," he said Friday night, after bringing the Eagles home following a week of practice in Tampa, Fla. "Last week I could. They're quieter this week than they were last week. They were not as intense in practice."

Vermeil was troubled by that.

"I'm concerned about everything," he said. "I'm concerned about how well-prepared they are. That's my job. I'm never totally satisfied. That's my personality. That's just me."

"I don't know I've never coached a team this late in the season. May! This is the way it is at the 18th game with four preseason."

Vermeil made one roster move Friday, activating wide receiver/punt returner Wally Henry and placing wide receiver Scott Fitzkee on injured reserve. Henry has been sidelined for much of the season after spleen surgery. Fitzkee suffered a broken foot last Saturday.

No. 1 ranked Chaps depth too much for HC in ABC Classic

Midland "Slays" Hawks in finals

By NATHAN POSS

Sports Editor

It's called depth, and then more depth. If somebody gets in foul trouble, there's no problem finding an adequate replacement. If somebody's tired, there's somebody just as good waiting on the bench to take the floor.

That was the name of the game here Friday night in the championship round of the ABC Classic, as the nation's number one ranked junior college outfit, the Midland College Chaparrals, simply were just too much for the Howard College Hawks to overcome. After repeated attempts at overtaking the Midland College crew in the emotional contest, the Hawks fell short by a final margin of 93-84.

The win was the 16th without a defeat for the top ranked Midland College unit, while Howard drops to a still most respectable 12-4 mark.

It was a contest that stayed close throughout, but the Hawks, playing on their home arena in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, could never take the lead.

Midland scored the first five points of the game before the Howard team could counter on a Randy Corker bucket, and the tone was set for the game.

In fact, it was Corker who kept the Hawks in the contest early, scoring his squad's first seven points to knot the game at 7-7 with just under four minutes gone.

But Midland, with a bevy of deadly shooting guards, unleashed the duo of Derrick Wilson and Puntus Wilson in the next few minutes, and the nation's top ranked team cruised on to healthy advancement of six and eight points throughout the remainder of the first half.

Howard pulled within five in the final minute of the half, but Derrick Wilson came on a long range jumper at the buzzer, a 30-41 intermission lead for the Chaps.

But while Midland's Charles Johnson, and the two Wilson's combined for 37 of their team's 50 points in the first half, the second half saviour for the top rated Chaps was guard Virgil Slay.

Slay, a sophomore from Dallas, connected on 10 of 11 shots in the final 20 minutes from the 25 foot area on the left side of the bucket, don't separate one thwarting one Howard College rally after another.

After the Hawks pulled within three at 50-47 in the opening minute of the second half, Slay's long range bombs began slaying the charged up Hawks.

Midland increased their lead to 63-51, but the Corker led Hawks refused to quit, scoring seven unanswered points to narrow the bulge to 63-58. Minutes later, HC's Kenneth Jones got a bucket following an offensive rebound and Midland's lead was a slim 67-66.

Stone admits No. 1 pressure; While Wilder, Hawks encouraged

By NATHAN POSS

Sports Editor

A relieved Midland College Coach Jerry Stone walked into the athletic office on the top floor of Garrett Coliseum 30 minutes after his number one ranked nationally Chaparral basketball team had held off a determined bunch of Howard College Hawks by a count of 93-84 in the championship game of the ABC Classic. He slowly lit a cigarette and let out a deep sigh of both smoke and relief.

"That was a helluva game," the soft spoken Midland College mentor said in stating the obvious. "God, they played a good game. But then, everyone did. I even thought the officials did a pretty good job."

After some further conversation, Stone talked of the compounding pressures of being the number one ranked junior college team in the country, a standing his Chaps have enjoyed for the last five weeks.

"Every time those announcers begin giving the pre-game introductions and say that 'And now introducing the number one ranked team in the country, the undefeated Midland,'" explained Stone. "I look over at the other team and they all grow about a foot. Every team we play since we've become number one have played better than normal, and I can see them all get really excited for us when the announcer starts that line."

And as long as the high flying and depth laden Chaps continue their unbeaten string, they no doubt will hold onto their number one rating, and teams will be gunning with a loaded round of ammunition.

And while Stone praised both his squad and the play of the Hawks in the ABC Classic finals, Howard coach Coach Harold Wilder also could not find much to complain about from the game.

"I'm disappointed that we lost, but can't be unhappy with the way we played," said Wilder, who was much more enthusiastic following the game than Stone. "We attacked their various defenses well, and executed well throughout."

"I'm encouraged," Wilder continued. "We had opportunities to beat them, but couldn't get it done. But the good thing about tonight is that we know we can play with Midland now, and we have two more chances to beat them in conference play."

One thing that kept the Hawks in the game was the charity line, as the Howard College team sank an uncanny 22 of 25 free throw attempts. But there were aspects that hurt just as badly, as Wilder noted.

"We didn't rebound as well as I hoped," he said, obviously referring to the fact that he hoped his taller team might have the edge in that all important department. "They got a lot of buckets on the second shots."

The Hawks are no doubt having a better year than Wilder had predicted before the beginning of the year, and things could get better, even though Howard still sports a perfect WJC mark of 3-0 and a season record of 12-4. But in order to improve on their record, they'll no doubt have to knock off both Midland and Frank Phillips at least once in conference play.

That's a big task, but one that more than Wilder believes is possible. "I know we can beat those guys," said sophomore forward Walter Hall. "We will before it's over, too."

Williams hits 40 as UH routs Horns

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sophomore Rob Williams poured in a career-high 40 points and the pressing defense forced Texas to commit 20 turnovers as the Southwest Conference basketball-leading Houston Cougars raced past the last place Texas Longhorns 91-71 Saturday.

Although the 6-foot-2 Williams dazzled Texas with his shooting and passing — climaxing a fine floor game with a between the legs scoring assist — he repeatedly shouted protest at calls that went against him and once applauded a teammate who intentionally shoved a Longhorn player from behind.

The victory meant Houston has won its first three SWC basketball games for the first time in history. Houston leads the conference with a 3-0 record and is 11-2 for the season.

Texas is 5-7 for the season and its third straight loss in the SWC was the first since published reports disclosed Saturday that Coach Abe Lemons had dismissed chief recruiter Steve Moeller in September. Lemons and Moeller accused each other of recruiting losses that have resulted in recent sub-par performances.

Although Texas' second leading scorer, Henry Johnson, was slowed by a

Red Raiders continue Aggie skid

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Jeff Taylor and Clarence Swanegan led a second-half Texas Tech rally that brought the Red Raiders a 72-70 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Texas A&M here Saturday night.

The Raiders, in running their record to 2-1 in the SWC and 8-4 on the season, handed the Aggies, who were once 12th-ranked, their 5th straight loss. Texas A&M is now 7-5 and winless in three tries in the conference.

The former "wall" virtually collapsed in the last half as the Raiders overcame a 34-26 halftime deficit.

Hogs slaughter TCU

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Scott Hastings scored 19 points and U.S. Reed added 17 Saturday night as Arkansas ripped Texas Christian 85-51 in a Southwest Conference basketball game.

Two other Razorbacks scored in double figures as Darrell Walker scored 14 points and Keith Peterson had 10.

Arkansas scored 17 straight points early in the game to take a 19-2 lead and the Razorbacks gained a 40-18 halftime lead.

Six of Arkansas' points in that early stretch came on slam-dunks after steals. Walker stole the ball from TCU's Darrell Browder for one dunk and Peterson followed that with another steal and dunk.

Arkansas raised its SWC record to 2-0 and its overall record to 11-3. TCU fell to 1-2 in the league and 4-9 overall.

USC stuns UCLA at buzzer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Maurice Williams connected on a 20-foot jump shot from the left corner as time ran out Saturday afternoon, giving Southern California a 68-66 upset victory over seventh-ranked UCLA in a Pacific-10 Conference basketball game at Pauley Pavilion.

The Bruins had tied the game with 11 seconds remaining on a jump shot from the left baseline by Rod Foster. Three seconds later, Southern Cal called a timeout, then worked the ball down the court to Williams for his game-winning shot.

Rice takes easy win

HOUSTON (AP) — Ricky Pierce netted 33 points and Kenny Austin hit 16 to fire the Rice University to an 82-61 victory over Texas Wesleyan College in a non-conference basketball game Saturday night.

Pierce and Austin, the only two Owl players in double figures, led the Rice front line, which accounted for 55 points and 35 rebounds.

The victory gives the Owls a 5-6 season record, while Texas Wesleyan drops to 8-8.

Bum to fight Oiler GM for coaches

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Houston Oilers coach Bum Phillips says if he becomes head coach of the New Orleans Saints, he will try to hire his former Oilers staff despite a demand for compensation from Oiler general manager Ladd Herzog.

Herzog, who replaced Phillips as general manager after Phillips was fired Dec. 31, released the six Oilers assistant coaches Friday to seek employment anywhere in the National Football League except New Orleans.

Phillips, a favorite to get the New Orleans job, later met with Herzog, who agreed to allow Phillips to talk with the Oilers assistants only in exchange for draft choices.

"But I think when the smoke clears and I in fact do have a job, I honestly believe Ladd will let me talk to them without expecting anything in return," Phillips said.

Phillips said, however, he wouldn't give up any draft choices for coaches.

"I've never seen a coach score any touchdowns," he said. "I made it clear to him I wouldn't trade any draft choices for a coach. That's not good football business. I guess I'd have to get some other people."

Phillips said he thought it was unfair for the Oilers to restrict the assistant coaches, who have one year remaining on their present contracts.

"There are two NFL jobs open right now," Phillips said, referring to Jack Pardee's dismissal at Washington. "The Oilers tell them they can't apply for one of them. What kind of a deal is that?"

"It ain't enough to punish me by firing me and embarrassing me all over the country by telling everyone I'm a bad coach. I'm sick and tired of this."

Offensive coach Andy Bourgeois was especially disappointed at not being able to seek a job with the Saints.

"I don't know if Bum has the New Orleans job, but I'd like to work for him again," Bourgeois said. "New Orleans is my home. If this keeps us from being able to work for Bum, I'll feel like I'm being handicapped."

Oilers defensive line coach Wade Phillips, son of the former coach, was released to talk with any NFL team, including the Saints.

"I can't ask for any more than that," Wade Phillips said. "But they treated me like Bum's son, not as a coach. I don't see how it can be one way for me and different for the others. I thought they'd let everybody go gracefully. I'm happy for myself, but unhappy for my friends."

Special teams coach John Paul Young said, "It looks to me like the whole thing could be unconstitutional. I asked Bum if I can go with him if he gets another job. If that's tampering, then I'm guilty. I won't coach here next year. I'll find something, even if it's driving a truck."

Famous Amos sparks East Shriners

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Amos Lawrence ran for two touchdowns and linebacker Ricky Jackson contributed two crucial defensive plays as the East rolled to a 21-3 victory over the West Saturday in the 56th annual East-West Shrine game.

A crowd of 76,000 watched the East defense shut down West quarterback Neil Lomax and Tom Flick. The only West score came on a 52-yard field goal by Brian Sullivan of Santa Clara.

Lawrence, who gained over 1,000 yards for North Carolina this season, opened the scoring with a 1-yard plunge in the first quarter. The touchdown came after Jackson, of Pittsburgh, recovered a fumble on the West 30-yard line.

Kentucky escapes

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fred Cowan's only basket of the game, an 18-footer with six seconds remaining, gave fourth-ranked Kentucky a 48-47 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Tennessee on Saturday.

The Wildcats, who thwarted the 13th-ranked Volunteers' slowdown tactics, sealed the victory when Derrick Hodde deflected a pass on Tennessee's last inbounds play.

The victory boosted Kentucky's record to 10-1 overall and 3-0 in the SEC. Tennessee's fell to 10-2 and 2-

Midland remains perfect

After both teams traded a pair of buckets and the score stood with at 71-70 for Midland, the poised Chaps began pulling away. Two Slay bombs and a Kevin Willingham lay-up boosted the Midland lead to 77-70. Then, with just over two minutes remaining, the Chaps freshman from Los Angeles, Leif Hodges, stole passes on two straight HC possessions, converting the first himself into a score, and dishing out a long assist on the second. The two quick buckets gave the Chaps an 87-78 lead with 1:40 to play, and all but sealed the ABC Classic championship and secured their perfect record.

Johnson, Slay and Puntis Wilson all had 20 points to pace the Chaparral scoring attack, while Corker burned the nets with 27 points to claim game honors and pace the Hawks. Hustling Kenneth Jones added 16 for HC.

The Midland College crew led the All-Tournament selections with four players picked, but what this writer felt was the Most Valuable Player in the Classic, Virgil Slay, was completely overlooked.

The Midland players picked for All-Tourney were Puntis Wilson, Derrick Wilson, Johnson and Ernie Tate.

Howard College players named to the elite squad included Corker, Jones and Ron Akins.

Rounding out the All-Tournament squad were Charles North and Caesar Scott of Western Texas and Richard Walker of Sul Ross.

In the third place game, Western Texas blasted Sul Ross JVs 112-49.

Halldorson moves back into lead in Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dan Halldorson, with an eagle and a birdie, made up four strokes on Johnny Miller over the last three holes and moved into a two-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $300,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Halldorson's dramatics over the last three holes finished off a 4-under-par 66 and gave the soft-spoken Canadian a 54-hole total of 198 — 12 shots under par on the 6,762-yard Randolph Park Municipal course.

Miller, who held a two-shot lead going into the last three holes of play, and Dan Pohl were tied for second at 200. Miller, the second round leader poised to make a run at another Tucson Open title for himself, could do no better than match par 70 in the cool, gusty winds and occasional light rain.

Pohl shot a 68. Lon Hinkle was next at 201 after a 67.

It was another two strokes back to a group of four tied at 203: Peter Jacobsen, Bill Rogers, John Mahaffey and Mike Donald. Jacobsen closed up with a 65. Mahaffey shot 68. Rogers and Donald had third-round 69's.

Lee Trevino, the pre-tourney favorite in the event that opens the 1981 PGA Tour schedule, had a 69 and was nine strokes back at 207.

Miller, who broke a long, mysterious slump last season, built his glory years of the mid-'70's around his domination of the desert events. He won this event three consecutive times, starting in 1974, and picked off consecutive titles in Phoenix and the Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Raiders, Chargers meet for Super Bowl berth

No one got his confidence back more than Jim Plunkett, starting for the first time since 1977, when he was with San Francisco. "That win got things turned around. The offense straightened out and the defense started getting better all at the same time," said Plunkett, who has guided Oakland to 11 victories in his 13 starts since replacing Pastorini.

While Oakland went on its mid-season tear, winning six consecutive games in one stretch, the Chargers hit a slump. The loss to Oakland turned out to be the second of four setbacks in a six game span. With 12 of the 16 games played, the teams were deadlocked for the lead in the American Football Conference's Western Division.

They stayed that way through the final four games, each winning three and losing one — and losing on the same Sunday.

Virginia rallies past Tar Heels

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. (AP) — Senior Lee Raker and freshman Othell Wilson led a 19-4 run late in the second half Saturday to rally Virginia's third-ranked Cavaliers from an 11 point deficit to a 63-57 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over North Carolina's 16th ranked Tar Heels.

Raker finished with 18 points and Wilson with eight, all during the come from behind streak.

Connors, McEnroe to battle in Michelob finals

CHICAGO (AP) — Jimmy Connors swept past Vitas Gerulaitis 6-3, 6-3 Saturday to move into the finals of the $125,000 first prize Second place is worth $75,000. Gerulaitis and Tanner pocketed $45,000 each.

McEnroe breezed past Roscoe Tanner 6-3, 6-1 in the day's first semifinal match at the suburban Rosemont Horizon.

Connors, taking advantage of Gerulaitis' less-than-steady backhand, broke his opponent's service twice in the first set.

Big Spring stifles Coahoma

COAHOMA — The Big Spring Steers ended their non-district basketball schedule here Friday night on a positive note, taking a 56-41 triumph over the Coahoma Bulldogs in a heated battle between two area schools.

The Steers led throughout most of the game, but it was in the third quarter that Coach Ed Haller's crew began taking total control of the game. At one point in the final stanza, Big Spring held a 20-point lead.

The visiting Big Spring team pressed in their normal style throughout the contest, thereby neutralizing most of the inside punch of the Coahoma team in the form of 6'5" Philip Ritchey and 6'4" Michael Meyer.

The win allows the Big Spring team to enter their District 5-AAAA slate next Tuesday at home against Abilene High with a record of 9-9. Coahoma, which begins its District 6-AAA next Friday against Seminole, fell to 10-5 with the loss. They will face Colorado City on LEADING SCORERS FOR STEERS — The leading scorers for the Steers in their 56-41 win at Coahoma Friday night were senior guard James Doss (left) and junior forward Bobby Earl Williams (right). Williams also had many key rebounds in the tilt.

Tuesday in their final non-district encounter. The Steers utilized their normally balanced attack in the win, with Bobby Earl Williams and James Doss leading the way with 12 points. Fletcher Johnson added 11, with sophomore Jerald Wrightsli chipping in eight.

The bulk of Coahoma's scoring came from Meyer and Ritchey, who pumped in 15 and 14, respectively. Haller had mixed emotions with his crew's win on Friday night. "We didn't play well at all in the first half," he stated, "but I thought we played well in the second half. I thought we became more effective in the second half because we moved the ball well." "One of the things that really hurts them (Coahoma) is finesse. But that's because they have to depend on a lot of football players coming out in November, whereas most of our players are in basketball year around," the BSHS mentor philosophized.

"But I'm very happy to win," Haller continued. "It was a real good game for us going into district. The people over there were real excited, and we needed to get into a game like that on the road before district starts."

Forsan sweeps trio from Ropes in 5-AA

FORSAN — Forsan High School basketball teams swept all three games Friday night with Ropes in District 5-AA action.

Both the Forsan varsity and JV girls scored easy wins, while the Forsan boys had more of a struggle in a wild game.

The girls JV team opened up the action with a 55-6 drubbing of their foes, with Teresa White placing the Forsan crew with 15 points. Vicki Baggett and Lori Roman added 10 each.

The Forsan Buffalo Queens girls team then erupted in the third stanza en route to a 65-32 triumph over Ropes. The win allowed the Forsan team to remain in the drivers seat in the first half of the 5-AA race with a mark of 3-0. They are 14-3 on the year.

Christi Adams led the Buffalo Queens with 20 points, while Monica Dyess had 14 points. "Monica had one of her better games," Forsan Coach Ron Taylor said of his unsung point guard. "She's played real good basketball the last four or five games."

Debra Chaney had 11 to lead Ropes, now 0-2 in 5-AA action.

The Forsan boys jumped out to a 25-6 lead at the end of the first quarter, but quickly blew that healthy margin. Ropes rallied on two occasions in the game to within two points of the host Buffaloes, but fell short by a 53-47 margin.

The win was the second in three district starts for the Forsan boys, and increases their season mark to 19-6. Ropes is 0-2 in 5-AA play. Rickey Bedwell led a balanced Forsan attack with 12 points, with Andre Alcantar and Preston Daniels adding 11 and 10 points, respectively.

All of the Forsan teams resume 5-AA action next Tuesday, at which time they visit Stanton.

Memories from an old history class offer family suggestion

By JUDY FRANKLIN
CHILDREN'S LIBRARIAN

It finally happened. A night when television has nothing worth watching. There's nothing you want to see at the movies either, and even eating out appeals to no one. In fact, soup, sandwiches, and something to drink is all your family wants. As you sit at the table eating, it occurs to you that you like just being together. How can you keep this feeling going? Well, you could play game 9,000 of Monopoly. No, the family's tired of that. Hmmm. Ah! Popcorn! No, you have that with every movie or game on television. Oh well, so much for family togetherness. Rats!

But wait. Memories from an old history class stir. What was it that people "way back when" did for entertainment? They had house and barn raisings, husking bees, and reading circles. By golly! The family made a trip to the Library just a few days ago. Eagerly you have everyone bring a book to the living room. In spite of arched eyebrows and surprised states, the idea is put forth to share the different books by taking turns reading them aloud. Your third-grader, Todd, thinks it's a neat idea so he can show off in front of the big kids. Ann, the preschooler, like the idea of a lot of stories at one time. The only ones holding back are teenagers Mark and Beth. "Ah, come on, give it a chance. Please?" you ask. Out of pity for the old folks and to avoid hassles with the little kids, Mark and Beth agree. Ann promptly hand you a copy of Dr. Seuss' "The 500 Hats Of Bartholomew Cubbins." Everyone enjoys poor Bartholomew's dilemma. Todd is next, but can't decide between Eleanor Estes' "Rufus M." and "The Adventures of Old Mr. Toad" by Thornton W. Burgess. Finally, he makes his choice and the family is treated to one or two of Old Mr. Toad's many adventures. Beth is an avid fan of the television series "Little House On The Prairie." When she discovered Laura Ingalls Wilder's books at the Library, she became curious about how the books and the series would differ. Since the individual books are too long to read at one setting, the family voted to hear two chapters per reading. Mark's book is a collection of poems and he shares several of his favorites with the family. As Mark finishes reading, Ann sneezes and reminds everyone that it is past bedtime. "My," you think, "how time flies."

If this "tale of true togetherness" makes you heave a wistful sigh, then why sigh? Try! It may surprise your whole family how really enjoyable a family reading circle is. Some members of your family may hesitate, unsure of your "new" idea. A word or two from you to encourage them, may be all that is needed to start a treasured family tradition that will be handed down from generation to generation.

The staff of the Howard County Library invites you to come in and make use of our fine selection of books for your family reading circle. Should you have trouble finding a book, any staff member will be glad to assist you. The Library is open Tuesday thru Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Don't forget our preschool Story Hour on Fridays from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. and our Saturday films shown from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. (and FREE popcorn). This coming Saturday (January 17) Flash Gordon will save us in the 1930's classic "Mars Attacks The World"

Mrs. Gladden will discuss 'Child Concepts' at Moss PTA

Everyone is encouraged to attend.

Freshmen settle into Congress

By STEVE SNIDER
States News Service

WASHINGTON — It's freshman orientation time in Congress, a space of seminars on how to pick a staff, how not to get bogged down in office details and what hours male members can swim without trunks in the House pool.

After drawing lots to get the offices no veteran member wants, the freshmen organize their staffs. There seem to be two general methods of picking a staff. The staff can 1) concentrate on answering mail, calling the Pentagon to help with constituent military transfers and complaining to federal agencies on a variety of issues, or 2) concentrate on legislative work, becoming experts on highway load weights, offshore drilling, corn futures and the like. Despite what veterans say a congressman cannot do both as effectively as one. Something is bound to suffer.

Few freshmen amount to much in a legislative sense. There are those who go for effect, like the Illinois congressman who spent his first day last week introducing three constitutional amendments, but the majority learn their trade in committees, appearing on the floor only with amendments to existing bills or as cosponsors.

Rep. Tom Loeffler, Republican of Hunt, won a major battle to control coal hauling rates for San Antonio utilities on an amendment to the Rail Act of 1980. But the only bill he managed to shepherd through with his name on it as prime sponsor was the measure to change the name of a San Angelo federal building to the "O.C. Fisher Federal Building." The bill was introduced in October 1979 and was signed by President Carter October 1980.

An opinion to pouring bills and amendments into the hopper yourself is to gain mastery of the procedures necessary to control your colleague's bills. The technique is called parliamentary procedure and the primer is "Robert's Rules of Order."

With this technique, the House of Representatives can be ignited into a roaring engine of lawmaking or doused with a succession of banging gavels and muttered curses. In addition to a certain amount of wit, flamboyance and grace under pressure, dominating procedure demands you be on the floor almost always, lest something sneak past into law.

The acknowledged master of the technique was Maryland's Bob Bauman, who was defeated after admitting soliciting sex from a teenage boy. But Bauman will be back this year for a while. He was hired as a consultant to House Minority Whip Trent Lott, R-Miss., as a consultant to GOP freshmen on House procedure.

Also important for freshmen to remember is that they are not the only freshman in Congress. Joining the elected officials here for the coming session are the new lobbyists for a few dozen special interest groups from the Committee for Freedom of Access to Legal Lottery Helicopter Association of America and the Guam Growth Council.

New Yoga classes begin Tuesday at local YMCA

A new 6-week, 12-class Hatha Yoga session is scheduled to start Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Big Spring YMCA.

There will be a demonstration in addition to instructions on some of the basic techniques used in Yoga. If you are interested or have any questions, the first class will offer you an opportunity to experience and become more familiar with the art of Yogic exercises.

The class is open to both men and women. Fees will be $15 for Y members and $25 for non-members. If after attending the first class you decide that you do not want to join, there will be no charge for the class. For more information you can either contact the YMCA or attend the class Tuesday night.

Gin yards overflowing with cotton trailers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Mostly fair weather the past few weeks has allowed farmers to finish harvesting and prepare for spring planting across the state, but many farmers are looking for moisture to erase the disastrous drought of the past year.

Field activity continues at a rapid pace in the Rio Grande Valley where soybeans, citrus, sugarcane and some winter vegetables continue to be harvested. Some winter vegetables are also moving to market in the Winter Garden although recent price declines have slowed the pace, said Pfannstiel.

Elsewhere, farmers are busy preparing cropland for spring planting. Mild, open winter weather has allowed most farmers to get their fields in shape at a fast clip, including applying some fertilizer and herbicides (chemical weed killers).

Reports from district Extension directors showed the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Cotton is almost harvested, with yields well below average. Most sugar beets are also harvested. Irrigated wheat is growing well but drought is hampering dryland wheat. Ranchers are feeding cattle due to poor grazing. Farmers are getting cropland in shape for spring planting.

SOUTH PLAINS: Most of the area's cotton crop is in, with yields ranging from poor to good. Wheat is doing well with adequate moisture. Stocker cattle are grazing wheat and crop stubble and are doing well. Range cattle with limited grazing are being fed.

ROLLING PLAINS:

Farmers are finishing the cotton harvest and preparing for spring planting. Small grains and winter grasses are growing although most of the area needs a good rain. Some wheat is providing grazing for cattle.

NORTH CENTRAL: Rain is needed if wheat and oats are to provide some green grazing. Livestock feeding is extensive due to poor forage. Farmers are getting cropland prepared for spring planting.

NORTHEAST: Where moisture is adequate, wheat, oats and barley are doing well, especially with mild weather. However, some counties need rain for winter livestock grazing and to replenish soil moisture for the coming crop season. Most livestock are in good condition, with hay feeding active.

FAR WEST: Cotton harvesting is progressing, with most gin yards overflowing with cotton trailers. Pecan harvesting is winding down. The crop is small but of good quality. Most livestock are in good shape, with light supplemental feeding.

WEST CENTRAL: Cotton harvesting is 65 to 95 percent complete, with low yields due to drought. Peanut harvesting is about complete, with poor yields but excellent prices. Small grains and range grasses have been growing well due to mild weather and adequate moisture. Most livestock are receiving supplemental feed.

CENTRAL: Recent mild weather has been a boon for small grains and winter grasses but lack of moisture is limiting growth. Most small grains are providing

Tax & financial planning

IMPORTANT TAX DATES

If any of the dates included in this article apply to you, you might take time right now to mark your calendar accordingly.

January 16, 1981, is the final date for filing your fourth quarter estimate of income and self-employment taxes. If, however, you file your Form 1040 and pay the balance due by February 2, you need not meet the January 16 deadline.

Any individual who receives more than $500 of gross income from sources other than wages subject to withholding may be subject to a penalty if he does not file quarterly estimates on Form 1040-ES. Even if this is your first year as a self-employed individual, you are still subject to the estimating requirements. A calendar year taxpayer files four vouchers as follows: April 15, June 15, September 15, and the following January 15. If the last day for performing any filing falls on Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday, the filing is timely if it is performed on the next working day.

Most December year end individuals must file their income tax return and pay the balance due by April 15. If, however, you are a farmer or fisherman who has not made quarterly estimates, you must file your return and pay the balance due by March 2, 1981.

For those taxpayers with employees, there are changes in 1981 in the payroll tax deposit requirements. The old $200 and $2000 limits for deposits have been increased to $500 and $3000 respectively. If an employer has $500 or more, but less than $300 in accumulated liability at the end of any month, the deposit must be made by the 15th of the following month. If your quarterly liability is less than $500 you pay when you file your Form 941. If your liability reaches $3000 during the quarter, you have three days to deposit.

The deadline for supplying your employees with copies of their W-2 Statement of Wages Paid is February 2. The government's copies of the W-2 (attached to Form W-3) are to be filed by March 2.

Since "penalties" for noncompliance are not deductible as "interest," you may want to stay current on all filings.

BIG SPRINGS SCHOOL No. 1 — 1902 — This handsome red brick building which stood on the corner of Fourth and Scurry Streets where the Howard County Library now stands, replaced the temporary "plank" school and provided room for all ten grades. It was named Central Ward in 1916. An ornamental iron fence surrounded it on a partial curbing. Eager boys pulled the bell in the tower to summon their classmates to school.

HIGH SCHOOL, 1928 — Increasing enrollment necessitated expanding the building at 200 East 10th to accommodate secondary school students.

Education marches from fly tent to multi-million dollar facility

The three R's as taught, 1881-1981

(Editor's Note: This article is the second in the school history series, the first having been published Nov. 9, 1980.)

Big Spring Independent School district has come a long way from its inauspicious beginning in a tent, or perhaps more accurately, a fly at the present entrance of Comanche Trail Park.

According to recollection of old timers, S. W. Hilburn and J. J. Meeks draped buffalo hides over poles and engaged a teacher from San Angelo, (John R. Hutto, "Howard County in the Making, Page 55) as the first informal school in Big Springs. This was prior to the arrival of the railroad when a small tent settlement around the spring housed some of the people who had come from San Angelo to gather buffalo bones in anticipation of the railroad's coming. (Joe Pickle, "Gettin' Started" page 195.)

The small tent settlement moved in May 1881, two miles north to where the railroad came down Sulphur Draw, but school may have continued under a tent. Another possible location for the school was the designation of the Big Spring-Concho road on May, 1883, routed it by the "head of a hollow near where the old school tent stood," which could put it around Seventh and Scurry or Gregg Streets rather than near the spring. (Ibid.)

Warrants for building a two-story structure for a schoolhouse were issued Nov. 13, 1883, the first anniversary of Howard County's formation, in the amount of $500.

This "plank" schoolhouse which remained unpainted for a time due to the urgency of its need, was located where the present Howard County Library is on Fourth and Scurry. Provision was made to use the top floor as a courtroom for the first six months. It was later used as a meeting place for the Masons.

County Judge George Hogg organized the school committee, and tradition has it that I. D. Eddins, LaFayette Stewart and C. C. Hines were the first trustees though no written record is available to confirm this. (Joe Pickle, "Gettin' Started, page 196.)

Howard County Common School district No. 1 was created July 14, 1884 and later combined with Martin County for administrative purposes. H. M. Morgan was reported to be the first teacher followed by Addie Hyde, A. M. Steele, T. C. Bentley, L. S. Trapp, J. C. Matthews and T. A. Bledsoe, plus a Mr. McCann and Mr. Chatham. However, S. W. Cole may have been the first teacher of record in Howard County since he received $291.50 on Dec. 15, 1883, and another $131.50 on Jan. 1, 1884 plus $2.15 reimbursement for coal and water. H. W. (or M.) Morgan received $150 on Jan. 3, 1884 plus $9.18 reimbursement for water and fuel, then $150 at the end of February and again on April 2. (Joe Pickle's "Gettin' Started".)

District Common schools after this proliferated up to 28 all over the county when the office of county superintendent was abolished by the state legislature in 1967 as stated in the first article of this series, Nov. 9, 1980.

A loose system of grading without any definite organization developed as the Big Spring school grew from one teacher in 1882 to five in 1888.

With the coming of B. Reagan, an alumnus of Baylor University, who came from the superintendency of Coleman schools, Big Springs school took on the appearance of a real school. A catalog setting forth the regulations of the school and the curriculum by grades was printed. The exercises of the first graduating class of HCCSD No. 1 took place. Members of the class were Inez Highsaw (Mrs. William D. Peteet), Ruth Rix (Mrs. Carl Svenson) and Willie Kennon, and sister of Mrs. Tom Gooch of El Paso.

Big Spring Independent School District was incorporated Dec. 16, 1901 under the leadership of Reagan. Members of the school board at that time were Joseph Potton, president; S. H. Morrison, secretary and A. T. Snoddy, treasurer; J. C. Smith, assessor collector, Lt. T. Deats and W. H. Homan. An election was called and a bond issue of $16,000 was voted for a new school building. In December of the same year another $5,000 issue was voted without a dissenting vote. The old plank school building was moved onto the courthouse square to be used while the proposed building was under construction.

The high school, later known as Central Ward, was a handsome two-story red brick building housing all ten grades, surrounded by an ornamental fence and topped by a stately bell tower. It contained eight classrooms and a superintendent's office. Further bond issues were necessary to complete the edifice. Construction began in October or November 1902. Soon a frame annex had to be provided for the steadily increasing enrollment.

Trustees considered the offer of W. R. Cole and W. R. Strayhorn, developers, to give (with a reversion clause) the south half of block 10, Cole & Strayhorn Addition, to the schools for a temporary two-room unit, provided it be moved off the tract within four years. The board later accepted the offer and voted to have water piped to this site, which was about 1928 to become the location of South Ward School now at 14th and Austin Streets. This structure is now being used for storage by BSISD. The board acquired the two lots north of this location on which sits a building from the former Bombardier School which first was used as Airport School. It was moved about 1952 and is also being used for storage.

Howard County early provided a school for black pupils, paying teachers Margaret Thomas and H. H. Martin $30 and $50 a month respectively for two months each to teach "the colored school" in 1886. E. J. Pender (or Pinder) was paid $150 for the 1887-88 term, and $50 each of two months in 1888. A house was rented for school purposes, and a small allowance was made for water.

Water had to be hauled for drinking purposes to both schools and was served from two barrels, at each one for the boys and the other for the girls with a common dipper for a time hung on the edge of each. Later each child was required to bring his own drinking cup. Still later, a drinking fountain was added at Central Ward by the 1905 Hyperion Study Club.

Reagan retired from the teaching profession and entered the drug business. He was succeeded by S. E. Thompson, A.M. (M.A.), formerly president of Baylor University.

Dr. Charles Deats spoke of Thompson as an immaculately dressed gentleman who wore a mustache and goatee and was always addressed as "professor." He bore himself with the grace of a Southern aristocrat, was strong on discipline, but was well liked by the boys.

Clyde E. Thomas came into the system as principal of the high school and teacher of science and mathematics.

The Big Spring school at that time was affiliated with the University of Texas and later with other higher institutions of learning.

Thomas was instrumental in providing at the high school level an interest in athletics. Interscholastic games were instituted and basketball became popular. Football was becoming popular and the team was the pride of the town.

A. D. Ellis followed Thompson and an additional $16,000 bond issue was voted under his administration for North and South Ward school buildings to be erected. The ward schools were designed to handle the elementary school enrollment. In 1907 there were 120 high school students with four teachers. The North Ward school is the present Bauer Elementary at 108 N.W. 9.

The curriculum was made up of eleven subjects with each student required to study English, History and Latin for four years. The first high school newspaper and first high school annual were published in 1907.

The first official graduating class recorded after the birth of BSISD was May 9, 1904, when May Cherry, Lillie Potton, Jenny Bell, Ethel Atwood, Jed A. Rix and A. C. Hayden were certified as graduates.

Students came from Borden, Glasscock and Martin Counties as well as Howard County at first. Some of them boarded in town, while others in reasonable proximity (which could be several miles) walked or rode horses, donkeys or possibly a buggy or wagon. They bucked blinding, stinging sandstorms, numbing blizzards and blue northers.

During the administration of M. H. Brasher, the school system was affiliated with the department of education, and the first unit of a new high school on Tenth between Johnson and Runnels Streets was erected at a cost of $40,000, now Runnels Junior High.

Brasher was followed by A. W. Flaniken, who carried through another bond election of $35,000 for a junior high school building.

P. B. Bittle succeeded Flaniken and during the latter part of his administration a $20,000 bond issue was noted for improvements on the South Ward school, and $150,000 was voted to make an annex on the high school building.

The discovery of oil nearby brought money and many new families into Big Spring when the district was taken over by W. C. Blankenship in June, 1928. A bond issue in the amount of $125,000 was voted in 1930 for the erection of modern plants at the North Ward, the South Ward and the West Ward locations.

The federal government purchased the site of the Central Ward school for a postoffice site which led to the wrecking of the old high school building, the material of which was used in the construction of a school for the Mexicans. The plant was named the Kate Morrison school in honor of Mrs. S. H. Morrison who had shown much interest in the advancement of the Mexican people.

The negro population of the city had been so small that not a lot of provision had been made for their education. However, their number increased with the growth of the town and a substantial two-room building was provided for them, named Lakeview.

A building program provided the northside with an expansion of Lakeview school, 1003 N.W. 4, to 10 rooms for black students which housed grades 1-12.

In 1954 a new Junior-Senior High modern building at 1107 N.W. 7 was built with a science and home economics labs, gymnasium and wood-working shop. Six classrooms housed grades 7-12 with about 148 students, leaving the 4th Street school to the elementary grades. Grades 7-8 were considered Junior High and 9-12 high school.

HIGH SCHOOL NO. 2 — 1916 — The West end of what is now Runnels Junior High at 200 E. 10th was the new high school in 1916 and the former school became what is now known as old Central Ward elementary school.

During the school year 1961-62, BSISD absorbed grades 10-12 and the new Lakeview operated as an elementary and junior high school from 1962-65 the campus at 1003 N.W. 4 was abandoned. In 1962, BSISD added 13 more rooms to this plant, including a library to accommodate the elementary grades 1-6.

In 1965, Lakeview's junior high students were absorbed into Runnels Junior High school, including students from Kate Morrison school, grades 1-6 until 1970 when BSISD's first kindergarten program was added.

With the closing of Webb Air Force Base in 1977 all elementary grades were absorbed into Marcy Elementary School. The Lakeview campus then became available to pre-school students, housing the Headstart and All-Day Kindergarten programs.

Dr. E. S. Morgan, principal at Lakeview says that theirs is the most integrated school in Big Spring with all races receiving their start in education on their campus.

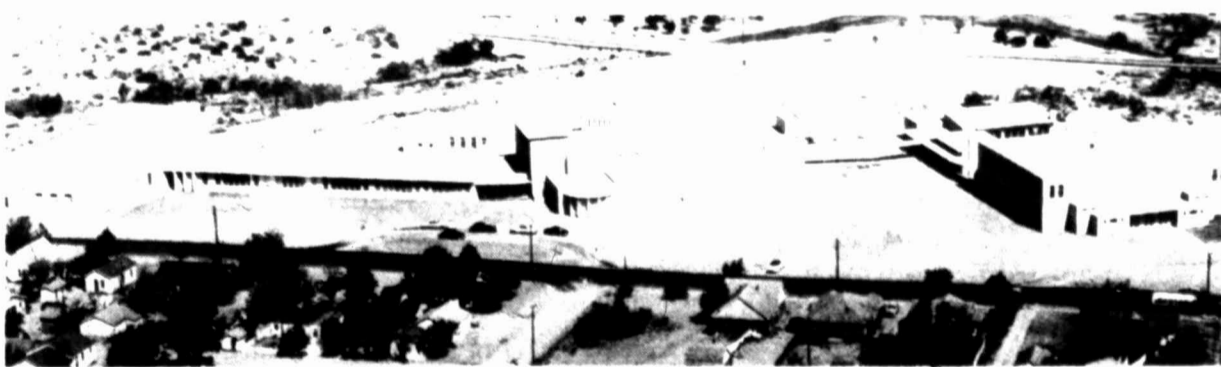

BSISD is now housed in a multi-million dollar plant covering several blocks between Goliad and State streets on 11th Place. Five elementary schools were closed with the loss of WAEB, Parkhill, Airport, Cedarcrest, Boydston, and Kate Morrison Elementaries with the Headstart program moving from Kate Morrison to Lakeview.

Ten schools are now operating with 4,829 students from kindergarten through 12th grades. Included in these is BSISD, grades 9-12, Runnels with 8th grade only, Goliad Middle School, 6th and 7th grades, College Heights, Marcy, Moss, Washington, Kentwood and Bauer elementary schools with grades 1-6 and Lakeview with Headstart and Kindergarten. The exceptions are that Kentwood has a one-half day, system wide kindergarten, and Moss Elementary has some engineered classrooms for handicapped students. BSISD has come a long, long way from the fly tent classroom at the entrance to the city park or at 7th and Scurry, or perhaps at both places. A fly tent school wouldn't be too difficult to move along with the tent homes of that far away day.

Big Help for Little folk

Term poses problem for program

The Big Help for Little Folk program at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center in Big Spring helps handicapped and developmentally delayed children ages birth to three.

Funded by the center and by the Developmental Disabilities Program in Austin, the program has a lot going for it: center staff who provide physical therapy, speech therapy, and audiology; a modern, well-equipped building to operate in; and the active cooperation of concerned parents, doctors, and teachers.

Leslie Lacy, director of the Big Help program, said recently the program faces one problem: the term "developmental disabilities."

"Many people have the idea that 'developmentally disabled' is a polite term for 'mentally retarded.' This is wrong," explained Mrs. Lacy.

"The term simply means that a child is lagging behind in some area of development."

"Scientists studying children's growth and development have discovered what parents have known for generations: that children learn certain things at certain ages. At one age, they start sitting up; at another, they start to talk; at another, they can feed themselves without making too much of a mess," she explained.

"The ages when children learn to do these things are pretty standard, especially when you're talking about physical development," Mrs. Lacy said.

"Allowing a couple of months either way for individual differences, a child in America, a child in Japan, and a child in Africa are all going to be sitting up, crawling, walking, and talking at about the same age," she added.

These achievements are called "developmental milestones," and scientists, through studying the growth of thousands of children, have been able to pinpoint the age at which most children achieve each milestone in development.

Mrs. Lacy emphasized, "You have to remember that each child is different. If a child reaches one of these milestones two or three months earlier or later than the experts say is average, that's perfectly normal."

"The experts differ in their opinions of how late is 'too late' for a child to be developing a certain skill," Mrs. Lacy continued.

"Generally, they say it's time to start being concerned if a child is six to eight months behind the average in learning a new skill. But they do agree that, after a certain point, a child has problems if he hasn't gone ahead in his development."

A child who is definitely behind in learning a new skill, whether it's physical, such as learning to crawl, or speech, such as starting to babble, is "developmentally disabled." That's all the term means — that a child is somewhat behind in some area of development, she explained.

"There are many reasons why a child might be slow in development. If he's slow in talking, he may be having trouble hearing. If he's not sitting up, crawling, walking, or whatever, when he should, there could be any kind of medical or physical problem involved."

"That's why I say that being developmentally disabled and being mentally retarded are not the same thing at all. A child who's developmentally disabled may be mentally retarded, but it could just as likely be something else," Mrs. Lacy said.

"One of the biggest problems is recognizing a developmental disability. Parents who have just one child don't have other children to compare with. Often they don't know when to expect their child to start babbling, crawling, and that sort of thing."

Even if they suspect their child isn't developing as quickly as he should, Mrs. Lacy continued, there are usually well-meaning neighbors and relatives who tell them not to worry and give them examples of other "late bloomers" who turned out all right.

"Most of the time, the child will catch up, just as the friends and relatives predicted. What we're worried about are the children who need extra attention to help them catch up and who are hurt, not helped, by being left to catch up on their own."

"The Big Help for Little Folk program," Mrs. Lacy said, "is designed to help children who are having problems in development, as well as severely handicapped children."

If a child who is developmentally delayed is found and helped as soon as possible, his chances of catching up with the normal skill level for his age are excellent in most cases. The longer the delay in helping him, the longer the delay is likely to be in his development, she added.

The Big Help program offers individual physical and speech therapy to children up to the age of three at no cost to the family. To enter a child in the program, parents must get a doctor's referral first, and then call Leslie Lacy at 267-6387 to set up an appointment for a free evaluation.

Penny pincher cosmetics

A leader training session on making cosmetics will be presented by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Monday in the Extension Office at 2 p.m.

One way to fight inflation is to become a better beauty consumer. You can look like a million dollars on a penny pincher's budget.

Knowing where to put your beauty dollars and how to get the most from the products you buy can make a big difference in your budget. Try these tips:

—Buy large, economy sizes of cold cream, body moisturizer, nail polish remover, shampoos and conditioners, deodorants and anti-perspirants, soaps, toners and astringents. These products either have long shelf lives or you'll use them up long before they lose their potency.

—Purchase only small sizes of products you are trying for the first time. Don't waste money on something you may not like.

—Keep all cosmetics tightly covered to prevent air, dust and bacteria from getting in. Store them away from heat and light.

—Complain when you're not satisfied with a particular product. Send the label to the manufacturer's Customer Service Department with a complaint letter. Most manufacturer's will refund your money.

—Don't buy "travel size" products. As convenient as they may seem, the special packaging and smaller size raise the cost of the product. Instead, transfer small amounts of your favorite products into appropriate sized plastic containers available at variety stores.

—Don't attempt to keep cosmetics forever. Mascara should be discarded after six months. Many blushers and tinted face powders tend to discolor after a year or so. Cream formula eye shadows tend to dry up in 9 to 12 months. Liquid foundations may separate after a year. Don't be tempted into buying bargain priced extra of fragrance. Perfume can lose its original scent or discolor with time.

—Don't let the idea that "expensive is better" lead you into purchasing cosmetics that are over your budget. Expensive cosmetics contain the same or similar ingredients as inexpensive ones.

—Cosmetics cost what they do because of advertising, packaging and the top-priced research and development which goes into producing the trendy colors and sophisticated formulas.

If you like an expensive cosmetic product, stick with it. You'll never be happy with a cheaper version.

PLANS REVEALED — Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cox, Coahoma, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Judith Faye, to Nathan Poss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delnor Poss, 704 Matthews. The couple will speak their wedding vows March 21 at the First Christian Church. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Victor Sedinger, pastor.

Calendar of savings

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Shopping by the calendar can save you hundreds of dollars.

Almost everything you need will probably be on sale at some time during the year. As a general rule, you'll save the most if you buy things out of season or at the end of the season.

Here is a month-by-month guide of what to look for when:

JANUARY — The traditional white-sale month, with big discounts on linens and towels. Storewide clearance sales offer bargains on holiday merchandise, from Christmas cards and ornaments to toys and gift items.

FEBRUARY — Lincoln's and Washington's birthday sales and final markdowns on January leftovers. Check out air conditioners, bicycles, bedding, dishes, curtains, glassware, men's shirts, rugs and carpets. If you're a home gardener, check catalogs and start early indoor seeds to be transplanted later.

MARCH — Pre-season sales on spring clothing and end-of-season sales on winter items. Plan ahead and look for next year's winter coats, sportswear and sports equipment.

APRIL — Use your income-tax refund — if you get one — to shop for building materials, paint, garden items, wallpaper and outdoor furniture.

MAY — Mother's Day and Memorial Day sales. Now is the time to replenish stocks of winter blankets, get children's camp clothing and any vacation luggage you might need.

JUNE — Father's Day sales, plus end-of-semester sales on school supplies, including typewriters. Other potential good buys include cars, tires, men's clothing, hosiery, lingerie and summer sportswear.

JULY — After the Fourth of July, check sales on shoes, bathing suits, air conditioners, hats, appliances, garden supplies, outdoor furniture and sports equipment.

AUGUST — A second round of white sales. Also worth checking: summer clothing, coats, fall fabrics, camping items, furniture, bedding, lamps, back-to-school supplies and pre-season discounts on fall clothing. Look for auto sales toward the end of the month.

SEPTEMBER — Labor Day sales, back-to-school promotions and pre-season specials on winter merchandise. Final sales on summer clothing, garden supplies and outdoor furniture. Watch for good buys on china, glassware, furniture, bedding and silver. If you're a theater or concert-goer, check on season tickets at a discount.

OCTOBER — Sales on the last of the old-model automobiles, along with Columbus Day coat promotions.

NOVEMBER — Veterans Day sales. You'll also find the lowest prices of the year on paint, hardware and other home-improvement supplies, along with relatively good buys on blankets, stoves, water heaters and used cars.

DECEMBER — The major retailing month of the year and the worst time to buy. Sales are few. If you've planned wisely, you should be able to avoid big purchases.

TWEEN 12 and 20

Tell him you're pregnant

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 19 and was engaged to a very sweet guy for two years. We broke up six months ago but we kept going back together about four times but I kept breaking up with him.

Now I want him back because I realize how much I really love him and I've learned my lesson. He says that he still loves me but is tired of our strained off again — on again relationship and he wants time to think about it. My problem is that I can't give him too much time — I'm pregnant, and I haven't told him. — Millie, Mount Vernon, Ind.

This is all well and good but I feel teen-agers are being discriminated against by stores. In most cases store personnel are courteous to adults but take advantage of teens. It makes it all the worse because I've learned that we have tremendous buying power.

During the Christmas shopping rush I tried to return a pair of pants that I purchased. They were too big for me and the store manager embarrassed me by trying to measure my waist against my wishes. He didn't believe me.

This sort of treatment has happened to me before and to many of my friends. If I had been an adult, I would have been treated with courtesy and respect. Do you agree? — Donna, Seattle, Wash.

Donna: Indeed, I do! Much too often retailers forget their manners when dealing with teens. Let's say many of them are "pushy" because they don't fear repercussions. Making a profit will cause some people to forget their ethics.

Dr. Wallace: I'm going with a guy I really like and would never hurt him (to break up with him would hurt him).

My problem is there is another guy at school who has been talking to me and he wants to take me out and I'd like to go out with him. Help. — JoAnn, Fort Smith, Ark.

JoAnn: Your letter is a perfect example of the many teens who go steady when they really are not ready for it.

Tell the guy whom you are going with that you still like him and want to continue seeing him but that you would also like to date other boys.

It's always best to be honest.

For Dr. Wallace's teen booklet, "Happiness or Despair," please send $1 and a 28-cent stamped, large, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Wallace in care of this newspaper.

Trinity Family Church is setting for ceremony

Suzanna L. Williams became the bride of David O. Johnson in a ceremony solemnized Dec. 27 in the Trinity Family Church.

Dr. Phillip McClendon, pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church, officiated the 7:30 p.m. rite.

The bride is the daughter of Catharine McKenney Williams, 906 Birdwell, and O. B. Williams, Boerne. The groom is the son of Belle L. Cooper, Hedgesville, W. Va.

Accompanying vocalist Felecia Ford in performing traditional wedding selections was organist Gail Sutphen.

The bride selected a gown of ivory qiana fashioned in Victorian design for her wedding day Pearl buttons accentuated the bodice delicately outlined with lace ruffles. The lace sleeves extended to wrist length. Falling gracefully from the empire waistline was a floor-length skirt which swept to form a cathedral-length train. A headpiece of ivory silk flowers holding a fingertip-length veil completed her bridal ensemble.

She carried a cascading bouquet of carnations and sweetheart roses sprinkled with baby's breath.

Mary Williams attended her sister as maid of honor. John Maxey, Midland, served the groom as best man.

Guests were seated by John Williams, brother of the bride, and Josh Twining, nephew of the bride.

Anessa Twining, niece of the bride, was flower girl. The bride's son, Nicholas Johnson, was ring bearer. The home of the bride's mother was the setting for a reception held in honor of the couple following the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with peach cloth overlaid with lace. Crystal and silver appointments were used. A two-tiered cake decorated in peach and rust centered the setting.

The groom's table, draped with peach and rust cloth held a German chocolate cake. A candle arrangement surrounded by flowers enhanced the table.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is attending Howard College as a drafting design major.

The groom, graduated from West Virginia University with a B.S. in petroleum engineering. He is employed by Chevron USA, Inc.

Following the festivities, the couple left for an extended trip to the home of the groom in West Virginia.

Dear Abby

Abby's First 25 Inspire a Look Back

DEAR READERS: Today marks the 25th anniversary of this column, and I am filled with gratitude to you.

My twin, Eppie, who only months before I began writing landed the job of writing the Ann Landers column and gave me the inspiration to strike out on my own.

Mort Phillips, my devoted husband, who has spoiled me for 41 years and has given me more unconditional love, encouragement, confidence and sound advice than I ever dreamed possible.

Stanleigh Arnold, the features editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, who agreed to see this unknown, inexperienced Hillsborough housewife when she impulsively telephoned him to say, "I can write a much better advice column than the one you've been running."

Robert W. Lucas, the then-managing editor of the Denver Post, who offered to be my special consultant. (He's now retired, but he's still my special consultant.)

The late Ted Bernstein of The New York Times, who, out of friendship, served as my supreme court on word usage.

Katie Beal (Abby's Irish Rose), who has been not only my loyal secretary but my cherished friend for 25 years. Close on her heels came Marion Lake Tetley, Thyra Gusfield, then Sylvia Singer — all still part of my team.

I am profoundly indebted to the hundreds of editors who bought the Dear Abby column early and made it successful. And to you, my readers, I am extremely grateful for providing me daily with letters so human, so poignant and so outrageously funny that at times the column practically writes itself.

Please don't ask me when I plan to retire. I have no such plans. I intend to continue writing this column just as long as you and the Good Lord let me.

LOVE, ABBY

P.S. Has my style changed much in 25 years? You be the judge. The following is a reprint, in part, of the very first "Dear Abby" column, as it appeared in the San Francisco Chronicle on January 9, 1956.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to the paper for advice before, but need help desperately and cannot talk to my family or friends about my problem. I am a private secretary to a well-known executive in the bay area. I have been employed by him for five years. You may think this sounds cheap, but we are deeply in love. His wife speaks to him only when she wants money, and he has no respect or affection for her. He has told me repeatedly that I am the woman he loves, but we can't consider marriage because it would ruin him financially and socially. In addition to an excellent salary, he has given me an automobile, a fur coat and he pays my rent. When he takes business trips, I always go along. I am not getting any younger, yet I feel one day he will make me his wife. What do you think?

CONFIDENT

DEAR CONFIDENT: I think your boss is a super salesman. He certainly did a terrific selling job when he convinced an intelligent girl like you to give up a decent, respectable life of her own to be available when he whistles. Of course he won't marry you. Why should he? He is getting the whole show for the price of the amusement tax.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

DATE SET — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Brown, Rt. 1, Box 481, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Melissa Carol, to Robert P. Shaffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Shaffer, 611 Highland. The couple will wed March 20 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Brown. Big Spring, grandparents of the bride-elect. The Rev. R. Gage Lloyd will officiate.

Mrs. Johns n gives program

The 1955 Hyperion Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Walter Wheat. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Matthew Hunter and Mrs. James Cowan.

Mrs. Cowan, president, presided the business meeting.

Mrs. Georgia Johnson, bridal consultant of The Accent Shoppe, presented a program on bridal etiquette. She made helpful suggestions on how to plan and organize a beautiful wedding.

The next meeting will be Feb. 3 in the home of Mrs. James Cape. Refreshments were served to 18 members and LaVoy Moore, guest of Mrs. W. A. Moore.

Chris Davis, Manis wed

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McNeil Manis are on a trip to Ruidoso, N.M., following their Saturday evening wedding ceremony.

The rite was solemnized in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor, officiating.

The couple spoke their vows before a background of massive swirl candelabums flanking tree-form arrangements of red and white gladiolus and pink carnations enhanced the setting.

The bride, the former Chris Elaine Davis, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Davis, Big Spring. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Manis, Mineral Wells.

Wedding selections were performed by Jack Hendrix, Odessa, organist; Mrs. Bobby Bradshaw, Midland, pianist; and Bobby Bradshaw, Midland, vocalist.

The bride was escorted down the candle-lit aisle attired in an Eve of Milady gown of organza sheer, featuring a Queen Anne neckline outlined in re-embroidered lace touched with pearls. Coordinating lace decorated the long bouffant sleeves and empire bodice.

Pleats formed the semi-flow skirt with lace marking the hemline and chapel-length train.

A chapel-length veil edged in matching lace and embellished with lace motifs completed her bridal ensemble.

She carried a sweeping cascade of red and pink carnations and white sweet-heart roses sprinkled with baby's breath.

Mrs. Alan Davis, Abilene, attended her sister-in-law as matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Susie Smolko, Houston; Mrs. Doug Robison, Lubbock; Mrs. Randy Lee, Sherman; and Cynthia Fierro, Atlanta, Ga.

Each wore a floor-length qiana gown in carnation red fashioned to form a deep drape from the back of the neck.

Tom Manis, Houston, served his brother as best man. Charles Manis, brother of the groom, Bedford; David Miller, brother-in-law of the groom, Abilene; Alan Davis, brother of the bride, Abilene; and Mark Harrington, Mineral Wells, were groomsmen.

Guests were seated by Charles Holson, Moran; and Steve Patton, Lubbock.

The groom's niece, Shelby Miller of Arlington, was flower girl. Marc Clark, Arlington and Jennifer Manis, Bedford, nephew and niece of the groom, respectively, served as ring bearers.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds were feted with a reception at the Big Spring Country Club Club. Guests were registered by Suzanne Smith and Mrs. Randy Gee.

Family ceremony is solemnized Saturday

The chapel of First Presbyterian Church was the setting for the Saturday morning wedding ceremony uniting Kathryn C. Mays and Lawrence Dale Harper. Officiating the family rite at 9 a.m. was the Rev. William Henning, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Mays Jr., 602 Highland. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Roland L. Harper, Granbury.

Special music for the ceremony was performed by Harlen Thorton, pianist; and Elizabeth Sparks, San Angelo, vocalist.

The bride was given in marriage wearing a traditional gown of organza embellished with French Alencon lace. The bodice, fashioned with a V-neckline, was designed with bishop sleeves.

Extending gracefully from the empire waistline was a floor-length pleated skirt which swept to chapel length. As a complement to her ensemble, she carried one red and two white long stemmed roses.

Kathy Bull, Golden, Colo., served the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Kirsten Wilkins, and Mrs. Lynn Vaughn, Wichita, Kans., cousin of the groom.

Lynn Vaughn, Fort Worth, attended the groom as best man. Groomsmen were Charles Hahn, Fort Worth, and Craig Harper, brother of the groom, Kansas City, Kans.

Guests were seated by Douglas Mays, brother of the bride.

A champagne breakfast followed the solemnization at the Big Spring Country Club.

The bride plans to attend the University of Texas at Arlington to obtain an accounting degree and CPA.

The groom graduated from Friends University, Wichita, Kans., with a degree in business and is currently an assistant golf pro. He will receive pro status in two years at which time he will go on the tour circuit.

Following a three-day wedding trip to San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Harper will reside in Fort Worth.

Registering Your

Patterns

With that gorgeous diamond sparkling on your finger, you've no doubt turned your attention to the exciting details of planning a wedding. One of the most important steps you'll take will be selecting and registering your patterns of china, crystal and silver. Brides usually do this three to six months before their wedding, although it's proper to register up to a year before. This allows the store of your choice plenty of time to have your selections available and to give you the best possible service. You'll enjoy the patterns you select for many years, so the decision should be given careful thought. Here at Accent Shoppe, we advise our brides to stop in and browse several times before making that all important decision!
